Convoy runs Red river blockade

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — With U.S. warplanes flying air cover, three battered supply ships edged nervously up the Mekong River toward the capital of Phnom Penh today under a gauntlet of Communist small arms and machine gun fire.

The ships were part of a 19-ship convoy which first started on Sunday to break the stranglehold on Phnom Penh by Communists who control all land routes into the city. Only five of the 19 made it to Phnom Penh and the rest were forced to turn back. One ship was blasted to bits Sunday and another was set afire today. The current Communist offensive has depleted Phnom Penh of many basic necessities, particularly rice and petroleum products. Ironically, the two cargo ships which reached the capital Sunday were not loaded with

"vital" products. As the two ships were unloaded this morning, 150 cases of glass beads for women's evening bags, 15,200 gallons of fresh cider, enamel bathtubs and more than one ton of gourmet groceries destined for foreign missions here were among the cargo.

Chopper downed

SAIGON (UPI) — Two more helicopters assigned to ceasefire teams were fired on over the Mekong Delta today. One of them was hit and made a forced landing in Viet Cong controlled territory where there were conflicting reports whether it was destroyed. The two helicopters—one assigned to the Joint Military Commission (JMC) and one to the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS)—were the second and third downed since Saturday. The Viet Cong confirmed today that all nine men aboard the helicopter shot down Saturday, including three Americans, were killed.

Another pilot spokesman said the helicopter shot down Saturday was 11 miles outside its assigned air corridor. He said the Provisional Revolutionary Government (Viet Cong) "deeply regrets this unexpected accident."

Suspect battles Jerome police

JEROME — A Jerome man was in custody today after a gunbattle with police in a Jerome trailer court.

Jerome Lewis Robinson, 26, was arraigned in magistrate court today on charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to murder. He was held today in lieu of bond set at $10,000 by magistrate Russell Shaud.

According to Jerome Prosecuting Attorney Eugene Fredericksen, the suspect was arrested at about 10:30 p.m. after police were summoned to the Mabelaine Park to investigate a family altercation. As Jerome Police Capt. John Hawes and patrolmen Ross Hudson and Grant Willard approached the trailer, Hudson allegedly was fired upon by Robinson from the door of the trailer. The suspect reportedly fired two shots from a high powered rifle. Fredericksen said Hudson returned the fire, firing one shot from his service pistol. Later Robinson was captured at the rear door of the trailer when Hudson succeeded in distracting Robinson's attention by firing a warning shot, permitting Capt. Hawes to seize the armed suspect and disarm him. Robinson and his wife, Mrs. Jerome Robinson, who were inside the trailer, and the police officers escaped injury.

Mitchell, panel denounce reports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's re-election organization denounced today as "an absolute lie" a report that one of its lawyers made cash payments to Watergate defendants to try to keep them quiet about details of the bugging of Democratic national headquarters. The New York Times said convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. had told a federal grand jury that he believed Kenneth W. Parkinson, a lawyer for the committee, "channeled cash payments to the Watergate defendants in return for silence after their arrest."

DeVan L. Shumway, spokesman for the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, said "I have discussed this matter with Mr. Parkinson. He has adamantly denied that any such arrangement was entered into by him or anyone acting on his behalf. 'I think again we have the problem of Mr. McCord repeating things second hand and by the time it gets to the press it's third hand. It's an absolute lie.'"

Painter dies

Artist Picasso reclusive in death as in lifetime

MOUGINS, France (UPI) — In death, Pablo Picasso remained as isolated from his neighbors as he did in life. His body lay in lonely state in his art-filled Mediterranean villa behind locked iron gates that kept away both his mourning neighbors and the curious outsiders. Around the world, admirers and artists poured out tributes to the Spanish artist honored as the 20th century's most influential and productive painter. Picasso died Sunday of lung congestion and heart failure shortly after he sent the last 200,000 works of art in three-quarters of a century. Some critics questioned the greatness of some aspects of Picasso's works, but most agreed his brilliance lay in the unmatched variety of his output from abstract to realistic painting, from paper collages to ceramics. There were reports on the French Riviera two weeks ago that Picasso suffered a heart attack in this sun-washed land where the Spanish-born artist had lived in protest against the regime of Francisco Franco. But still his gardener, Jacques Barra, 55, said the death was a shock.

FAA clears regional port

TWIN FALLS — The Federal Aviation Agency has given a proposed regional airport a clean bill of health regarding air traffic problems. The findings involve the proposed airport to be located northeast of the Interstate 80-US 93 interchange in Jerome County.

The report, released by Frank Stoops, Seattle, airspace specialist for the FAA Northwest Region, said anticipated traffic patterns from the proposed regional airport would "be compatible" with neighboring airports, including the Twin Falls City-County airport 11 miles to the south.

Stoops said the purpose of the FAA study was to find what effect the proposed airport would have on the "safe and efficient utilization of airspace including the effect that such proposal would have on the control of air traffic." Stoops said the study "disclosed that no serious air traffic control problem is anticipated." He said, however, that installation of any navigational aids or landing systems at the northside airport would be subject to further study. "The study showed," he said, "air traffic operations at both airports (Twin Falls and Northside fields) would be compatible." His statement said the regional airport, as proposed, "would not adversely affect the safe and efficient use of the airspace." "Accordingly, the FAA does not object to the proposal," he said. He cautioned that its finding "is not to be construed as approval of the airport from an environmental standpoint" under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. Stoops summarized objections voiced by several agencies asked to comment on the Northside airport. (Continued on p. 11)

Question . . .

I have several cemetery grave spaces which our family no longer needs - how do I go about selling them?

Answer . . .

Since we don't know the specific cemetery in which you own property we will answer your question in general. There is always a market for the sale of property in well managed cemeteries, but many factors control whether these graves may be sold or to whom they may be sold.

Basically there are two types of cemeteries: one grants a right of burial for a specific or limited time; the graves are actually owned or leased. The sale of space in this type cemetery is rigidly controlled by those who own the cemetery; in other cemeteries a deed or other legal conveyance transfers ownership. These spaces can usually be sold but they are subject to the rules, regulations and by-laws established by the owners.

Before you try to sell your cemetery property investigate the local, national, fraternal and various restrictions which apply. If you give a warranty deed to an ineligible buyer you may be involved in considerable litigation.

In the state, we have a responsibility to take a first step in responding to strong consumer demands for lower food prices at the store," the Kohl spokesman said in explaining the price cuts.

The Godfrey Co. of Waukesha, Wis., also announced that meat prices at its Sentry Food Stores would be lowered this week, but did not specify the amount of the price reductions.

Regents okay student code

MOSCOW — The University of Idaho Board of Regents approved Friday the bulk of the "Student Code of Conduct," holding for further study the section on alcohol regulations.

The Code was approved Feb. 27 at a meeting of the university faculty. The section on alcohol will be held until the board decides on its own policy which will affect all institutions of higher education in the state.

The code, which outlines disciplinary regulations enacted to govern the conduct of students on campus or at authorized university functions, lists requirements in the areas of academic honesty; physical abuse, hazing or harassment; campus disorders and disruption; housing; physical safety and welfare; and discrimination.

It also sets forth judicial proceedings and the range of sanctions which may be imposed.

The regents also approved revised research policies for the university which bring the university into conformity with federal regulations relating to investigations involving human subjects, clarify the role of the Coordinator of Research, up-date definitions and attempt to make explicit research responsibilities of faculty members and administrators at all levels.

The new statement on a p p o i n t m e n t — and responsibilities of college deans approved by the regents notes each dean is the person responsible for development of policies and priorities governing the academic program of each college and the chief executive officer for each college in implementing new policies.

The regents also approved a general academic regulation change which clarifies the appeals and hearing procedure in connection with students' academic performance. The change was required to conform with the principles of the statement of student rights.

The regents approved extending the pass-fail option to freshmen and sophomores and increasing the number of credits under the option toward a baccalaureate degree.

When the program was instituted in 1969 the university faculty set a maximum of 12 credits under the option and limited it to juniors and seniors.

The change will allow freshmen and sophomores to take one course each semester under the option and will increase the total allowable number of credits under the option applicable toward a baccalaureate degree from 12 to 18.

Regents also agreed Friday to change the name of the "Reserve Officers' Training Corps" to "Officer Education Program."

The name change, approved by the three ROTC departments at the university, is a result of growing interest by the U.S. Department of Defense in further integrating facilities of the various ROTC units with the academic life of the institutions to which they are attached.

Car burglarized at repair shop

TWIN FALLS — The car of a Jerome man reportedly was burglarized near the end of the week while it was being held for repair.

Jeff Ohlenschlen told police Friday that a stereo tape player, speakers and tapes valued at about $206 were stolen from his 1971 Dodge between Wednesday and Friday while it was parked at Bob Reese Motors awaiting service.

In a separate incident, Clifford Wormsbaker, Twin Falls, told police Friday that a stereo radio-record player and speakers valued at $160 were stolen from his 1971 Volkswagen, during the night Thursday.

Other cases of burglary or theft reported to police Saturday included two cement urns and one cement bench valued at $100 reported stolen from Juan's College of Hair Design during the night Friday, and a wristwatch valued at $200 stolen from Barbara Reser, Boise, during a bridge match at her room in the Holiday Inn Friday evening.

Donald Johnson, 731 Alturas, Twin Falls, told police, Saturday his house was broken into Friday night and his wife's purse and several records were taken. The purse and its contents, minus five or ten dollars in cash, were later found scattered on a nearby street corner.

Chairman named at university

MOSCOW — The University of Idaho Board of Regents has approved appointment of Dr. George W. Sheldon as chairman of the business department of the College of Business and Economics.

College Dean Norman C. Olson said Sheldon succeeds Dr. Russell L. Chrysler, professor of marketing, Olson, noting Chrysler has served a number of years in administrative capacities, said Chrysler "wishes to devote his time to teaching."

Chrysler joined the university faculty in 1959, became acting department chairman in September, 1969, became acting dean in May, 1970, and was named department chairman Aug. 30, 1971.

Biting The President's Hand

WASHINGTON — Growing indications that Prime Minister George Papadopoulos, the Greek strongman, is now running into serious political troubles at home derive not so much from the unprecedented outbreak of student riots in Athens as from the intentionally arrogant way Col. Papadopoulos has lately been treating President Nixon and the United States. Anti-government student demonstrations are hardly unique in today's political world, but what Col. Papadopoulos did earlier this year with his abrupt cancellation of direct U.S. military aid — with no prior word to Mr. Nixon, his long-time benefactor — had no precedent in this country's long postwar history of military aid. Papadopoulos teaked his decision to cancel U.S. military grant aid to the controlled Greek press on Jan. 15, with major headline play and maximum public exposure on the radio and television. The reason for "handling" the decision that way, as perceived here, is a desire to cater to growing anti-Americanism in Greece. That anti-American feeling, in turn, has been the direct result of the cozy relationship between the Nixon administration and the military dictatorship installed by the Papadopoulos-dominated Greek junta almost exactly six years ago.

Particularly infuriating to the Greek people was the deal between Papadopoulos and the U.S. to permit "homeporting" of the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Athens area. In view of the political risks Mr. Nixon had taken to extend military aid to Papadopoulos, the abrupt cancellation of that aid early this year — an event scarcely noted in Washington — set something of a record for intimacy. Consider the background. In the summer of 1971, by an overwhelming majority, the House passed an amendment to the foreign aid bill authored by Rep. Wayne Hays of Ohio, no soft-liner, barring all U.S. military aid to Greece. That limitation on arms aid finally found its way into the foreign aid law but with a proviso permitting the President to extend the aid if he found "overriding requirements of the national security of the United States."

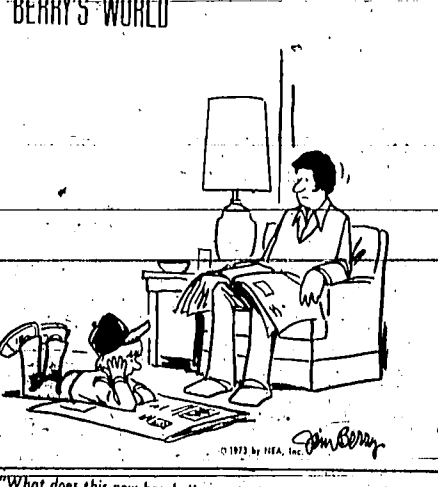

On Feb. 17, 1972, Mr. Nixon made just such a finding and ordered the Pentagon to send some $10 million of direct military aid to Greece. Moreover, the White House had been making secret but hard-hitting attempts to persuade Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany also to extend military aid to the Greek dictatorship. Mr. Nixon's reaction for that was obvious: under attack in the U.S. for playing football with the military junta, he wanted at least one other member of the North-Atlantic Treaty Organization to join the U.S. In fact, all NATO nations except the U.S. were beginning to treat the Papadopoulos regime as the leper of Europe.

The West German government, in a series of secret agreements never fully made public, did finally consent to go along with President Nixon and the U.S. and send token aid to Greece. As a quid pro quo, Papadopoulos agreed — again with no public announcement — to free several score political prisoners held in Greek jails ever since the 1967 coup d'etat. As it turned out, only one such political prisoner was in fact spirited out of Greece; the deal came a cropper, and Bonn not only did not carry out its part of the arrangement but its ambassador was declared persona non grata. Yet, despite Mr. Nixon going out on several limbs for Papadopoulos, the Colonel never informed Washington in advance of his decision to renounce all American military aid on Jan. 15. Instead of letting Mr. Nixon get credit with Congress for cancelling the aid, Papadopoulos took full credit himself and in such a way that the U.S. State Department had to duck a question on whether the U.S. had been consulted.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D. Doctor Says

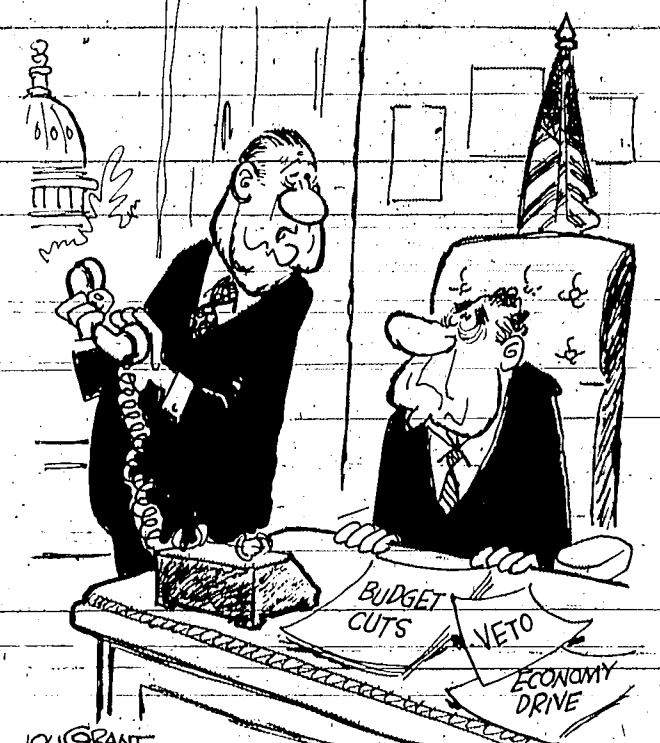

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a baby and developed "the pregnancy mask" on my cheeks, nose and upper lip. I assumed it would disappear after the baby was born, but it hasn't and is very un-mine and it looks like I am growing a moustache. I have been taking birth control pills. Do you know for a fact that the pill causes this pregnancy mask? Mrs. G. S. Some women develop this "mask of pregnancy" and others don't. Ordinarily it fades after the baby arrives — but birth control pills are designed to make your system behave as though you were pregnant. So yes, the pill can cause this skin discoloration. Your best course is to switch to some other method of birth control. If "the mask" doesn't begin to fade within several months, the next suggestion is to consult a dermatologist. But I doubt that a dermatologist can help you while you are still on the pill.

Earth Exploring

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Somewhere between 10 and 20 per cent of the earth's land surface has not been explored for possible mineral resources. There never has been a full inventory of the world's potential timber supply. All too little is known of the extent and nature of water drainage systems which affect estimates of resources and of perils like flooding. All these things, and much more, the busy "working satellite" called ERTS is now helping America and the world to find out with amazing speed and accuracy. Set against the steadily building crises posed by the pressures of soaring population on resources of food, energy, minerals, and other vital materials, the launching of ERTS last July came none too soon. Some scientists say food output by the world must be tripled by the year two thousand to prevent mass starvation. It is guessed that the demand for minerals may also triple in the next 25 years. It was ERTS, of course, that discovered the fact that a sizable part of global land surface is still unexplored in its tireless daily orbits, transmitting thousands of detailed "images" to earth stations where computer analysis translates them into useful ground knowledge, this satellite is doing work that not even the largest and most determined team of cooperative world specialists on the ground could hope to achieve. We should not be misled, however, into imagining that the urgent magic of ERTS, with its images taken from an orbital height of 350 miles, is going to bail the world miraculously out of its menacing crises. A group of energy specialists just met in Washington to weigh the long-range outlook. They listened to the promise and the hope offered by the accumulating findings of ERTS. But they threw in one hard, sobering counter-judgment. ERTS may detect countless new potential energy and other mineral resources, but many are truly remote from populated areas. The missing element, say the skeptics, is that it will take much energy to develop these new energy sources. So, they add, a sizable subtraction must be made from the hopeful new potential. Moreover, development costs in remote zones obviously can only be sky-high. Nevertheless, ERTS gives us

REV. POLING Wounded Nation

The confrontation at gunpoint between the Indian militants and the Justice Department at Wounded Knee has become a living example of what not to do in the settling of minority disputes. Unfortunately, the United States has such a tragic, shameful record in its relations with native Americans that every move now seems to confirm every mean event of the past including the first event at Wounded Knee. And that was not a skirmish between bluecoats and Redskins, but a cold-blooded slaughter of nearly 300 unarmed men, women, and children of the Hunkpapa Sioux. A decade earlier in 1879, the New York Herald had noted that the "continent is getting too crowded" and voted for extermination of the Western tribes. The Seventh Cavalry lived up to that death wish in 1890. Your library is loaded with the books describing the racist policies of our ever-Westward founding fathers. And there is no justice to be saluted until the Bureau of Indian Affairs is finally directed and operated by the tribes that reside here in the United States. The Nixon administration has pointed to this solution but the waiting period is deadly. So much for concern, now the caution. Whatever impressions and reports you receive concerning the confrontation between AIM and the Justice Department at Wounded Knee (or any other reservation) the primary issue is tribal sovereignty. The Oglala Sioux Indians at Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota have an elected tribal council, duly constituted and operative of the civil affairs of that community. Their rights have been violated by the militant takeover of Wounded Knee by

Torture

Christian Science Monitor Last year, a decade after the Algerian war, books were still coming out to document and debate the French use of torture in that conflict. They are a reminder that, in the midst of outrage and revulsion over torture in Vietnam, a longer perspective must be sought beyond the grim details of each new disclosure. "Each person has to tell his own story," said Navy Capt. Walter E. Wilber, an American former POW who asserts he was never tortured during five years of imprisonment. He said his antiwar statements in Vietnam resulted from the awakening of his own "conscience and morality." He did not repudiate other POWs' reports of torture but suggested that "we'll find that when we talk to the other 600 of us, that there will be many stories because circumstances will vary." "The torture of even one human being is insupportable, whether inflicted on an American bomber pilot, a South Vietnamese political prisoner in the tiger cages of Con Son, or a villager at My Lai. Now that all the U.S. prisoners are safely home, a number of them have broken their silence about the details of prison treatment. Their harsh memories of brutality — and often of their giving in under it — have jolted Americans basking in the glow of their return. The prisoners' treatment apparently improved during the past few years. Some have said their food and medical attention was about as good as their captors'. But the recollections of torture make their survival, and the sustaining faith acknowledged by many, seem all the more remarkable. It may be an ironic comfort to those who felt the pain, but "torture degrades the one who inflicts it even more than the one who is submitted to it" as

France's General de Bollardiere wrote in last year's "The Battle of Algiers — The Battle of Man." It is the torturer, whatever his allegiance, who is dehumanized as he seeks to dehumanize his victim. The way to react to this dehumanization is not through another kind of dehumanization. The torturer's hate must not be echoed on behalf of the tortured. Feelings aroused by the recent disclosures must not be allowed to nudge a precarious cease-fire back toward war. Decisions on aid to Vietnam, North and South, must not be based on harking back to the torturers' excesses but on considering the human needs of the people and the political and economic requirements of a secure peace. (As one of the tortured civilian prisoners, the highest ranking diplomat among them, said, "I think the Vietnamese people need this (aid for North Vietnam) and human need goes beyond ideological boundaries." He cited America's "spirit of generosity and forgiveness; a Christian tradition, to heal the wounds of war" and said that "in spite of the hardships I and others underwent, I think the best interest of our country and people lies in trying to generate a stable peaceful coexistence.") Decisions on amnesty must not be made as if the behavior of the torturers changed the rights and wrongs of the behavior of the draft evaders and government response to them. In sum, sympathy for the tortured and abhorrence of the torturers should not be psychologically exploited for political purposes. And all the heart-felt reaction to the individuals who have so far spoken should not get in the way of appraisal of the whole picture when it slowly emerges from all sides as "each person" tells "his own story."

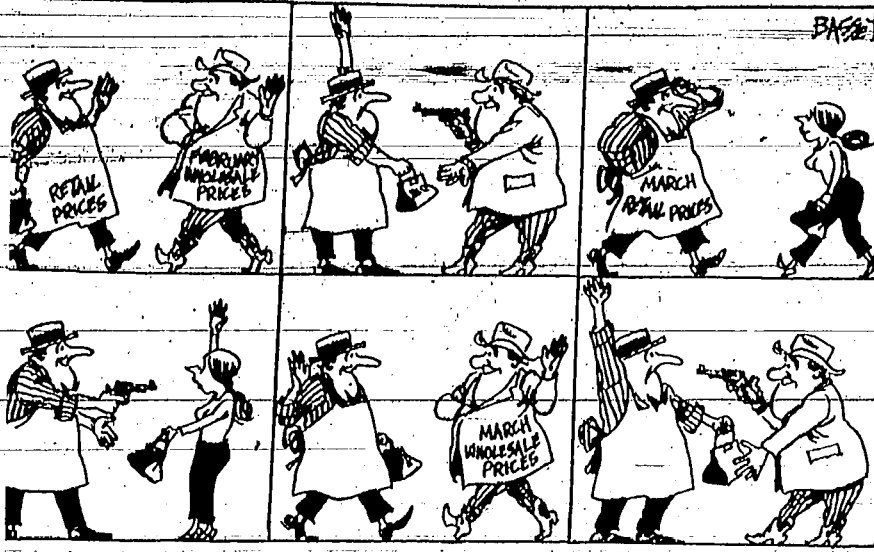

Arrogance

Lewiston Morning Tribune The Nixon administration has announced in effect that it is nobody's business how much tax money the Republican party spent last year to ferry the President and his staff about the country on political tours. The General Accounting Office told a congressional subcommittee this week it tried last October to get an accounting of the use of military airplanes by the President and others during last summer's election campaign. The GAO was told by the White House (after the election) that this information would not be made available. John W. Dean III, the counsel to the President, said the flight logs in question were "personal to the President and thus not the proper subject of congressional inquiry." It was, said the General Accounting Office, the first time in recent history that the doctrine of executive privilege had been used to deny information to the GAO. It was also without much doubt the most arrogant use of the privilege in our time. All the General Accounting Office wanted to know was which flights by these military aircraft were made for campaign purposes so that the GAO could bill the cost to the Committee for the Re-Election of the President. It was denied this information, presumably so that the President's party could charge this portion of its campaign expenses to the taxpayers. Executive privilege serves a useful function in preserving the independence of the executive branch from the legislative. It was never intended to serve as a cover for criminal intrigues (as in the Watergate case) or for the unscrupulous use of taxpayers' money for campaign purposes. If the powers of the President have become so great that he need no longer account to Congress or the people for his use of public money, then it is time for powers were trimmed — if anywhere else in government there remains enough power to trim them.

THOUGHTS

"For every one will be salted with fire. Salt is good; but if the salt has lost its saltiness, how will you season it? Have salt in yourselves, and be at peace with one another." — Mark 9:49, 50. "For I am not ashamed of the gospel, it is the power of God for salvation to every one who has faith, to the Jew first and also to the Greek." — Romans 1:16. Unless there's a rebirth of religious spirit in the hearts of its leaders and in people throughout the world, our civilization, despite tremendous victories, will slide into an abyss — perhaps for centuries. — Dorothy Thompson, American writer.

You must not lose faith in humanity. Humanity is an ocean; if a few drops of the ocean are dirty, the ocean does not become dirty. — Mohandas K. Gandhi, Indian spiritual leader.

No major tax cuts expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., says Americans should not expect any major tax cuts this year.

Mills, whose House Ways and Means Committee has been holding tax reform hearings since February, said Sunday chances for any significant revenue gain through tax reform were practically nonexistent as any money-raising measures would probably be offset by tax credits of some kind.

"I do not foresee any across-the-board tax relief in this year's legislation," Mills said. "The pressures on us are in the other direction—to some way miraculously gain revenue through tax reform."

Mills made his comments in a copyrighted interview with U.S. News & World Report.

Mills said some taxpayers might get relief from passage of a tax credit for parents of children going to private schools. He pointed out that both he and President Nixon supported this idea.

"As for personal exemptions," Mills said, "if you do away with them you go from a progressive tax system backward toward a regressive one. Should a man feeding 12 children be taxed the same, if his income is the same as a man with only a wife? No."

Higher rates?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has warned that consumers, small-businessmen and home buyers may be forced into paying higher interest rates to get loans unless U.S. banks give special attention to the amount of money they plan to lend in the months ahead.

The Federal Reserve Board, Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and the comptroller of the currency mailed letters to banks over the weekend.

Sen. Brooke told no POWs in Laos

SAIGON (UPI) — Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., said today Communists in Laos told him they are holding no more American prisoners.

"The representative of the (Communist) Pathet Lao was most explicit," Brooke said as he arrived on the latest stop of a foot-finding tour of Southeast Asia to study postwar reconstruction. "He said clearly that they were holding no prisoners in Laos."

Nine Americans missing in Laos were released last month, but more than 300 are still listed as missing.

Brooke said Congress would not appropriate "one dime" to rebuild Laos if the Communists there do not make every effort to find missing Americans.

"He (the Pathet Lao spokesman) had no knowledge as to whether they are alive or dead," Brooke said referring to the men reported missing. "He doubted very seriously that any were living but that was his own personal opinion."

"I told him he could not expect one dime of American assistance if he did not make every effort to determine the whereabouts of any men missing in action who have not been accounted for."

"I told him I was most disturbed and the country was most disturbed by the low percentage of missing men who have been accounted for by the Pathet Lao."

Brooke said he wanted to talk to Saigon government officials about machinery for receiving and using aid. He said he also wanted to talk to members of the political opposition and to the Viet Cong truce delegation in Saigon.

Asked if the Lon Nol government would fall in neighboring Cambodia because of the current Communist-offensive there, Brooke replied, "I wouldn't say that."

But he said Cambodia was now in a "grave situation, one of emergency."

Body of Picasso in lonely state

 "Since the beginning of the year he had been very tired," said Barra, a beret-clipped on his head and tears in his eyes. "He died normally Saturday night at home with his wife and lawyer and on Saturday, he sat in the sun in the garden. Friday he was driven around Cannes."
 "At noon Sunday, I was in the garden and Madame Picasso came out, very upset, and said 'My husband just died.'"
 Picasso died as he lived—working feverishly.

Officials of the Avignon art festival opening next month unpicked crates of paintings that arrived last week from Picasso. Festival organizer Paul Puux said the paintings "looked like a new period, more serene. He seems taken by the theme of children."
 Picasso's previous exhibition, also in Avignon, was devoted to lovemaking.

That 1971 exhibition of amorous paintings reflected his reputation as a vigorous man who had a thirst for lovemaking, all things Spanish and strong drink.

Many women passed through his life but he only married two. He wed Ballet Russe dancer Olga Khoklova in 1919. They parted in 1935 when Picasso had a child by model Marie Therese Walter. Olga refused to divorce him and they remained man-and-wife until her death in 1955. Their son, Paulo, flew from Paris to the Picasso villa Sunday.
 Picasso also lived with Jacqueline Roque, a salesgirl at a gallery that sold his ceramics, for six years before they married in 1961, when he was 70 and she 35. She modeled for many of his paintings and was the last of his many loves.

Although Picasso lived most of his life in France his interest in his native Spain never cooled. He said he would not enter Spain while Franco lived and he did not, but he donated many early works to his late Spanish secretary, who in turn gave them to a Barcelona museum.

Picasso joined the French Communist party in 1944 and his drawing of a peace dove was the symbol of a 1949 Communist world peace congress. It won him the first of two Lenin peace prizes.

Throughout his life, Picasso was hailed by Communist leaders, but in later years he feuded with Moscow—apparently over its position against modern art, including his own paintings.

Pacemakers

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — The Beth Israel Medical Center today begins providing 15 heart patients with nuclear-powered pacemakers.
 Nine of the operations were to be performed today and the other six Tuesday. Max Spieler, 68, Nutley, N.J., oldest of the group, was to be the first to receive the device.
 Officials at Beth Israel said the nuclear pacemakers have a 10-year life span, compared with 18 months to two years for the conventional mercury-battery pacemakers.
 They said radiation emission from the atomic pacemakers, powered by radioactive plutonium 238, amount to less than that from a radium-dial wristwatch or an annual chest X-ray. The mechanism is enclosed in a tiny box which has proven safe, the officials said.

Butchers want to remove Butz

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Butchers Union wants President Nixon to fire Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz because he has become a "devisive factor" making economic problems worse.
 Patrick E. Gorman, chief executive officer of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's Union, sent Nixon a letter Sunday contending Butz has waged a "rightwing propaganda campaign" against labor.

"He is attempting to set farmer against consumer, consumer against labor, labor against the farmer," Gorman said. "We therefore respectfully suggest that you show your opposition to his divisive campaign and your desire for national unity in the face of America's economic problems by firing Mr. Earl L. Butz."

Gorman said Butz had been blaming labor for higher meat and food prices, although Agriculture Department figures show that farm prices are responsible for 88 cents out of every $1 increase in retail food costs over the past 18 months.

"The public antics of Butz are a disgrace," Gorman said.

Testimony begins on Ellsberg

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Anthony Russo Jr. gets his chance today to tell the jury why he risked going to prison to help his friend Daniel Ellsberg make public the Pentagon Papers.
 Russo was to begin testifying when the trial resumed at 10 p.m. PST and was expected to be on the stand all day.
 Russo is charged with helping Ellsberg make copies of the classified Defense Department analysis of the origins of the Vietnam war while both were employed by the Rand Corp. in Santa Monica in the spring of 1969. Russo went to jail rather than testify against Ellsberg at a federal grand jury hearing.

The documents were published in June, 1971, in The New York Times and other newspapers, but in this trial, the government has charged the pair with espionage, theft and conspiracy in connection only with the removal of the papers, not their publication.

When Russo finishes, Ellsberg is expected to testify in his own behalf, telling the jury why he sacrificed a brilliant career as a government analyst to make public the studies. Once a hawk on the war, Ellsberg has said he changed his mind when he worked on compiling the study, and came to believe that the government was deceptive in its war policies.

Mini-Cassia eye spring cleanup

BURLEY — Spring is here bringing with it the perennial spring cleaning bug. The communities in the Mini-Cassia area have caught it once again and are making plans for big spring cleanup campaigns to pick up what local residents are throwing out during their spring cleaning.

Burley, Paul and Rupert have set aside dates in April and May for special free garbage pickups within each city. All require that the trash be either stacked, bundled, or sacked to make loading easier, or at least not impossible, for city sanitation crews.

Burley has already begun its program which will last until April 13. Paul's campaign begins Monday and will last until Saturday.

Rupert set aside three weeks, April 23 to May 12, for spring cleanup. Crews in both Burley and Rupert will, for an extra charge, pick up special loads, such as those larger than cleanup requirements allow.

Dates for cleanups in Albion and Heyburn will be set next week at regular City Council meetings.

Oakley will take advantage of the Johnny Horizon program again this year for its cleanup.

Johnny Horizon is a half-day cleanup program sponsored in the spring by the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) with the help of local volunteers. The date set for the program this year is May 5.

According to BLM area manager Lou Martindale, BLM works with the county commissioners who line up coordinators for the program in each area of the county. Those coordinators make personal contacts in the areas, deciding which areas need to be cleaned up.

Emphasis is placed on "high use" public areas such as recreation sites and roadsides, Martindale said.

After decisions are made locally, BLM prints the time and place for volunteers in each area to meet.

TF youth selected for post

TWIN FALLS — Bill Woodson, Twin Falls High School senior, has received notice of appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. William W. Woodson, Twin Falls.

His nomination was made by Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho.

Woodson has been active in football and track and has been named to the Idaho All Star Track Team to run the 300-yard dash in the Western Olympic Invitational at the Idaho State University Mini-Dome. He has maintained a high school grade average of 3.5.

He is president of Interact Club and lieutenant governor of Interact District No. 542. He is a representative in the House of Representatives during the YMCA Youth Legislature in Boise in April and has been active in the Young Republicans and the Bruin Club.

He is an Eagle Scout and has attended a leadership training course at Philmot, N. M. He has served as aquatics instructor at Camp Bradley and as an instructor at Dan Beard Leadership Training Camp.

Shoshone lists garbage rules

SHOSHONE — Residents of Shoshone are reminded of a city ordinance to control types of trash that can be picked up by the garbage collector.

Mayor Ed Wood—Worry—said all garbage shall be placed in cans with lids and all trash, such as leaves, lawn clippings, papers, yard clean up, etc., shall be put in boxes or easily handled containers.

Loose leaves, clippings and other trash, not properly contained will not be removed by the garbage truck.

Junk, described in the city ordinance, is any used material or parts of material units which have become useless for purpose for which material was originally manufactured or fabricated, and is not classed as trash to be collected by the city.

The ordinance further states that alleys or streets are not to be used to accumulate junk, debris, and wrecked automobiles, and the city can abate such nuisances by civil action if necessary.

The mayor calls for all citizens to assist in cleaning up alleys and streets, and in handling their junk in proper manner.

Speech winner reported

TWIN FALLS — Barbara Fuller won the blue pencil for her speech "How to Raise a Pork Chop" when the Twin Falls Toastmistress Club met Friday.

Other speakers were Annette Jenkins, "Extra, Extra, Read All About It," and Virginia Eldredge, "So You Call this Freedom."

Table topics were headed by Edna McFarland on the theme "Conservation and Preservation of the West."

Evaluators were Eleanor Burkhardt, Virginia Bitzenburg and Veronica Detweiler.

Ornette Sinclair acted as toastmistress. Ollingie Armstrong used the theme "What's Up" for the lexicology lesson.

Phonon Burkhardt was grammarian and Peggy Curry was general evaluator.

Coordinator quits post for Jerome

SHOSHONE — Mrs. Tad Ross has resigned as coordinator for the senior citizens groups in Jerome County.

She has been acting coordinator for both the Jerome Senior Citizens group and the Valley Senior Citizens group in the Eden-Hazelton area.

Mrs. Ross said she has enjoyed her work with the senior citizens and feels that both groups are well organized and should be able to carry on their activities.

She especially noted her appreciation for the cooks working with the "Meals on Wheels" program at the Valley schools. Mrs. Doris Kaserman, dietitian, Mrs. Margaret Clough and Mrs. Margaret Krumine, and those who deliver the meals to the senior citizens at their homes.

"The great deal of travel from her home in North Shoshone to meetings each month was a factor contributing to her resignation," Mrs. Ross stated.

Since the first of the year the senior citizen groups have been operating under the sponsorship of the county commissioners.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My assets: I am 18, have long blonde hair, blue eyes, am 5 feet, 3, with measurements of 37-26-38. I graduated from high school with honors. I own over $700 worth of jewelry (gifts from my parents), a stereo, a color TV, and a closet full of beautiful clothes.

I got my driver's license and am given the use of the family car whenever I want it.

I've gone steady six times, have received five class rings, a bracelet, a necklace, a sweetheart ring, five and a half dozen roses, two boxes of candy and many, many love letters.

Now, why am I miserable? I'll tell you why. Because I live in a small town, and I mean really small, and there is no one to date. I've gone through 30 boys in 2 1/2 years! I found only one that I wanted to keep. And he didn't want ME!

Try rejects again

I'm not stuck up, but I'm never satisfied with anything. As soon as I get it I don't want it. I'm proud of the fact that I've never gone all the way.

All my friends have dates, but I don't have anyone and I'm so jealous I could die. Please help me. WALLFLOWER

DEAR WALLFLOWER: [You sound more like a tiger lily to me.] Unless some new talent comes to town, you had better start reading some of your rejects. Perhaps when you look at them through more mature eyes, they'll look better to you. And you to them.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is a 46-year-old widow who has been seeing a very nice man her age for four months. My older brother thinks Mamma is being disloyal to Dad, who has been dead for a year. My brother says "Mamma's lived her life."

Abby, Mamma raised nine kids practically single-handed. Dad got sick seven years ago. The last three he hardly left his bed and Mamma nursed him like a baby, knowing it was just a matter of time and he'd die. The last year was awful, but Mamma never complained and she did all she could to make Dad happy and comfortable.

My brother says Mamma should have respected the memory of Dad enough to stay home for a whole year and wear black. I say Mamma is entitled to as much happiness as she can get now. How can I convince my brother that he is wrong?
ON MAMMA'S SIDE

DEAR ON: You may not be able to. But don't worry about it. Your mother did all she could for your father while he was alive, and any happiness she finds now she's earned.

DEAR ABBY: I just found out that a real neat guy I used to know in high school is stationed at a Naval base near here. (He's an officer. I haven't been in touch with him for a couple of years, but I hear he's not married anymore. [Neither am I.]

I've always had a thing for this guy, and he liked me, too, but the timing was never right. Anyway, now that we're both free do you think it would be a good idea if I drove over to the base and surprised him?

I'm afraid if I called him up first he might think I was chasing him.
BROWNIE

DEAR BROWNIE: And if you just drove over to the base and "surprised" him, what do you think he'd think? If I were you, I'd skip the surprise, and chase him on the telephone first.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HATES TO ASK IN ALBANY, N. Y.": ASK: A seven-time loser has a lot of explaining to do. I believe in "forgiving" seven times 77, but I'd like to know what I'm forgiving.

Ordinary priest extraordinary

By WILLIAM JENNS

When I was a freshman at Holy Cross College in Worcester, Mass., Father Pat Cummings, a Jesuit priest, taught my English class. He seemed an ordinary man — neither young, athletic, brilliant nor hip.

The one unusual thing about Father Pat was his practice of devoting time and energy to counseling young men faced with the crisis of "the silent generation." For his trouble he earned the nickname, "the Great Guy," used affectionately by most of my classmates, but cynically by the few who thought his concern was superficial and self-serving. I came to learn that he really deserved his nickname.

The summer after my freshman year at Holy Cross I was stricken with polio and left paralyzed from the neck down. Even before I knew the extent of my involvement, I asked my parents to alert Father Pat to my need for a miracle.

He responded immediately, not with a miracle, but with the promise of prayers and letters. I assume he kept the first half of his promise as faithfully as he kept the second half.

That first year he wrote me a letter every day. Then when I came home from the medical center, he agreed that his other friends had some claim on his attention, and so he revised his schedule. He wrote only every other day — for the next 17 years.

In more than 3300 letters Father Pat kept me posted on the events of campus life — the fortunes and frustrations of the athletic teams, the foibles of students in and out of class, and the change in student attitudes and life styles, especially during the 60's. He brought me out of the confines of my four-walled room into the life of my contemporaries.

When my letters would be rash, or filled with gaily, but my state being so would be dangerous, usually with tact but always with charity. And without fail he offered counsel, encouragement, caution or whatever it took to "keep the banners flying" — our code phrase for conquering my inevitable bouts of anger, emptiness, depression.

Once, in urging me not to give in to despair, he wrote, "You know, Will, the 'cure' in courage means heart; we are discouraged because we forget to open our hearts to God's love, which is always there, available through faith."

On another similar occasion — there were many — Father Pat counseled, "When you've fallen flat on your face, just pick yourself up, dust yourself off, and start all over again."

I was never sure whether he realized that a popular song offered the same advice. He was not at all averse to glean wisdom in improbable places.

What did Father Pat accomplish with those one million words he wrote to me? He helped one human being make an accommodation to a difficult fate.

Through Father Pat my immobile body did not become the total prison I'd feared. I'm able to read and type by holding a stick in my mouth. With books from the library and directions from Father, I've furthered my education and have been able to tutor a dozen kids over the years. From my bed, I've managed the family farm and served as a member of my church's parish council.

Every Mother's Day, Father wrote both to me and my mother. He never forgot that a woman suffers with her hurt child, whatever his age.

When Father Pat Cummings retired (after nearly 35 years at Holy Cross), he continued to live with the Jesuit community there. The deflation that came with enforced leisure never affected his spirit nor the tone of his letters.

Even the brief note telling of the recurrence of internal bleeding led me to assume the situation was not serious. But a week passed without another letter, and I know something was wrong.

Then a phone call brought the news that Father Pat had undergone surgery for cancer of the stomach. Typically, he had asked a friend to "call Will and tell him I'll write as soon as I can sit up."

And in two weeks there was a letter, written in an almost undecipherable scrawl, blaming poor eyesight for the penmanship. The next letter was recognizable only for the familiar farewell, "God love you," that was to be his valediction. The torrent of mail came to an end when he lapsed into a coma that lasted until his death.

The influence of this man on my life cannot be measured by any one single spiritual insight. He simply urged me to hang in there as doggedly and as honestly as I could, to "keep the banners flying."

Father Pat quietly affirmed that useless does not mean worthless. He taught me that words can be deeds and that there are miracles of healing perceptible only to the heart.

I know I was blessed by Father Pat — no martyr, no missionary but an extraordinary, ordinary man.

Man sits on pile of gold

John Troyer, manager of the Farmers' Grain Co. elevator, is sitting on top of a million-bushel pile of gold.

His problem is that he can't ship his treasure anywhere for sale and Gov. Daniel Walker stopped by Wednesday to find out why.

The problem is a national one and an annual one, aggravated this year by a late harvest, wet crops, a heavy export commitment and a bottleneck at Gulf of Mexico loading facilities.

The economies of the situation, as Troyer explained them, are easy to understand.

The elevator, he said, has purchased nearly a million bushels of corn and soybeans, using mostly borrowed money. If he had his way, that grain would be gone by now, the loans would be paid back and both elevator and farmer would show a profit, Troyer said.

However, he hasn't had his way and both the elevator and the farmer are paying for it.

The problem is that the Illinois Central Railroad which serves the Chestnut elevator, has not been providing the railroad cars needed to haul the grain to market.

"I called the IC in Chicago last week and told them if I don't get more cars it'll be June and I'll still be trying to get rid of this year's grain," Troyer-told-Walker.

He said he had ordered 216 cars in January, most of them to carry grain already sold. He still is waiting for 180 of those cars and now needs another 160 besides, he said.

And, while he waits, he continues to pay $5,000 a month interest on the borrowed money used to buy the grain, pays the cost of storing it, pays to insure the huge volume of volatile corn and soybeans and stands the risk that part or all of the stockpile will deteriorate, thus losing value.

And now, with railroads diverting some of their cars to shipment of fertilizer for the spring planting season, Troyer wonders whether he will be able to clear his storage bins before this year's crop starts arriving at his weighing scales.

BUM lambs cluster around Mrs. Clover Aikens of Lemhi who has taken on the responsibility of feeding 25 of the young animals this spring. All found themselves without mothers for one reason or another.

Lemhi woman raises 25 abandoned bum lambs

"SALMON" Mrs. Clover Aikens of Lemhi raises orphans - 25 to be exact.

With the help of her 5-year-old granddaughter, Leslie Whitson, they feed and care for 25 bum lambs. Bum lambs have either lost their mother or the mother cannot feed them so they have to be bottle fed and cared for to survive.

Mrs. Aikens has been taking care of such orphans the past 25 years. In past years she has had up to 40 lambs at one time. They usually range in age from 1 day to a month old, and she takes care of them for at least four or five months or until they are able to fend for themselves.

The lambs are fed four times a day. Each has its own pop bottle of milk.

It only takes five to 10 seconds for the hungry little lambs to gulp it down. Mrs. Aikens has the time to help supply her young ones with milk.

In the fall when the lambs are grown they will go to market with the exception of Leslie's lamb, which happens to be a ewe by the name of Kristie, and Leslie's best friend. Eventually Leslie may start her own herd of sheep with the

Bean loans made in Lincoln

SHOSHONE - The bean loan program through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service showed a price support in amount of $15,004.75 within Lincoln County during 1973.

This was for three applicants, on 1,732 hundred weight at a total loan amount of $14,344.00.

The farm storage facility loans amounted to $49,162.91 within the county during 1972. This was on 19 active loans, with 97,600 bushels of storage capacity at $13,278.16 outstanding principal amount.

help of Kristie, who has been given all the tender love and care a 5-year-old can offer, which is a lot, says Mrs. Aikens.

and Mrs. Bruce Whitson, Lemhi, is with her grandmother almost every day to help feed the lambs and she personally feeds and cares for Kristie.

In her long years of devotion to raising the orphan lambs, Mrs. Aikens said the most unusual incident was when she got four lambs all from the same mother.

"It's a lot of hard work but if you've seen a newborn baby lamb without a home then you will know it's well worth it," she said.

Travel frozen

BOISE (UPI) - James Han, administrator of Environmental and Community Services, has frozen all travel by his agency except where real need can be demonstrated.

Box said the state agency was beginning to appear as though it was subsidizing Howard Hughes (owner of Hughes air west) and prefer not to do that.

Lack of snow poses problem for sled dogs at Jerome

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — Lack of snow makes training a racing team of sled dogs difficult. Mr. and Mrs. Terry Martin, Jerome, travel to the "winter" area during the winter to train their dogs for major races in Montana and Wyoming.

The Martins became interested in dog sled racing two years ago while teaching school in Alaska. Martin drove a second string team for a kennel, while building up his own team. It now includes nine adults and 13 pups.

When they moved to Idaho, the Martins brought only 10 dogs, most of them rejects from other teams. Through careful training and love, adding a couple of new dogs, and selling a few others, Martin has built a team which has set two track records this season and placed second behind one of the best eastern entries.

Martin said he keeps his team small, running only seven dogs because he doesn't have the facilities, and a good lead dog can cost as much as $2,200.

"I can always tell how my dogs will perform in a race before it starts by how excited they are. These dogs love to run but after the first four miles the run is over. Then you need a dog who will run with his heart to win. The average speed of a good team over an 8 mile track is 15 to 16 miles per hour. A driver must be in good physical condition, too, since he works as hard as the dogs pushing the 25 pound sled and running behind," Martin said.

Sometimes a racer may have one or even two dogs "in the basket" riding in the sled — since rules require a racer to finish with the same number of dogs that started. Any dog who has injured a paw or become totally exhausted gets a free ride back.

The blue-eyed Siberian husky was imported to Alaska about 1902 from across the Bering Strait for racing purposes. Today most racing dogs look like scrawny mongrels bred primarily for speed. The so-called pure-bred husky is a recent development through careful breeding of dogs of a certain height, color, and fur, deciding beforehand the characteristics desired.

These dogs, usually white and large, are commonly bred and trained in Maine and New Hampshire, then shipped to the Arctic. They are also used extensively by explorers.

"Dog teams once small may now number between 3 to 16 dogs. A lead dog, which is the most important dog on the team, is not necessarily the strongest member of the team, but he is usually the most intelligent, for he must interpret the driver's commands," Martin said. "Spirit is the mark of the leader, who may be of either sex and any size. When a litter of pups is large enough they are allowed to romp and run alongside a trained team. The puppy that runs ahead and tries to stay in front is most of the time marked as a 'future lead dog,'" Martin said.

"Training new dogs demands hours of hard work, with the young dogs permitted to run with the older ones after they are broken to harness. It usually takes 2 1/2 years for a new dog to become totally at the driver's command. Although most of them are eager to run at nine months, you can't always be sure how reliable they will be in a long hard race," Martin said.

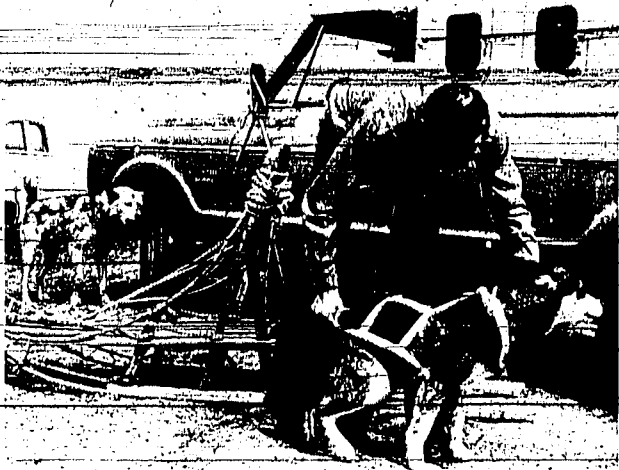

Dog fights must be stopped immediately, for they may result in the death or maiming of a valuable dog. For this reason dogs are seldom allowed to run loose. After a day's work, they are tethered to stakes, out of reach of each other. Good sled dogs are workers rather than pets, Martin said.

Seven of Martin's dogs will be featured in a movie, "The Mad Trapper of the Yukon," filmed in the Yukon area in 1972. The film is expected to be released sometime this fall.

Martin, who is one of the newcomers in racing in this area, would like to promote a sled-dog race in this area. "I feel that the interest in sled racing is increasing and that a meet in this area would do real good," Martin said. He said meets are run in northern Idaho.

He said most teams have a commercial sponsor who helps defray the cost of attending races.

"Since I'm fairly new in the field I have not as yet obtained a sponsor but so far my dogs have paid our way to the meets we have attended by their winnings," Martin said.

Gets into harness

TERRY MARTIN, Jerome, puts harness on his dogs before hooking them up to the sled. The harnesses are made of white-nylon webbing and padded around the neck and shoulders to prevent injury to the dogs.

Kimberly car theft reported

KIMBERLY — Twin Falls county sheriff's officers are investigating the theft of a 1972 car from the home of Sandra Golay who resides one mile north of Red Cap Corner near Kimberly.

Sheriff's officers said the woman was in the living room Saturday evening watching television when someone apparently looked through a glass in the back door and saw her purse on a shelf. Officers said the door was not locked. The purse, containing the keys to the automobile, is missing as is the automobile.

Three other vehicles, all earlier models, were parked in the driveway with keys in them. The light blue small sedan has a Utah license, and officers said the gasoline tank was full, giving the thief or thieves a radius of several hundred miles before having to refuel.

Officers said the woman did not miss the vehicle until Sunday morning.

Shoshone vote

SHOSHONE — Polls will be open from 1 to 7 p.m. today in the Shoshone High School for the election of one trustee to the Shoshone School Board.

Incumbent Waldo Jotter, who has served the past six years, is opposed by Lanny Kulhanek for a three-year term in Zone 5.

Both men farm in the North Shoshone area. Kenneth Crothers, school superintendent, said only residents of Zone 5 may vote in the election. The electors' oath states the voter is 18 years of age and has resided in Idaho six months and Lincoln County 30 days. No pre-election registration is necessary.

Gooding planning meet set

GOODING — The Gooding County Planning Commission will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Gooding County courthouse.

Don Rumberg, Bureau of Land Management representative, will present a program on the agency's plans for scattered land parcels in Gooding County.

Budget meet delayed

BURLEY — School District 151, Cassia and Twin Falls counties, has postponed a scheduled budget hearing until April 30.

Originally scheduled for tonight, the hearing for the 1973-74 maintenance and operation budget was postponed because of conflicts for school administrators.

Spud cellar burned at Hansen

HANSEN — An unused potato cellar owned by Clifford and Leonard Urie burned Sunday afternoon.

The cellar, located about a block from the Urie Brothers Service Station in Hansen, apparently ignited when weeds were burned around the cellar. The owners said they had burned weeds around the structure for several years with no problems. They said they thought some straw had become exposed and was ignited by the weed fire.

The fire was not discovered until after 4 p.m. when the cellar was entirely aflame inside. The weed had been burned earlier in the afternoon. The Hansen Fire Department stood by to be sure the flames didn't spread. The structure was destroyed.

Salmon studies alcohol problem

SALMON — An apparent increase in alcoholic beverage consumption among students has produced a concerted effort here to deal with the problem.

Law enforcement officers, Salmon school administrators and student leaders met to discuss the apparent increase and ways of coping with the situation. Recognizing that this is a violation which is covered by state law, the consensus was

Blaze in Ketchum

KETCHUM — A blaze Saturday destroyed a mattress and caused minor damage to a carpet at the Wildwood Inn.

According to Ketchum Fire Chief Bill Brand, Buford Mulver, Boise, an occupant of Apartment 68, apparently fell asleep while smoking a cigarette.

About 10 volunteers and two fire-trucks responded to the call.

that the law should be vigorously and impartially enforced.

The feeling was unanimous that a change in attitudes would be required before the situation could be fully corrected and that the change would have to be affected by both parents and juveniles.

"Respect and support for our laws must start in the home on the part of parents," Magistrate Judge William E. Puette said.

"Where a lack of respect for law and authority is displayed by the youth, it is more often than not a reflection of parental attitudes." It was decided that the law enforcement officers would, effectively immediately, crack down on violators.

Judge Puette said his court will implement this desire and need to clean up a bad situation with heavier penalties.

While the campaign will be directed primarily toward illegal consumption it will also encompass traffic violations and other forms of wrongdoings.

Hansen's plan on bike lanes okayed

WASHINGTON — Rep. Orval Hansen (R-Idaho) said today the House Public Works Committee has approved his amendment which provides for the construction of exclusive bicycle lanes and shelters using money from the Highway Trust Fund.

"This is a significant milestone for the 85 million cyclists in this country," he stated.

"The Committee's favorable reporting on my amendment is the first step in passing this legislation."

"The bicycle has become an accepted mode of transportation which is free of pollution, takes up less space for parking, cuts down on the pending fuel shortage, and is also good exercise.

"We should encourage more people to use bicycles, but first we must make the bicycle a safe mode of transportation by building bicycle lanes and shelters," Hansen said.

FAA finds no serious problem over airport

The Air Transport Association, he said, objected to the proposal because the FAA study did not address itself to runway instrumentation and resultant ramifications regarding potential aircraft accidents with the Twin Falls Airport.

In addition, the Transport Association had questioned the need for the new airport because of the proximity of the Twin Falls airfield.

The Idaho Department of Aeronautics position was summarized by Stoops as saying it had reviewed available data but could not conclude that two runways (as proposed for the new airport) were required.

It argued that wind data is not yet available for the new airport site, and saying the number of over-flights caused by crosswind "would not justify building a crosswind runway."

The Department of Aeronautics said that airspace clearance should not be required for the proposed crosswind runway. Further, it questioned the Regional Airport Site Selection Study that had recommended the Northside site as the best for a regional airport. According to Stoops, no other objections were received.

Teacher Corps meets in Filer

FILER — The Filer Elementary School held a Teachers' Corps meeting for 10 participating schools in the state Friday.

Interns from American Falls, Arco, Burley, Blackfoot, Idaho Falls, Preston, Pocatello, Twin Falls and Rupert toured the school and the various classrooms to observe teaching methods.

The interns meet each month to discuss their programs and interests and to gain experience in the teaching field. This is the first time Filer has been host to the group.

A coffee hour and business meeting in the school library preceded the tour. Marlene Woods, Pocatello, Intern association president, presided at the business meeting.

Following the tour the group visited the Thousand Springs Trout Farm and picnic area near Buhl and ended with a picnic at the Shoshone Falls.

Government absorbed with ecological equilibrium, SV conclave told

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY "Never before has the government been so absorbed with environmental-ecological equilibrium," according to Dr. Everett W. Woodman, national president of The Nature Conservancy.

Dr. Woodman spoke Saturday night before the annual state meeting of the Idaho Chapter of The Nature Conservancy, conducted Saturday and Sunday at Sun Valley.

A non-profit organization, the group is financed by contributions from the public, foundation grants and nationwide membership dues.

Special programs permit advance acquisition of the land by the Conservancy for state and national parks, forest and wildlife refuges with the group reselling the land to governmental agencies when their appropriations become available.

A natural area which is threatened by development or destruction may also be purchased with Conservancy funds.

With the end of the Vietnam war, Dr. Woodman said the environment has become the "number one" concern in the minds of the country and in Washington D.C.

"We are well into the era of the environment," Dr. Woodman said. He termed the period one of "hope and anxiety" as efforts are made to find a balance between "the legitimate wants of man and the environmental imperative."

Dr. Woodman said the Conservancy has a strong role to play nationwide — a role which he called "quiet, modest but increasingly effective."

Over the past 20 years, Dr. Woodman said the Conservancy has become involved in a total of 952 projects in 45 states and the Virgin Islands. These projects have ranged in size from one-tenth of an acre to a 50,000-acre tract, he said.

Project criteria accents environmentally significant areas, Dr. Woodman, said, which contain ecological diversity biotic communities and in which the life processes have been forming and operating for long periods of time. Although acquired lands have included prairies and marsh lands, he said, "we will continue to assist in salvaging open areas" and "purposeful restoration."

However, Dr. Woodman said the Conservancy's work was a "certainly unfinished, relatively unbegin" project.

He said the group's work will be judged by the "quality of our stewardship" in the care of the land and enlisted local chapter involvement in management of project lands and in searching for new areas to be acquired.

After the meeting, Dr. Woodman said, of the total number of projects, about 500 have been turned over to other agencies, including states, universities, private concerns and national forests.

The Conservancy still owns about 400 preserves, he said. Local chapters have the responsibility to insure that the reserves are protected from damage and to promote scientific research on the lands.

The land is a matter of local concern, local pride and local protectiveness," Dr. Woodman told the group.

G. Jon Rousch, Portland, Ore., Northwest Regional

Representative, discussed a Conservancy program being developed for conservation easements in agricultural areas. The program, he said, would be open to farmers and ranchers in areas which are being subdivided, to promote freezing of tax values at the agricultural level and continued use of the land for agriculture.

Other speakers at the meeting centering on land use, included Karl G. Holte, chairman of the Idaho chapter and botanist at Idaho State University; Bill Meiners, Boise, resource management consultant; Bruce Bowler, Boise, attorney; Bill Platts, Boise, fisheries biologist for the U.S. Forest Service; and Barry L. Keller, population biologist and mammologist at Idaho State University.

The meeting ended Sunday afternoon with a tour of the Elkhorn at Sun Valley development. The group also went to Deer Creek to view deer winter range. The tour was conducted by Kenneth Kulcan and sponsored by the Sun Valley Creative Arts Center under a federal environmental education grant.

Longshot Briton leads in Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Longshot Briton Peter Oosterhuis, showing Jack Nicklaus that he knows a thing or two about playing Jack's favorite course, shot a four-under-par 68 Sunday to grab a three-stroke third round lead in the Masters Golf tournament.

Oosterhuis, 24, little-known outside his own country, rode a hot putter the final nine holes to four birdies and a saving par that put him in position to become only the second foreign winner of this prestigious championship.

His showing, combined with earlier rounds of 73 and 70, gave him a 54-hole total of 211, five under par.

There was a three-way tie for second place at 214 among Bob Goalby, 1968 Masters champion, J.C. Snead and Jim Jamieson.

Snead, among the four men tied for the 36-hole lead, had a one-over-par 73 Sunday.

Goalby shot 71, Jamieson 70. Nicklaus, the defending champion and the pre-tournament favorite this year as usual, had another frustrating day with his putter, shot a one-over-par 73, fell eight strokes behind at 219 and saw his dream of becoming the Masters' first five-time champion virtually vanish for another year.

Tommy Aaron and 1967 winner Gay Brewer, two more of the 36-hole leaders, Johnny Miller and Chi-Chi Rodriguez were in a four-way tie at one under-par 215. Aaron and Brewer, who three-putted the final hole, had 74s, Miller 71 and Rodriguez 73.

Masashi "Jumbo" Ozaki, the Japanese long-ball hitter, and Gardner Dickinson were at 216 while Bob Dickson, another of the halfway leaders, Bruce Devlin and former PGA champion Dave Stockton were at 217. Dickinson made double bogeys at two of the last four holes Sunday and skied to a 76.

Only Gary Player in 1961, among all the foreigners annually invited to the Masters, ever won this tournament, and few people gave Oosterhuis a chance, but, before his remarkable back nine performance.

"I'm a little more confident than I have been here before," said Oosterhuis, who is in his third Masters.

He was two strokes behind the leaders at the start of play Sunday and four behind Snead who led after nine holes, but then began his remarkable saga on the Augusta National greens which still were somewhat damp from Saturday's day-long rain.

Oosterhuis sank a five-foot putt for a birdie at the 10th hole, a four-footer for a birdie at the 12th and an 18-footer at No. 15 that put him in the lead.

The lead looked like it might be short-lived when Oosterhuis missed the green on the par-3, 16th hole but he salvaged par there by running in, a 15-foot putt, and then he made an 18-footer at the next green for another birdie.

Oosterhuis' round also included an eagle three at the 555-yard, second hole where he sank a 60-foot putt.

"The last two years, Oosterhuis, who turned pro in 1966, has surpassed Tony Jacklin as Britain's top professional and he says his goal now "is to keep improving so I can win major tournaments like Tony Jacklin has done."

Nicklaus, who generally can count on a couple of birdies in each round on the par-five holes here, made a mild charge and then saw his hopes dissipate on the same hole where Oosterhuis took the lead, the 520-yard 15th.

The "Golden Bear," who had made four birdies in the seven preceding holes, dumped two shots into the water at No. 15, made an eight, and said, "The par fives ruined my round today." He also had a bogey six at the second hole.

Snead, best known only as Sam Snead's nephew despite three tournament victories since 1971, was two strokes ahead at the nine-hole turn but then made bogeys at 10, 11 and 12 in succession to fall from first place.

Braves, Astros split games

ATLANTA (UPI) — Mike Lum hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning for Atlanta to tie the game and drove in the winning run as the Braves beat Houston 4-3 in the second game of a doubleheader. Houston won the opener 10-3 behind the Tasty hitting of Cesar Cedeno.

Lum's ninth inning homer came with Dusty Baker on base to tie the game 3-3. In the 10th, Darrell Evans doubled and fluked over an intentional walk by losing pitcher Jim Crawford. Lum, playing right field as Henry Aaron was being rested in the second game of the twinbill, smacked a homer about 400 feet into left centerfield.

Earlier, Houston had taken a 3-0 lead when pitcher Don Wilson doubled and was driven in by Jim Wynn's single. Wynn went to second on the throw, scampered to third on Tommy Helm's sacrifice and scored on Cedeno's bloop single.

In the fourth inning, Lee May scored for Houston on catcher Johnny Edwards' infield out. The winning pitcher was Joel Hoerner for one inning of one-hit ball.

Crawford pitched the 10th for Houston and was the losing pitcher.

Cedeno had five hits, four in the first game, scored three runs and knocked in three on the day. His hot bat has produced eight hits in the first three games of the season.

In the first game, the Astros exploded for eight runs in the sixth inning when Cedeno led off with a double, moved to second on a Bob Watson walk and scored when Lee May doubled. Doug Rader singled to drive in two runs but was thrown out trying to go to second. Johnny Edwards singled and scored on Roger Metzger's triple to deep centerfield.

Dodgers blank San Diego 4-0

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Joe Ferguson hit a two-run double, Willie Crawford scored twice after getting on base on a pair of walks and Tommy John and George Culver combined to pitch an eight-hitter Sunday as the Los Angeles Dodgers scored their first victory of the season, 4-0, over the San Diego Padres.

Back-to-back singles by Lee Lacy and outfielder Von Joshua set the stage for a three-run "Dodger" fifth inning off Padres starter Steve Arlin for a 4-0 lead. Beaten on Friday and Saturday night by the Padres, the Dodgers got their first run of the fifth inning when Lacy came home on Bill Buckner's sacrifice fly.

Minnesota nips Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — Designated hitter Danny Walton's third-inning homer and a fifth-inning run-scoring single by Bobby Darwin provided the margin of difference Sunday as the streaking Minnesota Twins scored their third straight victory over the world champion Oakland A's, 4-2.

An error by third baseman Sal Bando set up a pair of unearned runs in the first inning to account for the other Twins scores.

Tennis players advance

HOUSTON (UPI) — Australians Ken Rosewall and Fred Stolle, playing their best tournament tennis of the year, fought their way to the finals of the $50,000 River Oaks Tennis Tournament Sunday keeping alive the "jinx" that has prevented anyone on this tour from winning more than one tournament this year.

Rosewall, the defending WCT champion, trounced Jan Kodes, 6-2, 6-2, assuring him a place in the top four of the tour standings and giving him an excellent shot at defending his WCT title.

Stolle used a booming serve to upset Tom Okker, 6-4, 6-1. Rosewall and Stolle, neither of whom have won a tournament this year, will meet in Monday's finals. This is Rosewall's first appearance in a finals match this year and Stolle's first shot at a WCT title since he joined the tour in 1970.

It also assures the WCT Group-B tour will have eight different winners in the eight tournaments played this year.

Rosewall was in fifth place in Group B's standings going into the River Oaks tournament and only the top four of each tour get to meet for the WCT championship next month in Dallas. A win for Rosewall will give him 10 points and put him into second place behind top-ranked Marty Riessen.

Trevino is unhappy

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Lee Trevino could be playing in his last Masters championship.

At least that was the impression he conveyed after shooting his third straight disappointing round, a three-over-par 75, Sunday.

"Just don't like the course," said Trevino, referring to Augusta National, which some consider among the finest in the country. "Every time I walk out on it, it just doesn't feel like I can break 75."

Trevino, competing in his fourth Masters, passed up the event in 1970 and 1971, but returned last year even though he refused to dress in the regular clubhouse. He changes his shoes in his car.

Was it only the course that bothered him?

Chris Evert wins 4th pro tennis tournament

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Chris Evert dominated Australia's Evonne Goolagong in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2, Sunday to win her fourth pro tennis tournament in five starts.

The 18-year-old Fort Lauderdale, Fla. star won the $5,000 first prize and boosted her winnings to $31,000 on the tour to lead the women's USITA tour.

Miss Evert clearly was superior in winning the singles event in the Sarasota Women's Open Tennis tournament at the Sarasota Bath and Racquet Club, using her usual backcourt style and baseline groundstrokes to force Miss Goolagong into numerous errors.

"I think I played pretty well. Evonne made a few more errors than she usually makes," Miss Evert said. "I didn't win on my really good shots, I just think it depended on how Evonne played."

It was the first contest between the young tennis stars since last year's Bonnie Belle Classic in Cleveland, when, as amateurs, Miss Evert also won in straight sets.

The 3,000 tennis fans on a hot Sarasota afternoon were about evenly divided between rooting for Miss Evert and the 21-year-old Aussie.

With the first set tied 3-3 Miss Evert broke Miss Goolagong's service. With Miss Evert ahead 4-3 Miss Goolagong charged the net for the first time after her serve, and Miss Evert hit a topspin lob over her head.

Miss Goolagong caught up with the ball, but drove it into the net, giving Miss Evert a 5-3 lead. For the rest of the match Miss Evert was never in trouble.

Miss Evert said, "Everyone says I pretty much play the same game and if Evonne is playing great she will beat me, and today she wasn't."

In the doubles finals, Patt Hogan of San Diego and Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, Calif., defeated Czechs Marie Neumomnova and Martina Navratilova 7-5, 6-4.
