

TF firemen battle paint store fire

Flames gut paint store

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Fire destroyed the interior of the Sherwin-Williams Paint Co. store here Thursday night and caused extensive smoke damage to two adjoining businesses.

Firemen said the fire was reported about 8:15 p.m. in the paint store, located at 216 Main Avenue N., and had apparently smoldered for some time before being observed.

When firemen arrived the interior of the store was filled with smoke and flames. Aerobol paint cans, exploding prevented firemen from entering the rear of the building.

Clare Harkins, fire marshal, said some of the cans were imbedded in the walls of the building by the force of the explosion as they became heated by the burning interior of the building.

He and other fire department officials, inspecting the fire scene today said cause of the fire is still undetermined although it appeared to have started in the office area in the central portion of the store's main floor. Firemen said it may have started from wiring in the ceiling area above the office.

Four fire trucks and the full crew of firemen including those off duty were called to fight the blaze. The three trucks including the ladder unit from the main fire station and one from the substation on Falls Avenue were on the scene from 8:15 p.m. until the fire was pulled off about 9:35 p.m. The last engine left the scene at 11:15 p.m.

Extensive smoke damage was reported in the Cain Furniture store adjacent to the paint firm but officials there and at the Snyder's Office Equipment Store just west of the paint store praised firemen for their success in holding flames and water damage to the paint store only.

Ted Cheney, manager of Sherwin-Williams, was not available for comment today, but employees said no estimate of loss would be available until adjusters had gone over the building.

Del VanOrden of Cains said the firm had a $200,000 inventory, some of which would not be affected by the heavy smoke, but some, such as upholstered furniture, is damaged. He said ventilation on the second floor was poor and most of the smoke damage was on the second floor.

VanOrden said the smoke was so thick in the furniture store during the peak of the fire it prevented employees from remaining in the building. He said there is no fire or water damage, however. The furniture store will be closed until Monday morning when a fire sale is planned.

Snyder's Office Supply officials said damage in their building is also confined to smoke and cleaning of the building and furnishings will be required. The firm was open for business today.

Three firemen suffered minor injuries, confined to a sprained ankle, cut finger and singed ears.

Paul woman dies in car rollover

PAUL — Mrs. Virginia May Crystal, 45, Paul, was killed in a one-car rollover at 11:05 a.m. Thursday north of Paul on a county road.

Mrs. Crystal was driving south one and three-fourths miles north of Paul when she lost control of her car which crossed the road and hit a road sign, went through a fence and came to rest on its top in a grain field.

Roy Jarvis, Minidoka County deputy sheriff, said Mrs. Crystal lost control of the vehicle because of excessive speed.

Damage to the top and side of the vehicle was $1,000.

About 100 feet of fence was torn out by the car.

Funeral services are pending and will be announced by Payne Mortuary, Burley.

Climber dangles

INDEX, Wash. (UPI) — Rescue crews early today worked their way toward an injured mountain climber stranded for more than three days at the end of a rope hundreds of feet above ground on a rock slope of Mt. Index.

The Snohomish County Sheriff's Office said a Navy helicopter dropped two rescue squads Thursday night at the site in the Cascade Mountains where Craig Keyes has been trapped since Monday.

Teachers endorse McGovern

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — The American Federation of Teachers (AFT) broke a 56-year tradition Thursday and endorsed Sen. George McGovern for president.

The group, after hearing McGovern speak at midnight, also decided to give him up to $250,000 of the AFT campaign chest.

AFT president David Sleden had said earlier that teachers feeling that President Nixon's price-wage freeze last year hit them unduly hard, decided to break with tradition and endorse the Democratic presidential candidate.

McGovern was greeted with a standing ovation by the 1,500 delegates to the AFT annual convention. He spoke happily to them as a fellow teacher, joked with them and was applauded for practically everything he said.

McGOVERN wore Legion hat

CHICAGO (UPI) — No matter how you gauge it, President Nixon outscored Sen. George S. McGovern in their consecutive day speeches at the American Legion's 54th national convention.

McGovern tried hard. Newsman traveling with the Democratic candidate said his Legion speech Wednesday was one of the most eloquent and well-delivered of his campaign.

The South Dakota senator, a former World War II bomber pilot, wore his own blue Legion cap and told the 4,500 delegates he had once been chairman of the Americanism Committee at the legion post in Mitchell, S.D.

But it didn't seem to matter. Nixon, fresh from triumphs at the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach, scored a victory in the first speech of his re-election campaign Thursday.

Nixon, also a member of the American Legion, didn't need to wear his legion cap.

Convention delegates, burst into applause 28 times during Nixon's 1-2 hour address, compared to only nine times during McGovern's speech, which also lasted about 1-2 hour.

They were on their feet applauding Nixon for a total of 3 1-2 minutes, including standing ovations when he arrived and when he left plus rising for one minute to applaud when he blasted draft dodgers.

The legionnaires rose only once for McGovern—clapping politely for 10 seconds as he left the stage.

Nixon said in the speech that he had been a member of the legion since 1947 "and I think I know my fellow legionnaires."

He then proceeded to show he did.

Not mentioning McGovern by name, he decried "those who try to make false moral heroes of a few hundred deserters and draft dodgers."

The President said he looked forward to "generations" of peace, but warned "it will not become a reality if we heed the honest but misguided voices of those who say we should weaken America today and naively hope for peace tomorrow."

"Weakness is a risk we must never take," he said.

Viets advance after commander sacked

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese forces recaptured key Que Son district capital below Da Nang today, only hours after their commanding general had been fired for losing the town in the first place, military sources said.

The sources said a 500-man unit of former mercenaries for the U.S. Green Berets entered Que Son, 30 miles south of Da Nang, at mid-afternoon, hauled down a Viet Cong flag and raised the government standard.

Brig. Gen. Pham Hoa Hiep had sent in reinforcements and ordered the 10,000-man task force to retake the town by nightfall.

But by the time his troops had carried out the order, Hiep had been officially relieved of command by an executive order issued by President Nguyen Van Thieu.

His firing followed by one day the arrest of the regimental commander whose troops fled Que Son and nearby Ross Aug. 19. Hiep was overall commander of the 2nd Infantry Division and of all troops in the Que Son area.

The general was replaced by Col. Tran Van Nhut, chief of Binh Long Province north of Saigon and considered one of the heroes of the government stand at An Loc province capital. Nhut stayed in An Loc throughout the heavy fighting in April and May and personally destroyed one Communist tank with an anti-tank weapon.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. warplanes Thursday took advantage of clearing weather to hit at Communist supply lines in 310 raids. The U.S. command announced the loss of four more fighter-bombers over North Vietnam.

Spokesmen said six crewmen from three of the fighter-bombers shot down Aug. 17, 19 and last Sunday were "missing," apparently either dead or captured. Two — Air Force crewmen parachuted into the Gulf of Tonkin when their F4 Phantom was shot down today and were rescued within 50 minutes.

At northernmost Quang Tri, North Vietnamese gunners hit government marines attempting to retake the Communist-held city with a 1,700-round artillery barrage and launched a ground attack on government positions, spokesmen said today. The fighting left 207 Communists and 15 marines dead, with another 58 government troops wounded, spokesmen said.

Import birds banned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department today imposed a ban on commercial imports of canaries, parakeets, mynahs and other exotic birds to ward off threats of disease to U.S. birds and poultry.

Agriculture officials said there was no means of determining how long the ban would remain in effect.

The prohibition was aimed at preventing carriers of a virus known as Newcastle disease from spreading the infection in the United States.

There was an outbreak of Newcastle disease in southern California last winter, resulting in the deaths of 3.9 million pet and wild birds, chickens, turkeys and other fowl.

Although the disease cannot infect man, agriculture officials said an epidemic could cause shortages of chickens, turkeys and eggs, resulting in higher retail prices.

Weather helps fight to save condor home

FILLMORE, Calif. (UPI) — The year's worst brush fire nibbled into the Sespe condor sanctuary today, but firefighters received unexpected help from freakily unseasonable weather—cold and fog.

More than 15,000 acres of Los Padres National Forest had gone up in flames as the fire entered its fourth day today. One spearhead charred about 350 acres of the Sespe Wildlife Area, the U.S. Forest Service reported.

The area is the last refuge of the rare California condor, largest bird of prey in the world. But a Forest Service biologist said all but 15 to 20 of the estimated 60 birds—all that remains of the species—were away hunting in higher mountains, and those that stayed behind were nesting at the other end of the sanctuary.

After three days of temperatures in the 100 degree range, banks of heavy fog rolled into the forest Thursday. Temperatures dropped to the 70s during the day and into the low 60s at night.

"If the weather holds, it will give us the leverage to get on this fire," a Forest Service spokesman said.

The cool air, surging inland from the ocean, brought optimistic predictions from firefighters facing another brush fire to the southeast.

CSI may appeal funding

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — CSI President Dr. James L. Taylor hinted today at an Idaho Supreme Court appeal in a funding dispute with the Idaho Budget Bureau.

"I'm not ruling anything out," Taylor said, when told of an attorney general office's opinion that the state did not have to make lump sum appropriations to the junior college.

The school had asked the state attorney general's office for an opinion when the Bureau of the Budget notified school officials earlier this year it would cease making the annual payments and initiate twice a year checks.

The opinion, made public today by the attorney general's office, said since the Idaho Code did not permit total or lump sum distributions when appropriations were made biennially, "we can hardly conclude that total lump sum distributions can be made where appropriation is made annually."

It also said the distribution of the college's funds should conform to the distribution schedule provided for in the Standard Appropriations Act.

But Taylor branded the ruling "not proper as to the law. We will try to carry it to a higher body or do whatever we feel is necessary."

He mentioned the Idaho Board of Examiners and the Idaho Supreme Court as possible avenues of appeal.

But he said he would consult with the college attorney, Robert Alexander, and the college board of trustees, in an effort to formulate an appeal to the attorney general office's opinion.

Alexander, who had earlier confidently predicted a ruling favorable to the school, said the attorney general's office said "I think they are dead wrong." But he withheld further comment until he had an opportunity to see the text of the opinion issued today.

In Boise, deputy director of the budget Larry Seale said the opinion "is in conformity to our interpretation with the proper way of distributing money to various state agencies."

The Bureau of the Budget had earlier notified the school of its decision to alter the payments schedule to lighten the cash flow within the state and to bring conformity to all state agencies receiving appropriations.

But Taylor reiterated the school's claim today that the decision meant "a sudden change of the rules."

Rev. Jack N. Garabrant, chairman of the CSI board of trustees, could not be reached for comment today.

"Psst... anything you can do about that suspicious character?"

Bullfight fans mourn Manolete's death day

LINARES, Spain (UPI)—Bullfighting fans converged on this sun-scorched Andalusian town today for ceremonies of commemorating an event which threw Spain into weeklong mourning 25 years ago—the death of Manolete.

Manolete was the nom de guerre of Manuel Rodriguez whose artistry and sombre, brooding personality dominated the bullfighting scene in the forties. Posters of Manolete still sell well in Spain and his picture sometimes adorns the covers of bullfighting magazines. The death of Manolete is still a theme for folk ballads.

Acts commemorating the fatal goring of Manolete in the Linares bullring Aug. 28, 1947, will highlight the weeklong San Agustin fiesta starting Saturday.

On Tuesday, a mass will be read for Manolete. Some of Spain's top matadors will appear in a series of bullfights wearing black armbands.

One of them will be veteran Luis Miguel Dominguez who was sharing the card with Manolete on that tragic day 25 years ago.

Many aficionados still think that Dominguez's outstanding performance that day may have goaded a jealous Manolete into taking even greater risks than usual.

Dominguez was then 21 and challenging Manolete for the No. 1 spot in bullfighting. Manolete was 33 with 20 years of bullfighting and had been gored at least a score of times.

The "monstruo"—literally monster but in this sense meaning prodigy—was unlucky with his first bull, winning nothing more than polite applause for an uninspiring performance.

Then came Dominguez with a brilliant display of caping and sword work that had the crowd roaring its approval.

Manolete's second bull was a huge black miura, Spain's most famous breed. It had originally been brought in to be fought by the third matador on the card but for yet unexplained reasons was switched to Manolete in a deal among bullfighters' managers.

The fatal goring occurred in the last second of the fight. As Manolete bent between the bull's horns to sink his sword into its heart, the beast's final reflexes produced a powerful lunge and its right horn ripped open Manolete's femoral artery.

He died at sunrise the next morning.

Probe continues on range fires

SHOSHONE — The Federal Bureau of Investigation is still investigating the causes of two range fires in the last week in the Shoshone district of the BLM.

Don Runberg, BLM official in Shoshone, said the federal agency is still looking into the cause of a fire which burned near Gooding a week ago and another one which broke out south of Shoshone Tuesday night.

Runberg also said one new fire had been reported in the Shoshone district in the last 24 hours. A small 10 acre blaze north of Minidoka was reported at 9:45 Thursday night, but a crew of five men and one tanker extinguished the blaze by 2 a.m. this morning.

The Sawtooth National Forest Ranger Station in Twin Falls also reported one new fire, involving less than one acre near Fairfield.

The Burley district of the BLM reported no new fires this morning.

US command denies charges

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command today acknowledged that Navy fighters sank a 30-foot boat off the North Vietnamese coast, but denied Chinese charges that it was a lifeboat from an offshore freighter and that five Chinese sailors were killed.

American officers said, "We have no evidence to indicate that we attacked a lifeboat."

China said Thursday: "On Aug. 22, 1972, U.S. aircraft brazenly bombed a lifeboat of the Chinese merchant ship 'Hongqi No. 151', which was anchored off the shore of Hon Ngu Island of Nghe An province of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, destroying the lifeboat and killing the five Chinese crew members."

"The Chinese government and people express great indignation at this and lodge a strong protest with the U.S. government. The Chinese government reserves the lawful right to demand compensation for its losses."

The U.S. command said Navy

warplanes from the aircraft carrier Oriskany, blockading North Vietnamese ports, sank "one 30-foot supply water craft" in that area Tuesday.

Spokesmen said pilots and operations officers believed the boat was carrying supplies from a Chinese freighter anchored near Hon Ngu in an attempt to circumvent the U.S. mining of Vinh and six other ports in North Vietnam.

"Those fighters are not attacked until they are well clear of the (foreign) freighters," a spokesman said. "We do not target third country shipping."

The Chinese protest was the first since U.S. warplanes, helicopters, destroyers and cruisers began a campaign last May to sink barges, junks and sampans unloading the Chinese freighters.

The protest came in a statement made by the Chinese Foreign Ministry which was broadcast by the New China News Agency.

Oil agreement set

BEIRUT (UPI)—Western oil companies are heading toward an agreement with Arab oil producing nations on a participation on a package basis, so we may have a lasting agreement," Arthur Palmer, the companies' spokesman, said.

The talks between Persian Gulf states and the companies drilling their oil began on a mountain top hotel near Beirut last Saturday. Agreement is expected to be reached next week, the sources said.

The countries—Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Kuwait, Iraq and Abu Dhabi—have asked for a minimum 20 per cent share in the operations of the companies, to be raised gradually to 51 per cent. Between them, the five supply enough crude oil exports to keep much of Western European and Japanese industry turning.

The companies—British Petroleum, Shell, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, Texaco, Mobil and CFP of France—agreed to the sharing demands, but the two sides have been deadlocked on the details.

The Oregon Trail

Finalized plans involving recommended management for the Saylor Creek unit of the Bureau of Reclamation Land Management is now nearing completion. A public hearing on the proposals is slated for Glens Ferry sometime in September.

The project includes parts of three counties — Elmore, Owyhee and Twin Falls — and includes some 640,000 acres south of the Snake River.

Orderly farmland developments are among the considerations, as are range needs for livestock, water developments and game continuation. The plans also call for preservation of the famed Bruneau Canyon in the wild state.

There are also more than 600 fossil areas in that region and the Old Oregon Trail cuts across it. BLM officials have given assurance that the fossil beds and the remaining segments of the Trail will be preserved. The promise has been given — and will probably be given again at the Glens Ferry meeting to be, that the Old Trail will not be plowed under as it has been in the past.

We remember well another day and another BLM project.

At that time a BLM official from Boise was anxious to know just where the Old Oregon Trail was located on the south side of the Snake River. Frank Clarke, a Glens Ferry pioneer and authority on the trail's location, spent hours and hours with that official, detailing just where the trail went.

Mr. Clarke and others interested in preserving some of the actual ruts of the trail, were assured that all would be well — they trail, as pointed out by the pioneer, would not be disturbed but rather would be left for future generations to see.

So what happened? The equipment used by the BLM to clear the sagebrush from the land in question also eliminated any details of the trail. After all the promises and assurances from the BLM official, the trail was destroyed for all time.

Now once again we have the assurance of a BLM official that the Oregon Trail will be undisturbed. We wonder if this time the promises will be kept or if it is just another smoke screen.

Those interested in the history of this country of ours want evidence of the Oregon Trail to remain. If more and more of it is eliminated soon none will be left. Like some people say, what we want preserved are only ruts in the desert. That is true — but they are ruts cut by wagons of pioneers whose bravery and determination opened up this entire area in which we now live.

Those concerned with such preservation of what physical evidence remains of the Old Oregon Trail are determined to leave no stone unturned to save what is left, and any further eradication of the paths of the pioneers in this case will result in a well organized and determined battle to carry the project into the halls of Congress — into the courts — if need be. —OAK.

MR. SPECTATOR

Can It Be True?

Most communities today are trying to get more and more of different types of transportation available to the citizens. This is true right here in Magic Valley. Our roads are somewhat wanting, train service (passenger) just ain't and airlines only hit the larger communities—for instance, Twin Falls is the only community in the entire valley able to attract a major air carrier.

But things must be different down in California. It seems, from a story we came across in a California newspaper, that Long Beach just isn't looking for additional service. In fact, they are not so sure they want what they have.

Well, the story has to do with a squabble between Western Airlines and officials of the City of Long Beach. The airline is so upset about the whole thing the officials thereof say they might just skip that community entirely.

Here's the story (if you can image such a thing):

The airline wants to improve service by adding flights to bring the daily schedule up to more planes. The city wants to limit the airlines to flying only between the hours of 7 a.m. and 11 p.m. and to have no more flights than six a day Monday through Thursday and eight daily Friday through Sunday and on holidays.

Airline officials say signing such an agreement would set a dangerous precedent. City officials say that if Western does not agree to the setup then they don't need to come in at all.

To which we in Twin Falls would say:

"Dear Western officials: If they don't want you in Long Beach, don't give up. Fly the planes into Joslin Field in Twin Falls. We will give you a big welcome — anytime!"

In fact, just to let you in on what is going on, Western will fly a Saturday jet roundtrip between San Francisco and Twin Falls starting sometime in December.

Airwest will also fly a jet from San Francisco to Twin Falls and return Saturday, also starting about that time. By that time Joslin Field will have 6 or 7 regular flights every day and nine flights on Saturdays.

But, like we said—if Western wants a new stopping place if they are thrown out of Long Beach—then come to Twin Falls!

A VISITOR

Had a chat with Harry Barrington the other day and he tells me that his son, a Navy vet, is visiting here this week. The son's name is Don and he has his family with him. Many people hereabouts remember him. He's a Navy career man, a petty officer first class, aboard the U.S. Carrier Constellation, recently returned from Vietnam. The home base is San Diego. He is on a three weeks leave. Only recently he was selected as the Constellation's Man of the Month. Among other things, the honor allowed him to park his car in the parking place usually reserved for the commanding officer—and for a whole month, too! Harry said that they are enjoying the visit and if any of you folks want to drop by and say hello then just hop out to 723 Third Avenue East in Twin Falls before this week ends.

Nixon Tightens Party Platform

MIAMI BEACH — When President Nixon learned that Sen. John Tower of Texas was mobilizing to add a "right-to-work" anti-labor union plank to the platform, he cracked his whip for the first and perhaps the last time to discipline the 1972 Republican National Convention.

Mr. Nixon, at the Presidential retreat in Camp David, Md., instructed top domestic policy aide John Ehrlichman in Miami Beach to send word to the Platform Committee (using Rogers Morton, Secretary of the Interior and former Republican National Chairman, as a consultant). Morton's instructions: Tell the committee's conservatives — particularly Tower — that the President insists on the strongest pro-labor plank in Republican history and certainly no right-to-work nonsense.

Moreover, Mr. Nixon ordered Ehrlichman to leave the definite impression, without stating it flatly, that the President would publicly repudiate any right-to-work plank that was adopted—perhaps in his Wednesday night acceptance speech, perhaps some other way. Tower promptly subsided, dooming right-to-work chances.

What makes this Presidential intervention so remarkable is that the White House at the same time was letting the Platform Committee move rightward on busing, amnesty and other issues. In greater contrast, the Nixon political operation was extricating itself from the fight over shaping the 1976 convention while the President cracked the whip on the labor plank.

The reason: As of this momentous week, Mr. Nixon is interested neither in ideology nor the future Republican succession. His sole interest is a landslide reelection, his new coalition of Jews, organized labor and other unsanctified Democrats added to his 1968 support. Thus, the convention must do nothing to offend this new support.

That's why Mr. Nixon was so upset when he heard of Tower's efforts to endorse Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley law, permitting state right-to-work laws prohibiting compulsory unionism. Nixon staffers vigorously lobbied Platform Committee members, particularly members of Congress.

So, when state Republican Vice Chairman John (Slim) Wells of West-Virginia introduced the 14 (b) amendment behind closed doors, the Congressional members descended on him. Rep. Bob Michel, a downstate Illinois Bourbon conservative, expressed sympathy with right-to-work but stressed that this was no time for the GOP to indulge itself in labor-baiting. Wells lost badly.

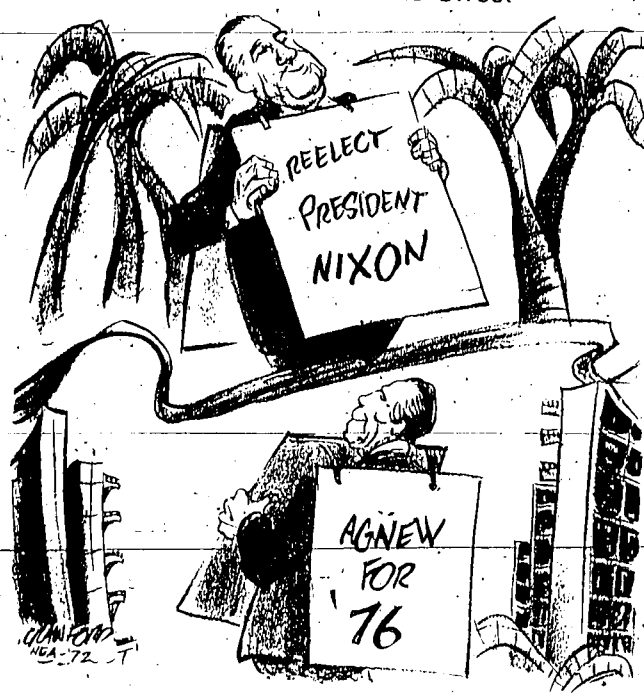

The labor plank adopted was a panegyric ("we salute the statesmanship of the labor union movement") written weeks ago at the White House. "It made me just a little bit sick," a Southern platform member told us. "But who's going to buck the President?"

As we reported earlier, the White House seemed to be supporting the drive by conservative party leaders from the South and West to maintain their disproportionate delegate strength for 1976. Nixon campaign aide Harry Flemming had been working secretly with the conservatives for weeks. He was much in evidence a week ago as the rules deliberations began at the Eden Roc Hotel.

Suddenly, Flemming was gone—called off by an Ehrlichman order barring any intervention on either side in the struggle for 1976 power. Since then, the President's agents have indicated they would like a compromise but have not insisted on it.

So, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller got a sympathetic hearing but no promises when he telephoned. Nixon campaign manager Clerk MacGregor replied only that he would be available for negotiations. But he did not press for a compromise or even inform Mr. Nixon of Rockefeller's call.

Agnew In '76?

MIAMI BEACH — If the Nixon-Agnew ticket wins this fall, some of the vice president's friends think he will be a presidential bidder in 1976. But they say he must make crucial headway in the next two years to have more than a 50-50 chance at nomination.

In the curious Republican convention where most attention seems to fall on future matters, speculation over 1976 is common. And Spiro Agnew's name inevitably tops the list.

Yet sources who know him doubt that he could be a serious 1976 contender if, after re-election, he did not move quickly to mend his fences and broaden his base within his party.

In this instance, mending fences means building stronger ties to many party leaders, conveying the idea of intense interest in 1976, shaking off a negative image as the performer of the President's "dirty jobs"—principally hacking at the Democrats.

One key judgment here is that if Agnew manages all this he won't have effective competition from his party's right wing, from such talk-of-prospects as New York Sen. James Buckley, Tennessee Sen. William Brock, California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Says this key source: "The conservatives live in fear of the moderates and the left in their party. They'll be reluctant to split their forces."

I think they'll feel the need to coalesce around one man. Agnew's advantages would be his continuing popularity with substantial element of the GOP, and the incumbency as vice president, which would assure him much wider exposure than most of his potential conservative adversaries.

But, again, the view is he would have to sharpen his status by early 1975 to capitalize on these advantages. And, it is suggested by his friends here, that also includes reaching out somewhat to the party center and moderate left.

These people think this endeavor could be largely a matter of private positioning with those in the party. That he would not and could not take his own strong issue stands while serving as Mr. Nixon's vice president.

To the extent, however, that he might drop any real hints on his issue attitudes, my sources believe Agnew's opportunity lies chiefly in the domestic field.

Of course, if the President in a second term has been weak on the domestic side, Agnew as No. 2 man could be vulnerable. That's where the 50-50 guessing enters the 1976 calculations.

Probably the only conservative type who could move ahead of a faltering Agnew is John Connally, now heading Democrats for Nixon after service in his cabinet and other chores. Much talk is heard here of his being named Secretary of State next year.

Some skilled party analysts don't think this would be an easy course for Connally, that he would be sorely handicapped by a "He's-not-one-of-us" attitude among many Republicans.

On the moderate side, his relative youth and drive should make ambitious Sen. Charles Percy a leader. But all too many still don't take him seriously.

Really Nice

MIAMI BEACH — I must say the Republicans went out of their way to be nice to the many "Democrats for Nixon" that showed up for the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.

I was in a restaurant the other night. There were two Republican couples at one table, and the headwaiter seated a "Democrats for Nixon" couple right next to them.

One of the Republican men said to his friends, "They seem terribly well dressed for Democrats."

"On some of them have good jobs," the other Republican man replied. "Of course they spend all their money on Cadillacs and clothes. You should see the houses they live in."

"I'll bet," said one of the Republican ladies, "they saved up all week to come to this restaurant."

"She's rather attractive for a Democrat," the other Republican woman observed. "I'll say this," her Republican husband said. "When you see an attractive Democratic woman she's really attractive."

"I think it's something they do with their hair," his wife said.

"It's funny how times change," the other Republican man said. "A few years ago if the headwaiter had seated a Democratic couple next to me I would have left the restaurant. Now it hardly bothers me at all."

"Let's talk to them," the Republican man said. "Hi, where you folks from?"

The "Democrats for Nixon" man smiled showing all his white teeth. "Garden City, Long Island," he said.

"We know a Democratic couple from Garden City," the Republican wife said. "They're fine people. They've never been in trouble with the law or anything."

"Our butcher is a Democrat," the other Republican wife said, "and you won't find a nicer man in the whole town. He's not pushy or anything. His son became a dentist and we're all proud of him."

"Let me ask a question," one of the Republican husbands said. "Do your people really think Paul Newman is good looking?"

The "Democrats for Nixon" wife chuckled. "I wouldn't kick him out of bed."

The Republicans blanched.

One of the Republican men said, "What kind of music do your people like?"

"Jazz, rock, blues, show tunes," the "Democrats for Nixon" husband replied.

"Your people have given our country great music," the Republican wife said. "It has had a tremendous effect on our culture."

"Don't forget the Democratic athletes," her husband said. "I imagine the Democrats are as good at sports as anyone in the country. I love to see them run. They have such grace."

"Do your people read books?" the other Republican wife asked.

The "Democrats for Nixon" husband grinned again. "We belong to the Book of the Month Club."

"Well, what do you know?" the Republican husband said. "I guess you'll be catching up with us pretty soon."

"It's a question of opportunity," the other Republican wife said. "President Nixon says if you give a Democrat a chance to pull himself up by his bootstraps, he can be as good as any of the next person."

"Can we buy you people a drink?" the Republican husband asked. "No, we're going to have wine with our dinner."

On The Pill

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 16, asked if I would ask our family doctor for the birth control pills. Would he prescribe them?

She said half the girls at high school take them for their complexion. Is there such a thing as those pills helping complexion? Did you ever hear of such a thing? Please answer so I can prove it to her.—Mrs. L. K.

Yes, there is such a thing—estrogen, which is one of the hormones in birth control pills, is sometimes used for acne in girls.

But not all girls have acne, and not all those with acne need or ought to have hormones.

I'd like a better description of your daughter's complexion problem—if she has a problem.

If it is an occasional pimple that blossoms with her menstrual period, I doubt that she needs any hormone treatment. And if her complexion problem involves being pale and sallow, estrogen won't help anyway.

It is hard for me to conceive that half the girls in any high school have an acne problem serious enough to warrant use of the pill. And mild cases of acne can be handled pretty well with simpler measures.

It couldn't be that some of the girls are using complexion as an excuse for taking the pill for other purposes?

To settle the matter, why don't you and your daughter see your family doctor, and let him decide whether her complexion problem needs treatment? And discuss the pill with him.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am near panic with varicose veins and aching legs at the age of 25. Seems to have worsened since the insertion of an IUD. Is this my imagination? Does alcohol affect varicose veins?—K.S.

I doubt that the IUD had anything to do with the veins, and alcohol would have no effect. I'd suggest wearing full-length support hose for comfort, or have the varicose veins removed surgically, which is the only truly corrective measure. Neither support hose nor any other method will make the veins improve.

BERRY'S WORLD

"WOW-WHEE—This is some check! You don't happen to be that alleged bugging suspect of the Watergate Five, do you?"

Ad hoc group formed

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—California labor leaders have skirted the touchy issue of endorsing the Democratic presidential ticket but, vowing not to stay neutral, announced a new committee to work for the election of Sen. George S. McGovern.

At the close of the California Labor Federation, AFL-CIO, convention Thursday, three union leaders said formation of the ad hoc committee for McGovern already has the support of 45 locals, councils and organizations.

Steve Edney, president of the United Cannery and Industrial Workers of the Pacific, said the move is not in defiance of AFL-CIO President George Meany's neutrality order because only individual unions are involved.

During the convention, a resolution endorsing McGovern was ruled out of order, and two measures calling for the defeat of President Nixon were passed on to the Political Education Committee, which meets Sept. 8 in San Francisco.

Charles O. McCord, business manager of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 11, said the McGovern committee was formed because labor has never been neutral in past elections, "and we are not going to be neutral now."

He predicted McGovern would receive a strong turnout of rank and file workers in California.

Judge rejects request

UPPER MERIDEN, Md. (UPI)—A Maryland judge turned down Thursday a request for a new trial for Arthur H. Bremer on the conviction of attempting to kill Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

Benjamin Lipsitz, Bremer's defense attorney, told Judge Ralph W. Powers that the prosecution offered inadequate evidence and the jury had been prejudiced by news coverage of the shooting at a nearby shopping center May 15.

Powers, following a 40-minute hearing, rejected both contentions.

Bremer, who was sentenced to 63 years in prison, has been held in the Maryland penitentiary in Baltimore since his conviction Aug. 4.

Lipsitz said he is trying to raise $2,000 so that he may enter additional appeals. The money is needed to pay for a transcript of the trial.

Gravel goes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The last mile of state gravel road has been paved in Missouri. During the past 15 years, more than 18,000 miles of gravel roads have been oiled, at a cost of about $30 million.

The masterpiece "larger-than-life" figures boom up on a 28-foot-six-inch by 15-foot fresco dominating one wall in the gallery of the Santa Maria della Grazie Church in Milan. Begun in 1495, the work today shows the ravages of time on Leonardo's ill-conceived fresco technique.

Woman friend crucifies man

BUCKEYE, Ariz. (UPI) — Eugene Austill talked a woman friend into crucifying him in hopes it would bring his family back, the sheriff's office said today.
 Austill, 45, was found Thursday nailed to a cross erected against a fence five miles east of here, sheriff's Sgt. Ed Calles reported.
 Calles said Austill, who was taken to the Maricopa County Hospital with nail holes in both hands and his right foot, told them he did it because "maybe his wife and his kids would come back to him." Austill's wife and two sons left him earlier this week.
 Calles said Austill fastened a 12-foot high upright to the fence, nailed on a crossbar and footrest, and strapped a ladder to it. He mounted the ladder, and asked a woman friend to stand on his pickup truck and nail him in.

 The woman, who was not identified, reported the incident to the sheriff's office. She told officers that as she pounded in nails, Austill "screamed like a son of a gun."
 Calles said the woman probably would not be charged with any crime.
 Austill was on the cross about two hours but did not bleed much because he put most of his weight on the ladder, Calles said.

Couple charged

MOISE (UPI) — Boise police have arrested a man and woman charged with second degree kidnapping of a 15-month-old child from the Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services.
 City law enforcement authorities Thursday filed complaints against Harry Sprague, 38, and Katherine Sellinger, 22.
 Capt. Jack Boery said the two had rented an apartment on Boise's west side, and detectives arrested them after sighting their car parked near the apartment.
 Police said the child, Laura Ann Sellinger, daughter of the arrested woman, was in good condition.

Check cashing policy recommended

Friday, August 25, 1972 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 7

BOISE (UPI) — Legislative Auditor James A. Defenbach today recommended that the State Department of Insurance not allow employees to cash personal checks from department receipts. In an audit report of the department, Defenbach said auditors found "one instance where an employee cashed a personal check from the department's cash receipts."

"We consider this to be a very poor practice," the report said. "We strongly recommend the department not allow an employee to cash personal checks from the department's receipts."

The report also pointed out that the department might be in violation of the state nepotism statute.

Defenbach said during the audit it was noted that several sons and daughters of agency employees had been temporarily employed to do certain clean-up services prior to the department moving into its new offices in the state capitol building. The report said it appeared that employment and payment of $325.71 to two youths was in violation of the law.

"Our findings were communicated to the attorney general's office for his opinion and recommendation concerning the matter. The attorney general conducted an investigation and concluded that the nepotism statute had, in fact, been violated but further concluded that the violation was done unintentionally and without knowledge of the prohibitions," the report said. The report said the attorney general received several written statements that the two children satisfactorily performed the services for which they were employed. Defenbach also recommended that the attorney general's office handle as many legal matters as possible connected with the department.

The report pointed out that from Jan. 1, 1971 to Feb. 15, 1972 the insurance department had paid out more than $14,000 to private firms, including $10,307 to one firm. During the same period $8,000 was paid to the attorney general's office for legal services.

Riders unaware of cargo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most of the 147 passengers aboard a TWA jetliner which landed at Dulles International Airport Thursday were unaware of a special cargo—two suitcases crammed with $1 million in cash.

The money in the possession of two Delta Airlines officials represented the record ransom obtained by eight skyjackers who commandeered a Delta aircraft July 31 from Detroit to Algiers.

Algerian officials impounded the money and returned it to the Delta executives in Paris after detaining the hijackers.

The Delta officials—Shelby Demant, vice president for marketing, and security officer Eugene H. Stewart—said jokingly they "thought about" spending the fortune in Paris "but we wanted to get back to Atlanta (Delta headquarters) and not to the federal prison in Atlanta."

The passengers aboard the jet which carried the Delta couriers and their money were subjected to extensive searches in Rome, where the flight originated, and Paris, a stop-over point without learning about the money.

Big Foot sightings reported

LANDER, Wyo. (UPI)—Skepticism is prevailing around the Wind River Indian Reservation about reports of a 12-foot tall, hairy creature known as "big foot"—except for those who say they have seen the animal.

Reservation Police Chief Bill King said he is upset that the story has spread and that almost everyone on the reservation has treated the story as a big joke.

Reports of a strange, hairy creature have been circulating for about a month with most reported sightings being at night and near water.

"That's all they've been doing is talking about it," King said Thursday. "I can't find anything that would substantiate their story."

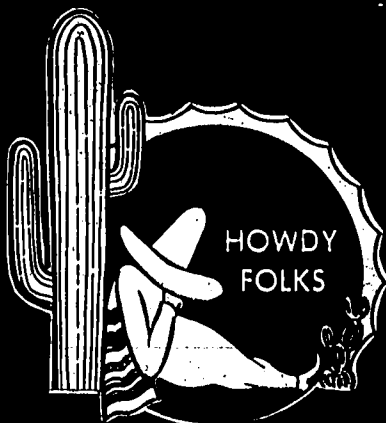

King called all persons who have claimed to have seen the creature "unreliable sources."

The latest reported sighting was Monday by 13-year-olds Curt Laniger and Tom Hernandez. The boys said they were riding horses when "big foot" appeared from behind a haystack and chased them.

The boys said the creature was 12 feet tall and had a bent arm, as if it were crippled and had a four-foot stride.

Searchers after the Monday sighting reported they found prints with a higher than normal instep and only two toes. King said later, however, that he couldn't say for sure that the imprints found in the swampy land were footprints.

Wendell Casper, an employee at a nearby campground, said he had heard no reports from vacationers in the campground.

Bare facts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A company owned and staffed exclusively by women has begun making nude posters of men.

"Women love to look at men's bodies," said Star Obrenski-O'Brien, who is director of Men For Women.

She said that the firm plans a whole line of products to promote the "joyous appreciation of men" by portraying sexuality from a woman's point of view.

"We want to give women permission to look at men," the director said. "Our posters are different because... they're just nice guys, regular guys, that any woman might meet," and not sex symbols.

The new company said a series of five nude male posters are now available for $2.00 in boutiques, department stores and college bookshops.

Valley couple wed in TF rites

TWIN FALLS — Sharon Marie Ude and Larry John Koldey exchanged wedding vows in a ceremony Aug. 13 at the Immanuel Lutheran Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Les Ude, Twin Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Koldey, Hagerman.

Rev. Stephen C. Ude, Wadena, Neb., came to perform his sister's marriage ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, designed her full-length gown of silk organza and lace. The dress was styled with a raised waistline and the bodice was fashioned of imported re-embroidered French lace in a daisy design.

The overlay skirt of silk organza flowed into an extended hemline train. Her full-length lace-edged veil was held by a Juliet cap of matching lace with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath.

Christine Ude, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Irene Ude, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Carol Hockstrosser, sister of the bridegroom.

Best man was David Heidemann, Dennis Weaver and Don Ude, brother of the bride, were groomsmen. Ushers were Jerry Reinke and Derald Fitzel.

Music was provided by Herbert Einspahr, with Mrs. Ruth Heller as soloist.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Caroline Schoenborn, Lewiston, cousin of the bride. Gifts were received by Mrs. Karla Kitley, Burley, and Sandra Nielson, Boise.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony in the church assembly hall.

The four-tiered cake was made and decorated by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Clara Butterfield. Cake was served by Mrs. Millie List, Sherwood, Ore. Katie Bixler, Twin Falls, served punch. Coffee was poured by Mrs. Stephen Ude, sister-in-law of the bride.

Guests were seated at quartet tables centered with arrangements of asters and ivy. Special guests attending were Mrs. Koldey, grandmother of the bridegroom, and August Ude, grandfather of the bride. Guests attended from Washington, Oregon, California, Nebraska, Michigan and Idaho.

The bride was honored at pre-nuptial showers hosted by Shirley Heldeman and Phyllis Starmerjohn, Pat Blessing, Ruth Heller and Irene Harris and Dorothy Ellers.

The couple was honored at a Reinke reunion Aug. 11 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delwin Butterfield. After a brief honeymoon, the couple is residing in Boise, where the bridegroom attends Boise State College.

Cathy Crawford, Wilson say vows

FILER — Cathy May Crawford and David R. Wilson were united in marriage Aug. 10 in rites at the Filer First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crawford, Jr., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wilson, Twin Falls.

Rev. G. W. Iversen, pastor of the Nazarene Church, performed the double ring ceremony before background decorations of large arrangements of lavender and white gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white lace over satin, fashioned with a scalloped neckline, long lace lily-point sleeves and a gathered skirt which buttoned in the back with tiny self-covered buttons. The bride's elbow-length veil of illusion was held by a floral headband, enhanced with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and lavender gladioli, baby's breath and lavender streamers.

She wore a necklace borrowed from her grandmother, Mrs. William Stulter. Patty Ruszler, Modesto, Calif., was maid of honor, and Carol Mills was bridesmaid. Tamara Pond, Buhl, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl, and Jeff Crawford, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Mika Paulus, Twin Falls, was best man, and ushers were John Loder and Berry Heck, both Twin Falls. Mrs. Don Ransom was organist.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered with a hand-crocheted cloth, a gift from her grandmother. It was centered with a wedding cake decorated in lavender and white and topped with a small cupid in a net-circled bell. Small rice bags encircled the cake and were taken by the guests.

Saline abortions pose serious risk

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Medical researchers reported today that saline abortions, commonly used to terminate middle-stage pregnancies, may pose serious risk of abnormal bleeding and hemorrhage to the mother.

In separate research studies conducted in Ohio and North Carolina, the researchers found "striking abnormalities" in the blood clotting system of women shortly after they had been aborted by the saline, or "salting out" method.

Though the study patients recovered blood-clotting capabilities spontaneously within 24 hours, the researchers said doctors should be alert to the possible dangers the method poses.

"I'm not against abortion; I have no psychological or religious problems with it," said Dr. Helen I. Glueck, one of a three-person research team from the University of Cincinnati. "I just want to emphasize that we really must look critically at what we're doing.... It's a potential risk. It may not be a big percentage, but it's a potential risk for each patient and obstetricians should be aware of it."

Dr. Glueck and her colleagues met with reporters before detailing their findings on an eight-patient study to the third congress of the International Society on Thrombosis and Hemostasis meeting here. Similar findings were reported by Dr. Andrew E. Weiss of the University of North Carolina, who studied 21 saline abortion patients.

"If Dr. Glueck and I have any message at all, this would be it," Dr. Weiss said. "We're not praising or condemning salt abortions. But it is a potential hazard and should be done under supervision in a hospital."

The saline method is commonly used to terminate pregnancies between the 16th and 20th week. Unlike simpler methods used for early abortions, it involves injecting a strong salt solution into the uterus cavity that kills the fetus and triggers labor to expel it, usually within 24 to 36 hours.

Several maternal deaths have been reported after such abortions, primarily in Japan.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Those women who complain because they have small breasts should count their blessings. AND their breasts.

I was always small, and even went to a doctor about it. He laughed and told me that's why they sold so many padded bras.

Well, I never thought it could happen to me, but I had to have both my breasts removed in life-saving surgery.

I couldn't have written this letter six years ago without tears dropping all over the page, but I can say truthfully that now it doesn't bother me. I can thank God for a loving, sensible, understanding husband who I thought I'd lose, but didn't.

She faces life again

Now I am trying to adjust to this topless, bra-less or minus bosoms. It isn't easy, but I'm doing the best I can with the assets I have left.

OFF MY CHEST

DEAR OFF: You have a soul sister in Marvella Bayb, the beautiful wife of the handsome, young Indiana senator. She told the story of her mastectomy in the June issue of Today's Health Magazine with such courage and candor she was an inspiration to all women who shared that experience.

DEAR ABBY: Please, be the judge in this controversy: When a woman is told, "You think like a man"—is that a compliment or not? Sign this.

"A WOMAN WHO THINKS LIKE A MAN"

DEAR WOMAN: It's a compliment only to a woman who thinks a man's thinking is superior to that of a woman's.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to relate two separate incidents and would appreciate your opinion.

The first incident: My husband was driving down a busy city street when he noticed a box in the street which apparently had fallen out of someone's car. He stopped and picked it up. It contained 12 freshly laundered white shirts. The owner's name was on a slip inside, so my husband immediately went to a phone booth and tried to locate him. There were three people by the same name, so my husband called all three. The last one was the man who had just lost his laundry. My husband drove (out of his way) to the home of the man, and he rang the doorbell. The man came to the door, took the box, said, "Thanks, Buddy," and shut the door.

Incident Number Two: Last week my young daughter and I were getting out of our car in a shopping center when she noticed a woman's billfold on the ground. I picked it up and saw that it had money and credit cards inside. I took it immediately to the parking lot attendant and turned it in. I left my name and phone number.

I went back later and asked if the lady who lost the billfold ever got it back. He said she had. I then asked if he had given her my name and phone number. He said, "Yes." End of story.

Sometimes I wonder, Abby. Does it pay to be honest? HONEST OR STUPID

DEAR HONEST: In the above cases honesty didn't "pay" except in the currency of honor and self respect. If that isn't enough for you, then honesty does "not" pay. The choice is yours.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LIED AND REGRET IT": Tell him the truth. Not because you think he will find out anyway (he may not), but because you will feel better if you do. But it's not necessary to give him the names and numbers of all the players.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 99700, L.A., CALIF. 90009 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

HIGH-FLYING FABRICS

By Mary Sue Miller

To say the least, Fall Fabrics '72 are diversified, ranging from sweater knits and soft challis to crisp taffeta. To say the most, fabrics have a new interest and beauty. High-flying fashions!

Surface interest appeals to the eye and touch. Textures brushed wools, deep pile velvets, quilted prints, slubbed and nubbed silks—have a large audience. Ditto smooth surfaces like satin, flannel, serge and gabardine.

Patterns delight and surprise by new approaches. Dimensional geometrics, pattern on pattern, floating designs take surrealistic turns. Plaids, patchworks, jockey checks are either reminiscent of grandma or as modern as tomorrow. Then there's chinoiserie—colorful luxes, old China.

Color, singularly subtle, begins at ground level with autumnals—russet, earth browns, oatmeal, ochre, spruce and moss-green, leafy gold, heather and plum. Soaring skyward, colors turn sky blue and red sky, cloud gray and cloud white, midnight black and midnight blue, and rose dawn. As winter draws near expect porcelain pinks—mauve, powdered pink and blue, powdered lemon and lime.

Flattery is implicit. So wide a range of colors and textures offers many somethings for everyone. Simply adopt "your thing," forsaking all others. You'll be flying on the fashion high.

East was one of those players who liked to bid. He appeared to be holding a five-card diamond suit. With an extra king he would surely have been in the bidding.

Therefore, South led a low trump from dummy and played his seven. West won with the 10 and led a second spade. South won and led his queen of trumps.

West could cover, duck or go fishing, but South had salvaged the game and rubber.

18th game

UPI CHART shows the position of the pieces after Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky adjourned the 18th game of their world chess championship on the 42nd move with Fischer holding a pawn advantage Thursday in Reykjavik. (UPI)

Chess match resumes today

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI)—Boris Spassky ducked into his seventh floor suite, looking drawn and exhausted. His chief second Eytim Geller followed, chain smoking cigarettes—always a sign the world chess champion was in trouble.

The situation was familiar. Once again the two of them had all night to find a way to save a desperate situation brought on by the chess genius of U. S. challenger Bobby Fischer.

The 18th game of the $250,000 world chess championship adjourned Thursday on the 42nd move with grandmasters predicting "the final nail is about to be driven into Spassky's coffin."

The game resumes at 10:30 a.m. EDT today with German arbitrator Lothar Schmid opening the brown envelope to play Spassky's sealed move. Fischer is leading 10 points to seven and needs another 2-1-2 to win the title. Spassky must squeeze five points out of the last seven games to retain his crown.

Having successfully blocked a strong Spassky attack earlier in the game Thursday, the challenger played his 42nd move and leaned back confidently to watch his opponent.

Political asylum denied

Little red

GORIZIA, Italy (UPI)—Elizabeth, 11, made it safely across the border from Yugoslavia, in the hazardous manner of thousands of refugees from Communist lands since World War II.

But for Elizabeth, there will be no new life in the West. Authorities sent Elizabeth back to Yugoslavia because, they ruled, she is too young to request political asylum. Authorities said they could remember no case like it before.

The girl was not identified except as Elizabeth, a Polish citizen who slipped across the border late Wednesday into this city of 43,000 located directly on the border with Yugoslavia.

Border police said the girl's stepmother was stopped and arrested by Yugoslav authorities as she tried to cross the border. But Elizabeth made it alone.

Her uncle, who police said fled to Switzerland a year ago, met Elizabeth at the border. Police said he tried to keep the girl with him by claiming he was her father. But they said his documents proved otherwise.

So, under an agreement between Italy and Yugoslavia on political refugees, the girl was turned over to Yugoslav officials.

There, police reported, Elizabeth rejoined her stepmother behind bars. Their fate is unknown to Italian police.

Gorizia is the chief crossing point for East European refugees because its streets weave back and forth across the border.

Many refugees bring children—there was a case a few years ago of a father carrying his 5-year-old son across the Gorizia border in a suitcase.

But since most children come with parents, they automatically receive permission to stay provided their parents do.

Matthews cements claim to Olympic 440 berth

MUNICH (UPI)—Vince Matthews, who won his spot on the U.S. track and field team for the Olympics, has to be resting a bit easier today.

Matthews, a 24-year-old quartermiler from Brooklyn, N.Y., wound up third in the 400 meter dash at the Olympic trials at Eugene, Ore., last month, but ever since arriving in Munich all he's heard is talk that Lee Evans, who was fourth in the Trials, would replace him in the Olympic Games.

In a special final tuneup meet Thursday night, Matthews, and Evans, the defending Olympic champion and world record holder, were entered in the same heat. American team officials said there was no significance to the pairing and, maybe there wasn't. Still it seemed strange.

In any event, Matthews beat Evans by a tenth of a second, 44.7 to 44.8, and if there were any doubts Vince apparently dispelled them.

The betting now is that Evans will have to content himself with running anchor on the 1,600-meter relay team and leave it up to Matthews, Wayne Collett and John Smith to carry Yank hopes in the 400.

The Matthews-Evans matchup was the most significant of the tuneup meet, although Steve Prefontaine set an American record of 8:10.4 for two miles. His time beat the listed record of 8:22.1 set by George Young four years ago, but won't ever get into the record books.

That's because Prefontaine actually completed in a 3,000 meter race. What he did was continue another 240 yards for two miles in an arrangement worked out earlier with timers and officials.

Prefontaine is America's chief hope for a distance race medal. He's listed for the 5,000-meter run—a race in which he has a career best of 13:22.8, which also is the American record.

Bob Seagren, meanwhile, had a disappointing pole vault of 17-4 3/4, which is 13 inches less than his world record. What made it worse was that he lost to West Germany's Reiner Kuretzky on fewer misses.

However, Seagren, who won his specialty four years ago in the Mexico City Games, used an old pole Thursday night. He got his world mark with a newer and more refined pole, but the International Amateur Athletic Federation has not approved it.

The tuneup meet was about the only activity of note as the countdown began for Saturday's opening ceremonies. Sunday, the action gets under way with diving, water polo, weightlifting, wrestling, soccer, pistol shooting, basketball and boxing. Track and field doesn't start until Aug. 31.

Most athletes are trying to keep busy while awaiting the opening. Today, in the main track stadium, there will be some practice runs for the opening ceremonies—usually the most colorful event of the Olympic Games.

Miss Edwards bumped from women's 1,600 meter relay

MUNICH (UPI)—Debra Edwards is a 17-year-old Houston girl who thought all it took to make it to the top in women's track was to be able to run fast.

But, like Rhodesia, she found out it takes more than speed to run in the Olympics. She said Thursday she had been taken off the 1,600-meter relay team despite having finished second in the 400 meters in the Olympic trials.

Ronald Sorkness, an assistant coach of the women's team, confirmed she had been removed in favor of Cheryl Toussaint, who finished fifth in the trials.

Sorkness said he made the change because Miss Toussaint has more experience and because her personality fits better with the others.

Miss Toussaint has been part of the establishment longer. She's 19 and has raced internationally three years.

The others on the team are Kathy Hammond, 20, of Sacramento, Calif., the 400-meter winner; Madeline Manning, 24, of Columbus, Ohio, who was fourth; and Mabel Ferguson, 17, of Pomona, Calif., who was third.

Miss Edwards, who blossomed into a world class runner this year, said Sorkness began hinting she would be scratched from the relay team in women's training camp in Champaign, Ill., early this month.

"He said I could run against the Canadians to see how I did," she said.

She ran the first leg and the team lowered the world's mile relay record from 3:38.7 to 3:33.9. Sorkness said he did not keep splits, but Miss Edwards' time was about 53.2. If all four runners had averaged 53.2, the time would have been even lower, 3:32.8. So Miss Edwards ran faster than usual, but she still was dumped.

"I don't think it's fair, but I am young and don't know what to do," she said. "I have no one to turn to, no one to talk to."

"The coach told me I was too young and too inexperienced," she said. "I wasn't too young to run this fast to get here. Why am I too young to run now?"

The world record holder in the 400 is also a 17-year-old, Marilyn Nurfville of Jamaica, whose mark is 51.0.

Sorkness said the coach has the option of changing members of the relay team as long as he uses four of the six persons originally selected for the relay. An Olympic official confirmed this was the rule.

Bobsledding nixed for next Olympics

MUNICH (UPI)—The International Olympic Committee (IOC) Thursday refused to approve Lake Placid, N.Y., as the site for bobsledding in the 1976 winter Olympics.

President Avery Brundage, 84, of Chicago said there would not be any bobsledding in the 1976 winter games, which will be held in and around Denver. The Denver organizing committee wanted to abolish the event, but the international bobsledding federation objected so the committee secured the Lake Placid Site.

"It's a matter of expense," Brundage said. "I understand it cost Sapporo $2 million to build the run in Japan. One week later the chule was pulled down at a cost of another $1 million."

"It has been computed the Sapporo bob worked out at $100,000 per man," Brundage said. "This, of course, is not an Olympic ideal."

Brundage said the IOC did not discuss the controversial professionalism rule which caused Austria's Karl Schranz to be kicked out of the Sapporo games.

"We decided at Luxembourg

(last fall) not to discuss this question until after Munich so we could observe the result," he said. "It will be the first one on the agenda for the next session and discussions should be lively."

Brundage was asked about the admission of China.

"They were members up to 1956, but pulled out of the Melbourne Games because Taiwan was permitted to enter," Brundage said. "They have not asked to be readmitted. We are sorry about this because we would like to have them in the games."

Brundage announced the addition of women's rowing in the 1976 summer Olympics in Montreal.

Cincinnati will get NHL club

TORONTO (UPI)—Following a meeting of the National Hockey League's board of governors Thursday, league president Clarence Campbell told a Cincinnati group their city would definitely be included in the NHL's next expansion.

The group, which plans to build a 19,000-seat arena, is headed by 29-year-old lawyer Brian Heekin and William O'Dewitt, Jr., son of the former owner of the Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Browns baseball teams.

"This Cincinnati group shall be given a commitment," said Campbell, "that, provided the group remains substantially the same as when it first made application in June, 1972, it will be granted an NHL franchise when the league next expands."

"In effect," Campbell continued, "the governors have reaffirmed the league's long-range plans to expand to 24 teams through the 1970s."

Campbell could set no definite date for Cincinnati's inclusion but it should not come before the 1976-77 season.

Long Island, N.Y., and Atlanta will become the league's 15th and 16th teams beginning this autumn and, following an NHL meeting in Montreal last June, Kansas City and Washington were granted entry for the 1974-75 season.

Hawks seek gag rule for Hull

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Black Hawks asked a U.S. federal judge Thursday to silence Bobby Hull because "he's like an evangelist."

Attorney Arthur Morse, acting for the National Hockey League team, asked U.S. District Court Judge James B. Parsons to prohibit Hull from making statements to the press or lending his name to promotions for the Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association.

"He's like an Evangelist. Children follow him around," Morse told Parsons. "Hockey players follow him around and listen to what he has to say."

Hull has signed a 10-year contract, estimated at $2.75 million, to play with the Jets, starting with the 1972-73 hockey season. The Hawks, with whom Hull has been a superstar, have filed a suit asking that Hull be forbidden from "jumping" to the new league.

Montreal 25-12
MONTREAL (UPI)—Dave Clarke ran back the opening kick-off 102 yards for a touchdown Thursday night and the Hamilton Tiger-Cats went on to defeat the Montreal Alouettes, 25-12.

The win boosted Hamilton into first place with Montreal in the Canadian Football League eastern division. The Al's have a 2-2 win-loss record while the Tiger-Cats are 2-3.

Clarke took the ball on his own eight yard line, burst down the sidelines through a swarm of Alouette tacklers to score the major.

Pastorini passes Houston to 33-24 victory over Cardinals

HOUSTON (UPI)—Dan Pastorini, replacing injured quarterback Lynn Dickey, threw three touchdown passes and engineered two other scoring drives Thursday night in leading the Houston Oilers to a 33-24 exhibition victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Pastorini tossed touchdown strikes of 28, 7 and 7 yards to separate receivers with two of the scoring drives set up on an interception and pass interference call.

Wide receiver Charlie Joiner scored on a four yard end-around and Ward Walsh bulled in from three yards out for another tally.

St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart scored on a two yard plunge, Jim Bakken chipped in a 17-yard field goal and journeyman quarterback Gary Cuozzo tossed a seven yard touchdown pass to rookie running back Don Heater and a 35-yard strike to tight end Ara Person for the Cardinals scores.

Dickey, a sophomore quarterback battling Pastorini for the starting role, dislocated his left hip late in the first quarter. He scrambled to his right but crashed into defensive ends John Hoffman and Chuck Walker on an 11-yard run. The team physician put the hip back in place on the field and Dickey, 22, was taken to a hospital.

Pastorini riddled the Cardinal secondary for 200 yards. He was afforded good pass protection and an adequate ground game to keep St. Louis off balance.

Walsh scored from three yards out after Pastorini came in to drive Houston 28 yards. St. Louis bounced back on Hart's passing and his touchdown was set up on a 13-yard pass interference call.

Pastorini came back to throw deep to Joiner, but interference was called on Joiner for a 44-yard gain. Pastorini then found Ken Burrough one step inside the end zone for the 28-yard pass.

A 39-yard pass-interception by linebacker Floyd Ruckaberger's four-yard end-around late in the first half.

Yanks top Mets in exhibition

NEW YORK (UPI)—Johnny Ellis' one out homer in the sixth inning snapped a 1-1 deadlock and gave the New York Yankees a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets Thursday night in the 10th annual Mayor's trophy game.

The Mets opened the scoring with two out in the fourth inning. John Milner lined a single down the rightfield line. Charlie Spikes, recalled by the Yankees from West Haven, of the Eastern League, misplayed the ball for a two-base error, allowing Milner to go to third. Milner then scored on the second of three balks committed by winning pitcher George Metich.

Metich, who limited the Mets to just four hits was also recalled for tonight's game from the Yankees West Haven farm club.

'Suggestive' magistrate censured

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—A judge and his magistrate, both accused of patting or touching several female court employees "in a suggestive manner," will be publicly censured for judicial misconduct.

Acting on charges by the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission, the Michigan Supreme Court said Thursday it will summon Ingham County's 55th District Judge James H. Edgar Sept. 6 for "imposition of discipline" and assessment of costs.

The commission late last year filed a complaint alleging Edgar "slapped, patted or touched in a familiar or suggestive manner" the posturers of nine female court employees since he was named judge in January, 1969.

On one occasion, the commission said, Edgar seized a female employee, forced her onto a counter and "wrote his name upon her undergarment." It also alleged the judge seized another woman employee and bent her head on a counter "until she wept."

Also to be censured was Edgar's magistrate, James Lee Blodgett.

The commission charged that Blodgett grabbed a female employee and put her head on the court office counter to expose her underwear and that he "slapped, patted or touched" female employees "in a suggestive manner."

Genesee County Circuit Judge Denn D. Parker, appointed by the court to conduct hearings into the commission's charges, found "there was no sexually immoral activity or intent on the part of the respondent."

Unfair to fems

MELBORNE, Australia (UPI)—Private employers discriminate heavily against women university graduates in Australia, a Monash University study indicated.

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Improved medical techniques have made abortion a relatively safe operation, so Michigan's 12th-year-old abortion law allows a licensed physician to perform the operation in an accredited hospital, the state Court of Appeals ruled Thursday.

In a 2-1 decision the court said that a doctor could perform an abortion under those conditions on any consenting woman during the first three months of her pregnancy.

Michigan allows abortions

It specifically rejected the contention of most antiabortion forces that the statute was designed to protect the right of the unborn child or the fetus.

The court said the 1840 law was drafted solely for the protection of the mother in an era when abortion was an unsafe medical procedure often resulting in the woman's death.

"Not only has modern medical science made a therapeutic abortion reasonably safe, but it would now appear that it is safer for a woman to have a hospital, therapeutic abortion during the first trimester than to bear a child," the court said.

"Faced with this evidence, we are forced to conclude that the intended purpose of (the abortion law) is no longer existent as it applies to licensed physicians in a proper medical setting. There is no longer a sufficient state interest to justify continued prosecution of licensed physicians for the mere act of artificially inducing a miscarriage of an unquickened fetus."

Reaction to the unexpected ruling ranged from joy among advocates of a liberalized abortion law to a vow to continue the fight against such operations by antiabortion forces.

The ruling grew out of two separate abortion cases, one involving a Bay County doctor and the other an Oakland County layman who were convicted of performing illegal abortions.

Medicaid pays for abortions

NEW YORK (UPI)—Women who have been unable to obtain state Medicaid to pay for abortions they want must now be granted such aid on request, a three-judge federal court ruled Thursday.

The court overruled a directive issued last year by state Social Services Commissioner George Wytman which barred Medicaid payments for abortions. The court said the directive violated constitutional rights by denying "indigent women the equal protection of the laws to which they are constitutionally entitled."

The court added that indigent women "alone are subject to state coercion to bear children which they do not wish to bear," while more affluent women "have complete freedom to make the choice."

The court also said that "the pregnant woman may not be denied necessary medical assistance because she has made an unwarranted disfavored choice, and no other basis appears for denying her medical assistance."

The court rejected the contention of antiabortion groups that a fetus has legal protection under the Constitution. It said that state courts have settled that issue previously.

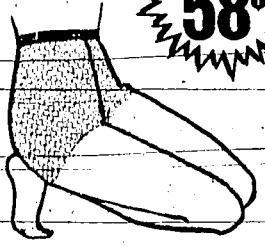

The ruling followed a suit brought by plaintiffs including pregnant women who were enrolled in the Medicaid program but were refused abortions at the Nassau County Medical Center in East Meadow, N.Y.

Karl sets course mark to open L and M tourney

PINEHURST, N.C. (UPI)—Richie Karl, shooting the best round of his pro career, grabbed the first round lead in the $100,000 L&M Open golf tournament and set a course record Thursday with a seven-under-par 65.

Karl, a 27-year-old former Army cook from Endicott,

N.Y., reeled off five straight birdies on route to a one-stroke edge over fellow tour sophomore Bob Barabara and steady Dean Beman at the Country Club of North Carolina. Alone at five-under 67 was Paul Moran, a Colton, Calif., resident now in his third year on the tournament trail.

Former Wake Forest University star Lanny Wadkins, rookie Chuck Thorpe and veteran Dave Stockton matched 68s in what Stockton called the "world's richest qualifying tournament."

The top eight players at the end of the second round leave the field and move into the $150,000 U.S. professional match play championship, a two-day event over the same 6,973-yard course.

"Everybody's trying to get in the big one," said Stockton. "I don't think anybody's playing for ninth."

Karl, who won the Alaska amateur title during his two-year military stint, started his string of birdies on the first hole after posting three birdies and a bogey on the back nine.

His putter sizzled in the steamy 90-degree heat as he reeled off the birdies, sinking two putts from 20 feet out, added a final birdie and then offset it with a bogey at No. 6.

Karl credited a practice round with veteran Art Wall, who ambled in with a 73, with inspiring a round that smashed the course record of 68 set in last year's match play championship by George Knudson.

"I watched Art putt and the tempo of his stroke," said Karl. "I watched his hand when he gripped the putter and I just modified my stroke."

Karl won only $2,900 last year in his rookie season and hung on to his tour playing card last winter with a 14th place tie in the Phoenix Open.

"I feel I've made progress," he said.

Barabara, bouncing back from a gland infection two weeks ago, had eight birdies against two bogeys when the tournament finally started after an hour's delay caused by early morning fog.

Beman, a former Washington insurance agent, took only one bogey and said improved driving was the key to his showing.

"When I drove, I drove the ball much better than I have in two years," he said. "I'm driving 15 to 20 yards further than I ever have."

Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and six other golfers picked for their standing on the money list or for their victories in major championships are sitting out the L&M Open.

They'll complete the 16-player field for the U.S. Match Play Championship, which begins Saturday.

Erie bribery case dropped

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—An Erie County Court judge Thursday dismissed charges of bribery and conspiracy against five architects in connection with the county's once-proposed domed stadium project.

Judge Frank R. Bayget dismissed an indictment containing the charges against architects Robert Stevater of Buffalo, and Herman Lloyd, Ralph Anderson, Arthur Jones and Seth Morris, all of Houston, Tex.

Shark season

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI)—Fishermen from the west coast of Johore State have urged the government to help end a shark menace that is costing several nets of catch daily.

Previously fishermen in the area had considered pirates their worst enemies.

Spokane's sport still uncertain

SPOKANE (UPI)—Spokane School district superintendent Walter Hitchcock has warned city high schools not to make commitments for sports and extracurricular activities beyond the fall season.

Hitchcock told the school board Wednesday night that basketball commitments will not be made until funding for the program is assured through community support.

Last spring sports and other extracurricular activities were dropped from the district's program after the loss of an $8.9 million special levy. They were reinstated earlier this month when additional funds were found and a group of local residents had promised to come up with $100,000 to help support them.

However, Hitchcock said the district was going to go slowly until the funding was assured.

Navy expects winning year

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI)—Speaking on the eve of the first practice session, Navy Head Coach Rick Forzano Thursday predicted the midshipmen "will have a winning season."

Forzano singled out junior quarterback Fred Stuvek and Al Glenn for special praise adding that this year he has "people who believe they can win."

On defense Forzano said inside linebacker Chuck Boyd, a second team All-America as a junior last year will anchor a matured defense.

The Navy coach, beginning his fourth year at the helm, said practice opens on Friday with two-a-day drills in preparation for Navy's home opener on September 16 against William and Mary.

Texas, Milwaukee split doubleheader

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Dave May, who had singled and homered earlier in the game, singled in pinch-hitter Tom Reynolds in the eighth inning of the nightcap Thursday to break a 3-2 tie and allow Jim Lomborg to win his 12th game for Milwaukee with a 4-3 victory over Texas after the Rangers had beaten the Brewers 4-1 in the first game of a doubleheader.

In the first game, Mike Paul and Pete Broberg held Milwaukee to six hits and Frank Howard collected three hits, including his ninth home run, as Texas won, 4-1.

Reynolds, batting for Joe Labow, opened the eighth inning with his single, took second on a sacrifice by George Scott and scored on May's two-out single. May drove his eighth home run of the season down the right field line in the fourth inning following a double by Johnny Briggs to pull Milwaukee into a 3-3 tie.

The Brewers opened the scoring in the previous inning on singles by Mike Ferraro, Ellie Rodriguez and Bob Heise.

Lomborg, who retired the first 10 batters he faced, was touched for all three Texas runs in the top half of the fourth when Dalton Jones' two-out double drove in Jim Mason, Larry Blittner and Dick Billings, all of whom singled.

Lomborg, pitching his first complete game since July 28, spaced seven hits and walked only one while striking out seven. Ranger reliever Paul Lindblad took the loss, his seventh against four wins.

Billingsham evened his record at 10-10 as he picked up his fifth lifetime win over the Expos. The Reds' righthander walked two and struck out two.

Vandals open work in pads

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—Coach Don Robbins says his Idaho Vandals are scheduled to begin working out in pads Friday.

The Vandals have been working out without padding under the NCAA rule which requires at least three days of noncontact drills at the beginning of football practice season.

Wednesday the Vandals held one practice session and then had their annual picture day in the afternoon.

Robbins said he felt the only potential weak point on the team was lack of depth in his offensive line.

He said, "any time you play in a league like ours where grants-in-aid are limited, you are going to have depth problems."

However, the coach predicted a winning season if his teams stay relatively healthy.

Idaho opens its 1972 defense of its Big Sky Conference title Sept. 16 in its nearly completed stadium against Ohio University.

Wendell discusses new sewage system

WENDELL — Jack Straubhaar of JUB Engineers, Inc., Twin Falls, met with the Wendell City Council Thursday night to discuss a new sewage treatment system.

Straubhaar said that a sprinkler sewage treatment facility would cost the city $20,000. The city's share of the cost for a full containment lagoon would be about $20,000 for the facility and $20,000 for the land.

The council gave its approval for Straubhaar to proceed with applications for federal and state grants for the project.

At a special City Council meeting Aug. 16, Alex Schaeffer, Idaho State Health Department, said that his office had received complaints about the odor arising from the present city lagoon. He said that if it is not taken care of the health department might be forced to take action against the city.

Mel Laraway of the Idaho Highway Department met with the council last night to inform them that a traffic signal could be installed at the intersection near the grade school. It would cost the city $1,500. The highway department had previously told the city that portable crossing signs which had been placed in front of the school did not meet the state highway code and must be removed.

Wendell City Policeman Dale Bunn informed the council that he would be unable to be at the crosswalk during school hours every school day. He said that it would be hazardous for the children to rely on him being there to halt traffic.

Bunn said that it is partly the school's responsibility for the safety of the children and that the school should help pay for the light.

Leader of new farm workers union stresses unmilitancy

By IRENE PETERS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — "The best place to organize people is where they are contented," believes the founder of the Agricultural Workers of America.

Arthur Wyatt says, "If people are enraged, they're not going to go along with anything." He is now organizing a union for farm workers based on benefits for both the worker and the grower.

"We want to form an association that won't be one-sided. We have to negotiate with the farmer fairly; in turn he knows he must negotiate. It's just pure economics," Wyatt says.

A migratory farm worker himself, Wyatt said the idea for a bargaining association for farm workers first occurred to him in 1962. "I talked with a lot of farm workers who felt that we did need this association."

He said when no one else stepped out, he finally went to the U. S. attorney in Boise in July. "He advised me I was within my rights to organize, and called the Department of Labor in Seattle to get me the forms," Wyatt said.

He first began organizing farm workers in Milton-Freewater, Ore., and Walla Walla, Wash. He now has 26 signatures on the association's constitution, and claims about 150 members in Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

Bylaws of the organization include that any action by any member must be according to both state and federal law. "We will never use threats or unlawful methods to get members or contracts. . . . We will not picket at any harvest time," the policy statement says.

The Agricultural Workers of America is registered with the U. S. Department of Labor, but is not affiliated with any other union or political party, Wyatt said.

He plans a meeting this Sunday at the Mountain Home City Hall to organize workers and elect local representatives. Interested persons may call the city hall for the time of the meeting, which had not yet been set Thursday.

Wyatt said Ralph Swensen, a Marsing businessman, has agreed to be state director for the association. He said he has also contacted a Twin Falls man to act as local liaison, but has not yet announced his name.

Wyatt lists his home address as Winterhaven, Calif. but has worked seasonally in Idaho since 1962. Because he is single and has no obligations, he can take the time off from work to organize, he said.

"There's no complaints against any farmers in the states of Idaho or Oregon," he said. "We don't want to stir up any public sentiment against them."

Wyatt said he feels his union has several advantages over the United Farm Workers Union headed by Cesar Chavez. "It will cost them less to belong; they will have local representation, someone they choose from here," he said.

Dues for the association are $1 per year. Wyatt said funds for organizing the union came from a personal loan to him from the U. S. National Bank of Ontario, Ore. He hopes to get funds from some organizations "which give grants to associations such as ours," he said. "As long as we are not obligated to any philosophy which is opposed to law."

Comparing his organization with the Chavez union, Wyatt said, "We will not be militant at all. We will never call any secondary boycotts. We definitely oppose the Chavez boycott of potatoes."

"It is not the business of any labor association to try to destroy someone else; it is to get a better standard of living for its members," said Wyatt. "We don't want to do anything that will destroy our chance for jobs next year."

Wyatt said workers in any agricultural line, ranching or farming, are asked to join. He hopes the association will become a national union, in which each member has a say in his own destiny.

Thursday Wyatt visited the Twin Falls Labor Center, where he obtained four signatures for his constitution. He said he also talked to some local farmers who said they would accept this organization.

A main part of his philosophy is to get better education for farm workers and their families, Wyatt said. "We want to try to work out a program with the Texas school systems where they can assign projects to students while they are traveling, then hand these assignments in completed," he said. "Then they won't lose credit for any time gone from school."

"There's been a lot of progress made in the state of Idaho for migratory workers," said Wyatt. He suggested that many playground equipment could be put in the migrant housing areas, "so these kids have the same opportunity as anyone else."

Long range plans of the union include improvement in housing and better pay. "Any U. S. citizen or legal immigrant has the right to membership," according to the association's by-laws. "Every member in good standing will be treated as equal regardless of race, creed, color or national origin." The constitution and bylaws are written in both English and Spanish.

"I believe the farmer himself wants to go union, but he wants it to be beneficial to both farmworkers and grower," said Wyatt.

Gooding okays land purchase

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News writer

GOODING — The Gooding County Commissioners approved Thursday a proposed land acquisition in Hagerman Valley by the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

They took the action at a special county commission meeting called to discuss the matter Thursday afternoon in the Gooding County Courthouse.

The fish and game department plans to purchase 940 acres at the Niagara Springs Ranch at a cost of $370,000.

At a public hearing held Aug. 13, several persons opposed the acquisition claiming purchase of the property by the state body would result in tax losses to the county.

Thursday, however, Tom Jones, Boise, an attorney for the fish and game department told those attending the meeting a new method for the disposition of fish and game fines was approved by the legislature this year and that Gooding County would receive approximately $1,000 yearly, as compared to half that amount in previous years.

He said this disposition is not meant to be in lieu of taxes, but is revenue to the schools.

Wes Tronson, Gooding County assessor, told the commissioners that benefits to the county as the result of the purchase by the fish and game department exceeded benefits derived from property taxes.

Dale Turnpseed, fish and game regional game biologist, Jerome, said surveys of the White Arrow Ranch, which the fish and game department failed to acquire a year ago, would have resulted in $31,000 net annual benefits to the public.

He said the Niagara Springs Ranch property benefits would equal or exceed that of the White Arrow Ranch property. He told the commissioners that the proposed site is in a high use area and that 40 to 50 per cent of the use would come from Gooding County residents.

In response to criticism voiced at the Aug. 14 meeting that the fish and game department was not developing property which it already owned, Turnpseed said the department will develop its lands, adding "the department is trying to acquire all the desirable land that it can for public use, while there is still land available."

He said the development of each purchase would be using time and money which could be spent acquiring more land before it is bought privately and closed to the public.

Gene DeRous, land management supervisor from Boise, told the meeting Thursday that the fish and game department was not in the park business or picnic business but in hunting and fishing. "Our areas may look to some people like weed patches, but we are providing pheasant cover, for example," he said.

Jack Hemmingsway, Ketchum, fish and game commissioner, told the county commissioners the fish and game commission unanimously approved the purchase. He said there is an ever decreasing supply of spring water and river frontage. He added the public should be able to continue to hunt and fish but that land which the public could once use is now being taken away.

Bob Bolte, chairman of the Gooding County Planning Commission, said the fish and game commission fitted in with the long range planning for the county and that the planning commission supported the purchase.

A petition signed by 50 Wendell residents requesting the county commissioners approve the purchase was presented by Charles Irton, representing the Wendell Chamber of Commerce.

Fred Weber and Cecil Miles, Gooding Rod and Gun Club officer, also met with the county commissioners to request that the purchase be approved.

The proposal now goes before the Idaho Land Board for final approval before the property changes hands.

Chicago man fair after area crash

TWIN FALLS — Robert Murphy, 28, Chicago, was listed in fair condition today in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where he is being treated for auto accident injuries.

He was transferred from the St. Benedict's Hospital in poor condition Thursday and was reported improved today.

He was a passenger in a late model small sedan driven by Edward L. King, 33, Seattle, Wash., which left Interstate 80 north of Twin Falls and west of the U. S. Highway 93 interchange about 1 a.m. Thursday. King was reported in good condition at St. Benedict's hospital.

Also listed in fair condition with fractured vertebrae is Charlene Sloan, 22, Veneta, Ore., another passenger in the vehicle. She was transferred Thursday afternoon to the St. Aphonsus Hospital in Boise.

State Patrolman Everett Waddell said the vehicle left the highway and went into the median then jumped a small lateral.

Judge studies Ketchum condominium access case

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — A decision on access to the proposed Balsam root Condominium project, Ketchum, is now in the hands of Fifth District Court Judge Charles Scoggin.

During a brief court session Thursday, attorneys presented final arguments in the case and Judge Scoggin took the matter under advisement.

The session Thursday and an all day session Aug. 17, stemmed from a petition filed by residents of Garnet Street, the planned access route to the project, seeking a writ of mandate against Ketchum Mayor Kenneth Richey and the four member City Council.

The petition requests enforcement of Ketchum City Ordinance 85, which the petitioners say would bar use of Garnet Street. Approval of the anticipated 160 to 192 unit Balsamroot development, including the access along Garnet, came July 3 after a two to one council vote.

Presenting final arguments Thursday were Ketchum attorneys James Donart, representing Garnet residents, and George Kneeland, representing the intervenor, Selga Development Corp., Galesburg, Ill.

The petitioners contend that the ordinance provides that a residential area should "be protected against offensive noise, vibration, smoke, dust, odors, heat, glare, other objectionable influences" and "the invasion of abnormal vehicular traffic."

The petition states that the street, located in southeast Ketchum, varies in width from 25 to 29.5 feet and is reduced to one way traffic in the winter.

Balsamroot representatives contend the road is public through usage and have promised to improve and maintain it year around. In earlier testimony, the representatives said that two other access routes had been explored but had proved unfeasible.

Hearing set on Gooding plans

GOODING — A public hearing will be held Aug. 31 at 8 p.m. in the Gooding County Courthouse concerning a county planning commission resolution.

The resolution requests that the county commissioners enact an ordinance to control development in Gooding County.

Members of the planning commission met with county commissioners Thursday to request that any further development, improvement, change, construction or land use alteration over $1,000 aggregate cost be approved by the county commissioners and county planning commission.

The resolution was first presented at the county commissioners' regular meeting Aug. 14, but was met with opposition. Severt Swenson, planning commission member, told the commissioners Thursday he felt most of the people in the county were in favor of county planning.

He said those opposing the resolution who attended the Aug. 14 meeting did not represent the feelings of the majority of Gooding County residents.

A public meeting would give a clearer idea of where the people stand, Swenson said.

GOP rally set at Filer

TWIN FALLS — A Republican Party rally and picnic for Magic Valley residents will begin at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the Filer fairgrounds.

U. S. Rep. McClure will speak at the rally, as well as Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy. Other local candidates for state legislature and county offices have also been invited.

Tickets for the rally and picnic may be obtained from Laird Noh and all precinct committeemen and at Crowley Pharmacy. They will also be available at the fairgrounds. Green Giant Co. of Buhl has donated corn on the cob for the picnic.

Cowboy injured

JEROME — Tim Parker, 25, Bluffdale, Utah, was injured Thursday night during the final night of competition at the Jerome County Rodeo.

Parker, who was riding in the Brahma bull event, was thrown from the bull against the bucking chutes.

He received medical help at the arena and was taken to St. Benedict's Hospital in Jerome. Hospital officials said today that Parker was treated in the emergency room and released.

Parker was the only rider in the two days of competition to receive medical help.

UNVEILING mural presented by the Jerome Art Guild Wednesday are John Stille, Jerome County Fair Board chairman; Marygrace Cox, art guild member; Mrs. Carl Walter, who originated the idea, and John Van Orman, county commissioner.

Painting given to fairgrounds

JEROME — The Jerome Art Guild Wednesday unveiled a painting given to the Jerome County Fair grounds.

Marygrace Cox, art guild member, presented the painting, which was placed over the entrance to the 4-H building at the fairgrounds. John Stille, chairman of the fair board, accepted the mural on behalf of Jerome citizens.

Mrs. Cox said this is the second phase of a four-year project to bring beauty and serenity to the community of Jerome. The guild sponsored a similar program last year, when a painting was placed over the entrance to the women's department building.

Mrs. Cox also presented Stille and John Van Orman, county commissioner, with an engraved plaque to be hung on the painting.

The mural on the 4-H building depicts the 4-H emblem with farm scenes in the background, with the saying, "There's a future in 4-H for everybody — bright one, a right one, the hope for a peaceful world." The painting was a group project by members of the Jerome Art Guild.

Hurt on birthday

JEROME — Glenda Joyce Mogensen, Jeanne, celebrated her 23rd birthday anniversary

Wednesday with a broken arm received in a one-car accident. Investigating officer Everett Waddell of the Idaho State Police said the accident happened about 5:15 p.m. Wednesday on the Bob Barton Highway near Jerome.

"She apparently went to sleep and went off the road. When she woke up, she overcorrected and went across the road and hit a telephone pole," he said. "Some motorists came by and picked her up and took her to the hospital."

She was treated at St. Benedict's Hospital for the broken arm and released.

Waddell said the car received "at least" $750-800 damage.

TF fat stock show set during fair at Filer

FILER — The Twin Falls County 4-H and FFA Fat Stock Show will be held Sept. 9 in the livestock arena of the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds. This sale has become an annual event on the final day of the fair and gives 4-H and FFA club members chances to sell their animals at prime prices. Each member is permitted one animal to be sold at the sale. All animals must graze good or better to be eligible to enter and must be clean and well groomed. The champion and reserve champions will be selected from the top three places in the 4-H and FFA regular quality showings at the fair and these top animals will be judged in a separate event to determine the champions. Each 4-H and FFA member should have with them a brand inspection slip or other proof of ownership for beef. Animals are to be delivered by the members to the loading area on Sept. 10 at a time to be announced. Jny Cobb, Filer; Ivan Skinner, Twin Falls, and Russell Hall, Filer, are superintendents of the Junior division. Premiums will be paid in the fat steer class, Holstein steer class, fat lamb class and fat swine class. A number of special awards also will be available to 4-H and FFA members. The Idaho Polled Hereford Association will present a special award of a traveling trophy to the best pen of five fat steers in a showdown between clubs and chapters. Steers may be owned by several exhibitors between in clubs or chapters. Ribbons will be given to first, second and third place winners. First, second and third place trophies will be given for pen of three steers bred by one Idaho producer and shown by three 4-H or FFA members. Trophies will be presented to the exhibitor of the grand champion and reserve champion fat steers. Now one dollar bills will be distributed to each steer exhibitor who does not win one of the above listed premiums. A $100 special award will be paid to the junior division exhibitor of the grand champion steer of a Charolais or Charolais cross.

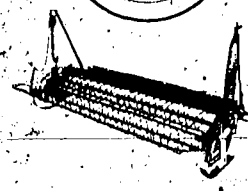

The Idaho Polled Hereford Association will give a trophy to the exhibitor of the grand champion steer, if a natural Polled Hereford. A $50 prize will be presented to the exhibitor of the grand champion steer, if a Polled Hereford, and $25 to the exhibitor of the reserve champion steer, if a Polled Hereford. The South Central Idaho Charolais Breeders will present a trophy to the highest placed Charolais or Charolais cross steer. A $25 prize will be paid to the exhibitor of the grand champion fat steer if it is a cross bred, sired by an English breed bull. Trophies will be presented to the exhibitor of the grand champion and reserve champion fat lamb and to the exhibitor of the grand champion and reserve champion fat barrow. The Poland China Breed Association offers solid bronze belt buckles to 4-H and FFA members to the exhibitor of the grand champion barrow if it is a purebred Poland China of a recorded sire and dam. The United Duroc Swine Registry will offer a cash prize to the owner of a grand champion barrow, providing it is from a recorded Duroc sire and dam.

Bee swarms menace Mexico, south US

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A ferocious race of Brazilian honey bees which have been known to kill animals and humans could invade Mexico and the southern United States unless a massive counterattack is mounted, a scientific advisory committee warned today. The bees are descended from an imported African strain which escaped to interbreed with native bees in Brazil. The Brazilian bees can vary widely in behavior and some are relatively gentle, but they have been reported to launch vicious, unprovoked attacks on both people and animals, the committee said. The panel said that, as a first step, rigid new quarantines should be erected by all countries in North and Central America. None of the killer bees, including bee semen, should be imported from Africa, South America or any other areas where African bees have been introduced, the committee said. The National Research Council-National Academy of Sciences committee report, made public by the Agriculture Department which financed the study, said preparations should begin quickly for erecting a "defensive zone" in Central America before the Brazilian bees reach that area in an estimated four to six years. "If not hindered in Central America, Brazilian bees might be expected to reach Texas about eight to 10 years after reaching Panama," the report warned. Once in the U.S., the report said the aggressive Brazilian strain could dominate and then replace the gentler native Italian or European-type bees, as it did after escaping from experimental hives in Brazil in 1957. And the impact of the invasion could be magnified by public fears, the report warned. "An unfavorable press will exaggerate the problem, as it has in Brazil....The problem is likely to be magnified out of all proportion if the Brazilian bees get wide adverse press coverage. Anti-bee legislation...might then be expected," the report said.

Andrus scores spud dumping

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has asked the U.S. Tariff Commission for full and favorable consideration in its final decision concerning the dumping of Canadian instant potato granules on the domestic market. In a letter on behalf of Idaho potato growers to Commission chairman Catherine May Bedell, the governor said, "It is my understanding that a bout four million pounds of the granules have already been sold at less than fair value, causing a deterioration of the price structure. "Greater injury to both the growers and producers will result in the future should the Canadian oversupply of the granules continue to enter our market. Andrus concluded his letter by saying he hoped the commission would give "all the factors cited full and favorable consideration in reaching its decision in this case."

GOP more competent in use of free TV time

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
If the 1972 presidential election is decided on the basis of which party makes more effective use of television—not an altogether implausible hypothesis—there's little doubt who'll win.
At their national convention which ended in Miami Beach Wednesday night, the Republicans proved vastly more competent as TV producers than were the Democrats who met in the same hall five weeks earlier.
The stony broke Democrats who can't afford to buy much TV time threw away the opportunity to present their little known presidential nominee to the nation over all three networks for free.

Instead, they wrangled away precious hours of prime time, bored America to bed, and finally brought on George McGovern to make his big speech at 3 a.m. EDT. That's about as stupid a piece of programming as you can imagine.
By contrast, the Republicans got their intraparty hassle over rules reform and the necessary tricky-track of convention business out of the way in afternoon sessions on soap opera time.

They carefully reserved their evening sessions for hard hitting political speeches, culminating in President Nixon's acceptance speech Wednesday night, which went on the air at 10:25 p.m. EDT—about as prime as time can get.
Moreover, the Republicans got a big boost—and I can't count on it—from the crowd of protesters milled around Collins Avenue and Convention Hall on the final night. The protesters may have thought they were embarrassing the Republicans, but what they actually accomplished was to give the GOP convention the one element of showmanship it had conspicuously lacked—a little drama.

I don't seriously suspect the protesters were hired and brought to Miami Beach by the Republican National Committee. But they could hardly have served the GOP cause more effectively if they had been.

It seemed to me that NBC and CBS were very mindful—perhaps too mindful—of the criticism they got as to the 1968 Democratic convention in Chicago. Then, they were accused of focusing on riots outside the hall instead of convention activities in the hall.
Wednesday night, both networks bent over backwards to avoid anything remotely smacking of sensationalism in their coverage of the protest disorders. And as soon as the convention session got under way, they hastily moved indoors and kept their cameras focused almost exclusively on the rostrum.

ABC, by sticking to its policy of waiting until 9:30 p.m. EDT to begin coverage, missed the boat on the only exciting live action of the GOP convention.
By the time Howard and Harry got on the air, all they had to show were film clips of what the other two nets had shown live two hours before. It seemed to this old reporter like poetic justice.

Chinese workers prosper

PEKING (UPI)—Millions of Chinese workers are taking home more money in their monthly paychecks.
There has been no official government announcement about salary increases and there is not likely to be one.
Mostly they apply to lower paid workers. Clerical workers, bank personnel, skilled and semiskilled factory workers, dockworkers and lower grades in the People's Liberation Army (PLA) all reported increases. So did teachers in lower-level schools, but higher paid professors in Peking University say there have been no increases since 1962.
Most new increases, first in several years, have taken place since June although some came earlier.
During the past several days, a party of UPI reporters led by UPI President Roderick W. Beaton has talked to workers, teachers, PLA men and others.
On a visit to the Great Wall, which draws thousands of Chinese visitors, more than a dozen workers from North and South China were interviewed. All but one confirmed that his paycheck was larger. Wage incentives were abolished during the Cultural Revolution, but there were some indications elsewhere that they were at least being discussed again. In none of the places visited, however, were they in force.
The Chinese did not hesitate discussing wage increases once the subject came up. In China, the yuan is the official currency. One yuan is worth about 44 U.S. cents.
Increases at the Peking Arts and Crafts factory averaged about $3.50 per month in each of the eight wage levels.
More than 1,000 workers there turn out handsome carved figurines, reproductions of Chinese antiques and paintings.
Most of those employed are highly-skilled artisans and salaries range from about $88 down to $17.50 for beginners. Only a few of the most talented ivory and jade carvers make top salary, but other workers move up the scale with improvement in their skills.
One clerk interviewed elsewhere reported his paycheck went up about 10 per cent but less than $3 monthly. Several other hikes were even less.

4-H club visits 3 homes

TWIN FALLS—The Healthy Cookie Cutters 4-H club members visited three nursing homes Thursday afternoon, climaxing a week-long series of activities.
Members distributed cookies and gifts at the nursing homes as a community project. Thursday morning they held a short meeting with Shelley Bartlett giving a demonstration on safety.
The group held a potluck supper and slumber party Wednesday night and earlier this week toured the health department, Pet Milk and Green Giant plants at Buhl and the Twin Falls Police Department.
Their last meeting is scheduled for Monday after school at the home of LuAnne Platt, teen leader.
