Trio orbits moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The last Apollo astronauts gave the moon a parting blow in the name of science today, then settled down for what may be man's final two days in lunar orbit this century.

After Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt rejoined Ronald D. Evans in the Apollo 17 command ship America with a prize haul of lunar samples, they cut loose the spacecraft Challenger and sent it crashing into the moon.

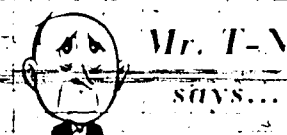

The silver and black lunar module, the last ship built to land men on another planet, hit within 10 miles of the Taurus-Littrow valley where Cernan and Schmitt lived for 75 hours. But a television camera they left behind failed to spot the impact.

"It seems like an unfitting finish to a super bird," said Cernan.

The astronauts will remain in orbit around the moon until 4:33 p.m. MST Saturday when they fire the main engine aboard America to break the grasp of lunar gravity and cruise back to Earth. The extra orbital time will give America's cameras and other sensors time to add to the scientific bonanza produced by Apollo 17.

Evans will take the spotlight Sunday afternoon when he is to walk in space 200,000 miles from Earth to retrieve film cassettes from two telescopic mapping cameras and a radar subsurface sounding instrument aboard America.

Apollo 17 is scheduled to splash down in the South Pacific Tuesday.

The astronauts should have planted a seed on their last trip

Cold spell ends

TWIN FALLS — After a full week of below-zero temperatures in Twin Falls, U. S. Weather Bureau officials say warmer weather is in sight.

With a promise of warming trends, weather officials said seven consecutive days from Dec. 8 to today recorded low readings of below zero. In Kimberly there were eight days of below zero readings. (Details on page 27)

Forecasts indicate the week end will bring warmer temperatures for both daytime and nighttime readings. These milder temperatures may reach as high as 40 degrees during the daytime and may drop to only 20 degrees at night.

Weather officials say no records have been set for December as far as minimum readings although the 19 degrees below zero in Kimberly and 18 below in Twin Falls caused many freezing problems.

'Idealistic' TF County zoning plan presented

By DAVID ESPO

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County received a 66-page Christmas present Thursday night that proposes "idealistic" land use measures and "redefines zoning" on the basis of a projected 20 year doubling of population.

The study is expected to be the first step in a thorough review of county zoning and land use development that may take several more months to complete.

In addition, the planners have completed proposed new subdivision ordinances which allows subdivisions in four different types of residential zones, as well as a proposed "planned unit development" ordinance, which would regulate the construction of condominiums in the county.

The proposed ordinances were not discussed at the meeting, however.

Chairman L. James Koutnik promptly put commission members on notice that a "line by line, item by item" review of the zoning study would be needed if land use development in Twin Falls County is to be consonant with the "last portion of the 20th Century."

The study, prepared by Associated Planners and Developers, Pocatello, was commissioned by the county about nine months ago in an effort to redesign zoning efforts and land use developments.

The report was presented by Prof. Ross Fasolino and Prof. Harold Powell, both of Idaho State University and the planning company to the county planners at their annual Christmas dinner meeting.

Fasolino said after the meeting the ordinance, with accompanying maps, was prepared on a projected doubling of the county population in the next 20 years, with major commercial development anticipated.

The development may create a large residential population in the eastern end of the county, near Kimberly, while Twin Falls City continues to serve as the commercial center of the area, the planner said.

The study anticipates an enlarged airport, capable of direct jet links to western coastal airports, as well as possible planning for an interstate highway near the current route of U. S. Highway 93 which would open up speedy access to the recreational facilities of Sun Valley, Yellowstone National Park and other areas in the northwest, as well as develop the southern part of Twin Falls County with accompanying maps, was prepared on a projected doubling of the county population in the next 20 years, with major commercial development anticipated.

The study establishes a total of 11 zones, creates an additional adjudicating unit, a board of adjustments, to deal with the "smaller questions" of zoning conditional uses and other problems, while freeing the present commission to deal with the larger questions of land use problems.

It proposes a subdivision ordinance, and carries specific recommendations for trailer park developments in the county in newly created residential trailer zones.

It sets forth a proposed Industrial Medium Zone for which certain other industrial uses, for reasons of health, safety or general welfare are excluded from a proposed Industrial Light Zone. It also carries provisions for variances, conditional uses and home occupations.

President orders federal pay hikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today ordered a 5.14 per cent pay increase for 1,316,000 civilian government workers and a 6.69 per cent salary boost for all 2.4 million members of the armed services.

The increases will become effective the first pay period after Jan. 1, the White House said. The civilian pay raise had been postponed from last October as an anti-inflation move. The military increase is new.

The across-the-board increases were ordered by Nixon on the basis of recommendations by Budget Director Casper Weinberger and the chairman of the Civil Service Commission to promote comparability with private industry salary rates.

The President at the same time turned down a recommendation of an additional pay increase of 0.36 per cent to make up for the three-month delay in pay adjustments, holding that this "would be neither fair nor justifiable."

He said that such an increase would result in paying federal employees higher salaries than the comparable workers in private enterprise are receiving.

The increases are across the board and amounted to a cost of living hike.

In a message to Congress, Nixon said that "the American system of career civil service is based on the principle of rewarding merit."

He added, "I am pledged to continue striving to make it an even more effective, responsive part of our government. One way of achieving this is to maintain a salary scale for civil servants that is just and comparable to that received by equivalent individuals in the private sector."

On Monday, Nixon's chief economic spokesman, George P. Shultz, announced a freeze during the 1973 calendar year on salaries of "executive level" federal employees, including members of Congress and the judiciary.

But Shultz made it clear at that time that the delayed federal pay hike for the lower categories would go forward.

Nixon meanwhile has completed a sweep of top officials in the Labor Department by accepting the resignations of six officials including the head of the economically sensitive Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Truman reported weaker

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman, 88, was "semiconscious" today, suffering from a weak heart, congested right lung and blocked kidneys. Doctors shifted their emphasis of concern from his heart to the kidney ailment.

The former president's condition deteriorated to "very serious" Thursday. Doctors said Truman was not placed on the critical list because "his vital signs remain fairly stable."

"Kidney output continues to be somewhat inadequate," Research Hospital spokesman Wayne Conroy said late Thursday. "The kidney condition is of concern and is being watched very closely for change."

TF citizens panel asks new grade school

TWIN FALLS — Leaders of a citizens committee decided Thursday night to seek a bond election to build a 24-room school and a small junior high school addition.

The recommendation followed a series of meetings by the citizens committee in order to sift through various proposals for new school construction for the school district.

Committee members repeatedly said they felt construction of additional elementary classrooms to reduce the number of students in each class was the district's highest priority.

Committee chairman Gary Custer asked school trustee chairman John Wolfe, who attended the meeting along with school administrators, to call a special board meeting "as soon as possible" so the plan could be presented to the board.

Only the school board can call for a bond election. The citizens committee had been organized at the request of the school board to determine community priorities for such an issue.

The final plan includes the following points:

— Replacement of Happy Day School for the trainable retarded, providing the program is not moved to the state-operated child development center.

Construction of the 24-unit grade school, to be located north of the high school on property owned by the school district.

Construction of the 24-unit grade school, to be located north of the high school on property owned by the school district.

Construction of four classrooms and an additional teaching station for physical education at Robert Stuart Junior High School.

Purchase of a large site of up to 40 acres for future construction of a new junior high school to replace O'Leary, and a possible additional elementary school.

Optional removal of four classrooms at Washington school.

Optional removal of the 13-room old section of Lincoln school.

Although no cost figures were placed on the plan, committee members estimated the total cost at around $2 million, considerably below the $3.3 million district bonding capacity and below the cost of earlier plans submitted by school officials and planners.

Concerned that the district might not be able to raise enough money to staff the classrooms, the citizens group decided to provide for removal of the 17 classrooms at Lincoln and Washington schools in order to provide a net increase in classrooms of 12.

Committee members expressed the hope that new revenue, particularly from the state, could support these rooms.

But should there be more operational money available to man new classrooms, the committee recommended that the old section of Lincoln and the Washington classrooms be retained. This would give a net increase of 29 classrooms.

School Supt. George

Staudaher earlier had estimated a $12,000 additional annual operating cost for each new classroom.

At one point during the Thursday night meeting it appeared the group might adjourn until the spring, to see what action is taken by the Idaho Legislature prior to scheduling a bond issue the following fall.

But enthusiastic statements by Twin Falls druggist Jack Muldoon and CSI instructor Stephen Carter turned the meeting around.

"We've got to get moving. If we can't get teachers, we can't get teachers, and let's forget it. Let's get replacements. Let's get a bond proposal and set it on the ballot," Muldoon said.

Carter said "there are going to be changes." He said a crisis would develop in five years "if we just sit back and say we can't act now because we don't know what is going to happen."

Supt. Staudaher suggested an alternative to his earlier proposal that had called for replacement of Washington school. He suggested building an 18-classroom addition with demolition of 11 rooms at Lincoln, leaving a net increase of seven rooms, which he said, the district "probably" could afford to operate.

Trustee chairman John Wolfe suggested construction of an 18-room school, with removal of four Washington rooms and 13 Lincoln rooms — leaving a net room increase of only one classroom.

Building on the Wolfe suggestion, the committee members eventually increased the size of the proposed school to 24 units and tacked on the proposed five new rooms for Robert Stuart, with members hoping to find money to operate the additions to the plan.

Nader raps White House press corps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Terming the White House press corps only a "mimeograph machine" for President Nixon's pronouncements, critic Ralph Nader today urged the media to send investigative reporter teams to the White House.

As it now operates, the White House press corps, Nader said, is like a mirror what the President declares, the press reports. There is absolutely no news judgment.

In an interview with United Press International, Nader said White House reporters should not cover the White House beat on a permanent basis but should be rotated.

He claimed this would prevent the White House from using its "carrot-and-stick" routine on newsmen favoring some with interviews and leaks, and freeing out any newsmen who become critical.

According to Nader, the system has allowed the White House to develop newsmen who become "presidential valets," used "to distribute self-serving propaganda."

To stop this practice, which Nader said has led the White House reporters "to act like sheep," newsmen should be assigned to cover the White House only on a short-term basis.

The short tenure could allow the newsmen "to be more critical, and help put an end to White House favoritism," Nader said.

Nader was equally critical of news media coverage of politics. "The press spends an enormous amount of its resources covering politics but ignores government."

For example, the press spent weeks covering the Democratic party fight over its new national chairman, but during the same period, it gave a low priority to stories such as nuclear powerplant safety, a problem which could affect many more persons in a much more serious way.

Darwin's theory downgraded

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Spurning the pleas of the scientific community, the California Board of Education Thursday ordered the downgrading of Darwin's theory of evolution in public school textbooks.

The board put off for a month its decision on requiring "equal" time in the science texts for theories of "special creation" such as the Biblical story of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden.

The decision was expected to have nationwide impact because several publishers plan to tailor texts used across the country to California's requirements because of the state's lucrative book market.

After four hours of philosophical debate reminiscent of the famous Scopes "monkey trial" of a half century ago, the board voted 7 to 1 to set textbook standards downgrading Darwin's theory on the origins of man to mere speculation.

The state board thus rejected pleas from 19 Nobel Prize winners and the National Academy of Sciences not to water down the presentation of the evolutionary theory first formulated by Charles Darwin.

"What has been said in texts in the name of science is indeed philosophy," said board member David A. Hubbard in urging rejection of the evolutionary argument.

But the board couldn't agree on what role to give "special creation" in the texts and delayed the ruling until its next meeting in January.

The delay will give divine creationists a fighting chance to get their theories in the books currently used in more than 1,000 school districts in California.

Either one must be accepted by its advocates on faith."

Board member Mark T. Gates responded that putting both theories in science texts was "at least like saying two wrongs make a right." He said dogmatic theories of both evolution and creation should be banned from classroom books.

If the board members fail again next month to reach a compromise on the issue, the texts will be printed without any mention of the possibility of creation by divinity.

The board was adopting standards for new science texts which must be ready for the 1974-75 school year to replace four-year-old science books which don't even mention the U.S. manned moon missions.

Deputy shot blacks

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Louisiana Attorney General William Guste, who headed a state commission investigating the deaths of two students Nov. 16 at Southern University, said Thursday a deputy sheriff shot the black youths.

"It is my conclusion that the shot was fired by a single deputy," Guste said. "It (the group of deputies) was one of the lesser trained squads."

The commission's conclusions, released publicly Thursday, said the students were struck by a shotgun blast that came from the place where police were standing.

The commission did not say flatly that a deputy fired the shots that killed Denver A. Smith and Leonard Brown, both 20, during a confrontation on the all-black campus.

Guste said the commission avoided singling out the gunman because "we felt that was a matter that involved personal culpability and addressed itself to more of a grand jury investigation."

The panel, six blacks and six whites, said deputies went onto the campus with live ammunition in the magazines of their shotguns, but that they had been told not to fire at students, who were inside the administration building.

Sheriff Al Amoss, who had said his men did not carry loaded guns to the campus that morning, disagreed that a deputy killed the two students.

There was turmoil out there. These people were taking over the building, a state building, and it was my duty to take the building back for the people of East Baton Rouge Parish," Amoss said today.

The commission said whoever fired the shot might be charged with the deaths.

It is the conclusion of this commission that the evidence and statements accumulated by the commission be turned over immediately to the district attorney of East Baton Rouge Parish for further investigation by his office for possible criminal liability of any individual involved," the commission said.

Sickness delays trial

TWIN FALLS — The trial of John Stanley Dayley, originally scheduled to begin in Fifth District Court Thursday, has been postponed due to the defendant's illness.

According to Prosecutor Leon Smith Jr., doctors felt Dayley was too sick to stand trial Thursday. Dayley, suffering from a virus infection, had a temperature of 102 degrees, Smith said.

The trial has been rescheduled for Tuesday. Prospective jurors and witnesses will be recalled at that time.

Dayley has been charged with the robbery of Shelby's Market on Sept. 25. He has also been charged with resisting an officer.

Earlier, Dayley had lodged a plea of innocent by reason of insanity, but District Judge James M. Cunningham ruled that Dayley was sane and competent to stand trial.

The decision came following the testimony from two psychiatrists, and after Dayley himself testified that he thought his coffee had been drugged with LSD several hours before he is alleged to have robbed the all-night market.

Cunningham said the presence of LSD, which can produce hallucinations in a human system, did not constitute a mental "disease or defect" which would have ruled out the trial for sanity reasons.

He ruled Dayley's testimony concerning the drug material.

TWIN FALLS — Tickets for the 44th annual Twin Falls Firemen's Ball will go on sale Saturday.

The event, sponsored by the Twin Falls Firemen's Benefit Fund Association, will be Dec. 30 at the American Legion Hall, 205 3rd Avenue East, beginning at 9 p.m.

Music will be by Bruce Thomason and the Rondevos.

According to Fred Webb, fire department engineer and president of the benefit fund association, the annual New Year's Eve dance is held to raise money for the benefit of firemen and various service organizations.

Webb said the ball usually brings in about $1,000. Some of this money is used to maintain and repair TVs and radios and other recreational equipment in the fire station.

Another portion of the fund is used to send flowers to injured firemen and the families of injured firemen. The money is also used to buy paint and other necessary supplies for the fire department's Christmas toy program.

In addition, Webb said, a portion of the funds is donated to charity organizations and to support American Legion baseball.

Tickets for the ball will be available from any member of the fire department or at either Twin Falls fire station. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

WASHINGTON — Personal reminiscences of Harry Truman seem inevitably to well up at this time, and I have my share.

On March 17, 1945, he came to Chicago for a St. Patrick's day speech. A morning press conference was called for the vice president, and fewer than 10 reporters appeared.

It was an embarrassing, painful hour. We seemed to sense that President Roosevelt had not cued him in on big events, and we could think of little to ask him. There were odd silences between questions. One of the "tough" queries I posed was:

"How do you like your job?" His quick response: "I don't like it. I don't have anything to do."

Less than a month later, FDR died and Truman had the weight of a world at war on his shoulders.

Even as the shock of Roosevelt's death was still spreading, I went to Kansas City and Independence, Mo., to talk to people who had known Truman in his earlier years. I found that his friends were legion. And, astonishingly in the light of later history, they forecast almost perfectly what kind of president he would be.

Most of those I saw had been his battery mates when he was an artillery captain in World War I. They testified to his strength and courage. One telling me how Truman had rallied his men when they were about to panic under enemy fire. Without exception they saw in him "high qualities of leadership, and they insisted these were not weakened by the fact he served as a father-confessor to many of his men.

After the war, they stayed bound together. Truman was still their friend and helper, and they remembered him as a man of great personal honor. Somewhere around 1930 he paid off the last dollar of debt he owed after his little haberdashery store failed in 1921.

He was properly described as incorruptible, though his modest political start was given him by the ill-starred Tom Pendergast machine in Kansas City. Investigations always found Truman clean.

Serving as a county judge (supervisor), he asked Pendergast to slate him for something a bit better, like assessor. The old boss shook his head and said:

"No, I have something else in mind for you."

"What?" asked Truman. Then Pendergast stunned him by answering simply: "The United States Senate."

Truman was nominated and elected, and began the rise that took him to the White House. Six years later, Pendergast was in jail and Truman, fighting alone with almost no money, doggedly pounded through Missouri to win re-nomination by a bare 7,000 votes. It was a forecast of the spirit which carried him to an upset presidential victory in 1948.

A lover of history but a plodding student (so one of his teachers told me), he had to labor valiantly to master the presidency when its load fell upon him.

Says his old friend and aide, Clark Clifford:

"When I'd go to him at night in his White House study, he'd be sitting there wearing a green eyeshade, poring over a great pile of documents. My heart went out to him."

Margaret Truman Daniel has it right. Her father never wanted the vice-presidency. About to be chosen in 1944, he called his old friend Tom Evans and said: "Come on over here to Chicago and help keep me from being nominated." But the history he loved had its way.

The Sharing Begins

Officials of about 38,000 state and local governments — including Twin Falls city and county and most other communities and counties in Magic Valley — have now received the first federal revenue checks. They range from amounts of less than $100 to amounts in the thousands.

Magic Valley communities, apparently, have not gone through the torture pangs exhibited by some 6,000 communities nationally which received half of what they thought they were going to get, and another 1,620 which failed to supply the treasury with the name of the local official in charge. These will get nothing until they do.

It was a complicated formula which resulted in distribution of the money. It involved population, personal income and local tax effort. The first checks — nationally — totaled about $2.7 billion. In Magic Valley the amount, compared to the total, was only a drop in the bucket but the buckets were all clean and sitting ready to catch the windfall.

What to do with it?

Suggestions are rampant. There are probably as many ideas as there are people hereabouts. Reduce property tax? Build something like a city hall or a jail? Pave the streets? Help build a sewage disposal plant? You name it and your suggestion is not new. But one thing is crystal clear. There are few strings attached and local communities can do just about what they want to do with the funds. One exception seems to be the revenue cannot be used to match other federal funds in a particular project. But getting around this requirement is not difficult and the guidelines can still be followed.

The watchword will in Magic Valley, however, be caution.

Care should be taken to using the funds to best advantage. But this "care" should not be taken under pressure. The commissioners and others who will spend this money should listen to all suggestions, weigh all of them and then do what they think best. They should not be swayed by the organized crowd or the fast and "gifted" talker.

The hard facts should govern their actions. And after they have made up their minds which road to travel they should travel it without hesitation.

There should be no "neck biting" if your pet project or suggestion is not followed. You elected these people to represent you and to do what they deem best. When their minds are made up you should go their way, even if you, personally, do not like the road.

MR. SPECTATOR

Winter? Just Wait

So you are getting a little tired of the cold and the snow we are having this year — and here winter doesn't really start until Dec. 21?

But Mr. Spectator thinks he will fill you in about things to come — and then you will understand what you are going to face and why all this is coming to be.

For the past couple of decades, the world's weather has been dominated by a cooling trend. Whether this is just the latest in a series of cooling-warming cycles known to have occurred in the past 5,000 years, no one can say. Scientists do know, however, that we stand between two ice ages — the last one and the next one, closer to the next one than the last one.

The question is — how close?

A scientific conference held earlier this year at Brown University was on the subject "The Present Interglacial. How And When Will It End?" Some conclusions were reached.

(1) The global environment of the last several thousand years is an exception to the rule that has existed during most of the past million years. The natural end of the present warm interglacial period "is undoubtedly near when considered on a geological time scale."

(2) Manmade pollution seems to have had nothing to do with either the warming trend of the first half of this century, or the present cooling trend.

(3) Arrival of the next ice age may be thousands of years away, or it could arrive quite rapidly, within a matter of centuries. It is thus a "first-order environmental hazard." This must be understood well in advance. We have already begun to unravel all the complex factors that are involved in the earth's warming and cooling cycles.

But the iceman cometh, with a vengeance, and when he does then civilization may goeth.

Meanwhile, just hang on and "enjoy" this winter's cold and snow, wouldn't it be awful if it was the first year of change? Change for more cold, that is!

WRONG NUMBER?

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company reports that some 22,000 of its subscribers are withholding payment of the federal excise tax on telephone service in protest against the Vietnam War.

This is an increase from 17,000 in 1971 and 12,000 in 1970.

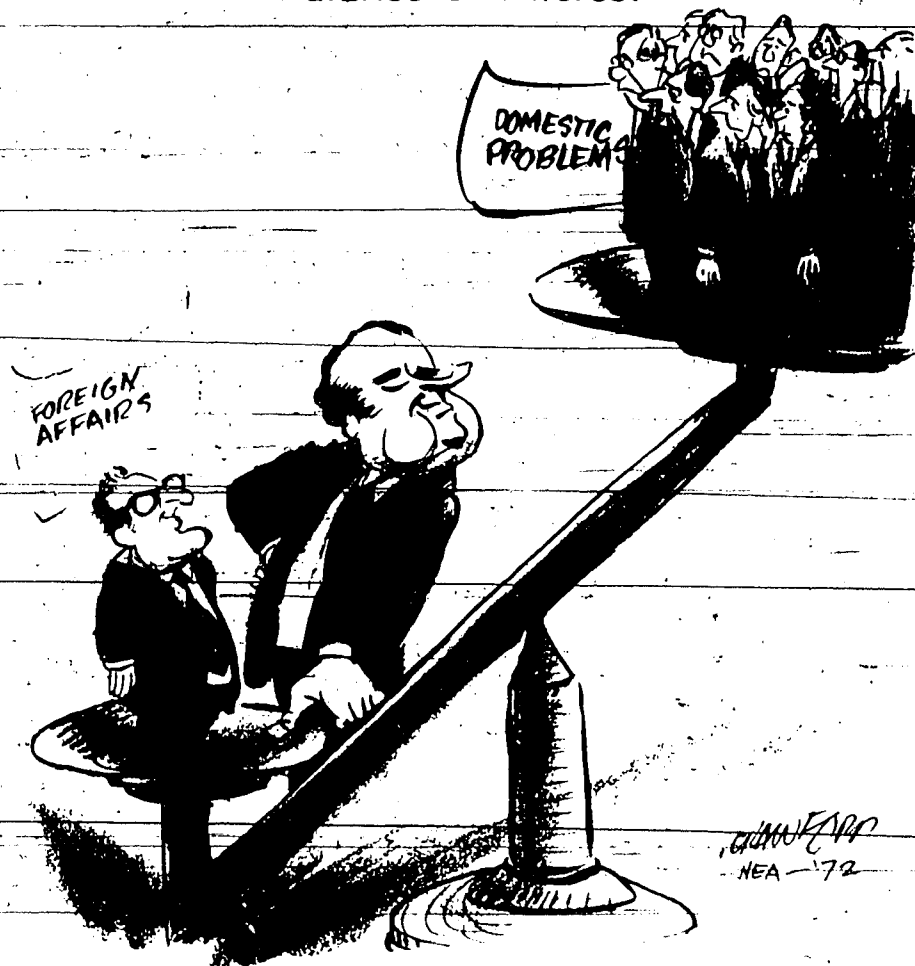

The Internal Revenue Service has been trying to get AT and T to disconnect the protestors' telephones, but the company argues that its only responsibility is to forward the tax money to the IRS, not enforce its collection. If people won't pay the tax, that's the government's problem.

As for the withholders, it seems to be an easy way to have your morality and your convenience too, without getting into trouble with Uncle Sam.

Balance of Interest

RAY CROMLEY

Foreign Capital

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Even with rising production and growing recovery, the tendency here in the United States is to view the economic outlook with some foreboding — more inflation, an unfavorable balance of payments, high unemployment.

Reports now coming in suggest that this is not the view of moneywise investment men in other major nations.

European bankers, and particularly the astute Swiss, had been deeply concerned about the dollar, a worry that apparently resulted in a major decline in new foreign investments in this country for a period, and, in some very important cases, resulted in an absolute decline in holdings.

This shift, of course, was the absolute test of a lack of confidence.

Of late, the picture has been changing. Contacts who have been in touch recently with major European bankers, including the Swiss, and worldwide say that these men in the main believe this country now has its dollar problem in hand. The same story comes out of Japan.

Questioned, some of these major investment men, who handle very large amounts of other people's money, say that the best investment prospects these days are in the United States — better even than in flourishing Japan and West Germany.

There is proof that these men mean what they say. For some time now, it is reported, foreign investments in this country have been on the rise. The belief is that the increase is going to grow even more sharply.

A number of these European money men say that in their opinion the United States is nearer to control over inflation in the long pull than other major countries. As a result, they expect U.S. production costs to go up more slowly than elsewhere, putting this country into a more competitive position.

In this regard, recent studies on wage rates in a half-dozen leading countries indicate that foreign wages have been rising at a much higher rate than American wages for more than a decade. Foreign wages, of course, have come up from a much lower base, and on average continue to be well below American. Nevertheless, insofar as the foreign wages are rising at a faster rate than American, this differential in the rate of increase inevitably helps to put this country in a better position to meet foreign prices.

Figures brought together by William D. Nordhaus of Yale University report U.S. manufacturing wage rate increases of 4.1 per cent in 1966, 3.9 per cent in 1967, and 5.1 to 6.1 per cent increases in the years from 1968 through 1971.

By contrast, Japanese wages gained by 11.5 to 15.9 per cent a year during the 1965-1971 period. Manufacturing wages in Sweden moved up 6.2 to 12.3 per cent a year, French wages from 5.8 to 11.7 per cent, Canadian wages from 5.9 to 8.5 per cent, and United Kingdom wages, shifted up from 5.9 to 11.9 per cent each year.

West German manufacturing wages rose 3.9 per cent in 1967 and 4.0 per cent in 1968 and from 7 to 11.2 per cent a year in the other years from 1966 through 1971. Those are quite significant differences.

PAUL HARVEY

Cross-Examined

Before every election, until this last one, it has been safe for any politician to speak out against sin and in favor of motherhood. But during this last election campaign, candidates ran scared even from the latter. There is a vigorous public controversy over motherhood, of all things.

Neither political party platform included anything for or against population control — so sensitive is this subject. So I suppose it should not surprise us to hear that another traditionally unattackable institution is under attack.

All early schools in the United States were "church schools." Public money for public education was predicated on the premise that all learning is good.

Church-related schools taught what is right — by their light. Public schools sought to teach "everything," leaving value judgments to the individual. But all educators and most of the rest of its construed education per se to be necessary and beneficial.

Hold the phone. Parochial schools are closing one a day.

Though public school spending increased this year to a record $90.5 billion — public school enrollment last fall reflected the least increase in 20 years.

And wherever, since Sputnik and almost up to now, education was urged on everybody, dropouts were deplored, advanced degrees were touted as fundamental to success — Harvard researchers were accumulating evidence to the contrary.

They discovered that more education does not necessarily mean a better job.

This study, coinciding as it does with the displacement of so many Ph.D.s in engineering, physics and biology, must give us pause.

You have seen studies showing how much more income will be earned during a lifetime by the high school graduate than by the dropout and how much more than that will likely be earned by the person with a college degree — preferably an advanced degree.

Now here is this three-year study by Harvard's researchers indicating that economic success depends more on "luck" and "personality" than on book learning.

I expect this to initiate a vitriolic controversy among academicians; so do they. One must read carefully the information they sought and got. They are not saying that an education is not worth it. They do say that improved schooling will be little help to a poor student when it comes to earning living.

You can send the dollar to the best school there is — and enhance his odds for success little, if any.

What they have done here is to take much of the family, school, job and income data gathered in the last decade, feed it into a computer, evaluate all the factors influencing job status, and income and deduce that poverty and inequality are not eliminated by better schooling.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Hyperactivity

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please discuss hyperactivity in children. What are the symptoms a mother should look for? Can she do anything about it?

I have heard these children are poor learners in school. Is this a reflection on their intelligence? Do they ever outgrow it?

I have heard they can be controlled better with drugs. Is this the answer? Do they have to take the drugs the rest of their lives? Can a brother or sister become hyperactive? I am concerned about my 4-year-old son. — Mrs. J. B.

The hyperactive, or hyperkinetic, child is one who has so much get-up-and-go that he just can't stay still. Always has to be doing something — and much of the time it has to be something different.

When young they may break things, or tear things apart, just because it's something simple and different to do. But always buzzing. Too often this urge to be moving or doing can mean mischief (not necessarily or even usually malicious).

Yes, the hyperactive child is a poor learner in school. It's because his attention span is short. Instead of concentrating for 10 minutes on his reading or writing or arithmetic, he's in and out of his seat, wandering in the aisles, poking the youngster next to him, talking, making noises.

It's not because of lack of intelligence. It's a neurological fault — part of him hasn't grown up, neurologically speaking. He's slow to learn himself, because of his rapidly shifting attention, and he's a pain in the neck to everybody else who is bothered by his restlessness.

Yes, they outgrow this as they approach adulthood, but that's a long time to wait. Their own learning has suffered, and they've made pests of themselves to others, and missed some important points in making friends.

Yes, drugs are used to control hyperactivity, but not necessarily the drugs you think. Occasionally sedatives or tranquilizers may be helpful, but sometimes they just make the child more uncomfortable, plus perhaps drowsy. Drugged into sitting still, if too much is used.

Curiously, the opposite type of drug more often is useful — some of the so-called "pep pills," such as amphetamines, or the energizers of which Ritalin is the prime example.

For whatever unknown reasons, these drugs help the child mobilize or focus his attention on whatever he is doing. Instead of having his attention bounce from one thing to another.

It isn't a contagious condition. Nobody else can "catch it." But controlling the hyperactive child until he has outgrown it means years of careful medication enough to overcome the trait, but not enough to hurt him or let him become dependent on medications.

If you have such a buzzing, attention-switching child, by all means get expert guidance. Specialists in child psychiatry are ideal; counseling through one of the numerous Child Guidance Clinics is an excellent source of help. Many pediatricians are well-skilled in this type of problem.

Auto claims probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission has begun its second investigation in 17 months of auto makers' advertising claims, but says it lacks the manpower to undertake any more such probes in the future.

The FTC asked the big four U.S. manufacturers and eight foreign corporations to document within 60 days advertising claims on 1972 and 1973 models made on television and in newspapers and magazines between June 1 and Oct. 30.

Among the claims to be substantiated are General Motors' statement that steel beams in the Chevrolet Vega are "comparable" to highway guardrails; Ford Pinto and Chrysler statements that their automatic transmissions never need lubrication; American Motors' statement that the Ambassador offers "26 other necessities of life" without optional charge; and Volkswagen, Fiat, Saab and Renault statements about superior mileage.

Panel withheld ITT files

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two officials of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) say that, on advice of the White House, they withheld files on the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. from Congress because they contained "politically sensitive" information.

Testifying before a House commerce investigations subcommittee Thursday, William Casey, SEC chairman, and Charles S. Whitman, his executive assistant, did not explain what the SEC files contained of a political nature.

In 1970 ITT settled out of court with the Justice Department in a huge antitrust case, 10 days after an ITT subsidiary pledged to underwrite much of the cost of the Republican National Convention.

The ITT-Justice Department relationship later became the subject of Senate investigation. Whitman testified that he decided to reject a request by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., for the files because he felt Kennedy wanted them "to reveal their contents for political scandal" before the November presidential election.

LIGHTS on the national Christmas tree were tested Thursday. Vice President Spiro Agnew will officially light the tree in a ceremony today, (UPI).

Sergeant helps Navajo Indians

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Air Force Sgt. Craig Foster plans to be on a C130 "Hercules" when it takes off Monday with over 10,000 pounds of clothing, food and construction materials to donate to Navajo Indians in Arizona.

"The Navajo are a proud people. They don't complain if they're hungry or cold," Foster said. "But right now there is hunger and little food, cold and few blankets."

Foster, 38, heads up "Project Cold Cheer," a program to help the Navajos recover from recent devastating floods in time for Christmas.

Foster and his fellow airmen in the 55th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron at McClellan Air Force Base began collecting donations earlier this year. Next week an Air Force plane is scheduled to take the material to a small airfield in Winslow, Ariz.

Foster, an 18-year Air Force veteran, said he got the idea for the project after helping collect food and gifts last year for several California Indian tribes.

Last summer, Foster visited friends on the 15-million acre Navajo reservation where about 115,000 Indians live in areas of Arizona, New Mexico, Utah and Colorado.

US said discreet on Mid-East crisis

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Deputy Premier Yigal Allon returned from a Washington visit Thursday and said the United States is not anxious to take direct action to end the Middle East crisis.

Instead, Allon said, the Nixon administration prefers to play a more discreet diplomatic role. He said he received this impression from talks with Secretary of State William P. Rogers and incoming Defense Secretary Eliot L. Richardson during his visit to Washington. Washington, said Allon, is concerned about a backfire if its proposals on the Middle East were reactivated now. The United States, he said, would prefer that the parties involved approach Washington to use its good offices in the event of an initiative to end the deadlock in the area.

"The United States is aware that it should not take premature initiatives which could end before they start," Allon said. "The United States would not like to miss the opportunity to reach a settlement by making a premature initiative."

Canadian hijacker surrenders

MONTREAL (UPI) — A rifle-wielding youth who hijacked a jetliner for 10 hours released unharmed four hostages and then surrendered to police Thursday night after his father arrived to ask him to give up.

The hijacker, accompanied by his father and a psychiatrist, left the blue and white aircraft Quebecair jet less than a half hour after his father was flown here by government plane from Wabush, Labrador, where the skyjacking occurred early Thursday.

The three were followed from the aircraft by the pilot, co-pilot and two stewardesses, one of whom had convinced the youth he was ill and needed medical treatment.

Earlier in the day, during a previous stop at Montreal International airport, the hijacker permitted 57 passengers and one stewardess to disembark from the BAC111 jetliner.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) identified the youth as Larry Maxwell Stanford, 21, an unemployed construction worker from Saint John, N. B. Members of his family said the youth had a history of mental instability.

"I think he really made a mess of himself this time," the youth's father, John Stanford, told newsmen after the almost 10-hour drama had ended. Stanford declined to attend a news conference, but spoke for a few minutes with newsmen in an airport hangar.

Stanford said he and a Montreal psychiatrist, Dr. Bruno Cormier, did not actually board the aircraft to meet his son, but only went to the top of the boarding stairs.

Asked what his son said when he first saw him, Stanford said he said only "Hello, Dad." Stanford said his son has been under psychiatric care for "a long time." Asked what he would do for his son, Stanford said "I will try to do all that I can."

The hijacker seized the aircraft as it prepared to take off from Wabush for Montreal. He ordered the plane flown to Montreal, then to Ottawa for an 18-minute stop, then back to Montreal.

The hijacker permitted the passengers and one crewmember to get off the twin engine jetliner at Montreal during the first stop but he held the four other crewmembers hostage at gunpoint.

A thought for the day: U.S. philosopher William James said, "There is no more miserable human being than one in whom nothing is habitual but indecision."

Reds assault airbase

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist gunners fired rockets and mortars at an airbase housing 1,000 U.S. servicemen and at two nearby villages and a fuel storage dump early today. No Americans died, but the assault killed six villagers.

Military spokesmen said at least 16 Soviet-made 122mm rockets, each weighing 100 pounds, smashed into the huge Bien Hoa airbase outside Saigon and into two villages near the base.

No damage or casualties were reported at the airbase.

A few hours earlier, 13 mortar rounds dropped into the Nha Be fuel storage dump located six miles from the center of Saigon and first reports said 30 barrels of fuel burned. But the barrage missed huge tanks containing most of South Vietnam's petroleum supply.

An explosive device set off 30 minutes before the 11 p.m. curfew Thursday killed a South Vietnamese soldier in a Saigon parking lot, officials said. The blast also destroyed 100 gallons of fuel and damaged three trucks.

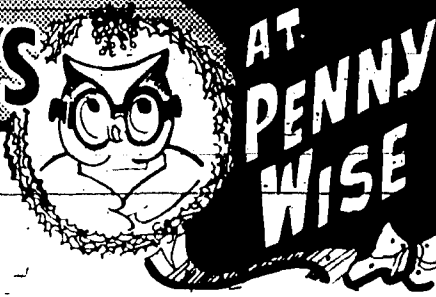

The barrage aimed at Bien Hoa, a duty station for about 1,000 U.S. Marine airmen, was the second such attack this month.

Another rocket attack at the Tan Son Nhut airbase nine days ago killed nine persons, one of them American, and wounded 54 others.

Other rocket and mortar attacks Thursday wounded four militiamen in Hiep Ninh village 20 miles outside Saigon and wounded one government soldier at an army position 19 miles outside the capital.

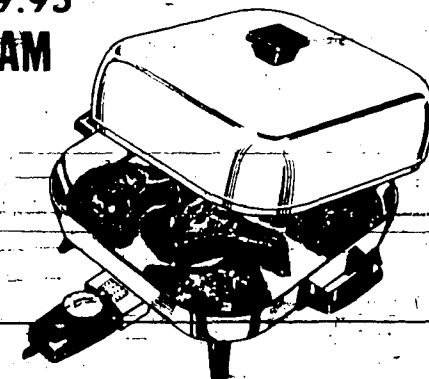

Earlier Thursday, two suspected Communist commandos carrying time bombs raided a huge ammunition dump outside Saigon, setting off explosions lasting 10 hours and destroying 1,000 tons of ammunition.

Boyle falls behind in vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With well over half of the votes counted, insurgent Arnold R. Miller has apparently ended incumbent Tony Boyle's 10-year reign as president of the 205,000 member United Mine Workers union.

Miller, 49, a West Virginia coal miner who heads the union's reform movement, held a 35,646 to 29,237 margin over Boyle, according to the latest figures released by the Labor Department Thursday.

Miller officials acting as observers for the round-the-clock ballot count later reported that the challenger had widened his lead to 40,913 to 32,313, or a margin of 55.9 per cent of the vote.

The government-supervised vote count was expected to be completed Saturday.

"We think we've got it won," Miller said.

A Boyle associate privately conceded that the incumbent was all but defeated. "We're going down the drain," he said.

Miller became the leader of the union's insurgent faction, known as Miners for Democracy, when Jock Yablonski, his wife and his daughter were murdered three weeks after Boyle overwhelmingly defeated Yablonski in 1969 for the UMW presidency.

U.S. District Court Judge William B. Bryant overturned Boyle's victory earlier this year.

Boyle supporters, for the most part, refused comment on Miller's growing vote total but conceded that their only chance was a sweep of the four western mining districts.

Yablonski said Miller's increasing majority was proof that Boyle rigged the 1969 election in order to defeat his father.

Boyle supporters, for the most part, refused comment on Miller's growing vote total but conceded that their only chance was a sweep of the four western mining districts.

Teen-age girl dies in blast

BELFAST (UPI) — A booby-trapped car exploded Thursday night outside a village pub, killing a teen-age girl who was mailing invitations to her forthcoming wedding. The blast injured six other persons and knocked out or disrupted electrical and telephone services.

The death of Kathleen Dolan, 19, raised the casualty toll in Northern Ireland strife over the past three years to 661.

An army spokesman said the explosion was caused by a bomb hidden inside a car parked outside a pub owned by Miss Dolan's father in Killeter, a village near the border between the north and the Irish republic.

Dolan said the blast occurred just after his daughter stepped out of the pub to put invitations to her Jan. 13 wedding into a nearby mail box.

The army and police said no warning was given before the explosion.

It was the second such explosion in the province in 24 hours. Earlier, a blast wrecked an engineering factory in south Belfast, injuring three persons.

In other violence Thursday, gunfire slightly damaged a British army helicopter near the border town of Crossmaglen and wounded a soldier aboard the craft. The pilot landed the helicopter safely.

In London, William Whitelaw, the secretary of state for Northern Ireland, told parliament Britain will conduct a plebiscite in the province on March 8 to enable its people to decide their political future.

Protestant politicians in the province said they were sure an overwhelming majority of voters would approve Northern Ireland's continued inclusion in the United Kingdom. Protestants outnumber Roman Catholics in the province by two to one.

British officials said the plebiscite was intended to assure the Protestant majority that London will not unite Northern Ireland with the Irish republic against their wishes.

Whitelaw also told parliament the British government has ruled out cease-fire negotiations with the banned Irish Republican Army (IRA).

There is no question of negotiating with them at all, Whitelaw said. "If they want a cease-fire, they can stop shooting."

College president expresses voter confidence

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — President James Taylor said Tuesday he felt citizens of the college district would demonstrate confidence in the College of Southern Idaho election day.

"I feel very strongly that the citizens of Jerome and Twin Falls counties are quite proud of this institution," Taylor said. "They're proud of the leadership, they're proud of the board of trustees, and I think on election day, the 19th, they will demonstrate that they are in favor of this institution."

On whether a student should be elected to the board of trustees:

"Anyone should be elected to the board of trustees who receives the greatest number of votes for that particular term. If a student is elected, I think he should serve on that board. I think we have many, many students on this campus who are capable to serve on a board of trustees."

"Asked if he thought a student should be on the board of trustees as a matter of policy, Taylor said, 'It's immaterial to me whether there is a policy that a student sit on the board of trustees."

He pointed out that since the inception of the college, the student body president has been invited to sit as an ex-officio member of the board of trustees.

"We have many student body presidents who have participated in the discussions and deliberations of this board of trustees," he added.

He also noted that there are students on every standing committee of the college.

On the question of tenure for CSI faculty members:

"This institution does not recognize tenure... Our board of trustees has never adopted a policy on tenure, and I think most of the present board are opposed to tenure. I personally am opposed to tenure. I think that any person that's doing an adequate job at this institution should have no fear for staying at this institution or for reappointment."

"Faculty members at this institution have academic freedom. We do ask that faculty members do not preach their own philosophy or pedagogy, ideology, in the classroom because I think they have a professional responsibility to teach the subject at hand."

"No instructor at this college has ever been dismissed because of his politics, his religion, his race, color, creed or sex."

Taylor estimated that since the inception of CSI the attrition rate for members of the faculty was five per cent or less.

The administrator said if there was low morale among members of the CSI faculty it was "because some teachers just naturally have low morale... If we have one or two disgruntled faculty members, I rather suspect it resides with that faculty member, and not necessarily the institution."

On the question of whether the board was a "rubber stamp" as charged by candidate Stanley Wachtstetter, Taylor said:

"Well, if I have been charged with leadership... I appreciate that, because for the last seven years I have lived, I have breathed and I have dedicated myself to the development of this institution."

"For those people who say I am a rubber stamp, or the board is a rubber stamp of my administration, I can only say I have had the good fortune of working with members of a board of trustees who have felt very strongly about developing a good institution."

On the CSI library: "I think the library of the College of Southern Idaho is one of the best junior college libraries in the United States of America... Personnel in our library — we have three professional librarians who have master's degrees in library science."

"Every other permanent employee of that library has a library technician's degree. The holdings in our library are approximately 100,000 volumes."

He said the library is one of the few open to the public without charge. It has no fines, he said.

Taylor did say that the library was not spacious enough to maintain back issues of periodicals for a long time and he thought this unfortunate.

He said he thought students and faculty members who found the library hard to use probably needed a refresher course in the Dewey Decimal system and the use of the card catalog.

"If you really want to get right down to it," Taylor said, "ninety per cent of the problems with the library are personalities, period. Period. Pure and simple."

He declined to say whose personalities were involved.

Asked about long-range plans for CSI, Taylor said one of his objectives was to "develop vocational facilities on campus."

"Of course a continuing objective of mine," he said, "is to adequately finance this junior college district." He said he favored extending the boundaries of the district to take in all eight counties that constitute the Magic Valley area.

Taylor said he thought students at CSI enjoyed freedom of dissent. Asked if he had any objection to an editorial appearing Monday in the student newspaper (Horizon) which supported student trustee candidate Stanley Wachtstetter and attorney Rudolf Barchas, Taylor said he did not.

He said he would not have attempted to stop the editorial from appearing in the paper had he known about it beforehand.

He said he had told students when they disagreed with one of his decisions they could appeal to the board of trustees. He noted faculty also had that avenue of appeal.

"But if you think I'm one of those vacillating, mealy-mouthed administrators you're talking to the wrong guy, because I can say yes and I can say no. And I can try to give you my reason for saying yes or no, but I don't close the door because you've got a board that you can get to."

Taylor said he had great confidence in the CSI student body. "Our student body is not going to be misled by an editorial from (The Times-News) or from this paper (Horizon). They're going to vote science. You know that as well as I do."

Reds plotted attack

MANILA (UPI) — Official government sources said today last week's assassination attempt on the wife of President Ferdinand E. Marcos was part of a Communist urban guerrilla plot to attack the presidential palace and other strategic installations.

The sources said the plot fizzled out when the knife-wielding attacker failed to kill Imelda R. Marcos, who was hospitalized for three days with stab wounds on her hands and arms. Her assailant, who attacked her as she presided over a public ceremony near Manila International Airport, was shot to death by security men.

"Evidence gathered by government investigators, the sources said, indicated that Mrs. Marcos' assassination was to have been the signal for simultaneous Communist attacks on Malacanang Palace, military installations and vital public utilities. They said the raids were mapped out to take advantage of the ensuing confusion following her killing.

Evidence of the plot, the sources said, was bolstered Tuesday night by the discovery of a huge cache of high-powered weapons — including rocket launchers, fragmentation grenades and automatic rifles — intended for use by guerrillas operating in the greater Manila area. Government investigators said they also found voluminous Communist propaganda materials.

Egypt officials unhappy with Arab cohorts

By United Press International
Egyptian officials said today they were completely disillusioned with the attitude of other Arab countries at a meeting of Arab military chiefs to plan a unified front against Israel.

The meeting was described by one official as "an exercise in futility."

While the Arabs were appealing for unity against Israel, Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said Wednesday Arab troops never would cross the Suez Canal to drive Israel from the Sinai peninsula which it has occupied since 1967.

A Cairo newspaper, believed to reflect government opinion, said Arab countries should either commit themselves to the fight against Israel or admit they are unwilling to do so.

Editor Moussa Sabry of Al Akhbar newspaper appeared in a front-page editorial: "Arab marshals and generals, pray spare us the agony of these empty meetings which regard, snarl and shatter and which serve only to hide the truth behind a torn and tattered cloak."

The situation can be summed up in one sentence," he wrote. "Either brace up and assault the enemy or break up and get lost in the recesses of oblivion."

Railroad strike hits pigeons

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pigeons have joined harried commuters as the main victims of a two-week-old strike against the Long Island Rail Road.

Most of the pigeons that foraged on the tracks and platforms of the huge Jamaica station, a "change" station for the various LIRR lines, are gone. "There used to be hundreds of them," said one railroad supervisor whose window overlooks the station where 75,000 commuters used to pass daily. "I guess they left because there's no one to feed them."

The strike against the nation's busiest—and one of the oldest—commuter railroad began Nov. 30 when 5,000 craft union members rejected a contract settlement proposed by a presidential fact-finding board and walked out. The 1,500 members of unions representing operating employees honored their picket lines.

Formal bargaining sessions between the state-owned line, the self-styled "Route of the Dashing Commuter," and the striking 12-union coalition broke off last week and the dispute has remained deadlocked. There is no prospect of an early settlement.

Meanwhile, the 138-year-old railroad's 800 daily trains remain in the yards and 90,000 regular daily commuters and 80,000 other daily one-way riders have been forced to take cars, buses and subways to get from Long Island suburbs to New York.

Surprisingly, the sometimes make-shift transportation arrangements—buses connecting with the city subway system and car pools—have worked well.

AEC negotiates to explode 3 N-devices

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) announced it began contract negotiations Wednesday for the proposed Project Rio Blanco with a private Las Vegas firm, CER Geonuclear Corp.

The project calls for the AEC and Geonuclear to collaborate along with the Equity Oil Co. of Salt Lake City in simultaneously exploding three 30-kiloton nuclear devices deep underground in the Piceance, Cerro Basin in northwestern Colorado.

The project is proposed for spring of 1973, although full approval has not yet been obtained.

If Rio Blanco follows the pattern set by the last such experiment, Project Rubicon, Equity Oil Co. will pay most of the costs against a possible future return on its investment, with the federal government paying the rest. Geonuclear will provide the technical know-how in cooperation with the AEC.

The purpose is to free trapped natural gas from rock formations deep underground by fracturing the rock and blasting out an underground cavern for the gas to collect in.

Bobbie saves mount

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) — For eight years, mounted policeman Kenneth Fisher rode his horse 'Sultan' through the streets of Birmingham.

Fisher grew to love the handsome chestnut gelding, "bursting with pride" when the animal won the Police Horse of the Year championship in 1968.

So when his superiors said the 12-year-old horse was too old and would have to be destroyed, Fisher bought the animal for $79 and put him out to pasture.

"It was obvious he could not be ridden and would have to go but I could not let that happen," Fisher said Wednesday.

Fad diets said misleading public

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A nutrition expert today described fad diets and over-the-counter reducing aids as "a snake oil type of industry" that misleads millions of Americans who want to get slim to be sexy.

"The fact is that none of these methods works for very long," Dr. Jean Mayer told a Senate subcommittee hearing. "I like to call it the rhythm method of girth control."

Mayer, a nutrition professor at Harvard who is a frequent government consultant, said nothing but sensible diets and exercise is going to peel off pounds, no matter what manufacturers of reducing aids and authors of fad diets contend.

"I don't see that any of them have any use whatsoever," Mayer said. "This is a snake oil type of industry of absolutely no value whatsoever."

The primary motivation for weight loss is a cosmetic one rather than a health one. The great majority of those who seek to reduce want to be more attractive to the opposite sex in one month more than they are worried about the possibility of developing diabetes in 20 or 25 years.

Yankee smoking increases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans are smoking an average of 202.5 packs of cigarettes per person this year, two packs more than 1971, the Agriculture Department says.

This is four packs more than the average in 1970, when cigarette smoking by Americans hit bottom after a long decline spurred by reports linking smoking to cancer and other diseases.

The 1972 level is, however, about one per cent below what the Agriculture Department in September predicted it would be. The figures are for Americans 18 and over. The Department expects the level to increase again next year partly because of population growth in the heavy-smoking age brackets and continued consumer income gains.

Brandt elected again

BONN (UPI) — Parliament re-elected Willy Brandt Chancellor of West Germany by a predicted wide majority today, assuring him a full four-year term in office.

The Bundestag, or lower house of parliament, met today in only its second session since Brandt scored a smashing election triumph at the polls and chose him by a vote of 269-223.

The vote was at first announced as much higher in Brandt's favor — 289 to 203 — and Brandt's supporters were jubilant since that would have meant at least 18 members of the Christian Democrat Opposition had broken ranks to vote for Brandt.

But later, the Bundestag announced a re-count had shown 20 "no" votes had mistakenly been counted as "yes."

Immediately after the vote, Brandt went to the office of the president to receive his appointment papers, then returned to parliament to take the oath of office.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and have two children, 7 and 5. I married the first time when I was 14. I grew up fast because I had to. My first husband and I divorced two years ago because he found somebody else. He married her the day after our divorce was final.

I was hurt and swore I'd never marry again, and I would use men like they did women. I dated a lot, and then I met John. He's 15 years older than I, and in the Air Force. We fell in love and got married in three months. Two months later he got orders to go to a remote site in Alaska for a whole year.

John trusts me and I'd never do anything to hurt him. I got all the men out of my system before I married him. John said before he left I should go out with the girls and have a good time, that he didn't expect me to stay home for whole year.

Tempt fate

When I got off work yesterday I asked my mother if she'd sit with my kids so I could go to the N. C. O. Club on the base for a while. All hell broke loose! She said she wouldn't sit with my kids while I ran around on my husband. Abby, I don't consider this "running around." I just need male companionship—a few drinks, a dance or two and some conversation, or I'll go nuts. I work five days a week and am saving my money so John and I will have something when he gets home.

Please give me your thoughts on this matter.

LONELY IN TEXAS

DEAR LONELY: Married women who "seek male companionship" for drinks, dancing, and conversation are asking for trouble. Why tempt fate? Keep busy with the girls until Johnny comes marching home.

DEAR ABBY: After 20 years of marriage, I discovered last year that my husband was having an affair. I went into a rage. Since then he hasn't left the house, except for work and chores. He spends all his evenings and spare time at home, but our relationship is miserable.

There is absolutely no physical contact, and our conversation deals only with superficial things. Any overture I make, he rejects. He has never said he wants a divorce.

I am at my wit's ends. Should I allow him the freedom of an affair to improve the atmosphere at home?

I'd appreciate it if you would print this with your reaction. Maybe it will help to start a discussion, which otherwise seems impossible. Thank you.

DEAD INSIDE

DEAR DEAD: You are being blackmailed! Your husband is saying, "Either you let me come and go as I please with no questions asked, or I'll just sit around like a zombie and sulk in my martyrdom." There is a third choice. If he refuses to cooperate and be a husband, you'd be ahead to sweep up the debris, while you're still young enough to make a life of your own.

DEAR ABBY: Last week my husband and I had a guest over for dinner. My husband loves to hunt, so we served a venison roast, which our guest said was delicious—until she heard it was DEER MEAT—then she flew into a rage! She went on and on about how cruel and inhuman it was to kill defenseless animals just for the sport of it, and that people who destroyed wildlife were sick and depraved!

We were stunned. Both my husband and I tried to explain that wildlife cannot be stockpiled, and if hunting were outlawed, the wildlife would overpopulate and would die of starvation.

She said she didn't believe a word of it—that Nature would provide.

Abby, how can you educate people like that?

HUNTER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: You can't. But if they want the facts, they can write to the Bureau of Sports, Fisheries and Wildlife, U. S. Department of Interior, Washington, D. C. 20240. Or they can do a little "hunting" on their own in their public libraries.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 63700, L. A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

MRS. ELLA Mink, Jerome, demonstrates making Christmas floral arrangements for Shoshone LDS Relief Society women. Mrs. Mink is a former Shoshone resident and has worked officially in flower arrangements and other art for about eight years.

Shoshone LDS group views yule floral demonstration

SHOSHONE — Making Christmas floral arrangements is a specialty of Mrs. Ella Mink, Jerome.

Her arrangements were shown to LDS Relief Society members and a demonstration given, officials announced today.

Mrs. Mink, a former Shoshone resident, said she had worked officially in flower arrangements and other art for about eight years, though she has always exercised the hobby.

Mrs. Mink said the state of Idaho was instrumental in getting the National Arts and Humanities Commission to define floral design as a discipline form, and thus open the door for advanced learning and broadening of the art in the nation.

She has taken schools at Corvallis, Ore. and Boise, through the federated clubs. She is a nationally credited flower show judge and is presently president of the Leaf and Petal Club in Jerome and a member of the Twin Falls Garden Club.

A variety of arrangements were made by the women present, under direction of Mrs. Mink.

Mrs. Frank Garrett, work director, was in charge of the activities, assisted by Mrs. Del Glauner.

In addition to the floral work, Darlene Glauner demonstrated making gingerbread houses and other pastry decorations. There was quilting and other type handicraft done by the women.

A luncheon was served at noon and the work lesson and mother training class were held during the early afternoon.

Sorority party plans announced

Mrs. Bruce Mecham was Santa Claus for the sorority sisters, distributing gifts from the secret sisters.

The Valentine dance was announced for Feb. 17 for all surrounding sorority members and guests at the Twin Falls Elks Lodge. Music will be by Ray Crumbliss and the Saints.

Mrs. Tegan won the white elephant gift. It was reported Beverly Richardson, a patient at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, is improving and will be coming home soon.

Here we are back with our code word, ARCH. Analyze the lead. Review the bidding. Count winners and losers. How can we make the contract?

West opened the king of clubs, continued with the ace and shifted to the six of diamonds.

South analyzed the diamond lead as showing the ace, but not the queen. He analyzed the club lead as showing ace and king, but not the queen.

This analysis marked West with the king-queen of spades and the king of hearts.

How can I make this contract? asked South. The question was in his mind only. South was a good player and good players don't talk while playing a dummy. He gave his mental answer and proceeded to rise with dummy's king of diamonds.

Then he led a trump, thought for a while to check his "previous" assumptions and clattered up with the ace of hearts.

West's king dropped. That was luck, but the sort of luck that good play will produce on occasion. West had to hold the king and it did turn out to be a singleton.

After this it was a simple matter to play West for both spade pictures and make his nine tricks.

THAT GIRL IS HERE AGAIN

By Mary Sue Miller

The girl who has everything, how can you possibly gift her? If the answer eludes you, just remember that there is always a new version of "everything." Look around for it. To get you in the groove:

For Miss Teen ... A trio of petite barrettes (1 1/2" long) such as a gliver of mock tortoise, circles with brushed gold effect; coins with a gold finish featuring an Indian head. Lady pioneer, pilgrim settler and stately forefather. Place them in a tiny wicker basket, lacquered red.

Purely a matter of time for the Careerist ... A watch with slender, white case and narrow white strap, the better to set off a jet black face.

A Flutterby would cherish a long wool chinchilla evening cape with a face-framing hood in a deep gold shade.

A handsome suede duffel girdled with burnished cowhide crowns the luggage of the Traveling Lady.

For a Hostess, a black silk kimono embroidered in gold and lined in red. Gorgeous!

Delight a Sophisticate with a fringed shawl of palest blue Lurex.

When all else fails, a gallon (literally) of friction for the bath is right on target.

Good hunting!

Moose women hear speaker

Man kettles

TWIN FALLS — Jack Muldoon, who represents the Salvation Army's Hospitality House, was featured speaker during the Women of the Moose meeting. It was announced today.

He told of the Salvation Army and the many charitable programs they are involved with throughout the year for the homeless and stranded people. Mrs. Ruby Bohm gave a report on personal instances in which the Salvation Army assisted her.

There will be a Christmas party for Moose members and their guests at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Moose Home. This will be a dinner dance.

Chris Carlson and his band will play the music.

The children's Christmas party is set for Dec. 21. This will be a family party and will include a potluck supper beginning at 7 p.m. Games, treats and surprises are in store for the young ones, according to lodge officials.

The next meeting is set for 8 p.m. Dec. 26.

TWIN FALLS — Members of Kiwanis, Rotary and Soroptimist Clubs will "man kettles" for the Salvation Army Saturday.

Jack Muldoon, president of Kiwanis and vice-chairman of the Salvation Army board, said the kettles will be in the downtown section of Twin Falls and also at the Lynwood Shopping Center. Club members have volunteered their services throughout the day and evening on the basis of shifts ranging from 30 minutes to one hour in duration.

A special citation, Muldoon said, will go to the organization "bringing in the most money for use in the Salvation Army projects."

Shoshone slates teacher workshop

SHOSHONE — Faculty members of the Shoshone School District will be attending workshop sessions Dec. 20 for six hours as the start of their Christmas vacation.

The training sessions, under the Needs Assessment program, will be for the purpose of helping faculty members meet the problems of the school district as shown in the Needs Assessment studies.

The classes dismiss at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 20 for vacation and teachers will then attend the six hour training seminar. This is the second such session and will be conducted by the Idaho Department of Education with a third session, Dec. 21. Faculty members will use skills gained in the training sessions to reach solutions to the needs identified in the special study last June.

Trustees of the Shoshone district have tentatively approved a plan of the Idaho Association of School Superintendents for entering a cooperative insurance program which will allow for insurance bids to cover all schools in the current school year and plans approved for use of the high school gymnasium on Sunday. Retirement of Mrs. Blanche Williams, teacher, was postponed until the end of the Booster Club.

Tapes may be ordered into court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has told the federal judge handling the Watergate bugging case that it would not object if he ordered the Los Angeles Times to give the court tape recordings of the newspaper's interviews with a key prosecution witness.

Attorneys representing the seven men indicted in last June's break-in at Democratic National headquarters asked U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to subpoena the tapes and other materials from the newspaper's interviews with Alfred C. Baldwin III, who has said he participated in the bugging operation.

In a brief filed Wednesday in the U.S. District Court here, the U.S. attorney's office said it saw no constitutional obstacles raised by the defense lawyers' request. But it also noted in the brief that the Times "has, of course, every right to move this court to quash the subpoena."

Should Sirica decide to issue the subpoena, the government said he should order the materials produced before the trial — scheduled to start Jan. 8 — so that appeals by the newspaper would not delay the trial.

Sewage project aired

WENDELL — A public hearing on a $141,000 sewage plant expansion program was held Thursday night by the Wendell City Council.

The city's share of the program would amount to $14,000 with Environmental Protection Agency grants and construction could begin next fall, according to JUB Engineers, Inc., Twin Falls.

Hugh Hedges, city engineer, told the group that the new system would clear up the odor problem that exists with the present system.

He explained the present system would be expanded so the lagoon would have a four-month storage. A small aerating lagoon would be constructed. Effluent would then go to existing lagoons and would be stored and-or chlorinated and sprinkled.

Hedges is resubmitting applications to the EPA for money available in the next fiscal year, he told the five citizens attending the hearing.

No objections were raised to the proposal.

In other council action, the building permit code was clarified in order that mobile home owners not complying with the law will have complaints signed against them by the building inspector.

Building inspector Keith Hosack met with the council to discuss what action should be taken in cases where mobile home owners want sewer and water hookups, but according to city ordinance cannot receive the city services until the mobile home is on a concrete pad with skirting.

Hosack said concrete foundations cannot be poured in this weather and questioned whether or not they should be allowed sewer and water services without meeting specifications of the ordinance.

The council decided there will be no hookups unless specifications are met, and added that due to weather extensions of sewer and water lines would be impossible anyway.

In addition the council decided to authorize Hosack to sign complaints against anyone he felt was not complying with the code or was moving in a mobile home without a building permit.

Presents flag

REP. ORVAL HANSEN presents a flag which flew over the capitol building to John Shay, president of the Wood River Junior High School, Halley, as part of similar flag presentations to local schools and groups Thursday.

Wood River students talk with Rep. Hansen

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — What do kids ask a congressman? When Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, visited the Wood River Junior High School Thursday, students came up with a wide variety of questions — some blunt — with topics ranging from the death penalty to legalization of marijuana.

A sample of the questions and Hansen's answers were as follows.

— "Do you plan to do anything about pollution in Idaho?"

Hansen said, "Cleaning up Idaho is the responsibility of all of us. We all are polluters."

However, the congressman said the role of the federal government in eliminating pollution is three-pronged.

The government provides funds for such projects as sewage treatment plants; sets standards based on the technology we now have — including "how clean water should be by a certain deadline," and conducts research on pollution, Hansen said.

— "How do you feel about gun control?" Should it be a local option?

Hansen replied he did not favor a blanket gun control law which did not include a state-by-state decision on the matter. He said he did not feel gun control was required in Idaho as it did not have the same problem as exists in large metropolitan areas.

— "How do you feel on legalization of marijuana?"

The congressman said he did not favor legalization because "there still is a fair amount of evidence that shows marijuana does have harmful effects, particularly on young people."

Hansen said marijuana, like alcohol, "deprives people of the value of facing reality."

— "How do you feel about the war?"

Hansen replied, "History may show that we have made horrendous mistakes with the conduct of the war."

However, he said the United States was getting out of the war by the best means — negotiated settlement — which he said hopefully will bring a permanent peace to Southeast Asia.

— "Do you discuss and talk things over with the President?"

Hansen said the President has to allocate time for a whole range of problems, both in the US and around the world. On occasion, a group of legislators meet with the President on a particular problem, he said.

Area chamber hears Hansen

KETCHUM — Government restructuring and spending controls will top the congressional agenda this session, according to Rep. Orval Hansen.

Hansen, R-Idaho, spoke Thursday before an informal meeting of the Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce. An amount of government restructuring was already evident in President Nixon's cabinet appointments — "centering more decision making within the White House and less within the cabinet," Hansen said.

A sweeping re-organization plan to reduce the total numbers of departments is also expected to be submitted to Congress, he said.

A measure to allow the President to set spending ceilings died last session, Hansen said. However, he said spending controls are needed because of the "inflationary impact of continued large deficits."

On the general revenue sharing bill, Hansen said he supported the Senate and final conference versions, which gave a "better break to small communities and states."

The revenue sharing theory stems from the fact that the federal government derives most of its funds from the progressive income tax, with most of the counties and cities getting funding from property taxes and the states using sales tax, Hansen said. Even with an increased tax base, Hansen said, financial "support for local government does not grow as fast as needs grow." He said revenue grew at one-half of a per cent for every percentage of growth.

Instead, with the progressive income tax, the congressmen said federal funds grew one and one-half per cent for every percentage of growth.

The result "is a slow dying of local and state government with their inability to perform the services they ought to perform" and more reliance on federal services, Hansen said.

This situation would offer "less opportunity for local governments to make decisions effective themselves," Hansen said.

The discussion was followed by Hansen presenting a flag which had flown over the capitol to the David Ketchum Post of the American Legion, replacing a flag which had been stolen.

Post commander Clifford Noxon accepted the flag on behalf of the post.

Target date set

TWIN FALLS — Members of a new Twin Falls Transportation Planning Committee have set July 1 as the target date for completing a master plan.

The plan will cover surface transportation inventories, needs and recommendations for urban areas around Twin Falls and other parts of the county.

Meeting Thursday afternoon, the committee, comprised of city and county officials, highway district and department of highways representatives, voted to elect Merl E. Leonard, county commissioner, as chairman.

Formation of the transportation planning group began last summer as one of many planning groups in the county. The election of Leonard Thursday completes organization procedure and the committee will meet again Jan. 31 to hear reports on statistics, and data available on highway and county road use.

They will also review guide lines of their planning and review a list of topics to be studied and emphasized in the planning procedure.

City Manager Jean Milar told the group their accomplishments will be only as good and as aggressive as their leadership and the committee workers.

Milar said some of the transportation problems the committee will consider include existing facilities and extent of use of U. S. Highways 93 and 30 through Twin Falls as well as State Highway 74 and possible belt routes and by-passes.

Blue Lakes Boulevard North, part of U. S. Highway 93 which carries the traffic to commercial interests on the boulevard and also brings traffic into Twin Falls from Interstate 80 N.

Serving on the committee are Kenneth Poe and Ora Jones, Twin Falls Highway District directors; Ann Cover and Mike Gray, city council members and Everett Kidner, Department of Highways, as well as Leonard. Other city and county officials attend meetings but have no vote.

Milar said the committee will also have to consider funding possibilities on any recommended improvement and will work closely with the state Department of Highways on problem areas.

SV opens 37th winter season

SUN VALLEY — Sun Valley will open Saturday for its 37th winter season with a myriad of new facilities and hopefully a new layer of snow.

Snow conditions caused transfer of the holiday classic race, scheduled for the coming week, to Vale, Colo.

However, according to the Sun Valley News Bureau, a snowstorm is anticipated this afternoon or Saturday.

On Baldy, the Ketchum ranger station lists 14 inches of snow at the top and 12 inches at the Roundhouse, with five inches on the valley floor.

Valley officials said only River Run lift will be open initially and skiers will be bused to Galena if necessary.

During the summer, new Baldy facilities were added including two lifts, a restaurant and bowl run. Other runs were widened.

The new Plaza lift is a double chair beginning about 100 yards below the boarding area of the Warm Springs lift and terminates about the middle College run.

Lookout, a second new triple chair, transverse the mountain top from "near" the new restaurant to Fire Lookout Hut above Lookout Bowl.

On Dollar Mountain, the new triple lift has been constructed from the center of Elkhorn, Sun Valley's new sister village, to the ridge south of Dollar lift.

Fire damages Wendell home

WENDELL — The Wendell Rural Fire Department battled a fire for three hours Thursday afternoon at a home four and one-half miles west and two and one-half miles north of Wendell.

The home is on the Arthur Peterson farm. One wall in the attic was in flames when firemen arrived but no one was home at the time of the fire.

According to Fire Chief George Wahler about $5-6,000 damage was caused by the blaze which apparently started when a coal stove in the living room overheated and set fire to papers by the stove.

Fire fighting was hampered by building construction, Wahler said. The home had been remodelled with false walls and ceilings.

Burley cellar still smolders

BURLEY — Smoke still poured from an A and P potato cellar west of here Thursday afternoon although efforts to smother the flames had extended more than 12 hours.

Two rural fire trucks based in Burley answered a fire call from A and P Tea Co. at 10:15 p.m. Wednesday. The fire was evidenced by smoke billowing from the north end of a potato storage cellar, although flames were not visible. The plant is located about three miles west of Burley on Highway 30.

The fire had been confined to the northern 75 feet of the cellar as of Thursday afternoon. The fire trucks left the scene at 8:45 a.m. Thursday but A and P employees maintained the battle.

Lynn Dalling, plant manager, said the company's loss might be restricted to 40,000 sacks of potatoes if the northern third of the fire are held. The cellar houses more than 150,000 sacks of potatoes, according to Dalling.

Resigns

SUN VALLEY — Harry Holmes, president of the Sun Valley Co., Inc., has resigned his post effective Dec. 31.

According to the Sun Valley News Bureau, replacing Holmes as president and chief administrative officer will be Alan B. Coleman, former president of Yosemite Park and Curry Co.

Holmes will remain in Sun Valley and will continue to serve in a consulting capacity, officials said.

Commenting on Holmes' retirement, William C. Janss, company board chairman said, "Harry Holmes has been instrumental in the development of Sun Valley since 1965. His administrative and executive talents have been outstanding and we wish him the best of success in his new ventures."

TF zoning unit given report

Included in the proposed types of zones are:

— agricultural (A), seeking to retain the economic base that identifies Twin Falls County by preserving the good productive lands for agricultural purposes by identifying farm lands lying in those unincorporated portions of the county not likely to undergo intensive urban development;

— residential agricultural (RA), which would allow for low density residential development where compatible with the agricultural activity in the area. Fasolino told the commission RA zones would be placed around the towns and cities of the county, where purely agricultural land uses are gradually shifting to include more residential developments. All residential units would be on plots of one acre or more;

— residential zone (R), established for single family or duplex dwellings to be built on 10,000 foot lots. Trailer homes would be excluded. Subdivisions would be permitted;

— residential high zone (RH), to provide "a zone with greater density for residential usage," and for homes with a lower "dollar sign," according to Fasolino, with a minimum single home lot of 5,400 square feet and 7,000 square feet for a duplex dwelling;

— residential trailer (RT), a higher density residential zone, permitting mobile homes on 4,000 square foot lots, duplexes on 5,200 foot lots and three family units on 5,800 square foot lots. No such zoning currently exists in the county, Fasolino noted in his remarks, and the proposed areas take in locations "less suited for residential areas";

— commercial (C) — for areas along highways that the planners expect will experience growth including the southern part of the county near

Rogerson; — industrial light and industrial medium (IL and IM), to provide for the grouping of industry;

— outdoor recreation (OR), which would permit commercialism only if it were "closely associated with recreational needs";

Also included are an airport zone, largely created to protect airport development from encroachments from other developers, as well as a zone marked "Forest Service Zone" for lands which fall under federal jurisdiction.

Also included in the report is a "Special Provisions and Exceptions" section, which anticipates conditional uses, temporary uses, home occupations, variances and reclassifications.

In addition, the report calls for the creation of the five-man board of adjustments, with a membership to be drawn from the planning and zoning commission, to hear appeals on the judgments of the county zoning administrator.

Robert Alexander, a Twin Falls attorney who assisted Fasolino in legal aspects of the study told the group all efforts would be made to write "enforceable ordinances."

He also told them clarifying legislation might be needed on the state level to assist in the creation of subdivision ordinances, however.

Minor changes in the report are expected, Fasolino said, and the finalized ordinance proposals should be ready in several weeks, as well as the accompanying proposed zoning maps.

Koumlik said it would take the commission several months to study the plan before making any final recommendations to the county commissioners, who must legally pass the ordinance.

KETCHUM — This Christmas parents will have to do a little more than just be good to win Santa Claus' approval.

They will also have to donate a pint of blood. Santa Claus has been named honorary chairman of the winter, Blaine County Blood Drive, scheduled for Monday, in Ketchum. During the next few days Santa will be on KSKI radio, urging children to bring their parents to the drawing.

According to Mrs. Stan Atkinson, board member of the Sun Valley Hospital Auxiliary, the drawing will be conducted from 2 to 6 p.m. at the Our Lady of the Snows Catholic Hall on Sun Valley Road.

Mrs. Atkinson said the usual quota of 100 pints has been set, but in the past the county has often fallen short.

"We hope all parents will participate and wipe their slate clean for Christmas," Mrs. Atkinson said.

RUPERT — The Minidoka County Zoning Board will recommend the county commissioners raise building permit fees in January.

The board members took the action Thursday night after hearing reports from county zoning administrator, Roy Archer, and Bill McClung, building inspector for the cities of Paul and Heyburn.

The motion for the recommendation made by board member Henry Schodde said the zoning board will ask the commissioners to adopt building permit rates as outlined in the 1973 building code.

McClung said the permit rates now being used by Minidoka County, Paul and Heyburn are the lowest in southern Idaho and should be raised to meet the rates of other cities and counties.

He said at present a permit for an $18,000 home in Burley would cost $68 while Heyburn would charge $25 and Paul $30.

The board also approved a recommendation that the county zoning administrator job be made a fulltime position.

Archer presently works on a half-day basis. He said the job needs full time attention although he wants to maintain his parttime duties. Hiring of another zoning worker on a parttime basis was suggested.

In other action the board reviewed plans for mobile home parks submitted by John Brog, Burley, and L. R. Haag, Rupert. Brog proposed a mobile home court at 300 South and 640 West with a maximum of 25 units and Haag submitted plans for a 50-unit court at 385 South and 200 West.

Burley plant "smokes"

Burglar leaves money

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Jesse Hosey was reluctant to call police the first time it happened. But a month later when an intruder broke into his apartment and for the second time, instead of stealing anything, left cash, Hosey called authorities.

"I told police it was so screwy I hated to call them," Hosey said Wednesday. The intruder left $16 Nov. 9 and $12 Dec. 10 and some mysterious writing. "I am concerned about it," Hosey said.

Police were concerned too, but not as much about catching the intruder as what they would do with him afterward.

"By law it can't be classified as a burglary," said investigating officer Ken Moser. "I suppose you could say he was breaking and entering and then trespassing. That would take care of the intent-to-commit-crime requirement. We have a manhunt on, but I'm just not sure what the charges would be."

"This is definitely a first for me," Moser said. He said Hosey is about 50, works for McDonald-Douglas Aircraft Corp. and he has plenty.

The intruder first broke into Hosey's apartment Nov. 9, kicking in the front door. Hosey, who also has a home in the country, was not in the apartment at the time. The mystery persons took ice from the refrigerator, shoved the coffee table against the couch, placed the cash in the room and left. Nothing was stolen.

"There was $16, a ten, a five and a one lying under a chair in the corner," Hosey said. "With them was a calling card but without any names or anything on it. It has some meaningless numbers written on it in pencil. There was about $500 in bonds on the bedroom dresser which wasn't bothered."

The second time the intruder struck, Sunday, he left $12.

This time there was a bank deposit envelope, from my bank, containing two fives and two ones, next to the telephone book on the dining room table.

The envelope had the initials "E.L." and a number, "2391," written on it in ink. Hosey said, "I really have no idea what's going on."

Power company builds transmission lines

BOISE — Idaho Power Co. is using a tower-toting helicopter for environmental protection. The company has started building the first of three 345,000-volt transmission lines.

The new line, that will tie its new Wyoming steam generating plant to its service area, and estimated to cost more than $12 million, will extend 228 miles between the Jim Bridger generating plant and the existing Goshen substation northeast of blackfoot.

A right-of-way for the heavy-duty line was granted by the U.S. Interior Department recently after the Environmental Protection Agency approved a final environmental impact statement.

G. J. Hall, Idaho Power vice president for power operations and engineering, said the line is scheduled for completion in 1974 to coincide with start-up of the utility's 500,000-kilowatt unit at the Jim Bridger plant.

The coal-fired generating facility, due to be producing 1.5 million kilowatts with its three units by 1976, is being built jointly by Idaho Power and Pacific Power and Light Co., Portland, at an isolated desert site 35 miles northeast of Rock Springs.

Energy from the nine-mouth plant also will be carried to Idaho Power's system by two other new 345,000-volt lines terminating at the Borah substation near American Falls and the Knappton substation near Pocatello. Both substations will be new facilities.

J. F. Servis, Idaho Power engineering superintendent, said "every effort" to protect the environment during construction of the new Bridger-Goshen line is being made in cooperation with state and federal agencies.

To minimize the use of heavy ground equipment and access-road construction, a giant, turbine-powered helicopter will erect most of the line's Y-shaped aluminum towers.

Some of the heavier, taller towers will be airlifted to their sites in pre-assembled sections, but the lighter, shorter ones will be pre-assembled and lifted to their sites as complete units.

The 1,093 towers range in height from 70 feet to 140 feet and in weight — including guys and insulators — from 4,500 pounds to 5,000 pounds.

"It is our intent to clear from the right-of-way only those trees that must be removed to assure efficient operation of the line," Servis said.

He added that no permanent access roads will be built and the ground will be restored to its original condition following the line's completion.

Both the line's route and design were selected with "great care" to minimize its visual impact, the superintendent said. The new carrier bypasses population centers, intensive agricultural development and scenic, recreation and historical areas, as well as avoiding long sections paralleling highways.

Dog, child reunited

MADRID (UPI) — A two-year-old collie arrived in Madrid today from Tampa, Fla., for a Christmas reunion with a heartbroken child whose health had been endangered by grief over their separation.

Four-year-old Vanessa Malendez and her dog, Wa-Wo, were separated in August when her father, U.S. Air Force Capt. Ismael Malendez, was transferred from Tampa to Madrid. They left the dog behind at the Humane Society, hopeful it could find a good home. But Vanessa mourned the loss of her friend and companion and her grief became progressively worse, raising concern for her health.

It was decided the only answer was to reunite Vanessa and Wa-Wo, so the dog was traced to his new home, where the owners agreed to sell the dog back when they heard about Vanessa.

Today, with all the formalities and transportation problems solved by the Humane Society, Wa-Wo arrived at Madrid airport and one little girl was a whole lot happier.

"Mommy, you won't send him away again will you? were Vanessa's first words on learning the dog had arrived, said her mother, Mrs. Cheryl Malendez.

"She's been so very, very happy ever since. It really has made a tremendous change in her."

"Now we're just waiting for a chance to pick him up at the airport. My husband is flying today and my Spanish is not all that good, so we're waiting for him to come down before going to the airport."

"As far as I know there are no quarantine problems. The Humane Society did a marvelous job at arranging everything. They even built a special cage through the night when they found they didn't have one big enough."

Justice strikes nonsmoker blow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has struck an unofficial blow for the rights of nonsmokers on trains.

Burger and his wife rode from Washington to New York and back in November in the first class club car of Amtrak's Metroliner, and each time they found the atmosphere laden with cigar smoke.

When Burger complained to a conductor, he was told he could move to a tourist class car. Burger decided to do something about it. On Nov. 30 he wrote Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe a letter of protest.

An Amtrak spokesman said that as of Dec. 8 cigar and pipe-smoking has been banned in the Metroliner car. Cigarettes are still allowed.

Burger's letter said: "Tuesday of this week Mrs. Burger and I took the Metroliner to New York and returned Wednesday. On the trip up the club car was polluted by three cigar smokers and on the return by four of them—all in addition to cigarettes. When I called the conductor, I was advised that non-smokers could go to the next car—tourist class—and escape the smokers."

"I could hardly credit what I heard. Twenty-five nonsmokers, who paid for first class, could protect themselves from four smokers only by moving! This turns common sense and common decency on its head."

Extended storage privileges on grain loans cut sharply

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials have drastically curtailed a long-standing program of offering extended-storage privileges on grain price support loans.

The move will boost potential market supplies next spring.

The action will affect nearly 243 million bushels of wheat currently stored on farms and in warehouses from 1971 and earlier crops, along with 215 million bushels of corn, nearly 134 million bushels of oats, and smaller amounts of grain sorghum and rye.

The grains involved are stored under what officials and farmers call "re-seal" price support loans.

In normal price support operations, farmers store grain in on-farm bins or in commercial warehouses and receive government support loans which mature in the spring or fall of the year after harvest.

In the past, when loan maturity dates arrived, farmers have frequently been offered a chance to extend the loan for an additional year or years. This "re-seal" extension allows the grower to keep formal title to the grain so he can, at some future time if market prices rise, pay off his loan and sell the grain on the open market.

This year, however, stocks of grains are being drained because of heavy demands, including big sales to Russia last summer with prospects of more Soviet orders in 1973. So officials ruled this week that extended loans on all supported grains in warehouse storage will be allowed to mature on schedule in 1973. With no further extensions or "re-seals."

In addition, "re-seal" loans on several crop years of grains stored on farms will not be extended.

This means that when the maturity dates arrive in 1973, farmers holding the affected crops must either pay off their loans and sell the grain, or deliver title to the government which can then sell it.

The grains and crop years on which re-seal will not be granted next year include:

Wheat — Farm-store grain from the 1968 through 1971 crops except 1971 durum; and warehouse-stored grain from 1971 and 1970.

Corn — Farm-stored 1969 and 1970 and 1971 warehouse-stored.

Barley — Farm-stored, 1968 through 1971.

Oats — Farm-stored 1968 through 1970.

Grain Sorghum — Farm-stored 1969 through 1971, and 1971 warehouse-stored.

Rye — 1971 farm-stored.

Officials said decisions will be made later on whether to allow "re-seal" of farm-stored 1972-crop feed grains and wheat and 1971 farm-stored durum wheat, oats and corn. No "re-seal" will be allowed for 1972 grains stored in warehouses or 1972 soybeans stored either on farms or in warehouses.

In an allied move, because the need for farm storage is declining, the Agriculture Department this week tightened its loan program for construction of farm storage buildings.

Among other changes aimed at sharply trimming the credit operation, officials said they would allow loans for storage of only one year's production rather than for two-year capacity as at present.

Board meet set

BURLEY — The advisory board for Burley District No. 2, Bureau of Land Management, will meet at 9:30 a.m. Dec. 21.

Nick J. Cozakis, district manager, said the meeting in the district office building conference room will deal with grazing applications for 1973 and Section 7 transfers.

Board members include John A. Pierce, Malta; Ray W. Lincoln, Twin Falls; Edwin D. Crockett, Hansen; Jay B. Wrigley and W. E. Barkdull Jr., Burley.

Chicken lid end sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl B. Butz will urge the Cost of Living Council to end price ceilings for chicken producers, it was learned today.

Butz, endorsing an appeal from poultry industry leaders, will tell the council that slaughtered, ready-to-cook broiler-fryers sold by integrated chicken firms should be given the same "raw farm product" exemption from controls which is already allowed for products such as live cattle and hogs.

Agriculture Department aides are drafting detailed statements for Butz to present to the council, an official said.

One Agriculture Department official speculated today that if the council grants a "chicken exemption," consumers might find poultry cheaper than if controls are continued.

If they continue controls, it could inhibit production and keep prices near ceilings; but if they take controls off, the industry might react by over-producing and driving prices down," the official said.

Under current price regulations, live chickens are exempt from control. But slaughtered birds are subject to price regulation, and virtually all chickens are produced by "integrated" firms which own the birds from the time they are hatched until after they are slaughtered, processed and sold.

Since there are no sales of chickens in the live state, the exemption from controls for live birds does the producing firms no good.

Word that Butz would personally carry the exemption appeal to the council, which has turned it down twice already this year, came after broiler industry leaders met Tuesday to map plans for getting government relief on price controls and the high cost of poultry feed ingredients. A second meeting was scheduled Saturday in Atlanta, Ga.

Snake R. storage said good

BURLEY — Snake River water storage above Milner amounts to 71 per cent of capacity according to Carlos Randolph, Minidoka Project superintendent.

The reservoirs above Milner and their contents in acre feet are American Falls, 1.08 million; Palisades, 1 million; Jackson Lake, 604,000; Island Park, 72,000; Walcott, 58,000; Grassy Lake, 10,000.

Storage carryover has been judged extremely good since it is above median. The outlook for irrigation water for the 1973 season is also considered extremely good.

Filling of American Falls Reservoir was recently restricted to 11 feet below normal capacity. The restriction point was reached Nov. 10 and reservoir contents have been maintained near that elevation. The water surface elevation will remain steady, until irrigation demand reduces it during the 1973 irrigation season.

Snake River streamflow at Milner Dam will average about 8,000 cubic feet per second until early spring, 1973, as the inflow to the American Falls Reservoir is passed through the storage system.

Kil water vote told

KING HILL — Results of the King Hill Irrigation District election Tuesday were announced today.

Farm land loss won't cut crop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some 34 million acres of U.S. farmland will be taken over for other uses by the year 2000, but there will be more than enough left to produce the nation's food and fiber, an Agriculture Department study said Thursday.

The forecast, prepared by economists in the Economic Research Service (ERS), was published in the agency's Farm Index magazine.

Experts said the study indicated that of the nearly 2 billion acres of total land in the 48 mainland states, about half is currently in farms and used mostly for crops and livestock. The report said, however, that increasing per-acre yields in recent years have led farmers to increase a growing volume of land under federal surplus control programs.

The amount of land idled because of a 50 per cent gain in per-acre productivity since 1950 has been rising at the rate of about 1 million acres annually. Looking ahead to 2000, the study projected a 3 per cent cut — nearly 34 million acres — in the total amount of land in farms.

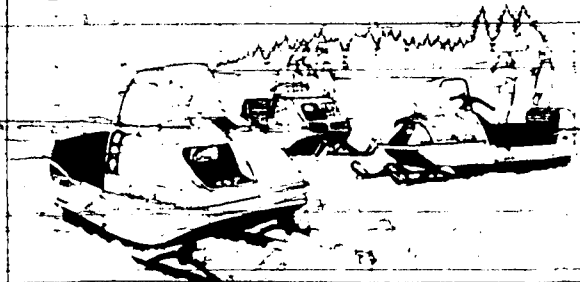

About 22 million acres will be taken for urban expansion including highways and airports, another 7 million will go to recreation and wildlife areas, and about 5 million acres for varied uses including defense installations, "second home" communities, reservoirs and strip mining.

But assessing the land which will remain, the potential U.S. population of 308 million in 2000, and likely productivity, the survey reported that agriculture will have no difficulty meeting the country's needs for food and fiber.

How much is enough? $5,000 or $50,000. Enough to buy more feeders. Enough to buy seed. To hire help to plant a crop and harvest it. Maybe enough for your child's college education.

Enough is a line of credit from your Production Credit Association. It provides money when you need it. Lets you pay back when you've got it and at the lowest possible cost.

It's all written down, planned and programmed for your special needs with a man who knows agriculture in your area like the back of his hand. And he knows how to put money to work for your profit.

TWIN FALLS — First prize in the state Grange community service program has been presented to the Twin Falls Grange No. 216.

Tom Kunkel, state deputy, presented a $100 savings bond and a certificate of recognition from the National Grange, to Clark Kleinkopf, chairman of the community service program for the Twin Falls Grange.

He accepted the awards on behalf of the Grange and thanked the members for the hours of work which went into winning them.

The projects completed by the Twin Falls Grange toward the award include a pancake supper for benefit of the Idaho Youth Ranch at Rupert; donations to various causes including a Senior Citizens Community Center in Twin Falls; sponsorship of 4-H Club groups and of junior gardener and home beautification clubs; and serving meals to various organizations.

Kleinkopf estimated Grange members worked 1,991 hours and drove 2,353 miles in carrying out the various projects.

Gem dairy standards, equipment meet topics

TWIN FALLS — Four officials from different segments of Idaho's dairy industry spoke to area dairymen Thursday concerning management problems, regulations, equipment and advertising in the industry.

Jaye Nichols, Boise, Idaho Bureau of Dairying, explained proposed minimum standards for manufacturing milk for Idaho dairymen. He also covered farm certification requirements for manufacturing milk in Idaho, under provisions of dairy laws and regulations of the Idaho Department of Agriculture.

G. W. Cleveland, Idaho extension dairyman, and Ed Fiez, area extension dairy specialist, discussed milking management problems and milking machine maintenance problems.

Fiez, through a slide presentation prepared by the University of Idaho Extension Service, covered milking procedures; design, operation, and maintenance of milking units.

He discussed how improper milking systems are not only inefficient but can be harmful to the cow.

A well designed and maintained system and sound milking practices are vital to a proper milk harvesting program, he said.

In another presentation, Don

Papenberg, administrator of the Idaho Dairy Products Commission, gave a rundown on what the commission is doing and plans to do with the money they collect from the set-aside

In his presentation, Papenberg showed several dairy advertising films now being seen in Idaho or scheduled in Idaho in the near future by the American Dairy Association.

In the afternoon representatives of six dairy equipment firms presented discussions for the farmers on their equipment. After the discussions, dairy farmers toured equipment displays of the companies.

Growers seeking exemption

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Wheat Growers Association has asked the legislature to exclude the wheat commission and other commodity commissions from the state's executive reorganization plan.

The wheat growers said that farmer control of the Idaho Wheat Commission would be seriously weakened if the law-makers include it in the reorganization plan.

In other business, the wheat growers elected Ben Hayden, Pocatello, to succeed Robert Drake, Plummer, as president. They named George Brammer, Lenore, vice president, and Max Parkinson, Lenore, secretary-treasurer.

Farm

Farming rights bill endorsed

SPOKANE (UPI) — The Washington Association of Wheat Growers has passed a resolution encouraging national and state legislators to provide a "bill of rights" for farm employers and employees.

The action came Wednesday afternoon at the final session of the association's convention.

The "Bill of rights" would:

— Protect the right to organize and bargain collectively;
— Set up a farm labor relations board to settle disputes between employers and union members on a just and equitable basis;

— Outlaw strikes at critical growing times;

— Guarantee the right of the family farmer to work on his farm at any job without paying union dues and to market his crops wherever he chooses without union-induced discrimination;

— Outlaw secondary boycotts; and — Give a farm labor relations board the power to award compensatory judgment in line with infractions committed.

During the closing session of the three-day convention Jack Dewitt, Waitsburg, was elected president of the group for the coming year. Dewitt succeeds Eliwood "Tex" Brown, Bickleton, in the association's top post.

Also elected were L. Jerald Sheffels, Wilbur, first vice president, and Richard Deffenbach, Kennewick, second vice-president.

Wheat growers slate meeting

WASHINGTON — The 23rd annual meeting of the National Association of Wheat Growers scheduled Jan. 7-11, in Seattle will be one of the most significant annual conferences in the organization's history. President Gene Mops of Edwall, Wash., said.

Wheat prices are up. Stocks are down. Exports are big. World trade is brisk. But the future is uncertain. This setting for the conference is bound to make it one of national and newsworthy importance. Moos said.

About 200 growers from the 11 member states, plus a strong contingent of trade and agribusiness representatives, are expected for general sessions.

All sessions will be held in Seattle's Washington Plaza Hotel. NAWG officers and directors will meet in special session Sunday, Jan. 7. Committee members will convene the morning of Jan. 8 and general sessions will begin that afternoon.

Top billing in the general sessions will be given to new farm program policies and to the outlook for exports.

The farm program discussions will include a report by Carroll G. Brunthaver, assistant secretary of agriculture for international affairs and commodity programs, who is scheduled to talk Jan. 9 on "New Farm Program Policies." Brunthaver is a leading Department of Agriculture spokesman on agricultural policies and the remarks should give some important clues to what the Administration has in mind for wheat programs.

A Commodity Look at Farm Program Needs will be presented by a panel of grower organization representatives, moderated by Rep. Tom Foley, D-Wash., who is in line for chairmanship of the important House "Agricultural Subcommittee" on Livestock and Grains when the 93rd Congress convenes in January. Export prospects will hold the stage of Jan. 10. A noon luncheon will be addressed by Ambassador William D. Eberle.

Selenium approved

MOSCOW — Idaho cattlemen were assured that injectible selenium is not being withdrawn from use by the Food and Drug Administration. The assurance was offered by Dr. E. E. Kerr, San Francisco based regional FDA veterinarian.

Kerr was contacted by Dr. Floyd Frank, head, Department of Veterinary Science at the University of Idaho.

4-H Forum entry due

GLENN'S FERRY — Any 4-H leader who is interested in attending the eighth annual Western Regional 4-H Leader Forum should inform the office before Monday.

Mrs. Marilyn Jordan, Elmore County home extension agent, stated the forum will be held at Albuquerque, N.M., March 1-5. Three scholarships will be available to help with expenses.

Mrs. Jordan said she hopes that more than three will attend. The theme this year is 4-H For All. The leaders are expected to share what they learn with other leaders and 4-Hers.

Western entries at peak

DENVER (UPI) — Total individual entries for the 1973 National Western Stock Show total 4,627, just under the record high of 4,641 set in 1971, stock show officials announced Wednesday.

Entries for the 67th annual stock show, which begins Jan. 12 in Denver, were accepted until Dec. 1. The figure does not include exhibits in the poultry and rabbit shows or the car-load division.

National Western General Manager Willard Summs said the new total was significant because open class market lambs have been dropped from the judging competition.

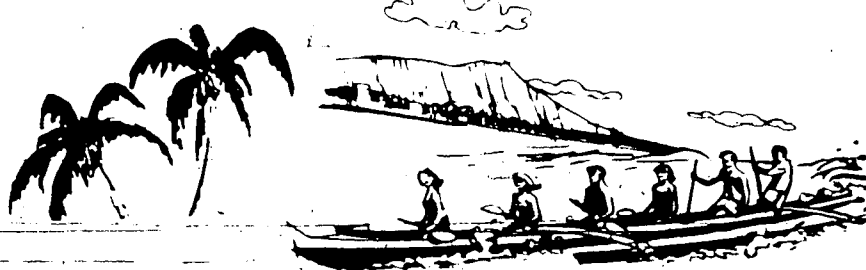

There will be 540 exhibitors in the junior division from 19 states, including Colorado, Nebraska, New Mexico, Wyoming, Utah and the Dakotas.

Gem water aide seeks sales nod

BOISE (UPI) — Director R. Lee of the Idaho Water Resource Board has asked the attorney general if a simple means can be devised so existing irrigators can sell water saved from improving their systems.

Lee said such a procedure would give existing water users a marked incentive to improve their systems, would provide water savings, and has the potential of making available large quantities of water for new uses without constructing new storage facilities.

Postwar euphoria became harsh Soviet repression

Editor's Note: Continuing his personal account of his four decades as a reporter in Russia, Henry Shapiro deals today with the years between the end of World War II and the death of Josef Stalin—years of hope that became disillusionment, years of repression and fear.

BY HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI)—A sense of euphoria permeated the country in the days after the victory celebrations that followed the defeat of Hitler Germany. Most of the Russians I knew were convinced their years of affliction were now over and this time a real "brave new world" was in the offing for them.

I recalled long talks I had with writer Ilya Ehrenburg, Deputy Foreign Minister Solomon Lozovsky and other intellectuals one night at the beginning of the war when a sudden air raid drove us into the basement of the foreign ministry shelter.

They projected a happy post-Nazi world of close, friendly relations with the democratic West, higher living standards and more civil liberties for the Soviet people.

There was one refrain in their utterances: "We have suffered so much and sacrificed so much. We have proved our loyalty. We can be trusted with more freedom."

In a state of total mobilization, when every able-bodied man and woman, 16 to 60, was in service for defense or labor and had access to arms, disloyalty could have taken ugly forms. Disaffected people in war-time often turned their guns against their rulers.

But loyalty was not to be rewarded.

When the victorious Red Army swept over Central Europe and Germany and emptied the prisoner of war camps, the returning soldiers were not greeted as conquering heroes but were marched into "decontamination" camps for long debriefing periods.

Not much was expected in the way of an immediate rise in the living standard. The dreams were more for the future. The land was in ruins. If a straight line had been drawn from Leningrad south to the Black Sea it would have found most inhabited areas in ashes with many of the population—their homes destroyed—still in dugouts.

According to official figures 20 million persons were killed, or died in the Soviet Union as a result of the war. Unofficial President Roosevelt died. The Soviet grief was universal. During the war, somehow or other, ordinary people had come to connect Roosevelt with something good for the Soviet Union. The feeling now seemed to be that his death boded evil. The grand coalition appeared to collapse even before the war ended when the Western allies and the Kremlin disagreed on the treatment of liberated Eastern European countries where Communist-dominated governments took over.

livestock had declined by 36 per cent since before the 1917 revolution.

The glorification of Stalin, who in the propaganda of the day had won the war almost single-handed, reached proportions equalled and surpassed only by Mao Tse-tung years later. His growing suspiciousness, if not paranoia, was fed by his wily fellow Georgian, Lavrenti Beria, who had been in control of the security agencies since 1938.

Disagreement on the German problem proved one of the main obstacles to European detente. At the end of the war the United States offered Moscow a 25-year pact to neutralize Germany. But Stalin, as Khrushchev was to tell Canadian Ambassador Arnould Smith later, rejected the offer out of hand because he was convinced West Germany would go Communist soon.

Hopes for normal, if not friendly, relations with the United States vanished when the West struck back with the Truman Doctrine offering aid to countries under the threat of communism. Then came Churchill's Fulton, Mo., "Iron Curtain" speech, and the Marshall Plan which the Russians could have joined but decided to boycott.

The Cold War almost developed into a fighting conflagration with the blockade of Berlin in 1948 which Moscow lifted almost at the last critical hour.

That year also saw the expulsion of Yugoslavia from the Communist fold, the first break in the monolithic Soviet bloc, to be dwarfed later by the more fateful Sino-Soviet split and consequent disarray in the Communist world.

Tito, whom Soviet propaganda built up as another Hitler, did not fall. He lived to extract the supreme humiliation from Stalin's successor, Khrushchev, who in 1955, went to Belgrade, hat in hand, to apologize.

In the waning Stalin years censorship for foreign correspondents reached the heights reliable estimates put the figure as close to 25 million. The villages I visited near Moscow and in the Ukraine had no men, horses or agricultural machinery. Most of the work was done by women.

6th of a series

There was much hope of relief from America but political relations which had begun to sour in the last few months of Roosevelt's life grew rapidly worse in the Truman administration.

Ambassador Averell Harriman was giving a dance for a group of young diplomats on the evening of April 12, 1945, when he was suddenly called out of his ballroom and disappeared for the rest of the evening.

We knew something had gone wrong when Harriman did not reappear. After discreet inquiries I learned that first Vice Premier and Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov, a guest, also had left.

I rushed back to the Hotel Metropole where I was living and was greeted in the lounge by the courtly porter with a cable in his hands and tears on his face. "I have been looking for you," the porter said, "and since I could not find you I opened the cable. It says here

The atomic bombing of Hiroshima Aug. 6 found me at Belgrade where a group of Moscow correspondents were the guests of Marshal Josip Broz Tito.

When the news came we sat up most of the night pondering and worrying about the future of mankind. We had caught a broadcast from London which had quoted Albert Einstein to the effect that the planet Earth could now be destroyed.

Hiroshima appeared to have produced an inferiority complex in the Kremlin which was not to start withering away until Nov. 6, 1948, when Molotov announced Moscow had broken the American atomic monopoly.

There was to be neither domestic nor foreign relaxation for the Russians.

Most frustrated of all layers of society were the peasants. There was some expectation of a liberalized status for the collective farms but instead their conditions worsened. They were short of manpower, machinery, animals, fertilizers and, as the rest of country, starved for consumer goods. As future Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev was to admit later, at Stalin's death cereal production was lower than in 1913 and

Wreaths

TWIN FALLS — Many churches in Magic Valley began using advent wreaths the first Sunday in December and will continue until Christmas.

The evergreen wreath which surrounds the ring of candles is without beginning and end and represents the sure hope of eternity. The candles represent the years from Adam until Christ, during which the world waited for the coming of the Savior.

The violet candles signify repentance in preparing for receiving Christ. The rose candle is a symbol of rejoicing and eager expectation while the white taper symbolizes holiness in celebration of the Savior's birth.

The first candle lit on the first Sunday of Advent is the prophecy candle which serves to remind of the many prophecies given to God's people by God concerning the coming of his Son.

Conference held by Blaine stake

RICHFIELD — Elder Marvin J. Ashton addressed members of the 195 Blaine Stake at their quarterly conference Sunday in Richfield on "Peace for Christmas."

Elder Ashton said that peace must come from within each person. He spoke of the peace of a child, peace in the home, and with our neighbors; peace with ourselves, in prayer, and the peace of a personal testimony that Jesus Christ is the saviour of the world and the Son of God.

He quoted President Harold B. Lee, newly sustained president of the Mormon Church, when he urged members to "Keep the commandments, for the rein is the one cause that brings the inward peace of which the Master spoke."

Elder Ashton is a member of the Quorum of the Twelve, governing body of the LDS Church, Salt Lake City.

Blaine Stake President Oral G. Stewart conducted the meeting and stressed the need of improvement in all phases of activity in the church, including family home evening, home teaching, prayer in the home, and eligibility for obtaining temple recommends.

Other speakers included Bishop Alden Packer, Hailey; Veldon Sorensen, Dietrich; Kay Adamson and Mrs. Lloyd Davis, both Carey; Joe Snow and Val Parke, both Hailey.

Music was furnished by the Carey Relief Society chorus.

Modern Bibles for any price

By LOUIS CASSELS, UPI Religion Writer
Bibles make good Christmas gifts for three reasons. First, they are the most appropriate thing you can give on what is supposed, after all, to be a religious holiday.

Second, many people who already have a bible do not have one of the superlative new translations — and may be wishing they did.

Third, you can spend as much or as little as you like. Bibles suitable for Christmas giving range from more than $35 to as little as 35 cents.

There's little point in paying more than $19.90, however, even when you're spreading yourself. For $19.90 you can give someone the new two-volume edition of the Jerusalem Bible, one of the finest modern translations. It has just come on the market and is a beautiful job of book-making. Another magnificent modern translation, the New English Bible, is available in a standard hard-cover edition for $8.95, and in various fancy morocco bindings for almost any sum you wish to splurge. The standard edition would be fine for anyone who intends really to read the Bible instead of leaving it on the coffee table when the pastor calls.

Live nativity scene planned

TWIN FALLS — The adult choir will appear in "Born a King" by John W. Petersen, at 11 a.m. worship service at the First Christian Church, Sunday.

Newell named top Idaho defenseman

MOSCOW (UPI) — Mike Newell of Twin Falls and three Washington players took the four main awards given Thursday night at the University of Idaho football awards banquet.

Rand Marquess, Wenatchee, Wash., won the most valuable player award; center Ken Muhlbeier, Pasco, the offensive award; and quarterback Rick Seefried, Spokane, the most inspirational player award. The sole Idaho resident receiving one of the top awards was tackle Newell, voted the defensive award.

Marquess, a 6-foot, 2-inch, 215-pound three-year letterman, was the backbone of the Vandal defense this year as the Vandals struggled through an injury plagued season to wind up with a 4-7 record.

Muhlbeier, another three-year Vandal letterman, is considered a top pro prospect. The 6-foot, 2-inch, 232-pounder is a steady player and rated as one of the top centers in the nation.

Seefried, the only junior honored, battled against injured knees throughout the season. After leading the Vandals to their best record in history, 8-3 last season, he was expected to be strong again this past season. However, he injured a knee and had to undergo surgery prior to the start of the season and played the last part of the season with another knee injury.

Newell, also a three-year starter, was the only defensive tackle to play the whole season without time off for an injury. The coaches said the 6-foot, 5-inch, 227-pound standout played well throughout the year.

The inspirational and most valuable player awards were voted by the team members, while the coaches picked the outstanding offensive and defensive player awards.

Van Pelt, Larry Brown 'top pros'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Brad Van Pelt, the All-America defensive back from Michigan State, and running back Larry Brown of the Washington Redskins, were named Thursday by the Maxwell Club as the year's outstanding collegiate and professional football players.

Van Pelt, called "the most versatile athlete I have ever coached" by Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty, was picked over six finalists, including Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska and Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt.

Van Pelt, a 6-5, 225-pound safety from Owosso, Mich., was named as the Maxwell Club's 36th annual recipient of the college award.

Brown, the leading rusher in the National Football League with over 1,000 yards gained on the ground, was named to receive the 14th annual Bert Bell Memorial Award.

sv, Magic will open

TWIN FALLS — Two ski resorts report good prospects for the coming week end while others are still short of snow.

Magic Mountain opens Saturday with three to four feet of snow with eight inches of new powder this week. All lifts are operating and the road is good but snowtires or chains are required. Buses Saturday and Sunday will leave at 9 a.m. from Newton's Sports Center parking lot.

Pomerelle reports between four and five feet of snow at the top of the ski runs with four inches of new powder. The chairlift and rope tows only are in operation. The road has been cleared and resort officials and county officers insist chains or snow tires be used by all traffic.

Sun Valley has 14 inches at the top of Baldy Mountain and will be running lifts for the first time Saturday. Only the upper runs will be open to skiers. The area has 12 inches at the roundhouse and five inches on the Valley floor. Soldier Mountain plans to open if additional snow falls prior to the week end and reports eight inches total depth at this time.

Rotarun will open Dec. 22 if snow depths permit. Bogus Basin near Boise is operating with 24 inches at the top and 18 inches at the lodge and a new snow fall of four inches this week.

Snowmobiling is reported good in the south hills, poor in the Ketchum area with only the area around Baker Creek open. The Warm Springs and Trail Creek areas are closed to snowmobiling this year. Hailey and Fairfield do not have sufficient snow for snowmobiling as yet.

Racial hassles blamed in quarterback ouster

ATLANTA (UPI) — Eddie McAshan, Georgia Tech's record-breaking black quarterback, said Thursday night that his rebellion against racial harassment got him kicked off the team.

McAshan, first black quarterback at a major Southeastern school, missed two practices and was suspended before the final game of the regular season against Georgia. Later, it was announced he would not be allowed to play in the Liberty Bowl game against Iowa State Monday.

McAshan, who earlier would only offer "personal problems" as his reason for missing the practices, said Coach Bill Fulcher promised to reinstate him for the Liberty Bowl game, then reneged.

McAshan appeared Thursday night at a predominantly-black Baptist Church to read a five-minute speech. He would answer no questions, and raised a clenched right fist after speaking. His appearance was preceded by speeches on his behalf by several prominent civil rights leaders.

McAshan said his troubles at Tech reached a climax when he tried to obtain extra tickets for his family two days before the Dec. 2 game against Georgia and was told none was available.

"I felt this was not true because I had obtained extra tickets for previous games and I also felt there were tickets on hand," he said, speaking in a calm, measured voice.

"At this point, it seemed that the entire four years of harassment and resentment against me had reached the turning point. I felt that I had to get away to reassess the situation. I had taken these slights for years when I was the only person involved but now my entire family was being involved."

McAshan said he talked with Fulcher about 3 a.m. Dec. 2 concerning the ticket incident and the coach assured him "everything would be all right but I would not play in the Georgia-Georgia Tech game because he felt that I hadn't had enough rest."

The athlete said he met with Fulcher a number of times the next week and was told he would play in the Liberty Bowl game if he called a press conference to apologize to the team and Tech alumni, and give "personal problems" as the reason for missing the Nov. 30 practice.

"I understood that I would be allowed to play in the Liberty Bowl," he said. "To my surprise later in the week, I learned that Coach Fulcher announced that I would not play in the Liberty Bowl."

Fulcher, with the squad in Memphis preparing for the Liberty Bowl, refused comment. "As far as we're concerned we're not reopening the matter."

Idaho St. tops Wyoming 70-51

POCATELLO (UPI) — Idaho State dominated the backboards against the University of Wyoming to the tune of a 70-51 decision Thursday night.

The Bengals outbounded the Cowboys 56-37 with big Ev Fopma doing most of the damage underneath. Fopma led all scorers with 25 points and got both of Wyoming's big men in foul trouble in the first half.

All Western Athletic Conference center Rod Penner fouled out of the game without scoring while trying to guard Fopma. Six-foot-nine forward Ken Morgan-Clark picked up four fouls while trying to handle the Bengal center.

Leading the rebounding for ISU was 6-6 guard Edison Hicks with 13. Jim Anderson and Dan Spindler picked up 10 boards each. The only Bengal in double scoring figures was guard Nick Ysursa with 10.

East is strong for Shrine tilt

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — When East meets West in the annual Shrine football classic at Candlestick Park Dec. 30, look for the East to present one of the most explosive teams ever to appear in the game.

That, at least, is the opinion of Rip Engle, the old Penn State coach and the man who helped put together this year's East squad.

He may be right when you consider the team boasts three of the most talented running backs in the nation this year plus a quarterback who threw for 25 touchdowns.

The running backs are Purdue's Otis Armstrong, Yale's Dick Jauron and Duke's Steve Jones, who between them have gained more than 2 1/2 miles on the ground this season. Armstrong rushed for 1,361 yards, Jauron for 1,055 and Jones for 1,236. Together, they also scored 29 touchdowns.

The quarterback is Gary Huff of Florida State and his backup is Mike Wells of Illinois.

"We have attempted to provide a great balance between our passing and our running," Engle said Thursday in evaluating the East team. Huff gained 2,893 yards passing this season while Wells, All-Big 10 despite playing on a second division team, passed for 837 yards and six TDs.

Those 4,632 yards rushing by Armstrong, Jauron and Jones figures out to 6.7 yards per carry," Engle went on. "Now put Huff and Wells in there, and Huff's favorite target from Florida State (Barry Smith, who caught 69 passes this year) and we think the East team will be really something."

The West has some great players, too, and I look for our game this year to be maybe the best in many years."

The West has won five in a row but suffered a loss of sorts when Dan Fouts, Oregon's fine quarterback, had to withdraw because of a lingering injury. That leaves the West with Ty Paine of Washington State as the No. 1 quarterback and versatile George Amundson of Iowa State, who also plays at running back, as his relief.

$4.5 million is pledged to Olympics

DENVER (UPI) — A group formed to keep the 1976 Winter Olympics in Colorado despite refusal of state residents to spend tax refunds on the games said Thursday $4.5 million in private funds had been pledged to help the cause.

Darrell Oliver, acting chairman of the Colorado Citizens Committee to Retain the Olympic Games, said state residents also were being asked to send post cards to his Denver office to show their support.

If the committee receives a sufficient number of cards indicating citizen support, it will form the Denver Citizens Olympic Committee to Work to Keep the 1976 Games, Oliver said.

The citizens of Colorado weren't given an alternative in the November election to staging the games with public funds, Oliver said. "We are seeking to give them this alternative and have developed a practical, sensible plan for staging the games."

Oliver said 40,000 persons already have signed pro-Olympic petitions being circulated by his committee.

Miami goes after third AFC title

By United Press International
Miami goes after the first perfect National Football League season in 30 years, and San Francisco battles for its third straight AFC Western title Saturday as pro football plays its final weekend of the regular season with two division titles and a playoff berth still up in the air.

Dallas drops Colonels 121-113

DALLAS (UPI) — Rookie James Silas hit nine shots in a row in the third quarter and then made two key baskets to stop a Kentucky charge in the last period Thursday night to bring Dallas a 121-113 victory and snap the Colonels' nine-game winning streak.

It was the sixth victory for the Chaps in their last eight games.

Dallas raced to a 13-point halftime lead, 68-55, chiefly on the shooting of Silas, Eugene Kennedy and Bob Netolicky, and maintained that lead through the third quarter.

But Kentucky, fighting to Dolphins' Coach Don Shula, who insists he's more concerned with preparing his team for the playoffs and, hopefully, the Super Bowl than he is about the record-breaking 14th victory of the season, will be facing his alma mater, the Baltimore Colts.

It was with the Colts in 1968 that Shula won 13 straight games, equalling the record set by the 1934 Chicago Bears, the 1962 Green Bay Packers and the 1967 Oakland Raiders. Only the 1934 Bears have had an all-winning season, 13-0, in NFL history.

The Dolphins also need only 105 yards rushing to break the NFL mark of 2,885 set by the 1936 Detroit Lions. With 204 yards rushing last week against the Giants, Miami moved into third place on the all-time list. Larry Csonka already has his 1,000 yards for the season—1,046 actually—and Mercury Morris, who ran for 98 yards last week, needs 95 more to make Miami the only team ever to have two 1,000 yard runners in the same season.

Minnesota has nothing to gain except perhaps a modicum of self-respect in its game against the Forty-Niners. The Vikings, pre-season choices of many experts to win their division, have a mediocre 7-6 record after last week's loss to Green Bay and no chance for a playoff berth.

San Francisco, however, can clinch its third straight NFC Western title with a tie or a victory.

The 49ers moved back into the lead in the West last week by blanking Atlanta 20-0 as they had their best rushing day of the season—210 yards. Larry Schreiber ran for 59 yards, Vic Washington and Ken Willard got 51 each and Jimmy Thomas had 33 against the Falcons.

The Los Angeles Rams will be glued to their television sets and hoping for a Vikings victory Saturday. The Rams take on Detroit Sunday and must win in order to have a chance for the division title, even if San Francisco loses.

Atlanta is also alive in that race, but its slim hopes rest on losses by both the 49ers and Rams and a victory over Kansas City Sunday.

Lothridge reactivated by Dolphins

MIAMI (UPI) — Punter Billy Lothridge says he doesn't regret coming out of retirement to join the Miami Dolphins when Larry Seiple was injured, but he's not looking beyond the end of this season.

The 31-year-old former Georgia Tech star quarterback has played in only two Dolphins games since joining the team three and a half weeks ago.

He was placed on Miami's taxi squad last week to make room on the 40-man roster for quarterback Bob Griese, who was activated for last Sunday's Giants game after a seven-game layoff with a leg and ankle injury.

Loose ball

SCRAMBLING for a loose ball in the Kimberly-Hansen game of the Snake River Holiday Basketball tournament, the Bulldogs were able to come up with the ball but not the win. Hansen meets Murtaugh for the Championship and Kimberly goes against Valley in the Consolation bracket.

Howley will consider playing 15th season

DALLAS (UPI) — Dallas linebacker Chuck Howley, put out of action for the rest of the season last week by a knee injury, said Thursday he would consider playing his 15th season of pro football if his knee regains the proper strength and mobility.

It's more of a challenge now to play, said Howley, 36. "I'll just have to look at things as the knee heals and see how it goes. I love a challenge."

Howley was injured in Dallas' 34-24 win over the Washington Redskins last Saturday. The injury came when he was hit on a crackback block by Redskins' flanker Charley Taylor. He will wear a cast for eight weeks.

After the game, Washington Coach George Allen and Redskins' line coach Jack Pardee complained of a crackback block thrown by Dallas flanker Lance Alworth.

It's an odd thing that they should be complaining when I'm here in a hospital bed, said Howley with no trace of bitterness in his voice. "Charley made a good block or the referee would have called it clipping."

The crackback block has been around a long time and it's going to be around for a long time more. It's a legal block. It just depends on where the blocker's head is—in front of the player or behind him."

Howley, who hopes to leave his sixth floor room at the Baylor University Medical Center Friday, said the block thrown by Taylor alone was not the reason he was injured.

"As I started down they say my gleats seemed to catch on the turf and that is what caused it," Howley said. "I just remember going down. It was painful and I thought I had done something serious to it, but I did not know it was as serious as it was until after the game."

When I hurt my right knee which caused Howley to miss the season in 1959, I felt if snap and I didn't have any snapping this time."

Howley said he had nothing but confidence in the man who would replace him Sunday against the New York Giants and the subsequent playoffs.

There won't be any difference with him in there," Howley said.

But the 11-year veteran Cowboy did not hide the fact that it would be hard to sit and watch his teammates in action without being on the field.

I was coming along real well this season," Howley said. "I was coming on strong and it looked like I was going to finish out the year in good style."

Boise St. drops Hardin-Simmons

BOISE (UPI) — The Boise State Broncos, breaking out of a first-half low scoring contest, put 47 points on the board in the second half to defeat Hardin-Simmons 78-60 Thursday night.

The half time score in the game was 31-28 in favor of the Broncos and they increased their lead by 23 points before the game ended.

The Cowboys jumped to an early 8-2 lead over Boise State and the lead changed hands eight times with the Broncos holding a slim margin at the end of the first half.

Boise State blew it open in the second half on the shooting of junior guard Clyde Dickey who garnered 18 points in the second half.

Pacers defeat San Diego

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Mel Daniels and George McGinnis split 38 points Thursday night as the Indiana Pacers snapped a three-game losing streak with a 111-104 triumph over San Diego in American Basketball Association action.

The triumph was the fifth in a row over the expansion Conquistadors and enabled Indiana to stay in the top spot in the ABA West over challenging Utah.

The Pacers jumped to a quick 28-20 first-period lead, but San Diego reversed the tables and held a slim 57-55 halftime edge.

But Indiana got going in the third stanza when the Pacers reeled off ten straight markers and before the Conquistadors could score again had a 79-74 spread. It was 86-78 heading into the final period.

Supporting the 29 points each for Daniels and McGinnis were rookie Don Buse with his career high 18 markers and Roger Brown with 17.

Larry Miller led San Diego with 25. Jerry Chambers added 20 and Stew Johnson 18.

Squires beat Denver 103-99

DENVER (UPI) — Warren Jabali hit a driving layup and two free throws in the last minute of play Thursday night to give the Denver 103-99 win over the Virginia Squires in American Basketball Association action.

Julius Keye of the Rockets set an ABA record for blocked shots with 12, breaking the record of 10 set last year by Darnell Hillman.

The Rockets built up a 17-point lead early in the fourth quarter but Virginia rallied to tie it at 99-all with less than one minute to play.

Jabali scored on the layup with 56 seconds left to give Denver a 101-99 lead. He was fouled and with four seconds remaining hit both free throws to ice the game for Denver.

Denver shot only 32 per cent from the field but made 39 of 49 free throws to make the difference.

Ralph Simpson was the Rockets' high scorer with 31 points, 17 on free throws.

High scoring Julius Erving of Virginia was held to 24 points, well under his league leading.

The win kept Denver in third place in the ABA West with a 16-13 record.

Stars crush Memphis 147-97

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Utah Stars, breaking away with reserves in the fourth quarter, beat the Memphis Tams Thursday night 147-97 to post their seventh straight win.

Utah outshot the Tams 40-24 in the third quarter and 46-25 in the fourth.

Utah had seven men in double figures with Ron Boone scoring 26, Zelmo Beaty 23, and James Jones 17. Memphis' high scorers were Isaiah Wilson and George Thompson with 15 apiece.

Murtaugh, Hansen rally into basketball finals

Friday, December 15, 1972 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 25

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports editor
EDEN-HAZELTON

Murtaugh and Hansen, both on game-long rallies, strode into the finals of the Snake River holiday basketball tournament and sent Valley and Kimberly into the consolation round.

Murtaugh, after trailing by as much as 14 points, blew away in the closing two minutes to down Valley 70-65 while Hansen, thanks to a game-saving last-second bucket by Mark Stanger, nipped Kimberly 47-45 in overtime. Kimberly and Valley play for the consolation prize at 7 p.m. Friday with the two A-4 clubs going in the nightcap at the Valley gymnasium.

The Hansen-Kimberly affair provided the most drama. The Bulldogs stomped into a 13-6 lead in the first six minutes of the game and the winless Huskies seemed headed for their fourth defeat. But late in the period, Marty Shepherd picked them up and three minutes into the second quarter

Roger Sievers shot Hansen into a 15-15 tie.

Kimberly then seemed to get a second breath as Rick Nelson, Randy Hudson and Rod Reeves shot them into a 23-15 lead just before halftime.

Hansen started back immediately after the second half jump but took a while getting there. Byron Stanger provided six points in the period as Hansen closed to two points twice and then managed a tie at 31-all on a Sievers shot. But Nelson gave Kimberly the rest advantage 35-33.

Shepherd and Sievers gave Hansen its first lead of the night to open the final quarter but Nelson again tied it for the Bulldogs. Then Mark Stanger hit a long shot and followed up with a crumpled off a steal. With 2:32 remaining, Hudson collected a three-point play and Randy Stanger hit from the line with 1:32 left for a 39-39 tie.

Both teams lost possession on turnovers after that but with 10 seconds left Nelson appeared to have won it with a rebound bucket for Kimberly. Hansen hustled down floor and Stanger just got off the tying bucket from near the free throw line.

Two Nelson free throws opened the overtime with Sievers tying it for Hansen. Then Byron Stanger connected on a rare four-point play. Nelson cut the margin to two with 53 seconds left. Kimberly had one last crack with one second remaining but the close-in shot rolled over the basket.

In the second game, Valley opened hot with Joe Ritchie and Rocky Hagan doing most of the damage and Les Reitz contributing some follow points.

The Vikings burst into a 16-11 first-period lead and early in a torrid second quarter, Steve Beem hit three times to open up a 12-point Valley advantage. After Don Barks hit twice for Murtaugh, Ritchie shoved the Vikings ahead by 14 points — but that was the crest Murtaugh sophomore Paul Talbot hit five points as Murtaugh started the rally that took over two quarters.

The Red Devils kept creeping up through the first four minutes of the third period and put the deficit to 47-44 when Talbot and Robb Wright flurried for five points.

Ritchie and Reitz then steadied Valley and then held sway by two to five-point margins over the next five minutes. Wright's three-point play brought the Devils to within 60-59 with 4:25 left but Ritchie hit next time down court and it appeared that the Devils might run out of time as the Vikings continued to protect one and three-point leads. But the Devils moved ahead 63-62 with 3:13 left when Rick Denney made a good inside feed to Wright. Bailey tied it from the foul line with 2:53 remaining but that was the last time Valley had it so good.

It stayed tied for one second under two minutes as the teams battled missed shots and turnovers. But with 53 seconds left Talbot got a three-point play. Barks was awarded a field goal on goal tending a half minute later and with nine seconds remaining Talbot got loose inside for another crumple. Herrmann got the last two points for Valley to establish the final margin.

Redskins sneak by TF juniors 47-45

Mike Grammer hit two clutch free-throws in the final seconds Thursday afternoon to nail down Gooding State's 47-45 victory over the Twin Falls juniors.

Grammer's free-throws gave the Redskins, now 4-1, a 47-43 decision and made meaningless Twin Falls bucket at the buzzer.

Gooding State led most of the game, trailing only at brief intervals. But the Redskins couldn't get away. They won the victory on their defense which picked off about as many Twin Falls passes in the second quarter as the young Bruins completed. Hunter was the main thief.

Twin Falls last held the lead at 41-40, then saw the Redskins hit the next five points, Mike Grammer and Hunter hitting the field goals that shoved them away.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES You have a good chance now to go over your financial or holiday plans and arrange them in an intelligent manner. Be sure you find the right plan to pursue. A goal that means much to you can now be easily attained. Don't be too extravagant when shopping. Gain through the experience of others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A fine day for making payments and collections so that your financial status is on the right footing. Make plans to improve your budget so you can start making repairs on your property.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan time for improving your health and then gad about socially and make big headway. State your aims to good friends and gain their support. Make sure you are not extravagant in any way.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can make preparations now that will make the coming weeks operate more successfully, so be precise. After work is done, show particular devotion to mate. This brings about real rapport.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 31) Get together with congenials for the kind of recreation mutually enjoyed, and show how much you like to be with them. You have a business plan that needs more study. Do this tomorrow.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan how to get the backing of close ties for a project you have in mind. The evening can be a very happy one for you, romantically speaking. Show the masterful side of your nature.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have fine new ideas that require much work on them now if they are to operate successfully. A new associate can give you the right advice. Show that you are a wise and productive person.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Analyze well those responsibilities ahead of you and plan to discharge them in a fine fashion, and meet the expectations of higher-ups. Show more affection for mate and increase harmony.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Cement better relation with those who have power over your affairs. Talk over any moot points and straighten out former misunderstanding. One who opposes you may try to upset you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can labor into the night and get caught up on all those duties that are ahead of you, so get an early start right now. Find a new and better way to improve your state of health.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you make the appointments early with congenials you find you can have a better time than when you called on friends at the spur of the moment. A special talent needs to be expressed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study the situation at home carefully and then do whatever will bring more accord. Relieve the pressure there easily and quietly. Use reason and avoid any harsh display of your temper.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Have a more workable plan for handling routine work and get far better results in the future. Buy whatever appliances will make your work more efficient. Don't forget correspondence.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who will be thorough in figuring out difficult projects, which is fine, but teach that there is the time element to be considered, and this should first be taken into consideration. Special care to the diet is important here as well as harmony at home, then fine success is possible. Teach to read early in life.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Average American's vocabulary in 1952 was considerably larger than the average American's vocabulary this year. Identical word tests, given then and now to a sufficient sampling of citizens, prove it, definitely. To what do you attribute this drying-up of the language? Television? Possibly.

YOU'VE READ about the great Krakatoa eruption, the blast that shook the South Pacific in 1880. Just to give you some notion of its enormity, if Pike's Peak had blown up with the same force, everybody in North America, everybody not deaf, could have heard the rumble, but clearly.

GENTLEMAN CLIENT says he can't understand why we drink so much coffee inasmuch as the Mother Country England was so devoted to tea. It wasn't so devoted. Not until about 125 years ago did England's tea imports outweigh its incoming coffee shipments.

NAMES OF CAR

Q. "What's an ipsomotor?"
A. That was another of those fancy monikers suggested for the automobile back in the days when it most commonly, was called the horseless carriage. Other names for the car were auto-go, autokinet, autovic, cabine, carleak, gasmobile, kinetor, cinque and victorine.

GETTING HARDER, as you may know, for a couple, to find a small turkey just for themselves. Why is clear. Bigger the bird, the more meat in proportion to bone. Half a 12-pound turkey is waste. Growers certainly don't want to settle for that. Don't blame them.

THE HARD FACTS

Age 26 is when the average mother has her last child. FIGURE ABOUT EIGHT yards of wool in a Scottish kilt. THOSE WHISKERS on your kitten officially go by the name of iciae. FREEZE NINE QUARTS of water to get 10 quarts of ice. LIFE EXPECTANCY of girls in old Rome was 23 years.

FOR FUTURE REFERENCE, get it right. You only address the Queen of England as "Your Majesty" the first time she says hello to you. Thereafter, "just 'ma'am" is proper. A British correspondent with considerable experience among the diplomats told me that.

HOW DO YOU account for the fact the average man blinks once every three seconds while the average woman blinks once every four seconds?

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — I paid 36¢ for Genesco, Inc. (NYSE) in 1964 and it has dropped so much! Now the dividend has been cut. I am a senior citizen and can't afford the loss.
A — You are correct in noting that Genesco shares have suffered a drop in price. You have neglected, however, to adjust your per share cost for the three-for-two split paid in August, 1966.
This adjustment would reduce your cost to 24¢ per share. While you still have a paper loss the figures are not quite as alarming.

government securities, you would certainly sacrifice some income in such an exchange.
At current asset value the Lord Abbett bond debenture fund yields 7 per cent versus a maximum of 6.5 per cent on a U.S. Treasury bond.
Certainly a good measure of security is achieved through the diversity of the more than 100 different debt issues held in your fund's portfolio.
While some of these individual securities are speculative, the risk is diffused in the $100 million plus portfolio.

Directors finally reduced the dividend by more than 50 per cent with the October payment.
In view of the narrow dividend coverage from 1970 forward, this move was no surprise.

A shareholder has filed a suit against the company, charging it with overstatement of net worth. Recently installed cost controls may not be immediately apparent, thus recovery is apt to be a long process.
Sale is suggested.
Q — About a year ago I purchased a Lord Abbett bond debenture fund. On this I receive $200 quarterly. I am a widow and would like to know if the money would be better placed in government bonds for greater safety and income? — M. H.

Wall Street Chatter

Despite the fact profit taking has been increasing in recent trading sessions, Alexander Hamilton Institute Inc. is encouraged by the fact rampant speculation still hasn't been a significant factor in the market. "A systematic stock buying program should prove rewarding over the next few years," the firm says.
While the recent rate of advance is probably unsustainable, an expanding economy, growing confidence and ample availability of investment funds point to a higher stock market in 1973, according to Standard & Poor's corp. "The climate is thus favorable for stock investment," the company says.
