Nixon drops FBI pick

WASHINGTON (UPI)

President Nixon withdrew the nomination of J. Patrick Gray III to be permanent director of the FBI at Gray's request late Thursday, saying it was "obvious" he would not win Senate confirmation.

The step climaxed a bitter controversy over Nixon's selection of Gray as the replacement for J. Edgar Hoover that brought charges Gray had acted to "politicize" the FBI and had mishandled the agency's probe of the Watergate political espionage case.

Speculation on possible new candidates for the job included Myles J. Ambrose, a special assistant attorney general for drug law enforcement, and District of Columbia, Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., a leader of the Senate opposition to Gray, said he hoped Nixon would nominate a person with law enforcement experience and national stature who "assuredly" has had no connection with the Watergate investigation.

In a statement issued at San Clemente, Calif., Nixon said

Gray was carrying out a White House request when he handed over FBI documents on the Watergate case to White House counsel John W. Dean III.

"It is completely proper and necessary request exposed Mr. Gray to totally unfair innuendo and suspicion and thereby seriously tarnished his fine record as acting director and promising future at the bureau," Nixon said.

Senators who worked to defeat the nomination of J. Patrick Gray as permanent head of the FBI are now turning their attention to the qualifications a new nominee for the job should be able to meet.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., a leader of anti-Gray forces in the Senate Judiciary Committee, said it should be a person with law enforcement experience and national stature and "assuredly" someone who has had no connection with the Watergate investigation.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., said a new nominee should be able to meet a "key test—the test of administering this sensitive agency independently of any partisan pressures."

Sen. Edward A. Kennedy, D-Mass., said, "I feel great respect and sympathy for Pat Gray. He has taken the only appropriate step under the circumstances."

Let it be clear that the independence of the bureau was the crucial issue on the (Gray) nomination," Tunney said. "Ample evidence was presented that Mr. Gray was subservient to pressures from White House aides in his investigation of the Watergate affair."

Sen. Edward A. Kennedy, D-Mass., said, "I feel great respect and sympathy for Pat Gray. He has taken the only appropriate step under the circumstances."

Occupation ends in S.D.

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (UPI)

The American Indian Movement (AIM) agreed Thursday to end its 37-day armed occupation of Wounded Knee, but the Indians will remain armed and in control of the village until Saturday.

The agreement between AIM and the federal government was worked out soon after Medicine Man Wallace Black Elk saw an eagle soaring over the tepee where negotiations were going on and pronounced it a good omen.

Inside the tepee, government officials and Indian leaders smoked a peace pipe and signed the agreement. Less than an hour afterward, the Indians' leader, Russell Means, came to the main federal roadblock outside the besieged village and was handcuffed and flown by helicopter to jail in Rapid City, S.D.

A tom-tom thrashed and Indians chanted ritual prayers while Assistant Attorney General Kent Frizzell shared the peace pipe with AIM leaders.

They signed the agreement on a table set up on the warm, windswept bluff overlooking the historic hamlet where between 200 and 300 Sioux and Cheyenne died in 1890 in the "massacre of Wounded Knee" the last clash between the U.S. Cavalry and the Plains Indians.

Means said his followers would remain armed and in charge of the village until he goes to Washington Saturday to confer with federal officials.

Frizzell said Means was to telephone his followers in Wounded Knee Saturday morning to confirm that meetings between himself and other Indian leaders' and federal officials were under way. At that point, the Indians are to lay down their arms and give up the occupation.

Most prices steady

By United Press International The nation's 10th largest group of food stores announced it would roll back prices today, but most retail prices across the country remained steady despite the meat boycott.

In several areas, housewives called for observing at least a partial boycott when this week's protest against high prices is over. However, one protest was staged Thursday by meat lovers to counteract the boycott and another was planned for today.

Meat prices dropped slightly on 11 Midwest markets Thursday, but meat industry employees remained the hardest hit by the boycott as it entered its sixth day. Patrick Gorman, secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, said Thursday the boycott had resulted in layoffs of an estimated 20,000 union members across the country.

Charles G. Rodman, president of the Grand Union Supermarkets, the 10th largest collection of food stores in the nation with more than 500 stores, announced Thursday it would reduce prices on beef, pork, lamb and veal.

TWIN FALLS — Ed Pastoor, 87, pioneer Salmon Tract farmer, died Thursday morning at his home in Twin Falls. He was born in Spijck, Holland and came to the United States at the age of 24. He lived in Montana until 1913, when he came to the Amsterdam area, south of Twin Falls, where he homesteaded and farmed until his retirement in 1951 when he moved to Twin Falls.

He was active in community affairs, serving as a director of the Salmon River Canal Co., and on the Amsterdam Grade School Board.

Perrine Bridge work to begin

TWIN FALLS — A State Department of Highway official said Thursday the first work on the Perrine Bridge replacement north of Twin Falls could begin next month.

Howard Johnson, chief district highway engineer told a meeting in Twin Falls a preconstruction conference had been planned with representatives of Allied Structural Steel Co. for the next several days, and grading subcontractors could begin work about a month from that time.

The Indiana firm was awarded an $8.47 million contract to replace the existing bridge with a four-lane span.

Construction may take up to three years, according to department estimates.

Johnson said Allied Steel was awaiting its licensing to operate within the state, and said the conference would follow closely on the licensing.

Johnson also discussed a projected "full blown interchange" at the intersection of Blue Lakes Boulevard North and Pole Line Road near the city of Twin Falls northern limit.

He said a three-phase project is envisioned, including first the installation of a signal, followed by special turn lanes, and finally a series of ramps leading on and off of Blue Lakes.

Twin Falls City Manager Jean Milar also discussed possible beltways around the city and noted that the road system which currently serves Twin Falls City has been left mostly unchanged for over four decades.

Twin Falls County zoning administrator E. C. Woods told the meeting the county was nearly prepared to call for public hearings on a proposed new county zoning ordinance.

The meeting, he said would come in the next month.

CONNIE SCHAPMAN, Romeo, Mich., holds up the anti-meat boycott brochures she passed out to shoppers Thursday as they entered a Detroit supermarket. She and several food-farmer farmers staged the protest asking the consumer not to boycott the farmer out of business, pointing out to all shoppers they talked to that the farmer is not to blame for the high cost of food. Nelson quits TF council

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer TWIN FALLS

Nelson, now serving his first four-year term as a Twin Falls Councilman, plans to resign.

Nelson, a Twin Falls attorney, said he is moving outside of the city limits and cannot continue to serve. His four-year term will end on Jan. 1, he said.

Nelson said today he has submitted a letter of resignation to the Mayor John Christoffersen, and Council, asking the resignation be effective at 7:45 p.m. May 7.

The council and Mayor will appoint a successor to fill the remainder of Nelson's term, and Nelson said hopefully they will find someone interested in seeking reelection.

During his Council service Nelson was city fire and police commissioner, a post now held by Paul Ostyn, and has been a member of the City Parks and Recreation Commission.

He also represented the city on the board of the South Central Idaho Health District, and served on many committees.

Nelson said he regrets not being able to complete his four-year term but has purchased a home for which he has been looking for some time.

US jets blast Cambodia

PHNOM PENH (UPI) American warplanes blasted the banks of the Mekong River only 16 miles southeast of the capital today, paving the way for a voyage Saturday by a river convoy carrying crucial supplies of food, ammunition and petroleum to Phnom Penh.

One town was completely leveled and a military source reported "many" casualties based on reports from refugees flooding into Phnom Penh.

The supplies are critical since Phnom Penh's supply of gasoline is expected to run out Saturday. The capital has been under a virtual blackout as fuel for generating electricity is preserved. Communists have severed all roads leading into the capital, leaving only the Mekong River as a possible supply route.

TF High School curriculum changes

By LORAYNE SMITH Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Winds of change, blowing strongly at the Twin Falls High School, are reflected in curriculum offerings for next year.

One of the innovations in the 1973-74 course listings is an Ethnic Literature course, which attracted 55 students the first day of registration, according to Mrs. Chris Charlton, counselor.

Lack of any studies dealing with cultural achievements by blacks, Indians, Jews and other minority groups has drawn criticism in general academic circles for some years, especially from students, and the local response indicates the popularity of the move.

While there are several new courses in the academic fields, many of the changes are in the vocational field. Some changes have resulted because senior English is no longer required and some, such as the crafts classes, because the old offerings have been broken into semester classes.

This expanded program is appropriately called "Career Education," since, Mrs. Charlton says, this term has a better connotation than the word vocation which conjures pictures of demeaning work in many persons' minds.

Some of the longtime courses have been renamed, like Bachelor Living, intriguing name for home economics for boys. It is now expanded to include budget planning and other aspects of family living in addition to the inevitable sewing and cooking.

Some of the former "male only" courses have been opened for female participation and a new course in Developmental Psychology offers students opportunity to put into practice in field work concepts learned in first year psychology.

"Some people may think we've gone overboard in emphasizing vocational opportunities," the counselor said, "perhaps at the expense of the academic program. But we're strengthening our courses for the college-bound youth and also trying to help those who aren't interested in more schooling as well as those who may want college, but need courses to provide them a salable skill."

An example of the expanded "Career Education" is the Multi-Occupation Program, to be inaugurated next fall for seniors. It will augment several similar programs already in effect, such as Distributive Education and Office Occupation where students have work opportunities but primarily are limited to business and office experience.

The Multi-Occupation program, coordinated by Counselor Frank Scherer and Orval Bradley, College of Southern Idaho, vocational school director, simply expands this concept to prepare students over 16 years old to enter occupations in many fields, such as agriculture, electronics, home economics, metals and carpentry.

Mrs. Charlton said students will have opportunity to actually work with carpenters, for example, or in a nursing home or hospital in addition to their classwork.

This theory of study and on the job practical training, which has been in effect nationwide for many years, gives the student two options upon high school graduation, Mrs. Charlton said. They have a salable skill in some field so they can either go to work or, if they want to pursue their training, continue with additional vocational training.

The CSI vocational Career Skills program, worked out between Bradley, and Frank Charlton, high school principal, also is new for next year.

Watergate crime ended with Liddy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Convicted Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy hired persons mysteriously and put them "in place" in 1971 while he was still on the White House staff, according to sources close to the FBI investigation of the political espionage case.

The sources said Thursday, however, that they did not know why Liddy hired them, how he paid them or what they did.

Liddy was the immediate superior of the five men arrested in the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic National headquarters at the Watergate complex in Washington and was the principal person among the seven who pleaded or were found guilty in the trial three months ago.

"It became apparent that Liddy had hired people and had them in place while he was still at the White House and before he was hired by the Committee to Re-elect the President," the sources close to the FBI investigation said.

Other sources said there was no doubt in their minds but that "the Watergate criminal activity stopped with Liddy."

The sources gave what could be interpreted as another view of the events surrounding the Watergate controversy, saying that:

"The leaders of the bugging might have seen the operation as an opportunity to get information and emerge as 'heroes'."

Convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr., who was in charge of security for the Committee to Re-elect the President, probably committed perjury in his testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee in saying he met almost daily with former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, then the campaign manager.

"The Watergate trial testimony showed that the reelection committee wanted to get intelligence information in preparation for the 1972 presidential convention and for protection of surrogate campaigns in order to prevent recurrence of the violence surrounding the 1968 Democratic convention in Chicago.

"The campaign of Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern hired 'its own G. Gordon Liddy' to check on the Nixon campaign, 'often digging for very personal information.' McCord today was to go again before a grand jury for questioning, cloaked with the court's promise of immunity from prosecution for anything he tells them about Watergate or other acts of political espionage.

Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered the immunity for McCord Thursday — as he has for the other six Watergate conspirators — after he cited his Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination to initial questions.

Before going before the grand jury, McCord expressed willingness to make his story public even before he goes on the witness stand at public hearings the Senate committee investigating the Watergate hopes to begin later this month.

Clinic held

TWIN FALLS — More than 325 residents were examined at the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Wednesday when the Intermountain Regional Medical Program from Salt Lake City, Utah, in cooperation with area physicians and dentists, presented a cancer screening clinic.

The examinations, which were restricted to the head, neck and mouth, were conducted for the dual purpose of allowing physicians and dentists to use the techniques demonstrated in an earlier evening refresher course and to check a sampling of local residents for cancer.

The program is a single but important aspect of the IRMP's many educational and service projects designed to enhance the availability of high quality medical care throughout the Intermountain West.

Among those assisting in the clinic were members of the advisory committee consisting of Mrs. Lucille Jacobsen, R.N.; Wayne Crete, M.D.; Mark Grefenson, M.D.; Mrs. Geneva Rapp, R.N.; Mrs. James Rosenbaum, hospital administrator; James E. Schell, M.D.; Arline Egbert, hospital administrative assistant; Jack Smith, D.D.S.; Mary Goe, hospital public information; Douglas Smith, M.D.; and Harry F. Brumbaugh, M.D.

Woman injured

TWIN FALLS — Louise Miller, 57, Twin Falls, was listed in good condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital today following an accident early Thursday.

State police reported Mrs. Miller was traveling west onto Interstate 80 north of Twin Falls when she skidded on a substance which had been spilled and frozen on the highway. Her automobile left the westbound ramp, skidded across the road and overturned. She was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital by ambulance.

Announce clinic

TWIN FALLS — A free vision and hearing clinic for pre-school children will be conducted at the YMCA-YWCA Building Monday through Friday.

The clinic is sponsored by the Junior Club, Delta Gamma Alumnae Association, and the Welcome Wagon Club. It will remain open during the noon hours to assist working mothers, according to Mrs. Rick Allen, Junior Club chairman.

This week the clubs awarded cash prizes to grade school students entering a poster contest advertising the clinic. Winners were Roger Cook, Lincoln School, first $15; Mike Hayes, Morningstar, second, $10; LuAnn Jensen, Harrison, third, $5.

Honorable mention prizes of $1 were awarded to Maria Salinas, and Bonnie Wood, both Bickel School; Mike Prazier and Steven Marlatt, both Harrison, and Julia Yost, Washington.

Aid to the blind is the national project for the Delta Gamma Alumnae Association, and trained volunteers from the local group, as well as Junior Club members will be conducting amblyopia tests. Mrs. Margaret Regan, Utah representative for the National Association for Prevention of Blindness, will instruct and assist workers during training sessions.

Amblyopia, or lazy eye, is a condition which must be diagnosed as early as possible in the child's life. Some 3-year-olds are mature enough to understand the testing procedure, but workers say that children ages 4 to 6 years should definitely be tested and urge mothers of children in that age bracket to take advantage of this free facility.

Mrs. Dale Leslie, chairman of the hearing program, said the testing for hearing problems is limited to the 4 to 6-year-old age group.

Members of the Welcome Wagon Club will screen the hearing abilities of pre-school children. An audiometer, which club members have been trained to operate, will be used in the hearing tests. It has been donated by Mateo Hearing Aid Center.

All volunteer workers have been fully trained and of hearing or sight difficulties are detected, parents will be advised to take the child to a physician or specialist.

Workers recommend children be checked every year, even though they may have been checked previously, because sight or hearing defects may have developed since the last meeting. Appointments are not necessary, and it is hoped that parents will bring their children and utilize both screening programs at the same time. Mrs. Gary Fay is co-chairman for Junior Club, with Mrs. Leon Smith, Mrs. Barney Carlson, Mrs. Bill Fullmer, Mrs. Tom Pestotnik, Mrs. Jules Harrison, Mrs. Lowell Harsh, and Mrs. Fred Harder, committee members.

Mrs. Robert Goss and Mrs. Ed Benoit are chairmen for Delta Gamma Alumnae Association. Mrs. Leslie is chairman for the Welcome Wagon Club.

POSTER CONTEST WINNERS announcing a free vision and hearing clinic for preschool children are, from left, Mike Hayes, second place; LuAnn Jensen, third, and Roger Cook, first. The clinic, sponsored by the Junior Club, Delta Gamma Alumnae Association, and the Welcome Wagon Club will be conducted April 9-13 at the YMCA-YWCA building.

TWIN FALLS — Between 200 and 250 delegates from Idaho, Washington, Oregon and British Columbia will be attending the Northwest Odd Fellows' Association seminar here today through Sunday.

Registration began at noon today in the Odd Fellows' Temple. Meetings will be conducted Saturday and Sunday in the American Legion Hall. This will probably be one of the last public meetings to be held in the hall prior to remodeling for health district use.

Bill Boyd, IOOF official, said business meetings begin at 8 p.m. this evening in the Legion Hall and resume at 9 a.m. Saturday through 3 p.m. A dinner is planned in the IOOF Temple Saturday at 6 p.m. featuring an address by Dr. James Taylor, president, College of Southern Idaho.

Devotional services Sunday in the American Legion Hall will open the final day's activities. Election and installation of officers Sunday afternoon will close the meeting.

Car travel tip

It includes information on voter qualifications—and registration information for all elections within the county. According to Phyllis Wagner, chairman of the committee that produced the directory, the directory was revised after the close of the recent legislative session.

Mrs. Wagner said a directory is being planned for Jerome County and will be released in early summer.

The directories are free and available at the Chamber of Commerce office, the library, city hall, and the county clerk's office. They will be distributed at the high school and at CSI.

They are available in Buhl, Piler and the Kimberly-Hansen area at city clerks' offices.

Kissinger Staff Given Putdown

WASHINGTON — The morale of Dr. Henry A. Kissinger's talented NSC staffers...

(the SALT agreement, the China policy, Vietnamization, the Berlin agreements, among others) are treated shabbily...

at the Kennedy Center and are denied invitations to state dinners at the White House.

Helmut Sonnenfeldt, who has been Kissinger's invaluable lieutenant in the SALT negotiations...

Kissinger's expert on North Vietnam, William Skarman, has been denied promotion by the State Department...

Sports Mania

In case anyone has missed it, the major league baseball season began Thursday in Cincinnati.

Unfortunately, it might be tough to find out about the baseball season for the first month or so.

That is because the American Basketball Association, National Basketball Association, National Hockey League, World Hockey Association and Western Hockey League are ending up their regular seasons...

Not to be outdone, the owners of the National Football League have just met and decided about the sites for the Super Bowl for 1975 and 1976.

It is also Masters Time in Augusta, Georgia, and the golf professionals, who begin their season chasing the white ball in California in January...

There is a professional track league now, and even if a sprinter claimed the other day he was offered a bribe to lose a race...

Tennis has gone blue and red and yellow and the professionals who had to say they were amateurs a few years ago can now admit what everyone has known all along.

Sombody named Ken Norton broke Muhammed Ali's jaw in a fight a few days ago, and it looks like the career of conceivably the best heavyweight boxer ever is over the hill...

Not to be outdone, a motorcyclist named Eysel Kniovel is going to strap himself to a jet engine wrapped in aluminum next July 4 and fly across the Snake River Canyon.

He hopes to land safely on the north side of the river, while his jet engine motorcycle will continue on a little further, possibly into Lincoln County.

The cost of that could go as high as a quarter of a million dollars. What better way to spend a Saturday afternoon?

The irony is directly traceable to Haldeman. It is no secret that Haldeman resents everything about Kissinger — his continuous and highly favorable publicity...

But while Kissinger is performing from Haldeman's vengeance, his aides are not, even with Kissinger's active intervention.

In a city where appearance tells so much, Kissinger's men are members of a special White House underclass.

Unlike domestic aides under Haldeman's control, the NSC staffers are denied regular White House transportation, are denied use of the White House mess, are denied parking privileges, are denied entry into the White House box Contrast that with the treatment of one of Kissinger's important senior staffers, Viron P. Vaky. For 18 months the State Department refused to give Vaky, a career Foreign Service officer, the ambassadorial appointment he was due.

Haldeman refused to lift a finger. Finally, Kissinger persuaded Mr. Nixon himself to order the State Department to give Vaky an embassy. It was Costa Rica — scarcely a plum.

At that, Vaky fared better than another brilliant Foreign Service officer, Soviet expert

In the second Nixon administration, the White House domestic staff has produced three under secretaries, six assistant secretaries, six members of presidential commissions and over 20 deputy assistant secretaries.

At that, Vaky fared better than another brilliant Foreign Service officer, Soviet expert

Fred Rendon, Kissinger's top staffer for Africa and the UN, is being exiled by the State Department bureaucracy to the political section in Lima, Peru.

John D. Negroponce, who overworked himself into a hospital as Kissinger's globe-trotting top deputy for Vietnam, is earmarked for similar obscurity in Quito, Ecuador.

Another Vietnam expert, Richard W. Smyser, was barred from any suitable job at all at State after two fruitful years with Kissinger. He is now a fellow at the Woodrow Wilson Center.

The only Kissinger staffer appointed to a high post in the State or Defense Departments is Marshall Wright, acting assistant secretary of State for congressional relations.

Otherwise, NSC has meant routine oblivion for the brilliant men who helped so much to produce SALT, Vietnamization and the China triumph. In Richard Nixon's and Bob Haldeman's Washington, success can be a mixed blessing.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Sign-Of-Trouble

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I heard a doctor ask a patient about her stools, if dark or flat. I know that black indicates cancer; but what does flatness indicate? — M. S.

First — let's modify your statement. Black stools very often indicate bleeding high in the digestive tract. Although cancer may cause the bleeding, there are also other things that do — ulcers for one, bleeding from diverticulosis for another.

It is quite true that such a symptom always deserves investigation, but that doesn't mean that it is cancer.

To answer your question, flat stool implies pressure on the lower bowel, particularly in the lowest segment.

Here again there are various possibilities, such as large hemorrhoids, enlarged prostate in the male, tumors of the genital tract in women. Again, it deserves investigation.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We freeze lots of green beans and like them so much better if they are quick frozen and NOT blanched. A friend tells me there are absolutely no vitamins in the beans if they are not blanched before freezing. — Mrs. R. C.

Your friend, I'm afraid, is pretty mixed up. The only change in vitamin content would be the loss of some vitamin C from blanching — vitamin C is sensitive to heat.

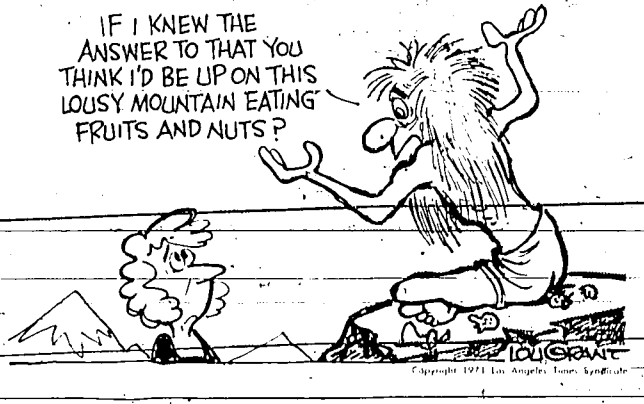

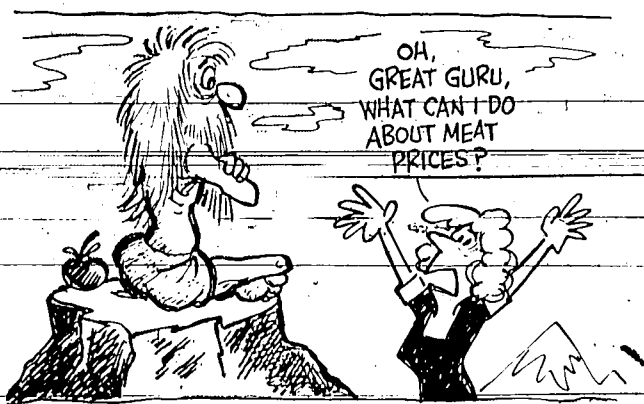

Why your friend would think that NOT blanching would destroy vitamins is beyond me. However, dietitians, camera and other such sources tell me that vegetables should be blanched before freezing because it destroys enzymes that otherwise could cause deterioration of the food.

Most fruits don't require blanching, but the quicker they are frozen, the better.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have tried so many diets it isn't even funny any more. I am 5 feet 4 inches and weigh 210 pounds. I get so disgusted with myself. I just can't seem to stop eating.

I presume you are referring to the dye test (a cholecystogram) where dye is swallowed in tablet form so that, when and if it enters the gall bladder, it will be visible to X-ray.

A test is, after all, just that, and often a second one is required either to confirm findings from the first one or to correct the concentration of the dye used.

ANDREW TULLY

High School Vo-Ed

Most comments on that recent report by a Department of Health, Education and Welfare task force — "Work in America" — have centered on its examination of the alleged gripes of blue- and white-collar workers.

Another section of the report, however, both attacks the current federal emphasis on career education and "debunks high school vocational education in general," points out The Compass, the journal of the Association of Independent Colleges and Schools.

Vocational education, which may cost up to 75 per cent more than other high school curricula, has very little use, argues the task force.

Only a small proportion of beginning jobs for high school graduates requires the specific training and skills offered by vocational education, and vocational graduates, more often than not, take jobs for which they were not trained.

Also, neither their unemployment records nor their pay are better than most other high school graduates.

If work skills are learned best on the job or in post-secondary programs, what role is left for occupational training in high schools? asks The Compass.

For one thing, suggests the HEW task force, secondary schools can prepare young people for the transition from dependency to self-support and dispel some of the current "unreal expectations" about work.

Watergate Hurts

ART BUCHWALD

That Crime Rate

WASHINGTON — The good news in Washington last week was that crime had dropped in the capital by 50 per cent.

There is some question about the figures released because certain crimes committed in Washington were not included in the statistics. Had they been, the optimism about the decline might be considered premature.

Here are some of the crimes NOT reported in Washington in 1972: Housebreaking at the Watergate Hotel was up 100 per cent.

Illegal bugging of politicians increased 73 per cent. While officials explained the upsurge in this crime was due to a presidential election year, law-and-order advocates feel the rate of illegal bugging will continue because of the permissiveness of bleeding-heart Justice Department lawyers.

Acts of perjury in front of grand juries, Senate committees and in civil cases reached an all-time high, surpassing even the record made during the four years of the Harding Administration.

Attempts to intimidate witnesses and obstruct justice were up 23 per cent. Destruction of subpoenaed documents and paper shredding of crucial evidence increased 33 per cent.

The rape of Public Television continued unabated and blackmail of TV station owners broke all previous records.

Administration assaults on the networks were up 43 per cent over 1971. Crimes of passion against newspaper correspondents hit new record highs and the mugging of news sources tripled under the Nixon Administration.

Armed robbery of the American taxpayer by the military-industrial complex showed a 34 per cent rise over 1971 — a previous record year for this type of crime. Because very few of the military-industrial complex holdups are reported, law-enforcement experts do not see any chance that this type of crime will go down. (When one government employee reported that Lockheed was robbing the public blind, he was immediately fired.)

Although more police have been added in Washington, pollution violators have been getting away with murder. It is now estimated that there are 14,901 unsolved pollution crimes on the books, with an average of 75 being committed every day. While street crime was down, crimes associated with executive privilege were up by 13 per cent.

Political fund-raising frauds also broke all records, but there have been no prosecutions by the government because of a shortage of watchdogs.

Illegal arrests of demonstrators were down, thanks to the end of the Vietnamese war, but unconstitutional surveillance of American citizens continued to rise.

Bribery in the form of campaign contributions doubled during 1972 and the smuggling of cash contributions for improper purposes across state lines increased by 74 per cent.

Aggravated assaults on Congress by the President were up 54 per cent and premeditated vetoes of legislation broke all records.

While President Nixon has expressed concern with the increases in all types of crime, he still considers criticism of his Administration the No. 1 crime problem in the country today.

It has become so serious that he is studying the possibility of bringing back capital punishment.

WASHINGTON — Among other more serious implications, the Watergate bugging scandal has made the White House look silly and that can be more dangerous politically than all the Democratic bellowing about subverting the political process.

After all, the name of the organization involved was the Committee to Reelect the President — and the only President at the time was Richard Nixon.

Maybe Nixon knew nothing about plans to burglarize Democratic National Committee headquarters, but I cannot swallow the White House explanation that one day a few fellows got together and decided to do Nixon a big favor by busing into the enemy's camp in the dead of night.

In fact the job required considerable financing, like all political chores these days, and the burglars got the dough from a special Republican fund earmarked for a kind of Department-of-Dirty-Tricks.

Both former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's chief of staff, allegedly had access to this fund, and if this is true that's getting as close as possible to the President.

By seeming to obstruct due process with denials that anyone present or former White House aides were privy to the break-in, Nixon has put himself in the pickle that Caesar warned Pompeii to avoid.

Whether or not Nixon is innocent — and it's hard to believe even that he had advance knowledge of the stupid stunt — he has left the impression with many people that some trusted aides were in it up to their ears.

Trusted aides? Obviously the President trusted them by accepting their word that no White House people were involved in the sordid adventure. Unfortunately, history is filled with instances of Presidential aides who lied to the boss or told him only a dollop of the truth.

Like ancient monarchs, Presidents do not kindly receive bad or messy news.

At any rate, at this writing, the President has done everything possible to encourage the suspicion that a skeleton is concealed in a White House closet.

Even the trial of the burglars was staged in a conspiratorial atmosphere calculated to nourish the suspicions of a St. Francis of Assisi.

The defendants were prosecuted by a Nixon Justice Department which seemed to be giving every aid and comfort to the Republican-subsidized defense counsel.

Indeed, Judge John J. Sirica, in effect called the trial a whitewash. Sirica is a lifelong Republican and an Eisenhower appointee, but he was constrained to proclaim angrily that both prosecution and defense were determined to avoid any effort to get at the truth.

And now, of course, we have one of the convicted defendants, James W. McCord, singing to a Senate Select committee. The committee's staff chief, Samuel Dash, has refused to name names, but he claims McCord fingered "some" administration officials.

McCord also reportedly has sung about political pressure exerted to persuade the defendants to plead guilty, about perjury during the trial, and about the failure of certain witnesses to identify others involved in the break-in.

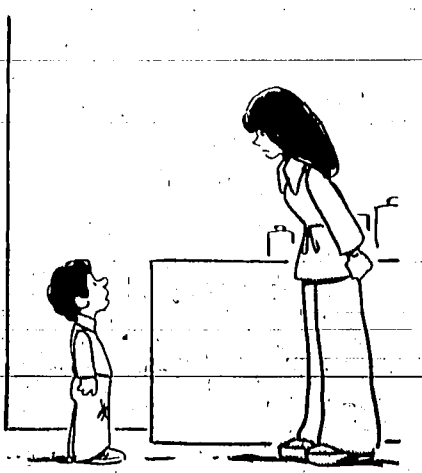

In a letter to Sirica, McCord said, "I cannot feel confidence in talking with an FBI agent, in testifying before a grand jury whose U.S. attorneys work for the Department of Justice..."

Conceivably, McCord suffers from the occupational disease of stool pigeons — falsely accusing others to get himself a break. But he cannot be so indicted until his testimony and "documentary material" have been exhaustively examined.

Meanwhile, it is not too late for Richard Nixon to give the Watergate case the same high statesmanship he displayed in winding up the Vietnam war and in his overtures to Communist China and the Soviet Union.

If the White House is clean, the best way to prove it is to come clean.

Purple dye use may cause cancer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The purple dye used for years to stamp grades on meat and to color everything from ice cream to pet foods has been banned by the government because new studies indicate it may cause cancer.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) Thursday revoked its approval for "Violet No. 1," the technical name of the dye which has been permitted for use in the United States for the last 22 years.

It's use by the Agriculture Department to stamp meat as "choice," "prime," "U.S. No. 1" and so on may go back even further, although no exact figures were available.

The ban is effective April 10. But the FDA said it would not recall products now on the market containing the dye or any made between now and then which are so colored.

The Agriculture Department said it would, by April 11, be using other approved colors—reds, yellows, greens and various blends—to stamp its inspection and grading marks on meat as it passes through the slaughterhouse.

The agency said its own studies over the years, including one by a panel of pathologists nominated by the National Academy of Sciences in 1972, had concluded the dye was safe.

More recently, however, the agency has been informed of unpublished data from two Japanese studies in which rats were fed Violet No. 1 at a level of 5 per cent of their diet," the FDA said.

Although the data is preliminary, it added, "it nonetheless suggests the material fed may be carcinogenic (cancer causing)."

One of the studies used dye comparable to that certified for use in the United States while the other used dye not quite the same, the FDA said.

Nixon urges Congress to approve oil pipeline

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon, countering pressure from environmental groups, is urging Congress to approve the Alaska pipeline at once to meet an energy shortage and half a $2.9-billion-a-year payments drain to foreign oil suppliers.

Nixon met for 45 minutes Thursday with Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton to discuss strategy for reviving the $3 billion project to bring oil from the rich North Slope fields of Alaska, which was blocked by a court decision.

Nixon, who plans to wind up a 10-day stay at the Western White House Sunday, will take a break tonight to attend the baseball opening game between the California Angels and the Kansas City Royals.

The President shifted his allegiance to the Angels, whose ballpark is the closest to San Clemente, after the Washington Senators left the capital for Texas.

Morton said North Slope oil, which would flow at a rate of 2 million barrels a day if the pipeline was in full operation, would help to slow the steadily increase in the price of gasoline, heating oil and other petroleum products.

"I don't see any way the price of oil can go but up," Morton said. "The question is how fast it will go."

Morton said North Slope oil will replace petroleum which is now being imported. He said at $4 a barrel, the 2 million barrels-a-day pipeline could reduce import purchases by $2.9 billion annually.

Nixon has asked Congress to give the Interior Department legal authority to permit construction of the pipeline.

Since the price of oil appears headed higher than $4 a barrel, the drain on the balance of trade probably will go higher.

The proposed pipeline would stretch from the North Slope fields to the ice-free port of Valdez where the oil would be loaded into tankers for shipment to the West Coast. Environmental groups contend that the pipe would damage the fragile arctic ecology and shipment by tankers would increase the danger of oil spills at sea.

Vote bars N. Viet aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An 88 to 3 Senate vote has reinforced doubts that Congress will approve President Nixon's controversial plan for reconstruction of North Vietnam.

Only one senator, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., rose in support of the proposal in Thursday's four-hour debate. And even Mansfield said he would not be willing to consider it while the United States is still involved in Indochina.

The vote came on an amendment by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., to bar any aid to North Vietnam unless Congress explicitly authorizes it.

The practical effect would be to prevent the administration from sidestepping Congress by transferring foreign aid funds to North Vietnam from other recipients, or using surpluses from other congressional appropriations to start up the reconstruction project.

But it is doubtful the amendment will become law. It was attached to a bill to ratify President Nixon's devaluation of the dollar, and the House probably will declare the amendment non-germane.

But Byrd and other backers of the amendment said their major purpose was to "send a message" to the White House to prevent U.S. negotiators from trading the aid program for concessions by North Vietnam in the current cease-fire battle.

President Nixon has described the proposal as an investment for peace," but Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said it could be only one of two things: ransom or reparations, and "neither fits within my concept of peace with honor."

"The taxpayers must think we're out of our minds," Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said.

"For us to give aid to a Communist dictatorship, with which we have been at war, doesn't make any sense at all."

Canned mushrooms recalled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thousands of cans of mushrooms distributed to military commissaries across the country are being recalled after the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) found that samples contained deadly botulism toxin.

It was the third recall of canned mushrooms this year involving botulism.

The recall order covers at least 800 cases with possibly 19,000 cans. The eight-ounce cans are unlabeled but are stamped with the number 2K07, with the letter "C" crescent shaped.

No illnesses were reported. FDA said it found botulism toxin in cans sampled at the commissary in Ft. Gordon, Ga. The agency said it was unable to estimate immediately how many military installations got the mushrooms. It said many may have been purchased by consumers.

The mushrooms were canned by Fran Mushroom Co., Ravena, N.Y., which is conducting the recall. FDA said the plant has agreed to stop shipments until FDA inspectors determine the cause.

Coast Guard calls units for floods

By United Press International
The Coast Guard, helping to battle the 7 million acre floodwaters of the Mississippi River, called its reserves to duty for the first time in peacetime Thursday and threatened to jail tugboat pilots endangering battered levees.

Coast Guard reservists were put to work helping evacuate families from their homes in Illinois and Missouri ahead of rising water that already has made 5,000 families homeless. At least 19 persons have died in the $150-million rampage of the nation's longest river.

A crest of 40.5 feet was expected at St. Louis today, the highest level the Mississippi has reached there since 1844. The river has begun filling north of St. Louis, but it has yet to reach full stage on the lower Mississippi where some levees on the Delta already are straining.

Workers began dumping 200 tons of shells and concrete chunks Thursday along an 800-foot stretch of weakened levee bordering the French Quarter in New Orleans. The river, at its highest level in 23 years in New Orleans, began lapping around makeshift shanties beyond the levees.

Col. Richard T. Hunt, district officer of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, said the city was in no immediate danger despite the "real erosion problem" on the waterfront.

The 83-man football squad from Southern Illinois University joined volunteers filling sandbags at Kaskaskia Island. National Guardsmen helped with sandbagging in other areas of Illinois and Missouri.

Barge traffic largely has been banned on the upper Mississippi and its tributaries, but some traffic still was moving. The Coast Guard warned tugboat pilots they face a $1,000 fine and one-year's imprisonment for creating excessive wakes that could exert dangerous pressure on battered levees.

Mississippi's adjutant general, Maj. Gen. E. A. Turnage, said a 24-hour National Guard operations center would be established at Jackson to handle flood emergencies.

Around Vicksburg, where the river was expected to crest at about 50 feet early next week, residents used farm machinery, bulldozers and sandbags to erect temporary levees around their homes.

Competes

HELEN EVANS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Evans, Twin Falls, was scheduled to compete in the Miss Colorado Universe contest in Denver today. Miss Evans, a 1972 graduate of Twin Falls High School, was chosen from the Modeling Troupe of Park School of Business, Denver, Colo., where she is a fashion merchandising student.

Airlift to stop

MIAMI (UPI) — The airlift that brought more than 260,000 Cubans to the United States since 1965 comes to an end today with the arrival of the final two flights from Varadero, Cuba.

The airlift flights paid for by the U.S. government have been sporadic ever since the Cuban government announced in August, 1971, that it was running out of applicants to leave the island.

The list of applicants was closed in May of 1969, a few months after the airlift began on Dec. 1, 1965.

8,500 attend meet

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Mormon faithful, attending the afternoon session of the 143rd General Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, today unanimously sustained the General Authorities of the 3.1 million member church.

With a show of hands, the 8,500 church members attending the session in the historic Mormon Tabernacle gave their united support to President Harold B. Lee, his three counselors, and other members of the church leadership.

Lee conducted both opening meetings today in the three-day conference. He was also the opening speaker in the morning session, sent live throughout the world for the first time in the history of the church founded 143 years ago.

For the first time, the LDS General Conference is being broadcast television throughout the United States and Canada, and relayed by satellite to Latin America and Australia.

The meeting is also being transmitted by 50 radio stations in the U.S. and Canada, and relayed by cable to 30 LDS meeting places in Central Europe.

Lee said, "When the revelations of the Lord are clearly understood, there is set forth the only basis of a united and universal church. It could not be accomplished as set forth by a man-made formula; it would only be accomplished when the fullness of the principles of the gospel of Jesus Christ are taught and practiced... as they are in the Mormon church."

"If we were to answer those who asked us why the steady growth, we would answer that the first fundamental reason would be that we have held our cause in teaching the fundamental doctrines of the church."

He said another reason is that "perhaps as never before have there been so many people of the world searching for answers to the many perplexing problems."

Lee said the church's efforts to bring fallen away members back into the fold, and the faithful's support of the church leadership, also contributed to church expansion.

Following Lee's address, four other members of the church's General Authorities — spoke at the morning session, and five addressed the afternoon gathering.

J. Tom Perry, assistant to the Council of the Twelve, admonished the membership to follow the teachings of the LDS Church and Jesus Christ in their daily lives.

Reds step up shelling on Hue

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops launched an artillery barrage in the Mekong Delta and stepped up their shelling of the Hue defense line, military officials said today, in the heaviest and most widespread fighting since the Vietnam truce.

Reports of the attacks came exactly one week after the last U.S. troops withdrew from South Vietnam. One military source said the Communist activity was designed to find a weak spot in South Vietnamese defenses and prepare for a major offensive.

Military sources said a Communist artillery and mortar barrage Thursday and early today killed a South Vietnamese regimental commander and five of his officers at Kien Hung, 120 miles southwest of Saigon in the Mekong Delta.

The Saigon command said 400 mortar shells Thursday hit 140 government infantry positions in a semicircle northwest, west and southwest of Hue, the former imperial capital 400 miles north of Saigon. The command said one infantryman was killed and eight were wounded.

Fighting throughout the country for the past three days has been the heaviest since the Vietnam cease-fire began Jan. 29. Much of the battling has occurred at Tong Le Chan, a government ranger camp 50 miles north of Saigon.

Ireland revokes death sentence

BELFAST (UPI) — The British secretary of state for Northern Ireland, William Whitelaw, today commuted the death sentence of a Protestant convicted of murdering a policeman.

Both Protestants and the Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army (IRA) had vowed to retaliate if Protestant Albert Browne were executed. The death sentence is mandatory in Northern Ireland for killing a policeman, but may be commuted.

Whitelaw commuted Browne's sentence to life imprisonment. He said two other separate sentences, one of 25 years for the attempted murder of another policeman and another of seven years for carrying illegal firearms would stand.

Browne, 29, was convicted in February of murdering policeman Gordon Harron, 32, last October.

By United Press International
Today is Friday, April 6, the 96th day of 1973 with 269 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening star is Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Aries.

American magician Harry Houdini was born April 6, 1874.

On this day in history:

In 1830, Joseph Smith organized the Church of the Latter Day Saints, more familiarly known as the Mormon Church, in Fayette, N.Y.

In 1900, Robert Perry became the first civilized man to reach the North Pole.

In 1957, trolley cars became a memory in New York City as the few remaining ones completed their last runs.

A thought for the day: The Greek poet Hesiod said, "A bad neighbor is as great a misfortune as a good one is a great blessing."

In a speech prepared for the conference's morning session, Lee criticized ecumenism and dwelt on the growth of his own church throughout the world.

"There are those who speak of an ecumenical movement, where theologically different churches would be brought together into a universal organization. In essence it would contemplate that they would give up their basic principles and be united in a nebulous organization which would not necessarily be founded on the principles as have traditionally been the doctrines of the Church of Jesus Christ (of Latter-day Saints) from the beginning."

Dislike results from reflection

by LINDA L. WITTE
New York City

As I was about to leave from Kennedy Airport in New York City on a flight to Honolulu, I was hit with a severe blow. I found that I would be working with Sally Foster.

I remembered Sally from one of our stewardesses training classes. She had sat next to me and had something bad to say about every girl in the room, like, "I look at the way she's dressed," or "What a reputation she's got."

I had run into her occasionally after that and heard her blather about her job, the hours, the people aboard, the weather, anything.

On this flight, I warned the other stewardesses to stay clear of Sally. "If you don't," I said, "she'll really depress you."

When I learned that Sally would be working first class and I would be in the back cabin, I felt a great relief. When we landed though, Sally's complaints immediately became clearly audible.

The captain had brought his family along for a vacation and when we arrived in Hawaii, there wasn't enough room in our limousine to take the whole crew, the captain and his wife and kids to our hotel.

"You mean we've got to ride the stupid bus?" Sally fairly shouted.

That night I lay on my hotel bed, something began to bother me. Although the other girls hadn't enjoyed Sally's presence, they hadn't been as annoyed by her as I was. It really troubled me. I couldn't figure out how I could dislike someone so much.

Where was God's love which I know He had given me to share? My cautioning words to the other girls about Sally before the New York takeoff began to haunt me.

The following day we flew to St. Louis, and the worst possible thing happened. The hotel arrangements had me rooming with Sally for the night.

I didn't know what to do. When I got to our room early that evening, I asked God to show me why I couldn't stand Sally.

The first thing I could think of was to invite Sally to dinner. She surprised me by accepting.

In the restaurant I took a small table in the corner where we could talk quietly. We sat down and remained silent for several minutes. I fidgeted with my napkin.

"Sally," I said hesitantly, "something has been bothering me for a long time and I've got to try and settle it."

"What is it?" she asked.

"Sally, I don't know how to say this, but I find myself disliking you." She dropped her eyes to the tablecloth and didn't say anything. "It's not that I want to dislike you," I continued, "and I hate myself for it. But, frankly, it's your attitude. You criticize, you belittle and you're always so pessimistic."

Sally toyed with her salad, her eyes on the table. "I know," she sighed.

"You know?" I asked, bewildered.

"I've always been like that and can't help it. People have hinted that to me before, but you're the first to come right out with it." She sat back and was still for a moment.

"And it's funny," she said at last, "but I think I know why you don't like me."

"Why?" I asked puzzled.

"Because you see yourself in me."

I was stunned. I looked at her and my jaw dropped. In Sally I suddenly recognized many of my own weak traits that I thought I had mastered and shoved into the background. I had once been a chronic complainer.

In college I was very down on life and fretted over all sorts of petty things. I didn't know where I was going nor what I wanted out of life.

And then, four years ago, when I began working as a stewardess in New York City, I discovered a kinship with a group of Christian young adults.

It was at that time that I committed my life to Christ and was, as I am, no longer a crybaby, but a Christian. But in that St. Louis restaurant, I saw the old me still getting out.

"Well, isn't that right?"

"Yes," I said, stumbling for words, realizing that by not using God's love I had been criticizing my own shadow. To my surprise I began to feel a surge of love for Sally.

"You're right, Sally," I said, taking her hand. "And I know we can change."

"How?" she said. "I've been to a psychiatrist and he hasn't helped me. I have no friends. I'm at a dead-end street."

I said a quick intercessory prayer — God, please let me help her. Then I explained to Sally that I loved her and that God loved her and that He could help her change. We didn't talk much during the rest of dinner, but I felt a tranquility around the table.

I haven't seen Sally since that night, but recently I bumped into a stewardess, who had just flown with her. "She asked about you, Linda," the girl said.

Suddenly I realized how much I wanted to see Sally again — to tell her how much she had helped me — she showed me how easy it is to judge other people instead of accepting them and loving them.

Filer women raise $100 for Easter Seal

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer

FILER — Enthusiasm is contagious and this was well demonstrated when a group of less than 20 young women raised over $100 for the Easter Seal Drive.

The Clover Young Mothers Counseling Service recently held a cooked foods and crafts sale in Buhl with proceeds to go to the Easter Seal project.

A check for $100 was presented to Merle Stoddard, Twin Falls, at the group's Friday afternoon meeting in the Clover School.

Mrs. Stoddard, Easter Seal Center therapist, said that raising that large a sum from a single fund-raising attempt was a tremendous achievement.

Mrs. Dave Kramer, president, also presented Mrs. Stoddard with a number of good used toys which the group had collected for the center.

Mrs. Stoddard read excerpts from her new book "For the More Perfect Baby, Prevention of Learning Difficulties."

The Clover Young Mothers Counseling Service was formed over a year ago to encourage young mothers to make Christ the center of their homes and family living.

The unit is the second one formed in the area as the Filer Young Mothers Counseling Service was the first to be organized. Membership is open to any concerned and interested mothers in the area.

Mrs. Gary Askew and Mrs. Mike O'Dell, Twin Falls, guests at the meeting, said they are planning to form a similar organization in the Twin Falls area.

A number of members from the Filer Young Mothers Counseling Service were guests.

Mrs. Jake Prudek, Castleford, was introduced as the new Senior Mother. Mrs. R. Johnston served in the capacity last year. The senior mother advises and counsels the group.

The Clover group meets twice a month with one meeting devoted to topic study and one to hear speakers from the community. It has members from Hollister, Castleford, Clover and Buhl.

Baby-sitting service at the afternoon meetings is provided by older women in the congregation who volunteer to entertain small children while their mothers are at the meetings.

At several evening social events the group has held, teenage girls of the community have served as baby-sitters.

LDS messages

SHOSHONE — The month of April will feature continued spiritual and cultural-homemaking studies at the LDS relief societies in the valley.

The visiting teacher's message deals with the Biblical topic "Charity Hopeth All Things; Charity Endureth All Things," explaining that hardship and suffering make up a normal part of a person's life.

"Charity does not mean submission to wrong or to error, it means the strength for the right and for the truth."

The Spiritual Living lesson, dealing with The Laws of Morality, also emphasizes the thirteenth Article of Faith in the church. "We believe in being honest, true, chaste, benevolent, virtuous, and in doing good to all men; indeed, we may say that we follow the admonition of Paul."

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My name is Albert and I am a compulsive overeater. Three years ago I weighed 305 pounds. I was in debt to the tune of $8,000, my marriage was on the rocks, and I was about to lose my job. Overeating was the cause of all my problems, but I didn't know it then.

I had tried reducing clubs three times, diet doctors, quick doctors, shots, pills, and even hypnosis. One diet doctor put me on pills and shots and I lost 100 pounds in seven months. In less than six months I had put it all back on again. (It cost me $1,500.)

Then someone told me about Overeaters Anonymous and I went to a meeting. There were signs all over the place saying, "WE CARE."

Overeater finds friends

Abby, I have never met a more loving, caring bunch of people in my life I couldn't believe it. The only requirement to join "O.A." is a desire to stop eating compulsively. There are no dues, and nobody is weighed in, or humiliated. You don't even have to attend meetings if you don't want to. I can only tell you that after that first meeting I felt that God had sent me there.

Today, I weigh 180 pounds, am debt free, have money in the bank, and my marriage is more secure than ever. I've even returned to my church where I was ashamed to go for years because I felt so unworthy.

Overeaters Anonymous is strictly that. No last names are used, but I will sign mine and you may check me out. That organization has done so much for me I want to let others know about it so they can be born again. Because that's what happened to me. ALBERT IN LOS ANGELES

DEAR ALBERT: Not only did I check you out, I personally spoke with several members of "O. A." and every word you wrote is true. Anyone interested in learning more about this wonderful organization (there are chapters all over the U. S.) may write to: Overeaters Anonymous, P.O. Box 2613, Hollywood, Calif., 90028.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has made it plain that he prefers the television set to me. Several of my women friends have the same complaint. What could be the reason for this? IGNORED

DEAR IGNORED: Maybe it's because he can turn off the television when he wants to.

DEAR ABBY: We have been married for 26 years. My wife works by choice, not because she has to.

Every morning she gets up at 5 a. m. Her office hours do not begin until 8 a. m. and we live only 20 minutes from her office, so you see there is no need for her to get up at that hour.

Here is the clincher: She bathes, dresses, and sits in the kitchen playing solitaire from 6:40 until it's time to leave for the office.

It's been the same every morning with the exception of Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays. Am I married to some kind of nut? OHIO

DEAR OHIO: What's nutty about your wife's routine if she isn't able to sleep beyond 5 a. m.? If she doesn't disturb you, why complain?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PUZZLED IN HOPE, ARKANSAS:" You are under no obligation to send the price of a gift instead of a gift. People who ask for CASH instead of wedding gifts are presumptuous. (Suggestion: Why don't you and six other people get together and send Amy Vanderbilt's new book on etiquette? I can think of no gift more appropriate.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69706, L. A., Calif. 90066. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

A rubber bridge player would have no problems at all with his four-spade contract. He would win the diamond in dummy, take a successful spade finesse, go back to dummy with a club, finesse spades a second time, shrug his shoulders after West showed out and eventually wind up making his contract right on the nose.

This would be fine at rubber bridge but it wouldn't be much of a score at match points. South should make an overtrick.

How does he do it? Simple. He works out a way to make all his trumps.

After the second finesse succeeds he leads a heart toward dummy. East can do no better than take his ace and return a heart. South wins in dummy, cashes the last high diamond, ruffs a diamond, enters dummy with the other high club, ruffs a third club and leads his last heart.

East wins but it doesn't matter which opponent is in. Everyone is down to two cards and East never gets his trump trick.

Was there any risk in this line of play? None at all. If East ruffed the second diamond or club he would merely be getting the one trump he would get if declarer had not tried for the overtrick.

Toys donated to hospital

TWIN FALLS — Small children in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital who are on the recuperating list should have plenty of toys to keep them entertained.

Members of the Young Mothers Council of Filer have just completed a project on behalf of these small children.

Toys and games representing a value of $242 have been presented the hospital by members of the council.

Mrs. Virgil Anderson, president of the council, said most of the toys were donated by generous Twin Falls merchants at the request of the mothers group.

Since small children cannot take their own toys to the hospital with them because of possible spread of germs, children find the hospital room lonely without parents or toys.

"We feel having such a variety of toys and games will help a great deal in relieving a child's fears and in taking their minds away from discomforts while they are hospitalized," Mrs. Anderson said.

The club has adopted the project of providing a toy collection for the hospital. This is the first year of the project, Mrs. Anderson said.

James Rosenbaum, hospital administrator, said the young mothers and the merchants of Twin Falls are most appreciated by the hospital.

"Since we do need so many new toys, we have never been able to keep our supply at an adequate level. We are convinced the toys and games are important influences in calming and reassuring the child who is sick or injured and apprehensive," Rosenbaum said.

King's Lynwood store and the downtown King's store, Osco Drug, Clos Book Store, Magic Valley Christian Supply, Greenawalt's Furniture, Penney's, Farm and City Distributing Inc., Kregel's, Western Auto Associate Store, Yost's, Hallmark Card and Party Shop, Pedersen's Inc., Tempo Department Store, Magic Valley Drug, Sav-Mor Drug store, Gibson's Discount Center, Penny Wise Drug and Sears all contributed toys.

The Town and Country Club, Filer, donated money to purchase toys and a cooked food sale by the mother club raised the rest of the money. In charge of the project this year were Mrs. Anderson; Mrs. Russell Terrell Mrs. Roy Wright, Mrs. Gary Lyda and Mrs. Earl Shields, all Filer.

Cotton promotion facing loss of federal subsidy

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A controversial government-subsidized cotton promotion program, whose top officials draw $100,000 a year, may be facing eventual loss of its $10 million annual federal subsidy.

A strong hint that the administration may not support renewal of the subsidy, which is currently authorized to run through June 30, 1974, came in testimony furnished this week to a House appropriations subcommittee.

RAYBORN, RAYBORN & BARCHAS
By R. E. RAYBORN
Attorneys for Ila E. Murphy

testimony first delivered in a public session several weeks ago, said there are many cases of farm groups using their own money for sales promotion. He added, however:

"There is a growing body of thought that questions the propriety of using public funds for promotional purposes for any products in the domestic market... consequently, the continued use of taxpayers' dollars... to promote cotton in the domestic market is seriously questioned."

Campbell would not comment on whether the Agriculture Department might hold up the $10 million scheduled to be granted to the program for the year beginning July 1, 1973 — the final year of the current authorization. But his statements appeared to indicate at least that the administration was not likely to endorse re-authorization of the subsidy for later years.

Agriculture Department officials currently are preparing to review a formal budget proposal covering funds for the year beginning this July. The money cannot be paid unless Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz approves the proposal submitted by Cotton, Inc., a producer-backed group which operates the promotion system.

The cotton program was launched in 1967 with the use of grower funds collected through a $1-a-bale checkoff program. But beginning in this fiscal year which started July 1, 1971, producer funds of about $10 million annually were supplemented by a $10 million-a-year grant from the agriculture department under a 1970 farm law.

Campbell, in his testimony to the House subcommittee headed by Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., disclosed the administration is far from satisfied with the way Cotton, Inc. has been spending its combined farmer-federal funds, and with the results it has been getting.

Cotton, Inc.'s mission is to boost U.S. use of cotton. But after spending more than $50 million in grower and government funds, cotton usage in this country is down by 400,000 bales annually, Campbell said. He said the promotion needs an impartial evaluation which the promoter group has not yet accepted. However, the General Accounting Office (GAO) is currently conducting a review of the program.

Campbell testified also that salaries, overhead and other administrative costs — which a critical congressman recently criticized as lavish — are "high."

The salary of the president of Cotton, Inc., (J. Dukens Wothers) is $100,000 per annum and six other officials have salaries in the $35,000 to $44,000 range. Fringe benefits do not contribute are estimated at nearly $700,000," Campbell said. He added the Agriculture Department will "continue to urge" that the promotion program's administrative and overhead costs be held to a "reasonable" level.

Cotton industry defenders of the program have already asked Congress to continue federal subsidies beyond the coming year, and have said it will take time for its promotional efforts to show results. But critics, including Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., insist Cotton, Inc. has already received more money than Congress intended it to get.

Grain sales boost beef

PARIS (UPI) — Massive U.S. and Canadian wheat sales to the Soviet Union last year played an important role in the steep rise in U.S. beef prices, Western farming experts said today.

The sales, including shipments promised to the Soviets following President Nixon's 1972 Moscow visit, reduced domestic supplies and thrust the cost of maintaining livestock sharply upwards, the sources said.

"The sales to Russia have been a major factor," one expert said, adding that world beef prices were not headed for any short- or medium-range decrease.

A severe winter in 1971-72 led the Soviets to negotiate the purchase of 185 million tons of Canadian wheat in early 1972 and another $750 million worth of U.S. wheat and grain over a three-year period.

The statements came a week before the April 11-12 meeting of world agriculture ministers of the 23-nation Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), representing the United States, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz may bring up the problem of domestic U.S. meat prices.

The sources said a discussion at the farm summit of U.S. meat prices could be "useful."

"Changes of prices are interconnected among nations and an exchange of experiences could be very useful," the sources said but added that the Child molest denied

GOODING — Charges of molestation last year of a seven year old female student at the State School for the Deaf and Blind at Gooding were denied today by a school official.

Paul Bird, assistant superintendent of the institution said, "This couldn't have happened in the first place." He said he had not received a copy of the charges. He said the school's first rule is to know where each student is 24 hours a day, and that the accusations were evidently based on interpretations of drawings which the girl allegedly made.

Wayne Gash, Troy, father of the girl, Lisa, who has a severe hearing loss, charged in a letter to the State Board of Education Thursday that his daughter had been sexually molested last year by a school staff member.

Bird says he is aware of the identity of the person accused, but cannot speak for him as he is no longer employed at the school, having taken a "better job" outside of the state.

He said he had not contacted the accused employe. He refused to release the name of the employe.

Details of the molestation were reported by Gash to the State attorney general's office last week, although the incident allegedly occurred more than a year ago.

The accusations, Bird said, were apparently based on some drawings of stick figures executed by the girl, and the drawings.

Because of her handicap, Bird said, the girl couldn't have made such an accusation, not having the language ability to explain "being molested."

He had not seen the drawings, he said. The building where the girl had attended school, Bird said, is also the dormitory building and students are attended by either teachers or a housemother at all times.

Lisa's parents had several months ago asked the board to find a way to educate her near her home. At that time a fact finding committee from the board had investigated the White Pines School District in Troy to see what might be done about education for the handicapped. The committee reported to the board that the school district and state were doing what was possible to educate Lisa near Troy.

Radio, TV class

PARTICIPATING in the radio and television class at the College of Southern Idaho Vocational school as part of new Twin Falls High School curriculum changes are Nancy Garsy, back, and Brenda Phinney, both seniors.

TFHS to offer courses for career education

existing program, the CSI Vocational Exploration and Experimentation Course. It was inaugurated this current school year with 15 different eight-week courses offered to give students a chance to explore occupational areas they might want to pursue upon graduation.

Twin Falls High School participates in this course, along with several other Magic Valley schools. Studies include auto body, refrigeration, radio and TV repair, health and business occupations and welding.

The new program, for Twin Falls students only, will offer a more complete training course in a given field, such as mechanics or welders' helper, and health services and consumer appliance.

Mrs. Charlton said 400 hours of training will be necessary to complete the full-year course with class hours planned from 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. each school day. This program will prepare students for advanced placement in the CSI vocational courses.

Another new elective next year will be home electricity, a semester course open to both boys and girls. It deals with basic electricity, home appliances, house wiring and electrical safety.

Metal craft and Wood Repair and Finishing are also new in the program available to both boys and girls for the first time. This rescheduling, suggested by George Walton, crafts teacher, also reflects the newer concept of making more areas of study available to girls, as well as the popularity of one semester courses.

All crafts courses have been revised into the semester format, which allows students double the choice of classes. They include pottery, jewelry, leather, printmaking and textiles and sculpture. All these are popular, Mrs. Charlton said, and were filled by the end of the first day's registration.

She emphasized these curriculum changes result from planning and thought on the part of teachers in all departments, not just the counselors and administration. Among the department heads Mrs. Charlton mentioned for their work on the curriculum were Mrs. Gem Howard, English, and Bill Jacobsen, vocational department.

Another semester course being started next fall is intermediate math, designed as a bridge between Algebra I and Plane Geometry, for those who have the ability, but not the background for geometry.

Seniors, who no longer have to take English, now can choose from seven semester electives if they wish. New courses next year, in addition to the new ones, include Composition Skills, Advanced Composition and Reading Plays.

Even though some adults might not believe it, Mrs. Charlton says the grammar and vocabulary semester course, inaugurated this year, is popular.

Of the four newly added English courses, Composition Skills and Reading Plays are "banned" toward the non-college student, the counselor said. Advanced composition is for the academic bound.

Seniors also have a choice of Creative Writing, Diversified Reading, English Literature, Twentieth Century, World War I literature and World War II literature, semester courses.

Another indication, however slight, of the high school staff's efforts to keep the curriculum in tune with modern living is apparent in the re-grouping of physical education, recreation skills, outdoor living and physiology of exercise (these sound modern to parents) all under the appealing title of Lifetime Sports.

With more than 100 subjects on next year's curriculum from which to choose, the only complaint Twin Falls students should have is how they can schedule all the courses they want to take.

It's almost enough to make some adults wish they were back in school.

Star state farmer claims farmer prices too low

By MIKE ROBERTSON Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Future Farmers State Farmer for Idaho thinks farmers have set back too long and haven't done enough to raise farm prices. Morris Yates, Rigby, who was named star state farmer Thursday at the state FFA convention at the College of Southern Idaho, said farmers must get together and let the consumer know what the real situation is with farm and consumer prices.

Yates said the average housewife doesn't know how little the farmer gets when she spends her food dollar. He also said farmers have sat back and lived with the low prices paid them too long. Farmers should band together and demand fair prices, he said.

Yates said he thinks the FFA and vocational agricultural training is helping him to learn leadership and especially to learn the value of co-ops. He hopes to go on for an education in dairy science.

He said the leadership he has learned will help in bargaining for higher prices.

Rio Hiral, Jerome, represented the west Magic Valley in the star state farmer contest and Danny West, Declo, represented east Magic Valley.

Hiral said what he has learned in FFA is relevant to farming today and the future as they learn up-to-date procedures and new materials for the farming business.

West said FFA has given him more responsibility and the competition in FFA has given him a sense of what to do and to try to do it better in life.

Eighteen Magic Valley FFA members received the State Future Farmers of America Association's State Farmer Degree, the highest awarded. It is conferred on only two percent of the total membership each year in recognition of outstanding achievement in supervised farming programs, leadership and scholarship during their years in FFA.

receiving the degree were Tom Bennett, John Mavencamp, Hagerman; Bill Conrad, Bill Palacio, Mike Schnitzer, all Gooding; Rio Hiral, Jerome; Krea Mechem, Carey; Darryl Stiegmeyer, Buhl, and Kenny Inchausti, Castletford.

Members from the east Magic Valley area getting the degree were Gary Beaver, Pat Harrison and Chris Morrison, all West Minico; Joel W. Herrman and Jim Tattersal, both Valley; Steve Grimm, Buhl; Wayne Schenk, East Minico, and Danny West, Declo; Michael Alfred, Raft River.

The convention ends today at CSI.

Bellevue funds park

BELLEVUE — The Bellevue City Council has voted to release $16,000 in federal matching funds for construction of the new city park. The unanimous vote came during a Council meeting Thursday night after council members cited possible financial difficulties in raising the city's share of the funds for maintaining the park after it was completed.

Instead of the original park design proposed by resident Dixie Ivie, the council moved to initially lay asphalt pads for basketball at the park.

Mayor James Pigg said the park plan was proposed about two years ago by Mrs. Ivie and subsequently the federal grant had been approved through the Idaho State Parks and Recreation Department.

Over a three year construction period the city would have been required to raise $10,000 in funds and $10,000 in donated labor, Pigg said.

"It would be an asset to Bellevue to have a park of this nature," Pigg said. But he said that the full many projects and priorities existed for city funds.

To date no residents had approached him volunteering labor for the park, he said. Last year he said the city spent $50 for one mowing of weeds and grass at the park site.

Alderman John Pascoe said "I don't think anyway we can put out $20,000 for the park."

Park maintenance would require almost a full time city employe.

The original design had included a rock garden, cement sidewalks, basketball courts, barbecue pits and landscaping.

MV ski resorts report plenty of good snow

TWIN FALLS — Ski resort operators are eyeing the end of the season as crowds continue to dwindle, but all report there is still plenty of good spring skiing for the weekend.

Sun Valley closes Sunday but will continue to operate several lifts for late season skiing at a reduced rate next week. That resort reports 40 inches of snow at the top of Baldy and 47 at the roundhouse, and 10 inches on the Valley floor. No new snow is reported this week. Weather is clear with day time temperatures 35 to 45 degrees. Pomerelle reports seven inches of new snow from storms last weekend, with depths ranging from 56 inches at the lodge to 12 foot drifts at the top of ski slopes. The area may reduce operation to three days per week during the coming week and plans to close April 29. Roads to the area are clear and barring additional storms, snow tires are not required.

Magic Mountain received two inches of new snow since Monday on a packed base of 61 inches at the lodge and 68 inches at the top of the slopes. The road is clear and snow tires are not required unless new snow falls. The area is operating Saturday and Sunday with bus service both mornings at 8 a.m. from Newton's in Twin Falls. Plans are to operate through April 15, depending on crowds and temperatures.

Fairfield reports no new snow but ski runs are covered with 30 inches of snow at the top and the lodge has 10 inches of snow. The area plans to operate through April 15 and is now running Wednesday through Sunday but continued week day operations are in question. Buses run Saturday morning only from Newton's in Twin Falls, leaving at 7:30 a.m. The road is dry and weather clear.

Snowmobiling is listed as fair in the Hitley area, good in the Fairfield area in the mornings and extremely good in the South Hills.

Blaine tour set Saturday

HAILEY — The public is invited to attend an open house and tours of the new Blaine County jail complex to be conducted Saturday, beginning at 2 p.m.

Speed chase

RUPERT — State Patrolmen Bob Conner found himself face to face with a rifle Wednesday night following a high speed chase on Interstate 80.

Conner said he was running radar near the Declo interchange Wednesday evening. Clocking a car at about 85 m.p.h., Conner said, he began a pursuit which soon hit speeds up to about 105 m.p.h.

He said he forced the car to the side of the road. Conner said when he approached the vehicle the driver "pulled out a rifle." After he was subdued, Conner said, the driver was taken to Hurley where he was charged with driving while intoxicated and assault with a deadly weapon.

Vernell Spackman, 32, Smithfield, Utah, the accused driver of the vehicle, was placed in the Cassia County jail with bond set at $5,000. Spackman was arraigned Thursday and will report to Fifth District Court April 19 to decide on a preliminary hearing.

Bellevue seeks opinion

BELLEVUE — Bellevue city officials will consult state Atty. Gen. Anthony Park on the contested annual city election. The election, conducted Monday, has been challenged on the grounds that under the city charter non-property taxpayers were not allowed to vote. Bellevue holds the last charter remaining in effect in Idaho.

During a meeting Thursday night, the council voted to send a delegation to Boise with a copy of the charter to obtain Park's opinion on the matter. Under the motion—from Alderman Duke Martin, if Park rules that a new election be held, this ruling be complied with by the city.

However, Martin said he wanted to go on record as saying, "I don't like it one bit."

Mayor James Pigg said an appointment with Park will be set up as soon as possible and a special council meeting will be called immediately after the delegation's return.

The challenged election stemmed from a protest by Mike Johnson, brother of Pat Johnson who had won the mayor's race based on unofficial returns. Mike Johnson reiterated an earlier statement Thursday night that he was happy with the election results, but said "I am I'm concerned with all human rights."

He said he would withdraw his contest if the city would take steps within the next year to allow both property taxpayers and non-property taxpayers to vote in the city elections.

Blaine County Pros. Atty. Stephen W. Boller, who had notified Pigg that a new election should be held, was present at the meeting.

According to a letter Boller dated April 4, and sent to the city, Boller stated that he believed "the denial of the city of Bellevue of the right to vote in the city election by bona fide residents of the city, by the requirement that they execute an elector's oath which indicates that they are qualified taxpayers of the city of Bellevue is denial of their constitutional rights granted those citizens under the Idaho constitution and the United States Constitution."

In Boller's letter, he referred to a letter from Park, dated March 30, 1972, on the property tax qualification, which Boller said "the attorney general found was probably invalid due to recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions."

During the meeting, Boller said the property tax requirement has "essentially deprived some citizens in Bellevue of their election franchise or right to vote."

between candidates in Monday's election, that he felt a new election "would not change the vote in any manner."

Pigg asked Boller whether, to save costs of a new election, the results of the first election could be accepted with a stipulation that the city will request a change in the charter before the next state legislative session, prior to any other general election.

Boller said the question would have to be researched. However, he said the election outcome was not contested, but that "some people were entitled to vote and were denied the right to vote."

City Clerk Anna Faye O'Donnell said the attorney general's statement last year was not conveyed verbally to the council, was not contained in any letter to the council nor was it in any council minutes.

One woman said, "if they want to vote let them get some property."

Mike Johnson said he felt the charter did not expressly state that a resident had to own property in order to vote. He

Aaron fires 68 to lead Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Big Jack is right on track. Jack Nicklaus, bidding to become the first man ever to win five Masters tournaments and 14 major golf championships at the same time, stood only one stroke off the pace going into today's second round.

And, as any golfer will tell you, a one-stroke lead over Jack Nicklaus when he has his game under control doesn't amount to a hill of beans.

Tommy Aaron, the Georgian who received a large measure of notoriety here five years ago when he penciled Roberto de Vicenzo out of a Masters' title, grabbed the first round lead Thursday with a four-under-par 68.

The 36-year-old Aaron has held the early lead in many a tournament during his 13 years as a touring pro, including the 1970 Masters when he also had a first-round 68.

But Aaron, has hung on to that lead through 72 holes in only one U.S. tournament, the 1970 Alliant Classic.

Nicklaus was four strokes behind Aaron through nine holes Thursday. Aaron went that distance in 4-under-par 32, one stroke off the record here he shares with Art Wall, while Nicklaus was having trouble getting close enough to the pin to make any birdie putts.

But Jack found the range on the back nine and if he hadn't slipped out a couple of long eagle putts, he'd be leading now.

Considering wind conditions and my not being sure what clubs were coming out of my bag, I thought I had a good round," Nicklaus said. "It's been fairly tight all week, but I'm better now. Once an event gets underway, I'm usually all right."

Aaron was delighted to find himself in the lead, admitting he didn't expect to play that well, especially since he was off the tour more than a month because his wife was in the hospital.

"I've been playing poorly most of the year," said Aaron. "I played poorly here in practice and I wasn't optimistic about starting today, particularly with the wind gusting the way it was." But, he needed only one-footer for two of his birdies and sink 15 footers for the others.

Ozaki, who missed the cut in his first Masters appearance last year with rounds of 74-80, put his first drive Thursday into a trash basket, but he made few other bad shots the rest of the day.

The 6-foot-1, 190-pound Ozaki, a former baseball player who picked up the nickname "Jumbo" in Japan where, as he explained through an interpreter, "I'm bigger than average," warned that he shouldn't be judged on last year's performance here.

"I was nervous then," he said. "This year I can play better."

Texas So. coach raps NCAA bias

HOUSTON (UPI) — Rod Paige, the head football coach at Texas Southern, said Thursday the NCAA was controlled by an elite group of universities and apparently no one was paying any attention to recruiting violations.

Paige, former assistant at Indiana and Cincinnati, said recruiting this year was more difficult than it ever had been for him. He said TSU held its own, but he found recruiting violations everywhere.

"I didn't find too many persons willing to listen to the NCAA maximum of books, tuition, fees and $15 a month," Paige said. "The boys realized they are in a position to bargain."

"If it gets to where the boys go to the places with the most money, we're going to have to find the towel or join the world," Paige said. "And we don't want to get in that game."

Paige criticized the NCAA for abolishing the 1.6 rule. "This means an athlete does not have to be a typical student now," Paige said. "He doesn't have to predict that he can pass so many courses. I've seen players recruited by major schools who are not going to be able to hack it."

Paige, who also is athletic director, said he would ask officials of the Southwestern Athletic Conference next month at their spring meeting to consider dropping out of the NCAA.

"I think it is an organization that represents major schools," Paige said. "I think we have a second class membership and that's not a racial statement. You just have to look at the television."

He said only one small college football game, Grambling-Morgan State, was ever televised nationally.

Nicklaus and surprising Japanese youngster Masahiro "Jumbo" Ozaki both had 69s.

The 21-year-old Ozaki, who had been expected to play a bit easier than usual Thursday, but gusty winds kept all but seven in the 82-man field from breaking par.

The other first-round par-busters were Bob Dickson and J.C. Snead, Sam Snead's nephew, with 70s and Grier Jones and Phil Rodgers with 71s.

The biggest disappointment was Arnold Palmer, only a shadow of the golfer great who won four Masters championships a decade and more ago, who turned in a 5-over-par 77 — his highest opening round in 19 Masters.

Palmer, explaining, "there was nothing good about my game," observed sadly. "I don't like to play this way any more than people like to see me playing it."

Chi Chi Rodriguez, winner this past Monday at Greensboro, was one of seven golfers who shot even par golf Thursday. The others were Cesar Sando, Dave Stockton, Mison Rudolph, Dave Graham, Steve Melnyk and Hubert Green.

Former Masters champion George Archer was in a group at 73 that included leading amateur Ben Crenshaw.

"This year's top two money winners, Lee Trevino and Australian Bruce Crampton had opening round 74s as did Sam Snead who will be 61 next week," said Palmer.

Billy Casper and Gay Brewer were at 75.

Receivers head ISU alumni team

The greatest pass catching duo in the history of the Big Sky Conference will be reunited Saturday night, in the annual Idaho State University Alumni game in the Mindome.

Ed "The Flea" Hell, now of the New York Jets, and Carlis Harris, who befuddled opposition for years while playing for Idaho State, will test the Idaho State varsity pass defense that was rated on top of the Big Sky Conference in 1972.

Bell was an All-American after catching 95 passes in 1969, while Harris earned a reputation as the shiftest runner around while catching passes and running back punts and kickoffs.

Harris may run out of the backfield some Saturday, which would put a lot of pressure on ISU's inexperienced line and linebackers.

There have been several late additions to the Alumni roster. Coach John McCarthy of Highland High School, who was the ISU pass-catching record holder until Bell came on the scene, will play tight end, as will Jim Hackley, a coach at Pocatello High School.

At a wide receiver will be 1972's leading varsity pass receiver Tom Fischer, who grabbed 26. At a defensive end will be Milt Pickford, who played linebacker on the 1965-66 elevens.

The defensive backfield will be bulwarked by the addition of one old and one new man.

Larry Thomas, graduated in 1969, and Bill Hardy in 1958 but they have one thing in common, toughness.

The alumni linebacking corps looks very strong with the addition of Larry Rodriguez, Ray Millward, coach at Aberdeen HS, and Dave Munz, coach at Marsh Valley H.S.

All Idaho State alumni and friends of the university are invited to an alumni party in the Banrock Motor Inn Empire Room immediately following ISU's annual alumni football game Saturday.

The greatest pass catching duo in the history of the Big Sky Conference will be reunited Saturday night, in the annual Idaho State University Alumni game in the Mindome.

Ed "The Flea" Hell, now of the New York Jets, and Carlis Harris, who befuddled opposition for years while playing for Idaho State, will test the Idaho State varsity pass defense that was rated on top of the Big Sky Conference in 1972.

Bell was an All-American after catching 95 passes in 1969, while Harris earned a reputation as the shiftest runner around while catching passes and running back punts and kickoffs.

Cougars top Nets 113-93

UNIONDALE, L.I. (UPI) — Billy Cunningham and Joe Caldwell teamed up for 15 points in the fourth period to give the Carolina Cougars a 112-108 victory over the New York Nets in an ABA Eastern Division "semi-final" playoff game Thursday night.

The victory gives the Cougars a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

The Nets, who led at the end of the first period 31-25, suddenly went cold in the second period as the Cougars outscored them 37-14 to take a 62-45 halftime lead.

The Cougars quickly built their lead to 24 points at the beginning of the third period on seven straight points before the Nets got hot. Leading the charge was George Carter who scored 17 points and brought the Nets back with a 37-point third period. The Nets finished the third period behind by eight, 90-82.

In the fourth period the Nets out led to 97-95 with six minutes to play then, Mack Calvin hit a jump shot, giving the Cougars a 99-95 lead. On the next play, George Carter fouled out and the Nets were never to recover from the lack of scoring power.

"It was at this time that the Cougars' two veteran forwards took the game in hand. Cunningham had three points to Caldwell's eight and the closest the Nets came after Carter fouled out was 106-103.

Cunningham led Carolina with 29, Caldwell had 22. Billy Paulz scored 24 points for the Nets.

Nelson gets honor for bird studies

BOISE (UPI) — Morlan Nelson, a world renowned authority on birds of prey, Wednesday was presented the Interior Department's conservation service award.

The award was presented by state director of the Bureau of Land Management William Mathews.

The award presentation marked the first time such an Interior Department award has gone to a present or former Agriculture Department employee.

The award was accompanied by a letter from Rogers C. B. Morton, secretary of interior, complimenting Nelson's contributions in making the nation aware of the significance of birds of prey.

Morton especially praised Nelson for his leadership in establishing the Snake River Birds of Prey National Area along the Swan Falls reach of the Snake River Canyon in southwestern Idaho.

"As Idaho's world-renowned authority on eagles and birds of prey you have made a notable contribution to the increased public concern and understanding of these birds, and particularly the falcon raptors," Morton wrote.

"Because of your personal devotion of many years to the wellbeing of mankind and the environment you will be remembered as one of the individuals primarily involved in the establishment of the Snake River Birds of Prey National Area in Idaho," he said.

Nelson accepted the award during the presentation ceremony in the office of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus in the name of all who worked with him on the project.

He also pointed out that the natural area in Idaho is a "unique" place and that he has been unable to find another like it in the west.

Coach fired

HOUSTON (UPI) — Manager Leo Durocher of the Houston Astros Thursday fired pitching coach Jim Owens on the eve of the season opener against Atlanta.

Durocher elevated assistant Hub Kittle to pitching coach and named Bob Lilly as an assistant coach. Durocher said he "wasn't completely satisfied with the pitching situation and thought a change was in order."

Idaho St. nabs big freshmen

POCATELLO (UPI) — Idaho State University football Coach Bob Griffin has gone after size and starting potential in recruiting high school athletes for next year's Bengal team.

Griffin announced Thursday the signing of national letters of intent by two of the nation's largest prep linemen, Ota Tabron and Jim Moreino.

Tabron, a defensive tackle from McNamara High School, Washington, D.C., is 6-3 and weighs 260 pounds. Tabron was an all-city lineman last fall.

Moreino, 6-5 and 210, is from Central Islip, N.Y., High School, where he was all-conference and played both offensive and defensive tackle.

Griffin said, "These men have the ability to play varsity for us next year."

ISU also received letters of intent from Barney Jacobs, a quarterback at Colton, Wash., high school; Warren Allen, a linebacker at LaGrande, Ore., High; and Jim Hines, a guard and fullback at Post Falls, Idaho.

Jacobs is 6-3, 185, and guided his team to a 19-1 record in two years. Allen was all-Oregon and conference most valuable player, and Jones, 6-4 225, is also a sprinter for Post Falls.

Griffin said, "All five of these players have the ability to help us right now. Schools around the country have proved that freshman are capable of playing solid varsity football and ISU was right with the trend, having two freshman starters in 1972."

Burley 18 hole course to be ready early '74

By MIKE ROBERTSON
Times-News writer
BURLEY — Golfers in the Burley area may be playing an 18-hole municipal course by next spring.

According to Jack Keen, Burley, superintendent of recreation and parks, play on the nine hole extension of course can possibly begin then if grass can be planted to the new fairways by July 1 through 15.

"It all depends on the weather," Keen said, of chances of getting the turf planted by then.

Keen said the work of putting in the fairways has progressed on schedule and all work should be finished by the fall deadline, again all depending on the weather.

The nine holes being added to the golf course included redesigning some of the holes now on the nine-hole layout, designing new fairways and greens in-between several of original holes and putting several completely new holes south of the present layout.

The new course was designed by James R. Kraus of James R. Kraus Golf Enterprises, Coeur d'Alene.

Keen said the idea of an additional nine holes began quite a few years ago when the city of Burley bought the 20 acres of land south of the original golf course.

In the summer of 1971 the additional nine holes began to become a reality as federal outdoor recreation funds became available for building the course.

In January, 1972, the course was approved as a preliminary project by the Department of Interior Outdoor Recreation Committee and the Idaho State Parks Board, who administers the funds for the federal government.

Keen said the $170,000 project will be paid for half by the funds and half by the city of Burley. He said the project is not costing the taxpayers in Burley very much actual tax dollars.

The reason for this, Keen said, is that under provisions for the funds Burley can put up its half in labor or materials, which it has been doing.

He said the city actually went over its 50 per cent of the budget for the course.

If the project is not completed by the deadline, the city can apply for a six month extension of time.

Keen said the addition to the present facility is a timely move because of a limited capacity of a nine-hole course and the present increased traffic on the old course.

The new municipal course is designed to be played from three sets of tees, championship, regular and ladies. The course will be played anywhere from 5,616 yards to 6,560 yards.

Earl Simpson, Burley, course professional, said the new layout promises to be one of the best in the state. He said it will be a fair challenge to high, low and medium handicap golfers alike.

championship tees it will be as good a test of golf as there is in the state, he said.

Keen said the credit for good progress on the project to date must go to the city engineers, street, water and electric departments and crews for their co-ordinated efforts in using slack time on other city projects to good advantage in building the new facility.

ABA Dallas Chaps move franchise, fire coach

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — The Dallas Chaparrals of the American Basketball Association will move to San Antonio next season, fire coach Dave Brown, but retain the Dallas ownership in one of the professional sports' most unusual franchise transfers, UPI learned Thursday.

San Antonio businessman H. J. "Red" McCombs told United Press International the franchise shift will be announced Friday afternoon.

Twenty San Antonio businessmen will operate the team for two years; with a Dallas group, headed by attorney Joe Geary, continuing as owners.

Mr. Geary wanted to sell the club, McCombs said. "Our group here was interested in promoting and operating the club for a two-year period."

"We have absolute management control over income and expenses, and the option to buy and the option is ours. The proposition was mine."

"Mr. Geary's original retort to my suggestion was a big laugh. He said 'Who's going to turn over a major league franchise to somebody who's never been involved and give up management?'"

But, McCombs said, he persisted and showed them a joint venture where he takes all the risk and you own half the club."

He said Geary accepted this week.

McCombs will serve as president of the club which will play in San Antonio's Convention Center Arena, an 11,000-seat facility on the grounds of the HemisFair.

"The facility we have is excellent," McCombs said. "The Houston Rockets played 14 games here this year and averaged about 4,500 a game."

San Antonio is the largest city in the United States without a major sports team.

chase.
The Chaparrals are one of the original franchises in the ABA, but never drew well in Dallas and presumably lost money for all six years of their existence.

This season the team failed to make the playoffs for the first time in its history, finishing with the second worst record in the league.

McCombs said current Chaps' General Manager Bob Briner would be retained through July 1 and said he hoped the new San Antonio management group could groom assistant GM Terry Stenbridge to replace Briner.

McCombs said his group has "several candidates under consideration" to replace Brown as head coach. Brown replaced Babe McCarthy near the end of the ABA season this year. McCarthy resigned to become head basketball coach of Georgia.

Big O leads Bucks by Warriors 113-93 in NBA

By RON SUPINSKI
OAKLAND (UPI) — Oscar Robertson, hitting 10 shots in a row in the second half, bucketed 34 points Thursday night to power Milwaukee to a 113-93 NBA victory over Golden State and give the Bucks a 2-1 bulge in their NBA playoff series.

Robertson tallied 10 points in the first two periods to propel the Bucks to a 47-38 halftime lead before 30,493 disappointed fans.

The Bucks' perennial all-league guard hit a basket and two free throws to close out a sizzling 37-point third period which ended with Milwaukee enjoying its biggest lead of the night, 23 points at 44-61.

Milwaukee erupted on a 12-2 spurt within 3 1/2 minutes of the third quarter to boost its advantage to 70-52. The closest the Warriors could come after that was 16 points when Fritz Williams sank a 10-footer with 4:40 remaining.

CSI drops two to BYU frosh

PROVO — The Brigham Young University frosh swept a doubleheader from College of Southern Idaho Thursday, taking the opener 5-2 and the nightcap 8-7.

Despite the losses, Coach Bob Banfield said there was some encouragement since "the boys were hitting the ball a lot better. And I think BYU will end up being one of the best, if not the best, teams we'll face this year."

BYU had the first game in hand before CSI could get on the scoreboard. The young Cougars picked up single runs in the first and second innings, and added two more in the fifth off Tom Fales, who racked up 10 strikeouts.

CSI broke through in the sixth when Jim Dunsmore walked and John Wilson lived on an error. Curt Barron and Darrell Groves followed with run-scoring singles.

The teams see-sawed through the second game with BYU taking control on Wilhite's two-run homer in the fifth inning, the blow also winding up scoring.

Bob Liese opened the game with a double and a walk, two errors and Kevin Nelson's single brought in two runs. BYU came back with three in the same frame but in the second CSI got two more when losing pitcher Joe Rubino singled. Bob Papworth walked and Wilson was hit by a pitch. Ralph Bollinger singled in one run and the second scored when catcher's interference was called.

The Eagles' last chance came in the fourth when Papworth opened with a walk and Wilson and Bollinger followed with hits, Bollinger getting an RBI. Dunsmore's grounder was errored as another run scored and Groves sent the final run across with a single.

CSI will return to Provo Tuesday to meet Utah Tech in a doubleheader and then returns home for a nine-inning match against Northwest Nazarene College at 3 p.m. Thursday and a doubleheader, starting at 1 p.m. Saturday (April 14) against Treasure Valley.

Easy steal

Football owners reject two point conversions

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — National Football League owners, deciding to stand pat with a solid hand Thursday, rejected proposals that would permit sudden death overtime for regular season games and the option of a two-point conversion after touchdowns.

Owners also turned back proposals allowing double touching of a forward pass by offensive players, changing the inbounds rules for receptions and moving the goalposts back from the goal line to the end line.

They did pass some minor changes, such as fouls involving a kicking team changing possession at the end of a period, banning assistance to a defensive player attempting to block extra point or field goal attempt and set up a uniform numbering system for players entering the league this year.

The owners felt there was a value in ties," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who announced the owners' decision. "Kansas City and Oakland last season were examples. They both bounced back into contention after early season ties."

Rozelle said the owners were split almost evenly on the question of the sudden death and two-point conversion. "About 12 or 13 of them were for it and the rest were against," he said. "A ruling needs 20 affirmative votes from the 26 owners to pass.

"The owners also felt that the two-point conversion fell in the category of a tie-breaker," Rozelle said. "They also thought that too much importance would be placed on one play."

Art McNally, the league's new supervisor of officials, said the double touching and out of bounds reception ruling were fairly handily defeated.

"The verdict against the double touching of passes was almost unanimous," McNally said. "Also, it would make it quite difficult for officials."

"They also thought that allowing double touching actually would be rewarding the failure of an end in attempting to catch a ball," Rozelle added. "They also thought the game could turn into a sort of volleyball, with all the bouncing back and forth."

On the out-of-bounds rule, which would allow a receiver possession of a pass if he had one foot in bounds at the reception against the current two-foot ruling, McNally also cited irritating problems as a key objection.

"The owners felt it would be practically impossible for an official to determine if the one foot was in bounds at the moment the receiver made contact with the pass," he explained. "They also felt the present ruling of keeping both feet in bounds was clear-cut and suitable."

The moving of the goal posts and another rule awarding possession of the ball to a receiving team on an out-of-bounds kickoff rather than a five-yard penalty also were rejected by the owners as detrimental to the offense.

The new numbering system, applied to all new players coming into the league this season, will be as follows:

- Quarterbacks and kickers 1-19.
- Offensive and defensive backs 20-49.
- Centers and linebackers 50-59.
- Defensive linemen and interior offensive linemen, excluding centers 60-79.
- Wide receivers and tight ends 80-89.

The owners said the 90s series could be used for rookies in pre-season games.

A decision of the crack block, in which a linebacker is hit from the blind side by a blocker at the line of scrimmage, was tabled until the June summer meetings in New York.

The situation caused a major controversy this past season, between Dallas and Washington when Redskin linebacker Jack Pardee was injured.

The new ruling concerning assistance to a defensive player attempting to block a kick is devised to prevent pyramiding or boosting of players to distract the kicker.

Giants tip Reds in opener

CINCINNATI (UPI) Bobby Bonds' double scored Dave Rader with the tie-breaking run and Chris Speier's two-out single capped a three-run seventh-inning rally which carried the San Francisco Giants to a 4-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Thursday in the season's opener for both clubs.

Juan Marchal, effectively scattering seven hits, went the route for the Giants to pick up his sixth opening day victory of his career.

Don Gullett started for the defending Western Division champion Reds and wound up with the loss after giving up all the Giants' runs before departing for a pinchhitter in the seventh inning.

Pacers win 3rd

DENVER (UPI) — Little guard Billy Keller hit a three point basket with 14 seconds remaining Thursday night to lead the Indiana Pacers to a 97-95 American Basketball Association win over the Denver Rockets.

The victory gave the defending ABA champions a commanding 3-1 lead in the best of seven playoff series with the next game scheduled in Indiana Saturday.

Keller's basket gave Indiana a 96-95 lead and the Rockets' Ralph Simpson, who had a playoff career high of 41 points, missed a shot and Dave Hobisch, who had 17 points, missed the rebound follow shot. Freddy Lewis, who had 41 points, was fouled in the ensuing scramble for the ball and sank only one of three free throws in the bonus situation for the final score.

Mel Daniels, who was held on only four points, in Indiana's 105-94 loss Tuesday, led the Pacers with 25 points. Also in double figures for Indiana were George McGinnis with 11 and Darnell Hillman with 10.

Joining Simpson and Hobisch in double figures for the Rockets were Byron Beck with 17 and Julius Keye with 10.

Denver took control in the first quarter with Hobisch, Beck, Keye and Simpson each scoring eight points to give the Rockets a 32-21 lead at the end of the period. Indiana slowly overcame the deficit.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

A mighty bitter literary fellow, that Jonathan Swift. He wrote so sarcastically, his compatriots dubbed him "The Hangman of Humanity." Still, the notes he set forth to his girlfriend Stella were composed in lily-like talk. I don't get it. When an apparent cynic is exposed as a sentimentalist, people say he's a dandy about. But when an evident sentimentalist is revealed as a cynic, they call him a hypocrite. That's enough. Expect no more plaintive profundities here for six months.

Q: "Which gives the nosier ride, a sailboat or a glider?"
A: The glider. Far nosier. In fact, zipping along at about 150 m.p.h., conversation is primitive impossible, it's reported.

Go ahead, bite off the arm of an octopus, if you'd like. It'll just grow back.

WILD CAMELS
Did I say there were no wild camels anywhere? Wrong, contends an Arizona customer. A few wild camels are still to be seen in the hills around Yuma. He reports. Last year, stock from about a century ago when the U.S. Army organized a camel corps to pack across the desert.

To lift this please our Chief Prognosticator hurps women within 25 years will spray their costumes on their bodies. The flexible thin substance will tend to harden a bit, then draw away from the skin. Sensitized to light it will glow in different colors, depending on which lampshades upon it. Also, being chemically controlled, it will keep a comfortable temperature. How the ladies will take off these costumes remains unexplained. Presumably they'll just peel themselves like bananas.

LAUGHING GAS
Used to be such a social event, incredibly, as laughing gas parties whereon convivial folk sat around sniffing nitrous oxide between giggles.

Note it claimed by color engineers that certain hues, such as browns and yellows, induce seasickness. They say others, such as blues and greens, avert it. Having sailed the blue-green Atlantic in the windy spring, I doubt that contention, of miserable memory.

German, English, Spanish, Irish, Italian, Polish and Russian. These are the seven ethnic groups that two out of every five people in this country identify themselves with. In that order. Now the question is: Members of which of these groups, on the average, generally have wound up with the most education and the highest paying jobs? According to the U.S. Census Bureau, it's the Russian group, as for the least education and the lowest paying jobs, that's the recent Spanish, so far.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) —

The stock market pushed higher Friday following five consecutive days of losses. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was slow.

Shortly before noon, the closely-watched Dow Jones Industrial Average climbed 6.71 to 430.17. Advances led declines, 706 to 418, among the 1,534 issues on the tape. Two-hour volume came to 5,000,000 shares compared with 5,250,000 shares Thursday.

Analysts said bargain hunters moved in when the Dow approached the 400 level, where it has found support before. Also aiding the market was a government report showing a drop in unemployment in March of one-tenth of a percentage point to 5 percent.

Baxter 12Bs was the most active issue, off 1 1/4 at 47 1/4 on 105,000 shares. Santa Fe Industries was second, up 1/4 at 26 1/4 on 76,000 shares, and Continental Oil was third, off 1/4 at 33 1/4 on 50,000 shares. Continental said a well it is drilling in the North Sea found neither oil nor gas. Gulf Oil, a partner in the well, lost 1/4.

New car purchases set sales record in March

DETROIT (UPI) — New car buyers in March beat the spring sales rush as they bought a record 1.1 million automobiles—the most sold in one month in automotive history.

Predictions made at the end of the record 1972 sales year have been revised upward by auto executives who saw more cars sold in the first three months of 1973 than in any previous first quarter. The trend was expected to continue through the year.

The record March sales—up 2.9 percent from last March—included 963,195 domestic cars on an estimated 195,000 imports, both single-month records. First-quarter sales reached 2,472,722 domestic cars, up 19 percent from last year to break a mark established in 1961.

Large amounts of disposable income and personal savings, coupled with record U.S. income tax refunds this spring, should spur sales through the end of the 1973-model year in August. But some analysts say a number of sales now are to people trying to beat an expected price hike on the 1974 models as well as price increases now becoming effective on imports because of the devaluation of the U.S. dollar.

The mood in Detroit auto executive suites was optimistic as sales increased and imports held almost steady at about 16 percent of the U.S. market. The foreign cars accounted for 22 percent of all sales in August of 1971 when President Nixon first imposed economic controls.

"The sales outlook remains firm, the industrial economy is sound and expanding, as are retail sales," said John B. Naughton, Ford vice president for sales. Wednesday as he explained the industry's performance.

"With personal income at record levels, all indications are for continuing strength in the automotive market."

Contract let

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Bonneville Power Administration today announced award of a $139,760 contract to C.I. Electric Co., Pocatello, Idaho, for construction of a nine-mile, 138-kilovolt line.

The United-Heuburn Transmission Line, with terminal facilities and power system control and protective devices, will be constructed in Cassia and Mindokoa counties, Idaho. The line will help supply an area between Mindokoa-Dam and Burley.

Gas supply 'adequate'

BOISE (UPI) — A spokesman for the Idaho State Automobile Association (AAA) says motorists planning spring and summer travel need not be intimidated by reports of localized gasoline shortages.

Ken Miller, Manager of the Idaho AAA, said the organization has discussed the problem with oil industry experts across the nation.

He said spokesmen for some major oil companies claim that most company dealers will have fuel supplies somewhat larger than they received last year, although occasional pinches may occur.

This could mean he quoted industry experts, that some retailers may be without fuel at a given moment but that others with the same company a few blocks away will have a supply.

Lessened reserves, however, probably will mean there will be little if any gasoline at curbside prices on the market this summer, Miller said. But even independent dealers should have supplies to offer at regular prices, he said.

In addition, the company proposed raising its base flat rate for commercial customers to $10.75 per month from $6, its commercial sprinkling charge to $16.50 per season from $12.50, and its charge for fire hydrants to $4 per month from $2.

Mine firm sets plans

The annual report released by the firm Wednesday showed that plans are being drawn up and will be let for bids later this spring on an estimated $2-million silver refinery near the firm's mine two miles east of here.
