

CSI student votes could be costly

By RICHARD G. HIGH

Times-News managing editor

TWIN FALLS — It may cost some CSI students about $800 a year if they choose to vote in the college's Dec. 19 trustee election.

The students involved are those who moved into the district to enroll at the Twin Falls college.

At stake is more than $100,000 a year now paid by out-of-district counties to CSI as part of those students' tuition.

At the base of the problem is a disagreement over just who qualifies as a resident of the college district, and whether a person who is a "resident" for the purposes of voting is a "resident" for the purposes of tuition.

Take an imaginary example:
An 18-year-old youth named John from Gooding County moves to Twin Falls at the end of the summer to find housing in Twin Falls before enrolling at CSI.

As a result of an interpretation by Idaho Atty. Gen. Anthony Park of a US Supreme Court decision, John is eligible to vote in the CSI and other elections if he lived in the college district (Jerome and Twin Falls Counties) for even a short time before enrolling.

So John can vote, simply by properly signing an elector's oath saying he lived in the district before he was a student.

But, according to the college's attorney, Robert Alexander, the college will continue to require that a resident for the purpose of tuition must have lived in the state for six months and the district for 30 days.

He argues that court cases and attorney general opinions that changed the voting residency requirements have not addressed themselves to the question of tuition. As a result, he says, the residency law for tuition stands.

So under the dual-residency standard at CSI, John is a resident legally qualified voter at CSI, but still not a resident when it comes to tuition.

But some of the county commissioners of out of district counties don't agree. They say that a person who is a resident for voting is also a resident for tuition. John's tuition would now have to be paid by the college district, not Gooding County.

According to Gooding County Commissioner Nelson King, "If they are going to establish residency in Twin Falls County, they wouldn't be a resident of Gooding County."

"Our clerk is going over to check the records," King said today. "Any of them who vote over there; probably we won't pay their tuition."

Gooding County records show out-of-district tuition paid to CSI last year totaled over $37,000.

According to CSI's Alexander, the total for all out-of-district tuition from counties is about $102,000 per year.

First of a series

So what happens if John votes at CSI on Dec. 19?

— He loses $480 per year in tuition support from Gooding County, which he will have to pay from his own pocket. If he were a resident of Twin Falls County he wouldn't have to pay this at all.

— He will have to continue paying the higher tuition rate paid personally by out-of-district students. This amounts to $381.30 per year.

Were John accepted as a resident of the district, this cost would drop to $287 per year — a difference to John of $124.30 per year. This, too, comes out of his pocket.

— So if John signs the elector's oath to vote legally, he stands to lose $594.30 per year, or nearly $1,200 during his two-year junior college career.

The only immediate prospect for settlement of the question of residency before the election lies in the hands of the staff of the Idaho attorney general's office.

James R. Hargis, deputy attorney general specializing in education and educational elections, said today "three people" are at work on the question, but "we haven't completed anything on it."

"I would hope to have an opinion on at least part of it before the CSI election," he said. CSI's attorney Alexander said the CSI trustees were concerned over the question and would ask the state attorney general for an opinion.

He said the trustees "hope that in explaining the tuition problem this would not be received by the students or the public as an attempt to discourage student voting."

TF bond proposals offered

By GEORGE WILEY

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — For the first time the School District 411 Citizens Advisory Committee presented specific proposals for school construction Wednesday night.

Outlining two alternate proposals, committee chairman Gary Custer said the essential difference was whether to construct a new junior high school or a new elementary school.

The proposals, requiring estimated bond levies of $2.4 million and $2.15 million respectively, were well below the legal maximum of $3.3 million which had been the range of earlier construction proposals made by School Supt. George Staudacher.

Outlining the proposals, chairman Custer said the first, costing an estimated $2.4 million, would:

1. Build a new junior high school to replace O'Leary

Junior High (estimated cost, $2 million).

2. Acquire a site for a new junior high ($100,000).

3. Add four classrooms to Harrison Elementary School and four classrooms to Morningside Elementary School ($300,000).

The second bond proposal, requiring an estimated $2.15 million, would:

1. Replace Washington Elementary with a new elementary school ($1.5 million).

2. Acquire a site for a new junior high ($100,000).

3. Make classroom additions and upgrade the physical education facilities at Stuart Junior High ($250,000).

4. Add four classrooms each to Harrison and Morningside elementary schools ($300,000).

Response to the alternative proposals by members of the audience was about equally divided, with some giving top priority to a new grade school and others favoring a new junior high.

Decrying the lack of public interest in the school district, the citizens committee decided to draw up a definite school bond proposal to present to the school board. This is to be done at the next meeting, possibly on Dec. 13.

Following that, the group will initiate a public education campaign to bring the needs of the school district to the attention of voters.

Rogers stays on job

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

President Nixon announced today William P. Rogers would stay on as secretary of state in his second-term administration, but that the President's one-time law professor, Kenneth H. Rush, would become the No. 2 man at the State Department.

Rogers is the first Cabinet member publicly retained for the second term, although informed sources said Richard G. Kleindienst also will continue as attorney general.

Rush, who previously served the administration as ambassador to West Germany, is currently deputy defense secretary. He will become undersecretary of state, succeeding John W. Irwin who is being offered an ambassadorial post.

The White House said Nixon also had selected a new No. 3 man at State — William J. Porter, presently chief U.S. negotiator at the regular Paris peace talks.

Porter is to succeed U.S. Alexis Johnson as undersecretary for political affairs. And William J. Casey, now head of the Securities and Exchange Commission, was named to be undersecretary of state for economic affairs.

Curtis Tarr will continue as undersecretary of state for coordinating mutual assistance programs.

The Washington Star-News said Nixon plans to name William P. Clements Jr., head of a $100 million-a-year Texas oil drilling firm, as deputy defense secretary.

That's about as bad as a $600 poll tax for CSI students.

No delays in talks pledged

By United Press International

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter pledged to the Vietnamese Communists in Paris today that President Nixon would permit no avoidable delay in ending the Vietnam War and told reporters there is no reason for pessimism over the secret talks that resume Monday.

"Some news dispatches contain an unwarranted amount of pessimism," Porter said with a smile after today's unusually short, two hour session of the Paris peace talks. "I would caution you to take care unless you are caught with your pants down."

The North Vietnamese Communists said for the first time today that the peace negotiations are "deadlocked."

TF lodge mulls sale

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls Elks Lodge 1183 will meet tonight to decide whether to try to sell the Elks Building in downtown Twin Falls.

Howard Tippin, lodge secretary, said if the membership approves the effort by a two-thirds majority, national Elks officials must also approve the sale attempt.

Lodge 1183 has reportedly been investigating a ten-acre parcel of land near the municipal golf course on Grandview Drive as a possible site for a new building

Aged home fire kills 9

ATLANTA (UPI) — "A horrible nightmare" of a fire that sent choking black smoke billowing through the 11-story Baptist Towers home for the aged claimed at least nine lives today and injured 31 others.

Most of the victims apparently died of smoke inhalation. Firemen worked throughout the rainy predawn hours evacuating the elderly from the building. At least 10 of those injured were hospitalized.

Cause of the fire, which was confined to the seventh floor, was not immediately determined, but smoke from the blaze shifted into the upper floors and sent the panic-stricken elderly residents fleeing to the windows where they stood screaming and crying for help.

"People were hanging out the windows hollering for help. It was a horrible nightmare," said Mrs. Julia Elliott, who lives on the sixth floor.

She said smoke filled the corridor on her floor "where you couldn't see across the hall."

The modern "T" shaped Baptist Towers building is situated amid a cluster of high rise garden apartments in southwest Atlanta. Only persons still able to care for themselves are admitted, and residents have their own apartments, rather than being housed in rooms or wards.

Assistant Administrator Lucy Ruess said about 325 persons live in the $4.5 million building, which opened its doors eight months ago.

Airport guards planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is planning to order airports to station guards at all boarding gates in a toughened effort to stop hijacking. It gave no date for implementing the plan.

In a telegram to Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said the government's objective is to post a law enforcement officer at gates a half hour before departure of domestic flights and one hour before international flights.

Under the present system, the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) says police or law enforcement officers are present at domestic boarding gates only if alerted by airline agents that a prospective passenger fits a hijacking behavioral profile. International flights, Volpe said, are well screened.

Details of the wave of hijackings, guards are used at only about 123 of the nation's 531 airports served by scheduled airlines. But the 123 airports account for about 90 per cent of the 34,000 airline flights scheduled a day.

US jets blast Red outposts

SAIGON (UPI) — At least 500 American warplanes including more than 100 giant B52s bombed Communist troops and supplies throughout Indochina Wednesday and early today, the U.S. command said. The so-called Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) was the target of a record number of the B52 strikes.

The high-flying Stratofortresses launched a record seven bombing waves — 21 planes — inside the DMZ which nominally separates North and South Vietnam and flew at least 27 other missions in the two Vietnamese, Laos and Cambodia. In the bomb-free area of North Vietnam above the 20th Parallel, the boundary set by President Nixon in October during early cease-fire negotiations, U.S. military sources said the North Vietnamese had repaired one of two rail links between Hanoi and China. The rail lines were destroyed by U.S. bombing early this year.

Talking terms

CONFERRING at White House are Nguyen Phu Duc, South Vietnamese emissary, and President Nixon. They met Wednesday to discuss cease-fire negotiations in Paris, and are to meet again. (UPI)

New meet scheduled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon agreed to meet today for a second time with Nguyen Phu Duc, personal emissary of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, on the Vietnam peace negotiations.

Nixon met for 2 1/2 hours with Duc Wednesday and following that meeting, the White House said no additional sessions were contemplated.

There was no indication of the meaning of the additional conferences at the White House, scheduled prior to Nixon's planned mid-day departure for a long weekend in Florida. It was not the only additional high level conference involving Vietnam. The President also called in his top military advisers — the Joint Chiefs of Staff — to talk about Vietnam prior to the new meeting with Duc.

Duc had been reported as probably carrying to Nixon a request by Thieu for a summit meeting with Nixon prior to final consummation of a cease-fire.

Wendell death probed

WENDELL — L. M. Alley, Wendell, was shot and killed in an apparent accident north of the Wendell dump about noon Wednesday.

According to Gooding County Sheriff Earl Brown, Alley had gone to the area to target shoot with a companion, George Larsen, Wendell.

Larsen told sheriff's officers that he was setting up targets about 200 feet from Alley when he heard a shot.

Alley was lying on the ground when Larsen turned around after the shot. Brown said he thought the shooting was probably an accident, but further comment was being withheld until an autopsy is made.

Officials at Leeper Mortuary, Wendell, said Alley did have a history of a heart ailment.

Dr. B. N. Carlo, Twin Falls, is making the autopsy, but was unavailable for comment today.

Alley was shot with a .22 rifle but information as to where in the body the shot entered has not been released by the mortuary or sheriff's officers.

No information regarding his age and occupation have been made available.

Investigation into the accident is continuing.

Fire forces jump to death Seen...

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Patrons of a restaurant and a beauty salon on the top floors of a New Orleans skyscraper, flames from a flash fire licking at their back, leaped to their death Wednesday as a crowd on the street prayed and screamed in anguish.

At least six persons, mostly women, dangled from windows, screamed for help, and finally let go—one by one. They fell eight floors, hitting the roof of an adjoining building. Three of them were known dead, including one woman who was seven months pregnant. Three others were hurt critically.

A number of people were rescued by helicopters from the roof of the skyscraper. But others, trapped in floors below and forced to windows by flames, jumped to their death. One man stayed behind and died in the blaze.

As each victim dropped through a cold mist, a crowd standing on the streets below the 16-story white stone building screamed in unison. Women knelt in prayer on the sidewalk, some fingering rosaries.

"The people were jumping out of the windows like fleas off a dog," said a security guard at the flaming Ruyt Center, a complex of luxury apartments, shops and offices built five years ago by wealthy oilman Joseph M. Ruyt. Elevators in the building stopped working when the fire started.

"There was no way for them to get out," said Rabin. "None of those buildings in that area have fire escapes."

The ones who were killed jumped and started tumbling and were hitting the windows as they fell," said Coroner Dr. Carl Rabin. "The ones who jumped straight down suffered broken legs."

Firemen tried desperately to rescue the persons trapped by the flames, but ladders could not reach high enough and use of a fall net was ruled out.

"We tied ladders together and threw up some ropes to them and did everything humanly possible to get to them," said Louis San Salvador, New Orleans fire chief.

"Jump! Jump!" the crowd yelled to women dangling out of windows above them, raising their arms as if able to catch them. Three persons landed on a human landing pad formed by police, firemen and volunteers, and survived.

"They're living! They're living!" shouted Matthew Jones, 30, an off-duty mail carrier who volunteered his body to help break the fall of some of those who jumped. "Their legs looked like they were broken in half, but they're living."

Eight persons on the roof who waved to two helicopters above were saved.

San Salvador said rescue nets were not used because "you couldn't catch a man nine floors below in a net—he's got right through."

Rabin, however, said a net would have been better than nothing. "Hitting a net would have to break a fall more than the top of that building," he said. "It stretches and gives."

Fire Superintendent William McCroskey said there was a strong possibility of arson, but would not elaborate.

"We think there was some kind of explosion," said San Salvador.

He said the fire gutted the Lamplighter Club, a plush private cafe and tavern thickly carpeted with oak furniture and padded leather booths, and a beauty shop on the 15th floor filled with customers at the time.

MV state employees hold meet

JEROME — The Magic Valley chapter of the Idaho State Employees Association held its annual get acquainted dinner for area legislators Tuesday night.

Special guests included Bill Roden, legislative liaison, Greg Panter, acting executive secretary for the ISEA, both Boise; and D. David Lewis, president of the ISEA and with the Department of Employment, Caldwell.

Lewis presented a brief resume of some of the proposed requests from the ISEA to be presented to the legislature this coming session.

Lewis said they will ask for a possible four to 10 per cent increase in salaries for state employees, saying that even with the last increase state employees are still drastically behind with cost of living increases in comparison to surrounding states and with private business concerns within the state.

A great deal of discussion was held about SJR 132 concerning the consolidation of the present state agencies into no more than 20 by January of 1974. It was brought out at the meeting that several of the agencies listed are not in fact state agencies and receive no state funds.

Letter bomb explodes

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — A letter bomb exploded in a second floor suburban Copenhagen flat today, severing the hand of a man identified by police as an Israeli citizen and injuring another person.

In Tel Aviv, a harmless advertising campaign by an unidentified West German bank triggered a parcel bomb scare among alert postal workers. Explosives experts gingerly opening the 20 suspicious packages discovered them to contain leather cases with cosmetics and a calendar for 1973. The boxes triggered the scare because they arrived simultaneously from the same city, Frankfurt, and were addressed to Israeli government and other public officials.

Copenhagen police identified the man who lost his hand in the letter bomb explosion as Ahmad Awadallah, who they said is a 33-year-old, Israeli citizen. Police said Awadallah suffered several other injuries when the letter, postmarked in Beirut, exploded.

A police spokesman said Awadallah had come to pick up his mail at the flat after moving to another residence nearby. He and the other victim, who was not immediately identified, were both hospitalized.

"The flat looks a mess," the police spokesman said. "Windows were blown out and there was blood everywhere."

The Tel Aviv incident marked the first wave of suspicious parcels in Israel since late September when a number of booby-trapped packages were discovered and disarmed before reaching their targets.

Wednesday, two Palestinian activists were injured in two separate letter bomb incidents — one in Stockholm and one in Erlangen, West Germany.

Bridge fails, again

CLARKSTON, Wash. (UPI) — Traffic was stalled for more than a half-hour Tuesday when the Washington Highways Department couldn't get the lift span on the interstate bridge between here and Lewiston to close.

About 150 cars were backed up on both bridge approaches when the drawbridge failed to close.

Officials said this was not the first time the bridge has failed to operate properly but this time it was the automatic switches that didn't work instead of the mechanical parts.

"It's Smart To Save Money"

School survey results announced

TWIN FALLS — The preliminary results of an opinion survey conducted by the School District 311 Citizens Advisory Committee were revealed at the group's meeting last night.

Twin Falls attorney Daniel Slavin, vice chairman of the advisory committee, said that the preliminary results of a questionnaire sent to parents, teachers and randomly selected members of the general public last week indicate most people would accept an increase in taxes in order to upgrade the facilities of the school district.

With one quarter of the questionnaires returned, Slavin said, respondents favored increased taxes, if necessary, by about a three-to-one ratio. Many commented on the hardship of taxes, however, Slavin added, noting that "Do anything you want to but don't raise my taxes" was a common response. Slavin said he was optimistic. "I believe the people of this county are perhaps willing, given the proper information and encouragement, to pass a bond issue."

One member of the audience questioned Slavin's optimism, however, pointing out that the 25 per cent who had returned their questionnaires were most likely the people most concerned with upgrading the school facilities, and their willingness to pay would not necessarily predominate at the polls. Comments on the questionnaire varied widely, Slavin said. One teacher called upon faculty members in the district to work to make a bond issue a success. Another teacher was in favor of tuition for students, to be paid by parents, taking the financial pressure off taxpayers, many of whom did not have children in the schools.

A third teacher commented that the district was getting good mileage from its worn out facilities.

Other results of the survey: Most people know there was a citizens advisory committee, but most of those who did not know were parents of students in the district.

Parents were in favor of giving students a greater voice, while teachers and members of the general public were not. Parents and the general public thought teachers' salaries adequate, but the teachers themselves did not. Parents favored students evaluating teachers but the teachers did not and neither did the general public.

On the issue of compulsory kindergartens, parents were opposed, as were teachers, but the idea received a positive response from the general public.

Despite the interest indicated by the responses to the questionnaires, the citizens advisory meeting was sparsely attended. How to increase public interest was a subject of discussion at the meeting.

UN vote on reduced US budget share set today

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The U.N. General Assembly's administrative and budget committee scheduled a vote today on a proposal to cut the American share of the United Nations budget from 31.5 per cent to 25 per cent.

Congress voted recently to limit the United States contribution and observers said it appeared the United States stood a good chance of success in today's vote in gaining United Nations acceptance of a lower assessment.

The lower American contribution would begin in January, 1974. France and several other countries earlier supported the American proposal, although Britain abstained. Britain supports some reduction in the American contribution, but favors a reduction to 30 per cent. The Soviet Union is believed wavering on the question.

A two-thirds majority is required for the United States to gain acceptance of its proposal.

The committee vote marked a new climax to a campaign started by the late Sen. Arthur

H. Vandenberg in 1946 to have the maximum contribution of any country to the U.N. budget limited to 25 per cent.

Airline pilots study boycott

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — American airline pilots will try to bring about a world pilots boycott that would halt air service to countries providing refuge for hijackers.

The board of directors of the Air Line Pilots Association unanimously passed a resolution Wednesday to "reaffirm and re-emphasize" the determination of U.S. pilots to bring pressure to bear on governments to take stronger actions against hijackers.

The board moved to support suspension of air service to any nation "that blatantly encourages, provides sanctuaries to or refuses to severely punish air pirates."

The American pilots group will call for help from airmen of other nations, through the International Federation of Air Line Pilots Associations and other air travel unions, the board said.

The board resolved that "ALPA does hereby place the nations of the world, including our own, on notice that any further crimes of air piracy may be met with total cessation of air line service by the members of ALPA and that we would seek the total commitment and cooperation of all member associations of the International Federation of Air Line Pilots Associations and all other transportation unions to achieve this goal."

TWIN FALLS — Early registration for the spring semester at the College of Southern Idaho will begin on Monday.

Gerald R. Meyerhoeffer, director of admissions and records, said faculty and counseling staff will be available to talk with students about their plans.

Early registration will continue through Dec. 15 with final registration set for Jan. 10-11. Classes will start Jan. 15 for the second semester.

New hepatitis test set for Idaho use

TWIN FALLS — A new test, 80 per cent effective in detecting hepatitis in blood, will be used sometime in the future by the Idaho Red Cross.

Speaking at a Red Cross blood meeting here Wednesday Dr. E. S. Sestero, medical director of the Red Cross Regional Blood Center, Boise, said the test will replace the present one, which is only 20 to 30 per cent effective in detecting hepatitis in a person's blood.

Dr. Sestero said a great deal is not known about the new test or the equipment needed to run it.

The present hepatitis test, which has been used in the region since April, has been showing that one person in every 1,800 has had hepatitis or is a carrier.

The test costs about 60 cents per unit of blood to run. The new test will cost about $1.25 per unit of blood.

Irene Basom, executive secretary of the Red Cross in the Magic Valley, said the test for hepatitis is made on every unit of blood drawn at blood-drawings in the state.

She said any blood showing hepatitis cannot be used by the Red Cross. She said a person receiving a positive test will not be considered a prospective donor and will not be recalled for more blood donations.

The test is made in the Boise Red Cross laboratory, and blood typed for use by hospitals.

When a patient in a hospital needs blood, he is charged $18 per unit for the costs of collecting, storing and testing the blood. The patient is not charged for the blood.

Property values up

TWIN FALLS — The Times-News incorrectly said Wednesday that the value of property in the county has not been increased for several years.

Ronald Taylor, Twin Falls County assessor, said the appraised value, not the assessed value, of property in the county has not been increased.

He said the assessed value does raise, according to Idaho law, one quarter per cent, a year. The appraised value of property has not raised unless improvements or additions have been made on property.

The Times-News regrets the error.

"Protection"

Most of us did not pay much attention when Peter Bridge and William Farr were put in jail in two separate but painfully related incidents during the last two months.

We did, after all, have a lot to worry about: How the Miami Dolphins would do without Bob Griese; what will happen to Lorne Greene now that Bonanza is going off the air; whether Ann-Margret will recover.

So why should anybody get excited just because a couple of newspaper reporters were put behind bars?

The "why" is answered easily enough. Bridge, of the now-defunct Newark News, and Farr, formerly of the Los Angeles Times, were both thrown in jail on contempt of court charges because they refused to reveal the identities of news sources to whom they had promised anonymity. And when they went to jail they took with them a little freedom that used to belong to all of us.

It is more difficult to determine why so few people seem to care.

One reason is that journalists, though they like to think of themselves as the public's representatives, are not among our best-loved citizens. (On opinion survey lists of "most respected professions," reporters usually rate somewhere down around pickpockets.)

Another reason is that few people outside journalism understand the news-gathering process, which very often involves prying information out of people. If Mayor X is taking bribes from a gangster, he is not going to admit it. And Assistant Y may be afraid to tell anyone about the bribes, fearing reprisals. Suppose, however, a reporter approaches Assistant Y and promises he will not reveal the source of his information if Y discloses what is happening. Then through the reporter the citizens, who pay both the mayor's and the assistant's salary, will have a chance to do something about the corruption.

J. Anthony Lukas, who often writes about anti-establishment groups and individuals, has said that "if a reporter is compelled to testify about what a source tells him in an interview, he risks jeopardizing not only that source, but all his other potential sources in the (radical) Movement. Already there are relatively few reporters who are trusted sufficiently by radicals to report their activities. If these reporters are discredited one after another, the right of the public to know will be drastically infringed."

And CBS News foreign affairs correspondent Marvin Kalb says that government officials are no different from radicals in this respect: "If my sources were to learn that their private talks with me could become public, or could be subjected to outside scrutiny by court order they would stop talking to me and the job of diplomatic reporting could not be done."

Eighteen states have laws granting reporters a privileged status approaching that of lawyers, clergymen and doctors, who cannot be forced to testify about information they have obtained in their professional capacity. Many of those laws afford only limited protection to reporters, however, and no protection at all on the federal level.

The problem has become more pressing since the U.S. Supreme Court ruled this June that a New York Times reporter, Earl Caldwell, was not protected by the freedom of the press provisions of the First Amendment to the Constitution when he refused to tell a California grand jury about his informants in the Black Panther Party.

This led directly to the jail sentences for Bridge and Farr. And it has also led directly to a very real fear of increased use of reporters as de facto investigators for government bodies, which have recently shown an alarming tendency to subpoena journalists.

In "Press Freedoms Under Pressure," a Twentieth Century report issued earlier this year, a task force of journalists and lawyers wrote: "We share a feeling that press freedom might be more fragile than is widely assumed — and that its role in American democracy is so crucial that the nation cannot afford to risk its erosion."

It behooves all of us to battle that erosion.

MR. SPECTATOR

Something Serious

Mr. Spectator would like to throw a serious column at you for a change. We will start off with the financial plight of the cities.

City governments are in a financial hole and it's getting deeper, reports Commerce Clearing House.

Revenues of all city governments in the country totaled $37.4 billion in fiscal year 1970-71, an increase of $4.7 billion over the previous year. But the city expenditures totaled $39.1 billion in 1970-71, making for a net loss of $1.7 billion. This was $200 million more on the minus side of the ledger than in the year before.

Property taxation continues to be the predominant source of funds, supplying more than a quarter of total revenues. Talk among city fathers these days is of "revenue sharing," in which the federal government will ante up generous injections of money for the hard-pressed state and local governments, with the hoped-for result that increasingly unpopular property taxes can be eased.

But Uncle Sam can only give to the people what he takes from them in the first place and he is already running tremendous deficits himself (which are paid for through inflation, another kind of taxation).

Cynical students of the situation take a wait-and-see attitude. Rather than helping the cities out of their financial plight, revenue sharing may only enable them to dig deeper holes.

OF BIKES

If the nation's highways and byways are not soon congested by throngs of bicyclers, it won't be because the manufacturers and their increasingly active patrons are not trying. After years of expanding business, most bicycle manufacturers report they still have trouble meeting the demand.

Sales of two-wheelers formerly spurted during two distinct and short seasons. They have always been Christmas favorites and the summer months brought out a discernible echo. The demand is now year-round, with the only noticeable difference from month to month a steadily rising sales chart.

A dozen years ago 3.7 million bicycles were sold in the U.S. This year the estimate is 11.5 million. The bike is not a toy, anymore.

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK

White House And CBS Again?

WASHINGTON — In the surprisingly glum aftermath of President Nixon's landslide reelection, sentiment is building within the White House staff for a partial resumption of the abandoned anti-media campaign with CBS News as a special target.

This stems from bitter White House resentment over the nationally televised exposes by CBS of alleged windfalls for giant grain companies in the U. S.-Soviet wheat deal and charges of Nixon campaign espionage and sabotage growing out of the Watergate scandal.

Bitterly disappointed by the poor Republican showing below the presidential level, key presidential aides — with questionable logic — blame CBS. While conceding some merit in the network's wheat deal expose, they claim CBS did a hatchet job on the Watergate affair.

These same aides are not nearly so exercised over the Washington Post's much more exhaustive investigative reporting of Watergate. The reason: TV-wise Nixon men believe the prime time CBS programs had far more national impact.

Hence, they want the anti-media campaign resumed with the spotlight on CBS — perhaps not with a resumption of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's rhetoric but with the far more menacing threat of government action against news program content.

This resumes an internal struggle within the White House over media policy. Two former newsmen on the White House staff — Ken Clawson (ex-Washington Post) and John Scall (ex-ABC) last summer talked Mr. Nixon into calling off the anti-media campaign in his own best political interests. Some White House aides never fully accepted that policy shift and now want to reverse it.

Just what course Mr. Nixon will take is uncertain. But it is significant that the President's exclusive interview, was granted the Washington Star-News (admitted at the White House as an intentional slap at the Post) without consulting his staff's public relations and press experts.

A footnote: White House speechwriter William Safire, a sometime speech collaborator with Agnew, is considering journalism when he leaves the White House (probably in late January). A serious possibility: becoming a writer for the Washington Post, where he presented Administration viewpoints during the presidential campaign.

Some House Democrats, impatient with Albert's gentle leadership of the Democratic majority, are urging Mills to oppose him. However, Mills replies he will run only if Albert steps down. That is remotely possible in January 1973; a bit more likely in January 1976. In any event, Mills is politicking his colleagues.

The fact that George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, declined an invitation to testify at recent Senate-House Economic Committee hearings on wage-price controls is a sign of a possible meeting of the minds between big labor and the White House.

Had Meany testified, he would have had to reiterate AFL-CIO criticism that Mr. Nixon favors business over labor in his economic controls. Instead, Meany and the top AFL-CIO staff decided to take no position at the present time on wage-price questions — including whether to support the Administration in urging renewal of wage-price control authority expiring April 30.

In truth, big labor hopes that its fragile new relationship with the Republican President can produce some compromises. Both sides hope the restructuring of the present bulky control mechanism can result in something new (possibly a single wage-price review board), permitting a return of the AFL-CIO and United Auto Workers representatives who walked out early this year.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 22 and planning to be married very soon. I've made quite a few mistakes in my life, one of which was a case of gonorrhea when I was 15. This later caused an ovarian abscess.

I'm sure my tubes have been permanently damaged, as we have been sleeping together for 2½ years without benefit of the pill and no pregnancy has resulted.

My fiancée accepts the fact that I may not be able to get pregnant and he has been wonderful about it.

What are my chances of getting pregnant by artificial insemination, using my future husband's sperm? Can the sperm be introduced directly into the womb? Would this be costly? How would I arrange to have this done?

As I say, my fiancée is willing to accept this but I don't feel that I can. I think it would be unfair to him if I marry with no chance of having his child. — P. D.

I won't preach — but I will hope that others aged 15 or so will see your letter as evidence that there is real reason for the concern over venereal disease.

To answer your specific question, artificial insemination is a means of inducing pregnancy when the husband's sperm can't do the job.

It is NOT a substitute when the female is unable to provide an ovum to be fertilized.

Whether your trouble is that the Fallopian tubes have been closed by infection, so the ovum can't get through, or whether the ovaries themselves have been damaged so they can't release an ovum is a question that might be determined by medical examination — but it might prove to be an academic matter. That is, perhaps nothing can be done about it, anyway.

In other words, if the trouble is with you, then artificial insemination will be of no use at all.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A pediatrician told a friend of mine to put two or three drops of alcohol into each ear of her children before and after they go swimming.

Another doctor told me not to do it but I have forgotten the reason he gave. What is your opinion? — Mrs. J.M.

The advice evidently was offered because of "swimmer's ear" or "swimmer's itch," which is infection of the ear canal caused by various bacteria and fungus organisms. It's more prevalent in natural ponds and streams than in properly chlorinated swimming pools.

If such an infection starts, 70 per cent alcohol as well as more specific ear drops are used for treatment.

I would question the value of using alcohol before swimming, as it would soon wash out, and in some cases might be irritating. Its use after swimming would be more reasonable if the individual had such an infection or was susceptible to it.

"Maybe It's Their Low Overhead!"

ANDREW TULLY

Pain In The Neck

WASHINGTON — George Wallace is not going to go away. He will be a pain in the neck to the Democratic Party for four more years, to pilfer a Nixon slogan, and this time the party will ignore him at its peril.

The Alabama governor has his mercenaries in tow plotting strategy designed to give him a piece of the action at the Dec. 9 meeting of the Democratic National Committee. "We want a helluva lot," said a Wallace aide by telephone from Montgomery. "We want to be recognized by the Democratic Party."

Indeed they do. Among other demands, the Wallaceites want seats on the party's executive committee; a share of the 25 new seats on the national committee; representation on the commission that will rewrite the party's charter, and revision of the so-called "reform" rules that now govern selection of delegates to the national convention on a quota basis.

Whether Wallace's demands will be met is beyond the ken of any common garden variety of columnist. The liberals in the party are a tough bunch, too. However, the liberals are also practical politicians, and they are not silly enough to show Wallace the door as they did after he polled 10 million votes as a third-party Presidential candidate in 1968.

"Hell," said the governor's aide. "They left us out of practically everything, including the drafting of new reform rules — which lost the election for McGovern. Up to the last minute, the governor didn't even know whether he'd get any hotel rooms in Miami Beach, and this after his great showing in the primaries."

Unless the party has taken leave of its collective senses, it won't treat George Wallace quite so cavalierly this time. His Presidential ambitions were shot down by a would-be assassin, but he has a valid argument in his claim that the votes of his supporters guaranteed Richard Nixon's reelection. Wallace says Nixon got 30 million Wallace votes, which seems a trifle high. A more realistic figure would be no higher than 15 million.

Still, the fact remains that George McGovern got few of the Wallace votes, so few as to be meaningless. And although the proportions of the Nixon landslide suggest he might have made it without the Wallace vote, the Democratic Party paid dearly for its snub of the gutsy little governor in such important states as New York, Michigan, Pennsylvania and California.

Thus, the party's dilemma as D — for Deviltry — Day approaches. Wallace is the spokesman for a philosophy that is anathema to most of the Democrats who run the party — or at least have done so up to now. Compared with the Republicans, the party is still essentially liberal. Forgetting McGovern for the moment, Humphrey, Muskie, Jackson and, above all, Teddy Kennedy, have little sympathy for Wallace's views. Among others, they are pledged to maintaining the party's posture the respectable left of the GOP.

On the other hand, the job of these men is to win elections for the Democratic candidates, and winning elections requires votes. Even if Wallaceites accounted for only 10 million of the votes that went to Nixon, that is a bloc which must be given consideration. Give a Prohibition Party candidate a head start of 10 million sure ballots and he'd make a race of it.

UN Budget

WASHINGTON — This country's payment to the 1973 United Nations budget is being cut to 25 per cent — down from the usual 31 per cent.

That's the Administration's answer to the recent rate demands in the UN Finance Committee that the U. S. continue its high (and disproportionate) level of contribution.

This year it totals $60 million — up from $56 million in 1971. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim has proposed a record-high $224 million budget for 1973 — a 5 per cent increase if the U. S. share remains at 31 per cent, that would mean a grant of around $75 million — a hike of some $15 million over this year.

President Nixon has flatly vetoed that.

Budget Director Caspar Weinberger has been directed to limit this country's payment to the UN to 25 per cent in the budget now being prepared for submission to the new Congress that convenes Jan. 3.

The President is assured of strong congressional backing on that.

Rep. John Rooney, D-N. Y., chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that has jurisdiction over the State Department budget, which includes the UN payment, heartily favors the slash. He strenuously tried to put that through this year.

Under his leadership the House, by the decisive margin of 202 to 156, voted to pare the UN grant to $46.9 million — $22 million less than proposed by the State Department. Later, a combination of anti-Vietnam, internationalist and ultra-liberal Senators boosted that to $60 million.

The $13 million difference went to conference, where the issue remained deadlocked for months.

Finally, in the closing days of the session, during Rooney's absence due to illness, the House conferees agreed to the Senate's $60 million so-called "compromise." Rooney was indignant when he learned about this, but it was too late to do anything.

Regarded for a 16th term, despite a heavily-financed New Left campaign against him, the New Yorker is bent on making certain this does not happen again in the incoming (93d) Congress.

Says Rooney: "I am determined that there will not be a repetition of the Senate getting away with an increase after the House decisively votes to cut funds for the UN. Reducing these disproportionate grants should have been done a long time ago. For years, our country has been carrying a wholly unwarranted share of the UN load."

Issues settle race

BOISE (UPI) — Issues established at the local level and a "well-polished and well-financed candidate" determined the race for the U.S. Senate according to William E. "Bud" Davis.

Davis, President of Idaho State University, was an unsuccessful candidate for the Senate in the Nov. 7 general election. He was defeated by some 20,000 votes by Rep. James A. McClure after Davis ran strongly in the state primary overcoming strong Democratic candidates such as Attorney General W. Anthony Park and Boise Attorney Byron Johnson.

Davis said one of the factors in his defeat was his signing of a petition supporting a lettuce boycott. He told members of the Idaho Press Club during a Headliner Luncheon Wednesday that the reason he signed the lettuce petition was as an educator he had been accustomed to helping minority members of society.

He said he grew up in a community with Chicanos and had seen them stay in school for a time and then leave because the growing season had ended.

"I signed the petition without looking at the political consequences," he said.

Davis said he was beat in the general election by a well-polished and well-financed candidate, adding that the McClure staff worked on establishing issues at the local level.

For example, he said, when he entered Blackfoot near the end of the campaign there was a feeling among residents that he was "soft on marijuana."

He said the idea was taken from an earlier statement he made which advocated the lowering of the charge of possession of marijuana from a felony to a misdemeanor.

ISU head opposes fee hike

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho State University President William E. Davis says he is opposed to hikes in student fees and said money may be the reason for drops in enrollment in Idaho's institutions of higher education.

Davis spoke to the Idaho Press Club's Headliner luncheon Wednesday.

He said fewer and fewer families can afford to send their children to school and this is showing in the decreased enrollment.

He said the state constitution guarantees state residents the right to go to school in Idaho without paying tuition. But he said state colleges and universities still charge students fees.

He said he was opposed to raising these fees because generally the country is moving in a direction where soon only the economic elite will be able to attend college.

Ranchman sets fight against US

GRANGEVILLE, Idaho (UPI) — One of the major ranchers in the Hells Canyon area along the Idaho-Oregon border said Wednesday he plans to fight condemnation of his property by the federal government.

The U.S. Forest Service said Tuesday it plans to seek condemnation of about 12,000 acres of private land to add to the Wallowa-Whitman National Forest to keep the wild area from being commercially developed.

Lern Wilson, Grangeville, one of four area ranchers who have refused the forest service offers for their land, said, "I'll fight it clear through the Supreme Court."

The four hold-outs are contending the price offered for their land is too low.

Congress appropriated $4 million for the purchase based on a price of about $300 per acre to acquire land to preserve the scenic area for recreation. The land has been appraised at $150-$165 per acre but owners claim they are getting offers of $300 per acre from private interests.

Philip Berrigan granted parole

WASHINGTON (UPI).—The Rev. Philip Berrigan, an antiwar Roman Catholic priest convicted of damaging draft board records, has unexpectedly been granted parole from federal prison 14 months before his scheduled release date.

Nuclear power plant relegated to mothballs

MONROE, Mich. (UPI).—The controversial Enrico Fermi nuclear power plant, the world's first and largest nuclear breeder, has been relegated to mothballs after generating power only 378 hours in its nine-year existence.

Built in 1963 at a cost of $133 million, the plant was intended to meet the power needs electric companies would require in the future through a recycling process which was to turn uranium into electric power and make plutonium as a by-product.

But the 15-acre Lake Erie facility churned out its 200,000 thermal kilowatts of full capacity power only on 26 days for a total of 378 hours during its lifetime—often when it was being toured by visiting dignitaries. Thus, it cost $352,000 per hour to operate.

AMA grudgingly makes best of Medicare law

CINCINNATI (UPI). — The American Medical Association has grudgingly decided to make the best of a federal medical care law it opposed in Congress.

Despite complaints that it was "a complete reversal of our philosophy," the AMA's House of Delegates voted Wednesday to establish a special advisory committee to deal with the new legislation on Medicare and Medicaid.

"It is all too likely that whatever course we choose, it will end in disaster," Dr.

Thomas Parker of South Carolina said at the conclusion of the AMA's 26th Clinical Convention here.

Parker was among those delegates to the convention who urged against involvement in the formation of Professional Standards Review Organizations (PSRO).

Cowboy tries kiss

DENVER (UPI). — Frontier Airlines has announced it will not prosecute a Montana cowboy who tried to cut his airline seat belt on a flight so he could steal a kiss from a stewardess.

Robert Dickens, 62, of Lloyd, Mont., was removed from the jet to Oklahoma City by FBI agents at Stapleton International Airport Tuesday. He was questioned and released.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Stephen Duncan said Dickens took out his knife to cut the seat belt.

Intestinal flu cause discovered?

By CRAIG A. PALMER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government scientists believe they have found the cause of intestinal flu, the ailment that frequently sweeps through a community or an office causing 24 to 48 hours of nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and abdominal cramps in its victims.

They call it "Norwalk agent."

Doctors have generally called the disease acute infectious non-bacterial gastroenteritis because a specific cause had not been identifiable. The ailment is not to be confused with the sometimes deadly influenza which occasionally causes international epidemics.

Scientific investigators for the National Institutes of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, working from a 1968 outbreak of the disease in Norwalk, Ohio, and using the latest techniques in scientific photography, claim to have captured the elusive "Norwalk agent" on film.

It is probably a virus, wrote

Dr. Albert Z. Kapikian and his co-workers in the November issue of the Journal of Virology.

The "Norwalk agent" measures anywhere from 27 to 32 nanometers, a nanometer being the equivalent of one-billionth of a meter and has a cube-shaped appearance, the scientists wrote.

They induced the disease in adult volunteers at the NIH clinical center in suburban Bethesda, Md., and the Maryland House of Corrections in Jessup, using infectious material gathered from victims of the Norwalk outbreak.

The trick of filming the culprit was accomplished by a process known as immune electron microscopy, which was used when the "Norwalk agent" produced a disease-fighting antibody that coated the agent and made it stand out clearly, the scientists said.

Intestinal flu is generally an inconvenience rather than a serious illness. Sufferers usually recover without treatment. In the government-sponsored National Health Survey, which quizzes families on what recent illnesses they have suffered, it shows up second in frequency only to the common cold.

For infants and older people, however, it can be a serious health problem. The identification of "Norwalk agent" is a possible first step toward reducing the disease's severity for them, Kapikian said.

Help asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has asked the 37 highest ranking Negroes in his administration to help recruit other blacks for executive posts in the government.

A White House spokesman said that the 37 were among the 2,000 officials that Nixon asked for pro-forma resignations Nov. 8.

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan Air Lines said today that 61 persons were killed Tuesday in the crash of a JAL DC8 jetliner at Moscow airport. Previously, the airline had reported 60 were killed.

The airline said one person previously listed as missing had been confirmed as dead.

The company said the information came from officials dispatched to Moscow to investigate the crash.

Among the dead were nine foreigners, and among the 15 hospitalized was one foreigner.

Rocket assaults continue in Ulster

BELFAST (UPI) — A leader of the Irish Republican Army's extremist Provisional wing said today the organization launched a campaign of Soviet-made rocket attacks because Prime Minister Edward Heath ignored an IRA cease-fire call when he visited Northern Ireland recently.

"In view of the apparent rejection we opened up with rockets," the Provisional leader said.

Extremists fired a single rocket at the headquarters of the part-time Ulster Defense

Regiment in Newry early today but the missile flew over the building and landed harmlessly in a field.

It was the third consecutive day the Soviet-made rockets had been used against British army or Ulster militia targets.

In other violence today, two gunmen shot and killed a man and wounded a taxi driver in Belfast in a murder police blamed on religious motives. The victim was the 64th person to die in religious and political strife in Northern Ireland in three years.

Landon treated

FORMER GOP presidential candidate Al M. Landon, 85, received hospital treatment at Topeka, Kan., Wednesday for a pinched nerve in his leg. Hospital officials said the disorder was not serious and that Landon is in good condition. He reportedly had fallen several times in recent weeks because of the ailment. (UPI)

Gas, oil imports hearings delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate hearings on proposals to increase gas and oil imports have been postponed from December to January with the suggestion that President Nixon's Cabinet shakeup could include the State, Commerce and Interior departments.

Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., of the Senate Interior Committee said the switch had been made "at the request of the White House in order to give new Cabinet officers and other policy-making officials time to familiarize themselves with the critical issues involved" in energy problems.

Among those who had been scheduled to testify at hearings Dec. 11-12 were Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson, Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton and Secretary of State William P. Rogers. The hearings were reset for Jan. 9-10.

A committee spokesman said administration officials told Jackson December was "not a good time for them with the (Cabinet) changes and so forth ... They said they didn't want the old people making statements which the new people would be acting out."

US welcome to stay in Thailand Suit filed

BANGKOK (UPI) — A ranking member of the government of Thailand said today that U.S. warplanes and troops were welcome to remain in the country for an indefinite period following a Vietnam cease-fire in order to enforce such a truce.

Pote Sarasin, assistant chairman of the ruling National Executive Council (NEC) and its highest-ranking civilian, also indicated that Thai troops would remain on the Indochina War front in Laos until North Vietnam removed its forces from that country.

In an interview, Pote discussed some of Thailand's views on the shape that a settlement of the Indochina war should take, although he limited his comments on Vietnam to a comment that a coalition government in Saigon would be unworkable.

Pote is in charge of finance and economics for NEC, but he has often served as a special emissary in foreign affairs matters for Field Marshal Thanom Kittakachorn as well as in earlier governments.

He said there have been no discussions between Thailand and the United States so far on how long American troops would remain here.

"With the Nixon doctrine, I have no doubt that if peace comes the United States would not want their forces to be here," Pote said.

"But we have no objections to an interim presence following a cease-fire. In fact, if there is a cease-fire, it will be just a starting point towards peace and there has to be a means of enforcing it."

There are about 45,000 U.S. servicemen in Thailand, most of them involved with Indochina air war missions flown from seven bases here. Earlier this year, the Thais agreed to a buildup of American forces to their 1969 level of 49,000 from a low point of 32,000 as a reaction to the Communist offensive in Vietnam.

Pote said that he did not want to comment on his country's desires for a Vietnam settlement while negotiations were in a delicate stage.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Kansas City Star Tuesday filed suit against the pressmen's union, charging repeated work slowdowns, strikes and sabotage.

The class-action suit against the Kansas City Web Printing Pressmen's Union No. 14, asked the Jackson County Circuit Court for both a permanent injunction restraining the union, its officers and several members from acting in any way designed to impair the newspaper's business.

Home deliveries of the Star and the morning edition, the Times, have run several hours late on frequent occasions during recent weeks.

Review slated in Calley case

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI) — The commander of Ft. Benning is considering a request by Lt. William L. Calley, convicted of crimes at My Lai, that he be allowed to attend a session of the U.S. Army Court of Military Review, the Army confirmed today.

The court will convene Monday in Washington to consider Calley's case. The Pentagon said earlier Calley would not be present during the hearing.

At the session, Calley's attorney is slated to deliver oral arguments based on a brief alleging 32 errors in the lieutenant's court-martial. Calley was convicted and sentenced to life in prison for the deaths of at least 22 South Vietnamese civilians. President Nixon later reduced the sentence to 20 years and Calley filed for clemency in September.

Beef price leads dip in food cost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With retail beef prices drifting down to the lowest level in six months and live cattle to the lowest point in a year, the overall retail cost of a typical food market basket fell 0.2 per cent in October, the Agriculture Department reported today.

Data collected by department economists showed retail food chains and meat packers, who had narrowed their margins in September, widened them again last month to erode most of the potential October decline in retail beef prices.

The department's monthly report also showed average retail bread prices slid to the lowest point since last January despite higher wheat prices which have led bakers to plead for relief from federal margin controls.

The report said most of the overall decline which brought the cost of a typical family basket of farm-produced foods down to an annual rate of $1.317 in October, $3 below September, came from lower prices for fresh fruits and frying chickens. The price changes for beef, bread and other items were "relatively minor," economists noted. The total market basket cost was the lowest since June, but was 5.0 per cent above a year ago.

The monthly review of food price and marketing cost shifts showed farm returns for food in the sample market basket dropped 2.8 per cent in October. Most of this decline, however, was swallowed up by a 1.8 per cent increase in the farm-to-retail price spread covering costs and profits for food processors and retailers.

At beef counters, for example, an average price decline from $1.129 per pound in September to $1.120 per pound in October masked the fact that both meat packers and retail chains expanded their margins while the cost of cattle declined.

The farm value of 2.28 pounds of live cattle, equivalent to 1 pound of beef on the retail counter, dropped from 69.6

cents in September to 69.1 cents in October, the lowest figure since October, 1971. But the farm-to-retail price spread rose from 43.3 cents a pound in September to 43.7 cents in October. Compared with a year earlier, retail prices were up 7.3 per cent with most of the gain in the middleman's column. The farm-retail spread was 10.5 per cent above a year earlier while farm value was up only 2.2 per cent.

Retail bread prices averaged 24.5 cents per one-pound loaf of white bread in October, down 0.8 per cent from a month earlier and 0.4 per cent cheaper than a year earlier. The drop was due entirely to narrower processing and marketing margins which were down 1.5 per cent from a month earlier and 3.8 per cent from a year earlier. The farm value of wheat and other ingredients in bread, boosted by massive wheat sales to Russia, rose 2.4 per cent in October to a record 4.2 cents a pound. The farm value figure was 20 per cent above a year earlier.

Court denies Farr

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court Wednesday refused to release jailed newsmen William Farr, imprisoned because he refused to divulge the sources of a news story.

The high court, in a brief order, denied a motion of habeas corpus and a motion for bail for the Los Angeles Times reporter, who was jailed Monday by Los Angeles County Superior Court Charles H. Older after an 18-month legal battle.

Farr had asked that he be released on grounds Older was too personally involved in the case to be fair. He had refused Older's order to divulge the names of two sources for a story he wrote saying the Charles Manson family planned to murder movie personalities.

In a 17-page petition filed today as a supplement to an earlier petition for habeas corpus, Farr's attorney, Mark Hurwitz, asked for Farr's release.

Timber sales pose north Idaho crisis

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — An impending economic crisis is evident for north Idaho because of continued reduced forest service timber sales, according to a Potlatch Forests Inc. official.

John M. Richards, vice president of the wood products group for the western division of PFI, told the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce Wednesday Forest Service sales over the past two years in Region One encompasses eastern Washington, northern Idaho, Montana and parts of North and South Dakota.

He said during the 1966-70 period sales were about 65 per cent of the annual allowable cut, which he described as "the amount of timber that can be harvested each year from a given area on a sustained basis."

Richards said the federal government is the major timber owner in Idaho and has the major responsibility to see that its share of timber is available for harvest.

US faces hard going in cease-fire force

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said Wednesday that the United States still faces hard bargaining on a number of critical points if it is to create a workable international force to oversee a Vietnam cease-fire.

The sources said many crucial questions still remained to be resolved, including the exact size of the force and how it would operate in the field.

To date, the United States — apparently with North Vietnamese approval — has asked Canada, Indonesia, Poland and Hungary to contribute troops and officers to the international force.

In diplomatic quarters it has been speculated that each country might contribute 1,000 troops and 250 officers, but the sources said no final arrangements have been agreed upon.

Presumably, the question of a Vietnam supervisory force will be one of the major problems still to be resolved when Henry A. Kissinger resumes his private talks in Paris Dec. 4 with North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho.

State Department officials sought to minimize the outstanding problems, emphasizing that each of the countries which has been asked to serve has raised legitimate questions of detail which require meticulous answers.

US-Cuban barriers may fall

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

The U.S.-Cuban negotiations on skyjackings have aroused speculation that they could be the springboard to talks on a broader scale, perhaps opening the way to a restoration of relations broken at the beginning of 1961.

Without official encouragement from either side, it is a revival of speculation which began with President Nixon's visits to Peking and Moscow and the gradual removal of global cold war barriers.

The barrier which the United States erected against Cuba in 1961 and strengthened in 1964 when the Organization of American States (OAS) voted economic and diplomatic sanctions against Fidel Castro's regime, is one of the last of these.

Officially, the United States attitude remains what it was as described by Secretary of State William P. Rogers last April and reiterated only recently by Nixon.

Addressing the general assembly of the OAS, Rogers said

Cuba remains a "threat" to the Western Hemisphere because of her continuing interventionist behavior, her support for revolution and her "close and active military ties with the Soviet Union, a matter of obvious concern."

Opposed to the official position is the argument that the sanctions have not worked in that Castro is still in power, that they were instituted years ago under conditions vastly different from now and that the hemispheric front against Castro already has collapsed.

OAS sanctions against Cuba were adopted after discovery of a Cuban arms cache on the coast of Venezuela.

They also were a reaction to the Soviet attempt to set up nuclear weapons in Cuba and to the confrontation which followed between President John F. Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

It is estimated that over the years the Soviet Union has supplied Cuba with $1 billion in weapons, making her the most heavily armed nation in Latin America.

National Press Club condemns Pres. Nixon

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UPI)

The National Press Club is preparing a report "condemning President Nixon for destroying the White House press conference," New York Times Editor William V. Shannon said Tuesday.

"A press conference every six to eight months is tantamount to none at all,"

Shannon said. "President Nixon has an ingrained hostility toward reporters."

Shannon said President Eisenhower went through news conferences "like a good soldier" even though he disliked them, but President Nixon has "hedged about like a Republican monarch."

TF girl teacher intern

TWIN FALLS — Maria Mayer, daughter of R. C. Mayer and Marge Mayer, Twin Falls, is currently serving as a teacher intern at Hillcrest Elementary School in American Falls.

Miss Mayer is a 1970 graduate of Twin Falls High School. She attended the College of Southern Idaho for her freshman year. In the fall, 1971, she transferred to Idaho State University where she completed her sophomore year.

In June, 1972, Miss Mayer was chosen to be one of the 40 interns in the first Teacher Corps Project in Idaho. She spent six weeks this past summer in training at Idaho State University. With the start of school this fall Miss Mayer was assigned to the 5th grade at Hillcrest where she is teaching.

Brennan up from Hell's Kitchen

NEW YORK (UPI) — "It's a long way to come for a boy from Tenth Avenue."

Thus did John Brennan Jr., brother of the U.S. secretary of labor-designate, sum up the family reaction to the selection of Peter J. Brennan, 54, as the newest member of President Nixon's second term "new look" cabinet.

Brennan currently is head of the New York City and New York State Building and Construction Trades Council. He was elected to the city post 15 years ago, after serving for a decade as a business agent for Painters' Union Local 1456.

Brennan is a Roman Catholic and a lifelong Democrat. But as the leader of New York's "hard hats," he supported Nixon in 1972 as well as in 1968, when he personally led a parade of 150,000 construction workers and longshoremen in support of the President's Vietnam policies.

Brennan's rise from Hell's Kitchen to Washington also is in keeping with the President's oft-expressed admiration for men who have come up the hard way in the classic American fashion.

"He is spirited, self-made, and though he has worked at many different levels in organized labor, he has retained a unique sensitivity to the rank-and-file working man," said presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler in announcing Brennan's selection to newsmen at Camp David, Md., the presidential retreat, this morning.

The son of John Brennan Sr., an ironworker, Brennan was born in New York City on May 24, 1918, one of three brothers and two sisters. He completed his formal education at the city's Textile High School and went to work for Macy's as a painter.

Brennan joined the Painters' Union and, in 1947, became its business agent. He also served as assistant in charge of the Maintenance Division to the president of the Building and Construction Trades Council of Greater New York.

Ten years later, following the death of the president, Brennan succeeded to the post, which he still holds.

CSI to present movie

TWIN FALLS — "Earth Rider," a ski film, will be shown Dec. 10 at 8 p.m. in the CSI Fine Arts Auditorium.

The movie is sponsored by the CSI Ski Club.

It features the secret ski jump of mountain climber Rick Sylvester from the brink of El Capitan in Yosemite National Park, California.

The jump, made on Jan. 31, 1972, was taken at 50 miles per hour. Sylvester used downhill skis to clear the 3,200-foot face. After a back flip, he kicked off his skis and fell free over 2,000 feet before opening his parachute.

Home agent gives wallcovering tips

SHOSHONE — "When selecting vinyl wallcovering for your home, remember there are three categories," says Mrs. Jean Anheest, home economist.

While all clean easily with suds and water, some are more scrubbable or tougher than others.

Plastic coating over ordinary wallpaper is the most fragile and should be used in areas where soil, scuffs and stains are predictably light, suggests the economist.

A more washable and stain-resistant-type is latex-impregnated vinyl. In this process, paper is laminated to lightweight woven fabric and vinyl coated.

In addition, the decorative coating or ink has vinyl latex in it. Though stronger than plastic-coated paper, latex-impregnated vinyl should not be subjected to severe soiling conditions.

Sorority sets work night

TWIN FALLS — Z Alpha Tau chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Mike Tegan with Mrs. Howard Hughes as co-hostess.

Friday is work night in preparation for the Flea Market Saturday. There will be a no-host pizza party at Maxie's Pizza Parlor for members and their husbands following the work party.

Mrs. Bill Goff reported on the progressive dinner which will be Dec. 16 in members' homes. The dinner will be Italian style.

Mrs. Hughes presented the cultural on "decorating your home." Mrs. Bruce Mechum told of her trip to Hawaii and also won the white elephant.

Beverly Richardson was reported improving, she is a member who is hospitalized.

The next meeting will be the home of Mrs. Bill Goff Dec. 12. Christmas gifts for secret sisters will be exchanged.

For heavy duty areas such as kitchens, baths, and entryways, the best choice is a wall covering of polyvinyl chloride. Vinyl is laminated to a lightweight woven cloth.

Thickness of the resin-bounded surface determines its durability. Vinyl wallcoverings of this type can literally be scrubbed free of grease, dirt and stains.

Aide's effort to prove germ warfare abandoned by Army arouses doubt

FT. DETRICK, Md. (UPI) — Weeping, a scientist's pure white smock over his khaki shirt and trousers, Col. Dan Crozier devoted six hours Tuesday trying to do what every scientist knows can not be done: He tried to prove a negative proposition.

Crozier sought to prove that the U.S. Army in compliance with a 1969 presidential directive no longer engages in the manufacture of chemical and biological weaponry and that Ft. Detrick's long secret search for a "doomsday bug" has ended.

His antagonist was Richard Fineberg, a youthful, bearded professor of political science who has devoted much time since Nov. 25, 1969, expressing skepticism that the Army has finished with offensive germ warfare.

Fineberg has published his doubt from time to time in articles for the Dispatch News Service, the underground news agency which won credibility and attention for its exposure of the My Lai massacre after the Army denied it.

Fineberg's article on Ft. Detrick was published in the Congressional Record by Senator Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, causing consternation in the Defense Department.

Ft. Detrick, surrounded by the historic town of Frederick where Barbara Fritchle hung her stars and stripes in defiance of Confederate soldiers, used to be top-secret.

Until Nixon renounced offensive germ and chemical warfare—except for the use of harassing gas and chemical defoliants—the U.S. government had never acknowledged engaging in that sort of enterprise. The stockpiles of germs and gases are now said to have been destroyed.

But Fineberg, unconvinced, has continued to harass the Pentagon. It finally permitted him to see for himself Tuesday—and invited other reporters to come along.

So it was that Crozier, a white-haired specialist in internal medicine and commander of the Army Medical Research Institute of Infectious Diseases, looked Fineberg in the eye and said that certain published articles "imply that offensive biological research is still being conducted here at this institute."

"This," he said "I categorically deny."

Six hours later, somewhat exasperated, the colonel was saying:

"We're not even capable of producing a flaskful!"

The mission of Crozier's unit now, he said, is to develop defenses against biological weapons which other powers might use against U.S. forces or the civilian population.

No more taxis

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Because of equal rights laws, the Bank of America is ending its long-standing practice of paying taxi fares for women who start or end work at night.

Males complained, the bank said recently, that such payments were illegal sex discrimination since they were not extended to men.

A suit taking a similar position has been filed against Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. which says it will continue paying the fares until the action is adjudicated.

Bank of America said it would stop paying March 1 but will provide free parking for night shift employees and provide shuttle bus service between the lots and its buildings.

It also plans to help in arranging car pools or other means of transportation.

Youth writes complaint card

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Island, N.Y., sent his card last spring to "The Price Commission Complaint Dept., Washington, D.C." The card said:

"Dear sir: I am making a formal complaint against The Testor Corp., Rockford, Ill., 61101 USA. They raised their 'Pia Enamel' 30 per cent, or from $1.15 to $1.49. This is only $0.34, but being 12 1/4 years old, this is a big strain on allowance. Thank you. A concerned consumer!"

John Malachowsky, 12, had to start paying 4 cents a can more for paint he used on his model rockets, he typed out a firm but polite post card of complaint to the Price Commission.

Tuesday, on the commission's behalf, the Justice Department filed suit in U. S. District Court in Chicago charging the Testor Corp., Rockford, Ill., with violating federal wage-price controls. It said the firm raised the suggested retail price on a quarter-ounce can of enamel from 15 cents to 19 cents.

A Lovelier You

NEW EYE CUE FOR YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

Eye makeup follows the trend for natural loveliness. No more exaggerations!

Designed to achieve the look, new concepts in eye cosmetics are numerous. First off, a Shadow Base comes to mind. It acts as a sheer-cream lid primer for powder shadows. Smooth, livelier, long-lasting applications of color result. Splendid!

For prepackaged subtle effects, there are three tone-on-tone powder sticks — matchsticks, one might say — in a box. To exemplify, one color range is light blue, medium blue and taupe. The powder blends and slips on in a soft arc of color. You cannot miss!

Shadow and Liner, a double play, also bows to subtlety. Creme in form and smokey in coloring, it shadows lids via your fingertips. A brush, dipped into the same color, lines the lids. Ombre chiffon elegance!

To lighten the brow several degrees without bleaching, simply brush on a Taupe Lustre creme. The shade is perfect whatever the hair coloring. The ruse goes undetected!

For more of the same, try a mascara wand that promises to build a Natural Lash of the kind suited to cover-girl standards. The formula is soap-free and fragrance-free; applications dry fast, do not smudge or smear. Just add length and thickness!

THE EYES OF YOUTH

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, THE EYES OF YOUTH. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

"Curiouser and curiouser," thought Alice. "I know the Hatter is mad but lots of good bridge players in the real world are mad and this madness hasn't seemed to affect his game here in Wonderland."

She had led her six of spades against the Hatter's three no-trump contract. The dormouse sitting East had played the jack. The Hatter had won with the queen, entered dummy with the king of diamonds and led the jack of clubs for a finesse.

Alice had taken the trick with her king and now had to decide whether or not to lay down the ace of spades.

The point to consider was that the Hatter had won with the queen and therefore had clearly shown that he also held the king. Had he false-carded and won the trick with the king Alice would not have known where the king was because the dormouse would play the king if he held king-jack, but would play the jack if he held queen-jack.

Had the Hatter's play of the queen been carelessness or was there method in his madness and had his play been designed to tell Alice that he held the king so as to get her to lead some other suit?

Alice decided this latter was the case. She laid down her ace of spades, dropped the king and ran off enough spades to set the contract.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: "Blue Bride" was upset because her fiancé wore braces on his teeth and she was afraid they would ruin her wedding pictures. [She wanted her wedding to be perfect!]

Well, I wanted my wedding to be perfect, too, but a few things went wrong.

For example: on the way to the church my fiancé got a flat tire. Then while running across the street to the church he was hit by a car. Fortunately, he only tore the trousers on both knees and bruised one of his elbows. Not wanting to hold up the wedding ceremony, he got married on schedule with both knees and one elbow exposed.

ending

After the reception, we took off for our honeymoon and found that our luggage had been lost! It took us quite a while to get it back, but meanwhile back at the motel my husband hit his sore elbow on the bureau and it made him sick to his stomach. The poor guy upchucked, and after flushing the commode he realized his partial plate with four front teeth was missing! He sure looked funny, but I loved him anyway. [You should kiss a man without teeth sometime.]

We've been married for 10 years, have since regained our composure and his four front teeth, and we couldn't be happier.
HAPPY ENDING IN TENNESSEE

DEAR HAPPY: The way we handle what happens to us can be the difference between tragedy and comedy. You're beautiful!

DEAR ABBY: This is about the guest who spiked the punch bowl on the q. t. with a bottle of vodka. Mathematics were never my forte, but even I can figure out that given a hot afternoon and 40 guests, each would drink about 12 ounces of punch. This brings us to 480 ounces, which, if "spiked" with 32 ounces of vodka, would result in each guest getting a well-diluted teaspoonful of vodka!

If that amount of vodka could make the guests noly and give the hostess hot flashes, I would be very much surprised.

The guy who spiked the punch would have been better advised to stash his bottle in the bushes and taken a few special friends there for substantial periodic nips. ALEEN

DEAR ALEEN: The your suggestion was no doubt offered in jest, it would have been preferable to risking one alcoholic's consuming even a drop of vodka unknowingly. It doesn't take much for an alcoholic to fall off the wagon.

DEAR ABBY: I have just declined our umpteenth wedding invitation in the past few years.

My problem is a touchy one. My husband is a college professor, and he is adored by hundreds of his students, so naturally when they marry, they invite us to the wedding.

We can't possibly attend all those weddings, and we certainly can't afford to send a gift even tho we can't attend. There are some students to whom my husband feels a special closeness, and we would very much like to attend those weddings and send a little gift, even tho we can't afford much, but we are so afraid of hurting the feelings of the others.

We routinely decline all invitations to weddings and send no gifts. Or is there a solution I haven't thought of?
PROPS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Accept the invitations to those to whom you feel a "special closeness" and regret the rest, and don't feel guilty. For an inexpensive gift, shop the second-hand bookstores for a book of poetry or the STANLEY. It is inscribe a personal message to the couple, and your gift will probably be regarded as one of their most treasured. [And it need not cost more than 50 cents or a dollar.]

Classes slated

SHOSHONE — Welding classes will be conducted by Gail Serr, Shoshone High School vocational ag instructor, if enough adults are interested in taking it.
Check the underbust band of any bra you're trying on. It should fit snugly, not tightly. If it rides up, it is too light. If you can run your finger easily under the band, then the fit is correct. Check the back, too. If it rides up the fit around your body is too tight.

Ivan C. Hopkins, county extension agent, said Serr will teach whatever type welding is desired by the group registering.
Notice of interest in taking the class should be given to the agent's office by Dec. 8 or at the high school building to Serr.

Sentiment increases for Gem kindergartens

(Editor's note: This is the fourth of several dispatches previewing some of the issues confronting the 42nd Idaho Legislature. Today: Kindergartens.)

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — Sentiment for public school kindergartens appears to be growing in the Idaho legislature but there's a real question whether the lawmakers will approve them at this next session.

Forty-two per cent of those responding to UPI's pre-legislative questionnaire said they are in favor of kindergartens financed with public funds. Twenty-eight per cent opposed the idea. The rest were undecided. In most cases, opposition to kindergartens of this sort is based on money problems. Many legislators feel frankly that kindergartens are a luxury the taxpayers can ill afford. "Kindergartens would be desirable only if the money is available," Sen. Lyle Cobbs, R-Boise, a former chairman of the House Education Committee, said.

Cobbs, as did many others who will serve in the first regular session of the 42nd Idaho Legislature, made it quite clear he will not go for any programs requiring an increase in taxes. Rep. Lloyd Dunn, R-Georgetown, echoed his sentiments.

"I do not believe the state can afford to finance kindergartens at this time," Dunn said.

A freshman, Rep. - Elect Norma Dobler, D-Moscow, indicated in her answers to other questions she would be willing to vote for tax increases to help education. Yet, on the kindergarten question she qualified her answer.

"I would favor kindergartens only if they can be fully financed without harming existing programs," she said.

Sen. Reed Budge, R - Soda Springs, offered a similar comment on the issue.

"I favor kindergartens providing every child, regardless of where he or she lives, has the same opportunity to attend and we have the funds," Budge said. "Not at the expense of other areas of funding."

Rep. Angus Candie, R-Preston, indicated he will do what his constituents desire in this regard, saying, "kindergartens should be financed at the state level — if the taxpayer wants them."

Another willing to go along with kindergartens was Rep. Larry Jackson, R-Boise. But here, again, the qualifier was money.

"I have supported state funding in the past and will again within our ability to fund," Jackson said.

Re-elect Herb Flitz, R-New Meadows, said he will have to see more evidence in favor of public school kindergartens before he can vote for them.

"I have not been convinced that is necessary to finance kindergartens on the state basis," Flitz said.

CAA work plan violation aired

By DAVID ESPINO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Community Action Agency may have violated its own work program in soliciting new staff members.

Newspaper advertisements for the last several days have called for applicants to fill 11 vacancies created on the staff as the result of "open hiring" orders from regional anti-poverty officials.

But the work program submitted to the officials, which finally gained the agency approval to continue its operations, commits the CAA to "advertise all positions bilingually, through every available media."

The newspaper advertisements are printed in English only, according to agency executive director Bob Russell, because "we couldn't find an interpreter to translate them into Spanish."

In addition, Russell said, there was no advertising on local radio stations, although notices are on file at Magic Valley Idaho Dept. of Employment offices.

The process of hiring a new staff to replace the one "terminated" by Russell as the result of "open hiring" will begin Friday at 8 p.m. — Three hours after present staff personnel become unemployed. To remedy a possibility that there would be no staff to help conduct the search for new personnel, Russell has secured permission to maintain a "skeleton crew" to assist in the effort.

Members of the agency executive and personnel committees will meet in the agency's new headquarters, at the former Twin Falls Business College structure, to begin reviewing applications for the staff jobs available.

The positions include: planner; research mobilization; community organizations specialist; financial officer; property officer; administrative secretary; secretary; senior resource developer, and three community aides.

The committees are expected only to screen the applications preliminarily Friday night, and call in several applicants for interviews at a later date. They have promised to give special consideration to all present staff members who apply for a continuation of employment.

At least three members of the staff, including former acting executive director and senior community organizer Betty Wooten, have indicated they will not seek reappointment.

Foundation meet slated in Jerome

JEROME — The first annual meeting for St. Benedict's Hospital Foundation will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Jefferson Elementary School.

C. J. Marshall, president of the foundation, said the meeting will begin at 8:30 p.m. following a dinner which will be served from 7:30 to 8:30.

Marshall said that because this is the first annual foundation meeting, "we are working to make this a truly outstanding community event. The event will always carry special meaning in our community because it identifies our foundation as a working arm of an extremely fundamental community need, the continuous growth and refinement of medical services offered by St. Benedict's Hospital."

Expected to be presented at the meeting for the foundation's approval is the proposed remodeling of St. Benedict's Hospital. The remodeling program was announced earlier this month by Leon Felder, administrator of the hospital.

Felder said the remodeling program is necessary in order to meet federal regulations as well as increased efficiency of the hospital. The remodeling will include the revamping of the electrical system and the installation of automatic sprinkling systems as well as several other projects.

Two arrested in Utah killing

BATTLE MOUNTAIN, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada Highway patrolmen Wednesday night arrested two suspects in a rape-slaying at Vernal, Utah.

Officers of the Nevada Motor Transport Patrol picked up the two men at a truck - checking roadblock. They said they made the arrests after noting the men were driving a car matching a description broadcast by Utah authorities.

Identities of the men were not immediately available. Early Sunday, two men driving a tan four-door sedan with blue upholstery shot to death Greg Nickell, 21, Vernal, at a scenic overlook in eastern Utah.

One of the killers drove Nickell's car about 20 miles to a lonely road, forcing Ranelle Stanger, Nickell's girlfriend, to hold the corpse during the ride. The other killer followed in the tan sedan.

They then burned Nickell's car with the body in it.

Miss Stanger, 18, Twin Falls, Idaho, was raped by both men.

After several hours of driving around back roads in rural eastern Utah, the men dumped Miss Stanger from the car near Duchesne. She ran to a farmer's house several miles away and notified authorities.

She and Nickell had been parked at the overlook when the killers walked up unannounced and shot Nickell through the car window.

Law officers and volunteers mounted a massive manhunt after Miss Stanger told her story. Residents of the area collected $4,500 as a reward for information leading to arrest of the killers.

Utah County Sheriff Adren Stewart said a car matching the description of the killers' vehicle was reported in Salt Lake City Wednesday, but authorities were unable to find it when they followed through on the spotting tip.

Stewart said he would fly to Nevada today to attempt to identify the suspects in custody at Battle Mountain.

Officially installed

NICK Cozakos, new district manager for the Burley district of the Bureau of Land Management, visits with Bill Mathews, state BLM director, after Cozakos' official installation Wednesday.

Burley BLM District installs new manager

BURLEY — Nick J. Cozakos, new manager of the Burley BLM district, termed his first days in Burley as "a good beginning in a friendly town" during ceremonies Wednesday.

The installation ceremonies marked the official appointment of Cozakos to the Burley post, although he has been working in the area since Monday.

Bill Mathews, Boise state director of the BLM, introduced Cozakos to the assembly in the district office conference room after a brief prefatory address. He said Cozakos has a reputation as "a highly skilled rangeland manager." District managers have challenging positions in dealing with the National Environmental Policy Act, the recently passed Wild Horse and Burro Act, and the proposed Federal Land Use Policy, according to Mathews. He added, "The ability to work with the public and county and state governments is a key requirement of a manager."

Cozakos opened by announcing his "christening" through receipt of a "Johnny Horizon" wristwatch. "Johnny Horizon" is the advertising caricature which symbolizes the BLM, much as Smokey the Bear serves the Forest Service.

The Burley district offers a "good foundation" to work with, according to Cozakos. He said the Pleasantview Allotment Management Plan and the Historic Trail Systems work in the area will continue as BLM goals.

He said Tuesday that his goals also included "completion of the BLM planning system for the district, which will involve better management under the multiple use principal."

The 45-year-old Salt Lake City native joined the BLM in 1952 and has served as chief of resources in three Utah BLM districts. He comes from a five-year stint as the range specialist in the Utah state office of the BLM. He also managed the Utah Fire control program for three years.

Cozakos' appointment fills the position left vacant in September when former Burley manager Max Bruce was transferred to Yuma, Ariz., as manager of the Lower Colorado River BLM District.

Rupert woman's illness watched

BURLEY — A Rupert woman remained in critical condition today in Cassia Memorial Hospital with an undiagnosed illness.

Because the illness was at first suspected to be smallpox, her physician called the preventive medicine division of the Idaho Department of Environmental Protection, and Health, setting off a chain reaction involving several state, federal, local agencies and a large Boise based business.

Dr. James Bax, Boise, administrator of the health agency, alerted the communicable disease center in Atlanta and specimens from the patient were flown to Boise and then to Atlanta.

The tests showed the woman does not have smallpox.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and Bax conferred on arrangements Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning. A Lear jet was made available by the Boise Cascade Corp., upon request of the governor, to fly specimens to Georgia.

The 45-year-old patient had recently returned from a trip to the Canary Islands.

Robert Barton, hospital administrator, said "we have taken all precautions possible and isolation procedures are being followed."

"We know we have a very sick lady," he said.

Minidoka PTA hears CSI aide

PAUL — "Not everyone needs a college education according to College of Southern Idaho President Dr. James L. Taylor, who addressed the Minidoka PTA Council Wednesday evening.

The Twin Falls educator stressed the need for a re-evaluation of educational priorities and for the dissociation of vocational education and "second class" connotations.

"The system of education we have now is not doing the job," he told small gathering at West Minico Junior High School.

He said approximately 750,000 students "drop out of public schools annually and another 850,000 leave college every year."

"We need to expose students at the elementary level to the world of work," Taylor said. The career preparation advocate said marketable job skills should be guaranteed before high school graduation.

Elementary school exposure might include bringing a tradesman, such as a carpenter, into social science classes to explain his occupation and offer examples of his work, according to Taylor.

He said the fallacious association of a baccalaureate degree with "social mobility" and "upward stratification" came during the great depression after World War I when parents vowed a better world for their children. Since then the college degree has become a status symbol, he said.

But Taylor said the United States needs "workers" and most of the jobs are not white-collar positions. He lamented the number of people with Ph.D. and master's degrees who cannot find work.

"Eighty per cent of the labor force is working in jobs that do not require a baccalaureate degree and only 11 per cent of the 'professional' occupations require a baccalaureate," he said.

However he denounced area vocational high schools, claiming they separate the academic and vocational communities and add to the "second class" stigma of vocational education.

Restating his position that vocational education belongs in public schools and should be incorporated into every grade level, Taylor called for "an awakening in young people's minds that there are many jobs."

Rupert hearing starts

RUPERT — Questioning centered on an unfound machete and a pistol during the preliminary hearing Wednesday of Ruben Curiel, accused of a Nov. 19 shooting.

Curiel, 22, Burley, was arraigned Nov. 20 on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder after Jesse Pena, Jr., 22, Paul, was shot in the abdomen during an altercation across the street from the Mr. Lucky Bar in Paul.

Curiel was released on $5,000 bond which he posted Nov. 21. Pena is listed in good condition in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital today.

The weapon used in the incident, believed to be a .22 caliber pistol, has not been located. Much of the questioning by defense attorneys Golden Bennett and Ed Frachisour during the hearing Wednesday had to do with positive identification of the weapon.

A machete, which one witness described as 14 inches long, was also the topic of much of the testimony, although it has not been produced in court.

Bennett grilled the witnesses concerning the machete which was reportedly (according to two witnesses) wielded by Pena prior to the shooting.

The name of one witness, Paul Resendez, was included in much of testimony because he was involved in a fistfight with Pena and one of Pena's brothers inside the Mr. Lucky Bar prior to the shooting.

The preliminary hearing was continued this morning.

American Party elects

JEROME — Terry Stewart, 27, Jerome, has been elected Jerome County's chairman for the American Party.

Jim Payton, co-ordinator for the eight-county American Party organization said Wednesday that Stewart was elected chairman Tuesday night at the first meeting of the newly re-organized American Party Central Committee for Jerome County.

Payton said other officers elected include Mel Spencer, state central committeeman, and Mable Doramus, secretary-treasurer. He said the positions of finance chairman and state central committeewoman will have to be filled by appointment.

Special guest Tuesday night was Mrs. Alice Jackson, Kimberly, state secretary for the American Party, he said. She spoke briefly to the group noting that the American Party is established on principles rather than on one man.

Payton said a delegation of American Party members from Jerome will be in Glenns Ferry Dec. 8 to organize a central committee there. He said in the last election 10 per cent of the vote for president in Glenns Ferry went to the American Party candidate.

Stewart is employed at Idaho Electric as an appliance and TV technician.

Northside stock water cutoff set

JEROME — Ted Diehl, manager of the Northside Canal Co., said Wednesday that all stock water in the canal system will be cut off Friday.

He said water curtailment is necessary so that the firm can undertake winter maintenance programs. Diehl said that it takes about a week for the water, after it is completely shut off, to drain from the system.

Senators 'pin down' USSR needs

A total of 2,418,380 persons entered Yosemite National Park in 1971. There are less than 20 veterinary schools in the nation.

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet pin in his lapel and an autographed copy of a Soviet agriculture minister's book under his arm, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., looked satisfied.

“We had a very constructive session,” the former vice president said Tuesday after a 2-1/2 hour meeting with host Agriculture Minister Vladimir V. Matakovich. “We now have a better idea of the long term needs of the Soviet Union in this field.”

“We pinned him down twice on the subject,” Humphrey said, referring to his colleagues, Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., and Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., who also attended the meeting.

“The minister indicated they plan no more major purchases of bread wheat in the immediate future but would continue to buy hard grain from us,” Humphrey said.

He said Matakovich told him Moscow would buy soybeans and corn for livestock “if the price is reasonable.”

The U.S. delegation arrived Monday for four days of talks with Soviet officials about trade and agriculture. One of their main goals was to find out if the Russians will make any further major grain purchases abroad to compensate for this year's bad harvest, the worst in a century.

Western agricultural experts estimate Moscow bought 28 million tons of wheat overseas this year, much of it from the United States. “Mr. Matakovich gave us no figures,” Humphrey said.

Bellmon said he told Matakovich many U.S. farmers were unhappy over the Soviet wheat purchase deal because they felt the Russians were able to negotiate a more favorable deal by not revealing the extent of their crop failure. He said better exchange of agricultural information by the two countries was needed.

“We received a pledge of increased cooperation on agricultural information,” Bellmon said.

He said Matakovich added, “My interests are agriculture and its hard to say what other aspects are involved.”

Matakovich presented the delegation with various pins marking events in Soviet life as well as autographed copies of his book on animal husbandry.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet. Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

Miniature world determines herbicide, pesticide effects

PROVO (UPI) — Scientists at Brigham Young University are using a “fantastic miniature world” for a unique test to gauge the impact of new herbicides and pesticides on the environment.

A BYU spokesman said if the new testing procedure had been available when DDT was first produced 30 years ago “it would have taken 40 days in a laboratory instead of 20 years in the environment” to determine what effects the pesticide had.

“It's a revolutionary test, using a fantastic miniature world that looks like an aquarium from a high school biology class,” the spokesman said the technique being developed by Dr. Gary M. Booth and colleagues.

Booth, assistant professor of zoology and entomology, said the procedure has attracted international attention “as a significant breakthrough in the fields of environment protection and pest and weed control.”

A laboratory at the University of Illinois is also working on the new test method, which involves setting up a miniature world, with plants, animals, earth and water, in a five-gallon aquarium. The tiny “world” is carefully controlled to produce a balanced system which copies conditions on earth.

The model ecosystem is in a special environmental plant-growth chamber. Temperature, humidity and day-night light cycles are controlled electronically.

Booth said the test, which is nearing perfection, seems surprisingly simple but it has taken more than four years of trial and error research to make it workable.

Price lid fight goes on, Butz says

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer pressure for price ceilings on foods has dwindled recently, but Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has warned farmers they are not out of the woods on that issue.

"The battle's not over," Butz told a group of beef producers visiting the capital Tuesday. "We're going to have a Congress that will be more urban than ever... little by little our (farmer) political strength is eroding... little by little it becomes more of a 'cheap food' Congress," Butz said.

The agriculture secretary, also meeting with an advisory committee representing rice growers, added that farmers may not like the thought that their influence on Capitol Hill is dwindling. But it's a fact of life that must be dealt with, he said.

As far as food prices are concerned, Butz's answer to the waning of farmer's political strength is to carry the debate directly to the consumers who influence most members of Congress.

Pressures for food price controls are likely to rise again in 1973, Butz said. The way to blunt that pressure, he contends, is to convince consumers that in comparison with their current incomes, beef and other foods are "good buys." Also, he argues, consumers should be told that if farmers can't make a profit now, the country could be facing a food supply crisis in 10 to 20 years because enterprising young men won't enter agriculture.

Butz found several members of his cattleman's audience distinctly unhappy with the way the administration lifted beef import control ceilings earlier this year. That action helped knock the price of cattle down by $45 a head, one Iowa complainant.

The agriculture secretary, however, said President Nixon's action lifting beef import controls for the rest of 1972 was necessary to head off a determined drive to impose price ceilings on meat last summer.

"You can't imagine the tremendous pressure (to impose controls when retail beef prices were at record levels) we were under," Butz said. "and in politics you don't beat something with nothing."

"The extra imports were miniscule, but they blunted the drive for controls," the agriculture secretary said.

Butz's meetings with farm groups these days also are producing repeated warnings that direct farm subsidies are likely to be reduced in the future.

Nixon, Butz told the Rice Advisory Committee Tuesday, has told him he wants to move toward getting more agricultural income from the marketplace and less from government payments. Other administration officials indicate their plans for 1973 are pointed toward a potential decline of one-quarter to perhaps as much as one-third in government payments — a decline from about $4 billion in 1972 to between $2.7 billion and $3 billion in 1973.

Says Butz: "We've got to be realistic and move toward expanding the commercial market." His comment was made specifically about rice, but recent developments indicate it may apply to many other crops as well.

Gem aide on board

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A University of Idaho professor is one of nine persons named to Agriculture Department's newly formed Wild Horse and Burro Advisory Board.

Dr. Floyd W. Frank, Moscow, Idaho, Veterinary Science Department director, will serve an initial appointment of one year beginning Jan. 1, 1973. Agriculture secretary Earl Butz said he is especially pleased with the high quality of specialized knowledge possessed by members of the board.

CSI tests two Washington teams here

College of Southern Idaho's Golden Eagles, 2-0 on the season after testing two Arizona schools, turns to Washington for competition Thursday and Saturday night.

Coach Jerry Hale's Eagles will meet Walla Walla

Community College at 8 p.m. Thursday and Spokane Falls at the same time Saturday night. Walla Walla is an unknown quantity, the Bears having defeated Big Bend, Wash., in their opener. Coach Hale reports Walla Walla has two men in the 6-7 area. Walla Walla also has one of last year's stars in the Idaho state A-1 tournament, Moscow's Kevin Goetz, brother of former CSI player Dave Goetz.

Goetz, about 6-4, is excellent outside shooter and has come along as a rebounder according to his coach Don Parker.

CSI is more familiar with the talent being brought in by Spokane Falls. Its star is Russell Grant, a 5-8 guard from New York City and a close friend of CSI star Rick Sobers. Grant led the city in scoring his senior year and is rated as one of the crowd pleasers on the CSI slate this season.

Spokane Falls also has good rebounding forwards, although they are in the 6-4 area. One is Billy Hicks, another New York product.

"Although I haven't seen them play I would guess Spokane Falls is very similar in makeup to Scottsdale," coach Hale said. "They aren't tall but they have some good leapers and are strong in the guard line."

Following this week's action the Eagles will be gone for nearly two weeks. They travel to Walla Walla Dec. 7 and play the University of Idaho frosh at Moscow Dec. 8. They will return Dec. 13 to host always strong Utah State.

"The common draft is really what we're after, but the players would insist on a contract without a reserve clause," Kennedy said.

In view of the possible loss of the merger, the ABA has been considering possible expansion plans. Cities under consideration include Los Angeles and Chicago, both of which already have NBA clubs.

Jones hits 42 as Stars win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jimmy Jones, playing one on one and sometimes one on two against a succession of New York players, scored 42 points Wednesday night to lead the Utah Stars to a 105-97 ABA victory over the Nets.

Jones, who tallied 25 points in the first half to give Utah a 62-52 advantage at intermission, seemed fully recovered from a recent virus as he won a scoring battle with New York's George Carter.

Rockets nip Baltimore

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Jack Marin scored on a driving layup with 3:20 left Wednesday night to break open a tight game and spark the Houston Rockets to a 102-94 victory over the Baltimore Bullets.

Marin's score gave the Rockets a 91-90 lead and Houston led the rest of the way. The game was tied 26-26 at the end of the first quarter after Baltimore sliced away a nine point Houston lead.

Nicklaus shoots for cash mark

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — Mickey Mouse's old pal Jack Nicklaus hopes to reach the "magic" number in the greenery of fantasy land this week.

The golden-haired strongman of golf is defending champion in the second annual $150,000 Walt Disney World golf championship which gets underway Thursday on two immaculate courses just outside Florida's magic kingdom.

If Mickey Mouse hands the "Golden Bear" another trophy and the $30,000 first place prize, Nicklaus will become the first pro golfer in history to win $300,000 or more in a single season.

Nicklaus has banked $290,542 going into this last tournament on the 1972 PGA tour. Second best on the money list, with $214,805, is Lee Trevino who has already quit for the year. Fifty-one of golf's top 60 money winners are here, including Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, George Archer, Grier Jones, and Sam Snead.

Nate, Kings top Blazers

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Nate Archibald, the National Basketball Association's leading scorer, scored 10 of Kansas City-Omaha's last 16 points and 32 in all, leading the Kings to 110-102 victory over the Portland Trailblazers Wednesday night.

The Kings scored 11 straight points midway in the fourth quarter, erasing an 86-83 deficit and taking a 94-86 lead.

Salmon Falls creek barrier completed

The $117,000 fish migration barrier across Salmon Falls Creek, just south of the Nevada-Idaho line, is complete now and the fish trap in operation.

Bob Bell, regional fishery biologist, notes the barrier was built by the Bureau of Land Management in an effort to restore a couple Southern Idaho streams and a Nevada drainage to a quality trout fishery. The barrier is designed to prevent upstream spawning by trash

Passer to stay with California

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Vince Ferragamo, the freshman quarterback who led California to an upset victory over Stanford in their "Big Game" on Nov. 18, has decided not to transfer to another school.

Ferragamo, ever since Cal's NCAA probation was extended another two years until the end of the 1974 football season, had said he was seriously thinking about transferring to another school.

But victory in the "Big Game" plus a triumph over Oregon State the week before, convinced Ferragamo he should remain at California.

Cal's suspension means it cannot participate in postseason games or in televised contests. The suspension extends back two years to the previous athletic department administration and has nothing to do with current AD Dave Muggard or football coach Mike White.

END OF SPAWNING RUNS by trash fish out of Salmon Falls Creek reservoir into the tributary headwaters should be guaranteed by this barrier across the stream some 12 miles above the impoundment. The left end of the barrier incorporates a fish trap which Idaho Fish and Game Department officials believe will become an excellent source for obtaining surplus Kokanee eggs.

Houston to seek linemen

HOUSTON (UPI) — Coach Bill Peterson of the Houston Oilers said Wednesday he favored drafting a defensive lineman if the Oilers get the No. 1 choice in this winter's draft.

"If I've found out anything in my first year in pro ball, it's that you have to have a defensive line to win," Peterson said. "You better fortify your front four and you better do it fast."

He said the Oilers were hampered this year by the loss of tackle Ron Billingsley on injuries and the fact that end Elvin Bethea has been below par because of injuries. Peterson said he hoped Billingsley would be back for the Pittsburgh Steelers game Dec. 10.

Peterson also hoped to be able to keep tackle Mike Tilleran, who is playing out his option this season.

Players nix compromise on reserve clause, swaps made

HONOLULU (UPI)—Another one of those young hot-shots who was supposed to replace Willie Mays with the San Francisco Giants, never will now, and the major league players aren't happy at all with the club owners latest offer—so what else is new?

Switch-hitting 26-year-old Ken Henderson, widely advertised as Mays' successor when he first came up to the Giants seven years ago, was dealt by them to the Chicago White Sox Wednesday along with right-handed pitcher Steve Stone for Tom Bradley, another right-hander who won 15 games this year.

Odd aspect about the deal was that the White Sox offered the Giants 20-game winner Stan Bahnsen instead, but the Giants said uh, uh. They wanted Bradley.

A regular the last four seasons for the Giants, Henderson had his best season for them in 1970 when he batted .294, drove in 88 runs and hit 17 homers, and although he didn't have an especially good year the past season when he finished with .257, 51 RBIs and 18 homers, White Sox Manager Chuck Tanner figures getting him makes his whole ball club.

"He's gonna be our centerfielder and we plan to hit him third in front of (Dick) Allen," said Tanner. "We now have a well-balanced offense and it could be the most powerful team in White Sox history."

The St. Louis Cardinals engineered a pair of lesser deals, re-obtaining right-handed reliever Wayne Granger in a trade with the Minnesota Twins, for outfielder Larry Hise and left-hander John Cumberland, whom the Twins turned right around and sent to Tacoma.

In an earlier four-player swap, the Cards got shortstop Ray Bussé and Bob Fenwick, another infielder, from the Houston Astros for Skip Jutze, a highly-regarded young catcher who hit .324 with Tulsa and shortstop Milt Ramirez.

So far 36 players on 14 clubs have been shuffled in 10 different deals since these winter baseball meetings began here Sunday. But all Wednesday's trades were somewhat overshadowed by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's "status report" on the progress of negotiations between the owners and the players, now meeting by themselves in the Bahamas.

For the first time in history, the owners have compromised on the reserve clause which they consider so vital to maintain. They propose a player with five years major league service become a free agent unless his club offers him at least $30,000 in his sixth year and that a player with eight years service also become a free agent unless he's offered $40,000 in his ninth year.

This constitutes a baseball milestone since the owners have never been willing to alter the reserve clause before. They also have made a number of other concessions, but Kuhn says the players, through their executive director, Marvin Miller, already have made it plain the owners' new package is "not adequate."

In addition to offering the revolutionary change in the reserve system, the owners are proposing the minimum players salary be raised from its present $13,500 to $15,000 over the next three years. Another proposal by the owners would allow players with 10 years service, the last five of which were with one club, to consent to being traded or not. Under such a rule, the Curt Flood crisis never would have materialized.

Additionally, the owners are offering a six per cent increase in the players fixed retirement benefits and a 10 per cent increase in benefits to approximately 300 of the pension plans, original members who have had no active service since after 1956 and have not participated in recently negotiated improvements.

Despite all these concessions, the players are still dissatisfied. Kuhn, who calls himself the "coordinator between the owners and players," is trying his best to stay neutral although at times it obviously appears difficult for him.

"I don't want to characterize anybody's position as unfair or unreasonable," he said. Commenting on the possibility of another player's strike such as baseball underwent last spring for 15 days, Kuhn, in answer to a question, said:

"I think the last strike was very harmful to baseball. I think another strike would be devastating."

John Gaherin, who negotiates for the owners, said the general climate among both parties seems more favorable than it was before the strike last spring.

"The negotiations have been low key, and the atmosphere has been very cordial," Gaherin said. "I don't feel we're in a volatile situation."

So far there have been 13 formal meetings between the players and owners since early September. The last one took place two weeks ago. Talks are being recessed now while each group meets separately. The meetings will be resumed in New York next Wednesday.

Handball meet eyed

Plans for a citywide handball tournament, if sufficient participation is generated, are announced by city Recreation Director Clint Browning.

Browning said anyone interested may sign up at the Robert Stuart Junior high courts or contact Browning at city hall or Jack Watts at Robert Stuart. Dates will be announced when finalized.

California speedway closes

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI) — Entrances were padlocked Wednesday at the lavish, $25.5 million Ontario Motor Speedway, with officials blaming sagging attendance for forcing them to close the track.

"The feasibility studies of how well Ontario would do were just too optimistic," a track spokesman said. "They were made at a time when the economy was booming and it turned down sharply thereafter. The Los Angeles area has a huge population but the entertainment dollar is stretched too thin."

Jets worry about Namath's new offensive caution

NEW YORK (UPI)—It was Joe Namath who spouted the phrase, "when you've got it, flaunt it," in an ad campaign a couple of years ago, but apparently Coach Weeb Ewbank thinks differently.

Namath, the highest paid player in the National Football league at an estimated $250,000 a year and considered one of the finest passers in the game, has been strangely conservative in his play calling for the New York Jets this season.

The usually flamboyant quarterback has gone more to a running attack, spearheaded by John Riggins and Emerson Boozer, and has shown unusual reluctance to throw the "bomb," even when the Jets were all but out of games.

"There's nothing physically wrong with me," Namath said. "Maybe my legs are a little tired but that's usual at this stage of the season. I guess I'm just not reacting the way I did before to defensive changes. Maybe the two years off have taken something away."

Besides that, more and more teams are going to zone defenses and five man secondaries to take away the long pass. You can only take what they give you."

Ewbank, who claims responsibility for his team's offensive game plan, agreed Wednesday that Namath has not yet returned to form after his two-year injury-forced layoff.

"I don't think anyone can lay off a couple of years and come back and have that good touch," Ewbank said. "Other than Don Maynard, Joe has three new receivers to work with and he's had to learn them. Also, the zone defenses nowadays eliminate the individual and force you to go more to pattern throwing. I give Joe the game plan and he follows it as long as the other team does what we expect it will do. He always has the option to check off."

Namath, despite the fact he's been reluctant to throw, still leads the league in touchdown passes with 18, but nine of those came in the first three games, six in one game against Baltimore.

The Jets are battling for the wild card or best runner-up slot in the American Conference East and to have any real shot they must win their final three games—Sunday against New Orleans and the following two weeks against Oakland and Cleveland. The Jets have won six games this season but all six victories have come against clubs with losing records—and Cleveland and Oakland currently are division leaders.

"I feel we've been thrown as much as anyone else this season," Ewbank said, "but the theories of defense have changed completely. You can't get isolation of one-on-one coverage anymore—they won't give it to you. We have not changed our philosophy about throwing in any way. You just can't go long anymore, that's all."

The geoduck claims found on beaches from northern California to British Columbia, often weighing more than six pounds each, are the largest American clam.

High school cage season to open Friday

Twin Falls travels to Burley, hosts Jerome

Cycles falling and building will be in evidence this weekend when Magic Valley high school basketball breaks out with 26 games. Just about all the teams will have looked at their new lineups by Saturday night. And there will be a lot of changes in power structure.

A feature will take the Twin Falls Bruins to Burley where the year makes a big difference. Burley heavily thumped Twin Falls last season to start the schedule with Twin Falls favored this time around.

Burley lost some of its overpowering height but still isn't bankrupt under the boards, expected to go 6-4, 6-4 and 6-7. This will average out evenly with Twin Falls at 6-3, 6-4 and 6-8. Both are expected to go with junior guards. The game should show rather quickly if Twin Falls has improved as much as expected and how far, if any, Burley has dipped from last season.

Minico, which lost four starters — but don't cry for the Spartans, they're still tough — plays a rare afternoon game Friday at Logan, Utah. The teams then will shift to Utah State and watch the college game that night.

Jerome debuts with a lot of new faces against the Nampa Bulldogs at Jerome. Nampa returns two tall men inside but Jerome should be about able to match the board power. Nampa's touted transfer, a 6-4 lad, reportedly has quit the team.

BSC-ISU game set Saturday

POCATELLO — There's a Civil War atmosphere about Idaho State's first two basketball games of the 1972-73 season.

ISU opens against Cal Poly San Luis Obispo Friday and meets Boise State Saturday. Both games are in the ASISU Mindome and both tipoffs are at 7:30. The ISU Jayvees will play against Lethbridge Community College Saturday 20 minutes after the varsity contest.

The opener against Cal Poly will match the Bengals against a team that has three returning all-conference players plus a center that was to have played at Idaho State. He's Joe Linnemann, who dropped out of ISU last fall to try out for the West German Olympic team. Linnemann (6-6) had transferred from junior college to ISU.

Of course no one has to explain the rivalry between Idaho State and Boise. The Broncos have never beaten ISU in Pocatello, and ISU has never won in Boise. The series stands, 5-5. The game will be a non-conference tilt but that won't dim the rivalry between the two schools.

Coach Murray Satterfield's Broncos return four starters, including 6-8 forward Greg Bunn, the team's leading scorer at 16.7 ppg. However the word out of Boise is that Bunn is having a tough time keeping his starting berth. 6-5 Maurice Buckingham, one of two transfers from Cochise JC in Douglas, Arizona, and 6-5 Steve Clifford are in the thick of the fight. Clifford scored 22 points in last week's varsity-fresh game.

Idaho State will counter with probably the tallest team to ever wear an Idaho State uniform. At center will be 6-10½ Dan Spindler, a JC transfer from Mt. San Antonio College, a tough customer and an outstanding rebounder and defensive player.

The forwards will be chosen from among 6-8½ Ev Pappas 6-7, Leroy Gibbons, and 6-5 Jim Anderson.

6-6 Edison Hicks, who lettered last year as a forward and led the conference in rebounding is one guard, but any of three could start at the other spot. 5-11 Randy Craig, 6-0 Jerry Sabina, and 6-0 Nick Vouras all started last year.

A good match up in the A-4 classification will send the Castleford Wolves to Dietrich, both clubs figured as contenders in their respective leagues. The Wolves will have a height edge but the Devils will have that pesky all-court press they use at home so well. In another northside-southside match, the

UTEP tells reason for firing

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — George McCarty, athletic director at the University of Texas at El Paso, said Wednesday he fired track coach Wayne Vandenburg because he disregarded orders from school athletic officials.

McCarty fired Vandenburg Tuesday and the action threatened to create a walkout by members of the UTEP track and field team.

The Miners played third last season in the NCAA championships behind UCLA and Southern California.

McCarty gave no reason for firing Vandenburg when the announcement was first made, but Wednesday he listed three reasons for the action.

—“Flagrant disregard for constituted university authority.”

—“Repeated demonstrations of lack of fiscal responsibility.”

—“Failure to act in best interests of university programs after being so advised.”

Vandenburg withheld comment.

When word of Vandenburg's firing reached members of the track team Tuesday, they met and at first said they would quit the team unless Vandenburg was rehired.

Cowboys fighting doldrums

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys, those one-time darlings of pro football, are in the doldrums.

It is not like funeral services have been scheduled. But the condition of the patient has not shown any clear signs of improving.

And some of the symptoms of the disease were provided this week by those people who keep records of everything from points scored to least yardage made on third downs in the first half of the second quarter.

It seems that this season Dallas has been giving away more than they have been taking away, which is bad.

National Football League statistics show that Dallas has turned the ball over five more times than they have received it as a gift from their opponents. This is referred to as a “minus five,” and a “minus five,” means Dallas is the fourth worst team in the conference in the taking and giving department.

Camas County Mushers, perhaps the tallest in school history, will be at Murfreesboro, which will operate a free lance fast break. These two saw 10 men banished by fouls in their first meeting last year — and both had good football teams this fall. The winner probably will be the one able to forget cross body blocks first.

Hansen, a young team, runs into a veteran club at Richfield. The Tigers are returning four starters and Hansen has a couple back, except the Huskies returnees are considerably shorter.

Wood River debuts at home under new Coach Fred Trenkle against Kimberly. It should be a battle since both coaches cite inexperience, as pre-season weaknesses.

Filer, with four starters back and several good juniors up, will travel to Valley, which has three starters returning but not the experienced depth. Buhl, dependent on juniors for rebounding, will have a height advantage when it goes to Glenns Ferry. The Pilots have two men back in Nate Jones and Ray Hansen, but experience falls away rapidly after that.

A westend Gooding County rivalry renews when Wendell goes down the hill to play Hagerman. Both coaches are worried about their scoring potential in this one. Declo takes a lot at a possible A-3 tournament for when it goes to Shoshone. The home-standing Indians are tall, experienced and ready. Declo will be stronger when a couple men become eligible in the second semester.

Oakley, expected to be in the Magic Valley Conference fight, will be at Rockland while Carey also leaves the area to test Mackay. Raft River plays one of its infrequent non-conference games, hosting North Gem.

On Saturday, Twin Falls returns home to entertain the Jerome Tigers while Burley stays with what Coach Ivan Davis believes is the Bobcats' roughest schedule ever. The Bobcats will be home to Boise.

Gooding, which has a 26-game winning streak carried over from last year but only one starter, goes to Emmett for its first game Saturday. Buhl stays on the road testing Wendell while Kimberly comes home to entertain Glenns Ferry.

Murfreesboro will be at Valley in one of those rivalry things while Shoshone will be at Castleford. Declo stays on the road to play at Dietrich while Hagerman will be home to Rimrock. Gooding State opens its season with almost everyone back and will try that experience on the Filer juniors at Filer.

Erving paces Squires win

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Forward Julius Erving scored 25 points Wednesday night to lead the Virginia Squires to their third straight American Basketball Association victory over Memphis, 128-117.

The win was the fourth straight for the surging Squires, in second place in the ABA's Eastern Division.

Sportsmen meet

Annual fall meeting of the Fourth District Associated Sportsmen Clubs will be held at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in the Roundup room of the Robergson Motor Inn.

Vernon Smith, Twin Falls, said the site has been shifted from the Holiday Inn as previously announced due to remodeling there.

The meeting, attracting sportsmen from Magic Valley and the Salmon River area, will include the report of governmental agencies and others during the morning. The sportsmen will break into committees during the early part of the afternoon to draw up resolutions. These will be presented for floor discussion and vote when the general convention reconvenes.

A banquet will conclude the affair Saturday evening.

USC must tip Irish to have good year

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer

Southern California has one prize locked up—the New Year's Day Rose Bowl encounter with Ohio State—but it won't be a satisfactory season for the Trojans unless they can beat Notre Dame Saturday and wrap up the national college football championship.

Coach John McKay's dealings with 10th ranked Notre Dame have been middle line since taking over the Southern Cal helm in 1960. He has won five from the Fighting Irish, lost five and tied the team from South Bend, Ind., twice. McKay would love to take this one to get on the winning side of the ledger.

Statistics-wise, the No. 1 Trojans rate as 14-point favorites over the Irish. Southern Cal is the third leading school in total offense (N.D. is seventh), and also ranks third in total defense, a department in which the Irish rate No. 12.

Tight end Charlie Young and running back Anthony Davis are the driving shafts in the Trojan scoring machine, while ends Jim Sims and John Grant anchor a defensive unit that grinds down the enemy offense.

Once-beaten Notre Dame's bid to spoil USC's perfect season is keyed around running back Eric Penick and Andy Huff, who combined for 1,269 yards rushing this season. And then there's the Townsend Brothers, Willie, the team's top receiver, and Mike, who ranks third in the nation in interceptions.

Coach Ara Parseghian is bent on revenge for losses to USC the past two seasons. The 1970 setback in the final game of the season cost Notre Dame a perfect slate.

“Southern California is undoubtedly one of the finest teams in the country,” Parseghian observes. “It will take a super defensive effort on our part and a consistent offense to match them.”

Other major games on Saturday's schedule are all-rivalry contests. Second-ranked Alabama meets No. 9 Auburn, third-ranked Oklahoma tackles Oklahoma State, No. 11 Tennessee plays Vanderbilt and 12th-ranked Louisiana State faces Tulane, and Army encounters Navy.

There's also the Baylor-Rice contest, Boston College-Holy Cross, Florida-Miami (Fla.), Georgia-Georgia Tech, Stanford-Hawaii, Texas Christian-Southern Methodist, Iowa State-San Diego State and Southern Mississippi-Memphis State.

West squad filled for game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Running backs George Amundson of Iowa State and Puddin' Jones of Houston were among 16 players named today to complete the West squad for the Dec. 30 Shrine East-West game at Candlestick Park.

Amundson and Jones will work in a backfield led by quarterbacks Dan Fouts of Oregon and Ty Paine of Washington State. The West wide receivers — named previously — are Steve Sweeney of California, Greg Specht of Oregon and Isaac Curtis of San Diego State.

Rounding out the West team among those named today were offensive tackles Bruce Walton of UCLA, Bill Moos of Washington State and John Urban of New Mexico; guards Paul Howard of Brigham

Young and Dave Bourquin of Houston; centers Charles Bradley of Oregon and Ken Muhlbauer of Idaho; defensive ends James Robinson of Washington State and Bob Crum of Arizona; defensive tackle George Onkes of New Mexico; safeties Jim Lilly and Bill Bartley of Oregon State, and kicker Bruce Barnes of UCLA.

Strike closes rail line

New York (UPI) — Some 5,000 Long Island Rail Road workers went on strike today, forcing 170,000 daily riders on the nation's busiest commuter line to rely on buses, subways, car pools and their own ingenuity to get in and out of the city.

Anthony D'Avanzo, spokesman for a 12-unions coalition of non-operating LIRR employees, made the strike announcement after last-minute negotiations with railroad management and a federal mediator failed to produce a settlement by the 12:01 a.m. strike deadline.

D'Avanzo said it was his "personal feeling" that the strike would be a long one. He said he regretted the inconvenience to commuters "but my people face Christmas without pay and that's what bothers me more than anything else."

Talks between the union and Walter L. Schlager, LIRR president, William J. Ronan, head of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, and George S. Ives, chairman of the National Mediation Board, were scheduled to resume at 11 a.m. today.

The picket lines will be honored by 1,700 operating LIRR trainmen, members of the United Transportation Union, according to their president Harold Pryor.

City and suburban officials immediately implemented plans to handle the crush of morning rush hour commuters.

Dutch leftwingers improve position

THE HAGUE (UPI) — Voters turned out in record numbers Wednesday in an election which weakened a four-party coalition led by Premier Barend W. Biesheuvel and strengthened the position of leftwing parties. The overall result gave no political bloc enough strength to govern alone.

"I am afraid it will be extremely difficult to form a new government," Biesheuvel said.

A record 82.9 per cent of the country's nine million eligible voters gave the three-party "progressive" bloc a gain of four seats, increasing its total in the 150-seat parliament to 56. The outgoing government coalition Biesheuvel led lost four seats and its total dropped to 70.

Biesheuvel resigned as voters went to the polls and Queen Juliana asked him to remain in office on a caretaker basis to handle affairs on a day-to-day basis.

The queen also is expected to start consultations shortly on the formation of the 15th government since World War II.

Altogether, 16 parties won at least one seat in parliament with the Labor party gaining four to increase its total to 43, making it once again the single biggest party.

Full week sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House of Representatives traditionally has operated what critics call an "in on Tuesday and out on Thursday" club, a system which allows members to spend much of the week back home politicking.

Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., wants to change all that.

Gibbons is running for the position of House Democratic leader, and Wednesday he proposed the House take a new approach to legislating — "working all day, five days a week," at least for the first half of the year.

The five-day week, Gibbons said, should start on Monday morning. The old system is not to start before noon Monday. If the House did this and worked through Friday, Gibbons said, it could get all the annual appropriations bills passed by April 1.

His timetable would set a May 15 deadline for the Senate to finish work on the House-passed bills and where there were differences, compromises would have to be reached in conference committees by June 15.

That way the money bills would be on the President's desk by July 1, the first day of the new fiscal year when the money is supposed to be available to keep the government operating.

"I realize this looks like a tough schedule," said Gibbons, mindful of the fact that all the regular money bills have not been enacted by July 1 in recent history. Congress automatically passes so-called "continuing resolutions" to keep the government running beyond the July 1 deadline.

Mideast crisis 'most serious'

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Egypt's foreign minister opened a U.N. General Assembly debate on the Middle East crisis Wednesday by saying that it is the most serious problem confronting the United Nations.

If the world organization fails to solve it, Mohamed el-Zayyat said, the United Nations itself faces "eroding confidence" in its effectiveness.

On another important issue, the General Assembly's administrative and budget committee was expected to vote today on a U.S. move to reduce its share of the U.N. budget from 31.5 per cent to 25 per cent. Congress voted several weeks ago to limit the American share to one-quarter of the U.N. budget.

On the first day of the Middle East debate, El-Zayyat said if the U.N. did not take effective action Egypt "will not hesitate" to exercise "the inherent right of the victims of aggression to defend themselves and to restore their territorial integrity."

El-Zayyat called on the United Nations to condemn Israel's attacks on Syria and its continued occupation of Arab territory captured five years ago in the Middle East war and to impose economic and military sanctions against Israel or even expel the Jewish state from the United Nations.

Club hears coaches

FILER — Kiwanis Club members heard of the Filer High School basketball and wrestling programs at their Tuesday luncheon in the United Methodist Church.

Ed Marshall, principal at the high school, was program chairman. He introduced Gordon Larson, athletic director and head wrestling coach at the high school; Jerry Kuykendall, freshman basketball coach; Bill Heaps, coach of the high school varsity basketball. Marshall is co-coach of the high school varsity basketball team.

Guests included Ed Andrews and Doug Lincoln and Jeff Brennan of the Key Club.

Hearing set

BLACKFOOT, Idaho (UPI) — A preliminary hearing has been set for Dec. 7 for Fernin Quezada, 38, who is accused of assaulting a deadly woman.

Quezada is charged with shooting and wounding Esequiel Velasquez, 26, in the leg. The incident occurred in a Blackfoot bar.

He is free on $2,500 bond. The shooting victim was reported in good condition in the Bingham County Memorial Hospital.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Any technically motivated downward reaction should find major support in the 975-1,000 Dow zone, in the opinion of Bache Technical Service. If the market slips even lower, total re-evaluation of the market's long-term stance would be appropriate. But "we continue to envision a rather selective market with the emphasis on the blue chips (and) a gradual shift to include the higher quality growth stocks," Bache says.

Fraser Management Associates predicts such industries as chemical, oil refining, paper, and aluminum will reflect rising earnings as the economy strengthens. But in planning investments in these areas, "don't use a shotgun in guessing where the game is. A rifle is more rewarding," the firm suggests.
