

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, proposing a $288.7 billion budget and no tax increase for two years or more, challenged Congress Monday to spend within the government's means or take full blame for higher taxes and inflation.

His budget for the 1974 fiscal year starting July 1 would slash the federal deficit nearly in half, to $12.7 billion, largely by reducing or abolishing much of a decade of Democratic social welfare schemes he declared were costly failures.

Among those slated to die is the Office of Economic Opportunity, showcase agency of President Lyndon B. Johnson's "Great Society," at a savings of $320 million. But Nixon set an example of austerity by cutting the White House payroll by 60 per cent and abandoning the keystone of his long-stalled welfare reform plan, a guaranteed annual income for needy families. Besides asking Congress to agree to kill off some longcherished, politically popular programs, Nixon renewed his request for a rigid ceiling on federal spending, which Congress denied him last year. Not once but four times in his budget message, the President warned of the government's "habit of living beyond its means."

He asked that before it approves its first appropriations bill this year, Congress establish a "rigid ceiling on spending," limiting fiscal 1974 outlays to the $269.7 billion provided in his budget.

"I will do everything in my power to avert the need for a tax increase, but I cannot do it alone. The cooperation of the Congress in controlling total spending is absolutely necessary."

Again, he said: "Should the Congress cause the total budgeted outlays to be exceeded, it would inescapably face the alternatives of higher taxes, higher interest rates, renewed inflation, or all three. I oppose these alternatives; with a firm rein on spending, none of them is necessary."

Here is how the new budget estimates compare with those of the current fiscal year (billions of dollars):

1973-1974 Income $225,025.0 Outlays $240,020.7 Deficit $14.975.7

Although the President unveiled no major new programs, he estimated that total spending on "human resources" would rise next year to 47 cents of the tax dollar, up 2 cents from fiscal 1973, while defense spending would drop 2 cents to 30 cents.

The military budget, providing continued development of the Trident missile-launching submarine fleet, the B1 manned strategic bomber, a new battle tank, an underwater launched cruise missile—similar to a pilotless jet plane—and conversion of existing missile complexes to multiple warheads, "assures us of sufficient strength to preserve our security and to continue as a major force for peace," Nixon said.

There were major cutbacks in housing and farm subsidy programs, but the first increase in seven years in the space budget, up by $4 million to $3.1 billion.

The space budget provided for a slowdown in work on the reusable space shuttle, but other money to prepare for the Skylab earth-orbiting laboratory, a Soviet-American joint docking in earth orbit in 1975, and two unmanned flights to Mars.

Claiming a savings of $17 billion, the President listed 7½ pages of programs reduced or eliminated as obsolete or no longer worth the price of a tax increase to retain them. Among the casualties:

—Abolishing the Office of Economic Opportunity and its 1,935 headquarters employees, creating a separate Legal Services Corp. to provide legal counsel to the needy, and leaving further financing of grass-roots Community Action Programs to the discretion of local authorities.

—Ending the "depressed areas" program of economic development begun in the Kennedy administration.

—Shutting off new funds for the Eisenhower administration's National Defense Education Act of college student loans.

—Killing the federally financed public service jobs for hard-core unemployed which Nixon ordered last year to stimulate a then-sluggish economy, a savings of $620 million.

—Abolishing the 26-year-old Hill-Burton program of federal grants for hospital construction.

Viet battles continue

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese and Communist troops battled from one end of South Vietnam to the other today despite the declaration of a cease-fire. The government reported 480 Communist attacks since the truce began greater than at any time during the war. Nearly 400 Vietnamese were killed.

The U.S. command announced that U.S. Army WO Anthony Dalpozzo, 22, died today of wounds suffered Sunday, and thus became the first American killed since the Vietnam War officially ended. He was fatally wounded by small-arms fire about 9:45 a.m. Sunday while flying over the Mekong Delta as a passenger in an unarmed UH1 Huey helicopter.

The incident occurred 55 miles southwest of Saigon near Can Tho. The cease-fire went into effect. Dalpozzo was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Dalpozzo of Santa Barbara, Calif.

A passenger in the helicopter, Lt. Col. Daniel Richard, was wounded slightly, the command said.

All U.S. offensive operations in Vietnam ended officially Sunday but informed military sources said part of the 1,000-plane U.S. air armada in Indochina is still bombing Communist targets in Laos. The U.S. Embassy in Phnom Penh said air operations were halted in Cambodia.

Heavy fighting was reported in South Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia, although the government of Cambodian President Lon Nol declared a unilateral cease-fire there effective at 7 a.m. today (7 p.m. EST Sunday). Air raid sirens signaled the cease-fire in Phnom Penh but Communist shelling intensified.

Both South Vietnam and North Vietnam exchanged heated charges of truce violations. Saigon was particularly angry at Communist attacks in the coastal Qui Nhon area aimed at cutting off the five northern provinces from the rest of South Vietnam. Hanoi was angered by government marines recapture of the mouth of the Cuu Viet River below the Demilitarized Zone—the Communists' main supply route.

With fighting raging on every front in Vietnam the business of trying to oversee the truce got off to a shaky start. There was a meeting today of the truce supervisory group made up of Canada, Poland, Indonesia and Hungary, but it was delayed by sit-ins staged by Viet Cong and North Vietnamese officials flown to Saigon to take part in talks with U.S. and South Vietnamese officials on the truce.

Communist troops battled for bridges and hamlets near Saigon and in the Central Highlands in an apparent attempt to gain strategic hold on the country's communications and transport facilities. There also was fighting in the extreme north.

MORTAR SHELL fired by North Vietnamese unit explodes near South Vietnamese armored personnel carrier near Traung Bang, South Vietnam during heavy fighting today 30 miles northwest of Saigon. Incident was one of hundreds of violations reported on second day after cease fire took effect. (UPI)

Chesley listed

BURLEY — Capt. Larry James Chesley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Verl R. Chesley, Burley, the only Magic Valley prisoner of war in Vietnam, has been listed for an early return home.

Although his name was not on the first list of POWs Saturday to be returned, it has since been included on a subsequent list. Another Idaho POW, Maj. Donald Glenn Wallman, Kellogg, has also included in the subsequent list.

Mr. and Mrs. Chesley, Burley, were not available for comment this morning. Another Idaho prisoner, a civilian, Charles Edward Willis, Voice of America radio station operator in Hue, South Vietnam before his capture, was carried on the original list.

US jets bombing in Laos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force is continuing its bombing raids in Laos despite the official cease-fire in neighboring Vietnam, the Pentagon confirmed Sunday.

Although refusing to give any details, Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said at a news briefing that U.S. planes were continuing their bombing.

According to other Pentagon sources U.S. warplanes conducted between two and two raids in Laos Sunday. They said this was "just about average" for the level of raids that had been conducted before the cease-fire took effect in Vietnam at 7 p.m. EST Saturday.

Sources said some of the attacks were against communist movement in Northern Laos. While others were in support of Royal Laotian forces in the southern part of the country.

The sources indicated the raids would continue in the absence of any cease-fire in Laos so long as communist activity existed in that country.

Truce check bogs early

SAIGON (UPI) — Supervision of the shaky Vietnam truce bogged down before it even got started today when three planeloads of Hanoi and Viet Cong officials staged sit-ins in their aircraft, refusing to deplane until the Saigon government recognized them as residents of South Vietnam.

While the sit-in delayed start of truce supervision efforts the war itself raged on and the Saigon Command reported 426 separate battles and at least 371 battlefield deaths during the first 22 hours of the cease-fire. The number of incidents was higher than during the actual war but smaller in size.

The first planeload of Viet Cong, who consider themselves citizens of South Vietnam, eventually won the battle of wills after staging a 22-hour sit-in that began after their South Vietnamese C47 transport plane landed at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base Sunday afternoon. Saigon officials today let the nine men off the plane without making them fill out immigration forms but warned its decision did not "constitute a precedent with regard to other such delegates."

Today, two U.S. Air Force C130 Hercules transport planes became the first American aircraft flown into Hanoi since 1954, but the 30 North Vietnamese officers brought back by the plane to Tan Son Nhut also refused to deplane in a similar immigration dispute.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong officers, joined by South Vietnamese and U.S. officials, are part of a military group that will work with the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) — a four-nation body set up under terms of the Vietnam peace treaty.

Pollution war funds boosted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today proposed a $44 million increase in funds to run the Environmental Protection Agency, much of it to handle demands of new air and water pollution control programs passed recently by Congress.

The agency's operating budget would be increased to $515 million during the business year beginning July 1. EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus said "Considering the budget as a whole, I feel we have done very well...remarkably well."

There was one major cut — a decline of $24.2 million in the EPA program to find ways to reduce and recycle the piles of solid waste, including such things as paper and metal containers. Ruckelshaus declined to say what his agency had asked the White House for to run the program, but he said what it got — $5.7 million — reflected the fact that earlier efforts in the field have evolved much of the technology needed and the administration feels solid waste is really a state and local problem.

The new EPA budget, however, does hold a $53.1 million increase for the water program, including $20 million in grants to state water pollution control agencies. The total water quality budget will be $192.3 million.

100 stranded

ROISE (UPI) — A cable slipped off one of the runners at Bogus Basin Sunday and about 100 persons were picked off the No. 1 ski lift. Nobody was hurt and everyone was off the lift within a half hour after the accident. Canvas buckets were raised to each of the lift's chairs and skiers jumped into the buckets and were lowered to safety.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hundreds of American families remained in doubt today about the fate of their loved ones missing in Southeast Asia.

Communist lists, provided in Paris Saturday when a Vietnam cease-fire was signed, and made public over the weekend by the Defense Department, identified 555 U.S. servicemen as captives and 55 as POWs who had died in captivity.

This left unaccounted for 1,315 of the 1,925 Americans who have been listed by the Pentagon as imprisoned or missing. For as many as 100 of the men on the list of POWs still alive, defense officials say, freedom might come late this week.

subsequent list. The statement said "some of our worst fears have now materialized" because there was no list of the men captured in Laos, because some known prisoners had been declared dead, or because names were missing from the lists.

But league officers concluded they did not want to sound pessimistic "because they expected 'as full and complete an accounting as possible'."

A discrepancy in the total number listed as captured or missing and the communist list was not unexpected, considering that most of the men disappeared under the extreme conditions of combat. But the news was particularly hard for families which had been led to believe their servicemen were alive or who learned their servicemen had died in prison. The Pentagon said flatly that the list is incomplete and that more names are expected to be provided from Hanoi. Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said all the men listed were POWs in North or South Vietnam and that a promised list of prisoners in Laos had not been provided Saturday.

That he said the United States is working through diplomatic channels and expects to receive a list from Laos.

Because of this possibility—and because of discrepancies between the existing communist list and previous Pentagon records—Pentagon officials said no change will be made in the old Defense Department listings of missing or captured until the POWs are released, all possible graves in Southeast Asia have been located, and returned prisoners are interrogated to see what they can tell about the fate of those missing. This could take months or even years to be completed, officials said.

Nixon abandons State of Union

GRAND CAY, Bahamas (UPI) — President Nixon plans to send to Congress soon a series of messages filling in the details of his program to put the nation on a course of less federal control and more state and local government responsibility.

Nixon said Sunday he will abandon the traditional State of the Union message this year in favor of detailed messages on specific subjects. The first of the reports is expected to be issued late this week or early next week.

"Together, these statements will chart a new course for America — a course that will bring more progress by putting more responsibility and money in more places," Nixon said in a radio address to the nation.

The President released today on the private Bahamian island of Robert Abplanalp, a Bronxville, N.Y. vacationist and one of Nixon's closest personal friends.

Accompanied by his neighbor C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, Nixon flew to Grand Cay Sunday after spending two days at the Key Biscayne, Fla. vacation White House.

His wife, Pat, and daughter, Julie Eisenhower, remained in Florida.

The President, Abplanalp and Rebozo swam for almost two hours shortly after they arrived on the island. Later they watched highlights of the Super Bowl football game, reliving the defeat of Nixon's favorite team, the Washington Redskins.

In his radio address, which was taped in advance, Nixon called on the public to bring pressure on Congress to reject efforts to increase his $267.6 billion budget for the fiscal year that begins July 1.

"The only way to restrain taxes is to restrain spending," Nixon said.

The President's budget calls for dismembering the Office of Economic Opportunity, once the premier agency of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's war on poverty, and for eliminating some other domestic programs.

Speaker accuses Nixon of repeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Speaker Carl Albert Sunday accused President Nixon of "trying to repeal the New Deal and the Great Society" by eliminating popular social programs to achieve a balanced budget.

The speaker said it was the sole responsibility of Congress to chart the nation's fiscal course and said he for one would be willing to hike taxes if it would mean salvaging some of those programs.

Albert was interviewed on Face the Nation on CBS.

While Congress shares the responsibility for achieving a balanced budget, Albert said, Nixon "has gone much further" than the Constitution contemplated when he withholds funds appropriated by Congress in an attempt to keep spending in line with his requests.

"He's trying to make a legislator out of himself, and it's not the business of the President of the United States to assume Congress' responsibility for the fiscal affairs of the nation, as I see it, whether it's good or bad," Albert said.

"I'm more interested in preserving the Constitution, the separation of powers, than I am in the President being right on every budget estimate he makes. You know, he makes mistakes, too."

Albert said Nixon is "doing more than setting budget ceilings" when he demands Congress spend no more than a specified amount — such as the $268 billion figure the President has set for the fiscal year starting July 1.

"I think the President is trying to repeal the New Deal and the Great Society by withholding funds, and I'm against that, and I think the Congress should set the priorities," Albert said.

Question...

Is it possible the "population explosion" may force everyone to be cremated?

Answer...

There have been reports of the fact that of those people now here between cremation and burial, many are being buried in an acre Military Cemetery. Testimony before a Congressional Committee studying the expansion of the National Military Cemetery System a spokesman for American public cemeteries indicated there is today enough developed space to provide a burial for everyone who will live in America for the next one hundred and forty years.

A city of 100,000 population requires about an acre of land per year for cemetery purposes. 1,025 people can be buried in an acre. Military cemeteries are being built and their acres at the same price are essentially double the cemetery's potential capacity. Entombment and cremation may become more acceptable in the future but this acceptance will not be caused by a land shortage.

Wanzanried said the dinner has been scheduled for Feb. 22 at 7 p.m. in the Holiday Inn. All chamber members and their wives are invited to attend. Tickets are now available at the chamber office.

Speaker for the annual event will be award winning travel director, Frank Norris Jr. of Wyoming.

Since 1963 Norris has been director of the Wyoming Travel Commission. In September, 1970, he was selected "Travel Director of the Year" in a poll of the 50 state travel directors by Resort Management Magazine.

In 1968, he and state of Wyoming received the NATO-Outdoor Life grand award golden hunting horn for the most outstanding travel promotion program of the year at the National Association of Travel Organizations' annual convention. This was the first time a state had won the "Oscar" of the travel industry. Norris has served as Rocky Mountain regional director and second vice president of NATO and served two terms as co-chairman for the annual state Travel Director's Conference.

In 1969 he was elected secretary of the newly merged Discover America Travel organizations and served a two-year term as director of the Old West region on the board of NATO.

The Yellowstone Park Co. honored Norris in 1967 as the "Man of the Year" in recognition of his contributions to the travel industry. The City of Cheyenne proclaimed Frank Norris Day Oct. 19, 1970, honoring him as an outstanding citizen.

In January, 1970, he was appointed by the US secretary of commerce to a 15-member advisory board of the US Travel Service. He was the only state travel director to hold membership on the board and was reappointed in 1972.

A 1950 graduate of the University of Wyoming with a degree in advertising, Norris was presented the Distinguished Alumni Award by the university at homecoming Oct. 28, 1972.

New directors and officers for 1973 will be announced during the evening.

Nixon axes aid plans

Ending the Johnson administration's programs of regional medical research and mental health centers, the "Model Cities" program (a $435 million savings by 1975) and urban renewal.

An immediate savings of $1.2 billion in reductions in crop supports, agricultural research, rural housing and conservation programs.

Funds for food for school children and the elderly will level off after four years of heavy increases.

A continued freeze on subsidies to poor home buyers and to aid for new sewerage and other water quality projects, and penalties for states which mistakenly distribute federal welfare funds to ineligible persons.

Nixon renewed his request for Congress to approve "special revenue sharing," which would replace 70 single-purpose federal aid programs with $6.9 billion in payments to state and local governments, to be spent as they see fit under four broad categories of education, law enforcement, manpower training and urban development.

Some of the programs he proposed to eliminate, such as building public libraries and $112 million in "impacted area" subsidies for school districts with heavy concentrations of federal employees' children, would actually be absorbed in the special revenue sharing category.

On the White House payroll, Nixon reduced full-time permanent personnel from 4,250 to 1,686 employees, and abolished the National Aeronautics and Space Council, the Office of Emergency Preparedness, the Office of Intergovernmental Relations, the Office of Science and Technology and the Office of Consumer Affairs, which was transferred elsewhere.

For the first time, Nixon made budget projections for the next two years, estimating total spending in fiscal 1973 at $208 billion, assuming continued economic growth. Provision was made in each budget for declining deficits as the economy continued to reach the "full employment" level — the point at which unemployment declines to 4 per cent or less.

With the economy now booming, Nixon said, it needs firm restraints on government outlays rather than stimulus of deficit spending.

Nixon said his projected figures for a $208 billion budget in fiscal 1973 were subject to change according to conditions, but should serve as a warning and challenge to members of Congress who would upset his delicate prescription for avoiding higher taxes.

If his long-range guidelines are followed, he said, it will be possible for the federal government to live within its income for the foreseeable future, without resorting to tax increases, but not without Congress' help.

Criticizing the Kennedy-Johnson administrations of the 1960s for what he called "throwing money at problems," Nixon said that "by abandoning programs that have failed, we do not close our eyes to problems that exist, we shift resources to more productive use."

Nixon began his budget battle Sunday night with a radio address to the nation. In it, he urged the public to demand economy in Congress over the appeals of "special interests."

In his budget message, the President reminded Congress that "I do not believe the American people want higher taxes any more than they want inflation," and that he proposed to avoid both

Hearing set

TWIN FALLS — A public hearing on a proposed change in mobile home park screening regulations is scheduled before the Twin Falls City Zoning Commission this evening.

The hearing will be at 8 p.m. at City Hall.

The proposed change provides that a 15 foot wide landscaped strip may be provided around the perimeter of the park, with the screening to be placed on the outside perimeter where sight-obscuring or decorative fencing at least seven feet high is used.

The existing ordinance states that a 25 foot strip around the perimeter of a mobile home park be landscaped, with screening placed within the 25 foot line.

Viet peace seen premature

ONAWAY, Mich. (UPI) — Lt. Col. William Nolde was dedicated to the U.S. war effort in Vietnam. He believed the peace settlement was premature. He wanted to come home — but not too quickly.

Nolde, 43, of Mount Pleasant, Mich., was the last American to die before the Vietnam cease-fire took effect.

"I'm not bitter," Mrs. Nolde said. "He believed in what he was doing."

The U.S. command said Nolde was killed Saturday — only 11 hours before the end of the war. He died when an artillery round slammed into his bunker in An Lac, the capital of Binh Long province. He was senior American adviser there.

Nolde's wife, Joyce, and five children ranging in age from 13 to 19, had all gathered here Saturday — the day of the cease-fire — at the home of a friend, 130 miles away from the family home in Mount Pleasant. That's where they learned of his death.

"It's different for all of us," said Mrs. Nolde. "It's difficult but we all believed in what he was doing."

Mrs. Kenneth Olson, a sister of the slain soldier, said her brother wrote recently doubted the wisdom of signing a cease-fire agreement at this time.

"I had written him that I couldn't wait for him to come home, she said.

"He wrote back, 'I can't wait either, but I do hope we don't rush into signing things too quickly — that we don't give up everything that we have worked for.'"

"Bill was there with his heart," his sister said. "We all didn't want him to go, but that's what he wanted. He was a very dedicated man to the Vietnamese people. He really felt sorry for them."

Verdict hinted in bug trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Watergate political espionage trial heads into its fourth week today with all signs indicating there will be a verdict — though few questions answered — before the week is out.

The prosecution was due to call the last of more than four dozen witnesses this morning and the defense was expected to present its case quickly, calling only a handful of witnesses to the stand.

Two former officials of President Nixon's re-election campaign, G. Gordon Liddy and James W. McCord Jr., stand accused of conspiracy, burglary, bugging and wiretapping in connection with a raid on the Watergate complex offices of the Democratic National Committee last June 17.

Five other men — including four who were arrested with McCord at the Watergate that night and a former White House consultant — have pleaded guilty in the bizarre and politically sensitive case since the trial opened Jan. 8.

McCord's lawyer, Gerald Alch, predicted in an interview Sunday that all testimony would be wrapped up today and that the case should go to the eight-woman, four-man jury by Friday afternoon following final arguments and the judge's instructions to the jurors.

He said his case would be brief, concentrating mostly on character witnesses for McCord, an ex-CIA agent who was security chief for the Nixon campaign at the time of the Watergate raid.

Nolde was a 22-year Army veteran. He served tours in Korea, Italy, Germany and the Far East.

A native of Monmouth, Mich., he lived in Mount Pleasant from 1962-1966 and was a professor in the ROTC program at Central Michigan University.

"He was dedicated to his country," said Frank Demski, 37, a close friend of Nolde. "He believed more in the people involved in the war — the South Vietnamese than the war itself."

Ted Cook, a chemistry

professor at CMU, got a letter from Nolde two weeks ago. "We tend to think only in terms of what this war has cost us, the United States," the letter said. "But by comparison what it has cost so many Vietnamese, our price pales."

Nolde expected to come home within six months. He had been appointed to attend classes at the Army War College.

"He was a great man and still is," Mrs. Nolde said. "Maybe this will shake up a few people."

During his last visit to Michigan in June, he told Mrs.

Nolde that if something went wrong to go ahead with plans they had made.

"That means he will be buried in Arlington Cemetery, just like he wanted," Mrs. Nolde said.

Sub watched

LONDON (UPI) — Royal Air Force (RAF) planes and the British nuclear submarine Conqueror are shadowing what is believed to be a Soviet submarine off the northern coast of Ireland, the defense ministry said today.

"I'm going to do the most with what little I have," he said.

Peter Maroulis, Liddy's lawyer, declined to comment on his plans, citing the strict orders from Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica (or none of the principals to discuss the case publicly.

Mountain rises

WESTMANNAEYJAR, Iceland (UPI) — A new mountain of lava and ash reaching 800 feet high rose slowly today on Heimgar Island as a tireless volcano continued for the sixth day to boll, bubble and rumble.

The few inhabitants left on the island, a fish-vice center located about 14 miles off the Icelandic coast, called it "Church Mountain" because the island's one church is buried beneath it.

Most of the 5,000 inhabitants were evacuated last week after the long dormant volcano Heimgar broke with a roar. Lava, ash and smoke have rolled over the island since the eruptions began with many houses destroyed or damaged and water in the island harbor heated to temperatures as intense as 110 degrees.

Home fire kills 10

PLEASANTVILLE, N.J. (UPI) — Ten persons, including a 106-year-old woman, died today in a fire that swept through a two-story frame "sheltered care" nursing home.

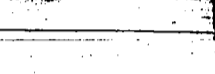

Six other persons, including a 22-year-old patient at the Streets Sheltered Care Home west of Atlantic City, were injured.

Fire Chief Edwood Dix said it took 50 firefighters nearly 3 1/2 hours to bring the fire under control after it was reported at 12:42 a.m. Firefighting efforts were hampered, Dix said, because the nearest hydrant was about three-quarters of a mile away.

Authorities identified the 106-year-old patient as Cora Owens.

identities of other victims were not immediately available.

Staff members at the home said the difference between a "sheltered care" and a regular convalescent nursing home was that the former accepted patients of all ages.

Funds asked on resource plans, research

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With a worried glance at the nation's energy problems, the administration asked Congress today for enough money to develop a comprehensive strategy in resource management and research.

The biggest factors in the energy problems of next month or next year may be in policy and not budget. Oil import controls, the tax bill of industry, and the prices of energy resources are the elements most often mentioned.

But in the budget requests for fiscal 1974, President Nixon asked for some new funds, reorganized efforts, and some reorganizing of priorities to help solve the short-term and long-range problems.

The nation's ever-increasing demand for clean energy calls for a comprehensive strategy taking into account the policy and program options for the future provided through research and development, the administration's budget analysis said.

Nixon asked Congress for energy research and development money totaling $772 million, up $130 million from the current fiscal year. His requests included $120 million "R & D" in production and use of coal; $9 million in other fossil fuels; $16 million in solar and geothermal (natural steam and hot water) energy; and $83 million in several minor energy programs.

But the biggest request was $323 million in research and development of the liquid metal fast breeder reactor, Nixon's pet project for the future. The fast breeder generates electricity through a nuclear process, and as a byproduct it produces more nuclear fuel than it consumes.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton pointed also to significant increases in funds to provide for an accelerated oil and gas leasing schedule and study of new areas on the Outer Continental Shelf, as well as choosing likely targets for geothermal steam leasing; watching over construction of a pipeline to Alaskan oilfields, pushing for coal gasification development, and a continuing oil shale leasing plan.

Broader health coverage in view

(Seventh in a Series.)

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — If and when a general insurance program is adopted in the United States, Social Security's Medicare division may be subjected to one of the biggest surgical actions of modern times in government.

It would be foolish to forecast that a general program will come soon, or to say how sweeping it might really be.

But if it does happen and it is big, the outlook is that Medicare simply will be sheared out of Social Security and placed under the expansive wings of general health care.

The move would obviously be logical, and some health care specialists insist Medicare, whose prime purpose is helping the sick who are elderly, would not be damaged by the transfer.

The pressures for broader health coverage are mounting steadily. Congress put some handwriting on the wall this year when, for the first time, it extended Medicare coverage to persons under 65 — principally 1.7 million eligible disabled persons who happen to need a lot more hospital and doctor care than the general population.

History suggests that, when tentative fingers reach out this way, they often stretch farther to become broad trends. The need for better and more comprehensive care exists in this country. And it is either going to be met piecemeal, through patchwork amendments like the one here mentioned, or dealt with on a massive basis.

Medicare & Social Security

Should the latter, seemingly more sensible course be taken, the scope of health care will not be the only massive thing. The cost will be enormous.

Health specialists in Congress accept judgments that the $57-billion price tag usually attached to Sen. Edward Kennedy's comprehensive health bill (for fiscal 1974) is an accurate measure of its cost. Clearly, it would quickly rise well beyond that in later years.

Since most Americans are accustomed these days to looking at multi-billion dollar figures, that may not stagger them much. What will get to them, in this time of revolt against taxes, is learning how broad health care would be financed under the Kennedy bill.

It calls for adding another one per cent to the payroll deduction American workers already are feeling under Social Security-Medicare. In addition, their employers would pay an extra 3 1/2 per cent. General federal revenues would supply more funds.

Already in the works under 1972 revisions, of course, is a new and slowly rising tax rate schedule for existing Social Security-Medicare payroll deductions, and the prospect of steady enlargement of the maximum tax base (the amount of yearly earnings from which the tax is taken). Some of this latter increase is scheduled, some merely projected but established as certain to come under the new law.

A new add-on for general health care could meet stiff resistance. People desperately want the care, but they don't like to see the bills, especially when they come in the form of taxes — and taxes taken from their paychecks.

Defenders of sweeping plans like Kennedy's (it is used here because less comprehensive plans may not satisfy most Americans), says the American citizen in 1971 spent $75 billion altogether on health care and will spend more in 1972, with $105 billion a likely 1974 total. Some $20 billion in 1971 went for private health insurance plans.

So, say these defenders, what would happen under broad public coverage would largely be a transfer from private to public expenditures, with the citizens' payments made in taxes rather than premiums. No one can guess whether that argument will wash when the test comes.

Flu kills 908

ATLANTA (UPI) — The National Center for Disease Control (CDC) declared Friday that the nation is officially in the midst of a London flu epidemic, with 908 deaths attributable to pneumonia and influenza through Jan. 20.

The CDC made the declaration after the deaths due to flu passed the "epidemic threshold."

The Pacific coast is still the hardest hit area of the country, the CDC said, with the most deaths reported in California, Oregon and Washington state.

CDC spokesman George Stenhouse said however that the London flu, a new strain named C Helms, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Helms, Twin Falls, has completed Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Stenhouse said one basic problem with London flus is that there is no vaccine available to fight its specific symptoms, but added that Hong Kong flu vaccine may be partially effective against the English version.

Klansmen charges dropped

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Federal indictments have been dropped against three men in connection with the slayings of three young civil rights workers in 1964, it was disclosed Friday.

U.S. District Court Judge Harold Cox signed an order earlier this week dismissing federal indictments against E. G. "Hop" Barnett, Edgar Ray "Preacher" Killen and Jerry M. Sharpe, all of the Meridian area.

The three men were among 18 alleged Ku Klux Klansmen originally indicted on federal conspiracy charges stemming from the 1964 deaths of James Chaney, 21, Michael Schwerner, 23, and Andrew Goodman, 20, in the red clay hills of rural Neshoba County.

Seven of the defendants, including former KKK Imperial wizard Sam H. Bowers Jr., were convicted and sentenced to terms in federal prison. Eight were acquitted. Mistrials were declared for Barnett, Killen and Sharpe when a federal court jury was unable to reach a verdict in their cases.

News Of Servicemen

TWIN FALLS — Airman Jon C. Helms, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Helms, Twin Falls, has completed Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. During his six weeks training he studied the Air Force mission, organization, and customs and received special instruction in human relations. The airman is remaining at the Air Training Command base for specialized training in the security police field.

Airman Helms, a 1970 graduate of Twin Falls High School, received his A. A. degree in 1972 from the College of Southern Idaho.

Bridge sound injures

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new kind of noise pollution called "bridge waves" could cause illness in human beings and structural damage to buildings, two Columbia University scientists said.

They said the threat is caused by low intensity, low frequency sound waves emitted by the vibrating roadbeds of bridges.

According to Dr. William Donn and his Columbia University associate, Nambath K. Balachandran the bridge waves — inaudible to humans — are caused by traffic crossing the bridges.

Although the bridge-generated sound waves are quite weak, we have no idea what cumulative or temporary effects may occur, Donn said. These sounds certainly represent a form of atmospheric noise pollution.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen a problem like mine in your column. I am a 15-year-old girl and I never let a boy hold my hand because I have ugly warts on my fingers and I am so ashamed of them. My family can't afford to send me to a doctor to have them removed and I have tried every kind of compound and even rubbing potato on them, but they don't go away. Please help me. LOVE FROM PT. MYERS, FLA.

DEAR LOVE: Ask your school nurse if there is a free clinic in your area. Some doctors donate their services, and perhaps one would agree to remove your warts and solve your problem. [P. S. Write to tell me if you have any luck.]

DEAR ABBY: I am a blind and partially paralyzed veteran who has been home from Viet Nam since 1968, and one of my biggest pleasures was listening to you on CBS radio—it was only about five minutes a day, but I never missed it, and it sure cheered me up. Lately I can't find it. Did they take you off or what? DISAPPOINTED IN N.Y.

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: No! I am still on CBS radio six days a week, but they changed the time of my program all over the U. S. Telephone your local CBS radio station and ask them what time Dear Abby is now on. And God bless!

DEAR ABBY: Years ago when one received an R. S. V. P. invitation to a wedding, no response was taken to mean the answer was negative. Who changed all that?

About a month ago, I received a wedding invitation from out of state. The groom is my cousin, and I never met the bride. Well, I didn't respond one way or the other because I had no intentions of going.

Yesterday, I received a very formal-type letter from the bride asking to please let her know at my "earliest convenience" whether I am coming or not!

Several other members of my family received the identical letter. We all think this is very peculiar to get such a letter from a total stranger. Have things changed?

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Nothing has changed. All R. S. V. P. invitations should be acknowledged promptly with either an acceptance or a decline. [Wherever did you get the idea that to ignore an invitation was to decline it?]

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing a letter to Dear Abby, but maybe if I put this down on paper it will strengthen my resolve.

A woman who objected to dirty jokes wrote and asked you what to do when someone told one in her presence, and I think your answer to her was so good, I am cutting it out and taping it up on my mirror where I will see it often. You said:

"Don't permit ANYTHING which offends you to be said in your presence without challenging it. Silence implies tacit approval. Respectable people will respect you, and don't worry about what the others think."

Never again, I hope, will I sit in my white, suburban living room politely acquiescing to statements like these:

"I'd like to sell my house to a Negro family, but I'm afraid of what the neighbors will say."

"What else can you expect of him? Look at the family he comes from!"

"All Jews are alike."

"All the Irish are big drinkers."

"Don't ever trust an Italian!"

The list could go on and on. If you don't mind my taking your answer out of context in this instance, sign me, ABBY FAN IN ROCHESTER, N.Y.

DEAR FAN: Be my guest. The principle is the same.

MR. AND MRS. GARY WRIGHT

Ceremony held for pair in TF

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls First United Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage of Roberta Lee Moldenhauer and Gary Dale Wright.

The double-ring candlelight ceremony was performed Jan. 24, by Rev. Herbert E. Morris before an altar decorated with ice blue carnations, stephanotis and cespia, and candelabra decorated with ice blue bows and white tapers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Moldenhauer, Twin Falls. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Wright, Filer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white gown of silk organza. The sheer full sleeves with a bishop's cuff were trimmed in Chantilly lace as was the high neckline.

The self covered buttons down the front of the bodice to the waist complemented the V accent on the bib. The floor length skirt was also silk organza with bands of Chantilly lace around the lower skirt.

To complete the total look, the bride wore a cathedral length mantilla with matching edging of Chantilly lace framing her face and continuing to the floor.

She carried an arrangement of stephanotis and German statice with a white orchid and white streamers on her white Rainbow Bible. The bride wore her mother's Eastern Star ring.

Mrs. Robert Werry, Howe, twin sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Joan Thompson, Heyburn, cousin of the bride; Jean DeLoach, Mountain Home, and Chris Blastock, Filer.

Nixon proposes continuation of Dworshak Dam

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—President Nixon proposed today to spend $14,343,000 to continue construction of the $296 million Dworshak Dam project in Idaho during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

However, because of funds to be carried over from the current fiscal year, Nixon asked Congress for an appropriation of only $8.4 million for construction of the huge dam.

If the proposed construction program is followed in fiscal 1974, only about $11.3 million more will be needed for completion of the project in the year beginning July 1, 1974.

Nixon also budgeted $8,145,000 to continue work on the Ririe Lake Flood Control Project which, like Dworshak Dam, is being built by the Corps of Engineers. Because of the availability of carryover funds, Congress was asked to appropriate only $7.2 million for the project.

A total of $20,341,000 was budgeted by the Corps of Engineers for construction, study of future projects, and operation and maintenance of existing projects in fiscal 1974.

The appropriations request for the corps program in Idaho was $19,407,000—less than the total program because of the carryover of funds that were not spent in the current fiscal year.

The fiscal 1974 budget also included a request for $15,631,000 for construction and rehabilitation of irrigation projects by the Bureau of Reclamation. An additional $450,000 was requested for the study and planning of possible future projects.

In addition to construction funds for the Dworshak Dam and Ririe Lake projects, the army engineers budgeted, the following amounts for study of flood control projects: Big Wood River and tributaries, $75,000; Boise metropolitan area and the Upper Snake River and tributaries, $240,000; and the Spokane River and tributaries in both Idaho and Washington, $631,000.

Operation and maintenance funds budgeted by the corps included: Alben Falls Dam, $247,000; Dworshak Dam and reservoir, $1,794,000; and Eckerly Peak Lake, $170,000.

The Bureau of Reclamation construction budget for Idaho included $2,573,000 for pumps and construction of the pipe distribution system in the east Green Acres unit of the Rathdrum Prairie project.

A total of $13,045,000 was budgeted for continued construction of Teton Dam.

Both budget requests are above spending for this fiscal year.

Feasibility studies for which funds were requested included: Minidoka Project, North Side Dam and Diversion extension.

$19,000; Southwest Idaho Water Development Project, $80,000; and Upper Snake River Project, $299,800. Also included was a request for $60,400 for the Snake Plain Groundwater Study.

Sports safety plans set

KETCHUM — Preparation of a search and rescue plan was stressed during an U.S. Forest Service winter sports training session in Ketchum.

Conducted Friday, the meeting covered administration and planning for winter sports, including snowmobiling, helicopter and cross country skiing, as well as avalanche prediction and winter survival.

Robert Hoag, staff recreation officer for the Sawtooth National Forest, said three options are open to the forest service with the present increased winter use of the back country.

Hoag said no controls could be imposed although "most people know very little about the dangers of the mountains," the national forest could be closed to winter use except for supervised areas, or winter use could be managed.

The third alternative has been selected to furnish winter recreation needs and safety, Hoag said.

The recreation officer encouraged all forest service personnel to work with their county sheriff to develop a full search and rescue plan for both summer and winter use.

Such a plan, Hoag said, should include cooperative agreements for payment of special services and designation of responsibilities, equipment cache areas and rescue personnel.

Larry Weeks, district ranger, described the Fairfield district's search and rescue plan which entails 29 persons.

Weeks said the plan combines three agencies — the forest service, the Soldier Mountain Ski Patrol and the Soldier Mountain Search Team — under the direction of the Camas County Sheriff.

When the operation is put in effect, Weeks said, members gather at the ranger station and a rescue leader is selected, depending on the type of rescue and search area involved.

A field meeting point is established and the party who reported the incident is questioned to determine the exact search location. In addition, each search member carries a pack of equipment, caches have been set up and the rescue plan includes a list of all snowmachines available in the Fairfield area for backup capability, Weeks said.

During the helicopter skiing portion of the session, Gilbert Farr, Ketchum district ranger, detailed the permit and safety provisions for the operation.

Farr said when helicopter skiing began several years ago few advance precautions were taken.

However, the district ranger said he felt a "first class operation" had been developed and the program has been put on a "professional and scientific basis."

Sun Valley presently holds a special use permit through Dan Danielson, helicopter pilot, and the forest service works closely with Bob Sevy, helicopter guide supervisor, Farr said.

Farr said a program has been initiated "to try to limit helicopter skiing to certain specific slopes" on which information is gradually gathered.

The district ranger also described avalanche control and slope preparation work — conducted before skiers are helicoptered to the area — and search and rescue equipment carried on each trip.

Farr said Sun Valley has ordered compact transmitters — receivers for each guest, guide and ski patrol member to aid in finding avalanche victims.

The morning session also included a discussion by Lou Munson and Rex O'Neill on identifying and establishing safe snowmobiling areas; and a review of initial plans for cross country skiing in the Sawtooth National Recreation Area by David Lee and Jerry Green.

In the afternoon, the group first met at the Ketchum District warehouse to discuss the district's avalanche search and rescue cache.

Compiled in relationship with a second cache on Baldy Mountain, the cache contains avalanche probes, blankets, first aid kits, back packs, flares, avalanche cords, flagging for drop marking and other related rescue equipment.

Farr said, for a long term search, generators would be available and arrangements had been made with Sun Valley to provide food.

A proposed snowmobile parking area, to provide off-highway parking and access to snowmobiling areas, was detailed by Green at a second stop at Baker Creek Road junction.

At a third stop, Patrick Kennedy, Twin Falls, landscape architect, outlined a process to inventory and identify areas for snowmobiling and cross country skiing for possible development.

During the avalanche hazard recognition and prediction portion of the program, Frank Roland, ranger for recreation and visitors, Wood River Zone of the SNRA, said a program will be initiated, with information gathered from the Stanley, Ketchum, Baldy and Halley ranger stations, to provide public information on the current avalanche situation.

Dick Anderson, SNRA forester, said avalanches can occur on 17 degree or 30 per cent slopes and steeper. He said recreationists should stay away from leeward pockets and slope bowls, using instead ridge tops or the windward side.

Anderson also reviewed the "dep hoar" snow condition — a high avalanche hazard — produced when cold weather converts snow crystals into granular form. He and Roland demonstrated how this condition can be detected when a shovel handle is pushed through the top layer of snow, but slides easily through underlying layers.

The session was concluded with a talk on winter survival by Art Selin, Twin Falls.

US-Cuba policy urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of Republican congressmen, including California's Paul N. McCloskey, joined today in urging that the United States take immediate steps to try to renew normal diplomatic relations with Cuba.

Upholds rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, the new chairman of the Senate Interior Subcommittee on Water and Power Resources, says he will insist on protection for Idaho water rights in any bill dealing with Hells Canyon.

The Idaho Democrat said Saturday, "such protection must not only cover existing water rights upstream, but also the unfettered right to acquire future uses as provided by law."

Church said he intended to employ legislative language suggested by the Idaho Water Users Association in any bill creating a Hells Canyon National Recreation Area that the Senate considers.

That language provides that any bill creating such an area shall not limit, restrict, or conflict with present and future uses of waters of the Snake River and tributaries upstream from the recreation area.

A thought for the day: Herbert Hoover, 31st president of the United States, said, "Older men declare war. But it is youth that must fight and die."

United States-Cuban relations have been marked by over a decade of mutual distrust, hostility and recriminations," the congressman said in a statement titled "a detente with Cuba."

Political and strategic considerations suggest that it may be in our national interest to initiate a dialogue with Cuba that might lead to an eventual normalization of relations between the two countries.

Two days before his reelection last fall, President

Nixon said in an interview with the Washington Star and Daily News that he foresaw no change in the U.S. policy toward Cuba, based on two main factors — Fidel Castro's export of subversive activities to the rest of Latin America and the Soviet military presence in Cuba.

The Republican group argued today that "a warmer political atmosphere and improved hemispheric relations are bound to occur if relations between the United States and Cuba normalize."

Idaho travel conditions good

BOISE (UPI) — Snow and ice made Idaho's mountain roads slick for the traveler today but elsewhere in the state most major highways were in good shape for travel.

By road, this was the report from the Idaho Departments of Highways and Law Enforcement.

Utah youths held in TF

TWIN FALLS — Three Oregon youths were arrested by Twin Falls police early this morning on grand larceny auto theft charges.

According to chief of detectives Tim Qualls, officers became suspicious of the trio when their vehicle was observed turning into an alley and the vehicle was found abandoned in the alley moments later.

Investigating officers determined the vehicle had been reported stolen earlier in Ogdon. Items were also found in the stolen car, but, according to Captain Qualls, no burglary determination has yet been established.

While officers searched for the three missing youths, the desk sergeant at the police station received a call from a bread truck driver who had seen three youths run off the road and hide near a service station on Interstate 80.

Responding to the report from the driver, officers discovered the youths and placed them under arrest.

Boise man gets special honor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Fearless Farris" Land, Boise, has been named the handicapped American of the year by the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

U.S. Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, who nominated the businessman, made the announcement from Washington Saturday. Land, paralyzed from the neck down for 10 years, has overcome his immobility through courage and a desire to remain active, Hansen said.

Land has a retail gas business that employs more than 100 persons. He travels throughout the Intermountain area looking after his business concerns, dealing with suppliers, handling publicity and creating ads.

"As handicapped American of the year, I know he will be able to encourage others who might be inclined to yield to the constant discouragement that a handicapped person faces," Hansen said.

Land has been involved in state and civic affairs, has served with the PTA, and has been a member of the Advisory Council in the Idaho State Department of Commerce and Industry.

Shoshone chamber sets study

Filer replaces wooden bridge

By MARJORIE LIERMAN, Times-News writer
FILER — The Filer Highway District's last wooden canal bridge is being torn down and will soon be replaced with a cement one.

Filer should feel proud of its district, since, according to reports from the state highway association, it is the only one in Idaho to have all cement bridges over its canals.

Carl DeVall, highway district foreman, said a new bridge soon will be erected over the canal one mile south and three and a fourth miles west of Filer.

Ralph Thornton Construction, Burley, received the bid for erecting the new bridge at a cost of $12,186.20 and construction will begin at soon as weather permits, Thornton said. The new bridge will be 28 feet wide and 45 feet long and of pre-stressed concrete strips.

Thornton put up the first canal bridge for the Filer Highway District and said it was a matter of some pride for him to be able to build the last one as well.

Out of 23 canal bridges in the district, he has built 19 of them. The first one was erected in 1960 west of Filer, in the Cedar Degr area.

H. I. Cedarholm was chairman of the highway board at that time, according to Thornton and M. C. Allen was highway foreman. Thornton praised the highway bond for its foresight in replacing the old bridges with cement ones since 1960.

Most of the old bridges were erected at the beginning of the irrigation project in Idaho, probably in 1910 or 1912.

George Huddleson, Filer blacksmith, was awarded the old bridge for his bid of $166. He will use the lumber and iron for resale, he said. Part of his blacksmith shop in Filer was erected several years ago from former bridge parts.

Lewiston man held in Rupert

RUPERT — Everett W. Heath, 25, Lewiston, was arrested here Saturday on charges of fraudulent use of credit cards and resisting arrest.

Heath allegedly attempted to buy several items with a credit card at Gibson's Discount Saturday morning, Rupert detective Paul Fries said. He said the store manager kept the card after he checked by telephone and found the card reportedly stolen.

The manager called Rupert Police when Heath entered the store with another credit card Saturday afternoon. Heath allegedly bolted from the store when Sgt. Bob Walker and Patrolman Wally Smith, answered the call. He was apprehended after a five-block chase.

After Heath's arrest, allegedly stolen articles from Okthama and an automobile listed as stolen in California were recovered at a farm north of Paul where police said the suspect had lived the past week.

Heath will probably be arraigned in Fifth District Court today, Fries said.

Re-elected directors

MAX MARTIN, Burley, left, and EUGENE GRIFF, Twin Falls, were re-elected directors of the Southern Production Credit Association at Friday's luncheon meeting at the Ponderosa Inn, Burley. Some 700 company personnel and farmers attended the meeting and heard company reports during the business meeting.

Follow-up case for fathers rights

Leave me alone

MICHAEL J. Brody, 24, heir to the Jeckell oleomargarine fortune who took his own life Friday, is shown at age 21, pleading with unidentified woman in New York to "Leave me alone or I'll kill myself," after the woman requested cash from Brody to pay her son's hospital expenses. (UPI)

Eccentric heir shoots himself

WOODSTOCK, N.Y. (UPI) — Michael J. Brody, an eccentric young man who said he was a millionaire and gained world attention by trying to give away his fortune, shot himself to death Friday.

Brody, 24, was found slumped in a chair by his father-in-law, Robert DuBois, in DuBois' house in Woodstock.

Ulster County sheriff's deputies said he died of a single bullet wound in the head. A high-powered rifle was found between his legs.

He was an heir to the Jelke margarine fortune, estimated in 1970 to amount to at least $25 million, when he announced that he wanted to give it all away.

Brody walked through the streets of New York City and handed out money to anyone he considered worthy of the gift.

He gave a young secretary $300 and an elderly security guard $500.

Police had to protect the young heir from thousands of fortune hunters who swarmed to his Scarsdale mansion in Westchester County in hopes of joining in the giveaway.

An avalanche of publicity led to a singing engagement on the Ed Sullivan Show for Brody and his wife, Rene.

But his apparent eccentricity may have masked deeper problems. In February 1972, the government charged Brody with threatening the life of President Nixon by allegedly making numerous threatening phone calls to the White House.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawyers who won the Supreme Court's landmark ruling on abortions have a follow-up case ready to clarify the rights of fathers and minors.

The Population Law Center, the organization that brought the Texas law suit which produced the court's guidelines for state regulation of abortions, already has docketed a North Carolina case on those related issues.

Justice Harry A. Blackmun's long opinion last Monday said that states may not restrict the right of a woman, in consultation with her doctor, to have an abortion during the first three months of pregnancy.

The opinion mentioned, but did not decide, what rights belong to the father of a woman under age in making the decision to have an abortion.

North Carolina law requires that a married girl under age 18 must have the consent of her husband to obtain an abortion. If unmarried, she must have her parents' consent.

Sarah R. Weddington of Austin, who argued the Texas case in the high court, told UPI in an interview that a couple should be free to agree on whether to continue a pregnancy, if the wife is of age. If they cannot agree, she said, the question must be left to the woman because a child born in discord would not have the proper home environment. Attorney Roy Lucas of San Francisco, who founded the Law Center in 1969, said he was pursuing other law suits dealing with minors in Washington, Florida and the District of Columbia.

The North Carolina case was filed in federal court in Charlotte on behalf of four doctors and Arthur Jones, a former member of the North Carolina legislature. A special three-judge panel upheld the law, which included some of the elements struck down by the Supreme Court Monday. The Law Center, which has branches in New York City and Austin, confines itself to birth control and population matters. "Birth control must be made more readily available," Mrs. Weddington said.

She said in Texas a person must be 21 to be instructed in a method of birth control. Many other states restrict the availability of contraceptives, especially sale to teenagers.

Lucas believes the states should subsidize all forms of family planning. He said he founded his organization, which is supported by private foundations, because he felt the elimination of the "tyranny of pregnancy" would be a giant step toward changing the intellectual and professional life of women.

He said as a student at New York University Law School six years ago he wrote the first article which applied the Supreme Court's birth control decisions to abortion. "They laughed at it in 1966," Lucas said. "Now it has a seven to two majority behind it."

Audubon Society says coyote not to blame

NEW YORK — Overgrazing and poor animal husbandry are the real causes of sheep ranchers' problems, not coyotes, the National Audubon Society says.

The conservation organization is making a nationwide appeal to its 221,000 members asking them to support President Nixon's ban on using the wildlife poisons thallium, compound 1080, strychnine and cyanide for killing coyotes and other wildlife.

The sheep ranchers are trying to overturn the ban. Not many years ago every band of sheep in the western grasslands was tended by a herdsman and sheep dogs. Today the great flocks are virtually untended and many ranchers do not even know what happens to ewes and lambs that disappear.

Simplistically, they blame losses on predators — perhaps because they can deduct such losses for income tax purposes, says National Audubon. The society says it has never opposed protection of ranchers from actual livestock losses caused by wild animals. What it has opposed, for years, in testimony before Congress, in its publications and elsewhere, is the old frontier eradication philosophy of wholesale killing of wildlife in order to eliminate a few specific killers.

The 1971 report of a federal Advisory Committee on Predator Control, which provided much of the basis for President Nixon's order, points out that there is no conclusive research showing the actual efficiency of poisons in preventing sheep losses, that predation is only one of a variety of causes of sheep deaths, and suggests that "predator losses may in fact be of such a low magnitude as to be a minor part of total losses."

The advisory committee, headed by Dr. Stanley A. Cain of the University of Michigan, pointed out that sheep losses are caused by genetic defects, inadequate mothers' milk, disease, parasites, sudden blizzards and cold rains, toxic plants, straying, and other mishaps.

The difficulty of determining the actual cause of sheep death is pointed out in a doctoral thesis by J. Evanson for George Washington University sheep for forage. Some on-predator control and the sheep raising industry, which documents many cases were coyotes were soon to be feeding. However, despite extra efforts from the federal government in providing alternative controls, since the ban was issued last spring, the National Wool Growers Association has been claiming that predators are "putting sheepmen and their business."

The association has launched a campaign for withdrawal of the poison ban, putting pressure on the White House, the Environmental Protection Agency, and western state agriculture departments. The Audubon Society asserts the wholesale killing approach can lead to widespread death.

Herefords set records

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Average prices received for Herefords sold at auction reached an all-time record high in 1972 according to results compiled by the American Hereford Association.

Nearly 30,000 head of Hereford bulls and females went under the gavel in the 12 months ending Dec. 31 for an overall average of $857, an increase of $193 per head over 1971 averages. Hereford bulls averaged a sizzling $965 on nearly 18,000 head sold across the U.S. This represented an increase of $199 per head over 1971 and $50 per head over the previous high year.

Hereford females posted a $642 average in 1972, an increase of $160 per head over the 1971 average. The year 1972 has been an outstanding year for Hereford breeders. The volume sold and the prices received are sound indications of the dominant role Herefords continue to play in this business of beef production.

"In auction sales alone, registered Herefords returned nearly $26-million to their owners, which presupposes an increase of over $6 million income as compared to 1971. Private treaty sales added an estimated $80 million to the total sales making 1972 Hereford sales exceed the $100 million figure," said W. T. Berry Jr., executive vice president of the American Hereford Association.

Eruptions threaten

CLOUDS OF SMOKE, volcanic ash and poisonous gases hung over the fishing town of Vestmannaeyjar Friday, as a fresh eruption of the Helgafjell volcano threatened rescue workers trying to save the town. The Icelandic government studied plans to bomb the volcano in an attempt to divert deadly lava flows. (UPI)

Probe finds students killed as deputy aimed at another student

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — The chairman of a black committee that investigated the killing of two Southern University students says the students were killed by a deputy sheriff who was aiming at another student.

"As I have looked at the evidence and as we on the committee have assessed it, it is clear in my mind that there is a very real probability that murder in the first degree was committed," D'Army Bailey, a Berkeley, Calif., city councilman and chairman of the "Black People's Committee of Inquiry," said Friday.

Students Denver Smith and Leonard Brown, both 20, were killed by a shotgun blast Nov. 16 as students rushed out of the tear gas-filled campus administration building they had occupied.

Deputy sheriffs and state police had been called into the campus to clear the students out of the building.

The 12-member black committee conducted two days of hearings in which it heard mostly from witnesses at the mostly-black, 8,700-student Southern Campus.

Bailey said the FBI and state investigators had pinpointed a deputy sheriff as the person who fired the fatal shot.

"We have been informed of this identification by officials of the state of Louisiana. I think it's fair to say that these officials are in the executive department of the state," Bailey said.

"The report of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is complete and of the best of my knowledge that report also includes the positive identification of the suspect who fired the shot."

Bailey declined to name the deputy or the official who gave him the information.

Kendall-Vieck, first assistant state attorney general, and U.S. Attorney Douglas Gonzalez denied Bailey's statements.

SCIC leaders play Tuesday

The South Central Idaho Conference co-leaders, Gooding and Jerome, and the Magic Valley loop piece-setting Oakley Hornets will try to enhance their positions Tuesday in the features of a game scheduled. However, sharing the midweek spotlight will be Minico at Highland Thursday night, a big game in the Southern Idaho league.

Jerome plays host to Wood River while Gooding will be at Buhl in the two SCIC. The Magic Valley affairs send Hagerman to Oakley, Castleford to Declo and Hansen to Raft River. The lone non-league game finds Kimberly hosting Murtaugh.

Jerome has discounted that early season loss to the Wolverines at Wood River as a matter of being away and with two starters out. This time the position is reversed with Wood River having two starters out with bad ankles and on the road. However, the Wolverines have been playing winning basketball without those two starters, Bill Aldinger and Joe Packer.

Jerome has all the height advantage in addition to the other pluses. So the pressure definitely is on the Tigers to produce.

Buhl still hasn't threatened anyone yet and its getting later. Gooding could be a place to start, but unless big Brent Watson isn't available to the Indians, the chances will be slim. Watson leads Buhl in rebounding and scoring.

Gooding has the top two conference scorers in Doyle Rogers and Ron Wilde and they go one-two in rebounding.

The Magic Valley Conference merely appears to be marking time. Oakley is heavily favored over Hagerman and no one else playing is closer than three games. Second-place Murtaugh figures to have a tough game at Kimberly although the Bulldogs are still running too inconsistent to expect anything.

Lucas battles for control

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Two field goals by Bob McAdoo in the final minute and 40 seconds led the Buffalo Braves to a 101-96 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Sunday in a National Basketball Association game.

McAdoo's first clutch basket put Buffalo in front 97-76. Then he clinched the Braves' victory with 23 seconds remaining on a jump shot. Dave Wohl added two fouls to close out the scoring. The victory snapped a four-game losing streak for the Braves and sent Philadelphia down to its 11th straight loss and the second under new coach Kevin Loughery.

Elmore Smith led the bulanced Buffalo attack with 25 points before fouling out with 9:39 remaining in the game. Tom Van Arsdale, making his debut with the losers, paced the losers with 24 points.

Philadelphia held a 90-86 lead with 6:42 left, but then Buffalo rallied for a 91-90 lead with McAdoo's field goal with 4:06 remaining. The 76ers then battled back for a 96-93 lead with 2:28 left, but Buffalo scored the last eight points of the game.

McAdoo finished with 17 points for the winners while Wohl and Bob Kauffman each had 12 points for the Braves. Buffalo is now 16-35, Philadelphia 4-49.

Meminger free throws let Knicks top Celtics

BOSTON (UPI) — Dean Meminger sank a pair of free throws with eight seconds left Sunday afternoon to power the New York Knicks to a 96-93 victory over the Boston Celtics in a nationally televised National Basketball Association game.

The decision, the second in two days for the Knicks over the Celtics, lifted New York to within a half-game of front-running Boston in the NBA's Atlantic Division. Saturday Meminger won 111-109, fouled Meminger with eight seconds left. Meminger sank both free throws to ice the game.

The teams played tight defense in the opening quarter, with the Knicks taking a 22-19 lead. Willis Reed then scored 11 of his 18 points in the second period, and New York raced off to a 53-40 halftime advantage.

The Celtics cut three points off the New York margin in the third quarter with Dave Cowens scoring eight points for Boston.

Buffalo defeats Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Two field goals by Bob McAdoo in the final minute and 40 seconds led the Buffalo Braves to a 101-96 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Sunday in a National Basketball Association game.

McAdoo's first clutch basket put Buffalo in front 97-76. Then he clinched the Braves' victory with 23 seconds remaining on a jump shot. Dave Wohl added two fouls to close out the scoring. The victory snapped a four-game losing streak for the Braves and sent Philadelphia down to its 11th straight loss and the second under new coach Kevin Loughery.

Memphis topples Pacers 127-126

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Indiana's chances for an American Basketball Association victory over Memphis were shattered Sunday when George McGinnis was called for two technical fouls and the Tams made both shots to tie the game and then went ahead to win, 127-126.

McGinnis was called for the two technicals after he was called for an offensive foul—his sixth foul of the game—and twice threw the ball hard against the floor. At that point, with two minutes to play, the

Jean Noel Augert wins world cup special slalom

Kitzbuehel, Austria (UPI) — Jean Noel Augert of France flashed back to his old form Sunday to win the World Cup special slalom of the Hahnenkamm trophy in a race that saw most of the top favorites end up in the snow.

Augert, hampered by an injury in the early stage this season, confirmed his return to top form with two spectacular runs of 50.83 and 55.39 seconds for a total of 106.22 seconds for his first place in the special slalom event. (UPI Telephoto).

was second with 107.07 seconds and Andrzej Bieda of Poland third with 107.36 seconds.

"It's been hard to find all these tricky gates," Augert said. "The heavy snowfall reduced visibility almost to zero."

Augert, the 1970 World Cup slalom champion, outskied his rivals with his typical aggressive style, working hard with his sticks between the gates.

It was the third consecutive time that Augert won the slalom race of the coveted Hahnenkamm trophy.

"The new snow that fell during the race did not facilitate things," Augert said. "It covered some of the dangerous icy spots."

Augert, the 23-year old son of a hotel owner at Le Corbier in the French Alps, displayed his traditional skiing artistry when he turned in the fastest time in the first heat.

The fastest time in the second heat was clocked by his main rival Thoeni with 55.16 seconds that earned him second place and valuable points in the World Cup standings.

Thoeni thus obtained the runner-up position in the current World Cup standings with 104 points.

Roland Collombin, the Swiss downhill specialist, still leads the World Cup rankings.

Snead wins by 15 in PGA seniors

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI) — Imperturbable Sam Snead, ignoring high winds from a storm front moving across Florida, scored a 19-stroke victory Sunday in the PGA Seniors golf tournament.

Snead, 60, birdied three holes and parred the rest for a three-under-par 69 over the PGA National Golf Club East course. His 73-hole total of 269 broke Jack Nicklaus' course record of 271 set in the World Cup matches in October, 1971.

Julius Boros finished second at 283.

It was Snead's sixth Seniors championship since he started competing in that category in 1964. He had only two bogeys over the 72 holes, and broke 70 every round with scores of 60, 66 and 67 before Sunday.

With $1,000 first-prize money in his pocket, Snead admitted that he has been putting better lately than any time in the past 10 or 15 years.

"I think I played the back side very well, especially with so much pressure," said the effervescent Gallardo, who birdied at the 11th, 12th and 13th holes.

Gallardo turned in a three-under-par 69 for the day.

Bonaventure beats Niagara

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Forward Carl Jackson and center Glenn Price combined for 61 points to lead St. Bonaventure to an 88-78 decision over arch-rival Niagara Sunday.

Jackson scored 32 points and Price added 29 as the Bonnies shot 52.1 per cent from the floor for the game, and a sizzling 61.5 per cent in the first half. Niagara shot 39.5 per cent for the game.

Guard Georges Rantius led the Purple Eagles with 25 points.

The victory evened St. Bonaventure's record at 8-4 while Niagara dropped to 6-9.

Spaniard defeats Sifford

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Spaniard Angel Gallardo took the $3,000 first place money Sunday in the Raleigh Cup golf play, holding off American Charlie Sifford and Mexican Enrique Perez-Acosta to win by one stroke.

The little 29-year-old Gallardo, from Barcelona, made three birdies on the final eight holes of the 72-hole event to break a three-way tie.

"I think I played the back side very well, especially with so much pressure," said the effervescent Gallardo, who birdied at the 11th, 12th and 13th holes.

Gallardo turned in a three-under-par 69 for the day.

Sounds like a law firm.... The NBA should produce a number of 1,000-point scoring rookies this season. In the vanguard are freshmen sensations McAdoo, Lloyd Neal and Olle Johnson of Portland, Ron Riley of KC-Omaha and Dwight Davis of Cleveland.

The American Basketball Association pushed back its cut-off date for trades from Feb. 1 to Feb. 8 so that club officials can take advantage of the Feb. 6 All-Star interlude at Salt Lake City to make deals.

SENDING THE SNOW FLYING is Jean-Noel Augert of France as he goes into gate Sunday on his way to victory in the Hahnenkamm World Cup slalom race. His two runs of 50.82 and 55.39 seconds for a total of 106.22 seconds gave him first place in the special slalom event. (UPI Telephoto).

Bob Cousy continues talent search to improve Kings' future in pro ball

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pro basketball notes: Kansas City-Omaha coach Bob Cousy continues a desperate search for talent to improve the Kings' future in the National Basketball Association.

Any improvements from within the league by way of trades or signing free agents must be done before the Feb. 2 deadline. On the college level, Cousy sent his scouts to all corners of the country to watch a score of basketball tournaments and report on the most likely prospects for the 1973 draft.

Kon Durrett of LaSalle, the Kings' No. 1 draft choice two years ago, has seen limited action because of knee operations and long periods of recuperation. Minus his cast, Durrett now is expected to see action sometime in February.

Sam Sibert was Cousy's top choice last year, but the 6-7 forward remained on the team's taxi squad until Dec. 10 and has played in only a handful of games.

Charles O. Finley hits an idea that can rub off on the Memphis Tams. After Finley offered bonuses to his Oakland players for growing mustaches, the Athletics went on to win baseball's World Series. Finley now tenders Memphis players a $300 suit of clothes and a sterling silver mustache spoon if they wear real hair over their lips when the Tams host the New York Nets on Feb. 25.

Needless to say, every Tam player, plus the coach, trainer and radio announcer is sporting a mustache these days.

Buffalo Braves rookie of the year candidate Bob McAdoo hasn't stopped growing. Reaching for those rebounds against such giants as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Wilt Chamberlain has stretched Big Mac three-quarters of an inch more than the 6-9 he toted into training camp last summer. McAdoo is scoring at a 14.1 average, hitting at a 22-point clip for the last six weeks.

McAdoo missed the extra college experience, signing with Buffalo as a hardship case after his junior year at North Carolina. He achieved maturity in a hurry during his freshman season of pro ball.

The Milwaukee Bucks face perhaps their toughest schedule of the season in a three-day spin during February. They host Los Angeles Friday night, Feb. 9, return to the court less than 16 hours later to take on Golden State and play the Celtics in Boston the following afternoon.

New York Knicks forward Dave DeBusschere is off that "only-his-hairdresser-knows" back as he publicly admits in a television commercial that he colors his prematurely gray hair. That's leaving the other barrel. It's Dave who has been giving the opposition grey hair trying to guard his long range cannonading.

George Gervin, a UPI small college All-American at Eastern Michigan last season, gained some experience with Pontiac, Mich., of the semi-pro Continental League before signing with the Virginia Squires. When coach Al Branch decides he's ready, the Squires could have a real tongue twister front line of Erving, Irvine and Gervin.

Wrestling tourney scheduled

WENDELL — The Little Five Conference wrestling championship will be decided in a three-session tournament Tuesday afternoon and evening at the Wendell high school gymnasium.

Participating will be teams from Valley, Kimberly, Glenns Ferry and Shoshone in addition to host Wendell.

The team battle should be tight with all the schools having two or three individual weight class favorites.

The first session will start at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday with the second one at 7 p.m. The finals will be wrestled at 7:30 p.m.

Avalanche publication available

TWIN FALLS — "Snow Avalanche" a US Forest Service publication is available in all forest offices to assist the winter recreationist understand avalanche hazards.

Robert Hoag, staff recreation officer, Sawtooth National Forest, said all persons who ski, snowmobile or ski in improved resort areas would do well to obtain a copy of the small brochure and study it.

"The proper knowledge, Hoag said, will help the skier, snowshoer, or snowmobiler avoid being caught in an avalanche and to survive if caught.

Hoag said the brochure will help the individual recognize snow conditions which are avalanche prone, with information on snow conditions, temperature, storms and slopes steepness on which avalanches are most likely to occur.

The brochure states persons caught in an avalanche should discard all equipment, such as skis and ski poles, get away from their snowmobiles. With swimming motions, the victim should then attempt to stay on top and work to the nearest side of the avalanche.

Before coming to a stop the victim should put his hands over his face and try to make an air space for survival until rescued.

A survivor or witness should watch as closely as possible and mark the place where other victims were last seen. Search should be immediately below this space with a hasty search of the surface first, followed by probing with a ski pole or any other available stick.

A lone survivor should not go for help unless help is close at hand. After one hour, the buried victim's chances for survival are slim.

A victim recovered from the avalanche should be treated for suffocation and shock.

Director shows vehicle

REIDNEWDY, Shoshone, Lincoln County civil defense director, stands by a Jeep obtained from federal excess property.

Federal property to Lincoln civil defense

SHOSHONE — Equipment has been added to the Lincoln County civil defense program, obtained under provisions of a federal excess property program.

Reid Newby, director of the county civil defense agency, said one of two Jeeps to be purchased has been picked up for the county. It will be used in conjunction with the civil defense program's search and rescue activities.

The city of Dietrich has received a two and one-half ton truck which it is preparing for a fire truck in that area, also from the federal excess property.

In addition, two foam generator pumps have been obtained, one for Dietrich and the other for Shoshone, and they will be used in fighting certain types of fires, such as chemical, oil and gasoline blazes.

The Jeeps will be used in the county's search and rescue program, which is in cooperation with the county sheriff's posse now being organized.

The Jeeps can be used also in event of nuclear or natural disasters.

Newby said the civil defense department hopes to install radios in each Jeep in the near future, and that in conjunction with the state natural disaster and civil defense office, its excess equipment becomes available, the Lincoln County unit hopes to participate in the excess program further.

With the Jeeps the county now has seven vehicles that could be used in time of emergencies.

The county search and rescue posse will hold an organizational meeting at 8 p.m. Feb. 9 at the courthouse, Sheriff Anderson said.

Basic rules listed for safe skiers

GOODING — The Soldier Mountain Ski Patrol, in its efforts to prevent ski accidents, lists several basic rules for skiers.

These are given as a help to the beginning skier and as a reminder to other skiers. Skiing under control ranks first in a list of general safety rules and proper fit of boots and bindings ranks second.

Other tips include seeking expert advice and taking lessons from a certified instructor. Climb to the side of the hill, with skis on, when climbing where others are skiing.

Look around for oncoming skiers before traversing a slope and never walk up a hill without skis, as boot prints and other holes are treacherous to the skier. Keep off closed trails and posted areas.

Most accidents occur late in the afternoon because the skier is tired, and snow conditions change rapidly. Shadows at the end of the day may conceal dangerous spots on the snow. At about 4 p.m. the snow also becomes "faster," the patrol reports.

In addition to giving first aid, the ski patrol headquarters at the ski area north of Fairfield, is actively testing and training those seeking to join the patrol.

A first aid class sponsored by the patrol is currently underway and avalanche prevention and rescue classes will begin soon.

This year, the group has organized a ladies auxiliary to the patrol. Preliminary plans are now taking form for the annual fund raising ham dinner.

Present patrol leader, John Glick, Jerome, urges public support of the patrol at Soldier Mountain ski area and invites suggestions for future improvements.

George Wallace recuperating

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace rested in a hospital Saturday, recuperating from prostate surgery, his sixth operation since being paralyzed from the waist down by an assailant's bullets last May.

"His condition is satisfactory," said Billy Joe Camp, Wallace's news secretary. "He is alert and in good spirits. The governor's temperature and vital signs are normal."

The surgery, performed Friday at the University of Alabama Medical Center, was to correct an enlarged prostate gland and improve urinary drainage.

The enlarged prostate did not result from the shooting, but the enlarged gland hampered the flow of urine from the bladder, over which Wallace has no control, doctors said.

"The surgery on Gov. Wallace was completed as planned and without any complications," said Dr. George H. Myers Jr., the surgeon.

"During the 45-minute operation a procedure was performed to improve his bladder drainage which had been hampered by his spinal cord injury."

Spartan intercepts ICBM cone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Spartan missile, launched by a developmental missile site radar, has successfully intercepted the dummy nose cone of an intercontinental ballistic missile over the Kwajalein Atoll in the Pacific.

The test was conducted Jan. 25 and announced by the Pentagon Friday. The Pentagon said it was designed to test the ability of the radar to guide the Spartan to interception. The Spartan passed close enough to the dummy to have destroyed it if armed, the Pentagon said.

The test was part of a Pentagon project to build a limited antiballistic missile system, scaled down from earlier plans.

BLISS — Honor students for Bliss junior and senior high schools are announced by Burton Lenker, superintendent. Senior honor students include Jill Butler, Sherry Morris and Carma Ferry.

Juniors, Debbie Schroeder and Joan Garmund; Darlene and Stephen and Bob Clark, sophomores, and Kelly Schroeder, Valerie Hall and Barbara Hobley, freshman.

Eighth graders on the honor roll are Charman Conarusa, Jim Goble, Sally Lenker and Rick Markley. Seventh grade students include Mike Conarusa, Leslie Byce, Susan Hainline, Larry Hollowell and Debbie Hobley.

Heads benefit

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Brothel operator Joe Conforte has been selected as fund-raising chairman for a Feb. 18 Heart Association ball.

A spokesman for the annual event said Conforte was chosen for the role because "I knew he would get something done."

Conforte said he would raffle off a bullet-proof limousine used by President Nixon in 1972. The winner will be able to use it for a week.

Asked how the car landed on the prize list, he said, "I picked it up for $12,000 a couple of days ago. It's practically new — it's only got 6,000 miles on it."

Conforte runs the Mustang Ranch, a bordello in a Nevada county where prostitution is legal.

Bean control unit elects directors

PEROME — The annual Bean Height Control Association annual meeting was held Friday in Hazelton.

According to Jerome County extension agent W. G. Priest, new directors elected for the association included Cecil Noble, Mispudoka County; Jack Matheny, Jerome County; Hugo Meyer, Twin Falls County; Ed Swager, Cassia County, and Bart Westfall, Gooding County.

Priest said because during the past year no bean blight was found in Magic Valley no plow-down payments were made in order that the overall expenses for the organization would be less than $6,000.

Charles Greer, agronomist for Roger's Bros. Seed Co. discussed the trend and practices in marketing snap beans. He told the group an early commitment of seeds was of vital importance so they can evaluate what will be available for the coming year and inform the overseas buyers. This should be done by March 1.

Priest noted that a bean variety that has been developed by the University of Idaho and is resistant to mosaic and curling top will be put up as surplus property.

Priest said Greer brought up the fact some of the foreign markets are now buying a particular size seed that will fit precision planters. "With this we stand to lose one-fourth to one-half of our off-size seed," Priest said.

Marshall LeBaron of the Kimberly experiment station led a discussion on cultural practices in bean production informing the group that a more advanced bean variety will be introduced in five to ten years. At present it is not for commercial development.

Priest said Marvin Mueller substituted for Clyde Batcher of the Idaho Department of Agriculture disease control and reviewed the work done in 1972 by the department.

He informed the group that in 1965 the export of contract snap beans was less than 4,000 lbs. In

Columnist will sue Sinatra

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Washington Post columnist Maxine Cheshire says she is suing Frank Sinatra and demanding a "public apology" for what she considers abuse heaped on her by the singer at a midnight party here following the inaugural concert.

She said Sinatra called her a four-letter word and plunked two dollars in her empty glass after saying to her "you stink" at an all-Republican soiree at the Jockey Club Jan. 18 with many White House dignitaries in attendance. Among them was Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler and his wife.

Mrs. Cheshire said that her lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, is contacting Sinatra's lawyer.

Sinatra was with Mrs. Barbara Marx, his frequent companion.

Sinatra is a close friend of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew who often visits Palm Springs for golfing vacations.
