By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Four men were injured when a light plane crashed near a home southwest of Hailey.

Federal Aviation Administration officials were expected to begin investigation into the crash today.

Two of the occupants of the plane were listed in good condition today at Blaine County Hospital, Police Chief Roy Evans said.

They are Gary Lynn Ellenor, 27, Caldwell, and Robert L. Strause, 47, Nampa.

Transferred from the hospital at Hailey to St. Alphonsus Hospital, Boise, Tuesday evening were the pilot, John Rawlins, 52, Nampa, who is reportedly a retired Air Force officer, and Dr. Robert A. Miller, 34, Moraga, Calif. Both are listed in serious condition today.

All the occupants of the craft were reportedly leaving after attending the Idaho Hospital Association Convention in Sun Valley.

The single engine Beachcraft Debonair crashed in a garden behind the Bill Whitaker home, one half mile southwest of the Friedman Memorial Airport, about 3:45 p.m. No injuries occurred on the ground.

Evans said the craft had just taken off from the north end of the field en route to Boise when the pilot apparently attempted to circle back to the runway. The officer said it was not determined at this time whether the engine stalled.

Mrs. Bill Whitaker was standing on the stairs of a second floor deck at the rear of her home when she said she saw the shadow of the plane through the front windows.

She said the nose of the plane struck the ground about 50 feet north of the house. The craft bounced, and the left wing tore out a deck support post, severely shaking the deck. The nose of the plane then hit an adjacent rock pile and the plane spun around, coming to rest pointing northeast in the garden directly behind the residence.

"I was standing there watching, petrified. I couldn't move," she said.

Bill Whitaker first saw the plane as he was working in a front room. He said the craft was "rocking from side to side and the nose was pitching."

"It looked like it was on the stall, attempting to get flying speed. I could see it was going to crash, but I didn't know where," Whitaker said.

Whitaker said he thought the engine was still running when the plane hit the ground.

He pulled three of the men from the plane as a fire broke out around the rudder pedals in front of the pilot's seat. All the men were believed to be unconscious.

About one minute later, Whitaker and other witnesses rechecked the plane and found a fourth passenger behind the pilot's seat, covered with coats. They pulled him from the craft.

The fire was extinguished by a garden hose and the Hailey Fire Department, which sent two trucks to the scene.

Witnesses said all the occupants had facial lacerations and that the pilot and the other front seat passenger sustained minor burns on their legs. All were taken in two ambulances to the nearby Blaine County Hospital.

Evans was assisted in his investigation by a Blaine County Sheriff's deputy.

Action sought to oust Israel

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Jordan called today for collective world action to oust Israel from the Arab territories it has occupied since the Six Day War of 1967.

Jordanian Foreign Minister Salah Abu Zeid, in a policy speech to the General Assembly, also pressed Jordan's proposal for creation of a new "United Arab Kingdom," with Arab Jerusalem as its capital, to accommodate the Palestinian Arab refugees.

"One of the issues raised during the current session," Abu Zeid said, "is the item on international terrorism. Jordan is opposed to violence whatever its source or methods."

"Jordan is ready to participate effectively in any international measures to protect innocent civilians against violence. At the same time Jordan, and I am sure all peoples of the world, support the right of an occupied people, every occupied people, to effectively resist occupation and colonialism."

Abu Zeid said the passage of years since the end of the 1967 war is turning the Middle East's "desperate situation into an intolerable one."

"Israel makes no pretenses about its determination to swallow up at least those substantial parts of Jordan which it already occupies. Peace, to the Israelis, seems no longer anything but an empty expression which is conveniently used in forums such as the United Nations; a use of language to conceal the aim."

"Experience tells us that the people under Israeli occupation are not looked upon as a community of human beings with a birthright expectation of continuity in their homeland. Rather, they are looked upon as things or obstacles to be removed at the appropriate moment of Israel's choosing."

"Hence the urgency of collective world action to bring about the speediest termination of occupation and the salvation of the multitudes in Israel's bondage."

Bonds OK'd

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

PAUL — Paul voters passed a $125,000 sewage bond issue by a wide margin Tuesday.

The vote tally showed 116 yes and 16 no.

The voters' approval will provide the city's share of a $256,786 secondary sewage treatment facility, to be built west of Paul.

The passed bond issue also meets federal and state orders that a secondary treatment facility be built.

Mayor Robert Larsen has said the new treatment facility will consist of non-overflow lagoons with connecting sewer lines from the present primary treatment plant.

City Atty. Larry Duff has said the bond costs will be paid through increased monthly sewer charges, which will not exceed a raise of $2.50 over the present $1. fee.

Duff also said the $125,000 bond will cover the city's cost in acquiring land and right of way and in paying related expenses.

Mayor Larsen said the tentative schedule calls for having plans and specifications ready to be submitted to the Idaho Department of Environmental Protection and Health by Nov. 1, opening bids for construction by Jan. 1, 1973, awarding the contract by March 1, starting work April 1, and completion by Nov. 1, 1973.

Proposals asked on TF schools

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Seven sub-committees, studying needs and priorities of Twin Falls School District 411 have been asked to come up with solid proposals by Oct. 17.

Gary Custer, chairman of the Citizens' Committee of School District 411, called for reports in a meeting Tuesday night. After long debate on the direction the committee is taking, asked each of the seven sub-committees to have "definite proposals" by the next meeting.

The committee was formed two months ago to study building needs of the district and set priorities for a proposed $3.3 million bond issue.

A list of suggested priorities was previously submitted by George Staudacher, school superintendent. He and members of the school board did not attend the Tuesday night meeting. Chairman Custer said they declined to attend, feeling citizens might speak more frankly and freely if they were not present.

Suggestions made Tuesday night included hiring an "outside" expert to conduct a study and make recommendations, and dissolving the present citizens committee structure and starting over.

Bill Lay, chairman of the sub-committee on junior high school and special education, recommended hiring an outside expert. He said in his report, "We do not know what we want. We do not know where we are going and we do not know what we need."

Several others attending disagreed with the suggestion, saying many hours of study and report preparation have already been spent by CTA Architects of Twin Falls. Many attending the meeting and serving on sub-committees said they were not aware the report was available.

Custer said any committee member who wishes to utilize the report may use a copy available in the office of the superintendent of schools. He also suggested the committee members go to the schools and interview the teachers and principals to better determine the needs of each.

"All of these people and their experience and are knowledge at your disposal," he told committee members.

Ralph Olmstead, who served on citizen committees planning bond issues for the two newer grade schools of the system and the Robert Stuart Junior High School, told the group they need a great deal more study and collection of ideas.

"This group has been asked to study the situation and make recommendations to the school administration. We have to reach a unanimous decision based on available information," he told the group. Olmstead said the citizens committee must reach an agreement on a sound program, recommend it to the school board and then be able and willing to go out and sell it to the voters.

Soviet US visit set next spring

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev will make an official visit to Washington next spring, diplomatic sources said today.

They said that this was agreed on during meetings at the White House and at Camp David Monday between President Nixon and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

The Soviet leader probably will come here in April but the sources declined to pinpoint the exact time.

During his historic visit to Moscow last May, Nixon extended an invitation to Brezhnev, Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Premier Alexei I. Kosygin to come to the United States. The invitation was announced at the time, Nixon's close adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, told newsmen in Moscow then that the visit would not take place until after the U.S. presidential election Nov. 7.

Soviet officials said then that all three men could not make the trip but indicated Brezhnev, who has emerged over the past year as the dominant member of the trio, probably would be the one to make the pilgrimage to America.

Since that time it had been generally speculated that the visit would take place some time early in 1973, assuming Nixon's re-election.

Diplomats said during their talks, Nixon and Gromyko nailed down plans for the visit although details are yet to be worked out.

Proposed welfare reform shelved by US Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted today to shelve all proposed welfare reform plans and retain the present, often criticized system for the next five to eight years.

Deeply divided and unable to agree on a solution to the welfare problem, the Senate voted to test competing solutions for two to four years.

With time taken to set up the tests in different parts of the country, carry them out for two to four years, evaluate the results and pass new legislation, the decision meant the present system will remain in effect at least until 1977 and perhaps until 1980.

In a letter sent each senator two days ago, HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson called the testing proposal "the worst outcome of all" to a welfare debate which has confronted Congress since 1969.

It was in August of that year that President Nixon denounced the existing system of aid for dependent children as a "mess" and called for change.

Liberals charged in the Senate that he subsequently abandoned his own plan, calling for a guaranteed income for all poor families, whether employed or not. Nixon's change of heart, they said, made reform impossible.

On Tuesday, the Senate turned down, 52 to 34, a liberal-backed solution to the welfare problem which would have guaranteed every family—employed or idle—a basic minimum income. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., led the opposition and the sharp division indicated that the Senate might, as it did today, decide to shove all proposals aside.

One hand in his pocket, the other slicing the air, Long shouted in Tuesday's debate that "any one of these guaranteed income-for-not-working programs could destroy the country."

He called them "loaf-fare" instead of welfare.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., author of the defeated plan, called Long's alternative approach "slaveware." It would require welfare mothers whose children are in school to take $2,400-a-year jobs.

Long said soon after any $2,400 or $2,600-a-year plan were enacted welfare recipients would pressure politicians to raise the minimum again.

How Idaho voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho's Senators voted to table a welfare reform proposal Tuesday, thereby killing it.

Sen. Len Jordan, R-Idaho, and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, were among 52 Senators casting votes to table the proposal. The move was approved, 53-34.

Jordan and Church were on opposite sides of a 55-32 vote which failed to invoke cloture and end a filibuster blocking action of establishment of a consumer protection agency. Church voted for cloture; Jordan voted against it.

In the House of Representatives, a move to work out a compromise on a minimum wage bill with the Senate was defeated 196-188 on a roll call vote. Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, voted for the move. Rep. James McClure, R-Idaho, was listed as not voting.

MV library workshop set in TF

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls Public Library Board were reminded of the Fall Library Workshop when they met Tuesday afternoon at the library.

"Idaho's Libraries — Let's Keep Them Growing" is the theme for the Magic Valley workshop set from noon to 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Rogerson Hotel, according to Arlan Call, librarian.

Among the guest speakers will be Gerald Butters, librarian for the blind and handicapped, Utah State Library, who will discuss the braille, talking books and tapes available to Idaho's blind and handicapped users through the contract between the Idaho State Library and the Utah State Library.

Don Trotter, librarian of the Weber County Library, Ogden, and former executive secretary of the American Library Trustees Association, will give a slide-tape presentation and discuss the responsibilities of library trustees.

Russell Davis, librarian of the Utah State Library, and Helen Miller, librarian of the State Library of Idaho, will informally discuss revenue sharing and libraries.

The workshop is open to interested citizens as well as librarians and trustees. A possible regional library law for Idaho will be discussed in a short pre-workshop session for those interested from 11 a.m. to noon.

Reservations for the workshop luncheon should be made with Call, local librarian, at least two days in advance of the workshop date.

The resignation of board member Betty McRoberts was accepted by the Twin Falls board and all bills were approved and paid.

A private executive board meeting was held to consider the new library budget.

New father

TWIN FALLS — City police Officer Dennis Chambers stopped a young man near Magic Valley Memorial Hospital for exceeding the speed limit.

The young man said he was hurrying to the hospital as he was about to become a father. During the conversation, the officer discovered the vehicle's license tags had expired so he issued a warning ticket.

Today the ticket was returned verifying new tags had been purchased. Attached was a note of thanks to Chambers, and a cigar labeled, "It's a boy." Chambers, however, doesn't smoke.

British entry rejected

BLACKPOOL, England (UPI) — The Labor Party's annual rank-and-file conference today rejected British entry into the Common Market on terms negotiated by Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative Party government.

It called on the next Labor Party government to try to negotiate better membership conditions and, if it failed, to submit the issue to the British people in a referendum or general election.

The voting was 3,407,000 to 1,102,000.

At the same time it endorsed by 3,335,000 votes to 2,867,000 a resolution rejecting membership except on such tough renegotiation terms that even its supporters said it was doubtful they ever would be accepted by the Common Market.

Britain is scheduled to become a Common Market member Jan. 1.

The conference rejected by a narrow vote of 2,958,000 to 3,076,000, after a recount, a hard line motion repudiating British Common Market membership on any conditions whatsoever. It also rejected a pro-market resolution by 1,543,000 votes to 4,662,000.

Winding up the Common Market debate, Labor Party leader Harold Wilson branded as "humiliating" and "destructive" the membership conditions obtained by the Heath government.

"These were the terms the Labor government told Europe in 1967 that Britain was not ready to accept," Wilson said. "These are terms that no Labor government led by me would have ever accepted. They are terms we cannot accept."

Turner trial opening looks like pep rally

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI) — The trial of multi-millionaire Glenn W. Turner began today with all the trappings of a pep rally and political convention as some 600 banner-waving girls showed up at the courthouse to demonstrate their admiration for the defendant.

Judge William A. Patterson issued orders barring spectators from the hallways of the fourth floor where the trial was being held. The judge said "because of the great public interest" no one will be able to stand in the courtroom and only those spectators who have seats will be admitted.

The women, who came from states as far away as Michigan, waved small American flags and placards reading such things as "The Unstoppable American," and "Florida's Flying With Glenn Turner."

Testimony hear

TWIN FALLS — Testimony was taken Tuesday in an Idaho Public Utilities Commission (IPUC) hearing in Twin Falls to investigate operation of Metropac service in Magic Valley.

The hearing had been requested by Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co. (Mountain Bell) which operates the service between 13 exchanges in Magic Valley.

In the company's petition for a review before the IPUC, the company stated that "unless some modifications in Metropac tariffs are instituted, the ability of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co. to provide adequate telephone service in the Magic Valley area will be impaired."

During the hearing at the American Legion Hall attended by about 25 area residents, Frank R. Bromley, Boise, Idaho commercial and marketing manager for the telephone company, presented a proposed measured service arrangement for business and residence customers of Metropac.

Metropac service was initiated in Magic Valley in May, 1970, after about two years of study and discussion of a proposal by area residents to provide extended service coverage between Magic Valley towns.

Bromley said that it had been determined through study that the majority of Mountain Bell customers in Magic Valley were not willing to pay the extra monthly charge which would be necessitated by the extended area coverage, so the firm agreed to provide Metropac service to those customers who wanted to pay additional costs.

Magic Valley is the only area in Idaho where such a service is available, and Bromley said during the hearing Tuesday that the company had no previous experience with this type of service in Idaho and "we were unable to determine the proper rate structure for this service at that time."

The proposed measured service charge proposed by the telephone company during the hearing would drop the monthly rate for residential telephone on Metropac to $3.60 and to $7.20 on business phones.

It would, however, limit the time for residential calls to 120 minutes per month and to 240 minutes per month on business telephones. The proposed rate would be $3.25 to $3.60 and charged seven cents per minute for calls between the 13 exchanges. This would mean that the next 120 minutes of At the end of

Scan field

THREE FAA project officials scan Joslin Field from a "high ranger" more than 75 feet above ground as they survey possible sites for a control tower expected to be built in 1973. The site survey was made Tuesday afternoon.

Control tower location eyed

TWIN FALLS — First step toward determining site location of a control tower at the Twin Falls City-County Airport was completed Tuesday afternoon.

Three Federal Aviation Administration officials from the Seattle regional office and the operator of a "high ranger" elevated platform made four elevation simulations.

In each case conditions of visual contact with all parts of the runways and taxiways of Joslin Field were noted and recorded on film. At the four selected possible sites for tower location, readings were taken from "floor level" heights running from 35 to 75 feet. The actual tower, when constructed, would be some 15 or 20 feet higher than the platform to allow for aerials and other flight safeguards.

Dick Murray, project officer, said the tower, when built, would be staffed by trained operators and would control all field traffic, both in commercial and general aviation. Assisting Murray in the site survey was Garry Glenisky, FAA civil engineer, and Jim Mason, program specialist. Tom Wassmer, Salt Lake City, operated the "high ranger" which was on lease from the Wasatch Electric Co., Salt Lake City.

The control tower is expected to be a major project at the field in 1973 with completion five months after work start.

Meanwhile, work on site preparation for the new instrument landing system on Runway 25-7 is progressing and bid opening for instrument installations is scheduled for Seattle by mid month.

The instrument landing system and tower were planned by the federal government because the field is now designated for jet use. Practically all the cost of both the ILS and the tower will be paid for by federal funds estimated to total about $750,000.

TF supports Nixon

TWIN FALLS — President Nixon enjoys the support of over 70 per cent of Twin Falls voters, according to Twin Falls Republican Chairman Douglas Kramer.

Kramer, speaking to a meeting Tuesday of the executive board of the party in Twin Falls, said the results of a voter registration drive conducted Saturday showed President Nixon claiming over 70 per cent of the votes, with "all other" presidential candidates with 14 per cent and 16 per cent of the voters undecided.

Kramer took the opportunity to urge support for Rep. James A. McClure, Republican candidate for the Senate, and to blast McClure's Democratic rival, Dr. William E. (Bud) Davis, for maintaining his support of McGovern.

Kramer called David's endorsement of McGovern

Accident injures 3 TF women

TWIN FALLS — Three Twin Falls women were treated for minor injuries at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital following a two-car accident Tuesday afternoon.

The accident occurred at 2:30 p.m. at the intersection of Eastland Drive and Kimberly Road. Treated for minor injuries were Amanda L. Plott, 66, and Edith Beth Day, 46, drivers of the vehicles. Inez Hallis, 72, a passenger in the Day vehicle, was taken to the hospital for examination.

Officers said Mrs. Plott was traveling south on Eastland Drive and the Day vehicle was traveling west on Kimberly Road when they collided. Mrs. Plott was cited for failure to yield right of way. Her vehicle received an estimated $1,000 damage, while damage to the Day auto was estimated at $800.

Headquarters to open

TWIN FALLS — Republican Senatorial candidate James A. McClure will officially open GOP campaign headquarters in Twin Falls Friday.

McClure will be present at 3 p.m. to help cut the ribbon at the office.

Earlier in the day, the current First District Congressman will address two government classes at the College of Southern Idaho. McClure will speak to a local and state government at 11 a.m. and an American government class at noon.

The party headquarters is located at 130 Second Ave. The phone number is 734-5116.

TF man wounded by gun

TWIN FALLS — Dennis Parker, 22, Twin Falls, was reported in fair condition today at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital with a gunshot wound in the abdomen.

City police were called to the hospital about 1 a.m. today after Parker was admitted for treatment. Police said he was taken to the hospital by two companions, Stephen Schray, 18, and John Morgan, 18. Both told officers they were riding in Morgan's car when they heard the shot and Parker said he had shot himself in the abdomen while twirling a .22 pistol.

The two companions said they were not aware the other young man had a gun with him until they heard the shot. They drove directly to the hospital to get a doctor for the injured youth, the two told officers.

Parker was unable to talk to officers but police said the shooting was apparently an accident. He was seated on the passenger side of the front seat and Schray was riding in the rear seat at the time with Morgan driving.

Officers said the bullet entered near the man's waist, passed through the abdomen and lodged just under the skin of Parker's back.

at Metropac hearing

Anticipated grand total through 1974 is $1.8 million, as shown on a chart presented by Brown. Several residents of the affected areas, Bliss, Buhl, Castleford, Gooding, Hagerman, Jerome, Dietrich, Murtaugh, Kimberly, Twin Falls, Shoshone, Eden, Hazelton and Wendell, appeared to testify.

year, Bromley said, there were 22,083 customers in the 13 exchanges in Magic Valley, 3,713 of them Metropac customers. In August of this year there were about 250,000 Metropac messages completed. Bromley said toll revenue on this amount of calls would equal about $170,000, but the monthly billing to Metropac customers is $18,500.

In testimony by Arthur M. Brown, Boise, Idaho chief engineer for the telephone company, said the telephone company has already made capital expenditures of $1.1 million required for Metropac service in Magic Valley.

MENT STORE — ON THE MALL — DOWNTOWN

Official City and County Newspaper
Pursuant to Section 40-106 Idaho Code, Thursday is hereby designated as the day of the week on which legal notices will be published. Published daily and Sunday except Saturday. 313 Third Street West, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301. By Magic Valley Newspapers, Inc. Entered as second class mail matter April 8, 1918, at the post office in Twin Falls, Idaho, 83301, under the act of March 3, 1917.

Depletion Resource

The first time it was suggested taxpayers ought to receive a tax credit for "people depletion" it may have been a joke. But now two Senators have introduced legislation to that end.

Sens. Mike Mansfield and George Aiken are serious. Human resources are depleted just as mineral sources are, and they say tax treatment should reflect this. Mineral extraction income receives special tax consideration. What the Senators have in mind is permitting persons whose income is derived from salaries, wages or commissions to take a tax deduction of $1,000. Persons engaged in physically hazardous jobs would be entitled to higher depletion allowances, again with a $1,000 maximum.

In short, another loophole. And a loophole which would create an administrative nightmare by requiring each job be ranked according to its depletion potential. — OAK.

Indispensable

Newspapers of today bear little resemblance to the first daily started in the United States, the Pennsylvania Packet and General Advertiser, which saw the light of day in Philadelphia in 1784.

There were no daily newspapers before or during the Revolutionary War, and the first successful weekly publication, the Boston News-Letter, had achieved a circulation of only 300 in 1719 — more than 15 years after it was started.

From such beginnings have evolved the giant newspapers of today which, operating under the Bill of Rights, inform the people and guard and serve the public interest 24 hours a day. It is timely to compare the culmination to the beginnings during National Newspaper Week which is annually observed in October.

The first American newspaper, Public Occurrences, was started with the intent of "curing, or at least charming, of that spirit of lying which prevails" in Massachusetts colony. It was suppressed after the first issue.

Today's newspapers with a circulation of more than 60 million copies daily, keep the American people informed as no other people have been in all history, and in addition contain an unmatched array of entertainment.

The cost of publishing newspapers, which has risen steadily for years, is enormous, but the newspaper remains the outstanding example of consecrated determination to serve the public and make an indispensable product available to everyone.

WASHINGTON — compromise with which both sides could live. That is to say, because they are virtually resigned to the unhappy eventuality of being forced to deal with Nixon, they are willing even anxious to take a more reasonable position today as "protection" against the tougher Nixon position tomorrow.

Therefore, according to sources here, Hanoi is prepared to begin forging an agreement in principle that a cease-fire should precede a political settlement. But the Communists would arrange to prolong discussions concerning the mechanics of a cease-fire as a hedge against the outside chance that George McGovern will pull an upset and defeat Richard Nixon on Nov. 7. In that unlikely case, they have reason to believe they could get a better deal from McGovern and could pull back and start a whole new ball game.

In short, as one neutral diplomat put it, "Hanoi will accept a cease-fire, but it will insist on talking about it for another month — crossing all the t's and dotting all the i's — to keep its options open."

Thus, it is unlikely President Nixon will be able to announce a "peace settlement" before Election Day. Hanoi is not about to do him that kind of a favor. But the Communists will permit Nixon to announce that the negotiations are in the home stretch, in order to get on reasonable good terms with him. In effect, they will be saying, "Okay, let's see if we can work something out on a cease-fire."

That is what a French diplomat meant the other day when he told reporters here that a Vietnam settlement is "within reach" if both parties will "reach out" for it. That is what French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann men at when he said in a United Nations speech that "the opportunity to bring to Indochina peace whose political and military terms can be equally perceived is now at hand."

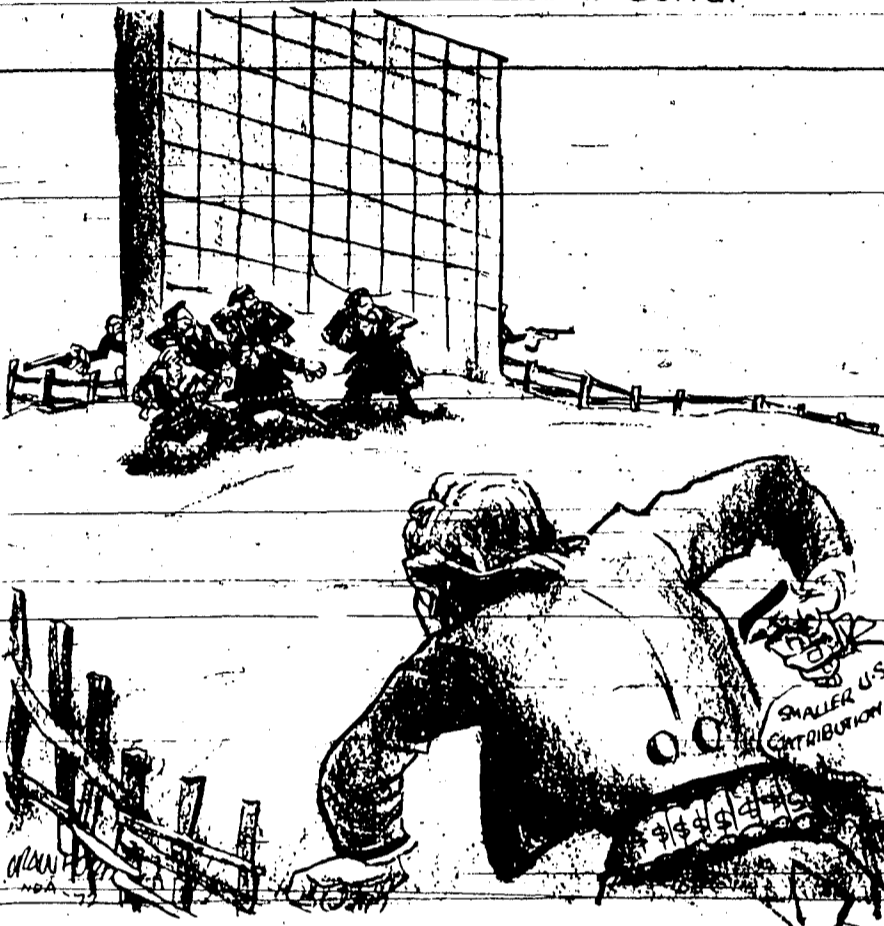

Once Hanoi has agreed in principle to a cease-fire, the dotting and i-crossing will be concerned with Hanoi's Sept. 11 plan for a three-segment coalition government in South Vietnam to replace the regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu. Hanoi wants a big-power guarantee, that such a trilateral government would be "neither a Communist regime nor a U.S. stooge regime." That is what Henry Kissinger, Nixon's personal envoy, has been discussing with Le Duc Tho of the North Vietnamese Politburo.

The sticking point is Thieu, who continued to oppose any "two-way or three-way coalition" with the Communists. But Thieu's position need not balk a settlement. For his part, he has already agreed to resign 90 days before a "South" Vietnam election. And Hanoi is understood to have suggested it would "welcome" some members of the Thieu regime in a three-segment coalition if Thieu and his top cronies get lost.

All these developments add up to an inescapable conclusion: A cease-fire is in the near future no matter who is elected President on Nov. 7.

Showdown in the U.N. Corral

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Candy-Strippers

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My girlfriend and I are both 12. We are very serious about becoming nurses in a maternity ward. When we turn 14 we want to become candy-strippers. Could you give us information about the job and what hospitals still have candy-strippers? — K. M.

Most all large hospitals either have candy-strippers or programs that mean the same thing but go under some other name.

Some just call it the "volunteer program." Anyway, it's a fine and worthwhile sort of thing to get into, and it's excellent training for bright girls who want to become nurses eventually.

The candy-strippers do such things as working with the occupational therapy staff, working in the children's ward, and so on. Besides making themselves useful, they gain a first-hand insight into the way hospitals operate.

Programs and ages vary a bit from one hospital to another. In the one I'm most familiar with, 16 is the age, but they sometimes stretch a point — some girls are more grown up at 15 than others are at 17.

You're too young at 12 or 13 anywhere, of course but in a couple of years ask for an interview at the hospital. Be on your toes — some hospitals have more applicants than openings.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Enclosed is 15 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to send me the booklet about ringing noises in the ears. Really can they be cured? I've been told several times that doctors don't know what causes them and don't know how the noises can be stopped. — F. W.

I like a lot of things you hear, that's true in part, but wrong in part. Doctors don't know what causes A.L.I. ear noises, but they know what causes SOME, which is why I titled the booklet as I did. "Ear Noises: Their Causes and Cures"

Sometimes the noises can't be cured, but that doesn't mean folks shouldn't do what can be done to cure the curable noises.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter will be 18 next month and has never had her monthly period. Would you recommend taking her for an examination? Isn't this rare, as I think the average age to start menstruation is about 14? — J. M.

The age of starting varies rather widely, from 13 or younger, to 16 or 18. By age 18 it's wise to check up. She may be deficient in glandular activity, the thyroid for one. And is she of normal weight? Excess weight can have quite an effect, too.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is there besides tuberculosis that can leave a scar on the lung? I am 76 and recently had a routine lung X-ray. The doctor told me I must have had TB sometime in my life but I haven't. What else could cause it? How could a person have TB and not know it, or get over it without treatment? — M. R. G.

Well, people DO throw off even serious diseases, and years ago, when there wasn't any treatment for TB except bed rest, some patients did recover anyway. So it can happen, but it takes time.

X-rays keep on turning up such people who never knew they had TB. There's one other disease that causes scarring that closely resembles that of TB. It is a fungus infection called histoplasmosis. In your case it's academic, and whatever you had, you got over. But in active cases, there are skin tests which determine whether the organism at work is TB or histoplasmosis.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Ain't No Minnow

Bertha Craig has lived in Twin Falls a long time. At 80 she could probably be termed a senior citizen.

But she doesn't sit knitting in her home at 638 Fourth Avenue East. She goes places and does things. One of her latest accomplishments was the landing of the 45 pound salmon shown in the picture. The catch was made during a jaunt to Ketchikan, Alaska. The fish was so heavy that the unidentified crewman had to hold it up for the picture.

So when you are sitting around doing your knitting — think of Bertha!

Oakley's School

Editor, Times-News:

The people of Oakley have been proud of their high school for many years. Each year we have had an excellent teaching staff.

It is a fact that our graduating classes have been rated as average along with any other high school class in Cassia County. Some students have been rated as outstanding.

We are proud of our Oakley High School athletic abilities in basketball, football, track and wrestling. Our school rates high in games won both in basketball and football. Our teams have won two consecutive state titles in basketball and one in football during the years 1970-71, a record envied by any school large or small.

Our buildings are in good condition. Two are practically new, the third and main building is quite old but very sturdy. It has had a complete cleaning and paint job done inside and part of the outside this past summer. At least it does not leak.

Why then, do we have to bus our high school students to Burley? Supposedly to obtain a better education. It appears to us that the number one reason for the wanted transfer is that a certain number of ambitious former athletes in Cassia County want Oakley and Declo high school students moved to Burley to swell its enrollment to about 1,000 students in order for Burley to become eligible to compete in Class A athletics.

Now why do Oakley and Declo have to lose their high schools just to satisfy the whims of a minority group in Cassia County?

Consider This

Editor, Times-News:

If you read my recent "letter to the editor" in regards to our great Federal share the revenue plan and agreed or disagreed consider this.

It is my opinion that this one single venture on the part of our Federal Government will do more to set up a one party system. Socialism — or Communism, than all of the other acts of our Federal Government put together unless rectified immediately.

As much as I am against Federal controls I think that if this great give away is not federally controlled, and soon, it will turn into the greatest political "nest feathering" act ever seen, giving the people currently in control of our State and local governments the greatest political leverage ever offered them.

Even the best intentioned official will have pressure brought to bear on him that will defy imagination and guess who he will listen to.

Yup, the ones of his own political faith pleading to do this or that to enhance their own political picture. And who is to say how many politicians have the best intentions in their hearts?

Watch It

Editor, Times-News:

Nixon said early in his Presidency "watch what we do — not what we say." The same words should be applied to James A. McClure.

His poor voting record on pollution is well documented in the September issue of Field and Stream which shows McClure voting 11 out of 12 times against our environment.

McClure's votes for extremely expensive projects of highly questionable value such as the SST and the anti-ballistic missile system, shows a careless disregard for the taxpayer's money.

It would be wise for the people of Idaho to heed the words "watch what we do — not what we say" when it comes to Mr. McClure's voting record. Look at what James Albertus McClure has done.

Gimmick?

Editor, Times-News:

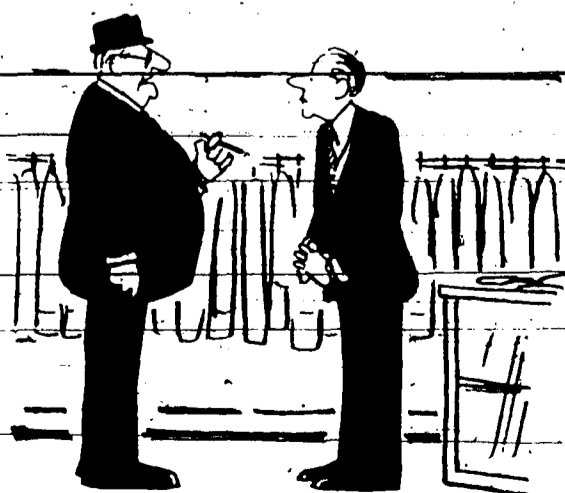

Our latest Alice in Wonderland "Gimmick" by our Federal Government, The federal share the revenue plan, not only reminds me of a small boy trying to get out of a hole by pulling on his own boot straps but frightens me stiff.

Surely our great leaders can read and remember or can they. If memory serves me correctly approximately a half a century ago the father of Communism, Lenin, made the following statement, "Germany will militarize herself out of existence, Great Britain will colonize herself out of existence, and the United States of America will spend herself out of existence." Prophecy. Prediction, or merely guess work, who today can doubt the veracity of that statement?

Would you say that the statement is one third filled, two thirds filled, or completely filled? I have my own opinion and am running scared. You may form your own opinion as you see it. However this brings to mind an old statement that is as true today as when first spoken and that is, "those who dance must pay the fiddler."

GOP rates taxes, war

By United Press International
Republican Senatorial
Candidate, James A. McClure
Tuesday warned a group in Montpelier that an end to the war in Vietnam would not automatically mean an end to high taxes.
McClure, who is presently an incumbent representative from Idaho, said federal planners have "too many proposals for us to hope for immediate tax relief, but I believe that revenue sharing will eventually lighten the load."
"For close to 30 years, power has flowed from the people to concentrate within the federal government. Now, it is at the federal level that attempts are being made to solve the problems of housing, crime, poverty and all the social and economic ills that plague the country," the Republican said.

In other political news,
Democratic Senatorial
Candidate William E. "Bud"
Davis says tampering with Hell's Canyon, the nation's deepest canyon, would be akin to damming America's widest gorge, the Grand Canyon.
Calling for additional protection of the Middle Snake River, Davis told a news conference in Lewiston Tuesday that national wild and scenic rivers legislation is needed for the area in order to protect not only the water but canyon walls and adjacent highlands.

However, he emphasized that such legislation must carry clauses protecting the rights of the upstream water user.
In Mountain Home, Willis
Ludlow, Second District Democratic congressional candidate, Tuesday attacked large monopolies and most of the nation's corporations as "chief obstacles to economic fair play and political progress."
Speaking to supporters,
Ludlow criticized Xerox, Western Electric and IBM as well as other companies "where four or less companies control 50 per cent or more of the total national production as in steel;
autos, aluminum, soap and detergent, cereal or electric light bulbs."
"Instead of competition," Ludlow charged, "such concentration of economic power gives us overpricing, loss of innovation, inflation,
unemployment, conformity,
and big business hammerlocks
on government."
Meanwhile, Republican

aspirants for office will be held
Nov. 7 at the Owyhee Motor Inn, Boise.
Larry Jackson, executive director of the Idaho
Republican Central Committee, and Carmen Dickens, state
voter identification chairman, will coordinate the program's activities.

Private firms liable

BOISE (UPI) — Dr. James Bax, administrator of the Department of Environmental Protection and Health, Tuesday told members attending an environmental hearing private industry could help keep the federal government from becoming involved in the state's environmental problems.
"If private industry has gripes about the federal government coming in and playing watchdog, then it's up to them to make sure we get adequate laws and staffing," he said. "Otherwise, the feds will come in and take over."
Bax spoke at a hearing sponsored by Associated Industries of Idaho. It is a 25-member group comprised of cattlemen's, dairy, food growing and contracting organizations.

"I know the feds don't really want to worry about our environmental problem because they're basically lazy," Bax added.
Among the 200 persons attending the hearing were several members of the Environmental Protection Agency, an office of the federal government.

it's probably the "eight-hooter,"

BOISE (UPI) — The Ada

rescind the recent cut in aid to Dependent Children Grants.
In a letter accompanying the petition, the IWRO requested Andrus to "utilize the opportunity presented by the soon to be enacted revenue sharing bill to relieve the plight of the poor people in Idaho."

The petition specifically asked the governor to "utilize this election year windfall," in part, for the purpose of raising all welfare payments to "100 per cent of need."
"Never before has a Governor of Idaho been presented with more than $6

The report, prepared by a team of analysts from the Department of Administrative Services, is one of a series aimed at improving performance in state

Andrus reiterated his earlier position on the confidential report, saying the study was conducted to provide the board

the White House by President

Viet bomb raids cut by typhoons

SAIGON (UPI) — Typhoon Lorna cut U.S. bombing raids over North Vietnam to their lowest level in a month Tuesday. The U.S. command declined to say whether the controversial but weather-immune F111 fighter-bombers flew any of the reduced missions.

Military spokesmen said the typhoon swirling off the North Vietnamese coast limited U.S. warplanes to 120 strikes above the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams, the fewest since Sept. 3. But the spokesmen would not say whether the radar-directed F111s, one of which crashed last week from unknown causes on its first combat mission, flew through the storm.

In South Vietnam, Communist troops Tuesday cut the two major food routes leading to Saigon in what military spokesmen said could be a move to isolate the capital before the Nov. 7 U.S. presidential elections. But both highways were open again today and the U.S. command ordered at least 21 bombers to drop more than 650 tons of explosives on suspected North Vietnamese positions within 35 miles of Saigon.

The $15 million swingwing F111 crashed Thursday, the day 48 of the sophisticated jets arrived for their first missions in Indochina in four years. The two-man crew is listed as missing. F111s were recalled from the war zone in 1968 when three went down due to apparent mechanical flaws.

While the controversy over the F111 continued, the U.S. Navy ordered the nuclear-powered carrier USS Enterprise back to Vietnam duty and its planes flew strikes in both North and South Vietnam Tuesday, spokesmen said. The Enterprise, based at Alameda, Calif., had not been on duty in the war zone since Jan. 24, the Navy said.

Spokesmen also said the guided missile light cruiser USS Oklahoma City, flagship of the U.S. 7th Fleet, fired on targets just below the DMZ Tuesday. The vessel knocked out two "enemy emplacements" and destroyed "a large bunker," spokesmen said.

A U.S. Command communiqué indicated no major damage was inflicted on targets in North Vietnam Tuesday. A spokesman said Typhoon Lorna was downgraded today to a tropical storm, moving north in the Tonkin Gulf and that it could be presumed that air action had increased over North Vietnam today.

Charges filed against vendor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission issued proposed complaints today charging ARA Services Inc., the nation's largest vending company, with anti-competitive practices in its acquisition of 98 vending companies and 12 magazine and paperback distributors.

The FTC alleged that ARA's acquisition of 98 vending machine companies constitute an attempt by ARA to monopolize or substantially lessen competition in full-line vending of food, drinks and tobacco products, street vending, and in "choice-account" vending in large business and industrial locations.

In a separate proposed complaint, the FTC charged that ARA's acquisition of 12 distributors of magazines, comics and paperbacks may tend to create a monopoly in this field. ARA currently is the largest U.S. wholesaler of such publications.

The two complaints were issued under FTC consent order procedures which permit the company to agree to settle the charges without ever admitting any violations of law.

ARA, a Philadelphia firm, accounted for 10 per cent of the $2 billion vending industry in 1967, the FTC said. It acquired some 189 vending firms between 1959 and 1963 and another 140 between 1964 and 1970.

The wholesale distribution and sale of periodicals and paperbacks accounts for more than $500 million in sales annually, the commission said. Through a series of acquisitions, ARA accounted for about 94 percent of sales in 1969 and, as a result of more acquisitions, had raised its national market share to 16 per cent in 1971.

Advisers dispute on jobless rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Economic advisers to President Nixon and Sen. George S. McGovern dispute whether the administration is satisfied with the present 5.6 per cent jobless rate.

Arthur Okun, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under President Johnson, said Tuesday the "low priority attached to jobs" was the "greatest shortcoming" of Nixon's term.

But Pierre Rinfret, chief economic spokesman for Nixon's re-election campaign, said the administration vowed "no compromise with full employment."

Okun and Rinfret debated at the 13th annual United Press International Editor's and Publishers Conference.

Another speaker, British writer Robert Theobald, said the United States should use its 20th anniversary in 1976 "to demonstrate the problems and possibilities which lie before the American people."

Okun, on leave from the Brookings Institution to work in the McGovern campaign, said Nixon's economic advisers had changed their definition of "full employment" by raising their jobless target from 4 per cent to 5 per cent of the work force.

Okun said the administration had been too cautious in attempts to get the economy moving, resulting in an annual loss of $55 billion in idle men and machines. But he conceded that the Johnson administration had "stepped on the gas too hard."

Rinfret said Nixon had not "wavered on the fight against inflation" and was concerned with reducing unemployment.

Rinfret said that McGovern had changed his programs on assistance to the poor so often that it raised doubts about his proposals to change income tax laws.

"If he doesn't know who is rich and who is poor," said Rinfret, "how can he talk about restructuring the tax burden in the United States?"

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Buying interest picked up and stock prices moved higher after three hours Wednesday on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was ahead 4.89 and advances held a firm lead over declines, 734 to 548. Volume was around 10.5 million shares at 1 p.m.

Analysts said interest was centered on a few selected issues and in the oil stocks, where Superior Oil, a leading glamor, soared 1 1/2 points.

Atlantic Richfield, Jersey Standard and Natamias also were point-sized gainers in the petroleum group.

Coming Glass, one of the biggest losers, was off more than 8 points at mid-session. Curtiss-Wright, featured in a Wall Street Journal article, was down 3 1/2. The newspaper said analysts have questions concerning the firm's earnings potential.

Levitz Furniture also continued to lose ground and was down 1 1/2. The firm has dropped more than 19 points in the past three sessions following predictions of lower third quarter earnings.

Steels, motors and chemicals were mixed to slightly higher. Rail stocks showed indications of firming and were up, mostly in fractions.

Airline stocks were stronger.

Multi-national control proposed by UAW chief

TOKYO (UPI) — Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers (UAW) in the United States, proposed today that Japanese and American workers band together to control multinational companies.

Woodcock, speaking to a convention of Japanese auto workers, also said an international authority should be created "to recommend a uniform set of regulations governing international trade and commerce—binding on all national participating authorities."

Woodcock praised Japanese auto workers for banding together into a new confederation. He was the principal speaker at the first convention held by the Confederation of Japan Automobile Workers Union (Jidosha Soren).

"In the shedding of your divisions, your movement has matured and has passed into the camp of the truly powerful trade unions of the world," Woodcock said. "Our alliance is deeply rooted in the common qualities of our lives. Auto workers, no matter their national cultures, languages and traditions, are always auto workers."

Woodcock noted that there is a protectionist trend in the United States, "but the UAW has not joined in the chorus for special protective legislation."

"We did call for temporary emergency measures where a small industry might be suddenly swamped by imports," he said. "But essentially, our major legislative thrust is being concentrated on establishing real income and retraining guarantees to workers who have lost their jobs because of imports. We call this adjustment assistance. What we have at present is totally inadequate."

"It is imperative that we—Japanese, European, Latin and North American auto and agricultural implement workers—work both collectively and separately for uniform, worldwide regulations of the operations of multinational corporations."

"Under present conditions, there is no system at all. Laws and regulations governing the conduct of international trade are widely scattered into 130-odd fragments."

"I should like to propose, here and now, the creation of an international authority, possible under the aegis of the United Nations, possibly as an extension of the GATT, possibly independent of these, maybe through OECD initially, to examine, then recommend a uniform set of regulations governing international trade and commerce, and binding on all national participating authorities."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dines Letter says the market, which has been acting as if it has fleas lately, "began to jump upward like a flea" in fact, the firm adds, "the rally started from the 934 level on an hourly basis, and there is no change in our opinion that it will extend itself well into October."

In sum, we remain steadfast in our belief that the market's long-term objective will lie in the approximate 1,200 area," says the Bache Technical Service. "We wish to stress strongly that we disagree with those who believe that we have been in nothing more than a temporary rally in a major bear cycle," the firm adds.

Bache points out further that in 200 years of stock market history, there has never been a three-phase bear market. "The move from 955 in February 1966 to 740 in October 1966 represented the first phase and the move from 740 in late 1966 to 625 in May 1967 represented the second phase and the end of the bear cycle," the company says.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy & Harman Tuesday quoted silver at 177.3 cents per fine ounce, up 1.0 cent.

CAA board approves new work plan, budget

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Community Action Agency Board of Directors approved work plan and budget revisions Tuesday night for submission to federal anti-poverty officials.

In taking its unanimous action, the board ratified a decision made at a meeting last week by the agency's executive committee. The practical effect of the vote was negligible, since the work plan revisions had been mailed to regional OEO officials 72 hours earlier.

The work plan, the agency's statement of its goals for the current fiscal year, included requests for massive assistance for its staff, board and community organization efforts from qualified technical officials.

Also approved by the board was the submission of a budget of $149,000, of which approximately $130,000 remains for the final three quarters of the current fiscal year. Of the $130,000, slightly over $100,000 remains from the contract grant approved by OEO for the current year, with the additional money unexpended funds from previous years.

Chances of the federal officials approving the budget including the unexpended funds are slim, according to Harold Whitehead, OEO Idaho operations chief, and Bobby Russell, executive director of the local CAA.

Local agency personnel were awaiting word today from the OEO officials on the acceptability of the revisions in the work plan and the budget. As of Tuesday night, the documents had not been received by federal officials.

In other developments, the agency and senior citizen group in Kimberly-Murtaugh-Hansen agreed on a plan to establish the senior citizens as an "associate agency" for the current year.

The squabble with the senior citizens had plagued the agency for several weeks, with the group, as well as one in Cassia County, seeking autonomy from the CAA. The agreement signed Tuesday night guarantees the senior citizens the right to maintain their own program, with fiscal responsibility resting with the CAA.

The Cassia County group, according to Russell, is expected to ratify the same agreement shortly.

Russell said he would file a request with the Idaho Office on Aging for the state-administered funds for the east end senior citizens group. The funds had been held up pending the resolution of the dispute.

In Boise, Wil Overgaard, deputy director of the state Office on Aging, halted the agreement and said it would take five days for the money to be channeled at the CAA for distribution.

Feud ends

COMMUNITY ACTION AGENCY Executive Director Bobby Russell initials an agreement putting an end to the feud between the agency and a senior citizens group in Kimberly-Murtaugh-Hansen.

Counsel sparring in suit

JEROME — Opposing legal counsel played cat and mouse Tuesday in a movie theater owner's beer license dispute with the Eden city council.

Judge Theron Ward postponed until Oct. 17 a hearing in Fifth District Court on a petition for a writ of mandamus filed on behalf of Wilma York to force the Eden officials to grant her a beer license for the Cinema Bar.

Mrs. York, who took over ownership of the theater from DeWayne Foust in July, is challenging the decision of the city to deny her application for a beer license. The council had turned down the request in a meeting several days ago, claiming there were already sufficient taverns in the town. But the brief courtroom discussion never got to the particulars of the case Tuesday morning. The Eden, city attorney, S. A. Kolman, not setting foot in the courtroom proper, told the judge it was not certain whether he would represent the city in the matter.

He told Judge Ward he would "probably" defend the city officials, but no final decision had been made.

The attorney for Mrs. York, E. R. Frachiseur, Twin Falls, had filed a petition with Kolman, but had neglected to mail copies to Eden Mayor James Ludlow, or City Council members Glen Teter, P. J. Eisenhauer, Terry Burnett and Donald McFarland.

He told the court he had mailed only one copy of the petition because he thought Kolman was the defendant's attorney. But when Kolman denied he was retained for the case, Judge Ward postponed the hearing two weeks, to allow Frachiseur to serve the petitions on the five defendants.

In a brief interview prior to the hearing, Kolman declined comment on the case except to say that he was the city attorney.

But Eden Mayor Ludlow said today the council had never considered any other attorney, and the possibility had not been discussed in a council meeting. He said Kolman had been retained a year and a half ago as the city attorney.

Ludlow referred other questions to Kolman, and said he had "turned everything over to him."

The case has attracted considerable interest since the theater in Eden shows "x" rated films.

Shoshone tightens trash can rules

By MELBA THORNE

SHOSHONE — Residents of Shoshone face more stringent garbage regulations as a result of City Council action Tuesday night.

Council members adopted an amendment to the present garbage ordinance requiring all residents use galvanized steel cans with tightly fitting lids. They must also have two handles, be between 3 and 30 gallons in size and weigh no more than 50 pounds when full.

Violation of the ordinance will be a misdemeanor. The council passed the amendment in view of problems in keeping a garbage collector for the city. Recently hired was Rex Gallimore.

In other business the council approved building permits to Ira Davis for a new home; Chalmer Martin, aluminum siding for a home; Marx Nielsen, remodeling; Ray Coles, a patio; Jack Koonce, a new storage shed; C.F. Shonk, a two car garage; and Antonio Bettia, three additional rooms on his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Connell met with the council to ask extension of water and sewer lines along North Grape Street in the northwest part of the city. Requirements of ordinances governing such extension were explained to the couple. They will investigate costs prior to making a decision.

Tom Mahan, Jerome accountant, presented figures and recommendations for billing and collecting procedure for the new Shoshone sewer system. The billing is creating additional work in the city clerk's office and machinery to expedite the process is being investigated by the city council. A report from the Magistrate Court showed $90 in fees and fines collected as the city's share the past month.

A total of $720 from the auction of old street lights was reported and will be placed in a "restricted swimming pool fund." This was created several years ago.

If the money is not used for a swimming pool by Jan. 1, 1977, the money will be placed in the city's general fund and used for capital improvements only.

Health laws told

SUN VALLEY (UPI) — Idaho Lieutenant Gov. Jack Murphy Tuesday outlined recent legislation affecting health care for participants in the auxiliary session meeting of the 1972 Idaho Hospital Association Convention here.

Murphy was one of three panelists discussing the effects of state and federal legislation on health care. Other panelists were Mrs. Ruth Gailey, John W. Hayman, and R. S. Marmen Holverson.

Among the bills outlined by Murphy which directly affects health care and its delivery in Idaho were acts which would provide funds for construction of two child development and mental retardation centers.

New worker hired by Jerome council

JEROME — The Jerome City Council Tuesday night unanimously agreed to hire a city works director and city engineer.

Following four months of intensive investigation into applications for the position the council approved William Block, 31, a former Jerome resident, as the new city works director and engineer.

Jerome Mayor J. A. (Jack) Russell said Block will begin work on Monday, Oct. 16. He will serve a one-year probationary period. Block, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Block, Jerome, is presently living in Palo Verde, Calif., where he is employed by Collier Carbon and Chemical Co., Los Angeles, as an engineer.

Prior to his employment by the Los Angeles firm, Block was employed by the California State Department of Water Works and Resources. He also worked for the City of Twin Falls.

He graduated from Jerome High School in 1959, attended the University of Idaho, and also spent one term enrolled at UCLA.

On June 21, 1972, the council agreed to begin accepting applications for the position which has been vacant for over a year when Mel Morris, former public works director, resigned under pressure.

Chamber selects new site

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

RUPERT — A proposed construction site for a new chamber of commerce building was presented to the Rupert City Council Tuesday evening.

Chamber President Pete Ford told the council that the chamber's building committee had selected frontage on Scott Avenue facing F Street as a desirable site and requested city approval. He added that final chamber action, including a majority vote approval, had not been taken.

For estimated the requested land area as being 60 feet wide and 240 feet long with the new building to be approximately 24 feet by 60 feet in size.

After City atty. Bill Goodman advised the council that the land grant should be on a lease basis, Councilman William Strasser moved that the city grant the amount of land needed upon the chamber's presentation of a lease proposal. The motion passed unanimously.

Citizens meet with Buhl council

BUHL — A delegation of citizens met with the Buhl City Council Tuesday night to discuss curbing on the portion of East Main Street being resurfaced.

The residents feel that the curbing is going to be too high as it is being constructed and that it will present problems. The residents involved are meeting with engineers today to discuss the problem.

A resolution authorizing the Idaho attorney general to accept a settlement for the city of Buhl in the anti-trust suit against American Oil Co., being prosecuted by the state, was adopted.

Jerome adds church site

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — The Jerome City Council annexed the proposed LDS Church site and increased sewer rates at a meeting Tuesday night.

Following final reading of ordinances dealing with the annexation of four acres on the southeast edge of Jerome for the construction of a new LDS Church and the increase of sewer rates, they were approved.

One objection to the sewer rates hike was heard. A Jerome resident objected on the grounds that the increase in the base charge would cause undue hardship to Jerome's senior citizens. He said he felt sewer charges should be based entirely on the amount of water used, with no base rate. He also spoke against the present two dollar minimum charge to apartment house dwellers.

An ordinance amending the present Green River Ordinance to allow charitable and non-profit organizations to solicit funds received second reading.

Also read for the second time was an ordinance controlling abandoned automobiles and other large waste items on private property in the city of Jerome. The police department will be given authority to request removal and to impound the items if they are not removed.

Read the first time was an ordinance annexing 40 acres southwest of Jerome. Included in the land to be annexed is the 29 acre site of the Moore Business Forms plant. Land owned by Ed Heitzman, the Jerome Cemetery and the LDS Church Farm property must also be annexed in order to bring the site into the city.

Bids from four companies for needed water department equipment were opened. Standard Plumbing Supply, Twin Falls, was apparent low bidder at $10,144.95. The bids will be compared to specifications before a bid award is made.

Mike Sullivan, Jerome Zoning Commission representative, requested a moratorium on the placement of trailer houses in areas zoned for residential use. He said it would not stop trailer houses coming into town, but he said he and other members of the zoning commission feel something should be done to control the placement of trailers in the city.

He proposed that the council revoke the present portion of the building code dealing with trailer houses and require approval of each application by the zoning commission and the city council until a new ordinance can be approved.

Malad work done

TUTTLE — Work is being done at the Malad River Gorge State Park site, but only on a temporary basis.

Workmen are putting up warning and directional signs, constructing overlooks and fencing a portion of the gorge rim.

Merle Derrall, park planner with the Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation, said the work is only temporary until total development can begin. That being done now is mainly for safety precautions, he said.

According to the purchase agreement, the previous owner has farming rights until 1973 and total development can not begin until then. The property was purchased in late 1970.

Then this development, Derrall said, is "dependent on legislative appropriations."

The temporary work was initiated by State Rep. Vernon Ravnecroft, R-Tuttle, who asked Gooding County Commissioners to notify the state parks board that a safety hazard existed at the site.

Swim fund gets money

SHOSHONE — The Lincoln County Recreation District swimming pool fund will receive a boost Friday night.

Al Correll, owner of the Single Tree Saloon, Shoshone, said he will donate all proceeds of the evening's operation to the swimming pool fund.

Correll said the area musicians, individual and groups, as well as the bartenders, will be donating their time. Activities begin at 7 p.m. with dancing to continue until 1 a.m. Saturday.

TF school committees given Oct. 17 deadline

One of the issues debated Tuesday night was the future of Washington Grade School. Reports indicated the highway department's plans for the North Five Points intersection will take little of the property and only three feet of the rear west side of the building.

In a straw vote, those attending the meeting favored retaining the building for some type of educational functions within the district, rather than disposing of it.

Suggestions for its future use included converting it to career type training programs, saving at least the newer classrooms for kindergarten, or for replacement of the Happy Day School, with expansion for other special education students.

Replacement of the Happy Day School was listed as one of the critical needs of the district. Stan Rose, sub-committee chairman on the Happy Day School, said the children in this special program need a house, type facility where they can be trained in house keeping and every day living factors.

William Nye, finance committee chairman, said if the $3.3 million bond issue is passed and paid for over a 14 year period, district taxpayers will be paying $13.74 per year for each $10,000 cash value of property owned.

Frank DeLuca, elementary school needs chairman, recommended four new classrooms each at Morningside and Harrison schools, plus a 24-room new school building. He said if Washington School is eliminated as an elementary school, more classes would be needed in the near future.

Bob Crosley reported career education facilities need expansion at O'Leary school but said there is no room in which to grow. He also said some career training should be introduced at the grade levels.

Mallory Fisher reported on sites, recommending a new grade school on property the district already owns north of the high school.

During discussion sessions, apathy of residents in the community was criticized. It was suggested the P.T.A. groups, more service clubs and social organizations again be asked to have representation at the next committee meeting.

Scenic outlook lost

MOVING PROJECT awaits Gene Larsen, Twin Falls, who purchased this home for $11,700 Tuesday. The two story home which overlooks scenic Snake River Canyon near the Perrine Bridge must be moved to a new location. It was sold by the Idaho Department of Highways at auction and must be moved by Dec. 31 to make way for new bridge construction. This view is from the living room. (Photo by Bonnie Baird Jones).

Blaine sets site dedication soon

HAILEY — Dedication of a "first of its kind" recreation facility in Blaine County is scheduled for Oct. 15.

Members of the Wood River Recreation association, a non-profit group, will dedicate their 300-acre recreation site which includes a moto-cross course for motorcycles, speed oval track for snow machines and a cross-country course for four-wheel drive vehicles.

The site is three miles west of Hailey on the Croy Creek road. It includes a concession stand and broadcast booth, already completed, and a parking lot cleared of sagebrush.

A one-year lease has been obtained from the Bureau of Land Management and the site will be available on a long term lease basis if the organization meets first year goals.

In addition to the vehicle facilities, the area will also provide trails for horses, and a trap, field and rifle range facility for the Rod and Gun Club.

The Wood River Recreation Association was organized in the spring of 1971, with members from various Blaine County organizations.

The association planned to provide some type of facility for the "off the road" vehicles which were being banned from many areas on public lands. The 330 acre site acquired by the recreation group will serve this purpose without causing damage to other recreation facilities or delicate soils and mountain sides, an association spokesman said.

Members of the parent organization will govern and regulate use of the area but all interested organizations in the county and surrounding areas may use the facility for special events, races or general recreation.

Joy Wheeler, Hailey, member of the board of directors, said a road has been built to the area and 100 feet of access granted by George Arkoosh for the access road. All accomplishments are on a basis of donated funds and labor, she said, and more donations are needed to keep the facility operating and complete plans for further improvements and development.

The public is invited to the Oct. 15 dedication which will feature addresses by Jack Murphy, Idaho lieutenant governor; O'dell Frandsen, Shoshone, district BLM manager, and C. W. (Andy) Gardner, Blaine County commissioner.

Officers of the association include Dwayne Farmer, Hailey, president; Del Nicholson, Hailey, vice president; Jim Hopkins, Ketchum, secretary and treasurer, and Jimmie DeBoard, Bill Otterstein and Joy Wheeler, directors.

Gooding council transfers fund

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News writer

GOODING — Gooding City Council Monday night transferred monies from the general fund to cover items in the budget which were in the red.

Councilman Earl Greenawalt moved that as soon as investment of idle funds matures, $7,000 be transferred from the general fund to the recreation department and $8,000 from the general fund to the irrigation department.

An ordinance was proposed which would require the city to accept standards for police training. The acceptance of standards is necessary in order to receive grant funds.

Mayor Harley Crippen reported that the Gooding County International Raceway held its last race Sunday and is making preparations for the coming year.

The racing firm leases part of the city airport runway. Seven building permits were issued for a total of $53,690.

Andrus outlines control program

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus today outlined Idaho's environmental control programs enacted during the past two years, saying there was still a "tremendous amount" of further work to be done.

Speaking at a luncheon gathering during an environmental hearing sponsored by Associated Industries of Idaho, Andrus enumerated "the many programs and millions of dollars that have gone into making Idaho one of our cleaner states pollution-wise."

He praised enterprise by private industry, such as Potlatch Forest, Inc.'s $11 million project to control sulfur compounds at its Lewiston plant. He also mentioned Bunker Hill as having recently completed a $6 million project to minimize sulfur dioxide and particulate emissions.

Andrus also commended Idaho's lumber industry for its more than $2 million investment to control particulates from boilers and wigwam burners.

In water pollution control, the governor said, 15 communities have either built or improved sewage treatment system.

"And financing has been obtained and secondary treatment plants are being designed for 12 more communities," he said.

The keynote speaker at the hearing, former chairman of the now-defunct Idaho Air Pollution Control Commission, said environmental programs are victims of political expediency instead of common sense. He said recent emphasis has been more on the number of environmental programs rather than on their quality.

"It just doesn't make sense," he said. "Especially in an election year. Every candidate turns into an environmentalist overnight."

Montgomery said four years ago pollution ran "a close second" behind the Vietnam war as an election issue.

TF man elected

TWIN FALLS — Lawrence Harper, Twin Falls, was recently elected to the board of the Northwest National Housing and Redevelopment Organization.

Harper, who serves as director of the Twin Falls and Jerome Housing Authorities, will serve a two year term on the board. He recently returned from the Northwest National Housing and Redevelopment Organization convention in Portland.

Mrs. Drew said "I just paint for a hobby and for the enjoyment. There is always something new each day to paint in Idaho."

Her oil paintings range in size from 10 to 12 inches to large paintings and all are framed.

Hopeful warns of 'totalitarianism'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — The American party presidential candidate warned Tuesday of a totalitarian government if President Nixon is re-elected and called Henry Kissinger "the unelected, de facto president."

John G. Schmitz charged Kissinger "is the true president of the United States right now" and said the presidential adviser "is from the Council of Foreign Relations which is dedicated to a one-world Socialist system."

Kaline-led Tigers edge Boston, clinch pennant

DETROIT (UPI)—Old pro Al Kaline, thriving for another shot at World Series glory, clinched the American League East division title for the Detroit Tigers Tuesday night when he singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and then scored himself in a 3-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Detroit, a team which many felt was getting too old too fast to survive the four-team East division race, thus qualified to meet Oakland in the AL championship series which starts Saturday. Boston and Detroit close out with a meaningless afternoon game Wednesday.

Woody Fryman, an August 2-acquisition from last place Philadelphia, won his 10th game for Detroit by checking Boston on four hits through 7 2/3 innings. Chuck Seabach finished up to get his 14th save.

Dick McAuliffe, who muffed a potential double play ball in the first inning to make the Red Sox' only run of the game unearned, atoned for that by starting the winning rally with a one-out double-off-liner to Tiant, 15-6.

Kaline, clearly disgusted at himself for swinging and missing at a 1-1 slow curve, ripped a single in the hole between short and third on the next pitch to score McAuliffe with the tie-breaking run.

Tiant was removed from the game in favor of Bill Lee but still wound up as the AL's earned run average champion with a 1.9106 ERA which just nipped Gaylord Perry of Cleveland who ended up at 1.9173.

Royals fire Lemon

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Kansas City Royals owner Ewing Kauffman fired manager Bob Lemon Tuesday and replaced him with minor league manager Jack McKeon.

"I am sure that this decision will be criticized by some," Kauffman said, "and I want it known that this is my decision and such criticism should be directed my way."

McKeon has been manager at Kansas City's American Association farm team in Omaha since 1969, where his teams have won two championships.

Kauffman said he made the decision in August because "number one, I wanted a younger man, and number two, I did not want to lose Jack McKeon from our organization."

Lemon is 52 and McKeon is 41.

Perry figures he has good chance for Cy Young award

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Gaylord Perry, the first 24-game winner the Cleveland Indians have had since 1946, says he deserves to win the Cy Young Award in the American League.

"As much as anybody else," Perry said, "I think I have a good year." Perry, who had a 1.92 ERA this past season in compiling a 24-16 record which included five shutouts and one save in relief last April 30 at Kansas City. "My chances are as good as the other guys."

"There are a couple of reasons why I should win it. First is because I had the best ball control this season that I've had in years and second is because I pitched every fourth day (342.23 innings) and that's what helped me. I hope I'm still in contention for it, but we'll wait and see what happens."

Perry, who came to the Tribe from San Francisco with shortstop Frank Duffy in a trade last Nov. 30 for Sam McDowell, lost eight games by one run this year. Rookie Manager Ken Aspromonte said there was "no doubt in my mind that with more runs behind him he could have coasted to 30 victories."

"His games were decided by one run and at the maximum two runs on either side," said Aspromonte, who has not yet been approached by President and General Manager Gabe Paul as to whether or not he will be back as manager next season. "He's probably the most professional pitcher in the league that I've run across in years."

"He's in a class with Whitey Ford, Don Drysdale and all the other tough competitors at the way down the line. He kept us in the (pennant) race until the middle of September. I think he should win the Cy Young Award because he won 24 games with a fifth-place ball club and he did it without the horses behind him on the offense and defense."

"With or without the so-called horses, winning the Cy Young Award is not the foremost thought in the 34-year-old right-hander's mind. It's a conversation he had Tuesday with Paul about being traded this winter."

"I talked with Mr. Paul about being traded this (Tuesday) morning," said Perry as he casually autographed his picture post cards and then addressed them to his followers. "I told him if they would trade me there would be no hard feelings."

"I'd go away from here like I did from the Giants. The Giants, over my 14 years there, treated me with respect and so have the Indians. But I told him that I hope to be back here next year."

If that decision is left up to Aspromonte, Perry will be back. But right now Aspromonte is more worried about his own neck.

Carlton ties mark with 27th victory

CHICAGO (UPI)—Steve Carlton says next year will begin Wednesday but it's going to be a long time before he forgets what happens this year.

Carlton tied one of Sandy Koufax's records and completed a brilliant season with his 27th victory Tuesday as the Philadelphia Phillies walloped the Chicago Cubs, 11-1.

But then he said he was already looking forward to 1973.

"I don't look back at anything," said Carlton, clutching the ball that was retrieved after the final out of what he modestly refused to call anything better than a "good year."

"You could put the word great in front of that," one writer suggested, but Carlton only replied, "that's for you guys."

Carlton traded before the start of the season from St. Louis to Philadelphia, finished 27-10 and tied Koufax's mark for the most victories by a left-hander in the National League in the modern era (since 1900).

He also led the league in strikeouts, with seven Tuesday for a total of 310, complete games (30), innings pitched (346) and earned run average (1.98).

"The most satisfying one of all was the 27 victories," said Carlton, who won more games for a last place team

Fish-game unit acquires Niagara Springs ranch

Purchase of the 950-acre Niagara Springs Ranch by the Idaho Fish and Game Department appears all but certain, officials of the department announced Tuesday night.

"It's complete. We've got it," said Jack Hemingway, Ketchum, fourth district commissioner, at a public hearing. Joe Greenley, department director, and Bob Salter, assistant director, noted plans for development would proceed immediately.

The ranch, located in Gooding County, immediately north and east of the Clear Lakes bridge north of Buhl, lends itself to considerable wildlife enhancement. It was purchased about a year ago with plans toward development of recreation or permanent homes. The price was $375,000, most of it coming from Idaho's share of hunting and fishing equipment taxes.

"I think this is a great acquisition," Hemingway said. "The layout of the land is beautiful. A lot of good things can be done with it."

The department acquired an option on the ranch several months ago and it was that lever that finally sprung the deal.

Bob Bell, regional fish

biologist, reported cursory study indicated at least 50 acres of fishery-waterfowl ponds could be established with minimum cost. Salter said that many developments were likely but also saw the area as a great pheasant and quail habitat.

Hemingway noted that sportsmen can't become too impatient with development although it will come as quickly as possible. He pointed out land values are running ahead of inflation and noted now is the time to buy key access and recreational lands and develop them later when the heavy push for ownership is over or the good lands are gone.

"One thing," Hemingway smiled, "this won't become a big picnic area. We (the commission) don't want to get into parks management. Everything we can lay our hands on will eventually become prime habitat for wildlife."

The land, located in Snake River canyon, offers waterfowl shooting on the riverfront, ponding capabilities and considerable area for other habitat development. It is the largest single purchase of the department in the Magic Valley region as it fights to preserve some key areas for public use.

Recommendations for fishing season meet angler approval

Lengthening of the steelhead season, cutthroat protection and increase in kokanee limits in Anderson Ranch dam were among several proposals from the Idaho Fish and Game Department regional personnel for the 1973 fishing season.

Biologists Bob Bell, Jerome, and Don Corley, Salmon, outlined the ideas at a public hearing Tuesday night in Twin Falls. The recommendations will be sent to the Fish and Game Commission for final determination next week. None of the proposals met opposition Tuesday evening.

Corley led off by noting migration habits of Middle Fork cutthroat spawners influenced a decision to curb trout fishing on the main Salmon from Oct. 1 to May 26 on about 50 miles of the main Salmon. Noting previous studies showed spawners left the middle fork to winter in the main river, Corley said creel censusing showed a rather large number was showing up in steelhead anglers' creels. He noted the department already has restricted cutthroat take on the middle fork and the main stem opening contradicted the department's overall goal to preserve the middle fork native strain. It also would alleviate enforcement problems when anglers, claiming to be trout fishing, might be taking an illegal steelhead or three. The closure would run from North Fork to Horse Creek.

Increase of steelhead seasons weren't long but carried into the dates that anglers said would give them a better chance of success.

Corley's recommendations were Jan. 1 to March 25 on that stretch from the south fork to the middle fork; Jan. 1 to March 31 for that stretch from the middle fork to approximately 100-yards above the mouth of the Pahsimeroi, and Jan. 1 to April 26 from that point above the Pahsimeroi to Red Fish Lake Creek.

He also proposed closure from the mouth of the middle fork to Stoddard Creek, a three-mile stretch, noting the larger type B steelhead in the middle fork need protection. Censusing indicates 40 per cent of the upstream spawners are caught in that stretch. The closure wouldn't inconvenience anglers since they could still fish the main Salmon River.

Closure of the shallow gravel beds on Camas Creek also was proposed since the salmon spawners have proved very susceptible to illegal harvesting. This would close Camas Creek from Silver Creek upward and from Yellowjacket downstream to the middle fork.

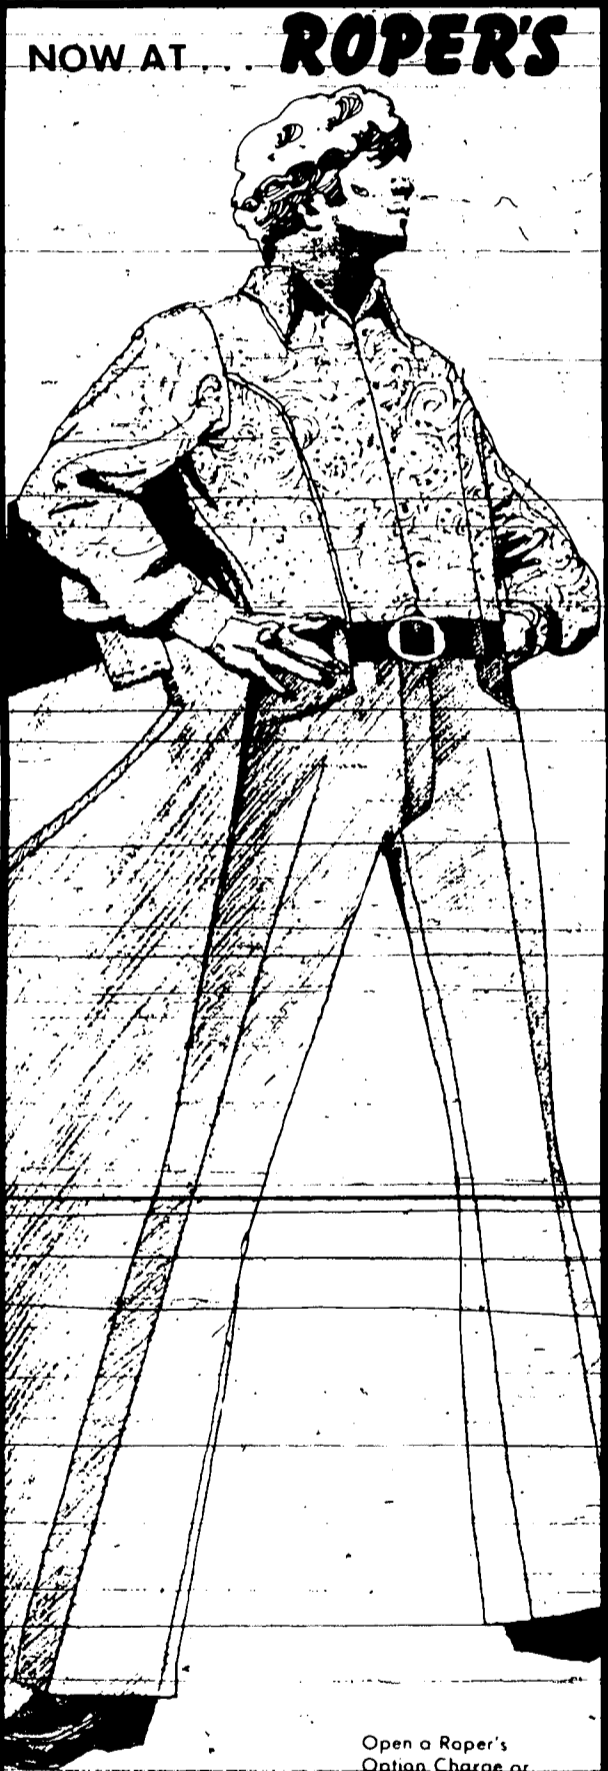

Bell recommended the kokanee limit in the South Fork of the Boise be raised from five to 10 and the single hook limitation be dropped. Bell said extensive censusing showed the kokanee take has doubled each year since 1969 to this year's estimated 34,000. This harvest manifested itself in a lower spawning run, but the drop in numbers probably was due to unknown natural causes. A heavy increase in two-year old catches, approximately two-thirds of the season's take, indicated a big run next year. Department egg take on the Trinity Creek weir dropped to 90,000 eggs this year from four and one-half million last.

Year-round trout designation on Big Lost River from the Moore to Blaine diversions be dropped to correspond with the general season, excepting whitefish fishing be allowed during the winter months.

A special spring opening on the Frank Oster Lakes in Hagerman refuge run from March 1 to Oct. 31 and the hour restriction (7 a.m. to 5 p.m.) on Riley Creek be dropped.

Bell said a study would be made on Silver Creek to see if the stream was carrying too large a trout population. Although printed regulations would be similar to last year, changes after the first of the year, including possible boat and/or float tube use, could be announced.

Lake Walcott will offer more angling if recommendations are followed. This would allow year-round bank fishing. Boat fishing from the dam to Bird Island April 1 through Sept. 30; between Gifford and Smith Springs, year-round boat fishing, and from Smith Spring to the east end of the refuge from Oct. 1 through June 30.

Nixon blasts blackouts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With No. 1 fan Richard M. Nixon making the decision himself, the administration threw its support Tuesday behind legislation that would prohibit professional sports leagues from imposing television blackouts of home games.

Thomas E. Kauper, an assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's antitrust division, disclosed Nixon's decision in a 12-page statement to a Senate hearing.

A White House spokesman said "most assuredly" when asked if Nixon had made the decision to support the legislation which would affect pro football, baseball, basketball and hockey teams.

"Not only that," he said, "the President wants to sign this bill before the Congress goes home."

Kauper's statement was aimed directly at the highly popular National Football League (NFL).

Michigan St. tries pep rally

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Ace Burgess figures there's nothing more logical for a school which just suffered its worst football defeat in 25 years than a pep rally.

As a result, he is organizing a rally for this Friday night on the Michigan State University campus as a prelude to the Spartans' home contest Saturday with eighth-ranked Notre Dame. He expects at least 10,000 students to show up.

"This is the final weekend before we really get into the Big Ten race," he said Tuesday. "If we get a good game this weekend, it would set the team up."

Actually, the pep rally—only the second one in five years on the campus—has been planned since last July. Back then most people thought State would be performing much better than it has so far.

But Burgess, a junior from Detroit who is co-captain of the MSU cheerleaders, said the 51-6 defeat inflicted by Southern Cal last weekend, the school's worst since 1947, hasn't halted plans. "I figure this is when the team really needs it," he said. "The team is not that bad. They're a good team."

Burgess said State's 1-2 record hasn't dampened student enthusiasm, either.

I think college students of today like to get it up just like students of the 50's and 60's," he said.

Stars sign free agent

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The Utah Stars Tuesday announced the signing of 6-foot-8 center-forward John Collins from New York's Brooklyn State College.

"Collins was signed as a free agent, sort of on a trial basis," a Stars' spokesman said.

Collins will be battling for a position in the Utah lineup. The American Basketball Association club will have to cut one player to get down to the maximum of 12 by Oct. 12.

Judge studies hockey problem

BOSTON (UPI)—The U.S. Court of Appeals took under advisement Tuesday an appeal by the Boston Bruins to bar Gerry Cheevers and Derek Sanderson from playing in the new World Hockey Association.

The Bruins were appealing a lower court decision not to issue an injunction against the former Bruin players.

Country club women set meet

Blue Lakes women will conduct their fall best ball tournament Thursday and Friday, announces Professional Nate Ross.

Ross said those interested in entering should call the clubhouse anytime prior to tee-off Thursday.

The pairings and tee-off times include:

9:30 a.m., M. Peterson and M. Cook and E. McAtee and S. Berg; 9:37 a.m., V. Detweiler and M. Soran and H. Buck and V. Coiner; 9:45, R. Skeer and A. Dodds and C. Everton and B. Davis; 9:52, H. Edgar and J. Rallis and V. Westergren and M. Struthers; 10 a.m., R. Henry and R. Jenkins and F. Kirkman and E. Christoffersen; 10:07, M. Jensen and J. Jones.

Prothro not ready to panic

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Coach Tommy Prothro refused to show any signs of panicking Tuesday in discussing Atlanta's 31-3 upset of his Los Angeles Rams.

"Atlanta played as well or better than any opposing team since I've been with the Rams," he told sports writers at his weekly breakfast meeting. "We're in the same spot as last year at this time — 1-1-1. The difference is this game was the only one since I've been here that the team was decisively beaten. I guess you can say that but don't bury the corpse."

Prothro, in his second year as Ram head man, declined to be drawn into a discussion of emotional factors in the Sunday loss to the Falcons.

"Atlanta won it with very good execution," he said. "Their ball carriers ran hard and we didn't tackle very well. It was a combination of those two things."

Celtics drub New Yorkers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dave Cowens scored 32 points and hauled in 21 rebounds as the Boston Celtics defeated the New York Knicks, 111-97.

Captain John Havlicek contributed 10 assists as the Celtics blew a 20-point second quarter lead before coming back strongly in the last 18 minutes of play.

With the Knicks holding a 70-67 third quarter lead, Havlicek assisted on four consecutive fast-break baskets — including two by the hard-working Cowens as the Celtics went ahead to stay.

Fire organization quits for year

SHOSHONE — The fire organization "In the Shoshone District, Bureau of Land Management, has been deactivated for another year, Michael Green, public information officer, said today.

Green said during the summer season, 32,412 acres of public lands in the district were denuded by fire. There was a total of 80 fires in the district, of which 75 per cent were man-caused. However, these man-caused fires accounted for approximately 32,000 acres, or 99 per cent of the total acres burned.

The cool days and lengthening nights, along with recent moisture, have reduced the fire danger within the district at this time.

Green emphasized, however, that this does not mean areas will not burn, and anyone utilizing the forest and range land should be cautious with their fires.

Temporary fire crews, lookouts, and dispatch centers were deactivated Friday. The fire crews all were mostly college students, who have returned to their classes at this time.

The local crews, Green said, battled fires within the district, and also assisted other districts within the State and other states in suppressing fires.

Any reports of fire or burning permit requests should be made to the District office, phone 886-2208. The burning permit season remains in effect until Oct. 20.

Teacher corps explained at Filer parents meet

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Writer

FILER — Parents gained a better understanding of the Teachers' Corps program now under way in the Filer Elementary School after hearing a panel discussion Monday evening.

Ray Baker, superintendent of School District 413, spoke on the program at a meeting in the school. The Filer school is one of 10 in Southern Idaho participating in the program. Similar programs are also being carried on in Twin Falls, Rupert and Burley.

Bill Heaps, principal at the elementary school, said the program is nation-wide but is the only one in Idaho. The government finances 90 per cent of the program and the local schools pay the remaining 10 per cent.

Members of the Filer school board and faculty drove to Morland last spring to observe the program in action in that school and were favorably impressed, according to Heaps.

The program is designed mainly to set up individualization of students in lower grades the principal said. The Filer school will apply it in the first and second grades this year, and in future years hope to keep moving it up to include the upper grades with eventually a program inaugurated for grades from one to eight, Heaps said.

Ellen Morrical, a former teacher at the Gooding School for the Blind, is corps teacher and is assisted by four interns, Marjorie Short, Lois Cammack, Sue Ellen Lammers and Mrs. Joyce Harding.

Miss Morrical explained the three objectives of the program which include better training of future teachers through actual practice; teaching and working with children; individualization of students and team teaching, and community involvement to include not only parents but all members of the community to become active in school and community affairs.

Mrs. William Bunce, remedial reading teacher at the school, said that with the new system children will assume the responsibility for their own learning. The program will enable each child to have much more individual attention, she said.

Mrs. Joyce Harding, corps member, said the interns all have had two years of college and took six weeks of in-service training at Idaho State University this summer. All are taking some night classes and may return to the university for any subjects they are unable to get here. After a two-year period of corps teaching, the interns will receive their teaching degrees.

Mrs. Roy Watson, community lay leader, discussed the community participation under the program. This is the only portion of the program which is not funded and teachers hired to teach any adult classes will be paid from fees charged for the classes. A survey will soon be made of the community to ascertain its needs, Mrs. Watson said.

She introduced the five husband-wife teams of the steering committee who will work with her and the corps members as well as the principal and superintendent.

A questions period brought a barrage of questions from the large crowd of parents attending the meeting. Some discussion involved the new dismissal time of 2:30 p.m. for first graders. Most parents agreed the early dismissal had certain merit but provided hardships for some parents who were unable to come after their children at that time.

Supt. Baker said a series of teacher-parent conferences will be held Nov. 16-17. He said in place of teachers' institute this year, each teacher in the school will visit some other classroom to observe teaching methods.

US group heads for Himalayas

BANGKOK (UPI) — A group of young American scientists has set out on a 15-month expedition into the Himalayas that appears to be the best chance yet at uncovering the ageless mystery surrounding the yeti, better known as the Abominable Snowman.

Pursuing the legendary beast is by no means the only goal of this serious, $100,000 trek into eastern Nepal where no man has lived before.

But Jeffrey McNeely, 29, originally of Los Angeles and now a Bangkok resident, says he and his colleagues will surely be looking for the yeti and believe they are headed for a region that is its most likely habitat. McNeely is co-leader of the expedition and its mammal expert.

McNeely and four other trained animal and plant observers with academic and extensive field experience started the expedition last Tuesday when the first of their group left Bangkok for Nepal. Others will follow early this week, then all will set out from Katmandu by truck and a 10-day walk to the isolated Arun Valley, located at the far eastern end of the tiny kingdom near the border with Tibet.

Others in the party are Edward W. Cronin, 28, of Wilmington, Del., who like McNeely is a wildlife biologist and a co-leader; Dr. Howard B. Emery, 35, of Glendale, Calif., the project physician who plans to do ectoparasite research on the trip; James N. Foster, 26, of Champaign, Ill., the group's botanist, and Foster's wife, Karen, also a botanist.

Also in the party are McNeely's brother, David, 19, who will serve as cook, and Dr. Douglas Burns, of Portland, Ore., now a Bangkok psychiatrist who is joining the first two and the last months of the expedition to collect reptile and amphibian specimens.

The group plans to reach the area where they will concentrate their studies in October and remain until December 1974 — by far the longest and most intense scientific scrutiny to which the remote Himalayan regions has been subjected.

McNeely said the best hope for new finds lies in new species of bats, mites and ticks believed to inhabit the area but never before collected and classified. From a scientific point of view, such discoveries are as exciting as finding evidence of larger, more spectacular creatures. But with luck there could be some of those, too, he says.

'The question, of course, is does it still exist? Well, we think it's highly possible.'

Besides the yeti, there may be more spectacular creatures. With luck the researchers could catch a glimpse of the snow leopard — only photographed once before — "and people living below the forests have told of bearlike and catlike creatures that they've seen," McNeely said.

The youthful, "antiestablishment" scientist said he hesitated to speak too much about the yeti "because people will get the idea that's all we're interested in."

But he said teeth and bone discoveries make it "100 per cent certain" the beast existed up to 500,000 years ago.

"The question, of course, is does it still exist? Well, we think it's highly possible," McNeely said. The evidence, he said, included giant footprints in the snow that were photographed by a British Himalayan expedition in 1951, but the best evidence comes from the Sherpa inhabitants of the Arun River Valley.

"People from the region have described such an animal and the descriptions, from widely scattered locales, have a marked similarity," he said. He said Sherpa people have told of large, primate-like creatures poaching on their farms and destroying their crops.

McNeely believes if any trained observers will see the yeti, his group should because they are staying longer and looking in more logical places than searchers did in the past.

The higher elevations where the Abominable Snowman accounts were born, reasons McNeely, is not the place to look. "Such a habitat clearly would not support a large primate," he says.

More than likely the beast, described through scientific reconstruction of jaw and other bone structures as a hairy, "King Kong"-like ape about five feet tall, spends most of his time in the lower forest regions, McNeely said.

It is here where the scientists will spend more than one year watching plant and animal life of all kinds — in an area chosen because man has left it completely alone — and where the yeti, if he exists, is most likely to be exposed before trained eye and camera lens.

If they get the chance, McNeely said, the scientists will capture the yeti, take hair, blood, urine and bone marrow samples — then release him to resume his long-held freedom.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I live in Salem, Ore., and here is my complaint. The government gives me food stamps for which I can get anything I want to eat. They even let me have chewing gum. But they won't give me soap or toilet paper! This doesn't make any sense to me, and I would like you to please find out how come, because those items are a lot more important than chewing gum. Thank you.

MRS. C. IN OREGON

DEAR MRS. C.: It didn't make any sense to me either, so I referred your complaint to your very able senator, Mark O. Hatfield. He replied: "Congress sought to get food into the stomachs of the truly needy, so by law, only FOOD can be obtained with food stamps. Not only is cleanliness next to Godliness, it is as essential to good health as food. I agree, poor people need soap more than they need gum. Now you've given ME something to chew on, and I am going to do all I can to improve the situation."

No soap
with stamps

DEAR ABBY: I just read about the woman who is humiliated because her husband gawks at women with big bosoms. The explanation was that such men are little boys still looking for "Mommy."

Well, I have a husband who likes to look, too, but the girls he looks at in no way resemble his "Mommy." They are usually teen-agers. When he sees a young girl in a miniskirt and a nice figure he forgets where he is and whom he's with. He gets as close as he can to her, and just stares and stares. And the look on his face is frightening at times.

My husband is 50 and so am I. I have a figure my married daughters envy and I keep my hair nice and dress well.

Don't tell me to talk to my pastor. He is my pastor. I honestly think this man is sick in the head. What do you think?

WORRIED IN FLORIDA

DEAR WORRIED: I think you ought to get him to a doctor. A man of the cloth can't afford to sully his reputation, and he surely will if he doesn't quit this unbecoming behavior. Pastors are not saints. Pastors are people, and they are susceptible to the same illnesses (and weaknesses) as the rest of us.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder if any of your readers are bothered by the same thing that bothers me. When shopping I will often look up and see someone watching me! I realize that with all the shoplifting going on, they have to watch people, but you would think they would have trained personnel who could do this subtly so as not to make the customers feel they are being spied on.

A friend of mine who works in a supermarket told me that he was told to keep his eye on me! (I have already talked to my lawyer about this.)

If I am suspicious looking it must be from a complex I have. I am shy by nature and do not like to look people squarely in the face. I can't help it. It hurts to think I am not trusted because I would never steal anything.

Thanks for letting me get this off my chest.

INNOCENT BUT LOOKS GUILTY

DEAR ABBY: I think I have an even more touche' reply for the person who says, "I'll tell you something very confidential if you promise not to repeat it."

Say, "Don't tell me. You know I can't keep my mouth shut any better than you can."

STEVEN C.

Vicki L. Ross, Equils say vows

BUHL — The First Christian Church was the setting for the marriage of Vicki L. Ross and George "Tim" Equils Sept. 29 in the presence of their immediate families.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe V. Ross, Buhl. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elias Leija, Kimberly.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Harrie S. Young before a background of fall flower arrangements.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length gown of white nylon eyelet in an A-line style, over pink taffeta. The dress featured a high neckline and long sleeves. She wore a ring of pink carnations and pink velvet leaves in her hair and carried a bouquet of pink carnations on a white Bible. The Bible was given to her by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Paris Bolton, Buhl.

Mrs. George Brush, Buhl, was matron of honor. Raymond Cox, Kimberly, served as best man. Mrs. Robert Day played the traditional wedding music. Flowers for the wedding were made by Mrs. Vernon Rodig, Buhl, cousin of the bride.

A reception for family members was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth over pink. The two-tiered cake decorated with white sugar bells, pink roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was decorated with pink net and greens around the base. Pink tapers in gold holders accented with circles of flowers and pink ribbon flanked the cake.

Special guests at the wedding were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paris Bolton and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Hyder, all Buhl, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hyder, Jerome, uncle and aunt of the bride.

The couple will reside in Buhl. The bride is attending Hollywood Beauty College. The bridegroom is employed by Ace Hansen Co.

Gem Garden Club Symposium slated

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley District of Federated Garden Clubs will sponsor the third state Garden Club Symposium, Oct. 10, 11, and 12, at the IOOF Hall, Twin Falls.

The symposium will serve as a refresher course for some 25 National Council amateur flower show judges from Idaho, Utah, Montana and Washington. Registration will be from 8 to 8:45 a.m. Oct. 10 and 11, and from 9 to 9:30 a.m. Oct. 12.

The local garden club reports the symposium schedule. On Tuesday morning, beginning at 8:45 a.m. Mrs. C. F. Gregg, Tigard, Ore., a master judge and nationally accredited instructor in horticulture, flower show practice, flower arranging, design of plantings, and conservation in flower shows, will speak on chrysanthemums, crab apples and Viburnums.

From 1 to 2 p.m. Carl Henschel, well-known Rupert gardener and cactus enthusiast, will discuss cacti and succulents.

Beginning at 3:15 p.m. Mrs. Marshall LeBaron, Kimberly, professor of biology, College of Southern Idaho, will show altitudinal and seasonal differences in wild flowers.

The afternoon session will conclude with a point scoring examination in horticulture for judges only.

The Tuesday morning session will feature Mrs. Lloyd W. Staples, Eugene, Ore., a national council accredited instructor, who will speak on "Perception in Designing, Viewing and Judging." In the afternoon, she will discuss judging techniques and guide the practice point scoring of two classes of designs made by selected students.

Mrs. Staples is trained in Japanese flower arranging and has had two years of art study in Mexico, Europe and the Middle East in addition to her six years as instructor in National Council flower show schools in Idaho, Oregon, Utah and Washington.

From 1 to 2 p.m. Tuesday, LaVar Steel, chairman of the Fine Arts Department of the College of Southern Idaho, will speak on "Trends in Art."

The point score examination on flower arrangements will be held after the lectures.

Thursday morning beginning at 9:30, Walter Peay, former investigations leader of USDA Entomology Research, will discuss "Harmful and Beneficial Insects in the Flower and Vegetable Garden."

After Peay's talk, Mrs. Lawrence Wheeler, registered nurse, will talk on her long time hobby of drying and arranging flowers.

Those wanting further information may call Mrs. S. W. Smith, 733-1315.

the loss of a club trick. South does ruff the diamond and he plays three rounds of spades. East follows to the third spade and South should stop a moment and try to count the hand.

He can't get an exact count but he knows that East started with three spades, three hearts and some number of diamonds. West led the three of that suit and played the deuce next.

If South decides that West started with five diamonds, that gives East the same number and leaves him just two clubs.

Now South changes his plan and cashes the two top clubs before throwing East in. East doesn't have a club left and has to give South a ruff and discard.

Chain endorses Nixon

By United Press International
The Scripps-Howard Newspapers endorsed President Nixon for re-election Tuesday, saying "rarely has the choice been so clear."

"We seriously doubt too that Sen. George S. McGovern has the capacity and the leadership quality needed for the awesome job of President," said an editorial appearing in the 17 Scripps-Howard newspapers. Scripps-Howard also endorsed Nixon in 1968. The editorial today said in part:

"Nixon is not the type who excites idolizing partisans. Nevertheless, he has exerted a strong leadership, at home and abroad — steady and productive."

"Nixon has a tendency to oversell some of his programs, to generalize in such fashion as to leave the impression that some of his proposals are surefire cures, to promise (by implication if not by direct words) faster results than conditions obviously warrant."

"But in spite of this, in spite of the disappointments, in spite of some shoddy performances by those on his 'team' — the Watergate stupidity, to name one — the President has come through on the problems."

"He has kept his cool. He has stuck largely to his announced plans. He has tempered the hostility of the communist powers. He has negotiated the beginning steps toward disarmament. He has enhanced the county's prestige in world affairs. He has established a general credibility."

"And he has been a working President — diligent in seeing answers to a staggering accumulation of problems, domestic and worldwide."

"His batting average is high."

Travel approval defeated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill to require presidential approval for travel by Americans to North Vietnam or any nation in armed conflict with the United States has been narrowly defeated by the House.

The measure fell just 18 votes short of passage Monday and its chief sponsor, Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., said he would ask the Rules Committee to revive the controversial bill for another vote.

Opponents claimed the measure was unconstitutional and would allow government censorship of news since reporters would need presidential approval to go to North Vietnam.

But backers of the bill complained that antiwar activists such as actress Jane Fonda and former Attorney General Ramsey Clark had traveled to Hanoi to make anti-American propaganda statements.

Rep. Roger Zion, R-Ind., said that Clark, Miss Fonda and others were "walking the extreme left side of the street, trying to prolong the war and the killing by demanding a Communist victory."

Bowman is best loser

HANSEN — Mrs. Paul Bowman was best weekly loser at the Monday evening meeting of Idaho TOPS Chapter No. 84 at the home of Mrs. Thomas Steelman.

Mrs. Reed Lyons, leader, gave the opening thought, "Shape Up and Treat Your Family to a New Dish, Remember Only You Can Do It."

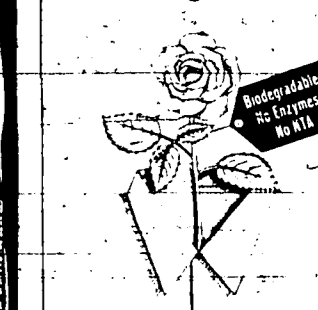

Mrs. James Wright was reinstated as a member. Mrs. Steelman received a gift for being the best monthly loser.

Quarterly queens will be honored at the next meeting. Members were reminded of the fall rally to be held Oct. 19 in Burley. Registrations must be in by Oct. 10.

Mrs. Lyons said she would order scrapbooks for anyone wanting one.

A new team contest point system will begin next week and end Nov. 13. Losers will treat the winners to a salad luncheon. Mrs. Bowman is in charge of the contest. Team captains are Mrs. Hazel Schutte and Mrs. Stephanie Godfrey. Mrs. Irene Harris was hostess.

A National VD Day, that's what Dr. David Reuben recommends. On said day, everybody this side of puberty would get one fine dose of antibiotics plus a drug to prolong the effect. Such could wipe out the unspeakable ailments nationwide in hours, claims the doctor. Might cost a day and a dollar, as it were. But not so much as one week of war. Complete eradication — zap — of the whisper miseries.

THE ZOO in Peking lets in free anybody who can walk under the meter-high turnstile without bumping the head.

"TO PREVENT a bad sunburn from peeling," recommends one medical fellow in Los Angeles, "mix one cup of buttermilk with two peeled, mashed, fresh tomatoes. Apply this sauce to the burn for one hour."

ARGUMENT continues over which of these United States is the most easterly. That's Alaska. It's also the most westerly. And the most northerly. Now wait, it's true. The sun rises on Alaska before it rises on Maine.

LOVE AND WAR In his ongoing analyses of the difference between ladies and gentlemen, our Love and War man observes, "Take language. In a public emporium, the words 'Let's have another' is clearly male. The words 'Oh, do you really think I should,' strictly female. 'Something cool' is feminine, 'belt' masculine. And of course 'how much' is his language while 'will you excuse me for a moment' I'll be right back' is hers."

WHY DO three out of four lawyers nationwide now carry malpractice insurance? Because lawsuits by clients against their own attorneys have jumped by 25 per cent in the last five years, for one thing.

No acreage cut likely in rice crop

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Tentative government projections of strong rice exports in the 1972-73 marketing season indicate that, at a minimum, the Agriculture Department will make no move to force an acreage cut on rice growers in 1973, experts agreed today.

There is even a possibility, some experts speculated privately, that growers operating under the federal support program for rice may be given a chance to increase plantings next year.

The improved outlook for rice producers, who are facing a stiff production cutback one year ago, grows out of sharply improved exports under aid programs during the past year, plus hoped for improved commercial sales in the current season.

One year ago, in the fall of 1971, the Agriculture Department told rice producers they would have to trim acreage from that year's 1.836 million acres down to 1.653 million acres for 1972.

Before the crop was planted, however, an increase in overseas aid authorizations allowed the Agriculture Department to cancel the cut and restore the 1.836 million acreage level for 1972.

Looking ahead to next year, officials said they will not even consider an acreage cut because carryover stocks are apparently headed down for the second straight year.

In 1971, farmers produced 84.3 million hundredweight of rice. But expanded domestic use in the 1971-72 marketing year plus record export sales consumed 92.4 million hundredweight. As a result, 8.1 million hundredweight had to be pulled out of storage stocks, butting the carryover left on hand when the 1972-73 marketing year opened Aug. 1 down to 11.4 million hundredweight.

This year, the crop is estimated at 84.6 million hundredweight. But unpublished tentative forecasts indicate total domestic and export sales could reach 88.7 million hundredweight. This would again pull reserves down, reducing them to about 7.5 million hundredweight next summer.

These are the figures which led experts here to conclude that a planting cut next year is virtually out of the question, and that an acreage increase might be needed if foreign demand and congressional willingness to finance heavy aid shipments should continue.

The current strong demand situation has led Agriculture Department economists to predict, in a report released late last week, that farmers will again find prices above government support levels as they market their 1972 rice harvest.

For the 1971 crop, market prices averaged $5.24 per hundredweight, 17 cents above the support rate of $5.07 for this year's crop, the report said prices may average $5.53 to $5.80 per hundredweight, about 26 to 53 cents above the 1972 support level of $5.27.

Viets get free rice

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Food for Peace program will ship 200,000 tons of rice to South Vietnam, but a provision of the contract will give $30.2 million to the Saigon government to defray war costs.

The Agriculture Department announced the shipment Monday. Under the shipping agreement, South Vietnam will pay for the rice in what is technically a long-term credit arrangement.

However, 80 per cent of the funds, or $30.2 million, will be turned right back to the Vietnamese government as a "grant for common defense."

Patronage fight hurts Demo plans

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—George McGovern's campaign in Pennsylvania has suffered from an embarrassing party rift over patronage promises in the key city of Philadelphia.

A spokesman said the Democratic presidential candidate recently worked out an "uneasy truce" in a long meeting with Peter J. Camiel, chairman of the powerful city machine.

But strategists for President Nixon say it was the best thing that could have happened to help them in Pennsylvania, where they lead in the polls by at least 11 percentage points.

"It has continued to be a source of amazement and pleasure," said Mike Willman of the Nixon campaign.

The patronage dispute surfaced after Vick French, McGovern's state coordinator, appointed liberal state Rep. Norman Berson to run the Senator's Philadelphia operation.

Sources said Camiel dislikes Berson because he refused to support Democrat Frank Rizzo for mayor of Philadelphia in 1971.

"French was crowing about how he shoved Berson down Camiel's throat," Willman said. "And Camiel was furious."

A McGovern spokesman said Camiel, who refused to attend a rally and fund-raiser, later asked to talk to the candidate when he went to Philadelphia.

"When they sat down together," he said, "Camiel said he wanted to be sure that he'll have some voice in patronage if McGovern is elected. McGovern said okay."

After the meeting, Berson was replaced by Wendell Young, head of the Retail Clerks union in the city and a liberal in his early 30s.

"Young can get along with all sides," the spokesman said.

All calls now are funneled through Camiel's office, Young said. He also has appointed a McGovern representative and a labor representative to work with each of the city's 66 ward leaders.

French said he is convinced Philadelphia is the key to the state's 27 electoral votes and McGovern must get a 250,000 vote edge in Philadelphia to carry the state.

Willman thinks Nixon will hold McGovern to a 112,000 vote advantage in Philadelphia, giving him a victory in Pennsylvania for the first time. Nixon never before has been able to crack a 2-to-1 Democratic registration edge in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh.

The President's biggest asset in Philadelphia is the endorsement of Mayor Rizzo, a popular ex-police chief who recently visited the White House and returned with a $52 million check for the city.

Democratic state legislators, afraid that Nixon's coattails will cost them control at the capitol, already are handing out brochures describing "how to split your ticket."

"In the final analysis, we've got to protect our own interests," said state Sen. Henry J. Cianfrani, a Philadelphia Democrat. He is running for re-election in an Italian-American neighborhood where Rizzo is influential.

Cianfrani said McGovern will be riding the coattails of other incumbent Democrats in Philadelphia.

Sources said the city organization might drop McGovern from the top of its sample ballot on election day if his chances look bleak. But Young denied it, saying it would be politically foolish.

"We will have to make sure that none of the individual candidates do it either," he said.

Republicans agree Philadelphia is the key to Pennsylvania.

"If they can't win here," Willman added, "they aren't going to win anywhere. And they're not going to win here."

Ford warns on protectionism

NEW YORK (UPI)—The protectionist movement in the United States has a "catastrophic potential" which could reduce employment while resulting in higher prices for the American consumer, Ford Motor Co. Chairman Henry Ford II said Tuesday.

Describing pending legislation in Congress as "an American declaration of economic war on all of our trading partners," Ford called for the defeat of the Hartke-Burke foreign trade and investment bill.

In remarks prepared for the French Chamber of Commerce in the United States, Ford said annual purchases from the Common Market would be cut by about $2 billion a year. Purchases from Japan would be cut by about $2.5 billion and from Canada about $3.5 billion, Ford said.

The Hartke-Burke bill "would destroy the whole fabric of international trade and investment," he said. "It would eliminate the multinational corporation as an effective contributor to economic growth in the developing nations as well as in the developed nations."

"Each nation has too much at stake in its worldwide trade and investments to cut itself off from the world without doing enormous harm to itself as well as to others," Ford said.

The measure has little chance of being passed in its present form, but it represents a very real threat, Ford said. It is clear, he said, that most of the labor movement, many companies and growing segments of both parties are pushing hard for protective policies.

Grave markers cause uproar

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—The Des Moines Park Board met late Tuesday to consider an exception that would allow a young mother to place hand-crafted headstones on the graves of her infant children.

Mrs. Cynthia Frederick, 21, labored more than 100 hours on the concrete headstones because she and her husband, Douglas, could not afford the commercial markers found on most graves.

The two Frederick children, Benjamin James and Christa Ann, both died shortly after birth of hyaline membrane disease, a lung ailment, leaving the family with medical and funeral expenses and only a small monthly income from Frederick's military pay.

With patience, Mrs. Frederick poured the concrete and sanded the crude markers until they looked like polished stone. On Aug. 26, she and her father went to the city's public cemetery and placed the markers on her children's graves.

Last week, Mrs. Frederick discovered both markers missing. They had been removed by a cemetery official because they were not granite or bronze as required by the park board policy. "People just don't care about other people's personal feelings," Mrs. Frederick said. "I don't think it's fair that you have to have money to put a headstone on your child's grave."

Mrs. Frederick's story stirred reaction from a number of Des Moines residents, and Councilman Jack Woods told the City Council Monday night he has received more calls on the matter than on any other issue. He said callers offered to buy granite grave stones or contribute money so Mrs. Frederick could choose the markers she wanted.

The council demanded a "full report" from the Park Board on why the handmade markers were removed.

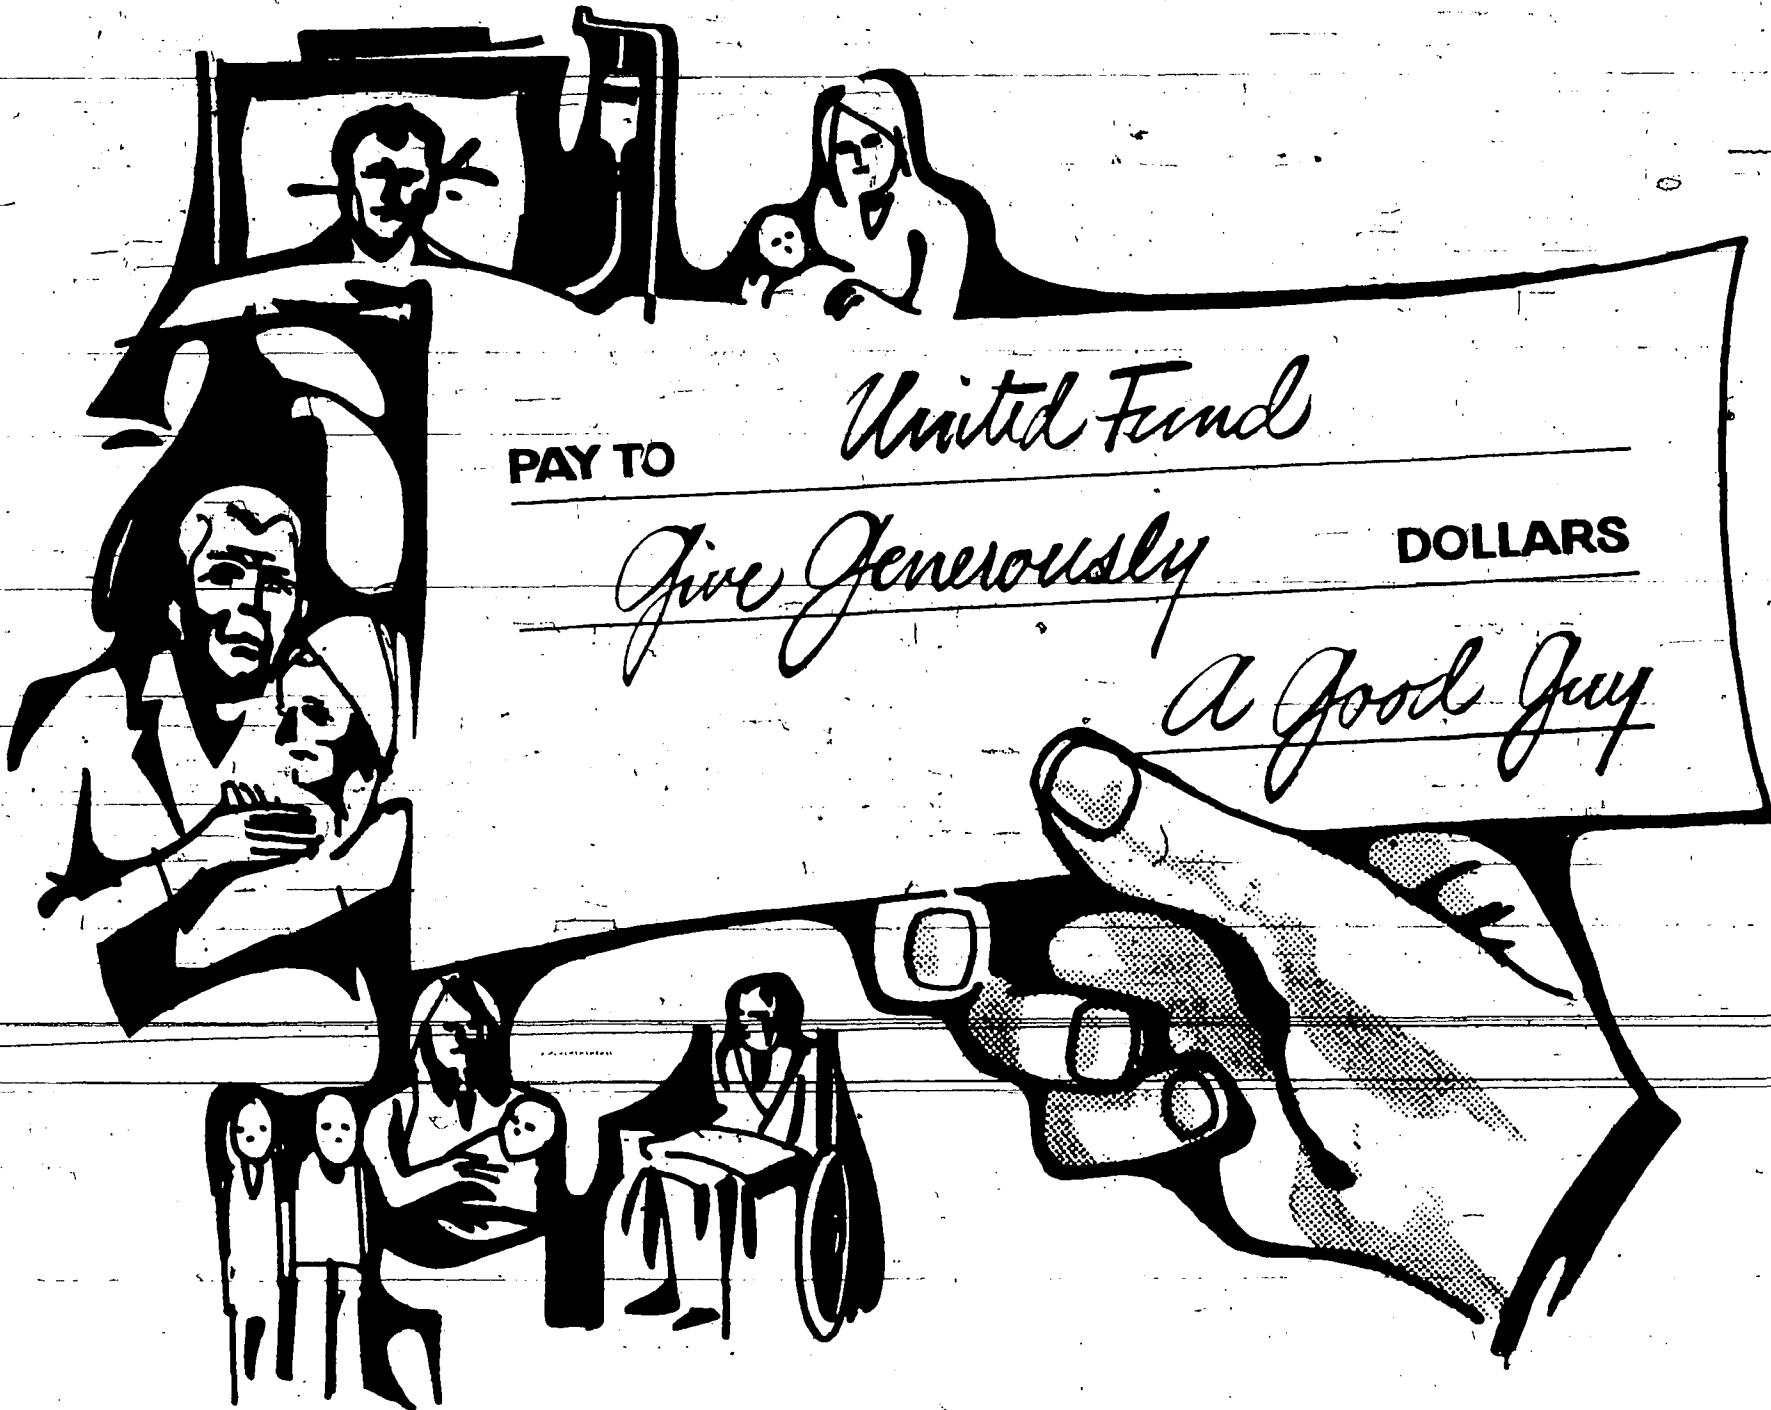

"Whoever was in charge (of Glendale Cemetery) acted very callously," said Councilman Sheldon Rabinowitz, "and I'd like to know why."

Mrs. Frederick, who has been advised by doctors to have no more children due to a diabetic ailment, left Des Moines on Sunday to join her husband in West Germany where he is an Army military policeman.

She intends to remain with him for the duration of his tour of duty and perhaps adopt a child in Europe, but she had hoped to have her own children's graves marked and "taken care of" before leaving the city.

"I'm going to be gone for 2½ years and I wanted to know our children's graves were taken care of," she said last week. "It was going to be past history and Germany was going to be like the start of a new life."

"Now this. I just want to help other people in the same situation as we are."

Prime rate hiked

NEW YORK (UPI)—The prime rate became more firmly established at 5 3/4 per cent Tuesday as Bank of America, the nation's largest, joined other banks boosting the fee charged to their most credit-worthy customers.

This move, effective immediately, followed similar boosts Monday by Chase Manhattan Bank, Chemical Bank New York Trust Co., Bankers Trust Co. and others. This round of increases by banks employing fixed rate formulas is a strong indication the new level will soon be nationwide.

Indications that rates generally would tend upward appeared two weeks ago when Mellon National Bank and Trust Co., Pittsburgh, boosted its "floating" prime fee to 5 3/4 per cent.

Last Friday, First National City Bank and Irving Trust Co. made similar moves. These rates are pegged to the money markets and adjusted on a weekly basis to reflect fluctuations in them. Such fluctuations usually provide the first indication prime rates are going up.
