Summit talks over

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, who wind up two days of summit talks today, both feel Saigon now is strong enough to defend itself without American troops.

Nixon was a cordial host at his oceanside Western White House, but he has carefully avoided any sort of public promise of resumption of U.S. military involvement in the event the two-month-old ceasefire collapses.

Officials who are familiar with drafts of the joint communique, to be issued at the conclusion of the meeting today, said it would deal largely in generalities, emphasizing continued cooperation without getting into specifics.

In his speech welcoming Thieu Monday, Nixon said "we now find that all American forces have returned (to the United States) and the people of Vietnam have the strength to defend their own independence and their right to choose their government in the years ahead."

Following the first hour and 40 minute Nixon-Thieu meeting, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler turned aside questions whether the United States reserves the option of resuming the bombing of North Vietnam if the Communists break the truce.

"I do not believe that it would serve any useful purpose to speculate on hypothetical military situations and U.S. responses to hypothetical developments," Ziegler said.

Nixon twice has publicly warned Hanoi that it faces unspecified "consequences" if it infiltrates men and weapons into South Vietnam. But Ziegler carefully avoided any elaboration on those warnings.

Thieu is seeking renewed assurance of U.S. economic, political and military aid, but in his public statements he insisted South Vietnam can stand on its own feet. He coupled the declaration of self-reliance with a barb at American willingness to maintain troops in Europe while pulling out of Indochina.

Church scores ITT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, has concluded after ending the first phase of a Senate probe that International Telephone and Telegraph Co. improperly intervened in the 1970 Chilean election that put Marxist Salvador Allende in office.

Church's Senate foreign relations subcommittee on multinational corporations brought to a close its first phase of a two-week investigation Monday by questioning ITT's President Harold S. Geneen.

Geneen testified the American corporation made a "dual purpose" offer of $1 million designed either to prevent Allende from winning the presidency or to woo him with "socially constructive" projects.

"Either of these, offered as it was, I think represents improper or intervention in Chilean political affairs," Church said.

Church said Geneen's testimony had cleared up some earlier apparent contradictions by ITT officials that led Church to threaten perjury proceedings last week.

Geneen did so by stating that both John A. McCone, former CIA director now an ITT board member, and ITT Vice President Edward J. Gerrity told the truth.

The ITT President said the firm had indeed suggested that $1 million of ITT funds be channeled into Chile to help form a united coalition and block Allende's election by the Chilean congress, as McCone testified.

Gerrity also told the truth when he said the funds could be used for low cost housing and other social projects in hopes Allende might be dissuaded from nationalizing ITT property, Geneen said.

The ITT President said both ideas were explored simultaneously with U.S. government officials after Allende won a narrow plurality in the Sept. 4, 1970, election, but before the Chilean congress decided the election in Allende's favor Oct. 24, 1970.

Geneen emphatically denied ITT tried to use its influence and money improperly to prevent Allende from becoming President.

Geneen acknowledged he "might well have" offered during a July 16, 1970 meeting with CIA agent William V. Broe to provide funds, through the CIA, to Allende's rivals.

today in brief

Nixon near veto victory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon appeared headed for victory today in his showdown with Congress on spending by making his veto of a $2.6 billion program of vocational rehabilitation stick. Backed by White House lobbyists, Republican strategists said they were within a vote or two of sustaining the veto in the Senate, if the Senate votes to override the first veto of Nixon's second term, the general feeling was that the Democrats cannot muster the required two-thirds majority in the House.

Actress Fonda 'nominated'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Actress Jane Fonda has been nominated for an award for "the rottenest, most miserable performance by any one individual American in the history of our country." Rep. Robert H. Steele made the nomination in Congress Monday in recognition of the Oscar-winning actress' statements concerning treatment of POWs in North Vietnam.

Florida blacked out

MIAMI (UPI) — A power blackout struck south Florida today, but Florida Power and Light Co. spokesmen were unable to pinpoint the cause of the power failure. There were unconfirmed reports of an explosion in the area of the south Dade County power plant. The power went off about 7:37 a.m. MST in the greater Miami area.

Singer scores race bias

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Soul singer James Brown said Monday he has not received recognition in the United States because of his skin color. Brown said he has sold more records than Beethoven Bach and Brahms combined and has little chance of success in television because of racial bias.

Cong attack US Viet aid

PARIS (UPI) — The Viet Cong warned today that an increase in American aid to South Vietnam could start the Vietnam War all over again. Viet Cong spokesman Ly Van Sau said at a news conference the United States "is following the dangerous road which it walked down to war after trying to block the 1954 Geneva agreement." He also denounced claims by released U.S. war prisoners of ill treatment at Communist Vietnamese hands.

Viet rangers repel attack

SAIGON (UPI) — The Saigon command said today government rangers repelled a Communist attack at an outpost 50 miles north of Saigon. At the same time, Saigon and Viet Cong delegates to the peace-keeping Joint Military Commission met again to discuss the continued fighting at the Tong Le Chan outpost but wound up in another deadlock.

TF board boosts school lunch fee

By RICHARD G. HIGHI Times-News managing editor
TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls school trustees agreed to raise the price of school lunches at an unannounced special board meeting last Wednesday, the Times-News learned Monday.

The price of student lunches would rise a nickel, while adult lunches would rise a dime. The new rates would take effect when school opens in September.

Elementary student lunches would rise to 30 cents and junior and senior high school meals would rise to 35 cents, according to school lunch director Evelyn Beck.

She estimated the new charges would raise an additional $27,000 next year.

"We're hoping we can make it on this," Mrs. Beck said.

She said the new prices were required because of several factors:

1. Rising prices paid for food
2. Drastic cuts in the federal food commodity support program.
3. An 11.32 per cent wage raise for school lunch workers approved at the trustees' Wednesday meeting.

Mrs. Beck estimated that the district spending for food alone would rise from about $140,000 last year to about $170,000 this year. Included in the increase is about $7,500 needed to buy food that formerly had been donated by the Federal government.

Mrs. Beck said federal food distribution to the district has been reduced to about one-fourth of its former level.

"We're not getting any cheese. We have had very little help with meat and canned goods," she said.

She said the district serves about 4,300 meals each day for about 175 days a year. About 800 of those meals are served without charge, while the remaining 3,500 meals are served at a charge.

The increased meal prices were the second item to come from the Wednesday night board meeting. Earlier, Asst. Supt. Camden Meyer had announced that the trustees had agreed to raise all employee salaries by the 11.32 per cent figure. No mention had been made of the school lunch increases.

The minutes of the unannounced board meeting were not available Monday as board secretary, J. T. Anderson and Supt. George Staudaher were reported to be in Boise.

There had been differing reports from school officials about the per cent increase given teachers.

Meyer said Monday the teachers had been given an across-the-board increase of 11.32 per cent. The increase does not include normal pay increments received by teachers as they gain seniority.

Under the new scale, teacher pay would range from $10,115 for a teacher with a master's degree and 17 years experience, to a starting salary of $6,735 for a teacher with a bachelor's degree and no experience.

Earlier Staudaher had said the increases were not given across-the-board, but represented an average figure.

Suit hinted

TWIN FALLS — The administrator of the three-day old Department of Environmental and Community Services said Monday night a law suit against the federal Environmental Protection Agency is a possibility.

Dr. James Bax said following a mental health meeting in Twin Falls a lawsuit might be needed to get state "control" over the waste discharge permit system in Idaho.

"The legislature gave us the tools to do the job," Bax said, a reference to a package of department requested bills that was approved during the legislative session. One of the measures gives the department authority to seek court action against polluters.

When the package ran into trouble during the session, Bax warned lawmakers their failure to act would lead to the federal government imposing stricter controls.

Highway money holdback ruled illegal by court

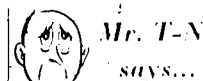

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The 8th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Monday that it was illegal for the Nixon administration to withhold some $201 million in road funds to halt inflation.

The majority of the three-judge panel said the case did not involve the president's constitutional powers, but it held that "appropriated funds are not to be withheld from obligation for purposes totally unrelated to the highway program."

The ruling was a victory for a group of 20 Democratic senators, led by Sen. Sam J. Ervin of North Carolina, who filed a brief supporting Missouri's case that it should receive the highway construction funds as appropriated by

NFO sets battle strategy

By DAVID HORSMAN

Times-News writer

BURLEY — Members of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) were told to "raise hell with President Nixon, George Meany, Phase III and the Cost of Living Council" in a meeting here Monday night.

"We have adversaries and we're fighting a battle — an economic battle," said Ron King, Tremonton, Utah. He is Boise Marketing Area chief for the NFO.

He addressed more than 75 people, a handful of them non-NFO members, in an "action meeting" at the Ponderosa Inn.

The "action" was in response to President Nixon's ordered ceiling on meat prices.

AFL-CIO president George Meany's suggestion that prices be controlled at the farm level, Phase III economic controls (as determined by the Cost of Living Council) "designed to reduce food costs and consequently reduce farm prices" and this week's meat boycott by consumers.

But a March 13 telegram from the assistant chief legal counsel for the motor carrier highway safety laws, Department of Transportation, to another federal counsel noted that "The secretary of Transportation is thus not precluded from denying apportionment of interstate funds to Idaho."

The telegram goes on to say that since the court ruling "apparently voids" a certification by state highway administrators that they are in compliance with federal law the secretary "will be required to do so for the next apportionment."

The telegram, incorporated into the court file, also notes that effects of the ruling "could open the question of whether past interstate funds were improperly apportioned to Idaho. If this were found to be the case, actions to recover past might conceivably lead to federal efforts to reclaim the highway funds that Idaho has already spent on the interstate system. Idaho has poured $283 million into three separate interstate roads, and will spend another estimated $168 million before the construction program, now about two thirds finished, is completed.

Judge's load limit ruling stands

By DAVID ESPO

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — District Court Judge James Cunningham refused Monday to amend an earlier decision declaring certain state truck load limits unconstitutional.

Cunningham's decision, if it stands, could necessitate a special session of the legislature to forestall a threatened cutoff of federal interstate highway construction funds into Idaho, according to Assistant Atty. Gen. James W. Blaine, one of three state attorneys in Twin Falls Monday for a court hearing.

Blaine told the court the "only way" to resolve the problem other than the special session was for Cunningham to amend his earlier decision.

While refusing to change his earlier decision, Cunningham agreed to stay the judgment pending an almost certain appeal to the Idaho Supreme Court.

Following more than an hour of oral argument, the judge told opposing counsel "If I'm wrong, I guess I'll be corrected. If I'm right the supreme court will say I'm right."

There are also indications in the court record that the case might conceivably lead to federal efforts to reclaim the highway funds that Idaho has already spent on the interstate system. Idaho has poured $283 million into three separate interstate roads, and will spend another estimated $168 million before the construction program, now about two thirds finished, is completed.

Judge stays highway decision pending appeal

The decision permits an increase in the maximum weight that was allowable at the time the Federal Highway Act of 1956 went into effect, the state's federal highway funds are in jeopardy.
Cunningham cited the possible jeopardizing of the funds as the reason that he would sign a stay order applying to his decision.
Blaine said following the hearing he was uncertain whether the order would make

Idaho eligible once again to receive the federal funds.
The state stands to receive $18.5 million for the year beginning July 1. Another alternative, Blaine said, was to "call the legislature" and "get them to enact a law that won't raise the load limits that were in effect in 1956."
Faber Tway, general counsel for the Idaho Department of Highways, argued in court that Cunningham's ruling left no load limits on any truckers except the ones that applied to farm, mining and logging trucks.

Anton Hohler, another Idaho Department of Highways official, argued that the initial ruling, the way it was written, was "meaningless" and "unenforceable."
Cunningham, in his decision, acknowledged what seemed to be a "somewhat" arbitrary choice in throwing out the lower limits, but said his decision was based in part on the perceived intent of the state legislature to permit truckers to haul loads that would not harm the highways.
But within the limits of protecting the road, he said, the law in question penalized certain people.

Solons asked for pipeline action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government and the oil industry today began pressing for Congressional action to permit construction of the trans-Alaska pipeline, blocked after the Supreme Court refused to review it Monday.
The high court, without comment, refused to review an appeals court decision which held that the $3.5-billion pipeline could not go forward because its proposed 200-foot wide right-of-way was wider than the 84 feet permitted by a 1920 law.
In rejecting the case in this way, the Supreme Court took no stand on the issues which have been raised over the pipeline. Conservation groups have been fighting the project on grounds of environmental damage, including danger to the ecology of the Arctic tundra.

The oil industry says the pipeline is needed to ease the U.S. energy crisis.
The Supreme Court's rejection of the case throws the issues back to Congress. Several bills already are pending there to amend the Mineral Leasing Act of 1920 so as to allow the Secretary of Interior to authorize the wider right-of-way.

Burley man reports on assault charge

BURLEY — Gilbert M. Gonzales, Rupert, has been given nine days to consult with his attorney before arraignment for assault with a deadly weapon.
Gonzales appeared in magistrate court Monday and is to report back April 11 to enter a plea with counsel.
Gonzales allegedly shot David Zambrano, 49, Burley, in a dispute at the East Side Bar Friday in Burley. Zambrano is listed in good condition today at Cassia Memorial Hospital where he was taken by friends following the shooting.

Burley police arrested Gonzales Friday evening and charged him with assault with a deadly weapon. Magistrate LeRoy Blacker set bond at $5,000 which has not been posted. Gonzales is being held in the Burley city jail.
The Burley City Police are continuing investigation.

White House table contained shrlon

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon, who once called the thrifty housewife "the greatest and most powerful weapon against high prices," is not supporting the meat boycott at the White House table.
A spokesman for the President refused to disclose the menus for the Presidential table this week. But a White House insider confirmed that there has been no significant change since the boycott began in what the President and his family and guests eat.
"But keep in mind that the first family quite frequently eats fish and chicken," said Deputy Press Secretary Herald Warren.
The main course at a luncheon for South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu today is fillet of beef. The main course at a dinner for Thieu Monday night was roast sirloin of beef.
Nixon's earlier remarks on rising meat prices stressed the power of buyers to lower prices by choosing some substitute. He startled fellow diners in a Florida restaurant recently by telling them it would be more patriotic to order fish than steak.

TF sheriff says ice caused crash

TWIN FALLS — Sheriff Paul Corder said today in his opinion weather and icing caused the early Sunday morning plane crash in southern Twin Falls County which killed one person and injured three others.
He said the plane still had ice on the wings and tie-down equipment when officers reached the scene.
"This and the fact the pilot said the plane began losing power and altitude and the fact there was a snowstorm in the area at the time, would indicate to me it crashed because of weather," Corder said.
He said Federal Aviation Agency officials visited the site

Monday and asked for his report but have not issued any statement.
Gerald D. Hill, 30, Meridian, former Twin Falls and Shoshone resident, was killed. The pilot, Everett Schutte, 37, Moridian, and Thomas and Janet Annau, Boise, were injured in the crash.
Mrs. Annau, 25, was released from the hospital Monday. Annau, 32, and Schutte are listed in good condition today.
An autopsy was performed at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Monday to determine the exact cause of Mr. Hill's death but County Coroner Cloyce Edwards said he has received no report.

TF man selected to prepare plans

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — City Council members Monday night authorized Harold E. Gerber, Twin Falls architect, to prepare plans for a new fire station.

City Manager Jean Milar reported he had called all architects in the city and all expressed an interest in preparing design, plans and specifications of the new fire station.

Councilman Tom Nelson said the city has the money in the budget from revenue sharing. He said the city has had experience with Gerber in building the airport terminal building extension and other structures.

He said the city is anxious to have the design completed so bids can be called and the building constructed and ready for occupancy within the year.

Plans are to build the structure at an approximate cost of $300,000 on property adjacent to the present City hall.

Following a public hearing on two zoning matters in which no comments were offered by the public, the council adopted an ordinance providing a zoning variance for Tranner Corp. The firm asked permission to build within 12.5 feet from the rear property line in its land located on Evergreen Drive.

On the second matter, a proposed zoning ordinance amendment to allow condominium type ownership in residential-professional zones for either residential or professional use and condominium ownership for commercial buildings in all commercial zones but not in industrial zones, the council tabled action. The amendment was recommended by the planning and zoning commission.

City Attorney William Langley said he had not prepared an ordinance on the amendment as he did not know what the council wanted in the ordinance. After a lengthy discussion of why a condominium ownership would not be suitable in industrial zones, the council referred the matter back to the zoning commission for further clarification.

Councilman Winston Jones said he thought the council might be closing the door on a logical use. He said for example a bus storage barn could be built and shared by two bus companies in an industrial zone.

The council adopted an ordinance providing for overnight parking fees of $2 per night in Shoshone Falls Park. Only one objection was made to the ordinance. Harold Hoover, who operates a mobile-home court and trailer park, reportedly told council members he felt no camping should be allowed in Shoshone Falls Park, free or at a fee.

An ordinance to annex the College Meadows Subdivision north of the city was placed on third reading. The area involves about 30 acres. It was read by title only and a correction in legal description will be made before the third reading in full.

An ordinance providing for quarantine of animals suspected of having rabies was approved.

Debris from fire

FIRE OF UNKNOWN origin destroyed rubbish and a dozen bales of straw at the rear of 445 Sec. Ave. W. Monday afternoon. Here Twin Falls firemen poked through the debris after putting out the flames. The property is owned by Paul Blubugh. Neighbors said a trailer home was on the spot where the straw was stacked for a time.

Elks honor past leaders

TWIN FALLS — A dinner and dance Saturday night honored 15 past exalted rulers and their wives at Twin Falls Elks Lodge No. 1183.

Honored were Domer W. Bertsch, H. E. (Bud) Cheney, Donald L. Granzow, Larry Groves, Weldon D. Hawkins, H. G. (Chick) Hayes, Donald Jensen, John F. Linton, J. Osmer Lowe, William Madland, Donald L. McKinster, Lloyd Reed, Roy H. Russell, Bob Wallace and Henry L. Wills.

Out of town guests included Idaho State Elks Association president and Mrs. William H. Richardson, Secretary of the Idaho State Elks Association and Mrs. L. L. Fowler, all Blackfoot, and Mr. and Mrs. Burl Kirkpatrick, Boise.

Exalted ruler-elect and Mrs. Clayton Rudd and esteemed leading knight-elect and Mrs. Robert Skroderstu were hosts for the dinner. Wills served as master of ceremonies.

The Past Exalted Rulers Club elected Wills, president; McKinster, vice-president and Linton, secretary treasurer, during a business meeting following the dinner.

Michael (Pete) Stover, exalted ruler of the Twin Falls lodge, was presented a gift by Bob Wallace, retiring president.

TF City Council approves plan with Humane Society

TWIN FALLS — By a vote of five to two with Councilmen Tom Nelson and Paul Ostyn voting against it, the City Council approved an agreement with the Twin Falls Humane Society, Monday.

The city will pay $50 per month to the Humane society for their assistance in the handling of stray, lost and unwanted animals. Councilman Steve Lincoln said the society is also asking help from the county and hopes to make their program county-wide but so far the society has been turned down by county commissioners. He said the society is now handling animals and animal neglect problems on a much wider basis than just Twin Falls or Twin Falls County.

Nelson said he had no objection to the Humane Society but questioned spending $1,000 for this purpose. He said he felt it could be better spent to upgrade and improve the present city dog pound and dog ordinance enforcement program and for picking up more dogs.

In other business, the city tabled a request for easement vacation in the Wycoff Subdivision pending further information. It also tabled a request for annexation of the property south of town owned by Inland Radio Inc. Property owned by the LDS Church between the city property line and Inland Radio Inc. property must be annexed at the same time and no commitment has been received from the church. The property is proposed for construction of a transmitter and broadcast studio and storage building for KEEP radio station.

City Manager Jean Milar said the city has received letters requesting two parcels of property be annexed to the city.

One involved 10 acres proposed for subdividing and located just north east of the Robert Stuart Junior High School. The other, 3.5 acres, is north of Stadium Boulevard and east of Eastland Drive. Both are owned and scheduled for development by Maurice Clifton and James D. Nefziger.

The council referred the requests to the Planning and Zoning Commission for public hearings on zoning of the property during the April 23 meeting.

Approval was voted for continuing the Harmon Park rides concession under lease to Bill Berry for $300 for the coming season.

Milar was authorized to call for bids for May 4 on density testing equipment and a vehicle for the engineering department.

Bax promises MV services

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Dr. James Bax promised Monday night to make the newly created Department of Environmental and Community Services "accountable" to the people it serves.

Bax spoke to the monthly meeting of the South Central Idaho Mental Health Center, Inc., in Twin Falls.

Bax, the administrator of the new agency, told about 40 persons attending the meeting that "as much as we can we're going to decentralize the decision making and priority setting."

DECS comprises the former departments of Social and Rehabilitation Services, Environmental Protection and Health and the State Youth Training Center in St. Anthony's.

Bax also promised special emphasis on programs in the Magic Valley in coming months, telling the group the area was a "vacant spot on the map" showing where services were available.

He said a deputy regional administrator would be appointed for the region in the next few weeks, and also said there would be a regional advisory board appointed from the Magic Valley area to assist in decision making.

The members of the organization also re-elected officers for another year, with Wesley Fields, Fairfield, winning another term as president.

Rita Hogg, Hailey and Ed Richardson, Rupert, were re-elected vice presidents. Marge Slotten, Twin Falls, was voted another year as secretary and Fern Luther, Gooding, is treasurer.

Program Director Don Barlow also discussed two possible budgets for next year. One would involve a staff of a dozen persons with a cost of about $160,000, he said, while the second alternative would mean a staff of 18 persons and a cost of over $200,000.

TF PTA council sets annual meet

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls PTA Council annual meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Monday, at the O'Leary Junior High School library.

Iroy Roper, council president, said reports of each unit's activities will be given by the local PTA unit presidents. New officers of all local units and all council members are invited to attend. PTA council officers will be installed and recognition awards presented.

The Twin Falls PTA Council will be host for the District 4 spring conference May 5 at the Twin Falls High School. Theme of this year's conference and workshops is "Volunteers in Action."

Alcoholism

After two years of study, visits to 30 nations, and the expenditure of a million dollars, the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse apparently learned little. It held alcoholism to be the nation's biggest drug problem, the use of heroin second, and marijuana a distant third.

The Commission called heroin use "a serious problem," but held it "seldom is associated with violent crime," a conclusion bound to bring jeers from policemen contending with muggings, armed robberies, and other crimes by heroin addicts.

Deadly Folly

There is wide alarm over the number of deaths due to overdoses of barbiturates and other drugs. When used in conjunction with beer or liquor, the sleeping pill can do irreparable harm, even cause death.

Parents and teachers should immediately report cases of drug misuse to the proper authorities so the source can be determined. They should immediately suspect any child who seems to be acting strangely.

MR. SPECTATOR

On The Way Up

Many of you gals and guys will remember Kent Kleinkopf, who not so long ago was a teacher in the Twin Falls system. We know it wasn't so long ago because our daughter was one of his students at one time, and thought he was really something.

Billings Gazette. And, as well they might, his parents - Mr. and Mrs. Clark E. Kleinkopf of 1211 Tenth Avenue East in Twin Falls - are real proud.

Well, he is something. Now he has been appointed by the Governor of Montana to be Montana's citizens' advocate, or "ombudsman." In that post he will serve as the middle-man between the people and a government which often seems cold and impersonal.

Idahoans, in 1972, showed the biggest percentage increase in applications for passports than citizens of any other state in the Union.

The citizens advocate was one of the main themes of the campaign so when it was all over, and Judge was governor, Kleinkopf was in the new job. Someday he might return to teaching but now he's all wound up in trying to solve the problems of other people.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE: A certain man reports that his wife does bird imitations - she watches him like a hawk.

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Correcting for inflation's effect on the dollar, the money that bought 100,000 U.S. fighter aircraft in World War II would buy fewer than 1,000 F-14 Navy fighters today. The cost that covered 57,000 World War II tanks would presently cover fewer than 2,000 so-called "main battle tanks." Figures like these simply tell us dramatically what the price is of moving constantly toward more sophisticated and more complex major military weapons systems.

This whole phenomenon is not at all new, but it is treated with unusual subtlety and refinement in a brand-new report by the General Accounting Office, a watchdog agency responsible to Congress. GAO has always done some of its best work in the defense field.

PAUL HARVEY

Look Homeward

Churches, after a generation of preoccupation with spreading their influence abroad, are looking homeward. Foreign missions are being de-emphasized by many denominations.

Even the ultraliberal United Church of Christ is curtailing foreign missions, each collecting the share of each congregation which each church keeps for its own disbursement.

GAO this time studied the "program cost histories" of 45 weapons systems. News accounts undoubtedly will cover the principal findings, though they were curiously sparse the first day they became available.

A few cost judgments bear repeating. As of last June 30, cost estimates for acquiring these 45 weapons systems had risen $19.1 billion - or 20 percent - over the "development estimates." These latter, of course, are supposed to be far more realistic than original planning estimates, which in these 45 instances were $31.5 billion, or nearly 40 percent, under the mid-1972 cost mark.

GAO plays it very straight. Its report is not laden with emotional word portraits of obese defense contractors and strutting, empire-building generals and admirals.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Coarse Sand

Dear Dr. Thosteson: From time to time when I urinate, mixed with the urine are little blood particles like coarse sand. Does this mean anything?

any problem that may be present.

It will happen once or twice, then it won't happen for two months or more. What could be causing it? - C. M.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know if it is safe to give a three-month-old a liquid aspirin medicine every day. I have a relative who gives her baby some every day. She says it calms him down. - Mrs. H. A.

The first order of business should be a urinalysis to find out if what you see is blood at all. Hematuria, the medical term for the situation, is best diagnosed as soon as possible.

This is unwise, which may be pulling it too mildly. Salicylate poisoning is one of the commonest we find in children.

Blood cells can be readily detected by microscopic or chemical examination in the doctor's office.

If you ask me, it's the mother who needs to be calmed. The less medicine given children, the better, especially when it is being "prescribed" by non-medical people.

Phosphate or urate crystals may tinge the urine and be mistaken for blood. Their presence is harmless and depends on certain foods eaten.

I think you know your relative is wrong and maybe you want to show her this letter to prove it. Well, go ahead.

Microscopic examination will distinguish the presence of such "crystals" distinct from blood cells.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, including scores of pertinent questions and their answers, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for his booklet, "Make Menopause Easier," enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed (use zip code) envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

If blood is found, then the next step would be a detailed examination of the whole urinary tract to determine its source. Several disorders, starting with the kidney and on through the ureter, the bladder, the prostate and the outlet tube (the urethra) can cause symptoms such as blood in the urine.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

You should definitely have your urine tested, the sooner the better, both for your peace of mind and to eliminate the possibility of any worsening of

Unanimity

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. - Summing up after an eight-day, six-state auto tour, the amateur pollster is struck by the virtual unanimity of a people.

Sixty-two of 71 individuals interviewed in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia agreed that crime in their communities had "reached a crisis stage" and 59 put the blame on television violence and "dirty" movies.

The other three blamed lack of efficient law enforcement, especially at the local level. "Television has been featuring violence for almost 30 years now," said Robert Moore, a lawyer in Charleston, W.Va.

"So we are reaping the harvest in our daily lives. What more could we expect of kids who were brought on in such far? Yesterday's child glued to the TV set is today's mugger and rapist."

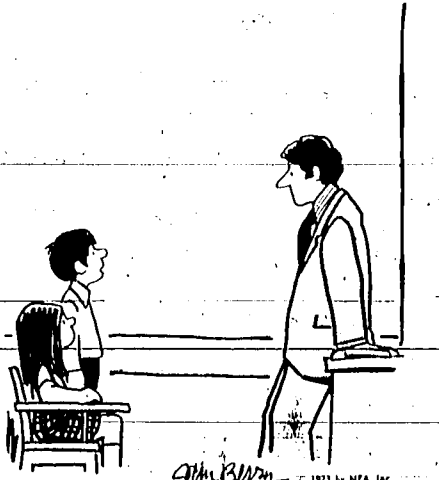

Moore's reaction was impassioned, lawyer-like. But there is anger, almost a fury, on Main Street over what many of the interviewees see as exploitation of the young by TV's executive suites.

"They're making millions, those TV producers, putting out trash, teaching children how to commit crimes," said Mrs. Ella Bayne of Roanoke, Va. "Television will do anything to make money, even ruin our children. Don't they have kids of their own? I suppose not, with all that free love that goes on."

Speaking of free love, those interviewed almost without exception were baffled by "the government's" failure to crack down on pornographic films. They are not interested in hearing about court decisions on obscenity. All they know is that suddenly there has been an epidemic of dirty movies and nobody is doing anything about it.

"Don't tell me about the Constitution," said William Harris, an accountant in Zanesville, Ohio. "I won't believe the Founding Fathers intended the right of freedom of speech to include people behaving like animals in a theater. We've got too much

Researchers pass tumor immunity

NOGALIES, Ariz. (UPI) — Researchers who hope eventually to produce a cancer vaccine reported today they have successfully transferred tumor immunity from healthy persons to acute leukemia patients.

But, said Dr. Albert F. LoBuglio of Ohio State University College of Medicine, they haven't yet determined if the increased cellular immunity helps in terms of tumor resistance or cure.

"We have successfully transferred cellular immunity to tumor antigens in sarcoma and acute leukemia," LoBuglio told the American Cancer Society's 15th scientific writers' seminar. He said preliminary studies by his team and work by other investigators suggest that the technique represents "a new and potentially powerful tool in the immunologic attack on cancer."

"Eventually, the occurrence of cancer may be prevented by establishing protective immunity early in life as is presently done with a number of infectious diseases," LoBuglio added.

His research was based on the ability of patients to develop immunity to tumor specific antigens—specific portions of tumor cells—through blood cells which recognize them and cause their destruction, a bodily defense mechanism called cellular immunity.

LoBuglio's team worked with "transfer factor," a very small molecule or collection of molecules which reside in circulating white blood cells. It has been used previously to transfer immunity from one person to another in a variety of diseases.

The Ohio State group sought to determine if it could be used to selectively improve cellular immunity in patients with acute leukemia and other selected tumors.

They found that close contacts and the family of acute leukemia patients and of those with "at least some types of cancer" develop an immune reaction to the tumor without developing cancer. The immune contacts become donors of the transfer factor, which is harvested from their white blood cells and injected in the cancer patients.

Within 48 to 72 hours of injection, the patients developed cellular immunity. "Thus, the patient's cellular immunity to tumor antigens can be induced or improved following transfer factor immunotherapy," LoBuglio said.

Studies are now underway to determine the necessary dosages to maintain a state of cellular immunity and to determine whether use of cancer drugs will interfere with the immune state.

"Once these problems are solved, the critical question of clinical response in patients can be evaluated," LoBuglio said.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Watergate panel head

Sam Ervin wants aides under oath

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "I'm not going to let anybody come down like Nicodemus by night and whisper something in my ear that the public can't hear," commented Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., the scholarly chairman of the Senate's select Watergate committee.

It was Sam Ervin's way of saying that if White House aides talk to the committee they should do so as witnesses under oath, not informally as President Nixon has suggested.

The biblical reference was to Nicodemus, the Pharisee ruler who went to see Jesus secretly at night, not wanting to commit himself openly.

When the 76-year-old Ervin, a North Carolina Democrat, former judge and one of the Senate's acknowledged constitutional scholars, states his position, the words often are those of the Bible, Shakespeare or composers of hymns.

Some Ervinists at a Monday news conference said that if White House aides do testify before his committee, "Shakespeare asks in one place, 'What meant doth this our Cæsar, eat that he's grown so great?' There's a lot of talk about meat these days. Just wonder what meat these White House aides eat that makes them grow so great?"

When asked how to plug leaks to reporters about private testimony to the committee, "About all you can do in this kind of a situation is to pray the Good Lord to give some people the power of restraint, and whether that prayer is answered is dependent on the Lord, not on me."

Pressed further on leaks, "Well, Miss Lewis (Carolyn Lewis, CBS), if you can tell me how to keep a senator or a senator's aide from talking, it would be the most miraculous discovery made since the morning stars sang from glory."

What will he do if White House aides don't testify? "I come from the Bible Belt, and we sing a hymn down there, 'One Step Enough for Me.' I'll take the next step when that step is taken."

Asleep maybe?

OREM, Utah (UPI) — Police have requested that a 72-year-old woman be administered a new driving test.

The local constabulary acted after Officer Garry W. Sessions made this report: "Mrs. M. was involved in a one-car accident where the vehicle left the roadway, collided with a bridge abutment, took out a guardrail and fence, after which she left the scene and drove home dragging about 30 feet of wire and four fence posts. She was unaware of any accident."

USSR changes managers

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, in an effort to streamline its economy, has ordered an overhaul in the management of its 50,000 factories.

The reorganization was decreed Monday by the government council of ministers and the central committee of the Communist party.

It will take government ministries out of the day-to-day management of factories and place the authority in the hands of separate bodies responsible to the ministries.

The number of bureaucratic links in the chain of factory management will be reduced from five to only two or three, according to terms of the decree.

Western diplomats said the reorganization corresponds to the system of factory management already in effect in other East European countries. They described it as "quite a conservative decision" which stops short of real economic reform.

"This is an attempt to make centralized management more efficient," one diplomat said. "But it doesn't radically change the character of the economy at all."

Western economists said the experience of other East European countries has shown that the new bodies set up to manage factories generally are staffed with the same bureaucrats who formerly served in the ministry departments charged with the same function.

Thus, the old bureaucratic habits remain, and not much is changed, a diplomat commented.

World meat prices rise

By United Press International

It may be small comfort to an American housewife staging a meat boycott, but her counterpart in Rome, London, Buenos Aires and Tokyo also is fighting an uphill battle with the family food budget.

Meat costs have been climbing throughout the world despite government efforts ranging from price controls to campaigns aimed at changing eating habits.

And beef at any price is scarce in some parts of Latin America, leading to imposition of beefless days.

In Italy, where a housewife used to concentrate on relatively cheap spaghetti, bread and tomatoes, the post-war rise in living standards has shifted tastes toward such items as choice cuts of veal. Prices have risen with the inability of domestic meat production to meet consumer demands.

The government and consumer groups have tried, with poor results, to shift tastes toward less expensive lamb, pork, poultry and fish and there have been unsuccessful attempts to set or negotiate ceilings on food prices.

Beef prices shot up in Britain in February, prompting Agriculture Minister Joseph Godber to suggest that shoppers switch to items such as pork and fish. Newspapers were filled with non-meat recipes. Britain has exempted fresh foods from its price curbs.

Meat prices climbed by 15 to 20 per cent during the last year in France despite a six-month suspension of the 7.5 per cent sales tax on beef. Even horsemeat, which is fairly popular, is not cheaper than beef.

In West Germany, meat prices are rising at a higher rate than the nation's 6.5 per cent overall living cost rise. Many Germans fill out their meat diets with such relatively inexpensive favorites as bratwurst.

A price freeze was imposed by Sweden recently but there is no meat shortage there.

In Lebanon, the price of staple lamb has gone up by about 35 per cent in the past five years. More people are eating chicken, which costs about one-quarter that of many other meats.

The Soviet Union has given high priority to increasing meat production to add protein to diets, but livestock raising was hurt by a lack of fodder resulting from a grain shortage. There have been recent reports of meat rationing in some parts of the country but the extent is not known.

Japan, which restricts meat imports to protect its small cattle industry, has seen a sharp rise in meat prices since last September. A good steak dinner at a first-class Japanese hotel now costs about $11.20.

Mid-East nations buy British arms

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic sources said today that Egypt, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia are trying to buy a variety of British arms ranging from warplanes to rockets. But none, the sources said, actually has signed a definite contract and no final deal is in sight.

Negotiations have the general approval of the government, the sources said, although Britain is not practicing an arms embargo in the Middle East. Still, they said, Britain wants to avoid upsetting the arms balance in the area.

Under consideration in the negotiations, the sources said, is a variety of arms ranging from planes to tanks and rockets plus an extensive range of radar and electrical equipment.

Official sources denied reports that Britain is about to sign a multi-million dollar arms deals with Lebanon and Saudi Arabia.

But they said Lebanon has been seeking for some time a variety of arms valued at perhaps $74 million.

Saudi Arabia, they said, is trying to replace its British-made Lightning jets with the more advanced Anglo-French Jaguar strike aircraft, which are not yet even in use by the Royal Air Force. Radar equipment and ground-to-air missiles, including the Rapier missiles, also were reported under consideration in the talks with Britain. The deal, if clinched, could involve other contracts worth millions of dollars in supplies.

Egypt, the sources said, would like tanks, radar, missiles and planes. Short of sophisticated weapons since its falling out with the Soviet Union, Cairo has reportedly been seeking alternative or complementary sources of arms.

Some reports said Egypt also is trying to obtain the British-made Lightning jets that were supplied earlier to other Arab countries.

Reds cut Cambodia gas supply routes

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The government rationed dwindling supplies of gasoline today as Communist forces pressed a general offensive that has encircled the capital and severed its major supply routes.

Communist forces captured the town of Chambak on Monday, driving government troops from their strongholds despite American air strikes in support of the government of President Lon Nol.

The U.S. Pacific Forces command in Honolulu said American warplanes, including B52 bombers, struck Communist positions for the 26th consecutive day.

As usual, officials gave no details of the raids, but military sources said they focused on Chambak, located 20 miles south of the capital on Highway 2.

barques carrying supplies of food, ammunition and fuel to Phnom Penh remained blocked in South Vietnam, unable to run a Communist blockade of the Mekong River.

The government imposed rationing of gasoline in the capital in an attempt to conserve supplies. It said the gas supply would probably be exhausted by the weekend.

Lon Nol also began a reshuffle of his cabinet today. The finance minister, Ith Thuy, resigned and sources said more changes were expected, although none were expected to affect major posts.

Four highways and the Mekong River represent the major supply routes into Phnom Penh and all have been reported cut in the Communist offensive.

Fetal monitor used in Nampa hospital

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — A new fetal monitoring system being used at Nampa's Mercy Medical Center and two other Treasure Valley hospitals is allowing obstetricians in the valley and at Seattle to monitor the fetus during labor.

Mercy, as well as St. Luke's in Boise and Caldwell Memorial, have installed electronic fetal monitoring devices that record each uterine contraction and the heart rate of the fetus.

The system allows the obstetrician to diagnose any developing problem, and the information flashes over telephone wires to a receiving unit at the University Hospital in Seattle.

Fetal monitoring has been operational about five years, according to Mercy's three obstetricians, Drs. Robert Olding, Robert Borron and Fred Birkenland.

The receiver reconverts the sound signals to a tracing, enabling the university physician and the woman's doctor to interpret the pattern together on the phone, and to determine when and how the baby should be delivered.

Floods force evacuation

By United Press International
Missouri and Illinois National Guardsmen and other volunteers continued sandbagging operations today in an effort to contain the swollen Mississippi and Missouri rivers and their feeder streams, which drove hundreds of persons from their homes Monday.

Levees at Old Monroe and West Alton, Mo., broke under pressure of the Mississippi, transforming the area where the Mississippi and Missouri join into a huge lake. Many persons were forced to evacuate their homes. Hundreds of thousands of acres of farmland was flooded as the rivers overflowed their banks in numerous areas in Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Tennessee.

Illinois Gov. Daniel Walker ordered 25 guardsmen and 10 trucks into the Grafton, Ill., area to aid in moving flood-threatened families to higher ground.

Mayor Ferd Lang of Arbid, Mo., said 2,600 persons had moved from their homes along the Meramec River, and at St. Charles along the Missouri. Families were forced to flee threatened mobile homes.

An Army Corps of Engineers spokesman estimated flood damage in eastern Missouri and western Illinois alone could reach $72 million.

At Memphis, Tenn., the Mississippi River reached its highest level since 1937. Workers continued sandbagging operations in the city today along the winding Riverside Drive, the street between the river and the bluffs on which the downtown Memphis business district is built.

Wayne Neibel, a Memphis city engineer, said the river would have to rise to 55 feet at Memphis before it would do any serious damage. The river is now at 40 feet and expected to crest at 40.5 feet. But farther north the river flooded an estimated 60,000 acres of sparsely populated farmland. On the Arkansas side of the river, flooding spread across 12 miles of lowlands.

Missouri Gov. Christopher S. Bond ordered the National Guard out for flood duty Monday. Prison inmates, driven from a prison farm near Jefferson City, Mo., helped sandbag the city's airport.

Watergate hold shaky

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Once solid support for President Nixon's handling of the Watergate affair is weakening among conservative Republicans, the chief source of his backing on Capitol Hill.

This was demonstrated today in a series of interviews with conservative Republicans. None said Nixon personally was responsible, but some believed that White House aides should testify before the Senate Watergate committee something the President until now has refused to permit.

"I feel that the President should send down an order that every aide should tell what he knows and that he should advise them to tell the truth," said Nebraska's Carl T. Curtis. Asked if that meant testimony before the committee, Curtis replied, "yes."

There was some expression of concern the revelations of espionage and sabotage conducted in the 1972 campaign were hurting Republican office holders. Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., said he believed there should be "full disclosure" of the facts.

"None of us was involved," Dominick said. "If they go down, let them swim their own way to shore."

The Senate's Watergate committee scheduled a closed session today Wednesday, it plans to take testimony for a second time from convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr.

McCord, the former chief of security of Nixon's re-election committee, was interviewed by the committee for more than four hours last week and reportedly linked the names of several White House officials to the 1972 burglary and wiretapping of Democratic National Headquarters in Washington's Watergate complex.

Several conservative Republicans were asked by UPI reporters whether they believed the White House was being cooperative enough in the Watergate investigation, whether presidential aides should be required to testify, and whether the Republican party was being hurt by the case.

Demos get new 'block' ammo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's administration has used the FBI as a "political peeping Tom and gossip columnist," a Wisconsin congressman charged Monday.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., cited a confidential FBI memorandum in making the accusation. He said the memo asked FBI agents to collect "items with an unusual twist or concerning prominent personalities which may be of special interest to the President or the attorney general."

Aspin's charge gave new ammunition to Democrats trying to block Nixon's nomination of Patrick Gray III as permanent FBI director. Gray, who has served as acting director since the death of J. Edgar Hoover last year, has been accused in Senate committee hearings of "politicizing" the FBI.

Dated Jan. 21, 1971, when Hoover was still director, the memo said information of interest to the President and attorney general "may be obtained through investigations not wholly related to the security field."

The directive was written by the agent in charge of the Portland, Ore., office as part of a project code named "Inlet" under which security-related data ranging from civil disruptions to foreign policy was to be sent continuously to Nixon and then Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

Aspin said the memo reveals political interference when Hoover was director. He said the memorandum showed the administration had been "using the FBI as a political peeping Tom and gossip columnist since it took office."

Aspin said Gray was "apparently not the only director under whom the FBI has been used for the personal political ends of the Nixon administration."

Gray's nomination is opposed by his supporters to be in deep trouble in the 16-member Judiciary Committee. A vote could be taken this week.

Audit review set in Boise

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee of the legislature will review the first of three scheduled performance audits of school districts at a meeting here April 27-28.

Milford Keeney, acting legislative auditor, said the audit of the Kendrick School District should be ready to present to the committee at that time.

Earlier, the committee directed the legislative auditor to conduct performance audits of three representative school districts: one large, one medium and one small one.

Kendrick is the small district, Kounay said.

He said the committee has some tentative choices for the other two districts to be audited, but that final decision on which ones they will be still must be made.

During the April meeting the joint committee also will discuss establishment of a procedure for budgeting by state agencies. Fiscal officer John Anderson said the procedure is being coordinated with the Budget Division of the executive branch.

Keeney said he has received three applications for the post of legislative auditor, vacated by the resignation of James A. Defenbach in February. Defenbach left to accept a similar position in Colorado.

While applications are being taken, Keeney said, the joint committee is not expected to pick a successor to Defenbach at the April meeting.

Muskie raps control

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats in Congress appear to be moving toward approval of tough price controls, including rollbacks opposed by President Nixon.

Speaking for the Democrats, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie related the debate Monday night by charging the ceiling which Nixon placed on meat prices last Thursday was "too little and, too late."

Muskie argued that Nixon demonstrated a "notion of one-man rule" by seeking a free hand in controlling inflation. Nixon has asked for a simple one-year extension of the Economic Stabilization Act, which gives him the authority to impose wage and price controls. The act expires April 30.

Hints

Whole frozen chickens that weigh three pounds or less defrost in about 12 hours at refrigerator temperature. To thaw at room temperature, allow 2 to 3 hours per pound for whole chicken, or 1 1/2 to 2 hours per pound for smaller parts.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has developed two experimental citrus drinks made from whole fruit purées of oranges and grapefruit. Only the seeds and tough portions are removed before the fruit is ground and homogenized.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 34 years old, and I am 30. We've been married for 12 years. I am a school teacher, and he does counseling. About six months ago he started to buy me some rather expensive presents. At the same time he himself came home with an expensive gold watch, some tailor-made suits, and finally a new expensive automobile. I know he couldn't afford all those things on what he made, so I had a long talk with him and he confessed that he has been getting large amounts of money from a woman. He described her as a high-priced call girl. He said he was helping her to work out her problems, that his interest in her was strictly professional and in appreciation for helping her get her head together she kept giving him large amounts of money.

He has been spending a lot of evenings away from home. Does this sound professional to you? SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: Not very. An ethical counselor usually charges a set fee, and doesn't accept large amounts of money. It's all right for him to help her get her head together as long as he doesn't take too many things apart.

Hubby gives 'counseling'

DEAR ABBY: A former neighbor phoned me yesterday and the first thing she asked me was: "How much did you get for your old house?" I told her. Then she asked me what we paid for our new house. I was so shocked at her nerve, I told her:

"I mentioned we were trying to adopt some children from Korea or Viet Nam. She said, 'Can't you have any of your own?' I told her we felt the world should provide for the children that are here. Then she told me she thought we were out of our minds to 'borrow trouble'."

Abby, we lost a pair of twin boys when our home caught fire six months ago, and I told her we felt so guilty because we survived and they didn't. She said we were "ridiculous" to feel that way. I told her we had talked to our minister and a psychiatrist and they agreed our feelings of guilt were normal, and only time would erase them. She said all psychiatrists were crazy, and ministers are stupid, and we could get over it if we wanted to.

Then she said, "Bill and I want to see your new house. If you don't want to make a dinner, have us over for cocktails soon, will you?"

I said: "Yes, I will." After I hung up I was angry with myself for letting this nifty woman maneuver me into promising to have her over. Should I just "forget" to invite her over? Or am I committed now? SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR SECOND: Don't "forget" to invite her. Remember to avoid her.

DEAR ABBY: Forty years ago I fell in love with my first cousin. I was 17, and he was 10. Our parents (wisely?) broke it up.

I am 57 now, and he is 59 and both of us are free to marry. I'm recently widowed, and he's divorced. We would like to marry as we truly love each other. I am thru menopause which means there will be no children.

Can first cousins marry in the state of Arizona, where I live? If not, how about Illinois, where he lives?

WALKING ON AIR

DEAR WALKING: A clergyman or lawyer in your state can quickly give you the yes or the nay.

DEAR ABBY: To the correspondent who said wedding presents were out of style—that they just passed the tray and collected money instead.

Last summer we attended a wedding where the festive dinner was prepared by friends who were members of a gourmet cooking club. Their "gift" was preparing the dinner. Another friend donated his services by painting two rooms in the old house where the bride and groom were going to live.

Soliciting gifts of money would be considered bad form in our circles, and we are by no means the idle rich. Imaginative gifts suitable to the circumstances—rate tops.

BILL
Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 89786, L. A., Calif. 90089. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT M. BARKER

Miss AlLee, Barker exchange promises

TWIN FALLS Bonnie Jeanne AlLee and Robert Michael Barker, both Twin Falls, were married March 20 at St. Benedict's Student Center, Twin Falls.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Eugene Esch.

The bride wore a white empire style gown with long pointed sleeves and a lace bolice. She also wore a platinum and sapphire pin that belonged to her great-grandmother.

Her long trailing veil was trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of pink baby roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Rome de Blas, Phoenix, Ariz., aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. Sherry Nelson, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Barney Glavin, Truckee, Germany, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids.

Michael McTymonds, Twin Falls, was best man. Ushers were David Eastman, Twin Falls, and David Boert, Binghamton, New York.

Pageant set in TF

TWIN FALLS Final preparations are being made for the Miss Idaho Teen-Ager Pageant scheduled Aug. 3 through 5 at the Holiday Inn in Twin Falls.

The new Miss Idaho Teen-Ager will be crowned by Vickie Hendricks, Pocatello, reigning Miss Idaho Teen-Ager.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement, leadership, poise, personality and beauty. Each contestant will be required to write and recite on stage a 100-word essay on "What's Right About America."

The Miss Idaho Teen-Ager pageant is the official state finals to the Miss National Teen Pageant scheduled Sept. 1 in Atlanta, Ga.

The old blind hog gets an occasional acorn and our old friend the unlucky expert sometimes stumbles into an undeserved top score.

There was nothing wrong with his early bidding. In fact, his jump to three spades was a slight underbid, but typical, since the unlucky expert always expects his partner to misplay the dummy.

North's six-heart call was some sort of obscure attempt to get to a grand slam. The unlucky expert knew this but he also knew that he had been the first man to bid hearts while his partner would be declarer at either spades or no-trump, so he passed.

He was a little shocked when he saw the dummy, but not so shocked as to see that there was a play for an over-trick at his silly contract.

He won the club, ruffed a club with dummy's deuce of trumps, came to his hand with the ace of diamonds, drew the adverse trumps while discarding three diamonds from dummy's hand, and made the rest of the tricks with spades.

It was an absolute top score. A few pairs reached seven spades, down one, the rest played and made either six spades or six no-trump.

Shoshone miss, Browne say vows

SHOSHONE St. Peter's Catholic Church was the setting for the marriage of Kim Oneida and Bud Browne in an evening ceremony March 16.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Oneida, Shoshone, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Browne, Pocatello, and Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Garmen, Fruitland.

The double ring ceremony was performed before an altar of tall baskets of white chrysanthemums and blue gladioli, with candelabra background. Rev. Father Juan Garatea officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white nylon chiffon chapel-length gown, trimmed in French lace. A high neckline was accented with inset of lace and net yoke while the long sleeves were caught at the wrist with a roll of lace.

Her fingertip veil was trimmed in lace to match that on her gown.

She held a bridal bouquet of lily-of-the-valleys, daisies and baby's breath, set in lace with blue streamers.

Patricia Freeman, Shoshone, was maid of honor while Toni Oneida, sister of the bride, and Cheryl Brown, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Best man was Bob Coleman, friend of the bridegroom.

Groomsmen were Rick Watkins and Verl Hinatsu. Ushers were Miles Browne, brother of the bridegroom, and Ben Oneida, brother of the bride. Altar boys were Ted Pagonara, Steve Saras and Tob Haddock, all Shoshone.

Flower girl was Tim Garmen, sister of the bridegroom, and Troy Browne, brother of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

The wedding reception line was held at the church after the ceremony with guests served at the American Legion Hall.

The bride's table, in round design, was set with tiers of pale blue and white table covers, decorated with rows of matching lace. The backdrop was Australian draw drupe pattern, with overdrap of blue chiffon.

Guest tables were set to match the bride's table. Center of the bride's table featured a five-tiered wedding cake in blue and white color and decorated with individual flowers. It was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Guests were registered by Rhonda Holt, Fruitland, a sister of the bride.

Handling the gift table were Val Urrutia and Leslie Churchman. The punch was poured by Mrs. Pam Owens and Jan Bateman.

Coffee was poured at the buffet table by Sandra Depew and Tamona Baumann, while Mrs. Joe Pagonara, and an aunt of the bride, Mrs. Glen Spencer, served the cake.

Keith Mabbutt, Shoshone, handled the bar in the American Legion Hall basement.

After a wedding trip, the couple reside in Shoshone. He left April 1 for service with the United States Air Force.

The bride will be graduated from Shoshone High School, class of 1973.

The bridegroom was graduated from Fruitland High School and has been working in Rupert.

Open house for the newlyweds was held at New Plymouth on March 24, with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Brachus hosting the event.

A pre-nuptial shower was given the bride prior to her wedding at the home of Leslie Churchman, Shoshone.

Hailey adopts budget

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Utilizing a variety of non-property tax dollars, a 1973 Hailey city budget of $168,824 has been approved.

The new budget compares with $92,702 in 1972. It was adopted by the Hailey City Council Friday night after no protests were recorded during a public hearing.

According to City Attorney Stephen W. Boller, the 1973 budget was based on the 1972 mill levy figure and, with increased assessed valuation, may result in a mill-levy drop.

Incorporated into the new budget is a $64,000 street construction and repair project; an additional police officer, with 75 per cent of the cost covered by Law Enforcement Planning Commission funds; and funding provisions for the recently purchased television translator.

Anticipated revenues include $39,178 in property taxes, compared to $45,512 last year; and, designated in the road and street fund, about $24,700 in revenue sharing funds, $17,000 from sale of city property and other revenues and about $17,700 in surplus from early retirement of street bonds.

The law enforcement and crime prevention budget totals $29,640, compared to $18,193 in 1972. In addition to the new police officer, it includes $1,800 for office rental in the Blaine County jail complex and $4,500 for automotive equipment and car rent.

Compared to $1,700 last year, the physical environment and recreation budget totals $6,700 this year. Included in the figure is funding for additional translator supplies, contingent on Federal Communications Commission approval of the license transfer; $2,000 for park areas and ground construction; and $2,000 for translator purchase.

The miscellaneous fund showed a decrease of about $12,700 from last year to $7,575. Removed is about $20,370 for the winter and street contingency fund, required last year because hook-ups had not been completed to the new sewer system. This year, $5,000 is also set aside for dig pound construction and equipment.

Primarily because of the street construction project, the road and street fund rose about $67,800 over last year to $99,744 this year.

Boller said use for the revenue sharing funds will be postponed later and may be designated for other street improvements or equipment purchase.

The capital outlay category of the fund also shows an increase of about $19,000 over last year to cover purchase of an additional truck and for payments on the front-end loader.

Bellevue voters unseat incumbent

BELLEVUE — Bellevue unseated the incumbent mayor, but returned three incumbent aldermen to office during the annual city elections Monday.

The vote counts for the challengers to the posts were Charles Wright, 74; Kenneth Kinman, 28; and Jack Barkett, 17.

Out of about 200 registered voters, 162 went to the polls in what was believed to be the highest vote on record in Bellevue. Last year 113 residents voted.

Council OK's bids

TWIN FALLS — City Council members Monday night approved bids from the Starline Equipment Co. for the purchase of two new crash, fire and rescue units for the Twin Falls City-County Airport.

City Manager Jean Millar said the trucks, with trailers included, could be purchased from the Boise firm for $114,363 which is the low figure in three bids received last Friday.

Subject to the approval of the county commissioners and the Federal Aviation Agency, the equipment will be purchased with 55 per cent federal funds. City manager Jean Millar said the equipment is necessary to meet FAA regulations on air carrier airports.

Clean air index 39

Expressed as micrograms of particulate matter per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period ending at 4 p.m. today. Readings were taken in Twin Falls by the South Central Health District.

Federal recommendations call for levels below 15 for any 24-hour period, and below 70 for even a short period of time.

Visits with astronauts

Apollo 17 crew talks to students at Blaine

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — "If you ever get a chance to take a flight to the moon, go up and do it," a member of the Apollo 17 crew told Blaine County students Monday.

Navy Cmdr Ronald Evans and Navy Capt. Eugene A. Cernan addressed about 750 sixth through 12th graders at the Wood River High School as part of a 10 week nationwide tour.

After a week-end stopover at Sun Valley for rest and recuperation, the astronauts were enroute to Helena, Mont.

Cernan said, "Nothing is impossible" and told the students, "believe in something and whatever you do, do your best." He termed the lunar trip "exciting and adventurous" and said it was "certainly a proud 13 days for us."

CRAIG THOMPSON, Wood River High School student (left), stands beside astronauts, Ronald Evans, center, and Eugene A. Cernan. Thompson plans to work in the space program. The astronauts addressed students at Wood River High School Monday concerning experiences on the Apollo 17 flight.

The astronaut said that looking back at the earth from one-quarter of a million miles away was the most beautiful sight viewed on the space trip.

"Our world as full of feeling as it is, moves through the blackest black without strings and seemingly without help," Cernan said. "It moves with a great deal of courage and a great deal of purpose," he said.

The astronaut said he felt the world was "all too beautiful, too perfect to have happened by accident."

In response to a student question about the risk involved on the flight, Cernan said, "I think about the danger, but don't accept it. I had a great deal of faith in my self and the people who put the hardware together."

"We all realize there is a certain risk," the astronaut said, "but if it is a worthwhile accomplishment, what you believe in, it is worth the risks."

Evans, billed by German as the man "who walked 10,000 miles on the way home," quipped about housekeeping and cleaning duties at zero gravity. He said the packaged food was freeze dried and prepared by adding hot or cold water. He said through the process often "you end up with a sack full of Idaho potato soup."

Evans said he felt the National Space program and its accomplishments "created an unprecedented prestige (for the United States) in the eyes of the rest of the world."

Answering a question on the exploration of Mars, Evans said he felt "the men who are going to land on Mars have already been born" or, as he attended the statement "the lady

Burley council okays operation agreement

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

BURLEY — The City Council tentatively approved the operation agreement for the proposed Cassia County Law Enforcement Building Monday.

The agreement, approved by the county commissioners last week pending agreement with the city, will be discussed at a public hearing April 23.

The council recommended only two changes in the operation agreement. They submitted that the city would maintain a records room as stipulated in the agreement, keeping all records except those of a civil nature, which are beyond the jurisdiction of the city.

The council also asked that the agreement be amended to allow the city a share of the excavation dirt, not provided for in the agreement.

The working agreement, the first step in construction of a joint city-county law enforcement building, provides that plans and specifications for the building must be signed by the chairman of the county commission and the mayor of the city.

Questions concerning the equal split of insurance costs and the makeup of the first center commission, two county commissioners and one city councilman, were dismissed after discussion.

A proposal for seeding the golf course addition and adjoining park were presented for consideration by Jack Koon, city resolution director, and Jack Wright of Kimberly Nurseries.

Wright recommended a hydro-seeding process which sprays fertilizer, seed and a mat into the ground in one process. The process, Wright said, speeds up germination 70 per cent and prevents erosion.

The work could be completed in 15 days, he said. If the job were completed by July 15, the golf course would be ready for use in the fall.

Wright listed the cost at $731.74 per acre for a total of about $17,000 for the project.

"We held the course to be playable by next year or we're going to lose," Koon said. "City crews have done a good job in the preparation so far," he said, but he preferred insuring the finish by using professional help.

Leon Bedke, city engineer, presented the council with the results of a survey for a gravity flow sewer line connecting the Boise Cascade box plant with the city. The results showed the costs to be prohibitive, and the council agreed that a pressure line was acceptable.

The lease with Boise Cascade, accepted tentatively at the last meeting, was accepted with revisions subject to the approval of the city water, engineering and sanitation departments.

All bids for city garbage trucks were rejected. The council called for new bids following revision of the specifications.

Battle boycott, NFO aide urges

He backed off a bit in his condemnation of the "seemingly unknown" housewives, saying they have been fed false information concerning the causes of inflation.

But the boycott itself was colored a sinister black when he said it was planned "several weeks ago by forces behind the scene." He did not name the "forces."

As King described the threats to farm prices, he often referred to the NFO as rallying point from which farmers could strike a meaningful blow against "the forces that be."

In a "united we stand, divided we fall" plea for membership, he said the current threat to farm prices makes for "one of the finest opportunities to enroll people in the NFO."

The prime time for a membership drive was stressed again when he listed a "direction" from NFO headquarters: "Organize a breakfast meeting Tuesday (today), make up a list of 100 potential NFO members, divide into teams of two, and ask those on the list if farmers must organize."

King said each potential member should be visited at least three times. Statistics show that the third time produces the best results, he said.

As proof of the NFO's effectiveness, King cited the organization's withholding of livestock from markets for three days last week. The results were "phenomenal," he said.

Although hog prices had dropped $6 to $7 last

Wednesday, the NFO action "had an effect in two days" and the prices returned to their former level, he said.

"There's no doubt we were the only thing that stabilized the market," he stated.

In another call to arms, King warned of large corporations displacing the farmer in setting farm prices.

"If we let this thing go much further, the agriculture industry will fall into the hands of large corporations," he said. "Big money is pushing this thing along."

He said 70 per cent of the nation's feedlots are already controlled by corporations. "If we allow them to take over, they will determine prices. We must price commodities at the primary level."

The possibility of a glutted grain market this fall under Phase III policies was also the point of NFO ire.

"Forty-two million acres of land will go back into grain production this fall in the midwest under Phase III," King said.

The three and one-half billion bushels of grain that could come from the land "will depress prices," he explained. "Surpluses will pile up until farmers will attempt to get their grain on the market at any price."

In describing possible NFO alternatives in combating lower farm prices, King did not rule out "the ultimate tool: the holding action."

"Something may be coming, perhaps this year," he said.

Water forecast meet set

BOLLISTER — The annual water forecast meeting to advise farmers on the Salmon and Hesseworth tracts of the irrigation outlook for the coming season will be held tonight.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Hollister Grange Hall. The public is invited to attend.

Clarence Hedrick, Soil Conservation Service, said the report will be given based on the present snow pack, with estimates of the water to be delivered in the coming season on land on the two tracts.

He said April 1 snow measurements indicate late March storms have brought water content almost up to the record amounts of last year at this time on many watersheds.

He said the Magic Mountain course has 61 inches of snow and 20 inches of water while Deadline Ridge has 68 inches of snow and 26 inches of water. Hummingbird Springs reports 77.5 inches of snow with 41 last year.

In addition to the forecast report by the survey teams, the program will feature films on snow survival, avalanche control and survival, and wilderness pack trips. Refreshments will be served.

CAA gets grant

TWIN FALLS — The South Central Community Action Agency has been awarded a one year, $50,000 grant for a Home Start program.

The award, made by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, was announced Monday by Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho.

The program concentrates on bringing what the children learn in school into the home and sharing it with parents, according to Hansen.

The program will include about 75 children on a full day basis.

The award was the second in the past week for the CAA, which had originally been scheduled to go out of existence on July 1.

The Office of Economic Opportunity this past week made an $81,000 award to the agency for administration, senior citizen programs and a family planning project.

Snow assists sheriff

PAUL (UPI) — The fresh snow in southern Idaho could not have come at a better time Sunday according to Minidoka County Deputy Sheriff Ray Jarvis.

When a night watchman reported a truck stuck from the Amalgamated Sugar Company here Sunday morning, Jarvis followed tracks in the newly-fallen snow until he found the abandoned truck about 10 miles northeast of Rupert.

Jarvis arrested Larry Ray Bales, 19, Wilder, and charged him with grand larceny in connection with the theft.

Bales was in the Minidoka County jail in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Meeting canceled

SHOSHONE — An open meeting of the Lincoln County Planning Commission scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the courthouse has been postponed.

According to Joyce Bernard, secretary of the planning commission, the public gathering will be scheduled later.

Suit filed in Boise

BOISE — A collision involving two trucks near Jerome in February, 1972, has resulted in a $900,000 suit in U.S. District Court, Boise.

The trucks collided on Interstate 80N.

The suit was filed by Quin J. Charlson, a Montana resident, against Kenneth R. Quick, Virginia, and Quick's employer, Burnham Van Service, Inc., Columbus, Ga.

Charlson alleged the collision was caused when a truck driven by Quick crossed the median strip between the divided lanes on the highway.

In the suit, he asked for damages for alleged losses of earning capacity and health, ability to function normally, pain and suffering, and medical bills.

Cassia center agreement released

BURLEY — The construction and operation agreement for the proposed Cassia County Law Enforcement Center was released Monday following tentative approval of the Burley City Council.

The agreement was signed earlier by the county commissioners and is now subject to a public hearing set for April 23.

Few similar documents have been drawn up, according to City Attorney William Parsons, so there was little precedent to follow. Though the council was satisfied with the agreement, the test, said Parsons, would be "if it holds up in 10 years."

The proposed building is to be built between the present city and county buildings, connecting with both on the north and south walls. Funding will come through a county bond and federal funds. The city is giving half of the land, which it owns, to the county, which will construct the building.

The agreement sets up a Law Enforcement Center Commission composed of three persons selected from the county commissioners and city council. The majority position will alternate annually between city and county officials, with county officials appointing two members to the commission for the period beginning June 1, 1973.

Terms for initial membership will last from this June 1 until one year after completion of the building. Then terms will be for one year.

The commission is to make recommendations to the county and city for repairs and maintenance, to arbitrate problems among members of the city and county on use and operation of the Law Enforcement Center, but cannot allocate funds without prior approval of both the city and the county.

The commission will also recommend an insurance plan for the center, submit a yearly budget and hire custodians for the building.

The main capacity of the commission is as an advisory body.

The responsibilities of the county outlined in the agreement are the payment of one-half of all maintenance costs and all utilities used as well as one-half of the cost of insurance policies carried.

The county is also to operate and maintain the driver's license bureau, to operate and maintain the jail facilities, to pay for all long distance phone calls or telephone extensions (in excess of two), and to pay one-half of all maintenance and replacement communication equipment, except for that in county cars which will be the sole responsibility of the county.

The city splits the cost with the county of the center's maintenance costs, utilities, insurance and maintenance and repairs of communication equipment. The city will also pay for any telephone extensions (in excess of two) used by any agency under the city's control.

The city will, according to the agreement, operate the communications center on a 24-hour, 7-day week basis covering both city and county vehicles and communications; maintain and operate a booking, fingerprinting and mugging department; maintain a records room including criminal complaints warrants, summonses and other records excepting civil cases; and maintain and operate a photo lab for handling both city and county photographs.

The contract is set up on a perpetual basis as long as Burley maintains a law enforcement agency and subject to review two years from the initial occupancy of the building. At this review, it will be determined whether adjustments in operational procedures and financial contributions would be made.

If disagreements between city and county officials cannot be arbitrated by the Law Enforcement Center Commission, the agreement provides that arbitration may be demanded by either party.

Each party would appoint one arbitrator who in turn would appoint a third. (If they cannot agree on a third, the district judge will appoint one). Both parties must abide by the decision of the arbitrators.

The city will hold a public hearing on the agreement April 23.

An application asking for $300,000 federal funds has been prepared and sent to the Law Enforcement Planning Commission.

Rodriguez takes Greensboro title

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Slightly built Chi-Chi Rodriguez wove together six birdies and a bogey Monday to win the rain-delayed Greater Greensboro Open with a four-round total of 267, 17 under par.

Rodriguez' 267 tied the GGO 72-hole record and was worth $42,000 out of the total tournament purse of $210,000. Rodriguez, in the last threesome, had a two-stroke lead coming to the final hole after a birdie on 17. He bogeyed 18, but held the edge, coming home with a 66.

Lou Graham had been tied for the third round lead and had charged Ken Still, who at one point threatened to run away with the tournament, tied for second place with 16-under-par totals of 268, worth $18,425.

Graham had a final round 60 and Still a 64.

Two strokes further back were Gay Brewer and Billy Casper, the second-round leader who had also tied Graham for the third round.

Rodriguez credited a recent diet with helping him cut down his strokes.

He started with a 12 under par 201 Monday, two strokes behind the contenders.

The win by Rodriguez, already assured a ticket to this week's Masters, smashed the hopes of Lee Elder who had sought to become the first black player in the Masters. Elder finished with a 12-under-par 272 total after a 68 closing round.

The final round had been held over until Monday after rain postponed the third round Saturday and wet grounds Sunday permitted only one round in the afternoon.

Rodriguez, who missed the cuts at Phoenix and the Doral Eastern, had a tie for third place at the Florida Citrus as his best showing this season going into the GGO.

Rodriguez, weighing only 130 pounds, learned to play golf on a Puerto Rican plantation where he used branches and crumpled up tin cans to learn the basics.

He won the Byron Nelson Classic last year and came in third in the 1972 GGO after he bogeyed the 16th and 17th holes.

Monday's rainfall was played under sunny but cool skies but gusty winds added to the handicap created by still soggy grounds on some parts of the 7,021 Sedgefield Country Club Course.

Bobby Nichols finished at 271, 13 under par and four strokes off the pace and was followed one stroke back by the group that included Elder, Rod Funseth and Doug Sandler.

Holds trophy

CHI-CHI RODRIGUEZ points to himself after he was presented the Championship cup after winning the Greater Greensboro Open. He shot a 267 for 72 holes, 17 under par. In the background, left, is Lou Graham who tied with Ken Still for second. (UPI)

AAU, NCAA fight near settlement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union agreed Monday to attempt settlement of their dispute which threatened the forthcoming Soviet basketball tour of the nation.

The break in the bitter NCAA-AAU feud came when Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, told a House Education subcommittee his association would move quickly to try to clear the way for the games to take place if the AAU would apply for NCAA approval of the series.

Byers told Rep. Peter Peyser, R-N.Y., the NCAA would waive its 30-day rule for consideration of such applications and move "expeditiously" on it once received from the AAU.

Peyser, who was in contact with AAU officials, and the AAU was "willing to make this application" and indicated the forms could be filled out and sent to the NCAA "today."

Byers, in return, promised the application would be immediately sent to the NCAA's 18-member executive council who would decide the matter through a conference call "by Friday or Saturday."

"I'm not going to say what the council will do," Byers cautioned the subcommittee, later telling newsmen, "I would think the council would be receptive."

Members of Peyser's staff were working with officials of both organizations in an attempt to expedite completion of the necessary paperwork.

Byers' decision to waive the 30-day rule came during the subcommittee hearing after he has hand-delivered a letter by Peyser from Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., urging the NCAA to sanction the eight-game series with the Russians.

The letter, signed by 58 senators, urged Byers "to permit athletes of NCAA member institutions to participate in the forthcoming series of basketball games with the Russian National Team, without four of reprisal or penalty to those athletes or institutions."

Byers was testifying on the final day of a series of subcommittee hearings on legislation to regulate international amateur athletics.

Like all else, Masters changed

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — First religion, then baseball, and now finally the Masters.

Like everything else, it has changed.

In many ways, too.

Once upon a time this event ranked with the most austere and dignified sports, stiff and starched like some of those shirts you get back from the laundry, but now the atmosphere is noticeably different.

The Masters has become one of those nice, telenovela golf tournaments everybody is on a first name basis. Nobody says Jack Nicklaus. Everybody says "Big Jack."

In a sense, the description is inaccurate because Jack Nicklaus is not that big physically, but when it comes to playing this immaculately landscaped Masters course over which he has won four different times, no one is as big as he is. Arnold Palmer was once. No more.

Jack Nicklaus dominates this tournament the same way Ben Hogan used to dominate all those he entered two decades back. Nicklaus not only looks big to all the golf buffs here, he shapes up the same way to his competitors, none of whom bother quarreling with his designate as prime favorite.

"Nobody can possibly argue that," says former PGA champ Dave Stockton.

"He's in a class by himself, especially on this course. You can't even consider (Lee) Trevino in the same category. Certainly not on this course where Nicklaus is at least a shot or two better than anyone else, and I'm talking about a shot or two each round."

"You look at the guy and you think, my God, he's 6 foot 9 and 200, but you know something, he's shorter than I am," goes on the 5 foot 11 Stockton. "I remember when he and I played in the World Series of Golf three years ago. (Billy) Casper and (Tony) Jacklin also were in it, and I was the tallest."

Dave Stockton shook his head. He was thinking of Jack Nicklaus some more.

"You get a projection in your mind of the guy, and he's a giant," Stockton said.

For those who haven't been keeping track of Dave Stockton, he hasn't exactly been burning up the circuit since winning the PGA championship over Tulsa's Southern Hills in 1970.

Money-wise last year, he dipped to his lowest point since 1967 although he had one hot stretch in which he finished in the top 10 eight out of nine weeks. His last win came two years ago in the Sutton Open, but you still don't find Stockton complaining.

"Not winning another in for little since the PGA doesn't bother me; not winning a tournament since the Sutton does," he says. "I don't think I'm the world's greatest golfer, but I still say on a given day I think I can beat anyone."

Dave Stockton, who is 31 and out of San Bernardino, Calif., would love to win this one. So would the 82 others in the field.

Stockton has something extra going for him in this Masters, his fifth. That little extra is his father, Gail Stockton, 63, who watches his son play five minutes and sometimes takes a couple of strokes off his score.

Dave called up his father and asked him whether he could make a special trip here to help him.

"I don't want to upset you by coming down there to Augusta," said the elder Stockton. "We're not winning," said Dave. "We have nothing to lose."

"Okay I'll be there," his father said.

And now he's here.

Dave Stockton has great faith in his father. Still, he argues golf with him occasionally.

"If I wasn't his father, he wouldn't argue with me," says the older Stockton.

Dave Stockton laughs and agrees.

Bullf Stocktons know the big thing you have to beat here is the course. After you beat that, you still have to beat Big Jack.

Camping limited in Boise forest

BOISE (UPI) — Camping in undeveloped areas of the Boise National Forest has been limited to 16 consecutive days by a public notice signed by forest supervisor Edward C. Maw.

Recreation staff officer Richard Stauber said the limitation is necessary to protect undeveloped camping areas from overuse and to provide a more equal opportunity for all recreation visitors to use the sites.

He said similar limitations have been in effect in developed campgrounds for several years.

The new limitation requires campers to move several miles after staying 16 days at one site. In addition, camper vehicles, mobile homes, tents and other recreation equipment cannot be left unattended for more than 24 hours, except in emergencies.

Forest officers said the limitation will cause little inconvenience for most visitors, and it is aimed at a few individuals and groups, they said, who "attempt to occupy choice campsites throughout the summer for their exclusive use."

The regulation provides for two exceptions: camping equipment can be left unattended at posted transfer camps near entrances to back country areas or wilderness. In these transfer areas, vehicles or camps may be left during the time that an individual is hiking or traveling in the back country.

But the 16-day limit can be waived by district rangers when the camping is in conjunction with uses authorized by permit on national forest land. Such uses are primarily traditional camping by sheepherders and cattle riders who, if necessary, camp for extended periods of time.

Stauber said he believes the limitation will result in higher quality camping experiences for more forest visitors.

Hunter, guide arrested

BOISE (UPI) — A long distance telephone call by a concerned citizen to the Idaho Fish and Game Department has led to the arrest and conviction of a non-resident Texas hunter and an Idaho outfitter for poaching two trophy bighorn sheep out of season.

In addition to $300 fines for poaching each of the bighorn rams, the court revoked the hunting and fishing privileges for one year. The fish and game department recommended that "Zeke" West, Grangeville, have his license revoked by the Outfitters and Guides License Board.

Also involved in the poaching incident was Jim Hob-Jordan, Houston, Texas. The violation, the fish and game said, occurred on Nov. 30, 1972. They were convicted in early March. The incident occurred on the Salmon River above the White Water Ranch.

Hawley Hill, chief of the conservation enforcement division of the fish and game said, "This is a case of the involvement of a concerned citizen who paid his own money to make a long distance telephone call to give information leading to the arrest and conviction of the two poachers."

He said Duane Luchtel, Houston, game management agent of the US Fish and Wildlife Service, made the investigation in Texas and seized as evidence the two sets of horns with nearly full curl, and skinned out carcases.

Hawks find bright spot in 2 losses

BOSTON (UPI) — Cotton Fitzsimmons saw at least one bright spot in the performance of his Atlanta Hawks against the Boston Celtics and he hopes to take better advantage of things the next time around.

"The Celtics and Hawks meet on Wednesday in Atlanta for the second game of their National Basketball Association quarterfinal playoff series. The Celtics won game one in a 134-109 runaway here Sunday night.

"We couldn't stop (John) Havlicek, but we were able to stop (Dave) Covens," Fitzsimmons said.

Havlicek roamed at will Sunday, pouring in a team record 54 points for the Celtics. But Covens, the most valuable player in the NBA, was held to 16 points by Atlanta forward Jim Washington.

"Jim moved right up on him," the Atlanta coach said. "He did very well against Covens and I think he will again. Covens is a forward playing at center so we put a forward on him. At least we gained something from that first game."

Fitzsimmons said the Hawks "had Covens under control and now it's just a matter of handling Havlicek a little better."

While Havlicek was getting most of the attention Monday, Coach Tom Heinsohn and some of the players were high in their praise of reserve guard Artie Williams.

"Look at that second quarter," Heinsohn said. "Artie was our high rebounder with six—can you believe that?"

Williams also led the team in assists with 12 for the game, though he played only 26 minutes.

"We were shooting well all night because Artie got the ball to the right man all the time," Don Nelson said. "There's a rhythm to the game and Artie had it flowing for us."

Knicks study films

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knicks went over game films Monday to see what they did right against the Bulls and to continue the pattern Wednesday night at Baltimore in the third game of their National Basketball Association playoff series.

New York holds a 2-0 edge over the Bulls in the best-of-seven series. The Knicks' 123-103 rout Sunday left Baltimore with the difficult job of winning four of the next five games.

The Knicks hit better than 50 per cent from the floor on 53 of 102 shots, with Earl Monroe and Walt Frazier each netting 12 field goals. Monroe scored 32 points against his old club and Frazier had 29.

"Everytime Earl touched the ball, he was doing the right thing with it," said team captain Willis Reed. "I was turned on just watching him."

Monroe received one of the longest standing ovations in Garden memory when he left the game with about five minutes remaining. His twisting layups, pop shots from outside and standout defense against Archie Clark and Phil Chenier has put New York into a commanding position to win this series.

"Not winning another in for little since the PGA doesn't bother me; not winning a tournament since the Sutton does," he says. "I don't think I'm the world's greatest golfer, but I still say on a given day I think I can beat anyone."

Dave Stockton, who is 31 and out of San Bernardino, Calif., would love to win this one. So would the 82 others in the field.

Ben Hogan used to dominate all those he entered two decades back. Nicklaus not only looks big to all the golf buffs here, he shapes up the same way to his competitors, none of whom bother quarreling with his designate as prime favorite.

"Nobody can possibly argue that," says former PGA champ Dave Stockton.

"He's in a class by himself, especially on this course. You can't even consider (Lee) Trevino in the same category. Certainly not on this course where Nicklaus is at least a shot or two better than anyone else, and I'm talking about a shot or two each round."

"You look at the guy and you think, my God, he's 6 foot 9 and 200, but you know something, he's shorter than I am," goes on the 5 foot 11 Stockton. "I remember when he and I played in the World Series of Golf three years ago. (Billy) Casper and (Tony) Jacklin also were in it, and I was the tallest."

Dave Stockton shook his head. He was thinking of Jack Nicklaus some more.

"You get a projection in your mind of the guy, and he's a giant," Stockton said.

For those who haven't been keeping track of Dave Stockton, he hasn't exactly been burning up the circuit since winning the PGA championship over Tulsa's Southern Hills in 1970.

Money-wise last year, he dipped to his lowest point since 1967 although he had one hot stretch in which he finished in the top 10 eight out of nine weeks. His last win came two years ago in the Sutton Open, but you still don't find Stockton complaining.

"Not winning another in for little since the PGA doesn't bother me; not winning a tournament since the Sutton does," he says. "I don't think I'm the world's greatest golfer, but I still say on a given day I think I can beat anyone."

Dave Stockton, who is 31 and out of San Bernardino, Calif., would love to win this one. So would the 82 others in the field.

Utah Stars drop San Diego 107-93

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Utah Stars won their opening game in the ABA best-of-seven playoffs with San Diego, downing the Conquistadors 107-93 Monday night.

The Stars stumbled to stay ahead of the Conquistadors throughout the first three quarters, leading by only four points going into the final 15 minutes. But 27 points by Ron Boone and 25 by Zelmo Beatty led Utah to a 1-0 record in the first-round series.

San Diego was handicapped by the loss of guard Larry Miller early in the second half and center Gene Moore saw only one quarter of action after a week-long battle with the flu. Stew Johnson led the Conquistadors with 22 points, all in the first three quarters as they attempted to catch the sloppy-playing ABA Western division champions.

Utah moved ahead 30-21 behind the scoring of Boaty in the first quarter and expanded the gap to 40-22 with 8:15 left in the half.

But the Conquistadors closed to within five with Miller leading the comeback, scoring seven of his first half 10 points in the last 5:30 before intermission. San Diego trailed 49-44 at the half.

The Stars never trailed in the game, staying ahead on the play of guards Boone and Jimmie Jones as they ran the fast-paced Utah attack.

But San Diego mounted a rally when Jones and Boone left the game for reserves only in the second quarter.

With guard Chuck Williams adding 20 points to the Q's attack and Red Robbins in, San Diego closed to within two points, 75-73, two minutes into the final quarter.

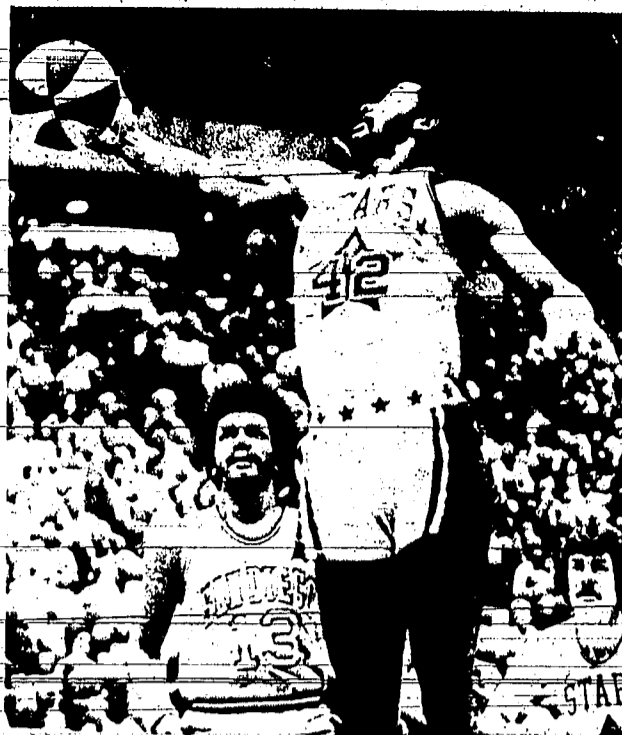

From there, Jones, who had 19 points in the game, picked up three steals, blocked two shots, and grabbed a pair of rebounds to ignite the Stars in their final outburst.

The two teams meet again here Thursday in their second game and travel to San Diego April 7 and 8 for games three and four.

Utah's rebounding was a key factor in their victory. The Stars' defense was unable to contain the Stars' offense, particularly in the second half.

Utah's offense was led by Ron Boone, who scored 27 points, and Zelmo Beatty, who scored 25 points. The Stars' defense was led by Larry Miller, who scored 10 points in the second half.

The game was a high-scoring affair, with both teams combining for 200 points. Utah's offense was particularly effective in the second half, scoring 40 points in the final 15 minutes.

NFL to work on expansion, SB

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Having given the go-ahead for a detailed study of expansion, National Football League owners today tackle the problem of selecting a site for the 1975 Super Bowl.

Presentations were scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. (MST) today, with New Orleans having first crack, followed by Miami and Los Angeles. All three have been previous Super Bowl hosts, with Miami serving as host for Super Bowls III, III and V, Los Angeles for I and XII and New Orleans for IV and VI. No other presentations will be heard for the 1975 game.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle opened the way for possible expansion in the very near future Monday when he announced that he will select a four-man committee late this week to study the subject.

"We had a very healthy discussion," Rozelle said at the annual NFL owners meeting. "Everyone had a chance to give their views. I could best characterize the outcome as very pro-expansion. The timetable is open but they (the owners) felt we should put together a strong committee to study it."

"I'll appoint a four-man committee later this week," Rozelle said. "It'll probably be composed of people with experience in running a new team. One thing the committee will do is to study criteria so that a market research organization can get underway immediately. We've had great deal of interest from a number of cities: Seattle, Portland, Phoenix, Mexico City, Honolulu, Tampa, Orlando-Jacksonville, Memphis, Birmingham, a Carolina regional group and we're also looking at present cities to see if they could handle another team."

Rozelle emphasized that "no vote was taken but a good majority of the owners had a positive outlook so we decided to go ahead with the study. If it did come to a vote, it would take 20 affirmative votes to push it through."

Rozelle theorized that adding four teams, one to each of the four club divisions to form six five-club divisions, might form a more competitive balance.

"A five-club setup would allow more common opponents," he explained. "You would play each team in your division twice, taking care of eight games, and play one other division, giving you common opponents in 13 of your 14 games. Of course, there also will be problems how many cities will be brought in, how many at one time, how to stock the new clubs, how expansion will affect the alignment of the conference and the scheduling pattern — but that's what the committee will study."

Rozelle added that, personally, "I'm in favor of expansion. I think it will happen in the near future but I couldn't really say how far away. I'm not that close to club operations to determine how it would affect each club."

In other business, Rozelle said the Super Bowl decision will be made today but that the selection of a Pro Bowl site for 1975 might be delayed a day or two. Birmingham and Jacksonville are two of the front-runners for the Pro Bowl game.

Next year's Super Bowl will be played in Houston while the Pro Bowl scheduled for Kansas City.

Walton idealist, won't give life for cold cash

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bill Walton says he wouldn't have turned pro for $5 million, and if that sounds as if he's reaching for the moon, you're right, he is.

Only it isn't the kind of moon you think.

Pure and simple, Bill Walton, UCLA's red-headed, red-blooded 6-11 superkid, is what so many others would love to be. He's an idealist. The kind who doesn't give up his ideals in the face of hard cold cash.

He's 20 years old and wants to enjoy those things 20-year-olds are meant to enjoy. Like going to the beach, going on backpack camping trips in the mountains, getting together for ball sessions with friends, yes, even playing basketball for his school team.

The other evening, after leading UCLA's Bruins to the NCAA championship, Bill Walton met with Irv Kosloff, president of the Philadelphia 76ers, Don DeJardin, their general manager, and Kevin Laughery, their coach.

"They made him an offer they thought he couldn't refuse — $2 million, tax free. Bill Walton was surprised then. Shocked they would be more like it. He refused, saying he wanted to go back to school.

"The money wasn't a factor," says Walton.

"Then you would have said no regardless how much they offered?" I asked him.

"Yes," he said.

"What do you say when they say every man has his price?"

"Not true," said Walton. "Some things I want you can't buy."

"Such as?"

"Personal things. The most satisfying thing to me are the bunch of good friends I've had. You have to keep your perspective. I just have to lead my life the way I think I should. Right now I'm enjoying it and having a good time. There's nothing wrong in having a good time in life."

"What about the pros?" I asked Walton. "Will you play pro ball when you finish school?"

"Probably," he said, thinking it over a moment or two. "I'll try."

Now that's like Mark Spitz saying he'll try to swim the length of the pool. There isn't a professional basketball club in the country that wouldn't grab Walton and make room for him right now.

Walton and UCLA coach John Wooden both were honored by the Atlanta Tipoff Club Sunday night. For the second straight year, the Bruins' big center was awarded the James Naismith trophy as UPI's college basketball player of the year, and Wooden received a plaque for guiding the Bruins to their ninth national title in 10 years.

Before sitting down the other evening with the 76ers, who had said in advance they were ready to pay Walton $2 million if he joined them, Wooden said his skinny, soft-spoken superstar "should be taken to a psychiatrist" if he turned down such an offer.

"I did say that," concedes Wooden, "but I said it in a facetious manner. You talk to the Philadelphia people, or any of the other professional basketball clubs and they'll tell you 99 out of 100 of those who say they're not interested in material things really are."

Bill Walton is a hundred percent the exception. You have to know him over a period of years to know he means it. I wasn't really surprised when he turned down the Philadelphia offer. With someone else, I would have been. Not him, though. He wants to enjoy another year as a college student. He's no put-on, no make believe."

Bill Walton has a way of being so bland, so low key on occasion that some who meet him for the first time immediately wonder whether he's for real. All the evidence indicates he is.

Prior to receiving his award here Sunday night, he patiently waited around in a corridor adjacent to the banquet room where he was to be honored. He stood there along with all the others who came to attend the affair.

Among those who went over to chat with him were several attractive young girls, roughly his own age. Said one later: "I like him. He's not stuck up or conceited. He's friendly. I have only one criticism of him. He slouches a little. He really should stand up to his full height."

Sometimes Bill Walton does. For confirmation, the young lady need only ask the Philadelphia 76ers.

Idaho has Salmon runs starting by late May

By STU MURRELL, Regional Conservation Educator

The Fish and Game Department refers to different runs of steelhead and salmon in Idaho and it is sometimes difficult for the sportsman to understand their differences.

Idaho has had three runs of chinook salmon which historically spawned in the State. These are spring, summer, and fall runs and the name is determined by the times that the salmon enter the mouth of the Columbia River. For example, the spring chinook usually begins its migration from the ocean into the Columbia in March or April and leisurely works its way upstream into Idaho by May or early June.

These are the main fish that Idaho sportsmen take in the upper Salmon River in mid-summer. The season on these fish will run until July 31st from the mouth of the Salmon River upstream to the mouth of Redfish Lake Creek with a daily bag limit of one fish.

The second run of salmon, called the summer run, follows closely on the heels of the spring chinook and overlaps the timing of its entrance into the mouth of the Columbia in late spring and early summer. It moves into Idaho in the summer months and spawns in late summer or early fall.

Our seasons are set to protect this race of fish since its numbers have declined due to the effects of dams and water degradation. The water is low and warmer at the time of its migration and this increases its passage problems at the numerous downstream dams. Both the spring and fall fish spawn in the upper tributaries of our Salmon and Clearwater Rivers but usually like a somewhat larger stream than the steelhead.

The final race of chinook salmon is the fall run which enters the mouth of the Columbia in the fall and usually moves into Idaho in late fall and historically has preferred the larger rivers for its spawning beds. Many dams have been built on the main stem Snake River upstream from Lewiston.

The steelhead in Idaho are known as the summer run and are almost year around fish in the state. They enter the Columbia during the summer months and usually enter Idaho waters some time in September. Their timing of arrival varies with water temperature. If some cool rains come early and the water temperature drops then they migrate early.

When the water temperature drops to a low point in late fall or early winter they stop migrating. Some may have reached as far as the town of Salmon and others may be up in the lower Snake River. When the water warms up in the spring, they resume their migration and usually spawn in May in most waters of Idaho. They prefer small streams and I have observed steelhead spawning with their tracks showing in creeks I could jump across.

Both salmon and steelhead spend varying amounts of time in fresh and salt water depending on the lengths of their migration. For example, most salmon are in freshwater for one year before their migration, and remain for two or three years in the ocean before returning to the tributaries to the Upper Salmon River. With steelhead normally remain in freshwater for a two year period and return after one or two years in the ocean. Hatchery reared steelhead, such as those at Niagara Springs Hatchery, can be raised to a migrating size in only one year because of the warmer water and better food supply. This speeds nature's process by one year.

However, the steelhead that are a total of two year old (one year in freshwater and one in salt) are usually quite small in size and this is one of the main groups that return to the Palisadero Fish Facility.

Nicklaus favored

Jack Nicklaus is Golf Digest's pick to win the 1973 Masters with five of its seven editors selecting the Golden Bear to repeat his 1972 performance.

The magazine in its annual form chart appearing in its April issue, rates Nicklaus at 4 to 1 odds to take the green jacket. Tom Weiskopf, Gary Player and George Archer are rated at 6 to 1 with Gay Brewer at 7 to 1, Jerry Heard, Lanny Wadkins and Bruce Crampton are placed at 8 to 1 and veteran Sam Snead tops the group at 10 to 1.

Coach of year named

NEW YORK (UPI) — Larry Brown, the rookie coach of the American Basketball Association's Carolina Cougars, was named Monday as the Coach of the Year in the ABA.

Brown garnered eight of the 10 votes cast by the league coaches, with Al Bianchi of Virginia and Alex Hannum of Denver receiving the other two votes.

"Obviously I'm thrilled," Brown said. "It's quite an honor. But these 11 guys are responsible for our success. They have done everything we have asked of them, and then some. Back in September they accepted our philosophy and have really sacrificed to get the job done."

The 5-foot-9 Brown, who employed a running offense and a pressing trap defense, led the Cougars in his first season to the best record of any ABA team, with a 57-27 mark, after Carolina had not even made the playoffs in 1971-72, finishing in fifth place in the Eastern Division.

Carolina led all the way, leading the league the first day of the season and finished one game ahead of Kentucky.

Brown, who retired from playing basketball after the 1971-72 season, became the second straight coach to win the award in his first season of coaching, as first-year coach Tom Nissalke was last year's recipient.

Other award-winners include Bianchi in 1970-71, Bill Sharman and Joe Belmont in 1969-70, Alex Hannum in 1968-69 and Vinco Cazzetta in 1967-68.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES Unless very careful, you could become involved in an argument that would only leave scars. Avoid any discussions about money or material matters.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you plan your time wisely you are able to handle monetary affairs to your satisfaction. Forget a social matter if it's too expensive.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) It would not be wise to mix fun with a night-up because you don't agree on a subject, so keep mum. Don't take any chances concerning a civic matter. Home is your best bet tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have some confidential matters to attend to and should do just that instead of going off on a tangent. Make intelligent plans for the future. Study plans most carefully. Relax tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find a better way for taking care of promises you have made. Try not to quarrel with an associate or you could find trouble. Call a friend tonight who can be helpful to you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show more pride in your work. Carry through with what higher-ups expect of you and gain their goodwill. Several duties are not to your liking but they have to be performed. Take it easy tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study new ways to get ahead in the future, and then everything works to your advantage. Newcomers you have met recently could get you in trouble, so avoid. Concern you meet with old friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) With bills to pay and other duties to perform, an early start on getting them behind you is wise. Don't pry into the affairs of others and you get along better. Strive for good health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Tell associates what you desire of them in a quiet and positive way, and gain their cooperation. Don't argue for best results. Most points can be studied carefully before taking action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Give co-workers the benefit of any doubt and get along better with them. Try to understand their viewpoints better. The evening is particularly good for the social side of life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are able to have entertainment that you enjoy provided you don't spend too much money. Try to express special talents, but don't force them. Show more devotion to mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try not to lose your temper at home and you avoid unfortunate circumstances. Eliminate whatever is causing friction. Don't forget to pay important bills. Take health treatment.

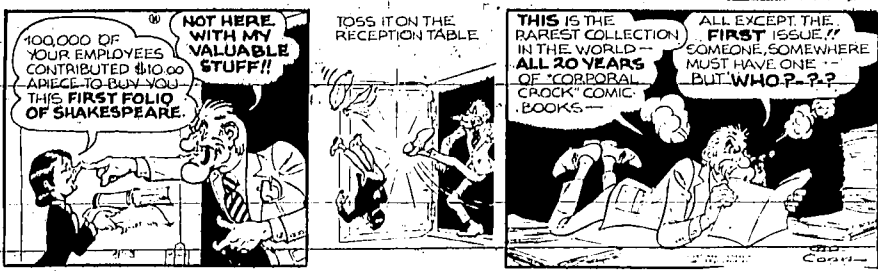

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be particularly careful in travel and you can avoid accidents. Cut down on expenses instead of adding to them. You have to be more efficient in handling routine. Don't waste time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those young people who will be aggressive and will require discipline early if the life is to be successful. Teach to think before talking or acting. A new type of individual here who will like to do the practical part of any new ventures. Give time religious training. Sports can be missed. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Scholars at Smith College picked out what they called 100 representative jokes, some pointless and some funny. They then sprang same on a sizable sampling of males and females. The lads laughed louder and longer, at practically all. The girls found fewer funny lines, but those they liked apparently amused them enormously, more so than said low jokes amused the men. The answer? Men have the broader sense of humor, women the more discerning. Seemingly.

TF miss gets $5,000 stipend

TWIN FALLS — Diane Fouts has been named recipient of a $5,000 University Club scholarship to Utah State University.

Miss Fouts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Fouts, Twin Falls, is one of five outstanding high school seniors to receive the award. She was chosen on the basis of American College Testing scores, National Merit Scholarship placement and her interest in USU.

She is a National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist who was included in the 1972 National Science Foundation Summer Linguistics Institute. She was named Altrusa Club September Girl of the Month. She plans to major in English with emphasis in creative writing.

Health Services Corp. of the LDS Church, Salt Lake City; Salt Lake LDS Hospital personnel Susan Palmer R.N., director, in service education and Julie Higby R.N., staff nurse, post thoracic surgery intensive care unit; Charles Miller, Intermountain Regional Medical Program, Salt Lake City, and Blaine Durrant, director, Southeastern Idaho Center for Health Resources, Pocatello

Joins school staff

SHOSHONE Dr. Laverne R. Bernard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bernard, Shoshone, has joined the faculty at the University of Oklahoma City, Okla. He is serving as assistant professor, College of Health, Department of Parasitology and Laboratory Practice and as an assistant professor, College of Medicine, Department of Pediatrics. In addition, he will act as a consultant in diagnostic virology to the Oklahoma State Public Health Department, Laboratory Division. On March 26, Dr. Bernard, a Captain with the US Army Medical Laboratory at St. Louis, Mo., received his discharge after three years service. While stationed in St. Louis, he served as chief, Virology Service, chief, Serology Service, and assistant chief, Department of Microbiology. At the University of Oklahoma, he will be teaching courses in public health microbiology and a course in diagnostic virology. His work will specifically be to increase the effectiveness of the clinical virology services offered to hospitals within the state of Oklahoma.

How do you get ten minutes of conversation into a five minute call?

Make a list of the things you want to talk about. You'd be surprised how much more you can get into a call if you jot down ahead of time the things you want to cover. You'll not only avoid needless repetition, but you'll also be sure not to forget anything important.

And remember, you'll always get the lowest rates when you dial your own Long Distance calls.
