OUTFLOW from Amalgamated Sugar Co. foams into Rock Creek in photo taken in early February. Similar conditions drew criticism by Environmental Protection Agency official in Twin Falls Tuesday.

TF pollution scored

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A high-ranking regional official of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency said Tuesday industrial outflows into Rock Creek violate "any number of standards."

Robert S. Burd, director of the air and water programs division of Region X of the EPA, said pollution to Rock Creek comes primarily from discharges by Amalgamated Sugar Co. and Idaho Frozen Foods, and to a far lesser extent Independent Meat Co. Burd also criticized the City of Twin Falls for being slow in beginning construction of a secondary sewage treatment plant to upgrade the outflow now being pumped by the city into the Snake River. He blamed some of the delay on efforts by the city to reach an agreement with Idaho Frozen Foods on a possible tie-in with the city sewer system.

In a hurried interview with the Times-News before driving to Boise to catch a plane back to his office in Seattle, Burd said the three industries all add organic materials and bacteria to Rock Creek.

"The engineers on my staff could characterize the effluent from those plants, which are inadequately treated," Burd said. He said that the oxygen level, the temperature and the acidity of Rock Creek were all being affected in violation of state and federal standards.

"We are expecting these industries to upgrade the level of their waste treatment in the near future," said Burd, adding that no formal arrangements had been made, "but that will be forthcoming soon in the form of an industrial waste discharge permit."

Burd said the discharge permits would require effluent treatment to reach a level necessary to "clean up Rock Creek."

"It is technically and economically feasible for the people of Twin Falls to have a clean stream going through their town," he said.

Burd called Rock Creek "very badly polluted," and said he doubted if game fish could survive in the waters. He was careful to note that outflows from Independent Meat Co. are "much less significant than the other two."

Burd said Idaho Frozen Foods could convert to a dry peel operation and cut down on its pollution. He also said it would be possible for the firm to discharge its waste into the city sewage system, although it would be costly.

He said the food processing firm would have to pay back to the city and federal government a portion of the costs of upgrading the city's sewage plant in proportion to the percentage of Idaho Frozen Foods discharge compared to the total city sewage flow. He said the costs to Idaho Frozen Foods would be "pretty considerable."

Cool replies to criticism

TWIN FALLS — Criticisms of Twin Falls water pollution by a regional EPA official brought cool responses today from the city manager and industry spokesmen.

In an interview, Robert S. Burd, director of the air and water programs division of Region X of the Environmental Protection Agency, said discharges from Amalgamated Sugar Co., Idaho Frozen Foods and Independent Meat Co., into Rock Creek violate "any number of standards." He also criticized Twin Falls for being slow to upgrade its sewage treatment facilities.

City Manager Jean Miljar called the EPA officials' criticism of Twin Falls city "unjust."

He said Twin Falls city has been waiting since last fall for approval of its application by the EPA so construction could go ahead on the new sewage treatment facility here. The application has been held up by constantly changing regulations by the federal agency, Miljar said.

Twin Falls hopes to build the secondary treatment plant this year and has budgeted $4 million for this purpose. About $3 million will be coming from federal sources, $500,000 from state money and the remaining will be divided locally with $130,000 from the city and $270,000 from Idaho Frozen Foods and other local industrial users.

Miljar said the city is well within treatment deadlines issued by the state and present primary treatment facilities meet the present regulations.

"We have budgeted and are planning to meet the forthcoming standards," Miljar said. "If Burd wishes to be critical of the city of Twin Falls, I might say he is about 10 years behind the schedule. We have shouldered the burden of cleaning up the river and streams for 10 years; well before EPA came into existence and have conducted an aggressive campaign to improve the stream pollution for a number of years."

"Other cities including Pacatello, Rupert, and Jerome have not begun construction on new treatment facilities," he said.

Vern Routh, manager of Idaho Frozen Foods, also blamed the federal government's delaying tactics and changing regulations for not having a final plan for sewage treatment at this time.

He said the plant has considered a "dry peel" operation and will go to this type of system but now is looking at a more modern and effective type of dry peel operation.

He said the firm now operates with a primary treatment plant on which about $900,000 has been spent in the past three years to meet changing regulations.

"Under the EPA's proposal," Routh said, "We would have to pay about $2 million in pay-back funds for our share of the secondary treatment plant in Twin Falls. For this reason we are giving it some serious consideration and hoping to find a less costly plan."

Lunches priced

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school hot lunches will cost a nickel more for students and a dime more for adults beginning next September.

According to Assistant Supt. Camden Meyer, the new rates, approved last Wednesday by school trustees, would bring elementary lunch prices to 35 cents, junior high and high school lunches to 40 cents and adult lunches to 60 cents.

The new student prices were erroneously reported at 30 cents and 35 cents Tuesday. The Times-News regrets the error.

Hart studies impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., has suggested that Congress look into the possibility of impeachment proceedings against President Nixon because of continued U.S. bombing in Cambodia.

"We ought to get the books out and find the chapter on impeachment," Hart told UPI Tuesday as U.S. B-52s continued to pound Cambodia and the administration continued to assert it needed no congressional authority for the action.

MV market basket costs up 44¢

By JOCELYN CLOWARD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A basket of groceries which had cost Magie Valley consumers $10 a month ago would now cost 44 cents more. Grocery prices rose more than one per cent per week during March, according to the Times-News price survey — a rate double that of the preceding three months.

It was the fastest one-month increase recorded since Phase I controls were imposed a year and a half ago. It was the first full-month measurement following the beginning of Phase III voluntary price controls. But the survey did not reflect price changes since the "meat boycott" began this week.

The 4.4 per cent climb was due primarily to rising costs of meat and produce in Magie Valley. It also reflected national food price rises for which U.S. Department of Agriculture figures showed record beef and pork prices and higher costs for poultry and vegetables. The Times-News surveys grocery prices each month with a list of 20 items priced in each of five grocery stores. The stores range in size from neighborhood market to supermarket. Items are the same in weight and quality, and are of the same brand whenever possible.

During March, several items were pinpointed as major causes in the price climb. Ground chuck registered an 8.6 per cent jump in price since the February survey. Produce items surveyed jumped 10.4 per cent from February prices.

In March, 1972, ground chuck averaged 76 cents per pound in Magie Valley. One pound now averages 98 cents, a jump of 29.0 per cent. Two grocery stores raised the price of coffee three cents for a two-pound can. This continued the jump in coffee prices of February

Rollback voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Banking Committee voted Tuesday in a boisterous meeting to roll back food prices to May 1, 1972, levels and other prices and interest rates to March 16 figures.

The action was passed by the committee, which is considering legislation to extend the Economic Stabilization Act for one year, on a 21 to 17 vote. Democrats cast all 31 yes votes, while 11 Republicans and three Democrats voted no.

But conservative Republicans, who support President

Nixon, voted for Democratic-sponsored rollbacks as the section was being amended. They hoped to make the rollback provisions so strong Congress will refuse to swallow them.

Nixon has asked for a simple extension of the stabilization act, which gives him the authority to impose wage and price controls. The act expires April 30.

Many Democrats contend Nixon has not used his powers properly, and they want to give him specific instructions on price controls. Today, the committee planned to turn its attention to a rent control section, which was expected to pass with strong support from both Republicans and Democrats.

This proposal would roll back rents to Jan. 10 levels and allow rent increases only to cover cost increases of landlords.

The strong rollback provisions approved by the committee Tuesday placed the fate of the legislation in doubt. During the noisy meeting marked by much shouting, the committee voted down 22 to 15 a more moderate amendment by Rep. William Colter, D-Cou., to roll food prices back only to Jan. 11 levels.

Colter, a leader of the nationwide meat boycott, said he would prefer a May 1, 1972, rollback, but added he felt the later date was more practical and fair.

Arms, drug laws sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Senate has adopted legislation introduced by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, to stiffen penalties for abuse of firearms and the illicit traffic of drugs.

Church said the legislation would make clear "that we will not tolerate the abuse of firearms and the illicit traffic in drugs that is becoming all too common, even in rural America."

He said he has consistently opposed federal gun controls but has maintained that the way to control crimes committed with a firearm is to punish those who commit the crime — not restrict the rights of honest citizens.

today in brief

Florida darkened again

MIAMI (UPI) — Another massive power failure hit south Florida today, affecting a 120-mile stretch from Fort Pierce through the Florida Keys. The lights went out at 7:14 a.m. MST, about 37 minutes earlier than on Tuesday.

Drug cultist convicted

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI) — Timothy Leary, the hallucinogenic drug advocate, was convicted of prison escape Tuesday and now faces trial on narcotics smuggling charges.

A jury of 11 women and one man deliberated an hour and a half before finding Leary guilty of escaping from the California Men's Colony, a prison camp, in 1970 by swinging along an overhead power line that led to a utility pole outside the camp's fence.

Transit funds rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House committee has killed an attempt to divert part of the $6 billion yearly highway trust fund to the mass transit projects. The Public Works Committee rejected 29-8 an amendment which would allow states to use those funds for that purpose.

Protest greets Kosygin

GOTEBORG (UPI) — Demonstrators waving American flags and carrying placards demanding freedom for Russian Jews greeted Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin today when he arrived in Goteborg. Kosygin was on the third day of his five-day official visit to Sweden.

Mistrial in Magee case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Superior Court judge will decide Friday whether convict Russell Magee must stand trial a second time for murder and kidnaping in the 1970 Marin County courthouse shooting.

Judge Morton R. Colvin declared a mistrial at Magee's first trial Tuesday when the jury reported it was hopelessly deadlocked after eight days of deliberations.

16 deaths linked to flood waters

By United Press International
Work crews began piling sandbags on levees along New Orleans' famed French Quarter Tuesday to stop the floodwaters of the Mississippi River, which already have covered seven-million-acres-of-land-from-Illinois-to-Louisiana.

Sixteen deaths have been linked to the flooding of the nation's greatest river as a result of heavy rains recently.

Officials said the almost 40,000 sandbags would raise the levee level in New Orleans about three feet along a 300-400-foot stretch between the river and Jackson Square in the French Quarter sufficient to meet any immediate flooding.

Two National Guard amphibious units were dispatched to Vicksburg, Miss., Tuesday for possible use in evacuating residents of lowlying areas along the Mississippi and its tributaries. More than three-million-acres-of-land-are covered by floodwaters in Mississippi and 2.3 million in Louisiana.

Flowing at the rate of 476 billion gallons a day, the 2,330-mile-long Mississippi also has inundated 600,000 acres in Arkansas, 400,000 in Missouri, 70,000 in Tennessee, 260,000 in Illinois and 60,000 in Kentucky.

Emergency crews, including 600 airmen, high school students and local residents, fought to plug-a-broken-levee-with-sandbags-at-Wichita, Kan. Major dikes protecting West Alton, Mo., crumbled and 500 persons fled their homes ahead of rising waters.

At Choteau Island, Ill., nearly 500 people sandbagged the series of levees that encircle the land, and at River Des Pere, Ill., on the Missouri side of the river, 600 volunteers sandbagged to keep water out of area homes. The Mississippi backed up into the town's low area, flooding town streets.

The entire population of Montz, La., comprising 44 families, has been given until Thursday to leave for good because the town's protective levee no longer is safe. A new levee will be built farther upstream.

Maj. Gen. Charles C. Noble, commander of the U.S. Corps of Engineers at Vicksburg, said the Mississippi had crested at Cairo, Ill., and "we're looking for a very slow drop."

Andrus not liable for damages in appointment

BOISE (UPI) — Citing an 1806 decision of the U. S. Supreme Court, Fourth District Judge Alfred Hagan has absolved Gov. Cecil D. Andrus of civil liability in a hassle over appointment of a county commissioner.

Andrus appointed Wilfred J. Ducloux to the Nez Perce County Board of Commissioners Jan. 11, 1971, at the beginning of a new term for the commission.

In doing so, he replaced John Bone, Lewiston, who was appointed Dec. 17, 1970, by then Gov. Don Samuelson to replace the late Elmer Heitman. Bone went to court and the Idaho Supreme Court on March 15, 1972, ruled that Andrus erred in attempting to replace Bone. After that Bone brought a $75,000 civil action against Andrus, Ducloux and Commission Chairman Otto Hammer.

Hagan dismissed the case against Andrus Tuesday, citing the "doctrine of executive immunity" promulgated in 1895 by Justice Learned Hand.

At that time Justice Hand wrote that "the interests of the people" dictate that elected officials be accorded due protection in acts their offices are required to perform.

Hand said in a similar case that an elected public official "cannot be held liable to a civil suit for damages... by reason of any personal motive that might be alleged to have prompted his action, for personal motives cannot be imputed to duly authorized official conduct."

Buhl man reappointed

BUHL — A Buhl man was reappointed Tuesday to a three-year term on the College of Southern Idaho Junior College Dormitory Housing Commission. Maurice Guerry Jr. was appointed by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

The commission has responsibility to prepare, carry out and operate dormitory housing projects at the junior college.

A similar commission exists for North Idaho College at Coeur d'Alene.

GF lodge sponsors candidate

GLENN'S FERRY — Aileen Tobekah Lodge 62 members voted Monday evening to sponsor Barbara Robertson as a fair queen candidate. The group decided to donate its piano to the Senior Citizens Center. The piano has not been in use the past two years, as the Memorial Hall meeting room has a piano.

Reports on the district meeting were given. Plans were discussed for the official visit of the assembly president, Mrs. Nellie Swarthout of Weippe, in May. The group voted to plan a card party, with proceeds going to the funeral home for the Glenn Test Cemetery.

A new Idaho flag was presented, to replace one stolen from the lodge room last year. Mrs. William Hansen, Mrs. Forrest Jones and Mrs. Donald Flock were hostesses for refreshments following the meeting.

Valley Briefs

GLENN'S FERRY — Glenn's Ferry Senior Citizens discussed a successful plant and baked goods sale and coming projects at a meeting Monday. Committees will be announced at the next meeting. Mrs. Earl Ellis, president, served refreshments.

TWIN FALLS — Members of Vishnu Camp No. 2870, Royal Neighbors of America, will meet at the home of Mary Stegman at 7:30 p.m. Friday. There will be a short business meeting and a social evening.

Carl Peterson

TWIN FALLS — Carl Louis Peterson, 64, Lemhi, died March 29 in a Salmon hospital following a short illness.

Born Oct. 2, 1908, in Twin Falls, his family moved to Los Angeles, Calif., in 1919 where Mr. Peterson was educated. Returning to Magic Valley in 1927, he farmed in the Rock Creek and Murzaugh areas and in 1945 he purchased a ranch on Williams Creek near Salmon.

In 1946 he married Dorothy Langdon at Twin Falls. They lived at Williams Creek until 1948 when they bought a ranch in the Pahsimero Valley near May. They lived there until 1967 when Mr. Peterson retired from active ranching and bought a ranch at Hayden Creek.

Mr. Peterson was a member of the Salmon Elks Lodge and the American, Idaho and Lemhi cattlemen's associations.

He is survived by his wife, and two daughters, Jennie Peterson, a student at Boise Junior College, and Mrs. Mary Bell Lovell, Wyo., one brother, Les Peterson, Murtaugh; and one sister, Mrs. Gerald Upton, Los Osos, Calif. Services and burial were March 31 in Salmon.

The family requests memorials to Steele Memorial Hospital in Salmon.

Andrus appoints sixteen

BOISE (UPI) — Darrell V. Manning and Joy Buersmeyer were appointed to the Legislative Executive Reorganization Commission and 14 other persons were named to state boards and commissions, Gov. Cecil Andrus announced Tuesday.

Mrs. Buersmeyer, Boise, is the state president for the Idaho League of Women Voters. Manning is a former state senator and director of the State Department of Aeronautics.

Andrus said Mrs. Buersmeyer was appointed because he feels "the commission needs input from the citizens of Idaho and the private sector as well. I also wanted a woman on the commission."

Andrus said Manning "has an extensive and knowledgeable grasp of state government by virtue of having been a member of both houses of the state legislature and a member of the executive."

TF coroner gives autopsy results

TWIN FALLS — Gerald D. Hill, 38, Meridian, died of asphyxiation while suspended unconscious in the wreckage of a light plane, Sunday morning, County Coroner Clóyve Edwards said results of an autopsy performed Monday indicated Hill was knocked unconscious, probably when the craft hit the ground.

He said he was asphyxiated from gasoline fumes while suspended by safety straps in the right front seat of the inverted light plane, which crashed between Jackpot and Rogerson early Sunday morning. Edwards said there was fuel spilled about the wreckage and the plane apparently filled with fumes.

Edwards said today an inquest probably will be called. The crash occurred about 1 a.m. three-fourths of a mile east of U.S. 93. The pilot, Everett Schutte, 33, Meridian, walked to the highway seeking help shortly after the crash, and was taken to Jackpot. Later, another passenger, Mrs. Janet Annau, 29, Boise, also walked to the highway seeking aid for her husband, Thomas Annau, 32, and Hill. All three survivors were injured.

Schutte said in an interview at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital that while it had snowed at Jackpot, it was not snowing when the plane, carrying four persons, took off early Sunday.

Schutte said he called the Burley flight service station about 12:35 a.m. to check on weather conditions in the Twin Falls area prior to returning to Boise.

Schutte said the report listed scattered clouds at 5,000 feet with 15 to 20 mile visibility. He said the sky was clearing over Jackpot.

He said he filed a visual flight rules plan to Boise about 12:55 a.m. The party left Jackpot at 1:20 a.m. after Schutte swept fallen snow of the plane. There was an inch or two of snow on the ground at the time.

After being airborne about five minutes, the plane hit a snow squall, causing concern about icing conditions. Schutte said when the airspeed began to decline rapidly, he decided to turn back toward Jackpot. The plane also began losing altitude. As the plane became "unstable," he said, he started to pick up the microphone and report the trouble to the Burley flight station.

"That was the last I recall until I woke up on the ground," Schutte said.

He estimated the plane was "nearly at stalling speed" — about 65 to 70 miles an hour — when it hit the ground. When it struck, it flipped onto its back on a fairly level patch of sage-covered ground near a gully. There was a light layer of snow on the ground.

Schutte said when he came to both Mr. and Mrs. Annau were awake and efforts were made to rouse Hill. Schutte and Hill were in the front seats with the Annau's in the two seats immediately behind them in the six-place craft. The low-wing plane has a fixed tricycle landing gear.

Schutte forced his way out of the wreckage through a side window, then tried to find a way to help the Annau's out. He walked to the highway to seek help, leaving the others inside the plane.

Annau said the seat in which he was strapped came loose in the crash, and he ended up upside down with his head half-buried in the muddy ground. He used his one free hand to work himself free.

Mrs. Annau used her jacket and insulation torn from the plane in an attempt to protect her husband from the cold. Some time after she kicked out a window and walked to the highway, Annau found matches and lighted a series of small fires on a plane seat in an effort to keep warm, using pages from the plane's logbook.

Mrs. Annau said the first persons to arrive at the scene, whom he believed to be from Jackpot, pried open the door and helped him out of the plane.

Schutte said that aside from striking the plane's dashboard with his head in the crash, most of his injuries were received from falls and stumbling while reaching the highway. After reaching the road, 10 or 12 cars passed him before one stopped and took him to Jackpot, where he notified the FFA of the crash.

"The most disheartening part was that I couldn't get anyone to stop and pick me up," he said.

Schutte said before he left the plane, Mrs. Annau asked him to hurry because they thought Hill might still be alive. Subsequently, the Annau's said, they decided sounds they heard were not breathing but traffic noises on the highway.

After a time, Mrs. Annau who kicked out a window also walked to the highway, and a car stopped to help almost immediately. Shortly after that, they met another vehicle returning from Jackpot with Schutte inside.

Schutte said the party of four landed at Jackpot about 8:45 p.m. after a flight of about an hour from Boise. The first knowledge of snow falling came about 45 minutes later.

Schutte said when they were airborne on the return flight, he wondered why he wasn't able to see the lights of Twin Falls, which were apparently hidden by the snow squall. He said he could recall seeing reflections of Jackpot's lights on the wings.

PLANNING for the region 3 PTA spring conference and workshop scheduled in the Twin Falls High School May 5 are, from left, Gladys Griffin, local chairman; Mrs. Bernard Ruffing, registration chairman; Roy Toper, Twin Falls PTA Council president, and seated, Lee Childs, Idaho Youth Ranch director and president of Fourth District PTA. The Twin Falls council will serve as host.

Workshop set in TF

FFA conference begins today

TWIN FALLS — The first sessions of the 42nd annual Idaho Future Farmers of America Leadership Conference opened today at the College of Southern Idaho.

Business before the first session began included the runoff for the district winner of the public speaking contest and a meeting of chapter delegates and chapter advisors.

The first session of the conference began at 1 p.m. for general business. Greetings were also given to the group from Zane Hansen, national vice president, Pacific Region FFA. Other addresses were given by Mike Slovacek, Middleton, Idaho vice president, and David Wilken, Kendrick, Idaho president.

The FFA state public speaking contest was also slated for the first session.

At 5:30 p.m. the Idaho Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association met.

In the second session, slated for 7:30 p.m. today, business includes the state parliamentary procedure contest and presentation of public speaking, FFA Foundation and parliamentary contest awards.

Race track plans proposed at GF

GLENN'S FERRY — Nick Hessler has proposed that the Glenns Ferry race track be used for a rodeo arena for high school rodeo gymkhana and similar activities.

He presented drawings illustrating the idea to members of the Glenns Ferry Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Monday. Bud Allen, King Hill, 4-H horse club; Frank Hughs, Three Island Riding Club, and Karl Carnahan, Elmore County Fair Board, pledged support of the project. The chamber decided to write a letter to the Elmore County commissioners supporting the project.

Don Kon said the Glenns Ferry Jaycees are reorganizing and he urged men between the ages of 18 and 36 to join.

The chamber will print a list of trailer parks in the area to distribute to the public.

TF library aides study priorities

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Public Library trustees are studying priorities for a revised improvement project involving existing facilities.

Eugene Stacy, board chairman, said at the monthly board meeting Tuesday afternoon, "We are staring at a blank wall as far as structural improvements are concerned, so we now must think of improvements to the present structure."

The library board must review its three-year improvement plan previously compiled in light of available financing, he said. Previously it was hoped that the $40,000 budgeted by the City Council from revenue sharing funds could be used to help obtain matching federal funds.

But since federal funding now seems impossible, the board must readjust its priorities. He said the last available space has been utilized for shelving with the removal of walls and office space in the southeast corner of the main floor.

Stacy said trustees will have to revise and update priorities before they present to the City Council improvement projects, which must justify use of the revenue sharing funds earmarked for the library.

BPW hears solon

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Business and Professional Women's Club heard Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, R-Tuttle, speak on legislative procedure Monday night.

At the meeting at the Rogerson Hotel, Betty

Ainsworth, president, conducted. Barbara Carlson, public relations chairman, was in charge of arrangements and decorations. Debbie Stasny, a student of Mary Walker, sang, accompanied by Martin Wright.

Unemployment lessens in TF

TWIN FALLS — February unemployment in Twin Falls County was measured at 4.7 per cent, down slightly from January's jobless rate.

According to the monthly bulletin of the Idaho Department of Employment, the normal seasonal rise in winter unemployment was not as pronounced this year as in past years.

The bulletin, prepared by Ken Hodge, says: "The outlook is bright for employment this year. The winter months did not slow down as much as usual, and slowly the peaks are being rounded off our seasonal fluctuations in employment."

The report also lists several possible reasons for the flattening out of the employment picture.

Best speech wins pencil

TWIN FALLS — Kenneth Reid won the blue pencil for the best speech at the I. B. Perrine Toastmasters Club Monday night at the Rogerson Hotel.

He spoke on "Mr. Farmer, You Have a Hot Steak in Your Hand." Harold Metz won the table topics award for his speech on "Color."

WASHINGTON — It's the same old dismal story with the widely controversial and scandal-bedragged Legal Services program. President Nixon's recommendations on this heavily battered and besieged anti-poverty activity, it continues to rack up more black marks and outraged condemnation. Latest instances are the following:

Irate charge by Rep. John Hunt, R-N.J., influential member of the Armed Services Committee, that "Legal Services employees have been defending convicted criminals who created riots and demonstrations, and not the poor who rely for help on this program." Adds Hunt indignantly:
"it is time these so-called do-gooders redirect their energies and concern themselves with what they are really supposed to be doing. To divert money from programs for the poor to group political activities is essentially stealing from the poor. That sort of gross misadministration must stop. The entire system that allows that must be thoroughly reevaluated."

Balance Is Dead

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A large number of American big cities have always had at least a few areas which were "suburban" in some ways — houses with a spacious, green, well-kept setting, more neighborliness, a sense of good living. I have watched one in Chicago go slowly downhill, when it should not have.

of crime, and in the growth of fear. Street robberies and burglaries in those zones are common. Last summer three young men were murdered in an apartment not far from the enclave. Before that, a murder took place in the enclave itself as a thief silenced his victim. I have no idea of the exact income levels of the people living in the apartments nearby, but they ought to be fairly good. Still, this territory is taking on the look of slum. The shopping streets are scarred with empty boarded-up stores. One whole block and a half was torn down. A housewife thinking of moving into the enclave can fairly ask: "Where can I safely shop for groceries?"

The noble experiment in "balance" is dead. And no one in the enclave is more fearful than the stable black families whose move there seemed so promising to everyone.

On the latter point, there is no answer. The President's budget lists a $70 million item for Legal Services, but no indication how this continued program is to be administered. That legislation is what is awaited. Latest insider word is the plan that is emerging along the following lines:
Establishment of a national legal services corporation which would serve as a transitional agency while separate corporations are set up in the 50 states. These state corporations, funded through revenue sharing, would each have a board of directors overseeing their operations. These directors would be designated in one of several ways still to be decided — by the governor, State legislature or state bar association.

The basic idea is to ensure that these legal services corporations will be under the control of state officials and not outside elements — particularly ideological, political and other activists and militants as is now widely the case.
Ultra-liberal and leftist forces in and out of Congress are vehemently opposed to shifting control. They are loudly clamoring for retention of the present system. In this rancorous propaganda campaign they have organized what they call "Action for Legal Rights" with an array of headline names as directors.

Howard Phillips, forceful young acting director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), is credited as strongly favoring junking Legal Services as completely as he is dismantling the malodorous Community Action program — on which more than $4 billion has been spent while it piled up one of the most sordid records in federal history — of corruption, waste, mismanagement and numerous other abuses and outrages.
Privately, Phillips is said to

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Paresthesia

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you discuss paresthesia? I am 76 and otherwise in excellent health. It developed as severe pain in my arms up to the elbows, and I even had to place pillows on the arms of a chair to rest my arms on. The pain in my arms gradually disappeared but the pain in my hands remained intense. It felt like a hundred needles stuck in my hands and fingers or like having continuous electric shocks. This pain now has disappeared except for the third and fourth fingers. What causes this disease? Is it dangerous? How is it treated? — M. L. H.
—Paresthesia is a perversion, or distortion of feeling. This does not always take the same form. It may be sharp pain, may be aching, numbness, or burning.
It isn't really a disease; it is a symptom, just as pain in the lower stomach isn't a disease but a symptom caused by ulcers or other conditions.
As you may well guess, paresthesia means that some abnormality is having an effect on the sensory nerves. This may be a kind of disorder of the nerves themselves, or it may be pressure on the root or some other part of a nerve system. (Or there may be toxicity poisoning) that affects the nerves, or it can even be a result of impaired circulation which is due to hardening of the arteries.
Thus you can understand why I cannot give you specific answers to your question about treatment.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have sinus so very bad in winter, and especially I have a nasal drip so bad that at times I can't keep my new dentures in my mouth. I have to take capsules to dry it up, so I can wear them but they upset my stomach. Have you a booklet on this problem? — Mrs. J. M.
Indeed I have — Called "You Can Cure Sinus Trouble." It also discusses post-nasal drip, which very frequently goes along with sinus trouble. The booklet costs 25 cents, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

ANDREW TULLY

Supreme Court

WASHINGTON — In many respects, the Supreme Court is still the institutional ass it was when Chief Justice Earl Warren poked its nose into everything that bothered him. That is to say, the so-called Nixon Bench still wastes time — illegally, it seems to me — on cases which are none of its official business.
Apparently with nothing else to do, the Court the other day ruled 6-to-3 that the University of Missouri violated the First Amendment by expelling a graduate student in journalism for selling a paper on campus that contained an obscenity used to describe an incestuous relationship between a mother and child.

example, is that a student can be expelled for selling a paper on campus that contained an obscenity used to describe an incestuous relationship between a mother and child.
In the phony spirit of the times, the majority based its lunatic decision on the principle that a university campus is not "immune from the sweeping of the First Amendment." The ruling went on to say with a soporific banal even for Washington officialdom — that "the mere dissemination of ideas, no matter how offensive to good taste, on a state university campus may not be shut off in the name alone of 'conventions of decency.'"

Libertarians are fond of arguing that the use of obscenity in print or on the screen is justifiable because obscenity has become commonplace and therefore an individual has a right to "tell it like it is." Flummery. Burglary and mugging certainly have become commonplace, but not yet have they become acceptable human conduct. Besides, in theory if not in practice, universities and colleges claim to be institutions where, as Chief Justice Warren Burger said in his dissent, "individuals learn to express themselves in acceptable civil terms."

A last irony: Burger was amused by a Court majority which, after ruling for Miss Papish, declined to spell out the "obscenity" in question, resorting instead to capital letters and dashes. John Calvin got your tongues, boys?

It was one of two or three such enclaves on the city's South Side, for long years miles from the decaying-old Black Belt which formed the basic core of the black population in Chicago.

As the city's blacks rose in number (a general northern city phenomenon), they ranged further southward, widened their westerly-sunning zone (where the riots of the mid-1960s occurred), fanned out elsewhere. Even in the 1950s, a city expert told me some blacks lived in 45 of Chicago's 50 wards.

The enclave I have in mind was ultimately surrounded by blacks living in three-story apartments once occupied by middle class whites. These were solidly-built places, a neat-deal sturdier and roomier than their counterparts today.

Black owners and renters gradually took over a good proportion of the retail shops along the two nearest linear shopping streets, though some still remain in white hands. Blacks began buying into the enclave itself. I am familiar enough with the situation to know that those who did tended to be good, strong, stable families. The enclave kept its look of well-being.

There was no mad exodus of whites to the suburbs. On the contrary, through an active, neighborhood-conscious community organization, a very determined effort was made to keep the enclave "balanced." The effort met with real success. As blacks were moving in, new white families also took up residence. Black and white families mingled on the social level; albeit on a somewhat limited basis. A modest neighborhood block party, held annually, was well attended by blacks and whites mixing in evident good will.

To the extent the black movement into and around the enclave required higher income levels, the change would seem to substantiate the argument just made by authors Richard Scammon and Ben Wattenberg that such gains are being made.

Yet, in only the last year or two, the hopeful trend has stopped. The enclave truly looks to the eye as good as ever. But whites have ceased moving into the area. And those still there are, sullenly, moving slowly out. What has happened?

As happens so often in this First Amendment-mad age, the majority missed the point. The University of Missouri did not infringe on the student's right to disseminate "ideas," but expelled her on the grounds she had violated the "General Standards of Student Conduct" requiring students "to observe generally accepted standards of conduct."

In short, the student — Barbara Susan Papish — was still free to disseminate "ideas" even on campus as long as in so doing she didn't break one of the university's rules.

Is the rule unconstitutional? The majority ruled in the affirmative, thereby abandoning the principle of common sense which is, or should be, inherent in all lawmaking. Nobody dragged Miss Papish kicking and screaming to enroll at the university. And by enrolling, she implicitly entered into a contract with the university to abide by its rules.
One of the rules of most universities and colleges, for example, is that a student can be expelled for selling a paper on campus that contained an obscenity used to describe an incestuous relationship between a mother and child.

Libertarians are fond of arguing that the use of obscenity in print or on the screen is justifiable because obscenity has become commonplace and therefore an individual has a right to "tell it like it is."

Flummery. Burglary and mugging certainly have become commonplace, but not yet have they become acceptable human conduct. Besides, in theory if not in practice, universities and colleges claim to be institutions where, as Chief Justice Warren Burger said in his dissent, "individuals learn to express themselves in acceptable civil terms."

Twin Falls school trustees made a mistake when they held an unannounced spur-of-the-moment board meeting last Wednesday. Their error was compounded when they proceeded to decide important business at the meeting.

It apparently was not a sinister affair. It apparently grew rather naturally from a meeting of school and teacher negotiating teams who were seeking agreement on salary levels for next year. (At least that is what we were told by school officials.)

When agreement was reached by the negotiating teams to give employees an 11.32 per cent pay raise next year, the two trustees present — Chairman John Wolfe and Dr. Howard Ronk — decided to call in other trustees to obtain formal approval for their agreement with the teachers.

Two other trustees, Dr. Ralph Sayre and Mrs. Ruth Day, reportedly were contacted by phone. The fifth trustee, Tom Kieley, was out of town and could not be reached.

There had been no public notice of either the negotiating meeting or the board meeting.

Once the four trustees had gathered, they reportedly voted unanimously to approve the negotiating team's offer of an 11.32 per cent pay increase.

In addition, they approved raising the price of school hot lunches. Elementary school rates would rise a nickel to 35 cents; junior and senior high rates would rise a nickel to 40 cents, and adult lunches would rise a dime to 60 cents.

One good reason school board meetings, along with those of other public policy making bodies, are expected to be held in public after notice is that citizens have the right to know how their public institutions are being managed.

The reason meetings are customarily announced well in advance and held at regular times and places is to make it possible for school patrons to appear to offer whatever information or opinions they have.

In the Wednesday night meeting, the trustees made a commitment to employ that will have a major impact on determining the size of the district's budget — no small matter.

The decision to raise lunch prices is probably not so important, but is of much interest to parents.

There are undoubtedly some persons who might have wished to express themselves to the school trustees before the decisions were made.

Some people might have wished to present the case for an even larger teacher pay increase. The district's teachers have had only one pay increase during the past four years, and surely have fallen behind because of inflation.

Moreover, teachers remain woefully underpaid in comparison with others in the profession in other states. Their profession is among the most important.

On the other hand, some taxpayers might have wished to argue that top teacher salaries of $10,115, and starting salaries of about two-thirds as much, for nine months teaching, are relatively high in comparison to wages paid most Magic Valley workers. Some taxpayers might say they would prefer tax relief to large teacher pay increases.

Other citizens might have wanted to appear before the trustees to argue for kindergartens as a district priority as important as increased salaries.

They might have argued that this is the time to begin such a program because of the large influx of new state aid to the local district.

They might have said that kindergartens now could be started without cutting into existing programs — a situation not likely to be repeated in the future.

Other citizens, who had worked for months to draft a proposed school construction proposal to increase the number of elementary classrooms in the district might have wanted their say.

They might have argued that the fate of the bond issue hangs in the balance. The issue had been postponed by the school trustees until they learned what level of support would be coming from the Legislature. The trustees feared that the district might not have had adequate money available to staff new classrooms were they built by the bond issue. The bond issue supporters might have asked that funds be set aside to operate new classrooms.

The trustees, in effect, made a crucial decision affecting teacher salaries, tax relief, kindergartens, and the bond issue.

Their decision was made without public knowledge, and no chance for public input.

That is unfortunate. School patrons deserve the chance to put in their two cents worth before decisions are made, not afterward.

The solution, at least for future cases, is easy enough. The trustees simply should hold meetings on regular dates at regular places at regular times.

Should an emergency require a special trustee meeting, every effort should be made to give advance public notice. If necessary, reporters can be awakened in the middle of the night.

MR. SPECTATOR

Changing Times

Times really do change. We can remember when the new "gym" portion of the local Presbyterian Church was dedicated not too many years back and the Catholic Priest at St. Edward's was invited.

Well he came — but not for the dedication service. He came over and inspected the new setup after the service had ended. In those days that was the rule — sort of a "no mixing" of the faiths.

The other night I attended a dinner at the Presbyterian Church and Father White, also a Catholic Priest, was the speaker. He was introduced by the Presbyterian Pastor Rev. Van Nest.

The religious portion of the program before the dinner was shared. The crowd was large. The speaker was warm and entertaining. And we are glad it has come to that. We are all of one flesh.

SORT OF ILL

It sort of made us ill the other night.

TV news had a program photographed in Italy — featuring jackrabbits, from "Twin Falls, Idaho." Shipped there for "sporting" purposes the scenes showed the poor rabbits attempting to escape from the Italian hunters who were blasting away at short range. The announcer said that during a relatively few such hunting sprees some 1,200 hunters have been shot, untold numbers of dogs have been shot and all the Idaho rabbits have been shot.

Which causes Mr. Spectator to say he really feels sorry for the dogs and the rabbits.

GONE FOR AWHILE

Mr. Spectator will be gone on assignment for the next few days so Wednesday's column will be the last for awhile. We'll be back, though, so hang on and in about a week we will be with you. In the meantime, happy thoughts!

600 welcome last POW

HONOLULU (UPI)—America's last known prisoner of the Vietnam war landed on U.S. soil today and was given a roaring welcome by 600 persons shouting "Aloha, welcome home."

Army Capt. Robert T. White, 32, landed at Hickam Air Force Base aboard a C141 Starlifter jet on which he was the only returning POW. He will go from Hawaii to McGuire AFB, N.J., where he will arrive tonight.

As he limped down the plane's steep ramp, White appeared weak and pale. He was greeted by military officials and saluted an honor guard while walking down the red carpet.

White had been listed as missing in action until last week when the Viet Cong in a surprise announcement said he was being held in the Mokong Delta. He was released Sunday by the Communists.

Appearing somewhat embarrassed, White was hugged and kissed by the crowd as he approached a lounge for a one-hour refueling stopover before continuing to McGuire.

He told the crowd it was a "tremendous thrill" to be back in the United States and to "see the American flag waving again."

He is the last of 597 prisoners released from Vietnamese prisons during the 47 days of "Operation Homecoming" and had been a captive for 3 1/2 years.

White was decked with 15 colorful flowered leis and given 100 small American flags as well as placards welcoming him home, and various presents, including a purple sailor's hat.

Apparently fond of the word "Aloha" he used it frequently and told newsmen, "It's a thrill to be free." He declined to talk about his captivity but said the Hawaiian welcome "far exceeded any expectations."

A military spokesman quoted White as saying he "was treated pretty well" by his Viet Cong captors. While in captivity he made 100 pairs of chop sticks which his captors sold, using the proceeds to buy him tooth brushes, tooth paste and other personal items, the officer said.

When he completes his trip to McGuire, White will take a helicopter to Valley Forge General Hospital in Pheoixville, Pa.

Shot down over Vinh Binh Province on Nov. 15, 1969, he was captured by the Viet Cong and 41 months of his captivity were spent in a series of tiny bamboo cages.

Although he suffered several attacks of malaria, he was considered well enough to return to this nation.

His wife, Judith, lives in Newport News, Va., which is the officer's home.

Russians remain firm

LONDON (UPI)—East European diplomatic sources said today that the Soviet Union has refused to relax its hard line policy on negotiating a balanced and mutual reduction of NATO and Warsaw Pact troops in central Europe.

The Kremlin insists, the sources said, that Hungary not take part in the talks because this would enable it to retain 40,000 Russian troops in that country in the event of an agreement with the West on troop withdrawals.

If Hungary does take part, as the West proposed, the sources said, the Kremlin would insist that Italy also take part. This could mean that withdrawal of U.S. Sixth Fleet ships and other troops in the Mediterranean, an area not originally included in the proposed talks.

The sources said the Russians also remain firmly opposed to Western proposals of a "balanced" East-West troop cut to the West, this means the Soviet Union should cut back its forces in central Europe in proportion to any U.S. pullback instead of simply a 1-for-1 withdrawal.

Western allies share the American idea that a withdrawal of U.S. troops would place more than 3,000 miles of Atlantic between them and Europe while a similar Soviet withdrawal would put the Russian troops a few hundred miles or much less away from their present positions in Europe.

All this is blocking the start of negotiations in Vienna, the so-called Mutual and Balance Force Reduction talks (MBFR, in diplomatic shorthand).

Penalties urged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate has voted heavily in favor of stiff, mandatory prison terms for narcotics pushers and criminals who use firearms, including life sentences for second-offense drug peddlers.

Two amendments calling for the increased penalties were added by the Senate to the Omnibus Crime Act Tuesday, both by votes of 81 to 12. The crime bill — which provides compensation to victims of violent crimes and for families of law enforcement officers killed on duty — was then passed 44-1 and sent to the House.

As amended, the bill would impose a minimum 10 to 30 years for first-offense drug peddlers in addition to existing penalties, and life in prison for second offenders, who would be eligible for parole only after 30 years.

A minimum sentence of 5 to 15 years—in addition to existing penalties—would be authorized for a first offense of carrying or using a firearm while committing a felony in federal jurisdiction. This additional sentence would be at the discretion of the judge. But for a second such offense the judge would be required to impose 10 to 30 years in addition to existing penalties.

The amendments were proposed by Sens. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Herman Talmadge, D-Ga.

"These criminals have shown themselves by their offenses to be beyond the normal hope we hold out for rehabilitation in our society," Bayh said. "The only solution ... is to put them away for a long time."

One of the dissenters, Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said revision of the criminal code should not be done on the Senate floor "with just a few hours of debate." Javits and Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, said they did not believe the harsher sentences would necessarily reduce such crimes.

Comment ignored

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—A senator's statement that President Nixon's right hand man, H.R. Haldeman, should resign if he refused to answer questions about the Watergate incident, was shrugged off by the White House Tuesday.

The demand came from Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., a member of the special Watergate investigation committee, chaired by Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C.

"We have said here consistently that we will not join the Ervin special committee in trying these issues on television or in press conferences," said Press Secretary Ronald Zeigler. "I don't think the comments by the senator merit a response beyond the observation."

Fraud audit slated

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The giant Equity Funding Corp. and its insurance subsidiary were in the hands today of federal and state overseers who tried to untangle an alleged multimillion-dollar fraud.

More than two-thirds of the insurance policies that the Equity Funding Life Insurance Co. claimed it sold last year alone were "probably bogus," a state investigator said.

The victims, if the charges are proved, would be mainly other insurance companies.

At the request of the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission, a federal judge Tuesday took over Equity Funding, the parent corporation. The judge appointed a firm to conduct a "fraud audit," and said new directors will be appointed to replace those still with the corporation.

The parent firm's president, Stanley Goldblum, and two other top executives resigned Monday.

The California state insurance commissioner had taken control of the insurance company Monday, by court order, accusing the firm's management of perjury, theft and violations of the insurance laws.

Stockholders continued to file suits against the firms in federal and state courts, demanding billions in damages. One such class action suit filed Monday charges that $200 million disappeared "into someone's pocket" and accused executives and others of "looting the corporation and concealing their conduct behind false financial statements." More suits were filed Tuesday.

The core of the investigation is the charge that the life insurance company listed policy sales that never existed, by rigging computers, and then sold the phony policies to reinsurance companies for 180 per cent of the value of the first year's premiums due. Reselling policies is a common practice in the industry.

The SEC charged Tuesday that in some cases the company even reported the deaths of the nonexistent policy holders and collected the benefits.

Thursday services set in MH

MOUNTAIN HOME (UPI)—Funeral services are scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Thursday at St. James Episcopal Church, Mountain Home, for John D. Glasby, a former chairman of the Idaho Democratic Party.

Glasby, 57, died Monday at a Mountain Home Hospital of an apparent heart attack. He will be buried at the Mountain View Cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, Mary Alice, two daughters and a son.

Glasby was born in Weiser in 1915. He ran for governor on the Democratic ticket in 1950 shortly after he stepped down as chairman of the party. He also served as Mountain Home mayor, president of the Chamber of Commerce and member of the local school board.

When he died he was business manager of the Mountain Home School District.

FEEDING DIRECTIONS

Rangen's Grass Tetany Mag Mix should be fed free choice to animals grazing lush green grass such as crested wheatgrass. Consumption should be 4 oz. per head per day. This level will give 30 Gms. Magnesium Oxide (18 Gms. Mg.) and 50 Mgs. Ethylene Diamine Dihydriodide.

Proximity to water can effect consumption. If animals are not taking enough, move feeder closer to water.

Animals being fed hay that is extremely low in Magnesium should be fed Rangen's Mag Ox Blocks free choice then switch to Rangen's Grass Tetany Mag Mix when turned on green lush pasture.

You wanta know . . .

- Who sells 10 speeds?
- Who now has the most professionally equipped 10 speed service center dept. in the valley?
- Who has everything for today's bicyclist?

Olson's . . . that's who!

We have the same professional outlook and customer consideration we had when we sold you your skis. When we fitted your boots. When we talked about your skiing problem. Now we're bringing that same professionalism into today's bicycling. And if you think we made you happy during the ski season—you haven't seen anything yet. We're offering you what we, and a lot of other pros feel is the finest 10 speed bike in the world . . .

Peugeot

But that's not all. We don't just sell you a bike. We didn't just sell you skis. We fit both you and your pocketbook to the bike. Our new service department will professionally assemble and test your bike before you take it home. And after a 1-week period we suggest you bring in your bike for our re-servicing program in which we re-tighten the cables. All this is at no cost to you. It's all part of our service program. In fact our service department is equipped to take care of any and all 10 speed bikes. No matter what the make. No matter what the problem. When you add all that to the fact that we'll also be carrying a complete line of bicycling accessories — we think you'll have a pretty good reason for remembering our name.

Juveniles commit vandalism

JEROME— Three 17-year-old Jerome juveniles who committed in excess of $20,000 damage in Magic Valley last month have been sent to the Idaho State Youth Training Center, St. Anthony.

A fourth, a 15-year-old Wendell youth, has been sent to Idaho State Hospital South, Blackfoot, for mental evaluation.

Jerome police chief Howard Demois said Monday the youths were charged with petty theft, arson, attempted burglary and vandalism.

Under present Idaho law, the parents of the youths are only responsible for $100 damage committed by each child, DuBois said.

After they stole some groceries from a parked car in Jerome, they stole 20 gallons of gas from a farmer outside Jerome, then used the stolen money to buy a car.

From there they drove to Cindy's Restaurant south of Jerome, smashed a telephone booth, went to Twin Falls, and went on a glass breaking spree totaling well over $16,000 damage, DuBois said.

TF dog licenses on sale

TWIN FALLS— Dog licenses in Twin Falls will expire April 30, city clerk Edythe Koonz reminded dog owners today.

She said new licenses are now on sale at the city clerk's office at $2 per year for males and spayed females and $6 for unspayed females. After July 1, prices will increase to $4 for males and spayed females and $8 for the unspayed females.

Persons purchasing a license should bring with them a certificate from their veterinarian showing the dog has received a rabies shot within the past two years.

YMCA to honor coaches

TWIN FALLS— A potluck award dinner for Magic Valley YMCA basketball participants will be served at 6:30 p.m. today at the YMCA building.

Biddy and Junior basketball players will receive certificates, while winning teams—the Red Tigers, coached by Lee Chabrous, and the Green Stars, coached by Larry Christensen, will receive trophies, according to Ron Kienzle, league director.

Filer will organize recreation

FILER— The Filer summer recreation organization will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the elementary school library.

Officers will be elected and plans for the summer program will be made. Holdover directors are Robert Port, Jim DeVall and Karen Hendrix.

Watergate aide pays for silence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A harsh contempt sentence to Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy for refusing to talk and a demand that White House aides resign if they keep silent brought new pressure today for full disclosure of facts in the political espionage case.

The message, particularly from the federal courthouse, was clear — that the price for silence will be high.

In quick succession Tuesday, there were these developments in the case which surfaced in the predawn hours June 17 when burglars and wiretappers were caught in the Washington Watergate complex headquarters of the Democratic National Committee.

Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica cited Liddy, a former White House aide, for contempt when he refused to testify before a grand jury and ordered him held in the grim District of Columbia jail for up to 18 months unless he talks before his minimum six-year, eight-month sentence for the Watergate conspiracy starts.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., said that White House chief of staff H.R. "Bob" Haldeman and other top aides to President Nixon should quit if they refuse to testify before a Senate committee that is investigating the Watergate affair.

That committee, on which Weicker serves, called off a second secret interrogation of another Watergate conspirator, James W. McCord Jr., scheduled for today in favor of a public hearing in about 10 days.

The Los Angeles Times said it learned Tuesday that former White House consultant E. Howard Hunt Jr. provided partial corroboration for claims of McCord that high ranking administration officials knew of the Watergate bugging. The Times said Hunt did not, however, name names in grand jury testimony.

Meanwhile, the grand jury that originally indicted Liddy, McCord and five other men for the Watergate brenkin resumed quizzing the conspirators.

It heard Liddy for a third time Tuesday, planned to interrogate at least one of the four Miami members of the Watergate team today and subpoenaed McCord for a Thursday session.

Liddy, who was finance counsel to Nixon's reelection campaign, defied Sirica's order to tell the grand jury everything he knows under a cloak of immunity from further prosecution — taking the Fifth Amendment to all Watergate questions.

Angered, Sirica slapped him with a rare and perhaps unprecedented punishment for contempt, ordering him to serve up to 18 months in jail before his criminal sentence even begins.

Sirica said the sentence was intended to "give meaning and coercive impact to the court's contempt powers." It was also read as a clear warning to anyone else who might refuse to cooperate with the grand jury what the consequences might be.

Bradley wins rematch top LA election

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — City Councilman Thomas Bradley outpolled all rivals in a mayoral election Tuesday, setting up a runoff rematch with his old foe, Mayor Sam Yorty, who beat him in 1969 for top spot in the nation's third largest city.

Bradley and Yorty were far in front of the rest of a crowded field of 13 mayoral candidates to earn the right to meet each other in a runoff May 29.

To win outright, a candidate needed to win 50 per cent of the vote, but none did.

A triumphant Bradley, a black former police lieutenant who has 31 years of city service, predicted victory against Yorty in the runoff, which was shaping up as a virtual replay of the 1969 election in which Bradley went down to a sound defeat.

"I think the people have said they have had enough of Sam Yorty's leadership," Bradley exulted in a visit to the vote counting center at City Hall. "I feel great."

Yorty taking the early lead Tuesday, then Bradley edged ahead, then Yorty again, finally finishing with the councilman on top.

With votes from 3,131 of the 3,160 precincts counted, Bradley had 35.54 per cent of the ballots cast (232,150 votes) to Yorty's 28.74 per cent (187,721).

The third place finisher was Jess Ehrlich, former state Assembly speaker, who pulled 17.30 per cent or 113,523 votes. Former Police Chief Tom Reddin ran fourth with 12.64 per cent or 82,561 votes.

But Bradley's margin of victory in Tuesday's primary was far less than the 41.8 per cent he polled in the 1969 primary. And Yorty, as he has often done during his political career, fooled the poll takers by doing better in this primary than he did in the last, taking 28.74 per cent of the vote, compared to the 26 per cent in 1969.

5 bombs explode in North Ireland

BELFAST (UPI) — Five bombs exploded Tuesday in Northern Ireland but officials described it as a fairly calm day and kept most of their attention on a search for gunmen and bombers in earlier attacks.

The murder victim was David McQueen, a 28-year-old Protestant who was shot in the head and dumped in a ditch, where police found his body early Tuesday. He was the 763rd victim of 3 1/2 years of political and religious strife involving Protestants, Roman Catholics and security forces.

In one of the five explosions, a beer drinker in a Belfast bar picked up a bomb and hurled it back at the men who threw it inside. The bombers fled as it went off and police said no one was hurt.

In another explosion, flying glass cut three bar patrons near Londonderry.

Meanwhile, the outlawed Irish-Republican Army and militant Protestants joined forces to seek — or force — a reprieve for a Protestant extremist sentenced to die for the murder of a policeman.

The man, Albert Browne, a member of the Ulster Defense Association, became the first man condemned to die in Northern Ireland since 1961 after his conviction on charges of killing a policeman.

An appeals court Tuesday turned down Browne's appeal against execution and ordered him hanged on April 25.

"The man who executes Brown will do so at his own risk," said a Provisional spokesman. Such cooperation between Protestants and Catholics is unusual and the IRA did not say why it joined the protests to spare Browne. Political experts said they may have acted to prevent the execution from becoming a precedent for future cases.

In the Irish Republic, police questioned a Northern Irish woman in connection with the slaying of three British soldiers and the wounding of a fourth in a Belfast "machinegun party," 12 days ago.

The four soldiers were shot after two women lured them to a Belfast apartment with promise of a party, then allowed a group of men armed with machineguns to come in and shoot them.

At the time, police said the women were part of an ambush plot.

Argentine guerrillas assassinate army chief

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — An Army intelligence chief was assassinated today during a kidnap attempt by urban guerrillas, army sources said.

The kidnaping attempt was the fourth this week. On Monday, a naturalized American and an Argentine admiral were abducted.

Col. Hector J. Iribarren, chief of military intelligence for the Argentine third army in Cordoba province, was killed today when he resisted his kidnapers, army sources said. They said the would-be kidnapers were associated with the Peronist movement which succeeded last month in electing Dr. Hector Calfuora president.

Col. Iribarren was the eighth top military chief killed by guerrillas in two years and the second intelligence chief in four months. Last Dec. 28, a top Naval intelligence officer, Rear Adm. Emilio Rodolfo Berisso, was killed in the Buenos Aires suburb of Lomas de Zamora.

On Tuesday, President Alejandro Lanusse, the current military leader of Argentina, ordered the military to devise means to "maintain internal security" in the face of a new wave of violence, including the earlier kidnapings this week.

Lanusse held a special meeting of the ruling military junta on Tuesday to discuss the violence, according to a ranking government source.

On Monday, Antony R. DaCruz, a naturalized American citizen and an executive with the Eastman-Kodak Co. and retired Adm. Francisco Agustin Aleman were kidnaped. They were the 19th and 20th kidnaping victims in Argentina this year.

On Tuesday, a 16-year-old boy was abducted in a Buenos Aires suburb, the 20th kidnap victim this year.

Authorities still are searching for all three victims.

Adm. Aleman's abductors identified themselves as members of the "People's Revolutionary Army," and said the action was committed in revenge for the killing last year of 16 young members of the same group in what the military said was an escape attempt from a naval prison.

Plane wreckage found near Elko

ELKO, Nev. (UPI) — The wreckage of a single-engine plane that disappeared Feb. 7 on a flight from Cedar City to Boise was spotted Tuesday by agents of the Nevada Fish and Game Department.

Department pilot Dave Savage and Alan Flock, stationed with the fish and game department in Elko, saw the wreck within a few miles of the Ruby Valley highway maintenance station.

Savage landed his craft near the scene and found log books positively identifying the downed craft.

Jack Metherell, 46, and Donald Trussell, 31, the chief ranger of Bryce Canyon National Park, were on their way to Boise for a conference when they disappeared.

Searchers over the Ruby mountains were hampered by bad weather and snow which grounded search planes several days before the Civil Air Patrol gave up the search.

The plane was last heard from on Feb. 7 when it reported it was in the Wells area, making an altitude change.

The log books were turned over to Elko County Sheriff J.C. Harris who went to the crash with Wells coroner Walter Thurston. Harris said the wreckage was generally small pieces of rubble, indicating the plane struck the ground with considerable force.

S. Viets leave meeting

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese delegates for the second consecutive day walked out on a meeting of the Joint Military Commission today because the Communists refused to discuss "seriously" post-truce fighting at Tong Le Chan, a spokesman said.

The South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry announced it will send a protest to the 13-party Vietnam peace conference in Paris concerning Tong Le Chan, 50 miles north of Saigon. Fighting has been going on there since Feb. 26.

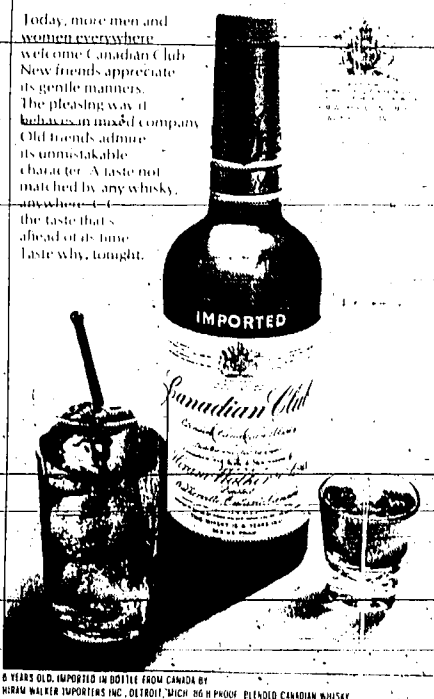

But the combat focus swung today to Dinh Tuong Province in the Mekong Delta. In the area of Cai Lay and Gio Due, about 50 miles southwest of Saigon, nine South Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed and 18 wounded over the past 24 hours.

A South Vietnamese military spokesman said only about a dozen Communist shells were fired today on Tong Le Chan. The government ranger base in recent days has been hit by an average of 200 rounds of Communist shellfire a day.

Ceiling effect told

By BERNARD BRENNER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The meat price ceilings announced by President Nixon last week will "inevitably put the livestock producer again face to face with bankruptcy," a farm leader charged today.

Tony T. Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union (NFU), said in a statement that as long as food prices were low and consumer income was rising, "no one seemed to notice or care that the farmer's income was depressed and his cost of production was pumping by leaps and bounds." But when food prices began rising, he said, the farmer and rancher became "the most convenient targets."

Officials of the National Livestock Feeders Association, meanwhile, said in an interview that many producers face possible losses or, at best, a chance to break even on cattle which were in feedlots for fattening when Nixon's order was announced.

Don F. Magdanz of Omaha, Neb., secretary of the association, said feeders bought the cattle at high prices. If they are sold as finished animals at current market prices "for slaughter-ready cattle," a lot of people will show a loss, and I don't mean a dollar or two, I mean $25 or $35 a head," Magdanz said. He said producers might about break even if live cattle prices move up to the point at which they'd be limited by the federal ceiling on wholesale beef prices.

Toons spend

NEW YORK (UPI) — Girls outspend boys early in life, and apparently never relinquish the lead. In the Rand Youth Poll's 20 years of charting the fiscal habits of America's young people, girls at least have held the lead over their male counterparts.

"This disparity becomes significant at the early teen level with our studies among 13-through-15 year olds showing girls disbursing $6.10 a week compared with $5.55 among boys," says Lester J. Rand, president of the firm which specializes in youth market research.

At the 16-through-19 year old level the lead is widened. The young ladies spend $18.90 to $17.85 for the boys. Teen-age girls have been found to be greater impulse buyers than young men. There's something else, Rand noted. The boys spend most of the money on other people, usually their dates. The girls spend mostly on themselves.

New Testament assists captive

By CLAUDE L. FLY
Fort Collins, Colo.

On Aug. 7, 1970, five men strode into the laboratory where I was working as an American agricultural scientist in Montevideo, Uruguay.

"I am," I said.

He pocketed the badge and suddenly drew out a revolver. "Come with us!"

In the alley someone tore off my glasses. I felt rope wrapping around my wrists and ankles, then a scratchy cloth covering me from head to foot, like a sack. I was lifted off my feet and laid on a cold metal surface.

I heard an engine roar and then the terrible bouncing began. Obviously this was the back of a truck.

I do not know how long it was before I was carried into a building, where the sack was pulled off, the ropes cut from my feet and hands and the blindfold untied.

I stood blinking at a circle of masked faces. One of the figures stooped and lifted a trap door in the floor of the room. On order from behind, I was let down three and a half feet to a small space under the house. The door thumped shut above me and I was alone in that chill dark place.

I groped along a chimney wall until my hand touched metal. It was a small cot and on it was a blanket. I lay down and covered myself as well as I could, teeth chattering in the cold. Above, I heard the clatter of feet on the floor.

I soon discovered, of course, that my captors were members of the Tupamaro party, named for the Indian chief. I learned that these people were attempting to overthrow a government they considered oppressive, and that taking political hostages was one of their methods.

They told me that the condition for my freedom was the release of 150 political prisoners held by the Uruguayan government.

As the days passed, the closeness of the wire walls all around me began to gnaw at my reason. How could I keep my balance?

By work, I decided, by establishing a routine. I begged my guards for books in English. I mapped out a daily program of exercise, reading, writing and prayer.

One day one of the Tupamaro leaders — an English-speaking Uruguayan about 40 years old — agreed to bring me the book I most wanted: The New Testament.

In its pages I rediscovered the bulwark I needed. As I bore into the Bible, passages popped out at me as if the Lord were speaking directly to me.

"Consider yourselves fortunate," I read from the first chapter of James, "when all kinds of trials come your way, for you know that when your faith succeeds in facing such trials, the result is the ability to endure."

Twice daily I'd take time to pray, asking that God's will be done. And I prayed for the forgiveness of my captors, asking that God bless them.

As my Christian concern grew, a change came over my kidnappers. At first the guards had accused me of being a spy. They read aloud from a soil manual I had written; they claimed it contained secret information.

They described to me conditions in Uruguay which they had dedicated their lives to changing; run-away inflation, poverty, power and property controlled by the few.

I repeatedly told them that I grieved over them as much as they, that these were precisely the reasons I and other North Americans had come to South America.

And gradually, almost reluctantly it seemed, they began to believe.

The masks never came off, but my guards and I started whiling away the long hours by playing checkers, dominoes, card games. Between us was developing a bond of trust, sympathy.

One day while facing about fitfully, I suddenly felt as if a gigantic weight had been dropped on my chest. Pain stabbed my nerves, my shoulders.

I knew it must be a heart attack! One guard came and helped me onto the cot; another went for a doctor.

For what seemed many days I lay on the little cot unable so much as to lift my head, cared for by doctors and nurses the rebels had summoned.

Then a tremendous noise started me from my semicomatose. They were pounding a hole in the basement wall. Hands lifted me onto a stretcher.

"Please!" I begged. "My papers! My book!" My voice was so weak the masked head had to bend closer to hear. As he laid the water-spotted notes beside me, he spoke close to my ear.

"I want you to know, Doctor Fly, that some of us believe in Christ as you do."

Moments later a woman's hands slipped something around my neck. "Take this — for good luck," she whispered. It was a small gold cross. God was surely in that place; I have never felt the presence of God so strong.

A blindfold covered my eyes and another jarring, endless ride began.

The blindfold was pulled away and for the first time in seven months I looked up into natural light.

The Tupamaros had freed me, had brought me where I could receive hospital care.

Then the words of Second Corinthians, a passage I'd read again and again in my cage, came back:

"... the supreme power belongs to God. We are never without a friend and though badly hurt at times, we are not destroyed."

Rex Ulrich semi-retired TF broker sells 4 business firms

TWIN FALLS — Rex Ulrich, Twin Falls investment broker, today announced the sale of his four business firms. He also announced plans for semi-retirement after 25 years in business here and the establishment of a new office from which he will continue to serve established clients.

Being sold are Rex Ulrich and Associates, which he established here in 1956; Ulrich and Sinclair, which began operation in 1968; Ulrich, Sinclair and Mallowney, which was formed in 1969; and McRoberts, Sturgill and Ulrich which he owns 25 per cent of. This was organized March 1, 1972, following the death of E. W. McRoberts.

Buying the firms are Alex Sinclair, Eugene Sturgill and Jack J. Mallowney. They have been associated with Ulrich in the investment and brokerage business.

Ulrich will establish offices under the name of Rex Ulrich Investments in the new Ulrich-Brizez building, 140 Second St. E. The new firm will serve all investment clients Ulrich has been working with in the past in Idaho and Nevada. He will also handle some estate work.

Ulrich said the buyers of the four firms will continue to maintain offices at 202 Shoshone St. E., the present McRoberts, Sturgill and Ulrich headquarters. He said they will probably change the firm name to Sinclair, Mallowney and Sturgill.

Ulrich said the firm of Ulrich and Sinclair is still in the negotiation stage as to a sale price and is being purchased by Alex Sinclair, Ulrich, Sinclair and Mallowney has been purchased with a sales price agreed upon.

Rex Ulrich and Associates is being purchased by the three Twin Falls residents over a 10-

Burd said the EPA would provide 75 per cent of the funds necessary to upgrade the Twin Falls treatment plant to secondary levels.
He said Idaho Frozen Foods, under new federal regulations calling for an "industrial user charge," would be attached to the city system; be required to pay back its proportionate share of that 75 per cent funding, with half the money going to the city of Twin Falls and the other half returning to the federal treasury.
Burd said half of the payback from Idaho Frozen Foods would go into Twin Falls City coffers.

The EPA official said negotiations with Idaho Frozen Foods on joining the city treatment network had been partly responsible for the delay of construction of a badly needed secondary treatment addition to the city's present facilities.
"Twin Falls now has a pretty primitive sewage treatment plant," Burd said. "They have committed themselves to install a secondary treatment facility, but the move with-

Idaho Frozen Foods has stalled because of the new federal regulation on industrial user charges.
Burd said it was probably not feasible for Amalgamated Sugar to tie into the city sewage system because of the size of the firm's outflow. He said the state of Idaho had in mind a lagooning process for the treatment of Amalgamated sewage, keeping it entirely out of Rock Creek.
Noting that the state of Idaho would receive about $11 million in EPA funds this year and next, Burd said he hoped a considerable portion of the money would be spent in Twin Falls to upgrade the city's treatment facility.

He said the decision on how to spend the EPA funds would be up to the state, but he said construction of secondary sewage treatment plants in other Idaho cities of a size comparable to Twin Falls was already underway, "whereas in Twin Falls, construction hasn't started. I think it's the one municipal project I personally would like to see started more than any of the others."

Project reviewed

VOY HUDSON, owner of Hudson's Shoe Store, discusses history of the Twin Falls Urban Renewal Project with a group of about 40 Casper, Wyo., businessmen who flew to Twin Falls Tuesday to examine the project. Below, Casper Vice Mayor Charles (Chuck) Aspinwall, asks question about the mall.

Wyoming men view TF mall

TWIN FALLS — A group of about 40 Casper, Wyo., businessmen flew to Twin Falls Tuesday for a look at the Twin Falls urban renewal project.
The businessmen, are considering a similar project for their city.
The visitors were told that the Twin Falls mall project had been successful.
Joe Citek, owner of Krenzels, told the group the Twin Falls city center had suffered from falling property values, declining occupancy and insufficient parking area prior to the renewal project.
He told the visitors they must plan to commit themselves to at least five years of work to make their project a success.
Voy Hudson, owner of Hudson's Shoe Store, outlined the history of the project.
He said the effort began in 1954 with the establishment of the off-street parking corporation, which raised $100,000 by 1955 to purchase additional downtown parking area.
He outlined the various planning stages and construction phases of the $2.65 million downtown project.
He noted the importance of local contributions to the total project cost, which he said exceeded the required 25 per cent local contribution.

He stressed the role of city banks in financing local improvement district bonds.
Rudy Ashenbrenner, owner of Price Hardware, said the central concern of such a downtown project is parking. He said parking remains "the main concern currently" even though the Twin Falls project is completed.
He said the success of the program could be measured, partially by the change in occupancy patterns. Instead of high vacancy, he said, "we now have a waiting list for occupancy downtown."
In answer to questions, Hudson said there had been good cooperation both from absentee owners and from shopping centers.
He said most absentee owners agreed to participate in the $250,000 local improvement district when convinced that their property values were falling.
The role of the utility companies in underwriting part of the cost of burying power lines was emphasized by Mayor John Christoffersen.

Bellevue vote protested

Tuesday evening, Pigg said, the question of whether the first election will be voided and new election held may be the "number one" item on the agenda for Thursday night's city council meeting.
The mayor said, exclusive of the results of Monday's election, he felt Bolter's recommendation was "only right." He said, "I definitely feel everyone has a right to vote."
Non-property taxpayers who went to the polls Monday were shown an excerpt from the charter which stated, "no person is qualified to vote at any election under this act who has not paid a property tax."

A letter from Assistant City Gen. John P. Croner, dated April 21, 1972 — apparently in response to last year's question of despoiled ballots — was also on file. It stated, "Title 34 Idaho Code is the election law code for Idaho elections generally, though this does not control over Bellevue" because of the charter.
Voters were required Monday to sign an elector's oath declaring in addition to meeting residency requirements, "That I am a property taxpayer within the city of Bellevue, Blaine County, Idaho, having paid taxes for the year 1972."

Ironically, Johnson is a brother of Pete Johnson who won the mayor's race according to unofficial returns from Monday's election.
Mike Johnson said he was happy with the results of the election, but said he was "not happy with the way the city is run" in regards to the election.
"No one can tamper with a man's or woman's right to vote," Johnson said.

Many territorial governments had voting laws similar to Bellevue, Johnson said. However, he said the laws were designed to promote payment of delinquent taxes and he said they meant "anyone not paying their taxes would not be allowed to vote."
Johnson termed the city's application of the law "misinterpretation." He said the city's interpretation appears to be "You don't own property, you don't pay taxes, therefore you do not have the right to vote within the city limits."
"With the letter from the attorney general's office prior to the 1972 election, Johnson said, "To me this is no longer a matter of misinterpretation but a matter of fraud."
Johnson said under the city's interpretation about 20 to 25 per cent of the qualified residents in Bellevue did not get to vote. However, he said he was "absolutely all alone in the thing" in protesting the election.
Johnson said he had established residency in Bellevue, but did not own property.

Jerome land annexed, rezoned by City Council

By CHARLOTTE BELL, Times-News writer
JEROME — The Idaho Fish and Game Department property, east of Jerome, was annexed to the city and rezoned at the Tuesday night City Council meeting.
The council adopted two ordinances after the third reading, annexing 3.18 acres of land belonging to the Fish and Game Department, plus the home of Mrs. Susie Leonard. The entire area is zoned for business.
The department plans to build a new regional fish and game office on the property.
Jack Fisher, chief of the engineering division, in charge of construction and maintenance, told the Times-News Tuesday the department expects to have the final drawing and specifications from the architect by April 20 and will then call for bids.
Architect for the building is Harold Gerber, Twin Falls. Fisher said the building should be under construction by the middle of May. He said it will take about four months to complete the building.
Fisher said bids will be opened Thursday in Boise for the warehouse and covered storage area which will be located behind the new offices.

The covered storage area will be used for pool cars, Fisher said. Construction of the metal warehouse, building is expected to begin shortly.
Jerome City Engineer William Block reported the city is now laying a sewer line to the property. This is one of the major factors in locating the new office adjacent to the city and not at the state bird farm southeast of Jerome where the present office is located.
Robert Salter, assistant director, said earlier one of the major factors in selecting the location was availability of city water and sewer. He said, it would also make the office more accessible to sportsmen.
Estimated cost of the office building is between $80,000 and $100,000. The 4,000 square foot structure will be of tri-level design containing a reception room and eight offices. Present plans call for brick and glass exterior. The building will be air conditioned and natural gas heat is planned.
The rear area will be enclosed by security fence for storage of equipment and parking areas in the front and at the rear will be blacktopped.

The office building is designed to eventually accommodate 14 employees after completed. At least two more department employees will be brought into the area. These include the new regional manager, William Webb, and a receptionist.
Fisher said the present office building will remain at the game farm for use in research programs. He said the department also plans a second residence building at the game farm within the next two years.
The Idaho Fish and Game Department's decision to locate in Jerome culminates about seven years of effort on the part of local groups to retain the headquarters in Jerome County.
In the summer of 1965 a previous decision by the department was made to transfer the headquarters to Twin Falls. This met with strong opposition. Earlier this year the subject of new headquarters and its location surfaced and any move from Jerome was opposed strongly. This resulted in the cancellation of plans to locate the office outside of Jerome County.
Ward asked residents not to run over these surveying stakes because it will delay progress on the project of they have to be replaced.
The rodeo arenas has been moved from the site south and west of town where the new lagoons will be located. The contract calls for the project to be completed in October.
Lester Johannsen has been appointed by the City Council as sanitation inspector for the new system. He has returned from a four-day training session in Boise where he learned to operate and maintain the equipment that he will be working with, Ward added.

Sewer project starts

RICHFIELD — Work on the new Richfield sewer system will be in full swing by the end of the week, according to Mayor Clifford W. Ward.
Harwell Construction Co., contractor, is moving equipment in this week to start work.
The go-ahead on the sewer was given in February, but the contractor has been waiting for the weather to break, Ward said. The surveying has been completed and the stakes for the manholes have been placed.

3 study meets set in Hailey

HAILEY — Three open-ended community meetings are planned for April 10 to 12 in Hailey as a part of the Blaine County Schools Program and Facilities Study.
Walter Hoesel, site coordinator for the study, said the meetings, conducted on consecutive evenings, are designed to promote public involvement in a "concerns conference" as prescribed in the State Department of Public Instruction Educational Needs Assessment Program.
"Each session will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Wood River Junior High School. Hoesel community residents are invited to attend any one of the meetings."
Planned for each evening, Hoesel said, is a thorough orientation to the goals and methods of the "needs assessment program, utilizing audio visual developed by the state department, and formal working sessions for small groups of people."
The study coordinator said gathering educational concerns from as wide a representation of the community as possible is vitally important to the establishment of critical learner needs. The small groups will follow a procedure to identify and give priority to projected learner needs which they consider important, he said.
Hoesel said the concerns conferences coupled with the results obtained from widespread use of the school study should "result in a clear focus on projected and future learner needs in the county."
Fundamental to this initial stage of the needs assessment program, Hoesel said, is concentration on learner needs rather than solutions. Subsequent steps of the program will provide methods for determining solutions with full participation of concerned faculty, parents, students and citizens, he said.

"Women have a special, noble and god-given role and they will be the most free, the most fulfilled, the most creative and the happiest when they realize the potential that is within them. # Jerome deadline set

JEROME — Thursday is the deadline for filing nominating petitions in the April 24 school board election.
Warren Kays, clerk of the board, said the number of nominating petitions now filed with him stands at 11. A three way race has developed in Zone 4, with Mrs. Janet Stewart, Mrs. Forrest (Cheryl) Hymas, and Don Allen all seeking a position now held by trustee James Keith, who is not seeking reelection.
At present, there is also a three way race for the trustee position in Zone 1, now held by William Kersey. Kersey is seeking re-election and is being opposed by Richard C. Johnson and Alvin Chojnacki. In Zone 5, Jack Thomason is seeking to upset the present board chairman, Gordon Hollifield, and in Zone 2 Darrel Wolfe is running against the present trustee Leroy Weigle.

So far, Lyle Van Orman is unopposed. He is seeking the position held by trustee Dale Vining in Zone 3. Vining has said he will not seek reelection.

Candidates for trustee must secure petitions from Kays and return them no later than Thursday. Each petition must be signed by at least five persons residing in the candidate's zone. Kays said school patrons will vote only in their trustee zone for one trustee in the election.

Good menu

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Jobs' Daughters will have a tri-bethel smorgasbord from noon to 3 p.m. Sunday at the Masonic Temple at 883 Blue Lakes Blvd. N.
This is the annual fund raising event undertaken by members of Bethels 10, 43 and 58 in Twin Falls.
The menu will include ham, chicken, scalloped potatoes, baked beans, cole slaw, fruit salads, jello salads, relish trays, rolls, butter, cake, coffee, tea or milk.
Adult and children's tickets are available from any member or council member of the three Bethels. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

By MARILYN ELLIOTT, Times-News writer
RUPERT — The trees lining the roadside around the court house here have seen their last spring.
The Rupert City Council decided Tuesday night the trees must go to make room for wider streets and more parking area on the north, south and west sides of the block.
Mayor Wendell Johnson said there was not enough parking there now. The streets are some of the busiest in the city, he said.
With the completion of the new city-county law enforcement building adjoining the court house, "we will be short of parking this summer," said Police Chief Ed Culver.

But the feelings weren't unanimous. Councilman W. F. (Bill) Whitton and William Strasser expressed concern over the loss of the trees. Cities keep cutting down trees without replacing them, Strasser said.
"We are turning our cities into asphalt jungles," one city employee said.
Whitton asked for a roll call vote for the motion for a local improvement district on Eighth and Seventh Streets, north and south of the court house, to furnish three years of financing for streets and curbs.

Whitton voted no, Clark Cameron voted yes, George McDonald voted yes, and Strasser, after some hesitation, voted yes. "I guess we've got to have progress," he said.
Earlier, Gladys Stewart and Ann Walker, Rupert police department communications employees, requested that they be given some sort of break during their eight hour shifts. Currently they have none.
Cameron pointed out that the State Labor Board requires at least a 30 minute break between the fourth and fifth hours on a job. The board, he said, warned the department a year ago that there was a violation.

Culver said there were not enough employees to give time off in the middle of the shift. It isn't feasible, he said, to hire someone just to provide a lunch break during each of the three shifts.
It has been about eight years since the women were granted breaks, he said.
The council tabled the issue without a decision, "for discussion in the near future."
Some kind of system must be devised to have someone on the job while the women are taking their breaks.
Bids for furnishings for the new law enforcement building were tabled for consideration by the Rupert police chief and Minidoka County Sheriff. The council will then review the recommendations and make a decision.

Professional consultation will be necessary, the council decided, before any decision is made on new roofing for the municipal swimming pool. The roof is in "poor shape and, according to Whitton, "there is nothing there to preserve."
The Association of Idaho Cities, which provides insurance for Rupert, has announced plans to raise its rates for health insurance for city employees effective May 1.

Mayor Johnson suggested that cheaper rates might be available elsewhere.
"Maybe we can get more for the same amount (of money)" he said.
The council decided to investigate insurance proposals for now and May 1 for a possible change to a less expensive insurance company.
Bids were accepted from Forscher Plumbing and Hoating, Heyburn, for plumbing work at the municipal pool at $1,620.70 and from Home Specialties, Rupert, for dressing rooms and a pump building in Big Valley Park at $1,394.

Eagles drop pair to TVCC

The College of Southern Idaho bats fell silent and throwing arms increased alarmingly Tuesday afternoon when the Eagles dropped a doubleheader to Treasure Valley Community College.

Treasure Valley won the opener 3-2 and the nightcap 4-3 — and both were attributable to poor throws to bases by pitchers. Kevin Nelson lost the first one although TVCC managed only five hits.

Curt Barron, Dennis Warburton and Joe Rubino couldn't hold the second one, Warburton taking the loss when Cummings crashed a two-run homer in the sixth inning but the insurance run coming on a throwing error to third base by Rubino in the seventh.

Meanwhile, CSI had threat after threat. Twice in the opener, including the last inning, the Eagles loaded the bases with no outs and couldn't score.

In the nightcap, a brief rally predicated on Darrel Groves' run-scoring triple, gave them another chance for a tie but a strikeout ended the game.

CSI, now at 5-6 will travel to Provo Thursday to meet the BYU freshmen.

Treasure Valley scored in the second inning of the opener when an error let a run in and Ted Brown then blooped a single to left to score it.

CSI came back on singles by Ralph Bollinger and John Wilson with Bollinger scoring on Nelson's sizzling liner that was caught in deep centerfield.

But a fit batsman and another error set TVCC up in the fifth and Wiles and Mako followed with run scoring singles. Bob Liese brought CSI back within one in the bottom of the frame when he singled and eventually scored all the way from second on a routine groundout but the Eagles couldn't get closer.

CSI took the lead in the nightcap with Liese beating out a two-out, bases-loaded bunt for a hit in the second and two innings later, Barron followed with a 360-foot homer.

Patton carried in an unearned TVCC run in the fifth and in the sixth, Muffis welcomed Warburton, with a single and Cummings pounded a homerun. The decisive run came home in the seventh with Solovar and Nakama walked. Solovar scored when the throw to third base on a bunt situation got into leftfield.

The first two Eagle batters in the bottom of the seventh went out' onslly before Bollinger managed a walk. He scored as Groves lined an opposite-field triple to right but Groves died there on the next strikeout.

Illegally shot eagle

DICK NORELL, GAME bird supervisor for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, examines fatally shot golden eagle recently found near Brunau. Note color wing markers and leg band placed on young eagles in nest in June, 1971 as part of field work by the Idaho Cooperative Wildlife Research Center of the University of Idaho at Moscow. This was a male eagle, weighing 7 pounds 15 ounces at death. Males are smaller than female eagles. It was fledged from a nest seven miles due west of Hammett in the Snake River Canyon and found dead only ten miles from the nest a year and nine months later. The National Wildlife Federation has a standing reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone killing an eagle.

Steelhead active

ELLS — Warmer water temperatures have increased activity at the Pahsimeroi steelhead weir with the Idaho Fish and Game Department now holding 206 fish in the holding ponds.

The fish, part of the returning smolts planted out of the Niagara Springs Hatchery, began moving well when water temperatures reached into the 40s. Cold temperatures were blamed for the slow start.

Of the total, 111 are males and 95 females. The first six females were stripped of spawn Monday, yielding 29,500 eggs. Spawning already has started at the Hells Canyon weir, another egg supplier to the Niagara Hatchery.

Miss Langford took two firsts for Wendell in the weights while Miss Tolortica won two dashes for Rimrock.

Team scores: Rimrock 81, Wendell 53, Shoshone 14.

Calm before storm at owners meeting

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Today will be the calm before the storm at the annual National Football League owners spring meeting.

The owners were scheduled to consider some internal business matters and undertake light committee work before plunging into an expected heated debate over proposed rules changes on Thursday and Friday.

The key changes — those with the best chance of making it through — are the two-point conversion and sudden death overtime in regular season games. Other proposals include moving the goal posts from the goal line to the end line and rules involving possession on kickoffs and pass receptions.

"I expect there will be some rule changes," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle. "The best of two-of-three Super Bowl proposal was rejected by the competition committee and won't be brought up. But I think the sudden death and the two-point conversion will be at the top of the list."

Rozelle said he tended to agree with the competition committee's rejection of the Super Series idea, originally initiated by Oakland's Al Davis, a member of the committee. "The pluses are obvious," he said. "A better gauge, more television. But I have certain negative feelings about it. The logistics would be tough, not knowing where you were playing the following week."

think right now I'd rather have the impact of one shot."

The major item on Tuesday was the selection of New Orleans Superdome as site of the 1975 Super Bowl and the choice of Miami's Orange Bowl as home for the 1976 game. Presentations for the 1975 Pro Bowl were made by Jacksonville and Birmingham but the owners decided to table the issue until their summer meeting in New York in June.

Rozelle also said the owners had voted down a proposal giving the club with the best record home field advantage in playoff games and said the owners had decided to liberalize the existing experiment with instant replay at the ball park.

The experiment, begun in Kansas City last season, allowed highlights to be shown at the half and at the completion of the game on special screens at the park. This season clubs with the capabilities can show highlights at the end of the quarters along with the half and postgame shows.

Tuesday's selection of New Orleans gives the Louisiana site the Super Bowl for the third time. Miami and Los Angeles also were in the running for the 1975 game. The Superdome, which will be completed in the fall of 1974, will seat over 75,000 and with standing room can hold over 81,000. Miami seats 60,000 while the Los Angeles Coliseum, site of the last Super Bowl, can accommodate 61,000.

TF to meet Boise teams

The Twin Falls Bruins, holding a 3-1 record, will travel to Borah and Boise for a doubleheader Saturday.

The remainder of the Bruin slate includes April 11, Burley at Twin Falls 3:30 p.m.; April 17, Minico at Twin Falls, 3:30 p.m.; April 18, Twin Falls at Mountain Home; April 23, Twin Falls at Caldwell 11 a.m.; April 25, Twin Falls at Burley; May 3, Twin Falls at Minico; and May 5, Borah and Boise at Twin Falls, 11 a.m.

Softball meeting set

Softball meetings for men and women will be held Wednesday and Thursday at Twin Falls city hall, reports Recreation Director Chad Browning.

The men's second organizational meeting is slated for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday with entry fees required at that time. Wmep will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday for their first get-together of the year.

Hole in 1 made

Sterling Vaughn scored the first hole-in-one of his career over the weekend at the Blue Lakes Country Club course.

Vaughn hit a five-iron on the par three, 155-yard sixth and Carl Berg, Dudley Driscoll and Jack Threlkeld watched it roll in the hole.

Champ eyes $1 million

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dick Sadler, manager of world heavyweight champion George Foreman, dropped another offer in the basket Tuesday. This one coming from Madison Square Garden for $1 million to fight Jerry Quarry on June 20.

Teddy Brenner, who has been president of Garden boxing since Sunday, didn't waste any time getting in the bidding to nail down Foreman's first title defense. Foreman hasn't spent a day in the gym since he knocked out Joe Frazier to win the title on Jan. 22.

While Brenner had been in constant conversation with Sadler by phone for weeks now, Brenner made his offer official at 11:57 a.m. (EST) when he sent the following telegram to Sadler in Hayward, Calif. "We offer George Foreman $1 million against 40 per cent of the live gate and ancillary rights to defend his title against Jerry Quarry in Madison Square Garden on June 20. If interested in Frazier title fight, we are ready to discuss terms. Await your reply."

When reached at his home in Hayward, Sadler said he was aware of the offer but still had to analyze the situation and decide which fight would most benefit George.

"I know about it," Sadler said when asked if he had received the telegram. "But I've got others to consider too. I know this comes from a good man. I've got to sit down and look into the situation and analyze it. He submitted an offer and I'm listening to others."

Sadler said that two or three weeks ago he was offered over $1 million by Chris Dundee, the Miami Beach promoter, to fight Jimmy Ellis.

"I've got a whole pile of offers just waiting for me," Sadler said. "Now we the champ and people come to us. Before, we had to fight to get a title shot. I just got back from San Diego, where I paid my respects to Muhammad Ali so there's all kinds of telegrams around here. I'll just have to go through them. We've had a California group talking to us, Don Fraser (of The Forum) calls us all the time, the Astrodome has been talking too."

There had been a rumor several weeks back that the Astrodome had sealed a deal for a Foreman-Frazier rematch. But that went by the boards, as did a proposed $10 million Foreman-All match when All suffered a broken jaw as he was beaten by Ken Norton last Saturday.

Sadler admitted he had talked with the Astrodome about a possible return with Frazier. "Yeah, sure we talked but everybody talks about a Frazier fight. Of all the contenders he should be the hungriest. He's the one George knocked out. He's still got the best record."

Golden Bear not ready mentally

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Mechanically, he's ready. But mentally Jack Nicklaus seems to be having trouble getting himself fired up for this week's Masters championship.

It's not that Nicklaus doesn't want to win. After all, victory here not only would make him the first five-time champion of this prestigious tournament, it also would give him his 14th "major" title, eclipsing the 43-year-old record of the late Bobby Jones.

It's just that this is all old hat for the "Golden Bear."

Nicklaus has come to the eve of the Masters as the favorite so many times before, that old zang appears to be missing.

That's why Nicklaus stayed out on the Augusta National course until nearly dark Tuesday. He knows the course like the back of his hand but he felt the need to go out there and play himself into the right frame of mind.

Time sawing and Nicklaus knows it. The 37th Masters begins Thursday and the course will be closed this afternoon for a last-minute mangle so most of the players will be able to get in only nine holes today.

The weather has been working against Nicklaus, too. He came to Augusta last week for his usual head-start practice, skipping the rich Greater Greensboro Open. But rain curtailed his practice plans.

Weather may continue to be a key to how this year's Masters turns out," said Lee Trevino, second choice for the tournament. "Right now, the greens are soft. Those of us who hit a much lower ball than Jack, who go to the greens with a three iron while he's hitting a six, are betting a break.

"Sure, Jack is the favorite. What else could you expect? After all, this is his type of golf course. But, yes, if we keep getting moisture, if the greens don't dry out, there are a lot of

Officials silent on hockey merger

MONTREAL (UPI) — National Hockey League and World Hockey Association officials kept silent today on details of a weekend meeting at which it was alleged team owners in both leagues discussed a possible NHL-WHA merger.

According to reports in Montreal and Toronto, a meeting was held in New York City Sunday on the possible merger of the rival leagues.

NHL teams reportedly represented were Montreal Canadiens, New York Rangers, Philadelphia Flyers and Pittsburgh Penguins and at least one WHA owner, Ben Hatskin of the Winnipeg Jets.

NHL President Clarence Campbell said in Montreal he "knew about" a meeting in New York, but he added "I did not have any official information on the conference."

"I consider that the conference has no status and no official authorization from the NHL," Campbell said.

Hatskin told UPI he was in New York on the weekend but he "saw" he "went" to see a hockey game, I never talked to anybody (about a merger) while I was there."

He added he had "no idea how those reports got started." Hatskin said the Jets trustees will meet in New York next Monday and "the matter may be brought up then."

In Montreal, a spokesman for the Canadiens' organization said the club would have no comment on the alleged merger talks.

In New York, a spokesman for the Rangers, said club president Bill Jennings was unavailable for comment.

Alm Engelson, executive director of the NHL Players' Association, said Tuesday, however, it was Jennings who had confirmed to him the meeting had taken place. He added Jennings was the "driving force" behind the talks.

Engelson told reporters in his downtown Toronto law office that the Players' Association would "fight" any merger proposal which might emerge.

"We have already consulted anti-trust counsel in Washington and I will be meeting them Wednesday or Thursday," Engelson said in a prepared statement.

"It is our intention to follow the example of basketball in their fight against the proposed merger of the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association."

Engelson added he was certain the merger talks were not a league move "but only something involving a group within the league." He said he knew club owners who were opposed to a WHA-NHL merger "for the same reasons I do."

Rivalry between the two leagues during the WHA's first year of operation has been bitter. The two leagues are now before the courts in a dispute over the WHA's right to hire NHL players.

The WHA managed to sign 25 per cent of the NHL's talent during their first year. The most notable signing was Bobby Hull, who moved from the Chicago Black Hawks to the Winnipeg Jets for a 10-year $2.5 million contract.

Engelson said members of the NHL Players' Association were "disturbed" by the merger talk, especially in view of recent discussions with club owners over the reserve clause.

A players-owners committee recommended players with five years in the NHL be allowed to jump to the WHA or join another NHL team.

In the latter case, however, a player could not choose the NHL team he might join but would be subject to draft by the three lowest teams in his league at the end of the season.

NCAA has no word from AAU

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) said Tuesday it has not yet received word from the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) concerning application for NCAA certification of the proposed Russian basketball team.

"It is our understanding that the AAU was unable to complete the certification form Monday in Washington and flew it to AAU headquarters in Indianapolis," an NCAA spokesman said.

The spokesman said UCLA star Bill Walton also has not contacted the NCAA, "despite a statement in the hearings yesterday that he would do so."

"It should be understood that no name has been approved and the tour itself has not been approved," the spokesman said, "but the NCAA will expedite consideration of any AAU request for certification when received."

Conquistadors' hopes hinge on two players

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — San Diego hopes to even its American Basketball Association playoff series with Utah at 1-1 tonight, but the Conquistadors' desires hinge on the play of two regulars.

K.C. Jones, head coach of the first-year expansion club, said, "Gene Moore and Larry Miller have got to be in there for more than half of the game or our chances will be slim."

Jones pressed Moore into service late in Monday's opening 107-93 loss to Utah after the 6-foot-9 center had been sidelined for a week with the flu.

Miller scored seven points in the closing minutes of the second half in the opening game, leading the Q's back from an 18-point deficit to trail only 49-44 at the half.

But he injured the ankle early in the second half and left the game for good with 13 points.

Utah Coach Ladell Andersen is pinning his hopes for a sweep in the series on the Stars' defense.

Women's clinic, meeting slated

TWIN FALLS — The first general meeting and golf clinic for the Twin Falls Women's Golf Association is set for 8 a.m. Thursday.

The clinic, taught by municipal course professional Clyde Thomson, will begin after the regular meeting. Thomsen will help beginners and any advanced player during the lessons.

The clinic is free, but for association members only. Lessons will be conducted each Thursday in April.

After the four week clinic has concluded, the women's association will have a Big Sister-Little-Sister Tournament on May 3.

POW to toss first pitch

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Air Force Capt. Edward J. Mechenbier, a prisoner of war for nearly six years, is a little embarrassed about throwing out the first ball of the 1973 major league baseball season, but will do it because "I'm just a baseball nut."

The Cincinnati Reds offered Mechenbier the chance to throw out the first ball after learning he was a big fan of the club. The Reds, who traditionally open the season, will play the San Francisco Giants at Riverfront Stadium here Thursday.

Officers for this year are Carol Pestotnik, president; Mary Roberts, vice president; Dot McLinn, treasurer, and Cathy Smith, secretary.

Other officers include, Betty Grand, Tris Averett, Lorena Marshall and Winnie Standley, board members, Nancy Zebarth, handicap chairman; Pat Williams, Magic Valley Amateur, and Leslie Sims, historian.

Generation after generation JIM BEAM

Robert Wagner and Belle Davis are dedicated professionals, honored for their acting accomplishments. They're of different generations, to be sure, but they share a like, uncompromising love for their craft. That's simply the kind of people they are.

The Beams, too, are craftsmen. And for 178 years now, son following father, they've respected their craft and excelled at it.

The result is a proud Kentucky Bourbon "Smooth" and light and mellow. Jim-Beam. For six generations; one family, one formula, one purpose. The world's finest Bourbon.

The world's finest Bourbon since 1795.

Kentucky edges Virginia in OT

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — A steal at mid-court and layup by Mike Gale triggered the Kentucky Colonels to a 113-113 overtime victory over the Virginia Squires Tuesday, giving the Colonels a 2-1 lead in their American Basketball Association playoff series.

With Kentucky leading 111-110, Gale stole the ball from Virginia's Julius Erving and scored the easy layup for a 113-110 lead with 10 seconds to play. Dan Issel had just put Kentucky on top 111-110 with 24 seconds left.

Two free throws by Virginia rookie George Gervin with two seconds to play in regulation time had knotted the score at 103-103.

Windell Ladner's 23-foot jumper with 12 seconds had given Kentucky a 103-101 lead before Gervin sent the game into overtime.

Virginia trailed by 88-78 midway through the fourth period. But led by Erving, the Squires fought back to take a 96-95 lead with 2:50 to go. The two clubs swapped baskets until the overtime period.

Rockets pin first defeat on Indiana

DENVER (UPI) — The Denver Rockets placed all five starters in double figures and outscored Indiana 24-2 early in the first quarter Tuesday night as they took a 105-94 win over the Pacers in the American Basketball Association Western Division playoffs.

The loss left Indiana with a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series. The Packers won twice at home over the weekend.

The Rockets were paced by the balance of the surprising front line which was led by center Dave Robisch with 22 points and 16 rebounds. Forward Julius Keye, who scored only six points in the first two playoff games, hit for 19 and had 21 rebounds. Byron Beck scored 16.

Ralph Sampson had 21 for the winners and Al Smith, filling in for an injured Warren Jabali scored 14 points and had seven first half assists.

Cougars cop series edge on New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mack Calvin scored 28 points to lead the Carolina Cougars to a 101-91 victory over the New York Nets Tuesday night, giving the Cougars a 2-1 lead in the best of seven semi-final games in the Eastern Division.

Billy Cunningham was held to 17 points and picked up his fourth and fifth fouls within 20 seconds of each other with 9:34 left to play in the game. At that point the clubs were tied 75-75 apiece. Both clubs played even for another 12 minutes when Cunningham came back. Cunningham scored the next three minutes seven points and Calvin picked up two more and the Cougars led 90-87 with 4:25 to play.

The Nets then failed to score for the next two minutes and 18 seconds while the Cougars ran off 18 points in a row to put the game out of reach.

JEROME — Marilyn Jeanne York and Winston Collier Stokes were married in 2 p.m. rites March 17 at the First United Presbyterian Church, Jerome.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mondford Adams, Jerome, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Stokes, McCall.

Rev. William L. Barrett performed the double ring ceremony before altar arrangements of white gladioli accented with blue and white carnations. Candelabra holding white tapers flanked the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, Mondford Adams, wore a floor-length gown of ivory satin peau de soie. It was designed with a high neckline and long puffed sleeves of ivory organza applied with ivory lace gathered to a cuff of matching ruffled lace. The bodice featured a yoke applied with ivory lace, outlined with a lace ruffle. Small ivory buttons decorated the center of the yoke, accented the ruffled lace neckline. The ivory organza overskirt was accented at the waistline and hemline with a row of ivory lace.

Her three-tiered ivory organza veil was edged with decorative stitch and applied lace band. The wedding gown and veil were designed and made by the bride's sister, Mrs. Darlene Hall.

She carried a bouquet of white gladioli centered with a white glamefia and accented with lemon leaves. She wore the traditional blue garter and borrowed earrings and a handkerchief belonging to her maternal and paternal grandmothers.

Mrs. Darlene Hall, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Kent Stokes, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Edward and Raymond Houston.

Mrs. John T. Stelle was organist for the ceremony and accompanied Terry Klimes, vocalist.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The bride's table was covered with an ivory lace tablecloth with a skirt of white lace over blue taffeta. The three-tiered white wedding cake centered the table. The cake's layers were supported by small goblets containing light blue ribbon bows. The cake was topped with a large white glamefia arranged over lemon leaves. Blue tapers were placed on each side of the cake.

Mrs. Joe Klimes made and decorated the cake.

Mrs. Robert Houston, Twin Falls, and Mrs. E. D. Saras, Shoshone, aunts of the bride, cut and served the cake. Mrs. William Chandler, Boise, poured coffee and Mrs. Shirley Telford, Hailey, served punch. Circle 1 of the United Presbyterian Women assisted with the reception.

Mrs. Arvin Reece, sister of the bride, registered guests. Patricia Saras and Janet Houston were in charge of the gift table. A floral arrangement of white pompon chrysanthemums and daisies, a gift from the bridegroom's parents, was placed in the center of the gift table.

Guests attended from Jerome, Twin Falls, Shoshone, Hailey, Boise, McCall and Seattle, Wash.

A rehearsal dinner for the bride and groom was given by the bridegroom's parents at the Holiday Inn, Twin Falls. Special guests were Mrs. Dorothy Bird and Mrs. Noma Adams, grandmothers of the bride.

The bride was honored at a miscellaneous bridal shower given by Mrs. Fred Clubb.

The bride was graduated from Jerome High School in 1967 and is presently employed at Boise State College. The bridegroom is a 1960 graduate of McCall-Donnelly High School. He is employed at BSC and is taking courses there also.

After a honeymoon trip to Jackson Hole, Wyo., the couple will reside in Boise.

Workshop set

RUPERT — Ballet Folk of Moscow dancers will become instructors at a dance workshop Saturday at the Rupert Civic Building.

The workshop, sponsored by the newly formed Magic Valley Dance Teachers Association, is open to all Magic Valley dance students. It will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Rupert Civic Building. Classes will include folk ballet, modern, and jazz.

The workshop will follow a Ballet Folk of Moscow performance at the Burley High School auditorium Friday at 8 p.m.

Officers of the association are Carol Moseley, Rupert, president; Donna Mauldin, vice president; Gail Young and Sally Smith, Paul, secretaries; and Susan Anderson, Burley, treasurer.

TF woman to attend conclave

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Norma J. Herzinger, Twin Falls, will attend the spring semiannual meeting of the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services.

The week-long meeting will be in Washington D. C. Following business sessions, committee members will visit the Marine Corps Air Station at Cherry Point, N.C., and the Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, Jacksonville, N. C.

Members of DACOWITS develop programs and activities to make military careers more attractive to women. Following briefings by Department of Defense officials, they will prepare recommendations to the Secretary of Defense on recruitment, living conditions, legislative matters and community relations.

Walkathon set

TWIN FALLS — A Herbert Morris, recruitment chairman, at 733-5872 or the construction of the YMCA-YWCA indoor heated swimming pool is planned April 28.

Junior high and high school youths from Kimberly, Hansen, Murtaugh, and Twin Falls are invited to participate for from $1 to $100 per mile sponsored by parents, local business men, and other interested persons.

An organization wishing to participate in project "Invest in Tomorrow... Build Our 'Y' Pool Today," may call Rev.

Participants will leave the "Y" building on Elizabeth Boulevard at 7 a.m. and will walk along Addison Avenue to the Hansen Bridge where they will turn to go through Hansen and Kimberly and along the sugar factory road back to City Park in Twin Falls.

Participant cards and information will be delivered or mailed.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I just returned from an anniversary party given by a charming and interesting couple who live nearby. They had canapes, dips, and drinks plus a lovely buffet supper.

As the guests arrived, they greeted the anniversary couple, filled their trays, and then the men disappeared into the den to watch a ball game on TV. They paid no attention to the women for to the host and hostess for that matter and broke away from the TV only long enough to refill their glasses.

I wonder if this is the social pattern we may expect in the future? Of course family dinners on the Big Game days like Thanksgiving and New Year's are suffering more than parties. How do you feel about it? GRANBY, CONN.

Party—TV show

DEAR GRANBY: The ideal host and hostess permit their guests to do what they want to do. If the men gravitate toward the TV, let them. But I wouldn't knock myself out preparing an elaborate dinner for them. I'd serve the TV crowd beer, pretzels, and frozen TV dinners.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder how much longer these girls will wear their hair long and straight as a horse's tail? The other afternoon we went to a friend's home for a barbecue where the daughters served the food. It was a bright sunny day and I could see HAIR shining in the food. I assure you, I didn't eat a thing. RATHER STARVE IN FLORIDA

DEAR RATHER: You should have eaten. It's what you CAN'T see that's risky.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Lonely Guy"—the 19-year-old who couldn't get a girl friend. I would like to tell this fellow what YOU told me when I wrote to you with the same problem eight years ago—when I was his age.

"Take a good, long, hard look at yourself and take inventory. Find out who you are, and get to like that person because you'll never be anybody else. If you have hangups, get professional counseling. Smile, and hold your head high. And get to know the Lord. He does wonders. Good Luck!" Abby, it's people like you, reaching out to help others who make this a better world to live in. God bless you and keep you well. NOT LONELY ANYMORE

DEAR NOT: And it's letters like yours that make my day. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old unmarried woman, living at home with my parents. They are semi-invalids and depend on me to keep house for them. I also work away from home from 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. so you know I have plenty to do.

I don't get many (really, I don't get ANY) invitations to date, but I am not lonely and I'm not complaining. My problem is that I am considered a convenient free baby sitter for the entire family.

I have three sisters and two brothers, all married with children. When they need a sitter they make it "easy" for me and bring the children to me. When the kiddies were infants, I enjoyed them, but now they are wild and hard-to-handle, and they wear me out.

Their parents no longer ask me, they call and say: "We are dropping the kids off tonight because we know you have no plans."

I've been such a good sport for so long, how can I suddenly say, "I would just like to relax and do nothing tonight!" DEAD TIRED

DEAR TIRED: You've already come up with the right combination of words, now all you need is the courage to say them. Practice in front of a mirror, and deliver them loudly and clearly at the first opportunity. It gets easier with time.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69798, L. A., Calif. 90009. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

BUIH. Word has been received of the marriage of Richard H. Frey to Dina Kin-Hoa-Ngan Flower, in Vietnam.

Frey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Frey, Buhl, is employed by Lear Siegler, Inc., DaNang.

A reception is planned for the couple upon their return to the United States in late summer.

By United Press International
Will you serve cocktails and mixed drinks at a reception after a champagne toast to the bride and groom? Figure on 13 to 17 (1 1/2 to 2-ounce) drinks per guest. If you are serving to 21 drinks from each quart, says the Women's Division of Licensed Beverage Industries, Inc. One hundred ice cubes, or an 8-10-ounce bag of commercially made ones, supplies enough cooling for 30 to 35 drinks. Put a large block of ice chills punch best.

continued the suit. This gave their opponents a chance to set up dummy's heart suit and eventually discard all their clubs.

The one average score went to the best player in the game. He thought a long time after holding that first spade and finally slapped down his ace of clubs to hold declarer to 11 tricks.

He wasn't satisfied with this average score. As he pointed out afterwards, if he had just led a low spade at trick one there would have been no way for South to keep East out of the lead and he would have scored a tie for top instead of an average.

In a fairly strong 13-table duplicate, every South player wound up in five diamonds. Six went down one for poor scores; six made an over-trick for good scores and one pair made exactly five odd.
The players who went down one lost no time calling for dummy's ace of spades at trick one. Later on East would get in with a heart and lead the queen of clubs (or two club tricks).
The other players studied a while and saw that they could keep East out of the lead by means of a loser-on-loser play. Then they would let West hold that first trick.
Six West players didn't bother to think after holding that first spade. They just

Hailey miss sets June wedding date

MISS BARTHOLOMEW engaged

HAILEY — Mr. and Mrs. Lesley Bartholomew, Hailey, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jeanne, to Michael Nelson.

Nelson is the son of Mrs. Marian Nelson and the late Raymond Nelson, Hailey.

Miss Bartholomew is a 1970 graduate of Wood River High School and was also graduated from Kinman's College, Spokane, Wash., where she majored in fashion and merchandising. She is presently employed at the Wood River Merc.

Nelson was graduated from Wood River in 1968 and attended Idaho State University. He is also employed at the Merc.

The couple plans a June wedding.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID M. DAL SOGLIO

Burley couple exchanges promises

BURLEY — Deanna Petersen became the bride of David M. DalSoglio March 16 in rites at the Sawtooth Room of the Ponderosa Inn.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Elmo Haight and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hugo E. Dal Soglio, all Burley.

Bishop Petersen officiated at the ceremony before background decorations of gladioli, chrysanthemums and baby's breath in white, pink and hot pink.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory and pale pink chiffon featuring an empire-waist line, high neckline and long full sleeves. She carried a spring bouquet of daisies, baby pink roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Kent Church served as matron of honor.

Lloyd Hamer was best man. Ushers were Pete Delis, Kent Fitzgerald, Mark Warr and Wayne David.

Bob Hamblen served as organist.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony in the Tamarack Room. The five-tiered cake was accented with pink flowers.

Reception tables were covered with hot pink cloths with candles and pink gladioli and chrysanthemums as centerpieces.

Darla Riggs and Beverly Riggs cut and served the cake. Mary Ann Hunt poured. Other assistants were Cindy and Kathy Church and Nancy Verna Mai and Vicky Davis were in charge of the gift table. Gift bearers were Don and Kyle Worthington.

After a trip to Las Vegas, Los Angeles and Mexico, the couple will reside in Logan, Utah, where the bridegroom attends Utah State University.

The bride was honored at a shower given by Mrs. Peter Snow.

Pearls traditionally are a gift from the bridegroom. When shopping for same, he ought to look for quality. The higher the quality the higher the price.

TF woman speaks at awards fete

A Lovelier You WEAR A GOOD GAME

By Mary Sue Miller

Maybe your tennis game is in top form. Maybe you've never swung a racket and are not about to. Either way, do join the club and wear a good game.

The renewed popularity of tennis has won accessory designers to the tennis theme. Collections for late spring and summer rank high, on or off the courts.

Naturally colors follow tradition — white with touches of red and blue. Stark white pull-on sweaters with V-necks outlined in red and blue are top-seeded along with "regulation" cardigans. Nothing gussied.

As predicted in this column, cotton visors are ready and waiting go-withs for spectator casuals. Some are made on elasticized ribbon bands. Others with crowns have vents of string net.

Handsome silk scarves come in tennis prints, rackets rampant. It follows that belts and totes bear insignia of the game. But are you ready for this? Gloves — yes, white cotton gloves, appliqued with tennis motifs.

Like an ace serve, costume jewelry could prove a winner. Take the silver bang of rackets and tennis balls. Or with similar themes, a gold bracelet — cuff wide. Earrings? Even hoops of chalky balls.

No matter how you play the fashion game, it's fun. This one is more than likely to take match point.

TF special

TWIN FALLS — Folk singer and song writer, John Baugh, Boise, will be lending his talents for a special gathering in the Junior shop of the Bon Marche Saturday.

The event, set from 2 to 4 p.m., invited all junior and high school students to hear and talk with Baugh.

In 1971, under the direction of Dr. Gerald Reed, Boise State College, Baugh recorded the sound tract for a nationally distributed documentary film, "Advocate of the Poor."

Best losers named

HANSEN — The division best losers were honored at meeting of Idaho TOPS No. 84 Monday night at the home of Mrs. Thomas Hansen.

Mrs. Junilla Cox was best loser and also quarterly division four loser. Mrs. Ralph Simmons was runner up in division four.

Mrs. Fred Howard read a poem honoring the quarterly loser. The best losers were given gifts and had their pictures taken.

The KOPS honored were Mrs. Bryson Vinyard and Mrs. Fred Howard, who also received gifts.

Mrs. George Urie became a KOPS in waiting at the meeting.

Mrs. Vinyard's team won in the silhouette contest last night.

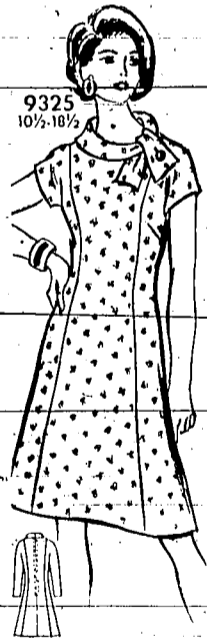

Mrs. Vinyard's team was second best loser for the week. Mrs. Clark Bennett was a guest.

Mrs. Percy Christensen, leader said rules for KOPS in Waiting and KOPS have been received and that she will read some of them at each meeting.

Mrs. Urie, penalties chairman, stated that short report on a disease related to or caused by overweight is to be given by gainers next week.

Mrs. Margaret McCoy was program chairman and hostess. She presented contest games.

LAPM, canton meet

TWIN FALLS — Colfax Canton No. 13 and Ladies Auxiliary Patriarch Militant met at the Twin Falls JOF Temple Monday evening.

Mrs. William Breeding, president, conducted the meeting. Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Fenton, Rupert, were guests. Mrs. Breeding gave the thought for the day.

It was reported that 10 members attended the Canton and Auxiliary meeting of the LAPM at Burley last week.

An invitation was read from Wood River Valley Auxiliary No. 22 to join them at a potluck dinner and meeting April 11 for Mrs. Gene Markham's visit. She is president of the department Association of Ladies Auxiliary Patriarch Militant of Idaho. An invitation from Burley April 23 when department commander Roy O'Ingle makes his official visit to Rupert No. 19 Canton was also read.

Soloists selected

TWO OF the soloists selected for the Magic Valley Chorale's presentation of the Easter section of "The Messiah" are Mrs. Richard Reed and Jack Van Buren. "The Messiah" will be presented at 2:30 p.m. April 15 at the CSI Fine Arts Auditorium. Others who would like to participate are welcome. Rehearsals are held at 8 p.m. Thursdays at Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School.

TF auxiliary convenes

Mrs. Fenton read an article observing that 153rd anniversary of Odd Fellowship.

The charter was draped for general commander Emerson Miller of Canton Ohio.

An Easter poem was read by Mrs. Dale Bowman. Mrs. Kenneth Damron gave the closing thought.

Frank Eastman gave an outline for programs for the Northwest Association when it meets in Twin Falls, this weekend.

Mrs. and Mrs. Breeding served refreshments. Tables were decorated with Easter eggs and an Easter motif.

The next meeting will be May 1 at the Twin Falls Odd Fellows Temple.

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Emma Stone announced a paid membership of 118 when the Disabled American Veterans auxiliary met Monday night at the DAV hall.

Mrs. Mae Gardowski, senior vice commander, conducted the business meeting in the absence of Mrs. Arthur Patterson, commander, who is convalescing from recent surgery. Ms. Carl Satterfield served as senior vice protem and Mrs. T. M. Knight as junior vice protem.

Mrs. Knight reported on the dinner held at the home of Mrs. Nellie Horejs at Filer. Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Patterson were honored for their birthday anniversaries.

Guests were Mrs. Ronald Armstrong and daughters.

Mrs. Arthur Patterson, Rolland Christensen and T. M. Knight and Mrs. Bill Black, Filer.

It was announced a DAV dance will be held at 8 p.m. Friday at the DAV hall. A rummage sale is planned for June 1 and 2.

The next auxiliary social is planned for 12:30 p.m. April 24 at the DAV Hall with Mrs. Addie Radakovich and Mrs. Elizabeth Havens as hostesses. Officers were nominated.

A special meeting for DAV and auxiliary members was announced for 8 p.m. April 19 when members are to bring sandwiches for refreshments.

Demonstrations were given at the last meeting by Susan Wilson on yeast breads, Karen and Julie Fouts on gun safety and Cheryl Armstrong on photography.

The group will meet April 27 at the home of Mrs. Marvin Fouts.

TF 4-Hers elect

TWIN FALLS — Newly elected officers of the Sewing 4-H club are announced.

Cheryl Armstrong is president; Karen Fouts, vice president; Linda Armstrong, secretary; Julie Fouts, treasurer; Tara Meyers, reporter; and Trena Watkins, song and recreation chairman.

Area plant opening set

RICHFIELD — Finishing touches are being put on Richfield's new million dollar cheese plant.

The owner and president of the independently owned operation, Clifford W. Ward, said a formal opening is being planned.

All new cheese processing equipment is being installed. Ward said he hopes to make the first vat of cheese by Wednesday or Thursday. Only one vat will be made so that employees can get accustomed to the new equipment before full production begins.

Starter for the cheese making process has already been made at the new site and bulk milk has been accepted. All office equipment has been moved.

The creamery is transporting all of its milk to the Ida Gem Dairyman Inc. plant in Jerome during the transition period from making cheese in the old facility on Richfield's Main Street and the start of the new operation.

The new equipment will be capable of handling 200,000 pounds of milk each day, Ward said. Cheese will be made in bulk barrels and sold to the L. D. Schreiber Cheese Co. of Logan, Utah, where it will be re-processed into process cheese. Enough block cheese will be manufactured to meet the demands of the people of the area, he said.

All milk entering the creamery will be gathered in bulk trucks from all over Magic Valley. No canned milk will be accepted at the new plant. However, there are a few patrons in the area changing over to bulk tanks and their milk will be accepted at the old plant for a few weeks until the change over can be made. Every effort has been made to help patrons change over to bulk equipment, he said.

The new plant contains over 13,000 square feet of floor space and is furnished with modern processing equipment, including lighting, oil heating system, holding tanks, work in refrigeration units and office space. There will be over 900 feet of continuous stainless steel pipe.

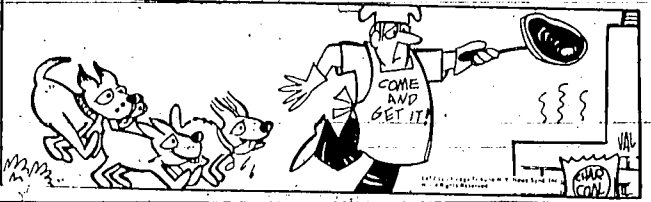

The plant employs 17 persons and 7 drivers for bulk trucks. The board of directors held its first meeting March 29 with all board members present.

They include C. W. Ward, president; J. Murray Rawson, Salt Lake City, vice president; Dave Ward, secretary; treasurer; Oral Stewart, Carey; Oscar Stimpson, Dietrich; and Karl Nelson, Twin Falls.

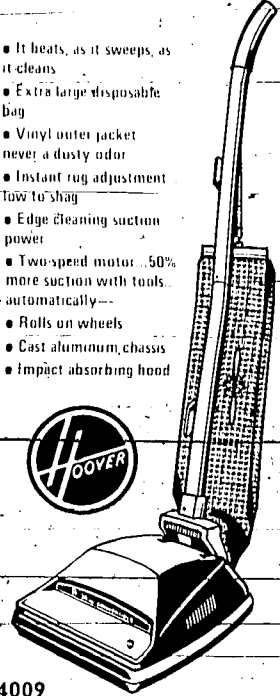

Plant manager will be Gary Ward, with Dallas, Ward, assistant plant manager. Lowell Ward is the trucking manager; and Curtis Parke, the Quality Control and Field man.

Toysom Construction Co. of Pocatello has been the general contractor. Fred Montmorency, Salt Lake City, was the chief architect.

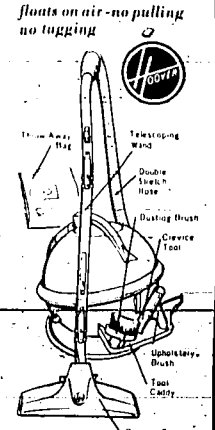

Ward said government officials, including Gov. Cecil Andrus, will be invited to participate in the opening celebration. Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, who helped the Wards obtain their loan from the Small Business Administration, is also expected to attend.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day to put in motion whatever practical plan appeals to you. Make sure you use your fine and accurate intuition to make your surroundings more attractive. Discuss with experts a new plan for more prosperity.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get together with new friends who are interesting and make plans for the future. An associate can show how you can cut expenses and make new investments that will pay off in the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A good day to make improvements where your personal life is concerned. Look to a long-time ally who can give you good ideas for your financial advancement. A neighbor could help you now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get the advice of experts and then make those big plans you have in mind. Quiet romance is best for recreation now. Make sure you are not extravagant in any way. Think along practical lines.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Friends you know and admire can now give you the advice you need to get ahead faster in life. Contact a social leader who can help you make the acquaintance of important people.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get together with bigwigs today and make your life more interesting. Show that you have fine talents. Avoid one who is jealous of you and could put a crimp in your style. Relax tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find new outlets that are profitable and fascinating. You can now gain the goodwill of high-ups. There are clever ways of adding to present knowledge—keep busy and you keep happy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 21) Handle those affairs that are very important to you. If you have some matter to discuss with mate, this is a good time for such. Don't praise one who doesn't deserve it. Attend social tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) A good day to talk over moot points with associates and come to a true understanding. Strive for more harmony with good friends. Try not to get upset over the actions of others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good day to handle those tasks ahead of you with enthusiasm and get them behind you quickly. Plan time for improving your health. Make improvements to your wardrobe. Be wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 30) Engage in the hobbies and amusements that you enjoy. Get together with congenials and try to please them. Avoid a new situation that does not look very promising to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 31 to Feb. 19) Any problems at home can be handled with wisdom and efficiency now. More harmony can exist there. Find the right items that can add to its beauty. Spend more time on your hobby.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contacting persons you like and showing your affection for them is fine. Strive for more goodwill with associates. Avoid a dangerous situation that could lead to trouble.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who can be most successful in business and cultural affairs. Direct the education along such lines. If your progeny feels things are going slowly, you can analyze the reasons why and do something constructive about them. Give as much academic training as your child desires.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

A Princeton University scholar who has made a study of population growth estimates that 22 per cent of all births in recent years have been unwanted, by at least one of the parents. He thinks such babies are responsible for about 40 per cent of this country's population expansion of late.

Consider black men who go out with white women—They outnumber the white men who go out with black women considerably. In fact, surveytakers say 64 per cent of the black men questioned say they date interracially. And 64 per cent of the white men questioned say they don't.

MATH PUZZLE

If you're not a mathematical genius, skip this one. A rope over the top of a fence has the same length on each side. Weighs one-third pound per foot. On one end hangs a monkey holding a banana, and on the other end a weight equal to the weight of the monkey. The banana weighs two ounces per inch.

The rope is as long as the age of the monkey, and the weight of the monkey in ounces is as much as the age of the monkey's mother. The combined ages of the monkey and mother are 30 years. Half the weight of the monkey, plus the weight of the banana, is a fourth as much as the weight of the weight and the weight of the rope.

The monkey's mother is half as old as the monkey will be when it is three times as old as its mother was when she was half as old as the monkey will be when it is as old as its mother will be when she is four times as old as the monkey was when it was twice as old as its mother was when she was a third as old as the monkey was when it was as old as its mother was when she was 30 times as old as the monkey was when it was a fourth as old as it is now. How long is the banana?

Got that? Yes, it's solvable.

CHANGING HAIRDOS

So you thought women changed their hairdos more than do men; did you? All right, more frequently, maybe. But the girls have not been so extreme over the generations. Historians point out that men have fluctuated from shaved heads to chest-length lovelocks, repeatedly. The ladies have always been a bit more moderate.

Look, there was just no sugar at all until the 13th Century, no coal until the 14th Century, no butter until the 15th Century, no potatoes until the 16th Century, and no coffee until the 17th Century. How did those folks get by?

What, you couldn't figure out the length of the banana in the foregoing mathematical puzzle? Nothing to it. The mother was age 6 when her baby monkey was born, which makes the banana 12 years later just 5-3/4 inches long. Or so, the old Shrug.

Elmore I80 work moves ahead

GLENN'S FERRY — Across eastern Elmore County, a white slash of grading marks the route Interstate 80 North will soon follow.

Construction crews are currently engaged in several major projects between Mountain Home and Bliss. Value of the contracts exceeds $6 million.

The major work includes grading and overpasses in the Hammett vicinity; bridges over the Snake River three miles south of King Hill; a railroad bridge over the interstate, also south of King Hill; and grading for the east and west interchanges at Bliss.

While travellers are often able to glimpse much of the work from the present interstate or existing US 30, two of the most impressive jobs are out of view of travellers.

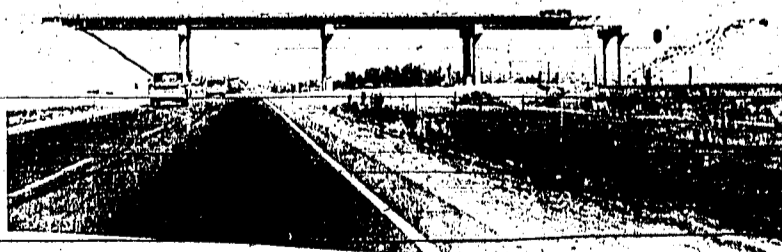

One is the Snake River bridge, for which piling is being driven more than a mile from the highway. The other is the railroad bridge, where Union Pacific tracks are rerouted over a "shoofly" while the bridge is being built over the new highway right-of-way. When the bridge is finished, the tracks will be returned to their original alignment.

Some parts of the new route may be open to travel later this year, but a second crossing of the Snake near Glenn's Ferry will be required before the entire new route is ready for travel.

When it is, travellers will no longer wind past the "claybanks" above the UP and Snake River east of Glenn's Ferry. That unique part of the route will be bypassed.

Moratorium draws study

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

MORATORIUM — The Kelchum building moratorium again drew attention at the Kelchum City Council meeting Monday night.

In response to a question from resident Emil Capik, Mayor Kenneth Hickey said a joint engineering study on the Kelchum sewage treatment plant is expected to be completed May 1.

The mayor said, "We plan to increase the size of the plant substantially," with project completion anticipated in December.

As an interim measure, prior to planned full expansion of the plant, the study to develop a plan of action to increase plant efficiency was authorized during a joint meeting of the Kelchum City Council and the Sun Valley Sewer and Water District board in February.

If the study determines more sewer hookups can be made, Hickey said the hookups will be shared on a 50-50 basis with Sun Valley.

In response to an inquiry from the council, City Attorney Robert St. Clair said "the present sewer ordinance allows erection of a single family dwelling utilizing a septic tank if sewer facilities are not available. However, he said the septic tank must be abandoned and a sewer connection be made when the facilities become available.

The dwelling and septic tank must also conform to city codes and state health requirements,

St. Clair said.

In other action the council:

- Approved in concept a plan to convert existing motel units to the Alpine Motel-lodge into condominiums.
- Owner James Clay told the council the move would result in a 9.1 per cent net reduction in equivalent sewer connections and the removal of seven large motel signs.
- Authorized the mayor to sign a replatting of the Vall Vista apartments to condominiums, subject to stipulations that the planned complex name Sun Chateau Condominiums, be changed and that the project meet parking provisions recommended by the city planning and zoning commission.

Deferred action on a request by Capik to reapply for a duplex building permit until the matter could be further researched.

Denied a variance for Dr. Frank Kopecky to protrude a garage seven feet six inches back from the front lot line in Warm Springs Village subdivision.

Deferred a bid opening on a new city dump truck until April 10 to allow time to solicit additional bids.

Approved an ordinance calling for the adoption of national fire code standards at the request of Fire Chief Bill Brand.

Hay and straw stacks burn

TWIN FALLS — Hay and straw stacks burned Monday morning on the Paul Victor farm south west of Twin Falls.

The Twin Falls Mutual Fire Department answered the call about 9 a.m. Monday, two miles west and one half mile south of South Park.

Apparently a calf was also burned in the fire.

Warmed-boots

MOSCOW (UPI) — Boots warmed by a small battery are being produced by a footwear factory in Kimry, near Moscow, for persons working in the Soviet Union's extreme north, the Tass news agency said.

It said the boots keep feet warm even at temperatures as low as minus 58 degrees Fahrenheit. Tractor drivers and excavator operators have been using the boots, which are plugged into the 12-volt power plant of their vehicle.

Burley issue debated

BURLEY — Sunday opening may be imminent following the opening of a new shopping center, the Burley Chamber of Commerce learned Monday.

Both Skaggs Drugs and the new Albertson's store have agreed to remain closed on Sunday for the first three months of operation, Alma Clark, LDS bishop, told the group. But, he said, at that point they would reassess the situation in terms of what other Burley businesses were doing.

The controversy stems around three stores currently open on Sunday — Thriftway Drugstore, 24-Flavors Ice Cream, and the V-Dell Market. If these stores remain open on Sunday, it is feared, the new shopping center will open on Sunday forcing many other Burley businesses to follow suit.

Burley has a city ordinance prohibiting the Sunday opening of stores. According to Mayor Garis Robertson, the ordinance has been used to successfully close several businesses operating on Sunday by fining them $100.

The ordinance has not been used against the three stores currently open on Sunday.

The city ordinance is in a questionable position because Idaho has a state law prohibiting requirements for Sunday closing. According to Robertson, the Burley ordinance has not yet been tested in court.

Chamber President George Forscherler commended members for their support of the regional airport authority hearing last week which, he said, "went well." The purpose, he said, was not to have any one side but to hear opinions on the possible impact of the proposed regional airport. "Mutual respect" was shown among the participants, he said.

Better than 80 per cent of those heard at the meeting were in favor of the regional airport concept and/or for proposed Site 3rd north of Interstate 80, Forscherler said.

It will be 30 to 45 days before the transcripts of the hearing are available, he said, then the board will rule on the proposed airport and site.

Scout-O-Rama planned in TF

TWIN FALLS — The annual Scout-O-Rama for the Falls District will be held at the Twin Falls High School gymnasium.

Theme of the show this year is "The Spirit of Scouting." Some 600 boys including Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts will take part. John Massey member of the Scout-O-Rama committee said the public event will feature displays, booths and demonstrations of Scouting activities and skills by the boys.

Highlight of the event will be the pageant written and directed by Mrs. Gene Sturgill depicting the founding of Scouting in England Art Franz will portray Baden-Powell, who originated Scouting as a means of keeping the peace by teaching young men outdoor skills, friendship and brotherhood.

The show will open at 8 p.m. A rehearsal is scheduled for April 7.

Other events planned include a rope bridge to be constructed and demonstrated by the scouts during the evening and other demonstrations. Tickets may be purchased from the scouts or at the door prior to the show.
