

Peace goal eludes US-Red negotiators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger reported Saturday his Vietnam peace negotiations have failed thus far to produce an agreement. President Nixon considers "just and fair."

He blamed Hanoi for blocking a cease-fire. The President's foreign affairs adviser told a news conference that an agreement is "99 per cent" complete but is hampered by fundamental disagreements on implementation of the international supervisory machinery to monitor a cease-fire.

Kissinger also said South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu "will not have a veto over our actions" if a just settlement is reached with North Vietnam.

"The obstacle to an agreement at this moment is not in Saigon" but in Hanoi, he observed.

Kissinger also said the Paris peace talks are not over and expressed conviction that a settlement could "be reached relatively quickly" if the Communists stop raising endless technical obstacles.

"We will not be blackmailed into an agreement," he said. "We will not be stampeded into an agreement, and if I may say so, we will not be charmed into an agreement until its conditions are right."

It was the first time the White House publicly discussed the progress of the Paris talks since Oct. 26 when Kissinger said, in releasing a summary of a tentative nine-point accord with North Vietnam, that "peace is at hand."

Explaining why the secrecy curtain was lifted somewhat Saturday, Kissinger said "the President decided that we could not engage in a charade with the American people."

He conceded there were difficulties with the South Vietnamese but added that the veto question was "moot" at this point "because we have not reached an agreement that the President considers fair and just."

Kissinger declared however: "we want to leave no doubt about the fact that if the agreement is reached that meets the stated conditions of the President, if an agreement is reached that we consider just, that no other party will have a veto over our actions."

Kissinger also revealed that the United States has rejected Thieu's demand that North Vietnam withdraw its forces from South Vietnam following a military truce.

He noted that Nixon, on three occasions, made clear that he was proposing a cease-fire "in place" with troops of both sides holding their ground.

"Therefore," he said, "we could not agree with our allies in South Vietnam when they added conditions to the established positions after an agreement had been reached that reflected these established positions."

Kissinger painted a frustrating picture of his latest round of talks with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho which lasted for 10 days. He accused the Communist negotiator of raising technical objections, reneging on previous text agreement and said that "one frivolous issue after another surfaced in the last three days" before the talks recessed Wednesday.

No deal on peace

HENRY A. Kissinger revealed Saturday that negotiations with North Vietnam have failed to provide a cease-fire agreement acceptable to President Nixon. The statement battered hopes raised over a month ago when Kissinger said basic agreement had been reached with the North Vietnamese and peace was "at hand." (UPI)

Astros head home

SPACE CENTER, Houston. — Bidding farewell to the moon and a triumphant era of exploration, Apollo 17 sailed Earthward Sunday with three men, five mice and a spectacular scientific cargo that could contain proof the moon is still a living planet.

"It has been a beginning," flight commander Eugene A. Cernan radioed from the speeding spacecraft. "And I don't think it will ever end, not as long as man is alive."

Mission planners hailed it as the most letter-perfect flight. Scientists praised it as "truly a fitting climax to the whole Apollo program."

A spacewalk Sunday afternoon 280,000 miles from Earth was the only major activity. Cernan, Jack Schmitt and Ronald E. Evans faced before their splashdown Tuesday in the Pacific Ocean.

America has found some fair winds and following seas, and we're on our way," sang out Cernan, a Navy captain, as the command ship America swung from behind the moon for the last time at 6:51 p.m. EST Saturday.

Casting off the bonds of lunar gravity with a 2 minute, 25 second rocket blast, Apollo 17 headed home at 5,693 miles per hour. The crew telecast a remarkable view of the moon fading behind them.

Mission Control serenaded the crew with a Dean Martin rendition: "Going back to Houston, Houston, Houston."

Governor declares Gem flood emergency

By GEORGE FRANK

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has declared an "extreme state of emergency" for two Idaho communities flooded by the ice-jammed Snake River.

"There is an imminent danger of loss of property and lives," the governor said of the swollen river. "The weatherman has predicted worse, rather than better, weather."

Andrus said the declaration would make possible the use of the state's National Guard and the governor's emergency fund of $144,000 to help the communities of Weiser and Blackfoot.

Charles Rountree, coordinator for civil defense in Idaho, said the latest figures show that 11 families have been evacuated from their homes in the Weiser area and 46 families in the Blackfoot area.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, asked the Army Corps of Engineers to be of "all possible assistance" to state and local authorities in meeting the threat of floods.

Church said he had been informed by the corps district office in Walla Walla, Wash., that Army personnel were on the scene in the two communities.

The two communities began being plagued by the overflows earlier this week as record low temperatures froze the river and stacked ice forcing water to flow over the banks.

Brig. Gen. James Brooks, chief of staff of the Idaho Army Guard, flew to the Blackfoot area to take command of National and Army Guard troops.

Zone ordinances eyed for county

By DAVID ESPO Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — County officials made public Friday two proposed land use ordinances, including one urging "much greater latitude than granted lot by lot developments" for "planned unit developments" in Twin Falls.

The other proposal deals with regulations governing subdivision in the county.

The two proposed ordinances, along with another 66-page report proposing a comprehensive zoning plan for the county, were delivered to the county Thursday night by Prof. Ross Fasolino, an ISU professor and head of Associated Planners and Developers.

L. James Koutnik, chairman of the County Planning and Zoning Commission, immediately pledged the commission to a "line by line, item by item" review of the proposals.

Friday, he suggested that twice-a-week work sessions might be needed for the commission members to go over the reports.

The proposals made for planned unit developments, were framed in a spirit of "much greater latitude... than in conventional and traditional regulations for development given in other ordinances," the report says.

The suggested ordinance for subdivisions deals generally with regulations in subdividing "to prevent overcrowding of land."

He cautioned against making the proposals a "basis for controversy," and said the final recommendations by the Planning and Zoning Commission to the County Commission could differ markedly from the proposals.

Nevertheless, the "planned unit development" proposal urges "a degree of flexibility and diversification in the use of land for planned developments which will provide a development as good or better in function and relationship to the area as the traditional lot by lot development."

Among the proposed regulations: — planned unit developments may supersede the regulations of the existing zone requirements;

— the developments will provide open area for "use in common" of residents of the area, including peripheral buffer strips;

— one fifth of the total "net" development area must be left for "usable open space";

Truman organs weaken

KANSAS-CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Harry S. Truman battled failing kidneys, infected lungs and a weakened heart Saturday night and was semiconscious and in "very serious" condition. Doctors said the 88-year-old former President was not responding to medication.

At an evening briefing, Research Hospital spokesman John Dreyes said Truman's kidney function increased slightly, the fluid in his lungs had decreased a bit and his heart problems were less frequent. But he said there was no change in his overall condition.

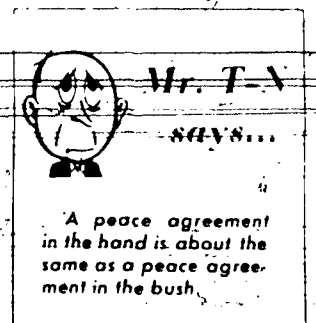

Various aspects of his condition have improved slightly, said Dreyes, "but overall the doctors say the situation remains unchanged."

Dreyes said Truman's wife and daughter left the hospital at 4 p.m., their normal hour, for the Independence, Mo., home and a night of rest.

Former President Truman's overall condition remains unchanged, said the medical briefing read by Dreyes. "Kidney function has increased slightly since this afternoon, but remains inadequate. Fluid in the lungs has decreased somewhat. His periods of cardiac irregularities are less frequent."

At 7 p.m. blood pressure was 108 over 40, pulse 74, respiration 28 and temperature 98.2 degrees.

Dreyes acknowledged that Truman's blood pressure had fallen somewhat since the afternoon report.

Mine blast kills 5

MULLENS, W.Va. (UPI) — Another 70 miners working on the day shift at the time of the explosion were critically injured three others Saturday, state police said.

The explosion occurred at West Virginia State Police 3:40 p.m. at the drift mine, which goes into the side of a hill in this community about 75 miles south of Charleston.

The three hospitalized men were identified as Larry Bailey, Dallas Mullins, both of New General Hospital, Mullens, Akers.

A spokesman for Consolidation Coal Co., which operates the properties for Itmann Coal, said the men were found about 6,000 to 7,000 feet from the outside of the mine. That would have placed them behind the site of the explosion, which occurred about 2,500 feet from the pit's face.

Bill Starling, vice president of Pocahontas Coal Co., another Consolidation subsidiary, said 70 men managed to escape the blast. The United Mine Workers of America (UMWA) local president was reported to be among the trapped miners.

Christmas light contest readied

TWIN FALLS — Cash awards totaling $150 will be divided by winners of the Christmas lighting competition in Twin Falls.

The annual contest, sponsored jointly by Idaho Power Co. and Times-News, is limited to displays designed by private citizens.

Rules are different this year. Earl Haroldson, Idaho Power division manager, and O.A. (Gus) Kelker, Times-News editor, said no entry blanks will be required. Judges will make their rounds the evenings of Dec. 19 and 20 and winners will be announced in the Times-News Dec. 24.

First prize will be $60; second, $40; third, $30 and fourth $20. Electrical displays can either be outside the home or visible through a front window. Only displays within the city limits will be judged. Winners must keep displays lighted between Dec. 24 and Jan. 1. Idaho Power and newspaper employees cannot compete.

Riots tumble top admiral

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — President Nixon has decided to dismiss Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr. as chief of naval operations because of racial unrest and violence in the Navy, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch reported Saturday.

The Post-Dispatch said it learned of Zumwalt's pending dismissal from Rep. William L. Clay, D-Mo. Clay said he had learned several weeks ago that Nixon intended to reassign Zumwalt, possibly to a position within the White House, the story said.

"The White House immediately denied the report as 'totally, absolutely nonsense,'" the story said.

US dollars flow to IRA

DUBLIN (UPI) — Political sources said Saturday that Premier Jack Lynch's U.S. visit next month will be aimed primarily at curbing the flow of dollars from Irish-Americans to the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA).

Seen...

Steve Johnson preparing to get married... Bill Chapey walking downtown... Hazel Wilder dispensing Christmas cheer... Alan Osborn watching knothole basketball... Gail Meyers wearing socks... Mrs. Gene Stoker, Rupert, shopping in Twin Falls... Marcella Heil on telephone... Gary DeFord, talking in newsroom... Mrs. Lilela Gillette baking Christmas pies... Larry Weeks talking about examinations... Joe Siever commenting on welfare... Richard Samson greeting child at door... and overheard, "I wish I knew where I was going to die, I'd stay away from that place."

Justice Minister Desmond O'Malley, the 33-year-old minister, mainly responsible for curbing the IRA south of the border, has already raised the issue in the United States.

During a visit last month, O'Malley warned Irish-Americans to be "extremely careful" about sending money for use in Northern Ireland. He said money collected for relief purposes is being used for gun-running.

But government sources said Lynch will utilize a full schedule of news conferences, radio and television programs to woo popular support for his policy toward Northern Ireland. A high priority, according to these sources, would be a drive to curb the money flow from the United States to the militant "provisional" IRA's fighting fund in the north.

Records set at TF field

School gift

TWIN FALLS — Jet flights and number of passengers both set records at the Twin Falls City-County Airport Saturday.

Paul Shoaff, terminal manager for Hughes Airwest, said 10 jets landed at Joslin Field, deplaning more than 500 passengers. Included were those aboard special ski flights from West Coast points in addition to regular passengers.

Nine of the jets were DC-9s and one a Boeing 737. All were full with an available seat total of just over 900 passengers. Five of the planes were regularly scheduled flights of Hughes Airwest while two came to Twin Falls non-stop from Los Angeles, one from Portland and one from San Francisco. The Boeing 737, a Western Airlines ski flight, was non-stop from San Francisco.

Shoaff said the 10 Saturday jets would continue schedules through the winter season. Five regular flights will come to Joslin Field other weekdays and on Sunday. He said all flights will be full through Jan. 1.

"The record set Saturday, as far as passengers are concerned, will be broken again next Saturday," Shoaff said. "On that day we will board an estimated 400 skiers ending a week at Sun Valley, plus regular passengers, and will deplane another 500. We expect departing and arriving passengers at Joslin Field to go over the 1,100 mark on that day."

HAGERMAN — A check for $1,000 from the Idaho State Bank has been received by the Hagerman school district, according to Kenneth L. Black, superintendent.

Norman Hansen, manager of the Idaho State Bank at Hagerman, made the presentation. The bank with head office in Glenns Ferry and branches in Grand View, Kuna, Cambridge and Hagerman, gives a cash gift to each school in its trade area.

Black said the money will be used in both the elementary and secondary schools to enrich the programs as far as equipment is concerned.

Sun blamed for ruining camera

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Sunlight hot enough to boil water may have ruined the remote control television camera left in the Taurus-Littrow valley by Apollo 17's Eugene A. Cernan and Jack Schmitt.

The $115,000 camera mounted on their abandoned Lunar Rover refused to respond Saturday when ground controllers tried twice to activate it.

The camera, called the "Eye of Houston," transmitted to Earth 12 hours of brilliant color pictures of the astronauts roaming the lunar surface and then recorded their liftoff Thursday.

4 appear in Burley burglary

BURLEY — Four men appeared in magistrate division of Fifth District Court in Burley Friday on charges of first degree burglary.

Three brothers, Pete, Victor and Bennie Guzman, and Emilio Ramos Jr. were confined in the county jail after Magistrate Leroy Blacker set bond at $500 each and slated a preliminary hearing for Dec. 28.

The four were allegedly apprehended in the act of burglarizing automobiles Thursday evening on East 13th Street in Burley.

Winners

JEROME — The Jerome Duplicate club met Saturday at Episcopal hall for tournament play.

Overall winners were R.J. Cook and Mrs. Mary Keithen, first; Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Burns and Mrs. Robert Messenger and Mrs. A. E. McHan, tie for second and third; M. A. Hartruff and A. L. Johnson, fourth; Mrs. H. D. Hall and H. G. Munyon, fifth; and Mrs. H.M. Proctor and Merle Neilson, sixth.

GOP to meet

TWIN FALLS — The Republican Central Committee will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the Twin Falls Judicial Building.

County chairman Douglas Kramer said he was "hopeful" the county legislators would be present to discuss possible legislation in the 1973 legislative session.

TF council to name delegate

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

The council will appoint representatives to vote 2,767.12 shares of stock in Twin Falls Canal Co. at the annual meeting Jan. 9, and 401.85 shares of stock in the Salmon River Canal Co. at the annual meeting Jan. 8.

The council will also consider waiving the filing fee for YMWCA, consider curb cut variance for Idaho First National Bank and authorize an invitation for bids for gravel crushing contract.

The council will hear the second reading of proposed ordinance 1581, to permit condominium as outright uses in zones residential low-density and residential medium-density; restricting number of units; and regulating lot size and providing definitions.

Peron's followers accept spokesman

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Followers of former President Juan D. Peron agreed reluctantly Saturday to accept his spokesman, Hector Campora, as their presidential candidate.

A congress of Peron's Justicialista Party tried first to override the resignation Peron submitted Thursday when he left for Paraguay after only 27 days in Argentina, ending 17 years of exile.

Campora, 63, was a little known dentist until he became Peron's aide, commuting regularly between Argentina and Peron's villa in Madrid.

Peron responded Friday to a Justicialista party telegram asking him to reconsider by insisting that Campora must be the party's candidate in the election next March 11.

The ruling military junta called the elections and decreed an Aug. 25 residency deadline for candidates, which Peron did not meet. Political observers said if Peron had maintained his candidacy a large number of voters would have abstained in the elections.

The vice-presidential candidate was chosen by 14 other small parties who make up a "Justicialista Liberation Front" with the dominant party.

TF woman paroled

TWIN FALLS — A 21-year-old Twin Falls woman received 12 months' probation of a three-year suspended sentence Friday on a charge of writing insufficient funds checks.

Connie Eldredge had entered a plea of guilty to the charge a month ago in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls, and Judge Theron Ward had ordered a presentence report completed by court officials.

The judge also directed Mrs. Eldredge to make restitution for the funds.

Suspended

TWIN FALLS — Thomas E. Duke received a suspended prison term of up to 15 years Friday on a conviction of first degree burglary.

Judge Theron Ward also directed Duke, 19, Burley, to spend the first 120 days of his probation in the state prison, during which time the court retains jurisdiction over the case.

Duke had pleaded guilty to the charge Nov. 17 in Fifth District Court.

Hearing postponed

TWIN FALLS — A preliminary hearing for Paul Bjornson, originally scheduled Dec. 22 in Twin Falls Magistrate Court, has been postponed.

Bjornson and another man, James (Skipper) Robinson, have been charged with robbery and assault with intent to commit murder in the Nov. 20 armed robbery of the Union Bus Depot in Twin Falls.

No new date has been set for Bjornson's preliminary hearing.

Election Interest

The College of Southern Idaho election scheduled for Tuesday has evoked much public interest and prompted a record field of seven candidates seeking two trustee positions.

The election is of particular interest, too, because most CSI students will be able to vote directly in the governance of their college.

The student vote, coupled with community interest in the election, should result in a vote larger than the miniscule 209 ballots cast two years ago.

For the first time since the foundation of CSI, there have been significant election issues raised about the operation of the college by the candidates.

The issues often raised, and on which the candidates' views are split, include:

Should CSI faculty members receive tenure (none exists now)?

— Is the current board a "weak board" which delegates too much power to the college's administration?
— Is the library failing to meet college needs?

Because of the short time allotted for the election campaign, there has been little time for candidates to bring their views on these and other questions to the public.

Readers should examine carefully the candidates' positions printed in today's news columns, judge the candidates personally and by their stands on the issues, and then vote.

A lively issue-oriented campaign, increased public interest and the prospect of an enlarged voter turnout are encouraging signs of new involvement by the public in the workings of its college.

Surprise Bid

Some people never learn. Just when it appeared both major political parties might be compelled to do some heavy negotiating to find sites for their 1976 conventions, New York City is volunteering — for a convention center it has not yet built.

True, it is not exactly just any convention hall. The giant convention and exhibition center which will get under way next year will be the largest in the nation. It will have the additional novelty of being constructed half over the ocean.

New York's interest in hosting the national political extravaganza is something new. Not since 1924 has either party convened in New York, and it has been years since the city showed any interest in the idea.

Such a bid at this early date is particularly dazzling in view of recent experience. San Diego lost the Republican convention this year with a ho-hum attitude. Miami, the eventual site for both conventions, has made it clear it hopes they will go someplace else next time.

New York may have come up with something by proposing the events be staged over the ocean. Alcatraz Island is unoccupied again and as impenetrable as ever.

Then, of course, there's Idaho. Yeah?

Well, Mr. Spectator received a nice Christmas card the other day — and the card was sent to "Mr. Spectator and the Fabelas."

And inside the envelope was a check for $10, made out to the Fabelas. The Rupert lady who sent the card and check asked that her name not be used. But we must point out that her gift is from the heart and we are sure that Viviano and Lynette Fabela will be able to put it to good use.

We have forwarded it to them and we are sure they will want to acknowledge the thoughtful gift so we sent along the name and address of the donor and also the card.

We thought you would like to know there are fine hearts beating in Magic Valley — and we know one of them is in "Rupert!"

King Hussein Looks Inward

AMMAN, Jordan — With his borders peaceful for the first time since the six-day war, King Hussein has gingerly pulled back from the anti-Israeli Arab front with what amounts to a "plague on both your houses."

Hussein, his astute 25-year-old brother, Prince Hassan, and his pro-western government have endured all they can from the feuding Arab front with its empty threats of military action.

Having recovered from his bloody civil war of 1970-71 against the Palestinian guerrillas and with his Syrian border just opened to lucrative trade, Hussein has decreed an end to rhetoric. Facts are being seen here as facts, and Fact No. 1 is that Israel's military pre-eminence leaves only two roads open to the Arab states: economic development for future strength and continuing diplomatic pressures for recovery of lost lands.

The capital city of Amman is almost unrecognizable today, its tidy appearance symbolic of the King's new three-year development plan. With Prince Hassan given large economic powers, the King's plot is to make Jordan a center of small industrial export to the rich oil states of Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and the Persian Gulf and rebuild the fertile agricultural areas along the east bank of the Jordan — just across from the Israeli-occupied Palestinian west bank. This fringe of land was ruined and depopulated by Israeli reprisals against guerrilla bases.

Foreign investors — including 15 American companies in one recent week — have been streaming in here with joint investment proposals to make use of low-cost Jordanian labor. Holiday Inn, for one, is projecting five new hotels to cash in on ambitious Jordanian plans to build a new tourist trade around the largely unexcavated ruins of ancient civilizations. Kentucky Fried Chicken, for another, is now negotiating franchises.

On the edge of the eastern deserts in a region called Hallabat, a rich Bedouin entrepreneur has sunk water wells and is now employing 400 workers on the first phase of developing 2,500 acres of land always regarded as desert.

With a profitable sheep ranch, cattle to come and hundreds of acres planted to alfalfa, onions and other cash crops, this enterprising pioneer has at least opened the prospect for major economic change in what has been primordial desert. His wells, over 300 feet deep, have brought uninterrupted water to the surface for two years now and the government may risk its own investment in the endless search for arable land.

The politics of the new Jordan is obvious. There is less talk here about the Palestinian refugees. No one admits it, but there is hope that far more of them can be brought into the Jordanian economy than seemed possible a few years ago.

The oil-rich Persian Gulf area is a lush employment market for the far better educated Palestinians and Bedouins who make up the truncated state of Jordan. Thus, 20,000 Jordanians are now teaching school in Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and the Gulf states, and Jordanian technicians run government-owned television stations about the Gulf. Large parts of fat salaries are sent home.

By concentrating inward, the King and his brother for the time being are bypassing and working around the insoluble problem of their lost territories in Palestine. Hussein's excellent plan for a united kingdom, with the west bank and its Palestinians restored to Amman, but with a regional capital in East Jerusalem, has had nothing but official scorn from Israel.

In fact, however, it is an ingenious scheme which Israel some day may wish to bargain on. It would resolve Israel's overwhelming problem — what to do with the one million west bank and Gaza Strip Arabs now living as Israeli wards in the occupied territories. Israel can neither wish them away nor take them in as citizens because they would threaten Jewish control of Israel.

Hussein will let that problem simmer, with diplomatic pressure on Washington but no remote prospect of military pressure. In the long run, the occupation of the west bank may be far more dangerous to Israel than its loss is to King Hussein.

"We're Doing Only the Cold Water This Year!"

ANDREW TULLY

Inflation Policy

WASHINGTON — So, all right I realize White House Press Secretary Ron Ziegler can't go around saying the President's anti-inflation policies are a flop, but he doesn't have to be preposterous on the subject.

Commenting on the Labor Department's report that wholesale prices jumped ahead at an annual rate of 7.2 per cent last month, Ziegler told a news conference the administration has made significant strides in bringing the rate of inflation down, and that "we feel the economy is healthy today." Of the November figures, Ziegler said "I am told by those who assess these things that we do not regard the November increases as a lessening of progress in the fight against inflation."

For those who treasure the outrageous Ziegler's statement has got to be a collector's item. The price rise for November — 0.6 per cent both before and after seasonal adjustments — boosted the department's wholesale price index to 5.4 per cent above its level for November 1971. If that doesn't lessen progress in the fight against inflation, Einstein flunked mathematics.

In fact, wholesale prices have been rising faster in the first year of controls than they did in the first eight months of 1971, before Nixon imposed his wage-price freeze. During those eight months, the annual rate was 3.2 per cent. The administration's goal was a 4 per cent rate of inflation by Jan. 1, 1973.

Worse still, the increase has been mostly in the field affecting every family in the country, namely food. Farm products and processed food prices rose a seasonally-adjusted 1.4 per cent last month, and have gone up at whopping 10.3 per cent in controls, against an annual rate of only 6.5 per cent in the eight months before the freeze. Ziegler's chances of selling his "healthy economy" line to housewives are slim to none.

Hustling to the President's defense, administration economists studiously ignore food price increases and point instead to the improvement in the prices of industrial commodities. They rose only 0.4 per cent last month and have risen only 3.7 per cent under controls, against a 4.7 per cent increase during the uncontrolled eight months of 1971. Moreover, in the last six months these prices have been rising at an annual rate of only 2.2 per cent.

There's a however in this story, though. It is that industrial commodities prices have nowhere to go but up in the next few months.

Item: The country's major steel producers have announced price increases effective in January. By coincidence, perhaps, these increases were announced AFTER the election. Item: Also after Nixon's reelection, the Price Commission gave automobile manufacturers permission to increase their prices. Neither development can be described, except maybe by Ziegler, as a "significant stride in bringing the rate of inflation down. Indeed, it was due to the Price Commission's hold-down on auto prices, which normally are increased in the fall, that October showed a relatively tiny 0.1 per cent rise in wholesale prices.

Apparently there's no way out of this mess. Organized labor has a point when it claims controls on prices have been looser than on wages. But so does the White House when it points to the fact that real earnings — after allowance for price increases — have risen over the past year.

Clearly, then, inflation will continue unless both Big Business and Big Labor abandon the philosophy of getting theirs, no matter what. Don't hang by your thumbs waiting for THAT day.

RAY CROMLEY

Japan's Course

WASHINGTON — The substantial victory of Japanese Premier Tanaka's Liberal Democratic party in national elections gives him freedom to press ahead on his country's unique course toward real rank among the world's great powers without a base of military strength.

Tanaka's already announced plan to double Japan's defense spending by 1976 should not be misunderstood. Its purpose is to modernize and re-equip the nation's armed forces, not enlarge them. And it still would leave Japanese defense expenditure at only one per cent of gross national product, as compared with eight per cent for the United States.

To put the matter in fullest perspective, Japan's armed forces, totaling some 260,000 men, give it a smaller military base than such secondary countries as Poland, Turkey, Pakistan and Egypt. What it is trying to do then, is achieve major diplomatic and political influence almost wholly on the basis of its status as the world's third greatest economic power, could be converted to political leverage.

Yet the first signs are showing that the thing might just work. Japan's economic strength is not merely great it is well placed geographically. With a GNP equalling that of all the rest of Asia combined, it is a magnet for China and the lesser countries of that continent. Tokyo has become the natural core of this vast region.

Peking is not bending toward an easing of relations with Japan out of sheer good will. If China is to assuage its fears of the Soviet Union, it needs major industrial advancement. Japan, bulging with manufactured goods, technical know-how, and capital, is the obvious source of help — close at hand.

Other lands in Asia see the same opportunity in dealing with Tokyo, but their capacity for balanced trading is understandably more limited. Here Japan properly perceives the need for expanding its aid program, which government officials freely acknowledge has grown too slowly in recent years.

Its 1975 goal in overseas economic assistance is the range of 4 billion to $5 billion. The present level is around $2 billion.

But America's evidently flagging interest in providing such aid offers Japan a widening prospect. And, again, the factor of proximity makes Japan the logical source for the developing nations of Asia.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Blood Rate

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you explain how a blood sedimentation rate is used as a diagnostic tool? I think I understand the principles of other common blood tests, but not the "sed rate."

I've known of the test being used to determine the progress of cranial arteritis, ulcerative colitis, and mononucleosis. — C. H.

If you put a sample of blood in a tube (test tube, or whatever) and let it sit, the red blood cells will settle toward the bottom.

The presence of infection or tissue damage makes the cells settle — faster, so the sedimentation rate, or the speed with which the red cells move toward the bottom, is an indication of the degree of infection.

It is not a specific test — you cannot tell from a sed rate whether some specific disease is present. But it can give a clue as to the progress of some conditions, such as those you've mentioned and others.

Since so many newer laboratory tests are now available that can be very specific indeed, some physicians regard the sed test as unnecessary and of scant use as a diagnostic test, and the principal value perhaps is in just keeping track of the progress of some chronic ailment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is "elevated uric acid level in the blood" and how can it be treated? — A.L.

It means there's more uric acid in the blood than there should be. Uricosuric agents (drugs which reduce uric acid) are the principal treatment. Diet is of secondary importance. Elevated uric acid is the basic characteristic of gout, and of some types of kidney stones, so it is important to control uric acid. Ninety per cent of those with a uric acid level above 9 mg. eventually develop gout.

If for either reason you need to reduce your uric acid, I refer you to my booklet, "Gout: The Modern Way to Stop It." For a copy, send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of Times News. Your doctor will have to choose the medication; the booklet will tell you what to do about diet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How contagious is TB after taking medication?

My husband contracted it recently, and had X-rays and tests, and the doctor put him on medication for three months, after which he is to return for more X-rays and tests.

Our son is afraid to bring the baby to see us. He said their doctor said no, as the baby has had colds. The baby is six months old. — S.T.H.

A question I can't answer — because I don't know the state of your husband's TB. If sputum tests show active TB germs, then the baby should not be anywhere near him. In fact, great care should be taken to protect anyone with whom he comes in contact. Medication is usually given for more than three months.

The Truman Years: No Lift Ride At Sun Valley

By O.A. (GUS) KELKER

Editor, Times-News

Harry S. Truman, the President of the United States, was standing there talking to this fellow who held a loaded 12-gauge shotgun in his hand and the secret service didn't protest. But when it came time to ride up that little lift which used to run up Dollar Mountain at Sun Valley — it was no go.

The fellow with the shotgun was Joe Burgoyne, then sports director at the resort and now an announcer and advertising man at KTFI Radio in Twin Falls. The situation was one of several recalled by Burgoyne during a reminiscing period sparked by the illness of the former President.

It was a sort of "I remember when" situation as Burgoyne and I discussed those long gone days before security was so tight and when it was much easier to "get to" men of importance.

In fact, it all started when Joe was working as a Senate Clerk in Washington D. C. The year was 1936 and the office of Idaho's senior Senator D. Worth Clark was next to that of Senator Truman, the man from Missouri.

Joe ran into Senator Truman that first time outside the office. Senator Clark introduced the two. The President-to-be was cordial and polite. The two men met several times after that and sometimes these intervals came in trekking from the Senate to the Capital. Often Senator Truman (as he did others, of course) would ask Burgoyne if he wanted a lift on the little electric trains, usually reserved for exclusive use of the Senators. It was about this time, Joe recalls, that he began to realize Senator Truman was a very down to earth, compassionate man.

What was remembered about Senator Truman's efforts in those days? Joe said for the most part it was that he was sort of a watchdog — a watchdog on Senate irregularities. This was a trait which was unusual even in those days.

End the Washington days, and Burgoyne came back to Idaho and to the post of sports director at Sun Valley, then owned by Union Pacific. Then an interval of change once more as Joe enlisted in the Navy and was stationed initially at the U. S. Naval Air, Grandview, just outside Chicago.

Because a uniform could get you in most places, he decided to attend the Democratic National Convention in Chicago and there ran into Senator Truman again.

This was the time President Roosevelt was nominated for his fourth term and Senator Truman was highly mentioned as a replacement for Vice-President Wallace, who FDR apparently wanted to dump.

As luck would have it, Joe ran into the Senator (Truman) in convention hall.

Being a down to earth politician — with a good memory — Senator Truman recognized Burgoyne from the Senate clerk days, discussed Senator Clark and also Senator Borah, who had died in 1940, and then without hesitation answered the first "query" question put to him.

Burgoyne recalls discussing the vice-presidential chances with the Senator and Truman bluntly said "I'm going to be the next Vice-President of the United States." This statement even though no official announcement had been made. But Senator Truman told the fellow from Idaho that was the way it was going to be — and that's the way it was. That was in 1944. In 1945, with the death of President Roosevelt, Truman was President.

After the war Burgoyne returned to Sun Valley and there in 1948, when Truman was running for his first elective term as President against Dewey, the paths of the two crossed again.

President Truman, as guest of Averell Harriman, the man responsible for Sun Valley, visited the resort a night and day. The arrival was by train and the trip was more for relaxation than politics because there were not enough voters up north then to attract much attention.

Security for the trip? Burgoyne recalls a couple of secret service men arrived a few days ahead and scanned the situation. Then when the President arrived there were probably a couple of more security men, backed by a few state and local police.

The day was June 5 and it was in 1948. Burgoyne took President Truman on a tour of Sun Valley. At the lake he was given a brief fishing lesson by Ray Marks, fishing guide and a Twin Falls man. Then to the shooting range where Burgoyne got out the 12-gauge shotgun.

Burgoyne recalls there were no protests when the gun was being demonstrated against clay targets. But there was a laugh when President Truman shot at a few and missed.

Then to Dollar for the lift ride but for some reason came the "nix" from the secret service. Small as it was in those days, perhaps it didn't look secure and that was that. No lift ride for the President of the United States.

Then to the dog kennels, which President Truman seemed to like, and then to the Harriman Cottage for a couple of drinks if you wanted them. Mrs. Truman and Margaret were there.

After the Sun Valley visit Burgoyne one day received a package from "The White House." It was a mounted picture of the President looking on as Joe Burgoyne showed him how to bust the clay targets. The inscription read "Many thanks to Joe Burgoyne for his kindness to me (signed) Harry S. Truman."

So that, in a nutshell, is what a Twin Falls man recalls about the 33rd President of the United States. A man Burgoyne remembers as "a fellow with a hell of a lot of fire and determination and a good memory."

"Rubber Stamp" Talk

Editor, Times-News:

It is unfair to make great things out of small points. It is especially unfair when it pertains to elections. I disagreed with the inferences of the "lettuce boycott" to Bud Davis' campaign, now I disagree that the mention of "rubber stamp" rates the kind of editorial lambast that the Times-News presented it with. The fact that the Times-News had to make so much out of so little tells me that they have very little concrete evidence that the candidate they berated isn't well qualified. Bud Davis is a very efficient man, but, thanks to a moneyed minority, his campaign took on an unfair bias.

The Times-News would have freedom of the press for reporters, it will also hold to itself the privilege of rating space in its paper to those it prefers. Granted, those monstrous "ads" about Mr. Davis making what was at the time of signing a token gesture were paid for by money men who decided to turn their wealth into influence, but that big, long editorial that repeated the obvious fact that Dr. Taylor has earned his pay was simply the Times-News making mountains out of mole hills to fill their pages.

Although it all too often doesn't work that way, I still believe that this country is owned by the working man, and I dislike the influence that money can have on our elections. So it is that I don't like to see a rich newspaper pell-mell clobbering election candidates.

Prayer For Today

I love Christmastime, dear God. The lights and music, the joy and laughter, even the hustle and hurry of it all make me feel more alive. Of course, we are more alive because of Christmas. Jesus said, "I came that you might have life—the more abundant life." Help us this year to be able to understand more fully the deeper meaning of Christmas and that more abundant life. Thank you for this greatest of all gifts. Thank you for Christmas!

About The Governorships

WASHINGTON — With nine of the country's 10 biggest governorships up in 1973-74, it looks as if the Republicans are going to press some of their veteran incumbents to run again to have real hope of keeping their present 6-5 split or recapturing the advantage. In 1969 the GOP held nine of the 10, only Texas being in Democratic hands.

Three — Pennsylvania, Ohio and Florida — slipped away in 1970 and Gov. Richard Ogilvie's close loss this fall dropped Illinois from the GOP list.

Samplings taken at the Republicans' winter Governors Conference here suggest that some of their veterans are indeed almost ready to give it another try in 1974.

Massachusetts Gov. Francis Sargent says he is leaning that way and so does Gov. William Milliken of Michigan. Such moves by them would amount almost to third-term bids, since both were elevated from lieutenant governorships early in 1969 when President Nixon pulled their governors into his Cabinet. Less clear is New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's intent, though the chances of his seeking a fifth four-year term seem to be mounting. His aids told me as far back as the summertime GOP national convention that he was entertaining the thought seriously.

Assuming he serves through his present term to the end of 1974, he will by then have become the governor of longest tenure in U. S. history — with 16 years. The present record is 15.

If he bids for 20 years in 1974, he'll have something more on his mind than record tenure. At 64 today, he looks and acts as vigorous as ever. If given a fifth term, the odds would favor him heavily, he would be '68 by presidential nominating time in 1976, yet there are several party leaders who think he can't be ignored in that reckoning, especially if Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois fails as the choice of the GOP's progressive wing.

Rocky, a solid Nixon backer and a man whose state gave the President 59 per cent of its 1972 presidential vote, is much more acceptable to the party's conservative elements than he used to be.

In California the outlook is less promising. Gov. Ronald Reagan, also aging though still a bit short of 62, has said he won't run again. If he stays with that, his state would really be up for grabs in 1974, with both parties fielding several candidates and none on either side standing out impressively. With the 1976 presidential battle following closely, it would be a critical place for the GOP to lose its grip on the governorship.

New Jersey Gov. William Cahill insists here that he hasn't made up his mind about 1975 when his seat is up. He probably would have a clear edge if he ran. If he doesn't, it could be bad news. Winning Republicans have been scarce at the governorship level in New Jersey.

Another First In Pan Am History

Jamaica — Away From Chills

Pan American World Airways added another chapter to its history of aviation "firsts" when the airline inaugurated the first nonstop flights between Chicago and Jamaica last Friday.

Although the route is a new one, Pan Am has been serving Jamaica for over 40 years. Pan Am began flying to Jamaica on December 1, 1930, on a routing from Miami to Cienfuegos, Cuba, then to Kingston, Jamaica, and on to Cristobal, Canal Zone. The over-600 mile route from Kingston to Cristobal was then the longest over-water flight, a record that stood until Pan Am began its transpacific service later in the decade.

Twenty passengers could be accommodated in the two-engine Commodore, a flying boat that cruised at a speed of 101 miles an hour.

Pan Am ceased operating flying boats in 1945, and substituted landplane equipment on its routes to Jamaica. In 1947 Pan Am continued to operate the only 747 flights to Jamaica.

This winter Pan Am will serve Montego Bay with ten weekly non-stop flights from Chicago. These flights will offer the most convenient way for winter vacationers from Idaho to reach the warm, lush beauty of the Caribbean.

Moon Madness

Oh, what is thy power moon-man or moon-maiden.

Waxing in season to whet man's desire. What is the mystery with which you are laden.

Bringing us madness and consuming fire?

Tales have been chanted by sages thru ages Of strange rites performed and of sacrifice made Handsome youth, and fairest of maidens All at your altar of beauty are laid.

What is this magic, exciting weird magic, Making all things, man and beast worship you.

They're shrieking in ecstasy, thrilling yet tragic Ravished by all of your splendor they view

Are you a siren come shaking and breaking, Gnashing your teeth, gaily taking your toll?

Are you determined to set standards quaking,

By building a kingdom of love-ridden souls?

Crime flowers are blossoming, blooming, Consuming,

Deeds not of rage, but of passion unchecked.

Unbridled lusts, evil spirits exhuming, With all these and more is your moon-bow decked.

And wolves from their lairs come prowling and howling, Baying in chorus forbidding and dread.

Are they your heralds, your trumpets from Loveland,

Summoning shades of a love that is dead?

Yes, summoning shades of a love gone dead.

Do you gloat in moon-changes or dark of the moon,

That hides your face from the telescopes view?

And the hopes of explorers go plummeting downward,

Shattering their longings, inspired by

And for thousands of years you have kept in your place,

Which man can't say for earth's human race.

For he's now blasting rockets upon your fair face.

And lovers for thousands, and thousands of years,

Have stood 'neath your moon-glow and kissed away tears.

And vowed to each other and the moon above,

They would always be true in marriage and love.

But you roll back the tide of oceans deep,

And the promises fade and some lovers weep.

For promises made they never will keep,

For promises made they cannot keep,

Your moon-changes are kept but - promises die.

And sad is a promise that turns into a lie.

Are you waiting for vengeance as some ladies do,

To wreak havoc on man for walking on you?

And in some distant year when the earth lies burned,

And the rivers turn dry, and the tides have turned,

Will you look upon earth from away out in space,

And laugh in sweet vengeance for the scars on your face?

But soon in the light of man's yearning and learning,

He will perceive that you're not to blame.

Come then oh moon so hypnotic and burning,

May we be changed, but fair moon be the same?

Engines batter ship hold

SAINT JOHN'S, Nfld. (UPI) — A tugboat battled through the storm-tossed Atlantic today towing a West German ship in danger of being capsized by eight 150-ton locomotives loose in the hold.

A Canadian Forces Labrador helicopter braved the storm's 50-mile an hour winds Friday to pluck 12 crewmen from the Rumba's decks.

The six other crewmen aboard the 341-foot container ship were picked up by the tug Smith-Lloyd shortly after they abandoned ship in a lifeboat.

One of the men fell out of the lifeboat into the Atlantic, but he was recovered in less than 10 minutes. A search official said the crewman was not injured in the mishap.

A spokesman for the Air and Sea Rescue Center in Halifax, N.S., said today the tugboat and the crippled vessel were making slow progress in the heavy seas. He said there were 30-foot waves and 50-mile an hour winds in the area.

TWIN ENGINE Cessna crashed Saturday not far from the Buffalo International Airport in the suburb of Cheektowaga. The plane apparently stalled in flight before flying through power lines, grazing a rooftop and then crashing into the house. Five persons died in the crash. (UPI)

Crackup

Nixon administration hailed as 'chesslike'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Giving its own assessment of its first four years in office, the administration said Saturday President Nixon's "patient diplomacy, bulldog persistence and chesslike strategy" have brought the chances for lasting world peace closer than any time in the last 30 years.

A book-length document prepared by the office of President Nixon's director of communications, Herbert G. Klein, gave glowing accounts of achievements on both the foreign and domestic fronts.

It said American involvement in the Vietnam war has been wound down, new relationships established with Russia and China, and significant progress achieved toward controlling nuclear armaments.

On the home front, it claimed that the President's new economic policies have for the first time since the Eisenhower years brought the nation "to the brink of a new prosperity, one which is not accompanied by inflation and not dependent on war."

And, as a result of Nixon's policies "of patient diplomacy, bulldog persistence and chesslike strategy," the world is moving toward controlling its nuclear arms, and the East and West are moving toward mutual troop reductions in Central Europe. In addition, the two Koreas and the two Germanies are again talking to each other, as are India and Pakistan, and the cease-fire along the Suez has held into its third year.

"These and other achievements mean that the chances to build a lasting structure of peace in the world are better now than at any time in the past generation," it said.

The document was amplified in a two-hour briefing held last week by Klein and John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's chief adviser on domestic affairs, who said the disappointments of the President's first four years in office were not given the same full treatment as the accomplishments.

The report was an effort to present the administration's point of view to reporters who traditionally write assessments at this time of year.

Sheriff won't probe campus death charges

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — East Baton Rouge Parish Sheriff Al Amiss said Saturday his office will not investigate allegations that one of his deputies killed two Southern University students during a campus disruption last month.

"We're strictly leaving that to the FBI and the attorney general," Amiss said.

A biracial state commission headed by Attorney General William Guste ended its investigation into the Nov. 16 killings last week with a report saying the fatal shots came from an area where six deputies were standing.

Deputies and state policemen were called to the campus when university administrators reported a student takeover of the administration building. Students denied they tried to hold the building by force.

The commission urged that the investigation be continued by a grand jury which could indict one or more of the deputies if it could obtain sufficient evidence to justify the action.

Guste said he believes only one deputy fired the shots.

A force of FBI agents completed a separate investigation into the incident last week but made no public report.

U.S. Attorney Douglas Gonzales said the agents will present their report to him and other officials and the federal attorney general's office will then decide what to do.

The FBI agents interrogated every sheriff's deputy and state policeman who was at Southern when the students and police faced each other in front of the administration building. Gonzales said six deputies are still under investigation, and that several of them had refused to take lie detector tests.

Amiss said his investigation of the Southern incident will focus on other elements.

Scali to post at UN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Saturday nominated John Scali, a former reporter and now special consultant to Nixon, to be U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Scali, 54, would succeed George Bush, who was chosen by Nixon to be Republican national chairman.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who announced the appointment, recalled Scali's long involvement with diplomatic affairs both in journalism and government service. Ziegler said Scali "has great understanding of the practical workings of diplomacy."

Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Scali's appointment shows "the President's high interest in the United Nations...I am confident that his service to the United Nations will be most distinguished."

Scali visited Peking ahead of Nixon to arrange details for the Presidential visit to China and later accompanied Nixon on that trip.

Scali was diplomatic correspondent for the American Broadcasting Company for 10 years before becoming a consultant to Nixon on foreign policy and communications in April 1971. Prior to joining ABC, Scali was a diplomatic reporter for the Associated Press for 17 years. He has travelled to 79 countries as a reporter and to all the countries Nixon has visited in the last two years.

Revolution 'aided' Chinese acrobats

CHICAGO (UPI) — The first fine arts troupe from the People's Republic of China to visit the United States talked Saturday about what it is like to be an acrobat in China, and what it used to be like.

"Since liberation, that is, before 1949, the political status of acrobats has improved," said Wang Wen Kuei, secretary general of the Shenyang Acrobatic Troupe of China.

"Before liberation, it was a miserable life."

Wang was one of seven persons from the 71-member delegation to appear before American newsmen in the first press conference in the United States by troupe members. The troupe arrived earlier Saturday from Toronto for a week-long stay in Chicago. It goes on to Indianapolis, Ind.; Washington and New York City.

Wang, speaking animatedly, told newsmen that before the 1949 revolution, Chinese acrobats had to hustle to survive, gathering on street corners to give performances—

Arizona water pact signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton has signed a contract that paves the way for construction of the $1.2 billion Central Arizona Project.

The contract between the federal government and the Central Arizona Water Conservation District spells out the provisions for repayment of the federal investment in 50 years.

The contract was signed Friday during a ceremony in Morton's office that was attended by Reps. John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., and Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., both of whom played key roles in winning Congressional approval of the huge project in 1968.

The project will carry Colorado River water into the heart of Arizona, where it will help the cities of Phoenix and Tucson meet growing water shortages and also provide irrigation water for farmers.

It will take about 10 years to build the project, depending in part on how fast congress provides the construction funds.

The project will include a pumping plant at Lake Havasu on the Colorado River, a six-mile tunnel through the Buckskin Mountains, a 307-mile aqueduct and four dams. Pumping power will be obtained from the non-federal Navajo power plant now under construction near Page, Ariz. The government has contracted to take 24.3 per cent of the capacity of the power plant, with any unused power to be sold to provide revenues toward repayment of the cost of the project.

Cannonfire, concert mark fete

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — The celebration of Brazil's 150th anniversary of independence will end in a booming finale Sunday with an open air concert featuring Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture" using seven 75-millimeter cannons, 400 musicians and several church chorus groups.

The free concert will be staged on a grassy hillside of the Quinta da Boa Vista Park, the former Brazilian Imperial Palace grounds.

Thousands of persons, including several hundred Russian naval cadets who arrived in Rio Saturday, are expected to attend. The Soviets arrived in the training ship "Borodino," named after the site where the Russians defeated Napoleon in 1812. The "1812 Overture" was written to commemorate the Russian victory. It is the first time a Russian naval ship has visited Brazil.

Letters to Hanoi

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Four American pacifists left Laos for Hanoi Saturday, carrying about 500 letters for American prisoners of war.

Among the Americans traveling to the North Vietnamese capital were folk singer Joan Baez and Prof. Telford Taylor, a law professor at Columbia University and a prosecutor at the Nuernberg war-crimes trials after World War-II.

The Americans flew to Hanoi aboard a Russian Aeroflot airliner. They expected to stay in Hanoi for about a week, they said.

The Americans said they were invited to Hanoi by the North Vietnamese government and said they did not know what their schedule would be.

Miss Baez said she had not even known all the members of the group before starting the trip. The other two members of the group were Barry Rome, a member of Vietnam Veterans Against the War and Michael Allen, assistant dean of the Yale Divinity School.

Buhl shows yule round world

By PAULINEDAY
Times-News writer

BUHL — "The Spirit of Christmas Past" is the theme for the 1972 Christmas Round the World display located in the former White's building.

The exhibit is open each day from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and between 1 and 5 p.m. today. The exhibit is open each day from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and between 1 and 5 p.m. today.

The theme gives youngsters an opportunity to observe how Christmas was celebrated in years gone by and give "old-timers" a chance to reminisce.

The store windows show the Madonna and Christ child before a cathedral window panel, courtesy of the Buhl Lions Club, and the arrival of the Magi at Bethlehem by the Rotary Club.

The exhibits include a large Christmas tree decorated with "crismons." "Crismons" are symbols or monograms pertaining to Christ and his life. The "crismons" are handmade using styrofoam, beads, pearls, sequins, etc., all in gold and white.

A sagebrush Christmas tree, decorated with paper chains, cranberries, popcorn garlands and candles, provided holiday decoration in the Rock Creek Tract school in 1904. The display is courtesy of the Buhl Job's Daughters.

The Filer Wranglerettes depict a cowboy's Christmas with the lifelike cowboy relaxing by the campfire after a hard day's work. Dolls of past Christmases, some over 50 years old, are exhibited by the Buhl Council of Catholic Women, in a scene from Santa's workshop. Some antique doll furniture is also in the exhibit.

Grandma's workshop, an old-fashioned kitchen scene, shows grandma busy stirring a kettle on the stove, while her freshly baked Christmas goodies cool on the oven door and the table.

Grandpa is carrying in a load of firewood to keep the homefires burning. The display was exhibited by the Lucerne Grange.

"Christmas is Giving" is the theme for the LDS display featuring handmade gifts from the past up to today's handicraft ideas.

Glenns Ferry will add metal works to school shop program

GLENN'S FERRY — Lee

Carter, state supervisor of the district, met with district 192 school board Thursday.

Carter reviewed the district shop program and offered suggestions. The board authorized the addition of metal works to the program at an estimated cost of $1,000 to the district.

The board authorized the call for bids for a new 66-passenger bus, with the trade-in of a 1964 bus. Bids will be opened at the January meeting.

Permission was given to the Lions Club to use the gym on Dec. 27, 28 and 29 for the outlay tournament. Teams from Gooding and Mountain home will participate in the benefit tournament.

It was reported a broken water main under the gym at the junior high school was causing problems.

Bethel hears of Christmas tree

TWIN FALLS — Debbie Weidenheft presented the librarian's report "Christmas Tree" when Bethel No. 43 International Order of Job's Daughters met Thursday.

Honored queen Debra Fuller conducted the last meeting of her term.

Introductions included Margaret Harvey, honored queen of Bethel No. 56; Art Wylie, associate grand guardian; Mrs. Art Wylie, grand guide; Mr. and Mrs. James Beal, associate guardian and guardian of Bethel No. 43, and Mrs. Glen Davis, past guardian of Bethel No. 43.

Protemis for the meeting were Candy Brayle, Bethel No. 19, marshal; Debbie Weidenheft, librarian; Paula DePew, senior custodian, and Eileen Tsatsa, junior custodian.

Honored queen elect, Terri Blei, announced practice for installation would be at 7 p.m. Dec. 26 with installation at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 27 at the Masonic Temple.

Winners in the afghan drawing were Paul McCollum, Kimberly, and Calvin Kuntz Wendell.

Robbie Joble for the evening was, Ardith Crumbliss, Job's daughter of the meeting was Cleo Tsatsa. Birthday people were Jan Beal, Jim Beal, Laurie Beal and Ida Mae Weidenheft.

Following the meeting, daughters, parents and the Guardian Council enjoyed refreshments and a gift exchange. Audrey Fuller accompanied the carol singing.

Altar draped

BUHL — The altar was draped in memory of Mrs. Laura Elizabeth Bristol when Buhl Chapter No. 38 met Thursday in regular session.

Mrs. Bristol served as worthy grand matron of the OES Grand Chapter of Idaho in 1944-45. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hardin, worthy patron and worthy matron, were in charge of the meeting.

Christmas carol singing was enjoyed by the chapter. Mrs. T. W. Richmond decorated the chapter room in a Christmas theme. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bill Lammers and Mrs. Wanda O'Reilly, co-chairmen, assisted by Mrs. Ann Falt, Mrs. Guy Kinyon, Mrs. Ralph Albee and Cecil Childs.

KH Grangers slate party

KING HILL — The King Hill Grange Christmas party and gift exchange will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Grange Hall.

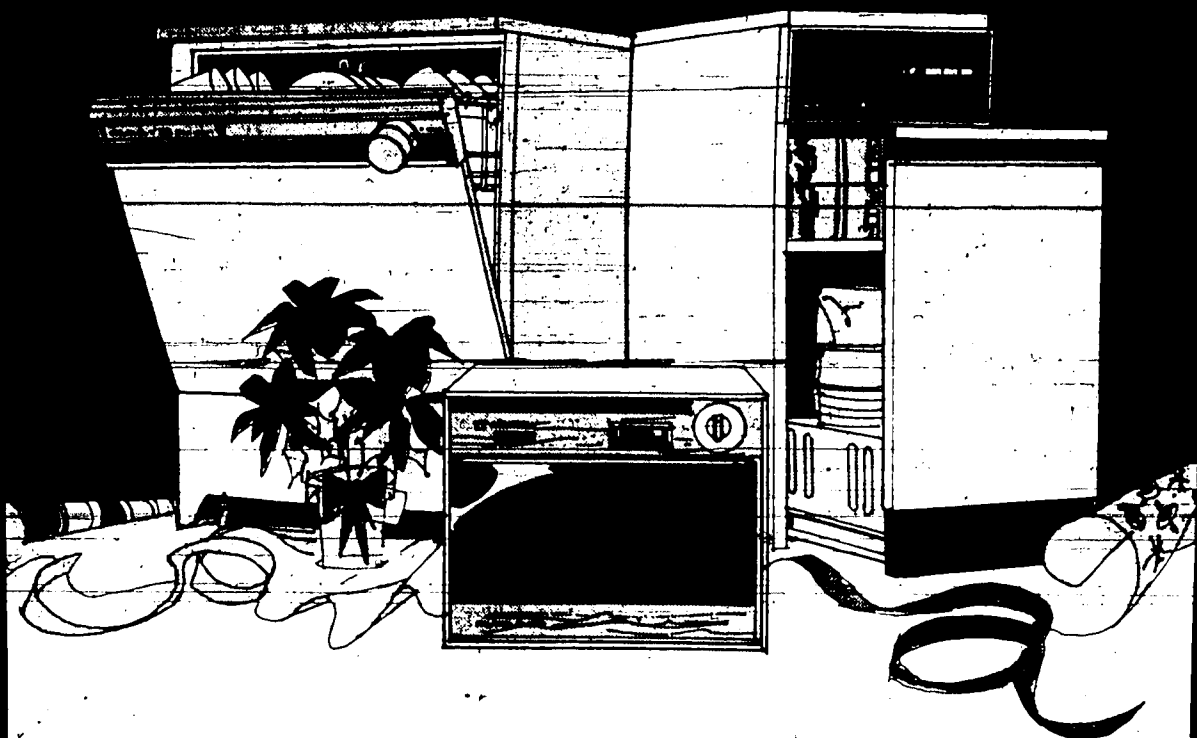

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Ruberry, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Fink, and Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Timbers are in charge of arrangements.

The adults gifts are to be of $1 value with 50 cent value for small children's gifts.

Oxcarts are still used in many backland areas of Brazil.

Gift ideas from Frigidaire

This season, give her the gift she'll enjoy opening every day of the year.

Give her a Frigidaire Mobile Dishwasher... and you give her hour after hour of time saved. They need no permanent installation, have easy snap-on, snap-off hook-up to faucets, move anywhere her family goes and convert to an undercounter built-in anytime (with accessory kit at extra charge).

Put a Frigidaire Microwave oven under the tree... and she'll turn into the fastest chef on the block with meals in minutes, snacks in seconds. Cleaning up is easy, too, just wipe out the Microwave oven with a damp cloth. Put one under the tree... it'll be out in the kitchen by evening.

A Frigidaire Trash Compactor makes short work of your Christmas shopping this season... and short work of the trash problem year round. It compresses bottles, cans and miscellaneous household trash to about one quarter of its original size... in an easy-to-handle trash compactor bag. Keeps it out of sight, away from children and pets.

Credit union elects

TWIN FALLS — Joe Koon and Ernest Handy were elected to the board of directors of Idaho Credit Union League South Central Chapter, during the annual meeting Thursday.

The group met at the Turf Club. The south central chapter represents all 18 credit unions in the Magic Valley.

Koon represents the Twin Falls City Employs Credit Union and Handy is the SIMCOE of Burley.

Blanche Peay and Will Moore were re-elected to fill another term on the board. Other board members are Bob Murphy, Harland Blackburn and Mat Warr.

David Player was selected as league director and will serve with Floyd White as representatives of the area on the Idaho State Credit Union Board. Mrs. Player was named alternate.

Over 40 members attended the meeting. Music was provided by the Freeway Four quartet and Earl McAdams displayed and explained the building of way figures.

Mrs. Pufahl will head federation

BUHL — Mrs. Art Pufahl was named president of St. John's Lutheran Federation during the December meeting Thursday.

Other officers include Mrs. Harlen Schmeckpeper, vice president and reporter; Mrs. Clifford Spreier, secretary, and Mrs. Al Toberer, treasurer.

Mrs. Bruno Gabardi presented the topic, "The Child We Honor," explaining church symbols and monograms.

Mrs. Neil Stuegemeyer was named chairman of "Connie Day" scheduled for Jan. 14 following church services. Money realized during "Connie Day" go toward the support of Connie Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Adams, Buhl, a resident of the Good Shepherd Home at Terra Bella, Calif.

Singing of Christmas carols was used for the opening and closing devotions.

Experts in TF

Civil defense training confab concluded in TF

TWIN FALLS — Civil defense programs are now geared to coping with natural disasters and away from nuclear war, speakers in a week-long conference here emphasized.

The training session for area civil defense directors and personnel ended here Friday. Thursday's sessions featured a special conference to which county officials and others involved with disaster preparations were invited.

Speakers urged pre-disaster planning on the part of the directors and governmental officials explaining this is now the key to a good civil defense program in a community.

Information presented Thursday afternoon included services and assistance available from state and federal agencies including a "hazard survey."

Such a survey will be made in the city or county, panel speakers said, through the state and federal governments to point out such potential natural disaster hazards as flood dangers. The survey information then goes to the local governments for planning and action.

Post disaster assistance available in the way of military support and procedures to follow in obtaining federal assistance.

Panel speakers included Ray Wilman, Seattle, assistant director of disaster preparedness, Office of Emergency Preparedness; Gen. James Brooks and Col. H. V. Smith of the Idaho adjutant general's office; Don Fero, director of field operations, Defense Civil Preparedness Agency (formerly Office of Civil Defense), and James Armitage, director of civil defense in Latah County.

In an informal discussion period, Armitage, who worked with the other speakers during a recent flood in his county, outlined assistance given him and various agencies and offered suggestions as to how to expedite the assistance in future disaster planning.

About 35 persons attended the Thursday meeting.

The week-long session is sponsored by the University of Idaho, civil defense extension program, and is the first of its kind in the state. In charge of the program were David Hansen, coordinator for civil defense training, U of I, and assistant coordinator Richard Hagood.

Astronaut writes 'moon' version of poem

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — 'Twas the night before liftoff on the face of the moon and Jack, far from sleepy, began to write soon.

"It's the week before Christmas and all through the LM, not a commander is stirring not even Cernan," astronaut Jack Schmitt began his composition, a space-age update of the famous old Christmas poem.

A cackle of static in his radio was keeping Schmitt awake, even though he and Apollo 17 commander Gene Cernan had put in the last heavy day of moon exploration.

So, through the early morning hours when the world supposed the astronauts were sleeping snug in their capsules while visions of spacewalks danced in their heads, Schmitt was awake with pen in hand.

At wakeup time Schmitt was ready, and proudly read the thing to Mission Control.

"People always said we ought to have a poet in space," he told ground communicator Gordon Fullerton by way of preface. Then, dedicating his work to the Apollo 8 crew which first orbited the moon at Christmastime in 1968, he recited it:

"It's the week before Christmas and all through the LM not a commander was stirring, not even Cernan.

"The samples were stowed in their places with care in hopes with you they soon will be there.

"And Gene in his hammock and I in my cap had just settled our brains for a long lunar — short lunar nap.

"And, out up on the comm loop there rose such a chatter I sprang from my hammock to see what was the matter.

"Down on the breadth of the surface below is the luster of objects as if in snow.

"And what to my wondering eyes should appear but a miniature Rover and eight tiny reindeer. And a little old driver so lively and quick I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.

"I heard him exclaim as — over the hills did speed — Merry Christmas to all, and to you all, God speed."

So after he finished it came to our mind: Now THAT's what has happened to cars, left behind.

Difficult

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Vietnam veteran with only one leg was acquitted in federal court Thursday of charges he booted a U. S. marshal during a demonstration at a Pay Board hearing.

U. S. Magistrate Richard S. Goldsmith said Robert McCochran, 24, a Berkeley, Calif., postal worker, would have had great difficulty kicking Marshal Gary Bricker. The judge noted that the defendant had an artificial leg.

Barred from law

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court has disbarred Joseph G. Pucello from the practice of law in Idaho, the state bar reported Thursday.

The court order, dated last Monday, affirmed a recommendation by a special hearing board appointed by the Idaho State Bar.

Wise was accused of failing to give a client full benefit of a $10,000 settlement in a civil suit.

China delegates praise Apollo 17

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A delegation of scientists from China ended a tour of the United States Thursday with praise for America's Apollo 17 moon mission.

We think that the launch of Apollo 17 is the result of great efforts on behalf of American scientists and the American people," said Dr. Pei Shih-chang, a biophysicist and spokesman for the group.

Apollo 17 will get positive results in understanding something of the moon and nature," he said as the seven scientists and three delegation staff members ended their 24-day tour.

Merry Pet

Linda Merry, DVM

Author's note: I hope that all parents of small children and owners of small animals will read and heed this letter before buying a Christmas tree.

I think the following information is very important to pet lovers. So far I don't know of any children who have been harmed, but I do know about our beloved pet. I just hope a child doesn't prove it can be deadly to them also.

Shortly after last Christmas my grandchildren's Siamese cat named Mitzi died after two weeks of suffering and seven trips to the vet. She had chewed and swallowed some Christmas tree needles from the man-made chemically treated trees.

The vet said they act the same as bamboo splinters in the lining of the stomach, and that along with the chemicals, was deadly.

We have a toddler and, as you know, a tiny child will put anything and everything into his mouth. These trees are not labeled as dangerous to children or pets. The only caution was not to use tree lights that get too hot.

By the time the manufacturers are made to label these trees in their true light, I hope humans and more pets will not have been stricken.

The Siamese that died had lived as a member of the family for six years, but if we can enlighten the public of the danger in these trees, she will have done some good in her own way.

Question: I have always thought that cod-liver oil should be fed to cats. Recently a vet told me that he doesn't recommend it at all. Can you tell me if he's right?

Answer: He's right. Cats need large amounts of fat in their diet but only the right kinds of fat. Unstable, unsaturated fatty acids cause cardiac lesions and a condition called yellow fat disease or steatitis.

Cod-liver oil is especially liable to rancidity and oxidation when stored, even in special dark bottles. It can be used safely only if very small amounts are purchased, correctly stored in dark bottles out of the light, and used up quite rapidly.

Unfortunately, most owners aren't that excited about running to the drug store every few days just for cod-liver oil and it is usually the oxidized oil that gets used.

There are better products available at a comparable price and I think it's much wiser to take advantage of them.

If you have a question about your pet, send it to The Merry Pet Column, in care of the Times-News.

Swallowed live snake

PAUL JESS, 18-month-old Australian boy, ate a live, wriggling poisonous snake before horrified eyes of his mother. The snake was a baby dugite, western Australia's most venomous, but because it was small — 12 inches — it contained little venom. (UPI).

Australian eats poisonous snake

PERTH, Australia (UPI)—An 18-month-old boy shocked his mother Thursday by eating a live and wriggling poisonous snake in front of her eyes.

Mrs. Ronald Jess of Amelia Heights, a Perth suburb, said her son Paul ate the head and eight inches of the snake, identified as one of Western Australia's most venomous—a baby dugite—before she could get to him.

I found him with just the tail, still wriggling, in his mouth," she said. "When I snatched that from him and threw it on the ground, he grabbed it to have another go. He didn't like it taken off him. It must have had a good flavor."

The first man to fly in a glider was Otto Lilienthal of Germany in 1891.

$1 million awarded two cases

DETROIT (UPI)—For the second time this week, a Wayne County Circuit Court jury Thursday awarded more than $1 million in damages in a personal injury case.

The jury Thursday awarded $1.4 million to an Oakland Community College student and $50,000 to her mother after the girl suffered paralysis from the waist down when administered a defective anesthetic.

On Tuesday, $1,740,020, was given to a 26-year-old Detroit woman who became mentally incompetent because her brain did not receive enough oxygen while she was under anesthetic in a city hospital.

The award to Diane Reese, 26, West Bloomfield Township, and her mother, Anita Gosney, totals about $1,750,000 with interest.

The judgement by the jury was against Abbott Laboratories of Chicago. A company spokesman said the decision would be appealed.

Miss Reese was given the anesthetic, a commonly used spinal type called Tetracaine, when she was undergoing surgery at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital to remove a cyst.

What is the most important problem facing the college, and your solution?

The most important problem is the relatively poor academic quality of education. The solution is to encourage rather than stifle, imaginative and thought provoking teaching, and to allow teachers more freedom for creativity.

We can assist the teachers in this by upgrading the library, and by establishing a more objective teacher evaluation system.

I believe the most important problem of the college at this time is to broaden its financial base. The college serves Idaho, particularly Magic Valley.

The college receives support from outside of the district by way of tuition paid by the counties, and the tuition charged to out-of-district students. This places a financial burden on the students involved which would be reduced if the counties of their residence were within the district.

This may be solved by expanding the district by an election in area counties or by legislative action. The board has each year taken steps to have the legislature consider this problem.

Questions: 1. The problem is the setting up and execution of long range plans by the board of trustees.

This planning, to become effective, will demand information and opinions from all facets of the college. From the administration, faculty and student body will come the framework for this planning. It is the responsibility of the board to build these plans and to insure their execution.

The most important problem facing CSI is that keeping costs down so no person in the area need feel he cannot afford higher education or vocational-technical training. No real solution is evident. Urge efforts to induce Cassia, Gooding, Lincoln and Blaine counties into district and tax base.

I don't believe there is a most important problem facing the college. There are some minor improvements that should be evaluated and considered. They are: 1) library dissatisfaction by many faculty and students. 2) faculty morale improvement.

What are the strengths of the CSI board and administration?

The present board and administration has done a commendable job of making the idea of a junior college in this community a reality, and in keeping student costs at a minimum.

All of the board members have a keen interest in the success of the college. The administration at the college is well informed on the public needs and desires as well as being professionally qualified. Representation on the board from the various geographic locations within the district aids in district-wide interest in the programs of the college.

These together with the training of the administration in their respective fields, make a strong team for the operation of the college.

The strength of the present board rests in the fact that practically all its members were with the college since its beginning.

Dr. Taylor, as chief executive officer, demonstrates institutional leadership and great fund raising ability. I believe he represents well. However, Dr. Taylor has not had the benefit of a working board in its fullest capacity.

Up to now, the board has been comprised of persons having a vital and long-term relationship to the Magic Valley. I would hate to see any board member elected who has not made a substantial contribution to the betterment of life in this area, in his own way. A trustee should be a community advocate, should have lived here long enough to know the people and to be known, and one who has paid enough taxes to appreciate the value of the tax dollar.

I feel that the administration at CSI has been outstanding. Dr. Taylor is probably one of the best junior college presidents in the nation. Many of his staff are excellent in regard to their educational abilities and practices.

I don't believe that there is any better junior college administration than the College of Southern Idaho's current administration.

What are the weaknesses of the CSI board and administration?

The present board has failed to seek or initiate ideas, or to even recognize that fresh ideas are needed. The board is poorly informed, and is thereby forced to delegate too much of its responsibility to the administration.

Every institution needs a system of checks and balances, but our board prefers to abdicate its authority.

The members of the board and the administration all being human, certainly have weaknesses and areas in which improvement may be made. It is difficult for one to assess his own individual weaknesses for these very weaknesses may in the eyes of others appear to be conditions of strength.

I am sure that all of the members of the board as well as the administrative staff, like myself, are constantly striving to improve their own performance.

The present board, I believe, has closed many channels of communication which are necessary in effective planning and efficient running of the institution.

It has accomplished this by isolating itself from the school and the community. What is needed is more aggressive thought and ideas, and publication of such so as to stimulate participation and interest.

I doubt there would be any support for student representation on the CSI board if students felt they had adequate means of communication with the present board. Board members should be extremely available to give ear to student concerns.

I believe that the current board of trustees for CSI has performed as well as a board should, except for some minor exceptions.

I am of the belief that the incumbent that I am opposing should be replaced by a new individual with new constructive ideas and new energies to help develop the next six years of the college's future.

I believe that because of my past associations with the college that I could fill that position very well.

Do you support faculty tenure?

I support faculty tenure, but believe it should be granted on the basis of excellence of performance rather than length of service.

A system of tenure removes the element of intimidation caused by the threat of arbitrary dismissal, although a teacher with tenure can still be dismissed for justifiable cause.

I do not support faculty tenure. I believe that in any job which a person assumes he should be subject to dismissal if those to whom he is responsible feel that the job is not being properly done or feel that the person is not capable of accomplishing the task to be done.

The Idaho Code stipulates that the Board of trustees make bylaws, rules and regulations for its institution and college district consistent with the rules and regulations of the Idaho Board of Education.

The policy statement issued by the state board of education clearly outlines standards and eligibility for tenure.

Tenure can be a great motivating force to the faculty. My views are in accord with those set down by the state board of education.

I will say that the tenure system is not without its faults, but a modified tenure plan has many more advantages for the faculty and administration than the present annual, renewable contract system.

I support a limited form of tenure. I believe that a qualified instructor who has demonstrated good work through a two to three year probationary period deserves some job security in the form of a longer than year to year contract.

Far from being a shield behind which mediocrity would be sheltered, I believe this would help CSI retain its best teachers.

A bit of job security to those teachers of demonstrated quality would make them less likely to be lured away to other institutions that do offer some form of job security.

I do not favor any tenure intended to bolster so-called "academic freedom," which too frequently degrades into academic license.

I don't believe that faculty tenure is a necessity. The majority of employment situations does not have a guaranteed contract. I am of the belief that CSI is no different from most other employment situations and tenure should not necessarily be required.

Is the CSI library program adequate?

The library program is totally inadequate. Quantity, rather than content has apparently been the basis of the selection of books, the majority of which are obsolete or irrelevant.

A better library would encourage research projects and other independent study, providing the foundation for quality education.

In developing a college certainly one of the necessary departments is a library department. We feel that great strides have been taken in the development of the library on campus.

A library for a junior college should be more in the nature of a general information source rather than a research library. Until the campaign for the present trustee election started, we, as a board, had received no complaints from either the administration or the students concerning the adequacy or sufficiency of the library.

In the junior college atmosphere it is most important that the student have access to as much information as possible. For it is here that he will develop and formulate ideas that will sustain him throughout his life.

It is important the learning center portion of the library be bolstered for it is here the student can individually learn and study. If elected one of my primary objectives would be to strengthen this area.

The library is remarkably good considering its young age.

However, it is in need of many more new books. Books are as essential as teachers.

The library program has been the subject of much criticism and discussion recently. I feel that the library program should be analyzed and evaluated to see if there is an actual need for improvement.

What are your priorities for future CSI spending?

The academic program and library development should receive top priority, along with vocational programs and adult education.

I believe the number one priority so far as buildings are concerned is to provide a full vocational education facility on the campus.

In the operation of the college I believe we must continue to provide a first rate vocational and academic program for the students in the area.

This requires an up-to-date salary schedule for instructional, maintenance and administrative staff and the necessary expenditures to maintain the facilities and teaching aids.

I would be sure each area had a voice in the determination of short and long range priorities and each will receive analyses of past budgetary experience, reports on current budgets and expenditures, and short and long range budgetary projections.

The following priority areas are listed in order: administration, academic program, vocational program, library development, building program, physical education, student recreational facilities, student dorms.

Future spending priorities are to update the library, especially more new books and to begin stepwise relocation of certain vocational-technical activities to the main campus according to studied priority, so that these students could have better access to library and other student facilities.

1) Academic and vocational programs. 2) building programs. 3) library development.

STANLEY WACHTSTETTER

Address: 516 Fifth Ave. N., Twin Falls
Occupation: Student
Length of residence in district: Five months
Education: Th. B. Conqueror's Bible College and one half year Purdue
Background: Foster parent of nine teen-age boys. Pastor for four years.

CSI's most important problem?

I would like to see the tax base of the junior college broadened by the inclusion of other counties within Magic Valley. Our college should be an area college and I am hopeful that the other counties within Magic Valley can be encouraged to join the district.
In addition, I would work for federal and state funds to the end that our college is financed approximately one-third by the federal government, one-third by state funds and one-third by local participation.
The effect would be to provide adequate financing and reduce the tax load to the taxpayers of our district.

Financing is the major problem facing CSI at present. The problem stems from high taxes coupled with a desire to expand at CSI, and is complicated by the possible reduction in tuition in the opinion resting with the attorney general's office.
The solution would be to work toward incorporating surrounding counties into the junior college district in order to expand the tax base.

CSI board, administration strengths?

The strengths are best measured by the achievements attained. We have a number-one junior college and we have attained this enviable standing in a short space of seven years.
Our college is offering approximately 150 different courses in the academic field and a well-rounded vocational program. We have an excellent staff and the physical facilities we now have are second to none.
It is my opinion that the creation of the junior college district and the success it has enjoyed is the single most important achievement for our area.

The board members and administration are capable, intelligent men.

CSI board, administration weaknesses?

It is sometimes difficult to evaluate one's own weakness. In viewing the college and the performance of the board and administration, I find little to criticize.
I take no credit in this inasmuch as I have only served on the board for the past year since Mr. Shields' death.
However, as a taxpayer and citizen of this community, I am very proud of the job they have done and would find it very difficult to find fault.

The board needs to assume more responsibility. The administration needs to involve the faculty in decision making.

Do you support faculty tenure?

I do not support faculty tenure. I might mention that the college has not had faculty tenure and our state law does not require it. I have great difficulty understanding why any faculty member should be frightened of losing his position if he is doing a creditable job.
If he is not now doing a creditable job, or if in the future he fails to perform, then he should be discharged.
One who is doing his job will be retained and certainly if one should fail to do his job properly, the taxpayers should not have the burden of continuing his salary when performance does not merit it.

Yes

Spending priorities?

The goal of the college should be to house the vocational program on campus in order to upgrade the vocational facilities and to bring the vocational students more closely into the campus community.
My opinion as to the proper priority for operational spending is: (1) Continue to improve the vocational programs, (2) Continue our strong academic program, including the adult education program, and to broaden these areas.

Greatest spending priority should be given to library development, and building programs, particularly building to bring all the vocational program on campus.
Great spending priority should be given the vocational program and the academic program. We should only spend enough to maintain our present expenditures of administration, physical education, student dormitories and student recreational facilities.

Is the library adequate?

We have approximately 100,000 volumes in our library. An authority in this field has published a paper in which he recommends 20,000 specific volumes for a proper junior college library. Our library contains all 20,000 of these specific volumes recommended.
We must strive to provide the very best possible facilities within the tax budget. I think we are doing this.
We must remember we are a young school and I believe we have done remarkably well in this area.

The library program needs immediate attention. It is not adequate.

CSI oath for voter

VOTERS IN Tuesday's trustee election at the College of Southern Idaho must sign this elector's oath before casting ballots. No prior registration is required. The franchise has been broadened this year, with dropping the voting age requirement to 18 years from 21 years; elimination of a requirement that voters either be taxpayers or a parent of a child living in the district, and elimination of requirement that a voter live in the state for 6 months and the county for 30 days.

Prison riot yields 37 jury indictments

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — At least one person has been arrested in connection with 37 indictments handed up Friday by the special grand jury rebelling—the bloodiest penal insurrection in the nation's history.
A group of civil rights lawyers in Buffalo said Saturday that Charles Parnasille, 20, a former prisoner at Attica who has been paroled, was arrested and charged with the death of William Quinn, a prison guard who died of injuries received on the first day of the Sept. 9-13 uprising. Forty-two other persons died later.
Parnasille was arrested Friday in Syracuse, according to the Attica Defense Committee. The charges against him could bring the death penalty under New York state law.

Quinn died during the third day of the uprising, and his death brought a hard-line stand from the state, which was bargaining at the time with the inmates who held 38 hostages.
Parnasille was expected to be arraigned Tuesday in the Wyoming County courthouse in Warsaw, the lawyers group said.
Attorney William Kunstler said he would participate in the "prearrestment defense" of Parnasille.
Officials connected with the investigation are refusing to say who else was indicted until all those named are arrested and the indictments are opened at their arraignments.
Deputy Attorney General Robert E. Fischer, heading the investigation, said, "This is only the first report. There may very well be subsequent ones. The 37 is only a partial list. The warrants have been issued and they will be picked up."

Ulster victim hooked

BELFAST (UPI) — A 26-year-old butcher was shot to death and hung on a meat hook inside his shop's refrigerator Saturday and seven other persons were shot and wounded in isolated incidents as Northern Ireland violence worsened.
The death of the man—a Roman Catholic—was the fifth in three days. It brought the death toll after three years of bloodshed in the Ulster to 665. His body was found at noon in the small town of Derrylin 100 miles southwest of Belfast.
"It could be another retaliation murder," a police spokesman said. "A car bomb exploded last (Friday) night in Larnakas where the dead man came from."
Earlier in the day, gunmen cruising in automobiles shot seven persons, including the 16-year-old brother of leading Protestant militant Frazer Agnew. The boy, Andrew Agnew, was shot in the face as he walked along a Belfast street. He was shot from a passing car on the same street where 24 hours earlier two men on a motorcycle killed James Joseph Reynolds, a 16-year-old Roman Catholic.

Leaking gas believed trigger to explosion

WEIRTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Officials theorized Saturday that leaking natural gas triggered a series of powerful explosions that killed 19 workmen at a new Weirton Steel Co. coke plant that was scheduled to go into full production in two weeks.
A preliminary investigation by Koppers Co., Inc., of Pittsburgh, which erected the plant for Weirton Steel, showed that leaking was reported in the immediate blast area shortly before the first major explosion that sent a shower of twisted steel girders and cement fragments showering down on a number of workmen.

In addition to the 19 persons killed, 10 were injured, one critically. Eight workers remained hospitalized while two were treated and released.
Roger Beidler, a Koppers spokesman, said workers reported smelling gas fumes just minutes before the initial explosion, which could be felt four miles away. He said one man was reported to have been sickened by the fumes and an ambulance was summoned.
Charles Cook of Pulaski, Pa., a millwright who was working about 200 feet from the blast area, said he could smell gas just before the explosion. He said at least two men were apparently overcome by fumes. The first explosion occurred about 9:44 a.m. Friday and was followed by three minor explosions—all within a 30 minute span.

Altogether 667 men were working at the plant site when the explosions occurred.
The U.S. Labor Department sent a seven-man investigating team to the plant to inspect for any violation of safety and health conditions. The team was headed by Shaim Robbins, deputy assistant secretary of labor.
Dick Parsons, 56, of Chester, W. Va., a bricklayer, escaped unharmed.
"It was the ugliest thing I ever saw," Parsons said. "Steel and iron fell, it blew my hard hat right off. All I can say is I'm lucky I'm alive. I never want to go through anything like that again."
A series of tests was being conducted on a battery of coke ovens at the north end of the plant at the time of the blast. Gas seeping through the oven walls may have contributed to the blast, a Weirton Steel spokesman said. The plant had a battery of 83 coke ovens.
The plant was regarded as the world's most advanced in terms of production and pollution abatement equipment. Damage was expected to run into the millions of dollars and it may take months to ready the plant for production.

Lunar data suggest moon may be 'alive'

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The tentative findings of Apollo's last lunar explorers suggest the moon still has a spark of life, scientists reported Saturday.
The startling conclusion was based on the well-accepted idea that Eugene A. Cernan and Jack Schmitt found an orange-stained volcano less than 1 billion years old during their second excursion in Taurus-Littrow Valley.

Scientists emphasized they will have to wait until Apollo 17's treasure of moon samples is examined in earth laboratories to confirm the orange soil is volcanic and to determine its age.
And more study will be needed to prove that the moon still has some volcanic life. But scientists said at a news conference that Apollo evidence is pointing in that direction.
Dr. William Muehlberger, Apollo 17 project geologist, said the orange colored crater called Shorty seemed to be the absolutely last gasp of volcanism that we can identify right now in the valley, the astronauts explored earlier this week.
If Shorty is a gas vent which was active within the last billion years, or let's say as recently as 500 million years ago, that indicates that somewhere in the moon, the moon had to be hot enough to drive gases out of its interior," said Dr. Paul W. Gast, chief of lunar science at the Manned Spacecraft Center.
That fits rather well with the suggestion recently made by Dr. Gary Latham (Apollo

Mideast warfare urged

By United Press International
The Syrian government newspaper Al Thawra Revolution urged the Arabs Saturday to resume the war against Israel and said talk of a forthcoming political settlement was only aimed at dividing the Arabs.
The editorial in Al Thawra also said Palestinian guerrilla operations within and outside Israel, including the Black September Munich operation, have resulted in an increase of international sympathy for Arabs.
It said the experience gained during the past 25 years proved that "fighting and only fighting stops the enemy, Israel, and increases the solidarity of Arab society. The newspaper said the Arabs "should take the initiative to solve their own cause. The only way is fighting."
Referring to reports of foreign initiatives to settle the Arab-Israeli conflict peacefully, the newspaper said, "Nobody will serve a cause whose owners are not serving."
Those who wave a solution to the Arabs only aim at promoting inter-Arab divisions," the newspaper said.
Meanwhile, Israeli troops found an improvised explosive charge near a slaughterhouse in the town of Nabulus where a bomb was exploded Friday. Sources said the soldiers also found a leaflet written in Arabic and signed by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, an Arab guerrilla group.
Israeli troops patrolling the bleak stretches of the Jordanian border near Eilat Friday killed an Arab guerrilla the military command said had infiltrated from Palestine.

Long lasting poinsettias: How would you like a poinsettia that blooms the year around?

We've got them now. Many poinsettias received for Christmas in 1971 are still pretty and compete favorably with other house plants for show and color.

One reader writes: "My red poinsettia purchased in December, 1971, had seven beautiful blooms. Now it has 20 bright red bracts, several green ones turning red and plenty of healthy green leaves interspersed."

"I just water it when it's thirsty, give it a little plant food once a month or so, and keep it out of direct sunlight. During summer months it is on a screened shady porch."

All of which is another way of saying today's poinsettias are better than ever. Our plant breeders have produced a nearly foolproof poinsettia which doesn't drop its colorful bracts the day the plant is brought indoors.

The variety Paul Mikkelsen, a cross between a white and red poinsettia, was the first red one to have exceptional keeping quality in both leaves and bracts (the parts we call "blossoms").

Mother Nature helped by "sporting" or mutating to a plant having pink pigment surrounded by white, giving us what florists call a "marbled" poinsettia. They are great keepers.

In fact, just about all our present poinsettia varieties keep up their performance for many months.

The time has come when many of us will be growing poinsettias on a year-round basis, as is already done in some countries.

Are poinsettias dangerous to have around the home? Every year at this time we get letters asking us how poisonous the plants are. Let's put it this way: they are no more toxic than is the philodendron, the dieffenbachia, and other common house plants.

Cabbage will give some people rashes, some people get sick eating elderberries, and strawberries will cause a skin rash to many people.

Naturally, we wouldn't recommend eating poinsettia leaves to see what happens, but we should teach children to respect the plant, for any plant starting when the child is a year old.

Researchers at Ohio State fed large doses of ground-up poinsettia leaves, petal-like bracts and flowers to 160 rats. No mortality was noticed with doses as high as 1 pound per 2 1/2 to 160 rats. No mortality was noticed with doses as high as 1 pound per 2 1/2 pounds of body weight of the rats.

To put it simpler, this would be the equivalent of feeding 250 poinsettia leaves to a 22 pound child. The treated rats showed no poisoning symptoms, nor changes in general behavior.

Finally, the U. S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare has reported no serious illness or mortality from a number of cases where poinsettia plant parts were ingested.

Teach your child to respect this and other plants and you won't have any problems.

Grow dates from seed? Why are dates so hard to start from seed? After all these years, I think I've got the answer.

The date palm produces fruit which you can buy in stores, but before you get the dates, it has been pasteurized or sterilized with carbon bisulfide fumes to preserve the fruit, kill insects, eggs and other spores.

Even in commercial production, the dates are often artificially ripened by "sweating" in incubators — a process which develops sugars and makes astringent tannin insoluble.

In the process, the embryo of the mummy date has been killed, and that's why you have such a hard time getting the date seed to sprout.

During our years as horticulturists, we've found only a few people who have started dates from seed obtained from "supermarket" dates. If you're interested in growing dates from seed, you'll have to get the viable pits from your local health food stores which handle the unsulphured fruits.

Soak the seed in water for a week prior to planting in a pot of sand and peatmoss. Some gardeners nick the hard coat with a file (until you see white meat) then sow the seed in a pot of sand and peat.

You probably know that the date is the fruit of the date palm tree, commonly called "The tree of life," having been under cultivation in the Holy Land for at least 8,000 years.

Drying pine cones: Sometimes evergreen cones don't open as fast as you'd like, especially those you pick off the tree. The ones that fall on the ground usually open up naturally.

If you want to open the cones faster, place them in a big baking pan and set them in the oven for 15 minutes or longer, depending on how much moisture the cones have in them.

Don't let the temperature get over 150 degrees. If you want to sow the seed in the cones, better not treat them in the oven as it will kill the embryo. Use the cones in wreaths and other holiday decorations.

Gas your insects: If you've got mealybugs, white fly and other pests on your house plants, try gassing them with those Vapona strips used for killing flies.

Place the plants in a large box and hang a strip in with the plants for five days. After you've finished with the strip, wrap them up in aluminum foil until needed again.

Owners of small greenhouses tell us they use the strips for controlling insects on orchids, philodendrons and a variety of other potted plants. We don't like to use the strips in the house where children or food are present.

QUESTION BOX

Question of the week: T. G. of Twin Falls: "I have an avocado plant that is tall and spindly. What can I do to make it bushy? Also, what causes the lower leaves to turn brown and spots on edges?"

Avocadoes grow tall, but you can keep them dwarf, if you cut them back when the plant is 6 to 7 inches tall.

In other words, cut the plant back while it is still a seedling in a glass of water or a pot of soil. You must prune the plant back at an early age, and continue cutting it back as the plant grows.

Most gardeners wait until the plant has reached a height of 4 or 5 feet and then find it is a naked stem with a tuft of leaves on top.

If you don't cut them back immediately after they've sprouted to a height of 6 inches, they will shoot up and look like a fence post, with only a couple isolated leaves on top.

Brown spots on leaves and yellowed foliage can be due to overwatering or poor drainage. Never use cold water for watering the avocado. Always use tepid or even warmish water on this tropical plant.

By the way, do you have trouble telling which is the bottom or top end of the avocado pit? Some pits are pointed so you know the pointed end is not the rooting end. But not all avocado seeds are pointed.

Some are oval. Look for a dimple. The end which has it is the bottom or rooting end. If you still can't tell, place the pit on its side and root it in a pot of sand and peat mixture.

D. F. of Aberdeen: "We have two wisterias growing up the side of our house and we would like to detach the vines from the house. Will the vines live if we try to pull them down?"

Wisterias have a habit of twisting and entwining, and I think you'll have a hard time getting them down unless you cut them.

The vines should be kept away from the wooden siding of your home so it's worth taking a chance on (1) untwisting the trunks. I doubt if you can do this.

(2) Cut the stems down to where you can manage them. Then let the vines be supported on a wire or fence, away from the siding.

Sometimes a stubborn wisteria has been forced to flower when they get a brutal pruning job. At any rate, yours should grow up fast if you provide a new support for it.

Blaine learns of internship plans

HAILEY — Federal education programs and a high school executive internship project were detailed before the Blaine County High School study group.

Featured speakers in the Thursday night meeting were U.S. Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, and Dr. Sharlene P. Hirsch, director of the office of Human Resources Administration Educational Development, New York City, N.Y.

Unable to attend were representatives from the Castlerock schools in Washington who were invited to speak on community education as a part of the Blaine group's study of innovative ideas and education toward development of a new high school.

Lesson given

Mrs. Nelson presented the cultural.

Plans were made for the Christmas party Wednesday at the home of Evelyn Arnhart. It will be a potluck dinner with each member to bring a Chinese dish. There will be a gift exchange.

Mrs. Nelson, treasurer, reported results of the flea market.

King hamburger

NEW YORK (UPI) — The hamburger is still king among American lunch crowds, according to a national food and refreshment service firm.

Chefs of Servomation Corp. report the hamburger is the all-around favorite noontime meal at business, education and Red Barn drive-in restaurant locations. The firm, which operates in 40 states, estimates it serves 270,000 hamburgers a day—a whopping 16 million pounds of meat a year.

Hansen said the major education legislation adopted in the last session was the educational amendments of 1972. The authorization amendments changed the direction of education to become more career oriented as well as strengthen vocational technical education, he said.

Another education measure, a national institute of education which was recommended by Pres. Nixon, has "come to a very receptive Congress and has received strong support from the educational community," Hansen said.

Plan set by department

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Highways has set up a special task force to develop a new federally required environmental action plan which will describe the organization to be utilized and the processes to be followed in the development of federal-aid highway projects from initial planning through design.

The plan will include social and economical aspects of highway projects as well as environmental or ecological effects.

Action plan coordinator Jerry Dick said the task force plans to have a draft of the plan ready for Gov. Cecil D. Andrus's review no later than March 1973.

The plan must be submitted to the governor for review and approval as a means of obtaining a high degree of interagency and intergovernmental coordination.

The plan must then be submitted to the Federal Highway Administration not later than June, 1973, for further approval.

Life of Russian peasants improved in 1950s

Editor's Note: The death of Stalin in 1953, followed by the arrest and execution of his grim security chief, Lavrenti Beria, brought a new time to the Soviet Union—the time of Nikita S. Khrushchev. In this seventh chapter of a series on his four decades as a Moscow correspondent, Henry Shapiro tells that story.

By HENRY SHAPIRO
MOSCOW (UPI)—With Josef Stalin dead and the overly ambitious Lavrenti Beria executed, 1954 ushered in for the Soviet Union what was in effect another Russian revolution.

Gradually the concentration camps were opened to disgorge hundreds of thousands of political prisoners, some of whom had languished since the early 1930s.

During the latter 1950's, the lot of the peasantry was substantially improved by forgiving old debts, lowering the quotas for compulsory grain deliveries, increasing the fixed prices paid the farmers and pumping more consumer goods into the villages.

Material incentives for workers and farmers were raised.

The dread midnight knock at the door was done away with and arrests for "dangerous crimes against the state" were discontinued.

In foreign affairs an effort was made to normalize relations with the United States and other capitalist powers as well as Yugoslavia and all of Russia's neighbors.

Ilya Ehrenburg's novel "The Thaw" (which became the description of a new era), the first of a series of literary works, for the first time frankly described the evils of the Stalin era.

The literary magazine, Novy Mir (New World), under the brilliant editorship of liberal poet Alexander Tvardovsky, discovered a constellation of poets and prose writers who brought on a remarkable revival culminating with the publication of Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn's "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich." The latter was the first realistic description of a Stalin era concentration camp.

Voices of cultural dissent were apparently too loud, however, and grew too fast for First Secretary Nikita S. Khrushchev who, obviously alarmed by the development, began cracking down with speeches against "mavericks" in late 1962 and early 1963.

The return to cultural orthodoxy which was to be intensified under Khrushchev's successors was dramatized by the late Premier's quip against abstract painters:

"A donkey with his tail in a pile of paint could do better than these abstractionists," Khrushchev pronounced, and ended all public display of modern art.

I missed two years of the "Soviet thaw." I took my wife and daughter to America where I spent two years as a Nieman Fellow at Harvard, doing some writing and public lecturing.

When the Kremlin agreed to participate in the first post-war Summit Conference with President Eisenhower and the British and French prime ministers in July, 1955, United Press sent me to Geneva to help cover that historic event.

From my transatlantic viewpoint, I had watched what appeared to be the zigzags of Soviet foreign policy reflecting strong disagreements between V.M. Molotov and Khrushchev. At the Berlin conference of foreign ministers which I had attended in February, 1954, it was clear the German question—the problem of problems—could not be immediately solved. The Molotov hard-line which paralleled the Western policy of "containment" and "roll-back" of communism made agreement impossible.

Khrushchev at the time was arguing for a more flexible Soviet position only to be told off by Molotov at a Central Committee meeting. "Waging foreign policy is not so simple as raising corn," Nikita Sergeyevich," Molotov told him.

There was more hope at Geneva than at Berlin. First direct contact between the West and post-Stalin leadership had been made and a dialogue was started which not only prevented a new world war but eventually led to East-West détente.

On a more human basis what struck me singularly was the free and easy movements of the Soviet delegation. The head was then Premier Bulganin and other members were Molotov and Marshal Georgi Zhukov.

The Russians walked and drove about Geneva in open cars shopping and enjoying themselves without the army of bodyguards I had been accustomed to seeing in Moscow for years. By contrast Eisenhower arrived in a closed car with his usual retinue of Secret Service men.

When European newsmen began making the inevitable, invidious comparisons between the informality of the Soviet leaders and Eisenhower's remoteness and his bodyguards, the U.S. President also began driving about in an open car. After the first Summit session I ran into Charles E.

Leaving my family behind in Cambridge, Mass., I arrived at Moscow's Leningradsky station in the fall of 1955 where I was handed an invitation from the Canadian Embassy to a reception for Foreign Minister Lester Pearson.

I could not believe my eyes when I got there and saw about half of the presidium—Molotov, Anastas Mikoyan, Georgi Malenkov, Lazar Kaganovich and others—chatting, drinking and joking with foreign diplomats.

It was a scene that could have occurred only in the early Lenin era. In the long Stalin epoch Soviet leaders had become impersonal, faceless and invisible.

Khrushchev had already stamped his personality on the Soviet leadership and introduced a life-style that was to last only as long as he remained in office.

His first great coup came at the 20th Party Congress in February, 1956, when he launched his famous de-Stalinization campaign, the full consequences of which are not yet in sight.

The published speeches indicated a universally agreed policy to rectify the notorious injustices of the Stalin era, to rehabilitate the victims, introduce legality and eliminate abuses of unfettered power. Molotov, Malenkov and Kaganovich denounced "the personality cult" of Stalin and the "one-man tyranny" as much as did Khrushchev and Mikoyan.

But there were differences of degree and method. This became clear a few days later when Moscow started buzzing with reports of a secret speech by Khrushchev in which he branded Stalin no less than a common criminal, an incompetent war leader and the source of all evil since his assumption of absolute power in 1934.

Excerpts of the speech were read to thousands of gatherings of party members and university students. Its highlights became known to me at almost the same time. Censorship killed all references to the speech although there was plenty of material in the daily newspapers about crimes connected with the personality cult.

The full text of the secret speech was never published here. It was released by the U.S. State Department June 4 of that year. Western Communist parties suffered the embarrassment of using the American text.

The speech was a bombshell. While it encouraged many to believe the evils of the past had been uprooted and better days were in sight, a whole generation of citizens reared in the Stalin legend was shocked and traumatized.

Khrushchev himself blew hot and cold on the subject—one of his many inconsistencies. Sometimes realizing he may have gone too far he would say, "We all are Stalinites." This is what he did in 1957 in a speech to students of Moscow University where he joined the visiting Mao Tse-tung in praising Stalin.

Earlier that year he managed to oust Molotov, Kaganovich, Malenkov and others for alleged "anti-party factionalism." This was when the majority of the Presidium, fed up with Khrushchev's antics and led by Molotov, tried to deprive him of the party leadership.

It was the first time the Presidium was defied and defeated in an attempt to purge its ranks. Arguing that he had been elected to the job by the Central Committee and not by the Presidium, Khrushchev hastily called a plenary meeting at which the Presidium was over-ruled. The former peasant and coal miner again outwitted such battle-scarred and sophisticated statesmen as Molotov whom John Foster Dulles called the ablest foreign minister of our age and came out on top—the unchallenged (as yet) ruler.

Marshal Zhukov, at the Central Committee, had defended Khrushchev "on behalf of the armed forces," a persuasive position perhaps in winning over the members to support the First Secretary. But although the act elevated Zhukov to the Presidium, the first time a professional soldier had reached such heights, it actually amounted to his political suicide.

The Army had never been permitted to exercise judgments independent of the party or to speak as a separate instrument of government. From Lenin to Leonid I. Brezhnev the party has been aware of the possible dangers of a "man on horseback" and saw to it that military policy was made by it and not the military leaders.

The divergences between Khrushchev and his associates revived talk abroad of an imminent takeover by the army especially after Zhukov, war hero number one, became a member of the Presidium.

During a short trip to Cambridge in 1956 I got myself involved in a discussion with two eminent Harvard Kremlinologists who offered to bet me $100 that within a year Zhukov would seize power and establish a military dictatorship. My reply then: "Khrushchev can get rid of Zhukov in five minutes." Which is exactly what he did less than a year later.

Upon returning from a trip to Yugoslavia and Albania in late 1957, Zhukov was greeted at the airport with a report that he had been discharged as defense minister. The act was followed by a violent press campaign against Zhukov accusing him of trying to place the army above the Party. Khrushchev successfully emulated Stalin who, too, after the war, had downgraded Zhukov and relegated him to a relatively minor provincial command. He was brought back to Moscow only after Stalin's death.

A few weeks after Zhukov's ouster Khrushchev gave me his first exclusive interview to a resident correspondent. I had had many talks with Khrushchev. I had developed a good rapport with him and could ply him with questions at diplomatic and Kremlin receptions which in the early years he attended frequently.

Often he would desert a group of ambassadors encircling him and come over to me to exchange quips and answer questions. Perhaps one of the reasons was that I was one of the few western correspondents who spoke Russian although I did not know as many anecdotes as my interlocutor.

Since these conversations were public I shared the information with my colleagues, but I also had several private opportunities to talk with the premier and his aides here and abroad. However, it took me two full years before I persuaded him to give me an exclusive interview.

7th of a series

Bohlen whom I had not see for two years, "Bulganin may be the leader of the Soviet delegation," the astute U.S. ambassador to Moscow said, "but there is no mistaking Khrushchev. He is the boss."

I was to get confirmation of this the following year in London and later in Finland and elsewhere when I saw the ebullient Khrushchev upstage Bulganin either by interrupting him or insisting on a speech of his own in which he could say "I do not agree with my friend Bulganin."

The friendship lasted until 1957 when Khrushchev made himself prime minister—one of the first of his mis-steps which led to his downfall in 1964.

At Geneva, Bohlen filled me in on changes in the Soviet Union since Stalin's death and new opportunities for coverage which had attracted more western correspondents to Moscow than any time since the war. I was easily persuaded by the United Press to return to my Moscow post.

Crewmen saved from freighter

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — The U.S. Coast Guard Friday reported the rescue of 21 crewmen who abandoned the freighter Lincoln Express after it broke in half and sank off the Puerto Rican coast Thursday. A search continued for one crewman still missing.

Five of the crewmen were rescued from a life boat shortly after the 383-foot vessel sank. The 16 others, wearing life jackets, were picked up from the water during the night.

A Coast Guard spokesman said one crewman still was missing and an extensive search was underway. The spokesman said one of the men rescued was the ship's master who told the Coast Guard there had been 22 men aboard.

The spokesman said the rescued men were still aboard the Coast Guard cutter Sage Brush, which was taking part in the search operations.

He said arrangements would be made to transfer the men to another vessel and bring them to port if it did not hinder the search for the 22nd man.

US approves treatment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Friday approved the first federal licensing of doctors and clinics treating heroin addicts with the synthetic narcotic methadone, but applied "unique controls" to the substitute drug's distribution.

Only patients who have been addicted to heroin for at least two years and, in most cases, persons 18 and older, will be admitted to the 585 treatment programs existing now as "investigational" research facilities, the Food and Drug Administration announced in the Federal Register.

Methadone will be available only to hospital pharmacies, approved maintenance programs for heroin addicts and certain drug stores in rural areas. However, methadone still will be available for such other medical purposes as severe post-operative pain.

"It is not in the public interest either to withhold the drug from the market until it has been proved 'safe' and effective under all conditions of use, or to grant full approval for unrestricted distribution, prescription, dispensing or administration of methadone," FDA Commissioner Dr. Charles C. Edwards said. FDA has been approving use of methadone only as an "investigational new drug."

Because President Nixon considers drug abuse the nation's "No. 1 domestic issue," the White House is planning to announce formally the new methadone controls at a news conference Monday.

Election victor

UNITED Mine Workers reform candidate Arnold Miller claims victory over mine president Tony Boyle in election. He says he will probably cancel Boyle's $50,000 pension and cut all UMW officer and staff salaries by 20 per cent. (UPI) Homeowners are particularly concerned about burglaries these days. Some folks tell me they're reluctant to leave their homes unoccupied during a long trip.

How can you best protect your property while you're away? Operation Identification might be your answer.

Homeowners all over the country are joining this program to discourage burglars; they mark their valuables with a permanent identification number that can be easily traced if stolen.

Operation Identification is a public service program sponsored by the National Association of Insurance Agents (NAIA).

Here's how it works: You mark each item — television, typewriter, auto, hi-fi — with an electric pencil available at no cost through local offices of Independent Insurance Agent members of NAIA.

The tool leaves a permanent indentation that can't readily be filed off. You make a complete list of what you've marked.

The marking system may vary with each community. In some areas, I hear, driver's license numbers are used as identification.

NAIA's Consumer Insurance Information Bureau recommends area-coded telephone numbers; they're unique, relatively permanent, and make it easier to reach you.

Participants display window stickers as warning — that's usually enough to thwart a thief.

The program has had an impressive record since its start in Monterey Park, Calif., in 1963. The chief of police there initiated it in an effort to halt rising burglaries. It's since been adopted in about 300 communities in forty states, sponsored by local organizations.

The program is also in Guam, San Juan, Puerto Rico; Washington, D.C., and Canada. NAIA now supports Operation Identification nationwide — its 150,000 members will soon be launching it in their own communities.

How effective is it? Example: In Monterey Park, where it all began, about half the town's homes (5,000) joined Operation Identification.

Since 1963, only 25 participants have reported burglaries — compared to 2,100 nonparticipants whose homes were burglarized.

A crackdown on burglaries in New Orleans, La., resulted in a 33 per cent decline in this crime. Of 2,500 Operation Identification homes and businesses, only one was burglarized in 1971 — and the stolen property promptly recovered, thanks to the marking.

Compare this against a total of 10,700 burglaries in New Orleans that year. A New Orleans police sergeant revealed they have "reliable information from underworld sources that burglars are watching out intently for the stickers."

The police chief of a Chicago suburb called the program "one of the best things ever to happen to police officers — it makes our job easier."

NAIA says a key to the program's success is education — not just of homeowners, but of potential thieves. In one Michigan community, for example, Operation Identification posters are displayed in jails.

The traditional opening day for American amusement parks is Memorial Day.

Give toys

TOO BIG FOR PLAYING with toys, members of Phi Theta Kappa, College of Southern Idaho, have been doing just that for the past month. They have repaired and cleaned about 65 stuffed toys for needy children on Christmas. Here Ann Sharp, member, and Carolyn Baun, president, from left, present some of the toys to Clare Harkins, fire department, for delivery.

Baskets planned for 150 in TF community project

By BONNIE JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — About 140 to 150 families in the Twin Falls area will be receiving Christmas baskets and toys through the community Christmas program.

Sally Molyneux, who coordinates the program through the Twin Falls YWCA, said there is still a major need for warm mittens and socks for grade school age children.

The extremely cold temperatures this month have been hard on many of the small children, she said, as many have no mittens and only thin socks.

She suggested persons doing their shopping pick up a few extra pair of each to give to the cause.

Money and other donations are still being accepted at the YW-YWCA office and will be used to purchase meat for the food baskets or other special needs of certain families. Another critical need this year is used and outgrown overshoes, again for the grade schoolers, she said. These will be delivered with the holiday food baskets and toys.

Mrs. Molyneux said there are a number of families still available for organizations or individuals to provide for and urged those planning to assist to submit their offerings as soon as possible.

Some families, she said, need everything. Organizations are taking some of these and providing things from underwear and other warm and proper clothes to toys and food.

Working with the program in the past are the Twin Falls Elks Lodge, which takes about 75 per cent of the total families for food baskets, and the Salvation Army which joins the Elks in taking whatever is left. The Twin Falls Fire Department as been repairing and remodeling toys for the families. Each name which is turned in at the YWCA office is cleared for duplication of assistance and the names and ages of each child noted for suitable gifts and clothing.

For the past several months several groups of Camp Fire Girls and Girl Scouts have been cleaning, mending, repairing and dressing dolls, some nearly as large as a small Girl Scout.

These will be given away during the Christmas project to little girls on the needy family list.

More than 65 stuffed toys were lovingly cleaned and repaired by members of the Phi Theta Kappa sorority at the College of Southern Idaho. These too are ready for their new homes on Christmas day.

Firemen will collect the offerings and deliver them in their privately owned pickup trucks Christmas eve.

TF County plan review slated

planned unit developments for mobile home developments must be at least 10 acres in size, five acres other residential use, and ten acres for commercial, industrial and residential use with subordinate commercial use.

no commercial use shall be allowed in a residential development of less than 50 units.

a preliminary plan must be filed with county officials for a planned unit development, reviewed by the planning administrator, the full zoning commission, at a public hearing, and finally, by the county commissioners.

if the preliminary plan is approved, a developer would have 18 months to file a final plan, which must then go before the planning commission and county commission again, but without a mandatory public hearing.

The 31-page proposed subdivision ordinance would establish standards for several land developments, including: the subdivision of land into two or more tracts for any non-agricultural purpose;

the establishment of condominiums or planned unit developments;

the dedication of a street or alley through or along a tract of land;

The proposals set down in the study proscribe the method for securing subdivision permission from county authorities.

According to the basic proposed zoning ordinance, subdivisions would be allowed on four different types of residential zones, including residential agricultural, residential, residential high and residential trailer zone. The types of zones differ in large part in the permitted density of dwelling units.

Travelers hurt in Cassia accident

BURLEY — Two out-of-state travelers were injured Saturday morning when their car hit an icy spot and skidded off 1-50 14 miles southeast of Burley.

Reported in satisfactory condition at Cassia County Memorial Hospital were Rita

Elsie Fraser, 49, Seattle, Wash., Driver of the vehicle, and Don Boyer, 45, Cheyenne, Wyo., a passenger.

According to Idaho State police, the Fraser woman's car hit a patch of ice on the interstate expressway and skidded off the pavement, rolling over two times before it came to rest on its wheels.

No information was available on the exact nature of the injuries. Police reported that Ms. Fraser complained of chest pains and Boyer received bruises and abrasions. First aid was administered at the scene by employees of Western Ambulance Service.

Damage to the automobile was estimated at $1,200.

Ten hospitals join lawsuit

By DAVID HORSMAN

Times-News Writer

RUPERT — Ten Idaho hospitals have joined thus far in plans to file a lawsuit against the Idaho Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services.

The number may rise as high as a dozen by the time all plaintiffs are listed and the complaint is filed in federal court in Boise this week, according to a reliable source.

The planned litigation surfaced here last week when the Minidoka County commissioners contracted Goodman, Duff and Chisholm, a Rupert law firm, to represent Minidoka Memorial Hospital in the suit. The team of attorneys has been retained by all the hospitals. Larry Duff, a member of the law firm, has declined to name the hospitals until the suit is filed, but did indicate that they served a wide area of southern and northern Idaho.

The suit will charge the SRS with failure to pay a "reasonable" amount of the actual costs involved in caring for patients in the extended care facilities of the hospitals, according to Duff.

He said the hospitals are presently paid $11.50 per day for the care of each patient referred to them by the SRS, although the actual cost of the service ran as high as $26 per day in one hospital.

The cost averages $15 per day at Minidoka Memorial, he added.

The attorneys said $15 to $16 per day is considered a "reasonable" allowance by most of the plaintiffs.

The charges stem from a federal statute included in the Public Health and Welfare Act (part of the Medicaid Bill) which states that a delegated welfare agency shall pay a "reasonable" amount for the care of patients in skilled nursing homes who are financially unable to pay the costs.

Duff said one hospital has received $193,000 less than the actual cost of providing for SRS patients in its extended care unit during the past four and one-half years.

The additional cost is usually passed on to the local taxpayer (in the case of publicly owned hospitals), the church or hospital owner (in the case of private hospitals), or the non-SRS patients (in the form of higher daily rates), according to Duff.

Annual costs were more than $530,000 above SRS payments to the ten hospitals last year, he said.

Duff said the hospitals also will request full SRS payment of medication costs. The state agency presently provides a $20 per month allowance for prescription drugs.

Vacations vary for valley students

TWIN FALLS — Schools in Magic Valley will close next week anywhere from Wednesday to Friday for a 10-day Christmas vacation.

In Twin Falls schools will be in session until Thursday at 8 p.m. and will remain closed until 9 a.m. Jan. 2, giving the students a full ten days of mid-winter vacation.

Most other schools close on Friday, but longest vacations are those in Lincoln County and Blaine County where classes close on Wednesday.

Shoshone schools recess for the vacation at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday but teachers begin their holiday Friday. All faculty members will meet Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. and all day Thursday to review the needs assessment study of the district.

Blaine County schools close one hour early on Wednesday and resume at the regular time Jan. 2.

Elsewhere in Twin Falls

County, schools and their closing dates and reopening dates include Buhl, 3:30 p.m. Friday and resuming Wednesday Jan. 3; Hagerman, 1:15 p.m. Friday, resuming Jan. 2; Hansen, 2:40 p.m. Friday, resuming Jan. 2; Kimberly, 2:30 p.m. Friday, resuming Jan. 2; Castleford, Friday at regular time resuming Jan. 2, and Murtaugh, noon on Thursday, resuming Jan. 2.

Jerome schools close Thursday at 1 p.m. and reopen on the Jan. 2 while Valley schools in the Hazelton and Eden area close at noon Thursday and resume on Jan. 2.

In Gooding County, all schools close at 3:15 p.m. Friday and resume Jan. 2.

Cassia County will close schools Friday at 2 p.m. and will remain closed through Jan. 2, resuming classes the morning of Jan. 3. Minidoka County schools close at the regular time Friday afternoon and resume classes the morning of Jan. 2.

Andrus to oppose any tax increase

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told a panel of newsmen Friday he will oppose any state tax increase next year but he did not rule out tax reform and 100 per cent state funding for schools. In a "viewpoint" program videotaped for release Saturday evening on KTVB television, Boise, and the Television Network of Idaho, Andrus said he also opposes in-state tuition for college and university students.

He also said:

Some of the non-recurring federal revenue sharing monies apportioned to Idaho should be used to complete the penitentiary south of Boise's Gowen Field.

Eventually it may be wise to merge the Water Resource Board and the Department of Water Administrations.

A "no fault" automobile insurance bill will be presented to the legislature in 1973 by his administration.

Democrats who "sat back on their laurels and didn't do anything learned a lesson" from the state convention last summer at Sun Valley.

Whether he will seek reelection in 1974 is a "decision that is down that road" but he has talked about the next election with Sen. Frank Church whose term of office also is up that year.

The Democratic Party in Idaho must move toward bringing within its ranks those persons who are not political activists.

Andrus told the panel he does not know whether Dr. Robert R. Lee's decision to resign from the Water Resource Board was prompted, at least in part, by an internal performance audit of the agency.

He dodged a question, however, about whether he was "pleased" with Lee's decision, saying only that a person with Lee's background and expertise always leaves a "void" when he departs from state government. The governor's reiteration of his opposition to a tax increase was explicit. He said he does not foresee any such increase and he specifically mentioned the sales tax and the income tax.

He did say there is a need for tax reform and, in that vein, indicated he might approve some tax shifts to make the tax laws of the state apply more equitably.

Andrus also said he favored moving toward 100 per cent state funding of the public schools.

He also stood up for a return to biennial budgeting for the state government, saying he felt this "would shorten up the legislative sessions."

And he said biennial budgeting would ease the burden on state agencies which how have personnel working on budget matters nearly year-round.

Emergency requests for spending authority or a budget review still could be "provided in the off year" but in a state of 750,000 people, he said, annual budgeting is a luxury the public "cannot afford."

TF man facing jury trial

TOPPER NAMED

GLENNS FERRY — Mrs. Wesley Goodman was named topper of the month when KOPS of TOPS Club No. 179 met Thursday at Greer Hall.

Mrs. Goodman's picture was taken wearing the traditional queen's robe and silver crown.

Mrs. Ralph Larson, weight recorder, reported the group showed a loss of seven pounds for the two-week period. TOPS members showed a net gain of 13 and 1/2 pounds.

A salad bar and gift exchange has been tentatively set for Dec. 20 at Greer hall, depending on the weather.

TWIN FALLS — Merdell Genn, 24, Twin Falls, who entered pleas of innocent to three charges in Fifth District Court Friday, will face a jury trial on the charges in 1973.

Genn entered the pleas on a charge of driving while intoxicated, repeated offense, a felony, resisting arrest, a misdemeanor, and malicious injury to property, also a misdemeanor.

The two misdemeanor charges arise from an incident in which a law enforcement officer stopped Genn on a suspicion of driving while intoxicated, court records show.

Blood drawing set Tuesday at Buhl

BUHL — A quota of 100 pints of blood has been set for the Red Cross Buhl semi-annual visit Tuesday, according to Ralph Assendrup, chairman. The drawing will take place at the Moose Hall between the hours of 2 p.m. and 6 p.m.

Assendrup said west end residents receiving blood in area hospitals during the past six months have used more than the 100 pint quota, making it vital for donors to respond and surpass the quota.

Anyone needing transportation may call Assendrup at 543-6464.

Bloodmobile equipment will be set up by Buhl High School youths. The Fairview Grange will be in charge of the canteen.

Members of Beta Sigma Phi, Omega chapter, mailed reminder cards and will serve as typists during the drawing. Jay-C-Ettes will operate the telephone reminder system.

Mrs. George Harvey, blood program vice chairman, will schedule the medical and nursing staff.

Bliss home burns

BLISS — A fire about 6 p.m. Thursday destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Boyer, five miles southwest of Bliss. Mrs. Boyer and two of the couple's five children were at home when the fire started. The family has no telephone and the car had a flat tire, Mrs. Boyer had to walk three miles to the nearest neighbor to report the fire.

Residents of the Bliss area sponsored a benefit dance Saturday night for the family. Anyone having clothing or household items may leave them at Lenker's store in Bliss or at Steinmates, Hagerman.

Merchants aid tour

TWIN FALLS — More than 50 retail merchants will join in co-sponsoring the annual Times-News "Magic of Hawaii" tour. Wiley Dodds, Times-News advertising director, said Saturday merchants would give away two round-trip tour tickets in connection with the "Million Dollar Days" city-wide sales event Jan. 30-31.

The jet tour to Hawaii leaves Twin Falls Feb. 12 and value of the two tickets has been set at $1,150. In addition the owner or manager of the store in which the winning tour coupons are deposited will also receive two free tickets, Dodds said.

Betty Kelker, tour consultant for Magic Carpet Travels, and her husband, O.A. (Gus) Kelker, editor of the Times-News, are tour hosts. Kelker said in the event the ticket winners have purchased tour space then the amount of that purchase will be refunded to them.

Full details of participation by the merchants will be announced in the Times-News, Dec. 31, Dodds said.

Marriage said on rocks for Jewish-Russian pair

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The marriage of the Cincinnati Jewish girl who won a long battle earlier this year for her husband's release from the Soviet Union is apparently on the rocks, Jewish agency officials said today.

"It seems they are not living together," one official said of Mr. and Mrs. Gaviel Shapiro. Shapiro arrived Nov. 3 following his departure from Moscow.

"We understand they are going to be divorced," another official said. No reason was given for the apparent separation.

Neither Shapiro, 28, nor his wife, the former Judith Silver, 26, could be reached for comment. The Jewish Agency officials who declined to be identified, said they could find neither of the Shapiros but that both were in Israel.

The agency is in charge of immigration and initial settlement of newcomers.

The couple was married in a private ceremony in Moscow June 8. Four days later, the Soviets refused to extend her visa and she was forced to leave without her husband. She began an extensive public campaign for his release.

Starting in Moscow and carrying the drive to Washington and other parts of the United States, she led rallies and made speeches demanding that he be allowed to be reunited with her in Israel.

It was Nov. 1 when he left Moscow for Vienna, where his wife was waiting. Two days later, after arguing about whether to come to Israel or go to the United States, they arrived in Tel Aviv.

Mrs. Shapiro said she had wanted to go to the United States because she thought they could campaign for the release of more Soviet Jews more effectively prior to the November presidential election. He wanted to come to Israel.

"I consider Israel my motherland," he said at Lod International Airport. "This is like a miracle. I don't believe

Bound ankles OK'd as punishment

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — A St. Louis County Circuit Court jury has upheld a fifth-grade teacher's right to bind together the ankles of two boys who misbehaved in class.

Miss Donna Cagle, 26, a fifth-grade teacher at Frostfield School in suburban Berkeley, testified at the two-day trial that she tied the two boys' ankles with rubber cut from a tire tube for more than four hours to teach them to get along together.

Robert H. Terhune Jr., one of the boys, had filed suit contending the punishment was unreasonable, excessive and malicious.

Robert fought with another boy who had called him a turtle for his slowness in a relay race on field day in May, 1971, at the school. He was 10 years old.

He told the jury that the binding hurt and embarrassed him.

Samuel H. Liberman, the boy's attorney, likened the shackling to putting persons in stocks to expose them to public ridicule. He asked the jury to award $3,000 in damages.

Donald L. James, Miss Cagle's attorney, argued that even $1 in damages would undermine teachers' ability to discipline their pupils.

The jury of seven women and four men took only 15 minutes Friday to return the verdict to Judge John R. Rickhoff.

America's first fog warning device was included in construction in 1808 of West Quoddy Light on the coast of Maine.

$12 million in heroin stolen from police

NEW YORK (UPI)—A man using a fake police badge and a fictitious name stole $12 million worth of the heroin seized in the famous "French Connection" case from police headquarters.

Admitting he doesn't know when or where or exactly how it happened, Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy said Thursday he is determined to find out who took the 57 pounds of heroin.

Everybody involved in this case, whether still in the police department or out of the department or persons who were never in the police department will be questioned, he said.

Among them will be former detective Eddie Egan, now retired from the department and working in California as a movie consultant, Murphy said.

Robin Moore wrote the best-selling novel "The French Connection" based on Egan's work in the case. In the movie version, actor Gene Hackman won an Academy Award for his portrayal of Egan as the tough-talking cop "Popeye" Doyle and the movie won the Oscar as the best picture of the year.

Egan himself played a minor role in the movie. He retired earlier this year amid charges he disregarded standard police procedures and failed to turn in some of the evidence, including narcotics—he gathered in drug cases. No allegation has ever been made, however, that Egan engaged in any illegal narcotics dealings, and Egan has said he was simply avoiding red tape which reduced his effectiveness as a policeman.

The stolen heroin was part of a 73-pound shipment seized in a police raid Feb. 25, 1962. It was smuggled into the United States from France packed in secret panels of an automobile.

It was half of all the heroin confiscated by the department in 1962 and had been held in a vault in the property clerk's office at police headquarters. The theft was discovered during an audit last month.

Murphy said the theft occurred sometime before 1970 when a property clerk gave the heroin to someone claiming to be a detective. The man said he was picking it up for the district attorney's office in connection with a prosecution.

Part of the heroin later was replaced with a white powder. The signature of the man turned out to be fictitious, and the badge number he gave has never been issued to "any member in the service," Murphy said.

The seized heroin was never burned, as is the usual procedure, because some of the cases resulting from the seizure were still open, he said.

During the last 10 years, the heroin had been moved from one office to another, including a separate hearing in Washington, nine times.

The lack of evidence could be a factor in further prosecution—this could hurt," Murphy said. Three cases stemming from the seizure still are open.

6,000 letter writers believe there's Santa

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Dear Santa, I would like for you to write and show me that you are really Santa. Because I'm not for sure you are real. I'm age 11 and getting too old for things like that."

Here are some things I would like for Christmas:

P.S. Hope we may become very good friends.

Your friend, Stacey.

Well Stacey, there is a Santa Claus. If there weren't, then about 6,000 letter writers are wrong.

Each year around this time the New York Post Office receives thousands of letters from kids throughout the city and many others from across the country and from foreign countries on three continents.

Some are funny, some touching, others sad.

"Dear Santa, I am William and 6 years old. I have 2 brothers Randy and John. My baby brother died in the month of May he was Kenneth 11 months old. I miss him. Will you send flowers for his grave. Sepd Randy, John and me what you can. I love you. Please don't forget us."

"When we get one like that, we generally hold it aside," James H. Jarvis, director of Postal Administrative Services explained.

Jarvis said he gets about 2,500 requests for letters from needy children. Last week, for example, a New Jersey high school teacher, picked up 92 letters for his sophomore class.

Postal officials said that many women's clubs, schools, and individuals write for letters or go to the post office to pick them up.

One family from Dumont, New Jersey wrote: "We aren't wealthy by any means but we do have more than the families of a lot of these kids writing to Santa Claus."

Unfortunately, publicity has seeped down to those kids who should be in bed. Twelve year old Lynne from Mandan, North Dakota wrote:

"About a week and a half ago

I watched the Johnny Carson show. I heard that if we wrote to Santa, they would send us some gifts."

The "longest" letter to Santa came from Marty in Putnam Valley, N.Y. Written on the back of candy-striped brown wrapping paper, the letter measured about two and a half feet long and lists 53 requests ranging from polo ponies to hockey sticks.

Then there's the old fashioned, friendly approach:

"Dear Santa Clause,

"How are You?"

"How are your feigndeers?"

"How are your elves?"

"Happy New Year and Merry Christmas."

"I would like to know if you could give me something for Christmas. If so, consider something on my list good-bye for now. Nicolette."

Then every once in a while, there's the kid who uses the direct honest approach:

"Dear Santa. Do you give toys to bad boys and girls? If you do, I want a drum like my cousin has..."

The Post Office also gets about $4,500 in donations to help needy children with Christmas.

gifts. Jarvis said that the money is used to help about 150 needy families.

"When we service the request we supply everything—toys, a turkey dinner for the family—even clothing, if we have enough money for it."

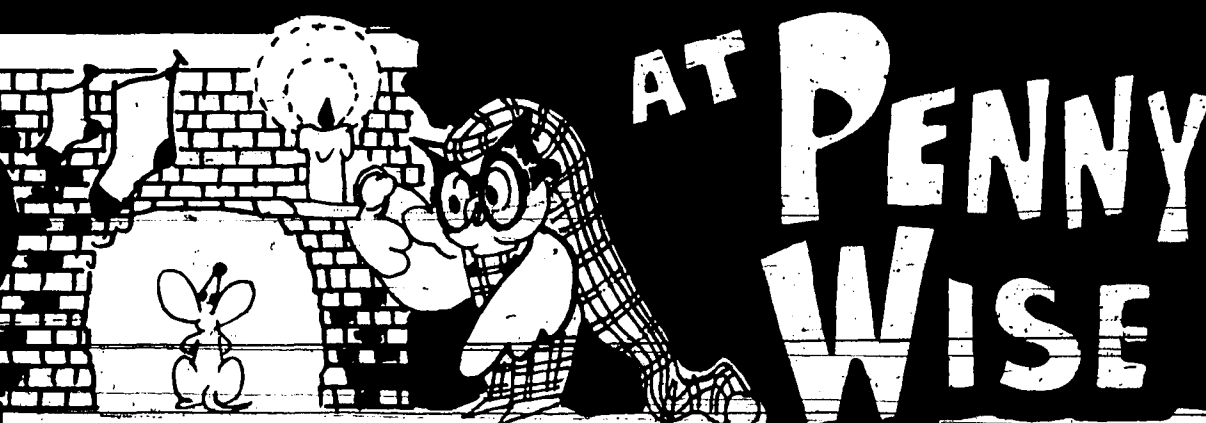

The 2,000 coral islands forming the Maldives off the top of the Indian peninsula encompass only 115 square miles.

Servicemen

KIMBERLY — Ivan G. and Lynn B. Hildreth, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Hildreth, Route 1, Kimberly, have enlisted in the U.S. Army.

The two will serve a three year period and both enlisted in electronic maintenance.

Water in eyes

BROOKFIELD Zoo polar bear in Chicago clamps its eyes shut and shakes its head while taking a cold dip in a pool. (UPI)

Washington speculates on cabinet turnover

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — December has brought a big turnover in top echelon government officials as President Nixon continues to whip his administration into shape for his second term.

This naturally has inspired a good deal of speculation as to which department heads are departing of their own volition and which are being shoved.

Conjecture must be resorted to owing to the fact that both types "sign" when they leave office. Thus the conditions under which they make their exit are not visible to the naked eye.

The President himself may try to camouflage an ouster to make it appear voluntary. For to admit he is firing an appointee is to admit he made a mistake in hiring him in the first place.

And of thing all Presidents have in common is a distinct lack of enthusiasm for confessing fallibility.

Usually, however, there are a few clues that may reveal the true nature of a leave-taking. Often they can be found in the verbal cosmetics, or euphemisms, used to prettify a compulsory resignation.

If, for example, it is

announced that a bureaucrat is resigning because of "a long-standing desire to return to private life," that is fairly good evidence that he was pushed.

This is particularly true if the outgoing bureaucrat had not been in private life since he was 9 years old. Or if he only left private life last month.

The tipoff here is vagueness. Euphemisms are necessarily amorphous. If a bureaucrat really desires to return to private life, it is usually for a specific reason.

The next test is what the bureaucrat says of his future plans. If he says he is "keeping all of my options open," that means he hasn't been able to line up another job.

Which is another good sign that he is resigning under duress. Bureaucrats rarely leap unless they know where they are going to land.

Occasionally, the clues may be even more obvious.

If, for example, an outgoing bureaucrat handcuffs himself to his swivel chair and has to be carried from the office by a squad of furniture-movers, you can bet his resignation was tendered reluctantly.

Those who barricade themselves behind a rampart of filing cabinets and try to hold off their replacements with fusillades of flying "in" baskets may also be classified as resignation drafters.

US tax out for schools

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A presidential advisory commission has recommended against creation of a national sales tax to relieve local property owners of the cost of public schools.

The Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations—made up of representatives of federal, state and local governments—said Thursday that such a tax is not needed.

Recent court opinions have held that use of local property taxes as the basic support for public schools has led to inequities in public education between rich and poor school districts.

Last winter President Nixon asked the commission to study ways to provide relief to property taxpayers.

Miami caps undefeated NFL season

MIAMI (UPI) — With veteran quarterback Earl Morrall providing the key gains, the Miami Dolphins whipped the Baltimore Colts 16-0 Saturday to write new running records into the pro football history books and achieve the first perfect regular season in 30 years.

The efficient Dolphins' "no-name" defense played a sad swan song for the legendary Johnny Unitas, who got into the game for four plays at the end of the first half. At the same time, the Dolphins welcomed back their own star quarterback, Bob Griese, who played in the final period, his first appearance since suffering a leg injury early in the fifth game of the season.

Unitas, who told interviewers Friday he would play no more for the Colts, threw two short passes. Miami linebacker Doug Swift picked off the second, one of six turnovers the Dolphins grabbed from the Colts.

Garo, Yepremian, Miami's diminutive Cypriot place kicker, was the only point-maker the Dolphins needed for their 14th consecutive victory. He booted field goals of 40 yards in the first period, 50 yards in the third and 35 yards on the second play of the final quarter.

But Morrall hit wide receiver Paul Warfield with a 14-yard touchdown pass with 6:16 left in the second quarter to give Miami a little breathing room and a 10-0 lead at halftime.

With 4:26 remaining in the third period, Morrall broke out of a trap attempting to pass and ran for five yards. The rush broke the season record of 2,885 yards rushing set by the 1936 Detroit Lions.

Miami also became the only National Football League team to chalk up a 14-game perfect season. The Chicago Bears of 1942 had a perfect regular season but played only 13 games. The 1948 Cleveland Browns of the defunct All-America Conference went 14-0, but the NFL does not recognize that record.

About the only record Miami missed in this season finale was a chance to become the first team ever to have two, 1,000-yard season runners in the same backfield. Fullback Larry Csonka got his 1,000 two games ago and Mercury Morris gave it a valiant try in this game. Needing 95 yards, he fell nine short with 86.

It was the second time this season the Dolphins whitewashed the Colts. The Colts have not scored against the Dolphins in 14 periods of play. Baltimore finished its worst season in 16 years with a 5-9 record and Miami will begin preparations as champions of the American Conference East for the first playoff game here Dec. 24.

TOUCHDOWN PASS is gathered in by high-flying Paul Warfield for Miami as Lonnie Hephurn of the Colts could not break up the play. Miami won 16-0 to complete an undefeated season.

Ralston — win now, draft later

DENVER (UPI) — Denver Bronco Coach John Ralston wants to win. The least of his concerns is what victory may cost come January.

"I like to win," said Ralston as he looked towards Denver's finale with New England here Sunday. "It won't make that much difference in the draft and we need the momentum."

Denver (4-9) has won its final game of the season only once in 12 years, but Ralston hopes the Broncos, who beat San Diego 38-13 last Sunday, can put together their first two game winning streak of the year.

A couple of wins would sure make the winter seem a bit warmer, Ralston said after the win in 10 degree temperatures at mile high stadium a week ago.

New England, just a step behind Denver with a 3-10 mark, has shown some promise the last couple of weeks. Their latest adventure netted the Pats a 17-10 win over New Orleans.

CSI pulls away from Boise in second half

BOISE — College of Southern Idaho turned loose a smothering defense and its sparkling guard duo Saturday night to sweep past the Boise State frosh 77-62.

The young Broncos, however, gave the Eagles a battle in the first half and trailed only 34-32 at intermission. But Rick Sobers and Ron Fryson picked up the scoring tempo immediately after the second half tipoff and Coach Jerry Hale put his Eagles in a zone that ended the contest.

The Eagles held Boise's top scorer, Ron Coggins, to four points — 17 under his average — but George Glover stepped in and scored 28 for Boise. Glover was about Boise's only offensive threat in the second half.

CSI took the lead in the opening minutes and midway through the first half built up a nine-point margin. It hung there for about four minutes before Glover started hitting. He hit eight points and Tony Saras, Minico graduate, added a field goal as the young Broncos outscored CSI 11-4 in the final three minutes before intermission.

Willie Williams opened the second half with a bucket and Ron Fryson quickly added two more.

Steve Swanson contributed two field goals after a Boise bucket and Williams's two free throws stretched the Eagles ahead 49-37.

At the midpoint of the half, Sobers hit three shots and Fryson and Vince Volmut added one each to give CSI a 69-49 lead with 7:24 left.

CSI now points to its toughest week of the season and perhaps in history. They go against University of the Pacific in Stockton, Calif., Tuesday night and the USC jayvees Wednesday. They wind it up Saturday at BYU.

USC reportedly has dropped its two starting sophomores to the jayvee club for disciplinary reasons arising during a tip to Alabama last weekend.

Boise State overhauls Cal State 87-76 in final half

BOISE (UPI) — Down by as many as 12 points in the first half, the Boise State Broncos gunned in 37 points the second half to defeat the Cal State Hayward Pioneers 87-76 Saturday night.

The win boosted the BSC record to four and two while the Pioneers are zero and six.

The Pioneers held a 40-30 lead at half time with the Broncos taking the lead for the first time in the game with 14 minutes remaining, thanks to the shooting of junior guard Clyde Dickey.

Cal State came back briefly to recapture the lead but a series of long bombs by Bill Barnes and Booker Brown started the Broncos on their second half surge.

Boise State lead by as many as 21 points in the second half while the Pioneers ran into a four-minute cold shooting spell. Brown scored all of his 18 points in the second half while the top scorer for the Broncos was Steve Clifford, with 20 points. Dickey was one behind with 19.

The top scorer in the game was Cal State's Walter Lewis who had 22 points.

Cosic leads BYU past Utags 88-80

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Kresimir Cosic tossed in 29 points and snared 16 rebounds Saturday night to lead Brigham Young University to an 88-80 win over upstate rival Utah State.

Cosic, the Cougars' 6-11 center from Yugoslavia, fired in hooks, turn-around jumpers, and easy lay-ins as he led his team to its fifth victory against a single defeat. Utah State is 4-2.

The Cougars, leading 44-42 at the half, put on a pressure defense as the second half started, enabling them to wilt the Aggie attack and move to a comfortable lead at 67-56. They then coasted until a 10-point Utah State splurge late in the half-closed the gap to five points at 85-80 with 50 seconds to go.

BYU then wrapped up the scoring with three free throws. BYU guards Doug Richards and Belmont Anderson kept the pressure off Cosic—Richards scoring 19 and Anderson 18, mostly on jumpers from short range.

Cosic was aided on the backboards by Kalevi Sarkalahti who was the game's top rebounder with 17. BYU finished with 53 rebounds to 43 for the Aggies.

Utah State was led by Robert Lauriski and Jim Boatwright with 20 points each.

Gooding outlasts Vallivue by 61-59

GOODING — The Gooding Senators mounted a 15-point lead late in the third quarter and then withstood a blistering finish by the Vallivue Falcons for a 61-59 victory Saturday night.

Gooding trailed only once during the game, that coming at 23-21 in the second period. The Senators appeared headed for an easy win when they scored 20 points in the third quarter and held a 52-39 advantage going into the last eight minutes.

But Vallivue then threw a full court press and the Senators had trouble with it. Reserve Randy McJunkin and Dick Pickett belweathered the rally with 10 and eight points, respectively, as the Falcons started coming back in a hurry.

Gooding went cold in the fourth period — although it didn't get many shots — and managed only one field goal. However, they picked up seven free points to blunt the rally.

Gooding won the first game.

Emmett topples Buhl 56-48

BUHL — Emmett defeated the Buhl Indians 56-48 Saturday night after the Indians scored only 10 points in the first half.

Emmett led 21-10 at the half with the Indians scoring six points in the first quarter and only four in the second quarter. Buhl committed 18 turnovers in the first half.

In the second half Buhl outscored Emmett by four points but couldn't make up the halftime margin. The Indians came within eight in the third quarter. Buhl's Brent Watson scored well in the second half with 13 points.

The Indians committed only eight turnovers in the second half.

Buhl beat Emmett in the preliminary game.

N.C. wins Big Four tourney

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI) — David Thompson scored 19 points as sixth-ranked North Carolina State rebounded from a seven-point deficit to hand ninth-ranked North Carolina its first defeat in seven games 68-61 and win the Big Four basketball tournament.

In the consolation game, Duke used a pressure defense and clutch foul shooting to defeat Wake Forest 80-67.

Thompson sank 13 of his points after intermission and scored the field goal that put the Wolfpack ahead for good, 51-49, with 8:18 remaining in the game. State extended its record to 6-0.

North Carolina stayed within four points until the final 30 seconds when the Tar Heels began fouling heavily in an attempt to get the ball, sending the Wolfpack to the foul line where they converted five free throws.

North Carolina State was outrebounded 42-32 despite its height up the middle and made good on only 43.8 per cent of its shooting attempts. But Thompson's outside shooting and an 11-point second-half barrage by 7-foot-4 Tommy Burleson, who ended the game with 15 points, lifted the Wolfpack to victory.

Missouri cops Vol classic

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Tenth-ranked Missouri ended Tennessee's dominance of the Volunteer Classic Saturday night with a 67-57 win over the Vols, and the Tigers' John Brown was voted most valuable player of the event.

Montana tops Wyo. 58-49

MISSOULA, Mont. (UPI) — The defense-minded Montana Grizzlies tied the Wyoming Cowboys in knots Saturday night in posting a 58-49 win over the Western Athletic Conference squad.

Montana jumped to a 31-21 halftime bulge on a zone defense and the shooting of guard Mike Murray.

In the second half the Cowboys began hitting from outside and the tips shifted to a man-to-man defense which gave Wyoming as much trouble as the zone.

Idaho State avenges earlier Hardin-Simmons loss 87-67

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — Idaho State and Ev Fopma gained revenge over Hardin-Simmons with an 87-67 win Saturday night after losing to the Cowboys a week ago in Cowboy classic.

Fopma led all scorers with 25 points, 19 coming in the second half. The 6-8 forward was held to just two points in a 59-56 loss to the Cowboys last weekend.

The Bengals boomed to a 12-5 lead in the first eight minutes and coasted to the win as all 11 ISU players got into the scoring act.

49ers drop Vikings, cop division title

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Veteran quarterback John Brodie, out of action for nearly nine games, rallied San Francisco for a pair of fourth quarter touchdowns Saturday to give the 49ers a 20-17 victory over the Minnesota Vikings and their third, consecutive NFC West title.

With the 49ers trailing 17-6, Brodie completed a 24-yard touchdown pass to Gene Washington with 6:13 left and then hit Dick Witcher with a two-yard throw with 25 seconds left for the winning score.

The victory gave the 49ers an 8-5 record in the final regular season game and deprived the Atlanta Falcons and the Los Angeles Rams from any chance to win the division title in their windup games Sunday. Brodie, out with an ankle injury since Oct. 15, took over with less than two minutes remaining in the third quarter and completed ten of 13 passes for 165 yards. However, the 37-year-old quarterback showed signs of inactivity when he was twice intercepted to stop budding San Francisco drives.

On the second interception, the Vikings were unable to move the ball and Mike Eischeid punted the ball out of bounds at the San Francisco one.

Then Brodie started the 49ers on a six play 99-yard drive to close the gap to four points at 17-13. En route, he completed a 12-yard pass to John Isenbarger, a 53-yarder to Gene Washington and an eight yarder to Vic Washington to set the 49ers up at the Minnesota 24.

After missing on one pass, Brodie hit Gene Washington for the score.

The Vikings, who finished their season at 7-7-1, then kept possession for more than five minutes, finally surrendering the ball with 1:30 left at the San Francisco 34.

Then, in a dramatic drive, Brodie took the 49ers 56 yards for the winning score.

He completed a nine yard pass to Larry Schreiber, an eight yarder to Vic Washington and then the 49ers, guilty of six turnovers previously, got a big break when Viking linebacker Jeff Siemon was guilty of pass interference to set up San Francisco at the Minnesota 26.

Two passes failed and then Schreiber went six yards on a draw play and Brodie threw 18 yards to Vic Washington to put the ball on the two with the clock running with less than a minute left. Two Brodie passes failed and then the San Francisco quarterback hit Witcher all alone in the end zone for the winning score.

Bruce Gossett booted field goals of 14 and 37 yards in the first half to account for the other San Francisco points

From all angles

The current position of Southern Idaho Conference members seems to be against expansion at this time.

That was the feeling when SIC coaches and officials met here this week to finalize the 1973 football schedule. Of course, that isn't official and is always subject to change before the SIC meeting in Pocatello.

Blackfoot, Burley and Bonnevile have asked for membership due to problems in scheduling football games. The divisional imbalance, particularly in travel, is the thing against acceptance.

A couple of things on the basketball scene. At a recent state coaches association board meeting, the idea of a 16-team A-1 tournament was brought up. That suggestion brought out a couple of ideas.

Homer Williams, executive secretary of the Idaho Interscholastic Activities Association, had a couple of other suggestions had been made. One would be reduction of classifications to two — from the current four — with both sides holding 16-team affairs. The breaking point would be 500 between A and B.

Of particular interest, however, Mr. Williams had there were reports that if the state legislature went along with the current idea of per cent school financing by the state, mandatory consolidation would be made part and parcel of the package.

This one idea would reduce Magic Valley's high schools from a current 26 to about 15. Thought behind it is reducing the number of jobs among hierarchy at a savings to taxpayers.

Interesting situation in Twin Falls' loss to Capital last week. Twin Falls started the second quarter with six men on the floor. Tried to call time out but still was caught after the officials discussed the situation with the official scorer. Capital hit the technical free throw and then got two more points from the line on the ensuing throw-in.

Magic Valley football coaches are working on an idea for picking up credits and also getting some advice from some of the nation's finest. Just as a proposal — which is being sounded around right now — the coaches are thinking of setting up a special P. E. extension class which would last 12 weeks. Each week would feature a different speaker — head coach of the Los Angeles Rams one week, head coach of USC the second, and so on.

Cost would appear to be in the $60 area, which would be used to defray traveling expenses and speaking fees for the coaches.

Castleford wins

FAIRFIELD — Castleford, leading in all four quarters, defeated Camas County 58-46 Saturday night.

Castleford took a five-point lead in the first quarter and steadily built a winning 12-point margin. Camas was hurt by committing 21 fouls.

Croner was the game's leading scorer with 14 points.

Camas defeated Castleford in the preliminary game.

Minnesota tops Loyola

CHICAGO (UPI) — Unbeaten Minnesota blew a 16 point lead but came back in the final two minutes to nip Loyola 87-81 Saturday night, behind Clyde Turner's 16 second half points.

The fifth ranked Gophers, led by 16 early in the second half, were tied with 2:39 to go after Nate Hayes and Paul Cohen led a 10-2 Loyola spurt to catch up at 77-77.

But Ron Behagen scored a layup, Turner made two free throws, Behagen tipped in a missed shot and Jim Brewer made two free throws, all in the space of one minute, to put Minnesota ahead 85-77.

Behagen scored 28 points and Turner 24 to lead the Gophers, while Hayes topped the Ramblers with 28.

Bruins sweep past Boise and Nampa

BOISE — The Twin Falls Bruins, although leading all the way, broke away for good in the closing minutes of the third quarter Saturday night to defeat Nampa's Bulldogs 71-51 and sweep an SIC weekend.

The Bruins, exploding for 30 points in the final quarter, dropped Boise 69-48 Friday night and currently remain one game off the SIC pace.

Charlie Browne, 6-3 senior forward, provided most of the middle quarter scoring as Nampa, behind talented Dave McAbee, stayed within easy hailing distance. But late in the third period junior center Ken Schmidt hit a three-field goal streak while Bob Durham had two points and Eric Hovey four as Twin Falls ran a six-point lead into 14.

Nampa managed two ties in the early going at 4-4 and 6-6 before Hovey hit three straight free throws — the last on a technical foul — and then a three-point play. Durham then added a three-pointer, and Andy Haynes and Hovey wound up the first period at 19-10.

Nampa stayed behind by as much as 17 points until the final four minutes of the half when McAbee and Markus split 14 points each. The Bulldogs closed the gap to 29-28 before Brown got Twin Falls going again with two field goals. After two Markus free throws, Schmidt scored for a 35-28 Twin Falls intermission lead.

Browne's four points early in the third quarter, followed by a Durham bucket, sent Twin Falls ahead by 10. Simmons and Ward brought Nampa back and then Twin Falls took off for good.

Oakley cops title in holiday meet

DECLO — The Oakley Hornets put down rushes by the Minico juniors in the second and third quarter and went on to claim the Declo holiday tournament championship 55-35 Saturday night. Declo dropped Raft River for consolation honors.

The Hornets jumped into a 10-point lead in the first period when Minico managed only six points but the young Spartans roared back to within two points by halftime.

In the third quarter, Minico kept the pressure on until the closing minutes when Oakley, led by Swan who tanked 24 points, started pulling away. Oakley maintained the lead throughout the final eight minutes.

In Friday night's action Oakley topped Raft River 76-60 and the Minico Juniors beat Declo 84-67.

Oakley, shooting 60 per cent from the field, took an early 19-12 lead in the first quarter and led the rest of the game. The Hornets were hot from the field with Grant Severe canning 12 for 24 points.

The Minico Jrs. had an easy time with Declo after taking an 11-point margin in the first quarter. Declo was apparently hurt by a two week layoff and made numerous mistakes.

Minico went to a 15 point lead in the second quarter but Declo came back to close the gap to five in the third quarter before Minico regained a big lead.

Minico shot 30 per cent from the field to Declo's 34. Minico led in rebounds with 45 to Declo's 39.

Economic prosperity predicted

NEWARK, N.J. — Prudential Insurance Co. is predicting another year of economic prosperity for 1973, but warns that restraints on federal spending will be necessary to avoid a resurgence of inflation.

The prediction and the note of caution were released today in Prudential's Annual Economic Forecast for 1973, prepared by the company's chief economist, Dr. J. Robert Ferrari, and his staff.

Dr. Ferrari says that continued large federal deficits, as the economy becomes more fully employed, will increase inflationary pressures.

Appropriate restraints on government spending would help reduce budget pressures, lessen the need for a tax increase and facilitate orderly monetary policy, the forecast maintains. Such actions need not hinder an impressive economic advance in 1973 and are necessary for stable growth in the years ahead.

Loan counselor to visit in TF

TWIN FALLS — R. N. White, loan officer, Small Business Administration, will be in Twin Falls Wednesday to counsel small businessmen.

He will be available to explain services of the federal agency at the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce office, according to Raymond Rostron, chamber manager. His visit is a cooperative venture with the chamber.

Appointments to visit with White should be made in advance by calling the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, 733-3974.

DINING ROOM of the newly remodeled Holiday Inn is now ready for customers. Relocated across the front of the building, the dining room includes booths and individual tables. Decor is in a Spanish motif with bull heads, dark wood and red carpets. A grand opening was held Thursday night.

Q — There's a neighbor whose shortwave transmitter bugs my radio, TV and telephone. Someone suggested installing a "high-pass filter" on the TV but this didn't help. What next? — M. N.S., Phoenix, Ariz.

A — Mobile homes usually depreciate about 10 per cent in the first year and 5 per cent every year after that. Over a 10-year period, homes will depreciate around 50 per cent and then at a slower rate. If you own the lot and the home is fixed to a firm foundation, it may even appreciate in value.

There's a blue book-type catalogue for used mobile homes similar to the one they have for used automobiles. It gives year, make, model, size and current price.

Nation undergoes big housing boom

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Construction of new housing units in the third quarter of the year totaled 635,010, 19 per cent above the year-ago figure.

July, August and September construction, after adjustment for seasonal variation, showed a nine per cent gain over the second quarter of 1972, it was reported today by the F. W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Co.

Chicago, with 20,622 new dwelling units begun during the third quarter, led the nation, followed by New York, with 16,165 units, and Houston, 13,117 units.

Next among the top ten most active housing areas were: Denver, 11,298 units; Miami, 10,822 units; Washington D. C., 9,870 units; Los Angeles-Long Beach, 9,511 units; San Francisco, 9,182 units; Phoenix, 8,945 units; and Detroit, 8,730 units.

George A. Christie, vice president and chief economist of Dodge, commented that the housing market faces a temporary overabundance of new dwellings coming on stream, in relation to current demands.

"Sooner or later a correction must take place to bring output more in line with what the market can absorb on a continuing basis," he said. "If that correction takes place soon, it need not be large; the longer it is delayed, the bigger it will have to be."

Total shelter started in 1973, according to Christie, will be close to 2.9 million units, including some 600,000 mobile units. He believes 1973 production will total 2.45 million units, including 550,000 mobile units.

In the view of the Dodge economist, next year's value of new residential building contracts will settle at $38.7 billion, 10 per cent below the 1972 peak which he estimates at $42.6 billion — "an amount which is likely to stand as the record for several years to come."

The nation is undergoing a housing boom of staggering proportions, the immensity of which is still hard to appreciate, said Christie.

At the end of 1972, the housing industry is now ahead of schedule in meeting the ambitious goal of producing some 2.5 million dwelling units by the end of the seventies' decade.

"We're now producing at the rate that was originally planned for 1975," Christie said in his analysis of the housing market.

In explaining the housing boom of the past two years, Christie singled out money as the key factor.

The potential demand for housing was there all the time, but the sudden availability of mortgage money made the demand effective, stated the Dodge economist. "Money became available only since, and as a result of, the recession of 1970."

He observed that this resulted as the old Nixon game plan, with its severe tight money policy, gave way to the President's New Economic Program and monetary ease.

It was further helped by a reduced demand for funds by the business sector, said Christie.

As unemployment rose consumers took precautionary measures and increased their savings, he pointed out. "In just two years' time the net inflow to savings and loan associations jumped from $1 billion to $28 billion — and that's almost the whole story right there," Christie stated.

If recession is good for housing, ill recovery be bad for housing? "Only if it leads to another credit crunch," said Christie. "I don't think we have to worry about a credit squeeze in 1973 since total demands for long-term money outside the housing market can be accommodated."

He cautioned, however, that 1972 shelter starts of close to three million units are more than the market can absorb on a continuing basis.

The basic level of shelter demand, which is predicated on family formations and replacement of existing units, is currently averaging about 2.4 million units a year, something less than the present rate of output, Christie said.

Christie said he is optimistic that lenders and builders will show the proper amount of restraint over the year or two ahead.

He foresees a 15 per cent decline in housing units in 1973, to an "appropriate level" of 2.45 million shelter units.

Of the total, 1.9 million will be conventional single-family homes and apartments.

In 1973 we should be seeing another transition, said Christie, "away from the very lopsided situation we've known for the past two years, in terms of the construction mix, and toward more normal proportions of residential and nonresidential construction."

Oriental students view Gem Christmas customs

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer

BUHL — Winter this year came early and threatens to remain late, so it's nice to know that visitors to Idaho enjoy our cold weather and snow.

Several students from Hong Kong, who are attending the College of Southern Idaho, Twin Falls, had never experienced snow until this winter and find they enjoy it immensely.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Joa, who live northeast of Buhl, hosted a Christmas dinner at their home for six of the students who will be far from their homes this holiday season.

Four of the young people are from Hong Kong, one is from Seoul, Korea, and one is from Japan. Parts of Korea and Japan get cold enough for snow, but Hong Kong enjoys a tropical climate with the temperature never falling below about 45 degrees.

The Joas have their home attractively decorated for the holidays. Mrs. Joa, who works at the college as secretary to Dr. Smith, academic dean, and Dave Perkins, director of student personnel, said she had to begin her decorating early and take advantage of moments sandwiched between her busy work schedule.

For several years now the Joas have been entertaining foreign students during the Christmas season. Their thoughtfulness helps make the holiday season less lonely for these young people who are so far from their own homes.

Students at the Joa home were Thomas Cheung, Helen Tam, Jessie Tam and Amy Tsang, all Hong Kong; Suk M. You, Korea, and Kaniko Shinobu, Japan. Simon Tang, also from Hong Kong, is a student at the college but was unable to attend the dinner.

Miss Tsang is studying first year nursing at CSI. She had worked in Los Angeles during the summer before coming to Idaho. Like most visitors from abroad, she was amazed at all the space in America. She speaks English well, as do all the foreign students. In Hong Kong, most people speak English, Miss Tsang said, since Hong Kong is a British colony.

Amy has a younger brother and sister at home, as well as an older brother and older sister. She said life, and the people here, are completely different than she had expected.

She, and the others all agreed their favorite American food was "French fries" but they miss "wanton," a ravioli-type noodle. Fresh strawberry pie is another favorite of all. In Hong Kong strawberries are imported from Australia and are quite expensive.

Helen Tam is taking computer science at the college. After living three months in America, she said she finds the customs are very similar to those of Hong Kong. People in Hong Kong celebrate Christmas but it is not the biggest festival of the year although it does bring a one-week holiday. Most of the young people in the city will go to a dance on Christmas Day. If they have a religion, they will go to church, she said. The rich people will attend nightclubs and have their Christmas dinners there.

Miss Tam added, "Most people forget the theme of Christmas. They only know how to celebrate and how to have more fun. They forget that thousands of years ago, a baby boy was born. This baby is the Saviour of mankind and it is His birthday we should celebrate."

Jessie Tam is a brother of Helen's and he is taking medical technology at CSI. This is his first year in the states also. He plans to attend the University of Utah after he is graduated from CSI.

In Hong Kong, the people look forward to the Chinese New Year which is celebrated sometime in February, he said. The date changes like our Easter does. This is the big event of the year and will include fireworks, dragon dances, festivities and gifts, and visits from relatives and friends. It is the custom of the country for the married people to give gifts of "lucky money" to the children at this time, Tam said.

Thomas Cheung was born in Hong Kong and his family is Catholic. They celebrate Christmas much the same as the Americans do, he said. About two weeks before Christmas, his mother begins decorating the home for the holidays using the Christmas tree as the focal point of the decorations. They send Christmas cards to their friends and relatives. On Christmas Eve, the young people go to a Christmas dance in the school, and after the dance, they attend a midnight mass.

Cheung said his parents are elderly and will not attend the midnight mass but rather will go to mass on Christmas morning. They usually have their Christmas dinner on Christmas night when aunts and uncles will come as guests since Cheung's father is the eldest of the family. After the dinner, they usually hold a dance in

The four students are from Hong Kong and are attending the College of Southern Idaho. Joa chats with two other guests in bottom picture. Suk M. You, Korea, left, and Kaniko Shinobu, Japan. The Joas hosted the six young people at a pie Christmas dinner party and heard Christmas customs and special traditions of other lands.

'Items for home' makes holiday season brighter for TF woman

By ANN DAILY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The gift of an Upplutur, a traditional Icelandic national costume, brought extra joy this Christmas season to a young Twin Falls woman.

Mrs. Edda Greenwell, a native of Hveragerdi, Iceland, received the Upplutur as a gift from her parents.

The floor-length costume includes a very full, heavy black satin skirt with a pale blue lace apron; a pale blue lace bodice with full sleeves, and a black velvet and satin vest encrusted with finely detailed hand-carved silver.

The Skotthufa, or "cap with a tail," is black velvet with black silk tassels gathered by a carved silver tube called a Holkur, which was her great-grandmother's.

The Upplutur is the costume of the poorer people of Iceland. The skirt is exceptionally full because many Icelandic women rode horseback. The national costume is often worn on June 17, the birthday of Iceland's first president, Jon Sigurdson.

Mrs. Greenwell is a part-time student at the College of Southern Idaho, and an employee of Medical Center Laboratory. She and her two daughters, Erica, 7, and Maia, 4, have made Twin Falls their home. Coming to the United States for the first time in 1962, Mrs. Greenwell returned in 1964 to marry. She visited her homeland in 1967 and hopes to return again soon. She is a member of Icelandic clubs in Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver, British Columbia.

Although she studied English two years in high school, Mrs. Greenwell commented that when she first arrived she had some difficulty with the language. She also studied Danish and has some knowledge of Scandinavian languages besides her own native tongue.

Mrs. Greenwell, following American custom, took her husband's last name, but in Iceland her name is Edda Hauksdottir. Icelandic women take their father's first name as a last name for life.

Husband and wife in Iceland do not share the same name. Mrs. Greenwell's father is called Haukur Baldvinsson, and her mother, Yllma Magnúsdottir, or daughter of Magnus.

In Hveragerdi, Mrs. Greenwell's father is a florist, and her mother works in an old folks' home. As a hobby, Herra Baldvinsson collects and polishes rocks found in the River Varma which flows near the town. He makes jewelry using hand made silver settings. Her mother knits garments for the family and for Mrs. Greenwell and her two daughters.

Growing up in Iceland is quite different than in America, according to Mrs. Greenwell. Reading is the favorite hobby. There is one theater in Hveragerdi and the movie changes once a month. For many years it was a tradition of her family to see "White Christmas" with Bing Crosby every Christmas.

Many of the people of her town play cards in leisure time. When she lived in Iceland, listening to the radio was another source of pleasure. One of the most popular programs came once a week, when a chapter of a book or part of a play was read over the air. The town recently was able to receive television. On her visit back, Mrs. Greenwell commented that perhaps the programs were not censored as they might be. Several French movies were being shown.

Mrs. Greenwell said that translation of American westerns is not particularly accurate. Often a cowboy would say something in English and the Icelandic printed beneath the picture would have no relation to the speech.

Discussing food differences between the two countries, Mrs. Greenwell described some of the delicacies of Iceland.

Sheep's head is a favorite Icelandic dish. The wool is burned off the head, then the skull is split and the brains removed. The head is then boiled and allowed to cool before serving. Mrs. Greenwell commented that the dish was delicious.

Fish, filleted, dried and salted until it becomes hard, is another delicacy. Before eating the fish is beaten. Mrs. Greenwell

Warm and cozy

UNSPUN WOOL, Lopi in Icelandic, was the basis for these shoes and mittens worn by, from left, Erica and Maia Greenwell. The garments were made by the children's grandmother in Iceland.

Native costume

THE UPPLUTUR, traditional Icelandic national dress, is worn by Mrs. Edda Greenwell, Twin Falls. The doll she holds is wearing a "Skautbuningur," another fancier costume. The Upplutur was a gift from Mrs. Greenwell's parents.

Special jewelry

ICELANDIC jewelry was brought to the United States by Mrs. Edda Greenwell, Twin Falls. The jewelry includes, from left, a polished rock from the river near her home, a whale's tooth, and a hand-carved silver necklace and earrings. The silver work is called Virgink.

Tiny shoes

the house. Several of the girls wore their beautiful native kimonos to the Joa home as a charming tribute to their host and hostess. Miss You wore a lovely turquoise, satin kimono.

She came from Korea to study nursing at CSI. She was introduced to the college by an American friend she met in her home country, she said. She chose CSI for two reasons, one that she had formerly attended very large schools and wanted the experience of attending a smaller one, and secondly, she had heard so much about the United States and particularly Idaho that she wanted to see for herself what it was really like.

The Christmas celebrations in Korea do not differ much from ours as there are many Christians in Korea, she said. However, the New Year is still the most important holiday in the country. At this time the parents and grandparents give nice gifts and money to their children. The money must be kept for at least 10 days which is considered to bring good luck. Most children then spend the money to travel to various interesting places in their country.

Miss Shinobu of Japan has been nicknamed "Nico" by friends at the college. She too wore a lovely flowered kimono for the dinner. She said the Japanese word "kimono" means any article of clothing or robe that is worn, but most people think of it as the graceful flowered robe worn only by Japanese women.

One of the features of the kimono is the surplus or room in the garment which makes it adjustable and the same kimono can be made to fit a tall or short, fat or lean person.

Miss Shinobu is in her second semester of pre-nursing courses at CSI. She said she could not believe she was living in a 25-below zero weather, but she was having lots of fun in the snow and likes Idaho because of it.

She plans to attend Brigham Young University when she finishes at CSI. She said she appreciated the American people for their kindnesses to her. She is living in a home with area residents, rather than at the college dormitory. She said the American and Japanese customs are very different, especially when it comes to "ladies first," which she thinks is a very good custom.

The Joas had traveled to the Orient last year on a trip and took a number of slides of their travels. The slides were shown to the guests after dinner and souvenirs brought from the various countries were displayed. It must have seemed like a "bit of home" to the visitors from overseas.

Richfield youths to attend confab

RICHFIELD—Two Richfield High School students have been selected to participate in the 11th Intermountain Junior Science and Humanities Symposium in Utah this spring.

David Jones, a junior, and DeAnn Dixon, a senior, will be two of the 22 students from Idaho high schools to attend the symposium that will be held at the University of Utah Feb. 28 through March 3.

They were informed of their selection in a letter from Richard Kay, science and mathematics consultant of the Idaho Department of Education, Boise.

The annual event is sponsored by the U.S. Army. Students from the Pacific Northwest will participate in workshops, hear lectures on scientific subjects, and tour engineering, biological and medical laboratories and facilities on the U of U campus. Students will present their research projects that they have prepared as part of the program.

All expenses will be paid the students during their stay in Salt Lake City. They will stay at the Temple Square Hotel and be served meals at the U of U campus. Bus transportation will be furnished to and from the meet.

Jones is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Jones. He has won outstanding achievement awards in mathematics and English in his freshman year and one in math his sophomore year.

He received special recognition for a high national rating in the national NEDT test and was ranked highest in the Richfield school in the same test. Jones also lettered in high school football and basketball.

This is the second year Miss Dixon has been selected to attend the symposium. Last spring she attended the 10th annual symposium as a junior. She participated in the Junior Engineering Technical Society (JETS) computer programming course at the University of Idaho this past summer.

She has won achievement awards in science and math at the high school. She is the daughter of Bishop and Mrs. Ken Dixon.

Mini-Reviews

TWIN FALLS—Twin Falls Public Library officials have released mini-reviews for some of the new books recently received at the library.

"The Colors of Vaud" by Bryher. A historical novel taking the theme of the late 18th century revolutionary unrest. It is the story of Vaud's struggle for freedom.

"The Radical Alternative" by Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber. Europe must not merely be united; it must take a radical new look at its political structure in order to ensure that human values are not entirely crushed by the pressures of the competitive economic system.

"White Tie and Dagger" by Andrew Tully. Fascinating inside stories are revealed in this book that tells the secrets and lifts the silken veil of Embassy Row.

"Everyman's Book of Superstitions" by Christine Chaundley. Rich in anecdote and source material, here is a fascinating examination of the ancient and not-so-ancient superstitions which are found in this country.

"The Marmot Drive" by John Hersey. This novel deals with certain events on two summer days in an out-of-the-way Connecticut village.

"Seven Arrows" by Hyemeyohsts Storm. Here is a moving novel about the plains people and their proud but doomed struggle against the white tide and its "manifest destiny."

"You Get Used to a Place" by Vera Randall. To most of the inmates of Glenville, the hospital has become a home—an asylum from the stresses of the outside world with which they cannot cope.

The action of this novel barely covers 24 hours, but by its conclusion lives have been either shattered and remade, or perhaps even worse, not been altered in any important way. "A Portion for Foxes" by Jane McClary. At the center of the novel is a great house, steeped in legend and tradition. The tale is played out against a series of exciting scenes—a swift fox hunt—a dangerous commented that it smelled bad but was very good to eat. Flounder is buried in the ground, allowed to spoil, then boiled and eaten.

Blood pudding, made of blood and meat, is sewn in a sheep's stomach and boiled. This delicacy is eaten all winter and often put in barrels and pickled.

Whole meat is frequently eaten, either boiled or fried. Pickled whale blubber is also a favorite.

Americans from the nearby Navy base, who were invited to Mrs. Greenwell's home for dinner became very ill. Mrs. Greenwell became ill on American food when she first arrived. It seemed very spicy.

The town of Nveraderdi is located in southern Iceland, just an hour's drive from the nation's capital, Reykjavik. Flowers are the town's greatest industry. There are many green houses and many florists. The town is built near hot springs and all houses and greenhouses are heated by the springs. Many tourists visit there also.

The people of Hveragerdi, numbering some 700, have fish as a main staple in their diets. Some mutton is eaten, but no beef. The women shop mostly in the morning, as few homes have refrigerators. On the farms, many of the older women still spin and weave.

The young people ski since there is plenty of snow in the winter months. All children are required to have one year of skiing in the schools. Other years are optional. Mrs. Greenwell participated in cross-country skiing.

Swimming classes are required every year from first grade through the final year in high school. It is a law that everyone must know how to swim.

Mrs. Greenwell reminisced about the times she walked home from school after swimming classes and had her hair freeze into icicles on the way.

The majority of Icelandic people live on the coast. The temperature drops to five or 10 below zero in winter. Thirty below is considered very cold.

In summer, there is a three-month growing season made possible by the Gulf Stream which keeps the land warm. Fifty-seven is a very warm temperature for summer.

The island has high rocky mountains, sandy deserts and lava fields. It is about 40,000 square miles in area, and has been called the land of frost and fire owing to its glaciers and volcanoes.

Icelandic sheep, looking much like shaggy goats, are raised near the mountains. Iceland is noted for its fine writers, sculptors and artists, according to Mrs. Greenwell.

Recently, manned gunboats cruise inside Iceland's 50-mile fishing limit, protecting the country's fishing grounds. Before the limit was set, English boats fished near Iceland's shores. Fishing is one of the main livelihoods of the Icelandic people.

Transplanted from her homeland, Mrs. Greenwell likes living in America, but looks forward to revisiting Iceland again.

Hints

Why do you get a cold sore when you haven't a cold? Having a cold is just one reason for cold sores. They can also be caused by fever, sunshine, physical or emotional stress. Medical authorities say that although cold sores generally appear on the lips or around the mouth, they could conceivably appear anywhere on the skin. If cold sores don't heal within 10 days, better see a doctor.

100th year observed by local man

TWIN FALLS — John E. McCarthy, retired railroad employe, will celebrate his 100th birthday anniversary today with a dinner and reception for relatives and friends.

Mr. McCarthy is the only retired railroader living in Idaho who reached the age of 100 in more than 20 years, according to Leo T. Haeg, district manager for Pocatello district office of the Railroad Retirement Board.

He has resided in Twin Falls for the past six years with his daughter, Mrs. Russell Thomas.

He was in Concord, Pa., on Dec. 17, 1872.

He began his railroad career on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad Co., now the Burlington Northern, at the age of 14 as a messenger and became a station agent at the age of 16. He worked at numerous stations on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad throughout the west. His last work was at Hardin, Mont., where he was in joint service with the Burlington Railroad and the Railway Express Agency. His railroad career spans more than 40 years.

Since his retirement in 1939, he has traveled extensively throughout the middle west and west.

A granddaughter, Mrs. Kenneth Marshall, also resides in Twin Falls.

Mr. McCarthy has four daughters, ten grandchildren, 39 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

His eyesight does not permit reading, one of his favorite former pastimes, but instead he listens to the "talking books" by means of a special player and earphones.

An alert and lively gentleman for his 100 years, McCarthy said he isn't sure how far into his second century he will go but he has at least completed his first.

year

Consider pup, kitten for gift

NEW YORK (UPI) — Looking for a Christmas gift that grows, moves without batteries and may try your temper on occasion? Consider a pup or a kitten.

These also kiss on impulse, so watch out.

Free or low-cost mutts (dogs without pedigrees) and plain cats (as opposed to fancy ones) are destined to find their way under the Christmas tree in greatest numbers. Among the costlier canines, poodles lead the snooty parade. They are in demand because they are smart, gregarious and, at times, comic. They also have been known to read their owner's mind.

Poodles cost from $75 up and come small, medium, large. There's upkeep to consider. Grooming every six weeks at from $15 up per session at the dogdom beauty salon.

Another popular pedigree pup is the beagle. Ever lovin' Snoopy of 'Peanuts' fame in comicland is a beagle. They're less expensive than poodles and don't require beauty treatments.

Other good family dogs, according to authorities at the Pet Food Institute in Chicago: German shepherd, collie, dachshund, cocker spaniel and Boston terrier.

Sleek or fluffy?

In catland, the choice is pretty big, ranging from the fluffy long-haired felines to sleek short-hairs. The Siamese leads the field among the short-hairs. Dazzling blue eyes and fawn bodied, this type has paws, ears and tail tipped with darker color. Of all cats, the Siamese are the most active. As cat people put it, this type is inclined to be gabby. Talk is a raucous meow.

Quieter but also beautiful are the Havana, the Russian-Blue and the Abyssinian cats. The latter resembles a small wildcat.

The long-hairs tend to be more placid than the short-hairs.

If you've decided a pup or kitten is to be in the Santa bag for your children this yule, where do you begin looking? How much should you pay? How can you tell if the four-footed furry creature is healthy?

Answers to those questions, and others—from the Pet Food Institute:

—Begin the search by asking friends who own pets. Or ask a veterinarian to recommend a kennel, pet shop or animal shelter. Don't be bashful. Ask about prices and explain what you are looking for in a pet. Most people selling pets or placing same for adoption are interested in finding a good home for the animal.

—Let your eyes and nose as well as your emotions help you decide when you visit the place recommended. Are animals kept in clean cages? Do feeding bowls contain fresh food? Are water dishes clean? Is the puppy or kitten treated by shop owner or kennel manager with loving care? A pup or kitten treated kindly will make an easier adjustment to your home and family.

—On the health check. Does animal act alert and friendly? The quiet, shy one with the "please take me home" look may be sick. Check eyes, ears, nose to make sure there is no runny discharge. Also: a healthy pup or kitten has a well rounded body that appears firm when you pick him up.

—As you cuddle the little pet run your fingers through the fur. A well-cared for pup or kitten has a thick, even glossy coat. Inspect teeth and gums, too. Pink gums and white teeth are signs of good health.

—Have the pet you selected checked by a veterinarian.

Most reputable pet dealers will replace an animal if a defect is discovered within a day or two.

Santa goes by many names

NEW YORK (UPI) — Around the world, stand ins for Santa go by other names. No matter what the moniker, he's still a good and generous fellow — chocked full of cheer. But, er, he's not always a he.

In Germany good boys and girls receive their Christmas gifts from Kris-Kringle, a young girl wearing a golden crown and carrying a tiny Yule tree.

In Denmark the bearer of Yule gifts is an elf by name of Julenissen. Legend says the elf lives in the attic during the year, keeping a sharp eye on the family. He knows who's been good and who's been bad and adjusts gifts accordingly.

In that Scandinavian country, Christmas dinner never is served until the Nisse, as the elf is known, has been treated to a bowl of rice and milk in his attic home.

In Poland gifts come from the stars. In Hungary, Christmas angels bring gifts. In Syria, a gentle camel brings surprise gifts for children.

The camel got into the Christmas act this way: a legend holds that the youngest camel carrying the Wise Men to Bethlehem lay exhausted from the long journey. Children brought water and wheat to revive him. Ever since, the camel travels over the desert each Christmas with presents for the young.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old boy who is really mad about something that happened and I don't know who else to write to so I am writing to you. We live in the country, and Dad and I sometimes drive to town for the football games. Last Saturday we two drove to the game. Dad had taken some pills for his hay fever and then he drank a can of beer. At halftime he went to the men's room and said he'd be right back. I waited and waited and the game was over and Dad wasn't back yet so I got worried and went where our car was parked. I waited some more and Dad never showed up. I stayed until the stadium lights were turned off and all the other cars were gone, and by this time I really was worried and scared so I called home and asked my sister to come and get me.

She finally came and the two of us drove to the city police station to report that Dad was missing. We found out that Dad had been picked up at the game by the police and was arrested for being DRUNK!

Abby, they locked Dad up and wouldn't even let him use the telephone to call home and let them know what had happened, and here I was, a 14-year-old boy stranded alone in a strange city.

I don't think this is fair. My father was fined $25 for being "drunk," and the matter was dropped. Can anything be done about this now? WORRIED ABOUT JUSTICE

DEAR WORRIED: Perhaps your dad had all the symptoms of being drunk and the arresting officer was only doing his duty by locking him up to prevent him from driving. But refusing to allow your father to use the telephone is another matter. He should definitely talk to a lawyer about it.

DEAR ABBY: I despise my sister who I caught in a motel room with my husband 27 years ago. My husband and I had been happily married for nine years at the time. My sister was also married when this took place. I never suspected a thing until I caught them, but my husband later confessed to me that it had been going on for several years.

My sister became a widow last year and I want nothing to do with her. The affair was terminated when my husband became a Christian, but I know my sister and I'm taking no chances. I even despise her letters, and never answer them.

We have one brother who is probably wondering why I don't invite this hussy to come and be my house guest. Should I tell him so he will know I have a very good reason? I don't want to appear the selfish, unfeeling sister. BITTER MEMORIES

DEAR BITTER: I can understand why you don't want your sister as a house guest, but I see no reason why you have to explain it to your brother.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married four years and have two children. I recently came across some papers my husband had hidden away. There was his birth certificate, social security card, and some identification papers and some letters. All belonging to him, but they were under a different name than the one he married me by.

When I asked him to explain this to me he refused to give me a straight answer. I went to the city hall in the town in which he said he was born and asked for a birth certificate for the name he used when he married me, and

Holiday fire rules listed

TWIN FALLS — Six simple rules which could prevent a fire marring the otherwise happy Christmas season are being distributed by Christmas tree sales lots this year.

The Twin Falls Fire Department prepared the list and furnished them at no cost to the sales lots asking one be given with each tree sold.

Clare Harkins, city fire inspector, said this is part of the department's year-around fire prevention program.

The rules recommended by the department include keeping the tree in a stand which can be filled with water daily to keep the tree from drying and making certain tree lights are in good condition with no loose sockets or bare wires.

Children should not play too near the tree and lighted decorations and should not play with matches or lighters.

Candles should not be used on the tree or other dry evergreens and wrapping paper should be placed in a closed container as soon as possible.

The last reminder, firemen say, is to take the tree down by the week after Christmas before it can get too dry.

TF YM-YWCA sets dance workshop

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls YM-YWCA will sponsor a three-day modern dance workshop Dec. 27, 28 and 29.

The workshop will be at the YM-YWCA building, 1741 Elizabeth Blvd., with Shelly Zundel conducting an intensive course in modern dance. She is associated with the department of modern dance, University of Utah.

Beverly Hackney, local dance instructor, made arrangements for Miss Zundel to instruct the workshop.

The course is open to interested students and teachers of ballet and modern dance. Physical education teachers who are interested in dance are invited to participate. YM-

YWCA or other organization memberships are not required.

Miss Zundel attended Boise schools. Her early dance training was directed by her mother. Later she studied under Lloyd Carlton, Boise.

During her senior year, she received the state ballet scholarship to Sun Valley Music Camp. She is a teaching assistant at the university where she also has performed in modern dance productions. She was instructor of modern dance last summer at the Ricks College Fine Arts Festival.

The workshop will have two classes a day.

For further information, call the YM-YWCA, 733-4384, or Beverly Hackney, 733-5321.

Lodge names officers

SHOSHONE — Mrs. T. V. Strunk has been elected noble grand of Opal Rebekah Lodge No. 74, Shoshone, lodge officials announced Friday.

Other newly elected officers are Mrs. Lawrence Tew, vice grand; Mrs. Corwin Silva, secretary; Mrs. William Kerner Sr., financial secretary; Mrs. Leigh Kelley, treasurer; Mrs. Tew, Mrs. E. C. Hahn and Mrs.

H. B. Paulson, trustees and Mrs. Luella L. Kinsey, staff captain.

The organization is planning a Christmas party party Dec. 26. Members are to take cash donations to put in a fund for the United Nations Youth Pilgrimage.

Members should also each take a Christmas dessert to be served at the party.

I was told there was no record of anyone by that name. Is our marriage legal? Are our children legitimate? I live in Connecticut. ALL MESSED UP

DEAR MESSED: If you can't afford to hire a lawyer, go to the Legal Aid Society and ask for their help. You need a lawyer to tell you where you stand legally.

DEAR ABBY: I am a very worried girl and can't do much about my problem because I am underage, but please tell me where I can get a free VD test and necessary treatment without my parents knowing it.

I am sure I need it, and am ashamed to tell you that I am just 14. Thank you. NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: Telephone your COUNTY health department. Explain your problem, and you will receive a free examination and necessary treatment. Please do this today!

HOLIDAY SAFETY hints prepared by the Twin Falls Fire Department, and designed to prevent fires in homes during the coming Christmas holidays are being handed to some 7,500 Christmas tree buyers by attendants at tree sales lots. Here Mrs. Zon Lloyd receives a quantity of the printed hints to distribute. Clare Harkins explains the purpose of the project.

Safety hints

Book Review

By ANNIE-LAURIE BURTON

TWIN FALLS — During this Christmas season as families gather and memories are rekindled, it seems appropriate that Kate Seredy's "A Tree for Peter" be shared and read.

For within this tale of faith reborn, most of us — regardless of age — can find a little of ourselves.

Vividly told through the eyes of young Peter, the child's loneliness, fears and reactions soon appear to echo some of our own. How many of us remember, for example, our childhood fears? Small Peter, too, was afraid of many things.

"He was afraid of the lean, hungry cats that came to prowl among the junk. Afraid of the rats they sometimes chased.

Afraid of the dogs with yellow eyes and tails that never wagged. He was afraid of summer's thunderstorms and the icy winds of winter, angry winds that tore shingles from the rooftops and howled down the chimney. Small Peter, lame and lonely, was afraid of many things that came to Shantytown."

The reader then follows young Peter through these fears, his loneliness, and finally to his friendship with a mysterious tramp. And, it is with the acute awareness that only a child has that Peter recounts some of the times shared with this mysterious man.

"There was the quiet green hour, in the shady cove across the river. Soft green grass underfoot, moist and cool to roll on. Whispering green trees above, their leaves cutting the glaring sun into cool shafts of light. Cool water lapping the shore, a deep, dark green mirror of water to gaze into and see a laughing boy, or to wade into and see the shining minnows dart between his feet."

No one had ever seen this tramp before, and no one saw him again, but it was his gift to small Peter along with a shining toy spade with a red handle, and a small green tree lighted with tinted candles, that caused the Shantytown people to hope again.

Beautifully illustrated and simply told, this story of a modern miracle through which a lonely boy and a hopeless people find that love and faith can still move mountains is truly reminiscent of the Christmas spirit!

For skiers who like a laugh with the sport, here's a new makeup idea: Paint bright racing stripes down your face or across the nose.

Salmon club has confab

TWIN FALLS — Due to cold weather the Salmon Social Club had its monthly meeting Thursday at the Victor W. Nelson home.

Mrs. Nelson was hostess. The program consisted of a gift exchange. The roll call gift was presented to Alice Courtney. The hostess prize was received by Barbara Fuller. Pal gifts were received by Viola Williams, Esther O'Dell, Alice Courtney, Mary Ellen Taylor and Maxine Nelson.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting is at the Charles O'Dell residence, 267 Caswell, on Jan. 4. Mrs. O'Dell will be hostess, with Bertha Snyder as program chairman. Roll call will be on the history of green glass.

Ketchum students seek cans

KETCHUM — Ketchum students are converting discarded aluminum cans into playground equipment.

Through a student council directed recycling program at the Ernest Hemingway Grade School, cans are being collected from the community to be sold to the Coors Distributing Plant, Hailley.

According to student council president Brant Cooper, aluminum cans will be accepted at the school on Fridays between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The majority of the funds from the collection will go toward new equipment for the school's playground, with the remaining funds used for student council related activities, he said.

Mrs. Larry Wilde, fourth grade teacher at the school, said last year the project earned about $40 to $50, but was essentially adult-guided.

MR. AND MRS. SAM EAKIN

50th anniversary fete set Saturday

JEROME — Mr. and Mrs. Sam Eakin, Jerome, will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary with a reception Saturday.

The reception will be from 2 to 5 p.m. at the United Presbyterian Church, 262 East Avenue A, and will be hosted by the couple's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bertam Eakin, Houston, Tex.

The couple's three grandchildren will accompany their parents from Houston. Paul Eakin, their older son died in France in World War II. Mr. and Mrs. Eakin were married at the home of her brother, Paul Stewart, in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Dec. 20, 1922. They have resided near Jerome for the past 50 years. They were active farmers until 1968 when they retired. They continue to live in the same house they have occupied for 48 years.

All friends and neighbors are invited to greet them on this special occasion. The couple requests no gifts.

Former resident holds craft show

TWIN FALLS — Jeanne Stettler Mangus, a former Twin Falls woman, is having a holiday craft show at her New York City pottery school.

She opened the pottery school April 1, calling the enterprise "The Earthworks Pottery" school. The holiday craft show runs from Dec. 11 through Jan. 2.

Mrs. Mangus is the daughter of Mrs. Jack Young, Twin Falls, and Norris Stettler, Vancouver, Wash. She was graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1961. She attended Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., and received a B. A. degree in art education from Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind.

She teaches beginning and advanced techniques in wheel throwing, hand building, glazing and firing. The school also offers classes for children and rental space.

Supplies and tools for all pottery crafts are available.

OES unit honors official

HOLLISTER — Hollister Chapter No. 47, Order of Eastern Star, honored Mrs. Lloyd Nelson, grand representative of Idaho, in a ceremony Thursday night.

She was presented a plaque made by Ray Clark, worthy patron, who presided with Mrs. Clark, worthy matron.

Mrs. Ruby Dean, chairman of district 7, ESTARL, Grand Chapter of Idaho, was also present.

During the meeting the altar was draped in memory of Laura Bristol, past grand matron of Idaho.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clark, Mrs. Goldie Clute and Mrs. Dora Clark.

Dance set

TWIN FALLS — Beta Sigma Phi City Council officials have scheduled the annual Valentine's dance for Feb. 17.

The dance will be at the Elks Lodge with music by the "Saints." The evening will begin with a social hour at 8 p.m. followed by dancing at 9 p.m. Members are urged to invite guests.

Chapter plans a fashion show the first of April at the Turf Club.

MRS. PEARL CAMPBELL
Rt. 3, Box 56, Jerome

MYSTERY FRUIT CAKE

Prepare one box white cake mix and bake according to package directions. Crumble the cake in a large bowl or pan.

Add four cups mixed candied fruit, one-half cup each red and green candied cherries, one cup white seedless raisins, one cup shredded coconut, one and one-half cups chopped nuts and one and one-half cups miniature marshmallows.

Prepare a six and one-half ounce package of white frosting mix as directed on the package. Add to the above and mix well. Line pan with aluminum foil and pack firmly with the mixture. Store in the refrigerator.

Slice and serve as needed. This cake will keep for months wrapped in foil. If you like a dark cake, use spice cake mix instead of white, and dark raisins instead of white.

The Times-News will pay $5 each week for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page Editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.

Margene Becker wed at Gooding

GOODING — Margene Shene and Marcie June Becker and Dallas D. Willis were married at a Nuptial Mass Dec. 2 in St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church, Gooding. The afternoon ceremony was performed by Rev. James Shingleton. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an empire-style gown of white crepe with lace trim down the front. The full sleeves were gathered to a wide lace cuff. Her veil was fingertip length. She carried a bouquet of red carnations and baby's breath with holly. Joretta Becker, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Candee Jones and Mrs. Leo Basterrechea. Dale Willis, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Orlan Stearns, Orval Willis and Jack C. Bishop, all Twin Falls.

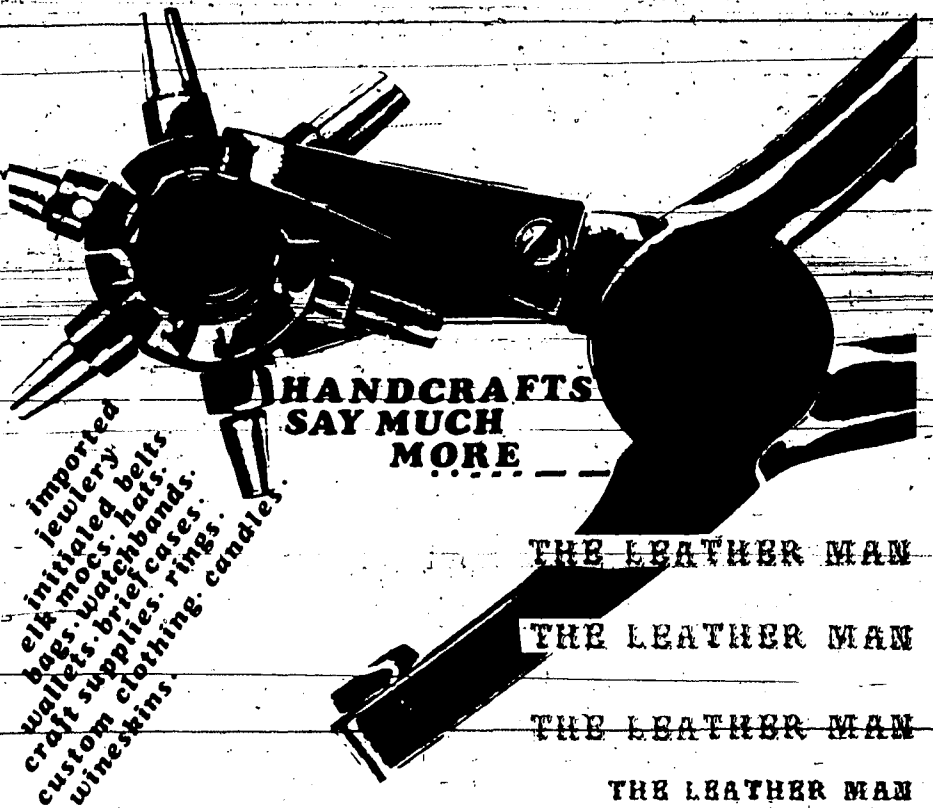

Shene and Marcie June Becker, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. Tommy Fleming, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer. Pat and Nick Becker, brothers of the bride, were altar boys. Mrs. Dale Willis was soloist. She was accompanied by Mrs. Jane Ellen Shew, Organist was Mrs. H. J. Robinson. Jan Cahoon registered guests. Mrs. Roy Fleming, Mrs. Orlan Stearns and Mrs. Orval Willis cared for gifts. Mrs. Harold Mays, aunt of the bridegroom, served the three-tier wedding cake. Mrs. H. M. Colson and Mrs. H. C. Becker, aunts of the bride, served coffee and punch. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Mays, grandparents of the bridegroom. After a wedding trip to Grand Targhee Ski Resort, the couple reside in Twin Falls where both are employed.

Nice change from sprig of mistletoe

TWIN FALLS — A novel suggestion from the Society of American Florists is a kissing ball made of florists' foam, thin wire, toothpicks and flowers.

The flowers are wired to the picks and then the picks are inserted into the foam — each one close to the next so that no foam shows. Intersperse the flowers with "twigs" of mistletoe and of small-leaved foliage.

A ribbon may be attached — also with the picks — to the top of the ball as a hanger. Another ribbon may trim the bottom.

Where to hang the kissing ball? It is perfect in a bay window where it serves to beautify the house both inside and out. Or it may be hung in an archway between two connecting rooms where it may be more convenient for the purpose for which it was intended.

The preparation of a kissing ball is simple.

Any florist will prepare one on order, using any flowers specified. If it seems fun to make the kissing ball at home — and this can be a pleasant ond heart on the last one while South jettisoned his six of clubs.

Now South took the diamond finesse. There was no point in not trying it. West won and led a diamond back and now it was up to South to do something about the heart suit.

He was so sure of his analysis of the location of the queen of hearts that he decided to try to work a backward finesse.

He had already decided that West held the queen. He might not hold the 10 and in that case a backward finesse would succeed. South led his jack of hearts. West ducked, and South played low from dummy. South collected four heart tricks and his slam.

A—Bid four spades. Your partner should have seven pretty good spades and you have so many high cards you should put him in game.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding two clubs, West has passed. Your partner has bid one spade. What do you do now?

Answer Monday

If the cup of a bra is not filled out, you may need a smaller cup or a foam-lined cup.

ROAST STUFFED CHICKEN

2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 cup mixed onion
2 tsp. butter
2 cups bread cubes
1 egg, beaten
1 lb. ham, ground
2 tsp. tomato paste
2 tsp. lemon juice
1 cup orange juice
1 tsp. olive oil
1 cup beer
1 tsp. sugar
Rub salt, pepper into chicken. Sauté onion in the butter 5 min. Add bread, egg, ham. Mix lightly, taste for seasoning. Stuff chicken, close opening with skewers or foil. Roast 425 deg. 20 min. Mix together other ingredients, pour over chicken. Reduce heat to 350 deg. Roast 2 hours longer, or until tender. Basting frequently. Serves 4 to 6.

INDIVIDUAL MINCEMEAT PIES

4 pkgs. 4 oz. each concentrated mincemeat
3/4 cup beer
1 cup chopped nuts
1 pkg. flaky type pie crust mix
1 cup finely grated sharp cheddar cheese
Break mincemeat into pieces. Add 3 cups of beer and cook until thickened. Stir in nuts. Fill 12 custard cups with filling. Prepare crust mix following pkg. directions, adding cheese, butter, mix, and substituting remaining 3/4 cup beer for water. Roll out to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut into 12 inch rounds, slash. Place over cups, crimping edges over rim. Bake at 425 deg. 20-25 min. Serve warm or cold. Yields 12 pies.

Warden invites inmates for yule dinner

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Harold Cardwell is inviting a bunch of the boys home to share Christmas dinner with his family. Among the guests will be a handful of thieves and even a couple of murderers. It's not the first time such criminals gathered around his dinner table. On Thanksgiving, Cardwell had seven murderers and a blackmailer join him, his wife, two sons and two teenage daughters. Cardwell is warden of the Ohio Penitentiary. Every Thanksgiving and Christmas since taking the job four years ago he has invited inmates into his home. "These men have treated me like a gentleman at the prison and I like to treat them like gentlemen at my home," Cardwell said. "There's no ulterior motive for this—in fact, it costs me money. There's no requirement in this job that says I've got to share holidays at my home with the inmates. It's something I like to do." Cardwell says his family looks forward to holiday gatherings with the guests—even though they happen to be prisoners. The warden said he believes the dinner invitations have helped "habilitate"—he doesn't use the word rehabilitate—the prisoners. The northernmost community in the United States is Barrow, Alaska.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES—There's a considerable amount of confusion in the handling of your financial accounts. It would be wise for you to study those principles which have long proven satisfactory and then follow them so that your life may become more in tune with rightness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Engage in outside activities since you find it difficult to figure out how to handle those pressing business matters right now. The solution will come to you later. Show that you have wisdom.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Remain cheerful and kind toward others even though you find it difficult at times. Keep calm and poised and avoid the social as much as you can. Don't argue with anyone. Read tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you quietly go about getting rid of limitations, you can make your life much happier and be able to advance more quickly in the future. Take time for meditation on right principles.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan exactly what it is you want out of life instead of just floating along with the tide and taking the scraps. Obtain the answers you need from important persons and friends.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make sure you do nothing to jeopardize the fine reputation you have so carefully built up, since others are in a mood to criticize. Follow every regulation that applies to you. Be thankful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Important that you appreciate the Golden Rule and practice it now. Study into the matter further before you make any radical changes you have in mind. Evening is fine for entertaining.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Follow your intuition now and you will know how to handle those pressing matters well. Don't be upset if loved one is a little cool toward you today. The situation will change tomorrow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure that you carry through with obligations toward associates. Show that you are one who can be relied upon. You have to handle a private matter wisely. Don't just shrug it off.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you do something thoughtful for those who are loyal to you. Make your wardrobe more charming so that it brings out your own individuality. Relax at home with mate tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 21) You are able to enjoy the recreations that make you feel more alive and happier now. Assist a younger person who comes to you for help. Avoid a trouble-maker who opposes you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 22 to Feb. 19) That condition at home requires quiet analysis instead of losing your temper. Keep calm and you will soon solve the problem. Relax at home and restore your energies for the new week.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can get at the truth of a condition that has been puzzling to you for a long time, so be sure to stick to the basic principle. Later engage in your hobbies and avoid spending money.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY—he or she will be one of those charming young people who can do well in the field of business, but it is wise to give the finest ethical and spiritual training you can early in life. Otherwise your progeny could easily become so engrossed in the acquisition of money and power that much of the happiness possible in this chart will be lost. Sports are fine here.

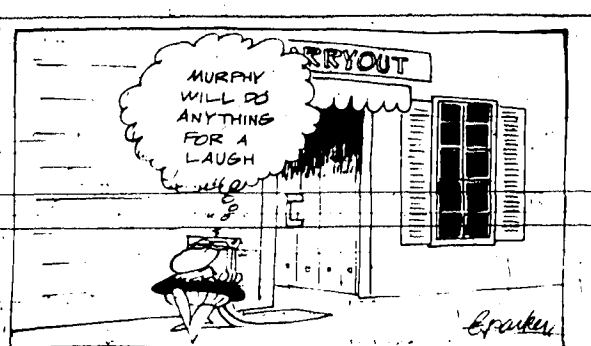

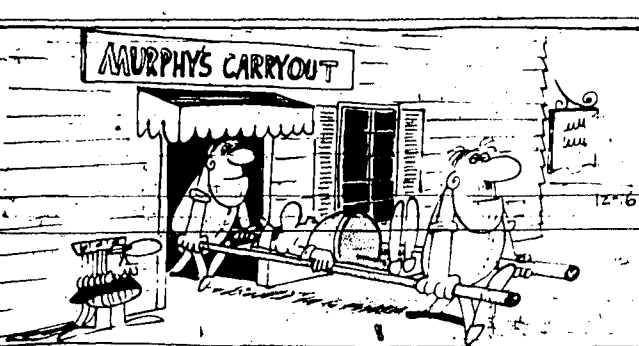

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU.

MISSING MEN

Never give up on missing men in Alaska. Writes military retiree Hal Eustace of Austin, Tex.: "About 1944, a U. S. bomber crashed in Alaska's outback in the dead of winter. When found, all aboard were dead, except one body, missing. A lengthy search proved fruitless. Just 81 days later, one Lt. Graves walked in from the cold. He had survived on food from cabins stocked by sourdoughs for just such emergencies. Later, Graves went back and replaced that grub in each cabin, for such was the Alaskan custom."

HOW LONG WAS your honeymoon? How much did you spend? Nevermind, too personal. Merely wish to mention the average Japanese honeymoon now lasts five days, costs the equivalent of $280.

'Holiday blues' common as traditional tree

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Christmas and New Year's going to get you down again this year, leave you in a blue funk, feeling lonely amidst merry-makers or blaming yourself when the egg nog sours?

Well, don't think you are the only one, says Dr. Dean Schuyler, a psychiatrist with the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) who believes the "holiday blues" are about as common as Christmas trees and just as likely to disappear after the holidays.

"A very minimal stigma, if any, is attached to holiday blues because it happens to so many people," said Schuyler, who handles research grants in the NIMH depression section. "But it can get out of hand."

"Suicides are always a danger during the holiday period, especially with people who have made attempts before and those for whom Christmas has an anniversary significance — the death of a parent or friend during a previous holiday season, or the remembrance of a hospitalization at Christmas."

"And it's a known fact that emergency rooms see a tremendous increase in people, not on Christmas or New Year's Day but the day after."

Suicide statistics and hospital records do not solidly support such assertions but they nevertheless hint of holiday grief and injury.

Suburban Holy Cross Hospital, in a middle-class neighborhood of nearby Silver Spring, Md., reports that its emergency room patient load increased the day after Christmas in both 1971 and 1970. In a study of suicides by day of the year, the government's Division of Vital Statistics found in one year that 43 suicides were recorded on Christmas, 42 on Christmas Eve, 42 on Christmas, and 60 on Dec. 26. On New Year's Day there were 65 suicides and the day after, 73.

But most "bah, humbug" feelings during the holidays are less disastrous, and psychiatrist Schuyler offers a shopping list of ways to beat the blues that sounds like it came from a sermon.

"Christmas has a whole bunch of significances," he said. "One is the family getting together, a time when people take off from work, a lot of partying and drinking, a time of profound religious significance."

"One would think if the religious aspect were uppermost in people's minds, that the holiday blues would be reduced," he said. "Depression would probably be seen less often if Christmas were still a religious holiday."

Other Schuyler hints for part of instead of doleful holidays.

Show concern for others who might be lonely, ill or troubled during the holidays.

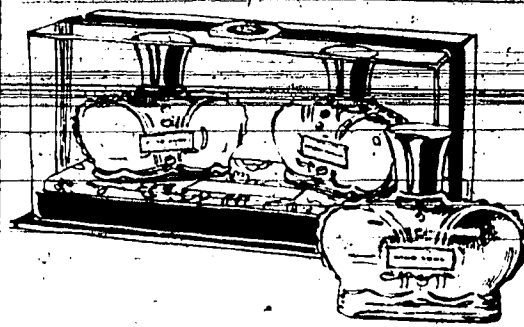

If we could get back to some of the feeling of Christmas as opposed to the commercialism, that might have an effect on depression."

Enjoy yourself. But don't get your hopes up too high for unrealistic holiday benefits, like the magical healing of old family scars or the renewal of a broken romance.

TWIN FALLS — For many families, turkey and dressing holds just as prominent a place at Christmas as it does at Thanksgiving.

Sometimes food poisoning mars this happy holiday season for certain strains of common food poisoning bacteria may occur in foods prepared by homemakers even though their homes and particularly their kitchens, may be kept spotlessly clean.

The organisms which cause food poisoning may occur in the food as purchased, or may be introduced by the ones preparing the food. Their growth and development depend on several factors — moisture, temperature, time and acidity. Bacteria may be killed by heat.

However, toxins formed by certain organisms prior to cooking are not destroyed at cooking temperatures. To prevent food poisoning it is important that foods be prepared under sanitary conditions and reach the proper cooking temperatures in as short a time as possible.

Preparation of stuffed turkey, because of its size, may cause problems. A stuffed turkey does not cook through quickly. Many homemakers, in their desire to save time and work around the holidays, add to the risk by refrigerating stuffed, uncooked poultry many hours in advance of oven time.

The following recommendations are suggested:

No. 1. Combine the ingredients just before stuffing the cleaned, ready-to-cook bird. The stuffed turkey should then be placed in a preheated oven to roast. Suggested oven temperature, 325 degrees.

No. 2. Since it is not always practicable to prepare stuffing at the last minute, refrigerate prepared liquid ingredients; measure and prepare dry ingredients and store at room temperature; then combine ingredients just before stuffing.

No. 3. The center-of-stuffing temperatures, as well as the doneness of the meat can be determined by the use of a meat thermometer. Insert the tip of the thermometer between the first and second rib and direct it toward the center of the stuffing. Remove turkey from the oven when thermometer reads 165 degrees.

No. 4. Roasted turkeys should be allowed to rest for 20 minutes after removal from the oven and prior to carving. This allows for a post-oven rise in temperature and also makes for easier carving.

No. 5. Roasted, stuffed poultry should be refrigerated within four hours after removal from the oven. The stuffing and meat should be removed from the carcass, placed in covered containers and refrigerated. Plan to use the refrigerated stuffing and meat within five days.

No. 6. Don't partially cook a turkey and stuffing, either separately or together. The cooking process, once started, should be completed.

No. 7. Neither cooked nor uncooked stuffed poultry should be frozen.

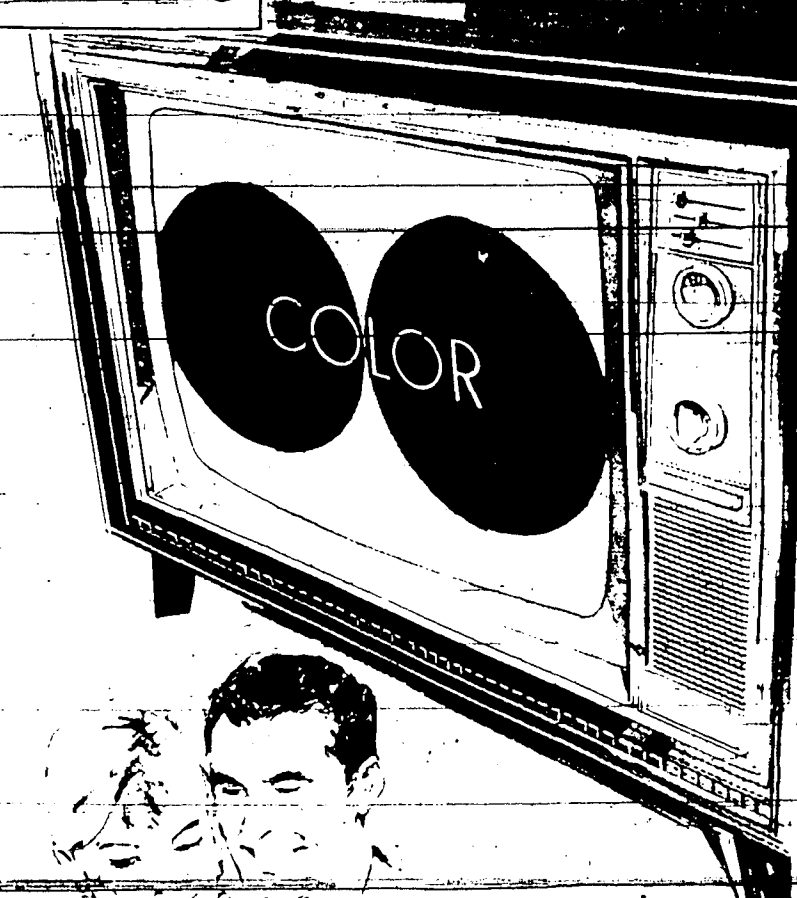

No. 8. Raw poultry, either stuffed or unstuffed, should not be thawed, then refrozen.

No. 9. For best results do not freeze stuffings for the texture and consistency are decidedly changed, they become soggy and develop off-flavors when held for even one week in zero storage.

No. 10. Sliced, cooked turkey can be packaged and successfully frozen for use later in sandwiches, or casseroles.

DEAR POLLY—While helping my mother with the dusting I discovered that a clean, new blackboard eraser (they cost less than 50 cents) works well for picking up dust, and leaves a shine on the wood.—NANCY

DEAR POLLY—When I use leg make-up it often splashes or fails to cover my legs evenly. I finally discovered that applying a generous coat of lotion to the legs before applying the make-up moisturizes them so that the result is an evenly coated, beautifully dark pair of legs.—LISA

DEAR POLLY—With three teen-agers in the house, my mother had trouble keeping track of us. To remedy this she hung a calendar in the kitchen that has big squares around the dates. We each have a pen that writes a different color so when we have a date, such as a baby sitting job, etc., we write it on the proper date on the calendar. The color of the ink lets her know which of us has made the notation.—C. W.

DEAR POLLY—We live on a farm, so my dad's handkerchiefs get quite soiled and ragged. When ironing, I fold them so the worn part is out and my dad knows which to use for everyday and which are good ones.—CARMEN

DEAR POLLY—When covering something with papier-mache using scraps of newspaper, do one layer of comics and the next of regular black-and-white print and you can be sure you have covered every part evenly.—STEPHANIE

DEAR POLLY—Save all scraps of self-adhesive vinyl, paper and so on to use for customizing gift-boxes. After covering a box often all that is needed is a perky bow. If the gift is for a child it could be decorated with colorful pictures of characters from children's stories or magazine pictures.—MRS. L. B.

DEAR POLLY—I keep charcoal in my closets so the clothing and shoes do not mold. Remove the lid from a plastic container, fill it with the charcoal and place in the corner of a closet. Do not cover.—MRS. J. M. J.

DEAR POLLY—As a constant reminder to all of us (the children especially), so as to minimize the effect of poison ivy after being in areas where it is prevalent (we live in a wooded area), we keep a cake of soft brown laundry soap right by the tub along with the regular cakes of bath soap. As this brown soap tends to crack and disintegrate and become unsightly, it is kept wrapped in a small double piece of waxed paper.—JANE

FOR SEN. HAROLD E. HUGHES of Iowa

A friend of mine claims that he was refused a job recently because the employers found out he had had a drug problem in Vietnam. I thought information like that was supposed to be confidential.—B. L., Middletown, Ohio

● The Department of Defense continues to insist on a permanent identification of drug abusers by means of code numbers. These numbers (called SPN numbers) appear on military discharge papers—papers that veterans must show when applying for jobs. The Defense Department maintains that the numbers offer more confidentiality than words. Perhaps. But the code is easy to obtain. I know of no way such a list could be kept from any civilian or business institution having an interest in it.

FOR LEE TREVINO, pro golfer

Do you feel your personality has changed much since you made it big?—John Reynolds, Niagara Falls, Canada

● It must have. Years ago I used to tell jokes and nobody laughed. Today I tell the same jokes and everybody cracks up!

ALI MAC GRAW

How do you feel about Women's Lib? —N. A., Dothan, Ala.

● I am perfectly sure that men and women are equally bright and equally strong and equally capable, but I love the whole old-fashioned man-woman balance. (On the other hand, I'm not about to be anybody's "yes" person!)

FOR NINA VAN PALLANDT, star of "The Long Goodbye"

Is it true that both of your husbands were terribly wealthy? —W. A., Brawley, Calif.

● My first husband, to whom I was married a year, was terribly wealthy and never did anything. My second husband, from whom I am separated, comes from Dutch nobility and didn't have any money. Which is why it's a good thing I can make enough to look after our children.

FOR PERRY COMO

We read in FAMILY WEEKLY about your selling your house in Tequesta. Does that mean you are moving away from Florida? —J. R., Santa Ana, Calif.

● No. We are temporarily living in a cottage near Palm Beach but we've also got a lot right on the waterway not far from where we used to live. This is where we plan to build someday. We had considered moving to a different place like Hawaii, but it is too far away from our children and grandchildren.

FOR MUHAMMAD ALI, boxer

What did you think of the two Olympic athletes who didn't stand at attention when our national anthem was played? —W. Hamilton, Utica, N.Y.

● Not much. If they were going to protest, they should have been more positive and done something that might have been remembered and had more impact, instead of just talking to each other as they did.

FOR DYAN CANNON, actress

Is it true that you put on 25 pounds to play a part in your new movie? —M. Wells, Green Bay, Wis.

● I put on 15 pounds because I portray a woman who in real life weighs 180 pounds! At least it wasn't so bad doing it in France with all that good food and away from friends who could see me. But now I'm worrying about taking it off again. Incidentally the name of the movie is "The Last of Sheila."

FOR JULIE ANDREWS, actress

● I drink gallons of fresh water. When I go to Paris or New York I drink bottled water.

FOR JERRY LUCAS, professional basketball player

I've read you have ESP and other strange powers. Can you predict or foresee the final outcome of any of your games? —J. M., Martinsville, Va.

● I don't use ESP to predict how the Knicks or any other team will do. In recent years I have concentrated more on other types of magic. Recently I memorized "The Godfather" and the first 500 pages of the New York City Telephone Directory. I've also launched a syndicated television program for children displaying my magic tricks.

FOR CLEVELAND AMORY,

columnist and president of the Fund for Animals

On a recent late night show you said that you wanted to thank Mary Tyler Moore, who has jeopardized her career for your Fund for Animals. In what way has she jeopardized her career? —D. S., Spencerville, Ohio

● More than any other star I know, Mary Tyler Moore has been willing to speak out, not only on the relatively uncontroversial animal topics, such as care for stray dogs and cats, but also on controversial ones as well. Her work to educate the women of this country not to wear fur—not just endangered fur, but any wild fur, because of the way the animals are trapped—brought her much abuse by people with a vested interest in the business. But she not only took the abuse—she came back for more. Love her? I adore her!

Would Eleanor Have Made a Good President?

"I don't think it would be impossible to find a woman who could be President, but I hope it doesn't happen in the near future." —Eleanor Roosevelt

Would Eleanor Roosevelt have made a good President?

As the author of two best-selling books about Eleanor, the question is the more pertinent to me now that there are women heading governments in Israel, India and Ceylon. Golda Meir, Indira Gandhi and Mrs. Bandaranaike rose to power because they allied skill at party politics with a capacity for governing. Being women, they have had to do a little better than men in order to stay in power. All three, it might be noted, have had to make the harsh decision to use their nation's armed forces. There are no reports that any of them shrank from that decision.

Had Eleanor Roosevelt been alive this year (and of a fitting age), there is little doubt her name would have led the list of women considered as possible nominees. From the twenties on, people thought of her as a political force in her own right and were proposing her for one office or another. In this respect she was different from other First Ladies. Bess Truman and Mamie Eisenhower were private persons who stayed out of the limelight and achieved fulfillment in making the White House as comfortable as possible for their families. Jacqueline Onassis loved the limelight and fashioned her unique place by setting the nation an example of taste and elegance. Lady Bird Johnson, on the other hand, counseled her husband at critical moments in his political career, spoke at numberless meetings and put in many ceremonial appearances. But it was usually as her husband's stand-in, not a participant or activist (except, perhaps, for Head Start and beautification of the countryside). Mrs. Nixon has defined her role as one of making the White House a sanctuary for her husband, where he can escape the cares of office. She is a gracious presence, but not a public force.

Eleanor Roosevelt was probably the only First Lady whom Americans thought of as a possible President. "If you will agree to let her serve your third term," Republican editor William Allen White wrote Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1940. "I shall be for you against all comers. Every time she does anything she reminds me of T. R. [Theodore Roosevelt]." Louis Howe, the gnome-like political wizard who in 1911 married his political fortunes to young Franklin's, saw Eleanor's Presidential possibilities. One day in the mid-thirties he came into Eleanor's sitting room, sat himself down cross-legged on a daybed, and almost bowled the First Lady over by saying, "Eleanor, if you want to be President in 1940, tell me now so I can start getting things ready."

When she got over her laughter and saw that he was serious, she gave him her stock reply to such proposals: One politician in the family was enough, she said. Nor did she think the election of a woman President was as possible as Louis believed. "I don't think it would be impossible to find a woman who could be President, but I hope it doesn't happen in the near future," she said at the time. "I don't think we have yet reached the point where the majority of our people would feel satisfied to follow the leadership and trust the judgment of a woman as President."

Someday it might come to pass, she added, "but I hope it will not be while we speak of a woman's vote." I hope it only becomes a reality when she is elected as an individual because of her capacity and the trust which a majority of the people have in her integrity and ability as a person.

That was said in 1934. Now, almost four decades later, it is not fantastic to speculate that the Democrats might nominate a woman if Eleanor Roosevelt's capacity and integrity, which leads to the $64,000 question: What kind of President would she have made?

She was a good administrator and ran a taut ship. The Women's Division of the Democratic party—under her leadership and that of Molly Dewson—hummed at election time like a beautifully tuned engine, out-organizing and out-campaigning the men and for less money. Eleanor inspired in people a fierce loyalty and willingness to work. And those who served with her had the absolute knowledge that she would never let them down.

She organized her own life with awesome efficiency. "If Eleanor Roosevelt did not hit two birds with every stone," said Molly Dewson admiringly, "she would never get done what she manages to do."

She liked people, enjoyed working with them, and valued people for themselves, not because of their social or economic status. She had the ability to concentrate upon the person at hand and make him feel that what he was saying was the most important thing in the world. Letters were always answered and people were always seen, if they could possibly be squeezed in. She never evaded difficulties. She was the member of the family who did the disciplining, and, if necessary, the firing. She announced the disagreeable news, even if it was politically embarrassing. When FDR, at the close of the 1940 election, yielded to his political advisers and assured mothers and fathers that "your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars," she quietly wrote in her next day's column, "No one can honestly promise you today peace at home or abroad. All any human being can do is to promise that he will do his utmost to prevent this country from being involved in war."

She knew politics, having worked at every level of political organization, from precinct worker transporting voters to the polls on Election Day, to head of the Women's Division in Alfred E. Smith's campaign for the Presidency in 1928. She was familiar with the seamy side of politics as well as the heroic, and understood that the perfect, which was desirable, must not be allowed to stand in the way of the good, which was attainable. Her teachers in politics were two of the greatest masters of the art in American history—her husband and Louis Howe.

A President has to be a tough-minded manager in his relations with a vast bureaucracy, and an astute broker of power in his relations with Congress and the pressure groups that congregate in Washington. Also, in Eleanor's view, he has to be at all times an educator, especially in his relations with the people. During the Roosevelt Administration, it was said that for FDR every press conference was a stage, while for Eleanor it was a classroom in which the country went to school. She supplemented her weekly press conference with lecture tours, radio talks and her daily column, giving Americans the feeling that the White House was concerned with them, and that they had a front-row seat at what was going on in Washington.

And, of course, a President must lead. To lead, he or she must have a point of view, a vision of what he or she wants for every American, for the country, for the world. Eleanor Roosevelt had such a vision. She restated it in the final days of her life. "This I know," she wrote. "This I believe with all my heart. If we want a free and peaceful world, if we want to make the deserts bloom and man to grow to greater dignity as a human being—we can do it!"

You can now command your body to Melt Away Fat

AND LOSE AS MUCH AS YOU WANT WHILE YOU ENJOY EATING AS MUCH AS YOU WANT!

The Famous Superdiet — Dr. Atkins' Diet Revolution reveals in full the recently discovered weight loss secret.

You don't need pills — you don't count calories — you don't even need willpower (because you're never hungry)!

Yet you can lose 10-50-100 pounds or more (6 to 8 the first week!) and keep it off for the rest of your life!

It's truly a Diet Revolution!

For over 50 years we've all been brainwashed into thinking that the only way to lose weight was to cut calories. "It's a hoax!" says Dr. Robert C. Atkins. We all know some lucky person who can "eat like a horse" and never gain a pound — what has she or he got that you haven't got?

Now we know!

It's FMH (the Fat Mobilizing Hormone).

This is a substance that signals your body to start "living off its own fat." It was isolated in pure form only a dozen years ago, and it was just a medical curiosity until Dr. Atkins discovered how to make his body — your body — anybody's body — produce FMH on command!

Listen to his story:

"Only 10 years out of medical school I was already a fat man, 40 pounds overweight, with 3 chins! Yet I have no willpower — even the idea of hunger scares me. I knew I could not follow a low-calorie diet for even a single day." He read about FMH, and by using his own body as a laboratory, discovered that he could command it to make this miracle hormone whenever he wished. The FMH switched his body engine over to a different "fuel" — it started to burn fat. He continued to eat all he wanted. He never felt hungry, and at the end of six weeks, he had lost 28 pounds! And the diet revolution was born.

Why the Diet Revolution works:

Dr. Atkins found a simple test that would tell him when his body engine was burning fat. And 65 employees at AT&T agreed to try it. Every single one lost as much weight as he wanted — yet not a single one was hungry! Then the news got out — and thousands, many of whom were 50-100 pounds overweight, flocked to Dr. Atkins' office for treatment.

Is it any wonder celebrities like Roberta Peters, Buddy Hackett and David Susskind have told the world about the miracles this diet works? Is it any wonder his diet has made news in magazines like Vogue, Town & Country, Cosmopolitan, and Woman's Day?

Read these incredible true stories!

From size 18 to size 8! Beatrice G had been taking diet pills since she was a fat 9-year old! Yet when she came to Dr. Atkins, she still weighed 166 pounds and wore size 18! Now she's size 8 and still losing! "The best part is I know I'll never have to go hungry again!" she says.

Loses 85 pounds in 17 weeks. Herb W weighed 367 pounds at the age of 32. He had tried diet pills and

WHICH OF THESE DIETING MISTAKES DO YOU MAKE?

1. Do you have nothing for breakfast but high protein cereal with skim milk? "WRONG," says Dr. Atkins. "Have two fried eggs and all the bacon you want!"
2. Do you try to get by for lunch with nothing but a piece of lean ground beef with a little ketchup on it? "WRONG," says Dr. Atkins. "Have two cheeseburgers instead."
3. Do you skip lunch entirely and nibble a tiny box of raisins? "WRONG," says Dr. Atkins. "Have some chicken Kiev dripping with melted butter!"
4. When you eat out, do you go off your diet? "No need to," says Dr. Atkins, and tells you how to enjoy Chinese food, French food, Italian food right from the menu.

started and quit Weightwatchers several times. After four months of Dr. Atkins' diet, he had lost 85 pounds — yet he was never hungry. I'm losing, but I'm not on a diet. I'm eating up a storm," he says happily. "It's fantastic!"

Why Dr. Atkins' diet will work for you.

1. Unlike any other diet — you control your own body chemistry to burn off unwanted fat and keep it off. (You're different from everybody else on earth, so Dr. Atkins' simple test, which you make every day, lets you know it's working, and lets you regulate your weight precisely.)
2. Unlike other methods — there are no pills to take, no calories to count, no strenuous exercises, and not a single hunger pang to suffer through! (You'll probably eat better than you ever have — and feel better too — because you can taste while enjoying such luxuries as berries with whipped cream, bacon, cheeseburgers, butter, fried foods, all kinds of meats, poultry and seafood — even asparagus with real hollandaise sauce!)

The Diet Revolution tells you everything you need to know.

Why diet pills are bad news (p. 88)
How to start your body producing (FMH) — the fat mobilizing hormone that flushes out and burns up your excess weight (p. 16)

If you read and follow Dr. Atkins' advice, four beautiful things will happen to you.

1. You will feel free of hunger.
2. You'll feel better ... perhaps better than ever before!
3. You will lose weight the first week, and continue to lose until you reach the weight you want to be! Most

After completing his medical education at the University of Michigan and Cornell Medical School, Dr. Atkins interned, at Strong Memorial Hospital, and served his residency at Columbia University Hospitals, and St. Luke's Hospital. Specializing in Cardiology, he knew that obesity is one of the primary reasons for heart trouble.

TV's MONTY HALL: The Art of Spreading Goodwill

"When was the last time you put your arm around a perfect stranger? Take my advice. Next time you are in someplace like an airport, and someone says something nice to you, try putting your arm around the person, and see how you get a very warm, friendly, human response. Or when someone comes into your office, do the same thing. You'll be amazed at the feeling of goodwill you'll find." This advice comes from TV personality Monty Hall of "Let's Make a Deal," and he feels it extends beyond just the holiday season. "We talk a lot about the need for a feeling of love in the world, but we have to do more about it. With my television program and with all the traveling I do, I meet as many people as any politician does. And I can tell you that people have an X factor for good and a Y factor for bad, and that they can be swayed very easily. But most people want the same thing—peace of mind. I find they'd rather kiss you than kill you. But you have to show the way." —Interview by William Wolf

Puppy in the Christmas Stocking?

If Junior's Christmas stocking wriggles and woofs on Christmas morning, you will want to do everything possible to make the new pet's day happy and safe. A puppy can easily become overtired in the happy bustle of a holiday. Don't fondle him too much. Don't drag him around like a sack. Give him a place of his own out of the traffic; puppies need lots of sleep. Keep him away from small objects he might swallow. Don't feed him Christmas goodies, but stick to his regular Friskies. Provide sanitary facilities like the Sunday newspaper and see that he has easy access to it. The best idea of all: Don't bring him home until the day after Christmas! —By Felicia Ames

Jobmanship

Must You Really Be a Success by 40?

You may have more time ahead of you to pursue success than you think. Many people will tell you that if you haven't "made it" in your work by age 40, you're going to feel discouraged. But Dr. David Gutmann, a clinical psychologist who has been investigating the subject since 1956, reports that psychologically age 40 is not the important age. Dr. Gutmann has worked with Americans and also with other groups around the world. He finds that the age pattern everywhere is the same. It seems that up until about age 55 men are aggressive and self-reliant in regard to their careers. It's at about 55 that the average man stops seeing the world as something he can conquer. It's at 55 he often is willing to adapt to conditions and act in a more careful way. So far, this age pattern for success is only true for men. The idea of careers for women is still so new that it has not yet been possible to discover women's age reaction to job success. —By S. R. Redford

A Special German-Style Cake for the Holidays

KUGELHOPE

- ¾ cup very warm water
- 1 pkg. (13½ oz.) hot-roll mix
- ¼ cup butter, margarine or solid all-vegetable shortening, melted and cooled
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 3 tablespoons fine packaged bread crumbs
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 16 blanched almonds

1. Pour water into medium bowl. Sprinkle in enclosed packet of yeast from mix and stir until dissolved.

2. Stir in butter, sugar, egg and lemon rind; beat well. Dump in hot-roll mix; stir to blend. Beat hard with wooden spoon for 3 minutes.

3. Cover with dish towel. Place in a warm place to rise until double in bulk. Takes about 1 hour.

4. Preheat oven to 350° F. Lightly grease a 2-qt. fancy baking pan or mold. Coat pan with bread crumbs.

5. Stir down dough. Stir in raisins. Place almonds in bottom of prepared baking pan. Spoon dough evenly in pan. Cover with dish towel. Allow to rise again in warm place until doubled in bulk. Takes about 1½ hours.

6. Bake for 55-60 minutes, or until surface is deep golden brown and when rapped with knuckle sounds hollow.

7. Remove from oven and immediately remove from pan. Makes 12-14 slices

If you don't have a mold like the one shown, borrow one from a friend or relative. The cake is worth it.

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a snowy, raisin-filled yeast cake from Germany, called a Kugelhopf.

12 Stars Remember: The Best Christmas Gift I Ever Got

If there's one thing celebrities don't lack, it's gifts. Not only are they used to receiving expensive presents at Christmas, but they receive innumerable awards and keepsakes throughout their careers. FAMILY WEEKLY asked these 12 stars: "What was the one best Christmas gift you ever received?" Here are their answers—proving again the adage that money can't buy everything.

Collected by Peer J. Oppenheimer

LUCILLE BALL

There are a lot of gifts I've received in my lifetime that I value—like precious stones, bracelets, watches, awards, and success, if you can call it that. But one gift stands out: It is a beautifully hand-carved doll bed, table and chair set my grandfather gave me—for Christmas when I was only five. My grandmother had hand-sewn a bedspread to go with it, and all new clothes for my doll. Grandpa was a woodcarver—an art that is almost extinct today. You just don't see beautiful work like that anymore. I treasure that gift more than I do anything else.

DEAN MARTIN

The Christmas gift I remember most is one I got when I was a kid back in Steubenville, Ohio. It wasn't anything special, like a bicycle or a set of trains, because my parents couldn't afford anything like that. We lived in a real poor neighborhood. I remember one Christmas even our landlady got put out.

But when I was about seven my Uncle Leonard gave me a chocolate Santa Claus. I was so proud I showed it to all the kids in the neighborhood. We played with it all day. It finally got so dirty, I had to eat it!

DAVID CASSIDY

Since I was a little kid I have admired my father's golden seal ring with our family crest on it. I figured being the oldest, someday—maybe when he was no longer here—I would inherit it. And, in fact, when I was in my early teens I told my father about it, never thinking I would get it at any time soon. But when I was 20, he had a duplicate made and gave it to me for Christmas. That meant more to me than anything I have ever received, from anybody, on any occasion.

PERRY COMO

This Christmas will have to eclipse any other for gifts, because for the first time since my children got married and had children of their own, they are all coming to join Roselle and me in Florida for the holidays! There will be Roselle and myself, our three children and their spouses, and eight grandchildren. Sixteen of us! To me, that's the most beautiful gift of all.

SANDY DUNCAN

My favorite Christmas present was a set of Madam Alexander "Little Women" dolls that I got because my uncle was Santa Claus. No kidding, he really was! Only I didn't find out until the following year, when I was ten, that the jolly fat man in the red suit and white beard to whom I'd been telling all my Christmas wishes for two years, was really my uncle! I guess I was a bit naive. But it was very nice.

MARY TYLER MOORE

I don't know how many people ever got a whole house for Christmas, but I did. Or we did. My husband [Grant Tinker] gave it to me and I gave it to him and we gave it to each other. We'd planned to build our new home on the beach at Malibu for our tenth anniversary, but it wasn't finished until Christmas. It was a unique mutual gift—and isn't that what Christmas giving is all about?

JOHN WAYNE

I guess my favorite Christmas present was the bicycle I got when I was a kid. I'll never forget it. I was seven years old. Little did I know that that bicycle would force me into child labor—starting a paper route, running errands, that sort of thing. But when I first saw it under the tree—all shiny and new man, was that a great bike!

GEORGE C. SCOTT

Christmas is for children. Since I grew up during the Depression, we never had much in the way of presents. None that left a lasting impression. So to me the Christmas gift I enjoyed most is not one that I received, but one I gave—a pony to my second son, Alexander. We lived on a 33-acre farm in Westchester County, N.Y., at the time, and he was ecstatic when he found the pony tied to the front porch on Christmas Day. I think that's a moment that I'll cherish forever.

ROBERT YOUNG

My favorite Christmas gift by far is the head of St. Francis of Assisi that my wife Betty sculpted and presented to me. Betty is an excellent and a trained artist. The sculpture is particularly dear to me because it is the only work of art in that medium that Betty has produced. It was so special that I had copies struck in bronze. In turn, I presented those to each of our daughters.

LIZA MINNELLI

On Christmas Eve four years ago I was appearing at the El San Juan Hotel in Puerto Rico. That night I found a little sick mongrel dog. He was so homely, you couldn't help but love him. I took him home and nursed him, but he didn't seem to respond to my care. I was very upset. Christmas morning I awoke and went to see how he was, dreading the worst. Much to my surprise, he greeted me with a wet kiss—and I knew he was going to get well! I named him Ocho and he's been with me ever since, traveling around the world. He's the most wonderful present I ever had!

BOB HOPE

I have two "most enjoyable" Christmas presents. The first was the song my daughter Linda played for me when I walked into the living room one Christmas morning. She was ten years old then, and the song was "Thanks for the Memory." The other present was given to me last year in Vietnam. After I did my Christmas show, a young GI rushed up and handed me a cigarette lighter. "I wanted to give you something," he told me. "I have nothing else of any value. I hope you like it." I think it was the first time in my life that I was absolutely speechless.

SHIRLEY JONES

I always had lovely Christmases and got lots of beautiful gifts. But the one thing that bowled me over was an almost-life-size Santa Claus doll I got as a child from my folks. I remember coming into the room—seeing it—and actually fainting! I have no idea why I was so taken with that doll, but for some reason, Santa Claus was IT. I kept it on my bed for ages. Funny, now I can't remember what became of it.

A Special Report

For Tots: A New Toy to Make Spelling Fun

In a New York City apartment not long ago, a five-year-old girl placed some three-dimensional letters on an orange ramp and watched them "walk" by themselves down the incline. She then took a rectangular piece of plastic, pushed it slowly into a slot and jumped with glee as a bird, holding a sign with the message "O.K.," popped up from its hiding place. "I knew I could spell cat!" she said.

Meanwhile, the girl's three-year-old sister sat nearby, oblivious to all the excitement. She held another three-dimensional letter in her tiny hands and kept saying with conviction, "This is the letter P."

Both girls were playing with one of the most remarkable teaching-toy machines to enter the preschool market. The toy is Big Bird's Blunderproof Walking Letters Set. It combines the principles of a basic computer with the entertainment value long associated only with non-educational toys.

The Walking Letters Set is the result of a joint effort between Educational Toys, Inc., a division of Topper Corp., and the Children's Television Workshop, producers of the Sesame Street and Electric Company television series. Here's how it works:

The set comes with seven three-dimensional letters and 12 plastic word keys. The child looks at the picture on a word key, decides how to spell the illustrated word (all words are three letters), and places the letters he's chosen at the top of the orange ramp. A little tap from the child, and the letters, each with four little feet, begin their comic walk down to the bottom. All this is done without batteries or motors.

If, for example, the child is spelling the word MOP, he would wait until his letters have reached their destination, then take his word key with the picture of a mop and push it down into the slot at the bottom of the ramp. If he has chosen the letters M-O-P and sent them down the ramp in that order, Big Bird will pop up with a squeal when the word key for MOP has been inserted. If, however, the child misspells the word, Big Bird refuses to make an appearance. Rather, those letters that are incorrect topple over. Suppose the child spelled MOP with the letters M-O-T. When he inserts his word key, the letter T will fall over, telling him immediately that he has made a mistake and letting him know in which part of the word he has made it.

Chris Cerf, editor in chief of the Workshop's non-broadcast materials division, says that the Walking Letters Set, like other non-broadcast products, is created with the same philosophy as the Sesame Street and Electric Company television shows. "The idea behind the television shows is to educate children; yes—but without boring them to death. Our non-broadcast products are researched by the same people who research the television series, and they have the same combination of educational and entertainment value."

There is one melancholy note about this toy that can't be glossed over. At the Topper factory in New Jersey, each letter must run the gauntlet of survival. After the letters come off the production line, they are put on a ramp. Sad to say, those letters that can't walk down into their boxes on their own initiative are heartlessly yanked off the ramp by the director of quality control and consigned forever to the garbage heap of unwanted letters.

MINK OIL AND BEAUTY!

by Billie Ann Bender

You'd never guess my age if you met me in person... My friends tell me that my complexion is so fresh and youthful looking. But that hasn't always been the case. In the last few years I had been faced with the problem of wrinkles. You see, changes in climatic conditions, temperature, humidity—the use of soaps and detergents—are often the leading causes of excessive dry skin which is accompanied by these premature wrinkles and lines... these tell-tale danger signs most women abhor. Every time I'd look in a mirror I could see evidence of dryness and those tiny lines where wrinkles are almost certain to follow.

By accident, an astonishing beauty secret was revealed to me.

This is my story:

My husband owned and managed a mink farm where we lived. During the coffee breaks I often noticed the men who handled raw mink pelts had hands with a youthful appearance. Some of them had been with him 25 years or more. A great many were approaching retirement. Yet there was hardly a one of them whose hands were not soft, smooth and unwrinkled. I came to the conclusion that there must be some substance in the body or the skin of the mink that was beneficial to their hands... nothing else could account for their skin staying so youthful looking while they grew older.

I decided if it was so good for the hands, then it must be equally good for the face and throat... areas where most women first note the resented signs of the years.

So I asked my husband if he could extract some of the oil from the mink. Well, he and a chemist friend managed to do just that. The cost was fantastic but, they compounded the oil with a pure balm base and I used it on my face and throat for a couple of weeks. I began to see a decided improvement. My skin became smoother, fresher with a more dewy look. The dryness was replaced by a moist, vibrant, youthful looking quality and with that freshness every woman longs for. In just a few weeks I believed I had really uncovered a seeming miracle. Before I knew it, my friends and relatives insisted on a supply for themselves. You guessed it... the results were equally amazing!

So I am surprised to find myself in the beauty business offering my precious complexion aid to women for the first time.

Yes, the secret discovered from the mink workers is now yours. The precious natural mink oil that keeps their skin youthful-looking is the basic wonder worker in my fabulous beauty aid. You can find out for yourself how amazingly effective it is. And you don't risk a single penny for the revelation that cost me so much to uncover.

For... the fantastic results that my friends and I have enjoyed must be duplicated for you or I'll gladly refund your money. I am so positive Mink Oil will work for you as it has for thousands of other grateful women, young and old, that if you are not totally delighted all you have to do is tell me so and... no questions asked... I'll send you my personal check for your purchase price including postage.

Order your supply of Mink Oil today and you'll be in for the surprise of your life!

LARRY BROWN: The Only Player Whose Helmet Is "Wired for Sound"

Larry Brown, running-back for the Washington Redskins, is the only player in pro football permitted to have an electronic listening device in his helmet. The purpose of Brown's "bug" is not to eavesdrop on the opposition, but to enable him to hear his quarterback's signals. Brown was born with defective hearing in one ear but kept his secret throughout his school years in his native Pittsburgh. ... Brown played JV football at Dodge City Junior College, Kan., then transferred to Kansas City. Small as modern football players go (5'11" and 193 lbs.), he was used primarily as a blocking back. "But I love to run, and it killed me not to have the chance," he says. ... He was picked on the eighth round of the pro draft by the Washington Redskins and showed so much fierce determination in his play that the late coach Vince Lombardi decided to keep him over earlier draft selections. ... It was Lombardi who noticed that Brown had one weakness—he was slow getting started after the ball was snapped from center. "Do you have trouble with your vision?" he asked Brown. Brown insisted he didn't, so Lombardi kept running films of backfield play over and over again until he determined that Brown's weakness was a hearing problem. Once the coach confronted him with this discovery, Brown admitted to the handicap. "Don't worry, I won't drop you from the team," Lombardi assured him. "I'll get permission to put a special device in your helmet." ... Once wired for sound, Brown showed tremendous speed on offensive plays and was given more and more running assignments. He won an NFL ground-gaining title one season, and, in his fourth year of pro play, has broken his club's running records. ... Brown is one of the hardest-working backs in pro ball. He stays on for extra practice sessions and is stoical about the many injuries he's picked up. He is a crusader against drug abuse and has appeared on many TV and radio programs to warn youngsters of the dangers of narcotics.

People and You

Archie Bunker, Politics And Your Family

When Archie Bunker argues politics with daughter Gloria, it's fun to watch. But it would be a mistake to believe American parents and children often see things from such opposite viewpoints. It all depends on how important politics are to a family. If a family doesn't discuss the subject often enough for the children to know what their parents think, then it's true parents and children may develop very different political ideas. However, if you have the kind of family that has an active interest in politics, things usually turn out more harmoniously. Families with an active interest in politics were surveyed recently. The families were asked about emotional subjects like bombing of North Vietnam, student protests, socialized medicine, U.S. participation in the United Nations. In these families there were few Archie Bunker vs. Gloria disagreements. Whether parents were conservative or liberal didn't matter. The politically interested parents and their college-age children reported a remarkable 75 percent agreement in their answers to the politically explosive questionnaire.

Now You Can Step Out

top it with a cuffed cardigan wrap in a richly colored Qiana jersey, add your favorite pendant and you have an evening look to reckon with. By Jon Haggins for Stella Fagin, a division of Elita.
Savoy Co.

This week, Women's Editor Rosalyn Abrevaya reports on a clever new shopping discovery that will not only add variety to your wardrobe, but will save you money, too!

Face it: The dress you buy for a holiday or big event isn't usually one you want friends seeing you in again and again.
(That's true even when you find one you like and can afford, which in itself can be harder than throwing a party for 50 people.) So that dress shouldn't cost a lot.

Solution? The news that loungewear is going public these days.
When you zero in on any hostess-gown department you will see a number of outfits that can and will spirit you to that Christmas or New Year's party with style and flair.

The crowning delight: You'll spend less than if you bought a similar outfit in ready-to-wear.

What accounts for this happy
state of affairs? Simple:

- Today's big trend toward soft, casual tailoring.
- The fact that loungewear designers have access to the same luxurious, easy-care fabrics that are used in traditional clothing. (This makes it easy for them to create styles that can stay at home and go out on the town.)

in Loungewear

A sharply etched print halter dress is shaped into a backless gown, fastened ingeniously with spaghetti ties. It's fashioned of Qiana, a fiber that gives the look and feel of silk (but is washable). Designed by Jon Haggins for Stella Fagin.

Man-tailoring played against wide-flowing pants keynotes this lounging jacket with matching palazzo pants. Add an ascot and a jeweled belt, and who would guess where you bought this outfit? Designed by Patti Cappalli for Saybury in Qiana nylon. His jacket and trousers by After Six, Inc. His shirt-button covers by Anson.

What do you need before you can comfortably bypass the ready-to-wear department and head straight for lounge-wear? (1) A certain sense of adventure. It takes a little courage to flout the accepted way of buying clothes. (But the reward is that you secretly feel so clever!) (2) Preparedness. Take your favorite pearls or jeweled belt along and do a "try-on" right in the dressing room. (3) Imagination (a woman we know bought a long paisley cotton half-slip, wore her regular taffeta slip under it to eliminate any see-through, added a satin shirt and belt and stepped out in an elegant "skirt").

The best part is that today's loungewear looks are up to the minute—like:

- The fashionable caftan in a swirling print.
- The haberdasher look of smoking jacket and palazzo pants.
- The fluid elegance of long dress with coat, or:
- The body-flattering halter-neck silhouette.

COVER: Print caftan, with Oriental print, flows from a non-cling, sweeping bias-cut fullness. In soft, non-cling Antron III nylon. A Stella Fagin design.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

Doctors' Tests Show How You Can Actually Help Shrink Swelling of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

... Due to Inflammation and Infection. Also Get Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases from Rectal Itching and Pain in Such Tissues.

When inflammation, infection and swelling exist in hemorrhoidal tissues—it can be very painful for the sufferer. But there's an exclusive formulation which in many cases gives hours of relief from the burning itch and pain in hemorrhoidal tissues. It also helps shrink the swelling of such tissues. Sufferers are delighted at the way it acts so gently and is so soothing to sensitive tissues.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients reported similar successful results in many cases. And it was all done without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or stinging, smarting astringents of any kind.

You can obtain this same medication used in these tests at any drug counter. Its name is Preparation H. Preparation H also lubricates to protect the inflamed, irritated surface area to help make bowel movements more comfortable. Be sure you try Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

Why haven't you gotten the message?

There were a lot of people ready for Vantage when we were ready with Vantage. And you wouldn't believe how quickly they began buying them up.

Apparently, many smokers were concerned about 'tar' and nicotine and wanted to smoke a cigarette that reduced 'tar' and nicotine without reducing flavor.

And that's the idea behind Vantage Filter. It gives you the flavor of a full-flavor cigarette. Without anywhere near the 'tar' and nicotine. And it does that better than any other cigarette on the market.

With one exception. Vantage Menthol.

But the problem with Vantage Menthol is that a lot of smokers don't even know that there is a Vantage Menthol.

And there we failed.

In our effort to let smokers know about Vantage, we allowed our menthol to play second fiddle.

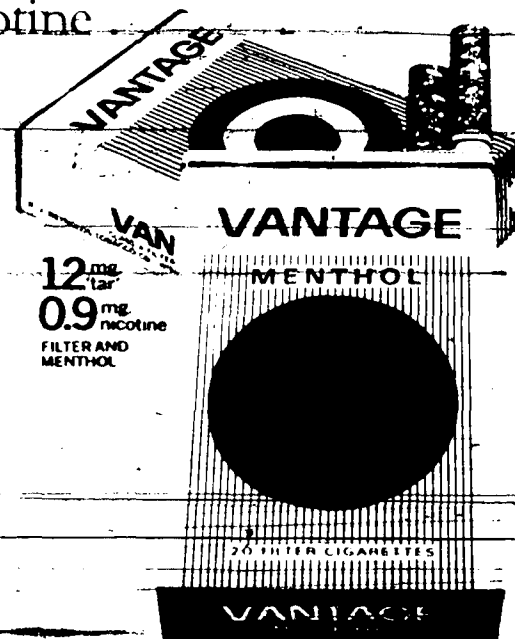

Vantage Menthol has the cool fresh taste all menthol smokers go for, and at the same time reduces 'tar' to 12 milligrams and nicotine to 0.9 milligrams.

Now we don't want to fool you. You will find a few menthol brands with lower numbers, but you won't find one that you'll enjoy smoking as much.

So, menthol smokers, if we've failed to let you know of our existence, here goes.

Vantage Menthol is here.

If you're ready for us, we're ready for you.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Filter and Menthol: 12 mg. "tar", 0.9 mg. nicotine - av. per cigarette, FTC Report Aug. 72.

What in the World!

JOAN BAEZ

Her mother remembers

How can childhood trauma leave its mark? Recently, writer Linda Myers talked with Mrs. Albert Baez, mother of Joan Baez, about her daughter's childhood. Mrs. Baez recalled the following incident: "In Palo Alto, Calif., where we lived," said Mrs. Baez, "all the white people lived on one side of town, and all the dark people on the other. We lived with the Mexicans. I was born in Scotland, but Joan's father was Mexican, and Joanie looked more Mexican than her two sisters. . . . One day, when Joanie was in junior high, all the girls were combing their hair, and everyone was taking turns with the same comb. When Joan asked if she could use it, one of the girls told her no, because she was a 'dirty Mexican.' We had long talks about that. She'd come home crying because of the names kids called her. Joanie never really understood why some people were treated differently."

Casey Stengel talking: "I told Mantle one time how I used to do something when I was a ballplayer. He looked at me like I was 'crazy or something and asked me if I played. I said, 'What did you think, I was born here on the bench an old-man manager?' . . . I guess I know about managing. What is it but telling the umpire who's going to play and then watching 'em play? Sure, you got things to do. You been around like I been around, you know what to do. Then best thing to do is have players who can hit right-handed and left-handed and hit further one way except sometimes hit further the other way and run like the wind like what'sis name [Mickey Mantle]. With him and that little Yogi Bear behind the plate, and that little left-hander on the mound [Whitey Ford], managing was fun, a breeze I tell you, like lying in the old sun." From "The Coaches," by Bill Libby (Regnery, $7.95).

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT "Blind" father sees his son

What's it like to see for the first time? Matthew Love, 43, knows. Blind from birth, he'd never seen his wife and five children—or himself. After a corneal graft in a Glasgow hospital, he spent five anxious weeks with eyes bandaged, wondering if the operation was a success. Finally the bandages came off. "Nice to see you," he managed to say to his family, "It's been a long, long time."

The Pageant to select the 1978 All-American Family—as announced in FAMILY WEEKLY—has been postponed, but new Pageant plans are in the making. The political conventions made it impossible to hold the Pageant as scheduled in Miami Beach. The search for the family representing the best in American tradition is conducted by All-American Inc., in association with

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY By Richard Armour

BEYOND RECALL

I wish, when I recall the past,
At some of which I am aghast,
I could recall it in the way
Cars are recalled now every day.
I'd take back my defective deeds, Replace some parts, supply some needs.
I'd take back words that I've misspoken
And promises too lightly broken.
"I can recall," I oft remark,
But there would be no place to park
All I'd recall of not-so-good
If I, the maker, really could

My mother was ill and confined to her bed. She had several friends visiting her in her bedroom. My son, George, who was then five, came into the bedroom with a box of chocolates which he passed around to all persons in the room. Everyone refused to take one. In reaching for the box, I saw why. "George!" I said. "Why on earth have you taken bites out of all this candy?" Quick as a wink, he replied: "So you can all see what's inside and pick out the kind you like."
