As registers ring, retail jobs rise in TF County

TF retail jobs show big spurt

By DAVID ESPO TimesNews writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County retail trade employment underwent record expansion in the past 13 months, compared to only modest growth the preceding five years.

The June, 1972, figures compiled by the Idaho Department of Employment show a record total of over 3,300 employees in officially defined "retail trade" firms during the month, surpassing the record set in December, 1971, of just under 3,300.

Figures for July will not be available for another week.

Department of Employment figures since 1967 show a slow, spotty growth pattern until May, 1971. But in the past 13 months, only three drops in the labor force have been noted in monthly reports.

Employment figures from 1968, for example, show an annual year end decline over those from 1967, with the 1967 figure being exceeded only marginally at the end of 1969.

For most of the past five years, the figures show an annual drop at the beginning of the new year. This is the result, according to Twin Falls labor analyst Ken Hodge, of a post-Christmas holiday season layoff in most retail stores.

After the early months of the year the number of persons employed generally rose during the next several months, falling off again in the summer and later in the early winter.

But the figures for January, 1972, while reflecting the annual drop in employees, shows a much smaller cutback than for the previous years.

The January, 1972, figure was roughly 3,130 employees throughout the county, the second highest figure recorded up to that point and a drop of only about 170 from December, 1970. Other annual post-December falloffs had been as high as over 300 employees.

Hodge said the category "retail trade" encompasses a number of different employment sectors, including building materials, general merchandise, food retail stores, automobile dealers, retail clothing, furniture, eating and drinking establishments, and miscellaneous retail stores.

For the calendar year 1970, Hodge said, the retail food industry showed the greatest increase in number of employees hired, with a 20 per cent rise. That compared to a 10 per cent overall increase.

Hodge said the figures indicate a "flourishing general growth in the county. When agriculture flourishes, all supportive industries flourish," he said.

The figures for the past year also show a reversal of a trend in the late 1960s of cutbacks in the labor force in June. In both 1970 and 1971 employment rose in the months of June and July, with a dip coming later in the fall.

If that trend holds true this year, the number of employees will set records each month they continue to show increases.

Hodge said the employment figures are another indicator of a general economic growth in the county. Per capita income of 1969, for example, rose over $200 over the previous year.

The result, he said, is a "sense of confidence" by merchants resulting in remodeling and expansion of buildings, such as the Lynwood Mall, which recently added an enclosed walking area and several new stores, and the coming of Twin Falls of new retail trade stores, such as Bon Marche.

Rep. Donald Riegle of Michigan charged that even congressional dissent was being muffled by assigning him and Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California, who opposed Nixon in the primaries, to appear before subcommittees instead of the televised sessions of the full committee. That charge was denied by platform chairman John J. Rhodes who said Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York had been picked as being more representative of liberal sentiment in the GOP. He said the senator could reflect McCloskey's views.

The reason for these hearings is to educate the members of the platform committee, not to give exposure to anyone," Rhodes said of the congressman's complaints.

As for busing, Rhodes said the committee survey minimizing its political importance was worded badly. He added: "I happen to think busing is a rather important issue and it will be dealt with as such."

The chairman, an Arizona congressman, acknowledged the White House had made numerous suggestions about platform language. He also said the document would be tailored to the President's re-election campaign. But he denied the White House was writing the platform.

Man dies in Blaine mishap

SUN VALLEY — A Glendale, Calif., man died here Sunday from injuries received in an earlier two-car collision near Stanley.

The victim was identified as Alfred D. Harris, 65, by Idaho State Police at Idaho Falls. Harris was brought to Sun Valley Hospital following the accident and died there.

The accident occurred on U. S. Highway 93 on the Salmon River bridge about seven miles south of Stanley on the morning of Aug. 5. Harris was traveling north when his vehicle collided with a vehicle driven by David D. Coward, 41, Idaho Falls.

State police said Harris was pinned in his vehicle. Three other passengers sustained cuts and abrasions, and were taken to Sun Valley Hospital for treatment.

No citations were issued in connection with the accident, state police said.

Harris' body was taken to Bird Funeral Home, Halley, and was sent to Glendale for services and burial.

LBJ's negotiators 'didn't tell Nixon'

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today that if Sargent Shriver and W. Averell Harriman detected a "golden opportunity" for a Vietnam peace in late 1968, they failed to tell the incoming Nixon administration about it.

If a chance for peace was lost, he said, it was the Democrats who lost it.

Rogers, speaking to reporters following an appearance before the Republican platform committee, said a thorough search of State Department files so far indicated that Shriver's charges that Nixon "blew" a chance to end the war were "an Alice in Wonderland fantasy."

Shriver, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, first made the charge last week and then repeated it yesterday in Washington.

Rogers said he had talked in 1968 and 1969 with Shriver, then ambassador to France under President Johnson, and Harriman and Cyrus Vance, who were directing U.S. peace negotiations, and "none of them said anything to me about it."

Both Harriman and Vance have issued statements saying that North Vietnam withdrew 90 per cent of its forces from South Vietnam's two northern provinces late in 1968 as a signal of their willingness to reduce the level of violence.

They issued their statements after Rogers earlier denounced Shriver's statement as "Bunk."

But the Secretary said today that were true, the Democrats had three months to respond to North Vietnam at the peace talks before Nixon took office.

"I'm interested in what they were doing during those three months," Rogers said.

"It's turning out that it wasn't 'peace in the lap' of President Nixon but peace in the lap of Sargent Shriver, peace in the lap of Averell Harriman and peace in the lap of Cyrus Vance."

Rogers said he was interested in hearing Shriver's explanation of his charges in a weekend television interview.

"I must say I was not clear on what was being said by Mr. Shriver. Now that it's been clarified, I think it is totally unintelligible," he said.

Shriver said in the interview Sunday that there was "a very golden opportunity in the latter part of '68 and early '69, especially in '69, to achieve peace in Vietnam."

Clark cries murder

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark returned from North Vietnam Sunday night and said American prisoners would be released when the "murderous bombing" ceases and United States involvement in the war ends.

Clark said he talked with four high Communist officials and witnessed extensive damage to bombed North Vietnamese hospitals and dikes in a two week tour.

He said he received both "verbal and written" assurances that Hanoi would release the POW's.

"I think there is no question that the prisoners will be released and will be released immediately when we stop this senseless, murderous bombing and end the war and get out of the business of building the peace and giving happiness to little children around the world," said Clark.

He described as "humane" the treatment of POW's by North Vietnam.

"I can demonstrate that to the American people," said the former Johnson administration official.

American people "have to see what is happening," Clark told a two-minute news conference on his arrival at San Francisco International Airport, where heavy security surrounded him.

Kissinger meets for secret talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger is holding a private meeting in Paris today with North Vietnam's two top peace negotiators, the White House announced.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters Kissinger had gone into session again with Communist Politburo member Le Duc Tho and minister Xuan Thui, head of North Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks.

He last met with Hanoi's two negotiators Aug. 1. Today's meeting was the 16th since the administration began its private sessions with North Vietnam seeking a settlement of the Vietnam War.

Private school tax aid?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration today threw its support to a proposed $200 tax credit for private school tuition but opposed a companion plan to spend $2.2 billion a year for five years in general aid to public schools.

Three cabinet-level officials told the House Ways and Means Committee the tax credit is needed to help private school parents. They said the multi-billion-dollar aid to public schools would be inflationary.

Treasury Secretary George Shultz, HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson and Caspar W. Weinberger, director of the Office of Management and Budget, testified on a bill introduced by Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the committee, and Rep. Hugh Cargy, D-N.Y.

The measure would allow tax credits covering 100 per cent of private school tuition paid per youngster, up to a maximum of $200, and would authorize $11 billion over five years as general aid to public schools.

The tax credit — a dollar for dollar, writeoff from the parents' income tax bill — would result in a revenue loss of about $750 million a year, according to Weinberger.

Shultz said tax deductions are now allowed for contributions to private schools and that the measure would extend "similar benefits" to parents.

"We do not believe the use of a credit as distinguished from a deduction raises any constitutional problems," he said.

Shultz and Weinberger urged the committee to endorse an earlier administration recommendation that the credits be phased out for families with adjusted gross incomes over $18,000 a year. That proposal was made when the administration endorsed the theory of tax credits in a letter to Mills on June 21.

Blast-injured man extinguishes fire

WENDELL — A Wendell man, knocked over by a gas explosion at his house Saturday, recovered enough to fight the ensuing fire with a garden hose.

Frank Ruffing, 40, was reported resting comfortably in St. Bonaventure Hospital in Jerome today, where he was taken Saturday night with first second and third degree burns over his upper body, hospital officials said.

According to Gooding County sheriff's deputy Dale Bunn, Ruffing had installed a new gas heater Saturday at his home, the Lone Elm Ranch, four and a half miles west and six miles south of Wendell.

Ruffing noticed the gas line was leaking somewhere between the tank and the heater, so he turned off the gas and left the house, according to Bunn.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruffing and their son returned to the house about midnight. According to Tony Ruffing, father of the burn victim, the explosion occurred when an electric fan in the house was turned on.

The young Ruffing told his father he saw a ball of fire coming toward him and then heard a series of explosions throughout the house. He was knocked down by the explosion, but then extinguished the fire with a garden hose.

GOP platform shaped

By DON PHILLIPS

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Republican platform writers convened today to go over a draft of the party's 1972 campaign document that already has been refined by top GOP leaders and approved by the White House.

Nearly 300 witnesses were to appear before the panel or its subcommittees during 3 1/2 days of hearings but little real controversy was in sight except for final language on women's rights.

According to a top drafter, the platform also will cover "the problem of big labor" despite administration efforts to woo the union vote this year.

Another plank will deal with the school busing issue despite a committee survey indicating the issue was not high on the list of voter concerns.

The witness list included most members of President Nixon's cabinet, including Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. Spokesmen for organized labor, black groups, women's groups and elderly persons also were to be heard.

No antiwar groups were on the agenda although several organizations that have supported the President's Vietnam policies were listed. Antiwar congressmen were likely to raise the only opposition in that

'Goodbye dear, I'll be back in a year'

Nixon may veto HUD fund bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon considered today whether to throw down the gauntlet to the Democratic Congress over the campaign issue of government spending.

Nixon had on his desk a $35 billion appropriation for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare departments that was $1.7 billion above his budget requests.

He has hinted strongly that he will veto it. He was expected to announce his decision either today or Tuesday.

Nixon has asked Congress to hold federal government expenditures during the fiscal year that started July 1 to no more than $250 billion. However, Democratic congressmen have contended that Nixon's budget gives inadequate support to domestic programs.

The President spent the weekend at his Camp David, Md., mountain retreat, returning late Sunday to the White House.

During the Camp David stay, Nixon called in his budget director, Caspar W. Weinberger, and had Weinberger provide him with a line-by-line analysis of the labor and HEW appropriation.

Nixon mixed work and relaxation during his weekend. He watched two western movies—"Joe Kidd" and "Bend Sinister."

He also worked on the speech he will deliver after the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach next week. He is not expected to go to Florida until next Tuesday—the day he will be nominated.

There also were indications Nixon may soon lose his housing and urban development secretary, former Michigan Gov. George Romney. Romney has threatened to quit the cabinet and curtail his campaign activities on behalf of Nixon.

The Washington Star and Daily News reported Sunday that behind Romney's threat was a feud between him and Nixon's top domestic aide, John Ehrlichman. The newspaper said Romney was "fighting mad" over Ehrlichman's heavy-handedness and that Romney had sent a "him-or-me" message to Nixon. Romney also demanded direct access to the President, the newspaper said.

Lawyers killed bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., believes "friendly persuasion" from lawyers—aimed at the 64 members of the Senate who also are lawyers—was a key factor in the death of his no-fault auto insurance bill last week.

Some of these lawyers earn $80,000 a year fighting auto negligence cases, said an aide to one senator. "They can be counted on for a contribution of $3,000 or $4,000 or $5,000 to a senator running for re-election. A phone call from one or two can be effective."

One senator—agreeing with Hart's assessment—told a colleague he had received 20 phone calls from lawyer friends in a few hours in advance of last Tuesday's vote.

Lobbying by segments of the insurance industry opposed to the bill—Allstate was particularly active—was another factor. And one Senate source said White House persuasion was effective in turning around four Republicans who had been expected to support the bill—Sens. Gordon Allott, Colo.; Henry M. Bellmon, Okla.; Charles McC. Mathias, Md.; and Robert T. Stafford, Vt.

Lobbying was also intense from the other side. The Consumer Federation of America; Common Cause, the "citizens' lobby"; the Car and Truck Rental Leasing Association; and a number of labor unions, pulled all the stops.

But the nation's trial lawyers—who stand to lose $1 billion a year in legal fees if auto negligence suits are not longer argued in court—proved most effective.

Shriver's charges said preposterous

By United Press International

Republicans have described as "wild statements" and "preposterous" Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver's charge that President Nixon "blew" a chance to end the Vietnam war in 1969.

Shriver first made the charge last week, and Secretary of State William P. Rogers replied there was no record in department files about any peace offer being made at the time. He said the Shriver statement was "bunk."

"I am sorry if the State Department was so excluded under President Nixon that they didn't know what the record was," but Ambassador Harriman and Ambassador Vance have confirmed to me—and they have said it publicly in the last few days—that the situation I described was the real situation," Shriver said Sunday.

Shriver said there was "a very golden opportunity in the latter part of '68 and early '69, especially in '69, to achieve peace in Vietnam." He cited as his sources Ambassadors Averill Harriman and Cyrus Vance, who were directing American negotiations in Paris at the time.

The Nixon administration discussed the possibility of negotiating a settlement and rejected it, Shriver said, deciding instead upon the Vietnamization program.

Shriver was interviewed upon NBC's "Meet the Press" Vice President Spiro T. Agnew commented on Shriver's new charges when he arrived at Providence, R.I., Sunday.

"First of all, I think we have to remember that Mr. Shriver, is very inexperienced," Agnew said. "It is normal for people trying to play catchup ball to make wild statements."

No tax hike, Andrus says

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus pledged on a television interview Sunday that he would not ask the upcoming session of the Idaho Legislature for a major tax increase.

"The people of Idaho have spoken very clearly that they are not ready for, nor, will they accept a tax increase," the governor said during questioning on "viewpoint," which will be aired today on the Television Network of Idaho.

Instead of a tax increase, the governor said there are other avenues of revenue available that will not result in additional charges to the people.

He said there was the possibility of using some of the money now being transferred from sales tax for the repeal of the inventory tax. He said there are other areas of revenue if the state needs them.

Thursday the governor imposed a 1.0 per cent holdback on state spending and he said the move was designed to balance the state budget which had a $2.4 million carryover deficit at the end of the 1971-72 fiscal year.

Andrus agreed that education and health were under-funded during the last session of the legislature and he said this added to his reluctance to impose the spending cut.

The governor said the 1.0 per cent holdback would increase the local property tax burden on homeowners to make up for what would not be spent at the state level for public education.

"We have to find ways to resolve these problems without going back to the people and their pocketbooks — another time," he said, the increase to local property owners because of the holdback may force lawmakers into taking an "energetic appraisal" of the 100 per cent state funding of public schools.

"This is the only way we are going to bring a halt to the gargantuan growth in property tax in the state of Idaho. They have to be stopped and stabilized or you are going to drive the people out of their homes. We have got to bring the money back to the state level," the governor said.

He said if the courts uphold suits alleging the property tax method of funding local education then Idaho will "have to move to one of the greens of 100 per cent funding."

He said this would bring all the local money into the "the pot" and sent back to the schools "via a distribution formula."

Under that system, the governor said, "The money is put to where the children are being educated and not how many trees or cows you have."

He said members of his staff were working on solutions to a scheduled 11 per cent cutback in aid to dependent children.

"If the money isn't there, we can't spend it," the governor said.

He said had the state waited until February to make a cutback in the welfare payments they would have been greater than the 11 per cent.

"If we find a source to pay aid to dependent children, the cut will be restored."

The governor said it was "questionable right now" whether Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern could carry Idaho. But he added that if the Democrats take on the issue of how President Nixon "has turned his back on the farmer," the war and the deficit — then McGovern could win in any state.

Airmen picket Airwest

BOISE (UPI) — Claiming the Hughes aircraft industry is helping to escalate the air war in Vietnam by producing sophisticated missiles, Air Force airmen and others picketed Hughes Aircraft Sunday night at the Boise airport.

The 60 airmen, Vietnam Veterans against the War, mothers pushing strollers and others carried signs that read, "Pledge not to fly Hughes Aircraft. Do not support genocide." In view of Boise police who videotaped the peaceful demonstration.

Mark Lane, with the anti-war Covered Wagon Coffeehouse in Mountain Home near the Mountain Home Air Force Base, said the empire of billionaire Howard Hughes is "manufacturing missiles and smart bombs with sensitive radar guidance that have killed thousands of civilians in Vietnam and destroyed dikes."

The author-attorney said, "Hughes aircraft brags in one of its brochures that it has been known primarily as a developer and supplier of military systems and equipment to all branches of the military establishment."

He said, "The company claims that it has already manufactured 46,000 missiles and that it is responsible for the wire-guided tow, Phoenix, and the Maverick and Walleye with TV-guidance systems for tactical air superiority for the Air Force."

Covered Wagon spokesman Carolyn Mugar said they are asking people not to fly Hughes Aircraft because, "We believe it is the duty of people everywhere in the country to bring to the attention of their community the involvements that any of the local businesses may have with the war industry."

Pickets distributed leaflets listing Airwest flights out of Boise and comparable ones by United Airlines as curious. Hughes customers looked on. VVAW representatives said the boycott should start in the Pacific Northwest where Hughes does a large amount of business, particularly in Idaho where in some places it is the only airline available.

Regional representative John Boychuk, who recently returned from the Paris peace talks, said VVAW chapters in the northwest will be coordinated to continue the boycott, which they hope to expand elsewhere.

"Most of us who have been in Vietnam have seen what these 'smart' missiles have done," he said.

Lane said he talked with a Hughes Aircraft vice president last week to notify the company of their "informational picket line" in Boise. The official had no comment, Lane said.

"I believe there will be a serious boycott of Hughes Aircraft in the next few months. This is to give the people of the west the facts, and it should give them an opportunity to vote for peace by flying some other airline," Lane said.

Gem interstate 82% finished

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's interstate highway system will reach the 82 per cent finished stage in the next couple of weeks, with latest estimates for total completion set for 1982.

The project was supposed to be completed this year. The first interstate highway measure drafted in 1956 set 1972 as the end date. Idaho will have 612 miles of interstate at completion.

A total of 110 miles are still to be constructed.

Idaho highway engineer Ellis Mathes said the Federal Bureau of the Budget is "dragging its feet" to get the project completed.

"They (the bureau) have actually limited the states below the authorization and below what the trust fund receipts would provide."

He said the estimate in Idaho was 7.6 years to completion, based on appropriation and 11 years on the present obligation rate.

Mathes said Congress allotted $23 million for highway building in Idaho this fiscal year, but the state will actually receive only 70 per cent of it.

He added the state has never failed to produce the eight per cent figure needed to match federal appropriations.

TF woman charged

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls woman was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated early Sunday morning after hitting a parked car.

Susan Lynn Yeggy, 19, was apparently driving south on Blue Lakes Boulevard in the 800 block about 1:45 a.m. Sunday, when she struck a parked car, according to Twin Falls Police.

Police reports said the parked car struck then lunged forward into another parked car.

The Yeggy vehicle then struck the curb at the intersection of Third Street East and Blue Lakes. The car then jumped the curb and struck a tree stump several feet from the curb.

Miss Yeggy apparently hit the windshield, receiving a cut on her forehead. She was treated and released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Estimated damage to her car was $900. Damages to the two parked cars were estimated at $450 to the car she hit and $150 to the second parked car.

COMMENT

Nixon's Case

Christian Science Monitor
The statement was made on this page recently that conditions are better in the United States today than they were four years ago. It has been challenged by a reader who asks for evidence. We would submit the following on this subject which is of first interest to all voters beginning to think about how they will cast their ballots come November.

Four years ago the United States was at a peak of a military commitment in Vietnam. The war was taking between 400 and 500 American lives a week. It had long since divided the country bitterly over its justification, had disastrously upset the national budget, had unleashed the worst and longest round of inflation in American history, and yet curiously was accompanied by economic depression and disturbing unemployment.

Today the American commitment to the war is far down. From more than a half million Americans in Vietnam we are down to fewer than 50,000. True, some of these have been transferred to Thailand. True, American air and sea forces continue to support the South Vietnamese military effort from outside of South Vietnam itself. And true also, the bombing continues with debatable military results but deep anguish in the conscience of many Americans as well as most of the rest of the world.

However, the sending of American conscripts to Vietnam has ended. The rate of conscription is down to a peace-time level. And those doing what fighting is left for Americans are professional volunteers.

The war is not over, but the degree of American involvement is so low that in spite of the continued bombing the war has ceased to be a major factor either in the American economy or in American politics. Mr. Nixon, we think, will get a larger vote if he actually wins a negotiated end-of-the-war-by-election day, but the war issue has been largely defused. We doubt that it will make much difference even if the war is still going on at present level.

The state of the economy today still leaves much to be desired. Unemployment continues high — 5.5 per cent now as against 3.8 per cent four years ago. But the gross national product is up to more than a trillion dollars (stated in constant 1958 dollars, from $706.6 billion to $783.1 billion).

Profits are booming. And while we still have the remnants of the inflation that has dogged Mr. Nixon (ticked off, to be sure, by the $25 billion deficit in Lyndon Johnson's last year) the rate has been cut from an annual average increase in consumer prices of 5 per cent for the past three years to 3.5 per cent today. Housewives are not happy over the continued rise in prices. But the rate of rise is down, and still sinking back toward the 2.5 per cent considered economically respectable under the Kennedy-Johnson reigns. At its height during Mr. Nixon's first term the inflationary thrust was a threat to the welfare of the United States in every way. Today it is below the average for modern industrial countries. The British rate is close to 10 per cent. Comparatively speaking, American inflation is under control.

Perhaps most important of all is the quieting down of cities and universities. There was almost no serious student unrest last winter. There have been no major disturbances in the big cities this summer. The latest movement among students in back to religion, or what passes for religion. The Negro community, whose plight is both worsening or improving according to how it is measured, is nonetheless not resorting to rioting.

Whether Richard Nixon should get much, little or no credit for all this is another matter. The winding down of the war was started by Lyndon Johnson before he left the White House. It can be argued that had he chosen to run again and been reelected he would have done at least as well, perhaps better, at closing down the war and bringing the economy back towards stability.

It can also be argued that Mr. Nixon could have closed down the war sooner and could and should have acted more vigorously and faster to check the inflation and regain economic stability. And in view of the still widening gap between the rich and the poor, it can be contended that he should have given higher priority to employment for the poor than tax relief for the rich.

But as of today, there is less war and less inflationary push weighing on the American people and setting them at odds with each other than was the case when Mr. Nixon inherited the White House from Mr. Johnson, and it is basically on this that the President rests his case.

Increasingly menaced by increasing crime, most law-abiding citizens feel that the high court has again kicked them in the stomach — in deference to the lawbreakers. And if the death penalty is construed unconstitutional because the Constitution prohibits "cruel and unusual punishment," how long will it be before the high court decides confinement is "cruel" and throw open all our prison doors?

The court decision did leave the door open for a crack for individual states to reinstate the death penalty in some cases. And perhaps more important, this further deference to the rights of wrongdoers should motivate all states to re-examine their own statutes — to make the life sentence more meaningful. In some states after 7½ years, the killer is eligible for parole.

You've been hearing enough pro and con on the death penalty itself. It would seem to me that more cruel than an eye for an eye is the manner in which many of the 600 men recently on death row had been sitting there

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The fresh-painted McGovern-Shriver signs are up, and even Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley is smiling at them. Yet the debris from the brawl over the deposition of Thomas Eagleton is all about, and the question is, which will most catch the voter's eye.

Understandably, the McGovern camp is suffused with some euphoria and a sense of relief now that the rather ugly fight is over. But it would be misleading to conclude that brightening surface impressions are a true measure of present political realities.

For one thing, as a Democratic party spokesman puts it, "the campaign lay dead in the water" while the Eagleton affair went on. In his view, it will not be at all easy to find the kind of momentum McGovern needs to make a real race of it against President Nixon.

People poking around McGovern's new headquarters in a condemned Washington building say there is a feeling of "nobody is in command there." Unless campaign leadership develops quickly, this may be the year of the headless horseperson (apologies to author Jane O'Reilly for use of the word.)

It is nearly three weeks since former National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien was given a top campaign post, and he still doesn't have the faintest idea what, specifically, he is supposed to do.

If he is not to be a key coordinator, who is? Veteran politicians are puzzled at the evident McGovern notion that all will be drawn together nicely if Gary Hart runs the vote-drumming field operation and Frank Mankiewicz manages the candidate's personal traveling campaign. The old hands don't believe it will work.

Whatever confidence the McGovern people themselves may still have after the Eagleton thing, it is a fact that confidence in McGovern and his staff has dropped off seriously among many politicians and political observers.

One eastern Democratic liberal whose party loyalty has been strong for two decades told me:

"After Eagleton, McGovern is a super-disaster. I'm thinking of voting for Nixon."

A great casualty of recent days, obviously, has been candor. Few reporters close to the McGovern camp during the Eagleton crisis feel they were fairly dealt with. Some, who cannot themselves be faulted on the issues of fairness and balance, are wondering aloud whether they ever again can trust the word of McGovern and his top aides. They think they were lied to — and used.

Some of their complaints have to do with the intricacies of political utterance and maneuver — what some would describe simply as "inside baseball." It is being argued, therefore, that a lot of this stuff will wash away, never really registering with the voters.

But it may not be so. Television's reporters often drop damaging little hints into their network commentaries, giving them broad-ranging currency such things would never get in the old days.

Furthermore, reporters who have grown skeptical of a candidate and his staff on the score of honesty — are, potentially, a very difficult barrier to get past in an admittedly uphill campaign.

When an erosion of trust sets in, it is not easy to arrest. Men whose judgments and findings were touted as impressive just months ago suddenly are thrust for down the scale, even when they are known not to have been involved in the Eagleton matter.

McGovern is in tough shape, and not even 100 truckloads of smile buttons can really brighten the scene today.

"At Least You'll Smell Sweeter!"

The Prison Guard

With no more death penalty, how would you like to be a prison guard right now?

Any life in prison has nothing to lose by killing.

Leo Robles says. Leo Robles is a prisoner in San Quentin. He says it's open season now on prison guards. Maybe on you, too.

Some of us have mixed emotions about capital punishment. We're uncertain whether the death threat is really a crime deterrent.

But San Quentin convict Leo Robles, who was released from death row by a recent Supreme Court decision, has no doubt about it. He's heard many inmates say they would kill such and such a prison guard — except for fear of the gas chamber.

Now they have no such fear. President Nixon has said he hopes the high court will continue to allow capital punishment, at least in such federal crimes as kidnapping — and skyjacking.

But the high court's nine-sided opinion leaves nobody sure.

Increasingly menaced by increasing crime, most law-abiding citizens feel that the high court has again kicked them in the stomach — in deference to the lawbreakers.

And if the death penalty is construed unconstitutional because the Constitution prohibits "cruel and unusual punishment," how long will it be before the high court decides confinement is "cruel" and throw open all our prison doors?

The court decision did leave the door open for a crack for individual states to reinstate the death penalty in some cases.

And perhaps more important, this further deference to the rights of wrongdoers should motivate all states to re-examine their own statutes — to make the life sentence more meaningful. In some states after 7½ years, the killer is eligible for parole.

You've been hearing enough pro and con on the death penalty itself. It would seem to me that more cruel than an eye for an eye is the manner in which many of the 600 men recently on death row had been sitting there for years awaiting this decision.

Many if not most jurists and law-enforcers believe the promptness of punishment is more important than the severity of it.

Whether you're slapping the fingers of the toddler in the cookie jar or disposing of the felon who bombs a crowded theater, the longer punishment is deferred, the more penitence turns to bitterness.

I am not suggesting that the high court's decree was timed to coincide with any political consideration, but already the Nixon Administration's spokesmen are reminding us that all Nixon appointees to the high court voted the other way — and that he could not shift the court's balance all the way from left to right "in one term."

Sales Pitch

WASHINGTON — A dangerous tract came to this desk the other day addressed to a 13-year-old male relative who fortunately is living it up at a boys' camp in New Hampshire. Fortunately, because in his absence his father summoned up enough villainy to toss it into the wastebasket.

Admittedly, this was the act of a sneak. A boy's mail should be sacred. But a parent's life is tough enough without permitting a kid who already has the cunning charm of a confidence man to peruse a pamphlet whose return address bears the name of a correspondence school that teaches hypnotism.

Consider the threat implicit in the school's sales pitch. It claims it can mass-produce puerile Svengalis in a few simple lessons and even transform its students into mental healers of practically every ailment extant. It contends that any person of average intelligence can learn hypnotism and thereby acquire confidence, poise, polish, self-control and material wealth.

In a world rocked by television commercials, traffic jams, smog and constant noise, this is a bit much. A young male is barely tolerable, heaven knows, when he fills the house with a muscle-building equipment, wails a square meal every 60 minutes and constantly begs for money to build a flying machine. But the young hypnotist in search of a Tribble is a menace to the community.

There are parents, like this one, who can speak with experience because they've been there. A certain neighborhood in New England years ago may still recall with horror the turbulence caused by a certain boy caught up in the coils of just such a hypnotism school. Within his family, indeed, there was talk of trading the sprout for a Laplander and a high draft choice.

This sinister kid was not interested in healing anybody; he simply wanted to work his will on people. Among others, the subjects included his ma and pa, his three sisters, a pretty girl in the eighth grade, a patient nun and assorted, muscular, boy-type neighbors.

Take the matter of getting home from school on time. Summoned to Pa's presence for tardiness, the boy sought to stare his parent out of thoughts of punishment. He'd fix Pa with what he believed to be a penetrating eye and mumble self-consciously such phrases as "you will do as I say," and "Corporal punishment is old-fashioned."

Pa, of course, would administer a few whacks to the seat of the boy's britches, then stride into the kitchen to confide to Ma: "I think that boy needs a good physic."

The pretty girl at school reacted only by complaining to the nun that the boy "keeps staring at me, something awful." The nun flattered in furious astonishment as the culprit informed her, thrice, that she was under his spell, then gave him 10 of the ruler's best on each hand and doubled his homework assignment.

BERRY'S WORLD

The Campaign

Idaho State Journal

Having won the Democratic primary Tuesday, Bud Davis is in good position to challenge Rep. James McClure for the U. S. Senate seat up for grabs in November.

THAT IS because Davis has no record in office to defend. By contrast, he is free to assault McClure's conservative record in Congress and his close identification with mining and business interests in Idaho.

McClure, on the other hand, will have to be content with defending his record and seeking to pin party-line antiwar and spending labels on Davis.

As recently as a couple of months ago, McClure would have seemed an overwhelming favorite. But Davis came from behind to win the Democratic nomination, and he has momentum going for him. It should be a close, hard-fought campaign. The strong showing of former Rep. George Hansen and the victory of longshot Steve Symms in the First District congressional derby indicate the voters are in tune with conservative candidates. Both Hansen and Symms sounded far-right themes through the campaign.

BUT DAVIS was certainly the least liberal of the four Democratic candidates, and his views probably coincide with those of many Idahoans on the important issues. Labels won't mean much in the coming campaign.

As for the losers, we may expect to hear more from Republican Glen Wegner and Democrats Rose Bowman, Tony Park and Byron Johnson in public life. It may have been the last hurrah for both Hansen and former Gov. Robert Smylie, now two-time losers.

US troop strength drops in S. Viet

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. troop strength in South Vietnam has dropped by more than half a million men since President Nixon's withdrawal program began three years ago, the U.S. command said today.

The command announced that as of last Thursday, there were 42,400 U.S. troops still in Vietnam. The peak American strength during the war was 543,000 men in April, 1969. The first withdrawals were made in August of that year.

Another 3,400 men are scheduled to leave this month to get down to 30,000 men by Sept. 1 under Nixon's withdrawal schedule.

There were 2,300 soldiers sent home last week, but about 100 U.S. Air Force men were added to the Vietnam roster during the same period, command spokesmen said.

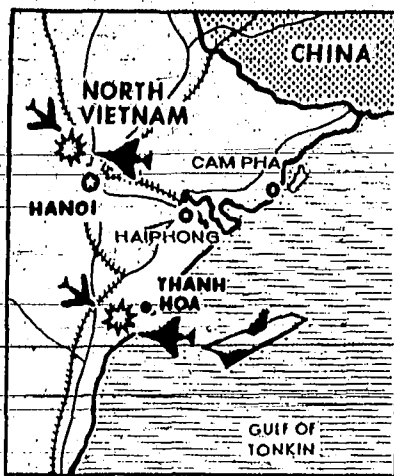

The army now has 36,000 men in Vietnam; the Air Force has 11,900; the Navy 2,200; Marines 1,900; and Coast Guard 100. Only the figures of Army and Air Force personnel changed last week.

In addition to the military strength within Vietnam, the U.S. has about 30,000 sailors on duty with the 7th Fleet offshore, 49,000 airmen in Thailand and 10,000 on Guam. The current "in-country" figure is the lowest since the 36,000 troops here on April 30, 1965, the command said.

The command said the 2,200-man withdrawal was the largest weekly withdrawal since Nixon announced six weeks ago the latest plan to pull out 10,000 men by the end of this month.

The command said that there was no change in the 38,300 troops from other allied nations still in Vietnam, most of them Korean.

Nixon adviser denies report

WASHINGTON (UPI)—White House aide John D. Ehrlichman has denied reports his feuding with George Romney has led to a threat by the Housing and Urban Development secretary to resign from President Nixon's cabinet.

"We're the best of friends and have been for a long time," Ehrlichman, who is Nixon's chief domestic adviser, said Sunday. "We've had the longest of relations."

Ehrlichman said he understood that Romney would keep his cabinet post "for a time" and was "keeping his options open" on when he would leave. The Washington Star and Daily News reported in its Sunday editions that Romney was "fighting mad" over what he considered the "heavy-handedness" of Ehrlichman and had sent a "him or me" message to the White House.

But Ehrlichman said he talked to Romney on the telephone Sunday, and he said Romney felt bad about the reports of a feud.

Romney could not be reached for comment Sunday. But he indicated at a news conference Friday that he will quit the cabinet soon.

The Washington Post Sunday reported Romney was "disturbed and upset by what he regards as shabby treatment" at the hands of White House aides, especially Ehrlichman. The Post said Romney was especially chagrined by the manner in which the White House ordered him last week to Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to take charge of flood relief efforts.

When Romney returned to the capital Friday, the newspaper said, he told Nixon personally that his department could not avoid more scandals and waste without a bigger staff. The President agreed to provide the additional staff, the account said.

Romney was reported to have pressed for weeks for a meeting with Nixon to discuss "increasingly critical staffing requirements" at HUD.

Romney had set up an appointment with Nixon for last Tuesday, the Post reported, only to learn on Monday that he was being ordered to Wilkes-Barre. Romney was said to have learned of his trip from press accounts.

2 MIGs go down under US fire

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. jet northernmost province, opened fighter-bombers shot down two up with 180 rounds of shellfire. Communist MIG21s in dogfights over North Vietnam, the U.S. Counterattacking government command said Sunday. Fighting raged on three fronts in South Vietnam, most of it in the Mekong Delta.

A command spokesman said a U.S. F4 Phantom fighter-bomber was shot down Sunday over the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams and one of its two crewmen parachuted straight into a Communist antiaircraft nest, radioing back reports nearly to the moment of his presumed capture.

Communications ceased just as he reported he had sprained his ankle and was about to be captured. There was no word on the fate of the other crewman.

The command said the first MIG was downed Thursday 30 miles southwest of Thanh Hoa by an F4 Phantom jet. Another phantom knocked out the second MIG Saturday 50 miles northwest of the main port city of Haiphong. The Phantom challenged two MIGs, spokesmen said, scared off the first one and bagged the second.

Southwest of Saigon in the Mekong Delta, government troops in a drive to clear Communists from the area near the Cambodian border killed 61 North Vietnamese Sunday at a cost of 15 South Vietnamese killed and 22 wounded. The U.S. command said B52 bombers hit suspected Communist troop positions in the delta during the night, striking 44 and 46 miles southwest of Saigon, while other B52s bombed targets 37 miles northwest of the capital.

In the same delta area hit by the B52s, government soldiers searching near Ham Long district town, 45 miles southwest of Saigon, found the bodies of 60 Communists killed by earlier air strikes, a military spokesman said.

Communist gunners battling South Vietnamese troops trying to recapture embattled Quang Tri City, 45 miles north of Saigon in the country's northernmost province, opened up with 180 rounds of shellfire. A military spokesman said. Counterattacking government soldiers in several clashes killed 41 Communists near the city. South Vietnamese casualties were six dead and 27 wounded.

To the south near the coast, two battles flared near the old imperial capital of Hue, 35 miles from Quang Tri City.

Spokesmen said casualties in the two battles, 14 and 16 miles southeast of Hue, totaled 10 Communists dead at a cost of three South Vietnamese killed and seven wounded.

Tailor rights to severity of crime, attorney says

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A high Nixon administration official has suggested curtailing the rights of criminal defendants, by, among other things, allowing the introduction of illegally seized evidence.

Assistant Attorney General Henry E. Petersen, head of the Justice Department's criminal division, also proposed tailoring the rights of defendants to the severity of the crime with which they are charged.

"It should not be necessary to provide the same degree of protection to one who has committed murder and one who has been charged with public intoxication," Petersen said.

As for the use of illegally obtained evidence, "Unlike coerced confessions, probative evidence is reliable, regardless of the manner in which it is seized," Petersen said.

His remarks were made Sunday at the 98th annual meeting of the American Bar Association, which opened its formal program with a prayer breakfast addressed by Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell.

Powell, a Nixon appointee, deplored what he called "unchained individualism" which he said resulted from the current emphasis on "doing your own thing" and led to "excessively tolerant views."

Petersen made his suggestions for altering the original process in a speech before the ABA's section on bar activities.

He suggested taking such offenders as traffic violators out of the criminal justice process and imposing other than criminal penalties in certain instances.

Life terms asked for 2 Arab girls

ZRIPIN, Israel (UPI)—A military court convicted two Arab girls today on three of four charges arising from their part in the hijacking of a Belgian airliner to Tel Aviv in May. The prosecutor asked for life sentences instead of death, but they still pleaded for mercy.

Two of the three charges against the women carry the death penalty. They both sat impassively as the court read its verdict.

"I regret all I have done," Rima Aissa Tannous, 21, told the three-judge panel in her final statement before the court adjourned to deliberate her fate. "I have suffered all my life. I beg you to have pity on me and be light with my sentence."

Her co-defendant, Therese Khalsa, 19, reiterated that Arab guerrillas had forced her to help in the May 8 hijacking, adding: "I regret all I have done ... and I beg you to forgive me and have pity on my family and father. Thank you." Both girls, Miss Tannous in slacks and blouse, Miss Khalsa in a print dress, spoke in Arabic after their lawyers had asked the court to go easy on the girls.

Time airs report

NEW YORK (UPI)—Time Magazine reported Sunday that the Nixon administration may be bargaining for peace in Vietnam with President Nguyen Van Thieu's political future.

According to reports attributed to a Nixon official by the North Vietnamese national security affairs adviser Henry Kissinger, has been conducting unofficial talks with Hanoi's negotiators in Paris, Le Duc Tho and Xuan Thuy.

Time said that the administration is flirting with a peace proposal to give the Communists "a fair chance" to get rid of Thieu, and give Hanoi an option on future political evolution.

"In other words," the article said, "the U.S. would be willing to leave things so that Hanoi has a fair chance of getting rid of Thieu by itself—without the U.S. doing the north's dirty work."

OPEN LETTER TO THE VOTERS

Congratulations to all of the Republican voters who participated in last Tuesday's election in Twin Falls County. The campaigns for U. S. Senate and other offices activated many old and new voters.

The Republican Party in Twin Falls County encourages all people who voted for and worked for various Republican candidates to now work with the Party. It will take a unified effort to give President Nixon a Republican Congress and in particular, the U. S. Senate needs more Republican Senators. Worse yet, if McGovern is elected there must be more Republicans in Congress.

People who actively support candidates in the primary elections are the real backbone of this country. Some must win and some must lose, but the "backbone" is still there because concerned citizens care.

The Republican Party is the Party of the open door. The Party believes in the individual — the Party believes in the President. The Party is you and me and continues to need our continued unified support to elect its nominees.

Thanks again to all Republican voters in Twin Falls County for the splendid turnout August 8th.

Wendell couple exchange promises

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD MILLER

WEDELL — Janice Higginbotham and Richard Miller exchanged marriage vows during a ceremony July 20 at the United Methodist Church, Wendell.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Higginbotham and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller, all Wendell.

Woodrow Harris performed the double ring ceremony before a background setting of white daisy-trimmed candles containing white tapers, two altar vases of white gladioli enhanced with blue bows. The pews were marked with large yellow bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor-length princess-style gown of sheer nylon organza stocked with rows of white daisies. The cuffs of the long full sleeves and edge of the floor-length skirt, which extended into a long train, were trimmed with teal-colored lace. A hand sewn seed pearl centered each tiny daisy on the bodice.

Her two-tier fingertip veil of bridal tulle was held by an aurora borealis trimmed headpiece with small flowers centered with pearls.

The gown and veil were fashioned and made by the bride.

She carried a bouquet of white daisies and baby's breath enhanced with white ribbon. Mrs. Brandon Eaton, Boise, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Dan Pope, Twin Falls, cousin of the bride; Cindy West, Homedale, college roommate of the bride, and Holly McCombs, Gooding, Jack Lancaster, Wendell, served as best man, with Brandon Eaton, David Ulrich, nephew of the bridegroom, and Douglas Ulrich, nephew of the bridegroom, all Boise, serving as groomsmen.

Carrie Bradshaw, flower girl, carried an arrangement of white daisies. Roger Higginbotham, Twin Falls, cousin of the bride, carried the rings on a pillow made by the bride's grandmother 57 years ago.

Candlelighters were Mark Higginbotham, brother of the bride, and Don Ulrich, Boise, nephew of the bridegroom. Dennis Higginbotham, Pocatello, and Patrick Higginbotham, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

Guests were registered by Debra Schaefer, Jerome, and gifts were received by Beverly Schrank, Wendell, and Debra Ulrich, Boise, niece of the bridegroom. Mrs. La Vere Gooch, Jerome; Mrs. Ronald Lancaster, Jerome; and Mrs. Jack Gough, Wendell, sang, accompanied by Mrs. Urban Fort, Jerome.

A reception was held after the ceremony, with the bride and bridegroom cutting the first piece of cake and giving a champagne toast.

The wedding party greeted guests before a white arch decorated with greenery and white daisies backed by a white Austrian drape. Large baskets of white gladioli flanked the arch. Topiary trees topped with white doves and tied together with blue ribbon and bows marked the path to the receiving line.

Guests were served at quarter tables covered with lace over blue and yellow and centered with baskets of yellow and white daisies.

The bride's table was covered with white and skirted with lace enhanced with blue bows centered with daisies.

The table was centered with a three-tier cake with Roman garden above 13-inch white arched pillars with small lighted fountain with bubbly blue water under the cake.

Small angel musicians and green garlands were arranged around the fountain. The cake was iced in white with daisy and rose decorations and topped with an arrangement of fresh daisies. Two heart-shaped cakes flanked the large one along with crystal candleholders containing white tapers and arrangements of daisies and baby's breath in the holders.

A crystal punch bowl, silver coffee service and silver nut and mint dishes completed the table decor.

The bridegroom's cake was a five-layer fruit cake iced in yellow and topped with a black ball with gold chain.

Mrs. Fred Ulrich, Boise, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Kelly Dennis, Boise, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Michael Albertson, Moscow, sister of the bridegroom, poured coffee and Mrs. Charles Campbell, Wichita, Kan., sister of the bridegroom, poured punch.

Champagne was poured by the bride's brother, Dennis Higginbotham.

The gift table was attended by Mrs. Marvin Johnson, assisted by Mrs. James Higginbotham, aunt of the bride and Robyn Frith and Renee O'Donnell, Camarillo, Calif., cousin of the bride.

Kitchen assistants were Mrs. Harry Frith, Mrs. James Bunn and members of Job's Daughters.

Guests attended from Utah, Kansas, California, and Washington and Boise, Jerome, Tuttle, Twin Falls, Hagerman, Hansen, Moscow, Hazelton, Buhl, Gooding, Kimberly, Filer, Homedale, Bliss, Pocatello and Shoshone.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a recurring dream that bothers me. Can you possibly explain it?

I see myself as a pregnant nun-roller skating. Some boy knocks me down. I then yell that I'm about to give birth and I want the Pope. Some kind lady helps me and the crowd keeps yelling, "You can't be pregnant, you're a nun!"

I am a 20-year-old girl, single and Catholic. I am not, and never have been pregnant, and I don't even like roller skating. Please help me.

When I told a priest about my dream, he laughed. It may sound silly, but I wonder if I am losing my mind, or something to that effect. Please give me some reason for my dream.

WICHITA, KAS.

Priest laughs at girl's dream

DEAR WICHITA: When I showed your letter to the psychiatrist, whom I felt best competent to analyze your dream, he laughed, too. But he said it's impossible to accurately interpret such a dream without knowing more about the dreamer. In any case, almost everyone has wild dreams and recurring ones, so don't worry about yours.

DEAR ABBY: I read a letter in your column from a man who had been happily married for 24 years. He told how they "worked" at it.

He said his wife always got up first, made up her face and served him breakfast in a fresh dress. And when he came home in the evening she was always there to greet him with her hair combed, makeup retouched and wearing something glamorous.

Well, all marriages aren't the same. My husband declares that if he came home and didn't see me with a smudge on my nose and flour on my apron he'd wonder what I'd been doing all day.

Like most married folks, we can't afford a nurse, chauffeur and cook. That's MY job. My husband has his job, too, which causes him to get pretty grimy, but I don't expect him to shower, shave and put on clean clothes before he presents himself to me in the evening.

Some husbands, including mine, come home to find their wives aren't even there. They're out collecting for the Cancer Fund, or United Crusade, or working as a hospital volunteer.

We work at our marriage, too, but we don't necessarily work at being glamorous.

HAPPILY MARRIED, TOO

DEAR HAPPILY: Thanks for a realistic look at the other side of the coin.

DEAR ABBY: Glad you told that 40-year-old woman who was worried about getting pregnant, not to take any foolish chances. A few years ago I read in the newspaper that a 72-year-old Mexican woman gave birth to a baby! The item stated that down there they eat some kind of weed that keeps the women fertile, so 72 is not too late for them.

M. B.

DEAR M. B.: My medical authorities doubt the validity of that item. Just because something was "reported" in the newspaper doesn't necessarily mean it's true.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "INNOCENT, BUT NOT BELIEVED." The next time someone says, "I'll tell you something very confidential if you promise not to repeat it," you say, "Please don't tell me. I'd rather not be suspect if the word gets out."

A Lovelier You

GIRL ON A MAGAZINE COVER

By Mary Sue Miller

Beauty is a habit, pure and simple. It begins in the cradle with the habitual care given by a girl's mother. All that bathing, oiling and pampering in babyhood starts you on the road to loveliness. Step by step you learn the ways of self-cure and take-over. How well you look then depends entirely on your own beauty habits, the good and the bad.

If a girl appears unattractive it is because she has not learned how to make the most of herself. Or won't! You change the pattern of your appearance for the better just by breaking bad habits, so why not X them out? You know well enough what they are, but just in case let's review the for instances.

Are you slipshod about grooming? A clean body, clean face, clean hair, clean fingernails and clean clothes are the basics of beauty. Of social acceptability and self respect as well.

Do you value jobs of sweet snacks over a trim figure, and a clear skin? Where do you think little bumps on the chin and big bulges on the hips come from? Do you wish for prettier skin and hair? The regular — repeat regular — use of corrective skin-care formulas and shampoos make the wish come true.

That makes wishing a habit above all others to break. You must take positive action. And the action habit is what leads to good looks.

MODEL TIPS FOR TEENS

Fifty ways to ideal skin and natural makeup for young adults — ages 13 to 19 — are detailed in my booklet, MODEL TIPS FOR TEENS. Advice covers corrective skin care; how to use makeup to accent good points and play down problems; fashion model makeup tips. NEW YORK (UPI) — Big coats wrap up some of the biggest fashion news for fall and winter.

The pared-down princess coat with high armholes does a fadeout in the new collections from New York designers. In its place are coats full enough to look like capes, coats with waist-deep armholes, coats with plenty of swirl at the hemline, coats called the tent, the wrap, and the trench.

They come in assorted lengths, from fingertip and shirttail to wear with pants, the knee-highs for street length dresses, and to the floor for evening.

It's the year of the coat, say manufacturers. They give various reasons for the boom — the stabilization of dress lengths, brand-new styling and replacement of women's coat wardrobes, after two years of hesitant buying.

Most typical of the big look comes in sleeve treatments — rounded, molded shoulders, with raglan or dolman sleeves, some set-in waist-deep in the garment. Designer-ile Waas does one for Originals with the deepest of dolmans (to the waist), a cape back and two big, low-placed patch pockets. The fabric is chinchilla wool (nubby surface) in red and green plaid.

Originals is one of the New York manufacturers participating in this week in The American Designer fashion series of shows for the press.

For wear with pants (Originals showed pants in black wool crepe), there are fingertip-length shorties, single-breasted and in sharp colors like smooth, melton cloth, in hot pink.

Fabrics range from the meltons, to the fuzzy brushed wools, glaid plaids and the collegiate camel's hair.

The "midi" lengths still are around, but very much in the minority.

Designers refer this season to the comeback of the dress (it didn't go away, it just got outshone by pants). Designer Jim Baldwin holds that the choice between pants and dress is up to the woman.

Baldwin cuts trousers easy at the top with a straight fall from hip to hem. No exaggeration with Baldwin, although some designers widen the legs. No cuffs on Baldwin trousers.

"Cuffs keep a woman from looking taller," he says.

The comment matters not to Kasper, designer for Joan Leslie. His collection shown this week featured cuffed, wide-legged (23 to 24 inches) trousers with high-band waists and front pleating. They were shown with shirts, sweaters, Eisenhower-type jackets and the short wrap-tie coat.

Pinnacles National Monument in California's San Benito County has spiraling formations from 600 to 1,000-foot-high.

TF bridge winners reported

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. H. E. Burgess and Mrs. L. J. Robertson were first place winners in the Twin Falls Duplicate Bridge Club game Friday afternoon.

Second place winners were Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Benson and Mr. and Mrs. Don Rahe took third place.

Oswald: "The jump-to-game is always a limit bid of some sort and on most occasions is also a call that is intended to stop the bidding then and there."

Jim: "If the partner of the man who jumps to game has already made a limit bid it is up to him to pass."

Oswald: "Today's hand shows what can happen when a player breaks this rule. I won't get into a discussion of whether or not North's holding warranted a jump to three spades, but the fact is that he bid only two spades and South expected that the bidding would end when he jumped to game."

Mind Your Money

An increasing number of doctors and nutritionists are telling us to get off our "fatty acids." If we want to avoid heart disease.

This means eating less food with "saturated fats" and eating more food with "polyunsaturated fats." It also means getting up off chairs and automobile seats to do more walking and other exercise.

Doing this, they say, will help lower blood lipids (cholesterol and triglycerides) which may be a major factor in heart disease. But shopping for food that is low in saturated fat and high in polyunsaturated fat is not easy because food labels do not always give enough information.

One place to begin cutting through this food fog is your local chapter of the American Heart Association. You will be told, for example, that it's a good idea to use most animal food products in moderation (with the exception of fish and skinned fowl).

You will also learn that the use of polyunsaturated vegetable oils (corn, soy, safflower and others) works on the body chemistry to help lower cholesterol in the blood. So, these are "good" vegetable oils.

"The trouble is," says Mrs. Agnes Gordon Fry, nutritionist for the Montgomery County (Md.) Heart Association, my local chapter, "some companies hide unsatisfactory, saturated oils behind the general term 'vegetable oils.'"

For example, she says "nondairy" creamers and whipping creams use coconut oil which is highly saturated and not good for a fat-controlled diet. "They use coconut oil primarily because it won't spoil — not because it's good for your health. Actually," says Mrs. Fry, "plain, skim milk is very low in fat content and is much better for you."

This gets into the misleading advertising used to describe the fat content in some dairy products. Some milk and yogurt labels, for example, say "98 per cent fat free." Sounds great until you realize that regular milk is around 96.5 per cent fat free. Skim milk contains 1 per cent fat or less. "Lowfat" milk contains 2 per cent fat — twice as much.

Dannon Yogurt contains 1.2 per cent to 1.6 per cent fat depending on the flavor. Sealtest Light and Lively Yogurt contains 1 per cent. Some "low-fat" yogurts contain almost twice as much fat. Aim for near 1 per cent. If you can't find it on the label, call and ask the dairies or distributors.

Margarine is better than butter, says Mrs. Fry, "because it contains good vegetable oils." But not all margarines are good for controlled fat diets, she explains, because they have been overly hydrogenated (hardened).

Mrs. Fry lists the softer, "tub" margarines — Chiffon, Fleischmann's, Parkay and Nucor — as among the best. She also likes Mazola (liquid corn oil) stick margarine as well as some supermarket chain margarines.

In looking at labels, the trick is in which ingredient is listed first. Those that list the first ingredient as "liquid (safflower, corn, soybean) oil" are good, even if they list "hydrogenated" oils second. If the order is reversed, the margarine should not be used in a controlled fat diet.

Mrs. Fry says she got much of her low-fat, high-fat, brand information from "Available Products for the Controlled Fat Diet," a booklet put out by the Alameda County (Calif.) Heart Association. Perhaps you can ask your local heart association chapter to get a copy.

There are "cautionary notes" all through the booklet. One warns dieters off most "nondairy" frozen desserts which are made with "saturated fat" coconut oil.

For further information on national food and diet problems, read "Affluent Malnutrition: Fats in the Food We Eat," in the July issue of Consumer Bulletin (your library should have a copy).

Local government payrolls increase

WASHINGTON — Local government payrolls in the nation's 72 largest metropolitan areas increased by nearly $1 billion (about 55 percent) in a four-year span, according to a report issued by the Bureau of the Census, part of the U. S. Department of Commerce's Social and Economic Statistics Administration.

During this same span, local government employment within the 72 largest Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (SMSA's) increased from 3.5 million to 4.1 million.

The Bureau's report, based on a survey made in October, 1971, shows that local government payrolls in the 72 metropolitan areas grew from about $1.6 billion in October, 1967, to nearly $2.9 billion last October. The October, 1971 sum represents 62 percent of all local government payrolls.

Between October, 1970 and October, 1971, local government employment increased by 3.2 percent and local government payrolls were up 8.2 percent.

Education, by far, accounted for the largest share of local government employment and payroll in the 72 SMSA's. More than half of all local government employment in those metropolitan areas was in the education function, with 68 percent of that total in teaching positions. The total payroll in the education function was $1.5 billion in October, 1971, while employment was 1.8 million.

Campaign gets hot

TAVARES, Fla. (UPI) — Somebody set fire to one of Willis V. McCall's campaign billboards down in Groveland the other day, and another was chopped down in Leesburg.

Lake County residents have strong feelings about their longtime sheriff, who goes on trial Tuesday, accused of kicking to death a black prisoner in his jail cell.

"Around here, they talk about Willis McCall like they talk about the weather," which has been damn hot," said Bob Eshottwell of Leesburg, "and most of them say, 'ain't no doubt old Willis will get out of this again.'"

Despite the trial and despite his suspension by Gov. Reubin Askew, the 52-year-old McCall, who looks like the kindly grandfather. In a Western movie, he is campaigning for reelection as sheriff. He is opposed by three Democrats and one Republican, none of whom is given much chance by local forecasters.

"Keep McCall," signs have sprung up all over the county, where some 80,000 residents — many of them retirees from up north — live in small towns surrounded by still lakes and steaming orange groves.

The county sheriff for 28 years, McCall passes out wallet-sized color pictures of himself wearing a big white hat and astride a fancy saddled palomino horse that looks like Trigger's twin.

"Pray for me," McCall said one day last week when he dropped by a meeting of the Clermont Kiwanis Club and was invited to say a few words.

Orlando State Attorney Robert Engen, appointed by the governor to prosecute McCall, pictures the sheriff as "the saviour of the white man in Lake County." That, no doubt, accounts for much of his popularity in this conservative community.

"I know for a fact he has kept down trouble with the colored," said Athwell Williams of Leesburg. "I remember when the colored themselves stopped a bus at the Marion County line because they didn't want Martin Luther King in here stirring up trouble."

McCall, often the target of civil rights organizations, says he's been investigated "more than 40 times." But this is the first time he's ever been indicted.

A special grand jury impeached the neighboring Orange County on the governor's request returned a three-count indictment, charging McCall with second degree murder, aggravated assault and aggravated battery in the death of Tommy V. Vickers, a prisoner being held on a traffic violation.

British envoy flies to Uganda

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)—British envoy Geoffrey Rippon flew to Uganda Saturday hoping to talk President Idi Amin out of expelling more than 50,000 British Asians from this African country within three months.

The Uganda government, however, said Amin would be too busy to see Rippon until Tuesday. Diplomatic sources said Amin's attitude and the presence of only low-level Ugandan officials at the airport to greet Rippon looked like a deliberate snub.

Prime Minister Edward Heath sent Rippon to Kampala in an attempt to prevent a flood of expelled Asians descending on Britain.

"British government sources said Heath hoped at least to persuade Amin not to insist on a 90-day deadline, allowing the departure of Asians holding British passports to be phased over several years."

"My hope is that, within the context of policy, consideration will be given to the practical considerations involved in implementing it (Amin's order)," Rippon told newsmen on his arrival.

British officials said Amin's attitude made it unlikely Rippon could meet him at all. They said Rippon so far had decided to hold to his original timetable—flying on Sunday to Kenya, then to Tanzania and then home to London Tuesday.

The other two countries, where large numbers of British Asians live, have indicated they will refuse to absorb any

Grandmother takes oath in kitchen

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Barron P. McCune, who normally administers naturalization oaths in formal surroundings, went into the kitchen to make an American of Theresa Andreone.

McCune made the unusual gesture Friday because Mrs. Andreone, 86, is unable physically to attend the usual ceremonies at the Federal Building.

The elderly, Italian-born grandmother took the oath in her home in suburban Bridgeville, seated at a kitchen table with a miniature American flag in her hand.

A grandchild started her on the road to citizenship after reading a newspaper article last March which explained that certain requirements could be waived for a person who had lived in this country more than 20 years and was 50 years old when Congress passed a special law in 1952.

"That's all?" asked Mrs. Andreone after reciting the two-minute oath.

"Aah!" she said when asked if she was excited.

A native of Veleno, Italy, which was named for her family, Mrs. Andreone was persuaded to come to the United States in 1907 by her future husband, Edoardo.

"I was so sick during the (eight-day trans-Atlantic) trip!" she said. "I'll never go back."

With four sons, three daughters and 10 grandchildren, Mrs. Andreone recommends plenty of vegetables, a daily bowl of soup and willingness to work as secrets of longevity.

She has lived through the administrations of 12 American presidents, and was particularly impressed by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Viet bonuses

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Michigan voters will decide in November whether to float a $266 million bond issue to provide educational assistance or bonuses for Vietnam era veterans.

The plan would provide a one-time bonus of $500 for all Vietnam combat veterans, and a bonus of $15 per month up to a ceiling of $300 for veterans who served in non-combat areas during the war.

expelled from Uganda. Rippon conferred Saturday with British High Commissioner (Ambassador) Richard Slater. He also met the Indian high commissioner—many of the Asians are of Indian origin—and leaders of the Ugandan Asian community.

Amin has said his decision affects all Asians, whether or not they carry British passports. He accused the Asians of sabotaging Uganda's economy. In London, a 7-year-old black girl marched to Heath's official Downing street residence at the head of a protest parade. While 50 persons picketed with placards, the girl led a delegation which delivered a letter asking Britain to scrap its slow-moving quota system for immigrants from East Africa and open its doors wide to the expelled Asians.

Young US political leaders honor Lenin

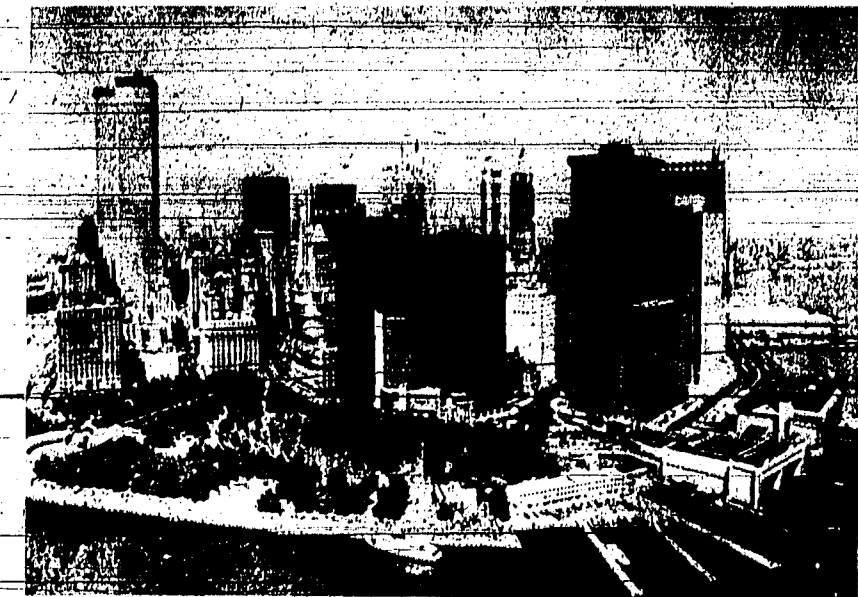

MOSCOW (UPI) — Sixteen young-American political leaders who came to Russia prepared to fire back at any Soviet propaganda attack wound up their stay Saturday by paying a tribute to V.I. Lenin.

"We came with our guns loaded in case they pushed us..." said New York Republican Alfred Dell Bovi. "Every time they dragged Vietnam into our talks, I said I wanted to discuss Czechoslovakia."

Bovi and 15 other Republicans and Democrats spent two weeks touring the Soviet Union. At a seminar in Tbilisi (home town of the late dictator Josef Stalin) they discussed foreign policy, Soviet-American relations, youth and students.

At the conclusion of the trip this morning, one Republican and one Democrat were scheduled to lay a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

"When we got to the Lenin museum, we found our hosts had provided two wreaths, one for the unknown soldier, the other, for Lenin's tomb," said Edwin Feulner Jr., administrative assistant to Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-Ill.

Olin Robinson, a Maine Democrat and dean of Bowdoin college, said he and Feulner decided they had no choice but to place the wreath.

"We carried it between us, all the way across Red Square," Robinson said.

Except for the unexpected appearance of the wreath for Lenin, the tour went off without incident, members of the American group reported.

"I was taken by how little they pushed us on the contradictions of American society," said Harding Carter III, Mississippi Democrat and editor of the Delta Democratic Times. "The Russian delegates

Most of the Russian participants in the Tbilisi seminar were experts who had won degrees in American studies or worked in the United States. The Americans, on the other hand, described themselves as "generalists."

Kool-Aid heiress must pay alimony

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The heiress to the multi-million-dollar Kool-Aid fortune has agreed to dissolution of her 20-year marriage on terms which will give her ex-husband $2,500 a month alimony as long as she lives.

The interlocutory dissolution decree, as a divorce decree is termed in California, provides that Nancy Jane O'Neill will pay the alimony on a quarterly basis to James Edward O'Neill, even if he should remarry, as long as both live.

According to the property settlement, "throughout their marriage wife has used her sole and separate property to provide for the support of husband and their (five) children."

The agreement stipulates that if Mrs. O'Neill dies first, O'Neill will have a claim to $1,866 a month from the estate as long as he lives.

When Mrs. O'Neill's father, Edwin E. Perkins, died in 1961 at the age of 73, he left an estate of more than $50 million. It was described as one of the biggest estates ever to go through Probate Court in Cook County, Ill.

25% U.S. houses new since 1960

WASHINGTON, D.C. — One of every four homes listed in the 1970 census was built between 1960 and 1970.

According to a special report released today by the Bureau of the Census, part of the U.S. Department of Commerce's Social and Economic Statistics Administration, there were 67.7 million housing units built for year-round use counted in the 1970 census.

Of this number, some 17 million (25 per cent) were built since 1960, and nearly one-half (46 per cent) were built within the last 20 years.

Much of the new construction occurred in the suburbs. Only 18 per cent of housing units inside central cities were built between 1960 and 1970, while in the suburbs the proportion was 33 per cent, and in non-metropolitan areas, 24 per cent.

More than 27 per cent of the nation's homes had more than one bathroom and 40 per cent had three or more bedrooms.

The report also notes the following characteristics about American housing in 1970:

- 47.7 per cent of all households had one automobile available; 29.3 per cent had the use of 2 cars; 5.5 per cent, 3 or more; and 17.5 per cent reported none.
- 35.7 per cent were air-conditioned, 17.9 per cent with one room unit; 7.2 per cent with two or more room units, and 10.7 per cent with central air conditioning.
- 95.5 per cent had television sets; 66.8 per cent having one set, and 28.7 per cent two or more sets. A total of 51.7 per cent were equipped to receive UHF broadcasts.
- 71.1 per cent had a washing machine.
- 41.8 per cent were equipped with a clothes dryer.
- 18.9 per cent had dishwashers.
- 28.2 per cent had home food freezers.

Common Cause checks unions' federal funds

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Common Cause, having won the first skirmish in its campaign to get corporate government contractors out of political fund raising, now will go after labor unions that get federal training funds and also raise campaign money.

John W. Gardner, founder and chairman of the lobbying group that has pledged itself to monitor campaign finance law enforcement, will write 40 international unions that have registered affiliated political fund raising organizations to find out if they also have federal work-training subsidies.

Last week, TRW Inc., a company with more than $200 million in government contracts, agreed to dissolve an affiliated political action fund and return unspent money to the employees who donated it. Common Cause had filed suit May 15 charging that TRW was in violation of the 1972 campaign financing law by operating such a fund while holding government contracts.

As a result of the TRW action in the District of Columbia federal court, the Common Cause suit was dropped.

A Common Cause attorney, Ken Guido, said the organization had identified at least three other firms—the Olin Corp., Northrop, and Hughes Aircraft—that like TRW had defense contracts and similar political action funds. He said

Gardner was writing them with the suggestion that they close down their political action funds as well. There also were nine other firms with affiliated funds that had other types of government contracts.

Air Force deletes N plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A plan to give the United States a "first strike" capability for a surprise nuclear attack has been dropped by the Air Force.

Pentagon officials said Friday that the plan was apparently written into the Air Force manual in 1965 to give the president the choice of initiating a nuclear raid, rather than just responding to an attack.

The revision brought the Air Force into compliance with the policy of President Nixon, who has said the United States will never start a nuclear attack.

An Air Force spokesman said the plan had been carried over into the latest manual, even though it was in conflict with national policy.

Economics institute at Burley

BURLEY — More than 40 teachers and businessmen went back to school for a week in Burley today to study current economic issues.

They were participants in the 1972 Summer Economic Institute, co-sponsored by the Idaho Council on Economic Education and the Idaho State Chamber. The institute is held at the Ponderosa Inn.

Curtis T. Eaton, Twin Falls, chairman of the council, said the institute has three principal objectives:

- To objectively analyze current economic issues, particularly as they relate to Idaho.

- To help teachers in Idaho's public schools develop their understanding of economics so that they may in turn instill such understanding in their students.

- To improve lines of communication among teachers, businessmen and others who are concerned about economic issues, but from different points of view.

Dr. Richard K. Hart, Boise State College, is responsible for arranging the five daily sessions. He said topics would include ecological economics, labor in the American economy, financing state and local government, American capitalism, growth, employment and inflation, banking and fiscal policy, and foreign trade.

Speakers will include economists, businessmen, labor leaders and others recognized for their specialized expertise. Formal sessions are scheduled, Hart said, but in formal, give-and-take discussions will be strongly emphasized.

MOUNTAIN HOME AFB, Idaho (UPI)—Resurfacing operations on the main 13,500-foot runway at the Mountain Home Air Force Base have been completed and 20 F-111s and more than 300 support personnel deployed to Cannon AFB, N.M., during the repair will be returning to the Idaho base.

Kenya's Jomo Kenyatta attacked near Nairobi

NAIROBI (UPI)—A mob stoned a man to death in the mistaken belief he was trying to assassinate Kenya President Jomo Kenyatta, the government said Saturday.

Both the government-controlled Kenya News Agency and police denied there was any assassination attempt in the incident Friday at Njoro, 100 miles north of Nairobi.

Reports from the scene said two men made a knife attack on the 82-year-old Kenyatta during ceremonies opening a new extension of Egerton

Agricultural College and that the president's bodyguards opened fire, killing three persons.

But the news agency said, "A deranged person attempted to wedge his way through and sit next to the president."

"He was overcome by the authorities and whisked into custody. A brother of his was mistakenly stoned to death by the crowd when he attempted to get to the scene of the incident in order to inform the authorities of his brother's abnormal state."

Jerome school decision due -

JEROME.—A decision is expected tonight by the Jerome School Board on the district's trustee rezoning proposals.

The trustees will meet at 8 p.m. in the superintendent's office at the junior high school.

At a special meeting July 31, the trustees, following a long and somewhat heated discussion, tabled until tonight, a proposal for rezoning the school district. The proposal submitted by Supt. John Campbell, and prepared by Allan Jeffries, of the Idaho Department of Education, would change the present school district zones in an effort to obtain a fair representation on the school board.

Under the proposed rezoning newly elected trustee William Kersey, and trustee Leroy Weigle would reside in the same zone.

Also on the agenda for the meeting is a report from Craig Fisher, Blue Cross and Blue Shield representative, and a letter from Jerry Diehl, high school principal, on the dress code and drill team.

Under new business, contracts for four teachers will be submitted to the board for approval, as well as the resignation of one other teacher.

New clerk pick due for Camas

FAIRFIELD — Camas County commissioners may make a tentative appointment of a county clerk today to replace Estelle Durall, the present clerk.

~~Mrs. Durall, who has served~~ as clerk since January, 1963, ~~will continue at her post until~~ after the November general election. She plans to retire then.

On her retirement, Mrs. Durall said she "enjoyed every bit" of her work and that a good association exists with other county officials. But, she said, she felt she worked long enough and would like to "take it easy."

The county clerk said the population of Camas County has decreased until in the past year, when it increased because of the purchase of recreational lands.

However, she said, the work load has increased because of the magistrate court procedures.

Mrs. Durall began as deputy clerk in December, 1947.

The county commissioners will consider recommendations for the post from the county central committees of both major political parties.

Road route draws fire

KETCHUM (UPI) — Wood River Valley citizens know as the "Round Table" are voicing opposition to a proposed four-lane highway through this area. The group has formed task forces to study modernization of the present highway, alternative means of transportation, hidden economic costs of the Idaho Highway Department's Plan, and environmental impact. Round Table moderator James Donart says.

The highway department has proposed a 200-foot-wide four-lane highway from Timmerman Hill to the Sawtooth National Recreation Area boundary north of Sun Valley.

The expressway would replace Highway 83.

Donart said round table members feel a highway of such width would destroy the openness and beauty which

He is charged of forcible rape of a Rupert widow in her 60s.

The woman, unidentified by Minidoka County officials, was attacked early Wednesday while in her home in Rupert.

Ybarra was arrested two days later in Burley by both Rupert and Burley Police.

The victim was listed in good condition today in Minidoka County Memorial Hospital where she is being treated for stab wounds.

TF Demos set meet tonight

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Democratic Central Committee will meet tonight to elect officers for the coming two years.

County Chairman Vincent Smaizal, who has held the party's top job in the county for the past six years, is expected to win another two-year term. Despite his expressed desire to step down after three terms, Smaizal said today he would accept another two years in his post.

Other officers to be selected at the meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. in the judicial building in Twin Falls are vice chairman, secretary, treasurer, and two representatives, a man and a woman, to the state central committee.

The central committee at the county level is composed of one precinct committeeman from each of the county's 48 voting precincts, in addition to officers.

Smaizal said the meeting required by state law to be within 10 days of the state's primary elections. The election was last Tuesday.

The two legislative district committees are also expected to elect new officers at the meeting, although the central committee is a separate organization and does not govern the legislative district committees.

Hazel Wilder is the current chairman in Legislative District 24, while the county district 25, is headed by the party by Eugene Conner in Twin Falls.

It is not known whether the Democratic legislative district will be identified at a meeting tonight.

Falling snag kills young firefighters

—DROFINO, Idaho (UPI) — An Idaho forester said today two young firefighters were apparently trying to escape from a fire when they were killed by a falling snag.

—Russell Allen, 24, Richfield, Utah, and Gregory Heathco, 18, Orofino, Idaho died Friday when they were hit by the falling snag while fighting a 1,300-acre fire on Harris Ridge about four miles north of Kootenai in the Middle Fork of the Clearwater River.

—“We can only speculate at this time,” said Luke Aldridge, a supervisor in the forestry department, “but apparently they had gone up on this rocky bluff to let the fire burn around them in the grass.”

—“While they were waiting on top of the bluff the snag either blew or fell over on them and knocked them into the fire,” Aldridge said.

Gooding teenager misses court date

GOODING — Police are still looking for a Gooding teen-ager, who failed to appear for sentencing for an attack on a school teacher.

Don Murray, 19; Darwin Wheeler, 19; and Mike Daniels, 20, all Gooding, were arrested May 8 and charged with assault and battery in connection with a fight involving him and Morten Krabb, a Gooding High School teacher, at a high school dance.

Charges against Daniels were dropped after he joined the US Marine Corps.

Wheeler and Murray were found guilty following a jury trial June 5. The two were released on their own recognizance while a pre-sentence investigation was conducted.

Wheeler was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail beginning July 19 but Murray did not appear for sentencing.

Wheeler will be released Aug. 18. A bench warrant has been served for Murray.

Wallace improves

GEORGE WALLACE returned home to the executive mansion in Montgomery, Ala., and did his first outdoor, crowd-type handshaking since he was shot shaking hands May 15th in a Maryland shopping center. He was to return to therapy in Birmingham today. (UPI)

Wallace shakes hands

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace, back at the executive mansion for the first time since a would-be assassin shot him, insisted Saturday on shaking hands with about 100 tourists who were touring the capital.

Little opposition to Gem mine rules

BOISE (UPI) — Rules and regulations of the 1971 State Surface Mining Act met with little opposition Friday during a hearing at the statehouse. According to Assistant Attorney General Donald Knickrehm, representative mining interests recognized the state law as explicit with regard to specific mining regulations. "The rules and regulations tell them how to apply for permits and there is no reason for opposing the regulations," Knickrehm said. Al Teske, executive secretary of the Idaho Mining Association, said the regulations clearly point out procedures for applying for mining permits. Knickrehm concluded the hearing by saying the regulations will go before the State Land Board for consideration, and he expressed optimism they would be adopted.

front of the residence, and opened the grounds to visitors. "I'm glad to see you and hope those pictures turn out good," he told sightseers who flocked to take his photo and wish him well.

Wallace was paralyzed from the waist down by a bullet which lodged in his spine when he was shot May 15 while campaigning for the presidency at a shopping center in Laurel, Md.

When he was released from the Maryland hospital where his wounds were treated, he flew to the Democratic National Convention at Miami Beach, and went directly from there to the Spain Rehabilitation Center. The governor stopped off briefly at the Montgomery airport on his way to the convention, but Saturday marked his first visit to the mansion since the shooting. Many of those whose hands Wallace shook wished him luck and said they were praying for his complete recovery.

UN chief cites fear-based peace

PEKING (UPI) — Kurt Waldheim, the first United Nations Secretary-General to visit the People's Republic of China, told his hosts Saturday humanity in the present age is living in a situation of "peace built on fear."

Waldheim, speaking at a banquet given in his honor by Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei, said he was convinced China's membership in the U.N. would "contribute considerably to solving the many problems with which we are confronted."

"The success of the United Nations," he said, "depends on the attitudes and efforts of its members."

Waldheim cited the "bloodshed" and war in Vietnam, the Middle East, the Cyprus problem and "serious problems on the Indo-Pakistan subcontinent" as the world's outstanding problems. "We live today in an era where peace is maintained mainly through the deterrent of weapons of mass destruction, a peace built on fear," he said. "This situation must not lead us to believe that peace can be taken for granted. On the contrary, the existence of these frightening weapons seriously jeopardizes world peace and this makes it all the more important that we should devote ourselves to reduce and finally eliminate the wasteful armaments race." Several hundred Chinese officials and foreign diplomats attended the banquet in the Great Hall of the People, where President Nixon was honored during his China visit in February.

Waldheim spent his first day in Peking discussing international affairs with China's foreign minister. More talks were scheduled Sunday.

There has been no indication whether Premier Chou En-lai will receive the secretary-general.

In his welcoming speech, Chi praised the third world countries that "are playing an increasingly great role in international affairs."

"It has become more and more difficult for the superpowers wilfully to dominate the world or manipulate and monopolize the United Nations," Chi said.

BYU car beats limits

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — A team of graduate engineering students from Brigham Young University entered the only auto to which beat the 1978 federal auto emission standards among 63 experimental cars in the National Urban Vehicle Design Competition Friday.

The team, headed by Roger Billings, used a basic Volkswagen body and powered it with a hydrogen-fueled internal combustion engine which was virtually pollution-free.

The contest, which sought student designs for the best overall urban vehicle, was sponsored by various governmental and industrial groups seeking small, safe, economical and pollution-free transportation designs from the future engineers.

The top styling and safety awards were presented by Transportation Secretary John Volpe to a 150-member team from the University of British Columbia, Vancouver. The team built an angular, 10-foot auto with a four-cylinder internal combustion engine running on liquefied natural gas.

Tribal council calls for revenue sharing

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — The National Tribal Council Association Friday called for revenue sharing on a city-like portion basis for reservations.

The resolution backed an amendment to the revenue sharing bill now in congress. It would make reservations a local government getting funds similar to those of a city would under the program.

"We believe this amendment is a test of congress and the reservation Indians' right to share the future," the resolution said. "We request that you not leave us out thereby confirming the principle that the government in the Indian country should be by consent of the governed."

In another resolution the association asked that $750,000 in federal funds be provided for construction at the Chemawa Indian School in Salem. It said there should be a lump sum instead of piecemeal appropriations in order to avoid delay of construction.

Welster Two-Hawk, of Rosebud Sioux Tribe of South Dakota, newly elected association president, said the organization would seek out national priorities of Indian Affairs.

"We will try to communicate their need to federal agencies," he said. "But we will also try to get current input from the reservations."

Two-Hawk, a delegate from South Dakota, will go to the Republican National convention in Miami.

"I will be taking proposals down there where we have a good chance of getting them in the platform," he said.

Named to the board along with Two-Hawk were Wendell Chinol Mescalero-Apache, N.M., vice president; Nathan Little Soldier, Fort Berthold Tribe, N.D., secretary; and Odric Baker, La Crosse, Wis.

Lewiston edges Twin Falls 3-2

LEWISTON — Lewiston's Gary Munden delivered a run-scoring double in the top of the ninth inning to lift Lewiston to a 3-2 victory over Twin Falls in the loser bracket semi-finals of the state Legion tournament Sunday afternoon.

Munden's double scored Gary Hill who had walked and stolen second base. The win put Lewiston into the finals against undefeated Boise with both teams clinching trips to the regional tournament next week.

Twin Falls took an early lead when Mark Hanchey, who hit .600 for the tournament, got a single and was sacrificed to second base. He scored on Mike Tremayne's hit.

But Lewiston picked up two in the third for a 2-1 lead. Hanchey brought in the tying run in the fifth when he lived on an error, moved up on Mike Fries' hit and scored when Tremayne and Munden tangled at first base in a close play.

Twin Falls missed a good chance in the sixth when, with Dick Walker on second, Rick Spriggs bounced a single up the middle. But Walker was thrown out at the plate.

Twin Falls outthrew Lewiston 7-4 as Kevin Nelson threw the first seven innings before giving way to Dennis Warburton. Steve Curt went the distance for Lewiston.

Paris-Culligan stays undefeated

TWIN FALLS — Paris-Culligan moved into the championship finals of the district slowpitch tournament Sunday night.

Paris-Culligan nipped Alley 9-8 and Depot Grill and Coors. First Federal joined those two in clinching trips to state.

Paris-Culligan awaits a challenger from the loser bracket at 8 p.m. Monday. The opposition will be the winner between Depot Grill and Alley, who play at 8:45 p.m. If Paris-Culligan loses the 8 p.m. game, a second championship battle is set for 9 p.m.

In another daylong bout, which saw some rain in the evening, Depot Grill and Coors-First Federal played the most as they scrambled through the lower bracket. Depot Grill dropped Gallatin Valley Seed and Ford Transfer-Brake and Petroleum while Coors was topping Cain's 11-0 and then skinning past Stan's Chevron 5-4.

Builder of Yankee dynasty dies at 79

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI) — George Weiss, who as general manager of the New York Yankees built a baseball dynasty in the Bronx and later became president of the Mets and guided that organization to a World Championship in 1969, died early Sunday at a Greenwich, Conn., nursing home. He was 79.

Weiss died at 4:30 a.m. at the Putnam-Weaver home in Greenwich, where he had resided for the past several months.

Weiss was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in January, 1971, but took ill in May of that year and was unable to attend the induction ceremonies in Cooperstown, N. Y., last August.

Before entering organized baseball in the early 1920s, Weiss worked in his father's grocery in New Haven, Conn. But, the lure of baseball prompted him to organize a semi-professional team in New Haven that was so proficient that it brought the young Weiss to the attention of the Baltimore Orioles organization, then in the International League.

Weiss' success with the Orioles led to an offer from Yankee President Col. Jacob Ruppert, who appointed Weiss general manager of the Newark Bears, a Yankee farm team, in the late 1920s.

Yanks sweep doubleheader

NEW YORK (UPI) — Back-to-back home runs by Ron Blomberg and Bernie Allen in the seventh inning brought the New York Yankees to a 5-4 victory and a sweep of Sunday's doubleheader with the Milwaukee Brewers before a Bat Day crowd of 56,238, largest in the American League this season.

Blomberg, pinch-hitting for Fred Beene who picked up his first major league victory, homered after Felipe Alou had opened the inning with a single. Blomberg belted his 10th homer on the first pitch served by Jim Colborn into the rightfield seats. Allen followed with his fourth which proved to be the winning run as the Brewers battled back with one run in the ninth.

Ron Klimkowski was on the mound because Sparky Lyle had made his seventh appearance in eight days to pick up his 28th save in the opener which the Yanks won, 5-3 for Mel Stottlemyre's 13th victory.

The Yanks scored in the first inning of the nightcap on Allen's double and Roy White's single.

Australian swimmer only 15 but looks like real winner

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — It's rare for a female to steal the limelight on a great sporting occasion, so when it happens the lady has to be something special.

Shane Gould is something special.

At 15, one could hardly call the Australian swimmer a lady, but her physical attributes are such that it is hard to believe she is so young.

Although the Olympic Games are Shane's first major competition, she already walks and talks with the style of a winner.

"A girl in a million," is how her coach, Forbes Carlisle, describes her. Fair comment when you consider she held, until recently, every freestyle record from 100 to 1,600 meters.

Why she became a super star when so young was apparent for all to see on her first day in Munich.

Minutes after checking into her quarters following the 30-hour flight from Australia she was "unwinding" in the Olympic pool.

"Nothing serious, you understand," she said. "I just wanted to get the feel of the water."

Other lesser mortals pulled over so they could stand and watch the Australian's stroke action. Maybe they could find the secret which would make them great champions.

Her workout complete, Shane strolled over to talk to newsmen.

"You recently lost two of your world records to Americans. Shane, how do you feel about that?" was the first question fired at her.

Quick as a flash, she came back: "Oh, yeah, that. Well, to tell you the truth, I'm surprised they did not go faster. I set my times six months ago. I've been out of competition since but, believe me, I'm faster now than I was in January."

"Because the Americans broke several records during their trials in Chicago does not mean they've suddenly come on. We've worked hard back home, but as we've not done any competitive swimming, we have not made the headlines."

"None of us lost any sleep at what took place in Chicago. It's what happens here that matters."

A moment's pause to catch her breath and reflect and she added: "Come to think of it, I'd rather beat those Americans at the Games rather than have it the other way around. They can have my records 'for the moment'."

Shirley Babashoff swam the 200 meters freestyle in 2:05.02 during the U.S. Olympic trials to break Shane's existing record of 2:05.08, while Jo Ann Harshbarger got the 800 meters time down to 8:52.08 against Shane's 8:58.01.

Her times for 100 meters (58.05), 400 meters (4:21.51) and 1,500 meters (17:00.06) still stand.

In addition to the four freestyle events, Shane will also start in the 200 meter individual medley, while she'll anchor the relay teams.

"It's good to be the underdog in a couple of events. It helps take the pressure off," she said.

When it was suggested that "even a girl in a million cannot take on the world single-handed in a space of seven days," Shane smiled, shrugged her shoulders, and said: "Well, I'm fit and am ready to take on anyone."

The pool is fast and I like the atmosphere. I think it's going to be very exciting."

She was ready to go on talking but swimming Manager Fred Pegram intervened.

"Okay, fellas, let's call it a day. We've come a long way and are tired. We also have to eat."

As Pegram walked from the pool, he said: "What makes her a super star?"

"Natural ability, high intelligence and extraordinary self discipline."

Brazil driver scores win in Austrian race

ZELTWEG, Austria (UPI) — Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil moved closer to the world drivers' championship Sunday, scoring a smashing victory in the Austrian Grand Prix.

The 26-year-old Brazilian covered the 200 miles—54 laps around the 3.6 miles circuit—in one hour, 29 minutes, 16.66 seconds for an average speed of 134.06 miles per hour.

Danilo Hulme of New Zealand was second in 1:29:17.84 and Peter Revson of New York City in a Yardley McLaren Ford was third in 1:29:53.19.

"Everything went perfectly," Fittipaldi said. "I told you I liked this course. It suited my John Player Special Lotus beautifully."

Fittipaldi was second here last year in the Austrian Grand Prix, trailing the late Swiss champion Jo Siffert by only 4.1 seconds.

The shocker of the day was the complete failure of the Ferrari team and the disappointing performance of defending champion Jackie Stewart of Scotland, who raced in a new model Tyrrell-Ford 005 and finished seventh.

Jackie took Clay Regazzoni, who gave Ferrari a one-two finish in the recent Grand Prix, dropped out before the halfway point with engine troubles. Fittipaldi now has a 25-point lead in the Formula One driver's standings that virtually assures him of the world title.

The two runners-up, Stewart and Hulme, can only theoretically overtake him if one of them should win all the remaining three races with Fittipaldi not picking up a point.

The Brazilian now has 52 points followed by Stewart and Hulme with 27 points each. A victory is worth nine points.

"He is the new world champion," said Lotus Manager Colin Chapman. "Who should keep him from taking it?"

Chapman, who brought up two previous world champions in Jim Clark and Jochen Rindt, tossed his hat into the air when Fittipaldi zoomed across the finish line as the winner.

"He has made it, he has made it," Chapman shouted.

"Pole's shirt brought me all the possible luck," Fittipaldi said. "He wanted me to become as famous in racing as he is in soccer."

Fittipaldi was presented with Pole's number 10 soccer shirt brought from Brazil by a newsmen on the eve of the race.

For a while, it looked as though Stewart would live up to this great reputation and endanger Fittipaldi's victory.

Jenkins wins 16th for Cubs

CHICAGO (UPI) — Don Kessinger and Jose Cardenal sparked three scoring innings with successive hits and Ferguson Jenkins won his 16th game as the Chicago Cubs beat the New York Mets 7-4 Sunday.

Jenkins, bidding for his sixth straight 20-victory season, was knocked out in the seventh inning but Jack Aker pitched the final 2-1-3, striking out three and allowing just one hit, to protect the victory.

Blomberg, pinch-hitting for Fred Beene who picked up his first major league victory, homered after Felipe Alou had opened the inning with a single. Blomberg belted his 10th homer on the first pitch served by Jim Colborn into the rightfield seats. Allen followed with his fourth which proved to be the winning run as the Brewers battled back with one run in the ninth.

Ron Klimkowski was on the mound because Sparky Lyle had made his seventh appearance in eight days to pick up his 28th save in the opener which the Yanks won, 5-3 for Mel Stottlemyre's 13th victory.

The Yanks scored in the first inning of the nightcap on Allen's double and Roy White's single.

Giants topple Houston 4-3

HOUSTON (UPI) — Jim Willoughby pitched a five-hitter and Chris Speier drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly Sunday to give the San Francisco Giants a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros.

Speier's sacrifice fly came in a two-run sixth inning. Garry Maddox and Fran Healy opened the inning with singles and both advanced on Willoughby's bunt single.

Pirates, Cards split pair

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates spotted St. Louis a four-run lead in the third inning, then stormed back behind the bat of Richie Hebner to defeat the Cardinals, 3-2, Sunday in the second game of a doubleheader after the Cardinals had taken the opener, 2-0, behind the five-hit pitching of Rick Wise.

The split enabled Pittsburgh to take a 10-game lead over the second-place New York Mets in the National League East.

Hebner, who had three hits, scored two runs and had two RBI's, singled home Vic Davalillo and scored on Bill May's double in a three-run fourth.

In the Pirate sixth, Dave Cash walked, Al Oliver doubled him home and after Willie Stargell was walked intentionally, Hebner doubled to score Oliver.

Stargell and Hebner scored the third and fourth runs of the inning on a Rob Robertson's single.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, AUGUST 14, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are determined now that you are going to produce the results that are vital to your feeling of accomplishment, but you need to doublecheck every single detail for there is a tendency to make errors. Smile and show others you like them if you want to get the best results from today's activities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to plan your time cleverly if you want to handle both personal and business affairs well today. Be sure you do not get into anything hastily so you have to repent at leisure. Social events should be very gratifying in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make sure you keep associates and kin separated or there could be big arguments resulting that are best avoided. Take care you do not criticize others, if possible. A kind word works miracles, though.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You had better have all facts and figures ready and accurate if you want to get that work done in a most efficient way. Use ingenuity so you add to present goodwill you enjoy. A favorable evening for relaxation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can be your determined self, but keep a smile very much in evidence if you want to make this a successful day. Cut down on expenses. Think big, but keep an eye on the pennies. Devotion to mate is a must.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to be careful you do not talk so much at home that you get on others' nerves. Improve your wardrobe and appearance. Do some reading that develops your mind, thoughts.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are able to get the cooperation of associates for expansion, so do just that instead of hesitating. You can postpone those personal duties to a better day. Keep appointments on time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't be so concerned with financial matters just at a time when a good friend is able to help you gain some personal goal that means much to you. The social side of life is your best bet now. Do some good friend a favor.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keep busily occupied at personal chores and avoid that tendency to criticize those in power or you could get into much trouble. Take the charm and health treatments that are helpful. Make a fine impression socially in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't give into that temptation to downgrade one toward whom you feel unfriendly, but plan something constructive that makes your own life more successful. Consult an expert about something.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Listen to what an expert has to say about making your life more prosperous and stop worrying so much about your credit and other problems.

Accept a social invitation for the evening. Make right contacts. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Now that you understand what a partner wants get busy and coordinate efforts and forget that outside affair. Save some time to help one who is having a hard time. Be a bit of a help to some one.

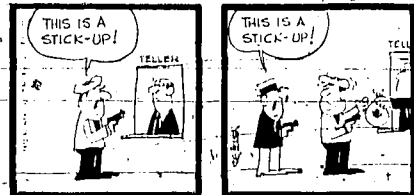

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Getting a new slant on present interests can make them far more successful now. Become more expert at them. Try not to argue with co-workers and keep things at your work as best you can.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those charming young people who will brook no interference in gaining what is wanted, so be sure to teach the finest precepts and ideals early so that only right interests will finest precepts and ideals early so that only right interests will be pursued and there will be no confusion or regrets later. Give as much education as your offspring desires and prepare well for the future. Some discipline is necessary early in life to prevent this youngster from getting into trouble. Spiritual
