Watergate sweeps 'palace guard,' US attorney general from office

Dakota trading post burns
PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Fire Sunday destroyed the Wounded Knee Trading Post and several smaller buildings in the historic hamlet held since Feb. 27 by militant members of the American Indian Movement and their supporters. Stanley Lyman, superintendent of the Bureau of Indian Affairs at the Pine Ridge Reservation, said the half-block long trading post building burned out of control until it finally burned itself out.

Rogers optimistic on Viet
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers expressed optimism today that the cease-fire in Vietnam would hold and serve as the basis for peace in Indochina. Rogers told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, however, that "in Southeast Asia developments have been disappointing in the last few weeks."

US, Viet envoys confer
PARIS (UPI) — U.S. and North Vietnamese officials met for the third and final time today to discuss violations of the Jan. 27 Vietnam cease-fire treaty. Deputy Assistant Secretary of State William S. Sullivan and Hanoi's Vice Minister for Foreign Affairs Nguyen Co Thach (left) said they would return to their respective capitals after the talks.

Prisoner exchange collapses
SAIGON (UPI) — The release of Vietnamese civilian prisoners broke down again today because of a disagreement over safety measures for peace-team helicopters, the Saigon command said. It was the second time the release timetable had been delayed by disputes over helicopter arrangements.

Israel, oil policy tie asked
CAIRO (UPI) — Arab oil-producing states were urged today to tie their oil policies to Arab-Israeli relations. The request was made by a Palestinian guerrilla leader, Salah Khalaf, and by Arab League leaders. Some leaders among the Arabs have suggested that action against American oil interests coincide with action against Israel.

Brandt arrives for talks
WASHINGTON (UPI) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt prepared today for talks with President Nixon Tuesday and Wednesday. Brandt arrived Sunday and U.S. officials are waiting to learn his reaction to "Atlantic charter" policy proposals outlined last week. Among topics to be discussed are American troop levels in Europe and West German financial support for those forces.

Argentine admiral slain
BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Extremists killed retired Rear Admiral Hermes Quijada today, apparently in revenge for the killing of 16 extremist prisoners at a naval base last August. The killing followed by 24 hours the abduction of Santiago Soldati, 30, son of a financier, in Argentina's 39th abduction of the year. Quijada, who retired at the end of last year, died en route to naval hospital. He was gunned down by two men on motorcycles as he left his house this morning, police said.

Thailand wants US troops out
BANGKOK (UPI) — Former Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman said today that Thailand was originally "not so willing" to have U.S. troops on its soil and urged their withdrawal now to avoid becoming "an obvious target of the Communists who... will be completely free to attack us." Thanat, who served as foreign minister for 12 years and was regarded as one of the architects of the policy which established an American military presence in Thailand, made the statement in a magazine article due to be published Tuesday. Writing in the Journal of Social Science Review, Thanat said that formulation of the Nixon doctrine meant that the United States no longer was committed to protect Thailand from Communist attack. "To agree to let that country operate a war from our territory while we are not going to have any assistance and protection from the United States as in the past, it is even more risky and there is no protection for us," Thanat said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst and three trusted White House aides — H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III — were swept out of office today by the Watergate bugging scandal. A statement by Nixon, released by White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, said all four submitted their resignations, which were accepted by the President. Nixon immediately named Defense Secretary Elliot L. Richardson to succeed Kleindienst, and the President arranged to make a nationwide broadcast tonight at 7 p.m. MDT. The White House announcement said Richardson, who took over as head of the Pentagon only in January, would take full command of the Justice Department's investigation of the break-in and bugging of Democratic headquarters at the Watergate June 17. Ziegler read the announcement from Nixon that the President had accepted the resignations of his two "closest friends and trusted assistants," Haldeman and Ehrlichman, and wished to emphasize that "neither should be seen as evidence of wrongdoing." "Any such assumption would be unfair and unfounded," the Nixon statement said.

The President was absent from Washington at his Camp David, Md., mountaintop retreat — where for the past four days he has deliberated his Watergate options. He left it to Ziegler to announce the resignations. Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Dean have been members of the Nixon staff since he came to the White House. Kleindienst also is a long-time Nixon supporter who last year succeeded John N. Mitchell as attorney general. Mitchell's name has been linked recently with Watergate disclosures in the newspapers.

The President conferred at Camp David with Haldeman and Ehrlichman at their request, Ziegler said. He also met with Kleindienst, Richardson and Leonard Garment, a special White House consultant that Nixon designated to succeed Dean as acting legal counsel.

The resignations came amid growing pressures from within the Republican party for a house-cleaning and full disclosure of the facts of administration involvement in the Watergate bugging.

Among the latest urging these steps was Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who served as attorney general in the Eisenhower administration and is an intimate of Nixon.

The President's statement said Kleindienst asked to be relieved as attorney general "because he felt that he could not appropriately continue as head of the Justice Department now that it appears its investigation of the Watergate and related cases may implicate individuals with whom he has had a close personal and professional association."

Speaking of Haldeman and Ehrlichman, Nixon said: "Throughout our association, each of these men has demonstrated a spirit of selflessness and dedication that I have seldom seen equaled. Their contributions to the work of this administration have been enormous. I greatly regret their departure."

Of Kleindienst, Nixon said: "In making this decision, Mr. Kleindienst has acted in accordance with the highest standards of public service and legal ethics. I am accepting his resignation with regret and with deep appreciation for his dedicated service to this administration."

But the reference to acceptance of the resignation of Dean was dismissed with one sentence in the statement, and there was no mention that Dean's resignation should not be considered evidence of wrongdoing.

Dean issued a statement about 10 days ago — not cleared with the White House — saying he did not intend to become a scapegoat in the Watergate case. This followed published reports that investigators had been told that Dean was a key figure in the Watergate plot.

Henry sets Moscow trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger will fly to Moscow later this week for talks with Leonid I. Brezhnev, Soviet Communist Party leader, it was learned today.

Reliable administration sources said Kissinger would leave Washington Thursday and begin consultations Friday with Soviet officials. The talks are expected to last four or five days.

Kissinger, President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser, is expected to lay the ground for Brezhnev's trip to Washington, expected to take place in late June.

The agenda for Kissinger's conversations with Russian leaders will include nuclear arms limitations, mutual reductions of troops in Europe and improved trade relations as part of a continuation of improvement of U.S.-Soviet relations.

Progress was made in arrangements for Brezhnev to visit the United States when Soviet officials, in communications with the President, gave assurances recently that Russian Jews would now be permitted to emigrate to Israel without having to pay an exit tax.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow has been without an ambassador since Jan. 24 when Jacob D. Bean left after resigning the post.

There has been speculation that future of the President to name a successor to Bean has been a matter of concern to Soviet officials.

The post of ambassador to Moscow is traditionally filled by a career diplomat with long experience in East-West relations.

Minidoka aide Hollenbeck dies

RUPERT — Wayne Hollenbeck, 69, Rupert, chairman of the Minidoka County Commission, died Sunday afternoon of an apparent heart attack.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Minidoka Memorial Hospital.

He had served as chairman of the commission since January, 1971. He was first elected to the county commission in 1968 and was re-elected in 1970.

During Mr. Hollenbeck's term of office, he assisted with planning the Minidoka County Jail which is now under construction, and helped with plans for remodeling of the Minidoka County Court House. Another commission project he worked with was creation of Emerald Lake Park.

He and Elmer Ketterling and Lyle Burton, the other commission members, have been considering plans to add a new wing to the Minidoka County Court House.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus will appoint a commission member to serve the remainder of Mr. Hollenbeck's term following consultation with the county central committee.

He was born in Raymond, Neb., and moved with his parents to the area west of Pail when he was one year old. He has lived in the Minidoka area since.

Raids force Red retreat

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian Communist troops disappeared today from the east bank of the Mekong river opposite Phnom Penh after what field reports described as "deadly accurate" American bombing raids.

The U.S. strikes Sunday came after a 24-hour break in the U.S. diplomatic sources said, by concern about possible civilian casualties.

In Ho Chi Minh, the U.S. Pacific Command did not mention the suspension, but said in a Sunday report that B52s and other warplanes entered the fourth month of their raids: As usual, it gave no details.

In Phnom Penh, military spokesmen and sources said heavy fighting persisted in several parts of Cambodia, the only country in Indochina with no formal truce agreement.

The field reports said there was no resistance today as a 1,300-man Cambodian task force cleared a three-mile stretch of the riverbank. Cambodian military authorities said the area was "liberated" and Communist forces driven away.

Military sources said the Communist retreat followed pinpoint bombing raids by U.S. Air Force F-4 Phantoms dropping napalm canisters as well as cluster and 500-pound bombs.

The sources said the raids were so accurate that for the present, Cambodian air force single-engine T28 bombers were all that were needed to protect the region.

No U.S. air strikes were flown across the Mekong today, in contrast with the heavy raids Sunday that attracted thousands of onlookers to the banks of the river on the Phnom Penh waterfront.

Bombs still in rubble

ROSEVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Stunned residents returned to their shrapnel-riddled homes Sunday night, although unexploded bombs still lay in smoking rubble of the nearby freight yard where a munitions train blast shook a 100-mile area.

Demolition experts said they would return today to attempt clearing debris and dangerous TNT fragments from the Southern Pacific switching yard, where they were driven back by sporadic explosions Sunday night.

Persons returning to their shattered homes less than a mile from the yard were warned there was no gas or electricity and were told, "Do not light any fire or drink any water."

A series of explosions that started at 8:03 a.m. Saturday morning rocked the Roseville area and blew out windows, buckled walls and toppled fences. There were less than 50 persons injured, only a few seriously, and 20,000 persons evacuated their homes.

Investigators said they do not know the cause of the fire that started in one of 21 boxcars carrying 7,050 Navy Mark 81 "general purpose" bombs destined for Cambodia.

At least 700 homes were damaged in the resulting series of blasts and Sacramento County Sheriff Duane Lowe said the total disaster figure would exceed $2.25 million.

Owners of homes in Grand Oaks subdivision returned to find caved in ceilings, warped walls and shattered dishes.

"I thought somebody had driven their car through my living room," Jay Smith, a fork lift operator, recalled. "Then when I got my head together I thought it must be an airplane crash. Then I heard 'boom-boom-boom-boom' and I didn't know what the hell it was."

Sheriff Lowe said residents were permitted to return home because the immediate danger from severe explosions was over, although secondary blasts could occur. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bobbitt was one couple who had nothing to return to.

Quints stable

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The smallest of the quintuplets born Thursday to a woman who took fertility pills was reported improved today and may soon be out of a respirator.

Authorities at Bass Kaiser Hospital said Diana Katherine Anderson's condition, listed as critical but stable during the weekend, had improved this morning.

"She is a little better. We have cut her oxygen to 30 percent and are thinking of taking the respirator off later today," a hospital spokesman said.

The other four quintuplets born to Mr. and Mrs. Eric Anderson, British Prairie, Wash. — three boys and a girl — were considered in stable condition. They were breathing room air and receiving sugar water through intravenous feedings. All were being fed some baby formula and have received periodic blood transfusions.

Boise firm low bidder

BOISE (UPI) — The Schell Construction Co., Boise, is apparent low among five bidders for construction of a new clinic and a new administration building at the new prison site south of Gowen Field.

But Public Works Commissioner Max A. Boesiger said the company's offer of $1.34 million for the two structures was above department estimates of $900,000 to $1 million.

Arbor Day
JEROME HIGH SCHOOL students Jennell Mobley, left, Chuck Cox, Wilbert Priest and Kathie Emerson, plant trees in front of the school. The pines were purchased from Idaho State University for the Jerome schools and were planted on Arbor Day.

Trees planted

JEROME — Students at Jerome Schools Friday planted 275 Ponderosa pine around the school grounds for Arbor Day.

Jerome County agent Wilbert Priest obtained the trees from the University of Idaho under a special program of supplying trees to the public.

High school principal Jerry Diehl said the trees have been planted in several flower beds at the schools and in other protected areas to give them a chance to grow. They will be transplanted in a few years to other locations around the schools, he said.

Agent feted

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls 4-H Builders Club had a going away party for Richard Feuhrer, county extension agent, at a meeting Saturday.

Kurt Daw gave a good luck speech. Feuhrer responded with a farewell speech.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. May 31 at the Idaho Power Auditorium.

Question...

Under what circumstances is an amount for funeral expenses available under the Railroad Retirement Act?

Answer...

If an employee who is completely or partially insured under the Railroad Retirement Act dies leaving no survivor eligible for an annuity at the time of his death, a lump sum is payable. This is equal to ten times the basic amount, and is paid to the surviving widow if she was legally living with her husband when he died.

If there is no eligible spouse, and the funeral expenses are unpaid, the lump sum may be assigned to our funeral home by the person who assumed the responsibility for those expenses. If our costs are paid, reimbursement will be made to the person who paid them. This will be either the amount he paid, or the lump sum maximum. Under certain circumstances the lump sum may be paid to us, without an assignment, if no one assumed responsibility for the funeral costs.

Woman

BOISE (UPI) — The correctional staff at the Idaho State Prison soon will have its second woman member and she happens to be the wife of one of the correctional officers.

Raymond May, director of corrections, said it is just a coincidence that there will be a husband and wife team with the hiring of Mrs. Steve Ware.

May said Mrs. Ware will have to go through the regular training for correctional officers, including firearms and self defense instruction.

"There's no exceptions made," he said.

Mrs. Ware's salary will be the same as men hired from the state personnel commission registry for comparable work, May said.

Her duties probably will be in the visiting room and mail room — "captain's clerk, that type of thing," he said. Another woman, Mrs. Margaret Cary, already works in the mail room.

BOB ADAMSON
Vice President of Curtis Mathes

What if we offered to fix your color t.v. free of charge for four years?

If you purchase a Techna 3 by Curtis Mathes that's what We'll Do.*

This fantastic warranty policy was just announced and it has put the TV industry in an uproar like it has never seen before.

Everyone is asking, "How is this possible when the other manufacturers give only one year on parts & labor?"

There is only one answer: the new revolutionary 100% solid state modular Techna 3 chassis is just that much better, and because of the policies established by Curtis Mathes many years ago, including no national advertising costs & selling by the van load directly to dealers (no middlemen), you buy Curtis Mathes for less.

The 8 year picture tube warranty remains unchanged — 100% coverage for 2 years (like the others) plus an additional 6 year prorated coverage, where repair costs are shared with you.

In a recent study it was learned that to get a similar warranty from anyone else, it would cost you $300. With all of this added protection plus beautiful cabinetry and the finest picture in the industry, Curtis Mathes still costs you less.

I urge you to see Techna 3. I assure you there is nothing as good, it is at least 2 years ahead of the industry. I made a trip to the factory and saw Techna 3 engineering and production first hand.

You always find Magic Valley's largest selection in our store

*There will be no charge for parts on labor for 4 years if set is brought to our shop or if our technicians are asked to call at your home. There will be a travel allowance of $10.00 charged to cover cost of equipment and personell if they come to your home — after the first 90 days.

This service plan applies to every community in Magic Valley that is regularly covered by our service trucks.

Receptions honor two local women

By LORAYNE SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — More than 500 persons turned out Sunday to show appreciation for two well-known Twin Falls women.

The honorees at two separate receptions were Mary Helen Perry, retiring principal at Washington school, and Mary McClusky, 1973 Idaho mother of the year.

An estimated 350 persons, including many past students and their parents, went through the receiving line at Washington school. Many of the same people also went to the Turf Club where the Twin Falls Rotary club honored Mrs. McClusky.

The guest list at the Idaho mother of the year reception numbered about 200, according to Karen Rosholt, who headed the arrangements for the event at which her husband, John, Rotary president, served as master of ceremonies.

Rosholt presented Mrs. McClusky a proclamation from Gov. Cecil Andrus naming Sunday as Mary McClusky day and setting May 8-13 as Idaho Mothers Week, as well as personal letter of congratulation from the governor.

Mrs. Helen Henderson, Twin Falls, president of the Idaho Mothers organization, said that long before racial equality was emphasized, the Mother of the Year program was honoring mothers regardless of race and creed.

She introduced past Idaho mothers, including Mrs. Gwen

Rice, Hill City, 1968; Mrs. Marion Kirby, Cascade, 1958; Marjan Langdon, Twin Falls, 1952, and Mrs. Richard York, Montour, runner-up in 1965.

Lawrence Vecora, Twin Falls, president of the Magic Valley Gem Club, presented Mrs. McClusky plus an Idaho garnet to give to each state mother at the national event May 8-13 in Denver.

Mrs. McClusky spoke briefly during the ceremonies, reporting that an American Mother park will be dedicated during the National Mother of the Year contest. Each state mother has been asked to bring a native stone from her state to be placed in a bird bath at the park.

Through efforts of the Gem club, Mrs. McClusky said, she will "proudly take a polished Bruneau Jasper rock to represent Idaho," promising to "place it in the most prominent place I can."

Twin Falls Mayor John Christoffersen also proclaimed Sunday as Mary McClusky day in Twin Falls.

Highlight of the reception for Mrs. Perry was the surprise visit of her son, Loyal, and daughter, Martha, both of whom live in Boise.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Mary Ann White, reception chairman, Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Ragland and Mr. and Mrs. Camden Meyer, as well as Mrs. Perry. Dr. Ragland was superintendent during much of the time Mrs. Perry served as principal and teacher, and Meyer is currently assistant superintendent.

Evelyn Carey, Washington teacher, in charge of the luncheon, said most of the women pouring were retired teachers. They included Mrs. Gladys Boyd, Mrs. Mae Browning, Mrs. Marjorie Miller, Mrs. Ellen Brose, Mrs. Edith Miller, Mrs. Art Kleinkopf and Beulah Way, and Frances Anderson, former teacher at Washington, now principal at Harrison.

U of I takes contest honors

TWIN FALLS — Individual and team honors in the second annual Northwest Meat Animal and Carcass Evaluation contest went to the University of Idaho Saturday.

Results of the two-day contest were announced at the close of competition Saturday. The Idaho team scored 6,900 points, with Steve Lathrop, Casper, Wyo., a member of the winning team, the top individual with 1,715. Larry Elsberry, Idaho Falls, was second among individual contestants with 1,715.

Washington State University placed second with 6,720 and

New Mexico State — the winner in 1972 — was third.

Eight teams from western colleges and universities, totalling 80 contestants, competed. The contestants judged beef, swine and sheep in three divisions — market animal, carcass and breeding animal. The contest was conducted at the Independent Meat Co. plant here. That firm, the University of Idaho and Washington State University sponsored the contest.

Among members of the Idaho team were Stan Ricketts, Jerome; Bill McGowan, Challis, and Walter Trill, King Hill.

COMMENT

Politics-Prospects

Christian Science Monitor None of the people overseas to whom the Kissinger speech was aimed can be unaware of the domestic political context of the speech.

It was not delivered as a diversion from Watergate. It had been written and scheduled before anyone could know that Monday, April 23, would happen to come when the floodgates had just been opened by President Nixon's acceptance of the existence of much wrong within his White House family and had ordered full exposure, and correction.

But overseas, in every foreign office, there will be the inevitable question. Does it matter right now what new foreign policy is being proposed by the Nixon administration? Need we pay any attention to anything coming out of the Nixon White House?

Our answer is, yes, and more than ever. Pay every attention. This is important foreign policy, and it is made all the more, not less, worthy of attention by the whole Watergate business. That business has damaged the domestic side of the White House staff. But that damage has made the uncatched foreign policy side all the more important.

Besides, the speech was made by Mr. Kissinger whose own personal position in the White House is enormously strengthened by recent Watergate events.

As a foreign-born "ethnic" he was the odd man in Nixonland — until Watergate. Had there been no Watergate he would probably soon have been squeezed out. His foreign policy would have enjoyed diminishing weight and importance.

But there has been Watergate. At this writing it is being reported that much of the domestic side of the Nixon staff will be leaving.

But Mr. Kissinger, and also William Rogers over at the State Department, are untouched. Their policies are unscratched. Mr. Kissinger has become the indispensable man at the White House and his policies have become Mr. Nixon's only surviving basis for an important niche in history.

Also, the new policy of reviving the American relationships with Western Europe and Japan is bipartisan and enjoys general support among Democrats and liberal Republicans. It has the broadest possible base and will be continued no matter how much the Nixon administration is damaged politically by Watergate.

Hence we urge the men in high places in Western Europe and Japan to read the Kissinger speech carefully, ponder it thoughtfully, and shape their own policies to it. Its purposes are right and sound and we are confident it reflects the continuing main stream of American foreign policy.

Oregon Trail

IDAHO STATE JOURNAL Concern that the Idaho Highway Department may ignore historical and environmental considerations in routing the Interstate Highway near Massacre Rocks west of American Falls appears misplaced.

SOME ENVIRONMENTALISTS have expressed a fear the highway department would "ramrod a freeway" through one of the key areas of the old Oregon Trail.

To the contrary, asserts a highway official, who says there will be a definite effort to preserve the Oregon Trail and to avoid infringing on a state park nearby.

Plans call for routing the freeway over the present Highway 30, which may be one of the things worrying the preservationists, since the present route is close to the areas of concern. But the highway department plans rest areas at either end of the park, with identification signs noting the historic spots. There will also be a rest area along the Snake River, and two pedestrian overpasses are planned so people can walk to a spot where wagon ruts left by the Oregon pioneers are still visible. At Coldwater Hill, about seven miles west of Massacre Rocks, a land owner has given the state 13 acres for a rest area with a foot trail to the rutted area.

A highway official says the department has worked closely with historian Merle Wells to pinpoint the Oregon Trail, which actually is a series of ruts several hundred yards wide, rather than a single narrow trail. A consulting engineer is working on an environmental impact statement covering nine miles of planned Interstate, which is expected by July 1. Then one or more public hearings will be held.

It is interesting to learn that the historic massacre of several members of a wagon party by Indians did not occur at the site, commonly referred to as Massacre Rocks. The massacre was about three miles away.

Two wagon trains identified as the Smart train and the Adams train were attacked about noon on Aug. 9, 1862, and three pioneers were killed. The survivors fled to the rocks, burying the victims there, and giving the site its enduring name.

THE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT says it is working with the state parks department on the project and "hopefully we have very good rapport." That is encouraging, and should help avoid a serious confrontation over building the Interstate. If the highway department is as concerned as it appears, it should be able to satisfy the legitimate concerns of everyone with a minimum of fuss.

Screaming

SAWTOOTH MOUNTAINEER There was a time when you couldn't make a local resident move out of this area unless you used force and dragged him. Those days are gone, it seems.

There is an increasing number of people who cannot stand the screaming, immature behavior of those who would like to turn the clock back three years, before these same screamers arrived.

This has always been a peaceful people place, until recently. Now the sound of the birds is drowned out by table-pounding. You can't hear the song of the rivers above the shouts for a return to nature. You can't talk in peace on your neighbor's patio because the fellow next door is holding an organizational meeting in his back yard, for an uprising against whatever is handy.

Apparently the subject matter has become immaterial to the screamers. Someone said recently that the college rioters of the 1960s have settled in Blaine County. Perhaps many of them have.

Anyone who has lived here when it was a peaceful place and a happy place would gladly trade you all those table-poundingers for any well-designed flow development. And stop that screaming ... screaming ... screaming ...

WASHINGTON — Operating in a brooding, tomlike White House where presidential aides fear to speak out loud in the White House mess about the spreading ramifications of Watergate, President Nixon has now reached a key decision, the effect of which is to reject most of the advice pouring in on him from his few old and trusted friends. The decision: not to fire White House staff chief H. R. (Bob) Halderman and not to attempt the grand overhaul of the White House staff which most leaders of his party insist on if there is to be any restoration of confidence. Mrs. Nixon, according to one of the very few intimates who enjoy his trust today, has thus decided, as of now, to ride out the storm as best he can with Halderman still at his side. If Halderman is indicted by the Watergate grand jury, this presidential decision will obviously not survive. Mr. Nixon has said that any aide indicted would be suspended and any aide convicted would be fired.

But quite apart from the possible indictment or conviction of tough, crewcut staff boss Halderman, Mr. Nixon's tentative decision to keep him as top presidential aide is certain to multiply Republican party wrath over the mushy way in which Mr. Nixon has dealt with the Watergate crisis thus far.

For it has long been a well-established political fact in Mr. Nixon's Washington that Halderman, more than any other White House aide, is the symbol of everything that Republican politicians loathe about the President's secretive, autocratic, suspicious and politically ignorant inner staff.

Precisely for that reason, the President has been strongly advised by old friends (whom he has been consulting nonstop since he went to Key Biscayne last week) that any post-Watergate fresh start must begin with a cleaning-out of his White House staff, with Halderman the first to go.

One wise purveyor of just such advice has been Secretary of State William P. Rogers, the suave old pal who helped Mr. Nixon through some of his other self-styled "crises." Rogers has argued for a thorough housecleaning, not just to satisfy the immediate legal and political requirements of Watergate but to attempt a long-overdue change in bitter antagonisms of Republican Congressmen toward the White House.

Similar advice has come to the President from trusted Manhattan lawyers to whom he occasionally turns for counsel, and from Robert Finch, an intimate political colleague who predates the Nixon-Halderman relationship. Finch was driven out of the first Nixon administration — partly by Halderman himself.

Moreover, Mr. Nixon is beginning to learn that his White House staff, particularly Halderman and the network of eager Halderman men in and beyond the White House, are feared and hated throughout the federal bureaucracy for the same reasons they are loathed on Capitol Hill: dictatorial decisions, lack of comprehension — about the rudiments of good politics, and contempt for everyone else.

In short, the rising Republican anger at Halderman — though still on the level of private communications — is directed against the very excesses inside the White House that permitted Watergate to be conceived and directed in the first place.

Why, then, has Mr. Nixon tentatively decided to hang on to Halderman? The answer may lie in the failure to find a substitute, such as Melvin R. Laird or John B. Connally, neither of whom would take the top White House job. Possibly the answer is to be found in the President's notorious resistance to any avoidable staff change.

There is one other hypothesis: that Mr. Nixon is planning a secret, wholly unexpected strategy in dealing with Watergate, a strategy of counterattack in which Halderman's continued presence by his side is necessary.

The real answer is concealed in the silent, brooding White House, with many other still unanswered questions: It will probably stay concealed until Mr. Nixon gives his own version of Watergate to the American people, now planned for next week.

PAUL HARVEY

Discrimination

We've had a sick situation in Chicago.

The FEPC (Fair Employment Practices Commission) says the city is 20 percent black so you, Mr. Employer, must employ 20 percent blacks — qualified or not.

Then, while government holds this sword of Damocles over your head, you are visited by an individual or a delegation from some-or-another "rights" organization offering to keep the heat off for a year in exchange for a "contribution."

Thus, a protection racket as blatant as Al Capone's enjoys the complicity of the federal government.

The Supreme Court is now considering the quota system and whether this effort to end discrimination has not, instead, resulted in enforced discrimination.

Mr. Larry Lavinsky, chairman of the Anti-Defamation League's national law committee, believes quotas are unlawful and ultimately will be struck down by the Supreme Court. And, by the way, he refers to educational as well as employment quotas.

Mr. Lavinsky cites the Fourteenth Amendment which ordains that no state shall deny to any person ... the equal protection of the laws.

If all persons stand equal before the laws of the states a quota in favor of nonwhites contradicts that law.

It should be remembered that this constitutional lawyer is by preference and precedent on the side of the racial and ethnic minorities.

Mr. Lavinsky believes true equality of opportunity for minorities to be one of the most urgent priorities of our time. But, he says, the use of quotas cannot be justified by arguing that they are "necessary to end discrimination."

You don't determine what is legal by what seems needed. There is evidence that the U.S. Supreme Court is moving toward this view.

In Hughes vs. California the issue was whether black clerks should be employed in proportion to black customers, and the Supreme Court majority took the position opposed to racial quotas.

Chief Justice Warren Burger has stated in effect that discrimination against any group is not correctable by discrimination in favor of any group.

In Carter vs. Gallagher, the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals considered the all-white Minneapolis fire department where a one-to-two hiring ratio was imposed in an effort to force the employment of blacks.

And the court found that "giving preference to a minority over whites who were equally or better qualified" violates the Fourteenth Amendment.

President Nixon has ordered an end to quota systems for hiring government employees.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is now implementing an Executive Order that warns universities

Twice A Year

WASHINGTON — Twice a year, by law, every reporter covering Washington should be required to join the tourists marching through the Capitol buildings, planted astride Pennsylvania Avenue like a temple.

The places and has been a refuge for some politicians and fools, but somehow it has retained its beauty and dignity as the symbol of the Great Experiment called government by the people.

Parking about in its corridors and cul de sacs, only an insensitive owl can fail to be seized by something approaching awe. The system may fall short of its founders' ideals, but the Capitol seems to promise it yet will work.

There was a group of Italian school children on hand the other day and suddenly their solemn faces and their hushed attention to the guide carried me back to the day I covered a sightseeing tour by three middle-level officials of the Soviet Union, come to observe an American election campaign. Their names were Solovev, Kudryavtsev and Rubinshtein, and they reminded me that national pride can be pardonable.

Almost from the moment the trio started up the steep front steps of the nation's legislative heart and soul, it was different from the rest of their sightseeing day. Here, high on Capitol Hill, they looked like men who were finally seeing something important.

"It is like Roman buildings," said Rubinshtein. "It is classical. It speaks to you of something good."

They strode through the corridors and into the Vice President's office. They were respectful of the respect in the guide's voice as he told of how Jefferson had bought the crystal chandelier in Paris. They chuckled happily when that any preferential treatment for minorities may result in "reverse

discrimination."

Mr. Lavinsky nutshells the Supreme Court's eventual consideration.

"Discrimination against black people was wrong. Discrimination against white people is wrong. The problem of achieving an integrated society is far too complex to indulge in the simplistic notion that two wrongs will somehow make it all come out right."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Alcoholism

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband is an alcoholic. I hate the life we're living, yet I sympathize with him because I understand his craving. I crave sweets constantly and can't leave them alone when they're in the house.

The difference is that he is drugged and I'm not, and he will die of alcohol (his liver has begun to be affected) long before I'll die of sweets.

He went to one meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous but it completely turned him off and he refuses to go back. The Alcoholics Treatment Center at our local hospital would insist on his living there a month, and he is self-employed with too much at stake to give up a month's work.

I have heard more and more of hypnotism joining hands with medicine. Could a hypnotist convince an alcoholic that he craves ginger ale instead of liquor? I realize this would be an easy way out — but what else is there?

If you think hypnotism would be worth a try I would gladly consider the trouble and expense, but I would want to know the name and address of a competent man in our area.

What else is there than the "easy way"? The hard way? Hypnosis is generally oversimplified — and it is oversimplifying to think that an alcoholic can be hypnotized by preferring ginger ale.

In a nutshell, hypnosis is a means of "cramping" one's thinking, but it doesn't change an underlying personality. For example, a patient might be hypnotized into giving up smoking — and turn to overeating instead. And then be hypnotically lured off food — and turn to booze. And from booze to drugs. Psychiatrists have recounted such cases to me, with the ultimate result, that the patient had to have extensive psychiatric care. In some instances, the final outcome was suicide.

Therefore I suggest that you NOT resort to hypnotism unless you do it under the care and direction of a qualified psychiatrist and in that case, psychiatric investigation of your husband's need to drink, may be the better way.

Campaign obscured Watergate mess

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After 10 months, why did the Watergate case suddenly become an issue of burning public concern? Was it because James McCord suddenly began talking about higher-ups, with suggestions that some top people in the White House might have been involved? Does it really seem more likely now than last summer that three relatively well-placed former employees of the White House and employees of President Nixon's campaign organization were on their own when they broke into Democratic headquarters? Interviews by Syracuse University political scientists indicated that people who were solid for George S. McGovern thought Watergate was an outrage. Those who supported Nixon either dismissed Watergate as an example of dirty politics engaged in by both sides, or else was a plot concocted by Democrats to seize attention.

What happened Nov. 17, 1972, confirms that Nixon followed exactly the right strategy last summer and fall — sat back and projected the image of the dignified statesman, removed from all the thrashing about that McGovern had to go through trying to start his campaign rolling. Aloffness on Watergate was part of the strategy. It worked. So how come people are stirred up now about Watergate? Another suggestion: once the business of choosing between Nixon and McGovern was over, the people — from Judge Sirica to the hard hat — demanded to know what the hell really happened. They were interested because high mucky-mucks appeared to be involved — but not necessarily morally outraged by one political party's effort to break into the offices of another. In fact, a new Gallup Poll shows high interest in Watergate but with 58 per cent of the people regarding it as "typical" politics. The President, who sees political timing as a most important ingredient of success, apparently ran out the string too long on his campaign strategy of the least said is the best.

Energy crisis, Mideast linked

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst As the world's industrial nations face up to a growing energy crisis, they also may be forced to reassess their relations with Israel vs. the Arab oil producing states. It becomes increasingly so as the Arab nations step up action to reclaim their natural resources from western companies and as governments react with increasing awareness to the knowledge that for the next 20 years or so they must depend for vital oil supplies upon a region noted for its instability and political volatility. More than 60 per cent of the world's known oil reserves center upon the region around and distribution of the oil remained primarily in the hands of United States and other western producers. Accompanying the changing picture are increasingly shrill Arab denunciations of the United States and its role as chief supporter of Israel and its main supplier of war material. In Cairo, the editor of the newspaper Al Akhbar called for a boycott against "every thing American," so that the White House will come to realize what a high price it will have to pay.

More important than mere words, was a warning from Saudi Arabia's minister of petroleum that his country would find it difficult to increase oil production if the United States did not help to bring about a political settlement in the Middle East satisfactory to the Arab states. By this he was understood to mean pressure upon Israel to yield territory seized in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. It was especially noteworthy because Saudi Arabia is rated a friend of the United States and for this and reasons of its own development needs has been reluctant to join in past threats of an anti-U.S. boycott.

Of some 365 billion barrels of oil estimated in Mideastern oil reserves, Saudi Arabia's share is placed at 160 billion barrels. While not a military factor against Israel, Saudi Arabia contributes substantially to Egypt to make up for loss of the Suez Canal and is said to lend support to Palestinian commands to the tune of $75 million annually. Any Arab action threatening severe test — the Washington policy which has been to retain Arab good will but at the same time to bolster Israel military with aid which currently is running at about $500 million per year.

It would add a new and potentially devastating twist to the boycott with which the 18-nation Arab league for nearly 30 years has been challenging those American firms doing business in or with Israel. It has largely been ineffective but oil would be something else.

Flood damage soars

By United Press International
The record crest of the Mississippi River picked up speed today as it surged down river, assailing already strained dikes and levees and threatening to engulf the countryside along its banks. Behind the historic crest, the mighty river's muddy waters crept slowly back toward their banks, giving back the land they had taken. Officials stood on the silt-covered land and assessed the damages of the river's third rampage of this month.

Damage estimates soared past $500 million in the seven Mississippi Valley states and Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana have yet to feel the full fury of the surging river.

The Mississippi is higher than it has ever been since white settlers began measuring it more than two centuries ago.

The current flood has inundated at least 11 million acres of normally dry land and driven uncounted tens of thousands of families from their homes. In Missouri alone, some 17,000 persons have been left homeless by the flood.

The river crested during the weekend at St. Louis, Mo., and began to fall slowly.

The powerful river poured past the Gateway Arch at St. Louis at the rate of 6 million gallons per second and throngs of sightseers went to the riverfront Sunday to get a glimpse of the river level never before achieved.

Oil firms reap big profits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., has charged that the major oil companies are reaping huge profits by "exploiting" the nation's energy crisis.

Major oil companies' profits are sky-rocketing, while American consumers face shortages of increased prices, Aspin said in a statement Sunday. "Clearly, the giant oil monopoly is making out like a bandit, scooping up huge windfall profits as a result of recent fuel oil and gasoline shortages."

He warned that the large firms are planning to eliminate competition from independent gasoline dealers by driving them out of business this summer.

"Once the majors drive the independent dealers out of business they will have a free hand to jack up prices," the Wisconsin liberal charged. "Since every cent increase in gasoline costs consumers a billion dollars, the loss of competition will be a disaster for American consumers."

Reform of tax asked for rich

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration today proposed an $800 million increase in the tax liability of the very rich, designed to prevent millionaires from escaping taxation.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz advanced the White House's tax reform proposal in a long-awaited appearance before the House Ways and Means Committee.

His plan fell far short of proposals advanced by liberals. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, for example, seeks to raise the taxes paid by business and the wealthy by $16 billion, and the AFL-CIO has offered a $29 billion tax reform plan. But Shultz, briefing newsmen, said such plans destroy the incentive to invest and could act as a brake on economic growth.

Shultz' plan would also: Create a new tax incentive to spur domestic oil exploration. Taxpayers searching for domestic oil or gas wells could subtract up to 12 per cent of their costs from federal taxes. The Treasury would lose an estimated $50 million. Liberals were likely to attack this idea as creating a new loophole.

Permit parents earning under $18,000 to get a refund or subtract from the taxes they owe, up to $200 a year, for each child attending a private or parochial grade or high school. This tax credit would lose $450 million a year for the Treasury.

Give $500 million in tax relief to moderate-income people over 65. They would be eligible for a tax credit—a subtraction from taxes owed or a refund—of up to $500 a year for property taxes which amount to more than 5 per cent of their annual income. Tenants would consider 15 per cent of their rent as going for property taxes.

Offer municipalities and states a federal subsidy equal to 30 per cent of their interest costs if they choose to float bonds paying taxable interest. Such bonds are now all tax exempt and some millionaires escape taxes by deriving all their income from such bonds.

Shultz told reporters his plan would reduce to "close to zero" the number of high-income individuals able to manipulate their income so as to wind up owing the government nothing. They numbered 106 in 1970 and 72 in 1971.

Some would still escape taxes, and by buying bonds he said, but the reforms would make it harder for "smart lawyers" employed at "high fees" to discover other legal ways to avoid taxes.

Correspondent upholds Nixon

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—A senior White House correspondent says the Watergate affair will cause a "let-up in the campaign against the press" by the Nixon administration.

Helen Thomas of UPI told a meeting of journalists Saturday night that the Watergate scandal "will go at least to the doors of the Oval Office."

However, Miss Thomas said she is convinced the President "originally knew nothing" about the budding of Democratic national headquarters last year.

"It boggles the mind how isolated he really was," she told a northeastern region conference of Sigma Delta Chi.

Teenager charged

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI)—Police charged Jimmy Massey, an 18-year-old "beatnik" newspaper delivery boy, with six counts of first degree murder for the weekend apartment house fire that killed six elderly widows.

"I would say he's not the normal all-American type kid you generally run into," Nick Tomasic, the district attorney who will prosecute Massey, said Sunday.

Tomasic has asked a court to certify a 16-year-old boy who allegedly helped Massey as an adult so he, too, can be tried for murder. "The only indication we have for them starting the fire is just to get the thrill, the kicks. There is no other kind of motive," Massey said they just wanted to start a fire and watch it burn," the prosecutor said.

The blaze quickly spread throughout the two-story structure. The six elderly women died of smoke inhalation.

Tomasic said the 16-year-old has admitted to starting as many as 20 fires recently.

"Massey appears to be the beatnik type, the type kid who stays out till 2 or 3 in the morning at the local pool hall," Tomasic said. "His parents are separated, and he just has a free run."

Massey was held today in lieu of $50,000 bond pending a preliminary hearing Thursday.

Health benefits lost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sick and aged widows in many states are finding that a slight rise in their Social Security benefits has resulted in their losing other health benefits worth much more.

"They are robbing me," a partially blind Dumas, Tex., widow wrote the President in one of a number of letters coming in to both the White House and congressmen on the subject.

According to the letters, slight increases given widows in benefits are causing many of them to become ineligible to receive much greater benefits in the form of subsidized nursing home care, drugs and other medical aid.

A similar problem arose last year involving medical assistance through Medicaid for other persons who got Social Security increases. Congress remedied that.

But Congress overlooked similar protection for the 3.75-million widows whose benefits were increased by the Social Security Amendments of 1972.

The problem is that when income reaches a certain level, persons are no longer eligible for welfare and Medicaid.

An Alabama woman wrote to state and federal welfare officials that her mother, confined in a York, Ala., nursing home had received a $37.30 a month widow's increase, but lost $209.15 a month in Medicaid payments to the nursing home.

"I know you must have thousands of cases of this type, and I just can't believe that the recent federal legislation which made provisions for more cash benefits through Social Security for widows, did so without some provision being made for a widow who would suffer a loss of this kind, that is, being hurt badly instead of being helped," the woman wrote.

A 69-year-old widow told Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., that her Medicaid card had been canceled when her Social Security benefits increased.

"I take seven different kinds of medication due to congestive heart failure, diabetes and hypothyroidism," she wrote. "I can not afford to buy these expensive drugs now that I can no longer use Medicaid."

Other letters made available to UPI by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare complain of similar situations in California, Florida, Louisiana, New Jersey, North Carolina and Minnesota.

The situation is less drastic in some states than in others. In North Carolina a woman was reportedly forced out of a nursing home which she lost her welfare eligibility because of the widow's benefit, an HEW aide said.

Nobody knows how widespread the situation is or how many of the 3.75 million widows also were receiving welfare and Medicaid benefits, but hardship reports are just beginning to surface since the first-widows' benefits were included in Social Security checks mailed out in February. A Minnesota welfare official wrote to Rep. Joseph E. Karth, D-Minn., "These are generally older citizens and many of them feel that the increase while very much needed was not worth the loss of the assurance that they would be cared for in case of illness."

HEW officials are answering letters from concerned widows and their families by saying that Medicaid eligibility decisions are up to the states. "If you are dissatisfied with the decision in your case, you may ask for a hearing before the (listing state agency) . . ."

Meanwhile, legislation has been introduced in the House to correct the situation.

Stacked bandits

BICKNELL, Ind. (UPI) — Gambling in Knox County went to places Friday. Indiana State Police, armed with a court order and explosives, stacked up 13 confiscated electronic slot and lucky 7 machines at an abandoned coal mine near here, then blew them up.

Mistrial possible in Pentagon case

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal judge awaited today a report on a court-ordered investigation that could show the government's evidence in the Pentagon Papers trial had been tainted by Watergate burglars rifling the files of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Such a finding could result in a declaration of a mistrial, or dismissal of charges against Ellsberg and Anthony Russo.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne dropped a bombshell on the lengthy trial Friday when he revealed, outside the presence of the jury, a report by the prosecutor that two convicted Watergate conspirators had burglarized the offices of Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

The perpetrators of the burglary were identified in the report to the judge as G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt.

The judge ordered the Department of Justice to immediately launch a thorough investigation of the incident and report its results to him, including "whether at the time of the alleged incident they were employees of the government."

The name of the psychiatrist was not revealed in court.

But Time Magazine Sunday identified him as Dr. Lewis Fielding of Beverly Hills.

Demos consider

Watergate case

HURON, Ohio (UPI) — Democratic governors today are considering making an appeal on national television for appointment of an impartial prosecutor to purge the Watergate case.

The plan was brought to a two-day meeting of the governors' caucus by National Committee Chairman Robert Strauss. He wants one of the 31 Democratic governors to speak for the party in a paid television broadcast.

Strauss said he had no candidate for the job as spokesman, but as chairman of the governors' caucus, Gov. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas was considered a prime possibility.

Strauss launched his trial balloon as 16 of the governors gathered at a resort lodge on the Lake Erie shore, officially to discuss President Nixon's budget, revenue sharing and the energy crisis.

But the informal talks at the conference centered on Watergate, and most governors expected some pronouncement to come out of the meeting.

The theme of the TV broadcast, costing $70,000 for 15 minutes on one network, would be a call for complete disclosure of the facts about last June's burglary and wiretapping of Democratic National headquarters and the alleged subsequent efforts by White House officials to cover up.

It would propose selection of a prosecutor to head the investigation. He would have no connection with the Justice Department, which is now coordinating the probe.

Both Strauss and Gov. Wendell Ford of Kentucky, who supported the proposal, said they would be satisfied with appointment of a prosecutor by Chief Justice Warren Burger of the American Bar Association.

Strauss hoped to get endorsement of the proposal here before presenting it to congressional Democrats.

Not all the governors agree. Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter said there were enough investigators now working to bring out the facts.

Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, approved the idea of an independent prosecutor.

How's Your Hearing?

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Bellone. A non-operating model of the smallest Bellone aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

"Try it to see how it is worn in the privacy of your own home without cost or obligation of any kind. It's yours to keep, free. It weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head."

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Write to Dept. 2284 Bellone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60640.

Congress to consider wage price controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress returns from its Easter recess today and has until midnight tonight to either extend President Nixon's wage-price control authority or let it expire.

Failure of the House on Senate to act by midnight would mean the expiration of the authority under which the President now controls meat prices and a few other segments of the economy and under which he has been considering somewhat tighter controls.

A compromise bill, worked out before Easter by Senate and House conferees, is before both bodies of Congress.

It would give Nixon what he wants — extension of his control authority to April 30, 1974.

But Republicans in Congress want to kill the compromise bill because it contains four amendments they don't like. One of those requires large corporations to reveal to the government cost information to justify major price rises.

The other disputed amendments would let the President ration petroleum products during shortages, stop him from using the control authority to impose funds appropriated by Congress, and would redefine substandard earnings which are exempt from wage controls from $3.50 an hour to $2.75.

A wrangle over these amendments bogged down passage of the legislation before the Easter recess.

Should Republicans be successful in defeating the compromise measure, there would presumably be another House-Senate conference, committee session to seek still another compromise.

The price control issue has taken a back seat to the Watergate crisis in recent days: President Nixon canceled a Saturday meeting with his economic adviser and went to Camp David for the weekend.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, who will be 18 in a few months, "disappeared" last month. We reported this to the police. Then we found out that she is living with a man out of state.

Should we try to bring her back and file charges with the FBI against this man for contributing to the delinquency of a minor (Mann Act, etc.) since he either took her out of the state or provided funds for her to go? What if we go thru all this only to have her move out and resume living with him the day she turns 18? She claims she loves him.

URGENT IN CLEVELAND

Force girl home?

DEAR URGENT: There are many unanswered questions: Why did she leave in the first place? If she wasn't kidnaped by this man, chances are she was "delinquent" before she left. What would you accomplish by pressing charges against him? If you want to punish your daughter and this man, you are holding all the aces now. But if you want a better relationship with your daughter, don't try to bring her home against her will. Unless she's one in a million, you'll hear from her when she needs a friend, which I suspect will be soon.

DEAR ABBY: For nearly two years I've been the secretary to the world's cheapest man.

I like my job, but I don't like the way my boss takes advantage of me. A refreshment cart comes around twice a day, and each time he asks me to get a cup of coffee for him. It costs 25 cents a cup, which I pay for because he never has anything smaller than a $20 bill. He has never offered to pay me back, and it's been running me about $2.50 a week.

He's cheap in other ways, too. He gave me a lift twice and both times we went over a toll bridge he asked me for the money to pay the toll. He has also bugged dimes from me to use a public telephone. Please print this. He may see it and recognize himself.

BROKE IN BROOKLYN

DEAR BROKE: He's probably too cheap to buy a newspaper. Carry change for a twenty and produce it when he says he has no change. If that fails, TELL him you can't afford to support his coffee habit any more.

DEAR ABBY: During a history test, my friend, who sits across from me, said, "Gee, this is hard."

I replied, "I know." Just then the teacher came up the aisle and accused us of cheating. Then he said, "I am going to add your two scores together and divide by two."

When we got our papers back, I had only one wrong and my friend had three wrong, but instead of getting 90 like I deserved and my friend getting 70 like he deserved we both got 80. I don't think this is fair.

Should I go to the counselor?

MAD IN NEW CANAAN, CONN.

DEAR MAD: If you feel falsely accused and don't want it on your record, appeal the charge to a higher authority. You have rights, too.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SEARCHING FOR HAPPINESS" IN MINNEAPOLIS: Why search when you can create it?

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90049. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Former TF girl tells engagement

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Glenn F. Brown, Yampa, Colo., former Twin Falls residents, announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathy Leona, to Michael Glen Scott, Hazelton.

Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Scott, Hazelton. Miss Brown was graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1969 and will be graduated from Boise State College in May with a degree in elementary education.

Scott was graduated from Minico High School in 1969 and attended Boise State College. He is currently employed in farming operations with his father.

The couple plans a July 28 wedding at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Twin Falls.

Briefs

PH.ER — Past Noble Grands Club will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. Russell McCauley.

TWIN FALLS — The Salmon Tract Community Farm Bureau will meet at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Lester McGreggor home. Mr. and Mrs. John Paator and Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Nelson will present the program on Hawaii.

SHOSHONE — Lincoln Chapter 42 Order of Eastern Star will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Masonic Temple.

MR. AND MRS. STAN SCHNEIDER

Jo Glasmann, Schneider wed

TWIN FALLS — Jo Glasmann and Stan Schneider were united in marriage April 14 at the Immanuel Lutheran Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Glasmann, Jerome, and Mrs. Marie Glasman, Reading, Pa. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Schneider, Twin Falls.

Rev. Eugene Tjarks performed the ceremony before a background of spiral candelabra entwined with lavender satin bows. The altar was flanked by cathedral baskets of white gladioli, blue cornflowers, lavender pom pan chrysanthemums and baby breath. The bridal aisle was marked with lavender satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Bridal Original gown of organza in a Victorian style with an empire bodice and a long, flowing Viennese lace with a detachable wattleau chapel train, Peter pan collar and bishop sleeves. She wore a Victorian style crown mantilla with elbow-length veil.

The bride carried a formal cascade of blue cornflowers, lavender pans and baby breath encircling a lavender orchid tied with lavender streamers.

Cheryl Leppa, Denver, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Sean Mitchell, Denver, and Sue Billington, Twin Falls. Chris and Robi Nelson, step-sisters of the bride were candlelighters.

David Schneider, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Jim Rountree, Chris Heib, Gary Murri and Bob Bruce, all of Twin Falls.

Sue Billington, Sid Littlefield and guitarist, Randy Gardner sang a musical selection especially for the couple.

Reception was held immediately following the ceremony.

The bride's table was covered with lavender satin and alencon lace. The tiered cake was decorated with lavender and blue lilies and topped with love doves, flanked by adjoining sweetheart cakes.

Crystal candelabra with flowers entwined completed the setting.

The hall was decorated throughout with white organza backdrops, topiary trees and draped lavender satin and matching bows. Guests were served at quartet tables with white lace overlay on lavender cloths centered with cherub vases of fresh flowers.

Mrs. Rhynis Glasmann, Ogden, Utah, grandmother of the bride, was an honored guest.

The couple honeymooned in San Francisco and Monterey. They are residing in Twin Falls.

Readiness tests set for Blaine

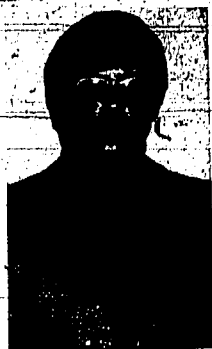

HAILEY — Pre-school readiness tests will be conducted Tuesday through Thursday for Blaine County School District children who will be entering first grade next fall.

According to district psychologist Richard L. Jones, parents should bring their children for testing to the school where they intend to enroll them.

The tests will begin at 9 a.m. each day and will be about one hour in duration, he said.

The testing schedule is as follows: Bellevue Elementary, Tuesday; Carey School, Wednesday; and Ernest Hemingway Elementary, Ketchum, Thursday.

Jones said school officials stress the importance of having the tests on record. The tests will be offered only on the stated dates, he said.

Delegates named

MONTE SELLERS, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sellers, Hazelton, and Terry McClain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex McClain, Edon have been selected Boys-State delegates by the Edan American Legion post. Both youths are juniors at Valley High School and active in school life.

Seminary fete held

SHOSHONE — The annual LDS Church Seminary breakfast was held at 7:30 a.m. Friday at the Church recreation hall.

Bishop Lamar Duffin presided at the breakfast service, with class president Kelvin Rands conducting the devotional period. Table decorations were arranged by Mrs. Virginia Larsen and Mrs. M. J. Dille. Mothers who assisted with the breakfast preparation were Mrs. Ray Walker and Mrs. Elwin Webb.

Jim: "West wound up proceedings for the defense by one more good play. He led a heart, not a diamond. This was a brilliant move."

East had started with king and one trump and South with seven to the ace-queen-jack. It would have insured a trump trick for East since East would have followed suit and South would have been forced to trump dummy's trick."

Cleanup under way in Lincoln

SHOSHONE — Cleanup is being stressed throughout Lincoln County at this time.

At Shoshone, Friday and Saturday have been designated for special cleanup while at Dietrich the activity will be held in conjunction with Arbor Day observances May 27.

There will be just one-half day of school Friday and the other half spent in the cleanup activities.

School children will work within the city of Shoshone, while the 4-H club led by Russell Scott and Boy Scout Troop directed by David Porter and Jack Bowlip doing Highway 24 south to the Jerome County line.

Wood River Center Grange will cover what area they can from the Grange Hall toward Johnny's County store, and Shoshone Civic Club members will work at the city limits to cemetery area.

Shoshone Riding Redskins will repair the fence and improve the area by the riding arena.

Eye exams slated at Hazelton school

HAZELTON — A pre-school eye examination clinic will be sponsored by the Hazelton Lion's Club from 9:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. May 8.

According to Bill Pressey, club member the clinic will be at the Hazelton Grade School for all children of the Hazelton-Eden area who are 4, 5 and 6 years old.

The eye examinations will be free, but parents will be responsible for getting their children to the clinic and home again, Pressey said.

Mrs. Jean Overfield, Jerome County health nurse, will assist specially trained volunteer women of the community in making the examination. If sight problems are detected the children will be referred to eye doctors so corrections can be made early.

Woman to canoe across Atlantic

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — After one last shake-down cruise on the Great Salt Lake, Shirley Haycock concluded her 16-foot canoe was "in excellent shape" and began her cross-country drive for the East Coast, from where she and a companion will try to cross the Atlantic Ocean.

The Utah divorcee and Bob Geedy, a 38-year-old auto mechanic from Manti, Utah, plan to leave for Lisbon, Portugal, from Wilmington, North Carolina.

Neither the prolonged wait for the canoe, which was to have been ready by mid-April, nor the letters from the Coast Guard asking her to reconsider could dissuade the 40-year-old mother of two from undertaking her voyage across the Atlantic.

Her only worry is that people will "get so wrapped up in the adventure aspect of the trip that they forget the real reason for it," Mrs. Haycock said the canoe across the ocean to raise money for senior citizens centers in rural Utah.

Mrs. Haycock said a study of charts showed that they can "get into the Gulf Stream much quicker" from Wilmington.

The Coast Guard warned her that no matter where the ocean voyage begins, it can precipitate "hundreds of manhunt hours at sea."

"We urge you to reconsider. You are unqualified. Your vessel is unsuitable for such an undertaking," the guard wrote to Mrs. Haycock.

The survival training teacher, however, was relentless. She said she won't know whether her craft is unsuitable until she tries it.

The canoe was specially made for the voyage by a Salt Lake City canoe company. It is made of fiber glass and plastic foam and will be powered by oars and sails.

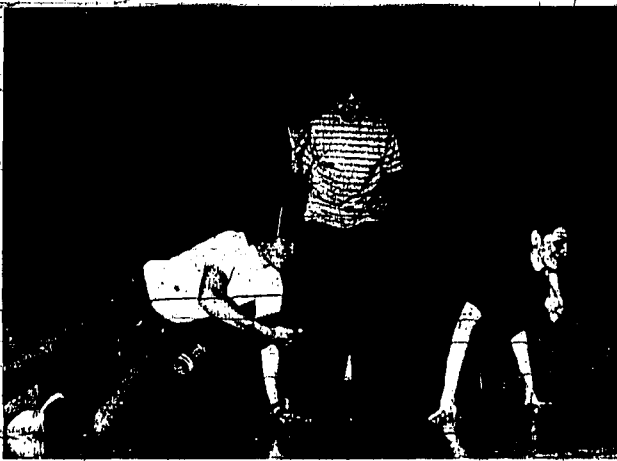

After several shake-down cruises on the Great Salt Lake, including the one this morning, Mrs. Haycock said the canoe "performed beautifully," and she expects to cross the Atlantic in approximately 27 days.

The senior citizen services director in Carbon County has named her canoe "Senior Citizens Ark."

She and Geedy will sail from Wilmington, North Carolina, instead of from Washington, D.C., as originally planned.

After reaching Lisbon, Mrs. Haycock wants to see the Mormon Temple there and in Switzerland and to test my feet in the Alps.

Then, she wants to come home in time to climb Mt. Rainier in June with her two sons, aged 15 and 13.

Investigators uncover two Nazi death camps

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Investigators of Nazi wartime atrocities have uncovered the existence of two Nazi death camps in East Germany previously unknown to the public, members of the Israeli memorial to the camp said today.

They identified the camps as Gotha and Gardelegen. They said little was known about them except that thousands of Jews were killed in gas chambers there and their bodies burned in crematoria.

Chaim Posner, a member of the executive board of the "Yad Vashem" memorial in Jerusalem, said the investigators learned of the camps through documents and photographs given to him in January by Otis Chagler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times.

before," said Dr. Yosef Kermish, director of the archives at Yad Vashem.

Some of the 10 or 12 photographs that were taken after the German surrender in May, 1945, depicted the late Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, then supreme allied commander in Europe, standing in the camps surrounded by some of his generals, Posner said.

Kermish said Adolph Hitler had issued an order saying that the camps never were to be photographed and that the existence of the two camps possibly was not known because there were no survivors.

The photographs had been taken by Chandler's father Norman, who had been an American war correspondent in Europe, Kermish said.

Hot checks reported by treasurer

By GEORGE FRANK-BOISE (UPI) — On a bad day the residents of Idaho slip their state $20,000 in bad checks. That figure takes an upturn during income tax time. State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon told United Press International that the highest daily amount in bad checks last month was $32,331. She said she can remember one check for about $20,000 which bounced.

The number of checks returned to the state treasury because of insufficient funds varies from day to day. For example, during February, the high day was $20,149 and the low day was $1,466.

Miss Moon's office receives all checks from the state's 268 agencies, commissions and departments. She then deposits them in one of several banks in Boise. When they bounce, they bounce right back to her office.

Miss Moon promptly sends the checks to the departments from which they came. She then fixes her books by scratching debits and credits and leaves the collection job to the various department or in a few cases the attorney general's office.

The agency which receives the most checks — and the most bad checks — is the State Tax Commission. The commission takes in about 90 per cent of the state's revenue through withholding taxes, sales and some fuel taxes, along with money from cigarettes, beer and wine.

"Thank goodness most people file on time and their checks are good," tax commission employee Dennison C. Ambrose said of the 100,000 tax returns the office has received this month, most of which contained remittances.

Ambrose said when a bad check is returned from the bank to the department a telephone call is made to the guilty party.

"Most of them are apologetic and make them good," Ambrose said. "They usually say their wives forgot to make a deposit."

He added, "We used to run the checks through the bank a second time, but we don't do that anymore because there is too much time lost."

He said in most cases the commission demands that the person who wrote the bad check make it good by paying in cash, money order or cashier check — but not another personal check.

Most of them really don't mean to burden the state with a bad check, Ambrose said. But he added there is a lot of time between when an income tax remittance check is written and when it is deposited by the state.

"Some people just don't keep check book balances and when they write the checks they have money in the bank, but then something happens," Ambrose said.

But whatever the reason, the bad checks sent to the commission cost their authors money. There is a $10 or 6 per cent penalty (whichever is the greater). So when a person bounces a $5 check on the commission they end up paying $15. If a $1,000 check is bad it costs the author $50 penalty.

In Boise, one of the state's seven regional offices, the commission has two field collectors who track down and collect from the bad check writers.

"A very small percentage of the bad checks are uncollectable," Ambrose said, adding that the tax commission has ways to get the money, including liens and levies. "He said some leave the state which makes collection more difficult, but not impossible. Ambrose said the number of bad checks to the commission increases during March and April. But he said the commission has problems during the rest of the year of the payment of sales and other taxes.

"We have about 1,000 businesses in the state that we have to go out and get the money month after month," he said.

Cool House

The best way to cool a house for comfort is not only to lower the temperature, but to reduce the amount of water vapor in the air. The less humidity, the easier for perspiration to evaporate — and evaporation is a cooling process.

BLM seeks public input on canyon area between Milner dam and Bliss

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone District, Bureau of Land Management, is currently involved in formulating a multiple use plan for national resource lands in the Canyon Planning Unit.

This unit encompasses 34,900 acres of national resource land lying north of the Snake River between Milner Dam and Bliss, in Jerome and Gapping Counties.

"We need public participation if this plan is going to be meaningful and responsive to the needs of the people," said O'Dell Frandsen, district manager, and his staff are placing on the planning efforts in their contracts with special interest groups, county planning commission, and the general public.

The BLM planners are engaged in formulating a Management Framework Plan which will specify management direction and outline the best use or combination of uses for which these lands will be managed.

Mr. Frandsen continued, "In the past, the national resource lands have been considered as 'left over' lands with very little value, except for livestock grazing." Times have changed! People have come to realize that such lands provide more than just livestock forage. They can offer the sportsman a day in pursuit of the rock chuck, or the off road vehicle enthusiast somewhere to test man and machine. The rock hound can find a place to prospect for gemstones, or the recreationist finds a secluded spot to have a family picnic. The municipalities can utilize areas for landfills or public parks, or perhaps the land is suitable for agricultural purposes. These, and many others, are legitimate uses of national resource lands.

Some of the management decisions facing the BLM in this unit center around these questions.

1. Should the unique Snake

River Canyon lands be preserved in their natural state for general public enjoyment and river access?

2. Should commercial development be allowed near the Interstate 80-Highway 93 interchange?

3. Should off-road vehicle travel be eliminated or restricted in the Devils Corral and Vineyard Lake areas?

4. Should the small isolated sage-covered land tracts be retained in public ownership as critical pheasant habitat, or should they be disposed of?

5. Should the entire unit be left open for mining the extensive sand and gravel deposits so vital for highway construction?

These questions and more are being considered by the BLM engaged in the land use planning process. General public meetings will be held in June before the completion of the land use plan.

"Concerned citizens should speak now, before decisions are made," Frandsen said.

Comments in person or by mail can be made directly to the district manager at the district office in Shoshone.

HIBERNATION IS OK FOR BEARS

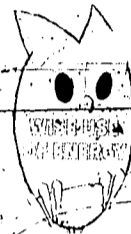

but not for electric facilities

Wise use of the facilities we already have is part of the "Wise Use of Energy" program. In addition, it's one of the few means still available to help keep electric rates as low as is reasonably possible at a time when so many costs are getting out of hand.

Because the electric load for summer substantially exceeds that of the winter months on the Idaho Power system, it seems only logical and prudent management to encourage our customers to heat their homes electrically.

In addition to its comfort and convenience, an electrically heated home which meets Idaho Power's recommended standards for insulation and storm doors and windows, is good economy. You can get full information and planning assistance by calling your local Idaho Power office.

Hunt holds father-son cake event

HUNT — Cub Scouts from packs 49 and 38 teamed up Friday night the annual father-son cake decorating contest and auction.

The event was held at the Hunt Ward LBS Cultural hall with cubmaster Jimmy Christopherson conducting.

Daron Gard won first place for his cake decorated like a castle. Russell Pharris was awarded second place for his rabbit creation and Gary Christopherson won third place for his heart cake.

Trophies were given to the winners. Honorable mention went to Scott Stewart and Karl Jones.

The Judges were Bishop Charles Barnes of the Hunt Ward, and Counsellor Odell Roemer.

Following judging all entries were auctioned by Fred Stewart. Mrs. William Jones, Mrs. H. G. Pharris, Mrs. Ray Buschhorn and Mrs. Ellsworth Hardy were den mothers in charge of the event.

Trans Magic starts new schedule

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Trans Magic Airlines has left the "twilight zone" of bankruptcy. The Twin Falls-based commuter airline initiated a new seven-city schedule Sunday, complete with stewardesses for all flights.

TMA now offers two round trips daily between Twin Falls, Boise, Hailey-Sun Valley, Burley, Pocatello, Idaho Falls and Salt Lake City.

The airline currently owns two 16-passenger, four-engine DeHavilland Heron airplanes and will add two more by July 1, according to James Lee, TMA operations manager.

Jerome car dealer Ross Lee, James' father, started TMA in February of 1969. With flights extending into North Idaho, the infant airline "expanded faster than it had finances," Fred Erazier, president of TMA, said today.

Greater Idaho Corp. gained controlling interest in TMA in August of 1971 and filed for reorganization under the Federal Bankruptcy Act in October of the same year. The airline maintained a two-airplane operation during the "twilight zone" of bankruptcy, according to James Lee.

TMA's bankruptcy obligation was discharged in court last month.

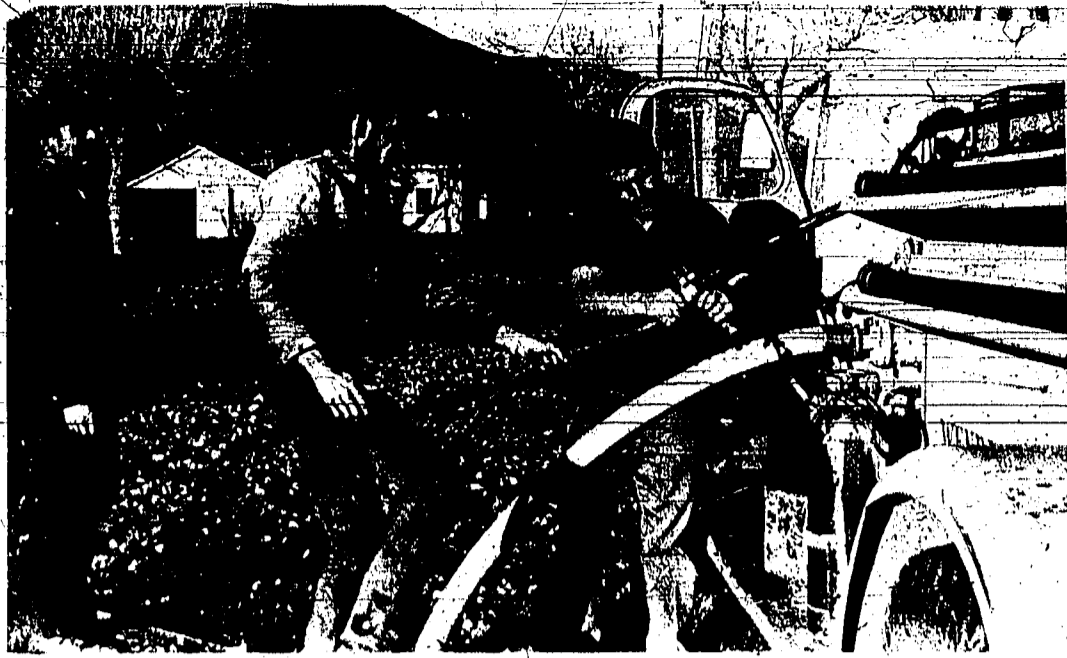

Lee points to bright horizons for the airline with Greater Idaho as a "reliable parent company." He outlined a three-phase plan of development for the reorganized mini-airline.

Phase I officially began Sunday, he said.

Phase II will take effect on July 1, with a "new look" at markets in terms of frequency. Flights between Twin Falls and Salt Lake City and between Idaho Falls, Twin Falls and Boise will warrant special consideration, Lee added.

Phase III will include long range development plans, with acquisition of replacement equipment getting top priority. TMA airplanes currently meet "absolute maximum" weight restrictions under present regulations, Lee said. The long range plans must decide whether TMA will acquire new aircraft or modify existing regulations or go to "heavier jets" under different, more demanding rules, according to Lee.

"We are anticipating a 12 to 15 per cent passenger increase during each month of the calendar year," Lee said. That should bring the total passenger number up to 36,000 for 1973, compared to 10,000 last year, he said.

Bellevue drill

Testing and cleaning equipment during a fire drill are members of the Bellevue volunteer fire department. According to city watermaster Mitchell Lete, residents are in the process of building up the volunteer department, setting up regular drills and meetings and obtaining additional training.

Clean air index 65

Expressed as micrograms of particulate matter per cubic meter of air for the 24 hour period ending at 8 a.m. today. Readings were taken in Twin Falls by the South Central Health District staff.

Federal recommendations last year called for a 70 per cent reduction of the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollutants.

Theft probed

KETCHUM — Investigation is continuing into a break-in and theft at the Colonel's Pancake House, 325 Walnut Ave. N., Ketchum.

According to the Ketchum Police Department, items taken from the business were about $17 in change, a stereo, and six tapes.

Calculators stolen

TWIN FALLS — Thieves entered the Lloyd A. Hamilton Agency building, 303 2nd St. E. during the weekend and took two calculators and cash for a total loss of $1,530.

City police said entry was apparently gained through the front door sometime between 7:30 p.m. Saturday and 7:18 a.m. Sunday. The two calculators, valued at $700 each, were removed from the office area. About $130 in cash was taken from the cash box, officials of the agency reported.

Pre-registration set

FILER — Pre-registration for Filer Elementary and Clover Lutheran first graders will be held Tuesday and Wednesday between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Parents should call or report to the Filer Elementary office for the student registration.

Children who have already been pre-registered are invited to a pre-school screening on May 29 at Filer Elementary.

Screening slated

JEROME — A Pre-school screening of first graders will be held at the Nazarene Church in Jerome Tuesday through Thursday.

The screening will be conducted for the Child Development Center, in cooperation with the Jerome schools, the public health nurse and a group of Jerome volunteers.

Television taken

TWIN FALLS — A television set valued at about $300 was reported missing from a room at the Alley Motel today.

City Police said someone entered a room after the maid had cleaned it Saturday, and removed the color set. It was reported missing Sunday afternoon.

Belfast house blasted

BELFAST (UPI) — Sectarian violence which killed three British soldiers during the weekend erupted again today as an explosion ripped apart a deserted Belfast house.

The army arrested two suspects in a Roman Catholic neighborhood today in the Sunday night shooting of a Royal Marine private. His death raised the toll in nearly four years of Ulster violence to 780.

The army assigned a heavy guard to protect the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, who arrived today for a four-day tour of the region. While in Northern Ireland, spokesmen said Ramsey, the Primate of all England, would hold a series of talks with religious and political leaders.

An army spokesman identified the house demolished in the Belfast blast as an occasional meeting hall for the IRA. He said the premature explosion of a bomb stored there might have caused the damage.

The two bombs defused in Strabane were found in Mandell's Bar and Cochran's Cafe, which cater to Catholics, the spokesman said.

The bombs ended a brief lull that developed after a sniper killed Royal Marine Pvt. Graham Cox, 19, and seriously wounded a second soldier in Belfast's New Lodge Road district Sunday night.

Both were hit as their Land Rover moved for an antispread ramp that the residents had promised would not be used as an ambush site.

Police cars collide

HAMMETT (UPI) — Two state police cars collided near Hammett Saturday evening while chasing a motorist suspected of a sticker violation.

Elmore County deputies said cars driven by Patrolmen Doug Cramer and Rich Willis crashed while maneuvering a sudden change of direction initiated by the car they were pursuing.

The fugitive got away. Cramer was treated for a facial injury and Willis for a leg injury.

One police car was demolished in the wreck and the other received an estimated $1,000 damages. One vehicle struck the rear of the other.

Georgia prison inmates escape

BAINBRIDGE, Ga. (UPI) — State and local law enforcement officers intensified a search Sunday for 12 of 24 maximum security inmates who fled to freedom in one of the largest prison breaks in Georgia history.

The flight from the Decatur County state prison branch occurred after two inmates duped a prison guard into unlocking the front gate Saturday night.

Prison officials said the two prisoners told guard Ray Cook they wanted to give him a billfold. When he opened the gate, they overpowered Cook, stole his keys and freed the other inmates.

Ellis Mac Dougall, commissioner of offender rehabilitation, fired Cook after the incident for violating prison rules against opening the gate.

Law officers worked around the clock rounding up the escapees. Two surrendered shortly after the break, one was injured when he stepped into a hole. Three others, in-

4 Nixon aides resign offices

Ziegler said that Nixon would submit for confirmation immediately the appointment of Richardson to be attorney general. No mention was made of a new defense secretary.

Ziegler said Nixon had directed Richardson "to assume full responsibility and authority for coordinating all federal agencies in uncovering the whole truth about this matter and recommending appropriate changes in the law to prevent future campaign abuses of the sort recently uncovered. This indicated that the President, despite urgings from leaders of both parties, would not appoint a special, nonpolitical investigator."

"He will have total support from me in getting this job done," Nixon said in the statement.

Nixon said he had given Richardson the added responsibility of recommending appropriate changes in the law "to prevent future campaign abuses of the sort recently uncovered."

Nixon said Garment would take, effective immediately, additional duties as counsel to the President. He said Garment would represent the White House "in all matters relating to the Watergate investigation and will report directly to me."

Letters of resignation were made public by the White House from Klumdiest, Halderman and Ehrlichman — but not from Dean.

Dean had been put in charge of Nixon's original investigation of the Watergate case.

Halderman told Nixon he intended to cooperate "fully with the investigation — and will at my request be meeting this week for that purpose with the U.S. attorneys and with the counsel to the Senate select committee."

Halderman added: "I have full confidence that when the truth is known the American people will be totally justified in their pride in the office of the President and in the conduct of that office by President Nixon."

Kludienst told a news conference at the Justice Department that he resigned because "the President should have an attorney general he can consult with at all times," and he said this had become impossible since he withdrew from the Watergate investigation April 15.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said in reaction to the development that the resignations were by no means the end of the Watergate case.

Another Democrat, Speaker Carl Albert, predicted the resignations will produce better cooperation between Congress and the White House in the future.

Ehrlichman told Nixon in his letter that for the past two weeks "it has become increasingly evident that, regardless of the actual facts, I have been a target of public attack."

The Pentagon issued a statement from Richardson saying, "I have accepted the President's nomination to be attorney general because I believe I have an overriding duty to do so."

This will be his third Cabinet post in the Nixon Administration. He served as HEW secretary before taking over for Melvin R. Laird at the Pentagon.

The top-level departures overshadowed the resignation Friday of acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III, also a victim of Watergate developments.

Payette youth killed

PAYETTE (UPI) — A Payette child on his way to school died this morning when he rode his bicycle into the path of a train at a railroad crossing.

He was identified as Rocky Ruben Elliot, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elliot, 1401 3rd Ave. S., Payette.

Payette Police Officer Steve MacKenzie said the boy apparently did not see the train.

The Elliot boy and a brother, Jimmy, 10, age given, were riding their bicycles to the West Side Elementary School when the mishap occurred at 8 a.m.

Scouts clean highway areas

JEROME — Members of Jerome Girl and Boy Scouts troops spent Saturday cleaning up state highways 79 and 25 in honor of Keep America Beautiful Days.

Over 60 members of the troops turned out to pick up trash along state highway 25 between the city limits of Jerome and the 89-25 junction and along state highway 79 between Jerome and Interstate 80 junction.

Assisting the troops were Don Morse, State Department of Highway; Dale Gootch, senior patrol leader of troop No. 141; Dick Goetsch, Scout master of troop No. 141; Keith Stein, Donna Johnson, senior adviser and neighborhood chairman; Mrs. Ron Lancaster, leader of Girl Scout Troop No. 288; Mrs. Bill Kennedy, leader of Girl Scout Troop No. 275, and Mrs. Ester Arbaugh, neighborhood secretary.

The troops worked from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and loaded more than six truck loads of trash which were taken to the county dump. After the day's work the youths were treated to a chili feed at the Presbyterian Church.

Several Cub Scout troops cleaned up the city parks and the city library area in honor of the day.

Area bids open

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — Bids will be opened at 2 p.m. Tuesday for the construction of a new regional Fish and Game office in Jerome.

Jack Fisher, Boise, chief of the engineering division for the Fish and Game Department, said he will open bids Tuesday at the Fish and Game Department office southeast of Jerome.

The new office will be located on about three acres of land immediately east of Mrs. Susi Leonard's home on State Highway 25.

The decision to locate the regional office at the new site rather than at the state bird farm was mainly because of accessibility to water and sewer facilities, plus making the location more convenient for sportsmen.

The city council recently annexed the property to the city.

Architect for the new structure is Harold E. Gerber, Twin Falls. The 4,000 square foot building is of a tri-level design with a brick and glass exterior and it will be electrically heated and air-conditioned.

Fisher said that a contract has been awarded to Kay's Construction Co., Caldwell, for the erection of a covered storage shed at the rear of the new office building. "We are not sure when the shed will be built, since materials have not yet arrived," Fisher said.

He estimated only two or three days would be required to erect the storage shed after the foundation is completed.

Fish and Game personnel last week surveyed the area for the shed and for security fencing which will be installed at a later date by Fish and Game personnel.

Fisher said it should require about two weeks after the contract is awarded for completion of paper work so construction of the office can begin. He said the office should be complete by the end of the summer.

Newsman's privilege unprotected

NEW YORK (UPI) — Protection of confidential news sources, turned out to be the most compelling topic for discussion at the annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers Association (ANPA) this past week. It promises to be in the news for months to come.

For more than 200 years, newsmen's privilege against disclosing their news sources was generally thought to be inherent in the First Amendment to the Constitution. But last June 29, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that no such privilege actually exists. Since then a number of newsmen have gone to jail rather than disclose their confidential sources.

In the subsequent rush to find legislative relief from the court's ruling, the state legislatures of Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oregon and Tennessee have approved shield laws of varying strength and a number of other states have attempted to strengthen existing ones; but without success.

Altogether 22 states have statutes designed to furnish journalistic privilege but many have proved ineffectual. For this reason, the ANPA has been the prime mover in pushing for a federal statute. It supports an ANPA-drafted bill sponsored by Sen. Alan M. Cranston, D-Cal., and co-sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

There are other bills currently before the Senate and House but the Cranston-Kennedy bill is considered the strongest and would give newsmen absolute privilege. One other bill, sponsored by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., has been amended three times and approaches the absolute shield position. The bills would apply to federal and state courts.

The bills before Congress have their detractors, whose chief argument is that the news media are inviting Congress to interfere in their business. Fears have been voiced that Congress could use the threat of rescinding a shield bill as a means of blackmailing the press.

Len H. Small, publisher of the Kankakee (Ill.) Journal and chairman of the ANPA's government relations committee, took a slap at critics during the convention.

East-West troop cut talks making progress

BRUSSELS (UPI) — East-West troop cut talks, deadlocked in Vienna for nearly three months, are finally making progress, Western diplomats said Saturday.

The sources refused to give details on the emerging agreement, but said they were "optimistic" that talks on preparing a full-scale conference on reduction of U.S. and Soviet troops in Europe can begin "within a couple of weeks."

There was an official "no comment" from a spokesman for the talks in Vienna, but it was understood that months of behind-the-scenes haggling had produced an agreement on the Soviet demand that Hungary — and presumably the Soviet bloc troops based there — be eliminated from the conference agenda.

The Soviet Union has objected to including Hungary as a full member of the conference since this would mean Soviet troops stationed in Hungary would fall under any troop reduction agreement.

Salmon water critical

SALMON — A critical water shortage here has brought about regulations on the use of hoses for sprinkling.

Virgil Schofield, city works superintendent, said residents in the section of city west of the Salmon River can sprinkle only on even days of the month while residents on the east side of the river can sprinkle only on odd days of the month.

Sprinkling also is limited to mornings and is to end at noon.

Schofield said the city's reservoir is empty and that Jesse Creek and Pollard Creek, the water sources, are extremely low.

Knicks rip Boston to gain NBA finals

BOSTON (UPI) — Red Holzman "described it as a combination of outstanding defense, some 'bonus' scoring from Dean Meminger and the quarterbacking of Walt Frazier."

Whatever it was, the 94-76 win by New York over the Boston Celtics sent the Knicks into their second straight National Basketball Association championship series against the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Knicks dealt Boston its first loss ever in the seventh game of a playoff series. The Celtics had won in nine previous final games.

"This is the best defense in a playoff game we've ever had," Holzman said after his Knicks held Boston to a 37.3 shooting percentage. "I thought our defense was the best we've ever played."

Holzman said the Knicks got some "bonus scoring" from Meminger, who packed nine of his 13 points into the second quarter, enabling the Knicks to stay in range for an explosive performance by Frazier.

"Meminger played great," Holzman said. "Once he was in the lineup he moved the ball really well. When we've got a kid like Dean in there who is such a good dribbler and is moving the ball, we let him bring it up. Then we let Clyde (Frazier) be the quarterback again."

"We put the pressure on them with our defense," Frazier said. "The difference was that our defense picked them up and forced their shots. Today, we were the team with the poise again—we played like they did on Friday night."

Meminger said the Knicks had been working on "putting pressure on the Celtics guards. We tried to set up a play each time we went down the court. We played really well."

Boston coach Tom Heinsohn said the Celtics "got beat, we lost. I wouldn't say we were flat. The ball just wasn't going in and you can't win if the ball doesn't go in the hoop."

Heinsohn said "you need a super game against this team (the Knicks) to beat them and we didn't have a super game."

Boston's playmaker John Havlicek was in the game for only 23 minutes and was still obviously bothered by the injury to his right shoulder he suffered in the third game of the series. Havlicek hit on only one of six field goal attempts and was 2 for 3 from the foul-line for four points. Havlicek averaged 20 points in this series prior to the injury.

Frazier scored 15 points during a decisive 15 minute stretch as New York won its second straight Eastern Conference championship.

Celtic tries for rebound

STRUGGLING TO GAIN rebound is Don Nelson of the Celtics as both Bill Bradley (24) and teammate Dave DeBusschere (22) battle under the basket as action is heated during the first quarter of game seven of the NBA Eastern conference playoff at Boston Garden on Sunday. At left is Willis Reed of the Knicks. (UPI Telephoto).

The win sent New York into the NBA playoff finals against the Los Angeles Lakers, Western Conference champions. It was the first time in 10 attempts that the Celtics ever lost the seventh game of a playoff series.

Frazier started his game breaking surge with a pair of free throws and a jumper from the right side with 2:42 left in the first half as the Knicks took a 38-35 lead they never relinquished.

Montreal drills Black Hawks 8-3

MONTREAL (UPI) — Jacques Lemaire scored two power play goals Sunday afternoon and Montreal erupted for four goals in the final period as the Canadiens scored an 8-3 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks in the opening game of the Stanley Cup finals.

The second game of the National Hockey League's championship round will be played here Tuesday night.

The win gave the Canadiens five victories in a row in the current playoffs after they took four straight from the Philadelphia Flyers following an opening game loss in the semifinals.

his own team shorthanded. Lemaire rounded out the scoring in the third period with a goal which forced Chicago goalie Tony Esposito out of the net to be replaced by Gary Smith.

The Hawks went ahead 2-0 after just 62 seconds of the opening frame. Pit Martin grabbed his own rebound-off the stick of Canadian defenseman Serge Savard and then skated in to beat Montreal goalie Ken Dryden with a drive into the corner of the net just 35 seconds after the opening whistle. The game itself was delayed 13 minutes at the start because of a power failure.

Twenty seven seconds later Ralph Backstrom knocked off rebound past Dryden.

Montreal stormed back to tie the score at 2-2 in the same period. Defenseman Jacques Lapierre scored on a 60-footer from the blue line when Esposito was screened on the play and Mark Tardif scored on a backhand only two seconds after "Chicago rookie John Marks had left the penalty box."

Martin scored his second goal of the period to give Chicago a 3-2 lead, beating Dryden on a short drive.

Lapierre, who missed most of the semi-final series against the Flyers because of a groin injury, left the game in the first period after suffering a broken nose when he collided with Koroll.

The win sent New York into the NBA playoff finals against the Los Angeles Lakers, Western Conference champions. It was the first time in 10 attempts that the Celtics ever lost the seventh game of a playoff series.

American all-stars top touring Russians 83-65

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Little Ernie DiGregorio of Providence, who wasn't even asked to go out for the 1972 Olympic team, and UCLA reserve center Swen Nater, each scored 14 points Sunday as an American all-star team led wire-to-wire to trounce the touring Russian national squad 83-65.

Avengeing a 51-50 defeat in the finals of the Munich Olympics, America's first Olympic basketball loss ever—the Bob Cousy-coached U.S. contingent went through most of the fouled-filled contest without superstar Bill Walton, who suffered strained ligaments in his left knee in the first half.

Nater, who spent two seasons in Walton's shadow at UCLA, also pulled down 12 rebounds while DiGregorio added eight assists in the opener of a six game series between the teams in the United States. They met at San Diego Monday night.

Walton, who led UCLA to two NCAA championships and two 30-0 seasons as a sophomore and junior, played less than half the game, although he returned in the second half for the first 4:21. A Forum capacity crowd of 17,505 boned the Americans when they went into a stall in the final five minutes.

Referee Renato Righatto of Brazil and Martti Huhtameki of Finland whistled a total of 58 fouls, 26 on the Americans and 30 on the Russians.

Bobby Jones, one of two Munich Olympians on the U.S. team, added 12 points while Tom Henderson, the second U.S. Olympian added 10.

For the Russians, Aleksander Bellov, and Ivan Dvorin, each had 14 while Alzhen Zharmukhamedov finished with 12.

After two ties in the first two minutes, the Americans pulled steadily away in the opening half and twice led by 17-points—38-21 and 40-23—before a 48-35 intermission bulge. They were in no trouble in the second half.

The 6-11 Walton, college basketball's Player of the Year the past two seasons, went to the dressing room with 5:19 left in the first half to put ice on his left knee. He sat on the bench after leaving the game with 15:39 to go and went into the dressing room for good with 1:59 remaining.

Jim Brewer, Minnesota's 6-9 center, had been scheduled to play but decided to pass the series up in favor of his studies. That left coach Cousy with only two centers for the six games—Walton and Nater—with Walton committed to only the first two games.

"They do what they have to do and they do it expeditiously," Cousy said after the game.

League had promised a demonstration outside the Forum prior to the game, protesting Soviet treatment of Jews but it failed to develop. Yet, an Israeli flag was unfurled during the playing of the Soviet national anthem, and two men ran by the Russian team during a huddle with 5:19 left in the first half and threw the flag over a Soviet player. The men were quickly hustled out of the Forum.

Colonels will try to even ABA series

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — If the Kentucky Colonels are to pull even with the Indiana Pacers in the second game of their American Basketball Association championship playoffs here Monday night, they've got to stop making so many "dumb plays."

The defending champion Pacers won the opening game of the best-of-seven series Saturday 111-107, when Indiana's Freddie Lewis took charge in an overtime. The veteran guard outscored the entire Kentucky team, 8-7, in the extra period after the two teams ended regulation play in a 100-100 tie.

"We made too many dumb plays," Kentucky coach Joe Mullany said. "You just can't do that against a team like Indiana and expect to get away with it. They'll take advantage of every mistake."

The series moves to Indianapolis for the third and fourth games Thursday night and Saturday afternoon.

"I think the difference Saturday was that we kept our poise and they seemed to lose theirs," Lewis said. "But I don't expect that to be any pattern for the series. They always play us tough and this series is a long ways from over."

The Pacers have a reputation for being "money players"—the kind of performers who save their best efforts for the most crucial games. That may explain why they have won the playoff championship three of the last four years.

However, Kentucky forward Walt Simon discounts the Pacers' playoff experience as a major factor.

"I think we've got the better players," he said. "And in the end, that's what will make the difference, not how much playoff experience each team has had."

Man Issel turned in a fine game for the Colonels in Saturday's nationally televised contest, but he was far from satisfied with the team's overall performance.

"We rushed everything, bumped into each other, and went one-on-one—all the things we can't do and hope to win," Issel said.

Issel led the Colonels in scoring with 33 points, and in rebounding with 20, but he was unhappy with the last shot he took in the game.

It was a 12-foot turnaround jumper that he would have tied the score at 109-109. Instead, it banked high off the backboard and into the hands of Mel Daniels.

Inflamed by the outcome, some Colonel fans nearly succeeded in baiting the Pacers into a post-game brawl. Daniels had to be restrained by Coach Bob Leonard and some of his teammates from attacking a fan who was taunting him. Gus Johnson flung a halffull cup of soft drink at another fan.

Mike Burke changes operation

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mike Burke, the top man in a 15-man conglomerate behind the New York Yankees, announced Sunday that he will no longer be involved in the operation of the club.

Burke, who became president of the Yankees in 1966, relinquished his power in decision-making but will continue as an owner and will become a special consultant.

"I hope in his role to make some on-going constructive contributions to the Yankee success," said Burke in a statement.

That's all Burke would say about the matter. A club spokesman said, "Mike was at the game today (against the Minnesota Twins) but he's gone. He doesn't want to discuss the matter."

George M. Steinbrenner, who along with Burke formed a two-man general partnership of the Yankees, now is in the top of a group of 12 limited partners who all hold shares in the club, which was purchased from the Columbia Broadcasting System on Jan. 3 for $10 million. The 54-year-old BURKE is a former executive with CBS.

Pearson takes Virginia race

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (UPI) — David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., won the Virginia 500 NASCAR Grand National stock car race here Sunday, coasting to victory in his Mercury after Cale Yarborough's Chevrolet spun out in a bid to regain the lead with eight laps to go.

Yarborough, of Timmonsville, S.C., finished second a half lap behind Pearson. Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N.C., was third in a Ford and Buddy Baker of Charlotte, N.C. finished fourth in a Dodge. Cecil Gordon of Horseshoe, N.C., was fifth in a Chevrolet.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAY 1, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES. You have an excellent chance now to gain good health and well-being by taking treatments for this specific purpose. You will be able to put in motion an advanced plan that brings you closer to your objectives and mental expansion.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) The planets are most favorable and you can now accomplish a great deal, particularly during the daytime hours. Do what you can to improve your appearance. Become more style-conscious.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A good day to discuss with a clever friend the right ideas to employ for future advancement. Get the backing you need. Show more ingenuity where the romantic side of life is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get in touch with good friends who can help you achieve a personal ambition. Attending social gatherings is fine for furthering your advancement. Avoid one who impedes progress.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you work with more vitality, you make a better impression on higher-ups. Join civic groups that are progressive and have altruistic goals. Show your logical mind.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Fine day for changing the conditions around that are distasteful. Make decisions early and then fill speed ahead. A new associate has fine suggestions. Make use of the best of these. Be wise.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) You have a new system for handling your obligations that should be put in operation without delay. Show more devotion to loved one and give a nice gift that will be appreciated. Be happy.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) A change of attitude toward an associate can make a big difference now with excellent results. Taking part in a civic activity is helpful. Show more appreciation for the favors of others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov 21) You have to work up more enthusiasm to handle those duties ahead of you efficiently. Go shopping for the right clothing items that will improve your appearance. Relax at home tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Get out of rut you are in and be in the company of congenials with a healthy outlook. Look into new outlets that are profitable. More happiness with mate is possible with little effort.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan 20) Study problems at home in an objective way and then you can solve them wisely. Go along with ideas of kin where recreation is concerned. Avoid a troublemaker. Express happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) You are thinking very cleverly now and can easily put your ideas across to the right people. Communicating with higher-ups now brings fine results. Know exactly what you are doing.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) You can improve your financial position at this time if you are alert to the opportunities around. Talk matters over with a business expert and find new avenues of expression. Be poised.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who needs to feel secure early in life. Opportunities will be numerous later on. A business course would be best here but of the most modern kind. There can be success in several avenues of expression, but don't try to force a musical education or sports on your youngster. Give religious training early in life. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

DENTAL NURSES

A hotel manager of lengthy experience contends a convention of dental nurses is that gathering which produces the most glamorous females. More so even than a gettogether of former stewardesses, photography models or sorority girls.

Q "What sort of girl does Prince Charles of England go for?"

A Tall girls, mostly. He has dated blondes, brunettes and redheads. Only thing they have in common is most all stand a little taller than average.

A Hardly any.

Q "Why did France's King Louis XIV ban ballet from his court?"

A Because he got too fat to rise up on his little tippy toes. Ballet had been a participant sport. Just about everybody in royalty got into it. Then the king put on weight.

Old machinery makes unique fence at White place

White's fence gleams

By MARJORIE LIERNAN
Times-News writer

FILER — Robert White has built a fence which is an ecologist's dream.

It is both unusual and attractive when viewed by passerby.

Every farmer has a junk pile somewhere behind the barn. White spent his spare time last winter welding all his old horse-drawn machinery together to make a fence approximately 300 feet long on the east side of his farm home.

The Whites live three miles south and three-fourths mile east of Jordan's Corner.

The fence, which is about four and a half feet in height, has no particular pattern, according to its owner, who says he just started welding the machinery together to see how it would turn out.

He estimates he probably spent 50 to 60 hours making it. It contains parts of obsolete grain drills, manure spreaders, side rakes, plows and various wheels, besides smaller tools and machinery, no longer in use. When finished, the entire fence was sprayed with silver paint.

White said his fence has attracted lots of attention and most people who drive by stop to get a closer look. He plans to put several poles across the end which meets the road to prevent anyone running into it. Mrs. White plans to plant flowers in front of the fence.

Study hints futures trading doesn't boost potato prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Does speculation in commodity futures drive prices of perishable crops like potatoes well above or below the levels which normal supply-demand conditions would set?

A recent study by an Agriculture Department economist says the question can't be answered directly for all perishable crops yet.

But for potatoes, at least, economist Edward Jesse said the results of the study "suggest" that trading in futures has no effect on prices paid for the crop in the cash market.

The study reported by Jesse involved the impact of commodity futures trading on onion prices.

Futures trading in onions began in 1942 on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange but was outlawed by Congress in 1958 under pressure from farmers who claimed the futures speculation was distorting normal market-price patterns. Under the sponsorship of the Agriculture Department's Commodity-Exchange-Authority (CEA), Jesse said onion price patterns before, during and after the 1942-58 trading period were studied by department economists and experts at the University of Wisconsin.

"There was no evidence that price performance following the Ban on (futures) trading differed from performance during the time of trading," Jesse reported. He said the same conclusion probably applies to potatoes because their marketing and demand pattern are similar to those for onions.

Trading in Maine potato futures, launched on the New York Mercantile Exchange in 1941, is still legal despite a number of unsuccessful attempts by growers to get Congress to halt it.

"The ban on onion trading and attempts to get a bill passed to end trading in potatoes are in vivid contrast to recent commodity exchange expansions of trading in other perishable commodities, notably frozen pork bellies and live cattle and hogs," Jesse said.

The economist added, however, that the conclusions of the onion study cannot be directly applied to other perishables — except potatoes — because similar "during-and-after" trading studies cannot be made.

However, Jesse's article added at another point noted that:

"Evidence that trading in perishables has no significant impact on cash prices would be consistent with the expansion of traded commodities based in large part on positive benefits to users of futures markets."

Stock feed exports up during 1973

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rising wheat production around the world will bring U.S. wheat exports next season down from the record levels of the current 1972-73 marketing year.

But exports of livestock feed grains, primarily corn, are expected to increase.

The forecasts come in an updated summary of the world grain trade outlook prepared by the Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS).

Officials said changes in the world supply since their last analysis in mid-January had been "only moderate."

Based on conditions as of April 1, the report said that if major producing countries get normal weather this year, increased production can be expected in areas including the U.S., Russia and Australia. A minor increase was projected for Canada although pre-season moisture conditions there were said to be below normal.

The report added that if the growing season is normal, there may be "slight" reductions in imports in Europe and sharp drops in purchases by Russia and Brazil. Among exporters, the main sales decline for the new season

Board meets

BOISE (UPI) — The Agriculture Labor Board met Friday in Boise for the first time in more than a year, to discuss selection of a new chairman.

Three names have been submitted to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus for his decision. They include Tim Bird, an employee of the Idaho Office on Aging, Boise; Dr. Herbert Berman, former law professor at the University of Idaho, and Mauricio Mixco, a Spanish language instructor at Idaho State University.

In other action, the board discussed problems of illegal aliens employed as farm workers. Frank Morcer, Wilder, said the board is "on record as firmly opposed to the employment of illegal aliens."

US jury indicts quartet

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Four persons were indicted by a federal grand jury Friday on charges they illegally transported Mexican aliens for farm work within the United States.

The four suspects were arrested earlier this month when a Nevada Highway Patrolman stopped them near Alamo, en route from Arizona to Idaho. U.S. Attorney Devoy Heaton presented evidence in the case to the federal grand jury which returned indictments Friday against Erminio Martinez, 32, of Marcus, N.M.; Margie Sutton, 19, of Mesa, Ariz.; David Calzada, 25, of Grants, N.M. and Betty Lou Chatman, 40, of Glendale, Ariz.

Beet fields empty

RIVERTON, Wyo. (UPI) — Recent snows and wet weather have left Fremont County sugar beet farmers in a "serious" planting situation. Gary Jennings, president of the county Beet Growers Association, says only a few of the 2,500 contracted acres have been planted. "It will take at least a week to 10 days of dry weather before we can get into the fields to plant," he said. Jennings said he could not

Valley FFA honors given

VALLEY SCHOOLS — Outstanding Valley High School Future Farmers were honored at the annual dinner Friday night at the school.

Carl Utt was named the chapter star farmer and presented a watch and Jim Wright was given the star greenhand award.

The presentations were made by Ken Rogers. Francis Utt was named honorary chapter farmer and Joel Herrmann was named the outstanding club member. First year letter pins were awarded to Wright and Brent Hargal. A second year pin went to Fred Stewart and fourth year pins to Utt and Herrmann.

Rogers was appointed new chapter president. Other new officers include Stewart, vice president; Glen Brooks, secretary; Hargal, treasurer; Wright, reporter; and Richard McClain, shtlml.

Becky MacRie, a junior, was chosen as the FFA chapter sweetheart with Christy Bourn and Stacy Sneed as attendants.
