

Hold Gem tax line, Andrus asks solons

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus urged the 42nd Idaho Legislature today to stand firm against tax increases, establish clear-cut priorities and make 1973 "The Year of the Taxpayer."

In a "State of the State" address prepared for delivery to a joint session in the House this afternoon, Andrus acknowledged "the situation today is not as we would like it."

"Ambitions for new or greatly enlarged state services cannot be entertained unless we are prepared to pay additional taxes," he said. "But, in this, the year of the taxpayer, I urge you not to foster any expectations for a tax increase."

He warned that the pressure of the fiscal dilemma must not preclude consideration of new ideas nor divert enactment of responsible proposals that are possible within existing revenues.

"If, in the course of our deliberations, this should mean establishing clear-cut priorities for people and people programs at the expense of other, less important programs, then, so be it," he said.

In his 28-page address, Andrus also

Asked the legislature to end "bureaucratic back-passing" by merging the departments of Environmental Protection and Health (DEPH) and Social and Rehabilitation Services (SRS) and transfer the Youth Training Center to the new agency.

Recommended creation of a bi-partisan legislative committee to begin the constitutionally-required task of executive department reorganization.

Urged that federal revenuesharing funds which will come to Idaho on a regular, quarterly basis be spent on "the number one people program" — education.

(Related stories, p. 3, p. 11)

Recommended nonrecurring federal revenue sharing monies be used for building construction and capital outlay.

Called for reorganization of school district administration to "release more funds for improvement in the quality of instruction."

Proposed state-supported kindergartens.

Promised a major property tax reduction plan when he delivers his budget message Friday afternoon.

Disclosed plans to put 500 welfare recipients to work for their checks, serving as public service aides for SRS and other state agencies. Called for strengthening the state's environmental enforcement powers to block federal encroachment in this area.

Asked for laws to require certification of persons operating waste water treatment plants.

Urged the legislature to return to biennial budgeting, providing only for budget review in the second session of each legislature.

Asked for a crack down on pornography in Idaho by enactment of a new law drafted by the attorney general.

Urged consideration of statewide land use planning, saying the state planning and community affairs agency soon will have a proposal in this area.

Suggested the new state office building be named after Len B. Jordan, a retired U.S. Senator and a former Idaho governor.

Said highway construction will remain a priority of his administration, especially north-south highways.

Andrus told the legislature that Idaho's economy is good and has improved at a rate higher than states throughout the nation.

"The expanding economy assures that revenues will be more plentiful in the coming fiscal year without a tax increase," Andrus said. "In addition, we will benefit from federal revenue sharing."

GI's battle DaNang holocaust

Vast DaNang air base blasted by US bombs

SAIGON (UPI) — Five American fighter-bombers from the Air Force, Navy and Marines today mistakenly bombed the sprawling Da Nang Air Base in what military sources said was an apparent navigational error.

Nine Americans and a Vietnamese military guard were injured. A UH1 Huey helicopter was damaged and three fuel storage tanks set afire.

A total of 34 big 500-pound bombs were dropped by an Air Force F4 Phantom, two Navy A7 Corsairs and two Marine F4 Phantoms. All apparently landed in the northwest portion of the huge joint U.S.-South Vietnamese base.

UPI correspondent Kenneth F. Engle, who was on the base at the time of the accidental bombing, said two American soldiers, two American civilians and the South Vietnamese guard were injured by the bombs. Four American airmen and another U.S. civilian were injured while fleeing for cover from what was at first believed to be a Communist rocket attack.

The U.S. command began an immediate investigation. Military sources said the Air Force, which operates the base housing 4,000 American servicemen, would be in charge of the probe. "The Navy and Marines will be in on it, since they had planes involved," a source said.

The air war over North Vietnam entered its 10th month with 124 fighter-bombers and about 45 B52s hitting below the country's 20th Parallel in the 24 hours ending at dawn today. U.S. command spokesmen said "numerous" trucks were destroyed near the port of Vinh, 137 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and "several" others were hit near Dong Hoa, 38 miles north of the DMZ.

At least one of the bombs that fell on the Da Nang facility hit a huge petroleum storage tank, touching off an explosion that spread fires to two other nearby tanks, military sources reported.

The erroneous bombing touched off rumors the base had been attacked by Soviet-built MIG jets from North Vietnam, whose nearest frontier is 100 miles away. But none of Hanoi's MIGs have ever been known to attack anywhere in South Vietnam.

Jerome lad dies in crash

KING HILL, Idaho State Police Sunday identified the victim of a car-truck collision near here as Fred G. (Tony) Williams, 18, Jerome.

The head-on collision occurred about 6 p.m. Saturday about five miles east on U.S. Highway 30. Two Nysa, Ore. men riding in the truck were injured.

Williams, a senior and an athlete at Jerome High School, was riding alone in his westbound car. State police did not identify the victim of the wreck Saturday evening, pending confirmation of identity and notification of next of kin.

Investigating officers said Williams' auto apparently swerved into the path of the truck and semi-trailer driven by George T. Key Jr., 43, Nysa. Key and his assistant driver, Earl Barton, 37, Nysa, were taken to a Mountain Home hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

Mr. Jones operated ranches in Carnas, Gooding and Custer counties. He was named to the South Idaho Livestock Hall of Fame in 1971.

Born in South Wales in 1886, he came to the United States in 1903 from Great Britain, working in north-Idaho mines until contracting an illness. He came to the Hagerman area, where an uncle owned a ranch, in 1906, and became interested in the sheep business.

Henry, Tho meet

PARIS (UPI) — Grim faced and studiously avoiding each other in public, U.S. presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho opened a new round of Vietnam peace talks today with a four-and-a-half-hour meeting. They agreed to meet again Tuesday.

A North Vietnamese spokesman said Tuesday's meeting would start at 10:45 a.m. (2 a.m. MST) at a location of the Americans' choice.

Contrary to past practice, there were no public handshakes either before or after today's session, the first of the 23rd round of talks.

Neither side greeted nor waved the other off as they did before the last talks broke down last month and President Nixon ordered the bombing of Hanoi.

The delegations arrived and left separately, "unsmiling." At no time were the two sides seen together. The atmosphere was the coldest newsmen had seen since Kissinger and Tho started meeting regularly in Paris last October. When Kissinger left the villa where the talks took place he did not as usual wave.

Police, 'copters blast at snipers

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Helicopter gunships and police sharpshooters traded gunfire with two black snipers atop a downtown hotel today. Seven persons were killed during a night and day of bloody fighting. Police were so edgy that they reported a sniper opened fire about six blocks from the hotel, striking a woman in the street. But later, police said she simply slipped and fell to the pavement. Officers and an armored car were rushed to the scene but there was no new sniper fire there, they said.

There was another report by the city's police radio that a black man was seen running with a rifle on a nearby street. But that, too, proved false. The helicopters and police marksmen fired dullets, armor-piercing shells and tear gas at the two black snipers atop the 18-floor Howard Johnson Hotel. They had killed six persons, including three policemen, and wounded 15 other persons, during the siege that started Sunday morning.

"We are fairly well convinced that they are willing to die to carry out this mission," said Carol Gorman, a police spokesman.

Helicopter gunships and police sharpshooters fired bullets, armor-piercing shells and tear gas at two black snipers atop the hotel. They had killed 7 persons and wounded 15 others in a night and day of bloody fighting.

"We only want to kill whites," the snipers had told a black maid at the start of the violence.

The terrorists on the hotel roof were holed up in two concrete structures housing air conditioning and elevator machinery. For six hours after dawn they did not fire at police from their fortress-like concrete shelters.

Viet settlement not likely

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two points on which negotiators trying to end the Vietnam war remain far apart apparently will make it extremely difficult to achieve a settlement during the new round of talks opening today in Paris.

Neither side held out much promise for an early breakthrough toward peace as Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's negotiator, and North Vietnamese politburo member Le Duc Tho renewed their deliberations.

The chief issues dividing the negotiators apparently were these:

Is there one Vietnam or two?
How should a Vietnam accord be policed?
North Vietnam contends there is only one Vietnam and that the demilitarized zone that divides the North and South is only temporary. But the United States wants some reference in the text of an accord that two Vietnams exist, should live in peace and should settle their differences through negotiations.

The position of South Vietnam is even harder. Saigon wants the demilitarized zone recognized as a frontier between north and south and all of Hanoi's troops — estimated at anywhere from 145,000 to 300,000 — removed from South Vietnamese territory.

Hanoi and Washington also remain far apart on the machinery to police an agreement. The United States wants a four-power observer force composed of 5,000 officers and men contributed by Canada, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland.

North Vietnam appears to want only a token observer force of 250 men. Neither side has given substantial hints of willingness to change its positions.

Kissinger, who said Oct. 28 that peace was "at hand," left for Paris Sunday after a final conference with Nixon. Kissinger said only that "I'll do my best."

Nixon was described as neither optimistic nor pessimistic about prospects for reaching a settlement.

Pun week fete leads to cracks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today marks the start of "Save the Pun" week. Anybody who thinks fun isn't punny has no sense of humor.

However, some of us began suffering even last week. This was on New Year's Day at the bar when a drunk announced he was drinking a "Charles Dickens." He had an unembellished martini before him.

Half an hour later he demanded if we weren't going to ask why it was so named.

"No olive or twist," he shouted.

Thus goaded, a man on our left — a usually respectable gentleman — told us, in the spirit of the season, that he knew a golfer who hit a ball into the rough and a bird flew up and the golfer exclaimed: "This is the first time I ever saw a partridge in a par three."

A half-hearted search has failed to turn up the malefactor who started "Save the Pun" week or what they're trying to save it from. Certainly not from extinction. The world has always been and will continue to suffer from paronomasia. That's a synonym for pun. Now you know.

This country was founded on a pun, which has continued to be the greatest ever perpetrated in America. That was at the signing of the Declaration of Independence when Benjamin Franklin said: "Gentlemen, we must all hang together or assuredly we will all hang separately."

It had to wait until the 1930s for Robert Benchley at a Hollywood pool to say, "I've got to get out of this wet suit and into a dry martini." Or for George Kaufman to declare his ethnological frailty: "One man's Mide is another man's Persian."

Paronomasiacs Bennett Cerf bet Henry Morgan that he couldn't make a pun out of the last name of the Russian composer Shostakovich.

"Shostakovich smell by a waterfall," replied Henry.

In a somewhat more turgid mood, Morgan once gave a weather report on the radio: "Muggy—followed by Tuggy, Wuggy, Thurggy, and..."

Also in the 1950s, the so-called "African king," Paronomastic syndrome spread. One of these concerns an African king who gave a party in his thatched dwelling.

To make room, he put his big chair up in a makeshift attic.

The dancing at the party got so intense that the chair was shaken loose and tumbled down, bowling over a couple of courtiers and narrowly missing the king, which proves that people who live in grass houses shouldn't stow thrones.

BOISE (UPI) — Highlights of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' "state of the state" address to the legislature:

"The situation today is not as we would like it. Ambitions for new or greatly enlarged state services cannot be entertained unless we are prepared to pay additional taxes. But, in this, the year of the taxpayer, I urge you not to foster any expectations for a tax increase.

"Although hindered by a sluggish national trend, economic conditions in Idaho have improved at a faster higher than sister states throughout the land. I can report to you today that the state of the economy is good.

"The expanding economy assures that revenues will be more plentiful in the coming fiscal year without a tax increase.

"We have increased the state's appropriation for the operation of our public schools, but we are still short of acceptable participation. This year our number one priority must be financial support for public schools, coupled with property tax relief at the local level.

"As our water resources are developed, we have made clear they will be developed for Idaho residents, for the farmers, sportsmen and recreation enthusiasts of this great state. I pledge to continue our fight to prevent Idaho from becoming the watershed of the Southwest.

"North-South highways are our most pressing transportation needs. Disbelievers need only travel between Idaho Falls and West Yellowstone or between Boise and Coeur d'Alene to be convinced.

"A major achievement in 1972 was passage of the government reorganization amendment toward the fulfillment of this overwhelming mandate of the people. I propose the creation of a 12-member bipartisan legislative committee.

"The time is at hand to reorganize our present system of school administrations. Too often increased funds find themselves paying for new administrative techniques and personnel, with the result being too few dollars finding their way into classrooms and programs for our children. If state government is to embark on a period of reorganization, so too can education.

"Kindergartens are a reality in Idaho's public schools as a result of my decision to use a federally-funded program to supply 102 teachers for kindergarten classrooms throughout the state. The federal program expires on Aug. 31, 1973 and we now need permanent procedures for those districts desiring to continue instruction for pre-schoolers.

"We must legislate an end to bureaucratic buck-passing. Before we fund Idaho's governmental altarpieces, we must trim the highly paid administrators in Boise and put the talent where the people are. To achieve this end I propose a consolidation of two major people-oriented agencies—the Department of Environmental Protection and Health, and Social and Rehabilitation Services. I am recommending transfer of the administrative responsibility for the youth training center from the board of education to the newly consolidated agency.

"In keeping with our philosophy that those who can should work for their welfare checks, beginning this month 500 welfare recipients will be called upon to earn their assistance checks.

"There remains a pressing need to strengthen the state's environmental enforcement powers. To do otherwise is to forego state and local responsibility to the insensitivity of the federal bureaucracy.

"I recommend now that you return to biennial budgeting.

"Idaho's present obscenity laws are described as ineffective, unconstitutional, unenforceable. I recommend passage of (A) new pornography statute

Andrus praises Jordan service

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, a Democrat, paid a special tribute today to a Republican predecessor who just retired as a United States Senator.

With Len B. Jordan, Governor of Idaho from 1951-55 and senator from Idaho from 1962-1972, in the gallery, Andrus proposed the new state office building be named after him.

"Senator Len B. Jordan is a man of wisdom and courage, a man who exemplifies the best there is in Idaho," Andrus said, in remarks prepared for delivery to a joint session of the legislature.

"As a senator, and before that, as governor, Len Jordan placed principle before politics, the people before himself.

"Priding himself on his knowledge of water, Senator Jordan worked successfully to both irrigate our croplands and preserve our wilderness streams," Andrus said.

"State and nation have benefited from his service. He is a man of integrity—a man of his word.

"In tribute to Senator Jordan, the man and the leader, I propose that the state office building, in the shadow of the capitol, be formally designated the Len B. Jordan Office Building. Legislation will be offered for your approval."

Government cost rise said halved

BOISE (UPI) — Increases in the cost of government have been cut in half since the 1965-67 biennium, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told the 42nd Idaho Legislature today.

Andrus, in an address prepared for an afternoon joint session, said appropriations for the two-year period which ends next June 30 are up only 16.6 per cent from the previous biennium.

"In the two-year period which ended June 30, 1967, the increase in general fund expenditures over the preceding biennium was 32.7 per cent," Andrus said.

"In the following two-year period, the gain was 27.1 per cent and in the period which ended June 30, 1971, the increase was 22.5 per cent."

Andrus told the lawmakers the expanding economy assures that revenues will be more plentiful in the coming fiscal year with a tax increase and reminded them he is pledged to fight any tax increase.

Gem regroup panel sought

BOISE (UPI) — Creation of a 12-member, bipartisan legislative committee was proposed by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus today to begin the constitutionally mandated reorganization of the executive branch of state government.

Andrus further proposed in a speech prepared for delivery to a joint session that the committee be authorized to employ a staff with the single responsibility of studying, planning and drafting legislation under committee guidance.

"Reorganization is not an easy task, nor is it something that can be done by an existing agency on a part-time basis," he said.

"If the reorganization plan is to be acceptable, it must be developed by a boldly independent and competently staffed unit with the ability to avoid the pressures certain to develop from various interests.

"I urge that every effort be extended to seek out and listen to the comments, ideas and suggestions of all who wish to contribute to this effort," he said.

A constitutional amendment ratified by the electorate last November requires the executive branch be whittled down to no more than 20 agencies by Jan. 1, 1975.

"What we accomplish toward this end will have a lasting impact on Idaho's future," Andrus said.

"Long after our stewardship as leaders is but the passing mention of historians, our reorganization will continue to influence the actions of governors, legislators, state employees and citizens, he said.

"Do what you must, but do it with wisdom, courage and foresight."

Buhl company sued over trout losses

TWIN FALLS — Four suits have been filed in Fifth Judicial District Court seeking payments and damages from Fuller Farm and Home Supply, Inc., Buhl, and C. Bruce Fuller, president of Fuller Farm.

American Hardware Mutual is plaintiff in one suit. The insurance company is seeking $6,378.70 plus costs in the action, alleging that Fuller Farm and C. Bruce Fuller defrauded the firm by deliberately wrecking a truck and trailer near Oregon, Mo., last July.

In the suit, Fuller also allegedly obtained extra insurance on the truck and trailer in question just prior to the time the unit was wrecked in Missouri.

The same allegations are made in a suit filed against Fuller Farm and C. Bruce Fuller by Thousand Springs Trout Farms, Inc., Buhl, one of four trout producers and processors who allegedly had trout in the Fuller truck when it overturned.

Thousand Springs is seeking $11,292 in damages for trout lost as a result of the alleged deliberate dumping.

In a third and less related suit, Georgia-Pacific Corp. has filed a claim seeking $1,355.68 plus interest for goods and services furnished to Fuller Farm as of May, 1972.

In a fourth suit, Northwestern Steel & Wire has filed a claim against C. Bruce Fuller and Fuller Farm for $3,555.84 for goods and wares furnished plus interest of $213.35.

Andrus, in an address prepared for delivery to the legislature, said the federal dollars committed to kindergartens provided pre-school education for more than 8,000 five-year-olds.

"He said he will propose funding for state-supported kindergartens when he delivers his budget message to the lawmakers Friday.

Spud suit filed

TWIN FALLS — Demy R. Hogue and Robert McBride have filed suit in Fifth District Court seeking over $32,000 in net damages from J. R. Simplot and J. R. Simplot Co.

Hogue and McBride allege in the suit that in the spring of 1971 the Simplot company agreed to purchase a crop of seed potatoes from them and that the potatoes were delivered as to the contract but Simplot refused to pay.

The plaintiffs contend the net amount contracted for, delivery to cellar by them was 1.45 million pounds at the market price of $2.50 per hundred pounds, for a total purchase price of $36,364.75.

When Simplot refused the crop, the plaintiffs allege, they were forced to sell the potatoes to a processing plant at 30 cents per hundredweight, for a total of $4,363.77.

The plaintiffs are seeking costs of the suit in addition to the $36,364.75.

Answer to suit filed

TWIN FALLS — Wyman W. Welch and Marlene Welch, husband and wife, have filed an answer and cross complaint in Fifth District Court seeking $17,319.15 in damages from Carlos L. Diedo and Dorothy O. Diedo, husband and wife.

The Welch's, who are defendants in the suit which originally began with the Diedos seeking restitution of property allegedly owned by them and occupied by the Welch's, claim that Carlos L. Diedo and his former wife, Shirley, misrepresented property owned, assets of and obligations of Magic Valley Moving & Storage Co. when they induced the Welch's to buy the company in 1968.

The Welch's are seeking recovery of $500 for medical costs to date; $1,500 for loss of income to date; $27,500 for general damages, including future medical costs, future loss of earnings, permanent disability, pain and suffering and costs of the suit.

Injury suit filed

TWIN FALLS — H. Gene Jerome, causing it to collide with a vehicle driven by H. Gene Weaver.

The Weavers are seeking recovery of $500 for medical costs to date; $1,500 for loss of income to date; $27,500 for general damages, including future medical costs, future loss of earnings, permanent disability, pain and suffering and costs of the suit.

Damage action filed

TWIN FALLS — Don Holmquist has filed suit in Fifth District Court against Vicki Dee Rinehart and Flora Larsen.

In the suit, Holmquist alleges that his wife, Virginia, was driving his car on May 15, 1971, when she was struck by a car driven by Miss Rinehart and owned by Miss Larsen.

Holmquist contends that Miss Rinehart operated the Larsen vehicle in a careless and negligent manner causing a collision, on Rock Creek Road, 6.5 miles south of Hansen.

Holmquist is seeking $1,156 in damages to his automobile; $201.75 in medical bills for Mrs. Holmquist; $500 in attorney fees, and court costs.

COMMENT

Gagged

Portland Oregonian It appears that the Pentagon is developing a nasty habit of placing on the executioner's block the careers of civilian employees who respond to obligations of citizenship they feel are greater than departmental loyalty. Two years ago, Air Force economy expert A. Ernest Fitzgerald was transferred, demoted and ultimately fired (his job was eliminated in an economy move) for testifying before a congressional subcommittee on Pentagon indifference to cost control, hostility toward employees who want to cut costs and preference for contracts that pad prices to keep large contractors in business. Specifically, Fitzgerald's revelations brought to congressional attention huge cost overruns for the C5A super jet transport and for the Mark-II electronics program for the F111 fighter-bomber. Now the Navy is trying to dump Gordon Rule, its civilian director of procurement control, who testified before the Joint Economic Committee of the Congress that he believes it was a serious mistake for President Nixon to appoint Roy Ash, former president of Litton Industries, to be director of the Office of Management and Budget. Litton, a big Navy supplier, has its own continuing cost overrun controversy with the Navy on ship building, and Rule is in a position to have formed an educated judgment on the company's management, including Ash. But Rule's unwillingness to whitewash the controversy has violated the Pentagon's code of silence; and the Navy, which has "lost confidence in his judgment," is trying to reassign him or have him retire, both against his will. This harassment of civil servants threatens the principle of congressional review and is tantamount to the practice of executing the messenger who brings bad news. It leads, of course, to a steady stream of good news and a distorted picture of reality. Gordon Rule should not be punished for practicing patriotism, although it was not authorized by the Navy. Federal law prohibits intimidation of witnesses and obstruction of the power of inquiry of the Congress, and provides fines and imprisonment for violation of the law. If necessary, Congress should seek enforcement of the law in this instance. In addition, the Nixon Administration should move to have the Navy restore a sense of proportion to this injustice. After all, it was 22 years ago that the junior senator from California, Richard M. Nixon, sponsored a bill making it a crime to fire a federal employe for testifying before Congress.

Who Is He?

Idaho State Journal He was born in Yorba Linda, a suburb of Los Angeles, in 1913 the son of a trolley operator. At three, he fell and suffered a near-fatal laceration to his head. He went on to study law at Duke University where he was nicknamed "Gloomy Gus." After college he practiced law and, along with some friends, formed the Citra-Frost Co. It folded in a year. His future wife "thought he was nuts" when he asked her to marry him on their first date in 1938. But she did, two years later. After Pearl Harbor he enlisted in the Navy, learned to play poker very well and to cuss a little - although going to war, playing cards and cursing all went against his Quaker background. After the war, the Republican Party invited him to run for Congress. He did and won handily. The man, of course, is Richard Milhous Nixon, who celebrates his 60th birthday on Tuesday, Jan. 9. At sixty, Nixon looks back on a remarkable political career: The controversial Alger Hiss case which first thrust him into national prominence in 1948; the famous "Checkers speech" in which he defended a secret campaign fund in 1952; eight arduous years as Vice President in the Eisenhower Administration; his loss to John F. Kennedy in 1960; an unsuccessful bid for the governorship of California in 1962; his narrow win over Hubert Humphrey in the 1968 presidential elections and his landslide over George McGovern in 1972. While the presidency exacts a terrible toll on the health of most incumbents, it seems to agree with Nixon. He was judged to be in "excellent" condition at his annual physical checkup Dec. 20, a month before being inaugurated for his second term. Nixon admits he likes the stress of high office. In his book Six Crises (1962), the President wrote that "Those who have known great crisis - its challenge and tension, its victory and defeat - can never become adjusted to a more leisurely and orderly pace." For four more years, Nixon is assured of that "fast track" he likes to run.

And The Navy

Christian Science Monitor As in the case of Mr. Helms at the CIA, we find ourselves seriously questioning the sacking of the Navy's chief procurement officer. Three years ago it was Air Force Deputy Assistant Secretary A. Ernest Fitzgerald who lost his job for criticizing cost overruns on the Lockheed C-5A military transport. Now it is Gordon W. Rule who, until Dec. 20, was chief procurement officer for the United States Navy Materiel Command. Mr. Rule has long been a sharp-tongued critic of wasteful procurement practices between the Navy and industry - too sharp-tongued, once too often, and in the wrong place, as it now appears. On Dec. 19, in answer to a question from Sen. William Proxmire, Mr. Rule opined that President Nixon's appointment of Roy L. Ash as director of the Office of Management and Budget was a mistake. Compounding that heresy, Mr. Rule added that the appointment more than realized President Eisenhower's warning about the military-industrial complex; it expanded that baleful dumvirate into a triple threat, which he called the "military-industrial-executive branch complex." The grounds on which Mr. Rule made his heretical observation are clear enough, if circumstantial. Roy Ash is former president of Litton Industries. That giant firm holds major shipbuilding contracts with the United States Navy. Currently Litton is seeking $544 million from the Navy in cost overruns on those contracts.

WASHINGTON - To the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, the message of every suffering user of the so-called U. S. Postal Service should be got with it, plus an aside that it's about time. At long last, committee staffers are gathering information on the still deteriorating mail service for an official investigation. Hearings are tentatively scheduled for early this year, and I trust the committee will exploite the Postal Service's announced goal of making this stumbling outfit self-supporting. That goal, of course, is stuff and nonsense. Handling and delivery of mail is just as much a public service as that rendered by police, firemen, teachers, trash collectors and the armed forces. The lofty idea that it should pay its own way is tantamount to telling the Air Force that it must show a profit on the bombing of North Vietnam.

God knows I would do nothing to discourage thrift and good management in government, especially in these wild days when the taxpayer is billed for everything from welfare checks for dope pushers to limousines for middle-level bureaucrats. But really scoffs at a pay-as-you-go Postal Service. The dough just isn't there, and never will be unless we stand still for massive postal rate increases that would make use of the mails a luxury available only to the rich.

But while arguing that a postal deficit is not only inevitable but proper, I suggest it is also reasonable that Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen do everything possible to run the Postal Service as a business, and not a feeding trough for fat-cat executives. For that reason, it is reassuring to note that the House committee is taking a hard look at the top salaries paid by the Service. Figures dug up by Dan Thompson of Scripps-Howard Newspapers suggest that Service officials are into too much of a good thing.

There is no bone to pick with Klassen's $60,000 salary. That's what we working stiff pay our Cabinet officers, and Klassen rates Cabinet rank. But the Postal Service, which became a semi-autonomous corporation two years ago, also has 40 executive positions for which the annual salary range is authorized to exceed the $42,500 paid to members of Congress. As Thompson notes, only a relatively few Federal officials, excluding Congress and the Cabinet, are as well paid, and these include such subcabinet posts as the secretaries of the armed services, the Undersecretary of State and the Deputy Attorney General. And that's not all, by a long shot. A tidy total of all postal executives are paid between $30,000 and $40,000 annually; 34 of these draw $35,000 or more. The senior Assistant Postmaster General draws $52,500, three others make $50,000 and a fifth draws $46,000. A presently vacant Deputy Postmaster General's job pays a top salary of $58,830. Then there are the now-regional postmasters general in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Memphis. All five are drawing $45,000 a year, and the pay schedule lets them earn as much as $56,320. Their assistants get between $35,000 and $39,000 and their salaries can go as high as $43,800 according to law.

I mean, good night nurse! We all want the best possible management in the Postal Service, but all of us have other bills to pay and maybe the Service could steal some executives from private business who would work, say, for a piddling $25,000 a year. Even setting a top salary limit of $50,000 would save the taxpayer a few bucks without reducing the Service's straw bosses to penury. Fortunately, one of the House committee's members who has shown particular interest in the projected look-see at the Postal Service is that splendid professional tightwad, Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa. Gross unsuccessfully attempted to incorporate strict restrictions on salaries when Congress legislated the new corporation into being, but did manage to put a $60,000 lid on Klassen's pay. Unless Gross has changed overnight, he'll be asking some impertinent questions about what executives of the Service do to earn all that dough.

PAUL HARVEY

The Linebackers

President Nixon's plans for the Army after Vietnam call for an all-volunteer force of fewer than 1 million men. Despite the conviction of some and the hope of everyone that this will be our last war, we can't let our insurance lapse. Departing from office, Defense Secretary Laird said, "Without the draft we'll have to rely more heavily on the Guard and reserves. Until recently, being a reservist, except as an alternative to being drafted, has been utterly unrewarding. One weekend a month you'd trudge off to an armory, usually to sit around, shuffle papers, doze or clean rifles that are never fired more than once a year. Guardsmen and reserves, Laird admits, have been our Pentagon's stepchildren. Rarely did their missions relate to national strategy. Their programs were never an adequate challenge for enlightened young men and women. Their equipment was shoddy, outdated, inadequate. Understandably, when the Vietnamese war unfolded our government used draftees rather than "pretrained" men. That's changing. In fiscal '73 a billion dollars worth of mostly brand-new equipment will be transferred to the Reserve and National Guard. Hereafter in any emergency these men will be the first called. In 1968 the average enlisted reservist received $32 for his lost weekends; now it's $52. Army Reserve and Army Guard now total 660,000 men. That's 40,000 men short. So new incentives are being instituted for recruitment and for re-enlistment, and - most important - training is going to be made relevant. The Department of Defense has prepared for Congress a package of bait, including promotion pay hikes, until further notice, to attract by the Dolphins.

where the announced objective is a midfield stalemate inspire nobody. It's a new Army, now - an easy life, mark-time-in-place Army with beer in the mess halls and no KP - but the fire in the belly which motivated generations of fighting men has gone out. How are we going to rekindle that fire? By making the Guard and reserves our first-string linebackers and by letting them know that they are. Just money won't do it. No mercenary army ever yet won a war. But war is going out of style. The peacekeeping force will require men with technical skills competent to employ the technology which alone can keep the wolves and bears at a respectful distance.

ART BUCHWALD

Super Bowl

WASHINGTON - President Nixon has announced that he is supporting the Washington Redskins in their battle with the Miami Dolphins in the Super Bowl Jan. 14. He is sending Henry Kissinger to Miami to negotiate with Coach Don Shula of the Dolphins an honorable settlement to the hostilities. Before leaving for Miami, Kissinger briefed reporters on what he hoped to accomplish in the talks. "We are sticking by our pinpoint plan which includes the following," Kissinger told the press, "withdrawal of all Dolphin players from Redskin territory. If the Dolphins cross the 50-yard line, the President will take whatever measures he believes are essential to prevent them from scoring a touchdown. The President will insist that Redskins Coach George Allen be recognized as the sole legitimate heir to the Super Bowl Crown, and will support him with all power until the Dolphins realize their hopes of taking over the championship game are futile. An international team of referees from both the National and American Football Conferences will patrol the field, to report any offside violations by the Dolphins. The President guarantees that the Redskins will be free to choose their own game plan. His only objective is to prevent the Dolphins from imposing their totalitarian type of football on the peace-loving Washington Redskins. The Dolphins will be asked to return all films and scouting reports that they now hold, and exchange any players the Miami team might intercept in Redskin fields on Dolphin territory. Kissinger said that on his previous trip to Miami he had worked out a 99 per cent agreement with Shula, but it was the 1 per cent which was holding up the signing of the treaty. "What is the 1 per cent?" a newspaperman asked. "The Dolphins still insist they want to win the game." "But isn't that a big 1 per cent?" another reporter asked. "The President has stated many times that the Dolphins will never be permitted to win at the negotiating table what they are unable to win on the gridiron. He believes that the Redskins are able to defend themselves against the Miami running attack, but at the same time both he and Coach Allen want assurances in writing that the Dolphins will not commit aggression against the Washington secondary. Will the President consult with Congress before taking any action against the Dolphins?" a correspondent asked. "The Gulf of Rozelle Resolution, passed by Congress in 1934, permits the President to take any action in a play-off game when the interests of the Washington Redskins are threatened. The world knows the American people want a just and honorable settlement to the Super Bowl contest. At the same time this country has invested too much time and money to allow the Miami Dolphins to think they can win the game." "Suppose Coach Shula doesn't agree to your terms?" "Then we'll have no choice but to carpet bomb the Miami locker room."

High Stomach

Dear Dr. Thosteson: X-ray of my baby showed that his stomach and intestine were higher in the body than normal. He is now 20 months old, and this abnormality does not seem to affect him physically. The doctor diagnosed it as eventration of the diaphragm. Is this serious? Can it be corrected only by surgery? Is it common among babies? - A. P. Not common. Eventration means that the diaphragm is weak - the diaphragm being composed of muscle tissue. It is a congenital defect in the baby's development. The net result is that the diaphragm rises higher in the chest than it should, and some of the organs in the abdomen below the diaphragm will be misplaced upward. Eventration, by the way, is not the same as a hernia of the diaphragm. With the latter, there is a localized weakness through which the stomach or bowel can bulge. Ordinarily eventration of the diaphragm produces no symptoms and is not serious. If the elevation is extensive and the lung is crowded, then surgery may be necessary to splint the diaphragm, but that does not happen often.

in the arteries and contribute to hardening of the arteries. Similar to, but not the same, as cholesterol. My booklet, "Control Cholesterol Sensibly," may not contain everything I know on the subject, but it will give you a pretty good working knowledge. The booklet discusses triglycerides (and diet) as well as cholesterol. Send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy. I'm pretty sure it will have just what you want to know. Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 4 1/2 months pregnant. I went to the dentist and had my teeth X-rayed, and had to have them retaken because they weren't clear enough. He used a chest shield. My mother said you should never be X-rayed while pregnant. If so, why don't they tell you in the dentist's office, or at your first checkup for pregnancy? - D. L. It's true that X-rays should be avoided, particularly in the first few weeks or months of pregnancy. However, with X-rays of the teeth the amount of radiation reaching the fetus in your womb is very small if any, so I wouldn't be too much alarmed if I were you. There is, of course, a possibility that some rays might be scattered and thus go where they are not intended, so personally I would not advise even dental X-rays in pregnancy, however slight the risk doubtless is. This, evidently, refers to triglycerides, or a variety of fatty materials that accumulate

BERRY'S WORLD

Watergate 7 jury selection starts today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica. They are charged with conspiracy, second degree burglary, illegal eavesdropping and possession of illegal wiretapping devices. Five of the men were arrested in the Democratic offices in the Watergate complex in Washington early in the morning of June 17, 1972, and the incident led to charges, that widespread political espionage had been conducted against the Democrats.

The trial will open with the selection of 12 jurors and 6 alternates. The jurors will be sequestered at the courthouse in Washington for the duration of the trial.

Sirica postponed the trial until after the Nov. 7 election. Testimony is expected to bring to light new details about the incident. However, senate Democrats are planning their own probe. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield over the weekend asked Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., to undertake an investigation of the Watergate affair and "other insidious campaign practices."

John D. Ehrlichman, President Nixon's domestic affairs adviser, said during a television interview Sunday that a full-scale FBI investigation of the Watergate incident showed "no involvement by anyone in the administration in that particular incident."

The defendants include G. Gordon Liddy, who served six months at the White House as an assistant to Ehrlichman and later became chief counsel of Nixon's re-election committee, and E. Howard Hunt, who was a 100-a-day White House consultant at the time of the Watergate incident. Hunt served as consultant to the office of presidential assistant Charles W. Colson, a top political operative for Nixon.

Arrested in the Democrats' offices were James W. McCord, at the time security coordinator for the Nixon campaign; Bernard Barker of Miami, a Cuban-born American and former CIA agent; Frank Sturgis, an ex-Marine associate of Barker; Eugenio R. Martinez, a former CIA operative who works for Barker; and Virgilio R. Gonzalez, a Cuban-born locksmith and a Miami associate of Barker.

Newsday, the Long Island newspaper, said in its Sunday edition that the Watergate burglary was part of a large-scale campaign in which three prominent Democratic senators were kept under electronic surveillance.

Attributing its information to "a person well acquainted with the activities of the Watergate defendants," Newsday said the senators placed under surveillance during the summer of 1972 has jurisdiction over federal disaster relief programs, fuel oil policy, and planning emergency economic controls during wartime.

"In many cases, division chiefs have actively recruited former friends, neighbors and associates," Proxmire said.

'They're highly dangerous, men — they may be hiding behind the First Amendment.'

OEP called 'haven'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has complained that the percentage of retired military personnel on the professional staff of the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) has increased from 6 per cent in 1969 to 21 per cent today.

Proxmire said Sunday the OEP has become "a gold-plated home for retired military personnel."

"There are 46 retired military officers at the OEP today compared to 11 four years ago," Proxmire said. He said most of the retired officers were brought into the OEP with salaries "in the $20,000 to $36,000 range" and that the influx had "badly disrupted morale among career civil servants at the agency, which by the same team caught in the Democratic Committee offices were Mansfield, J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and Frank Church, D-Idaho. The paper said a break-in at the Chilean embassy in Washington was part of the same effort.

I'll take this one to be sure we all get to MACIE'S BOOTS & WESTERN WEAR!

Spending probe sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., wants a Justice Department investigation of Navy spending which has exceeded congressional appropriations by $127 million since 1969.

Aspin said Sunday the over-spending occurred during the 1969, 1971 and 1972 fiscal years for officer and enlisted men pay, subsistence allowances and travel funds.

"The Wisconsin congressman said he had told Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst there should be "an immediate investigation of what may be a major breach of federal criminal law and certainly is an action by the Navy that calls into question the basic right of Congress to control expenditures."

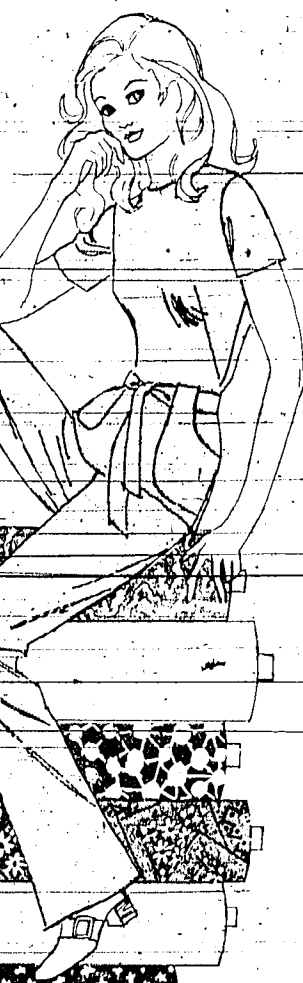

"If somebody in authority did not know what was going on, they certainly should have," Aspin said. "Apparently it makes absolutely no difference at all what Congress does or

Managua junta tightens rule

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — The National Assembly and the ruling Somoza junta imposed new labor monetary and political rules on Nicaraguans over the weekend in moves designed to speed reconstruction of Managua, devastated 17 days ago by an earthquake.

One of the steps also cleared the way for a return to power by Gen. Anastasio Somoza, onetime president, current commander of the National Guard, and still the chief political power in the country.

Meanwhile, the government said the latest official death toll in the Dec. 23 earthquake now stands at between 10,000 and 12,000.

Informed government sources said Somoza will shortly assume power through the chairmanship of a new "super-ministry" which was created Saturday by parliament and empowered to act as the country's highest authority.

The ministry of additional reconstruction, as it is called, will hold executive power both in domestic and foreign affairs.

Thus, the sources said, Somoza will officially take over the executive power again after only a brief pause in a family dynasty that has ruled Nicaragua for most of the last 35 years. Somoza left the presidency last May after a term of five years, turning over power to a three-man junta that was supposed to rule until elections in 1974.

Referendum put off

MANILA (UPI) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos postponed a referendum on a new constitution Sunday, decried "rumor-mongering" a crime and imposed the first death sentence since his proclamation of martial law last September.

Marcos also outlawed any discussion of the pros or cons of a new constitution voters planned to vote on Jan. 15 and said security forces had discovered a new plot to kill him, members of his family and key government officials.

The 55-year-old president, in a radio and television report of the first 100 days of martial law, said he took action because of fears that his "new society" was slipping back to its pre-martial law ways.

SGT. ERNEST R. POUNDER wants '60' status

Beret sergeant rejects uniform

HONOLULU (UPI) — A highly-decorated Green Beret paratrooper in Vietnam, who was once a member of President John F. Kennedy's security detail, has become a conscientious objector because of "this insane war." He said Sunday he will refuse to wear his uniform after Jan. 5.

Sgt. I.C. Ernest R. Pounder said he has applied for conscientious objector status and has returned his 24 medals for gallantry in Southeast Asia to the Army's adjutant general.

"I can no longer condone the horrible injustices to mankind which are being perpetrated by this insane war," he said.

Pounder, 28, of Peoria, Ill., was not always anti-war. He was a member of President Kennedy's White House security detail attached to the Secret Service when Kennedy visited Ireland. Pounder was responsible for security of the president's helicopter, its fuel and airports.

"It was this feather in my cap," Pounder said, "that got me into the Special Forces ... the Green Berets."

The six-foot, short-haired soldier, a veteran with 11 years in the Army and three tours of Vietnam, said the "final straw" came during the unsuccessful Nov. 21, 1970, raid on the U.S. prisoner of war camp at Son Tay near Hanoi. He helped plan the raid and was "very disgruntled" when U.S. helicopters landed to find no prisoners.

Pounder said he was "100 per cent in favor" of America's Vietnam role when he shipped to Southeast Asia in 1964 but "I saw first hand the brutality and insanity of the war," he said.

"I then began to question, my God why, when I observed the cruel horror of a fatally wounded human being flopping and kicking and spitting his life blood away."

By United Press International
Israel's frontier with Syria erupted into a full-scale tank, artillery and air battle today, with the military command reporting five Syrian MIGs shot down against no losses of Israeli planes.

UPI correspondent Thomas Cheatham in Tel Aviv quoted the military command in Tel Aviv as saying the battle opened with Israeli planes attacking two Arab guerrilla camps, four army positions and two radar stations along the front line and in southern Syria in response to recent attacks on Israeli positions from there.

The command told Cheatham the Syrian jets were downed while challenging the Israeli raiders but that afterward Syrian gunners all along the 60-mile frontier opened up against the Israeli-held Golan Heights.

A military spokesman in Damascus said Syrian planes shot down two of the intruding Israeli aircraft while Syrian artillery scored direct hits on a number of Israeli military positions along the cease-fire line between the two countries. He said three Syrian warplanes were also shot down in the air battles.

Military spokesmen in Tel Aviv said targets of Syrian artillery included the Heights civilian settlement of Merom Hagolan and Nahal Snir and that Israeli guns blazed away in return.

The spokesmen told Cheatham that air force jets went into action against Syrian gun emplacements and also raided an army camp near Latakia on the northern Syrian coast in one of their northernmost strikes.

It was almost identical to a previous such battle on Nov. 21, described by the Israeli military command as the biggest shootout with Syria since the beginning of the August, 1970, Middle East cease-fire.

Today's initial dogfight, which Tel Aviv spokesmen said cost Syria 6 reported five planes, came at 11:40 a.m. (4:30 a.m. EST), two hours before the Syrians opened up in retaliation with their big guns.

5,500 face draft call Plane diverted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird estimated today no more than 5,500 men will be drafted this year — only one tenth as many as last year — and the smallest number drafted in any year when there has been conscription.

The draft authority expires June 30 and Laird has already said there will be no calls in January or February. Today he told the House Armed Services Committee that the March draft call would be less than 2,500 and that in April, May and June — the last three months of the draft — "no more than an average of 1,000 men per month will be needed."

Laird volunteered the information in his final report to Congress. He will leave the government in 12 days and will be replaced as defense secretary of Elliot L. Richardson. He devoted only seven pages in his 104-page report to the subject of Vietnam, declaring that Vietnamization "is virtually completed." He did not elaborate.

"Because of the sensitivity of the negotiations, I will refrain from any further comment on this matter or any other matter which could impact on the negotiations," Laird said.

Laird did not mention the bombing campaign against

North Vietnam.

During all the years of the draft — during the Civil War, World War I, World War II, and continuously since 1948 — the lowest number of men ever called was 14,038 in 1949, in a year in which calls were issued for only a single month.

Since then draft calls have hit a Korean war high of 524,700 in 1951, a between-wars low of 76,500 in 1962, and a Vietnam war high of 364,600 in 1968.

There is a possibility that no one born in 1953 and first liable for the draft this year will ever be drafted. This is a result of a provision of the law which allows the Selective Service system to continue drawing on men left over from the previous year.

Last year calls were issued for 51,800 men with lottery numbers through 95.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Alaska Airlines jetliner which slammed into a mountainside Sept. 6, 1971, killing 111 persons apparently was diverted off course by distorted signals from navigation aids, government safety experts said today.

In a report on the tragedy, the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) said that as the plane approached Juneau for a landing, the pilot's instruments gave him "a display of misleading navigational information."

At one point, the Boeing 727 pilot believed he was passing directly over an electronic aid lined up with the runway, but in fact still had nine miles to go to reach the checkpoint.

Bus crash kills 3

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (UPI) — The highway patrol says the driver of a Greyhound bus that careened off Interstate 95 and overturned, killing three persons, apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

Seven of the 30 persons injured in the mishap Sunday remained hospitalized today. The others were treated and released.

The driver apparently went to sleep and went off to the right between an exit ramp and the roadway itself," said highway patrolman Gary W. Kearney, who investigated the accident.

No charges had been filed Sunday against the driver, Willie Wesley Williams of Permianna, Pa., but Kearney said the investigation into the mishap was continuing.

Teachers walk out

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — School teachers in the country's fourth largest city were set to resume today a strike that kept 285,000 pupils out of class for three weeks last September.

The Philadelphia Federation of Teachers (PFT) told its 18,000 members to begin picketing after union negotiators rejected Sunday night a last-ditch offer by the school board to avert the strike.

Lanes were to be manned at 6 a.m. EST.

The school board proposed that Common Pleas Judge D. Donald Jamieson be given the power to make binding recommendations in the 14-month dispute over a three-year contract.

But the PFT, which last week turned down the proposals of a state-appointed fact-finder, rejected the new school board suggestion.

Jamieson, who was instrumental in working out a memorandum of agreement that temporarily halted the record-long strike last September, was scheduled to hear the school board's plea today for an injunction against the strike.

Rupert students display projects

RUPERT — More than 200 insect collections, gathered by students at Rupert's Washington Elementary School, will be displayed at a 4-H Science Fair here Thursday and Friday.

The collections were undertaken as 4-H entomology projects. Most of them have been awarded blue ribbons for completion and six will receive grand champion honors at the Washington School science fair. According to Mrs. Renee Clark, the science teacher who oversaw the insect projects, the students built their own display boxes for the collections.

A new industrial arts room was put to good use by the school's sixth graders, she said, as they spent activity periods in designing and constructing the insect cases. Dr. Carol Martindale, a Rupert physician, has spent many hours in judging and evaluating the insect collections, Mrs. Clark said. The doctor also aided in planning and organizing the collection.

The insect projects will also be entered in the Minidoka County Fair competition next fall, Mrs. Clark said.

Officials press for severe drug penalties

United Press International Pushing across the grain of the nationwide trend to liberalize drug laws, state officials or lawmakers in a half-dozen states, mostly in the northeast, are pressing for the severest penalties for hard-drug pushers, including the death penalty.

But the "winds of change" toward greater leniency for soft-drug possession or use continue. A sampling of official and legislative programs around the country found demands for extreme stringency in punishing hard-drug pushers in Connecticut, where the governor is asking the death penalty for second offenders, New York, New Hampshire and Montana.

Increased severity on a lesser scale has been proposed in Indiana and Florida.

In some other states, the tendency appears to be toward firmer enforcement of existing hard-drug laws, often coupled with a reduction in penalties for first-time possession of such soft drugs as marijuana.

In Connecticut, Republican Gov. Thomas J. Meskill favors executing hard-drug pushers on the first conviction. Although he has been told the legislature will not go along with a penalty that harsh, he says he has been assured the lawmakers would approve the death penalty on the second conviction.

Another Republican governor, Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, wants mandatory life sentences for hard-drug pushers and violent addicts, with no possibility of parole or plea bargaining.

The New York governor's call for action at the opening of this year's legislative session was applauded by the legislators but drew immediate protests from civil libertarians.

In New Hampshire, Republican State Rep. George Gordon has filed a bill which would make life imprisonment mandatory for convicted sellers of heroin unless they were addicts, in which case the penalty would be 20 years in prison.

A companion measure proposed by Gordon provides for suspension of students at state colleges and the University of New Hampshire if they are found in possession of prohibited drugs on campus.

Legislation already introduced in Montana would make a life sentence mandatory on the second conviction of hard-drug selling and would eliminate the present automatic deferment of sentence for first offenders 21 years of age or younger.

A bill pending in the Indiana legislature would make 25-year sentences mandatory for hard-drug pushers, with a stipulation excluding them from parole.

Aides of Florida Attorney General Robert Shevin say he believes in getting tougher with drug dealers, but not to the degree advocated by the hardest-liners. Shevin supports a measure which would increase the penalty for heroin sale in his state from five years to 10 years in prison.

Already on the books in Florida, however, is a law providing the death penalty for any person convicted of a heroin sale which directly resulted in the death of the user.

Meanwhile, sentiment appears to be growing in states as diverse as Maine, Texas and Georgia for reduction of the penalty for first-time possession of marijuana, usually by making it a misdemeanor rather than a felony.

Under present Texas law, a first offender could be sentenced to two years to life in prison for possession of a single marijuana cigarette. A bill reducing the offense to a misdemeanor was defeated in 1971.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In regard to that lady who felt guilty if she didn't continue to circulate "chain letters," please tell her she should feel guilty if she DOES. They are against the law and should be turned over to the local postmaster.

Only last week I received a "prayer" chain letter in the mail. It said: "Trust in the Lord Jesus Christ with all your heart and always acknowledge Him and He will light your way. This prayer has been sent to you to bring you luck. The original copy came from the Holy Land and has been sent around the world 23 times. Make four copies and send them to your friends. You must do this within four days or you will suffer dire consequences. One man in Hawaii broke the chain and on the sixth day he died. On the seventh day he won $50,000, which he was unable to collect."

Such rot!

I am a Presbyterian minister, over 80 years of age. I still preach every Sunday and I believe in prayer, but I broke the chain, and my "four days" are long past and I still feel great!

I shall surely tell my congregation to forward any chain letters to their postmaster and feel repaid for having headed off at least one more piece of superstitious junk.

HAROLD A. SMITH, ATLANTIC, IA.

DEAR REV. SMITH: Thanks. And I'll tell my readers the same.

DEAR ABBY: You have said many times in your column that it is not considered good etiquette to put "No children, please" on wedding reception invitations.

Well, I don't care what you say. If you had to pay a caterer $15 a person you would make sure Mom and Pop didn't bring their six kids along to get a free meal.

Some people have to be told in plain English to leave their kids at home, and I say: "TELL 'EM!"

PLAIN TALKER IN PHILADELPHIA

DEAR PLAIN: For another point of view, let's hear it from a reader in Coon Rapids, Minn.

DEAR ABBY: So often you hear from people who want to exclude children from a wedding reception. I find this distressing. Such occasions are ideal for families to be together. The father has to work away from his home all day, and in many cases the mother also works. The kids are involved in their various school activities, or just left to bum-around with their peers while the parents run off and leave them.

Children should be included with their parents at weddings so they will see the beauty and sacredness of the marriage ceremony. And at the reception, if the refreshments were limited to cookies and punch, children could be included without running the cost up. Who cares what is served? After all, people are supposed to be celebrating the union of two people in love - not food and drink!

The family unit is held together by love and togetherness. It is the only thing that will keep our country strong and save mankind from destroying itself. Where else but with his parents should a child learn how adults should conduct themselves?

MARY K. BERG

DEAR ABBY: To the lady with four children by her first husband who married a man who had five children by his first wife and was frequently asked, "Are all those children yours?" here is the best reply I've ever heard.

When traveling by train from Wichita, Kas., to Oklahoma, a lady with 11 children was seated just ahead of us. The conductor asked, "Are all these children yours, lady, or is it a picnic?"

She replied, "Yes, they are all mine. And since you asked, it sure ain't no picnic!" E. W. IN AVONDALE, ARIZ.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

A Lovelier You

KNITS, DARLING OF '70's

By Mary Sue Miller

Knits are the most popular of fabrics. Forecasters have it that their popularity will continue for years to come. Regardless of varying fiber content, so many good qualities are knitted right in. Wrinkle resistance, comfort in wearing, shape retention and economy of care are just a partial list of their virtues. Fashion value is, of course, implicit.

In spite of a long love affair with the finished product, few lovelies know much about the marvels of the process. Warp knits and weft knits are the two basic types. Warp knits are made from hundreds of parallel yarns on one set of needles, forming loops along the length of the fabric. Warp knits include turtlenecks and turtled, used in ribbed and raised striped fabrics for shirts, slacks, jackets and dresses.

Weft knits are made from one continuous strand of yarn in horizontal rows of interlocked loops. Two sets of needles are used for double knits, resulting in two layers of non-separable fabric for suits, dresses and coats. Flat and single knits are light-weight and seen in such items as T-shirts.

It is claimed that washable knit combining man-made and natural fibers hold best to their original shape. Washing instructions differ with fiber content. Do save and follow advice on care tags; be sure to make a note of which tag belongs to which garment. Knits are too precious for guesswork.

BEAUTY OF HOUSEWORK — Attention, housewives! If housework saps your energies, looks and nerves, send for my booklet, BEAUTY OF HOUSEWORK. It explains how to keep home and self sparkling with time to spare. Also included are an interesting work plan, pointers in housekeeping and more. # Today's clothes buyers described as alert, aware, alive, aggressive

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today's clothes buyer is an A-four gal—alert, aware, alive and aggressive.

"She's looking for her dollar's worth, her fashion's worth, for things that will fit her way of life in this age of speedy transportation," says Vincent Monte-Sano, president of the New York Couture Business Council and former clothing manufacturer.

"She's not taken in by flim-flam. She's looking for straight talk about price, fabric and the rest."

Monte-Sano's description of the modern customer came during an interview as the council began its series of spring fashion shows for visiting reporters. The series marks the 60th semi-annual "Press Week," the 30th year the council (formerly known as The Dress Institute) has put on such showings of new collections.

Jewelry designer copied by many

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stanley Hagler holds a doctor of laws degree. Some who watch his work think he should have studied engineering. For Hagler is an inventive jewelry designer and a much copied one.

Last spring, for instance, he strung whistles on long chains as a costume item. By Christmas jewelry stores were advertising whistle pendants in all price ranges, right up to those studded with precious stones.

Now, Hagler's at his inventiveness again. One of his newest items is a pearl necklace wardrobe—six strands in all and in graduated lengths. A cluster-jeweled pin holds the works together if you want to wear all six, from almost choker to bustline lengths.

Or, the clip unfastens and a tiny pin on which the strands are "laced" (like threading a needle) can be slipped out so the woman can wear only two or four strands. Or, the clip stands alone.

Blazers for day and caftans for late day are big items in spring ready-to-wear. Hagler's ready with the jewelry to go with them.

He sneaks an idea from the military and does gold mesh aiguillettes, worn pinned to the shoulder with three graduated strands of chain draped under the arm and three tassel points hanging free. Or, he does epaulettes with chain fringes and gold pins holding things in place on the shoulder.

Again, it's double-duty jewelry. The pins alone can help to anchor straps of shoulder bags that on some clothes tend to slide off.

Or, if you wish, you can use Hagler's jeweled copies of service bars to ornament the bodice of the blazer or suit jacket.

To go with caftans, Hagler has designed two-tier necklaces.

he said. "Five years ago something like that, and I would have been sent to the booby hatch."

—Continued technological advances in fabrics—and their qualities, such as the now accepted permanent press, anti-statics, knits that go right into the washing machine.

Meet to discuss governor's home

BOISE — (UPI) — A nine-member executive mansion committee will meet again next Thursday to discuss plans for construction of a new governor's residence in Idaho.

Donald Day, Boise, chairman of the committee, said preliminary drawings have been prepared by a Boise architectural firm for a residence on state land off Horizon Drive in the Boise foothills.

He said the committee has agreed the mansion should contain private living quarters for the governor and his family, public rooms and guest rooms in addition to security provisions.

The present governor's house, on North 21st Street in Boise, was purchased by the state in 1946.

Abandoned dream

GORDON CONINE, Burley, stands near the mine mill and railway trusses leading to the mill, left, while the rear of the mill and abandoned materials are shown on the right.

Editor's note: Much of the information and all of the quotations contained in the following article were taken from an article "Elba, Idaho: Mines Shrouded in Mystery" by Aaron Jones which appeared in the January, 1970, edition of Northwest Ruralite.

ELBA Gravel south on Highway 77 in Cassia County to the point where it turns east toward Malta.

Look northwest with a keenly discerning eye up Conner Canyon and you might distinguish a structural speck high on the slopes of Mt. Harrison.

That speck is the "million dollar mansion" which has been part of Cassia County lore for more than 50 years.

It sits in a remote, almost north of Elba that was booming near the turn-of-the-century and still contains shafts known as the McEhee, Puzler, Breckenridge, Eagle and Gopher mines.

Many area residents believe rich veins of gold, silver, copper and molybdenum are yet to be found in the mountain.

The two-story, solid rock mansion holds a commanding view of the Elba Basin and the Jim Sage Mountains to the south.

The affluence it once represented can be felt with the imagination—the occupants must have had the breakfast on the porch in the brisk morning air—or with a careful stroll through its dozen large rooms.

Hand painted traceries can still be detected on its high walls.

But the flurry of wings through panolous windows as each room is entered testifies to the long-neglected maintenance of the sturdy structure.

Its lavish furnishings, the best

San Francisco had to offer, have long since been claimed by looters or removed by the descendants of Samuel Huston McIntyre.

McIntyre, a Texan by birth, was described by a local resident as "a huge, overweight man, who came to the mines in a chauffeur driven automobile. The car couldn't make the hills up to the mines, however, so McIntyre would send his chauffeur up to the camp to bring a buggy back so he could ride the rest of the way."

Osmer Ward, the owner of a green-painted store near Highway 77's turn to the east, knew McIntyre personally.

McIntyre used to wait here at my store when his chauffeur went to get the white-topped buggy," he recalls. "He was a nice man to talk to. The first time he walked in, I thought he was a hobo. He always had whiskers all over his face and wore a ragged, full length, black coat. But he was a pretty friendly fellow."

McIntyre owned more than 400 acres in the area and invested a good deal of his fortune in mining ventures before 1918.

A grandson, Steele McIntyre of Maranouth, Utah (where his grandfather founded the Mannouth Mining Co.), described his progenitor's life.

"Samuel McIntyre was born in Texas, came to southern Utah when he was 10, and worked as a scout and freighter. A few years later his father's ranch in Texas was sold and he returned to get his share of the estate."

"With this money he bought cattle and drove a large herd from Texas back to Utah. Part of the cattle went to his own ranch, but some were traded for mining property. That began his career in mining."

"He made millions and spent millions," Steele McIntyre added. "But of all the mines he owned, perhaps none got more of his money and gave as little in return as did the holdings he gambled on here (near Elba)."

The mining structures are still there. Flanking the mansion on the northwest are a corrugated-metal mill at the end of ore car tracks that climb up and over Mt. Harrison slopes, bunk houses with the two-tier beds intact, and a cook shack housing an enormous wood-burning stove.

According to Lyle Durfee, an Elba farmer who lives at the mouth of Conner Canyon and acts as caretaker of the McIntyre property, the mill and other buildings were in good condition 20 years ago.

But the giant turbine engines and rock crushers have rusted and are valueless except for their salvage worth or antique interest.

Durfee told the peculiar legend concerning the origin of the mansion. The tale claims that Pier McIntyre, son of Samuel, built the elaborate home in the absence and without the permission of his father.

"I heard the old man didn't know a thing about it until he got a bill for the hardwood floor," Durfee said. "Then he was supposed to have come up here boiling mad and it wasn't long afterward that the mill closed."

Osmer Ward recalls that Samuel once said the house cost $57,000.

"An irony of the mansion's history is that, for all its unheard-of conveniences (including electricity and running water), it was occupied for only two or three years. It is said that the mill closed in late 1918.

Explanations abound as to the reason for the mine's abandonment. A Malta businessman said, "I've heard that the kid (Pier) was planning a fast one on the old man. Someone said that every time he found a rich vein, he would close it and dig in a different area. Supposedly he was planning on waiting until the old man passed on before he took out the good ore."

A local rancher said the mines might have been closed "to freeze out the stock holders."

Durfee has his own opinion. "I've been told that the mines got electric power from Albion, then the county seal, which is about 10 miles away. The people selling it were supposed to have upped the rates after the mill was built, making the power costs real high. I hear McIntyre refused to pay the increased rates—and finally lost the service."

Perhaps it is best that not everything is known about the "million dollar mansion." Things that can be explained factually often end up in history books.

And history books take on an indisputable existence of their own, choking off colorful speculation and the wide-eyed excitement of Cassia County grandsons as their grandfathers spin tales of times past.

The kangaroo rat never drinks water, quenching its thirst with potatoes and juicy seeds.

Andrus views school funds

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told the 42nd Idaho Legislature today that "the time is at hand to reorganize our present system of school administrations."

In a "State of the State" address prepared for delivery to an afternoon joint session in the hall of the house, Andrus said that each year it becomes apparent there is an acute school financial problem despite increases in appropriations.

"In my view, the source of funding for our public schools is causing as much concern as any other, single, issue," Andrus said. "Changes must be made in the present system of financing education — changes which take much of the burden from the property tax."

"But more than that," Andrus said, "educators must come to the realization that we will not continually fund an out-dated administrative structure which permits wide discrepancies in the cost of running our schools. "In some districts we are spending $80 per student in administrative costs while in others we are spending only $11 per student," he said.

"One county has three school districts, three superintendents and three accounting systems. Such is the mark of a cash heavy school system."

"In Idaho, I am satisfied that we will never have that luxury," he said. "In the absence of such delightful circumstances, the time is at hand to reorganize our present system of school administrations."

"Too often increased funds find themselves paying for new administrative techniques and personnel, with the result being too few dollars finding their way into classrooms and programs for our children."

He said if state government is to embark on a period of reorganization then so, too, can education.

Accepts office keys

ELIZA HALL, newly elected Jerome County sheriff, accepts keys to the sheriff's office from retiring Sheriff James (Pat) Burns following swearing-in ceremonies this morning at the Jerome County Courthouse.

TF panel delays budget

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Commission organized for business for the year today and put off until next week a new county budget.

At ceremonies in the commission chamber at 40 a.m. County Clerk Harold Lancaster administered the oath of office to William Chaney and Merl Leonard, re-elected to the commission in the November elections.

For Chaney the term will be his third. He was first elected to a two-year term in 1966, and won four years in office from county voters in 1968. Leonard's term is his second. He was elected to two years in office in 1970, and to an additional four years on the commission in November.

The commissioners chose Chaney as chairman for the coming year and Leonard vice chairman. The vote was unanimous.

Chaney swore in other elected county officials, including Sheriff Paul Corder, Assessor Ron Taylor, Prosecutor Robert Galley and Coroner Clyde Edwards. All but Galley were elected to four-year terms. The prosecutor's term runs for only two years.

The budget being prepared is expected to contain a five per cent across the board cost of living pay increase for county officials. But Chaney, Leonard and the other commissioners had indicated a week ago that the tentative budget would contain an overall increase of less than that amount.

The 1972 announced tentative budget was for $5.02 million, a 17.5 per cent increase over a year ago. A three per cent increase over that figure would bring the county's budget to slightly over $6 million.

"The commissioners have also indicated that they hope to balance the budget without any increase in the mill levy for the current year, although they also agree that an additional mill levy may be needed to finance the development of sanitary landfills in the county, a federal requirement.

Otherwise, they said, the increased assessed valuation in the county and the increased assessment ratio should produce sufficient revenue to finance the county's operations for the coming year.

Although the commissioners have been at work for several weeks on the budget, they held a final round of meetings with department heads last week.

Crackdown on welfare cheaters set

BOISE (UPI) — A crackdown on welfare cheaters and a plan to put able-bodied recipients to work for their welfare checks were announced today by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

Andrus told the 42nd Idaho Legislature in an address prepared for delivery to an afternoon session, the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services (SRS) has collected nearly $50,000 in repayments from welfare cheaters.

"Never before have persistent actions been taken against those who fraudulently collect welfare payments and fathers who refuse to pay child support," Andrus said.

"These actions are serving to impress delinquent fathers of their legal responsibility to their children and their state," he said. "Further, he said, this skirmish has struck fear into those who would fake eligibility."

"And, overall, the program eases the burden of the taxpayers who have been unjustly taxed for another's responsibility," he said.

Andrus said that in keeping with his philosophy that those who can should work for their welfare checks, some far-reaching changes are at hand in the administration of the welfare program.

He said that beginning this month 500 welfare recipients will be called upon to earn their assistance checks by serving as public service aides for SRS and other state agencies.

"Our goal is to make the capable welfare recipient accustomed to work so that eventually these people will appreciate an honest day's pay for an honest day's work," Andrus said.

"In doing so, we earnestly look to achieving the self-sufficiency so elusive to welfare recipients in past years," he said.

TF man listed fair

TWIN FALLS — An elderly Twin Falls man is listed in four condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital today after being struck by a car Sunday.

According to police reports, Charlie Casey, 85, Twin Falls, was struck by a car driven by Billy J. Hawkins, 40, Twin Falls.

Apparently, the reports show, Casey was waiting for a ride in the 100 block on Lincoln Street and stopped off the curb when he mistook the Hawkins vehicle for the one he was awaiting.

Hawkins applied his brakes but was unable to avoid striking the elderly man. Hawkins took Casey to the hospital after the accident.

Details on the extent of Casey's injuries were not available from Magic Valley Memorial.

Jerome County sheriff takes oath of office

JEROME — Eliza Hall, 46, was formally sworn in as Jerome County sheriff today by Jerome County Commissioner Claude Bernard.

In a brief ceremony this morning, Bernard administered the oath of office and wished retiring sheriff, James B. (Pat) Burns a good retirement.

Hall was one of nine candidates in the August primary and one of six in the November election who sought to be sheriff.

He is a veteran of World War II, and has lived in Magic Valley the past 20 years, coming here from West Plains, Mo. He previously served two years on the Buhl Police department and four years with the Jerome police department.

Hall has attended FBI sponsored schools in Idaho.

Burns is retiring after 24 years as sheriff of Jerome County. He said he and his wife plan to travel through the eastern states to visit friends and relatives. Burns said he also plans to do some hunting and fishing and gardening.

The retiring sheriff said he will miss his association with personnel at the county court house and the many persons he has had the pleasure of serving.

In January, 1943, Burns served with the Army Air Force for two years and spent eight months with the War Department at Govea Field. He was married to Sybil Barnett in Buhl in 1946.

Burns worked with the Idaho State Police for two years, from 1947 to 1949 in Rexburg. Since that time he has served as sheriff in Jerome County.

Andrus urges agency merge

BOISE (UPI) — In an effort to end what he called "bureaucratic buck-passing," Gov. Cecil D. Andrus asked the 42nd Idaho legislature today to merge the Departments of Health and Welfare.

"I propose that we stop appropriating millions of dollars to antiquated social delivery system impregnated with disorganization, duplication and centralized bureaucracy," Andrus said.

"We cannot justify these programs unless the people in all parts of Idaho have access to the services," he said in an address prepared for delivery to a joint session. "This burdensome system must be decentralized and regionalized."

"We must legislate an end to bureaucratic buck-passing — a game which seeks to place the responsibility somewhere else and results in lost time and non-service to our taxpayers."

Before we fund Idaho's governmental Albatrosses, we must trim the highly paid administrators in Boise and put the talent where the people are," Andrus said.

While he recommended creation of 12-member bipartisan legislative committee to carry out the people-mandated government reorganization he proposed merger of the two large departments this year.

"I further propose that the necessary steps be taken to consolidate services for delinquent children under one state program," he said.

He called for transfer of administrative responsibility for the Youth Training Center at St. Anthony to the newly consolidated agency from the Board of Education.

Vote set

SUN VALLEY — Two general obligation bond issues totaling $500,000 will go before Sun Valley voters Tuesday.

The vote is scheduled for noon to 8 p.m. at the Moritz Community Hospital Library.

The first question on the ballot will be for the issuance of $350,000 in bonds to construct a public building that would house the city's police and fire departments and their equipment.

The second question is for the issuance of $150,000 to bear the cost of new fire fighting equipment and related apparatus, including coats and helmets for the volunteer firemen, air breathing packs, ladders and hoses.

According to city clerk Robert Ackerman, a two-thirds majority of those voting will be required to pass both issues.

Area miss uninjured

BURLEY — Carol Joy McLane, 18, Rupert, was released following treatment at Minidoka Memorial Hospital Saturday afternoon after a two-car collision near here.

According to Idaho State Police Officer Dick Jones, the accident occurred at 1:40 p.m. on the Heyburn Bridge over the Snake River at U. S. 30.

Miss McLane, driving a car, collided from behind with a pickup driven by Richard Wilcox, 28, Burley. Wilcox's wife, Mary Ann, was a passenger in the pickup. She was not hurt.

Wilcox had slowed down as he passed highway department workers repairing a section of the bridge. Miss McLane collided with the pickup when Wilcox stopped to allow traffic in the opposing lane to pass. No citations were issued Saturday.

Miss McLane sustained cuts and bruises.

TF Moose Lodge burns mortgage

TWIN FALLS — A long awaited ceremony, burning the mortgage, was conducted Saturday night by the Twin Falls Equal Order of Moose.

Paul Welch, past governor of the lodge, was chairman of the event and Mrs. George Long, past senior regent of the Women of the Moose, was co-chairman.

The first Moose Lodge meetings in Twin Falls were held at the Old Fenows Inn, then at the Labor Temple. Construction on their own building was started in 1958, with Lewis Hoffman as building chairman. The first meeting in the new hall was held Dec. 30, 1958. The building was officially dedicated on April 30, 1966.

Hornum Carol was governor of the lodge at that time and Mrs. Paul McCallum was senior regent. Now, 14 years later, the mortgage was burned.

The Idaho State Individual Ritual Champions, enrolled a class of 21 new members as part of the evening's activities. New members are George E. Gailley, Billy A. Bohrn, Allen Eldredge, Harry Johnson, Wayne Campbell, Michael J. Kier, Dean Jensen, Robert C. Maxfield, Charles Reeves, Gift Wormsbaker, Mike Holmos, Tom DeLuca, Gary Bohrn, Lee Viver, H. Dick Simmons, Chuck Galton, G. Metcalf, Gregory Wasiko, Bob McMill and Louis L. Rosso.

Nile Casten, Idaho State Moose Association president, and Steve Koukal, vice president of the Magic Valley District, were in attendance along with those Moose lodge officials.

The Datto Platt Originals provided the music for the dance after the ceremonies.

Guns taken

TWIN FALLS — Guns valued $7,407 were stolen from the home of Curtis Smith, 289 Merce Street, Sunday.

Police are investigating the theft.

Three arrested

TWIN FALLS — Three Twin Falls youths were arrested late Saturday night on charges of possession of a controlled substance.

According to police reports, Gary Dean Lyda, 19, and Shawn Paul Livingston, 16, and an unnamed juvenile were arrested on the possession charges after a car driven by Livingston was stopped and searched while under the influence of alcohol.

Chief of Detectives Tim Qualls said the three were arrested on the possession charges during the investigation into Livingston's arrest on the drunk driving charge.

All three were released on bond.

Jerome meet set tonight

JEROME — The Jerome School Board will hold its regular meeting at 8 p.m. Monday night in the superintendent's office.

The agenda for the meeting calls for the rehiring of administration personnel for the schools, including Don Daw, elementary principal; Lavere Gough, junior high school principal; and Jerry Diehl, high school principal, plus administration trainees, Laver Butters, elementary; Jerry James, junior high; and the vice principal of the high school, Bill Emerson.

The board will also hear a report by Supt. John B. Campbell of the Child Development Center proposal for the Appleton School building.

N-S routes top Idaho road needs

BOISE (UPI) — North-South highways are Idaho's most pressing transportation needs, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told the 42nd Idaho legislature today.

"Disbelievers need only to travel between Idaho Falls and West Yellowstone or between Boise and Coeur d'Alene to be convinced," he said in remarks prepared for delivery to a joint session in the house.

In a progress report on the state's two major north-south routes, Andrus noted that on U.S. 95 grading is complete on Whitebird hill and bids soon will be opened for paving the entire new section. Construction now is in progress for the Whitebird Canyon Bridge and connecting road to the city of White Bird.

"These milestone events will eliminate the present switchback route which is one of the most troublesome obstacles on Idaho's infamous 'Goat Trail,' the governor said.

In addition, he said, a new route is being designed up Lewiston Hill, several projects in the Cottonwood area and on Mesa Hill in Adams County are planned for construction this year and a project south of Plummer is planned for 1973.

He said other significant improvements under way on I-85 include projects near Sandpoint, Bonners Ferry, Coeur d'Alene and in western Idaho — near Marsing.

Meanwhile, across the state on an equally important North-South route, on U.S. Highway 101, the section between Pocatello and Rigby was recently completed to two-lane standards on new alignment," he said. "Right-of-way has been obtained for the ultimate, four-lane, divided design."

He said the next project in the Rigby area will extend from Rigby to Thornton and has been approved for the year. He said a freeway through Rigby is planned for 1974. Projects near Rexburg and St. Anthony are in various stages of reconstruction development, he said.

"Highway construction has been a priority during the past two years and it will continue as such in the coming years of this administration," Andrus said.

"I thought for the day," Andrus said, "that it is the brave man who 'houses' while the crowd stands aside."

Spartans, Castleford play crucial games

Minico continues in its SIC confrontation course and Castleford tries to battle back in midweek games in Magic Valley.

The schedule starts with five Tuesday night encounters and the Magic Valley Conference provides three of them: Oakley at Hagerman, Declo at Castleford and Raft River at Hansen. In non-league play, the Burley Bobcats will be at Buhl while Kimberly travels to Murtaugh. The Spartans will entertain Hagerman in the town meeting of Wednesday night.

The Highland-Minico game is another matchup of SIC co-leaders, not surprising since five of the 12 teams currently are tied with one loss each.

Minico will be a little taller than the Rams but the Rams have Byron In-The-Woods who is a triple threat. The defending league scoring champion, In-The-Woods is probably the quickest man in the league. This year he has added assist passing to his repertoire and has doubled his value. In fact, he's made double-figure average scorers out of sophomore Scott Gould and senior Kevin Christensen with his penetration and kick-off passes. Also, In-The-Woods uses his quickness to surround a harassing Highland defense.

The Spartans will be going heavily to Craig Hepworth — no surprise either — and with the lanky senior having about a four-inch advantage, Highland will have its work cut out for it.

Castleford dropped its opening two games in the Magic Valley Conference and now has a long way back if it will battle

Murtaugh and Oakley as expected pre-season.

Declo, an up-and-down team, is no easy opponent since Coach Dale Swan's charges have beaten a couple pretty good teams and took Shoshone, a common opponent, into overtime twice.

Raft River, fresh off that upset victory over Castleford, will be at Hansen where the Huskies have had more problems scoring lately than they did earlier in the year. Oakley, running undefeated, will be at Hagerman which isn't the power of last year but still is showing improvement. But the Pirates won't find the height they need so badly.

Burley, which has lost several close games and is in the process of rebuilding its team after the injury to Bob Randklev, will have a big height edge on the young Buhl Indians. Buhl has won only once in nine outings and so far the Indians can find the reason in one quarter. They've been having one a game that has ruined them — like four to six points.

Kimberly, which is filling this year's bill as the "close, but no kweple doll," role, will be at Murtaugh and it should be a good game. Kimberly has played close-to Wood River and Shoshone, who so far show two losses between them. But the Bulldogs also have lost some games — some of them not so close — to teams with less impressive records.

Murtaugh's defense appears to be coming on now, the one thing that Coach Dick Annala said pre-season would be the weak link for a while. The Devils have offensive firepower. Kimberly's hopes probably will ride on a height advantage.

Bucks topple Lakers 99-92

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks, forcing the Los Angeles Lakers into crucial fourth period turnovers, handed the Lakers a 99-92 defeat Sunday in a National Basketball Association game.

The Bucks held a slim 71-69 lead going into the final quarter, but the Milwaukee defense forced the Lakers to throw the ball away several times to take their 3rd loss in a row.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was the chief architect of the Milwaukee victory as he scored 37 points, 13 of them in the final period.

The game was close for three periods with teams never separated by more than five points. But with Milwaukee leading 86-85, the Bucks scored six straight points and Los Angeles was unable to come back.

Bob Dandridge had 21 points to aid the Milwaukee attack and Lucius Allen added 22. Jerry West and Jim McMillan shared scoring honors for the Lakers with 26 points each.

Eagles return after layoff

College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles, ranked fourth in the nation and coming off a three-week layoff, return to the wars for three games this week including their first "must" battle of the year.

Coach Jerry Hale's Eagles will entertain Treasure Valley Community College Tuesday night and the University of Utah from Wednesday, both starting at 8 p.m. Saturday they travel to Ricks where a berth in the regional tournament will be up for grabs.

CSI, which presented its fans with a Christmas bonus of three big victories on the road into California and Utah, might have a little trouble with that layoff. Coach Hale has had the team back for only four practice days.

However, he feels the team might be better for it since some R and R was needed, after a rugged pre-Christmas schedule.

One thing helping about that rest is the return of forward Steve Swanson to good health. The youngster has been plagued by injury and illness since the year began.

While the Eagles will be running for both mid-week games, the key will be Saturday at Ricks. Under the regional set-up, only one independent berth is available. Ricks and CSI are the only independents, meaning the home-and-home series is actually a pre-regional playoff. Should the teams split, as they did last year, the tourney spot will go to the team with the best record against common

Collombin continues to win

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany (UPI) — Switzerland's flying downhill ski ace Roland Collombin took first place for the second day in a row Sunday at the Garmisch World Cup Downhill Ski Race.

Collombin, 21, zoomed down the tough Kandahar slope in 1:46.30 minutes, beating his own world record set only Saturday.

Italy's Marcello Varallo (1:46.53) and Swiss Olympic champ Bernhard Russi (1:47.13) took second and third places.

With today's victory, Collombin, a silver medal winner at the Sapporo Winter Olympic Games, edged out Austria's David Zwilling for first place in the overall standings for the season.

Roland Collombin is at the moment the best downhill skier in the world and is really first rate," said countryman Bernhard Russi after the race. "He's hard to beat."

Celtics protect NBA lead

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) — John Havlicek scored 33 points and Dave Cowens added 20 in a 104-97 victory over the Boston Celtics protected their Atlantic division lead with an easy 116-90 NSA victory over the Baltimore Bullets.

The Celtics rushed to a 29-11 first-period edge as the Bullets turned over the ball 13 times. Dave Cowens has 10 of his rebound total in the second quarter as Boston enjoyed a 56-10 halftime bulge.

Baltimore came within 79-70 in the final minute of the third quarter, but Havlicek saved 10 points for the last period to snap a two-game Bullet winning streak.

The victory gave Boston a 32-1 record, one-half game ahead of the New York Knicks. Baltimore's Central Division lead dropped to one-and-one-half games over idle Atlanta.

Jo Jo White had 22 points for Boston and Don Chaney added 18. Elvin Hayes led the Bullets with 24 points, while Phil Chenier had 18.

North stages rally for American bowl win

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Louisville's John Madeya hit a 33-yard field goal to lead the American Bowl record 33 yards, and the longest of his career, by the South up into a 40-0 lead.

The North had gone ahead in the second period when John Goerger of Kansas State, a native of Tampa, kicked a 32-yard field goal as the gun sounded to end the first half. Goerger also kicked the extra point after the Madeya-to-LIST touchdown.

South defensive tackle John Matuszak, who was in the North backfield much of the game, was voted the game's most valuable player, while the most valuable North team award went to starting quarterback Mike Wells of Illinois.

The winning touchdown came on the drive following Jett's second field goal and covered 75 yards in nine plays.

The South failed to capitalize on a golden opportunity in the final period when Dane Scrivener of Tulsa raced 72 yards with a punt return before being tackled on the North 14 yard line.

But on the first play Don Roy Ealey of Texas fumbled and the ball was recovered by Larry Allen of Illinois on the eight yard line. The South pushed the North back to its own one-yard line and then after the ensuing punt, the South was forced to settle on Jett's field goal, which barely floated over the cross bar.

Jett missed on two field goals while Goerger missed on one. Jett's first attempt was blocked by Nebraska's Bill Janssen after a bad snap from center on the 34 yard line and the second fell far short.

Goerger's miss was on a 27 yard attempt that sailed wide to the right.

The victory was the fourth for the North against only one loss in the series and handed Head Coach Bob Devaney a final college victory. He has retired as coach at Nebraska to devote full time to the job of athletic director.

The game also closed out the 1972 collegiate football season.

Redskins arrive at playoff site

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Washington Redskins arrived here Sunday for their final week of Super Bowl preparations and George Allen, former coach of the Los Angeles Rams, said, "It's great to be back."

The National Football Conference champions then were bused to the Saddleback Inn at Santa Ana, Calif., where they will be headquartered until their game at the Coliseum next Sunday against the Miami Dolphins.

Allen spent part of his impromptu news conference at the Los Angeles International Airport praising Miami Coach Don Shula.

"Don Shula has done a tremendous job," he said. "He's taken a team that was a loser and taken them through an undefeated season to the Super Bowl."

A small group of fans was on hand but didn't get a chance to greet the Redskins because Allen had the two team buses drive right up to Washington's D.C. They waved at the Redskins players as the buses passed by.

"The big thing, naturally, is to come back and win," the Redskins' coach said. "The Super Bowl is only good if you win it."

Wide receiver Roy Jefferson added, "We've proved we're a winning football team. But we still have to prove we can beat a 10-0 team."

Allen, who spent five years as coach of the Rams before being fired by late owner Dan Reeves in 1970 in a personality conflict, said the Redskins had had "good practices" for the Super Bowl.

He refused to put any credence in the Redskins' 27-24 exhibition win over Miami last summer.

It was just an exhibition game and both teams were experimenting," Allen said.

The Redskins deliberately avoided fanfare when they emerged from Washington.

Allen had the squad bused directly to its chartered plane without having to go through Dulles Airport, where a well-wishing crowd might gather. Instead, the team rode from its practice area near the airport and boarded the plane on the runway about a half-mile from the terminal.

The same arrangement will prevail when the team returns after the Super Bowl next Sunday.

In the past, the return of the Redskins has drawn thousands to Dulles creating monumental traffic jams on the single access highway leading into and out of the airport.

Dolphins remember last year

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins left for Los Angeles and next week's Super Bowl on Sunday, hoping that the experience of last year's loss to Dallas will help them beat Washington this time around for a perfect 17-0 season and the NFL title.

An enthusiastic crowd cheered the Dolphins as they arrived at Miami International Airport to board their charter flight. New anti-hijack security regulations kept the fans out of the passenger concourse, so players were mobbed on their way in.

Offensive tackle Norm Evans said he thought the team might have been a little "peter-struck" before last year's 24-3 Super Bowl loss to the Cowboys. He said he wasn't quite prepared for the goings-on leading up to the game.

"The preparation, interviews, ticket request. All the hassle. It's a mysterious thing to you because you've never been through it before," Evans said.

"You're always more stable facing the known than facing the unknown," he said. "Now, even going back against Washington, whom we've never played in the regular season, we'll know what it's about."

Wide receiver Howard Twilley agreed.

"I am aware of how to concentrate for this Super Bowl," Twilley said. "We all thought we were aware last year, but maybe not."

Indiana announces new coach

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Indiana university Sunday named Lee Corso, 37, as head football coach. Corso, in four years' rebuild university of Louisville football programs to national standing.

IU President John W. Ryan announced the decision after a telephone vote of the university's trustees. Ryan said formal approval of the contract would be placed on the agenda for the board's next regular meeting, Jan. 20.

Corso's appointment becomes effective immediately. He succeeds John Pont, who resigned Dec. 23 after eight years at IU to accept the head football coaching spot at Northwestern.

Corso produced a 9-1 Missouri Valley Conference championship at Louisville last season. In four years at Louisville, Corso's teams compiled a 28-11-3 record and twice won the Missouri Valley title, the first time in the school's history. In 1970 he took the Cardinals to their first bowl game, a 24-24 tie with favored Long Beach State at the Pasadena Bowl.

Veteran leads Utah past Nets

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — The Utah Stars, sparked by veteran Zelmo Beaty, reeled off the first 10 points of the second half Sunday to break open a close game enroute to a 110-101 victory over the New York Nets.

Beaty scored six of the Stars' 10 points, after the intermission and finished with 22 for the American Basketball Association's Western Division leaders.

Utah managed to open up a 46-point lead at 72-36 early in the third quarter but New York kept chipping away and moved within 102-98 with three minutes remaining before Jimmy Jones, who paced the Stars with a game-high 25 points, connected for two key field goals in the next minute to keep Utah safely in front.

Super-sub Ron Boone also tallied 22 for Utah while Willie Wise had 10. John Roche led the Nets with 23 points while Billy Paulitz scored 23 and collected 15 rebounds.

It was just an exhibition game and both teams were experimenting," Allen said.

Black Hawks nip Boston Bruins

CHICAGO (UPI) — Two goals each by Dan Maloney and Cliff Koroll and a goal and three assists from Stan Mikita gave the Chicago Black Hawks a 5-4 victory over the Boston Bruins Sunday in a National Hockey League interdivisional contest.

Johnny Bucyk, with two goals, and Bobby Orr, with three assists, led the Bruins' attack in the nationally televised game.

Both teams made good use of power play chances, the Bruins scoring on three and the Black Hawks on two. Maloney's decisive goal, with less than one minute left in the second period, came while Orr was out on a hooking call.

Trailing at the start of the final period, Boston came out charging through the Hawks' defense, but Chicago's Tony Esposito managed to turn back everything thrown at him, even when the Bruins pulled their goalie in the final minute.

The Bruins got on the scoreboard first with Ken Hodge's power play tip-in on Orr's blast from just inside the blue line. Chicago tied on Mikita's deflection of Maloney's shot from the corner. Bucyk put the Bruins ahead again on another power play, lifting Phil Esposito's shot over brother Tony.

The Hawks tied it once more with Maloney's first goal—a sharply angled shot first awarded to Dick Redmond but later ruled a tip-in by Maloney. Koroll put the Hawks out in front once more with a high shot over John Adams' shoulder. Greg Sheppard tied the score and Koroll and Bucyk scored goals until Maloney's decisive shot.

Funseth captures Los Angeles open

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rod Funseth, who had won only one tournament in 12 years on the PGA tour, shot a two-under par 69 Sunday to take the $135,000 Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open by three strokes with a 72-hole total of 276, eight under.

Funseth, 39, won the 1965 Phoenix Open and set course records three times over the years with brilliant 18-hole rounds. In 1972 the San Jose, Calif., pro won $48,000 in 35 events.

He got his biggest purse, $27,000, at the Riviera Country Club at the first PGA event of 1973.

Sixty-year-old Sam Snead, who was just a stroke in back of Funseth, went into the final round, faded to 75 with a total of 281, five strokes back.

Four pros tied for second at 279, five under, and each one won $9,000. They were Don Bies, Seattle; Tom Weiskopf, Columbus, Ohio; Dave Hill, Evergreen, Colo., all with final round 68s and Australia's David Graham with a 71.

Funseth, one of the longest hitters on the tour, set a course record 61 for the Bing Crosby clubhouse at Pebble Beach last year but then faded badly in his usual pattern.

Bies, Funseth's roommate and close friend, said, "Rod is a lot better golfer than he thinks he is. He sometimes has a letdown after a good round because he does not think positively."

Funseth thought positively enough Sunday on a sunny, almost summer-like day at this tree-shaded and hilly Riviera course to go out and par the first seven holes. He then got bogged down on the eighth and ninth holes for a 33. He purred home in 36, lagging putts rather than gambling on the greens for his 69. His earlier rounds were 71, 69, 69.

His third round 65 tied a course record, set by earlier Saturday by Gay Brewer, who shot a par 71 Sunday for a total of 281. Snead was also at 281 along with young John Mahaffey, of Houston, Texas, who had a final round of 68.

Jerry West thinks top rookie is sitting on Laker bench

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jerry West, Lakers coach, says "Red" Priddy is sitting on the bench for the Los Angeles Lakers, says Jerry West, he might want to get an NBA rookie of the year.

Instead, he says first-year guard Priddy, University of Louisville, has had to spend most of his short pro career watching the Lakers' backcourt tandem of West and Gail Goodrich.

Priddy is one of the main reasons why I haven't cracked up," said West. "It helps a great deal when someone like him will take the time to sit down and talk to me."

I like to be playing more but I'm not going to second-guess the coach, Bill Sharman. I haven't proved I'm an NBA player yet but he's sure proved he's an NBA coach."

Behind West and Goodrich, Sharman has a pair of veteran swingmen in Keith Erickson and Pat Riley.

The coach and Priddy continued to sit down and talk it out and it's just a matter of him wanting to go with the experience and you can't question that. After all, the Lakers were the league champion last season.

Priddy is one of two rookies on the Lakers roster. The other is Travis Grant, college basketball's all-time greatest scorer from Kentucky State. Grant is riding the bench.

I'm really not that close to Priddy, the 6-foot 3 guard said, "but he seems to be in a good mood when he's around me."

In the Lakers' first 3 games, of which they won 3, Priddy averaged 12 points, for a total of 36 minutes.

He scored 13 points against the Philadelphia 76ers here Nov. 19 and tallied 17 at home against Kansas City last weekend.

Jerry West thinks top rookie is sitting on Laker bench

It was a matter of the Lakers giving me a better deal, remarked Priddy, who was signed to a multi-year contract by Los Angeles.

I had said before the season was over that I wanted to play basketball, although I had no idea I would be talking with them."

Priddy appreciates what West, the Lakers' 17-year superstar, says about him being Rookie of the Year caliber but adds, "I'm not a cocky person and I'd rather show people what I can do."

At Los Angeles last March, Priddy was named to the NCAA all-American team, although he missed last two games, finishing a 1982 defeat at the hands of Bill Walton and UCLA.

What kind of a pro will Walton make? I don't consider myself any sport. The Laker rookie answered.

Coach comments on violations

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — The coach of the University of Southwestern Louisiana basketball team, laying the blame on a graduate assistant who was fired two years ago, admitted Sunday his school has been accused of what he termed "a bunch" of violations by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, but he said he would like to have more time in which to answer the charges.

"Beryl" Shipley, who has coached the Ragin' Cajuns to national prominence the last two years, said the NCAA has "probably spent $100,000-$150,000" investigating the charges, some of which date back to 1967.

"We've admitted to being wrong on some of the charges," Shipley said, "but as to the published report that we had people taking exams for the players that's strictly erroneous. There's nothing to that story at all."

Shipley and the Southwestern Louisiana basketball team were here practicing for Monday night's game against Cincinnati.

Shipley, along with his assistant Tom Cox were put on two years probation by the Lafayette, La., school in November for what Shipley termed "irregular procedures."

The school felt we weren't exactly following the NCAA guidelines concerning certain academic procedures. The school explained the situation to the NCAA and they agreed to give us until March 1 to answer the charges but they decided to move up the hearing date after the school took some action of its own.

"All of these charges have resulted from what the fired graduate student told the NCAA."

Even though pressed, Shipley refused to name the graduate student involved.

"It's easier for the NCAA to pick on Johnny 'c'm' lately schools like us which are independent and not in conferences. It's all a lot of politics and this wouldn't have happened if our school was an old established institution."

Shipley said he had no plans to attend the scheduled NCAA hearing in Chicago Tuesday, and also added that he didn't know of any school representative who would be at the meeting.

"We've got a game Wednesday night and I won't have time to go to Chicago," Shipley said. Shipley added that the story of the NCAA investigation "has affected both our play and our players."

Eighth-ranked Southwestern Louisiana suffered its first loss in seven games Saturday, when it dropped a 120-78 decision to Jacksonville.

Earlier Sunday in Lafayette U.S. District Judge Richard Putnam signed a temporary injunction postponing a scheduled Jan. 9 hearing by the NCAA. Putnam's order called for a Jan. 15 hearing to decide whether the NCAA gave school officials enough time to prepare their defense.

Kentucky Wildcats are in last place

ATLANTA (UPI) — Shades of Adolph Rupp.

The Kentucky Wildcats, perennial southeastern conference cage favorites, are, at the moment, dead last in the SEC basketball race.

That state of affairs, and surely an embarrassing one for Rupp's successor Joe Hall, came about Saturday night when the Ole Miss Rebels beat the Wildcats, 61-58, for the first time since 1928.

The Rebels forged into a 13-point, 39-26, lead with barely two minutes left to play, then staved off a late Kentucky surge to start the Wildcats 5-4 overall, off to 1-4 in league play.

The 110-ranked Vanderbilt Commodores, 10-1 overall, held on to the SEC lead, at 3-0, by beating Georgia in overtime Saturday, 89-86 thanks to a 22-point performance by 6-6 junior Lew Fowler. Georgia led by eight at halftime.

Alabama, 2-0 and 2-1, held on to second place in the SEC race by beating Louisiana State Saturday night, 77-66, with 6-2 junior Ray Odums setting the pace with 21 points.

And the Tennessee Vols, only 2-1 overall, made their SEC debut a winning one, beating Mississippi State, 86-67, without the services of injured 7-foot-7er Kosmalski as guards John Snow and Mike Edwards scored 28 and 26 points respectively.

One other SEC game Saturday saw Florida beat Auburn, 65-55.

In independent play, 17th-ranked South Carolina 78-73 beat Fairfield, 68-58; 19th-ranked Florida State 78-73 beat Connecticut, 91-55; Jacksonville (10-2) beat Southwest Louisiana, 120-78; Tulane (1-1) beat Utah State, 91-80; and Georgia Tech (2-7) beat Hawaii, 85-82.

Monday night's SEC schedule is highlighted by Tennessee's visit to Ole Miss. Other Monday night league games find Auburn at Georgia, Vanderbilt at Florida and Kentucky at Mississippi State. Among the Independents, Florida State hosts Georgetown, Georgia Tech hosts Rice, South Carolina is at Virginia Tech and Tulane is at Baylor.

Hunting preserve owner 'pioneer'

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (UPI) — For $550, Hervis Ward will guarantee a "hunter" a beautifully rucked European Red deer at point-blank range without ever leaving the cushioned seat of a jeep.

And if the hunter doesn't quite kill the deer, Ward will finish the job with his knife by slitting the animal's belly.

Ward is the owner of "Ward's Deer Ranch," a 300-acre fenced shooting preserve that has a herd of deer that are fed twice daily by automatic corn dispensers.

There are five species of deer on the ranch: Axis, European Red, Sika, Whitetail and Fallow. Ward charges $50 to hunt the Axis and European Red deer and $300 for the other three species.

Ward, a 49-year-old oil dealer, feels he is pioneering the only type of hunting that will be available to future generations.

becoming anxious for a kill, suggested Ward abandon the search for the old buck and pick another animal.

Within minutes Ward had selected a large Sika buck standing beside the road about 50 feet away.

Ward turned the jeep, "Brady said, "so it was parallel to the deer, giving the hunter an easy broadside shot. Without moving from his seat, the hunter fired, and missed."

Brady said the deer ran about 20 yards, stopped, turned and began walking at an angle toward the jeep.

Ward moved the jeep again," Brady said, "so it was parallel with the deer and the hunter fired again. This time he hit the buck in the spine. The deer fell and started crawling away."
