Viet talks set Tuesday

KEY BISCAVNE (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger is returning to Paris Monday for the purpose of completing the text of a peace agreement with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho, the Florida White House announced today.

Kissinger will depart for Paris some time Monday morning as hopes mount for a Vietnam cease-fire in the near future.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters: "We have a joint announcement between the United States and North Vietnam. Dr. Kissinger will resume private meetings with special adviser Le Duc Tho and minister Xuan Thuy on Jan. 23 for the purpose of completing the text of an agreement."

Ziegler also announced that Gen. Alexander M. Haig, Nixon's special emissary, conferring with Thai leaders in Bangkok today, will be returning to Saigon Saturday to consult again with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Haig conferred with Thieu for two days before continuing his rounds as a peace emissary, calling on leaders in Cambodia and Laos before going to Thailand.

Ziegler did nothing to dampen speculation that a ceasefire might be declared soon in South Vietnam.

Death theory refuted

CHANNEL believed to have been formed by running water cuts surface of planet Mars in mosaic of three pictures. Flow of channel is from upper left toward lower right. But scientists say question of life on Mars remains unsolved. (UPI)

Evidence hints past Mars life

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's unmanned Mariner 9 spacecraft has destroyed the myth that Mars is a long dead planet, scientists believe.

Instead, Mars was wracked by volcanoes for 3 billion years and washed in the distant past by rivers of water flowing over its surface.

This picture was given Wednesday by scientists who analyzed data from Mariner 9, which was launched from Cape Kennedy May 30, 1971, and began orbiting the "Red Planet" 167 days later. The spaceship was shut down Oct. 27 after orbiting Mars 698 times.

Harold Masursky of the U.S. Geological Survey said the analysis of data indicated the probe had "destroyed the myth" that Mars was old and dead.

"We think it has been alive all the time," Masursky said. "We see volcanic centers which are heavily cratered and which have to be very old."

But scientists who briefed reporters said there was nothing to indicate the presence of life on Mars today. They said the conclusion that water once flowed on Mars increases the probability that life existed there at some time. They said there might still be volcanic activity beneath the Martian surface.

Determining whether there actually is life on Mars must wait until spacecraft land there. U.S. officials expect to announce within five or six weeks where "Viking 75—a double launch planned for 1975 which will land two U.S. unmanned craft on Mars the following year—will be sent."

"Whatever probability we placed on finding life on Mars five years ago, it must be higher now because of the evidence there was water," said Dr. Bradford Smith of New Mexico State University.

But Dr. Arthur J. Lane of the space agency's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) at Pasadena, Calif., said a major unresolved question is the lack of nitrogen in the Martian atmosphere.

Nitrogen is an essential element in forming the amino acid molecules related to terrestrial life.

Pollution hit

BOISE (UPI) — House committees proposed legislation today to crack down on noise and air pollution.

By a vote of 8-2, the Transportation Committee introduced a bill to prohibit sale or use of muffler cut-outs or bypasses on motor vehicles.

At the same time, the Health and Welfare Committee put forth a bill to prohibit cigarette, cigar and pipe smoking at public meetings and hearings.

Reps. Dale Branson, D-Nezperce, and Claud Judd, D-Orillon, tried to hold up the muffler bill for amendment but their move failed. Branson suggested it be amended to include a farm exemption, saying farmers in his area have trouble with truck mufflers during harvest time.

Envoys adjourn Paris Viet talks

PARIS (UPI) — For the first time in four years, Vietnam peace negotiators ended their weekly talks session today without fixing a new date or explaining the reason.

The U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators said "Farewell" to newsmen and shook their hands happily.

But none of the delegations would answer when the journalists asked if the talks were over in the form they have known since 1968.

Today's session was the 174th. Next Thursday's would have marked the precise fourth anniversary of the start of the talks—Jan. 25, 1969.

None of the delegates would say if the move was a positive sign, indicating a Vietnam cease-fire was at hand, or a negative sign, indicating it had been delayed.

During the meeting, both the United States and Saigon said there were still difficulties in the way of a peace settlement, and the Viet Cong blamed South Vietnam for raising obstacles to peace.

Viet Cong press spokesman Ly Van San said at the end of the meeting that the North Vietnamese had proposed, as usual, another meeting next Thursday or at a time to be fixed by liaison officers.

"The American side gave their agreement to the second part of that proposal," San said.

The Saigon spokesman, Nguyen Trieu Dan, said the procedure for electing a new date was neither new nor exceptional, but it was the first time, holidays apart, that failure to set a new date brought no protests.

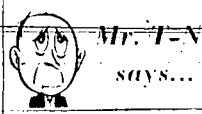

U.S. spokesman David Lambertson, asked why the United States and South Vietnam declined to meet next Thursday, said: "We have reasons which obviously we are not going to discuss."

He said the Communist side readily accepted our point of view" on leaving the date of the next session to liaison officers.

Gem solons seek own budget data

By DAVID ESPO, Times-News writer

BOISE — House Joint Finance Appropriations Committee co-chairman said "edited information" in the governor's budget book means the legislature would have to produce its own budget information.

Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl said Wednesday the budget book given the legislature by Gov. Cecil Andrus was "famous for its lack of information, it's sketchy."

Roberts' comments were in unison with the other committee co-chairman, Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, who said the legislature would have to put the governor's proposals aside and come up with its own budget proposals.

Roberts said the executive budget book was deficient on several counts:

— It contained a lack of "history" about past agency funding;

— there was no detail provided for determining the per program cost within an agency budget request;

— the estimated 1972-73 expenditure figures contained in the book do not reflect the governor's 1.9 per cent general fund spending holdback, and are thus all 1.9 per cent higher than actual estimates, except for agencies with the holdback resented.

By GEORGE WILEY, Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — After several years of solid expansion in state funding, the College of Southern Idaho faces a squeeze in state funds. The squeeze will come in both its academic and vocational programs for the 1973-74 academic year.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' recommended budget for fiscal 1974 calls for a 14 per cent increase in academic funds for state junior colleges over 1973, an increase to roughly $1.5 million from about $1.3 million.

Most of this increase is to allow for inflation and an estimated four per cent rise in enrollment, which may not be forthcoming.

This is a far cry from the 27.7 per cent increase in state academic funding from 1972 to 1973, and an even more drastic drop from the 46.4 per cent increase from 1971 to 1972.

If Gov. Andrus' recommendations are adopted by the legislature, they will represent a hold-the-line policy at best. Andrus himself in last year's budget foresaw a need for about $1.8 million for fiscal 1974.

Certainly, the academic fund will fall far short of those being sought by CSI president Dr. James L. Taylor.

In November, Dr. Taylor outlined plans before the CSI Board of Trustees to seek a 67 per cent increase in academic funds from the state. Dr. Taylor said at that time he would go BOISE — Idaho's largest potato company has accepted a US Department of Agriculture disciplinary order prohibiting it from trading on the potato futures market.

J. R. Simplot, J. R. Simplot Co., Boise, and Simplot Eastern Idaho Produce Inc., Blackfoot, have agreed to the order stopping them from trading on contract markets for 90 days.

The order also directs them to cease and desist from manipulating or attempting to manipulate commodity prices, according to the USDA.

A complaint issued Sept. 6 charged that Simplot and his two organizations had attempted to manipulate prices downward in May, 1971, Idaho potato futures on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

Several other companies and persons including Modie J. Spiegel, retired chairman of Spiegel Inc., Chicago based mail order house, were charged with attempting to manipulate prices upward.

In the consent agreement, Simplot waived a hearing and accepted the order issued Jan. 10 recommended by the Commodity Exchange Authority of the USDA.

The 90-day trading suspension period becomes effective Feb. 9.

Fund squeeze on CSI looms

SMALL BUSINESSES

Nineteen out of every twenty firms in this country are considered to be small businesses, but they provide more than 25 million jobs and generate more than $70 billion of the gross national product.

before the Joint Legislative Appropriations Committee, which he will do Jan. 26, with a request for an additional $44,110 in academic funds for CSI in 1974.

Estimates based on Andrus' budget recommendations indicate he might get about 10 per cent of that amount, or something close to $4,000.

CSI's total funding for academic programs by the state is likely to be about $849,000, under the terms of the governor's recommendations for 1974, much less than the $1,206 million Dr. Taylor indicated he would seek earlier.

And this amount might be less if CSI's enrollment continues to fall off as it now appears to be doing.

Kidnapers shoot three in Missouri

GRANDIN, Mo. (UPI) — A bank president, his wife and 16-year-old daughter were found bound to trees and shot to death in a woods Wednesday, apparently the victims of extortionists. Shortly before, the president had entered his bank of Grandin, told a bookkeeper he was wired with dynamite, and rushed out with $13,000.

Early today authorities arrested and began questioning two men. Police would only say the men were strangers in town who earlier had sought information about Grandin — a town of 250.

"We have some other suspects," a police spokesman said, "but we don't know how good they are."

Riley County Coroner Howard Jackson said the bodies of Robert Kitterman, 43, his wife, Bertha, 38, and daughter Roberta were found in woods near an abandoned farm house in hilly, secluded country.

Kitterman and his wife had each been shot through the temple. Their daughter, who only Wednesday had announced her engagement in the Prospect-News in nearby Donovan, was shot in the back of the head.

Mrs. Kitterman and Roberta were tied to the same tree, while Kitterman was tied to another tree.

The bizarre episode apparently began shortly after noon Wednesday, when Kitterman stumbled into the bank and announced: "They have my wife and daughter."

Ralph Stanley, the bank's bookkeeper, told authorities the bank was "closed" for the lunch hour when Kitterman entered the bank, gathered money into a sack, and said he was wired with dynamite. He hurried out of the bank without saying anything else, Stanley said.

Authorities said a county school official who saw Kitterman leave the bank said Kitterman told him "my wife and daughter are being held hostage by some extortionists. Call the highway patrol."

Stanley told police Kitterman appeared very frightened and walked "stopped over" when he entered the bank and told him not to turn on any lights or electrical switches. He explained that he had dynamite wired to his chest.

Jackson said no dynamite was found on Kitterman's body, but he said he "doesn't know why" (Kitterman) would say if he wasn't.

Berrigan Seen... travel snagged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Today is the day the Berrigan brothers wanted to go to Hanoi, but official permission for the trip was snagged in the Supreme Court after a series of last minute appeals.

The Rev. Philip Berrigan and his brother, the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, both on parole after serving sentences for destruction of draft records, asked Jan. 8 for permission to visit Hanoi.

The U.S. Board of Parole said no. The brothers, through an attorney, went to U.S. District Court here. On Monday, District Judge Oliver Gaseh refused them a temporary restraining order.

On Wednesday the U.S. Court of Appeals reversed Gaseh and granted the brothers a restraining order—in effect telling the Parole Board it could not stop their trip.

But the board, through the U.S. solicitor general, went quickly to the Supreme Court.

Late Wednesday Chief Justice Warren E. Burger granted a temporary stay which officially holds up their trip until all the Supreme Court justices have time to consider whether there should be further delay.

ABSENTEEISM, resulting from various forms of flu and cold viruses, has increased this week in the Twin Falls high school but not by any alarming amount.

Superintendent George Staudacher, back at work after five-days absence with the flu, said high school attendance was at about 92 per cent, compared to 95 per cent normal.

He said the only problem anticipated would be if teachers continue to be absent making it difficult to have a full faculty. He said he was contacting schools today for a report on teacher absenteeism.

Watergate trial grinds to halt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of Democratic party workers will ask an appeals court panel today to suppress some of the testimony offered by the star government witness in Watergate bugging trial, now in its ninth day.

The trial ground to a halt late Wednesday while Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica held a secret hearing on the contents of the conversations overheard by Alfred C. Baldwin III, a former FBI agent, on a wiretapped telephone. The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled last Friday that Sirica must hold the "closed door" session to determine the contents of the conversations before allowing the actual testimony.

Attorney Charles Morgan Jr., representing the Democrats whose conversations Baldwin monitored, said he would ask the appeals court to overturn Sirica's ruling today.

Wheat Land

Action taken by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to free 15-million acres of idle wheat land for immediate use will not have an overnight effect on the cost forces pressing food prices upward.

order to prevent or alleviate a shortage in the supply of livestock feed. The grazing privilege will assist livestock producers in meeting increasing consumer demand for meat products.

Income Pros

A severe shaking out is in prospect for professional tax preparers, who have sprung up like Topsy in recent years thanks to the over-simplified but always labyrinthine Form 1040.

million-taxpayers will elect to file the short form in 1973. All of which, of course, affects the legitimate tax-preparation firms along with not-so-legitimate the competent as well as the incompetent.

It wasn't necessary, says the IRS, which this year will lose the taxes on that $640 million since fees paid to tax preparers are deductible.

Henry W. Block, president of H & R Block, Inc., the giant in the field, questions the wisdom of the IRS in trying to specialize in tax preparation.

Thus it has declared a kind of war on the private tax services by, among a number of things, bringing back Short Form 1040A and by announcing that IRS offices will provide complete, free tax preparation service for any taxpayer who wishes it.

In any event, it is a fact that the tax-paying public does need assistance, and it is mostly needed by the poor and lower-income taxpayers who consistently overpay their taxes by failing to list their deductions and credits.

That Long Hair

Our hair has now been growing for some 19 weeks without any cutting - except, of course, the snipping off of a few long ones which seemed to hang out, or point out, the wrong directions.

THOSE ACHING BONES When grandpa claimed to be able to forecast rain by the aching in his bones he may have been more scientific than his scoffing offspring realized.

It isn't that we are trying to save money by not getting a haircut now and then, it is just that we wanted to see how it felt. Not only that, but with this cold winter - and the fact we do not own a hat - we thought it might be a little warmer.

Anyway, 18 experts have reported to the World Meteorological Organization that weather and barometric pressure changes have a tremendous effect on the health and emotional well-being of human beings.

We are not sure about being warm-but we are concerned. The old hair has now reached a point where it does not get any longer. We assume it is still growing - someone told us it should grow at the rate of a quarter-inch a month, more or less, but our growth seems to have stopped.

During a common thunderstorm, they contend, more people are born, die, have accidents and come down with maladies than in fine weather. Sudden weather changes, aggravate chronic ailments, and heat and cold may have something to do with the sex of babies, the researchers say.

What about you people out there who are letting your hair grow. Does yours appear to have stopped or is it keeping right on? Why not drop Mr. Spectator a line?

Because there still isn't much anyone can do about the weather, the information is more interesting than important. But it at least gives man, something more substantial than a simple primal urge to keep an eye cocked at the sky.

GIVEAWAY DEPT: We have three male half-Australian and half-hunting pups to give away. They are real cute. In fact, one is pure white. If you want a nice dog then call 829-5529 in Hazelton.

We have four cats we must give away. Three are kittens and two are black and one grey and black. Please call 733-1094 in Twin Falls and ask for Jay.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE: What a terrific din there would be if we made as much noise when things go right as we do when they go wrong.

WASHINGTON - President Nixon's Phase III DECONTROL decision was hammered out in cozy talks between Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz and AFL-CIO President George Meany at a joint golfing vacation just after the November election at the exclusive Augusta National golf club in Georgia.

Wholesale Prices

WASHINGTON Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, who makes economic policy for President Nixon, is "extremely distressed" at the whopping increase in wholesale prices for December.

threatens to undermine the government's entire economic stabilization program. You can be sure that Patman and Javits have looked and discovered that inflation is still a political issue, with profits accruing to those legislators who join the housewives at the barricades.

Meany-style. There has been similar doubletalk on Capitol Hill, the most notable example of which was the statement of Rep. Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.), who denounced Phase III as "incomprehensible."

That Kennedy

WASHINGTON (NEA) - If we're going to follow Sen. Ted Kennedy around for the next four years or more, we're going to have to learn when to get excited and when not to. Right now isn't the moment. He's just warming up.

The sober sides got all steamed up recently when he held out the "olive branch" to President Nixon and also said he had more good will right now in Congress than he's ever had before.

instincts were serving him. There's plenty of time for partisan carping later. The sensible, mature, graceful thing at this moment is to accept the voters' verdict, and tell the winner it gives him an enormous opportunity.

When Rep. Wright Patman speaks, even Nixon's economic experts have to listen because the Texas Democrat is chairman of the committee that will write new price- and wage-control law this year, and he favors controls or the prices of unprocessed foods.

Wrong, Kennedy simply had a couple speeches to make, and wanted one of them to be about Congress in the months just ahead.

John F. Kennedy had just been elected to the Senate as Ike was sweeping the nation. He appeared on "Meet the Press" the Sunday after election. He could have followed the standard party line and bemoaned the puzzling behavior of American voters who rejected the noble Adlai Stevenson and chose instead a general new to politics.

talked ad nauseum," said one presidential adviser - centered on Meany's alarm that continued wage controls were undermining the very reason for the existence of unions.

That was sweet music to Shultz, who has always favored dropping mandatory controls as soon as possible (while keeping "the shotgun in the closet," as he said, for possible use against both labor and business when the now-voluntary guidelines are too brutally fractured).

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Getting Thin

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read about a new diet plan where you take one tablet with your breakfast food and then eat fattening foods. It states that the more fattening foods you eat, the faster the weight disappears.

suspect, correction of your misery may not be as easy or simple as it could have been many years ago.

Have you heard of this plan and do you think it would be safe to take? The guarantee states that you must keep the weight you lost off or your money will be refunded. - A.R.

Some children are born with congenital bunions, and surgical techniques have been worked out to correct this early in life. We didn't have such techniques 60 years ago, however.

I can't knock down every nutty diet plan that comes down the pike, but I will say about this one that you are never, never going to lose weight by eating "fattening foods" no matter how many pills you take.

I'm sorry as I can be that you've felt embarrassed about your feet all these years. It wasn't your fault, and it's too bad that you let your feelings keep you away from medical care all this time.

The only sensible way to lose weight is through a sensible diet that is well-balanced and where the only guarantee is that you will be able to keep thin and healthy at the same time.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My girl friend has been talking about giving herself a saline abortion by douching. Someone told her it was cheaper than going to a clinic to have it done. I have heard that she could bleed to death. Please put something in the paper before she does something. - Mrs. C. N.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I've been too embarrassed to write about my problem until now, and too ashamed to go to a foot doctor with my ugly feet. I am near 60 but I remember hiding my feet in bathing shoes as a teen-ager.

First thing to tell her is that just giving herself a saline (salt water) douche won't cause an abortion. The so-called saline technique is entirely different from an ordinary douche.

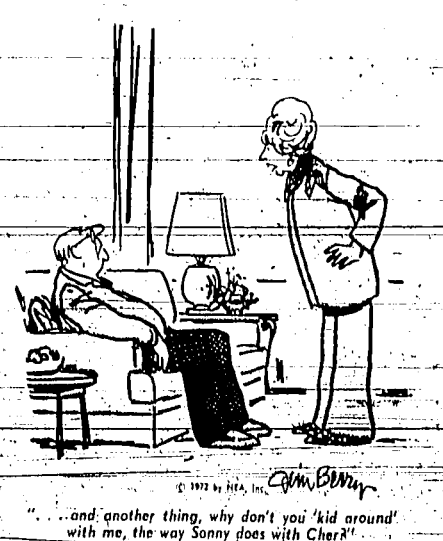

I always had bunions but they never hurt until now, and I find the big toe crossing over the one next to it and the toes buckling and the knuckles rise up and hurt.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After a barium enema X-ray recently, part of the report read, "Appendix visualized." Can you please explain that to me? - J. A.C.

My job for 30 years is standing almost always in one place. I was always comfortable, but now I just shift from one foot to the other. Am I too old for any help? - M.W.K.

Means your appendix was visible on the X-ray, which in turn means that the appendix was free of scar tissue or other material, so the barium could enter the appendix and it would show up on the X-ray. It's an incidental comment, usually made by the doctor reading the X-ray film. In other words, a normal situation.

CSI facing fund squeeze

To make matters worse for CSI, cutbacks in vocational education funds are likely.

Vocational funding statewide rose 90.3 per cent from fiscal 1971 to 1972, partly due to a sizable carryover in federal funds.

Between 1972 and 1973, total state vocational funding, which includes federal funding of about 27 per cent, fell off 6.7 per cent, but again this drop was largely due to the previous year's carryover from federal funds.

Gov. Andrus' budget recommendations for fiscal 1974 call for a 6.64 per cent increase in vocational funding, to about $6.8 million far below the $10 million Andrus estimated would be needed in 1974 when he presented his 1973 budget.

To complicate matters, further cutbacks in federal spending on vocational programs in 1974 are likely and would mean a decrease below the level of Andrus' current budget proposals.

State vocational education officials hope to at least hold the line on federal funding, but rumors on impending cutbacks abound.

Education and welfare appropriation bills already vetoed by President Nixon have left state officials holding their breaths, wary that federal spending next year may fall below this year's receipts.

According to Idaho Vocational Education director Roy Irons, if Congress fails to increase appropriations, the state stands to lose $126,000 of its federal funding due to population shifts in the 16-24 year-old age bracket, and this loss would apply to the current fiscal year and possibly to fiscal 1974.

It is also possible that Congress may decrease vocational appropriations, or that President Nixon may refuse to spend the vocational money.

CSI president Dr. Taylor received a letter earlier in the week from Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N. J., third ranking member of the House Education and Labor Committee, which reads in part:

"Unfortunately, my sources inform me that the President is planning to cut $100 million in funds for vocational education out of the federal budget."

If cutbacks are necessary for the state's six post-secondary vocational schools and the vocational programs in all but three of the state's high schools, Irons said capital outlays would be the first to go.

If necessary, Irons said, his agency would hold off on unfilled positions and would start no new programs.

Irons said it was impossible to say what effect federal cutbacks might have on CSI's vocational programs. He said a survey would be made of all programs in the state and a decision made at that time.

Under the terms of Gov. Andrus' budget recommendations CSI stands to receive about $637,000 in fiscal 1974, roughly a 6.3 per cent increase over the $599,000 budgeted for the current year. But this depends, of course, on the level of federal funding.

Dr. Taylor says CSI has already not been able to expand its vocational programs as he felt necessary to meet the needs of the community.

He says if further cutbacks are necessary they will be made, first, in travel; then instructional equipment, and finally, instructors.

According to Taylor, about 10 per cent of CSI's vocational funds come from the local district and the rest from the state.

For several months Taylor has been concentrating efforts on getting funds to build a new vocational building on the CSI campus. He had hoped to get some, if not all, of the estimated $2.1 million construction costs from the state.

Gov. Andrus' budget recommendations make no provision for building funds for CSI in 1974.

Area has WICHE graduates

BOISE — The Magic Valley has its share of WICHE-educated professionals, according to information given a legislative committee this week.

Dr. John Barnes, president of Boise State College and chairman of the Idaho Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education, told the Joint Finance - Appropriations Committee there are currently 50 practicing doctors, 38 dentists and 32 veterinarians who were educated with WICHE assistance.

Barnes said the practicing WICHE-educated professionals included doctors in Twin Falls, Burley, Glenns Ferry, dentists in Twin Falls, Shoshone, Buhl and Burley, and veterinarians in Kimberly, Jerome, Filer and Albion.

THE IDAHO DEPARTMENT STORE — DOWNTOWN — TWIN FALLS

By DAVID ESPO Times-News writer

BOISE — It may be as soon as next week when a legislative committee comes up with a projected revenue figure for the coming fiscal year.

Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, R-Tuttle, who heads a special committee charged with making the projection, said this week he hoped to have "preliminary figures" available for discussion at a public meeting he has called for next Tuesday night.

Already, Ravenscroft said, he is in close agreement with Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' projection that there will be roughly $13.7 million available in inventory phase-out tax replacement money.

The committee was established in an effort to find a revenue projection figure that the legislature could agree upon as the "correct" amount to be budgeted for the next fiscal year.

The past legislature engaged in a dispute with Andrus, with the governor claiming the lawmakers appropriated more money than the state will raise in taxes, and the legislators claiming the governor has underestimated actual revenues.

Last summer, when Andrus announced he was imposing a 1.9 per cent holdback in general fund spending, he said it was necessary for the budget to balance at the end of the year.

Republican legislators, including Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, and Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, co-chairmen of the Joint Finance - Appropriations Committee, called the holdback

"premature," and asked the governor to withdraw it.

He has refused, although last week he did tell the new legislature he would rescind the holdback on higher education spending, including junior colleges.

Ravenscroft said this week the committee he chairs has reached a temporary "snag" with its income tax projections, largely, he said, because there were so many changes in the law a year ago that it is difficult to project a figure for the new year.

The governor's budget message projected general fund sources of revenue would produce $154,456,000 for the 1973-1974 fiscal year, an increase of nearly $20 million over the anticipated revenues for the current year.

Total junior college funding seen

DR. JAMES L. TAYLOR sees full funding

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho president Dr. James L. Taylor told the Twin Falls Rotary Club Wednesday he foresees total state support for Idaho's junior colleges.

Dr. Taylor told the group continuing growth in community education needs throughout the state would eventually mean state support for junior colleges.

Taylor said he thought the impetus for state control might come with the construction of a proposed junior college in the Lewiston area. He said the presence of a four-year college in Lewiston, Lewis Clark State College, would discourage the type of local funding that CSI enjoys.

Dr. Taylor also said there is a definite need for a junior college in the Nampa-Caldwell area.

Total state financing for junior colleges is fine, Taylor said, as long as local controls over junior colleges are maintained. He said the loss of autonomy for junior colleges would be detrimental to their function as community oriented learning centers.

Taylor told Rotary Club members he hopes CSI is always retained as a comprehensive community college. A four-year institution, he said, operates with a different philosophy.

He said he felt a junior college could help more people through its diversity and emphasis of a wide range of non-degree programs important for their employment impact. "Local control and local government equal flexibility," Dr. Taylor said. Taylor presented a series of slides and outlined CSI's basic program. He said CSI was unique in maintaining an open entry system in vocational-technical programs.

"If a student wants to enter a program in January," Taylor said, "we'll enroll him. In February, if he wants to enter in February, we'll enroll him in February."

He said CSI has more than 3,000 students full and parttime, many of them adults. Enrollment is equivalent to 10,000 fulltime students, he said.

Taylor said his recent efforts have centered around getting a vocational technical education building on the CSI campus.

He said a major portion of the proposed building would be used to house facilities for the college's agri-business program.

Taylor concluded his talk with the announcement that he is embarking upon a capital fund drive to get the Herrett Museum housed on the CSI campus.

Taylor said the museum and planetarium, donated to CSI by Norman Herrett in 1969, were a valuable community asset.

He said, speaking as an educator, he felt young people in the area need the opportunity to use the planetarium and other instructional materials in the museum.

He asked Rotary members to give their support to the building fund effort.

A building to house the Herrett collection, Taylor said, could be either a separate building or a wing on the present Fine Arts Building.

He said as originally conceived the Fine Arts Building was intended to have another wing and this could have several advantages by providing additional interlocking facilities which would enhance the present structure and the addition.

TF coalition formed on school fund plans

TWIN FALLS — An informal citizens' coalition was formed here Wednesday night in hopes of becoming an effective lobby for improved public schools.

About 25 persons, half school employees, gave preliminary support to three general proposals for school improvement.

1. The group voted by a wide margin to place its highest priority on equalization of state funds distributed to school districts. It agreed kindergarten support held a lower priority.

2. The group voted unanimously to support "reorganization" of school administrative units. Plans were taken to differentiate "reorganization" of administrative units from "consolidation" which would merge schools.

3. The group made a general statement of support for increased funding levels for public schools, but postponed consideration of specific proposals to bring this about. The organizational meeting of the unnamed coalition was called at the invitation of the Twin Falls League of Women Voters.

Similar coalitions had been formed in Boise, Pocatello and Idaho Falls, according to Mrs. Ella Nelson, Twin Falls league president.

William Hughes, a College of Southern Idaho instructor, was elected chairman of the coalition.

Two committee chairmen were named. Norman Wiseman, Vera C.

Hansen man files plea of innocent

TWIN FALLS — Tedmund Darrell Hagstrom, 43, Hansen, pleaded innocent in Fifth District Court Monday to assault with a deadly weapon and resisting an officer. Hagstrom was arrested on the charges on Dec. 31, following an incident at a Hansen bar

Judge James P. Cunningham said trial would be set for Feb. 1 or 2. Hagstrom will be defended by Monte Carlson of Webb, Pike, Burton and Carlson, acting as a public defender. Hagstrom remains in the county jail.

US planes bomb Reds

SAIGON (UPI) — American warplanes hit suspected Communist targets in South Vietnam late Wednesday and early today in their heaviest such raids in more than two months, U.S. military spokesmen said today. Eighty-three jets struck targets near Saigon.

The U.S. military command said much of the action by U.S. aircraft was in support of South Vietnamese ground troops engaged in a major battle near Saigon.

Jet fighter-bombers flew 335 one-plane strikes in all of South Vietnam, the most since 352 sorties reported on Nov. 9, said the command, which reported 23 jet strikes within 10 miles of the capital.

Most of the jets, the command said, strafed and bombed between Tri Tam, 35 miles northwest of Saigon, and a rubber plantation five miles further north which often is used as a Communist infiltration route from Cambodia.

In fighting Wednesday between Tri Tam and the French-owned Michelin rubber plantation, military sources said, South Vietnamese ground troops lost 10 men killed and more than 50 wounded. U.S. B-52s have flown 62 missions, each mission was about three planes during the past week there in an effort to break up a suspected Communist buildup that could threaten Saigon. Ten more missions were flown today.

The command also announced another accidental U.S. bombing. Spokesmen said three U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jets mistakenly dropped one 500-pound bomb each on a South Vietnamese troop position near Tri Tam, 35 miles south of Da Nang. The command said one soldier was killed and four wounded.

Military sources said the Phantom jets also bombed "right on target," thus indicating ground troops had moved too close after a South Vietnamese ground fire controller called in an air strike.

2 airmen die

SAIGON (UPI) — Two Americans were killed in Indochina last week, both of them airmen lost over Laos, the U.S. command said today.

U.S. military spokesmen said 21 Americans were wounded and six others declared missing or captured by Communist forces. Two others died in such "non-hostile" incidents such as murders, drug overdoses and traffic accidents.

Since the beginning of 1961, a communique said, 45,933 Americans have been killed in action in Indochina, 303,616 wounded, and 1,811 missing in action. Another 10,298 U.S. servicemen have died of noncombat causes.

Price fixing charges made

DETROIT (UPI) — Top executives of the big three auto makers held a series of "summit meetings" to fix prices on fleet cars and to "share the burdens of any further strikes" by the United Auto Workers, the government charged Wednesday in a price-fixing case.

The federal indictment named Ford and General Motors as defendants in the civil action. Chrysler and some 100 executives of all three firms were named as co-conspirators, but were not indicted. The charges were made public Wednesday by U.S. District Court Judge John Feikens, after grand jury action last May 1.

The judge declined to suppress the 240-page bill of particulars, as requested by GM and Ford. The companies asked the court to suppress the report to give executives from embarrassment and to "preserve secrecy of the grand jury."

In 1962, the indictment charged, Ford and GM had 84 per cent of the fleet car business. Chrysler had only 10 per cent.

Then Chrysler began offering price concessions and gained a bigger share of the business. Ford and GM countered with substantial price concessions and "in some instances sold automobiles at or below the cost of their manufacture," the indictment charges.

In 1962 and 1963, it was charged, top executives of the big three held seven meetings to discuss further negotiations on labor contracts, even though GM, Ford and Chrysler are not parties to the same labor agreement.

Timothy Leary will face US charges

LONDON (UPI) — Timothy Leary, the former Harvard University instructor who escaped from a California prison in 1970 while serving a sentence for possession of narcotics, arrived in London today on his way back to the United States.

Leary, who was arrested in Afghanistan Tuesday, was escorted by two armed agents of the U.S. government as he stepped off Pan American World Airways 747 jet from Frankfurt.

Andrus defends budget message

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Wednesday the objectives of his budget message were to adequately fund state government while still giving a seven-mill tax relief to the taxpayers.

At a press conference, the governor said his plan would give tax relief by reducing local school property taxes, cutting taxes by $8 million.

Sales tax money would go into the general fund after subtracting what is necessary to replace the loss of inventory tax adjusted to the 1972 basis for local government.

That would amount to $7.6 million, leaving $2.2 million for educational purposes at the local government level, Andrus said.

Trucking view due on funds

BOISE (UPI) — The House Revenue and Taxation Committee voted Wednesday to hear from the trucking industry before acting on a proposal to fund the Public Utilities Commission entirely with regulatory fees.

Rep. Vernon F. Ravenscroft, R-Tuttle, recommended the committee call in spokesmen for the industry before acting on the bill. He recalled truckers opposed similar legislation in the past.

At present, the PUC is funded 80 per cent from fees and 20 per cent from the general fund.

Committee members were ready to introduce another bill when the man who proposed it suggested it be revised.

This one, offered by Ravenscroft, would tighten amendatory procedures for public school budgets. These changes would include a week's written notice to the school board, a week's notice to the public via a newspaper advertisement and two-thirds approval by the school board.

Budget view hit

BOISE (UPI) — A member of the powerful Joint Finance and Appropriations Committee says Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' proposed budget reflects that the chief executive doesn't understand that education is a function of the school district — not the county.

Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, said late Wednesday in the governor's original message he fixed the sales tax diversions to local governments at $6.2 million.

"In subsequent clarifications, his shifting stand revealed his (the governor's) confusion on the subject," Peavey said in a prepared statement. "His latest statement indicates that the sales tax diversion should — he thinks — go to the counties for educational purposes."

Peavey said, "Any diversion from cities and counties of the funds formerly provided by the state to local units of government will result under federal regulations in a loss to the state during the coming fiscal year of a considerable portion of the funds it receives through revenue sharing."

Equal plan asked

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus asked the Idaho Water Resource Board to prepare a state water plan that would be equitable to all Idahoans and still protect the resources.

Donald Kramer, Castleford, and Franklin Jones, Boise, were sworn in as new members of the board. Ferris Kunz, Montpelier, and Joe Nettleton, Murphy, were reappointed to the board in ceremonies at the governor's office.

Andrus said the board has the task of "planning for one of our greatest resources, and I might add, one of our most controversial resources."

Idaho channel law meaning requested

BOISE (UPI) — A state official asked a joint legislative committee today whether the legislature intended the stream channel alteration law to permit or prohibit channel alteration.

R. Keith Higginson, director of the Department of Water Administration, said he has received both interpretations and added, "I get some of them from legislators."

Higginson outlined problems with the law at a joint hearing of the House and Senate Committees on Resources and Conservation.

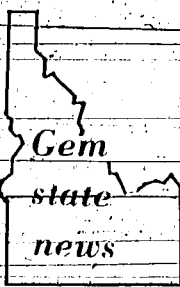

He also pointed out that his department lacks the necessary funds to do a thorough job of supervising and inspecting stream channel alterations.

He said he has four persons to do the work and that they must look into 2,000 alterations per year.

There is no way inspectors can go into the field to search for violators or to conduct follow up checks, he said.

Consequently, he said, he is getting criticism from both sides — one for not being stringent enough and the other for checking on some of the activities he does.

Higginson also said that the way the law now reads "every trickling little stream in Idaho" is within its purview. Perhaps, he said, that was legislative intent. If not, he suggested the lawmakers change the law.

Welfare 'games' scored

BOISE (UPI) — The commissioner of Idaho's Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services said Wednesday the state is playing a "cat and mouse game" with the federal government over welfare and assistance programs.

Dr. John Marks told the Senate House Finance and Appropriations Committee that "the state option is a thing of the past."

He complained that the federal government has a tendency to take back funds already allocated because the state fails to comply with federal regulations.

"It's a new ball game," Marks said. "There's an auditor behind every post. They tell us we are doing something illegal, although they don't know what it is."

Marks appeared before the joint committee to explain his $4.8 million proposed budget for the coming 1973-74 fiscal year.

The commissioner told the committee that there is "no such thing" as a health, education and welfare regulation as to what the state can or cannot do.

"There are only rough drafts," he said.

He said regulations are continuously changed and state welfare administrators — who have to follow the rules — can not keep up with the changes.

The proposed budget for Mark's department is $2 million higher than the estimated budget for the next fiscal year. Under the proposal the state would contribute $18.1 million from the general fund and the federal government would chip in $14.2 million.

Pressure on bill charged

BOISE (UPI) — The beer industry in Idaho is applying pressure to members of the legislature to defeat a bottle and can bill which would require a minimum refund on beverage containers, the bill's sponsor, Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, said.

"I have received letters and calls from those supporting the bill from throughout the state," Peavey said the bill would require a minimum refund of five cents on beverage cans and bottles and a lesser amount for those containers used by more than one company.

"I am reasonably optimistic that the legislation will pass during this session of the legislature," he said.

First bill by Senate

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate passed its first bill during the first session of the 42nd legislature Wednesday. It changes the language of the Idaho Code relating to the school emergency fund.

The bill, which passed unanimously, would change to current attendance what is presently called emergency fund levy.

The funds are those raised by local school districts through levy for unanticipated school enrollment increases.

Equal rights bill offered

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary and Rules Committee has voted to introduce a measure to provide that wives shall have equal rights with their husbands in managing community property.

Committee Chairman Edith Miller Klein, R-Boise, is sponsoring the bill.

Scientists recommend comet study

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Frustrated by the results of lunar exploration, a panel of scientists says man will have to go to the asteroids and comets to find primordial relics from the formation of the solar system.

The 11 scientists said in a report to the space agency that Apollo moon expeditions and the recent satellite reconnaissance of Mars showed that geological activity apparently has erased all evidence of origin from planets and their large moons.

The scientists, who completed their study last May, recommended NASA start a vigorous program of comet and asteroid exploration as soon as possible. They called for unmanned flights to asteroids later this decade.

Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory and a member of the study group, said the primary scientific reason for going to the moon was to learn about the early history of the solar system.

"In spite of the exciting and gratifying scientific results from lunar explorations, the moon's surprising geological activity over half of its life has spoiled much of the record of its formation," Whipple wrote in a recent issue of the magazine Astronautics and Aeronautics.

"The lunar samples indicate more about subsequent than initial processes in the moon's history. Mars shows evidence of even greater activity. Thus scientific missions to comets and asteroids can be counted on to uncover basic information about the origin of the solar system and perhaps even about our own origins."

Comets and asteroids probably have undergone far less change because of their small size and the panel said they are most likely very close to the state in which they formed several billion years ago.

"Their study promises to help answer some of the fundamental questions which cannot be answered by the study of the earth, moon and planets," the report said.

Asteroids, ranging in size from a mile to several hundred miles thick, may be fragments of a broken-up planet or they may have condensed from the primordial gas cloud which formed the sun and planets.

Little is known about comets, but they appear to be made up primarily of dirty ice which is vaporized by solar radiation with the resulting gases stretched out like a tail away from the sun. It is believed comets formed in the outer reaches of the solar system.

The study group, chaired by Dr. Ernest Stuhlinger of the Marshall Space Flight Center, recommended a six-step program for comet and asteroid exploration.

Intensive care workshop set

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, in cooperation with three Idaho health care agencies, is planning a two-day workshop in intensive care and coronary care techniques.

Open, without charge, to registered nurses and licensed practical nurses who have not had previous experience in intensive care, the workshop Jan. 30 and 31 will provide the opportunity to gain beginning skills which may be further developed in future training classes, according to James E. Rosenbaum, hospital administrator.

"We have a fully equipped intensive care unit which had to be closed over a year and a half ago because we simply did not have and could not recruit enough qualified nurses to staff it three shifts every day," Rosenbaum said.

So far, the hospital's recruitment efforts have failed to attract enough nurses having the proper training to permit the opening of the unit, he said.

"Our present hope is that there are enough nurses in this area who might be interested in a challenging position in intensive care nursing, but who never before had the required opportunity to get the training," Rosenbaum said.

Anyone who is interested, he said, is urged to call Mrs. Toni Parsons, in-service coordinator for the hospital, 733-1611, for a workshop schedule and detailed information on topics to be covered.

The workshop will run from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Jan. 30 with an evening practice session beginning at 7 p.m. On Jan. 31 the sessions will begin at 8 a.m. and end at 3:30 p.m.

Speakers will include three physicians on the staff of the hospital, Dr. Patrick Desmond, internist; Dr. John M. McKain, general and thoracic surgeon, and Dr. Bruce A. Buck, general and cardiovascular surgeon.

Also speaking will be three nurses from David O. McKay Hospital in Ogden, and Tom Pace, coordinator of professional education in coronary care, Intermountain Regional Medical Program, Salt Lake City, one of the sponsoring agencies.

Other organizations participating in the workshop are the Idaho Heart Association and the Southeastern Idaho Center for Health Resources.

Grain gains slower

DENVER, Colo. — Wheat production is expected to make slower advances in the first half of 1973 compared to a year earlier, according to Department of Agriculture estimates. In the Jan. 12 edition of Grain Market News, the Agricultural Marketing Service predicts an increase averaging three per cent above the 1972 period. For 1972 as a whole, the retail index will average from four to from and one-half per cent more than last year.

During the past week, wheat markets wound up with a net loss. Elimination of the set-aside feature of the 1973 wheat program is said to have prompted the decline, according to a majority of trade sources. Many country elevators report that there isn't much wheat left to buy and the major concern continues to be the shortage of rail cars, the marketing service reports. Economists predict that farmers can look forward to a net total income near the 1972 high, and to continuing price strength.

According to the Grain Market News, the outlook for wheat forecasts exports to swell 8 per cent. Besides purchases by regular customers, Soviet Russia will take an estimated 400 million bushels in 1972-73, the largest purchase of U.S. wheat ever made by a single country.

Bulls sent into ring
CALDWELL, Tom Prescott, Jerome, has consigned two bulls to the Western Charolais Classic sale here March 5-8. St. Williams, executive secretary for the sale, said more than 252 bulls and females of the breed from nine states will be offered during the sale.

New dam asked

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert, introduced a joint memorial Wednesday asking Congress to replace the American Falls Dam as soon as possible. Antone's memorial said cracking throughout the dam has required restrictions on storage equal to one-third of its capacity and continued deterioration will require further restrictions.

It said the dam is the foundation of the existing irrigation development in the Upper Snake River basin of Eastern Idaho and contributes nearly one-half of the usable storage on the main stem of the Upper Snake River. "If the structure is not replaced, financial failure for hundreds of farmers and severe economic loss is predicted, as well as danger to human life," the memorial states.

Teamsters set pact

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Teamsters Union, which is battling Cesar Chavez' AFL-CIO union over representation of field hands, has announced renegotiation of its contract with Western Growers to provide higher pay and better fringe benefits. William Grami, Teamster director of field organization, said the renegotiation of the pact, which didn't expire until 1975, had been in progress for several months.

Attentive children

AN HOUR OF reading has attracted many youngsters to the Shoshone Public Library for a special reading program the past six weeks. Here Myra Swarner, center, reads to, from left, Deanna Thorne, Lisa Walker, Tanna Kelley and Sandra Klener. According to Mrs. Marx Nielsen, librarian, Miss Swarner and Val Urrutia have taken turns reading to the children.

Deadly autos recalled

DETROIT (UPI) — Two potentially deadly defects—one involving steering control and the other the throttle mechanism—have caused a Chrysler Corp. recall campaign involving 6,263 current-model cars.

The auto company Tuesday notified the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration of the possible defects on the cars and began the process of notifying the owners of the cars by certified mail. The cars will be checked by dealers and repairs made at company expense where necessary.

In both cases, the problems were discovered during routine inspection at assembly plants. There have been no reports of accidents due to either condition, a company spokesman said.

The largest of the campaign involves 5,512 owners of 1973-model Plymouth Satellite and Dodge Coronet and Charger cars. Chrysler believes the defect may be found in just about 10 per cent of the cars being recalled.

There is the possibility of a shaft failing because of improper heat treating, should this occur, the driver would lose the ability to steer his car.

The second safety campaign involves 751 owners of 1973-model Plymouth Fury and Dodge Polara and Monaco cars equipped with 318 cubic inch V-8 engines and automatic transmissions.

Typewriter ribbons in cassette form

NEW YORK (UPI) — If there's anything Tillie the Typist hates it's changing typewriter ribbons. If George Burns has his way that messy chore soon may be a thing of the past.

Burns, president of the consumer products division of S.C.M. Corp., held a news conference today and displayed the industry's first typewriter to use a cassette type ribbon. It just pops in and out, Tillie never has to touch the ribbon.

The cassette ribbon comes in fabric, film or carbon paper and in a wide range of colors, even gold. There's also a correction tape cassette. The fabric cassette is expected to outlast a conventional fabric ribbon because, being enclosed, it is less subject to evaporation.

In addition to keeping Tillie's fingers and nails clean, said Burns, the new cassette system will lighten her work load.

"When she wants to put in a few words or lines in color for emphasis, she just presses a button to pop the black cassette out, slides in the color cassette, types the emphasized words, then changes cassettes again," Burns explained.

The cassettes will sell for $1.95, about 70 cents more than a good conventional fabric ribbon. The first typewriter designed to use them, the new Coronamatic 7000, is an electric intermediate office typewriter with a suggested retail price of $330. That's about $25 more than the nearest electric typewriter using a ribbon.

Senate, Nixon face showdown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democrats, frustrated by repeated rebuffs, are headed for a showdown with President Nixon on what information they can and cannot get from the administration.

The confrontation between the executive and legislative branches may well have to be decided by the third branch of government, the courts.

And in the process, an administration official—probably one at a lower level—may be cited for contempt of Congress.

The Democrats are expected to put the finishing touches today on a resolution sharply limiting the instances that an administration official can refuse to testify when summoned by a Senate committee.

Already approved by the Senate Democratic policy committee, the new ground rules would require that any administration official called to testify must show up in person. That would include not only cabinet members but also members of Nixon's staff, such as Dr. Henry Kissinger and John Ehrlichman.

If the witness refused to testify, he would have to produce a letter from Nixon invoking "executive privilege" designed to cover only private, confidential material passed between the chief executive and his assistants.

ATTENTION BEAN GROWERS

We urgently request all Contract bean growers to hold out for at least a $3.00 raise on all contracts for the 1973 season. Some companies raised their prices last year and this must be taken into consideration. Use the 1971 prevailing price as a base. We further recommend growers to sign no contract with a germination clause.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is a hand that would have been easy to bid to three no-trump back in the thirties. North would respond two hearts (a one round force) and rebid to three clubs after South went to two diamonds. South would continue to three no-trump and the hand would play there.

It is just as easy to reach three no-trump by the use of the Jacoby transfer. North's two diamonds is the transfer to hearts and his three club bid shows the two suit nature of his hand.

South has nearly all his strength in spades and diamonds and goes to three no-trump.

trump. North has told his story and passes.

You may also land at three no-trump with modern methods that do not include the transfer bid. North either jumps to three hearts and passes when South bids three no-trump or North responds with a Stayman two clubs; bids three hearts after the two-spade rebid and passes at three no-trump.

As we say, you might get there. When this hand was played in a regional pair game the transfer players did play and make three no-trump. It wasn't difficult. There are nine easy tricks.

The others landed at four hearts or five clubs and were all at least one trick short of their contract.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know how to handle the problem of guests who bring their unwelcome pets when they visit.
My sister and her husband have two obnoxious poodles. They are not trained and are a menace to my children and household furnishings.
I once jokingly hinted, "I want the children outside if they get on your dogs' nerves." (No reaction.) These dogs have growled and snapped at our children without provocation, and our little ones are terrified of them.
On their last visit, one of the dogs lifted his leg on my collection of African violets and all my sister said was, "Whoops; Curley had an accident!" (It was no accident! It was deliberate.)
I like animals, Abby, and am not cruel to them, but these poodles are more than I can take.

Pets not welcome

I love my sister and wouldn't want her to discontinue her visits to me entirely, but how can I handle this?
DOG PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: Quit hinting and joking, and tell your sister you love her, and her visits, but not her dogs! But be sure to place the blame where it belongs. Ill-mannered and untrained pets are a reflection of their ignorant, lazy owners.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's brother is suing his parents! How about that one?
Joe claims his parents owe him $3,000. It seems when Joe was in the service he kept sending home war bonds. Well, after Joe came out of the service the folks gave him money left and right whenever he asked for it, but they had to cash the bonds to do it, so now there are no more bonds left. Joe claims his parents OWE him the money. And the folks say they don't.

What I want to know is this: Can a guy sue his own parents?
WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Anybody can sue whomever he wants to sue. Whether he can WIN or not is anybody's guess—until after the case is settled.

DEAR ABBY: Because I know I speak for many women, I hope you will print this open letter to my husband—Dear Joe (fictitious name). You have on occasion criticized me for the way I look, and how different things are from our early years together. Well, I guess you're right. I've heard your side of the story, now here's mine:

When we were courting, you couldn't see me enough. This continued thru our honeymoon and the early months of our marriage. You really made me feel on top of the world. I knew my place in your life. But when the newness wore off, I got shoved further and further into the background. You started going places with your buddies again. Your ego and your job became more important to you than your home and family.

Maybe my figure isn't what it used to be. But pregnancies and childbirth can do that to a woman. (You've gained weight, too. What's your excuse?)

I spend four and five days and nights alone with the kids, being both mother and father to them. If you're home for supper two nights a week, you think you deserve a medal. You DO support us, but the paycheck is not enough. We need your presence, too. How long do you intend to ignore the warning signals our older children have given us by the way of the distress they feel over the family being separated so much? It's high time you realize that our kids need a father, too.

So if I eat more than I should, it's only because I am so unhappy over our life and your refusal to take an active part in it.
YOUR PART-TIME WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I'm betting I get at least 100 letters asking, "Did my wife write that?"

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 6970, L. A., Calif. 90009. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

WRRRA funds asked

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News writer

GOODING — The WRRRA Council of Governments is currently seeking $5,114 in order to continue a comprehensive planning grant for another year.

A Housing and Urban Development 701 grant of $10,000 for fiscal year '74 may not be forthcoming unless the Wood River Resource Area provides the $5,114 in cash to supplement the in-kind services as required for the HUD grant, according to Tom Miller, Resource Conservation and Development official.

The WRRRA has asked the county commissioners from the four county area for a 30 cent per capita assessment to cover the needed funds. The WRRRA Council received a HUD grant of $16,000 in F.Y. '73 for comprehensive planning, he said.

A revised constitution and bylaws conforming to HUD and Internal Revenue Service requirements will be presented at the council meeting Jan. 31.

The constitution and bylaws will permit the council to apply for IRA exempt non-profit status and to qualify for a non-profit organization mailing permit from the US Postal Service.

The RC&D program is about 30 days behind the schedule of precedence chart project made last year by the RC&D, Miller said. Lack of committee inputs was given as the principal cause.

The Water-Watersheds-Rivers-Canals committee, headed by Vernon Ravenscroft, is conducting a pilot land exchange study of state endowment land within Gooding County. The study is to set guidelines for the entire state, according to Miller.

RC&D measures are progressing satisfactorily, according to a progress statement. The west side road to Magic Reservoir has been surveyed, Gooding and Wendell Senior Citizen Housing is under construction, a medic under the supervision of a Halley doctor has been located to serve Camas County and sewer and water system plans for Richfield, Hagerman and Bliss are underway.

Blaine dispute settled

HAILEY — A settlement has been reached between the Blaine County School District and former Supt. Charles L. Clark.

Clark was relieved of his post during an Oct. 24 executive session of the district board of trustees. The stated reason at the time of the action was "lack of communication between Clark and the district principals and faculty members."

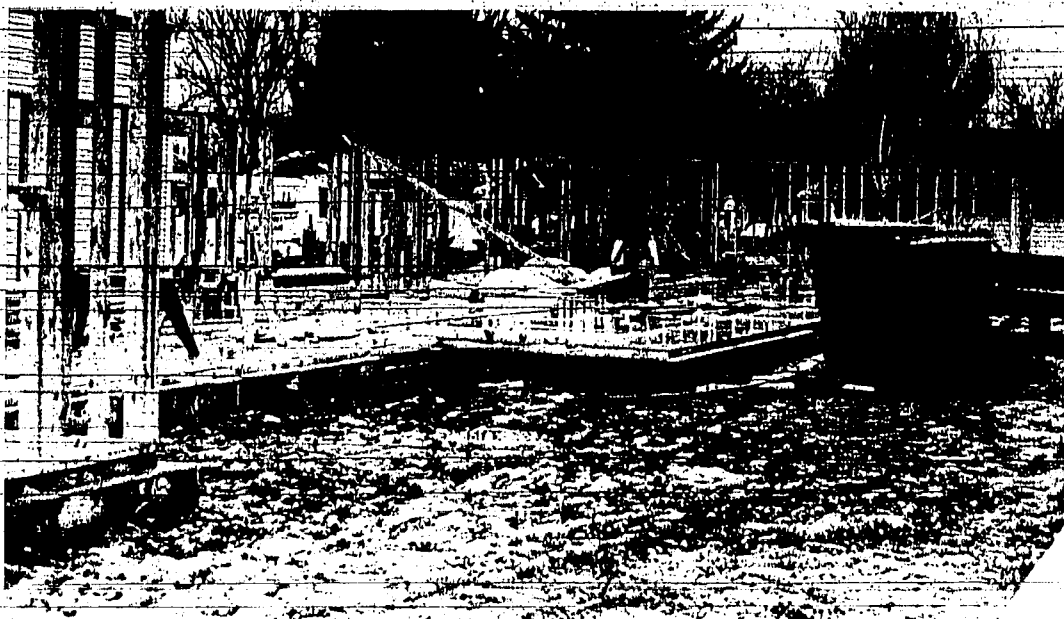

A brief, joint press statement released today read as follows: "Blaine County School District No. 61, Blaine County and former Supt. Charles L. Clark, today announce that the dispute between the school district and Mr. Clark concerning his termination as district school superintendent has been settled to the mutual satisfaction of both parties."

The dispute was fully compromised and settled by cash payment representing a fractional amount of his remaining contract.

No details of the exact amount of the settlement were given. Acting Supt. Ray Jefferson said no further information beyond the press release is available as the wording of the release was mutually negotiated by both parties.

However, Jefferson said funds for the settlement will be taken from the 1972-73 school operating budget.

Clark had held a three-year contract with the district which became effective on July 1. Salary was set at $14,100 a year.

Building under way

CONSTRUCTION of the latest Gooding Senior Citizens Housing Project has begun. The foundations have been poured, floor joists laid and framing erected for the five-unit complex. The $60,000 FHA financed project is scheduled for completion May 1.

Idaho land use policy sought at Blaine meet

HAILEY — Involvement of Idaho residents in determining the direction of future land use was stressed Wednesday.

During a series of sessions in Blaine County, questions were posed on current trends in land use and public input was sought for development of an Idaho land use policy.

Conducting the meeting were R. Neil Sampson, director, Land Use Project, State Planning and Community Affairs Agency, and David D. Alvord, social planner for the Idaho Soil Conservation Commission.

"At a meeting in Hailey, Sampson said, "we are trying to evolve a process that involves you." Participants in the session were requested to fill out a questionnaire which Sampson said will be used to guide our hand as we begin to propose a policy position to be presented during the next year."

During a slide presentation, Alvord cited the myriad of land use issues that face the citizens of Idaho today. "Decisions must be made soon, if we are to preserve the unique character that makes Idaho living a quality experience," he said.

A land use policy may consist of a list of preferences regarding the utilization of land, Alvord said. But, he said, "it should identify productive, efficient ways in which land can be developed and used, and encourage these," as well as point out harmful practices.

"Land use change is very much a dynamic phenomenon in Idaho today," Alvord said. Ada County recorded about 4,500 acres of subdivision between 1965 and 1971, he said. However in 1972, about 7,670 acres of subdivision applications were received, Alvord said.

About 50,000 acres a year in the state have been converted from brush to irrigated crop land, he said, with recent estimates indicating that the rate of development may slow down to about 20,000 acres per year. He said losses of crop land to urban development have been estimated at about 6,000 acres a year.

About 14,000 acres annually go for recreational development and summer home sites, Alvord said.

"Meanwhile, planning and zoning commissions find themselves in the development whirlwind without the ability to keep up," Alvord said.

Questions presently before the public concern whether these trends should be encouraged or discouraged, he said. A wealth of other questions must be decided including whether flood plain building should be allowed or how farm, forest and range lands within the state should be managed, Alvord said.

Sampson said one thrust of land use planning may be to develop state guide lines "to set up rules to give local planning groups latitude to work by."

Such rules, he said, would allow the local groups "to define public interest without having to defend their right to make decisions."

When applications are made to these groups, Sampson said, "one thing you people need is time to discuss, get the facts on the issues." A procedure is required allowing evaluation of a certain development's impact on the community and a change is needed to ask questions and obtain opinions, he said.

Revenue corrects problems

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

BOISE — The spokesman for Idaho Education Association today revenue sharing made possible correction of "grieving deficiencies" with the inventory phase-out tax.

Wayne York, testifying before the Idaho Senate Health Education and Welfare Committee, said the "influx" of revenue sharing dollars for the first time to state and local governments made it possible to freeze the diversion of phase-out tax replacement funds at last year's total and thereby provide large increases for public education.

He told the committee his organization would "go down the line" with its request for an increase in education funding of $11.5 million with money for kindergartens as second priority.

An increase of that size, he said, would put more money into the teachers' pay check and correct a situation he termed "rapidly becoming deplorable."

In response to a question from Sen. Leon Swenson, R-Nampa, about the impact of the end of the five-year revenue sharing program, York said, "Our opinion is the program will be with us indefinitely."

He added, "Pressure from big states and cities will insure the continuation of revenue sharing after the initial five-year program."

York told the committee one of the 20 state agencies in a reorganized state government should be the Department of Education, "with the Idaho Board of Education having control over all departments, boards and commissions dealing with education."

He said his organization would submit legislation calling for state-wide trustee election day in all school districts on the fourth Tuesday in May. Votes would be canvassed in June, he said, and school boards would hold annual budget meetings in July.

In addition, school trustees would be nominated on the basis of zones within a district but would be elected at large.

Pet shot

KIMBERLY — A murderer is at large in Kimberly.

At least that's the way Leslie Cloward, 11, and Brian Cloward, 12, feel about the killing of their golden retriever, Scotch.

The family pet was found dead at his home Wednesday, killed by a small caliber rifle bullet.

Large for his breed, the retriever had gotten out of the garage where he was kept during the day while family members were away.

Fence builders are scheduled to begin work this week at the residence, according to the family, but the structure will be too late to protect Scotch.

"He liked to chase butterflies," Leslie said, "and he liked to play ball with himself."

The family said the dog was extremely possessive of family property, and was not friendly with strangers or to other dogs.

"We tried to keep him tied up before the fence came," Brian said. "Why would anyone want to kill him? They could have just called the police to come and get him if he was bothering them."

Kimberly Police Chief James Campbell is investigating the shooting.

The butterflies will be safe this spring.

Blaine man arraigned

KETCHUM — A Ketchum man, charged with felony driving while under the influence, was arraigned Wednesday in Blaine County Magistrate Court.

According to the Ketchum Police Department, Glenn D. Arnold, 56, was arrested Tuesday afternoon by department officers. The charge was classed as a felony because of two prior convictions for DWI.

Bond was set at $500. A preliminary hearing has not been scheduled.

Kimberly man severely injured

HANSEN — A Kimberly man was severely injured Wednesday evening when a pickup truck in which he was riding went off the road five miles south of Hansen.

Anthony Cortez, 43, Kimberly, was reported in "fairly good" condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital this morning after undergoing emergency surgery for repair of a badly lacerated right arm and hand.

Eugene Widmer, 40, Kimberly, the driver of the truck, was shaken up by the wreck but did not suffer serious injury.

According to Idaho State Police reports, the accident occurred about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday on an S-curve on Rock Creek Road.

He faces misdemeanor charges in Twin Falls and Jerome and grand larceny and burglary charges from Buhl.

The car he was driving in the chase was allegedly stolen in Buhl.

Filer pair hurt

FILER — A Filer couple was seriously injured Wednesday morning when their car went off the road near the US 30, Highway 93 junction, east of Filer.

Still in critical condition today at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital is Minnie Larick, 68. Mrs. Larick sustained a fractured skull and other head and facial injuries in the accident.

Her husband Paul Larick, 75, sustained chest injuries and accident.

Mother's march

GOODING — Volunteers for the Gooding-Camas County annual Mother's March for Birth Defects will call on residents of the two counties tonight.

According to Mrs. Maurcen Schelsko, chairman of the Mother's March, about 200 mothers are involved. The Wendell campaign is scheduled for Jan. 25, Mrs. Schelsko said.

Mrs. Bill Skaggs, Gooding, is general chairman for the March of Dimes campaign.

Little cigars considered dangerous

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cigarette smokers were warned today in a government report that the increasingly popular "little cigars" may be as dangerous to their health as cigarettes.

The report to Congress by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare also said there was fresh evidence that pregnant women who smoke face a greater risk of having underweight children or fetal or after-birth mortality of the child than nonsmoking women.

A special section was devoted to "little cigars" that are manufactured, packaged, advertised and sold in a manner similar to cigarettes.

"It is reasonable to conclude that smoking little cigars may result in health effects similar to those associated with smoking cigarettes if little cigars are smoked in amounts and with patterns of inhalation similar to those used by cigarette smokers," the report said.

Unlike previous years, the 1973 smoking report was not billed as from the U.S. Surgeon General. It was signed by Dr. Merlin K. DuVal, an assistant secretary for health in HEW. DuVal resigned recently but the report was released as an official government document.

"The current report reiterates, strengthens and extends the findings in earlier reports that smoking is a major health problem in the United States," DuVal wrote in a preface.

A section on pregnancy and smoking said there was new evidence suggesting that if a woman gave up smoking by the fourth month of pregnancy, her risk of delivering a low birth-weight infant was probably no greater than that of a nonsmoker.

DuVal said that among women who continued smoking, there were strong indications of a causal relationship between cigarette smoking during pregnancy and lower infant birth weight and a strong, probably causal, association between cigarette smoking and higher late fetal afterbirth mortality.

The report cited an increasing market for "little cigars" and said that an adequate evaluation of their effect on health could take 10 to 15 years.

"However, a review of the epidemiological, autopsy and experimental data concerning the health consequences of cigarette, pipe and cigar smoking—summarized in this and previous reports is helpful in considering the potential impact on health of smoking 'little cigars,'" the report said.

Factors that make "little cigars" as potentially dangerous to health as cigarettes are their concentrations of carbon monoxide, hydrocyanic acid, acetaldehyde and other compounds in amounts comparable to those found in cigarettes, the report said.

It added: "Cigarette smokers who switch to cigars appear to be more likely to inhale cigar smoke than cigar smokers who have always smoked cigars and cigarette smokers who switch to little cigars may be inclined to use them as they did cigarettes."

Minico, TF battle flu, SIC opponents

The Minico Spartans, fighting to stay atop the Southern Idaho Conference standings, and Twin Falls Bruins battle a mutual foe this weekend — the flu.

It hasn't been most of them since last Saturday night's game. He listed just about all his height, Craig Hepworth, Nyle Keller and Scott Morehouse, as on the "in bed" list with "a lot of sniffles and sneezes coming from the boys who have been practicing."

Twin Falls will be at Pocatello Friday and entertain non-conference foe Burley Saturday in its first home appearance in two weeks. During that time, the road and flu bug hit hard.

It means the Bruins will be giving up the height advantage to Burley, unless the flu bug hits there, and just about break even with Pocatello.

Philadelphia Eagles name McCormack coach

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mike McCormack, a highly former all-pro lineman and a Washington Redskins offensive line coach for seven years, Wednesday was named to a three-year contract as head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Eagles have not had a winning season since 1966 and finished last in the East Division of the National Football Conference last year. Only the Houston Oilers, who were 1-13, had a worse record.

The 42-year-old McCormack said he thought that "probably more of Brown's philosophy of being a teacher-rubbed-off-on-me" but said he hopes to have the "motivation of Lombardi and Allen."

McCormack said he hopes to "have the same kind of authority as Lombardi and Allen but I'm not so set in my ways that I can't take advice."

BYU, trailing 44-40 at half-time, came out smoking and ran Niagara into the boards behind the shooting of Belmont Anderson, who had 15 second half points mainly on Cosic's assists.

Yellowstone Elk won't be killed

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — The Wyoming senate Wednesday gave tentative approval to a joint resolution urging congress to prevent any future killing of excess elk in Yellowstone National Park.

Sen. Robert L. Novotny, R-Fremont, authored the measure which said elk have been needlessly slaughtered in the park in the past.

It also said the cost of killing the elk is excessive and Wyoming residents view it as cruel and unnecessary.

The measure will come up for final consideration in the Senate, probably on Friday.

Healthiest teams will win MV games

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports editor

The only thing certain about this weekend in Magic Valley high school basketball is the team with the most bodies should win.

Flu and sore throats have a death grip on several teams and while some haven't found the bug yet, they will.

The middle of the area, particularly in Twin Falls County, seems to be carrying the brunt of the annual epidemic right now. But its running out.

Therefore, while the weekend includes some key conference games, the results might be considerably different than expected — ask Twin Falls about last weekend if you don't believe it.

The team under the gun for the weekend appears to be Dietrich. The Blue Devils, who had hoped for a good year, currently are a game behind in the Northside Conference and must play top contenders Camas County Friday and Gooding State Saturday.

The way Richfield and Camas are going right now, the Devils can't afford to lose either one.

Saturday night, a non-conference game could be a big one. It will bring the Mountain Home Tigers, winners of eight in a row, to Gooding where the Senators have yet to lose in their year-old gymnasium.

A key Big Six match finds the surprising Wendell Trojans, tough since the start of the year with a burgeoning reputation for winning the close one, going to Wood River which has about the same reputation.

It's a Big Six weekend. In addition to that Wendell-Wood River thing, Glenns Ferry will be at Gooding Friday night while the Shoshone Indians, in a slumping and among the ailing and hurting corps, will be at Filer.

Filer needs the decision to keep its hopes alive. Shoshone has been wounded twice.

Buhl leaves the open to play at Shelley in a non-league go.

The Magic Valley Conference will send pace-setting Oakley to Raft River and both of those weren't feeling too healthy Tuesday night. Murtaugh takes its second-place standing to Declo and should beware.

Declo, up and down all year, was down its last time out. Hagerman, fresh off its biggest scoring spree, will be at Castleford where the Wolves' defense tests all offenses.

On the Northside, Dietrich at Camas County is only part of the thing.

Unbeaten Richfield will be at Gooding State and it should be an offensive battle. Carey travels to Bliss in a meeting of building teams.

In addition to the mentioned games at Gooding and Dietrich, Saturday offers a fuller-than-usual 13-battle slate.

In the South Central Idaho Conference, Wood River travels to Buhl while Jerome is at Filer.

Gooding holds a one-half game edge in the league but with only eight games to be played, it's tied for all practical purposes at a loss with Jerome and Wood River.

Again Filer needs it badly but so does Jerome.

In the Little Five loop, Kimberly will journey to Glenns Ferry while Shoshone moves across to Valley Wendell takes turnout to host geographical rival Hagerman.

Oakley will entertain Hansen in the only Magic Valley loop game.

With Gooding State at Dietrich heading the list, Camas County will be trying to enhance its position when it travels to Carey.

Bliss returns home to play Lunrock and Richfield plays one-for-one entertaining Clark County high.

DEREK SANDERSON... $1 million release

Sanderson settles for $1 million and release

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Derek Sanderson, former National Hockey League star who signed a $2.6 million pact with the Philadelphia Blazers, Wednesday was given his unconditional release from the World Hockey Association club for a "cash" settlement believed to be around $1 million.

Dick Olsen, new president of the Blazers, and Bob Woolf, Sanderson's attorney from Boston, said they had agreed on "an immediate settlement" for the release of the controversial center.

Both Woolf and Olsen refused to disclose the amount of the cash settlement.

Woolf would not confirm or deny the $1 million report and said "figures are something personal between Derek and the team."

But when asked if it would approximate the $900,000 settlement received by San Francisco 49er quarterback John Brodie during the pro football wars several years ago, Woolf said "I think Brodie would be embarrassed."

Sanderson, who is now in Jamaica, has been bothered by a bad back and played little for the Blazers after jumping from the Boston Bruins for the multi-year, $2.6 million contract.

Woolf said "Derek did not act as I would have wanted him to act when he first came down here. His attitude was not what it should have been."

The attorney said Sanderson was "not in shape" because of litigation surrounding his jumping from the NHL and "too many things were happening all at once."

Woolf, who had been conducting a series of talks with the Blazers regarding Sanderson's status, said there was "no animosity between Derek and the team."

Woolf said the team felt it had undergone an economic burden "too much" for it to handle.

He added that "Philadelphia did not sell as many tickets as it had anticipated as a result of Derek just being here."

Woolf said Sanderson will "probably sit back a couple of weeks and wait for someone to contact him. He can afford to take a couple of weeks vacation."

Blackfoot dumps Wolverines 64-52

WOOD RIVER — The fast-paced Blackfoot-Broncos reeled off 10 straight points early in the fourth quarter and swept past the Wood River Wolverines 64-52 Wednesday night.

Although giving away a decided height advantage, Wood River played its best in a standstill over the first three periods.

Seldom more than four points separated the two through the first half and late in the third quarter Wood River drew into a 42-32 lead.

But Blackfoot hit the last six points of the period for a 43-42 edge. Wood River then bounced out 46-43 with about two minutes gone, then went dead.

The Broncos got away for a couple of fast break buckets during the span that saw them jump ahead by seven points.

Wood River stunted for a moment but with three minutes left Blackfoot took off again and crested at 16 points.

The Broncos hit eight of 17 attempts from the field in the 21-point fourth quarter with Reed Packer picking up eight of his 19 points during that time.

Blackfoot won the preliminary

Witnesses called in 'papers' trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Were the Pentagon Papers hush-hush military documents, intelligence an enemy could use against the United States? Or were they a history of bureaucratic decisions stamped "secret" to protect politicians? Prosecution and defense lawyers sketched out those conflicting positions Wednesday, in opening statements in the trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo for actions they took in making public the Pentagon report.

The Justice Department calls its first witness today in its attempt to prove Ellsberg and Russo violated security laws. Government prosecutor David Nissen launched his case by saying release of the documents "could have hampered our efforts to negotiate a settlement of the war and effect a return of our prisoners."

The study was prepared by agencies including the Defense Department, the Central Intelligence Agency, the National Security Council and the White House, he said. They gave "an overall view into the inner workings of the United States defense effort at the highest level," Nissen said.

"If these documents do not relate to the national defense," he stated, "then no documents in the world could."

Leonard Boudin, chief counsel for Ellsberg, replied that the papers did not contain intelligence material but "an inside look as to how presidents and secretaries of state operate and how they manipulate public opinion." "They did not deal with matters which would affect the national defense of the United States," Boudin said, and so they were improperly classified as top secret as a stratagem by which "political secrets" are kept from the American people.

He said the key issue in the case was "a recognition by at least one man... that it was not only his right but his duty as an American citizen to give this information to the Congress—more specifically, to the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations."

The charges against Ellsberg and Russo do not include the admitted leaking of the documents to the New York Times, which set off a furor in the government and won the newspaper the Pulitzer Prize. They are charged with conspiracy, theft and violations of the espionage act for allegedly taking the papers, government property, in violation of the laws pertaining to classified documents.

Boudin said that during the period covered by the indictment, Ellsberg had given the papers to Sen. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who had a right to know the contents. Ellsberg had not

Effort backed

BOISE (UPI) — It will take a real bi-partisan effort to "save" annual budgeting in Idaho, Senate Minority Leader John V. Evans, D-Malad, told the Idaho Press Club Wednesday. Evans said if annual budgeting is retained by this legislature "it's going to be the house that does it."

Biennial budgeting, he said, "will fly through the senate."

Evans also told the club at an informal "headline luncheon" that the conservative posture of this legislature probably will discourage introduction of a lot of controversial legislation seen in the past.

stolen the documents, but was legitimately in possession of them through his position as a researcher at the Rand think tank, Boudin said.

Nissen said the government will not argue the contents of the papers, but "we will prove they were classified documents."

"We will present no evidence, no witnesses, no documents here to litigate the war."

Campaign fund bills prepared by Peavey

BOISE — Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, said Wednesday he intends to introduce two legislative proposals dealing with campaign funding.

Peavey said one of the measures he will introduce would require that all legislative and state-wide political candidates file with the secretary of state's office a statement of campaign spending.

The requirement would mean that all committees or groups actively working for one candidate or actively against another one would be required to divulge its spending information. In addition, Peavey said, he would require all those outlets selling political advertising — newspapers, radio and television stations — to issue statements of their advertising revenue source from political campaigns.

"The intent of the media reporting clause," Peavey said, would be to maintain an effective check on what the candidates themselves report.

The second bill Peavey will present would offer Idaho's income tax payers an opportunity to check a form on their annual tax returns stipulating that one dollar of their tax money would help finance a political party.

Arrested
TWIN FALLS — Jerry Jack Brown, 36, Hagerman, was arrested Wednesday by Twin Falls and Gooding sheriff's officers on a felony check warrant.

Brown is accused of issuing a check without funds in the bank. The warrant was issued in Twin Falls County. Brown remains in custody.

Holdout juror deadlocks trial

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — A week after receiving the case, the jury deliberating the Juan Corona mass murder trial was still deadlocked 11-1 today with a stubborn holdout refusing to budge.

"The longer it goes, the tougher it gets to compromise," said defense attorney Richard Hawk, who described the jury as "hung tightly."

The jurors deliberated for eight straight hours Wednesday, taking lunch in their courtroom "chambers," without changing the 11-1 deadlock reported the previous day. On Monday, they were split 8-4.

Superior Court Judge Richard E. Patton ordered the 10 men and two women to return to Solano County Courthouse today for a seventh day of efforts to reach a verdict.

They received the case last Thursday and had deliberated for 44 hours and 15 minutes before adjourning Wednesday night.

The jury did not indicate which way it was leaning in its vote on whether Corona killed 25 itinerant farm hands and buried their bodies along the Feather River in 1971.

Hawk said he was confident the vote was 11-1 for acquittal, but he tempered his optimism by adding that even if Corona is convicted, the prosecution made enough errors to warrant a reversal on appeal.

The prosecutor, Sutter County District Attorney G. Dave Feja, said earlier that he would definitely retry the case if the trial ended in a hung jury.

Corona, 38, who remained at Vacaville State Prison hospital, was reported to be "cautiously optimistic" by his doctor.

Corona was hospitalized last weekend with chest pains and his doctors decided to keep him at the medical facility until the jury asked Patton to reconvene court.

He is accused of hacking and shooting 25 drifters and farm workers to death in early 1971 and burying their bodies in peach orchards near Yuba City, Calif. Corona, a Mexican national, was a farm labor contractor in Yuba City, where he lived with his wife and four daughters.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

OUR LOVE AND War man checked out the U. S. Census Bureau to get its statistical judgment on what leads to a successful marriage. If both the husband and wife are college graduates, that's good. And if together they earn at least $15,000 a year, that's also good. Those computer boys said their studies indicate these two qualifications more than any others appear to make matrimonial mates happy.

MENSEMI to be able to lose weight more swiftly than do women, although I don't know why. Studies of numerous heavyweights indicate the male dieters find it far easier to drop off 20 pounds at will.

IF YOU THINK the statistical researchers never have any fun, consider their recent finding that seven out of 10 women are knock-kneed.

IT'S ALSO TRUE a mouse can fall a far greater distance than can a cat without getting hurt.

QUERIES FROM CITIZENS

- Q: "Will a water moccasin bite in the water?"
 A: Definitely.
- Q: "CAN YOU outrace a tornado in a car?"
 A: Usually it's a rare tornado that romps along at more than 40 m.p.h.
- Q: "HOW OLD was Glen Campbell when he took up the guitar?"
 A: Age 4, I'm told. An imaginative publicity man says he was a recognized prodigy at age 6.

IF ONE BITTON is missing from a man's shirt, he's a bachelor. If two are missing, he's married to a woman who doesn't love him. That's an old proverb of the Belgians.

PERSONAL NOTE

When I was a kid rehearsing my craft, words came easy to describe how things looked or sounded or felt or tasted. But there were never enough words to describe how things smelled. A new bicycle, for instance. It looked like the shiny inside of an alarm clock all set to go off. Or it sounded soft, a gentle hissing, like nothing so much as water running. Or it felt cold and crisp like a musical horn not yet played in the morning. Or it tasted puerily as a handlebar should, like the caustic flavor of pennies that no words said how it smelled. Frustrating. Still, even without words, I remember the sniff of that bike more clearly than all the rest of it.

A MAN BUYS a new topcoat about once every eight years, a woman about once a year. Statistics showed these to be average. Is it fair?

ALL OVER the world live folk who are color blind to reds and greens, sure enough, but nowhere are they so numerous, man for man, as in Czechoslovakia.

'Blackbirds', robots watch Viets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States, to avoid North Vietnamese fire that might jeopardize efforts to reach a peace settlement, has switched to unmanned "robot" planes for reconnaissance missions over Hanoi's territory.

Also put into use for manned flights is the twin-tailed, solid black SR71 or Blackbird spy plane, which carries a single crewman up to three times the speed of sound and at a maximum altitude of 80,000 feet — well above the range of anti-aircraft fire and surface-to-air (SAM) missiles.

Defense Department sources, who reported this development Wednesday, said the robot planes were pressed into service not because of any new technological advances but because of a desire to preserve the U.S. bombing halt accompanying the present acceleration of progress in U.S. peace talks with North Vietnam.

With robot plane operation, and with manned reconnaissance flights out of range of hostile fire, there is no need for fighter-bomber escorts, as were required when reconnaissance missions were conducted with manned RF4 tactical fighters.

RF4 flights, until now the primary means of monitoring Hanoi's military activities on the ground, have been banned in favor of the SR71 or the robot planes previously used on an experimental basis early in the war.

Without the need for armed escorts, the risk of Communist ground and missile fire forcing a "protective reaction" counterstrike by U.S. forces is greatly reduced. The crash of a robot plane is not considered serious, and no lives are lost.

The robot planes can be launched, flown and landed by a preprogrammed, on-board computer or by remote control from a piloted "mother ship" perhaps 200 miles away. They can take photographs and live television pictures and can eavesdrop on radio and radar transmissions.

The SR71 is similarly equipped with powerful cameras and other instruments which can collect the same low-altitude military intelligence provided by the RF4. Even from an altitude of five miles, the "Blackbirds" cameras can distinguish individual aircraft on a runway below.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson's unwritten "understanding" with Hanoi in 1969, when he ordered a total bombing halt over North Vietnam, provided in part for continued reconnaissance flights over the north without fear of attack.

Underlying the switch from manned to robot spy planes and the high-flying SR71 is President Nixon's latest bombing halt, begun Monday.

Cassia tax levy may hold steady

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Although the tentative Cassia County budget announced Wednesday shows a 40.9 per cent boost over 1972 figures, property owners will probably see little or no tax increase.

The jump from the 1972 total of $843,611 to a tentative figure of $1,188,525 reflects a lot of pocket-to-pocket financial juggling to allow maximum use of federal aid and includes approximately $152,000 in federal revenue sharing funds.

Cassia County commissioners chose to incorporate the revenue sharing money into the regular budget proposal in spite of the deceptively large increase it generates. Some counties have set up independent budgets for revenue sharing.

For instance, Gooding commissioners didn't include $38,750 in revenue sharing and nearly $4,000 in federal and state grants in their 1973 budget proposal. That money will be allocated from a separate account.

Jerome County took the same course with $120,000 in revenue sharing funds.

The general fund appropriation for Cassia County shows the biggest increase at $322,930 — more than four times the 1972 figure of $73,730. Contained in the tremendous jump is $200,000 for the county's share in a proposed city-county law enforcement building, $30,000 for new equipment in the treasurer's office and $1,200 for Cassia Senior Citizens.

According to county clerk Frank Kearns, the office equipment and senior citizen money will probably come from revenue sharing funds.

The $200,000 for the joint law building represents approximately half of the estimated cost of the structure.

It will certainly be raised with a mill levy (nearly seven mills) since revenue sharing moneys cannot be used to match a federal grant for the other half.

To counteract the necessary mill increase in the general fund, the commissioners plan to lower the mill levies in several other categories to maintain or raise only slightly the overall mill level set last year.

Revenue sharing money will then be used in the lowered categories to replace tax dollars.

If all goes well with the law building plans, federal officials have estimated that construction might start in the spring of 1974.

Both the district court budget capped at $17,075 from $14,000 last year and the sheriff's department appropriation increased to $72,318 from $67,163 include $3,725 for the hiring of a court deputy, or bailiff, if pending legislation requires it.

Kearns said both departments budgeted for the bailiff because it is not clear who should be hiring; both amounts will not be expended.

The sheriff also included $7,100 in salary for a building inspector, a new position to be filled by Clark Ward, Burley.

The prosecuting attorney's fund was increased to $38,400 from $31,000, including approximately $7,000 for the hiring of a deputy prosecutor.

Although 1973 is a non-election year in the county, $14,000 was appropriated in the elections fund to allow complete pay-off of voting machines purchased last year. The 1972 allocation for elections was $20,000.

The public health fund increased from $30,923 to $39,927. It includes nearly $10,000 in revenue sharing money for the county's share of a proposed new district health office in Twin Falls.

An agricultural extension service increase from $77,000 to $99,000 will allow the hiring of another extension agent if legislation makes it necessary.

In the special levy section of the tentative budget, the revaluation figure was upped to $51,500 from $12,800 to pay for added workers who will expedite revaluation efforts.

The county roads fund shows an increase from $54,295 to $64,653, including a sum to contract the resurfacing of the highway between Cannon's Corner and Almo in southern Cassia County.

The road fund contains about $38,000 in motor fuel tax money, which does not come directly from local taxpayers.

A new special levy category was established for the Cassia County Historical Society. The group will get $3,500 under the proposed budget. Kearns said the tentative budget reflects a pay increase for all county employees, although it was not based on an across-the-board percentage boost.

Other proposed funds with the comparable 1972 figures in parentheses include clerk auditor and recorder, $42,750 ($38,610); public defender, $40,000 ($7,000); magistrates division, $24,800 ($22,440).

Probation officer, $4,000 (same); treasurer, $23,025 ($21,200); assessor, $46,429 ($40,795); county commissioner, $13,150 ($12,650); coroner, $2,750 ($2,745); county building, $22,660 ($20,360); civil defense, $2,125 (same); indigent, $115,465 ($103,160); fair exhibits, $21,000 (same); solid waste, $68,465 ($72,400); weed and pest control, $3,375 ($3,175); hospital bond interest and redemption, $32,500 ($31,500); hospital equipment and construction, $87,546 ($86,900); and junior college tuition, $21,860 ($30,000).

Threat passes

WEISER (UPI) — Flood threats have passed for the present in the Weiser-Cambridge area with the lowering of the Weiser River.

Precipitation over the Weiser River Basin tapered off and ended early Wednesday. The river crested above flood stage — nine feet — at 0.6 feet at Cambridge.

Washington County officials said the river dropped 2 1/2 feet at the Cambridge measuring station.

No families were evacuated as the river only flooded lowlands.

Mine aides defended

BOISE (UPI) — State Mines Inspector Carl Griner says he doubts if more state mine inspectors could have averted the May, 1972, Sunshine Mine disaster in which 91 men died near Kellogg.

Griner appeared Tuesday before the Joint Finance and Appropriations Committee and asked for a $75,000 budget for fiscal 1973-74. That is an increase of just more than $3,000 over the present fiscal budget figure.

He said that if he had more inspectors, he could have been there at the time of the disaster. He said that if he had more inspectors, he could have been there at the time of the disaster.

Jury convicts Idaho resident

DENVER (UPI) — A U.S. District Court jury Wednesday convicted an American Falls, Idaho, man of illegally transporting an explosive on an aircraft.

Sentencing for Ronald L. Hingworth, 34, was delayed pending receipt of a presentence report. The maximum penalty is 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Hingworth was convicted after a Salt Lake City nursing student testified in the one-day trial that Hingworth opened a briefcase and showed her dynamite on a flight from Pocatello, Idaho, to Salt Lake City last November.

Mrs. Nancy Holfelt said that Ronald Lee Hingworth had his own briefcase on the seat between them, pointed to the Storm, accident loss deduction cuts taxes

By RAY DE CRANE
(Ninth In a Series)

Victims of last summer's Hurricane Agnes, motorists involved in an automobile accident, and property owners who had fire, storm or flood damage may have a casualty deduction on their income tax return.

Generally, such losses are deductible in the year in which the casualty occurred.

Because of the sometimes staggering losses from hurricanes, it is now possible to obtain immediate relief under a special rule.

In an area the President declares a disaster area entitled to federal assistance, the loss may be claimed for the tax year immediately preceding the tax year in which the casualty occurred.

reimbursement and then $100 for each event. Anything remaining is deductible.

This example will show the working of the rules:

Jones' home, purchased for $25,000, was worth $20,000 before it was damaged by the hurricane. It was worth $12,000 afterward. There was no insurance on the property.

Value before hurricane $20,000
Value afterward $12,000
Difference $8,000
Adjusted basis (cost) $25,000
Lesser figure $8,000
less $100
Deductible loss $7,900

Here several articles are damaged by one event; only one $100 reduction is made. Should there be two or more casualty losses in the same year, a $100 reduction (after insurance reimbursement has first reduced the loss) is taken on each event.

The losses are only for property losses and only to the taxpayer's property. If you are involved in an auto accident that damages both your car and another's, only the loss to your car can be considered.

More detailed explanations of deductions, together with filled-in samples and a step-by-step approach to completing your tax return are available in the "Cut Your Own Taxes" book available through this newspaper. (Newspaper-Enterprise-Asian.)

Mrs. Holfelt appeared on the first day of trial for Hingworth, 34, accused of illegally transporting an explosive on an aircraft.

Hingworth was arrested in Denver last Nov. 19, and accused of carrying eight dynamite sticks on a Frontier Airlines flight from Salt Lake to Denver.

Mrs. Holfelt said that she sat in the same row of seats as Hingworth and that when he opened his attaché case, she saw "five or six sticks of what appeared to be dynamite."

Hingworth was arrested in Denver when he allegedly told a United Air Lines ticket agent that he had dynamite and was going to blow up a United jet bound for Des Moines, Iowa.

Orders confused him, pilot says

CHICAGO (UPI) — The pilot of the Delta Airlines jet involved in a crash in which 10 persons were killed Dec. 20 at O'Hare International Airport, said Wednesday he thought he was given clearance to cross the runway where his plane was struck.

In a public hearing to determine the cause of the crash, which occurred when a departing North Central DC-9 clipped the tail of the Delta Conquest 880, pilot Robert E. McDowell testified he landed on runway 14L (left) and learned no space was available at the gate or parking area used by Delta.

McDowell said he was then advised by the control tower "to go to the 32 pad" at the end of runway 14L. Unfamiliar with O'Hare, McDowell thought "32 pad" was at the end of runway 14L to reach that point he had to cross the runway used by North Central for its takeoff.

McDowell testified he did not understand there was a holding area at the end of 14L. He said

Capt. Ordel T. Nordsteth, pilot of the North Central plane in which were riding all 10 persons killed in the crash, said in a written statement to the National Transportation Safety Board hearing his first officer sighted another aircraft ahead as the DC-9 began its takeoff.

TWIN FALLS — Marion Pearl Hinton, 18, Twin Falls, was placed on probation for 18 months by Judge James M. Cunningham in Fifth District Court Tuesday.

Hinton had pleaded guilty to a first degree burglary charge on Oct. 2. He was arrested last August for allegedly stealing a tape player from an automobile.

Hinton was represented by plaintiff defender Monte Carlson.

US energy crisis brings on lowered oil import barriers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Faced with a growing energy shortage, the administration Wednesday abolished all import barriers on No. 2 home heating oil and increased all U. S. petroleum imports by nearly 1 million barrels a day.

These measures "help ensure an adequate supply of heating fuel for homes and businesses this winter and relieve the tightness of diesel fuel for transportation," said George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP).

The liberalization of the heating fuel imports will be in effect through April 30 of this year and Wednesday's White House action follows a previous one which suspended the Western Hemisphere preference for these imports.

The overall increase in imports is part of the 1973 import allocations and the bulk of the additional 998,000 barrels daily will go into the four districts between the Rocky Mountains and the Atlantic.

The 1972 ceiling for this region was 1,785,000 barrels daily. It now grows by 915,000 barrels daily to 2.7 million.

The import level for what is known as District V, which includes the West Coast, Hawaii and Alaska was established at 800,000 barrels daily. This is an increase of 83,000 over the 1972 ceiling.

The increased imports for Districts I-IV include increases in the level of Canadian crude oil imports by 93,000 barrels daily to 675,000 barrels a day.

The allocation for all other overseas crude, unfinished and finished oils went from 822,000 barrels in 1972 to a daily level of 2,025,000 barrels.

Lincoln, the retiring OEP director who is also Chairman of the President's oil policy committee, reiterated the administration has now under "final review" major revisions to the oil import program, which are expected to be part of the President's energy message to be delivered within the next four weeks.

These major reforms, as explained by Lincoln in a press conference, include such matters as "changes in allocation systems, including a proposal for auctioning oil import licenses above the 1972 import allocation levels."

These and other changes were anticipated last week by Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton in a statement to the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, now holding hearings on the growing U.S. dependence on foreign oil and natural gas.

Wednesday's White House proclamation also contained several technical revisions including the modification of the definition of crude oil, so as to include oil derived from gilsonite and oil shale. It also deleted from the oil import program the control of imports into foreign trade zones and clarified the definition of liquefied natural gases, (LNG) as it is now in the import program, which dates to 1959.

Lincoln explained the issue of the foreign trade zones meant it will no longer be necessary to issue licenses for shipping crude into foreign trade zones such as in Hawaii.

He said the redefinition of LNG "will clear up a loophole in import regulation which has caused litigation and administrative problems."

Illegitimate children's rights upheld

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court declared in a 7-2 decision Wednesday illegitimate children are entitled to the same child support payments from their natural father as legitimate offspring.

In an unsigned opinion, the Court held in a Texas test case it is "illogical and unjust" for a state to discriminate between legitimate and illegitimate children.

Texas and Wyoming are the only states which do not require a father to support both.

Texas courts had ruled against a San Antonio woman who had asked $50 a month from the father of her illegitimate children.

But the Supreme Court said: "Once a state puts a judicially enforceable right on behalf of children to needed support from their natural fathers, there is no constitutionally sufficient justification for denying such an essential right to a child simply because her natural father has not married her mother."

Justice Potter Stewart and William H. Rehnquist dissented on grounds the issue had not been sufficiently examined by federal courts.

The Court also —Unanimously directed a three-judge federal court in Philadelphia to hear a challenge to Pennsylvania law which denies voting privileges to persons held in jail while awaiting trial. State law disenfranchises anyone imprisoned when either unable to afford bail or held on a non-bailable offense. A number of states have similar laws on the books and the Justice Department estimates in 1970, the vote was denied to about 160,000 pre-trial detainees.

Institutions to stock exchanges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Insurance companies, mutual and pension funds, and other institutions will be able to join stock exchanges under a new ruling announced Tuesday by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The announcement met with mixed reaction from financial leaders.

The ruling provides that the institutions must do 80 per cent of their business with the public in order to qualify for membership. It represents a compromise between the New York Stock Exchange, which had opposed membership, and smaller exchanges, which had favored unrestricted membership.

The board of directors of New York's Big Board meet this morning to discuss the ruling. They declined comment Tuesday, but a spokesman said the exchange leaders had approved a similar formula in principle last November.

A spokesman for the American Stock Exchange said, "We hope the SEC ruling will contribute to the solution of this difficult industry problem and help solve other problems relating to institutional membership."

Unrestricted membership had been favored by smaller exchanges such as the PBW (Philadelphia-Baltimore-Washington), and the Securities Industries Association.

The SEC gave exchanges until March 15 to set up provisions of the rule and institutions another 30 days after that to file detailed plans for compliance.

The commission essentially adopted its own proposal made last August, with the main difference that institutions will have three years instead of five to meet the 80 per cent standard. Progress reports must be filed at the end of each of the first two years of the phase-in program.

Teenagers account for 25% abortions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Teenage girls, a majority of them unmarried, accounted for 25 per cent of the legal abortions performed from mid-1970 to mid-1971 in the United States, according to a report in Ladies Home Journal released Wednesday.

Citing statistics from a study by Population Council, a New York-based research group, the magazine said it was "a fair guess that more than 100,000 unmarried U.S. teenagers underwent legal abortions in 1971. Probably another 100,000 teenage girls underwent criminal abortions."

The magazine also said a Population Council study had found "in a fairly representative national sample of 73,000 legal abortions performed between mid-1970 to mid-1971, one-fourth involved teenagers, a great majority of them unmarried."

The article added: "For every 100 American girls between the ages of 15 and 19 an average of two gave birth to an illegitimate child last year. An estimated 350,000 to 400,000 illegitimate babies were born in the U.S. last year."

The magazine also said that according to a study of unmarried teenage girls for the U.S. Commission on Population Growth, "14 per cent of the 15 year-olds, and up to 46 per cent of the 10 year olds reported having had sexual relations."

SWENSEN'S MAGIC MARKETS ARE ...

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY SELLERS!!

You've heard of equal opportunity employers, probably even equal opportunity crooks (they'll steal from anybody), and now Swensen's Markets—ROOITY-TOOT-TOOT—bring you the latest developments in civil rights developments, (such as they are) with EQUAL OPPORTUNITY SELLING!!

Definition: Equal Opportunity Selling simply means that Swensen's Markets will sell to anybody—who has money. This one exception may seem somewhat narrowminded and anti-civilibertarian to some people, but Swensen's thought it would be best for the Kennedys or Rockefellers to break down the last barriers of discrimination.

Otherwise Swensen's Mkts. will sell to people of all complexions, any religious inclination, most political dispositions, relatively clean hippies, any nationality listed with the United Nations and even children (if they have money.)

For an equal opportunity to save money at Swensen's Mkts. this week end, please keep on reading.
