War bill OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress appears ready to issue foreign policy challenge to President Nixon—this one a reassertion of congressional powers over the commitment of U.S. armed forces.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said the war powers measure—which cleared the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday—will be approved by the Senate within 30 days. It already has 58 sponsors.

The Senate's war powers bill, an outgrowth of the war in Vietnam, would require any president to gain congressional consent before committing U.S. troops to overseas hostilities.

Romney eyes Utah race

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Former Michigan Gov. George Romney is "90 per cent committed" to run for the Senate from Utah next year, according to a local Republican source.

Romney will seek the seat now held by Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, who is 73 and expected to step down at the end of his fourth term.

Brezhnev guarded in Bonn

BONN (UPI) — Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived today on his first visit to West Germany and pledged to build "peace in Europe" under a good neighbor policy with the nation the Russians once feared. Bonn was turned into a fortress for his visit and 27,000 police and troops were on hand.

There were some small anti-Brezhnev demonstrators, including both Christian Democrats and pro-Chinese Communists, but they were kept well away from the visitor by police who also confiscated many of their protest banners. There also were some welcome demonstrations by pro-Soviet Communists.

Murder suspects caught

WELCH, W. Va. (UPI) — Three Maryland fugitives wanted in connection with the murder of six members of a Georgia farm family were captured today as they slept under a rock ledge in a mountainous area known as Murphy's Cove near the village of War.

The three had fled into the area, considered the most rugged and mountainous in southern West Virginia, Thursday night after their stolen car was stopped at a roadblock. A fourth fugitive was captured earlier without resistance. The fugitives were being returned to Welch where charges were expected to be filed against them.

Youth vaccine found

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A new meningitis vaccine which can be given to 3-month-old infants appears to give protection against the deadly disease, a University of California researcher reported Thursday.

Dr. Martha L. Lepow, professor of pediatrics, told the American Society for Pediatrics Research that immunization at three months and booster shots at 1 1/2 years seems to prevent meningitis.

There are about 4,000 cases of meningitis reported annually in the United States, causing some 1,000 deaths and permanent brain and organ damage to 25 per cent of the survivors.

Nixon to host Playgirl

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Miki Garcia, a Sacramento model who will be one of President Nixon's guests at a formal May 24 dinner, plans to wear more at the dinner than the strand of beads that adorned her shapely figure in a Playgirl magazine centerfold.

A staunch Nixon supporter, Miss Garcia said she considered taking the Nixons an autographed copy of her January foldout. "But on second thought, I don't know if Pat would like that."

French greet Kissinger

PARIS (UPI) — White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger met for 75 minutes today with President Georges Pompidou. French government officials said they discussed the forthcoming talks between Pompidou and President Nixon in Iceland.

Convoy runs ambush

PHINOM PENH (UPI) — With swarms of American planes flying cover a road convoy of trucks and trailers arrived in Phnom Penh today from the southern coast. But a Mekong River convoy ran into a Communist ambush despite the American air umbrella and one ship was lost.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr. testified today that he was told by a White House aide that President Nixon "was aware" of efforts to pressure McCord to keep quiet and plead guilty in the bugging case with a promise of executive clemency later.

Testifying under oath at the second day of Senate hearings into the Watergate scandal, McCord said the clemency offer had been made to him by White House staffer John Caulfield at a private meeting during the Watergate trial in January.

"Political pressure from the White House was conveyed to me in January, 1973, by John Caulfield to remain silent, take executive clemency by going off to prison quietly," McCord said softly.

"And I was told that while there I would receive financial aid and later rehabilitation and a job," he continued. "I was further told in a January meeting in 1973 with Caulfield that the President of the United States was aware of our meeting, that the results of our meeting would be conveyed to the President, and at a future meeting there would likely be a personal message from the President himself."

Committee chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C.,

interrupted as McCord read from a prepared statement to caution that the testimony was purely hearsay.

Ervin interjected a similar cautionary note earlier while McCord was testifying he had been told by others that the plot to bug Democratic party headquarters last year had been approved by then attorney general John N. Mitchell, White House Counsel John W. Dean III, and Job Stuart Magruder, a key Mitchell lieutenant.

"The testimony of Mr. McCord as to what was told to him by John Caulfield would not be accepted in a court of law to connect the President with what Mr. Caulfield was doing," Ervin said.

"But it is admissible to show whether or not Mr. Caulfield is a party to any agreement to attempt to suppress information about what is popularly known about the Watergate affair at this stage."

Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., immediately said that in January, 1973 that Caulfield was not in the White House and was instead employed at the Treasury Department and "I hope we can correct these things as we go along."

Gurney warned "you are having all kinds of inferences here that are inaccurate and are casting aspersions and are going to damage people's character."

At that point, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., vice chairman of the committee, said Caulfield would be subpoenaed to testify following McCord's appearance.

A Treasury Department spokesman announced last Sunday that Caulfield has asked for and taken "administrative leave" from his job following a published report about his alleged efforts to pressure McCord.

McCord said today that he turned down Caulfield's offer during a meeting at the second overlook over the Potomac River on the George Washington Parkway the night of Friday, Jan. 12.

McCord testified that Caulfield told him then that the offer of clemency and a job "was a sincere offer" which Caulfield said came "from the highest levels of the White House."

He quoted Caulfield as saying, "I may have a message to you at our next meeting from the President himself."

McClure predicts lamb price hike

TWIN FALLS — Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, predicted today there would be an "upward spiral of lamb prices" because of what he termed President Nixon's "ill-conceived predator control policies."

McClure's remarks came in a text prepared for delivery at an all-day conference on predator control in Twin Falls organized by the senator's office.

About 30 persons turned out for the session's opening panel in the Holiday Inn. McClure's remarks were scheduled for a noontime luncheon.

Douglas Smith, a member of McClure's office staff and organizer of the conference, said it had been called to permit an "exchange of ideas on predator control."

"No one I know likes the idea of using chemical compounds to control predators," the senator said in the remarks. "Farmers and ranchers have long seen the potential environmental dangers of careless use of toxic agents, but after 15 months of the absolute ban on this method of predator control we have learned a grim lesson: the balance has been tipped disastrously."

McClure went on to say the "sheepmen have paid dearly, and soon the effects of that painful tribute will be felt by the housewife through the upward spiral of lamb prices."

McClure said time was "long past due" for rethinking the nation's policy on predator control.

Bill Mathews, a Bureau of Land Management official, told the opening session of the conference that "most of the public is not opposed to the control of predators in problem situations." But Mathews said there was public opposition to a "widespread, broad scale program" of predator control.

Lloyd Oldenberg, representing the Idaho Fish and Game Department, said the department was prepared to accept the responsibility for a statewide predator control program if the federal government relinquished such a program to the individual sites.

He said the fish and game office "recognizes the necessity of a predatory animal control program" on a controlled basis.

Annexation of land at the rate of 100 acres per minute in Hailey must have set some sort of record

Gold 'capped'

LONDON (UPI) — The price of gold capped out a week of often frantic trading today by moving ahead slightly as the dollar sagged in European money centers.

On London's free market, gold was priced $2.50 higher at $105.75 in the morning setting.

"The market is fairly slack with prices holding fairly steady," bullion dealer Samuel Montagu said.

"At the moment it looks as if speculators may be frightened to commit themselves in front of the weekend," another gold dealer said.

Gold firmed in Zurich at $105 as compared to Thursday's price of $104.

Hailey council approves annex

HAILEY — Members of the Hailey City Council have approved annexation of the 650-acre proposed McCulloch Properties, Inc. site.

The unanimous action came during a special city council meeting Thursday night in which council members first voted unanimously to scrap an "advisory election" on the matter, which had been approved during Tuesday night meeting.

According to Councilman Charles Dunn, the special meeting lasted about seven minutes.

After the meeting, Mayor Lawrence Heagle said the council felt, because the advisory vote would not have a binding effect on the council, "it would be a waste of money to have a vote."

"We saw no reason to subject taxpayers to the expense," Mayor Heagle said.

Dunn said such a vote would cost about $2,000. Dunn said the mayor and council went to Twin Falls Thursday morning to consult an attorney because acting city attorney Steven Clayton was on vacation.

He said no attorney was present during the special meeting because the council had previously consulted with the Twin Falls Law firm.

Regular City Attorney Stephen W. Boller was present at the special meeting, representing the McCulloch interests.

Under a previous arrangement with the city, Boller had withdrawn as city representative in connection with the McCulloch petition for annexation.

Dunn said a meeting had been initially called for at 7:30 p.m. by the Hailey Planning and Zoning Commission, but the council held the special session at 7 p.m.

After the meeting, a representative of McCulloch Properties in Hailey who had communicated with Robert P. McCulloch Jr., firm president, said McCulloch was willing to abide by a decision of the council Tuesday night and felt he would have won the advisory election vote.

The representative said now the council rescinded Tuesday's action, McCulloch is willing to abide by the new decision and will go ahead with the development plans.

McCulloch recognizes the possibility of a referendum, the representative said. McCulloch feels he would win that vote, "because of the solid support he has from the substantial citizens of Hailey," the spokesman said.

During the special meeting Thursday night, Councilman Claude (Hop) Porter introduced the resolution including the following points.

That the property described in the McCulloch petition "can be reasonably assumed for orderly development of the city of Hailey."

"That a portion of the property described in the petition has already been divided into lots and blocks."

"That the annexation shall be effective upon publication of the ordinance of annexation."

"That no plat shall be approved by the city council until such time as a master contract covering all terms and conditions of the relationship between the petitioner and the city of Hailey shall be entered into and executed by all parties concerned."

"That the findings and recommendations of the planning and zoning commission which had previously recommended annexation be ratified, confirmed and approved."

After the special meeting, the council met with the planning and zoning group. Commission chairman Grant Patterson submitted a statement to the council, signed by W. D. (Marty) Martindale, Hailey, requesting the council rescind its decision to hold the advisory election and approve the McCulloch petition for annexation.

However, because the council had previously taken action, the statement was reduced to a moot point.

Skylab repairs, tests slated

HOUSTON (UPI) — If their roof-sized sun shade cools the sweltering Skylab space station next Friday, the three orbital repairmen may be able to start scientific experiments four days later, a flight director said today.

Two versions of the awning were being devised by technicians as astronauts Charles "Pete" Conrad, Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz practiced procedures to rig the shades in a weightless vacuum with clumsy spacecut gloves.

Flight Director Charles R. Lewis said detailed plans were completed during the night for the pilots' 17,113 mile an hour rendezvous with Skylab 27 miles above Earth. The astronauts will fly up in an Apollo modified to serve as a space repair truck. Lewis told reporters in Houston that Skylab's feverish temperatures had stabilized at between 100 and 110 degrees and all systems were working well on the big orbital lab.

As now planned, Lewis said the astronauts would enter Skylab briefly Saturday, return the next two days and probably start conducting their normal experiments on May 29, "if everything goes well."

The pilots will live in their modified Apollo commandship until their space station cools to comfortable temperatures.

Project officials decided Thursday to proceed with what once was considered a way-out approach to shielding the eight-room, 118-foot long space station from the scorching rays of the sun. The astronauts' launch from Cape Kennedy, already delayed, once by Skylab troubles, was put off to 7:02 a.m. MDT May 25. The extra delay was possible because Skylab's overheating had been curbed by spacecraft maneuvers away from the sun. Officials now expect the cabin air to get no hotter than a bearable 105 degrees—not hot enough to damage the interior of the spacecab and make a rush attempt to stop the overheating necessary.

The pilots will carry two different types of aluminum-coated nylon awnings and it will be up to space veteran Conrad to decide which one to use after he surveys the seared space station. The shades were being built in Houston and Huntsville, Ala.

Jane Fonda, former POW lock horns

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Jane Fonda and a former prisoner of war clashed at a lunch Thursday. Later the POW called her a traitor.

Army Capt. Mark Smith said he had been forced by his captors to listen every day to the radio broadcasts from Hanoi made by Miss Fonda.

"What did you mean," he demanded of the actress, "when you said 'I'm speaking to the men who load the bombs, I'm speaking to the pilots, I'm speaking to all you people on the aircraft carriers?'"

"Were you advocating that they commit acts of sabotage or just mimic?"

She replied that "what I said was that I was speaking to all those men...I don't think it's possible to push buttons and pull levers, to sit back here and pay taxes to carry on this kind of a war, without it destroying our souls."

Smith said the "imprisonment she gave the troops that were doing the fighting was that she didn't want them to load those bombs... And to me that's advocating that American soldiers commit sabotage or mutiny against their officers."

Smith told reporters following his exchange with Miss Fonda that "I think that anyone who goes to a foreign country where we are involved in a conflict, and aids and abets the enemy... is a traitor."

Smith and Miss Fonda were invited to a Press Club round table lunch. Miss Fonda complained that she had been "set up," saying she was not told in advance that it would be a confrontation with a former POW. She and some of the liberated prisoners have been conducting a running debate over the war.

Vietnam blasted by shells

SAIGON—(UPI)— Communists using some of the biggest guns in their arsenal blasted the defense line around Hue with nearly 600 rounds in the past 24 hours, the Saigon command said today, in the first such attack there since the Vietnam cease-fire.

The command made no mention of casualties but military sources said the shelling was evidence of a Communist buildup against Hue, South Vietnam's former imperial capital 400 miles north of Saigon.

Among the guns used in the attack were Soviet-made 130mm cannons, the command said. The 130s are the largest guns in the Communist arsenal and have a range of 17 miles. Spokesmen said more than 100 artillery and mortar shells were fired from dawn to 9 a.m. today against government positions as little as eight miles from Hue.

The command said the Communists violated the cease-fire 82 times in the 24 hours ending at noon today for a total of 14,179 infractions since the Jan. 28 truce took effect.

The 130mm guns are the biggest in the Communist arsenal and have a range of 17 miles.

Press censorship facility secret

WESTMINSTER, Md. (UPI) — The federal government has maintained a secret press censorship installation at Western Maryland College for the past 17 years, Dr. Ralph C. John, new president of the small rural school, told students and faculty Thursday.

The installation, he said, was to be used in national emergency situations, and never been operative except for minor equipment checks.

John said he learned from federal officials that the original purpose of the facility — to censor the press — was ended "some weeks or months ago."

His remarks came after disclosure in a new book, "The Politics of the Mind: Government Deception, Secretary and Power," by David Wise, that the censorship facility was located on the college campus.

According to Wise, a team of eight civilians would travel to the campus to set up the National Press Censorship program when ordered to do so by the President.

The federal government's 10-year lease for the facility in the basement of a science building, expires in 1976. Dr. John said he would not personally favor terminating the lease before that time.

"I cannot wave a wand as the new president of the college and invalidate the contract," he said. But John added as a general rule he doesn't favor having a classified operation on a liberal arts campus.

WH aide offered McCord clemency

His voice barely carried to the far reaches of the cavernous and ornate chamber where the Teapot Dome scandal was investigated by another Senate committee 50 years ago, where John Kennedy's political stardom began and Joe McCarthy's ended.

The room was packed with reporters, cameramen and television technicians, and several hundred spectators.

It took only a few minutes for McCord, after starting his testimony at 8:25 a.m. MDT, before a national television audience, to mention such big names as Mitchell, Dean and Magruder in the planning of the bugging.

He said the idea was G. Gordon Liddy's — like McCord an employe of the Nixon re-election organization and convicted with him last January.

"Could you briefly state to the committee, Mr. McCord, what it was that Mr. Liddy wanted you to do?" McCord was asked by the committee counsel, Samuel Dash.

McCord said that in late 1971, "it became apparent that he (Liddy) had an interest in several areas of intelligence gathering pertaining to the Democratic Party and the Democratic Convention."

McCord added that "it was contemplated and planned by him and by others, whom he referred to in these conversations as John Mitchell, John Dean, counsel for the President, Jeb Magruder — then, in January (1972), the interim director of the Committee to Re-Elect the President — in which it appeared that those men, the four of them, were in, by late January, a planning stage in which political intelligence was to be discussed at meetings in the attorney general's office, Mr. Mitchell's office, and in which Mr. Liddy was seeking from me certain information regarding the costs and types of electronic devices that could be used for bugging."

Q: "How were they to be used, where were they to be placed?"

A: "The initial interest specified by Mr. Liddy in this regard were No. 1, against Mr. Larry O'Brien, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, in Washington, D.C., at his residence and subsequently at his office in the Watergate

Campgrounds open for holiday weekend

TWIN FALLS — Families planning camping trips during the coming Memorial Day weekend will find all lower elevation campgrounds in the Sawtooth National Forest open.

Some may not have water turned on and persons planning to go to higher elevations should check with the Forest Service before attempting to reach special high areas because of lingering snow.

A date on which charges will be made will be announced later for the 28 northern camps requiring $1 per night. Another 19 will not require charges and there will be no charges made for camping in forest sites in the South Hills this summer.

Robert Hong, recreation officer, said since the discontinuation of the Golden Eagle Passport program most areas do not require charges. Those where charges are made will be raising money to be used for camping improvements in the ranger district in which they are located instead of going to Washington, D. C. for reappropriation.

There is a camping limit of 10 days on any National Forest campsite within the Sawtooth National Recreation Area. Camping is not permitted in areas posted for picnicking only.

Areas within the Sawtooth National Recreation area where charges will be made this season include Grandjeon, Inlet, Lakeview, Stanley Lake, Iron Creek, Salmon River, Riverside, Morjon Bend, Basin Creek, Dutchman Flat, Upper O'Brien, Holman Creek, Sunny Gulch, Mountain View, Buckhorn, Chinook Bay, Glacier View, Redfish Outlet, Sandy Beach, Mt. Heyburn, Redfish Point, Alturas Inlet, Alturas Lake, North Shore, Smokey Bear, Wood River, North Fork, Easley and Bumgartner.

Some areas along the Salmon River are now collecting camping fees, Hong said.

Idaho Power named in suit

TWIN FALLS — A suit has been filed asking $176,281.50 in damages was filed Thursday in Fifth District Court here against Idaho Power Co.

Plaintiffs in the case are Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Shuff, parents of Fred C. Shuff, 20, who was killed June 6, 1972, while working on a Cable Vision line in connection with the Urban Renewal program in Twin Falls. He was electrocuted when he fell from a utility pole and grasped or brushed a power line.

The plaintiffs charge negligence on the part of the power company and their employees. They also charge the defendants deliberately destroyed the evidence in the case, namely the pole and lines involved in the electrocution.

Mr. and Mrs. Shuff ask $75,000 general damages, $1,281.50 special damages including funeral and ambulance costs and $100,000 punitive damages.

ECS aide speaks at meet

By MARILYN ELLIOTT Times-News writer

RUPERT — About 80 per cent of the people who come to him for welfare assistance supply him with incorrect information intentionally or unintentionally, James Spooner said Thursday.

Spooner, examiner and investigator for the office of Environmental and Community Services (ECS) spoke to members of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

These discrepancies in making out applications, he said, range from "flat-out fraud" to innocent mistakes.

Spooner's job is to interview applicants for welfare and investigate their needs.

Fraud "is a problem," Spooner said, but the agency is cracking down. The people on assistance "have changed their attitude," he said. "We're well above the state average" in prosecuting fraud cases, he said.

Assistance (OAA) and the Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) programs, Spooner said.

About 55 to 60 per cent of aid for general welfare programs is in the form of money, he said, and 45 to 40 per cent in payments to doctors for medical treatment.

The agency can exercise better control over funds in the food commodity program, he said. Although food stamps must be bought according to income levels, he said, the amount of money allotted for food on the program is "often more than I could afford."

Cassia County currently operates on the surplus commodity program.

Spooner said he favored the surplus commodity program to the food stamp program currently in use in Minidoka County. It "forces them to eat better food," he said, and eliminates the purchase of "junk" foods.

Speaker set

GUEST SPEAKER at Grace Baptist Church today through Sunday will be Rev. Charles (Bud) Bierman, Director of alumni affairs for Bob Jones University. Rev. Bierman will speak tonight at a high school group graduation party; Saturday night at a teachers and workers' dinner and Sunday at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. services.

Hearing held for local man

TWIN FALLS — Delbert Crawford, Twin Falls, was bound over to district court Thursday on two counts of obtaining controlled substance under false pretenses.

He appeared in Magistrate Court here for a preliminary hearing. Bond was continued at $10,000.

Crawford is represented by Golden Bennett.

Juan Martinez, charged with statutory rape involving a 15 year old girl, asked for preliminary hearing when arraigned in Magistrate Court. Bond was set at $5,000. Both Martinez and Crawford are in custody in the county jail.

Also appearing in Magistrate Court Wednesday was Hatley Berry, Buhl, charged with involuntary manslaughter. He also requested a preliminary hearing and bond was set at $100. He was released on bond.

Charges were filed against Berry as a result of the April 10 traffic fatality near Buhl in which Alberta Blacker McCauley, a Buhl school teacher in Twin Falls, was killed. An inquest was held earlier in the death.

Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. in the Twin Falls Masonic Temple. Wives of members are asked to bring a salad or dessert.

The lodge will convene at 8 p.m. Elko members will confer the E. A. degree. Ladies will play games in the dining room.

Public hearings on zoning slated

TWIN FALLS — Public hearings on two zoning matters have been scheduled June 5 before the Twin Falls County Commission.

At 10:30 a.m. they will hear comments on a zoning request by Don Harney for commercial zoning on property near the Hansen Bridge. At 11 a.m. a request for rezoning on 68 acres of farm land south of Twin Falls for construction of a mobile home park will be reviewed. The request is from Gordon Beckstead.

Adjoining farm land owners have objected to the request in previous hearings before the county zoning and planning commission on the basis the mobile home park would take prime agriculture land out of cultivation.

The Air Fares

On the grounds that special discount airline tickets "discriminate" against other passengers, the Civil Aeronautics Board has ordered the discontinuance of "youth" fares and "family plan" fares.

Today, a college student, for example, can fly home on a space-available basis for one-third less than the regular fare. Under the CAB order, such fares will go up in stages on June 1 and Dec. 1, and reach full fare on June 1, 1974.

Affected will be some 10 million young people who utilize the special fares, which were first introduced in 1961. The family plan fares have been in use since 1948 as a means of encouraging air travel and it is estimated that 10 million passengers a year — 10 per cent, of total traffic — take advantage of them.

How many air travelers accustomed to paying full fares have felt "discriminated" against is not clear. But it is interesting to note that the increased revenues that are expected when full fares are in effect for everyone will not result in an across-the-board reduction in fares for everyone. By CAB admission, the added income will go to improve the airlines' profit picture.

Which may be all right if there is, indeed, any added income. As commonly after community has learned time and again, while the projected earnings from an increase in bus or rapid transit fares look good on paper, the invariable result is an actual decline in revenues as people turn to other forms of transportation.

A lot of those husbands who now take their families along on business trips are going to think twice about doing it in the future.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Even as the ugly word "impeachment" is bandied about, President Nixon is getting unasked-for advice to save himself by changing his pattern and becoming an "open president." The chance of change is slim. Enough has been said now about Mr. Nixon's need for deep isolation. Only a handful of observers still manage to suggest he was waited off against his will by arrogant

"protectors" like the resigned top aide, H. R. Haldeman. Unmistakably, they were doing his bidding.

Also well worked over is the fact that the special, narrow brand of loyalty the President commands has come from men whose public careers have been largely bound up with his, men with slight knowledge of government and politics.

I see no accident in all this. In my judgment, he perceived early in life his lack of talent for war, easy human contact. Plunging into an arena (politics) where such contact is paramount, he has done the minimum he deemed necessary — and that mostly by a kind of forced, highly controlled contrivance.

Yet there is a missing element here, hinted at but not well developed in the heavy speculation about the President's role in the unfolding Watergate affair.

Men not gifted in human relations are quickly wounded by others. Sometimes they merely throw up a defensive shell. But often they respond, perhaps gradually at first, with resentment, bitterness, and slashing counter-attack.

Mr. Nixon's career is studded with evidences that his has been a bitter response. And it suggests that a circular effect develops. Counter-attack brings more criticism and hence fresh wounds. The uncomfortable man feels increasingly put upon, embattled, unfairly victimized by adversaries in many places.

This is the President's view of himself, supported by his wife's astonishing cloth-coat "we couldn't afford to go to the movies" version of their life even after he was an established Washington figure.

As late as this winter, talking of the "cease-fire" in Vietnam, Mr. Nixon told newsmen he knows it "gags them" to think of him, the old hawk, as a maker of peace.

My point: The iron loyalty he demanded all these years is a shield against at least those wounds delivered at close range. The shield is strengthened by other devices, some unappreciated by outsiders. How many public figures match him in not reading the newspapers and watching televised news?

Of course he gets an elaborately prepared "news digest" from aide Patrick Buchanan, but it is hard to believe this gives him all the bad news. As for TV, he is reliably reported to take filtered, secondhand accounts of panel shows and others from aides.

On this matter, he tells friends "expertise" in politics puts him too close to things, that he needs the detachment of men judging other public figures more from the layman's view.

I venture to suggest this is a facade, that the reality is he can't read or listen to constantly new assaults and keep his bitter reactions under control. And I venture that nothing can make Richard Nixon open himself to the barrage.

In The Neck?

WASHINGTON — As of now, Republican candidates seem likely to get it in the neck from the electorate next year as a result of President Nixon's failure to check the high cost of living. But a second thought intrudes.

It is that voters today are a lot smarter, and come 1974 they may start inquiring into the Democrats' part in the inflationary mess. That part has been and is a big one because although the policies are Richard Nixon's, a Democratic Congress in effect has gone along with them, pausing only to make chucking noises about the plight of the poor housewife.

The Democrats missed the boat. Although they have controlled Congress since Nixon's first inauguration, they have done nothing to assert their power to force stricter controls on the White House. Indeed, if one is cursed with a nasty mind one is tempted to wonder if the Democrats secretly are happy with high prices, for obvious reasons of partisanship.

Consider the most recent record. When Congress took up the one-year extension of the Economic Stabilization Act a couple of months ago, Democrats filled both chambers with warnings that there would be no extension without provisions for a rollback of prices, or at least a freeze. So the mountain moved and brought forth a mouse — a clause to compel some disclosure of costs and profits by big corporations that rise prices by more than 15 per cent.

Twice, the Democratic proprietors of Congress got a chance to put their votes where their big mouths were. And twice they retreated, first rejecting a provision to roll prices back to last January's levels, and then killing a proposal for a rollback to March levels — the highest in the country's history.

This is hardly a statesmanlike record. True, the President was bound to veto any bill calling for stricter controls, but where was the Democrats' muscle, their vaunted dedication to the "peepal"? Maybe they didn't have the votes to override a veto, but if you're striking a pose you have to give it the big try. Instead, the Democrats admitted Nixon was too strong to go to the mat with, a curious position for politicians who otherwise spend their days denouncing his "weaknesses."

Pierre Rinfret, a former economic adviser to Nixon, said the other-day the United States was on its way to becoming a "third-rate power." Rinfret was addressing himself to the preemption of U.S. markets by other nations, but he might have been talking about the stalemate between White House and Congress which threatens the Republic's capacity for self-government. Congress, which for practical purposes means the Democratic Party, is opposed to almost everything Richard Nixon is doing. But it seldom offers any alternatives to his policies, and even when it does — as in the inflation mess — the people who own and operate Capitol Hill lack the guts and maybe even the know-how to follow through.

Anybody can view the Watergate scandal with alarm and organize investigating committees, but statesmen are needed to write an opposition program and fight for it. Rinfret wasn't revealing any secret when he called current economic policies a "joke" and described Phase III as "everybody taking care of themselves and the hell with the rest of the United States." Food prices aside, higher industrial commodity prices are now increasing inflationary pressures. We're heading for a big bust.

Well, the buck has to stop at Richard Nixon. They're his policies. But the pussyfooting of the Democrats in Congress should earn them no kudos from the electorate. They run the show on the Hill. They have the power of the purse and they write the laws. The President would not now have even that meaningless one-year extension of the Economic Stabilization Act had the Democrats discovered the courage to say no instead of casting the plain citizen in the role of patsy for their politics-playing.

This is government of the people?

Our Enemies

WASHINGTON — Ironically, the Nixon administration and the United States of late have been much more successful in dealing with enemies than with friends.

The breakthroughs with China and Russia are history. Relationships with old associates in Japan, Thailand, South Asia, the Arab World, Western Europe and Latin America are stagnating.

That we have not lost our longtime Arab friends completely is due more to Soviet bungling than to American skills.

In one Latin country after another we have failed to take those small but considerate actions which would hold out close associations: We do not, in reality, deal sensitively with the deep feelings of some of our associates South of the Rio Grande on how far to sea a country's territorial waters extend.

Japanese friends in "high places" tell me they are desperate for a chance to talk frankly and privately with those American officials who make decisions. They almost passively want to do this regularly — so that they feel they are in on things and not merely being filled in as a necessary afterthought to keep them from boiling over.

The nub of the matter, as this reporter understands it from a variety of insiders from selected countries, is that these friends want to be considered as an integral part of the show, not just people and nations to be pulled along in our wake, or consulted urgently in crises. They want to be a part of the ongoing discussion.

Again, ironically, these sentiments mirror almost precisely the spirit of the Nixon doctrine, as outlined by the President. These precedents are almost in word-by-word agreement with principles expressed by Dr. Henry Kissinger, Mr. Nixon's chief policymaker for foreign affairs.

Kissinger, even before coming to the White House, made it clear in his personal remarks and his writing that it was his firm belief the United States historically had done much better, and had gone much further in accomplishing its aims internationally, when this country worked as one of a team of nations moving toward agreed-on goals developed by the group.

By contrast, we have not done nearly so well, Kissinger has said, when we attempted to go it alone or have marched off strongly in one direction in an outward show of leadership, using all manner of persuasion to get other hands to do the right thing and join us.

Our national genius, Kissinger seems to believe, is as a bit of yeast in gatherings where other countries take the lead. Here our influence, he says, can be phenomenal.

But this working together, as noted above, requires a day-to-day consultation (not an informing) in which this country's representatives give priority to listening to what leaders in allied countries have to say and in learning in detail their hopes and dreams — not what they say in public, but what they believe in their hearts. This, of course, does not come easy.

Mr. Nixon and Kissinger both have asserted this "new road" is necessary. What remains is for our actions to conform to our words.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Minor Wounds

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When my children fall and cut themselves or suffer a break in the skin, my wife pours, rubbing alcohol on the wound.

I claim an antiseptic spray is safer, less painful and not dangerous. What's the medical opinion? A. S.

Nothing wrong with the alcohol except it is likely to sting, probably a lot more than the wound itself.

As long as spray is available, why not use it and spare the kids the extra pain? Ask your wife which treatment she would prefer.

Before the new antiseptics came along, alcohol or even whisky was appropriate to use and the general effectiveness was usually measured by "how much it hurt." The idea has held on and your wife probably still feels that it has to hurt to be effective. Not true.

Incidentally, the most effective method of sterilization is to wash out the wound with soap and water. If a cut bleeds readily, probably that's all you need do.

However, since infection usually comes after the cut, it is best to cover the wound with a sterile dressing. Every house should have a supply of covered, sterile bandages for such emergencies.

While I'm on the subject, I should add that it is the puncture wound that is more likely to become infected and in that case antiseptics, whichever kind you choose, will have little if any value.

Such wounds should be made to bleed and immediate steps should be taken to avoid infection, including getting a tetanus shot if the victim has not had one within five years.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You don't seem to have a booklet on psoriasis. Is there anything that can be done for it? My sister is almost a nervous wreck with a bad case on arms and legs. — H. L. T.

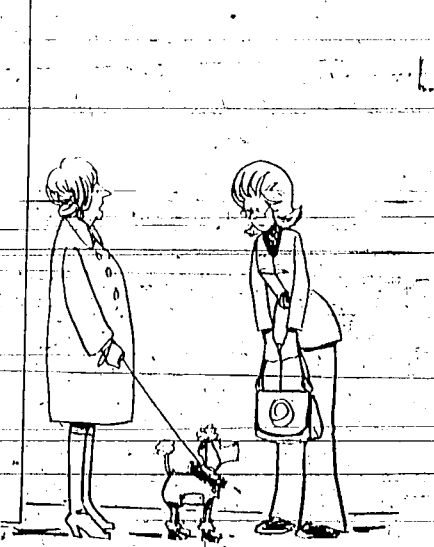

No, I haven't written a booklet on psoriasis because about all I could do would be to give a long list of things which some people claim to have used as successful cures.

Trouble is that every last one of them has also been tried by others without success. Indeed, sometimes it goes away without treatment, but not often.

Really, the best advice I can give is to advise sufferers to go to a dermatologist for any of several treatments that will soften the scales of psoriasis, keep the skin pliable, and prevent the itching. And to take a philosophical view that at least this isn't the kind of disease which kills or cripples you.

I add that last bit of counsel because, for whatever unknown reasons, nervous tension and worrying about it often seem to make it worse.

The Telephone Gap

In addition to all their other problems, Japanese and American businessmen are separated by a "telephone gap."

It's more than a matter of language differences, or the fact that Americans say "Hello" and the Japanese say something like Mosho — Dayan's first name repeated twice in rapid succession.

The Japanese prefer to conduct their important business matters on a face-to-face basis and use the telephone merely for handling minor details.

Americans, on the other hand, routinely make major deals over the phone and confirm their verbal agreements in writing later.

Now, however, the gap is being closed, at least from one side. Japanese businessmen in Honolulu are attending a new international management school to learn how to use the telephone in the American way so that they can deal more effectively with their counterparts in the United States.

The instruction is being given by the Hawaiian Telephone Co. as part of a five-month course conducted by the Japan-American Institute of Management Science, established last year by a large Japanese manufacturer of computers and communications equipment.

Japanese businessmen have been doing all right as it is. "Telephone gap" or no. Wait until they learn how to wield the instrument with the verve of a Lyndon B. Johnson or Martha Mitchell.

Lower speed limit eyed to save gas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government officials are seriously considering a recommendation for lower speed limits, especially on interstate highways, to cut gasoline consumption and reduce shortages expected this summer, an administration spokesman told Congress Thursday.

The disclosure came from Assistant Interior Secretary Stephen A. Wakelind as he and other officials appeared before the House Agriculture Committee to outline administration moves to assure farmers enough fuel for vital food-producing operations this year.

"We are looking very closely into the area of reducing speed limits. A car going 60 miles an hour burns 11 per cent less fuel than one at 70. We're giving this very serious consideration," Wakelind said.

He told reporters later that officials are looking into possible federal authority to lower speed limits on interstate highways, but "basically are looking into encouraging action by states."

Under questioning by Rep. Joseph P. Vigorito, D-Pa., Wakelind said officials had considered and rejected the idea of seeking cancellation of scheduled summer auto races like the Indianapolis 500. He said cars in such races use special fuel which already has been manufactured and can't be used in passenger cars anyway. Cars in "stock car" races are not on the fuel priority list, he added.

A spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute told the committee a major cause of the gasoline shortage is more new cars using more fuels because of such things as air conditioning, automatic transmissions and other power equipment options.

P. N. Gammillgard, senior vice president of the institute, said exhaust emission control devices also are causing cars to burn more gasoline.

Duke R. Ligon, head of the Interior Department's Office of Oil and Gas, added that the administration's new voluntary oil allocation program should meet the basic needs of "priority users." He noted farmers have been given top priority under the program and said oil firms were already cooperating in shifting supplies to meet farm needs.

Ligon and Wakelind said the administration would study the need for making the allocation program mandatory, but added they believed the voluntary program would work.

2nd prosecutor choice withdraws

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A second of Elliot L. Richardson's four top choices to be special Watergate prosecutor withdrew from consideration Thursday, and the attorney general designate began widening his search.

The development came as Richardson arranged to release his proposed guidelines under which the prosecutor would operate — an issue that has delayed confirmation proceedings on his nomination in the Senate.

San Francisco attorney Warren M. Christopher, who was deputy attorney general in the Johnson administration, said on his return to Los Angeles after talking with Richardson in Washington that he was "complimented to have been considered" for the controversial post but declined it on grounds he would not be given sufficient independence.

U.S. District Judge Harold R. Tyler of New York, Richardson's first choice among the top four "finalists" for the job, withdrew his name Tuesday.

This left on the list David W. Peck, 70, a New York attorney, and Colorado Supreme Court Justice William H. Erickson, 49.

A spokesman for Richardson said: "We are giving consideration to what appears to be the remaining members of the four and we are considering other names on our list." Richardson's original roster of prospects contained at least 60 names.

In testimony thus far at confirmation hearings, Richardson has aroused strong misgivings on the Senate Judiciary Committee by insisting that he have "ultimate authority" over the person chosen to take over the Watergate prosecution.

Assistant Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia and Sen. Quentin N. Burdick, D-N.D., both members of the committee, said Wednesday that Richardson's confirmation was in jeopardy unless he assured the prosecutor of "complete independence."

It was learned that Byrd, Burdick and four other Democratic members of the panel met privately Wednesday to discuss the matter.

President Nixon tapped Richardson, who has been defense secretary since January, to replace Richard G. Kleindienst as head of the Justice Department, and authorized him to appoint a special prosecutor.

Objections to Richardson's retaining sway over the prosecutor have centered on his well-established ties with the administration. He has served as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, and before that was undersecretary of state.

Limits voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — By a 15 to 0 vote, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday approved a bill that would restrict the President's powers to commit American troops in overseas conflicts without consent of Congress.

The measure, which passed the Senate last year but died in the House, would force any President who commits U.S. troops to battle in the future to withdraw them unless Congress specifically gives its consent within 30 days.

A similar proposal has been passed by a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee and there is a strong possibility it will clear the House this year. The administration opposes the bill.

Resign, asks ex-LBJ aide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's top White House aides broadly suggested Thursday that President Nixon should resign "in favor of the country."

Joseph A. Califano, a Washington attorney who served for a time as chief domestic adviser to Johnson and later was the No. 1 lawyer for the Democratic National Committee, said Nixon should "ask himself if he still can govern" effectively in view of the Watergate scandal.

Califano's remarks came in a speech to the Washington chapter of the American Society for Public Administration, whose members include government workers.

Califano said "the President and the American people should face this central question: Is Richard Nixon capable of governing this nation at home and abroad at a very difficult and dangerous time in our history?"

"Among other things, Califano said: Nixon would have great difficulty attracting competent people to Washington to fill 40 to 50 top-level jobs he said were vacant, partly because of Watergate-related resignations.

If a major new crisis occurred in the Middle East or Southeast the public might not believe Nixon's explanation and suspect the President might be "manufacturing or exaggerating such a crisis."

"The U.S. economy might be badly damaged because of possible refusal by either business or labor to respond to presidential requests for restraint.

The resignation issue, Califano said, is difficult for any American to raise "because belief in the President is so deeply ingrained in our lives." He added:

Peppers recalled

BOISE (UPI) — The U.S. Food and Drug Administration Thursday notified the Idaho health officials all batches of peppers packed under the labels of "Nancy's" and "Leone Di San Marco" are being recalled because of botulism type B toxin contamination.

A check by the Department of Environmental and Community Services indicated the products "were" not distributed in Idaho.

George Romney slated for Utah Senate bid

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Former Housing and Urban Development secretary George Romney will make a bid for the U.S. Senate from Utah in 1974, a Republican source here said Thursday.

Romney, who resigned from the President's cabinet last fall, is "90 per cent committed" to seeking the seat now held by Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah.

Bennett has not formally announced his plans, but it is widely believed that the 73-year-old senator will step down at the close of his fourth term.

Romney, on the other hand, has not held elective office since the 1960s, when he was governor of Michigan.

He was an active, but unsuccessful, candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency at the Miami Beach convention.

After Richard Nixon was elected President, Romney was appointed as chief of HUD and held the post until last fall, when he resigned to go into private, but largely undefined, affairs.

Romney and his wife, Lenore, are both members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) which has its world headquarters in Salt Lake City.

In 1968, he received six of the state's eight delegate votes at the Miami convention. His nomination was seconded by Richard Richards, at that time Utah GOP chairman.

The introduction of Romney's name into the Utah Senate race puts a whale in the teeming fishpond of Democrats and Republicans vying for Bennett's seat.

Utah Attorney General Vernon B. Romney, distant cousin of the former cabinet member, is also a potential candidate for the seat, as is former GOP chairman Richards.

The front-running Democratic candidate at this time is Donald Holbrook, a Salt Lake City attorney and close associate of Gov. Calvin L. Hampton. Hampton has said he will support Holbrook for the nomination.

Pennsylvania leads the 50 states in production of mushrooms.

Idaho council clears

Andrus' building plan

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Thursday proposed construction of a new five story state office building — financed through surplus insurance fund monies — and the Permanent Building Fund Council approved it.

In putting forth his proposal for the $3.8 million structure in the Capitol Mall, Andrus said he will seek a declaratory judgment from the courts on its legality.

Council members okayed his proposal without dissent but contingent upon court approval of the proposal's legality.

Andrus discusses proposed classified employe pay hike

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus met with the co-chairmen of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee Thursday to discuss a proposal to increase salaries of classified state employes.

Andrus said he met with Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, and Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, to bring them up to date on his reasons for the five per cent salary increase next January and "to try and determine a method of getting the increase into the budgetary cycle."

The governor also met with J. Ray Cox, chairman of the Idaho Personnel Commission, William Roden, consultant for the Idaho State Employees Association, and Greg Painter, ISEA executive secretary.

The governor said a survey will be completed next month on salary increases needed in the next fiscal year.

According to High, he and Roberts will fill in the full joint committee at its meeting

Friday on the discussion with the governor. He said he asked the budget director for names of agencies which could provide salary increases as of July 1 and those which would not have sufficient funds.

During the noon hour Thursday, state employes gathered in the statehouse rotunda to call attention to what they call inadequate pay.

The demonstration was sponsored by a group called the committee for fair treatment of state employes.

The committee is not an official part of the state Employees Association.

The committee said the five per cent salary increase due in January next year are inadequate. Instead, they want the five per cent increase in July this year and another 15 per cent increase the first of the year.

The petition, circulated during the rally, called for providing employes with wages comparable to those paid by private industry and surrounding states' employes.

The petition said adjustments to bring salaries up to comparable current standards of private industry and neighboring states is required by law.

Washington police Sgt. Paul Leeper testifies

Watergate discovered when lookout failed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If it had not been for the purely accidental fact that the only available police car was an unmarked one, the Watergate burglary might never have come to light.

Police Sgt. Paul Leeper, who led the arrest party, told the Senate Watergate committee Thursday the unmarked car and casual clothes worn by the officers fooled a lookout and gave them an extra five minutes in which to search for the five men they arrested inside Democratic national headquarters.

"They were five of the easiest lookups I've had," said Leeper of the four Miamians and James W. McCord, who was the security chief for the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

Leeper and two other plain-clothes officers answered the call about a suspected burglary in progress June 17 at the Watergate when the police dispatcher was unable to contact uniformed officers in a standard patrol car.

After meeting a building guard who had discovered that locks were taped open on doors to a stairwell, the officers began a search of the building with the lookout, former FBI agent Alfred C. Baldwin.

apparently unaware of their presence. When they reached the sixth floor, Leeper recalled, his partner, John Bruce Barrett, stood on a terrace with his gun drawn and looked over at Baldwin who was watching from a motel window across the street.

Barrett said to Leeper, "That man across the street is watching us. Do you suppose he will call the police?"

Watergate viewers curse

By United Press International
One switchboard operator at a television station was called a "Communist." Another was "called every dirty name in the book." The general tone of the calls was, "Who cares about Watergate?" said one station. That was the predominant reaction Thursday as thousands of viewers called television stations across the country to complain at the networks' preempting their afternoon soap operas and quiz shows for the Senate Watergate hearings.

Virginia Pearson of KNXT-TV in Los Angeles said most of the calls she received were from "elderly women whose language you just couldn't believe."

"I think I've been called every dirty name in the book," she said. "The harshest language began when 'As the World Turns' didn't appear. Seriously, I think some of these people are sick. They say the Watergate business is a lot of nonsense, that they can read about it in the newspapers anyway and why should they have to miss their favorite programs."

KNXT received 130 complaining calls, and other stations in Los Angeles got more.

In Pittsburgh, KDKA-TV said 95 per cent of the 200 to 300 complaint calls came from women, but some men called for their wives. One switchboard operator at WJIC-TV said, "I got cursed a lot." Another was called a "Communist." Many callers said the networks were "dumb and stupid."

"Why are we having this pushed down our throats?" callers in Cleveland wanted to know. Three stations there received 2,500 calls.

A spokesman for WJBM-TV in Chicago said, most calls in the afternoon were protests. But after the 10 p.m. news, "callers were 2-1 in favor of watching Watergate." A few callers said "Watergate was the news media's fault," he said.

In New York, a CBS official said the network received many complaints in the city and around the country. However, it also got "some" telegrams praising CBS, he said. The network would continue airing the hearings today despite the complaints, he said.

At WLS-TV in Chicago, the general tone is "Who cares about Watergate?" said a station spokesman.

Europeans watch Watergate unrest

United Press International
The Watergate scandal has captured the attention of Europeans despite a lot of political, economic and labor unrest in their own back yards.

When the price of gold on European markets hit record heights on Tuesday, for example, several dealers attributed the heavy trading to the Watergate case.

"No doubt this affair has affected the shaky faith in the dollar — very often political events have a direct effect on stock exchange and money markets," a financial source in Brussels said. In the Middle East, often preoccupied with its own long crisis, the Watergate case stirred comment. "It's really not good...because world leaders are not going to trust President Nixon anymore," said Lauri Kleinhaus, 26, of Tel Aviv.

And in Paris, while Henry A. Kissinger was meeting Hanoi negotiator Le Duc Tho to discuss ways of strengthening the Vietnam peace, the Viet Cong was accusing the United States of bombing Communist-held territory in South Vietnam.

IRS said Nixon tool in 'political purge'

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Oklahoma's secretary of state said Thursday he has been told the Nixon administration is conducting a "nationwide political purge" by using the Internal Revenue Service to audit income tax returns of newly elected Democratic governors.

The secretary, John Rogers, said he has been told the IRS is investigating 15 Democratic governors — including Oklahoma's David Hall and other state officials. Hall's returns for 1968, 1969 and 1970 are being audited, Hall and Rogers said.

However, Rep. Tom Steed, D-Okla., who heads the congressional committee that approves the IRS appropriation, said he has heard reports the IRS is investigating governors of 13 states. Steed said he doubts the investigations are politically motivated even if they are true.

"This is just like Watergate," said Rogers. "The evidence is overwhelming that one of the tools the Nixon administration is using is agencies of the government for political espionage. This is a nationwide political purge of the opposition party. Virtually all the federal agencies are involved."

Rogers, whose income tax is also being audited, said, "I have been told by people whose official positions would indicate they would be in a position to know that virtually all of the newly elected Democratic governors since 1970 that beat Republican incumbents are being investigated in this giant political espionage by arms of the federal government whose business is to put you in jail." He did not name his informants.

Hall said he has cooperated fully and "apparently several different teams of IRS investigators" have concluded his returns are "intact and accurate."

Couple files damage suit

TWIN FALLS — Kenneth and Judy Flowerdew are seeking $1,270.20 from Mr. and Mrs. Dale Bell, operators of the Banbury Hot Springs Park.

The damage suit, filed in Fifth District Court Thursday, resulted from damages to a trailer house the plaintiffs had parked at Banbury Hot Springs June 15, 1972. It was damaged when a large tree fell on it. Plaintiffs charge the tree was blown into it and needed trimming and the defendants were negligent in allowing it to endanger trailers.

Search widens for special prosecutor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General designate Elliot Richardson has failed to convince key Democrats on the Senate Judiciary Committee that he will grant total independence to a special Watergate prosecutor.

The Democrats said the guidelines for the prosecutor, detailed by Richardson Thursday, included "some constructive steps" beyond Richardson's past position.

But Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; Quentin Burdick, D-N.D.; and John V. Tunney, D-Calif., said in a joint statement "there are still a number of very significant areas which we believe the special prosecutor would want and need to have clarified if he is to be assured the independence the American people expect him to have."

Turned down by his number one and two choices, Richardson began widening his search for a special prosecutor. Indications were no selection would be made today. U.S. District Judge Harold Tyler of New York and San Francisco attorney Warren Christopher, a former deputy attorney general, withdrew from consideration because sources said they felt they could not be sufficiently independent.

The decision of Christopher, a Democrat popular in Capitol Hill, who conferred with Richardson Wednesday was expected to have a strong impact on senators who are already demanding greater assurance that Richardson will not infringe on a special prosecutor.

New York attorney David W. Peck and Colorado Supreme Court Justice William Erickson are known to be under consideration, but Justice Department officials said that the search has now been broadened.

Erickson met with Richardson Thursday and then returned to Denver without disclosing the outcome of the talk. Erickson did say he believed a sitting judge who took the job should resign from the bench.

Richardson's guidelines said that the special prosecutor would have "full authority" for both the investigation and prosecution.

Innocence told in Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Donald Segretti, accused of political sabotage, pleaded innocent Thursday to two counts of violating federal campaign laws and was freed on a $10,000 personal recognizance bond.

The young Los Angeles attorney would answer no questions from newsmen. His attorney, Raymond La Porte of Tampa, refused even to clarify whether Segretti is 31 years old, or as young as 28, as some reports have claimed. He pleaded innocent to charges of distributing and conspiring to distribute a piece of phony campaign literature which has come to be known as the "Muskie Letter."

The letter mailed from nearby St. Petersburg during the 1972 Florida Democratic primary was on Sen. Edmund Muskie's stationery and charged two of his opponents, Sens. Hubert Humphrey and Henry Jackson, with sexual misconduct.

Tampa accountant George Hearing has pleaded guilty to one count and is pending sentence in connection with the letter's distribution.

Protest project

SOME 10 persons picket at Rio Blanco, Colo., roadblock protesting Project Rio Blanco. Here a picket sets fire to a wooden sign which reads, "Who-in-Hell-Gave-permission-for-these-blasts?" The project went off as scheduled.

Blast causes no damages

RIO BLANCO, Colo. (UPI) — A few panes of glass rattled, some rocks slid from their moorings and blocked a road leading to Ground Zero. Scientific instruments recorded an earthquake of medium intensity.

But for the most part, Project Rio Blanco — the explosion Thursday of three hydrogen bombs equal to 90,000 tons of TNT — produced little more than a tiny puff of dust. There was no great tremor, cattle never stopped munching and area homes — reinforced and evacuated at government expense — were not damaged.

"I think you could have sneezed louder than that," said Don Hutchings who owns the Five-Stool Cafe in Rio Blanco, 20 miles from the wellhead.

The purpose of the blast is to determine the feasibility of mining trapped natural gas with nuclear explosions. The reason for using such powerful bombs is that the formations in which the gas is located are so impermeable, only minuscule amounts can be produced by more conventional methods.

It will take at least three and possibly 12 months to learn if Thursday's controversial explosion is a success. If it is, it could lead to many such projects in the Rocky Mountains.

Jim Stanko, teacher at Rock School only seven miles away, said the ground movement didn't even knock over the pieces of wood he put up to measure the shock. "It was nothing," he said.

The heavy shoring of the 76-year-old schoolhouse was unnecessary. Field teams checking for damage could find only hairline cracks.

"We had a perfect shot," said Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Dixy Ray. "Everything went as expected. We look forward to a great step ahead in our knowledge."

AEC spokesman Henry Vermillion said there was no radioactivity recorded.

It was fear of radioactive pollution which sent environmentalists to court in an unsuccessful effort to stop the test. They said the blast could contaminate the underground waters feeding the Colorado River, or the pollution could seep from cracks in the ground.

Council rejects TVs for inmates

BOISE (UPI) — The Permanent Building Fund Council Thursday rejected a request for 300 personal television sets for Idaho State Prison inmates, but approved construction of bedside lockers for the inmates.

The council authorized the expenditure of $25,000 for construction of the lockers that will be built at the prison.

Also at the Thursday meeting, the council refused to commit itself to a proposal by Boise State College to construct a vocational-technical building on campus.

More than a year ago the state legislature appropriated $250,000 for the building. BSC President John B. Barnes told the council that sum was inadequate and the cost should be closer to $1.5 million.

Barnes was asking specifically for authorization to hire an architect for the project. Max Boessinger, public works commissioner said there would not be any cash flow to finance the Boise State vocational building until after the council sets priorities on state building and until closer to the time actual construction could begin.

Director of Corrections Raymond May told the council he thought individual cell television sets would help inmates relax and eliminate "arguing" over what is to be viewed.

He said that the day of mass movie viewing in the prison was over.

The proposal called for 300 10-inch black and white sets at a cost of about $30,000. May said he would do additional research on the cost and use of the sets and might resubmit his plan.

May told United Press International that at any point where there is a general assembly, such as the television viewing rooms, there is potential for a disturbance and the ultimate destruction of state property.

In other action: The board approved a $42,000 expenditure for curbing and sidewalk installation at the Eastern Idaho Vocational School in Idaho Falls.

Approved for bid a $65,000 construction job for the Salmon Satellite Child Development Center in Salmon.

South had started out beautifully. No one could find any fault with his following suit to the first two tricks; his ruff of the third heart and his first trump play, but right then and there it was up to South to take some precaution.

He should have cashed both dummy's diamonds and two top clubs. He would have been set if the second club got ruffed, but in that case he would have had no play for his contract and long experience has taught us that any chance of success is far better than sure failure.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The defense started out with three rounds of hearts. South ruffed the third lead in dummy; led the four of spades and went up with his king. This play might have caused West to put on his ace of spades, but it didn't. West held off, but took the trump continuation.

Then he placed a diamond on the table. South, who had been playing the hand in a semi-trance, woke up, but it was a trifle late.

Answer tomorrow

Guilty feelings

This has been a hard-earned lesson from which I hope to profit in the future. Abby, please tell your readers that tomorrow might be too late to offer friendly help. Had I not been so selfish I might have saved the lives of two innocent children, and their mother who must have felt that no one really cared if she lived or died. SAD AND GUILTY

DEAR GUILTY: While listening to a friend unburden herself may be an act of friendship, it doesn't provide the therapy a deeply disturbed person requires. You don't say whether your friend sought psychiatric help, but if she had not, you might have helped her more by pointing out how desperately she needed it. Your friend was more than "unhappy," she was mentally ill. Sad? Yes. Guilty? No.

DEAR ABBY: I just received an offer from a gentleman. He wants me to move into his apartment and pay half the rent. All I would have to do would be the house-keeping. He thinks it's a good deal for me because he has a color TV, a waterbed, and a microwave oven. What do you think of his offer? MITZIE

DEAR MITZIE: As I see it, in exchange for your bed and board you'd have to pay half his rent and do all the house-keeping. If you want a color TV, waterbed, and microwave oven, you'd be ahead to buy them. He doesn't mention the sleeping arrangements, but if he plans on doubling up, ask him if he considers that an incentive for you—or him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband divorced me last December, and now he says he wants his rings back. Should I return the rings, or am I entitled to keep them? I once heard that possession is nine points of the law. Does that still hold true? NEEDS-TO-KNOW

Presbyterian split grows

ATLANTA (UPI) — The conservative backlash against the Presbyterian Church of the U.S. is growing, with two more Georgia churches leaving the fold and supporting a separatist movement.

Ahanta's Emmanuel Presbyterian Church and the Smyrna Presbyterian Church formally announced withdrawal from the parent church Monday, bringing to about 70 the total number of churches in the South to pull out.

Some 150 dissident churches are sending delegations here next weekend to draw up plans for a new, conservative Presbyterian denomination.

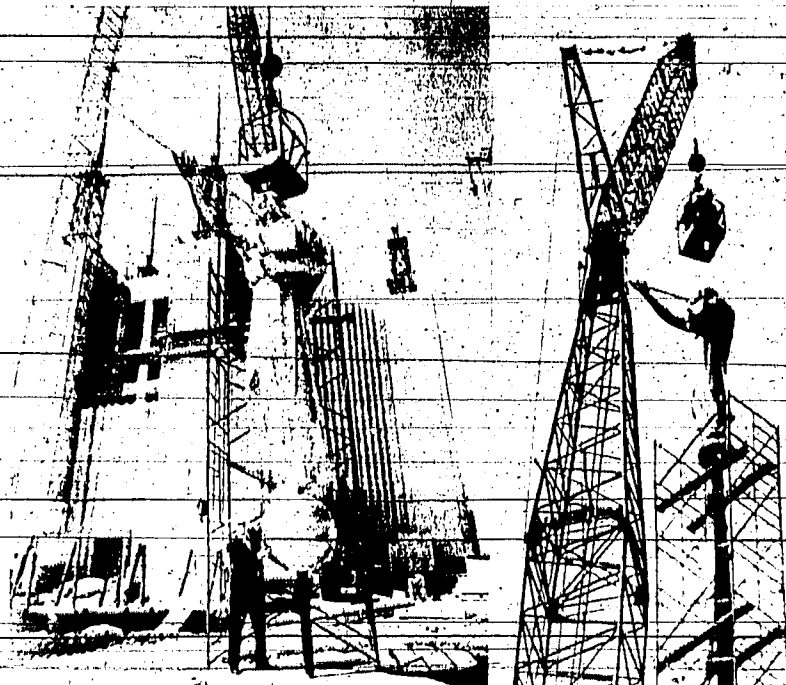

A spokesman for the Presbyterian Church of the U.S., an organization of 4,000 churches in 16 Southern states, said the conservative members are fed up with the Church's liberal stand on abortion and its involvements in political, economic and social affairs.

But the Rev. Eugene Hunt, pastor of Emmanuel, said "the problems go much deeper into theology."

"We have sought to remain faithful to the traditional Presbyterian belief that the Bible is infallible," Hunt said in an interview. "Now we have people who don't seem to accept this."

He said liberal Presbyterians now say the biblical version of creation is myth. They say the miracles and the immaculate conception and resurrection of Christ are impossible, he said.

"It's simply a question of the authority of the Bible," he said.

Stock feed outlook holds up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration has favorable prospects for the record 1973 livestock feed production if needs if retail food prices are to go down, the Agriculture Department reported this week.

Despite wet weather which has delayed planting in some areas, farmers can still produce the record crops the administration hopes for, the department said in a special report.

Corn belt weather forecasts are for fair skies favorable for field work this week and indicate only normal rainfall for the next month.

Department experts said if the weather cooperates for the next few weeks, and if fuel and fertilizer shortages can be avoided, growers can still harvest a record 6 billion bushel corn crop—the goal used by administration planners in their predictions that the upward spiral of retail food prices can be checked this summer and turned down late in the year.

The administration has imposed ceilings on meats, but otherwise is banking on expanded production of crops like corn and soybeans to bring prices down by fueling bigger output of cattle, hogs, poultry and milk.

The new report said acreage of soybeans, which are normally planted later than corn and cotton, could rise beyond the previously estimated 54 million acres because of delays in planting the other two crops. Officials said that if soybean acreage hits 55 million acres, farmers could harvest a record 1,550 billion bushel crop, more than enough to meet projected needs in the 1973-74 marketing season.

Experts, warned, however, that if wet weather continues for the next few weeks, total corn and cotton plantings would be "substantially less" than earlier estimates. They said most land which dries out would be for corn and cotton would probably be planted to soybeans.

If the corn crops fell much below the hoped for levels, the government would be forced to choose between accepting new upward pressure on retail food prices or putting controls on exports in order to preserve supplies for home use.

Church backs fuel supply guarantee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Wednesday he is urging President Nixon to give farmers a guaranteed priority status on allocation of fuel supplies.

Church said he has received many letters and calls from Idaho farmers "who fear a short supply of necessary fuel to run their farmmachinery."

In his letter to the President, Church said he has been advised by those "concerned mon and woman that strictures on fuel supplies to their operations can only result in reduced production of food products."

"At a time of rapidly rising food prices and the disastrous floods in the midwest which make it appear that prices may go even higher later this year, it is crucial that farm production not be curtailed by fuel supply shortages."

Kimama townsite for sale

SHOSHONE — Thirty-eight lots in the township of Kimama will be sold at public auction at 10 a.m. June 25 by the Lincoln County commissioners.

In the original townsite of Kimama, which is located on the east edge of Lincoln County, there are 10 lots still owned by private persons.

The county has long owned the other property, acquired on a delinquent tax basis.

About 10 years ago, county commissioners offered the lots for sale, and did sell a few. The railroad was using the Kimama landing for loading and unloading in those days. With closing of that stop, the people moved out and the few old buildings left standing have given a "ghost town" effect.

The Bureau of Land Management has maintained a rough vehicle route through the area, but in general it is a spot today where few people pass.

Commissioners have appointed Mrs. Ellen Stutzman and Mrs. Donna Furtado to serve on the fair board, replacing the Richfield and North Shoshone retiring members, Mrs. R. B. Kelley and Mrs. Lyle Deeds.

Since they received no bids for construction of a building for the weed control department, commissioners will investigate hiring the work done.

TWIN FALLS — The dean of the University of Idaho College of Agriculture pledged continued support for agriculture in the Magic Valley Wednesday night.

Dr. A. M. Mullins made his comments at a meeting of legislators and local farmers and ranchers called to discuss his recently announced decision to eliminate 10 staff positions in the cooperative extension service and agricultural research program across the state. Four of those 10 positions were in the Magic Valley.

But Mullins told the group the decision to eliminate positions had been made after a year-long study of the importance of programs around the state. "How you can come up with the conclusion that we are deserting agriculture in the state of Idaho is beyond my comprehension," he told the group.

Mullins, in announcing the cutbacks several weeks ago, said they were due in large measure to inadequate funding from the state legislature.

But a number of lawmakers present at the meeting said that funding for the programs became more and more difficult with each legislature.

The co-chairmen of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee, Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, and Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, also said the legislature had intended to support the programs at a "continuation level" for the coming fiscal year.

High told the group the legislature's intention was to "put added emphasis on both programs."

Mullins and the lawmakers have been involved in a dispute over whether the "continuation budget" was in fact sufficient to enable the programs to continue as they have been.

Mullins has said repeatedly in recent weeks inflation and a culmination of years of insufficient funding created an atmosphere leading to the cutbacks in positions.

But High and Roberts, as well as other lawmakers locally, have insisted there is enough money in the programs to enable them to continue.

Rep. Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, appeared at the meeting to depart from what had been High and Roberts' position, when he told the group "I'm on his (Mullins) side." The lawmaker told the crowd his "hangup" was money, and he favored a "more efficient and more streamlined program."

Easter Seal Camp children sought

TWIN FALLS — Children who are eligible to attend the annual Easter Seal Summer Camp are now being recruited.

The camp will be July 16 through 27 for children of ages 9 through 12, and July 30 through Aug. 10 for children 13 through 17.

Those eligible to attend include any child who is blind, deaf, a post polio or cerebral palsied child. Children with muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis or the victim of an accident may also participate in the camp program.

Parents of such children who would like them to experience days of recreational activity at Coeur d'Alene Lake, should contact the Easter Seal Center at 733-5745 or the Boise Easter Seal office, 1690 Federal Way, Boise, 83705.

Merle Stoddard, director of the Easter Seal Center in Twin Falls, said children will be taken on a first come, first served basis and as many children as can be accepted with money and space available will be included. Service clubs and community organizations are being asked to help finance the camping programs for the handicapped children. This week the United Methodist Women of Filer sent a $50 donation to provide camping for one child.

Those giving donations for a specific child should submit the name and ask the child's parents to contact the center, Mrs. Stoddard said.

High school students who would like to accompany a handicapped child to the camp should contact the center as soon as possible.

Jerome hires firm

JEROME — A Boise engineering firm has been hired to make a comprehensive study of the Jerome sewer system and plant facilities.

Tuesday night the Jerome City Council approved the hiring of the firm of Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield. The contract stipulates a payment sum of $23,000 for the study which will begin immediately and is expected to be completed this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Trujillo and Mr. and Mrs. John Wilder told the council that they are presently circulating a petition in an attempt to call for the re-evaluation of the city dog license ordinance. Mrs. Wilder, who lives in the Carey subdivision, questioned the right of the dog catcher to pick up an unlicensed dog on private property.

Councilman S. N. Weeks told Mrs. Wilder that the dog catcher was only upholding the law.

An original design for the 60 lot N. A. N. subdivision on North Lincoln was presented to the council by Joe Haynes of JUB Engineering, Twin Falls. Haynes said that phase 2 of the project was ready to begin and that, construction of an additional 20 units will start immediately.

The council approved a request by councilman Weeks to raise the rates at the Jerome Swimming Pool.

Bliss votes Monday

BLISS — Bliss school patrons will vote Monday on five trustee posts and be asked to approve a 12.75 mill override levy.

All trustee positions need to be filled because of the redistricting approved last fall, according to Supt. Burton Lenker. There is competition only in zone 2.

Incumbent Sam Bishop is unopposed for a one-year term in zone 1. In zone 2, incumbent Glen Matthews is opposed by Kenneth Campbell for a two-year term.

In zone 3 Sterling Bray is running unopposed for a one-year term, and in zone 4 Charlene Stroud is unopposed for a two-year term. The zone 5 incumbent, Charles Wilkins, also is unopposed in seeking another three-year term.

School officials said the override levy, which is the same as last year, makes a total of 30.75 mills in the district's maintenance and operation levy.

The state legislature last year decreased from 30 to 27 the number of mills districts may levy without special voter approval.

Park site in Jerome given nod

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — The location of a small amusement park on the north side of the Perrine Memorial Bridge was tentatively approved by the Jerome County Planning and Zoning Commission.

The commission met Thursday night to review information presented to them in an earlier meeting for and against the relocation of the go cart facility which was formerly on the south side of the bridge in Twin Falls County.

It was decided at the meeting that the zoning commission will recommend to the Jerome County Commissioners that they approve a variance in the present classification of the land and permit the amusement park to operate until a comprehensive planning study can be made in the area.

The commission also set forth several stipulations over the operation of the park including: — Val Selder, owner, must use a self contained sewage system. In making the recommendation, Tom Maham, board member, said that while the health department has approved a permit for the area he felt the commission should set a precedent for future developers in the area.

— That the integrity of the land be maintained and that the commission be supplied with a comprehensive plan of the park and any change from the plan should have to be approved by the Zoning Commission.

— The amusement center will also be restricted to the 12.9 acres of land that are presently leased from the State Land Board.

— If, after the study is completed, it is found that the amusement park does not fit within the guidelines in the final study report, it will be closed.

It will now be up to the Jerome County commission to act on the recommendation made by the zoning commission. The amusement park, located on state owned land, has come under heavy fire the past week by several county agencies and interested citizens who have stated they felt the $100 per year lease payment was not enough.

It was brought out at Thursday's meeting by Selder that $100 is for what is left of this year and that after this year, for the next 10 years he must pay the state land board three per cent of his gross income. Selder projected that his payments would be approximately $1800 per year based on his volume of business while located in Twin Falls County.

The Jerome County Commissioners have requested an immediate investigation by the State Attorney General's office into procedures and practices in the state's policy to lease land for an amusement center in Jerome County. The commissioners have also instructed Jerome County prosecuting attorney, Gene Fredericksen to file an immediate protest with the State Land Board over apparent inequities involving leasing of state endowment lands.

Fredericksen said following the Thursday night meeting that he has filed the protest letter, noting that no contract had been made with county officials prior to the transfer of the park from its location south of the Snake River to the Jerome County site.

It was also noted that with the state ignoring Jerome County ordinances, a dangerous precedent for commercial land use in the area has been set.

Selder also said at the meeting that he only has a temporary lease agreement with the State Land board which states that if the land board can obtain a higher lease for the area in question, his lease will be terminated.

Former TF man fined, sentenced

TWIN FALLS — Robert L. Benefiel, former Twin Falls area livestock buyer, has been given a three-year suspended sentence and fined $2,000 for violations of the U.S. Packers and Stockyards Act.

This is one of several charges against the former Twin Falls resident now living in California. He was specifically charged with violating the record keeping requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The violations occurred while he was in business buying and selling livestock in southern Idaho, eastern Oregon and northern California. The sentence was pronounced in U.S. District Court in California after Benefiel pleaded guilty to the charge. Jurisdiction of the case was transferred to Central District Court of California where Benefiel now resides.

Rupert okays proposed LID

By ROBERT SCHLEEF
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Despite strong opposition the Rupert City Council has approved to follow through with a proposed Local Improvement District.

The LID has been turned over to city attorney William Goodman, who will proceed with the necessary arrangements. Councilmen voted 4 to 1 for the project at this week's meeting. The single negative vote was cast by Councilman W. F. (Bill) Whitton.

The LID is concerned with the widening and improving of 8th Street from G to H Street, and improving the west side of G Street between 8th and 9th Street. The council will contact concerned individuals soon.

The decision followed discussion of a petition presented by Mrs. Clifford McWilliams. The petition dealt with the widening of 8th Street and the removal of trees around the courthouse. The petition contained the names of about 25 people who live on 8th street and protest its widening between the courthouse and west to the canal.

Mrs. McWilliams' petition contained the names of all but one of the people who live on the street.

Mayor Wendell Johnson pointed out that the city had to keep up with the 17 per cent growth in Minidoka County, and Councilman William Strasser indicated safety is the main issue. A hearing date for the LID will be set soon.

Ordinance 542 for off street parking received a second reading and no changes were proposed. There will be a third and final reading of the ordinance at the next council meeting.

Chief Mills was granted a one year leave of absence from the Rupert police force. Randy Spar was hired as a patrolman and Paul Fries was promoted to the combined position of captain and assistant chief.

Fries will receive a pay raise to $700 a month for the added responsibility, according to Chief Ed Culver.

Jerome bid okay asked

JEROME — The Idaho Fish and Game Commission will recommend that the second low bid for construction of its regional office in Jerome be accepted.

Robert Salter, assistant Fish and Game director, said Thursday the commission will recommend the Commissioner of Public Works that the construction contract by awarded to Ullman Construction Co., Twin Falls, who bid $115,605.

The low bid of $117,741 submitted by Wills Construction, Twin Falls, was rejected because a non licensed sub-contractor was listed in specifications submitted.

The commission had originally approved $96,000 for construction of the 4,000 square foot building to be built east of Jerome. Additional funds were approved by the commission since bids exceeded the original amount.

Salter said construction is expected to begin soon after the contract is awarded and the building should be completed by late fall.

The city of Jerome has extended city sewer lines to the old city limits. The Fish and Game Department will extend the sewer line from its present termination point to the building site. Funds for the sewer extension were also approved, Salter said.

The new office is of a tri-level design and plans call for a brick and glass exterior. The office building will accommodate 14 persons.

The rear of the area will be enclosed with security fencing for storage of equipment. Parking areas in the front and rear of the building will be blacktopped.

A Caldwell construction firm has been awarded a contract to build a covered storage shed at the rear of the property.

Salter said the present office building at the Fish and Game Bird Farm, southeast of Jerome, will be used either for storage or for additional research personnel who may be brought into the area.

The decision of the Fish and Game Department to begin construction culminates a seven year effort on the part of various local groups to retain the regional headquarters in Jerome County. The Fish and Game Department has said on two separate occasions the office would be moved.

Hailey youth faces charges

HAILEY — Petitions charging burglary and vandalism have been filed on a 15-year old Hailey youth in connection with about $5,000 in vandalism at the Wood River High School.

According to Hailey Police Chief Doug Williams, the youth has been placed in custody of the Blaine County Sheriff until his parents return from out of state.

Williams said the vandalism was reported to his office about 5 a.m. Thursday morning by Principal John Barton. Apparently the incident occurred sometime late Wednesday night, Williams said.

A toilet had been stopped up on the second floor of the building and pipes had been removed, Williams said.

Water drained through the ceiling, causing about $5,000 damage to the ceiling and carpets.

The police chief said a petition charging larceny had also been filed on the youth in Blaine County Magistrate Court. He said that charge had stemmed from the theft of about $15 in Plexiglass from the high school shop Tuesday.

Bad day!

FAIRFIELD — When Sheriff Paul Cox took the job he knew there would be good days and bad days.

He chalked up one of the bad days this week when two shaggy and belligerent characters strolled into town and engaged in a fight. The two outsiders were a couple of bears just out of hibernation and two of the dogs that attempted to defend their town were killed.

Sheriff Cox, who came to the defense of the community, pursued the pair back toward their natural habitat in the mountains which rise from the north edge of town. He reported the culprits got away but hopefully they will not return.

Sugar firm gets Gem notice

TWIN FALLS — The Amalgamated Sugar Co. has until January, 1975, to conform with state air pollution regulations, in Twin Falls according to a pollution compliance schedule drawn up by the Idaho Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS).

The schedule, mailed to the company late last week, also calls for eliminating discharge of pollutants into Rock Creek over a two year period, culminating with "zero discharge of pollutants" by July, 1975.

Similar requirements are laid out for the company's Paul plant in the state's material mailed to the firm, and the firm's Nampa operation is expected to come into compliance with the air pollution schedules.

According to DECS, the company's Twin Falls plant is currently operating two boilers in violation of a state pollution regulation dealing with emission standards, as well as one heat pump dryer in violation of a second regulation when it is operated in a certain way.

The compliance schedule drawn up calls for the firm to install equipment over a period of the next two and a half years to bring its operation into conformity with the regulations.

It also limits, with gradually increasing restrictions, pollution into Rock Creek in Twin Falls from the plant's operation. To make sure the water regulations are being met, the state agency is also requiring the company to monitor the discharge into the creek on a regular basis.

A similar program is outlined for the company's Paul operation, although it won't be until January, 1977, when the air emission regulations must be complied with.

The state said in its material the company is operating two boilers in violation of regulations at the Paul plant, as well as two pulp dryers that violate another regulation.

The Paul plant must also stop discharging pollution into water sources by July, 1975, the schedule says.

A public hearing will be held in Boise June 14 to allow the public to react to the proposed pollution schedules.

Cassia vote slated Monday

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Three men, two of them incumbents, will be on the ballot for two trustee positions in Cassia County Monday. Gwendol D. Cole and Alvin M. (Pat) Kelly are vying for the Zone 3 position and Dan L. Crane is running unopposed for trustee of Zone 4. Both zones are in the Burley area.

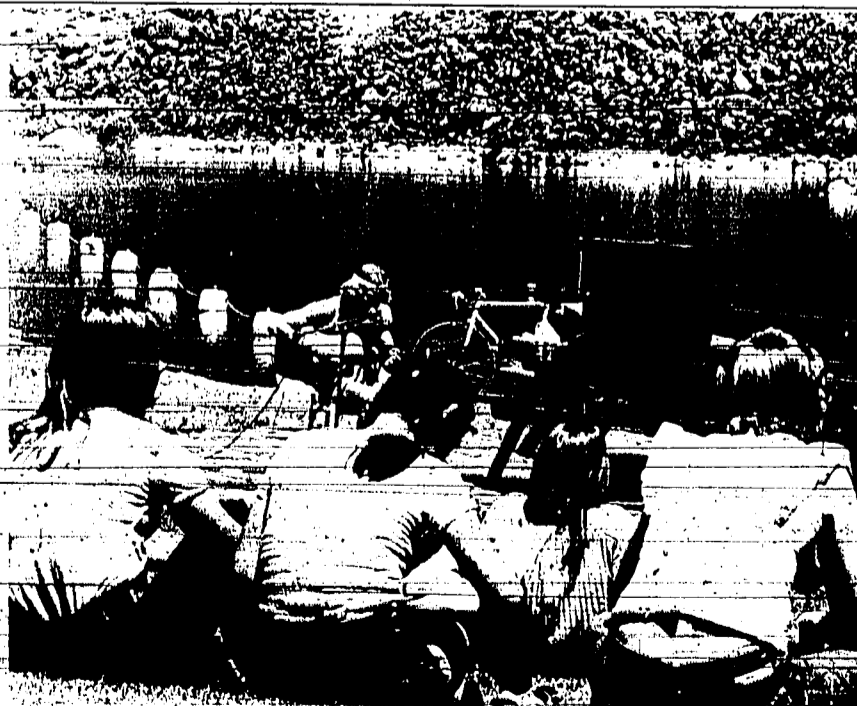

Cole, 45, was born in Declo and has lived in the area nearly all his life. Currently a school bus driver for the district, Cole previously worked as a janitor at Burley Junior High School and worked for 23 years at the Burley Flour Mills.

Kelly, 55, has been on the board since last May. Both he and Crane are up for re-election after one year instead of the normal three year term following implementation of a reorganization plan last year.

Currently manager of Western Bearings Inc., Burley, has lived in the area for over 40 years. He has five children, the youngest currently attending Burley Junior High School.

Crane, 43, has also served a one year term on the board. The greatest accomplishment of that year, he said, was "getting a bond passed after 13 tries."

Currently farming southeast of Burley, Crane previously worked in the county assessor's office as an appraiser for six years. He has six children, five of whom attend schools in Burley and one who graduated.

Happy seniors

TWIN FALLS High School seniors had a final fling Thursday during an afternoon party and program at Twin Falls Park. The event replaced the senior assembly previously held at the school. A dance was held at the Armory Thursday night for the seniors who will be graduated Monday.

Sikes fires 5-under 67 for early Memphis lead

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Slope-shouldered Dan Sikes, playing less and banking more, carved a 5-under-par 67 with razor sharp long irons Thursday for a one-stroke first round lead in the $175,000 Memphis Classic golf tournament.

Trevino, looking for his third victory in a row here and needing a second-place finish to dollar winner, started the morning with milk and honey, three poached eggs and two slabs of ham. But then he scrambled home at 71 with Gene Littler and several others.

73, six strokes off Sikes' pace. Sikes, 42, won $42,000 on the pro tour last year. But he has already picked up $40,573 in 10 tournaments this year and lost a playoff to Lanny Wadkins in the Byron Nelson Classic three weeks ago.

pleasant, warm day out there." Sikes started out with birdies on the first two holes. On the second, he hit a four-iron to within one inch of the pin. He had only one bogey, a three-putt green at number five, and finished the day with a two-foot birdie putt at 18.

Gotham Stakes at Aqueduct earlier this year. Lurain was confident Secretariat could get the job done no matter what race strategy jockey Ron Turcotte employed.

"I don't see how they can beat him," Lurain said of Secretariat, the prohibitive favorite at 2 to 5. Then he added reflectively: "But they beat him in The Wood, A-horse race is a horse race. There are five others in there and I am afraid of all of them."

"I was confident last year too," he recalled. "I didn't think I ever might get beaten but he did."

Sham, a hard-hitting colt who was a strong second in the Derby, was the horse expected to give Secretariat the most trouble. Trainer Frank (Pancho) Martin was not ready to concede anything to Secretariat and convinced that over the Triple Crown Classics Sham will emerge with the better record.

"From the three-eighths pole to the wire Sham is the strongest horse in the country," Martin insisted even though it was in the last three furlongs in Kentucky that Secretariat first closed from far back to be within striking distance of the leading Sham and then out-gamed him to the wire in the greatest stretch run in the history of the race.

When Twice A Prince reared at the start of the Derby, Sham became excited and banged his head against the starting gate, knocking out two teeth, Martin quickly pointed out.

"Secretariat was in the gate at the time and they should have taken all the horses out to walk them around a few minutes and calm them down," he insisted.

Sham again will be ridden by Laffit Pincay and was listed at 2 to 1. Although there were only six starters there will be win, place and show betting in the Preakness.

Our Native, third in the Kentucky Derby, was third choice at 8 to 1 with Don Brumfield riding. Deadly Dream, with Tony Black up, was 20 to 1 as was Ecole Etage with George Cusumano riding.

Torston, with Ben Feliciano in the saddle was the outsider at 30 to 1.

The Lark Twist was entered but scratched. Ecole Etage, winner of the Preakness Prep last Saturday, was a more logical selection as early pacemaker than Secretariat.

"They'll have to catch him," said trainer Buddy Delp, making no bones about his plans to send Ecole Etage to the front at the start.

That was the way Bee Bee Ho engineered his upset victory over the likes of Riva Ridge, Key to the Mint and No Le Hance last year.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MAY 19, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Not a day to put your new plans into action. Instead, carefully study those already in operation and iron out any kinks that show up. It's not the time for taking risks of any kind. For the present hold to the tried and true.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take care you don't make unwise moves or make changes because you are feeling nervous. Keep steadfast to plans made. A new associate has some ideas but they aren't good. Discard them.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have annoying matters to handle, so do them speedily and well. Mate is upset so be thoughtful and helpful. Try not to lose your temper with anyone. Strive for more harmony at home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Matters could be tense with an associate who talks too blantly without realizing it, so keep your cool. Engage in work without expecting adulation. Benefits will come later.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Attend to own work early in the day and don't expect a fellow worker to do some of it for you. Look carefully at all clothing you buy today for possible flaws. Relax tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't take any chances today, particularly in business dealings. Handle routine work in a most efficient way. Show more loyalty to mate. Be more encouraging instead of grumbling.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Instead of acting in an emotional way at home, use a tactful approach and get far better results. Not a good day for making changes of any kind. Spend more time with good friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Particular care should be exercised in travel. Making sly remarks to others could lead to trouble. Don't lose your temper with anyone and you win out. Show others you have compassion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't handle any important financial affairs today when the planets are not favorable, but stick to small personal matters. Take care of those repairs to property you've put off.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be careful in handling affairs of importance since you are not thinking too wisely now, since you are discontented. It is wise to improve your appearance. Avoid one who criticizes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) It is better to attend to duties today instead of running off on some tangent or you will regret it later on. A hunch you have is not good, so don't use it. Keep your cool.

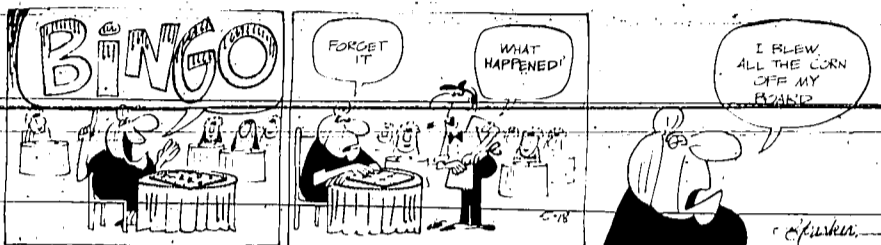

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to make new friends while enjoying old ones, but this is not a good day for such. Concentrate on your most cherished goals instead. You can accomplish a great deal today.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle a civic affair which you have been procrastinating on for some time. Show that you are conscientious. Avoid a bigwig who is not in a good mood right now. Take health treatments.

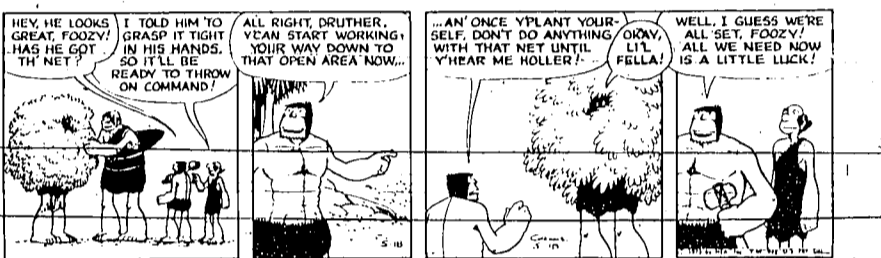

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who has good ideas but will be so outspoken that others could resent it. Teach to keep plans to self and not to give unsolicited advice, and then this becomes a successful life. Some profession that takes your progeny to different countries is best here. Add various languages to the educational curricula.

HANDWRITING

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened lower in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange Friday.

Minutes after the opening bell, the Dow Jones industrial average was off more than a point and declines were running ahead of gains, two-to-one.

Investors, nervous over the Watergate scandal and uncertainty over the economic outlook, have remained on the sidelines recently, leaving the market to drift aimlessly low in some of the slowest trading in months.

Thursday, the market generally ignored both favorable news—sourcing corporate profits and a reduced federal budget deficit—and the unfavorable report that inflation in the first quarter was the highest since 1961.

A report published Friday that some analysts detect signs of a recession ahead could heighten investor caution and upward pressure on interest rates following Federal Reserve credit tightening is expected to weigh on the market. However, observers generally expect little change in the market climate as the Watergate story unfolds in Senate hearings, barring news of major proportions.

Quarter profits balloon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Inflation and business profits both ballooned in the first three months of 1973, the Commerce Department reported Thursday.

Prices rose at the fastest rate in more than 20 years, the department said, driving the overall economic growth rate even closer to the boiling point.

In the same three-month period, before-tax profits of U.S. corporations jumped $11.6 billion, or 11 per cent, over October-December, 1972. It was the best quarterly profit performance for U.S. firms in two years.

Last month, the department released Gross-National-Product (GNP) figures which showed the economy growing and prices rising—faster than in any quarter since 1951. But even those figures proved too low.

NO. 1 CAUSE

DALLAS (UPI)—Diabetes has replaced glaucoma as the No. 1 cause of blindness in the United States, a University of Texas Southwestern Medical School professor says.

"Blindness from diabetes is definitely on the increase simply because medicine is now able to keep the diabetic normal and functioning quite normally," said Dr. John R. Lynn, a professor of ophthalmology.

"Years ago before it was learned how to control the disease these people would have died at an earlier age."

Troop inspection

COL. Samuel K. Magaw, regimental commander, 118th Armored Cavalry, Twin Falls, left, discusses communications and troop locations with Sgt. Richard Perry while in Boise this week inspecting Troop N, 118th Armored Cavalry, during annual training. The remainder of the 118th unit will begin annual training in Boise May 26.

Jerome plans Senior Day

JEROME — Jerome seniors will have a "Senior Day" at Lava Hot Springs, Supt. John Campbell announced today. Class members wrote a letter to the board of trustees asking approval for the jaunt, saying they would be accompanied by chaperones. Trustees, in a meeting this week, approved the plans. A motion by trustee William Kersey requesting that the school attorney be present at each school board meeting died for lack of a second. Kersey pointed out that the school attorney should be present at each meeting in order to give appropriate legal advice on matters coming before the board.

He said the attorney's advice would be of great value to the incoming school board which is totally unfamiliar with school polices. Trustees Jim Keith and Weigle agreed that they could not second the motion because they did not know what the exact cost to the district would be and that it was up to the new board to negotiate the terms if the members wanted. The attorney present.

Following a lengthy discussion, the trustees agreed that the direct line of authority when the superintendent is absent should be spelled out in the policy manual. It was mentioned that when the superintendent is gone from the district no one knows who is in charge. It was decided that the high school principal would take charge in the absence of the superintendent. Next in line would be the junior high principal, followed by the senior elementary principal.

A five year bus contract with the Northside Bus Co., was approved subject to approval of the school attorney. The new contract calls for a 16 per cent increase over the last five year contract and provides for negotiation at the end of each school fiscal year. The 16 per cent increase reflects approximately a $10,000 increase.

Resignations were accepted from Norm Redd, industrial arts teacher and Jo Barrett, elementary physical education teacher.

William Claiborne, Kimberly, agricultural interests; Dean Fenstermaker, Twin Falls, mobile home interests, and Marilyn Butler, Buhl, public recreation.

The public is invited to take part in the question and answer period which will follow the panel presentations.

Public zone meet set

TWIN FALLS — The League of Women Voters will sponsor a public meeting Tuesday afternoon concerned with Twin Falls County zoning.

The meeting will be held in the Idaho Power Auditorium, 133 Third St. N. at 7:45 p.m. and will be broadcast live by KTFI radio station at 8 p.m. According to League president Ella Nelson, the meeting will have two purposes — to inform the public and to give county zoners an opportunity to hear interested individuals and groups within the county.

Ed Woods, county zoning administrator, will discuss zoning development in the county, the need for various types of zoning and the comprehensive zoning plan for the county formulated by Dr. P. R. Fasolino, architecture professor at Idaho State University. County zoning is currently geared to a plan drawn up by Fasolino in 1967.

Panelists who will participate in the meeting and the areas of interest they will represent include: Fred Wanzneried, Twin Falls, business; Max Mueller, Twin Falls, planning and development; Lewis Porter, Kimberly, East End business and community interests;
