Algae — maybe — streaks Snake below Perrine span

Brown stuff on Snake River puzzles TF, state officials

TWIN FALLS — What's that brown stuff that looks like oil floating on the Snake River?

Puzzled officials today were attempting to identify the mysterious substance that has been appearing on the Snake River for at least a week.

Attention was focused on the problem Monday when Twin Falls sewage treatment plant Supt. Earl Fullmer reported the surface of the river covered by what appeared to be oil.

Fullmer sampled the water and later suggested that the pollutant was algae — microscopic plant growth.

District environmentalist for the Idaho Department of Health, Alex Schaefer, Jerome, alerted Monday by the Boise office of the US Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) said he would send samples from the river to the state's Boise laboratory for evaluation.

Analysis had not been completed today.

Without analysis of the sample, that left officials with only speculation on the identity of the murky brown substance. The substance was clearly visible from the Perrine Bridge Monday, standing out as brown streaks against the pea-green streaks against the pea-green river.

The first known sighting of the substance took place last Tuesday by Schaefer. Schaefer said Monday he thought the streaks appeared to be oil floating on the river.

"He did not investigate at the time, but did point out the oily appearing substance to Ronald Culver, Boise, Idaho representative of the EPA on Wednesday as they drove across the Perrine Bridge together."

Still, neither the EPA nor the Idaho official investigated.

On Thursday, Schaefer said, he was called by the South Central Idaho Health District who relayed a complaint that there was oil on the Snake River.

Schaefer said there was no investigation. "I haven't got a boat to get down there to look at it," he said.

He said he doubted that the substance was oil, but speculated it was algae.

Sewage plant superintendent Fullmer said he doubted the scum was oil or industrial waste because when placed in a container it left no oil film.

He said he had never seen the scum in the river before.

Fullmer, who was out of town last week, said he saw it for the first time on Monday. He said it was no longer visible at the plant today.

Leonard Titmus, Shoshone Falls power plant superintendent, said the condition develops each year when the river's flow is cut for irrigation.

But he said, "There seems to be more of it this year than usual."

He said the algae or moss grows about a foot below the surface and can be seen in most areas of the river. He said low water, hot weather and sunshine causes it to die and break away in large chunks.

The growth then mixes with the water, turning the unusual color, he said.

He said motorboats often stir up the water, increasing the effect.

Titmus said his observations of the growth span 18 years at the Shoshone site. He said the occurrence usually takes place during the summer but to a lesser extent.

He said only about 25 second foot of water is now flowing down the Snake River at Shoshone Falls, lower than last year's level.

But R. Harold Seymour, superintendent at Miller Dam, said river-flow this year is not unusually low. The entire streamflow is cut at Miller Dam, but seepage around the dam quickly brings flow back to about 25 second feet, he said.

He said the light flow is sufficient to support aquatic life in numerous pocket and deep holes in the river.

He said the streamflow can be increased at any time to meet irrigation or power demands.

Kissinger, Hanoi envoy meet again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, met in Paris today to continue his secret peace negotiations with North Vietnamese delegates, the White House announced.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler issued a one-paragraph statement announcing the meeting but gave no additional details.

The White House statement said: "Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, assistant to the President for national security affairs, is meeting today in Paris with special adviser Le Duc Tho and Minister Xuan Thul of the North Vietnamese delegation to the peace talks."

"We expect Dr. Kissinger to return to Washington tonight."

It was Kissinger's 13th private session with Tho and the first since July 10. It was the second time the White House had announced a meeting while it was in progress. Other sessions were not disclosed until much later.

Kissinger was expected to report to Nixon after his return from Paris.

The regular sessions of the peace talks will continue as scheduled on Thursday.

Eagleton quits ticket

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern, with the "painful" task of dropping Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton behind him, searched today for a new running mate who can help get his presidential campaign back on the fast track he had hoped would take him to victory over Richard M. Nixon in November.

McGovern, who persuaded Eagleton to step down at a two-hour conference Monday night, said he had not yet decided on a replacement. The Democratic presidential nominee said he would make no recommendation to the Democratic National Committee "within a few days."

"We are going to be very cautious and very careful in making the vice presidential nomination," said McGovern, whose plans for a fast start in the campaign against Nixon were wrecked by the weeklong controversy over Eagleton's health background.

Speculation immediately centered on some of the same men mentioned as vice presidential prospects at last month's Democratic National Convention: Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, Sargent Shriver, a Kennedy in-law, and former task would be to clear up a series of credentials challenges against new members. After that, an emergency meeting will be called by the new national chairman, Jean Westwood, to select a new vice presidential candidate.

McGovern's recommendation — if any was at the Miami Beach convention — is expected to be controlling.

At the White House, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said President Nixon has not contacted Eagleton since the senator was dropped from the ticket and has no comment on the matter.

Ziegler said he raised the development in conversation with the President and "he said we really have nothing to say on that."

McGovern and Eagleton announced at a news conference in the Senate Caucus Room Monday night their "joint decision" that Eagleton step down from the ticket. It came only six days after the 65-year-old Missourian disclosed at an equally dramatic joint news conference in the Black Hills of South Dakota that he had been hospitalized three times for psychiatric reasons.

Sen. Eagleton's candidacy must have set a record for brevity.

Valley Demos praise Eagleton's abilities

Magic Valley Democratic leaders reacted with disappointment today to the news that Sen. Thomas Eagleton had withdrawn from the Democratic ticket.

They said Eagleton's withdrawal was a blow to the party's morale and courage of the junior senator from Missouri. But his abilities as a campaigner after being chosen the party's vice presidential nominee.

Twin Falls County Democratic Chairman Vince Smazal said he was "very disappointed" by Eagleton's withdrawal.

He said of the decision, "I don't know who made it. I think it was forced upon him. I think of Tom Eagleton as a top man."

He also praised Eagleton's courage, saying, "There's probably a lot of people who need psychiatric composition and don't have the nerve to get it."

Smazal also said Sen. Frank Church would be an "asset" as McGovern's running mate, but said, "I certainly hope Senator Church stays where he is. I'd hate to lose him. He's too valuable to the state of Idaho."

Paul Oatby, Twin Falls City councilman, said Senator Eagleton's decision left him with mixed emotions. There were times when I felt he should have stayed and other times for the record he should have withdrawn," he said.

Oatby also said Senator Church would be a fine candidate if he were selected to run as Senator McGovern's vice-presidential running mate.

In Burley Ed Elliott, chairman of the Cassia County Democratic Central Committee, said that "Eagleton certainly did a commendable job" in his campaign until he was forced to resign.

"I think McGovern should have kept him on the ticket," Elliott said. "Any man who handles himself the way he did during this trouble certainly could not have been very unstable. He handled himself beautifully throughout."

Dipping samples

WATER SAMPLES are taken from the Snake River below the Perrine Bridge Monday by Alex Schaefer, Idaho Department of Health, to determine the substance of "slimy" on the water. Schaefer said the samples were sent to the health department laboratory in Boise for analysis.

Manufacturers fail to prove advertising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government report says manufacturers of cars, electric razors and television sets have failed, upon demand, to prove all the claims they make in the advertising.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, chairman of the Senate consumer subcommittee, said Monday in releasing the report that it showed "that a substantial number of ad claims are backed by nothing but air."

The report could become the basis of false advertising charges made against the manufacturers by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

About a year ago, the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection ordered 32 firms to back up with documented proof 282 claims made for their products in advertisements.

The bureau's staff, analyzing the material submitted, said, "serious questions as to the adequacy of data to support the claims they purported to document arose in about 30 percent of the responses."

"Many claims were documented in a most impressive manner," the report said, and about 30 per cent of the documentation was so technical Ford said.

Canada lowers pot penalties

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Canadian government announced Monday it will lower penalties for the possession of marijuana but dropped short of legalizing the drug as was recommended by the Ledin Commission.

The government announcement came some two months after its commission urged no penalties for simple possession or cultivation of cannabis, or marijuana, for personal use.

Health Minister John Munro said the government would increase aid to drug education programs while lowering penalties and placing marijuana-related offenses under the jurisdiction of the Food and Drug Act.

The present maximum penalty for first time marijuana possession under the Narcotics Control Act is $1,000 fine, six months imprisonment or both. Munro said the new penalty had not been decided.

No laid Canadian courts have been advised of the new government policy and are not expected to impose maximum sentences for offenses.

Lawyer says Corona is innocent

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — An attorney in jail today for contempt of court claims that local authorities know the real killer of 25 migrant farmers but want to convict Juan V. Corona so as not to "become a laughing stock in front of the world."

Richard Hawk refused to say who killed the transients, but said the identity of the suspect will be revealed shortly after Corona goes on trial Sept. 5.

Hawk went to jail Monday to start a 48-hour sentence for advising Corona, 38, not to give handwriting samples to the court. He said he will fight to the federal courts if necessary against any new order for a handwriting sample requested by the prosecution seeking to link Corona to a list of the names of the victims written in a green ledger.

Before he went to jail, Hawk held a news conference to charge that authorities knew Corona was innocent of the murders. The bodies of the victims were found along the Feather River near Yuba City.

Both sides have proposed to start the opening session.

Other unsettled questions include the number of newsmen to be allowed to cover the full fledged Cross conference, communications, and facilities for delegates and reporters.

The agreement to open the main Red Cross talks on Aug. 5 was reached at a preliminary Red Cross meeting held on July 19. A week later the two sides decided to hold working-level talks Saturday seeking to help separated families.

With only four days to go before the opening of the main Red Cross talks, the two sides have yet to iron out their differences over a number of questions—including where to hold the opening session. And they have held no meetings since last Thursday.

CIA opposed plot of assassination

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A plot by high level American officials to assassinate North Vietnamese leader Ho Chi Minh was opposed by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and the attempt was never made, according to the author of a history of U.S. intelligence operations.

They were the ones who would have had to carry out the plot," he said. "They opposed it as politically foolish, stupid and insane."

Smith said the man who gave them the idea was a CIA analyst, told the news conference Monday that he heard about the assassination plot from a former CIA officer, but said he had no documentation.

"The plot was conceived by a retired high-level State Department official, but was opposed by the CIA director and was never put into effect," Smith said.

The suggestion was considered at the highest levels of government and was turned down.

Crime cause said key to problem

By United Press International

Idaho Atty. Gen. W. Anthony Park says Idahoans are beginning to realize the best way to support local police is to "deal with the causes of crime as well as the symptoms." During a speech in the dedication ceremony opening Idaho's first neighborhood probation counseling center in Coeur d'Alene Monday, the Democratic U.S. Senate candidate said until the public "comes to grips with socio-economic and family problems that turn juveniles into delinquents," crime will not be solved.

"This is why," he said, "we need informal neighborhood centers where teenagers can talk over their problems with adults."

Campaigning in Priest River, Sandpoint, Kellon and Moscow Monday, Senate candidate Byron Johnson said he favored eliminating paid political advertising.

The Boise Democrat said the high cost of campaigning for public office is "caused largely by the necessity of advertising in newspaper."

radio and television."

"Only those who are wealthy or are able to raise large sums from contributions can play the game."

John and law should provide that equal amounts of space and time be made available to each candidate.

Republican Senate hopeful Robert E. Smylie Monday night decried sections of the Hatch Act which "take away some basic rights of a large section of the population."

The Hatch Act prohibits most federal and state employees from actively campaigning for candidates for elective office.

"What we need," Smylie said in Boise, "is a simpler statute, affording employees the right to campaign for candidates of their choice while providing protection from reprisals."

Democratic Congressional candidate Ed Williams says the national government has not used the "same aggressiveness" in managing federal expenditures as it has in extracting tax dollars from taxpayers.

Congress has continued to tolerate cost overruns of big business," Williams said in Boise, "which seek the taxpayers with billions of dollars of expense on weapons which are obsolete before they are completed."

Another First District Congress candidate, Wayne Kidwell, said Monday politics must be taken out of the hands of professionals.

Speaking in Boise, the Republican candidate said, "We must go back to open forum type discussions and comparisons of candidate issues, comments and records."

Campaigning in southwestern Idaho, Republican Senate aspirant Glen Wegener said the federal government's national debt "cannot continue at its present rate."

He said "Congress must stop passing 'open end programs.' There are far too many bills passed in Congress now that make it impossible to learn their cost."

Democratic Senate hopeful Rose Bowman said Monday in Pocatello the Nixon administration's economic plan is "crushing the wage earner who is the foundation of this economy."

She called for a new approach, saying, "The economic institutions must be re-directed toward the fulfillment of our humanity while producing the necessary goods and services for our people."

First District Congressional candidate, Republican Robert Purcell, says inflation is making paupers of persons on limited incomes.

The Lewiston candidate said in Boise federal government spending is the biggest contributor to inflation and "the war on inflation must start by cutting wasteful spending."

Voter feedback from the campaign of Democratic Senate candidate William F. (Bill) Davis shows Idahoans are most concerned with unemployment, welfare and inflation.

Campaigning in Canyon and Ada counties, Monday, Davis said he would like to channel money from the Vietnam conflict into public works programs.

Kansas vote tight

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — Secretary of State Elwin Shana has predicted that about 470,000 registered voters in Kansas, about half are Republicans, will vote today in the state's primary election—a relatively light turnout.

The Republican race for governor has developed the most interest. It is a four-way contest between former Gov. John Anderson Jr., Lt. Gov. Reynolds Shultz, former Kansas Bureau Director Ray Frisbie and House majority leader Mervin Kay.

Kay, the least known of the four six weeks ago when he filed for the primary, now rises as the top challenger to Anderson. While Anderson was campaigning personally in every county in the state, Kay depended largely on television

Demo panel to consider challenges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic National Committee arranged today to dispose of credential challenger before holding an emergency meeting to name a successor to Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton as vice presidential nominee on the ticket.

A spokesman for the committee said that a credentials committee, named by national chairman Jean Westwood of Utah, would meet a day or two before the emergency session to hear any complaints.

The surprising Maverick.

It's a comfortable, 6-cylinder American compact that's actually priced below the Volkswagen 113.

If you can afford a Volkswagen 113—or almost any little import—you can afford a Maverick. Look:

FORD MAVERICK	2-door	6-cylinder	$2,140*
VW 113 (Super Beetle)	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,159*
TOYOTA COROLLA 1000	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,149*
DATSON 510	2-door	4-cylinder	$2,306*

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for 2-door models. Excludes dealer preparation charges if any, destination charge, title and taxes.

NOTE: People ask us how we can afford to offer a roomy, 6-cylinder compact at about the same price as the little imports. First, we've been making small cars since 1968. Experience helps. Second, we have a recharged Maverick—except for mechanical improvements—since we first introduced it. That kind of continuity helps to control costs.

Third, recent currency revaluations and devaluations have helped restore the competitive stance of American manufacturers that led to the low prices.

This is a decision that should be entirely up to Sen. McGovern," he added. "The presidential candidate should have the complete option to pick whomever he wants."

Eagleton, whose aides went won him no, and McGovern announced he was bowing off the ticket, appeared chipper as he discussed the developments that led to his replacement.

He said he still believed he would have been an asset on the Democratic ticket because public interest would have died down. Eagleton said he still stands ready to campaign for McGovern in Missouri "and any place else he wants me to appear."

"I have no rancor in my heart," the senator commented.

Eagleton said that at one point he considered buying television time to take his case to the American people.

Maverick's front seat, for example, offers 81 more shoulder room than Volkswagen 113.

There's no wasted space inside Maverick. At the same time, none of that small-car crowded feeling.

Maintenance: Even simpler, more convenient than the little imports.

VW, for example, recommends normal service every 10,000 miles or three months. On Maverick, it's 6,000 miles or six months. So Maverick's recommended service interval is twice as long as Volkswagen's.

We also designed Maverick to be a simple machine to care for. In fact, we've even prepared a manual which tells you how to do many maintenance jobs yourself.

One more convenience: there are over 5,600 Ford dealers in the country. VW has about 1,100.

Church withdraws from VP picture

BOISE (UPI) — The resignation of Sen. Thomas Eagleton from the Democratic presidential ticket has Idahoans focusing attention on native Sen. Frank Church, who has added himself out for the job.

In Boise Monday night, Sen. Church said, "He [Eagleton] has done the right thing. He proved by stepping down that he is a man of honor who puts the interests of his party and country above his own personal ambition."

He added Eagleton's withdrawal removed from the campaign an issue "that simply would not have died, but would have tended to distract the public attention from the real issues of the campaign."

Church said he has "always said that I never considered myself as a candidate nor never aspired to that."

He has said he considered the vice presidency a sterile position and thought he could be more effective in a McGovern

Senate post, possibly as Secretary of State.

Cost Of Inflation

The average American family income rose above $10,000 last year for the first time but the gain was wiped out by inflation, the Census Bureau reports.

A surge in meat prices pushed the wholesale price index up one-half of one per cent in June. Senator William Proxmire, D-Wis., Chairman of Congress's Joint Economic Committee, said this translates into a "cruel" annual inflation rate of six per cent and foreshadows further consumer price increases.

However, Ezra Solomon of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers said the administration still expects to reach its year-end goal of reducing the inflation rate to three per cent and the unemployment rate to five per cent. It has been vigorous in its efforts.

In June, President Nixon lifted voluntary restraints on meat imports with an expected increase of 11 per cent. Now the administration has invited 12 major meat exporting nations to send us all the meat they can.

This invitation is expected to boost meat supplies still more with the hope of lower prices for the American consumer. In addition, those countries which respond with increased shipments will have consideration when 1973 import quotas are set.

For The First Time

There are "firsts", and there are "firsts" but the other day it was the "first" to outfit any "firsts".

What we mean is that nine people — all brothers and sisters — got together for the first time ever. Because of the differences in the ages of the oldest "kids" and the youngest, it so happened the nine had never met one time because, for instance, the oldest were gone from home when the youngest arrived. But in Twin Falls on July 1 there was a reunion and all nine were present — in addition to Mrs. Clara Stokesberry, Kimberly, the mother.

The reunion was held at the home of Mrs. Chuck Eggleston, 545 Heyburn West in Twin Falls. She is one of the children.

But before we forget it let's let you in on the names of all the children — all nine of them — who saw everyone at once for the initial time:

In addition to Mrs. Eggleston those present were David Merle

The Cost of Living Council for the first time has reimposed wage-price controls on small lumber companies. The Council exempted small businesses, those with fewer than 60 employees, from controls May 1 on the assumption that controls on larger companies would effectively hold down prices through competition.

But lumber prices have risen 14 per cent in the last year, spurred largely by the boom in home building, and exempted companies were discovered to be raising prices rapidly. In fact, some exempted dealers bought at lower controlled prices from covered dealers and sold at higher uncontrolled prices.

Donald Rumsfeld, Council Director, said "this action should serve notice to all exempt sectors that inflationary price increases will not be permitted."

All lumber companies must be in compliance by July 1.

The well-being of each citizen and of the country as a whole depends upon controlling inflation. Wage and salary increases unrelated to productivity and government expenditures unrelated to government income already have made our nation less competitive in world markets and in the long run must have a disastrous impact.

McGovern Needs Big Labor

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There may be some sort of a split for Sen. George McGovern or the labor front even if many big unions go around George Meany's opposition and help the senator. skilled political operators, their slipping could be in the own propaganda machine, and matter of money, and overall their own money sources. A lot of them will be applying what campaign managing skills.

Obviously, many labor organizations have their own presidential campaign.

But there is something to be foot-canvassers who browed, the kind of central the nation's precincts, to flush political guidance which COPE, the political arm of the AFL-CIO, has commonly given to labor's campaign efforts.

Right now, COPE Director A. Barkan is not about to offer some help, since he shares young activists of the sort who helped him win the nomination. Nor will the Democratic nominee be getting the benefit of COPE's funds, short of that level. The which will still be ample even if many of the federal constituent unions withhold their usual contributions.

Labor's political managers also saw to it that on election day nearly 50,000 volunteers were out doing every conceivable kind of political job. Clearly, labor's operatives can't be dismissed as a bunch of tired, wathorses who can be easily outdistanced by the dedicated young.

One of labor's most massive 1968 activities was the grinding out of pamphlets aimed at portraying third-party nominee George Wallace as an enemy of labor. COPE produced some 85 million of these blats, and, like Theodore White, are staggering in their impact.

COPE's field helpers got 4.8 million voters registered in the critical late months. They worked as no one else seemed able to, to get black voters lined up.

Across the nation, nearly 650 separate telephone banks were established, to help canvass voters. They were manned by more than 24,600 union volunteers in endless rounds of checking. And they were backed up by more than 72,200

Peking Power

WASHINGTON — There are shadowy signs of a struggle between Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai, China's two top men.

Perhaps. If actual and real, the power shift could have strong effects on Peking's relationship with the United States and Russia.

The "struggle" shows up in curious ways — the word order in speeches, the disappearance of certain Mao slogans and the nonappearance of Mao at crucial times.

This is the message from Hong Kong contacts who spend their time analyzing Chinese political statements.

If this seems an unsubstantial base on which to make judgment, it is. But this is the technique on which Western analysts must depend heavily in assessing what is happening to high Russian and Chinese officials.

Even in drastic internal shifts, Peking seldom comes out directly on what is happening. Liu Shao-chi was purged as president and Lin Piao as Mao's first deputy and heir. But there has never been an official announcement seen in the West removing them from these posts.

The constitution, it is thought here, may still provide for Lin to take over when Mao dies, although he most certainly will not. Years ago, Mao himself was demoted until a determined comeback restored him to power. But the West learned of this long afterward and indirectly. Such is the world in which Pekingologists live.

This year, for the first time since 1959, Mao did not appear at the May Day celebrations. Lacking were slogans prominently displayed in Peking on National Day 1971 — "Hold High the Great Red Banner of Mao Tse-tung Thought" and "Unfold the Mass Movement of Learning Study and Application of Mao Tse-tung Thought."

More importantly, as these analysts read it, Chou En-lai has ousted Lin. In talking adroitly and suavily, seemingly given himself precedence over Mao.

It may seem a little thing to Americans — Chou putting himself ahead of Mao in his speeches — but in Communist land-no-man would dare unless he had the power. The technique Chou uses (which tools no ranking Chinese is worth studying). In the Communist Chinese tradition, Chou does not mention his own name. He uses the seemingly innocuous but obvious cover title "Party Center" to denote himself.

"Party Center" technically refers to the Standing Committee of the Central Political Bureau of the Communist Party in China. This committee actually has five members. But two have been purged and one has disappeared. This leaves only Mao and Chou.

When Mao and the Party Center are mentioned together as separate entities, therefore, it is quite clear to Communists and analysts the "Party Center" actually means Chou.

Until March this year, it was always "Chairman Mao and the Party Center" of "the Party Center headed by Chairman Mao," giving Mao precedence.

But beginning with a speech on March 29 this year by Chou the order was changed.

"Party Center" was put ahead of Mao.

This did happen once before in China. In 1966 at 12 noon on Aug. 11, People's Daily came out with a report on a public appearance of Mao: "Crowds of young people, singing and dancing, expressed their best love for the Party Center and Chairman Mao," giving the "Party Center" precedence.

When Mao and the Party Center are mentioned together as separate entities, therefore, it is quite clear to Communists and analysts the "Party Center" actually means Chou.

The next day, the same story was again reported in People's Daily, word for word except a phrase changed to "Chairman Mao and the Party Center."

No such retraction has been very likely to contract the made of Chou's recent speech.

Such are the slender signs of a power struggle, meaningless everywhere perhaps except in a closed totalitarian state — and perhaps misread.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am writing about tuberculosis. They tell me it isn't contagious. I have always been told that it was. And it is also hereditary. When people have TB, they should not be with others at home to spread the germs. Am I right?

Don't people have hemorrhage from the mouth when they have it real bad? — Mrs. B. J.

Who's, "they"? Certainly TB is contagious. It is passed from person to person, carried by Close contact with a person who has active TB is the way the disease spreads primarily from the germs being scattered by coughs, sneezes, kissing, or other contact. The big problem in controlling TB is that a person may have it for quite some time before knowing it, and in that time can spread the disease to others.

If only TB showed up quickly, like scarlet fever, measles, flu, or whatever, we would have much more success in stamping out the disease.

When a case is discovered, then the patient should not stay at home and risk giving the disease to those around him. With modern drugs, hospitalization is much shorter than it used to be, and when the disease is brought under control

Debate set on spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern takes to nomination last month. It the Senate floor today his plan focused attention upon his disagreement with Nixon over what direction defense spending should take.

McGovern was joined by other Pentagon critics in offering amendments to the procurement bill. Among them: A plan by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., to halt selective service inductions by the end of this year. Hatfield argues the Pentagon has thwarted efforts by the Congress and the White House to move toward all-volunteer armed forces.

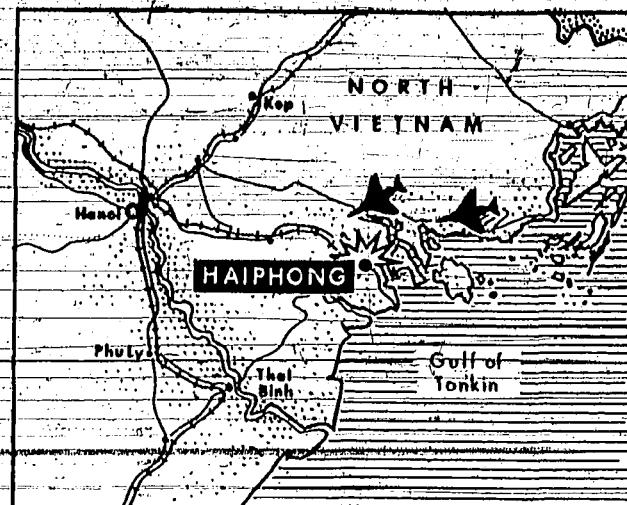

An amendment by Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., to force an end to American bombing of North Vietnam.

A proposal by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to prohibit the Pentagon from spending any money or signing any contracts for "any experiments that use human beings as guinea pigs."

McGovern's maneuver offered the first test of his political strength in the Senate.

The Democratic presidential candidate, who has made arms spending a chief campaign issue, has said he wants to trim military spending for the current fiscal year to help Nixon meet his goal of holding federal spending to $250 billion. McGovern said the $4 billion could go to social programs.

McGovern's maneuver offered the first test of his political strength in the Senate.

New campaign pledged in N. Ireland

BELFAST (UPI) — A massive British military presence enforced quiet on former Irish Republican Army (IRA) strongholds throughout Northern Ireland today but an IRA official pledged a new campaign of guerrilla warfare in retaliation.

The largest British military force ever assembled in Northern Ireland—21,000 troops—moved into Belfast, Londonderry and other Ulster towns in armored vehicles, at dawn Monday and tore down IRA barricades erected to keep the army from entering the "no go" areas.

This lined with reports from the Republic which said of Provo retreaters grouping in County Monaghan and the towns of Buncrana and Dungloe.

"MacStiofain's talk of wanting to avoid civilian bloodshed is pure propaganda," a British officer said. "This is classic guerrilla tactic as expounded by Mao Tse-tung—in the face of a superior enemy force, you just retreat."

He said would probably concentrate, now, on hit-and-run terror raids and bombings, cross-border strikes, and attacks in the countryside and rural towns and villages like that horror in Cluthy."

The officer referred to the explosion of three bomb-laden cars Monday in the village, 10 miles east of Londonderry, that killed a 9-year-old girl, a 16-year-old boy, a woman and three men and wounded 39 others.

MacStiofain denied the Provos were responsible for the Cluthy bombing. "The nature of the Republican movement condemns the Cluthy bombing," he said. But British officers dismissed the denial.

"Our struggle will continue in accordance with the principles of guerrilla warfare," he said. An army source said the guerrilla plan would fail.

"Sure, there'll be plenty more sniping and booby-trapping" and terrorism but whatever tactics the IRA try, they'll fail," he said. "And if the Irish authorities cooperate, they'll be wiped out."

British army officers said it

Television Schedules

TUESDAY, AUGUST 1, 1972
At 6:30 p.m., on channels 7B, 9B, and 11, and at 10:30 p.m., on channel 7B, "The Eyes of Charles Sand." Union official takes slap at mine bureau

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI) — A dispute would have occurred because the standards in the law are ineffective," Chase said.

He said the Sunshine Mining Co. was attempting to shift the blame on union safety committee, instead of assuming the responsibility itself.

"Recommendations should have been made by those high paid graduate safety engineers the company professes to employ, not by the miners," McKee said. "Had this been done, the deaths could have been prevented."

Sunshine General Manager Marvin Chase told the committee the company spent $1.8 million in the past two years improving the mine.

Because of the May 2 disaster, it is necessary to re-examine the past and insure that the tragedy does not repeat itself," Chase said.

Donald P. Schlick, deputy director of the bureau's health and safety division, said it hopes to complete by Aug. 1 a final report on the tragedy.

Schlick recommended better training and more and better escapeways to prevent similar disasters in the future.

The big thing is that the miners should be trained in the use of self-rescuers," Schlick told the committee.

The breathing devices work wonderfully well," he said, and have a shelf-life of about five years. The bureau had made grants to extend the use period of the rescuers from one hour at present to 3½ hours.

McClure predicts stronger safety

KELLOGG (UPI) — Idaho

Congressman James McClure has predicted that stronger mine-safety measures would result from Monday's congressional hearing in Kellogg reviewing mining safety practices involved in the Sunshine Mine fire.

McClure spoke during oversight hearings before the house select subcommittee on labor, which reviewed the adequacy of the federal metal and non-metallic-mine-safety act.

McClure was invited to sit as a member of the panel and participate in determining if the statute needs to be strengthened.

McClure said, "our concern is not placing the responsibility of the fire onto any one party. It is in seeing that such a holocaust never again occurs in the history of American mining."

Salmon hikers rescued

SALMON (UPI) — A U.S. Forest Service searcher found two Salmon women Monday in North Basin in the Lemhi Mountain south of here after they had been missing since overnight.

Mrs. Jack Becker and her sister, Mrs. Herb Godfrey, attempted to walk out of North Basin going down Warm Springs Creek which enters the Salmon River 20 miles south of Salmon.

They were last seen as they left a picnic group Sunday and hiked into the basin in search of an old cabin. They traveled three miles into rugged hillside country before they were found.

They came out of the basin Monday following Warm Springs Creek.

Award made

BOISE (UPI) — Ver J. Longteig, 31, a Boise attorney has been awarded the Outstanding Young Man honor of 1972.

The Outstanding Young American Foundation, Chicago, made the award in recognition of Longteig's civic and professional accomplishments. He is currently candidate for the State Senate as a Republican from District 15.

Lice on rise in Gem State

BOISE (UPI) — Dr. John Mather, director of preventive medicine for the Department of Environmental Protection and Health, said Monday the incidence of lice cases among Idaho residents is on the rise.

He said the number of inquiries to the department of health include cases of body, head and crab lice.

Health officials said there are several non-prescription medications, including shampoo and lotions, which can combat lice.

The job-training residential manpower center at Simpsonville, Ky., was named for Whitney M. Young Jr., the late director of the Urban League, who was born at Simpsonville.

BRUNEAU (UPI) — It appears if scientists want to learn more about the geology of the planet Mars, they can do so at the Bruneau Dunes State Park.

Drs. John Allingham and Ronald Greeley, with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) planetary program, tested wind and drift patterns at the state park Monday.

After briefing newsmen, smoke bombs were set off in various locations allowing the drift patterns to be photographed.

The men, working with research assistant

James Murphy, are researching the similarities of the Bruneau dunes formed in the center of a circular basin with those dunes photographed on Mars in the center of impact craters.

The Bruneau dunes site was selected because it is the only accessible site on earth which offers a central uplift or peak comparable to those photographed on Mars.

In addition to benefiting future unmanned Mars exploration, this and similar projects give a better understanding of earth, its geological history and availability of resources, the scientists explained.

If it wasn't for the honor ...

The leaders in most every competitive endeavor experience the same thing.

They got shot at by the whole field.

Jim McClure is getting it now. He has expanded it to a political fact of life. He accepts it. Five of the most read political writers in the state have labeled him leading in the Republican primary. Three independent statewide polls have had him leading (plus a number of informal supermarket polls).

It's like this.

Each trailing Republican candidate must shoot at Jim McClure because any vote he can take away from the leader counts for two when it's added to his own.

The Democratic candidates are shooting at him because if they can help the G.O.P. contenders defeat the strongest Republican in the primary, they figure they can beat the second runner handily come November.

It's as simple as that. We thought you should know.

Jim was saying the other day that it reminded him of what the man said who was tarred and feathered and ridden out of town on a rail — "If it wasn't for the honor of the thing, I'd just as soon be left alone."

Relax, Jim ... but not too much!

Explanation asked

BOISE (UPI) — State Auditor Joe R. Williams said Monday he has asked for an explanation from the legislative auditor's office concerning $10,143 in travel encumbrances and $34,788 in undeposited receipts.

The figures were used in a recent study of the state's general fund conducted by the legislative auditor's office.

In a letter to Millard E. Keeney, director of the division of public accounts, Williams said, "I am anxious to make the necessary corrections in my accounting system if we are at fault."

He said "My accountants seem to be of a somewhat different opinion than your accountants show."

In 1969, Bandelin was appointed guardian for Muriel P. Talbot, who was judged incompetent. Three years later a hearing was held on certain objections filed to the guardian's final accounting.

District Judge James G. Towles concluded Bandelin violated his duties as attorney and guardian and ordered Bonner County to start contempt proceeding against him.

The judge ruling Bandelin did not act properly under the circumstances, is the subject of a case appealed to the supreme court.

The district court went beyond its jurisdiction, Donaldson's opinion said, because the affidavit filed by the county prosecutor did not allege the particular acts which constitute violations of Bandelin's duties.

Palmer said the boy went after the inebriate twice, and the second time he failed to return to his friends.

Divers were to return to the accident site today to recover Houser's body from the water.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A girl friend got hold of an underground newspaper, and in it was an advertisement from three guys who were kind of mid-wanted to correspond with softie girls. [The guys were in prison.]

I wrote to one named Johnny, and he wrote back, saying he was 29, and was in for armed robbery and possession of heroin. Johnny sent his picture and he's real cool! Then he asked me for mine and I sent him one. In his next letter he said they let the guys have any kind of pictures so I should send more.

I am only 13, Abby, and the one picture I sent makes me look much older. [I never told him my age.] My mother saw the letter from him asking for "any kind" of pictures and she took it to mean he wanted pornography, so she said I couldn't write to him any more.

I hate to quit writing to him because he seems so lonely. Should I write to him against my mother's wishes? I really think my letters have been a help to him.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Write him one last letter, telling him your age and goodbye. I think your mother is right. You're not old enough to cope with that kind of "gen" pal.

DEAR ABBY: So many older parents write to you complaining about how mistreated and neglected they are by their children for whom they sacrificed so much.

I know it is sad because we have had that experience, but we refuse to let it get us down. In the first place, parents should not try to live thru their children. They should find other interests.

Get a part-time job, do volunteer work, develop some hobbies. Take art lessons or learn a craft. There are so many things to learn and do. Then to exhibit that grandparent instinct, seek out a younger couple whose parents live elsewhere, and babysit for them occasionally. [I did this, and I've never known such gratitude!]

If you are alighted on the holidays, [we were], make a lovely festive party and invite other folks who are in the same boat. Have a gay, gala affair and ban all talk of how your children have mistreated you.

The idea is to keep too busy to feel sorry for yourself.

BUSY AND HAPPY

DEAR BUSY: Good for you! Thanks for a sensible and inspiring letter.

DEAR ABBY: I am a German woman living in Pittsburgh, Pa. In your column I saw a letter saying seeing-eye dogs were color blind and couldn't differentiate between green and red lights to help their masters in traffic.

In my home town in Germany, [I suppose because of the war] we had many blind people, so when the green light went on for pedestrians, it was accompanied by a "beeping" so the blind would know the light was green. Maybe the cities over here could do the same.

MRS. H. W. F.

DEAR MRS. F.: It makes a lot of sense to me.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MUSICIAN'S WIFE: Don't judge all women by the ones who chase your husband. Musicians are constantly being pursued by women, but those who don't want to be bothered know how to ignore the overtures when they get the pitch.

We aren't going to assess the blame for the slightly unsound slam contract reached by North and South. Why should we? South muffed it!

South won the third lead and promptly led his eight of spades. This must fool

West in the slightest. He had been around for a long time and knew that this immediate spade lead, al- i o s t surely indicated a singleton.

Otherwise, South would not have played it right away.

So West went right up with his ace of spades. He got his spade trick all right but he also gave South the slam.

WEATHER EYE ON WAISTLINE

By Mary Sue Miller

The waistline is the weather vane of the figure, indicating calm or turbulent conditions. At the moment, there seem to be signs of trouble ahead. Before zippers will close, waistlines must be squeezed in; notches in belts are being loosened. And just that much flurry of weight around the waistpounds a待ing to come — on the hips.

If you are wriggling into the waistlines of your clothes, it's time to get with a few reducing routines. No objections, please. Beautiful waists out are neither too hot nor hard. See for yourself.

Sit on the floor and cross your legs tailor fashion. By bending in your waist and reaching to the right, with your arms, place the fingertips of both hands on the floor as far out from your right hip as possible. Now swing your arms upward in a wide arc until your fingertips touch the floor on the left side. Continue without stopping for 30 counts. Work for increased reach and a greater pull in the waist muscles. Try for more speed, rhythm and grace, too.

Stand with your back pressed to a wall. Pull in your abdomen, pull up your waist — hold for 10 slow counts. Relax and repeat 1 minute, night and morning.

Begin now in mid-summer to keep your weather eye peeled for weighty spots. Trim them as you go. Fall fashion time is a bit too late.

MIDRIFF SLIMMERS

Nixon sets vote drive from coast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is expected to launch his re-election campaign in Southern California Labor Day weekend. Informed sources said he would be making about four stops on weekends when his campaign moves into high gear toward the end of September.

Nixon has said he will disclose his plans and make his prediction on the outcome of the Nov. 7 election at what he called "a political press conference" at the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif. Nixon will fly there for a few days rest after the Republican National Convention, Aug. 21-23 in Miami Beach.

From California Nixon will fly to Hawaii Aug. 31-Sept. 1 where he will be able to combine politics with a two-day summit meeting with new Japanese premier Kakuei Tanaka.

There was some talk Nixon hopes to hit 40 states during his campaign. The early stop in Hawaii would make this more likely.

Sources also said Nixon will stress his role as "President" during the campaign with the "demands" of his office keeping him about the daily fray.

While the President undoubtedly is assessing his campaign strategy with his political brain trusters John N. Mitchell, former attorney general, and Clark MacGregor, director of his re-election committee, firm decisions still must be made.

Tourism benefits for Nevada seen

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — An official of the U.S. Travel Service said Monday Nevada is considered one of the states most likely to benefit from the potential of international tourism."

Robert D. Faiss, assistant to the executive officer of the travel service told an import-export conference, there are an estimated 82 million persons in foreign lands who have the financial ability to visit this country.

He said the bicentennial celebration and the winter Olympics in 1976 could draw up to 25 million foreign visitors.

More GIs leave

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. command said Monday 500 servicemen were withdrawn from South Vietnam last week. The number of Marines and Guardsmen was unchanged.

In addition to the 46,000 Americans in South Vietnam, there are 49,000 in Thailand and an estimated 39,000 on U.S. warships off the North and South Vietnamese coasts. These servicemen are not listed in the regular reports on troop strength, which refer only to Americans within South Vietnam.

The current number of troops reflects a reduction of 407,400 from the peak level of U.S. strength in South Vietnam, 543,000 men, recorded in April 1969.

US provides funds

SEATTLE (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Labor today announced allocation of $171,650 in federal funds for an Operation Mainstream program sponsored by the Idaho Department of Special Services.

Jess C. Ramaker, the Labor Department's northwest regional manpower administrator, said work experience opportunities will be provided for disadvantaged Idahoans. The project will be statewide.

The Idaho Department of Special Services is currently completing a similar project, and the new contract carries a termination date of Jan. 14, 1973. Those enrolled will be paid a starting salary of $1.75 an hour.

River yields bones

SALMON (UPI) — A jet boating party on the Salmon River has discovered a partial skeleton on a sand bar just above the mouth of the Middle Fork.

The bones were discovered this weekend and will be sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for analysis.

Locks stolen

TOWCESTER, England (UPI) — Thieves during the weekend stole locks of George and Martha Washington's hair and other "irreplacable and sentimentally priceless" items from Bulgrave Manor, ancestral home of America's first president, police said.

The haul officially valued at $25,000, included antiques and relics, among them a button off the coat Washington wore when he delivered his first inaugural address.

The 18th Century manor, from which Washington's great-grandfather emigrated in 1757, is visited by 1,000 tourists a day.

The recently purchased fire truck had been used two weeks ago, but its operator was not present at Sunday's fire as men tried to pump water out of an adjacent irrigation canal.

Cassia to build athletic field

BURLEY — Complete control by Joint School District 151 over future use is the condition for approval of a $30,000 softball and football field on school property.

School board members Monday night decided to go ahead with a proposed joint project of the district, city of Burley, and Idaho Parks Department to construct the athletic field if the agreement stipulates the school district may use the land as it sees fit in the future.

The proposed field would be located on the present parking area between the high school football field and the city baseball park. The city of project

Boarding record

TWIN FALLS — Hughes Airwest set a new all-time passenger boarding record at Joslin Field during July.

Don Cooper, northwest marketing manager, Boise, said today the July boardings came to 2,354 at the Twin Falls field compared to the former July high of 2,328 last year.

July of this year, he said, is the third month in a row that new passenger records have been set at the Twin Falls City-County Airport. In May the new record was 1,796. This went to 2,101 in June and continued to the new high July just announced.

Workman dies in Boise

BOISE (UPI) — A veterans administration employee was found dead Monday evening on the floor of a janitorial supply room on the VA grounds in Boise.

Personnel officer for the VA, Sidney Jenson, said Hyrum D. Anderson, 61, Meridian, was found dead about 6:30 p.m.

Federal investigators said a faucet in the room had been turned on and the water had overflowed the sink.

Officials said the cause of death was being investigated. He said a floor fan found lying in the water may have been responsible for the man's death. The victim has been employed as a housekeeping aide.

BURLEY — Declo and Almo elementary schools will open this fall despite failure to meet all recommendations of the Idaho Department of Labor Safety Division.

Supt. Harold Blauer said all 20 of the recommendations cannot be compiled with because of lack of funds and too little time to make repairs.

Blauer read a letter from Eldon Ryals, safety inspector for the Department of Labor, to board members of Joint School District 151 Monday night.

Recommended repairs to be made before school opens this fall included installation of handrails, grounding of all electrical outlets, repair of a deteriorating cement basement wall and hot and cold water vacances.

In the girls' restroom, all at the Declo school,

Some of the repair work recommended is currently said last year some 30 girls being done, Blauer said, but not turned out for track, softball sufficient money has been and other athletics, and an budgeted to make all the assistant coach is needed repairs. The board instructed Blauer to write the Department of Labor and explain what turn out this year before they repairs have been done and would hire an assistant coach when the others can be expected.

Two high school teachers, Tom Werner and Richard Jennings, were released from their contracts for this fall without penalty. Blauer said there are a number of ap-lications on file to fill the wall and both hot and cold water vacances.

The board discussed hiring a woman assistant coach for girls' athletic activities. Blauer recommended is currently said last year some 30 girls being done, Blauer said, but not turned out for track, softball sufficient money has been and other athletics, and an budgeted to make all the assistant coach is needed repairs. The board instructed Blauer to write the Department of Labor and explain what turn out this year before they repairs have been done and would hire an assistant coach when the others can be expected.

Blauer said he thinks a bond election, if planned, should be held before Christmas.

The superintendent handed

Jerome tables rezoning plans

JEROME — The Jerome School Board tabled Monday night a rezoning proposal that wasn't scheduled to appear on the agenda for the meeting.

Two trustees voted in favor of the proposal on the initial motion to accept the measure, two opposed and one abstained.

Chairman Gordon Hollifield then ruled the motion defeated, and the trustees went on to table the move until the Aug. 14 meeting of the board.

Hollifield today cautiously predicted approval of the plan in two weeks. He said the vote

Monday night was an indication of unresoled questions in the mind of at least one of the trustees.

Bill Kersey, Kersey

raised objection in the discussion preceding the vote, claiming proposed zone three was heavily industrial in nature.

The plan, drawn up by Idaho Department of Education official Alpin Jeffries, apportions the districts on equal population.

Voting in favor of the move to rezone at the meeting were Jim Keith and Dale Vining while Hollifield and Kersey were opposed. Leroy Walgle abstained, creating the tie vote, which Hollifield broke as chairman.

Hollifield said at the meeting he had not wanted the proposal brought before the board for a vote at the meeting, but would have preferred an informational report by Supt. John Campbell.

The board also gave approval for a team of professionals from the South Central Child Development Center to conduct a battery of screening tests on students entering the first grade. The program, funded on a matching state-federal combination, is a "first grade skills inventory program" to check for potential learning problems among the children.

Patty Burke, program director at the Child Development Center in Twin Falls, said the program is administered by a team

consisting of an educational specialist, two psychologists, a speech and hearing specialist and two social workers.

This is the first year for the program locally. Mrs. Burke said, with more extensive use planned for future years.

Cassia tests machine

BURLEY — The Cassia National Bank computer was being tested and certified today for counting votes for Cassia County primary election.

In the primary election Aug. 8 Cassia County will be using the voting machine. The votes will be counted on the computer at the bank, according to county commissioners.

The computer was certified today by Pete Cenarrus, secretary of state, and county officials for counting the votes.

The punched cards were processed through the computer with the totals checked against hand counts total. Test problems were presented on the punched cards for checking accurate operations of the computer.

Employees support Ada sheriff

BOISE (UPI) — Employees of Ada County Sheriff Paul Bright rallied to his support at a press conference Monday, taking issue with statements that politics forced the termination of five deputies last week.

Patrol Sgt. Edward Barnes told newsmen he recalls only once during the current campaign that he was asked to perform an political "chore" while using an Ada County patrol car.

Nicklaus feels ready for PGA championship

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus, saying "the finger feels fine and I feel fine," said Monday he was ready to play in the Professional Golfers Association championship, which begins Thursday.

"The only problem is that I haven't been playing enough golf, so I don't imagine I'll be in the greatest shape," Nicklaus said.

Nicklaus, who underwent minor surgery on his infected right index finger last Tuesday night, arrived at Oakland Hills Country Club in mid-afternoon with his sore finger covered only by two bandids.

He shrugged off questions about his condition and went out to play a practice round, insisting he probably would have withdrawn from the tournament if he had any questions about his finger.

"I was thinking that was an awful important finger," Nicklaus joked. "But I went out and hit some balls and I found out I didn't even put that finger on the club."

The "Golden Bear" said he used a relaxed grip and had the finger heavily bandaged when he hit "about 40 or 50 balls" Saturday evening and it didn't hurt at all, so I decided to play Sunday.

I decided to find out if I could play right then, rather than wait until Wednesday and find out I was still hurting," Nicklaus said. "Now, I know I can go out there and play."

Nicklaus was asked what he would have done if his finger had failed the test Sunday.

"If it still hurt, I probably would have decided not to play in the championship," said Nicklaus, the defending champion. "But the finger feels fine, and I feel fine, so it's just a matter of playing some golf."

The condition of Nicklaus, who is bidding to overtake Bobby Jones' record 13 major championships, has been the key question surrounding the PGA since he was forced to withdraw from the national team championship last week.

His insistence that he no longer is ailing obviously puts him right back in the favorite's role to win a third PGA title, a feat accomplished only by Gene Sarazen, Sam Snead and Walter Hagen, who were five years apart.

Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino, two players who never have won the PGA title, also were on the course Monday and Palmer again said he was encouraged by his play in the team tournament last week.

"I played pretty well there for a couple of days," he said. "My driving got a lot better than it had been."

But, conceded Palmer, he was looking for a solution to his putting woes.

Pirates top Phillies 2-0

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Dave Cash and Willie Stargell singled home runs Monday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates opened the game with four straight hits and went on to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies.

For Mount, one of the best high school and college players in Indiana hardwood history, the move to the Louisville-based Colonels will mark his first playing career outside Indiana. He started at Lebanon High School and Purdue University. He was the Pacers' top draft choice in 1970.

He was a three-time All-American at Purdue and appeared to be the outside shooter the Pacers needed, the news release of his sale said.

In college Mount consistently scored in the 30's, but preball was a much more difficult game for one of the most heralded players in Indiana basketball history.

In his two seasons with the Pacers, Mount averaged only 10.8 in 144 games. He also had problems with his defense and operating the Pacers' offense.

In January, 1972, Mount said he felt he was "being phased out" and he did not understand why he was not playing more.

Mount's inability to get along with Pacer Coach Bob Leonard was believed to have been an important factor in his departure.

Nicklaus, a former Drake University star and the son of a Minneapolis brain surgeon, was one of four players during the 1971-72 season who started with the Pacers originally.

A second-round draft pick of the Pacers in 1967, the 6-8 Nicklaus played forward for six seasons before being traded to the Dallas Chap-

ps. In his first year with the Chap-ps, Nicklaus had 11.5 points per game.

He was expected to fill the Chap-ps' need for an experienced center, an asset they lacked last season.

Dick Allen's two inside the park home runs produced five runs and helped Stan Bahnsen to his 13th win of the season Monday as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Minnesota Twins 8-1.

Allen's first inside-the-park homer scored Pat Kelly and Luis Alvarado to give the White Sox a 3-0 first inning lead. After

China oil sale deal completed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some 2,000 tons of U.S. linseed oil has been sold to mainland China in what officials said is the first farm product deal since President Nixon opened the way for renewed trade between the two countries, it was learned today.

The sale, an indirect one involving transhipment of the oil through Rotterdam, Holland, was confirmed by officials of Archer-Daniels-Midland, Decatur, Ill., a large oil, feed and grain processing firm.

Albert Aschvanden, an A.D.M. official, said in a telephone interview the sale had been made by a Dutch A.D.M. subsidiary working through another Dutch firm. Aschvanden said A.D.M. has already shipped the oil, valued at about $300,000, to Rotterdam, as part of a larger tanker cargo.

Tankers normally carry about 30,000 tons of oil. In Rotterdam, the 2,000 tons destined for the Peoples' Republic of China will be set aside and shipped on to China in about two months.

Linseed oil, made from flax seed, is normally used in paints and industrial equipment. Aschvanden termed the volume involved in the round-about trade with China "quite small."

Agriculture Department officials said the sale was the first known movement of U.S. farm products to mainland China since President Nixon began opening the way for renewed Sino-American trade.

Trade between the countries began drying up when Communist leaders took control in China in 1949, and halted in late 1950 after China entered the Korean war. In June 1971, Nixon canceled a long-standing ban on exports to China and his visit to China in February produced new prospects for improved trade relations.

Agriculture Department experts have been dubious about prospects for any really major farm exports to China in the near future.

Nixons, Dr. Allen Ellender Jr. at rites

Louisiana buries Sen. Ellender

HOUMA, La. (UPI) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender, whose rise from backwoods bayous and sugar cane fields to become a dean of the U.S. Senate and third in succession to the White House, was buried Monday in the Louisiana Cajun country where he was born 81 years ago.

President Nixon, one of six presidents served by the 5-foot-4-inch Louisiana Democrat during his 36 years in the Senate, led the mourners.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern were also among the more than 100 government officials attending the funeral at St. Francis de Sales Catholic Church.

Ellender, who died last Thursday night of a heart attack at Bethesda Naval Hospital outside Washington, was buried in the family plot in Magnolia Cemetery.

"Sen. Ellender had a long and uniquely successful political life that shed his blessings upon millions of his fellow men," said Archbishop Philip M. Hannan of New Orleans in the eulogy. "He saw national and international problems through the prism of his family experience. This accounted for his simplicity and candor."

"His convictions were well known and his decisions were consistent with his convictions," the archbishop said.

"There was never any doubt about his loyalty to the country and his integrity in carrying out his duty to the Senate."

Thousands of mourners lined the streets in Houma, Ellender's hometown, 60 miles southwest of New Orleans, whose walls were still hung with political posters showing the smiling face of the late senator and the words, "Re-elect Ellender".

Ellender died just 23 days before the primary election that could have returned him to the Senate for an unprecedented seventh term. He had been campaigning 12 hours a day when he was stricken.

"He quite literally worked himself to death in an effort to return to the Senate," said Jim Guirard, Ellender's campaign manager. Had he won re-election and served out another term, Ellender would have achieved first rank in Senate history.

"If the good Lord spares me, as I know he will," Ellender was fond of saying, "then when I finish my next term, I will have served longer than any man in the history of the U.S. Senate."

New Greek cabinet includes colonels

ATHENS (UPI) — Premier George Papadopoulos Monday installed a new cabinet which includes 12 of the military colleagues who helped bring him to power in an April, 1967, coup.

Political observers said governing power now is shared directly among the men who led the forces which overthrew parliamentary democracy in Greece.

Previously the military coup leaders had only a few representatives in the cabinet, including the premier and deputy premiers Stylianos Atakos and Nicholas Makarozos.

The new cabinet of 41 men, four more than the previous administration, also includes two men who served in pre-1967 parliaments. It is the first time

Papadopoulos has included such politicians in his cabinet.

The surprise move came earlier in the day at an unscheduled cabinet meeting when Papadopoulos demanded and received the resignations of his old cabinet.

That cabinet was formed less than a year ago. On Aug. 26, 1971, Papadopoulos staged his fifth major cabinet shuffle, downgrading Pattakos and Makarozos, respectively the former minister of interior and economic czar.

Political sources said last August the move apparently brought Papadopoulos a step closer to assuming complete personal power in Greece.

The same sources said the previous cabinet stressed the importance of technocrats.

Baseball tourney set

Sadat 'over brink' in game

LONDON (UPI) — Western diplomats began evacuating their reports from the military personnel from Egypt-Middle East and Monday Egyptian President Anwar Sadat went over the brink in his game of brinkmanship — with the Kremlin.

Sadat tried to apply the tactics of his predecessor, the late Abdel Gamal Nasser. But Nasser had Moscow's full confidence and in emergencies managed to obtain new concessions from his Soviet friends.

Sadat, the reports said, never was fully trusted by the Kremlin leaders who would have preferred Ali Sabry to succeed Nasser. Sabry is now in jail with a number of other Egyptian leaders accused of pro-Soviet leanings.

The reports said it appears increasingly strong that Sadat acted out of anger and pique and ousted his Soviet backers before providing for a credible and effective alternative.

Sadat, the reports suggested, may have believed that by using shock tactics against the Kremlin, the Soviets might panic and provide the kind of support with offensive weapons and direct involvement required for a credible attack on Israel.

The Kremlin reportedly decided the turn of events may be in its favor, releasing it from an uncomfortable and dangerous commitment that might end in a war the Soviets do not want.

The speed with which the Soviets began evacuating their reports from the military personnel from Egypt-Middle East and Monday Egyptian President Anwar Sadat went over the brink in his game of brinkmanship — with the Kremlin.

The Russians evidently did not even call for emergency talks before the evacuation was set in motion.

The reports quoted Sadat's confidant, columnist Muhammad Hassanien Hoykal, as saying that Sadat's decision to oust the Soviet advisers came as a complete surprise to him.

FLAMELESS ELECTRIC LIVING FOR A NEATER, CLEANER WORLD

12 reasons why... glen wegner and you will make a great team in the united states senate

1 environment

"Idaho's best resources are her natural resources, they must be protected. I have called for complete protection of our White Clouds. There should be no strip mining. I oppose damming in Hell's Canyon. I have supported the disauthorization of the Austin Dam. The burden of proof for using our water, timber, minerals and other resources should be on those who seek to develop, who seek profit, and who seek to exploit, not on the people of Idaho."

2 agriculture

"Rising costs, tremendous investments and a government that manipulates the have for parity, leave only a small margin for the farmer. A government that can be wiped out by a stretch of bad weather. I am for 100% parity for farmers and will support responsible farm organizations which are trying to bring about reform. I have worked on a wheat ranch and am the only Republican candidate with this background. Working together, we can begin to solve our agricultural problems."

3 education

"The most valuable of all our natural resources are our young children. I believe Idaho deserves her full measure of federal assistance for education. I will support pipe grants, vocational training programs, scholarships and grants for research. We must do whatever can to assist our primary, secondary, and higher educational system. I will also provide special assistance for our young people who are handicapped. Idaho citizens pay substantial taxes and are entitled to a full return on that investment."

4 health

"Nationalizing the health care field would mean a federal bureaucracy handling all medical hospitals to see what doctor to see and how much you must pay. I support the 'partnership' approach, which allows for local control and encourages cooperation between government and private sector. I oppose the creation of a new bureaucracy which will not deliver the health services we need."

5 qualifications

"As a lawyer, a doctor, an educational trustee and because I was born and raised on a farm, I believe I have the background necessary to be an effective United States Senator. I have lived in the West and understand the laws we deal with. My medical training provides me with the necessary background to solve the medical problems we currently face. My agricultural and educational background give me the depth necessary to come to grips with the problems we face in our schools. But the diversity of my background adds to better fulfill my concern for working with people."

6 crime

"Our is a state and a nation built on law. I will support legislation to improve the technology and quality of our law enforcement system. I am opposed to federal gun control laws. I support the application of the law with special sanctions, relief and loopholes. Law, order and justice occur only when concerned citizens take an interest. The criminal element thrives on ineffective legislation."

7 economy

"The economy of our nation is in a state of delicate balance. We have concentrated too much on simple increasing prices and wages. As a result, productivity has suffered. Our roads and bridges are in a state of decay. Durability, however, must be improved, but government interference must not do the job. I will support measures that will expand markets for American goods and commit to trade with the people who contribute to the inflationary spiral so that each citizen may get a fair return for his earnings."

8 taxes

"Three things must happen if we are going to have real tax reform. First, governmental waste must stop. I am against those appropriations which are wasteful and redundant. Second, I will work to provide governmental accountability to insure that all tax dollars are spent for full public benefit. Finally, I will introduce any necessary legislation to reduce the cost of living and real tax dollar savings. I am opposed to the value-added tax and will work to decrease the burden on the property owner."

9 experience

"I have worked in agriculture, as a lumberjack and as a heavy equipment operator. I have practiced medicine in hospitals and in medical clinics and currently serve as consultant to a Canyon County law firm and to a medical clinic in Nampa. I have served as a special agent in the FBI and as a member of the Nixon task force on health, as a member of the Lewis and Clark Trail Commission, as Deputy Assistant Secretary for Legislation, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, as Deputy Counselor with Presidential Advisor Robert H. Finch, in the White House, and as a trustee of the College of Idaho, in Caldwell."

10 frustration

"Most of us are frustrated. We pay taxes, obey the law and participate in our community. Yet, we are individualists, government kills, abuses, and does less for individuals than it does for individuals. The problems and frustrations of the individual can only be solved with responsive government. I believe Idaho needs someone in Washington who will listen. Someone who will remember how it feels to be frustrated."

11 business

"Our business community needs about providing good jobs, good working conditions, and quality products and services. I am opposed to excessive governmental interference in the affairs of business. I am opposed to over-regulation that stifles innovation and growth. I have called for an end to constantly conceived legislation that implied our problems. The source of starting a business is a strong, free-enterprise economy. Government should help, not hinder private industry."

12 a man you can believe in

"I believe the greatest problem we face today is that government is more interested in its own business than it is in the affairs of the people. Simply put—do we, the people of Idaho, want more of the 'same old stuff' or do we want a new way? The new way is built on honest representation and localized responsibility. In presenting you with both the good news and the bad, on having the courage to stand up and be counted when an issue is difficult and unpopular, and on speaking out clearly on the issues, I feel that by working together this new way can work. Working as a team, we can make the difference."

aug. 8th, elect glen wegner republican u.s. senator

Committee to Elect Glen Wegner for United States Senator Robert P. Tomashoff, Chairman
