Reds encircle capital despite US air strikes

By United Press International
Communist forces held their blockade of all supply routes to the encircled Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh despite intensified US air bombardment Saturday.
President Nixon, revealing the increased concern of US officials about the deteriorating situation in Cambodia, ordered Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. to Phnom Penh to confer with President Lon Nol.
(Details, p. 7)
Haig also was to visit the capitals of South Vietnam, Laos and Thailand to assess the military and political situation.
US officials Saturday also announced a US Air Force observation plane had been shot down and its pilot killed in the Cambodian struggle.
The loss of the OV10 observation plane was reported by the U.S. Pacific Command in Honolulu. It was the first American plane reported shot down over Cambodia since the U.S. intensified the air war there after the Jan. 28 ceasefire in South Vietnam.

The Communist blockade of Phnom Penh has not only exhausted the city's petroleum supplies and cut deeply into its food stocks but also left Cambodian troops with a rapidly dwindling supply of ammunition. As a result, military sources said Saturday in Phnom Penh, the U.S. Air Force has begun an airlift of ammunition and other war material to Phnom Penh and outlying provincial capitals.
The sources did not specify from what bases the C130 cargo planes carrying the supplies originated, but they most likely flew from Thailand.
Despite two days of heavy American aerial bombardment of Communist positions along the Mekong river, a 16-ship convoy bearing food, petroleum, ammunition and other supplies for the isolated capital was unable to sail as scheduled Saturday from South Vietnam. All overland routes to Phnom Penh also were blocked by the Communists.
The convoy, waiting at anchor just inside the South Vietnamese border, was held back at least until Sunday by heavy Communist fire that continued to blockade the 60-mile stretch of river between the border and Phnom Penh.

The sources said the first ammunition airlifts were ordered April 2 and 3 when government forces within the encircled provincial capital of Takeo, 55 miles south of Phnom Penh, ran out of ammunition at the height of a Communist offensive.
Although the United States has long supplied the Cambodian military by air, these shipments were previously confined to larger items such as disassembled planes and artillery. Shipments of ammunition and bombs were carried on barges up the Mekong river from South Vietnam.
Both banks of the river remain under Communist control, however, despite heavy bombing by U.S. warplanes that reached its height Friday when the planes attempted to blast open the way for the supply convoy to sail Saturday.

Indians march in Boise

BOISE (UPI) — Complaints about shoddy housing, government inactivity and racism were aired during a demonstration Saturday by Idaho Indians and students.
Grey Eagle, an Oglala-Sioux who participated in the 38-day seizure at Wounded Knee, S.D., made a plea for help in fighting racism and for funds to "release our POWs — to us that means prisoners of whites."
He said the Indians in Idaho were demonstrating their support for the American Indian Movement and its goals "because their methods are the only ones that have brought attention to the Indian problems."

At the rally in front of the Federal Building after the parade he also said 200 Indians have been arrested because of the Wounded Knee takeover. He urged the marchers to write to their congressmen as well as donate "skins."
The parade of 200 persons was predominantly white youths. Many wore armbands with the words "Wounded Knee," head bands, braids and feathers.

Wendell rollover hurts Boise man

WENDELL — Ronald Moore, 31, Boise, was seriously injured Friday night in a truck rollover three and one-half miles west of Wendell.
The accident occurred as Moore was traveling west on Interstate 80, according to police. Moore was thrown into the eastbound lane when his truck rolled. He was taken to Gooding County Memorial Hospital with head injuries and was later transferred to a Boise hospital.

Pioneer million miles out

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — American Pioneer 11 spacecraft reached the million-mile mark Saturday night on its lengthy flight from earth to Jupiter.
Pioneer 11 is scheduled to make its closest approach to Jupiter in December, 1974, a year after its predecessor Pioneer 10 passes the planet. Instruments aboard the spacecraft register the number of radioactive particles in space and provide other information to scientists.

Falling bricks kill 3

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tons of brick and concrete fell from the roof of a row of stores Saturday night, killing three pedestrians, police reported.
The cause of the collapse, in Corona, Queens, was not known. Witnesses said there was an explosion-like sound as the 150-foot parapet fell, but authorities said they did not know if there had been a blast.

$1.5 million ransom paid

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Kodak Argentina announced Saturday it has paid a record $1.5 million ransom for an American executive who was kidnapped Monday by eight armed guerrillas.
A Kodak spokesman said Antony DaCruz, 43, would be released "shortly." An earlier report by the firm that he had been freed was "premature," the spokesman said.

Accused mayor 'just helped'

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami Mayor David T. Kennedy says he was indicted for bribery conspiracy only because he met a "poor woman" who told him her son has been mistreated.
Kennedy and a circuit judge were among those indicted for conspiring to use bribery to reduce the jail term of the "poor" woman's son who is serving for selling marijuana.

Rebels march in Himalayas

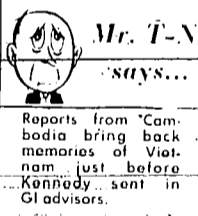

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Fifteen-thousand rebels seeking popular rule Saturday marched into Gantok, the capital of the small Himalayan kingdom of Sikkim, and threatened to storm the palace of King Palden Tondup and his American-born wife, Hapo. Cooke.
Indian troops guarded the palace and encircled the rebel group, most of its members unarmed, in a field near the palace. Indian government officials sent word to the king to settle his political and religious disputes with the rebels and told him, "Fire power will not settle the problem."

Floods menace Dixie

By United Press International
New rains, flash floods and tornadoes descended on the storm-beleaguered Southeast Saturday, pushing the swollen Mississippi River and its tributaries still higher and driving thousands of residents from homes in the storied cities of Dixie.

A steady stream of refugees, carrying their most precious possessions, left the area north of historic Vicksburg, Miss., where the Mississippi reached its highest level in 30 years.
The worst flooding around Vicksburg came from the backwaters of the Yazoo and Sunflower Rivers and numerous creeks and bayous which run through the flat Delta farm region. The National Weather Service predicted a crest of 50.1 feet Monday at Vicksburg, site of a major Civil War battle.

Authorities said the riverfront city itself was not threatened, but water was up to the rooftops of homes in the outlying suburbs.
Tornadoes and strong winds in Mississippi and Alabama damaged roofs and destroyed house trailers but no injuries were reported. Flooding along the Gulf Coast of Alabama forced about 20 persons to evacuate to high ground on Dauphin Island south of Mobile. The main road to the island was closed.

U of I fees increased

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Idaho State Board of Education Friday approved a request from the University of Idaho to increase student fees.
During the board meeting at the U of I campus, members to increase student fees on a semester basis by $12 for residents and $50 per semester for non-residents.
Before voting on the request, the board heard two members of the University of Idaho student government protest the increase.
Ray Liguano, outgoing student body president, told the board the students did not know the request was coming up at this meeting and were under the impression that the matter would be discussed at the board meeting in May.

He urged the board to defer action on the request until the students were able to know how the money was to be used.
Carl Wurster, Twin Falls, the newly-elected student body president, said he was not "quibbling over the amount of the increase, but we question the increase because we were not consulted before it was prepared for board action."

U of I president Ernest Hartung said he thought the administration had made its intent clear on several previous occasions.
The motion for the request passed with A. L. Alford, Lewiston, and Dr. J. P. Munson, Sandpoint, voting against it.

Gem presidents get raise

MOSCOW — College presidents were given pay raises by the Idaho State Board of Education meeting in Moscow Friday.
Several will receive as much as the Governor.
Next year's salary for Dr. E. W. Hartung, president of the University of Idaho, was increased from $31,400 to $32,500. Boise State College president John Barnes received a salary increase from $27,950 to $29,000 plus a $4,000 housing allowance.
Increases for Idaho State University president William E. (Bud) Davis went from $29,850 to $30,000 and for Lewis-Clark State College president Jerold O. Dugger from $20,500 to $21,600.

In comparison, the College of Southern Idaho's president, Dr. James F. Taylor, is at a salary of $26,600 plus a $2,400 rental allowance during the current year. His next year's salary has not been announced.
Idaho Governor Cecil Andrus is paid $30,000 a year.

Nixon readies selective tariff trade plan

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon today worked out a trade plan he says would give American business and labor a fair chance in world markets.
The proposal Nixon plans to send to Congress next week would give him standby authority to increase tariffs and other trade barriers on a selective basis as the ultimate weapon in forcing other nations to stop what he considers discrimination against U.S. goods.
In anticipation of tough new international bargaining, Nixon Friday added an economics expert to the top level staff of his National Security Council (NSC).
The President named Charles A. Cooper, now an economics counselor in the U.S. Embassy in Saigon, as deputy for international economic affairs to NSC Director Henry A. Kissinger.
Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the appointment reflects that "international economic matters and trade policy are becoming even more dominant in international relations."

The President also named Helmut Sonnefeldt, a senior member of the NSC staff, to be one of two undersecretaries of the Treasury. He will share with Undersecretary Paul A. Voleker the No. 3 post in the department behind Secretary George P. Shultz and Deputy Secretary William Simons.
Ziegler said the Berlin-born Sonnefeldt, 46, would concentrate on East-West trade. He succeeds Edwin S. Cohen, an expert on taxation. The shuffle apparently indicates that trade takes priority over tax reform this year in the administration's economic planning.
After almost a century of trade surpluses, the United States imported more than it exported in both 1971 and 1972. Another trade deficit appears likely this year.
Nixon was winding up a 10-day stay at his Western White House. He plans to return to Washington Sunday.
Friday night, the President was invited to throw out the traditional first pitch of a baseball season opener between the California Angels and Kansas City Royals.

But Nixon deferred to Maj. David Luna, an Air Force pilot and a recently returned prisoner of war.
"I was going to throw out the first ball, but I'll give it to you," Nixon said.
In addition to selecting Cooper as Kissinger's deputy for economic matters, the President also named four other deputies to the USC director.
Air Force Brig. Gen. Brent Scowcroft was selected as the principal deputy to Kissinger. Scowcroft has been doing that job since January when Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. was appointed Army vice-chief of staff. The appointment makes it official.
Lawrence S. Engleburger was named deputy for operations, Army Col. Richard T. Kennedy was appointed deputy for planning and coordination and Philip A. Odeen was named deputy for program analysis. All three men have been doing the same jobs for some time but Ziegler said their new titles more accurately reflect the importance of the jobs.

LDS fourth largest denomination

By LESTER KOSOVYING. Special to the Times-News. SALT LAKE — The LDS Church has grown to the point where it is tied with the Episcopal Church as the fourth largest denomination in the United States — with 3.2 million members in 78 countries.

Only the Roman Catholic (48 million), the Southern Baptist Convention (12 million) and the United Methodists (10.5 million) are larger in number than the rapidly growing LDS Church.

In his address, opening the LDS 143rd general conference here Friday, LDS President Harold B. Lee said, "The most frequently asked question is, 'How do you account for the financial growth when so many other churches are on the decline?'"

By way of explanation, President Lee cited:

"We have held our course in teaching our fundamental doctrines of the church with 17,000 missionaries, serving today, each at his own expense or the expense of his family for a period of two or more years."

"Our welfare plan seeks out those in distress, we teach individuals how to take care of themselves against the terrifying impact upon the sanctity of the home and marriage by strengthening the home, by providing guidelines to parents to teach their children basic principals of honesty, virtue, integrity, thrift and industry."

"The strength of the church is not in numbers or 'fifties' or offerings or in magnitude of temple buildings... but is the conviction that this indeed is the church and kingdom of God on earth."

President Lee applauded a letter from what he termed "a brilliant college student body president... whose identity must be kept secret. The letter noted:

"With rule of the radical ideas which are sweeping the country, there has come a breakdown of family ties which is despised in many intellectual circles."

"The country is seemingly pilled with sex education, abortion, planned parenthood, pornography, women's liberations, communal living, pre-marital sex and post-marital premissiveness."

"President Lee, I want you to know," the letter said, "that the LDS students on campus who keep the commandments are 100 per cent behind you."

"Thank God we have leaders who stand firm against the subtle battle of the adversary who is striking at the home, the most vital unit of the world."

the letter said.

Former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, one of the denomination's Twelve Apostles, in an address entitled "Watchmen Warn the Wicked," quoted extensively from President Calvin Coolidge and California Gov. Ronald Reagan in warning the present moral condition of the United States is similar to that of Rome before it fell.

He told the 6,000 delegates and an international television audience, "We do not fear the phony population explosion... we oppose and abhor the damnable practice of wholesale abortion."

When asked about incest, he replied, "We have not issued a statement on that, but I believe it would be included in the category on rape."

As for abortion in cases where pregnancy becomes a threat to the mother's health,

Housewives walk in NY

By United Press International
 Housewives dedicated to boycotting meat until prices come down paraded in New York and Chicago streets Saturday at the end of the first marketing week since the presidential price ceiling on beef, pork and lamb.

From the way that prices held at most stores across the country during the week, there were indications that they would have to continue their efforts. Some organizations said they would do so, despite the warnings of economists that they were battling a long-range problem.

About 500 persons, mostly women and including some children, marched from Herald Square in New York City to the wholesale packing district around 14th Street under the leadership of Women United for Action and Women Strike for Peace. They demanded not merely a freeze, but a price rollback.

San Francisco and Los Angeles reported sales off during the week, although there was some improvement on Friday, a major shopping day.

Robert Onstead, president of a food market group in Houston, Tex., said "one or two weeks (of boycott) really aren't going to do anything," and the only action to cut beef prices would be a "long haul" cutback on buying.

Willard P. Williams, an agricultural economist at Texas Tech, foresaw that prices either would go "still higher or there will have to be rationing like that of World War II."

"Either way, it will wreck the cattle industry," he said.

A former agriculture department economist in Washington told United Press International that a short-range approach to bringing meat prices down would have little success.

President Thieu visits grave of former President Lyndon Johnson

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu bowed Saturday before the wreath-decorated grave of former President Lyndon B. Johnson who began the massive flow of U.S. troops and supplies to the beleaguered South in the 1960s.

Johnson's grave is a two-foot wreath of yellow and red roses from Thieu in place before the Asian leader arrived. A ribbon in South Vietnam's national colors of red and yellow bore a card saying, "From the President of Vietnam."

Thieu and the 100-member party bowed before the grave. After the others had straightened up, Thieu continued to bow for perhaps five seconds, and then moved off from his party and walked around two sides of the grave.

The South Vietnamese president later returned to Austin where he boarded a presidential jet for Hanscom Field, Mass., to make connections with a flight to Rome.

Mrs. Johnson was accompanied by her daughter and son-in-law, Luci and Pat Nugent, Walt Rostow, former White House security adviser, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson, Johnson, no relation to the former president, was a White House staff assistant.

"Four generations of the Johnson-family are buried here," she told Thieu. "It has been a long standing tradition. Of course, we have given this land to the National Park Service."

Fluid suspected in three deaths

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An intravenous fluid already suspected of causing the deaths of two hospital patients in Milwaukee has been associated with yet a third death.

Doctors at the Washington Hospital Center reported Friday that a suburban Maryland woman died in February, three days after the solution was administered following what should have been a routine ear operation.

The solution was made by Cutter Laboratories Inc. Cutter solutions were already associated with two deaths in Milwaukee and the company earlier this week began recalling all bottled intravenous fluid made at its Chattanooga, Tenn., plant prior to March 14.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said its preliminary investigation indicated an improper sterilizing process at the Chattanooga plant was to blame. All production has been halted there and solution bottled after March 14 has been put under quarantine.

Dr. James A. Curtin, chairman of the Washington Hospital Center's department of medicine, said Mrs. Harry J. Eby, 57, of Greenbelt, Md., underwent a relatively low-risk operation to correct hearing loss in her right ear on Feb. 15. After the operation, he said, she got "one liter of the type of fluid that has been implicated in the Milwaukee cases."

Curtin said he had no reason to suspect the intravenous solution was at fault until "two" read the next month that two Milwaukee patients had died of blood poisoning after being given a dextrose solution from Cutter. He said tests identified the poison which killed Mrs. Eby as one of the three involved in the Milwaukee deaths. A third non-fatal case was also reported in Milwaukee.

Cutter is one of the four largest producers of intravenous solutions in the United States. A company spokesman at its headquarters in Berkeley, Calif., said it turns out perhaps 25 million bottles of intravenous solution each year.

Indians charge treaty violation

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — The federal government and the "Indians" occupying Wounded Knee charged each other Saturday with violating their "treaty" to end the occupation of the village. The chief government negotiator said he will "stand by the agreement—until hell freezes over."

Assistant Attorney General Kent Frizzell, who signed the Thursday "treaty" for the government, met AIM leaders in Wounded Knee Saturday and then denied Moons' charges angrily and categorically.

"We stand by our agreement," Frizzell said. "We call on AIM leaders and Russell Means to stand by their agreement. I for one stand ready to stand by the agreement until hell freezes over."

"The Indians who have occupied the historic village—site of the 'Massacre of Wounded-Knee'—for 39 days had been expected to lay down their arms Saturday morning when talks began in Washington between their leader and a presidential aide."

But Russell Means, the militant American Indian Movement (AIM) leader who travelled to Washington, said his meeting with Leonard Garment had been put off for at least 24 hours because the Justice Department "continues to run amok at Wounded Knee."

"He said the government is violating the treaty by closing in on the village and threatening 'to swoosh down on the occupants.'"

Palestinian group opens Sudan office

CAIRO (UPI) — The Al Fatah Palestinian guerrilla organization has reopened its office in the Sudan following the Arab commando attack last last month in which three diplomats, two of them Americans, were killed, the Middle East News Agency said Saturday.

Eight Palestinian commandos raided a diplomatic reception at the Saudi Arabian embassy, taking as hostage the U.S. ambassador and his counsel officer and also a Belgian diplomat. They killed the three diplomats before surrendering to Sudanese officials three days later.

The news agency quoted an Al Fatah source in Khartoum Saturday as saying the crisis between the government and the guerrillas has since been defused and that "it was decided to reopen Al Fatah's office."

A ranking member of the Palestinian guerrilla movement will be named to run the Al Fatah office, the source said.

Al Fatah is the largest Palestinian guerrilla group, and is directed by Yasser Arafat. Its Black September group also was responsible for the murders of Israeli athletes and coaches at the Olympics in Munich last year and for the assassination of Jordanian Premier Wasfi Tel in Cairo in November 1971.

A ranking member of the Palestinian guerrilla movement will be named to run the Al Fatah office, the source said.

Haig ordered to Cambodia

GEN. ALEXANDER M. HAIG
bound for Southeast Asia

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon dispatched one of his top military-political troubleshooters, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., to Southeast Asia Saturday with orders to report back on the current Communist stage in Cambodia.

Haig's trip, to include talks with Cambodian President Lon Nol, was announced less than a week after Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu conferred here and warned of "appropriately vigorous reactions" if the Communists continued to violate the Jan. 28 Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Haig's trip should not be taken to suggest in any way that U.S. ground forces might be sent into Indochina again. "The United States government has no intentions, no plans and no desire to reintroduce U.S. troops into Southeast Asia," he said.

Haig was to embark on the five-day swing through Thailand, Laos, South Vietnam and Cambodia immediately after a meeting at the Western White House with Nixon and his national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger.

American B52s have been bombing heavily for the past three weeks over Cambodia, where Communist forces cut off all supply routes into the capital of Phnom Penh.

As sporadic ground fighting continued between the Communist and Cambodian forces, military sources in Cambodia said U.S. Air Force cargo planes had begun to airlift ammunition and other war material to the Cambodian troops.

U.S. shipments of ammunition previously were taken into Phnom Penh on barges up the Mekong River, but no supply convoy has been able to reach that city in 18 days — including a 16-ship convoy scheduled to sail Saturday.

The capital's petroleum supply was said to be almost exhausted and food was reported running short.

Ziegler declined to confirm or deny the reports, but said, "We have concern about the continuing military activity taking place in Cambodia and the President has asked Gen. Haig to go over and look at this first-hand — not only the military side of things but also the economic and political situation."

Haig, now Army vice chief of staff, was Kissinger's deputy during the first Nixon's first administration and the latest trip will be his 12th to the war zone as a special presidential envoy.

Ziegler said Haig would be making a "general assessment" of the overall situation throughout all of Southeast Asia.

White House officials have indicated that there was very little chance that Nixon would decide to reintroduce ground troops in Indochina, making clear that he plans now to limit his support for Southeast Asian governments to air power and military supplies.

Haig will confer first with Prime Minister Thanom Kittakachorn of Thailand, then meet with Laotian Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma in Vietnam and Cambodian President Lon Nol in Phnom Penh.

Rate hike approved Japanese, urge stable currency

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Public Utilities Commission has given Washington Water Power Company authority to raise natural gas rates 6.3 per cent to offset gas costs to the company.

To become effective on meter readings in Idaho on and after April 15, the increase is designed to produce an additional $483,600 per year — the amount the company says its own gas costs have increased.

Consumers will pay .352 cents per therm additionally for each step of each rate schedule.

"The effect of this method is to give a greater percentage increase to those customers using the greater quantity of gas per month," the PUC said.

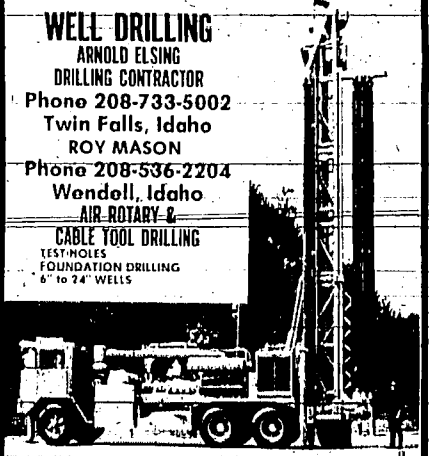

BOISE (UPI) — A visiting Oryuzama of Toehigi and governor from Japan urged the United States Saturday to stabilize the dollar and by so doing help stabilize the Japanese yen.

Speaking through an interpreter, Gov. Morie Kimura of the Fukushima prefecture said the American dollar is or should be the basic currency of the world.

Any fluctuation of the dollar, he said, has a direct impact in Japan.

'Copters missing over S. Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI) — Two helicopters carrying members of the Vietnam peace-keeping force and piloted by Americans disappeared Saturday over a Communist occupied area of South Vietnam. At least one of them apparently was shot down.

The helicopters were carrying members of the International Commission for Control and Supervision ICCS — a Communist village on the southern Vietnamese-Laotian border. A total of 16 persons was reported to be aboard the aircrafts.

"I am hit! I am going down!" sources said one of the helicopter crewmen radioed in English. It was the last communication with either of the helicopters, but the second craft was believed to have gone to the aid of the stricken ship.

Sources said the helicopters carried representatives from each of the four ICCS nations — Canada, Hungary, Indonesia and Poland — as well as Viet Cong and American crewmembers. The ICCS helicopters are flown under contract with Air America.

The commission's helicopters are clearly marked with green stripes and a large white block around the letters "ICCS" in black.

The first downing of an ICCS helicopter was one of a flurry of reports of fighting that marked the biggest upsurge in military activity in South Vietnam since the cease-fire became effective in Jan. 28.

Fighting was so heavy along the South Vietnamese-Cambodian border west of Saigon that officials held back a convoy of supply ships, which was scheduled to sail up the Mekong river Saturday morning to the isolated Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh.

Because the river convoy was blocked, U.S. Air Force transport planes began an airlift to Phnom Penh Saturday carrying arms and ammunition for Cambodian troops. Communist forces have also given the American housewife a better feeling at the grocery counter.

In addition to continuing shelling and ground attacks throughout South Vietnam, military sources said Communists also cut three highways in the Saigon area Saturday by barricading them and blowing up bridges. Two of the three later were later reopened, however.

Mines rock Ulster

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A mine blasted a British army patrol car near the Irish Republic border Saturday night, killing two soldiers and seriously wounding another, the army said.

In Roman Catholic areas of Belfast Saturday, gunfire hit a city bus and army truck, a sniper wounded a British soldier and troops shot a gunman, the army reported.

The incidents came at the end of a week which had been one of the most peaceful in 3 1/2 years of religious and political turbulence in Northern Ireland. The latest deaths raised to 767 the number of persons killed in the province's violence, 204 of them British soldiers. They were the first deaths attributed to the violence in four days.

Food labor less

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Cost is only relative to what kind of money is used. That economic maxim can be explained by the fact that it also give the American housewife a better feeling at the grocery counter.

A researcher for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station says the theoretical "food basket" — enough for a week — costs $32 in the United States and $31 in France, but in France the worker must labor about three times longer to earn the $31.

Watergate tales urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More members of Congress from both parties urged White House aides Saturday to testify in the Watergate bugging case, claiming executive privilege ought not be invoked to cover any knowledge of alleged criminal activity.

The latest calls came from Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, a moderate Republican; Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri and Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, both liberal Democrats; and Rep. William J. Scherle of Iowa, a conservative Republican.

President Nixon has refused to let any of his current or former aides testify before Congress about the June 17 break-in and bugging at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate building or other alleged political espionage.

He has based his position on the doctrine of executive privilege which holds that some dealings between a President and his staff are confidential, or not subject to Congressional scrutiny.

The Senate's Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities, created to investigate the Watergate affair and any other related political espionage, plans to open public hearings soon, probably after Congress ends an Easter recess April 25.

The Senate committee already has heard testimony in secret from convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr., former security chief for the Committee to Re-elect the President.

The federal grand jury which indicted McCord and six others in the case, including two former White House aides, has been called back into session to hear further testimony.

Nixon has instructed all past and present White House aides to cooperate fully with the panel if summoned before it.

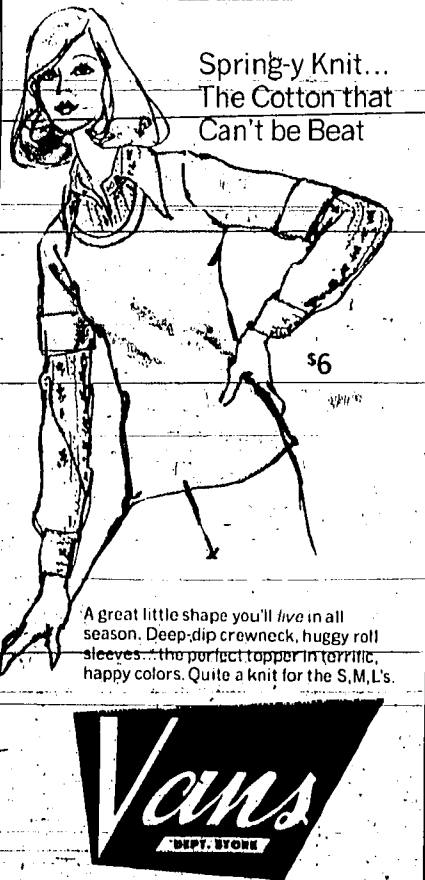

In his statement Saturday, Scherle said "the cloak of executive privilege should never be used to shelter wrongdoers, no matter how highly placed. And clearly someone very highly placed is hiding behind the skirts of immunity, an arrogant egotist, drunk with power, but lacking in the most elementary political judgment."

"If the President does not wish himself and his entire government to be tarred with the same brush, he must immediately direct his entire staff to cooperate fully with the congressional committee as well as the grand jury investigating the case."

Can't rush mom nature

DICKENS, Tex. (UPI)—Two years ago this spring when beef prices were much lower than today, a drought hit the range lands of West Texas and cut back cattle herds.

The Pitchfork Ranch, covering 103,000 acres and spreading across two counties, was one of the large spreads hurt by the drought and it still hasn't completely recovered.

That, plus rising costs in everything from barbed wire to trucks, has helped cause the increase in beef prices, according to Jim Humphreys, manager of the ranch.

"We're not like a factory," he said. "If a factory shuts down and then reopens, they just hire more people and work around the clock until they get caught up."

"But on American ranches you just don't rush Mother Nature. She sets her own pace."

Humphreys said cows that had to be sold during the 1971 drought had not been replaced with breeder stock. Therefore, he said, there were not as many calves being produced.

"It's that old story of supply and demand. We have more people eating more beef than ever before," he said. "And, at this time we just don't have enough calves to meet the public's demand for beef."

Humphreys said there was also a larger demand for American beef worldwide, and that demand was affecting the supply.

"Prices have been way behind the rest of the economy for a long time, we are trying to catch up a little—maybe too much too fast.

"But if they would leave the market alone it would catch up and adjust on its own. I don't believe it is something that can be legislated."

He said prices for groceries, including beef, still were not increasing like other products. He compared the increased prices of beef with those of automobiles and many luxuries.

"Of course, we also live better today than we did 15 years ago," he said.

Salty soil poses problem

Rock Creek park needs grass

TWIN FALLS — Progress on the Rock Creek Park at the west edge of Twin Falls is being delayed because the soil is too salty.

Gypsum has been recommended to neutralize the saline content, according to E. C. Woods, director of the Twin Falls County Parks and Recreation Commission. He said after two plantings of grass failed to grow in 1972 because of the soil problem, officials at the Agriculture Experiment Station at Kimberly recommended 10 to 15 tons per acre of gypsum should be induced into the surface soil and sprinkling increased to drive the existing salts down.

He said the chemical will be filled into the top five inches of soil and it is planned to excavate holes to the maximum depth above the water table, line them with plastic, and fill them with topsoil for tree and bush plantings.

A test plot by the county agent of several different strains of grass showed three which were most adaptable to the area and Woods said the one which showed the most hardiness will be planted.

If the problem of the saline soil is solved, the park should be available for public use late this summer, Woods said.

He said the layout of the park has been modified to move the roadway to the lower part of the park, near Rock Creek, to take advantage of the higher ground for grass.

The parks commission also plans to transport topsoil to isolated spots, placed on top of filament and plant trees as well as grass.

In a progress report for the Twentieth Century Club which spearheaded the project, with assistance from many other civic groups, Woods said the underground wiring will be done soon and lumber has been purchased and restrooms constructed as soon as power lines are installed.

The sprinkler system will be extended to allow better watering of the grass area as recommended by the Research Center.

Other proposed work for this season includes improving the entrance area with fence, paving, some landscaping, widening and lengthening the two grades with fill material from the Addison Avenue Improvement project of the state, graveling and paving roads and parking areas in the park, installing sand and playground equipment, drinking fountains, stables and benches, as well as fencing the stream and landscaping.

Woods said because of the additional problems in getting grass to grow, he does not anticipate there will be sufficient funds to construct the amphitheatre proposed by club members as the focal point of the park, but he is hoping this year he could be aided by some donations.

However Mrs. D. A. Jackson, coordinator of the Twentieth Century club's civic improvement project, said the club has funds earmarked for additional improvements at the park as the work progresses. She was club president when the project was initiated.

She said many other groups, including the Soroptimist, Lions, Exchange and Civitan clubs and the Pioneer club of the Mountain Belt Telephone Co. also have given financial assistance.

Boy Scout troop 59, under the leadership of George Bingham, Twin Falls, assisted in the spring cleanup of debris from the canyon walls this spring.

Other youth groups, such as 4-H clubs, have indicated willingness to help with the project as soon as they are needed, she said.

Mrs. Sarah Painter, current president of the Twentieth Century club, has initiated a project to encourage donation of memorial trees for the new park and plans to give a spruce in memory of her husband, Roy Painter.

The park, located near Magic Valley Memorial hospital, on the north side of Highway 30 and the west side of Rock Creek, covers about eight acres. Access to the park was part of the former Prescott Pony farm.

Woods said because of donations received, only $13,000 has been spent on the development under the federal participation plan and to date $1,000 reimbursement has been received from the grant.

He estimated about $25,000 remains as the cost of completing the park this year, but this will be reduced by donations and matched by the federal grant.

However, for the moment, money is not the primary problem. It's whether or not the grass will grow.

Choral group's concert slated

TWIN FALLS - The "Magic Valley Chorale" will present the Easter section of "The Messiah" on April 15 at 2:30 p.m.

This new choral group, composed of 80 voices from throughout Magic Valley, will be making its first appearance at the CSI Fine Arts Building with Roger Vincent directing and Mrs. Teala Bellini accompanying.

Phillips and Lucille Lippincott. He studied advanced choral techniques at the Fred Waring Choral Workshops in California and in Pennsylvania. He has organized and directed choruses from Chicago to Midway Island in the Pacific, and in Boise, was director for more than a decade of the Boise Elks Glee-men.

There is no admission charge but, for those who wish, there will be an opportunity to make donations.

Soloists include Mrs. Richard Reed, Mrs. Eldon Wood, Jack Van Buren and Jay Fowles. Gordon Eichmann will be guest soloist for the performance.

A native of Boise, Eichmann studied music education at San Diego State College and graduated with a degree in music from Washington State University. He studied voice in Boise under Ruth and Henry Eichmann has distinguished himself as a soloist in oratorio, musical plays and opera, Vincent said. In Boise he has filled lead roles in musicals including "South Pacific," "Kismet," "Sound of Music," "Camelot," and most recently, "Man of La Mancha." In opera he has performed not only with the Boise Philharmonic in productions of "La Boheme" and "Pagliacci," but also in Portland, Oregon where he performed professionally in a lead role with Anna Moffo in their production of "La Traviata."

If you're in the market for a new lawn mower this spring, be sure to look for a little triangular seal somewhere on the handle or body.

Lawn mowers that carry this seal have passed a series of tests to meet new American National Standards Institute safety requirements. The seals are provided by the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute to all manufacturers who have voluntarily agreed to abide by the new standards.

The standards require all machines to have a back shield to keep feet from sliding under the mower, to have an extended discharge chute and a blade that won't shatter when a steel rod is poked into it at top speed.

For those who like to sleep in or weekends, the ANSI standards have a special blessing. All engines must have noise levels less than 92 decibels. While this is still far from a soft, purring sound, it's still a lot less noise than the old mowers used to make.

Even though many mowers will meet the new standards, it doesn't mean they'll all be the same. Some have special features which make them safer and more economical than others.

Most lawn mower repair pros claim a machine with a two-cycle engine is easier to maintain than a four-cycle engine. This is because two-cycle engines have only four or five moving parts compared to as many as 28 moving parts in four-cycle engines.

The four-cycle engine has a separate oil system (you mix oil in the gas for two-cycle engines) which requires regular oil changes. Most owners forget. When you mow on a slope, it's often hard for the oil to function properly in a four-cycle engine.

Whatever kind of engine you buy, make sure it gets the proper amount of fresh oil.

In a four-cycle engine should be changed at least twice a season and the filter in both four- and two-cycle engines should be regularly cleaned. For small yards, electric mowers are the easiest to maintain.

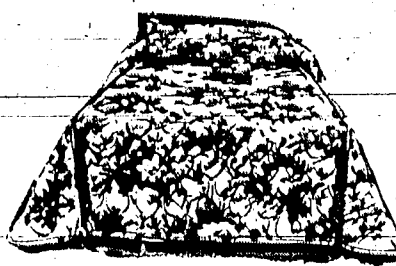

Here are some other features to look for in a new mower:

1. Handles are somewhat safer if they're in a closed loop. Handles should be rigid and shouldn't bend much when you tilt the mower on its side.
2. Wheels should be made of metal and have antifriction roller bearing. You can usually tell whether wheels have bearing by spinning them.
3. Blades should be made of a single piece of metal. Discs that have four blades bolted onto it aren't as strong.
4. Decks should have sturdy metal and be as deep as possible (four inches from top to bottom is ideal).
5. Control should be fixed solidly on the handle and should be easy to reach.
6. Self-propelled mowers or garden tractor types should have a differential gear which can save on maintenance and repairs. Independent blade propulsion is also a good idea so you can disengage the blade while moving over rough spots.
7. Dealers who have a good stock of parts and enough trained mechanics to service your machine can save money and aggravation later on.

Read the owner's manual. It tells, for example, whether you can use low-lead or no-lead gasoline. Many engines must use regular leaded gasoline to keep from burning out.

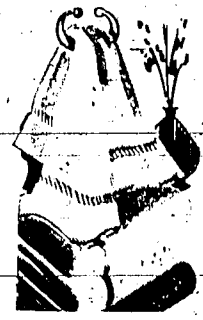

When operating your mower, try to cut the speed back one-third or so. You may have to walk a little slower, but you'll cut down on engine wear, gasoline use and noise.

She's still proud of mother

By MARY ANDREWS
Lubbock, Texas

As I opened the door to the nursing home, I thought for perhaps the hundredth time, "Why, Lord? It seemed wrong somehow that a woman as beautiful and alive as my mother should now be imprisoned by a crippled body and a mind that wandered and groped for reality."

I walked down the hall and into the four-bed room in which mother lived. She smiled and said, "Hello, hon, come on in."

This in itself was fine, except that this is the way she greeted everyone who passed her door, from the director of the convalescent home, to the cook in the kitchen. I had become used to this over the past few years, but today I was in a nostalgic mood — and I missed my mother.

She had been a schoolteacher before marrying my dad. During World War II, while I was a teenager and my brother was overseas in the service, mother returned to the classroom. When the war was over, I was ready for college and she made up her mind to continue teaching.

Some years later, after I had finished college and was married, mother became the victim of rheumatoid arthritis which crippled her. In her hands, knees and ankles. Due to sheer determination, faith in God, and my father's unfailing support, she remained on her feet, and was able to keep going.

My father died in 1954. Again mother was able to hold up. For 10 years she taught school and was independent because of her personal faith and courageous attitude.

The day came, however, when mind and body began to give out. My husband and I brought her to our home in Texas, but soon had to move her to the nursing home when her needs were too many to be met in a home situation.

As time passed, mother often did not recognize me when I visited her. Distressed by this, my visits declined in frequency.

I began to lose sight of mother's courage and optimism — the traits she had tried to instill in me to help counter life's discouragements.

My thoughts were interrupted by an aide who stuck her head in the door to say "Hi!" The inevitable "Hello, hon, come on in," brought a big smile to the Mexican-American girl's face.

A few minutes later another aide, this time a middle-aged woman with tired lines etched in her face, stopped in. Mother's greeting brought a light to her eyes that altered her whole face.

As she patted mother's hand and left the room, I reflected on such scenes; the orderly who straightened his shoulders with new purpose after a visit with mother, the time when the daughter of one of the other patients was so visibly cheered after standing beside mother's bed for a few minutes.

I remembered how every time someone came in to minister to mother, she always smiled, and said "please" and "thank you." She was certainly one of the more helpless patients, yet I realized for the first time that no one ever seemed to mind helping her, no matter how distasteful the job.

Then I knew I had found the answer to my question. All of her life mother had given to others, and she was still giving. With neither a body nor a mind that she could control, she was still able to brighten someone's life.

Today I can say, "Thank You, Lord, for mother's continued usefulness." And to mother I can say, "How very proud I am to be your daughter!"

Now I was back to the "Why Lord?" I looked at mother. She had no teeth; her hair was brushed back in a careless manner; her skin was drawn tightly over nearly fleshless bones; and her joints were badly twisted. Luckily she seemed to be in very little pain; apparently the arthritis had worn itself out.

To paint screens took a piece of carpet onto a block of wood, dip in the paint and "paint." You will use less paint, splatter less and do a better job than with a brush.

Fiery outburst due some future day in South Idaho

By DALE STEWART
Times-News City Editor

TWIN FALLS — Volcanic activity in the Magic Valley?

Lava, hot ashes, smoke, gas, earthquakes? It's possible. It has happened before. In fact, it's probable that it will occur again, in the opinion of a professional geologist living in Twin Falls.

L. J. Ettinger says, however, what can't be predicted is when or where such activity might occur again. Intervals between volcanic outbursts aren't easily predicted.

One reason he thinks southern Idaho will someday see another fiery outburst is because it is situated in the "volcanic belt" extending from the Yellowstone National Park area southwest along the curve of the Snake River, west toward Mountain Home and Boise, and continuing into northern Nevada and eastern and southern Oregon.

This belt includes such notable evidence of past and present volcanic activity as Craters of the Moon, hot springs, and the spectacular geysers and geothermal features of Yellowstone. There are scores of dormant volcanic cones or vents which are now recognizable as buttes of varying shapes and sizes.

Those vents and rifts which spewed forth the lava which makes up the hard, rocky, sagebrush covered Snake River plain are scattered across it, the crater throats plugged with rocks.

This volcanic activity has occurred sporadically during the past 13 million years, Ettinger says. The most recent is in the Craters of the Moon region. Estimates place those eruptions 1,600 to 2,000 years ago — only a day before yesterday as far as geologic time is concerned.

There are other areas of comparatively recent volcanic activity plainly visible in southern Idaho, older than Craters of the Moon but still young in terms of geologic time. One is between Idaho Falls and Poocatello, and Interstate 15 crosses one end of that lava flow.

Another is north of Shoshone in the vicinity of the ice caves, creating an L-shape on geologic maps. Still another is northeast of Minidoka.

"These areas can be recognized by the fresh, rugged appearance of the rocks," Ettinger says. "The small 'bubbled' areas and collapsed hillsides — now look about them. Not enough time has passed for the processes of erosion to wear down the rocks and form soil."

How extensive this evidence of past volcanic activity is may be found by examining a US Geological Survey map made about 10 years ago. In an area extending from the Nevada border to Magic Reservoir and from Twin Falls west to a line a few miles west of Grasmere and running north to a point halfway between Mountain Home and Boise, there are 70 to 80 centers of eruption marked.

Some of those are cones or craters, which appear now as low, rounded buttes. Most are isolated far from habitation but a few such as Flattop Butte and Notch Butte are only a short distance from principal highways.

How unpredictable volcanic activity may be is illustrated by several recent occurrences in widely separated parts of the world.

Ettinger cites as examples the volcano on small Heimaey island off Iceland. It lay dormant for a thousand years or longer before exploding into activity late in January. A major earthquake struck a few days later near Colima volcano in central Mexico. The latter "threw up smoke like it suddenly came unplugged," one report said.

The Iceland eruption has continued, completely devastating the island, which is now uninhabitable. In addition, Iceland's fishing industry has suffered severe damage.

Since then, other earthquakes have been reported in volcanic belts in South America, near Japan and in the United States.

One area hit was the Quinn River district of Nevada, north of Winnemucca near McDermitt. A "swarm" or series of small tremors began about Feb. 23. More than 30 quakes were counted in the first five days. The area is sparsely settled.

Cause of the quakes in that area is not certain.

They may be caused by shifting of rock strata deep in the earth along a fault or a series of faults. Or they may be caused by movement of molten rock far down in the earth. Such movement in areas of faults or weakened rocks can be an early phase of volcanic action preceding eruption.

Another swarm of small quakes shook the Yellowstone Park area the last week in March. A seismograph at Rexburg recorded 200 tremors, most of which were traced to the Norris Geyser Basin in the central area of the big park.

A geology professor at Ricks College said the most probable cause of the quakes was the release of heavy pressure built up within the earth. He said they could also be foreshocks preceding a major earthquake such as the 1959 Madison River canyon disaster, or they could be associated movement of molten rock underground.

Most volcanic activity is found in zones where the earth's crust is weakened or cracked by faults. That allows heat from molten rock far down to move up toward the surface. When rifts grow large enough, molten rock surges upward, occasionally breaking through to the surface as an eruption.

The Quinn River area and the Magic Valley are linked by the volcanic belt crossing southern Idaho, Ettinger says. It extends through the Oregon-Idaho border area.

Ettinger says the belt and related subterranean faults may also be connected with the Mendocino Fault, which lies beneath the Pacific Ocean and is a major weak spot in the earth's crust.

Another area from which any major disturbance would almost certainly be felt is along the Wasatch Fault in northern Utah, Ettinger says.

That fault is at the base of the Wasatch Mountains beneath Salt Lake City and the heavily settled area east of the Great Salt Lake. It is part of a weaker rock zone extending from southern Utah across eastern Idaho into central Montana.

While the Magic Valley and southern Idaho have seen volcanic activity in the distant past, the area is presently dormant. But because of the past history of lava flows or eruptions, Ettinger believes there will probably be eruptions in the future.

"What cannot be predicted is when," Ettinger says. It could be next year, or in 100 years, or in 1,000 years.

Neither can the spot in the many thousands of square miles where an eruption might occur be predicted. But Ettinger thinks when lava breaks forth again, it will probably be near some point where the earth's crust is weakened, or where lava flowed in the past.

SMOKE BILLOWS as lava from volcano on Heimaey Island near Iceland flows toward structures on island, abandoned by more than 5,000 persons who fled after eruptions began early this year. Photo was taken late in March. (UPI)

Eruption continues

Estimates place Magic Valley's most recent eruptions at between 1,600 and 2,000 years ago.

The most likely places, then, would be in the vicinity of the freshest lava flows — Craters of the Moon, east of Bliss, or near Idaho Falls.

While prediction of an eruption is chancy, there are warning signs often preceding an outburst of volcanic activity. Most obvious sign is the earthquake or earth-tremor.

"Because earth tremors frequently precede volcanic eruptions, they may indicate that a fissure has opened deep in the earth, making some advance warning of an eruption possible," Ettinger said.

Those warnings are often conveyed through seismographs, and readings taken from several of those instruments — which measure intensity of earth shocks transmitted through the rock strata beneath the earth's surface — can pinpoint the location of an earthquake and permit investigation of the area from the surface of the earth.

Ettinger says instrument readings are of most value where volcanic activity is on a short cycle, such as Mt. Etna in Sicily. There, major outbursts come every 10, 20 or 50 years, with frequent lesser eruptions.

"Probably the best early indicators are small, localized earth tremors, which should put people in any area on their guard," he says.

Another instrument of value in obtaining evidence of subterranean movement of hot magma is the tiltmeter or clinometer. Those devices measure the minute changes in angles of rock strata displaced when magma begins pushing upward. Such devices can indicate where future volcano is likely to break forth.

Use of such specialized instruments and on the spot observations are about the only methods of assembling evidence which could provide short-range predictions about possible volcanic outbursts.

In some "hot spots," such as Hawaii, where eruptions and related phenomena are frequent, observation stations have been set up to monitor the forces which shake and shape the earth. By interpreting observed and recorded information, scientists at those points are often able to deduce what may happen over a period of a few weeks.

But even some of their predictions don't turn out, since the actions of natural forces frequently can't be anticipated with complete accuracy.

Ettinger says there is a pattern which volcanic activity generally follows — subterranean shifting of rocks, followed by opening of a fissure emitting steam, gases, ash and rock fragments, then lava. The opening or throat will eventually be plugged by rock as the eruption subsides.

But if future activity revives a volcanic rent, the explosive force which reopens such a clogged throat produces a spectacular effect — the blockage is hurled out and the passage opened.

Eruptions pose considerable danger to persons living nearby. Besides the threat of flowing molten rock, there are poisonous gases, falling ash — actually fine rock particles which can pile up quickly to immense depths — smoke, fire, steam and heat, as well as damage to buildings from earthquakes and hazards created by fissures opening in the earth.

There have also been recorded instances where a river has been dammed, with the resulting lake breaching the dam, causing a destructive flood.

When it comes to protection of property, the options are few — evacuation of the populace of an area near an eruption, and perhaps diversion of flowing lava by dikes.

So considering that, the job of protecting the populace would probably fall to the state or federal government, as would the job of relocation of evacuees and rehabilitation of damaged property, if it could be.

And the task of predicting volcanic outbursts will probably remain with scientists and students of the earth and its forces, be they connected with universities, scientific agencies, or the government.

Since the outbreak which created Craters of the Moon, there has been occasional evidence that volcanic activity in the western United States isn't far below the surface. Several notable peaks in the Cascade and Sierra Nevada mountain ranges of volcanic origin have been observed emitting smoke.

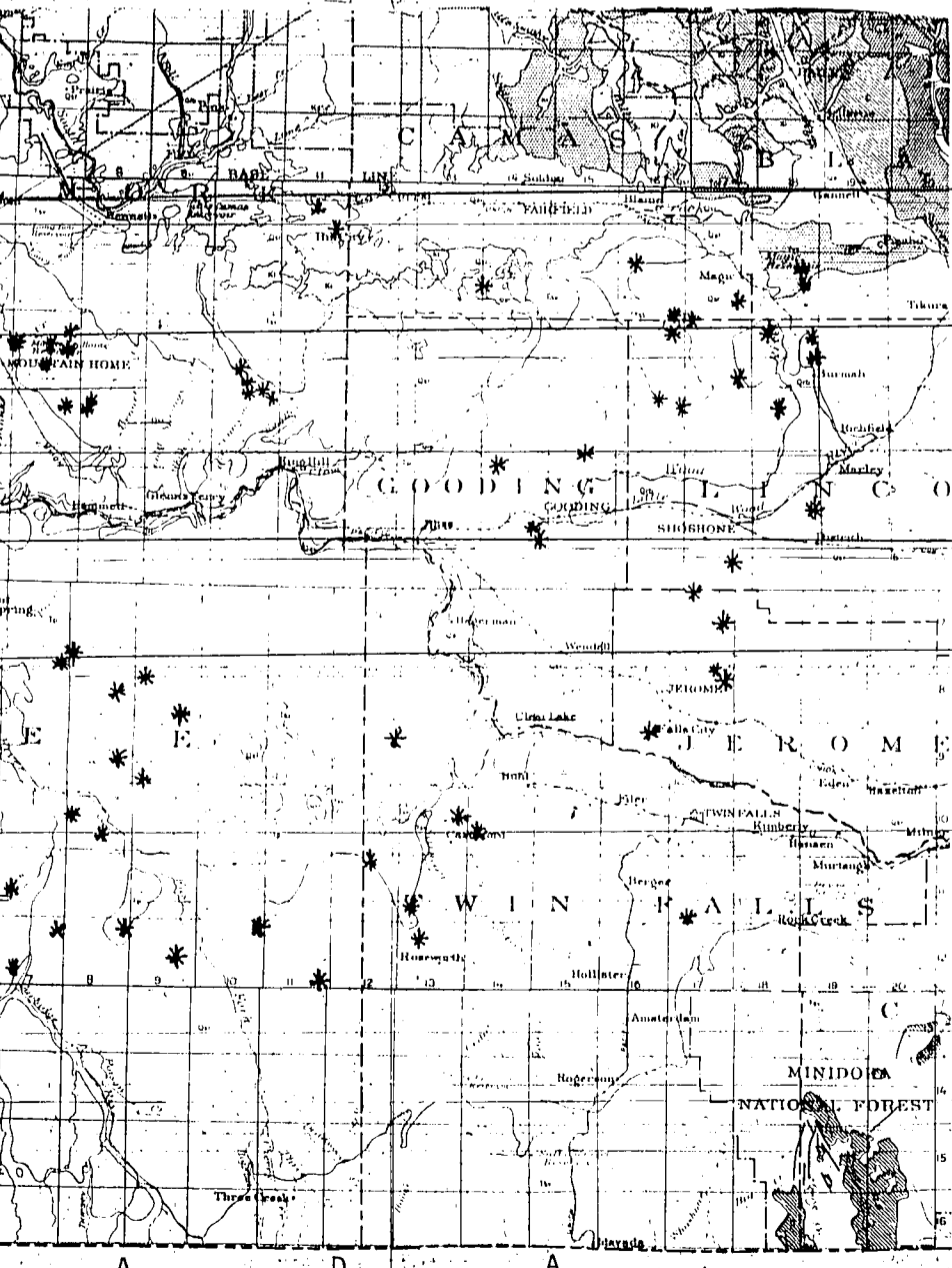

The last confirmed hints came early in this century when Mt. Lassen in northern California rumbled and sputtered for a time.

And earth tremors in the Magic Valley aren't entirely unknown — Ettinger says a couple are on record in the middle 1920s.

Although the lava vents which dot the Snake River plain and southern Idaho are cold and dormant, the possibility exists that some day in the future they — or new ones — could come to life again.

When that happens, those who witness those pyrotechnics will see a spectacular display of the natural power which is continually building and changing this planet.

'It's probable that it will occur again..'

TF plans free vision clinic

TWIN FALLS — A week-long free vision and hearing clinic for pre-school children will be held April 9-13 at the YM-YWCA.

Screening will be done by specially trained volunteers from the Delta Gamma Alumnae Group, Junior Club and Welcome Wagon. These workers have been trained to detect common defects which often pass unnoticed until the child is of school age. Children should be checked each year, even if they were checked previously, according to Mrs. Rick Allen, Junior Club chairman.

The clinic will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. including the lunch hours, so working parents may also benefit from this service. Transportation will be provided, if necessary by calling 733-7430.

Current Cues

By HELEN WALKER TWIN FALLS — As a result of an ongoing study by a well known testing organization concerning microwave oven safety, I have had several inquiries from concerned consumers. Because microwave cooking is such a different principle than conventional cooking methods there has been much misunderstanding and speculation about its safe use. What are microwaves? They are the same kind of extremely short radio waves that transmit the signal to your TV set. The moisture in food attracts and absorbs the microwaves. When the microwaves enter the food, they cause the food molecules to move rapidly. This rapid movement produces heat in the food which cooks the food very quickly. Microwaves are not heat, they are a form of energy and when they are absorbed by the food they provide the energy necessary to create heat for cooking. Speed of cooking, natural food flavor and color, more retention of vitamins and food nutrients, convenience and the ease of the cleaning are the primary reasons for their popularity.

For consumers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New Federal Trade Commission (FTC) regulations to benefit consumers include one giving customers three-day cooling-off periods in which they can cancel, without penalty or fee, a purchase made from door-to-door salesmen if the product or service costs $25 or more.

When shopping for crystal, it is fashionable for the bride to put the crystal through a few tests. She should see that the bowls and stems of glasses have uniform shape and balance. She

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

The diet advice and exercise routines that appeared in the column during the late winter win a laurel wreath for almost any figure. If the program was faithfully followed.

But you cannot out on your laurels. The diet with out eventually losing your prize. That does not mean you must diet forever. Only that you must eat wisely — a healthful balance of nutrients with a calorie count that maintains your normal weight.

Not must you continue with spot exercise to keep in shape, although it surely is the easiest and most readily available type of workout. As physicians contend, you do need some form of regular exercise to stay trim and fit.

In addition to neat proportions, perfection grooming is a requisite of prize-winning figures. Surely no Lovely would ever be tempted to slight her grooming rites. She would be on the lookout for ways to increase their effectiveness.

At all seasons she would be fussy about the fit and efficiency of her undergarments. This seems particularly vital in an era of clothes with classic qualities.

Lastly, she would never abuse the world's most marvelous mechanism — the human body, her body. She would live by the health rules and get sufficient sleep, rest, relaxation and fresh air.

So doing, how could she have less than a fine figure? How could she not be you?

Name another car that gives you all these features for $2975.

- Plymouth?
 - Nope.
 - Chevrolet?
 - Nope.
 - Ford?
 - Nope.
 - You get the idea.
- Only the 1973 Volkswagen 412 Two-Door Sedan has all those features, as standard equipment, for $2975.
- Even more surprising, most cars don't have some of those features at any price.
- For example, no other car in the world has a timed preheating system. Which automatically warms up the 412's plush interior.
- No domestic car has a computerized fuel injection system.
- And no other car in the world (except Rolls-Royce) has as long a full-car warranty as we do: 24 months/24,000 miles.
- Makes you wonder...
- Don't other carmakers want to give you your money's worth?
- Introducing the 1973 Volkswagen 412. Few things in life work as well as a Volkswagen.

It is a pretty good principle of no-trump play to try to develop the suit where you can take the greatest number of tricks before fooling around with any other suit.

It is a pretty good general principle, but as all rules, you must know when to follow it and when not to.

The way the cards lie, South was lucky to get a heart lead rather than a club and to have hearts continued after he ducked the first lead. He had to win the second heart in dummy and his immediate impulse was to knock out the ace of diamonds and get four diamond tricks set up right away.

Then he thought things over carefully and saw that he would need two spade tricks in order to come to a total of nine.

Give East the king of spades and he could get his two spades any time he wanted to.

What if West held the king of spades? South saw that if West held both the king of spades and the ace of diamonds that three no-trump was not going to make on any line of play. Further consideration showed him that if he tried the spade finesse before knocking out the ace of diamonds that he could make his contract as long as East held one of those two cards so South immediately led and lost the spade finesse.

West won and cleared the hearts, but could never get in to make them and South wound up with his nine tricks.

CARD Sense

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	5 ♠

You, South, hold: ♠K85 ♥QJ54 ♦A2 ♣K885

What do you do now?

A—Bid four hearts. Your partner will know that you only hold four hearts but even if he has just three, this may be the best spot.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner continues to four spades. What do you do now?

DEAR ABBY: My husband is very hard to get along with. He is also a very poor sport. I was in my fifth month of pregnancy with our first child when I started to get pains. We had planned to go to a football game that day, so my husband got mad and laid down on the couch and told me to wake him up when it was time to go to the hospital. I kept telling him it was time, but he stalled around just for spite and I had the baby in the parking lot outside the hospital.

Another time we took our five kids to Disneyland. My husband likes to go on all those wild rides but I got dizzy, so he took the kids while I watched. The big one got a nosebleed on the Ferris wheel and bled all over my husband's suit, so he gave the poor kid a licking just like it was his fault.

Irritable husband

The reason I'm writing this is because yesterday I scraped the fender on his car and he got mad and broke my Yucca tree.

If I weren't pregnant with number six I'd leave him. Any advice? TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: What's done is done, but you should give some thought to turning off the "baby machine." It's not fair to saddle children with a father like that.

DEAR ABBY: I love to cook, but I recently married a man whose hobby is cooking. Every night he fixes a different kind of dinner. He's gone from Chinese to Hungarian to Italian—I hate to complain, but my husband's cooking is terrible and I can't take much more of it.

How can I tell him to please stay out of the kitchen and let me do the cooking? UPSET STOMACH

DEAR UPSET: Unless you speak Chinese, Hungarian, or Italian, tell him in English.

DEAR ABBY: After 25 years of a happy, suburban marriage in ultra luxurious circumstances, with three children, my wife and I have been under going an amicable no-fault divorce because (as she puts it) "we have nothing in common except the children."

She's already found a future husband (a former college friend whom she rediscovered a year ago), has left our home awaiting the time when she can remarry. No alimony involved.

Frankly, Abby, I am bored with the suburban rat race, and want to start a new life elsewhere. The question is where? And with whom?

My children are into yoga, meditation, gurus, helping others, rejecting material things, and status. I am seriously considering adopting their lifestyle.

What do you say about my making such an abrupt change in my early 50s? Is this a passing fancy, or would it be a wise choice for me? And how do I find a partner while doing so? Or is therapy the answer? RE-EVALUATING

DEAR RE: First things first. Don't look for a "partner" while you try to determine which route to pursue in your search for peace of mind—which is what you're after. Get into therapy and once you find your head you will know who you are. Then you can change your lifestyle if that's what you want.

TF youth displays talent with good friend, Danny

By DAVID WOODHEAD Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Television, some left over balsa wood and a little imagination made an idea a reality for a young Twin Falls youth.

Two years and a few months ago, Ronnie Piercy took a hunk of balsa, a couple of buttons, some stuffing, doll-size clothes, and, remembering an act he'd seen on television, constructed his first ventriloquistic puppet (or dummy).

Those first few months after the birth of PJ, Ronnie's beginning interest in puppetry restricted itself to shows given with a stage keeping him out of view. PJ performed much the same way as a hand puppet would: on his own.

But Ronnie eventually began to master the art of ventriloquism. He practiced talking to PJ in the deepest hopes that one day PJ would understand what he was doing and "talk" back to him.

Evidently PJ caught on quickly. And although Ronnie is quite proud of his dummy's ability, he is not one to boast about it — he keeps his mouth shut whenever PJ has anything to say.

By now, Ronnie, who is still only 13, has a new friend, Danny, a gift from his sister. Together they sing "Old MacDonald," in parts, and tell jokes.

Danny, a commercial creation, is a more exact representation of his species than PJ, but his present appearance owes much to Ronnie's own imagination.

Not long ago Ronnie replaced Danny's painted hairpiece with one of his own design — a toupe he made from a wig of his mother's.

While Ronnie and his friends might enjoy a pleasant evening of conversation all alone they've also displayed their talent for talking before several gatherings.

Ronnie and Danny, at least, have entertained at a Boy Scout Banquet, the Seventh Day Adventists, Heritage Manor, and a recent talent show at O'Leary Junior High School.

Ronnie intends to build his next dummy completely on his own, styling it in the likeness most familiarly recognized as that given a dummy. From there he plans a study of ventriloquism, leading to a world of entertainment, or more hopefully, one of instruction.

But whatever field ventriloquism might inspire, little effect is pictured on the pleasure the art is giving its advocate. Ronnie, amazingly young for such talent, is skilled enough already to make what he can do a lot of fun for himself as much as for his audiences.

Employment up sharply during March

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The number of persons with jobs rose sharply in March to an all-time high of 83.9 million while unemployment edged down to 5.0 per cent, matching the lowest rate during the past 2 1/2 years, the government said Friday.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the March jobless rate, the same as in January, was "essentially unchanged" from the 5.1 per cent rate in February.

But the 5.0 per cent rate for January and March was the lowest since July of 1970 and was about a full percentage point below the 6 per cent range that prevailed for 10 months before unemployment started to come down last June.

While unemployment was dipping, the BLS said employment increased 700,000 in March to reflect a continuing expansion of the economy.

The BLS also reported that for the second year in a row, unit-labor costs of U.S. manufacturers went up at a slower pace in 1972 than for industry in Japan, Canada and Western Europe. This should improve the competitive position of U.S. firms and help reduce America's foreign trade deficit.

But while the employment and unit labor cost reports were good news for the administration, they hardly offset the bad news released the day before by the BLS — that wholesale prices went up at a 22-year high of 2.2 per cent in March, with finished-food rising a record 4.6 per cent — showing that inflation is increasing under the Phase III controls.

Shortly before the BLS released the two reports Friday, AFL-CIO President George Meany said the administration was "floundering around" in its efforts to deal with rising prices and warned that unions were under "tremendous pressure" to get big wage increases. In contract negotiations this year.

The BLS said the increased employment in March occurred mostly among adult men and teen-agers, with teenagers accounting for most of the drop in unemployment.

Jobless rates for various classifications of workers showed little or no change, except that unemployment among teen-agers fell from 15.8 per cent to 14.2 per cent.

Average weekly wages of private nonfarm rank and file workers increased $1.13 last month to $140.23. This was a 6.2 per cent increase over the past year, more than offsetting the 3.9 per cent increase in consumer prices during that period.

Hourly earnings averaged $3.79 in March, a one-cent increase over February and a 5.6 per cent increase over the past year — just above the government's 5.5 per cent wage guideline.

Display prizes

HAND BLOWN glass articles to be given as prizes for the first round winners of the "Pool Players" bridge program at the YWCA are displayed by Matt Vice, gift shop operator and glass blower, and winners, Cora Rodenstab, second and Dot McClain, first. Vice donated the prizes.

Y bridge series winners listed

TWIN FALLS — The first round of the YWCA's Supervised Bridge has been completed and winners announced, according to Mrs. Herb Burgess, supervisor.

Winners include Dot McClain, first; Cora Rodenstab, second, and Lenore Kadlec, third. They were presented prizes donated by Matt Vice of the Holiday Inn Gift Shop.

Prizes were of blown glass that Vice creates and makes himself. Mrs. Burgess was presented a gift from the group that Vice designed especially for her. It was a miniature square cardtable with cards laid out on the table.

Mrs. Burgess was assisted by Mrs. Vern Routh.

Supervised bridge was begun for the purpose of helping people who needed to improve their bridge playing and could have someone near to ask for advice. Those participating were ones of little experience with bridge in addition to those who had played for several years but still did not fully understand the bidding or playing of the hand.

Sixty-eight women participated from Twin Falls, Buhl, Hazelton, Filer, Jerome, Gooding, Kimberly and Shoshone. Each person contributes $1 to the YMCA and YWCA Swimming Pool fund.

Gooding stake sends funds to hospital

JEROME — Contributions totaling $3,821.23 have been sent the Primary Children's Hospital by the Gooding LDS Stake.

This amount is an increase of $1,301.42 over last year, said Mrs. Herrick Drake, Jerome, primary counselor in charge of this year's Penny Parade in the stake.

She said the increase is probably due to the sound organization of appeal committees in each ward and the all-out effort made by all. Some of the wards, she said, nearly doubled their collections of a year ago.

Movies, cooked food sales and general donations were used to swell the figure, she said. The Jerome School Ward primary organizations made the largest contributions. Others included Fairfield, Glenna Ferry, Gooding first and second wards; Hagerman,

The stake, organized three years ago, sponsored the Wednesday banquet with 514 persons attending. This was the 11th annual genealogy banquet in Twin Falls but only the third for the West Atkne.

Held in the Stake Center on Harrison Street, the event was under the direction of Joline Fuell and a committee of the Eighth Ward. The program was furnished by the LDS Institute of Religion, Idaho State University, Pocatello, and included vocal and instrumental selections. Several local musicians and musical groups also participated in the program.

HOLLISTER — Farmers of the Salmon and Roseworth tracts can look forward to an excellent water year with 100 per cent delivery on water shares.

More can be delivered if needed, he said.

Both reservoir reports indicated the final storage figures will depend on the weather during the run-off season. A relatively dry soil moisture report is given for the three to four foot-depth and officials say heavy spring rain and high temperatures resulting in a rapid runoff could mean greater amounts available with 2.5 acre feet per share to be allotted.

In the 15th annual water forecast meeting during the past week in the Hollister Grange, water users were told both the Salmon and Roseworth reservoirs have an excellent carry over for this season and watersheds are about 120 per cent of normal.

The meeting, sponsored by the Twin Falls Conservation District, was presided over by Lawrence Sill, district chairman.

Maurice Huffman, manager of the Salmon River Canal Co., said storage in Salmon reservoir as of April 1 was 109,145 acre feet. He said the inflow between March 1 and Sept. 30 has been estimated at 80,000 acre feet.

With a 20 per cent reservoir loss and a 65 per cent efficiency in delivery, the full 1.41 acre feet per share of water stock will be delivered, leaving some additional carry over.

Marvin Taylor of the snow survey committee reported on the proposed 100 per cent delivery. He said this would mean additional deliveries could be made if necessary but the maximum figure is usually all that is required by farmers on the Salmon Tract.

Water outlooks and the amount to be harvested from watersheds serving the area is down from last year's all-time record but is considered excellent, he said.

Huffman also told farmers work will go ahead on schedule with the new concrete lining of the canal in the upper portion of the system.

This will improve the efficiency rate in water deliveries.

Jack Lewis, manager of the Cedar Mesa Reservoir and Canal Co. (Roseworth), said there is about 21,000 a.c. of water in storage there, also an excellent carry over. He said with an inflow of 12,500 acre feet yet to come and the outstanding 80 per cent efficiency in delivery there will be about 4.3 acre ft. per share

Nutrition levels low

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nutrition levels in many developing nations are still abysmally low in spite of the growth in farm productivity over the past decade, a government study says.

The study, prepared by the Agency for International Development (AID), warned that recent years have shown the less-developed world "walks a thin line in terms of its food supply."

"Hunger and malnutrition are, it seems, never very far away for much of the population. It is necessary to keep running just to keep up population growth," the study said. It added that in addition to continuing growth in their own productivity, the developing nations will need continuing "concessional" food aid from wealthier countries like the U.S. into the 1980's, at least.

What happened to the widely-publicized "green revolution" of the 1960's which produced sharp gains in crop output in countries like India and led to hopes the underdeveloped world was moving away from the edge of hunger?

"Progress has been made in stepping up yields in many countries, AID Official Irwin H. Hodges told a Senate subcommittee Thursday. — But it was largely swallowed up by population growth.

"In fact, the increases in food production in the developing nations were almost completely wiped out by population growth. A slight increase in per capita food supplies was evident through 1970, but then dropped slightly in 1971 and more sharply in the poor crop year of 1972," the AID report said.

India, for example, thought she has achieved self-sufficiency in cereal production in the spring of 1972," Hodges testified.

Lincoln farm payments told

SHOSHONE — Lincoln County farmers received $22,640 in price support loans and the wheat set-aside program payments amounted to $358,714 in 1972.

This was reported by James Pate, county executive director of the Department of Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Office here.

He said price support on basic crops is available to farmers through the Commodity Loan Programs of the ASC.

Pate said the loan program gives farmers an opportunity to obtain cash and hold their crops without market risk for later sales. The loan programs tend to even out marketing, he said.

Loans from the Shoshone office of ASC in 1972 covered 19,198 bushels of wheat for $22,640.00 and the set-aside program involved 290 of the county's 31 farmers eligible for participation.

A total of 3,301 acres were involved in wheat allotment in the county with $3,188 allotment on enrolled farms, he said.

The 1972 feed grain program during 1972 showed $59,488 program payments earned, on 280 farms, eligible, 163 participating on 1,340 acres under the program.

Grange told about estate planning

TWIN FALLS — Lloyd D. Browning, Pocatello, spoke on "Estate Planning and Trusts" Wednesday at the Hollister Grange hall.

His appearance was sponsored by the Salmon Tract Community Farm Bureau, the Hollister Grange and the Salmon Tract Extension Homemakers Clubs.

"In discussing trusts," he said there are two kinds, revocable and living. The revocable trust is a death trust and for the living trust, property and holdings are placed in trust during the owner's life.

P.O.D. means "Pay On Death," Browning said, and under the plan, an account designated may be transferred to the person named upon the death of the account's holder with no probate charge.

Sweden gives nod to Korea

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Sweden Friday became the first Western country to recognize North Korea. It called on other nations to follow suit.

"The Swedish government today recognized the Democratic People's Republic of Korea and proposed the establishment of diplomatic relations," the government announced after its weekly cabinet meeting.

Foreign Minister Krister Wickman said the government felt it would "further reconciliation and relaxation of tension in the Korean Peninsula if as many countries as possible normalize their relations with the two Korean governments."

Wickman said this feeling was shared by the other Nordic nations — Denmark, Norway and Finland, who will all extend recognition to the Communist regime in Pyongyang in the near future.

Finland, which recognizes no Korean government, has already decided in principle also to recognize South Korea.

The South Korean ambassador in Stockholm was informed of the move Thursday, his reaction was "not very positive," Foreign Ministry sources said, "but they are not going to break relations with us."

(Observers in Tokyo said Sweden's recognition gave a boost to the North Korean campaign to strip the United Nations' blessing from American troops in Korea.

KIRK RAMSEY examines costume of Teressa Skinner, who plays the part of Bianca in "Taming of the Shrew." The Shakespeare comedy will be given Thursday through Saturday at 8:15 p.m. at O'Leary Junior High School auditorium.

Area library gets new look

RICHFIELD — The Richfield Public Library has taken on a "New Look" during the past month.

The building, located at the town's main intersection, has been completely remodeled and a rest room added.

Dark wood paneling has been installed on all of the walls, shelving has been remodeled, and the ceiling painted.

These improvements are a part of the five year library improvement plan set up by the Richfield Library Board since the library district was look over the building. They have now been made more adaptable for book use, according to Mrs. Forrest Armstrong, library trustee.

This has increased shelving capacity and utilized all of the floor space, she said.

The library trustees painted the book shelves themselves.

The Richfield library is the only library in the state of Idaho with an apartment upstairs that helps provide the library with income. The rent from this apartment is one factor that has helped pay for the improvements in the library.

The library operation is funded from a 15 mill levy in the Richfield area.

Although things aren't yet back to normal, the library board urges everyone to come in to use the library and see its new look.

Boy designs costumes for 'Taming of Shrew'

TWIN FALLS — Costumes for the Twin Falls High School Playhouse Shakespeare production have been designed by a student, Kirk Ramsey.

The "Taming of the Shrew" will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:15 p.m. at O'Leary Junior High School auditorium.

Ramsey, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ramsey, Filer, has taken part in a number of dramatic productions in the area, including Little Theatre and Dilettante events. In addition to his dramatic and musical roles, he has danced in "Hello Dolly" and has designed costumes for several other plays and musicals including "Hairspray" and "The Toreador."

He has studied privately with local artists and Boise artists including Susan Hutchison and has exhibited his paintings in Sun Valley, Jackson Hole and Boise.

Set for the Shakespeare production "Taming of the Shrew" was designed by Luan Clawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Clawson, Twin Falls. She has studied art for several years and was asked to do the set two months ago.

Since then she has researched the Shakespeare classic and has come up with four settings for the "Shrew." She has also designed sets for the Dilettante production of "Hello Dolly."

She played lead roles in two school plays at Twin Falls and was the character lead of Miss Fern in the "Bad Seed"

Roger Kolb named to council

TWIN FALLS — Roger Kolb, head of Bradley Boiler Co., Inc., Twin Falls, has been named to the National Advisory Council of the National Federation of Independent Business.

Kolb's firm has been under his management since March, 1971. He employs seven people. His civic activities include membership in the Exchange Club and the Masons.

Emphasis urged for arts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Leon Barzin would like to shake up the education system in this country immediately to prepare us for a better future culturally.

Include more accent on the arts, he says, starting with the first grade and going right through college.

Unless we do, all the extra leisure hours promised for the future could be just one vast cultural wasteland.

Barzin, 70, is a musician, a conductor and musical director of the National Orchestral Association (NOA), a non-profit organization which is credited with helping train some of the finest musicians in the country.

A latest count, there are more than 400 NOA members in 63 orchestras in the U.S.A., the Metropolitan Opera, the New York Philharmonic and the New York City Ballet among them.

"We must prepare our people for the leisure hours," said Barzin. "In our educational system, we have not really had music as part of the curricula until college age. And that's a little late."

Because a child learns mostly by eye until about age 10, he said, he "would put musical instruments such as a violin in a first grade classroom so the child can see, touch, ask questions. In two or three years, he'll be wanting to play."

"By college age, he will see a symphony as though he were reading a book."

Yet, the live symphonies, operas and ballet are up against the competition of television which has made us musically "lazy," said Barzin.

"Do you realize we have a whole generation that hasn't seen a concert!"

"There again, it goes back to the schools."

Barzin is a classicist well aware of the appeal to the young of the "popular idiom" — rock, country and western music.

"All contemporary music is getting a much bigger hold," said Barzin in an interview in his offices down the street from Carnegie Hall. "Ballet has found a place for Stravinsky, for instance."

"Opera will find its way once it's rid of the black tie syndrome."

"I think we'll see a shift... a melding of all forms. I've seen young people listen to Bach and adore it."

NOA was founded in 1920 to provide professional experience for young talent which might not otherwise be able to get it. Students attend on fellowship grants. Membership and private funds support the association.

Girl wins jingle contest

SHOSHONE — Joylean Johnson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Wesley Johnson, Shoshone, has been selected region-4 winner in the Idaho Beautification Council Jingle contest.

She will receive an expense paid trip to Boise to be honored at an awards luncheon April 27 at the Rodeway Inn during the fourth annual conference of the Idaho Beautification Council. Gov. Cecil D. Second place in the regional contest went to Ginnie Bennett, student at Bickel School, Twin Falls, and third place winner is Kerry Peterson, Minidoka School District, Rupert.

Judges for the district contest included officials of KTTV radio station, Mrs. E. E. Jellison, Twentieth Century Club and Pauline Harper, Buhl High School.

Mrs. D. A. Jackson, coordinator of the Twentieth Century Club's civic improvement project, is regional director for the council. The club has spearheaded the Rock Creek Park project and conducted an anti-litter campaign in Twin Falls.

Subject of the jingle contest was "Idaho Is Too Great To Litter."

Snake River survey shows water lack

BURLEY — The Upper Snake River watershed snowpack continues to show a deficit in water content, according to Carlos C. Randolph, superintendent of the Minidoka Project.

The April 1 snow survey produced the data upon which the 1973 flood operation will be based, he said today.

According to Randolph, all reservoirs of the upper Snake should fill.

American Falls Reservoir is now filled to the restriction point, holding 1.125 million acre feet. Lake Walcott is filled to its 95,180 acre foot capacity.

Island Park Reservoir will fill by April 15 and Grassy, Jackson Lake and Palisades are expected to fill in June with snowmelt runoff from the high country, Randolph said.

Spill past Milner Dam is averaging 7,000 cubic feet per second, but is expected to stop about May 1 as the irrigation-water demand increases.

Irrigation water is expected to be adequate, but draft on storage will begin early in the season.

Kidnap charges dropped

KETCHUM — A charge of second degree kidnaping has been dismissed against Bernard E. Taylor, 26, Buena Vista, Calif.

A motion that the charge be dismissed with prejudice was agreed upon by the attorneys for the parties involved. The order, calling for the move, has been signed by Blaine County Magistrate V.K. Jeppesen.

McClure gets GOP praise

TWIN FALLS — Idaho's Republican National Committeewoman Friday praised Sen. James McClure's efforts to reduce government

Orriette Sinclair said "Idaho can be proud of Sen. James McClure's efforts to sustain President Nixon's veto of the Rehabilitation Act of 1972, and reduce federal spending."

"McClure has received Nixon's letter of commendation for his efforts to sustain the veto, in voting on the Senate floor on April 3," she said.

"Congress had added $1 billion to the president's requested appropriation," she said.

Gooding man injured in one-car accident

SHOSHONE — David Dale Mink, 27, Gooding, was released from Gooding County Hospital Thursday after having been treated for injuries received in an automobile accident.

B. J. Anderson, Lincoln County sheriff, said Mink reportedly fell asleep at the wheel at 6:45 a.m. Tuesday as he was traveling toward Shoshone at the west edge of the city limits.

His car rolled down the center of the highway and left the left side ending up on a railroad crossing on the left side of the road opposite the state highway shop buildings. The car he was driving is considered a total loss.

Human blood produced in mouse

UPTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Scientists at Brookhaven Laboratory have developed a way to produce human blood and blood-forming cells inside a living mouse.

The research makes it possible to duplicate the living continuously functioning system of human blood cell reproduction outside the human body for the first time, a laboratory spokesman said today.

The method will allow scientists to study the process of blood formation, the prevention of disease and the effects of drugs on the human body.

Dr. Eugene P. Cronkite, chairman of the laboratory medical department, said the long range goal of the study is a system that would allow bone marrow transplants.

Bone marrow is the main blood-forming tissue, Cronkite said. The transplants, now only a theoretical possibility, would enable scientists to combat such diseases as leukemia and sickle cell anemia, he said.

The blood cell formation takes place inside a small coin-shaped chamber implanted inside the animal's abdominal cavity.

The sides of the chamber are made of extremely fine-pored filters that allows nutrient fluids in and out but prevents the cells inside from escaping and prevents the animal's cells from invading the chamber.

In the experiments, Cronkite said, only a small number of human bone marrow cells are put into the chamber. The chamber is then implanted in the mouse where the cells are allowed to grow for several weeks.

At first the total number dwindles as the mature cells die, he said. Later the total grows to as many as 10 million and they differentiate into all the types found in normal marrow, Cronkite said. Other methods of growing long marrow cells under artificial conditions were known, he said, but in general these tended to produce only a few types of white blood cells and no red blood cells.

A chief advantage of the system, Cronkite said, is the chamber can be removed at any time for study of its contents.

Brookhaven scientists have already used the system to grow cells from patients suffering from leukemia and hope it will be possible to test the effectiveness of drugs against such cells growing in the chambers.

The most hopeful solution to the energy crisis was born near Arco, Idaho

History was made at the National Reactor Testing Station, near Arco, in December, 1951, when the first useful electricity ever produced from the atom was generated by a nuclear fast-breeder reactor. Successful operation of EBR-1 (Experimental Breeder Reactor No. 1) proved an advanced theory on energy generation to be technically feasible.

Today the breeder principle which the EBR-1 experiment proved is believed to offer the most promising solution to the nation's energy crisis.

Through the joint efforts of investor-owned utilities, public power suppliers and the federal government, a demonstrator plant to prove the fast breeder reactor to be commercially practical is planned for construction near Oak Ridge, Tennessee — like the Idaho-based A. E. O. operation, well-known in nuclear energy history.

The target date for completion complies with President Nixon's request for a successful demonstrator breeder by 1980. He described the fast breeder as "our best hope today for meeting the Nation's growing demand for economical clean energy."

To visualize the advantages of the breeder reactor over the conventional nuclear plant, consider that complete conversion of one pound of uranium, about the size of a golf ball, would yield as much energy as twenty-five railroad cars full of coal. The conventional reactor utilizes less than one percent of this potential energy. By contrast, it is anticipated that the breeder reactor will put to use up to forty times as much of this available power.

The fast breeder reactor will produce less heat loss and less radioactive waste per kilowatt of energy generated than today's conventional nuclear plants. Furthermore, it will actually produce more fuel than it consumes, by converting non-fissionable uranium-238 to fissionable plutonium-239. This could extend our known uranium reserves for thousands of years.

For the intermountain area, economics would dictate that low-sulfur western coal most probably will be our source of new energy through the 1980s. Meanwhile, because the energy crisis is one problem and everyone's problem, we believe it wise and necessary to be a part of the longer-range research and development program.

ISU takes two from Broncos

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Bengals swept a pair of non-conference baseball games from the Boise State Broncos Saturday by scores of 4-0 and 9-3.

Rain kills third round of masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — They never had a chance to play the third round of the Masters Saturday, but they tried anyway.

The first seven players already were on the waterlogged Augusta National Course, where it rained all morning, when officials conceded the obvious and suspended play.

They waited more than an hour before postponing the round until Sunday and moving the windup of the tournament to Monday.

The weather bureau promised little better conditions for Sunday. The rain a.m. MST Sunday, only about 11 a.m. MST Sunday, only about two hours before the third round now is scheduled to begin.

"I'd be concerned if I was the leader," said Nichols, who is 10 strokes behind. "But it doesn't really matter to me."

Bob Dickson Jr., and J.C. Sneed were tied for the 36-hole lead with three-under-par 141 scores.

Chi Chi Rodriguez was at 142 and Bob Goalby, the 1958 winner, Gray Jones, Masashi "Junho" Ozaki and Peter Costerhus all were at 143.

Nicklaus, the favorite as usual, was five strokes behind following a horrendous 77 Friday where he was deserted by his putter.

Bruins split on Boise tour

BOISE — The Twin Falls Bruins defeated Borah 10-6 and then fell to Boise 17-10 in a windblown, error-filled doubleheader Saturday afternoon.

Boise turned the tables on the Bruins with a seven-run sixth inning to win the opener as Coach Harold Brown used just about everyone in uniform on the mound in an effort to stop the Braves in the nightcap. Twin Falls staked Mike Anderson to a 5-0 lead in the first three innings and then outlasted the Lions.

The Bruins and Boise took turns exchanging runs through the first five innings. Gary Irish belting a three-run homer for Twin Falls in the third inning. Boise was ahead 8-6 going into the big sixth inning and from then on it was a slugger.

In the second game, Twin Falls took a 1-0 lead in the second inning and then erupted for four in the third. Mark Hanchey started it with a single, but was erased on a fielder's choice. Mike Garcia man was erased but Irish came through with a run-scoring hit and Charlie Browne followed with a walk. Ross Deahl and Curtis Ward wound it up with singles.

The nationally televised game drew an ABA record crowd of 16,887 in Freedom Hall.

The game was parlayed into a timely shooting of Dan Issel, Jim O'Brien and Walt Simon with Artis Gilmore's mastery of the backboards and Simon's excellent defense against Julius Erving to advance to the final round of the Eastern Division against the Carolina Cougars.

CSI places third in NNC track meet

NAMPA — Randy Suter and Jeff VanLoover went one-two in the mile and three-mile Saturday afternoon to lead College of Southern Idaho to a third place finish in the Northwest Nazarene College invitational.

On the raw and windy day, CSI went with only eight men and accumulated 39 points. NNC nipped Treasure Valley 56-55 to win it while College of Idaho had 12.

Suter was joined in the winner's circle by Mike Murray, who won the shotput at 42 feet, 7 inches. Kim Berger placed fourth in that event but came back after one week's practice, for second in the javelin at 150 feet.

Randy Milton was nipped in the half-mile and Mike Phillips, trying only one jump, placed second in the triple jump.

Phillips, one to a heel injury, was unable to high jump, an event he already has qualified for nationals in, and the event without hurdler Dave Hamilton, out with a hamstring pull. Long jumper Jim Hopkins also was sidelined by a muscle pull.

Coach Jim Blaisdell said among the four there was a possibility of three firsts and at least high placement points in four events.

"The whole course was like casual water," said Bobby Nichols, the first player to tee off. "The fairways were such that you couldn't believe. When you were putting, it was tough to read the currents."

Nichols, who said he did not expect even to attempt to play, three-putted the first green from 15 feet for a bogey, made a par at the par-5 second hole and had his tee shot on No. 3 when the round was called.

It was the first roundout at the Masters, first of the year's four major championships, since the final round was washed out in 1963, the year Jack Nicklaus won the first of his four titles here.

Shortages of automotive antifreeze in the Soviet Union this winter prompted numerous members of the Diplomatic Corps there to fill their car radiators with vodka. I'm told. Worked all right, evidently.

When the temperature is between 55 and 60 degrees F. in the garden, cucumbers grow best. Cucumbers grow best between 65 and 75 degrees F. And between 70 and 75 degrees F. is the range in which tomatoes grow best. So say the agricultural specialists.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 8, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A strange day when best results are obtained if you concentrate on studying how to replace overemotionalism with objective reasoning. You may have a tendency to feel sorry for yourself which could bring added trouble.

ARIES (Mar. 32 to Apr. 19) Home ties may think you have not been thoughtful enough of them lately, so forget own affairs and do something nice for them. Remove whatever is causing strife at home. Avoid gossip.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) After attending services, go out with congenials and have a happy time. Travel with utmost care and avoid an accident. You can now handle a civic matter with real wisdom. Be wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are now conscious of how to have more income in the future and can take the initial steps to make it a reality. A practical person can give you some good ideas. Show your appreciation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get out of that subjective mood you find yourself in so that others will not take advantage of you. Do whatever will improve your appearance and become a more popular person.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A good day to take care of those small tasks that have accumulated while you were busy. Take time to make plans for the future. A friend comes to you for help. Be as generous as you can.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You feel that good friends are not as kind and thoughtful as usual, but they have their own troubles now. Keep busy at personal matters and forge ahead. Avoid those who oppose you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Avoid taking risks where your good name is concerned and be sure to follow every rule that applies to you. Avoid a higher-up who is in a bad mood and wants to vent his ire on someone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) You have strange ideas which may be misinterpreted and frowned upon by others, so don't express them for the time being. Pick a better time for a trip you have in mind. Count the cost.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you attend to those duties that are expected of you. Don't trust your intuition today which is apt to be out of gear. The evening is excellent for entertaining. Be poised.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) An associate could be spouting off for some reason, but don't let it bother you. Use objectivity in handling a problem that may come up today. Don't go off on any tangents.

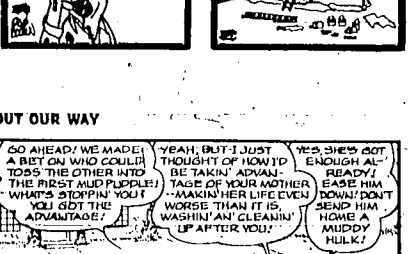

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Keep busy at that work ahead of you and forego pleasure for now. You owe a debt of gratitude to one who is of help-to-you, so be sure to show your appreciation. Relax tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Although you want to have fun, the price is too expensive, so forget it for now. Engage in the detail work of that hobby you like so much. Show others that you are most intelligent.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will be one of those delightful young people whose nature is quite emotional. Teach to be self-controlled via the right spiritual training. The chart is fine for the field of selling. Dealing with the public can be most successful here. Much happiness can be attained if your youngster is given the proper spiritual training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

April 11 meet set on TF land

TWIN FALLS — The Burley District of the Bureau of Land Management will hold a public meeting on land affecting Twin Falls County Wednesday.

According to acting district manager W. R. Papwood, the meeting is being held to acquaint the public with land use planning proposals being considered by the Bureau for management of lands in the county east of Salmon Falls Creek.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in room 117 of the Shields Building at the College of Southern Idaho. The public is invited to review and comment on data the Bureau will have available, Papwood said.

Burley District manager Nick J. Cozakos said discussion at the meeting will center around inventories of resources, resource uses and opportunities for development of the BLM lands. The Bureau presentation will also identify some of the conflicts that may exist between proposed land use, Cozakos said.

He said the federal agency wants to make certain that the needs of the people have been properly considered before management decisions are made.

Those interested in wildlife, stock grazing, rock hounding, development of cycle or horse trails, sightseeing and, other uses of the public lands are encouraged to attend, he said.

Sheridan Hansen, manager of the Magic Resource area of BLM's Burley District, said Tuesday the meeting is one of several the Bureau will hold to gauge public interest and opinion in land use on public lands. He said the district is attempting to develop a comprehensive plan for the use of lands it administers in southeastern Idaho.

Merry Pet

Linda Merry, DVM

Question: We have a little toy poodle that barks constantly. Like when somebody or something goes by — any sound will set her off. I will be very pleased to hear anything you have to say about this.

Answer: Even a dog should have some freedom of speech, but not the right to incite a riot. It's great to be told when someone strange approaches the house, or the kid is being kidnapped, or some one is stealing the milk from the front porch.

But incessant barking is a nuisance to you, your neighbors and the general serenity; it is a habit which should be broken and promptly.

Work with the dog lying close to you, perhaps on leash. As soon as she starts to bark, put your hands around her muzzle and say "No!" in a firm voice. If she keeps barking, cuff her on the nose and speak more sharply.

If the leash is on it may be handy to give the dog a hard jerk or to flip the handle across her nose. Do this every time she barks, and if you're stern enough, she'll soon start respecting your command.

Dogs off leash are more prone to vocalizing. Again, wait for the event, then go up to her, take her firmly by the collar and shake her hard. Tell her "No." If you're ignored, administer a spanking.

You might also try having several short pieces of chain close at hand. When the wailing starts, throw the chain on the floor close to her or with less force, at the dog herself. Dogs despise loud noises, and if they realize their barking is the cause of it, will soon learn to sing tacit.

While obedience classes usually don't teach quietude as such, dogs who've been to school are generally easier to teach the social graces. Anyway, it might be worth a try and some fun, too.

Question: Are we supposed to let our pet canary out of his cage every day for exercise? He is very hard to catch, his whole body shakes after this flying ordeal and I'm afraid he will run into something and hurt himself.

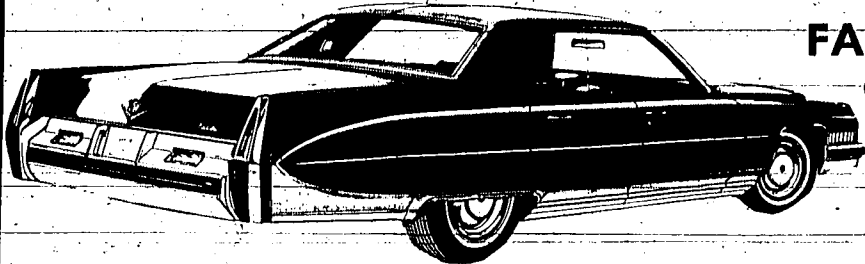

Answer: Canaries are not the hardiest souls around. They don't need great amounts of exercise and they don't tolerate overexcitement or much handling well.

It is incredibly easy to kill one of these delicate creatures just by holding them in your hand. So, I'd say cancel his flight plans and buy him a larger cage if you're worried about his physique.

What you're saying . . .

QUESTION: Did you support last week's meat boycott?

Joe Haynes, Twin Falls:

"I didn't buy meat. That doesn't mean I didn't eat meat during the week.

"I think it's a good way for the American people to express themselves about rising food prices.

"It's hard to tell when prices are too high anymore. I don't know if the trend is going to continue. You always hope it stops before your money runs out.

"I think singling out beef is a good starting point. I think the reason people are singling it out is because it skyrocketed the most recently."

Ben Trent, Twin Falls:

"I'm in favor of the boycott. Nixon has let things go. He wouldn't put on a freeze. He's in favor of the big man; he always has been. But now so many people are getting up in arms about it, he's decided to put a freeze on it. But I don't think that will stop it. I think stores will keep on raising prices."

Madeline Walters, Jerome:

"Well hardly, because we raise cattle.

"Why do they choose the meat industry? Why don't they boycott television sets, new cars, and maybe whiskey. Those things cost money too.

"I don't know how extensive this boycott is. I doubt it. It bothers us too much because there's a shortage of beef.

"I think beef is too high but everything else is high too.

"When you pay the hospital bill, you're pretty glad the meat prices are up."

Mary Jenkins, Twin Falls:

"I think something should be done, but I'm not sure that (the boycott) is exactly the answer. I wish I knew (the answer).

"I had plenty of meat in my freezer. I didn't buy any meat but it wasn't specifically because of the boycott.

"The market people are the ones who got hurt."

Arland Schultz, Twin Falls:

"Well, I don't think it did any good with the freeze on.

"Something should have been done a little earlier, I think, to help things all the way around.

"I'm in favor of the price freeze.

"I don't feel the cattlemen are to blame for it. I don't think they've been getting their fair share all along."

Bob Donnelley, Twin Falls:

"No. Because I don't believe in militant actions.

"I respect private enterprise. I think meat prices probably hit the American public the hardest because I think meat is probably the largest part of food consumed.

"No (cattlemen were not singled out for a boycott) I think the high prices fell on them and I think we would have had the same reaction against gasoline or other things if they rose quickly."

Lynn Johnson, Twin Falls:

"Yes. I think meat prices are ridiculous. It's outlandish.

"I don't really think the growers are making any money on it. I don't think the marketers are making any money. The packagers are making the money.

"When I was cutting meat it was 32 cents a pound for bull trim (hamburger) and now it's 88 cents a pound."

"No, I don't think it's unfair (to the cattlemen). There are a lot of people not buying so much because of the prices. I don't think it's hurting the cattle grower. This is definitely a seller's market today."

Engagement

FREDA PAYNE makes a second appearance on NBC-TV's "The Bobby Darin Show" on Friday. She sings "The Man I Love" and "Those Were The Days." The Rock Quartet will ~~not~~ be there.

Really? A money clip from Benny?

A money clip from Jack Benny? It sounds impossible, but Rich Little received one from him after the longtime star saw him do his Benny impression on the ABC Television Network's "The Julie Andrews Hour."

Inscribed on the 18-carat gold clip are the words: "To Rich From Jack." The accompanying note read, "With Bob Hope doing my walk and you doing my voice, I can be a star and do nothing."

Rich, whose repertoire includes well over a hundred celebrities, got his start doing imitations of his teachers at Usgar Collegiate in his home town of Ottawa in Canada. After he cut the biggest selling LP in the history of the Canadian record industry, which won him notices hailing him as the hottest performer in Canada, he was booked by Judy Garland, who launched his career in the United States.

A regular on Julie Andrews' show (Saturdays, 9-10 PM, PT), Rich has impersonated celebrities all the way from Benny to Richard Nixon.

Dandelion-topped Carol Channing is the only female in Rich's repertoire. She has not seen his takeoff, but has sent him her phone number so he can alert her the next time he does it.

After comedian George Burns saw Rich on a TV show, he sent him a telegram: "You do such a great impression of me I'm going to send you a bill for using my voice. P.S. You hold the cigar in the wrong hand."

Rich riposted with: "Thanks for the very kind words. I practice you in the mirror."

At first Robert Young, star of ABC's "Marcus Welby, M.D.," seems an unlikely subject for imitation. Not so. If one listens carefully, as Rich did, it is apparent that Young speaks with a distinctive rising inflection. When he realized that, Rich had him. Young was so impressed he sent Rich word he had a free house call coming.

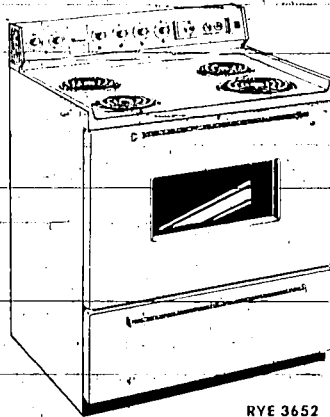

Raymond Burr is another star in Rich's repertoire as well as one of his fans. There's a standing offer for him to play a role on "Ironside" with the promise of "a small wheelchair."

Rich's take-off on Jimmy Stewart on the "Julie Andrews Hour" Christmas show so amused the veteran star that he had a hard time keeping a straight face during the taping of a sequence in which Rich played Jimmy's nephew. Later Stewart told him, "I wish you had been around 20 years ago. You could have dubbed all my movies."

One of Rich's most devastating impressions is of writer Truman Capote. So far, no endearing thanks have come from him, nor any word from the White House with regard to either Richard Nixon or Spiro Agnew.

CBS plans five new series into 1974

Five new series — three of them dramas and two situation comedies — will be presented as part of the 1973-74 program schedule on the CBS Television Network, it was announced today by Robert D. Wood, President.

The new dramatic programs are "The New Adventures of Perry Mason," "Hawkins," starring James Stewart (90-minute drama) and "Cojack," starring Telly Savalas.

The two half-hour situation comedies to be launched next season are "Calucci's Dept.," created and developed by Renee Taylor and Joseph Bologna and starring James Coco, and "Roll Out!," starring the popular young comedy performer, Stu Gilliam.

Commenting on the new schedule, Mr. Wood noted "These programs will give added strength to what is now network television's most powerful program line-up."

The success of the past season's schedule is reflected by the fact that only four of the returning series will be shifted to new time periods, next season, Mr. Wood added.

Details of the new programs follow:

"The New Adventures of Perry Mason," is a completely new fullhour series based on the famous cases of Erle Stanley Gardner's fictional attorney. It will have a new cast (to be announced), a new look and a new pace but will be firmly rooted in Gardner's concept.

"Calucci's Dept.," created and developed by Renee Taylor and Joseph Bologna and starring the gifted Broadway actor, James Coco, is a half-hour situation comedy set in a state unemployment office which is headed by Calucci and staffed by a number of bureaucratic eccentrics.

"Roll Out!" a half-hour adventure comedy stars Stu Gilliam and Billy Hicks. It is based on World War II's famous Red Ball Express which drove a thousand miles of one-way road to supply troops of General Patton and Hodges.

"Hawkins," stars James Stewart as a country lawyer who is a world renowned expert on criminal cases. It will be presented as part of a Tuesday night program rotation.

"Cojack," stars Telly Savalas as a tough, but compassionate veteran police officer. Savalas' portrayal in this role in "The Marcus-Nelson Murders" on the CBS Television Network won wide acclaim.

Only four continuing programs will be rescheduled in new time periods: "The New Dick Van Dyke Show," "Medical Center," "Cannon" and "M-A-S-H."

Andy Griffith ready to sing

Andy Griffith displays his singing voice as well as his comedic talents when he guest stars on "The Sonny & Cher Comedy Hour" Wednesday, April 11, on the CBS Television Network. (Originally broadcast 12-1-72.)
 Musically, Griffith solos with "Somebody Bigger Than You and I" and Cher offers a medley of Al Jolson favorites including "Sonny Boy," "My Mammy" and "Rockabye Your Baby With a Dixie Melody."

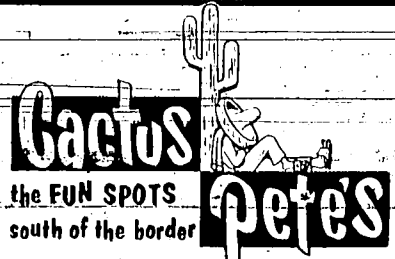

The show takes a satirical poke at new trends in television, spoofing the "Bridget Loves Bernie" series. The take-off titled "Gidget Loves Ernie" features Sonny as Ernie, Cher and Griffith as Ernie's parents and Terri Garr as Gidget.

Another highlight of the hour is a musical-comedy look at people and events in the news. In the vamp-portion of the show, Cher portrays Helen Gurley Brown, Miss "Forever" Amber and Sadie Thompson.

ABC Sports file against NBA charging conspiracy

American Broadcasting Companies, Inc. and ABC Sport, Inc. filed suit today in New York Supreme Court charging the National Basketball Association, the Columbia Broadcasting System and certain basketball executives with conspiring to deprive ABC of the exclusive rights to televise NBA games for the next three seasons.

The suit asked that the NBA comply in good faith with the terms of the contract it signed with ABC on February 6, 1970, under which ABC acquired the exclusive rights to telecast the basketball games for three years, and the right of first refusal on an extension of the contract.

The court action asked also that an alleged agreement between CBS and the NBA for the telecasting of the basketball games for the 1973-74 and subsequent seasons be declared null and void. Many important conditions of the proposed CBS-NBA agreement are considerably less attractive for television than the current ABC-NBA arrangement. ABC has taken this step reluctantly but until it receives a good faith offer from the NBA it cannot give full consideration to whether or not ABC desires to televise NBA games in future seasons.

ABC alleges the new contract offered by the NBA on February 28, 1973 was deliberately drawn to make it impossible for ABC to accept it. The proposed pact calls for the broadcasting of seven games commencing at times between 2:00 and 3:00 P.M. (Eastern time) on each Saturday beginning with the first Saturday in October following the conclusion of the baseball World Series and continuing without interruption through and including the first Saturday of December.

The language of the contract further demands that these Saturday afternoon games "have absolute scheduling priority over any other sports programs carried by ABC on the same day."

These conditions would conflict directly with ABC's contracted coverage of NCAA football games in 1973 and would prevent ABC from televising the best college football games from most areas of the country during this period.

The conditions in the proposed NBA contract would similarly prevent any other network which accepted it from televising NCAA football games on Saturday afternoons in subsequent seasons.

ABC has been carrying the college football games since 1966 and is currently in the second year of a two-year contract with the NCAA. ABC presents 13 collegiate games nationally and 24 games regionally, most of them on Saturday afternoons, the traditional time for college football games.

Negotiations between ABC and the NBA on a new three-year contract continued through January and February of this year. In its latest proposal, ABC offered to broadcast the basketball games in "demonstrably better" time periods - including prime time - than those required by the league in its alleged CBS arrangement.

ABC charges that the NBA did not comply in good faith with its agreement but instead set about to circumvent its purpose by an involved and illegal scheme carried out by the defendants. Among the defendants are: CBS, Inc.; the NBA; Walter Kennedy, the NBA commissioner; California

Sports Inc., owner of the Los Angeles Lakers; Allen Rothenberg, attorney for California Sports, Inc.; Franklin Mieuli, president of the Golden State Warriors, and Tom Ichniowski, president of the New York Knickerbockers.

As part of the scheme, the suit maintains, Mieuli and Rothenberg were appointed by the NBA as a television committee, and in concert with the other defendants devised a contract whose terms and conditions they knew it was impossible for ABC to accept.

The defendants, ABC declares, withheld their actions and intent from other members of the NBA and deliberately refused to communicate with ABC personnel. The suit also charges that early in 1973, CBS undertook to interfere with the business and contractual relations between ABC and the league.

In the days prior to the filing of the suit, ABC urged Commissioner Kennedy to arrange a meeting between ABC and the team owners. Kennedy refused to do so, leaving ABC no alternative but to commence this action to enforce its contractual rights.

The acting coin has two sides

Glamour, fame, fortune — a few reasons why almost every woman has at one time wanted to be an actress. Often overlooked is the not-so-glamorous side of this sought-after profession.

Denjse Alexander, a regular cast member of the network's popular daytime drama, "General Hospital," discussed a recent letter from a young secretary wanting to "exchange jobs with her."

"She complained about her humdrum job," laughed the petite, Auburn-haired actress. "I've been a working woman nearly all of my life. Once I was a realtor and later I owned an antique shop. So I understand a career gal's problems."

"But, unlike the secretary's job, acting isn't a 9-to-5 routine. It's on more like a 6 AM-to-8 PM schedule. And don't forget that 4:30 wake-up call the next morning. An actress rarely gets to keep grown-up hours and catch the late-night shows on TV."

With brown eyes snapping Denise warmed to her subject. "Then there is a 6 AM location call in the cold, damp wilderness — with no hot coffee or bathroom available until the portable kitchen and lavatory arrive at 8:30."

"A secretary gets an hour lunch break. I'm lucky if, after getting out of and back into costume, I have 15 minutes."

"What about those lovely two-week paid vacations a secretary gets?" Denise signed. "We get vacations too, but at the unemployment office it's referred to as being 'at liberty.'"

She smiled. "Yet, with all its crazy disadvantages, I wouldn't give up my job in television. It's the work I enjoy most. I just want to show that an acting career isn't all glamour, fun and a big bank account.

"If any secretary is determined to switch shorthand for show business, she'd better be prepared to give up her identity. Strangers in a crowded restaurant don't hesitate to approach a performer. They recognize as that character in yesterday's TV drama and loudly ask, 'Are you going to have that abortion or not?'"

"Nobody," she concluded. "Interrupts a secretary on a Saturday night out and says, 'Take a letter, please.'"

That portly private eye, Frank Cannon, soon will adopt a professorial stance. William Conrad, who portrays the popular private investigator on "Cannon" on the CBS Television Network, has accepted an invitation to lecture to radio and television classes at the University of Wisconsin (Oshkosh) as part of the university's Panorama of the Arts program.

Dr. Robert Snyder, coordinator of radio and television for the University of Wisconsin's Department of Speech, singled out Conrad as a guest lecturer on the basis of his experience in all three mediums (television, motion pictures and radio) covered by the courses.

Conrad got his start as an announcer-producer for radio station KMPC in Los Angeles and earned his first fame as the voice of Marshal Matt Dillon on radio's "Gunsmoke." He acted in motion pictures, became a producer-director in that medium and directed more than 250 hours of television in such successful series as "Gunsmoke," "Have Gun, Will Travel," "Route 66" and "Naked City."

The actor will conduct informal discussions with classes in the radio and television division of the University of Wisconsin's Department of Speech.

Previous guests who have lectured to radio and television students at the university include CBS Sports pundit Heywood Hale Braun.

Today's Banks And Employes Work For The Community—And That's No Joke

By O. A. (GUS) Kelker
Editor, Times-News

What are bankers? For one thing they are the brunt of a multitude of jokes—some good and some bad.

Remember the talk about working banker's hours? That's one of the jokes.

Remember the one about how they loan you an umbrella when the sun is shining and then demand it back as soon as it starts to rain? That's another.

Like we said—the jokes are numerous.

So to straighten out all the "ha-ha's" which have spread down through the years we thought today would be a good time to bring out—in a minor way, of course—just what banks and the people who man them mean to a community. Today's a good time because it's the first day of "Bank Week" and the local banks are participating in it.

Want to see what makes a bank tick? Drop into any local bank this week and tell someone you want to see what the operation looks like. You will be taken on a tour of the highlights of modern money handling. But then, all that meets the eye is not green stuff, so into today's revelations we will pour the ingredients of banks in community service because you cannot see that by just walking through a building.

If you add up all the time today's banks have operated in Twin Falls—collective time, that is—it comes to 123 years, and that's just counting each bank as such—not collectively during operation at the same time.

In Twin Falls there are 177 people who make their living from salaries received as bank employes. Of this total there are more than 92 individuals who are represented in community labor through memberships in community organizations including civic clubs.

Of bank officials and employes, a total of 18 have leadership posts in civic groups and 15 are officers in various church groups to which they belong.

Bank employes participate in all major fund drives and this year to date 49 have taken active leadership posts in such drives. Many hold executive posts in organizations such as PTA, United Fund, The Cancer Society, The Easter Seal Campaign, the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, Exchange Club, The Twin Falls School Board, the Masons and Shrine and the Cattlemen's Association, to name a few.

Then, too, there is financial backing. Most projects would never get off the ground without money. So banks give financial support to such groups as the Humane Society, the various Farm Granges, Country Music, Church groups, the League of Women Voters, American Legion Baseball, the Mental Health group, the Twin Falls County Historical Society, Senior Citizens groups, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts and the Campfire Girls, the Canning Kitchen, the Twin Falls police and firemen, the Head Start program and the Karate Club, the FFA and the 4-H, the Red Cross and the Salvation Army. There are only a few groups receiving direct financial support from contributions made by banks operating in Twin Falls.

One of the special projects which receives backing from all local banks—are projects of benefit to the College of Southern Idaho. Along this line—but not just to CSI students and individuals—the banks have made a total of 723 "education" loans totaling $893,792.

That they are needed is evidenced by the number of people using the bank programs. Deposit accounts (demand and time) are carried by 27,300 people and the total loan accounts of all types come to 12,716. Total resources as of Dec. 31, 1972 came to $93 million.

History is being made this week. It is the first time all banks in Idaho have joined together under the auspices of the Idaho Bankers Association, to set aside such a special week.

You might ask "why bother?" Everyone knows what banks do and what they are here for. But people might not know that money which banks lend is used to buy consumer goods—houses, automobiles, inventory, new plants and equipment and all sorts of things. Most of this money comes back into the banks as deposits—and then some 65 per cent of these same deposits go back into loans and the cycle continues.

Banks are by far the leading source of student loans and they are also the leading supplier of farm credit. Loans by Idaho banks last year to educational institutions, religious organizations and hospitals totaled considerably more than $3 million.

Banks in Twin Falls—rather the officials of them—claim that all bank employes feel is responsibility to their community. By working in the various "people" programs they lend themselves to building a healthy, prosperous community.

And they must be right, because Twin Falls is just that.

Official notice of the week has been taken by Gov. Andrus and Twin Falls' Mayor John Christoffersen. They issued special proclamations. Mayor Christoffersen's proclamation urges citizens to remember that FOUR BANKERS watch Mayor John Christoffersen sign proclamation for Bank Week 73. From the left are Maurice Clifton, Bank of Idaho; Harold Hove, Twin Falls Bank and Trust; Mayor Christoffersen, Jack Ramsey, Idaho First National Bank, and Ken Newman, First Security Bank.

About this thick

Whose portrait appears on what bill and why?

Ever wonder why certain people had their portraits on certain paper money?

Briefly, this is the way it all came about. The men portrayed on paper currency are alike in two ways. They were distinguished American Statesmen and they are deceased. By law, no living person can be portrayed on a bill or any other obligation of the United States.

The reason for this legislation goes back to Civil War days. At that time the portraits of President Abraham Lincoln and Secretary of the Treasury Salmon P. Chase appeared on currency. If there has been any objection up to that point, a record of it has been lost to history.

Then the Clark incident occurred. Spence M. Clark was the chief clerk of the National Currency Division of the U.S. Treasury, which later became the bureau of engraving and printing. Mr. Clark's portrait appeared on 500,000 five-cent notes, causing a stir of disapproval in Congress.

Representative M. Russell Thayer of Pennsylvania, denounced portraying living persons on currency, saying "it was condemned by the public sentiment of the country and by every principle of good taste and propriety." He also questioned the use of portraits of persons "not associated with the historic glories of this country."

The Deficiency Appropriation Act of April 7, 1866, was before the House. Mr. Thayer proposed an amendment to it barring the use of portraits of living persons on notes and other obligations of the United States. The bill passed and became law.

Assassination is plot for Hawaii Five-O

Jack Lord, starring as "Hawaii Five-O" detective Steve McGarrett is marked for assassination by three generations of a dynastic criminal family in Hawaii, in a special two-and-a-half-hour film presentation titled "V for Vashon" Tuesday, April 10 on the CBS Television Network.

Special guest star Luther Adler appears as the patriarch of the criminal empire. Guest stars are Harold Gould, Robert Drivas and Don Knight. James MacArthur, Kam Fong and Al Harrington appear in principal supporting roles.

Editor's Note: This program, originally broadcast as a trilogy on the "Hawaii Five-O" series on Nov. 14, 21 and 28, 1972, pre-empted regularly scheduled programming on this date only.)

The Vashons hold detective McGarrett accountable for the death of Chris Vashon (Drivas), youngest member of the Vashon criminal empire, who is killed in an armed robbery attempt. The vendetta is taken up by Honore Vashon (Gould), young Chris's father, who hires an assassin (Knight) to rid the Vashon family of their nemesis — McGarrett.

When the assassination attempt fails, old Dominick Vashon (Adler), founder of the criminal dynasty and Honore's father, takes up the cause himself.

"V for Vashon" was directed by Charles Dubin from a script by Alvin Spinsley. Leonard Freeman was executive producer, with William Finnegan as producer, Bob Swegney as supervising producer and Will Lorn as story consultant of this special film, as they are on the "Hawaii Five-O" series.

Thursday Previews

6 — Conclusion (PBS) — HUMANITIES FILM FORUM, a weekly series from Los Angeles, premieres with the 1969 British film version of "Hamlet." Nicol Williamson is Hamlet and Marianne Faithfull is Ophelia. (PLEASE CHECK LOCAL STATIONS AS TIMES MAY VARY).

7-8 (ABC) — Caine (David Carradine) is offered $4.00 by three children who want him to kill someone on KUNG FU. Jean Peters, Ike Eisenmann, Sean Marshall and Brian Andrews guest star.

7-8 (NBC) — Officer Fran Belding (Elizabeth Baur) is involved in a romance and a murder investigation on IRONSIDES. — REPEAT —

"Rx for the Defense" and "Nightside," two new hour-long pilot dramas, form a special double-feature world premiere presentation on "The ABC Sunday Night Movie" on the ABC Television Network April 15 it was announced by Martin Starger, President, ABC Entertainment.

"Rx for the Defense," which opens the double-feature, combines the worlds of medicine and law in the story of a brilliant man who finds himself inside a psychiatric ward.

Tim O'Connor stars as a former doctor turned attorney, working with Nancy Marchand and Ronny Cox in a law firm specializing in cases involving the medical world. Fritz Weaver guest-stars as the college professor whose eccentricities cause him to be committed to a mental hospital without a hearing.

In "Rx for the Defense," the distraught daughter (Kathy Walker) of Professor Daniel Kemper (Fritz Weaver) comes to attorney Zach Clinton (Tom O'Connor) in an effort to free her father from a psychiatric hospital after her stepmother has had him committed following an alleged suicide attempt.

Zach takes the case on constitutional grounds. A man accused of child murder gets his day in court while a man sent to a mental institution could spend his life there without a legal hearing.

"Nightside," which completes the double-bill, is a free-flowing action film limning the drama and humor of New York by night and day. John Cassavetes, Alexis Smith and Mike Kellin star as three citizens of the midnight hours.

Guest stars June Haver, Joseph Wiseman, Richard Jordan and Seymour Cassell play some of the people involved in this late-night world.

In "Nightside," written by newspaper columnist Pete Hamill, press agent Carmine Kelly (Cassavetes), who knows everybody who is anybody in New York, is trying to protect his friend Smitty (Alexis Smith) from the impending destruction of her restaurant (a hangout for actors, writers, businessmen, Broadway characters and other folk who brighten up when the sun goes down). At the same time, he must deal with a client (June Haver), a faded movie star who has come to New York to appear on the Dick Cavett Show and promote a perfectly dreadful horror movie which is, unfortunately, her first attempt at a comeback.

Sound of Music clips to feature

Film clips from the box-office hit picture "The Sound of Music," in which Julie Andrews starred as the Baroness Maria von Trapp and which won her an Academy Award nomination, will be seen on the ABC Television Network's "The Julie Andrews Hour" Saturday, April 14.

Appearing with Julie is the real Baroness von Trapp, together with guest stars Jim Nabors and Eydie Gorme. Also on hand are regulars High Little and Alice Ghostley.

The opening sequence of the motion picture, in which Julie sings "The Sound of Music" against the magnificent panorama of the Austrian Alps, and the sequence in which she teaches the children to sing "Do-Re-Mi" will be shown.

The Baroness traveled to Hollywood from her home in Stowe, Vt., to appear on-camera with Julie, joining her to sing "Edelweiss" from the Robert Wise production which received 10 Academy Award nominations and won five Oscars.

The entire company participates in a medley celebrating the snow season set against filmed footage of skiers in action.

Julie sings "All the Things You Are," and with Eydie duets "I Am Woman."

A comedy sketch, "Six Minute Louvre," features Julie with Jim Nabors. Then they join Eydie, Rich and Alice in a musical comedy sketch, "Those Were the Days," set in an ante-bellum plantation ballroom.

Jim sings "Mandy," Julie and Jim blend voices on "Let Us Make Believe," Eydie sings "Why Was I Born?" and everybody takes center stage for "Mississippi Mud" as Julie and the Tony Charmoli dancers go into a lively cakewalk number.

"The Julie Andrews Hour" is produced by Nick Vanoff and William O. Harbach in cooperation with ITC and originates from ABC Television Center in Hollywood with Bill Davis as director. The music is under the direction of Nelson Riddle.

Situation hopeless but not serious

Sir Alec Guinness, Robert Redford and Michael Connors star in "Situation Hopeless... But Not Serious," a wild comedy-satire that spoofs the post-World War II world, on the ABC Television Network's "ABC Monday Night Movie" April 9.

Based on a best-selling novel by Robert Shaw, the film pokes fun at the position of the little man in the big world, the recovery era in Germany and the outbreak of Hollywood war movies shot in Europe.

The story begins when a lonely German shop clerk and air raid warden (Guinness) captures two American pilots (Redford and Connors) and holds them prisoners in his cellar. He holds them "captive" (warning them that they will fall into much worse hands if

National Geographic show features The Haunted West

Ghost trail

THE DWINDLING breed of man who lives in the saddle, or with any of the other legendary traditions of the Intermountain West, a land of arid sagebrush and empty towns that echo memories, is studied on the season's third National Geographic Society special, "The Haunted West" Thursday night.

A dwindling breed of man, glorified only in past legends, who lives in the saddle among the "deteriorating, stripped mines left over from America's boom days and in the ghost towns that echo with memories of raucous frontier life, is studied on the season's third new National Geographic Society special, "The Haunted West," to be broadcast on the CBS Television Network Thursday, April 12. Leslie Nielsen is the narrator.

The special, produced by the National Geographic Society in association with Solper Productions, Inc., will be sponsored by Lincoln Mercury, represented by Kenyon & Eckhardt, Inc. and Western Electric, through Foote, Cone & Bolding, New York.

(Note: This broadcast will pre-empt "The Waltons" on the Network on April 12.)

In an exploration of an area known as the Intermountain West, a landscape of sagebrush and bunch grass that stretches from Utah to the California desert, the special delves into the lives of rugged buckaroos, Yaqui Indians and grizzled and ungrizzled prospectors and boomers (now known as tramp miners) who hang on to the traditions that built the Old West.

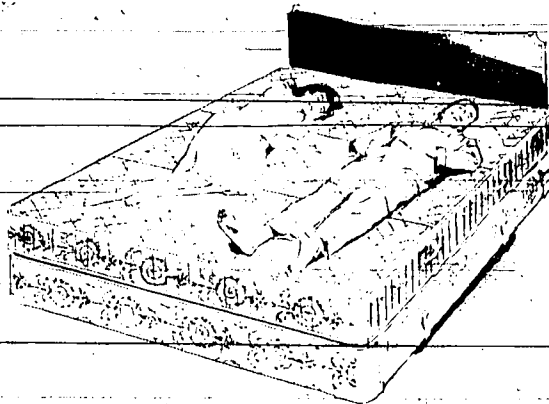

From an unglorified look at the reality of a cattle drive where men drive cattle seven days a week, 10 hours a day for $250 a month and call food, hot coffee, a bedroll and a change of horses "home," to the colorful ritual of Yaqui Easter celebration, the special covers this area many consider to be an arid wasteland.

Included is a visit to the tiny town of Gerlach, Nev., which endures alone in the vast alkali flats of the Black Rock Desert in the shadow of its greater days as a supply terminal for the Western Pacific Railroad, a talk with a Nevada prospector in the hills around Tonopah who remembers this last of the great boom towns in the days when it supported an opera house and 32 saloons, and a look at the Wallace, Idaho, mining exchange.

On the "tramp circuit," a 2,000-mile ghost trail that began when miners rushed from boom to new boom creating instant towns that died as fast as they were born, the focal point is Billy Vargua. A modern-day "boomer," he "tramps" from an abandoned tungsten mine on which he has been working fruitlessly for two years to the active Star Morning Mine, one of the oldest and richest in the Coeur d'Alene Mountains. Also covered is the May 2, 1972 fire in the Sunshine Mine near Wallace which killed 91 miners.

Farm adventure

IN SCANDINAVIA there is a family adventure waiting the traveler from Idaho. This farm adventure — plus many other options — are available at small cost to those who want to replace hot summers with cool times.

Looking for a fairly priced vacation? Then try Scandanavia

The Scandinavians have come up with a host of new and exciting ways to spend a holiday away from home. These are in response to the increasing numbers of North Americans that are expected to flock to cooler climates this summer.

First step on the eastward journey is Iceland. Its capital Reykjavik stands apart from all other capitals with the unbelievable purity of its air. There is no chimney smoke or factory smog because the entire city is heated by hot water from subterranean springs.

Once the visitor has partaken of the restorative effects of Iceland's hot water pools, he is ready to clear his lungs with a little fresh air. This is accomplished by signing up for a pony trek. Arrangements may be made for treks of up to a week. Sightseeing Iceland's awesome countryside is the main allure. The fantastic geological formations include extinct volcanoes, moss covered lava fields, volcanic caves, spouting springs and geysers, and spectacular waterfalls. The trips are under close supervision and all meals are provided. The animals used are rugged, muscular Icelandic ponies. The nation that invented delicious Danish pastry also invented the ready-made cycling tour. These network Julland and the island of Funen and capitalize on beautiful scenery and no traffic.

"Ready-made" means that all has been arranged in advance. Routes are drawn, meals, accommodations, cycles are all set up. Accommodations range from first class at $70 weekly to the chummy ambience of youth hostels at $40 weekly. Danish cycle tour companies will arrange holidays for individuals as well as groups, and the cycling is never exhausting.

All this preparation and slow pace leaves the cyclist with plenty of time for visiting manors and museums, chatting with friends and strangers, swimming, and sunbathing and sampling a dewy lager!

For the visitor with limited time, a rail and bike tour could be the solution. Denmark's railways are clean and comfortable. Go by train to the part of the country that you enjoy, then rent a bike at the station and get the feeling of the countryside.

Back-to-nature buffs have a goldmine in Norway. Farm vacations are now being arranged for visitors. A week's vacation with a Norwegian farm family can cost as little as $35 a week per person, full room and board. Imagine the charm of rural life, living with a farm family, all against the backdrop of impressive mountain scenery.

The food is homemade, delicious and plentiful. Breakfasts are a large spread of different Norwegian dishes. Lunch is not always served, and farm guests are invited to make their own lunch sandwiches and pack them for outdoor hikes. Boating and fishing are easy to arrange.

In addition to farms, the visitor who is extra rugged may select a log cabin high in the mountains. And for the ultimate in seclusion, a fisherman's house in the Lofoten Isles is the answer. The midnight sun doesn't stop from June 5 to July 9.

The biggest travel bargain for the off-season visitor to Scandinavia has been put together by the Stockholm Tourist Association — a four-day, three-night stay in Stockholm for only $26 per person total.

The Stockholm package is available for all foreign visitors from April 1 through October 31, 1973. It offers accommodations in a choice of 20 of the city's hotels, including Continental breakfasts, tips, half-price admission to six tourist attractions, and discounts on three sightseeing excursions.

Seven-century old Stockholm is also one of Europe's most modern capitals, in architecture as well as attitudes. The skyline is a blend of high-rise and medieval. Museums and parks display the panoramas of Sweden's past. Boutiques bulge with the latest in fashion. The nightclub beat ranges from funky rock to Royal Opera.

But for those bargain hunters eager to press on to new horizons, a steamer trip to Helsinki may be the lure. Fast, comfortable cruisers of the Silja Line a charming archipelago of some 25,000 islands separating Sweden and Finland.

Students traveling in Finland are advised to check with FSTS, a foreign-student travel club. The energetic outfit will set the visitor on the right course for complete tour of the country. One tour includes visit to the home of composer Jan Sibelius, and a boatripe up the winding waterways to the town of Tampere. Local pastimes include a summer theater, folk dancing, small animal zoo where children pay full price and the adults half, and a local student club for finding more friends.

Finland has begun its own

Ghost story is set for Tuesday

A young woman's romantic attraction to her parents' handsome house guest takes an eerie turn when she suddenly screams and faints. She later explains that she felt the presence of a ghost who entered the house with the guest in "The Haunting of Rosalind" on the ABC Television Network's late-night series, "ABC Wide World of Entertainment," Tuesday, April 10.

The woman, Rosalind (Pamela Payton-Wright), is joyful when the visitor, Arthur Lloyd (Frank Converse), reveals his fondness for her. But she discovers that Arthur has a wedding band inscribed with the name Helen, and that he is more than merely fond of her sister Dita (Susan Sarandon).

Confronting Dita in a fit of jealousy, Rosalind accuses former wife and declares that Helen's ghost will destroy Dita, if she marries him. But Dita and Arthur are married with Dita enduring Rosalind's continuing intimidations, in which she invokes the name of Helen's ghost, finally predicting that Dita will die in a year.

After Dita is killed in an accident, Rosalind and Arthur marry. But Rosalind is plagued by a voice that warns her of impending doom and by footsteps she hears in the attic.

Dream girl

JULIE OLSEN, as played by Susan Seaforth, is shown here as she appears these days in the disturbed dreams of her mother, who regards the girl as a threat to her marriage on "Days of Our Lives."

Carol Burnett is spoofing

Singing star Steve Lawrence and comedian Tim Conway are on hand for a spoof of late-night talk shows and television detectives on "The Carol Burnett Show" Saturday, April 14 on the CBS Television Network.

The entire cast, including singers and dancers, presents a medley of "bell" songs.

Tim Conway joins Harvey Korman in a comedy sketch about two World War II spies preparing to parachute behind enemy lines. In another sketch Conway and Miss Burnett spoof television detective "Columbo."

Steve Lawrence appears as a late-night talk show host plagued by less-than-exciting guests, portrayed by Miss Burnett, Korman, Vicki Lawrence and Lyla Waggoner.

Miss Burnett and Korman reprise their characters of "Funt and Mundane," America's greatest acting team, as they prepare for their television debut.

Steve Lawrence sings "The Good Life."

INFLATION HITS BBC
LONDON (UPI) — The British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) says it expects to be running 15 million pounds ($36,750,000) in the red by 1975.

"Inflation hits us just as hard as anybody else, if not harder," Charles Curran, the BBC's director general, said at a luncheon. He said revenue was increasing from boosts in set license fees which provide the BBC's income and from the fact that more color sets, for which the fee is higher, are being sold.

Howard K. Smith recalls a sad fact of life

In remarks on the Federal Trade Commission's increased regulation of television advertising, ABC News commentator Howard K. Smith suggested, "Policing ads is fine. But watch out. Adulterate the happy commercial and we will have nothing to separate the report on the killings in Ireland from the report on the killings in Manila. That could hurt the nation's psyche more than taking the wrong aspirin."

The full text of Smith's commentary, broadcast on the "ABC Evening News with Howard K. Smith and Harry Reasoner" and on the American Information Radio Network, follows:

"It is a sad fact of life that every problem solved creates new problems.

"The FTC is making advertisers change their TV ads, stop claiming too much for products. That is good.

"But did it occur to you that ads are often the only good news you get on TV?"

"Each is a little story. They are the only things on television that always end happily. The guy who stinks due to body odor, washes with the right soap and visibly rises to dance with the pretty girl. The house cat is finicky, hurts his mistress' feelings. The right nutriment is put before him and resistance breaks. He wolfs it down. Everybody is happy.

"It's a relief from the news. Remember the old cigarette ads with the man smoking the right cigarette walking with a pretty girl through the daisies? Well, if we reported that, we would find the man with the wrong cigarette, having to walk alone, wasting all those daisies.

"Or the ad in which the lady who takes tonic hearing her husband say, 'You're wonderful; I think I'll keep you.' A newsman would track down the husband who said, 'I smell that stuff on your breath again. Get out.'

"Policing ads is fine. But watch out. Adulterate the happy commercial and we will have nothing to separate the report on the killings in Ireland from the reports on the killings in Manila. That could hurt the nation's psyche more than taking the wrong aspirin.

"Heed the man who, with a grain of truth said, all television doesn't depress me. Only the stuff they show between commercials."
