POLICE SCUFFLE WITH striking dock workers at Kendby, England, Wednesday, as they fought 500 massed officers trying to protect non-union longshoremen unloading ships on pier. Twenty-two were arrested in violence linked to long British strike choking flow of food, goods into country. (UPI)

Airlift ordered to supply islands

LONDON (UPI)—The government today ordered military planes to mount an emergency airlift of food and other vital supplies to Britain's most northerly offshore islands.

head off threatened starvation in the Orkney and Shetland islands north of Scotland, which have been virtually isolated by a nationwide ports shutdown now in its 14th day.

Striking longshoremen refused to load even emergency supplies for the 34,000 islanders. The military airlift to the Orkney and Shetlands was the first time the government has used the emergency powers it took a week ago.

Senate OK's handgun law

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate has responded to the assassination attempt against Gov. George C. Wallace with a new firearms control bill aimed at cheap little guns called "Saturday night specials."

But, in three days of roll call votes that produced passage of the bill Wednesday, members affirmed the right of Americans to keep guns for protection and, once again, defeated overwhelmingly attempts to ban possession of handguns or require their registration with the government.

The new gun bill, sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., faces an uphill struggle in the House, and President Nixon's views on the measure are not known.

But it cleared the Senate with surprising ease on a 68 to 25 roll call vote preceded by a only a half-hearted attempt to dilute the measure.

Democratic presidential candidate George C. McGovern, who had voted against earlier gun registration and confiscation proposals, backed the Bayh bill.

The measure, if enacted, would remove an estimated 1 million small, cheap and inaccurate firearms from the American market, banning their sale by either manufacturers or dealers.

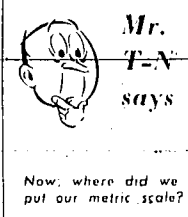

For the first time, standards would be set on what kind of guns could be sold in the United States with criteria enforced by the secretary of the treasury on length, weight, caliber and safety features.

Alert Don L. Deleski of Boise will be mailed $5 for his best tip of the week.

Deleski not only tipped the Times-News of the crash near Murtough of a spray-helicopter, but he took the excellent photo of the crash used on page 1 of Monday's paper.

Metric measure passes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has something in common with Barbados, Gambia, Ghana, Liberia, Muscat and Oman, Sierra Leone, Southern Yemen, Tonga, and Trinidad.

They are the only nations in the world who still are committed to using the old English system of measurements — inches, pounds and quarts.

The rest of the world—including Great Britain—either use the metric system of meters, kilograms and liters or are in the process of converting to it.

Wednesday, the Senate Commerce Committee took a step toward converting the United States to the metric system by approving a bill that would bring about a voluntary conversion over the next 10 years.

The federal government under the legislation would convert to metric measures, and industry would be encouraged to start the transition—spreading the change over a period of years to ease the expense.

The Commerce Department recommended the conversion last year following the completion of a three-year, $1 million study.

The metric system is handier because its units can be divided by decimals.

A meter is the equivalent to about 39 inches, a kilogram to 2.2 pounds, and a liter to 1.01 quarts.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., is the sponsor of the legislation that would create an 11-member board from business, education, labor, consumer protection and science to encourage industry to convert.

VC repeats demand for Saigon ouster

PARIS (UPI)—The Viet Cong, detailing for the first time its demands for a coalition regime in South Vietnam, said today the war will rage on and negotiations remain deadlocked until the Saigon government resigns.

Before the actual talks began the Hanoi delegation used statements by actress Jane Fonda, Sen. Edward Kennedy, former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark and U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim to back its claims that the United States was deliberately bombing dikes in North Vietnam.

Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, Chief Viet Cong negotiator, said

at the 154th session of the stalemated Vietnam Peace talks, "As long as that administration (of South Vietnam) exists, the war goes on and the negotiations remain deadlocked."

U.S. negotiator William J. Porter said the Communists refused to accept a cease-fire and then negotiate a political settlement proved their "obsessive pursuit" of a military victory in order to seize power in South Vietnam. He dismissed Hanoi's dike allegations as pure propaganda.

Madame Binh did not specify whether her word "deadlocked" applied to the backstage private talks between Hanoi's negotiators and U.S. Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger as well as to the weekly semipublic sessions on Kiebo Avenue. Today's session of the conference, despite recently expressed optimism of American officials, had the same atmosphere of angry charges and countercharges about alleged U.S. bombing of dikes that marked last Thursday's session.

North Vietnam told the deadlocked session that U.S. aircraft had attacked its irrigation dikes and dams 177 times, increasing the figure for 173 times that was used at last Thursday's stormy session.

Charlton new TF principal

TWIN FALLS — Frank Charlton, Buhl High School principal, was named principal at Twin Falls High School at a special board-of-trustees meeting Wednesday evening. Charlton succeeds John Lawrence, who had held the top job at Twin Falls High School for five years. Lawrence announced last week he was resigning to accept a position at the University of Idaho at Moscow.

Charlton's appointment is effective immediately, according to Twin Falls School Supt.

George Stauffer, but he will be several days familiarizing his successor in Buhl before coming to Twin Falls to take over his duties locally.

The special meeting of the board was convened for the sole purpose of affirming Charlton's appointment. Charlton had met with the board in executive session Tuesday night after a regular meeting, and apparently answered any questions the trustees might have had.

Holdback ordered

BOISE (UPI)—Gov. Cecil D. Andrus today ordered an across-the-board cutback in state spending to avoid what he said would have been the necessity for a tax increase to balance the state's budget.

As a result, the governor said he would not call a special session of the legislature, which he said could have resulted in a tax increase.

The holdback, calculated at 1.9 per cent by the executive budget department affects total agency allotments for the 1972-73 fiscal year, which began July 1.

Andrus said the holdback takes into consideration the $2.4 million carry-over from the 1971-72 fiscal year.

The governor said he made the cutback reluctantly because it will affect educational and health appropriations, which are "already under-funded."

Andrus said the people of Idaho have loudly and clearly expressed their opposition to a tax increase. He said the people's message is being heard in the state and resulted in the decrease of state expenditures.

Andrus had earlier said he was debating whether to call a special session of the legislature because what appeared to be a deficit in the present fiscal year budget. This was after he announced that the state auditor's figures showed there was a $2.4 million carry-over in expenses from the 1971-72 fiscal year.

House Speaker William J. Lanting, R-Hollister, said today he still feels "pretty strongly the legislature did not appropriate over the revenue" it raised to pay the bills.

He said the governor's announcement today was "his decision, I guess. I presume he thought it was necessary."

Heyburn sewage plant meet set

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News writer

HEYBURN — Federal, state and local environment officials will meet with Heyburn citizens Aug. 17 to discuss a proposed sewage treatment plant.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. that day at the Heyburn City Hall. The Environment Protection Agency has ordered the public meeting for local residents to express themselves on the proposed construction.

Representatives of the EPA and the Idaho Health Department will preside at the hearing at which any citizen wishing to make a statement will be heard.

A notice of the public hearing has been published here and the notice will be distributed to residents throughout the area.

Mayor Harold Hurst said a detailed statement of the proposal, outlining the three sites under consideration and discussion of all phases of the operation, is available at city hall.

The preferred site for the plant is 157 acres of land located about two miles northeast of Heyburn along the 400 West Road and a mile north of U.S. Interstate 80. The location would allow expansion of a wide area north of Heyburn and Burley without interfering with rural or urban growth.

The plant could also serve the rapidly growing area along the Burley-Paul highway and throughout that area, Hurst said.

As planned, only 40 acres of land would be required for the lagoons in the proposed facility, which would utilize the lagoon system now in operation in Burley.

The effluent would not be discharged into any existing stream or irrigation system, but would be disposed of through a sprinkler system.

The mayor said state and federal spokesmen will confer with city officials at 2 p.m. Thursday to go over the project in detail including estimated cost of construction and operation.

As presently envisioned, the project would cost in the neighborhood of $357,000, the mayor said. The lagoon system operation, compared to an activated sludge type system would save approximately $17,700 per year in operating costs.

Primary cost TF more than $10,000

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Tuesday's primary election cost Twin Falls County slightly over $10,000, but County Clerk Harold Lancaster said Wednesday it was a bargain.

Forty-eight voting precincts in the county were staffed with one judge and four voting clerks, each paid for approximately 13 hours at $1.50 an hour.

In addition, each of the senior judges, one for each precinct, received an extra $3 for the day's work.

Russell Wilcock, who assisted Lancaster in programming the county's voting tabulation machines, received an additional $430 for his work preceding the primary and during the day Tuesday.

With a total of $5,240 in labor expenses, Lancaster also estimated an additional $5,000 for printing, advertising, postage and other miscellaneous expenses.

The total for expenses and labor comes to roughly $10,240.

But Lancaster said if the county were still using a hand ballot system, the cost would be nearly $5,000 higher. That would be the result of more judges and clerks needed to supervise the voting.

The machines themselves represent an investment of nearly $180,000. Lancaster said the county purchased 102 of the machines for use in future elections.

The machines will be locked and stored in a county storage building after the county commissioners canvass the votes, Lancaster said. They will be programmed again this fall for the general election.

The major change will be to permit cross-party voting, while primary balloting was limited to within a single party.

Lancaster said he and Wilcock had attended a school in New York City conducted by the machine manufacturers, American Voting Machine, to learn programming, maintenance and repair. But that didn't cost the county any money, with all expenses paid by the company.

Nixon sends Wyoming boy greetings

By RICHARD J. SCHNEIDER
LOVELL, Wyo. (UPI)—Danny Blackburn, 10, looked at the green "get well" card with the picture of birds on it and broke out into a large smile.

"You know," he said, "it's not every day a kid like me gets a card from President
Nixon."

Danny, who is dying of brain cancer, received the presidential card in his hospital room.
The boy returned to his childhood home to die five days ago after doctors in Denver said there was nothing more they could do.

The youngster was at the family home in Lovell only a short while before his condition worsened and his father rushed him to North Big Horn Hospital.

Donald Blackburn said the card sent to his son by President Nixon raised the boy's spirits greatly.

"He was thrilled," Blackburn said. "That card really made his day. He's a Cub Scout you know—a good little American.

It was just wonderful."

The card had a written inscription, "with love and kindness to Danny from President
Nixon."

It carried the verse, "I hope you'll soon be feeling strong, with happy days in view. For only the good things in life belong to someone as nice as you."

Blackburn said his son's condition had improved slightly since entering the hospital, but "we have to pump his lungs constantly. They fill up with fluid."

Danny's case received nationwide publicity last weekend when an airline refused to fly him from Denver en route to his home in Wyoming. The airline cited federal regulations prohibiting the flying of persons needing auxiliary oxygen supplies.

Another airline later interpreted the rule differently and gave the boy a berth on one of its flights.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen.
George S. McGovern opened the first campaign trip in his bid to defeat President Nixon by going back today to where it all began for him six months ago
—a shoe factory in New Hampshire.

McGovern set out on a two-day trip that he described primarily as a "listening tour," but it bore all the trappings of a full campaign-style swing, the first of its kind since he captured the Democratic nomination at Miami Beach four weeks ago.

After the initial stop at a Manchester, N.H. shoe factory —where McGovern said his reception Feb. 18 convinced him he had a "chance in this state's March 7 primary"—he planned stops in Connecticut and Rhode Island before winding up in New York City Friday.

Hams recalled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hundreds of thousands of pounds of canned ham are being recalled by a Chicago packing company because samples were found to contain too much water, the Agriculture Department announced today.

There is no health danger to consumers in the hams, officials stressed.

But spokesmen said that while normally-labeled canned ham is allowed to contain not more than 8 per cent water picked up in the curing process, some hams produced by the Agar Food Products Co. at its Chicago plant had nearly twice that amount.

TF man gets appointment

TWIN FALLS — Steve Miller, Twin Falls, has accepted appointment to the Idaho Motorbike Recreational Fund Advisory Committee.

He is among six Idahoans named to the committee by the Idaho Parks and Recreation Board. The panel will administer the off-road motorcycle fund resulting from state registration of motorcycles and trail bikes.

Miller, motorcycle and accessory salesman for Pedersen's, Twin Falls, said the first meeting of the board is tentatively scheduled for early September in Boise. By then, he said, some information about registration of motorcycles and trail bikes and the amount of funds available should be compiled.

"The most important objective of the committee will be to try to eliminate some of the problems involving highly concentrated motorcycle use near urban areas, Miller said. Some of these include the South Hills, the Hagerman area and north of the Perrine Bridge.

Principal problems include inadequate facilities for the number of users, and providing more information to the public about areas for riding motorcycles and facilities available, he said.

The committee will work with the Idaho Parks Department, U.S. Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management in matters relating to cycle use.

The new Idaho law requiring registration of motorcycles and trail bikes — vehicles not licensed for street use — sets a fee of $3 for registration. Miller said $2.35 of that fee will go into a fund for use in helping to solve problems involving use of those machines.

Center goal nears

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Senior Citizens are three-fourths of the way to their goal of $2,000 for a down payment on a senior citizen center.

Mrs. Verna Waggoner, Filer, chairman of the Twin Falls Senior Citizens, said the center fund has reached the $1,500 mark.

"The fund raising campaign being conducted by the senior citizens of Twin Falls for a center has received general help from the community, business, Times-News and radio and television stations," Mrs. Waggoner said. "The senior citizens wish to thank these persons for their donations of time, services and money. We also wish to thank City Manager Jean Miller and Police Chief Frank Barnett for the use of the city-owned building and for their cooperation during the time of the garage sale."

Accident injures 2

TWIN FALLS — Two men were treated and released at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital following a one-car accident at 1:15 a.m. Wednesday 14 miles northeast of Twin Falls on Interstate 80.

Idaho State Police Officer Everett Waddell said Larry Bodenhamer, Boise, driver of the vehicle, apparently fell asleep. The car went off the road and hit a guard rail. The engine caught fire and Bodenhamer and his passenger, Michael Salsby, Meridian, extinguished the blaze. The blaze erupted again and the Eden Fire Department was called to the scene.

The two men were removed from the scene by ambulance.

Meany order ousted

DENVER (UPI)—The Colorado Labor Council has told AFL-CIO president George Meany it may not fall in line with his order not to endorse a presidential candidate this year.

The Committee on Political Action (COPA) of the Colorado AFL-CIO body endorsed Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern earlier this week, but received a telegram from Meany to rescind the action.

Herrick S. Roth, president of the Colorado Labor Council, said Wednesday he would not back down from the endorsement of McGovern without "a meeting of the entire state."

Roth said he was advising Meany that he would hold a statewide meeting of the labor group if the national union leader persisted in his demands.

"This time we will have the whole convention come in," Roth said. "We will make our own decision on it. The Colorado body should have the right to make the choice, and it shouldn't be dictated by George Meany."

"We say to Meany that we are more consistent about AFL-CIO policy, than Meany in this case."

TF speaker

Primary result reactions vary

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Democratic and Republican chairmen reacted with varying enthusiasm Wednesday to state and area primary results.

Douglas Kramer, county Republican chairman, said he was "delighted" with the statewide Republican primary vote, and said he was pleased Rep. James A. McClure was picked to run for the Senate in the fall general elections.

Locally, Kramer said, he was "extremely pleased" with the turnout. He called the Republican vote in Twin Falls County the "largest majority the Republicans have ever cast. I'm particularly delighted," the chairman said.

Kramer's Democratic counterpart, Vincent Smazal, called the Democratic turnout "about normal for a primary."

At the same time, Smazal announced plans to hold a fund raising banquet, probably early in September in Twin Falls, to assist local office seekers.

Smazal said he expects Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and Democratic senatorial candidate William F. (Bud) Davis to be present.

The banquet is a frank attempt to raise funds for the party, Smazal said, adding he hopes to attract 350-400 persons to the gathering.

Both parties must reorganize their precinct and legislative structures in the next 10 days, and both Smazal and Kramer said plans are prepared to call the meetings to accomplish the changes.

Smazal also said he expects the party will field four legislative candidates for the fall elections in the county.

In Tuesday's primary, only one Democrat, Eugene Strickland, Buhl, filed in the race. Strickland ran for the nomination for state senator in Legislative District 24.

Strickland will face incumbent Senator John M. Barker, R-Buhl, in November.

If the Democrats do succeed in fielding four candidates for legislative offices, two Republicans will run unopposed from the county's two Senate and four House races.

Richfield aides plan Monday meet

RICHFIELD — The Richfield City Council will meet at 8 p.m. Monday with city engineers to discuss changes in the cost of the city sewer system.

Engineers John Straubhar and Hugh Hedges of the JUB

Engineering firm, Twin Falls, met with the council Tuesday night and made a progress report on the sewer.

The time ran out before all business had been completed, necessitating another meeting.

Engineers reported the city has been unable to obtain access land for the sewer lagoons, from Don Freiberg, owner of the Riverwood Ranch south of Richfield.

Freiberg has refused to sell the city the land it needs to pipe sewage to the proposed lagoon site. The engineers reported they are working on necessary changes and presented them to the council.

There is a possibility that city-owned lands at the northeast corner of the airport may be used.

Wanda Paulson, secretary-treasurer of the Richfield Library District, met with the council to determine if the library district would have to pay for hookup to the new sewer system. She reported the cost would need to be budgeted in the next budget if this is necessary.

It was agreed that the library would be responsible for the hookup at a cost of about $200.

The library holds a 20-year lease on the building from the city.

Two area men charged

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Police took two men and one juvenile into custody Wednesday night for prowling near houses on Borah Street in the city.

Max Eichelberger, 18, Filer, and Michael D. Carlson, 18, Twin Falls, were both held in the county jail with bail set at $50 on a charge of disorderly conduct.

The juvenile was released to his parents' custody.

Top job at TFHS filled

There was no debate among the trustees, with the vote unanimous. Charlton will receive $13,500 a year in the job. Charlton was praised at the meeting by Staudacher, saying he came with the "best of recommendations."

Prior to coming to Buhl four years ago, Charlton, 45, worked in public schools in Ada County and Canyon County, as well as serving as the Meridian City Recreation Director.

He holds a B.A. degree from the Southern Idaho College of Education and an advanced degree from the College of Idaho. He also did graduate work at Idaho State University.

Aside from his duties as chief administrator at Buhl, Charlton has also worked as a counselor in Boise, and has taught physical education and business.

He is a former head football coach at both Meridian and Nampa high schools.

Lawrence's abrupt resignation a week ago had left the school district with less than a month to hire another principal and familiarize him with the school system locally before the opening of school later in August.

Staudacher had said earlier this week the district was looking in Twin Falls for a replacement for Lawrence, but was also looking at candidates elsewhere in the Magic Valley.

It is not known who, if any, other applicants being considered were, but the superintendent said he had had several inquiries about the job.

In the only other business conducted at the meeting the school trustees directed Staudacher to speed up a timetable to involve Twin Falls citizen groups in the ordering of priorities for a bond issue scheduled for this winter.

Architects studying the district's needs, as well as Staudacher, have suggested a list of priorities, but the final decision will be made by the trustees with the aid of the citizen groups involved.

Russ strategic advantage low

LONDON (UPI)—The risk of Russia achieving a strategic advantage over the United States through agreed nuclear arms curbs is "very low," a study published by the International Institute for Strategic Studies said today.

Verification by observation satellites and electronic reconnaissance systems has greatly reduced the possibility of cheating on a Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT), the study said.

"Therefore the risk of the Soviet Union achieving a strategic advantage as a result of a SALT treaty is a very low one."

The study, entitled "Reconnaissance, Surveillance and Arms Control," was drafted by Ted Greenwood, coeditor of the Pugwash publication "Impact of New Technologies on the Arms Race."

The ability to verify agreements affecting national security is a major factor and strongly influences bargaining positions, it said.

Man-caused fires on California's public land were reduced by 33 per cent in 1971.

McGovern Really Wanted Humphrey

WASHINGTON — Sen. George McGovern, "before turning to Sargent as his next choice, conducted a prolonged, intensive backstage campaign to recruit Sen. Hubert Humphrey for Vice President — a fact immensely revealing about the present state of the McGovern campaign.

Reports from his lieutenants that McGovern was simply going through the motions over breakfast on Capitol Hill when he offered a place on the ticket to Humphrey are simply not true. In fact, even before the dumping of Sen. Thomas Eagleton was completed, McGovern was plotting to replace him with Humphrey.

That Humphrey flatly refused is less important than the seriousness of the offer. By wooing Humphrey, McGovern was casting aside roseate theories of his advisers about a new Democratic constituency — and acknowledging, belatedly, the desperate need to repair the shattered Roosevelt coalition. McGovern also was saying his ideological differences with Humphrey, so paramount to McGovernite ideologues, are less important than winning an election.

When word of McGovern's interest in Humphrey leaked out — preceding Eagleton's removal from the ticket Monday, July 31, true-blue McGovernites — both staffers and early political supporters — were outraged and threatening to defect.

Their reaction was typified by New York City councilman Matt Troy, who as Queens Democratic leader was the only big city regular among McGovern's early supporters. When McGovern telephoned him Tuesday night, Aug. 1, Troy said his top choices were Lawrence F. O'Brien and Muskie but added he would go along with just about anybody else — anybody but Humphrey, that is. Humphrey is unacceptable, Troy flatly told McGovern.

But McGovern last week was talking less to McGovernites than to Senate colleagues and even to politicians who had opposed his nomination — such as Joe Crangle, New York Democratic state chairman. Although Crangle supported Muskie for the nomination, he telephoned McGovern urging him to select Humphrey. Much more than Muskie, according to Crangle, Humphrey would bring back anti-McGovern labor leaders and Jewish voters. By Aug. 2, McGovern had no doubt whatever. In an early morning conversation, one of his closest friends in the Senate recommended that he pick Muskie. No, replied McGovern, Humphrey would do more good. The Senator wound up agreeing with McGovern.

Through the week, McGovern was placing telephone calls to Humphreyite labor leaders and money men (including Minneapolis millionaire Dwayne Andreas) asking their help in trying to persuade Humphrey to run. They refused.

But there were others who tried to convince Humphrey — including Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who saw Humphrey personally to point out how helpful he would be to the Democratic party by becoming McGovern's running-mate.

Most active was McGovern himself. The celebrated Thursday morning breakfast was by no means his only face-to-face encounter with Humphrey. The two Senators met at least three times Wednesday, each time McGovern asking and Humphrey saying no.

Actually, Humphrey never even had the slightest intention of once again playing No. 2 man on a national ticket, requiring him this time to accept McGovern's antithetical views on national security.

The Failure

One of the most signal failures of government's efforts to help the poor, the Office of Economic Opportunity, has benefitted chiefly its army of bureaucrats.

Everybody is against poverty, to be sure, but the O.E.O. has more failures than successes and ought to go.

A current incident will tell you why. There are 67 New Jersey teenagers spending August touring Europe and Africa with most of their expenses being paid by the O.E.O. as a cultural enrichment program for the underprivileged.

Some New Jersey taxpayers, who helped foot the bill of some $60,000 and who themselves could not afford a vacation abroad, felt underprivileged when they learned of these junkets. The Director of the O.E.O. in New Jersey defended the trip by explaining that unless the $60,000 were expended by the end of the fiscal year, June 30, the money would have had to be returned to the government. That, of course, would never do from the Director's point of view.

It is possible that the 67 youths will gain greater understanding of the world in which they live and even be culturally enriched. It also is possible that they will note.

What is certain is that the taxpayers are not being enriched, culturally or otherwise, but this additional wasteful blot on the record of the Office of Economic Opportunity. There might be some future benefits if the taxpayers "wise up" to what is being done with their money and rise up to vote out of Congress some of the people who have been so liberal with it.

And what of the poor who stayed home? Surely $60,000 might have been better used for greater benefit than foreign travel.

This tour outranks in extravagance that notorious weekend at the Waldorf given to a welfare family by a New York welfare wastrel. Yet, even as President Nixon was urging Congress to hold the line on spending, a House-Senate committee was adding an extra $2 billion dollars to the budget for anti-poverty programs.

This same "credit card" Congress has shown no disposition to deal with welfare reforms.

Birthday Snafoo

Birthday parties usually are happy affairs, but they can be disasters if plans are not formulated until the last minute. If the United States really wants a 200th birthday celebration in 1976, it is going about it in entirely the wrong manner.

Although plans supposedly have been underway for several years to produce a meaningful occasion, the bureaucratic bungling, false starts and wrangling between various competitive government bodies threaten to abort any celebration on a national scale.

To top it off, the chairman of the American Revolutionary Bicentennial Commission, who also has been the center of controversy, nearly broke up a meeting of the Senate Judiciary subcommittee when he said bicentennial activities would cost about $5 billion (with a B) in public monies. That, said Chairman David J. Mahoney — perhaps after observing the expressions on the faces of the lawmakers — was just a "ballpark estimate."

It is past time to come down out of the bleachers and begin to play the bicentennial game in earnest. Even now it may no longer be possible to have a memorable birthday celebration unless the people somehow can grab the ball from the bureaucrats and run with it themselves.

ART BUCHWALD

A Big Search

WASHINGTON — It seems that last week Sen. George McGovern offered everyone the Vice Presidency. I became aware of this last Thursday when the taxi driver who takes me to work was late. "I'm sorry I was delayed. I just took George McGovern to his Senate office and he asked me to run with him on the Democratic ticket."

"He did?" "Yeah. But he was pretty honest about it. He said he had asked Sens. Kennedy, Ribicoff and Humphrey; Gov. Lucey of Wisconsin, Mayor Lindsay of New York, State Sen. Kalowitz of New Mexico, Alderman Hummer of Primrose, Vt.; City Councilman Rigley of Sam Hill, Idaho, Justice of the Peace Dumbottom of Long Fence, Montana, and 16 notary publics in Detroit. They all turned him down."

"What did you say when he asked you?" I inquired. "I told McGovern that ordinarily I would have been flattered, but I had heard through the grapevine that he had already offered the spot to his dry cleaner on MacArthur Blvd. I said I thought I should have been asked first."

"How did you know that for sure?" "Because the checkout man at the A&P near McGovern's home told me he had been asked before the dry cleaner." "Why didn't the A&P checkout man accept the Vice Presidency?" "He's fooling around with a customer, the wife of someone high in government, and he's afraid it would come out."

"It probably would," I agreed. "Do you know of anyone else the senator has talked to?" "I know he asked the manager of the Esso gasoline station on Massachusetts Ave. But the manager said he didn't want to give up his job because he was expecting a promotion to a much larger station on the Baltimore-Washington Expressway."

"That is higher than the original optimistic Alliance for Progress target. It's almost double the 1971 average growth rates of the developed countries. The case of Brazil is noteworthy. That country reached an average growth rate of 9.3 per cent from 1968 to 1970 and probably 11 to 11.5 per cent in 1971."

On the average, Latin American growth of late has been heavily in manufacturing, construction, electric power and transportation. By comparison, mining has been slow. Agricultural efficiency has lagged in many respects. Because farm productivity has increased at such a slow rate on the average (despite some sensational exceptions) and because South and Central American population growth has so rapid, agricultural output per capita has come up but one-half of one per cent a year-of-late, despite the rapid expansion of agricultural land in some countries and some very real U.S. assistance in increasing agricultural efficiency in some Latin lands."

Under those circumstances, it is most difficult to understand why we have not done better overall in exporting our agricultural know-how, an area in which the United States has considerable expertise. Rural poverty is great in wide areas of Latin America. The resultant despair is real. Many farm youths with no future have drifted to the cities, creating disease-ridden slums and untold misery.

This pool of hopelessness makes political stability next to impossible. It discourages democracy and breeds dictators. It has moved even nonfeudalist governments in Latin America to expropriate private property, both domestic and foreign.

In talking about food productivity gains, rice is the major exception. In country after country to the south there have been increases of 20, 25, 50 and even 100 per cent in the past decade. Rice yields in Peru, for example, approach those of the United States.

Major yield increases are possible in other crops. This has been accomplished with wheat in Mexico and in Brazil, with corn in Argentina, Chile, El Salvador and Jamaica, and with sorghum in Guatemala, Uruguay and Paraguay.

There gains demonstrate that this type of know-how is exportable despite differences in culture, agricultural traditions, soil and weather. The answer, of course, has been to help develop strains suited to local conditions.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Salmonella

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor tells me I have a germ called salmonella and has given me antibiotics for it, but it doesn't seem to clear up. Is it dangerous and can it be cured?

— Mrs. G. M.
Salmonella infection, at last getting some deserved publicity, is vastly more prevalent than people suppose, largely because it is passed off as "something I ate" or "intestinal flu" or some other such vague identity.

The germ is harbored in the intestinal tract and in the excreta, and is spread largely through food that has become contaminated, or by the fingers. Recent warnings about turtles as pets are an example of this. Turtles often carry the germ, and youngsters who play with the critters and then forget to wash their hands can easily be infected.

Other domestic animals (cats, dogs, cows, chickens, pigs) also can carry the germ. Salmonella is, indeed, a very common germ.

Salmonella also can multiply very rapidly, and a small contamination can become a flourishing one quite rapidly. It accounts for a great deal of the "food poisoning" at church or community dinners, on picnics, etc.

The symptoms are in the digestive tract — diarrhea, vomiting, abdominal cramps. They appear from one to several days after exposure.

Generally speaking, salmonella infection is more a nuisance than dangerous, but it can make life thoroughly miserable for a few days.

Antibiotics usually subdue it readily, but having it once doesn't protect you from having it again. If your case hasn't responded to treatment, I would suspect some source in your environment from which it keeps recurring. Cracked eggs, for example, are a possible source — the germs multiply with great rapidity in raw egg. But cooking destroys the germs, and that's why I am suspicious of raw eggs and want mine cooked.

Some individuals become chronic carriers of salmonella which I suppose could be the case with you. A more potent antibiotic may be necessary. I presume you have told your doctor that you don't seem to be throwing off the germ as readily as expected.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

MR. SPECTATOR

Looking Which Way?

Someone is way off base. The other day we went down to the license bureau to renew our driving license. Test wasn't difficult (we missed one but could argue on the answer which was "official") but then came the picture.

We were told to stand almost profile and to smile. Actually we didn't have much to smile about — but we did as the gal said — but we wondered more than just a passing thought as to why we were photographed profile. Reminded us of those pictures over on the wall of the post office.

Now we know the reason for the profile picture — but we also find that we really shouldn't have been photographed in that position.

The answer came from the Sheriff up at Salmon. In a story carried in another newspaper he reported he had received new instructions from the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement concerning driver license pictures. "All persons who get an operator or chauffeur license who have not reached their 19th birthday will have their pictures taken in profile position."

Those were the instructions he said he received. The sheriff said the profile picture for drivers under 19 apparently is an attempt to provide a check on a youth entering a bar.

Well, we really should be flattered. But we are just a shade over 19 and we never enter a bar. So why the profile picture?

The smile? Could be the gal had in mind we were laughing at ourselves because of how our profile would look! Anyway — we protest the profile treatment!!

BERRY'S WORLD at the Democratic Convention

Race raises good points

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The ungentlemanly race for the Republican nomination for sheriff is over, with Paul Corder, the five-year-veteran, an easy winner.

His election for November is as certain as anything ever is. He was elected, of course, not because he has accomplished great wonders in his five years on the bottom floor in the courthouse, but because after five years the courthouse is still standing.

That is not to belittle Corder's efforts at law enforcement, but as in most races, the losing challenger raised a number of points worth looking at after the mud has dried, turned to dust and settled in the county.

Opinion

The charge that the deputies are not receiving proper training is a difficult one to look at because it is a question of degree. Corder himself will admit there are some deputies not as well trained as others, because of normal turnover, and the county should see to it that each man receives every possible bit of training.

This is not so much to protect the citizenry, but to safeguard the deputies themselves from possible violence, or perhaps even lawsuits brought by prisoners they take into custody.

Corder's refusal to apply for federal training funds is almost myopic in 1972. Goodman was accurate when he said that if the federal authorities wanted to assume control of the Twin Falls sheriff's office they would — federal money or not.

Sheriff's offices and local police departments benefit from technology developed in Washington and elsewhere across the country, not in Twin Falls or Idaho.

The county commission is hoping to remodel the county jail with substantial federal aid, and the situation would fast become like owning your own furniture while someone else had the key to the front door of the house.

The most sensational charges leveled concerned those of alleged nepotism. Mrs. Corder prepares prisoner meals and that must stop, as the sheriff, county commissioners and everyone else agrees. Corder is apparently eager to vacate the courthouse residence he now inhabits, and that is a wise decision, too, probably.

But the county commissioners, while ridding themselves of one embarrassment, should be doubly certain they do not create another one. They should not be stampeded into letting a contract for meals that will benefit only the local establishment preparing them and the commissioners themselves by eliminating the problem.

The prisoners in Twin Falls County have rights — decent food, medical attention — as the sheriff and the commissioners are perfectly aware, and it should not be a novel idea that they are precisely the ones who must safeguard those rights.

The pity of Goodman's campaign, of course, is that he raised many of these questions, but for so many of the wrong reasons.

He charged, for example, that razor blades were handed to prisoners and not accounted for. But the reason he said it, apparently, was to point up a lack of security in the jailhouse. That may well be something the county commissioners want to look into, but they might also want to look into what happens to a prisoner's mind when he is in jail and holding a razor blade in his hand.

The issues have been raised by Goodman, and it remains to the winners of the campaign to see that they are properly explored. Not on fishing expeditions, as the attempt to summon a grand jury has become, but on a reasonable, dispassionate post-election basis.

If the commissioners themselves can't do it, perhaps they should look into appointing a committee of local citizens, including law enforcement officers, to do the leg work for them.

This must not be a witchhunt, since Corder proved at the polls Tuesday — the one place it counts — that he has the confidence and trust of the people of the county. But somewhere along the line, the county should know what its needs, strengths and shortcomings are, and few are giving any serious thought to that right now.

Boy injured

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — A 12-year-old Caldwell boy was injured Wednesday when he was grazed by a train and fell nearly 15 feet from a railroad trestle into the Boise river.

Officials at Caldwell Memorial Hospital said Mike Ross was walking home along some railroad tracks with his brother Robert, 15, when he apparently failed to hear an approaching locomotive. The engine grazed the youngster with enough force to knock him into the river. The older boy escaped injury.

Hospital officials said young Ross was listed in guarded condition Wednesday night with possible internal injuries.

Subpoena queried

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Internal Security Committee was called into closed session today to consider whether to subpoena actress Jane Fonda for questioning about her broadcasts beamed from Hanoi to U.S. troops in Southeast Asia.

Rep. Fletcher Thompson, R-Ga., who has described Miss Fonda as "Hanoi Hannah," asked the committee to reopen its investigation of possible subversive activities.

A close vote was expected in the nine-member committee.

Welfare mothers march

BOISE (UPI) — Fifty welfare mothers and their children marched peacefully in front of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' residence Wednesday night to protest an 11 per cent cut in aid to dependent children.

The governor was in Denver, Colo., however, at a meeting of the Federation of Rocky Mountain States.

The mothers, led by Mrs. Linda Olozia of Boise, a spokeswoman for the Idaho Welfare Rights Organization, are protesting the reduction in payment to dependent children effective Oct. 1.

She said only the governor has the power to stop the payment cuts.

Pickets carried signs reading "Governor Andrus, what did your children have for breakfast this morning?" and "Will your children go to school this fall with adequate clothing and books? 16,000 Idaho children will not."

Mrs. Olozia said welfare recipients in Idaho had been receiving only 90 per cent of 1969 level payments before the 11 per cent cut was made. The cut, she added, will result in further problems of trying to pay living expenses.

Sadat calls session

CAIRO (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat has called for an emergency session of parliament next Tuesday and recalled his ambassador to Moscow for consultations on the state of Egyptian-Soviet relations, political sources said today.

Ambassador Yehia Abdel Kader will return to Cairo Friday, the sources said.

Most auto fires are caused by short circuits in the electrical system, according to the National Automobile Club.

"We're peaceful mothers—kids are entitled to just as begging for help for the child—much help as the governor's dren," Mrs. Olozia said. "Our children."

Uncounted ballots won't change vote

BOISE (UPI) — Secretary of State Pete T. Conarrusa said Wednesday 1,655 uncounted "computer reject" ballots cast in Ada County during Tuesday's primary would not change election results.

Of that total, Conarrusa said, approximately 1,000 were ballots cast only for Supreme Court justices who ran unopposed on the non-partisan ticket.

He said voters apparently failed to punch out their party affiliation as required in the new voting system, and the computer rejected them when counted. The secretary of state said Ada County Clerk Clarence Planting would meet with state computer center officials about the feasibility of running the ballots through the computer for a final tally.

"Because of the percentage data we have now," Conarrusa said, "it's quite evident they will not change the races."

"But of course we want to make certain the outcome will not be different than it already is," he added.

Pileup injures 10 near Marsing

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — Ten persons were injured Wednesday night, two critically, in a nine-car pileup on Interstate 80 west of the Marsing exit.

Idaho State Police said the mishap began when two cars collided after gusty winds blew dust and sand across the freeway, causing limited visibility. The two vehicles burst into flames, but both drivers managed to escape uninjured.

Seven other vehicles, including a school bus and a truck carrying highly flammable fuel, smashed into the burning wreckage, causing ten injuries.

Two persons were taken to Caldwell Memorial Hospital, police said, and eight others were rushed to Nampa Mercy Hospital where two were reported under intensive care in critical condition.

Police did not release the victims' names, pending further investigation.

Pledges support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho's senior congressional member, retiring Sen. Len B. Jordan, has pledged "full support" for Republican Senate primary winner James A. McClure. Jordan telegraphed "warmest congratulations" and called the congressman's win "an impressive victory."

FBI chief wants more agents

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Predicting a resurgence of kidnappings in the wake of the hijacking craze, acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III said today he may have to ask Congress for supplemental funds to beef up his force of nearly 9,000 agents.

Gray said in an interview he would justify the need for more agents because of "the increased amount of crime occurring in certain areas which require instant diversion of agents." He listed hijacking, kidnapping, bank robberies and bombings.

"I don't have that many agents to work with when you consider all I have to do," Gray said, mentioning the recent hijacking to Algeria and the record $1 million ransom paid kidnappers of the wife of a Minneapolis financier as cases which required instant assignment of many agents.

"We just had another a few hours ago," Gray said, punching a button on the huge console beside his desk to check the facts in the most recent kidnapping of the son of a wealthy Visalia, Calif., rancher.

"I think we're going to see more kidnappings stem from the hijacking of aircraft," Gray predicted. "It's really an outgrowth of air piracy cases. Others are beginning to see how easy money is to take and they sell to themselves. We'll jolly well take someone and ask for ransom."

Gray did not say how many more agents he might request. The late J. Edgar Hoover, whom Gray succeeded last May 3, did not request any more staff when he made his annual appearance before the House Appropriations Committee.

Passage asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House asked the Senate Wednesday to approve the U.S.-Soviet agreement limiting offensive nuclear weapons before it recesses next week for the Republican National Convention.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said the President supported the controversial amendment to the agreement offered by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Jurors excused

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The jury in the Pentagon Papers case against Daniel Ellsberg was excused today until October pending a Supreme Court ruling on a side issue of government wire tapping.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne advised the eight women and four men who had been sworn in three weeks ago, that legal matters not connected with the merits of the case against Ellsberg and co-defendant Anthony Russo still had to be resolved by the appellate courts.

Byrne told them they were free to leave the area but they must still consider themselves jurors and be prepared to return to court probably sometime in mid-October.

South Viets capture bridgehead

By ARTHUR INGREE
SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese marines captured the Highway 1 bridgehead—a mile south of the Quang Tri Citadel today, military sources said.
A marine battalion 500 strong climbed out of its foxholes near the Communist-held provincial capital 435 miles north of Saigon and charged behind a screen of artillery fire, UPI correspondent Alan Dawson reported.
South of the city, the Saigon command rushed hundreds of government reinforcements to the old imperial capital of Hue for a feared Communist assault. And military sources in neighboring Cambodia said the current North Vietnamese drive southeast of Phnom Penh posed a direct threat to the capital.
Though the bridge at Quang Tri is destroyed, seizure of the bridgehead gives the marines control of an infiltration route across sandbars south of the span—and up secondary Road 550 which runs along the east bank of the Tach Han River.
The marines pushed west about 300 yards to seize the bridgehead, their furthest advance in a week.
Dawson said 387 artillery and mortar shells struck marine positions within 800 yards of the citadel from 1 a.m. to 11 a.m. today. Casualties were "light," military spokesmen said.
Quang Tri City's northern, eastern and southern edges now are held by the marines. But North Vietnamese troops hold the heart of the city including the walled Citadel and the western edge all the way to the river. The city fell to the Communists May 1. A 20,000-man government force began an operation to retake it June 28.
Two days ago U.S. jets using "smart bombs" put a "substantial hole" in the northwest corner of the Citadel, military sources said.

Cheyenne program killed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After spending $401 million in six years for an antitank helicopter that never became flight-worthy, the Army has killed the Cheyenne program.

"In burying it I hope they'll put a Marine guard at the grave," said Rep. Otis Pike, D-N.Y., a long-time critic of the program.

The Army revealed Cheyenne's demise to a House-Senate conference meeting Wednesday on the annual weapons authorization for the Pentagon. The conferees in reconciling House and Senate bills were trying to determine how much to spend on Cheyenne this fiscal year.

Department of Army officials notified the conferees that Cheyenne was finished, but asked $40 million to begin a new program.

Pike, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, was told of the Army's decision by an unidentified committee member who was one of the conferees.

Cancellation of the contract could cost as many as 600 jobs at Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in Burbank, Calif., according to Rep. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Calif.

Lockheed started work March, 1966, on a craft designed to be a highspeed, heavily armed antitank helicopter primarily for use in Europe.

'Uncooperative'

UPPER MERLBORO, Md. (UPI)—Arthur H. Bremer, sentenced to 63 years imprisonment for trying to assassinate Alabama Gov. George O. Wallace, is refusing to cooperate with prison psychiatrists.

When a Prince Georges County jury found Bremer guilty last Friday, it also ruled him sane. But he was ordered by Judge Ralph W. Powers to undergo psychiatric evaluation.

Robert Grams, a Maryland state correctional spokesman, said Wednesday that Bremer was "not cooperating 100 per cent" with his psychiatrists.

"He has refused several attempts at some of the tests so far," Grams said.

Bremer's attorney, Benjamin Lipsitz, has asked the Prince Georges County Circuit Court for a new trial. In motions filed with the court Tuesday, Lipsitz said the guilty verdict and sanity ruling were not substantiated by evidence.

Lipsitz also said at least one juror had seen a CBS television film of the May 15 shooting before it was shown in the court.

Teens chased in Belfast

BY COLIN BAKER

BELFAST (UPI)—Soldiers chased the last gangs of teenagers from the streets of the Roman Catholic Andersonstown district early today after a hand-to-hand battle around the neighborhood's social center.

The fighting began Wednesday night as Catholics in the area tried to march to the Roger Casement football stadium. It was the second battle in four days around the park, which troops occupied when they moved into Catholic strongholds two weeks ago.

Across the city in the Catholic Ardoyne district, soldiers arrested one of the Belfast leaders of the Provisional Irish Republican Army (IRA), Martin Meehan, eight months after he escaped from the city's Crumlin Road Jail.

Catholics stoned army and police posts across Northern Ireland Wednesday to mark the one-year anniversary of the introduction of internment without trial for suspected IRA leaders.

Only in Andersonstown, scene of fierce rioting Sunday, did the violence threaten to get out of hand.

A crowd of 1,500 Catholics, many of them teenagers, marched through the Falls Road district shouting "Give us back our country."

As they came within a quarter mile of the ball park, whose club and bar is a social headquarters for the neighborhood, they ran into barbed wire barriades and lines of troops and armored cars.

They charged, brandishing broken bottles and hurling stones. Army riot squads with shields and truncheons took the first shock of the assault.

Summer price peak for beef may be past, USDA reports

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government reports on wholesale beef prices appear to indicate the summer peak may have passed, with potential price relief looming somewhere ahead for consumers.

But live cattle, wholesale beef and retail prices, all were expected to remain above last year's levels. And Agriculture Department economists today were still cautiously avoiding flat statements about the trend in cattle and wholesale prices which set in about a month ago.

A weekly department report on wholesale beef showed prices at Chicago declined for four consecutive weeks after reaching a record high of 60.58 cents a pound in the week ending July 8. In succeeding weeks, the price average for 600-700 pound choice steer carcasses in carlots) slid to 58.95 cents, 57.75 cents, 57.70 cents and then to 56.60 cents for the week ending Aug. 5. The Aug. 5 average was the lowest reported since the end of May.

This wholesale trend appeared to confirm earlier forecasts that rising cattle production — foreshadowed by reports showing an increase over last year in the number of cattle in feedlots — would put a damper on prices.

One recent department report predicted that cattle prices "may ease some in coming months but remain above a year earlier." Other reports had been saying the increased beef supplies "should moderate red meat price increases" by helping to offset a decline from 1971 pork output levels.

A department specialist cautioned today, however, that the four-week slide in wholesale beef prices appeared to have been based largely on the expectation of a coming bulge in cattle slaughter, not on the reality of an increase actually in hand. Slaughter figures in recent weeks had been running below year-ago levels, the expert pointed out.

"The whole industry believes the cattle are out there and ready to come," the expert said. But he added prices still could bounce up and down until the expected supply bulge is confirmed by higher slaughter figures.

Wholesale beef prices this year so far have hit two separate peaks, with the second higher than the first. The weekly Chicago average rose through last winter to a high of 60.58 cents in February, then fell to 52.90 cents a pound in early April. From there, the average climbed to the second peak of 60.58 cents in early July before the latest downturn to 56.60 cents in early August set in.

Sheep experiment results

MOSCOW — University of Idaho scientists found few significant advantages in using crossbred rather than purebred whiteface ewes for breeding market lambs, according to Professor T. Donald Bell, animal scientist, University of Idaho.

Reporting on a long-term study with Idaho Agricultural Experiment Station sheep, Bell said crossbreeding produced significantly more pounds of wool, but no increase in reproduction rate or size of lambs. Certain crosses did produce slightly better carcass quality.

The study, directed by Bell and C. W. Hodgson, associate animal scientist, University of Idaho, was set up to determine if crosses would show continuous hybrid vigor and increased lamb and wool production when compared to purebreds. The present common market practice is to breed purebred whiteface ewes to blackface rams.

Wood price lids scored

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A University of California economics professor said Tuesday the government should abolish price controls in the lumber industry because they haven't worked.

"Continuation of price controls in a highly competitive industry such as lumber and plywood is a mistake," said Walter J. Mead, of the UC Santa Barbara campus. "I see no benefit from this continued control in this area accruing to consumers."

Mead testified at a Price Commission hearing on ways to improve the lumber industry price control system.

Mead asserted that the "lumber industry is a classic textbook illustration of a nearly perfectly competitive industry. The price of lumber is determined in the market place by the interaction of supply and demand."

"No producer, not even Weyerhaeuser Co., can control lumber prices," he said.

"If any producer should decide to raise his price say 10 per cent above the market price, he would sell very little lumber. If all the largest producers tried to get together and raise prices by restricting output, other firms would take advantage of this attempted conspiracy and expand output.

"Price conspiracy is unworkable in a highly competitive industry."

Supporting Mead's thesis that the major companies could not affect industry prices significantly were representatives of several firms.

"High prices are a result of demand arising from all-time high in housing starts," said S. J. King, Tacoma, Wash., associate general counsel for Weyerhaeuser Co.

Representatives of Weyerhaeuser, Georgia Pacific and Boise Cascade Corp., also said that the lumber pricing problems arose as a result of exemption earlier of small operators from controls. "Small operators were recently brought under control."

Ted W. Coulborn, vice president of GP, forecast that his firm may have to lower some lumber of plywood prices which will then be "even further below market prices." He said that the company had reached the ceiling permitted under the term limit pricing agreement for plywood and for about four-fifths of its lumber products.

Stephen B. Moser, Yakima, Wash., senior vice president of Boise Cascade, said that in the second quarter of this year his firm's prices averaged 2.0 per cent below the base price.

Commissioner Robert L. Lamzaletti, chairman of the hearing panel, said that no change in the term limit pricing agreement was anticipated.

Control effects lauded

BOISE (UPI) — Officials of the Department of Environmental Protection and Health say Idaho has reduced both air and water pollution levels in recent years.

Dr. Lee Stokes, chief of water pollution control, said Idaho's record is better than a national level which shows water pollution has risen.

"We have made substantial gains in both air and water," Stokes said.

He said the organic load discharged into Idaho waters from industry probably has been reduced by 75 per cent in the past few years.

Snake River pollution, he said, has been reduced dramatically during the past 10 years because of treatment of wastes from sugar beet and potato processing plants.

Al Eiguren, assistant administrator for environmental protection, said air pollution from industry has been reduced at all industrial centers in Idaho.

Silver

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman Wednesday quoted silver at 179.1 cents per fine ounce down 1.4 cents.

"The Twin Falls Manpower Review," published by the state agency and prepared by local analyst Ken Hodge, reports a record 21,970 people in the labor force in the county.

"The trend toward growth in all areas of the labor force was experienced in increased employment, more job seekers and increased seasonal workers who will eventually leave the area," the report notes.

Agricultural employment and non-agricultural job openings both increased by about 550 workers during June.

But unemployment figures showed nearly a one percentage point jump, from 3.7 per cent in May to 4.6 per cent in June.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to a Navy man for three years. We have a darling baby. I thought we had a good marriage until last week when I flew home to see my parents in West Virginia. I sat next to a pretty blonde girl on the plane and we started talking. She told me her fiancé was on "the ship" and she named the ship. That was the ship my husband was on. Then she showed me his picture and I nearly fainted.

Her "fiance" was MY husband! I couldn't contain my amazement, so I told her. Then it was her turn to nearly faint. The poor kid started to shake and cry and I had to calm her down. We spent the rest of the flight comparing notes. Abby, my husband was such a clever liar. He had this girl friend for over a year and I never suspected a thing.

'Wife finds out—
Husband's engaged!'

The girl said she would never see my husband again and I believe her. I'm not sure how to handle this. I still love him, and there's the baby to consider. What should I do? I don't think I could ever trust him again.

HURT IN SEATTLE

DEAR HURT: Tell him you know about the "fiancee" and ask him if he's ready to settle down and be a proper husband and father. One swallow doesn't make a summer, and one escapee doesn't ruin a marriage forever. Give him another chance, and don't mention it again.

DEAR ABBY: I have heard that it is considered bad manners to tip the owner of the shop even if she has done your hair, so I never do. But how about when you aren't sure if the hairdresser is a manager or if she is in on the profits? I once asked, "Do you accept tips," and the girl turned red and sputtered around and I didn't know what to do.

Another time, when I tried to tip a hairdresser (a man) and he raised his eyebrows and arrogantly said, "Puh-lease, I own this shop!"

I never know what to do. Help?

IN DOUBT

DEAR IN: When in doubt, offer a tip. For every "puh-lease," you'll get 100 "thank you's."

DEAR ABBY: We are three couples who enjoy going out for dinner together. When we go to a restaurant, we always divide the check up into thirds and it has always worked out fine.

Lately, however, this one couple seems to go overboard, fancy desserts, and more expensive dinners than the rest of us. We like this couple a lot and don't want to lose their friendship over this; but we don't like the extra expense.

Any suggestions?

X Y AND Z

DEAR X Y AND Z: When you order, ask for separate checks. Your friendship will last longer if you eliminate the cause of resentment.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO SWINGER IN LOUISVILLE": Tell your husband that you are no swinger and you didn't marry him to play musical beds. If he thinks "swinging" with a variety of different partners can "save" a marriage, he's mistaken. I can't think of anything that could kill it quicker.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 60760, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Burley hotels

Nobody home at hotels in Burley

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News writer

BURLEY — The hotels vary widely in attractiveness and decor but nobody seems to be home.

However, in at least one, the lease has been terminated according to the agent for the owner.

The three Burley hotels, the Lee Rooms, Central Hotel and Pine Hotel, have been named as bordellos by Cassia County Prosecutor Gordon Nielson, who served cease and desist orders on Monday.

Today all is quiet. The managers are apparently going about their business of running run-of-the-mill hotels, but the managers don't answer their doorbells.

At the Lee Hotel near the bus depot on Oakley Avenue, the shining metallic door greets the would-be guest on the street. Inside, a stairwell of 20 steps leads upward to a polished wood door on the second floor landing. A large speaksy-type window in the door containing what is apparently one-way glass, barred with wrought-iron grill, allows those on the inside to see who is calling.

On the landing the visitor sees only the reflection of himself in the glass.

Polished wood paneling lines the stairwell. There is nothing else to see other than a window. Overlooking the alley on the outside.

A doorbell at the single door on the landing brought no response.

The Central Hotel with two entrances, one on West Main near the corner of Overland Avenue and the other around the corner on Overland, is a more typical small town hotel in appearance.

A lengthy stairwell again leads to the manager's apartment on the second floor while several grimy doors lead off the second-floor landing.

Nobody answers that bell, either.

The Pine Hotel, with a small door leading off of West Main near Oakley Avenue presents a similar appearance — a stair to the second floor and the usual manager's door upstairs.

The registered owners of the hotel, according to the Cassia County assessor's office, include Kay Martin, Burley, Lee Hotel; Shelby Enterprises, Twin Falls, Inc., the Pine, and Kules Lowe estate and Carol Lowe Sittling, Burley, Central Hotel.

Burley accountant Don Westfall, agent for the Lowe estate, said Tuesday the Central Hotel had been leased, then subleased "without my knowledge" to an unknown agency.

His only contract was with a person identified as Lawrence Judd, no address listed.

Westfall said the lessee has asked that the lease be terminated after he received the cease and desist order.

Kay Martin, owner of the Lee Hotel, could not be reached Wednesday.

Joe Shelby, Twin Falls, Enterprises, Inc., denied knowledge of any impropriety at the Pine Hotel. He said he did not know who was managing the hotel.

Gooding rodeo queen crowned

GOODING — Martene Varin, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Varin, Gooding, was crowned Wednesday night Gooding County Fair and Rodeo Queen.

She was also the Gooding County Sheriff's Posse queen and reigned as the Idaho State Posse Association queen.

Miss Varin will graduate next spring from Boise State College in medical records technology. Miss Congeniality and first-runner-up was Ann Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Harvey, Twin Falls. She was the 1970 Twin Falls Sheriff's Posse queen, and will be a junior at Idaho State University, Pocatello, majoring in nursing.

Nancy Pierson, 17, was chosen junior princess. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Pierson, Gooding. First runner-up for junior princess was Laura Bray, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Bray, Bliss.

River basin study said at stalemate

HAILEY — The Army Corps of Engineers' study of the Wood River Basin reached a stalemate Wednesday night.

During a public workshop on the study, Roy Hoyt, Walla Walla, Wash., who represented the Corps, said four levee systems along the upper Big Wood River may prove to be feasible.

However, Hoyt said that further study of the levees could not be conducted without a written request by municipal officials adjacent to the area involved. No such officials were present at the meeting.

The levee systems under consideration included a streambank levee for the Ketchum area, either a streambank or offset levee for the Hailey area and a streambank levee for lower Warm Springs Creek.

Ruled out by benefit-cost ratios were levee systems for the following reaches: Eagle Creek to Ketchum, Ketchum to Hailey, Hailey to Bellevue, Bellevue to Magic Reservoir, and Warm Springs Creek upstream from the Calico development.

Also ruled out at this time were four studied multi-purpose reservoir plans for Warm Springs, Trail Creek, East Fork and Boulder Flats.

Rupert councilmen hold special meet

RUPERT — A special meeting to determine if new garbage collection ordinances were effective was held Tuesday evening by the Rupert City Council.

Councilman Clark Cameron said people within the city were not cooperating with the city in the garbage collection regulations. Sanitation director, Banjo Leoni, said, in his opinion only 15 to 20 per cent of the residents were not complying.

The ordinance states glass clippings must be put in some sort of container and that tree limbs and other sticks must be cut in five-foot lengths and bound.

The regulations will be notified by mail by the city. A person will be hired by the city to contact those who still refuse to comply with the ordinance.

It was noted that the new system of collection which makes use of a compactor is more economical and less time consuming than the old flatbed truck method.

The council appointed Mrs. Ruth Reynolds, Mrs. Claude H. Bowman, Mrs. Claude E. Bowman, Mrs. Ruby Gilmore and Mrs. Irene Thompson, to the library board.

Council members decided to install a second pipe line on H Street to check the sump problem in that area.

MV funding announced

FAIRFIELD — The Prairie Power Cooperative in Fairfield has been approved for a $54,000 loan from the Rural Electrification Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Rep. Orval Hansen said the funds will be used to finance system improvements, including seven miles of distribution lines to serve 30 consumers.

Hansen also announced today the Environmental Protection Agency has awarded a $66,000 sewer construction grant to Stanley.

Construction will include a lift station, interceptors and non-overflow waste stabilization lagoons.

Buhl now lacking principal

BUHL — A week ago, it was Twin Falls.

Now Buhl finds itself without a principal for its high school with less than a month to go before the first class bell rings.

When John Lawrence resigned at Twin Falls High School a week ago, the district had less than a month to find a replacement. They found one — with the announcement made Wednesday night — in Frank Charlton, 45, Buhl High School principal.

Buhl school Supt. Dan Mabe today said Charlton was a "very successful principal" in Buhl, and wished him well in his new position.

But the suddenness of the switch leaves Buhl with less than three weeks to find a replacement of its own.

"I'd like to fill the vacancy right away," Mabe said, "but there are no applicants." He said, however, that he had talked with one person about the position.

Charlton gave his verbal resignation to Mabe Wednesday morning. The superintendent said, "It really left us in a bind, just as Twin Falls was a week ago."

Ecology meetings set

TWIN FALLS — U. S. Forest Service specialists will discuss the ecology of the Sawtooth National Recreation Area and adjacent lands in a series of public meetings.

The public reports will start Aug. 28 in Twin Falls. Information gathered in over two years of intensive study of the Sawtooth Mountains, White Cloud Peaks, Boulder and Pioneer Mountains and adjacent valley lands will be presented, according to Ed Fournier, supervisor of the Sawtooth National Forest, and Richard Benjamin, Challis National Forest supervisor.

The area studied includes all of the 754,000-acre proposed Sawtooth National Recreation Area plus about 800,000 additional acres in the Wood River, Lost River and east fork of Salmon River drainages.

Collection of data was the first phase of a two-phase process. Inventories of soil, vegetation, water, scenery, land forms, pristine conditions, habitat for fish and animal life, interpretive features and other items have been completed by the forest service with help from cooperating agencies and individuals.

Phase 2 involves decision-making and the preparation of land use plans, outlining objectives and major policies for future use of the areas.

Heyburn buys city equipment

HEYBURN — The Heyburn City Council purchased a road grader and back hoe for city use during Wednesday night's council meeting.

The council accepted a bid from Doyle Sliagar, Heyburn, to supply a used grader for $12,500. City Council members have inspected the unit, they said, and told Mayor Harold Hurst they thought it was worth the cost.

The council also accepted a bid from C.R. Equipment Co., Paul, to furnish a Case model backhoe at $15,495, with a trade in of present equipment which would reduce the net cost to the city to $6,296.47. Two other bids were received from Elliott's Inc., Burley, for $8,600 and $6,900, when trades were considered.

In other business Hurst told the council the new city dog catcher, Mike Cahoon, hired recently by the police chief, had picked up several stray dogs and is bringing the dog problem under control.

Two incidents that occurred recently were misunderstood by a number of citizens, the mayor said.

but an investigation indicated that the dog catcher was justified in his action.

In one incident, a stray dog had to be destroyed when he proved too sick to handle, Hurst said.

In the other incident a stray which had been sought by Cahoon for several nights during trash can forays attracted the interest of citizens in the neighborhood. A youngster chased him down and wounded him with a shotgun and Cahoon had to destroy the animal, Hurst said.

New "pictograph" caution signs will be ordered to warn motorists in the vicinity of the Heyburn elementary school, replacing the present school zone signs in line with a nationwide changeover to a unified sign code, the mayor said.

The new signs use drawings of children in place of words to warn motorists that the school is nearby. The signs hopefully can be put up for the opening of school if they arrive in time, the mayor said.

Seven meetings have been scheduled to acquaint the public with results of the studies. They will be held in Twin Falls, Aug. 28; Ketchum, Aug. 29; Challis, Aug. 30; Idaho Falls, Sept. 5; Pocatello, Sept. 6; Boise, Sept. 7; and Moscow, Sept. 8.

Findings will be summarized at the meetings by Kermit Larson, soils scientist; Dr. Edward Schlatterer, ecologist; Bill Platts, fishery biologist; Frank Gunnell, wildlife biologist, and Art Selin, interpretive planner. Time will be provided for questions and public comment.

Copies of the complete illustrated summary report and the individual reports compiled by each specialist will be made available following the meetings at forest service offices or other locations. Each document will be open to public inspection.

The study represents the most comprehensive inventory of ecological factors for a large land area ever conducted in the intermountain region. It will form the foundation for detailed land use plans for management planning in the critical central Idaho areas.

Among those contributing to the study were experts in ecology, hydrology, geology, wildlife biology, soil science, recreation management, landscape architecture, timber management, archaeology, and geomorphology.

More than 40 organizations and individuals participated in the inventory. Public comment on a 1971 interim report was also incorporated in the detailed reports by each forest service specialist.

Lightning fires start

KETCHUM — A lightning storm caused two fires Wednesday afternoon in the Sawtooth National Forest.

According to Gilbert Farr, Ketchum ranger district, one fire burned about 10 acres of sagebrush and grass on the hill above Penny Lake in the Warm Springs area.

The fire started about 4 p.m. and was fought by a crew of 12 U.S. Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management employees. Two B-25 planes were called in from Twin Falls, but the first had an electrical malfunction which hampered dropping operations. A helicopter was also used to ferry personnel to the hillside. The fire was contained at 6:30 p.m.

Farr said that a second fire at Prairie Creek, northwest of the Russian John Ranger Station, was caused when a bolt of lightning struck a tree. The spot fire was sighted by a contract pilot who flew behind the path of the storm, Farr said.

Summer program ended at Filer

Driver injured in accident near Burley

Murtaugh teen-ager injured

BURLEY — Leslie Lambert, 19, Murtaugh, was listed in good condition this morning at Cassia Memorial Hospital after being injured in a pickup truck-car accident.

Dwayne Nelson, 28, Rupert, was driving a pickup west of U. S. 30 three miles west of Burley at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday. Nelson was attempting to make a left turn into a private driveway as the Lambert car started to pass.

Nelson swerved back into the right lane of traffic. Miss Lambert, alarmed on her brakes and skidded sideways into the left rear of the pickup, officers said.

The car came to a stop in the south hornswail and the pickup came to a stop on the shoulder of the road on the north side of the highway.

Citations are pending, according to T. C. Thompson, Idaho State Police, investigating officer.

UPI WEATHER FORECAST

Showers may threaten area Friday

Twin Falls, northside, Burley-

Rupert area: Variable cloudiness with widely scattered thundershowers. Winds strong and gusting near thundershowers. Lows tonight in the low 50s to the low 60s. Highs tomorrow in the 80s.

Outlook for Saturday, chance of isolated thundershowers in the afternoon.

Camas Prairie, Halley and lower Wood River Valley: Variable cloudiness with widely scattered thundershowers. Winds strong and gusting near thundershowers. Lows tonight 43 to 53. Highs Friday from the mid 80s to the low 90s.

Outlook for Saturday, chance of isolated thundershowers in the afternoon.

A weather impulse from out of the eastern Pacific Ocean moved across the northwest Wednesday with sufficient strength to start the upper level low over western Nevada a drift eastward.

The Pacific storm had sufficient energy to cause considerable thundershower activity across the northwestern states, mainly over the higher terrain.

Precipitation from the thundershowers was very light across the valley areas.

As the upper high pressure ridge moves toward the east, a more southerly flow aloft will tend to funnel moisture from out of the southwest across Nevada and Utah, causing a continuation of the thundershower activity through Saturday.

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The delays now taking place are for a very good reason so whatever projects or work you have in mind can be better accomplished by the extra time afforded you. The lessons you learn today also can stand you in good stead for a long time to come.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Although your work may be frustrating today, don't let it get you down. Persevere and you still can gain your objective. What you need is the proper rest. Avoid one who gossips.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You would like to handle a financial affair today, but it would be better to concentrate on the personal instead. Try to have better rapport with the one you love.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get away from family worries and go to the amusements you enjoy, then return to them with renewed vigor. You are able to outwitted the right people and make headway in social life.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good day to have dental or other professional work done, so make an appointment early and stop worrying. Attend the social this evening and dress in excellent style.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Contact logical thinking persons you know and get the advice you want. Be sure the advice you receive is not misleading. Show more devotion to mate tonight for mutual harmony.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It is wise to get a health checkup before you delve into civic work you have to do. Plan your activities for the future much more wisely. Don't scatter your energies haphazardly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make plans that will help you operate on a more modern theme and thereby derive greater benefits. Await a better time to take care of personal anxieties. You're too emotional right now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Concentrate on gaining personal aims now and find the right friends who can help you. Sidestep advisers who are cold and calculating right now. Don't rely too much on your intuition.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good day to confer with higher-up who is in a most irritable mood, but fine for discussing matters with an associate. Your intuitive faculties are working well. Rely on them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Overwork would gain nothing now except frustration. Making new contacts of worth is your best bet. Put a little more punch in your regular activities and gain far better results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An associate can be very amusing now, so sidestep obligations that are not too important and have fun. There are facets to your capabilities that have not yet been tapped.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) There could be some changes in your personal and business life today, but it is for the best. You can easily be more sure of yourself now than you have for some time. Relax tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY—he or she will be one of those young people who early in life shows a definite fastidiousness that increases with maturity. As parents, you should teach to keep an eye on the goal and not to be too engrossed in details. Then this becomes a very successful life. Art, fashion, music are fine here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is life is largely up to YOU!

The Secretary Is Dangerous

A man's wife, doctor, minister, lawyer, these can't be made to testify against him. In some states, in some cases. But how about his private secretary? Her confidential savvy could make her a most damaging witness. But she can be compelled to tell all. Some students of the law say a disenchanted amanuensis, therefore, can be the most dangerous woman in a fellow's life.

spread that hand with the trump on the right.

FAT
In abandoning a sinking ship, men and children should go into the lifeboats first, women last. Such is the contention of a British Royal Navy doctor. "Women," he says, "are better insulated against the cold water by an extra layer of fatty tissue." Interesting. Lady liberationists have listed of late numerous superior characteristics. But I've yet to hear them talk overmuch about fatty tissue. Too modest, maybe.

YOUNG LADY, your nylon stockings will last longer, if you don't wear the same pair two days in a row. Experts say the stretched threads do better with every second day off to relax.

THE SOVIET UNION'S publishing monopoly has printed up a lot of "how to" manuals, but none so successful as its recent party-line brochure on sex. First printing sold out in three hours.

CLIENT asks why so many French youngsters have the same first names. They do, true. Government of France intermittently puts out a list of suggested names for babies. Nobody has to pick from that list. But most couples do, anyway.

IT WAS exactly 100 years ago, bear in mind, that some mechanical genius invented the world's first automatic doughnut hole cutter. Exceedingly important, that. The doughnut didn't really take hold, you know, until it was edited in the middle.

BRIDGE PLAYERS, please note: It's not just the custom but the rule under the International Code on Bridge that the dummy must always
