TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council Tuesday night cleared the way for construction of a new K-Mart by agreeing to furnish water and sewer service to the business.

Council action authorized the mayor and city clerk to sign an agreement with Al and Glen Jenkins and the Manhattan Corp., representing K-Mart.

The Jenkins plan to sell a 20-acre parcel outside the city limits near the intersection of Eastland Drive and Addison Avenue East to K-Mart.

John Rosholt, attorney for the owners, said the option on the tract expires this week.

The agreement will include a clause that the buyer and seller furnish the city 15 feet for sewer and that 60 days after annexation to the city that the same 15 feet be deeded for roadway. The agreement also contains reference to a planned request by K-Mart for annexation to the city.

Olympians honor slain Israelis; games resume

MUNICH (UPI)—Arab terrorists turned the 20th Olympic Games into a bloodsoaked battleground Tuesday that took 17 lives, including 11 Israeli athletes, nine of them hostages. Today the other athletes paused briefly to honor the dead, then went back to the games to insure that the spirit of the Olympics would prevail.

Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee (IOC), told the athletes assembled in the vast Olympic Stadium that today was a "day of mourning" but said the games would resume at 4:45 p.m. (9:45 a.m. MDT) — 24 hours after they were suspended because of the Arab attack.

Sitting in the first three rows of the stadium today were the surviving members of the team from Israel. For them — the games were over and they were flying back to Israel with the bodies of their comrades.

Two of those addressing the athletes today were Ben Horin, the Israeli ambassador to Germany, and Shmuel Lalkin, chief of the Israeli Olympic delegation who escaped death when he fled from the Israeli compound at Olympic Village minutes after the Arab terrorists killed two Israelis and seized nine others as hostages.

"The athletes of Israel hope to continue in (future) Olympic competition in a spirit of brotherhood and fairness despite this abominable crime," Lalkin said. "It is in deep sorrow that we now leave."

The Israeli hostages died Tuesday evening when an ambush of the guerrillas by West German marksmen backfired. Three helicopters had flown the Israelis and the Arabs to an airport. When two Arabs left their helicopters to inspect a plane that was to have flown them to an Arab country the Germans opened fire. Other guerrillas aboard the third helicopter exploded a hand grenade, killing all aboard.

The dead included the two Israelis killed in the initial Arab assault, the nine Israelis seized as hostages, a West German policeman caught up in an exchange of shots at the airport, two Arabs who were with the hostages when they were blown up and two other guerrillas killed by gunfire. Today another body was found nearby but it was not immediately identified.

The murders sent a wave of revulsion around the world, and in Israel there were vows to avenge the dead. There also were bitter feelings against West Germany for permitting the tragedy to occur — feelings that had their birth in the tragedy of World War II.

Buhl patrons OK facilities levy

By PAULINE DAY
Times-News writer

BUHL — Buhl School District patrons approved Tuesday a five mill plant facilities levy by a 75.46 per cent majority.

An expected $45,000 will be raised by the levy the first year, according to Supt. Dan Mabe. Top priority will be given to repairing electrical wiring in the high school and junior high school buildings.

Also planned are the purchase of musical instruments and furniture for the vocal music room, and later, blacktopping of playgrounds and repair of roofs on all school buildings.

"It's great. This will allow us to get some furniture, musical instruments and make some much-needed repairs to the buildings," Mabe said. "I'd like to thank the patrons who turned out and voted their support, and a special thanks to the ladies' committee who made personal contacts to tell patrons about the plant facilities levy."

A two-thirds majority, or 66 2-3 per cent, was necessary to pass the levy. A total of 542 votes were cast, with 409 in favor and 133 opposed.

Mabe said the number of voters was fewer than in the last plant facilities levy in 1968, which was defeated.

President watches Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon was back at the White House today where he could keep a closer watch on a prime target of his campaign for re-election—the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Nixon flew to Washington from California Wednesday night after a "nonpolitical" appearance at a proposed San Francisco Bay park site where he took the occasion to accuse Congress of holding his environmental bills as political hostages.

The criticism fit in with Nixon's earlier castigation of a "stuck in the mud" Congress. Nixon has attempted to blame Congress for overspending and other transgressions.

With polls showing him far ahead of Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern, Nixon was in a jubilant mood during his California appearance.

But the President's aides and members of his family said he was "taking nothing for granted" despite the polls.

The aides said he planned a White House-based campaign this month with one-day side trips.

Closing set

TWIN FALLS — The city of Twin Falls should have one of its quietest days Thursday "Twin Falls Day" at the county fair.

Most businesses will close during the afternoon to allow employees and their families to attend the fair at Filer. City offices will be closed and county offices, except for the auditor-recorder's office at the courthouse also will close.

Public schools will be dismissed for the day. "Twin Falls Day" is traditionally one of the busiest of the fair which officially opened today. Rain and overcast skies Tuesday during judging day threatened the fair, but by this morning the skies had partially cleared and the cooperation of the weather looked more promising.

Banks, as required by law, will remain open.

Anti-bus ultimatum

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An anti-busing faction has served notice. It will block the hoped for early adjournment of Congress if necessary to win Senate consideration of busing legislation this year.

An ultimatum to this effect was served on Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield Tuesday by Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala.

Gooding rejects report

GOODING — The Gooding City Council rejected Tuesday a federal report suggesting improvements in the city's sewage treatment plant.

Mayor Harley Crippen dismissed the report from the Environmental Protection agency, saying "This is only an EPA suggestion. I don't think we have to pay any attention to it — only discuss it and know what could be forced on us."

Crippen said "There is nothing wrong with our sewage system. It is in perfect working order."

The written report by T. F. Johnson, EPA Seattle district chief of operations and maintenance, contained eight recommendations.

It included a statement that chlorine should be kept in a separate building from equipment and machines in order to protect personnel from dangerous leakage.

Lab testing equipment was mentioned as being essential to an efficiently run plant.

Also in the list was a recommendation that Gooding hire a full time plant operator.

When contacted, Johnson said the report was submitted as part of a general survey of the Snake River Basin to determine what sewage treatment practices were taking place.

"The Gooding plant could be operated very effectively," Johnson said. "It needs personnel and lab testing equipment, which will eventually be required by the state. I seriously doubt its efficiency at the present time."

Demo aides' views asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Attorneys for the men accused in the break-in at Democratic national headquarters sought to build their defense today by subpoenaing top Democratic officials for questioning under oath.

The lawyers submitted a list of 10 names, including that of former Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien, to U.S. District Court here and asked that they be subpoenaed to make formal pretrial depositions in a $1 million suit stemming from the incident. Such requests are granted routinely in federal civil suits.

All those on the list were present or former Democratic party officials. Among them were Patricia Roberts Harris, credentials chairman of the Democratic National Convention; Mary Lou Berg, who resigned recently as party vice chairman, and three top national committee aides who went with O'Brien when he joined the McGovern campaign in July.

The five suspects, two of them apparently with ties to either the White House or the Committee to Re-Elect the President, were caught by police inside Democratic National Committee (DNC) offices at the Watergate complex June 17 with what was described as electronic eavesdropping gear.

Demos suspect new bug effort

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The Democratic party suspects that there has been another attempt to bug Democratic offices at the Watergate Complex in Washington, D.C., according to the party's national chairman.

Jenn Westwood said Tuesday a member of the press staff at the Watergate Hotel last week found two workmen installing a "red box" in a large hole cut in a wall next to the party offices.

Mrs. Westwood said the men installing the box told the Washington staffer that the device was fire detection equipment. She said the staffer left the men, but when she returned they were gone. The box was in the wall with wires hanging from it.

"We checked with the Fire Department, and they knew nothing about any men installing fire equipment," she said.

"We checked further with the Watergate management, and they didn't know anything about it either."

The Israeli cabinet met again in emergency session and issued a communique which said "Israel will persevere in its war against terrorist organizations and will not excuse those who aid them from responsibility."

Many Arab nations were appalled at the tragedy and the Jordanian government in its second denunciation of the action, called the attack an "ugly crime which has served to destroy the Arab cause."

Syria, which supports the guerrilla movement, blamed the events on Germany.

President Nixon said the Israelis were murdered by "international outlaws of the worst sort." Pope Paul VI said the Arab attack "dishonors our time" and expressed hope the deed will not be repaid with more violence.

In Bonn, Chancellor Willy Brandt called a special meeting of his cabinet to discuss the aftermath of the shooting. He had gone to Munich to try to negotiate the Israeli release but failed—efforts which could affect his political future.

Today's memorial services in the Olympic Stadium were attended by a crowd of 84,000. Reinhard Praus, one of the two helicopter pilots who flew the Arab guerrillas and their Israeli hostages from the Olympic Village to the air base where the shooting occurred, gave his account of the incident today.

Praus and two copilots escaped uninjured in the shootout at the Pflestenfeld-bruck air base outside Munich. The second pilot, Gunnar Eberle, received serious lung injuries.

Praus gave the following account: "I was flying the first helicopter. We were to land near the main entrance in a floodlit area."

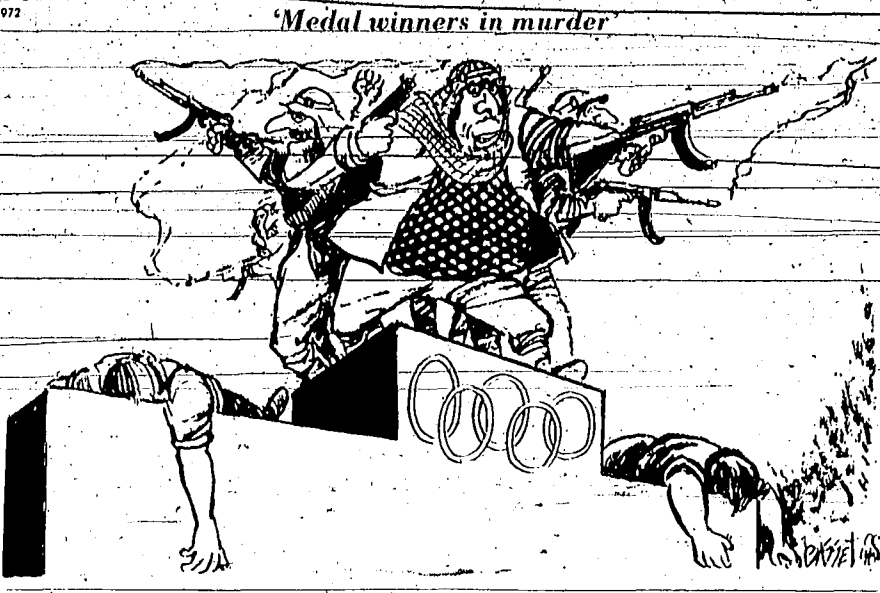

"The guerrillas made the crews of both helicopters stand outside their craft. They opened the doors on both sides of the helicopters and trained their Kalashnikov submachine guns on the hostages who remained inside blindfolded with their hands bound."

"Suddenly the police started firing and shot either one or two of the guerrillas. The rest of them immediately emptied their machine guns at the second helicopter. The hostages began screaming inside."

"Then they turned their guns on the lights and everything went black. Beside the first helicopter one of the Arabs pulled out a hand grenade and threw it inside. It just went up in flames. The second group of hostages was inside."

"Then everybody began shooting at each other. No one could see anything in the dark and we just dived out of the way."

"We had no idea what had been planned at the base."

Dutch manager seized

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Police sources said today a ransom note has been received demanding $500,000 for the life of Jan J. Van de Panne, prominent Dutch resident manager of a giant electronics firm who was kidnapped Tuesday.

The sources would not say how the note was received but said it was critical of the Philips Appliance and Electronics firm's Argentine operation. They said it did not carry the stamp, initials or slogans of any specific one of the nation's several underground terrorist groups.

Kidnapings by criminals are frequent in Buenos Aires. As recently as Monday, Arnold Kaplan, 36, a wealthy bathroom fixture dealer, was kidnapped for ransom. A search was on today for both men and their captors.

Van de Panne, 55, survivor of a Japanese prison camp in Indonesia during World War II, was seized by a team of an estimated 10 men as he drove his compact car to work Tuesday morning. Police said the abductors used several stolen vehicles.

His car was found abandoned near the Pan American Highway on the edge of town. Van de Panne lived with his wife and three sons in the Tudor-style mansion owned by the company, which manufactures appliances, medical equipment and industrial specialties. Neighbors said Van de Panne's wife and one child remained in Holland after a recent vacation.

Van de Panne's abduction resembled other recent terrorist kidnappings of foreign heads of big companies.

TF Council approves tax notes for streets

By RUTH MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Issuance of $300,000 in tax anticipation notes was approved Tuesday night by the Twin Falls City Council.

The notes will provide funds to pay for street improvement construction in the city. Funds have been budgeted for the construction, but the taxes included in financing the project are not due until Jan. 1, 1973, and June 1, 1973.

Council members said the tax anticipation notes will be issued only if necessary and only that part which is needed will be issued. The resolution passed by the council provides that the notes be issued in denominations of $100,000 at interest not to exceed 5 per cent.

The reconstruction of city streets is being financed in several ways, including a 5 mill levy for street improvement, City Manager Jean Millar said.

In other action, the council:

- Approved an ordinance providing for more clear-cut regulations on construction of curb, gutter and sidewalk construction within city boundaries.

— Heard a complaint from Susan Orr regarding seepage from a Twin Falls Canal Co. drain line into the basement of her house. The council told Mrs. Orr that the lines are the responsibility of the Twin Falls Canal Co., not the city.

— Adopted a deed restriction, at the request of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, (HUD), on the Dierkes Lake purchase. The agreement represents what should be the final step in HUD's 50 per cent participation in cost of the land.

— Approved leases with the Federal Aviation Agency covering separate portions of the installation of an instrument

Fair Time

It's fairtime again—in Magic Valley. It is the time when tens of thousands gather at what must be the most old fashioned event in America. They come again and again, year after year. Why do they have so much fun?

After all, a fair doesn't fit in well with the 20th Century rush. In this century, you may have noticed, Americans don't often have time to gather together. A nation strung out on its own highways has abandoned nearly all the traditional festival gatherings that once marked the seasons.

Beside a fair, the closest thing to a festival today is Christmas. But despite commercial attempts to stretch it like a smile from Thanksgiving to New Year's Day, the Christmas has remained a private matter. It is still an important religious event for most, and a time for reunion with family and friends. It is private, as it should be, not public.

True, people do gather in public at high school games or church picnics or on the downtown mall. But in these cases, a narrow cross section of the public is there for a specific purpose: fans to boost the team, the church membership for its potluck, shoppers in search for a good buy. Even the noisy gathering of teenagers in their cars along the Twin Falls strip Saturday nights is confined to one age group with limited goals.

For rural America there is only the fair. For many urban areas, there is nothing at all, and urban dwellers are the poorer for it.

The special magic of fair time is easy to find if you follow the fairgoer as he leaves his speedy car outside to enter the great space where he is only a pedestrian. There he and others walk, slowly, nowhere in particular:

Past some very good and very bad paintings, past very fat and very lean 4-H project animals, past cotton candy and corn dogs, through a commercial building where a vacuum cleaner balances pingpong balls in midair.

Only the children are eager to rush about.

Parents pause to chat with friends or to rest under the awning of some organization's hamburger booth and listen to talk of bankers and dentists as they cheerily go about the unaccustomed business of serving food for a few volunteer hours.

Rodeo watchers, nearby, sit in noisy groups of good friends who spend time in good-natured byplay, cheering as good and bad riders are tossed through the air.

The evenings are still warm enough to walk without a jacket, but the steel of the Ferris Wheel is cold and it is chilly as the wheel rises again and again high above the midway.

The fair's pace is not of our century. It is slower. Its time frame must reach back to before Christ, when slow harvesters, tired at summer's end, not yet alarmed by winter's advance, gathered at their ease. — RGH

Bravo Buhl

The Buhl electorate should be commended highly for its progressive support of the school district's plant facilities levy. The levy passed by 75 per cent demonstrating that the citizenry was cognizant of the needs of its secondary schools. Further delays on maintenance and equipping would only contribute to the depreciation of facilities; deteriorating educational quality as well as compounding future school bonds. In passing this levy, Buhl has wisely decided to bear the costs now rather than deferring them to a future date when they would be astronomical. As has always been the case, it's better to keep at a constant problem than to let it pile up.

Buhl has not only determined for herself that future taxes will be met but that her children shall have the best. Bravo Buhl!

UN Challenged

Perhaps no organization in history was begun with higher hopes than the United Nations, formed to resolve disputes between nations without recourse to war and to replace international anarchy with international law backed by world opinion, binding arbitration and even police force. It has accomplished a great deal of good but it has failed in important areas, one being in setting up laws of the sea.

In 1958 and 1960, conferences on the law of the sea were held in Geneva to resolve the issues of excessive jurisdictional claims and over-exploitation of fishery resources. They failed.

In 1970, with the problems becoming evermore critical, the UN called for a conference in 1973 to deal with the development of sea bed resources, territorial waters and fishery jurisdiction. A majority of the UN member nations are represented on the sea bed committee, which was to pave the way for the conference. It has done so little effective work that the conference has been postponed to 1974.

Meantime, the problems mount. Iceland, during its 1958-61 "cod war" with Great Britain, won the right to extend its territorial waters claim from 3 to 12 miles, an extension formally recognized in a treaty negotiated under UN auspices.

Iceland, an island Republic of 200,000 persons, reached the treaty September 1 and unilaterally imposed a claim to exclusive fishing rights for 50 nautical miles around its shores.

The excessive claims of South America's Pacific coastal nation long have troubled American tuna fishermen and Russian and Japanese fishermen have shown little interest in conservation of one of mankind's greatest resources. As a result of failure to agree upon any reasonable limitation, the extermination of important species of food fish and whales is being relentlessly pursued.

The United States, Russia and Japan should press harder for UN action that would be fair and would preserve the resources of the seas they value so highly.

McGovern's Strange Braintrust

WASHINGTON — The pro-McGovern foreign policy braintrust unveiled Aug. 24 by Sen. George McGovern is studded with professors who not only disagree with McGovern's international policies and have no present intention of voting for him but were amazed to find themselves listed.

Statements by Prof. Abram Chayes of Harvard Law School, coordinating the McGovern braintrust, indicated the 100 foreign policy experts support McGovern and generally endorse his foreign policy.

"Their commitments are ample testimony to the depth of support which Sen. McGovern commands within the foreign policy community," said Chayes's prepared statement. "We appreciate that support." He then told a press conference that "obviously they wouldn't have signed up." If they disagreed with McGovern.

A spot check of the panels tells a different story. Several members were aizzing that they were put in the apparent position of endorsing McGovern when, in fact, they are neutral or even hostile. Several gave no authorization for public use of their names.

The most prominent of these is Prof. Zbigniew Brzezinski of Columbia, a onetime Johnson administration policy planner named to McGovern's general advisory panel. He did agree to serve in order to give his views.

But he supports neither McGovern nor President Nixon and disagrees with McGovern's neo-isolationist position. The Middle East panel is packed with academics who fundamentally disagree with McGovern and agree to supply only their opinions — not their support — when recruited by Martin Peretz, the millionaire left-wing Harvard don.

Prof. Ben Halperin of Brandeis told us that, when asked by Peretz's assistant, "I explained to her that I'm not going to vote for McGovern and I'm not going to vote for Nixon, and if it was okay, I would serve on that basis."

Prof. Marie Syrkin of Brandeis told us she is "ambivalent" about McGovern with "certain misgivings" about his policies and does not now support him. She expressed "no opposition" when asked to serve but feels she should have been shown a copy of the press release.

Prof. Gil Carl Alroy of Hunter College told us he informed Peretz he would work with a panel if "it did not entail any support for McGovern," adding to us: "I don't particularly care for either McGovern or Nixon." A friend described him as upset.

A fourth member of the Mideast panel, Prof. Michael Curtis of Rutgers, was described by associates as not supporting either McGovern's candidacy or his Middle East policies.

Continuing inability of Sen. McGovern and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills to communicate was underlined when McGovern's carefully orchestrated offer for Mills to become his Secretary of the Treasury nearly backfired.

Despite veiled hostility in pre-convention maneuverings, McGovern's advisers badly need Mills' immense respect within the business community. Consequently, one McGovern idea man concocted the dramatic scheme of having McGovern offer the Treasury post in his Aug. 29 Wall Street speech. He stressed that McGovern should warn Mills and get his approval so as to avoid a boomerang.

Thus, after visiting Lyndon Johnson Aug. 22, McGovern telephoned Searcy, Ark., to tell Mills about his speech. McGovern carefully mentioned the Treasury offer and thought Mills understood.

But once again, communications broke down. "I thought he was just joshing me," Mills later told a friend. More important, he regarded McGovern's call as personal and off-the-record. So, when contacted by the press after McGovern's speech, Mills said the Treasury offer was news to him.

Smelling a double-cross, McGovern's campaign staff went into orbit. After a frantic McGovern aide telephoned Searcy, Mills changed his public statement to say he did not recall talking to McGovern about the Treasury. But the initial damage was done.

THINGS AREN'T EXACTLY LOOKING UP

Missourians Remember

I was in St. Louis when Sen. Tom Eagleton came home — and since.

Nationally Democrats have refused the attention of most of us on Sargent Shriver.

Not Missourians.

They've not forgot the humiliation of Tom Eagleton and they're not about to. Missourians take their politics personally. They forgave Harry Truman his sponsorship by Kansas City's political godfather, Tom Pendergast — because he, H. S. T., was a good husband and father.

Even those who criticized Truman for Hiroshima or for the deep-freezer scandals voted for him because of the way he threatened to kick in the groin a critic of daughter Margaret's slinging.

Missourians generally retain a fierce family fidelity. (I married one.)

Tom Eagleton was not unanimously popular as a politician. Friends since fraternity days remember him as good-looking, affable, life of the party, urgently ambitious.

The two big St. Louis papers covered his campaigns for public office with traditional partisanship but no great fervor.

Editor Frank Bick and his several suburban journals consistently opposed Eagleton's candidacies but Bick's Aug. 2 front-page editorial was captioned: "To hell with McGovern!"

And when Eagleton returned home following his political downfall, a crowd of 1,500 awaited his arrival at St. Louis' Lambert Airport.

Their signs said, "We REALLY support you 1,000 percent!"

The state primary which followed Eagleton's removal from the national ticket demonstrated some sweeping GOP gains, however unrelated. Republican Kit Bond got such a whopping plurality for nomination for governor (200,000 votes more than his nearest adversary) that traditionally Democratic Missouri seems certain to go Republican in November.

If Frank Bick reflects grassroots reaction to the McGovern-Eagleton snafu, here it is: "The best man has left the ticket."

He resents what he calls the "motley McGovern camp followers" who demanded Eagleton's scalp because he had undergone psychiatric treatment.

Bick says the McGovern backers who panicked at the mention of a headshrinker include "pot-smoking, barefooted hippies, homos, deserters and Women's Libbers. The very idea, says Bick, that oddballs, hopheads and man-haters should presume to judge the mental fitness of anybody.

McGovern says he had to get rid of Eagleton because everybody was talking about Eagleton's hospital trips instead of about the issues. McGovern wanted to get people back to talking about "the issues."

That, says Bick, was his third mistake.

McGovern's Word

WASHINGTON — It is becoming axiomatic that Sen. George McGovern says one thing and does exactly the opposite.

His words simply don't match his deeds — and vice versa.

With righteous fervor the South Dakota radical loudly avowed he was "1,000 per cent" for Sen. Thomas Eagleton as a running mate — only to unceremoniously dump the Missourian shortly thereafter.

Throughout McGovern's various primary contests, his principal domestic plank was a fuzzy welfare-tax reform plan under which everyone in the country would be given a $1,000 government handout. When this was exposed as fiscally irresponsible and calamitous, he quickly ditched it saying an entirely new scheme would be produced "in a few days" — which stretched into several months.

Similarly, at the recent American Legion convention, McGovern emphatically pledged to maintain U.S. military defenses "second to none."

Yet today, the leftist Democratic Presidential standard-bearer is actively opposing Sen. Henry Jackson's proposal putting the Senate on record as insulating the U.S. have parity with Russia in any new strategic arms agreement.

This vital policy declaration is propounded in Jackson's amendment to the five-year interim agreement on strategic weapons negotiated by President Nixon during his historic summit meeting in Moscow last spring. The amendment in no way modifies or directly affects this accord.

It is solely an advisory pronouncement relating to the so-called SALT II arms limitation deliberations scheduled to start next month. Jackson's proposal is favored both by a decisive majority of Republican and Democratic Senators and the Administration. The latter's stand was publicly expressed by Secretary of State Rogers in response to a press conference question.

"Yes," said Rogers, "we support Sen. Jackson's amendment. We feel the interim agreement is a good one. The Jackson amendment expresses a view of the Congress and is consistent with the view of the Administration." This was echoed by White House press secretary Ron Ziegler in a formal release saying, "We endorse the Jackson amendment and feel it is consistent with our position."

Stretch Marks

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have stretch marks that aren't very big but are very visible. I'm not sure what caused them, but I think it is from gaining weight and then losing it fast — I gained about 30 pounds and then went on a crash diet and lost 25 pounds quickly.

Most of the marks are on my hips and thighs. Is there any way I can get rid of them? I haven't been pregnant, so it isn't that. — D.B.

It's the gaining, not the losing, that causes stretch marks. Some folks have skin that is subject to stretch marks; others have skins that will stand much more stretching without damaging the fibers below the surface.

That's what stretch marks are — the places where fibers have been put under too much strain. It happened before you lost that 25 pounds, but you didn't notice it instantly.

The marks usually are highly colored at first, but the color fades. The bad news is that I know of nothing that will get rid of the marks, but when the color has faded, they aren't as noticeable as the possessor usually thinks.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is salmonella in any way related to venereal disease? — Mrs. L. M. No. Definitely no.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My wife recently had an I. U. D. inserted, and to have this done, she told the doctor that she has had a baby which she has not. I was wondering if there is a possibility of complications. — A. B.

There is no connection between her having had a baby or not having had a baby and the insertion of the intrauterine device.

And why, for heavens sake, did she tell the doctor she'd had one?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In the past several months I have heard about two people who lost a kidney because of tuberculosis. Please explain. They both had them removed and seem to be in very good health. — Mrs. R.K.

Although tuberculosis of the lung is the most common type of TB, it is possible for the germ to be disseminated through other organs such as the kidneys.

Where removal of the kidney is indicated, the patients usually continue on to lead healthy lives with a single kidney.

Dear Doctor: Is it harmful to a child's ear to pull on it to discipline him? — F.L.S.

Given the delicate mechanism of the ear, the answer is an unqualified yes. If you feel you must resort to some physical manifestation of disapproval, I'd advise you to seek out some more sturdy portion of the anatomy — such as the bottom.

Dear Doctor: If a person has a drunken hangover and is restless, is it okay to take a sleeping tablet? — F.O.

The tablet will tend to augment the effects of the alcohol, not diminish them. The alcohol serves as a sedative; hence omit the sleeping tablet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am in my middle 60s and have bunions which are continuing to get worse. Would it be too late to have them removed by surgery? How long would I be in the hospital? — Mrs. V. J.

No, it's not too late for surgery, but how long you would have to stay off your feet would depend on the particular case, and I can offer no estimate or suggestion except to ask the surgeon (orthopedist or, in some cases, podiatrist) to make an estimate.

Tax credit plan draws union fire

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An AFL-CIO spokesman today denounced a proposal to provide tax credits for private and religious schools as a "virtual invitation to segregationists."

Andrew J. Biemiller, director of the 13.6 million-member labor organization's department of legislation, told the House Ways and Means Committee the AFL-CIO was not opposed to aiding parochial schools.

But he said a bill the committee is considering that would allow tax breaks for private schools would discriminate against the less wealthy states and would allow the advantages to go to schools created to avoid desegregation.

"Given the persistent efforts by some states to subsidize tuition payments to racially segregated schools, we find it altogether incredible that there is no guarantee against segregated education" in the bill, the former Wisconsin congressman said.

He said the legislation "constitutes a virtual invitation to segregationists to avail themselves of the tax benefits."

Biemiller said the rebates would lead to a drain on the federal treasury of "in excess" of $1 billion a year.

The bill is sponsored by Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-N.Y., and Rep. Hugh L. Carey, D-N.Y. It would allow a tax credit of up to $200 per child for private school tuition. If a person's tax bill were less than what he would gain in credits, he would get a direct payment from the government.

Also testifying before the committee today was H.G. Rountree, president of the National Council of Catholic Bishops, who said federal aid to nonpublic schools is necessary to insure education does not become a monopoly.

"We believe the nonpublic schools of this nation have provided healthy stimulation to the public education sector in their attempt to reach excellence," Rountree said. He said nonpublic education contributes some $5 billion a year to the nation's economy.

In testimony Tuesday, coalitions of Jewish and Baptist groups joined school board members and the American Civil Liberties Union in opposing the tax credits proposal.

Several witnesses argued the legislation would violate First Amendment separation of church and state.

Protests

FUNDAMENTALIST preacher Carl McIntire led a protest in Baltimore, Md., Tuesday, in which 100 persons objected to the docking of a Soviet sailing vessel on a training voyage. McIntire has been noted for his anti-Communist views. (UPI)

Election activity urged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—For the first time, the nation's 2.1 million elementary and high school teachers are being urged by their national organizations to take an active role in a presidential election.

The teachers are being asked to oppose President Nixon and donate funds to the campaign of Democrat George S. McGovern.

Teacher organizations have taken these actions:

—The executive committee of the National Education Association (NEA) has mailed a statement that is expected to reach about 1.8 million classroom teachers this week. It says the NEA cannot recommend Nixon's re-election because his administration has "callously disregarded the crisis in education." The statement does not specifically endorse a presidential candidate, but an NEA spokesman said that "clearly the intent was to influence the membership."

—The American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, also is sending letters to its 275,000 members asking them "to contribute a day's pay" or a minimum of $10 each to McGovern's campaign. AFT President David Selden said Tuesday he would make an announcement in a week about the formation of a Teachers for McGovern committee.

The NEA's Political Action Committee, an independent political arm of the organization, will meet in St. Louis this weekend to consider whether to endorse McGovern. The committee is financed by local teacher contributions.

The AFT, which is big city-oriented, already has endorsed McGovern. Selden said in his letter to members that "now is the time for teachers to reach into their own pockets to put a union teacher in the White House."

In a telegram Tuesday to Sen. Robert J. Dole, Republican National Committee Chairman, Selden denied that an AFT line, but not in falls" was pledge of $250,000 to the McGovern-Shriver campaign "public endorsement of illegal was "a payoff" for McGovern's support of teacher strikes.

Rival drivers ignore pickets

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI)—Striking farm workers in the nation's lettuce belt watched angrily Tuesday when rival Teamster Union truck drivers crossed their picket lines to move a celery harvest.

The strikers waved the black Aztec banners of Cesar Chavez. United Farm Workers Union when the Teamsters arrived at Inter Harvest Inc. to move celery picked by management crews. There was no violence.

Workers walked off the fields of the company, one of the largest lettuce growers in the nation, last Friday after a two-year contract expired.

Harold Bradshaw, president of Inter Harvest, which has fields in Southern California and Arizona, said the strike at the height of the lettuce harvesting season was "definitely hurting us," and the monetary loss could be "substantial."

Negotiations were reported "progressing routinely" between the union and management, but there was no sign of a rapid agreement.

The UFWU and the Teamsters have been competing for contracts in the agriculturally rich Salinas Valley since Chavez began organizing there in 1970.

The Mexican-American labor leader managed to sign five major contracts with lettuce growers, but more than a dozen growers signed with the Teamsters and have been the object of a nationwide boycott.

Meanwhile, the UFWU Tuesday asked the California Supreme Court in San Francisco to permit it to resume a long stymied strike against about 70 central coast lettuce growers.

Union attorney William Carder urged the high tribunal to invalidate lower court injunctions against a strike by about 8,000 field workers in September 1970.

The injunctions were issued on grounds Chavez' union staged the walkout in violation of the state's jurisdictional strike act.

Southern governors may pick Wallace

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI)—Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama was expected to be named chairman of the Southern Governors Conference today in a move aimed at ensuring harmony among Democratic and Republican governors.

The 17 governors were scheduled to end their three-day business and pleasure meeting, with a vote on a mildly worded resolution restating their opposition to forced school busing.

Gov. John C. West of South Carolina, a Democrat, disclosed Tuesday night he would abandon his automatic succession to the chairmanship in favor of Wallace.

Other governors at the conference indicated they would support the action.

West and the other governors said the move was designed as a tribute to Wallace, the senior member of the conference who was paralyzed from the waist down by a gunman's bullets during a presidential campaign rally.

"Gov. Wallace has suffered physically and emotionally and the least we can do is to show our appreciation for what he has done regardless of party affiliation," West said after a brief conference with the Alabama governor following a banquet address by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Agnew, in his speech, made an appeal for President Nixon's revenue sharing program, saying the governors will be the real losers if Congress rejects the program.

The resolution opposing forced busing, prepared chiefly by Republican Gov. Winfield Dunn of Tennessee, was basically a brief restatement of the resolution unanimously backed by the governors.

VP, Wallace speak

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew left his seat at the head table of the Southern Governors Conference banquet Tuesday to speak to Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

Aides to Wallace said Agnew told Wallace "that he prayed for the governor" during the recent trouble and his recovery process.

Wallace was wounded in an assassination attempt in Maryland last May.

Wallace, with Agnew bending down over his wheelchair, told the vice president, "I'm sorry I didn't make the reception for you before the dinner."

Agnew, who urged the governors to make a bipartisan effort to help push President Nixon's revenue sharing plan through Congress, made a one-day visit to the conference, where the main topic has been national politics.

Agnew avoided a direct political appeal in his speech to the governors, but told newsman shortly after landing by helicopter that he and Nixon "do not take the South for granted" in November.

"The campaign looks reasonably encouraging, although we don't expect it to be an easy one, however," said Agnew.

Asked if he had come in an effort to lure Southern backers of Wallace behind the Republican ticket, Agnew said, "We are not making an appeal here to any one particular group or individual."

Wallace earlier Tuesday had declined to take a stand on the November race, although saying he would likely have one soon.

The Alabama governor, asked if he would be interested in a new race for the presidency, replied, "If my health is good in '76, I will be interested."

Fund raising try halted by judge

NEW YORK (UPI)—A federal court has forbidden fundraising by a group seeking to impeach President Nixon on the ground that it is violating election laws.

U.S. District Judge Sylvester Ryan issued a preliminary injunction Tuesday ordering the National Committee for Impeachment not to solicit or spend money for political purposes until it complies with legal requirements.

The ruling effectively upheld a Justice Department charge that the committee violated the law last May by sponsoring a two-page advertisement in The New York Times calling for Nixon's removal.

Ryan said the ad established the group as a political committee which must file reports of its contributions and expenditures with the Office of Federal Elections.

"I find and conclude that irreparable damage will be done to the integrity of our federal elections unless the relief sought is granted," Ryan said.

Charges dropped for 7

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—The government dropped conspiracy charges against the Harrisburg Seven Tuesday, conceding defeat in its 20-month battle to convict the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan of masterminding an antiwar plot to kidnap Henry A. Kissinger.

The decision came as U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman sentenced the 49-year-old Josephite priest to two years in prison for smuggling letters out of a federal penitentiary in 1970.

Berrigan, currently serving a six-year term for destroying draft records in Catonsville, Md., began serving the new sentence today. The two sentences will run concurrently. Sister Elizabeth McAlister, 32, the priest's close friend and collaborator in antiwar activities, was given a sentence of a year and a day on a similar conviction for exchanging the letters with the imprisoned Berrigan.

Berrigan has applied for parole from his sentence in the Catonsville conviction, but should it be approved he would continue to serve the sentence imposed Tuesday.

The priest and nun were convicted on the letter smuggling charges last April following an 11-week trial with five other defendants. The seven were also charged with the alleged conspiracy to kidnap Kissinger, blow up federal heating systems and raid draft boards in nine states. The jury was unable to reach a verdict on the conspiracy charges.

Defense attorneys, immediately after sentencing Tuesday, filed an appeal on the letter smuggling convictions. The case, which will go to the U.S. 3rd Circuit Court of Appeal in Philadelphia, would probably not be heard until 1973.

Charges dropped

GI murder trial starts

FT. ORD, Calif. (UPI)—The Army claimed tight security on this base today for the opening of the trial of a GI accused of murdering two officers.

Pvt. Billy D. Smith, 24, of Los Angeles, faced the death penalty if convicted in the 1969 so-called "fragging" trial. He is the only person being tried in the nation who is known to be facing capital punishment, which recently was held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Smith also has been accused of trying to kill Capt. Randall L. Kirby and 1st Sgt. Billy E. Wilby and of assaulting two military policemen.

4 veterans free on bail

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas in an "unusual" move has overruled a lower court's order to drop four members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War from bail.

Douglas' order Tuesday superseded an Aug. 22 decision by Justice Lewis F. Powell, who oversees the Florida federal court which has jurisdiction in the case. Powell had denied without comment the request for bond.

A Supreme Court spokesman said Douglas' action was "unusual, but not unprecedented." The spokesman said new evidence had been presented to Douglas.

The veterans—Robert Wayne Beverly, John Victor Chambers, William Bruce Horton and Jack L. Jennings—were jailed Aug. 9 in Florida on civil contempt charges. The allegations arose from their refusal to answer questions about alleged plans to demonstrate at the Republican National Convention.

In ordering the four released on bail, Douglas cited evidence of alleged illegal wiretapping. The wiretaps, Douglas said in a statement, had been allegedly used against the attorneys representing the four men.

Way paved for trial

PARFIBED, Calif. (UPI)—Juan V. Corona provided the state with samples of his handwriting Tuesday, thereby paving the way for the start of his trial on charges of hacking 25 field workers to death.

Corona ended a lengthy dispute in which he and his attorney, Richard E. Hawk, were found in contempt of court twice. Hawk spent two days in jail and Corona was fined each time.

The mass murder suspect gave samples of both printing and writing with a pen and pencil in the presence of the prosecutor, judge and a crime lab expert.

Nevada lawyer wins nomination

RENO (UPI)—James Bilbray, a "new politics" lawyer from Las Vegas, won the Democratic congressional nomination Tuesday from 10-term Rep. Walter S. Baring.

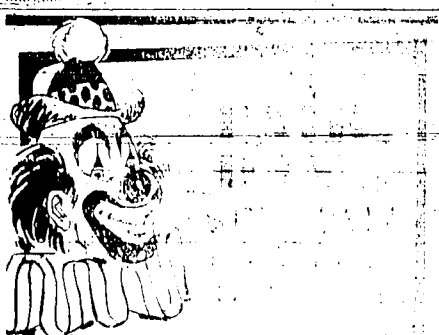

With 90 per cent of the precincts counted in Nevada's primary election, Bilbray had 34,318 votes and Baring 29,006. Oscar Brooks of Las Vegas had 1,380.

David Towell, 35, a real estate man from Minden, won the Republican nomination from four other candidates. He had 12,752 votes to 10,849 for William Byrnes, a Las Vegas teacher. Trailing were Robert J. Edwards, a self-styled ombudsman from Reno, 2,622; Wayne Goodin of Las Vegas, 2,149; and Mike Markoff, Las Vegas rancher, 1,784.

In the only other statewide race, for supreme court justice, incumbent Cameron Batjer had 54,669. James Philip, Las Vegas, also won a job in the November election, defeating Leonard Root of Las Vegas, ousted with 2,860.

The turnout was 60 per cent, 129,000—predicted by some officials, but the news under 25 showed up. At the University of Nevada, Reno, Bilbray was nominated by a vote of 1,000 to 1.

Wallace interested in 1976 bid if he recovers from paralysis

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI)—Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama said Tuesday if he recovers sufficiently from his gunshot wounds and paralysis he would be interested in another presidential bid in 1976.

Wallace refused to make an endorsement in the current presidential contest at the Southern Governors' Conference, where Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was to get in pitch for the Nixon administration Tuesday night.

"I will take a position on this race, probably within the next few weeks," Wallace told a news conference. "Of course, that position might be that I won't take a position."

Wallace was asked at a poolside session with newsmen whether he was interested in running for president again after being shot down last spring at a Maryland political rally.

"My plans are now to make every effort to be here in '76," Wallace said. "If my health is good in '76, I will be interested."

While Wallace said he may or may not have an endorsement, he said "whoever wins the presidential election in November will have to have the support of the people who supported me."

Asked if Democratic nominee George McGovern was too liberal for him to support, Wallace said he didn't know about that. "But Sen. McGovern does have a pretty liberal posture."

McGovern met with the Southern Democratic governors Sunday night, and while a number said they would vote for him, only a few said they would campaign for him. All said President Nixon had a substantial lead in their states at this time.

Wallace sat listening intently at the conference business session Tuesday morning as Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel outlined details of his state's recent handgun control law.

NY paper won't endorse anyone

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI)—Newsday, the Long Island newspaper, announced today that it would break with tradition and no longer endorse candidates for political office.

The afternoon newspaper, the seventh largest evening daily in the country, in an editorial also criticized the recent endorsement by the International Executive Board of The Newspaper Guild for the union's endorsement of Sen. George McGovern for President.

The newspaper said that "we believe that a newspaper's primary obligation is not to tell its readers whom to vote for but to give them the kind of information they need to make thoughtful choices."

Newsday also commented that "we wonder if a newspaper can do its job as effectively as it should if people have a reason to infer, no matter how wrongly, that it favors certain candidates while shortchanging their opponents."

In its criticism of the Newspaper Guild endorsement, Newsday said there is enough unwarranted suspicion among readers and viewers about the alleged slanting of news without nourishing that suspicion.

"However, if it is wrong for a union that represents some newsmen to endorse a presidential candidate, isn't it equally ill-advised for a publisher to do the same and by implication identify his newspaper and his employees with a political party," Newsday said.

The editorial said "we intend to keep sounding off when the public trust is abused; but if we endorse a candidate and he wins, it could make it harder for us to maintain our independence and do our job properly."

Mexican officers hunt suspect in power killing

ENSENADA, Mexico (UPI)—Mexican authorities have launched a manhunt throughout Baja California in connection with the power struggle killing of the leader of a purportedly polygamous religious colony.

"We are combing the entire peninsula of Baja California mile by mile," Salvador Hiralles Barrera, chief of the state judicial police in Baja California, said.

The victim, Joel LeBaron, was beaten and shot south of this resort city last Monday, officers said. They identified Daniel Jordan, a native of Utah, as the suspect.

Also sought were Mexican citizens Gamaliel and Raul Rios Mendez and Andres Zarate Arista.

The investigators said LeBaron was killed in a dispute over leadership of the Colonia Vicente Guerrero 80 miles south of here.

LeBaron and other members of the Church of the First Born in the Fullness of Time were excommunicated years ago by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) because of their practice of polygamy, Mormon officials said.

The Baja California colony was under investigation for polygamy, which is prosecuted in Mexico, but no polygamy charges were filed, officers said.

In Salt Lake City, a Mormon official emphasized the Church of the First Born had "absolutely nothing" to do with the Mormon church.

More than 20 members of the LeBaron family, including Joel LeBaron's parents, were excommunicated in actions dating back 30 years, the Mormon church information office.

Anti-war bracelet out

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—A Marine lance corporal who wore a prisoner of war bracelet to "signify" his protest against the war in Southeast Asia says he has been ordered to take it off.

Michigan Gov. William G. Milliken's office announced Monday that the Marine, who was not identified, had written the governor complaining that his commanding officer made him remove the POW bracelet.

The Marine's letter said he was wearing the bracelet "to signify my protest of the Vietnam conflict, and to represent my sympathy for all prisoners of war and those missing in action as a result of that conflict."

The bracelets, known as POW-MIA bracelets, are sold by an organization of families of men who are either prisoners of war or missing in action. Each bracelet contains the name of a prisoner or missing man.

A check with Marine headquarters revealed Marine dress regulations forbid the wearing of bracelets in uniform, even though many officers in the commandants' office wear them.

"Perhaps there is just cause for such a regulation (banning bracelets), but sir, in this case don't you feel that leniency could be applied to the issue?" The Marine wrote.

Opponent surprises McClure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho congressman James A. McClure said today he is "surprised" by the actions of my senatorial opponent saying I might not debate him on the television network of Idaho Nov. 3.

McClure said he accepted the offer from the network before his opponent accepted and he accepted the offer "without any reservations or qualifications. I would not attempt to tell the network how to conduct their debate."

Davis said Monday he was concerned about reports from Washington that McClure might not keep the Nov. 1 taping date for the show. McClure said reporters had told him that Davis had included some qualifications in his acceptance of the debate so "it appears my opponent may be getting a little jumpy about appearing on TV when none of his partisan friends are on the panel."

Supports Demo

LEWISTON: Idaho-UPI — Carolyn Morse, Lewiston, who was a write-in candidate for First District Congresswoman in the August primary, said today she would support Democratic nominee Ed Williams in his bid for election.

Mrs. Morse called her "token candidacy" an effort to secure a response from Williams who was claiming he would listen to people.

"He did respond," she said, "by listening to other women and displaying a sensitivity to their situation in a subordinate position in this country."

Ludlow invites Hansen supporters

BLACKFOOT (UPI) — Campaigning in Blackfoot Tuesday, Willis Ludlow, candidate for the second congressional seat, issued an invitation to supporters of the defeated Republican senatorial candidate George Hansen. Hansen lost to James A. McClure in the state's Aug. 8 primary.

"George Hansen had considerable courage and a sense of responsibility when he blew the whistle on back-room political deals by the slick and the rich Republican elite," Ludlow said. "If George Hansen decides it is impossible for him to run in the congressional race, then the thousands of voters who can see that the 'insiders' do not permit them to be represented may well view my candidacy as worth supporting."

Ludlow admitted that Hansen and he have strong differences on many important issues.

Idaho 'enjoys' highest gas tax

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho rates among states with the highest gas tax per gallon in the nation. According to a survey by the Commerce and Clearing House News Bureau in Chicago there are only nine states which outrank Idaho's 8.5 cents per gallon tax.

They are Connecticut, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Vermont, Virginia, and Washington.

According to the survey, Idaho's increase on gas taxes over the last six years has been as much as any other state, with the exception of Connecticut, and more than a majority of states.

Since 1961, 43 states and the District of Columbia have opted for higher rates per gallon with only Alabama, Hawaii, Nevada, Ohio, Oklahoma, Tennessee, and Texas holding the line at the decade-age levels.

The survey did point out that between 1961 and 1966, Idaho stood firm at a six cents per gallon gas tax.

So far this year, the survey said, Kentucky, Maryland, and Virginia upped their rates from 7 to 9 cents per gallon and Idaho went from 7 to 8.5 cents. New York and New Jersey went from 7 to 8 cents, and South Carolina joins them this month.

Mississippi boosted its rate from 6 to 9 cents (effective July, 1973) and Missouri went from 5 to 7 cents a gallon in August.

THANKS—

To every person who shopped our store this past week. The response was far beyond our highest expectations.

Please accept our apology for the poor service you received. We did the best we could do. Even with many extra salespeople, including several factory representatives, it was physically impossible to help each one of you in the manner of which you are accustomed and deserve.

We made the final settlement with our Insurance Company as of Saturday Night, and wish to express our appreciation to them for their personal attention, understanding and complete cooperation. At their suggestion we have decided to leave the FIRE SALE price tags on all remaining items left and we urge each of you to find time to come in and scrutinize these items. In addition to the Fire Sale items, we have brought hundreds of items from our track-side warehouse, which we want to clear so we will have room for the Fall Shipments due to arrive soon.

Due to the urgency of the situation and the pressures created by our crisis we have had to give up our booth in the Merchants Building at the Fair for the first time since we have been in business. With the crowds anticipated during Fair Week we just don't have the manpower or the time to participate this year. We urge everyone to support Your Fair. We will close at 1 o'clock Thursday and will expect to see all of you at the Fair.

WE INVITE EVERYONE INTO OUR BIG STORE THIS WEEK TO PARTICIPATE IN OUR FINAL CLEAN UP OF OUR FIRE SALE ITEMS.

Nixon makes openly political appeal to workers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Those who believed President Nixon would wage a leisurely, above-the-battle race for a second term apparently have another think coming, judging from the President's Labor Day statement.

It was an openly political appeal to the working man to join his "new majority," saying, in effect, that election of George S. McGovern in November would "ruin traditional American values of self-help and self-determination. The message, delivered from the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., caused furrowed brows among some Nixon aides who wanted their chief to be more "presidential" in the campaign.

Said Nixon: "We are faced this year with the choice between the 'work ethic' that built this nation's character and the new 'welfare ethic' that could cause that American character to weaken." He added, "The believers in the welfare ethic think it is unfair for some people to have much more income than others."

"The people who advocate the welfare ethic spend their time discussing how to cut up the pie we have, but those who believe in the work ethic want to bake a bigger pie and I'm for baking that bigger pie."

Without mentioning McGovern by name, the President linked him with the "social planners in Washington, many of whom basically believe that children should be raised by the government rather than by their parents."

Nixon also contended that inflation had been halved and jobs were being created faster than at any other time in 20 years, while hitting hard on the subject of job quotas.

Quotas, he said, were "intended to be a short-cut to equal opportunity but in reality they are a dangerous detour away from the traditional value of measuring a person on the basis of ability."

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, came back the next day and said this position did not mean the administration was abandoning the Philadelphia Plan, its much-heralded scheme for requiring contractors on government housing project to include racial minorities in their work force at the same ratio as exists in a community. "A quota is something you can enforce or establish within a framework of an organization," Ziegler said in explaining the apparent contradiction. "If a contractor does not meet those guidelines then he simply does not participate in the government contract."

In his statement, Nixon framed the question as he would like the choice to be considered election day: "Does the American working man want to turn over a large part of his economic freedoms to economic theorists who think they can permanently manage the economy with a system all their own?"

The answer, he obviously believes, is "no."

Shoshone okays payment on new sewage system

By MELBA THORNE
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone City Council approved the 10th payment in amount of $46,498.32 to Hartwell Excavating Co., Idaho Falls, at the Tuesday night meeting.

This payment gives the construction company all but $63,694.04 of the total $636,440.38 for installation of the Shoshone sewer system. The $63,694.04 is to be withheld during a trial test period of the system.

The council announced there are 165 sewer hookups in service, 268 permits having been issued out of a possible 500. People are again reminded by the Council that they must have permits before their sewer hookups are covered.

In other business the council approved building permits to Dr. R. G. Neher for remodeling interior and replacing a chimney on a house in block 16 and to Bernard Guenechea for adding a garage and remodeling a residence in block 1 Mountain View addition. Approval was given for transfer of a beer license from Eloise Guenechea at the South Side Market to Virginia Larsen who will be doing business as Larsen's Market.

A lease with Union Pacific Railroad was signed for use of the park and platform site at the depot in Shoshone. The lease runs from April 1, 1972, to March 31, 1977, at a rental rate of $5 for the contract term.

Bartender permits were issued to Diana Reeves, Karen A. Burden and Edward Carothers.

Release sought of Rupert man

RUPERT — Idaho's Supreme Court has been petitioned to issue a writ of habeas corpus to grant the pre-trial release of Joseph Arturo Ybarra.

The petition, submitted by Twin Falls defense attorney E. R. Frachiseur, says that Ybarra is being unlawfully deprived of his liberty by the Minidoka County Sheriff.

Ybarra is being held in the county jail in lieu of $10,000 bond. He is charged with the forcible rape and assault with a deadly weapon of a Rupert woman on Aug. 9.

On Aug. 23 Fifth District Magistrate Lloy Blacker granted a motion by the prosecution for a 30-day continuance of the preliminary hearing in order to secure state's evidence that had been sent to the FBI crime lab for analysis.

In the same action he denied a change of venue requested by the defense.

The city received $156.50 from magistrate court for the city's share of fines the past month.

The council authorized a check on the title of some of the city park property in a study to be made regarding that as a possible site for a swimming pool.

Solons take dispute with governor to road

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The co-chairmen of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee took their budget dispute with Gov. Cecil D. Andrus on the road Tuesday.

Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, and Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, told press conferences in two different cities they had requested that the governor rescind his ordered 1.3 per cent holdback in general fund spending.

At a morning press conference in Boise, High and Roberts made public a letter in which they "respectfully" requested that Andrus lift the holdback he imposed last month for all state agencies.

Andrus, according to UPI, said he had not read the letter transmitting the request, but added he had no intention of reversing his earlier position.

At an afternoon press conference in Twin Falls, the home legislative district of both legislators, High and Roberts added details to their request, saying state tax revenues exceeded last year's receipts by wide margins, and even went beyond legislative estimates of last winter. They also cited serious damage to state agencies left short of funds.

"The actual performance of our tax base is such that we can all be optimistic about ending the 1973 fiscal year in the black," High said.

Roberts added "there is absolutely no necessity of imposing that holdback at the present time." He said that if a deficit budget appeared likely later in the year, the legislature would be meeting in Boise and could apply its own corrective measures to the economy.

But both High and Roberts professed optimism over the performance of the economy. Roberts cited what he said were State Tax Commission receipts for the past four months which show an increased state sales tax revenue of 12.5 per cent over a year ago and 3 per cent over legislative projections.

Receipts from personal income tax are increased by 25 per cent over a year ago, he said; cigarette sales tax revenues are up by 18.6 per cent, insurance premium taxes up by 12.5 per cent, with only the corporate income tax showing a loss of 2.3 per cent.

Both legislators claimed that Andrus was being overly pessimistic in viewing income figures for the state. They said the executive was using a long-term running average to compute revenue projections, while the legislature used figures from an eight-month span and U. S. Department of Commerce projections.

But both men, who said they wrote the letter as "an individual action," without a meeting of the remainder of the joint committee, said they had no other powers but to make the request of the governor.

They also said they could request that the governor exempt certain state agencies, such as the Department of Education, or the state penitentiary from his holdback order but ruled that out for the present.

High and Roberts told the Twin Falls newsmen they were making the request for a second reason — the harm they foresaw for education, health and welfare agencies of the state. The holdback, if it continues in effect for the remainder of the year, would cut approximately $900,000 from the spending powers of the State Department of Education. The difference, the legislators wrote, that would be made up by an increased certification for local property taxes.

"We do not believe that a local property tax should be imposed by governor's edict," they wrote. "This is an automatic levy. The board of education has no choice but to order the increased property tax of more than $900,000.

property taxpayers have no appeal."

High said later, however, that the two men were "second guessing the state board of education," and added "we shouldn't second guess the state board." He added quickly, though, that he would, if a member of the state board, certify the increased taxes to make up for the funds being held back.

Roberts read from a portion of the Idaho Code which directed the state board to take into account any shortfall of funds when ranking their levy certifications for the year.

Both men also agreed that the state's basic money management laws need overhaul. "The financial management of the state is going to be a problem until we can somehow modernize our very out of date and archaic laws regarding money management," High said.

Study set for 2 valley sites

TWIN FALLS — Five Department of Interior experts will begin a study of two Magic Valley areas Sept. 18.

The group will be headed by Paul Fritz, Craters of the Moon superintendent.

Fritz, attending a Motel Association meeting in Idaho Falls, told the Times-News by telephone today the group will meet Sunday night, Sept. 17 in Twin Falls and go first to the Cassia County City of Rocks for an environmental study and evaluation, and will then move into the Thousand Springs area for a similar study.

He said in addition to himself the team will include two representatives of the National Park Service regional office in Seattle and two from the Denver staff. In addition he said he plans to ask for assistance from the Idaho Fish and Game Department, U.S. Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management in this area.

The study was announced today by U. S. Rep. James McClure, R-Idaho, and was approved by George B. Hartzog Jr., National Parks director.

Fritz said the study will cover natural, historical and recreational aspects of the two areas.

"We have 10 days of field work," he said, "and will follow this with some time in preparing written reports."

Fritz said the written report will probably contain several alternatives and will likely lead to some type of legislation introduced in the coming session of Congress.

In the case of Thousand Springs, the Magic Valley Recreation Council, now headed by Robert Erkins, Buhl, has been instrumental in calling for the study and for a national monument classification of some type.

Fritz said there are some 18 different categories in the National Park system and the study will attempt to recommend a classification for the two areas in question. He said, depending on the classification, the City of Rocks might be restored to the extent of removal of existing roads with closure to traffic other than by means of an established transportation mode such as horse drawn vehicles.

Both areas would be viewed from future administration suitable and acceptable to the local people. Working ranches within the areas would be retained as they now are, he said.

Erkins said the Magic Valley Recreation Council has already completed much ground work in the Thousand Springs area. He said removal of the Idaho Power Plant, as indicated by Fritz, has been discussed with power company officials and the company is willing to cooperate in a long range or even short range procedure as determined in final legislation.

Erkins said the council favors a national monument designation for the area covering much of the Thousand Springs area of Hagerman Valley. Included would be Box Canyon and Blind Canyon where some development has already begun and should be controlled; Blue Hole Springs, sand dunes and the west shore of the river to the existing wildlife refuge, Sand Springs Ranch, the old stage coach area, islands of Snake River and the "horse pits" where prehistoric horse bones have been discovered.

Erkins said the recreation council has already accomplished many goals including establishing Niagara Springs Park, acquiring land for the Malad Gorge State Park and preserving Banbury Springs as a Boy Scout camp.

He said no opposition is anticipated to a national monument in the Thousand Springs area from private land owners. All have been contacted and indicate an agreement with a plan to preserve the area, including Idaho Power Co.

The removal of the plant would mean loss of a power producing source which is economical to the company and would mean a tax revenue loss to Gooding County, he said.

Erkins said this is probably the first time a group of private citizens such as the Magic Valley Recreation Council has asked the federal government to restore an area.

Rupert upgrades sewage facilities

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The Rupert City Council voted Tuesday to begin action on a $1.5 million upgrading of sewage treatment facilities.

The council, after hearing a report by consulting engineer Jim Voeller, authorized Mayor Wendell Johnson to sign papers seeking federal and state funding for the project.

The engineering report calls for additions to the existing sewage treatment plant and construction of interceptor sewers. The additions would complete secondary treatment facilities at the plant, meeting existing and proposed state treatment requirements.

Voeller estimated that the Environmental Protection Agency will supply 55 per cent of the funding, with the state's share at 25 per cent and the local cost about 20 per cent.

Shoshone to get new BLM complex

SHOSHONE — Plans for construction of a $130,000 office complex for the Bureau of Land Management in Shoshone were released by O'Dell Frandsen today.

Frandsen, district manager for the BLM, said the office complex site has been selected and purchased and the basic floor plan drafted for the facility, as well as the appropriation bill having been signed.

The office building will be the first of two phases in the expansion program to be carried out over a period of time. The bureau is planning for construction of a storage and maintenance compound adjacent to the facility on the same site.

Construction of the compound is scheduled for the second phase of the program. Frandsen said the agency will let bids for the first phase structure prior to July 1, 1973, with completion date anticipated for late fall, 1973.

The primary advantage of the new building, Frandsen said, will be in providing adequate office space. The present building was constructed over 20 years ago as office space for the Taylor grazing service and is not now providing necessary operating area.

Burley council approves sewer service for firm

By LePAGE LAYTON
Times-News writer

BURLEY — The Burley City Council gave Mayor Garis Robertson authority to negotiate an agreement allowing the Boise Cascade box factory city sewer service.

"The action was taken at a City Council meeting Tuesday night. The city will retain control of the hookup with the right to terminate the agreement in the event the effluent exceeds agreed upon limits for gallstone and oils, greases and acids."

Boise Cascade has upgraded a primary treatment plant so that the effluent amount is now about 10,000 gallons per day. When an earlier request for city sewer service was made, the effluent totaled about 40,000 gallons per day and contained more grease, oils and acids than it does now.

The charge the city will make to the company for the hookup will be determined after further study.

William Coburn and son, Tim Coburn, Boise, requested a letter of recommendation and approval from the council for a housing development on Albion Avenue, south of 27th street. A four-acre plot has been acquired and the firm plans to build 18 homes on the site. Three floor plans in the $18,000 to $21,000 price range will be offered.

The council agreed to accept the developer's streets, curbs and gutters and connect city sewer and water lines to development lines when they are completed. Mayor Robertson was authorized to issue the requested letter.

Bids for materials for the sprinkler system for the Burley Municipal Golf Course expansion were opened. The five bids submitted were Wes Welding, Burley, $12,165.10; Waterworks Equipment Co., Boise, $11,602.30; Amcor, Inc., Pocatello, $13,042.30; Consolidated Supply Co., Boise, $10,131.38; Grinnell, Inc., Pocatello, $12,002.70.

Consolidated Supply Co. was the apparent low bidder and the council gave the bid preliminary acceptance. If the bid is approved by the golf course committee and the architect's engineer, final acceptance will be made.

The City Council meeting was to have been a protest hearing in the matter of banning parking on 16th Street for two blocks on both sides of the intersection with Overland Avenue. Since no notices were sent to property owners, Police Chief Ken Barry was instructed to contact residents of the area and report their reactions at the next council meeting.

Jerome hears LDS plans

JEROME — The Jerome City Council took no action Tuesday night on the controversy over rezoning and annexing the proposed four acre LDS Church site.

Following a Friday hearing, the Jerome Zoning Commission recommended the property be rezoned to first residential.

Bremer Heights subdivision residents objecting to the church construction attended both meetings. Charles L'Horsion, spokesman for the residents, said the objections were mainly due to expectation of heavy traffic on streets serving the area.

He said he felt that placing a high use facility in a residential area reflected poor planning. He asked that a decision be postponed and proposed that the LDS form a new building committee to meet with a committee of Bremer Heights residents, a City Council representative and the city attorney to discuss selection of a new site.

Ross Lee, spokesman for the church, said the site meets all requirements of the LDS Church Building Committee in Salt Lake City. He noted the building would serve two wards with about 500 members each, and discussed the number of cars which would be using the streets in the area. He said he didn't think the traffic increase would be too great.

Lee said that construction of a church is good for the spiritual and economic growth of a community and said he doesn't favor a new committee. He also noted that construction of a church usually attracts quality home construction to an area.

He presented a petition bearing signatures of about 61 area residents who do not object to the church or to the traffic.

The property is presently zoned agricultural and must be rezoned first residential to permit church construction. Annexation is necessary to provide needed sewer and water services.

Councilman Marshall Everheart objected to the plans because the church would be built on C Street right of way. He said C street is presently a through street and it shouldn't be blocked. A final decision was not made.

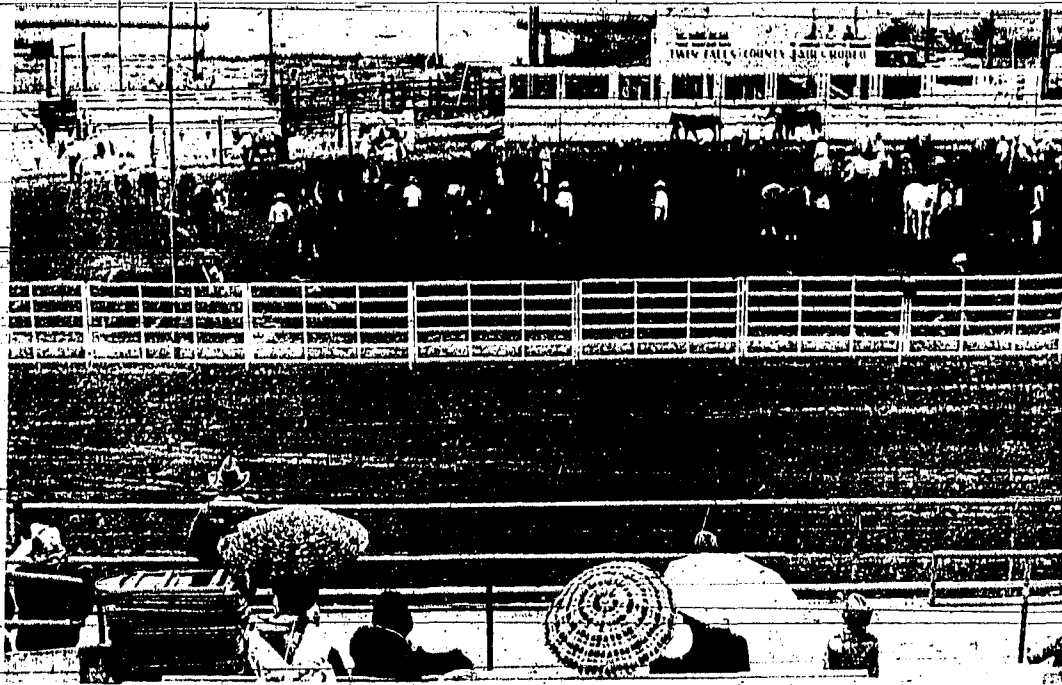

Moore Business Forms made a formal request in a letter to the council for rezoning and annexation of 29.57 acres of land purchased from Kelle Smith as a plant site.

State aides halt virus

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State and federal officials think they have finally halted a virus that has ravaged that state's bird population.

But they are not yet ready to declare victory over Newcastle disease, a highly contagious virus that has a 90 per cent mortality rate among birds but does not affect humans.

"It's not rampaging through the bird population at this time," said Dr. Pat Smith of the State Agriculture Department, "but now comes the toughest part — zeroing in on any new infections and wiping the virus out."

Smith, chief of the department's Animal Health Bureau, said a federal-state task force fighting the disease is finding few new infections in the eight county quarantine area in southern California.

A spokesman for the task force headquarters in Riverside said "we're not prepared to say it's under control, but everything has been vaccinated at least once."

The disease was first discovered last November in the Fontana area. Smith said it apparently was brought into the state through some imported pet birds.

Since the task force began operations in March, officials have destroyed 3.7 million birds — most of them chickens — and paid $6.4 million in federal money to reimburse poultry farmers for their lost flocks.

The task force, which includes a mixture of about 1,200 state and federal workers, has had difficulty wiping out the virus because of Southern California's large bird population.

It's almost wall-to-wall chickens in that area," Smith said. "And this virus can be carried on people's clothes, farm machinery, everything. Some people say it has moved from one area to another in a high wind."

But officials have been successful in containing the virus in the quarantine area — Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, Ventura, San Bernardino, Riverside, San Diego, Imperial and Orange counties. Small outbreaks in Tulare, Kings and Kern counties have been snuffed out quickly.

While the quarantine has helped in the fight against the disease, it has added an extra burden on the poultry industry because of restrictions against transporting birds out of the area.

The dent in the area's bird population left by the virus also has spelled financial doom for many Southern California poultrymen.

Smith, asked about the effect of the disease on the poultry industry, said, "It's bad, when you consider that this area has 10 to 15 per cent of the egg-laying industry in this country."

"They're (the industry) operating at a loss now and have been for several years."

HARTFORD, Conn. — The 106th annual session of the National Grange is scheduled in Hartford, Nov. 13-21.

Committee reports will follow and continue throughout the session. Exhibits will be open to the public beginning Monday morning. Youth attending the Session will begin to arrive Nov. 15. Youth headquarters will also be the Hartford Hilton.

Aphids control overpopulation

MOSCOW — Green peach aphids seem to have two built-in controls to offset overpopulation, according to research conducted by Hossein Hodjat, visiting professor of entomology in the University of Idaho College of Agriculture.

Aphids in high density populations have lower reproduction rates, Hodjat said. In addition, the usually wingless aphids also develop wings, enabling excess population to fly off host trees.

Hodjat's work on aphid population growth factors and effects of overpopulation is part of a University of Idaho research program on the green peach aphid, Idaho's major potato pest. University entomologists expect to use the findings to help formulate and carry out control programs to eliminate the aphid threat to potatoes and other crops.

In laboratory experiments Hodjat varied population density, type of host plant and aphid biotype. Temperature, day length and humidity were kept constant. Hodjat emphasized that laboratory conditions could not include all natural variables affecting population growth, such as predators and food conditions.

Gem prof spending leave in Denmark

MOSCOW — Dr. James W. Guthrie, professor and plant pathologist in the Plant Science Department at the University of Idaho, will be a guest research scholar at the Danish Government Institute of Seed Pathology for Developing Countries, Copenhagen, during a one-year sabbatical leave.

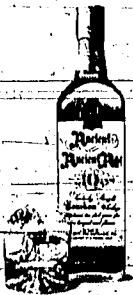

While at the Institute, Guthrie will conduct research on the detection and identification of bacterial and viral pathogens in vegetable seeds. The results of his research will contribute to the Danish institute's international program to assist developing nations in organizing their own seed health certification schemes.

The Danish Government Institute of Seed Pathology for Developing Countries, established in 1967, also trains researchers and teachers from developing countries in the principles of seed pathology and seed health testing and serves as an advisor in the implementation of university courses and research on problems of transmission and control of seed-borne diseases in these countries, Guthrie said.

Nebraska overwhelming favorite in grid poll

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nebraska is an overwhelming favorite to repeat as major college football's national champion this year, according to the United Press International's Board of Coaches pre-season ratings.

In fact, teams from the Big Eight Conference have been designated the first three places in the ratings by the 35-member board. Colorado, a loser only to Nebraska and Oklahoma last season, has been placed second in the pre-season analysis and Oklahoma, which lost only to Nebraska last year, has been tabbed third. Another Big Eight school, Iowa State, was ranked 19th.

Nebraska received 20 first place votes and 332 points from the coaches while Colorado got four first place mentions and 264 points. Oklahoma received two first place votes and 255 points.

The only other schools to receive first place mention were Ohio State and Arkansas. Ohio State received two first place votes, and 170 points to rank fourth and Arkansas got one first place vote and 172 points to place fifth.

Fish, game unit sets open house

BOISE — The Idaho Fish and Game Department will host a statewide "open house" Saturday, Sept. 23.

The open house will be at its Boise headquarters and regional offices in Coeur d'Alene, Lewiston, McCall, Garden City, Jerome, Pocatello, Idaho Falls and Salmon; as well as all wildlife management areas, fish hatcheries and other installations.

Open house activities throughout the state are in connection with National Hunting and Fishing Day, proclaimed by President Richard M. Nixon and most state governors, including Cecil D. Andrus, governor of Idaho.

Hunting and Fishing Day is set aside as a time to acquaint the public with the important part hunters and fishermen of the nation are playing in the field of conservation, holding down pollution and the conservation of wildlife.

Governor Andrus urged all citizens to acquaint themselves "with their heritage in these great natural resources and the environment of Idaho, and to give particular recognition to those citizens who have lent their support and dedicated a good portion of their lives to the proper management of these renewable resources for future generations."

Cash breaks right thumb

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates announced today that second baseman Dave Cash broke his right thumb in a game against the Philadelphia Phillies Monday and would be out of action for about two weeks.

A team spokesman said Cash suffered the injury in the first inning of the second game of a Labor Day doubleheader when he caught a ball on his bare hand during a rundown play.

Pirate officials thought at first Cash suffered a severe bruise. However, X-rays disclosed that the thumb was broken.

Richey upsets Laver, Smith advances in tennis tourney

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Second seeded Rod Laver, "the player of his generation," tumbled out of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships, Tuesday, beaten by Cliff Richey, 3-6, 7-6, 7-6, 6-3.

Laver, who had to struggle to beat Jaime Fillol of Chile in the third round, was the winner here in 1969, when he completed his second Grand Slam of the world's major events.

Rod, 34, started as though he were in complete command of his game — and of Richey, the 26-year-old San Angelo-born player.

Service troubles began plaguing Laver in the second set. He seemed completely disheartened as the match progressed. Richey moved strongly into Rod's second second service throughout. Cliff gained set point twice in the second set before Rod hung on to force the tie break, then demolished Rod, five points to one to pull even in the match.

The third set followed service through 10 games before Richey broke Rod at love for 6-5. Laver battled back and got the game back when Cliff could hold only one point, and they were at tiebreak again.

Laver lost the first two points on his own service, being long with a back hand and missing a corner. He hauled himself back to 3-3, and then to 4-4, but netted a back hand return of service after choosing the court to which Cliff would serve. Rod had taken the service court to his left.

The final set saw one last valiant stand by Laver, who came back from 3-1 to fight his way to 5-3. But Richey was not to be denied and closed out the match on his own service at 30. Rod missed a running forehand and — then — was long — on a backhand return.

Richey thus moved into the quarters, where he will meet Fred McMillan.

Also moving up were top seeded and defending champion Stan Smith, who labored mightily before overcoming Andres Gimenez, 2-6, 7-6, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

Falcons get kickoff man

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Atlanta Falcons acquired running back Hampton, the NFC's third leading kickoff-returner last season, from the Green Bay Packers Tuesday in exchange for starting offensive tackle Malcolm Snider.

Hampton, a 210-pound fourth-year man from the University of Wyoming, has been the Packers' leading receiver in pre-season games this year and has a 6.6 yard rushing average. Snider, also in his fourth pro year, is a 250-pounder from Stanford.

Tamara Kellier, Herzinger marry

CASTLEFORD — The Buhl Ward LDS Church was the setting for the marriage of Tamara Jo Kellier and Kim C. Herzinger Aug. 10.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kellier. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Loren Herzinger, all Castleford.

Bishop D. Monte Davis performed the double ring ceremony before background arrangements of orange gladioli and yellow chrysanthemums accented with avocado green and yellow bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of organza over taffeta featuring a lace bodice and lace Juliet sleeves. The high neckline was of lace and seed pearls. Lace trimmed the hemline of the gown and the chapel-length train. Her floor-length veil of bridal illusion was held in place by a band of seed pearls. The veil was trimmed with Chantilly lace.

She wore a necklace given her by the bridegroom and carried a handkerchief carried by her mother at her wedding. She carried a cascade bouquet of orange and yellow roses, yellow and white chrysanthemums and white carnations tipped with orange, accented with avocado green, orange and white streamers.

Maid of honor was Nancy Green, Rigby, cousin-of-the-bride. Bridesmaids were Rhonda Groom, Rigby, cousin of the bride; Debbie Kellier, Buhl, sister-in-law of the bride, and Sherry Wright, Castleford. Janet Kellier, Castleford, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid and Carol Fisher, Twin Falls, was flower girl. Jerry Lawson, Idaho Falls, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer.

Rance Herzinger, Boise, served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Nels Pederson, Portland, Ore., brother-in-law of the bridegroom; Kenneth Allred, Castleford; Roland Kellier, Buhl, and Roger Kellier, Castleford, both brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Evelyn Allred was organist and Connie Kinyon was soloist.

After the ceremony, a reception and dance were held in the cultural hall of the church. Music was furnished by Dale Platt's Orchestra.

The bride's table was covered with white lace over avocado green. The three-tier heart shaped cake was decorated with green and yellow flowers and topped by satin bells. Flanking the cake were two heart shaped cakes bearing the names of the bride and bridegroom. Tapers in silver holders and arrangements of yellow chrysanthemums decorated the table.

Cindy Pederson, Portland, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book. Sonia Herzinger, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Mary Green, aunt of the bride, served punch. The mints for the wedding were made by Mrs. Matt Prell and the cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Leonard Walcott. Reception assistants were Mrs. Ruth Senten and Gladys Sill.

Mrs. Ruth Groom, Shirley Rose, Naomi Wing and Jackie Ledbetter were in charge of the gifts.

The bride was honored at pre-nuptial parties by Mrs. Bob Kinyon, Mrs. Hank Gandiaga, Mrs. Jack Kinyon, Mrs. Rolie Senten, Mrs. Sid Wiggins, Mrs. Boots Johnson, Mrs. Bob Becker and Mrs. Jake Stahlacker at Castleford and by Mary Green and Jeanette Lawson, aunts of the bride, in Rigby.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the R and R Cafe on Aug. 17 by the parents of the

TF couple exchanges nuptial vows

TWIN FALLS — Patricia Rae Light and Randell L. Given were married in an 8 p.m. ceremony Aug. 10, at the First Christian Church, Twin Falls. Rev. Ray Jones performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with blue tapers in white candelabra trimmed with pink and white gladioli, blue bows and greenery and flanked by white baskets of pink and white gladioli tied with blue bows. An arrangement of pink and blue gladioli on the organ completed the setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Leona Light, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Wayne Modlin and the late Lyle Given, Twin Falls.

Given in marriage by her brother, Donald Light, Leriston, the bride wore a traditionally styled floor-length gown of Chantilly lace. Seed pearls and sequins detailed the square neckline of the gown and the lace gathered to a rose made of lace on the skirt front. Falling gracefully from the traditional waistline, the lace tiers of the gown's skirt formed a chapel-length train.

Her shoulder-length veil of silk illusion was held by a crown of tulle covered petals accented with pearls. She carried a trailing cascade bouquet of white daisies with blue streamers tied in love knots and wore a heart-shaped pendant centered with a cultured pearl, a gift from the bridegroom.

Jeanne Medan, San Jose, Calif., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Nancee Jones, Twin Falls, sister of the bride and Cindy Carlson, Coeur d'Alene, were bridesmaids. Flower girl was Quincy Medan, San Jose, Calif.; niece of the bride.

Robert Fisher, New Plymouth, was best man. Doug Bland, cousin of the bridegroom and Dave Johnston, both Twin Falls, were groomsmen. Dean Goodwin, Twin Falls, was ringbearer. Robert G. Jones, Twin Falls, and Rick Medan, San Jose, Calif., both brothers-in-law of the bride, were candle lighters.

Mary Louise Wedge, Aberdeen, was soloist accompanied by Mary Kay Boyd.

Church decorations and bridal party flowers were designed and made by Mrs. Margaret Jones of Kimberly Floral.

The couple was honored at a reception immediately after the ceremony in the church basement.

The bride's table was covered with a floor length skirt of white tulle over blue with greenery outlining the top. The table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake surrounded with green ferns. The cake was frosted with light blue frosting and decorated with white daisies with blue centers. Tall cherub decorated columns separated the second and top tier of the cake which held white satin wedding bells. Crystal candelabra with blue tapers flanked the cake.

A second reception table was decorated identically to the first and was centered with an arrangement of pink and white gladioli and greenery with a blue bow and flanked by crystal candelabra with blue tapers.

Diane Crismore, Buhl, was in charge of the guest book which was placed on a table covered with a floor-length skirt of white tulle. Debbie Goodwin, Twin Falls, presented wedding guests with thank-you scrolls and packets of rice.

Gifts were displayed on tables covered with white and blue with floor-length skirts by Ruth McKay and Becky Ulrich, both Twin Falls. John and Tom McKay received gifts at the church door and carried them to the gift table.

Serving refreshments were Mrs. Mary Carlson, Diane Kalakay and Beth Owens.

Guests were seated at quartet tables covered with a lace cloth over blue and centered with a brandy snifter containing pink gladioli and ferns. The women of the First Christian Church decorated the reception room and assisted with the reception.

Out-of-town guests attended from Wendell, Buhl, Hazelton, Boise, Filer, Coeur d'Alene, Mountain Home, Lewiston, Aberdeen, Idaho Falls, Kelchum, Nampa and New Plymouth. Out-of-state guests attended from Spokane, Wash.; Eugene, Ore.; San Jose, Calif.; Billings, Mont.; and Peoria, Ill.

The bride was honored at a pre-nuptial kitchen shower hosted by Mrs. Mary Carlson and Cindy in Spokane, Wash., and a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Robert G. Jones and Mrs. Rick Medan in Twin Falls at the home of Mrs. Jones.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to St. Louis, Mo., where the bridegroom has a fellowship for graduate study in anatomy at Washington University Medical School. The bride will return to Spokane for a month to complete her medical technologist internship at Deaconess Hospital. Both are graduates of the University of Idaho. They will reside at 9167 N. Swan, Brentwood, Mo.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How do you go about explaining to your mother that no matter how hard she tries she cannot pass off a 16-month-old baby as a 16-month-old infant?

My mother had a very good picture of my 16-month-old son taken with my brother's 16-month-old daughter, and she cut my son off that picture and pasted on a picture of my child taken when he was about 9 1/2 months old. She keeps trying to pass off her two grandchildren as the same age because she is ashamed of the fact that I was six months pregnant when I was married.

Count blessings, not months

When will she realize that her too-early grandson is not a mark against her, and that all babies are equally precious?

DEAR CONDEMNED: Give her time. Dear, and she will eventually start counting her blessings and quit counting the months.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from "SENSITIVE"—the only girl in an office with 10 men. She said she gets so nervous when they make personal remarks on her appearance. They notice when she wears a long skirt or a short one, pants or a dress, and even when she changes her hairdo. And they all have something to say about it.

Well, I also work in a one-girl office. Only there are 20 men in and out of this place all day. It's a taxi cab office. They also notice how I dress and wear my hair and I love it! I'd be hurt if they didn't say anything.

Believe me, it's better than working with a bunch of women who pick you apart when your back is turned.

My friends envy me with this job. I would never work with women again.

TRIED BOTH KINDS

DEAR TRIED: Lucky you! Cab drivers have a reputation for goodhumored kidding, lively chatter, and quotable comebacks. Better keep your identity to yourself. Kiddo. The Women's Libbers will snatch you baldheaded.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to obtain an impartial opinion in a controversy which arose in my family recently. My son is married and has two children, a daughter 12, and a son 10. We have always had a good relationship with our son and his wife. She works as a waitress and saves her tips in a small bucket which she keeps on her dresser. It usually contains about $100. My son saves half dollars, which he keeps in a glass jar on his bureau.

My son and his wife leave for work before the children get up for school, and the children come to my place for breakfast, as we are neighbors. The children are expected to get their bus fare and lunch money from these jars.

Several weeks ago my daughter-in-law noticed there was about $3.00 missing from her jar. She drove to the ice cream parlor where she found her daughter just leaving after having treated several of her friends. She admitted having taken the money from the jar. My son spanked her good and hard.

I maintain they should not leave the money where the children can help themselves, that their bus fare and lunch money should be laid out for them. My daughter-in-law says she wants to teach them to be trustworthy. My son agrees with her. What is your opinion?

CONCERNED GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GRANDMOTHER: I agree with you. Parents should demand honesty, but minimize the temptation.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 57000, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

TF Music Club Membership Tea set

TWIN FALLS — The annual Membership Tea of the Twin Falls Music Club, an affiliate of the National Federation of Music Clubs, will be held at 1 p.m. Monday at the YM-YWCA.

Mrs. Judson Pierson, Heyburn vocalist, will present the program. She sang lead roles in musicals such as "Carousel" and "South Pacific" while attending high school. While attending BYU she accompanied "Curtain Time USA" on a world tour sponsored by the United States State Department as part of the cultural exchange program. The group performed for civic groups, university students and royalty in 17 countries. Mrs. Pierson sang at the Vienna World ARTS Festival in Austria in 1965. Presently she is a vocal music instructor in Heyburn. He plans to ruff his two low clubs in dummy after East's queen of clubs has covered dummy's jack. That leaves South with two possible heart losers. A successful heart finesse will take care of one of them but South can find a better way.

He wins the club; plays two rounds of trumps, stepping in dummy, and reads dummy's queen of spades. East plays low and South discards his five of hearts. West wins and leads another club; South wins; ruffs a club; leads the jack of spades and discards the queen of hearts if East does not cover.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Item: The New York State Department of Health reports that 262,807 abortions were induced during 1971.

The statistic doesn't tell much about the people involved including the woman and the men who sometimes accompany a woman to an abortion clinic.

Mrs. Ardis Danon, assistant administrator, at PARKMED has been observing and talking with some of these people since that abortion center opened more than a year ago.

She has a master's in human sexuality and family planning. She supervises the social counseling staff at the abortion facility in a skyscraper.

The men who accompany some of the unmarried women are between the ages of 18 and 25, according to Mrs. Danon. As in waiting rooms outside obstetrical delivery suites, they read aimlessly, confide to strangers, pace the floor or stare.

The women in the waiting room, by contrast, are resigned, almost relaxed. The younger women have accompanied a friend.

Rockford, Boise's urban rooster, brings touch of country to city

BOISE (UPI)—Rockford, a transient but proud strutting rooster, has apparently settled down in a residential area just west of Downtown Boise.

His new home, which includes a makeshift roost on a clothesline pole and a strip of underbrush for daytime protection, was not without the perils a hard-crowed rooster may face.

The dangers included, dogs, cats, squirrels and irate humans.

"I woke up one morning and I heard this crowing. I couldn't believe it," Bill Simpson, 64, a retired electrical worker said.

The mystery of how Rockford arrived in the residential area has been solved.

Scott B. Whipple, 1503 Bannock St., told United Press International that he had brought the bird home after he found it wandering around in downtown Boise.

"I could have killed him sometimes when he crowed," Whipple said. "But I don't hear him much anymore. I guess I have become used to it."

Rockford has taken on his urban responsibilities with vigor. He begins crowing around 5:45 a.m. to awaken those in the neighborhood who have early shifts. Then he sends out a series of vocal blasts about 7:15 for the 8-5 and 9-5 working set.

The bird has been known to crow at 10, 11, and 11:30 a.m.

Neighbors — who by the way have been doing extensive reading on when and how roosters should crow — can not understand the late morning crows as well as a series of afternoon and early evening exhibitions.

The most logical, but unscientific, answer came from Simpson.

"He crows when he gets hungry. He really likes doughnuts. I throw him a half a doughnut every morning. One morning I forgot to feed him and he walked right up to my door and crowed," he said.

Simpson said the bird has created a close comradeship with the squirrels and even shares his food from time to time.

The cats in the neighborhood have received the rooster reluctantly, but Simpson said the bird is exceptionally large and can "stand his own ground."

Rockford found early in his urban career that dogs don't climb trees and he can outrun humans.

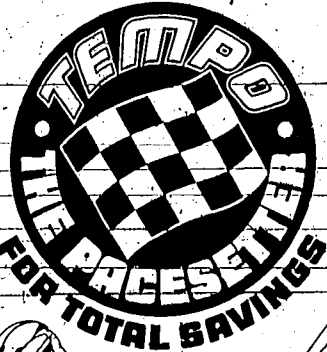

Simpson said he has watched persons try and corner the rooster without success.

The rooster has been known to crow more than 100 times in 24 hours, but residents in the neighborhood agree that he gives the city a touch of fragrant sounds from the country.

Rockford is this reporter's name for the rooster — I thought — I could assume the responsibility of naming him because I have listened to him crow going on three months now.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to force nothing of any type or description. Quietly, in a steadfast fashion, wind up and complete what has been in motion. Benefits will come later. Look at your surroundings and put them in perfect working order.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Listen carefully to any complaints co-workers may have. Strive to bring about more harmony at home. Take health treatments. Evening is best spent at home relaxing.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Working on creative ideas is good but going off on recreational activities that are too expensive is not. Come to a better understanding with mate. Show that you are thoughtful.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Relieve the tense condition at home by handling personal matters in a most thoughtful fashion. Smile more and avoid arguments. Think along more affluent lines. Be wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Much care in motion will be a safeguard against trouble tonight. Go over any writings or reports for possible errors. Make your meaning clear. Relax tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You think if you spend more money you can easily gain your aims, but this is not true now. Don't commit yourself financially or there could be serious repercussions. Be patient.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take whatever treatments will help you gain more energy now. Not a good day to attend a social affair. Ask for a ranch check and avoid possible danger. Take it easy tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure you handle duties that are important before you get into the specifics of a new plan you have in mind. You are able to help a friend who is having a troublesome time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you clear up that work ahead, you can go after a personal aim that means so much to you. Avoid an individual who brings nothing but trouble. Show that you have power.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you get into those civic tasks that you can do so well, you will gain much prestige. Be sure to pay an important bill. Don't waste time with losers. Avoid arguments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care of daily responsibilities before you start on those new ideas that mean so much to you. Later you can give new project your full and undivided attention.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talk over with kin important financial matters. Mate may be peevish, but be cheerful and all blows over nicely. Avoid a troublemaker in the evening. Be alert.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Give others the benefit of the doubt and have better relations with associates. Try not to argue with others and rest when you feel tired. Evening is fine for watching television.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those young people who loves to solve problems and will even create some in order to show ability at so doing. Give as fine an education as you can, stressing the practical. Give ethical training and spiritual knowledge early. Sports are a must here.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Another backshore paradise - it's said - is Kansas City. There, the single girl age 18 to 24 outnumber the unmarried young men by about 31,000 to 25,000. In the six-county metropolitan area around Kansas City, the census takers counted some 74,000 girls in that age bracket as opposed to about 60,000 men. Our Love and War man is considering another field trip.

HISTORY records the existence of certain rare human children whose on-tire bodies are covered with silky blond hair from four to nine inches long. A genetic peculiarity known as hypertrichosis ulnaris congenita. As you might envision, the physical appearance of these youngsters is absolutely stunning. For them there's not even the remotest possibility of what's usually termed a normal life.

BE specific: Say the average grown man is 19.3 times heavier than his 3.4 kilograms at birth. But the average grown woman is only 17.3 times heavier than her 3.8 kilograms at birth.

CHARCOAL Drug stores sell activated charcoal capsules. If you down some of same before drinking hard liquor, they'll absorb the impurities that cause hangovers. Such is the claim of numerous experts. Wake up feeling dandy, they insist. Never fails. Interesting, if true.

FROM an artistic point of view, which is the better looking, an unclothed woman or an unclothed man? The woman, most experts agree. As old Dr. W. H. Busch said: "The external appearance of a woman is more conformable to harmony and beauty." That widely quoted German observer Schopenhauer didn't agree, however. Was a mystery, he said: how anybody could see beauty in the female of the species. "That squat, narrow-shouldered, wide-hipped, short-legged sex."

Q. "What's the fastest game fish? How fast? And how do the experts know how fast?"
A. The snailfish. Nearly 70 m.p.h. When hooked, some have taken the line out that fast.

Q. "WHICH do you prefer, Louie - golf or bowling?"
A. Bowling. Lose fewer balls.

IT CANNOT be noted too often that happiness is different things to different people. A gentleman-subscriber, for instance, writes: "Happiness is recognizing the stag-party that the nude who jumps out of the cake is the girl who just moved into the apartment upstairs."

NOTE it stated again that multimillion dollar vehicle of the astronauts was left on the moon - rust. Left, certainly. But not to rust. Without the oxygen in the air - no air there - or in the water - no water there - nothing can rust, right?

Spirit of Simla gone

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
When Mrs. Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India, and Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, president of Pakistan, reached a measure of accord last July, the cordiality of their meeting and the hopes it held out for the future quickly became known as the "Spirit of Simla."

Perhaps it was a title pinned on by journalists succumbing to the temptation to apply a tidy label to the deeds of world leaders.

At any rate, it appeared shortly the Spirit of Simla might quickly go the way of the Spirit of Glassboro, which followed the meeting of President Lyndon B. Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin in 1967 and the Spirit of Camp David after the meeting of President Eisenhower and Nikita Khrushchev.

The goodwill generated by the Johnson-Kosygin meeting evaporated in the heat of the Vietnam War.

"The incident of the U.S. spy plane over Russia in 1960 erased results of the Camp David meeting."

Eight weeks after Mrs. Gandhi, the victor in the 1971 war with Pakistan, and Bhutto, the vanquished, concluded their meeting amid the towering peaks of the Himalaya Mountains the agreements they had reached appeared on the verge of collapse.

High up on the list of differences was the emotional issue of Kashmir, as it had been in three wars between India and Pakistan.

Another was Pakistan recognition of Bangladesh, into which China's veto of Bangladesh membership in the United Nations added a new factor.

And finally, there was the matter of some 94,000 Pakistani war prisoners held by India.

In India, there was a suspicion that Bhutto now was having second thoughts about the Simla agreements and was vacillating on carrying them out. It was for this reason that, late in August, India asked for a meeting of foreign ministers to clear the air.

India wants to reach a permanent settlement of the Kashmir question along the Dec. 17 cease-fire line, giving India roughly two thirds of the divided state and Pakistan one-third.

It now has been agreed that the matter will be settled by compromise.

On Bangladesh, Pakistan asked for more time.

"It still," said the Pakistan representative in a masterpiece of understatement, "is a little sticky."

India has said she will continue to hold the war prisoners until Pakistan recognizes Bangladesh, formerly East Pakistan, a position which could become of greater embarrassment to Mrs. Gandhi than to Bhutto because of world opinion.

Because of their geographical links, peace between India and Pakistan is a real necessity.

A major problem is flood control brought on by the fact the two nations share major rivers.

STINKY, that's the giraffe, seems to have stuck her nose into a lot of trouble as she meets Alice, the rhino, when they were removed from separate quarters and turned loose to roam freely among the cars of visitors to Lion Country Safari at West Palm Beach, Fla. Spokesman for the tourist attraction said the new integration, which includes the elephants, seems to be working out all right.

A crane lifting a $7,500 fiberglass swimming pool over a house and into a garden ran into trouble Monday. Part of the crane struck the roof, making a gaping hole in it. The pool fell into the garden.

Panda bears current fad throughout China now

SIAM, China (UPI)—Wherever you go in China you're apt to be greeted by a warm and friendly black and white face. It's the panda bear. He's almost as familiar a sight to the Chinese as their ancient pagodas and as popular as America's current fad, the happy face.

Although the giant panda can be found only in the steamy jungles of China's Yunnan province, not every Chinese zoo has one of the animals.

The panda may be extremely rare, but its image is not. Chinese manufacturers are turning out dozens of consumer products carrying the picture of the Asiatic mammal.

As for the panda's popularity, especially among Chinese children, some describe the scene as "near pandemonium" when a new panda product goes on sale.

Panda bear goods can be found in just about every village shop in China. For the children there are panda bear pens, pencils and school notebooks. Candy counters feature panda wrapped chews. Toy stores are filled with panda toys. There's a lifelike stuffed panda and a line of panda bear clothing for children bearing the "Panda Brand" label. There are panda products for just about every need in a Chinese household.

Mother can even buy a set of attractive panda pattern dinnerware to go with her panda tablecloth. She can also purchase panda water glasses and a line of foodstuffs bearing the animal's image. There are panda enamel wash basins, towels and toothbrushes.

The panda's picture also adorns the popular thermos bottle used in every Chinese household.

He can even be found in the bedroom. One company produces a line of panda bear bedclothes. Father hasn't been forgotten either when it comes to the panda fad.

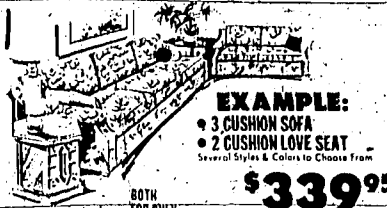

One of the best Chinese cigarettes is called Panda and bears the likeness of two of the giant bears clinging to their favorite food, the bamboo tree. The same picture adorns a deck of playing cards. As a gift for his wife, a Chinese husband might bring home one of decorative little glass or porcelain panda bear statues.
