US halts Vietnam pullout

Quits party

SWITCHING TO DEMOCRATIC Party is Rep. Donald Riegle Jr., of Michigan, who said Tuesday he is quitting Republican Party because GOP "has been maneuvered into a straitjacket." Riegle, a liberal from Flint, Mich., said Democratic Party is more representative of needs of people on local, national scale. (UPI)

SAIGON (UPI) — Military sources said today the United States had virtually halted troop withdrawals as a result of North Vietnamese refusal to release American prisoners of war, and more truce violations were reported, including the wounding of an American piloting a truce team helicopter.

The pilot was hit in the leg, but not seriously wounded, field reports said, when his helicopter was hit by small arms fire near the abandoned American base at Marble Mountain, outside Da Nang.

Field reports said the helicopter was marked with large white crosses, showing it belonged to the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS). Correspondent Kenneth F. Engle said ICCS officers were aboard the helicopter, but were not injured. He said the ICCS in Hue told him their team members would not fly until an investigation was conducted.

A Radio Hanoi broadcast alleged that a South Vietnamese ambush killed four Viet Cong peace team members and wounded two more near the resort area of Dalat in the Central Highlands on Sunday. Violations of the Paris agreement were given by the North Vietnamese as the reason for their freeze on POW releases.

The Hanoi broadcast, monitored in Saigon, claimed the incident was "an extremely serious violation" of the cease-fire agreement.

Both sides have protested that the other side has violated the month-old cease-fire, but the United States claims release of the POWs is not tied to any factor other than withdrawal of American troops.

More than half of the U.S. troops in South Vietnam when the cease-fire began have left the country, and the U.S. demanded at a Joint Military Commission (JMC) meeting Tuesday that the North Vietnamese immediately release the next group of POWs.

The Provisional Revolutionary Government

(PRG), the official name for the Viet Cong, protested to the JMC today that the South Vietnamese had conducted air and ground attacks against a place where PRG representatives to the JMC were to be picked up. They did not identify the site in a statement to the press later.

The U.S. sources would not say whether the American troop withdrawal had come to a complete standstill, but they said no planes carrying U.S. troops home left Saigon today.

In another announcement, the Viet Cong said today "U.S. information regarding troop withdrawals is unacceptable" because it isn't supervised by the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) or the JMC.

"If the U.S. party obstinately refuses to meet these legitimate demands, they must be fully responsible for the consequences arising therefrom," a Viet Cong spokesman said. The Viet Cong spokesman had "no comment" when asked if improved supervision of withdrawals would bring about the overdue prisoner release.

A representative of the ICCS later said the commission has "certainly had people observing the withdrawal since about Thursday of last week" and had received American cooperation.

An American spokesman, asked about the Communist claim, replied: "Anybody can come out and watch, or cheer, if they want to."

He said the problem was that the North Vietnamese and South Vietnamese were not talking to each other concerning JMC supervision of the withdrawal.

"We're going to go, and that's all there is to it," he said.

Hanoi agrees to free POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — North Vietnam has agreed to free American prisoners of war, but technical arrangements can be made and all will be freed in the agreed time of 60 days, the White House announced today.

President Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said North Vietnam's foreign minister, Nguyen Duy Trinh, assured Secretary of State William P. Rogers during a private meeting in Paris that all American prisoners of war will be released as agreed, within 60 days from the signing of the cease-fire agreement.

Ziegler said Hanoi has agreed to release a group of American prisoners sometime this week. About 120 captives are expected to be freed.

Ziegler said the U.S. withdrawal is now more than half over but Hanoi has released only a little more than 25 per cent of the prisoners.

Although he again rejected Communist claims that Saigon has violated the agreement by failing to provide adequately for Hanoi and Viet Cong members of the Joint Military Commission, Ziegler added that "we expect all parties to adhere to the agreement."

Conversely, Ziegler added, if further delay develops unexpectedly in arrangements for prisoner release, Rogers would not be authorized to continue with the Paris conference originally called to guarantee the Jan. 27 cease-fire accords.

Ziegler said the United States continues to insist that under the cease-fire agreement the release of prisoners is linked to nothing other than the withdrawal of American forces.

Historic Triumph mine reopening set

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Partial reopening of the Triumph Mine, East Fork, is planned April 1.

Triumph — producing lead, silver, zinc and some gold — was the largest mine in Southern Idaho and was believed to be, at one time the second largest silver producer in the United States.

The reopening project, focusing on the North Star portion of the mine, is organized under the Triumph Mineral Company Inc., a private company consisting of area residents and stockholders, who, for the most part, have had prior mining experience.

Company president Rupert House, Triumph, said the company holds a lease and option to buy 52 claims, comprising about 800 acres, from the mine owner Triumph Mining Co.

FBI head opens Watergate file

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Patrick Gray III, seeking Senate confirmation as FBI director, offered today to let any member of the Senate examine the FBI's confidential files on the Watergate bugging investigation.

Gray told the Senate Judiciary Committee: "I feel this situation is so unique, and I certainly don't believe the FBI should make their files public but in this instance, I am prepared to offer that any member of the U.S. Senate who wishes to examine the FBI's files on this matter may do so and I will provide a knowledgeable member of my staff to help."

Gray made the offer in response to a question by the committee chairman, Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., after the acting FBI director sought in a 45-minute statement to answer criticism that he is a political appointee with inadequate experience to succeed the late J. Edgar Hoover.

Eastland asked Gray when he had first heard of the June 17 break-in at the Democratic National Committee offices in the Watergate building complex.

Gray said he was apprised of the incident the next morning, when he was in California, and that he told his assistant in Washington, W. Mark Fell, to "spare no horses" in an investigation.

Irish vote record set

DUBLIN (UPI) — With the fate of Prime Minister Jack Lynch's government hanging on only a few seats, Irishmen voted in record numbers today for a new Dail (parliament).

Professional bookmakers gave Lynch's opposition 7 to 4 odds of winning.

The allied Fine Gael and Labor parties cashed in on soaring inflation in recent weeks, and the campaign became hotly contested. The first results won't be known until Thursday, however.

Dublin's biggest bookmaking firm offered odds of 7 to 4 that opposition leader Liam Cosgrave and his coalition would topple Lynch from power by obtaining a majority in parliament. Parliament in turn elects the prime minister.

Lynch was the favorite when he called today's snap general election three weeks ago, but lost ground in recent weeks over economic issues.

CSI replies on sex discrimination, library

Sheaf of data released to counter state finding

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS College of Southern Idaho has sent a thick sheaf of documents to the Idaho Human Rights Commission to refute charges of sexual discrimination.

CSI president James L. Taylor, Tuesday made public the college's responses to a lengthy list of questions submitted to the college by the state commission regarding the case of Terrill Castaneda.

The College told the commission, Mrs. Castaneda had not been rehired because the drop-out rate in her French classes was too high and the limited enrollment did not justify her continued employment. It said sexual bias was not involved.

Mrs. Castaneda, an assistant professor of French whose contract was not renewed by the college at the end of the 1971-72 year, had complained to the state commission that the college's action resulted from sexual discrimination.

Following a hearing in Boise on Jan. 13, the commission found "pretextable cause" that the college had discriminated by sex. At the same hearing, the commission had approved a list of "findings of fact" in the case.

Mrs. Castaneda had attended the closed hearing, but CSI had not been invited.

One of the key statements made in the college's response to the commission's interrogatory was in an undated letter from CSI academic dean Paul T. Smith. Smith's letter read in part:

French 102
"Following registration, in September, I again spoke with Mrs. Castaneda in my office. At this time I told her that if the holding power of French did not improve, that I was either going to drop the program or get another teacher to teach French. In either instance she would be terminated."

"Her response was to assure me that the attrition rate would improve and if it did not, she would personally help me find another French teacher."

"Five students enrolled in French 102 (of the original 17) for spring semester, 1972. As this attrition rate was not consistent with that of other language classes and was, in my opinion, too high, I recommended in a letter to Dr. Taylor, dated Feb. 15, that Mrs. Castaneda not be offered a contract for the academic year 1972-73."

"Mrs. Castaneda explained that it was not possible for her to lower her standards. She stated that she was teaching a college level program and that the majority of students were either not qualified or not interested enough to do the work involved."

"There is no indication when or to whom Mrs. Castaneda made the statement."

"Respondent (the college) did not accept this explanation because College of Southern Idaho is an open-door community college and accepts all students."

"Therefore an instructor, by virtue of accepting a position at the College, endorses this policy and agrees to work with students of widely varying interests and abilities."

"This demands teaching techniques oriented toward individual differences, not discouraging students to the point of withdrawal or maintenance of artificially high standards."

"In any event, it is not economically feasible to hire a specialist to instruct three to five students."

"The class had gone from a beginning enrollment of 18 in the fall semester to three in the spring semester. Fall semester, 1971, 17 students enrolled in French 101 and none in

Library consultant gives praise, blame

By RICHARD G. HIGLI
Times-News managing editor

TWIN FALLS — A library consultant called in by the College of Southern Idaho to appraise the quality of CSI's library has awarded it about a "B-minus."

Dr. George Douglas, executive vice president of Shu. Lane Community College, Seattle, filed his report following a three-day visit to the campus early this month. It was released Tuesday by Dr. James L. Taylor, college president.

Dr. Douglas commended the college for "the excellent progress that has been made in a brief span of a few years in developing a library with great promise for the future."

He praised the library's collection of basic books and periodicals, its well trained professional staff, its budget and hours of service.

At the same time, he found serious problems exist in "interpersonal relations," primarily between Librarian Bruce Harrison and faculty members. He also said the library facility was "somewhat undersized."

Dr. Douglas had been asked to review the library by Dr. Taylor following criticism aired by some trustee candidates, faculty members and students late in 1972.

Librarian Harrison had announced his intention to resign at the end of the academic year prior to the consultant's arrival.

In his report Dr. Douglas said he had received certain unsolicited but interesting information pertaining to alleged deficiencies of serious proportions "involving the library prior to his visit."

He said he had been contacted by CSI President James L. Taylor "who described the situation in somewhat less hysterical terms."

"Naturally," the consultant wrote, "I was curious to discover which of my informants had a better handle on the situation."

Following his visit, he said, he decided that "Dr. Taylor is still a more astute judge of what is going on at the college than are those self-styled critics who have attacked your library on a basis of ignorance of the community college and its purposes and, perhaps, from motives which are somewhat less than pure."

Dr. Douglas quickly realized that "whatever the nature of the problem might turn out to be, it would not be of the order of severity described by the critics ..."

He said his role as consultant was that of "providing suggestions for the improvement of a situation that was, at the very least, reasonable rather than that of advocating the complete renovation of an abortive attempt to build a college library."

At the same time, he said, "I suspected that a genuine, although not overpowering problem might exist ..."

Following his general discussions of the perimeters of the library's problems, he moved to discussion of specifics.

"The most important weakness in Dr. Douglas' view; stems from the fact that Librarian Harrison does not number humility among his many talents."

"As a consequence his ebullience and drive frequently put him at cross purposes with his peers."

The resulting problems of interpersonal relations represented "the weakest aspect of the library program," he said.

One result, he said, is that "faculty is not using the library."

"A complete lack of rapport exists between them and the chief librarian ..."

"The overinvolvement of the professional library staff in teaching and varied other activities," he said, "combined with the remote location of the book processing area (located in another building), has caused the library to place an inordinate amount of responsibility for reference and public service librarianship upon the shoulders of technicians."

Militant Indians seize 10 hostages

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (UPI) — Federal officers today sealed off the entire Oglala Sioux reservation where about 300 militant Indians besieged Wounded Knee and took at least 10 hostages amid sporadic gunfire.

The Indians, organized by the American Indian Movement (AIM), stormed the Wounded Knee trading post late Tuesday night, clearing it of Indian artifacts, guns and ammunition.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said at least 17 persons were arrested as they attempted to leave the trading post and break through the cordon of some 45 federal officers surrounding the area.

The Indians submitted a list of three demands and vowed to remain in Wounded Knee until they receive answers from the federal government. However, AIM leaders pledged that no harm would come to the Indians.

FBI agents, U.S. marshals and Bureau of Indian Affairs police made no attempt to rout the Indians from the several buildings they occupied. The rear window of a car containing an Indian man, his wife and baby was riddled with rifle fire today as the car passed by the trading post and the driver refused demands by those inside to stop.

Joseph H. Trimbach, FBI special agent in charge of Minnesota and the Dakotas, who is heading the enforcement operations, said, "We know of 10 hostages." Carter Camp, the AIM spokesman, said, "We have 10 or 12 hostages."

All of the hostages were Wounded Knee residents.

Wounded Knee is located in the southern part of the 2,200 square mile reservation about 15 miles from the state border. The town, consisting of only a few buildings, is the site of the 1890 Wounded Knee massacre, generally considered the last major confrontation of the Indian wars.

Mrs. Cive Gildersleve, whose husband operates the trading post, told UPI by telephone early today that she and eight members of her family were taken hostage in their home.

Trimbach said he had no list of the hostages' names.

At least one Indian was injured by bullets during the shooting. He was treated on the reservation and transferred to a nearby Chadron, Neb., hospital. He was charged with burglary and larceny on an Indian reservation in connection with the trading post break-in.

Philadelphians police said they logged more than 5,000 telephone calls from persons reporting the tremor, and control tower personnel at Baltimore's Friendship Airport said their runway lights were shaken.

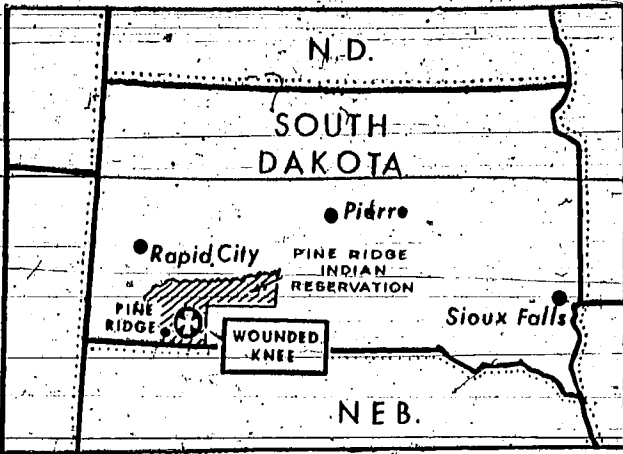

In the western United States, an "earthquake swarm" has been gently shaking northern Nevada, the University of Nevada seismology station reported.

More than 30 tremors have been recorded in northern Nevada, which has a scattered population, since Feb. 23, with the strongest registering 3.7 on the Richter scale.

Dr. Alan Byall said the epicenter of the swarm was near where the Quinn River crossed Nevada's northern border.

"There are several areas in Nevada where this happens," he said. "But we don't have an explanation for why this occurs."

The quake in the Kurile Islands north of Japan registered 7.5 on the open-ended Richter scale — a strong shock that could cause damage in inhabited areas.

Earthquakes shake US

By United Press International

A minor earthquake rattled a heavily populated Eastern area of the United States today, shaking buildings and waking residents from Trenton, N.J., to Baltimore. Although there were no reports of major damage or deaths, the quake caused somewhat of an alarm because of the historical severity of tremors in the area.

Another earthquake, considered major, struck a sparsely-inhabited group of Soviet islands in the northern Pacific and an "earthquake swarm" was reported in Northern Nevada.

The Eastern U.S. quake occurred at 1:23 a.m. MST and registered 3.5 on Pennsylvania State University.

"All of a sudden it was like riding on the ocean," said Nancy Schmaad of Philadelphia, who was asleep with her husband in their waterbed. "At first I thought it was a truck outside but then I realized what had happened."

Pocatello newsman opposes court order

POCATELLO (UPI) — Idaho State Journal Managing Editor Lyle Olson says he opposes the idea behind an order from Sixth District Court to deliver pictures of a traffic accident to a deputy public defender.

Public Defender Vern E. Herzog Jr., subpoenaed the Journal to produce "any and all photographs" of a trucker accident which killed Mary Kay Barfauksy, 17, of Pocatello, Feb. 6, 1972.

Gale Ewan Jones, 19, Blackfoot, is on trial and is charged with negligent homicide in the crash.

Olson said Tuesday, "I have no objection to providing our pictures in fact we had already agreed to provide some pictures of the accident to the prosecutor's office."

"But," he said, "we oppose the idea that we can be ordered to produce unpublished pictures or other material anytime a judge or a prosecutor or any other public official want to see them."

Vandals break TF windows

TWIN FALLS — Nearly a dozen calls from various parts of the city were received by Twin Falls City Police this morning on broken windows, most of them large plate glass windows in homes.

In addition the Special Education School on Caswell Avenue reported all windows of the north side of the building were broken.

Capt. Tim Qualls, chief of detectives, said apparently the windows were broken by rocks thrown from a moving automobile.

Officers said calls began coming in about 6 a.m. and damage ranged from $100 to $160 per incident.

Residents reporting broken windows include Mervin Randall, 421 N. Ostrander St., who told officers a front plate glass window at his home was broken about 6 a.m. when someone tossed rocks through the glass. He estimated damage at $150.

At 6:30 a.m. Cleveland Robert, 360 4th Ave. B, told officers a window valued at $160 was broken from the street side of his home, and another call came from the Boyer home, 349 Filer Ave. W, reporting a similar incident with the damage estimated at $150.

Robert G. Campbell, 1400 Elmwood Circle, Apt. 3, reported a broken window in his home about midnight and estimated damage at $100.

Officers said in most instances the persons were asleep or in other parts of the building when the window-breaking occurred.

Investigation is continuing.

Snake bridges planned

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Highways announced apparent low bids on several projects Tuesday, including one for $2.7 million for one in Elmore County.

Miller Construction Co., Boise, entered that bid for constructing two steel girder bridges over the Snake River, embankment for abutments and a frontage road on Interstate 80 North near Glenn Ferry.

A bid of $108,351-81 was entered by Circle A Construction Inc., Twin Falls, for sealing 4.9 miles of US 30 between Filer and Twin Falls, paving 3.5 miles of US 93 near Godwin Junction, and paving road near Milepost 30.6 in Twin Falls County, US 93.

Max Stuart and Co., Twin Falls, entered the apparent low bid of $24,878 for painting steel shell piling and handrail on various bridges on Interstate 80 North, Heyburn east in Cassia and Minidoka counties.

Bugging crime, not prank

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst says he has concluded after an exhaustive investigation that the water-gate bugging was a reprehensible crime, not a political prank.

Seven men, including two former White House aides, have been convicted or pleaded guilty to bugging, burglary and conspiracy in connection with last June's break-in at Democratic national headquarters.

Kleindienst said Tuesday he would meet with Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., who head a special subcommittee probing the water-gate case.

"To discuss ground rules" for hearings later this year.

Kleindienst told Washington Post news correspondents, he would turn over "relevant facts" of his and the FBI's investigations.

TF school board votes to keep present faculty

By GEORGE WILEY
Times News Staff Writer

TWIN FALLS — The District 411 School Board in a special meeting Tuesday evening passed a resolution to rehire present teachers subject to proper qualifications and administrative approval.

The board also approved hiring of one teacher and granting leaves of absence for two others.

No action was taken on naming a football coach to replace Norm Thomas who resigned last month at Twin Falls High School. Thomas will remain at the high school next year as vice principal.

In other action, the board considered purchasing new uniforms for the high school marching band.

High school music director Del Slaughter told the board the present band uniforms were purchased 16 years ago. "Our uniforms are worn out, and they're ill-fitting," he said.

Slaughter discussed with the board a loose proposal to purchase about 80 new uniforms at a cost of perhaps $150 per uniform, for a total of about $12,000.

There was lengthy discussion of types of uniforms which might be purchased and how they might be paid for. It was noted that high schools in several other Idaho cities have bought new uniforms since Twin Falls purchased theirs.

"I think we should put on a good show," high school principal Frank Charlton told the board. "I think we should improve from where we are right now. I think this is part of football and I think whether we like it or not, in this phase of education, we are in entertainment. I would like to see a good show that all of us could be proud of."

Slaughter told the group there were 64 members in the marching band this year and about half were seniors.

"What we're building (with the band)," said Slaughter, "is character. I don't care how well a kid plays, I just want them to do their best."

The board recommended that Slaughter check on costs and styles and report back to them.

The board also discussed the placing of soft drink machines in the high school and junior high school hallways and decided to stand with a previous decision to allow the machines, subject to recall if a letter problem developed.

There was some discussion on the effects of soda pop on teeth which could not be brushed during the school day, but it was generally agreed this was a matter beyond the board's control.

The board decided to withhold approval of a proposed high school Spanish club trip to Mexico on the advice of its insurance underwriter that school insurance would not be in force once the border was crossed.

The board did say that individual students could take independent trips to Mexico without the sanction of the school.

Nominated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon announced Tuesday he will nominate Byron V. Peplone to be director of the Selective Service system. He is now acting director.

If Peplone, 54 of Arlington, Va., is confirmed by the Senate, he will succeed Curtis W. Tate, who was appointed under secretary of state for coordinating security assistance programs last May.

2-way radio stolen

TWIN FALLS — Theft of a two-way radio valued at $700 but not in operating condition was reported to Twin Falls Police Tuesday by KEEP radio station officials.

Walter Ross, station manager, told police the night employee was on duty until midnight and the break-in apparently occurred after that time and before 6 a.m. when the day shift arrived.

Officers said a rear door on the east side of the building was broken to gain entry.

Taylor lauds funding

BOISE — College of Southern Idaho president Dr. James Taylor said Tuesday he is "tremendously thrilled" at the $1.8 million recommended funding level for the state's two junior colleges.

The recommendation, approved by the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee, was an increase from the $1,305 level of funding for academic programs the schools received for the current year, and an increase over the $1.4 million Gov. Cecil D. Andrus asked for the College of Southern Idaho and North Idaho College in Coeur d'Alene.

Taylor also expressed approval at a legislative suggestion that the schools might be funded at a 70 per cent level for academic programs in another few years.

Dog-gone!

TWIN FALLS — Taking candy from a baby maybe — but from a Sunbeam? And a dog, no less.

Sallyvian Army Sunbeams Stephanie and Michelle Matlock, 7 and 9 respectively, were getting candy door to door on 11th Avenue East Monday afternoon when a large dog jumped off a porch and growled.

Frightened, the girls dropped their case of chocolates and ran. The dog, possibly a cross between a golden retriever and an Irish setter, stood over the carton of candy boxes and refused to let the girls near.

When the girls' mother, Juanita Matlock, who was chaperoning them on the candy selling venture, approached the dog she, too, was growled off.

Finally, Mrs. Matlock called police. When the officer arrived, he found it perilous to get near the dog. According to Mrs. Matlock, the problem was not solved until two neighbor boys who knew the dog came along and retrieved the candy.

What did Stephanie and Michelle have to say? "We were scared!"

After it was all over the girls went on selling candy.

TV unit arrival delayed

Special to the Times-News

BOISE — The translator needed to put Twin Falls' educational television station on the air has been held up and won't be delivered until at least mid-April.

Dr. James Taylor, college president, said in Boise Tuesday he had been notified of the delay. Earlier in the year he had predicted the delivery of the translator for mid-March.

He said it would take only a few days to get the station on the air after the equipment arrived.

The station, when it begins to broadcast, will be the fourth educational outlet in Idaho. Although it will have no original broadcast or production capabilities, it will transmit National Educational Television shows as well as Idaho-originated shows produced by KATV, the Boise educational station.

Hailey group won't comment

HAILEY — The Hailey Chamber of Commerce has declined to voice comment on the suit brought against Sun Valley Red-Mix by the city of Hailey.

At a ballot vote Monday, the chamber decided, 11 to 0, not to send a letter to the city requesting a resolution of the dispute outside the courts.

Formulated by a chamber committee, the letter sought a "meeting of the minds" between the two parties with the object of working out this problem in an amicable manner.

The city suit filed in Fifth District Court in December, cites two counts of acting.

The complaint seeks a declaration by the court that the Sun Valley Red-Mix plant, located in southeast Hailey, is a non-conforming use under the city zoning ordinance, that the defendants' use of the plant has expanded in violation of the ordinance and that the court "enjoin and restrain the defendant from any operation of said concrete batch plant beyond that as existed on June 26, 1969," the effective date of the ordinance.

A second count of action seeks that the defendant "be restrained from encroaching upon Maple Street" and the court require "the removal of that portion of said concrete batch plant which encroaches upon Maple Street."

Neighboring land owners, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Somsen, previously filed a suit against the company in September, stating that since the plant was established in 1968 and began operation the mixing plant "has constituted and continues to constitute a nuisance."

A father and son cake baking contest will highlight the March pack meeting at Harrison School.

Rebekahs hold meet

JEROME — Members of the Rebekah Lodge No. 110 were advised Monday evening that the Feb. 24 public dinner was well attended.

The report was given by Mrs. George Easton, who thanked everyone who helped with the dinner.

The organization made its regular donation to the American Legion Auxiliary for the week.

Veteran jewels will be ordered for three lodge members who will be 15 year members in May.

Mrs. Mary Mann, Mrs. Mary Keith and Mrs. Joe Williams served refreshments.

Divorce up

SINGAPORE (UPI) — The number of married couples seeking divorce increased from 57 in 1968 to 181 in 1972, according to a survey of divorce patterns conducted by University of Singapore sociology lecturer Dr. Peter Chen.

On the average, the survey showed, there were 118 divorces a year which, it said, was "a very low figure" — about 1.4 per cent — for every 1,000 marriages. Chen attributed the long-range increase in the divorce rate to "the increasing affluence in our society."

War Critics

The best tribute Americans could pay to their returning POWs, as well as those thousands of men who will never return from Vietnam, would be to regain a little of their faith in their country...

Certainly we have had enough of the kind-of-national self-abasement still mouthed by the likes of antiwar priest Philip Berrigan...

"We should go very humbly on our knees for what we have done (in Vietnam)," he said the other day. "People around the world consider us one of the most dangerous nations in the world. The violence of this nation and this empire is almost limitless."

(Oh, yes, Western Europe in particular is so fearful of violence that it trembles every time anyone so much as suggests it might be a good idea to bring home some of the 300,000 American troops stationed there.)

It is rather the Berrigans who should perhaps go very humbly today. When the final analysis of this war is made, the world may learn just how much their well-intentioned efforts actually prolonged the killing and the dying by encouraging North Vietnam to believe it need not negotiate seriously with a disension-wracked United States but could achieve its goals on the field of battle.

If the peace activists did indeed prolong the war, they are responsible for infinitely more human suffering than was caused by a Calley at My Lai. Would they have the moral strength to live with that fact?

MR. SPECTATOR

Foods To Come

Definitely not for gourmets is the latest news from scientific circles. Scientists predict that, with the world's expanding population outstripping food supply, subsistence in the future may have to come from coal, petroleum, natural gas and fungi.

They talk, for example, of a yeast microbe that feeds on coal tar and produces an edible protein in the form of a flour-like substance. There is a bacteria that gorges on methane, which shapes up about 90 per cent of natural gas, to produce a vitamin-rich material that contains up to 40 per cent protein.

There are mildews and molds that perform in other nourishing ways.

Sounds awful. Still, a lot of the food now isn't very appetizing either. Over-fertilization, preservatives, freezing, dehydrating and other scientific triumphs have left the palate poorer.

Then, of course, there are those cold French fries which come with the sawdust burgers.

SEARCH REQUEST

Received a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chait, 65-24 162nd St., Flushing, New York, 11365. They want help.

It seems that they are reduced to despair by the disappearance of their first-born son. Not too long ago, approaching his 21st birthday,

If they did not prolong it, then they should be very humbly grateful that America is a country in which men are free to oppose their government when they believe it to be wrong, even if that government does not always listen as they think it should.

Blessed are the peacemakers — but only when the peace they profess to seek is a just peace, when their appeals to humanity and morality are made not only to their own countrymen but also to those who chose to take up the sword in the beginning.

Yet not one word of reproach is or ever has been uttered by the peace activists against North Vietnam for the violence it unleashed, against hundreds of thousands of innocents in South Vietnam. Not the slightest suggestion is made that the Communist supporters of North Vietnam also have a responsibility to bind up the wounds of war.

It was not the alleged proneness to violence of the United States but this moral myopia of the protesters which rendered useless all their appeals for peace — appeals stained with violence which they themselves initiated or were not always entirely innocent of.

The same blindness renders them pitiful today when they continue to attempt to preach morality to America.

But the war is in the past. There is a cease-fire now among the Vietnamese. Let there also be a cease-fire among ourselves.

This is still America. This is still the country where human freedom has found its highest expression, where the greatest good for the greatest number remains the sought-for ideal.

It is still a country worth loving.

LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD

We received news from a Utah newspaper relative to a former Twin Falls resident and former Times-News department editor and reporter.

Ivan M. Lincoln is recipient of the second annual Deseret News "Mark E. Petersen" award for "excellence in headline writing." The award included two plaques, one of which will hang in the newsroom of the Salt Lake City newspaper, a certificate and a check for $200.

The Deseret News also honored other employees in the fields of writing, page layout, artwork, photography, best correspondent and for "outstanding performance."

Lincoln is a son of Mrs. Margaret Lincoln, Route Two, Twin Falls. His wife, the former LuAnn Armga, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Armga, 1604 Addison Avenue East.

Lincoln is a copy editor and "special projects" editor for the Deseret News.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Out front, the world's trade dilemma centers on the super-producers — the United States, Japan, and an increasingly cohesive Western Europe. Backstage, the underdeveloped lands are proving to be the keenest sufferers from the rich-nation rivalry.

In the past two decades, their share of world trade has declined from one-third of the total to one-fifth, and their plight is getting worse. It is their exports which most feel the squeeze as, the wealthier countries maintain or heighten protectionist barriers in their own competitive struggle.

Some 75 per cent of their foreign exchange is earned by exports, yet prices for these (usually raw materials or low-technology goods) have dropped even as the prices of the things they import have risen.

We are talking, of course, about the impoverished lands of Latin America — like Colombia, Ecuador and Peru; nearly the whole of Africa, and much of Asia, including huge India, but also some nations such as Taiwan and South Korea which have shown modest promise in low-technology industries.

I have written often of trade experts' judgment that the great gap between the rich and the poor nations is really never going to narrow substantially. The advanced countries, with their high-technology base, their sophisticated work force and their pools of capital, will always be on the upward move as the less developed places fight for betterment. Plagued with excessive population growth, some of these lands have tried gamely to offset falling raw materials prices by building labor-intensive industries like textile and shoe manufacture.

As indicated, Taiwan and South Korea are among those which had a certain success. But moves like America's 1971 textile quota system, advanced to meet competition mainly from Japan, struck hard at these lesser countries. They have suffered even though, curiously little noticed, they have been selling increased amounts of low-technology products to Japan itself.

It is dawn on the underdeveloped nations that they are not going to close the wealth gap with the big fellows. But they want at least to lift themselves above the poverty line, and the new wave of protectionism threatens to become a mountainous barrier to their aspirations.

Unemployment in some of the underdeveloped areas runs as high as 30 to 40 per cent. Where the "green revolution" advancing farm technology and output has had any results, it has created new pools of rural unemployed who stream to the cities and magnify urban problems. Where agricultural techniques still have not advanced much, poor countries need actually to import food as well as other consumer goods and the machinery counted on to plume them hopefully into industry.

The stiff restrictions of the European Common Market, enlarged now by the strongly self-protective British bloc, hurt badly. But they see as an even bigger threat such measures as the pending Burke-Hartke protectionist bill in the U.S. Congress.

In their view, and in the minds of some trade specialists, it would protect the very kind of low-technology jobs the poor lands are trying to develop. Moreover, U.S. and other critics of that broadsweep legislation see it aimed at safeguarding jobs which are increasingly marginal in this country — maintainable only at the cost of other, higher-technology jobs judged more suited to an advanced nation.

The poorer lands are not altogether reassured, either, by President Nixon's announced intent to seek discretionary power to raise as well as lower tariff walls. They still fear they may be the worst hit trade victims.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Cervix Cancer

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Due to cancer of the cervix, I was told that I must have a hysterectomy. I'd heard so much about the "terrible operation (by women) I work with) and the pain, and that it would leave me "less a woman" and unable to have sexual satisfaction with my husband, that I was petrified and mentally upset.

Well, it's two years now since I had my operation. I had a great doctor, and I didn't have much pain that couldn't be eased with a pill or a shot, and I was amazed at the easy time I had during my hospital stay and convalescence.

And as for leaving me "less a woman" regarding sexual satisfaction with my husband, I say, "Nonsense!" I don't have to worry about pregnancy at my age (I'm 42 now) and we both can relax more because of that, and my husband can sure turn me on! I'm sure I please him, too.

So I just wanted other petrified women faced with having a hysterectomy to know that they shouldn't listen to all those terrible fallacies that someone may tell you that can make you a nervous wreck unnecessarily. Mrs. S. R.K.

Such stories about the "terrible operation" have been passed by word of mouth for many, many years, and the stories are still being told. I know because of the number of women who write to me asking about these scare stories.

As a man, and even as a doctor, I can say, until I'm blue in the face, that the stories are not true, but that isn't going to convince a good many women who have heard and believe the stories.

In fact, the only way I can think of to put these stories to rest is to print letters like yours, Mrs. S. R. K.

Yet, unfortunately, even that won't do the whole job. Because, tragic as it is, some women hear the stories and believe them so thoroughly that afterward they actually believe they have become "less a woman" and cannot give or receive sexual satisfaction. And if they believe it — for them it becomes so. But needlessly.

Perhaps even more tragic is the fact that some men have heard, and believed, these stories. I have read, and all but wept upon reading, letters from women who have been told brutally by their husbands, "You're no good to me any more now."

Horrible and cruel, but it does sometimes happen. Physiologically, the operation (removal of the uterus) has nothing whatsoever to do with sexual relations. The vagina is in no way changed. But the letters of these scare stories obviously do not know that.

I can only hope that the people who repeat such stories will begin to realize how false they are, and will stop repeating them. The more telling of such stories causes so much fear and misery. Such harm to innocent people! And what good can the stories do? None!

Dear Doctor: Regarding thumbsucking, I ceased thumbsucking in my teens when a family friend gave me a wrist watch. I forgot all about the thing. A. H.

I have got yet been informed that a wrist watch is a specific cure for thumbsucking, yet I am not inclined to put down the idea.

I'll merely accept your case at face value and pass on your experience for other readers.

LET THERE BE LIGHT

PAUL HARVEY

Rape Is Naughty

This guy confessed to rape — in Washington, D. C.

He had a police record for molesting women and he confessed raping two coeds from George Washington University — and they let him go.

The court let him go on the grounds that "the women had not struggled enough with their attackers."

It's getting almost impossible to get a conviction for rape.

What happened was that rape was once a capital crime and in some states lynch mobs frequently misused that accusation to hang any black man. Courts, trying to right that wrong, have overcompensated. Now no woman of any color is safe on any city street. The notion that a victim's degree of resistance should be a factor is noxious.

When you're robbed, the law does not require proof that you resisted or screamed or tried to run away. If the robber takes what's yours, and gets caught, he gets punished. At least a little.

But a woman who may be in danger in fear of her life is almost always construed by the court as consenting.

Women in Washington, D. C., are organizing a "legal defense fund" specifically for the purpose of reforming the rape trial procedure.

My proposed remedy is less sophisticated, but more immediately effective than theirs: castration.

Most rapists are repeaters. Following every heinous crime against a woman, you'll hear or read that "known sex criminals are being rounded up." If they are "known sex criminals," why are they out and about? Some of those maniacs are unable to cope with their mania.

In Denver, recently, a middle-age man went voluntarily to General Hospital and got himself castrated. He'd molested young girls; he'd guesstimated 400 to 500 young girls under 12 years of age.

Repeatedly, he told psychiatrists he couldn't help himself. He told the court, "If you let me go I'll just go do it again."

But they did. And he did. Until woluntarily he submitted to surgery.

Nationally, we're making progress against crime. Last year, for the first time, the increased incidence of major crime was less than our population increase in every category except rape. Of that there's more than ever, 14 per cent more than a year ago.

That's a lot of women and girls. And those are just the reported.

Washington, D. C., now has a rape crisis center where terrified victims who don't want to make an official report of fear, can telephone for advice on legal and medicinal matters — abortion, disease control and such. The center averages 20 calls a day.

Recently, a Chicago policeman killed a rapist with his own gun and was hailed as a hero — so we're ready to let the punishment fit the crime. Before vigilante justice gets out of hand again, let's take that chronic sex criminal, the rapist, off the streets.

The guy who's back in custody again and again and then out hunting again — and believe that poor devil of his uncontrollability.

RAY CROMLEY

The $ Crisis

WASHINGTON (NEA) — From firsthand experience this writer can testify as to what some foreign businessmen think of the dollar crisis and the U.S. unfavorable balance of trade.

A white-buck, a friend of who's president-of-one-of-Japan's largest spinning firms said that in a visit to the United States he had been offered the chance to buy, at a very reasonable price, one of this country's major textile companies. But he turned the deal down. The mills were obsolete, he said, and labor-management relations poor.

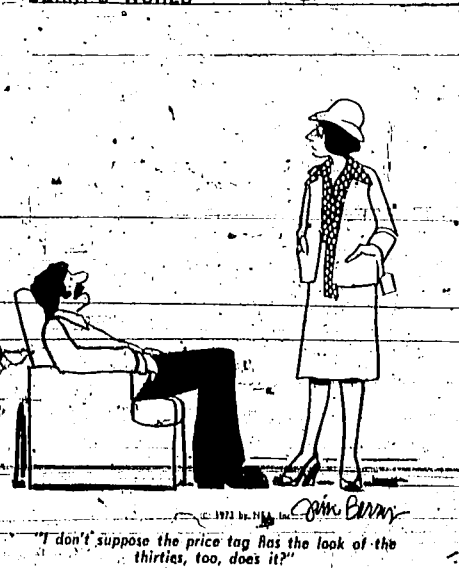

Yet the science and technology is at hand to improve the textile mills. Another friend, this one an engineer for one of the nation's major equipment-producing companies, some time back made a survey of major mills in selected areas of the country. He was able to suggest, offhand, production improvements which would increase output by 10, 15 and in some cases 20 per cent with very minor new investment. With major capital input and imaginative new production methods those firms could have cut operating costs sharply.

The problem here was not the lack of technology, or that the technology was hidden in some back drawer. The problem was a lack of initiative.

A German remarked the other day that if Detroit would we want but what is available, then spend much of our time having it repaired, or altered. And in too many instances the inefficient drive up the costs of the well managed.

BERRY'S WORLD

Truce month old

(Editor's Note: The Vietnam cease-fire is one month old today. In the following dispatch, UPI Saigon bureau chief Arthur Higbee analyzes the shaky truce and its chances of success.)

By ARTHUR HIGBEE SAIGON (UPI) — The cease-fire in Vietnam ended its first month today with the release of U.S. and Vietnamese prisoners of war delayed and the shooting still going on.

Is peace really at hand? The issue is still in doubt. The complaints of ill treatment raised by the North Vietnamese probably can be resolved fairly quickly. It will take some table-pounding—or Richard Nixon's prodding from the White House.

When the North Vietnamese truce delegation here made its stunning declaration today—no more POWs released until its complaints are attended to—there was no immediate reaction from U.S. officials in Saigon.

This problem was one that was being bucked all the way to the White House. But the announcement did seem to mean that U.S. officers will have to do a little less shuffling of everything not directly connected with the release of the POWs.

One matter that is directly connected is the withdrawal of U.S. troops. Article 4 of the Paris protocol on prisoner release specifies that the return of POWs must be carried out "at a rate no slower than the rate of withdrawal of United States Forces from South Vietnam."

According to U.S. figures, the withdrawal has been strictly by the numbers. At the halfway point in the 60-day troop withdrawal period, the U.S. command has taken just over half its remaining men out of Vietnam: 11,612 men remain (another 90,000 are manning ships and planes in Thailand, Guam, and the South China Sea.)

The Communist counter-argument has been that U.S. authorities have never furnished them with detailed schedules and the means of checking to make sure that the withdrawals actually are being carried out.

This is a debating point, not a solid objection. The Americans are getting out and the Communists know it as well as anybody else. It is one of the linchpins of President Nixon's policy.

The Americans will be out of Vietnam in another month. The North Vietnamese have underlined the obvious: the fewer POWs they hold, the less weight they swing with the United States. As long as they still swing plenty of weight they want the United States to persuade South Vietnam to be more cooperative with Communist truce team delegates and that is a real cause.

Their first objective will be difficult, the second even more so.

It will be difficult to get the South Vietnamese to give their Communist fellow-countrymen better quarters, better communications, better access to the press and protection from the mobs that have looted and occasionally stoned their truce teams in the field.

Canada cuts US oil flow

OTTAWA (UPI) — The National Energy Board announced today oil exports to the United States would be cut back by 47,500 barrels per day in March.

All of the cutback was on the Inter-Provincial Pipeline Company System which delivers oil from Western Canada to the Mid-West U.S. market centered in Chicago.

The board announced that exports in March would be authorized at a rate of 1.235 million barrels per day. This was 47,500 bpd less than American customers had requested.

The board was made under the February 15 policy decision to curb oil exports so that Canadian refineries would be guaranteed adequate supplies.

Energy Board officials, announcing the move in a statement submitted to the House of Commons Standing Committee on National Resources, said the quota thereby held exports to about the same level as January and February.

January and February exports were estimated at about 1.22 million bpd.

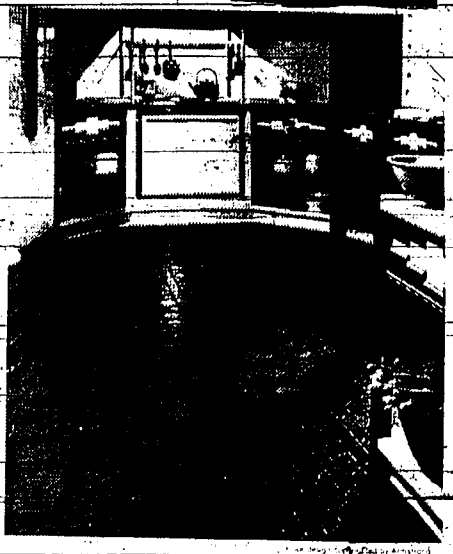

Under the licenses to be issued for March, deliveries on Inter-Provincial Pipeline's system were authorized at 824,770 bpd. The company had applied to export 872,270 bpd.

Other pipeline systems serving the United States east of the Rocky Mountains were permitted to export the amount for which they applied. This totaled 1,052,900 bpd. The Aurora Pipeline system and 35,340 for other pipelines and by truck.

Exports to the U.S. west coast on Trans Mountain Pipeline also were unaffected. They were permitted to export the 266,000 bpd for which they applied.

The board said its decision was based on information provided by industry on pipeline capacities, provincial producing capabilities and requirements of oil for use by Canadian refiners during March.

Nixon tantalizes elderly homeowners with tax relief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon continues to tantalize homeowners—especially the elderly—with vague promises of property tax relief but so far he has not proposed any specific legislation.

The primary reason for administration delay in sending a property tax relief bill to Congress is that any measure which would have much of an impact on the problem would be very expensive.

The plan could cost anywhere from a few hundred million to several billion dollars.

Money for the cheaper options could be found without pushing the budget through Nixon's self-imposed ceiling of $28.7 billion. But that would require limiting the relief to persons over 65 years of age and with incomes below the poverty level, a measure unlikely to have much appeal for the president's middle class constituency.

A more comprehensive program could prove to be the sort of budget buster Nixon has pledged to avoid.

At one time the administration was considering an across-the-board cut in the tax on all residential property. That idea was scrapped because it would have cost more than $15 billion a year, a sum that exceeds the proposed budget for community development, housing, agriculture and space research combined.

Despite the problems in devising a workable formula, Nixon repeated his pledge in the economic segment of his State of the Union report to Congress.

"I shall submit recommendations for alleviating the crushing burdens which property taxes now create for older Americans," he said.

Virtually ignored in discussions of property tax burdens is the substantial tax relief the government now provides for homeowners. Persons buying a home or the installment plan may deduct from their federal income taxes the amount they pay for mortgage interest and property taxes.

The latest Treasury Department figures indicate that in 1971 the deduction for mortgage interest saved taxpayers—and cost the government—$2.1 billion. The cost to the government of the deduction for property taxes was $2.7 billion.

A married couple filing a joint return with two joint return with income of about $8,000 saves in taxes 19 cents for every $1 it spends for mortgage interest and property taxes. A couple with income of about $16,000 saves 25 cents for every $1 and a couple with income over $200,000 saves 70 cents per $1.

Interest payments are much higher in the early years of a home loan than later which generally helps the young more than the old.

But in light of Nixon's so far unredempted promise of relief for the elderly poor, it is interesting to note that the chief beneficiaries of the present system are the young and the affluent.

A taxpayer may subtract mortgage interest and property taxes from his income before figuring his taxes. That means the tax saving rises with the tax bracket.

Gem school support $56.7 million

By DAVID ESPO
Times News writer

BOISE—The Joint Finance Appropriations Committee pegged public school support Tuesday at $56.7 million, including $18.8 million from the state's general fund and $38 million in revenue sharing.

The committee's action anticipates an additional $300,000 in interest from pending legislation that would put $15 million over 40 years into the endowment fund payment for lands now occupied by the Department of Parks and Recreation.

That legislation is expected to pass both houses of the legislature, since it comes as an effort to forestall a lawsuit, and Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, co-chairman of the committee, said the interest would be available for the coming fiscal year.

The total money package approved—$57.7 million—was only $100,000 short of what the committee approved a week ago but then rescinded on a two-thirds vote.

High said the funding was a "great day for public schools" and exceeded what was requested by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and the Idaho Education Association.

The committee's action came on the first of three motions it had before it. The other proposed levels of funding included $54.7 from the general fund and $56.8 from the general fund, both in anticipation of the $300,000 interest money.

The approved figure differs from the funding package agreed to by the committee last week by its inclusion of the $3 million in revenue sharing. Adding that money to the total funding package allows the legislature to keep down its general fund appropriations to the schools while still granting the large increase favored by many members.

The new package also differs in its abandonment of the earlier attempt to fix 75 percent of the increased money for teacher salaries. High said last week several attempts to write a fixed percentage increase into the law indicated it could cause "violence" to the funding formula for public schools.

It was the difficulty in writing the fixed increase into law that led the committee to revisit its original budget.

The committee also reconsidered its earlier budget approved for the state's institutions of higher education, Tuesday, but left the total dollar amount the same.

The only action it took on the proposed budget was to transfer $100,000 from a contingency fund to the regular appropriations. The new package includes $31.4 million plus a $400,000 contingency fund. The earlier budget left the institutions with $31.8 million, including $1 in the contingency fund.

The committee also set a number of other general fund agency budgets in its meeting, including $159,000 for the state historical society.

Panel holds school bills

BOISE—The Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee kept in committee Tuesday a House-passed measure requiring the election of the state superintendent of public instruction on a nonpartisan ballot.

The measure was held up because several of the senators on the committee were absent at the meeting, although no specific objections had been raised against the proposal.

Sen. Dick Smith, R-Boise, past president of the Idaho Board of Education, said he had never known of a political dispute involving the superintendent and board, but that the present partisan election system had led superintendents to become involved in activities they didn't prefer to have to do.

Wayne York, spokesman for the Idaho Education Association, told the committee the trend nationwide was away from election of superintendents on a party ballot.

He said more than half the nation's state superintendents are appointed, either by the state board or the governor, and several more are elected on a non-partisan basis.

The committee also held for further study a proposal that would require Idaho students participating in the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE) sign a contract for the repayment for their state subsidies for their education.

Smoke ban hits table

BOISE (UPI)—With little hesitation, the Senate State Affairs Committee today tabled a House-passed measure which would have outlawed cigarette, cigar and pipe smoking at all public hearings.

The House approved the measure after consideration Monday 36-17.

2 confirmed

BOISE (UPI)—The Senate State Affairs Committee today sent to the floor for confirmation the gubernatorial appointments of Franklin Jones and Keith Higginson.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus earlier appointed Jones, a Boise printer, to the Idaho Water Resources Board. He reappointed Higginson, director of water administration. Both names have been held in a state affairs subcommittee since early in the session.

More teacher pay from added funds

BOISE (UPI)—The Senate State Affairs Committee Tuesday sent to print a measure which would require local school boards to allocate 75 percent of increased state appropriations to non-administrative school district personnel.

The 75 per cent figure would apply to the coming fiscal year and would go to non-administrative and non-certified personnel in each district that received a budget increase.

In other action, the committee sent to the floor without recommendation a measure which would allow the University of Idaho to charge tuition in the future.

Sen. Phil Hart, R-Boise, said the measure replaces an earlier resolution which would have taken certain constitutional powers away from the university and allowed tuition to be charged.

Revamp board passes Senate

BOISE (UPI)—Following charges of creating a politically loaded committee, the Idaho Senate Tuesday passed a house measure giving GOP control of an interim committee to study state reorganization.

The measure, which passed 20-15, will now go to the governor for his signature.

The measure, HB 122, sets up the interim committee and seats eight Republicans and six Democrats. Two of the six Democrats would be appointed by the Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and the others will come from the House and the Senate.

The proposal differs from one submitted by Andrus which called for a 12-man committee composed of six Democrats and six Republicans.

"The people of the state will be disappointed by this," Sen. C. Chase, D-St. Maries, said. He said when the people of the state voted for reorganization, they did not want the matter to become politically oriented.

An amendment to the state constitution was passed during the November general election which called for the reorganization of state government. The amendment would reduce the number of agencies in state government to not more than 20 by January, 1975.

Pay hike OK

BOISE (UPI)—The House Judiciary Committee reported to the floor Tuesday without recommendation a bill to raise the salaries of supreme court justices and district judges by $1,600 a year.

The bill would hike supreme court justice salaries to $26,500 from $25,900 and those of district judges to $23,500 from $22,000. The raises would be effective next July 1.

Arms bill wins OK

BOISE (UPI)—A Senate bill making it a felony to have a firearm in possession while committing certain crimes won approval today of the House Judiciary Committee.

Rep. Maurice Clements, R-Nampa, suggested the bill might serve as a deterrent to commission of certain crime while carrying firearms. Chairman F. Don Copple, R-Boise, a lawyer, said he doubted it would.

Rep. Dale Branson, D-Nez Perce, said certain wording of the bill concerned him and added he has received a lot of letters and telephone calls from concerned constituents about it.

Rather than direct the sheriff to assist the director in would allow him to do so.

FROM JAPAN TO AMERICA
% DODGE

ANNOUNCING THE '73 DODGE COLT

Now, little Japanese imports have had to depend on their own dealerships in the U.S. for parts and service. Now comes Dodge Colt, imported from Japan, but sold, serviced, and backed by Dodge, coast to coast.

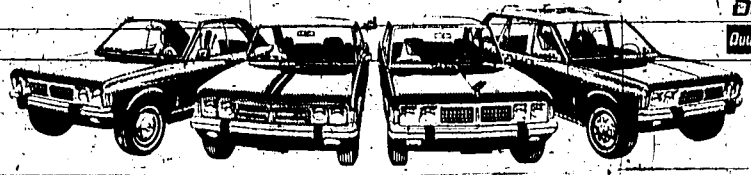

Many imports that come to America are a Dodge Colt. They are very real products, how to provide parts and service on a nationwide basis. The Dodge Colt is sold and serviced and backed to the hilt by a network of Dodge Colt Dealers that stretches from one side of the U.S. to the other.

Put another way, once the car gets to the U.S. for the first time, it's going to be taken care of by Dodge Colt. Which means that though the Colt is now being imported from Japan, it's not really a Japanese import. It's a Dodge Colt. It's a Dodge Colt that's been built over 5,000 miles away in Japan, but it's cared for by a man whose right-around-the-bend, it's set up in the U.S. to meet.

But now comes an import with a difference. And speaking of being built, well, it's built in America. And what Colt comes with as standard equipment—

- Front disc brakes
- Reclining bucket seats (except on coupe)
- Overhead cam hemi engine
- Four-speed transmission (we think it's the best in the industry)
- Hidden radio antenna
- Easy-to-care-for vinyl upholstery
- Lots of other things you'd expect on a little car.

Colt from Japan to America... Dodge Colt.

Gang chief set to talk

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Costello, so-called prime minister of the underworld, was convinced by an author he was a legitimate figure in American history and decided to break the Mafia's most binding rule. He said he would talk.

But Costello, the powerful mob chieftain who once went to jail rather than answer questions in a Senate hearing, was not able to carry out what was probably the biggest decision he ever made. He died 10 days later.

Peter Maas, a New York author specializing in crime material, said Tuesday he had carefully sought permission for the biography for seven months before Costello, who in his later years avoided the limelight, consented.

During the two months prior to Costello's death, Maas said, he had several long conversations with the 62-year-old Mafia godfather.

"I told him that he was a legitimate figure in American history," said Maas, author of "The Valachi Papers," the story of a mobster-turned-informant. "His life story became one of the biggest of the 20th century. Just as big as anybody I can think of. Plus the fact he was one of the most difficult to get to."

"I set down in a memo all the things to be covered in the book. I had to have total control. We kept talking all the while off the record, according to the ground rules. He came to trust me. He was about 90 per cent going along with this."

Timber wolf visits solons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jethro, an 88-pound, seven-year-old grey timber wolf, seemed quite at home in the halls of Congress.

He submitted quietly to the petting of up to five persons at a time while cameras flashed and clicked.

He's far more stable than any dog you've ever seen," explained John Harris, president of the North American Association for Preservation of Predatory Animals. "Much more tolerant if he doesn't like a person he may growl, but he never bites."

The demonstration and the testimonial were given Monday at a news conference called by Rep. G. William Whitehurst, R-Vt., to publicize his legislation to protect predatory animals from extinction. Harris and Karlyn Atkinson, a coordinator for the NAAPPA, argued that wolves have been given a bum rap.

Miss Atkinson said there was "negative thinking" about wolves due to such folklore as the tale about Little Red Riding Hood nearly being eaten by a bad wolf whopped, as her grandmother.

YMCA offers scuba diving instruction

TWIN FALLS, — Sgt. Bill Donnelly, Magte Valley YMCA's scuba diving instructor, announced that registration for the spring session in scuba diving will be Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Classes began on March 8. Registration and all classes will take place at the YMCA, 1751 Grand St.

All boys and girls 14 years of age and adults interested should plan to attend the March 8 registration and information meeting.

Sgt. Donnelly indicated that those participating must be able to swim and diver.

The cost of the course will include a YMCA or YWCA membership, insurance, materials and instructor's fees.

Chuck Upton, YMCA director, said that this will be the fourth session conducted by Sgt. Donnelly, who is a qualified diver and instructor. He also said that over 50 youngsters and adults have gone through the course and are now qualified divers.

Foreign autos tops in tests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — By comparison with American-made cars, 1973 foreign-built automobiles swept the top seven spots in braking performance, a Transportation Department study showed today.

Foreign-made cars also held the top 16 positions in tire reserve load a measurement used to determine how much weight a tire can safely carry beyond a full load of passengers.

"It was apparent that foreign manufacturers were concentrating on top performance ratings and earning them," Douglas Toms, National Highway Traffic Safety Administrator (NHTSA) said.

But Toms emphasized that the study does not prove American cars are any better or worse than their foreign competitors, since there are many other performance factors—safety-related and otherwise—to be considered in purchasing a new car.

Under law, Toms, using statistics provided by all the auto manufacturers, is required to publish the performance results in a booklet for consumers and make it available at the U. S. Government Printing Office.

The automakers are also required to provide the statistics to a prospective buyer, but only for the products they actually offer for sale.

Under the Braking performance requirement, the auto makers reported the number of feet it took to stop a fully-loaded car from a speed of 60 miles an hour.

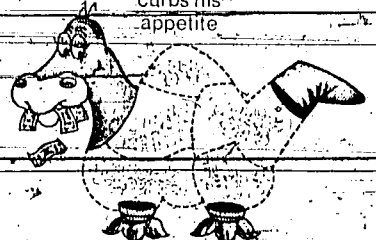

The best performance 146 feet was registered by an Italian-built Alfa Romeo. The worst 250 feet was reported by all custom-built Chryslers, Dodges and Plymouths.

Argentin Motors Corporation's Matador station wagon with front disc brakes headed the list of U.S.-built cars. It stopped in 175 feet from the time the brakes were applied.

Chevrolet's Corvette was tenth, stopping in 177 feet. Ford's Pinto sedan stopped in 185 feet. Plymouth Valiant, 190 feet; Chevrolet Nova with front disc brakes, 197 feet; Pontiac Firebird with front disc brakes, 201 feet; Oldsmobile Cutlass with front disc brakes 240 feet.

In tire reserve load, the Japanese-built Datsun 240Z sports car was first with a 32 per cent safety margin. The worst reserve load—zero—was reported by Ford, all models except station wagons, with air conditioning and with 420 or 460 engines.

Wood River PTA requests thorough study by board

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer

HALEY — The Wood River PTA advocated full consideration by all applicants for district superintendent Monday night.

By a vote of 34 to two, the PTA group adopted a motion made by Mrs. Grace Eakin to send a letter to the Blaine County School Board, stating "because of the importance of the position, the board should choose a superintendent carefully and should review each applicant."

Through its action, the PTA declined, as a group, to endorse two petitions on the matter, which were earlier backed by the Wood River PTA executive board and presented Monday night to the general membership for consideration.

The petition drive followed a Feb. 12 school board meeting in which trustee chairman William Mallory recommended Walter Hoesel to the post to succeed former superintendent Charles Clark.

The motion was vetoed by trustee Ronda Hunt and the board set Wednesday as a cut-off date for applications.

Hoesel, who presently serves as on-site coordinator for a northwestern university, directed study toward a new high school.

In an interview Monday, Hoesel said he had withdrawn his application.

He said he hoped the move would help clear the air for the board of trustees and patrons of the school district so that the study could go on with as few interruptions as possible for the benefit of students and of the school system.

The first petition, initiated by Harve Bickett and Joseph Wurst, both Gannett, states "We the undersigned, as taxpayers, parents and persons interested in Blaine County schools go on record as opposing the hiring of Walter Hoesel and strongly recommend the hiring of Ray Jefferson (present acting superintendent) as a superintendent with Phil Homer (Wood River Junior High School principal) as assistant superintendent."

The second petition, formulated by Dr. and Mrs. Paul Heuston, Ketchum, states the undersigned go on record opposing the hiring "of any individual without due consideration to all applicants to the position of superintendent."

"We feel that it would be to the best interest of all concerned—that the new superintendent be someone familiar with the aspects of living and teaching in this resort area county and have an awareness of the financial as well as the political situations that must be dealt with in this most important position."

Petition proponents, Bickett and Dr. and Mrs. Heuston, who were present at the PTA meeting, said both drives were initiated at the request of a school board member to solicit

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: During our 30 years of married life, I worked two jobs so as to provide a good home for my wife and children. Now the kids are married and on their own or so we thought.

My wife and I saved a little nest egg for our retirement years, but it seems that the style these days is to hand over the money to the kids for down-payments on homes, furniture, or just to help them pay their rent!

I am against this! I say, let them work for it the way we did. When they work for things themselves, they appreciate them more. Why should we dig into our savings to make life easier for them?

My wife is a softy and has started to hand out money to our kids. Of course, there is no such thing as a "loan" or "advance" with your own children. It's just a present. Please print this with your answer. She thinks I am "tight" and hardhearted when I say, "No more!"

DAD IN HACKENSACK, N. J.

DEAR HACKENSACK: Let the kids hack it themselves in Hackensack and everywhere else! I'm with you, Dad.

Nest egg problems

DEAR ABBY: How does a guy go about finding one of those girls who's a sure thing? Know what I mean? The kind who meets a guy, and if they dig each other, she'll have an affair with him without getting too serious. They may even live together without any strings attached.

I've had the marriage bit, thanks, and I played it square, but she sure had me fooled. And when we split up, she took me for all I was good for.

I've thought of running an ad in the paper, but I don't know how to word it without being downright blunt. I'm no bum. I've got a job and I don't wear my hair long. Vital statistics: 37 years old, 5 feet tall, 180 pounds. Have brown eyes and dark hair, and can be amorous.

Please publish this. I may get a straight answer. You can skip the sermon. I once believed in love and marriage, but no more. At least, this way there's no phony baloney, and everyone knows the score.

LOOKING IN, ST. PAUL

DEAR LOOKING: You need me to help you find a SURE THING like a mouse hole in a haystack. The pickup joints in St. Paul are full of them. A word of warning, however: If you are seriously considering such a girl, make a standing appointment with your physician every morning. You're a cinch to need it.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the process of suing my husband for extreme physical cruelty. He settled all disagreements with his fists, and the people at the emergency ward at the hospital are sick of seeing me.

My lawyer advised me to find somewhere else to live until we could get into court, so some friends took me in. While living with them, I became attached to their 22-year-old son. (I am 30, and have three children.)

I was given custody of the children and also the house and furnishings my husband and I owned jointly. When he was served and ordered to leave the premises, he stripped the place of all the furniture, including two television sets and the radio. He even took the light bulbs. He was ordered to pay me a certain amount for child support, but I haven't seen a penny of it.

My husband has been seen out dancing every night. My lawyer told me not to go out with any men, but I am tiring my sanity sitting here in an empty house with nothing to watch or listen to and sleeping in a borrowed sleeping bag. I called my lawyer and his answering service said he went on a vacation and will be gone for six weeks. What should I do?

STIR CRAZY IN ARKANSAS

DEAR STIR: Every lawyer should have a colleague his clients can consult in his absence. If yours has not, you would be justified in finding another one. Check with your local Legal Aid Society or the County Bar Association.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 09700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Secretaries hear talk

TWIN FALLS — Robert E. Kroush, probation and parole officer for the state of Idaho, spoke on problems facing his department at a Monday meeting of the Twin Falls Legal Secretaries.

The meeting was held at the Idaho Power Auditorium. He presented the group an inside picture of the problems facing his department and a view of various problems and probationers seldom seen outside his jurisdiction.

Kroush said the cost of keeping someone in prison, including board, room and other necessities is $16 per day. The cost of the person's probation, if he is working, feeding his family and earning his way, is 60 cents per day. You may draw your own conclusions, he said.

Special committee reports of activities and projects during the past year were given. Delegates to the Idaho Legal Secretaries Convention in Idaho Falls, April 27 and 28, were elected.

A motion to reduce dues to $14.50 per year was unanimously passed.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Dr. John Fisher of Dallas won the McKenney trophy for 1972. As such, he is the first non-Californian to win this trophy, given to the player winning the most master points during a calendar year, since Oswald Jacoby, also of Dallas, won it in 1963.

Today's hand shows John managing a 4-3 trump fit to get a top score in a regional open pair.

Barry Crane of Los Angeles, the 1971 McKenney winner, raised John from two to three spades in spite of holding only three trumps in support of what was almost surely just a four-card suit.

He had a full in John's dummy play and John cor-tainly did not disappoint him.

John ruled the second heart and proceeded to cash his king and the queen of trumps. If he had led a third round the hand would have collapsed, but John knew better than to do that. He objected to the defense collecting a trump trick, but he couldn't afford to let them hold the last trump.

Therefore, John's supply started on diamonds. West trumped the third diamond with one of his two trumps and did the best he could by leading out the last trump. John came to his hand with the ace of clubs and cashed the last two diamonds and dummy's club king to give him a plus score of 820, thereby beating those Souths who had bid and made the easy diamond game.

Library program viewed

As a consequence the library's public image is in large part established by semi-professional personnel. Probably this should be rectified... immediate steps should be taken to bring the professional staff into closer contact with the students and faculty they serve.

Dr. Douglas said he received frequent complaints about the library book and other collections, which critics said were weak, disorganized and trivial.

But according to the consultant, "This is not entirely true. By any reasonable community college standard the materials collections at the CSI library are at the very least acceptable and in many ways commendable."
He praised the purchase of the entire "Bertalan List... considered to be the basic book list for community college libraries" along with the Encyclopedia Britannica's "Library of American Civilization" in microfilm.

But, he said, "Unfortunately, these purchases do not appear to have been supplemented to the optimum degree by requests from the faculty."
An unusual aspect of the library collection is the large number of "gift books" present. He said about 60,000 volumes of the total collection of just over 100,000 volumes were in this category.

"Many of these were obtained from Library of Congress and some of them treat strange and esoteric subjects," he said.
Nevertheless, "The fact that these books are in the collection does not trouble this observer since I have ascertained that the basic books for community colleges are also there and that adequate monies are available to meet faculty request for materials."
A related difficulty, he said, is the need to "weed" the library stacks to make more room.

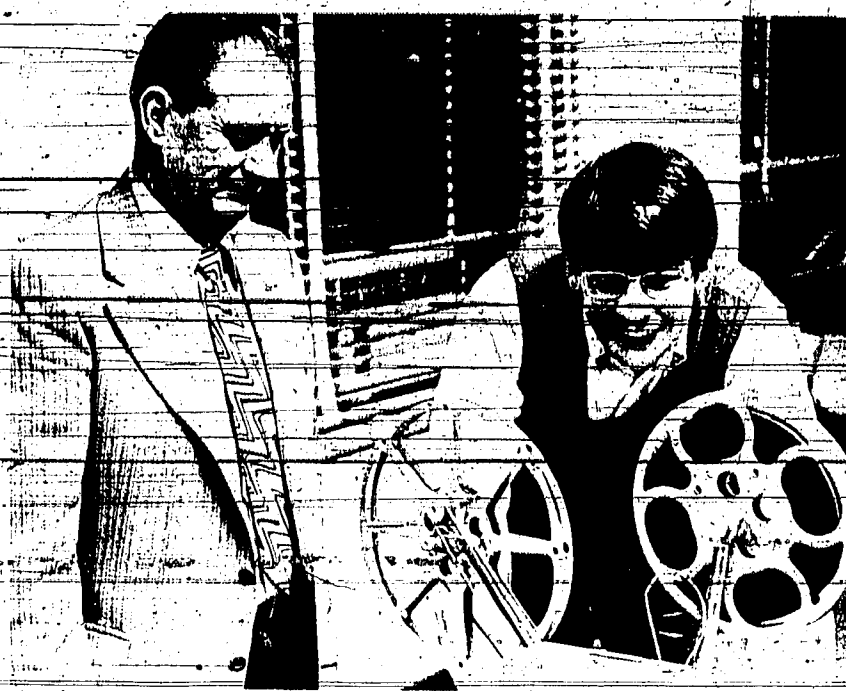

The stacks in the library are almost completely filled at this time. A weeding program will soon have to be instituted. When this is done some of the more unusual books from the gift collection can be put in storage or discarded.

The consultant was pleased with the library budget, which he termed "very adequate."
He said the budget constitutes about six per cent of the general fund budget of the college, which compares favorably with the 5.8 per cent of the total budget achieved by the 26 libraries in the community colleges of Washington State and to the 3.5 per cent of the general fund which constitutes the national norm for two-year school libraries.

Douglas said CSI had contacted Northwest Accrediting Association and asked them to send a representative to evaluate the library.

However, he said, the accreditation board does not evaluate colleges except in total function, and they recommended to CSI that they hire him independently, which CSI did.

Douglas said CSI may well have the largest junior college library collection in the world. He said he represents a much larger institution at Shoreline while the Shoreline library is much smaller than CSI's.
Douglas said today CSI had emphasized quantity but not necessarily at the expense of quality, since basic books have been purchased.
He said he thought CSI would be "well-advised" to call a "moratorium" on acquisitions except for those books requested by faculty and begin weeding out some of the less valuable books on the CSI shelves. He suggested the college begin "descriptive cataloguing" to make the material in the library easier to use. He said it was his opinion that the library was nearing the point of being "cumbersome to get at, to manage and to use."

Drive scheduled

MAKING final plans for the annual fund raising drive of the Jerome Chapter of the American Red Cross are Orin Shiris, Jerome County chairman, and Dr. John Steib, Jerome City chairman. Drives throughout the country will get under way Thursday.

CSI refutes sex charge

The college also said Mrs. Castaneda had had a hearing with president Taylor following her termination notice and a subsequent hearing before the board of trustees, both of which resulted in support for Dean Smith's recommendation for termination. At the later hearing, Mrs. Castaneda was accompanied by a representative from the AAUP.
As for Mrs. Castaneda's allegation that she was not given proper notification of termination in time to seek employment for the following year, the college contends, in a letter given as an exhibit, from CSI attorney J. Robert Alexander to attorney Rudolf Barabas, who is representing Mrs. Castaneda, that she was "well aware of the tenuous circumstances of her remaining on the staff at the college" due to her ongoing consultations with Dean Smith.

This was due, however, to her failure to present herself to the academic dean, as requested.
In a letter to Mrs. Castaneda, also offered as an exhibit and dated April 4, 1972, CSI president Taylor states "We at the College of Southern Idaho do not believe that negotiated contracts or tenure are in the best interests of the institution or the taxpayers who support it. The taxpayers and students are entitled to the very best teaching staff available."
Data submitted by the college showed the sexual differential case to $725 in 1972-73, the year following Mrs. Castaneda's dismissal.
During her final year, Mrs. Castaneda's salary was $144 higher than the average woman assistant professor, and $6 above the average man of that rank.
CSI also presents material which it says shows Mrs. Castaneda's classload was never above the average 15 hours per week. The exhibit shows her classload as 14, 14, 10 and 13, respectively for the four semesters she taught at CSI. While the college notes that in addition she taught English part-time to foreign students "to make up for" losses of second year French classes, these additional teaching hours were not figured into her classload.
In further evaluation, the college presents a written statement by Smith which concludes:
"I spoke with Mrs. Castaneda during each of the past three semesters, expressing my concern at the lack of success of her French students. While she has maintained a seemingly open and professional attitude, it does not appear that the French program is going to be successful under her leadership. As she essentially has no preparation to teach other subjects, I recommend that Mrs. Castaneda not be tendered a contract for the ensuing year."

Judge overrules change of venue

TWIN FALLS - A defense motion for a change of venue in the case of David Deap Moorehead was overruled this morning by Fifth District Court Judge James M. Cunningham.
Defense attorney Monte Carlson cited a series of Times-News articles in his motion for change of venue which he said contained material not admissible in evidence before a jury during trial.
Carlson, in his motion, said Moorehead, charged with delivery of a controlled substance, feels that a fair and impartial trial cannot be had in Twin Falls County where the case is presently pending.
A previous trial on Jan. 22 was declared a mistrial by Judge Cunningham because of an article in the Times-News. On Feb. 23 a second trial for the 18-year-old defendant resulted in a hung jury.
Judge Cunningham, in overruling the venue motion, said there is no captive jury at present as there was during the first trial. He cited cases to show that the jury in the next trial would not necessarily be prejudiced if proper interrogation procedures were followed prior to impaneling.
Cunningham said he thought the jury system was in worse shape than he believed if statements by prospective jurors regarding prejudice could not be believed.
A third trial for Moorehead is scheduled to begin Thursday morning before Judge Cunningham.

"We believe we have a system which gives the teacher every opportunity to prove himself worthy of re-employment. The system of two evaluations annually provides the faculty member with every opportunity to remain in his or her position if in fact they are rendering competent services."
CSI asked to attach copies of all evaluations of Mrs. Castaneda's work, presented a series of faculty ratings by the academic dean placing Mrs. Castaneda consistently in the lowest quarter of the instructional staff.
The college also presents material alleging that the salary differential between male and female assistant professors - Mrs. Castaneda's rank - amounted to $35 in favor of males in the 1970-71 academic year at CSI and $138 in favor of males in the 1971-72 academic year, a far lower figure than that alleged by Mrs. Castaneda.

Triumph Mine to reopen

House said plans call for two men a shift and a five day work week. He said hopefully the operation would continue year-round.
Initial work will include rehabilitation of the mine dump, building a compressor house and change room, re-tilting, and repairing the tunnel and exploration work. House said, production is not anticipated for about two years.
Each summer since 1970 when the lease was obtained, House, family members and several of the present Triumph Mineral Co. participants worked to open the portal of the North Star and other regions of the mine.
Company projections include extending the "Boiler" tunnel to in excess of 1,100 feet long to reach a possible upward vein extension or "up-dip" vein, which have not been previously explored in the area.

The company president said the potential of North Star "remains to be seen." However, he said he felt "quite strongly" that additional ore exists, especially in that portion of the mine. He also said he believed that no one generation was meant to mine out all the ore in the area.
Company vice president and treasurer Betty Clark Lavery, Ketchum, said she was "very enthusiastic about the prospects of re-discovering ore bodies in North Star." She said ores in the area in the past had had metallurgical problems which can be solved through today's modern mining technology. Excess water problems are not anticipated to be encountered at the higher levels of the tunnel which will be worked, she said.
The Triumph, consisting of three separate mines - North Star, Triumph and Independence - merged in the late 1960s and operated from 1884 until June, 1957. Production records show about 1.6 million tons of ore had been extracted, with a gross value of about $25 million. Peak production it employed about 180 men.
House said the mine was abandoned primarily because of economics, including low metal prices. At one time the mine contained about 52 miles of workings, presenting transportation problems from the portal to mine facilities which cut into profits, he said.

Ms. Lavery has been interested in mining for a number of years. Her grandfather, the late Frank Clark, was a prospector and miner all his life and two uncles were also involved in mining.
Ms. Lavery's husband, Ed Lavery, who serves as company secretary and director, has unpatented mining claims in Muldoon, has been involved in mining since 1962 and is presently leader of Sun Valley Orchestra.
Stockholder, Charles Brockway, Twin Falls, formerly from Ketchum, serves as the company's engineering hydrologist.
Guy Van Jones, Bellevue, is the company's geologist and has previously done various geologic reports on the mine. A former Federal Resources Corp. geologist, he worked at the Silver Star Camp Mine, Bellevue, and Camp Bird, Colo. Jones' family has been involved in mining in the Hailey area since the early 1800's.

Jerome battles haystack fire

JEROME - The Jerome Rural Fire Department was called out at 4 a.m. this morning to battle a haystack fire at Producers' Livestock Marketing Association.
Don Rupert, rural fire chief, said the fire will probably burn for the next several days. He noted, at present, it was not endangering any property structures.
"We presently have a tractor working to stir the fire up and as long as the wind doesn't come up the fire will not constitute any threat to Producers' Livestock," Rupert said.
Rupert said the exact cause of the fire is not known at this time, but indications are that the fire was deliberately set, noting that his department will be investigating the possibility of arson.
About 125 tons of hay were destroyed, which has been valued at about $5,000.
The firemen were able to save an adjacent haystack by moving it to another location before the fire spread.

School break-in

TWIN FALLS - City police were investigating a break-in at the Twin Falls High School this morning in addition to numerous calls on broken windows in school and homes.
Police reports were not complete today but high school officials said only vending machines were broken into and an undetermined amount of small change taken. Entry was gained by breaking a glass on the east side of the building.
Officials said nothing else in the school appeared to have been bothered and offices were not entered.

2-day workshop slated in TF

TWIN FALLS - Expansion of planning and development programs to an eight-county area will be discussed in a two-day workshop on community development Thursday and Friday in Twin Falls.
Coordinated by the University of Idaho Extension Service, the workshop will be under the direction of a planning team from the University of Colorado.
Scott Brown, University of Idaho, said county and city planning and zoning boards have been invited to send delegates. He said officials will attend from the South Central Resource Development Committee and the Wood River Council of Area Governments.
Brown said the workshop is the first effort in the state to develop planning programs on a regional basis. In this case involving eight counties.

SRS to control Gooding unit

BY DAVID ESPO Times-News writer
BOISE - The Senate agreed Tuesday to transfer control of the vacant tuberculosis hospital at Gooding to the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services.
The structure and grounds had been officially classified as surplus state property and under the control of the Department of Public Lands.
Also included in the Senate action was the approval of a supplemental appropriation of $120,000 for the remainder of the fiscal year for the continued maintenance of the building.
The legislature appropriated $16,000 a year ago for the current fiscal year in expectation that the building might be sold before the end of the fiscal year. When it was not, the supplemental money became necessary, according to Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewiston. Mitchell, the floor sponsor of the measure, told the Senate the facilities would be used to house a child development center for Lincoln, Gooding and Camas counties, as well as a rehabilitation facility. In addition, he said SRS could work out arrangements enabling other governmental agencies to use part of the facilities.
Sen. James Vest, R-Wendell, told the Senate and South Central Idaho Health District would be heading new headquarters in a few years, and also said the site would be suitable for a veterans nursing home for Southern Idaho.
He also jokingly told the Senate he had considered introducing a resolution moving the state capital to Gooding to make use of the facilities there.
Sen. Dave Eskelin, R-Boise, opposed the proposed transfer of control, saying the Senate was giving its approval to establishing another state institution.

Gooding meeting set

GOODING - A special meeting of the Gooding County Planning Commission will be conducted at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Gooding County Courthouse. The commission will hear committee reports and review a state land use policy questionnaire which was filled out by interested county residents at a special meeting earlier this month.

Albion needs covered in Cassia planning study

ALBION - Albion was one of six Cassia County communities included in an Idaho Water Resources Board study of domestic water and sewer needs in rural areas.
The 95-page study manual, which was turned over to Cassia County commissioners Monday, contains summaries of conclusions, recommendations and cost estimates for the communities of Oakley, Albion, Alho, Elba, Deakley and Malta.
The report, entitled "Comprehensive Rural Water and Sewerage Planning Study, Cassia County," recommends that Albion improve its domestic water system in two phases costing a total of $168,000 and construct a sewage collection system for $242,000.
The summary of conclusions, recommendations and cost estimates reads as follows:
"The City (Albion) is presently served by two independent water systems: the residential and commercial areas are served by the municipal system while the college area is served by a second system. The college campus water system is city property; however, responsibility for the operation and maintenance belongs to the college. Lessee, the Oregon Trail facilities at the No. 2 city well and at the principal college system well."
"A regular maintenance program should be established for the two existing storage facilities."
"Distribution system extensions and improvements should be undertaken for the municipal system."
"The distribution system which serves the college campus should be evaluated and any indicated corrective measures initiated."
"The cost estimate as prepared for this report does not include the improvements as recommended for the water system which serves the college campus as the financial burden for this work should probably be assumed by the college."

"Sewage disposal for Albion consists of a combination of individual tanks and drain fields, cesspools and open, sewage dumping into adjacent streams. The college campus community septic tank is in such a state of disrepair and neglect that it is not functioning; effluent is discharged into Marsh Creek."
The report says:
"The City of Albion is aware of sewage disposal problems and in the summer of 1971, retained the engineering firm of Hideoel and Straubhar, to prepare a preliminary engineering report for a sewerage system. This report was completed in November, 1971, and recommended a sewerage collection system to serve community developed areas and intercept the waste flows from the college, plus a conventional three-stage sewage treatment laggon."
"Based upon 30-year revenue bonds at five per cent interest for the proposed sewerage system, 120 equivalent connections, and an annual cost of $5,000 for the operation and maintenance, the combined monthly service charge for a typical user within the city would be approximately $12."

"Second in series"
restoration of the Arts
Recommendations for improvements to the water systems include the following:
1. Provision of an auxiliary power source and standby pumping facilities plus chlorination

As outlined in the preliminary engineering report, it would provide Albion with a satisfactory solution to present disposal problems.
"Based upon 30-year revenue bonds at five per cent interest for the proposed sewerage system, 120 equivalent connections, and an annual cost of $5,000 for the operation and maintenance, the combined monthly service charge for a typical user within the city would be approximately $12."

Rural 'greenbelt' bill 'not needed'

By DWIGHT JENSEN
Special to the Times-News

BOISE—The chairman of the House Energy and Taxation Committee believes county assessors could be projecting farmers in recreational areas from high property taxes. Therefore, he says, a proposed "rural property greenbelt" bill is not necessary.

Rep. Allan Larsen (R-Blackfoot) said the greenbelt bill, House Bill 119, is drafted along examples set by Utah law and contains terms that are not used in Idaho law. He said that could be confusing.

The bill is aimed at keeping farm property taxes down in areas such as Bear Lake County and the Ketchikan valley country where recreational developments have boosted land values and the farmers' danger of being "taxed off his property," to use the words of

Rep. Lloyd Dunn, R-Georgetown, chief proponent of the bill.

The measure would require farmland to be assessed as farmland, without regard to the value of adjacent property. But if the farmer later took advantage of rising values by selling his farm as recreational property, he would have to pay back taxes for five years at a higher rate.

Larsen said existing law requires county assessors to consider the income-producing power of the land and other factors, and he said this law could be used by assessors to hold down taxes on farm property, but he said many assessors are not taking advantage of those provisions of existing law.

Larsen said the solution is not a new law, but to convince assessors to use existing law for the benefit of farmers.

Coyotes gaining

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—Nevada coyotes have foiled expensive attempts to eradicate them and the state should abandon the program, according to Assemblyman Robert Broadbent, R-Reno.

He told the Assembly Ways and Means Committee Monday that if it weren't for pressures applied by livestock growers, the program would have been dropped long ago, and he said it was "fiscally irresponsible" for the legislators to appropriate tax money for a program that doesn't benefit the general public.

The lawmakers have been asked to appropriate $200,000 to be pooled with federal grants and a levy on livestock to combat the coyote menace.

But in the Senate Finance Committee across the hall in the Nevada Legislature, Frank Grover, director of the State Fish and Game Department said the buildup of coyotes and bobcats posed a "serious threat to wildlife." He said without poison these predators were increasing in number. The federal government has backed the idea of poison.

Compromise may develop in rural power battle

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two farm bloc leaders disclosed plans Monday for a compromise in the battle over President Nixon's elimination of a traditional low-interest Rural Electrification Credit program.

They predicted a "good chance" for their plan.

The compromise, drafted by Chairman W. R. Pogue, D-Tex. of the House Agriculture Committee and Rep. Ancher Neisen, R-Minn., would revive the 2 percent interest rate on rural electric and telephone loans made by the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) under a program shelved by Nixon.

But Pogue and Neisen explained the 2 percent loans under their plan would be restricted to "needy" borrowers, generally those serving thinly set-led areas. And instead of coming from taxpayer funds as in the past, the proposed new 2 percent REA loans would come from private lenders through a new rural electric revolving fund.

Nelsen said administration officials, "without committing themselves to details, have indicated they would be willing to accept 'this approach.'"

"Disclosure of the compromise move came as Pogue's committee opened hearings on a Senate-passed bill which would revive the old REA 2 percent program intact, and would attempt to force President Nixon to spend $450-million appropriated by Congress for the program in the current fiscal year.

Farm subsidy end plan draws fire

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's plan to phase out some major farm subsidies would hit hardest at small farmers, a study prepared for the Senate Agriculture Committee said Tuesday.

Committee Chairman Norman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., launching what he conceded appears to be an uphill battle to draft and pass a new major farm support bill, unveiled the study as he opened public hearings on the new legislation.

Talmadge, in a statement prepared for delivery at the opening session, said backers of farm supports are beginning work "at what is perhaps the poorest possible psychological and political moment" because food prices and farm incomes are high, consumers are angry, the House is dominated by urban interests, and "the President of the United States indicates he wants to get government off the farm."

Talmadge said he was filing for the record a series of studies including one, prepared by the Library of Congress's congressional research service, giving an "economic appraisal" of President Nixon's farm policy proposals.

The plans call for retaining a government-paid land retirement program but phasing out federal income-supplement payments to farmers on feed grains, wheat and cotton.

The report by Dr. Walter Wilcox, a veteran library of Congress farm economist, noted that more than 1.4 million feed grain growers got $1,000 apiece or less in grain subsidy payments in 1971. These farmers, 82 per cent of the number participating in the 1971 program, received only 38 per cent of the subsidy money.

But the smaller farmers "would be especially disadvantaged if 'supplemental' income payments were phased out and cropland adjustment payments were not related to a production base," Wilcox said.

In the cotton program, Wilcox added that most small producers, mainly located in non-irrigated parts of Oklahoma, Texas and the Southeast, would also be "hard hit" by a withdrawal of income supplements and "many of them will have to give up cotton growing."

In summary, Wilcox's report said "the major elements of Nixon's plan 'fail to contribute' to congressional goals of trying to couple production with farm income with adequate production at reasonable prices for consumers.

Farm Oregon man says land plans needed

BOISE (UPI)—A former Arizona Farm Bureau president Monday told the Idaho Association of Soil Conservation Districts farm people must be involved in land use planning to avoid problems of other states.

Floyd Hawkins, who now farms in Vale, Ore., said there is not time to study the problem as has been suggested by proponents of an interim study of proposed legislation for land use policy.

Hawkins told of urban-rural conflicts near Phoenix, Ariz., where farm lands and subdivisions are mixed and said real problems develop for the people on lands in between the subdivisions, such as taxation that forces the sale of the agricultural lands.

He said he knows development cannot be stopped but planning actions that can be taken now would head off problems such as were experienced in Arizona.

Neil Sampson, program manager for land use for the state planning and community agency pointed to the city of Ketchum where development and proposals for greater expansion have collided with problems caused by inadequate facilities.

Sampson said legislation proposed as S.B. 1111 would not eliminate the work of local governments nor would it impose a moratorium on emergency projects that might be in progress.

He said the legislation is based on statutes in other states or acts that had been given general approval by the public and comments from Idahoans.

Blackeyes gained 25 cents while light red kidneys defied lower. Other bean values reflected little change. The tax March 1 tax assessment date was a factor in the marketing pattern, according to the weekly report.

Prices for baby limas gained 60¢ at 15.00-16.25. Dwindling stocks and grower holding continued to advance prices. Large limas held steady at $28.50-29.00 with most quotations at 28.50. Blackeye prices advanced .25 at 14.00-14.25 with most prices at 14.00. Beans slightly below No. 1 quality were quoted at 13.50-13.75. Lower grades but suitable for packaging were quoted at 13.00-13.25.

A-4 semi-final opens final tourney weekend

Richfield and Camas County hope to join Oakley and Glens Ferry in the elite class that already has assured itself a spot in the post-district tournament action.

The Tigers and Musers meet for the third time this year at 8:30 p.m. today at the Gooding High school gymnasium with the winner moving into the fourth district A-4 finals and clinching a trip to the state playoffs. Oakley already has nailed down that same position in the fifth district meet, slipping Castleford Saturday night.

Glens Ferry has the inside track on the A-3 state tourney berth but already being in the finals assures the Pilots of at least having a second chance. The A-3 runner-up will meet the third place team from the Boise area next Monday at Mountain Home with the winner filling the eighth state spot.

The fourth district A-4 is the action slated Wednesday night. It will open at 7 p.m. with Gooding State and Dietrich going about eliminating one another. The survivor of that game will meet the Minico Camas County loser in a single game Thursday night for the right to battle the undefeated team Friday and maybe Saturday.

Camas County has won two from Richfield, the last time by one point on the Tiger homecourt. The two are the tallest in the tournament and for the most part there isn't much to choose from.

Richfield's apparently better shooting percentage from the field seems to offset Camas County's height superiority.

The last game was won at the guard line where the Musers turned to a pressure defense to pick up enough turnovers to claim the one-point decision.

That probably won't happen again. The difference undoubtedly will be something like that — one team having an off night in a certain category of the game.

Come Thursday night, however, and there will be five full blown tournaments happening in Magic Valley. One of these will send Twin Falls to Burley for the chore of winning four straight games from the Roberts.

They've met three times with Twin Falls rallying to win the first, building up a big lead and easily outlasting Burley in the second and then building up a 17-point lead and needling scoring help at the end to win the third.

Recent tradition of the A-1 playoffs says Twin Falls isn't to be in the playoffs three years in a row. The third-ranked team going in has polished off the second ranked — while Minico, as again this year, sits idly by waiting for a challenger. Burley did it to Twin Falls twice then saw the Bruins repay the insult last year.

The loser goes to the guidelines while the winner will go home to host Minico Friday night. Should Minico lose Friday night, those same two clubs will meet at the neutral site (either Twin Falls or Burley depending on who's not playing) Saturday.

In A-2 play, the Wood River Wolverines must make it three in a row over Jerome to stay in the chase of the Gooding Senators. The Wolverines won by five and two points during the regular season and came within an eyelash of being undefeated and waiting. Jerome similarly also defeated Gooding. It's one tournament that could go the extra day with no stretch of the imagination.

At Shoshone, Veltay and Wendell meet at 8 p.m. in the loser bracket semi-finals and the right to play Glens Ferry for the title or at least get into that fourth-third district-play-off. Glens Ferry will require two losses — but the Pilots lost 13 during the season so they aren't home free. Wendell lost only one A-3 match until tournament time. But there's always something tough about beating an opponent three times in a year.

It is the same story at Murtaugh where the fifth district A-4 is waging. The winner between the home-standing Red Devils and Castleford will have a trip to state sealed and the chance to beat Oakley twice for the crown. The two split during the year so it has to rate a toss-up.

Barney announces he's best paid defensive back in NFL

By RICHARD L. SHOOK

DETROIT (UPI) — Cornerback Lem Barney announced Tuesday he has signed a two-year contract with the Detroit Lions, which makes him "the highest paid defensive player in the history of professional football."

"This puts me somewhere in the vicinity of running backs and quarterbacks," Barney, 27, said. Terms were not disclosed. "Today, the name of the game is money," the six-year pro said. Barney said he knew he was the highest paid defensive player "through the assurance of General Manager Russ Thomas (of Detroit) and through some work of my own. The title is pretty nice, too."

"This new contract makes me the highest paid defensive player in the history of football," one of his attorneys, Judge Edward Bell, said.

Detroit started the football world in 1967 when it made the little known cornerback from Jackson State its second draft selection.

But Barney proceeded to startle the National Football League with the quality of his play, stealing 10 passes his rookie season. He now has 38 career thefts and is one of the league's best return artists.

"I think I had one of my best years last season," Barney said. "It was more gutsy, more aggressive, better all around. This made up for my low interception rate."

Rumors of a desire to be traded to Los Angeles were untrue, Barney said.

Magazine appeals loss of libel suit

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Lawyers for Newsweek magazine Tuesday attacked in four legal motions a jury's award of $130,000 in libel damages to a former university track coach and asked the presiding judge to throw out the verdict.

Richard Munzinger, El Paso attorney for Newsweek, charged in one brief that U. S. District Judge Ernest Guinn's Southern accent may have had "prejudicial intonations."

The jury, after a four-day trial, awarded $130,000 Saturday to former track coach Wayne Vandenburg of the University of Texas at El Paso.

Vandenburg had asked $2.5 million. He charged that Newsweek libeled him in a July 15, 1968, with an article entitled, "The Angry Black Athlete."

Newsweek's lawyers also indicated they will appeal if Guinn does not reverse the verdict.

The lawyers asked Guinn for: — A new trial.

— Acknowledgment that the judgment was contrary to the evidence.

Stars stop Kentucky

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Utah Stars used a tight defense in the second half Tuesday night to squeeze out a 103-97 American Basketball Association inter-division victory over the sagging Kentucky Colonels.

The Stars were led by the 29 points of guard Ron Boone to maintain their six-game Western Division lead over Indiana. The Colonels are in second place in the ABA East.

Utah held a slight edge through the first three quarters of play, leading 51-50 at intermission and 81-76 at the third stop.

Iowa State beats Huskers

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Three Iowa State players combined for 54 points Tuesday night to power the Cyclones to an 82-76 Big Eight conference basketball victory over late-charging Nebraska.

Clint Harris, whose 18 first half points propelled the Cyclones to a 44-40 halftime lead, finished with 20 points.

Martinez Demmon hit 18 and Eric Hett fired in 16 as the Cyclones defeated the Cornhuskers for the third time this season.

Nebraska trailed most of the game until it went in front 70-69 with 6:33 remaining. But the Cyclones held the Huskers during the last five minutes with the Nebraska's only field goal coming with two seconds left.

Two scoring spurts in the first and fourth quarters gave New York the victory over the National Basketball Association's leading offensive team. Frazier netted eight points during the 24-2 first half spurt and Phil Jackson scored 15 points in a 23-4 fourth quarter surge after Boston had closed the gap to 10 points at 79-69.

The Knicks trailed 18-17 in the first quarter when Frazier took command and reversed the Boston scoring trend. Jerry Lucas put New York in front for good at 19-18 with 3:55 remaining in the opening stanza and Frazier scored six of the team's next eight points to maintain the momentum.

Chargers to show Austrian kicker

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Chargers hope to unveil their mystery place kicker this weekend when rookies and other new players arrive for an indoctrination program.

Coach Harland Svarc found the unidentified "leg" in Austria playing soccer while on an eight-nation search. Svarc said he is not trying to be secretive but cannot reveal the man's name until he signs.

There is a possibility the kicker may be in camp this weekend.

The Chargers last year carried two placekickers — veteran Dennis Pardee and rookie Bill McClard.

Although Pardee made 45 of 55 kicks, he missed five in one game and is not regarded as consistent past 40 yards.

McClard, a more powerful kicker, hit on only three of six and was placed on the taxi squad late in the year.

Pardee noted the Chargers come up with a new kicker every year but he has ousted them all since 1968, except for 1970 when he was injured by a season-long injury.

Allen signs for $750,000

SANSAOTA, Fla. (UPI) — The highest priced player in baseball history has finally found a home.

Slugging Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox, described by manager Chuck Tanner as "the epitome of greatness," was expected in uniform today to begin fulfilling a three-year contract signed Tuesday calling for a salary estimated in the neighborhood of $700,000.

Stu Holcomb, the executive vice president of the Sox, would not reveal terms of the contract except to say it is "the biggest ever given to a major league baseball player" and larger than the reported $600,000, three-year contract signed by Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves.

Allen was traded to Chicago by the Los Angeles Dodgers following the 1971 season. He played just one year for the Dodgers who had acquired him only one year earlier from the St. Louis Cardinals. Allen's stay in St. Louis had been equally short, one season, after being sent there from Philadelphia.

Allen broke into the major leagues with the Phillies at the tail-end of the 1963 campaign. Allen, who batted .308 with 37 home runs and 113 RBIs, which gained him the American League's Most Valuable Player award last season, said he was pleased with Tuesday's contract in that it gave him the assurance of not being traded.

He said his trouble before last season was a result of having been traded three years in a row.

"I want to finish my playing career with the White Sox," said Allen, who will be 31 next week.

"A contract is a contract," he added, "but I'm more interested in what we do as a club. I was excited about last year even though we came up short."

Allen drew praise from Tanner, not only in regards to his playing talent, but also for his inspirational leadership.

"Dick Allen is a born leader," said Tanner. "Why last year we had only two pitchers with more than three years major league experience and look how far we got. Dick always had kind words for the younger ones and was always yelling encouragement."

"The White Sox fans accepted him as the greatest and he responded to the fans. He could do no wrong with them. I'd get goose pimples listening to the ovations he got even when he struck out."

If Allen does appear in uniform today, he is expected to will mark the first time since his rookie year in 1964 that he has shown up on time for spring training.

During his nine-year major league career, Allen has a lifetime batting average of .288 with 271 homers and 838 RBIs.

Kuhn warns solons on sport gambling

BOSTON (UPI) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn warned Tuesday that the legalization of gambling on sporting events could "seriously jeopardize" the image and honesty of professional athletes.

"Through a great deal of diligence we have been able to avoid the impact of dishonesty," Kuhn told a legislative hearing at the Massachusetts State House. "We have worked hard to create the image and fact of honesty in our game."

But, he said, "this image and fact of honesty can be seriously jeopardized by the legalization of gambling on sports."

Kuhn, who said he had the authority to speak for major league basketball, football and hockey as well as his own sport, made his comments during testimony before the Joint Legislative Committee on Government Regulations which is considering a five-bill gambling package.

He told the committee that while baseball imposes strict penalties on players for gambling "all of this effort can go down the drain if the state sanctions it. If the state sanctions it, how can we tell our people they can't bet on a game?"

Kuhn said he also feared "heightened risk" that games could be fixed as a result of legalized gambling.

"The more money you have moving on a particular game the greater the temptation there is going to be for someone to go and try to talk to somebody — not the players, then the trainers who might know something," Kuhn said.

While he respects the integrity of the players and other personnel, Kuhn said, "we are all off-human and you would be increasing the possibility of a fix."

Jack Danahy, director of security for the National Football League, told the committee "gambling revenue is not the panacea to solve all of your problems."

Danahy argued that football "depends on human individuals and team effort. This is not a horse race. It is not a sport in which betting is inherent."

"In our sport, the heavier the betting the greater the suspicion," he said.

John M. Callahan, security chief for the Massachusetts State Lottery and a former FBI agent, said the legalization of gambling would "put a sizeable dent in organized crime."

PGA head defends cleat mark rules

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Joe Dey, PGA commissioner, said he disagrees with Lee Trevino, during last week's Jackie Gleason Classic, which he won, not putting a mark on the greens to help him find a hole.

Trevino, who won $52,000 this past Sunday and goes after another $30,000 here this week in the Citrus Open, is the type of golfer who probably would have enjoyed playing back in the days when every golfer played his ball "where it lay."

In those days, recalled Dey, if your ball was imbedded in mud, or covered with mud when you reached the green, tough luck. And how about the old stymie? There was a time when if your opponent's ball lay on the green between your ball and the cup, you had to figure a way to go over, or round — and how's that for a tough putt?

"We still had a stymie rule until 1952," recalled Dey.

"Golf is supposed to be a fair game," said Dey, "but there are a lot of exceptions, many of which we can't control. For example, there is no relief from spots on the green where the grass cutter leaves marks."

"But oddities like the late Bobby Jones would have been delighted playing under today's conditions," Dey said.

put rule, with those three exceptions. If we allowed players to repair the greens entirely to their satisfaction, we'd have some rubbing a rough to the cup, to say nothing of the added time it would take."

Childs speaks to PTA

VALLEY SCHOOLS — Lee Childs, Idaho Youth Ranch, Rupert, addressed the Valley PTA Monday evening and suggested ways to arouse more interest in the local organization.

The regular business meeting preceded an open house at the Valley High School. Teachers were in their rooms to meet parents.

Mrs. Keith Huettig, PTA president, announced that $150 had been given to the Hazelton and Eden Grade Schools by the PTA. The money will be used to purchase necessary school equipment.

Mrs. Huettig read a proposal concerning the reorganization of the Valley PTA for the coming year. The proposal will be voted on by members at the March meeting.

The five items listed were:

1. Valley PTA support the food booth at the July 4 celebration in Hazelton.
2. That the Valley PTA support the teacher's reception at the first PTA meeting in September.
3. Support the children's carnival.
4. That the PTA give two scholarships or a similar project to benefit two high school students and that a similar amount of money be given to the grade schools.
5. That the PTA have three main meetings per year instead of the present monthly meeting schedule and that three meetings be open houses at the three Valley schools.

There was discussion about educational bills before the Idaho Legislature and Arlyn Boddy, principal, reported that Valley High School could lose as much as $10,000 if the proposed budget cuts go through.

The next regular PTA meeting will be an open house at the Hazelton Grade School at 7:30 p.m. March 26.

3 Idaho forests studied

SANDPOINT, Idaho (UPI) — The possibility that three major national forests in northern Idaho may be consolidated has been brought out by the supervisor of one of the three.

Ralph D. Kiser, Kanisku National Forest superintendent, said Monday the possibility that one forest service supervisor and one staff of key assistants could administer the activities of two or three national forests is being checked.

"If the Kanisku is to remain capable of providing an acceptable level of forest products and services to the public, it may have to rework its organizational structure," Kiser said.

He said a study was under way to check on the possibility of consolidating some of the ranger districts within the forest.

Zoning reports heard

TWIN FALLS — Discussions between city and county zoning officials over a "sphere of influence" will continue.

Tom Shafer, member of the Twin Falls City Planning and Zoning Commission, reported at a meeting Monday evening that he and City Manager Jean Milar had met with county zoning officials concerning efforts to make city and county zoning match in the city's "sphere of influence" extending up to three miles outside the city limits.

Shafer said he and Ed Woods, county zoning administrator, will continue working on the matter brought up by the county's proposed zoning ordinance, now under consideration.

Among matters being studied, Shafer said, is a board of arbitration involving representatives of both city and county government and zoning boards to settle differences in recommendations or other disputes which might arise.

In other business Monday evening, the commission recommended the City Council give preliminary approval to the Westgate Subdivision plat. The area is located south of Falls Avenue West and West of Sparks Street.

Discussed a proposed 3.6 acre subdivision fronting on Eastland north of Canyon Creek, but asked for engineering department recommendations before further examination by the commission in March.

Widow benefits

HOISE, UPI — An Industrial Accident Board order that denied a benefits claim to a widow under Workmen's Compensation Laws has been reversed by the State's high court.

The board denied the claim of Lyle P. Haynes because she was not living with her husband when he died.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 1, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES A wonderful, unusual day for you to get the backing of those who are in a position to know what can best further your interests. Contact any outlets which can aid you in your advancement; then be with as many persons as possible to gain their goodwill and help. Try to get those in the know to release to you some special knowledge you need.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get together with good friend who can open new doors of opportunity for you. Secure backing for your new plans. Join some group meeting that is most worthwhile.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make a beeline for those important persons you know and gain needed advice and support from them. Buy those mechanical gadgets that will make your work easier and better. Being more cooperative with bigwigs is wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get out to places and be with people who can assist you in putting your most important plans in motion successfully. You find you get ahead fast if you are broad-minded. Take it easy in the evening and rest.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) With all the responsibilities you have, this is a good day to get the support of bigwigs. Sit down with a good adviser and secure the right ideas. Make this a particularly productive day and p.m.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You understand much better how to cooperate more intelligently with associates and get the right results. Find right way to get rid of opposition from an unfriendly source. Think.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Now that you can really understand your associates, come out with the right ideas for mutual advancement. Plan time for shopping for whatever will make you look more charming. Avoid one whose taste is not good.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you step out to places where good friends meet, you can get rid of that stench of despondency you find yourself in. You have good ideas, so discuss them and gain support for them as well as advice, data you need. Do some work tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Apply some of your efforts to home and make everything there immaculate and harmonious. Plan just how to start an uptrend in your business of personal life and take the right steps in such directions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Good day to communicate with others and exchange favors, lend a helping hand where needed, and vice versa. State aims, learn about theirs. Shop, run errands, and handle travel matters.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Put down ideas to work that will add to your income appreciably, since you have been thinking about them long enough. Sit down with clever business experts and get their advice. State your aims, problems clearly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You should be lighthearted today and can pursue your aims in a most efficient manner and get right results. Go out socially in p.m. and have further success. Make new vital friends of worth.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You feel high-powered and want to go after your aims in a most forceful way, but do not confuse your plans to others and be more diplomatic. Learn from others how to get along better with your fellowman. Think.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... how she will be one of those charming young people who appears to be full of understanding and helpfulness toward others. However, the main aim here is to become popular and learn from others which is fine provided you, as parents, screen the individuals your child cultivates while young. Then the big talents in this chart are brought out successfully. Give music lessons, also. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

RESEARCHERS who have made a study of the matter say a man is twice as likely as a woman to commit suicide after the marriage breaks up, statistically.

DON'T KNOW how many cigarettes you smoke every day, if any, but the computer boys insist it's eight, if you're an average smoker.

IF YOU'RE mathematically inclined, answer this lone. The combined ages of a steamship and its boiler is 49 years. What's the age of each if the present age of the ship is twice the age the boiler was at the time when the ship was the same age as the boiler is now? Got that?

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q: "Can a man be excused from service in the Armed Forces by signing an affidavit to the effect that he likes men, not women?"

A: That's not enough. The military boss say a fellow has to prove it "with a letter from a physician, a psychiatric examination, and I don't know what else."

Q: "HAVE JAMES ARNESS and his brother Peter Graves ever acted together?"

A: Never.

Q: "WHERE'S Slove City?"

A: That's Detroit. At least it used to be so-called. Was said the world's best sloves were made there once.

TATTOOED WOMEN

A third of his customers are women, says this tattoo artist in Long Island, N.Y. Proud of that, he is. What does he tattoo on the girls' faces, buttocks and birds, mostly. Where? The thigh, the breast. A woman should be tattooed where she can cover it up, if she wishes, contends he. So never on the arms, wrists or hands.

AS FOR THE AGES of that aforementioned ship and boiler, the ship is 28, the boiler is 21.

IF YOU'RE thinking about buying a crib for the baby, take your ruler along. Those side slats might not have more than three and a half inches of space between them to be safe. That's the proven way.

IN AUSTRALIA, bush talks the word "budgerigar" means "good bird" which suggest why parakeets are called budgies. Incidentally, the original parakeets were green with yellow heads, no other colors.

Divorces face some returning POWs

By United Press International
 In what is probably the most shattering experience, facing returning POWs, at least six of the men have been divorced by their wives and in two cases court action is still pending. A UPI survey Tuesday of the POW families affected disclosed varying reasons for the actions as different as the persons involved.

 Tangee Alvarez, 32, who filed for divorce from Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez, longest held American POW in North Vietnam, during his 8 1/2 years in captivity, said on his release, "I just hope he understands I didn't plan what happened between us. I loved him a lot at one time and I am very proud to once have been his wife."

 They were married only four months before his capture, Capt. Burton W. Campbell, a native of Amherst, Ohio, announced after his return following seven years imprisonment that he would be divorced from his wife.
 Campbell said through a spokesman that there was no bitterness and "no blame is involved." Nothing more was said.
 Air Force Capt. Joseph Crecca, of Bloomfield, N.J., who was shot down in 1966 and divorced by his wife Jan. 1, 1972, issued only a brief statement through his military escort upon his return. "I want to know a 32-year-old bachelor has returned from Vietnam."

 Other divorced men, including Maj. Jay R. Jensen, of Sandy, Utah, and Maj. Donald L. Heiliger of Madison, Wis., have declined comment.

 Before Mary A. Kramer of Tulsa, Oklahoma, filed for divorce from Air Force Capt. Galand D. Kramer she complained that her "neat and docile" life had been disrupted.

Paul man pleads guilty

RUPERT E. Kenneth R. Johnston, 28, Paul, pleaded guilty of obtaining public assistance by fraud in magistrate court here Monday. Magistrate Letoy Blacker fined Johnston $300, but suspended payment of $200 of the sum and placed the Paul man on probation for eight months.
 Judge Blacker also ordered Johnston to attend vocational school, find a steady job and repay the money he fraudulently obtained from the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services.
 There was no reference to the amount of money obtained through fraud.
 A complaint charging Johnston with fraud was filed by John Gunnell, Burley, supervisor of the Rupert SRS office. In the complaint, Gunnell said Johnston applied for public assistance on Jan. 23, 1973. The Paul man's application denied any income through industrial accident benefits, Gunnell said. Johnston was actually receiving $228 monthly in workman's compensation as the result of an injury sustained on July 27, 1972.

Insurance aired at Jerome

JEROME - The Jerome School board in a special meeting Monday night voted to continue the district's present school insurance with Prescott and Craig.

Supt. John Campbell told the trustees that Prescott and Craig submitted the lowest of bids received. Others were from Jerome Realty, second; Gerald Hite, third; and Farm Bureau, fourth.

The trustees reviewed each of the insurance proposals with insurance agents before making a final decision. They also agreed that they would again seek proposals from the different insurance agencies when the insurance contract with Prescott and Craig comes up for renewal again.

The district had received some public criticism for not putting the school insurance out for bids when it came due in previous years. In a previous school board meeting, trustees agreed to call for bids for school insurance.

Campbell said the majority of the insurance agents, after hearing each of the proposals, agreed the district would be well covered with Prescott and Craig and should continue with their policy for the present time.
