TWIN FALLS — Nearly 100 Magic Valley citizens will be affected by the state cuts in public assistance grants effective Oct. 1, a regional official said Friday.

Theo Murdock, Region V Director of eligibility for the Idaho Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services, said 95 regional assistance recipients would be affected by the cuts in state grants.

The cuts are to offset a 20 per cent increase in Social Security rates approved by Congress June 30.

Murdock said the number of people involved is only a projected estimate based on the statewide eligibility rolls. Department of social and rehabilitative services Director Dr. John Marks said Thursday in Boise 490 of the state's 30,000 recipients would be affected by the cutbacks.

On that basis, Murdock said, projections for the regions eight counties — Blaine, Camas, Cassia, Gooding, Jerome, Lincoln, Minidoka and Twin Falls, 95 residents will lose eligibility for public assistance grants when the Social Security raise goes into effect.

The total includes 43 old age assistance recipients, 16 aid to permanently and totally disabled recipients and six aid to dependent children families now receiving funds. The total

Wholesale food costs rise again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale food prices took another big jump upward in July while the nation's unemployment rate held steady at 5.5 per cent, the government reported today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said farm product prices increased 1.1 per cent in July, the largest in 12 months, putting the level at 12.9 per cent above a year ago. It was the largest 12-month increase in more than six years.

Wholesale prices for meat, eggs, fruits and vegetables all climbed sharply.

A 15.1 per cent jump in live poultry prices paced the overall 2.1 per cent increase in the price index for farm products and processed foods and feeds. Egg prices went up 11.2 per cent, prices of fresh and dried fruits and vegetables increased 6.7 per cent and livestock went up 4.1 per cent.

Prices of processed meats, poultry and fish increased 3.3 per cent, while dairy product prices went up 2.1 per cent at wholesale.

The sharp jump in food prices pushed the overall wholesale price index up 0.8 per cent in July, the largest advance since a 0.9 per cent increase in February. This left wholesale prices 4.5 per cent above a year ago.

The 2.2 per cent increase in farm product and food prices was the largest of three consecutive sharp monthly increases following two months of decline. This index now has gone up more than 1 per cent in six of the past eight months, and has risen at an annual rate of 13.1 per cent over the past three months.

Industrial commodity prices went up at a slower pace in July, increasing 0.2 per cent compared with advances of 0.3 per cent in the previous two months. Industrial commodity prices, which most economists consider a better measure of inflation than the more volatile farm prices, now stand at 3.1 per cent above a year earlier.

In non-food commodities, price increases were registered for gasoline, clothing, footwear, furniture, jewelry, lumber, electricity, concrete products, hides and skins, natural gas, tires, and machinery and equipment.

The BLS said lumber and wood products led the industrial commodity price increase with an advance of 1.3 per cent.

The bureau said there was little change in the employment and unemployment situation during July. The 5.5 per cent jobless rate for June and July was the lowest since October of 1970.

TF voter registry said heavy

TWIN FALLS — Late voter registration at the office of the Twin Falls County clerk has been heavy throughout the week and is expected to continue to 8 p.m. Saturday.

Voters who failed to register with their registrars may do so until 5 p.m. today and on Saturday from 8 a.m. at the clerk's office on the second floor of the courthouse.

Absentee balloting is also reported heavy with about 150 ballots already received at the clerk's office.

Absentee voting will continue until 5 p.m. Monday and persons who are invalids or unable to leave their homes or hospitals may vote absentee by calling the clerk's office on election day and a ballot will be taken to them.

Everyone in the county waits until deadline or after to find out if they are registered or to vote absentee. Confusion over registration and re-registration has also resulted.

Persons who did not mail in the uniform registration cards several months ago must reregister, and election officials say most have forgotten whether or not they mailed them in and are either calling or coming to the clerk's office to check.

One final opportunity will be provided persons who may have neglected to mail in the uniform cards or re-register before deadline. They will be allowed to re-register at the polls on Aug. 6. No new registrations can be taken at the polls, officials said as usual however.

Senate clears anti-ABM pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has ratified the treaty banning ABM proliferation but Son J. William Fulbright is dismayed over a White House attempt to attach "reservations" on its own companion accord to stunt growth of ICBM forces.

Fulbright, D-ARK, summoned his Senate Foreign Relations Committee into a closed meeting today to map counter-strategy and pass the intercontinental missile agreement in much the form President Nixon signed May 16 in the Kremlin.

After a day of marathon debate, the treaty which forever restricts the Soviet Union and the United States in building national antiballistic missile systems won Senate ratification Thursday.

Rockfest attracts politicians

TWIN FALLS — The organizer of the Hiram Bomb Drop Rock Concert said today the event would be "the biggest political convention in the state."

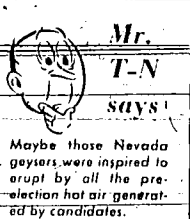

Lucas Hess, co-sponsor of the Sunday rock concert and political rally, said all eight candidates for the U. S. Senate would either make personal appearances or send representatives to address those attending.

In addition, he said, the two candidates for the second congressional district would either appear themselves or send emissaries.

Hess said four bands had confirmed their appearance at the event, set for Jaycee Park in Twin Falls at noon Sunday.

They include "Fat Chance," "Danny Myers," "Technicolor Trip" and the "Steve Roscoe Band."

Tickets are $2 at the gate, Hess said, with no advance sales.

Mac meets with Muskie

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, his pre-convention rival, met privately Thursday on filling the party's vacant vice presidential spot. It was announced today.

A one-paragraph statement from Muskie's office said the Maine senator and McGovern conferred for two hours at Muskie's suburban home on "the full campaign and the question of a new Democratic vice presidential nominee."

Since Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton bowed off the ticket Monday, Muskie has become McGovern's apparent top choice, but the South Dakota senator continued to keep his options open.

Muskie's office said he "will have no further statement at this time."

Aides to Muskie, the party's 1968 vice presidential candidate and unsuccessful contender for this year's presidential nomination, declined to say who initiated Thursday night's meeting.

But during a 25-minute news conference Thursday, McGovern said he would not make any decision regarding a replacement for Eagleton until he had had a "long talk" with Muskie.

"Be sure that Ed Muskie will be fully consulted before I make any final decision," he told newsmen.

A Muskie spokesman said the Maine senator remained at his home this morning, conferring with staff members.

Fischer wins

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) — Bobby Fischer today defeated Boris Spassky on the 58th move of their resumed 10th game of the world chess championship and took a three point lead toward becoming the first American world champion.

Spassky, who arrived 10 minutes late for the resumed play, thought for about 45 seconds after Fischer played his 58th move, then offered his hand to the American.

Fischer looked up and accepted, shaking hands over the wooden board. The American got up, drained a glass of orange juice, and strode from the hall.

Grand jury effort temporarily stalls

TWIN FALLS — The drive to seek a grand jury investigation into Twin Falls Sheriff Paul Corder's alleged improprieties in office is stalled.

Mitch Campbell organizer of the effort, said today, "We've called time out at the line of scrimmage, and we'll come back after the elections."

Earlier this week Campbell and other Twin Falls citizens had attempted to petition for the grand jury investigation, but were told by law officials their petitions were not properly prepared.

The group spokesman has met once with Fifth Judicial District Judge Theron Ward and twice with Leon Smith, Twin Falls County prosecuting attorney.

Campbell said today that in spite of the lack of success thus far that "We still are sincere about this thing," and said his group would attempt to file its petitions again after Tuesday's primary elections.

Coming Sunday

Magic Valley residents will vote Tuesday in the Idaho primary election. In order to better inform voters in advance of the election, Sunday's Times-News will carry a full roundup of stories on Magic Valley elections.

There will also be a special four page section dealing with Idaho candidates for national offices and with major contests in Magic Valley counties.

Doves seeking speaker's aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic doves are turning to Speaker Carl Albert in a long-time supporter of U.S. policy in Vietnam for help in winning House acceptance of legislation aimed at ending U.S. military involvement by Oct. 1.

The opponents of Administration policy believe they can count on Albert's vote next week for an antiwar amendment to the foreign military aid bill.

But they want the Speaker to visibly employ his prestige and leadership influence in behalf of the measure as a means of winning other votes in the House.

The rules Committee Thursday routinely cleared the bill for House consideration. The leadership scheduled debate to begin Tuesday with a vote on the antiwar amendment probably coming Wednesday.

Kimberly losing only practicing physician

KIMBERLY — After 21 years of private practice here, this town's only resident practicing doctor is leaving.

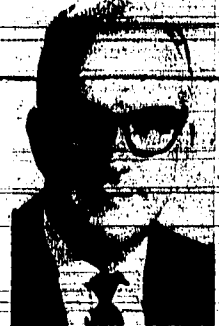

Dr. V. Ellis Knight is giving up his practice for health reasons and moving to Roseburg, Ore., Aug. 15. He will be affiliated with the Veterans Administration Hospital there.

And the town has not yet found his replacement. But Dr. Knight said there are "a couple of prospects." He hopes to sell his office and equipment to the new doctor.

"I would be much happier if I were leaving someone in my office for the community, I can tell you that. I am leaving because of poor health. The job at the hospital will take less time," Knight said.

The Kimberly Chamber of Commerce is planning a farewell reception honoring Dr. Knight from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday. It will be at his home 241 Polk St. E., and all area residents are invited to attend, according to chamber officials.

Spud board head quits

BOISE — The Idaho Potato Commission administrator resigned Thursday, citing a growers' referendum defeat of a proposed increase in the potato promotional tax as his reason.

Frank Floyd, in a letter of resignation to the commission, wrote, "It is with great sorrow that this request is made for I have been dedicated to this Idaho potato industry and the progress of this commission. The defeat of the recent tax increase was a great blow to me and the future progress of our proposed programs."

Floyd's letter said he had no objection to the commission, other present plans for employment.

Andrus predicts youth vote up

BOISE (UPI) — Leading Idaho political figures have expressed mixed feelings about voter turnout for next Tuesday's primary election.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said multi-races in both parties and the new youth vote should result in the state's largest turnout ever.

"I think it will be the largest turnout in Idaho history because of the activities in political circles," the governor said.

He added, "there is more activity than ever before," and called it "Very healthy — a peoples' race."

State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon agreed with Andrus, saying youth will have a "heavy impact."

"I would say there will be about 165,000 voters this year, higher than in 1970 because we have the 18 to 21 year-olds voting now," she said.

Some officials were not as optimistic.

Deputy Secretary of State Dryden Hiller predicted the primary would not draw any more voters than there were for the 1970 balloting.

Election hopefuls continue campaign

By United Press International
An impartial plan for admitting candidates to the nation's military academies "is a must for the future" to assure proper selection, state Sen. Wayne Kidwell said Thursday.

Campaigning in southern Idaho, the Republican congressional hopeful said, "our future military posture is so important that young men who attend West Point, Annapolis and the Air Force Academy must be chosen solely on the basis of ability and dedication."

Ed Williams, Democratic candidate for First District Congress, said in Boise Thursday there is "great need for a shift in public school financing away from the property tax with its glaring inequities and regressive features."

"In the midst of all problems faced by education, President Nixon's fiscal 1973 requests are less than appropriated in 1972, Jack Homingway, congressionalist from Ketchum, said.

Republican Robert Purcell told the Nampa Jaycees Thursday that one of his goals as a congressman would be to restructure the present welfare system, giving "incentive" to those who are able to work.

The Republican candidate for First District Congress said he would propose a new program to include education and training "of permanent value helping people into the mainstream of life."

Another First District congressional candidate, Stephen D. Symms, issued a challenge to his opponents "to take a clear stand on secondary boycotts."

"I am categorically opposed to the secondary boycott because it allows outside parties to force both employers and employees to unionize whether they want to or not," he said.

Elsewhere on the political scene, Republican Senate hopeful Glen Wegner added several prominent Idahoans to his list of endorsees.

In a news release Thursday, Wegner listed support from John Priest, Boise businessman; and George Forscher, Burley motel owner. Rose Bowman, Democratic Senate hopeful from Boise, said Thursday she is "amused by the late blooming concern" shown by candidates about campaign spending.

"It seems that all of a sudden candidates have become aware of the massive influence that big money is having on our campaigns," Mrs. Bowman said.

On another political front, Republican George Hansen Thursday labeled as "panic action" a last minute attempt by one of his opponents to gain endorsement from prominent Republicans to shore up a faltering campaign.

"Such methods by other candidates are a healthy sign that my campaign is on the road to victory," Hansen said in Boise.

Nomination still open

TWIN FALLS — Democratic senatorial candidate Byron Johnson said in Twin Falls Friday his party's nomination is still up for grabs. "Whoever turns on the effort in the last five days will get it," he said. Johnson, one of four Democratic senatorial hopefuls, made his final Magic Valley campaign swing Thursday, stopping in Twin Falls and the Mini-Cassia area. The Boise attorney sees the youth vote in next Tuesday's statewide primary election as critically important. "And he is well organized," he said, "in an attempt to capture it."

... still hopeful

He said he has 500 active workers in the Boise area working on his behalf in the final days of the campaign, "a couple of hundred in Idaho Falls," and substantial door-to-door canvassing in progress in Pocatello. He estimated his Twin Falls organization at 50 people. Johnson has also turned to a heavy dose of youth-oriented radio advertisements in the final weeks of the campaign, he said, buying up time of the "top 40" radio stations around the state.

Commenting on the decision this week that left Sen. Thomas Eagleton off the Democratic national ticket, Johnson said, "Eagleton is a dynamic and forthright man." But he lamented the loss of what he termed the advantage of an early convention, giving the Democrats time to regroup for the fall campaign.

He also said Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, who has figured prominently in recent speculation about McGovern's new running mate, would be an asset to the ticket.

He said the former vice-presidential candidate has "one national campaign under his belt, plus exposure, and the man is fully capable of assuming the presidency."

Davis opposes boycott

TWIN FALLS — Democratic senatorial candidate William E. (Bud) Davis said today he is opposed to what he termed "blanket secondary boycotting."

In a statement released by his campaign headquarters, Davis said, "I would not advocate peremptory any organization, through force or pressure, to require any single person or group either to use or not use any specific Idaho agricultural product."

Davis' statement was in response to what he said were unspecified links from his name to "lacties I do not accept as being beneficial to Idaho's agricultural industry."

"While I have always been in favor of the working man organizing to better his working and living conditions, and for collective bargaining, I am opposed to blanket secondary boycotting. If I choose to personally refrain from eating a certain product that is one thing. But when an entire state is strangled into avoiding a product — whether it wishes to or not — it is a violation of one's basic personal freedoms," Davis said.

Vandals damage vehicle

HAILEY — Vandals did about $200 damage to a vehicle parked on the East Fork Road Wednesday night.

According to the Blaine County sheriff's office, Leaman A. Clarke, Ketchum, said he ran out of gas about one mile west of the Triumph Mine on the East Fork Road about 5:40 p.m. Wednesday. He said he left his dune buggy off the north side of the roadway.

When he returned to get the vehicle about 9:30 a.m. Thursday, the dune buggy had been pushed off into the south ditch. The headlights, taillights and windshield had been broken out, Clarke said, and two rearview mirrors had been broken off and the engine had been beaten presumably with a hammer, he told the deputies.

Parks endorses full farm price supports

TWIN FALLS — Full parity for farm price supports was endorsed by W. Anthony (Tony) Park, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, on Thursday.

Park made the statement during a final swing through the Magic Valley prior to the Tuesday primary election. He campaigned in Twin Falls, Rupert and Burley en route to eastern Idaho.

"More importantly, we must begin to find innovative new programs to enable the family farm to compete more favorably with the corporate giants," Park said.

Park said he supports the Family Farm Act of 1972, which prohibits "huge vertically integrated monopolies from owning all means of production from seed to supermarket."

Such groups are inefficient, waste land and still undersell the average small farmer, he said. "Another program which would aid the family farmer is to discontinue the practice of allowing such corporations to write off farm losses against other profits."

"I believe the law should require every person or corporation which would go into farming to stand or fall tax-wise on the farming operation alone," Park said. He said he favors a $20,000 limit on farm subsidies instead of the present $35,000.

"It's high time the policies of Washington were built around true concern for the ordinary people in this country. They are fed up with unresponsive government, inaccessible officials — unkept promises," he said.

Park said he has found that Democratic voters want a candidate who can win in November "against a Republican who will undoubtedly be well financed, have access to the media, and will be well known throughout the state" — an obvious reference to Rep. James McClure, R-Idaho.

Venezuela has a network of 20,245 miles of superhighways and paved roads linking every city, town and village.

Park said he thinks the north to the nomination in the Idaho vote may well be the key primary balloting.

Stennis Gets The Message

WASHINGTON — It took nine months, but Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., finally got the message on the pigeonholed military retirees survivors benefits bill.

He suddenly announced the appointment of a special three-member subcommittee to consider the long-stalled legislation — shortly after learning that Sen. J. Glenn Bennett, R-Md., and Harry Goldwater, R-Ariz., proposed to offer it as an amendment to the multi-billion-dollar military procurement authorization measure now being considered by the Senate.

His plan to force an open showdown on the retirees bill blasted Stennis out of his lethargy and put an end to his protracted foot-dragging — at least to the extent of getting the ball rolling on the measure in the Armed Services Committee. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., head of the special panel, is losing no time in doing that.

He is holding two days of hearings with the aim of reporting to the full committee before Aug. 18, when Congress recesses for the Republican national convention.

It is Bentsen's hope the full committee will act on the legislation before the recess.

He will do his utmost to bring that about. On that he has the full support of the other two members of the special committee — Sens. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and Harry Byrd, Ind., Va.

While the subcommittee is free to act expeditiously, what the full committee will do is largely up to Chairman Stennis who stalled on this bill for nine months and finally acted only when threatened with having it offered as an amendment to the military procurement authorization measure.

Paced with such a showdown, the Mississippi ran for cover and set up the special three-member subcommittee.

What happens after it reports to the full committee is the big question mark.

If Stennis allows the full 16-member Armed Services

Committee (9 Democrats, 7 Republicans) to act promptly, that will be all to the good — and the issue will then shift to the Senate where approval of the legislation is certain.

But if he again resorts to foot-dragging, then pressure tactics will once more have to be resorted to.

Sen. Beall is set to do that if necessary.

The Maryland legislator told this column, "If the retirees bill is again stymied in the Armed Services Committee, I am prepared to offer it as an amendment to the military construction measure that will be coming up after the procurement bill is out of the way. We'll have another chance to force a showdown on this in the fall. I hope we can avoid it, but we won't hesitate to do whatever the situation calls for. There has been far too much dawdling on the retirees bill as it is."

Sen. Beall, who offered the measure as a separate bill last December, now has 39 bipartisan co-sponsors. The latest to add his name to the list is Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., a member of the Armed Services Committee. Other committee members who are co-sponsors are Sens. Thurmond, member of the special subcommittee, and John Tower, Tex.

Crisis Point

Food prices rose faster in June than during the previous four months and pointed up the warning of Arthur Burns, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, that inflation is threatening to boil over.

Federal spending is rising much too rapidly, Burns said, and the nation is at a financial crossroads.

President Nixon told Congress to restrain its spending and to observe his $250 billion dollar ceiling on outlays in fiscal 1972.

He warned that any idea that the President cannot afford to veto a spending measure in an election year was erroneous.

"I will simply not let reckless spending destroy the tax reductions we have secured and the hard-won successes we have earned in the battle against inflation," he said.

John Ehrlichman, Chief Domestic Adviser, said the willingness of the Democratic-controlled Congress to operate on a "credit card" policy has caused a budget emergency.

Pleas to Congress to hold the line on appropriations also have come from Treasury Secretary George Schultz, Economic Adviser Herbert Stein and Budget Director Caspar Weinberger.

A Republican party survey shows strong public sentiment in favor of putting the reins on government spending, checking inflation and holding down taxes.

The survey, taken in preparation for drawing up the Republican platform, showed 68 per cent of Republicans give top priority to curbing government spending.

Nixon said federal spending already is running $7 billion dollars higher than budget plans and the new fiscal year started only July 1.

Thoughtful citizens, regardless of party, know that interperate spending will force higher taxes, and higher prices and wreck the family budget as well as the national economy.

They will applaud courageous use of the veto to block a speed-up of the inflationary treadmill.

Youth Trouble

The idea is farfetched, of course, but it is almost as if the Republican National Committee had planted agents provocateur inside key groups of youthful protesters who gathered in Miami Beach during the Democratic convention.

How else explain the threats, mostly muted but some of them blatant, from assorted hippies, Yippies, Zippies and just plain bippies promising trouble when the Republicans roll into town?

"This was a dress rehearsal for August," warned a Zippie leader. "We will have a lot more people and be a lot more serious in August. We all hate Nixon. We are going to try to push him into the sea right here."

"I'm not into trashing and burning, but a lot of people are talking about it in August," said a member of the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice.

"We won't be looking for trouble, but we do expect it," said a spokesman for Students for a Democratic Society.

Even if this is mostly bombast, which is the stock in trade of such champions of peace, justice and democracy, the arrival of thousands of the unwashed, unshaven and unshorn in Miami Beach as promised would carry grave risk of some of them attempting to translate the rhetoric of revolution into reality.

If President Nixon were as cynical and immoral as these people apparently believe he could want nothing better than a clash between demonstrators and police.

Every rock thrown, every window "trashed," every obscenity uttered, every attempt to harass or humiliate the President of the United States would mean one more vote for him and one less vote for his opponent, who — as of this writing, at least — seems to have the ideological approval and support of the "street people."

If anything was proved by the sorry events in Chicago in 1968, it was that riots don't help; the Democrats nor do they hurt the Republicans.

Again, it takes you wonder whether some of these people are secretly working for the GOP or whether their minds are simply befuddled by pot.

Waves Have Subsided

In an age of proliferating acronyms — PACE, COPE, CROP, HUD, NASA, etc., etc., etc. — it is encouraging to learn that one well-known member of the species has been discontinued.

When women were brought into the Navy to stay on July 30, 1942, to replace homefront manpower, they were called WAVES, a rather strained acronym formed of the first letters of "Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service."

By way of observing the 30th anniversary of this event, the Navy has announced that women in the Navy will henceforth be referred to simply as women in the Navy.

Once a reserve component, the distaff sailors are now an established part of the regular Navy and the Naval Reserve. Formerly restricted to the continental United States, women in the Navy are now serving in England, Japan, Spain, Iceland, Italy, Germany and Guam.

Women's libbers may also be pleased to hear that among other changes, enlisted women are now being assigned to Pacific Fleet air squadrons, which had previously been considered all-male preserves, and one female airman recently became the first helicopter plane captain in the Navy.

LIKES OF THESE LAKES!

When a Minnesotan says he's going fishing on Long Lake, you might have trouble finding him. According to the Midland Cooperator, there are 156 different Long Lakes, and some of them aren't even long.

Minnesota also has 122 Rice Lakes, 83 Bass Lakes, 72 Twin Lakes, 70 Round Lakes and 91 whose names are Mud.

Name duplication is inevitable, of course, in a state which has over 15,000 bodies of water more than 10 acres in size. On the other hand, when a Minnesotan tells you he's going to Mawskiquawacunda Lake, you know he doesn't mean lakes Bashitanagoneba, Sisabagamah or Winnibigoshish, O'gosh.

Bombing The Dikes

WASHINGTON — Is the United States bombing the dikes in North Vietnam or isn't it? That is the question President Nixon and Secretary of Defense Laird say we are not.

The secretary general of the United Nations, the president of the World Council of Churches and Jane Fonda say we are.

Whom is one to believe? To find an answer to the problem, I called Wellback Fishbind, the world's leading authority on dike bombing.

Wellback told me, "I believe both sides are telling the truth. The Americans are not bombing the dikes in North Vietnam, but the dikes are being bombed by the Americans."

"How can that be?" "The Americans have strict orders to bomb only military installations, power plants and moving targets. They have specific orders not to bomb the dikes."

Therefore, President Nixon and Secretary of Defense Laird are telling the truth.

Unfortunately, these dikes are located next to the military targets. So, when the Americans bomb the military sites they can't help but hit the dikes. The secretary general of the United Nations, the president of the World Council of Churches and Jane Fonda, therefore, are also telling the truth.

"But there seems to be a credibility gap somewhere," I protested.

"It depends on where you are. If you're sitting in the White House, you obviously feel the North Vietnamese should build their dikes farther away from their military targets, so American planes won't hit them."

"But if you're in a bomb shelter in North Vietnam, you feel that the dikes built close to military sites should be spared."

Wellback said, "The thing to keep in mind is that no one likes to bomb dikes. There's very little satisfaction in it."

You hit an oil refinery with a bomb, and you get a helluva thrill out of seeing it go up with a whoosh. But when you hit a dike the bomb lands with a dull thud, and you have no idea if you're doing any good or not. It's the same thing with a dam. There's no thrill to shooting rockets at a dam. But if you can shoot up a military barracks or a moving convoy you know you're earning your money."

"I never thought of it like that."

"As I see it," Wellback said, "it's really North Vietnam's problem. They have too many dikes. It's almost impossible to hit anything worthwhile in the country without hitting a dike. The way the North Vietnamese can avoid having their dikes bombed is to take them down so we can't destroy them."

"That would be one solution," I agreed.

"It isn't our fault that Hanoi built so many dikes. We'd be grateful if they didn't have any at all. They're absolutely useless to us. As a matter of fact, they're hurting our entire bombing strategy."

"But if they didn't have dikes their land would flood."

"That's their problem. Do you know that not one country club in North Vietnam has been destroyed by our bombing?"

"Why do you think that is?" "I have no idea."

"Because there isn't a country club in North Vietnam. Now if they didn't have any dikes in North Vietnam, then we wouldn't destroy any, would we?"

"I guess not," I said.

"Since the North Vietnamese insist on having dikes, and we insist on bombing North Vietnam," Wellback said, "we won't stop bombing until they pull out their dikes, and they won't stop building dikes until we stop the bombing."

"That sounds like an impasse," I said.

"Exactly. And there is nothing to prevent us from bombing impasses. President Nixon has made that perfectly clear."

The Reason

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is now known that Russian military advisers were caught up to their elbows in Egyptian politics.

They intrigued for the promotion of those Egyptian army and air force officers most sympathetic to the Russians and to communism. They worked against Egyptian officers who were less eager to cooperate.

They involved themselves more and more in attempts above and below the table to run the Egyptian army and air force, playing one officer against another.

But this is not all. The Russians made efforts, as in the Sudan, to subvert civilian Egyptian officials to secure illegal or special cooperation with the Soviet Union. They did this by promises of special favors and influence from Moscow for those Cairo officials who would go along.

They intrigued against those officials who were nationalist, pro-Western, otherwise not "cooperative" with or sympathetic to the Russians and to Soviet aims in Egypt and the Middle East.

They subsidized local Arab groups willing to cooperate in putting down one man or another or in aiding the political or military fortunes of others the Russians favored.

Under Russian influence and pressure the Communist party of Egypt dissolved itself in 1965. Its members then joined the Arab Socialist Union.

Since that time, a number of these former Communist party members have moved up in Egyptian politics and in the controlled press. Some of these individuals have been working under Soviet direction.

Finally, Moscow used economic and military aid pressures in an attempt to bring the Egyptians into line with Soviet policy.

How many thousand Russian military men will remain in Egypt and how many go home is unannounced but at least residual group is expected to remain.

Some 2,000 Egyptian students, military men and technical personnel are receiving instruction in the U.S.S.R. and East Europe.

To further put the Soviet Union's position in the Middle East in perspective, it must be noted that there are more than 4,000 Russian military stationed in Middle East and North African countries outside Egypt. There are 6,000 Middle East students and 9,000 to 10,000 military and technical personnel training in the U.S.S.R. and East Europe.

Four thousand Soviet economic technicians are located in the region. All-in-all, Moscow's influence is thus quite strong.

Weight Loss

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend being treated for angina pectoris was considered overweight. He was retired and not too active.

His doctor recommended that he go on a diet for one week only, drinking one quart of milk and one quart of fruit juice daily at two-hour intervals. Most of his fat was around the abdomen.

At the end of the week he had lost eight pounds and felt great. What is your opinion of the diet? Would you recommend it?

M.F.

Well, the diet worked, didn't it? But no, I doubt if I would have recommended it.

Weight reduction does indeed benefit some (not necessarily all) angina sufferers, but if an angina patient is overweight, he should get rid of the excess poundage regardless of whether it makes him feel better right away. It will surely help in the long run.

The diet you describe is drastic, unbalanced and monotonous in my opinion. Weight loss can be accomplished with a more palatable diet which can be continued as long as necessary without sacrificing any needed types of nutrition.

The unbalanced nature of your friend's diet obviously is the reason why the doctor prescribed it for only a week.

Trying to read between the lines, I would hazard a guess that the doctor tried that method because he didn't have much faith in the patient's following a more reasonable diet. You can tell some people to start cutting down on their calories and they say, "Yes, doctor," and go on eating the way they always have. In this case, maybe the doctor decided that if he laid down an absolutely rigid eating pattern, it might work. Well, evidently it did.

But I suspect that both he and I would have been better pleased if the patient would settle down into a diet that would keep excess weight off instead of whacking it off in crash fashion.

There's no special diet for angina other than one that will keep weight at a safe level, or possibly a low-cholesterol diet. But it's a bit late for that after the angina has become established.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can diuretics cause your skin to become dry? I use artificial salt but still have swelling if I don't take the diuretics.

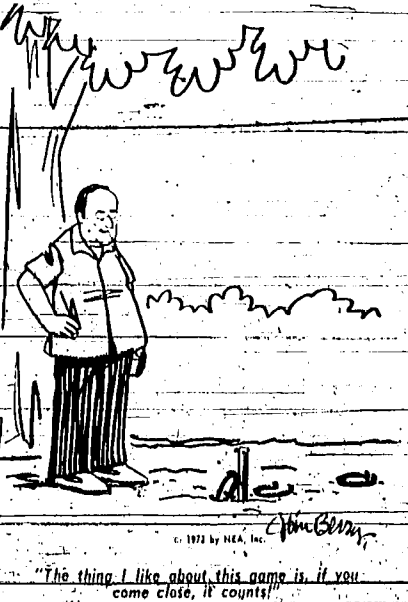

Also do they contain hormones, as I have had breast cancer? — Mrs. A.B.

That swelling is from too much fluid in your system; no, diuretics should not cause dryness of the skin. And no, they do not contain hormones.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How soon after a woman becomes pregnant is a pregnancy test accurate? A friend says her doctor told her after one week. My physician says six weeks. Why would two G.P.'s have such different answers? — Mrs. M.C.

Because they know that pregnancy tests depend on changes in hormones that occur with pregnancy, and there is a considerable difference in the sensitivity (and cost) of various tests.

British soldier shot in Belfast

By DONAL O'HIGGINS
BELFAST (UPI)—A British soldier was shot to death in Belfast today, the third fatality in Northern Ireland violence in the past 24 hours.

The killing came after warnings by the militant Provisional wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

IRA that Roman Catholics who fraternize with occupying British troops would be tarred and feathered or suffer worse punishment.

The soldier was the second military fatality since troops did not enter the city after the tanks, demolished barricades and occupied the IRA's "no go" strongholds throughout Ulster Monday. He was checking an arms cache discovered behind a hedge in the Catholic Andersonstown area of Belfast when a single sniper shot rang out. He fell dead with a bullet in the head, an army spokesman said.

An army bomb disposal expert and a suspected IRA gunman were killed Thursday. A bombing attack on a village Monday claimed its seventh victim Thursday, a Catholic housewife.

The fourth deaths raised the fatality toll in three years of violence in the province to 403.

In Londonderry a statement issued Thursday by the Provisional IRA command said Catholics who "fraternized" with troops were "fairmarked" for retaliatory action.

The statement did not elaborate but a source close to the Provisionals recalled that Catholic girls who have associated with soldiers in the past were tarred-and-feathered-and-their heads were shaved. The source said men who were friendly with soldiers were severely beaten.

The statement followed a lessening of Catholic hostility towards troops who occupied

IRA strongholds in Belfast and Londonderry Monday.

In violence Thursday, W.O. William J. Clark, 24, was killed when an explosives-laden oil drum he was attempting to disarm exploded near Clundy, County Tyrone, 15 miles south of Londonderry.

The army said the bomb was planted beside a road near the border with the Irish Republic. Clark was the first British soldier killed since the army's drive against the IRA strongholds Monday.

In Belfast, Robert McCruden, a 19-year-old Catholic, died from gunshot wounds following a clash between troops and snipers in the Catholic Ardoyne area of the capital. The army said troops hit a gunman outside a school during the battle.

A car bomb explosion in the border town of Newry injured six persons, none seriously.

Lose stamps

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The number of federal employees authorized to stamp government information as top secret, secret or confidential has dropped from 43,588 to 16,238 in the past two months, President Nixon was told Thursday.

New rules regarding government secrecy were imposed last March following the Pentagon Papers case. The regulations took effect June 1.

John S. Eisenhower, chairman of the Interagency Classification Review Committee, said in a report to Nixon the number of officials authorized to use the highest classification — top secret — had been reduced by 53 per cent from 2,275 to 1,076.

Human radiation levels decrease

UPTON, N.Y. (UPI)—A limited study conducted at the Brookhaven National Laboratory shows that radiation levels in humans have decreased since 1963 when the treaty prohibiting atmospheric nuclear tests was signed.

Ten employees of the laboratory were tested once a month from 1960 to 1971 for the presence of cesium-137, a product of nuclear explosions which is present in fallout. Nine hundred other employees were tested less frequently.

In the first year of the testing, the average value of cesium-137 was 37 picocuries for each gram of potassium in the body. A picocurie is a measure of radiation.

By December, 1962, about a year after nuclear testing was resumed after a two-year worldwide lull, the level reached 78 picocuries per gram of potassium. The level reached its peak, 110 picocuries, in March, 1964.

The cesium 137 levels began falling sharply toward the end of 1964 and reached 18 to 20

Big push starts

BIG SUR, Calif. (UPI)—Firefighters, aided by helicopters and air tankers, began a big push today to contain a spectacular coastal blaze in the rugged Ventana Wilderness near Big Sur.

The fire which consumed 4,100 acres of timber and brush was 70 per cent contained, but a two-mile stretch was still out of control in the rugged region of the Los Padres National Forest.

"The fire is holding and is backed against a steep canyon," a spokesman for the U.S. Forest Service said. He said 800 men were edging into the area in hopes of gaining full containment by nightfall.

"We plan to supply them by helicopter and there is a 22-mile train standing by just in case," the spokesman said.

A U-2 spy plane and World War II bombers helped stop the spread of the fire Thursday by pinpointing "hot spots" in the mountains.

Six firefighters were injured Thursday, one suffering a concussion and other injuries when he fell 35 feet down a cliff.

S. Viets have victories

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese reported victories today just north of Quang Tri and at An Loc where a four-month government effort to open Highway 13 from Saigon to the district capital 60 miles to the north appeared near success.

The U.S. Command reported 230 strikes against North Vietnam on Thursday but none closer than 31 miles south of the Hanoi-Haiphong area because of bad weather. Most strikes hit bridges, oil tanks and other facilities just north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). Both Quang Tri, just below the DMZ, and An Loc were of particular importance to Saigon. Quang Tri was the first district capital captured by the Communists in their March 30 offensive and An Loc was to have been the second, but the government held on there.

South Vietnam has not been entirely able to lift the siege of An Loc since Highway 13, but a spokesman said today the current push is more than ever. The An Loc drive the last of the Viet Cong forces out of the area.

The An Loc fighting centered around the Lam O River bridge nine miles south of An Loc and at a Communist-held American-built bunker a mile farther south. Fighting was fierce and at such close quarters the South Vietnamese were unable to call in air and artillery strikes and the Communists were rooted out in hand-to-hand combat.

The South Vietnamese assault began Wednesday and three tanks were blown up in the initial fighting. Other troops besieged toward the bunker, making as little progress as 20 yards in 24 hours. But on Thursday they finally captured it.

The fighting around Quang Tri was being carried out by South Vietnamese marines who moved in earlier this week. Their victory came 4-2 miles north of Quang Tri where the marines said they killed 40 North Vietnamese in a 10-hour battle that ended at noon. They reported their own losses as two men killed and eight wounded.

Gem fund cut hits elders, disabled

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Public Assistance recipients over 65 and those permanently disabled will be hit hardest among those cut from the state's welfare rolls Oct. 1.

According to Dr. John Marks, commissioner of Social and Rehabilitation Services (SHS), 400 out of 30,000 welfare recipients will be severed from the assistance program, due to the 20 per cent increase in Social Security benefits passed by congress June 30.

Those affected include 38 welfare mothers receiving aid to dependent children, 283 persons receiving old age assistance, 137 receiving medical assistance but not living in nursing homes.

Saying the cut was made because of federal and not state action, Marks said, "Unless action is taken at the federal level, those 400 persons will not benefit from the Social Security increase, but will suffer because of it."

As they become ineligible for public assistance, they will lose their access to medical assistance and possibly to other benefits they can't afford to be without," he added.

Ada County welfare mothers attending a meeting at the VWCA in Boise expressed concern over the cut to the 38 mothers. To compound their problem, all mothers receiving aid to dependent children face an 11 per cent cut in their welfare payments as of Sept. 1 due to SHS fiscal problems.

One of the mothers, Mrs.

Donna March of Boise, said a spinal injury forced her on welfare with her two young children. "I had to go on public assistance because I couldn't pay for my prescriptions and doctor bills," she said. "If I were cut now, I'd be dead."

Marks said there was "no way" to prevent cancellation to the 400 victims of the congressional bill. He said increases in Social Security benefits in 1970 and 1971 were given partial exemption from the code of federal regulations on public welfare for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. But the Senate voted down an attempt to exempt the 20 per cent increase from it.

Marks said his department will request adoption of a medical

Satellite plans told

BOISE (UPI) — Representatives of the six-state Rocky Mountain Federation were told by Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Thursday of his plans for a multi-purpose education satellite to be used throughout the Intermountain West.

The federation is composed of Colorado, Utah, Montana, Wyoming, New Mexico and Idaho.

The meeting included members of the federation's telecommunications committee. Andrus, committee co-chairman, has spearheaded an effort to launch the world's first educational television satellite, designed to fill the needs of both early childhood development and adult education.

The satellite would provide programming for the six federation states plus Nevada and Arizona; areas that, because of rough terrain, cannot avail themselves of earth-based television signals Andrus said. It is scheduled for launching in 1974, and will transmit and receive signals from all eight areas.

The project is a joint effort of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and the federation.

Bremer diary admitted

Social critic dies

By WARREN L. NELSON
UPPER MERLBORO, Md. (UPI) — Arthur H. Bremer asked himself in his diary why he wanted to shoot President Nixon or Gov. George C. Wallace.

"I don't know," he jotted. "Nothing else to do. I have to kill somebody. That's how far gone I am."

The 114-page journal was read into the record at Bremer's trial on charges of shooting the Alabama governor at a Laurel, Md., political rally May 15. The defense read Thursday its case based on the contention Bremer, 21, a former Milwaukee busboy, is insane. Today, final arguments were scheduled by prosecuting attorney Arthur A. Marshall Jr. and defense attorney Benjamin Lipsitz. Judge Ralph W. Powers of the Prince Georges County Court then will assign the case to a jury of six men and six women.

Powers dismissed for insufficient evidence Thursday four charges of assault with intent to maim. Bremer still is charged with 13 counts of assault with intent to murder and lesser charges. If he is convicted on the remaining charges, he could receive maximum sentences of 83 years in prison.

The jurors listened intently Thursday when Lipsitz read the diary out loud. It revealed Bremer stalked Nixon through Ottawa when the President visited Canada last April. "I had a good view" as he went past me," Bremer wrote. "Past me for the 10th time and still alive."

Bremer recorded that he tried on six occasions to try to assassinate the President in Ottawa—twice in the streets as the presidential motorcade passed, three times when Nixon appeared at Ottawa's Parliament building and once when the President attended a formal affair at the Fine Arts Center.

When Bremer failed in his mission at Ottawa, he left for Washington, D.C., writing, "You can't get Nixie boy if you ain't close to him."

He also wrote that he thought about getting Wallace during the film, "I've decided Wallace would have the honor of what would you call it?" However, he harbored doubts that killing Wallace would not win him the same attention to be gained from a presidential assassination. "I won't even rate publicity in Russia or elsewhere if Wallace is dead. He won't get more than three minutes on TV."

The weeks of travel were wearing on him. Frustration was setting in. "I've been traveling around like a hobo and nothing has happened. I'm tired of writing about what I wanted to do, what I failed to do again... I haven't had a conversation, particularly against the LANCASTER, N.H. (UPI)—Paul Goodman, a social critic whose books became gospel for "New Left" youth and intellectuals, died Wednesday night of a heart attack. He was 60.

In his best known work, "Growing Up Absurd," Goodman advised young people to drop out of conventional society rather than be lured into an existence barren of human values. "I have only one subject," Goodman once said, "the human beings I know in their man-made environment."

Despite the diversity of his activities and literary works he never achieved nor apparently sought commercial success. He lived in relative poverty, much of it with his common-law wife Sally. Goodman said his "anarchist" beliefs precluded marriage as recognized by the state.

Kennedy son not victim

ATHENS (UPI) — The ring-leader of an urban guerrilla group denied at his kidnapping trial Thursday that one of his intended victims was John F. Kennedy Jr., son of the late President Kennedy.

"We did not plan to kidnap the son of Kennedy," Christos Ramantanis, 31, told a military tribunal. Ramantanis and seven others are charged with subversion and plotting to "commit armed robberies and kidnappings."

Testifying in his defense at the first day of the trial, however, Ramantanis—organizer of the guerrilla group—told the court, "Some of the points of the accusations referring to me are correct. We had plans to kidnap politicians, ambassadors and businessmen and to keep them in city apartments like the Tupamaros of South America."

The Tupamaros is a militant urban guerrilla organization in Uruguay. The indictment alleges the eight, mostly laborers, intended to abduct several personalities including the 11-year-old Kennedy.

Viet vet benefits may rise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Educational benefits for Vietnam veterans would be nearly doubled under a bill passed 89-0 Thursday by the Senate.

The measure would increase GI benefits for single students from $175 a month to $250. Married veterans going to college or taking vocational studies would receive $297, while a married veteran with one child would get $339, plus $21 for each additional dependent.

The Senate bill still must be reconciled with a more modest House version. The Administration has proposed raising the monthly benefits for single veterans from $175 to $190. The cost of the Senate version has been placed at $3.8 billion over a five-year period.

Imitates Evel

VICKSBURG, Miss. (UPI)—A man who posed as daredevil motorcycle rider Evel Knievel pleaded guilty today to charges of driving while intoxicated and attempting to evade a food and lodging bill at a local motel.

"Douglas Komanski of Tallahassee, Fla., who gave interviews and signed autographs last week while passing himself off as the well-known stuntman, was ordered by a local justice of the peace to pay a fine of $265 or serve a 265-day sentence in the county jail.

Higher beef price seen after hormone use ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A leading cattleman and a drug company said Wednesday that the Food and Drug Administration's (FDA) decision to ban the use in livestock food of a hormone which can cause cancer would bring about higher beef prices.

However, Senate opponents to the hormone — DES — criticized the FDA for allowing existing supplies to be used until Jan. 1. W.C. McMillan, executive vice president of the American National Cattleman's Association, predicted consumers "unquestionably" would face some increase in retail beef prices due to the ban.

Some studies have estimated that cattlemen save about $90 million annually in grain and feed lot costs when using DES. In Indianapolis, the drug manufacturing firm of Eli Lilly and Co., which said DES accounted for less than one-half percent of its consolidated sales, said the ban was "rather insignificant" for the company. But "it will have a substantial and immediate effect on the cattle feeding industry... Consumer beef cattle prices undoubtedly will rise."

The FDA announced Wednesday that DES — short for Diethylstilbestrol — would be banned from production immediately. Cattlemen, however, were given until Jan. 1 to expend their existing supplies.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said, "It would be far more reasonable to compensate these firms than to continue to have DES appear on the American dinner table until January."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the decision "raises serious questions regarding the responsiveness of the agency to the health needs of the American people."

The ban was made under the provisions of the Delaney amendment, which prohibits the use of any chemical that causes cancer in animals that are consumed by humans.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz agreed the law made the ban necessary, but said, "The public is deprived of a product that has helped substantially to produce a record amount of high quality beef more efficiently, and at less cost to the consumer."

Fat beef markets on rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Marketing of fattened beef cattle will rise to a record in the second half of 1972, but total production of red meats will be just about equal to output in the same period last year, an Agriculture Department report predicted today.

With overall supplies steady, consumers can expect to find prices continuing above last year's rates, the report added.

"Expanding beef output and seasonally increasing pork production will dampen livestock prices later in the year, but very strong consumer demand will hold meat prices above a year earlier," economists said.

The report noted that despite the seasonal upswing in pork production, output during the second half of the year would be about 9 per cent below a year ago. Production of veal, lamb and mutton will also be smaller, helping offset the increase in beef.

The report said this year's beef calf crop, up 4 per cent, points to an increased supply next year. It said pork production may begin to turn up after mid-1973.

Gooding sale slated

GOODING — The Gooding County 4-H FFA Fat Stock Sale will be at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Gooding Livestock Auction Commission Co.

Anyone wishing to bid may do so without attending the sale by designating the stock sale committee to bid for them. The public is invited to attend the sale and bid on the animals to encourage the 4-H and FFA livestock producers, according to William Varin, chairman.

The sales committee includes Eldon Arrington and Emma Robinson, Hagerman; James Benson and R. B. Freeman,

Parochial school battle narrows

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
The long and complex battle over public aid to parochial schools appears to have narrowed down to one question:

Will the U.S. Supreme Court accept as constitutional a system under which parents are allowed to claim tax credits for part of the tuition they pay to private schools?

Legislation to authorize such credits on federal income tax returns is pending in Congress, and has the backing of President Nixon.

Meanwhile, several states with large Catholic populations are going forward on their own with laws authorizing parents to deduct from state income taxes some or all of their outlays on non-public education.

Opponents of "parochial" are gearing up to challenge these laws in the courts, and it's just a question of time before the whole issue lands in the U.S. Supreme Court.

Catholic leaders feel that a great deal is riding on this impending constitutional test. "If the tax credit proposal endorsed by President Nixon should be ruled unconstitutional by the courts, I can see little hope for public money," says the Rev. Ernest L. Bartell, a prominent Catholic school economist.

Recent precedents do not offer Catholics much encouragement.

Three-judge federal courts have struck down state laws in New York and Pennsylvania providing for direct reimbursement to parents of tuition costs.

Some lawyers find it hard to see any basic difference, constitutionally, between a direct reimbursement and a tax credit.

Other legal authorities point out, however, that the courts have never objected to the long-standing provision of federal income tax law which allows taxpayers to claim deductions for contributions to churches.

Presidential candidates' favorite Bible verses reveal individuality

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International
You can tell something about a man from the Bible verses he cherishes.

That's especially true of men such as President Nixon and Sen. George S. McGovern, who grew up in religious homes and were exposed to Bible reading from early childhood.

McGovern's favorite Bible verses are easy to ascertain, inasmuch as he has them framed and hanging on the wall of his Senate Office.

The Democratic presidential candidate clearly reveals his deep concern for social justice in the passages of scripture he has chosen as guiding lights to his life.

One is the climactic line from Jesus' famous parable about the Last Judgment. In that parable, Jesus says that men will be judged by God solely on the basis of how they respond in this life to the hunger, suffering and need of their fellow human beings.

The parable, in the 25th Chapter of Matthew's gospel, enumerates various acts of simple human kindness and, then, in the 40th verse which McGovern has on his wall, it quotes God as saying to men that "Whenever you did this (a kind deed) for one of the least important of your brothers, you did it for me."

McGovern also likes Jesus' saying recorded in Luke 9:24: "For the person who wants to save his own life will lose it; but the one who loses his life for my sake will save it."

For the person who wants to save his own life will lose it; but the one who loses his life for my sake will save it.

God has told you what is good; "And what is it that the Lord asks of you?"

"Only to act justly, to love loyalty, "And to walk wisely before your God."

This verse, by the way, also was the favorite of another Democratic presidential candidate — Adlai E. Stevenson.

One way to get a clue to President Nixon's favorite Bible verses is to study his speeches and other public statements and ascertain which passages of scripture he likes to quote.

Such an analysis indicates Nixon is greatly attached to biblical passages dealing with peace and personal integrity.

After a long chronicle of the bloody battles by which the Israelites conquered Canaan, the ancient historian records: "The land was at peace for righteousness shall yield peace for forty years."

After a long chronicle of the bloody battles by which the Israelites conquered Canaan, the ancient historian records: "The land was at peace for righteousness shall yield peace for forty years."

Nixon's yearning for "a generation of peace" also is reflected in another verse he likes to quote, Judges 5:31.

London clergy ousted

LONDON (UPI) — Two married Anglican clergymen, one linked romantically with an 18-year-old choir girl and the other with his secretary, have been turned out of their parishes.

The Bishop of Liverpool, the Right Rev. Stewart Blanch, said Wednesday he has banned the Rev. Gordon Sissons, 37, from carrying out religious duties as curate at Holy Trinity Church in Formby in northern England.

The Very Rev. Eric Porter-Goff, provost of Portsmouth Cathedral, was unfrocked by his bishop Tuesday for "conduct unbecoming a clergyman" after a church enquiry into his relationship with his secretary, Dolores Estrella Lloyd, 41.

Miss Lloyd's 62-year-old mother Selina said the Rev. Porter-Goff, 69, was "absolutely crazy" about her daughter, who left home Wednesday.

The Rev. Sissons disappeared from his parish 13 days ago with Susan Feurdriner, an attractive member of the church choir.

The curate and his wife, Heather, 38, lived next door to the Feurdriner family.

Susan's father, Paul, said: "We had no idea there was anything between them. If we had known we would have tried to end it. All we want now is Susan back home."

"She just packed a bag and drove off," Mrs. Lloyd said.

Sight restored

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Eugene W. Phillips stumbled and fell from his porch, punctured his back with a stick and slammed his head against the ground. It was about the nicest thing that ever happened to him.

Phillips had been blind most of the past 46 years. The accident a week ago helped him to partially regain his eyesight.

"It was nothing short of a miracle," the 60-year-old former rodeo star said Thursday. "It had to come from the Lord. I just know it."

Phillips said he had been praying that he could have a second seeing-eye dog to replace one that was taken away, but "the Lord went me one better."

Phillips obtained a guide dog in February but had to return it when he fractured a hip and became unable to give the animal the proper exercise and training.

"My whole world fell apart when I lost Major," Phillips said. "I understood, but it didn't keep me from missing him."

colle, inadvertently played a role in the restoration of Phillips' sight.

"I was going to take Tippy outside for awhile," he said. "I was trying to hold the screen door open, close the inside door and keep hold of the dog's leash at the time."

"I got twisted up in the leash and lost my bearings, I guess, because I went off the side of the porch instead of where the steps are."

Neighbors summoned help and Phillips was taken to the hospital for removal of a stick that punctured his back in the fall.

"I woke up the other morning and thought I could see the walls of my room," Phillips said.

"I realized I was actually seeing the walls, so I looked out the window and saw a building across the street. I could see a sign on the building but I could not make out the letters on the sign."

Phillips left his room and walked to a friend's home. Along the way, he began looking at sights he had not seen for more than a decade.

Phillips talked with his physician and set up an appointment with an eye specialist. His regular doctor

Good old days

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Chief Magistrate Robert E. Dauer wasn't very sympathetic today when Charley Fraganpene, 46, asked for more time to pay a delinquency on $1,640 he owes the city in traffic fines. Dauer instructed Fraganpene to pay the $200 down payment today and $25 each week until the amount is paid or face another arrest for not paying the fines on the 110 tickets.

The 300 pound Fraganpene said he had meant to do something about the fines but times had changed.

"In the old days I could've gotten all these tickets fixed for $40," he said.

One is the climactic line from Jesus' famous parable about the Last Judgment. In that parable, Jesus says that men will be judged by God solely on the basis of how they respond in this life to the hunger, suffering and need of their fellow human beings.

The parable, in the 25th Chapter of Matthew's gospel, enumerates various acts of simple human kindness and, then, in the 40th verse which McGovern has on his wall, it quotes God as saying to men that "Whenever you did this (a kind deed) for one of the least important of your brothers, you did it for me."

McGovern also likes Jesus' saying recorded in Luke 9:24: "For the person who wants to save his own life will lose it; but the one who loses his life for my sake will save it."

Sun Valley panel

Idaho legislators discuss school problems at Sun Valley conclave

SUN VALLEY (UPI) — Problems of school financing and reorganization were aired at length Thursday by a panel of Idaho legislators — but little was accomplished in the way of solving the issues.

Earlier in the day two widely-recognized authorities on school financing warned Idaho educators that the decade of the 70s will see an upheaval in school funding.

The discussion among the legislators closed the first day session of the annual school administrators conference sponsored by the Idaho Department of Education.

Speaking on "state funding of public education in Idaho," panelists included Sen. John Barker, R-Tuffe, and Reps.

Vernon Ravenscroft, R-Tuffe; Ferd Koch, R-Boise and Robert Haakenson, D-Coeur d'Alene. Barker, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, said Idaho "must move in the next session of the legislature toward more state funding of schools if we are to avoid a court order forcing them to take some action."

He added Idaho education "is not really in a bad position, but we must do better."

Ravenscroft said he believed another bill providing for 100 per cent state funding would appear in the next session of the state legislature. A similar bill was defeated by the 1972 session of the lawmakers.

Haakenson told educators that Idaho "must solve its own problems and not let the court decide for us."

Earlier in the day Dr. Kern Alexander, University of Florida professor and director of the National Education Finance Project, said in light of several recent court decisions questioning the legality of local property taxes as the principal source of school financing that Idaho must look to alternative methods.

Dr. Russell Vlaanderen, Denver, director of research, education commission of the states, told the educators another option could be full state funding of local districts by means of a statewide property tax.

In reply to a question, Barker predicted a school reorganization bill similar to the one defeated last session will have a good chance of passing next winter. He also said he saw little chance of legislation appropriating state building fund money to local school districts.

Koch in answering a question, said "it might be possible to pass a five cent state sales tax bill," but that it would be "extremely difficult." He added, however, the state can no longer continue "to heap more burdens" on local property owners to finance education.

Friday's concluding session will feature talks and panel discussions on student rights and responsibilities.

Albion refutes loss of power

ALBION — Mayor ODeen K. Redman, Albion, said today an alleged loss of electrical power discussed by the City Council has been exaggerated and misconstrued by local news reports.

The City Council discussed data during its meeting this week indicating the city had purchased 56,000 kilowatt hours more electricity during January and February than had been billed to city customers.

Albion buys its power at a wholesale rate from the Bonneville Power Administration, then distributes the power at retail to city customers.

Redman said, "You simply can't tell anything from the figures of only two months. You would have to calculate the data for the entire year."

The discussion about the apparent power loss arose when a study of past due city accounts brought an informal check of purchases and sales for the two winter months. No formal audit of the books was made at the time, the mayor said.

"For one thing," Redman said, "we do not meter the power used in our city street lights or in our city pump, so you would have to figure that power in the unbilled portion."

In addition any power transmission involves routine "line losses" which can average up to five per cent of the power being transmitted, he said.

The mayor said today the city clerk is compiling a month by month tally of power purchased and sold in 1971.

"This may give us an idea of any problem which exists if there is a problem," Redman said.

Redman said there is no indication of any major loss of electrical power between purchase and sale and said local reports on "customer cheating" are far out of proportion.

"We have no indication of that at this time," the mayor said.

Bellevue seats new alderman

BELLEVUE — John Pascoe was sworn in as alderman during the Bellevue City Council meeting Thursday.

Pascoe will fill the seat vacated by Kenneth Wright, who died in a construction accident. The appointment will run until next spring.

In other action, Mayor James Pigg said as a result of the recently completed water project, pressure in the north end of town now ranges from 32 to 46 pounds. Pressure before the project was 18 to 20 pounds during peak usage, he said.

Under discussion was a proposal by Mayor Pigg to sell the old city park and use the funds for the new city park. Alderman Joe Bergin said he favored retaining the park along the Wood River both as a camping area and as access to the river. No action was taken.

Also discussed, but no action taken, was a salary increase for water and street Supt. Mitchell Lelo.

Filer club to honor sheepmen

FILER — The Filer Kiwanis Club will honor sheepmen at a dinner at 7 p.m. today in the United Methodist Church Fellowship hall.

The annual event precedes the ram sale, which starts at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Bill Heaps, Kiwanis Club president, will give the welcome and Ray Baker will serve as master of ceremonies. Cliff Hack and his band will play during the program hour.

Over 500 rams will go into the ring for inspection and sale at the 51st annual ram sale of the Idaho Wool Growers Association at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds in Filer. Col. Ellis White, Ontario, Ore., will be auctioneer. A noon lunch will be served by the Idaho Wool Growers Association Auxiliary.

After the sale is completed directors and trustees will hold an executive session to consider current problems of the sheep industry.

Kimberly now has no doctor

Dr. Knight's move will make Kimberly the second Magic Valley town without a practicing physician. Fairfield is still seeking a doctor to take the practice of Dr. Marion J. Kerns, forced into retirement by illness last fall.

Several doctors live in Kimberly but all practice in Twin Falls. Kimberly Mayor Von Nebeker said he hopes the town finds a new doctor soon. "We need one bad," he said. "We'll do everything we can to get one. There is plenty of business and he'll have a nice office."

He added that Dr. Knight's move is "a loss to a community. He is an outstanding man and a dear friend. We sure hate to lose him."

Dr. Knight has been a general practitioner in Kimberly since 1951. He was associated with Dr. Glen Hoss his first three years here until Dr. Hoss moved to Twin Falls.

Dr. Knight has been active in community affairs. He was on the Kimberly school board for nine years, 1960-69 and served as chairman eight of those years. For one year he was president of the chamber of commerce.

He is a member of the Idaho State Medical Association, American Medical Association and the American Academy of Family Practice, of which he was state president in 1965. His wife, Mary, was president of the ladies auxiliary of the ISMA the same year.

He is a member of the Kimberly Christian Church.

Dr. Knight graduated from the University of Maryland School of Medicine after undergraduate work at the University of Missouri and five years with the U. S. Army Medical Corps. He served an internship at Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, Ore.

Dr. and Mrs. Knight have two children. A daughter, Tanis, is a junior at Boise State College. Mac, their son, will be a freshman at Oregon State University.

Mac Knight said his father would like to stay in Kimberly. "I think he really hates to leave because all his life he's only wanted to be a home-town doctor. He wants to be with the people he knows but he has to leave because of his health."

Burley sets reception for visitors

BURLEY — The Japanese students visiting Magic Valley will be honored at 6 p.m. Sunday at a get-acquainted picnic at Salmon Park.

Persons planning to attend are asked to bring a salad or dessert and their own table service.

The students are Kazuko Murato, 15, who is residing with Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Begk and family; Yoshiko Shiozaki, 13, with Mr. and Mrs. Richard George; Teruyo Miura, 13, with Mr. and Mrs. Mas Kuwana, and the adult adviser is Mitsuaki Tashiro, 31, who is residing with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Honda family.

The visitors are here under a special Idaho 4-H exchange program.

All residents are invited to the picnic to meet the Japanese visitors, according to J. Wayne Cole, Cassia County agent.

Abolish job?

JEROME — The Jerome Chief of Police wants to abolish his own job.

But first, he says, he has to be elected Jerome County sheriff.

Howard Dubois, city police chief in Jerome, announced his write-in candidacy for county sheriff earlier this week on a platform of combining the work handled by the county and city forces.

He said several functions now performed separately, such as communications and record keeping, could be combined for greater efficiency and lower costs.

He said if the plan is approved, "We would leave the police chief's job open if the city is satisfied they can abolish the job or just leave it hanging. The thing to do is put all the eggs in one basket."

Dubois, one of nine men actively seeking election to the sheriff's post, said his plan would enable the combined forces to provide 24-hour protection to the county.

Gooding man held

GOODING — A Gooding man was scheduled for first appearance in magistrate court in Gooding today following an early morning incident outside the county courthouse.

Tom Grendle, 25, Gooding, was charged with reckless driving after police said he backed a pickup truck to the front door of the courthouse, a few feet from the magistrate's chambers, accelerated and left 50 feet of black tire marks on the sidewalk.

A Gooding police officer said today the officer on duty Thursday night, Larry Henslee, pulled his patrol car into Grendle's path, blocking his way.

Also charged in connection with the same incident were Carl Ashmead, 30, and Jim Murray, 25, both Gooding. They were charged with public drunkenness.

All of the men are in Gooding County Jail this morning in lieu of bond, according to a spokesman. First appearance was set for later today before Magistrate Charles Shaw.

Ketchum murder still probed

By RUTH MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Five years after the Ketchum "campground murder" investigators feel the possibility of solving it is promising.

Tim Qualls, captain of detectives of the Twin Falls Police Department, said today "leads have recently been furnished to the detective division which appear promising."

He, along with other members of the Twin Falls detective force, were called in as special investigators when Glen A. Copping, 38, Boise, was shot to death in his trailer house on Aug. 1, 1967, at the Boundary Campground which borders Sun Valley property.

Copping, his wife and son and a daughter, Glenda, then 14, were in the Ketchum area where he was employed on building construction.

The family had just moved its trailer into the Boundary Campground when a hooded assailant knocked at the door and asked Glenda for money. Her father ran to the door when Glenda screamed and the gunman pulled Copping outside, shooting him three times. Glenda was shot in the leg when she went outside.

The gunman got $7 in the course of the robbery and killing.

In the days after the murder, several persons were questioned as possible suspects, and the investigation has been quiet since then.

Capt. Qualls said the latest information, which he declined to specifically outline, was made available by Blaine County Sheriff Orville Drexler and Jack Parrott, who acts as special deputy for Jerome and Twin Falls counties.

It was Sheriff Drexler who originally called in the Twin Falls department to assist in processing the crime scene and in gathering evidence.

The account of the murder rated front page coverage in the Times-News from Aug. 2 through Aug. 8, 1967. When the investigation slowed public interest in the case lagged and it has been all but forgotten by most Magic Valley residents.

Capt. Qualls said, however, that investigation has never ceased in the five years since the murder.

"We have worked on it at different times since it happened and we feel that now we have come up with a possible answer," he said today.

He said the new information gathered by and made available to investigators is the "best since the murder occurred."

He declined to say if an arrest might be expected soon.

He said this will depend on how the information develops and how the new leads fit together with that evidence obtained five years ago.

"All I can say is that we are following all leads furnished" by Sheriff Drexler and Parrott, Capt. Qualls said.

Allin, a tiny, second-year pro who takes lessons from a mailman, had led the field all day after playing early.

Vacancy rate shows in survey

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls mail carriers conducted a postal vacancy survey this spring which revealed a two per cent vacancy rate.

The carriers in Twin Falls found a total of 9,466 possible deliveries to residences, apartments, and mobile homes. Of the total possible deliveries, 8,464 were residences with 150 vacant. The vacancy rate, one and eight tenths per cent, included 10 newly constructed units. The mail carriers also reported 86 residences under construction.

Among the 686 apartment units surveyed, two and five tenths per cent were reported vacant. There were 25 apartment units under construction on the survey date.

A total of 316 mobile homes were surveyed with a six per cent vacancy rate.

Open horse show set at SV Aug. 13

SUN VALLEY — Nineteen English and western equitation classes will be featured during an open horse show at the Sun Valley Horsemen's Center, Aug. 13.

Included on the program are pleasure and stock seat equitation classes for 13 years and under and 14 and over, hunt seat equitation and pleasure classes for 17 and under, and an open hunt seat class, clover leaf barrel racing, a trail class and a halter class.

Nine hunter and jumper classes, including grasshopper jumper, open jumper, junior working hunter, green working hunter, regular working hunter, working hunter hack and a grasshopper jumper class, are planned.

The fences will range in height from two feet to two feet, six inches for green jumpers; three feet to three feet, six inches for hunter and green hunters; three feet, six inches and up for the jumper classes.

Marcia Pierson, hunter and jumper instructor at the Horsemen's Center, has been named as steward of the show, with out-of-town judges to be selected.

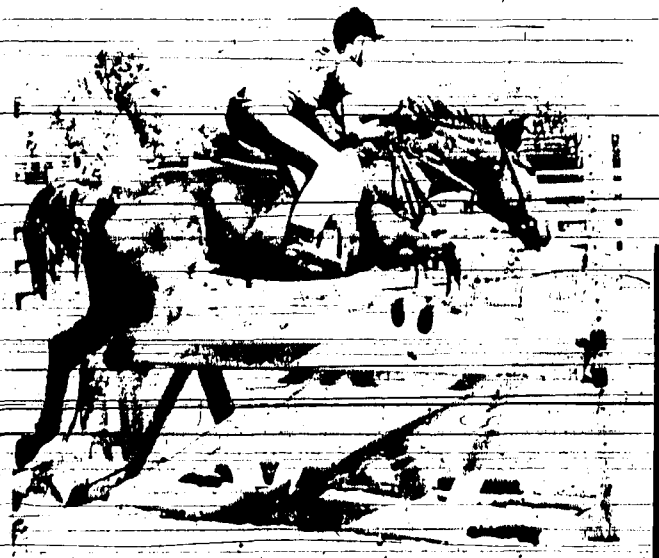

The show has earned the approval of the Idaho Hunter and Jumper Association and will follow American Horse Show Association rules in all classes.

"Our first show this year on July 3 was extremely successful," said Mrs. Sevy. "We are anticipating an even finer turnout for the upcoming event."

"By adding more classes to this show, we've been able to provide exhibitors with even more opportunities to show on the flat and over fences," said the show manager.

The show has grown from about 50 entries in its first show, three years ago, to over 200 participants last year.

Entry fees have been set at $4 per class, with trophies awarded for first place and ribbons for six places. Entries may be mailed to, or further information obtained from, Katie Sevy, Box 164, Sun Valley.

Candidates scored on ecological issues

BOISE—Democratic Senate candidates received the highest scores and Republicans George Hansen and James McClure the lowest in an evaluation of candidate views on environmental issues.

Rankings were based on responses to questions on 12 environmental issues. Questions were compiled and answers evaluated by representatives of the Idaho Wildlife Federation, Idaho Environmental Council, Trout Unlimited and the Sierra Club.

Jack Warwick, Boise, chairman for a June candidate symposium sponsored by the Sierra Club, said the maximum possible score was 100. He listed these results:

Senate Republicans: Glen Wegner 75, Robert E. Smylie 64, James McClure 27, George Hansen 24.

Senate Democrats: Rose Bowman 100, Tony Park 99, Byron Johnson 95, William E. (Bud) Davis 84.

First District Congress Republicans: Rober Purcell 57, Wayne Kidwell 49, Steve Symms didn't return a questionnaire. Democrat: Ed Williams 57.

Second District Congress Republican: Orval Hansen didn't return a questionnaire. Democrat: Willis Ludlow 87. Warwick explained that 10 points were possible for questions on nine issues, while one question was worth four points and two others three. He said candidates were marked down or given no credit for vague or equivocal answers.

Candidates were also rated by the audience at the June symposium on their oral answers to questions from a panel. Warwick said the audience rated them in this order: 1. Johnson 2. Bowman 3. Wegner 4. Smylie 5. Park 6. Kidwell 7. Williams 8. Purcell 9. Symms 10. George Hansen 11. McClure, Davis, Ludlow and Orval Hansen did not attend.
