40 more freed POW's arrive in US today

HONOLULU (UPI) — Forty more prisoners of war landed on American soil early today, expressing pride in returning to their homeland and amazement that they would be able to see them.

A crowd of about 500 persons was on hand to greet the two flights from the Philippines, which stopped at Hickam Air Force Base about 75 minutes before the last leg of the journey to Travis Air Force Base in California, where the first batch of 20 former POW's arrived Wednesday.

The crowd cheered as each prisoner got off the giant C-141s and walked the 100 yards to a specially prepared lounge.

The second group arrived about 8 a.m. Hawaii time and was greeted by Gen. Lucius Clay.

The spokesman for the second group was Navy Commander James P. Bell Jr.

Cumberland, Md., who thanked the crowd for "coming out to greet us in the wee small hours in the morning. Our reception since being released has been overwhelming and has made us realize we were not forgotten. You have stood by us during the long, dismal years and we are truly grateful."

The first group came in about two hours earlier.

Newsmen have say on shield laws

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

BOISE — Members of the working press got equal time in Wednesday night as they argued before the Senate State Affairs Committee.

The public hearing was called to consider a pending "shield law" in the legislature.

Most of those testifying told the lawmakers the law was needed to protect the right of the public to have information, and to protect the newsmen whose job it is to obtain the information, often from confidential sources.

But at least two persons, both of them working journalists, told the committee they objected to the proposed legislation because it would create separate classes of privilege where there should be none and because it would open the way to government licensing and regulation of the press.

Jerry Gilliland, city editor for the Idaho Statesman, told the committee that the bill, which provides that reporters may not be sent to jail for refusing to reveal their confidential sources, was in fact a protection of "the public's right to know."

He said, "If sources are silent and the reporters are afraid they will go to jail, then the public — the watchers of TV news, the radio listeners and the newspaper readers — will be the losers."

Abortion controls proposed

BOISE — A Senate Health, Education and Welfare subcommittee Wednesday gave its approval to a measure which would institute state control over certain aspects concerning abortions.

The measure was called for after the full HEW committee was told that the state's present abortion law was probably unconstitutional in light of a U.S. Supreme Court ruling which legalizes abortions during the first six months of pregnancy.

The subcommittee will submit the proposal to the full committee for its approval before it is sent to the Senate State Affairs Committee for introduction.

Several of the provisions in the measure include consent by the husband before an abortion is performed on his wife and that abortions have to be conducted in a facility with which has the backup of an acute care general hospital during the first three months of pregnancy.

corporation to continue their classes and sign to request funding under such program as Title I education revenue.

It was suggested the educational programs be extended beyond the Head Start age group by the new parents organization.

The committee suggested efforts be made to obtain a better Senior Citizens working arrangement, Russell said again the committee felt individual county and community groups could better handle needs of their immediate areas.

Russell said the committee suggested the senior citizens themselves in each community should determine programs and services they desire and if they can meet legal requirements, apply for federal or state revenue to carry these out.

Family planning, which has been largely a needs assessment program under CAA, will be emphasizing the South Central Idaho Health District family planning clinics.

Nixon pushes war against pollution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon asked Congress today to approve 19 pieces of legislation it refused to enact last session plus eight new proposals to win the battle for a better environment, saying victory is within reach.

The old proposals range from attacks on industrial plants which pollute the air with high-sulphur fuel emissions to controls over strip mining. The new proposals include a plan to make drinking water safe throughout the nation and a project to establish wilderness areas in the eastern states.

In a 10-page message to the lawmakers, Nixon reiterated the claim he made in a radio address

Wednesday that the air is getting cleaner, that the water is getting better and that the fight to safeguard the environment is almost won.

The other proposals not previously submitted to Congress would:

Protect wild and scenic rivers.

Control the impact of transportation on the environment by diverting highway trust fund money to finance rapid transit.

Protect marine fisheries.

Ratify a World Heritage Trust convention.

Set up a program to try to modify the weather to reduce dangers for life and property.

Approve an international agreement to control what is dumped in the world's oceans.

Nixon called for the establishment of national standards to make sure that drinking water is safe in all sections of the country. He said state and local governments should have primary enforcement power under this approach and that water suppliers would have to inform customers of the quality of their water.

Of his eastern wilderness areas proposal, he said that section of the country needed protection "if the majority of our people are to have the full benefit of our natural glories."

Farm, food prices spur latest gain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices rose 1.3 per cent in January, led by continuing sharp increases in farm and food prices, the Labor Department said today.

Although unusually large for January, the overall wholesale price rise — as well as that for farm prices — was less than in December when costs rose at the fastest pace in 21 years.

The January increase could partially reflect the lifting of mandatory wage-price controls on Jan. 10, although farm prices were not controlled by the administration's stabilization program.

Prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds jumped 3.3 per cent for the month and prices for consumer-type foods shot up 3.7 per cent.

Industrial commodities prices, which make up about three-fourths of the government's wholesale price index, rose 0.5 per cent in January, the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) said.

With seasonal factors taken into account, the January wholesale price increase was adjusted to 1.1 per cent, compared to 1.6 per cent a month earlier. The December unadjusted increase for all wholesale commodities was 1.8 per cent compared to 1.3 per cent last month.

The BLS said severe winter weather plus an "exceptionally strong export demand" helped feed the January farm price increase. Prices for livestock, poultry, eggs, milk and wheat all were up for the month while fresh fruit, oil feeds and grains other than wheat declined.

Substantial increases for poultry, fish, animal feeds, dairy, cereal and bakery products also contributed to the advance.

Metals and metal products were responsible for about one-third of the industrial commodities increase while lumber and wood products prices, a continuing inflationary trouble spot, continued to rise.

Tupperware sets expansion start

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — Work will begin Monday to double the size of the Tupperware plant at Jerome, company officials said today.

The expansion will add 465 new jobs, bringing plant employment to 900, according to plant manager Robert Bussiere.

He said an additional 270,000 square feet of building space will be added.

Plant capacity will be doubled with installation of 40 new plastic moulding machines.

Bussiere said Mitchell Construction Co., Pocatello, is expected to begin construction on Monday. Engineers for the expansion are Bebeault Engineers Association of Rhode Island, assisted by Fontaine Savoy Associates, Inc., an architectural firm in Salt Lake City.

Project completion is expected by mid-October, weather permitting, he said.

Bussiere said the new employees will be recruited from the Magie Valley.

Kissinger, Chou confer in Peking

Idaho aide confirmed

BOISE (UPI) — Dr. James A. Bax was confirmed today by the Idaho Senate as director of the Department of Environmental Protection and Health.

Bax was appointed director last spring by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

Bax's appointment was held in a State affairs subcommittee since the first week of the session.

HONG KONG (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Peking today for three days of talks, and diplomatic reports from the Chinese capital said China was moving toward the West faster than expected because of the hardening Sino-Soviet conflict.

Growing Soviet worries about possible normalization of U.S.-Chinese relations were reflected today in the Soviet Weekly, the official Soviet English language publication in London. It charged "the ground is being prepared for an American-Chinese alliance."

UPI diplomat correspondent K.C. Thaler reported from London that Communist diplomats are saying the Soviet leadership is suspicious of any American political move toward China and suspects a possible gangling up that would leave Russia isolated or "encircled."

The uneasiness is heightened by the growing hostility of the Mao Tse-tung regime toward Russia and increasing signs of its shift toward the West, spotlighted by its latest announced intention to buy fighter planes from Britain, these Communist diplomats said.

The end of the Vietnam War and the inevitable re-alignment of the power balance in Asia is adding to the fears. The diplomats, in private talks, have said they fear that Washington may exploit the situation.

Reflecting this anxiety was the statement in Soviet Weekly that "under a smokescreen of clamor about an alleged Russian menace and allegations that the Soviet Union is trying to engineer an anti-Chinese bloc, the ground is being prepared for an American-Chinese alliance."

Peking, wanting "Uncle Sam to stay in Asia," has had little to say lately about the presence of American troops in Asia, it said.

Western diplomats, China hands today coincidentally drew attention to the fact that the New China News Agency in Peking reported without comment Wednesday the Peking government's announcement that the headquarters of all American air operations in Southeast Asia will be transferred to Thailand.

They said while China wants the Americans out of Asia, it does not cherish "at this stage" the creation of a power vacuum there which would lay open the area to advancing Soviet influence.

Kissinger was accompanied to Peking by Herbert G. Klein, the administration's director of communications.

Abandon CAA, panel proposes

By BONNIE JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Abandonment of the South Central Community Action Agency in favor of a new organization emphasizing individual county needs and programs was recommended Wednesday night.

The recommendation is one of several drafted in a meeting of the SCCAA planning committee in Twin Falls Wednesday night.

Because of the withdrawal of federal funds for such community level programs as CAA, the agency has begun phasing out plans with an effort to retain some of the "people" services they have provided, CAA officials said today.

In the planning committee recommendation, it was felt individual county representatives would outline their own specific needs and make application under other available federal programs for financial assistance.

Robert Russell, CAA executive director, said the fund applications would be made to obtain financing directly to the individual county group.

The recommendations drafted by the planning committee, chaired by Royal Sloton, will be presented Friday night to the SCCAA executive board.

Russell said the committee favors a multi-county board to serve on areawide matters but believes more effective service could be achieved if each county assessed its own needs and interests and applied for financing accordingly.

Russell said no definite phasing-out date has been received for the CAA programs although June 30 has been mentioned and possibilities of a six-month extension hinted at. If the additional six-month extension is granted, he said, a sound replacement organization could be established.

Other recommendations of the planning committee include encouraging parents of the Head Start children to form a separate

Electronic bug found by panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An electronic listening device was found this week in the House Foreign Affairs Committee's main hearing room, Chairman Thomas E. Morgan disclosed today.

This is a hearing room in which the committee often hears top government officials testify on sensitive matters frequently in closed session.

A committee statement quoted Morgan, D-Pa., as saying the metallic device, described as a "sophisticated transmitter," was found lying on top of a table Monday and that the FBI was called in to investigate the matter.

The last testimony before the committee was given Feb. 8 by Secretary of State William P. Rogers. That session was open to the public.

Morgan said committee staff members found the device "on top of one of the committee tables," indicating no effort had been made to hide it. He described it as "rectangular metal box approximately 1 and 3/4 inches by 4 inches by 3/4 inches in size."

"It is a sophisticated transmitter with self-contained microphone and batteries," he said. Morgan said staff members thought at first it was a "bell boy," a telephone company device that emits a signal notifying an individual to check with his or her office.

The staff asked State Department officials if one of the party accompany, ag Rogers had left it on the table. The Department notified the committee Tuesday "that it was an electronic transmitter," Morgan said.

Morgansaidhe immediately notified the FBI which picked up the device and began an investigation.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, a member of the committee, told UPI he had been informed the bugging device was taped beneath a table brought into the hearing room for use by reporters covering Rogers' appearance last Thursday.

Gross said he understood the bug fell loose when cleaning workers were taking the table out of the room after Rogers' testimony.

At the FBI, a spokesman said the agency was investigating possible violation of the interception of communications law. He declined further comment.

U of I dean predicts Gem farm income gain

TWIN FALLS — The dean of the University of Idaho College of Agriculture said Tuesday he expects the Idaho farm cash receipts to jump by about one-fifth this year over 1972.

Dean Autis M. Mullins made the remark to Twin Falls Rotarians and their farmer guests during the annual Rotary meeting honoring area agriculture.

He forecast the receipts would total between $350-450 million during 1973, up from the $210 million last year.

Mullins issued a forceful plea for recognition of the role of agriculture in Idaho's economy.

The Idaho economy is almost totally dependent upon agriculture. Most industries in Idaho are related in some way to agriculture.

He said 15 per cent of Idaho people live on farms and ranches and 70 per cent of all economic transactions in the state are related to agriculture.

He said despite price rises, US citizens spend "less than 10 per cent of their disposable income on food costs."

American agriculture has achieved "the highest quality, the most convenience and the lowest cost of food ever achieved by any country in the history of the world," he said.

The U of I dean said he had told the Legislative Joint Finance-Appropriations Com-

GEORGE WASHINGTON — the one who's portraying the Father of Our Country in the Twin Falls area — addressed the Twin Falls Rotary Club Wednesday.

Sawtooth aides finish seminar

TWIN FALLS — About 17 Sawtooth National Forest representatives concluded a two-day law enforcement seminar Wednesday afternoon at the Twin Falls supervisor's office.

Ralph Dymont, special agent in the branch of law enforcement from the regional office in Ogden, conducted the seminar. He emphasized cooperative law enforcement between forest rangers and other personnel and the state, county and local agencies.

Dymont, who holds a degree in police science from Weber State College, has worked 19 years for the U.S. Forest Service.

Purpose of the meeting, he said, was to discuss law enforcement procedure and policies. Several law enforcement cases handled by Sawtooth personnel were discussed as to how they were handled and what improvements in procedure might have been achieved.

Vandalism involving government property, Christmas tree thefts, man caused fires and violation of recreation and campfire regulations were among topics discussed.

Dymont said the forest service is in much the same position as the private property owner in that forest officials can sign complaints and bring violators into court.

Service facility plans asked

TWIN FALLS — City Engineer George Michael has been asked by the Twin Falls City-County Airport Commission to prepare plans for service facilities for agricultural operators at the airport.

In a meeting of the commission Tuesday afternoon, several agricultural spray plane operators met with the group to discuss their needs for reloading, refueling and washing down their planes in connection with spray operations.

City Manager Jean Milar said there is also a need for better disposal arrangements for chemicals and containers. This would involve an outdoor service type area, Milar said, with pads for various operators where chemical containers and fuel pumps could be maintained for quick servicing.

The city engineering department will have preliminary sketches and possibly cost estimates ready for the next commission meeting.

A contract has been awarded to the Holmes Construction Co., Heyburn, for the 1973 summer project at the airport involving overlay paving of taxiways, scheduled to begin as soon as weather permits.

On Wednesday Milar, Airport Manager Harry Merrick, and Michael met with Federal Aviation Administration officials regarding the proposed new tower to be erected at the airport. Details including cost estimates and FAA requirements will be sent to the airport commission prior to the March meeting.

Woman draws term

TWIN FALLS — Virginia W. Griggs, 51, Twin Falls, was sentenced to six months in the county jail Wednesday by Fifth District Magistrate Court Judge Daniel B. Meehl.

The Griggs woman pleaded guilty on Jan. 15 to a misdemeanor charge of misuse of public welfare funds.

She was accused of unlawfully misrepresenting her employment status from Jan. 15, 1971, to July 13, 1972, while receiving public assistance.

The charge was originally entered as a felony but was reduced to a misdemeanor in accordance with state regulations.

Judge Meehl provided for a review of the case after 30 days of the jail sentence have been served.

Zone panel named for joint efforts

TWIN FALLS — A three-member subcommittee of the Twin Falls City Planning and Zoning Commission has been appointed to work jointly with county zoning officials.

Chairman John Rosholt said today Tom Shafer is chairman of the city's panel, with Jerre Shane as a member and Dave Armstrong alternate member.

The county planning and zoning commission will also appoint three members to the joint committee.

Rosholt said the committees will endeavor to work out an agreement to set up common zoning between city and county agencies of areas outside the city limits.

At a special work session earlier this week, the city zoning panel also agreed to amend the city's condominium ordinance, Rosholt said.

One change would provide for construction and ownership of jointly owned commercial buildings in commercial zones.

Another would allow residential or professional condominiums in the residential-professional zone.

As now written, the ordinance only authorizes residential condominiums in residential zones.

The industrial zone is excluded, Rosholt said.

A thought for the day, French philosopher Jean Paul Sartre said, "Nature never deceives us; it is always we who deceive nature."

WASHINGTON — Despite politically explosive energy ordered a confidential, top-to-attempts to play down the crisis, President Nixon has bottom National Security Council (NSC) study of the long-range impact on U.S. foreign policy of oil-and-gas shortages here.

tracting oil from the 2,000-year supply of domestic coal.

The 20 per cent, Ehrlichman told us, "is the floor." That suggests more federal funds to develop new technologies may be forthcoming.

Even so, this does not come close to meeting the demand for Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, an influential voice in the spiraling debate over dwindling domestic oil-and-gas resources.

In a private letter to Mr. Nixon last summer, Jackson himself suggested an NSC "assessment of the national security, foreign-policy and domestic energy policy implications of our growing dependence on imported crude oil and petroleum products from the Middle East and elsewhere."

Jackson, chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, is trying to push the Nixon administration into a billion-dollar crash program of technological development designed to make the U.S. independent of foreign oil and gas suppliers.

An economical oil-from-coal extraction technology is feasible, Jackson says, and should be developed immediately.

The U.S. could continue to buy Middle Eastern oil, but would then have a domestic alternative if the Arabs raised prices to high-for-political-or-other purposes.

Jackson's acute suspicions of Moscow as a dependable supplier of U.S. energy needs — plus the enormous costs of extracting, liquefying and transporting Siberian gas to the U.S. — eliminates the Soviet Union in his thinking as a future source.

As of today, Jackson's line is much harder than views held inside the White House. Thus, top presidential advisers have by no means discarded ideas of two-way trade with Moscow based on imports of Siberian gas, despite the high costs.

That study is one of the first decisions to emerge from a blue-ribbon presidential committee named a month ago headed by White House domestic policy chief John Ehrlichman, the committee has only two other members: Dr. Henry Kissinger, Mr. Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser, and George Shultz, Secretary of the Treasury and the administration's economic czar.

The Ehrlichman-Kissinger-Shultz study, a belated administration response to repeated appeals from Interior Department officials for a new national energy policy, deals with the country's thorniest problem: getting enough oil and gas to avoid power dim-outs and gasoline rationing (now being freely predicted for next summer by some administration officials) before new energy sources become economically available decades from now.

No aspect of this growing power-and-fuels crisis is getting more attention from the supercommittee than the question of U.S. dependence on Arab oil in the troubled Middle East and Soviet gas in distant Siberia.

Even before completion of the NSC study, Ehrlichman and Kissinger reached a tentative conclusion: lots of money must be poured into developing new technology for extracting oil from coal and shale to prevent pricing blackmail from the Arab owners of the world's richest oil reserves.

Evidence of that can be found in a little-noted item in the new federal budget: although most expenditures are trimmed way back, Mr. Nixon asked for a 20 per cent increase in research money for new energy technology such as ex-

"Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was astonished to think your anonymous correspondent could really believe what he wrote.

not too long ago when I was in junior high. It was a big thing to smoke cigarettes. Social pressure started millions of kids on cigarettes. It's those same kids and this same pressure that's the cause of our rising drug problem.

Medicare Hike Said 'No-No'

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One of 1973's less likely prospects is enactment of President Nixon's budget-time proposal to saddle Medicare beneficiaries with a larger share of medical costs. The added burden might come to 1 billion dollars a year.

Social Security-Medicare is one realm where Congress has a successful record of bucking the White House. It has rammed big benefit increases down the President's throat, and has previously rejected cost-sharing propositions like the one now at issue.

In the administration's special budget analysis on Medicare, it asserts confidently that "cost-sharing provisions are being reformed to reduce financial burdens of terribly hospitalized while providing stronger incentives against inappropriate or uneconomic use of services."

Translated, that means the White House thinks too many "eligible" folk — eligible for Medicare's hospital insurance — seek hospital care, either on their own initiative or upon encouragement by doctors.

If the beneficiaries have to pay more in the early stages, it is argued, they'll be "more aware" of the financial load and more likely to seek other means of treatment.

But key men on Capitol Hill believe assistance under Medicare already has severe limits. They view any move to stiffen them further as possible destructive of the law's purpose.

Under present law, anyone 65 or over and otherwise eligible for Social Security benefits automatically is entitled to Medicare's hospital insurance. Those eligible have to pay the first $72 of charges, but then Medicare picks up the tab for most services through the first 60 days of their hospital stay.

For 30 days after that, the eligibles must pay $18 a day toward their hospital expenses. Normally, the "benefit period" for a single spell of illness ends with that 90 days.

But the law also gives beneficiaries a "lifetime reserve" of 60 extra hospital days to draw upon. If an eligible person stays on beyond the 90-day period, he must pay $36 a day for each day used up. And, once the lifetime reserve is "spent," the beneficiary can never call upon it again. In other words, if he returns to the hospital in a later spell of illness, Medicare benefits will end after 90 days.

Under Mr. Nixon's proposal, the beneficiary would begin by paying not a flat $72 but whatever a given qualified hospital chose to charge for the first day's room and board. It might be less; in the case of some municipal hospitals, but it is more likely to be more. The present $72 is Medicare's determination of "national average cost."

Furthermore, the President thereafter pay 10 per cent of all hospital charges, including room and board, for the first 60 days. As indicated, Medicare's insurance today covers most of those charges.

Some specialists in this field believe that this provision would encourage hospitals to load short-stay beneficiaries with charges for drugs, tests, radiological services, supplies, nursing and medical social services.

Mr. Nixon would also hit the beneficiary harder on Medicare's "medical insurance," covering doctor bills and other expenses. He would boost the initial deductible (cost borne by the beneficiary) from $40 to $65, and require him to pay 25 per cent of subsequent charges instead of the present 20 per cent.

It is a proposition with little appeal for a Congress that in 1972 adopted some 95 amendments directly aimed at getting hospital and doctor bill expense under some reasonable control. Charges have risen enormously since Medicare took effect in mid-1966.

ROBERT ALLEN

Red Reconstruction?

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has his work cut out for him trying to induce Congress to vote funds for "reconstruction" of Communist North Vietnam.

There is pronounced and widespread bipartisan opposition to that.

This was strikingly revealed in a survey taken by this column.

It disclosed that key Republican and Democratic leaders as well as rank-and-file members either are outrightly hostile to providing economic aid to Red North Vietnam or critically skeptical.

Not one of the Senators or Congressmen interviewed expressed unreserved approval.

"A few did go so far as to say that 'something like this may be necessary if a commitment was made as the price for peace; we really don't know the whole story yet; we'll have to wait and see.'"

But even these legislators left no doubt they dislike the idea, and that the President faces heavy odds in winning congressional concurrence.

Significantly, the belief is general that there is some kind of a secret understanding to supply economic aid to North Vietnam. That opinion was repeatedly voiced by lawmakers.

With one exception, they admitted having nothing concrete to back this suspicion, but it definitely prevails just the same.

Certainly this question will be thoroughly explored in any congressional consideration of a specific White House proposal. The opponents will make sure of that; they are already girding for it.

A leading dissenter has already made one stab at it. He is Rep. H. R. Gross, Iowa, a ranking Republican member of the Foreign Affairs Committee and foremost economy advocate.

Gross is convinced the secret commitment to provide North Vietnam with economic aid is to be forged in unpublicized working at the end of Article 21 of the lengthy ceasefire agreement.

The suspected language is to the effect that the U.S. will "extend assistance to rebuild and heal the wounds of North Vietnam and all of Indochina."

Gross confronted Budget Director Roy Ash with this contention — at a conference of Republican legislators on the President's new budget and furiously controversial impoundment of funds voted by Congress.

"You tell us the President is determined to hold federal spending to $250 billion in the next fiscal year," said Gross. "I'm all for that. I have been battling for economy in government spending for a long time. You also say the President is bent on holding down spending to $250 billion even if he has to withhold funds voted by Congress."

"Such a policy is very painful to millions of people throughout the country who consider these impounded programs vital and essential. Now if that is going to be done, how can you justify spending money for North Vietnam? The only reason those Communists have experienced the ravages of war is because of their ruthless aggression, he asked.

"Yet, as I read the trade agreement, there is apparently provision in it, in Article 21, committing us to 'help rebuild and heal the wounds of North Vietnam and all of Indochina.' There is absolutely no justification for anything like that. There is no justification for foreign aid in general, and even less so for assistance to North Vietnam."

Ash ducked — this blunt challenge, pointing out he had nothing to do with the ceasefire agreement.

Inflation As Usual

President Nixon has put the case. Either Congress hews closely to his proposed budget for fiscal 1974 or there will be more inflation or higher taxes or both.

Urging Americans to support those congressmen and senators "who have the courage to vote against higher spending," he said "it is time to get big government off your back and out of your pocketbook."

Funny thing, though. Even with the President's hold-the-line budget, government will continue to dig into everyone's pocketbook. This is because, according to time-honored economic theory, any time federal expenditures exceed federal income, an automatic tax increase is enacted in the form of cheaper dollars which eventually translate into higher prices.

The President proposes a 1974 budget of $268.1 billion, some $12.7 billion more than he estimates the government will collect in that period. It is $18.7 billion, or 7.5 per cent, higher than the $250-billion limit he said was the most Congress should spend in fiscal 1973 (Congress actually authorized $261 billion), a limit he proceeded to enforce by impounding appropriated funds.

This 7.5 per cent increase in federal spending, contrasted with the 6.5 per cent real growth expected for the economy in the coming year, represents — on paper only, not in real life — a built-in inflationary factor of about 1 per cent.

The administration gets around the deficit, or the inflationary factor, by figuring on the basis of a "full employment budget." That is, the government would take in that extra $12.7 billion in taxes if the nation enjoyed full employment. "Full employment" itself is postulated on the basis of 4 per cent unemployment in the work force, an arbitrary figure that is hardly a universal constant like the speed of light or the boiling point of water.

If other words, if we had full employment, which we don't, and if Congress stuck to the President's budgetary guidelines, which it won't, there might be some hope of a diminishing of the rate of inflation.

About all we can look forward to with certainty is a continuing battle royal between the President and Congress and another year of the "unlegislated" form of taxation called inflation.

Lawrence's Decades

Perhaps changes that have taken place in Washington since David Lawrence, dead at 84, went there as a reporter could be capsuled, for dramatic effect, into the cost of government, which was then less than $1 billion annually.

Lawrence, who was a Washington columnist for more than half a century and founder and editor of U.S. News and World Report, saw and wrote about all the vast changes in government since before World War I.

When he arrived in Washington, Taft was president. He knew all Taft's successors in the White House and wrote about them and their policies. He not only wrote about the depression and its impact on Washington, but about World War I and its aftermath, World War II, the Korean War, and the Vietnamese War.

He commented on many changes in government, in its course and its goals. He saw the country go off the gold standard and finally abandon all silver coinage. When he died its managed currency was in trouble on all the leading money markets of the world.

No other Washington reporter ever wrote so many significant happenings. Few wrote as ably.

Technological Plus

Mother Nature doesn't always know best, neither is man always wrong, in this matter of ecology.

Modern industrial society is often accused of raping the earth in its consumption of such nonrenewal resources as coal and oil. Yet the accumulation of these resources actually demonstrates a failure of nature to recycle them back into the energy and living matter from which they were formed.

So argues scientist-humanist Rene Dubos. Man, he says, is completing the cycle of burning these materials, thus releasing carbon and minerals for new plant growth.

House problems turn serious

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

BOISE — In rapid fashion, the problem facing the House of Representatives is becoming serious.

The members may soon be faced with some rather startling reform legislation as well as some common-sense measures that the Senate has already approved.

But some House members who are still upset that the legislature approved the equal rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution last year, and signified by that action their approval for equal rights for women under the law. They are trying to rescind that ratification, although the attorney-general's office has already said they aren't legally entitled to do so.

As if that weren't bad enough, the Senate decided Monday to give its approval to local kindergarten programs, but only with the approval of local district voters.

Tuesday it agreed to remove from state law a provision against the advertising of contraceptives. Sen. Phil Butt said Idaho was one of only four states that has the provision.

Later this week, the Senate is expected to have for its consideration a law which would restrict abortions in the state. They are now illegal operations in Idaho, but the Supreme Court of the United States has made a ruling recently which probably will throw that prohibition out the window if it is tested. So a subcommittee of the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee is studying ways to control non-legal abortions, and if the law isn't passed, some are saying there will be no control, no protection for the doctors and no protection for women in the future.

The senators will be only prudent to pass something to protect everybody involved, no matter how repugnant abortions may be to that state support for discriminatory fraternal organizations is out.

What that means of course, is that black, chicano and other minority groups no longer are forced to support financially all organizations that won't let them inside the doors to support them freely.

The Senate may choose to legislate on that question, and already has a bill before one of its committees which would encode that opinion into law.

All of this would leave the House in a tough position. Some of its members are generally held to be super-conservatives, and are juking the conservative Senate look like a great reform body by comparison.

Rep. Herb Fitz, R-New Meadows, was honest and blunt the other day, when he said that Dr. James Bax's $31,000 salary was giving some representatives second thoughts about merging the Departments of Environmental Protection and Health and Social and Rehabilitation Services.

What he didn't say was that the move could mean $3-4 million more federal money for the state than it now receives.

And if the House of Representatives looks no farther than the end of its nose on abortions, contraceptives, kindergartens and discriminatory fraternal organizations, everybody will end up losing.

Analysis

them, and they probably will pass something this session.

If that isn't bad enough, the attorney general held in a ruling Tuesday that the state couldn't give tax exemptions to fraternal organizations that discriminated on racial grounds.

The opinion was written with a great deal of care, and didn't speak to religious or other organizations, but it did say quite specifically

new cuts in value

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's health programs will be "really hurt" if proposed federal cutbacks are adopted, according to Administrator James Bax.

Dr. Bax told a meeting of the Idaho advisory Council for Health Facilities construction cutbacks proposed by President Nixon "will really hurt the whole medical health program in Idaho."

He noted federal grants account for 80 percent of staffing for some areas and "you withdraw that and it really hurts."

Bax predicted the full-blown program for hospital construction is not finished because congressional proponents of the program will not let it die without a fight.

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Steve Symms, R-Boise, Wednesday predicted the United States will be "faced" with another devaluation in the future.

At a press conference Symms said the announced 10 percent devaluation of the American dollar announced Tuesday would be "only just enough to get us to the conference table."

He said the problem is that America has "flooded the world with dollars and now they are coming home to roost."

Symms said he favors efforts by the President to cut the federal budget but does not want to see all the cutting taking place in the Department of Agriculture. He said he was pleased by proposed cuts in the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Gas tax date sought

BOISE (UPI) — In a move effective date of the 1.5 cent increase in the per-gallon tax on gasoline last year, oil companies have brought a lawsuit against the state.

They contend the tax should be collected as of July 1, 1972, and not after April 1, 1972, because the bill lacked an emergency clause.

Massacre probable

By DWIGHT JENSEN
Special to the Times-News

BOISE — As of St. Valentine's Day, the Idaho Legislature seems more likely to treat the program of Gov. Cecil Andrus with a massacre than with hearts and flowers.

Besides the budget itself, the governor in his state of the state and budget messages made 12 identifiable action proposals to the legislature. After five and a Administrative consolidation of school districts. A return to the biennial budgeting.

Land-use planning legislation.

Two others are in serious doubt: Kindergartens, and the merger of the Department of Environmental Protection and Health with the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services.

Two more of the proposals are not drawing much attention, and could either pass or fail: a constitutional anti-obscenity statute, and a bill providing for certification of persons who operate waste water treatment plants.

The last two proposals are likely to pass in some form. One was an interim study of state government reorganization. The legislature is likely to say yes to that, but to weight the supervising committee with Republicans. Andrus wanted an evenly balanced committee.

And Rep. Vard Chatbun, R-Albion, chairman of the House Resources and Conservation Committee, says the legislature will probably act to strengthen the state's environmental enforcement powers, although possibly not as much as requested by the governor.

half weeks of action, only one of the twelve has passed.

US job roster cutback scored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's budget cutbacks of federal employment programs are "bad business, misplaced human concern," according to the man who helped create most of them.

Former Labor Secretary Wilard Wirtz told Congress' Joint Economic Committee today that it was wrong to reduce programs for the unemployed, the handicapped and teenagers while at the same time increasing the military budget and failing to close tax loopholes.

Wirtz was labor secretary under Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson when many present manpower programs were begun.

Nixon proposes to reduce or phase out most of these Democratic-era programs in favor of giving the states the money to handle employment problems through revenue sharing.

But Wirtz said that according to his arithmetic, proposed fiscal 1974 revenue sharing funds for manpower would fall about 15 percent short of the funds originally proposed for the old manpower programs in fiscal 1973.

Wirtz said the time had come to expand and redirect these programs along the lines of a "new idealism," not to cut them back.

Wirtz suggested an expansion of the public employment program and an education program for unemployed and out-of-school teenagers.

Job losses because of automation could be offset, he said, by full-pay leaves of absence and retraining programs for "anybody about to be replaced by a machine."

He said that just as a property owner is entitled to compensation when a highway cuts through his land, "if change, which is in the public interest, requires taking a person's job, he or she is fully entitled to compensation for it."

Work sabbaticals, education for women whose children are grown and "refresher courses" to prepare the elderly for retirement also should be tried, he said.

Yet Nixon wants to cut back on the relatively minimal present programs, Wirtz said.

"To suggest cutting these programs but increasing military expenditures and leaving tax loopholes—seems to me bad business, misguided government, misplaced human concern," Wirtz said.

Saigon, Reds in dispute over POWs

SAIGON (UPI) — Saigon warned today it will stop releasing Communist prisoners of war unless its own men are released on schedule. In the latest release Wednesday, North Vietnamese gunners shelled South Vietnamese positions around Quang Tri City shortly after 175 Communists were set free.

A South Vietnamese military spokesman told correspondents at the regular afternoon military briefing today that in the first batch of prisoner releases Monday, "It was planned that we would release a total of 7,000 Communist POWs and receive back 1,020 ARVN (South Vietnamese Army) POWs."

"But as you know, the Communists have not yet released 320 South Vietnamese prisoners at Pleiku, as it was agreed. So in the next few days, if they continue to delay the release, we will stop at the number of 4,000 Communist POWs until ours are released at Pleiku as promised."

UPI correspondent Donald A. Davis reported from Quang Tri City that the North Vietnamese shells started falling within minutes of the return of the last Communist POW across the Thach Han River. The Saigon command said two paratroopers were killed and nine wounded in the barrage.

The Saigon command said the Communists committed 171 truce violations throughout the country in the 24-hour period ending at dawn today — down 17 from the previous day.

No South Vietnamese POWs have been released since Tuesday. The dispute at Pleiku in the Central Highlands, 230 miles north of Saigon, is over the release point.

The Communists want to release 320 South Vietnamese at Cau Canh, seven miles southwest of Pleiku. Saigon claims that if the Communists did that they would claim Cau Canh as Communist territory.

Instead, Saigon wants the 320 released at Duc Co, 15 miles west of Pleiku and well within Communist-held areas.

Correspondent Davis reported that two North Vietnamese truce team representatives were roughed up today at the former imperial capital of Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon.

It was the third such incident of its kind to be reported. Hanoi delegates were stoned Friday at Ban Me Thuot in the central Highlands.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today launched an automatic space station called Prognos-3 to study solar radiation and magnetic fields in near-earth space, the Tass news agency said.

Two earlier Prognos satellites were launched last year.

Tass said the 384-pound station was put into a highly elliptical orbit. Its apogee is 120,000 miles from earth and the perigee 600 miles from earth. The satellite takes 96 hours 23 minutes to make one orbit, the agency said.

Pentagon Papers prosecutors win

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The prosecution in the Pentagon Papers trial won a victory Wednesday.

On their third try, justice department attorneys succeeded in introducing as evidence manuals on security regulations from the Rand Corp.

Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo, who were researchers at Rand, are charged with espionage, theft and conspiracy for their role in leaking the secret Pentagon Papers, which were obtained from Rand files.

Over the objections of defense attorneys, U.S. District Judge Matt Byrne allowed the prosecution to read to the jury Rand's regulations on handling classified material.

The manuals contained rules against copying such material without permission, taking any of it home, or showing it to anyone — except those with security clearances who had been authorized to see it.

The judge cautioned the jurors that the Rand rules were not necessarily federal laws, saying he would instruct them later in the legal points involved.

But the manuals could be used by the prosecution to show what knowledge Ellsberg and Russo had of the security rules, the judge said.

The prosecution produced signed statements by Ellsberg and Russo that they had read the manuals.

The description of classified material procedures was given by Richard Best, Rand's chief security officer.

On cross examination by an attorney for Ellsberg, Best conceded that penalties for violation of the rules in the manual ranged from warnings to probation or threatened dismissal — even after five violations.

White House withdraws VA disability cutbacks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration's decision to scrap a proposed multi-million dollar reduction in benefits for disabled Vietnam veterans has been welcomed by congressional critics of the "thoughtless and tragic" plan.

The White House Wednesday ordered the Veterans Administration (VA) to withdraw its proposed disability compensation cutback plan to allow for "further intensive study." The VA, which first disclosed the plan Feb. 6, had said it was feasible because of advancements in medical treatment and rehabilitation and changing job demands.

Under the proposed plan, the VA would have revised its rate schedule for physical disabilities. For example, a veteran whose leg was amputated at the hip would have lost $10 a month in previously awarded benefits because he would have been adjudged 40 percent disabled instead of the current 90 percent.

Since it was first circulated on Capitol Hill, the proposal has drawn an irate response from some congressmen.

Rep. W. Jennings Bryan Dorn, D-S.C., chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, introduced a bill last Friday that would have blocked the reductions. After learning of the White House intervention, Dorn said Wednesday he will now introduce a bill that would freeze disability payments at their present level.

Noting that the cuts would have hit Vietnam veterans hardest, Dorn said: "I know of no way I could justify to a veteran or POW of Vietnam that his leg or arm is worth less than the rates... we will continue to pay the older veterans who enjoy a protected rate."

Most disabled World War II and Korean War veterans would not have been affected by the cutbacks, because present law forbids any reduction in benefits received for 20 years.

TWA wants fare cut

NEW YORK (UPI) — Trans World Airlines has asked for federal approval to cut the fare for a guaranteed seat on a coast-to-coast flight to as low as $89.50.

TWA made the proposal Wednesday to the Civil Aeronautics Board to introduce the new budget-priced tickets for passengers who book flights 90 days in advance.

Under the proposed fare schedule, passengers who sign up in advance would have to pay a $20 non-refundable deposit and designate the specific flight they want.

Nixon to cut welfare

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration will issue sweeping proposals Friday to narrow the range of social services, such as child care and support of the mentally retarded, that states provide with federal matching funds to keep people off welfare rolls.

States currently can draw $3 from the treasury for every dollar they spend within a $2.5 billion national ceiling fixed by Congress last year for child care, family planning, job training, drug and alcohol treatment and for other services for children, poor families, the aged and handicapped.

The proposed regulations would narrow the eligibility requirements for services and would make three categories of services for needy families mandatory — family planning, foster care and protective services for neglected or abused children.

No services would be required for aged, blind or disabled welfare recipients, but states would have the option of providing for such services.

Under current rules most services for welfare families are optional but some must be provided by the states, including child care, services for health needs, prevention or reduction of illegitimate births, vocational rehabilitation and work training.

Social services spending was authorized under a 1967 law to keep people off welfare. Under the authority, states could apply the funds not only to current recipients but to former or potential welfare recipients.

Draft copies of the proposed rules, which will be published Friday in the Federal Register allowing 30 days for comment, have been circulating among private organizations that might be affected.

Gem merger views split

BOISE (UPI) — Citizens are generally in favor of the merger of the state's health and welfare departments, but some feel Idaho could be creating a monster.

During a hearing of the House Health and Welfare Committee Wednesday, citizens from throughout the state expressed their approval or disapproval of the proposed merger of the Departments of Environmental Protection and Health and Social and Rehabilitative Services.

Frank Stoddard, Salmon, opposed the merger. He said, "I'm scared to death of some of the things I read in this change. I see problems when change is made."

He said the trend today is to consolidate and give a few people more power. He said this will lead to one man setting down precedents and citizens will have to obey them.

"We could be creating a Frankenstein from which there is no control," Stoddard said. Supportive testimony came from Margot Tregoning, a member of the Idaho Board of Environmental Protection and Health, and Bill Child, chief of Idaho's public assistance program.

Mrs. Tregoning said the merger "was not conceived in haste," but represents about five years of work and study.

Representatives of shelter care homes and nursing homes supported the bill. Operators of those facilities deal regularly with health and welfare and they feel it would streamline the structure.

The bill to merge the two departments has met some opposition in committee.

In other legislative action Wednesday, a Senate health, education and welfare subcommittee gave approval to a measure which would allow for state controls over certain aspects of abortions.

The proposal outlines where abortions can be performed and by whom. It also states that a husband's consent would be needed if he is available before an abortion could be performed on his wife.

The proposal also outlaws abortions during the last three months of pregnancy unless the mother's life is in danger or the baby could not survive natural birth.

Wednesday, county officials voiced opposition to a Senate-passed bill giving counties authority to contract with non-profit corporations for cultural and recreational benefits.

The bill, strongly supported by senior citizens' organizations across the state, is now in the House "local" government committee where it is being held for further consideration.

Bill Norberg, Canyon County Commissioner, said he opposes the bill.

"Counties have enough problems coming up with money to do what they need to do," he said.

Thermal lease bids rejected

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Land Board Wednesday voted to deny 28 lease applications for the development of geothermal energy resources.

Commissioner of Lands Gordon Trombley suggested the board wait to grant the applications "until we can gain some expertise" because the resource's value is relatively unknown.

Gov. Cecil Andrus noted that geothermal resources are one of the major potential sources for future energy supplies.

He suggested the board should schedule an executive session to discuss the geothermal "hot spots" that have been pinpointed in Idaho. The board also established new fee rates for timber sale contract extensions. The present rate is $1 per acre per year.

The new rates, which will go into effect Feb. 14, 1973, will charge $2 per acre for the first year and double for each year thereafter with $16 per acre charged for the fourth year.

The increase for contract extensions fees are to encourage completion of timber harvests within the contract time specified.

In other action at the special meeting of the board, it agreed to an exchange of property with Ada County to consolidate ownership of land within the Capitol Mall boundaries.

The state owns property which presently is a parking lot near the old Statesman Building and will exchange it with Ada County for property at the corner of Washington and Fifth Streets.

Church offers benefit boost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Wednesday he is sponsoring legislation to raise to $3,000 the amount a Social Security recipient can earn before he or she begins to lose benefits.

The legislation would raise the limit from the present $2,100 established last year.

Church, chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, said that because of the restrictions on earnings, "more and more elderly Americans have been forced to drop out of the labor force."

He said currently, only about 15 per cent of all persons age 65 or older are employed.

"Why should our national policies attempt to shut off activity for the elderly?" he asked.

The Idaho Democrat said that raising to $3,000 the level of permissible earnings before benefits are deducted "would help to provide greater equity for those who must work to supplement their retirement income."

Church also said Wednesday he is sponsoring a bill to extend Medicare coverage to include out-of-hospital prescription drugs.

He said prescription drugs are now covered under Medicare only for a hospitalized patient.

That such drugs are not now covered, he said, "represents one of the most serious gaps in the Medicare program."

Teacher probation extension approved

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee today gave a "do pass" recommendation to a bill which would extend the probationary period for beginning teachers to three full years.

Beginning teachers now are evaluated during the first two years of service.

The measure was a compromise among the Idaho Education Association, the School Trustees Association and the State Superintendents Association.

At the same time, the committee refused to introduce a measure sponsored by Sen. Regd Hudge, R-Soda Springs, to do away with renewable contracts for public school teachers and require evaluation before each contract is signed.

Youngest Gem senator loses rehearing try

By DAVID ESPO Times-News writer

BOISE — The youngest member of the Idaho Senate tried but failed Wednesday to get his colleagues to reconsider their decision Tuesday to allow advertising of contraceptives.

Sen. James Yost, R-Wendell, told the Senators to use their "common sense" and recognize the difference between education on one hand and advertising on the other. The motion to reconsider Yost's vote was defeated on a division of the house, in which no formal roll call vote is taken. The motion failed narrowly, however.

Yost said following the floor session the bill that the Senate passed Tuesday was "circumventing the problem," saying it was "going all the way around the problem without touching the problem."

He also charged that other senators declined to reconsider the bill because they "didn't want to go through the debate again," and didn't want the "attention and embarrassment drawn to them again."

Dam funding move sought in Senate

BOISE — Twin Falls attorney Tom Nelson appeared before a Senate Committee Wednesday asking for two legislative proposals that he said would facilitate private funding for replacement of the American Falls Dam.

Tie kills review

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Wednesday killed with a 16-16 tie a bill that would have given irrigation districts 60 days to review subdivision plans on land within the district.

Sen. Phil Batt, R-Wilder, served notice he may ask for reconsideration of the measure today.

Kindergarten bill draws Yost's fire

BOISE — Sen. James Yost, R-Wendell, said Wednesday the kindergarten bill which passed the Senate earlier this week was "inconsistent" with the goal of equalized funding for public schools.

Idaho newsmen split in shield law views

In response to a question from Sen. C. C. Chase, D-St. Maries, Gilliland said the enactment of a shield law would not dilute the effect of current libel laws.

A prohibition against punishment of any person who reveals the activities of government, has received 28 proposed pieces of legislation dealing with the subject.

Job test bar law proposed

BOISE (UPI) — Legislation barring an employer from forcing a prospective employee to take a lie detector test was introduced in the house today by the Health and Welfare Committee.

Under the proposal anyone imposing such a condition as of employment or continued employment would be guilty of a misdemeanor.

The executive editor of the Nevada State Journal and Reno Evening Gazette Warren Lerude, cited investigative work done by the Reno newspapers into drug abuse problems in the city four years ago.

prohibition of compulsory testimony at "exploratory investigations."

He said confidentiality of sources was essential to the reporting of the story.

Hensen told the senators present that "freedom of the press applies with equal force to every citizen of the United States. The reporter for a newspaper or a television station has neither more nor less of a right to enjoy that freedom than does any other person — farmer, student, housewife, businessman or whatever."

But Dwight Jensen, a Pocatello reporter, objected to the proposed legislation saying there was no such thing as the "public's right to know," but only individuals' rights.

The proposed bill is currently before the State Affairs Committee, sponsored by the Idaho Press Club. A total of 18 states have already passed a type of shield law, and Congress

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, Wednesday praised the Idaho Legislature for its passage of a joint memorial urging changes in laws to allow private ownership of gold.

McClure said the memorial "will most certainly help the membership of the Idaho delegation to obtain favorable action in the Congress" on legislation which would repeal the sections of the 1934 Gold Reserve Act prohibiting private ownership of gold.

Doctor questions 'pregnancy' drugs

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — The doctor who pioneered the use of pregnancy-promoting drugs in the United States says he now fears they could cause babies to be born to women who subconsciously do not want children and should not have any.

"In the beginning we felt the problem was solved. Now we are finding out it wasn't that easy," said Dr. Walter L. Herrmann Tuesday at a meeting of the Obstetrical and Gynecological Assembly of Southern California.

Herrmann, of the University of Washington medical school in Seattle, was instrumental in promoting the use of drugs to induce ovulation in women who could not conceive because of ovulation problems. One of his aims was to help women become pregnant in recent years after taking the drugs.

Herrmann said there is now reason to believe many of the women were infertile to begin with because subconsciously they are afflicted with doubts about their marriages, their sex lives or other psychological conflicts. Hormonal reactions to the mental stress may cause ovulation to cease, he said.

In the past, a woman with such a problem might consult her doctor, but since there was nothing medicine could do about the condition "she could go home knowing that she had done her best," he said.

Now, doctors prescribe the ovulation-inducing drugs, which overcome the psychological lock that nature put on the reproductive organs for the woman's own good, Herrmann said.

As a result, some women who become pregnant after taking the drugs suffer from difficult labor, severe depression after giving birth and marital strains.

"The ovulation inducers have given doctors the ability to do it," he said. "Now we're asking whether we should do it."

TF Altrusa club needs books for Child Development Center

TWIN FALLS — Books on child, etc., are needed, according to center officials.

Residents in Twin Falls who have books of this nature to donate for center use are to call Altrusa members, Fay McGuire, 733-8290, or Margaret McCall, 733-2247, and arrangements will be made for Altrusans to pick up the books and deliver them to the center.

Members of the nominating committee announced their slate of officers for the ensuing year. Nominated are Tine Hill, president; Norma Herzinger, first vice president; Elaine Nesbitt, second vice president; Adele Stoddard, recording secretary; Carolyn Pence, corresponding secretary; Marie Sanders, treasurer, with a cash position; Virginia Bancroft and Mrs. McGuire serving on the board of directors. Election will be held in March.

Mrs. Bancroft, president, stressed membership as discussion was held on forthcoming activities. The Founder's Day dinner was discussed along with a rummage sale in March and a cooked food sale in April. The exact dates will be announced.

Mrs. McGuire led the Altrusa blessing, with Margaret Watts leading the flag salute.

Hints

Frozen chicken is best thawed in the refrigerator, says the National Broiler Council, a trade organization. Allow 12 to 16 hours to thaw whole frozen chickens of four pounds or less. Chicken pieces thaw in four to nine hours under refrigeration.

If you have a ventilating hood over your kitchen range, turn on the fan in it before you begin cooking. This helps keep grease-laden moisture from sticking to the walls and ceiling, says the American Gas Assn.

Marriage license issued to 'hostage'

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — Three months ago, while police were chasing Ronald Eugene Terry, 34, he commandeered a passing car, pulled a gun on the driver, Beverly A. Sanders, 33, and took her hostage.

Police caught Terry after a wild chase back and forth across the Missouri-Kansas border. The hostage was not hurt.

Tuesday, Terry and the woman he took hostage applied for a marriage license. Police said Mrs. Sanders, who has applied for a divorce from her present husband, became a regular visitor to the Wyandotte County jail after Terry was arrested last November.

However, Terry has been sentenced to one to five years in prison for burglary and still faces trial on charges of forgery, theft, and kidnaping.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating a very wealthy married man for the last three years. I was married when we started seeing each other, but I got a divorce because he said if I were "free" he would divorce his wife and marry me.

He told me that he had not laid a hand on his wife for five years, now all of a sudden she's pregnant! He explained it by saying he had to give her something for their last anniversary!

I am wondering now if I am foolish to wait for him? He has children, and so have I. I quit work to be available to see him during the day, but there are days I never see him, and I am getting bored. He takes good care of me financially, but I am a young woman yet and need to know the future is secure.

Unhappy mistress

I have had offers of dates with other men, but have stayed true to him. Please tell me if you think I'm being played for a fool. Or should I wait out his wife?

TIRED AND IMPATIENT

DEAR T. AND I: Why don't you give HIM something for his anniversary? His walking papers. If it's security you're after, you won't find it with him.

DEAR ABBY: When you go to a restaurant and order a sandwich, and it comes with a few slices of pickle on the edge of the plate, are you supposed to eat the pickle? Or is it just there for decoration?

We took a survey at our school. Out of 125 students, 75 rejected the pickle, and 50 ate it (mostly with their fingers). Can you just imagine all the pickles that are wasted in the city of New York alone? How, would you vote, Abby?

IN A PICKLE:

DEAR IN: With the pickle eaters.

DEAR ABBY: You have absolutely made my year! I have had 21 years of moans and groans because of the name I gave my youngest daughter. And then you come along and print a letter from a girl who at age 18 actually CHOSE that very name out of all the names in the world! My thanks to you, and to Bethany Lyn Brown from the mother of another Bethany Lyn.

MRS. HULL

DEAR ABBY: I have read that the quality of one's voice changes with age, and I'm sure it's true. And that is my problem because my husband said to me the other day: "I can't help it, but your voice just grates on my nerves!"

I have always been considered a good conversationalist and my personality has been described as "bubbling." But now I am so self-conscious about my voice I don't talk any more than I absolutely have to. And when I do talk to my husband, I try to use different tones and pitches so as not to irritate him.

I would be very grateful to you or to any of your readers if this condition of mine could be improved. Thank you.

UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY: On the chance that your problem is medical, first you should see a throat specialist for a complete examination of your vocal chords. If you are healthy, a speech therapist or a voice coach might be very helpful. Your local college (speech or drama department) can make recommendations. And good luck!

Nevada prefers parents

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada's gambling industry opposes lowering the age of legal maturity in the state to 18 because it doesn't want teenagers at the dice tables—driving their parents away.

Les Koford, executive secretary of the Gaming Industry Association of Nevada, and Philip Hannin, chairman of the Gaming Control Board, both testified Tuesday against a bill which would lower adult status from 21 to 18.

Koford said bad publicity would result when 18-year-olds headed into the casinos to drink and gamble. He said "greedy" casinos would be accused of seeking to lure them in.

"We would get snowed under with 18-year-olds on weekends who would get all liquored up and head for the highways and smash into some truck," he said. Koford also worried about teenagers younger than 18 getting into clubs on false identification cards.

"But more than that is the very fact that if the kids are permitted to come over here to drink and gamble it will keep their parents away," he said.

Asked to leave

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — American anthropologist Wyn Sargent was asked to leave West Irian because she refused to consummate her controversial marriage to the West Irianese tribal chief Obahorok, a highly placed government source said today.

The source said Mrs. Sargent aroused Obahorok's anger when she repeatedly denied him his marital rights as a husband.

The 42-year-old anthropologist, who has been living among the primitive tribes of West Irian for the past four months, created a stir early this month when she married chief Obahorok

Ketchum City plan launched

By TERRY CAMPBELL, Times-News writer

KETCHUM — A Ketchum community project to develop a comprehensive city plan and policy is off the ground.

During an organizational meeting Tuesday night, attended by about 200 persons, the group voted that the project's board of directors would consist of four members of the Ketchum Planning and Zoning Commission and five citizens at large.

According to David L. Vhay, project organizer, the board will govern distribution of $10,000 in private donated funds and hire staff for the project.

Questionnaires were distributed to allow residents to state their opinions on possible project directions and to propose the five board members.

Community assistance was also solicited. Completed questionnaires must be returned by 5 p.m. Friday, to the Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce office or the project headquarters on the second floor of the Colonnade.

The at-large board members will include the five persons most often nominated in the questionnaire, with the planning and zoning commission determining their representatives.

During the meeting, Vhay said, "The project can become the focal point for the whole community." Project direction, he said, was "pretty much up to the people in this town."

Moderator Lloyd Curtis said, "We stand on the threshold of planning and shaping the future of Ketchum and the Wood River Valley, by creating an environment which provides the best quality of life and living for ourselves, our children and future generations."

Curtis said residents have both the right and the responsibility to determine this future.

In attendance at the meeting was a large contingent from the Blaine County Builders and Contractors Association, represented by Robert Ratto.

Ratto said the association was "entirely against" continuation of the moratorium on sewer connections.

He said, "The only people we hire are our local people," a statement which was met by applause — and said, "We agree we do not need the big, heavy construction, but we do need homes."

Curtis said the moratorium was a matter between the Idaho Health Department and the city of Ketchum. The moratorium will continue, he said, "as long as the sewer plant can no longer accept loadings."

Ketchum resident Edward Scott said, "It is absolutely fatal to get thinking as if the sewer was the only problem. There would be no need for this group to be formed."

Vhay said $5,000 of the project funds were donated by Douglas Campbell, East Fork, and $5,000 by William Janss, owner of Sun Valley Co., Inc. The office space, donated by Nick Orr, will be used as data center and for meetings, Vhay said.

The project is anticipated to consume about three months. The development period first calls for community dialogue and collection of existing and required data.

Further phase work will consist of definition of alternate programs, policies and objectives as well as application of these to specific areas of anticipated growth, including north Ketchum, Warm Springs, the downtown area, west Ketchum and south Ketchum.

A second phase will allow review and comment by city and county officials.

Kimberly hearing gives joint sewer link plan

By JOCELYN CLOWARD, Times-News writer

KIMBERLY — Approximately 15 Kimberly residents attended a public hearing Tuesday night on a proposed sewer link between Kimberly and Twin Falls.

The sewer proposal was explained to those present by Joe Haynes, JUB Engineers, Twin Falls, who read the joint sewer agreement arrived at by both Twin Falls and Kimberly city councils.

Haynes answered questions from the audience, explaining to those present the estimated cost of the installation and construction of the proposed sewer trunkline from Kimberly to Twin Falls to connect with the present Twin Falls system at Madrona Street and Addison Avenue East would be $413,000.

Kimberly's -- share -- of construction costs after estimated Environmental Protection Agency grants would be $103,250, he said. Approximate cost to Kimberly, following passage of a bond issue, would be $8,200, he said.

And user costs would average $1.15 per month. Additional costs, Haynes said, would include trunks within Kimberly at $91,000, with the estimated Kimberly share being $22,750, annual cost to residents, $1,025, and user costs per month at 25 cents.

Cost to treat sewage by Twin Falls was estimated at $155 per million gallons with an annual cost to Kimberly residents of $13,392 and user cost per month at $1.06. Total maintenance and operations for the trunkline and collection system is predicted at $5,100, with the entire cost to be borne by Kimberly residents at an estimated seven cents per user cost per month.

Meeting both before and after the public hearing, the Kimberly City Council heard John Stricker argue that the city's zoning ordinances are "prejudiced against mobile homes."

Stricker questioned the city ordinances which limit placement of mobile homes and restrict additions to mobile homes or replacement of them in some areas of the city.

The council decided to further investigate bids opened Tuesday for a tractor and loader and for roofing for the Kimberly City Hall.

Auditor Thomas Condie, of Riddle, Roth, and Evans, Twin Falls, presented the 1972 revenue audit and tentative city budget for 1973. A public hearing on the tentative budget is scheduled March 13.

Later, the council voted to raise city water hookups $10 from $50 to $60. Bert Collins and Sons were granted a building permit for storage bins.

City Clerk Edythe Widmer announced that donations for the moving of the Kimberly Union Pacific Depot have now reached $2,003.93. She read a letter from the Union Pacific Railroad formally granting ownership of the building to the city.

An ordinance annexing the LaRue-Stringer property to Kimberly was adopted. A portion of the property was previously outside city limits.

TF bond issue action delayed

By GEORGE WILEY, Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — District 411 School Board members took no action Wednesday night on a proposed $2 million school construction bond issue.

R. Edmond Peterson, CTA, Architects, Twin Falls, outlined preliminary floor plans for the board for the construction of a new Happy Day School building, additions to classrooms and the gymnasium at Robert Stuart Junior High School, and a new elementary school building.

Construction of these facilities was earlier recommended by the District 411 Citizens Advisory Committee.

After listening to the presentation by Peterson, school board members generally agreed that more time was needed to gather information on costs and moneys forthcoming from the state before a definite bond proposal could be presented to the public.

"Of particular concern was how much the legislature would allocate for school operation and whether definite action would be taken on proposed state supported kindergartens."

"We wanted to get this going last fall," Chairman John Wolfe, said of the bond election, "but we didn't do it. I don't think another month or six weeks will make that much difference now. Even if we passed the bond issue, we still couldn't begin construction until 1974."

"The average person," Wolfe said, "if they don't understand a bond issue which costs money, will vote it down."

The school board made no motion or plans for future consideration of the bond issue. Discussion of the proposal died out as other matters were brought before the board.

In publishing plans for construction, architect Peterson presented a 12-15 student Happy Day facility containing a flexible central classroom, an activity room, student cubicles, a storage room, a "mud" room with individual coat closets, a small kitchen, a supervisor's office, bathrooms and perhaps a shower room.

Peterson said the proposed 1,900 square foot facility would be built adjacent to Harrison Elementary School and integrated in exterior design to the Harrison building.

He said the interior of the special student facility would be of a residential character. He estimated cost of the building at about $40,000.

An earlier proposal to join the Happy Day School with the Child Development Center was abandoned, school board members said, because of problems faced by the center.

Peterson also outlined plans for addition of four classrooms to Robert Stuart Junior High School, as well as a 1,000 square foot addition to the gymnasium.

Both additions, he said, could be integrated with the present structure without detracting from its design.

Peterson also outlined two plans for the construction of a new elementary school. Both plans were rectangular with dissolving an informal classroom group around a resource center area.

Peterson said to afford the facility the district would have to raise city water hookups $10 from $50 to $60. Bert Collins and Sons were granted a building permit for storage bins.

City Clerk Edythe Widmer announced that donations for the moving of the Kimberly Union Pacific Depot have now reached $2,003.93. She read a letter from the Union Pacific Railroad formally granting ownership of the building to the city.

An ordinance annexing the LaRue-Stringer property to Kimberly was adopted. A portion of the property was previously outside city limits.

to construct a "very simple but good building."

In other action, the school board recommended the hiring of William M. Stover as the new principal of Washington Elementary School; approved the installation of pop machines in the cafeteria of Twin Falls High School; accepted low bids for desks, tables and a truck; tabled a discussion of the school calendar for next year; and passed a resolution accepting about $6,500 in federal resource materials funds, in compliance with federal regulations.

The school board also discussed early graduation at Twin Falls High School. They decided to allow seven juniors to complete classwork for graduation during the coming summer, but asked that student opinion be polled on allowing the juniors to go through commencement with graduating seniors prior to the completion of summer courses.

There was some discussion of whether requirements should be raised to prevent students from graduating as juniors when they might not be emotionally prepared to enter college or enter the labor market. It was also noted that early graduation could cost the school district significantly in state daily attendance funds.

Heyburn aides hear request

HEYBURN — Glen Tilley discussed the construction of a trailer park on his Heyburn property with the City Council here Wednesday night.

He said the trailer court would cover approximately eight acres of his land between 18th and 20th streets.

Mayor Harold Hurst asked Tilley to draw up a rough plan of the proposed court and secure a petition of approval from adjoining property owners for presentation at the next council meeting.

Hurst said the area would have to be rezoned commercial to allow the trailer court. It is presently zoned residential.

Mrs. Minnie Wright asked about the requirements for obtaining city sewage services of a 20-acre area adjacent to the city on the Kraus property is subdivided.

Hurst said the area would have to be platted, annexed and dedicated for public use before city sewers could be connected.

Nampa injunction hearing postponed

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — A hearing has been postponed until April 11 on a permanent injunction requested by Dr. Wilfred E. Watkins against Mercy Medical Center.

The urologist filed a suit for the injunction in U.S. District Court, claiming his civil rights were violated by the Catholic code of ethics incorporated in bylaws of the hospital.

The issue involved his annual application for membership on the hospital's surgical staff. When he refused to accept the bylaws containing the ethics code for Catholic hospitals, he was dropped from the staff.

Since the suit was filed earlier this month, Watkins and Mercy Medical Center agreed that he be granted staff privileges pending final determination as to whether he is entitled to the injunction.

He sought the injunction on grounds his practice as a urologist — sometimes involving sterilization procedures — has been inhibited by the code of ethics.

Passes peak

BOISE (UPI) — The presence of London type influenza in Idaho has been confirmed, but the director of preventive medicine said the flu epidemic here has passed its peak.

Dr. John Mather of the Department of Environmental Protection and Health, said Wednesday and London flu has shown up in the Boise-Caldwell area, Twin Falls, Idaho Falls, Fort Hall and Pocatello.

But Mather said there had been an "appreciable decrease in the number of cases we are having reported." Cases reported dropped from a high of 1,288 the week ending Jan. 20 to 402 cases the week ending Feb. 10, he said.

Minico nips I.F. to stay in race

RUPERT — The Minico Spartans turned to their defense and the Idaho Falls team Wednesday night to top Idaho Falls 40-35 and remain tied with Borah for the Southern Idaho Conference lead.

The Spartans can clinch a share of the crown by defeating the Grizzlies at Skyline Friday night. Meanwhile, Borah plays Nampa in the Lions' windup. The Spartans were about as flat against Idaho Falls as they were sharp against Twin Falls 24 hours earlier. They shot poorly and in the first 10 and one half minutes managed only 11 points. However, when Craig Hepworth hit a jumper at the buzzer, the Spartans had an intermission 15-15 deadlock.

In the second half the Spartans began to overthrow the overbalanced zone Idaho Falls used successfully in earlier to protect the Middle. Hepworth and Nyle Keller got the points off it — not many, but enough in the close scoring game to win it. Idaho Falls, which managed only 11 field goals all night turned completely sour at the foul line and took only 13 points out of 24 Spartan fouls. They missed five one-and-one situations in the final four minutes — and Minico was never more than four-five points away.

Idaho Falls dominated the Spartans in the first quarter and got inside on several occasions for close-in shots but couldn't get any down. Minico, beset by turnovers and probably 15 to 20 per cent shooting at best, hung in doggedly with its pressure defense.

Ross Nickerson and Roger Rowberry shoved Idaho Falls ahead by seven early in the second quarter but then got only three points in the final four minutes while Minico climbed back into the tie.

Ritchie Donner's free throw gave Minico a momentary lead to open the second half but sophomore Kelley Newport replied with two long shots and Rowberry got a three-point play to send Idaho Falls up 22-16. Late in the third period, the Tigers still had a six-point edge at 28-22 but then Hepworth hit four points to close the third period and after an Idaho Falls free throw, opened the fourth with more to tie it 29-29 with 0:59 remaining.

Hansen and Keller then put the Spartans ahead to stay. Minico hit enough free throws at the end to hold the victory. Idaho Falls scored only six points — one field goal — in the final eight minutes.

Idaho Falls won the preliminary 54-34.

Minico travels to Skyline, TF hosts Indians

The Minico Spartans, at the end of a successful season, travel to Skyline with at least a share of the Southern Idaho Conference hanging in the balance while the Twin Falls Bruins play host to Pocatello Friday and go to Skyline Saturday to wind up the regular season.

Minico travels to Skyline in the certain knowledge it has had one outstanding game and one flat one so far this week — winning both due to its pressure defense, however. Skyline will be a rough foe at home since the Grizzlies play a sticky zone defense and have a couple of good shooters in Cary Ellis and Dave Gill.

In addition, Minico's main outside threat, senior guard Val Christensen, sprained an ankle slightly against Idaho Falls Wednesday and may not be at full speed.

Twin Falls hopes for some revenge when it entertains Pocatello. The Indians nipped the Bruins by two during the flu spell. Pocatello will bring a pair of good scorers in Bob Sherwood, coming on strong in the second half of the season, and Greg Hess, who has 158 and 14.3 average.

Conference statistics this week show Eric Hovey, Twin Falls, back up to third place in scoring after he fell from second to seventh during the Bruins lull. Hovey now has 270 points for the year and 222 in the league. Senior Bob Durham, Twin Falls, stands at 14.3 with 265 overall and 206 in the league. Charlie Browne moved his average up to 9.8 with 106 and 137, respectively.

Minico's Craig Hepworth, not including this week's games, has 244 points and 187, season and conference, and a 14.3 average. Val Christensen stood at 172 and 14.0.

Christensen also was making a run at the SIC free throw streak record until he broke a 17-straight skein by missing against Idaho Falls Wednesday. The record is 27. The youngster has missed only five all season, 44 of 49, and is shooting a torrid 91 per cent. He is just under 90 per cent in the league and can claim both records by holding those margins Friday night.

Durham continues as the league's best rebounder with an even 200 for the year while Hepworth ranks third with 166. Hepworth is the top Magic Valley shooter in the SIC with 46 per cent with Hovey second at 44.8. Hepworth also has shot the most free throws, 135 overall and 99 in the league and is hitting .657 and .694, from the line.

Highland's Byron In-The-Woods is the leading scorer with 395 and 293 points in season and conference. The top shooter is Borah's Tim Magnuson who is hitting .561 from the field.

Measuring day

There will be an official measuring day for big game trophies held at the Jerome Regional Office of the Idaho Fish and Game Department on February 16th.

What constitutes a trophy in some of our more common big game such as mule deer, elk, antelope, and mountain goats? Boone and Crockett records show a minimum for a typical mule deer of about 25 inch long main beams, 5-6 points, about a 34-36 inch spread, and 6 inches around the antler at the base for a total of 196 minimum.

Elk require close to a 52 inch long main beam, 6-7 points, 30 inch spread, and 8-9 inches circumference at the base of each antler. Antelope and mountain goats are measured a little differently than deer and elk.

It takes about a 16 inch horn, 6-7 inches around the base for an antelope to go into the 80 minimum record book score. Mountain goats require a 9-10 inch horn with a 5-6 inch base to qualify for the minimum score of 50 points.

Many gun thefts reported in Idaho

There has been a recent flurry of Idaho reports dealing with specialized burglary involving the theft of firearms.

Elsewhere across the country the illicit trade in stolen guns is big enough to concern and outrage sportsmen everywhere.

The National Rifle Association says a nationwide underworld network is responsible, stealing guns to resell to criminals and, occasionally, to unwitting private citizens who think they are getting a good deal.

The NRA says there are two kinds of gun thefts for two different purposes. Militant and habitual criminals are stealing modern firearms to use against decent citizens. Also, certain thieves are specializing in looting museums and private collections for antique firearms which they can resell at a big profit.

Never before in history has the thievery of firearms been so common and so widespread. One particularly effective tactic of gun thieves, especially in Idaho, is to raid parking lots where rifles and shotguns cradled in gun racks can be seen through the windows of pickups and hunting vehicles.

Needless to say, every gun owner should have an inventory list giving the make, model, caliber and serial number of modern arms and a complete description of antique guns.

which lack some of the current information such as numbering. Photographs can be of help.

But to deter the unlawful traffic in stolen guns, all citizens should get involved. Here are some worthwhile guidelines to follow.

1. If you buy guns from a stranger, insist on full identification. Then check him out.
2. Always insist on a bill of sale including the seller's complete identification.
3. Always be suspicious of firearms which are offered at a price far below their actual value.
4. Reputable businesses are the logical places to purchase guns.

Actually, the best overall precaution is to use your head. Good sense and sound judgment are the best allies the citizen has against gun thievery.

Pride of ownership and the possession of guns for sport shooting is a way of life with many Idahoans.

Tigers seek two wins

The Jerome Tigers face a must duty of winning two games in the closing weekend in the South Central Idaho Conference while Camas County is only one victory away from undisputed champion of the Northside and gets two chances for lift.

Those games should highlight a season ending schedule which boasts 15 games on Friday and 12 on Saturday, the second largest of the year. But with those two exceptions, its simply a matter of completing contractual arrangements. Most of the 20 teams are thinking only tournament now.

Jerome is two games behind Gooding in the win column while the Senators have their SCIC schedule complete. Jerome must beat Ellers when the Wildcats come to call Friday night and then topple the cellar-dwelling Buhl Indians at Buhl Saturday to deadlock the Senators.

On the Northside, Camas County holds a two-game edge over Richfield and could ice it by defeating the Blue Devils at Dietrich Friday. The Devils are third and could be rough at home. But Saturday night, the Musers will have only three victories. Rimrock on the Camas County court and their chances of victory improve considerably.

Friday's schedule finds Gooding going to Wendell in a Big Six loop test with the Senators hoping to reverse the fourth-quarter beating Wendell handed them the first time.

Wood River will be home to Buhl in the other SCIC match of the night. Glenns Ferry, A-3 in classification, has a considerable chore at hand as the Pilots must go to Mountain Home which has juppled something like 15 straight A-1 foes.

In the Little Five Conference, Valley will travel to Shoshone. The Magic Valley Conference pits the champion Oakley Hornets against runner-up Castleford which at best is a prestige thing. Hansen, coming off its second win of the season, entertain arch-rival Murtaugh while Dietrich, which ended Oakley conference undefeated last Tuesday, will travel to Raft-River.

Northside teams have four games scheduled, including that Camas County-Dietrich affair. Gooding State will be at Bliss while Richfield makes the long trip to Rimrock. Carey plays host to non-league Mackay.

Burley winds up its season at home Saturday night against Tigby while Gooding follows Glenns Ferry into Mountain Home. Jerome is at Buhl in the lone SCIC game.

Wood River travels to Blackfoot, hoping to avenge a January defeat. The Little Five contributes two games, Shoshone at Glenns Ferry and Wendell at Kimberly while Valley and Murtaugh meet at Murtaugh in non-league action. The Northside again provides four games. Rimrock is at Camas County in one, but an interesting one from a pre-tournament view could be Carey at Gooding State. Carey has been improving throughout the year. Gooding State will be at Richfield while Blackfoot travels to getting all its men in one Dietrich.

Once you get into Black Velvet, there's really nothing else.

The smooth Canadian.

Schnellenberger named Colt coach

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Howard Schnellenberger, named Wednesday as head coach of the Baltimore Colts, pledged to spend "every waking moment" in bringing the Colts back to championship form.

The former Miami Dolphins offensive coordinator and coach of receivers was named second in command by general manager Joe Thomas on the heels of a three week purge that saw eight veterans, including John Unitas, sent to rival teams.

"I'll make an effort every waking moment to bring the Colts back to the level of excellence they've enjoyed over the years," Schnellenberger said.

He is the third Colts head coach in less than four months and the sixth in 20 years. He succeeds John Sandusky, ousted in late December, and Don McCafferty, fired in the middle of Baltimore's dismal '59 season.

"I decided I wanted Howard right after I got rid of the other coaches but I had to wait until the Superbowl was over," said Thomas. "If you want a good man you have to wait for him."

Thomas — who has made it clear who really runs the Colts — said two other Dolphins assistants and a pair of Washington Redskins coaches had also been considered for the job.

Schnellenberger, 38, admitted his three years with Don Shula in Miami will influence his leadership of the Colts but insisted the team will not look like Miami, it will look like the new Baltimore Colts.

"Nothing will take immediate precedence over finding a coaching staff," he said. He said that he will look over both college and pro ranks for his coaches, including former Baltimore assistants who show interest.

"We have a good basic corps of talent," Schnellenberger said. "With a good coaching staff it will mean improvement and possibly the playoffs next season."

He called Thomas' college draft selections this year "excellent." The main ingredients needed to turn out an NFL winner, are talent — the most important — organization and discipline, Schnellenberger said.

Former boss Shula, in Miami, said, "We're very happy for him. It's something he's always wanted — he's not only a fine coach but a fine person as well."

The new mentor said he wants to sit down and talk with disgruntled Colts — giant Bubba Smith. The defensive end, injured last year in a pre-season game and out for the year, has sold his home here and asked repeatedly to be traded.

"I certainly want to have him back," said Schnellenberger. "His prowess made every opposing team adjust its offensive line tactics."

Fan enthusiasm for the Colts waned last year with the club's poor showing, but Schnellenberger said he "knows how to bring it back."

Ali wins decision over Bugner

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Heavily-favored Muhammad Ali failed to make his prediction of another "St. Valentine's Day massacre" come true and didn't even score a knockdown Wednesday night but scored a unanimous 12-round decision over surprisingly stubborn Joe Bugner, the European heavyweight champion.

Weighing four pounds less than in his last start against Bob Foster Nov. 21, the 31-year-old former world titleholder was the winner on the three judges' score cards, 57-54, 56-53 and 58-52.

If the 7-1 favorite Ali expected an easy time, Bugner set him straight in the opening round by connecting with stiff left jabs and an occasional right against boxing's folk hero.

Ali, who had predicted a seventh-round knockout, didn't really come on strong until the sixth round when he hit his English opponent with two left-right combinations at the start. He pummeled Bugner from corner to corner.

In the seventh, Bugner's corner warned him of more pressure and Ali walked right in and landed a hard left. Ali then came in flatfooted and began slamming lefts and rights that had Bugner on the ropes.

All eased off in the eighth and the ninth but had his best round in the tenth. Bugner, surprisingly quick on his feet, was hit by a left-right combination at the start of the round.

With blood streaming down his face, Bugner retreated as Ali landed strong lefts and rights to his head.

On all three official scorecards, Ali took the last three rounds and that was the difference on two of the official's cards.

Ali, who doesn't expect to get a crack at new heavyweight king George Foreman until 1974, came out grim-faced in the eleventh and connected with a left and right. In the twelfth, Ali also came out strong and chased his opponent throughout the round.

Bugner's best round was the first when he surprised the crowd of 5,200 at the Las Vegas Convention Center by sending Ali back off balance with a hard right and then a left and right to the head.

All cut Bugner over the left eye, a laceration which bled through most of the bout, but otherwise the Hungarian-born underdog, who has been living in England for the past 15 years, was not marked at the end.

Nine years younger than Ali, Bugner had a slight weight advantage—219 to 217 1/2—plus an inch-in-height-and-1 3/4-inches-in-reach. But for his size, he was surprisingly agile in staying away from his more aggressive opponent.

Ali suffered a cut eye in his eighth-round knockout over light heavyweight Foster at Stateline, Nev., the first cut in his 42-bout career, but was unmarked Wednesday night.

It was the 10th straight victory for the former Cassius Clay since losing a 15-round decision to Joe Frazier March 8, 1971. He improved his record to 31-1.

Bugner suffered his fifth defeat against 44 wins and a draw.

Ali, who saw his $3 million take from a rematch with Frazier destroyed by Foreman at Jamaica last month, earned $275,000 for the fight, which had a gross gate of $298,000. Bugner, who was as much as a 20-1 underdog in London, got $50,000 for the bout but revenue from closed-circuit television in the United States and Europe could bring his take up to $125,000.

All's next fight will be against Ken Norton, a Frazier-sparring partner, at San Diego March 31.

Judge Tompasa scored the fight 58-52, Judge Roland Dakin had it 57-54 and Judge Lou Talbot scored it 56-53.

Referee Buddy Basilio did not take part in scoring the fight under Nevada's five-point must system.

San Diego field headed by 3 PGA money leaders

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Bruce Crampton, John Schlee and Rod Funseth, three of the year's top four money winners, top the field Thursday in the start of the $170,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open, the last of the winter tour stops.

With the PGA scene shifting next week to Florida, such players as Jack Nicklaus, the Crosby champ, and Arnold Palmer, the Hope winner last Sunday, have elected to pass the Williams tournament, usually one of the most attractive and best attended stops on the tour.

"Sure, it would have been nice if Nicklaus and Palmer decided to play here," said a San Diego tournament official. "But we still feel we have an attractive field without them."

Without Nicklaus and Palmer what they have here is a very competitive field playing this year on a tougher course, and picking an advance winner is about as risky as a five-horse parlay at Santa Anita.

But Crampton, off his back-to-back victories at Phoenix and Tucson last month, and Schlee, a fine golfer who finally won his first title, look like the best bets, along with Funseth, who opened the year by winning the Los Angeles Open.

Crampton shoots 66, wins pro-am

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Bruce Crampton shot a 66 and Ron Cerrudo had a 67 Wednesday to win the two Pro-Am preludes to the $170,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

Crampton, winner of the Tucson and the Phoenix Opens this year and one of the favorites in the San Diego Open, got his six under 60 at Torrey Pines' south course, the one they will use in the tourney proper beginning Thursday.

Cerrudo, playing his best golf since trying to come back from back surgery, got his five under 67 on the north layout.

Crampton and Cerrudo won $500 each. That boosted Crampton's money winnings for the year—the pro tour—to $183,800.

Don Iverson, a youngster who has shown signs of breaking through this year, had a 68 at the south course to finish closest to Crampton, while Mike Miko, Morley, Jack Montgomery, Barry Jankel and Ed Sneed had 68s on the north course.

Then, too, there are Billy Casper, who played well in his last three starts despite an aching back, Lee Trevino, who finally seems to have his game under control, and Tom Weiskopf, the "other" golfer from Ohio State who blistered the tourney course with a five-under 67 in a tuneup.

George Archer, Gene Littler, Dave Hill, Jim Wiechers and defending champion Paul Hareny among the older brigade and youngsters Don Iverson, Allen Miller and Tom Watson also are here shooting for a top prize of $23,000.

Play here will be over Torrey Pines' south course, a par 36-36-72, 7,047 yard layout fronting on the Pacific Ocean. In previous years they used 15 south course holes and three from the adjoining north layout in this tourney. The new holes this year are the 11th, 12th and 13th and many feel the switch will add at least a shot a round to the scores.

Last year, Hareny shot a 13 under par 275 to win, but the veteran pro from Massachusetts said he doesn't expect to shoot that low this year with the change in the course.

"I agree with most observers who say a 211 will win it," said Hareny. "No question the course is tougher this year." Weather could be a factor, too. The long-range forecast is for some rain before Sunday's wrapup. Part of Saturday's third round and Sunday's finish will be televised nationally.

Ali lauds Bugner after fight win

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Muhammad Ali had high praise for Joe Bugner Wednesday night after scoring a unanimous 12-round decision over the European heavyweight champion.

"Joe will hit and hurt any other heavyweight but me," Ali said immediately after the bout. "He will never meet another dancing master like me. Just watch out for Joe Bugner."

All said Bugner took some of his best blows and hurt him with a good right to the head midway through the bout.

"That's why I had to get away from him," Ali said. "With two years, with added experience, Bugner will be able to take on any heavyweight in the world. I thought I had him in trouble in the middle rounds but he's got a strong body and has a good punch."

"He's going to be one of the greatest—after I'm through," Ali said he never really thought he was going to knock Bugner out but "his eye looked sort of bad in those last rounds."

Bugner said the cut eye worried him "all the time. I was afraid they might stop it." "No, I wasn't actually hurt bad," the 22-year-old Bugner claimed, "but he got in some hard blows and I knew he was always dangerous. "I didn't have any real plan. I just tried to style my fight as I went along—I didn't think his legs were so good."

Exactly 11 per cent of all murdered men are killed by their wives but 41 per cent of all murdered women are killed by their husbands. Or such has proved to be the case in Philadelphia, a recent study showed. Researchers there said one out of four of those murder victims - I dare you, just dare you! - appeared to have incited the violence.

WOMEN DROP into all different sorts of stores to browse, not really to buy. But it's a rare occasion when a woman steps into a carpet shop just to look around with no real intention of purchasing anything. Or so a salesman of lengthy experience tells me. Floor time where carpets are peddled is exceedingly valuable, contends he: Almost every soul who walks through the door is said to be a prospect.

ALL ABOUT SLEEP Those years during which women are said to sleep most lightly are thereabouts of age 55, researchers claim. Insomniacs, please note.

HOW OLD we grow! All the powerful men of our younger years are gone. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jack L. Warner, Adolf Hitler, Samuel Goldwyn, Joseph Stalin, Louis B. Mayer, Winston Churchill, Harry Cohn, Benito Mussolini, Adolph Zukor, Charles de Gaulle, Earl Lemmle. They ruled our world, truly.

But take a pair of new cars. When they hit each other at that speed, the average damage runs about $1,200. Professional football players are made better than new cars.

A Just 16. Turned out about 2,500 recordings, might mention.

A No, and it's a good thing, too. A mama giraffe can't nurse more than two offspring at a time.

A Queen Elizabeth. Isn't insured, just held as a Crown risk.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

MAJOR HOOPLE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices headed lower today amid continued investor uncertainty over the recent dollar devaluation and its possible negative effect on domestic industries.

Shortly before noon, the Dow Jones average of 30 blue-chip industrial stocks was off 2.71 to 977.20.

Analysts said the possibility of the recent dollar devaluation could hurt some domestic oil companies, which must contend with rising crude oil prices, as well as some businesses that depend on exports to generate sales.

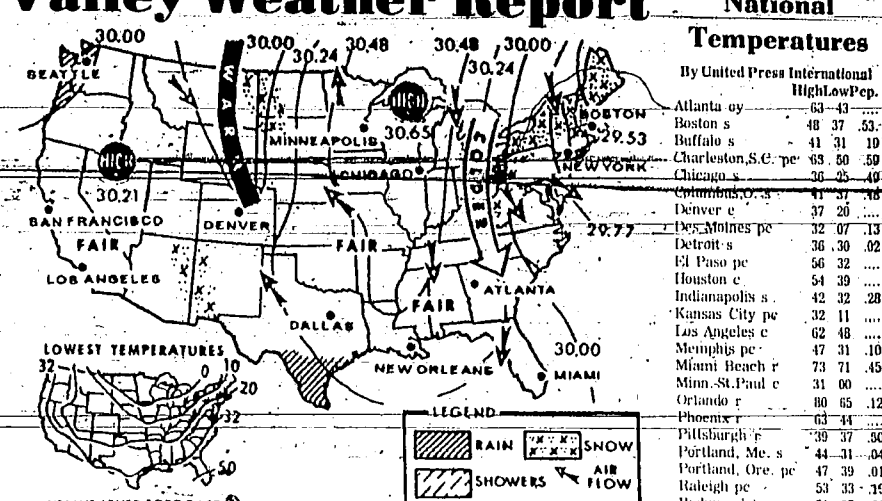

On the American Stock Exchange, declining issues were ahead of advances. National General New warrants led the actives, unchanged at 6 1/2 on volume of 187,300.

Big Board oils were mixed. Mountain Fuel Supply added 1 1/2.

Mutual Funds HHH asks farm voice in new trade policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Knowledgeable farm spokesmen must have a major voice in the new international trade policy President Nixon is designing, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey insisted today.

Humphrey, indicating he plans an aggressive role for himself in shaping Congressional contributions to new trade moves, made his comments in an interview after Treasury Secretary George P. Schultz announced the administration plans soon to ask for a major trade negotiations law.

Such a package deal would mean reduced production for dairy farmers, but a boom in grain-livestock exports producing an $8 billion gain in the balance of payments.

Democrat quickly added he wants to make sure that when details are filled in, the U.S. doesn't injure its farmers for the benefit of other groups.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The next significant wave of support could be at the Dow 950, "at which point the 'pence at hand' rally would be cancelled out," according to W. E. Hutton & Co.

Many investors are placing some reliance on the January market figures as an augury for the rest of the year's trends, E. F. Hutton says.

Canadian farmers ask more profits

OTTAWA (UPI) — Food costs in Canada are soaring, but farmers are making only a small percentage of the profit, they would like to see a committee on trends in food prices Tuesday.

"Farm incomes still lag behind the national economy and I think it's high time farmers got a price increase that would at least put them on an equal footing with wage earners," said Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan.

Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Herb Gray noted farm prices did not increase for many years and are just now beginning to catch up with the farmers' costs.

He said it might be useful for the committee to examine how the cost of a product is affected by processing, packaging and advertising.

Women of Moose hear medic's talk

TWIN FALLS — Dr. William Kendall was guest speaker for the Women of the Moose Tuesday night at the Moose Hall.

Dr. Kendall introduced by Mrs. Wayne Bohra, hospital chairman, spoke on the eight main reasons for heart attack.

He conducted a question period and displayed a heart pacemaker.

Louise Messinger, chairman from the Jerome chapter, was a special guest.

Two new members were enrolled, Gail Stuart and Oletha Kelly. Their pro tem sponsors were Mrs. Paul McCollum and Mrs. Charles Reeves, with Mrs. Clyde Greenup and Mrs. Miller as sponsors.

Mrs. Ralph Clark gave a report on the purpose and use of the Big "M" Club. Further information concerning the group can be obtained by contacting Mrs. Clark.

New federal law shelters horses

SALMON, Idaho (UPI) — A herd of wild horses in the Warm Springs Creek area south of Challis will be sheltered from harassment when new federal legislation goes into effect in April, the Bureau of Land Management said.

The bureau conducted a census of the herd last year and found there are 156 head. The herd stays in the Challis area most of the year and winters on windblown ridges at elevations up to 8,000 feet, said Gary Finlayson, Salmon district BLM manager.

The wild horse law prohibits poaching, converting a wild horse or burro to private use, causing the death or harassment of the animals, processing the remains into commercial products, or selling them, and provides a fine of $2,000 for violations.

Finlayson said the horses in the Warm Springs Creek area have been there "for as long as they can remember" and that they probably are descendants of early settlers on the east fork.

The law is to be implemented by April.

District studies water rationing

OTHELLO, Wash. (UPI) — The East Columbia Basin Irrigation District's Board of Directors is considering the idea of rationing water to farmers during peak usage periods this summer.

The water limit proposal is being considered, says board president Ted Osborne, because water usage in the East district is rising and such limits would eventually be needed to discourage waste.

"Now is the time to think about this," he said. "We had better consider the problems we face now, when we see them coming. We should prepare for it by encouraging farmers to make better use of their water."

However, board member Harvey Bayley says he objects to the proposal because the district would be facing lawsuits for non-delivery of water.

Wrong town

BELLEVUE — Right fire, wrong town. Fire sirens sounded simultaneously in Bellevue and Halley about 8:50 a.m. Tuesday. The fire was on second street in Bellevue but in addition to the Bellevue Fire Department, the Halley Fire Department was called by mistake. Halley dispatched one truck to Second Avenue in Halley and after checking the address and finding no fire, it returned to the fire house.

The fire's rightful owner, the Bellevue Fire Department, responded to the call at the George McKay residence at 111 Second St. and with fire extinguishers contained the fire in about 10 minutes.

The blaze, apparently caused by a gas heater, resulted in an undetermined amount of fire and smoke damage to a hobby room at the residence.

Solon to quit fight on bill

BOISE — Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, said today he would abandon his efforts to get his controversial bill banning non-returnable beverage containers in Idaho through the legislature this year.

But Peavey said he would seek legislative approval for an interim study committee with an undetermined amount of state appropriations to investigate the effects of similar legislation already in force in Oregon.

"I think that a great number of legislators are interested but want a full year to see how the Oregon law works, especially in the summer time," Peavey said.

He was having drafted a resolution that would establish the interim study committee and would try to get it introduced through the Senate State Affairs Committee.

The controversial bill had been at the top of Peavey's legislative agenda since before the beginning of the current session when it was prefilled under a new legislative procedure. It has been involved in a number of parliamentary squeeze plays in the Senate Resource and Environment Committee and on the floor of the senate as well.

Public hearings were called several weeks ago on the measure and while some people hailed the proposal as pioneering effort in the campaign against litter in Idaho others claimed it would serve only to put some small grocers out of business because of its collection system for returnable containers and would lead to an increase in the price of beverages across the state.

Hazelton appoints attorney

Jerome, was appointed Hazelton city attorney during the Tuesday night city council meeting.

Kolman met with the council and outlined necessary procedures for setting up a bond election for the proposed new sewer system in Hazelton.

A letter was read by Mayor Elmer Pyne from the state recommending the application for the sewer loan be approved. Hugh Hedges, of the JWB Engineering Co., Twin Falls, attended the meeting to explain the detail forms accompanying the state letter.

Bill Prassey and Bill Wright, Hazelton Housing Authority, met with the council and asked the agreement be made for them to connect their proposed labor camp west of town to the new sewer system.

John Durham, Twin Falls, told the council about Perma-Bind street surfacing. No action was taken.

Halley bid accepted

HALLEY — A $3,800 bid on a new four wheel drive vehicle for the police department was accepted Monday night by the Halley city council.

Successful bidder was Neyman's Chevrolet, with Sawtooth Ford Sales and Wood River Body Shop, all Halley, also submitting bids.
