Burley awaits POW

CAPT. LARRY CHESLEY
Burley POW to head home

By DAVID HORSEMAN
Times-News writer
BURLEY — Mr. and Mrs. Verl Chesley learned Saturday their son would be among the US prisoners of war to be released immediately by North Vietnam.

Their 34 year old son, Larry, had been held prisoner since his aircraft was shot down over North Vietnam in 1966. Larry's relieved father confirmed the news Saturday: "Larry will be in the first bunch released. We've been notified that he will be released tomorrow evening our time."

The welcome call came from Mountain Home Air Force Base at noon, Chesley said. He said Larry will be among 115 POW's flown from Hanoi to Clark AFB in the Philippines. The men will probably be at the base for three days while physical examinations and debriefings are conducted, he added.

Asked if he regretted the hold-up in Larry's return, Chesley said, "No, not if it will help identify the missing-in-action and insure their release." The air force told the Chesleys to stay "close by the phone" Monday because Larry will probably call them from the Philippines.

"We'll be meeting Larry as soon as he arrives at Travis AFB (in California)" the father said. He said the meeting will not take place as Larry steps off the plane, but will probably be held soon after in a private hospital room.

Mr. and Mrs. Chesley will be flown to Travis by the Air Force and provided housing. Chesley said Larry's brothers, Mike and Bill, both Burley plan to go along at their own expense.

The parents, their son Bill and a neighbor sat in the Chesley home southwest of Burley Saturday listening to news reports of the announced release and reexamining old wire service photos that picture POW's in Vietnam taking mass and being interviewed by North Vietnamese officials.

Until their first letter from Larry around Christmas of 1970, an emaciated prisoner in the photos had been their only hope that Larry was still alive.

Larry was 27 years old and a lieutenant in the Air Force when he was shot down and imprisoned in 1966.

Relatives jubilant, POW release nears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Armed Forces passed the joyous news Saturday to prisoner of war families around the nation their men were among the 142 Americans the Communists have chosen to free Sunday night.

The notification began a little before noon and—with the exception of two families that could not be reached—was completed by 4 p.m. MST. The names on the list of those to be released included eight civilians and 134 servicemen—one of them a Navy officer held a record 1 1/2 years in North Vietnam.

"One minute I'm laughing and the next I'm crying," said Mrs. Wesley D. Schierman of Spokane, Wash., whose husband, an Air Force major, was shot down 7 1/2 years ago.

"I'm cry-happy," said Mrs. Verl Chesley, whose son, Air Force Capt. Larry Chesley of Burley, Idaho was shot down over North Vietnam in 1966. "I feel like it's the end of a long wait."

A Pentagon spokesman said the Communists had indicated "from 20 to 30" of the military POWs to be released were sick or wounded.

Plans for the bringing home of POWs were proceeding as scheduled despite reports in Saigon that there might possibly be some last minute snags in the exchange of American and other prisoners.

The Defense Department made all of the names public and began releasing photographs of the men. The pictures were drawn "from every source we could find," a spokesman said, and included shots ranging from formal portraits to casual battlefield snapshots.

It was unusual that the names of all the men were made public when two of the families had not been contacted. A spokesman said "It was good news and it won't hurt them if they hear it first on the radio."

"We waited a reasonable period of time trying to contact them," he said.

The spokesman declined to say which two families had not been contacted. He said efforts to reach them would continue as long as necessary.

Shortly before the State Department identified eight civilians to be released by the Viet Cong, Secretary of State William P. Rogers personally telephoned the news to the parents of the first named, Foreign Service officer Douglas K. Ramsey, 38, of Boulder City, Nev., who was captured in ambush in South Vietnam on Jan. 5, 1966.

TF food price hike bigger than in all '72

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls grocery prices rose more this January than during all of last year.

A basket of groceries that would have cost $10 just a month ago now costs 24 cents more.

In comparison, the cost of the same basket of groceries rose only 19 cents during the 12 months of 1972.

The new sharp price increases affected most grocery items, including meat and staples. The biggest one-month surge was for bacon, which rose an average of 14 cents a pound. Only slight price declines for produce countered the general trend toward higher prices.

Meat prices rose an average of eight per cent during the month, contrasting with slight declines at the end of last year.

The price of staples — such items as canned goods and processed foods that rarely show sharp increases — rose a full 1.3 per cent during the month.

Produce items fell 1.4 per cent during the month, off from year highs at year's end.

The Times-News survey involves pricing the same list of 20 typical grocery items at five medium to large supermarkets in Twin Falls. Despite the high average price increases, there was large variation in the amount individual stores hiked their prices.

The shifts tended to bring the prices at the stores closer together. The spread between lowest to highest store dropped from 12 per cent at year's end to 7 per cent a month later.

For example, the highest priced store surveyed held its prices nearly constant — an increase of only about one-tenth of a per cent.

But the store that had been consistently the cheapest raised its prices so much that it lost its position. The store raised its prices an average of nearly five per cent in one month — more than twice as much as that store's prices rose during all of 1972.

Twin Falls grocery operators surveyed Saturday were in agreement that price rises reflect wholesale increases being passed on to the retail customer.

"Phase III has eased up on the manufacturer's but not on the retailers," said Buttrely Foods assistant manager Bill Bower. "We are obligated by the government to go up only in the same percentage of profit we had before."

Bower agreed with most grocers that meat and dairy

"Evidently, the government's selling wheat to Russia has caused a price increase. At least that's what everyone is anything to advertise that's halfway attractive. Poultry is your best buy right now, but it's going up."

Bower said he discounted statements by other grocers that disease and increased feed costs were in the main responsible for the increase in the price of poultry. "I think everything is following the beef market," he said. "That's the main push."

Most grocers surveyed said that buying patterns had shown little change, perhaps with the exception of meat. "People are buying more ad items now than they have in the past."

At today's prices it's mostly potatoes for meat and potatoes man products have shown the sharpest increases. He said anything connected with wheat had also shown a significant increase.

blaming it on," he said. "Meat is higher now than it's ever been," said Bower. "Everything is so unreasonably high that it's difficult to find

Valley poverty agency to fold

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News Writer

BOISE — The South Central Idaho Community Action Agency, the controversial arm of the federal war on poverty in the Magic Valley, is being put out of business at the end of June.

CAA executive director Bob Russell said Friday he had received a letter from federal officials notifying him of the phaseout, as part of the national dismantling of the Office on Economic Opportunity.

Locally, the CAA receives about $125,000 in funding and provides jobs for about 15 persons.

But its efforts at community organizing of low income, welfare and other underprivileged groups, including senior citizens in the three counties it serves, has been the source of controversy for several years.

Russell said Friday he expected further directives from the regional OEO office about dismantling the agency, and said he would attempt to maintain existing programs until the end of the fiscal year.

He said he would also try to set up a new type of community action agency by soliciting unidentified foundation funds.

"The federal government no longer believes in people," he said. "But I think some of the people around here believe in people." He said current staff members, hired in an agency reshuffling in January, were "hanging tight and doing their job."

Woman's lament to 'Abby' brings TF medical replies

By JOCELYN CLOWARD
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The "problem" voiced Friday by a Twin Falls woman in the nationally syndicated column "Dear Abby" provoked a stir among area doctors and their patients.

The letter, signed by "Desperate in Twin Falls," was from a writer who identified herself as eight months pregnant who had just moved to the city.

The writer lamented that she was "unable to find a doctor who will see me unless I have my bill paid in full in advance."

Her problem, she said, was complicated by a previous bankruptcy and inability to borrow money.

Response from area doctors was quick.

One Twin Falls doctor who did not want to be named said the letter writer "did not check around far enough."

"I don't know of anybody who can't find a doctor," he said.

"A doctor is pretty hard put to send a patient away. Plenty of doctors would have taken her," he said.

When asked if he had ever turned a maternity patient away, he said, he had turned away "a couple" of patients who were "in a filthy condition" or who had a medical condition which required the attention of a specialist, such as severe diabetes.

Pam, Hanshall, receptionist for Dr. Fen Covington, Twin Falls obstetrician and gynecologist said that Dr. Covington asks maternity patients to pay $35 at their first consultation and a set fee each month afterward.

However, she said, "We have never turned down anyone for financial reasons who came in eight months pregnant."

Dr. Harry F. Brumback Jr., President of the South Central Medical Society said that the society doesn't have a policy regarding patients with financial difficulties, "to his knowledge."

"Each doctor is rather autonomous. I'm sure that every doctor has the right to refuse a patient, he said, "but most, even if unable to treat a patient would refer her to someone who could handle her case."

The wife of a Twin Falls obstetrician who asked not to be identified said Saturday she "felt like the column was one-sided. Every doctor has a different policy and is entitled to it," she said. "It is my husband's policy that the obstetrical bill be paid in advance. It's not fair to expect something and not pay for it, she said."

"Sometimes promise of payment is made and then forgotten. Honest people sometimes find it hard, but do pay. If a patient has pre-natal care, elsewhere, proof of payment to another physician is subtracted from the delivering physician's bill. Birth control advice is free too," she said. (Continued on p. 2)

Murtaugh woman hurt

MURTAUGH — A Murtaugh woman was injured Saturday afternoon when her pickup truck left U.S. 30 about 1.5 miles east of Murtaugh, striking a tree.

Delpha Bourn, 48, was in intensive care at Cassin County Memorial Hospital. Late Saturday, but her condition was not immediately available.

State Police said Mrs. Bourn was alone in her pickup at about 5:30 p.m. when it veered off the left side of the highway, squarely striking the tree.

CSI students rate courses as 'superior'

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho students apparently are well-pleased with the quality of instruction the college offers.

Results of faculty evaluation survey conducted by the CSI Student Senate released Friday showed students rated most of their courses and instructors as "superior."

According to CSI Student President Kit Christensen, the high average evaluation by students of their courses and instructors "reflects the satisfaction of the majority of students in their classroom instruction."

In the survey, students in each class were asked to evaluate their instructor, textbooks and the course in 30 categories. In 22 of the categories, students were asked to rank performance on a scale ranging from (unacceptable performance) to nin (exceptional performance). On the scale a rating of five was a satisfactory performance and a rating of seven was "superior performance."

The average "overall evaluation" of each course in the academic program was slightly above "superior" — at 7.30. In the vocational school, the average was slightly higher, at 7.53.

In both the academic and vocational departments, highest values were given to ratings of "instructor's mastery of his subject," at 7.82 for academic and 7.80 for vocational.

Lowest average ratings were for textbooks, used in the academic program, and for lecture organization in the vocational school.

Evaluation of instructor's performance — as opposed to the overall evaluation of the course — also showed students felt their instructors were "superior." Academic instructors averaged 7.33, and 7.32 were recorded for vocational instructors.

Dr. Paul T. Smith, CSI academic dean, said Saturday he wasn't particularly surprised by the results of the survey. "We've got a good staff," he said. "He said he thought students were generally honest in evaluating instructors. "I think pretty kind for the most part." Smith said he thought the CSI faculty matched in quality that of any institution of higher learning in Idaho.

Christensen said he and members of the Senate had been told by CSI President James L. Taylor and other administration officials that the student evaluations "wouldn't be used for removal from positions or for increasing or decreasing salary of faculty members."

Christensen said he agreed that the surveys should not affect official evaluations of faculty members. "First of all," he said, "students were not entirely educated on how to fill this out. In some cases students weren't given ample time to go through questionnaires to answer questions carefully."

However, academic dean Smith said he thought the survey would play some part in evaluation of instructors by the administration. "That's the rationale for having any kind of evaluation," Smith said, "I think it's one of the indicators you have to use."

Only three instructors refused to permit the surveys to be distributed in their classes: Bruce Harrison, Marvin Strobe and John H. Walland. Another, Bill Orr, refused to make the results public.

Most instructors, however, participated. According to Christensen, he and the Senate are pleased with the response by faculty members. He said he and "many of the instructors" feel the survey was "worth it."

Christensen said the student senators and other students spent "close to 600-800 man hours" on the survey, much of the time tabulating the results.

He said the survey was patterned after a similar one used at Idaho State University.

He said there had only been 150 copies of the survey results printed because of the expense involved. Administrators and faculty members were given individual copies; with others posted on campus for student use.

CSI trustee Rev. John Garrabrandt said he had not seen the results of the survey. He said he made it a policy not to comment "in isolation" on the affairs of CSI. At any rate, Garrabrandt said, he would not comment on the survey without knowing more about it.

Trustee Eldon Evans also said he had not seen the results of the survey. "I'd have no comment on it at all until I'd read it and saw how it was conducted," he said.

Returns to states

VICE PRESIDENT Spiro T. Agnew arrived at the Western White House Saturday and was met by President Nixon. He has just completed a visit to eight Southeast Asian nations to explain U.S. policy following the Vietnam cease-fire.

Asian leaders support ceasefire

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew Saturday told President Nixon Southeast Asian nation leaders support the Vietnam cease fire and are ready to do their part to convert it into a lasting peace.

In reporting to the President on his 13-day tour of eight Asian nations, Agnew said he found tremendous interest in the cease-fire and particularly in the attitudes of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Nixon said the leaders of the other nations in the region realize the way the truce was achieved in Vietnam "will affect their future."

Agnew landed in California Friday after meeting with the leaders of South Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia, Malaysia, Indonesia, Thailand, Singapore and the Philippines. He conferred with Nixon at the President's Western White House office following a night's sleep.

Nixon said Agnew's trip served "a very important purpose at this point in terms of building a structure of peace in Indochina and all of Southeast Asia."

The President and the Vice President spoke to newsmen before Agnew began his detailed report. Nixon said there would be no additional public statements because the report must be assessed by the cabinet and National Security Council.

Shortly after Nixon and Agnew began their private meeting which lasted an hour and a half, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the vice president reported "in his conversations with the leaders of Vietnam's neighbors he found understanding and acceptance of the settlement agreement and a desire on the part of all to consider what contributions they can make to make the peace a lasting one."

Nixon said he wants to assess Agnew's report along with the report he will receive when his national security adviser Henry A. Kissinger returns from a trip to Hanoi and Peking.

Hospital admits all applicants

"Pregnancy and delivery are not an emergency action. There are nine months in which to plan for payment," she said.

When asked Saturday about Twin Falls clinic policy regarding maternity patients Louis Meigs, manager said, "We don't have any set policy other than registration. No payment is required in advance; however, we have only one doctor who practices obstetrics, and he must limit the number of patients he can treat. I know other Twin Falls doctors limit their practices also. The Twin Falls Clinic Hospital has no delivery facilities," he said.

Regarding the DEAR ABBY letter, he said, "I think it was fabricated. I've never heard of any doctor in Twin Falls who has turned down a patient in this way. Clinic doctors accept patients, then expect them to pay their bills, he said.

Mary Roe, public relations manager for Magic Valley Memorial Hospital said that hospital policy is to admit everyone who needs hospital service regardless of ability to pay or any other factor. "Any one who needs hospitalization is entitled to it," she said. "We do like payment when the patient is dismissed," she said. "We are more a county hospital, but only 4 per cent of our income comes from the county."

If a patient can't pay, then he sees the credit manager to discuss arrangements such as time payments or insurance," she said.

Donald Frank, regional director, Idaho State Department of Social Rehabilitation Services said, "No one has contacted me with such a problem. In this situation I think our responsibility would be to help this woman to work out some way in which the physician would be assured of getting his money. It is evidently not a problem for the agency's paying the tab since she thought she would be able to pay soon."

He said, "My personal feeling is that when a person is in need of medical attention, medical help should be available to that person regardless of ability to pay."

When asked if any clinic medical help was available in Magic Valley for pre-natal care, Frank said that he didn't know of any such facilities. "Maybe it would be advisable," he said, "for the citizens of Magic Valley to take a look at the possibility of setting up clinics with such medical service."

Bugged Homes?

It seems like only a few days ago that President Nixon was saying in his second inaugural address that the government should not meddle so much in the lives of Americans.

Well-meaning as this might be, the idea of electronic devices that link individuals' homes with government offices is more than a little distasteful.

Maybe it is because the plan smacks so much of George Orwell's "1984" where the ultimate dictator, Big Brother, keeps track of people via television cameras placed in every room in every building.

But it is chilling to think of the potential for illicit spying involved in the presence of electronic devices in our homes.

The Defense Department reportedly wanted to force television set manufacturers to build the warning device into all new sets.

The Pentagon protests that its system, soon to undergo its first tests, cannot listen or watch, only warn. And it says that under the current siren-based system, it takes a half-hour to reach even 75 per cent of the population.

Could we not, however, improve the warning system as much simply by expanding the siren network or installing the radio receivers on street corners instead of in homes?

Such a system would, if anything, cost less than a mandatory in-home device. It would be more effective than a voluntary individual home setup. And it would avoid the unpleasant hints of totalitarianism that might make us wonder even more if the road to 1984 isn't paved with good intentions.

Valentine's Day

No one quite knows how the gay, whimsical holiday celebrated on Feb. 14 acquired its name. Actually, the date has been celebrated for years as the Roman Feast of Lupercalia, dedicated to the pastoral god, Lupercus, and the goddess of love, Juno.

Roman maidens placed their names in an urn in the public square and bachelors were entitled to draw one to determine their "blind dates" for the coming year. In later years the French and English had similar ceremonies.

MR. SPECTATOR

Work vs. Leisure

Another theory on work addiction has been offered by a Duke University professor who believes rising labor rates make leisure hours too precious to be spent in leisure.

That is why, says Prof. Juanita M. Kreps, many Americans are working harder than ever though they presumably could enjoy more free time if they wanted to.

In the case of professionals and executives, Prof. Kreps told the American Psychiatric Association, the incentive to work long hours is often social and economic status-seeking. The blue collar worker is more interested in financial rewards, she says.

"The constant drive to produce, to use time wisely, to increase one's position or income through extra work pervades all we do," she added.

This is an interesting theory, but it falls short of explaining how it is that every year more Americans participate in camping, boating and other recreational activities. To those individuals, at least, the alternative uses of leisure time are not overbearing.

RHYMES WITH BILLION

To show how desensitized we have become to the words "millions" and "billions," especially in reference to dollars, a recent syndicated column reported the one-year earnings of a certain company at $88 billion.

Though this figure represents more than one third the entire national budget and makes even General Motors look like a pauper in basement business, it passed through several levels of copy readers and editors and proofreaders and went unquestioned until it was spotted by the alert editor of a newspaper receiving the story.

The source of the boo-boo was traced back to the writer himself, who had meant, of course, to type $88 million.

That's how desensitized we have become.

WE'RE GOING AWAY

Mr. and Mrs. Spectator, like we have told you before, are hosts for this year's annual Magic Of Hawaii tour sponsored by the Times-News.

Because of the trip, this will be the last Mr. Spectator column until we get back - so it will be about two weeks before we break into print again.

About this year's tour! It's the biggest ever. There are 82 of us on this jaunt-of-four-islands. This is easily about 30 more than ever went on any other Times-News island jump. In fact, when we hosted the tour eight years ago there were 34 aboard.

Now we will practically fill the Hughes Air West jet leaving the Twin Falls City-County Airport Monday morning at 9:10 a.m. We will take up nearly half the seats in the big Pan-Am 707 jet from Los Angeles to Honolulu and we will practically fill the Aloha Airlines jet for the jump from Honolulu to Hilo.

What speed! We leave Twin Falls Monday morning and have dinner that evening in Hilo. We - all 82 of us - arrive back at the Twin Falls airport at 1 p.m. on Feb. 23.

We'll be thinking of you!

Dollops Of News

WASHINGTON - There are a couple of dollops of go 1 news on the drug abuse front. Commissioner Vernon D. (Mike) Acree of the Bureau of Customs reports that dangerous drugs seizures by his lawmen rose a whopping 69 per cent in calendar 1972, and the House Select Committee on Crime has called for "massive" Federal aid to fight drug use in the schools.

Mike Acree's report, showing that drug seizures climbed by 7,420 to a total of 10,107, is particularly comforting for parents because Customs is the first line of defense against dope trafficking. The bureau's job is to stop the junk from coming into the country, and a 69 per cent increase in the number of seizures suggests that the good guys are giving the smugglers a harder time.

Indeed, Customs performance has improved every year since 1967. There were only 2,843 seizures in '67, a little more than one-ninth the total in 1972. Seizures of heroin, the chief villain, were tripled during the five-year period from 235 in 1967 to 617 in '72. Meanwhile, arrests for narcotics violations rose from 1,253 in 1971 to 8,844 last year, an increase of more than 16 per cent.

Thus, Customs not only is keeping more junk off the streets, it is catching more smugglers. The Bureau is hitting the creeps in their pocketbooks, too. The street value of all dope confiscated by Customs in 1972 was a fat $100 million, which is not peanuts even to the well-heeled smuggling syndicates.

The "however" in the situation is the concern of the House panel on crime. A committee staff report faces the often sloughed-off fact of life that drug use in public schools has reached epidemic proportions, and concludes that only Federal money can provide the beginning of a cure.

No amount is mentioned by the committee. But its staff report recommended that $5-billion be spent over a five-year period for in-school detection, treatment and drug-abuse education. The figure is quite respectable, and as Chairman Claude Pepper, D-Fla., put it "Nobody on the committee really quarreled with the $1-billion-a-year proposition." It is also the committee's consensus that the money should be raised through increased excise taxes on licit drugs, including alcohol and cigarettes.

This makes sense, too. Obviously, the money is needed if we are to stop producing hopheads in our public schools, and there is no valid reason why it should come from income or property taxes. Booze and cigarettes are luxury items. In some cases they are also harmful to a body's well-being, and taxing them to fight drug abuse would seem a nice exercise in poetic justice. Smoking and drinking hardly qualify as habits that should be subsidized by the taxpayer's dollar, like jogging and breathing fresh air.

PAUL HARVEY

Year Of Rain

The year is in and added up, 1972 was superwet.

New York got more rainfall last year than ever before - 67.03 inches. It averages 42 inches a year there most years.

That's not all. The whole Midwest got such a soaking during what should have been Indian summer that it never did dry out; grain and soybeans rotted in muddy fields.

I know one Indiana elevator which usually processes 100,000 bushels of soybeans by mid-November. Would you believe that harvest was down to 100 bushels?

But that's not all - Arizona's desert flooded! I saw houses floating in Phoenix!

It was the soggiest year since Noah and there were times when Carolinians with rivers in their houses must have doubted the rainbow's promise.

And in the Northwest at the Quinalt ranger station in the state of Washington did they measure 15 inches of rainfall in 1972? They did not. They measured 15 feet! That averages half an inch a day!

Now 'six Republicans are proposing to Congress the typical politician's answer to everything - more money. They want to create a federal National Weather Modification program.

Before government goes goofing around with the moisture cycle - maybe it's not nice to fool Mother Nature! When we say this was the wettest or the driest or the hottest or the coldest, we don't really know. Weather records date back only 100 years. Worldwide there are cycles of

I will also buy the staff report's poke at school administrators for having "ignored their responsibility" in coping with in-school drug abuse. Statistics justify this criticism. The National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse says 8 per cent of high school students have used heroin, 8 per cent have tried LSD, mescaline, peyote and other hallucinogenic drugs, 5 per cent cocaine, 8 per cent methamphetamines, 7 per cent barbiturates and 5 per cent narcotics like morphine and codeine.

wet and less-wet weather that are more or less anticipatable. But we are concerned here with the ocean-bounded continent of North America and where, as the Commerce Department's Carl Posey says, weather is a "various, pervasive, beneficial, destructive, life-giving and life-taking, un-understandable complex."

We can see California houses sliding into the sea but we have no idea why then, why there and why now.

From orbiting satellites we can watch the movements of weather systems and advance warning spared some lives when Atlantic Coast states broke all rainfall records this past year.

But having completed the conquest of space it's frustrating to remain so at the iron whim of the weather on our own home planet. Thus the new move in the new Congress to "do something about the weather."

I submit that perhaps we already have.

There is measurably more carbon dioxide in the earth's atmosphere since 1940 according to the World Meteorological Organization. Enough of a change, they say, to merit some concern. Through WMO the nations of the world are being mobilized to keep count.

But this amateur observer cannot help wondering if Nature, with her phenomenal facility for healing her own hurts, might not be trying to rescue us from ourselves - by washing down our polluted atmosphere.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You intimated that it is not necessary for one to know his blood type in advance. Why, then, does the state of New Hampshire require this information when you apply for a fishing license? - C. E. R., Jr.

Search me. Why not ask the state of New Hampshire? If the answer sounds interesting, let me know.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a hysterectomy 15 years ago and am now in my middle 40s. I have been taking hormones, 21 days, then stop for seven, but have heard this causes cancer. Every time I take one it scares me. Please answer soon. - L. F. S.

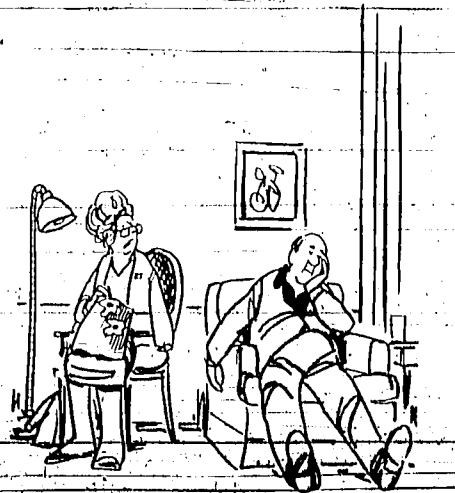

No, it doesn't cause cancer. If some types of cancer are present, the hormones can accelerate growth and then it is, of course, necessary to stop the hormones. But it doesn't cause cancer.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis" write to him in care of this newspaper enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed use zip code, stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Citizens Get Chance To Discuss Wilderness Proposals

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Editor, Times-News
Have any ideas of what the management decision should be in the Idaho Primitive Area? If you have, you will have the opportunity to detail them at any of seven meetings called for just that purpose — and five of the sessions are in Idaho.

It's all part of the proposal to facilitate greater public participation. It started out, of course, when the Wilderness Act (P.L. 88-577) provided that all existing Primitive Areas and contiguous lands which seem to have significant wilderness resources were to be studied to determine whether to recommend that all or part should be included in the National Wilderness Preservation System.

The act requires that studies be completed on all these areas, and a report made to the President, and to Congress, by Sept. 3, 1974. The Forest Service has, during the past few years, studied approximately 1,388,323 acres within the Idaho Primitive Area, to gather as much practical information and data as possible on which to base sound decisions as to the area's wilderness qualifications.

All the data has now been collected. The next step is to hear from the people — the interested citizens who have ideas or suggestions — who are for or against the plan. Originally the public workshop meetings were to have been completed by March 1 but an extension until April will permit the seven sessions to be held.

The sessions will be at McCall, Riggins, Spokane, Lewiston, Salmon, Boise and Hamilton, Mont. Magic Valley people wanting to participate will, in all probability, go to either Boise, Salmon, McCall or Riggins.

The dates of these sessions are Boise, March 20 at Rodeway Inn; Salmon, March 14 at the high school gym; Riggins, March 3 at the Salmon River High School, and McCall, March 1 at the McCall-Donnelly High School.

A final formal public hearing will be scheduled, probably in November, but location and exact date have not been finalized.

The areas involved in the study are known as the Salmon River Breaks Primitive Area and the Idaho Primitive Area. Also included is the general area from North Fork to its confluence with the Snake River. Copies of the reports are available at forest offices at McCall, Challis and Boise. Copies of the Salmon River Study material may also be obtained at the office of Governor Cecil Andrus.

Although the Forest Service procedure for study and review is quite a drawn-out process it includes various steps:

- (1) Interested organizations, individuals and agencies are informed in advance about the study. Contact with the public is maintained during the life of the study.
- (2) The U.S. Geological Survey and Bureau of Mines make a detailed study and report of mineral values that may be present.
- (3) The Forest Service

inventories the resources and values of the area and adjacent lands. These are analyzed under Wilderness and alternative forms and state and federal agencies and interested individuals are asked to comment on the alternatives.

(4) Public and agency comments are evaluated and used to formulate a proposal.

(5) The Forest Service publishes a preliminary management proposal and announces the time and place of public hearing.

(6) The Regional Forester conducts a public hearing on the proposal and receives oral and written statements.

(7) The hearing record is analyzed and a formal proposal in the form of a recommendation is made to the Secretary of Agriculture, who in turn makes a recommendation to the President.

(8) The President makes his recommendations to the Congress which is responsible for final action on the proposal.

The Salmon River, forming the southern boundary of the Primitive

Area, is under study as directed by the National Wild and Scenic Rivers Act. The Idaho Primitive Area, lying adjacent to and south of the river, is also under study as authorized by the Act, as is the Salmon River Breaks Primitive Area.

The reports now available cover the inventory data and related information utilized in the decision-making process. Its purpose is to provide the interested public with a basis for meaningful evaluation. So now the project is down to the public meetings.

So much has been said for and against Primitive and Wilderness areas, and about the National Wild and Scenic Rivers Act, that the chance to be heard will be welcomed by many.

And if you have anything to say you had better get to one of the seven meetings to say it. All start at 7:15 p.m. on the dates given.

Although not directly involved, more detailed information can be had at the Sawtooth Forest headquarters on Addison Avenue East in Twin Falls.

Answer To Review

Editor's Note: Jocelyn Cloward wrote a review of the recent "King and I" production at CSI. After publication in the Times-News we received several letters of comment — all critical of the review article. We ran these two letters from two young residents of our city, just the way they were written, with no wording changed and no spelling corrected.

Tonette Crandall
P.S. You should put this in the paper like your stupid article. P.S.S. How did you like the snow flakes?

Editor, Times-News:
Jocelyn,

All the people in the production of the King and I put a lot of time and work into the play. After all the work we put into the play and I think we deserve a little bit of credit. Reading your article in Sunday's Times-News was very upsetting. How could a person be so rude? Do you know what time it was we got through at our practices? 12:00 o'clock!!!! And try getting up the next day to go to school — it isn't easy. Where did you learn your consideration for people? Perhaps you didn't. You have made us lose a lot of customers. You are very unscientific woman ect, ect, ect. This doesn't mean however, you do not show respect for play such as the King and I (I believe). You friend (ha ha)

Editor, Times-News:
"Dear" Jocelyn Cloward,
You may feel really proud about your article in the paper but as you would say you cut down an awful of people we put a lot of time practicing and we got it real good for practicing 3 weeks!! Mr. Milton had a family accident and was called into Pitsberg his father died so we got a new director. You made me sick ect, ect, ect, ect. You are very unscientific woman ect, ect, ect. This doesn't mean however, you do not show respect for play such as the King and I (I believe). You friend (ha ha)

In Very Poor Taste

Editor, Times-News:
I would like your opinion (and the opinions of the readers of the Times-News) on the recent full-page article published in the Sunday, Feb. 4, newspaper. The article was located in the TV section titled IDAHO. The section was inserted in the paper and the title of the article was "Love means never having to say you're sorry until you get VD."

Unnecessarily
Kevin Huiuh
P.S. Put this in the paper!!

you love from ever having to say you're sorry — and you'll have a happy ending to your love story."

I feel the article DID NOT indicate that it is immoral to have such love affairs and that a great Commandment of God is broken each time it takes place.

Are we so far removed from God, that we don't know His Commandments and don't know or believe that pre-marital sex relations are wrong and an abomination in the eyes of God? How can we expect the Lord to bless us and this great nation, America, when we are so far removed from him?

I feel the Times-News made a very poor and distasteful decision in allowing the article to be printed or inserted in the paper the way that it was.

I feel the public should be well informed about VD but not in the way it was done in the Times News.

Robert L. Crowley
Twin Falls

Personally, I think the article and the picture are very deplorable and a shame to have been delivered to our home. Granted, the information concerning VD is good and factual, but the way it was presented is wrong.

At first glance, I see two naked people engaged in a love affair — undoubtedly, out of marriage. Then I get the distinct impression that this sort of love outside marriage is all right and world sanctioned as long as one doesn't get or spread VD.

May I quote the last several lines in the article just in case you missed it.

Protect yourself and the one

I know it goes some of you to write the phrase, but it is true, and most Americans realize it is true.

The Myth Of Equal Rights

Editor, Times-News:

One of the great myths put over on the politicians is the illusion that American women want the Equal Rights Amendment. The majority certainly do not!

The only detailed poll taken on women's opinions on the ERA was done by Elmo Roper in Sept. 1971. Here are the results:

77 per cent of American women DISAGREE that women should have equal treatment regarding the draft. Yet, the Congressional debate and the Yale Law Journal article confirm that ERA will positively cause women to be drafted and to serve in combat.

83 per cent of American women DISAGREE that "a wife should be the breadwinner if a better wage earner than husband." Yet, the Congressional debate and the Yale Law Journal article confirm that ERA will eliminate a man's obligation to be the breadwinner and support his wife and children.

69 per cent of American women DISAGREE that "a divorced woman should pay alimony if she has money and her husband hasn't." Yet, the Congressional debate and the Yale Law Journal confirm that ERA will make women and men equally liable for alimony.

I was not polled, therefore, I want to add to these figures my vote for maintaining the rights presently granted to women. When millions of women find out that they will lose privileged status so that our militant sisters may claim rights and responsibilities — equal to men, it may be too late.

Peter Marshall, former Chaplain to the U.S. Senate wrote "For centuries men have recognized that womanhood is a sacred and noble thing, that women are of finer clay... are more in touch with the angels of God and have the noblest function that life affords. Wherever Christianity has spread, for nineteen hundred years, men have bowed and adored her. It remained for the twentieth century, in the name of progress, in the name of tolerance, in the name of broadmindedness, in the name

No Law Is Needed

Editor, Times-News:

I doubt that a Constitutional amendment really is necessary due to the federal laws that are already on the books barring job discrimination against more women. We already have "Equal Pay for Equal Work" legislation.

"Equal pay act of 1963 requires that men and women in most fields be paid the same wage on jobs requiring the same skills. A staff of 1,000 Labor Department compliance officers enforces the law. So far, more than 400 suits have been filed to force compliance, and courts have ordered employers to pay more than 47 million dollars in back pay to 113,000 workers — nearly all of them women."

"CIVIL RIGHTS ACT OF 1964 prohibits job discrimination by private employers on the ground of sex, as well as race, religion or national origin. In the year that ended last June 30, the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission — EEOC — investigated 10,636 charges of sex discrimination.

"EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY ACT, enabled in March, 1971, bans job discrimination against government workers, including 5 million women, and extends the authority of the EEOC, giving it the power to file suits in addition to investigating and mediating disputes.

"EXECUTIVE ORDERS, starting with President Johnson, require nearly every organization doing business with the Government — the nation's largest single purchaser of goods and services — to erase all discriminatory practices.

Under these orders, employers who discriminate may lose their federal contracts. Already, more than 350 formal charges of sex discrimination have been lodged against universities and colleges. Last April, the Labor Department went a step further — requiring federal contractors to set up affirmative action programs, with specific goals and timetables, in order to give women better job opportunities.

outside salesmen — including 4 to 5 million women.

"THE FEDERAL PROGRAM, set up in 1969, requires the heads of U.S. agencies to establish systems to recruit more women and provide better job opportunities for them. Since April, 1971, the number of women holding policy-making positions has tripled, now totaling 118 of 12,000 such jobs. (U.S. News & World Report, Oct. 2, 1972)

"UNANIMOUS COURT DECISION: 14th AMENDMENT APPLIES TO WOMEN. U.S. News & World Report ("Women's Rights: Action in Court and Congress," Dec. 6, 1971) stated: For the first time, the Supreme Court ruled, specifically, in a unanimous decision, that "equal protection" provided by the 14th Amendment to the Constitution applies to women. The Court stopped short of completely outlawing discrimination based on sex. The only thing it decided against was "arbitrary preference."

Even the Marxists agree that men cannot bear children. It cannot be denied that there is a biological difference. However, the Marxist denies the spiritual nature of life. In the Christian world we deny even the idea that men and women can successfully have the same responsibilities. God has decreed it otherwise. Woman has never been in partnership with God, the creator. He has from the beginning of time set woman in that high place as keeper of those tender beginnings of life... one who watches over the handwork of God until he can walk alone. Man's role has ever been to provide that outer protection, that buffer from the world that makes tender, inner teaching and development possible. Thus men and women are different but equally important. The troubles in our nation stem from a departure from the ways of God. The answer lies in strengthening that home, not giving it up. We as Christians are interested in "more home influence" and "character," not in false "values" forced upon a whole people.

Pill Popping On TV

Editor, Times-News:

In our drug oriented society today and the billions of dollars being spent on various centers to help curb the problem of drugs in our children's culture, don't you think it's about time to stop it where it begins? The Television Commercials!

Ninety Nine percent of the American population have a television in their home, and if they don't have one they have a friend that does. Which means that all of our children watch commercials. If a mother takes a couple of pills, she won't be mad at her children (Age 3: "pills make Mommie happier"). Psychologically this implants in the young child's mind that pills make a person feel good.

How can we educate our children when every ten minutes they see someone popping a pill to take away the blues, blues, aches or pains? You've just organized a couple of new departments to "crack down" on the drug problem here in the United States at the tune of more government spending... Well, that may take care of some of the big time operators but that won't save our children from blowing their minds with the stuff they can obtain from the pushers at the schools and since our offsprings are so well educated on how good "the pill" is for you on television they are bound to have a why-not-try-it attitude.

All the over-the-counter drugs and the woman working, and the children being raised by the government there is no longer any need for the family. Once the family is gone, it will be GOODBYE AMERICA!

in our supermarkets are advertised on television: there are 9 stomach upset and headache remedies, 8 'aids to sleep', 3 'keep alert tablets', 11 'all day, all night' relief tablets, 7 'fast pain relievers, 5 calmiatives with their unique formulas for every day tensions and loads of stimulants and activity boosters. That's not to mention all the labels of 'timed relief', special formulation, 'gentle buffers', extra strength and many more. And then! since all these are geared to the adult they are now advertising most of these same drugs as "Especially Made For Children!"

That's just terrific isn't it Mr. Nixon; you send your teenage son or daughter to the market for a loaf of bread and here are all those good pills they have seen since "babyhood" on television just for the taking. A boy cannot buy glue anymore unless accompanied by his parent or has a note or in some cases if he also buys the model.

We have 9 million alcoholics in the United States today, a disease that continues to grow. Television is not allowed to advertise hard liquor! why are they permitted to advertise drugs? Beer, wine and cigars being going to be booted off the tube in the near future too!

With living color on television they even make the pill more attractive, different sizes and shapes, reds, yellows and greens, and liquids no less — what's to stop our teenager from buying from the local pusher practically the same color and shape as they constantly see on the screen, whether the contents vary in degree or not?

And, the advertising really insults the intelligence of the adult and of the young, with hummers pounding in the head, how much your spouse loves you because he brought the right pill home for you, or if Mommie doesn't take that pill early in the morning before fixing Jr.'s breakfast, she will scream, yet, and won't be able to cope with the day. Of course, be sure to take that enervative or get that drowsy feeling before going to bed or you will have a hard time to boot!

There are many good products on the market today that can be advertised that are not drug oriented. Let's get the drugs off the air, like glue, liquor and cigarettes — its truly harmful to the young peoples mental and physical health not to mention the adult spending millions on these pseudo reliefs every year.

To Music Fans

Editor, Times-News:

It is my opinion that many of the people who attended the country music show held at the CSI Fine Arts Center in January this year thought they were attending the Annual Magic Valley Country Music Jamboree. It is for that reason I address this letter to country music fans and all other residents of Magic Valley.

As most Magic Valley country music fans know, the Magic Valley Country Music Jamboree was started twelve years ago as a result of jam sessions held usually in my home, but due to interest by musicians soon required a larger facility. We decided to put on a show for the public and since it would be a natural for a benefit, we decided to give all the proceeds to some organization that provided a service to Magic Valley. Thus, the Annual Magic Valley Country Music Jamboree was born, as a result quite a sizable amount of money has been raised and used to benefit the local area. Also the musicians themselves have become better acquainted and the Magic Valley Country Music Association was formed and much has been done to promote country music as is evidenced by its popularity in this valley.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the residents of the area who have supported the jamboree by their attendance to the show. Also, to the various news and advertising media who have been of tremendous help and to the other individuals and organizations that have helped in the production of the shows and especially to all the musicians who have generously donated their time and equipment. It is my sincere desire that all the above named friends and associates will continue to support this effort and any other efforts that are made to present country music in this valley as long as it is presented in a tasteful manner.

For the last two years, just a few days before the annual jamboree, another group has

Blast traps 43 men

NEW YORK (UPI)—A thundering explosion collapsed the roof of the world's largest liquefied natural gas tank Saturday and trapped at least 43 workmen inside. Authorities said a smoky fire probably suffocated all of them. The explosion shattered the 270-foot-wide domed roof of the eight-story tank, hurling two-foot-thick chunks of concrete almost one-half mile from the site in an industrial area of Staten Island in neighboring New Jersey. The rest of the roof then collapsed into the tank on the workmen as they carried out routine maintenance. Fire Lt. William Cole, who entered the tank inside a safety capsule with an oxygen pack hours after the 11:30 p.m. MST explosion, said a slab of fallen concrete "like a sidewalk" prevented him from seeing the trapped men. "In my opinion there is no way anyone can survive that," Cole said. "It's just desolation and flames. There isn't anyone alive down there, no way." The tank, which can hold up to 10 million cubic feet of liquid natural gas, was empty at the time and the workmen were repairing its lining. The cause of the blast was not immediately known.

Ex-Gem agriculture aide sentenced on tax charges

BOISE (UPI)—Former State Agriculture Commissioner Oscar C. Arstein has been sentenced to 2 1/2 months in prison after being convicted of failing to file federal income tax returns for two years. Arstein pleaded guilty Jan. 8, 1973, to two counts of a three-count grand jury indictment. Friday, Judge Fred M. Taylor sentenced Arstein to 30 days on count one of the indictment and 45 days on count two. Count three was dismissed. The former Paul, Idaho, area farmer was elected to the Idaho House of Representatives in 1966 where he served one term. He became Agriculture Commissioner in 1971. He resigned that position last month. Thursday, Arstein said in a notarized affidavit—that the news media printed that he was charged by the government for failing to file income tax returns for 1967 and 1968. "And further by the language of the press media inferred that the affiant (Arstein) had never filed income tax returns for these years any time prior to the affiant's indictment," the affidavit charged. Arstein said the truth was that he did file income tax returns prior to the indictment. "Because of the fact that the federal government did audit the affiant's background and records like the affiant-Oscar Arstein requested, the consequence and result of the federal audit is that the Internal Revenue Service of the federal government did not find any discrepancy in his background or records to challenge," the affidavit said. Arstein said if he was guilty of the federal crime, "it is that of an untimely filing of an income tax return without following the simple procedure of asking, in one sentence on his return, for an extension of time to enhance the efficiency of his return—for the above referred two years."

Stennis serious

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Doctors continued to list Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., in "very serious" condition Saturday despite a slow, steady improvement following a second operation for bullet wounds suffered in a holdup. A spokesman for Walter Reed Army Medical Center said Stennis was alert and responding to treatment, but that "the senator's condition is still listed as very serious and the prognosis remains guarded." Stennis was shot Jan. 30 by two men—described as teenagers—who robbed him of his watch, wallet and 25 cents in change in front of his northwest Washington home. One of the bullets entered his chest and stopped down through his stomach and intestine. Washington police and FBI agents say they have been unable to turn up any clues to the identity of the assailants.

Kindergarten bill advances

BOISE — The Senate Health Education and Welfare Committee Friday gave a "do pass" recommendation to a bill that would allow for state supported kindergartens.

The bill contains a provision that local district elections must be held before the kindergarten can be initiated, however.

Earlier in the week, the Senate panel had agreed to introduce a pair of kindergarten bills, including the one it approved Friday, as well as a similar bill that would have required only district trustee approval for the kindergarten class to begin.

Under the measure, the cost of the program would be borne by the school funding formula, which is figured on the basis of a daily average attendance.

State Department of Education officials estimate that 85 per cent of the school districts would choose to have the kindergartens, at a total cost to the public school formula of $2.9 million.

Several senators said Friday they thought the chances for passage of the bill by the Senate were good.

Trustee numbers bill OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Senate today passed a measure which would allow school districts to increase the number of trustees to as many as 15.

Under present law school boards are limited to five.

Sen. John Barker-R-Buhl, called the bill a "good move" and said it would solve the problem of district mergers and allow more representation on school boards.

He said the measure won't force school district consolidation, but when districts do merge, five members on a board does not allow for enough representation in a large area.

The Senate also passed a measure which would allow trains to cross private roads without blowing their whistles or ringing bells.

Sen. J. Wilson Steen, R-Glenns Ferry, said the measure would not require engineers to continuously blow the train's whistle when passing through farming districts where there are many private roads.

The engineer, under the measure, would still be required to signal at all public highways and streets.

The Senate also passed a measure which would make prostitution a misdemeanor.

The measure was left out of the Idaho code when the last session of the Legislature returned to the old criminal code.

Aide hits peacemeal appraisal

BOISE (UPI) — State Tax Commissioner Dan Loveland says re-appraisal of property on a peacemeal basis seems to be at the root of a disparity in the ratio of assessments between county assessors and the commission.

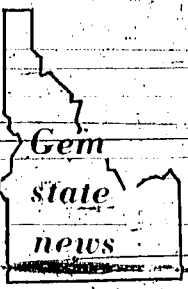

Loveland told the House Revenue and Taxation Committee Friday that in areas where there is a re-appraisal program the ratios are pretty well close on reappraised property.

He said, "I think the problem that we have is that all property needs a reappraisal. Until such time we are not going to get together."

By law, all real property in Idaho has to be assessed for tax reasons at 20 per cent of market value by 1982, nine years away. But some tax committee members doubt if this can be done. They are also concerned about what the assessors say they are doing and what the tax commission says the assessors are doing.

Mobile harvest

MOSCOW (UPI) — More than 150,000 trucks were used around the clock to harvest the grain crop in northern Kazakhstan in central Asia, the Tass News agency said.

Solons ask race dates for Rupert

BOISE — A pair of District 21 legislators met Friday with the State Horse Racing Commission to ask for additional racing dates for the Rupert Chamber of Commerce over the July 4 weekend.

Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert and Rep. E. V. McEllan, R-Ketchum, together with two local officials, met with the racing commissioners, asking for June 30 and July 1 racing permission.

Both Peavey and McEllan told the commissioners Rupert has a July 4 weekend town celebration and that four days of racing have always been held.

But this year, July 4 falls on a Wednesday, and the racing dates that have been granted include July 2, 3, and 4, but not the preceding Saturday and Sunday.

A Pocatello group has already been granted those dates, June 30 and July 1 and Rupert officials say there won't be any point to having the races in both cities on the same day.

Speaker Lanting terms Andrus tax relief 'phony'

BOISE (UPI) — Property Tax relief proposed by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus is as "phony as a $3 bill," House Speaker Win C. Hollister said today, because "it doesn't get to the people."

"It's as phony as a $3 bill," he said in an interview. "It doesn't get to the people. Utilities will get 25 per cent of the property tax relief — in some counties it may be as high as 63 per cent."

He said the average man will see very little in the way of a tax break.

"I'd get $140 on my farm," he said. "But how much will you get on your house? Not only that — people who rent won't get anything."

Lanting said his views, which he said were shared by many other Republican legislators, do not mean this session of the Legislature will not grant some tax relief.

He said there is a very good chance this session will provide tax relief, "if we can figure a way to get it to the people."

In this vein, he said, the lawmakers are looking into increasing the sales tax allowance on the income tax — say to $15 per person from $10 — or eliminating the $10 head tax.

"I don't know which form it will take," Lanting said, adding the size of tax relief will depend on what the congress does "to some federal programs."

"We could give some $3.2 million to $4 million in tax relief — this is purely a guess — assuming we don't lose more of these federal monies along the way," Lanting said.

"If one of these agencies loses a chunk of federal money, we may have to replace it — but we may have to cut down on tax relief," he said.

Meantime, Lanting said he anticipates some rough figures from the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee on the general fund budget for caucus consideration by the first part of next week.

"At least, we'll have a guesstimate on what's available," Lanting said. "We're anxious to put this together — even if it's a rough one."

He declined to say in this point what the spending priorities will be but did say "I think the public schools will be pretty well taken care of." He said kindergartens are a "separate issue," adding he doubts if this legislature will vote to fund them.

House OKs hike for trustee pay

BOISE (UPI) — Despite arguments that "civic pride" should have no price tag, the House approved 39-15 and sent to the Senate Saturday a bill raising pay of water and sewer district trustees.

Rep. William Onweiler, R-Boise, such trustees manage multi-million-dollar operations and deserve more than the $10 per day now paid them.

The bill would increase payment to $25 per day — up to a maximum of $100 per month — and give the chairman of the board an extra $50 per month.

While the bill produced spirited debate during the first Saturday meeting of the legislature at this session, the House argued longest on a bill to prohibit feeding of garbage to swine.

When the smoke cleared, that bill passed the House with only three dissenting votes and headed for the Senate.

In all, the House approved eight bills — including one to raise to $300 from $200 the maximum jurisdiction of the Small Claims Division of District Court.

Senators acted on six bills giving final approval to a House measure to make prostitution a misdemeanor. The Senate also okayed a bill permitting school districts to increase the number of their trustees to nine and a bill allowing trains to cross private roads without blowing whistles or ringing bells.

Gem embezzler loses appeal

BOISE (UPI) — Former Highway Department employe Oliver B. Turner had his conviction of 19 counts of obtaining money under false pretenses affirmed by the State Supreme Court this week.

Turner pleaded guilty in district court to the counts and was sentenced to the state prison for 14 years on each count. Turner contended in the appeal that the district court abused its discretion in denying his motion to withdraw his pleas of guilty. He contended his pleas were induced by "subtle psychological coercion and fear."

The Supreme Court, in an unanimous opinion, stated Turner's pleas were accepted by district Judge J. Ray Durtsch only after "penetrating examination and discourse" to determine the voluntariness and accuracy of his pleas.

MK wins big contract

BOISE (UPI) — A $225 million contract for building a 1,100-mile transmission line system across the African Republic of Zaire has been awarded to two Morrison-Knudsen Company subsidiaries and a joint venture.

The contract was signed Friday by the Government of Zaire and M-K officials during ceremonies at Kinshasa, capital of Zaire, formerly the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

Known as the Inga-Shaba Transmission System, the new line will eventually transmit more than one million kilowatts of electrical energy.

George Washington loaded with coins

If you see a white-wigged, bespectacled gentleman dressed in colonial attire roaming the streets of Twin Falls, don't turn around and run the other way.

He's George Washington and he's loaded. Loaded with coins. It's all part of the gigantic George Washington Birthday Celebration coming to Twin Falls Feb. 19.

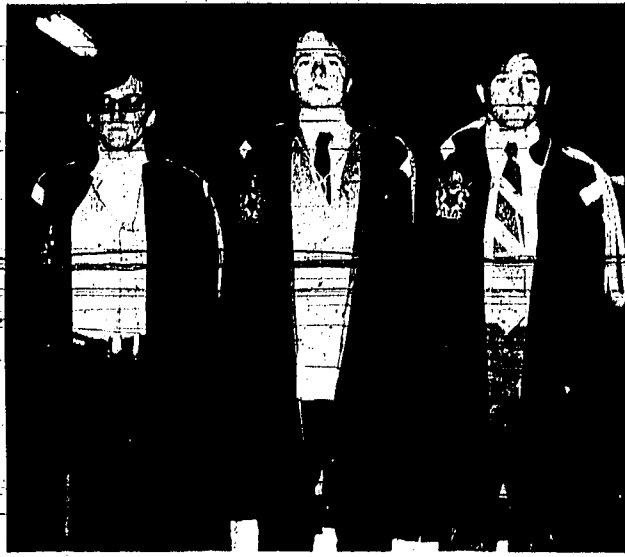

George, Mr. Hardy Bond in real life, and the Twin Falls merchants will be distributing some 12,000 plastic gold and red coins among the visitors to Twin Falls during the next week.

If you're lucky enough to see George, don't hesitate to ask him for a coin. They're quite valuable. Each coin is worth a discount on selected items of merchandise at the various stores in Twin Falls that are participating in the special Washington's Birthday sale.

How can you tell which merchants will be participating in the sale? Well, there will be a list of participating stores that will read, "Redeem Gold Hatchet Coins Here."

Of course, Feb. 19, is expected to be the biggest sale day of the year in Twin Falls. Twin Falls store owners have been planning for months for the event. They will be offering numerous and fantastic savings on everything from "soup to nuts" and screwdrivers to diesel carry-alls.

A special "gold coin" will also be printed on the front page of the Twin Falls News, Washington's Birthday issue on Sunday, Feb. 18. This coin is just as valuable as the plastic coins that George will be giving away when redeemed at Twin Falls stores.

Space needed for center

TWIN FALLS -- An urgent need for community living space for persons participating in the Adult Development Center programs in Twin Falls is needed.

Officials of the center, a division of Social and rehabilitation services in the Magic Valley region, say the current emphasis of their program is on rehabilitation of the handicapped to help them live in the community rather than face institutionalization.

In order for individuals to participate in the center's programs living space is urgently needed in the Twin Falls area. Many clients find it impossible to travel from surrounding areas each day to take advantage of the educational and training facilities now available, said Tony McNevin, center director.

Clients in need of such services, many of whom are retarded and currently residing at the State School and Hospital in Nampa, have had little family living experience. They are unfamiliar with the complexities of modern living in the community, he said.

The Twin Falls area currently has six shelter homes. They provide care for approximately 30 clients. The number of clients at any one facility varies from one to 15. The center would like to develop new facilities which could handle one or two people in a family setting.

Clients would be placed for a temporary, 8-week period, with a family. This offers an intensive evaluation of the person and a transitional time for adjustment, McNevin said.

The center would offer daily programming Monday through Friday. Training would be given in self help, personal hygiene, money handling, and vocational areas, along with other individualized instruction to meet the clients needs, he said.

Parents would be responsible for evening and night supervision and some weekends if the client could not return to his home.

Prospective parents would be interviewed to determine the best possible match between parents and clients. An orientation is offered to the parents to help them understand the client and his special needs.

Regular contact would be maintained to discuss program changes, management problems and how to handle them, and how the center and parents can work together to the benefit of the client.

At the end of the eight weeks the client would be placed in a permanent living arrangement. This might be another boarding home or an apartment. He would receive additional training or be placed on a job.

Board and room payments are available through Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled. This relieves the financial burden of providing food and other necessities.

Anyone interested in more information about the program should contact John Franz, social worker, at the center, 734-3610.

TWIN FALLS -- R. N. Dick, White of the Small Business Administration will be in Twin Falls Tuesday to counsel small businessmen on the services of the agency.

The federal agency may guarantee a bank loan or participate with financial institutions by supplying up to 75 per cent of the needed funds. Businessmen seeking a loan should bring their most recent

CSI, forest service share talents of landscape architect student

TWIN FALLS — Sawtooth National Forest and College of Southern Idaho officials are proud of a work study program involving the services of a landscape architect student they now share.

David Perkins, director of student personnel services at CSI, said the program involves on-the-job training in which the student can apply what he is learning in the classroom to practical experience in the field and thus improve his learning techniques.

Scott Harmon, a sophomore at CSI, is working 15 hours per week with Sawtooth National Forest landscape architects and among other things is designing the first new camping development in the Sawtooth National Recreation Area.

At the present time, the remainder of the week finds Scott in classroom work at CSI. This summer, Brent Thomas, landscape architect for the Sawtooth, says, plans are to utilize Scott on a full time summer-help basis.

This will give him an opportunity to get into the field for some of the site collection of data and planning.

Glacier View Campground will be located on Redfish Lake, adjacent to the "Outlet" campground and is designed to draw some of the heavy use away from the lake area proper.

Working in the headquarters office of the Sawtooth National Forest here, Harmon is involved with impact studies, mapping, typographic developments, and in designing irrigation systems, family units, roads and other improvements for outdoor recreation areas.

Under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, programs such as this are experience funded federally with 60 percent of the salary, paid through government funds to CSI, and the remainder by the employer.

Perkins said there are 10 other off-campus study programs underway in Twin Falls in all involving public agencies which students are working at everything from janitorial assistants to teachers.

Perkins said he feels Harmon is gaining by far the most of any off-campus workers in the way of supervised practical LITTLEFIELD, Tex. (UPI) — Raul Diaz, 11, one of 16 children who survived a bus-train collision three days ago, said he told his schoolmates the train coming but were unable to get the driver, Artis Ray Johnson, 68, to remain stopped at the flashing red lights.

Seven children were killed when the freight train hit the school bus in the rural Northwest Texas city.

"When the bus driver stopped, everyone saw that a train was coming," Raul said Thursday. "I saw it coming. When the bus started up again, everyone yelled, but he tried to make it across."

Raul remained hospitalized with his 15-year-old brother Jesse Diaz, a ninth-grader, who also said he saw the train approaching.

"The bus stopped at the blinking light. Then it went on. I saw the train coming before the bus started up again. I was sitting in the middle of the bus," Jesse said.

"Anta (Martinez, 19), screamed at Mr. Johnson to stop, but he kept going. Now she's dead," he said.

Police chief James Cox has already charged Johnson, a retired carpenter and school custodian, with driving the bus without the required chauffeur's license. Cox said he had the statements of the Diaz brothers and some from the other 14 survivors, including 12 who were still hospitalized today.

"But we are waiting to talk to some of the older students on the bus to see what they say before deciding what other charges, if any, will be filed," he said.

Doctors have restricted some of the more seriously injured survivors from seeing anyone except their immediate families for the time being.

The bus carried 23 children, of the 10 injured, one was critically hurt and two were in serious condition. Two have been released from hospitals and the rest remained in satisfactory condition.

Johnson was also hospitalized, but was released Thursday and secluded himself in his home.

Parents of the children killed set funeral services Friday for six of the victims.

Harmon said he plans to continue his education in this field and hopes to someday join the Forest Service as a landscape architect.

Other off-campus programs include several students working with the public schools, Community Action Agency, Y.M.C.A., South Central Idaho Health District, adult and child development centers and the Jerome Day Care Center.

Typing class to begin

TWIN FALLS — A typing speed class designed to help typists who may have gotten "rusty" is being taught at the College of Southern Idaho beginning Thursday night.

Marvin Glasscock, director of continuing education, said the course will help those who may not have been typing for a few years rebuild their speed and skill.

Mrs. Betty Smith will teach the course Thursday's from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in Room 214 of the Shields Building. Although the course is not a beginning typing course but one to improve skills already acquired in typing and machine transcription, beginners are welcome to join the group, Glasscock said.

Further information may be obtained by calling him at 733-9564-Ext. 221.

Coordinator appointed

JEROME — Mrs. Gerald Gries has been appointed as the new activities coordinator for the Friendship Club at St. Benedict's Hospital, according to hospital authorities.

Mrs. Gries replaces Mrs. Maxine Davis who is retiring.

Mrs. Gries has been employed at the Long Term Care Unit for the past year and is attending a workshop in Twin Falls.

She has completed a course as nurses aide and classes for LPN.

Park lateral piped

TWIN FALLS — City crews are currently installing 604 feet of giant size galvanized pipe which will eliminate the Eighth Avenue lateral through Harmon Park.

The lateral may be missed by some including the annual fish derby crowd, but it will no longer cut through and divide certain portions of the park and will no longer pose a threat to small children playing in the park.

City Manager Jean Millar said the project will be finished as soon as city employees can finish it with no deadline for completion other than the April 1 start of the irrigation season.

Pipe was purchased for about $13,000 from Arnico Pipe Co. on bids with the city furnishing labor as part of their local fund share of the project. Federal money was granted for the work under the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. Millar said in all the project represents about $35,000 in costs.

Two large concrete structures will also be installed as part of the work plan. The lateral is one of the Twin Falls Canal Co. main irrigation streams and it carries irrigation water from where it enters the city near Kimberly road through town to Harmon Park and then moves toward Eighth Avenue East, following generally along that street to Addison Avenue.

It carries water for some 1,500 acres of farm land north and west of the city, and leaves town on Filer Avenue, northwest of the hospital.

A trench is being dug for the large pipeline, just to the east and nearly parallel with the existing stream bed. The old channel will then be filled in and grass planted.

One-third of the vehicles in the world are produced by the United States, says the National Automobile Club.

Enclose lateral

EIGHTH AVENUE lateral is going underground in Harmon Park. City crews and equipment are working to enclose the lateral in large galvanized pipe extending 640 feet across the park. Work is expected to be completed before April 1.

Guild gives scholarships

TWIN FALLS — Jay Bryan, College of Southern Idaho sophomore, and Debbie Friesz, CSI freshman, have been selected to receive Harry Eaton scholarships.

The awards are made twice annually to art majors by the Art Guild of Magic Valley in memory of Harry Eaton.

In order to be eligible for the scholarships, students must be enrolled for 10 or more hours, submit a portfolio of eight or more works which may include painting, sculpture, pottery, printmaking or drawing and prepare a short statement of his or her goals.

Money to finance the scholarships is raised through a raffle of works of art donated by art guild members. Each member gives one framed miniature painting, sculpture, pot or print per year with the donation not to exceed eight by 10 inches.

The student portfolios are judged by the Art Guild scholarship committee at the CSI Art Department. The committee has five members with the chairman appointed by the president of the Art Guild and three members appointed by the chairman and the president serving as ex officio member.

Portfolios and applications are due August 1 for the fall semester and January 1 for the spring semester awards.

One-third of the vehicles in the world are produced by the United States, says the National Automobile Club.

USDA CHOICE BEEF... THE HOMEMAKERS FAVORITE!

U.S.D.A. Choice Beef & Lamb

At Safeway, every steak, every chop, every roast of beef and lamb is of USDA Choice grade. This is meat graded by U.S. Department of Agriculture experts who judge strictly and impartially. USDA Choice is awarded only to meat that will deliver tender, juicy, flavorful cuts. It is the most popular grade of beef.

In order to feature lower prices, some other stores buy meat of lower grades. Some others mix USDA Choice and other grades. Some coin fancy names for the lower grades they sell. But at Safeway every cut of beef and lamb is USDA Choice.

Safeway Specialized Handling

Our meat experts, using modern equipment and proven techniques, guard carefully the high quality of Safeway meats as they are transported and prepared for sale. Humidity and temperature are controlled to protect the tenderness, juiciness and flavor of each steak, chop and roast.

Nothing is left to chance in making sure that the meat reaches you at its peak of quality.

Expert Meat Cutting & Trimming

Our method of trimming meat gives you more good eating meat on the table for your money, because excess fat and bone are cut off before the meat is weighed. In preparing meats for sale, we also make sure that each cut will be just right for its cooking method. The meat on every Safeway steak, for example, is all-lean meat. The less tender end portion has been trimmed off to be sold at a lower price per pound. Similarly, a Safeway roast is roast meat.

Dominican rebels brag-on landing

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — A guerrilla organization with Cuban ties calling itself "Commandos of the Resistance" Saturday claimed credit for an insurgent's landing on the south coast of this Caribbean country that the government has so far been unable to crush.

Fresh troops and supplies were dispatched to the central mountains Saturday in what was seen as the prelude to an all-out government offensive to smash the handful of guerrillas who have eluded contact since a skirmish left at least three government soldiers dead last Tuesday. One guerrilla was reported killed in the fighting.

The "Commandos of the Resistance" claimed in a communique sent to newspapers that former Col. Francisco

Exhaust hearings ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal appeals court ordered the government's environmental agency today to conduct further hearings on the auto industry's request for a delay in installing anti-air pollution devices on their 1975 models.

The three-judge panel however refused to grant the industry's request that the court itself order a one-year suspension of the anti-pollution deadline.

The court directed that the new proceedings be completed in 60 days.

The issue had been appealed after William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), rejected the industry's request that the anti-pollution device deadline be delayed.

The requirement that auto makers meet emission standards on their 1975 models was written into the Clean Air Act in 1970. It required that exhaust emissions of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxides be reduced at least 90 per cent from the levels in 1970 models.

Merry Pet

Linda Merry, DVM

By LINDA MERRY, D.V.M.
Question: Having a terrible problem with HAIR. I have a cockapoo named Henry. We love him but he sheds all year long. There is always hair everywhere. We try brushing him a lot but it doesn't really help. Please, we are desperate.

Question: We have a dog named Sophie and my first question is why does she shed so much? Sophie has been shedding terribly for about four months and there is surely something we can do about it. Sometimes it is so bad that it comes out in clumps. She appears to be very healthy and is active. We've taken her to a local vet twice when she was younger for her shots and he didn't notice anything.

Question: We took your advice and made a house pet out of our kitten. Now the cat, white and fluffy, has become a problem. Her fur coats over everything. No amount of vacuuming, brushing, etc., has any noticeable effect. Surely we aren't the only people with this problem. Could you please devote some space to fur?

Answer: This column is dedicated to fur—the animals who wear it, and owners who share it.

The thing about hair is that it covers most animals and sooner or later must be lost in order to get new, healthy hair. Every cat, dog, and summer hair goes into a resting stage (telogen) and shedding soon follows. Most people can cope with that—it's the constant or excessive loss that gets them down (especially if it doesn't grow back and they're faced with a nude dog).

The week hairless Henry starts coming apart at the seams is the time to take him to a veterinary clinic. Hair loss almost always goes further than skin deep and it takes an expert to sort out all those organs under the hide. Thyroid, adrenal glands, pituitary, and the male and female reproductive organs are often involved.

Anyone can see those are nothing for the novice to fool with. Just Sophie wind up wearing a mustache and a deep voice. Likewise, internal and external parasites (lice, mange, ringworm) may be the true cause of baldness and they must be eliminated before you can hope for progress.

Diet has a great deal to do with hair and that's something owners can work on at home. A whole heap of dogs and cats either don't get enough oil or can't use the type they are given. Often just using a coat conditioner in the food will salvage Henry's hair and elaborate more by the tufts.

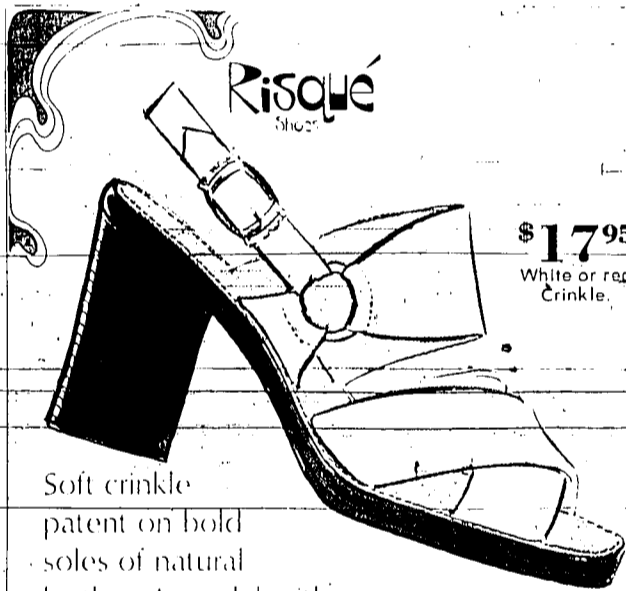

The good coat conditioners contain unsaturated fatty acids, the vitamins connected with hair growth, and sorbitan derivatives to enhance their absorption. One word of caution, not all coat conditioners are created equal—there are one or two which are head and shoulders (and tail, too) above the others. Let your veterinarian guide you on this when he checks the dog.

Finally, there are the grooming hints, which help. Brush cats daily but don't overdo it on a dog—they don't have enough skin oil to take it. Likewise, too much bathing is worse than none. Vacuuming the animal sure beats doing all the chairs and the carpet if he'll permit it. Don't overlook lack of air humidity as something that shrivels plants, people, and pets.

Use the grooming tips but if you're still buying magic hair and lint removers at an alarming rate, go see the veterinarian and take the dog with you.

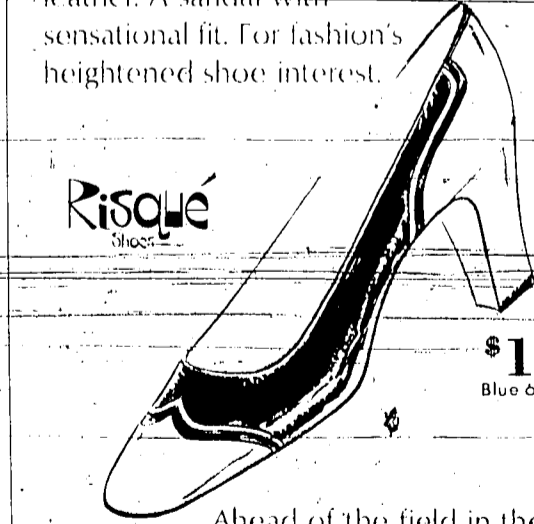

If you have a question about your pet, send it to The Merry Pet column, care of the Times-News, Box 548, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

Snowstorm hurts south

By United Press International
The South's worst snowstorm of the century dumped a foot or more of snow through the land of cotton and magnolias Saturday, isolating towns and stranding thousands of motorists.

Macon, Ga., was virtually cut off from the outside world by a 15-inch covering. The same plight troubled Columbus, Ga., and Phenix City, Ala., on the Georgia-Alabama border.

Georgia National Guardsmen helped rescue efforts; armories provided emergency shelter and state patrol joined National Guard spotter planes in trying to locate stranded motorists.

Interstate 75, one of the main East Coast arteries feeding into Florida, was closed to south bound travel from a point 30 miles south of Atlanta to within about 20 miles of the Florida line—a stretch of about 200 miles.

State troopers reported thousands of stranded cars "as far as the eye can see," along I-75.

One officer estimated the pileup covered over 50 miles.

Interstate 20 also was reported impassable and jammed with stranded cars in the Augusta area, about 150 miles east of Atlanta. Atlanta was spared the storm, but 12 inches fell on Augusta.

The snowstorm, forming when a blast of northern air converged with the warm, moist air flow of the Gulf of Mexico, rolled rapidly out of Louisiana Friday night and whipped through Mississippi, Alabama, northern Florida, Georgia and into the Carolinas.

Three inches of snow piled up along the Mississippi Gulf Coast during the morning and most major highways in South Alabama were closed. Sunshine melted away much of the unusual snowfall by midday, however, and officials in many sectors said conditions had returned to near normal by late Saturday.

For communities like Phenix City, Ala., and Columbus, Ga., however, no immediate relief was in sight. Columbus Mayor J. R. Allen observed that "this is probably what you would call a once-in-a-hundred year snow," and records of the National Weather Service supported this.

Up to 10 inches of snow fell in the midlands and southern portions of South Carolina and on south coastal cities in North Carolina. The weather bureau at Columbia, S. C. said it was the heaviest snowfall in that area during a 24-hour period since records in 1899.

GF TOPS club meets

GLENN'S FERRY. — Mrs. Lois Clark was a guest at the meeting of TOPS No. 179 at Greer Hall Thursday evening.

Mrs. Clifford Hansen, leader, told of a meeting she attended in Boise on Tuesday for leaders of TOPS clubs. She said that enthusiasm was the key word to spark the meeting.

"You cannot be a failure, if you have enthusiasm," she advised, "and enthusiasm is needed for success." Back sliders include any TOPS member who now weighs more than the lowest weight she has reached while in the organization.

An election of officers will be held March 1. TOPPER of the month for January was Mrs. Oral Irving. Her picture was taken in the Queen's robes and she received the golden key for losing weight at all the January meetings. She also received a charm bracelet.

Mrs. M. E. Cody, was named topper of the week. Mrs. Ralph Larson, weight recorder, reported that TOPS had lost a net of three-quarter pounds. KOPS had lost five and one-half pounds with no gains.

Jay-C-Ettes meet in TF

GLENN'S FERRY. — The Glens Ferry Jay-C-Ettes met Thursday at the home of Mrs. William Pharris.

Mrs. Cecil Irving led the "Inpromptu speeches", as the Speak-Up chairman. It was reported three scholarships were presented to Harold Wertz, of the Glens Ferry high school, for graduates of 1973, in the amount of $225. Mrs. William Meeker and Mrs. Donald Korn made the presentations.

The group planned a $10 donation to the Glens Ferry High School annual staff. A gift was presented to Mrs. G. R. Shaw, a guest, for her outstanding work on the football concessions.

Mrs. Irving assisted the hostess in serving refreshments.

Indians ransack tavern

RAPID CITY, S.D. (UPI) — A group of Indians ransacked three taverns and ran through the streets of this city at the foot of the Black Hills Saturday, only hours after reaching an agreement with authorities in efforts to ease tensions.

The outbreak resulted in 39 arrests and at least 15 injuries. Leaders of the American Indian Movement (AIM), which sponsored protest demonstrations earlier in the week at nearby Custer, said AIM had no part in the violence here.

Rapid City was declared a "demonstrated zone" by AIM leaders—and negotiations—here Friday led to an agreement by Meade County authorities to seek bond for Harold Withhorn, 22, an Indian charged with murder in the death of a white woman.

Mansion leaks

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — The Louisiana governor's mansion, with its Greek columns and expanse of re-tiled lawn, was built 10 years ago to reflect the splendor of the antebellum Deep South. Now, Gov. Edwin Edwards says the roof leaks.

"The roof is leaking in nine different places. The air conditioning is shot. The thermostat are all goofed up," Edwards said Thursday.

He said the commode in front of the two-story mansion is cracking, doors need replacing, new gutters must be installed, and a brick wall alongside the house is crumbling.

"It's unbelievable," Edwards said. He said the house, built for $1 million, needed at least $150,000 in major repairs.

Questions, answers on $ crisis

By United Press International

Some questions and answers on the latest monetary crisis:

Q. Why is the dollar in trouble?

A. Because there are too many dollars outside the control of the United States and the people who own or control them are afraid they will decrease in value.

Q. Who is selling the dollar?

A. Mostly speculators and individuals such as Middle East oil sheikhs, to international companies.

Q. Why are they selling now?

A. Because they do not want to lose money if the value of the dollar decreases and, in addition, they are gambling that some major currencies will become more valuable — and so they will make big profits by betting against the dollar.

Q. What makes them think the dollar is going down?

A. Because they are worried about such things as the record deficits in the American balance of payments, trade and the latest budget, the continued high cost of maintaining troops in Europe, the threat of inflation and concern about the huge expense of U.S. commitments in Southeast Asia.

Q. What caused the balance of payments deficit?

A. A lot of things. Americans buy many more foreign products than they sell in other countries. Tourists spend much more overseas than foreigners spend in the United States. Financing Asian wars.

Q. Can't the United States do something about this deficit?

A. Not easily. The cost of producing goods has increased faster than the cost for foreign businessmen, especially in Japan and other Asian countries. That means that their goods often cost less than goods produced in the United States itself. Americans will continue traveling overseas and there is no sign foreign visitors will spend money to offset what Americans spend. And, very important, American businessmen will continue to buy more and more raw materials

POW of Korean war advises

DENVER (UPI) — Air Force Lt. Col. Ted Harris, who made up games to survive 14 months of abuse in a North Korean prison camp, said his toughest battle was against sympathy of well-wishers at home.

"Well-meaning friends and family wanted to put me on display," said Harris, 49. "They treated me as an oddity. I don't appreciate it. I got very annoyed."

Harris was the last American repatriated from a North Korean prisoner-of-war camp in 1953. He was captured after the B-29 reconnaissance plane he was flying caught fire and North Korean MIGs shot the plane down.

Harris says he believes his problems following more than a year as a war prisoner will be similar to returning Vietnam captives.

"The program developed for the returning prisoners, Project Homecoming, is great if the media, the prisoners' family and friends, will just allow it to work," he said Wednesday.

"The idea of keeping POWs isolated in re-education camps at their own speed, is a good one," he said.

Harris said he was moved from village to village by North Koreans following his capture so that "the public could vent some of its wrath."

"Then I was turned over to the Chinese who made quite an issue out of the fact that I was not being killed or openly abused."

Harris said the key to his survival in the prison camp was his decision to make a game of abuse he was subjected to by his guards.

"For example, they would put me in a certain position and keep me there for 14 hours," he said. "They said if I moved a muscle, I would be punished. So I made a game of it. I would sneak a move and if I got away with it I got a point. On days when I got away with it more times than I got caught, my spirits soared. Those were good days."

He lost the game at times, however.

"Those were the bad days," Harris said. "My morale was shot. I thought I would never be released, that all sorts of remote but possible things were happening to my family."

Harris said he believed there are a lot of similarities between Project Homecoming and the repatriation programs after Korea. "The essential thing is to leave the prisoners alone," he said. "They must be left alone to set their own pace. I think it will work out in most cases if they are allowed to get back into life at their own speed."

Flu has killed 1,467 persons

ATLANTA (UPI) — The nation's warning flu epidemic killed 1,467 persons during the first five weeks of the year, the Central for Disease Control (CDC) reported Friday.

The CDC said that death reports last week continued to rise, but the number of reported flu cases was subsiding. This is normal, the CDC said, because of a two to four-week time lag between reported cases and reported deaths.

The number of reported deaths last week increased over the previous week in seven of the CDC's nine reporting divisions. Only New England reported fewer deaths last week than the week before.

The CDC said reports from 122 cities "still indicates that it is at an epidemic level...but that most regions are reporting a decrease in cases."

The agency said the number of states with confirmed A-English-22 (London flu) cases remained at 30 but "no state has reported it widespread within its borders."

The incidence of death was particularly high in California, apparently reflecting that state's "relatively limited outbreaks" in recent years.

Severe outbreaks of type-A flu, such as the London variety, come in such cycles, the CDC said.

The World Health Organization said Hungary and Switzerland also reported "epidemic levels" of flu.

In the weekly statistics, the CDC said Friday that the number of flu deaths had decreased in the New England region, which reported 82 deaths for the week ending Jan. 27 and 63 deaths for the week ending Feb. 3. In the east south central region, the number of deaths fell from 61 to 59.

Fawn's love of people fatal

MOCKSVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Little Orphan Annie's problem was that she loved people, and in the end, it cost her her life.

Annie, a fawn, was found abandoned in the woods about 18 months ago by Roy Carter. He fed her and permitted her to continue roaming the countryside.

Carter was afraid the animal's lack of fear of people would lead to her death at the end of a deer rifle. He wrote to newspapers, asking them to print stories about her, and asking hunters not to shoot her.

To be sure they could distinguish her from other deer in this rural area, he bought her a bright red collar.

Largest painting Largest painting now in existence is said to be the Atlanta. This circular painting in Grant Park Museum, Atlanta, Ga., is 50 feet high and 400 feet long.

Clark, who was just coming home from school.

Carter buried the deer in his yard and says he's going to buy a marble headstone. He said the men in the truck couldn't avoid the accident. "She leaped right out in front of them. They carried her into the yard."

The deer which loved to ride with Carter in the cab of his pickup truck had won wide acclaim in the area and had participated in a local Christmas parade.

"It hurt us real bad," Carter said.

Minidoka hospital OK'd

RUPERT — Ed Richardson, administrator of the Minidoka Memorial Hospital, has received notice of the accreditation of the hospital for the coming two years.

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals advised Richardson this week of the approval following a complete evaluation of the hospital survey conducted by the accreditation team last Sept. 27.

In the confidential report to the administration, recommendations for maintaining accreditation and for certain improvements were listed.

The report complimented the hospital administration on maintaining standards deserving of accreditation and the constant effort to improve the quality of patient care.

Dr. John D. Porterfield, director of the National Accreditation Board, said hospital efforts toward improvement in such areas as ancillary services, such as laboratory, physical therapy, coronary care and similar departments, were especially noteworthy.

James A. Bax, Idaho Department of Environmental Protection and Health, also complimented the hospital this week on efforts to help develop the statewide emergency medical communication system.

The department's emergency medical service program has been training ambulance drivers and attendants in medical care of patients enroute to medical centers and has helped ambulance companies obtain better equipment. Plans are to extend the training to emergency room personnel.

Bax said the Minidoka Memorial Hospital has been most helpful in the program. The hospital has installed radio equipment needed to provide a link in the communication system of the statewide emergency medical program.

Display at GF park

Three Island park at GF expects big season

GLENN'S FERRY — Plans for the spring opening of the Three Island Crossing park are not yet complete but more than the 1972 figure of 22,000 visitors expected.

The park, developed from a farm area in the outskirts of Glenn's Ferry, has 200 acres under development and 300 acres of undeveloped area.

Frank Clarke, Glenn's Ferry, donated a hand made prairie schooner, which is on display near the information center. Ride in a mule drawn covered wagon, speeded with interpretive talks, have been a highlight of the park's features since its opening. The mule team and wagon were supplied by Gene Crane, Glenn's Ferry.

Much of the area, including the three islands once used to cross the Snake River, have been left undisturbed to preserve the natural and historic scenery. Two of the islands are privately owned, one is owned by the Bureau of Land Management. The park is above and a little east of the islands.

Among improvements last year was a swimming area which has been roped off in calm water at the picnic area. The riverbed at that place has been filled with sand to make swimming areas for both children and adults, with a sandy beach approach.

Last year there was grass only at the picnic areas, but much of the park will be green this spring, from new seedling. More than 5,000 pine seedlings were added to the park nursery to be used in future years at the Glenn's Ferry Hull Memorial park and other areas of southern Idaho.

There are modern facilities for both trailer parking and campsites.

Old timers think that there are prairie schooners in the bottom of the Snake below Glenn's Ferry. The island crossing served the Oregon Trail, and in high water a number of wagon were known to be lost.

The Glenn brothers established a ferry as early as 1863, but the dangerous fordings continued, since ferries took hard earned money.

'Men's lib' blow struck

NEW YORK (UPI) — A blow was struck for "men's lib" in New York this week when the Kraus female boss of a swank hair salon business, went to jail and was fined on charges of discriminating against a male hair-dressing employee.

Mrs. Kraus, facing a possible three months or longer in jail after losing a four-year battle with the New York State Division of Human Rights, yielded after spending nearly 24 hours in jail. She paid a $250 fine for contempt of court and agreed to rehire the male hairdresser, Richard Read, at the $150 per week he was making when she fired him in 1968.

Asserting she considered the whole thing a "test case of discrimination in reverse," she went to civil jail on New York's West Side Tuesday at 5 p.m. and was released Wednesday at 4 p.m. when she paid the fine and pledged to rehire Read.

Read is being reinstated at the Kraus-owned salon in the posh St. Regis Hotel in mid-Manhattan. He said he was going back "without any bitterness. I don't want to do anything to jeopardize my position."

Human Rights Commissioner Jack Soble said, "The division always regrets any need for a crackdown action it might have to take...yet it cannot countenance anything short of full respect for the legal protection of the human rights of all persons...we cannot permit citizens in a turbulent and chaotic society to select the laws they will or will not observe...human rights are the foundation of our society."

The affair began in 1968 when Mrs. Kraus purchased the St. Regis salon and she dismissed Read for alleged incompetence, saying he "doesn't even know how to use a hot comb" (a method of blowing hair while styling).

Read charged he was fired without notice, leaving many of his regular clients seeking another hair stylist, and took his case to the Human Rights Division. He had worked for about six months at the St. Regis salon.

Mrs. Kraus operates a shop also in the Hyde Park Hotel in Manhattan, which caters to may career women taking advantage of her 7:30 a.m. opening hour, and a shop in White Plains, N.Y. She lives in suburban Larchmont.

The case was heard first before the Human Rights Division and Mrs. Kraus lost. She went to the division's appeals board and lost again. She then went to the jappellate Division of the State Supreme

Garbage project one casualty of budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One casualty of President Nixon's tight budget is a federal program studying ways to turn America's garbage and farm wastes into oil.

Congress for the fiscal year ending June 30 appropriated $890,000 for research into converting wastes into oil. That figure was $500,000 more than Nixon requested, and was imposed by the President's Office of Management and Budget as being overly generous.

For fiscal 1974, starting July 1, Nixon has slashed all research funds for waste conversion from the budget of the Bureau of Mines.

Rep. David R. Obey, D-Wis., and Sen. Mark D. Hatfield, R-Ore., the prime movers behind the additional funds for this fiscal year, said they probably will try to squeeze some money into the appropriations bill for next fiscal year.

They will be armed with a growing national concern about the critical lack of fuel supplies and Nixon's own stated worries about dwindling energy supplies. In addition, the budget analyses by the administration for 1974 says the research "reflects a major new effort by the (Interior) Department to keep pace with the nation's growing energy requirements."

The government researchers had been investigating ways to convert manure, wood chips, trash or kitchen garbage into fuel oil.

That does not mean anything to the manufacturing plant that needs fuel oil this winter to keep its product line going, or to the school that closed because of heating oil shortages. But down the road a decade or so, it could be the solution to two big problems — fuel supplies and solid refuse.

The federal research is being done — at least until the end of this fiscal year — at a center run by the Bureau of Mines in Bruneton, Penn., south of Pittsburgh.

There, steam and carbon monoxide are applied under pressure to manure, garbage or wood wastes.

The carbon, hydrogen and oxygen parts of the material get turned into about half oil, half water. The oil is a low-sulphur oil, which has a heating value almost as good as heating oil.

John Toshi, a staff research coordinator for the Bureau of Mines, said the oil-from-wastes "is not as good as heating oil but it is okay for power generation and in boilers for raising steam for other things."

The reactor chamber is a tanklike vessel, thick-walled to handle the pressures up to 4,000 pounds per square inch and the temperatures of two to three times what it takes to boil water.

Refuse from manure to corn cobs goes in one end and a dark liquid of varying consistency comes out the other.

The flow is only about a few pints per hour in the small research effort.

But the Bureau of Mines hopes its experience will allow it to design by the end of this fiscal year a plant that could use a ton per day of the leftovers of a sawmill — wood chips and the like.

What happens after that is up in the air. If Congress writes some money into the legislation that would allow the research to go on, Nixon could either freeze that or let it be spent. Or industry could take up the idea, which it so far has left largely to the government.

The "raw material" for oil from refuse is enormous. Larry Anderson of the University of Utah, in a survey for the Bureau of Mines, said about 2 billion tons of waste suitable for the "conversion" process is created in the United States each year. Even allowing for collection and efficiency problems, that could be turned into hundreds of millions of barrels of oil.

Conduct TF meet

FISCAL ADMINISTRATION matters in city government were aired in Twin Falls Friday in a meeting of the fourth district Association of Idaho Cities. David Easton, left, fiscal administration counselor, and Ed Simmerman, executive director, both with the Association of Idaho Cities, conducted the one-day meeting.

Cities advised to budget revenue sharing money

By BONNIE JONES Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — City officials of Magic Valley communities were advised here Friday afternoon to budget their revenue sharing money for 1973 even though they may not anticipate spending it this year.

Unless it is budgeted it cannot be used, Ed Simmerman, executive director of the Idaho Association of Cities, said, and he told city administrators a need appearing late in the year might not be met if it is not budgeted.

Speaking before the Fourth District members of the state association, he said most of Idaho's city government representatives have accepted revenue sharing in the manner in which it was meant. None of the city officials attending the Friday afternoon meeting on the CSI Campus, indicated the revenue sharing would in anyway be used to tax relief.

Simmerman told the delegates the state and federal eyes are watching them and will be reviewing their use of the money at the end of the first year as to accountability and to determine if the cities spent wisely, gaining maximum performance from the revenue sharing allocations.

Bull sale conducted at Burley

BURLEY — A large crowd attended the Burley Livestock Commission's spring bull sale Thursday.

The big Canadian bulls found buyers from Nevada and all parts of Idaho, with most of the bulls going within 50 miles of Burley.

The top price paid for the white-face Canadian bull was $1,500 by Mabey Livestock, Oakley. The second big buyer was Duane Ward, Almo, who paid $1,125. Ward also bought the third top animal for $1,000.

The bulls averaged $938 and were well accepted by the buyers, officials said. Unregistered Charolais bulls from the Ho-do Ranch, Cody, Wyo., brought an average of $556. Top Charolais was bought by Don Greenwell of Hailey Livestock, Rupert.

Simmerman said the association is attempting to work with the cities on this and to help collect information for the governor's review.

David Easton, fiscal administration counselor for the Association of Idaho Cities, presented a fiscal management review with city employees and officials participating in discussion topics.

Francis Wells, Filer, and Edythe Widmer, Kimberly, city treasurers, reported on the uniform accounting system. Easton said the cities are the only level of government with uniform accounting at this time although counties are considering it and will probably pattern their system after that now used by the cities.

Jean Milar, Twin Falls city manager, discussed budgeting procedures and Charles Shaddock, Burley city clerk, reported on projection of revenues. Lamar Anderson, Burley accountant, discussed financial and performance auditing.

This was one of six meetings to be held in the state this month with others to follow in Coeur d'Alene, Lewiston, Idaho Falls, Pocatello, and Caldwell.

The same topics will be discussed in each of the one day meetings. Easton said the meetings are designed to help city administrative personnel and officials solve mutual problems and keep pace with changing programs and practices.

He said there were 13 cities represented in the Friday meeting and a city clerk was present from each of the cities.

Lincoln citizens worry on taxes

SHOSHONE — A group of Lincoln County Citizens concerned over an approximate 35 per cent increase in the proposed 1973 county budget met Friday night to map plans.

They will protest certain portions of the budget and will meet with the county commissioners at 10 a.m. Monday at the budget hearing.

In speaking for those who met Friday, Floyd Silva said they will ask that unnecessary projects be eliminated and will also ask for an explanation on parts of the budget they do not understand. Some of those present Friday night were members of the Lincoln County Tax Equality Association; however, Silva said other interested persons are also planning the budget hearing. The proposed budget is $442,274.50 compared to a budget of $278,069 last year. Actually spent last year, according to county figures was $235,177.77.

Last month after the commissioners met and set the tentative county budget for 1973, the county clerk's office told the Times-News that the proposed budget was $390,000. In checking with the clerk's office Friday regarding the difference in that figure and the $442,274.50 issued in legal notice of public hearing, the Times-News was told there had been an error made in the earlier figure given.

Drawing set

SHOSHONE — A Red Cross Blood drawing will be held Monday at the Lincoln school building, Mrs. Leo Senften, county chairman, reports.

The bloodmobile will be in operation from 2 to 6 p.m. and the quota is 75 pints.

Mrs. Senften urges all residents to cooperate in this drawing, noting that at the last drawing 76 pints were donated.

Ketchum eyes sewer plan

By TERRY CAMPBELL Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — The Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce is considering taking a stand on the Ketchum moratorium on sewer hook-ups. During a meeting Thursday, member Hobert (Gen.) Neeley said because of the vitality of the issue that group members should be canvassed and a consensus reached.

Member David Wolford said a "real backlash" to the moratorium may develop among businesses directly related to construction. He said if advance notice had been given these businesses could have planned ahead.

For the next regular meeting, Feb. 22, local officials will be invited to speak on the Ketchum sewage treatment plant, which is sited on a 50-50 basis with Sun Valley.

Clayton Stewart, administration vice president for Sun Valley Company Inc., discussed initial arrangements made for plant construction. Stewart said when the first studies for the development of Sun Valley were made, anticipated growth figures indicated that one plant could serve both Ketchum and Sun Valley. As grant applications stipulate a "one-party" ownership, he said Ketchum was named as the sole owner and operator of the plant.

However, Stewart said Sun Valley supplied on-half of the funds for plant construction, one-half of the funds for outfall lines to the plant and will pay one-half of the costs for capital improvements.

In other business before the chamber, members discussed progress of legislative bills over a telephone hook-up with Reps. P. V. McHan, R-Ketchum, and Steve Antone, R-Rupert, and Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert. Peavey said a new container bill has been introduced which allows the grocer to keep one cent of the deposit price. In some cases, Peavey said, this arrangement would amount to about $7 to $8 per hour for sorting bottles.

This state senator said he was "firmly convinced" that a container bill was needed in Idaho and requested grocers to comment on the bill.

Two community projects were also outlined Thursday before the chamber.

Terry Tracey, advisor at the Wood River High School, said this year student involvement had been stressed in raising funds for the school's annual scholarship and citizenship awards.

The advisor said "Bonanza Bank Bust," a student filmed and produced movie earned about $750 at its Sun Valley premiere for the fund. Another $150 was contributed by the National Honor Society.

Miss Tracey said the film will be shown at area school assemblies and colleges, but funding is needed for a film camera to continue the student project.

Ketchum veterinarian, Dr. Robert Beede, detailed the animal hospice project, which is raising $10,000 to build an animal shelter.

He said goals of the group include, besides building and operating a shelter, working with area cities to help enforce animal control laws; to insure humane treatment of animals by having a veterinarian on duty at the shelter; and to initiate an education program to include elementary students to teach responsibilities of animal ownership.

Jerome ceremony held

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News writer

JEROME — Ground breaking ceremonies were held Friday morning for a multi-rural rental housing development for Jerome.

A press conference was held prior to the ground breaking at which Lyle Frazer, of Regal Homes, explained the proposed project to Jerome Mayor and to the city council members and Farm Home Administration officials.

Frazer said the Brent Corp. is owned by Regal Homes, and Andy Anderson, Boise, who has been promoting the project, is a project organizer for Regal Homes.

Frazer said 22 units will be placed on 2.4 acres of land in the southeast corner of Jerome. The 22 units will include eight one-bedroom and 14 two bedroom units. Each unit will be equipped with a washer and dryer, fully carpeted and will rent between $90 to $150. The rent will also include utilities.

He said work had begun on the first section which is being built in Kimberly. "We should be in full production by the first of the week with the first section being brought to Jerome about March 22. The project should be completed by the latter part of May depending, of course, on how much we are slowed down by the weather."

The proposed project calls for each unit to be constructed to use common walls for joint construction with a staggered type of building design which does not give a "cookie cutter" appearance. The housing will be single story homes with flat roof construction. When completed the project will have ample off-street parking, playground facilities, sidewalks and nightlights. Each unit will be electrically heated with wallboard heat giving each room its own thermostat control.

He said the units will be available for rent to any income group, high or low. The amount of rent paid will be determined by the applicants income.

City councilman, annexed the 10 acre site under suspension of the rules, Tuesday night, reasoning it residential to allow for construction of the housing development to begin immediately. DeWitt Winder, state director for the Farm Home Administration said the Brent Corp. received one of the fastest rural rental loan approvals ever given in the state. He cited good cooperation between Regal Homes, local officials and the FHA for obtaining the loan without delay.

According to Winder, in his opinion, the site is ideally located for Jerome's FHA is only interested in what is good for the community. He said they had approved some 65 units of this type in the state.

Frazer said Regal Homes had planned for five more projects of approximately 80 units in the Magic Valley, but with the federal freeze on loans the projects have been delayed.

Mayor Russel spoke briefly on the city's appreciation of the help FHA has given in providing much needed housing in Jerome. He also said FHA approved one million in loans last year for Jerome.

Hailey hearing set for budget

HAILEY — The Blaine County Commissioners have scheduled a public hearing on the proposed 1973 budget for 2 p.m. Monday at the county courthouse, Hailey.

The tentative budget of $808,397 constitutes about 12.4 per cent decrease over last year's $922,697.

However, the 1972 budget included a $248,000 allocation for the new jail. The county was required to budget for the full amount, but the majority of the funds were reimbursed by state and federal grants.

About $10,000 of this year's tentative budget will be covered by revenue sharing funds. The figure includes $20,000 for a tandem axle truck for summer road work, designated in the road and bridge fund; $17,000 for a used crawler tractor in the solid waste fund, and a proposed $3,650 for purchase of a new car for the sheriff's department.

A $30,000 fund was established this year for final costs on the new county jail, with about $10,000 of the figure reimbursable by law enforcement planning commission funds. The new budget category will be held at a contingency fund and may or may not be used during the year.

At the time the budget was proposed, Commission Chairman C. W. (Andy) Gardner said "excessive county growth" was creating extra work loads and burdens on county services and agencies.

This year's tentative budget was designed, Gardner said, to "adequately take care of the separate offices and organizations within the county and at the same time be equitable and fair with the taxpayers." With the county's increased assessed valuation no mill levy increases are anticipated, he said.

Most overall increases in the tentative budget stem from about 5.5 per cent cost of living increases for deputy office clerks.

Meet on policy set at Ketchum

KETCHUM — An organizational meeting for a community project to develop a comprehensive plan and policy for Ketchum has been scheduled for Tuesday evening.

A questionnaire is expected to be presented at the meeting to be used in determining initial considerations of the study. Areas will also be delineated where community groups can become involved.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Ernest Hemingway Grade School gymnasium, with Lloyd Curtis serving as moderator. All interested residents are invited to attend.

CAA funds to end

The State Department of Social and Rehabilitation would be a good choice to assume sponsorship both the Head Start and Senior Citizen programs, Russell indicated while the family planning program development grant could be assumed by the South Central Health District.

Russell said some community action agencies would be given additional phasing out grants of six months or sixty days, past June 30, but that the Magic Valley tri-county CAA would be allowed to "die a natural death," expiring with the end of the current fiscal year.

He said he would recommend that the existing agency programs be transferred to other existing state and federal agencies.

CSI pupils like teachers

In Christensen's view the high scores given faculty members and their courses could have been prompted by the novelty of the survey. He suggested that future surveys could be expected to give ratings closer to "average."

Another limitation of the survey, he said, was the lack of standards by which to judge a faculty member's performance.

This weakness was particularly noticeable among freshmen asked to fill out the surveys, he said.

The highest rating given by the students for a course averaged a 9.00 the highest rating possible, for one class attended by two students. The lowest rating for a single class was a 5.02 "satisfactory."

Among the findings of the student survey were:

Unlike in the academic courses, most vocational students found their courses required only light homework.

A few said their courses required average homework load. None said the load was heavy.

College wide, only four classes were said to require heavy homework load.

Academic dean Smith said he didn't think these results indicated more homework should be required by CSI instructors.

"All you do is hire good people and let them set the standards for the class," he said. "They're the ones knowledgeable in their areas and they make the decisions."

2. Attendance: Academic classes were nearly equally divided between those in which attendance was required and those in which it was not required. A few more instructors required attendance than did not.

But in the vocation division, nearly all classes required attendance.

3. Textbook cost: Academic students said their textbooks cost an average of $9.30 per class. Vocational programs averaged $40.43 for texts and tools required.

Potlatch bull champ at Filer

FILER — Deep Creek Bonanza DC2, an Angus bull owned by Dale and Carol Thompson, Potlatch, was named grand champion at Friday's grading at the fairgrounds.

An Angus bull owned by Cliff Countryman, St. John, Wash., received the reserve champion title from Ray Nyswonger, Reno, Nev., grader for the sale.

The bulls were two of some 140 animals which were graded on Friday and put through the sale ring on Saturday during the 47th annual Idaho Angus Sale, sponsored by the Idaho Angus Association.

Ken Troutt, Emmett, was sale auctioneer. Louie Dobaran, Boise, headed the sale committee, assisted by Robert Morley, Eagle, and Ralph Baughman, Buhl. Douglas A. Wood of the American Angus Association and Paul Patton, Emmett, served as ringmen.

A March 6 sale at Emmett will see 70 top graded rugged range bulls in the sale ring.

Champ bull

Mind Your Money

Peter Weaver

Commericals touting various brands of automobile radiator antifreeze are sometimes misleading.

First of all, the word "antifreeze" gives the impression that the stuff is only needed in freezing weather. Actually, the liquid is probably more important in a coolant in warm or hot weather.

Automobile engines burn much hotter now than they did 10 years ago. This puts a real strain on the radiator, water pump and entire cooling system. It also accelerates the formation of scale which can eventually clog up your radiators.

The familiar "antifreeze" we put in our car radiators contains a base of ethylene glycol which, besides giving protection against freezing, raises the boiling point to around 265 degrees. This is well above the 212-degree boiling point of water and the 173 degree boiling point of alcohol (the old type of antifreeze).

Second, the word "permanent" has somehow crept into the antifreeze-coolant lore. That's probably because it is more "permanent" than water or alcohol which evaporates and needs constant replenishing. But permanent it's not. Your should actually have your radiator liquid thoroughly flushed out and replaced at least every two years and, in some cases, every year.

The major antifreeze coolants now contain chemicals which inhibit corrosion and rust. Even so, hot engines will still plug up the cooling system if it's not periodically flushed out with air and water under pressure.

For some reason, nobody knows quite why, certain Chrysler Corp. cars seem to need more frequent radiator flushes than most other makes. Once a year is recommended by most radiator repair shops for these cars.

Other cars can go as long as two years without flushing and changing the antifreeze-coolant but the liquid should be checked to see if it's discoloring, fading or filling with sediment. This means you need a change. If scale is forming around the radiator tubes, it's also time for cleaning.

One brand, Toler made by Du Pont contains a chemical indicator which turns the liquid from its original red to orange as it deteriorates. The other products such as Zerex (also made by Du Pont), Prestone and Dow show they need changing when their color begins to fade.

Remember the scene on TV where the man punches holes in a can of Zerex? This is no trick, it really works. But the advertising is somewhat misleading because you are led to believe you won't have any leaks in your radiator if you use Zerex.

Zerex does stop leaks from little round holes but it won't stop the more common leaks found along radiator seams. These are called "moving" leaks because they open and close as the radiator expands and contracts with heating and cooling. The little plastic particles that Zerex uses to plug round stationary leaks won't work well in the seam leaks.

Radiator repairmen claim antileak compounds should only be used as a temporary measure to keep your car running until you can get the radiator fixed. Zerex antileak antifreeze at one time was claimed to cause radiators and car heaters to gum up. The company completely reformulated the product and, according to the National Automotive Radiator Service Assn., it's now harmless.

Then there are those coolant additives which cost around $3 a can and are supposed to give extra cooling power, especially for cars with air conditioners. The radiator service association says it has been unable to confirm claims that these additives effectively improve the performance of regular antifreeze-coolant products.

Consumer group helps in study

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has decided to let a Ralph Nader-backed consumer group assist in its study of the safety of hundreds of food additives, from cinnamon to garlic.

James Turner, a lawyer for the Consumer Action Group for Improved Food & Drugs, and co-author with Nader of "The Chemical Feast," called the development a "breakthrough."

The FDA in 1969 at President Nixon's prompting began reviewing more than 700 substances, generally recognized as safe. That review has been slow, and many of these substances—saccharin—being removed from the list.

But Turner, as a spokesman for several consumer groups, had contended someone outside the government should participate in the review.

William Randolph, the FDA's deputy associate commissioner for compliance, said Turner's group would be allowed to nominate qualified scientists, six of whom would be appointed to the six panels now reviewing the list "to get the consumer viewpoint in this review."

The review is being conducted by the Federation of American Societies of Experimental Biology, under FDA contract.

The list of items "generally recognized as safe" includes some vitamins, carmel, salt, licorice, garlic and cinnamon, as well as other less familiar substances.

Randolph said the FDA was "deeply committed to improving our channels of communication with you."

He made the disclosure during the course of a food industry conference at which FDA officials briefed lawyers, technicians and executives about the agency's new proposals for listing nutrition ingredients on food labels.

Nixon aide to visit Europe

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif.—Concerned about continuing trade deficits and the sinking value of the dollar, President Nixon Friday directed former Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson to visit key European capitals for talks on economic and political issues.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced that Peterson, who was replaced at the Commerce Department following Nixon's first term, would leave Monday for Rome, Bonn, Paris, London and Brussels.

Although Peterson was one of the nation's most successful international trade negotiators, Ziegler said he would do no specific bargaining on his trip.

"It is not a negotiating trip, it is a fact-finding trip," Ziegler said. But the White House spokesman said Peterson, who will carry the personal rank of ambassador, will be qualified to ask or answer questions on specific matters during his meetings with European leaders.

Ziegler said Nixon directed Peterson to "discuss economic, security and political aspects of our relationship." He said Peterson would meet with government leaders, officials of the European Common Market, businessmen and leaders of the intellectual community.

The White House announced the Peterson mission as Nixon was working at his oceanic Western White House on messages he plans to send to Congress soon filling in the details of his legislative programs.

Nixon arrived at San Clemente Thursday night. He is expected to remain for more than a week.

Ziegler said Vice President

Spiro T. Agnew, on his way home from a trip to eight nations of Southeast Asia where he assured U.S. allies of continued American support, will report to the President at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Nixon also was maintaining close contact through diplomatic cables with Henry A. Kissinger, his national security affairs adviser, who is on his way to Hanoi and Peking for discussions with the leaders of North Vietnam and China.

Ziegler said Nixon has received a message from West German Chancellor Willy Brandt on the wave of international currency speculation which has been driving down the value of the dollar on world exchange markets. But Ziegler said no reply had been sent yet.

Ziegler indicated Nixon was more concerned that the United States continues to buy more abroad than it is able to sell than it is with the pasting the dollar has been absorbing. The United States ran its only two trade deficits of this century in 1971 and 1972.

Thieu to set up advisory group

SAIGON (UPI)—President Nguyen Van Thieu at U.S. urging will set up an advisory council to give a voice in government to groups that in the past were excluded from doing so, a government spokesman said today.

However, he said Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh, former Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky and the powerful but politically inactive An Quang Buddhist faction are not included on the list.

Thieu has been under pressure from the United States to broaden his government to take in religious and political factions previously excluded from participation. None of the excluded groups are pro-Communist, although some oppose Thieu's policies. Communism is banned in South Vietnam and it is against the law to advocate Communism or pro-Communist neutrality.

The spokesman said Thieu has been meeting for about a week with leaders outside the government. The meetings included groups such as the Farmers and Workers party headed by Tran Quoc Bau and the militant Hoa Hao Buddhists.

The spokesman said other groups previously banned from governmental participation also may be included later in the talks.

"The president is willing to establish a dialogue between these groups and himself," the spokesman said. "It will allow their voices to be heard and their views to be expressed directly to him."

The spokesman said leaders of the groups would not become cabinet members, but would be part of an "advisory" group that could express its opinions directly to Thieu.

Minh, Ky and the An Quang Buddhists are three of Thieu's strongest opponents. The spokesman said they would not be included in the advisory group.

Migrants losing jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The increasing use of machines to do farm work is costing hundreds of thousands of migrant and seasonal farm workers their jobs but little is being done to train them for other work, the General Accounting Office (GAO) has reported.

In a report to Congress Thursday, the GAO said training, health and housing programs to help farm workers were being hampered by lack of sufficient funds.

The GAO, an investigative arm of Congress, also said "budgetary constraints" would "almost certainly" continue to limit help being given the estimated five million seasonal and migrant workers, who harvest much of the nation's cropland. "Officials of the Department of Agriculture estimated that because of technological advances, 800,000 fewer farm workers will be employed in all fields of agriculture in 1975 than have been employed in 1968," the report said.

The impact of mechanization, according to the GAO, which cited studies of others, would be most severe in Oregon, Michigan, North Carolina, California and Texas.

The GAO report concluded that "Systematic and coordinated plans had not been established... at either the federal, state or local levels for retraining farm workers and providing jobs through economic development efforts."

Farmers warned about diseases in calves

JEROME — At this time of year farmers usually get a build up of calf scour in their cattle, according to Jerome County Extension Agent Wilmer Priest.

Priest said this week that the term "calf scour" is applied to any disease of calves which is shown by scouring. "It is believed that the calf losses in Idaho in recent years were the result of not one agent but rather a group of agents that cause diarrhea. The identity of these agents is incomplete. For this reason, and others, it is not possible to approach the prevention and control of this disease with specific medicines of vaccines," Priest said.

"The newborn calf is devoid of antibodies which confer immunity to disease. Colostrum (first milk) supplies immunity to most of the infectious agents in the new environment since the dam has, through previous exposure, developed antibodies which are supplied to the calf in colostrum.

He explained that during the period between birth and the drinking of colostrum, the calf is susceptible to infection by a wide variety of organisms. This has been demonstrated in the case of the common intestinal bacterium, Escherichia Coli. Colostrum-deprived calves can readily be infected with various E. coli serotypes. However, colostrum-fed calves are usually quite resistant to these germs.

Priest emphasized that present evidence suggests that a "delay in colostrum feeding of as little as 3 hours can mean the difference between health or disease."

Farm head asks reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pennsylvania's top farm official has urged Congress to now an assistant to the Pennsylvania official.

Under the McHale proposal, minimum income for family farms would be pegged at a level sufficient for the farm or rural family to have a standard of living equal to adequate living conditions in urban areas.

If family farm income from agriculture and conservation fails to reach the dollar level set at the minimum, McHale said, the government should then provide "public service" jobs for rural people to make up the difference.

There is unending work if rural America is to be rebuilt, revitalized and repopulated. It need not be "made" work. It can be productive, creative work which will add to the ongoing assets of America," McHale testified.

The Pennsylvania official said the minimum income plan should be "a floor above which any farmer or rural person could rise." McHale added he favored a guaranteed minimum income program for all Americans and was sorry that President Nixon has rejected on his guaranteed annual income proposal.

Oversized chicken

GRANT Sullen, 17, keeps a safe distance behind his 22-pound superchicken named Weirido. The world is coming to Sullen's door to see the hybrid he bred. Weirido is credited with killing two cats, his 18-pound half-grown son and crippling a dog. (UPI)

News of 22-pound superchicken stimulates breeders interest

WEST POINT, Calif. (UPI) — The world is coming to 17-year-old Grant Sullen's door because he bred a superchicken named Weirido. The international excitement began when news stories told of a 22-pound rooster so big and rough and tough he had killed two cats and crippled a dog. He also got so mad at an 18-pound half grown son of his he ripped through a wire fence separating them and killed the young rooster.

But it isn't Weirido's prowess as a killer that has stimulated the interest of nations, corporations, chicken breeders and businessmen around the world. It's his size, the size of the hens in his harem, and the size of his offspring. Many are nearly as big as he is.

Breeding of his superchickens began accidentally when Grant's father, George, won a truckload of stewing chickens in a dice game at the Timber Wolf Bar he used to own.

"I thought they were out there all packed and ready for sale," Sullen recalls. "But my wife went outside and came back to tell me, 'George, there's just one thing. Those chickens are still alive.'"

Grant, then just 10 years old, promised to feed the chickens and sell the eggs if his father would allow him to keep them.

Grant has a flock of just 30 chickens he considers his true superbreed. He hopes to increase it to more than 300 by fall. Then he will begin serious consideration of how best to offer his superchickens to the world. After that, he plans to get out of the chicken business and go to college to study—not agriculture but business administration.

A Tijuana, Mexico, cockfight promoter offered $5,000 cash for Weirido. Promoters with proposals to form corporations and with offers of stock royalties began to flood the Sullens with mail. Agriculture schools tentered offers to Grant, who announced his intentions to go to college before settling into the business world.

"I named him Weirido because what else could you call something like that?" Now the word is out and Grant may be the most sought after breeder in the world. "The Republic of Panama wanted him to come down there and breed exclusively for them," his father said. The government of Zaire, formerly the Belgian Congo, made a similar offer.

STOCKTON, Calif. — Closing trends of the California dealer shipper bean markets during the week ending Feb. 6 showed trading interest limited. The Bean Market, U.S.D.A. Agricultural Marketing Service publication showed best quality blackeyes gaining $2.50 while traders showed little interest beyond immediate requirements.

Prices representing dry beans in 100 pound sacks comparable to U.S. No. 1 FOB warehouse showed baby limas at prices reflecting little change at 14.30-14.50. Most export sales were confined to lower grades and splits.

Prices for large limas held steady at 28.50-29.00. Interest was for short term requirements. U.S. No. 1 blackeyes advanced to 13.50-13.75. Most trading was for the lower qualities 12.00-12.75.

Pinks were trading in California at 12.75 with volume light. Idaho grown pinks delivered by truck were quoted at 12.40-12.75. Prices for small whites held steady at 16.00-16.25. Michigan pea beans delivered by rail were indicated at 11.50-11.60.

MR. FARMER... WHY ARE YOU THINKING SPRINKLERS??

that's easy! money

Sprinkler irrigation is the next best thing to rain. Offers the next better thing you don't get rainfall and erosion from too much water. And you get the water when you want it. Sprinkler systems are used in Tullahoma County, Oregon, for example. There rainfall averages about 100 inches annually, but distribution does not assure lush year-around pastures for dairy herds.

Twin Falls bumps Borah out of SIC lead

Durham's 28 points pace 72-65 victory

The Twin Falls Bruins, getting their early momentum from Landy Haynes and then senior-type play from Charlie Browne and Bob Durham, pulled the Borah Lions out of sole possession of the Southern Idaho Conference lead 72-65 Saturday night.

Twin Falls, winning two key ones this week and meeting co-leading Minico at Twin Falls Tuesday night, took the lead at 8-6 in the first period and stayed there. With Durham hitting a season high of 28 and Browne getting some big second quarter points, Twin Falls took an 11-point lead into the final two minutes. Then the Bruins refused to hold the ball and nearly let the Lions come back. Borah cut in within four points with 37 seconds left but Browne hit only his third conference field goal of the year with 24 seconds remaining and Shew and Durham wound it up, again from the line.

Borah opened in a zone defense and stayed with it for three quarters. It was during that time Twin Falls built the lead, mainly on the equal rising ability of the forwards, Durham and Browne, and their superior mobility. When the Lions went to the man game, Twin Falls brought their forwards out and Durham, especially, drove them to death.

Borah stayed in the game on fire inside shooting by 6-0 junior Randy Lee who at one point hit six in a row on a collection of soft hooks and turn-around shots. The Bruins were able to hold Borah's good guard set, Steve Conner and Terry Hutt, to respectable totals, 15 and 12 apiece.

Both teams were tight at the outset with Haynes getting Twin Falls started a little quicker with six points. Durham came up with four more as Twin Falls moved ahead 12-0. Borah, with Conner sometimes and Lee mostly, stayed within three for a couple minutes before Durham and Haynes shot Twin Falls ahead by eight. Lee came back with six points to cut it to three at 25-22 but in the closing two minutes, Browne hit twice and Eric Hovey and Haynes once for a 33-26 halftime advantage.

In the third period Twin Falls, getting consecutive points from Kim Nielsen, Durham and Hovey, burst ahead 47-32 and had its chance to make it a laughter. Conner and Hutt then steadied Borah and over the next several minutes the lead fluctuated from seven to 12 points. With 1:57 left, Hovey hit two free throws for a 60-57 lead and that should have been enough.

Despite a time-out during which Coach Don Haynes suggested a little more time-consuming offense, Twin Falls kept funning, fouling and turning the ball over. Borah showed its class as Lee and Neher came up with buckets. After Browne hit one free throw, Hutt hit twice from the line and then Neher got inside for a follow shot making it 69-65 with 24 seconds left.

It was the third loss in the SIC for Borah which now is tied with Minico. Twin Falls and Capital are one game back. The key for the two Eastern Division teams should come Tuesday night when Minico invades Twin Falls.

Twin Falls won the preliminary 63-42.

Jabbar makes score assist

Bucks rip Warriors 135-108

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Bob Dandridge scored 36 points Saturday to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to a 135-108 victory over the Golden State Warriors in a National Basketball Association game.

Dandridge, who hit 17 of 24 field goals from the floor, got plenty of help from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, with 28, and Lucius Allen, who added 25.

Nate Thurmond had 23 to lead the Warriors.

The Bucks jumped to an early lead and, on the strength of 65 per cent shooting from the floor, took a 72-52 halftime lead. Milwaukee, running a fast break the entire afternoon, continued to pull away in the second half.

The victory gave the Bucks a 41-17 record while the Warriors dropped to 35-22.

Milburn lowers world hurdle mark

HOUSTON (UPI) — Rod Milburn of Southern lowered his own world indoor record in the 120-yard high hurdles from 13.4 to 13.3 Saturday night in the U.S. Track and Field Federation national indoor championships.

Milburn defeated Willie Davenport by five yards with Elfrin Gipson third in 13.5.

Milburn, the Olympic champion and the world outdoor record holder at 13.0, took the lead at the third hurdle and won easily. It was the first time he had run the 120-yard distance since the Olympics last September.

Don Quarrie of Southern California came from behind in the last 10 yards to edge George Daniels of Illinois State in the 100-yard dash in 9.4. Robert Taylor of Texas Southern, Olympic silver medalist, was fourth behind Steve Williams of the University of Texas at El Paso.

Another Olympic silver medalist, John Smith of UCLA, edged Steve Williams of the D.C. Striders by inches to win the 40 in 47.4. Steve Smith, the world record holder in the pole vault at 18 feet, 1 1/2 inch, won at a disappointing height of 17 feet, and Chris Dunn of Colgate captured the high jump at 7 feet even.

Kenneth Swenson, former Kansas State star, won the half-mile in 1:52.1, and John Hartnett of Villanova won the two-mile in 8:36.2. Oklahoma State won the distance medley relay in 9:44.4, and Howard Payne won the sprint medley in 3:26.0.

In the first quarter Valley went on top by a 19-10 margin which Declo cut to five at the intermission. In the third quarter Beem led the offensive charge for the Vikings as they went to as much as a 14-point lead. Keith Shrink led the rally in the last quarter for Declo.

LSU surprises Alabama 72-70

With 10 seconds remaining and the Tigers leading 70-68, Darnall had a chance to clinch the game with a free throw, but he missed and Charles Cleveland sank a pair of foul shots to tie the game with five seconds remaining.

Darnall took the inbound pass and drove past midpoint where he tossed an off-balance jumper that swished as the buzzer sounded.

Darnall's mother flew from Lebanon, Ind., to see her 46th play in the regionally televised game.

Players mull latest offer by owners

NEW YORK (UPI) — The next move in the contract dispute between the baseball owners and the players is now up to the players.

Marvin Miller, the executive director of the Major League Players Association, is spending the weekend polling the player representatives on their reaction to the owners' latest offer.

Miller has scheduled a news conference for Monday to announce the players' position. The owners made a new offer on Thursday that included salary arbitration for the first time in salary disputes. That means a neutral, third party will be able to step in and settle disputes.

However, the owners' arbitration offer had a pair of conditions attached to it that the players may not like. The first one is that a player can't ask for arbitration in his first three seasons in the majors or in two consecutive years.

However, in the years when the player asks for arbitration, it will be "either-or" arbitration and the players requested that.

That means if the player asks for $30,000 and the team offers $25,000, the arbitrator can't decide on a compromise of $27,500. He has to give the player $30,000 or $25,000. This "either-or" feature is designed to make one side make its most realistic offer.

Last year the players went on a 13-day strike at the start of the season over the funding of the pension plan. This year the entire basic contract, covering everything from minimum salary to scheduling rules, is being negotiated.

While the players haven't taken a strike vote yet and haven't been making any strike threats, the owners have announced that training camps won't open prior to March 1st unless a settlement is reached. The owners haven't announced what they will do if a pact isn't agreed upon by March 1.

The March 1st date, is important because that's the official start of spring training. If the owners refuse to open the camps on that date with negotiations in progress, the players could charge a lockout.

Besides arbitration, another thorny issue is the question of the reserve clause. The players compromised on Jan. 5th by offering to delay discussions on that issue for one year. But the owners want to leave that clause untouched for the entire three-year life of the contract and the players aren't expected to favor that.

One point the players did concede on was the 162-game schedule. They wanted it shortened but agreed to play that long a schedule for at least three more years.

W. German bobsledders take lead

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — West Germany's Olympic champion team of Wolfgang Zimmerer and Peter Utzschneider set a new course record today as they took an almost unbeatable lead after two of the four runs of the world two-man bobsled championship. Another German team was second.

Zimmerer, lucky enough to get his first run before a snowfall slowed the 1,600 meter (1 mile) 16 curve Mt. van Hoesenberg bobrun, was clocked in 1:06.45, bettering the course record of 1:04.62 by Nevio de Zordo and Adriano Prassinelli of Italy.

He slowed to a 1:08.45 in his second run for a two-run total of 2:14.90.

The last two heats will be run Sunday. With the timing of this event, done in hundredths of a second, none of the other 23 sleds from 12 nations appeared to have a chance to catch Zimmerer unless he has an accident, as happened to Jean Wicki of Switzerland when he seemed to have the four-man championship clinched entering the last heat at Lake Placid in 1969.

Cincinnati rips Fla. St.

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A hustling Cincinnati basketball squad thwarted Florida State with a zone defense and a full court press in the second half to hand the taller Seminoles their worst defeat of the season, 89-62, Saturday afternoon.

The Bearcats, trailing 40-32 at halftime, changed from man-to-man to zone in the second half and were able to limit Florida State to just 22 points. Lloyd Batts pumped in 16 of his game-high 20 points in the explosive second half as the fire-breathing Bearcats roared back to put the game out of reach at 73-53 with six minutes left.

Michigan tops Michigan St.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Henry Wilmore scored 34 points to lead Michigan to a 97-61 win over cross-state rival Michigan State Saturday.

Little Mike Robinson, defending Big Ten scoring champion who is third in this year's race, scored 13 of his 28 points in the first 14 minutes of the second half to bring the Spartans from a 44-37 deficit to a 73-73 tie.

But Wilmore ripped off eight points to lead Michigan to the sport which won the game. Wilmore also scored eight points in the first six minutes of the second half to keep the Wolverines safely in front.

Michigan snapped a three-game losing streak and raised its record this season to 12-7, 5-4 in the conference. Michigan State, 10-8, dropped to 3-5 in the Big Ten.

Indiana knocked from lead

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Dennis Gamauf hit a career high 22 points Saturday as Purdue knocked Indiana from sole possession of first place in the Big Ten basketball race, posting a 72-69 win over the Hoosiers.

Purdue moved into a tie with Indiana, both with 6-2 conference records. It was Indiana's second straight loss after winning its first six league outings.

Gamauf, who was averaging only 4.5 points per game, led Purdue's first half attack with 15 points as the Boilermakers held a slim 31-30 lead at intermission.

Purdue never trailed in the second half, although Indiana several times trimmed the margin to one point after the Boiler makers took a 53-45 lead midway through the final stanza.

Houston outlasts S.W. La.

HOUSTON (UPI) — Louis Dunbar hit a 20-foot jump shot with 11th seconds remaining to give the ranked Houston an 82-80 victory over 10th ranked Southwestern Louisiana in a nationally televised basketball game Saturday.

All-American Dwight Lamar of Southwestern, the nation's No. 3 scorer, missed a 25-foot jump shot at the buzzer. The ball hit the rim, bounced high in the air and came down wide of the basket.

Lamar, averaging 30.8 points a game, came out of a hospital bed to play. Lamar, who had had bronchitis, didn't start but scored 13 points, hitting four of 13 shots from the field during the 24 minutes and 28 seconds he played.

Southwestern, 18-2, led most of the way, including 40-39 at the half. Houston, 17-2, caught up at 70-70 but fell behind again before tying it at 78-78 with 2:10 left.

Larry Fogle put in a rebound to put Southwestern ahead 80-78 with 1:57 remaining. Dwight Jones, who had 19 points and 17 rebounds for Houston, tied the score at 80-80 on two free throws with 50 seconds to go.

Dunbar and Steve Newsome double teamed Southwestern's Robert Wilson and stole the ball with 40 seconds remaining to set up Dunbar's winning shot.

Witte is in the way

The big game report cards have been totaled for the 1972 hunting season and I thought a brief review of the past season might be interesting before the current game management activities were discussed.

The 1972 report cards indicate about a 12 per cent reduction in deer take and a 16 percent drop in elk harvest from those taken in 1971. We had 13,958 successful-deer hunters turn in their report cards and 3,320 successful elk hunters as compared to 15,934 and 3,956 in 1971. Our studies show about 25-30 per cent of the successful hunters in Idaho return their tags each year so this indicates about 56,000 deer and 16,000 elk were bagged in 1972.

There are several reasons for this reduction. We had a severe winter in many areas of the state in 1971-72 which caused some deer die off, particularly in the top deer units in SE Idaho. It was a mild fall in most of the state which allowed the animals to remain dispersed and at high elevations until after the season closed in many units.

And finally, the hunting seasons have been steadily decreased in length and the number of top deer areas cut down since 1970 because of public opinion and the reduction in some herds. The season length was shortened in 46 deer units in 1972 from 1971, resulting in a total loss of 558 hunting days. Two deer units were cut back from 18 in 1971 to 6 in 1972. Elk hunting was shorter by 259 hunting days in a total of 33 units.

There were 300 deer classified in deer composition counts in the Cassia unit and the average was 67 fawns per 100 does. This indicates good production and there was a good number of very large bucks in the herd. Very little winter loss was observed during this count because of the relatively low snow levels since December. These type of counts will probably be increased in the future in other areas since they provide reliable information on deer productivity which can be useful in setting seasons.

Several other things can be determined during these counts since they are closely observed with a spotting scope. These include general body condition and food habits.

Gophers happy to win, leave Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — "Boing doesn't bother me," said Minnesota's Ron Bohagen after his 33 points led the Gophers to an 80-78 victory over OSU while Witte (11) scored 25 points. Bohagen is a former player of the College of Southern Idaho.

Minnesota's defense, however, got much more aggressive in the second half, forcing the Buckeyes out of their deliberate play.

"We put more pressure on in the second half," Musselman said. "We were worrying a lot about (Luke) Witte and our guards were dropping back. It gave them too much time to be disciplined."

Witte, who was the most seriously injured of three Buckeyes in last year's incident, suffering head cuts which required 19 stitches to close, and a concussion, led Ohio State with 25 points.

Although a coolness showed through between the two players on several occasions during the game, Bohagen congratulated Witte when the seven-foot Buckeye center fouled out with 4:15 remaining.

"I told him he played a great game," Bohagen said. Witte, who had not regained the form he showed prior to the incident at Minnesota, played his best game of the season Saturday.

"I was ready," he said after the game. "I really didn't feel any different going into this game than any other," although he did admit he "didn't get much sleep last night." Taylor said the Buckeyes "played too well to lose."

"I'm never going to enjoy a loss, but when we play the type of game we played today, we don't have to apologize to anybody," he said.

Allan Hornyak, leading the Big Ten in scoring, finished the game with 22 points, but 14 of them came in the final 5:17 of the game and almost pulled it out for the Buckeyes.

Wardell Jackson added 19 points and did a superb job of guarding Minnesota's 6-8 Clyde Turner, holding him to seven points. Turner played guard for the Gophers.

Portland St. to seek Big Sky admission

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Portland State University decided Saturday to formally apply for admission to the Big Sky Athletic Conference.

The green-light to make the application was given by Dr. Gregory B. Wolfe, the university president.

The decision to apply for admission to a conference after eight years as an independent was made after "carefully weighing several reports," a school spokesman said.

Recommendations—all favorable—came from the dean of students office, athletic department and the faculty intercollegiate athletic committee, which includes student representation.

Portland State was a member of the now disbanded Oregon Collegiate Conference from 1955 to 1964.

The application could be considered at the next Big Sky meeting in mid-May.

Baker grabs pole for Daytona 500

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Buddy Baker, driving a Dodge brought by Harry Hyde, hit a sizzling 185.662 miles per hour on a cold, blustery track Saturday to easily win the pole position for the Feb. 18 Daytona 500.

The 32-year-old Baker, making one of the last qualifying runs, beat Pete Hamilton by better than two miles per hour to earn the No. 1 starting position for the $236,325 premier stock car event on a day when snow flurries fell on this beach resort.

Hamilton, trying to bounce back after two dismal seasons on the NASCAR circuit, drove his Plymouth at a speed of 183.456 mph to take the outside front row slot.

Baker, of Charlotte, N.C., recorded his fastest speed on the first of two qualifying laps and said the speed could have been even faster. "I jumped out of gear on the way out of pit row and it would have been quicker on the first lap but I couldn't get my speed up," said Baker.

Baker's car, which hit 185.475 mph on the second lap, is the same Dodge which Bobby Isaac qualified on the pole for last year's Daytona 500.

The 29-year-old Hamilton, who won the Daytona 500 in 1970 when he was driving for the Richard Petty team, hit 183.418 mph on his first lap and bettered his time on the final lap.

Wisconsin's balanced scoring and Illinois' loss of Nick Weatherpoon on fouls helped the Badgers to a 99-88 upset Big Ten victory over the Illini Saturday.

It was the second conference loss for the Illini who had won four as one of the surprise teams in the Big Ten. Wisconsin is 3-6 in the Big Ten. Leon Howard scored 25 points. Kerry Hughes 22 and Marcus McCoy 31 for the Badgers, who finished with all five starters in double figures.

The scoring balance got Wisconsin off to a 20-point lead toward the end of the first half, but the Illini whittled it down to 48-39 by intermission.

Wisconsin led by as many as 14 points early in the second half, but Illinois stormed back to within two points at 74-72 with 7:31 left.

From all angles

By Larry Hovey

The incident that arose during the Rockland-Richfield game has been closed to the satisfaction of all the Richfield, is actively supporting the Bulldogs' membership in the Northside Conference.

Richfield Superintendent Nell Anderson said "the things I was quoted as saying I actually said. But they were said in anger." He was quoted in the Times-News as stating the two would never meet in athletics again.

"But since then we've had some time to look back on it and find out the views of some others. I have mailed letters to Rockland apologizing for my quick statements and also to all other superintendents of Northside Conference schools urging them to disregard anything they might have heard about what happened up here and supporting Rockland's membership in our league. "After all," Anderson said, "the Northside Conference has to be bigger than Richfield."

Explaining his earlier position, Anderson said "from where I was standing it appeared that the Rockland boy pushed the official a little after the call. I was a few feet higher than the floor and immediately jumped down. I couldn't see anything for a while because I was screened off by people between me and where I had just seen the people involved."

"Rockland (coaches) took the boy off the floor and downstairs to talk to him and cool things off. That's when I made the statements. Later I heard that the official in question had filed a letter with the investigating committee of the (Idaho Interscholastic) activities association that the boy hadn't touched him."

With the incident now out of the way, it seems highly probable that Rockland will become a member of the conference by next fall. The Bulldogs have asked to be included in the eight-man schedule.

Kudos to Robert "Red" Halverson and his Minico wrestling Spartans for a great effort in winning the district A mat championship. The Spartans had things like two senior first-teamers leave the team just prior to the SIC tournament and had to cancel five straight dual matches due to flu fighter to themselves or their opponents.

Corch Halverson passes much of the credit on to his junior high school coaches who provided some of the "second" entries in each weight class. The truth of the matter, however, is that Minico's varsity men came up to or exceeded expectations while the youngsters boomed through phenomenally.

CSI Coach Jerry Hale is starting his late season push he hopes will carry the Golden Eagles to a fourth straight trip to nationals.

He is building the entire thing on hustle. "We've made some concessions to speed (inserting Darrell Groves into the first five) and have asked the boys to go as hard as they can. We'll spell them because the switch in starting lineups gives us reserve depth underneath. I've been yelling and screaming at them for a week and I'm sure everyone of them hates me right now. But if they get a shot at nationals, I'm certain they'll feel better about it."

Concerning the coach right now is a slump that seems to be hitting in the frosh ranks. That will have to be shaken before the fourth-ranked Eagles can possibly prove that type of rating.

A few rumors of basketball coaching changes are starting to wait the air around "Maggie Valley." A couple of coaches anticipate getting out of the game at season's end while a couple of others are under severe fire from their town fans. In both cases, neither has sufficient scoring potential to ever arise close to or above .500 ball.

One school had a power play that appeared burgeoning Monday and Tuesday but was quashed by three school board members Wednesday morning. The reports around the district-wrestling-coffee-room said a school board member was behind the "ground swell" muster. Again, the team flat can't shoot so it can't possibly consistently win!

Speaking of shooting, Twin Falls shot 52 per cent as a team against Highland to answer a couple dozen questions directed our way since Thursday. However, of the seven Bruins who shot the ball, none was under 50 per cent. Now, just who do you slant your defense toward in a situation like that, coach?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jerry Quarry just won't go away. Everyone came to Madison Square Garden Friday night expecting to see another George Foreman but they left talking about Quarry, still the great white hope of the heavyweight division.

Quarry, once his own worst enemy in the ring, smartened up and exposed Ron Lyle, the previously unbeaten knockout artist from Denver by way of the Colorado State Penitentiary, as a powerful but undisciplined puncher.

Quarry's artful exhibition moved him back into the heavyweight title picture for the third time in his spotted eight-year career. "The headstrong Quarry, who had lost every big fight he ever fought, stopped Lyle in his tracks to easily earn a unanimous 12-round decision before a crowd of 16,571.

Quarry, who had quit the ring seven months ago when he was enthralled by Muhammad Ali, came back a different fighter Friday, using his intelligence to his advantage to escape the much-talked about punches of Lyle, a muscleman like Foreman, who had knocked out 17 of his 19 opponents.

"I'm not finished," said the 27-year-old Quarry after the fight. "I don't have to go into another trade. I proved that. Everyone puts me down because I lose the big fights. They say I just beat the bums. They're crazy as hell."

Quarry can't hide from the facts, though. He lost to Jimmy Ellis for the World Boxing Association title back in 1968 and a year later got chopped to pieces by Joe Frazier in another championship fight. Now he fights with the hope of meeting the new champion, Norman Lyle, who was headed on a collision course with Foreman himself, until he ran into Quarry; showed he can hit some but looked cumbersome and lethargic in the ring. The experience he lost while he was spending 7½ years behind bars for second degree murder, hurt him most.

"Nervous? No," said the 30-year-old Lyle, who was making his debut in Madison Square Garden. "Quarry was a better fighter. It's as simple as that. I wanted to go the distance.

"When you get beat it shows you're human. To be a champion, you've gotta take the bumps with the bumps. Jerry was beautiful tonight. Another night it might be my turn. The only one who is to blame is Ronnie. I've never had anything easy. All my life I've worked hard. I'll be back."

Quarry is back and he will have another big fight in the near future. He is confident that he can continue to win and someday capture the elusive heavyweight title.

"The big difference with me as a fighter now is right here," said Quarry, pointing to his head. "It's all in my head. I've got it all together. I've got a new trainer, Gil Clancy. I've had the ability to be a good fighter but nobody brought it out."

Royal Owl beats rain, sloppy track to cop Strub Stakes

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Royal Owl, the West's outstanding juvenile two years ago, caught a track to his liking Saturday and raced to a 3 1/2-length victory in the $127,800 Charles H. Strub Stakes for 4-year-olds at Santa Anita.

With rain falling and the track sloppy, Royal Owl showed his fondness for the footing by forcing the early pace of New Prospect and then coming on to take the lead in the stretch and draw away.

Big Spruce closed from far back to finish second and New Prospect was third as the favored Bicker finished eighth.

Gooding went on top by five in the first quarter and led by seven at the half. Led by Gene Larson with eight points the Senators scored 18 points in the third quarter to build a comfortable 15-point bulge.

The Senators had all five starters in double figures. Sorenson led Shoshone scoring with 22 points.

Shoshone beat Gooding in the preliminary game.

Tigers nip Carey on late surge

CAREY — The Richfield Tigers, flustered by a press and held to a 44-44 deadlock by the improving Carey Panthers, exploded for 17 points in the final five minutes Saturday night for a 64-51 victory.

Richfield took command at the outset, largely on the 19 first-half points of Steve Bowers, and in the third period moved up by 16 points. Coach John Taylor then went to the press and Richfield had trouble with it.

Carey came back to within six as the third period ended and hit the first six points of the fourth quarter.

The Tigers then re-established the lead, capitalizing on a pair of Carey turnovers, and in the closing minutes gave the Panthers a free throw shooting less. Wade Alford hit five of five, Aja-five of six and Bowers-two of two to pull Richfield safely away. The Tigers hit a superb 16 of 17 from the line for the night.

Richfield 64, Carey 51. Scoring: Richfield 14 14 16 20; Carey 14 14 14 13. Rebounds: Richfield 21, Carey 18. Assists: Richfield 12, Carey 10. Steals: Richfield 8, Carey 6. Blocks: Richfield 4, Carey 3. Fouls: Richfield 18, Carey 22.

N.C. schools cop victories

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Second-ranked North Carolina State routed Georgia Tech 118-94, and sixth-ranked North Carolina claimed an easy 64-60 victory from Clemson, which quit the game in protest, in Saturday night's North-South doubleheader.

David Thompson scored 36 points and Tommy Burleson added 24 as North Carolina State roared off to an early 20-point lead and preserved its unbeaten record.

Borzov fails in U.S. debut

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Valery Borzov, the Russian comet, fizzled in his 1973 U. S. indoor track debut but Steve Prefontaine, who isn't really a miler, picked up the pieces in the Times Indoor Games.

"Maybe my speed is coming now that I'm older," said Prefontaine after a 3:59.2 mile, victory Friday night over a field that included former Villanova star Marty Liquori.

Borzov is recognized as the world's fastest human on the basis of his double sprint victory in the Munich Olympics last year but he failed to even qualify for the finals here.

Prefontaine had splits of 61.1, 60.0, 60.5, and 57.6 seconds, beating Gianni Del Biondo of Italy, who was second in four minutes flat.

Liquori, who is making a strong comeback after missing the 1972 Olympics with a foot injury, was third in 4:00.3 with Poland's Henry Szordykowski fourth in 4:01.0.

Former Michigan State standout Herb Washington, who likes to refer to himself as "the fastest man in the world indoors," won the 60 in six seconds flat-two-tenths of a second off his world indoor record.

Winter pole vault sensation Steve Smith failed to improve on his world indoor mark of 18-0½ set in New York two weeks ago but did run his 1973 record to 9-0 with a 17-6½ victory.

The teeth of a snake point inward to prevent prey from escaping.

Richfield 64, Carey 51. Scoring: Richfield 14 14 16 20; Carey 14 14 14 13. Rebounds: Richfield 21, Carey 18. Assists: Richfield 12, Carey 10. Steals: Richfield 8, Carey 6. Blocks: Richfield 4, Carey 3. Fouls: Richfield 18, Carey 22.

Bunn's free throw ices BSC 100-98 victory over Montana

BOISE (UPI)—The Montana State Bobcats held off a determined Boise State charge in the waning seconds of play to defeat the Broncos 100-98 Saturday night.

Boise State's senior Greg Bunn, Burley, stepped to the foul line with six seconds remaining on the clock and the Broncos down 99-97, and made his first shot but missed the second to give the game for MSU.

The Bobcats are now 6-3 in Big Sky action and 14-7 overall. BSC holds down a 3-6 loop mark and are 9-12 for the year.

The Broncos held a seven-point 54-57 halftime lead and led by as many as eight points before the Bobcats caught fire and tied it up 77-77 with 9:56 left in the game.

BSC recaptured the lead for two minutes but the Bobcats took it over for good with five minutes left, 80-85.

Montana State's 6-9 senior center Mark Beckwith canned 32 points and captured 10 rebounds to pace the Bobcats in scoring.

The Broncos had two crucial free throw shooting in the 1-1 series by the Broncos broke the back of the Grizzlies in the last few seconds of play.

No fewer than four Broncos made trips to the line to sink two shots in 1-1 situations. Bunn, who was high point man for the game with 22 counters, was the Bronco mainstay throughout the night.

Two-mile relay record shattered

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The University of Chicago track club, minus its regular anchor man, shattered the American record for the two-mile relay Saturday night by nearly two seconds in the time of 7:23.6 in the 13th annual Mason-Dixon games.

Ken Sparks anchored the Chicagoans to the record with a 1:50.4 final half mile. Other members of the team were Steve Bittner, John Mock and Lowell Paul.

Sparks said the regular anchor man, Rich Wolburter, is in New Zealand for competition.

The previous American record of 7:25.4 was set here four years ago by the University of Chicago track club. Sparks and Paul ran on that team.

Beaufort Brown of the University of Florida, winner of the Milrose 440 two weeks ago, added another victory in that event Saturday night as he brushed past Tommie Turner of the Sports International Club in the final 25 yards to win in 48.5.

GOODING — The Gooding Senators defeated the Wood River Wolverines Friday night to clinch a tie for the SCIC conference crown.

Gooding is tied with Jerome for the conference lead, with each team losing twice. Gooding has finished conference and can do no worse than tie for the crown. The Jerome Tigers have two remaining conference games.

Wood River stayed close to the Senators in the first quarter, trailing by only one. Wood River jumped to a 6-2 lead but Gooding came back to lead 8-6 and never trailed after that point.

The Senators went to a 10-point lead in the second quarter and led by as many as 16 in the third quarter.

Pilots late rally beats Valley 60-41

GLENN FERRY — The Glenn Ferry Pilots rallied in the last five minutes to beat the Valley Vikings 60-41 Friday night.

The Pilots were on top 39-36 with five minutes remaining but Mark Shelby hit six field goals to lift Glenn Ferry to a 14-point lead in the next three minutes.

Valley led 8-7 in the first quarter but the Pilots came back to lead by seven at the intermission. The Pilots led by seven to eight points throughout most of the third quarter until Valley pulled to within three at the close of the third quarter.

Ray Hansen pulled down 18 rebounds for Glenn Ferry and scored 17 points.

Oakley nails down M.V. league crown

OAKLEY — The Oakley Hornets nailed down sole possession of the Magic Valley Conference basketball championship Friday night by defeating the Raft River Trojans 63-51.

The Hornets had a hot night with everyone entering the game shooting well. Oakley moved out 16-7 in the first period and bumped that by seven points by halftime.

as Oakley was hot. Leon Paskett hit 12 points but the next best Trojan total was six.

Wendell rallies past Shoshone

SHOSHONE — Senior Alan Stevenson and Fresh John Gough provided most of the points as the Wendell Trojans maintained their fourth-quarter lead by overwhelming the Shoshone Indians 60-59 Friday night.

The Trojans, moving their little Five Conference championship mark to 7-0, were 10 down going into the final period. But Stevenson, who wound up with 21 points, pumped through five field goals and Gough hit four straight all from the 12 to 18 foot range.

The Indians zipped away 19-11 in the first period and stayed up by 12 at halftime. In the third period Wendell's press kept the Indians running and their 20 points helped offset 22 by the Trojans. But Wendell called off the pressure in the final period which slowed down the Indians offense and the Trojans came back.

Potts quits Cougar team

CALDWELL (UP) — Sixteen senior center Steve Potts of Caldwell quit the Cougar basketball team Friday, in a surprise development, after averaging 8.6 points and 8.8 rebounds in 16 games played to date.

Wendell moved ahead 60-57 and hardly cared that Shoshone scored the final bucket.

DUNK SHOT? Although it appears Jerome's Steve O'Toole is coming away with two points, he actually is just wasting effort on this jump as the shot was made by another Tiger, Mountain Home's Gustafson. (25) and Bob Mendolia represent the Tigers who won 61-43.

Mountain-Home overpowers Jerome 61-45

JEROME — Quarterback points in the second half to Bob Mendolia and steady Jerome Mountain Home won the first Mountain Home Tigers past Jerome.

the Jerome Tigers 61-43 Friday night in non-conference play. Mountain Home, which now has won 14 straight, hit eight of its first 10 shots against Jerome to blow into a 16-4 lead in the opening five minutes and that was about it. Jerome got good shots against the Mountain Home zone but again had trouble scoring.

Mendolia's passing worked the Jerome defense over in the early going and lanky Ron Gustafson, the tallest man on the court, benefited from assist passes and the offensive boards to pour through 25 points. Mountain Home carried a 31-17 lead into the dressing room at halftime and Jerome never got closer than 16 again. Cole Johnson scored most of his

Camas County nips Richfield, cinches Northside loop title

RICHFIELD — The Camas County Musters converted three straight crippled ball steals late in the fourth period Friday night to nip the Richfield Tigers and virtually clinch the Northside Conference basketball championship.

The Musters have a two-game edge over Richfield with two games left on the schedule and need only a win or Richfield defeat to see sole possession of the crown.

DeLo holds mastery of Murtaugh

MURTAUGH — The DeLo Hornets, with four men in double scoring figures headed by junior Keith Schreck at 26, posted their second straight win over the Murtaugh 19-40 Devils 43-68 Friday night.

The Musters have a two-game edge over Richfield with two games left on the schedule and need only a win or Richfield defeat to see sole possession of the crown.

Schreck worked inside for four to eight foot turn-around jumpers for most of his points while Brackebury had 17, Rob Riding 17 and Mallory 10.

In a surprise, Richfield's Wade Alfred played the entire game although because of a leg injury it was announced last week he might not be back at least until tournament time. He chipped in with 10 points to prove that announcement wrong.

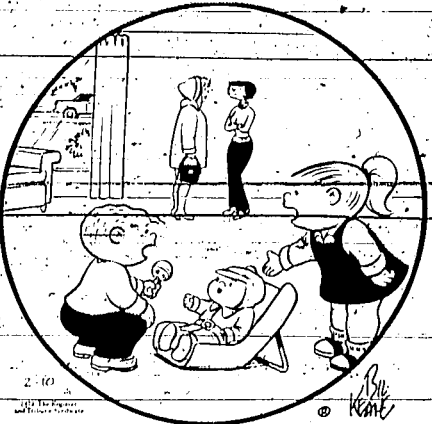

The Red Devils took an early lead but in the second period DeLo blitzed ahead by 11, only to see Murtaugh reduce that to one by intermission. But the Hornets stayed ahead through the third period and again went up by 11 in the fourth. Wright and Talbot paced a late flurry that let Murtaugh reduce it somewhat.

DeLo also won the preliminary

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Ages ago, the usual man did not wear trousers, but a loose robe. Before tackling a tough job, he liked sad tunc between his legs so the folds wouldn't flap, then belted it at his waist, like an enormous diaper. Our Language man says such is the origin of the phrase "to put up your loins." Goes that far back.

THE MUSIC ORCHESTRA who played about April in Paris got it wrong. May is all right there June, too. But April is usually chilly, gusty and rainy. In London, neither July nor August is the sunniest month. September gets less rainfall than either, usually.

THE AVERAGE 5-year-old child has spent more time in front of a baby set than the average liberal arts scholar with a bachelor's degree has spent in college classrooms. Remarkable!

QUIRIES FROM CLIENTS

Q "How many people in the United States die every year from rabies?"

A. Maybe 15, give or take a few.

Q "HOW MANY possible hands in a bridge game?"

A. Exactly 53,644 quadrillion, but I don't know how many, that's it.

Q "WOMEN who wear contact lenses outnumber the men who do likewise, I'm sure. But by how many?"

A. By two to one.

A PUBKEEPER in Maidstone, England, has installed a time clock. So the regular customers who wish to do so can punch out at night. Thus they prove to their wives exactly when they left the place to go home. Lot of hanky panky was going on in Maidstone, I'm told, and some wives had been getting nervous over the whereabouts of their gentlemen friends. Quaint.

THE HEIGHT TABLES

Take the child's height in inches at any of the given ages. Multiply it by 100. Then divide that by the corresponding figure in the chart. The answers is in inches, and will give you the height of the child at age 17 or 18.

Washington potatoes marketed in style

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Washington State potatoes are riding to market in style. Railroad refrigerator cars loaded with potatoes are being used to move potatoes from Washington. This state provides one of every 10 pounds of the nation's potatoes.

The 1972 crop is valued by the State Potato Commission at about $5 million and its estimated impact on the state economy is nearly $800 million.

There are 14 potato processing plants in Washington, most of them in the Columbia Basin, Tri-Cities area and at Walla Walla. They often handle potatoes brought from Idaho and Oregon.

Hertog said BN directly serves 22 potato processors and more than 300 shippers in 19 states and two Canadian provinces.

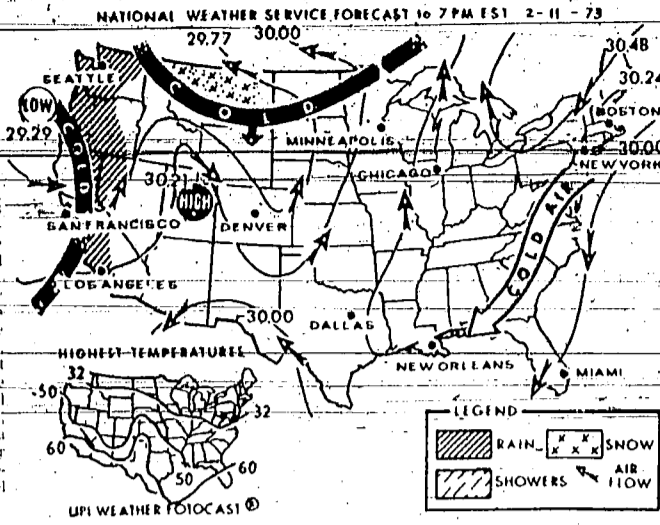

in conventional sacks or cartons. John H. Hertog, BN's Seattle Region vice president, said the cars will serve other growing areas when they are not being used to move potatoes from Washington.

Each car is 50 feet long and can carry 100,000 pounds of perishable cargo, either bulk or packaged. With adjustable floor sloped toward built-in conveyors, the cars can handle loose fresh potatoes. When the floors are folded flat and the conveyors are covered, the cars can carry processed, frozen or fresh potatoes or other produce

RUTH LAEDER, director

"The emphasis of my new job," Miss Laeder said, "will be to continue to promote Sun Valley and, in turn, to generate activities at Elkhorn that will draw guests to the new area."

Miss Laeder is a native of Essex Falls, N. J., and graduated from Smith College in 1953 with a B. A. degree in political science. In October, 1953, she began a long tenure with Time Inc. in New York City and San Francisco, with time out for world travel; to operate her own business, called Nothing's Impossible, Inc. and to act as promotion manager for the Asia Magazine, based in Hong Kong.

She was an active participant in launching Sports Illustrated for Time Inc. and, for four years before her move to Sun Valley, was a reporter assigned to cover fashion for the magazine.

Humboldt forest plans told

CHIDEN — Regional Forest Supervisor Vern Hamre, Ogden, has announced plans for a study on the Humboldt National Forest to determine if administration of the forest could be made through the Tolyabe National Forest supervisor's office.

Hamre and the study will begin soon covering the Humboldt National Forest Supervisor's office in Elko, to determine if administration could be handled through Reno, headquarters of the Tolyabe.

Funding is inadequate to cover all needs of both forests and others in the Intermountain Region, Hamre said, and a cut in administrative forces would assist in spreading funds to more needed programs.

Already a study is underway in the Regional offices for an ordered 25 per cent reduction of operating costs and several ranger districts have been combined in Intermountain forests including the Sawtooth.

Many Twin Falls County residents use the Humboldt Forest areas for recreation, livestock grazing, and other benefits.

TF man joins firm

TWIN FALLS — Franklin D. Bowen, Twin Falls, has joined Humboldt Realty as a salesman specializing in farm and ranch properties.

Bowen has returned to the Magic Valley from Ontario, Ore., where he was affiliated with an insurance company as sales manager serving an area covering portions of Idaho, Oregon and Washington.

Bowen farmed in the Burley-Rupert area from 1953 until 1966, then became foreman of a sheep and cattle ranching operation for three years before entering the insurance business.

He and his wife, Diane, have three children.

Car price hike

DETROIT (UPI) — Buyers of 1973 model cars can expect to face at least one more round of price increases if they wait very much longer, according to Chrysler Corp. chairman Lynn Townsend.

Townsend told newsmen Thursday a price hike should come "as soon as possible" for the 1973 automobiles, though he refused to say when.

The automakers say they have received no price hikes to cover added costs of labor and materials since Jan. 1, 1972, but they've held back on increasing prices since President Nixon's Phase III economic plan because of administration warnings about "people who get out of line."

"With the costs of our materials and labor increasing, the cost-price squeeze on our industry is substantial and it's probably the biggest factor in not showing the increases we'd like on our return on sales," Townsend said. "The industry today should be in the position to take a price increase and should not be criticized for so doing."

Marketing aide named by firm

TWIN FALLS — The appointment of Vic E. Graybeal to the position of marketing manager was announced Friday by officials of Regal Manufacturing Co., Twin Falls.

Prior to his association with Regal, Graybeal served 14 years as KMYT — television station's film director and four and one-half years as northwest manager of Swanson Co.

A native of Twin Falls, he attended schools in Idaho and California, including three years of photography training in Berkeley, Calif. He is active in several civic organizations and has served as president of the Exchange Club and Twin Falls Shrine Club. He is active in the Masonic Lodge and Boy Scouts of America.

In addition to the appointment of Graybeal, Regal Manufacturing Co. has announced an expansion and improvement program now in the final stages. A 14,000 square foot structure has just been completed to house material handling and milling for the firm. A 2,300 square foot maintenance building is nearing completion.

The finishing section has been redesigned and upgraded with new electrical, water and air supply lines and more than 165,000 square feet of concrete and asphalt surfacing laid for maximum year around production.

Promotion listed by area bank

BURLEY — One promotion and a transfer of Idaho Bank and Trust Co. personnel at Burley have been announced.

Arthur L. Burch has been promoted to manager of the consumer loan department and William R. Howard has joined the firm as consumer loan officer, Robert D. Hilliard, manager, said Saturday.

Howard was assistant vice president of the Cassin National Bank prior to its merger with the Bank of Idaho. He joined the Cassin National Bank in 1969 after spending 13 years with finance companies in Idaho and Colorado.

Statistics support old pitch about diamonds

NEW YORK (UPI) — The pitch that "diamonds are an excellent investment and never lose their value" is well-traveled in retail jewelry circles.

Statistics support the jeweler's point. In the 11 years through 1971, the cost of living climbed 37 per cent, the Dow Jones Industrial average gained 45 per cent and retail diamond prices shot up 160 per cent.

But try to resell a stone to the salesman you bought it from a day or a month, or a year later and he might offer you a fifth of what you paid. It's quite possible he wouldn't bid on it.

"You got cheated, right?" "Not necessarily," says Harry Gaunt, founder, Investment Diamonds, Inc. "A diamond is still the nearest thing to a true inflation hedge you can find, but if you're buying for investment purposes, don't buy from a jeweler."

Jewelry, sold at retail, has undergone five or six markups boosting the price 200 per cent on the average before it reaches the consumer. That's because you're buying more than just a diamond and the cost of transforming the stone into jewelry doesn't count as part of the investment.

Investment Diamonds, Inc. specializes in selling diamonds for investment purposes at wholesale prices or less. An investor pays an asked price — usually about five per cent over the bid price — plus a commission of four per cent. When a buyer wishes to cash in on his investment he can sell his

Jerome firm lists manager

Time for Living

Rogers Franklin

Remember when the book of the year was "Happiness is a Dry Martini"?

It followed the success of "Happiness is a Warm Puppy." Then came a quick succession of "Happiness is a Hot Rod With Mustard" and "Happiness is a Milk Shake With Two Straws."

Then the happiness cycle slowed down. Nobody seemed to want to write books on how to be happy. Instead, the books were "How to Pick Up a Guy... Or a Girl," "How to Win Fame and Fortune," "How to Pick Stacks."

That's when the National Association for the Advancement of Happiness Through Humor decided to hold a Happiness Championship.

All this came to me from our friend, George Q. Lewis, the head of National Laugh Enterprises and himself the co-author of the happy book, "The Best Jokes of All Time and How to Tell Them" (The winner of the championship gets an autographed copy of the book.)

Here's an "olympics" open to everyone, with or without muscles of steel. Contestants merely should send their own 12-point guidelines for achieving happiness.

The world seems to be filled with experts on the cause and cure of unhappiness — almost as many as you might find on how to get rich quick. As Jimmy Durante says, "Everybody wants to get into the act."

Why? Because everyone is interested in happiness preferably his own. As it says in the Declaration of Independence, everyone has an inalienable right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

The pursuit of happiness is as American as apple pie. It's almost a national duty to be happy, says George Q. Lewis.

One philosopher says, "The time to be happy is now. The place is here. The way to be happy is to make others happy."

We often hear that America, more than any other nation, tends to live in the past, suffer in the present, and worry about the future. The popularity of nostalgia and astrology serves to emphasize these needs. True, reliving the past can often be enjoyable, but what about today? Remember, "the time to be happy" is now.

To enter a Happiness Championship, you must have a sense of humor — otherwise, you won't have a sense of happiness. Some students of the College of Comedy in New York City entered the competition. Here are a few of their guidelines:

- (1) Don't let troubles get you down.
  - (2) Reach out to another human being — develop a human-exchange that will have mutual benefits.
  - (3) Smile more — it's good for you, it increases your face value.
  - (4) Make a list of things that make you "unhappy" and avoid them.
  - (5) Don't dwell on what could have been.
  - (6) Find someone to love, who loves you.
  - (7) Hold on to your dreams — don't give up.
  - (8) Always count to a thousand before venting your anger.
  - (9) Don't take happiness for granted — work at it.
  - (10) There must be thousands of other ideas and thoughts that would help people in their pursuit of happiness. What are yours? Send them to the World Happiness Championship, Box 845, Grand Central Station, New York, N. Y. 10017.
- Do it now. When you help someone, you help yourself. Winners of the championship will be announced during National Share the Happiness Week, celebrated each year beginning the second Sunday in September.

Aides refuse warning call

ANDREWS, Ind. (UPI) — When the home office of the Norfolk & Western railroad refused a collect call from town Marshal Ed Bigelow he said "to hell with you." Turning down the call may well have cost them a couple of hundred thousand dollars more than the telephone tab would have been.

Bigelow was trying to tell them there was a broken rail on their tracks in the downtown area of this small community. About 30 minutes later, 20 cars of a 75-car N & W freight derailed a short distance from where Bigelow said the rail was.

Roanoke, Va. He said they refused to accept his call collect.

Railroad officials said the accident was believed caused by a faulty wheel bearing, but Bigelow said he noticed bolts missing from a rail joint.

He said he first called a Port Wayne office of the railroad, but the maintenance supervisor was not in, so he decided to call Roanoke.

Bigelow also called repair crews Wednesday night about a gap in the rails he noticed when one passing train caused loud noises. That problem was repaired overnight.

Wreckage of the derailed Thursday was strewn over about 150 yards and crude oil and asphalt was spilled from several cars. Mail trucks and tractor cabs being transported were also damaged and the derailed "hooked" the main line between Fort Wayne and Peru.

Drum burial

BARROW, Alaska (UPI) — An oil industry crew has completed excavating and burial of more than 8,300 steel drums gathered from the North Slope tundra during the past two years. The barrels were left by oil exploration crews during the last 50 years.

The burial pits will be covered over and reseeded with tundra grass. The cleanup campaign, which began in the fall of 1969, cost about $100,000 and was paid for by oil companies.

February penny parade

Results: one active teen-ager

By BONNIE JONES Times-News writer

JEROME — Some people might call Marjorie Orchard, Jerome, a "Tom-boy." She is an unusually active 14 year-old who likes to play football, soft ball, volley ball and basketball. She is a member of the LDS Church Second Ward volley ball team in Jerome and also plays softball in the church league. She likes to sew and enjoy the younger children in her family. There is very little in the way of sports she hasn't at least tried including 4-H club work, now in her fifth year of projects. Except for the help she received as an infant at the LDS Primary Children's Hospital in Salt Lake City it might have been a completely different story.

Marjorie was born with a twisted foot and without treatment provided by the Primary Children's Hospital would not have been able to run or walk normally and would have had difficulty enjoying the many activities she now enjoys. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Orchard, Jerome, and one of many Magic Valley residents who have spent time in the Utah hospital. Some children were not as lucky as Marjorie as their problems were much more critical and of longer duration, but all have been given every available support medical benefit of the hospital.

Marjorie and her family are staunch supporters of the February Penny Parade in which funds are solicited to help finance some of the Primary Children's Hospital programs.

No child, regardless of the religion, need, race or color is turned away from the hospital. Many can pay only a small part of their medical costs and others can pay nothing, but all receive the same concern and are helped by the same medical specialists.

LDS Primary officials hold special benefits during February and children bring two pennies for each year of their age during primary classes. It takes pennies to make dollars, primary leaders say and it takes many dollars to pay for the costly medical care the children's hospital offers to all children. Persons are asked to give generously during the month of February for a good cause.

Hospital records show there were 361 Idaho children given care at the Primary Children's Hospital in 1969, a typical year. There were 7,975 children admitted of which 799 were treated without cost or with only a share of the cost.

The hospital's medical staff includes 253 doctors, most of them specialists in some related field.

Problem corrected

Youths form 4 companies

TWIN FALLS — Four companies, the executives of which are high school students, are doing business in Twin Falls.

The companies, which hopefully will be able to show a profit by the end of the school year, are all part of the Junior Achievement Program sponsored by interested Twin Falls and Filer business firms.

Each of the youth companies is incorporated and members capitalize, self stock, determine a product, pay salaries, taxes and make stockholder reports.

At the end of the school year the young executives liquidate their companies. Through these functions and with the help of sponsor companies, the youth learn the practical application of business knowledge.

At the same time, sponsor companies learn to work with the youth groups and are contributing to future business climate of the community by helping train those who will be operating regular businesses here in a few years, say Junior Achievement directors.

This year there are four companies which are sponsored by the Idaho Power Co., the Gem State Paper Co., Mountain Bell Co. and Acme Manufacturing of Filer. Several times Junior achievers have merged their companies, another phase of business operations.

The Idaho Power sponsored group produces lava rock candles while the Gem State Paper group bags peanuts and makes curb stencils. Those sponsored by Mountain Bell are making shoe cleaning brushes and the Acme group produces jewelry.

About 50 young persons are involved in the business operation and companies meet in the basement of the American Legion Hall where they work on their products and from where they are marketed.

Ray Hanson is president of Twin Falls Junior Achievement Inc., with John Anderson as treasurer and Tom Wojcik, program manager. Steve Crofts is public information officer.

Guild hears review

TWIN FALLS—"The Shadow of the Lynx" was the book reviewed for the Literary Art Guild meeting Thursday evening.

This mystery story of hate, love, pathos and intrigue was presented by Mrs. Orvel Thompson. She used as an illustration, a sketch of the paperback cover, made by her daughter Beverly Kump.

Mrs. Claude Brown Jr., club president, welcomed members and guests, Beverly Kump and Janice Crandall.

Mrs. Roy Babbel, program chairman, introduced the program. The guild thought, "The Art of Staying Young," was given by Mrs. Gordon Crockett. Mrs. Douglas Brown presented a sketch of the author, Eleanor Buford Hibbert, who uses many pen names, "Victoria Holt" being the one used for this particular book.

The meeting was held at the Bernell Skinner residence. Mrs. Douglas Brown and Mrs. E. J. Morgan were co-hostess.

The next meeting is Guest Night March 8 at the John Coleman residence.

Calls increase

NEW YORK (UPI)—The telephone was invented in 1876 and by 1878 the first switchboard was in operation.

Not until 1900 were there a million subscribers in the United States. Now there are more than 125 million, making an estimated 512 million calls a day.

South won the diamond lead and went right after trumps. East took the second trump lead and led the suit back.

South thought awhile. He saw that he could make the rest of the tricks if he could figure out where the king of clubs was.

Finally, he ran off four rounds of spades in order to discard a club from dummy; led the ace of clubs; continued with the queen and let it ride. West produced the king and one more slam had gone to never-never land.

"Too bad I know about backward finesses," mumbled South. "A beginner would have taken the simple finesse and made the contract."

"Too bad you didn't know about dummy reversals," growled North. "You didn't need a club finesse at all."

North was right. At trick two South should cash the second high diamond and discard one of his clubs. Then he should ruff a diamond with the king of trumps and lead the four of trumps to dummy's seven. East could duck or take the trick. Let's assume he ducked.

South would ruff dummy's last diamond with the queen of trumps and lead the 10 of trumps to dummy's jack. If East ducked, South would lead another trump. If East won and led a club, South would go up with his ace; lead a spade to dummy's ace; discard his last two clubs on dummy's last two trumps and make the last three tricks with the king, queen and 10 of spades.

She's men's fashion expert

NEW YORK (UPI)—Perhaps the most memorable day in the life of Peg Matthews was eight years ago when the management of J-P Stevens & Co. called her into the front office and, disregarding her matronly girth, announced: "Today you are a man."

Peg Matthews, housewife and mother, thereby began a career as an expert in men's fashions which was to make her one of the better known women public relations figures and, eventually, one of the leading experts on men's fashions.

"I laughed when they said it," she said. "They laughed too. I said 'Are you serious?' and they said 'Yes.' I said I would have to learn and they said 'Go ahead.' So I went out and learned and they did too. It has been eight years of keeping my ear to the ground, reading all the trade publications, and attending so many fashion shows I've lost count."

"I was fashion editor on the American Weekly for three years, dabbling only occasionally in men's wear. And I must say I like the men's fashion business better. I guess it's because I dig men more than women. Men are less predatory. They are a more cohesive group and depend more on each other. And somehow men's fashions as a whole look right because so many people depend on each other.

"The people in the women's fashion business live in a state of terror. They are definitely committed to a four-times-a-year schedule and they could die on a bad line. They knock off each other's designs behind their backs but in the men's clothing business they are forthright and have mutual objectives."

Mini-Reviews

TWIN FALLS—Mini-reviews, Bob, an unusually intelligent and troubled young Twin Falls Public Library official for some of the "new books" recently received by the library.

"Open Heart" by Prater Beckner. Leo Bebb, the ambiguous head of a religious mill is a startling and complex character.

"Jenn at Noon" by Janet Sandison. The fantasy life Charles and Jean shared is shattered by the consequences of their own foolishness.

"Daughter of Darkness" by J.R. Lowell. Is Willie responsible for the mounting horror around her? This novel leads the reader into new byways of the supernatural.

"The Manticore" by Robertson Davies. Perhaps it isn't so odd that David Stanton should feel a touch of madness and plunge himself into Jungian analysis as a result of his father's accidental (suicidal, homicidal) death.

"Greenoe" by George E. Mackay Brown. Readers grown weary of current fiction, turning to Greenoe, will discover in it refreshment, exhilaration and intense delight.

"Regenesis" by Robert Granat. A remarkable story of the breakdown and recovery of

1933 grads views asked on reunion

SOCIETY MEETS — Mrs. M. O. Marsh reviewed "A Daughter of Zion" by Estelle Hunter at a Thursday meeting of the Le Livre et La Plume Literary Arts Society.

Mrs. Marsh also presented a sketch of the author's life.

Mrs. Bud Hansen, hostess for the evening, gave the gilded thought. Mrs. Don Van Noy, Mrs. Gwen Van Noy and Mrs. Edgard Dady served refreshments.

TWIN FALLS — Graduates of the Twin Falls High School with the class of 1933 are being asked to express their views on a class reunion this summer. About 176 students received their diplomas in 1933 and the class has held reunions each five years. The 40th reunion will be held this summer if enough of those still residing in the area express an interest. Those wishing to help with the reunion are asked to call Mrs. Gene (Colleen Bice) Dillon, 733-1261.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: That dentist who said that with proper dental hygiene and periodic checkups one could keep his own teeth forever was wrong.

I inherited soft, rotten teeth, and no amount of dental care or treatment could save them. I spent a fortune and suffered for years trying to save mine, but I lost them all at age 33.

Now, at age 57 I am delighted with my falsies. I can eat corn on the cob, caramel apples—anything you can eat, and I wouldn't have my own teeth back for a million dollars.

Oh, another fringe benefit: I can take out my teeth and entertain my grandchildren by dancing a wild flamenco, using my dentures as castanets. I'll bet YOU can't do that, Abby!

GRANNY FANNY IN L. A.

Enjoys new teeth

DEAR GRANNY: You're right, I can't. But I can do a wild kazatsky with my originals.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter-in-law recently had her first baby. It was a 9-lb. "premature" child, arriving six months after the wedding—but that's another story.

Anyway, she has asked me for a list of my friends and relatives to whom she should send birth announcements. Abby, I really don't feel like giving her a list because she did not acknowledge many of her wedding gifts from my friends and relatives, and I kept getting calls (and letters) asking me if she had received a gift. [And this was four and five months after the wedding.]

I realize that she may not have been feeling well, but she's a 22-year-old college graduate who did not have to go to a job anywhere, and she has had a fulltime maid since the day she got back from her honeymoon.

So, I ask you, what would YOU do?

MOTHER IN LAW

DEAR MOTHER: I'd tell her I don't feel like giving her a list. And I'd tell her why.

DEAR ABBY: I, along with my husband, was a guest at a bachelor's apartment. I had to use the bathroom, so I excused myself and when I found it, I was amazed to discover there was no door! What would you have done in a case like that?

B. L. M.

DEAR B. L. M.: Whatever! And as quickly as possible!

DEAR ABBY: Lots of folks write to tell you that you were wrong, but I am writing to tell you that you were right. Also to say that I am sorry I didn't take the advice you gave me back in 1960 when I asked you what to do about a husband who used to beat me up so bad he'd put me in the hospital.

You said: "Get rid of him, Honey, before he maims you for life."

Well, I didn't get rid of him. I took him back and gave him another chance. And I hate to tell you how many more beatings and chances there were after that.

Finally, on the night of June 17th, 1972, we had another bad fight. My brother happened to come by at the time, and he tried to help me, but my husband shot and killed my brother on the spot. He also put a bullet thru my right rib cage, shot a part of my right arm off, fractured my skull, gave me a concussion and broke my ear drum. The cops came in and killed him while he was trying to escape.

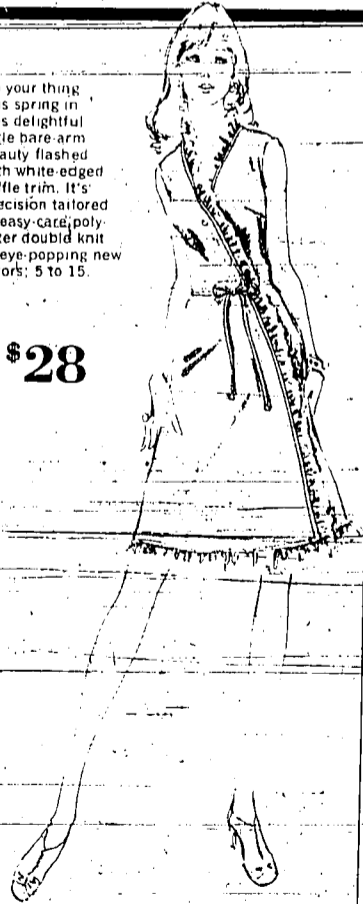

Even tho' I was in the intensive care unit for weeks, I am still alive, but like you told me back in 1960, someday that man would maim me for life. And he did. SHOULD HAVE LISTENED IN PHILLIPS, ME.

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69766, L. A., Calif. 90066. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Current Cues

By HELEN WALKER
TWIN FALLS — Although there are four natural fibers — cotton, linen, silk and wool — and literally hundreds of types of man-made fibers, all washable fabrics may be successfully laundered by following the procedures recommended in the "Care and Use Book" of laundry equipment.

Best results are obtained when the proper washing procedure is selected for each load. Factors to be considered include:

Wash water temperature: Hot water, followed by a warm rinse, is the most effective when washing white articles or heavily soiled colorfast articles. It should be really hot — 130 to 160 degrees in the washer. Since water loses heat in the pipes as it "travels" from heater to washer it may be necessary to set the water heater at a higher temperature.

Warm water, followed by a cold rinse, will remove soil yet preserve the appearance of most normally soiled colored articles or for delicate items.

Rinsing is the process of flushing away the soil and suds and can be done effectively in either warm or cold water; however, a cold rinse is preferred for permanent press articles to minimize wrinkling.

Agitation and spin speeds: The regular agitation and spin speeds are designed to provide proper flexing action to loosen soil from fabrics. If your washer has two speeds, use the slower speed for washable woollens and "hand washable" articles which require gentler handling. Otherwise, reduce the wash time by one-half on regular speed.

Water level: Adjust the water level to fit the size of the load. Remember, for best washing results, clothes must circulate freely. If too little water is used, poor washing action and/or excessive wear of fabrics may result. When laundering delicate garments of delicate construction, woollens or knitted articles, always use a normal setting for both wash and rinse no matter how small the load — to minimize shrinkage, wrinkling, and pulling of seams.

Length of wash time: The proper wash time will vary from load to load, depending upon the type of fabric and the amount of soil. For delicate items, two to four minutes is usually ample; for normally soiled cottons and linens, eight to ten minutes may be needed. For heavily soiled loads, a pre-wash or soak is preferable to a longer wash time.

Special cycles: Some washers have an automatic SOAK cycle, but soaking can be accomplished in any automatic washer by stopping the agitation and permitting a soak period followed with a regular wash cycle. Soaking will help remove soil and eliminate the need for pre-treating by hand.

Soaking in cold water is beneficial for removing many soils, such as protein. For soils of an oily nature, soaking in warm water is more desirable. Many washers have a permanent press cycle which automatically provides a cool-down rinse and shortened spinning to minimize wrinkling. On machines without this cycle a cold water rinse will be of some help.

They aren't laughing

NORTHRIDGE, Calif. (UPI)—They laughed at Mary Anna Anderson when she went to Northridge Equipment Rentals and said she wanted to rent a Roto-tiller to plow up the rocks and hard soil that were preventing a lawn in her front yard.

They told Ms. Anderson, 28, that only men over 21 might rent the Roto-tiller. Women, they said, tend to get hurt using such heavy equipment.

That was a year ago. Now they aren't laughing because Ms. Anderson, who has just finished the California bar examination, has sued Northridge Equipment for $10,000 for humiliation, $15 for travel expenses and $250 in penalties for violating state law prohibiting discrimination by business establishments on basis of race, color and creed.

The law does not mention sex but Ms. Anderson says that if she wins her case she will also be making new-law protecting women.

"If I think I can handle a Roto-tiller, who are they to tell me that I can't just because I'm female?"

The smallest Roto-tiller weighs 641 pounds, has a nine-horsepower engine and a blade 20 inches wide.

The Northridge owner, M. R. Graft, says company insurance considerations prohibit rental to women lest they be injured and bring a damage suit.

New goal set

WACs to double strength

TWIN FALLS—Recruiting for the Women's Army Corps in Idaho is receiving greater emphasis with the new goal to double the number of WACs in the next two years.

There are now 15,000 WACs and the goal is to reach 30,000 WACs in two years.

1st. Sandy Sawyer, Boise, and Sgt. Rosie Gobea, Pocatello, are newly stationed in their areas to help interest Idaho girls in joining the WACs. They are assisted in covering southern Idaho and Eastern Oregon by Sgt. Helen Eppeman, Boise. They were in Twin Falls this week visiting the local recruiters.

Sgt. Gobea said women interested in entering the WAC must be 18-34 years of age inclusive, have a high school diploma or GED, be able to pass mental and physical exams and weight requirements. Women may be married, but may have no dependents when entering the WAC. In some cases, a WAC may obtain a college degree while serving and the Army will often pay for it, Lt. Sawyer said.

Lieutenant Sawyer said the new recruit will receive eight weeks of basic training at Ft. McClellan, Ala., where she will become oriented to the Army and learn history, military customs and courtesies and undergo physical training. Lt. Sawyer said current WAC physical training is no more strenuous than high school physical education classes.

The basic training is followed by Advanced Individual Training in a specialty guaranteed to the girl when she enlists. Some of the specialties offered are clerical, medical, communications, electronics, military police and data processing. The area WAC will be assigned to following training is also guaranteed.

WAC enlistments may be for two, three or four years, with the average being three years.

Sgt. Gobea said that with a pay raise in January a new recruit will earn $307 per month in basic pay which does not include a housing allowance, cost of living if overseas or subsistence pay. The Army provides quarters, medical and dental services and uniforms. Pay and promotion are equal for men and women.

Lt. Sawyer said uniform skirt lengths are determined by height, with the skirt length conforming to current fashion. Well cared for attractive hairstyles are acceptable. She said the black beret is a recent addition to the uniform and newly styled uniforms will be issued next year.

Sgt. Gobea said there is a delayed entry program for girls who are not yet 18 or who have not obtained their high school diploma. They may enlist now and delay entry for up to six months.

Those interested should inquire at the Army recruiter's office across from the Rogerson Hotel or telephone 733-2671. Collect telephone calls will be accepted.

Sgt. Gobea, a native of Tucson, Ariz., said she has served six years and has been stationed on the east coast, two years in Hawaii and now is in Pocatello. She has visited Europe and crossed the United States many times.

Lt. Sawyer, a native of San Diego, Calif., said her three years in the service have been spent at Ft. Wainwright, Fairbanks, Alaska; and Ft. McChesnut, Ala. She is now stationed in Boise.

Blind can learn to 'see'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The blind can learn to "see" with a tiny, spectacle-mounted television camera that relays a picture through nerve endings in the skin of the stomach, according to a San Francisco researcher.

Although the system is currently "only a crude beginning," it provides enough information for experienced blind subjects to walk into a specially designed laboratory, locate a desired object, approach it and pick it up, all in about 10 seconds," said Carter C. Collins.

Collins, associate professor of biophysics at the University of the Pacific School of Medical Sciences, spoke at the concluding session of a science writers seminar sponsored by Research to Prevent Blindness, Inc.

The system utilizes a half-ounce television camera mounted on an ordinary pair of eyeglasses. The whole apparatus weighs about 5 pounds. Experienced subjects "can detect some 16 shades of gray... and color will be discernible in the future," Collins said.

The visual impression is relayed from the tiny camera to a matrix carrying 1,024 electrodes held against the skin of the subject's midriff.

Blind subjects must be educated by trial and error, Collins emphasized. He said it would be at least two years before the device would be perfected and released for common use.

"Currently it is being used at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, Ore., and at the Wills Eye Hospital in Philadelphia," he said. "We hope to get it into centers in Europe shortly—at the University of Palermo in Italy, at the University of Linköping in Sweden and at the Blind Mobility Research Center in Nottingham, England."

A blind person must be indoctrinated to use the device," he said. "Blind subjects soon learn to recognize and associate the image with objects in front of them," he said. "We will give a subject an ash-tray, say, and then he will feel it and note the tactile sensations he receives from the camera and the future will be able to identify it without touching it. It is surprising how quickly a blind person learns. The information after a bit of experimenting seems to reach the brain as a visual image and not in the sense of touching something." At present time the cost of a single unit is about $5,000, Collins said.

Artists 'in tune' for jamboree

TWIN FALLS — More than 50 country music artists are "in tune" for their 12th annual Country Music Jamboree opening for a three-night stand Monday at 8 p.m.

Shows begin in the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts

Auditorium Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights at 8 p.m. with each night's program to be varied. Some performers will appear each night while others will be on only one night's program.

Dick Shaffer, jamboree director, said some of the artists include the Common Taters, a Buhl barbershop quartet group which also shows considerable talent with the country western tunes. Some of the "old favorites" reappearing with the show will be the Kings Harvesters, Bruce Thomason and the Rondevoos, Henry Fiscus and the Valley Boys, Chuck Daniels and the Nevada Gamblers, The Houstabouts, The Jubileers, The Common People, Jerome Fiscus and the Melody Masters, the Last Resorts, Johnny and the Sundowners, the Spirit-tones, the Travelers, Carletta Cox, the Simers, Slim Dossey and the Gem State Gems, Frank Hodge, Jim and May Williams and others.

Advance tickets are being sold at Helen's Record Shop, Twin Falls, and Sav Mor Drug. Buhl Tickets will be available at the door each night.

This year the jamboree proceeds will go to Civitan Club of Twin Falls to assist with their many youth projects including scholarships, TORCH, child development and many other programs.

Holly Houfburg, who has been master of ceremonies for many Country music shows in the past, says he plans to be on hand at least part of each show despite his recent bout with pneumonia.

Doing fine

REEDSPORT, Ore.—(UPI)—Mrs. Larry Hull gave birth to twin boys—20 miles apart.

The first youngster, a six-pounder, was delivered Thursday at Lower Umpqua Hospital at Reedsport. Mrs. Hull then was taken by ambulance to North Bend, Ore., where she gave birth by Caesarean section to a four-pound, 14-ounce boy.

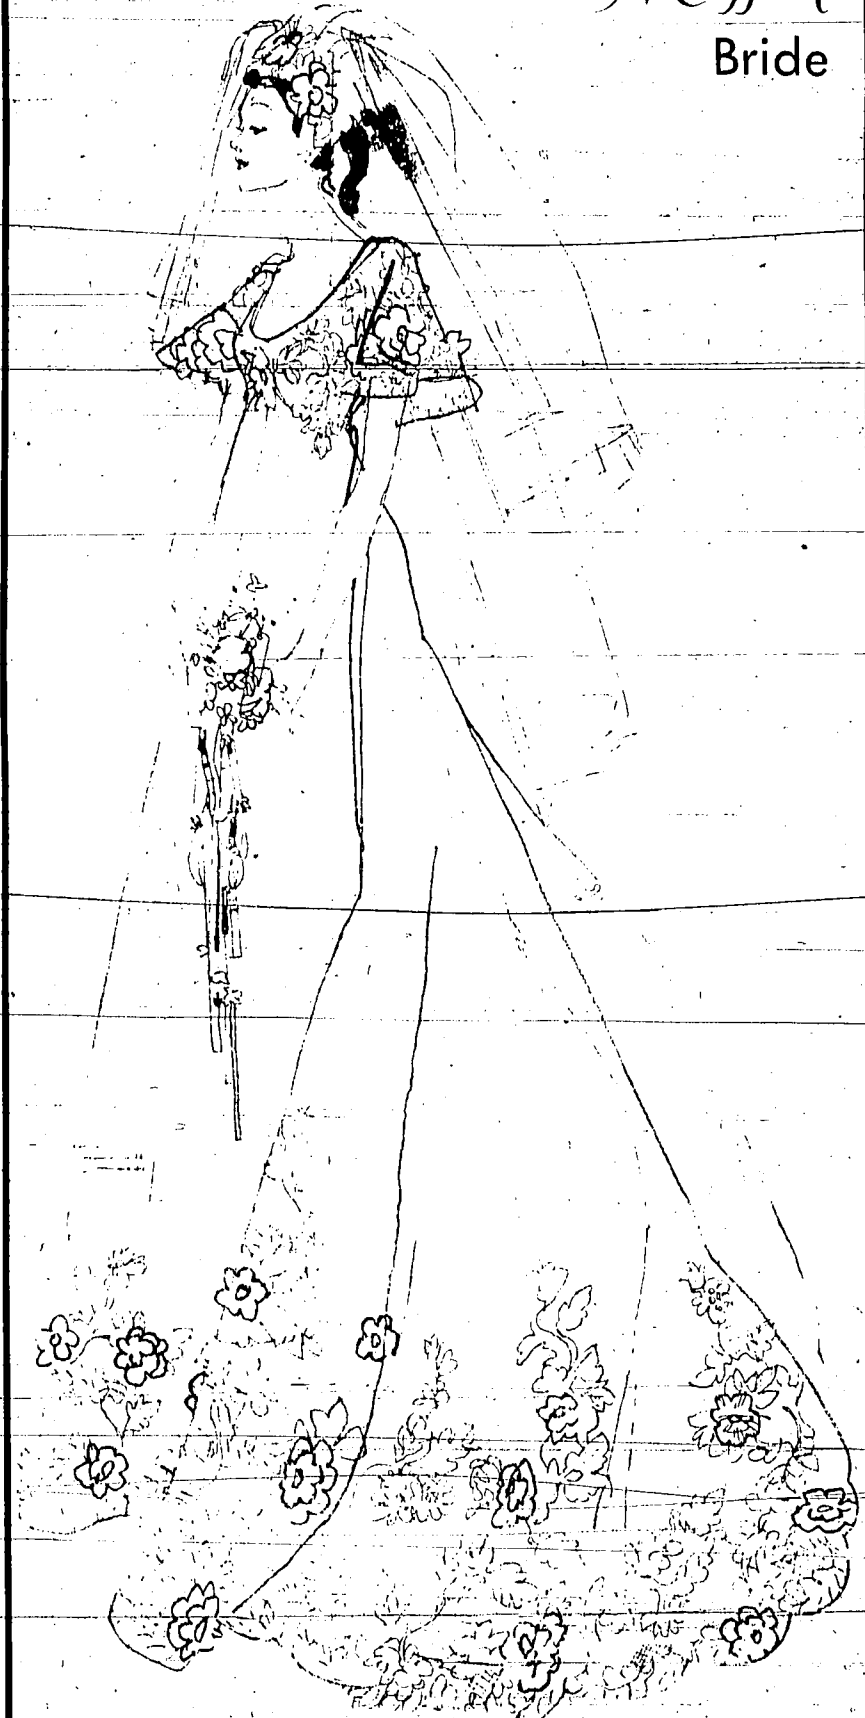

Both babies and mother were doing fine today.

'Soul food' makes balanced diet

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—"Soul food" popular with black Americans is an exceptionally nutritious and balanced diet, according to a health expert. It may be more nutritious than the diet of the typical white American, said Dr. Derrek Jelliffe, professor of nutrition at the UCLA School of Public Health. He recently concluded a study of the value of soul food, which is gaining in popularity and is now featured in a growing number of restaurants. The diet was originally determined by the foods avail-

Concert to feature mixed chorus

Week's Recipe Winner
JENNIE DAYLEY
 Rt. 1, Hanson

TWIN FALLS — Appearing with the Magic Valley Symphony orchestra in concert Feb. 20 at 8 p.m. in the CSI Fine Arts Center will be a mixed chorus of community residents.

They will sing "The Requiem" of Gabriel Faure with organ and orchestral accompaniment, and "Battle Hymn of the Republic," arranged by Willowsky. Adult singers throughout the area, as well as high school and college students, comprise the chorus, which is under the direction of Mrs. Albert E. Allen. Mrs. Robert Van Nest is rehearsal accompanist.

Dr. Richard F. McClure, an accomplished organist, will be making his initial appearance in this area as accompanist. Dr. McClure studied organ with Edward C. Timmerman and Ralph Kinder. He was organist at Washington and Jefferson College in 1938-39.

During 1945-46, he was organist at St. Andrew's University of Michigan, and Episcopal Church in Pittsburgh, Pa. He was organist and choral director from 1942-45 at Woodland Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia. He served in the same capacity at Covenant Presbyterian Church, Detroit, Mich., during 1946-47 and again in 1951-52.

He held a similar position at Trinity Episcopal Church, San Francisco, and at St. Francis Episcopal Church, Palos Verdes Estates, Calif., from 1952 to 1967.

Dr. McClure's principal interest has been in presenting major choral works of Handel, Haydn, Mendelssohn, Vivaldi, St. Saens, Mozart, Brahms, Beethoven, and Poulenc, as well as Masses of Mozart, Schubert and Gounod. He gave one of the first performances of Messa di Gloria, Puccini, in Los Angeles. He has been guest organist by invitation at performances of Handel's "Messiah" in Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, and Los Angeles. He was also guest organist with the South-Day Symphony Orchestra in California and at St. Mary's Cathedral in San Francisco. He has given recitals of major cello concertos as organist accompanying Elsa Hilger, first desk cellist with the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Verdes Estates, California. This instrument now stands as one of the principal recital organs in Western United States. Mrs. Allen, wife of the Episcopal minister in Twin Falls, will sing the soprano solo in "The Requiem." Mrs. Allen holds a BA degree from the University of Oregon. She obtained her secondary teaching credentials from Portland State University where she is currently in the graduate program, hopeful of completing work for her MA degree by the end of the coming summer.

Mrs. Allen began voice training at State Teacher's College, Wayne, Nef, where she studied with Prof. Russell Anderson, who was a pupil of Huns Christmanson, director of St. Olaf Choir. She also studied with Mme. Rose McGrew at the University of Oregon, with Mabel Reigelman in San Francisco, and for one year in Boston.

She was soprano soloist in Mendelssohn's "Elijah" for three consecutive years with the Central Oregon Oratorio Society. She was soprano soloist in Handel's "Messiah" at the University of Oregon; The Dalles, and Hood River, Ore., and in the Seattle area.

Prior to coming to Twin Falls, Mrs. Allen was a member and soprano soloist of the Seattle Choral, under the direction of Leonard Moore, who was a former member and assistant conductor of the Robert Shaw Chorale. Also she was a member and soloist of the Leonard Moore Choral (a small group of 25 members) under Columbia Artists management, which performed in Community Concerts in Oregon, Washington, and Canada. She sang the role of Mother in Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors," and has been soloist in numerous productions of Du Bois' "Seven Last Words of Christ." Families will be admitted to the concert on patron tickets, and general admission tickets will be available at Warner's and Garth's downtown and at Sullivan's in the Lynwood Shopping Center. These must be purchased in advance.

"LOVE ONE ANOTHER . . ."

By Mary Sue Miller

Young people go about advising the populace to "love one another." Yet many destroy property and the looks of it by scribbled graffiti. The message has nothing to do with love.

Older people often scoff at the idea of etiquette, but they decry the lack of good manners. Well, that seems an example of lax thinking. Etiquette and manners spring from a common ground of self-respect and consideration for others. The sole purpose is to smooth life's path in ways that are understood and accepted by the majority.

Courtesy begins in the family circle. When family members treat each other with consideration, home is a happy haven. Children respond in kind to the treatment accorded them. The course of adult relations is far pleasanter. The most difficult persons, unless entirely witless, eventually are won to civility.

Of equal significance is the fact that hometown attitudes carry over into public actions. Members of mannerly families are polite and considerate of outsiders. It comes naturally to them to say Please, Thank You and Excuse Me . . . to avoid such public annoyances as littering the streets, let's say, or talking in the tones of a blatting transistor at soda fountains.

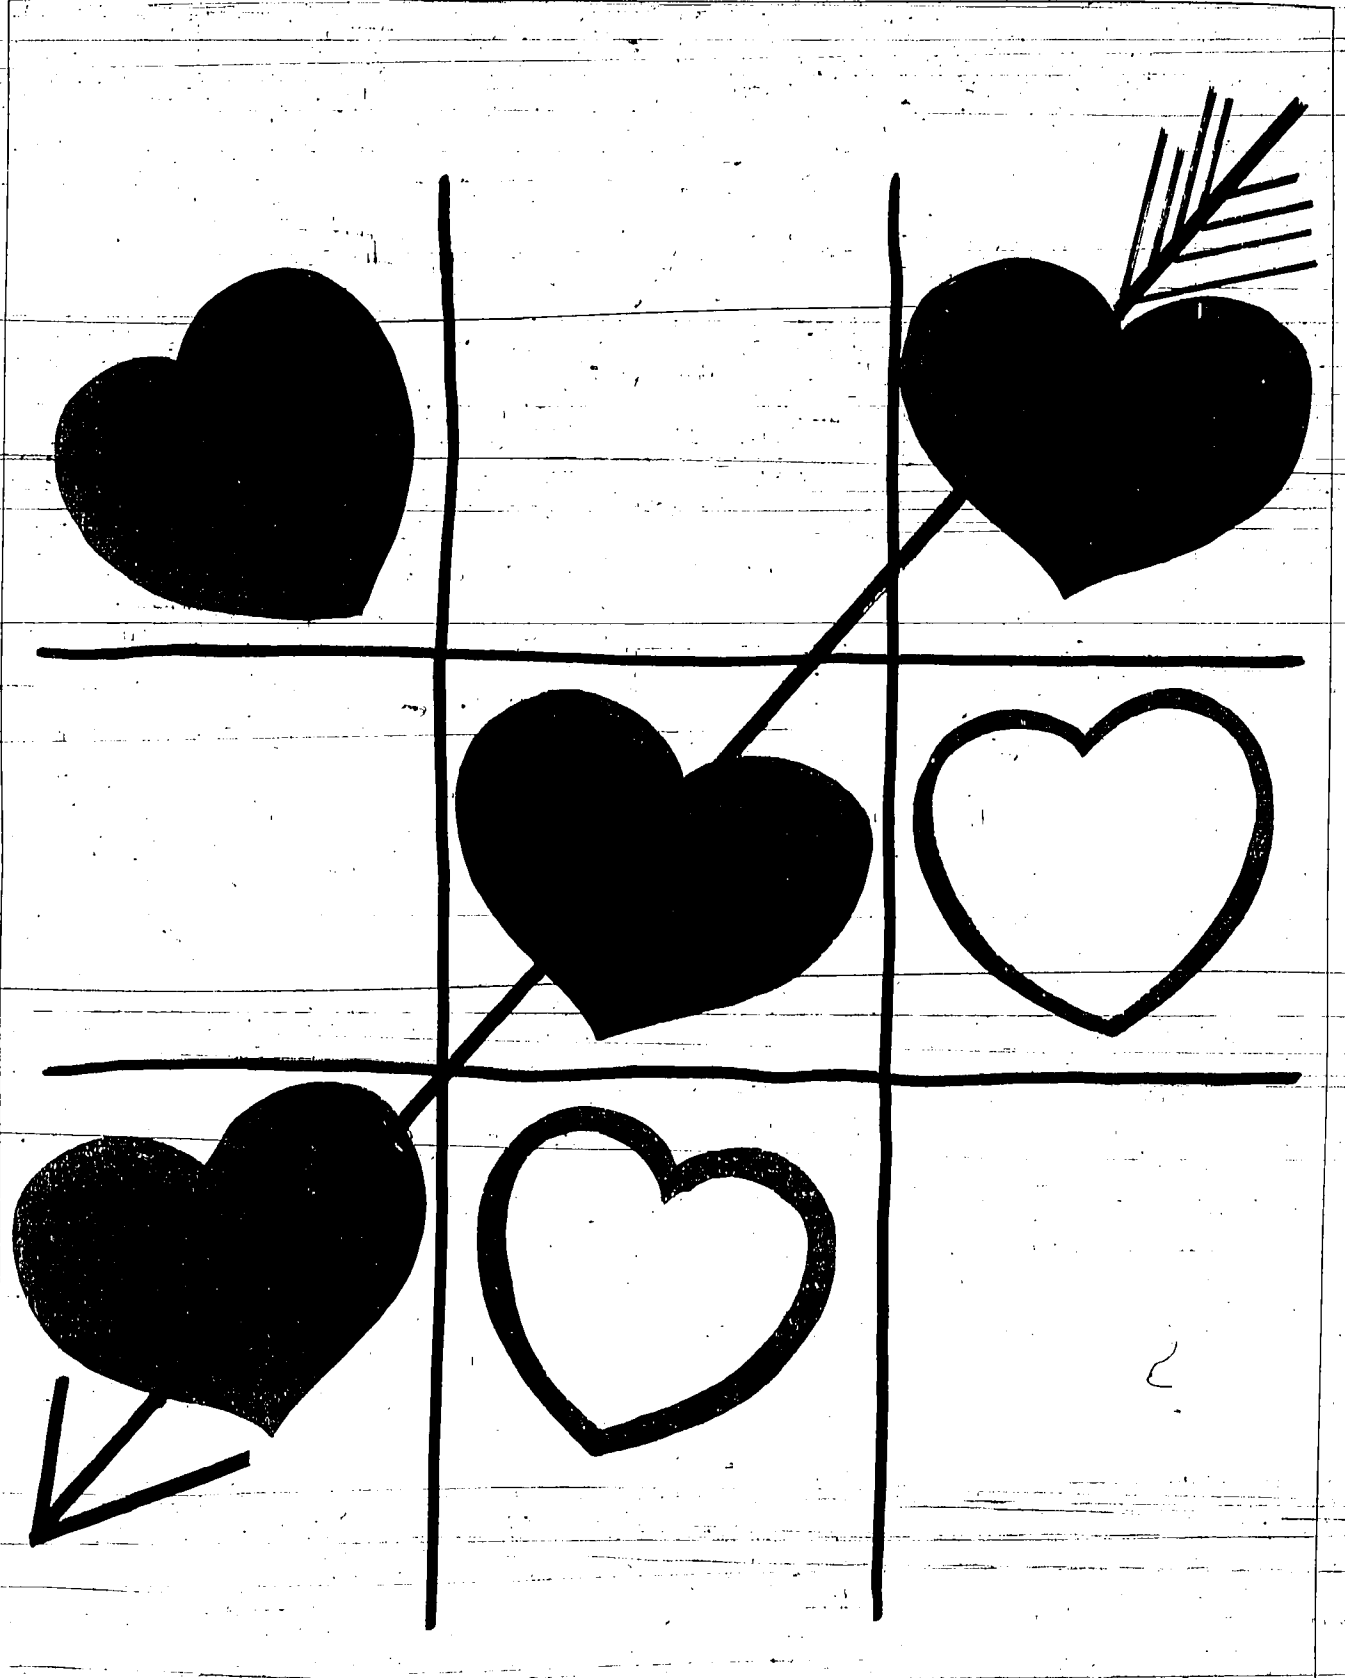

If only more of us planted seeds of good conduct, the rudenesses we suffer and complain about in public life today would fade. Courtesy breeds courtesy.

What you're saying . . .

Equal rights?

Question: Do you favor the amendment to the US constitution giving women equal rights with men. Should the Idaho Legislature take back its earlier ratification of the amendment?

"I feel the United States is composed of all nationalities and we should all be given the same opportunities regardless of race, color, creed or sex. Actually, the only reason people live in the United States is equal rights. I think a person, man or woman, should be able to hold any job as long as qualified.
"I don't think alimony should ever be enforced. I'm entirely against it. I am in favor of child support.
"I think the amendment should be ratified."

F. C. SHENEBERGER
... entirely unnecessary

"My view is that the proposed Constitutional Amendment was entirely unnecessary and if ratified would not gain for its proponents what they think they would like to have. There are still two sexes of the homo sapien and each has its place in our society. To try to make them into one would be a shocking situation and of no benefit to either men or women.
"So far as the Legislature's ability to rescind its prior ratification is concerned, I have reservations on that. I am inclined to believe that the U.S. Supreme Court would say no. For one reason, among other things, that Idaho's ratification might have influenced other states to ratify the proposed amendment."

KATHY GANO
... should be allowed

"If a woman wants to be like a man, I think she should be able to. Personally, I don't want to go out and drive truck or anything like that, but I think a woman should be allowed to do as she wishes.
"No, the Idaho legislature should not rescind ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment."

Sexual Discrimination Of Age

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Something is wrong with Roxie Barnes' television. The sound works but the picture doesn't. Yet, well, too bad, Mrs. Barnes can't afford a new set — hence she cleans the relic every day, dusting, oiling, washing the picture tube. And when she is done, which is usually early in the morning, she retires to a chair for the rest of the day, every day, and just listens to the audio.

"I don't," she explains, "have much else to do now."

Mrs. Barnes, like her TV, is old: 74. Likewise, she has over the years lost part of her capacity to function. Her husband died "oh, 15-16 year's ago"; her hands are lumpy with knots that prevent much usage; her health is good, that is to say she has no serious illness, but she can't move around much, "not even to church." And so she sits by herself in a two-room apartment — "I haven't even been downtown for a year" — and listens to the sound of civilization out of a pathetic veneer box.

It's much the same for many older women in America today. Men, too, but especially women because they live longer and outnumber men. The Census Bureau believes that are 11 million women over the age of 65 in the United States, seven million of them are widows or otherwise single, 34 per cent of them live alone, one of four do not have enough money for comfort, 6 of 10 are inadequately sheltered. There is an especially sorry portion of the subculture of the aged; since they live longer than men (74.9 years on the average to 67.5 for males) they experience the pain of being old that much more.

Roxie Barnes for example. Daughter of a North Carolina sharecropper, she came of Washington during the Depression, married a laborer, found work with the U.S. government (30 years as an aide in Walter Reed Hospital), and thus made a place for herself. Sadly, the place was not permanent. Like it has so many others, age has relegated Mrs. Barnes to a kind of pile of worthless human debris. The productive society doesn't need her, doesn't really want her — therefore, although no one admits it, she's in the way, and as a result ignored or forgotten by the work-a-day world.

Oh, there is some obligatory recognition that she still exists. The government mails a $139-a-month pension. District social workers do what they can for her under the law. Once a month she receives a medical checkup — that is if she presents her Department of Human Resources Card, her medical eligibility pass, and heaven knows what else for treatment. Yet here she is, living hard by the center of U.S. social power, lonely, neglected, sometimes victimized and all the time in privation.

Her $139 pension, as illustration, is not enough to make ends meet. Her rent ($97), foodstamps ($10), heat and telephone take quick care of that sum. Then there is gas, electricity, clothes, repairs, household items, etc. (In order to pay the extra bills she has taken to babysitting. A woman in the same apartment leaves her baby with Mrs. Barnes for eight or nine hours every day. It adds $12 weekly to the old woman's income; it keeps her from the welfare rolls.)

And beyond the rigors of economics, there are the thousand and one other things for which Mrs. Barnes is unprepared to handle and for which society is unprepared to help. The heat breaks down in her apartment, forcing the use of a hotplate for warmth; the electricity bill soars, the hotplate is worn to near repair, but . . . tough. The pantry is empty of food, but there is no one to do the shopping, and Mrs. Barnes must journey to the store, in a cab since mass transportation for the purpose is impossible; of course, cabfare on a retired widow's budget is intolerable, but . . . tough. On and On. Tough. Tough.

No one watches out for 74-year-old Roxie Barnes but 74-year-old Roxie Barnes. "I do," she said, "the best I can."

There is no argument that Roxie Barnes does her best, and that in general, while not as good as it should be, her best is passable. Yet the question is whether society should be content to just let her do the best she can. Simone de Beauvoir, in her book, "Coming of Age," writes: "By the way in which a society behaves towards its old people, it uncovers the mistakes and often carefully hidden truth about its real principles and aims . . . their unhappy fate proclaims the failures of our civilization."

The failures of our civilization toward the aged woman are undeniable. She endures much more than the aged man. Myrna Lewis, a Washington mental health specialist, says that old men may suffer from an image of rickety sanity, but old women have the added burden of being depicted as "hags, evil crones, scary old witches, and nasty hiddes of all sorts . . . The message comes across early in life that a woman is valuable in order to bear children and raise them, and perhaps to nurse father in his dotage, but after that it's clearly downhill all the way."

Over 65, then, the woman is looked upon, too often, as sexually unattractive, biologically obsolete, more or less suspicious driftwood. Aged widows have difficulties opening charge accounts, getting loans, securing employment: Myrna Lewis says that they even have hard times getting remarried; only about 16,000 a year wed because most men their age are either married or looking for younger wives, and because of the social stigma attached to the marriages of older women and younger men.

Given the realities of such discrimination, it's small wonder that older women do in great numbers turn inward and more or less fulfill society's concept of them. They drop out, turn to religion, become moody, search increasingly for affection or objects (such as pets) to baby and fuss. Edna St. Vincent Millay characterized their plight years ago when she wrote: "Life must go on — I forget just why."

Can anything be done? Absolutely, says French writer de Beauvoir: The solution is for society to allow and encourage each old person, man or woman, "to go on unslung ends that give their lives meaning." No small task, naturally. How, for instance, to give meaning to Roxie Barnes' life? A lovely woman, she nonetheless represents many like her who succumb to pride and dignity by admitting to no need. Lonely? Not her.

"Every now and then," she says, listening to her broken TV, "every now and then people from the church stop by to chat."

Really, it was on Dick Cavett's show

They said it on "The Dick Cavett Show" (which airs on the ABC Television Network series "ABC Wide World of Entertainment" every fourth week):

Comedian Alan King, recalling his early career as a film actor, said, "Three years in Hollywood and all I have to show for it is a raincoat that once belonged to Dane Clark."

Former New York Congressman Emanuel Celler, 84, told of an incident in his youth when Lady Astor, then a temperance leader, addressed a crowd of men and said, "I'd rather commit adultery than drink a glass of beer!" The men yelled back, "according to Celler, 'Who wouldn't.'"

Dick Cavett offered an explanation of why chess champion Bobby Fischer remained a bachelor: "What girl wants to date a fella who takes two hours to make a move?"

Bob Hope said he emigrated with his family to America from England as an infant "with very little chance to become king."

Responding to a loud and long greeting from the studio audience, Dick Cavett said, "As the bikini said to Rnquel Welch, all that for little me?"

Joseph Mankiewicz, the motion picture writer and director, recalling the strict moral limitations of films of an earlier era, said, "When men sat on a woman's bed it was like shooting pool — one foot had to be on the floor." There was one room in a home that was never shown, he added. "Until well into the 1950s; the rest of the world was convinced there were no toilets in America."

A member of the studio audience asked Dick Cavett, "Where's a good place to eat?" and he replied, "Ohio. That's where all the truck drivers go."

CBS-TV Network nails down films

The CBS Television Network has completed negotiations for the multi-million-dollar purchase of a group of outstanding feature films from 20th Century-Fox and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, it was announced today.

Among the top titles in the group are "The French Connection," which won an Academy Award for best picture of the year (1971) and for its star, Gene Hackman; "Tora, Tora, Tora," starring Jason Robards; "Hello, Dolly!," starring Barbara Streisand and Walter Matthau; "Ryan's Daughter," starring Robert Mitchum and Sarah Miles and "The Wild Rovers," with William Holden and Ryan O'Neal.

Some of the films will be scheduled during the 1962-74 season, others on dates to be announced.

In addition to "Ryan's Daughter," and "The Wild Rovers," other titles in this MGM list include: "Kansas City Bomber," starring Raquel Welch; "The Boy Friend," starring Twiggy; "The Carey Treatment," starring James Coburn, and "The Last Run," starring George C. Scott.

"The highly successful series of 'Planet of the Apes' feature films is included in the contrast with 20th Century-Fox.

The Network said that in addition to the previously purchased "Planet of the Apes" and "Beneath the Planet of the Apes," it also had acquired "Escape From the Planet of the Apes," "Conquest of the Planet of the Apes" and a new "Apes" film currently in production, making a total of five of these popular features.

Others in the 20th Century-Fox group, in addition to "The French Connection," "Tora, Tora, Tora" and "Hello, Dolly!," are "The Hot Rock," starring Robert Redford and George Segal; "The Great White Hope," with James Earl Jones re-creating his award-winning stage portrayal of boxer Jack Johnson, and "Made for Each Other" with Renee Taylor and Joseph Bologna.

The Network emphasized that this was only a partial list of titles included in the dual agreements, with additional films to be announced later.

The Cover Channels

How about it? Be My Valentine? That's the age-old question — although it has not been asked in the United States for as many years as you might think.

But the giving of a Valentine is a wonderful thing. It doesn't have to be something expensive — just something thoughtful.

Like, for instance, the Valentine on today's cover of "Idaho." It is a free-hand sketch; not very artistic but nevertheless it is wonderful. Because it expresses the feeling of one person for another. Gus Kelker was the artist — but the sketch was completed years ago.

Like we said — Be My Valentine?

Duke Ellington

HE MADE HIS first professional appearance as a jazz artist back in 1916 and went on to become world renowned as an orchestra leader, composer and pianist. He guests on the special "Duke Ellington . . . We Love You Madly" on CBS tonight (Sunday).

Duke Ellington is tonight's guest in special show

Duke Ellington, whose name has been synonymous with jazz music for more than half a century, has an aversion to one particular word in the language of American music — the word jazz.

"I don't like it because it conjures up a category, and I just don't believe in categories," explains the legendary composer, pianist and orchestra leader who will be honored for his enduring musicianship on "Duke Ellington . . . We Love You Madly," star-filled 90-minute special to be broadcast on the CBS Television Network tonight.

"There are too many things crammed into that word," said the Duke. Buddy Rich plays jazz. Miles Davis plays jazz. Guy Lombardo plays jazz. Stan Kenton plays jazz — all separate personalities who don't fit under one banner. You can't pigeonhole music. My own music is a highly personalized thing.

The Duke's "highly personalizing thing" began publicly in 1916 when he made his first professional appearance as a jazz artist, and it has reigned since 1927 when he played at the old Cotton Club in New York's Harlem. Musical tastes have changed and bands have come and gone while Ellington has continued to please concert audiences, nightclub patrons and record buffs throughout the world. Much of his career in latter years has involved playing dates with a small combo of star sidemen, most of whom have been with him since the start.

Many of these musicians are with him on the special, along with other old friends and associates of long-standing.

With all the great things he has said with music, Ellington notes: "The biggest thing I do in music is listen. While I'm playing I also listen ahead to what I will be playing in the next bar, or the one after that, or maybe a dozen bars ahead.

If you're trying to play good jazz the still uses the word, even if he doesn't like it, you've got to have a plan of what's going to happen next. Haphazard adlibbing is no good. There has to be intent — jazz is like an act or murder — you play with intent to commit something. So you listen all the time."

Driver charged in TV drama

Camp owner Guy Nolan is charged with manslaughter as driver of a bus involved in an accident that caused a child's death on the ABC Television Network's "Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law" Wednesday, Feb. 14 (9-10 p.m., MST)

In "They've Got to Blame Somebody," Nolan claims the camp bus was forced over the edge of a ravine by a motorcycle careening towards it in the rainy darkness. After Cameron Hurker, the dead child's father, hires a private accident investigator, Owen Marshall is informed that his client, Nolan's, alcohol-soaked jacked was found on the bus, that witnesses saw Nolan in a drunken brawl before the accident - and that there was no motorcycle.

Arthur Hill stars as Owen Marshall and Lee Majors as Jess Brandon. Joan Darling co-stars as Frieda Krause and Christine Matchett as Melissa Marshall. Don Stroud guest-stars as Guy Nolan, Leslie Carlson as Eddie Nolan.

Cong. Hansen featured in teachers TV guide

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Congressman Orval Hansen of Idaho has been selected by TEACHERS GUIDES TO TELEVISION as one of 17

Congressmen and Senators to speak directly to young people about how they went about preparing for a career in public service.

The self-portraits by powerful and articulate legislators are distinguished by a rare candor and comprehensiveness. The series seeks to stay true to the traditions of oral history and, by valuing the uniqueness of each man, help young people to value their own uniqueness, and discover the potential contributions they might make.

A unique feature of the Guides, photographs of almost all of the legislators as children, helps students relate more closely to the political figures as people. Congressman Hansen is seen as a member of the Idaho Falls High School Boxing Team and as State President of the Future Farmers of America.

The Congressman points to his early years on the farm as "a great help by way of preparation for responsibility." "At the time," Congressman Hansen says, "I thought it was a kind of hard life. All the others who were my age were able to participate more in school activities. Until my senior year in high school, for example, I couldn't play football. I did some boxing for three years, but that was during the winter and didn't involve the same demands on the farm as far as field work. I'm sure I felt then that I was missing out on things.

"I've long since felt it was a great blessing — that I was an advantaged child. I'd had experience in having to accept responsibility, to think for myself, to work hard — and many do not have that opportunity now."

Congressman Hansen cites his early years in the Future Farmers of America as "a very valuable leadership training experience," stating, "I learned to overcome obstacles working on Future Farmer projects, striving to show I could build from a smaller start to a larger operation. This was one of my first opportunities for associations outside our immediate community and my horizons were broadened by the many new friends I made."

Congressman Hansen won a statewide public speaking contest in his freshman year as a Future Farmer, then won a corrogator for the family farm when he received the Idaho State Farm award.

He was elected chapter president during his junior and senior years in high school, and became state president during his freshman year at college. During his sophomore year he received the American Farmer Degree, the highest degree the national organization can award.

"My Future Farmer experience not only provided a very, strong stimulus to achievement," the Congressman points out, "but taught me a great deal about leadership. I learned to understand other people as individuals, to appreciate their goals and aspirations, to deal with them as human beings. It taught me a lot about myself as well, that I had an ability to organize, to accept responsibility, to work hard and get things done.

"I am responsible now for 365,000 constituents, and I feel that obligation very strongly.

Those early years working on the farm were a great help by way of preparation for accepting responsibility."

Also appearing in TEACHERS GUIDES TO TELEVISION is an interview with Debbie Johnson of Idaho, who served as a Congressional intern in Congressman Hansen's office last summer. Debbie is a student at the University of Idaho.

TEACHERS GUIDES TO TELEVISION is designed to allow teachers to use the excitement of television to motivate classroom lessons. Thirteen or more programs of outstanding educational value on ABC, CBS and NBC are chosen each semester.

Money is money

Valentines are not like they used to be — pricewise, that is.

The idea of this "spread" just before Valentine's Day was to give you some idea of what is available over the counter so far as cards are concerned. Really, we were forced to somewhat limit our exhibits.

Why? The cards have gone up in price. Where, 10 or 15 years ago, you could get a real nice card for, say, 15 cents or the like, today you will shell out 35 to 50 cents — and sometimes more.

So in making the selections for presentation on this special page, we were limited not by the variety of cards available but by the amount of spare money in pocket.

But what you see will give you some idea that Valentine's Day, which has been observed, in these many years, is still being observed.

We hesitate to come right out and say the day of the penny valentine card is long gone — but if we do then there will be someone to challenge us.

So we will just say — we didn't see any.

Valentine history

Did you know there might have been two St. Valentines?

And did you know that if there were, two fellows they both suffered the same fate? They were beheaded.

Historians disagree — as they many times do — who the real and original St. Valentine really was. We will just throw in a few ideas so you can rattle them around in your mind and make your own decisions.

To start, we would point out that one St. Valentine was a Priest who lived in Rome during the 200's under Emperor Claudius II. The Romans jailed him for aiding persecuted Christians.

People believe he cured his jailkeeper's daughter of blindness. But, about A.D. 270, they beheaded him on Palatine Hill at the site of the ancient altar to Juno. Years later a gate in Rome was named Porto Valentin after St. Valentine. The name was later changed to Porto del Popolo. St. Valentine's remains are buried in the church of St. Praxedes in Rome.

The second St. Valentine — or the other one if you prefer it that way — was Bishop of Terni about 60 miles from Rome. One source of history teaches he was persecuted for converting a Roman family to Christianity. He, too, was beheaded. The event took place in Rome about A.D. 273.

What about the early celebrations of Valentine's Day?

John Brand, a popular historian of the time, published a book in 1877 in which he said people of England observed the holiday as early as 1446.

In those days, young couples choose their valentines by writing names on slips of paper, then drawing them by chance from a vase. This custom was actually carried out the evening prior to Valentine's Day.

After drawing the slips of paper, the participating young men wore the paper — with the name of the girl — on his sleeve. Probably this is where the "he wears his heart on his sleeve" remark came from.

The Valentine parties way back then were "high society" events and much money could be spent on gifts. But this custom gradually faded and the less expensive one of sending a card came to life.

In the United States Valentine's Day did not appear until the 1800's. In fact, it was not much noted at all until the Civil War. At that time, many of the Valentines were hand-painted.

Cupid and the arrow were standard. A pierced heart was a "must."

Down the years, Valentines have been very ornate. Lace, mother-of-pearl and sea shells were used in the designs. Even then, some cost as much as $10 and proved to be a major gift.

It's a custom

The celebration of Valentine's Day in various parts of the world is varied. Some parts, of course, never heard of the custom, so we will stick to a discussion of areas where the custom is observed.

THE UNITED STATES: Much of the Valentine custom today centers in the first few grades of school. Exchange of Valentines is common. Usually, everyone in the room gets Valentines. They are put into a large box — usually made by the youngsters — when the day starts and then, at close of school, the box is opened and the Valentines distributed. "Guess Who" Valentines, sent through the mail, stuck under a door or in a book, are still popular. Up to a point, the older you are the more the Valentine tradition will cost you. Probably the most popular way of observing the gift letting is by means of a box of candy. Then, too, parties are held. Probably in this country more people receive Valentines than receive gifts at Christmas.

GREAT BRITAIN: In England and related nations the children sing songs written for the special day and also receive gifts of money, fruit or candy. In some areas the housewife bakes Valentine Day buns.

ITALY: Usually a feast is held on Valentine's Day. In some smaller towns, young girls will get up early and take a position by an open window. The first man who passes her window will be the one she will marry — or at least someone who might look like him — within a year.

DENMARK: Joking letters or pressed snowdrop flowers are sent to special friends on Valentine's Day. Young men sending cards to young women do not sign their name. They write a verse in rhyme and his name is in code — a series of dots. If the young lady of his dreams guesses who sent the card, she receives a gift.

Over the the world, where observed, the Valentine Day custom nearly always centers around romance and the choice of a mate.

Tomatoes: The oranges of the garden

By GEORGE ABRAHAM
Tomatoes — Called "Oranges of the Garden" — are our most popular vegetable. So delicious is the fruit that it's the No. 1 item of rooftop farmers in New York City. Its growth in apartments, in suburban or country places, and in vacation-home gardens. Even for folks who have "no space for plants," a few tomatoes grown in a pot or against a sunny wall or fence is always a must.

What's so special about this member of the deadly Nightshade family? In the first place, it's high in Vitamin C, making it a good health food. Also it can be used in so many ways to pep up jaded appetites.

The tomato was cultivated by the Indians from Mexico to Peru before the Spanish conquest, but the development of modern varieties didn't start until some time after the Civil War.

For varieties, we suggest you put in a few early, midseason and a few late types. Any one living in an area where frosts come early should use early varieties.

Many home gardeners buy started plants, either "potted" or in small market packs — 15 for a "dozen," all of one variety. Since there is no single tomato that works well in everyone's garden, we like to see you grow three or four different varieties.

To do this you can start your own plants, a rather simple job since today's new materials and techniques make it possible to grow your own husky transplants indoors.

Most garden stores sell

excellent germinating and growing materials which take the place of soil scooped up in the garden. The new materials are soilless mixes containing vermiculite, peatmoss, plant nutrients added, and are sold under a variety of names such as Jiffy-Mix, Pro-Mix, Redi-Earth, etc. If you want quality in a tomato, grow your own.

ASPARAGUS FERNS: Asparagus sprengeri is a drooping plant with needle-like, yellow-green leaves and stems that twine. After small white blooms appear you get red berries. Grow in bright window in winter, partial shade in summer. Keep soil moist but not soggy. Shedding of needles is due to dry, soil, hot temperature and poor light. The fin-leaved asparagus, A. plumosus has blue-green foliage also with twining stems. Neither asparagus is a fern, but both get the same culture just mentioned. Night temperature should not be below 60 degrees as it causes foliage to turn yellow.

NOTE: We are making a collection of methods for fighting diseases and insects by organic means. Will readers who use organic sprays of garlic, chives, etc., for controlling insects send your ideas along so we can mention them for the benefit of people who use the organic approach.

FREEZING TOMATOES: Here's a tip to keep in mind this fall: A reader writes:

"My freezers are full of quart and pint jars of tomatoes. I remove the skins from some fine specimen, and place them on a cookie sheet. Put in a freezer to 'flash' freeze. When well frozen I filled large plastic bags and return them to the freezer. I use them for salads this way. It is necessary to remove them a day ahead, place in a bowl where much of the water runs out. This can be used to drink or in soup but the whole (shrunk) tomato can be placed on a bed of lettuce, covered with favorite dressing and the flavor is superior to that of the store tomatoes. I have a juicer and when the tomatoes come in too fast near the end of the season, I run quantities through the juicer and have the most beautiful tomato juice you ever tasted.

"I also removed the skins by dipping in boiling water and cutting them up into quart and pint jars, then pouring the puree over the pieces. We are on a salt-free diet and find we are most happier to be able to use our own Tomato Juice."

HOME GROWN CITRUS PLANTS: If you plant seeds from oranges or grapefruit or lemon, will the plants ever flower or bear? Yes, they will flower and some will bear, but the fruit will be "wild" or very sour. If you want plants that bear edible fruits, buy the grafted or bud-tee types sold by nurseries.

WOULD YOU BELIEVE IT? A reader writes "Did you know that a cranberry poultice is excellent cure for a person who has a cystitis?"

GREEN THUMB Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK. D. E. of Twin Falls: "We have a flower bed that gets half a day of shade, so we wish to plant a lot of coleus but they are too expensive to buy. Please tell us how we can start our own seed, as we never have good luck with them."

First, you picked a good plant for the shaded spot — coleus. Keep in mind that coleus seed is so tiny a small amount can be scattered on a soilless mix such as Jiffy-Mix, Pro-Mix or Redi-

Earth, found in any garden store. More and more greenhouse operators are resorting to these soilless mixes for starting seed because they are sterile and preventing damping-off disease.

No need to cover seed after sowing. In fact, most growers do not cover fine seeds. Syringe the seed and soilless mix and cover with plastic sheet. Maintain a temperature of 75 degrees or even 80 degrees, never less for best germination.

If you turn your thermostat down at night in the home the seed will be around 65 or so, and this is not enough for good sprouting. Maintain an honest 75 degree temperature where the seed is. Takes a couple weeks for coleus to show tiny all-green leaves — a show up. Don't be disappointed when you see that the leaves are "all-green." Locked in the coleus computer are hundreds of amazingly different color and pattern designs which start showing with the second pair of leaves, rich salmon, bright rose, velvety crimson and glowing shades interlaced or edged with green.

B. G. of Hailey: "Please tell us what causes molds to appear on the soil of our house plants. It's even on the outside of our clay pots."

No need to panic when you find mold on your house plant pots or the soil. These green, white or yellow molds are harmless. They grow on organic matter in the soil or container. In a good potting soil you may have manure, straw or leaf mold which helps the growth of the plants and these are non-harmful fungi. Many gardeners use ground corn cobs, peanut hulls, peatmoss, sawdust or other plant material as a mulch or amendment in seed beds or cold frames. These too support mold growth. Mold indicates that you have organic matter in the soil, and that's not bad. If the mold is unsightly, take the tines of a fork and loosen up the soil to let air in and the mold will go.

Jimmy Caan, Montana's famed rodeo rider, now in movies

The secret is out. Daredevil rodeo rider Jimmy Caan of Columbia Falls, Montana, who has thrilled fans at Las Vegas, Los Angeles' Forum and numerous other big western professional rodeos is also James Caan, one of Hollywood's brightest and most acclaimed young stars.

Caan, who specializes in rodeo team relay contests along with his stuntman-friend Jimmy Nickerson, is a registered professional rodeo competitor. He was good enough to be accepted over a year ago in the Hollywood Cowboy Association so that he can enter any professional contest.

The talented actor, currently starring with Peter Boyle, Sally Kellerman and Louise Lasser in Metro-Goldwyn's "Myer's Slicer," started to use the Montana identification after surviving a barrage of "Hollywood cowboy" wisecracks when he made his professional debut last year in the Las Vegas Rodeo using his correct residence credit. He therupon decided to borrow a Montana friend's hometown to avoid movie star prejudice, either pro or con.

Caan, who grew up in New York City, always loved horses, riding and rodeos as a youngster. His involvement in rodeo riding started when he met a Nevada rancher who taught him the intricacies of "bulldogging," "steer wrestling" and the other specialized roping techniques used by rodeo contestants.

He became so proficient in these techniques that he bought his own horse which he keeps at a Sycinar ranch not far from his Beverly Hills home. Caan is most expert at team roping, a two-man event in which he works together with stuntman Jimmy Nickerson whom he met while the latter was doubling for him in "Slicer."

Team roping calls for Caan and Nickerson to ride together and jointly rope and pin down a charging steer. The two riders try to tie the front and rear legs of the steer to down the animal in a race against the clock.

During the Northern California location schedule of "Slicer," Caan and Nickerson encountered three county fair rodeos but were able to compete in only one, the San Luis Obispo Rodeo at Los Robles. Two others, at Santa Rosa and Sonoma, were strictly amateur events from which professionals were barred. Caan has finished as high as second place in such top rodeos as those at Las Vegas, the Los Angeles Forum and others in Arizona and New Mexico.

His present big ambition, rodeo-wise, is to compete in the annual championships before his old friends in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Back 35 years ago

(Editor's note: The items for this column were taken from issues of the Twin Falls News early in the year of 1938 — 35 years ago).

Protests were mounting upon protests as lines were drawn to stop proposals calling for construction of a $12 million, 499 feet high dam, near Bliss. The dam would have been the highest of its type in the world and would have formed an artificial lake 54 square miles in area.

Ray J. Lyman, engineer in charge of the proposed 700,000-acre $12 million Bruneau reclamation project, told Hagerman residents that $250,000 was available to start on engineering work. He said that the "only thing" holding up the project was a preliminary permit to use existing Snake River waters.

He said it would store for arid lands in Elmore, Owyhee, Ada and Twin Falls counties.

Those against the move pointed out it would cover the entire valley, including the town of Hagerman, and that $10 million in property would be lost, not including five power plants then in operation.

With those against saying the power plants producing 70,660 horsepower of energy would be lost, Lyman said power development at the damsite would come to 137,423 horsepower.

The "few thousand" acres of land under cultivation in Hagerman valley would be increased to many more thousand acres in other areas. He said the project was feasible and could be financed.

The Page One humor column of the Twin Falls News in 1938 was written by Bob Burns, nationally known humorist.

John M. Maxwell, who came to Twin Falls when the tract opened in 1904 and who was one of the founders of the First National Bank, was buried early in January. Services were held at the Episcopal Church with many friends standing outside the church because there was no room inside. He died after a four-day illness of pneumonia. Burial was in the Twin Falls cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers were Burton E. Morse, E. O. Spielberg, S. H. Kayler, Peter Link, George F. Sprague and A. B. Colwell.

Active pallbearers were J. H. Seaver, John W. Graham, Asher B. Wilson, Stuart H. Taylor, J. G. Bradley and Hadley Potee.

Frank J. Smith, clerk of the district court, and Miss Lora Roberts, deputy recorder, reported there were more marriages in Twin Falls county during 1937 than divorces. Marriages totaled 415, an increase of 115 over the 1937 total, while divorces totaled 123, an increase over the 1937 count of 22.

Legal action to close three beer parlors, two in Twin Falls and one in Buhl, was taken in district court by Edward Babcock, prosecuting attorney for Twin Falls county. Action was directed against the following defendants:

Harry Snoderly and Charles Inderwies, asserted operators of the Bavarian Beer Garden in Buhl, and Maud Waldrigger, owner of the property.

G. C. Bell and John E. Leiser, asserted operators of the National Beer Parlor, Second Street-East, Twin Falls, and L. M. Jain, owner of the property.

Owen Buchanan, asserted operator of Buchanan's, Second Street East, Twin Falls, and H. A. Brizee, owner of the property.

Flann tribute was paid Dr. D. L. Alexander, prominent Twin Falls physician, as friends crowded the Presbyterian Church in mid-January. A guard of honor, composed of members of the Legion and of Co. E, 16th Engineers, maintained a watch over the casket. Burial was in the Twin Falls Cemetery.

Soloist at the services was Wilton Peck and Mrs. J. A. Dygert accompanied him and also played the organ.

Active pallbearers were Dr. George C. Halley, Charles C. Kingsbury, Dr. H. L. Stoves, W. Orr Chapman, Dr. G. F. Parkinson and Dr. William Passer, all Twin Falls; Dr. L. M. Kelly and Dr. Charles Terhune, both of Burley.

Honorary pallbearers were Dr. F. F. McAtee, Everett M. Sweeley, Dr. J. F. Coughlin, Dr. C. A. Emes, Kyle Hunt, Homer Saxon, Dr. J. N. Davis, all Twin Falls, and Dr. E. L. Simonton, Wendell.

City councilmen approved appointment of W. S. Hill to serve on the city library board for another three years. Other members of the board are Mrs. John E. Hayes, Mrs. Ralph Link, Mrs. H. E. Daiss and J. G. Bradley. A monthly report by Miss Jessie Frazier, librarian, showed 12,460 books were drawn for the month of December, 1937. A total of $21.39 was taken in fines.

The fourth annual meeting of the Southern Idaho Production Credit Association was held in Twin Falls. Association members and guests were given a free lunch. Business of the year was reviewed by C. G. Haynie, secretary-treasurer. Meeting place was the American Legion Hall.

An advertisement announced that a Priest's discovery in Seattle will bring back hair to bald heads. Profits would be donated to charity.

Officers of the Royal Neighbors of America, Twin Falls Camp, were installed during a meeting in Buhl. Camps from Buhl, Hansen and Gooding participated. Officers installed for the Twin Falls Camp included Mrs. Genevieve Hollenbeck, oracle; Mrs. Mabel Young, vice-oracle; Mrs. Myrtle Anderson, recorder; Mrs. Dorothy Putzier, staff captain, and Mrs. Anna Winans, faith.

Members of the Hansen Grange held a special meeting so members could become involved in remodeling the new hall, purchased from a private citizen.

Plane accidents were very much in the news. A 21-ton Pan-Am clipper, the Samoan Clipper, had disappeared in the Pacific with a crew of seven aboard and a Northwest Airlines plane which went down near Bozeman, Mont., resulted in death for 10.

Four veteran members were re-elected to the board of the Twin Falls Canal Co. with overwhelming majorities. They were Peter Link, N. V. Sharp, Joe Cordes and W. R. Hatfield.

"Ten Commandments" ready for showing over ABC-TV

"The Ten Commandments," C.B. DeMille's massive film spectacle of the story of Moses and the Exodus from Egypt — one of the most popular box-office movies of all time — comes to television for the first time as an ABC Special Motion Picture Presentation on the ABC Television Network Sunday evening, Feb. 18, filling the prime-time hours.

Charlton Heston stars as Moses in this biblical epic. The all-star cast includes Yul Brynner as Pharaoh, Anne Baxter as Queen Nefretiti, Edward G. Robinson as Overseer of the Slaves and Yvonne De Carlo as Moses' wife.

Others starred in the cast of more than 25,000 include Debra Paget, John Derek, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Nina Foch, Martha Scott, Judith Anderson and Vincent Price.

The screenplay, more voluminous than many major novels, is based on the study of the King James and Douay versions of the Holy Scriptures, and the Pentateuch and Hagiographs, edited by the Chief Rabbi of the British Empire. The Koran, the Midrash, the Mishnah and the works of Philo, Josephus and Eusebius were searched to fill in the 30-year period of Moses' life that is omitted in the book of Exodus.

Filmed on location in Egypt, the film traces the story of Moses from the time his mother set him afloat on the Nile, through his years as a young general in the Pharaoh's army, to his betrayal and exile and, finally, his deliverance of the Israelites and his receiving God's commandments.

The dramatization of Moses' life presents such spectacular sequences as the plague, the building of an Egyptian treasure city, the parting of the Red Sea, the burning bush, and the reception of the Ten Commandments on Mount Sinai.

The fearsome spectacle of the army engulfed by towering walls of raging water was made possible by the technical virtuosity of Academy Award winner John F. Fulton, one of Hollywood's most gifted special effects geniuses.

Location shooting began on Oct. 14, 1954, in Egypt, and followed the path of Moses across the Red Sea, the wildernesses of Shur and of Sin, to the top of the mount in the Sinai range where Moses received God's laws. Months of production in Hollywood extended well into 1956.

After its original showing in 1957, "The Ten Commandments" was released to theatres again in 1966, several years after the death of producer-director Cecil B. DeMille.

The cast includes: Moses, Charlton Heston; Ramesses, Yul Brynner; Nefretiti, Anne Baxter; Dathan, Edward G. Robinson; Sephora, Yvonne De Carlo; Lila, Debra Paget; Mushua, John Derek; Sethi, Sir Cedric Hardwicke; Bithiah, Nina Foch; Yochabel, Martha Scott; Memnet, Judith Anderson; Baka, Vincent Price.

The screenplay was written by Aeneas MacKenzie, Jesse L. Lasky Jr., Jack Garris and Frederic M. Frank, with a musical score by Elmer Bern-

drop dead!

That's what they want you to do, old man. They're tired of you. They haven't got room for you any more. You eat too much. Your clothes are too expensive. And you bore them with your stupid stories of Indians, Wars and "the good old days". They've forgotten that once you sheltered and fed and clothed them. Forgotten that once they begged you for your stories and sat on your knee while you told them. Now they've shunted you off, or graciously allowed you to live in your own house, even though climbing taxes and living costs eat up more and more of your pension. Now they, and society, too, ignore all the knowledge and experience you gained during your productive years. They've robbed you of your pride, your dignity, your sense of worth. But don't worry, old man. Things have a way of evening up. They'll get theirs, too. When they grow old.

If you're disturbed by what you've just read, do something about it. Get in touch with the organizations that are dedicated to improving the quality of life for our senior citizens. Tell them that you're deeply concerned, and that you'd like to help. Oh, if that's too much to ask, just show a bit more kindness and pay a bit more attention to the old folks that you know. The example you set for your children may someday make a difference for you.

Everyone grows old. Even you.

Walt Frazier is one cool player

Walt Frazier walks into the dressing room after a game, drapes a towel over his knees to keep warm and waits on a stool for the interviews. He has played over 40 minutes of pressure basketball in the crowded arena but is hardly sweating. He is cool in every respect.

He handles the questions with the same ease with which he plays basketball. Reporters gravitate to him much the same way the ball and action do. It is a magnetism that sometimes has him shaking his head in disbelief over what has happened in six short years.

"I'm a millionaire," says the All-Star guard of the New York Knickerbockers. He is more than that. He is a symbol of the opportunities that exist in professional basketball for someone with his family, looks and stature.

Six years ago he was getting around the campus at Southern Illinois on a bicycle. Today he rents two parking spaces at about $200 a month for this $20,000 Holls-Royce, a Silver Cloud III, vintage 1965. He parks it in the garage of the East Side apartment building where he has a penthouse featuring a mink spread on his round bed and wall-to-wall money.

He is one of the beneficiaries of the pro basketball excitement that has been generated in recent years, especially in New York. He was drafted by the Knicks as their No. 1 choice in 1967 while he still had a year's eligibility at Southern Illinois. He had sat out a year because of academic problems. The Knicks got him when at least one other team decided it could not afford to pay him enough to induce him to leave college.

"I'm lucky," says Frazier as he looks back. Lucky that other team did not get him. Lucky he signed with the Knicks and became part of the New York scene. He started in New York at a time when the Knicks were in a rebuilding process and wound up being in the right place at the right time.

He began as a $30,000

ballplayer and now is operating under a contract for almost a million dollars over four seasons.

Things have happened so swiftly in his life he sometimes cannot comprehend it himself. The recognition has been incredible, the excitement unbelievable. He has been voted to the top 10 best dressed list because of a wardrobe that includes such little items as an elephant coat and a mink coat. He has been named one of the 10 sexiest athletes because "Women tell me I have pretty legs."

He has to sneak out of the Garden after a game to get to the restaurant where the players and friends gather for a beer and conversation. The kids wait him out, anyway, and mob him when he finally departs to climb into his Hells for the drive across town to his apartment. He stands in the cold and signs autographs until everyone is accommodated and then leaves.

Four years in a row in the All-Star game. Every year a member of the all-defensive team. Compared to Oscar Robertson when he started, other young players are compared to him.

It was an endless stream of flag-draped caskets

By RONALD G. BURNS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Carl Merkin was a soldier who never saw a jungle, never fired a gun in anger, never felt the pain of a bullet. But Merkin, who played the flute at some 200 funerals for American soldiers killed in Vietnam, bears his own painful wartime memories.

"It was an endless stream of flag-draped caskets," he said recently.

Merkin, 26, wound up an Army flutist by accident six years ago shortly after being drafted out of college in September, 1966, when a record 45,000 men were called up.

He noted that a three-year enlistment normally is required for entry into military bands, and added:

"I had just finished my basic training and guys all around me were being sent to various jungles. The next thing I knew, somebody called me into his office and said, 'I understand you play the flute. Where would you like to be stationed?'"

"I didn't even know they knew I played the flute," said Merkin. "Later, I realized it must have been an answer to some dumb question about hobbies that I had put down on one of their zillions of forms. I never thought it would mean anything, but as it turned out flute players were in demand all over the world and it probably saved my life."

A native of the South Bronx, Merkin asked to be stationed in New York City and ended up at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., 30 miles away. For the next 21 months, he spent most nights at home and days traveling through New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania "playing funerals" two or three times a week.

He recalled them vividly.

"We'd march the honorary firing squad on, then off, then the same with the bugler and the casket. There must be an unwritten Army band rule someplace that says 'if anything moves, you will play something from John Philip Sousa.'"

He remembered that after each ceremony, a sergeant would fold up the flag on the coffin and hand it to the next of kin. "Sometimes the parents would refuse to take it and walk away. Other times, I saw widows and mothers fighting over it."

Merkin, currently a freelance photographer, also plays the clarinet, oboe, saxophone, piccolo and bassoon. He said he "couldn't even look at any of my instruments" for three years after leaving the Army in 1968. Even now, his flute lies caked with dust on a closet-shelf in his Greenwich Village apartment.

For all that, he recalled lighter moments, including occasional drives from Ft. Monmouth to nearby Asbury Park for long lunches, girl-watching and a couple of hours on the beach. He also remembered frequent drug abuse among most of the band members, and recalled that when one of them was arrested for selling pot, the group was nicknamed "The Marijuana Brass."

"There were a few redeeming factors," he said, "but only a few. For the most part, it was very grim."

He said the thing that "got to me the most" was a speech read at funerals whenever any medals were awarded posthumously. "It was the same speech every time. They would just fill in the blanks depending on the guy's name and the medals he got. It went:

"(Blank) — is awarded the (blank) — by the President of the United States for wounds received in conjunction with action against a hostile enemy force in support of the counter-insurgency effort in the Republic of Vietnam."

"They would read it over a loudspeaker and it would echo over the parade ground or cemetery. Its echoes are still with me and I suppose they will be for a long time to come."

Believe in Ghosts 37,000 feet up? The spirits win!

There should be an extra dimension of reality in the terrifying supernatural drama, "The Horror at 37,000 Feet" on "The New CBS Tuesday Night Movies" Tuesday, Feb. 13 on the CBS Television Network.

It's about a deadly spirit that invades a giant 747 jetliner, spreading havoc among the passengers.

And a poll of the actors on whether they believe in ghosts resulted in a lopsided victory for the spirit world: Yes — 8, No — 1.

The lone holdout, perhaps appropriately, was Chuck Connors who plays the captain of the plane, a man trying to cope with a force beyond his comprehension.

"I believe only in what I can see and touch," said Connors firmly. "Ghosts aren't for me."

But he found no support among the others stars.

Buddy Ebsen, playing a hard-headed businessman, remarked: "I never used to believe in ghosts but as I get older, I believe in them more and more. It's especially strong whenever I'm in an old theater or a movie sound stage. I feel the ghosts of all the actors who used to work there."

Most of the cast members agreed they believe in some kind of power outside themselves. But I don't know if it's right to call that believing in ghosts," said Lyn Loring, who plays a wandering hippie.

Her real-life husband, Roy Thinnes, portrays the man responsible for all the trouble as an architect who uproots a ghost from the ancestral home of his British wife, played by Jane Merrow.

"There's something out there," said Thinnes. "You have to believe that when, as most people do, you have personal experience involving extrasensory perception."

Miss Merrow noted the rich history of ghosts in England and said, "It must be because our houses are so old and our background so violent. I don't know if ghosts will ever exist in modern tract houses."

Will Hutchins, playing a cowboy-movie star, studies metaphysics and has tried astral projection in his personal search for knowledge of the unknown.

"It's horror of the unknown that makes ghosts so frightening," he said. "I think one reason horror stories and spooky movies are so popular is that they try to make us understand something about the mystery beyond the evidence of our senses."

Tammy Grimes agreed she wouldn't write off ghosts just because she doesn't understand them.

"I play a British heritage type who objects to moving the priceless abbey to America, thus unsettling its resident ghost. I'm convinced there's a very real spirit world that we can never comprehend."

Paul Winfield, who plays an East Indian doctor, has EIGHT PRINCIPAL players are involved in action and excitement when an air shipment of old English abbey sets off a terrifying invasion of a giant 747 jetliner by a ghostly and evil power in "The Horror at 37,000 Feet," color presentation on the new CBS Tuesday night movie, Tuesday, Feb. 13. attended seances "although nothing happened" and is a fan of horror films. France Nuyen, portraying a high fashion model, wasn't sure she believed in ghosts as such but does believe there are spirits of good and evil.

William Shatner has the role of a despairing defrocked priest with some knowledge of demonic forces. Said he: "When you look at the immense library of writings about the supernatural, you have to believe there's some foundation in it. It may fill a basic human need to think our behavior is determined by things beyond our control."

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—It was August 5, 1964. Americans were reading news accounts of man's first (Ranger 7) soft-landing on the moon. Casey Stengel was leading his New York Mets to their third consecutive 10th-place finish in the National League. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee, was declining the support of the Ku Klux Klan but urging other followers to become "Freedom's Missionaries."

And somewhere over North Vietnam, a nation secret to most of the world, a 20-year-old naval lieutenant, Everett Alvarez Jr., became the first known U.S. prisoner in a war that few knew about, fewer cared about and virtually no one comprehended.

August 5, 1964.

Almost nine years ago.

Alvarez was the victim of what the New York Times then denounced as a "mad adventure by the North Vietnamese Communists." That nation had allegedly sent one of its PT boats to attack and strike a U.S. destroyer, the Maddox, in the Gulf of Tonkin. The American military retaliated with a then unprecedented wave of airstrikes over the enemy heartland. Lt. Alvarez, unluckily, was in one of the first waves.

"I was always good at geography," says the pilot's mother, Soledad Alvarez of Santa Clara, Calif., "but I didn't know where he was shot down. I knew about Indochina, but I didn't know Hanoi. In our family, we had to look at a map to tell where he was."

In the more than 100 months since his family first went to the maps, Alvarez, now a lieutenant commander, and middle-aged at 35, has become the longest confirmed

POW in the nation's history. (Another Vietnam pilot, Air Force Capt. Floyd Thompson, was shot down before Alvarez, in March of 1964, but his fate is not publicly known. Thompson's next of kin have asked Pentagon authorities not to release information on his status.) Now, with the American involvement in the war apparently ended, and agreements signed which may bring POWs home before the end of March, the nation, the Alvarez family and surely Alvarez himself must be concerned with a question: To what is he coming home?

In one obvious sense the prisoner Alvarez is still living in August of 1964, a time far different from today. U.S. military officers believe he has been allowed some information on the changed society by his captors, yet feel it would still be hard for the woman to imagine hippies, women's liberation and three-inch-heels on men's shoes."

One U.S. soldier who has already gone through the cultural shock of returning to the United States after long months of war captivity is Army Maj. James Rowe. He, a former Green Beret, was held by the Viet Cong for 62 months. He escaped upon returning to the United States he commented on attending his first X-rated movie: "Well, it really blew my mind."

Indeed, there were no X-rated movies in August of 1964. Not at the neighborhood theater anyway. It was a time—if memory serves of relative innocence. Lyndon Johnson was the president, Robert Kennedy the attorney general, Adlai Stevenson the U.N. Ambassador, Martin Luther King the Nobel winner for peace. All, now, are dead. Charles DeGaulle was reigning in France. Nikita Khrushchev had not yet been forced out of office in Moscow. Winston Churchill, 89, was taking his seat in Great Britain's House of Commons for the last time. All, now, are dead.

It was the era before Watts and Kent State. Spiro Agnew was teaching law school at night. Richard Nixon was getting practical experience in the same subject in New York. Americans tuned their TV's to Wagon Train, the Steve Allen Show, and, god, Petticoat Junction. Mary Poppins was big at the movies. Vassar-educated housewives were moonlighting over a novel called "The Group." There was, to be sure, some portent of things to come. Authorities were investigating the murder of three Civil Rights workers in Mississippi; late-summer race riots were taking place in some cities. Bill Vietnam's Yawn. Fewer than 16,000 Americans were there. The world was more interested in the wars in Africa. Remember Leopoldville?

Now, early 1973, Cmdr. Everett Alvarez apparently will return to what his mother calls "a whole new world." The sky isn't blue; the rivers are dirtier and you can't buy a soft drink for a dime. Free sex, abortion on demand, legalize marijuana. Men have been to the moon, so often the trips have been canceled for lack-of-interest. Heart transplants, police strikes, women generals. A cheap, fat-lid named Charles Manson murders seven people and becomes a counterculture hero. Eighteen-year-old Valeriy Airline hijackings end the draft. Even Santa Clara is different, says Mrs. Alvarez. "It used to be all fruit orchards; now it's all development houses."

Mrs. Alvarez, too, has changed. "I'm nine years older, for one thing." And she believes nine years wiser. "I used to believe in the government. I was quiet and took things as they were. Like so many people. Now I know different. I never did like the Vietnam

Popular guests on Julie's show

Sandy Duncan guest-stars on the ABC Television Network's "The Julie Andrews Hour" on Saturday, Feb. 17, joining Julie in a bluesy song and dance number to lay at rest their "Good-bye" image.

Also guest-starring is singer Sergio Franchi and, on leave from "Sesame Street," the Muppets. Adding his unique impressions to the hour is regular Rich Little.

Highlighting the hour is a salute to Leo and a tribute to composer Jerome Kern.

Julie starts things rolling with "I'll Build a Stairway to Paradise," then joins the dancers in the horseshoe feature with the song "Speak Low" by Kurt Weill and Ogden Nash. Rich Little mimes Leo Alfred Hitchcock, followed by Rudy Vallee's "Kansas City Kitty" as done by Walter Brennan.

Another Leo, George Bernard Shaw, author of "Pygmalion" on which "My Fair Lady" is based, sparks Julie in song, followed by a medley from the musical including "I'm Getting Married in the Morning."

Sandy and Julie duet Otto Harbach's (father of coproducer William O. Harbach) "Every Little Movement Has a Meaning of Its Own."

The Muppets engage in banter with Julie then seven-foot Thog joins her in song, followed by Rowlf singing "Julie, Julie, Julie, Do You Love Me?"

From the opera "Samson and Delilah" Sergio and Julie blend voices on "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice." In a rousing finale, the entire cast sings (and dances) to the music of Jerome Kern including "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "Look for the Silver Lining," "Old Man River" and "A Fine Romance."

"The Julie Andrews Hour" which is produced by Nick Vanoff and William O. Harbach in cooperation with ITC, originates from ABC Television Center in Hollywood with Bill Davis as director.

Born in Boston

The first official mail system in the United States began in Boston in 1639. The general court of the Massachusetts Colony ruled that "all letters which are brought from beyond the seas, or are to be sent thither," should be left at the home of one Richard Fairbanks. Postmaster Fairbanks collected a penny for each letter he forwarded to its destination.

Before you give up, check all your talent options

A few years ago Rodney Carr-Smith was a lieutenant in the British Army, and hating every minute of it. A few years ago Sue Grafton was a Santa Barbara, California, housewife, and hating every minute of it.

By late 1971 both had burst out of those confines. Ms. Grafton was working as a part-time domestic to earn money for basic needs while devoting the rest of her time to writing. Carr-Smith was sleeping on Los Angeles park benches trying to sell Ms. Grafton's novel, "The Lolly Madonna War," to a motion picture studio.

By the summer of 1972, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer was filming "Lolly-Madonna on location near Knoxville, Tennessee, with Rod Steiger, Robert Ryan, Jeff Bridges and Scott Wilson in the starring roles. Rodney Carr-Smith was the producer and shared screenplay credit with Ms. Grafton.

"On balance," Ms. Grafton says wryly, "I prefer writing dialogue to cleaning other people's bathrooms. But working as a Photo attached: domestic is a good way to learn about people."

Ms. Grafton, a slender, attractive brunette, just turned 30, has written two published novels, "Keziah Dane" (1967) and "The Lolly Madonna War" (1969).

Fortunately, a copy of the latter ended up in the hands of Rodney Carr-Smith, a rebellious and ambitious young newcomer to the motion picture profession.

Carr-Smith, upon graduation from Sandhurst, England's West Point, was commissioned in the regular British Army. He resigned the Queen's service after three years, however, because the discipline and regimentation were appalling to his basic nature. "And I was afraid that if I didn't get out I should be thrown out," he adds.

Carr-Smith tried his hand at newspapering briefly, then enrolled in the London Film School and later the Yugoslavian Film Institute. He dabbled at various crafts within the industry — photography, sound, editing — to gain familiarity with the technical side of motion picture making, and later met actor Paul Scofield, for whom he co-authored and produced the film "Bartleby."

In May 1970, with the British film industry commencing to fall apart because of withdrawal of American funds, Carr-Smith decided to "go to Mecca" — Hollywood — arrived with $600 in his pocket, two phone numbers that were supposed to provide valuable film contacts, and an option on the novel.

"The phone numbers were utterly useless — they were disconnects," Carr-Smith says,

"and my $600 bankroll was soon exhausted, but I had gotten in touch with Sue Grafton and together we commenced work on the screenplay."

"My agent told me some Englishman had optioned my book and wanted me to work with him on the screenplay,"

Ms. Grafton recalls. "The agent, whom I later fired, advised against it unless we got a guarantee of $1,250 a week, plus expenses."

"Hell, Rodney couldn't have paid me $12.50 a week, but I wanted to learn film, so I

Mystery, suspense feature of week

The ABC Television Network's multi-segmented late-night series, "ABC Wide World of Entertainment," will feature "Mystery and Suspense Week" Monday, Feb. 12, through Thursday, Feb. 15, with another edition of "In Concert" on Friday, Feb. 16. All programs will air 10:30-12 p.m. (MST).

"Someone at the Top of the Stairs," an original suspense thriller starring Donna Mills and Judy Carne, will be televised Monday, Feb. 12. On Tuesday, Feb. 13, Robert Louis Stevenson's classic mystery story, "The Suicide Club," will be the presentation. A ghost story starring David McCallum, "The Screaming Skull," will air Wednesday, Feb. 14, and another ghost story, "And the Bones Came Together," starring Laurence Luckinbill and Robin Strasser, will be telecast Thursday, Feb. 15.

The regular bi-weekly contemporary music series, "In Concert," will feature Loggins and Messina, Billy Preston and the Hollies on Friday, Feb. 16. "In 'Someone at the Top of the Stairs'" an attractive girl takes an apartment in an old Victorian house. She climbs the stairs, enters a room and screams as the door closes. She is never seen or heard from again. Two lovely American girls apply for a vacant room in the same house and are terrified by its strange occupants. They soon realize their lives are in danger.

Gambler Tommy Kennicott (played by Peter Haskell) is bored with constantly winning. He meets beautiful Gerry Totten (Margot Kidder), who tells him of "The Suicide Club," a unique card club that guarantees to satisfy anyone's desire for adventure. The agreed to do it. We wrote the first draft in 10 days, but it wasn't until October when director Richard Sarafian, whom we met through a mutual friend, got interested that we were able to make a deal."

Actually, MGM made its deal, with Sarafian to direct, Carr-Smith to produce and Carr-Smith and Ms. Grafton to write, within 48 hours after learning that Sarafian was involved, according to the producer.

Sue Grafton looks back now on 10 years of married life, most of it spent in a middle-class commune near Santa Barbara, as an experience she may draw upon in future writings.

"Most of my writing up to now has been wholly imaginative, because I didn't know myself yet and because I thought my life was too dull," Ms. Grafton says. "But now I know myself a little better, believe me, that's not so. I look back and think, 'Wow, look what you've been through.'"

There will be no more cooking for an elderly couple in wheelchairs for Sue Grafton, or serving cocktail parties and wedding receptions in her little white shoes. And Carr-Smith has turned back forever on park benches and handouts.

The two have already combined on a new screenplay and are making plans to film it independently in Costa Rica, with Carr-Smith producing and directing and Ms. Grafton as associate producer.

"I think a lot of women feel as trapped by marriage as I did," she says, "but have no other options. You can't just pick up and leave your husband and children because you want to realize yourself or be free" in some vague way.

"You've got to be able to say you're going to be a full-time tap dancer or something definite like that or society won't approve at all."

"I'm glad I like writing."

Gum Lung attracts to Chinatown's New Year

SAN FRANCISCO — Eight dragons reside in San Francisco's Chinatown, but there's only one Gum Lung. The 120-footer which reigns over the city's Chinese New Year parade is a heavyweight in the classic Chinese tradition.

No self-respecting Chinese knight would be caught dead slaying a dragon. Unlike those of Sir Lancelot's day, the dragon of Chinese legend is a sacred and beneficent beast. The many-faceted protector of the Chinese people has the head of a camel, horns of a deer, eyes of a rabbit, ears of a cow, neck of a serpent, belly of a frog, scales of a carp and talons of a hawk.

There are lesser breeds, but this is Lung, the divine do-gooder that inhabits the skies. A symbol of imperial power, Lung decorated the emperor's standard, postage stamps, the coins of the realm and was indispensable at any major procession.

Such a creature is the Golden Dragon which will write through San Francisco's downtown streets in the wake of a 90-minute spectacle starting at 7 p.m. on Saturday, February 17. The parade is the piece de resistance of the Chinese community's nine-day Year of the Ox festival.

The reigning behemoth arrived in this country in the Year of the Rooster (1969). Conceived in Hong Kong of paper-mache, many-hued silk, velvet, bangles, and bamboo, he is the latest in a succession of Golden Dragons imported by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce since 1959.

Gum Lung hibernates in a warehouse from winter to winter. The cumbersome show-stopper is roused only as the new lunar year draws near.

It takes several artisans under the direction of dragon master Lee Foon from eight to 10 days to link up his black-long body of hand-tied bamboo sections.

This year, according to the San Francisco Convention and Visitors Bureau, the dragon grooming will be carried out at the Chamber Center. The parade's famed centerpiece will be on public display in a podium-level showroom on the Center's northeast side from February 3 through 16. He will be the focal point of special festival programs from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. daily February 5-9.

San Francisco's "Night of the Dragon" parade developed into a double-header in 1969 when Macy's imported a 60-foot sidekick for Gum Lung and presented him to the Chinese Chamber. Supported on sticks, this junior model is maneuvered by 12 runners whereas it takes three relays of 22 muscular athletes, a dragon brazier, cages of firecrackers and a generator truck to keep the maestro in motion.

Gum Lung's closest rival, the Silver Dragon, makes his annual Chinatown appearance on Double 10, the holiday commemorating the birth of the Republic of China with the Wuchang Uprising of October 10, 1911. This 70-foot four-year-old from Hong Kong has silver-tipped scales.

Visitors who miss these go-go ensembles can catch an authentic, if immobile, Golden Dragon at the Chinatown Wax Museum at Grant Avenue and California Street. The huge, hinge-jawed head is regulation size with the body pared down to 30 feet to fit the showcase. The exhibit includes the mandatory dragon teaser with his "precious pearl" scepter, attendants, musicians and dragon's voice (drum and gong) sound effects.

The foregoing are centipede-type dragons. A gold serpent dragon is suspended in the street-level window of the China Trade Center at 838 Grant. The coiled body of this ferocious-looking specimen measures 40 feet.

The granddaddy of them all is on view at the Chinese Historical Society of America at 17 Adler Place just off 1140 Grant. The museum houses the well-preserved head and tail of a Golden Dragon made in Hong Kong for San Francisco's 1915 Panama-Pacific International Exposition.

Sequestered elsewhere in Chinatown are a lizard-like Taiwan sand dragon and a new, reticulated wriggler. The 40-foot sand dragon belonging to the Chinese Library of America at 109 Waverly Place slithers forth for special events such as store openings, ethnic programs, state fairs, etc. The latest addition to Chinatown's dragon pack is a ribbon-like reptile of indeterminate length.

Paul Lynde is thinking

When Paul Simms' visiting mother-in-law implies she will move into the neighborhood, Paul seeks solace at a bar on the ABC Television Network's "The Paul Lynde Show" Wednesday, Feb. 14 (9-10 MST).

In "Everything You Wanted to Know About Your Mother-in-Law — But Were Afraid to Ask," Paul meets Dr. Adam Colton at the bar and the psychiatrist suggests a technique from his book solving mother-in-law problems — conquer with kindness.

Paul Lynde stars as Paul Simms, Elizabeth Allen as Martha, John Calvin as Howie Dickerson, Jane Actman as Barbara and Pamela Ferdin as Sally. Mabel Albertson guest-stars as Mrs. Mabel Bishop and Alan Hale Jr. as Dr. Adam Colton. Richard X. Slattery appears as Sullivan and Dick Wilson as Gully.

Indoor games are on today

Olympic gold medalists and world record holders competing in the 14th annual Los Angeles Times indoor games and — for the first time in America — the U. S. A. — U. S. R. water polo championships, will be presented on "CBS Sports Spectacular" today on the CBS Television Network.

Adrian Metcalfe, former Olympic 400-meter runner, will describe the track and field competition from the Forum in Los Angeles, and "CBS Sports Spectacular" series host Brent Musburger, along with Bob Helmick's expert commentary, will cover the water polo action from the Belmont Olympic Natatorium, Long Beach, Calif.

World indoor record holder Herb Washington will challenge Olympic double gold medalist Valeriy Borzov of Russia (100- and 200-meter dashes) in the 60-yard dash in the Times indoor games. Dwight Stones, Olympic high jump bronze medalist, and Kenyan Olympian Mike Bolt will compete against Russian Olympians Yuri Tarnak and Yevgeniy Arzhanov. Tarnak won the gold medal with a 7'3"-3/4" effort. Stones jumped 7'3".

Wladyslaw Komar, who set an Olympic record at Munich with a shot put heave of 69'6", heads Poland's entry list in the games. Three other Polish Olympians — Miller Henryk Szordykowski, half-miler Andrej Kupczyk and sprinter Irene Sawinska — will also be competing in the Olympic-flavored meet.

In the water polo competition, the Russian team that won the gold medal in the 1972 Olympics will represent the U. S. S. R. The younger U. S. A. Team will carry four competitors from the Munich games — Bruce Bradley, Jim Ferguson, Peter Asch and Eric Lindroth. A. I. Akimov and L. M. Osipov, who each scored two goals in Munich, lead the Russian team.
