Floods menace Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The flood swollen Mississippi river threatened to force evacuation of five riverside cities today and leaking levees allowed water to invade a subdivision of about 300 residents here.

A spillway opened to relieve pressure on a damaged seawall and the river lock system was closed to permit Army Engineers to reinforce a levee opening near New Orleans.

S. Viet battles increase

SAIGON (UPI) — Fighting increased across South Vietnam today after a 48 hour lull.

Clashes between South Vietnamese and Communist forces were reported in all parts of the country, but the heaviest battles were in the Saigon area. There, attacks in three localities cost the Communists 26 dead while Saigon forces lost two killed and 27 wounded.

US criticizes Beirut raid

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — U. S. Ambassador John Scali criticized Israel's Beirut commando raid but told the UN Tuesday it should also condemn Arab terrorism.

Debate on the matter was in its fifth day today. Arab nations worked on a resolution to present to the Security Council condemning Israel for the raid. Scali did not raise a veto threat Tuesday, although the US has hinted it will oppose any action applying only to Israel.

Indonesia may quit ICCS

SAIGON (UPI) — Indonesia threatened today to pull its peace supervision troops out of the field and back to regional headquarters unless a full investigation is made into the shooting down of a peace commission helicopter.

Nine persons were killed April 7 when their International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) helicopter was shot down by groundfire in Communist-held territory in Quang Tri Province.

Payoffs bring indictments

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eleven city policemen were indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of taking payoffs to protect a 10-year-old numbers racket. It was the capital's biggest case of police corruption in more than 20 years.

Two former policemen and 10 alleged gamblers were also charged in six counts with bribery, conspiracy or perjury.

Oil spill laws supported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that states may override federal maritime law and enact strict regulations to deal with offshore oil spills.

In an opinion by Justice William O. Douglas, the Court reversed a 1971 ruling by a special three-judge federal court in Jacksonville, which invalidated Florida's "Oil Spill Prevention Act."

Seale gains Oakland runoff

OAKLAND (UPI) — Mayor John Reading and Black Panther leader Bobby Seale (right) will meet May 15 in a runoff mayoralty election.

Reading missed by 84 votes a 51-per cent majority in the eight-man race. He is seeking his fourth term in office. Seale drew 21,314 votes in his first bid for public office while Reading polled 55,342 votes.

Nol. foes negotiate

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian President Lon Nol held round the clock negotiations today with opposition Cambodian politicians in a move to bring them into his government. The United States has urged such a step as necessary to any possible cease-fire talks.

Cambodia is the only country in Indochina without a formal cease-fire, and there was no sign of a letup in fighting or U.S. bombing in the country.

'New town' set in Blaine

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Plans for a square-mile "self contained, recreational-residential complex" southeast of Hailey were announced by a large California-based firm Tuesday.

According to Robert P. McCulloch Jr., president of McCulloch Properties, Inc., the development is designed primarily for the people who want to live and work in the area, but it will also contain second homes and retirement homes.

The 650-acre property is located one block from the southern boundary of the city of Hailey, paralleling U.S. 93 eastward for about two miles.

At the same time he disclosed plans for an about 1,800-acre development in the Democrat Gulch area, about 1.2 miles west of Hailey.

McCulloch said the firm will petition the city of Hailey for annexation of the first property this week.

The firm will also file with Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission a request to rezone 801 acres in the Democrat Gulch area for a proposed recreational-residential subdivision.

McCulloch said about 30 per cent of the property southeast of Hailey will consist of open green belt areas and public parks. The master plan for development includes about 242.9 acres for single family homes, 89.6 acres for condominiums and 85 acres for low rise apartments and duplexes.

The main feature of the development will be an $800,000 year-round tennis club and recreation center.

McCulloch said facilities will include eight outdoor and four indoor tennis courts, a clubhouse with a restaurant, lounge pro shop, saunas and an Olympic sized swimming pool.

McCulloch said provisions will be made for commercial areas and churches within the property.

The firm offered to donate an 18.3 acre parcel for use as a elementary or junior high school site. As the parcel is located adjacent to Bureau of Land Management land, McCulloch said, the Blaine County School district could possibly apply for additional land to accommodate a high school.

McCulloch said all power, telephone and gas lines within the development will be underground, and all lots will have sewer service.

McCulloch said primary function of the developing company would be to improve and sell lots, not build homes or condominiums.

He said the firm would sell land to builders who would construct homes.

He said the developing firm would "control" a building review unit which would ensure that "strict building codes" would be followed.

Hailey plan draws fire

HAILEY — "We are here, specifically to fight Mr. McCulloch and his development."

That statement by Robert Ward, Hailey, signaled the opening round of contention over a proposed 650 acre McCulloch Properties Inc. development to be located southeast of Hailey.

About 85 persons attended a meeting Tuesday night, organized by the newly formed Hailey Citizens for Orderly Development.

At the close of the meeting, about 25 persons pledged to aid a petition drive against annexation of the proposed development site into the Hailey city limits.

Ward, co-chairman of the group, said, "The only way to stop this down at this time is to stop annexation." He said such a move, by necessitating that McCulloch Properties submit the development to Blaine County for consideration, "forces them in fact to make an impact study."

"We are concerned with the impact of this development and what it would do to the community," Ward said. He cited possible areas the development would affect as water, sewer, the environment, the economy and the school system.

Terminal closing wounds Glenss Ferry

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

GLENN'S FERRY — This Magic Valley community's 89-year history as a railroad town will end July 1.

The Union Pacific Railroad announced Tuesday it is discontinuing its terminal at Glenss Ferry.

Reactions in the town range from condemnation of Union Pacific's act as the prelude to "a chaotic mess" to optimism that the town can absorb the loss.

Clarence Moore, acting city clerk, said the shutdown will drain the town of nearly 150 railroad workers through transfers. Union Pacific says only 40 transportation and depot employees will be affected.

"Every one of them (workers) here hates to leave," Moore said. "We have a good school system, an excellent sewer and water system, and the town is generally very well taken care of," he added.

"They hate to give up their homes and move to larger cities," he said.

In the past we have depended a great deal on the railroad economy and still depend on it," Moore said. "The railroad workers are good citizens earning good salaries and their loss could affect approximately 20 per cent of the town's economy."

"Losing the depot is the worst thing the town has had so far," Moore said. He said Union Pacific has employed a

"railroad doctor" to care for workers in Glenss Ferry. The physician also "look care of the entire community." The doctor, W.A. Rulein, moved to Riggins last week, according to Moore.

Lloyd Jensen, president of the Idaho State Bank in Glenss Ferry, was more fiery in his comments concerning the shutdown. It will create "a chaotic mess," he said. "I personally feel the railroad has very little regard for their personnel."

He said the move will force home-owning workers to get appraisals on their homes "at their own expense" to match with Union Pacific appraisals.

The two figures will then be mediated, according to Jensen, before the railroad firm purchases the houses.

"I had four people in the bank yesterday asking where to go for an appraisal," Jensen added. He said the appraisals will cost between $100 and $300.

Nixon opens own Watergate probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bowing to mounting pressure from all sides, President Nixon has begun a personal investigation of the Watergate bugging case and said he will fire anyone in the government who is guilty.

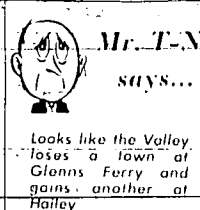

"I condemn any attempts to cover up in this case, no matter who is involved," Nixon said in a three-minute statement to reporters Tuesday. Amplifying Nixon's remarks, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler strongly hinted that some presidential aides would be dismissed.

Republicans, who had been demanding that Nixon clean up the Watergate affair, expressed satisfaction and relief. Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., the 1964 presidential candidate, who said a week ago that the nation was beginning to think Nixon "is trying to hide something," said:

"I am very pleased that President Nixon has made it possible for us to get to the bottom of the Watergate situation."

"Nixon ordered all White House aides to testify before a Senate investigating committee and took out of their hands any further investigation."

Oil quotas lifted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today suspended all oil import quotas and lifted tariffs on oil in an effort to meet an "energy challenge" that he said threatens to blossom into an "energy crisis."

Nixon also called for elimination of price regulations on newly discovered natural gas, a step he said would increase the cost to industry and the consumer but would encourage development of new supplies of the nation's cleanest fuel.

"In the years immediately ahead, we must face up to the possibility of occasional energy shortages and some increases in energy prices," Nixon said in a 19-page message to Congress.

"Clearly we are facing a vitally important energy challenge," he said. "If present trends continue unchecked, we could face a genuine energy crisis."

Nixon proposed substituting a fee of .05 cent per gallon for crude oil and up to 1.5 cents a gallon for refined products to replace existing quota restrictions on imported oil. But he said holders of existing quota licenses would be permitted to import oil up to their quotas this year without paying the fee. They then could import additional oil by paying the fee.

He also eliminated all existing tariffs on imported petroleum.

He also said existing tax breaks for oil firms, such as depletion allowance and deductions for some drilling expenses, must be retained.

In his long-awaited message outlining ways for coping with the nation's energy needs, Nixon said some compromises on environmental standards were needed to keep the costs of energy at reasonable levels.

To stimulate domestic production, Nixon proposed extension of the investment tax credit to exploratory oil drilling. He said the credit would be more generous for successful wells than for dry wells "in order to put an additional premium on results."

Nixon directed the Interior Department to triple acreage available for oil leases offshore on the outer continental shelf. He continued suspension of drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel off the California coast.

School budget up

By LORAYNE SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The proposed Twin Falls school budget released Tuesday, calls for increased general fund expenditures of nearly half a million dollars next year.

The budget, which has not yet been approved by school trustees, shows a jump to $3.5 million in general fund expenditures.

Despite revenue projections showing a general fund increase of $401,000 over this year, there was no provision made for establishing a kindergarten program.

Teacher salary received the largest portion of new money. Instructional salaries rose from $2,194 million to $2,582 million. The increase provided an 11.32 per cent salary hike over the existing budget level and provided an extra $138,749 in the instructional salary category.

When asked about the extra instructional money, Camden Meyer, assistant superintendent, said it reflects some salaries previously paid by Federal Title I funds. He said school officials believe those federal funds will be severely curtailed.

Supt. George Staudacher today declined to discuss the budget figures.

Other items under expenditures, showing considerable increase are "operation of plant salaries," which jumped $13,000 from $110,000 to $123,000, and "other operation of plant expenditures," from $116,100 to $124,000 for a jump of $8,000.

TF mileage costly

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County taxpayers pay the cost of their commissioners' morning drive to work and evening return trip home.

A check of records in the courthouse Tuesday showed the cost to taxpayers thus far in 1973 is more than $200, based on a flat 10 cents per mile.

No other claims could be found for similar expenses by other county officials, either elected or appointed.

But the commissioners who recently received a $400 pay increase to $3,600 a year, file claims against county funds for their daily drives.

In addition, on days when the commissioners drive to work in the morning and home in the afternoon and return to the city later that evening, they file claims for two trips.

Commission chairman William Chaney said the system was the same as it has been since he became a commissioner over six years ago. He admitted he had never seen a claim for the drive from home for any other county official, but said the commissioners were "entitled" to the reimbursement.

Huge oil firms push loners out

By United Press International.

Diminishing supplies of gasoline are shutting down some independent dealers—a threat to businesses using automotive transportation and to private car owners who normally take to the open road in droves during spring and summer.

Rationing so far has been spotty, arising, according to some retailers, from the desire of major oil companies to hoard their stores for their own outlets.

In Anniston, Ala., A. P. Hubbard, president of Hubbard Oil Co., said Tuesday that six of his 20 service stations have closed because they have no gasoline. He expected the remainder of his stations to exhaust their supply of gasoline within a week and close, unless a new source of gasoline is found.

Hubbard said he has bought gasoline from Crown Central Petroleum Corp. for more than 12 years, but less than two weeks ago the firm notified him it would supply no more gasoline after April 15.

"They've got gasoline but they're going to keep it to supply their big, elegant stations, as they put it," he said.

"We're still trying to find an additional source of supply from any place that we can," he said. "No major oil company will take you on now. They won't take on any new accounts."

Hubbard was in the same bind as Roy Pollard, president of "Save-X," an independent company in southwest Virginia. Pollard also put at least part of the blame on the major distributors.

Nixon orders all aides to testify in Watergate

Nixon ordered all White House aides to testify before a Senate investigating committee and took out of their hands any further investigation of the June 17 bugging of the Democratic national headquarters.

Several past and present members of the White House staff and the Committee to Reelect the President have been mentioned in connection with the bugging as well as other alleged acts of political espionage and sabotage during the 1972 presidential campaign.

After months of declaring full faith in his staff and saying he would not permit their testimony before the Senate committee, Nixon finally spoke amid a flurry of criticism from within his own party and press reports that other White House aides were involved.

"If any person in the executive branch or in any other government agency is involved in any activity which is in violation of the law, my policy will be to immediately suspend him. If he is convicted, he will, of course, be automatically discharged," Nixon said.

"I have expressed to the appropriate authorities my view that no individual holding, in the past or at the present, a position of major importance in the administration should be given immunity from prosecution."

Nixon told reporters Aug. 29 that an investigation conducted by White House Counsel John W. Dean III at his request had revealed that "no one in the White House, no one in this administration, presently employed," was involved in the Watergate break-in.

Ziegler said this and other Nixon statements were based on information he had at the time and did not take into account the results of subsequent investigation.

Nixon said he began "intensive new investigations" on March 21, the day convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. sent Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica a letter saying government witnesses had committed perjury during the January trial and that "political pressures" had been exerted for the defendants to plead guilty and remain silent.

Nixon said he and Assistant Attorney General Henry W. Peterson, who is assisting him in the investigation, conferred Sunday afternoon about the case.

"I can report today that there have been major developments in the case concerning which it would be improper to be more specific now, except to say that real progress has been made in finding the truth," Nixon said.

Ziegler said no one on the White House staff has resigned as a result of the investigation and that all staff members were performing their regular duties.

Shortly after Nixon spoke to reporters, Martha Mitchell, wife of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, who resigned as campaign manager two weeks after the break-in, repeated fears "they're trying to nail my husband."

Jane Fonda canceled

DALLAS (UPI) — A television station received so many complaints about the showing of a scheduled Jane Fonda movie Tuesday that it canceled the film and ran another one instead, WFAA-TV officials said.

"If that is the sentiment at this time to the showing of the movie, then we can wait until a later date," said station manager Ward Huoy.

"It's postponed indefinitely. We haven't made any other decisions regarding other Fonda movies."

The scheduled movie, "Tall Story," 1960, was the first starring role for Miss Fonda.

Nixon lifts oil import tariffs

"The single most effective means of encouraging energy conservation is to ensure that energy prices reflect their true costs," he said.

Price increases, he said, were a more equitable way to limit consumption than was rationing.

Nixon proposed relaxation of strict air quality standards which he said would discourage use of coal — the nation's cheapest and most abundant fuel — and shift demand to sulphur-free oil or natural gas.

The Clean Air Act of 1970 imposes primary standards related to health and more stringent secondary standards related to the general welfare. Both restrictions are intended to become effective in 1975.

"Our concern for the general welfare or national interest should take into account considerations of national security and economic prosperity as well as our environment," Nixon said.

"If we are to maintain the vigor of our economy, the health of our environment and the security of our energy resources, it is essential that we strike the right balance among these priorities," he said.

Nixon termed as "ill-conceived" current Federal Power Commission regulation of prices on natural gas in interstate commerce.

For more than a decade, the prices of natural gas supplied to pipelines under this extended regulation have been kept artificially low," he said. "As a result, demand has been artificially stimulated but the exploration and development required to provide new supplies to satisfy this increasing demand have been allowed to wither."

Nixon said gas from new wells, gas newly dedicated to interstate markets and the continuing production of gas from wells on which existing contracts have expired no longer should be subject to price regulation at the well-head.

The President conceded that consumer prices would rise but because the higher cost, unregulated gas would be averaged in with gas that is still regulated the consumer should be protected against precipitous cost increases.

Nixon also repeated his previous calls for construction of the Alaska pipeline to permit development of the rich North Slope oil fields; research to develop commercial methods of extracting oil from shale; programs to convert steam from under the earth into electricity; and efforts to produce an effective "fast breeder" nuclear power reactor.

He proposed increased efforts to develop exotic new sources of energy such as fusion reactors fueled by a hydrogen isotope from sea water and improve the uses for coal.

"I urge that highest national priority be given to expanded development and utilization of our coal resources," he said. "More than half of the world's total reserves of coal are located in the United States. This resource alone would be enough to provide for our energy needs for well over a century."

The Threat Of A Total Breakdown

SAIGON — Far more than chronic ceasefire violations by the Communists, the greatest threat of a total breakdown in the fragile Paris agreement is the possible reopening of the port of Sihanoukville in Cambodia to supply North Vietnamese armies in South Vietnam.

That is why the Cambodian crisis is critical enough to dispatch Gen. Alexander Haig, vice chief of staff of the U.S. Army, on last week's emergency mission to Indochina. To U.S. officials here, the prospect of Sihanoukville reopening endangers the entire ceasefire framework. South Vietnamese generals are deeply concerned that this would adversely transform the military equation.

To prevent this transformation, therefore, the possibility must be held open that the ARVN (South Vietnamese army) would ignore the peace agreement and move into Cambodia — a military adventure so far firmly rejected by the Saigon government. Considering the limited effectiveness of U.S. bombing and the hopeless Cambodian army, however, that might ultimately be necessary to keep Sihanoukville closed.

The Cambodian menace to South Vietnam fits into a future, not a present, Communist offensive here. What high officials in Washington expected to be a major April-May Communist offensive seems to be no more than a step-up in local small-unit action. Military experts here believe there is simply not enough North Vietnamese infantry now in South Vietnam to mount a major offensive.

Nevertheless, Hanoi is preparing for the future: building new supply roads and airstrips in South Vietnam, bringing down tanks and long-range artillery. This is intended to give the Communists the option, by next year perhaps, of attacking nationwide if political subversion fails.

That's where Cambodia comes in. Nobody here is terribly worried about Communist insurgents seizing the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh and toppling Cambodia's sickly, faction-torn government. That does not seem Hanoi's intention. What is tremendously worrisome is the magnificent port of Sihanoukville, closed to Communist supplies (and renamed Kompong Som) after Prince Norodom Sihanouk was deposed in 1970. Dr. Henry Kissinger agreed to let some 145,000 North Vietnamese troops remain in South Vietnam (bitterly opposed by President Nguyen Van Thieu) on the promise, always doubtful, that Hanoi's army would not be supplied through Laos and Cambodia. Sihanoukville reopened would provide a firm logistical base for Communist troops to launch offensives in the heavily populated Saigon area and Mekong river delta.

So far, the Saigon government, markedly more scrupulous than Hanoi in respecting the Paris agreement, has been restrained about Cambodia. Prime Minister Tran Thien Kiem privately informed U.S. officials last week that the government has decided against South Vietnamese naval vessels protecting a supply convoy up the Mekong into Phnom Penh, much less broader intervention. In any event, Thieu's absence abroad prevented any precipitate action.

But ARVN generals commanding troops along the Cambodian border are restless, privately urging intervention. If and when Cambodian Communists capture Sihanoukville and secure roads leading northward as a supply route, the pressure will grow inside the ARVN high command for action likely to demolish that flimsy semblance of a "ceasefire" now exists.

Ruptured Aorta

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know more about a ruptured abdominal aorta, which took my father's life. It caused kidney and blood pressure failure and possible brain damage.

I would like more people with hardening of the arteries to be aware of this dangerous condition. — L.G.M.

An aneurysm is a weakened, bulging place in a blood vessel — can occur in any major artery. It is, obviously, more dangerous when it occurs in a vital location.

This is true of the abdominal aorta. The aorta is the main artery leading from the heart, thus supplying blood for the whole body. Branches of it serve the myocardium (heart muscle) and other areas of the upper body.

Another large branch extends down through the abdomen, serving the abdominal organs and legs. If it ruptures, obviously blood will flow copiously into the abdominal cavity. This drains blood from the rest of the circulatory system; blood pressure is drastically lowered; all the deprived organs, including the brain, suffer.

High blood pressure, prior to the rupture, increases the danger of rupturing of course; it exerts that much more pressure on the weakened area.

Symptoms of an aneurysm are usually minor, if any, until the rupture becomes large. In the abdomen, a pulsating mass may be felt — but one should be cautious of self-diagnosis for an abdominal aneurysm because, in persons with a thin abdominal wall, the pulsation of a normal aorta can be felt.

However, X-ray of the abdomen may show calcium in the wall of the aorta, and confirmation of the aneurysm is by arteriography, a technique for X-ray of arteries.

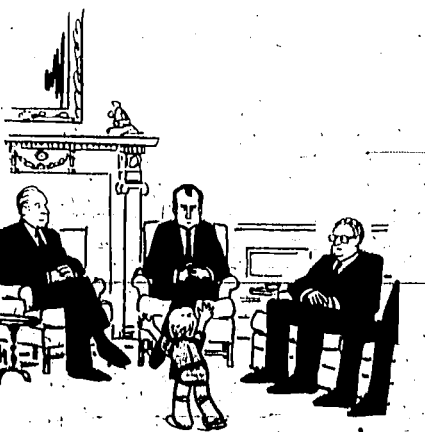

After diagnosis has been made, modern blood vessel surgery can take care of the situation, various techniques being employed depending on the exact location and nature. Such a rupture of the lower aorta is not a common occurrence, however dangerous it is if it occurs. I repeat, self-diagnosis is a misleading undertaking for this condition. The two things that can protect us are keeping blood pressure under control, and having a periodic physical examination. While the patient is not likely to be able to spot such an aneurysm, a physician can — although not in the earlier stages.

Dear Doctor: My son likes to eat raw bacon and very raw meat. He also eats fat and eggs half done. I would like to know if this is harmful and if I should let him continue to eat this way. — C.M.

It is potentially harmful, so I'd certainly try to establish some new eating habits. In my opinion, all meat products should be cooked, and that certainly includes bacon.

In fact, pork, although a wholesome food, is particularly risky unless thoroughly cooked, because of the danger of trichinosis.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Is my Daddy in here? I've got to tell him I don't have any cavities!"

Cheap Money

What is the remedy for inflation? Everyone wants a halt to runaway prices, but the way to do it is a problem.

The Miami Herald put its fingers squarely on the solution in a recent editorial:

"The real remedy for inflation is fiscal frugality by government and improved efficiency on the part of labor, management and capital. Therein also is the key to stable currency value. Devaluation of the kind that is occurring now is a clear and public confession that a nation has been living beyond its means."

Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz is the target of attacks by some Democratic Congressmen, who have conveniently forgotten that farm subsidy payments to take land out of production were the creature of a Democratic Congress.

Butz, angry that farmers are blamed for high meat prices, tells American housewives they should "boycott the spenders" in Congress if they really want to fight inflation. Sound advice, indeed, because government over-spending is a major factor in forcing devaluation of the dollar.

Economist Milton Friedman, an apostle of free enterprise, blamed the Federal Reserve Board, not "greedy wage earners or avaricious businessmen," for an oversupply of paper money, an error compounded by deficit spending.

Last year, the Fed allowed about an eight per cent increase in the money supply, which it controls through its power to create, that is, to print, money. Friedman holds the Fed should limit increases in the money supply to about four per cent a year to approximate the growth in goods and services.

Inflation is like a habit-forming drug, easy to start, hard to quit. Political pressures support inflationary spending and then demand controls.

Senator Henry M. Jackson, Washington Democrat, tried to slap a total freeze on wages, prices, interest and rents for a period of six months and failed by only two votes to win Senate approval.

The one item exempted from Senator Jackson's proposal was federal deficit spending, which is equivalent to trying to put out a fire with gasoline.

You have only to look at Russia's completely controlled economy or to Chile's efforts to install Communism. There are shortages of nearly everything except paper money. Controls simply do not work over the long term.

Congress is fumbling with a proposal to put a lid of $268 billion on this year's federal spending and at the same time is feuding with President Nixon's efforts to put the brakes on waste and extravagance in federal programs.

It's hard to quit inflation and over-spending but it must be done and soon or the hangover will be truly horrendous.

Recomputation Bill

WASHINGTON — Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., is all set to force another vote on his bill to recompute military retired pay, which the Senate overwhelmingly approved last year 82 to 4.

The chairman of the Veterans Affairs Committee is absolutely confident the Senate will again pass his measure as decisively as before.

In that firm belief, Hartke has served notice on the leaders of the Armed Services Committee (which has jurisdiction over recomputation legislation) that unless such a bill is favorably recommended to the Senate, he will again offer his proposal as an amendment to the first military measure considered by the Senate.

That was the strategy the plain-talking Indianan successfully employed last year — and he is prepared to resort to it again this year if necessary.

When that is likely is unpredictable at this time. Due to the prolonged absence of Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman, the Armed Services Committee was delayed in beginning work on the defense budget and other military legislation. In Stennis's absence, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a leftist liberal and dove activist, is presiding over the committee — as next-ranking member.

Like Stennis, Symington is opposed to recomputation. It will be several months at least before a military bill emerges from the committee. If by that time it is evident Symington has no intention of acting on the recomputation issue, Hartke is determined to force a showdown by offering his measure as an amendment — in the unshaken conviction it will be overwhelmingly approved by the full Senate.

"I am going to give the Armed Services Committee full opportunity to act on recomputation," Hartke told this column. "Due to Sen. Stennis's inactivity as a result of being shot in a hold-up, the committee has been slow in getting underway. But if it becomes apparent there is no intention of doing anything about recomputation, it will then be my turn to take the lead, and I will do so as vigorously and forcefully as the situation permits."

In Senator Hartke's opinion, the prospects for winning House approval for recomputation are better than last year.

One factor in this encouraging outlook is the $360 million item in the President's budget earmarked for a recomputation that is deemed highly important as it indicates the Administration has allocated the funds for recomputation if Congress passes it.

The problem in the House is similar to that in the Senate — getting recomputation before the full chamber for a showdown vote.

It's Money

WASHINGTON — Come now the real crunch in the Watergate bugging caper. It is spelled MONEY, in caps, and at long last Republican candidates for office in 1974 and 1976 have discovered the possibility that President Nixon's refusal to let his aides testify under oath before a Congressional committee could hurt their campaign pocketbooks.

Debating principle is all right in high schools and colleges, but the professional politician knows that a candidate's No. 1 requirement is cash. It can be fairly said about most Democrats and Republicans that a scandal is important only in direct ratio to its effect on citizens accustomed to contribute to their party's war chest. If those citizens are turned off by the shenanigans, forget it.

The material aspects of Watergate were examined in this space on March 7, but all efforts to obtain comments from leading Republicans were fruitless. Apparently, there was a general feeling that the miserable business would blow over.

But in the last week or so, Republican Congressmen of all ideological shades have bustled into print to warn the President that if he stuck to his refusal to cooperate with Capitol Hill he would damage his party's chances in '74 and '76. I think it probable they have heard from the folks back home.

Indeed, both Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Anne Armstrong, who serves Nixon as liaison with the Republican National Committee, have admitted as much. "It's Goldwater's neck I'm thinking about," the Arizona told the Christian Science Monitor. He said he had received "letters and calls from Republican friends of mine all around the country and they are saying 'No more money to the Republican National Committee until this is cleared up.'"

With unaccustomed haste for a White House staffer, Mrs. Armstrong agreed with Goldwater's gloomy appraisal. She told reporters "I think he is absolutely right at the present. We are being hurt now."

Watergate, it seems, won't go away until the White House comes clean and sends some top hands to the Hill to tell what they know, or don't know, to Sen. Sam Ervin's Select Senate Committee investigating the bugging of Democratic headquarters last June. One Republican Senator, who naturally demanded anonymity, fears that even that action by Nixon won't soothe the electorate.

"Hell," he said, "I don't really think the White House has been engaged in a coverup. I don't think Dick Nixon was involved in the break-in. But what I think doesn't matter. It's what the voters think, and I'm afraid they're having some nasty thoughts about the Republican Party."

Thus, whatever the President does now, he could already have made a fatal mistake in barring testimony by any present or even former White House staffers may be completely blameless, the Nixon-Congress deadlock inevitably has suggested a coverup. The American voter is more sophisticated and suspicious of politicians than he was 50 years ago, and a logical question has been posed: If the White House is clean, why not prove it?

Open Army

This is now the Army, Ms. Jones: For the first time, a new Army command policy allows members of the Women's Army Corps to exercise disciplinary authority over men.

The actual change in Army Regulations enables Wacs to be assigned to any command position, except those associated with combat or tactical combat support.

Up until now, women have been permitted to command women and to supervise both men and women, but were not permitted to exercise the disciplinary authority of a commander over men (contrary to what is frequently the case in civilian — er, that is, married — life).

MR. SPECTATOR

Words Of Praise

We were talking with Enoch Wall the other day. The talk got around to other days and old friends.

Enoch said that sometime ago he read an article about an internationally famous sports personality who was universally liked and admired because of his supreme modesty attached to his complete modesty.

He was referring, of course, to the great Bobby Jones. The tribute to Jones closed with the post script: With dignity he left the memorable scene of which he nothing common did or mean.

Enoch recalled that he just happened to be — in a modest way — a beneficiary of the generosity of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. during the years when the late Harry Eaton was a rising young banker.

Mr. Eaton died just a year ago. Mr. Wall commented on his passing, how he is missed and also on the fact that he, too, was talented and modest. Mr. Eaton and Mr. Wall had known each other since High School days in Twin Falls back in 1910.

We thought this would be a refreshing column for this day. How many will remember all of us for our talents and our modesty a year after we are gone?

Terror problem double

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In dealing with world terrorism, the United States faces a two-edged problem.

In the short term it demands protection for the lives of United States citizens, including its diplomats, and U. S. property.

The long term demands a solution of and an end to terrorism itself.

The dilemma also may be simply stated.

The attack early Saturday, April 14, on an American-owned oil terminal at Sidra, Lebanon, illustrated the near impossibility of providing protection for all American interests scattered throughout the globe.

Protection for American citizens also has its limits. The United States can assign extra Marines, bulletproof cars and provide other safeguards to U. S. embassies. But the more wraps placed around American diplomats, the less effectively they function. Even to stay at home does not necessarily insure protection of American lives, subject as they may be to air hijackings or to the spreading vendetta between Arab and Israeli underground agents.

Contributing to the problem is the intervention of big power politics.

Russia, for example, denies any Robin Hood image to terrorists, but Yakov Malik, Soviet ambassador to the United Nations, declares he will support any resolution against Israel up to and including expulsion from the U. N.

He ignores whatever provocation there may have been prompting Israeli counter action such as the commando raid which led to the slaying of three Palestinian leaders in Beirut.

A most important further complication is that the Palestinian commandos representing a non-existent nation are answerable to no one and no Arab nation is forced to take responsibility for them.

In the end, it may be that the solution lies only with individual nations.

A law just passed by Sweden gives police the right to tap telephones, open mail, and to search the homes of foreigners suspected of being engaged in terrorist activity. Specifically the law was aimed at persons suspected of dealing with Yugoslav and Arab terrorist organizations. It followed the hijacking of a Swedish airliner by Yugoslav terrorists.

It could be an example for others to follow.

Analysis

Waldheim's call for action, over the opposition of many nations, including the Arabs and others with ideological axes to grind, took courage. But out of it came only a resolution calling for a study of "root causes" of terrorism.

It left the U. N. in the position where it is today, namely, a propaganda forum, and the U. S. in the uncomfortable position wherein it may incur further Arab wrath with a veto of any resolution which does not attach equal blame to all terrorism whether it be Arab, Israeli or something else.

More tough tests ahead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The sight of American POWs striding proudly from the planes which brought them to freedom warmed the hearts of millions who witnessed it on television.

"I have just never been as proud to be an American as when those men came back," President Nixon said recently, recalling his own emotions at the homecoming.

"When you think of what these men have gone through—years of confinement, several of them over four years in solitary without ever seeing an American, seeing only their captors in that period, and then to see them come down off those planes—thin, yes, but standing so strong and tall saluting the American flag. To Nixon, the return of the prisoners of war has become the symbol of the rightness of his Vietnam policies over the past four and a half years.

One of them visited him in his White House office, Nixon said, and "told me 'Mr. President, we wouldn't have been standing like that if you had made the kind of deal that some had suggested which was gave us our prisoners and in return we will get out because our slogan in that prison camp in Hanoi was 'come with honor'."

"And I want you to know these men couldn't have come back—and I say this as a statement of fact—unless we had had the support from many in this room and those you represent across the country."

Nixon made his remarks to the National Conference of Building and Construction Trades, a 3.5 million member group which generally supported his Vietnam policies. From the ranks of this organization came the hard hats who staged a march in New York City in support of his policies in May, 1970 during the Cambodian incursion.

This had been a hard time for him, Nixon said, because he knew the Cambodian decision was an unpopular one. So were the decisions of last May to mine Haiphong's harbors and the decision of last December 18 to resume bombing in the Hanoi region when the peace talks were so near agreement.

"What I am simply saying is this: had it not been for these hard decisions, had it not been for what we did in Cambodia... our prisoners of war would still be in Hanoi."

Convinced that his earlier policies have been vindicated, Nixon now is faced with similar tough decisions caused by the breakdown in the Vietnam peace agreement. According to his aides, his response will be measured but firm.

They say U.S. bombing raids have been resumed in Cambodia and Laos because the blatant cease fire violations have occurred in these countries. But they also predict that if the situation worsens in South Vietnam, U.S. air strike also will be resumed there.

Idaho tax notes back

BOISE (UPI) — State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon today reported redemption of the last $1 million worth of outstanding tax anticipation notes against the General Fund.

Miss Moon said with seasonal income tax collections coming in she will not need to issue any more tax notes for the remainder of this fiscal year.

During this fiscal year, which began last July 1, Miss Moon found it necessary to issue $62,250,000 worth of tax notes. All have been redeemed.

Smoking tests POW's charity

MANILA (UPI) — An American prisoner of war nearly lost his Christian charity when he discovered his cellmate rolling cigarettes with pages from the New Testament.

The pages had been smuggled into the North Vietnam prison camp as wrapping paper for a package from the United States.

Hot words were exchanged when one of the prisoners inadvertently used some pages to roll a cigarette.

"I would have had a hard time being Christian to the man who smoked up my New Testament," said the other prisoner.

That story and others illustrating the deep religious faith of the American prisoners of war have been retold by Navy Chaplain Lt. Cmdr. Alex B. Aronis, Los Angeles, who was assigned to "Operation Homecoming," the POW recovery program at Clark Air Base 50 miles north of Manila.

The chaplain's remarks are contained in an article entitled "Faith In God Sustained POWs."

The returnee who had collected and treasured the New Testament sheets, only to see some go up in smoke, shook his head and said, "The pages of the New Testament were more precious to me than anything I'd ever possessed," Aronis wrote.

Aronis continued:

On the evening of the arrival of the first group of POWs at

Clark, a high-ranking officer said to me, "You know Chaplain, I wouldn't consider myself an unusually religious man, and I probably wouldn't say this to just anyone, but I want to tell you because you are a chaplain: without God, I would not have been able to survive."

His tone and expression revealed deep earnestness and conviction, and I was listening as hard as I could, I said, "In other words, God really helped you while you were a POW?"

"No, Chaplain," he shook his head, "not merely helped. I mean it when I say I could not have made it without God pulling me through."

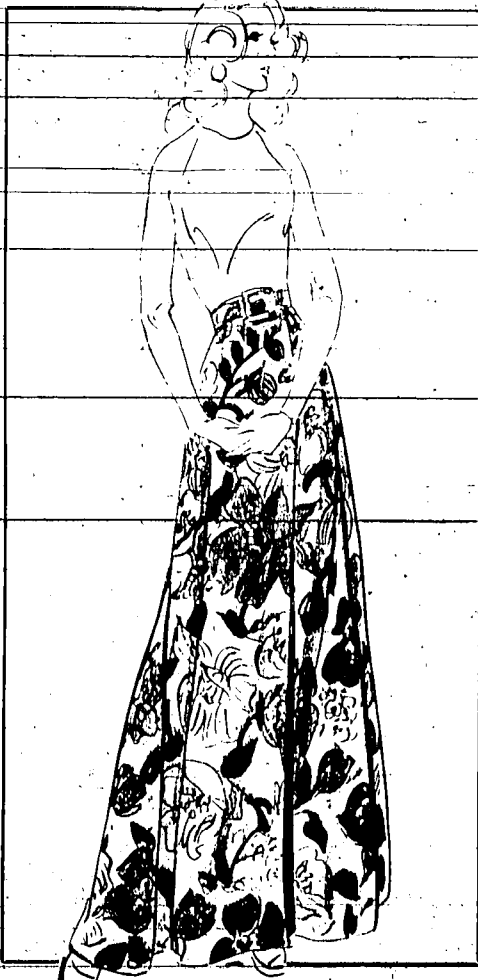

"He then proceeded to tell me several experiences which were horrifying, but also inspiring beyond words because of the way God enabled him to cope. He indicated that during the most difficult, the most painful, the darkest hours, God sustained him and enabled him to get through. He asked me not to talk about the specifics of these experiences, so I can't. But as far as he was concerned, God miraculously saved him on several occasions."

Aronis said when prisoners first began filling up the camps seven and eight years ago, communication was forbidden. Silent worship services were held with POWs whispering The Lord's Prayer and The Apostle's Creed.

Egg is sturdy

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — A blown egg is sturdy enough to bounce when you drop it on a table, says the Markets Division of the New Jersey State Department of Agriculture. To prepare blown Easter egg shells for dyeing, the agency offers these suggestions: Puncture each end of a raw egg with a clean pin or needle, and make one hole slightly larger than the other. Be sure the yolk, as well as the membrane in the shell is punctured. Blow contents into a bowl and save for making custards, scrambled eggs or omelets or for baking. Rinse the shells well and color with Easter egg dye or bottled pure food colors.

Burleyite pleads guilty

(TULLEY) Robin Hall, 20, Burley, pleaded guilty in Fifth District Court Monday to two charges of grand larceny. Hall, who has a similar livestock stealing charge pending against him in Minidoka County, appeared before Judge Sherman Holloway. Sentencing was set for April 30, following a pre-trial investigation. Hall is charged with stealing two separate occasions, a feeder pig from the Fred Roberts farm north of Burley and a calf from Frank Sogren, Burley, whose farm is in Cassia County. He appeared in magistrate court with an attorney for arraignment on April 2 for the Sogren complaint and April 9 for the Roberts complaint, and was released on both occasions on his own recognizance to return for the hearing Monday. Hall is being held in Cassia County jail on charges of stealing two calves from Melvin Haca, Burley. He reportedly sold the calves at the Valley Livestock Commission Co. the same day he took them. Hall was set at $2,500 in Minidoka County jail is being remanded so Hall must be jailed in Burley. Hearing date has not been set for the Minidoka County charge.

New trip to Paris for Hank?

(WASHINGTON) President Nixon may dispatch Henry A. Kissinger to Paris to confer with the chief peace negotiator Le Duc Tho on the deteriorating military situation in Indochina, the White House indicated Tuesday. Administration officials said Kissinger may make the trip to Paris within 10 days to discuss with Tho the Vietnam peace agreement. It was understood the United States has requested a meeting but there was concern that North Vietnam might not agree to it. Kissinger himself told reporters that he had no present plans to go, but did not deny reports of a possible trip. There is nothing set on a Kissinger visit to Paris at this time, but the State Department's Gerald L. Warren told reporters, but added: "I wouldn't rule out the possibility of my appropriate step we might take in this direction."

French car maker hit by strikes

(PARIS) The Renault automobile firm was embroiled in a series of labor conflicts Tuesday while French farmers and businessmen demanded price increases for their goods, posing the first domestic challenges to the new government of Premier Pierre Messmer. Renault locked out 20,000 workers in its main automated plant at Flins, 15 miles west of Paris, Tuesday following persistent strikes and alleged sabotage in its factories. Officials later closed a second plant, at Sandouville near the Atlantic port of Le Havre, where a small number of workers in key shops struck Monday, crippling production.

Salmon short of water

(SALMON) The city of Salmon faced a critical water shortage during the summer when demand grows unless new moisture is received. The city is planning a water filtration system to remove foreign particles getting in from the watershed. The small reservoir on the system holds only enough water for six to eight hours of normal use. The filtration system will hold enough for a full day's supply without water coming in. When everyone starts using water there isn't enough coming in to satisfy the demand. Mayor William Cannon said, "With only 700 gallons per minute coming in and 1,200 gallons per minute being used it gradually drained the reservoir." Shook Construction Co., Salmon, has been awarded the bid to build 1,000 cubic yards of sand from Patterson to Salmon for the filtration system. The project is expected to take two years to complete with federal money sharing funds.

Energy crisis said real

(MOSCOW, Idaho) A University of Idaho engineering professor says the coming energy crisis is real and not contrived because it results from current patterns of energy use. Paul Mann said Monday there may be some truth in the idea that fuel supplies have dropped because oil companies have not done sufficient exploration. "But, he said, 'in the larger sense the crisis is very real.' He said, 'Natural gas composes less than five per cent of our fossil fuel reserve yet it currently supplies 30 per cent of the total energy used in the United States. If we don't do something about it, we're in trouble.' Mann, a member of the Bonneville Power Administration's Regional Advisory Council, said, 'The real tragedy of current energy use is that petroleum and natural gas are being substituted for coal in the generation of electric power, thus upsetting further the patterns of natural resource use.'

Jerome pays for indigent services

(JEROME) Jerome County Commissioners unanimously approved a contract underwriting mental health services for county residents unable to pay the entire charge. Available services include marriage and family counseling, psychological testing and evaluation, individual and group therapy and consultation and educational services, according to Liz Johnson, community education aide at the South Central Idaho Mental Health Center Inc., 676 Shoup Ave. E., Twin Falls. Phil Grover, clinical psychologist at the center, will see Jerome County residents in the Twin Falls office until July 1, when plans are to begin direct service to Jerome. Grover is one of three state mental health workers in region V and is the first to begin direct service in Magic Valley, Miss Johnson said. He presently is working four days a week in Twin Falls and is in Gooding one day.

Nixon takes action on 'Watergate'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has taken action today to curb the influence of the Watergate case, a move which would allow him to take action on the case without the aid of Congress.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., the former Republican presidential candidate whose public plea for Nixon to speak out probably had more influence than most, said Tuesday: "I am very pleased that President Nixon has made it possible for us to get to the bottom of the Watergate situation. I still hold to my belief that neither the President nor any of his top aides were implicated."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, D-N.Y., said, "The President's announcement concerning this Watergate affair is most welcome considering the reprehensible nature of the incident and how seriously it reflected on American political life."

Javits said "the country has every reason to be deeply troubled about the lack of disclosure" so far in the case. He called on Nixon to make an early report to the nation on the fruits of his new inquiry.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., a member of the select Senate Watergate investigating

Payment offered in bugging case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's campaign organization, apparently anxious to avoid a similar return of the Watergate trial, has offered a $25,000 out-of-court settlement to the Democratic party for the bugging of its offices last year, sources said today.

If accepted, the reported settlement would put the Nixon campaign in the unique-if uncomfortable position of helping to underwrite the Democratic "multimillion-dollar debt with contributions from GOP faithful."

It would also write an end to the $64 million civil damage suit the Democratic National Committee slapped on the Committee for the Re-Election of the President shortly after the Watergate break-in last June 17 before it could come to trial.

The trial was expected to begin in June, involving many of the same witnesses from the Nixon campaign who figured in the January criminal trial of the seven men indicted for the Watergate raid.

Spokesmen for both the Democrats and the Nixon Committee told UPI late Tuesday that negotiations initiated by Republican lawyers have been underway for some time toward a possible out-of-court settlement.

There have been serious discussions between the two

Daniel Ellsberg gives testimony

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Daniel Ellsberg testified Tuesday that he signed statements swearing never to divulge the contents of classified government documents including the Pentagon Papers, which he made public.

The prosecution was winding up its cross-examination today of Ellsberg, chief defendant in the four-month-old espionage, conspiracy and theft trial.

In the past, the former national security consultant has said he fully expected to be prosecuted for his part in revealing the Vietnam War study—an act he said he undertook because he believed the war would never end until Congress knew what was in the secret documents.

Under cross-examination by Assistant U.S. Attorney David Nissen, Ellsberg acknowledged he had signed certificates promising not to make copies of the studies,

MARTHA MITCHELL
... calls reporter

Martha fears for her life

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Martha Mitchell fears she would be "killed tomorrow" if she told all she knows about the Watergate bugging case.

The wife of John N. Mitchell, the former attorney general and campaign manager to President Nixon, made the remark Tuesday after she picked up the telephone in her New York City apartment and called this reporter in Washington.

"I'm not kidding. I fear for my life," Mrs. Mitchell said. She said she had "so much to tell" but "I'm afraid I'd be killed tomorrow."

Mrs. Mitchell said she had had threats against her life "even this afternoon." She would not elaborate.

Her call came a short time after Nixon at a White House briefing announced he was personally conducting a "new Watergate investigation and implied some of his own aides may have been involved in the political espionage case."

Mrs. Mitchell expressed a fondness for Nixon but said he was "surrounded by a bunch of kooks."

She said she found it "incredible" that Nixon did not name high officials involved: As her daughter, Marty, 11, tried to get her to hang up, Mrs. Mitchell repeated her fears that "they're trying to nail my husband" with the blame in the Watergate affair.

"I think they're going to try

Nixon power use aired

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has won most of his battle for congressional extension of his powers to control wages and prices. But it remains to be seen just how he will use those powers.

A House-Senate conference committee agreed Tuesday to extend the President's wage-price control powers for one year beyond their April 30 expiration. There were still some hitches to be resolved before Congress as a whole passes the extension.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz told reporters Tuesday that "a general across-the-board wage-price freeze is not under active consideration by the President as far as I know."

But when asked whether the administration would announce any new anti-inflation measures this week, Shultz said, "I don't want to make any headlines. I pass."

Other Treasury officials have indicated privately that some modification of the existing, largely voluntary wage-price guidelines may be in the offing. Shultz answer did not rule this out.

The bill extending the President's control powers was approved by the conference committee Tuesday minus a Senate-passed provision which would have put rents under partial control. The provision would have allowed rents in metropolitan areas with vacancy rates of 5.5 per cent or less to rise only 2.5 per cent a year plus tax, cost increases and capital improvements.

The measure died through it fluke involving a proxy. Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md., verbally had given House Banking Committee chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., his proxy vote in favor of the rent provision.

But the proxy was successfully challenged because it was not in writing. Patman and other Democrats tried to find Mitchell, but an aide said he had left town. The remaining conferees — eight Democrats and six Republicans—then defeated the rent provision by a 7-7 tie vote.

Republicans on the conference committee ended up voting against the whole bill because of four amendments they did not like. They have vowed to defeat the bill in its present form when it reaches the House and Senate floors, possibly not until April 30.

Indians, agents trade gunfire

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Members of the Indian force occupying Wounded Knee exchanged "thousands of rounds" of gunfire with federal agents Tuesday and at least two persons from inside the village were wounded.

One of the injured was hospitalized in Rapid City, S.D., in "very critical condition." Hospital officials said the man, "apparently white," underwent surgery for a head wound. The second injured man, shot in the hand, remained in the village of Wounded Knee. Neither man was identified.

There were reports that there might have been other injuries.

Tuesday's exchange of gunfire ended an uneasy, three-week truce at the tiny hamlet on the Oglala Sioux reservation.

Although Tuesday's firefight was the first announced violation of a three-week cease-fire, government sources said there had been "unannounced sporadic gunfire almost every night during the truce."

The government said the shooting, which went on for hours, started when Indians fired on an FBI helicopter. The shooting began about two hours after three small planes dropped supplies into the besieged hamlet by parachute at dawn. The shooting stopped, government sources said, at 5:40 p.m. MST.

Stanley Pottinger, the chief federal negotiator, gave a briefing of the incident for newsmen.

Lon Nol cabinet resigns

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — President Lon Nol announced the resignation of his entire cabinet Tuesday night in a move to "strengthen national unity." But there was no sign of a let-up in fighting or U.S. bombing in the country.

In a nationwide radio broadcast, Lon Nol said Premier Hang Thun Hak and the other 14 members of his cabinet had resigned "upon my suggestion" after six months in office.

A new cabinet, including opposition party members, would soon be formed, Lon Nol said, to expand the present government's political base and "strengthen national unity."

The ailing 59-year-old president did not set a date for the formation of a new cabinet, but he appealed to all leading figures to cooperate with him in order to solve the country's problems.

Cambodia, the only country in Indochina with no formal truce, is in the throes of its worst economic and military crisis as a result of the current Communist offensive and most Western diplomats welcomed Lon Nol's announcement.

Political leaders said they believed Lon Nol's appeal was directed at former Deputy Premier Sisowath Sirik Matak and the popular leader of the opposition Democratic party, in Tan. Both have refused repeatedly to join the government unless Lon Nol relinquishes some of his all-encompassing powers and defined their powers and responsibilities.

Sergeant innocent

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (UPI) — S. Sgt. Samuel D. Carver has been found innocent of charges of dereliction of duty and maltreatment of Marine recruits which resulted from the death of a young trainee earlier this year.

Carver, 23, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., was cleared by a general court-martial board Tuesday. He had been charged with two specifications of alleged violation of orders, in connection with the death Jan. 21 of Pvt. Daniel Lee Williams, 18, of John's Island, S.C.

He was also charged with three specifications of maltreatment of other recruits in Williams' platoon.

The defense attempted to discredit the testimony of prosecution witnesses, 12 recruits in Williams' platoon, who charged that Carver refused to allow Williams to report for medical treatment after he became ill.

Recruits injured

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (UPI) — Seven Marine recruits were injured Tuesday when an instructor mistakenly handed a live grenade during a demonstration.

The recruits, part of a class of 238 from the Parris Island, S.C., training station, were not seriously hurt. Neither they nor the instructor were identified.

A Marine spokesman said the recruits were sitting in a bleachers watching the instructor demonstrate the technique for throwing grenades. The instructor picked up a live M-26 fragmentation grenade instead of a dummy grenade and hurled it over his shoulder. It exploded about 40 feet, its maximum range, from the bleachers.

Retired official DECS consultant

By GEORGE FRANK
UP International writer
BOISE (UPI) — A state official who retired in 1971 at $1,406 per month now is serving as a consultant to the agency he once ran — for $100 per day, records disclosed Tuesday.

Bill Child, who served as commissioner of public assistance under six governors, has a 100-day contract with the former Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services which pays $100 per day.

SRS now merged into the giant Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) is the successor agency to the old Department of Public Assistance which Child ran off and on for a quarter of a century.

Child said he receives his consultant fees in addition to his state retirement pay. He said the fees come from federal funds. He said he made the contract with Dr. John Marks, former SRS administrator and now assistant administrator of DECS.

"I wish I would get to keep all that money," Child said, adding that out of the $100 per day he must pay his self-employed social security, state and federal taxes, entertainment expenses, transportation and clothing expenses. He said he also loses his social security payments, while employed in the job.

"I do this because of my affection for the concept of social programs," Child said. "Child's contract will expire at the end of June whether he completes the 100 days. He signed the contract earlier this year. He said he doubts whether he will work 100 days before the contract expires.

During February Child worked 17½ days and received $1,750 and during March he worked 20 days and collected $2,000 for his efforts.

Child is a consultant to a program which delves into the computerized planning of social programs' delivery, which is geared to "good management."

Child, 66, said he thought the $100 per day was not out of line and he said he has many years of experience with social programs in the state. He said if a new person were brought into the project they would have to spend several months learning it.

Eastern Airlines contract signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A seven-hour, nationwide strike by stewards and stewardesses against Eastern Airlines ended today when the two sides reached tentative agreement on a new contract.

The airline said it did not expect to be able to resume its full, normal schedule until noon, although crews were called back on their regular shifts and work immediately began to get some flights into the air as soon as possible. All Eastern flights were canceled until noon when the strike began.

Eastern is one of the world's largest passenger airlines. It carries about 75,000 passengers each day between 101 cities in the United States, and others in Canada, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, Bermuda, the Bahamas and Jamaica.

Mediator George Ives announced the agreement at 11 p.m. MDT, seven hours after the walkout began and 72 hours after the two sides sat down for intensive bargaining. "The strike has been terminated," Ives said.

He refused to give any details of the agreement because it still is subject to ratification by the 4,600 members of the Airline Stewards and Stewardesses Division of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union.

Lecture set in TF

TWIN FALLS — Gary Moen, lecturer for the NASA-AMES research center, Moffett Field, Calif., will present a lecture here at 7:30 p.m. Thursday April 19.

Enlisted aides cost taxpayers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Accounting Office (GAO) said today the use of enlisted men to cook, tend bar, care for pets and clean house for admirals, generals and Navy captains costs the taxpayers $22 million a year.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., released a GAO report on an investigation of the use of enlisted aides and promised an effort "to outlaw this wasteful and demeaning practice."

"At their rate of pay—the equivalent of $50,000 a year and more including benefits—generals and admirals can and should pay for their own luxuries," he said.

The GAO said it had surveyed 25 per cent of the 1,722 men now serving as personal aides to officers and found that:

—75 per cent of aides in the Army, 49 per cent in the Navy, 86 per cent in the Air Force and 16 per cent of the Marines said they regularly washed their superior's private automobiles.

53 per cent of Army aides, 39 per cent of the Navy men, 32 per cent of the Air Force aides and 26 per cent of the Marines said they cared for officers' pets.

Nearly all the aides said their duties included bartending, grocery shopping, cleaning quarters and gardening. Six per cent of these interviewed said they, at times were babysitters, 28 per cent said they chauffeured officers' children and 22 per cent said they did laundry.

The GAO said many of the aides "felt obliged to do these tasks if requested to do them by the officer or his wife," even though they were aware that some of the duties were purely personal services.

Service regulations prohibit the use of enlisted men as servants and require an essential military purpose for all duties performed by personal aides.

"Since many of the services performed by enlisted aides benefit the officers personally and also accomplish some military purpose, the line between official and personal services cannot be finely drawn," the report said.

The GAO said the military services uniformly felt aides were needed to free senior officers from onerous chores so they can devote more time to their duties. Nearly half the 106 admirals and generals polled by the GAO said their wives have to attend numerous social and military functions, and cannot do all the housework themselves. Some also noted they must entertain visiting congressmen and dignitaries.

"This is absurd," Proxmire said. "The responsibilities of senior officers and their families are no different than those of businessmen, senior civil servants and other executives."

Hired workers, at 7,000, compared to 6,000 a year ago.

California bean prices steady

STOCKTON, Calif. — Most California bean prices held steady during the week of April 10, according to Bean Market News. The publication of the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service said remaining stocks of most beans are now considered "burdensome and growers are firm holders. Demand was light."

Prices for baby limas held steady at 14.00. Grower owned stocks continue to dwindle. Large limas remain firm at 33.00 and prices for blackeyes held unchanged at 15.25-15.50.

Beans slightly below No. 1 quality and suitable for packaging were quoted at 14.50-15.00.

Idaho grown pinks were 12.75-13.00, delivered by truck. Some local canner interest was reported.

Prices for small whites remain unchanged to 25 cents higher at 17.00-17.25. Michigan pea beans were quoted at 13.00-13.25.

Light red kidney prices were unchanged at 27.50-28.00. Some business was again reported for shipment to Puerto Rico.

Best canning quality price for garbanzos was reported at 25.50. Packaging quality was available at 24.50-25.00.

Prices for dealer shipper markets for the weeks of April 10 and April 3, 1973, and April 11, 1972, were:

California, baby limas, 18.00, 18.00, 10.00-11.00; large limas, 33.00, 33.00, 19.85-20.00; blackeyes, 15.25-15.50; 15.25-15.50, 19.75-20.00; pinks, 12.75-13.00, 12.75-13.00, 11.35-11.50; small whites, 17.00-17.25, 17.00-19.75-20.00; light red kidneys, 27.50-28.00, 27.50-28.00, 11.50-

California firm to build at Hailey

He said building height would be limited to 15 feet in the lower areas of the development and 30 feet against the foothills.
He stressed that the firm had no intention to build up the hillsides.
He said both properties would have an about 12 to 16 year "build out."
Based on national average occupancy rates, the development southeast of Hailey would have an about 6,741 maximum population.

McColloch estimated the probable population, however, would be about 4,000.
The site west of Hailey would have a maximum population of 750.
Both properties would constitute a $10.8 million investment for the firm, McColloch said for water and sewer, flood prevention and recreation buildings, exclusive of other construction.
"Our impact will cost the city of Hailey nothing," McColloch said.
Joe Coombs of Trico

Development Corp., engineering and planning firm for the development, said the property southeast of Hailey would have a gravity flow sewage collection system, and that pumps will be installed to transfer the sewage from the collection point to a new line to the sewage treatment plant.
Coombs said the firm intends to pay for expansion costs of the Hailey sewage treatment plant, commensurate with the additional population the development will bring.
The engineer also said the development plans to have its own water system which will be interconnected to the Hailey system to serve as a back up supply to the existing system.
McColloch said that the increase in the tax base from the development "was more than enough assessed valuation to support additional city services needed" by the development.

The company official stressed that general land prices within the development would be about half of existing prices in the Sun Valley area. He said a 6,000 square foot lot would cost about $5,000.
McColloch said Hailey development "would open up a tremendous new market for people who would like to come and work in the area."

In response to a question McColloch said the firm does not plan to bring in industry. But he said, "it is our experience that people don't move to a planned community unless they do have employment."

Plans for the property west of Hailey calls for about 1,000 acres to be left in its natural state.

The remaining 800 acres will be used for 270 homesites, ranging in size from one to four acres, a 133 acre guest ranch site and 178 acres which will be preserved a greenbelt and park areas.

During rumors that the firm had been considering purchasing land in Camas County, McColloch said "we have not been and are not getting involved at Fairfield or Camas County."

Another question centered on possible conflict of interest because Hailey City and Blaine County attorney Stephen W. Bolter, also serves as attorney for the developing firm.

Bolter said "if various people feel there is a conflict," he will resign one of the positions.

McColloch said he felt the addition to the tax base through the new community southeast of Hailey "would help Hailey emerge as the leading place in the county."

McColloch Properties Inc. is a wholly-owned subsidiary of McCulloch Oil Corporation.

The firm has developed three new cities and two residential-recreation communities including Lake Havasu City and Fountain Hills, both Arizona, Pueblo West, Colorado, Holiday Island, Arkansas and Spring Creek, Nevada.

Construction delay aired

BOISE (UPI) — A State Highway Department engineer Tuesday told the Highway Board that congressional conflict over federal aid legislation may delay the highway construction program in Idaho.
Dean Tisdale, deputy highway engineer, said the state does not expect to know what it will get from the federal government for next year until June or July.

Hailey citizens fight California development

The group also agreed to invite the commission and council to another meeting to be scheduled after McCulloch's request for annexation is filed.

Speaking in favor of the proposed development was W. G. (Buz) Stocking, Carey.

He said he visited Lake Havasu City last winter and said "not one of their streets is as bad as your best street in Hailey or Ketchum. There is not one development as poor as the condominiums jammed together in Ketchum. He said he would be disappointed to see Hailey go against the development."

Floyd Dorius, Hailey, said he felt the purpose of the meeting was "all pre-determined." He asked that clarification be made during the meeting of the disadvantages — of the development and its advantages.

Jean Mizer, Hailey, said "there is no question whether it is good or bad. It is bad." She said, "we simply cannot maintain it" and still preserve "the kind of life people came here for."

Mrs. Mizer also mentioned past increases in the crime rate in proportion to the number of new county residents.

Keith Bird, Hailey business man, said he was not against growth. However, he said he opposed a "great amount of population (increase) at such a fast rate" that existing businesses cannot handle the increased trade.

Bird said, to progress with the growth existing businesses should be given time to expand. If this is not done, he said the businesses will be eliminated by larger concerns coming into the area.

Planning group slates Rupert meeting tonight

RUPERT — The South Idaho Resource Planning and Development Association will hold an executive board meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in the Minidoka County Courthouse, Rupert.

Among the items on the agenda is a review of an environmental statement prepared by the U.S. Forest Service on the use of off-road vehicles.

Paul Kelly, newly-appointed executive director of the regional planning agency, will also report to the board on projects under consideration by the advisory body.

SIRPDA is one of six regional councils of government throughout the state charged with the development of a comprehensive regional plan.

One third of SIRPDA's funding is paid by the four member counties (Cassia, Jerome, Minidoka and Twin Falls) and the remaining two-thirds is paid in the form of a comprehensive planning assistance grant by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development administered by the Idaho State Planning and Community Affairs Agency.

SIRPDA began operation last year its primary purpose, according to Kelly, is the promotion of mutual problem solving among the member counties. The organization also provides technical assistance to local municipalities and to the counties.

Kelly, who took over as executive director about two weeks ago, holds a B. S. in geology from Indiana University and an M.A. in political science from Colorado State University.

He is a former consulting geologist and for several years served as a geologist and division manager for Calvert Petroleum Co. before joining Idaho State University as a community development specialist in 1969.

From 1971 until taking over as SIRPDA, Kelly farmed and ranched, property now managed by his son in Murtaugh.

GF terminal shuts down

Farm projects and planned construction of Interstate 80 near Glens Ferry offer the only hope for economic replacement of the railroad workers, Jensen said.

"I feel the railroad has absolutely disregarded the community in the interest of their economy. If they were interested, they would have called public meetings to talk with the people here," he said.

George Powell, superintendent of the Glens Ferry school district, said, "It will be a year before we really know it's going to affect us. It's too up in the air at the moment. We're trapped in next year's operation."

He said all teachers will probably be retained this year. If all the affected workers move from the town, they may take 40 to 50 of the district's 650 school children with them, according to Powell.

William Hansen owns a cafe-motel one block north of the Glens Ferry railroad depot. For the past two years he has received a $350 per month subsidy from Union Pacific to keep his doors open 24 hours a day.

He would not comment on the shutdown's effect on his business hours. "I haven't heard a thing. I'll have to wait and see what's left," he said.

W. H. Henry, general chairman for the United Transportation Union, trainmen division, in Pocatello, said the Glens Ferry closure was made under a 1972 mediation agreement with Union Pacific. "We entered into an agreement to close the Glens Ferry terminal," he said, "and we received a 90-day notice on April 1."

He said the agreement provides pay adjustments to a worker of one-twelfth of the past year's earnings per month for the next six years. If a worker is not paid equal to the amount he was receiving at Glens Ferry, the difference will be covered by the adjustment, Henry said.

"Our people have an option," Henry said. "They can keep their home and they will be given 25 per cent of the appraised value plus one per cent for each year over ten years they have owned their homes up to a maximum of 50 per cent."

George Baker, Portland, Ore., general manager of the Union Pacific's Northwest District, said the railroad eliminated the Glens Ferry terminal "to expedite the movement of our trains."

Deadline nears

WENDELL — The deadline for filing nominating petitions for the Wendell school trustee election is Friday, according to Superintendent Lawrence LaRue.
The election is scheduled for May 8.

Police seize $3,000 in pills

KIMBERLY — A 37-year-old Kimberly man was scheduled for arraignment in Magistrate court today on drug charges. Officers reported confiscating some $3,000 in suspected drugs and marijuana in the case.

Kimberly Police Chief James Campbell said Ronald George Hoffas, 37, is charged with manufacture of a controlled substance, a felony.

He was taken from his apartment in Kimberly at about 10:45 a.m. Tuesday in an unconscious condition, Campbell said.
A friend called officers when she found him in the apartment. He was hospitalized until late Tuesday night when he was taken to the Twin Falls city jail on a felony warrant.

Campbell said it was determined the man had taken an overdose of some type of drugs, and investigation revealed a large quantity of drug items in the apartment located on Madison Street East, Kimberly. He said the pills and capsules were visible when officers entered the apartment.

Sheriff's officers, who assisted in the investigation said the items taken appear to include a variety of drugs and marijuana. They were being taken to a Boise laboratory today for tests.

Minidoka asks new pay slate

RUPERT — Representatives of the Minidoka County teachers voted to recommend a new salary schedule with a base of $6,600 Tuesday afternoon.

The schedule, drawn up by Lee Merrill, a member of the salary committee, would provide a three per cent increase for each year of experience up to 13 years and would provide increases of two, two, three, five, two; two and three per cent for a B. A. degree plus nine credits, plus 18 credits and plus 30 credits, and M. A. degree plus nine credits, plus 18 credits and plus 30 credits, respectively.

The increases are based on the schedule approved last year when the base salary was $5,900. Top salary on the proposed schedule for an M. A. degree plus 30 credits with 13 years' experience is $10,230.

Supt. Darrell Hatfield proposed a schedule with a base of $6,500. Total cost of this schedule is only $11,000 less than the Merrill proposal, according to Dr. Hatfield.

The only real difference was in the philosophy, he said.

The Merrill proposal attempts to provide an incentive to teachers to acquire more schooling but refuses to give them the money to do it with, Dr. Hatfield said.

Dr. Hatfield's proposed schedule raises salaries an even $180, roughly the cost of nine credit hours, for each step on the education scale.

A $200 raise would be uniformly given for each year of additional experience up to 13.

Although many of the teachers agreed with Dr. Hatfield's philosophy, they decided to recommend the Merrill proposal because the figures came closer to their original request for a schedule with a base of $6,700.

Both of the new proposals would, in addition to salary increases, include health insurance policies paid for entirely by the school district. This means about a $137 increase in payments made for each teacher.

At this point, 80 per cent of the Minidoka teachers are signed up for the insurance. With the increased insurance payments, the 80 per cent at least will have a salary schedule nearly equivalent to the original $6,700 base proposal, Merrill said.

In March, 91 per cent of the teachers signed a petition saying they would accept nothing less than the $6,700 base salary schedule.

The teachers hope to have a meeting for all teachers in the district on Thursday to discuss the recommended schedule. The school board will have to make a final decision on the teacher salary schedule at a special meeting Monday night.

GF sets election

GLENN'S FERRY — A trustee election for school district 192 will be held on May 1.
For zone 1 of the King Hill and east Glens Ferry area the election will be held in the King Hill Grange Hall, with Bud Allen as the incumbent.
Zone 5 for south east Glens Ferry will be held at St. Francis Episcopal Hall, with Dick King as the incumbent.
The polls will be open from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m.
Nominating petitions will be available at the office of the secretary at the Glens Ferry high school. They must be returned to the office not later than April 21.

IF tots die

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Three Idaho Falls tots died Tuesday when they were trapped in an unused freezer near their homes.
Police said Nichole McComas, 4, and her brother, 6, along with a neighbor child, Preston Outcalt, 5, suffocated when the door of the freezer closed trapping them inside.
Idaho Falls police said the children apparently had been playing in the freezer when the accident occurred.
The children were first noticed missing shortly before 11 a.m., according to Mrs. Karen McComas, and were found dead at 1 p.m.

TF service slated

TWIN FALLS — Annual Maundy Thursday communion service is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the First Baptist Church.
The adult choir will sing Kallinkof's "Lamb of God" and Rev. James B. Hughes will bring the meditation on "The Glory of the Cross."

Jerome teachers seek pay hike

By CHARLOTTE BRILL

Times-News writer
JEROME — A delegation of Jerome teachers requested a larger pay increase Tuesday night.
At a special school board meeting, Karl Kleinkopf, spokesman for the teachers, made a formal presentation to the board on the teachers' committee report of projected budget increases for the 1973-74 school year.
Kleinkopf said the projected figure showed an increase of $148,000 over last year.
"In my opinion, all of this increase should be used for teachers' salaries," Kleinkopf said. He later amended his figure to $113,000 of the anticipated revenue increase after figuring what the loss would be to the district with the 3-mill reduction in taxes approved by the last session of the legislature.

The school board last week approved a $225 across-the-board increase for the teachers, but Kleinkopf said, "The $225 just doesn't pack it."

He said the legislators' letter of intent states that school teachers should receive a 5 per cent increase this year and also a 5 per cent increase next year.

Kleinkopf said the $225 is only a 2.5 to 3.5 per cent increase depending on what the individual teacher's salary is.
"I feel that we should at least be entitled to the 5 per cent increase which the legislators suggested," Kleinkopf said.
Ephraim Swann, Jerome High School social studies teacher, told the trustees that after deductions, the $225 increase amounted to a little over $4 per month.

Edward Peterson, another high school social studies teacher, presented the proposed governor's pay salary schedule for teachers which includes regular pay increases.

No formal action was taken by the board on the teachers' request. However, the board did state that its decision to grant only a $225 increase was made because of increasing costs of running the school district.

It was also brought out that board members had not had an opportunity to evaluate the information presented Tuesday night prior to the meeting, and could not make any decisions until they had done so.

TF school budget jumps

Other maintenance of plant expenditures jumped $11,000 from $61,500 to $72,000 and "fixed charges expenditures" increased from $110,000 to $128,000.

Proposed expenditures total $3,507,300 in the new budget, compared to $3,035,430 last year, for an increase of spending of $471,870, thus accounting for all but $20,000 of the extra money for next year.

On the revenue side of the budget estimated income from school district taxes shows a decrease $76,504 with $1,016,000 budgeted for 1973-74, compared to $1,093,384 this current year.

The loss is partially explained because of a three mill deduction made by the state but somewhat offset by increased assessed valuation.

Last year, levying 30 mills on an estimated 30 million assessed valuation, would have raised $900,000 while for the new budget, the assessed valuation is estimated at $32 million. With this amount, 27 mills would bring in $864,000 or only a decrease of $36,000—some $40,000 less than the budget figures indicate.

The county and state foundation program and other receipts, reflecting the increase in state money, has increased from $1,882,150 to $2,364,771 for a jump of $482,621.

Copies of the budget are available in the administrative offices until the public hearing on the budget set for 8 p.m. May 1.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices

opened mixed Wednesday in a light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Shortly after the opening bell, the closely watched Dow Jones Industrial average gained 0.60 to 954.02, but declining issues led advances, 108 to 91, among the 336 issues on the tape.

Inflation worries dragged the market lower Tuesday as the Dow lost 3.31 in very light trading. Analysts said the gross national product figures expected Thursday will show the economy "dangerously overheating."

They also expected the consumer price index figures for March to be disturbing.

Pahsimeroi steelhead run rates second best

WENDELL. — The 1973 steelhead spawning run already has become the second largest on record for the transplanting project, reports G.R. "Bob" Quidor, superintendent of the Niagara Steelhead hatchery.

Quidor said with the addition of 16 fish Tuesday, the total for this year is 806. Although that makes it second best, there's no chance of equalling the mark of over 2,000 last season.

Quidor said the Idaho Fish and Game Department was hopeful the total would reach over 1,000 this spring, but noted based on estimates from last fall's counts, 1,600 was "the absolute maximum expected."

"Generally we get fish up to about June 1, although it's very slow in late May," he said. "But the weather has made the catches very erratic. We were having good success every day until this cold snap hit and then it shut right down."

The 16 we got Monday night and Tuesday morning was the smallest amount in quite a while. We're hopeful a return of warm weather and warm water temperatures will get us around 1,000 in the next few days."

So far the trend has been very good from a management standpoint. Of 790 sexed through Monday evening, females comprised 59.6 percent. There were 471 females and 319 males.

The department has stripped spawn from 103 females and obtained 530,040 eggs. Quidor noted this year's run is larger than previous seasons, giving rise to the question of whether some are part of last year's record run as fry but stayed in the ocean an extra year. "This is unproven as yet," he said, "and we'll be taking some scale samples to decide it one way or the other."

The egg surplus taken from last year's record run enabled the department to plant smolts in waters other than the Pahsimeroi. About 75,000 went into the upper main Salmon above Stanley and hopefully will provide fishing in those waters in a couple three years.

The department already appears to have enough females on hand to meet requirements at Pahsimeroi and the Hayden Creek - Lemhi planting sites. Any coming in after now will enable the department to continue with its planting expansion projects.

Prescribed burning reduction draws wildlife chief's fire

A ban on prescribed burning for elk range rehabilitation in Northern Idaho is blasted by Idaho Wildlife Federation President Jim Felton, Rupert, as a ploy by the "powerful timber lobby and interests."

Felton decried the directive sent out by Steve Ulrich, regional forester in Region One, Missoula, Mont., which reduced the acreage of prescribed burning on federal lands from 10,000 to 4,000.

Noting that the burning keeps browse plants and vegetation at a suitable height for elk use and helps prevent the regrowth of conifer trees that would eventually "shade out" the elk vegetation, Felton charged Western Timber Industries Association of Spokane is behind the plan.

"It's evident that this (burning) manipulation of elk winter range has been successful and that almost no environmental damage has been found," he said in a federation release. "It is not known yet exactly on what basis they planned to attack the burning program in 1973. It may have been because they thought it threatened air pollution or perhaps would cause erosion. Very ironic, wouldn't you say, coming from the lips of those who have caused such extensive environmental damage to our national forests?"

"I'll bet they will accuse us (sportsmen) of being against progress, especially with the phony timber shortage crises," Felton continued. "We have to roll up our sleeves and get those letters and telegrams off to our congressional delegation. Senator McClure already has sided with the timber interest."

Delegates why a timber shortage when many forest service sales are not purchased when offered for sale. Why are some of the purchasers of sales trying to force the forest service to buy back sales? Why are timber companies selling timber from their private lands for export? It smacks of a nation wide attack by a powerful and rich timber lobby.

Pilots take Little Five track crown

GLENNIS FERRY. The Glennis Ferry Pilots won the title today in the final event of the day, the Little Five Conference track and field championship Monday.

The Pilots led by one-half mile and pushed their margin to 10:31 to 10:1 Valley and Shoshone were well back at 30 and 27.5, respectively.

Wendell's Rip Dennis gobbled up his usual four first places and Alan Stevenson chipped in with two more to pace the Trojan point total.

They ran a pair of firsts and a second as the Pilots struck hard in the field events, excepting the Wendell dominated high jump. Glennis Ferry offset it by taking three places in the discus.

Golfing pass fee increased

TWIN FALLS. Golf fees for the Municipal Course in Twin Falls are up generally $5 on season tickets.

Twin Falls city council members adopted a resolution Monday night setting fees for the current season.

Men will pay $60 for an unlimited use season ticket and women will pay $55. Student season tickets are $20 and CSI students with full time status will pay $30. Half season tickets may be purchased at one-half the full rates.

Children may play nine holes for 25 cents while other daily rates are $2.50 Tuesday through Friday and $3 on Saturday, Sunday and holidays. Nine holes of play will be $1.50. Student rates are in effect during day time hours up to 5 p.m.

Bruin girls grab Minico invitational

RUPERT. The Twin Falls girls swept the relays and all but five of the other first places Tuesday to win an eight-team track meet at Minico.

O'Leary junior hurdler of Twin Falls, boasting a double winner, finished second, while Filer, Debbie Shepherd getting her usual three first places, was third.

Mary McGinnis, Twin Falls, took her specialties, the 220 and 440-yard dashes while Miss Shepherd won the 75 and 100-yard dashes and the long jump. Again Miss Shepherd lowered her best time of the spring, clocking an 11.3 in the 100-yard dash.

Miss Hamilton of O'Leary was the other double winner, taking the weights, her best effort being 99.5 in the discus.

Canadiens deadlock Stanley cup series

MONTREAL. (UPI) — Rookie Larry Robinson scored on a 60-foot drive at 6:45 of overtime Tuesday night to give the Montreal Canadiens a 1-1 victory over the Philadelphia Flyers, deadlocking their Stanley Cup semifinal series at a game apiece.

Robinson picked up a loose puck at center ice and skated over the blue line before blasting the shot over the shoulder of Philadelphia goalie Doug Favell.

Montreal rallied to tie the game 3-3 when Yvan Cournoyer scored a fluke goal with 8:10 remaining in the third period. Favell had the puck over his shoulder after Chuck Lesley lifted it at him but the goalie dropped it and Cournoyer tapped it into the net.

Redskins send back to Oilers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins announced Tuesday they have sent kick return specialist Alvin Haymond to the Houston Oilers in exchange for an undisclosed future draft choice.

Haymond, 30, was obtained by the Redskins last season from the Los Angeles Rams. The nine-year veteran returned 10 kickoff for 291 yards and six punts for one yard.

The Flyers, who shocked the Canadiens 5-1 in overtime last Saturday night in the series opener, started quickly with two goals in the first nine minutes. Rookie defenseman Andre Dupont's shot got by Montreal goalie Ken Dryden, who was screened on the play, at 5:50. And two Canadiens were in the penalty box when Gary Dornhoefer scored at 8:12.

Montreal got back a power play goal with just 47 seconds remaining in the opening period when Guy Lafleur drilled the puck over the Favell who was flat on the ice.

The teams traded goals 11 seconds apart early in the second period. Henri Richard's shot rolled into the Philadelphia net off the skate of Flyers forward Ross Lonsberry to knot the count at 2-2 at 0:25, but then Bill Platt scored from in front of Dryden after a face-off to the left of the Montreal cage at 0:31.

Dave Schultz of the Flyers and Montreal defenseman Serge Savard battled each other early in the opening period. Schultz opened a severe cut over Savard's upper lip which required eight stitches to close and both players received major penalties.

In the second period, Bill Barber of the Flyers and Lafleur tangled and each player was assessed seven minutes in the penalty box.

Post deflection

Hawks take 2-1 lead on N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Veteran Stan Mikita lost a brief scuffle in the second period but then poked in a rebound for the winning goal early in the final period Tuesday night as the Chicago Black Hawks edged the New York Rangers 2-1 to take a 2-1 lead in games in their Stanley Cup semifinal series.

The score was tied 1-1 when rookie John Marks fired a shot at New York goaltender Ed Giacomin. Giacomin made the save but Mikita, planted to the left of the net, was in perfect position to shovel home the rebound at 6:16 of the third period.

It was only the second goal for Mikita in eight playoff games this season, but the 40th of his career.

Jim Pappin had given Chicago a 1-0 lead at 8:20 of the opening period when his intended pass to linemate Dennis Hull hit the skate of Ranger defenseman Jim Neilson and skidded into the net. Stan Mikita finally got that one back for New York at 14:51 of the second period, beating Tony Esposito with a backhand shot after a solo rush up the ice.

The victory was the second in a row for the Hawks after New York won the opening game at Chicago. The teams will be back at Madison Square Garden for the fourth game Thursday night and the fifth game, originally scheduled for Sunday, will be played at Chicago on Tuesday night.

SF sweeps pair from Atlanta

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Ron Bryant and Randy Moffitt combined on a five-hit shutout to give San Francisco a 2-0 victory and a doubleheader sweep of Atlanta Tuesday night after the Giants' shelled six Braves' pitchers for 21 hits and a 15-2 triumph.

Bryant left with two out in the eighth after he walked Hank Aaron and Dusty Baker. Moffitt came on to retire the side and save Bryant's second victory.

Ed Goodson, who had four hits and a walk in the opener, got two of San Francisco's six nightcap hits. He singled in the second and scored the Giants' first run after a double by Dave Kingman and a single by Garry Maddux.

Bobby Bonds' second homer of the year provided the Giants' other run in the third.

Four of Atlanta's second-game hits were singles and the fifth was a double by Aaron in the sixth.

Bryant gave up all five Atlanta hits, struck out three and walked five in his 7-2-3 innings.

Orioles edge Yankees 4-2

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Catcher Earl Williams' first American League home run, a two-run effort off New York reliever Sparky Lyle in the eighth inning Tuesday night, gave the Baltimore Orioles a 4-2 victory over the Yankees.

Williams, acquired in December in a trade with the Atlanta Braves, homered deep to rightfield with Bob Griehr aboard after Boog Powell's sacrifice fly had driven in Merv Rettenmund with the tying run.

Dave McNally, 3-0, earned the come-from-behind victory on a four-batter, He retired the 19 batters in a row before allowing a two-out single to Felipe Alou in the ninth, then retired Celerino Sanchez for the final out of the game.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pete Rose, batting leadoff, hit a home run off Baltimore pitcher Tom Seaver Tuesday, pitching a two-hit shutout to give the Chicago Cubs a 1-0 victory over the New York Mets on a fourth-inning homer by Rick Monday.

Jenkins, seeking his seventh consecutive 20-victory season, chalked up his first win of the season against one loss, stopped the Mets except for singles by Bud Harrelson in the first inning and John Milner in the fourth frame. He walked only one batter and retired the last 18 men he faced after Milner led off the fourth with a hit.

Royals edge A's 5-4 in 14th inning

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Hal McRae slapped a soft single over first base with two out in the 14th inning Tuesday night, scoring Fred Patek from second base and lifting the streaking Kansas City Royals to a 5-4 victory over the Oakland A's.

The victory was the Royals' fourth straight and reliever Gene Garber picked up the win with 6 2-3 innings, giving up two hits and no runs.

Patek started the 14th with a single and went to second when Amos Otis walked. With two outs, McRae delivered the winning hit against reliever Horacio Pena.

Sal Bando delivered a two-out double in the eighth driving in Reggie Jackson, who had singled, all the way from first and tying the score, 4-4.

Oakland's bullpen was shaky in the eighth and ninth. Gene Garber, who had pitched well in the first seven innings, gave up a double to Bando in the eighth and a single to Reggie Jackson in the ninth.

The Royals' offense was more consistent. They scored runs in the first, second, fourth, eighth, and 14th innings.

Lawmaker asks end to athletic feud

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., said Tuesday the federal government should step in to end the "petty disputes" between the two big amateur sports organizations in the United States, and to give the athletes themselves some voice in sports groups.

In remarks in the Congressional Record distributed Tuesday, Pearson said the decades-long fights between the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) and the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) have gone on "with only a few short periods of peaceful coexistence."

"I've introduced a bill Monday that would set up in the executive branch of the federal government the United States Amateur Sports Association

Board. The Board would have power over amateur sports organizations wanting to be chartered.

The bill provides that if a charter is granted, the corporation thus formed would be recognized internationally as the single American group for sanctioning events in the sport in which it is chartered.

"Nobody wins in these petty disputes among the great sports bureaucracies which control amateur athletics in this country. Everybody loses—sports fans, competitive athletes, and ultimately, teams representing our nation in international competition," he said.

"Recent events, including the fiasco at the Munich games and the tragicomic dispute over the basketball competition between American and Russian teams have, once again, raised serious questions about the competence, responsiveness, and responsibility of the major amateur sports organizations," Pearson said.

The board, his bill would create would have five members, who would have to include at least one active athlete.

"The bill would bring a fundamental shift in the power structure" of the U.S. Olympic Committee, Pearson said.

"No longer would it be dominated by any single organization," he said, pointing out the AAU, for instance, "controls 10 sports."

Twins stun Cal on 8-run inning

CLEVELAND (UPI)—A throwing error by Milwaukee starter Bill Parsons opened the door to four unearned runs in the second inning Tuesday night and the Cleveland Indians hung on for a 3-2 victory over the Brewers.

After spotting the Indians to a 5-0 lead, the Brewers rallied to secure on homers by Don Money, John Briggs and Pedro Garcia before George Hendrick rifled a 455-foot homer over the centerfield fence for the Indians in the sixth.

Money, Briggs and Garcia all hit home runs in the second inning. Money's was a two-run shot, while Briggs' and Garcia's were one-run homers.

Parsons, who had pitched well in the first inning, gave up a double to Money in the second and a single to Briggs in the third. He then threw a wild pitch that drove in Garcia.

The Indians' offense was more consistent. They scored runs in the first, second, and sixth innings.

Phasant crow count under way

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Pheasant crowing counts are being made in Idaho to get more facts about 1973 breeding stock of ringnecks the state's most popular game bird, it was announced today by the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

Idaho pheasant figures are based on winter inventory work, sex ratios established over many years, spring crowing counts, checking station examination of birds and hunter questionnaire reports. In southwestern Idaho, pheasant roosters are crowing earlier this year, according to Charles Jensen, Boise assistant regional game manager, with the peak of crowing expected to occur within the next two weeks.

He added that the crow counts will be made at three different intervals beginning April 10 and ending about May 31. Crow counts are run on 11 established routes at daylight to get the peak of crowing activity. The interval having the highest crow count will be used as the base.

Three-crowing counts are made on each of the established routes to learn rooster density on their ranges. This, together with known sex ratio counts made during the winter, gives a good indication of the spring breeding population. The number of cock pheasants within a half mile to either side of the counting routes is learned by listening for two minutes at one mile intervals. Roosters crow at dawn on an average of once every two minutes.

31 qualify in tourney of champs

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI)—Thirty-one pro golfers are set to start Thursday in the $200,000 Tournament of Champions, the most exclusive event on the PGA tour.

Only pros who won tournaments designated by the PGA plus the British Open are eligible to play the La Costa Country Club course, a tough and long layout with sometimes high rough.

Last year only eight of 26 entrants broke par 208. The winning score was 208 as Bobby Mitchell and Jack Nicklaus tied at the end of 72 and Mitchell won the playoff for the title.

Last man to qualify this time was Romero Blancas who took the Monsanto Open at Pensacola, Fla., Sunday.

Arnold Palmer is back for the 10th time in this tournament which started in Las Vegas, Nev., 20 years ago. He qualified with a victory in the Bob Hope Desert Classic early this year.

Missing for the first time in 17 years is Billy Casper, whose last victory was in the Kaiser Open in the fall of 1971.

Abel eager to build new club

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Sid Abel, newly named general manager of the Kansas City franchise in the National Hockey League, will be starting from scratch at age 55.

He believes the challenge will be invigorating.

"I'll be able to have my own people to form a club that I promise will be very exciting to the people of Kansas City," Abel said Tuesday.

Abel spent most of his career — first as a player, then as a coach and general manager — in the Detroit Red Wings' organization. The past two years he's been general manager of the St. Louis Blues.

"The owner didn't live there and I was responsible for running the entire Red Wings' organization," Abel said. "I've never worked for any finer people than I did in St. Louis. But I felt they had enough capable people there to run the club."

Sox coast by Rangers

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bill Melton's 100th career homer produced two runs and Pat Kelly hit a bases-loaded single for two more Tuesday to highlight a 10-5 win for the Chicago White Sox over the Texas Rangers.

Melton's homer, his second this year, came off losing pitcher Dick Bassano to open a five-run fifth inning for the Sox. The drive came after a single by Dick Allen and Bassano was lifted for Charlie Hudson after Mike Andrews doubled.

Hudson walked Ed Herrmann, Jorge Orta singled, and Ed Leon walked to lift the bases before Kelly singled to center to score two runners.

LA tips Warriors on late West shot

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jerry West, who usually saves his best for last, hit a 15-foot jump shot from the side with eight seconds to go Tuesday night to give the Los Angeles Lakers a come-from-behind 101-99 victory over the Golden State Warriors in the first game of the NBA Western Conference final playoffs.

Jim McMillan, the third-year forward from Columbia, scored 37 points to lead Los Angeles while West hit 11 of his 17 points in the last quarter.

The Lakers, defending NBA champions who needed seven games and a thrilling finish Sunday night to eliminate the Chicago Bulls, appeared dead with two and a half minutes to go after Jeff Mullins hit a 12-foot jumper to put Golden State ahead by four points.

But McMillan, who missed 16 shots in a row and had only seven points in the finale against Chicago, hit a pair of jumpers to tie the score at 99-99. The first came with 1:47 to go and the second with 1:21 left.

With 40 seconds to go, Golden State called a timeout but an errant pass by Rick Barry with 28 seconds left gave the Lakers the ball. After West's game-winning basket over Jim Barnett from the baseline with eight seconds, the Warriors rebounded the ball but the pass from Mullins was intercepted by Bill Bridges.

The second game of the best-of-seven series continues here Thursday night and then moves to Oakland for games three and four Saturday and Sunday nights.

Tuesday night's victory was an uphill struggle all the way for Los Angeles, which trailed 91-82 with 7:05 to go after an 8-0

Golden State spurt. Before West's big basket at the end, the last Laker lead was 54-53 with 55 seconds gone in the second half.

Knicks confident they can win tonight's game, series

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knicks are three-point favorites to beat the Boston Celtics here tonight and they're confident they can beat the Atlantic Division champions in the NBA Eastern Conference playoff finals.

Boston drubbed New York, 134-108, Sunday for a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series, cutting the Knicks in a rare defensive lapse.

"I don't think Boston is that much better than us or we're that bad," said team captain Willis Reed after Tuesday's workout. "We turned the ball over a lot and they worked each mistake to their advantage."

Some observers blame the Knicks' worst defeat of the season on their long layoff after beating Baltimore in five games. New York had to wait seven days while Boston was defeating Atlanta in six games.

"Sunday was just one of those games where I seemed to misjudge every bounce of the ball," Walt Frazier conceded. "I couldn't guess right while the Celtics seemed to have two guys in the right place each time I made a mistake."

"They did everything they wanted to. They caught our defenses down. We know we can play better than that and we'll have to prove it."

Frazier was the one bright spot in the Knicks lineup as he led the club with 24 points, grabbed a team-high seven rebounds and recorded 10 assists.

The Celtics, limpetting from Jo Jo White's 30 points and John Havlicek's 26, were trying to shake any semblance of overconfidence they may have picked up after the lopsided victory.

"We've got to forget Sunday's win and concentrate on tonight's game," said Boston's Don Chaney. "We're not going to win that easily again and we know we'll be in for a tough game in New York."

Havlicek knows how tough the Knicks can be. Last February, the Celtics were overwhelmed in a game at New York and Hondo was held under double figures for one of the few times this season. He shook his head in bewilderment that time and wondered how the Celtics could look so bad.

It's a good feeling to be ahead in the playoffs, but you can't get carried away by the margin of victory," Havlicek told the Celtics in a dressing room meeting before the team left for New York. "There's always the chance you're meeting the other team by winning big." New York swept to the NBA title in 1970 on the strength of its bench and ripped Baltimore earlier this month with ready reserves. The subs failed New York in the Boston opener, however, while the Celtics' sixth man, Don Nelson, scored 21 points in 40 minutes.

"We split eight regular season games," recalled Paul Silas. "and I felt the Knicks dominated us during the series. But this victory was a big psychological lift for us and if we continue to play as well as we did Sunday, there will be no way the Knicks can beat us."

The Knicks have worked on the flaws that allowed Boston's opening game victory and predict the home court advantage will even the series at one all.

Eye may sideline N.C. State passer

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Doctors say the football career of Dave Buckley, one of the most promising young quarterbacks in Atlantic Coast Conference history, may be over because of eye problems.

Dr. A.E. Harter, team physician for North Carolina State University, revealed Tuesday that Buckley had been hospitalized at Duke Hospital for "a significant pathology in one eye."

"His future football career at this time is in doubt," said Harter of the young Akron, Ohio, player who dazzled State fans as a freshman last season with his passing and breakaway running.

Harter would not specify just what the eye problem was, but a school spokesman said it was highly questionable whether Buckley would be able to play this fall.

Buckley was a backup to Bruce Shaw last season, but Coach Lou Holtz interchanged the two freely, saying he was looking for the quarterback with the "hot hand." It was frequently Buckley who came in to spark the team.

Shaw broke his hand shortly before the Peach Bowl last December, and Buckley directed the Wolfpack to a 49-13 rout of West Virginia; his team piling up a dazzling 535 yards on offense. He was voted the game's top offensive player.

Buckley's favorite receiver, was Buckley's twin brother, Don, a starting end for State as a freshman last year. In the recent N.C. State spring intrasquad game, Buckley completed 9 of 13 passes, completed 14 of 22.

State also has a promising transfer quarterback in John Gargano, who completed five of six passes during the intrasquad game.

Mr. Prospector absorbs first loss

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Our Native, a Kentucky Derby hopeful and winner of the Elamingo Stakes, won the $12,500 Calumet purse on a foul claim at Keeneland Tuesday and dealt Mr. Prospector the first defeat of his thoroughbred racing career.

Our Native was awarded first place when the stewards upheld a foul claim by jockey Don Brumfield against lightly-regarded Starkers in the closing strides of the 1 1/16-mile race.

Starkers, ridden by Jockey Don Gargano, actually finished 1 1/2 lengths ahead of Our Native, but the stewards ruled he bore in on Our Native as they were approaching the wire.

Mr. Prospector lived up to his reputation as the spring sensation of the recent Florida racing season by leading the five-horse field through the backstretch. But when asked to go the longest distance of his career, the son of Raise A Native ran out of speed and had to settle for third place, casting doubt upon his worthiness for the 1 1/16-mile derby.

Mr. Prospector, winner of three races in Florida by wide margins, was 3 1/2 lengths behind Our Native at the finish.

Idaho State reports signing of five more grid prospects

POCATELLO — Five more highly sought-after high school football players have signed national letters of intent to attend Idaho State University.

John Lund, a 6-3, 210-pounder from Wallace, Idaho, Lund played mostly offensive center at Wallace H.S., but he is also a top prospect at offensive and defensive tackle.

Versatile Lance Cash of McKeesport, Pa., was one of the blue chip grid prospects in western Pennsylvania, and it was a former Boise State football player who convinced him to attend ISU. Former Bronco running back Puddin'

Grayson coached Cash, and over the past two years the 6-3, 210-pounder played tight end, split end, defensive back and quarterback. ISU Coach Bob Griffin expects him to bid for the varsity tight end job. Cash is also a top basketball player, averaging 25 points a game.

Big Matt Smith of Medford, Oregon, could provide immediate help in the offensive line. He's 6-3, 216 pounds and, according to Griffin, is "one of the top offensive line prospects we are bringing in this year."

A speedburner who could play in the offensive, or defensive backfield is Steve

Wolpin of King City, Calif. "We are recruiting outstanding athletes and finding positions for them," says Griffin. "Steve is a great running back, but we are projecting a back-up defensive backfield role with the varsity for him next year."

Bounding out the list is long and tough lineman Charles Langle of LaMirada, Calif. Langle stands 6-6, weighs 235 pounds, and plays both ways at tackle. "Despite his size, Charles has the quickness to play college guard," says Griffin. "He gives us the size and bulk to follow the big guards we now have on the varsity."

Vandals to conclude spring drills with Saturday contest

MOSCOW — The annual spring football game will be held in the new Idaho Stadium on Saturday at 3 p.m., according to Don Robbins, head Vandal grid coach.

The spring game will be an intrasquad game, complete with officials and game atmosphere on the 3-M Targan turf at the stadium.

"We have been pleased with the progress of our spring drills so far this year. Although it has been the earliest we have been able to hold the drills, our weather has been cooperative, the new field has eliminated the problems of mud and bad turf which we have had in the past and the spirit of the players has been just great. I feel that it has been the finest spring session we have had since I have been at Idaho and if the players report back this fall with the same determination and dedication that they have shown this spring, we could be real tough," Coach Robbins said.

"We have been working with three quarterbacks. Dave Comstock, sophomore from Pocatello; Rick Seefried, Senior veteran from Spokane; and Dennis Ballock, a junior college transfer from Chicago, Calif. All three have been impressive and, although we have been putting in some new wrinkles to our offense, they have adapted well and show great promise," Robbins said.

Randy Hall and Ross Nelson in the defensive secondary as well as Lloyd Grimsrud, Lorne Sherbine, Alofa Lue Tavaga, Alan Vance and Tom Doud on the line have been showing some great potential on the defensive unit. Also Jim Allen, junior college transfer from Vancouver, Wash., and Steve Hart, sophomore from Twin Falls, have been getting in their ticks on the defense.

Darrell Mitchell, junior college transfer from San Francisco, Rick Brown, junior from Glenns Ferry, J.C. Chadband, sophomore from Pocatello, and Rob Dean, have been taking turns running with the first team offensive backfield.

"If we can fill a couple of holes on the offensive line and get the right combination in the backfield, I feel that we should field a much-improved team this fall. So far we have stayed clear of injuries and, if our luck holds out this fall, we should have some depth as we get set for the opener against Texas-El Paso at Moscow Sept. 8," Robbins said.

Mileti gets okay on stadium plans

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Cleveland sports promoter Nick J. Mileti Tuesday received Summit County Common Pleas Court approval to continue construction of his $18 million Coliseum in nearby Richfield Township.

Judge Daniel B. Quillin turned down a request from the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for an injunction to halt construction.

The EPA requested all construction be stopped because the facility's sewage treatment system had not been approved.

Quillin, in a six-page opinion, said the EPA did not have the authority to stop construction of the entire project because one part of it had not been approved.

Quillin said workmen could continue construction of all phases of the Coliseum except the sewage treatment plant, which must await EPA approval.

Mileti said the Coliseum, which will be the home of his National Basketball Association Cavaliers and World Hockey Association Crusaders, would be completed by September, 1974.

Mileti also owns the Cleveland Indians baseball team and two Cleveland radio stations.

Forester on carpet over wilderness

By ROBERT JOHNSON

Special to the Times-News

SALMON — The questions were submitted in writing and kept coming throughout the evening.

The region 4 forester from Ogden was on the carpet over roadless areas, wilderness areas, mining claims, timber, grazing rights, logging.

The key word was "use." The questions included why lock up four million acres for one per cent of the people.

Can a forest wife take a stand other than just belonging? What laws need repealing to get the environmentalists "out of our hair?"

After it was over, Vern Hamre, the regional forester, told a group of 150 persons attending a meeting of WOOD that he hadn't expected to be mistreated by the group in any way and wasn't.

"The people of Salmon have always been good to our people."

Speaking, and answering questions, at a meeting of WOOD, an organization of "Women Opposed to Official Depression," by advocating multiple use, Hamre said:

"Many share the same opinion that Idaho has too many acres of wilderness already but if all could agree on a figure the job would be simple: but everyone has a different feeling."

"Many citizens of Idaho feel we have enough wilderness but many in the nation feel this is our last opportunity to preserve wilderness."

To other questions, Hamre, an invited speaker, said:

Environmental impact statements must be filed on timber sales in roadless areas and could increase the cost of timber sales 50 to 100 per cent.

But, "Business as usual is not the way the general public now wants us to do business."

There will be pressure to bring new areas into the study of wilderness areas.

"The appetite of some is insatiable for wilderness; at the same time for others it is insatiable for no wilderness."

Money can be spent for roads in areas that do not require impact statements but the forest still could face an injunction.

The US Forest Service is not using the preservationists and is not carrying out a plan to eliminate grazing from the national forests.

"We are not using the preservationist as a whipping boy to carry out a plan to eliminate grazing from the forest. I see a new wave of concern toward eliminating domestic livestock grazing from the national forest. The environmentalists are raising a lot of concern about that."

"Every bad example of grazing is going to come back to haunt us."

Employees of the forest who are not giving a day's work should be reported.

Whether the forest service backed down from the Sierra Club court suit on timber sales in roadless areas depends on "who you are talking with."

"The forest service was happy to avoid filing impact statements on every timber sale. We avoided something which could have been worse."

Hamre told the group that "it is very difficult for a forest service wife to represent only herself when speaking in public."

"Most wives of forest service people try to avoid getting involved," he told the group.

John Emerson, Salmon National Forest supervisor, said the forest felt if it put a moratorium on users on the Salmon River it could avoid what happened on the Middle Fork of the Salmon.

"We want to keep on top of it. Everyone who holds a permit still has one."

As to why lock up four million acres in Idaho into wilderness Hamre said:

"Wilderness is recognized as a valid use. It is difficult to make a decision of how much wilderness is needed; there is a value."

Hamre said that the timber purchaser will be required to stand the cost of timber access roads in the future because of cutback in forest funds.

But the forest service will continue to require that roads will have a minimum of impacts.

"Putting the construction cost on the operator will not result in changes in standards of roads. We will continue to expect protection of the streams and hillsides."

As to what to do about the environmentalists, Hamre said the law involved is the Environmental Protection Act.

He noted that the Corps of Engineers had tried unsuccessfully to be excluded from the act.

"The act is not all bad, either. There is no effective way now of repealing the environmentalists."

The official commented that many dedicated environmentalists have put in a lot of effort in the legislation and that it is expected there will be lawsuits for a considerable time.

As to why so much wilderness in the Salmon area, Hamre said this area has a high scenic value with recreation and wildlife values greater than the timber and range values.

Such characteristics resulted in the establishment of the Salmon River Breaks and Idaho primitive areas.

Asked what happens to timber in a wilderness area, Hamre said that timber matures, insects kill it and it falls down, then fire may clean it up.

"This is part of the life cycle which many are trying to preserve."

New road open

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Visitors to California can now travel the approximately 625 miles from Sacramento, the state capital, to Palm Springs, often called the world's golf capital, without getting off an expressway, says the Palm Springs Convention and Visitors Bureau.

This new convenience to travelers resulted from the opening of Highway 99, a new four-lane super-expressway to be known as "the freeway to the fairways."

Sewage dumped in Salmon River

SALMON Mayor William Cannon says the city of Salmon is still awaiting approval of federal and state participation in a sewer project for the area of the city west of the Salmon River.

He said the city had made application for the funds six months ago but "because of a lot of federal and state agency people working at cross purposes no one has said to go ahead on the project."

As a result 86 new motel units and a cafe will be dumping sewage into the Salmon River this month as they open for use.

Mayor Cannon said the situation will exist until the involved agencies make a decision on the sewage project.

"If we go ahead on the project we have been told we will not be eligible for participating funds. We are anxious to get started," he said.

The city has said as soon as the sewer project is approved it can extend the present Bar sewer line to the new sewage

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—I am considering buying stock in J. W. Mays (NYSE).

A—I would be in no particular hurry to commit myself to this investment if I were you.

Mays' promotion costs at Easter were especially heavy, while sales remained sluggish.

With other expenses unchanged, Mays ran in the red for the April or third quarter of the current fiscal year. As a result of the poor performance shares have dropped from a high of 26 1/2 to a low of 13 1/2 since April.

Mays operates its seven discount retail outlets on a relatively low profit margin, 2.3 per cent in fiscal 1970 and 1971.

For the first 9 months of the year ended July 31, net income after taxes amounted to only 1.5 per cent of sales.

Given a strong first quarter and a return to a normal level of profitability, earnings could reach $1.35 a share down from last year's record of $1.83 a share. Should final quarter earnings recover, shares would be attractive for long-term appreciation.

Q—I have been buying Channing Growth Fund on a $75 a month basis since September, 1969. I plan to retire in 10 years.

A—In recent years, this growth-oriented fund has compiled a somewhat erratic performance record. Despite the fund's poor results in 1969 and 1970, the fact that you initiated your plan late in 1969 and dollar-averaged your investment should have reduced the impact of decline.

In 1971, Channing Growth was one of the better performers — asset value rose 36 per cent. A creditable 10.4 gain was achieved in the first half this year.

Dividend income has been negligible this year. This is not surprising, however, in view of the portfolio emphasis on strong growth stocks. Build your fund to $5,000 and then diversify with another fund. For a list of no-load fund addresses sent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Roger E. Spear's care of Times-News.

Crib control

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration's (FDA) Bureau of Product Safety is drafting the final form of a proposed regulation covering baby cribs.

The regulation will be the first attempt by Uncle Sam to standardize the baby crib industry. According to bureau officials the proposal will eliminate hazardous features of baby cribs, some linked to injury or death in the past. The regulation will establish a maximum allowable slat spacing.

As a seminar on Drug Addiction and Alcoholism presented in a Christian church by a medical doctor minister team especially adapted for children, youth and adults, illustrated with film and visual aids, begins Saturday 7 p.m. April 28th, Adventist Church, Ardmore and Grandview. Admission free.

Minieo students request early graduation date

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

RUPERT—A request from a group of Minieo High School seniors for an earlier graduation date has been turned down by the Minidoka County School Board.

The seniors requested that they get out one week ahead of regular students, following "a 14-year tradition."

Under their proposal seniors would finish May 18th, have baccalaureate services May 20, and graduation services May 21.

Supt. Darrell Hatfield objected "in principle" to the proposal as a violation of the recent state board of education ruling that students must attend 180 days of school each year. It was pointed out that many students may have used up their allotted absences at this point.

The students pointed out that many other schools in the area are circumventing the ruling in some way or other to let their seniors out early.

Glen Maughan, principal of the high school, supported the proposal which would help the school in final preparation of papers.

Doyle Lowder, assistant superintendent, said the proposal would not affect average daily attendance (ADA) ratings from which allocations for state funds are made. These ratings are taken from the best 20 weeks of the year.

Lowder said the students had known about the calendar and had discussed it with the board about a year ago and no objections had been raised.

Board members felt that a senior "sneak" was a very real possibility in light of the rejection, but doubted that any reprisal action would be taken which would deprive any student of this right to graduate.

Discussion about the 1973-74 calendar centered around the possibility of a harvest vacation and requests to begin school after Labor Day so 4-H students could participate in the fair.

Harvest vacation was discontinued last year and, according to Hatfield, absenteeism was not high during the period, although students were given the option of taking a 10-day authorized leave.

Students involved in 4-H projects have been given permission in the past for an absence the day they make presentations at the fair, it was said. The absences in this case constitute a "learning experience" and do not disrupt class, Maughan said.

The board decided to set the first day of school on Aug. 27 and the last day on May 24 with a request that the calendar committee make decisions on vacations dates during the year.

Dr. Hatfield said the district had agreed to pay to the Idaho Youth Ranch, which is under the authorization of the school district for the education of the youth living there, all but 4.15 per cent of the tuition moneys collected from the youth's home districts. The 4.15 per cent will defray the district's administrative costs.

A request for a five cent increase on all school lunch rates for the 1973-74 school year made by Dr. Hatfield was postponed by the board as being "too premature." Dr. Hatfield made the request because, he said, the schools were losing some carry-over funds to the school lunch program.

OBVIOUS MAKEUP MUST GO

By Mary Sue Miller

Use eye goo but don't look as though you do! Attractive looks today are nature's own . . . in effect, that is. To achieve the appearance of natural beauty often requires more cosmetic aid than a frankly painted job.

Certainly a deft hand and educated taste are musts.

That goes double in the eye department. A blob of eye shadow smeared across your lids never convinces anyone that it belongs to you. Or what about heavy rings of liner, eyebrows penciled in hard lines?

Let's work first on the eyebrow question. Ideally an eyebrow extends from above the inner corner of the eye to just beyond the outer edge of the eye socket. Width is moderate, neither thin nor bushy; the arch is a gentle half-oval rather than a half-moon circle. Eyebrow coloring wants for softening when an inky tone prevails.

Where the brows are concerned, errors of nature can be corrected by the judicious use of tweezers; charcoal or amber pencil lines sketched between strands; and brushing with gleam cream or shadow powder in a silvery shade for brunets, peach-going-on-brown for blonds.

Regarding eye shadows and liners, choose the sheerest shadow pomade and blend the sheerest amount across the lids and under brow areas. Pastel blue and mauve shades come recommended with soft liners in slightly darker tones of the chosen shade. Apply liner from mid-lid to beyond the outer corners and then blur with swab or sponge until as intangible as smoke.

THE EYES OF YOUTH

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, THE EYES OF YOUTH. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

With—or without

TO EAT "Conoy" Islands without onions, with onions (as they should be) or with only green onion sticks? . . . that is the question. With the price of onions jumping from $5 to $30 a bag, it is a rare "Conoy" now being served with onions. Many unhappy patrons, like 21-year-old Michale Maltch, upper left, just have to settle without. Patrons like Mrs. Ann Hodges, bottom, who scream "What kind of dog is this?" are quickly handed a green onion stick, but "It's not the same" she says. "It takes careful shopping of the 'Conoys,' like Rita Leeds, upper right, Southfield, Mich., did, to find those serving onions to happy patrons. See related stories p. 31 (UPI).

Music festival awards told

BURLEY — Awards for high school music students from throughout Southern Idaho who competed in the annual Regional Music Festival were released today.

Students from as far away as Salmon, Boise and Elko, Nev., performed before the judges. Ratings ranged from I to III, I being rated superior.

To participate in the Regional Music Festival, the students had to first achieve high ratings at district festivals earlier in the year.

Instrumental solos and ensembles were presented Friday while choruses and bands performed Saturday. Since Burley High School was used for performances and warm-up rooms, regular students were given the day off Friday to make room for festival participants.

Students earning I ratings locally were Karl West, Burley, for a saxophone solo; Nan Dalton, Burley, clarinet solo; Mark Neiwerth, Kimberly; Martin Wright, Murtaugh; Melody Potter, Wood River; Pam Reynolds, Buhl; Janine Wood, Burley; Stephanie Bessie, Susan Klepper and Kim Croft of Minico, all for piano solos; Janie Vincent, Filer, flute solo, and Richard Saldana, Burley, for both flute and piccolo solos.

Voice students taking honors Saturday were baritone Keith Blauer, Burley; Martin Wright, Murtaugh, and Bruce Fagg, Minico; sopranos Teri Harding, Loretta Steiner, Connie Bailey, of Minico; Cara Barlow, Burley; and Debby Stasny and Jeri Petersen, Murtaugh, and tenor Dan Wilson, Burley.

Rixi Marks' "Common Sense Bridge" includes a set of well played hands. No such set would be complete without an example of the dummy reversal play and Rixi has a good one.

The spade slam is a fairly good one and on looking at dummy, South can count on three hearts, two diamonds and possibly one club. He sees that he will need six or seven trump tricks and after the queen of clubs is opened it appears that the club trick is not going to be there for him and he will definitely need seven trump tricks.

He ruffs the second club and notes that if he can get hearts to go around three times and diamonds twice that he will be able to discard one of dummy's diamonds on the ace of hearts and make the rest of the tricks by a simple cross-ruff.

Rixi has set up the hand so that this play won't work but there is another and much surer line of play.

At trick three Rixi leads a diamond to dummy's king and proceeds to ruff a third club. Now comes a heart to dummy's king and the ruff of dummy's last club with her ace of trumps.

Now she leads her last trump and overtakes in dummy. Dummy has three trumps left and as she cashes them she discards two diamonds and a heart from her hand. Then she takes dummy's queen of hearts and makes the last two tricks with her two red aces.

Idaho TOPS No. 84 welcomes member

HANSEN — Mrs. Clifford Urle was welcomed as a new member of Idaho TOPS No. 84 at a meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas Steelsmith.

Mrs. Reed Lyons was re-instated as a member of the organization.

The opening exercise was a song led by Mrs. Percy Christensen. A long term contest was explained, emphasizing that those who have a net loss for the month will sign up at the end of the month and those who have signed the most times in a year will be awarded prizes in March.

Mrs. Kimber Glenn and Mrs. Ralph Simmons were best losers.

Two articles were reviewed, one on varicose veins and the other on "Why We Overeat."

In the model contest, Mrs. Bryson Vineyard's team won for the week. Mrs. Fred Howard's team had accrued more weekly wins and therefore was declared contest winner. This week's gainers are to bring five low calorie foods to the next meeting as a penalty.

Mrs. Christensen asked each member to compile ideas for losing weight and submit them next time. She presented a contest game involving identification of foods and listing the calorie content of each.

Mrs. George Golay, Mrs. Paul Bowman and Mrs. Glenn were winners.

Past Oracles Club meets

TWIN FALLS — Past Oracles Club had its April meeting Monday at the home of Julie Samples.

Dorothy Treadwell, president, conducted a brief business session.

The meeting was followed by social activities. Mrs. Lillian Aringa received the white elephant gift.

Mrs. Samples served refreshments.

Loud crash

FAIRBURN, Ga. (UPI) — A car plunged off a road, crashed through two wire fences, climbed a brick retaining wall and slammed into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thomas Monday.

"It like to have deafened me," said Mrs. Thomas, 79. "I thought, 'Hot Damn, somebody shot my old man'."

Her husband, Arthur, 69, said the crash sounded like "somebody shooting off a cannon in the front yard."

Damage to the house was estimated at $3,000. James Cook, of Atlanta, driver of the car, suffered minor facial cuts.

Program discussed

FAIRBURN — The summer program for adults and children was discussed by the steering committee at its Monday meeting in the Filer Elementary School.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, APRIL 19, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An excellent day to arrange your affairs so that you are able to achieve the necessary backing that will pave the way for future success. Employ modern ideas and methods so that greater prosperity can be assured.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Think of whatever has been successful in the past and use same methods for bigger results in the future. Your mate is in an excellent mood and your happiness increases. Think along modern lines.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Ideal day to be with associates and plan how to be more productive in the future. The evening is fine for entertaining others or for attending public functions. Do something nice for mate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You can organize the work ahead of you now so it can be done efficiently and with the approval of co-workers. Find the right clothing that will impress others. Show more devotion to mate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Plan the recreational activities you enjoy which can remove mounting tensions. Presenting a charming gift for the one you love can be rewarding. Put more romance into your life.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23): You cannot be at home. Think of ways to make conditions there more harmonious in the future. Consult associates about future plans. The evening is fine for entertaining at home. Be happy.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Make sure you buy wisely today while shopping and make this a most satisfying time. Talk over with associates how to make the future brighter and successful. Exchange good ideas with friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Handle monetary affairs most wisely today and through a new system, if possible, find a better way to add to present income. Give good, practical advice to one who comes to you for it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21): You are able to have a delightful time with persons you like and make new acquaintances as well. You can improve your appearance and charm all those you meet. Relax at home tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): A good day to consult with a business expert and make long-range plans for the future. Apply yourself more and gain those personal aims that mean so much to you. Be wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Try to figure out which one of your clever friends has the right answers to your problems and contact this person. Engage in group activities tonight and meet an interesting person.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Talk with a respected high-up about what your aims are and gain his support in a tactful way. Getting into some civic work for which you are fitted is fine. State your objectives.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You have a clear vision now into the future and can go ahead and make plans that are best for you. A new associate has the data you require but you have to be tactful to pry it out of him.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: he or she will be one of those delightful young people who is determined and mentally alert with curiosity. Be sure to have good books around as well as other clever children. Help select the right sports so that your progeny develops well and quickly. There can be fame in this chart, provided the education is adequate. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Not less than a third of all divorces grow out of that thing known as the romantic triangle, some matrimonial counselors aver. Our Lov'ly and War-man doubts that. What's to cause the divorce almost invariably is also to cause the triangle, says he, sagely. As previously reported, it's a climate of mutual criticism, usually. Rarely does a husband or wife jump into a triangle until after the marriage is already terminally ailing even though not legally dead. Oh, you know that?

It's the surprising contention of one man of science that no owl can see as well at night as can any human with average eyesight. True, twice as many men marry at age 30 as do women. Old Mark Twain was the fellow who pointed out, "Adam and Eve had many advantages, but the principal one was that they escaped leprosy." Only rodent that will eat an onion is the groundhog, I'm told. Statistics prove the heart attack is more apt to strike the housewife than the lady executive.

JOB SHARING

Understand it's a spreading practice to let two women share one job. Pay is for one. They split it. They arrange between themselves what days and hours each works. In emergency time off, each stands in for the other. A Netherlands' grocery chain started this wrinkle. Correspondents say it's doing so well the firm now has a long waiting list of pairs of ladies who want employment there.

A study of the longevity statistics show typesetters and editors generally live about as long as one another. That's a little longer than miners and construction men. But it's not quite as long as college professors and social workers.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "Does the blood of an expectant mother ever mix with that of her unborn child?"

A. Never.

Q. "I'm an American soldier who receives the Congressional Medal of Honor entitled to a discharge any time he requests it?"

A. If he was inducted.

Q. "Which lives longer, an elk or a bear?"

A. It's a tossup. About 20 years each, average, if not gunned.

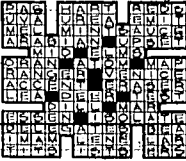

No. 8 on that list of most popular names for 16-year-old girls is Karen. No. 8 for boys that age is Stephen.

Minor matter, this, but I find it curious. When a lady shopper buys something in this country, she generally just confronts the clerk with "I'll take that or whatever." In Europe, such would be unthinkable. Customer and clerk always greet one another first. Good day. Welcome. How do you do. Then they get on with it.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

FUNNY BUSINESS

By Roger Bollen

OUT OUR WAY

MAJOR HOOPLE

Nation onion short

NEW YORK (UPI) — The onion shortage is nationwide, and began with Hurricane Agnes last August, William Feinstein & Co., Bronx produce merchants, said today.

"The price hasn't gone quite as high here in the East as the $30 a (50-pound) bag reported in the Detroit area," the Feinstein firm said, "but it has hit $25 a bag. Late last summer onions were selling for only $5.50 to $6 for a 50-pound bag."

Hurricane Agnes flooded out the onion crop in upstate New York and other eastern states and in Texas. The onions rested in the ground. Subsequent bad weather affected the crop in other states, so onions gradually got scarcer and farmers in Michigan, the state with the biggest undamaged production, raised the price as demand increased.

The Feinstein company said the United States imports some onions from Mexico and used to import a lot from Chile, "but under the Allende administration, for some reason, Chile has been able to supply fewer onions each year and now that source has virtually dried up."

In addition to the states already named, Colorado and Louisiana normally supply onions in quantity.

"The shortage is in all probability a one season phenomenon," the Feinstein firm said. Farmers will have big acreages of onions this year and unless the new crop is hit by another weather disaster, the price then should drop.

Streets improved

TF crews begin work

TWIN FALLS Work began today on completion of the 1972 street improvement contract in Twin Falls.

City Manager Jean Milar said the contractor and subcontractor on the street paving project will be working in three basic areas where cold wet weather last fall stopped their work.

These include Locust Street, Elizabeth Boulevard and Sunrise Boulevard. Demolition is now underway, Milar said, and the streets will be resurfaced as soon as paving weather permits. A final coat will also be added to Shoshone Street.

Another street improvement program of about $400,000 will be undertaken this year with contracts to be let in the near future.

Both programs are part of a continuing plan to bring all city streets up to standard on a priority basis with several included each year.

What? Hot dogs without onions?

DETROIT (UPI) — Devotees of the Lafayette Coney Island grimaced and bit into their hot dogs without onions. It just wasn't the same. It was, as advertising man Jim Matzke put it, "like a car without tires."

"I know Coney like nobody knows," Coney Island's in fact, you might say I'm a Coney addict," said Bill Zeising, 31, one of Matzke's fellow workers at the J. Water Thompson advertising agency.

"But this," said Zeising, pointing to his no-onion dog, "is not a Coney."

(For the uninitiated, a Coney Island is a hotdog with chili, onions and mustard on it.)

Coney Islands in Detroit are unlike Coney Islands in any other cities, according to devotees who gathered at Coney Island Row on Lafayette Street Monday for the first full weekday of the great onion boycott.

They came to find out if they could swallow the dog without the onion.

Detroit's masters of the bun, dog, mustard, chili and onion combination, the Keros family, are doing without onions. The prices, they say, are just too high. And they won't raise their price, now 55 cents per cone.

Dan Keros, one of several members of the Greek family that owns at least 30 Coney Island restaurants in Detroit and its suburbs, claimed the price of onions have risen from $3.50 per 50-pound bag six months ago to a current $30 per bag.

That, says Keros, manager of the American Coney Island in the heart of the city, is a price he won't pay.

We have no choice but not to buy the onions," Keros said. "They (produce wholesalers) are just robbing us and the customers. Their attitude is that we will pay because we're forced to have onions."

"But, we'll show 'em." That's easy enough for Keros to say—he's still got a big enough batch of onions to last him another week at least.

But for his next door competitor, Lafayette Coney Island, the talk is not so sweet. It has run clear out of the Coney kicker—the onion.

Bravely, the Lafayette served scallions if onions were requested by customers. But, so far, the green onion stick is not satisfying customers one bit.

"What kind of a dog is this?" demanded Ann Hodges, 51, of Detroit, when handed a Coney by one of the Lafayette Keros who can shovel out a hot dog in seconds. "There's no onion."

Mrs. Hodges was promptly given a scallion to eat on the side.

"Taking a bite out of this thing," said Mrs. Hodges, holding up the green onion stick, "and then a bite of my hot dog is just not the same."

The city's most famous visitors and dignitaries came to the Lafayette, however, to taste the onionless Coney and offer their assessment of what it is like to go without.

"It's like taking the Statue of Liberty from the New York harbor," said actress Carol Channing.

"It's like a carnival without a missionary," said TV travel host George F. Miller.

Mexican prison escapee surfaces

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An American millionaire who made a spectacular helicopter escape from a Mexican prison almost two years ago has come out of hiding to tell the story of his adventure.

Joel D. Kaplan, whose family has extensive sugar and molasses interests in the Caribbean, escaped in a helicopter which landed in the yard of the prison at Santa Maria Acatitla, 50 miles northeast of Mexico City, on Aug. 18, 1971. He had been convicted of killing his business partner and already had served nine years behind bars.

Kaplan, who has been living quietly in the San Francisco Bay Area and New Mexico since his escape, told his story in an interview and in a soon-to-be-published book, "The Ten Second Breakout."

At the time of his escape

there was speculation the plot was conceived and carried out by the Central Intelligence Agency or even the Mafia. Kaplan said this was not so.

"It was my sister, and not the CIA, that was responsible for my escape," said Kaplan.

Kaplan, 46, originally from New York City, said he was imprisoned falsely for the murder of his business partner, Louis Melchor Vidal. But he did admit he was involved in gunrunning to Latin American revolutionaries backed by the Cuban government of Fidel Castro. Because of his political activities, he insists, there was a concerted effort to keep him behind bars.

He said the plans for the escape by helicopter were begun after his sister, Mrs. Judy Davis of Santa Fe, N.M., tried more conventional means to get him out but failed. He said his sister spent $200,000, including bribing Mexican officials, but "they only took the money and nothing happened."

The idea for the helicopter came to him one day as he was walking in the deserted prison exercise yard, he said, and he passed it on to his sister through his wife, Irma, whom he married in prison.

Irma and others involved in the escape purchased a helicopter and flew it to Mexico, Kaplan said. They gathered a few miles from the prison with another plane, a single-engine Cessna 210, waiting nearby to fly Kaplan away from the area.

Irma visited Kaplan on the morning of the escape. Both details of the plan, then Kaplan waited with fellow inmate Carlos Contreras Castro, who was to escape with him.

"When 6:30 p.m. came around Castro and I went out on the patio with a newspaper, which was our instruction," Kaplan said.

"Before we knew it the helicopter was coming in at rooftop level over the roof of dormitory number 2. It swung in a turn, turned and landed."

"I jumped aboard and Castro right after me. The pilot introduced himself and we introduced ourselves and then we left."

No shots were fired by guards during the escape.

"The guards were not bribed as some speculated," Kaplan said. "Their reaction was slow and some thought the 'copter was carrying a visiting of."

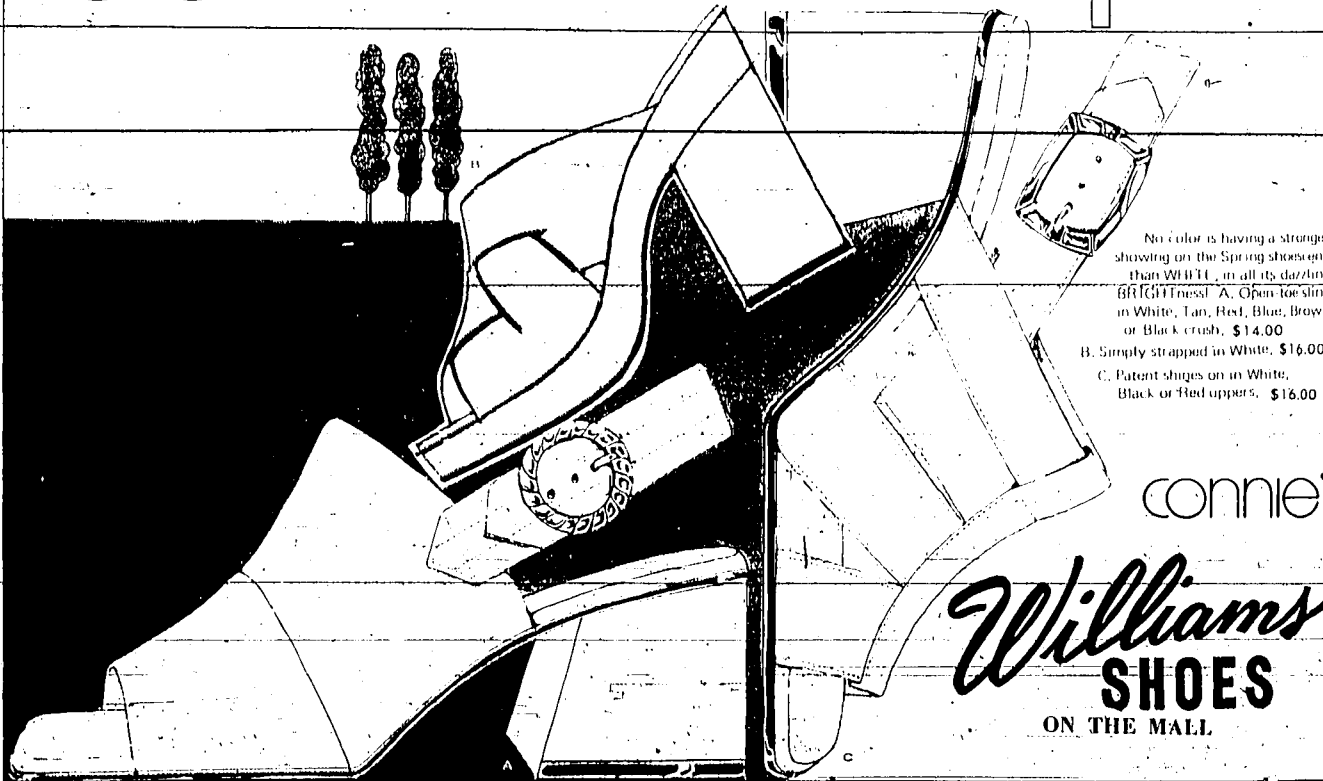

Kaplan said he would continue to hide, partly out of fear of extradition and also because he says he is afraid of the unnamed persons he insists kept him in jail.

Statement admitted at trial

GREENVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—State District Judge Hollis Garmon has tentatively accepted as evidence a statement Danny Sherman McCrary, 19, made that allegedly implicates him in the murder of a Mesquite, Tex., woman in 1971.

McCrary is on trial for the woman's death. Garmon completed a pre-trial hearing Monday and scheduled the start of jury selection today.

McCrary made the statement after his arrest in Santa Barbara, Calif., in November 1972.

Garmon said he would admit the statement pending an objection that might be lodged once a jury is selected to hear the case of the 19-year-old McCrary, charged with the murder of Jenna Covey of Mesquite.

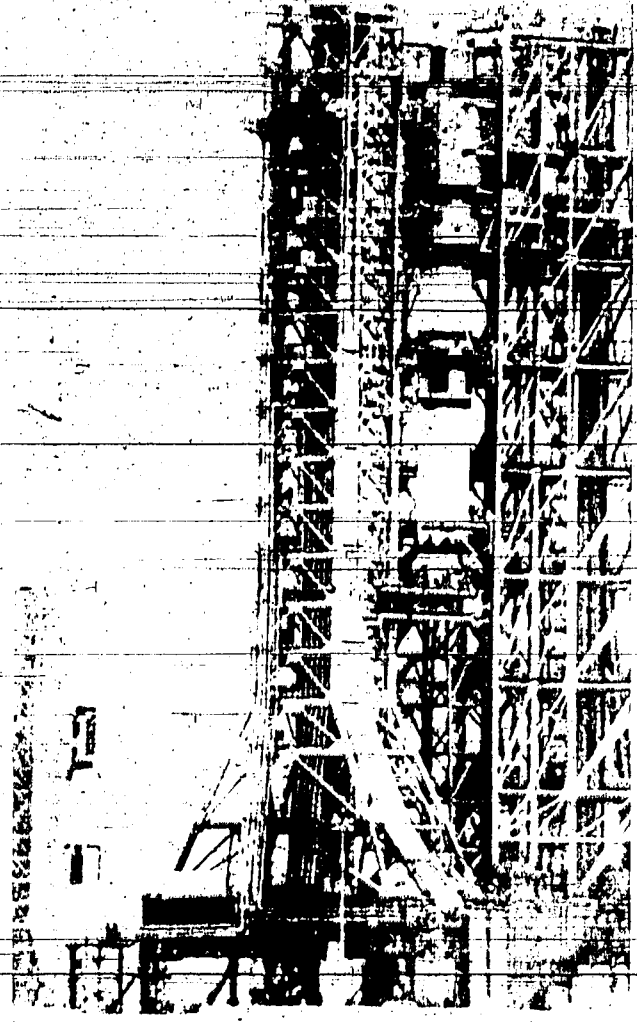

The confession was one of four state exhibits admitted into evidence during a day-long pre-trial hearing.

McCrary is being tried only for the murder of Mrs. Covey. She and her husband were abducted Oct. 17, 1971, from Mesquite and their bodies found Oct. 24 in a barn near Quinlan, a small town in Hunt County. The couple had been shot to death.

Herbert Hordan, a Mesquite police detective who took the statement, and Dallas County Deputy Sheriff Lewis Williamson testified to the statement's accuracy.

The judge denied a motion to sequester the jury, but said he might reconsider the suggestion at a later time depending on the publicity the trial receives.

McCrary is being tried under the "theory of principal," which says that he might not be one of the actual murderers but was a principal in the Covey murders.

Hagerman appeal filed

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News writer

GOODING — Hagerman residents will appeal the Gooding County commissioners' Monday approval of preliminary plats for two subdivisions in Hagerman Valley.

The controversial subdivisions, planned by Gooding County Commissioner John LeMayne, Hagerman, and Newton and Schafer, Twin Falls, will add 24 building sites to 40 acres of the valley land.

Robert Weaver, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown and the 57 signers of a petition opposing the subdivisions, said he will base the appeal to the district court on the threat to the health, safety and welfare of the area residents pursuant to section 50-1104 of the Idaho Code.

Weaver said there is a possibility of spring water contamination in the area of the proposed building sites. He said the Idaho Department of Health's approval of the subdivisions is also subject to appeal.

According to the Gooding County commissioners, the department of health has inspected the area and has given oral approval to the project. Written approval is expected immediately, they said.

Weaver and Brown met with the commissioners Monday morning to request that approval of the subdivisions be delayed until further studies can be made and until a zoning commission is established.

Weaver told the commissioners that petitioners want no more than one dwelling per five acres of land.

Nelson King, county commissioner, said the particular area under consideration would not entice anyone interested in five acres because it is non-agricultural land. He said most people coming into the valley want to retire and don't want a farm or five acres of land.

In approving the plats, Ben Glauner, commission chairman, said, "I can't see why we shouldn't approve it. We have assurances from the department of health that the project will not contaminate the water below."

"Considering all the study done on the area by the Soil Conservation office and others, I don't feel we can turn it down. We can't keep people from coming to Hagerman."

Brown, spokesman for the protesters, countered, "People are not going to encroach on us if we can help it."

Florida was acquired from Spain in 1819.
