McCulloch plan wins Hailey OK

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — "So be it."
That statement by Hailey Planning and Zoning Commission Chairman Grant Patterson followed a 7-to-1 vote Thursday night to recommend to the City Council that the McCulloch Properties, Inc., development site be annexed into Hailey.

The motion also called for submitting to the council a list of 20 recommendations which had been formulated by the commission based on the proposed McCulloch plan.
Patterson said an original list of 15 recommendations already had been compiled with by the firm. The additional five recommendations were set during a three-hour long commission meeting Wednesday, called to review statements from Tuesday night's public hearing.

The McCulloch petition for annexation now goes before the City Council for a public hearing Tuesday night.

Thursday night, a brief discussion was conducted, a secret ballot was cast and the meeting adjourned.

Following a question about legality of the secret ballot by commission member William House, the meeting was reopened and a hand vote was taken.

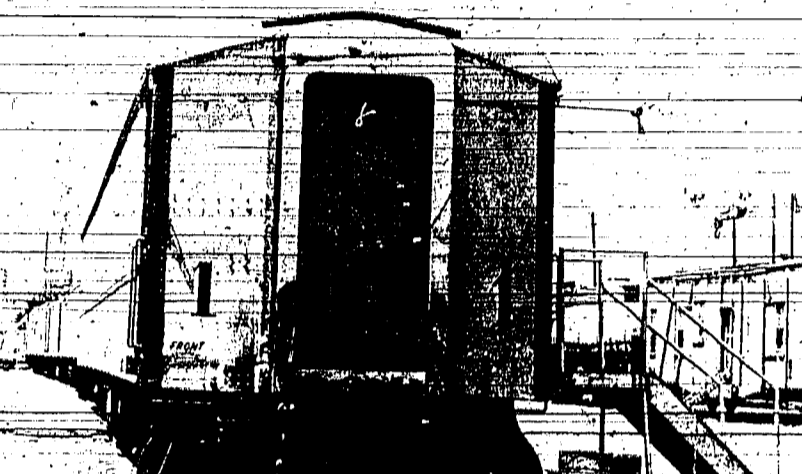

After the meeting, art fans, who cast the dissenting vote, said, "I feel more of a study should be made on the impact on taxes, on the schools and on the whole valley."

Easton said, "some people feel they are being deprived of the democratic process by not having a referendum vote on the issue." However, he said he felt a vote "would still come out the same."

The commission member also said he would like to see a council of commissions from throughout Blaine County meet concerning all development. Such a council, he said, should determine "how much (development) this valley can stand."

After the meeting, Gary Dayton, a McCulloch representative, said he was "very pleased with the results of the planning and zoning commission's evaluation of the firm's proposal."

Bug case juries call Dean, Gray

Pretty soon all that will be left in Blaine County will be the sides of the hills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General designate Elliot L. Richardson probably will name his special Watergate prosecutor sometime next week, and it is likely Richardson himself will not gain Senate confirmation until then.

Richardson told the Senate Judiciary Committee late Thursday that he had no objection to providing members with the names of the six to eight finalists in his search for a special prosecutor.

After two days of sessions, the committee recessed Richardson's confirmation hearings until Monday.

Richardson said he would submit a large list of names in alphabetical order today to retired Chief Justice Earl Warren, the presidents of the American Bar Association and the American College of Trial Lawyers and other persons for their evaluation.

He said their recommendations of six to eight names will be turned over to the committee and then to the FBI on Monday for spot checks, adding that he hoped to name the prosecutor "by the end of the week."
News stories inaccurate and incomplete, said he would tell the truth and not shoulder the blame for anyone.

Gray resigned the FBI post April 27 after acknowledging last summer he destroyed some documents Dean gave him. Gray was reported to have said he was told the papers should not "see the light of day." They were taken from the office of G. Howard Hunt, who pleaded guilty in January to participating in the Watergate bugging.

Questioning of Dean and Gray followed indictment of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government and obstruct justice. The indictment was returned by a federal grand jury in New York in connection with a secret $200,000 contribution to Nixon's re-election campaign.

The Finance Committee to Re-Elect the President argued in U.S. District Court in Washington today that the contribution — by New York financier Robert L. Vanecko, who was indicted with Mitchell and Stans — was legal.

Convicted Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. said in a 383-page sworn statement released Thursday that he was told that Mitchell ordered the June 17 break-in at the Democrat Watergate headquarters because he was pleased with the results of an earlier burglary there.

McCord said he also was told that Mitchell received reports on conversations monitored on (Continued on p. 15)

Paris meet set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger, just back from a Moscow trip, will meet in Paris Thursday with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho to discuss ways to shore up the shaky Vietnam cease-fire agreement, the White House announced today.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the Kissinger-Tho meeting probably would last three to four days. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, and Tho, Hanoi Politburo member, negotiated the agreement in January.

Kissinger will be switching his focus to the Indochina situation after reporting to Nixon on what he described as "major progress" in discussions with Leonid I. Brezhnev and other Soviet leaders on issues preceding Brezhnev's forthcoming Washington summit visit.

Kissinger arrived back in Washington late Thursday night.

US jets blast Red posts

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — American warplanes including swinging F111 bombers flew heavy raids across southern Cambodia today within hours after the U.S. Congress refused to approve official funding for the air campaign here.

Some of the strikes were so close to Cambodian forces fighting off rebel attacks that U.S. air controllers refused to authorize them until they were assured that "the ground commander assumes responsibility for short rounds," meaning those which could possibly land on government units.

Military sources said major targets included areas around Takeo, a province capital 55 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, and Kampot, 93 miles to the southeast near the Gulf of Thailand.

Refugee worked for CIA

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Felix DeDiego, a refugee from Cuba who is now a real estate man, said Thursday he and two convicted Watergate burglars entered the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, DeDiego said he, Bernard Barker, and Eugenio Martinez photographed files in the office because they believed they were working for the Central Intelligence Agency. He testified before a state attorney and was granted immunity.

Food cost hits all-time peak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the farm share of the consumer food dollar reaching the highest level in 10 years, the annual rate retail cost of a typical household food market basket in the first quarter of 1973 reached a record $1,414, the Agriculture Department said today.

The cost of the market basket, which covers domestic farm-produced foods needed to supply a hypothetical average household of 3.2 persons, was up 6.3 per cent from the last quarter of 1972 and was 9.5 per cent above a year earlier.

The market basket is not a precise indicator of total food costs since it does not cover imported items like coffee or nonfarm items like fish. But it has long been used as a leading indicator of trends in food costs.

Economists said that while the retail cost of the basket was up 9.5 per cent from a year earlier, the return to farmers on food items included in the sample was 21 per cent higher, indicating that rising farm prices were responsible for much of the push in retail prices. Marketing costs were up 1.9 per cent from a year earlier.

Prosecutor choice pending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Dean, fired last week as White House legal counsel and vowing not to be a scapegoat in the Watergate affair, was summoned before Senate investigators today for questioning under oath about the scandal.

Dean, who claimed Thursday that there was an effort to prevent him from testifying "fully and freely," was subpoenaed by the Senate's Watergate investigating committee to appear before counsel for the panel in advance of public hearings starting next Thursday.

A few blocks away in the federal courthouse, the Watergate grand jury called in former FBI Acting Director L. Patrick Gray. The grand jury is expected to return more indictments soon, possibly against some high administration officials who like Gray resigned because of the scandal.

Dean issued a new statement suggesting a concerted effort to "get me" following published reports about what he knows about involvement of high-level officials in efforts to cover up the Watergate scandal.

Sen. Long not poisoned

HANNIBAL, Mo. (UPI) — "The air has been cleared," said the daughter of former Sen. Edward V. Long, D-MO., after autopsy results announced Thursday indicated the senator died of heart failure, and was not poisoned.

Dr. Stanley Hall, a Hannibal pathologist, announced the results at a tense news conference at Levering Hospital here.

Red gunners down 'copters

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops firing antiaircraft guns today forced down two Huey helicopters carrying government and Communist officers and held the occupants at gunpoint for nearly three hours before permitting them to fly on to Saigon, the South Vietnamese Command said.

One of the helicopters was hit and received slight damage but there was no report of casualties.

Blast jars Beirut

BEIRUT (UPI) — A thunderous explosion rocked Beirut today on the second day of a cease-fire between government troops and Palestinian guerrillas and an army communique said many persons were killed or seriously wounded. New fighting also was reported on the border with Syria.

(A seven-point cease-fire plan announced Thursday in Damascus was thought to have ended the fighting, now in its ninth day, but Israel was taking no chances and its experienced Golan Brigade continued "military exercises" in the Golan Heights in an implied warning to Syria to keep hands off. A military spokesman said tanks and planes were involved in the war games.)

The army communique said the explosion near the refugee camps in Beirut's southern outskirts at 9:30 a.m. was caused by a Mercedes car running over a mine, apparently laid during the recent truce in the area between the army and guerrillas.

Newsman, however, said they believed the explosion was caused by a timed explosive device placed in the car which was parked in a side street.

The explosion was the only incident reported in Beirut in the 12 hours between midnight and noon.

The army also reported a guerrilla attack on a customs post at Al Arida, 72 miles north of Beirut on the Syrian border.

'Mini-ranches' planned

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls trailer salesman who believes prefabricated living is the way of the future is subdividing 110 acres near the Snake River Canyon.

He expects to both sell land and prefabricated homes on his project, "Carter Mini-Ranches" near the famed Twin Falls.

"The developer, Mel Carter, has no plans for restrictions on the kind of construction or use to which the land is put."

"The thing is, people interested in this sort of thing maybe want a horse or a cow or two."

series

For this reason, unlike most other rimland developers, Carter hasn't set up restrictive covenants on his project.

Carter has already received approval of his plan, provided easements along public roads are increased by 15 feet, from the Twin Falls County Zoning Commission.

Carter plans to divide his property into lots of varying sizes, some of five acres, some two-and-a-half and some a little more than an acre.

The lots will sell from $1,500 to $2,500 an acre depending upon location. No part of Carter's subdivision is less than a quarter mile from the canyon rim.

Carter is a salesman for Hacienda Mobile Homes on Addison Avenue West. He says he may sell some of his lots in connection with the sale and installation of prefabricated homes costing about $20,000. (Continued on p. 14)

Nation's mother named at Denver

DENVER (UPI) — Ruth Y. Nelson, 69, says motherhood is an affair of the heart. "What's important is to be a mother of the heart, not just a mother of the flesh. Education of the heart is much more important than education of the head." Mrs. Nelson, a water-skiing grandmother of 16 children, was named National Mother of the Year Thursday. She was awarded the honor by the American Mothers Committee, Inc., of New York. "There is something we need to be really aware of in today's world," she said. "That is that the christian values of the home need to be emphasized."

Everything begins in the home. Mrs. Nelson and her husband, Pastor Clarence Nelson, a Lutheran minister, have been married for 40 years. They raised four children of their own and three foster children. The seven children, now adults, all were raised while the Nelsons were stationed with Lutheran churches for 25 years in Washington, Saudi Arabia, Geneva and Chicago. The couple moved to Minnesota four years ago and now live in Minneapolis. Mrs. Nelson, the author of six books on how to apply religion to everyday life, is not interested in women's liberation but she believes "young people are great." Mrs. Nelson said it is the role of women to make sure homes are joyful places where everybody loves to come. They should be real places of joy.

TF City, County differ over prisoner meal cost

By DAVID HOISMAN Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — This city wants to lower payments to the county for prisoner meals. A county commissioner says the payments will not be lowered "drastically." The matter will be settled Wednesday at a meeting called by county commissioners for all concerned.

Four cities — Twin Falls, Ellert, Kimberly and Bull — currently have a contractual agreement with the county under which they pay $1 per meal for prisoners held in the county jail under city ordinances. The agreement with the city of Twin Falls is two-way — providing a $1 reimbursement from the county for each meal served in the city jail to county prisoners.

A 1970 state law made the county responsible for all prisoners within the county. Present county jail facilities are often inadequate for the prisoner meals and the Twin Falls city jail is used to hold prisoners on an emergency or overnight basis.

The time has come for renewal of the annual contracts and the City of Twin Falls has asked that the meal cost exchange be lowered to 65 cents per meal.

In explaining the request, City Manager Jean Milar cited reports that actual county costs per prisoner meal have dropped to "around 55 cents."

"Any county savings should be passed on to the cities," Milar said.

Using 90 meals served by the county to city prisoners and 20 meals served by the city to county prisoners as an average month, Milar said city costs for the meal exchange would drop from $67 to $49.50 per month under the 65 cent plan.

County Commissioner Chairman William Chancey confirmed that per meal costs of the county have dropped from 90 cents to between 55 cents and 60 cents since Mrs. Opal Hallmark was hired last November to prepare the two daily meals the county serves each prisoner.

the actual cost of the food she buys and prepares.

But Commissioner Merl Leonard was doubtful that the county would agree to reduced meal payments by the cities.

"I'm sure that we are not going to reduce them drastically and then be caught short-changed," he said.

The 55 cents to 60 cent per meal figure represents only the food and labor costs, according to Leonard. He said incidentals provided the prisoners, such as tobacco, soap, razor blades, and laundry, are not included. The claims department of the county auditor's office recorded purchases totaling $850 for incidental prisoner items from November through March, including cleaning of blankets and purchase of new mattresses.

According to Mrs. Hallmark, 6,742 prisoner meals were served during the same period, for an average incidental expense of 8.8 cents per prisoner meal.

Using the commissioners' top per meal cost figure and adding the average incidental expense, prisoner meals should cost the county no more than 69 cents.

"As far as savings, we will definitely pass them on if they exist," he said.

TF talent for concert

TWIN FALLS — Fifteen Twin Falls youngsters will have the opportunity to appear with the Carpenters when the popular group gives a concert here Sunday night.

Several weeks ago an agent for the group contacted Richard Smack, Twin Falls high school choral director, asking for 15 local singers to participate in the Twin Falls concert, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the CSI gymnasium.

Smack told them his Madrigal Singers would be happy to oblige, but learned fifth and sixth graders were wanted. So Claire Theodor and Ruth Turner, vocal music directors in the city's five grade schools, were then contacted to select the desired number of students.

They will join with Karen and Richard Carpenter in "Sing." The students and the schools they represent are Linda Berney, Kelli Priest and Becky Fouts, Huckle; Kim Roseanu, Kurt Roseanu and Sherri Day, Washington; Susan Beckstead, Lisa Benoit and Nancy Donnelly, Lincoln; Leslie Mauldin, Scott Stonely and Lynn Stosich Morningside, and Bart VanderDoes, Eric Mendhuca and Kahluace Semple, Harrison.

Mothers fete set in Rupert

RUPERT — Mothers will be honored throughout their special day at the Rupert Elks Lodge Sunday.

A family style buffet breakfast will be served from 9 to 11:30 a.m. The traditional Mother's Day Tribute Service will be conducted at 9:30 a.m.

Participating in the tribute service will be Charles B. Park, excited ruler; Jack Bell, leading knight; Derrick Rasmussen, loyal knight; James McAtee, lecturer; knight, Jim Winn, chaplain;

Steve Sanders, esquire. Mrs. Alfred Tails will provide piano music.

Guest speaker for the service will be Rev. Ted Meter, minister of the Congregational Church, Elmore, Pa.

Richard R. Orville, inner guard, will act as master of ceremonies.

A special Mothers' Day dinner will be served from noon to 4 p.m. in Chef Larry Jordan and Emery Carson, club manager and past exalted ruler, have planned the breakfast and dinner. All events are open to the public.

Two resign

TWIN FALLS — Police Chief Frank Barnett today announced two patrolmen have resigned from the force.

He said Don Hamman who has been with the department since 1970 has resigned effective May 8. John Wellard, also a patrolman with the department about the same length of time has also resigned. He is moving to Pocatello, Barnett said.

Tests were taken this week by several applicants for the vacancies, the police chief said, but no appointments have been made as yet.

Another vacancy also exists on the department and the city is looking for a retired person or someone interested in working in Shoshone Falls Park this summer. The work involves police duty and "public relations," Barnett said. This year the officer will also be in charge of collecting $2 per night camping fees from mobile homes, campers and others wishing to camp in the area overnight.

Meet the man who enjoys simplicity.

"People like to know who they're buying a car from and how that man runs his business. That's why I'm proud to show my face. In this ad and at my dealership.

When you treat people fairly, they'll come back to you for their next car, too.

And the more customers we get, the lower the price on the cars we sell. It's a happy thing to run a simple business.

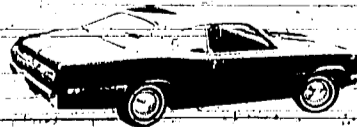

It's such a straightforward way to run a business that you may think the other car dealers are laughing at us.

But believe me, they're not laughing.

What Of Nixon's Image Abroad

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There is a great deal written these days on how Watergate will so weaken President Nixon's position he will be unable to carry out an effective foreign policy. Nonsense. Those writers have not read history. They don't understand that nations operate from self interest — otherwise how account for the arrangements with China and the Soviet Union. Finally, they don't understand or won't face the extent of political scandal in virtually every nation with which we deal.

President Truman, who began as a vigorous president, was not noticeably hampered by the suspicions which surrounded him — from the beginning of his term because of his longtime friendship with crooked party bosses, his close alliance with friends and hangers-on who used White House influence for favors, or finally by the multitude of scandals which enveloped his administration toward the end of his presidency.

It will be recalled that some of the scandals which developed during the Truman administration actually led, after Mr. Truman's term was ended, to the conviction and imprisonment of Assistant Attorney General Lamar Caudle, and Matthew Connolly, who had been in the White House as Mr. Truman's appointments secretary. Mr. Truman, too, defended his old friends.

One can argue that Watergate was different in that it affected, or was meant to affect, the political process. But there are few countries in the world where this will come as a surprise — or where election scandals are more shocking than large-scale fraud and influence buying.

As secretary of State, Dean Acheson did not lose his effectiveness as a result of his close personal friendship with a protégé accused of having engaged in espionage for the Soviet Union and sent to prison for perjury in the matter.

Acheson was not noticeably touched even after telling reporters in a dramatic meeting that "I will not turn my back on Alger Hiss."

A reading of history tells us those American presidents who have been strong in foreign policy have pursued negotiations with forcefulness and imagination, regardless of their position at home and without relationship to the prestige of the United States at the time.

Turning from scandals, President Johnson was viewed with high disfavor in a number of foreign nations for his part in the Vietnam war. Yet on matters in which he took an active interest, Mr. Johnson was powerful in his dealings abroad.

It must not be forgotten that a considerable number of the key countries with which Mr. Nixon will deal in the years just ahead are accustomed to major scandals in high government places. These nations are not likely to let a White House scandal interfere with their national interests. Certainly some will attempt to use Watergate politically as leverage to embarrass Mr. Nixon in order to get a better deal. But it seems unlikely Watergate will affect the outcome unless the President's blood turns to water, which is improbable.

With some countries, there will be a positive spin-off. As one African newspaper put it, it is easy to talk these days of corruption in the United States, but in how many other countries could newspapers so openly criticize the chief executive?

That is, in some countries there now may be a clearer understanding of the deep strengths of a democracy.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Birth Control

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 26 and pregnant with my third child. This is the last that my husband and I want, so we were thinking about having my tubes tied.

I'm wondering whether this is a good idea or if a hysterectomy would be preferable. I guess I'd like your opinion on which would cause fewer problems in the future. Can you explain what discomfort I'd have, or if my monthly periods or sex life would be different if the tubes were tied or I had a hysterectomy. — Mrs. P. A. S.

Hysterectomy (removal of the uterus) is major surgery, and should be done only for sound medical reasons — removal of fibroid tumors, excessive bleeding, or other disease condition. Birth control would not be a valid reason for such a serious operation.

Tube-tying (ligation) is much more logical, since it is a comparatively simple operation and the recovery period is very brief. Contraception from a hysterectomy may not be, and it is a very much more costly procedure in terms of hospital stay and all that goes with it.

Ligation involves the severing of the Fallopian tubes (through which ova, or eggs, pass to reach the uterus to be fertilized) and tying the ends of the tubes to close them.

Either operation, to be sure, prevents further pregnancy, but once the uterus is removed, it is impossible to have children ever again. When the tubes are tied, there is a 50-50 chance, or thereabouts, that they can later be reconstructed. At 20 you do not know what the future holds, and it is possible that some years hence you might want to attempt such reconstruction.

As to discomfort, after hysterectomy you will have the tenderness that accompanies major abdominal surgery, while the tissues heal; but there is scant if any discomfort after tube ligation.

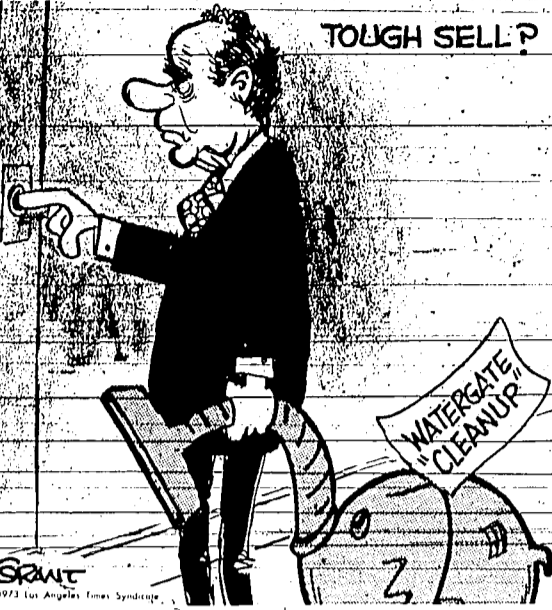

In either case, there is no change in your sex life — except that so many false stories have been told about hysterectomy that some women expect some drastic change, and if they expect it, the emotions may take charge and cause it to be so. But there is no physical reason for it.

After hysterectomy, menstrual periods cease, since the menstrual bleeding is the shedding of the lining of the uterus, and with no uterus, no periods. There is no change in menstruation from tying of the tubes.

Those Arrests

WASHINGTON — Nobody knows how many people will eventually be arrested in the Watergate case, but so many people have been implicated that the Justice Department has contingency plans ready when the indictments are finally handed down.

On May 1, 1971, 12,000 people were arrested in Washington, D. C., in an antiwar demonstration. A Justice official told me he didn't expect the Watergate to break this record, but the department wasn't taking any chances.

"Since D. C. jail may not be able to accommodate everyone involved in the Watergate, we've rented the R.F.K. Stadium to handle the overflow. We also have an option on the Coliseum in case the R.F.K. Stadium fills up."

"That's good thinking," I said. "We also have chartered buses in Washington, Maryland and Virginia to transport people to the detention centers. During the May Day demonstrations in 1971, we were accused of violating the constitutional rights of the 12,000 people we picked up, and we don't intend to be criticized for mishandling the Watergate arrests."

"Do you have enough lawyers to defend all the Watergate people?"

"We don't in Washington, but we have 3,000 lawyers standing by in Boston; 2,000 in New York and 4,000 in Chicago. If this is not enough, the President has authority to call up the American Bar Association Reserve."

"We have 30 C-5A transport planes that can fly a division of airborne lawyers to Washington in two hours."

"You've thought of everything," I told the Justice Department official.

"Obviously when you have mass arrests such as we're expecting in the Watergate case, there will be some abuses, but we intend to have Justice Department lawyers spread out in every section of town to see that the rights of the people are protected. The police have been instructed to use as little force as possible, and no tear gas unless it is absolutely necessary."

"You seem to be following the guidelines of former Attorney General Mitchell," I suggested.

"Yes, the former attorney general was very interested in mass arrests, though I'm certain he never thought we would have to use the same guidelines so soon."

"How long do you think it will take to arraign all the people?"

"It's hard to say. If we can get several judges over to R.F.K. Stadium, I wouldn't think anyone would have to be detained for more than 48 hours. But if we have to transport them to the federal Courthouse, I can't see how we could get everyone processed in less than a week."

"Is it possible that some of the people you pick up in the Watergate case may be innocent and falsely accused?"

"There's always that possibility," the Justice Department official said, "but we're not talking about an ordinary situation now. We're talking about the Watergate. And whenever you have that many citizens involved in anything, innocent people are going to be caught up in the dragnet. How can you ask a policeman to say to someone in the middle of a mass arrest, 'Did you or didn't you have anything to do with the Watergate case and the coverup?'"

ANDREW TULLY

The Refuge

WASHINGTON — I suppose we should tolerate the United Nations as a refuge for rich men's sons who failed bar examinations, unfracked chiropractors, rejected politicians, academic hustlers, unemployed uplifters and silly women, but there should be a limit placed on financing the comforts and luxuries provided for these floaters.

Thus, I find comfort in the attempt by the United States to crack down on the deadbeats within that spurious collection of international mischief-makers, William E. Schaufele Jr., of the U. S. delegation, has rebuked foreign diplomats for not paying rent, charge accounts, loans and other bills, and has threatened to expose their books to their colleagues.

Schaufele told a UN committee meeting that delegates have left New York "leaving strings of unpaid bills." One delegation, he said, was seven months behind on office rent and another had not paid telephone or Telex bills for seven months. In the future, he said, the U. S. would provide a list of the welters to committee members.

Naturally, UN officialdom was outraged by Schaufele's airing of the problem, but not for any reasons concerned with war and peace. Constantine Stavroupolis, UN legal counsel, deplored the threat to tattle on the offenders. He declared, apparently with a straight face, that identifying the deadbeats to their colleagues would result in the situation becoming "public gossip."

Although admittedly most UN bureaucrats would have difficulty discovering the time of day, Stavroupolis had to be kidding. The casually thieving attitude of many UN diplomats toward honest debts has been public knowledge among New York stakeholders ever since the Rockefeller family burdened us with this colony of outpurses.

And no wonder. Under international law, diplomats serving in a foreign country get a license to steal called diplomatic immunity. That means they may not be dragged into court to pay their champagne and caviar bills, or even for shooting dead a merchant who audaciously suggests they remit a couple of back on an account going back to June 1965. Indeed, during the Truman administration one of these mining scoundrels announced that he could not guarantee the safety of our embassy in his country if an automobile dealer continued to harass him about an unpaid repair bill. "Tell him for me," Truman informed UN Ambassador Warren Austin, "that if one American is so much as nudged off a sidewalk I'll send in the Marines."

Although the UN spends most of its time doing nothing about international disturbances of the peace, its delegates also have become one of New York City's biggest traffic problems. Schaufele announced that during the past 28 months 7,902 parking tickets had been served on diplomatic vehicles — and, of course, ignored. He did not mention that New Yorkers whose cars were wrecked in accidents with cars driven by UN diplomats were balked by diplomatic immunity from collecting damages.

Anyway, Schaufele has decreed that beginning June 1 our UN guests will find traffic violations a touch more inconvenient. After that date, all excess from payment of fines must be signed by the chief of mission rather than by subordinate members. This requirement may even deny the cocktail hour by a few minutes.

You're right. The Soviet Union was heard from on this one. Sergei Smirnov complained that U. S. complaints about UN parking violations had "damaged the reputation" of the diplomatic community. This is like saying a report that a Maltese pilot hit his nails in grounds for libel. Nor can I work myself up into a frenzy of indignation over Smirnov's complaint that the publicity has inspired vandalism against diplomats' horseless carriages.

I am against vandalism, even when directed against petty chiselers in striped pants. But we're all human, and I expect that if I emerged from Gwendolyn Oldé English Tea Shoppe to find my car ticketed and that of a UN flunky undetected, the temptation would be strong to kick the diplomatic conveyance in the pants.

Senior Citizens

By presidential proclamation, May was designated as Senior Citizens Month in honor of the more than 20 million Americans who, in President Nixon's words, "have six and a half decades or more of life behind them, and rich years of promise still before them."

The theme of this year's observance is "Older Americans in Action." This is appropriate because tens of thousands of older Americans are literally in ACTION, with capital letters, as volunteers in the citizen service corps.

In fact, 30,000 men and women aged 60 and over are in ACTION's programs, according to Michael P. Balzano, director-designate of the agency.

The programs are RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program), the Foster Grandparent Program and SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives). In addition, about 800 volunteers 50 and over are active in VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America), the Peace Corps and University Year for ACTION.

ACTION's oldest volunteer is Pearl Williams, who celebrates her 104th birthday May 22. She serves four hours five days a week in the Foster Grandparent Program by caring for two mentally retarded children in a day care center in Compton, Calif.

SCORE is another program offering a variety of part-time volunteer activity. There are 4,700 SCORE volunteers men and women who have completed their business careers, counseling small businessmen with operation and management problems in their own communities across the nation and in Puerto Rico. Since 1964 more than 200,000 people have been helped by SCORE.

VISTA and the Peace Corps, on the other hand, are full-time. Each requires a commitment. One year for VISTA, two for the Peace Corps. The latter sends volunteers to 59 countries throughout the world.

Most older people are not mere onlookers in our society, nor are they society's wards, notes the President in his proclamation.

"They remain vital, versatile and highly valued contributors to the quality of American life."

School Plan

Oregon voters rejected by a large majority a proposal to have the state take over 95 per cent of the funding for public schools and reduce property taxes accordingly, and in so doing shot down a popular myth.

The theory that property taxes have reached such onerous proportions in most states that taxpayers would accept almost any alternative to finance the schools was not upheld in the Oregon plebiscite.

Gov. Tom McCall, who barntormed the state in support of the referendum, says he thinks he understands why his efforts were rejected. The voters did not want to give up control over local school fiscal and operating policies.

That may be part of the answer. To replace the forfeited property taxes, the referendum proposed increasing both personal and business income taxes. When it comes to trading off one tax for another, it is difficult to create voter enthusiasm.

MR. SPECTATOR

56,000 Fatalities!

Before this year has ended it is estimated that 50,300 Americans — perhaps even Mr. Spectator or you will have died in traffic accidents. On top of that there will be two million traffic accident injuries and the economic loss will stand at $17.3 billion.

Can we do anything about it? The experts on things like this say we have the knowledge right now to reduce this death and injury rate by more than 90 per cent. We know — they tell us — that more than 50,000 lives can be saved every year simply by correcting hazards the Highway Safety Foundation's research has exposed.

In other words, much of the fault lies in the highway system as it now is — but that is another story.

All we are bringing this up for at this time is to caution all you folks that the Memorial Day three-day holiday period is nearly here and that hundreds will die during those three days.

It really isn't necessary — but it will probably be so.

Just make sure you are not among the fatalities — or the injured. OK?

WHERE IT HURTS

Economists say the cost of living cannot be judged entirely by prices. A survey has just noted, for instance, that the cost-of-living indexes do not take into account higher quality of many products. In such cases the consumer is paying more, but is really getting more.

This may be true for manufactured goods, such as tires which run more miles and drugs which shorten illnesses. But for the housewife in the supermarket, carrots are still carrots — and she sees little change in them except the prices.

Foods do not seem to last any longer than they ever did and they are the day-by-day pocketbook items which every household feels.

Libyan strongman follows Nasser

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Libya's strongman, Muammar Khadafy, who sees himself as natural successor to the late Abdel Gamal Nasser, is taking pages from Nasser's book to carry out his short and long-term objectives of destroying Israel and creating one vast Arab nation.

On the one hand, he offers unlimited aid to the Palestinian guerrillas in their resistance to Lebanese efforts to limit their activities against Israel originating in Lebanon.

Carried to extremes, this presumably could include use of his French-built Mirage war planes against either Lebanon or Israel.

Analysis

On the other, he exports money, arms and propaganda Nasser-style to promote Moslem revolutionary movements in particular and anti-imperialist movements in general.

In Africa he is using Libya's oil riches in an attempt to bludgeon black African nations into supporting the Arab cause against Israel and to make Moslem influence preeminent.

He has notified the Organization for African Unity that Libya will boycott its upcoming 10th anniversary meeting in Addis Ababa unless the OAU adopts a clear stand against Israel and on other matters in a way satisfactory to Libya.

More than a score of the OAU's 41 members have significant Moslem populations and the Khadafy campaign already is having its effect. Chad, Mali, Niger, Uganda and the Congo Republic have broken their relations with Israel. The first four lie along the so-called "fault line" which divides Moslem and Arab-speaking Africa from the black Christian-Animist peoples of the south.

Among others, Mauritania, Senegal, Gambia, Guinea, the Sudan and Somalia are predominantly Moslem.

Libyan support for the Moslem uprising in Chad ceased after Chad's break with Israel.

In a divided Africa, the mere fact of the OAU's survival for 10 years is a surprise. The Khadafy challenge could be the end of it. Among Arab leaders Khadafy is probably the most extreme. His foreign relations, even with other Arab states, are filled with contradictions. He has declared Libya's union with Egypt, scheduled for next September, a "matter of destiny, a matter of life and death."

Yet he is taking care that Libya's oil income of around $2 billion a year is to be kept apart from the hard-pressed Egyptian economy.

He has declared that both Syria and Egypt turned down his request for base facilities from which to conduct air strikes against Israel after last February's shooting down of a Libyan airliner by Israeli fighter planes.

He said he withdrew Libyan "volunteers" from the Palestine guerrillas because other Arab states had "crippled" guerrilla operations. Lebanon, he said, had rejected an offer of "thousands of armed volunteers" for action against Israel.

At home, he has demanded that his people participate in a Moslem "cultural revolution." So far, the people's enthusiasm has not matched his own religious ardor.

Nixon's pick

NOMINATED by President Nixon to be Defense Secretary is James Schlesinger (right), who has served the past four months as CIA director. Schlesinger had entered spotlight day earlier when he testified at closed hearing of Senate Appropriations Committee on whether the CIA aided in secret check of Daniel Ellsberg. Pentagon papers case defendant. William E. Golby, deputy CIA director, was chosen to succeed Schlesinger. (UPI)

Solar study Skylab task

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — The Skylab space station's solar observatory may help scientists learn more about the sun than in decades of previous solar research on earth.

The sun is still largely a mystery, although it is one of the most widely studied objects in the sky.

Several solar viewing instruments within the observatory, called the Apollo Telescope Mount (ATM), will provide more basic scientific facts and may also give solar physicists practical information about earth weather and atmospheric disturbances.

Dr. Robert MacQueen of the High Altitude Observatory, Boulder, Colo., one of the principal investigators who will analyze data collected on three planned Skylab missions, said scientists will be able to build a picture of space at all heights with "this unique opportunity" in solar physics.

"This is a major breakthrough in our ability to observe the sun," MacQueen said at a briefing at the Marshall Space Flight Center where the telescope mount was developed.

Skylab, largest space station ever built, is being prepared for launch Monday, May 14 from Cape Kennedy. Three separate three-man crews will board it during the next eight months.

The earth's atmosphere has hindered close study of the sun because it scatters sunshine, making the daytime sky much brighter than the solar atmosphere, and because it blocks out most of the radiation given off by the sun.

Basic research information will be gathered by the ATM on the solar corona, the sun's extremely hot atmosphere, which is thought to be the major source of the sun's energy. Relatively little is known about the corona now, since solar eclipses have been the only chance for scientists on earth to look at it.

Dr. Guert Oertel, chief of the solar physics branch of the U.S. Space Agency, said that Skylab research will help explain how commercial power systems can be wiped out by magnetic disturbances from the sun. "The weather is nothing but a big solar-driven storm on a globe," he said. "Recently we have found new evidence that the weather reacts rather dramatically to effects that come to us from the sun."

Another possible application of solar knowledge will be to

Japanese industrialists courting Arabian sheiks

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's fuel-hungry industrial tycoons have begun a furious courtship of the kings and sheiks in the oil countries of the Moslem Middle East.

Their goal is to win for Japan an assured supply of oil in a world threatened by future petroleum shortages.

In return they offer certain Middle East nations a chance to industrialize, with a strong injection of Japanese capital and industrial skills.

The move will do nothing to help Japan's edgy relations with Israel, where suspicion of Japan's ties with the oil countries already is acute. It could also do Japan harm in the United States, where pro-Israel American Jews are an influential voting bloc.

Nevertheless, the decision has been made. The man carrying it out is Minister of International Trade and Industry Yasuhiro Nakasone now on a tour of Iran, Kuwait, Abu Dhabi and Saudi Arabia.

In Tehran, Nakasone told Iranian leaders Japan would not join the association of oil-consuming countries proposed by the United States. He promised to examine Japan's long standing policy of buying only crude oil, and refining it at home.

He also presided over founding of a Japanese-Iranian company with a capital of $50 million. Known as the Iran-Japan Petrochemical Co., it will be owned half by the Iranian government and half by companies in Japan's Mitsui conglomerate.

Before the end of the year the new firm will start work on Iran's first big petro-chemical complex at Bandal Shapur port on the Persian Gulf. Capable of producing 400,000 tons of ethylene a year, it is to go into operation in 1976.

Earlier, a high level Japanese business mission returned April 2 from a visit to Saudi Arabia. Headed by Yoshio Shimada, head of the government's corporation for oil development, the group met King Feisal and laid the groundwork for construction of a billion-dollar oil-refinery complex.

The plan is for Japan to build it and take payment in oil. Nissan Motor Co., maker of Datsun cars, is reported close to a decision to open a truck assembly plant in Saudi Arabia on a knockdown basis. Nissan long had considered going into Israel, but this idea probably will be dropped if the Saudi Arabian deal goes through.

Behind all these overtures to the Moslem world lies Japan's desperate need for oil. Her imports of crude oil reached about 1.87 billion barrels in 1972. Japan has almost none of her own.

With her motor vehicle census now above the 20 million mark, Japan's intake of oil has been growing at a rate of around 17 per cent a year. Most Japanese now heat their homes with oil stoves. Traditional heating with charcoal has almost vanished in the last 10 years.

Japan's basic approach is to the more conservative, Western-aligned Middle East countries. Nakasone is steering clear of Iraq, Syria and other places where the Palestine revolutionary cause has its bases.

On a smaller scale, Japan also is improving her relationship with Egypt. An agreement

Church endorses new dam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said today "the threat to the well-being of the people of the region requires that American Falls dam be replaced at the earliest possible time."

The Idaho senator made the comment as he opened hearings before the Senate interior subcommittee on water and power resources, which he chairs, on the future of the dam.

Church, together with the other members of the Idaho congressional delegation, has introduced two bills to replace the dam, built in 1927, and now badly deteriorating because of a chemical reaction between the cement and the aggregate in the concrete.

The first bill would authorize the secretary of the interior to replace the dam as part of the regular federal reclamation program.

The second bill would give congressional authorization to a plan developed by the water users which they would finance and construct a replacement dam "without federal assistance." The secretary of the interior would be authorized to then take title to the dam and operate it as part of the "Federal Upper Snake River reclamation project."

Gave Cecil D. Andrus and a delegation of Idaho ranchers, farmers and businessmen also testified at the hearing today.

GOP super secretaries abolished

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the staff shakeup brought on by Watergate, President Nixon has abolished a system of "super secretaries" which critics said shielded him from the public, the press and even members of his own cabinet.

In a series of moves Thursday, Nixon shifted CIA director James H. Schlesinger over to head the defense department, promoted one of Schlesinger's deputies, William F. Calby, to head the Central Intelligence Agency, and brought former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally back into the White House as a special, part-time adviser on both foreign and domestic matters.

He also named J. Fred Buzhardt Jr., dir. Defense Department's chief lawyer, to the temporary post of special assistant to handle matters relating to the Watergate case from White House standpoint and to help develop proposals for new laws to prevent shady campaign practices in the future.

Nixon disclosed the changes in an hour and a half cabinet session in which he also announced he was abolishing a four-month-old system under which three cabinet members held super secretary status and settled disputes among the various departments before they ever got to the President.

Some of the other members of the cabinet and high officials had grumbled that this system put too many layers between them and the President and made him even more inaccessible.

Nixon's decision was announced by his spokesman, Ronald L. Ziegler, who said the President told his department heads he wanted a "more direct line of communication with them."

This following the departure of the chief White House gatekeepers H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, apparently signaled dismantling of the "Berlin Wall" which critics said isolated the President from his subordinates.

Under the old system put into effect in February, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger, Housing and Urban Development Secretary James T. Lynn and Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz had the responsibility for coordinating all programs, respectively, in three broad categories of human resources, community development and natural resources.

Connally, the only Democrat to serve in the Nixon cabinet before his departure last summer, recently switched from the Democratic to the Republican party.

Grand jury indicts four

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans were indicted Thursday on charges of perjury and obstructing an investigation into a financier's deal in exchange for a $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Also indicted by a federal grand jury were the financier, Robert J. Vesco, 37, former board chairman of International Controls Corp. (ICC), and Harry L. Sears, former Republican leader of the New Jersey Senate.

Mitchell and Stans were the first former Cabinet members indicted since the Teapot Dome scandal in Wyoming 60 years ago.

Entering the Capitol in Washington to testify before investigators for the Senate Watergate Committee, Mitchell said, "There has been no wrongdoing by me or anyone else that I know of in connection with this matter and when they have a proper and appropriate judicial proceeding I am sure we will all be vindicated."

Stans said in a statement issued through the Nixon re-election campaign headquarters, "I am greatly dismayed by the action of the grand jury. I have full faith and confidence in God and in American justice. I expect that when all the facts are heard I will be vindicated."

The indictment charged that Mitchell and Stans, "by deceit, craft, trickery and means that are dishonest," interfered with an investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission into Vesco's affairs. The SEC later filed a civil suit accusing Vesco and 41 others of milking four foreign mutual funds of $244 million.

All four were charged with conspiracy, obstruction of justice and obstruction of a criminal investigation. Mitchell and Stans also were charged with six counts each of perjury.

The conspiracy and perjury charges carry maximum penalties of five years in jail and a $10,000 fine each. The obstruction charges carry penalties of five years in jail and $5,000 each.

At the time that Vesco allegedly handed over the $200,000, Mitchell was chairman of the Committee to Reelect the President and Stans was the committee's finance chairman.

Vesco met with Stans March 8, 1972, and offered to give at least $250,000, and possibly $500,000 to Nixon's campaign, the indictment said. It said

Stans asked that $230,000 in cash be paid before April 7, 1972, when the new campaign fund disclosure law went into effect.

Mitchell told then presidential counsel John W. Dean III, now implicated in the Watergate coverup, to seek a postponement from Casey of SEC subpoenas served on ICC employees, the indictment said, "to prevent or delay disclosure by them of facts relating to the secret Vesco contribution."

AIM conference 'on' as planned

WOUNDEE, S.D. (UPI) — A meeting between 10 Indian representatives and White House officials will be held May 17 as scheduled, but leaders of the militant American Indian Movement will not attend, a spokesman for AIM said Thursday.

Confirmation that the meeting would take place came from Ramon Roubideaux, chief counsel for AIM, the group that spearheaded the 71-day takeover of this historic barge.

Roubideaux said an agreement had been reached with Justice Department officials allowing for the meeting despite a call by one federal official who said negotiations should not be held.

Richard Neilsen, deputy assistance attorney general, said the meeting should be called off because the militants had not complied with the May 15 agreement. Under the agreement, the Wounded Knee occupiers were supposed to surrender all weapons and provide a list of the occupiers.

Roubideaux, speaking in Rapid City, S.D., where most of the AIM leaders are jailed, said the agreement had been violated on both sides "but as a whole has been followed."

Roubideaux said an agreement was reached Thursday with Kent Frizzell, Interior Department solicitor, to go ahead with the meeting May 17 although AIM leaders will not participate.

He said AIM leaders "really have nothing to do with the meeting."

'Impound' bill ok'd by Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four times this year federal courts have ruled President Nixon violated the Constitution when he decided last December not to spend more than $12 billion appropriated by Congress, some of it over his veto.

Thursday, the Senate voted 69-21 to try to make it illegal for any president to impound funds in that manner unless Congress ratifies the impoundment within 60 days.

At the same time, it voted 86-4 to spend even less than Nixon proposed in his budget for fiscal 1974, which starts July 1.

The budget called for spending $268.7 billion. The Senate voted to hold spending to a ceiling $700 million below that figure. If it appropriates over the ceiling, all programs would be cut back proportionately.

The bill was sent to the House, where the Rules Committee is working on similar legislation.

But anything Congress passes in this field is likely to be vetoed. Thursday's Senate vote was slightly larger than the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto.

Discontent

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Elizabeth K. Anderson wants her alimony boosted from $100 to $150 a month, arguing her former husband has assets of $1.8 million.

Mrs. Anderson, 38, was divorced from her husband, 49, in 1929 after 14 years of marriage. Both live in Seattle homes.

Congress wins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Time has run out in Congress on President Nixon's policies in Indochina.

For the first time since the war began, both houses now appear to have solid majorities demanding an end to U.S. involvement in the conflict. The House reversed its eight-year stand of unwavering support for the war and voted 219-188 Thursday to block funding for the bombing of Cambodia.

Cheers went up as the electronic scoreboard clock ticked off the final seconds of the vote handing President Nixon a major foreign policy setback.

"Five, four, three, two, one," the critics of the war chanted in unison as if watching the closing seconds of a basketball game. The now computer-controlled voting machine then was locked and the verdict sealed.

"Give them a little more time," pleaded Chairman George Mahon of the House Appropriations Committee, his lanky Texas frame leaning over a lectern in the well as he faced nearly 100 of his colleagues and urged that Nixon be given a few more weeks to obtain compliance with the Jan. 28 cease-fire accords.

"The communists are testing us," Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., warned. "They want to see how far they can push us. This amendment would play into their hands."

"We are at the verge of possibly getting a peace agreement now," implored Rep. Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif. Right today, Henry Kissinger has been in Russia to talk about the possibility of getting them to twist some arms. Don't pull the rug out from under him."

But the old arguments did not go down. The House rose up in a roar and passed an amendment by Rep. Joseph Adabbo, D-N.Y., to block a $430 million funds transfer to relieve budget shortages at the Pentagon created by the war's continuing drain of resources.

That action was followed minutes later by approval of another amendment to the $2.8 billion catchall supplemental appropriations bill by Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., barring use of any of funds in the bill to support directly or indirectly combat activities in, over or from the shores of Cambodia by United States forces.

Industrial accidents up

BOISE (UPI) — Industrial accidents are exacting a heavy toll of injuries — sometimes deaths — in Idaho, a safety statistician told a legislative interim committee today.

Smedley and Industrial Commissioner Will Defenbach asked the committee to endorse a proposed $24,826, federally-financed statistical reporting system that would assist the states should the legislature decide to put Occupational Safety and Health Act enforcement in state instead of federal hands.

Both Smedley and Defenbach told the committee the state could use the information even if the federal government still continues inspections in the private sector because the state must inspect the public sector.

Industrial accidents are costing $10 million, Smedley said. He said this could be reduced by 10 per cent at least.

He said the cost would be $400,000 and "anytime I can spend $400,000 and cut costs by $1 million I think that's a good investment."

Smedley said a company in Nampa has a 103 per cent accident frequency rate — theoretically meaning every employee has at least one injury on the job per year. He said the company is losing somewhere in the neighborhood of 1,150 workdays.

On questioning from the committee he said the accident rate for this particular industry — mobile home manufacture — was not high. He called it instead representative.

Earlier, a staff researcher told the committee there is little likelihood the federal Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) will be repealed.

"Idaho is butchering people," George Smedley, statistical supervisor for the State Industrial Commission, told the committee. "Sometimes I have trouble eating lunch."

CSI course set

TWIN FALLS — A course in physical geology will be offered this summer at College of Southern Idaho, according to Dr. Marvin Strope, professor of geology.

He said the course will include identification of common rocks and minerals and a study of the important geologic processes.

Dr. Strope said summer is the best time to study geology because good weather permits field trips to such places as Craters of the Moon and City of Rocks.

Interested persons should contact the registrar's office at CSI. Classes start June 1.

Baptists set TF meet

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho State Association of Free Will Baptists will hold its annual meeting at the Twin Falls church tonight and Saturday.

Rev. Rufus Coffey, executive secretary for the denomination, from Nashville, Tenn., will be guest speaker at tonight's session which begins at 8 p.m. He has pastored many churches in the denomination before taking this executive position.

Rev. Edward Johns, California state moderator and pastor of the Greenfield, Calif., church, will be guest speaker Saturday morning.

Theme for the annual convocation will be "Is There Not a Cause," using scripture I Samuel 17:29.

Rev. Coffey will also speak at area churches next week including the Jerome Free Will Baptist Church Sunday morning, Twin Falls church on South Washington Street, Sunday evening; Bull Free Will Baptist Church Monday night, and Boise Free Will Baptist Church Tuesday night.

The public is invited to any of these services, according to Rev. Bill Johnson, state moderator.

REV. Orville Lansberry and his wife, Bertha, look over the charred and broken remains of their parish home next to the Church of God in Wainfield, S. D., as they returned home. They left when members of the American Indian Movement (AIM) took over the town Feb. 27 and held it for 71 days. AIM members surrendered Tuesday. (UPI)

Vandalism complete

Church

Religious fraud prevalent today

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The government can protect the public from tainted food, misleading advertisements and fraudulent stock offers, but it cannot easily stop people from playing sucker or playing others for suckers in the name of religion.

To safeguard religious freedom, the U.S. Constitution forbids the government to license ministers as it does doctors, or to set standards for churches as it does for schools and hospitals. It is extremely difficult for any government agency to draw a legal distinction between a sincere religion and one that is a flagrant put-on.

Officials of the Federal Bureau of Prisons learned this when they declined to recognize as a real religion a sect called "The Church of the New Song" which was established by a group of inmates at the Atlanta penitentiary. The inmates, mostly serving long terms for murder or other major crimes, demanded that prison authorities provide them with time off and "facilities" to practice their religion. The "facilities" they sought — at government expense — included sirlin steaks and ample quantities of wine which they said were required for their weekly "rites."

When prison officials balked at this, calling it a transparent fraud, inmates appealed to the courts. Federal Judge Newell Edenfield recently ordered the Bureau of Prisons to recognize the new "religion" and allow its adherents to carry on their "rites."

Incidents of this type pop up in the news almost daily.

In California recently, sheriff's deputies raided an establishment called "The Church of Hi-Life." They found it to consist of two parts: an outer sanctum where "worshippers" could buy beer at a bar, and an inner sanctum where nude dancers performed.

In Washington, D. C., the Federal Communications Commission is trying to stop a radio station with a large inner-city black audience from broadcasting commercials in which listeners are told that reading certain Bible verses will bring them "financial blessings." The FCC contends the Bible verses really are jigs for numbers players. Thus, an exhortation to read "John 3:16" would be a coded tip to play the number 316. The FCC says this is using religion as a camouflage to promote an illegal activity. The station says it's just trying to 24 graduate from Blaine seminary

RICHFIELD — Twenty four students were graduated from the Blaine Stake LDS Seminary in services Sunday evening at the Blaine Stake Center in Richfield.

Stake president Oral G. Stewart presented diplomas to the students who have completed the four year course of study for the LDS Church seminaries.

The guest speaker was D. Harold B. Hulme, Boise, who is serving as the president of the Boise Stake MIA. He urged students to value their freedom, resist temptations, honor their parents, keep the commandments of God and endure to the end.

Hulme was introduced by Bishop Orlo Stevens, Gooding, Blaine Stake seminary coordinator.

The theme of the services, "In His Footsteps" taken from this year's course of study of the New Testament, was developed by student talks and music.

Student speakers were Kelvin Rands, Shoshone; Joseph C. Packer, Hailey, and Janiel Sorensen, Dietrich. Jonnie Pyrah, Carey, played an organ solo. A quartet composed of Holly Peck, Peggy Murdoch, Shane Thatcher and Jonnie Pyrah, all Carey, sang a hymn.

Michael Sorensen, Shoshone, and Steve Bowers, Richfield, offered prayers.

The prelude organ music was played by De Ann Dixon, Richfield. Holly Peck led the congregational singing. Austin Webb, Shoshone, played the processional.

Scholarships of $100 each to Ricks College were presented to Kelvin Rands, Shoshone, and Joanne Riley, Richfield, by Mervin L. Gifford, Central Idaho District Seminary Coordinator of Twin Falls.

Those receiving certificates of graduation were Robert Kay Admson, Connie Lou Green, Krea Mechem, Peggy Murdoch, Holly Peck, Jonnie Pyrah, Helda Stults and Louis Thatcher, all Carey; Debra Astle, Craig Sorensen and Janiel Sorensen, all Dietrich; Don E. Brower, Randy Brower, Tim Ellsworth and Joseph Packer, all Hailey.

Steve Bowers, De Ann Dixon, De Von Dayley and Cheryl Jensen, Richfield; and Connie Peterson, Kelvin Rands, Brenda Scott and Clair Thorne, Shoshone.

Those receiving certificates of achievement included, Dell Von Hiatt, Dietrich; Michael Sorensen, Shoshone, and Dennis Allred, Wade Allred and Joanne Riley, all Richfield.

Clover Lutheran women present fashion pageant

FILER — A pageant "Fashions for Followers" was a highlight of the May meeting of the Clover Lutheran Women's Missionary League in the church.

Mrs. Martin Knip, Mrs. Ingo Meyer and Mrs. William Hupprich served as narrators. Mrs. Gary Schroeder played background music on the organ. Models depicted women of the Bible. Those participating included Mrs. Roy Gartner, Mrs. Ray Lassen, Mrs. Vernon Lassen, Mrs. Lyle Lierman, Mrs. David Lutz and Mrs. T. D. Johnston.

The program concluded with a prayer by Mrs. Lutz and group singing.

Mrs. Charles Giddings was a guest. Mrs. Gary Schroeder reported those interested in handicrafts recently met, and classes will begin in September for those interested in making articles as "Service to Others."

Used clothing will be packed this month with good children's clothing going to the Young Mother's Counseling Service who will take it to the Gooding Deaf and Blind School. The remainder of the clothing will be given to World Relief.

The June meeting will be guest night. Married women of the congregation will be greeted and Mrs. Walter Kaster will be speaker at the meeting.

Baptists to present corsages to mothers

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Faye Bailey, chairman of the First Baptist Church, announced that a corsage will be presented to the mothers with the largest families present at the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services Sunday.

Others in the congregation have arranged for all mothers to be given carnations at the close of the services.

Rev. James B. Hughes urges all mothers and their families to be in the church of their choice on Mother's Day.

Nazarenes give mothers flowers

TWIN FALLS — "Flowers for our mothers" will be the theme for the Sunday morning service at the First Church of the Nazarene.

A carnation will be presented to each mother present and the service will highlight Christian motherhood, using songs, poems and the sermon.

Members of the church official board will be installed Sunday evening.

They include Don Edwards, Sunday school superintendent; Rose Mary Nelson, missionary president; Ray Grubbs, young people's president, and Doyle Mason, chairman; Charles Brockway, secretary, and Norman Garlington, Harold Jensen, Russell Rosenau and Rudy Loder Jr., trustees.

Stewards include Robert Koh, chairman; Lavern Boyd, Robert Clark, Hubert Hendrix, Lex Hoyer, Danny Peck, John Stevens, Marvin Robinson and Melvin Stokesberry. Educational committee includes Leona Anderson, chairman; Charles Johnson, Jim Jensen and James Hodgdon.

An all-church fellowship is planned for Wednesday night with a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. to be followed by a color film on eruption of a volcano now under way in Hawaii.

LDS institute holds exercises for sixteen

TWIN FALLS — Sixteen students of Southern Idaho College were graduated from the LDS Institute of Religion Sunday.

LaVar Steel, CSI fine arts chairman, spoke at the first annual graduation services. The institute choir sang several numbers.

Receiving diplomas were Wanda Adams, Delsa Allen, Cindy Arava, Carolyn Baum, Katherine Call, Wagner de Camargo, Kenneth Casper, John Cox, Laura Jo Darrington, Paul Edgerge, Ron Ellsworth, Sandra Fredrickson, Shinobu Kaneko, Donna Lance, Shigeko Maeda and Terry Todd.

"There is no charge for this service," he says. But he adds that his work is made possible by "free-will offerings" from applicants.

For a $20 "contribution," he'll award you a certificate awarding you the degree of doctor of divinity.

Hayride planned by youth

TWIN FALLS — "A Woman For All Seasons" is the title the Rev. Robert Van Nest has selected for his sermon to be delivered at Sunday worship services at the First Presbyterian Church.

The third grade class of the church school will be presented Bibles during the service.

The informal 9:30 a.m. worship service continues.

Junior and senior high school people of the church are invited to a hayride to Banbury's for a swimming party and barbecue from 2 to 7 p.m.

Mothers, daughters celebrate

TWIN FALLS — Women members of Our Savior Lutheran Church held their annual mother-daughter banquet Tuesday.

The well-attended banquet included singing by the Twin Falls High School Madrigals and a skit by church members on a women's retreat planned for the Stanley area in July.

Mistress of ceremonies for the dinner was Mrs. Mel Mueller, Twin Falls.

The Lutheran women held the banquet at the Bishop Rhea Auditorium at the Episcopal church of the Ascension.

Briefs

POCATELLO — A Twin Falls native has been accepted for graduate study at the California Institute for Technology at Pasadena, Calif. Brian Kent Lamb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lamb, Twin Falls, is an Idaho State University graduate, where he had a Nuclear Corp. scholarship. To attend the California Institute, Lamb was awarded a graduate assistantship and is additionally exempt from paying tuition.

TWIN FALLS — "Adam and Pallen Man" is the title of the lesson sermon in Sunday services at the Christian Science Church. The 9:30 p.m. Monday program on KTFI radio is entitled "Courage, Parents—Your Young Are Never Lost."

Medical program pursued by Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — The State Board of Education took steps Thursday toward establishing a two-state veterinary medicine program for Oregon State and the University of Idaho.

The board unanimously approved a motion directing the Office of Higher Education to pursue with Oregon State officials the possibility of establishing the cooperative program.

The Office of Higher Education also was directed to include an analysis of curriculum needs and financial obligations involved in such a program.

The program calls for students to attend the first two years of study at the University of Idaho and the last two years of clinical study at Oregon State at Corvallis.

Dr. Fred Graeber, Boise, an advisor to the Office of Higher Education, said the program would cost less than $500,000 per year.

It would allow 45 students from the two states to enter the program each year, 15 of them coming from Idaho and the remaining 30 from Oregon.

The board also approved other planning committee motions.

Directing the state's colleges and universities to submit mission reports.

Asking junior colleges to submit to the board budget analyses for fiscal year 1975.

—And directing the attorney general to research the Idaho statutes to see what legislation is necessary to bring the junior college system under the state board of education.

Under the Oregon-Idaho veterinary medicine pact, no money would exchange hands. All Oregon students would attend the University of Idaho as Idaho residents and Idaho students would attend the Corvallis institution as residents of Oregon.

Graeber told the board that it was more difficult for Idaho students to get into veterinary medicine than that of law or medicine.

Graeber said that he also has been in touch with Arizona, Utah and Washington concerning the program.

Under the proposal asking the states institutions of higher education to submit reports on their missions the board asked the universities and colleges to indicate their program proposals for 1975.

The board asked the institutions to include an analysis of present institutional missions, objectives, unique functions within the state system and relationships to other state institutions of higher education.

Snake River search for two continues

LEWISTON (UPI) — No progress was reported Thursday in the 17th day of the search for two men believed missing and drowned in the Snake River about 50 miles south of here.

Edward V. Williams, 44, Meridian, former state legislative leader, and Jack Bowman, 44, Lewiston, disappeared in the Imnaha Rapids April 23 when the 18-foot riverboat piloted by Bowman struck a rock and capsized.

Six persons the two had gone upstream to pick up were later rescued but the two disappeared in the treacherous rapids.

Water board to reorganize

BOISE (UPI) — Priorities are going to change at the Idaho Water Resource Board, according to Steve Alfred, its new director.

Alfred said his first priority is reorganizing the staff which has undergone six months of controversy and the resignation of Alfred's predecessor, Dr. Robert R. Lee.

He said he still is kicking around the final structure and will announce it by June 1. Assistant director of the state Department of Water

Administration before he was named water board director nearly two weeks ago, the 31-year-old Alfred said he fits neither into the development nor the preservationist camp.

He said he simply wants to do realistic planning for the future of Idaho waters and not prepare a blueprint for future development.

To further that aim, he said, he will redirect the staff toward "concentrating as much as possible on the state water plan."

So many things have been piled on the staff," he said, "they had gotten a bit away from the planning function."

McClure urges quick action on AF dam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Sen. James A. McClure

Thursday urged that Congress, in dealing with the pending American Falls Dam legislation, must recognize the urgency of getting something done immediately.

Speaking at the opening of a Senate Interior and Insular Affairs subcommittee hearing, McClure said, "We are here today with this legislation before us because the entire Idaho congressional delegation recognizes the extreme importance of getting this problem solved."

"We must move with very rapid legislative action which will result in the quickest possible replacement of the American Falls Dam for the protection and benefit of the people of Idaho," McClure said.

McClure, along with Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, other members of the congressional delegation and businessmen, ranchers and farmers, testified before the committee in support of replacing the structure as quickly as possible.

Loan granted at Salmon

SALMON, Idaho (UPI) — A $240,000 loan from the Farmers Home Administration has been awarded to two Salmon men for the construction of a 20-unit, moderate-income housing complex.

The units will be constructed by Boise-Cascade. The loan was granted to Florin Beller and Harold Slavin.

Power brownouts told

United Press International
Come summer, householders will flip a switch and presto! lights will go on, radios will squawk, toasters will pop and other appliances will perform their designated miracles.

That's the good news today from power companies who josh-posh reports of electrical shortages for the upcoming season.

Prognostications of electronic joy this summer are not unfounded, however.

Some major cities talk of brownouts the current euphemism for temporary shortages.

Air Force selects routes

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — Officials at Mountain Home Air Force Base Thursday announced low level flying routes that will affect parts of four states.

The routes, flown by F-111 fighter-bombers, are used to train aircrews and to maintain their flying proficiency.

Col. Lynnwood E. Clark, commander of the 368th Tactical Fighter Wing, which is stationed at the base, said the low level routes are in parts of western Oregon, Idaho, northern Utah and Nevada.

New York City, Chicago and Los Angeles may face a drop in electric supplies due mainly to the increased use of air conditioners in the "dog days" of late July and August.

For the past three summers New Yorkers have been hit by brownouts due to generator failures. But Consolidated Edison Corp., hurt by environmentalists holding up installation of nuclear power plants, says the city will have adequate supplies of electricity.

Los Angeles may have similar difficulties, a power official said, due to air pollution control regulations prohibiting use of high-sulphur fuel and a decrease of electric supplies from the Pacific Northwest.

The question of nuclear energy as a source of supply for electricity kept popping up in various sections of the industry—a probable indication of the direction suppliers want to move to meet the demands of consumers.

In Illinois, for instance, Commonwealth Edison Co., which serves 8 million of the state's 11 million residents, said it will have adequate power to meet demands this summer if it can get permission from the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) to operate one of two new nuclear units at Zion, Ill., at "significant power." If not, "the possibility exists that brownouts will occur," an official said.

FTC approves Boise Cascade asset sale

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The purchase of northern California assets of the Boise-Cascade Corp. by the Georgia-Pacific Corp. for about $17.6 million has been approved by the Federal Trade Commission.

The commission agreed that it would not oppose Georgia-Pacific's purchase of plants at Fort Bragg and Willits, Calif. Assets to be sold to Georgia-Pacific include two sawmills at Fort Bragg and particleboard and fencing plants at Willits. Other assets to be sold by Boise-Cascade include all of the stock of the California, Western Railroad, a short line railroad.

The FTC said its approval of the deal also included a condition that 60 per cent of the volume of redwood timber from northern California lands involve in the transaction be made available to independent lumber companies.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 45-year-old divorcee who is engaged to marry a 53-year-old widower I'll call Sam. Sam has two daughters in college. Sam's wife, Sylvia, died of cancer a year ago. Sylvia's mother, a widow, had made her home with Sam and Sylvia for the last 20 years.

Abby, I know this woman only slightly but she has been cool to me. She is understandably heartbroken over the death of her daughter, and when Sam and I told her we were being married, her disappointment was obvious.

Touchy ex-inlaw

Sam plans to sell his large home and move into an apartment after we marry. His daughters want their own apartment. The problem is Sylvia's mother. We surely can't have her living with us. Sam can well afford to provide her with a lovely home elsewhere, but she has grown so dependent on him I doubt that she could live alone. She never learned to drive, and since her widowhood she's spent her life raising Sylvia's daughters and running Sylvia's home. She has no other family.

Sam and I have discussed it and he thinks I should tell her that our plans do not include her. I think he should tell her. (He insists he can't do it.) What do you think?

TOUCHY PROBLEM

DEAR ABBY: She shouldn't have to be told, but if she does, Sam should tell her. It would be an act of kindness if you made a real effort to be friendly with this heavy-hearted woman. Investigate senior citizens' residences and try to help her relocate in the most pleasant and happy surroundings. If she rejects your friendship, you will have at least tried.

DEAR ABBY: When I started going with Henry he used to show up so drunk he could hardly walk, so I'd let him sack out on my couch. It happened so often we finally started living together. After two years we decided to get married.

He buys two quarts of vodka on Saturday, and by Monday it's all gone. That's in addition to three cases of beer. Henry drinks every night, but goes to work in the morning, comes home at 5 p. m. and starts drinking again. I know he was an alcoholic when I married him so I can't complain.

I work and draw good money. I wish you would tell me why I stick with this guy. I support myself. Our sex life is zero, and I know I'd be better off without him. NEEDED

DEAR NEEDED: Your answer is your signature. Some people have a need to be needed. You could be one of those people.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning taking small children to adult affairs such as weddings: I am only 21, but I know that we all have to learn certain things in this life, and the sooner we learn them, the better. Leaving children out of "adult" affairs until they learn to behave like adults is like saying, "I am not going to take you swimming until you learn how to swim!"

I'm glad my parents took me, and taught me.

SUSAN IN AMHERST

DEAR SUSAN: Right on, sister!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 39706, P. O. Call. 80049. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

SV style show slated Saturday

SUN VALLEY — The Sun Valley Inn Limestone Room will be decorated with red geraniums for the annual "May Fashion Show" Saturday.

Sponsored by the Ketchum-Sun Valley Papoose Club, proceeds from the event will be used to purchase playground equipment.

The cocktail hour will begin at 11:30 a. m., with lunch beginning at noon. Candy Demaray will serve as narrator and background music will be provided by pianist Penny Thunen.

Participating stores include Adventura, B and J Sport Chalet, DeCosta's, Denny, Bar Company, Carrall's, Country Cousin, Gingerbread House, Rete Lane's, Sage Shop, Sturtevant's, Apple Tree and Aspen Sports.

The spring fashions will be modeled by Jeff and Chad Webster; Chris, Lori and Michelle Brutsche; Shawn, Kirkman; Danny Albright; Kay Benigochea; Linda Loomis; Jan Carter; Jenny Ogden; Carleen Will; LaDene Hume; Nancy McCandles, and Mollie Hecht.

Tickets will cover lunch and the show. They may be purchased from any Papoose Club member or at the door.

The geraniums will also be on sale after the show for Mother's Day gifts. Club members serving on the committee include chairman, Pat Albright; raffle, Pat McNeil; fashions, Marilyn Brutsche; tickets and decorations, Lois McDonald; and publicity, Sandy Koenig.

Hemline watching becomes a guessing game on the fashion scene once more. European designers, notably in Paris, have been showing lowered hemlines—going down to some where near the calf of the leg. There's no need to panic—the hemline in this day of liberated fashion remains a matter of to each his own.

Unity Club meets

TWIN FALLS — Members of Unity Club answered roll with "my mother's favorite flower" at a meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. Noble.

Mrs. Paul Boyd was co-hostess. The business meeting was conducted by Preida Hoffman.

Mrs. Earl O'Harrow was in charge of the program. She read several poems about mothers and grandmothers and presented a contest in which members tried to identify pictures of mothers of those present. Mrs. Carl Boyd won the contest and also won the white elephant.

The June meeting will be a guest salad bar at the home of Mrs. Leonard Albee.

TF club officers

Wendell riders to 'hike'

WENDELL — Mrs. John Coble, Wendell, president of Beta Iota chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International, said members will participate in a nationwide bike hike Saturday.

The nationwide six-week-long transcontinental bicycle began May 7 in Los Angeles. The goal of the project is to raise $1 million for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

Wendell riders will meet at 7:30 a.m. at the Idaho First National Bank parking lot and ride the old highway to Jerome and back. Anyone wishing to ride or sponsor a rider is asked to contact Mrs. John Coble, 338-2302, Mrs. Joe Leeper, 536-2711 or Mrs. Lawrence Laitue, 536-2419.

Mrs. Coble said St. Jude's is the only hospital devoted solely to basic and clinical research into catastrophic childhood disease, with recent emphasis on acute lymphocytic leukemia. She said patients are never charged for treatment at the facility. The hospital relies on grants and fund raising activities for financing.

Mrs. Coble added that the Boy Scouts of America are cooperating with ESA and that any Scout riding in the bike ride will receive three merit badges.

Import power bid stirs apprehension

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration farm and trade officials are seeking to soothe fears of some agricultural spokesmen over President Nixon's bid for new power to negotiate reductions of import quotas.

"It is natural that there would be some apprehension over giving the president such broad authority," Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz conceded this week at a briefing for farm leaders on Nixon's proposed new trade liberalization bill.

But the agriculture secretary, one of several top officials appearing at the briefing, said that some concessions in the form of more liberal U.S. food import quotas will be necessary to persuade foreign countries to drop their barriers against American farm products in a critical round of trade negotiations beginning in the fall.

"If we are going to get anything from these negotiations, we are going to have to be prepared to give something. If we are going to ask other countries to liberalize, we must be prepared to liberalize too," Butz said.

Butz added, however, that the power Nixon seeks to make reciprocal deals on reduction of "nontariff trade barriers" such as import quotas is far from absolute.

First, he said, Nixon's proposed new trade reform act "carefully sets out requirements for public hearings and departmental consultations before any offer to remove U.S. agricultural restrictions could be made in negotiations."

"Second, any part of a negotiated package that involves change in domestic statutes must come back to congress for review," Butz added.

This review, however, would be a lower hurdle than Nixon would have to leap under current law if he reached a package agreement including, for example, bigger U.S. import quotas for dairy products. As things now stand, such an agreement could not take effect unless congress passed a law amending or repealing older laws which govern the quotas. Under the proposed trade reform act, however, a quota-cutting agreement could automatically go into effect unless vetoed by either house of congress within 90 days.

Butz said U.S. agriculture stands to gain probably more than any other segment of the economy from reducing trade barriers around the world because it is the world's most efficient producers of grains and soybeans.

"That is why agriculture, more than any other segment of the economy, needs liberal access to world markets. We need the best possible tools to open... a freer flow of trade," the agriculture secretary said. Butz argued that Nixon's trade reform act "offers the machinery to deal meaningfully... with our traditional trading partners and to speed the advance of trade with those partners that are new."

In "new" trade, Butz said, the legislation would extend most favored nation status to Russia and China, allowing them the same tariff rates applied to all other countries which sell goods to the U.S. This is important to farmers, Butz said, because the Soviet Union will need equal treatment in selling to the U.S. if they continue to purchase American grains and other crops.

Farm

Gem planting slows

BOISE (UPI) — Wet, cold soils hindered planting and plant growth in Eastern Idaho this past week, a federal crop report said.

Dry conditions in the northern sector, however, permitted spring planting to make good progress.

Planting also made good progress in the north central and southwestern areas although crop development was slowed somewhat by below normal temperatures.

Water trouble

WENDELL — The Wendell Highway District will sign complaints against farmers who place irrigation sprinkling systems too close to the road, it was announced Thursday.

According to Joe Doramus, district president, the sprinkling systems send a spray across the road, hitting cars and creating a traffic hazard, especially at night.

"There are laws to prevent this and the sheriff will be called on complaints signed when necessary in order to put a stop to it," he said.

The district has been receiving numerous complaints from motorists about the dangerous condition.

Houston Holstein sale tops

JEROME — A traveling trophy and top money went to Frank W. Houston, Jerome, at the annual Holstein sale in Meridian this past weekend.

Houston, who has been breeding Holsteins for 49 years, was awarded the trophy for the top pedigreed animal at the sale for his 3-year-old Houston Citation Meta.

The animal topped the show at a sale price of $5,000. Ida-Crest Farms Inc., Kuna, was the buyer.

A second animal consigned by Houston, Houston Uva Cupple, brought $3,000 from Henry Sterk, Chino, Calif.

The event sponsored by the Idaho Holstein Association, averaged $1,534 on 31 head of cattle in sales this year.

Five other area dairymen participated in the sale. Gerris Schiffer, Wendell, sold an animal for $775; Milton Payne, Burley, got $1,525; LaMont Smith, Heyburn, took $4,000 for his Holstein; Jack Hufferman, Rupert, received $1,225, and Louis Batt, Rupert, took $1,475 for his animal.

Grape strike 'certain'

COACHELLA (UPI) — Cesar Chavez and his United Farm Workers Union, their cause strengthened by an AFL-CIO decision to give them $16 million, now anticipate a successful full-scale strike against the Coachella Valley's grape growers.

"Now we will be able to have a real strike for the first time," Chavez said Wednesday after the parent union decided to aid the UPWU in its battle against the Teamsters Union.

The AFL-CIO money will help to pay strike benefits to workers participating in Chavez' effort to halt the grape harvest here. The offer includes "substantial" manpower to help organize the strike.

The UPWU, which received an AFL-CIO charter last year, is striking growers who signed labor contracts with the teamsters union last month.

Only two of the valley's growers have renewed their old agreements with the UPWU, but Chavez predicts that most of the grape workers will join the pickets now and halt the harvest.

UPWU picketing at two vineyards in Kern County was limited Wednesday by a temporary injunction issued by Bakersfield Superior Court Judge P. R. Barton.

The injunction limits picketing to five persons on each side of an entrance or exit to the Hollis Roberts farm and the John Kovacevich farm.

Colorado area chilled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five Western Colorado counties hit by drought and freezing temperatures have been granted disaster designations by Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz.

The counties are Dolores, Garfield, La Plata, Montezuma and San Miguel. The designations mean farmers in the counties can apply for low interest federal loans.

The Agriculture Department said the freeze damaged more than 90 per cent of the fruit crops in Garfield County. Livestock producers were affected by lack of pasture and hay. Much of the dryland beans and wheat production was also ruined, the department said.

Idaho Falls markets

IDAHO FALLS — ORC crop lambs were 2.00 lower with spring lambs steady and ewes 50 cents higher at the Idaho Livestock Auction this week.

An estimated 800 sheep were sold with choices ring lambs bringing 32.00-33.25; old crop lambs 25.00-26.00; odd rough feeder lambs 24.00 and down; light fat ewes 13.00-14.00; canner ewes and bucks 9.00-13.00; young ewes good per cent out of the wool 46.00-48.00 per pair.

Super Beans with Sorba-Spray

Sorba-Spray shows profit-minded dry bean growers three important ways to improve quality, produce greater yields and increase profits from their bean crop.

- 1 - Sorba-Spray increases blossom retention for greater crop yield.
- 2 - Sorba-Spray produces larger beans of more uniform size and improved quality.
- 3 - Sorba-Spray aids in seed germination and reduces transverse cracking.

Sorba-Spray really works! As a buffering agent, it lowers spray water alkalinity. One pint of Sorba-Spray in 100 gallons of water, lowers pH to the most effective range, making pesticides work more efficiently, which extends your spray schedules for more economy.

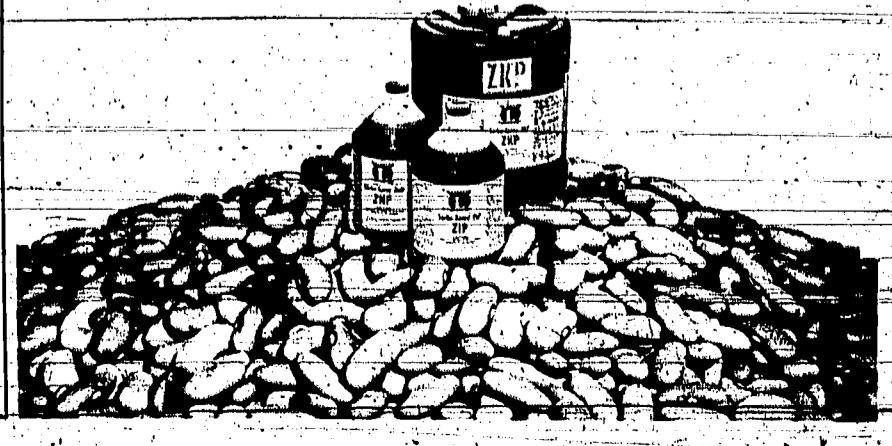

Sorba-Spray works as a pre- and post-planting wetting agent that insures thorough plant coverage. As an activator, it helps plants absorb available nutrients for healthy, more uniform growth.

Sorba-Spray is safe to use at recommended dosages and contains no harmful residues. It is compatible with most pesticides and fungicides and is harmless to bees and to beneficial insects.

The Leffingwell research staff spent more than 37 years in the development of a premium quality line of foliar nutritional spray products that rank second to none! Sorba-Spray is one of these products. It was developed for a specific purpose. To supply the growing needs of agriculture with the finest quality foliar nutritional spray product Leffingwell could create. That's why Sorba-Spray products are unique and different. Others have tried to copy them and fallen far short, while Sorba-Spray still remains the undisputed leader in the foliar nutritional field.

See your Leffingwell dealer for the facts on Sorba-Spray products and what they can mean in terms of improved quality, greater crop yield and high profits for you.

Farm use preferred by some

TWIN FALLS — Not everyone agrees that residential and commercial development is the best use for Snake River Canyon rimland. John Burkhardt lives south of one of the proposed developments. His neighbor to the north, Harold Frazier, is currently subdividing a 35-acre tract at the junction of Rock Creek and Snake River canyons.

Burkhardt is not pleased. "Why don't they go build these houses on land that's no good and leave this farm land to allow future generations to eat?" Burkhardt asks. "Get them out, get them away from this land."

"This is some of the best land in the country," Burkhardt says he is concerned that residential development will raise the tax base on adjoining lands. He also is concerned with the impact of residences and increased population on the operation of adjoining farms. "You get all their garbage and all of every other damn thing in your field. If they ever get that (development) through, I hope they all starve. I'll bet you anything it's the same people crying about the high cost of food who are doing this. I'm not talking about this Frazier's development only, but about all of them. They are going all around this town here building houses on the choice land. I don't own this land — I'm just saying this for the good of the people."

Where Carter plans 'mini-ranches'

'Mini-ranches' planned near famed Twin Falls

(Continued from p. 1) Carter was involved in a dispute at Buhl which arose after a meat packing plant was converted into a rendering operation. Claims of extremely offensive odors resulted in a suit by residents of the surrounding area and led to lengthy litigation which resulted in the closing of the plant for a period of several months. Carter is not limiting sale of lots to people buying mobile homes. "He has sold seven lots already and will sell a few more to clear title to his land which he must do before he can build. Then," he said, "I think we will go ahead and put (factory-built) homes on some."

"This is the way of life that we're coming into, that's a cinch. If you have to try to wait for stick-built homes with all these people coming in here, then you're going to have people living in tents." "The market value of the land will control your environment much better than any restrictive covenants," according to Bernie Mozdelski, an associate of John Lutz Realty which is selling Carter's lots. "I think people are fed up with living in the city in houses right next to one another which look all the same." Carter's present plans call for wells and septic tanks on the mini-ranches. "If we put in the house, we'll drill the well and put in the septic tank," he said. Carter says he will put in about 3,200 feet of oiled road for his project at a cost of about $30,000. Under Carter's plan there is no open space other than that in the lots themselves. Carter is not alone in the scenic area near the Twin Falls. Landowner Bill Blass plans a 100-acre plus subdivision kitty-corner from Carter with lots two acres and up. The Blass plat, too, has received the approval of the county zoning commission, subject to the same easement extensions imposed on Carter. Under the proposed county zoning ordinance, both Carter's land and the Blass property would be designated for low density residential development. Perhaps the most famous developer of canyon rim property is Elliott Seabaugh, who owns about 125 feet of rim property commanding a prime view adjacent to the gate leading to the Taylor access road west of the Perrine Bridge. Seabaugh does not want to subdivide. He has petitioned the zoning commission for permission to build two duplexes on his property. The commission has, thus far, refrained from a decision in his case, pending the completion of the new zoning ordinance. Seabaugh now lives in a trailer parked on his property. The jack for his telephone is installed at the base of a large tree next to his home on wheels. A colony of bees has adopted as its hive a hollow in the base of the tree — but not yet the box housing the telephone jack. Seabaugh says his building plans are not for investment purposes. "I want to live here," he said. "I want to lease them and live here. I don't know of any place in the world I'd rather live."

Seabaugh says he wants to put as many rentals as he can on his small piece of property. "I think they would be tremendously desirable rentals." He said he believed strongly that well-planned and constructed buildings will add to the landscape. "As long as you use good materials, then I think it's good," he says. "This has got to be tops in attractiveness and in enhancing the terrain. It may cost more, but it would be worth it." "I think buildings like we have (planned) here would be a very nice improvement, especially since McCollum and Lywood are also developing." Asked what he thinks of public parks at the canyon Seabaugh says, "I'd really like to see a park in the canyon, with hiking trails." Next: Onward and downward into the canyon.

Firing 'illegal'

BOISE (UPI) — In a letter to the State Board of Education, Dr. Rufus Lyman says his dismissal from Idaho State University was "illegal" according to the board's own policy manual. The board has scheduled a hearing on the dismissal Saturday morning. Lyman, a tenured member of the ISU Biology Department faculty, was summarily dismissed by the board in April. His letter made public Thursday by the board was in response to a board letter inviting Lyman to appear before its members. "I am planning to attend the board's meeting at 9 a.m. on May 12 in Boise," Lyman wrote. "I will be accompanied by counsel and witness."

A thought for the day: Irish poet Oscar Wilde said, "There is no such thing as a moral or immoral book, books are well written, or badly written, that is all."

Mystery witness zips lip

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The federal grand jury in the Equity Funding scandal opened its investigation Thursday by calling two mystery witnesses. One didn't show up and the other took the Fifth Amendment 20 times in 30 minutes. The grand jury is looking into the $2 billion phony insurance scheme which investigators have said may be the biggest swindle in the history of the industry. According to some reports, the grand jury will hear from about 100 witnesses. The first witness to be called, whose identity was not revealed, did not appear. The second was accompanied by a lawyer who identified him as Lorne Aiken, but would not reveal what connection he had with the case. Insurance investigators and others with knowledge of the complex case said they had never heard of him.

TF zoning panel grants trailer park request

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Two views clashed Thursday night before Twin Falls County planners.

"Creeping development is eating up prime agricultural land" vs. "Booming Twin Falls is in need of housing."

The boomers apparently carried the day as the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission approved a rezoning request for a huge trailer park south of Twin Falls.

The land involved is 53 acres at the intersection of the airport road and Highway 74, a downwind of a large cattle feedlot. Gordon Beckstead, owner of the proposed court had requested it be rezoned from agricultural to residential-agricultural.

The commission approved the rezoning by a 6-5 vote. Final approval still must be given by the county commission.

Dale Riedesel, a Twin Falls engineer representing Mr. and Mrs. Dick Snyder who plan to purchase and develop the land, said the mobile home park would be "quite a low density" project, averaging five to six mobile units per acre.

He said city water and sewer facilities are available and the highway district has approved the road system, which would include access from airport road and Highway 74.

A four-acre park and other recreational facilities would be provided in the middle of the court, according to the engineer.

Supporters of the project included:

Mike Tegan, an employe of Gateway Trailer Center, who said "We are out of mobile home spaces in Twin Falls right now."

Frank Feldtman, former Twin Falls mayor and member of the Twin Falls City Zoning Commission.

Rick Knight, realtor with Gem State Realty — "There are 543 mobile home spaces in Twin Falls currently but none are available."

Tom Silvers, owner of Title Fact title company. "I do believe the farm community must consider that there will be solid construction from the airport to the city limits."

Attorney Robert Payne represented feedlot owner Gene Glenn in opposing the mobile home court.

Glenn operates a 45-acre feedlot immediately west of the proposed mobile court.

Payne said the project would violate existing state and county law.

He said both state statute and a county zoning ordinance rule out rezoning that would deprive an agricultural landowner of the use of his property.

He said prevailing winds will carry the odors from Glenn's feedlot through the mobile park and could result in his operation being declared a "public nuisance." If this happens, Glenn might be required to move his operation, he said.

Payne cited an Arizona case in which a development was built next to an existing feedlot. The feedlot was later declared a "public nuisance" and forced to move. But Payne warned that the developer was required to pay for the uprooting of the feedlot.

Payne also submitted a petition with the names of 22 persons objecting to the mobile court.

Other objections came from:

Gene Glenn — "You should not take good agricultural land out of production. And the proposed park will have no police or fire protection."

Alvin Harris, area landowner — "Dogs chased some of my pregnant cows and caused them to abort. He said the dogs came from the Wills development east of the proposed park. Of course I have started shooting the dogs. You cannot educate city-bred people to the effect they could have."

Dr. Werner Kramer, Twin Falls physician — "There are literally thousands of acres of marginal land around Twin Falls where development is more feasible."

Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls: "We farmers look to you (the zoning commission) for protection."

In other action Thursday, the county zoners denied a request for rezoning 13.7 acres east of Twin Falls. Don Harney had requested the change to permit an addition to his lumber and building supply firm.

In denying the rezoning, the commission declared the area to be basically agricultural.

State ed board requests meeting

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho and North Idaho College have been invited to meet in June with a State Board of Education Committee for a discussion of the two schools' program plans.

The board extended the invitation Thursday at its meeting in Boise, offering the two junior colleges an opportunity to discuss missions, functions and objectives, as well as program plans for the fiscal year 1975, with the Planning Committee.

In addition, the two junior colleges have been requested to give the complete state board "detailed budget and budget analysis information" at the board's July meeting for the 1975 fiscal year.

The planning committee will meet again June 12 and 13 in Boise before the complete board meets June 14 and 15 in McCall. The board will hold its July meeting in Boise with the dates to be announced later.

"I'm sure that we would look favorably upon any request from the state board to cooperate with them," said John Hepworth, chairman of the CSI board, Friday. "and I'm sure that we will accept their invitation."

Hepworth, who said the CSI board had not discussed the state board invitation, said he did not think the state board was heading in the direction of trying to bring the junior colleges under its control.

"I don't think that's their purpose," Hepworth said. He said he thought the state board was only trying to gather information to determine how to best budget for all the state's institutions of higher learning.

Educational program

A NATIONAL GUARD helicopter from Boise landed at Jerome High School's Tiger Field Thursday as part of a special Guard educational effort. Jerome Senior High School students were released from class to hear the Guard program outlined and several kinds of weapons displayed. The chopper, which is the type used in medical evacuation, also traveled to Burley, Hailey and Pocatello.

Art display opens in TF

TWIN FALLS — Art objects from many cultures and from leading museums around the country were on display in Twin Falls today.

The valuable art objects arrived aboard the Artrain Thursday and opened for public viewing at 9 a.m. today.

The special six-car train which houses the exhibit represents a value of some $1 million. Elementary school students began touring the cars at 10-minute intervals today and will continue again Monday. The tours require about 40 to 45 minutes each Artrain officials say.

Public tours will be held today through Monday with the exhibits open to the public today from 9 p.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 5 to 8 p.m. and on Monday from 6 to 9 p.m.

This afternoon Idaho's first lady, Mrs. Cecil Andrus, will be honored with a tea in the exhibit train. She is honorary chairman of the Artrain visit in Idaho.

Sponsored in Idaho by the Idaho Arts and Humanities Commission the local exhibit is co-sponsored here by the American Association of University of Women and Art Guild of Magic Valley.

The 400-foot long train and its valuable cargo of art from many cultures, is separated into a number of sections. The first is "Man Creates" and features a slide show introduction to the project. The first car features the history of man's creations of art and includes a unique section, of a "hall of mirrors" type display. Many other unusual effects including changing color transparencies flushed on display screens.

In the first car are many objects representing the cultures of Egypt, Africa and the Orient. These are on loan from the Detroit Institute of Art.

In the second car are three sections featuring a slide program on pioneers of modern art, and a miniature gallery with examples from these masters. These are on loan from the Denver Art Museum. A section on "Man and His Environment" also features large transparencies emphasizing design.

In the third car is "A Vision of Art" in which a collection of contemporary art including crafts, Western art and other items are shown.

The last car of the train is filled with displays of Artrain staff artists including ceramics, printing, jewelry, weaving and other current-day arts.

The total exhibits and train represent a value of more than $1 million in culture and history of art, project officials say.

Working with the Twin Falls showing are Lavar Steel, College of Southern Idaho art department, chairman; Mary Walker, Idaho Art and Humanities Commission, co-chairman; Audrey Howard, AAUW education chairman and a number of art guild and AAUW members.

Wendell bid opening set

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News writer

WENDELL — The new Wendell City water system should be operational early this fall, city engineers told the City Council at a meeting Thursday evening.

The council will call for bids May 31 for materials for a 10-inch water line.

The new water tank should be installed the first part of August at a cost of $21,000 for the completed project.

City engineers Hugh Hedges of JUB Engineers, Twin Falls, estimated that an additional $10,000 will be required for materials for lines from the tank.

City crews will install the water mains.

The proposed city sewage system was discussed. The sprinkler system is designed for a population of 1,300 which was projected for the year 1990 by JUB Engineers. The current population in Wendell is 1,500.

Lawell Shaffer questioned the adequacy of the proposed system and suggested that Wendell might surpass the capacity of the proposed system within a couple of years.

Hedges told the council that 12 months ago, when his firm began plans for the system, the Wendell population was a little over 1,100 and the rapid growth could not be foreseen.

He assured the council that although the system was planned for 1,300 population, its design enables it to handle between 2,500 and 3,000. He said the system is flexible and it is easy to adapt to rapid growth by sprinkling more land.

Shaffer suggested that the city plan now for the increased growth, rather than waiting until the sewage system is overloaded, necessitating expansion when land costs have increased.

Hedges told the council that an increase in the funding request to the Environmental Protection Agency for a larger sewage system at this time may jeopardize the city's chances of obtaining federal funds, but suggested that the city purchase additional land now which may receive federal funding.

Councilman Harold Simerly reported that cost of cementing the tennis court in the small city park would be $7,000. Since this is more than the city is willing to pay, he was requested to look into the cost of blacktopping the court.

The city approved the juvenile recreation program for the summer, including the children's baseball teams and city participation in Red Cross swimming lessons in Gooding.

Bellevue man pleads guilty

HAILEY — Barry W. Shipman, 20, Bellevue, pleaded guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter and two counts of first degree burglary in Fifth District Court Thursday.

Judge Charles Scoggin sentenced Shipman to serve up to three years on the involuntary manslaughter charge and up to five years for each count of burglary. He said the sentences will run concurrently and retained jurisdiction for 120 days.

The involuntary manslaughter action was made in connection with a July 10, 1972, automobile accident which resulted in the death of James E. Stricker, 17, Hailey.

The first degree burglary charges stemmed from a June 20, 1972, burglary at Sawtooth Cycle Sales and a July 14, 1972, burglary at the House of Sight and Sound, both Hailey firms.

Shipman has been released to his father's custody until Monday.

The state was represented by Stephen W. Boller, Blaine County prosecuting attorney. Shipman was represented by Ketchum attorney Stratton Laggis, acting as public defender.

New bond vote set

MOUNTAIN HOME (UPI) — Trustees of Mountain Home School District 193 made tentative plans Thursday night for a new bond election next November.

Last Tuesday, voters turned down a $2.65 million bond issue for a new senior high school by about 40 votes. Trustees decided to try again in November after the six-month statutory waiting period.

Youth critical

TWIN FALLS — A 16-year-old Pocatello youth was in critical condition today at Magic Valley Memorial hospital following a one-car roll over on Interstate 80.

The accident occurred at 7:14 a.m. today one mile west of the Ridgeway road and I-80. State police are investigating the accident.

The injured youth was identified as Kevin Barney. Officers said it was believed he was alone in the vehicle when it left the interstate on a curve and rolled over.

This is the same area in which two Burley men were injured earlier in the week and the scene of several similar accidents in recent months.

5 seek posts

KETCHUM — Five candidates seeking two open posts on the Blaine County school board will speak at a public forum tonight in Ketchum.

Sponsored by the Ketchum Sun Valley Rotary Club and the Wood River PTA, the forum will begin at 8 p.m. in Hemingway School auditorium.

The candidates for Monday's trustee election include incumbent Glenn Stelmus and Mark Patterson, zone two, and incumbent Jane Kneeland, Jack Brown and Dorothy Moore, zone 4.

Aides okay Blaine annex

We appreciate their "conscientious effort" in reviewing the proposed plan, he said.

"Almost everything they have suggested has been to the benefit of the project and the city of Hailey," he said.

The five recommendations formulated by the commission during the Wednesday night meeting included:

Streets should be designed to meet the specifications of the soils map study (conducted by the Soil Conservation Service) on road and streets that show severe problem areas.

Streets are to be designed to stand up under these soils and meet state of highway standard specifications for this type of road with load capacities and anticipated on these roads.

Basement structures are not allowed in any area with the water table from 30 to 60 inches from the surface.

An air easement be given to aircraft over the development at 800 feet or above.

Water services be metered.

All developers be required to post faithful performance bonds in favor of the city of Hailey for their full amount of the estimated construction costs of all roads, water, sewer and electrical works within the project.

A portion of the original list of recommendations made by the commission, which Patterson said had been compiled with, include the following:

That the school site be moved to a larger more suitable northerly location closer to the present city limits and other available BLM land.

"This would enable the school plant to utilize some of the present facilities and place it in an avalanche-free area," the recommendation said.

Patterson had previously said that the about 10 acre school site which McCulloch planned to donate was relocated from the southern portion of the development to the north end. He said the new 20-acre site was bordered by two 40-acre BLM parcels.

That all 60-foot streets have a 10-foot snow removal easement on each side.

Eliminate dead end streets and the use of cul-de-sacs.

Conduct an impact study as set according to Blaine County Planning and Zoning sub-division ordinance requirements.

Clarification be given to the number of business areas and the zoning of limited business and business districts.

Dean summoned for questioning

tapped telephone lines of high level Democrats; approved a $250,000-plus budget for political espionage, and asked his political agents to get the blackmail material from a Las Vegas, Nev. newspaper office.

He said the material concerned Democratic presidential candidate, whom he did not name. But he indicated it "might possibly" have been Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine. He said the plot was not carried out.

McCord, who was serving as security chief for Nixon's campaign when he was arrested in the June 17 break-in, said all his information about Mitchell came from co-conspirator G. Gordon Liddy, former campaign finance counsel. Liddy has refused to testify.

Mitchell was indicted in New York Thursday along with former Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans on charges of obstructing a federal investigation "by deceit, craft, trickery and means that are dishonest" — in exchange for a secret campaign donation from financier Robert L. Vesco.

Rupert gets raw deal, senator says

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Rupert got a raw deal, from the Idaho Horse Racing Commission, Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, said Thursday.

Peavey and Rep. Steve Antonis, R-Rupert, spoke to the Rupert Chamber of Commerce about the last Idaho legislative session.

Asked why Rupert's racing days had been cut this year, Peavey said the commission had probably granted the city to Pocatello because of its larger population.

Rupert has in the past had four days of racing, including a weekend, during the Fourth of July celebrations. This year, the holiday falls on Wednesday so plans were made to expand to five days including the weekend preceding the Fourth.

"We thought we had these days, way early," said John

Trevino, chairman of the Fourth of July celebration committee.

The racing commission granted weekend to Pocatello and also Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday — July 2, 3, 4 — to Rupert.

"I think it would have gone the other way, if Rupert had offered the participants more money," Peavey said. "I suspect next year we should get our four-day weekend back."

Antonis described the last legislative sessions as "thoroughly dedicated to law enforcement." He cited such legislation as the reinstatement of the death penalty, anti-pornography bills, terms of life imprisonment set for skyjacking, making malicious destruction a felony, and refusal to reduce penalties for marijuana possession.

Both Antonis and Peavey stressed the increasing importance of land use planning. This is "one area we'd better start looking at," Peavey said.

With all the growth the area is experiencing, Peavey said, "It would behoove us to do some more planning. Mildoka County is going to start having some problems otherwise," he said.

Peavey told the group that the legislature, like most local communities, spent its revenue sharing money for non-recurring expenses. The intent of the federal government was, however, that the money be used for continuing programs, which would be run locally instead of federally," he said.

"We will have to start spending these funds on recurring type programs if it's going to work," he said. "If the funds are not used in the manner the federal government intended they may take them away for use in grant-in-aid programs," he said.

Fewer bills were presented and a greater number were passed in the last session than in the previous one, Peavey said. The House passed 62 per cent of the legislation voted upon and the Senate passed 52 per cent. The previous year, the figures were 40 per cent for the House and 33 per cent for the Senate.

BURLEY — The demise of the Intermountain Regional Medical Programs (IRMP) should not adversely affect the Southeastern Idaho Center for Health Resources (SICHR), (SICHR) members were told Wednesday.

Donald Ulmer, Intermountain regional program director for IRMP, said SICHR was the strongest organization begun through IRMP and could continue its activities at the same level and quality on its own.

IRMP, which is being "phased over," not "phased out," according to Ulmer, will close its doors on Feb. 14, 1974, unless the legislature overrides fund cuts made by President Nixon.

Most IRMP programs will terminate in July, Ulmer said, but six have been granted permission to continue until Feb. 14. The six are the poison-control centers, X-ray technician training program, respiratory disease program, infectious disease program, emergency program and nurses practitioner program.

As of July 1, SICHR will become "a complete and independent fiscal unit," said Blaine Durant, executive director of SICHR.

The organization approved changes in the bylaws and articles of incorporation Wednesday to insure recognition as a "charitable organization" by the Internal Revenue Service. With this status, the organization is eligible for grants.

Members approved a $34,150 budget for the coming fiscal year. The budget for the current year is set at $30,620.

Income from dues, based on current membership and fees, will be $24,800 for the coming year in addition to about $750 in interest on investments in savings certificates.

Durant said extra funds are expected through registration fees and new membership which would help balance the budget. In addition, the organization will have a $10,000 cash reserve built up over the last year to draw from and to serve as a buffer following loss of federal funds.

Dr. Fred Graeber, of the Idaho Office of Higher Education, discussed briefly several health programs in the state.

The WICHE student exchange program received additional state funding this year, Graeber said, because fees are increasing. Idaho has appropriated more money than any other state for the program, he said.

Local students have been having increasing trouble gaining admittance to out-of-state schools because of mounting pressure to admit only residents, he told the group.

A cooperative study program with the University of Washington medical school is meeting rising costs by increasing Idaho's share of student cost to $1,200 of the proposed $3,000 tuition fee.

"The crunch will really come next fiscal year," from the loss of federal funds, Graeber said. "The State Board of Education may ask for replacement moneys through state funds," he said.

A joint veterinary medical program with Oregon State University is being discussed, which would have Idaho schooling students for the first two years of the program and Oregon schooling them for the last two years, according to Graeber.

"It might work because the idea is so simple," he said.

"The State Board of Education has said that by February of 1974 they will have developed a study of alternatives for health education, especially in the veterinary, dental and medical fields, Graeber told the group.

Play planned

VILLAGE MAD WOMAN, played by Marlan Reinke, adds to a hilarious situation in "Blithe Spirit" forthcoming high school drama production. The play opens Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school.

TFHS class plans dramatic production

TWIN FALLS — The final dramatic production by students of Theater II classes at the Twin Falls High School this year will be staged Monday through Wednesday.

The production will be "Blithe Spirit," a play about the 1940s and the experiences of writer Charles Condomine and his wife, Ruth, as they dig into the occult.

The writer and his wife, attempting to learn some "tricks of the trade," invite the village "madwoman" to dinner. In the course of following events, Charles comes face to face with his late first wife, making for an upsetting—but humorous situation.

Ralph Pond plays the author, Charles Condomine, and Laan Clawson portrays his wife, Ruth. Marlon Reinke is Madam Arcalle and Ann Holloway is Elvira, the first wife. Other members of the cast include Candy Freeman as Mrs. Brandman, Jeff Miller as Dr. Bradman and Giselle Booth as Edith.

Tickets for the event can be purchased by calling 733-6551, or may be bought at the door. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. each night. The performance will be presented in the high school, Room D-5.

Exemption ends Tuesday

TWIN FALLS — Persons over 65 years of age who are eligible for property tax exemptions must apply for the exemptions by May 15.

County Assessor Ron Taylor said applications must be made at his office in the county courthouse. These exemptions apply to dwelling houses and mobile homes owned and occupied by eligible persons.

The exemptions can amount to as much as $75 providing the house does not exceed a cash value of more than $15,000 and the applicant's income is not over $4,000.

Taylor also emphasized the applicant must fill out a new application each year if the exemption is to remain in effect.

The assessor explained exemptions are limited to those persons who reached age 65 before Jan. 1, 1973, and have been property taxpayers in Idaho for at least 10 years.

He said the resident need not have lived in Idaho all of those 10 years, if he was living in another state but continued to pay taxes on property owned in Idaho.

The exemption requires the person be a resident of Idaho before Jan. 1 in the year the exemption.

Those applying for the exemption may have an income up to $4,000 annually or, in the case of husband and wife, $9,000 annually if both are over 65 years of age.

Land does not qualify for the exemption, only the dwelling, and taxes must still be paid on the land. Mobile homes qualify for exemption.

Taylor urged those planning to apply for exemptions to do so as soon as possible since Tuesday is the final deadline.

Nevada acupuncturists face line of patients

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The first acupuncturists to be licensed in Nevada will have a long lineup of potential patients for their Chinese needlework.

Hundreds of letters from the ailing and the pain-ridden have poured into offices of local leaders and government agencies since the state became the first to allow acupuncture treatment without supervision, by a licensed physician.

But it will be two to six months before any practitioners of the Chinese needle treatment are licensed to practice, said Dr. William Edwards, chief of preventive medicine in the State Health Division.

Edwards, a member of the board appointed by Gov. Mike O'Callaghan to license acupuncturists, said examinations must first be written to prevent an invasion by quacks.

O'Callaghan and state health officials have also issued warnings that the art of inserting needles into a person to relieve pain and other problems is not a medical panacea.

"I have an open mind on it," said Edwards. "I'm interested in it from the public health point—I consider it another facet of care."

Edwards said both his office and O'Callaghan's had received many letters from the sick, some from as far away as New York, Ohio and Missouri, who want treatment.

Many were from individuals who have received traditional medical care for years without success.

"Some of them are at their wit's end," said Mrs. Leona Woods, secretary of the Carson City Chamber of Commerce, who has received more than 60 letters and 25 phone calls from people wanting to know the name of a reputable acupuncturist. She turned the correspondence over to the governor's office.

"The law is quite strict," Edwards said. "One must at least have practiced in the traditional medical art of acupuncture for 10 years. This thing is not for beginners."

Two acupuncturists who gave demonstrations during the recent Nevada Legislature session that passed the licensing law have indicated they will move to the state to set up practice.

the diamond finesse right then and there. He needs every missing face card for his bid.

How can you persuade South not to take that diamond finesse? Easy! Just win that first club with the ace, not the queen. South will now count four spades, three clubs, one heart and one diamond as sure winners. He won't risk the diamond finesse which may let your partner in to cash two heart tricks.

Can this play be expensive. Of course, it can. South may not have counted to nine; may take the finesse anyway and wind up with an over-trick.

Sawtooth forest gets new superintendent

TWIN FALLS — Noriman Malone will replace Lynn Sprague Sunday as assistant superintendent of land use planning in the Sawtooth National Forest.

Sprague will become Salt Lake district ranger in the Wasatch National Forest. He has served in his present position since July 1, 1972, and prior to that was district ranger in the Sawtooth Valley.

He is a 1963 graduate of Oregon State University and has resided in Hailey.

Malone will move to Hailey from the Intermountain Regional Office, Ogden, Utah, where he has served as assistant regional landscape architect. Prior to that, he served the Toiyabe and Uinta National Forests in positions of increasing responsibility in the field of landscape architecture and planning.

He is a 1960 graduate of Oklahoma State University and is president of the Utah section of the American Society of Landscape architects.

Crampton first 66 to cop Colonial tournament lead

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Bruce Crampton, displaying a golf game as torrid as the Texas weather, opened a bid for his fourth victory of the year Thursday by firing a four-under-66-and-jumping in front by two shots after the first round of the $150,000 Colonial National Invitation.

"I wish I could explain it," said Crampton, "but I played better today than I did in any round last week in Houston."

Crampton won the Houston Open last week and in doing so assumed the lead in this year's money-winning race with $153,670.

Two strokes back was Ken Still, who fired a two-under-68 on the brutal 7,142-yard, par-70 Colonial Country Club course—one of the most difficult layouts in the nation.

The only other golfers to break par on opening day were Bobby Nichols, Tom Weiskopf, Phil Rodgers, Julius Boros, Gibby Gilbert and Jerry Heard. All shot 69s.

Lee Trevino, plagued of late by a pulled muscle in his left shoulder, shot a 71.

The temperature climbed into the 90s for the first time this year in this part of the country Thursday and Crampton's golf matched the weather.

Not only did he run in five birdie putts ranging from 15 feet to a tap-in, but he saved par five times from traps. And on the rugged par-4 seventh hole Crampton knocked his approach shot to within four feet from a fairway bunker and made the putt for a birdie.

"Like Ben Hogan says, the numbers all look the same on the scorecard," said Crampton.

Crampton, a former winner on the tight Colonial course, said the fact that the course was so difficult helped him concentrate more.

"The narrow fairways here make you set up better on the tee, and I think enabled me to hit better shots."

The toasty weather had Crampton reaching for a wet towel more than once Thursday.

"It was very hot out there," he said, "particularly where you were protected from the wind."

On the 16th hole for instance, he said, "I was in good position in the fairway and I grabbed hold of the club too tight because it felt slippery in my hand. As a result I hit one of those 'wish' shots, the kind you wish would get on the green."

The shot, however, landed in a bunker, from which Crampton exploded to within one foot of the cup.

His only bogey came on the treacherous fifth hole where he put his tee shot in the deep rough to the left of the fairway and hit a tree with his second shot.

Canadiens win cup on record scoring

CHICAGO (UPI) — Yvan Cournoyer scored the winning goal on a break-outbound with less than 12 minutes to play Thursday night to lead the Montreal Canadiens to a record 10th Stanley Cup with a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks in the windup of a playoff marked by record scoring.

Cournoyer's goal came on a 20-footer after Jacques Lemarie's shot had soared over the Chicago net and bounced straight back from the glass behind the goal.

Tony Esposito grabbed for the puck on the bounce but failed to reach it and Cournoyer picked it up immediately in front of the cage, shooting into the corner of the net before Esposito could react to make the save.

It was Cournoyer's 15th goal in the playoffs this season, breaking the record of 14 set by teammate Frank Mahovlich two years ago. Montreal's six goals gave the Canadiens a total of 29 in the final series to break the previous record of 28 by Boston in a 1958 semi-final.

Throwing error lifts Boston from behind, past Indians 4-3

BOSTON (UPI) — Luis Aparicio scored the winning run on an eighth inning throwing error by Buddy Bell to cap a three-run rally Thursday night as the Boston Red Sox rallied from a 3-0 deficit to score a 4-3 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

Aparicio and Carl Yastrzemski singled to drive in a run apiece in the rally and Aparicio scored from third with the deciding run when Bell threw low and into the dirt on a ground ball by designated hitter Orlando Cepeda.

Doug Griffin opened the inning with a double to center and John Kennedy walked. Both men advanced to base on Rick Miller's sacrifice.

Cleveland's Ron Fosse pitched a 9-inning shutout for the Indians, scattering 10 hits and three runs in his eighth start of the season.

Tommy Lee, Detroit's ace pitcher, struck out 10 batters in six innings to lead the Tigers to a 4-1 victory over the Red Sox in the other game of the doubleheader.

The Tigers scored twice in the eighth inning on a double by Fred Patek and a triple by Fred Lewis.

Pat Kelly, the major league's leading hitter, singled in Jorge Orta with the winning run with one out in the 12th inning Thursday night to give Wilbur Wood his seventh straight win as the streaking Chicago White Sox edged the California Angels 4-3.

Wood struck out 11 batters and pitched a 9-inning shutout for the Sox.

Orta hit a home run in the eighth inning to give the Sox a 2-0 lead.

A's bury Texas under 23 hits

BERT CAMPANERIS paced a 23-hit attack with four singles and Ray Fosse added a run-scoring single and a two-run homer Wednesday night to lead the Oakland A's to a 17-2 rout of the Texas Rangers as Ken Holtzman coasted to his sixth victory of the season.

Designated hitter Deron Johnson chipped in with his third homer of the season while Joe Muth drove in two runs with three hits.

The A's broke the game open in the first inning when they tagged Mike Hall for five hits and five runs. Campaneris and Muth led off with singles, Gene Tenace walked to load the bases and Reggie Jackson delivered two runs with a double.

KC tops Tigers on 5-run inning

FRED PATEK drove in the tie-breaking run with a triple in the fifth inning Thursday night, starting the Kansas City Royals to a five-run frame and an 8-2 victory over Joe Coleman and the Detroit Tigers.

Dick Drago, 3-2, despite a shaky start, scattered nine hits to register his second straight complete game.

The Royals sent 11 batters to the plate in the big-fifth. Carl Taylor started the inning with a hit, single before Patek slipped his run-scoring triple to right-center.

Giants use power to bury Cards

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bases empty homers by Willie McCovey and Dave Kingman, a two-run triple by Jim Howarth and a bases-loaded single by Chris Speier gave Sam McDowell all the help he needed for his first victory of the season Thursday as the San Francisco Giants defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-3.

McDowell went the first six innings, gave up six hits and all three St. Louis runs and Randy Moffitt pitched three scoreless innings to gain credit for his sixth save of the season.

The Giants reached St. Louis starter and loser Rick Wise, now 3-2, for all nine of their hits and all six runs.

McCovey hit his eighth homer of the season in the second and Kingman added his fifth in the sixth.

In between, Howarth tripled for two runs in the fourth and Speier added his single for two more runs in the fifth.

Len Elmore, the 6-foot-9, 230-pound University of Maryland center summoned midway through the Russian series to bolster U.S. muscle under the boards, said he expected only one or two of his U.S. teammates to make the trip.

Elmore cited other interests and the bruising international style as his reason for declining the invitation.

"A lot of people have things to do during the summer that they can't do during the winter because of basketball," Elmore said.

But he also put the rap on international rules after the concluding game of the Russian games.

Elmore cracked, "It was interesting, but it's not my game, although I might have had a few touchdowns."

"At least I've got a little experience in it now. I've learned the finer points of the game—elbows, fingers."

The top Soviet player, Aleksander Belov, left the game in Baltimore with five fouls after tripping Elmore, but left with a bloody nose as a keepsake.

"My hand ran into his nose," Elmore explained.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Jets Thursday signed a pair of free agent defensive tackles—Bill Atessis and Greg Lens.

The 6-5, 255-pound Atessis, a former Texas All America, was the Baltimore Colts' No. 2 draft pick in 1971 and later played with New England and St. Louis before being released last year.

squad midway through the series, was the only player he knew had accepted the Chinese invitation.

Barnes' Providence teammate Ernie DiGregorio, whose spectacular play led the U.S. team to four victories over the Russians, indicated he has had his fill of international basketball.

"I'm very glad it's over, I'm just glad I didn't get hurt," he said after the Baltimore game.

"Now I just want to go home and rest. I think I've had it with international basketball. I've had enough basketball, period."

North Carolina's Bobby Jones, the only U.S. Olympic player besides Hawaii's Tom Henderson to play in the Russian exhibitions, said of international basketball, "I'm sort of tired of it now. That's it for me."

Senior golf play

RUPERT — The first annual Ramada Inn's senior tournament will be played June 2 and 3 at the Rupert Country Club and Burley Municipal golf courses, announce host professionals John Peterson of Rupert and Earl Simpson of Burley.

The tournament is restricted to players 50 years of age or over and competition is offered for both men and women. Only the first 150 entries will be accepted.

The field will be divided in half, playing 18 holes at each course during the two days of the event.

All competitors must have certified handicap cards and the number of flights will be determined by the total number of players entered.

Highlight of the tournament will be an awards banquet following play June 3.

Those interested should mail entries and reservations to the Ramada Inn, 800 N. Overland, in Burley immediately. The meet schedule calls for four types of entries, which will provide overnight accommodations for those wishing them.

Pahsimeroi count grows to 1,426; 3.1 million eggs taken

WENDELL — The Pahsimeroi fish count continues to climb while the Lemhi weir and stolen 30 adults. Some 19 of these were females, which would have yielded about 100,000 eggs for the department's continuing rearing program.

Since a number of males also were taken, department personnel tended to disregard ideas someone was starting his own run somewhere.

Quldor said about 20,000 pounds of last year's crop still remains in the Niagara raceways. These will be graded Monday and Tuesday with the larger fish going into the Pahsimeroi immediately. The "runts" of the crop will be placed in the Pahsimeroi holding pond and released next June. The holding is intended to allow the runts to put on more size.

Quldor said the theories on smolts survival in migration are generally based on size.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MAY 12, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES An unusually good Saturday to get in touch with those you want to have cooperate with you more closely. Reach a new understanding with them. Also get into any activities requiring color, culture, music, or where precision and neatness of touch are required.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Find out what associates want of you, then you can make better plans. Once this is done, you can go out later for recreation with mate. Avoid one who argues.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Look about you and see where you can make needed improvements and do so. Shop around later for any items of clothing you need. Take care you do not go beyond your means, or you will regret it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) The right Saturday to get into the amusements that will make you feel much better. Show mate you are devoted. You have been taking this person for granted for a long time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can get busy and make your home much more attractive and smooth running early. Keep competitive, and you can do some entertaining that pleases all. Make a good impression on friends.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Complimenting kin or business contacts if they deserve it is wise and makes them happier. Tell your friends how they can help you. Avoid one who gossips a great deal.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You see now how to handle money affairs satisfactorily, come to a better understanding with others. Listen to an expert concerning stocks and bonds, other valuables.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are highly magnetic now and should get out in social circles, to business meetings, etc. where you can make the most of this day, accomplish much. Dress well. Avoid one who makes you nervous.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan more time for being with that person you like so much and be happy, gain your fondest aim, and please date, also. Evening is fine for increasing happiness with mate. Avoid bickering, though.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) State your aims to good pals and allies so you can get their assistance and goodwill as well. Being very sociable now is pleasant and profitable. Avoid some situation that leads to trouble, expense.

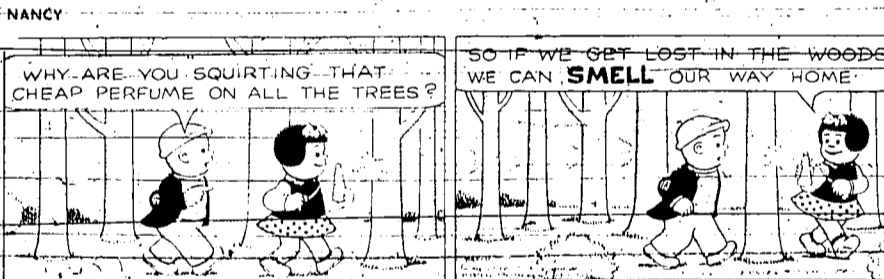

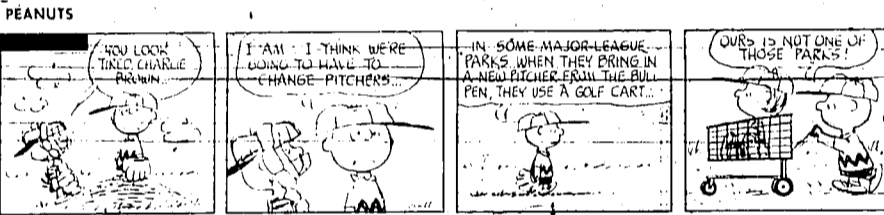

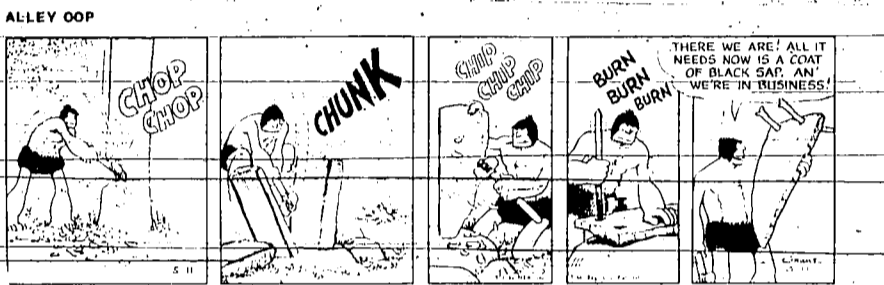

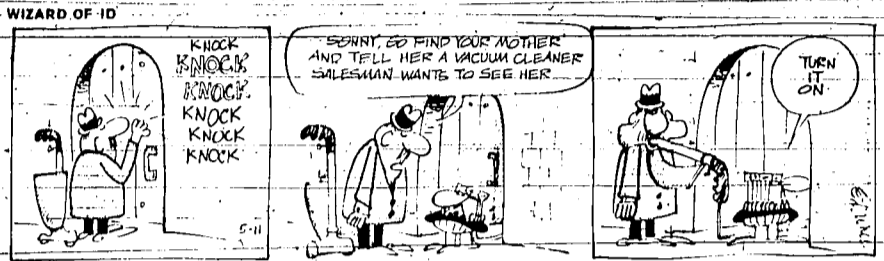

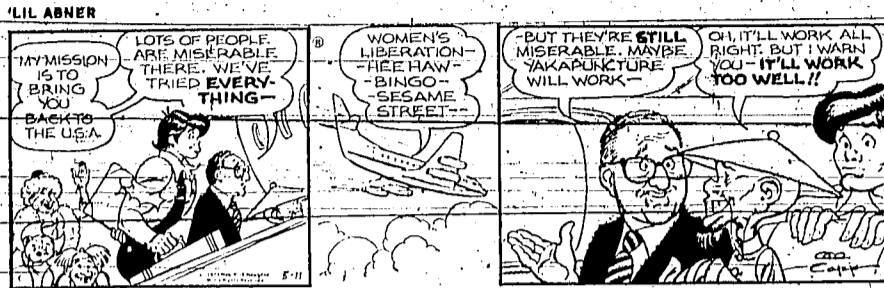

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Wear your nicest clothes and go out for social pleasures that can lift your spirits. Make a fine impression on a bigwig. Something of a civic nature can also bring excellent results. Grow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Ideal day to make plans for a vacation in the near future. Get the data you need for such. Being mild and more open-minded with others gets you good results. Avoid that stumbling block that is in the path of your progress.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan to have a good time with one who is close to you. Get into the activities that you mutually like, since the planets are very favorable. Follow your hunches. Steer clear of an irate associate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those young people with much charm, with whom both parents and others can have much pleasure. The nature is a peacemaker and will do much to bring harmony to others. There is the ability to cooperate with people and the professions that require such a talent are best, as well as precision and neatness. Permit to follow whatever religion most appeals to this youngster. Not much liking for sports here.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Longest New Year's Eve of all time was observed in 1926 by the exuberant Turks—father of modern Turkey, Kemal Ataturk, tossed out the old Turkish calendar for the new. When the celebrations started that night, the year was 1344. By morning, understandably, it felt like 582 years later. And it was.

Quite true, Sears & Roebuck's annual dollar volume exceeds the gross national product of Peru.

It's claimed Vice President Spiro Agnew knows the words to just about all the popular songs of the last quarter century.

No. a 22-rifle bullet won't puncture a crocodile's hide. Takes at least 45, the experts say.

PIRATE

You've seen the picture of that allegedly typical pirate who wore a gold ring through one pierced ear? Am asked if such depicts him realistically. No, not very. Except for an occasional islander recruited to work aboard ship, few pirates wore earrings. Also, they didn't dress any too wildly, either. History records that for reasons most sensible—not to offend, I tell you—the typical pirate preferred to remain inconspicuous.

The romantic Greek of old used to carve his girlfriend's name in his sandals in such a manner that an imprint of said name was left in the dirt wherever he walked.

Did I tell you the pigs outgambled the people by five to one in Iowa?

Q "What's a Sunday?"
 A That's what the native Chinese call a Pekingese.

SUICIDES

It's at approximately 10 a.m. either on a Monday or on a Thursday that the Boston housewife is most apt to try to kill herself. Or so a statistician there reports. He says 64.5 per cent of that city's suicide attempts are by housewives. And their preference for the aforementioned time and days is phenomenal. Why is a mystery.

A bath in a tubful of champagne will slow down your pulse rate considerably. Also, lower your blood pressure. Doctors say so. What causes such is the carbon dioxide that's absorbed through your skin. But you can get the same effect, cheaper, by taking a bath in plain soda water. Bear in mind.

It's the front wheels that do about 65 per cent of the braking on your car, most probably.

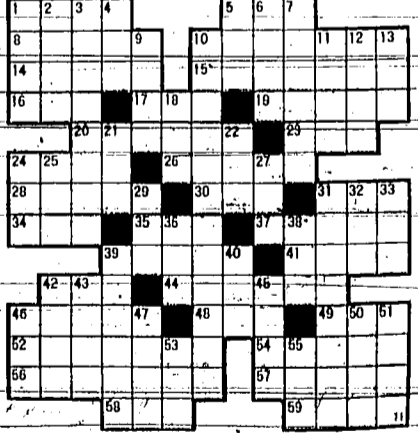

It's now known that one thing the rubber check pushers are likely to have in common is a bottle bottle. Or did you know that?

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices trended lower at the opening Friday on the New York Stock Exchange. Activity was light. Shortly after the opening bell, the Dow Jones Industrial average of 30 blue-chip stocks fell 1.74 to 937.46. Declines led advances, 140 to 68, of 341 issues crossing the tape.

During Thursday's session, the list drifted steadily lower throughout the day in quiet trading. The Dow fell 9.78 to 937.27.

Brokers said investors are beset by worry over fighting in the Middle East, the Watergate affair, U.S. Steel's request for a rise in steel prices, and a study by a group of purchasing agents that suggested the economy soon may be "running wild."

Warmer temperatures through Saturday with fair skies and light winds. Highs near 60 today and near 70 on Saturday. Lows in the mid 30s tonight. Outlook for Sunday, Sunday, continued fair and warm.

Pressure dominates—the western states. Temperatures in Idaho are expected to climb through Saturday although nighttime temperatures will still continue a little cool. By Saturday much of southern Idaho should have temperatures in the 60s for the first time this year. Night time temperatures are expected to remain cool, but be above freezing in most of the lower valleys. Fair skies will predominate for the next several days and the strong, gusty winds of the past few days should decrease. Extended outlook, Sunday through Tuesday, indicates continuing dry, warm weather with only minor daily temperature changes.

Self-regulation asked of American oil firms

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration said Thursday the oil industry has been asked to regulate itself by apportioning gasoline fairly to franchise and independent gas stations to keep shortages of gasoline at a minimum this summer.

The Office of Emergency Preparedness (OEP) also said in a letter to the 50 state governors Thursday that there was no need to enforce gas rationing this summer, but repeated earlier predictions that some "spot shortages" would occur.

The administration outlined its policy in a meeting Monday with oil industry representatives and made it public Thursday at a meeting of the Senate Banking Committee.

Deputy Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, chairman of the administration's Oil Policy Committee, said the plan calls for suppliers to deliver to customers the same proportion of gasoline they received before shortages arose.

The plan also provides for a priority list for gasoline in case shortages develop, to guarantee continued farm production, emergency and health services, public transportation and transportation of goods.

In related developments, the Senate Interior Committee approved a bill to strengthen the President's authority to impose rationing in case of "extraordinary shortages or dislocations in the distribution" of coal. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., urged immediate Senate passage, saying "the limits established by the Economic Stabilization Program, it said, U.S. Steel said prices also will be increased effective Aug. 1 on electric resistance weld trunk-line pipe and submerged arc weld pipe, both widely used by the oil industry.

US Steel boosts price on sheet, strip metal

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The U.S. Steel Corp. Thursday announced a 4.8 per cent price increase on its sheet and strip products which are widely used in the production of automobiles and household appliances.

Other producers were expected to follow U.S. Steel's lead.

The nation's largest steel maker said the increases would become effective with shipments of June 15. The price hikes "were well within the firm's more than 17 month plan."

Steel said price increases were anticipated because of rising costs.

Steel also said at the meeting that it envisioned a record-breaking year for the steel industry with production about 143 million tons. The industry has never exceeded 140 million tons of annual production.

Idaho professor seeks safety data

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—A not new but this particular application is new.

He said the oil and natural gas industries, as well as the Laramie Energy Research Center of the Bureau of Mines at Laramie, Wyoming, have used the air-injection technique to check the fracturing condition of oil and gas wells in the past.

Chan said compressed air is injected into a drillhole in the mine roof and flows from adjacent holes if fractures in the rock extend between the holes.

Santa Barbara, Calif. (UPI)

A French-born phonetician who recorded 25 hours of conversations in Paris found that fewer than 4,000 separate words were used.

Andre Malcot, a University of California professor, made the recordings to find how the French language is actually being spoken—not how the textbooks assume it is spoken.

Activities planned

RIDING CLUB activities for junior riders in Twin Falls are being planned for the 1973 season. Keith Qualls, left, drill master, and Robin Ford, club president, will be working with 40 to 50 young horsemen and horsewomen in drills and gymkhana.

Riding club starts 21st season

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Junior Riding Club is beginning its 21st season this spring with a membership drive.

The group was organized 20 years ago as a drill group for young horsemen and horsewomen of the area. During the 20 years more than 1,000 children have participated in activities, with membership averaging 40 to 50 each year.

New officers for the group this year include Robin Ford, President; Mike Osterhout, vice-president; Brenda Sayers, secretary-treasurer and Keith Qualls again serving as drill master.

Serving as assistant drill master will be Jay Williams, who was one of the original organizers of the group and has served in this capacity for a number of years.

Plans for the current season are to purchase a sprinkler system for the arena at the Qualls Park Ranch where the club meets for practice drills.

A non-profit and self supporting organization, the riding club stages a number of activities each year to raise money for drill costumes and travel expenses to compete in horse shows and drill contests.

A number of trail rides are held each year for members and their families. Last year there were 42 horses and 60 persons taken to Wood River campground for a trail ride and campout.

A queen contest is held each year with a girl selected to represent the club in contests around the state and to appear with the riders in various events. This year's contest will be announced in the near future and will be open to any girl 10 years of age or younger.

'Kibbutz' talk presented at TF Garden Club meeting

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Cecil Harrington, guest speaker at the Twin Falls Garden Club meeting held Wednesday at the YM-YWCA building, related his observations of life in a Kibbutz or a co-operative endeavor in Israel.

A graduate of University of Wisconsin with two doctorates (entomology and genetics), Dr. Harrington was introduced by Mrs. Gabriel Nuttle, program chairman.

According to Dr. Harrington, the Kibbutz was formed as a defensive settlement. He described the daily disciplined life where everyone from 16 to 80 works. The Kibbutz may be a vegetable farm, a hotel, a hospital or a turkey farm. Over 300 such farms or factories attract only 15 per cent of population. Anyone is free to join the cooperative and is also free to leave it. The remaining population live in the individualistic fashion.

Mrs. Alice Prescott displayed a number of house plants and said the African Violet was the most popular. The miniature forms are useful in terrariums and dish gardens. Other easily grown house plants displayed included geranium, begonia, cactus and philodendron. A wall chart showed pictures.

Burley tables 2 projects

BURLEY — Two projects were tabled and one given tentative approval at the Burley City Zoning Committee meeting Wednesday night.

A plan for a mobile home park presented by Cy Trout, Burley, was given tentative approval pending a few changes. The plans for the Green Valley Mobile Park, to be built southeast of Burley just outside the city limits, will then be presented to the City Council.

Approval was denied for Torosa Mobile Park, to be built northwest of Burley, just outside the city limits. The committee recommended several changes and asked the plan be resubmitted.

A plan presented by Alma Clark, Burley, set southeast of Burley, was tabled pending further presentation of plans.

The committee began work on a trailer ordinance for the city. A model ordinance was studied and work will continue at a special closed meeting Wednesday.

A public hearing on the new zoning ordinance will be held May 23.

The business meeting opened with collect read by Mrs. Kenneth Hodder. The club voted a contribution to the YM-YWCA.

It was announced the club will provide a table arrangement by Mrs. Hodder and corsages by Mrs. Alfred Kramer for dignitaries in the traveling Artrain Museum, Friday at the site of the former Union Pacific rail depot.

Mrs. V. W. Nelson and Mrs. Sam Porter reported on the State Garden Club convention at Idaho Falls. The presented part of the program, "Flowers Do Speak," was by the state flower show judges council. Mrs. Nelson's dried arrangement is now being shown in Governor Andrews' office.

Mrs. Kramer told of her junior garden club, the Plant People. She received a state certificate for junior club leadership and was also awarded a certificate as Flower Arranger of the Year.

The club received yearbook and scrapbook awards, second place in state calendar sales contest and recognition as a blue ribbon club.

Reports were given on landscaping at the Child Development Center and the Twin Falls Public Library.

A coffee will be given at 10 a.m. May 22 at the "Y" for Mrs. C. B. Bequa who is moving to Boise.

Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Alton Williams served refreshments. Mrs. Earl Peck and Mrs. Kramer poured. A basket of daffodils arranged by Mrs. Nelson decorated the table.

In addition to Dr. and Mrs. Harrington, other guests were Mrs. Peck and Mrs. J. T. Ricketts, Jerome.

Mrs. Ann Powell, Mrs. Emma Steffen and Mrs. Thelma Edmondson were in charge of the plant sale held in the foyer of the "Y."

The next meeting is June 6 at the YM-YWCA when a workshop on flower arrangement will be conducted by Mrs. Kramer and Mrs. Ivan Mink.
