

Viet accord drafted?

PARIS (UPI)—Dr. Henry A. Kissinger met for slightly more than six hours today with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho—the last and longest meeting of their current negotiations. Peace conference sources said Kissinger would return to Washington tonight to report to President Nixon.

A spokesman at Orly Field said Kissinger's U.S. Air Force plane was scheduled to depart at 7 p.m. (11 a.m. MST).

Conference sources said Kissinger would confer with Nixon, and the respected newspaper Le Figaro said he would then present the draft of a new peace treaty to President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam. Technical experts worked again today on the wording of the treaty.

Washington dispatches and French diplomatic sources said the talks had hit "snags" and that no cease-fire agreement is expected to be signed before Christmas. However, French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann said Tuesday he thought there would be an agreement by Jan. 3.

The official North Vietnamese newspaper Nhan Dan in an editorial broadcast today by Hanoi Radio demanded again that the United States sign the original draft agreement and said continuing support for South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu would "put out the light which just glimmers at the end of the tunnel."

The commentary said further support of Thieu would "continue a protracted war."

UPI diplomatic reporter Stewart Hensley said administration officials in Washington gave the impression that one of the problems concerned the exact nature of the cease-fire arrangements—extremely difficult to arrange a war where there are no clearly defined front lines—and the degree of authority each side would exercise in the areas under its control.

This authority will be subject to military observation by a supervisory commission.

Fund riddle snags bonds

By RICHARD G. HIGH
Times-News managing editor

TWIN FALLS — It sounds like a first-grader's riddle:

"What good is a school without any teachers?"

But this riddle is troubling Twin Falls adults trying to put together a bond election proposal to pay for new Twin Falls school construction.

A wrong answer to the riddle could result in abandonment of a bond issue, or severely hamper such an effort.

This is the dilemma:

Supporters of new school construction, meeting as a citizens committee, apparently believe the highest priority should be construction of new elementary classrooms to reduce overcrowding.

The most recent plan drafted by the committee calls for construction of 24 new elementary classrooms.

But school officials say there is little chance they will have enough money to add the 24 new teachers it would require to staff the new classrooms. They say they couldn't staff even a single new classroom.

Supt. George Staudaher estimates that it costs at least $12,000 per year to operate each additional classroom.

The 24 new classrooms would cost nearly $300,000 a year to operate by Staudaher's yardstick.

This would require large new revenue sources from outside the district or a local tax increase of nearly 10 mills to raise the money.

According to Staudaher, any local tax increase is forbidden by law. State law limits such taxation to 30 mills. The district already taxes at that limit.

The district could raise additional taxes, but only after a vote approved by a majority of school patrons. Such approval extends for one year only, requiring a new election each year.

Both members of the citizens committee and school officials say the year-by-year override levy would not be practical.

According to Gary Custer, chairman of the citizens committee, "I don't think this (a year-

First of series

by-year levy) is a good way to go. You may go along well and then all of a sudden you're cut off."

Earlier this year, Staudaher had estimated the district could support an additional 12 classrooms.

Staudaher said Tuesday, however, that his estimate is no longer valid because expected increases in enrollment (and in state funds distributed on a per-student basis) has not materialized. Instead, enrollment dropped by 140 students this year.

"Let's face it, he said, 'The birth control pill is having its ultimate effect.'"

He estimates instructional and maintenance costs will continue to rise at from three to five per cent a year in the future—at about the same rate he expects the school district's tax base to grow. As a result, five years from now the budget should be as tight as at present, he says.

Further, Staudaher sees no places where the school's budget could be cut to produce funds to staff new classrooms.

According to these projections, the prospect of any bond issue increasing the number of classrooms is bleak.

"We don't want to put ourselves in a position of having empty classrooms," Staudaher said. "After all, we are responsible to the people for their money."

Citizens committee chairman Custer agrees. "Adding classrooms without a way to staff them doesn't seem to be too efficient a way to go about it. It's pie in the sky, wishing, hoping for something to happen... a kind of blackmail where you're presenting this to the board or the public and say, 'now, staff them or else'."

Custer said his committee members are considering reducing the number of new classrooms proposed as a result of the problem.

"We're thinking of cutting back to 18 classrooms on our proposal."

One other alternative open to the citizens group, Custer said, would be "trading classrooms," by tearing down an equal number of old classrooms, replacing them with new construction.

This would add no new teachers and could be handled by the district without strain, Custer said.

But he said, "Our biggest need now is additional classrooms, not replaced ones. If we can't staff them, there we are right back at our dilemma again."

(Tomorrow, both citizens committee and school officials see increased state funding as the only way out of the dilemma. Next: the prospects for state help.)

TF teacher negotiator introduced

TWIN FALLS — With one-third of the school year past, Twin Falls teacher negotiators finally introduced themselves to the Twin Falls school trustees Tuesday night.

Spokesman for the Twin Falls Education Association (TFEA) negotiating team, Gordon Armstrong, made a short, low-keyed presentation to the board, in which he repeatedly said the team would not negotiate unless the teachers' developed something to negotiate.

Board Chairman John Wolfe told Armstrong that, before negotiations could begin the school board needed some expression establishing the TFEA as the negotiation agent favored by a majority of the district's teachers.

Armstrong said cards had been circulated to teachers on which teachers were asked to designate the TFEA as their bargaining agent.

Last year a similar negotiating team from the TFEA met repeatedly with school district negotiators, but preliminary agreement was not reached on what issues would be negotiated once negotiations formally began.

Those meetings had been adjourned during the summer, but had not been resumed this year.

School district budget figures will be drafted early in 1973, giving the teacher negotiators little time for bargaining in this school year.

Armstrong told the trustees Tuesday night his personal philosophy and that of the negotiating team is that "negotiations can be beneficial to you (the board) as an avenue of communication."

Mr. T-N
says...

If you have schoolrooms, you should have enough money to put teachers in them.

Vitamin limits proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Food and Drug Administration, citing mounting evidence of adverse effects from overdoses of vitamins A and D, today proposed new rules to limit the amount of such vitamins in non-prescription products.

The FDA said the thrust of its proposal would fall on multiple formula vitamins, some of which now have 60 times the recommended daily allowance of vitamin D and 10 times the recommended dosage of vitamin A.

The makers of multivitamins will have to change formulas to comply with the new limits, the FDA said, but prescription vitamin products will not be affected.

"Vitamins A and D are known to be toxic."

CSI trustee vote on, Taylor says

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho will go ahead with its trustee board election with one legal question having been clarified.

Dr. James L. Taylor told the Times-News Tuesday that the college would go ahead with the election.

"We certainly intend to hold the election," Dr. Taylor said. "The precedent for the election was established in 1966 by the board of trustees when they set up the first election for trustees of this district. We are proceeding on the advice of our attorney."

"We feel very strongly that this is and will be an election held under the existing laws of the state of Idaho and this junior college district."

Informed this morning that the attorney general's office had ruled favorably on the CSI election, Dr. Taylor said he had never questioned the legality of the election.

The CSI administrator did say that he was unhappy over the indeterminate status of out-of-district students who may lose home county tuition funding if they vote in the election.

"This bothers me, it bothers me tremendously," Dr. Taylor said. "It is unfortunate that we don't have clarification, but I don't see how you're going to get it with the case now before the United States Supreme Court. We certainly cannot hold a trustee election in abeyance until the Supreme Court rules on tuition for students."

The Supreme Court is not ruling on the CSI question specifically, but it has agreed to rule on the question of student residency and the question of out-of-state tuition. This decision would most likely have direct bearing on the CSI question.

Gem official approves CSI trustee election

TWIN FALLS — College of the legality of the trustee elected.

Southern Idaho trustee board candidate Rudolf Barchas said today he had received an opinion from the Idaho attorney general's office declaring the CSI election legal under the present statute.

Barchas, a Twin Falls attorney, had earlier questioned

Barchas had interpreted this to mean that the election should be held with candidates running at large for both open seats on the board and not for two separate terms as is being done. Barchas is running for the six-year term on the board now held by John Coleman.

Barchas said the attorney general's opinion, written by John F. Croner, assistant attorney general in charge of election questions reads as follows:

"From a reading of the statute we cannot say that the holding of separate elections is wrong. We can see where the statute can be read in two different ways, and in this respect it is clear that the legislature should amend the above quoted portion."

Ancient crater found

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The last men of Apollo gave scientists today one of the most important discoveries on the moon—a deep, orange-stained crater that probably was blown-out by the dying gasp of lunar volcanism.

Pushing their oxygen back packs and moon buggy to the limits, the Apollo 17 explorers also drove to a mountain landslide and collected prize specimens that may range to the opposite end of the lunar life span.

Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt may now have stored in the cabin of the spacecraft Challenger the youngest and oldest rocks ever seen on the moon. It will take months of laboratory analysis back on Earth, however, to confirm this.

The explorers drove a record 12 miles during their second excursion. They returned to moonship Challenger at 12:06 A.M. MST today after spending a record 7 hours and 37 minutes outside.

They were tired, their muscles were weary, and, their hands sore, but Cernan and Schmitt were exuberant. And, so were scientists at Mission Control.

"It was absolutely outstanding," said mission scientist Robert Parker.

The third crew member, Ronald E. Evans, was adding to the scientific windfall by observing the moon from the orbiting command ship America. He sighted what apparently were three extinct volcanoes elsewhere on the lunar surface Tuesday.

Cernan and Schmitt make one more seven-hour excursion from Challenger tonight, planting man's footprints in the lunar dust for perhaps the last time this century.

Again running behind schedule, the two finally received a good night from Houston control at 4:20 a.m., delaying the start of the outing by one hour. Tuesday's first moon walk was also delayed an hour as the astronauts fell behind then too.

Astros discover old lunar crater

They will leave the moon Thursday and rejoin Evans in orbit for two more days around the moon before returning for a splashdown in the Pacific next Tuesday.

During tonight's surface expedition, Cernan and Schmitt will visit a second massive mountain and inspect another crater that might produce additional evidence that Taurus-Littrow valley was the scene of a fiery, explosive volcano that photographic evidence suggests occurred about 1 billion years ago.

What we have been witnessing is one of the most important finds since Apollo 11," NASA geochemist Robin W. Brett said after the astronauts discovered the strange orange soil around a crater called Shorty.

Dr. Farouk El-Baz, an Apollo geologist from Bell Laboratories, said the orange color most likely was the result of iron in the lunar soil rusted by water vapor escaping from the vent. It means, he said, the moon did not die when the lunar seas were flooded by lava 3 billion years ago but the lunar heartbeat continued up to an estimated 1 billion years ago. El-Baz also said the volcano must have originated deep within the moon and the soil collected by Cernan and Schmitt "gives you a sample of what's below everything we now know." This would be a significant bonus in moon chemistry.

The discovery also fits in with the idea that the deep lunar valley was blanketed by a rain of volcanic ash, a theory that has grown in acceptance today. Brett said gas venting would be expected to come right after an explosive volcanic outburst.

Schmitt, the first scientist to go to the moon and noted for his scientific conservatism, was more cautious in interpreting his observations. But as he headed back to Challenger, he said:

"Having all the color changes and everything, I think we might have to consider we could have a volcanic vent." Before making the find, the two astronauts drove their lunar rover. Its broken fender patched with tape and unneeded cardboard flight plan pages — over the washboard valley floor to the base of a 7,790-foot mountain called South Massif, 5 miles from Challenger.

There they roamed through the rocky debris from an avalanche and gathered samples from light tan and blue-gray rocks. Schmitt said they were mostly breccias — rocks made up of fused fragments — which apparently represent material splattered out of the primitive lunar crust by great meteoroid impacts.

At one point, Schmitt spotted a large white fragment in a big rock and dropped on his hands and knees to examine it.

"Man, that's a prize," he said, rolling it over with his dusty boot.

"It has light pastel green, fairly rounded crystals in a fine grained white to light pinkish-tan matrix," Schmitt told Mission Control. "You can figure that one out. It looks like olivine and something."

"Excellent, excellent," replied ground communicator Robert Parker.

TF airport budget doubled for '73

Wednesday, December 13, 1972 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 3

Tools said stolen

TWIN FALLS — Wyman Kimball, Twin Falls, told police Tuesday he had been robbed of tools and equipment valued at about $340. Kimball said a storage shed belonging to him at 1869 Ninth Ave. E. was broken into sometime between Nov. 24 and Dec. 12 and the items removed. The case remains under investigation.

BY O. A. GUSI, KEEPER

Editor, Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Budget request for the Twin Falls City-County Airport for 1973 has been set at $290,000. This is double the 1972 figure.

The budget recommendation was formalized Tuesday as airport commissioners met at Joslin Field.

Commission members were quick to point out new federal requirements in the areas of fire and rescue equipment and also anti-bias security was reason for the budget request increase.

"But," said Bill Powel, chairman, "it is not as bad as it looks when various possibilities which could result in federal aid are studied."

Actually, the budget requested — minus the amount required to meet federal mandates — is only $9,000 above the current $145,000. This hike is earmarked for cost of living raises for employees and additional new construction.

But the Federal Aviation Administration has ordered airline airports, such as Twin Falls, to provide rescue and security items. Fire fighting equipment required for a field the size of Twin Falls was estimated at $100,000.

In addition there would be $10,000 for law enforcement at the field and $15,000 for at least two on-duty fire fighters. Added also is another $20,000 for required projects. This boosts the total to the $290,000 top.

Board members said as things stand now the federal government would provide between 52 and 64 per cent of the funds to purchase the fire and rescue equipment and for certain other requirements which must be met under the new regulations.

There is a strong possibility that Congress will again pass a bill which would provide 82 per cent of the funds to meet the requirement with the remaining 18 per cent being local matching funds.

Both the House and Senate — with Idaho's congressional delegation voting for — passed this bill at the last session but it was vetoed by President Nixon.

Most of this money, now in trust, comes from gasoline tax on general aviation and a tax on tickets.

Four major airfields in Idaho — Twin Falls, Idaho Falls, Pocatello and Lewiston — are seeking state legislative and federal congressional aid.

The FAA has issued a mandate which says that unless these fields meet requirements, or are issued a waiver, they will be closed to commercial airline use on May 14, 1973.

One requirement for such a waiver is that the necessary amount be shown in the budget adopted for the year.

"There are some 500 airline fields in the United States," Chairman Powel said, "and at least half of them are in a financial condition where the amount of money required to meet the FAA requirements is not available."

"Something, probably through Congress again, will have to give because it is inconceivable the government would stop airlines flights into half the airports of the country."

The only airport in Idaho not in a financial bind because of the rulings is Boise, which receives a substantial amount from the Air National Guard for use of Gowen Field facilities.

In a telegram Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said the Senate Commerce Committee meets in Washington Jan. 9 and 10 and that he has been informed members of that body believe the issue should be a federal and not a local responsibility. He added committee members do not agree with the position taken by President Nixon.

Senator Church urged members of the Idaho aviation family to present testimony at the Washington hearing. He also said there is the possibility of utilizing revenue sharing money for this purpose.

In any event, Powel said, "it will have to be worked out, and fast, or there will be only one airline airport operating in Idaho and commercial travel would be at a standstill."

"Such a step would also mean the end of airmail, air express and air freight service in the state. Such a situation is unthinkable."

In other business the commission also:

Discussed plans for construction of spray plane pads on the airport property.

Accepted "with regret" the resignation of Armour Anderson. He had served one year on the old city airport board and the past four years on the city-county unit. He also served a period as chairman of the new board.

His successor will be appointed in January by members of the City Council and county commissioners.

TF banks share fund

TWIN FALLS — City officials in Twin Falls have added $166,116 in revenue sharing funds to their bank account as result of receipt of the first half of the 1972 payment.

City Manager Jean Milar said the check was banked and will be drawing interest until it is budgeted and spent in the 1973 city budget now being prepared.

There will be another identical amount arriving in January to complete the 1972 share and then three quarterly payments received before the end of 1973, Milar said.

This will give the city's 1973 budget $546,406 above property tax revenue, service fees and other regular income.

Milar said the money cannot be spent until it is budgeted and the City Council will have until after the first of the year to make up its mind on the spending.

Each department in the city has a list of items needed and eligible for revenue sharing expenditures, he said.

These items range from such things as storm sewers and new fire and police building facilities to the salaries for uniform security officers at the city-county airport.

Farming prospects improving

BOISE (UPI) — U.S. Rep. Orval Hansen told the Idaho Wheat Growers Association Tuesday evening the prospects for American farmers are brighter today because of foreign trade negotiations.

"Farm income prospects have been enhanced considerably with the dynamic situation developing from foreign trade negotiations," Hansen said. "Farm exports hit a record $9 billion during the past fiscal year, with an all-time high of $10 billion forecast for 1973."

Hansen, speaking at the convention banquet at the Rodeo Inn, predicted that a peace agreement in Southeast Asia will cause a shift in resources and investments from military to peace-time consumer purchases.

Magic ski area opens Saturday

TWIN FALLS — Magic Mountain ski area will open Saturday for the season with between three and four feet of snow.

All lifts including the double chair, poma and T-bar will be in operation with ski school, cafeteria and other facilities operating. Ski runs are being packed but some will be left with open powder.

About six inches of new light powder has fallen this week after a snowfall of nearly two feet last week.

Ski buses will operate but from a new location. To avoid traffic congestion and for greater safety to the young skiers loading and unloading will be at Newton's Sports Center on Blue Lakes Boulevard North this year. Buses leave at 9 a.m.

Benefit set

TWIN FALLS — Residents of Magic Valley will have an opportunity to show their "Christmas spirit" tonight in a benefit dance for two plane crash victims.

Members of the Magic Valley Country Music Association will be donating music and entertainment at 8:30 p.m. in the Elks Lodge to help meet medical expenses of R. G. Zebell (Zeb Bell) and his father-in-law, Dean Kicketts, Jerome.

Country music officials say both men incurred large medical bills and Zebell is still under treatment. Neither has insurance for such costs.

The Elks Lodge will donate the hall for the event and musicians will donate their time. All country music fans and others are invited to attend and dance or listen to the more than five music groups and numerous individual vocalists and instrumentalists.

The two men survived a plane crash in Oregon last month which claimed the life of the pilot. Zebell is still confined to his home with injuries.

Officers elected

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Howard Mills was elected president of the Salmon Tract Homemakers Club at its annual Christmas party luncheon Monday.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Gary Aufderheide, vice president; Mrs. John Henstock, secretary; Mrs. Joe Owen, treasurer; Mrs. Bruce Kunkel and Mrs. Bob Lanfing, project leaders.

The club voted to sponsor the March of Dimes in the Hollister area.

WASHINGTON — The so-called liberal core of the Supreme Court, which rarely ascended to the sublime, continued to show its capacity for descending to the ridiculous in its dissent to a 6-to-3 decision ruling that states may ban live sex shows and stag films from saloons.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall and — of reliable William O. Douglas based their dissenting, radical-chic dissents on the 1st, 14th and 21st amendments to the Constitution. They held that a regulation of the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control permitting authorities to close down bars with sex shows violates all three amendments.

Really now. It is not necessary to take a lofty moral stand — always an uncomfortable exercise — to reject this curious trio's arguments. It is necessary only to read the amendments, a not laborious feat.

Consider the 21st amendment. First, its verbiage is completely negative. It repeated prohibition. It prohibited the transportation of use of booze in any state, territory or possession of the United States "in violation of the laws thereof." It noted that the amendment was inoperative unless ratified by "the several states." In short, it explicitly reserved to the states the right to regulate alcoholic beverages in any fashion they please.

Thus in various states a saloon keeper may lose his license if his establishment is a hangout for thugs and whores, if it is the scene of too many drunken brawls, if the proprietor waters his hooch. Indeed, in many bars males are required to wear jackets and neckties and females in britches are barred. Why not, then, a regulation prohibition what Justice William H. Rehnquist described in the majority opinion as "Bacchanalian revelries" and "gross sexuality?" Okay. Bring on the 1st amendment. It says no law may abridge freedom of speech or assembly. But as Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes once remarked, free speech does not include the right to holler "fire!" in a crowded theater. And, to use Rehnquist's unusually frank language, there is no suggestion that sex acts including "sodomy and public masturbation" fall into the category of the people's right "peaceable to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances. Presumably the relevant phrase in the 14th amendment is that which says no state may "deprive any person of life, liberty or property, without due process of law." Well, the California regulation does indeed deprive saloon keepers and topless and bottomless dancers of liberty and property — but not without due process. The regulation was adopted by the people of the state, as explicitly authorized by the Constitution.

Marshall cited a 1957 decision in which the Supreme Court set down standards for judging obscenity whether the material appeals primarily to the prurient interest, offends community standards and has no redeeming social value. He claimed the California regulation does not conform to those standards.

Come on, Marshall. Read the Roth decision again. Surely Rehnquist's "gross sexuality" appeals primarily to the prurient interest. In staging "Bacchanalian revelries," the booze joint owner is not conducting a sociology course, but seeking to entertain customers looking for sexual kicks. Moreover, it is California's prerogative to decide what offends community standards not Marshall's. Besides, Marshall, Brennan and Douglas ignored the salient point in the case, which is the state's right to control the sale of alcoholic drinks. When a businessman is granted a license to dispense assorted brands of popskull, he agrees to abide by whatever rules the licensing body may impose. The Court's majority did not ban acts of "gross sexuality" in a public place. It merely ruled that California may decree that they may not be performed in a place where liquor is dispensed. That's called interpreting the Constitution by what it says, not by what it might mean.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

All That Water

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write about the effect on one's system of drinking rather large amounts of water daily. Usually consumed with tea. Hot water right next to my desk. One teabag all day long.

Approximately how many ounces would you think I should limit myself to? I work on maintaining my weight between 150 and 155, having gradually reduced from about 200 ten years ago.

I have the feeling that drinking a lot of liquid during the day helps, although it does cause one to have to get up three or four times each night. — G.C.D.

It must be a sorry looking teabag by the end of the day — and in fact I'm more concerned about that than about the amount of fluid you consume.

Thirst is the most accurate guide to how much water we need. Assigning an arbitrary number of ounces doesn't take into consideration the amount you perspire, your metabolism, your nervous tension, and how much you get rid of in breathing.

But sipping can become a habit, too. (I take it for granted that you know you don't have diabetes mellitus or diabetes insipidus which can cause inordinate thirst.)

But if you insist on a specific figure, let's say that a quart a day wouldn't be unreasonable — remembering that your food also contains a good deal of water, too.

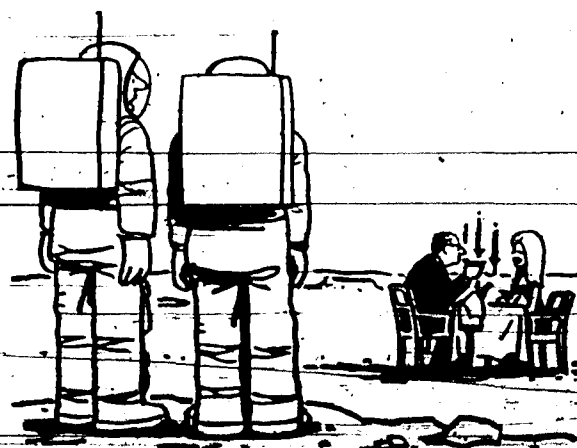

So I'd suggest a few more teabags. The best flavor comes from the first steeping. After that alkaloids (caffeine, theobromine and tannin) are extracted, along with bitter substances that aren't especially tasty.

I'd also suggest that you cut down on the water intake around mid-afternoon to help you get a restful night's sleep instead of the trots three or four times.

So long as there is no swelling or weight gain (that is, you are excreting as much fluid as you take in) I see nothing to worry about. Except that dilapidated teabag.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

BERRY'S WORLD

"It's GOT to be Henry Kissinger. Who else could it be?"

The Commission

William Wiseman, who is a Democrat and a county commissioner, would do well to govern as a commissioner first and as a Democrat second.

Heber Loughmiller, who was a Republican and a commissioner, and whose death made Wiseman's appointment possible, understood the distinction and governed as a Republican only after he thought out his responsibilities as a commissioner.

Wiseman was appointed to his job by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus on the recommendation of the Twin Falls Democratic Central Committee, and has everyone's congratulations and best wishes.

He has taken on one of the most difficult and thankless jobs in local government, a position that will require him sometimes to make decisions unpopular with old friends and repugnant to long-time acquaintances. The gauge of his success as a public servant will be precisely how well he can promote his principles rather than the partisanship of party politics.

In a few weeks the commission will be budgeting the county's funds for the next fiscal year. It will also be deciding how to spend the $210,000 in revenue sharing money that Twin Falls will receive from the federal government in the American government's attempt to return to the states counties and cities of the country some of what Congress collects in taxes each year.

It will also be considering the report being prepared at Idaho

State University on zoning in the county that is developing rapidly, and the hub of an economic marketplace that has only begun to develop.

It will also have to consider how to pay more money for the people it hires to work in county offices. Twin Falls government probably pays less to its employees than other governmental units and local businesses and the long term effect of that can only be to discourage county workers.

It will have to figure out a way to begin to meet the needs of persons living on a fixed or low incomes in the county, begin to support health care in imaginative and different ways, study low income housing and deal with the needs of senior citizens who have given so much for so long and have a right to something in return.

All of these needs, of course, must vie with agriculture and ranching and irrigation needs in a county that, for all its potential growth, remains an agricultural economy.

Wiseman's job, along with the two other commissioners, Merl Leonard and William Chancey, chairman, will not be to decide needs with a shotgun approach that shoots down straw men but ignores real problems. Instead, it will be to make the decisions on the basis of some real understanding of what the county needs, how it can best achieve those needs, and what decisions must be made to effect the needs.

Sitting Thoughts

Come to think of it, I wonder what has happened to my barrel chested friends who jogged here and there each morning.

Of late, I haven't noticed them as I drive to work. Could it be that the wintertime isn't the time for such a sport? My goodness, you would think that they would stay with their decision come rain or shine, snow or cold.

But apparently the will to trim down the figure just isn't strong enough to take the chance of freezing to death.

So come spring — or the return of good weather — they will once more have something to wear off their pouch when they resume their activities. At least, that's the way it looks from here — while Mr. Spectator rides to work, that is!

TODAY'S CHUCKLE:

Mail your gifts early — it will give the receivers time to reciprocate.

PERSISTENT HABIT

With Christmas approaching, many will receive gifts of cigars. Well, Mr. Spectator would discuss this for a few minutes.

Cigars go all the way back to the Aztecs. Conquistadores first took cigars into Spain in the 16th century. One legend has it that the cigarette was invented by less affluent Spaniards who wrapped paper around discarded cigar butts.

In writing about cigarettes, it seems necessary to start with cigars because cigarette production in the United States first equaled that of cigars in 1920. It has been dominant ever since. Mr. Spectator remembers well the first time he saw a woman — right out in public — smoking a cigarette in a cafe after dinner. Heavens, what a shock!

Last year 536 billion cigarettes were smoked in the United States compared to 365 billion in the Soviet Union, which ranks second. One Communist leader holds his smoking down to less than 20 cigarettes a day with a trick lock on his cigarette case which only opens every 45 minutes.

Like the Americans, the Russians probably have methods to aid them in cutting the habit that really are not this elaborate.

It's known to be a dirty habit, it's regarded as deleterious to health, but in spite of all warnings, smoking persists in every part of the world. Medical science must continue to warn, but it's unlikely that the habit will be eradicated in the lifetime of anyone living today.

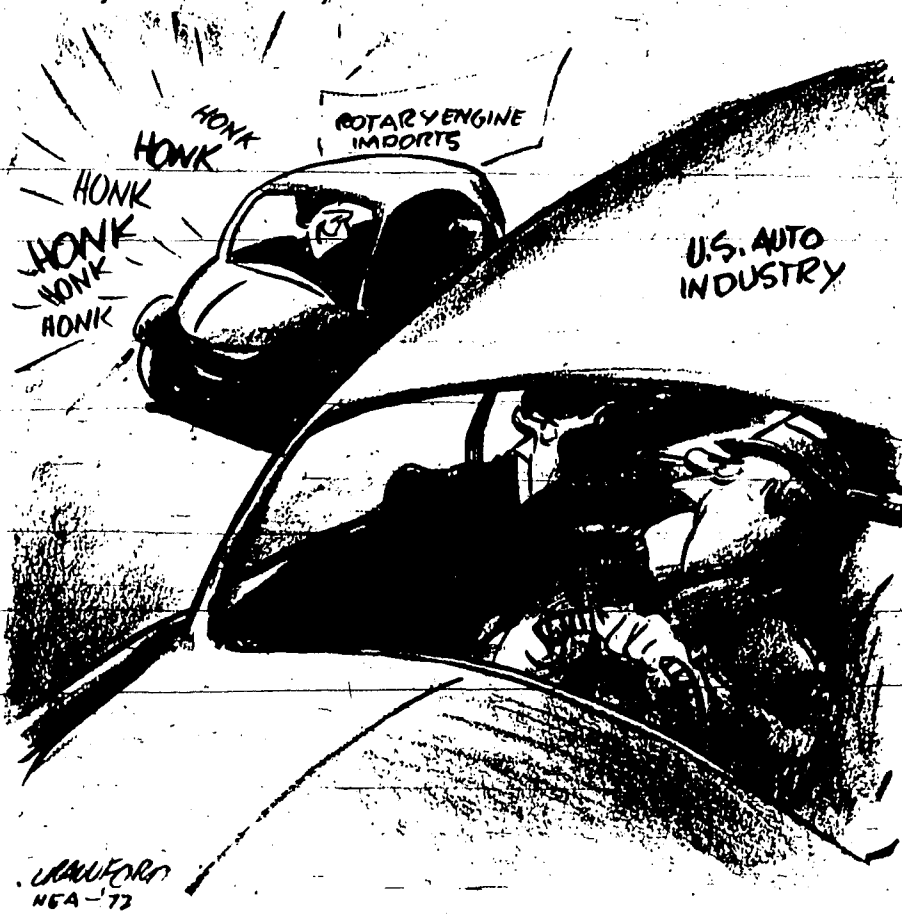

So go ahead and puff — if that's what you want to do!

NUTRITIONAL TAX

Can Americans be taxed into upgrading their eating habits? That was one proposal advanced by Dr. George M. Briggs, nutritionist at the University of California, before the Senate Hunger Committee. Members of the committee have branded the United States "a nation of nutritional illiterates."

Dr. Briggs' idea is to tax "calorie empty" foods, similar to taxes levied on liquor and tobacco, in order to promote a switch to foods with higher nutritional value. That may not cure cases of alleged nutritional illiteracy, but it is a sure cure for a fat pocketbook.

"Why Don't They Make 'em Use Back Roads?"

PAUL HARVEY

To Go To Pot

Recently we witnessed the about-face metamorphosis of a conservative. William Buckley Jr. came out in favor of legalizing marijuana.

And the conservative Consumers' Union recommends legalizing marijuana.

And the President's own commission on pot has issued a recommendation which Los Angeles Times cartoonist Paul Conrad translates as "TRY it — you'll LIKE it!"

Consumer's Union prefaces its 632-page report with a dogmatic statement that "marijuana is here to stay"; that "no conceivable law enforcement program can curb its availability."

Aren't the experts jumping to the conclusion that we can't enforce laws when the fact is we haven't been trying — even laws against hard drugs!

In New York City last year there were 1,400 hard drug pushers arrested; 93 percent were found guilty. (These are not "just users," these are the pushers who feed the fire, who spread the contagion.) Of the 1,400 arrested and the 93 percent found guilty, only 31 ever went to jail!

Talk of legalizing it? That sounds as though it has been legalized!

A Senate subcommittee is even more anxious about the legal barbiturates which are so commonly used as tranquilizers and sleeping pills.

The Senate panel's feeling is that most of us are unaware of the potentially tragic effects of these drugs. Use often results in violent behavior; overuse means death.

So "legalizing" those things has not discouraged their use.

In New York, Dr. Max Jacobson reportedly has been mixing amphetamines with his injections and giving the needle to some names you know. His patients included John and Jacqueline Kennedy, Truman Capote, Alan Lerner, Rep. Claude Pepper (D-Fla.) and Tennessee Williams. Dr. Jacobson would not reveal which patients received amphetamines and which, if any, did not.

Neither he nor they will confirm that "speed" shots were intended for a purposeful artificial lift.

Again, "legalizing" these things has not discouraged their use nor has it minimized the hazard.

Now there is congressional concern that we should legalize these pep pills and potions at the same time there's a rising chorus of support for legalizing marijuana.

I don't get it. Thank God I've had no personal experience with any of these additions and so cannot prescribe from experience. But I was much impressed with something I read the other day which had been added as an appendix to the earlier report by President Nixon's national commission on this subject.

It stated that most young people between the ages of 12 and 17 who have not tried marijuana say they stayed away from it because of fear. They feared possible physical and mental damage.

It's been neither scientifically nor socially fashionable in recent years to encourage fears. That's when 42 million Americans went to pot.

And now there's this whole new school of thought which says, "We can't put out the fire so let's all jump in!"

ART BUCHWALD

Drug Hearings

WASHINGTON — Drug hearings are being held in Washington this week. Several doctors have testified that many of the drugs sold over the counter are useless and in some cases harmful. Those billions the American public spends on patent medicine remedies, according to testimony, are just thrown down the drain.

Will anything be done about this? Not while the drug lobby is alive and well in Washington. Which brings up the subject of Malcolm Ruddenmaker, a friend (attention all Narc agents — I made up his name so don't ask me to reveal who he is before a grand jury), told me, "The trouble with pot is that it was introduced to the American public under the wrong auspices. The counterculture thought they could go it alone, and in so doing they brought down the wrath of the courts and the legislators on their heads."

"I don't understand." "Because of the counterculture's suspicion of big business they tried to cut out the middleman. When you do that in the United States you are in for a lot of trouble."

"You mean if you had gotten the giant American companies interested in marijuana from the beginning, we wouldn't be sending kids off to jail?" "Exactly. Suppose the kids, instead of growing and marketing their own pot, had gone to one of the big drug companies and said, 'We know how you can make $50 million a year. What kind of response do you think they would have gotten?'"

"Well, I know the drug company wouldn't have thrown them out of the office," I said. "You bet your sweet prescription they wouldn't. The first thing they would ask the kids is, 'What exactly do you have on your minds?'"

"The kids would reply, 'We have this drug which relieves tension, relaxes you, makes you sleep better and takes away aches and pains in minutes."

"Is it a pill?"

"No, the kids would reply, it's a cigarette. You just take a few drags on a butt and it does the same work as any two pills."

"Caramba!" the drug people would say, "What do you call it?" The kids would reply "pot."

That's a terrible name, the drug people would say. "We must call it something like Relax-A-Lot and advertise it as Mother Nature's Own Tranquilizer."

"We don't care what you call it," the kids would say, "just as long as we can buy it in a drugstore."

"And you think the drug company would market it?" I asked Ruddenmaker.

"In a flash — with a multimillion dollar media campaign to back it up," he replied.

"But wouldn't the government stop them from making it?" I asked.

"Are you kidding? The government is not going to mess around with a big legitimate drug company that has friends in the Senate, the House and the White House."

"Besides other companies would bring out their own versions of Relax-A-Lot and then the government would have to deal with the drug lobby as well. You're talking about big political campaign contributions now."

"I hadn't thought of that. If only the kids had used their heads they wouldn't be in all this trouble about pot."

"It's never too late," Ruddenmaker said. "I think the kids should turn over all their pot rights to the drug industry and say, 'You guys market it. We'd like to get out of sales. In no time the American people who are fighting marijuana use would be lining up at drug counters all over the country screaming for fast, fast relief'"

Cabinet shuffling end due to last week more

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's reshuffling of high administration officials in preparation for his second term continues full speed and is due to last until shortly before Christmas, the White House says.

Tuesday Nixon named William P. Clements Jr., 55-year-old Texas oilman, to be deputy secretary of defense, the No. 2 man in the Pentagon.

Clements is chairman and founder of SEDCO, Inc., a Dallas oil drilling firm. He was chairman of the Nixon re-election campaign organization in Texas this year.

Clements has a reputation in public as a hard liner on defense. In 1970, he was a member of the Blue Ribbon Defense Panel set up to study the defense department. He and six other panel members filed a supplementary report which concluded that the United States was on its way to becoming "a second-rate power, incapable of assuring the future security and freedom of its people."

Clements said in Dallas that he would resign as head of his company but did not intend to sell his stock, amounting to a fifth of the company, worth slightly more than $100 million at its current selling price.

Clements said the only business SEDCO has done with the Defense Department was "a very, very minor bit" through a West Coast subsidiary.

John D. Twinn, administrator of HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service, the government's welfare chief, told his staff in a memorandum he is leaving to give the newly designated HEW secretary, Caspar W. Weinberger, freedom to choose his own team.

Two assistant secretaries of labor—George C. Guenther of the occupational safety unit and Malcolm R. Lovell Jr. of the manpower unit—announced they were planning to resign. Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson, who is leaving himself, denied a published report that he had told all assistant secretaries in his department that their routine letters of resignation had been accepted.

The Washington Post reported that Dr. Robert Q. Marston, director of the National Institutes of Health was out.

W. Clement Stone, a Chicago insurance executive who contributed more than $1 million to the President's re-election campaign and is also acting chairman of the National Center for Voluntary Action, met for more than a half hour Tuesday with Nixon at the White House.

Jury says missing Alaska solon dead

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—An Alaskan jury ruled Tuesday that missing Congressman Nick Begich and two other men who disappeared on a flight with House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs are dead.

But District Court Judge Dorothy Tyner refused to sign an order immediately permitting a special election to fill Alaska's lone congressional seat, which was held by Democrat Begich. She said she would take final action "shortly."

At the request of Boggs' family, the fate of the Louisiana congressman was not considered by the jury of three men and three women.

The death verdict also covered Russell Brown, a Begich aide, and Don E. Gonz, pilot of the twin-engine plane which crashed Oct. 16 in bad weather on a flight from Anchorage to Juneau.

The jury's decision will automatically become effective in six months, but a court order is necessary to hold a special election before that time.

Mine union head reign threatened

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 19-year reign of W.A. "Tony" Boyle as president of the United Mine Workers was threatened today by unofficial returns showing his opponent, Arnold R. Miller, running a strong race in a federally supervised election.

The unofficial returns early today gave Boyle 5,605 votes and Miller 5,479.

"We are surprised that the lead is not bigger," said a Miller spokesman. "Most of these returns are from pension locals expected to go for Boyle."

The spokesman said Miller's camp expected the challenger to take the lead when the "big working locals come in" and keep it for the balance of the vote counting.

Boyle supporters declined to comment on the unofficial returns, but predicted victory when Boyle took 58 per cent of the first 3,767 votes counted by the labor department.

US hits Xerox monopoly

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission alleges Xerox Corp., Stamford, Conn., has monopolized the $1.7 billion office copier market through antitrust practices that inhibit domestic and foreign competition.

A spokesman for the FTC said Xerox had been under investigation for three years before the complaint was made Tuesday.

The FTC said Xerox has dominated the industry so much that Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. ranked second with only 10 per cent of the sales in 1971.

According to the complaint, the office copier market includes the $1 billion plain paper copier submarket. Xerox accounted for approximately 95 per cent of all revenues generated by the submarket; about 60 per cent of all revenues in the overall office copier market and some 80 per cent of revenues from Xerox chairman C. Peter McCollough said the FTC's charges were "ill-founded and without merit." Xerox will defend the action vigorously and will establish fully the "correctness" of its practices.

The FTC alleged that Xerox continued its domination of the domestic market by unfair acts, practices and methods of competition.

The FTC further alleged that Xerox controlled the foreign market by its ownership of Rank Xerox Ltd., a British corporation, and by entering into agreements with Rank Xerox and Fuji Xerox of Japan which have effectively divided up the world market for plain paper office copiers.

Sino-Soviet fuss reaches new crisis

LONDON (UPI) — The Sino-Soviet conflict has entered a new crisis phase, diplomatic reports said today.

The conflict is being accentuated by the prospect of peace in Vietnam and a projected security arrangement in Europe, both of which are considered by Peking to foreshadow an ominous shift of Soviet interests to the Far East, the reports said.

China was said to be anxious to keep Moscow at bay while modernizing its conventional forces and speeding its nuclear arms buildup.

The conflict, deepening steadily, has now moved into a new stage in which Peking has begun to name Moscow directly as the chief aggressor, while attacks on the United States are only perfunctory.

Some 45 Soviet army divisions are now reported concentrated along the tense Sino-Soviet border, with rockets and planes massed in outer Mongolia. Peking is asking why the Kremlin is concentrating such forces on its frontiers if it has peaceful intentions.

Diplomatic reports said the imminent end of the Vietnam war is causing serious fear in Peking that Russia will lean heavily on Hanoi and seek to extend its influence in the postwar period over the greater part of Southeast Asia at China's expense.

This fear is heightened by Moscow's attempts to push a Soviet-promoted collective security system for Asia which the Chinese consider to be largely aimed at isolating them politically and strategically.

Peking was said to view with similar anxiety current Soviet moves for a Soviet-propagated European security system, because it believes they are intended to free Russia's hands in Europe and enable her to concentrate on China.

The Sino-Soviet border talks in Peking, now more than three years old, are deadlocked according to latest reports. But they are being kept alive in name, with both sides evidently anxious to keep a channel of communications open.

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI) — Becky Alexander, of Reardan, Wash., is the new Washington wheat queen, and it may present her some problems.

Becky told contest officials she's allergic to wheat.

Assailant drugged

MANILA (UPI) — Philippine government investigators have found evidence indicating that the man who stabbed first lady Imelda Marcos last Thursday was drugged, official sources said today.

The sources said it took seven bullets fired at close range to kill Carlito Dimailig, a 27-year-old geodetic engineer, after he attacked Mrs. Marcos with a 15-inch bolo knife at a public ceremony.

A search of Dimailig's clothes turned up several pills of the kind that would "tend to make one lose his will and follow auto suggestions," the sources said.

They said the probability that Dimailig was drugged before the incident bolstered the earlier theory of investigators that he was "not acting alone."

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford University, the first college in the United States to offer a credit course on fishing in 1931, has restored the course after nearly 30 years absence.

Arnold is an 800-pound, 2 1/2-year-old Hampshire boar who lives in the house. The Boccabellas say he is smarter than a dog or cat.

Until he grew too large he used to go for rides in the family car. Every night he

Japanese chiefs nervous

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP) is back in power for up to four more years, but its leaders and the businessmen who pay its campaign bills are nervous.

Results of the Dec. 10 voting for parliament showed LDP has not halted the most disturbing trend in Japanese politics — the rebellion of the city voter.

Unless Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka can win the city people back, LDP may be a minority party by the end of the 1970s.

The United States and her Asian allies like South Korea, Taiwan and Australia all have a stake in the situation. LDP is the only one of Japan's five political parties that supports the U.S.-Japan security treaty and is willing to tolerate American military and naval bases on Japan's soil.

The Communist and Socialist parties are opposed to the whole American role in the Orient. Getting rid of the approximately 80,000 Americans stationed in Japan — including Okinawa — is part of their permanent platform.

Moderate reform parties like Komel (Clean Government) and the Democratic LDP's urban dilemma was first noticed in 1967, when Ryokichi Minobe, running with Communist and Socialist support, was elected governor of Tokyo in a three-way race.

Gem board alters role

BOISE, (UPI) — After decades of immersion in administrative detail, the State Land Board soon may restrict its activities to making policy and hearing appeals.

State Auditor Joe R. Williams started the board down that road today with a formal proposal to turn administrative activities over to Land Department personnel for execution under board policy determinations.

While board members seemed to agree in concept with Williams' proposal they withheld action until next month's meeting because Secretary of State Pete T. Cennarus, lone Republican on the board, was absent.

Primarily, these duties require the board to appoint an executive officer, review upon appeal all his decisions in contested matters, determine policy and prescribe regulations.

He also cited giving the state land commissioner general supervision of all field work.

"In view of these laws and to expedite business, I move that the Land Board delegate to the land commissioner, as secretary of the Land Board and administrative head of the Department of Public Lands, the conduct of all administrative activities within policy determinations of the Land Board," Williams' formal motion said.

"The board will periodically review all actions of the land commissioner and will review upon appeal all decisions of the land commissioner in contested matters," he added.

In other business the board deferred pending a further check a motion to give Land Commissioner Gordon Frombley a five per cent pay increase.

The board agreed to renew for 10 years the special lease on state land at the Shoshone Ice Caves to Dora Turska. But the board also called for a review on site next Sept. 1 to determine whether unsightly litter has been removed and whether past due rental payments have been made.

The board also approved budgets for the Southern Idaho and the Clearwater-Potlatch Timber Protective Associations and agreed to sell 40 acres of state land near Lava Hot Springs sought by a snowmobile club.

Cassia aides tour schools

MALTA — Cassia School trustees completed the first day of a two-day tour of the district's schools with a meeting at Malta Monday.

The annual tour was completed Tuesday with visits to the schools at Oakley, Springdale and Declo.

Cassia Supt. Harold Blauer said the trustees were especially interested in determining the potential for expanded vocational education facilities in the district's four high schools.

The physical facilities of the elementary and junior high schools were also inspected closely, according to Blauer.

At the Raft River High School meeting Monday, the school officials voted to extend the contract of the superintendent, business manager and instructional director of the district.

The contracts, formerly for a three-year period, were extended to June 1975.

The Board also approved payment of one-half the cost of additional bleachers for the Raft River athletic field. Although the actual cost of the bleachers was higher than original estimates, the trustees decided to maintain the district's participation.

In other action the school officials:

- Approved the purchase of new auditorium seats for Burley Junior High School.
- Extended the district's bus route to include the Star's Ferry addition west of Burley.

Discussed school priorities that have been established by several groups of Cassia residents. Representatives from the groups plan to meet in the near future to draft a school bond proposal that could meet county-wide approval.

House burns at Filer

According to James DeVall, fire chief, the company took a fire truck from the Twin Falls Labor Camp to the fire after discovering the frozen pump.

The house, which was empty at the time of the fire, is one mile east and four miles south of Filer.

Blaine sees agreement on teacher

HAILEY — A final agreement between former Supt. Charles Clark and the Blaine School District is anticipated early next week.

During a regular meeting Monday night, the district board of trustees met in a brief executive session with Stratton Laggis, attorney for the district.

After the session, trustee chairman William Mallory said a final agreement is hopefully forthcoming and a joint statement will be released at that time.

Clark was relieved of his post by the board of trustees in late October.

During the meeting, extensive discussion was devoted to transportation provisions for students living in outlying areas.

The board moved to defer a decision on transportation for Tom Willard, whose parents live at Smiley Creek.

Acting Supt. Ray Jefferson said he will check with the Idaho Department of Education on the district's past policy of paying $10 per month per child in lieu of providing transportation and obtain a further statement on tuition costs to the Blaine district if Willard attends the Stanley grade school.

Under the proposed agreement the Willards would be required to provide transportation for their son to Osidian, the last bus pickup point for the Challis School District.

Trustee Jane Kneeland said she feels "parents should take the responsibility for educating their children whether they live in the city or the country."

The board also authorized afternoon bus transportation for children who live two miles beyond the paved portion of Warm Springs Road, but set a cut-off date for such service at Dec. 20.

Resumption date will be determined at a later time as road conditions warrant.

Jefferson said the U.S. Forest Service and the Idaho Fish and Game Department had recommended the road not be reopened in the winter. The district has no assurance the road will be plowed in time for bus service.

Further discussion centered on the avalanche hazard in the area.

Mallory said bus service to the area is currently being conducted in the afternoon, under an agreement made by Clark which has not been authorized by the board.

This year the district also pays "David Schjeldahl" a subsidy in lieu of transportation each morning for about six of the ten children in the area of Warm Springs.

In other action, Jefferson read a letter from the Minidoka School District on its school bus and driver policies.

Jerome rejects Appleton bid

JEROME — Trustees of the Jerome School District Monday night turned down a bid of $5,000 for purchase of the old Appleton School building.

Board Chairman Gordon Hollifield said only the one bid was received and it was far below the appraised value of the building.

In a related matter, Supt. John Campbell presented a proposal for possible use of Appleton School by the district. He told the board he had met with an official of the Child Development Center in Twin Falls, who recommended that the school could possibly be used as a training center for special education students who were trainable.

Campbell explained while the Child Development Center set up to make only evaluations of students, it would help in providing a staff for the school.

He said he contacted five of the eight school districts in the northside and they agreed to help in establishing the training center.

Campbell said there are presently 80 students on the northside who are in need of the special training program.

The superintendent said he contacted Ron Bent of the Idaho Department of Education and that Bent has offered his services to establish a program and to help apply for the federal and state grants which are available to pay the cost of such a project.

UN may reduce US budget share

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Diplomats predicted the U.N. General Assembly will vote approval today of a United States proposal to reduce its share of the world organization's budget by more than six per cent—from 31.52 to 25 per cent.

But the Soviet Union continued lobbying up to the last minute against the proposed reduction.

The vote came several weeks after the U.S. Congress itself voted to reduce the American share of the U.N. budget and after the Assembly's administrative and budget committee voted 67-30 with 32 abstentions on Dec. 1 to go along with Congress.

The reduction would become effective in 1974.

The committee vote exceeded the two-thirds majority diplomats said they expect opponents of the cut to demand in the Assembly vote today. The Soviet Union declared the cut discriminatory and its delegations have been working hard for the past two weeks, especially on the large number of countries that abstained from voting in the committee.

U.S. spokesman Nicholas L. King said the United States felt confident it would win over the assembly.

Soviet delegate Vasily S. Safronchuk, whose country already withholds payment of assessments for U.N. projects it disapproves, indicated his government might cut further its U.N. payments if the U.S. demand for a 6.5 per cent reduction is granted.

In addition to the budget assessed against the 132 members on a scale ranging from 31.52 per cent for the United States to 0.04 per cent for the poorest members, U.N. projects are financed in many cases on a voluntary basis.

U.S. Ambassador George Bush told delegates that U.S. contributions to voluntary funds, which have run as high as 45 per cent of the total, were not affected by the congressional action.

At the same time, he said the Soviet Union, assessed 14.18 per cent of the budget has paid less than five per cent of the costs of the voluntary programs.

Stewardesses object

NEW YORK (UPI) — Angered at "idiots who are making money by slandering us," two organizations representing airline stewardesses launched a drive Tuesday against commercials, books and movies which they feel degrade them.

"We are grabbed, pinched, felt and even slapped," Mrs. Judi Lindsey of Stewardesses for Women's Rights told a news conference.

"It is all very annoying and degrading," said Mrs. Joanna Chaplan, organizer of the Stewardess Antidiscrimination Defense League.

"We want to get across that we are dedicated, hard-working girls who resent being labeled as anything else by idiots who are making money by slandering us," said Mrs. Chaplan.

Mrs. Lindsey said airlines prevent stewardesses from objecting to the insulting treatment because they fear a passenger might become angry and fly another airline next time.

Pentagon Papers jury gripes of freedom loss

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Pentagon Papers jury, dismissed Tuesday to make way for a new one, complained its freedoms were taken away during the four-month recess when "everybody else in the world was able to talk about the case but us."

The jury was relieved of duty by U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne who earlier declared a mistrial for defendants Dr. Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo after an appeals court opinion that it would be "foolish" to proceed to trial with a jury subjected to long delays.

If Byrne rules against the defense challenge, selection of a new jury could begin next week.

"So if that's not taking your freedoms away, I don't know what is," he said. "Everybody else in the world was able to talk about the case but us."

Selection of a new jury was postponed pending a hearing Thursday on a defense challenge of the entire jury panel. Defense attorneys contend the panel does not contain enough 18-to-21-year old voters who are eligible to serve as jurors for the first time.

Ellsberg and Russo, former associates at the Rand Corp. "think tank," are charged with violating sections of the Espionage Act in the alleged theft and possession of the secret government documents which were leaked to the news media in July, 1971.

Authorities capture weapons in Manila

MANILA (UPI) — Military authorities said today they had captured hundreds of high-powered weapons in the Manila area in two raids this month, including rocket launchers and grenades intended for Communist urban guerrilla operations.

The weapons were believed to be the biggest arms cache seized by authorities since martial law was proclaimed Sept. 23. They were captured in separate raids on Dec. 2 and Dec. 12 in towns just outside the city limits, authorities said.

They said a raid Tuesday night turned up 300 assorted automatic rifles, several rocket launchers, several M16 rifles, 50,000 rounds of M16 ammunition and nine drums containing fragmentation grenades, ammunition, magazines and assorted spare parts for automatic weapons.

Foreign submarine lurks in Danish coast fjords

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — The Danish navy has decided against any immediate operation to pursue an unidentified foreign submarine spotted in the iceberg-choked fjords along the coast of Greenland, a Danish official said today.

"There is no doubt that a foreign submarine is lurking in the fjords but we have no clue on the identity," Defense Minister Kjeld Olesen said.

"We are not going to start a fulltime search before we have more information."

Defense Ministry spokesmen said there were no military installations in the area where the submarine was first reported Dec. 7. Three shrimp trawlers spotted the sub in Christian Shaab fjord halfway down the long west coast of Greenland, the world's largest island and a part of Denmark.

California books may oust Adam, Eve theory

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Adam and Eve, evicted long ago from the Garden of Eden, apparently aren't going to find a spot in California's public school science textbooks either.

Scientists seemed today to have won their struggle to keep the "creationist theory" of man out of the books.

But they were battling on the eve of a decisive State Board of Education meeting to prevent the evolutionary theories of Charles Darwin from being presented in the books as mere speculation.

S. Viet units pursue fleeing Red battalion

SAIGON (UPI) — A fresh South Vietnamese infantry regiment today joined the chase of a fleeing 700-man Communist unit 42 miles north of Saigon, military sources said. The Communists were reported to be among units that had tried to infiltrate through to Saigon. One battalion of the North Vietnamese force was trapped and crushed Sunday night and Monday. The military sources said the remaining two battalions were found Tuesday and immediately put under heavy pressure.

The new 2,700-man South Vietnamese regular infantry regiment of the 23rd Division today joined a militia regiment of similar size to try and break up the remainder of the Communist force. The North Vietnamese carried handkerchiefs imprinted with a statement that they were to be the liberators of Saigon.

The infantrymen found and destroyed a 20-bed Communist hospital in the rubber plantation jungle country south of Tay Ninh City, 50 miles northwest of Saigon, and also destroyed a number of bunkers and hundreds of pounds of rice. Contact with the Communists was sporadic and officers said they believed the North Vietnamese were trying to get back to their sanctuaries in Cambodia, about 10 miles away.

Tay Ninh, just across the border from Cambodia, has been mentioned in Paris newspapers as the Communists' choice for any North-South Vietnamese negotiations that might follow a cease-fire. The Communists made frequent efforts over the years to capture and hold Tay Ninh as a seat for a Viet Cong government but never succeeded.

Far to the north, South Vietnamese paratroopers and marines on the rain-soaked Quang Tri front killed 117 North Vietnamese in a series of battles lasting for two days, military sources reported. Only 17 South Vietnamese were reported wounded in the fights; the Saigon command said.

One of the four U.S. aircraft carriers offshore — the USS Ranger — was hobbled by a fire in the main machinery room today, the command reported. Eight sailors were treated for smoke inhalation. The huge carrier remained on station while making repairs to some damaged pumps and wiring. An investigation was begun to determine the cause of the fire, the command said.

A Thailand-based U.S. Air Force RF-4 reconnaissance jet was shot down last Saturday by a Communist surface-to-air missile over North Vietnam, 45 miles southwest of the port city of Thanh Hoa, the U.S. command said. Both crewmembers were listed as missing.

Navy denies sabotage in new carrier blaze

SAIGON (UPI) — A fire broke out in the main machinery room of the aircraft carrier USS Ranger today while the ship was conducting combat operations against Communist targets in South Vietnam, the Navy announced.

Eight men working in the machinery room, housing the 60,000-ton ship's turbines and reduction gear, were treated for smoke inhalation, a Navy spokesman said. No other injuries were reported.

"Sabotage has been ruled out in this thing. There is no indication whatsoever that it was caused by any kind of malicious act," a Navy spokesman said.

About 12 of the Ranger's 80 aircraft, returning from bombing strikes, had to be diverted to the big joint U.S.-South Vietnamese Bien Hoa Air Base, 14 miles northeast of Saigon, a Navy spokesman said.

Cause of the blaze was unknown and was under investigation, the Navy said in a statement.

The Navy statement said the exact extent of the damage was undetermined, but the initial investigation showed that "some pumps and electrical wiring in the machinery room have been damaged." However, the ship remained on station off the coast of South Vietnam's five northern provinces and continued combat operations.

Discipline probed

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The October race riot aboard the carrier Kitty Hawk that left 46 men injured is a part of but not "the major problem" in the Navy's discipline troubles, according to the head of a House Armed Services Committee team.

Rep. Floyd V. Hicks, D-Wash., who presided over six days of secret hearings that concluded Tuesday, said the focus of the probe was on the Navy's disciplinary problems as a whole.

"I think that basically the system is excellent all through out the Navy," Hicks said without revealing the substance of testimony that ranged from top Navy officials to Kitty Hawk crewmen.

Hicks also criticized the news media for blowing up racial disorders on the Kitty Hawk and its sister carrier Constellation, which had been the subject of a congressional inquiry last month.

"You're tinkering with some little things along the way," Hicks said. "Too much is made of the racial problems, and that's made by you gentlemen because that's something you can stir on," he told newsmen.

The Kitty Hawk rioting among blacks, Marines and white crewmembers occurred Oct. 12-13 and apparently was prompted by a series of misunderstandings which were not detailed by the committee.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever available without prescription: doctors dispense again and again — Anacin.

Each year doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend more than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast, minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours, even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset. When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin!

Christmas tree safety stressed

SHOSHONE — "Lighting and decorating — at Christmastime can be fun," Mrs. Jean Annest, home economics agent for the University of Idaho Extension service, said today.

"It should be safe, too," Mrs. Annest warns and she gives suggestions to make it more safe.

"Keep the tree standing in water from the day it is brought home until it is taken down."

"Buy only light strings certified by the Underwriters' Laboratories. Even if the strings have the UL approved label, after many years of use, cords become frayed and sockets damaged. They should be checked carefully."

"Always use washer rings in all sockets. On indoor strings to keep decorations from getting into sockets, on outdoor strings to keep water from seeping into sockets. As an added precaution, hang the sockets downward on outdoor trees.

Insulated staples should be used to hold light strings in place, not nails, tacks or brads.

Wiring systems should not be overloaded. If other lights in the house dim when the tree is lighted, disconnect other electrical equipment when the tree lights are on.

If a tree has a "spotty look, it is because there are too few lights. For a spectacular sparkling tree the following is recommended:

Four-foot-high tree requires 35 lights; five foot, 56 lights; six foot, 77 lights; seven foot, 102 lights; eight foot, 140 lights and 10 foot, 210 lights.

A Lovelier You

THE SEASON'S GREETING

By Mary Sue Miller

The poise and grace of a woman's gestures never go unnoticed. An everyday action like shaking hands can signal winning qualities or their lack.

We are all aware, of course, that a deadpan face and dead-fish handshake hardly serve to express warm sentiments. The point often missed is that a perfunctory smile and shake often seem to originate from habit rather than from the heart.

It takes a bit of "body English" to produce a sincere impression. You have to reach forward, toward the other person. The movement starts in the hip joints and ends with arm and hand well extended. For the sake of grace, the back and head are held in a straight line. No curvatures!

If you stiffen up in making the gesture, try this limbering routine: Fling arms overhead and, letting all motion come from waist, sway from side to side. Next kneel, back erect, and touch hips to heels, rise quickly to starting position and continue for 10 counts.

However graceful, an outgoing gesture can express only part of a greeting. The mind and heart must go into it. A smile in the eyes mingles the smile in the mind. The warmth in the voice echoes the warmth in the heart. Your messages of good will come through with a graciousness that just might make them stick.

Coeds used as guinea pigs on pills

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A Ralph Nader research group says women students at many universities are being used as guinea pigs for a "morning-after-pill" to prevent pregnancy despite "strong evidence" that it causes cancer.

Dr. Sidney M. Wolfe, director of the Health Research Group, based here, said in a letter to the National Student Association (NSA) that the drug, called, diethyl stilbestrol (DES), is given to coeds "without even the most rudimentary obser-vanee of professional standards and informed consent."

The organization also sent letters and copies of its report on DES to the Food and Drug Administration and the University of Michigan, one of the colleges said to be dispensing the pill through its health service.

The group said DES is being used to prevent pregnancy following intercourse. In the 1940's and 1950's it was given to tens of thousands of women as an agent to prevent miscarriage. The group said 100 daughters of these women treated years ago are known to have developed vaginal cancer.

Wolfe asked Robben W. Fleming, president of the University of Michigan, to replace controls on "the use of unapproved drugs at the health service." He said "experiments on students should be conducted only with the close supervision of an institutional review committee."

He urged Food and Drug

Commissioner Charles C. Edwards to place controls on DES. Asked about the report, an FDA spokesman, Jack Wladen, said the agency was investigating the safety of DES.

"There is strong evidence that DES causes cancer," Wolfe said in his letter to the university. Wolfe wrote Edwards that "rapid action needs to be taken to avert—if it is not already too late—a possible second cancer epidemic from DES."

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: By coincidence, a woman named Bonnie has a phone number similar to ours, and I keep getting calls for her. My wife works nights and I am home alone in the evening so I started having a little fun when people would call up asking for Bonnie.

One night last week a guy called for Bonnie and I said she was in the shower but she'd be out in a minute. The guy on the other end of the phone said, "Well, I'm her husband and you'd better be out of that house before I get home or I'll blow your head off!" Then he hung up.

That evening on the TV news they reported a local shooting. It seemed a husband came home and found his wife with another guy so he shot him, and the guy was in critical condition. The husband admitted the shooting, and said he warned the guy on the phone to get out of his house.

Phone game

Bonnie's name and address were in the evening newspaper. I looked it up in the phone book and the number was the same as ours—only the last two numbers were reversed!

Now this has taught me a good lesson, but here's my question: Should I confess this phone bit to the authorities? STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL

DEAR CON: Whether it will make a difference to the authorities to learn that the husband thought he had given the victim fair warning is anybody's guess. But in matters that deal with the law, tell your story to a lawyer and let HIM handle it. This is no laughing matter.

DEAR ABBY: When one child in the family gets a birthday present, should the other child get a present, too? Many parents do this so the other child won't feel hurt, left out, or jealous.

It seems to me that this teaches a child to expect a present whenever someone else in the family gets one, and if he doesn't he is very disappointed.

What is your view?

FORT BENNING MOM

DEAR MOM: It's thoughtful to take a little gift to the other child, but it should be only a token. Children need to learn how to stand on the sidelines while a sibling has the limelight on his special day. Each child will have his turn, and if he must share his "special day," it ceases to be "special."

DEAR ABBY: I am a singer and have been told by many that I should sing professionally, but I prefer to remain an amateur because I have family obligations, which I consider more important than a career.

Recently I was invited to sing for a local civic club. I rehearsed many hours on a well-planned program and presented it from memory perfectly. (I accompanied myself on the piano.) Afterwards, I received no gift, nor memento for my performance, nor did I receive as much as a "thank you" note from the organization. Furthermore, when the event was reported in the newspaper, my name was omitted.

I have found that this has happened to many musicians who have been asked to play for civic and social organizations. It's even happened when musicians are asked to play or sing at weddings and funerals.

Why are people and reporters so thoughtless?

NEVER SING AGAIN

DEAR NEVER: I don't know, but I'm sure your complaint is valid because I have heard it often.

CSI Madrigals present program

TWIN FALLS — The CSI Madrigals, minus their director, presented a special Christmas program for the Twin Falls Music Club Tuesday at the Turf Club.

The choir was introduced by Mrs. Albert Allen, program chairman, who announced Gene Mildon, director of the Madrigals, was ill, but program selections were announced by Delsa Allen. The program was highlighted by solos and duets by Miss Allen and Laura Brandon. Holly Gordon served as accompanist.

Shirley DeLuca, president, was in charge of the business meeting. Shirley Hazen, hymnologist, gave a history of the hymn of the month, "The Angels' Song," which was played on violins by Lori and Terry Bingham, accompanied by Barbara Bingham.

Yearbooks were distributed and Mrs. DeLuca asked all members to support the various high school and college music concerts. She also announced "The King and I" will be presented in February by the College of Southern Idaho.

The next meeting is set for 8 p.m. Jan. 8 at the YM-YWCA, with Mrs. Henry Coier as program chairman.

The Twin Falls Music Club is affiliated with the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Style, elegance combined

United Press International Fashion elegance, it seems, will no longer be synonymous only with the pacesetters of Italy and France, now that Germany's most sought-after fashion designer, Ottavio Schiavina, has unveiled his fabulous collection of originals.

His casually elegant and youthful Spring and Summer fashions were previewed at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel and sponsored by Lufthansa German Airlines.

His fashions pulsate with a vibrance brought about only when grace, elegance, and style are combined with an array of paradise prints, polka dots, plaids, stripes, abstracts, and bright flowers strewn over wide bands of silk.

Richter makes his creations one fluid motion after another. His designs have soft, swinging lines, while long skirts have playful pleats with backless tops. The batwing sleeve is featured while jackets are often playful pleats with backless flared coats with fitted fronts.

He emphasizes color in his fashions, going from warm gleaming pinks, vivid jades, Spanish greens, and electric blues, to natural tones of camel and caramel to complement the warm brown tones of summer tans.

Advice about pets

DENVER (UPI) — Pets make great Christmas gifts, but an American Humane Association official has one word of advice for persons giving a dog or cat as a "surprise" present: Don't.

"The only real problem in giving a pet at Christmas time is doing it without alerting anyone that it's going to happen," said Milton Searle, director of animal protection services.

"We recommend that if someone intends to give a dog or cat as a pet at Christmas time for children in a family, they should at least ask the parents if it is acceptable. We feel this is very necessary."

Some people recommend that pets be given before or after the excitement of Christmas day, but Searle said that's not necessary.

"It takes the Santa Claus part of it out of Christmas, and it doesn't do the animal any real harm to be given at Christmas time, as long as the parents are aware that it's going to happen," he said.

Where the problem arises is when someone walks in with it on Christmas morning or Christmas eve, and no one has any knowledge of it coming," he said. "We recommend that at least the parents of the children be called and given the opportunity to say we don't want it."

Pregnancy tests unreliable

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said Tuesday two commercially sold tests for pregnancy — Ova 11 and LPT — were unreliable.

The FDA said the makers had complied with its request to withdraw the products tests from the market.

OVA 11 is distributed by Faraday Laboratories, Hillsdale, N.J., for sale in drug stores without prescription. It has been advertised with the slogan: "When you want to be the first to know."

LPT is for professional use only and is made and distributed by La Mar Laboratories, Oceanside, N.Y.

The FDA said its tests had shown the products to be inaccurate, unreliable and prone to give false results.

Book Review

By ELAINE NESBITT
Twin Falls Public Library

Could it be? Could it possibly be. "I wish it otherwise," she said. "I wish God had chosen some other one." These are the words of Hannah, the mother of Mary, watching Mary leave with Joseph. There had always been plans for Mary's wedding: the happy procession, the torches, music, and the feast, and now her daughter is being led off to live in a small crowded cave.

The talk — oh, the talk; the stories; Mary had betrayed Joseph with a peddler, or Mary and Joseph had been carrying on for years, or Cleophas had had his way with Mary.

When the decree came for Joseph to go to Bethlehem, the place of his birth and be registered and counted, Hannah recalled the words of Nicah. "Therefore, will he give them up, until the time that she which travaileth hath brought forth. My God, my God," she cried, "wherefore have you denied me this truth so long?"

The author calls this "the greatest love story of all time, told for the first time as a love story. The love story between two people chosen by God to provide an earthly home for His Son. 'I love you, Mary Joseph said. 'This child is truly a child of love, sent to us because we love each other so much.'"

South's six no-trump call was one of those match point duplicate bids. He wanted the extra match points that success in a no-trump slam would bring.

Unfortunately for his match point score, South worked out a way to go down five tricks. It was easy for him to do this because south was one of those unlucky experts.

He won the 'spade' lead and led a diamond to his ace. West false-carded with the 10-spot and South went into a trance. Could that 10 be a singleton?

South decided to try to get some sort of count. He played his ace-king of clubs and East dropped a spade. That marked West with five clubs.

Now South played the king and ace of hearts and West dropped a club on the second heart lead.

South's next play was to cash dummy's queen of clubs, which produced a heart discard from East.

Now he had to go after diamonds and, after a series of agonizing headaches, he finessed the nine. West took his jack and East and West gathered in the rest of the tricks.

An ordinary player would not have fallen for that 10 of diamonds play. In fact, he would probably have ignored it entirely.

A real expert would also have taken the right line. West was not vulnerable. In order for that 10 of diamonds to be a singleton, West would have held six spades and would surely have stuck in some sort of spade overcall.

Governors promote tourism

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Three Pacific northwest governors want the newly-created Pacific Northwest Economic Development Regional Commission to try to broaden the area's tourist industry into a year-round operation.

Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon is the commission's co-chairman along with U.S. Commerce Department official Jack Padric of Chehalis, Wash. Governors Dan Evans of Washington and Cecil Andrus of Idaho represent their states on the commission.

McCall said it was important to broaden the tourist industry into a year-round program from the current summer influx and he called this one of the major projects of the commission, which is designed to spark new energy into economic planning in the northwest.

He called for efforts to influence the spreading of the tourist industry over the year to avoid "destroying the environment they came to enjoy."

McCall said Hawaii and Alaska may ultimately become members of the commission, although Alaskan Gov. William Egan said he would like his state to have its own commission.

Governor Evans of Washington praised the commission as one affording a chance to "give guidance to our own growth" and said there is "considerable opinion that there is a responsibility to determine how fast the growth should be."

Policemen won't shoot

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Under a new policy beginning today, city policemen will not be able to fire their weapons in cases of "ordinary burglary," rape, auto theft or child molesting unless there is a threat of death or severe injury.

In general, the new firearms order issued by Police Chief William J. Kinney prohibits an officer from firing unless a felonious crime involving the use of deadly force has been, or is about to be, committed.

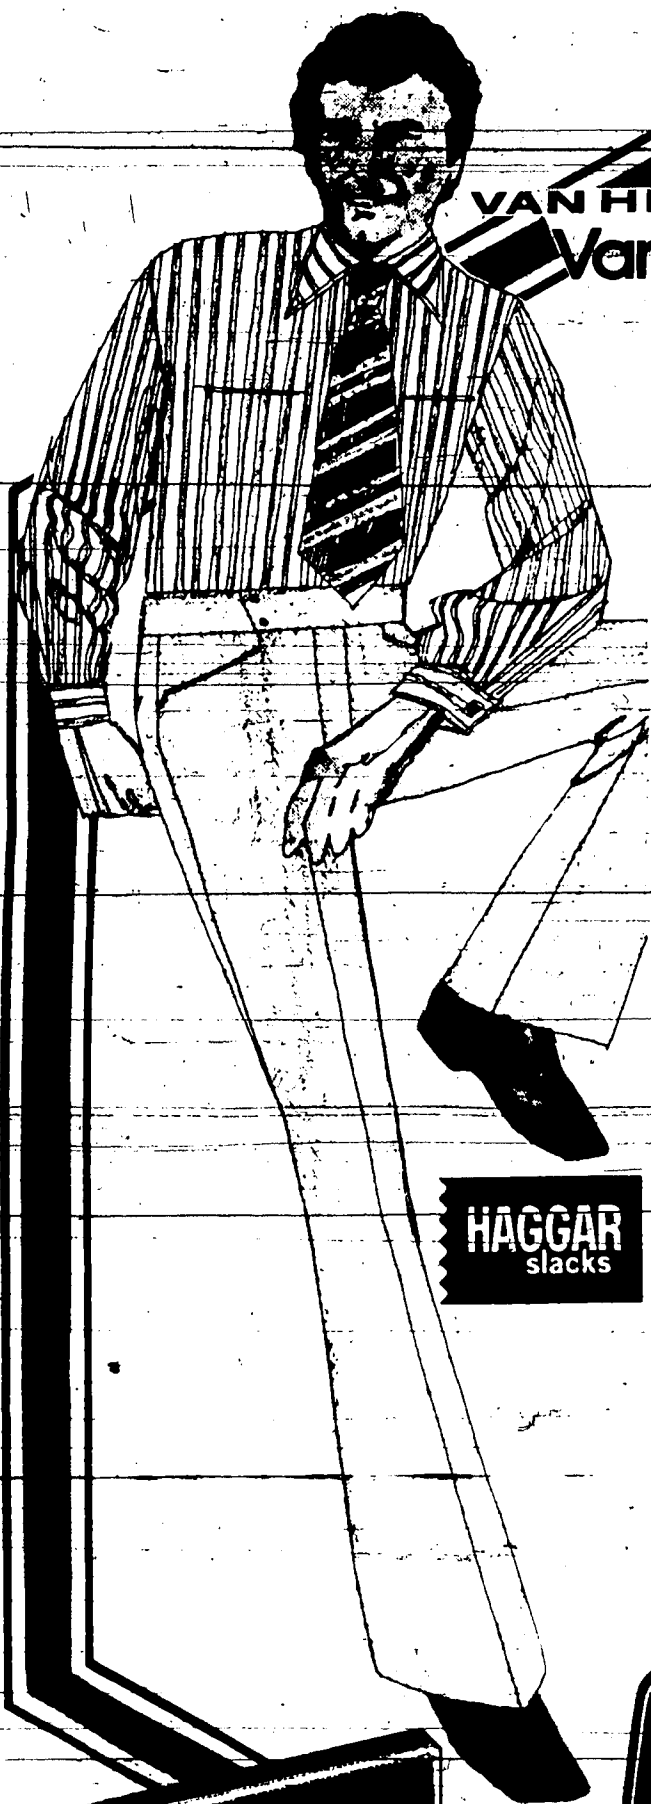

A proposed firearms policy has been under consideration for several months, but it became the object of controversy last week when a 15-year-old high school football star was shot to death by police who mistook him for a member of a band of robbers.

The Policemen's Association had strongly opposed earlier proposals of a firearms order, but withdrew its opposition over the weekend when Kinney made modifications in the policy.

December's 'snow' time for threshing

By MIKE ROBERTSON
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — It's "snow" time to be threshing beans with the white stuff on the ground and the mercury dropping far below zero.

That is exactly what Ross Ward, a Twin Falls area farmer, thinks, even though he is harvesting beans this week.

This is not the time he wanted it done, but with a few mix-ups with the seed company and harvesters, the beans ended up snowed under before they could be harvested.

Ward had about 80 acres planted and the majority were harvested before the snows came. His contractor is now in the process of harvesting the 10 to 11 acres left.

He said the beans are contract garden beans, contracted to Haney Seed Co. Ward said they are getting about 60 per cent of the beans in the crop versus about 90 per cent when the beans were harvested at the proper time earlier in the year.

The combine being used is a specialty remodeled thresher designed by Updike Research and Agrow Seed Co. Research. Ward said the machine isn't especially designed to harvest the beans in the snow. It is just being used for the purpose.

In order for the harvester to pick up the bean plants, snow was knocked off the windrows with a siderake. The windrows have to be turned over into a bare row so the harvester can then pick them up.

A worker has to follow the harvester with a pitchfork to help it pick up the windrowed plants.

Ward said theoretically the beans should freeze hard and thresh out easily in this cold weather.

However, many are fairly soft, but on inspection, the beans appear to be in good shape.

The beans are being dug in the snow this time because Ward's contractor needed them, but he hopes he doesn't have to ever do it in the snow again.

Solons, county leaders mull legislative plans

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer
JEROME — Proposed legislation to facilitate the administration of county government was aired here Tuesday by area legislators and county commissioners.

The Fifth District County Commission Association met in the Jerome County Courthouse with legislators as their guests. Attending were Rep. Earl Greenawalt, R-Jerome; Sen. elect, James Yost, R-Wendell; Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls; Rep. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls; Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl; Sen. Steve Antone, R-Rupert; Rep. elect, Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, and Rep. Robert Saxvik, D-Burley. Merl E. Leonard, Twin Falls County commissioner, asked the legislators to consider some important changes in the state's election laws.

He said the registration books should be closed at least five days prior to an election as the present three-day limit which does not give county clerks, employees time to prepare election books for the polls.

Leonard said during the past general and primary elections county clerks offices were required to have additional employees and to work many night and Sunday hours to meet the deadlines.

"We feel this causes an undue hardship on the clerks offices and they should be given more time to get their books ready and to the polling places," Leonard said.

Sen. Barker informed the commissioners the present law resulted from several court cases. In other states, filed because of the new residency requirements which say a person may reside in an area only one day and be eligible to vote.

Barker said he will submit the recommendation to the Judicial Council but did not hold much hope of it passing.

Rep. Greenawalt said he plans to submit a proposal to the legislature asking write-in candidates who have announced plans to seek office and who are actively campaigning for office be required to pay the filing fees for the office they seek.

"I don't think these candidates should be given a free ride. It costs just as much if not more for the clerks to count their names on the ballot," the representative said.

Commissioners also asked for clarification as to who has the authority in regard to public health laws relating to zoning.

Leonard explained as it now stands the Health Department approves the planning of a sewer system for a subdivision or a septic tank for a private home and plans are then brought to the zoning commission and may be rejected here because it's felt construction would endanger the underground water supply or have a detrimental effect on the surrounding area.

It was pointed out by Senator Barker and reaffirmed by several of the other legislators that under the present law the county commissioners have the authority to set regulations to govern their own areas except on public land and for major industries.

Blaine re-census now under study

HAILEY — A county re-census is currently under study by the Blaine county commissioners.

During a regular meeting Monday, commission chairman Ray Sweet said information for re-censusing will be sought from the U. S. Department of Commerce, and area mayors will be contacted to determine interest.

The plan was first proposed by Ketchum mayor, Kenneth Richey, who told the commission that he felt Ketchum would "definitely go ahead with a re-census, but would wait if a county-wide re-census was approved."

Commissioner Jack Bennett said a re-census would be "beneficial to all of us" in determining a population figure for state and federal funds. "We are just too behind on our census count," Bennett said.

With a county population set at 5,749 in 1970, county clerk Marie Ivie said voter registration had increased by 1,000 in two years. Figures compiled by J. C. Hammond, chairman of a Blaine County health study group, indicated county population has increased 15 per cent a year.

Richey said a re-census for Ketchum, based on a 1,600 population, would cost $1,090.

In other action, the commissioners approved a $10,000 allocation from the road and bridge fund for the new Warm Springs Bridge, under a previous agreement with Ketchum.

Tabled for further discussion was a request by Hailey attorney Steve Clayton for appointment as public defender. George Kneeland, Ketchum, currently holds the post.

Clayton said with an office in Hailey travel time and expenses would be cut and "better services" would be provided to the defendant.

Approved during the meeting were two beer licenses for the Moonstone Lodge and station, located off state highway 68, between Bellevue and Fairfield.

Hazelton school closed today

HAZELTON — Grade school students in Hazelton were out of school again today because of failure of the boiler in the school's heating system.

Wind, snow and cold temperatures have closed schools in the east end of Jerome County several times in recent weeks.

Supt. Dr. Tom Utterback said classes will resume on schedule Thursday. The Valley High School and Eden grade school were both open today.

Students were being dismissed at noon today in the high school and Eden grade school so teachers could attend a preliminary report on reevaluation of the Valley School District. The meeting is conducted by Idaho Department of Education officials from Boise.

Elsewhere in Magic Valley, weather weary residents were still traveling on icy and snow covered highways but enjoying warmer temperatures.

Idaho Department of Highways officials in Shoshone said all areas had new snow in light amounts with snowfall continuing Wednesday except near Galena where weather was clear.

State Highway 75 which runs between Sun Valley and Chilly is closed and will remain closed for the winter, officials said.

Motorists were advised all roads and highways in the district have icy spots, new snow and in most cases snow showers. Snow was falling this morning near the Utah and Nevada state lines.

Discuss proposals

Kellwood gets 2nd bomb threat

TWIN FALLS — For the second time within two weeks production at Kellwood Co. has been stalled by a bomb threat.

An unidentified caller told the Kellwood receptionist Tuesday "There is a real bomb in the plant this time." Kellwood had also received a bomb threat on Dec. 1.

The receptionist told police the caller had a "young man's voice." Police and supervisory personnel searched the plant but did not find a bomb.

According to law enforcement officials, Kellwood released employees for the afternoon following the bomb threat at 12:27.

Apparently, it was less disruptive to release employees than to release them and call them back to work later in the afternoon.

Officials at Kellwood could not be contacted for a statement on this or the number of employees released, or the costs of production losses.

Police are investigating the incident.

Heyburn man named to board

RUPERT — Roger Brown, 33, Heyburn, was appointed to the Minidoka County School board Monday night. He assumes the trustee position left vacant in October when Leo Moore resigned as Heyburn zone representative.

Moore, an eight-year veteran of the school board, moved to another zone.

A Buhl native, Brown moved to Heyburn in 1964 and is now employed by the Pacific Supply Cooperative as area sales representative.

He is a member of the Emerson Grange, Burley Presbyterian Church and the PTA and serves on the Boy Scout review board.

He and his wife, the former Darlene Beavet, Heyburn, are the parents of three children. Brown was sworn into office by Doyle Lowder, assistant superintendent, and will serve on the board until the trustee election next spring.

Home damaged

KETCHUM — Fire caused minor damage to an East Fork home Tuesday night.

According to Bill Brand, volunteer fireman for the Ketchum Rural Fire District, the fire began about 10 p.m. in the chimney of the David Barovetto residence, presently occupied by the Toby Reed family and spread to the exterior of the house, located about one half mile up East Fork.

Two trucks and about 20 volunteer firemen responded to the call. No injuries were reported.

Hagerman takes option on land

HAGERMAN — School trustees have taken an option on five acres of land for possible location of a grade school.

The board took the action Monday night on a tract east of Hagerman owned by Elwood Grimes.

Supt. Kenneth Black said there are no definite plans now for a new grade school but the $100 option was taken in case the board should decide to build.

The option will remain in force for six months.

Black said the Hagerman trustees are also studying the feasibility of a special education program for the district, but would prefer to conduct it jointly with another district.

The board also:

- Hired Mrs. Grace Slatter, Filer, to teach reading, arts and crafts in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.
- Gave the merchants' basketball team permission to use the school gymnasium on Sunday afternoons.

Approved use of the gymnasium by the fourth, fifth and sixth grade basketball teams for games on Wednesday nights.

Jerome school trustees hear special report

JEROME — A special report on the Idaho State Trustees Association was presented to the Jerome School Board at its regular meeting Monday night.

Gordon Hollifield, chairman of the board, reported on several resolutions proposed by the ISTA and other priorities set by the association at its annual convention in Boise which he attended.

Hollifield said the highest priority at the ISTA convention was the appropriation, by the legislature, of enough money to make $132,306,000 available for the maintenance and operation fund expenditures for the 1973-74 school year. He said that the figure is based on information collected from school districts for the 1972-73 school year plus a 5.5 per cent increase.

Hollifield said that the second priority which was decided by the executive committee dealt with school district organization. "The resolution states that any reorganization be ratified by a majority vote of the school patrons of each district involved separately." He said that the two priorities are the subjects of the ad hoc education committee report. The chairman told the board, another resolution asked that local control of the schools be reaffirmed as a primary principal of importance and recommends that the 42nd Legislature enact legislation prohibiting state agencies, with the exception of the state department of education, from interfering with local controls.

Two other resolutions accepted at the convention state in part that local authorization authority should have the right to extend and enrich their local programs and that every child regardless of location within the state has the right of educational opportunity equal to that of any other child in the state.

Hollifield said he felt the two resolutions contradicted one another.

He said that six other resolutions would move authority and responsibility from the local level to the state level.

These include the areas of insurance, kindergartens, vocational education for grades one through twelve, employee retirement, assessment of real and personal property, and the replacement of inventory phase-out money.

With the exception of the last one, these resolutions asked for increased services and additional expenditures from the state level. "Hollifield said.

"Another resolution advocates the raising of the authorized bonded indebtedness for school districts from 15 to 20 per cent of the assessed valuation, Hollifield said.

He said that although the proposal advocates a raise in property tax, the people would retain the right to vote on bonds.

Hollifield said a report was given on the financial statement of the trustees association which showed that the association last year over extended its revenue by $20,982.49 and that the proposed budget for next year also shows an expenditure of $14,245.20 over anticipated revenue.

"A fifty per cent increase in association membership dues was approved by the delegates after they were informed by Allen Smith, executive secretary, that if the members would not accept the increase the executive board would be faced with cutting substantially on association services," Hollifield said.

Food vending machines planned on trial basis

TWIN FALLS — A recommendation by a student leader apparently has convinced Twin Falls school trustees to install food vending machines at the high school.

Michael Sass, the student body president at the Twin Falls High School, told the school trustees Tuesday night that food vending machines would provide better meals than the snack bar "Twinkies" purchased by some students not eating hot lunches at the school.

"I like the idea," Sass said. "A lot of guys would like to buy something without going out without a car."

Sass was asked his opinion by board Chairman John Wolfe after several trustees including Wolfe expressed reservations about the machines.

Wolfe had objected that the introduction of vending machines could set a precedent opening the door to other vendors seeking to install their machines.

Further, he said, the vending machines could "cut out a balanced diet to these kids, at higher costs... it doesn't make sense."

Mrs. Evelyn Beck, district hot lunch director, said "You're right, Mr. Wolfe. It doesn't make sense. But I feel if they're going to go to the drive-ins, I feel we should get some of their money for the school district."

On the motion of trustee Howard Ronk, the vending machines would be installed on a trial basis for the remainder of the school year.

Their continued use would be conditional, Dr. Ronk said, on student efforts to clean up litter associated with the machines.

FB aide warns of problems ahead

Wednesday, December 13, 1972 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 19

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Roger Fleming, secretary-treasurer of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said in his annual report today that while farmers and ranchers made great strides in the last session of Congress there are major questions to consider in 1973.

"A glance back shows that the 92nd Congress enacted legislation of considerable significance to farmers and ranchers," Fleming said. "Of most direct interest were the new Rural Development Act, the revised Farm Credit Act, and the Federal Environmental Pesticide Control Act."

But he said farmers were stymied in efforts to get legislation in a number of fields, including laws to deal with transportation strikes, guidelines for farm labor relations and legislation to create a better climate for farm bargaining with respect to contract terms by associations and producers.

"We were unable to get sufficient support to substitute our tax credit proposal, in lieu of the administration's proposal for general revenue sharing, which was adopted," Fleming said.

"We successfully opposed efforts to institute a multi-billion dollar national health insurance scheme, to establish a so-called consumer protection agency, to establish farm commodity strategic reserves, and to adopt unwise electoral reforms."

He said in 1973 three separate and often opposing groups will be trying to influence congressional action relating to agriculture.

"You won't be surprised when I suggest that farm and ranch families, themselves, should be the most important of these groups. Next to the farmers and ranchers; themselves, numerically the largest groups of those who seek to control agriculture is made up of planners and political activists."

Fleming said the latter group advocates government farm programs that appear to be designed to preserve the small family farm.

"Instead of providing a healthy, prosperous agriculture, they would force family farmers into a sort of government managed peasantry," he said. "The end-point of the economic and political philosophy they espouse would be to make agriculture a public utility. They won't admit that is their purpose but it is."

The farm federation also heard today from Frank E. Fitzsimmons, general president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, who cautiously welcomed the group into the labor alliance.

"We in organized labor welcome an alliance with farmers whether they be of the family farm variety or the agribusiness variety — when that alliance works for the mutual benefit of the farm worker, and his employer," Fitzsimmons said.

But he also criticized the AFBF for its lack of communication and its support of compulsory open shop.

"If it is the combined input of farmers, labor, business, farm workers and agribusiness that makes up our competitive position, your support of compulsory open shop can only be seen as an attempt to strengthen your competitive position at the expense of workers," he said.

Market report given

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Livestock Marketing Association marketed 52,000 pounds of wool and 2,500 lambs for its 71 members during 1972.

This was reported Monday at the annual meeting of association members in the Holiday Inn.

Members also elected Charles Potucek, Kimberly, president. He succeeds Louis Alastra, Hazelton.

Other 1973 officers include Ferris Sweet, Twin Falls, vice president; M. F. Custer, Twin Falls, treasurer, and Donald Youtz, Twin Falls, re-elected secretary.

Directors are Earl O'Harrow and Custer, Twin Falls; F. V. Morrison, Murtaugh, and Ralph Baisch, Eden, all re-elected for three-year terms.

Speakers during the afternoon program included Wade Wells, University of Idaho extension livestock specialist, Boise; L. M. Williams, secretary, Idaho Wool Growers Association, Boise; Laird Noh, director, Idaho Woolgrowers Association, Kimberly; Fred Gilbert, area extension livestock specialist, Twin Falls, and Richard Fuehrer, extension agricultural agent in charge of 4-H club programs, Twin Falls.

ASCS officers elected in TF

TWIN FALLS — Farmers have elected Milton Ballard, Kimberly, to serve a three-year term on the Twin Falls County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservative Committee.

Ballard replaces Austin Moore, Hansen, who has served three times and must retire after the third term.

Carry-over members are Guy Kinyon, Castleford, serving the third year of a three-year term, and Carl Boyd, Twin Falls, serving his second year of a three-year term.

Boyd will be chairman of the county committee; Ballard, vice chairman, and Kinyon, regular member.

Newly elected alternates are Jack Claiborn Jr., Kimberly, and Kenneth Poe, Twin Falls.

The election was Monday at the county ASC office in Twin Falls.

Elected were farmers chosen as convention delegates at recent community committee elections throughout Twin Falls County.

The ASC county and community farmer's committees are in charge of local administration of ASC farm programs.

Sale vote planned

DENVER (UPI) — Great Western United Corp. said Monday the intended sale of its Great Western Sugar subsidiary to the Great Western Producers Cooperative will result in writeoffs of about $3.9 million as a charge against fiscal 1973 earnings.

Shareholders are to vote on the $51.6 million deal Thursday. Proceeds of the sale will be used to pay up dividend arrearages and retire the $1.88 cumulative preferred stock at a price of $20 a share. The company also has revealed it is considering selling two other subsidiaries—Great Western Sugar Shakey's Inc., which is in the Pizza Parlor Franchise business, and Great Western Cities, a land developer.

If the sugar company and the land company both are sold, the company's listing on the New York Stock exchange would be jeopardized, the proxy material for Thursday's meeting disclosed. Officers of the company already have taken substantial pay cuts.

A no-host luncheon will be in the cafeteria at noon and the seminar sessions conclude at 3 p.m.

Speakers during the day include George Cleveland and Ed Fiez, University of Idaho extension dairymen; Dean Christensen, director of the bureau of dairying; Don Papenburg, Idaho Dairy Products Commission, and representatives from several dairy milking equipment manufacturers.

A similar program is planned for Wednesday in the Ponderosa Inn, Burley.

Undefeated CSI, Utah State meet

Undefeated College of Southern Idaho meets the undefeated Utah State jayvees in the major pre-Christmas home test of the Eagles. Wednesday night.

The Eagles, now 6-0 and the Utah Staters have built up a bitter rivalry over the years and this one would appear no different. The Utags will have one more thing going for them, however, as they will play some sophomores for the first time in the series.

"They aren't overpoweringly big but they are supposed to have good quickness and their statistics show they have scorers," says Coach Jerry Hale.

The Utags' top scorer is 6-1 guard Reed Thomas, who is averaging 20 points per game. He is a sophomore. Their two forwards, Darrell Owens, 6-5, and Steve Lang, 6-6, are hitting at 19 and 18 points pre game, respectively. The other guard, Rupp, is averaging 12 points.

"They defeated Ricks at Rexburg, which is always tough to do, by 12 points," Coach Hale said. "They also have beaten the Utah (University) jayvees, the jayvees from Southern Utah, and two Salt Lake City AAU teams I know nothing about. Utah State has always been tough for us and from their record and lineup I see no reason to expect anything else than another ding-dong battle. I expect they will slow down the ball some on offense to utilize their quickness against us, particularly inside."

Coach Hale was pleased with a little progress shown by the big men during last week's swing through North Idaho and Washington. "Vince (Volmut) got 13 rebounds in one game and he had only 12 in the first four. Steve Swanson started rebounding a little better and getting some points. Our defense got stung a couple of times and we've been working on that."

"Our shooting really has been carrying us," Coach Hale continued. "Rick Sobers has made 54 field goals in 88 attempts. Vince is 33 for 54 and Steve is now at 21 for 33. But we have to get our defense tighter because we can't expect to hit well and just outscore people every night."

It will be CSI's last pre-Christmas appearance, the Eagles making their swing to Southern Cal and UOP next week and winding up the early December slate against BYU in Provo Dec. 23.

Indians top Castleford

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone Indians, getting 22 points from Mike Sorenson and refusing to melt under late pressure, defeated the Castleford Wolves 54-45 Tuesday night.

Shoshone, which slipped to a one-point victory in an earlier meeting and almost lost as a result of Castleford's late defensive, all-court pressure, seized the lead early in the third period and stayed ahead.

Castleford fell behind six to eight points in the first half but then flurried back into a 22-all deadlock at intermission. But Shoshone hit the first two field goals of the third period.

The Indians, who now are 4-1, had only a five-point bulge going into the final period and the Wolves still were within easy hailing distance going into the final three minutes.

Ford and Spahn become eligible for hall of fame

NEW YORK (UPI) — Southpaw Warren Spahn and Whitey Ford along with righthander Robin Roberts are among the eight newest players now eligible for the baseball Hall of Fame.

Their names plus those of Lew Burdette, Smoky Burgess, Dick Groat, Vernon Law and Curt Simmons are included on the ballots sent out Tuesday to veteran members of the Baseball Writers Association of America (BBWAA).

The results of the 1973 balloting will be announced in mid-January according to Jack Lang, secretary-treasurer of the BBWAA who conducts the election among 10-year members of the Association. More than 450 ballots are expected to be cast.

A total of 44 names appear on the ballots, including 36 holdovers from previous elections who so far have failed to receive the necessary 75 per cent of the total vote.

In the 1972 election, the writers voted Sandy Koufax, Yogi Berra and Early Wynn into the Cooperstown, N.Y., shrine. Ralph Kiner, the seven-time National League home run king, finished fourth in the balloting, failing by 62 votes to receive the necessary number needed for induction.

In order to be eligible for the Hall of Fame, a player must have performed in 10 championship seasons and must be retired five years before his name first appears on a ballot. He is then eligible for election for a 15-year period before his name is removed from the ballots.

Spahn, the winningest left-hander in major league history with 363 triumphs, should have been eligible two years ago. However, Spahn appeared briefly in the minor leagues in both 1966 and 1967 and thus delayed his eligibility.

Ford compiled a regular season record of 236-106 in 16 years with the New York Yankees while posting a 10-8 mark in World Series competition. He also holds a World Series record of 32 consecutive scoreless innings.

Roberts toiled for 19 years in the majors, 15 of them with the Philadelphia Phillies for whom he won 20 or more games in six different seasons. During his lifetime career he won 286 games while losing 245.

Alworth resents belief he threw a dirty block

DALLAS (UPI) — Dallas Cowboy flanker Lance Alworth said Tuesday he resented the belief that he allegedly threw a vicious, dirty block on Washington linebacker Jack Pardee last Saturday and indicated he thought the Redskins were merely mad because they lost. "I'm sorry they can't take a loss like men," said Alworth. "The thing that is hurting them more than anything else is pride. And pride goes before a fall. In all honesty, I think it is ridiculous."

Alworth's block against Pardee last Saturday in Dallas' 34-24 decision over the Redskins helped spring Calvin Hill 10 yards for the game's first score. Alworth threw the block after first being in motion.

Redskin Coach George Allen said the play was "designed to hurt a player and I don't think it has any place in football. It's illegal and vicious."

"I resent it," said Alworth. "It really makes me mad. I never hit a guy when his back is turned. I could have but I didn't."

"If anything was illegal it was the block thrown on Chuck Howley."

Howley suffered torn ligaments in his left knee on a crackback block and underwent surgery within hours after the game. The injury could have ended the veteran's career.

The Cowboys ran the play in question more than once, but Alworth blocked Pardee only one time all day.

"That (on the touchdown) was the only time I got him," said the Cowboy flanker. "I missed him the other times because the footing was bad. But maybe we'll see him again."

"The time I got him he was turned toward me. I didn't clip anyone because I don't want it done to me."

"We take end zone pictures. Let's take a shot of mine and compare it with his (Charley Taylor's block on Howley) and see who got hit with his back anyone because I don't want it done to me."

"I challenge them to do it. Get the films. See whose was more illegal, their block or mine. We won one and they won one. Let's meet again. We hope they make it, because we're going to."

Washington meets Green Bay in the first round of the Super Bowl playoffs while Dallas will face the winner of the Western Division—either Los Angeles, Atlanta or San Francisco.

Cats crush Filer on mat

FILER — The powerful Burley Bobcats won the first 10 weights Tuesday night to defeat the Filer Wildcats 53-11 in a dual wrestling match.

The feature came at 185 pounds where Filer's Ron Griff, defending district champion, had to overcome an early 6-0 deficit and finally won with an escape and takedown in the final 30 seconds of the last round 9-8.

Filer will host Glenns Ferry and Buhl Thursday night.

Results of the matches, Filer men listed first, include 98 pounds, Filer forfeited to Jarman; 105 pounds, Aston pinned by Ramirez; 112 pounds, Schmah pinned by D. Anderson; 119 pounds, Ward pinned A. ## Jerome teams top bowlers Teams from Jerome assumed the top three spots in a light weekend turnout in the Magic Bowl's choice tournament.

George Kay, co-proprietor, said participation was small and blamed it on the weather. He added the numbers should swell from now through Jan. 7, the end of the eighth annual event.

Sharon Robinette showed up twice in the first three in mixed doubles. She combined with Hub Jones for the pace-setting total of 1,300 and joined with Ollie Oldfield for third at 1,287. Pat and Bob Morris owned second at 1,291.

One sure way to keep drunks off the road.

What would happen if every street in the country were closed for the holidays? We could eliminate the annual 25% increase in traffic accidents. We could keep about 2,500 people alive who would otherwise die at the hands of drinking drivers.

We can't just close the streets, but each of us can help solve the problem.

If you're drinking, remember this fact: when you have three drinks in the hour before you drive home, your chances of having an accident are multiplied seven times. And your chances of getting tossed into the drunk tank are multiplied how many times? So it makes sense not to drink at all in the hour before you go home. And if that's not enough, let a sober friend drive you home. Or call a taxi. Whatever you do, just don't drive.

If you're not drinking, remember this fact: there will always be too many drivers who are. So keep your distance. Don't let any other car get too close to you. Drive defensively, more than ever during the holiday season.

Your new car dealer knows that we have a far better chance of being around in January if we remember the facts in December.

San Diego wants to draft Walton

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Dr. Leonard Bloom, the owner of the San Diego Conquistadors, preferred Tuesday to savor the prospects of landing UCLA superstar Bill Walton rather than worry about a temporary setback in his plans for a new $200-million sports complex.

The American Basketball Association's board of trustees, at its two-day meeting here, paved the way for San Diego to draft the UCLA All-American by authorizing a hardship draft of college underclassmen.

Bloom said the hardship draft would provide San Diego with the first crack at Walton if he is not signed before then by the Dallas Chaps, who hold the future draft rights to the towering junior. San Diego also will have the first choice in the regular draft, which will come later than the hardship draft.

While attending the ABA meeting, Bloom received news that the planning commission in Chula Vista, Calif., near San Diego, had voted against permitting him to build the 20,000-seat sports world complex he hopes to launch next year.

Undaunted by this setback, Bloom expressed confidence that the city council of Chula Vista will override the planning commission's decision and give him the green light he needs to commence his building plans.

Without a large arena for the Conquistadors to play in, the club seemingly would have no future in San Diego and no need for a major drawing card like Walton. Currently, the team plays in 4,500-seat Peterson Gym at San Diego State University and averages less than half-capacity for its home game attendance.

Bloom, an orthodontist and real estate developer with a fortune of several million dollars, is reported willing to part with a huge sum to get Walton, a hometown product and winner of the Naismith Award, last season as the nation's outstanding college player.

Bloom said he had no doubts that Walton could qualify as a hardship case although the league did not define hardship in the motion it adopted Tuesday authorizing ABA Commissioner Robert Carlson to proceed with setting up the special draft at a date to be determined.

If Dallas has not signed Walton by the hardship draft which could come within the next two months, then it would relinquish its draft rights to San Diego.

Sam Gilbert, a Los Angeles businessman who has acted as an adviser to several UCLA players in negotiations with professional teams, said in Los Angeles Tuesday that he thinks Walton will finish his college eligibility at UCLA before turning pro.

"I think the pros are doing a disservice in recruiting youngsters still in school and then dropping them in a year or two when they should be encouraging them to get an education," he said.

Gilbert played a key role in the signing of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, now with the Milwaukee Bucks, for the National Basketball Association. ABA officials expressed a strong determination here to do all possible to keep Walton for their league rather than see him go to the rival NBA.

After Tuesday's meeting, Carlson announced the ABA plans to add two franchises next year and said that Los Angeles, Chicago, Honolulu, and Jersey Meadows are among the places under consideration.

He said the league has tentatively approved the proposed sale of the Denver franchise to a group headed by San Diego businessman Frank Goldberg. Carlson said consummation of the sale is still pending, but added that the club would remain in Denver.

2,000 letters

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Cincinnati Reds' superstar Johnny Bench, recuperating from lung surgery at Christ Hospital here, is receiving an average of 2,000 letters a day.

The Reds' catcher is receiving the most mail of any patient we've had here at the hospital since I've been on the job," Joe McCarthy, supervisor of the hospital's mail room, said Tuesday.

"We've got a huge box here and it's overflowing," McCarthy said. "It's hard to estimate, but I'd say we've averaged 2,000 letters a day for the past three days. There also have been quite a few telegrams."

According to hospital rules, Bench's mail is being held until he leaves the intensive care unit — possibly by the end of the week.

Bench was sitting up on the side of his bed Tuesday.

"Johnny spent a comfortable night and his vital signs remain good," team physician Dr. George Ballou said.

Dr. Ballou indicated there will be no report at least until Wednesday on tests made on a live section of the lesion removed from Bench's right lung.

Bench underwent lung surgery Tuesday.

Stolz picked MSU coach

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Michigan State Tuesday chose defensive coordinator Denny Stolz, one of the newest members of the Spartan coaching staff, to succeed Duffy Daugherty as head football coach at the Big Ten school.

President Clifton R. Wharton announced the decision to go with Stolz and said the school's Board of Trustees would ratify the selection at a special meeting Wednesday.

The decision was announced just a few hours before the annual MSU football banquet, which school officials had hoped to turn into a combination farewell salute to Daugherty and a welcome to his successor.

ABA moves in drafting college underclassmen

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — details of the hardship draft The American Basketball Association moved today to set up machinery for a hardship draft or college underclassmen with a date still to be determined and the 10-team league also decided to add two new franchises next year.

Commissioner Robert Carlson said the ABA Board of Trustees at its two-day meeting here discussed UCLA All-American Bill Walton in the context of a hardship draft.

Asked if he felt drafting Walton would be pivotal to the future of the ABA, Carlson replied, "It certainly would be a tremendous feather in our cap but I can't make any further comment at this time."

Carlson said the trustees authorized him to work out the definition of what the trustees meant by "hardship" in the motion that was adopted today.

Carlson said the trustees hope to expand the league into larger television market areas, naming Los Angeles, Chicago, Jersey Meadows and Honolulu as strong possibilities.

The commissioner said the league has given tentative approval to a proposed sale of the Denver franchise to a group headed by San Diego businessman Frank Goldberg. Carlson added that the final negotiations are still pending for the sale of the Rockets, who would remain in Denver.

Carlson also disclosed the formation of an ABA merger committee to be headed by sports magnate Charles O. Finley, owner of the ABA Memphis Tams.

Wilhelm to manage Braves' farm club

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hoyt Wilhelm, who appeared in more major league games as a pitcher than any other player in baseball history, has been named manager of the Atlanta Braves' Class A farm club in Greenwood, S.C.

The Braves said Wilhelm, who will be 50 next July and who was still active until released by the Los Angeles Dodgers at mid-season this year, succeeds Paul Snyder who earlier was named assistant farm director for the Braves.

Wilhelm pitched in 1,070 major league games, becoming the only pitcher to reach the 1,000 mark on May 10, 1970.

This past season, with the Dodgers, he appeared in 16 games and had a 1-0 record with one save and a 4.68 earned run average. Starting his 21-year major league career with the Giants in 1952, at 28 years of age, Wilhelm had a career record of 143-122 and an ERA of 2.50.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Moderate profit taking swept prices lower in a broad range today on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was moderate.

Shortly before noon, the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chip industrial issues was off 2.56 at 1,030.63. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was off 0.18 at 118.48.

Declines outpaced advances, 798 to 456, among the 1,644 issues on the tape. The two-hour turnover came to more than 7,600,000 shares compared to 6,900,000 shares traded on Tuesday.

U.S. Freight was the most active issue, off 1/2 at 25 1/2 on 229,300 shares, including a block trade of 221,000 shares at 25, off 1/2. Gulf Oil was second, off 1/2 at 26 1/2 on 63,100 shares. Cook United followed, off 1/2 at 13 1/2 on 59,000 shares, including a block trade of 54,400 shares at 13 1/2, off 1/2.

Xerox again was lower and active. The issue, off 1/2, lost 6 points Tuesday after the Federal Trade Commission said it would issue a complaint against Xerox charging it with monopolizing the office copier business through so-called unfair business practices.

Computer and electronics issues were irregular. IBM lost 1 1/2 while Honeywell added 1 1/2. Glamour issues also were mixed. Bausch & Lomb and Walt Disney gained 1 each, but Polaroid and Corning Glass were point-size losers.

Oils moved irregularly. Superior Oil and Natomas were ahead 1 1/2 each, but Mountain Fuel Supply lost 2 1/2 and Halliburton 1 1/2.

TWA lost 1 and Flying Tiger 1/2 in the lower airline group.

Airerates, rails, steels and motors were mixed in fractions.

Dow Chemical lost 1 in the lower chemical category.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were lower in fairly active trading.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now have many new ideas for gaining the things you want. Make plans for how you wish to spend the coming holidays and the best way to distribute gifts to various members of your family and others. Use your fine mind to advantage by constructive study.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get on the beam and know exactly what it is you want to do in the future instead of being so lackadaisical and undecided. Use your gregarious quality for bettering your situation in life.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You need ideas from those of great experience if you are to better your position in life at this time. A personal relationship with an associate needs to be put on the right basis.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Look to clever pals for the new ideas you need, even though their fast-acting manners may get on your nerves. Accept a social invitation which can bring the right leads for business.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) An ideal day to show you are not only patriotic but a pillar of the community. Show appreciation for the good work that bigwigs are doing. Avoid one who opposes you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A person you meet today can inspire you greatly so that you will soon gain from this meeting. A plan to travel should be formulated for a good purpose you have in mind. Count the cost.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Adopt a system of work that will make it possible to handle your obligations in a most exact way. Discuss with mate those mutual promises you have made. Avoid extravagance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) By listening carefully to the ideas of one who means the most to you, a true meeting of the minds comes about. You can now engage in civic work successfully. Take it easy tonight!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show enthusiasm for whatever tasks are ahead of you and they are easily handled. Listen to what associates have to suggest. Strive to gain mutual goals. Show that you have wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you contact persons you like, you can have a delightful time with them now, at the hobbies and recreations mutually enjoyed. Your creative ideas can now be put in operation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Doing whatever will please kin is your best bet today before you get busy on personal plans. Once your fundamental affairs are handled, relax at home in the evening. Be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get busy using that fine mind you have in constructive channels and express those excellent qualities you possess. Corresponding with persons you want as allies in the future is wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use your practical skills so that you can have a greater income in the near future. Your regular adviser is not available at present, so confer with another business expert.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who will be highly inspired to succeed in life. This can be achieved because of the willingness to work, and the element of good luck that is present in this chart. Teach not to jump into a new venture and then give it up. Give the finest education you can afford. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Study of hospitals shows they've got 4.6 staff members for each patient now. On the average, ten years ago, it was 2.4 employees per patient.

STILL, THE TOOTHTEST law at hand to fight cirrhosis of the rivers, it's said, is a line of legislation written in 1899 to keep the channels clear for boats.

WOMEN ARE MUCH more sensitive to nicotine than are men. Or so some medics claim. That's why it's harder for women to quit smoking, they say.

Q. "WHERE is it that no couple under 30 can marry without parental consent?"
A. That's the law of the Netherlands.

SIZE OF UNIVERSE
Speed of light is 186,000 miles a second. Say you could travel that fast on a rocket. It would take you only one and one-third seconds to pass the moon, five hours to get out of our solar system, four years to reach the nearest star. Sizable, this universe, what?

YOU KNOW THOSE recliners with vibrators in them? Am informed by a furniture salesman who deals in same that nine out of 10 men express considerable pleasure with that chattering chair while nine out of 10 women say they don't like it at all. The why of this remains mysterious.

A SHOT OF liquor won't warm you up. On the contrary, it can actually trigger the loss of some body heat. Cup of coffee might warm you a little, though. Tea, too. But those medical fellows who make a study of such matters say it's not wise to belt a bit of booze just before going out in the cold.

COMMON TREES
Four trees most commonly planted by individuals are the elm, maple, oak and sycamore. MOTHERS LIVE longer than childless wives, statistically. DID I MENTION you usually get more juice from a long lemon than from a round one? CLAIM IS only one Chinese in 10 can read. AND MORE: DIRT has been moved to bury pipelines than to dig all the canals in history.

THAT THE MARRIED Englishman is that husband least likely to stray has been claimed by numerous experts on life among the married. And the Latin husband, they say, is most likely. Question arises as to whether climate has anything to do with this matter. Doubtlessly not, says our Love and War man. The married Irishman, geographic neighbor of the Englander, is rarely identified as the constant husband.

Moscow, Leningrad, Stalingrad battles recalled

Editor's Note: In this fourth installment of his account of his four decades as a reporter in the Soviet Union, Henry Shapiro tells of how in 1942 he was the first foreign correspondent to reach the beleaguered Stalingrad front and how, when he reported the coming Soviet victory, his story was disbelieved even in the Pentagon which had the Russians beaten.

By HENRY SHAPIRO
MOSCOW (UPI) — I was in Kuibyshev, to which the Moscow press corps had been evacuated in October, 1941, when the United States was plunged into the war at Pearl Harbor. The news came to me in odd fashion.

The evening of Dec. 6 I was typing a story in my room in Kuibyshev's Grand Hotel—a misnomer since it did not have a single private bath—when the telephone rang.

Ilya Ehrenburg, the eminent Soviet writer and war correspondent who had done a series of front-line stories for me when I was not allowed to go to the front, was on the line.

"Congratulations," Ehrenburg said gleefully. "We are now allies. The Japanese have attacked Pearl Harbor." He rang off.

A few days later I was back in Moscow from where, after an hour's drive by car, I was at what had been the scene of one of the fiercest battles of the war.

Moscow itself was the front.

The steel frame of the projected Palace of Soviets skyscraper had been dismantled to make anti-tank obstacles. There were trenches on the outskirts of the city and the battle-line could be reached by streetcar. There were air raids almost every day and the skies were dotted with anti-aircraft balloons. Every able-bodied citizen had been mobilized, the women to dig trenches and the men to carry arms. There were anti-aircraft guns and bomb disposal squads on many rooftops.

My building, which also housed the United Press bureau, had been bombed and a corner of it blasted away. Since there could be no heating the frozen water pipes burst, the walls rotted and later collapsed. I made my home and office at the historic Hotel Metropol which was to become the wartime press center when all other correspondents, about 50, returned to Moscow.

I saw no actual fighting in Moscow's suburbs but along the Napoleonic route of invasion where the Grande Armée had been routed there was a giant cemetery of armor—thousands of German panzers, guns, trucks. Some of the villages outside Moscow were still burning.

On one trip we got to Klin, about 60 miles north of Moscow, and made for the home-museum of Peter Tchaikovsky, Russia's greatest com-

After hearing reliable reports of a Soviet counter-offensive which was going well, I started peppering Stalin and Molotov with letters asking permission to see the front.

Much to my surprise I had a telephone call from the press department in mid-November asking me to show up at the military airport where a fighter plane would take Gen. Patrick the Soviet ring around Stalingrad but another concentric one, scores of miles away, which inexorably tightened the noose around Paulus.

At Stalingrad there was a feeling of confidence I was not to sense again until the last year of the war.

When I returned to Moscow I wrote a series of dispatches reporting the German disaster and predicting the beginning of the end.

Chief censor Palgunov, who apparently did not know what I knew, called me to say he could not pass my stories because "they were too optimistic." I did not argue but immediately penned a letter of protest to Molotov. Another call from Palgunov came the next day.

Without offering any explanation, a more friendly Palgunov now said he could pass the dispatches if I rewrote them a little. I merely rephrased a few paragraphs and the story was off.

Its impact must have been substantial. Aside from the fact that most of my colleagues in Moscow (and who could blame them?) were ready to murder me, I enjoyed a scurrilous attack by Berlin Radio reportedly ordered by propaganda chief Josef Goebbels himself.

Berlin, after maligning my ancestry, denounced me as an ignorant dilettante.

Some skeptical western observers also did not believe my conclusions. One of them mused that the alleged Soviet offensive was a snare and delusion, that the Germans were only marking time, waiting for spring, to cross the Volga and then move northeastward and take Moscow from behind.

A few months later, at American headquarters at Teheran, I ran into Hurley who had once been U.S. secretary of war. Conscious of the embarrassment at the Moscow airport, I tried to avoid him but he spotted me and came over.

"Henry," he said in his Oklahoma drawl, "You're the best pal a man ever had. When I got back to Washington and told the Pentagon what I had seen at Stalingrad, nobody would believe me. They said I knew nothing about war and the Russians had taken me in. Then your articles started coming in and confirmed everything I had said."

I was to hear this taunt with regard to American Spam. Canned stewed meat and all other American supplies until the Normandy invasion in June, 1944.

We reached Serafimovich on the Don, on the northwestern sector of the front, and rode a battered old Ford to Kalach, where the circle had been closed a few days earlier on several of Hitler's crack armies commanded by Field-Marshal Friedrich von Paulus.

There were no railroad stations, just dugouts where the military commandants and train personnel lived. Nevertheless, there was an unbroken flow of men and arms, guns, tanks, and rockets. There was little evidence of allied supplies other than food and later Gen. Gusev, commander of the sector and Gen. Vasily Chuikov, commander of Stalingrad itself, told me that 95 per cent of the equipment other than food was Soviet-made.

I was taken to a dugout headquarters well below the reach of German missiles and shown maps disclosing not only victims now lie in mass graves at the Piskarevskoye graveyard shrine visited by President Nixon last May.

"Nothing is forgotten and nobody is forgotten" reads a declaration above one of the cemetery's portals written by poet Olga Bergholz, one of the survivors of the siege.

The emptiness of the city which once boasted a population of almost 4 million was fantastic.

There were about half a million residents left. Those who were not soldiers walked around like ghosts, but the younger ones, mostly girls in military uniform, marched up and down the once gay boulevards framing for the front which was still just outside the city.

The city was still under fire, and from the Kirov armaments 1945. Hundreds of thousands of people surged onto the streets milling and converging on the American embassy, and on the Red Square, shouting, singing, dancing.

Wearing an American war correspondent's uniform, I took my life in my hands to appear on the square. I was seized by dozens of arms and tossed into the air with shouts of "Attaboy Americans!" Molotov, Amerikantsy, I felt more in danger than any time during the air raids which by force of necessity I had learned to ignore.

But, still alive, I made my way to the embassy where the crowd was shouting "We want the pool" (ambassador). In Harriman's absence George Kennan, the charge d'affaires, appeared on the balcony and in flawless Russian congratulated the people for the mutual victory and expressed hope for future collaboration in peace.

On that Victory Day in 1945, as I slowly broke away from the crowd to write my dispatch at the central Telegraph, I could not but ponder on Kennan's words and wonder whether this coalition, like other previous historic coalitions, would break down, too, especially since out of the wreckage of this war, it was clear, two super-powers of conflicting ideologies would emerge.

About six weeks later, on June 24, the Soviet Union held its victory parade on the Red Square, another red letter day in a country which has had its share of invasions, battles, defeats and victories.

St. Louis jury convicts man in airline extortion charge

By DALE SINGER
ST. LOUIS, Mo., (UPI) — Martin J. McNally became the eighth person convicted of an extortion hijacking when a federal court jury found him guilty on two counts of air piracy late Tuesday.

McNally, 28, Wyandotte, Mich., will be sent to the federal medical center at Springfield, Mo., for an examination before sentencing by U.S. District Judge John K. Regan. He faces a sentence of 20 years to life in prison on each count for hijacking an American Airlines 727 jet last June 23.

Federal sources said a total of 27 persons have been accused of extortion hijackings so far. Besides the eight who have been convicted, seven await trial and 12 are fugitives.

mostly in Algeria or Cuba. The jury of 10 women and two men deliberated for one hour following the seven-day trial in which the government called more than 50 witnesses and the defense called only two.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert B. Schneider went through five full days of testimony in laying out a methodical reconstruction of the hijacking.

One of McNally's court-appointed attorneys, Frederick H. Mayer, said an appeal was being considered.

McNally was charged with two counts of air piracy because he took control of two separate airplanes. A substitute plane was demanded and provided after a St. Louis businessman, David Hanley, rammed the first plane with his car in an attempt to stop the hijacking. The crash took place at Lambert Field in St. Louis.

The hijacker eventually bailed out of the second airplane in the vicinity of Peru, Ind., but apparently lost his grip on a bag containing $500,000 in ransom when he left the plane traveling 300 miles an hour. The money and the hijacker's gun were found in fields near Peru.

Swiss boot cultist

GENEVA (UPI) — American drug cultist Timothy Leary has been given a final deadline of Dec. 31 to leave Switzerland and is looking for a "suitable country," his Swiss lawyer said today.

Lawyer Horace Mastrorandi said there is no question of Leary being extradited to the United States.

We don't know yet where he will go. We are looking for a suitable country," the lawyer said.

Leary fled prison in California in 1970. He was serving a one-to-10-year sentence for possession of drugs Leary first went to Algeria and then in 1971 came to Switzerland.

Gem health chief warns home heads

BOISE (UPI) — Health administrator Dr. James A. Bax gave shelter home operators an ultimatum Tuesday to either conform with health standards or be prepared for trouble.

Bax, Administrator of the Department of Environmental Protection and Health, told a meeting of shelter home operators in Boise he was concerned with shelter homes reaping maximum profits at the expense and misery of the elderly.

"If you concur with our standards, I commend you," Bax said. "If you do not, and will not, then I here add now declare that the battle lines are drawn and you are going to lose."

Although verbal support had been expressed, at a recent hearing, no such letter had been sent, according to chamber president Jay Schofield. The chamber members generally agreed that the documentary show of support should be submitted.

Bax called for a bill of rights for the elderly which will include adequate shelter, good tasting nutritious meals, honesty in shelter home fees, no forced labor, dignity and better than adequate treatment.

The best health and sanitation rules will be met, checked and enforced," he said.

If I wouldn't want my grandmother in a shelter home, I don't send anyone else there," he said. "I don't compromise. Don't underestimate my intentions."

Bax said he was not condemning all shelter homes. Some, he said, are trying to provide the most humane treatment for what the state can pay.

Truck damaged by fire in SV

HAILEY — Accidental burning caused an undetermined amount of damage Monday afternoon to a Sun Valley Co. Inc. truck at the Ohio Gulch landfill.

Driver Bill Lugar said he was unloading paper and wood from the 1963 stake rack truck about 4 p.m. at the south end of the trash pit at the landfill, located between Hailey and Ketchum.

A fire was burning in the north end of the pit, Lugar said. As he was emptying the truck, a west wind caused the fire to spread south toward the rear portion of the vehicle.

At that point, Lugar said he attempted to move the truck, but the tires failed to grab on the snow.

Two left rear tires were destroyed and a portion of the stake rack was burned.

The blaze was put out with extinguishers and shovels with the aid of a Blaine County sheriff's deputy and state patrolman Gene Becken.

Investigating officer was Guy Coles, special agent for the Sun Valley Co.

I do not believe that you will see any change in operations," Latta said in commenting on the future bank's function in the community.

He said additional services, including trust, investment and real estate financing, would probably be provided by the bank due to the increased lending base incurred in the merger.

Garis Robertson, mayor of Burley, also addressed the chamber members. He reported on his recent trip to Indianapolis, Ind., as the state's representative in the National League of Cities convention.

The convention center was a source of amazement, according to Robertson. He described it as 940 feet long and 150 feet wide, with a capacity of 12,500 in the main hall and 4,200 in the main dining room.

Thirty-eight workshops each with 150 to 250 participants were held during the four-day affair, he said. The Burley official said he served on the community development and policy and resolution committees.

The only sign of disorder during the convention came during the election of officers, according to Robertson. He said the mayor of San Juan, Puerto Rico, was nominated from the floor for first vice president of the organization.

After the nominee had delivered an extensive bit of rhetoric, ending in the withdrawal of his name, an posers. We got there in time to see a group of soldiers trying to salvage some of the composer's manuscripts and bric-a-brac from a bonfire started by the Germans before their retreat.

The year of 1942 was one of frustration and discontent for the Moscow press corps. Communications were slow so that the war communiques reached London by radio before we could explain and interpret them. The censorship was harsh and unimaginative. Very few trips to the front were permitted and then usually only after a major Soviet victory and only to army headquarters. The news from all the Allied fronts was not encouraging and the Russians kept on clamoring for a "second front" in Europe which they said had been promised for 1942.

The great battle of the Russian steppes raged all that summer and by early fall the Germans had cut through to Stalingrad, the strategic city connecting the heart of Russia with the Caucasus and its oil, and reached the Volga.

Stalin's order was to hold the city at any cost since "there was no more place to retreat."

Troops crossing the river from the east burned their boats behind them and fought the Germans street by street and house by house.

Bank aide tells Burley CC merger effective on Jan. 1

BURLEY — Nita Latta, a marketing vice president with the Bank of Idaho, spoke briefly during a Burley Chamber of Commerce luncheon Monday.

Latta said the merger of the Bank of Idaho and Burley's Cassia National Bank has received final approval by the Justice Department and will become effective Jan. 1.

His firm plans to replace the existing Cassia National building with a new structure similar to the Bank of Idaho branch office in Twin Falls, according to Latta.

He said plans also call for expanding parking facilities north of the present building and providing new parking space behind the building near the Beauty Alley Salon.

Cassia National is presently housed in the National Hotel on the northwest corner of the intersection . . . . . Overland Avenue and Main Street.
