CREWS carry away debris from a fallen freeway bridge that collapsed near Pasadena, Calif., Tuesday. The death toll has risen to six, with 21 workmen injured, six critically. Bodies of three victims were found this morning encased in a block of concrete estimated to weigh 100 tons, which hardened around them. (UPI)

Kissinger trek leads to Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's special peace envoy, arrived in Saigon tonight from Paris for the second round of secret, high-level talks with South Vietnamese leaders in two months.

Kissinger's sudden trip to Saigon from peace talks with the North Vietnamese in Paris increased already widespread speculation of an imminent breakthrough in the talks to end the Vietnam War. There has been no official announcement to back up the speculation, and the only official comment was that the talks had reached a "sensitive" stage.

Brilliant white search flares

US-Russ agree

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States and the Soviet Union have reached a comprehensive trade agreement, the White House announced Wednesday.

President Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, gave no immediate details of the agreement but said it included settlement of Russia's World War II lend-lease debt to the United States, on which this country had claimed $800 million.

Nixon arranged a meeting later in the day with the Soviet trade minister, Nikolai S. Patolichev, to conclude discussion on the pact.

The groundwork for the agreement was laid during Nixon's Moscow summit in May.

Mr. T-N says

Apparently finding a hijacker is easier than a needle in an Oregon haystack.

Signal spurs search

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)

Search planes today skimmed over the rugged Chilkat Mountain range south of Juneau where an emergency radio beeper signal was heard in the area where a plane vanished with House Majority leader Hale Boggs and three others aboard.

Two helicopters reported hearing the radio signals late Tuesday, and an intensive search of the area was made before nightfall without picking up the signals again. An Air Force electronically equipped plane criss-crossed the region all night without hearing any further signals. There was no indication whether the signal may have come from the missing plane.

The area where the radio beacon was heard near Juneau was overcast and there was some rain.

Search planes combed a 60-mile wide corridor along the 550-mile flight coastline.

Bugging denied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House today denied that any of its employees ever directed acts of political sabotage and spying against the Democratic Party or any other group.

"No one here at the White House ever directed such activities because if they had, they would no longer be at the White House because it is activity we do not condone," said Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

But Ziegler, who repeatedly referred to his statement as a "White House assertion," would not respond when newsmen asked.

TF school vote delayed

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school trustees have accepted the recommendation of their citizen committee to postpone a proposed Dec. 5 bond election.

The date had been suggested by the board in the hopes of using the new buildings for 1974 classes.

(Related story, P. 5)

Executive members of the advisory committee had recommended the date be delayed to provide more time to prepare for an election.

Citizen committee chairman, Gary Custer, told the trustees Tuesday night the reason for the delay was the lack of public interest and support and a need by the citizens group for more time to set priorities for the district and to promote a favorable vote.

He said if an election is to be held it will require 60 days for preparing plans and promoting support of the bond issue. That 60 days is already gone, he said.

Haystack yields hijack suspect

ENTERPRISE, Ore. (UPI) — A man suspected of armed robbery, kidnapping and hijacking a private airplane in Idaho was captured this morning shivering in a haystack.

Joseph T. Johnston, 30, Portland, Ore., was found by a posse of law enforcement officers about three miles from where he apparently wrecked a stolen car. He had crawled into the haystack to escape 20-degree temperatures.

Johnston allegedly stole the car Tuesday after freeing two hostages and abandoning the stolen airplane at a ranch in Washington state. The airplane was taken from McCall, Idaho. Johnston is a suspect in a holdup of a Boise discount store Monday.

The chain of events began after noon Tuesday when Johnston was taken to the McCall police station for questioning about the $20,000 robbery of the store in Boise.

McCall Police Chief William Acker said Johnston drew a pistol and forced Valley County Deputy Darold Lynsky to accompany him to the airport. When the two arrived there, Johnston ordered pilot Philip Remakus to take off in a Cessna 206.

Four hours later, near the end of its gas supply, the Cessna landed on a gravel road at the Frank Johnson ranch near Anateone in the Southeastern corner of Washington.

Johnston took a stationwagon after shooting out the tires of another car and the plane. He left Remakus, Lynsky, Mrs. Johnson and her five children unharmed.

US rejects area poverty agency program

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

JEROME — The South Central Community Action Agency has been placed on probation until Nov. 30 by regional poverty officials.

The action, made official at a tri-county board meeting in Jerome Tuesday, stems from the inadequacies of a work plan submitted by the local agency at the end of the last month. A plan that itself was ordered because an earlier one was unacceptable.

The immediate effect of the action by regional officials is to send the anti-poverty effort in Twin Falls, Jerome and Cassia County back to the drawing boards for workers to come up with an acceptable work plan, but the long range effect could be to reorganize the staff structure and narrow the focus of the agency's efforts in the tri-county area.

The decision to place the agency on probation, made by regional Office of Economic Opportunity, Director James Young, comes at a time when the CAA locally has been beset with problems from constituent groups and staff disharmony.

Harold Whitehead, chief of the Idaho team of the regional office, informed the board of directors at the meeting in Jerome Tuesday that the probationary action would be followed with more stringent measures if the new work plan, due by the middle of November, didn't measure up to standards.

The terms of probation include:

- The agency must submit an acceptable work program to the regional office by Nov. 15;
- No new staff members may be employed without regional approval;
- No salary increases may be granted without regional approval;
- "Open Hiring" will be instituted following the work plan's submission to the office, with only the executive director exempted.

"Open hiring" means that all staff members — from program planners to janitors must resign their positions and submit applications for rehiring if they wish to continue working for the agency. At the same time, the CAA must advertise for applications to fill staff positions and go through a normal hiring procedure for each staff position.

The decision from the regional office, expected by agency officials for the last several days, comes as a direct result of the latest work plan submitted by the local agency. A work plan sets out goals and tactics for the coming year.

The plan, which called for enormous doses of outside advisory help at all levels of operation, was rejected, according to Young's letter, for three reasons:

- The listed goals aren't quantifiable;
- "too much emphasis is placed on trying to determine what projects the agency will undertake for the remainder of the program year;"

"many of the project goals are normal Community Action Agency responsibilities."

Failure of the agency to write acceptable work plan in the next 30 days would bring more disciplinary action by the regional office, including possible termination of the contract grant, which would put the agency out of business.

According to Whitehead, probation "is a warning" saying that if "things don't shape up, other things will happen."

The agency board of directors, prepared for the decision, took Whitehead's remarks calmly. But William Chancey, a board member and Twin Falls County commissioner, objected to what he said was an "ultimatum" from regional officials, and said the action has "taken the community part of this thing. Community action means action on the part of the community, our hands are tied. You're the ones that call the shots."

Some oil escapes to Lake Powell

PIUTE FARMS, Utah (UPI)—The San Juan River swelled to five times its normal size after heavy rains today, forcing the huge oil slick at its mouth hard against three holding booms and squeezing some oil into Lake Powell.

A spokesman for the Environmental Protection Agency said, however, that "a very small amount (of oil) is going in" the clear waters of the 186-mile-long lake.

The U. S. Geological Survey said it measured 10,800 second-feet of water in the San Juan near Mexican Hat Tuesday. Normal flow for the season is between 700 and 2,000 second-feet. A spokesman said the rate is up 4,500 second-feet from Monday afternoon.

River runner Ken Ross said he saw along the oil-stained San Juan that beavers had built temporary homes on the banks above the water line.

"You might say the beavers are hanging from ledges," Ross said.

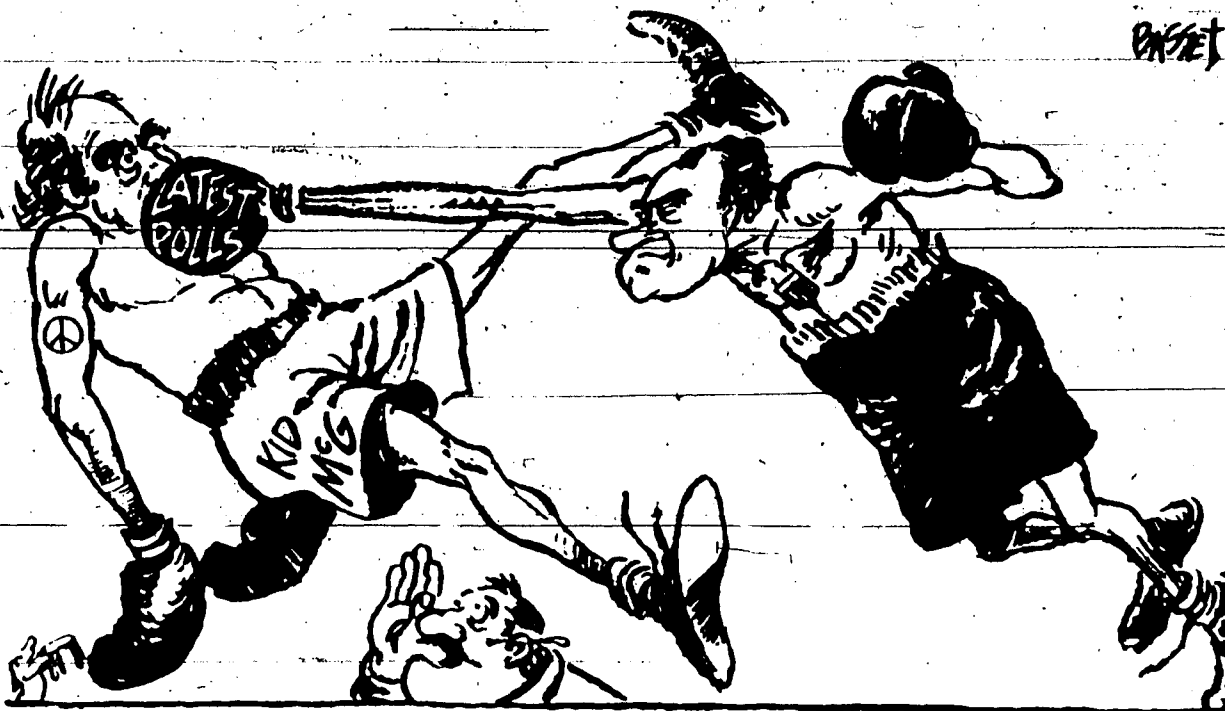

The EPA said the heavy rains which have plagued the area for four days were bringing overland cleanup operations to a near standstill.

Many roads in southeastern Utah were impassable. San Juan County Sheriff Rigby Wright issued a hazardous travel conditions warning for all unpaved roads in the Four Corners area.

"The ones that aren't washing away are mush," he said.

Four helicopters aided the 110-man task force trying to contain the bulk of the 4,000-barrel oil slick at Copper Canyon, where the San Juan empties into Lake Powell. The oil came from a broken pipeline in New Mexico a week ago.

Indian treaty still binding

SHERIDAN, Wyo. (UPI)—A 121-year-old treaty signed by the Crow Indians and the U.S. government has been cited in what may turn out to be a landmark case.

Paul Badhorse Jr., a Crow Indian from the reservation in southern Montana, was charged last March with illegal possession of deer after he was stopped by game wardens.

Badhorse's attorney cited the 1851 treaty of Fort Laramie which, he alleged, retained the Crow Indians' right to hunt, fish, and cross over the land granted to the tribe.

The land was some 39 million acres stretching from the present Yellowstone National Park on the west to the Black Hills on the east, and from the middle of Wyoming north to the middle of Montana.

A U.S. Court of Appeals in 1932 said the treaty was still binding.

Policeman of year

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A New Orleans police officer who saved a small boy from drowning in the Mississippi River was named policeman of the year Tuesday.

Jake Miller, a canine handler who hasn't drawn his gun once in seven years as a policeman, was presented with a bronze plaque at the 79th annual meeting of the International Association of Police Chiefs.

Miller, who weighs 235 pounds and once tried out with the Denver Broncos pro football team, works with an eight-year-old shepherd named Rebel.

He was exercising Rebel in a park by the river when a raft carrying two small boys broke apart.

CAA to redraw plans

But Whitehead disagreed, saying the regional office had been "more than fair with the agency" and said he was "not trying to tie your hands."

He said the agency had had eight months to come up with an acceptable package for the regional office, and had failed each time. The most recent attempt, submitted Sept. 30, came after a 90-day extension on the originally prepared document, which itself was unacceptable.

But a more long range effect of the regional office's decision will be to give the board and the executive director an opportunity to hire a completely new staff.

The provision for open hiring, Whitehead said, was to ensure that staff positions are filled according to the dictates of the work program, and not vice versa. And although the regional directive specifically exempted executive director Bobby Russell from the open hiring provision, Russell told the board he wanted to be considered in an open hiring manner as well.

Union pushes jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The AFL-CIO's chief economist told Congress today that the government's top economic priority should be "full employment" in which jobs would be available to all persons seeking work.

Nathaniel Goldfinger, research director for the labor federation, said this would mean an unemployment rate of from 2 to 2.5 per cent since many workers still would be out of jobs temporarily for various reasons at any one time.

Goldfinger, in testimony prepared for the Joint Economic Committee, thus disagreed with President Nixon's approach that inflation, not unemployment, is the biggest economic problem. Labor leaders have accused the White House of fighting inflation by increasing unemployment.

The committee is holding hearings on ways to lower the jobless rate, currently at 5.5 per cent after hanging near the 6 per cent mark for 19 months. Goldfinger said the solution is simple: the government should take steps to create more jobs, especially for the semi-skilled and unskilled workers.

He said this could be done by increased federal spending to create jobs directly or to spend money on projects that would lead to more jobs. He said federal efforts should be selectively pinpointed toward creating more jobs.

In contrast, Goldfinger said President Nixon had depended "entirely on a simplistic push-button approach to national economic policies," with an over-dependence on overall fiscal and monetary policy to curb inflation—a policy Goldfinger said had been "much too expensive in unemployment, idle productive capacity, prolonged sluggishness and, in recent years, in huge successive budget deficits."

Tuesday, a group of economists said in a study prepared for the committee that an unemployment rate of less than 3 per cent was a "realistic" goal for the next decade. The Harvard and MIT faculty members also argued that the permanent unemployment rate can be lowered substantially "without inducing an unacceptable rate of inflation."

Kennedy plans final vote tour

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., will make a coast-to-coast tour the last two weeks of the presidential campaign, trying to swing the election in favor of Sen. George S. McGovern.

McGovern campaign aides said Kennedy would concentrate on the key industrial states the Democratic candidate must carry if he is to defeat President Nixon.

"His appeal in the party crosses all lines, ethnic and political," a McGovern aide said of Kennedy. "He's the most popular Democrat we've got."

Kennedy is scheduled to campaign with McGovern in California before flying off on his own in a jet chartered by the McGovern campaign committee. A tentative schedule calls for Kennedy to appear in New York, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, California and perhaps in New England.

Also campaigning for McGovern the final two weeks will be Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, Edmund S. Muskie and Abraham A. Ribicoff.

Bugging trial set Nov. 15

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The trial of two former White House aides and their five alleged confederates on charges of bugging Democratic national headquarters has been scheduled by the U. S. District Court to begin Nov. 15.

Judge John H. Sirica in announcing the date said Tuesday that he acted to comply with local court guidelines that extraordinary cases or trials that are likely to be extended should start within 60 days after indictment.

Five of the men were arrested before dawn June 17 inside Democratic headquarters. G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt resigned as White House counselors before the indictments were returned Sept. 15.

Defense attorneys said they might appeal Sirica's decision to start the trial Nov. 15 because they would not have sufficient time to prepare.

Charges dropped in Carson extortion

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Authorities have dropped charges against a married couple arrested in the Johnny Carson extortion case saying they apparently wandered into the action by accident, innocently trying to get a closer look at an entertainment star.

In dropping charges, the district attorney's office also revealed that Carson himself was involved in dropping off money at a parking lot in Van Nuys Friday to meet the extortionist's demand.

No charges will be brought against Richard Culkin, 32, and his wife Linda, 21, of North Hollywood, a spokesman said. It had been determined they were following the car carrying Carson "simply because they were star-gazing...and are not involved in any extortion attempt," he said.

Police have refused to reveal details of the extortion plot, other than that it involved "an extremely large amount of money." It apparently included a threat against Carson and his family, who are still under police protection.

Police who staked out the money dropoff area arrested the Culkins and Richard Jan Dziabackinski, 26, who was arraigned Tuesday.

A preliminary hearing into the charges against Dziabackinski was scheduled for Nov. 1.

Demo hits job losses

By United Press International Democrat George S. McGovern accused President Nixon today of causing a recession that put 2 million persons out of work. The President stayed in Washington and turned his attention to the improvement of relations with China.

McGovern, who continues to trail Nixon by a wide margin with but three weeks of the campaign remaining, scheduled a speech before the Economic Club of Detroit.

In his prepared remarks, the South Dakota senator said a "Nixon recession" had sharply reduced tax revenues, "strangled the economy" and cut national output by $175 billion. He said it was Nixon's policies that forced the President to ask for a rigid limit on federal spending.

While McGovern campaigned in the Midwest, Nixon scheduled a mid-morning meeting with Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira at the White House. White House aides said Nixon would receive a report on the secret Sino-Japanese summit conference.

Nixon has tentatively scheduled another of his paid political radio addresses Thursday. The subject has not been announced. Friday, the President will go to Philadelphia to sign in Independence Hall the bill authorizing the sharing of $30.2 billion in federal revenues with the states and cities.

McGovern received a pledge of campaign help Tuesday from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

McGovern aides said Kennedy would slump from coast-to-coast for McGovern during the final two weeks of the race, concentrating on the big industrial states. One of the aides described Kennedy as "the most popular Democrat we've got."

Car prices jump

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. responded swiftly to a decision of the Price Commission and announced they will increase prices on a number of their 1973 vehicles.

The commission concluded one of its most extensive investigations since it was created a little over a year ago by announcing Tuesday the two companies could raise their prices on 1973 vehicles manufactured from now on. Earlier the commission turned down requests for price boosts filed by General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. In Detroit, GM and Ford said they would resubmit their requests for price hikes when third quarter earnings reports were available at the end of this month.

Chicago Mau Mau surrender

CHICAGO (UPI)—Dressed in Army fatigue jackets, two fugitive De Mau Mau gang members surrendered to authorities Tuesday night.

Their surrenders brought to eight the number of young blacks, identified as members of a black terrorist gang, charged with the execution-style murder of nine white persons.

All eight men will be arraigned today.

"Darrell Patry just walked into the criminal court building with his lawyer and told the judge he was giving himself up. He didn't say anymore," a spokesman for Sheriff Richard J. Elrod said.

"Garland Jackson came into police headquarters and surrendered. He said nothing," the spokesman said.

The men surrendered a few hours after Elrod went on national television with photographs of the wanted men. Elrod said FBI and Army intelligence agents were working with his office to explore the far-flung ramifications of the case.

Patry and Jackson were named in fugitive warrants after police rounded up six other black De Mau Mau members and charged them in the mass murders of two families and the slaying of two young men. All victims were white.

"There is mounting evidence of a nationwide network of De Maus Maus," Elrod said. "The group seems to be made up primarily of Vietnam veterans but we're not certain it is made up exclusively of vets."

The War Against Drug Abuse

WASHINGTON — Nelson G. Gross, who labors under the title of Senior Adviser to the Secretary of State and Coordinator for International Narcotics Matters, holds out a ray of hope for America's all-out but still inadequate war against drug abuse.

Never become a household word says it can be "confidently anticipated" that the necessary 40 member states of the United Nations will have ratified by next spring U.S.-sponsored amendments to the Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs aimed at putting teeth into the international surveillance of the production of heroin. The U.S. Senate ratified the amendments last Sept. 14.

As now constituted, the Single Convention is a joke. Its International Narcotics Control Board (INCB) has never had a strong mandate to control the illicit traffic in narcotics — estimated conservatively by the UN at from 1,200 to 1,400 tons of raw opium convertible into 120 to 140 tons of heroin. The INCB has no power to investigate member states suspected of violating the pact nor to impose meaningful sanctions against offenders.

For example, certain countries were authorized to produce opium for export in order to fulfill legitimate worldwide needs. But this authorization is contingent upon local enactment of enforceable licensing laws. Although the Single Convention became effective on Dec. 13, 1954, it was not until 1971 that Turkey, one of the authorized states, finally put a licensing law on its books. No penalties were imposed on the Turkish government.

As a result, the United States launched a year-long campaign in 1970 to amend the Convention. The diplomatic-law enforcement task force, headed by Gross, spent that year drafting a set of amendments and presenting and explaining them to more than 100 governments.

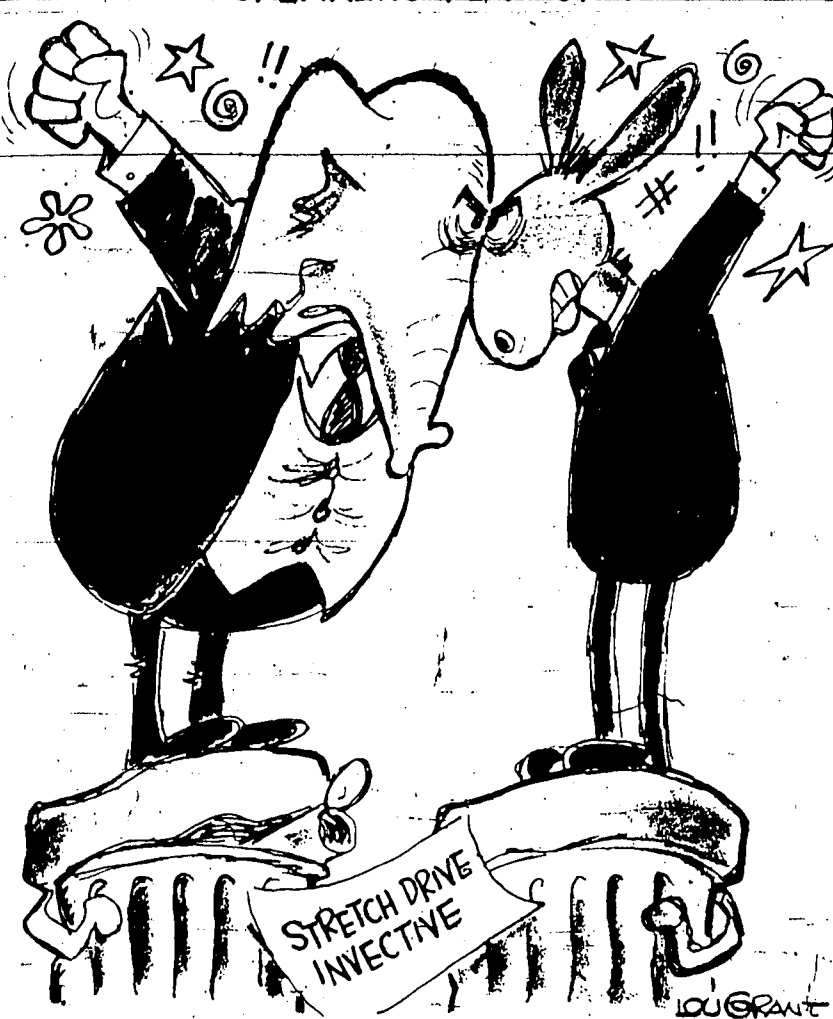

Thanks largely to Gross' efforts, the American amendments were adopted at a UN conference in Geneva last March. The protocol was signed by 71 countries, with 12 states abstaining — including the Soviet bloc, Burma, Panama, Algeria and Cuba. It becomes international law when ratified by the necessary 40 member nations.

Gross' American team did a good job. The amendments appear to attack the loopholes actual and inherent in the original Convention. Moreover, they were co-sponsored by 29 other nations, which gives the ratification process a big boost.

Under the protocol adopted last March, the International Narcotics Control Board is given authority to join the fight against illicit trafficking. The board would be reorganized and its personnel increased. It would have at its disposal for the first time information from a wide range of sources, including the UN and various inter-governmental and nongovernmental organizations with expertise in the drug field. The board would be authorized to recommend that technical and financial assistance be provided to governments cracking down on trafficking within their borders.

Most important of all, the INCB would have the power to assume the role of prosecutor. It could recommend to the UN General Assembly that an embargo be placed on the import and export of all drugs by a violating nation.

Tonic For Japan

WASHINGTON — If improvement of U.S.-Japanese relations has a better prospect with faster decision-making than Japan's new Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka may very well be good for us.

He is proving to be much quicker at decisions than the Japanese people are accustomed to. The leadership habit there is to weigh and consider endlessly until a decision sort of comes upon being instead of being made.

When economic trouble developed over the wide trade gap between our two countries, this slowness was a serious handicap to negotiations. Our irritations over it were a factor in the blunt, precipitate action we finally took in mid-1971 to restrict Japanese trade and force currency changes.

Tanaka's quite different make-up made a good impression on President Nixon in their Hawaii meeting. Realistically, hopes should be a little higher than before that deeper inroads can be made into the sticky trade gap dilemma.

Word from Tokyo is, too, that Tanaka is having a tonic effect in his own country. The Japanese often have seen decision delayed so long that the time for action went by without any, whereupon people glumly took the loss involved, shrugged, and watched their leaders agonize over the next one.

Tanaka's trip to China to establish a diplomatic link with Peking and break off such ties with Taiwan came extraordinarily soon after he took office. It early set the tone for his regime.

He, and his new, quick ways are proving very popular in Japan. It is recognized that he probably will make more mistakes than some of his predecessors, but this does not seem to be worrisome. The important thing is that the mood of the Japanese today is evidently a good deal brighter than it has been for more than a year.

None of this means a magic solvent suddenly has been introduced into the somewhat stiffened relations between Japan and the United States. A great deal remains to be accomplished.

Anti-Americanism still is running fairly high. The Japanese have not yet forgotten what they regard as the rude shocks of 1971, when we applied trade limits and Nixon announced his own trip to China.

However our heavy troop pullout from Vietnam may be seen elsewhere, to the Japanese it signifies a diminishing American interest and influence in Asia. Consequently, they place less trust than before in our written pledges to come to Japan's defense.

Obviously this makes the question of Japan strengthening its own armed forces a more crucial matter, and it will be hotly debated in the months ahead. Popular feelings against a bigger, tougher army continue to run strong in the aftermath of World War II, and the question will be very difficult.

In this case (Channel 4's Bill Brown was asked to hold off on reporting the story of the voting machine investigation last December because to do so would harm the probe.

The request was honored by him, and by my predecessor Roy Gibson. They felt, and rightly so, that reporting the story at that time and perhaps preventing the bringing of a lawbreaker to justice, was less important than waiting until the investigation was complete, and then reporting it.

Unfortunately, one reporter did not agree. He went ahead and allegedly some thoughtful and dedicated journalists still around. In publishing his statement we would point out we are being critical of no one. Our only reason is to share with you an incident in the reporting whirl which has been basic for years and, in our opinion, will always be basic.

Said Mr. Kent:

"It would appear that the preceding story deserves some amplification, not in terms of defense but in terms of clarification. The reporter referred to by Mr. Nemelka does not work for Channel 4 is relevant, but not important; that the reporter in question sometimes fails to consider ultimate effect of a story for a story's sake, is a problem between him and his superiors. That such actions reflect upon the journalistic profession as a whole, and the community good, is germane."

It is traditional that a good reporter often knows more about what is happening than he tells his audience. He doesn't tell all simply because he may not have proof, or because he may do irreparable damage to innocent persons or, as in this case, he may impede the cause of justice.

In this case (Channel 4's Bill Brown was asked to hold off on reporting the story of the voting machine investigation last December because to do so would harm the probe.

The request was honored by him, and by my predecessor Roy Gibson. They felt, and rightly so, that reporting the story at that time and perhaps preventing the bringing of a lawbreaker to justice, was less important than waiting until the investigation was complete, and then reporting it.

Unfortunately, one reporter did not agree. He went ahead and allegedly some records that would have proved wrongdoing were destroyed.

It is axiomatic that the news media bear some heavy responsibilities — and overriding all of them is that they be concerned with what is good for the community. Sometimes, in the heat of competition, some newsmen forget the basic rule of get the story first, but first get it right. And sometimes in the heat of competition, in the absence of a balance sense of responsibility, some newsmen forget the other basic rule that the community's interests come before their own.

These sort of actions usually come home to roost. Sometimes they come home in protests to federal regulatory bodies that already have too much to say about what is done in television news. Sometimes they come home to roost in Supreme Court decisions, like the one last June that says a newsman must reveal his sources before Grand Juries, and sometimes they come home to roost in situations such as this, where the free flow of information within a community can be impeded by the actions of one member of the press.

Unfortunately the real victims are the people, because the doors to the operations of government end up being that much harder to open and the people's view that much more obscured.

So there you have it. Like we said, a gentle breeze on a too hot day. How different that attitude than many of our so termed "name" reporters who dish up the muck even before the muck is there. Who hold nothing sacred — not even the profession where integrity and honesty should mean so much.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Kidneys

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write about a kidney infection called "E. coli." Why does one get this infection so often, and what causes it and how can one control it? — V. B.

E. coli is a bacterium — short for Escherichia coli.

This is a good and useful form of bacteria as long as it stays where it belongs. But it can cause a good deal of mischief if it gets in the wrong place.

E. coli is a normal inhabitant of the bowel and causes no trouble there. In fact, you need it.

But when it gets into the urinary tract, it causes trouble. Or, of course, if the germ gets into a cut or other place it doesn't belong, it can establish an infection.

E. coli in the urinary tract primarily affects women because of their anatomy — the way they are put together. An important precaution is to use toilet tissue properly.

"Properly" means moving the tissue from front to back. In the opposite direction, there is more chance of carrying E. coli to the genital area and urinary outlet.

However, more than just that can be involved. Any obstruction in the urinary tract can be a significant factor in recurrent infections. Therefore it is important to investigate conditions with cystoscopy and X-ray (for the kidneys).

Several medications are used to suppress E. coli, so if one does not work, another can be tried.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: The paper says you have a booklet on "Gout, The Modern Way to Stop It." I am not sure it is gout that I have. My feet are cold when I go to bed. When they finally get warm, they swell and get fiery red and it takes an hour or so to get them cooled down so I can get to sleep. I may have frosted my feet in 1918 when I drove a heavy barn team, and again maybe in 1936.

I. R. S.

You may well have damaged the circulation when your feet were frostbitten; the symptoms don't sound at all like gout. Have your doctor check you.

For those who DO have gout, the booklet is available in return for 25 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Revenue Sharing

Revenue sharing is now a fact, and will become a way of life.

What has been advocated by a great majority of the citizens of the various states, counties and municipalities is now for real.

In Magic Valley the various officials involved are making studies of ways to spend the money which will come. In all cases the studies are going at a slow pace. This is as it should be. There should be no "big jump" to put the money to use.

Typical of the studies underway are those instigated by the commissioners of Twin Falls county and the councilmen of the City of Twin Falls. They have ideas but are holding back until they have had a chance to discuss the planned expenditures and projects with those who will benefit most from them.

There are many things in this county which will benefit. You can rely on the serious study among city and county officials in Twin Falls county to spend the money where it is most needed.

At the time this revenue sharing is a fact, it might be well to recall that Idaho's Senator Frank Church was one of only 20 senators to vote against the measure passed by the House and Senate and sent to the President. Passage in the Senate was 63 to 20 and in the House 274 to 172.

Senator Church said in the Senate that "Congress should put the President on notice that the game of spend now, pay later, is over. As custodian of the public purse under the Constitution, we would then begin to regain our stature. The American people would say of us 'At last, Congress is displaying some common sense.'"

But his plea fell on deaf ears. Like a majority of the Senators — like a majority of the people, the taxpayers, in Magic Valley — we believe the revenue sharing plan is a good one and that it will work. Senator Church's vote against this plan was in error. He did not follow the wishes of his constituents. — OAK.

MR. SPECTATOR

Thoughts While Sitting

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing — but only if he who possesses it does not realize that what he knows is only a little knowledge.

What's your excuse? Many people hereabouts tell United Fund solicitors they give to specified organizations instead of giving to one unit like United Fund. Is this the truth or are they just refusing to contribute? Could they be like the wife who tells the solicitor at home that her husband gives down at the office. Are you like this?

Used spray paint to touch up the travel trailer last Sunday and get it ready for winter. Touching up the flaked space, you know. A travel trailer is a wonderful thing, though. Take ours, for instance. It is now two years old and has been used 13 nights — all a year ago. It wasn't used this season at all. Makes you sort of envy your friends. We know three couples who are planning on the annual trips to Arizona or Mexico where they will spend four or five months.

Want to go on a fine vacation? Then sign up for the Times-News annual Magic in Hawaii tour leaving Twin Falls for the Islands on Feb. 12 next year. That's less than four months away so you had better start planning on it right now. Only 55 spaces are available for the four-island jaunt which will have Mr. and Mrs. Spectator as hosts. It will be a fun trip. How about it?

Politics: Lots of it coming up. Big Demo session at the Holiday Inn Friday night with Senator Church and Governor Andrus — among others — attending. Then next Monday Vice President Agnew's big jet touches down at the Twin Falls City County Airport about 3:30 p.m. The Vice President will speak at CSI that evening at the gym and it's all for free. Cong. McClure will introduce him.

she thinks of him.

THOSE FLOWERS

Last spring, on ground just outside our office at home, we planted a dozen or so Petunias, which we had received from Lulu Brown, publicity director of George J. Ball, Inc., Box 335, West of Chicago, Illinois, 60185. They were sent in advance for us to try out as they would not be released to the general public until the spring of 1973. In other words they were brand new petunia plants. Well, we must report at this writing that they are still in bloom outside our home office door. They survived a cold two weeks after we planted them, a vacation period when they were not watered at all, and now cold nights! And they still look wonderful. If you like petunias then ask your supplier for Royal Cascade, Sky Cascade, Dancing Lady or Red Baron — all new for 1973.

BOTTLED EMOTION

If you think artificial emotions in the forms of pills, spirits, scents and potions are abundant today, get a whiff of what is coming up in the future. Dr. Louis West, chairman of psychiatry at UCLA, says chemistry in less than a decade will be able to create almost any mood — and bottle it.

"Based on what is going on in the pharmacological labs now," he said, "by 1975 or 1980 there will be no feeling that a chemical won't negate. All emotions will be available in bottles."

There once was a joke about people who took daily doses of grumpy pills. In the future will everyone take happy pills? This could result in a world stage filled with laughing hyenas.

The grumps, the sad, the unemotional all would be missed. Emotion which springs from substance can never be replaced by an artificial variety, no matter how pleasant-appearing.

Then, Mr. Spectator would ask, how can you get a reputation on your own as being a jerk if pills will not let you be a jerk?

Andrus confident

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus expressed "definite" confidence today that Idaho voters will pass the much-publicized executive reorganization amendment to pare state government.

"They now realize state government is too large," he told a morning news conference in his office. "They understand the frustrations of it."

Andrus said the only foreseeable difficulty in the measure's passage Nov. 7 is that it will appear on the ballot with eight other proposed amendments.

Washington landmark selected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 136-year-old Treasury Department building, on the corner of Pennsylvania Avenue and 15th Street next to the White House, will become a national historic landmark Wednesday.

First Lady Pat Nixon will participate in a noon MDT White House ceremony at which Interior Secretary Rogers Morton will formally present Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz a certificate designating the building — the third oldest government structure in Washington — an historic landmark.

Another F111 lost

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. command today announced the crash of two jet fighter-bombers — one of them a swinging F111, the second of the controversial warplanes to crash over North Vietnam since they returned to Indochina three weeks ago.

The $15 million swinging F111 all-weather bomber and its two crewmen were lost on a raid over the North Tuesday, the command said, and an F-4 Phantom crashed just before dawn today about 10 miles north of its base at Ubon, Thailand, after a bombing run in North Vietnam.

It was the second F111 crash over the North since 48 of the sophisticated planes returned to Indochina combat duty Sept. 28 following a four-year absence ascribed to persistent mechanical malfunctions. Hanoi Radio monitored in Saigon today said North Vietnamese anti-aircraft gunners "blasted to pieces" the F111 Tuesday over Vinh Phu Province northwest of Hanoi.

Yemen fight finally ends

BEIRUT (UPI) — Fighting between troops of Yemen and Southern Yemen ended today, four days after the 13-nation Arab League said the two sides agreed to a cease-fire, the Middle East News Agency said.

In a dispatch from the Yemen capital of Sana, the agency said shooting between the two sides was last reported officially 48 hours ago. Each side accused the other Tuesday of resuming hostilities.

A Southern Yemen embassy statement in Beirut said Yemeni troops resumed their attacks against Southern Yemen and said "a large-scale offensive is expected within the next 48 hours."

Kleindienst predicts disaster under Demo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst said today that Sen. George S. McGovern's election would be a disaster for this country's drive against crime.

In a speech prepared for the 74th annual conference of the League of California Cities at Anaheim, Calif., Kleindienst criticized McGovern's record on crime legislation, drug abuse and marijuana, pornography and amnesty.

Kleindienst said McGovern missed most Senate votes on the 1968 and 1970 crime control acts, and that of the six law enforcement bills the Democrats nominee has introduced in 14 years in Congress only one minor one has passed.

James Vorenberg, director of the National Crime Commission during the Johnson administration and now co-chairman of McGovern's panel on crime and justice, challenged Kleindienst to a public debate.

Vorenberg charged that the debate would reveal "enormous mismanagement and waste" in spending the $2 billion in federal anticrime money, during the Nixon administration. He said there had been a softening of the war on crime in the youth and narcotics areas, and spending of funds on "glamorous" hardware.

Vorenberg said crime has risen 33 per cent during this administration.

Kleindienst criticized McGovern for supporting Daniel Ellsberg, who has been indicted for providing to news media portions of the Pentagon Papers on the origins of the Vietnam war, and for proposing regulation of marijuana along the same lines as alcohol.

"Again, how do we reconcile the law and order McGovern with the McGovern who is proposing unconditional blanket amnesty for draft dodgers?"

Korea on guard

SOUTH Korean airborne soldiers stand guard in front of the Dong A Ilbo, the largest Seoul newspaper, after martial law was proclaimed by President Park Chung Hee. (UPI)

Korean military chiefs support martial decree

SEOUL (UPI) — South Korea's military chiefs pledged full support today for President Park Chung Hee's declaration of martial law and said they will make active effort to help attain the political reforms he asked.

Fifty-five key military officers, including the chiefs of the armed services and major commanders, met today, presided over by Defense Minister Yu Jae Hung, and decided to fully back Park's effort.

The military commanders then paid a call on the president and relayed their decision.

In a surprise move Tuesday evening, Park proclaimed martial law, suspended part of the constitution, dissolved the nation's one-house parliament, banned all political activities and closed down college campuses.

At the same time, Park said amendments to the partially suspended basic law will be prepared by Oct. 27 and referred to a national referendum within one month thereafter for approval.

When the proposed constitutional amendments are approved in the referendum, constitutional government will be restored by the end of this year, Park said.

Reporter prisoner protests

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Newsman Peter Bridge, beginning today the second week of a contempt of court jail term, contends he should be freed because the grand jury whose questions he refused to answer has stopped taking testimony.

A hearing on Bridge's request is scheduled for today before Superior Court Judge H. Curtis Meanor, who ordered him jailed for an indefinite time Oct. 4.

Defense attorney Edward Gilhooley has argued that, because the Essex County grand jury reported last Friday on its investigation of the Newark Housing Authority (NHA), the newsman should be freed.

TF citizen panel eyes date for school vote

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Within a few weeks the Citizens Committee for Schools in Twin Falls expects to propose a new bond issue election date — probably in January or early February.

Chairman of the committee, Gary Custer, said the committee's recommendation last week to abandon Dec. 5 as the election date does not mean the committee wants to delay the election until next spring.

He said more time is needed to prepare for the election but the target date for new classrooms in the district is still the fall of 1974.

Custer told the committee members in a public meeting at O'Leary Junior High School Tuesday night he believes the election can be carried and the additional class rooms made available by the target date.

The chairman's comments came at the close of a meeting in which three educational experts offered information about funding and current trends in career education as a guide to committee members.

Speakers included Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl; Dr. Roy Truby, administrative assistant to state Supt. D. F. Engelking, and Joseph McCollum, member of the Idaho Board of Education.

Dr. Truby said his department will take to the road later this month with meetings in all major districts to outline the state's implementation plan for career education. It is a new concept in career training which combines vocational and academic training as pertaining to all careers.

Dr. Truby said the program will be presented Oct. 25 at 1 p.m. at the College of Southern Idaho.

The speaker told citizen committee members and school board officials they should consider the new trends toward career education in planning their bond issue and said community colleges, work study programs in the community and the public schools are all part of the future

Truby said he sees an opportunity for greater funding toward career education through the junior colleges and said school districts should plan to utilize these opportunities.

All education is career training, he said. Whatever job the individual selects requires certain preparation. The schools should propose the high school student for college or equipping him with labor skills which will carry him into the job market, prepared to assume a career.

Truby said every student needs some basic math, English, and the ability to speak and communicate, but he does not necessarily need four years of English. Educational programs should not draw a hard line between vocational and educational training, he said, but should combine them to meet the students' needs for whatever career they are planning to follow.

An introduction of what a career means in terms of work, required skills and opportunities should be provided in the elementary schools, he said.

Dr. Truby told the citizen committee he would arrange for the Department of Education's public relations representative, Don Watkins, to assist in the bond issue effort.

McCollum complimented the committee on its efforts on behalf of better educational facilities in the community.

"Good schools and programs don't just happen. It takes good administration, and good citizens working with them," he said.

McCollum said the state board of education is limited in its powers but attempts to provide assistance to educational programs in the communities.

Sen. Barker, chairman of the State Health, Education and Welfare Committee, said while revenue sharing provides "no funding for school districts," he can see some indirect benefits. The revenue sharing relief to taxpayers at the county, state and community levels should mean a more favorable taxpayer reception to school bonding, he said. He said the state and federal funding of public education is moving toward a greater proportion of the total costs.

"We are also hoping to iron out the inequities in which some of the sparsely populated counties with lots of livestock and agriculture may have a per pupil valuation of over $100,000, while a more populated area has only a few thousand dollars per pupil valuation," he said.

Barker said for example Owyhee County has about $122,400 valuation per public school student, compared to $5,740 in Twin Falls County, about an average county.

6 in TF graduate early

TWIN FALLS — Six Twin Falls High School students will be graduated at the end of the first semester, George Staudacher, school superintendent, said today.

The early graduates will include Steve Brehm, Barbara Hanson, Karen Kelley, Brent Lillevoid, Martha Pierce Tomick and Claudia Wring. Staudacher announced the list Tuesday night during a brief school board meeting.

The board also accepted the resignation of Mrs. Nancy Helmer, distributive education instructor in the Twin Falls High School. She is leaving Twin Falls as her husband has been transferred to another city.

Trainer testifies against Bingham

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Richard Bingham should never have been permitted to fly the jet fighter that barreled into an ice cream parlor and killed 22 people, his instructor testified Tuesday.

Bingham, seated in a wheelchair with casts on his broken arm and foot, had just finished describing the Sept. 24 crash when instructor Joseph D. Patrick took the witness chair.

Patrick, 44, a former Air Force pilot, told the National Transportation Safety Board that Bingham did not have enough experience to fly the 18-year-old former Canadian Air Force F86 Sabrejet.

"If I'd had my say on who was to fly this airplane I never would have let the gentleman get close to the airplane," Patrick said.

"I just didn't feel the man had the qualifications to fly in a high performance aircraft," he said. "He needed more practice."

Patrick said he taught Bingham how to fly the Sabrejet while both were employees of Spectrum Air Inc.

The instructor said he was told to teach Bingham in as little time as possible. He quoted Bingham as saying, "Let's go now and get the job done and give me just a bare minimum to satisfy the FAA (Federal Aviation Administration)."

A transcript of communications between the pilot and airport tower showed Bingham requested to take off on a longer runway carrying planes over a golf course, but the tower said it was "not set up" for that and, if he wanted to use it, there would be a delay.

"I don't have that much fuel," replied the pilot, who said he "could handle" the shorter runway aimed at the ice cream parlor.

Bingham, 37, testifying in a calm, unemotional manner, said he had flown the plane 7 1/2 hours before it killed a dozen children and 10 parents partying in Farrell's Ice Cream Parlor.

When the plane crashed, he said, "I heard a woman scream. I sat there for a moment and realized where I was and felt fire around my neck."

"It was black, pitch black. I couldn't see anything. I was coughing very hard, couldn't breathe, gasping for air," he said. "I don't know if I got out head first or on all fours, but I got out quick."

Families awarded damages

CHICAGO (UPI)—The families of eight student nurses slain by Richard Speck in 1966 and Mrs. Corazon Amurao Atienza, the only survivor of the massacre, were awarded $3.5 million in damages Tuesday in a civil suit against Speck.

Mrs. Atienza, who hid under a bed while eight other nurses were murdered one by one, was awarded $1.5 million in damages.

The families of the slain women were awarded $250,000 each.

"It certainly seems to us that we must prevent this monster from coming into any money in the future," said Castner R. Wachowski, the attorney for Mrs. Atienza and the victims' families.

Wachowski conceded it was not likely that the money would ever be paid because Speck is in prison, but said Speck has taken up art and "may write a book which may be made into a movie and make him a lot of money."

Mrs. Atienza, who testified Monday that she was still afraid to be left alone, said she was "satisfied" with Cook County Circuit Court Judge Raymond K. Berg's decision, which awarded the plaintiffs the full amount for which they had asked.

2nd Navy ship brawl

HONOLULU (UPI)—The Navy disclosed Tuesday that four persons were injured and 11 arrested as the result of a "racial battle" aboard the fleet oiler Hassayampa. It was the second reported racial brawl aboard a Navy ship within a week.

The incident occurred while the Hassayampa was at Subic Bay in the Philippines. The four injured all were white and the 11 arrested all were black, said a spokesman for the commander in chief of the Pacific.

"Charges are being prepared against" the 11 blacks, he said.

A Navy spokesman said he could not immediately explain why only blacks were arrested, why only whites were injured and how many crewmen were involved in the fighting.

About 100 men were involved in a series of racial fights that left 46 injured a week ago aboard the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk.

UN discloses facts on napalm

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—A United Nations report says napalm not only burns through the skin but sometimes reaches muscles, bones and even internal organs causing injuries so severe that doctors established new categories to describe burns by the jellied gasoline.

The 52-page report released Tuesday deals with the effects of the deadly firebombs in a factual and nonpolitical manner. It does not accuse anyone of using napalm but presents all known facts about it and recommends it be banned.

Napalm has been used extensively by the United States in Indochina.

Spattered as flaming jellied gasoline upon an enemy, it causes burns beyond the conventional "third degree" used by the medical profession to define maximum injury caused by heat; the report said.

"In the process of triage (sort of burn victims by severity) of such burns," says the report, "doctors have established the special category of fourth-degree and even fifth-degree burns."

"These relate to burns that completely char the skin and extend into the deep tissue of the body, damaging the musculature and reaching to the bones and internal organs."

The report, titled "Napalm, and Other Incendiary Weapons and All Aspects of Their Possible Use," was prepared by a seven-member group of governmental experts in cooperation with the World Health Organization (WHO) and the International Committee of the Red Cross at the request of the U.N. General Assembly.

Back in school

BOISE (UPI)—Seventeen-year-old Robin Bergen was back in school today to stay.

Federal Judge J. Blaine Anderson Tuesday permanently enjoined the Melba school board from suspending the youth for wearing a mustache.

But in handing down his oral ruling at the close of a one-day trial, the judge warned students not to regard it as a license for insubordination.

"Let's the students in this courtroom misconstrue that," he said, "school boards under the laws of this state have the power to enforce discipline."

Bergen's mother, "Faye, brought the U.S. district court action after the youth was suspended in September for refusing to comply with a school board dress code requiring him to be clean shaven.

Bergen testified in his own behalf that he had worn a mustache since he was 14 and had once during the last year at Melba even though there was another dress code ban on mustaches at that time.

He said he shaved it off temporarily in May at the request of his baseball coach and was teased by his classmates because his bare upper lip protruded in an unusual manner.

Chile nears civil war

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—The army strengthened its control over Santiago province today, enforcing a midnight-to-6 a.m. curfew to confront what President Salvador Allende describes as the threat of civil war.

Gen. Hector Bravo, commander of the Santiago military district, decreed the curfew after two days of disturbances that included rioting within blocks of the presidential palace and even a melee in the parliament. The incidents were generated by a series of crippling nationwide strikes.

Bravo warned that troops and police will fire at anyone who fails to halt for identification during the curfew. The army assumed command of police in Santiago and 16 other provinces last week in emergency zones declared when the walkouts began.

Allende said Chileans "will live through difficult hours very soon. We are on the verge of a civil war, a great battle."

"This is the first and the hardest confrontation. Waves of problems may come. The only thing that can halt this process is the working class."

Not all action was on the streets. During a parliamentary debate on the strikes Tuesday, deputies in the ornate chamber hurled ashtrays and waterglasses at each other in a 20-minute melee. One of the glasses hit the hand of Allende's sister, Laura, a Socialist deputy from Santiago.

Riot police teargassed battling government and anti-government demonstrators in rock-throwing clashes along Ahumada Street, the capital's main shopping artery. Many shops opened as usual but closed at midday when the violence swept past.

Gen. Gusatvo Alvarez, deputy zone commander, warned foreign correspondents at a midnight Defense Department meeting against filing "alarmist" dispatches during the current crisis.

Alvarez said the government would compel correspondents and close news agencies whose copy "deforms the facts" about the situation.

He said the government will read all outgoing news stories filed through commercial and private channels. However, he said no material will be censored.

The streets of the capital were all but deserted in the chill, pre-dawn hours. A handful of stragglers waited at bus stops but were not detained by patrolling soldiers in jeeps.

A curfew was last decreed in the capital of 3.3 million last December, when an antigovernment protest march by women banging empty pots triggered bloody incidents throughout the province. The curfew lasted five days.

Korea under martial law

SEOUL (UPI)—A committee set up to rule South Korea under President Park Chung Hee's martial law proclamation convened today and the government established a system of military tribunals and press censorship.

Park presided over the meeting of the extraordinary council along with cabinet ministers. Informed government sources said they discussed ways to promote economic progress under martial law which went into effect at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

A separate regular meeting of economic ministers will be chaired by Premier Kim Jong Pil to expedite planned economic development under the martial law proclamation. The council was created by Park, who dissolved the National Assembly (parliament) to carry out a sweeping reform of Korean politics.

Army Chief of Staff Gen. Roh Jae Hyon, who was named commander of the martial law decree, asked in a new edict that persons with arms and explosives turn them in voluntarily by Oct. 25. He also announced the establishment of military courts for martial law violators.

There have been no reports of arrests of violence since the announcement of the martial law. The activities of the military courts are subject to censorship.

Park said martial law was needed to deal with what he called "unfavorable changes in and around the country." He suspended the constitution and barred political activity.

It was announced that foreign news media as well as the domestic press will undergo strict censorship. There were conflicting reports that the foreign news media were excluded from the press control.

Soviet Union asks heads of state to celebration

MOSCOW (UPI)—Invitations to attend the Dec. 30 event Monday that some capitalist countries already have been invited for the anniversary, but said the invitation to the U.S. chief executive is not likely to go out until after the American presidential election Nov. 7. The anniversary marks the meeting on Dec. 30, 1922, in Moscow where delegates from independent republics decided to federate into the USSR, which now consists of 15 republics. The date is sometimes erroneously confused with the date of the formation of the first Soviet state—the Russian federation—which was established immediately after the Bolshevik seizure of power on Nov. 7, 1917. The 50th anniversary of the revolution was celebrated with great pomp and ceremony in 1967. Since this year's celebrations are a state function and not one marking a revolutionary or Communist Party event, the Kremlin apparently thought it feasible to invite all countries with which it has diplomatic relations. A jubilee session of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) in the presence of the foreign guests will highlight the celebrations, the sources said. President Nikolai V. Podgorny, as Soviet head of state, will open the ceremonies and probably call on Leonid I. Brezhnev, Communist Party general secretary, to deliver the keynote address. Premier Alexei N. Kosygin will perform other honors. The sources said they expected Brezhnev's speech to contain a major policy statement as well as a review of Soviet achievements for the first half century.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock prices remained higher in active trading Wednesday despite a White House caution against speculation concerning a Vietnam peace breakthrough.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was up 6.69 to 833.17 shortly before 1:15 p.m. Standard and Poor's 500 stock index was up 0.72 to 108.22.

Advances led declines, 846 to 441, among the 1,666 issues on the tape.

The three-hour volume was about 11,530,000 shares, compared with 8,720,000 for the same period Tuesday.

Analysts said the market was stronger on the possibility of a breakthrough in Vietnam negotiations. However, the White House cautioned newsmen in a press briefing against such speculation.

On the economic front, September home appliance shipments were up 7 per cent for the month compared to the same period last year.

Steels were higher with Bethlehem Steel up 3/4, and Republic Steel 1/2.

General Motors gained 1 point.

Chemicals were higher. Oils and rails were mostly higher. Airlines and aircrafts were higher in fractions.

'Press conference' advantages twisted

By RICHARD CHARNOCK

BOISE (UPI) — A time-honored device for disseminating useful information via the mass media — the news conference — has fallen on bad times in Idaho.

Where once a reporter could expect to learn something really "new" to tell the public he now can anticipate anything from a propaganda-laden campaign rally to an advertising gimmick.

For politicians and others who desire to be in the public eye have found that a so-called news conference is an excellent way to get publicity and save money on advertising.

This is not to say that all who call news conferences are trying to put one over on the news media or the public of that they never have anything worthwhile to say.

It is to say that many have found the news conference a convenient vehicle to get a point across — a point that might be missed, and rightfully so, in day-to-day news coverage.

There was a time when news-men responded automatically to requests for their attendance. Generally, the person calling the conference had something to say.

More and more, however, reporters are asking about the nature of the meeting and even about who may be attending before deciding to show up. In short, they are tired of being used.

News conferences of late have taken a number of forms in Idaho and have served a number of purposes.

For instance, Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy came back to Idaho from the Republican national convention and held a news conference — to tell local reporters what they already had learned from Miami Beach about the convention.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and Sen. Frank Church called a news conference to inform everybody they like Sen. George McGovern so much they had decided to head up his Idaho campaign committee. It would have been news if they hadn't.

When Sen. Edward M. Kennedy came to Boise last Friday on behalf of Democratic candidates a group calling itself the "Idaho Welfare Rights Organization" set up a news conference.

This "news conference" consisted solely of a welfare mother reading a prepared statement for lege.

So far as reporters could find out in extensive questioning he did not represent any recognized news organization. But the campaign staff of senatorial candidate William E. "Bud" Davis cleared him through the Secret Service, let him stay and gave him a seat at the press table during the luncheon. For all the reporters still know he could have been some sort of plant.

Politicians use news conferences for several purposes. Some are thinly-disguised "rallies" attended by a host of partisan supporters ready to cheer their candidate, and sometimes, boo "bad questions" from the press. They can create some false impressions.

Last week, John Schmitz, the American Party presidential candidate, stopped Briefly in Boise. He held a "news conference" in which he reiterated one-liners first used and reported elsewhere and left to the applause of a roomful of supporters who crowded in.

'Political Echoes'

television — a statement to be handed out later to those attending the Kennedy luncheon. While the information was not exactly "new," the chance to capitalize on the appearance of a political celebrity was.

Just before the luncheon, Kennedy also held a news conference. Among those attending it, with a camera, was a young man who represented a nameless "group" at Boise State Col-

McGovern leadership dismays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr. said Tuesday he might leave the Democratic Party permanently if it continues under the leadership of George S. McGovern.

Connally, the only Democrat to serve in President Nixon's Cabinet and now chairman of Democrats for Nixon, refused at first during a news conference to talk about leaving the party, but commented later.

Said Connally: "If the Democratic party continues under the leadership of Senator McGovern and those who espouse his cause for a rather long time, frankly I'm going to have to reassess my own allegiance and loyalties. I find so much in his philosophy, his programs and his platform with which I disagree that I frankly would have to reassess my position."

Asked whether in that event he would become a Republican or an Independent, he replied: "I don't know. I haven't thought that far."

Connally said he hoped Democrats for Nixon would disband immediately after Election Day, and added that any funds remaining from its $2 million to $3 million budget would go to the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

He said he had no future plans, except to return to his Houston law firm, "where I probably should be right now."

Connally said former President Lyndon B. Johnson's support of McGovern was "a great tribute" to Johnson, Connally's former mentor, because of McGovern's "mean and derogatory remarks about him as an individual and about his policies."

Connally professed to have no knowledge of the alleged bugging of the Democratic National Committee at the Watergate in Washington last June, for which seven men have been indicted, or of any ties between the White House and the alleged sabotage of the Democratic campaign.

He said the alleged bugging was "silly, stupid, reprehensible and unquestionably illegal."

He said there was bugging of Sen. Barry M. Goldwater's 1964 campaign. "As far as I'm concerned there is too much bugging going on. I'm outraged by it. I don't make any bones about it," Connally said.

"But you're trying to lay this whole Watergate affair at the feet of the President," he told reporters. "These seven people have been indicted and they're going to be tried. What else do you want to do, draw and quarter them?"

A reporter asked Connally if he had a comment on a remark by Elizabeth Carpenter, former press secretary to Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, referring to Democrats for Nixon as "political transvestites" who would have been for Santa Ana at the Alamo.

Connally looked down at the podium, looked up, grinned somewhat wearily, and said, "Nooooooo."

The news conference ended.

Land judging contest set

BURLEY — The second annual state land judging contest will be held in Burley on Thursday.

According to Wayne L. Thiessen, extension soils specialist, University of Idaho, over 20 teams from FFA chapters and 4-H clubs in southern Idaho will be competing in the contest scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. at the Burley High School.

Adult competition will also be offered for vo-ag instructors, county extension agents, SCD supervisors and other interested persons.

"The purpose of land judging is to teach students to recognize soil and land factors which contribute to intelligent decisions concerning the management and use of the land," Thiessen said. The contest is being sponsored by the agricultural committee of the Burley Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the University of Idaho Cooperative Extension Service and the Soil Conservation Service.

Wayne Cole, Cassia County agent; Clyde Wardle, Burley FFA instructor, and Darwin Jeppeson, soil scientist, SCS, are in charge of local arrangements to accommodate the 125 student participants.

Trophies will be presented to contest winners immediately following the competition by Robert Saxvik, member of the Burley Chamber of Commerce.

Year's harvest

PHILIP Kniefel, left, and his brother, John, are doing a good business selling pumpkin and squash they raised at their parents' farm this summer. Both boys are junior gardeners at the Twin Falls County Fair each year and have received ribbons for their produce.

Portion of sewer pipe cost assumed

HANSEN — The Hansen Sewer and Water Improvement Association decided to assume half the cost of pipe to install a sewer line for a new trailer court.

The action was taken in a meeting Monday evening.

The line will be installed from the main line to the south property line of the Keith Sligar property, the former Von Nebeker property, at the north end of town along Rock Creek Road. The trailer court will be charged the standard rate of $6.50 for sewer service.

The board decided to carry liability insurance covering all employees of the association.

Filer boys sell garden produce

By MARJORIE LIERMAN Times-News writer

FILER — Two enterprising junior gardeners are doing a good business in a yard sale selling pumpkins and squash they raised this year.

John Kniefel, 11, and his brother, Philip, 12, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Kniefel, planted about a half acre in a hay field to pumpkins and squash and have harvested nearly 400 pumpkins and many squash.

They are selling the vegetables to the stores and also to customers who stop at their farm home three miles south and a mile west of the 93 - 30 junction.

The boys have been junior gardeners for several years and both entered produce in the junior department of the Twin Falls County Fair produce section. A 95-pound squash won a blue ribbon for largest squash in the open class and also a first in the junior gardener's section.

With Halloween just around the corner, the boys are expecting a landslide business of pumpkins for jack-o-lanterns. They have them in all sizes and shapes and have set up a display in their front yard as well as a shed in the back.

Suit filed over Camas air crash

BOISE — The wife of a man killed in an airplane crash near Fairfield on Feb. 20 has filed a $346,000 suit in federal court.

Ona Faye Carlton, 56, Boise, claims her husband, Otto Carlton, 58, an airplane mechanic, died in the crash because the manufacture of the plane was faulty. The suit names Beech Aircraft Corp., Avco Lycoming Corp., Hertzog Aviation, Inc., and American Leasing Co. of South Bend as defendants. She alleges Sun Valley Air Lines purchased the plane through them.

An earlier suit filed by Sun Valley Airlines, Inc., requesting $1.5 million in damages also alleges negligence in manufacture of the plane and the Carlton suit.

Four persons died in the crash besides Carlton.

Voters turn down Cassia bond issue

BURLEY — Cassia County voters rejected a $2.95 million school bond proposal Tuesday. The vote was 1,941 in favor of the proposal and 1,803 against. The vote was 51 per cent in favor of the proposal, but a two-thirds majority was required for passage. Returns showed outlying areas of the county largely voted against the proposal.

while patrons in the Burley area supported it. The proposed bond issue was sought to provide funds for an addition and a new gymnasium at Declo High School; renovation of Oakley High School and conversion to a junior high; 7 to 10 new classrooms at Burley High School; classrooms at Raft River High School; a new elementary school at Oakley. Dr. Paul Brown, chairman of the school board, expressed "extreme disappointment" with the election results. He said "I would like to see the possibilities of sub-districting explored — obviously Burley residents, as indicated by their vote Tuesday, do want something done about the school situation." Supt. Harold Blauer said "I think at this point the board and the school administration should take a serious look at either spending money to correct the situations at Declo and Springdale elementary schools, or should bus approximately 250 to 300 elementary, junior high and high school students from Burley to Oakley. I would be opposed to sub-districting action until Oakley and Declo also vote to become sub-districts."

Jerome meet set today

JEROME — Senate Joint Resolution 132 will be discussed at a public meeting at 8 p.m. today at the Jerome County courthouse. The proposal which will appear on the November ballot is to consolidate 268 state agencies into no more than 20. The discussion meeting has been arranged by the office of the governor for the purpose of informing voters of the provisions of SJR-132. According to Gov. Cecil Andrus, approval of the resolution will eliminate costly confusion and duplication in governmental organization.

Camas hearing set

FAIRFIELD — A public hearing is scheduled for tonight for the formation of a Camas County Library District. The hearing is set for 8 p.m. at the courthouse in Fairfield.

Library trustees from throughout the county will be in attendance. Arlan Call, Twin Falls librarian, will help the group in the formation of the district.

Jerome slates change

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — The Jerome City Council is considering either changing the present zoning committee or appointing other members to form a city planning committee. Jerome Mayor J. A. (Jack) Russell requested the council to consider the two alternatives saying "We can do one of two things — either change our present zoning commission to a city planning committee and increase its membership, or we can set up a completely new committee of 12 people concerned with the orderly development of Jerome." He also said Bill Block, city engineer and works director, should be a member.

Heated discussion arose when the building permit for the proposed new LDS Church was read. Councilman Marshall Everheart objected to the blocking of C Street, saying the council has charge of orderly city development and blocking the street does not properly serve the citizens.

The church plans to construct the new church on East Avenue C right of way.

Councilmen S. N. Weeks and Elwin Tinker said they did not feel that it was necessary to keep C Street as a through arterial.

Russell called for a vote on the permit and it was approved with members of the council except Everheart voting yes.

Jerome hearing continues

JEROME — Testimony for the state continued today in a preliminary hearing for Gay Dean Standlee, 30, Hazelton.

Standlee is accused of first degree murder in the shooting death of his ex-wife, Sharyn Woodall, and of the attempted murder of her husband, Theral Woodall, both Silverton, Ore.

Tuesday testimony indicated that the family altercation was over the three children ages 9, 8, and 2, of Mrs. Woodall and Standlee. She had been awarded custody of the children following her divorce from Standlee.

Testimony was taken Tuesday from Gene Standlee, brother of the defendant, who was at the scene; Deputy Sheriff Elmer Stephenson, who was called at the time of the shooting; Ed Robinson, state liquor inspector, who was requested by Stephenson to aid in the investigation; and State Patrolman, William D. Walker, who took Standlee to the Jerome sheriff's office where he was booked.

Motions are expected today by both attorneys on a possible postponement — of the preliminary hearing until information on evidence obtained by Robinson can be made available.

Prosecuting Atty. Eugene Frederickson objected Tuesday to the possible postponement on the grounds that the preliminary hearing was only for the purpose of presenting evidence to bind Standlee over for further court action.

New resort lodge

Wendell railroad depot moves to the mountains

GOODING — The old railroad depot of Wendell is on its way to becoming a resort lodge for skiers and snowmobilers in the Soldier Mountain area. It was purchased for $25 by Duane Tracey, Wendell, when offered for sale by the Union Pacific Railroad. He later sold it for $500 to Orle Leavell who is now moving it at a cost of $15,000 to a winter play area near Fairfield.

The move began Tuesday at 8:30 a.m. from the Wendell site and it stopped for the night at the Gooding Grange Hall property just north of Gooding.

Involved in the move has been clearing of all traffic, including parked cars from the streets, and lowering, raising or removal of power and telephone lines. As a result the communities of Wendell and Gooding have been without utilities for brief periods of time and motorists have found themselves tied up in traffic jams.

The large two-story wooden building is being moved in three giant sections which completely fill the town's streets.

Although it is scheduled to be in Fairfield tonight, Mike Sliman, representing the owner, said he is doubtful it will meet the schedule. He said the movers spent almost all of Tuesday just getting through the town of Wendell because of moving power lines and other obstructions.

Sliman said about $1 million worth of moving equipment is handling the chore of transporting the depot from Wendell to the new site on Highway 68 about 25 miles east of Fairfield.

He said the owner plans open the winter resort lodge Jan. 10, with the depot style retained but some rustic decor incorporated into the interior and exterior of the new facility.

ONE OF THREE sections of the old Wendell railroad depot moves toward Gooding on its way toward Soldier Mountain where it will begin a new life as a resort lodge for snowmobilers and skiers. Orle Leavell purchased the building and will remodel it as a lodge.

Head Start program set

JEROME — Applications for children 2½ to 6 years of age are now being taken for the Jerome Head Start program. There will be a meeting for interested parents at 7 p.m. Tuesday at 211 S. Buchanan. Working mothers or those going to school are asked to call 324-5881 or go to 211 S. Buchanan for more information.

Ketchum-SV don't plan unit merge

KETCHUM — The Ketchum City Council has tabled consideration of participation with the City of Sun Valley and Ketchum Rural Fire District in hiring either a full time fire chief or a fire marshal. The action was taken at the council meeting Monday evening.

The full-time employee would conduct inspections and maintain equipment for all three departments, under provisions of the plan.

At the present time, there is a reciprocal aid agreement between the three departments, under which they aid each other in event of fire.

There is no plan to merge the Ketchum and Sun Valley fire departments and no discussion was given that matter at the council meeting on Monday evening, as was erroneously reported earlier in the Times-News.

Rupert building plans advanced

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Plans for a new Rupert Chamber of Commerce building were advanced at the Rupert City Council meeting Tuesday evening.

Rupert councilmen voted to award a 10 year lease to the civic organization for a strip of land along Scott Avenue between E and F streets.

Included in Councilman Clark Cameron's motion for the lease was an option for another 10-year period and a fee rate of $10 per year. All the city officials agreed that the yearly charge should be nominal because "the chamber is actually an arm of the city" according to Mayor Wendell Davis, and is not a private business.

Parking provisions for the 70-foot-wide property were discussed at length. It was decided that an off-street parking lot at the northeast end of the area would be most desirable. Chamber member John Cameron said his group "would try to have the structure in by fall, as far as footing and frame are concerned."

The council then heard a complaint from Ray Commons concerning city charges for irrigation water on his subdivision in the Grandview Addition.

Commons said he received a $309 water bill and the charge is not in accordance with his previous agreement with the city, providing for an incremental increase from a basic $48 fee as each subdivision lot is sold and developed. He said the recent sale of two lots could not account for the price jump. The council asked Mayor Johnson to investigate the matter.

In other action, the council: Approved a city-wide fall cleanup to start Oct. 24 and continue for 10 working days.

Received a letter from Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, informing the city it will receive $41,798 for calendar year 1972 under the revenue sharing act. The first check is to arrive this month, covering the first six months of this year.

Agreed to build a 139-foot-long sidewalk from the main entrance of East Minico Junior High School to 18th Street.

Heard a treasurer's report that, according to Mayor Johnson, indicates the city is "in pretty good financial condition."

Voted to call for bids on 4,000 feet of fencing and lighting equipment for Big Valley Park. Delayed a decision on city sponsorship of a renewed American Legion baseball program.

Neither team upset by world series rain out

OAKLAND (UPI)—Hobbled Reggie Jackson looked up at the cloudburst, hail and thunder around the packed Oakland Coliseum.

"It could rain for the next two months, every day, and I still wouldn't be able to play," said the disappointed outfielder of the Oakland Athletics who is sidelined for the year with a pulled hamstring.

Though the rain made little difference to Jackson, it somewhat affected righthander John Odom who was supposed to start Tuesday's third World Series game against the Cincinnati Reds.

"I was ready ... I just wanted to go out and get 'em," said Odom who prefers pitching with only three or four days rest instead of the five or six he is now going to get.

"I hate to have an extra day's rest, especially since I built myself up for the game. I went over their batting order and was ready."

"But I don't think an extra day will have any effect on my control or pitching. Naturally, I'll be stronger with another day's rest."

A's manager Dick Williams says he will stick with the fireballing righthander as his third-game pitcher "even if it rains for the next three days."

"This man (Odom) does not falter under pressure," said Williams. "In successive starts on the road this season, he beat (Jim) Palmer, (Gaylord) Perry and (Mickey) Lolich and they were all pressure games."

"In fact, John has had six and seven days between starts during the season and it didn't diminish his effectiveness."

The A's manager figures the washout will put a bit more pressure on the Reds.

"Right now, we've got the advantage, two games to nothing. This will give them (Reds) another day of thinking about their situation."

Left-handed pitcher Vida Blue, the A's relief sensation during the American League playoffs with the Detroit Tigers, also was itching for another crack at the Reds. Or maybe he wants to see the Series over as soon as possible.

"Dammit," he said, and aimed a kick at the television set in the locker room when the rainout was announced.

Williams later announced that Blue would remain in the bullpen for the remainder of the Series.

"Due to the travel day and rainout, plus the fact we need a left-handed stopper, Blue is now in our bullpen and probably won't start a World Series game as we had planned earlier," said Williams.

"Vida and I talked this over and he has agreed to stay in the bullpen."

Most of the A's took the rainout in stride by watching television, reading or playing cards. Third baseman Sal Bando, feeling the weight of the long season, said he favored a shorter season's schedule, starting in mid-April and finishing in mid-September.

"Those of us who play ball with West Coast teams never have any time off from April through October," he said. "There is always several hours difference between coasts and it seems like traveling takes up all our time."

"So the fewer rainouts I see, the better I like it."

Temple's Hardin named coach of week

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Wayne Hardin says three games "stick out" in his coaching memory.

There was the 43-12 shellacking his 1959 Navy squad dealt Army in the most one-sided service classic ever played. The next year his underdog Midshipmen beat eventual Rose Bowl champion Washington on a field goal in the final 14 seconds in what one sportscaster called the "most exciting game" he'd ever seen.

That leaves Temple's "impossible" 39-36 upset of heavily favored West Virginia last weekend, for which United Press International today named Hardin its National Coach of the Week.

The man who took the Naval Academy to its last national ranking (No. 2 in 1963) and coached Heisman Trophy winners Roger Staubach and Joe Bellino is now trying to put Temple on the collegiate football map.

He took a giant step toward doing that last Saturday when his unheralded Owls (3-2) pulled off what has been called the "greatest victory in Temple football history." Those 51 years of gridiron competition include a six-year stint during which immortal Pop Warner led Temple to a 31-18-9 mark and a Sugar Bowl berth against TEAMSlike Tulane, Texas A&M and Michigan State.

The victory by Temple, which Hardin called "14 to 60-point underdogs, depending whom you talked to," dramatized for Hardin the progress that has been made in his two and a half years at the Owls' roost.

"A victory like that has got to mean something to the total (football) program," Hardin said. "It proves we're getting in position not only to play teams like that, but to beat them."

Temple jumped off to a startling 17-0 lead, but West Virginia tightened it to 24-14 at the half and 31-21 at three periods before snatching away the lead at 36-31 with only 2:15 showing on the clock.

"Why crack now?" Hardin told his team along the sideline, remembering last season when West Virginia stormed from 10 points back with seven minutes to play and won 43-33.

Apparently, the last thing on safetyman Paul Loughran's mind was last year's game. West Virginia's punter boomed one to Loughran, who took the ball at his own 21, curled back inside the 20, picked up a key block near the 25 and raced 79 yards for the winning touchdown.

"Sure, I was anxious for the first big win," Hardin said, "but I'm patient. I wasn't going to jump off any bridges if we didn't win."

Hardin has returned Temple to respectability and a 16-7-1 log since coming on, but admits he had been worried by the team's slow start with low-scoring victories over weak Xavier and Holy Cross and losses to Syracuse and Boston College.

"It puts us a little ahead of schedule," Hardin said in reference to his plans for a four-year rebuilding program due to peak next season. "It should help recruiting and fan interest."

Carlton tops poll

NEW YORK (UPI)—Steve Carlton, the winningest pitcher in baseball with one of the poorest teams in baseball, topped the September balloting for the annual Hickok Professional Athlete of the Year award.

Carlton, winner of 27 games for the last place Philadelphia Phillies, amassed a total of 275 points with 75 first place votes. Joe Namath of the New York Jets placed second with 126 points and 11 first place nods, and Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox placed third with 82 points.

Knicks trip Rockets

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jerry Lucas scored 22 points and Walt Frazier added 19 Tuesday night as the New York Knicks defeated the Houston Rockets, 103-95, after almost losing a 28-point lead.

Ahead 73-45 after a 16-8 surge early in the third quarter, the Knicks' defense came apart and Houston closed to within six points at 91-85 with three minutes left in the game.

Six points by guard Dick Barnett, making his first appearance in the game, gave New York enough cushion to win its third game in four starts this season.

'Skins picked over Cowboys

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)—The Washington Redskins are slim one-point favorites over the Dallas Cowboys in this weekend's top National Football League game, according to Harrah's Tahoe Racebook.

The two teams are deadlocked for first place in the National Conference's East Division with identical 4-1 records.

In other odds released Tuesday, Harrah's Tahoe Racebook has the New York Jets over Baltimore by 7; Los Angeles over Cincinnati by 6 1-2; Oakland over Denver by 12; San Francisco over New Orleans by 12 1-2; Miami over Buffalo by 12; Pittsburgh over New England by 13; New York Giants over St. Louis by 8; Detroit over San Diego by 5; Green Bay over Atlanta by 3; Cleveland over Houston by 2 1-2; Kansas City over Philadelphia by 16; and Minnesota over Chicago by 7.

Drenched turnout

MASS OF UMBRELLAS, not baseball, greeted the world series teams Tuesday night in Oakland when they were supposed to play the third game of the playoffs. The A's and Reds are slated again Wednesday night. (UPI telephoto)

Reds don't fear Oakland or playing five straight days

OAKLAND (UPI)—Sparky Anderson, pretty sure that the third game of the World Series would be rained out, peered out of the rain-soaked Cincinnati dugout Tuesday and shook his head.

Minnesota sold out

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Five weeks before the season opener, and for the first time in history, University of Minnesota basketball games in 17,435-seat Williams Arena have been sold out, the Gopher ticket announced Tuesday.

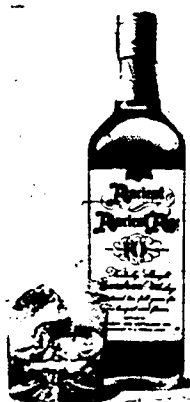

Ken Buell, ticket manager, said order applications for general public season tickets are no longer being accepted, and some already received may be denied because of the student-faculty stampede to reserve seats to watch the defending Big Ten champs.

ISU prepping for first football showing on TV

POCATELLO — Idaho State football gets its first chance to be seen on regional television. The Bengals host Idaho Saturday in a game that will be shown on ABC-TV.

Game time is 2 p.m. The departure from the usual evening starting time. The change is made at the request of ABC, as they wanted to air the game in the afternoon.

Idaho State moved into Big Sky play last weekend with a 14-7 win over former co-leader Montana, while Idaho defeated Northern Illinois 31-12. ISU is 3-2 on the season, 1-0 in the conference, while Idaho is 2-3 and 0-2 respectively.

ISU Coach Bob Griffin thinks he will have to regroup his defense a little for the Vandals. "Idaho passes more than anyone we've faced but they also have fine runners so we'll have to prepare for a balanced attack. Everyone we've played so far has run almost exclusively. We expect freshman Dave Comstock to start at quarterback, but last year's starter Rick Seefried is healthy and ready to go so we won't be surprised if he plays a lot."

The Vandals have a quartet of fine runners. Bernie Rember is the top runner with 474 yards and a 5.6 average. Jerry Hall, Mike Autrey, and Randy Angerman split the other spot and have combined for 437 yards and a 4.3 average. Top receiver is flanker Jay Curcio with 10 catches.

Idaho has a big, strong offensive line anchored by 235-lb. All-American candidate center Ken Muhlbeier.

The Vandals have another All-American candidate, safety Steve Hunter. However Hunter has a bad knee and may not play. The large defensive back is the nation's third-leading punter with a 44.2 average. If he's not cleared for action then soph flanker Kirk Dennis will toe the ball. He averaged 46 yards last week on six boots.

According to Griffin Idaho plays a 5-2-4 defense with linebacker Rand Marquess possibly the best player on the team. "We expect a lot of pressure and blitzes," he added. "We'll have to work on handling pressure this week. We remember what they did to us last year." In 1971 the Bengals were held to 34 yards rushing as

Thomas seeks swap to Oilers

HOUSTON (UPI) — Duane Thomas, the reluctant running back of the San Diego Chargers, met for 90 minutes Tuesday with an official of the Houston Oilers to discuss a possible trade that would bring the moody runner to the Oilers.

Oilers' owner Bud Adams said he was willing to offer San Diego a No. 1 draft choice for Thomas but Coach Bill Peterson said he is not optimistic a deal can be consummated before next Monday's intraconference trading deadline.

"I didn't know he (Thomas) was here," Peterson said. "I knew he was supposed to come, but he wasn't on the plane he was supposed to be on. He changed flights. He and Tom (Williams, the Oiler official) drove around the practice field, but I didn't know it."

"Tom was impressed with him as he talked although he wasn't very talkative," Peterson said. "We didn't talk finances with him. Nothing was discussed about contracts and I think, in my own personal opinion, the thing is off."

QB's Dan Holt and Tom Lee were repeatedly dumped attempting to pass. However the Bengals are optimistic, possibly because for the second straight week ISU was a winner with no one being injured.

Bruins pit defensive record against Rams' yardage muscle

For the first time since 1964, the Twin Falls Bruins are leading the Southern Idaho Conference in total defense — but come Friday night that boast gets a severe test when the Highland Rams bring in the best offensive statistics in the league.

The Bruins, who have a 4-2 record, took the defensive lead last week when Borah's Lions badly out-statisticed the Meridian Warriors but lost anyhow. Twin Falls has allowed 1,055 yards to six opponents and owes that lead to pass defense. Opponents have thrown for 267 yards against the Twin Falls secondary two long bombs for touchdowns — one causing a defeat — accounting for over a third of it.

Meridian leads in defense against the rush at 631 yards with Twin Falls second at 788.

But in Highland the Bruins face a team that can scorch you either way. The Rams have rolled up 1,655 yards on the ground and thrown for another 957, the later being the best in the league. Highland uses total offense leader Frank Green (1,021 yards: running and passing) as the trigger of its offense with Green having the option of running or passing on about half the plays. He is supplemented by junior Mike Falash.

The best showing of a Magic Valley man in the individual stats is made by Minico's Ron Jones who ranks third in pass receiving with 19 for 359 yards and three touchdowns. Brad Hadden is fifth with 14 for 192 yards and two scores. Junior quarterback Rich Donner, who shifted to halfback for much of last week's game, ranks third in total offense with 862 yards and is fourth in passing with 553.

Twin Falls' Mike Sturgill is sixth in passing with 373 yards and total offense with 688.

Delaware, La. Tech share top poll spot; Boise up to 10th

NEW YORK (UPI) — After weeks of inching upward on top-rated Delaware, Louisiana Tech is finally No. 1 — well, almost.

In an unprecedented turn of events, Delaware and Louisiana Tech deadlocked for the No. 1 spot in the latest small college football ratings of the United Press International Board of Coaches with 315 points apiece.

The defending national champion Blue Hens still held an advantage in first place votes, however, getting 19 to Louisiana Tech's 15.

The final No. 1 nod went to North Dakota which was third again with 290 points. McNeese State, still rebounding from its early-season loss to Louisiana Tech, moved into fourth place and unbeaten Western Illinois climbed into fifth place as Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo dropped two notches after tying Fresno State, 24-24, last week. Tennessee State, Drake, Fresno State and Boise State completed the top 10.

While an actual head-to-head showdown between Delaware and Louisiana Tech (both 5-0) is impossible, it would appear the comparative schedules favor the Bulldogs in the race for No. 1 down the stretch. Louisiana Tech has already beaten its toughest opponents (McNeese State and Southern Mississippi), while the Blue Hens still have Temple, their only conqueror last year, ahead on Oct. 28 — the game that could very well decide the national championship.

Livingston State, which tied Western Carolina 14-14, led the second ten followed by Hawaii, Jackson State, Massachusetts and South Dakota.

Anglers ask fly-only limit in Island Park

BOISE (UPI) — Fly fishermen want the fish and game commission to limit areas of the Island Park-Henry's Lake fishing waters to fly fishing only.

Spokesmen for outfitters' and several fly fishing and sportsmen's clubs have asked the commission to:

—Reduce fishing time to 10 p.m. from 11 p.m. in the Island Park-Henry's Lake area.

—Study use of boats by fishermen on Henry's Fork.

—Establish regulations allowing fly fishing only on Henry's Fork of the Snake River from Osborne bridge to three miles downstream and also on the portion of the Snake flowing through the Railroad Ranch.

—Put a 16-inch minimum length on trout taken from those waters designated for fly fishing only.

—Maintain the definition of fly fishing as established in the 1972 fishing regulations.

Meantime, James A. McDonald, operator of the Hudson Bay Resort at Bayview, has asked the commission to lower the limit on kokanee to 35.

Coliseum new foe of blackouts

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn started action Tuesday to try to eliminate television blackouts of sporting events at the Memorial Coliseum.

The Coliseum is jointly operated and owned by the state, county, and city governments and Hahn said it is a violation of the 14th amendment to the U.S. Constitution to black out five counties in this area and permit residents of California's 53 other counties to see sporting events on TV.

He suggested in a motion made at a meeting of the board of supervisors that the county join in a law suit already filed. The suit, filed by attorneys Harvey Schneider and George Hanover, asks elimination of the customary blackout in the counties of Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino, Riverside and Ventura.

The board referred Hahn's motion to county counsel who will make a recommendation on whether or not to join the suit. Hahn said he is not satisfied with football commissioner Pete Rozelle's ruling on the Super Bowl, scheduled to be played at the Coliseum Jan. 14. Rozelle says if the Coliseum is sold out 10 days in advance then there will be no blackout.

Braves drop 76ers 122-114

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Bob Kauffman hit for 24 points as the Buffalo Braves withstood a late Philadelphia rally to score a 122-114 victory over the 76ers Tuesday night.

The teams traded baskets in the first half with Buffalo holding a slim 55-54 halftime advantage. The Braves outscored Philadelphia 16-4 at the opening of the third quarter and finished with 42 third-quarter points and a 97-80 lead.

The 76ers cut the margin to only five points late in the contest but could not overcome a balance Buffalo attack.

John Buff led the 76ers with 27 points and Fred Carter added 24 for Philadelphia. Dick Garrett added 21 for the Braves, who had six men scoring in double figures.

Celtics win in last minute

ATLANTA (UPI) — Four points by John Havlicek and a blocked shot by Dave Cowens in the final minute broke a tie Tuesday night and lifted the Boston Celtics past the Atlanta Hawks 119-115.

With the score tied at 113 Havlicek hit a jump shot and added two free throws after Cowens blocked a shot on Pete Maravich's fast break, to prevent another tie.

Cowens led all scorers with 29 points with Havlicek and Jo Jo White adding 25 apiece. The Celtics remain unbeaten with four wins, including three on the road.

The Hawks, behind the hot shooting of George Trapp, came from 10 points behind in the third quarter to an 8-point lead.

International has new star

LAUREL, Md. (UPI) — The growing list of topnotch thoroughbreds for the $150,000 Washington, D.C. International at Laurel Nov. 11 gained another headline today when an invitation was accepted to run the champion of Malaysia and Singapore in the 1-1/2-mile grass classic.

The latest entrant, swelling the number to eight likely starters, is Lee Ah Seong's Jumbo Jet, a 6-year-old gelded son of the New Zealand sire Pavot out of Lady Luss.

Jumbo Jet has won four of his five starts this year while racing in Singapore. Among his triumphs was the Parak Derby in June, in which the bay gelding set a course record of 2:30 for 2-1/2 mile race on the turf while carrying a heavy carry of 140 pounds. He will carry 127 in the International.

Colts ready to play for new coach

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Colts are upset about the firing of head coach Don McCafferty. They called it "unjust" Tuesday but pledged to give their utmost cooperation and effort to successor John Sandusky.

The players released a statement after meeting with McCafferty, stating they felt "Don McCafferty has unjustly been made to bear the burden of our poor performance this year. He prepared us well, as he has done for 14 years."

"We are disappointed to lose him but we resolve to give John Sandusky and his assistants our utmost cooperation and effort," the statement continued.

The players used angrier language to express their feelings just hours after general manager Joe Thomas fired McCafferty on Monday.

Center Bill Curry, a former player representative and vice president of the NFL Players Association, said "the general manager said he fired Mac for the good of the team — but the same general manager hasn't bothered to go around and meet all the players and learn their names."

McCafferty lived up to his nickname "easy rider" when he met with the players before Tuesday's workout at Memorial Stadium. He said goodbye, urging them to rally behind Sandusky.

Dallas blunts rally by Nets

DALLAS (UPI) — Bob Netolicky hit a crucial jump shot late in the third period that stalled a New York rally and Eugene Kennedy then scored nine straight points for Dallas Tuesday night to spark the Chaparrals to a 101-93 win over the Nets.

It was the first victory in three starts for Dallas and came in its home opener.

The Chaparrals had blown an 11-point lead and New York had moved in front by one point with less than three minutes to go in the third period, 69-68. It was then that Netolicky hit his jumper to put Dallas back in front. Kennedy then hit a layup, three foul shots and another layup at the close of the period to get Dallas out in front 77-71.

Kennedy, who wound up the night with 21 points to lead all scorers, also stole the ball at the beginning of the final period and scored to put the Chaps in front by eight. New York could get no closer than six points the rest of the game. Steve Jones and Rich Jones both had 20 for Dallas while George Carter led the Nets with 20 points.

But the airline said its system-wide, on-time performance, while still one of the highest in the industry, dipped slightly from 89.5 per cent last year to 87.9 per cent last month.

Nutrition programs ready for use in area schools

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Nutrition programs presented through the Expanded Nutrition Program of the University of Idaho Home Extension Department are now available to area schools.

The programs, shown by trained aides of the program, have been well received by the students, according to Mrs. Clinton Dougherty, co-ordinator. Mrs. Lynn Johnson has demonstrated the program several times at the Castleford school, also twice at the Filer Elementary School and the Harrison School, Twin Falls.

Mary Lou Ruby, another aide, is booked to present the program at Lincoln, Bickel and Washington schools.

The aides demonstrate to the children the basic four foods which should be included in every daily menu. Children are told their daily intake of foods should include two helpings of meat, two of meat or eggs, four of vegetables and fruits, and four of breads or cereals.

Dry beans and peas are shown as meat substitutes. The bread-cereal groups include grains such as rice, oats, barley, wheat and corn.

Children are told that breakfast is a very important meal and are shown on the blackboard the various foods they could have had for breakfast.

A questionnaire answered by the children on what they had eaten that morning for breakfast, brought answers of well-balanced meals to one which listed "a piece of cake" and several who answered "none."

The aides illustrate their talks with flip charts and models, as well as specimens of garden foods and fruits. Mrs. Johnston shows her students, two baby chickens who are producers of protein from eggs and meat.

Though this is essentially a farm community, Mrs. Johnson was surprised at how many children had never seen baby chicks. Needless to say, they prove very popular with the children and repeat performances are requested.

Canned foods are also shown. Mrs. Johnson presented a flip chart showing an enlarged blood cell and one small boy offered the information that it looked like "a giant hamburger."

Each child is given a coloring sheet with foods to color. The sheets are made into booklets afterwards.

Children are also given samples of a health cookie and are given the recipe to take home for their mothers to try.

ANN BRADY and Jeffrey Woody, Filer, watch intently as Mrs. Lynn Johnson, Castleford, right, explains how baby chickens grow into large hens which produce eggs, one of the four basic foods. The demonstration was presented to first graders at Filer Elementary School, under the direction of Mrs. Clinton Dougherty, left.

OES plans Thursday fete

TWIN FALLS — Preparations for the Scottish Rite banquet scheduled for Thursday were discussed at a meeting of Magic Chapter No. 82, Order of Eastern Star, Monday evening.

Nellie Black, Esta Barlogi, Carolyn Pence and Thelma Brown were named to the kitchen committee. Martha Brown, Ina Mae Wiedenheft, Janice Beal, Marlene DeWeese, Maxine Larson, Dortha Shorthouse and Harold Brown will help in the dining room.

Mrs. Brown, worthy matron, presided at Monday's meeting. Harold Brown, worthy patron, presented a flag tribute used by Grace Johnson, worth grand matron, 1945-46.

Introduced were Marian Langdon, chairman of home interest and benevolent district No. 7 and guardian of Bethel No. 19; Carl Kobel, associate guardian, Bethel No. 19; Janice Beal, guardian of Bethel No. 43; Nellie Black, guardian of Bethel No. 14; Jerome and Mary Frazier, a 61-year member.

Communications read by Emily Ballard, secretary, included invitations to the worthy grand matron's visit at Hollister Chapter No. 47, Nov. 13; friendship night at Henrietta Chapter No. 21, Idaho Falls, Nov. 2, and a potluck honoring Masons and Eastern Star members by Bethel No. 13, at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Esta Barlogi, chairman of the sick and visiting committee, reported sending cards and flowers to Bunny Kobel and Helen Stradley, a card to Dottie Brim and a sympathy card to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Grange.

A meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Janice Beal to make Christmas decorations was announced.

Mrs. Pence, conductress, said Bill and Penny Grange, Boise, have invited members to a potluck dinner at their home at noon on Nov. 5. Members interested in going should contact Mrs. Pence.

The next meeting is Nov. 6. Brown said he will have three members of his government class prepare a program presenting their views and political opinions.

Don Barlogi, warder, told how a member can become a candlelighter and explained the large candle chart.

Homemade pie and coffee was served by Lee and Warren Skinner, chairmen of the refreshment committee, and Doris and Larry Harper.

All officers brought cakes to the meeting which were given as prizes. Donations were received by members of the chapter for the Interest and Benevolent Fund.

Faddists eat less

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — President Nixon's special adviser on public health has found something good about America developing as a nation of food faddists.

"The only thing these fads have in common is that people don't eat so much," Dr. Roger O. Egeberg said Monday, "and therefore get thinner."

Egeberg was speaking to newsmen on the first day of a three-day meeting of health authorities from 16 European nations to explore more effective delivery of health care.

He said he was "pretty excited" about mainland China's successful use of medical technicians who can handle daily ills of communities.

Joke turns into serious business

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Darlene King says she loves her job as a road construction laborer but "my fingernails have had it."

After three weeks of digging ditches and hauling dirt, the 22-year-old miss admits that what started out as a joke has turned into serious business.

Miss King said her cousin's husband, a foreman for the C. W. Matthews Construction Co., jokingly asked her if she thought she could handle road construction work. She said she could, so she got a job.

"There's a lot of lifting, pulling and climbing," said Miss King, explaining that not every woman could handle the job. "The weather's real hot and you get real dirty."

"I guess you have to be sort of the tomboy type," she added.

"She's a real good worker. She does anything the men do," said foreman Wallace Ledbetter.

She doesn't back off from anything. In fact, her being on the job makes the men work a little harder.

TF FHA elects leaders

TWIN FALLS — Molly Curtis was installed president of the Twin Falls High School Future Homemakers of America at a 7:30 a.m. breakfast Tuesday.

Other officers installed include Karla Nipper, vice president; Debbie Pierson, secretary; Pam Bridge, treasurer; Stephanie Parker, public relations and scrapbook; Jane Wilson, degrees; Kathy Murphy, projects.

The annual mixer for FFA and FHA members has been scheduled for 7 p.m. today at the high school agriculture building.

The district FHA conference is scheduled for 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Nov. 4 at Robert Stuart Jr. High School. There will be a small registration fee and those attending should bring sack lunches.

A foster child has been adopted by the FHA district this year. Each chapter will be asked to contribute $12 to pay for one month's clothing, food and toy expense for the child.

Rebekahs set fete

BURLEY — Ruth Rebekah Lodge No. 107 members are planning an annual Harvest dinner and bazaar Oct. 28.

Nancy Johnson and Esther Arbogast will buy food for the annual "Food Train" contribution made to the "Home on the Hill" at Caldwell.

Don McMinimy, incoming grand master for Odd Fellows, will have a meeting Oct. 31 in Burley.

The next regular meeting of Ruth Rebekah Lodge is Nov. 9.

A Lovelier You

LOOK AS YOUNG AS YOU ARE

By Mary Sue Miller

If you want to look as young as you are, see to it that you are never burdened with a globule of fat on the nape of your neck. You must have a trim shoulder line before you can hope to wear this winter's halter and backless evening dresses.

As our project for today let's explore ways of improving a needy line. You take a step in the right direction when you always hold your head erect, draw your chest up and your shoulders down. This carriage helps both to overcome and prevent the problem.

If the difficulty is well entrenched, you must add these reducing routines.

1. Stand with your feet astride and arms relaxed at sides. Swing arms upward and outward, on diagonal, trying for maximum stretch, at start of swing drop head to chest. Come back to starting position and raise head as arms fall. Repeat 15 times night and morning. Fast, accurate movement is wanted.

2. Standing with chin up and arms down at sides, stiffen elbows and make loose fists. Leading with fists, swing arms up and back. Then break wrists so that fists drop toward floor and hold for 5 counts. Return to starting position and repeat 10 times, twice daily. You do it right when upper back muscles tense.

Diligent performance brings about a youthful line. And that's worth the effort.

TRIMMERS AND SLIMMERS

Let me help you with the problem of a too-fleshy arm, chest or upper back by sending you my leaflet, TRIMMERS AND SLIMMERS. It contains a set of coordinated spot reducing exercises—easy to do, quick to get results. Women make own problems

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A top woman police officer said Monday that a major roadblock in obtaining sexual equality in police departments is women themselves.

"I've found instances of women not wanting to do equal work for the equal pay they are receiving," said Catherine Milton, assistant director of the Washington, D.C., based Police Foundation.

For instance, she said, some policewomen don't want to go on patrol.

"If you want to be equal with men, you have to do the same work," she said. "It's dirty and dangerous, but that's where you have to start."

Mrs. Milton said the vast majority of police manpower was on the streets. "Why then," she asked, "are the vast majority of police women kept in the stationhouse?"

Mrs. Milton's remarks came before the annual convention of the International Association of Police Women.

America's Tastiest SPAGHETTI SAUCE

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband owns several large factories and he had in mind promoting a bright young man to a responsible executive position.

We invited him and his wife for a weekend at our summer place. The wife arrived with an armload of paper-back books, and during the time she and I were alone, instead of visiting with me, she read continuously, stopping only for meals.

I was amazed, as I am considered good company, and can converse on any number of subjects.

The problem is not that I was antagonized by this young woman's extreme rudeness, but my husband's organization holds many social get-togethers to which the wives are invited, and courtesy is a requirement.

Here is a Jeff Rubens match point problem. You are playing in the finals of the blue ribbon pairs and have reached six no-trump.

Never mind how you got there. There were as many ways to bid the hand as there were players in the event and the one thing you can be sure of is that every one is in six or seven spades or no-trump.

You win the queen of diamonds lead and fin off your spades and clubs to leave dummy with the ace queen of hearts.

You have watched your opponents' discards and are still missing the king of diamonds and king-10-eight of hearts.

You lead a heart and West plays the 10. If his other card is the king of diamonds, the might well have led the queen from king-queen-jack. It doesn't matter what you play. You are going to make exactly six. If his other card is the king of hearts a finesse gives you an overtrick. It is the eight of hearts East will have blanked the king early in the defense and if you finesse you will go down one at your slam contract. What do you do?

The answer is that you rise with dummy's ace and insure your contract.

If West holds the heart king you have chucked a trick but the loss won't translate into many match points. All spade declarers will have played a backward spade finesse against the king in the East hand and will have been held to 12 tricks. Six no-trump will beat all of them.

Seven no-trump declarers will have played West for the heart king and made their contract to beat you in any event.

Big help to hubby

Because wives are now being carefully looked at before promoting their husbands, should I tell my husband he would be making a big mistake to promote that young man?

BOSS' WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If you really want to help your husband, don't put the kibosh on a bright young man who could be an asset to his organization. Instead, tell the wife in a friendly manner that her conduct last weekend is no way to help her husband to get ahead. Perhaps she didn't intend to be rude, but was overwhelmed and frightened by "the boss' wife," and took refuge behind her books.

DEAR ABBY: I've been sleeping with a piece of wedding cake under my pillow every night since June 17 because I heard it would get me a man. Is this true?

ALWAYS A BRIDESMAID

DEAR ALWAYS: I can't guarantee you a man. But you'll get plenty of ants!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I went to a place that sold yard ornaments — cement bird baths, ducks, deer, etc. A teen aged boy in charge said his parents owned the place, but they were both gone, and we were welcome to look around. We found a deer we liked and asked the boy how much it was. He looked up the price in a book and told us it was $19.95. We gave him the cash, he gave us a receipt, and we took the deer home.

A few days later we received a postcard informing us that the price of the deer we purchased should have been $22.95 and we should either send them $3 or bring the deer back.

Abby, if their son quoted us the wrong price, it wasn't our fault, was it? Do you think we should send them $3 or return the deer? We think we are

IN THE RIGHT

DEAR IN: I think you are "in the right," too. Furthermore, they're lucky they didn't pay more "dearly" for their son's mistake.

Seeding enlarges snowpack

DALLAS (UPI)—A Bureau of Reclamation official said Monday that snowpack in the Colorado Rockies last year increased from 10 to 30 per cent because of cloud seeding.

Archie M. Kahan, chief of the bureau's atmospheric water resources management, said the results indicated that winter cloud seeding was ready for operational use in the dry portions of the Great Plains.

"Weather modification is rapidly acquiring a transitional status from strictly research to full application," said Kahan at the Southern Plains Region Cloudtop Conference.

"It is the Bureau of Reclamation's contention that scientifically sound local-state-federal cooperative programs can be implemented to provide both the necessary learning and the immediate benefits of additional water," he said.

Kahan said that the current cloud seeding research program of the bureau included a $99,966 grant to the University of Wyoming for a study of agricultural, economic and social results from more summer rains in that state.

He also said that additional winter cloud seeding by Colorado State University (CSU) would occur in the San Juan Mountains of Colorado to increase high mountain snowpack.

More onions

BOISE (UPI) — Growers in Idaho and Eastern Oregon expect to harvest 4,559,000 cwt. of onions this year, or about six per cent more than last year, according to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The yield per acre is forecast at 584 cwt. and total harvested land is expected to top 9,400 acres. By Oct. 1 harvest in the two-state area was nearly three-fourths complete.

Food capacity said enlarged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A plant scientist has asserted that the earth can produce enough food to feed 50 times its present population.

The assessment was made Monday at a fall meeting of the National Academy of Sciences by Dr. Frits W. Went of the University of Nevada. His confidence was shared by other participants in the session on plant growth regulation.

At a news conference, Dr. R. H. Burris of the University of Wisconsin at Madison said that "several substantial breakthroughs" in plant science in recent years will have "real impact" on both the production and preservation of food.

Progress in biochemical methods of increasing the efficiency with which plants use carbon dioxide to manufacture food was reported by Dr. Israel Zelitch of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station. He said some plants, notably corn and sugar cane, are twice as efficient in this photosynthetic process as others, such as spinach, tobacco, hay grasses, wheat, beans, and potatoes.

The photosynthetic productivity of these inefficient users of carbon dioxide have been increased with laboratory methods as much as 38 per cent in some species.

The meeting was told there also have been new plant growth discoveries, including ways of controlling a plant's manufacture and use of a growth hormone, ethylene, which regulates practically every phase of plant development. Ethylene production can be curbed by keeping fruits, vegetables and flowers in an environment of reduced atmospheric pressure, Dr. Stanley P. Burg of the University of Miami reported.

By this means fruits such as apples have been kept a year at orchard quality. In the next six months, storage warehouses with reduced atmospheres will be built to preserve avocados, limes, apples and pears. This preservation effect has been confirmed for some 50 different vegetables.

Price prop on cotton unchanged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rejecting pleas to boost cotton price supports after a dramatic bust in 1972 prices, the administration today set the 1973 price prop at 19.5 cents a pound, unchanged from this year.

A spokesman said proposals to raise the price support loan rate for the crop were turned down because of fears that an increase would reduce export sales. The appeals had included a last-minute personal visit Monday to Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz by Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

Hog tattoo order looms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department soon will formally propose mandatory use of a tattoo identification system on hogs shipped across state lines to slaughter, officials said Tuesday.

The move will be aimed at improving the efficiency of disease eradication programs.

In a related development today, officials said they were expanding their cattle indemnity program to authorize indemnity payments on calves slaughtered to help eradicate brucellosis.

The disclosure that a hog tattoo system may be made mandatory came as the department announced successful conclusion of an experiment in identifying hogs with "slap-tattoos."

Experimenters found the ink tattoos, slapped on hog at a cost which could be held under two cents per animal, were still legible after the hogs had been slaughtered, scalded and dehaired. This means, officials said, the system can be used to trace diseased hogs back to the farm of origin so outbreaks can be nipped quickly.

The trials of some 150 lots including more than 52,000 hogs were conducted through terminal livestock markets in East St. Louis, Ill.; Kansas City, Mo.; St. Paul, Minn., and Sioux Falls, S.D.

Officials said a formal proposal to make tattoos mandatory is being reviewed by legal experts and will be issued later.

In the companion move expanding the cattle indemnity program, officials said they will now pay indemnities to owners of calves under 6 months of age when the calves are slaughtered because their mothers are infected with brucellosis.

In the past, indemnities were paid only on older cattle, but experts said young calves nursing on infected mothers can "represent a source of potential infection if left with the herd."

The calf indemnities, like those for cows, will be up to $50 for ordinary "grade" animals and up to $100 for purebreds.

Lucas supports reform

TWIN FALLS — Mel Lucas, Democratic candidate for the state legislature, today said he supported constitutional reform of state government.

A constitutional amendment on the November ballot would limit the number of state agencies to 20, and would make mandatory reorganization by the beginning of 1975.

Meetings explaining the intent and content of the amendment are being held across the Magic Valley this week as part of a statewide educational program. One session is scheduled for the Shields Academic Building at CSO Thursday at 1:30 p.m.

“Passage of Senate Joint Resolution 132, the constitutional amendment Idaho voters will decide upon in the Nov. 7 general election, is very important and is needed for executive reorganization,” Lucas said.

Lucas is seeking his first term in the Idaho House of Representatives from the Twin Falls eastern Legislative District.

“Passage of this constitutional amendment will enable the state government to make better use of its manpower. And the state government will be able to be more responsive to the needs of the citizens of Idaho,” the candidate said.

He was a delegate to the National Youth Science Camp in Morgantown, W. Va., and the recipient of a four-year Idaho Nuclear Corporation scholarship to ISU where he is a senior chemistry major.

FHA home proposal outlined

BOISE (UPI) — Two representatives from the Farmers Home Administration have proposed a short-term financing plan for low-income housing. Joseph F. Freburger and Dale Kane, both of Washington, D.C., told news conference here Tuesday the housing package would be financed by FHA and may save taxpayers upwards of $100 million a year in reduced loan processing costs.

“This is in line with the President's policy of streamlining operations under the federal assistance review program,” Kane said, “and would promote greater involvement of the public sector in government sponsored programs.”

Freburger and Kane said the program has been two years in the making and added it was brought to the forefront when state FHA Director Donald Winder submitted an employee suggestion to the national office similar to the one they were studying.

Proposed change in procedure would allow short-term interim financing through commercial channels. The federal government would then assume the mortgage with the borrower when construction is completed.

Blasts economy

SARGENT SHRIVER, Democratic candidate for vice president, makes a point during an interview Tuesday on CBS Morning News in New York City. Shriver said he thought President Nixon had mismanaged the American economy worse than any president since Herbert Hoover. (UPI)

Smog reduces skin woes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Claiming that every cloud even one of smoke and soot has a silver lining, a researcher says smog reduces the chances of getting sunburn or skin cancer.

Dr. David Challinor of the Smithsonian Institution reported Monday that air pollution significantly reduces the amount of ultraviolet light from the sun that reaches the earth.

Solar ultraviolet radiation is a high energy form of light which causes both sunburn and skin cancer. It is also responsible for some types of eye damage, such as "snow blindness," and can be lethal to plants and animals in heavy enough doses.

Considerably less ultraviolet light reaches metropolitan Washington, D.C., than the neighboring community of Rockville, Md., Challinor told the western regional meeting of the American Chemical Society and Society for Applied Spectroscopy.

He said the "distinct low value" of ultraviolet light in Washington as compared to Rockville was presumably due to greater air pollution from autos and other sources. He

Possession nets singer drug count

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Singer actress Barbara McNair was arrested for possession of nearly a half ounce of heroin at the Playboy Club in McAfee, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Miss McNair and her husband, Rick Manzie, were arraigned on the heroin possession charges in federal court here. Each was ordered to post a $10,000 bond.

A spokesman for the Playboy Club said Miss McNair appeared three times this week in the swank Penthouse of the club-hotel in private performances for a group of conventioners. She was arrested Monday night in her dressing room.

The U.S. Attorney's office said the singer and her husband, who acts as her business agent, were each charged with possessing 13 grams of the drug.

U.S. District Court Judge Lawrence A. Whipple set no travel restrictions on the couple. The Playboy Club said the singer had scheduled engagements in Chicago Wednesday and again in McAfee Thursday.

said variations of 10 per cent or more occur even on cloudless days.

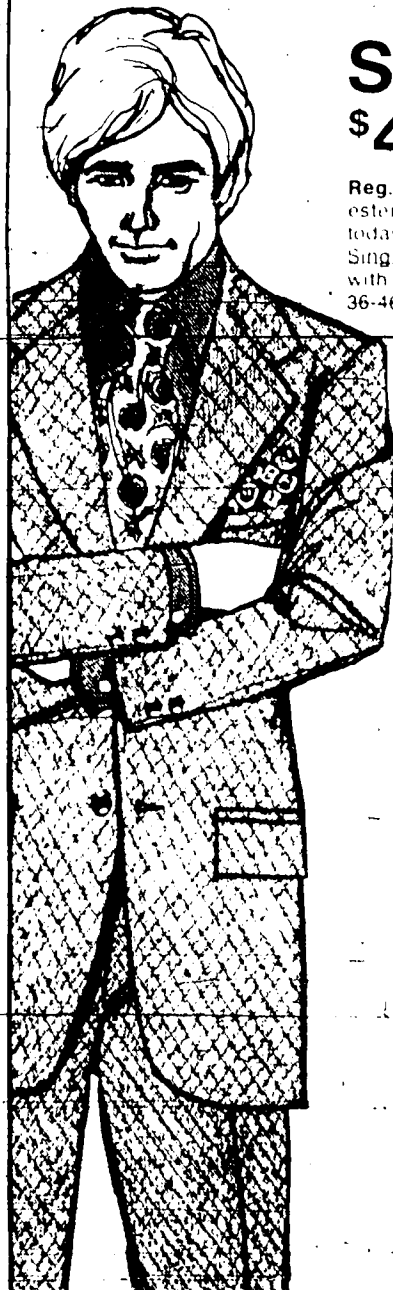

Previous Smithsonian studies showed that solar radiation reaching Washington in 1969 was significantly less than in 1907 and 1919, before smog became a part of urban life.

Challinor reported that Barrow, Alaska, which has a clear atmosphere, received 15 per cent more sunlight than Rockville, including a slight increase in ultraviolet and a sizeable increase in visual light.

The Smithsonian set up monitoring stations at three points in the U.S. and at Bergen, Norway, and Jerusalem after the amount of ultraviolet light striking the earth became an issue in the Congressional fight over funding of an American supersonic transport (SST).

Utah school aims for program to train druggist counterparts

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The traditional corner druggist—the man who counts pills, types labels and sells magazines—is going to have a new counterpart soon if a pilot program at the University of Utah succeeds.

The University's College of Pharmacy is spearheading a program designed to train clinical drug specialists, according to Dean Ewart Swinyard.

The specialist would assist physicians in prescribing and monitoring drugs.

Swinyard said the new type of pharmacist would maintain communication with patients to ensure drugs are taken as prescribed, thereby reducing the spiraling incidence of adverse, sometimes fatal, drug reactions.

"It has been estimated that five per cent of hospital admissions in the United States are due to the inappropriate use of drugs," he said.

"Additionally, 10 per cent of all hospital patients develop drug problems while they are hospitalized and, on the average, all patients have their hospital stay increased one day per week by drug reaction problems."

One of the dean's colleagues, Dr. James Freston, placed some of the blame for drug problems in the laps of physicians themselves.

An associate professor of medicine and chief of the division of gastroenterology, Freston said adverse reactions are commonly caused by mistakes in prescribing drugs.

Another problem, he said, is that overworked doctors frequently don't have time to obtain drug histories or properly monitor drug therapy once the patient leaves the office or hospital.

"We've documented that patients not being given specific instructions regarding drugs have gone home, inappropriately taken the prescribed medicine and landed back in the hospital because of it," he said.

Enter the new pharmacist. In the hospital, Freston said, the clinical pharmacist would assist in planning drug therapy and at times recommend the most appropriate drug.

This would often entail running down new drug information for the physician. Additionally, he would obtain comprehensive drug histories on patients and, prior to discharge, he would meet with them to review instructions for drug administration at home.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES Another day when it would be wise to keep your temper under control. Be mindful that the person with a smile gains the benefits others give out. Looking for something to complain about would only cause others to be repelled. Listen to the words of others, but don't state yours.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You must use tact if you are to obtain that extra data you want and need at this time, otherwise you could get into trouble. Do something of a charitable nature. Be a humanitarian.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Doing something thoughtful for good friends is wise now, since they could feel you are not sincere. A proper time to engage in social gatherings that are congenial. Avoid perpetual troublemaker.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you don't hold your tongue today you could become embroiled in an unpleasant argument with a higher up. Study a new and better method for handling your regular job. Be constructive.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Going off for amusement you like is fine, provided you are with congenials. Conditions around you are a bit frustrating, but don't let this bother you. Avoid person who tells lies.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Talk over business matters with associates and find out what it is they expect of you. Exchanging ideas and debating is fine, but not arguing. Show that you are a very reasonable person.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) You want to shirk important responsibilities for fun today, but this could lead to a setback, so keep steady and to the mark. Use extreme care and you avoid running clothing. Be wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) You could run into some disappointment where fun is concerned in the evening, but it's not worth worrying about. Start working out details connected with a special talent you have.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't run out on family and leave them to do the work that has to be done, but do more than your share and all are happy. Streamline your living. Show that you have wisdom.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure you use extreme care in motion so that you are well protected from dangerous influences. Don't be thoughtless and blunt with others which could start arguments. Use diplomacy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although finances seem difficult right now, your own blessings and you find you are better off than you thought. Find the right outlet for your talents and add to income quickly.

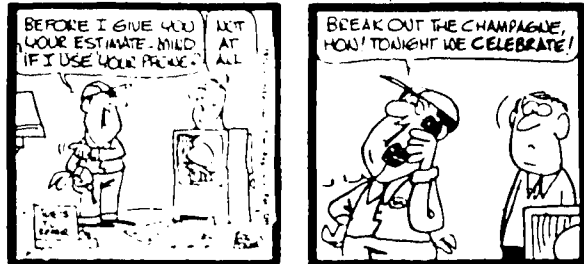

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't find fault with a friendly associate because you are under some strong influence against this person. You could be mistaken. Don't attend a social affair. It could lead to trouble.

Only redhead ever to win the Miss America contest was 1944's Venus Ramey, a typist. What's peculiar about this fact is redheaded typists are not ordinarily known for their extraordinary tape measurements. On the contrary, in fact. But Miss Ramey's 37-1-2 statistic established her in the record book as the chestiest Miss America winner of all time so far.

Q. "AMONG" black college students, don't the girls outnumber the men?

A. By three to two they do.

WAR Who remembers U.S. Army Specialist IV James Thomas Davis? On Dec. 22, 1961, he was shot on Provincial Highway 10, Republic of Vietnam. Almost 11 years ago. The Revolutionary War lasted eight years. The Civil War, four years. World War II, also four years. Another peculiarity about the Vietnam War is that one conflict in which this country's soldiers have most outnumbered the enemy.

WHAT MAKES boric acid the world's most effective poison against cockroaches is that it works so slowly. Takes several days, at least. Pretty easy, those roaches. They promptly learn to dodge the more potent poisons. But boric acid powder doesn't injure them. They'll romp around in it until it's too late. An anti-bug specialist told me that.

KISSING Q. Did the ancient Greeks kiss?

A. They did. So did the Romans. Matter of fact, kissing goes way back beyond them both. Nobody knows how far. The kissing of the head or foot, a political or religious ruler started before recorded history. Early Christians took up kissing as a part of religious ceremony. The kiss, as an expression of affection, probably didn't become widespread until about 500 A.D. Once it caught on though, it really spread. Our Love and War man, who keeps a file on the topic, naturally, says it moved across Europe at a considerably more rapid rate than the bubonic plague.

WHY QUELS Elizabeth I years ago levied a 50-cent tax on every Englishman with a beard. I do not know.

THE MALE king never just keeps on growing until it dies. It's up to you.

MAJOR HOOPLE

Gem pay proposals on ballot

Wednesday, October 18, 1972, Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 35

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series outlining the constitutional amendments which will appear on the Nov. 7 ballot in Idaho.)

By GEORGE FRANK

BOISE (UPI) — If voters march to the polls Nov. 7 and throw their support to two legislative pay proposals on the ballot — lawmakers may not get anything.

The first amendment, 8 Senate Joint Resolution 112 — would change the state constitution and allow legislative pay raises through a citizens committee appointed by the governor.

Under the proposal, no elected official could be on the committee and no change in salaries could be made for the legislators in office when the amendment takes effect.

The other proposed constitutional change — Senate Joint Resolution 113 — would up legislative compensation to $3,600 per year from the $10 per day lawmakers presently make during a session.

If voters approved both of the amendments it would appear that neither would pass because of a conflict.

In article 20, section one, the Idaho Constitution says if a section of the constitution is amended at the same time by two different amendments that conflict, "both must fail." Both amendments deal with section 23, article three of the constitution.

"There appears to be a conflict in the two amendments," state Attorney General W. Anthony Park says. But he added the intent of the legislature seemed to be to give the voters a choice.

Presently, if a legislator sets up a second residency in Boise during a session he makes $45 per day. This includes $10 per day salary, $25 expenses and the additional $10 per day for the additional expense of the apartment or house. Under the constitution this pay scale lasts through the first 60 days of a regular session and then the $10 per day salary is dropped on the 61st day.

If a legislator is from the Ada County area his total pay per day is the same minus the $10 an additional residency.

If the second amendment on the ballot is approved, and the first one fails, it is conceivable that a legislator could receive as much as $5,700 for a 60-day session. The amendment does not mention the discontinuance of expenses which are regulated under the Idaho Code and not the constitution.

So, if the lawmakers received the basic salary ($3,600), as proposed, plus expenses of $35 day for out-of-towners ($2,100), his total salary for the period would be $5,700.

The amendment leaves the question of expenses open and says "The officers of the legislature would receive other compensation which may be provided by law."

The history behind legislative pay raises is a long one. But more recently, (1968) the voters defeated an amendment 114,079 to 85,735 which would have permitted the legislature to set its own salary.

In 1969, the legislature gave themselves an expense raise from $25 per day to $35. The bill also provided that each member of the legislature be given $200 per month for maintaining an office, increased from $3.50 per day.

Then in 1970, the late W. C. Burns, Idaho Falls, got together 28,000 signatures on an initiative petition and got it on the Nov. 3 ballot. The petition called for the reduction of daily expenses and a limit on the time lawmakers could receive them during a session.

Under the petition, which became law by a margin of 133,511 to 91,372, it reduced expense allowances to $25 per day for board and lodging for 60 days during a regular session and 30 days during a second session.

Then during the 1971 legislature the lawmakers changed the amount of expenses they could be paid as outlined by law, giving members $35 in expenses, if they maintained second residency during the session, and $25 if they were from the Ada County area.

Following the expense increase by legislators, two Idaho Falls legislators were recalled from office in 1971.

Rep. Aden Hyde and Sen. Fisher Ellsworth, both Republicans, were voted out of office.

The legislative pay per day was $5 until 1946 when the constitution was amended. The 10 cents per mile has remained the same and legislators are presently receiving $3.50 per day to maintain their offices when the legislature is not in session.

Two other amendments voters will have to decide on next month concern party affiliation of the governor and lieutenant governor and whether local bond issues for water treatment plants and sewage systems can pass by a simple majority.

The one amendment proposes that the state constitution be changed to provide that the lieutenant governor and the governor come from the same political party.

Some reason that with governors traveling more these days they need someone at home following the same political conviction.

"Some governors have been known to spend their full terms in the state because they are afraid to leave the shop to their politically-different lieutenant governors," one statehouse employe said.

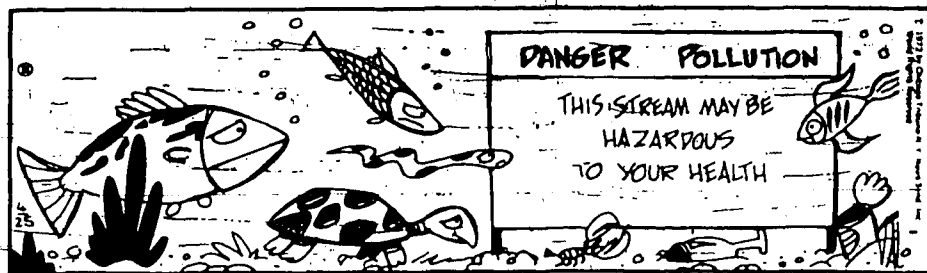

If passed, the governor and his running mate would be grouped on the ballot and one "X" would mean a vote for both of them.

The other measure, proposing that the constitution be changed to allow a simple majority for the passage of bond issues for water and sewage plants seems to have the support of the municipalities.

Many bond issues around the state gather more than 50 per cent of the vote, but fewer reach the 66-2-3 requirement.

The amendment would only apply to revenue bonds for water systems, sewage collection systems, water treatment plants and sewage treatment plants.
