Big states vow GOP platform floor fight over reform issues

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Led by New York and Pennsylvania, some Republican National Convention big-state delegations vowed a floor fight today over convention reform, an issue New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller said would "cast the die" for the GOP for decades.

Behind the scene efforts continued however to work out a compromise to avoid even the slightest acrimony at the Republicans' triumphal renomination of President Nixon tonight.

Gov. William G. Milliken of Michigan said his state was seeking a compromise with the reform measure approved by the convention's Rules Committee. But Michigan leaders said they were ready to fight, too.

New York and Pennsylvania, which together have 148 delegates to the current convention, both voted in state caucuses to fight on the floor if big states did not win a better break in allocation of delegates for future conventions.

"This issue will cast the die for the form of the Republican Party for the next 20 to 30 years to come," Rockefeller said.

"I don't know how they could come up with a more unequivable plan," said a Pennsylvania leader, Sen. Richard Schweiker. Both he and Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott said they would back a floor fight.

Milliken said he had obtained an agreement from the administration, which has maintained a neutral stance on the issue, at least in public, to offer a compromise version on the convention floor.

But he said if that failed, his delegation would also fight the Rules Committee's version.

The reform forces suffered a setback Monday night when the Convention Rules Committee ignored most of their pleas to give the bigger populated states a more proportionate number of delegates in 1976.

Unless the convention overturns the committee's decision at today's third session, the result could be a 1976 convention more disposed to nominating a conservative such as Vice President Spiro T. Agnew instead of someone from the moderate wing of the party.

The 88-member New York delegation voted unanimously in favor of a floor fight. "We want the Republican party to stay in the middle of the road," Rockefeller said.

TF city taxes up 28 per cent

TWIN FALLS — Total Twin Falls city taxes will rise by more than one-fourth this year.

The Twin Falls City Council certified to the county tax levies totaling $1.25 million for this year's collections.

The total reflects an increase of 28.1 per cent over last year's total tax levy.

The amount for each taxpayer can not be determined until the county assessor establishes the size of the city's tax base. At that time the total tax burden will be divided among property owners, and tax notices mailed.

Most of the city's increase came from higher taxation for street improvements.

The street fund taxes increased 64 per cent to $404,500. Other large increases were for the Twin Falls City-County Airport, up 34.6 per cent to $52,500, and the current general expense fund, up 29.8 per cent to $493,500.

Smaller increases — all 7.7 per cent — were recorded for other funds.

New total taxes for the funds are: Library, $105,000; capital improvements, $42,000; recreation program, $63,000, and fire department, $189,000.

The councilmen approved the tax ordinance unanimously.

Relaxed Nixon awaits GOP bid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon, tanned and relaxed after two weeks in seclusion at his Camp David mountain retreat, flies to Miami Beach today to accept the Republican nomination for re-election.

The White House said Nixon planned to go immediately to his vacation home on Key Biscayne, a few miles south of Miami Beach, to await the formal nomination tonight. He will remain at Key Biscayne until Wednesday when he will deliver his acceptance speech.

The President was to depart Andrews Air Force Base at 2 p.m. EDT and arrive at Miami International Airport two hours later, where a flag-waving, band-playing, invitation-only welcoming rally was scheduled.

A helicopter was on hand to whisk Nixon to his home on Key Biscayne for the rest of the evening.

Accompanying the President were H. R. Haldeman, chief of staff of the White House;

National Security Affairs Adviser Henry A. Kissinger; Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler; personal secretary Rosemary Woods; and speech writer Ray Price.

Nixon also invited columnist Stewart Alsop to fly to the convention with him.

Nixon spent most of the morning in his private office. His wife, Pat, and daughters Julie Nixon Eisenhower and Tricia Nixon Cox have been in Miami Beach since Sunday substituting for the President at convention affairs.

Nixon returned to the White House from Camp David Monday and planned to clear his desk of minor domestic legislation today, his aides said.

Before leaving the western Maryland mountains, Nixon paid a call on Mamie Eisenhower at her white brick farmhouse in Gettysburg, Pa.

Nixon and the former first lady chatted privately on the glassed-in sun porch, then strolled arm-in-arm across the grassy lawn.

"Remember when we had the picnics here?" asked Nixon, referring to parties the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower held for top administration officials when Nixon served as vice president.

At almost the same time, the Republican National Convention was paying tribute to Eisenhower. In the film shown at Miami Beach, Mrs. Eisenhower quoted

Ag officials announce 'truth in bacon' rule

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Acting on the theory that a consumer should be able to tell how much fat is in a package of bacon before it is bought, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) today adopted a full-disclosure rule for bacon sold in standard "window-type" packages.

In a separate action also announced today, USDA ruled that product labels must state when controversial chemicals like nitrates and nitrites are used on cured meats.

Both regulations will be effective Feb. 19, 1973, USDA said.

The bacon packaging action had been proposed in April, at the urging of Mrs. Virginia H.

Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser.

USDA officials said consumers had been complaining that most "window-type" bacon packages provided a view of only a thin lean-looking sliver of the slices inside.

A buyer looking through the clear plastic could not tell how much of the bacon actually was lean until the package was opened.

Under the package rule, which is already being followed by some packers, the window must expose at least 70 per cent of the length of a "representative" strip of bacon.

The window can be either on the front or the back of the redesigned package.

Bacon-packed-in cans or in other windowless containers will not be affected by the new rule because these packages make no pretense of showing the consumer what the contents are like, a USDA spokesman said.

"When I buy bacon in a can, I know in advance that I have no opportunity to see what's inside, so I'm not being misled," the spokesman explained. "But when I buy bacon in a window package, it is designed to show me what I'm getting, and that's why we have the new rule."

The regulation on cured meats requires that all such products be labeled with an ingredient statement.

Gem prison open in '73

BOISE (UPI)—Transfer of operations and convicts to the new Gem prison site before the fall of 1973 will create a "monster," the vice chairman of the Idaho Board of Corrections said today.

Robert Rice, Boise, told the Permanent Building Fund Council the board wants to prepare the new site south of Gowen Field for emergency use before then.

But he said the earliest the board safely could move the entire operation to the Gowen site from the old penitentiary on Warm Springs would be the autumn of 1973. Originally, Rice said, the board anticipated making the move in 1974 but "now the target date is the fall of 1973." However, he said funding of construction still is the key to the eventual move.

Even by moving in 1973, he said, the board will be doing so with some of the buildings at the new site still incomplete.

Rep. Emery Hedlund, D-St. Maries, chairman of the building fund advisory council, criticized the board of correction for not moving faster on the project.

Dem unit growing

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The Democrats for Nixon Committee today claimed it had 50,000 supporters so far and was still growing in its drive to get Democrats to support the President for re-election.

Jeno F. Paulucci, a Minneapolis food franchiser and former financial backer of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, said John

B. Connally, president of the committee, was a prime recruiter.

"It is the opinion of our committee that in July, 1972, the Democratic Party was taken over by a band of people who today threaten to undermine the long history of the Democratic Party," Paulucci told a news conference.

Airliner hijacked

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—A South Yemeni propeller-driven airliner with 41 persons aboard was hijacked to Cyprus today by two persons, security officials said.

The DC-9 belonging to the National Al-Yemen Airlines from Aden landed at Nicosia International Airport at 4 p.m. (7 a.m. EDT) and was immediately surrounded by armed police at an isolated section of the airport.

Two hours later the plane was sitting on the strip with the 55 passengers and six crew members still aboard.

The Middle East News Agency in Cairo said the plane was en route there from Beirut when the aircraft's captain radioed the Cairo airport tower: "The plane has been hijacked."

Nixon aides slap Gem OSHA critics

By DWIGHT JENSEN

Special to the Times-News

MIAMI BEACH — Idaho Republicans critical of the Occupational Safety and Health Act got no comfort from top Nixon advisers when they met in caucus today.

Some Idaho companies received a few implied slaps in the face.

OSHA has been roundly attacked by most Republican candidates in Idaho, but Secretary of Labor James Hodgson called the act "my baby."

He said, "I love it. I worked for it for 27 years in industry. I nursed it through Congress."

He said OSHA has improved morale in industry. The labor force is now more interested in safety and health standards than they are in wage and benefit issues.

"We're not going to go in there, club people around, and be a policeman," he said. "Many of the criticisms of OSHA have been that the government tries to do exactly that."

Other criticisms have been that some small companies may be forced to shut down because they can't afford to meet OSHA standards. There has also been some unhappiness because new federal anti-pollution standards have forced the shutdown of some plants. It was the companies who operate such plants that got the implied rebuke from Hodgson.

Delegate Mike Young, Payette, mentioned the shutdown of the Boise-Cascade plant in Salem, Ore. Young said it was because anti-pollution equipment would have been too expensive.

Hodgson showed no sympathy.

"In every case I looked into," he said, "any adverse effects that resulted from applying pollution standards or OSHA standards would have happened soon anyway, because of the outdated methods in use by that company or that industry." He said government does not set unreasonable standards.

Russell Train, chairman of the President's Council on Environmental Quality, joined the criticism.

He said, "The standards must be met. Companies that choose not to meet them can shut down. There are a lot of marginal, obsolescent, paper and pulp manufacturers who cannot meet higher costs. Ultimately we will have a lot more efficient, up-to-date industrial plants because of these standards."

Train said he does not favor giving tax credits to companies for installing anti-pollution equipment. In the first place, he said, those credits benefit only the profit-makers, not the marginal operator.

Furthermore, he said, tax credits are "capital intensive treatment, when what we need is new industrial process. Tax credits attack the problem from the wrong end."

Cancer battle ends, Danny dies in coma

LOVELL, Wyo. (UPI)—Danny Blackburn, 10, a boy who never cried "I tried with all his little heart" to battle a disease he didn't know was killing him, died in a coma early Monday.

Danny became known worldwide two weeks ago when a commercial airline refused to fly him to his boyhood home for his final days.

"He never cried," his father, Donald Blackburn, said. "He went into a coma Sunday and never came out of it. He tried with all his little heart."

Blackburn said Danny's death ended a "long battle for everybody" that began 18 months ago when doctors first learned the boy suffered from a cancerous brain tumor. Two deep brain operations in Denver were performed before doctors gave up.

"He was exceptionally bright through the whole ordeal," his father said. Danny loved sports and was a straight-A student.

Blackburn said a funeral was scheduled for 2 p.m. Thursday at the Church of the Latter Day Saints in Lovell. Interment will follow in the family cemetery, he said.

"We never told him he was dying of cancer, but I think he sensed it," Blackburn said. "He was the bravest most courageous person I have ever known."

When doctors said there was no hope, Danny's parents decided to take him to Lovell where all his grandparents, friends and relatives live so he could "die in peace."

But the elaborate trip from a Denver Hospital's intensive care ward to Lovell was marred at the start when Western Airlines refused to honor the boy's ticket.

Western said Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) regulations prohibited passage of persons requiring an auxiliary oxygen supply and refused to fly Danny, his mother and a special nurse to Billings, Mont.

The boy was stranded at Denver's Stapleton International Airport for three hours until Frontier Airlines agreed to fly the boy to Billings.

Blackburn, who was at the Billings airport to meet the plane, called the United Press International Bureau in Denver. Newsman Richard J. Schneider called Frontier Airlines who in turn got space for Danny by interpreting the FAA rule differently.

During Danny's two-week stay at a Lovell hospital, thousands of cards and letters wishing him well poured in.

Included were cards and letters from President Nixon, Johnny Cash, Elvis Presley, John Wayne and former astronaut Walter Schirra.

Expulsion aids peace efforts

CAIRO (UPI)—The United States has told Egypt its expulsion of Soviet military advisers will make it easier for Washington to help bring peace to the Middle East, diplomatic sources said today.

This was one of the main points in a meeting last week between Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Ahmed Tawfik Khalil, the chief Egyptian diplomat in America, the sources said.

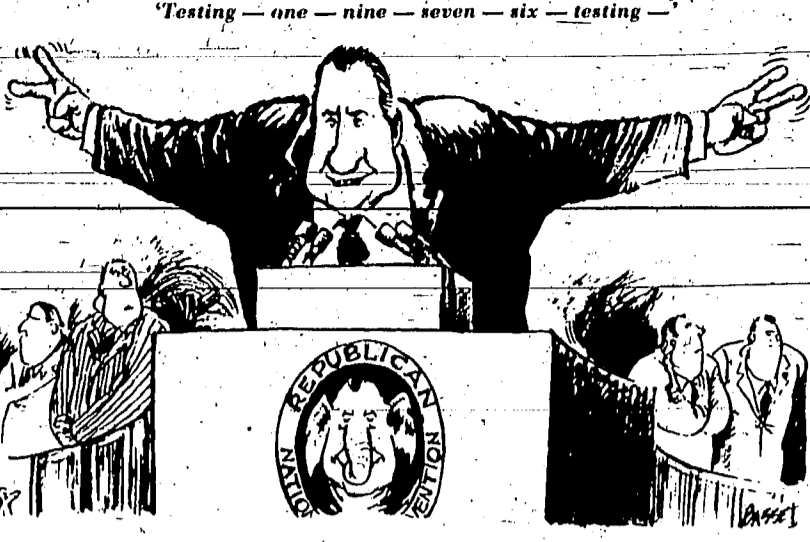

Rogers told the Egyptian that Washington is not hostile toward Cairo and was gratified by President Anwar Sadat's decision last month to oust some 15,000 Russian military personnel, the sources said.

Rogers said this action would give the United States a greater opportunity to play an active role aimed at achieving a peaceful settlement between the Arabs and Israel, a role which Washington remains willing to undertake, the sources said.

Rogers cautioned that he could not take any step in this direction until after the American presidential elections in November.

Obituaries

S. Thompson

BELLEVUE — Sadie M. Thompson, 84, Bellevue, died Sunday at the Wood River Convalescent Center, Shoshone, of a lingering illness.

Born Jan. 24, 1888, at Duffer, Ore., she moved to Gannett in 1914. She remained there until 1932, when she moved to Lewiston and then to Yankima, Wash. In 1961, she moved to Bellevue, where she has since resided. She was preceded in death by one sister and one brother.

On June 7, 1961, she married Merton Thompson at Twin Falls.

Survivors include her husband at Bellevue; two daughters, Louise Tolman, Hailey, and Iva Isom, Richland, Wash.; one son, George Peck, Myrtle Creek, Ore.; one half-brother, Bud Hurst, and one half-sister, Mrs. Stella Harmon, both Bellevue; 38 grandchildren, 40 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Bird Funeral Home Chapel, Hailey, with Rev. W. D. Ellway officiating. Burial will be in the Bellevue Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home today, Wednesday, and until noon on Thursday.

C. Bullers

OAKLEY — Chester H. Bullers Sr., 75, Moulton area rancher, died Sunday at Cassia Memorial Hospital of a short illness.

He was born Aug. 2, 1879, at What Cheer, Iowa.

Mr. Bullers emigrated west at age 15 with his brother Fred Bullers. They traveled throughout the west and in 1910 he settled in Oakley. He started contract freighting for the Vipont Mine in Utah. Later he worked at the Vipont Mine as a miner.

On June 1, 1922, he married Adeline Matilda Millard in Burley. The couple resided in Oakley for a short time. In 1923 they moved to the mine and later settled in Moulton Valley where he has since resided. Mrs. Bullers preceded him in death in 1969.

Mr. Bullers was known as the "Mayor of Moulton." He was well known in the valley for his musical abilities, playing violin, mandolin and harmonica, for dances.

A prominent rancher in Moulton, he owned the first airplane in that area.

Survivors are three sons, Fred Bullers, Moulton; Cyrus Bullers, Eden, and Chester Bullers, Jr., Knighton, Calif.; five daughters, Mrs. Andrew (Loren) Lloyd-Hall, Mont.; Mrs. Leon (Eva) Meline, Burley; Mrs. Lee (Cherry) Bennett, Joseph, Utah; and Mrs. Harold (Chloe) White, Pocatello.

Also one half-brother, Loren McGee, Lovilia, Iowa; one half-sister, Mrs. Walter (Carol) Phugh, Otumwa, Iowa; 28 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Graveside services will be conducted at 1 p.m. Thursday at Bullers Cemetery, Moulton.

Friends may call at McCulloch Funeral Home, Burley, Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Memorials may be made for shrubbery or trees for the Bullers Cemetery.

McGovern seeks Johnson support

STONEWALL, Tex. (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern, probing Lyndon B. Johnson for his work on domestic issues, sought the former president's personal blessing today in a reunion at the LBJ Ranch between two old foes.

McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, and his running mate, R. Sargent Shriver, received the biggest welcome of their campaign Monday night in Austin when they arrived for today's 11:15 a.m. EDT appointment with Johnson.

McGovern barred newsmen from the meeting "in deference to President Johnson's privacy" so the dramatic confrontation between the two men, the first since they parted company over the Vietnam War in 1968, will be unrecorded except for carefully controlled still pictures.

An estimated 10,000 people—most of them students from the University of Texas and other nearby colleges—turned out to cheer McGovern as he warmly praised Johnson's record in education, conservation and other domestic areas.

His conciliatory language, designed to heal the breach in the Democratic party resulting from its takeover by McGovern partisans, stood in sharp contrast to the atmosphere at the Democratic National Convention in which Johnson's name was barely uttered in the fulsome praise by speakers for former party leaders.

Johnson and McGovern have had little use for each other since the former president sent a half million troops into Indochina before McGovern and other war critics forced him into retirement in 1968.

House control unlikely

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Despite their serene confidence that President Nixon will win re-election, Republicans concede they cannot win control of the House and that only unprecedented gains in the South can give them a Senate majority.

A survey of key politicians in every state delegation to the Republican National Convention strongly indicated that if the election were held today and Nixon won, he would have to battle a Democratic Congress four more years.

The United Press International check showed that the Republicans, in the estimation of state leaders, would fall short of gaining the 40 seats they need to win control of the House for the first time since 1954.

To win the Senate, also in control of the Democrats since 1954, the Republicans would have to pick off five Democratic seats, while holding on to all 10 of their contested seats.

The survey indicated that delegation leaders feel the Republicans might be able to take control of the Senate, but only with the help of victories in Alabama, Louisiana, North Carolina, Virginia, and Georgia.

Und, in almost every case, the Republicans are counting on extremely good showings by Nixon to provide coattails for GOP Senate and House candidates.

Accident slows ride

RICHFIELD — The Richfield Riding Club's kids' trail ride up Boulder Creek Canyon Sunday was completed despite a bridge accident of the start.

Twelve children of Richfield Riding Club members and six adults left Richfield early Sunday morning by truck for Boulder Creek above Ketchikan where they were to take a horseback trail ride up the canyon. About a mile and a half before they were to unload the horses, the truck, driven by Carl Riley, broke through the bridge over Boulder Creek.

By unloading the horses, jacking up the truck and with the aid of Wendell Johnson towing with his truck, the group was able to pull the truck free. No damage was done to the truck and no people or horses were hurt.

The group rode up the canyon where they ate lunch and saw mountain lakes and an old mining camp. A rainstorm also occurred before they returned home Sunday evening.

TF annexes 30 acres north of high school

By RICHARD HIGH
Times-News managing editor
TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City councilmen annexed 30 acres of land into the city Monday night.
The property was zoned for low-density residential use.
The action was taken on recommendation of the Twin Falls City Planning and Zoning Commission.
The land annexed involves a 10-acre parcel owned by Wills, Inc., and an adjacent 20-acre parcel owned by the Twin Falls School District.
The land lies directly north of the Twin Falls High School and is surrounded by areas already annexed into the city.

Public hearings were conducted on the annexations and three other items at the Monday council meeting, but no testimony was presented on the proposals.
Following the hearing, the councilmen:
— Refused to approve a request by Scott Refrigeration to rezone property on the Snyder Tract from medium density residential to commercial.
— Acting Mayor Winston Jones said the parcel is surrounded by residential areas and the proposal would be a "spot zone."
The proposal was referred back to the planning and zoning commission for proposal reconsideration.

The planning unit, which had recommended approval of Scott's request, was asked to consider the future development of the whole neighborhood.
— Placed on first-reading a proposal to rezone property owned by Idaho First National Bank located on Spruce Street across from the Blue Lakes Shopping Center.
Final action on the proposal to rezone the parcel from low-density residential to commercial use as a parking lot was postponed on request of Councilman Mike Gray to give further time to consider the proposal.

Councilman Paul Ostyn argued that the city should have some indication from the bank on how adjacent property would be used to permit the council to consider overall impact on the neighborhood.
— And deferred final action on a proposed ordinance amending regulation construction of curbs, gutters and sidewalks. The ordinance would require that curbs, gutters and sidewalks be constructed in many areas when new construction or large additions are made on adjacent property.
The ordinance was placed on first reading to permit further consideration.

TF booming

TWIN FALLS — Judging from Monday's City Council meeting, there is a building boom going on in Twin Falls.
The Twin Falls councilmen approved building permits for 24 single-family dwellings and several commercial projects.
The permits approved were all presented to the city for approval during the two-week period prior to the meeting, according to City Clerk Edythe Koontz.
Most of the houses were listed as worth $14,000 to $17,000.
Included in commercial permits approved was a permit for a $134,000 automobile service center adjacent to the existing Sears store.

CSI facing funds loss

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho will have $12,500 less state money than it anticipated this year.
College President Dr. James Taylor said Monday night Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' ordered 1.9 per cent holdback in general fund spending would cost the school approximately that amount.
"We may have to reduce certain services," Taylor said. He said the decision of where to cut the funds would be made administratively, rather than with board action.
Taylor and college lawyer Robert Alexander also said they expected an opinion in the next few days from the attorney general's office concerning their funding dispute with the Idaho Bureau of the Budget.
The state office notified the college earlier this year funding would be made in two payments for the current fiscal year, while Taylor and the board of trustees responded by requesting a continuance of the former lump sum approach to funding, with one check covering the entire state appropriations.

The attorney general's office was asked to issue an opinion to help resolve the dispute.
Taylor also reported to the board on what he saw as possible effects resulting from the 1972 Higher Education Act passed by Congress. The school president had praise for the bill, saying it "gives dignity to the American Dream" by throwing federal government support behind occupational education in the country.
At the same time, he expressed reservations about provisions of the bill, noting that the section dealing with community junior colleges made provisions for the creation of a state commission to oversee the school and to disburse vocational education funds.
He told the board the bill, although passed, still lacked appropriations by the Congress, and he did not foresee the appropriations passage until after the national elections in the fall.
In other business, the board unanimously approved a policy which requires that any new company selling sheltered annuities to college personnel have five customers on campus for college bookkeeping assistance.
The board also approved 11 scholarships amounting to over $1,500.

Schedule ends

TWIN FALLS — Arlan Call, director of the Twin Falls Public Library, said summer bookmobile stops within Twin Falls ended today.
The remainder of August will be used to reorganize the bookmobile collection for the fall schedule. The bookmobile staff expressed appreciation to summer patrons for participation. They may return books to the main library or the book drop outside the library.
The fall schedule will be announced later.

New restaurant permit cleared

TWIN FALLS — Not sure whether it needed to take the action, the Twin Falls City Council approved a building permit for a proposed McDonald's drive-in restaurant.
The approval followed earlier approval of the building permit by the city's building inspector.
After taking the action, Councilman Paul Ostyn questioned whether the city really needed to approve building permits at all.
The city's building ordinances spell out conditions to be met before a building permit can be issued by the building inspector, he said. He questioned whether the council could deny a permit which met the required conditions.
He asked for a committee to be established to consider the question, but the request was postponed until the next council meeting and the return of vacationing Mayor John Christoffersen.

Approval of the McDonald's request for construction of the $35,000 restaurant building on the site of the William A. Van Engelen home at 305 Blue Lakes Blvd. N. was contingent on satisfactory arrangements with adjacent landowners for irrigation water delivery and screening between properties.

TF receives airport funds

TWIN FALLS — An award of $11,341 for airport development has been made to Twin Falls. The money is part of $1.34 million awarded the state of Idaho by the U.S. Department of Transportation.
Based on the ratio of passengers enplaning, the money is available to airports served by air carriers. City Manager Jean Millar said the money will be used as part of the matching funds in connection with the instrument landing system and taxiway construction projects now in progress.
If you live in Hansen and have a news item, call Dorothea Steelsmith, Times-News community correspondent, at 423-5408.

The money will be credited to the Twin Falls City-County Airport Fund when received. Hailey received $5,058 in another grant to specific airports.
Of the money awarded to Idaho, $1.05 million is directed toward development of air carrier airports and $288,447 is for general aviation airport development.

Final CSI signup set

TWIN FALLS — Final registration at College of Southern Idaho is set for Wednesday and Thursday.
Jerry Meyerhoeffer, director of admissions, said registration hours: Wednesday are from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. On Thursday, hours are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

He said out of district students are required to notify their county commissioners regarding certificates of residency before registering.

TF schools offer some free lunches

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls School District, as part of its regular lunch program, has adopted a free meal provision for students from low-income families.
The school district has set the following scale of family size and income as a guideline for determining a student's eligibility for program: Up to $2,550 for a family of one; $3,337 for a family of two; $4,137 for three; $4,925 for four; $5,662 for five; $6,387 for six; $7,050 for seven; $7,712 for eight; $8,312 for nine; $8,990 for 10; $9,500 for 11; and up to $10,000 for a family of 12.
Unusual circumstances such as illness or death in the family, exceptional medical expenses, temporary disability and seasonal unemployment will also be considered in determining eligibility.

Application blanks for free meals will be mailed or sent home to parents of children in the district. The school will notify all applicants in writing of their acceptance or denial for free meals.
Parents or guardians who believe their children are eligible for the program should fill out the application forms as soon as they receive them and return them to Mrs. Evelyn Beck, school lunch supervisor.
We don't mind folks dropping in for a few minutes and it's the hanging around the door saying goodbye for two hours that gets us.

4 jailed

TWIN FALLS — U.S. Border Patrol officials arrested four persons over the weekend for violation of immigration laws.
Taken into custody at the Twin Falls County Jail are Francisco Ratega, 19; Heriberto Arteaga, 19; Victorino T. Ceja, 23; and Gilberto T. Ceja, 28, all Mexico.
The four are being held today in the jail.

Nixon's Trip To Hawaii Thorny?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Nixon's Aug. 31 meeting in Hawaii with Japanese Premier Tanaka could prove to be a thorny session. Irritations caused by Japan's 1971 trade and currency concessions are boiling to the surface again.

The visible cause of U. S. ill temper is a projected 1972 trade deficit with Japan of around $3.8 billion, up from $3.2 billion in 1971.

To American trade officials, the story seems simple: Under heavy pressure from the President, the Japanese last year put limits on their textile exports to America, up-valued their currency 17 per cent, and volunteered to try to curb some other exports to this country. And the net of all this is the prospect of a bigger trade deficit than ever.

The Japanese recognize the gravity of the problem from our viewpoint. Indeed, at Hawaii, Tanaka will offer Nixon a plan to make accelerated purchases of U. S. goods to help narrow the bilateral trade gap.

Japan is hoping, too, that its new program of large government investment in public works may stimulate its economy sufficiently to create a rising demand for imports and thus further narrow the gap.

Tanaka, then, will come to Hawaii with good intent, fully aware of this country's crucial importance to Japan both economically and politically. But he is bound also to be burdened with a certain quotient of annoyance.

For one thing, the Japanese say current dollar volume trade figures are misleading. The late 1972 upward revaluation of the yen has, of course, boosted Japan's export prices, tending therefore to blur what is really happening on the trade front.

A report of one of Japan's biggest trading companies states that Japan's export volume, measured in goods rather than dollars, has declined 13.4 per cent since currency revaluation. Sales of ships, a Japanese specialty, are said to be off 31.3 per cent in less than a year. Iron and steel exports are down 23 per cent; television sets 18 per cent. Textile products are down, with woolen fabric exports showing the sharpest drop — 51.0 per cent.

Japanese officials say that this past July, when U. S.-made automobiles hit an all-time sales high, the sales of the Japanese-made Toyota were off 23 per cent.

Furthermore, the Japanese government never has felt that America's narrow emphasis on the visible trade volume situation was altogether realistic. Tokyo's economic specialists argue that U. S.-Japanese economic relationships are in better balance than is apparent — if only they are judged in broader perspective.

In total, they say, more than 40 per cent of Japan's imports come either from America or from U. S.-owned companies abroad.

On top of this, in 1971 Japanese trading companies sold $1 billion worth of goods in third countries, hiking American exports.

Tanaka will be making these points with Nixon shortly.

Smoke Signals

Sargent Shriver's campaign as Democratic Vice Presidential nominee was barely begun when he managed to open up his own credibility gap by charging President Nixon had peace in Vietnam "handed to him" and "blew it" when he took office.

Shriver's charge was based on a purported Hanoi "signal" that it was willing to negotiate by withdrawing most of its combat troops from the Northern provinces of South Vietnam.

Secretary of State Rogers derided the charge as not really a fabrication but "a political fantasy."

Averill Harriman and Cyrus Vance rallied to Shriver's support by saying the "signal" came in late 1968. This was two or three months before Nixon's inauguration in 1969 and the Democratic administration, which included Harriman and Vance, missed whatever opportunity might have existed.

Shriver also cited President Eisenhower's success in Korea as an example for President Nixon. What Shriver forgot was that Eisenhower took a hard line of willingness to win and his unyielding approach brought the North Koreans to the bargaining table.

At the time of the North Vietnam troop withdrawal, there was no agreement as to its significance. Now, to Nixon's critics, oblivious of their own responsibilities at the time, the move has become a clear signal of a peace bid. Or is it just part of the smoke signals and smoke screen of a political campaign?

One statement by Harriman and Vance is not open to question. They noted that the United States had over 500,000 troops in Vietnam at the time Nixon took office. Nixon has brought most of our troops home. Not even the most partisan Democrat can interpret that as a belligerent act.

Missing Buttons

Except for political rallies and the occasional gung-ho activist, campaign buttons are in noticeably scant evidence this year. Except, that is, for some of the losers, whose buttons sparked a demand among collectors and speculators.

Stassen's one-time supporters may yet have the last laugh, if they stockpiled a bushel or so of Stassen buttons.

Yet there is a peculiar twist to the growing lack of label identification in some circles. Buttons are sported, but for candidates Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt (both Teddy and Franklin). It is too early in the campaign to tell whether this is becoming the latest nostalgic fad or is simply a put-on by a few.

Perhaps buttons for "lost cause" candidates of the past will emerge as the next fad, with a genuine Debs, LaFollette, Henry Wallace or Lemke button with photo bringing top price.

Those whose memories go back a few campaigns will remember when the candidate of one's choice deserved at least the loyalty of a button. Astute observers could almost predict the outcome in a particular district by the number of buttons seen on the street.

Somehow the present anonymity doesn't jibe with the slogan that this is the age of involvement.

And right in our area, we remember that George Hansen had a startling group of attractive campaign buttons. Look at all the votes he received yet we do not recall seeing one of them on anyone's coat. — OAK

Pudding Proof

It isn't always best to be a big official. Big in importance, we mean.

The other day two high Hughes Airwest officials from San Francisco were scheduled for a flight into Twin Falls.

They got as far as Salt Lake City and were ticketed on the mid-day plane from there to the Seattle-Portland area via Twin Falls. Well, they got as far as the Airwest counter in Salt Lake City.

There were so many passengers on the plane — well, every seat was full with paying passengers. So the two officials got bumped. They didn't get into Twin Falls until the late night flight.

Which just shows that Airwest seems to be paying attention to the folks who pay their way. So there!

FOR SHAME

Our head is hanging in shame! Remember when we complained that the Mayor of Twin Falls, going on a vacation trip, was going to visit Twin Falls' German sister city of Singen? And he was going to take books, etc., to let the folks there know what we have here? And we complained that he should take along copies of Progress 71 and Progress 72, the Times-News specials which really tell the story of this area?

Well, it seems that he will do just

THOSE SALARIES
We have the idea that most people around the state were satisfied with the salary they are receiving. Satisfied, that is, until they read the other day what some of the state officials are receiving. None of them, it seems, are hauling down under about $1,200 a month — plus the fringe benefits, of course. It just makes a guy want to get out and work real hard — trying to get a state job, that is.

Just A Man

Of course it's important who's elected the next President but the most important consideration is not mentioned in the campaign oratory.

A President is just a man but the Supreme Court is the law. President Nixon has said that the greatest impact his Administration will have on our nation's history will reflect his choices for the Supreme Court.

He hopes to turn the court from left to right, to shift the balance from liberal activism to judicial conservatism. He hasn't yet.

The four Nixon appointees to the high court have influenced recent decisions enhancing the rights of law-abiding citizens. Where the Earl Warren court was preoccupied with the rights of wrongdoers, the Nixon court — if we can call it that — has extended consideration to lawmen and prosecutors.

There are two holdovers on the Supreme Court — Byron White and Potter Stewart — who can still shift the balance in either direction, so it's not really, "Nixon's court," at least not yet.

Mr. Nixon says, "I feel at the present time that the court is as balanced as I have had an opportunity to make it."

He failed, as you know, to get some of his first choices seated. He did supplant liberals with constitutional constructionists, however, and it's almost certain that age and infirmity will vacate at least one more seat during the next four years.

Almost everything you read in the two-party platforms is eye-wash.

Democrats say they want to end the war. The Democratic majority in Congress could have ended the war by withholding money for it years ago — but didn't.

Democrats say "Come home, America, we've been too long too involved overseas."

Democrats insist they want to curtail inflation — yet the Democratic-controlled Congress has voted consistently to the contrary.

Democrats say if elected they will reduce Pentagon spending — but they were and they didn't.

Democrats in control of Congress could have done everything they now promise to do — and they didn't.

So what they say is not necessarily what you get. In the final weeks of the Supreme Court's most recent term, 18 cases were decided 5 to 4.

The next President will make the decisive appointment. A President is just a man, but the Supreme Court is the law. And this is still a government of laws.

ART BUCHWALD

Who's Coming?

WASHINGTON — The political campaign is now under way, and we can expect to hear some wild promises made by the presidential and vice-presidential candidates.

Just the other day H. Sargent Shriver told the people of West Virginia that if George McGovern is elected, the poor people would be eating in the White House. He said, there would be dinners there for people who need the food, rather than rich fat cats who have been invited to 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. in the past.

I don't know if Shriver checked this out with McGovern, but it could raise some very serious logistical problems if the Democratic nominee is sworn in next January.

Let us assume that McGovern has been elected President. After he's been in the White House a few days, he says to his wife Eleanor, "We have to give a dinner for the poor people tomorrow night."

"How many will there be?" "Sarge said 1,300,054 people."

"You've got to be kidding," Eleanor says. "I don't have that many place settings."

"Can't you borrow some from Eunice?" "Even if I did, we wouldn't have enough room to serve them all."

"Yes, I thought of that. But Sarge promised that the first dinner we had in the White House would be for the poor people, and our credibility is at stake."

"Well, why doesn't he give the dinner then? He has more money than we do," Eleanor says angrily.

"Because he's not the President. It doesn't have to be a sit-down dinner, you know. It could be buffet."

"I don't care," Eleanor says. "I'm not going in the kitchen and tell the chef to prepare a buffet for 1,300,054 people."

"Couldn't we have it catered?" McGovern asks.

"This is ridiculous. We'll use up our entire entertainment allowance in our first dinner. What are we going to do for the rest of the four years?"

"Maybe we could freeze the leftovers," McGovern suggests.

"I still say Sarge got into this — let him get out of it," Eleanor says.

"How about the strolling Air Force Strings for entertainment?" McGovern asks.

"You said you were going to cut them out of the defense budget," Eleanor reminds him.

"Oh, yes, I forgot that. Did I promise to cut the Marine band, too?"

"Down to one French horn and two tuba players."

"Hm. Maybe Warren Beatty can rustle up the Grateful Dead."

"George, I don't think this is going to work. More than 25 million people in this country go to bed hungry every night. You can't just invite 1,300,054 and not expect the others to be very angry."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Loses Weight

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been overweight since the day I was born. All through my childhood and teens I was always on one kind of diet or another, and taking countless kinds of medicine. I would lose 10 or maybe 15 or 20 pounds but gain it back.

I agree with you that Weight Watchers and TOPS are good groups, and I have been a member of Weight Watchers twice, and would lose 10 or 20 pounds and that would be it, or I'd gain it all back. I was a member for six months last time.

I am 20 now and have roughly 115 pounds to lose. After reading about that operation to lose weight, I have decided that it is my very last resort. Could you send me the names of doctors who do this operation?

Maybe if I knew a few and could talk to them, I might even be able to work out a different plan without the operation. — P. A. N.

You want to lose weight by talking to somebody? Sounds a little far-fetched to me. What do you think?

Seems to me you're totally ignoring what ought to be the most important part of your situation. Repeatedly you've lost 10, 15 or 20 pounds.

In other words, you CAN lose weight and you've proved it. What you haven't learned yet is that if you can take it off, you can keep it off — if you keep on trying.

The unsuccessful weight-loser is the one who does just what you do — loses some pounds, then goes back to the same kind of eating that caused the fat in the first place. It's a silly, illogical attitude, of course, but when someone has spent a lifetime getting fat, it takes some real effort to change habits. Yet those habits are what have to be changed.

You mentioned staying with Weight Watchers for six months once. That's not long enough. Not for you, anyway. Both W. and TOPS have sound programs, so you can lose weight without hurting your health.

I suggest that you go back and try it again, but don't quit after six months. Stay at least a couple of years, by which time you will at least have a good start on a new way of life and eating.

Don't be discouraged because you lose 20 pounds and then stop losing. (But don't start gaining again!) With a good many folks, it is quite likely that a weight-loss "plateau" is reached now and then. You stop losing — temporarily. But if you stick with the program, you presently lose some more, reach a plateau, then lose still more.

As to that operation to lose weight, I wouldn't recommend it for you unless you have plenty of money to spend on it. It means major surgery, plus close medical supervision to make sure you get enough of the necessary food elements while your digestive tract is short-circuited.

And on top of that, you STILL have to learn some new eating habits if you are to avoid getting fat again later, the same way you did in the first place.

Your big mistake, I think, was in quitting too soon after you'd begun to make progress.

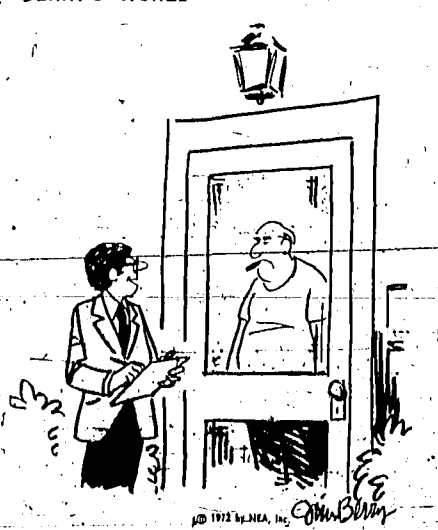

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard that cracking your knuckles can lead to, if not cancer, arthritis. Is this true? — J. M. M.

No; not true.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me what causes a person to pass bloody stool? — A.M.M.

Several. Hemorrhoids. Fissures. Cancer. Some forms of colitis. Any of which deserves medical attention.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Would you vote for a man you wouldn't buy a used car from, or a wild-eyed radical?"

Spiro looks toward '76

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, on the eve of renomination for the number two job in government, is looking ahead four years from now and number one.

"I'm keeping my options open," Agnew said in response to questions about whether he will seek the Presidency in 1976, admittedly pleased that surveys show he is the favorite next time around among delegates to the GOP National Convention.

"I think I could appeal to a broad cross section of the Republican Party," he told reporters Monday while attending a reception in his honor.

Agnew, according to his closest advisers, has already decided to seek his party's nomination four years hence should he and President Nixon win re-election.

"I wouldn't put up with this job for another four years if I weren't interested in seeking the top one," one associate quoted Agnew as saying.

Agnew was reluctant to discuss the reform squabble in which the party was embroiled, maintaining that anything he might say about the dispute could be "misconstrued" by others in the party as furthering his own ambitions.

The fight over the party's delegate-selection procedures has been seen by some as an attempt by GOP conservatives to hold control of the party for Agnew, or someone like him, in 1976.

But Agnew said the rules battle "should not be interpreted as favoring one candidate over another."

"I don't construe what is going on as far as the movements for changes ... would be adverse to any interests I might have or some other candidate of a more conservative posture," he said.

Agnew, his wife Judy, and their daughter Kim, 16, shook hands with about 500 prominent Florida Republicans, administration officials, and some celebrities, including singer Frank Sinatra, at the palatial Vizcaya estate on Biscayne Bay.

The vice president made his remarks when he stepped out of the receiving line briefly to talk with newsmen. He has been staying since his arrival Sunday at the estate of a wealthy Florida businessman in South Miami.

Unhappy Dems get GOP bid

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The Republican National Convention has voted to formally invite all Democrats to join in supporting the re-election of President Nixon.

The delegates shouted approval Monday night of a resolution by Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe, former governor of Massachusetts, to welcome the help of Democrats dissatisfied with their presidential candidate, Sen. George S. McGovern.

Volpe offered the resolution after successive speeches by SN. E.

Volpe offered the resolution after successive speeches by Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, Indianapolis Mayor Richard G. Lugar, and Mrs. Anne Armstrong of Texas, co-chairman of the Republican National Committee.

All three speakers had sharply attacked the policy pronouncements of McGovern, and Mrs. Armstrong addressed her remarks to "those millions of Democrats who are so terribly concerned about what happened to their party here in Miami Beach five weeks ago."

Indictment of actress proposed

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Some of the state delegations to the Republican National Convention are circulating petitions calling for the indictment of actress Jane Fonda.

She is criticized in the petitions for her visit to North Vietnam and her statements concerning the war.

Clarence E. Warner, the Oklahoma state GOP chairman, said Monday night he had 40 to 50 signatures on his petition. He said he got the idea for his petition from the Georgia delegation.

The petitions accuse Miss Fonda of giving "aid and comfort" to "the enemy" in the Indochinese war.

S. Dakota group sees Nixon win

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—South Dakota delegates to the Republican convention believe President Nixon will defeat Sen. George S. McGovern in his home state this fall.

The GOP delegates said Monday night they believed McGovern was doing poorly in South Dakota.

"All the polls I've seen the last two weeks or so have shown Nixon leading in the sectional polls by as high as 25 per cent and statewide 15 per cent," said Robert Hirsch, candidate for the Senate seat of retiring Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D.

"If organization enthusiasm, which has been notably absent from the Republican party in South Dakota, is any indication then we'll pick up some for Nixon by November," he said.

Sharing laugh

PRESIDENT NIXON and Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower share laugh at her home in Gettysburg, Pa., Monday. Surprise stop was on the 20th anniversary of day the late Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was nominated for first term in White House. (UPI)

California chief defends loopholes

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Those tax loopholes that George S. McGovern maligns finally found a defender Monday night in California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Reagan, who came under sharp criticism in his own state for taking advantage of a California tax exemption for cattle ranchers which enabled him to avoid state taxes a few years ago, said loopholes are an "old faithful of the demagogues."

"Well, let them name the loopholes," he told the Republican convention, "and they will find that they are the legitimate deductions without which the working men and women of this country could not afford to pay their income tax."

He said tax deductions for property taxes, interest on mortgages, medical expenses and contributions to churches and charities are "loopholes" which chiefly benefit people with earnings of under $20,000 a year.

Gem aide opposes reforms

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Idaho Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy, contending that his state's delegation is the most representative at the Republican National Convention, said Monday he is opposed to proposed reforms to give greater strength to racial minorities, youth and women.

Murphy, chairman of the Idaho delegation, said four of the state's 14 delegates are under age 25 and six are women. He also noted that one delegate is an Indian, even though racial minorities make up only "one-third of 1 per cent" of Idaho's population. The Idaho official said only the Minnesota delegation could compare with Idaho in giving representation to minorities, youth and women.

Murphy said in an interview that the Idaho delegates were concerned by reform proposals that would give the 10 biggest states more delegates and reduce the strength of small state delegations.

"I don't think the 10 biggest states should be given the power to name the next president," he said in defending stronger representation for the smaller states.

Murphy said he expected the Idaho congressional delegation to retain its Republican majority despite Sen. Len Jordan's decision not to seek re-election.

He said he had "every reason" to believe that Rep. James McClure will win the Senate seat and that Rep. Orval Hansen would win re-election.

Murphy indicated, however, that the GOP candidate for McClure's seat, Steve Simms, might have some trouble.

"He is in for a tough fight but I believe he'll win," Murphy said.

US planes support DaNang defenses

SAIGON (UPI)—Scores of U.S. jet fighters-bombers supported South Vietnamese troops attempting to throw up new defenses against Communist artillery and armor near Da Nang, the country's second largest city and the home of a large U.S. airbase, the U.S. command said today.

Spokesmen said the warplanes flew 194 bombing raids in the northern quarter of South Vietnam Monday, the greatest number of strikes since Aug. 8.

A command spokesman said U.S. Air Force Phantom jets conducted the biggest strike against surface-to-air missiles (SAMs) and launching equipment in North Vietnam in more than a month Monday. The spokesman said "it was a pretty significant strike to go in and knock out that much equipment and it's that much more protection now for our pilots."

The spokesman said four of the 35-foot-long missiles, 35 launchers, three firing sites and 14 transporters were knocked out.

North Vietnamese ground gunners in Quang Tri City, Saigon's northernmost provincial capital, early today shot down a Phantom, spokesmen said. The supersonic plane crashed inside the Communist-held city, and the two crewmen are listed as missing. No parachutes were sighted.

Another Phantom trying to hit Communist positions just north of Quang Tri City Monday evening accidentally bombed South Vietnamese marines, killing one and wounding 13 others.

Spokesmen said it was at least the eighth time U.S. planes had mistakenly hit government troops since South Vietnamese troops launched a drive to retake the city June 28. They said 28 South Vietnamese had been killed and 98 others wounded.

The Communist Vietnam News Agency monitored in Tokyo said North Vietnamese gunners shot down a B-52 bomber north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) Monday.

There was no immediate comment from the U.S. command but the Americans said no B-52 ever has been shot down in Indochina.

A flight of Thailand-based Phantom jets spotted and bombed a pair of armored personnel carriers 27 miles south of Da Nang, bringing to four the number of Communist armored vehicles seen in the Da Nang area in two days.

The tracked vehicles have been spotted inside the outermost defenses of the city and deadly accurate North Vietnamese 130mm artillery pieces have been seen—some were destroyed—within easy range of the defenses.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops last Saturday overran the key district capital of Que Son and nearby Ross base, 30 miles south of Da Nang, posing a serious threat to the city of 300,000—swollen to an even greater population by Quang Tri refugees—and the adjacent U.S. air base, home for 5,000 Americans.

Bobby issues ultimatum

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI)—U.S. challenger Bobby Fischer issued an ultimatum today saying he would quit the world chess championship if the games were not moved into a private room or if conditions in the main hall were not adapted to his demands.

In a letter to German arbiter Lothar Schmid, Fischer said if his demands were not met and another forfeit took place he would "consider the match summarily terminated and there will be no further play under any conditions."

Fischer has fought a three-week battle to force what he would consider improvements in conditions in the 3,000 seat exhibition hall. He said he could hear people coughing, laughing, whispering, unwrapping candy and children running around.

Today's game was scheduled for 1 p.m. EDT with Russian world champion Boris Spassky playing white and moving first. Fischer has a 9-1-2 to 6-1-2 lead in the $250,000 match. Fischer needs only three more points to win the world chess title. Spassky needs 5-1-2 points to retain the title.

Schmid has refused all of Fischer's protests—there were three demands to move Sunday's 16th game into the table tennis room where the third game was held. At the time Schmid said there was no real disturbance even though conditions were not perfect.

When informed of Fischer's letter, Schmid, a 44-year-old grandmaster and publisher, said, "I shall read Fischer's letter very carefully and make up my mind. I'm not for Fischer, not for Spassky. I am neutral and trying very hard to divide and win correctly."

Fischer's aide Fred Cramer said conditions included the removal of seven of 12 rows of seats on the ground floor, uniformed guards, removal of persistent coughers and children running around.

"We want the hall to be like the Mot (New York's Metropolitan Opera House) not like Ebbets Field in Brooklyn when the Dodgers were one run behind," Cramer said.

Russian sources said Spassky would not accept a change of location to small room where he lost the third game after Fischer forfeited the second in protest of television cameras in the main hall.

The Russian had the fourth game moved back into the main hall because he said he could hear automobiles and children playing in the other room.

Chinese discuss coverage

PEKING (UPI)—Premier Chou En-lai met today with Roderick W. Beaton, president of United Press International, to discuss future UPI news coverage of China and news and newspaper agreements with the Chinese.

Peng Ti, director of the official New China News Agency (Hsinhua), attended the meeting.

Beaton heads a UPI news and pictures team that will spend two weeks or more in China for discussions with Hsinhua and government officials on future UPI operations in China. The group entered China Friday from Hong Kong.

Seven killed in Irish bombing

BELFAST (UPI)—A bomb attack that went wrong killed seven persons today, including two of the terrorists who were trying to plant it in a customs post near Newry. The customs post was devastated.

Police and army spokesmen said six other persons were injured, two of them seriously. It was thought at least one other extremist was among the wounded.

The deaths brought to 525 the number killed in three years of strife in Northern Ireland between the majority Roman Catholics, the minority Protestants and the 21,000-man British army interposed between them.

Security forces spokesman said the bombing of the Green Hills customs post near Newry, 32 miles south of Belfast, was the second guerrilla bomb attempt to go wrong in two weeks. As in the earlier case in Belfast, the bomb exploded prematurely, seconds after being planted.

It killed the two gunmen trying to plant it, three customs officers and two other persons. Security forces spokesman said the two men-lugged the large bomb into the customs clearance station on the road to Dublin. The bomb blew up within five seconds, the spokesmen said.

Reds fire Russ film chairman

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Communist Party fired the chairman of its cinematography committee today and said the Soviet film industry was shirking its ideological role.

One party complaint: not enough devoted Communist heroes on the screen these days, but too many smatterings of Western cinema actions that are "alien" to Socialist realism.

Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, published a decision by the Central Committee to tighten discipline in the Soviet film world. It also announced that Philipp T. Yermash had replaced Alexei V. Romanov as chairman of the state committee for cinematography.

The Central Committee decision indicated why Romanov lost the job he had held since 1965:

"The committee for cinematography weakly exercised the state supervision of the development of cinema art, did not guarantee a purposeful repertoire policy and did not make proper ideological and artistic demands."

The decision complained that Soviet film makers failed to fully use opportunities "to intensify the international and patriotic upbringing of the working people."

Reforms asked Morocco king

RABAT (UPI)—Opposition politicians demanded immediate reforms from King Hassan II of Morocco following the military attempt on his life last week. But the king indicated Monday he has no plans for more changes.

The king at a news conference in a luxurious guest palace told journalists that after the July 1971, bloody army uprising directed at him many things changed. He pointed to a new constitution and said even France "does not have a constitution more liberal than in Morocco."

The king, wearing a dark blue business suit and smoking cigarettes, shrugged off questions about further changes in Morocco's political and social structure following his near assassination Aug. 16.

When asked by one journalist, "Why do you not give free, democratic institutions to your people?" he refused to reply.

The king repeated earlier official statements that "no foreign influence" entered into the coup plot. However a Moroccan political opposition newspaper suggested Monday that the United States was involved in last week's assassination plot.

The king denied reports by a news agency that the entire 1,000-member operational wing of the air force had been arrested on charges of implication in the affair.

He said 10 air force officers were under arrest and "the number may go to 15" plus possibly some of the ground personnel who refueled the American-made F5 fighters used in the attempt to shoot down his airplane.

During his conference, Hassan said that defense minister Mohamed Oufkir had wanted to shoot down the plane carrying Libya's Col. Muammar Khadafi to Mauritania a few months ago.

He said that Oufkir's plan led him to suspect the minister's treason when his own 727 jet was attacked.

Hassan said he was lucky to survive the shooting when his chances of living were one "out of a billion."

It was the 727 pilot, Col. Mohamed Kabbaj, he said who first thought of tricking the attacking fighter pilots.

"The pilot Kabbaj said, 'Let's bluff them' and one of the copilots told the fighter pilots on the radio that 'The pilot is dead, the copilot is wounded, and the king is fatally wounded. Let me see my family again,'" the king recounted.

Hassan named Kabbaj chief of the Moroccan air force Monday.

Violence sweeps Santiago

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—The army assumed police powers in Santiago today to end a wave of violence in which more than 200 persons were arrested, including demonstrators who tried to storm the homes of four government officials.

President Salvador Allende declared the capital an emergency zone late Monday night and named Gen. Hector Bravo, commander of the Santiago Military District, as zonal chief with total police powers.

The designation gives Bravo the authority to restrict public meetings and impose a curfew, although he said he had no immediate intention of doing either.

Police, who earlier Monday fought off crowds with clubs, tear gas and a water launcher in Santiago's main shopping area, said "apparently synchronized" demonstrators were beaten back later while trying to storm the homes of Labor Minister Mireya Baltha, Economy Minister Carlos Matus, Police Chief Eduardo Paredes and Carlos Gana, a local councilman.

Monday's violence began during a 24-hour strike by thousands of retail shop owners protesting last week's death of a supermarket owner who collapsed and died inside his store in the southern city of Punta Arenas while it was being seized by the government.

Social work training first was offered at the University of Missouri in Columbia in 1906.

GF miss, Boise man marry

GLENN'S FERRY — Gracie Marie Devaney, daughter of Mrs. Helen Devaney, Glenn's Ferry, became the bride of Robert LeRoy Ham on Aug. 12.

Robert Ham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Ham, Boise. Rev. Edward Bawden performed the double ring ceremony at the Glenn's Ferry Methodist Church before baskets of white gladioli, yellow daisies and white candelabra.

The ceremony was performed on the 81st birthday anniversary of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Flora Farris, Glenn's Ferry.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Charles R. Devaney, Libby, Mont., wore a floor-length gown of white georgette over taffeta, fashioned with a high neckline of lace, large full sleeves with lace cuffs and a floor length train. Her tiara was of net, trimmed with pearls. Her bridal bouquet was of white carnations and yellow rosebuds.

Maid of honor was Sally Thurston, Boise. Bridesmaids were Edna Kay Devaney, sister of the bride and Beverly Ham, Boise, sister of the groom. Gina Rhoades, Glenn's Ferry, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Raymond Devaney, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Dale Ham, Boise, uncle of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Charles Farris and Rhoades, both Glenn's Ferry, cousins of the bride. Barbara Wertz, Glenn's Ferry, played background music, and for Tim Nichols as soloist.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in Green Hall. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a four-tiered cake decorated with yellow roses and greenery. It was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. The cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Powell of Mountain Home.

Yellow rose bouquets and white candles flanked the cake. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Wesley Woolen and Mrs. Jack Westling, both Glenn's Ferry.

Mrs. Charles Farris was seated at the punch bowl, and Mrs. Robert Rhoades presided at the coffee service.

Both are aunts of the bride and from Glenn's Ferry.

Donna Haskins, Boise, and Susan Shrum, Glenn's Ferry, were in charge of the guest book. Angie Farris, cousin of the bride; Kathy Ham, sister of the groom, and Paula Woolen received the gifts.

Special guests attending included Mrs. J. D. Smith, Albuquerque, N. M., grandmother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Grace Flynn, Detroit, Mich., great-aunt of the bride.

Others attended from Pennsylvania, Washington, Oregon, and Montana.

The bride was graduated from Glenn's Ferry High School in 1970, then from the Idaho Barber and Beauty College, in Boise. She is now employed at the Fashion Flaire Beauty Shop in Boise.

Mrs. Devaney was hostess for a rehearsal dinner in the patio of her home. The bride was honored with a bridal shower by Mrs. Wesley Woolen.

Couple recites vows

GOODING — Crystal Ann Hathaway and Lance Cpt. Craig Lavern Davis were married in rites Aug. 1 at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lawrence Hathaway, Gooding, former Pocatello residents. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Davis, Pocatello.

Debbie Gorrell, Gooding, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Debbie McCarty, Salt Lake City, and Kathy Hathaway, Gooding, sisters of the bride; Debbie Davis, Pocatello, sister of the bridegroom, and Patti Gardner, Gooding.

Jim Webb, Pocatello, was best man. Serving as ushers were Ron Davis and Kevan Davis, Pocatello, brothers of the bridegroom; Jim McCarty, Salt Lake City, brother-in-law of the bride, and Stewart Johnston, Gooding.

Flower girl and ringbearer were Nanette Davis, Pocatello, sister of the bridegroom, and Guy Jackson, Gooding, cousin of the bride.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am boiling! I just read an article in The Los Angeles Times entitled, "The Pride of Being a Single Mother."

In that article the writer said, "Paying the little old lady down the street $2 an hour for plunking the kids in front of the TV all evening is highway robbery."

How about the little old lady who is hired to look after children who have never had any discipline, seldom get a decent meal [they "snack" all day] and have no set bedtime? She's supposed to be housekeeper, nurse, referee, help with the homework and entertain them.

I baby-sit and was never paid $2 an hour. I was paid 75 cents an hour, and I've had as many as four kids to look after at one time for the same 75 cents! When I recently upped my price to a dollar you never heard such an uproar!

Good baby-sitters' union needed

I think we need a good baby-sitter's union. I'd gladly join. If women can't afford to pay someone a decent fee for looking after their children for an evening, let them stay home. That's what we did. Edit this and print it, please.

LITTLE OLD LADY BABY-SITTER

DEAR LADY: What's to edit? You've said it beautifully.

DEAR ABBY: My sister in law thinks she knows everything just because she's a college graduate. I am not a college graduate. In fact I only went thru the tenth grade, but I do have common sense which I wouldn't trade my sister in law for her college diploma.

She and her husband [my brother] sneak out of the house while their 14-month-old baby is being distracted by the baby-sitter because if the baby knows the parents are leaving he will make a fuss and cry.

I say this is wrong. Parents should prepare the baby for their departure and say goodbye, and even if the baby makes a fuss, at least the baby will know they are leaving. [I have baby-sat with lots of children of all ages, and I have noticed that most babies will cry when the parents say goodbye, but as soon as they are out of sight the babies stop crying.]

Please put this in the paper with your comments.

LIZ VS. DOTTY

DEAR LIZ: You're right on target. When parents sneak away from little ones, when the little ones discover they're gone, they feel abandoned and betrayed—which is the most traumatic and punishing treatment a child can experience. [Ask any psychoanalyst.]

DEAR ABBY: Would you kindly comment at your earliest convenience regarding the policy of sending a 5-year-old boy across the United States alone by plane. He is to visit his father who is divorced from his mother.

The boy is perfectly normal, but if I were he, I would want more than a couple of pretty stewardesses grinning at me like two Cheshire cats for six and a half hours. He has never taken an airplane trip alone and insists that he wants to go and he will be all right. [He will return alone, too.]

I am his grandfather, and yes, I have all my marbles, but I am not so sure about his parents who are not in the slightest worried.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Don't worry. The stewardesses do more than just grin at young passengers who are traveling alone. They insure their safety and comfort. If the boy is put on the plane and met, there is no reason to be concerned about him.

Youth makes big profit

HOUSTON (UPI)—Police arrested a 16-year-old youth for selling pills in a city park this weekend, but had to let him go when they discovered the pills weren't narcotics.

The buyers apparently thought they were tough. The young man made over $430 selling over-the-counter diet pills, cold medicines and other tablets and capsules.

Park patrolmen said they watched the youth through binoculars for about two hours before arresting him.

"I swear it looked like Dollar Day at a department store," said Patrolman J.H. Marter. "There must have been a couple of dozen people crowded around him."

"This kid was taking pills out of one pocket and putting money in the other," said Marter's partner, E.L. Pyka. "When we got him he had a pile of bills as big as a grapefruit."

Juvenile officers could find nothing to charge the youth with except littering. "I saw him throw some paper on the ground," Marter said.

Bells cause big problem

By United Press International PORTSMOUTH, England (UPI)—Municipal authorities have threatened to prosecute owners of ice cream trucks unless they curb the ringing of bells on the vehicles.

Officials say the bells are disturbing hospital patients and keeping awake people who work nights.

LDS rites unite couple

GOODING — Rena Muir and Jill Goodman were married in an evening double ceremony Aug. 12 at the Gooding LDS Chapel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Muir, Gooding, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Goodman, Jerome.

Bishop Bob Rogers performed the ceremony in the chapel which was decorated with tall baskets of lavender and white gladioli accented with white satin bows and ribbons tied in love knots.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gown in a white, candle-satin dress fashioned with a high duchess neckline and empire bodice.

The gown featured a Venice lace-sleeve yoke, long full sleeves with wide cuffs and clusters of sequins and lace on the skirt and attached train. Her fingertip-nylon tulle veil was held by a tangle of mother-of-pearl sequins and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of lavender and white chrysanthemums on a heart-shaped satin and lace pillow with blue and lavender streamers.

Mrs. Dennis Rush, Pocatello, twin sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Karen Johnson, Gooding, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Janice Goodman, Jerome; Cheri Scanlon, Gooding, and Jennifer Larsen, Layton, Utah. Karl Lynn Hansen and Leslie Muir were flower girls.

Best man was Larry Johansen, Jerome. Ushers were Randy Shufeldt, Larry Felder, Bill Kluckhohn, Galen Mosso and Eric Peterson. Darin Mosso was ringbearer.

Keith Johansen, Jerome, was soloist. He was accompanied by Mrs. Blair Poulson who also played the traditional wedding music.

The couple was honored at a reception in the church hall immediately after the ceremony.

The bride's table was covered with pale blue ruffled net over satin and was centered with a three-tiered cake trimmed with blue and lavender cascading roses and white doves.

Guests were seated at quartet tables decorated with love birds in white baskets with lavender bows on the handles.

Mrs. Dwayne Mosso, Fremont, Neb., served cake. Punch was poured by Mrs. Dal Muir and Mrs. Ray Muir, sisters-in-law of the bride. Others assisting with serving were Mrs. Dennis Summers.

Mrs. Larry Vickers, Mrs. Everett Conrad and Mrs. Nephi Johnson, Julie, Jeanne and Nancy Ryan, Ginger Strickland and Darla Burgan also assisted.

Mrs. Bob Bolton was in charge of the gift table assisted by Cindi LaCroix, Peggy Felder, Donita Kuhn and Barbara Abbot. Guests were registered by Janet Conrad.

Special guests included Mrs. Martha Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Custer and Mr. and Mrs. George Goodman, stand-ins for the bridegroom.

Mrs. Dwal Johnson and Karen hosted a bridal shower preceding the wedding.

Mrs. Goodman and Mrs. Muir were hostesses for a rehearsal dinner given at the Muir home.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley, the couple will reside in Pocatello, where the bridegroom is a senior at Idaho State University.

GEORGIA L. McKEEGAN
Box 84, Richfield

BROKEN GLASS CAKE
1 package red gelatin dessert
1 package lime gelatin dessert
1 package lemon gelatin dessert

Dissolve the different packages of gelatin dessert separately in one and one-half cups hot water. Chill in refrigerator trays. When firm, cut into small cubes.

1 cup pineapple juice
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon plain gelatin dissolved in 1/4 cup cold water

Boil pineapple juice, add sugar and gelatin mixture. Set aside and cool.

For crust:
36 vanilla wafers

1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter or margarine
Crush wafers and add sugar and melted butter. Use one-half of the mixture to cover the bottom of an 8 by 13-inch pan.

Whip one pint of cream and add one-half cup chopped walnuts. Fold in the cooled pineapple mixture and the cubed gelatin. Pour on top of crust and cover top of cake with remaining wafer crumbs. Chill and serve.

The Times-News will pay $5 each week for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page Editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.

ness. Now his contract is safe against any 2-1 trump break.

He ruffs dummy's last heart and plays out all the diamonds. Then he leads a club and it doesn't matter which opponent wins.

He must either give South a ruff and discard or lead a spade. In all cases the guess for the spade jack is eliminated.

Suppose West started with all three clubs? Then South will wish that he had taken the club finesse but he will still have a fifty-fifty chance for his contract. He will lead a second trump and eventually try to locate the spade jack.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Safety plays are usually a matter of declarer taking a little extra care to insure his contract.

They are essential in rubber bridge and there are many occasions when they should be made in match point duplicate.

Today's hand shows South in a very good five-club contract.

On a duplicate game most pairs would be playing at a club part score. Therefore, in either duplicate or rubber bridge South wants to give himself the best play for his contract.

This play is to lead the queen of clubs at trick two and then refuse the club fi-

Princess yields status

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—A 21-year-old princess of Thailand married an American engineering student during the weekend, saying she was not giving up much in abandoning her royal status.

The daughter of King Bhumibol and Queen Sirikit of Thailand, known to fellow students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology as Julie Mahidol, married Peter L. Jensen, 21, at All Souls Episcopal Church in a 12-minute service attended by about 65 guests.

"I had no significant position in government or as royalty in any event," she told reporters. "I just couldn't be a person, but now I am no longer royalty and I am free."

Education hardest hit

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — Higher education is being hardest hit by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' 1.9 per cent holdback in General Fund spending, Budget Director D.E. "Skip" Chilberg said Monday.

Chilberg said the University of Idaho, especially will feel the pinch caused by Andrus' decision to hold down spending to meet what he believes will be a revenue shortfall in this fiscal year.

"They likely will have to defer some maintenance activities at the University of Idaho," Chilberg said, adding, "I also understand the University of Idaho is not going to buy a computer they had planned on acquiring."

He said the public schools can make up the cutback by increasing the property tax at the local level.

"It's not going to affect the public schools but it is going to affect the property taxpayer," Chilberg said.

Andrus announced his intentions to hold back spending—by some $2.5 million Aug. 10 because of predictions by his budget analysts that revenue will fall short of expectations.

On Aug. 11, the budget office mailed out a request to all General Fund agencies to report by Aug. 17 where they intended to make the cuts in their budgets. It was left to the individual agencies to decide whether to cut from salaries and wages, other current expense or capital outlay.

Because state law prohibits money being transferred into salaries from other categories many agencies made their cuts in other current expense or in capital outlay. If they can show a reduction in salaries later they still can transfer money out of the salary category to replenish that taken from the others.

"Some made the cut by not filling positions vacancies," Chilberg said, adding he referred to "new positions" authorized by the legislature in most cases.

All but the judicial and legislative branches have reported to the budget office, Chilberg said. But he said he anticipated he would hear from both later this week.

He said the judiciary notified him its figures would be filed this week and "the court said there is no question they would make the cut."

"I don't know what I can say about the legislature," he said when asked if he felt the lawmakers also would cut their spending.

Chilberg, a Democratic appointee, and the Republican-controlled legislature have been at odds over the budget and what General Fund revenue for this fiscal year might be.

Hiring freeze

BOISE (UPI) — Because of President Nixon's veto of the HEW labor appropriations bill, an immediate freeze today was put on hiring of any new individuals under the governor's Public Employment Program in Idaho.

Martin L. Peterson, executive director of the Human Resource Development Council, said the veto of the bill containing funds for continuation of the program, during the next year may affect the future of the entire program.

Several hundred persons at present are employed under the program in Idaho, including the state's public kindergarten program. Jobs of several hundred veterans also are involved.

Peterson said that since the Congress has passed a continuing resolution which will allow funding of the program at last year's level for the next month, there will be no need to consider laying off of any PEP participants.

Wage halt asked

BOISE (UPI) — Saying it is "downgrading" top appointed officers of state government more than elected officials, Auditor Joe R. Williams today called for a halt to salary boosts for agency heads.

Williams pointed out the elected officials cannot receive raises during their terms in office, adding they must look to the legislature for any pay boosts they get, too.

He said he was not necessarily saying that elected officials were receiving too little money for their services but he said he felt "lesser" appointed officers should be paid less than the elected officials.

"They should be paid according to their responsibility and the importance of their positions in state government," Williams said, pointing to recent pay hikes for appointed officials.

He said the payrolls should be watched closely especially at a time when the "state is fighting for its life financially."

He said some attorneys and judges in state government, for instance, make more than the attorney general and that some school officials are paid more than the state superintendent of public instruction.

"Elected officials—especially those who are on important boards such as the Land Board—should be among the highest paid officials," he said.

"I think it's wrong to raise some heads of departments above the elected officials—when I feel some of these departments could be done away with entirely," he said.

Two such departments, Williams said, are the Personnel Commission and the Office of Legislative Auditor.

He suggested combining the personnel commission with the Department of Employment to eliminate "duplication."

Idaho education enrollments level

BOISE (UPI) — Enrollments are expected to level in Idaho's institutions of higher education this year but a spokesman says the schools still will need more money.

This was the prediction Monday from Milton Small, executive director of Higher Education, and D. P. Engelking, superintendent of public instruction. They based it on reports from the schools themselves.

"Last time I checked with the institutions, Boise State College reported it was still looking toward some increases this fall—perhaps up to five per cent," Small said.

"The University of Idaho, Idaho State University and Lewis-Clark College all indicated it looked like it was leveling off where it was last year."

"That is based on their requests for admission and information and so forth," Small added. "None of it was based on hard facts—but on previous years' experience."

He said the growth rate that the schools had witnessed for several years has slowed down. Several factors, he said, could be responsible. For one thing, the World War II baby boom and the post war baby boom that crowded the schools in the 1960s is tapering off.

He said he thought the threat of the draft may have something to do with it.

Barring some unpredictable factors, Small said quite possibly enrollment at the state's universities and colleges may be headed for a plateau for a few years.

Even with enrollments leveling off, Small said, higher education is going to need increases in funding for a while.

Escapee apprehended

DENVER (UPI) — An escapee from the Idaho State Penitentiary at Boise was apprehended at the home of relatives here Monday by federal authorities.

An FBI spokesman identified the man as Steven Lynn Lent, 21, who escaped from the Idaho institution July 6. A federal warrant was issued for Lent's arrest in Boise, Aug. 15, for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Lent appeared before a U.S. magistrate Monday and was remanded to the custody of the U.S. Marshal in lieu of bond. Idaho authorities said they planned to return him to Idaho either by extradition or removal.

RUSSET INN

The Russet Inn located at 360 Main Ave. N. in Twin Falls is owned and operated by Carley and Cleo Kleinfopf who have been in the food business since 1945. They have been associated with the food industry from Alaska to Vietnam but have called Twin Falls their home for the last nine years.

The following are just a few of the features that make the Russet Inn such a popular dining spot in this area. A complete breakfast menu; Plenty of parking in the rear of the restaurant; Luncheon specials for all appetites; A "many choice" full course dinner menu; food prepared from their own recipes by competent cooks;

Service by friendly and efficient waitresses; A relaxed atmosphere and of course most important of all, excellent well-prepared food.

A customer once remarked that "it's all the little extra things done that makes the Russet Inn stand out from all the other places around."

The restaurant is located across from Sears on Main Ave., and the hours are 6:00 am to 10:00 pm (except Sundays and Holidays).

As the heading implies, the Russet Inn has the best food in Town, but don't take anyone's word for it, find out for yourself soon!

Ketchum okays condominium

KETCHUM — Almost $700,000 in building permits were approved Monday night by the Ketchum City Council during a brief one-hour meeting.

Included in the building permits was $394,000 for a condominium project on Third and River Streets by the Dempsey Construction Corp., Mammoth Lakes, Calif.

Approved by the council were three four-unit buildings at $64,000 each and three four-unit buildings at $40,000 each. Also approved was a $55,000 recreation building for the condominium complex.

According to city building Inspector John Jacoby, the city has approved $3 million in permits to date this year, compared to $4.85 million for all of 1971.

In other action, the council denied a petition to close an undeveloped street in the Knob Hill area. Petitioner Dean Behse requested the action to gain access to three lots which he co-owns with Tom Richmond.

In the decision to deny closure of Eighth Street from the alley to East Avenue, Councilman Vern McClellan said the street, which would revert to the adjacent property owners, is "worth more than the lots" because of its size.

As a result of the council's action, Behse requested that Eighth Street be developed, or that East Avenue be extended.

Mayor Kenneth Richey said the road work would be done, but it would be subject to available funds.

New Snake bridge slated at Burley

By LEPAGE LAYTON
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Construction of another bridge across the Snake River on Overland Avenue in Burley is now on the Idaho Department of Highways' long range building program.

A letter from Wayne Summers, secretary of the Idaho Highway Board, informed the Burley City Council Monday night the request for another crossing has been taken under consideration and added to the long range program.

It would provide a one-way route and serve as a couplet with the existing bridge to carry north and south bound traffic over the river on Overland Avenue which is also State Highway 27.

Burley council members made the request several weeks ago explaining the present two-lane bridge is not adequate to meet heavy traffic demands at this time.

Council members discussed a "growing problem" in the downtown and surrounding areas of Burley. Weeds, some of them six and seven feet tall, are growing around some of the city's businesses, on parking lots and even obscuring parking meters in some areas. Council members decided to advise business and property owners to take steps to remove the weeds. Those failing to comply will be assessed the cost of city weed removal.

Les Morgan, councilman, reported on a cemetery district study he was asked to make two weeks ago. He said the district would require 15 petition signatures and would have to be a minimum of 6,000 acres in size with a minimum assessed valuation of $200,000. If the district is formed, the city's municipal cemetery would become part of the district with assessments on property in the district providing care for the facility.

William Parsons, city attorney, advised the council to consider any changes they wish made in the contract for power purchase from Bonneville Power Administration. The 1973 contract must be acted on in the next meeting, he said, and any changes must be made at that time. The city purchases power from BPA and delivers it to customers over the city distribution system.

A public hearing will open the Sept. 5 council meeting with the public invited to comment on plans for eliminating parking along four blocks of 16th Street in the vicinity of Overland Avenue.

The proposal was one of several submitted by the Burley Safety Commission following a review of traffic problems in Burley. Members of the commission suggested no street parking on 16th Street for two blocks in each direction of Overland Avenue.

Protest filed against plans

TWIN FALLS — A protest to the application of Selag Development Corp. for ground water has been filed in Twin Falls by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Matthes, Ketchum.

The couple reside near the proposed site of a condominium development known as the Balsam Root Condominiums near Ketchum. They met Aug. 16 in Twin Falls with Robert Haynes, district engineer, Idaho Department of Water Administration office, to protest the request of Selag Development Corp. for drilling of wells, saying they fear the additional wells requested by the development would lower the level of their own domestic well.

Selag has applied with the department of water administration for two wells to provide ground water for domestic supplies of the development. They estimate 1,034 persons would reside in the new building development.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthes said they are not objecting to the condominium development, but to the proposal for wells to supply water needs.

No action has been taken on the Selag application by the water administration board at this time officials here said today. No other protests have been received to date.

Youth honored

TF fair to have little rodeo with big event

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A "little rodeo" within the large rodeo will be a new feature at the Twin Falls County Fair Sept. 5-9.

The innovation was explained by Tom Shouse, secretary-manager, at the annual publicity banquet Monday evening in the Round-Up Room of the Rogerson Hotel.

The second arena will feature the queen contestants for the Miss Rodeo Idaho crown, as well as calf-riding, Shetland pony riding and other events by young riders. Bill Moore, and Mike Gray, both members of the fair board, will assist Shouse in directing events for the smaller arena.

Harold Hove, president of the fair board, welcomed guests and introduced fair board members and their wives, as well as the county commissioners and their wives.

Heber Loughmiller gave the table prayer and Ben Mottern introduced news media members from Magic Valley. "We have to get over to the public what we have at the fair and we need your help to tell everyone what a great fair we have," Mottern said to members of radio stations, television stations and area newspapers.

This year's fair features the theme "Youth—Tomorrow's Leaders," and special guests were the student body presidents of area high schools and representatives of other youth groups.

Bob Bunce, Filer student body president, introduced Michael Sass, Twin Falls student body president; Rusty Jesser, Twin Falls, district 4-H president; Jack Carney, Twin Falls district president of the Future Farmers of America; David Brown, Buhl student body president, and Rick Nelson, Kimberly student body president.

Cecil Calhoun, superintendent of the produce department, said this department will be greater than ever this year. The excellent Idaho produce causes much comment from fairgoers each year, he said.

The junior flower club and junior gardeners, both new departments within the last few years, are growing rapidly, Calhoun said. He gave credit for organizing these two new youth departments to T. T. "Pete" Creed, who, he said, suggested the idea to the fair board.

Calhoun said that in a five minute count at 4 p.m. last year, 960 people passed through the produce building to view the exhibits, and more than 600 came through during the middle of the day.

Reg Kessler, producer of the rodeo stock, and Ray Cammack of the Cammack Shows and Carnival, were not able to attend the banquet. Tom Shouse said there would probably be several new rides at the carnival, which, he said, has been praised by local police as "the best they have ever come in contact with."

Gene Hull, chairman of the rodeo queen contest, said there should be 10 or 12 contestants to compete for the privilege of trying for the Miss Rodeo America crown in Las Vegas in November.

This year there are more than 750 4-H club members who will be exhibiting at the fair. Secretary Shouse said. Entered in 4-H club livestock will be 140 beef, 190 horses, 95 sheep, 47 swine and 12 goats. Goats are a new 4-H class this year, Shouse said.

The National Register of Merit Hereford Show held last year at the fair was rated with the three top shows in the United States last year, according to Bob Howard, Murtaugh, who spoke on this year's show. Some 250 head of Herefords have been entered for the show, he said.

Another new feature this year is the machinery area where the old grandstand formerly stood. This area has been planted to grass and machinery dealers have been invited to display their implements.

Special afternoon entertainment will be presented each day of the fair from 5-7 p.m. and will include presentations by the Little Theatre group, talent shows, square danced groups and others, according to Howard.

Merchant's building No. 4 will be devoted this year to a display of outstanding hobbies from Magic Valley people.

A new horse barn has been added to take care of the ever-growing number of horse entries.

Shouse concluded by saying this year's fair will surely offer "something for everyone," and fair board members agreed it should be the best fair ever.

Jerome sports western garb to promote fair

JEROME — John Steile Jr., chairman of the Jerome County Fair Board, reminds Jerome residents to don western wear for this week of fair events.

Steile said at least three items of western attire should be worn to "get into the spirit of our annual program."

Windows in many Jerome businesses have been painted with pictures indicating the theme of the 39th annual fair and rodeo.

A complete schedule events is listed by Steile for the different departments.

For department 1, community exhibits in the produce building, enter and arrangement of exhibits will be Wednesday prior to 2 p.m. Judging of the community exhibits will be Thursday.

Department 2, farm produce in the produce building. Entry and arrangement of exhibits must be prior to 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Department 3, women's department in the at and women's building. Exhibits in the women's open class will be held Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Judging will be held on Wednesday.

Department 4, flowers; commercial exhibitors in produce and others in the armory. Registering of exhibits will be Tuesday from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Flower exhibits will be entered before 9 a.m. on Wednesday with judging to be held at 10 a.m. that day.

Department 5, arts in the art and women's building. Art exhibits will be entered Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. with judging to be held on Thursday.

Department 7, hobbies in the produce building. Entry and arrangement of exhibits will be entered from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Wednesday with judging to be held on Thursday.

Department 9, school exhibits in the produce building. Entry and arrangement of exhibits must be prior to 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Department 10, convalescent and shut-in handicraft in the produce building. Entry and arrangement of exhibits must be prior to 2 p.m. on Wednesday.

Department 11, Jerome County 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers of America in the 4-H building. Four 4-H home economics exhibits entered between 9 a.m. and noon on Tuesday. Judging of the home economics exhibits will be held from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. as well as all miscellaneous and crop exhibits on Tuesday.

The 4-H Style Review will be held at 8 p.m. on Tuesday.

Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Judging of home economics, miscellaneous and crop exhibits, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. enter all livestock exhibits, with judging to be held at 9 a.m. on Thursday.

From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., horse and dairy fitting and showing and quality judging as well as home economics demonstrations and 2 p.m. agricultural demonstrations.

Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. swine, sheep and beef fitting and showing quality judging and 10 a.m. home economics judging contest, 4 p.m. grand champion fitting and showing and at 8:30 p.m. 4-H awards program in the fairgrounds arena.

Saturday at 9 a.m., tree identification contest, noon Fat Stock Sale, at Producers Livestock Marketing Association; 3 p.m. 4-H tractor driving contest.

Gooding to install 4-way stop signs

GOODING — Four-way stop signs will be installed at the intersection of Seventh Avenue and Colorado Street, the Gooding City Council was told Monday night.

Councilman Gene Kelly also told the council speed limit signs of 25 miles per hour will be posted along Seventh Avenue out to the new high school in preparation for the new school year.

The city had received complaints of speeding along that route last year. Mayor Harley Crippen instructed City Attorney Cecil Hobbey to draw up an ordinance changing the speed limit from Montana Street to the east city limits from 30 miles an hour to 25 miles an hour.

Police Chief Lyle Clifford told the council members the city police force would be sent to Police Training School in Pocatello for 30 days, beginning Oct. 8.

Lewiston woman hurt at Jerome

JEROME — A Lewiston woman was injured in a rare-end collision on Interstate 80N early Monday.

Mrs. Casper Eggerling was admitted to St. Benedict's Hospital for treatment of her injuries. She was riding in a car driven by her husband when it was struck from behind by a car driven by Tim Terry, 16, Gooding, Idaho State Police reported. The Eggerling auto left the highway and stopped in a field.

Mrs. Eggerling was listed in fairly good condition today. The collision occurred three miles west of Jerome.

State police said Terry received a citation charging him with inattentive driving.

New features planned for Minidoka's fair

RUPERT — New features for Minidoka County Fair have been announced along with the usual events and exhibits.

A ceramics department and a nuclear energy display are both new for the county fair, scheduled for Aug. 31 through Sept. 2.

The ceramics division will be under the direction of Mrs. Dixie Walker. There will be three divisions — professional, amateur and juvenile, according to Mrs. Walker. Eleven categories will be judged, including best underglaze, best hand molding, best china paint, best lustre, best underglazed (waxed, stained), best color glaze, most outstanding decorations, best porcelain and best of show in each division.

The nuclear energy display will be set up in the commercial building by students of Idaho State University, Pocatello.

New restroom facilities have been constructed on the fairgrounds, reports Mrs. Elaine White, fair board secretary.

The county fair will also include the 4-H and FFA agriculture projects, home economics and livestock; open class home arts, livestock, crops and garden exhibits.

Booths will be set up in the commercial building by local merchants and businessmen.

A change in the horse performance classes has been made this year. The classes will be at 7 p.m. Aug. 31 in the arena. This arrangement will enable more people to watch the performance and will prevent conflict with showing of 4-H livestock projects.

Par-mutuel horse racing is scheduled at 1 p.m. daily Sept. 2-4 at the fairgrounds.

Starting at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 2 will be the annual 4-H and FFA Fat Stock sale, followed by the awards assembly at 2 p.m. in the arena located in the swine barn.

Different charges

GOODING — Charges against two Gooding men were incorrectly stated in a Times-News account of an incident outside the courthouse here Aug. 4.

Carl Ashmead, 30, and Jim Murray, 25, have informed the newspaper that they were charged with disturbing the peace and not with public drunkenness as originally reported on that date.

They were arrested in connection with an incident in which a pickup truck was backed near the courthouse door, then accelerated, leaving black tire marks on the sidewalk.

The Times-News regrets the error.

Manager listed as good

JEROME — Robert A. Bussiere, plant manager for Tupperware, is listed in good condition today at St. Benedict's Hospital in Jerome.

Bussiere was admitted to the hospital Monday afternoon following an appendicitis attack at his office. He was scheduled to be parade marshal in Wednesday's 39th annual Jerome County Fair and Rodeo parade.

John Steile, Jr., fair board chairman, said today that Lann Brackenbury, Jerome, former Miss Rodeo America, will replace Bussiere as parade marshal. He also noted that Burley Sheriff's Posse will perform Wednesday night at the fairgrounds arena in Jerome and not the Twin Falls posse as previously advertised.

Olympic outlook still muddled over Rhodesia

MUNICH (UPI)—The Secretary General of the National Olympic Committee of Africa (NOCA) said Monday night all African countries would withdraw from the 20th Olympics if Rhodesia is allowed to participate.

The executive committee of the International Olympic Committee met until almost midnight (7 p.m. EDT) in an attempt to resolve the Rhodesian question without defections from the games which open Saturday.

Compromise, however, appeared futile. The committee planned to call in officials of the Rhodesian team at 8:30 a.m. (3:30 a.m. EDT) Tuesday and then resume official debate on the question.

Jean Claude Ganga of the Congo, secretary general of the NOCA, said 32 of 35 teams would withdraw rather than compete against Rhodesia because of Rhodesia's racial policies.

Ganga said the NOCA resolution to leave was presented to the International Olympic Committee (IOC) earlier Monday. The teams which would go home include Kenya and Ethiopia, who have some of the world's top middle distance and distance runners.

These include Kip Keino, defending champion in the 1,500 meters; Nafai Temu, defending champion in the 10,000 meters, both of Kenya; Mamo Walde of Ethiopia, defending champion in the marathon; and Amos Biwott of Kenya, defending champ in the 3,000 meter steeplechase. None of the other African nations have any medal candidates.

Several black American track stars also have threatened to walk out if the Rhodesians participate.

The resolution dropped by the NOCA is the latest pressure brought against the IOC on the Rhodesian question. The United Nations earlier became involved by demanding the Germans to explain how the Rhodesians entered Germany without passports.

Rhodesia has been under UN sanction. In New York, the sanctions committee of the UN Security Council said it "considered the entry into the Federal Republic of Germany by members of this (Rhodesian) Olympic team, whether or not they are bearers of Olympic identity cards, provides the possibility of conflict with the provisions" of the UN sanction against Rhodesia.

With only five days before the traditional opening ceremonies, Avery Brundage, the 84-year-old IOC president who will retire at the end of the games, tried in vain to resolve the dilemma. After meeting with the African nations, the IOC met with Rhodesia and then went into a closed-door session attended by 72 of the 73 Congress members.

Willie Daume, chairman of the German Olympic Committee, said there was no hope for a compromise.

"It will be a straight vote for or against Rhodesia's competing," Daume said. "All the emotion that has built up in African countries over hundreds of years came out in the debate."

A spokesman said the discussion was emotional but orderly. "Everyone wanted to have his say, and views were forcefully expressed," the spokesman said.

Ethiopia, the one nation which has formally expressed its intention to withdraw, had been scheduled to leave on a mid-afternoon flight to Rome, but scratched that and rescheduled the departure for Tuesday.

"My team is packed and ready to leave," said Desta Girma, chief of the Ethiopian team. "The only decision we are prepared to accept is that the invitation to Rhodesia to compete in the Games is withdrawn."

Clifford Buck, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, also delayed presenting to the I.O.C. a statement drawn up Sunday by members of the U.S. track and field team on the situation. A U.S. spokesman said, "The statement will wait on the decision. Obviously, the statement is not necessary if Rhodesia is no longer in the Games."

Brundage at one point in the day asked the British Government to clarify its position on Rhodesia. Although Rhodesia has expelled British control, the Queen played for any Rhodesians agreed to compete, a British spokesman stressed here under their old flag, the British colony, under the old name of "Southern Rhodesia," Rhodesia a colony and Rhodesians as British subjects.

Gibson and Cardinals blank Los Angeles 4-0 on 7 hits

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Bob Gibson shut out Los Angeles on seven singles and helped his own cause with a run-producing double Monday night as the St. Louis Cardinals bent the Dodgers 4-0.

The veteran righthander appeared to tire in the eighth inning when he yielded three hits and in the ninth when he gave up a hit and walked a runner but he held on to record his 14th victory in his last 16 decisions. He now is 14-7 this season.

It was Gibson's fourth shutout of the season and 54th of his career, the most among active National League pitchers.

The Cardinals made the most of six hits for three runs in eight innings off loser Don Sutton, who took his eighth loss against 13 wins.

Cubs fall to 3-run homer

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—John Jeter's three-run homer with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning gave the San Diego Padres a 6-5 win over the Chicago Cubs Monday night.

Jeter capped a four-run Padre ninth with his sixth homer of the season and first since May 27 off Jack Aker. It came with Clarence Gaston on third and Derrel Thomas on second.

San Diego got its first run of the inning when Fred Kendall's infield out with the bases loaded scored Dave Roberts from third. Roberts and Gaston, singled, and Thomas walked to load the bases.

Billy Williams hit a three-run homer in the top of the ninth for the Cubs to break a 2-2 tie. Williams' homer, his 25th of the season, followed a leadoff walk to Paul Popovich.

Finley fete dies—no Finley

COOS BAY, Ore. (UPI)—Monday was Charles O. Finley Day in Coos Bay, but the banquet had to be cancelled when the controversial baseball owner failed to show up.

The mayors of Coos Bay, North Bend and East Side had proclaimed the day to honor the owner of the Oakland A's baseball club, which has a farm club here in the Northwest League.

The local committee which set up the "day" and the banquet said it was unable to locate Finley after he failed to arrive as scheduled Sunday.

Baltimore beats Kansas City 23-17

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—A 23-17 victory Monday night over the Kansas City Chiefs in a National Football League exhibition game. A crowd of 76,882 roared in

A's take lead by beating Tigers 5-1

DETROIT (UPI)—Jim Hunter and Rolfe Fingers pitched the Oakland A's back into first place in the American League West and tightened up the Eastern Division race at the same time Monday night with a eight-hit, 5-1 win over the Detroit Tigers.

Powell's homer sinks Angels

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Boog Powell's 17th home run in the fifth inning backed Pat Dobson's three-hit pitching as the Baltimore Orioles topped the California Angels 3-1 Monday night.

Powell shattered a 1-1 tie with a two-run shot off losing pitcher Andy Messersmith, 3-0, after Tommy Davis had walked with two out.

The Orioles had grabbed a 1-0 lead for Dobson in the second inning when Powell walked, Don Baylor reached on a bunt single and Brooks Robinson forced Powell at third base. Dave Johnson's single scored Baylor from second base.

Powell doubled to open the game, stole third and scored on the first of four hits which Joe Rudi used to take over the league batting leadership with a .320 batting average.

Johnson drives Tribe by Twins

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Alex Johnson drove in three runs with a two-run single and a home run and Jack Brohamer drilled a two-run homer Monday night to power the Cleveland Indians to a 10-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Johnson, who has banged out nine hits in 14 at-bats good for seven RBIs since being reinserted in the starting lineup last Saturday, erased a 1-0 Twins lead in the first with a line single to right and drilled his eighth homer of the season over the left field fence in the fourth after Buddy Bell sacked his sixth homer to open the inning.

The Indians, who scored twice in each of the first four innings, got two in the second on Brohamer's fourth homer and two in the third on Ray Fosse's single and Frank Duffy's run-scoring double.

Ryun says he's right on schedule

MUNICH (UPI)—Jim Ryun, the goal to which he has devoted four years of his life perhaps only three weeks away, arrived in the Olympic Village Monday night and said his training program was right where he wanted it to be.

"I'm just as excited as I was four years ago," Ryun said at the Munich airport. "Of course I hope I do a little better this time. This time we are at sea level and maybe I'll do better."

At altitude in Mexico City four years ago Ryun could not bring forth his stretch run and finished second to Kenyan Kip Keino.

And the first question waiting for Ryun when he got off the plane was:

"Do you think much of four years ago?"

"Not unless I'm reminded of it," said Ryun.

"I'll do a little bit of training here," he said, "and then taper off some. I'm where I want to be on training. That means I'm just about ready."

It's been a good summer. I wanted to stay home and train in familiar surroundings and not come over here to Europe and run in a bunch of meets just to run."

Riva Ridge Drugged?

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UPI)—The owner of Kentucky Derby winner Riva Ridge disclosed Monday that federal and state agents are investigating reports that her horse was drugged before a recent race at a New Jersey track, in which he finished fourth.

The owner, Mrs. Helen Tweedy, told newsmen at her home in Saratoga Springs that tests she had ordered for the horse after his sluggish performance during the race at Monmouth Park Racetrack Aug. 5 turned up traces of the drug Phenothiazine.

Mrs. Tweedy said the FBI, the New Jersey state police and the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Association were taking part in the probe.

She said a blood test taken the morning after the race, and a urine test taken one day later both turned up traces of the drug.

Coors-First Federal leads four Idaho teams to regional State champion Coors-First Federal of Twin Falls will lead three teams into the regional slowpitch softball tournament this weekend.

Coors, with shortstop Kirk Williams being named most valuable player in the tournament and centerfielder Harold Nussbaum coming out of the state meet with the top batting average, defeated Bronco Hut of Boise 8-3 to claim the Idaho title Sunday night.

Bronco Hut, which lost its first game and then came all the way around, got the second berth while defending champion Post Falls, unplaced in the Idaho meet, had the defending champion designation already in hand. Coeur d'Alene Merchants go as "host team."

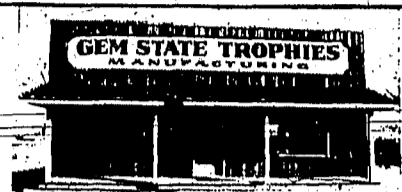

The state tournament had a couple of firsts, most notably this being the first time a North Idaho team hadn't finished first or second. The state crown returns to Twin Falls after an absence of six years. Norm's OK Tire having last won it in 1966.

District Commissioner Chad Browning, Twin Falls, said the city association will bid for state next year. "I'd say it was a battle between us and Lewiston. I think probably Lewiston will get it because they (the state committee) like to move it north and south on alternate years, but we might have a good chance now since we'll have the defending champions," Browning said.

Coors-First Federal Manager John Astorquia, saying his team would "play them one at a time," said the Twin Falls squad would have a Friday bye and play at 12-15 p.m. Saturday. It will meet the winner between O. L. Schlitz of Kennewick, Wash., and Village Inn, Bozeman, Mont.

The regional includes two teams from Montana, four from Idaho, two from Oregon, two from eastern Washington, and two from Spokane proper. The regional champion only will advance to the national playoffs in Chicago.

Iba sees room for team improvement

MUNICH (UPI)—He had his shoes off, he looked a little weary and his normally gravel voice seemed to have added a little extra rasp.

But he was talking basketball, and Hank Iba would rather talk basketball than sleep or maybe even eat.

And the natural topic was his fourth Olympic basketball team—one which has a tradition of seven straight gold medals and 54 victories in a row to uphold. There was a lot of discussion in Mexico City four years ago that the victory string would be broken. But that club, led by Spencer Haywood and Jo Jo White, got visibly better game after game and wound up winning with ease.

"But I don't see that progress here yet with this club," Iba said less than a week before his club opens its competition against Czechoslovakia.

"We have as much enthusiasm as we had then. The potential is there if we can get the scoring punch. We are scoring in flurries and I don't like that. But I couldn't ask them to work any harder."

"I was feeling pretty good, though, until I talked to the coach of the Yugoslavian team. He says the Russians are older and stronger than they have ever been. And he was rather pleased with his own team."

Iba, 68, the retired coach at Oklahoma State University, has some magical knack of taking a bunch of guys who have never seen each other and turning them into a winning team.

Even when his 1968 club was being panned, he was saying "just wait and see."

He's not unhappy with his 1972 club, but he sees an awful lot of room for improvement and he is a little more cautious than in years past.

"You have to be concerned," he said, "because of the age of the ball club—the lack of experience. I don't worry about the ability, but whether they will be able to cope with a situation when they must."

"What if you are ahead by only four points and you come down the court and take two shots and miss two times, what happens then? That's what we don't know yet."

Iba's 1968 club had had the ability to cope with the situation.

In one critical moment against Puerto Rico in Mexico City, the U.S. team had but a two-point lead. There were only 60 seconds to play. But the Americans got the key basket
