School rule in limbo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, leaving in legal limbo the question of expanding school desegregation across political boundaries, refused on a tie vote today to reinstate an order for merger of predominantly black city schools and mostly white suburban schools in the Richmond, Va., area.

The absence of Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., a former member of both the Richmond School Board and the Virginia Board of Education, produced a 4-4 tie. This left standing a decision by the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals, which overturned the controversial merger order.

U.S. District Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr. ordered in January, 1972, that the Richmond city schools be combined with those in neighboring Henrico and Chesterfield counties. Busing was not central to the case, although about 10,000 more students would have had to ride buses under the order.

The issue in the Richmond case — and in others under litigation — is whether schools can be consolidated across political boundaries to achieve racial balance. The other cases, only one of which has reached the federal appeals court stage, all have their individual differences, but one or more of them could provide a more decisive ruling on the question.

An attorney for the NAACP's Legal Defense Fund, which initiated the Richmond case on behalf of black parents and students, said of today's Court deadlock: "It is difficult to know what it means."

In other major actions, the Court:

— Agreed to examine a Massachusetts law making it an offense to mutilate or otherwise treat "contemptuously" the American flag. The case involves a young man who sewed a small flag to the seat of his pants.

— Ruled for the third time, this one in a Kentucky case, that the "one-man, one-vote" rule does not apply to the election of state judges.

— Let stand a decision that bachelors are entitled to the same income tax deduction for support of their mothers as married sons and daughters.

Mitchell, Stans claim innocence

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former cabinet members John N. Mitchell and Maurice Stans pleaded innocent today to charges of perjury and conspiracy in connection with a $200,000 gift to President Nixon's re-election campaign from a financier who was under federal investigation.

The financier and codefendant, Robert L. Vesco, 36, did not appear to enter a plea and a warrant was issued for his arrest. Vesco has left the country and last was reported in Costa Rica.

A fourth defendant, prominent New Jersey Republican Harry L. Sears, also pleaded innocent.

A federal grand jury recently indicted all four defendants on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice and conspiracy to influence a Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) investigation of Vesco's financial interests.

In addition, Mitchell and Stans were charged with perjury — accused of lying six times each in their appearances before the grand jury.

The grand jury was investigating a secret $200,000 cash contribution made on April 10, 1972 — three days after the new federal campaign contributions disclosure law went into effect — to the Nixon re-election committee. The $200,000 was returned to Vesco after Sears disclosed it Jan. 31.

Burley trustee vote today

BURLEY — Polls are open until 9 p.m. today for election of two new trustees in School District 151.

Zone 4 patrons may vote at Springdale School or Unity Light and Power Co. and Zone 3 patrons may vote at the Burley Junior High School.

Atom test hearings open

THE HAGUE (UPI) — The International Court of Justice today began public hearings in the nuclear test cases of Australia and New Zealand against France.

At the court's request, Australia explained why it believed the court should ban further French atmospheric nuclear testing in the Pacific Ocean.

Draft office raiders cleared

CAMDEN, N. J. (UPI) — In a verdict the prosecutor said was a judgment on the Vietnam War itself, a federal court jury Sunday cleared 17 antiwar activists of all charges in connection with an FBI-infiltrated raid on the Camden draft offices two years ago.

Assistant U.S. Attorney John Barry said he would recommend to the Justice Department that charges be dismissed against 10 of the original "Camden 28" who were severed from the trial.

Gold prices sour again

LONDON (UPI) — The price of gold hit new record highs on European money markets today and the U.S. dollar slumped badly. Some dealers attributed the new gold slump to rumors that President Nixon might resign because of the Watergate scandal.

Gold reached a new high of $12.50 an ounce in early trading in London today in another stampede for the metal. The new peak was reached in the first of twice-daily price fixings in the city's gold market.

Viet skirmishing continues

SAIGON (UPI) — A hand grenade attack blamed on Communist terrorists killed two civilians and wounded 22 others Sunday at a hamlet 110 miles north of Saigon, the South Vietnamese command said today.

CIA help sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Deputy CIA Director Vernon Walters has told Senators he was advised by H. R. Haldeman last summer "it is the President's wish" that the CIA try to influence an FBI investigation of the source of some Republican campaign funds, it was disclosed today.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., read a portion of a memorandum by Walters, said to have been written after a White House meeting concerning the Watergate burglary during a Senate hearing at which former CIA Director Richard Helms testified publicly.

"It is the President's wish that you go see Mr. Gray," the memo by Walters quoted Haldeman, referring to L. Patrick Gray, then acting FBI director. The memo described a meeting which he and Helms attended at the White House with Haldeman and another top presidential aide, John D. Ehrlichman, on June 23, 1972 — six days after the Watergate break-in.

Helms, in his testimony, said he did not recall Haldeman invoking the President's name.

The FBI investigation was said to have concerned funds for the Nixon re-election campaign which allegedly were taken to Mexico City so the sources could not be traced.

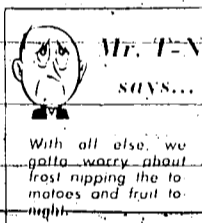

Helms said he reviewed Walters memorandum after it was written a few days after the White House meeting, but did not check it for accuracy.

Symington said the memo — which he said would be made public at a later date — made it difficult for him to believe that President Nixon did not know aides were trying to enlist the CIA's help in blocking an FBI investigation.

Helms said the meeting at the White House began at about 1 p.m. in Ehrlichman's office.

"Mr. Haldeman introduced the conversation by saying — and I don't recall the exact words — that the Watergate was being capitalized on by the opposition and it was creating problems which were not identified."

Helms said Haldeman told him and Walters that "it had been decided" that Walters should go to Gray and ask him to hold off on the FBI's investigation.

EPA bars sugar plant discharge

TWIN FALLS — The Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has proposed standards requiring "Magic Valley's two sugar factories to eliminate all pollution."

The Amalgamated Sugar Co. plant at Twin Falls would have to reach "zero discharge" by July 1, 1975, while the Amalgamated factory near Rupert would have a year longer, until mid-1976.

According to an EPA statement, the two factories and a Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. plant at Idaho Falls will be the first industries in a four-state area encompassing Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Alaska to face such pollution standards.

The standards for "zero discharge" would be part of a requirement for a pollution control permit to be issued to each plant.

A public meeting to discuss the proposal will be held June 25 at 7 p.m. at the College of Southern Idaho.

The Amalgamated plant in Twin Falls currently discharges its wastes into Rock Creek about two and one-half miles upstream from the city limits.

The discharge consists of about 14,700 pounds per day of "biological oxygen demand" (BOD) and 5,078 pounds per day of suspended solids, the EPA said.

The Amalgamated operation near Rupert discharges its wastes into a main drain about one mile east of Paul. The drain empties into the Snake River at the upper end of Miner Reservoir.

The plant discharges about 65,000 pounds of BOD per day and 116,800 pounds of suspended solids per day.

The State Department of Environmental and Community Services recently announced state pollution standards for the Twin Falls and Rupert Amalgamated plants that match the proposed federal permits in "zero discharge" deadlines.

The state department has indicated that it will apply for authority to administer the federal permits.

Buhl votes

BUHL — Buhl school patrons vote today to decide whether or not Buhl schools will have a kindergarten program next year.

Supt. Dan Mabe said the one mill being asked for to finance the program will place the total maintenance and operation levy at 28 mills, one mill more than the board of trustees is authorized by law to levy.

Polls for the election are open until 7 p.m. in the foyer of the Buhl High School, and at the Thousand Springs Trout farm office for voters in the district who reside in Gooding County.

Mabe said that even if the one mill special levy is passed, there will be an eight mill reduction in district taxes next year.

Liddy took April 'hush money'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — G. Gordon Liddy, convicted Watergate conspirator, was receiving money as recently as five weeks ago to keep quiet about what he knows of the plot, Scripps-Howard Newspapers said today.

"Sources close to the Watergate inquiry said Frederick C. Earle of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President has told federal investigators that 'hush' money was being delivered to defendants in early April in a last-ditch effort to protect the White House," the Scripps-Howard article said.

"It said Liddy, who has refused to testify before the Watergate grand jury in spite of a grant of immunity from further prosecution, was "the principal recipient of the money" but said possibly other original Watergate defendants also received payments.

Other Watergate-related developments:

— Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, 1964 Republican presidential nominee, said in an interview with the Chicago Tribune that he was convinced Nixon "was not involved in the inception of this whole matter" and that he will believe "he didn't attempt any cover-up until it is proved that he was involved."

— A new Louis Harris public opinion poll showed that by a margin of 50 to 34 per cent, those questioned thought Nixon knew before this spring of efforts to cover up alleged White House involvement.

— The newly named federal prosecutor of Watergate, Archibald Cox, told the Senate Judiciary Committee that he had been given "all the power needed to be independent" in his job. He said the only authority retained by the man who chose him, Attorney General-designate Elliot L. Richardson, "is the authority to give me hell if I don't do the job."

Silence pay suggested

The Senate committee has voted to give limited immunity to Dean for testimony before the panel, but this may not be until mid-June at the earliest. When the committee resumes hearings Tuesday, McCord returns to the witness table and Caulfield is scheduled to be called after him.

The Senate's public hearings have caused some strain between that special committee, headed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., and federal investigators pursuing their own inquiry. Cox said he would meet today with leaders of the Senate inquiry to try to smooth relations.

Richardson introduced Cox to the Judiciary Committee today with the assurance that the former solicitor general would have "full independence" in the case.

Democratic Cox said in an interview with UPI that he did not know for sure if he would even keep his ostensible boss, Richardson — assuming Richardson is confirmed as attorney general — abreast of his investigation. "I intend it will be up to me," he said.

The chief counsel to the Senate committee, Samuel Dash, said today the Justice Department had given no reason why it had refused to waive a waiting period of up to 30 days for a court order to require Senate testimony by Dean and Jeb S. Magruder, former deputy director of the Nixon re-election organization.

"At most, they are just delaying the appearance of a witness," Dash said, because he said the department and a judge are required to issue an immunity grant when duly asked by a congressional committee.

"It is true that if testimony comes out first at public hearings from our committee, it certainly would tend to prejudice the defendant," Dah said, "if a trial were to be held immediately."

Dash added during an interview on the NBC-TV Today Show that this "wouldn't prevent a prosecution, it wouldn't prevent an indictment although it may mean a continuance and delay of that trial until the taint of the prejudice would dissipate."

Asked during an appearance on ABC's "Issues and Answers" why he thought the Justice Department has not granted the waivers, Ervin replied:

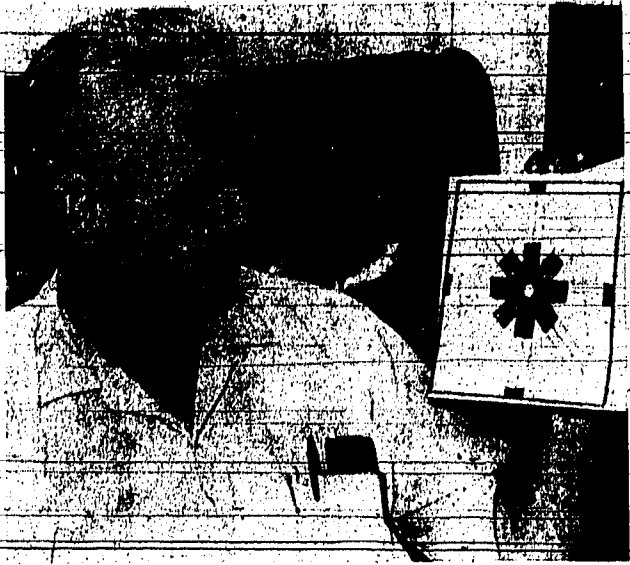

"Because they want to postpone the appearance of Dean before the committee." He added, "I would not want to guess or speculate as to their motives."

Committee counsel Samuel Dash said the refusal so far to grant the waivers means that Magruder cannot be questioned by the committee until June 17, and Dean cannot be questioned until about a week after that, apparently the week of June 24.

McCord testified Friday that he received an offer—which he was told came from "the highest levels of the White House"—that if he remained silent and went to jail he would be given money, early release through executive clemency, rehabilitation and a job. He said the message was given to him by John Caulfield, 44, a former New York City policeman who worked for the White House and more recently for the Treasury Department.

Senate sources have since disclosed that Caulfield told committee investigators the offer came from Dean. Caulfield is to testify after McCord when hearings resume Tuesday.

The 30 days of waiting period to which Sen. Ervin referred work this way. Under the law, when a committee decides that it wants immunity for a witness, it first gives the attorney general 10 days notice that it is making such application. Then U.S. District Court is notified, and the court has 20 days in which to act on the request unless the attorney general waives this period. At the end of the combined 30 days the court is required to grant the request, without option.

Runs forever

JOHN O. WEBB, 57 year old job worker from Ripley, Okla., says he has invented the long sought perpetual motion machine and will sell it to anyone who puts $5 million in escrow to be paid after he proves it works. Webb has been working on the idea for 15 years and has been working on the controls for the last three. He shows a sketch looking into the end of his machine.

Perpetual motion to solve energy crisis

RIPLEY, Okla. (UPI) — John O. Webb believes he can solve the nation's energy crisis with his perpetual motion machine, a three-inch model of which he ran on his living room table for three hours without any sign of power loss.

"Unless the moving parts wear out, it would run forever," Webb said. The theory behind a perpetual motion machine is that it provides a power source without having to be fed any energy source like gasoline or steam. In other words, it just keeps rolling along—a theory considered impossible.

Frank Renfrow, president of Management Marketing Research Inc., believes so strongly in Webb's wonder that his company is making a $100,000 down payment on it.

"My initial impression is that we have again come into the Buck Rogers area which we have looked at and laughed at in the past," Renfrow said Sunday. "Such things as what we call antivibratory devices, or rocket belts, and laser beams are now already in being and that is simply another addition that has come about."

Webb, 57, who has a background in automobile and airplane mechanics, said he has been working on a perpetual motion machine for 15 years.

Watergate prosecutor given independence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Archibald Cox testified today that Attorney General-designate Elliot L. Richardson had given him "all the power needed to be independent" in his job as special Watergate prosecutor.

"The only authority he has retained is the authority to give me hell if I don't do the job," Cox told the Senate Judiciary Committee, "and I think he ought to keep that authority."

Richardson introduced the 61-year-old Democrat, No. 3 man in the Justice Department during the Kennedy administration and part of the Johnson administration, at the same time that he made public formally new guidelines expanding on the authority that the prosecutor will have in the Watergate case.

Bread industry asks price hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The baking industry says it is now losing money on bread. It wants the Cost of Living Council to permit industry-wide price hikes.

Richard W. Daspl, president of the American Bakers Association, today reported an industry survey showing that the average firm in January was losing about one-tenth of a cent per loaf because of rising costs.

The survey showed that the wholesale value of a one-pound loaf of bread during the month was 25.07 cents while costs added up to 25.16 cents. The survey covered commercial bakeries excluding those owned by supermarkets.

In 1972, prices averaged 24.73 cents and costs were 24.08 cents, leaving a pre-tax profit of nearly seven-tenths of a cent for the wholesale baker.

"We are dismayed but not surprised at these latest figures. We saw it coming last September when we asked the Cost of Living Council for relief," Daspl said.

Seminary meets

SHOSHONE — More than 30 persons attended the seminary faculty meeting for the Gooding and Blaine LDS Church stakes Thursday night at the Shoshone Church recreation hall.

A dinner was served at 7 p.m. followed by a talk by Ralph Olsen, Twin Falls.

Question

Are dependents of deceased serviceman entitled to medical and hospital care?

Answer

Dependents of a member of a uniformed service may upon request be given medical and dental care in any Army, Navy, or Marine Hospital or clinic if the deceased serviceman was on active service for a period of more than thirty days, and he died while on that duty, or the serviceman was entitled to retired or retainer pay. There is a minimum charge prescribed for these services.

An unmarried widow is also eligible for commissary store privileges at any armed service installation that has these facilities. She may have access to Base Exchange privileges including retail stores, service station, restaurant, laundry, etc. In addition military and naval recreational and entertainment areas operated by the government are open to her and to family.

Not so new

LONDON (UPI) — Local historians had a field day when a reorganization of local government units required new names for 296 new districts.

Some new names, which became official this spring, are descriptive—Three Rivers, for instance. But Restormel, the new name of a district in Cornwall, is the name of a 700-year-old castle and Wansdyke, now title for a district near Stratford, is the name of a road which crossed southwest England before the Romans came.

Visit in TF cited

TWIN FALLS — Each day through the current summer season, some tourist passing through Twin Falls will be stopped by city police and given an unusual "ticket."

The "ticket" will entitle the visiting out of stater and his wife and family to a free night's lodging in a Twin-Falls motel, a free dinner in a leading restaurant, movie passes, a new hair-do for the lady, passes to the golf course, two lunches at McDonald's, and if the family chooses, five pounds of fresh frozen Idaho trout. They will also be interviewed by Radio KTFI personnel.

The program began May 7 and continues through Labor Day, sponsored by the Twin Falls Hospitality Club, of which Richard Mafi is president.

Collins Helms, city police officer who has assisted with the program the past two years, said people usually think there is a "catch to it" when they are stopped and they keep up the attitude of suspicion until the full explanation is given. Then they change to surprise.

"Most of them say Twin Falls is the first town they have ever visited where they were given something for nothing," Helms said.

He and other city officers have even had a few out of state visitors decline the offer.

Tourist honored

TOURIST of the day Saturday in Twin Falls was Ronald McDonald who drove in for the grand opening of a new restaurant. He was stopped by Officer Collins Helms. Looking on are Bill Kyle, left, and Ewill Garrett, Hospitality Club officials.

Japanese visits to US up by 75.8% in 1973

The number of Japanese visitors to the United States increased by 75.8 per cent during the first two months of 1973 compared to January and February of last year.

The increase was reported in an analysis of tourism developed by the U.S. Department of Commerce from original data provided by the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Japan thus continues as the prime source of overseas visitors to the United States, a position it gained for the first time last year. Previously, the United Kingdom had been the nation's prime source of overseas tourism.

United States Travel Service (USTS) reports 90,204 Japanese visited the U.S. during January and February. The United Kingdom, which produced the second highest total, provided 12,261 arrivals during the same period, an increase of 53.7 per cent over January and February.

An agency of the U.S. Department of Commerce, USTS is the official government tourism office of the United States. Its mission is to increase tourism to the U.S. and help reduce the nation's current $3.1 billion travel deficit.

'Wet Bet' wins

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (UPI) — "Wet Bet," a lanky green amphibian from a successful "frog farm" in Concord, Calif., has hopped his way into the winners circle at the 45th Annual Calaveras County Jumping Frog Jubilee.

"Wet Bet" leaped 17 feet, 4-3/4 inches in three jumps Sunday to net the $300 first prize for his owners, Bill Proctor and Leonard Hall, who have brought nine winners to this historic gold rush community during the past 46 years.

Green ash tree recommended

TWIN FALLS — Residents of Twin Falls who are looking for a tree which will grow rapidly and provide maximum shade are advised to plant a male green ash.

Olan Genn, retired county agricultural extension agnt. said for this locality they are the best available tree. Others which are popular include the American elm and the large leaf maple.

These he said are somewhat less desirable as the male green ash is disease free while the maple often develops cholors and the elm is often attacked by the elm leaf beetle which is costly to control.

Genn said there is a new tree which will be introduced in the near future which grows rapidly and produces a nut which is similar to English walnuts. It will be about two years before the supply is ample to offer the public, he said, as the mother tree was discovered in Twin Falls after surviving 13 years of extremely cold winters.

Radical Nuts

WASHINGTON — Nuts of the radical-chie variety continue to abound among those charged with supervising the public school education of children in the Washington area. Their wildest attitudes are of more than local concern because if they get away with their dangerous flummery the concern almost surely will become national.

Washington, D.C., Director of the county's Office of Drug Control, proposed that first-time student drug offenders should be suspended, second offenders expelled and teachers fired who do not support established drug policies.

Animal Talk

If man has not succeeded in creating a heaven on earth for himself, certainly he has created a hell earth for many animals.

Our nation's airlines have been accused by Consumer Reports of misleading pet owners with promises that their luggage compartment environments are "as comfortable as the passenger cabin" when, in fact, the luggage compartment temperatures may range from below zero to 130 degrees Fahrenheit.

campaigning almost from this moment on, through the 1974 New York race, the 1975 preliminaries, and a good share of the 1976 primaries (which last year took place in 22 states and DC).

As other observers have properly noted, the governor here has a multiple burden, to prove he can be a winner in the field, to perform vigorously enough to reduce his age handicap (he'll be 68 in mid-1976) to help his party.

Though Rockefeller's assistants are saying his unprecedented quest for a fifth governorship term in 1974 could be tough, their hard-nosed thinking is he can ride out any possible impact of Watergate in New York — not to mention the Democrats' standard advantage in numbers of registered voters.

Unmistakably he has given them the clear signal on 1976 to help rub out the off-again, on-again impression left by his 1968 candidacy, and to allow plenty of time for the necessary heavy groundwork which that year was not performed.

It can be said, however, that time alone will not work for him. He needs what he has seldom had in his former runs — field strategists equipped with the quite rare and very precise talents required to search out, capture and hold the hundreds of delegates needed for nomination.

In 1968, he was so badly served in this regard that, far from taking strength from Richard Nixon's totals as he had to do, he actually posted unexpected delegates losses in areas where he should have overwhelmed his rival.

There is no way to minimize his concurrent necessity to conduct heavy personal as "a sanctuary for passing drugs" where "kids can order any drug they want."

No parent wants his child needlessly "hassled" (a dreadful word) or spied upon by school authorities.

Is it not true that these things weaken the body's resistance and make it more vulnerable to the germs? Even though germs may be the direct cause of infections, drafts do play a part and should be dealt with accordingly.

What are we doing? Playing a game of "let's split hairs?"

I'll grant that fatigue, perhaps severe chilling, or general run-down physical condition probably makes a person somewhat less resistant to infections.

Take flu for an example. When a wave of flu sweeps over the country, even the ruggedst of athletes get their share of it.

As to drafts, and even wet feet, I doubt that they have any measurable effect. I guess it's human nature to try to find some ready explanation for whatever happens. Hence the glib explanation of a cold: "I was in a draft yesterday."

Since any infection takes a certain amount of time to develop, the chances are that the infection was encountered sometime earlier.

You're entitled to do as you wish about drafts of course. I don't know how many times I've heard folks blame a draft for a cold, but do you know what? I can't think of a single instance of anybody saying, "I sat in a draft yesterday and I didn't catch a cold."

It's rare with a normal pregnancy, but can happen — one period can occur after fertilization of the ovum.

Any further showing of blood can mean a threatened abortion — some disease condition. It is possible, also, for more than one flow to occur after a tubal pregnancy has occurred. Briefly, it can happen. If it repeats, a checkup is on your program, at once.

COMMENT Gold Prices

IDAHO STATE JOURNAL

Economist Paul A. Samuelson, for one, believes that "a premature restoration of the right to hoard gold" would be unwise. In his view, the unleashing of thousands of American gold speculators would drive up the metal's price on the private market.

IT IS SAFE TO SAY that numerous Americans would jump at the chance to purchase a bar of gold, however small it might be. Doubters need only examine the traffic in gold coins, which for the most part ARE legal for Americans to own.

A nice thought, but there simply is not enough gold to go around. If there were, it would not be worth so much. But scarcity is not the sole reason for gold's allure.

Monetary reformers scoff at such talk. They agree with former Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr., who called gold a "barbarous metal."

PAR EXCELLENCE. Or as the English poet George Herbert wrote more than three centuries ago: "If gold knew what gold is Gold would get gold."

What gold has become, in effect, just another commodity since the Treasury stopped backing the dollar's international value with gold two years ago.

McCord testimony differs from early statements

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The testimony of bugging conspirator James W. McCord Jr. before the Senate Watergate committee last Friday differed from his earlier sworn statements in a number of respects, an analysis showed today.

For the most part, McCord's earlier sworn statements closely paralleled accounts provided to a federal grand jury and to lawyers in the multimillion dollar civil suit pending against him and other principals in the Watergate case in the past six weeks.

But in a few areas—such as his participation in the actual bugging of Democratic National Committee (DNC) headquarters last spring and alleged pressures to keep quiet, plead guilty and accept executive clemency later—there appeared to be discrepancies.

Here are the main points:

The Breakin

Chief among those was McCord's recollection of the break-in at Democratic headquarters June 17. McCord and four other men were arrested there about 2:30 a.m. by local police, who were called when a building guard found door latches taped so they wouldn't lock—not once, but twice, a few minutes apart.

The spy squad had successfully broken into DNC offices three weeks previously, planted two telephone taps and photographed documents, then left without being caught.

"Who placed the tape on the locks on the doors on the second occasion?" Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., asked Friday.

"I do not know," responded McCord.

"Who replaced it after it was first removed?" asked Baker.

"I do not know," McCord said.

But in his sworn civil deposition April 30, McCord testified: "Early that evening it had been decided that I would be elected to go into the DNC and tape the doors so that there could be ready access for them to get in, and the men with the locksmith wouldn't have to pick a series of doors to get in. I did that. It took perhaps 10 minutes."

"I went in the front door of the Watergate Hotel, I went upstairs, went down the stairwell and taped the exit doors. When I came back at around 1 o'clock in the morning, I checked the back door, basement door, and it was still taped. It was open."

After the squad assembled in the Watergate Hotel room of E. Howard Hunt Jr., one of the team leaders, McCord said, they slipped over to the Watergate office building next door, only to find the door locked.

"So in the span of about 10 minutes, someone, presumably the guard, had found the taped door. So we assembled downstairs and discussed what to do," McCord said in the deposition.

"I was to go back over to the hotel room and wait for word that they were actually in. That was done and I would say, perhaps, a half an hour later I got word that they were inside the building."

He said he got the word at the Howard Johnson's Motel room across the street, set up to monitor the telephone taps radioed by Hunt at the Watergate.

Last Friday, McCord testified "the sequence of events simply was" that he got a call from Hunt "stating the door was now open, the basement door, that I should now go in and I did so."

Clemency

McCord testified Friday that former White House staffer John J. Caulfield, a personal friend, carried to him an offer of executive clemency from "the highest levels of the White House."

His previous testimony to the grand jury and in the civil deposition, that has been made public made no mention of Caulfield—though he did detail getting heavy pressures from Hunt and from Hunt's wife, Dorothy, later killed in a Chicago plane crash, along the same lines.

Asked April 30 during his deposition if there had been pressures from others than the Hunts, McCord replied he would like to have "time on it" to think it over. The question was never answered.

McCord told the senators Friday he had not mentioned Caulfield previously because of the "personal pain" of referring to a friend and also to the President.

After he had read a nine-page prepared statement about the Caulfield offer, McCord was asked by the senators if Hunt had ever urged him to "plead guilty and remain silent."

"The words most frequently used by Mr. Hunt with me was that executive clemency is going to be made available to me," McCord replied. "I do not recall Mr. Hunt using those words with me to plead guilty."

On April 30, McCord testified Hunt was the first one to raise the clemency issue with him, last September, and repeatedly brought it up in subsequent months. He said the pressure increased as the January trial approached, both from Hunt

"There appeared to be intense pressure on her... for all of the members to accept executive clemency, remain silent and go off to prison, accept the promises that had been made for support to the family, rehabilitation...."

McCord said then: "The fact (was) that the entire offer was made in one total package from the beginning, that it was always discussed in the same context and that it appeared to be part of the game plan and was so referred to as a 'game plan' by Hunt. This is the game plan."

Before the grand jury April 9, McCord was asked if discussion of clemency ever took place in front of Hunt's lawyer, William O. Bittman.

"I can't be sure that it did at all," McCord told the grand jury. "I had the understanding... that the message must have been conveyed to him."

On Friday, McCord testified at length about being summoned to Bittman's office the afternoon the trial began, reportedly because Bittman wanted to talk with him about "whose word I would trust regarding a White House offer of executive clemency."

He said he did not talk with Bittman, but his attorney did and relayed the message that McCord would receive a call that night from a friend he had known at the White House—whom McCord assumed would be Caulfield.

'The Waltons' wins six Emmy awards

'Best' awards

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Waltons," a hit show the cynics once said was too good to make it, and "The Julie Andrews Hour" — which didn't make it — dominated the silver anniversary of the Emmy awards Sunday.

"The Waltons" won six awards from the Television Academy, and Miss Andrews' show, which was canceled, won seven, more than any other production.

"The Mary Tyler Moore Show" was the big winner in the comedy series awards.

Young Richard Thomas won for best leading actor in a dramatic series for his portrayal of "John-Boy" in "The Waltons," and the best leading actress in a dramatic series honor went to Michael Learned, who plays his mother.

Thomas' acceptance speech drew laughs. Driving to the theater to attend the award ceremony, he said, he was deep in thought, and "While I was trying to think up something to say here tonight, I demolished my car."

"The Waltons" was voted the outstanding dramatic series of the 1972-73 season. A gentle tale of a close knit Appalachian mountain family, struggling together through the Depression years of the 1930s, it was given no chance to survive when it first went on the air.

Critics praised the taste and low-key atmosphere of the show, its skillful reconstruction of the Roosevelt years, and the flavor of a time and place now gone, but which many viewers can still recall.

There were comments that it might be too sophisticated to have mass appeal, and it could not stand a chance against its opposition — "The Flip Wilson Show," which dominated the time slot, and "Mod Squad," a well established popular series.

Instead of withering before the competition, the show gradually drew more and more viewers, and eventually knocked Flip Wilson right out of the top five rated series.

Sir Laurence Olivier won the Emmy for the best single dramatic performance by an actor in a leading role for "Long Day's Journey into Night." The best actress award in the same category went to Cloris Leachman — winner of an Oscar two years ago for her role in "The Last Picture Show" — for her performance in "A Brand New Life."

Mary Tyler Moore led the cast of her show in dominating the comedy awards. She won the statuette for best leading actress in a comedy series. Ted Knight, who plays the fatheaded newscaster on the series, was picked best supporting actor, and Valerie Harper, who plays the sharp tongued girl upstairs, best supporting actress.

Jack Klugman, the slob sportswriter of "The Odd Couple," was picked best leading actor in a comedy series.

Robert Fosse, who took the best director Oscar this year for "Cabaret," which starred Liza Minnelli, took the best director Emmy in the one-shot musical category for "Liza With a Z," again starring Miss Minnelli.

"The Julie Andrews Hour," one of the ratings casualties as is not unusual in the Emmy awards, many of which have gone to shows that were artistic hits and popular flops — was named the outstanding variety musical series, won the best director award for a musical series, and the music direction, art direction, costume design, tape editing and camera work awards.

A surprise winner for most outstanding single program of the year was "A War of Children," a drama filmed in Ireland based on the tensions and violence between Catholics, Protestants and English in Northern Ireland.

Hijacked plane returns

CARACAS (UPI) — A Venezuelan airliner hijacked over the Andes returned safely Sunday from Cuba after two days of wandering flights across Latin America under threat of destruction by four armed guerrillas.

The 23 passengers and five crew members were not harmed, but they said as they left the plane that they were frightened during an odyssey that lasted 30 hours and took them through four countries.

Hundreds of friends and relatives congregated at the airport, but Venezuelan political police whisked the passengers and crew away for questioning about the four guerrillas.

The twin-engine Convair, owned by the state-run Avensa airlines, was hijacked over the Andes on Friday while on a domestic flight to Caracas. During the ordeal the guerrillas diverted the plane to Curacao, Panama, Mexico and Cuba.

The guerrillas, members of the leftist "Point Zero" group, threatened to blow up the plane unless Venezuela released 79 "political prisoners." The guerrillas were armed with pistols and hand grenades.

The Venezuelan government refused the guerrilla demand and the guerrillas, by then in Mexico, dropped their threat and instead ordered the plane to Cuba.

"It was in Mexico where we really became frightened after learning of the decision in Venezuela," co-pilot Omar Castro said after returning to Caracas.

The passengers reported that the guerrillas were led by Federico Bottini Marin.

3 out of 5 rap Nixon

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Time magazine poll report said Sunday that three out of five Americans now refuse to believe President Nixon's denials that he knew of a Watergate bugging.

The same poll showed Americans about evenly divided on whether the President had approved the operation in advance.

Time said the nationwide telephone poll of 1,037 voters was conducted last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday by Crossley Surveys, Inc.

"While only one in four would approve of impeaching Nixon it was merely aware of the cover-up, nearly half believe that he should be removed from office if it is shown that he knew about the plot in advance," Time said. "Of the people in the sample, 62 per cent voted for Nixon in November."

MIA servicemen declared dead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A growing number of American servicemen listed as missing in Vietnam are being declared dead by the Pentagon. The changes are based on intelligence from liberated prisoners of war and on the spot searches by military teams in Indochina. The Department of Defense said Sunday that families have been officially told that 70 men on the MIA roles have been reclassified as killed in action. Air Force Brig. Gen. Russell G. Ogan, the Pentagon's director of MIA-POW affairs, told a private meeting of families in California last week that the names of as many as 200 men may be transferred from the MIA list to that of killed in action. A Defense Department spokesman said much of the new intelligence leading to reclassification of some of the 1,364 men on the MIA list at the time of the Vietnam cease-fire Jan. 29 came from prisoners released by the Communists. Teams from the U.S. Joint Casualties Resolution Center set up in Thailand and military officials visiting Hanoi already have made on the spot investigations of aircraft crash sites and battle scenes where men disappeared. The spokesman said the task of searching for traces of men missing in Indochina could take years. Fighting in Laos, Cambodia and parts of South Vietnam is hampering the effort, as is the failure of the United States and the Communists to agree on search procedures in Communist controlled areas. Mrs. James Evans, western regional coordinator of the National League of Families, whose Navy pilot husband has been listed as missing since he was shot down over Laos eight years ago, said that the "focus" of MIA families has to change.

Gray 'hid' evidence

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time magazine said Sunday that former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray "hid in his safe evidence that would have more speedily revealed the identities and CIA connections of wiretappers G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt Jr., shortly after the Watergate burglary." Time reported that an unidentified Justice Department contends the CIA gave Gray "details of the disguises, aliases and false identification papers that it supplied Liddy and Hunt in 1971 when they worked for the White House in the clandestine investigation of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg." Time said Gray, who resigned April 27, "already knew" the actual names of "Edward Hamilton" and "George Leonard" — the aliases used by Hunt and Liddy, who have been convicted in the Watergate break-in — at a time when FBI agents were "tealously checking out" the false names. Time said it was not until Gray resigned that bureau officials found the evidence in the acting director's office safe.

Bombing

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — U.S. warplanes hit Communist targets in Cambodia for the 76th consecutive day Sunday, their strikes concentrated on two Highway 4 areas where government and Communist troops clashed. Military sources said American jet fighter-bombers supported Cambodian troops in driving back Communists in one clash near the highway linking Phnom Penh and the South China Sea. Casualties were listed as one government soldier killed and three wounded with two Communist killed.

Helms 'key' to CIA part in Watergate scandal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Since former Central Intelligence Agency director Richard M. Helms "returned to the nation's capital" last week, Congress has focused increased attention on alleged White House attempts to implicate the CIA in the Watergate scandal. Helms, now serving as ambassador to Iran, is seen by some congressional investigators as the key to determining what role — if any — the CIA played in the bugging and related sabotage and espionage. The former CIA chief was scheduled to appear today before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He gave closed-door testimony to the Senate Armed Services Committee and a federal grand jury last week. Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., has indicated that Helms may also be asked to testify publicly before his special Watergate committee, which resumes its nationally televised inquiry Tuesday. The Washington Star-News reported Sunday that Helms told the grand jury that former

White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman informed him at a June 23 meeting — six days after the Watergate break-in — that a request for CIA help to cover up the scandal came from "higher up." Following publication of the story, Ervin said in a televised interview (ABC's Issues and Answers) "my personal impression is that he (Helms) should be a witness" before Ervin's panel. In a later interview with UPI, Ervin said it might be relevant to his committee's inquiry to explore whether "an effort was made to blame all this on the CIA." Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., acting chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said he has turned over to the Watergate grand jury and the Ervin committee a series of internal CIA memoranda concerning the agency's high-level contacts with White House aides from June 23 until last February. Symington said Saturday the memos were "highly significant" and confirmed his earlier statement that "it is very clear there was a high-level attempt by the White House to unload responsibility for the Watergate bugging on the CIA." Symington added: "Also, it is even more difficult for me to visualize that the President knew nothing about it."

Transport board not independent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Transportation Safety Board, supposedly an independent agency to investigate accidents and recommend safety measures, was the center of a controversy today on just how independent it is. Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., says he has been told the board's chairman, John Reed, was ordered by an

Bighorn Crags in high country

SALMON—Tucked away high in the clouds of the northeast corner of the Idaho Primitive Area are the Bighorn Crags.

The Crags border on the lower Middle Fork of the Salmon River and to the boater floating eyeball level to the surface of the "wild river," the Crags are a vast and unending soaring of rock.

The Crags to be seen must be tackled from the opposite side. Those who float the Middle Fork, one of the nation's first wild rivers, catch only a glimpse of the Crags.

To get into the high country, the main entrance is through the Crags Campground at Cathedral Rock, a U.S. Forest Service outpost 50 miles west of Salmon.

Beyond the campground, the trail leads into a land of sheer rock, lakes and "hundred-mile" vistas.

The Crags are the high country of the Idaho Primitive Area. Peaks, such as Mt. McGuire, soar to 10,082 feet and in most seasons the snowclings to the ravines the year around.

The Crags open up in July to the backpacker and the party on horseback. Early snows in September and October serve as a warning to leave.

The Crags are dotted with some 95 lakes that produce cutthroat and rainbow trout for the fisherman.

A growing attraction for those who seek solitude, the Crags saw 3,200 persons enter through the 8,000-foot-high Crags Campground last season. In all, the forest service registered 20,700 visitor days, based on a 12-hour day.

The trend is for more backpackers and fewer horseback groups. One of the limiting factors is the shortage of feed for grazing a horse in the rock-strewn country jutting above timberline.

There's been a forest service patrolman in the Crags in past summers but because of cutbacks in funds, the patrolman won't be around this summer.

The patrolman had looked to keeping campgrounds clean and urging visitors to pack out their own garbage.

Now it will be up to the individual to take care of that. The forest service will provide visitors with a Crags map to keep them oriented.

Once inside the Crags, the visitor can look into the depths of the Middle Fork of the Salmon River to the west or the main Salmon River to the north.

And, once in a while, the Rocky Mountain Bighorn Sheep will be looking with them.

Philippines' Marcos called 'new Hitler'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Calling President Ferdinand Marcos a "new Hitler," acting Philippines Consul General Ruperto Ballao, 47, has requested political asylum in the United States.

Ballao, a 25-year veteran of his country's service, walked into the Los Angeles Times office Friday, slashed his wrist with a razor blade and signed his name in blood to a document calling Marcos a "new Hitler" and asking for asylum.

Ballao, the highest ranking Philippines official in Southern California in the absence of Consul General Jose Evangelista, said Marcos had deprived the Filipino people of civil liberties and pledged to do all in his power to see Marcos overthrown.

He said he did not believe Marcos, who declared martial law in the Philippines in September, 1972, would permit a return to "American-type" democracy as long as he remained in power.

He accused Marcos of extending the Philippine martial law to the United States in an effort to silence opposition "to his dictatorship."

Ballao charged Marcos had "infested this country (the United States) with secret agents to 'tail' and spy on Filipinos and Americans alike who have been blacklisted by his intelligence network operated by the Philippine military attaché in Washington, D.C."

American servicemen's bodies in North Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI)—Graves of American servicemen were scattered here and there all over North Vietnam but the bodies eventually will be returned if there is a display of "good will," a Hanoi delegate to the four-party team engaged in recovery efforts said Saturday.

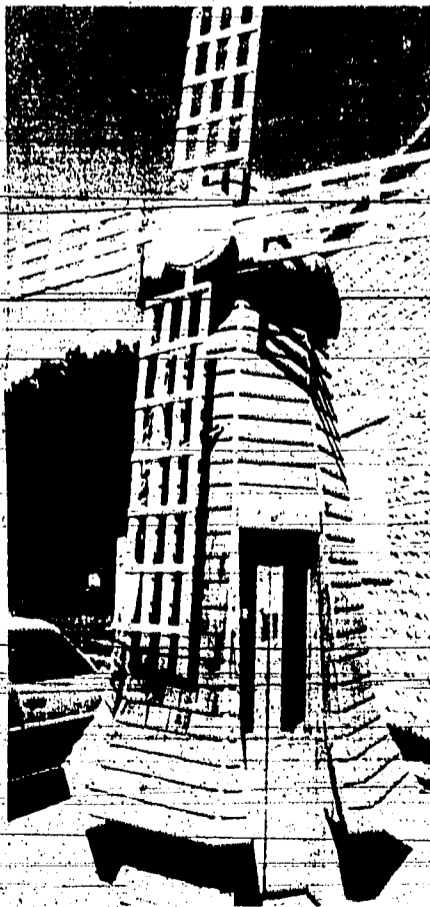

In reports of continued sporadic fighting, the Saigon command said Saturday that five Communists were killed Friday when they attacked a South Vietnamese government infantry position 17 miles northwest of Saigon near Tan Uyen. Five infantrymen were reported wounded.

The command said seven peasants were killed and one injured Friday afternoon when their fishing boat "detonated an enemy mine" two miles northeast of Son Tinh, about 325 miles north of Saigon.

Replying to an allegation that South Vietnamese planes misused a corridor of the four-party truce-keeping team, a government military spokesman said Saturday that there is no restriction against Saigon aircraft using those lanes.

Speaking on the outlook for return of the bodies of servicemen, Maj. Nguyen Phu Binh, a North Vietnamese delegate to the Joint Military Team (JMT), told a news conference at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airfield that the cooperation of local North Vietnamese is necessary for locating graves because "the graves of U.S. military personnel are scattered here and there all over North Vietnam."

He said, "People in North Vietnam are very angry and indignant at violations (of the Jan. 28 cease-fire) by the Saigon administration, which are tolerated by the U.S. government."

West Point cadets violate honor code

WEST POINT, N. Y. (UPI) — Three more cadets have been found guilty of violating the strict honor code at the U. S. Military Academy, bringing the total number of cadets accused in the cheating scandal to 21, a West Point spokesman said Saturday.

Won the west

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — The "gun that won the West," the Winchester lever-action rifle, was invented by John M. Browning in his Ogden gun shop in the early 1880s. The rifle became famous when the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., bought rights to produce it in 1883.

He said all of the cadets were accused of cheating during physics examinations in early April.

Seven of the cadets have submitted their resignations and 12 others have requested that a board of officers review the decision of the Cadet Honor Committee, the spokesman said.

The officers' board has found that one cadet violated the code. The superintendent of the academy must rule on the board's finding and, if he finds the cadet guilty, then send his opinion to the Department of Army for a final decision.

All of the cadets involved are members of this year's junior and senior classes, the spokesman said.

Soviets guarantee aid in Far East dispute

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A usually well-informed Beirut newspaper said Saturday that Soviet pledges of "all possible military and economic assistance," including military training of a "large number of commandos" for the struggle against Israel, helped end the Lebanon-Palestinian dispute.

At the same time, other Beirut newspapers reported that the last of the 4,000 to 5,000 Palestinian guerrilla reinforcements who crossed into Lebanon from Syria at the height of the bloody fighting between guerrillas and Lebanese troops had pulled back to their Syrian bases.

The reports said the withdrawal was the first step taken by guerrilla leaders to meet the terms of the new secret agreement reached with the Lebanese authorities Thursday. The withdrawal was completed Friday night, the newspapers said.

On the political front, Beirut Radio reported that Premier Amin Hafez has withdrawn his resignation at the request of President Suleiman Franjeh. Hafez submitted his government's resignation on May 8, soon after declaring a state of emergency which is still in force.

Political sources said Hafez' decision to stay on was another indication that the crisis was easing.

The newspaper An Nihar's weekly Arab Report said that the Soviet Union, through Ambassador Sargis Azimov in Beirut, had helped to bring about the cooperation of the Palestinian leaders with the Lebanese.

It said in a meeting with guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat last week, Azimov delivered a message from Kremlin leaders promising continued support for the guerrillas. It quoted guerrilla sources as saying the Russians promised "all possible military and economic assistance" and "offered to accept a large number of commandos for military training" for the struggle against Israel.

The guerrillas from Syria — reported to be the 4,000 to 5,000 man Yarmouk brigade of the Palestine Liberation Army (PLA) — first crossed the border shortly after the army-guerrilla fighting broke out in Beirut May 2. They withdrew after three days, but returned again after guerrillas in Beirut resumed the fighting May 7.

More than 300 civilians, soldiers and guerrillas were killed in the fighting in the Lebanese capital and along the northeast and southeastern borders with Syria.

The press reports said other steps by the guerrillas to implement the agreement included the removal of roadblocks set up by the guerrillas near the refugee camps in Beirut.

Recently, Amoco started allocating gasoline and other petroleum products. By allocating, we mean assigning limits to the amount of products we will supply to each of our dealers, jobbers and agents based on their past usage. This decision to allocate came reluctantly after hard, careful study. It seems to us to be the best alternative to assure orderly and fair distribution of our available supply. We think the American public has the right to know the facts behind this decision.

Primarily, the situation is this: demand has outstripped our country's crude oil supply. (Even though Amoco refineries are running well ahead of last year. And at practical maximum with available crude.)

This situation was caused by an unusually heavy demand for gasoline early this year, preventing the oil industry from building the inventories that will be needed in the summer months. (The nationwide demand for gasoline this summer is expected to increase by 7% over last year. With demand for Amoco products likely to be even higher.)

What's more, domestic crude supplies are short. And growing shorter. And foreign crude availability isn't up to the level this country needs right now.

And so we reasoned that if we started right now to distribute our supply fairly and equitably, we could maintain a steady balanced supply. And avoid any long term widespread runout situations.

While we are coping with the shortage, we want to assure you we are doing all we can to get gasoline to you.

We're exploring for oil the world over. Increasing our pipeline and refining capabilities. Developing new processes that will increase our yield. And importing more foreign crude than ever before — as expensive as it is.

With our allocation procedure and our continuing drive to produce more product we think the first steps toward easing the current situation have been taken.

But we can't do it all alone. We need everyone's help. Industry's. Government's. Yours.

Yours, by conserving gasoline. In fact, if every American used one less gallon every week, there'd be no shortage.

So, keep your car tuned and serviced. (It can increase your gasoline mileage up to 10%.) Combine trips. Form car pools.

And, above all, slow down. If you drive at 50 miles per hour instead of 60, you can save about one gallon in ten.

Does Amoco really have to allocate gasoline?

Yes, and all of us may have to get by with a little less for a while, so there'll be enough to go around.

N-blasts unacceptable to Colorado governor

DENVER (UPI) — Gov. John A. Love said Friday he could not foresee any time in the immediate future when a wholesale series of underground nuclear explosions to recover natural gas would be acceptable in Colorado.

But he also said he would not support a proposal to hold future blasts to a vote of the people.

The governor witnessed the detonation of three 30-kiloton nuclear explosives underground in western Colorado Thursday. The Project Rio Blanco test, 37 miles southwest of Meeker, won reluctant approval from the governor earlier in the year.

"We don't know much about it yet, other than the fact that the seismic effect apparently was somewhat less than forecast," Love said.

"All of the various instrumentation which will tell whether the gas is released, whether it's usable, whether the shot has the potential of affecting the oil shale and so on, will be the subject of very great analysis."

The governor said he could not foresee a situation in which a great number of shots involved in full field development would be acceptable. Scientists have said it would take several hundred underground nuclear shots in the Piceance Basin area of Colorado to tap all of its supplies of natural gas.

"I certainly have no commitment to support any such future action," Love said. "I'd have one reservation, however. Some years down the road — if the energy crisis is of greater magnitude than it currently is, it might be that the people of Colorado would think differently."

Man killed by baseball bat

CLEVELAND (UPI) — David Hicks, 34, was working on a car with his step-son and two friends when a curlew of teenagers pulled up and yelled "what did you say?" The teenagers then piled out of the car and beat Hicks to death with a baseball bat.

Treated for injuries were the step-son, David Winger, 15, and friends Frank Fiora, 21 and Edward Fowler.

Fowler said Saturday he and the other three were repairing Fiora's car Friday night in an alley when the youths pulled up beside the vehicle.

"This one guy in the first car hollered out a window 'what did you say?'" Fowler said.

"We didn't say anything. The next thing I know he jumped out of the car with a baseball bat and started swinging." Fowler said Hicks was knocked to the ground by the first blow.

"Dave jumped at the kid with the bat, and that's when he got hit," said Fowler. "The guy knocked Dave down, then went over and hit Hicks again as he lay on the ground."

Fowler said that in the next couple of minutes several other youths jumped from cars and began fighting.

"I liked the part where Pop woke up and yelled at the Monster, 'Get that stuff off your face and come to bed!'"

Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I was called for jury duty and was really-looking-forward-to serving, but when I told my husband, he said: "You HAVE to get out of it!" I asked him why and he couldn't give me a good reason, he just demanded that I get-out-of-it.

Abby, I think it would be a good experience for me. Furthermore, I regard it as my civic duty. My children are in high school, and it wouldn't be a hardship for me.

I know you are all for keeping peace in the family, but I honestly think my husband is wrong in demanding that I get out of serving on a jury. So how do I defend my position? Sign me. "HUNG"

Husband against jury Spring bonnet

DEAR HUNG: You're right when you say it's your "civic duty." I hope your husband never faces serious accusations, but ask him how he'd feel if he did and were tried by a judge, alone because he'd neighbors and fellow citizens shirked their responsibility to sit in judgment on his case.

Then tell him to read the Declaration of Independence, and he will be reminded that one of his forefathers' complaints against the tyranny of King George was denial of jury trials. If your husband persists in the tyranny of denying you the right to serve on a jury, declare your own civic independence. It is one of only two public services a citizen is called upon to perform: the other is voting.

DEAR ABBY: We met an attractive couple at the home of mutual friends. They seemed nice and quite eager to be friendly. The woman called and invited us to their home for dinner. The morning of the evening we were to go there the wife called and asked me what size SHOES my husband wore. I was surprised at such a peculiar question, and asked her why she wanted to know. She said: "We have oyster-white carpeting and don't want it soiled, so I'm providing all the guests with house slippers."

When I told my husband about this I had a hard time getting him to go. We had a pleasant evening, and all the guests kind of laughed at exchanging their shoes for house slippers at the door. My husband was uncomfortable in those silly slippers and the other men kept passing "looks" back and forth through the evening.

It didn't really bother me, but I wonder if you would ask your guests to do such a thing? Or is she a kook?

JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: I wouldn't, but that doesn't mean that she's a "kook." To each his own. And in Japan it's the thing to do.

DEAR ABBY: I am planning a 3 p. m. church wedding. I will wear a long white wedding gown and veil, and everyone in the wedding party will be in formal attire.

The groom, who is a Baptist minister, insists on wearing a white business suit. My mother is having hysterics and says only a tuxedo will do. I'd rather have him wear a tuxedo, but I feel it's his wedding, too, and he should be able to wear what he wants.

What is your opinion?

THE BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: If the groom is to be correctly attired, he should wear formal wedding clothes, but if he insists upon wearing a white suit, the world won't come to an end if he does. He must be a "Good-Humored" Baptist minister.

CONFIDENTIAL TO D. AND T. IN HIGHLAND PARK: When you're stuck, you're stuck. Use tact. Tact is the art of making your guests feel at home when you wish they were.

Health foods up

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - The clientele—and the prospects—of the health food industry have changed dramatically in recent years, according to the biggest bank in the United States.

Once considered an insignificant adjunct of the grocery business, the nation's 3,000 health food stores sold an estimated $400 million worth of "organic" and "natural" foods and other products in 1972.

"Largely ignored by the general populace, forerunners of today's nutrition centers were frequented by aging arthritics, would-be Tarzans and all manner of food faddists," the Bank of America said in a recent report on the status of health food stores.

"But no longer can health food purchasers be summarily dismissed as hypochondriac health nuts seeking the proverbial fountain of youth," the report said.

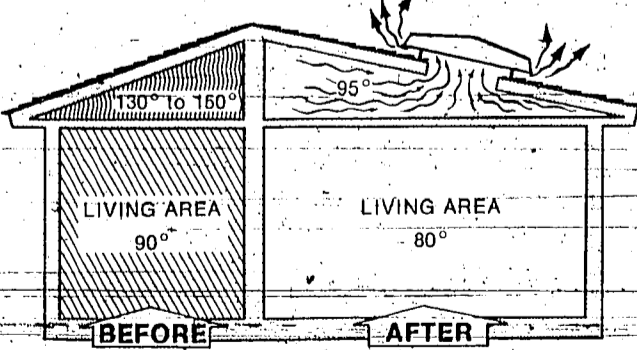

"Today, anyone and everyone from counterculture youths to young matrons and corporate executives—can be found sampling and serving delicacies typically carried by health food stores. And every day new converts join the fold."

They are converted by heightened public concern over chemical additives and pesticide residues, mercury and botulism poisoning incidents and critical reports on conventional food processing methods. The result has been a boom in recent years and projections of faster growth in the future.

Inheritance tax poses threat to small farms

By BERNARD BRENNER, UPI Farm Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a move underlining the fact that commercial-scale family farms have grown dramatically over the past decade, Agriculture Department economists say a recently-completed study shows that the federal inheritance tax may begin to pose a serious threat to keeping farms intact when the owner dies.

As a result, the department's Economic Research Service (ERS) says it plans to devote some of its future research budget to studies of estate-planning tactics for farmers. The newly-completed study by economist W. Fred Woods noted that a decade ago, farmers didn't worry much about estate taxes because most farm estates fell below the $60,000 level at which the tax bite begins. But production assets per farm more than doubled over the past decade and reached a national average of $100,000 last year, Woods' report said. A review of 21 typical owner-operated family farms showed that death taxes could — without advance estate-transfer planning — take nearly 20 per cent of the capital invested in three types of farms.

For example, Woods cited a typical corn belt hog and beef farm with assets estimated at $240,000 last year. Federal and state estate taxes would have climbed from less than 2 per cent of the farm capital in 1963 to 10 per cent in 1972. Another example in the study showed changes between 1961 and 1968 for a hypothetical irrigated cotton farm in the high-plains of Texas. Capital in the farm rose from $117,300 in 1961 to nearly $465,000 in 1968, and death duties jumped from one-tenth of 1 per cent of the capital in 1971 to 10.8 per cent in 1968. "So far, death taxes don't absorb a large portion of capital on most farms. But because farms have grown rapidly in size and value and because death taxes are figured on a graduated scale (from 3 per cent to 77 per cent for the federal estate tax) they are taking an ever-increasing share of farm capital," Woods' report said.

"Even more serious than the actual amount of death taxes is the fact that most farms can't quickly convert assets to cash to pay taxes," Woods noted. He said a heavy inheritance tax load could require selling part of a farm in some cases.

Woods pointed out that under current inheritance tax laws — which haven't been revised since the 1940's but are now under review in Congress — farmers do have available options for reducing the tax bite.

By giving away portions of the farm during the owner's lifetime and paying gift taxes instead of inheritance taxes, or by keeping gifts within tax-exempt limits, the eventual tax load can be reduced greatly.

A couple with two children and four grandchildren "could easily transfer an estate of over $700,000 without paying taxes" if the gifts begin 10 to 15 years before death, Woods said. Woods said tax "reform" proposals now under study include suggestions for taxing capital appreciation at death and for allowing heirs to stagger payments of inheritance taxes over periods of up to 10 years.

Gold fever high

LONDON (UPI) — At 9:48 a.m. last Monday Douglas Bull took an incoming call on his flashing console in the bullion dealing room of Samuel Montagu and Co. Ltd. Jotted down some figures and concluded an historic transaction.

The call was from a dealer at another London merchant bank with a customer frantic to buy several bars of gold. The customer was willing to pay $103 an ounce—more than twice the official U.S. price of $42.22.

Bull and fellow dealers allowed themselves a "quiet cheer" to mark the first time gold had changed hands at more than $100 an ounce. Then they settled down to deal with a flood of calls in what was to become one of the greatest stampedes for the precious metal in modern times.

The gold fever was spurred by the Watergate scandal and the announced possible devaluation of the dollar, according to some dealers. It quickly spread to Paris, Zurich and other European and Asian capitals, keeping prices above the $100 mark during the week.

Many European bullion brokers and foreign exchange dealers linked the gold rush and the dollar's setback with the furor over alleged White House involvement in the bugging of the Democratic Party's Washington headquarters.

"People are already distrustful of paper money, then along came Watergate," said Alan D. Jeffery, chairman of the London gold market. "They reason that if the dollar is going to make it more difficult for (President) Nixon to get his way with Congress on monetary and other economic reforms, they better get into something more stable than dollars."

At one point, in the smoke-filled, windowless basement of the Paris gold bourse on the Rue Quatre Septembre, a shouting mob of brokers shouting, "Je prends" (I take) sent prices rocketing to $128.50 an ounce.

The gold rush—the second since the Feb. 13 devaluation of the dollar—touched off another onslaught against U.S. currency abroad.

Oil-rich sheikhs, multinational companies and other speculators still distrustful of paper money despite attempts to cure the world's monetary ills, unloaded U.S. dollars for bullion and gold coins. The dollar plunged to new lows on foreign exchange markets.

Americans living or traveling abroad bore the brunt of the attack as they did when similar runs forced the dollar's devaluation in 1971 and in February.

"With the last devaluation we got back to eating meat only three times a week, and I don't know what to do now," said Elizabeth Bertin-Boussu.

Matisse stolen
GOTEBORG, Sweden (UPI) — A Matisse painting valued at $450,000 was stolen from the Goteborg Museum of Art Saturday, a museum spokesman said.

The painting, "Girl in White" had been out out of its frame, the spokesman said. It was discovered missing by a visitor Saturday afternoon. Museum Superintendent Carl Gustaf Heden said he did not think the painting, by French artist Henry Matisse in 1919, could be sold to any collector in Sweden.

"It is much too well-known," he said. "But the theft could have been ordered by some foreign collector."

Work progresses on Gem highways

SHOSHONE — Periodic traffic delays can be expected this week at the Perrine Bridge highway construction project site, Howard Johnson, engineer at Shoshone District office, said today.

"Drilling rock on the north side of the canyon is being done in preparation for blasting and excavating the roadway approach section to the bridge and conducting exploratory drilling to confirm bridge erection plan data.

This is all preliminary work to the final construction of roadway and a 1,500 foot steel arch bridge over the Snake River on U.S. Highway 93 north of Twin Falls.

Work is progressing on construction of two other bridges over Snake River near King Hill on Interstate 80 North.

Form work is being done and concrete is being placed for the bridge columns as well as form work being done for the west side bridge abutments.

Traffic is being routed over a three-quarter-mile paved detour at the East Bliss interchange site in conjunction with work of the project.

Placement of completion concrete in the bridge abutments and piers at both interchange sites and forming for the concrete deck on the West Bliss interchange is being done at this time.

Painting of steel sheet piling and handrail on six bridges on I80N, Heyburn East in Cassia and Minidoka counties, is being done. Controlled traffic and minor delays can be expected during painting operations there.

At the Interstate 80N Idaho, Sweetzer and Colter-Idaho project work is progressing with construction of roadway subgrade, crushing and placing base aggregate and installing pipe.

Crushing and stockpiling cover coat material to be used in the seal coating project at Burley and Rupert-Paul is also underway.

Construction of the concrete substructure for the railroad underpass is now virtually complete at King Hill in Elmore County. The underpass is 222 feet on I80N near King Hill.

Placement of the steel girders is expected to begin about June 1. The overall project has been for constructing a two four-lane divided roadway, about 0.8 miles of the highway. Peter Kiewit Sons and Co., Twin Falls, has this contract for $1.6 million.

Shoshone man promoted

SHOSHONE — Richard Murua, Shoshone, has accepted a position with the Idaho Department of Public Lands and will be with the Cottonwood district, Idaho Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Murua have moved to Idaho Falls and will be joined by their son after school is out.

Murua graduated from Shoshone High School and received a bachelor of science degree in range conservation from Idaho State University, Pocatello.

He has worked the past six seasons as fire control technician for the Shoshone District Bureau of Land Management and one season for the Boise Intergency Fire Center.

At the Idaho Falls Office, Murua will supervise all fire prevention and suppression activities on the 670,000 acre district, working with the BLM, U.S. Forest Service and local fire organizations.

Murua is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claudio Murua, Ketchum, and his wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Corrigan, Shoshone.

Campaign reform bills sought

MARINETTE, Wis. (UPI) — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., announced Saturday he will introduce campaign reform legislation, including public financing for presidential and congressional candidates, to prevent abuses such as those disclosed in the Watergate affair.

"It must be obvious by now to everyone," Nelson said in a prepared dinner speech to the Marinette County Democratic party, "that to permit the continuation of no-limit campaign spending is politically irresponsible and a dangerous threat to the free election process. The estimated $80 million spent on the presidential campaign in 1972 can best be described as scandalous."

"The Congress has an obligation to take responsible action to restore and maintain the faith of the people in the institutions of government," he said. "We have the responsibility to guarantee that, in a free society, our laws are designed so that the first and foremost responsibility of the political parties and the elected officials is always to the people, not to powerful special interest groups.

"This can best be accomplished most effectively by establishing a strict limitation on the total amount that can be spent in any campaign; by establishing a very low maximum amount that can be contributed by any individual or organization to a political party or in behalf of any individual candidate in a primary election, and finally, by providing that general election campaigns shall be publicly financed with strict prohibitions against private contributions from any voter, and individual contributions would be limited to $500 per party or candidate in primaries, or to a total of $2,500 in any election year.

The measure also would establish an independent federal commission to administer the campaign funding, and would expand voting rights of minorities, make election day a federal holiday and otherwise make it easier for citizens to vote.

One dead, one jailed in fast draw match

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — An argument at a party early Saturday led to an old west-style shootout which left one man dead and another in custody for murder.

Police said the incident began when an argument erupted between Hardy Pamilton, 20, Pasadena, and Charles E. Johnson, 10, Altadena.

Officers said witnesses reported both men were packing pistols, went outside to continue their argument.

Witnesses said both went for their weapons, but Johnson, using a .38-caliber revolver, outdrew Pamilton and fired before Pamilton could bring his .45-caliber automatic into play.

Pamilton was pronounced dead on arrival at Huntington Memorial Hospital. Johnson was booked on suspicion of murder.

Police said Pamilton had gotten into a violent argument with another guest at the party before tangling with Johnson. The cause of the argument was not known.

Shoshone residents plug pipes
SHOSHONE — Citizens of Shoshone are asked to cooperate in trying to keep wash cloths, undergarments and such out of the city sewer pipe lines.

Mayor Ellwood R. Werry said recently the pump at the courthouse was plugged with a cloth and the pump had to be pulled to be repaired.

Last week both pumps on South Alta street were plugged and found to have undergarments in them.

This has happened several times in the city and is adding expenses to the taxpayers in general, the mayor said.

Tuesday panelists

COUNTY zoning administrator Ed Woods, Gem Equipment Sales owner Fred Wanzneried, and Designer West landscape architect Max Mueller will be panelists at a League of Women Voters-sponsored meeting on the proposed county zoning ordinance to be held at the Idaho Power Co. Auditorium, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Panel set for TF meet

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls League of Women Voters will sponsor a panel discussion on the proposed Twin Falls County zoning ordinance at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Idaho Power Co. Auditorium.

The panel will feature county zoning administrator Ed Woods, landscape architect Max Mueller, farm implement salesman Fred Wanzneried and trailer salesman Dean Fenstermaker. The proceedings will be broadcast live over radio station KFTI beginning at 6 p.m.

League president Ella Nelson said Woods will act as a resource panelist on county zoning. Mueller will speak on planning and development; Wanzneried will discuss Twin Falls city and business interests, and Fenstermaker will talk about zoning as related to mobile home operators.

Following the prepared statements, the panelists will answer questions from the audience.

Mrs. Nelson said Twin Falls county commissioners and members of the county zoning commission have also been invited to participate and should be available for answering questions directed by the audience.

In addition, William Claborn and Louis Porter, both Kimberly, will discuss agricultural and oil-and-city-and-business interests respectively. Mrs. Nelson said.

League member Mrs. Cal Butler will speak on public recreation.

The meeting is, of course, open to the public.

Rupert water shortage aired

RUPERT — The shortage of irrigation water in Rupert is due to the low level of sub water and the demand of many users on canal water, mayor Wendell Johnson said today.

"Last year, one of our domestic water pumps was increased to pump twice as much water," Johnson said. "This enabled us to help our irrigation problem. All of Rupert's sub pumps are in top condition and our irrigation department is doing everything it can to ease the shortage," he said.

"To get a better rate on the domestic irrigation water an irrigation user should go to the city office and sign up for a sprinkler rate," Johnson said. "This entitles you to one-half price on your water bill," he said.

"In no way does this affect the sewer rate for a residential user. The residential rate for sewer use is $2.50 per month up to 50,000 gallons per month and does not change by use of domestic water for irrigating," he said.

Johnson said only commerce and industry is charged a sewer fee tied to the use of water as it is sold to them by the gallon, thus the more gallons they used, the higher their sewer charge. This does not apply to the residential user, he said.

"Information is good," Johnson said, "however councilman Whitton should have done what he is now asking residents to do.

In offering the advice, it is apparent that councilman Whitton does not understand the ordinances that the city is governed by. It is also apparent that he failed to go to the city attorney or the city office and obtain the correct information before printing the advice. It should be remembered that all of the council is trying to help solve the problem and not just councilman Whitton."

W. F. (Bill) Whitton, Rupert City Councilman, had issued a statement concerning the irrigation problem last Friday.

"There has been some mention of new sub pumps being installed next year, but if we do not have the high sub level it is not the answer," Johnson said.

"Everything possible will be done in order to help ease the shortage of irrigation water and yet not overload the system when the sub level is high later in the season. We have to work in agreement with the Mindoka Irrigation District," he said.

"Rupert's irrigation system could definitely be considered one of the best for a city of its size," Johnson said. "Where else" he asked, "can you get water delivered in a pipe and ready to use on your lot at 20 cents a front foot. As everything cannot be perfect maybe we will have to in some way supplement by using domestic water supplies."

The council will continue working on this problem and are always ready to listen to any ideas for improvement, he said.

TF car stolen

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls woman reported to police her car was stolen Saturday night or Sunday morning.

Patricia Wolford told police the car, a tan 1964 Chevrolet sedan bearing 2F-2061 plates, was stolen from in front of the South Park Lounge between 1 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Sunday. Investigation is continuing.

Chess winners

BOISE (UPI) — Sam Barr of Seattle won the annual Idaho Open Chess Tournament over the weekend, moving up from 11th place in the preliminary ratings.

Barr accomplished his victory in the two-day tournament by winning five matches and losing none.

Jim Longland, Reno, Nev., took second place, and Peter Hess, also Reno, third.

Ezra Brumbach, Parma, won the class "B" competition. Robert Engstrom, Redwood City, Calif., was second.

Church plans visit

HAILEY — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, will be in the Blaine County Courthouse Thursday, May 31, to meet with county residents who wish to see him.

Church's office announced the senator will be at the Hailey Courthouse beginning at 1:30 p.m. for a Citizen's Conference.

Church will also attend an open house at 8 p.m. at the Hiawatha Inn in Hailey, with the public invited.

'Squirrely' problem

BOISE (UPI) — A small squirrel was apparently the cause of a downed 7,300-volt power line on Fairview Avenue near 27th Street.

The line broke and fell across a car waiting for a traffic signal to change Saturday night. Occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton P. Skimkins and their three children, escaped without injury.

Their car was stopped on Fairview 50 feet west of 27th. The family remained inside until power company and fire department crews could remove the wire.

An Idaho Power Company spokesman said a squirrel got into a transformer on Fletcher Street a couple of blocks away and caused a 12,500-volt line — which feeds electricity to nearby customers — to short out.

Room burglarized

TWIN FALLS — A Torrance, Calif., man reported to Twin Falls police that his motel room was burglarized Sunday afternoon.

H. D. Stone told police two sports coats and a pair of pants valued at $285 were taken from his room at the Holiday Inn between 12:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Sunday. He said $25 in cash in the pocket of one of the coats was also taken.

Jewelry stolen

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls woman reported to police that about $2,500 worth of jewelry was taken from her home a week ago Sunday.

Joyce Schuler, 113 Van Buren, reported the jewelry missing on Saturday. She said the theft on May 13 occurred in the daytime hours.

Police said the method of entry to the house was unknown. Investigation is continuing.

Washington man arrested

TWIN FALLS — A Washington state man was in the county jail today on a grand larceny in Twin Falls.

Gary Richard Vincent, 25, Othello, Wash., was arrested by Washington authorities and returned to Twin Falls by sheriff's deputies Saturday.

According to detective captain Tim Qualls, Vincent was arrested in connection with the theft of an auto from Thesen's Motors about two years ago. No bond has been set in the case.

Valley plans graduation day

VALLEY SCHOOL — Graduation exercises for 51 Valley High School seniors will be conducted Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Baccalaureate services were conducted Sunday night.

Rickey Hagin, 1973-74 student body president, will give the invocation at the commencement exercises. Randy Christopherson, 1973-74 student body vice-president, will pronounce the benediction.

Valedictory address will be given by Cindy Schwarz and David Grant, salutatorian, will also make a presentation.

Supt. Dr. Tom Utterback will present the class with diplomas to be awarded by Harold Grant, chairman of the school board of trustees.

Special awards will be presented by Assistant Supt. Arlyn Bodily. Duane Porter, accompanied by guitarists, David Danje and Daryl Stone will sing "Less of Me." The Valley High School band under the direction of Paul Larson, will play the processional and recessional.

The Rev. George Hirose delivered the sermon at the baccalaureate service. Duane Porter sang "I Don't Know About Tomorrow," accompanied by Berta Stone. David Grant, senior class president, said the invocation. Brad Kurtz, class vice president, said the benediction.

Gifford talks to area seniors

RICHFIELD — "For each problem you face in this life, there is an answer in the Scriptures," said Mervyn Gifford, Central Idaho District Coordinator for the LDS seminaries.

He addressed the 20 Richfield High School graduates at their baccalaureate services Sunday afternoon.

The theme for the services was the class motto, "A Past to Remember, A Future to Mold." In developing the class motto, Gifford spoke on molding the future as it relates to the religious sense of living.

He stated that "each person must be satisfied with himself." He also said, "Wickedness never was happiness."

The invocation and benediction were pronounced by Rev. Hardy Thompson of the Richfield-United-Methodist Church. School Superintendent J. N. Anderson introduced the speaker.

A quartet, composed of Mrs. Letoy Johnson, Mrs. Merrill Beveler, Mrs. Dallas Ward and Mrs. Leonard Stout, sang "You'll Never Walk Alone." They were accompanied on the piano by Phyllis Flavel.

Mrs. Tim Sanders played processional and the recessional.

Blaine unit alters name

HAILEY — The Hailey Citizens For Orderly Development has changed its name to The Committee For the Defense of the Wood River Valley.

The group had led the opposition to the McCulloch Properties, Inc. petition for annexation of a 650 acre proposed development site into Hailey.

Last week the Hailey City Council voted to scrap an earlier decision to hold an advisory election and voted unanimously to annex the property.

According to Robert Ward, Hailey, co-chairman for the new group, the name change came during a Sunday night meeting.

He said the change occurred because the proposed development "was not just a city problem. The results of McCulloch will affect the whole Wood River Valley." Ward said the group will push for a referendum vote to overturn the Council's decision and seek de-annexation of the property. Such a vote can be conducted after a new state statute becomes effective July 1. Ward said the group also seek incorporation as a non-profit organization in order that any donations would be tax deductible.

The group will seek a referendum vote, Ward said, because "we feel the majority of the people of Hailey are against the project and their voices have been silenced so far by not being able to vote."

He said he felt the original group would have accepted the results of the advisory election because, firstly "we would have won" and secondly if the vote was pro annexation "in force a referendum vote would have been almost impossible because of cost."

Bliss vote set today

BLISS — Bliss school patrons vote today on five trustee posts.

All trustee positions have to be filled because of redistricting approved last fall according to Supt. Burton Lenker.

There is competition only in Zone 2. Incumbent Glen Matthews is opposed by Kenneth Campbell for a two year term.

In Zone 3, Sterling Bray, incumbent, is opposed for a one year term. Incumbent Charlene Stroud is opposed for a two year term in Zone 4. In Zone 5, Charles Wilkins, incumbent, is also opposed in seeking a three year term.

Polls are open from noon until 8 p.m. in the school office.

Gooding trustee election slated

GOODING — Gooding trustee election will be Tuesday with polls open from 1 until 7 p.m. in the district office.

All five trustee posts must be filled because of redistricting. All incumbents are seeking re-election and all seats are being contested.

Rodney Glauner, incumbent, is being opposed by Bob Rogers in zone one. In zone two incumbent Richard Graves is opposed by Clive Pope.

James Molchan will seek the zone three seat now held by Claude Seaton.

Clark Sears will seek his first term. He opposes Mrs. Ralf Lucke, in zone 4. Sears was appointed after redistricting.

In zone five, Robert Hood is running for the seat now held by Karl Beisner who was also appointed following rezoning.

GF election slated Tuesday

GLENN'S PERRY — The Glenn's Perry school district will hold a trustee election Tuesday from 1 to 7 p.m.

Polls will be set up in the St. Francis Parish Hall in Glenn's Perry and in the King Hill Grange Hall.

Manuel Whitehead, King Hill, is opposing incumbent Bud Hill, King Hill, for one of the three-year trustee seats.

Dick King, Glenn's Perry, is unopposed in his trustee district.

Ketchum man's condition listed

KETCHUM — A Ketchum man was in satisfactory condition today at Mortiz Community Hospital, Sun Valley, after he shot himself in the arm.

According to a Blaine County sheriff's deputy, the man was identified as Allen Pratt, 21.

The deputy said Pratt and a companion, Kevin Werry, Ketchum, were hunting Gophers in Adams Gulch, three miles north of Ketchum, about 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

Pratt told the officer he was attempting to jump across a five-foot wide stream while carrying a .22 rifle by holding the barrel in his right hand and the stock and trigger with his left hand.

The deputy said when Pratt jumped, the rifle barrel swung towards his right shoulder and the gun discharged. The bullet entered Pratt's right shoulder just above the hip, the deputy said. Pratt told the officer he thought the gun had been on safety.

Grand larceny charges filed

KETCHUM — A Hailey man has been arrested for grand larceny in connection with the Saturday theft of wood and fixtures from a mill in Thickett Gulch, Warm Springs.

According to a Blaine County sheriff's deputy, Roger S. Bergdahl, 25, has been released on a complaint and summons to appear in Blaine County magistrate court on May 29.

The deputy said the theft occurred Saturday afternoon at the U.S. Silver and Mining Corporation, Salt Lake City, mill about five miles west of Ketchum. Taken was a quantity of wood, bathroom fixtures and light fixtures.

Bergdahl was arrested about 5:30 p.m., about two miles north of Hailey.

The wood was impounded and taken to the sheriff's office.

Watergate may undermine NATO

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Democratic U.S. senators told Europeans Saturday the Watergate scandal will undermine President Nixon's power so severely that he may be forced by Congress to withdraw some U.S. troops from Europe.

"The Watergate affair has diminished the ability of the President to have his program succeed in Congress, whatever the issue might be," Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., said. "On troop withdrawals, it has had an impact. Those men who sponsored proposals (for a partial U.S. unilateral withdrawal) now have a greater opportunity."

Tunney spoke to newsmen after a meeting of committees of the North Atlantic Assembly, a group of parliamentarians from North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) nations.

Speeches here by Tunney, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Rep. Wayne L. Hayes, D-Ohio, provided the bluntest warning to Europeans so far that Watergate might damage Nixon's foreign policy and affect troop and trade negotiations in which Europe's stake is as large as America's.

Kennedy told the Assembly's Military Committee that sentiment in Congress already was running strong against continued high U.S. defense spending in Europe. He asked European governments to pay a "fairer share" of these costs. Kennedy said that, in the long run, "the presidency and our other institutions will emerge from this ordeal stronger and more responsive than before."

But he told newsmen Friday that "it is unrealistic not to feel that it (Watergate) will have an impact" on Nixon's foreign policy "and on our relations with Europe."

Both Tunney and Kennedy said Nixon's trade bill, giving the administration the authority it needs to open world trade talks later this year, might be watered down by Watergate.

"No one can prognosticate what the outcome will be," Tunney said. "But clearly the president will have less influence with Congress than he would have had." "Piet Denkert, a Dutch member of parliament, said the probable reaction by European nations to a unilateral U.S. pullback of troops from Europe would be a similar cutback in

Nixon defends continued use of planes in Asia

NORFOLK, VA. (UPI) — President Nixon said Saturday it would be a crime against the memory of the nation's war dead if the United States slackened its efforts to force North Vietnam into scrupulous adherence to the cease-fire agreement.

"A peace agreement that is only a piece of paper is not something we are interested in," Nixon told an Armed Forces Day crowd estimated at more than 15,000 at the Norfolk naval station. "We want a peace agreement that is adhered to. We are adhering to it and we expect the other side to do the same."

The President, in apparent response to critics of his bombing policy in Cambodia and moves in Congress to stop it, said the United States is "continuing to take the necessary measures to insist that all parties to the agreement keep their word and live up to their obligations." He also accused North Vietnam of failing to abide by its "promise, pledge and solemn agreement" to help account for Americans missing in action in Indochina while breaking the peace accords by maintaining troops in Laos and Cambodia and infiltrating military equipment into South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

Nixon, in one of his few public appearances since the Watergate scandal began to reach deeply into his administration, stressed his determination to continue with the tasks he has set for himself in his second term. He virtually echoed the point made by White House staff members who have declared that Nixon will not resign and he repeatedly referred to himself as the President and commander-in-chief.

Twice he gestured with an outstretched right arm toward the American flag snapping briskly in the breeze from the fantail of a nearby cruiser as he vowed the American colors "are not going to start running now — not in Southeast Asia, not anywhere around the globe."

Veterans qualify for Memorial Day 500 race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Veterans George Snider, Jim McElreath and Sam Sessions were among last day qualifiers Sunday in the fastest lineup in history for the $1 million Indianapolis 500 Memorial Day auto race.

The cars of two drivers were "bumped" by faster machines in the traditionally hectic last hour qualifications, with the 33-car starting field averaging 192.329 miles per hour, 8.6 miles faster than last year's record lineup.

The starting field will get three more hours next Thursday for final endurance tests before the famed 2 1/2-mile oval is closed until the flying start of the holiday classic May 28.

Snider, from Bakersfield, Calif., became the final qualifior in a car owned by three-time 500 champ A.J. Foyt and his average speed of 190.355 mph also was the day's best.

By qualifying, Snider eliminated a car qualified on the first day of the trials by Sam Posey at an average speed of just under 188 mph. Posey was fifth as a rookie in last year's race.

Bob Harkey of Indianapolis was the second fastest qualifier Sunday at 189.733 and Sessions, Nashville, Mich., fourth in last year's race, was third best at 180.066.

McElreath, Arlington, Tex., winner of the first California "500" at Ontario, qualified at 188.640 in a car that already had two strikes against it. John Mahler, Bettendorf, Iowa, made two unsuccessful attempts in the same car last Sunday before McElreath was hired as a last-minute replacement to get the machine into the field.

McElreath's successful 10-mile sprint ousted a car qualified only five minutes previously by rookie Tom Bigelow, Whitewater, Wis., who had become the 33rd qualifier.

Both Sessions and Harkey joined the field in their second attempts.

Other unsuccessful attempts to make the field were made by popular Jim Hurtubise, the former New York state driver now living in Indianapolis who competed in the 500 nine times; Greg Weld, Kansas City, Mo.; Rick Muther, Laguna Beach, Calif.; and rookie Bill Simpson.

Donna Caponi Young is champion at Bluegrass

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Slenderized Donna Caponi Young, hungry for her first tournament success in three years, charged to a two-stroke victory Sunday in the $30,000 Bluegrass Invitation golf tournament with a 3-under-par 216 total for 64 holes.

Back in her "good luck town," Mrs. Young was a model of consistency in winning her first tourney since she captured the Bluegrass here in 1970. She shot a 1-under-par 72 for each of the 18-hole round to collect the $4,500 first prize at the Hunting Creek Country Club course.

Sandra Spuzich finished two strokes behind Mrs. Young for second place with 1-under-par 218.

No one else in the field of 61 pros and five amateurs was able to break par on a course described as extremely tough.

Sandra Palmer and Betty Burfeindt were tied for third place at 1-over-par 220. Next came Marie Breer, Gloria Ehret and Sandra Haynie at 221.

Deadlocked at 222 were Sally Little, whose 89 on Friday was the best round of the tourney; Susie McAllister, and Japan's Chako Higuchi.

One stroke behind them were Judy Rankin, winner of the last two tourneys on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour; Mgr. Mills, and Marbo Sasaki.

Mrs. Young, who was 40 pounds heavier when she won the tourney here three years ago, drilled a 4-iron shot 175 yards to within an inch of the pin on the fourth hole to highlight her final round. She had four birdies and three bogeys Sunday.

One of her bogeys came on the last hole, generally considered a birdie hole for pros, after an excellent recovery from a sand-trap left her 10 feet from the hole. She then three-putted.

"I was shaking so much on that first put after I came out of the trap that I thought the putter was going to fly out of my hands," Mrs. Young said. "After all, it's been a long, dry spell for me and I was just awful nervous."

For Mrs. Spuzich, it had also been a long drought.

"This was my best finish since the Women's Open in 1970," she said. "I thought I had a chance until I was coming up the 18th fairway and heard Donna was in at 3-under-par. I knew then I would have to hole out a long wood shot just to tie her."

Brian Gottfried upsets Arthur Ashe

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Young Brian Gottfried climaxed a series of stunning upsets Sunday in the $150,000 Alan King-Caesars Palace Tennis Classic by defeating Arthur Ashe for the first prize of $30,000 and a new car.

Gottfried, 21, from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., outplayed his veteran 29-year-old opponent in every phase of the game to win the wind-swept finale, 6-1, 6-3.

Ashe, who received $15,000 as runnerup in the sport's richest event, was unable to gauge the 25-mile gusts as well as his younger rival.

He sealed his own fate by double-faulting to lose the fifth and seventh games of the second set to trail 2-5.

Ashe delayed the final decision by breaking Gottfried's serve in the eighth game. But Gottfried came right back to break Ashe in the final game when Ashe netted an easy kill shot.

"I never felt sure I could win it until I broke Arthur in that fifth game of the second set to lead 3-2," Gottfried said.

"After that I just decided to keep banging the ball hard against his serve to break him again and it worked out."

Ashe said he was amazed how hard Gottfried hit the ball in the swirling winds.

"He played like there was no wind out there at all," Ashe said. "It really was an amazing performance. He kept me on the defensive most of the way and I didn't get many chances to go to the net."

Ashe, from Richmond, Va., a loser in five of six finals during the current season, was outwardly calm as he discussed the match.

Wilbur Wood hurls 10th season win

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wilbur Wood notched his 10th victory of the season in the opener Sunday when he pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 9-3 victory, but the Minnesota Twins came back to take the nightcap 3-0 behind the combined six-hit pitching of Ray Corbin and Ken Sanders.

The split for the White Sox trimmed their Western Division lead to a half game over the onrushing Kansas City Royals and California Angels.

The largest baseball crowd in Chicago history, 55,555, witnessed the Hat Day doubleheader. Another 2,608 persons who entered the park were given refunds.

In the second contest, Bobby Darwin, who collected three hits in the first game, provided Corbin with his victory cushion by slumping his fifth homer of the year with a mite aboard in the seventh. The blow helped send Eddie Fisher down to his third loss against four wins.

The Twins broke a scoreless tie in the fifth inning after Luis Alvarado fumbled Jim Holt's easy grounder; Phil Roof bent out an infield hit and Hal Carey singled home Holt.

Perez paces Reds win for split of twin bill

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Tony Perez doubled and homered to drive in two runs as the Cincinnati Reds edged the San Diego Padres, 3-2, in the second game of a Sunday doubleheader after dropping the opener, 2-1, to the six-hit pitching of Fred Norman.

Perez' homer, his sixth of the season, came off loser Mike Caldwell in the seventh inning and broke a 2-2 tie.

The Padres nicked Don Gullett for single runs in the first and second innings to take a 2-0 lead. However, the Reds tied it up in the fourth after two were out on Bobby Tolun's punt single, Johnny Bench's double which rightfielder Ivan Murrell kicked around for an error and a double by Perez.

Gullett was removed with two out in the ninth inning after issuing a walk to Derrell Thomas. Pinch-hitter Fred Kendall greeted reliever Pedro Borbon with a single, sending Thomas to third, and Tom Hall came in to get John Grubb to ground out for the final out. Gullett's victory was his fifth against two losses.

The Padres took advantage of an error by Bench on Norman's sacrifice bunt in the seventh inning to score their only two runs in the first game.

Bench's error came after rookie Dave Hilton had led off the seventh with a single. Norman bunted in front of the plate and when Bench missed the ball on the first grab, the Padre pitcher was safe at first. Enzo Hernandez then bunted safely to load the bases, and the first run of the inning scored as Ivan Murrell bounced into a double play. Leron Lee followed with a single to score Norman with the go-ahead run.

Braves split pair with Los Angeles

ATLANTA (UPI) — Al Downing tossed a three-hitter in the nightcap Sunday to pace the Los Angeles Dodgers to an 8-3 victory after the Atlanta Braves won the opener 3-2 in 10 innings on Hank Aaron's run-scoring single and the three-hit pitching of Phil Niekro.

Roy Cey hit a three-run homer in the first inning of the nightcap to spark a four-run inning for the Dodgers, and the Braves, despite two home runs by Darrell Evans, never got close again.

Downing, now 5-1, fared only one man over the minimum in the first six innings and that only because Willie Davis permitted Evans first homer to bounce off his glove and over the fence.

Detroit holds top spot with victory

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Aurelio Rodriguez snapped a second-inning tie with a two-run single and John Hiller provided standard relief pitching as the Detroit Tigers held onto first place in the American League East by defeating the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3 for a split in their doubleheader Sunday afternoon.

The Brewers won the first game 4-0 before 41,855 Ball Park fans when Don Money scored all the way from first on a single by Olin Brown in the fourth inning.

Alex Johnson turns on speed

DISPLAYING SPEED SELDOM seen when he was a member of the Angels, Ranger Alex Johnson flies to first in an effort to beat a hunt. The effort was wasted as Angel pitcher Clyde Wright fielded the ball and made the throw to Jim Spencer to beat Alex by a step and a half. (UPI Telephoto).

Jackie Stewart wins Belgian grand prix race

ZOLDER, Belgium (UPI) — Scotsman Jackie Stewart Sunday won the Belgian Formula 1 Grand Prix Sunday despite the hazardous racing surface "peeling off like an orange."

Frenchman Francois Cevert took second place to give the Tyrrell team a one-two victory.

Drivers said the track's controversial surface "peeled off like an orange" during the race. Seven drivers crashed on the "Perennin" curve but escaped injury. It was the same spot over which the drivers had threatened to boycott the race when the racing surface looked up in practice.

Stewart closed to within seven points of world champion Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil, who crawled across the line third in a neck-and-neck John Player Special Lotus.

Fittipaldi established the lap record of one minute, 24.9 seconds — 114.125 miles per hour for this tight 2.6 mile circuit while leading on the 36th lap.

But Stewart swept past four laps later and nobody could catch him. He finished 31 seconds ahead of Cevert, who worked his way back up the field after spinning in the 10th lap white-teaming.

Stewart completed the 70 laps in one hour, 42 minutes 13.4 seconds for an average speed of 107.7 miles per hour.

"The bad track surface really made it tricky in some spots," said Stewart, who won the South-African Grand Prix in March.

Peter Revson of Redondo Beach, Calif., who crashed his McLaren, said, "The surface peeled off like an orange. It was as if someone pulled a rug from under my wheels."

Stewart said Cevert would have won if the track had been in good condition. Other drivers to crash were Ronnie Peterson of Sweden in a John Player Special Lotus; George Follmer of Arcadia, Calif., in a Shadow; Britons Jackie Oliver in a Shadow; Mike Hailwood in a Surtees; Mike Butler in a March; and Frenchman Jean Jarier also in a March.

The leading three drivers lapped all the rest of the field. Italian Andrea de Adamich bought his Brabham in fourth and Austrians Nikki Lauda was fifth in his BRM, both one lap behind.

The Tecno finished sixth in his first outing of the year in the hands of New Zealander Chris Amon. He was three laps behind along with Denny Hulme of New Zealand in a McLaren.

Brazilian Carlos Pace, who was fourth on 20 laps, to go, lost his rear wing and dropped to eighth place.

Only 10 of the 23 starters were running at the end of the race.

After many hours of wrangling Saturday with the organ-

Braves split pair with Los Angeles

ATLANTA (UPI) — Al Downing tossed a three-hitter in the nightcap Sunday to pace the Los Angeles Dodgers to an 8-3 victory after the Atlanta Braves won the opener 3-2 in 10 innings on Hank Aaron's run-scoring single and the three-hit pitching of Phil Niekro.

Epstein traded

ANAHEIM (UPI) — The California Angels acquired first baseman Mike Epstein, a 26-year-old veteran who hit 28 home runs and drove in 70 runs for the world champion Oakland A's last season, in a five-player trade with the Texas Rangers Sunday.

The Angels sent Lloyd Allen, a 23-year-old righthanded pitcher with no record and a .38 ERA, and Jim Spencer, a 25-year-old first baseman batting .241, to Texas.

In addition to Epstein, California was given Rich Hand, a 24-year-old righthander, and Rick Stelmazek, a 24-year-old catcher.

"C.C." Club champion year after year.

Today, more men and women everywhere work more Canadian Club. New friends appreciate its gentle manners, the pleasing way it behaves in mixed company. Old friends admire its unmistakable character. A taste not matched by any whisky, anywhere.

The taste that's ahead of its time. Taste why, tonight.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAY 22, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A very good day and evening to get your affairs in excellent shape. There is just enough opposition to make you want to triumph over circumstances and really accomplish a great deal that advances your ambitions and progress considerably. Your day also to organize what requires careful and practical attention.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Keep busy in the active world outside, furthering your career aim and be alert to new opportunities. A superior makes good suggestions that should be taken into consideration and used. Avoid one who pickers.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get the data you need from those whose experience has been different from your own. Listen attentively to others and pick up good ideas that can be used in the future. Avoid that tendency to splurge.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can handle any responsibilities you have intelligently now and quickly, so get at them early and plow right through. Come to a greater accord with mate who is in a most favorable mood. Cultivate a larger sense of humor.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Know what is most expected by associates and try to please them so there is greater understanding and profit. You can reconcile with one who meant much to you before this. Contact some good relative you have not seen in a long time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Put your shoulder to the wheel and get all that work behind you with speed and precision. Add new pieces to your wardrobe that are attractive, make you look your best. Iron out personal problems easily.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Put those creative ideas to work and get excellent results with them. Secure the aid of a higher-up who can be most helpful. Have a frank talk with mate and reach a far better understanding. Think calmly, intelligently.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You want to make changes at home, but it would be best first to talk this over with family. Have a more secure foundation for your daily living. Your activity now can make it so. Don't reach an impasse by losing your temper.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are able to communicate with regular associates about your joint affairs and have greater success in the future. Handle your correspondence well. Get into statements and reports that are important.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can get a clever business person to understand your views now and give you the cooperation you need. Be sure to study new outlets that can increase your income in the days ahead. Think constructively.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Go after those personal goals that mean so much to you with an excellent chance of gaining them. Make sure you accept invitations or that you yourself do some entertaining of right people. Get quick results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are in a most practical mood and should contact experts so you know how to advance more quickly in the future. Forget about going out to visit and stick to the productive. Tomorrow is a better day for such.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan to accept invitations extended to you today, when you are in the right mood for sociability. Know just what your desires really are and then you can go after them with vim and vigor. Think kindly of others.

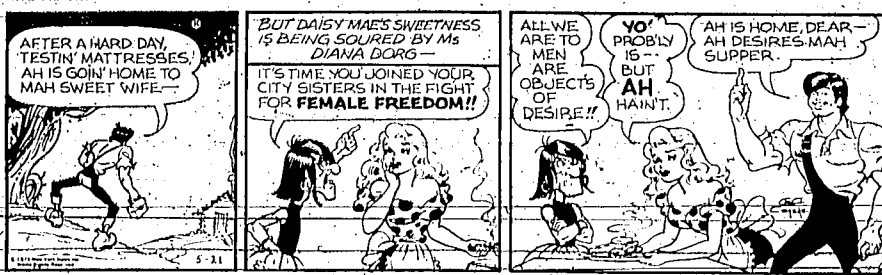

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people who is quite cold and calculating, so be sure to teach early in life to be more thoughtful of others and to help those who are not as lucky. Ideal chart for any of the practical professions where good judgment is required. There can be much personal happiness in this chart. Many fine talents here, also, particularly in the arts. Mate should be picked through astrology. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Earlier you retire from the job, the longer you'll live, probably. Or such be the indications in a recent study among physicians in Britain. That doctor there who stops work at age 65 is known to live only two more years, typically. But he who quits at age 60 can be expected to live another 13 years.

Fewer than half of all the citizens nationwide have stayed even so much as one night in a hotel. It's believed a rabid skunk can't live its odoriferous volley. Regis's Thesaurus lists 107 synonyms for hate, 404 for love. Encouraging, what? There's more water in lettuce than in whole milk, remarkably. It's also true the average woman married once has more children than the average woman married twice.

COMEDIANS

Numerous comedians contend they'd rather work to women. The girls laugh more readily, they say. Whenever an audience breaks up during a routine, it's almost invariably some female who starts the laughter, rarely a man.

Do you know why birds don't eat monarch butterflies? Because said butterflies feed on milkweed. That's somewhat poisonous to most animals. And any fancy fowl with a bowlful of it gets suddenly scurried and goes plump.

That profession wherein the ladies have gained the greatest ground of late is bartending, please note. About 20 years ago, only 6 per cent of the nation's mixologists were women. Now, the barmaids make up 21 per cent.

MOST CHILDREN

Q: "Any record as to what man fathered the most children?" A: King Solomon is said to have had 700 wives and 300 concubines. Presumably, he merited that top fatherhood distinction, although the number of his offspring remains unknown. More recently, Emperor Meiji of Japan had 300 wives, 700 concubines, leaving upon his death in 1912 at age 61 exactly 548 sons and 340 daughters.

IQ tests in penitentiaries indicate three out of four murderers possess somewhat less than average intelligence. Pomona College researchers found that out. And they concluded therefrom that most homicides are committed because the killers lack sufficient savvy to deal with trouble except by violence. They're just none too smart, say the scholars.

Those Scots are famous for their homespun tweeds, true. But they didn't invent the weaving of same. Arab sailors, beached thereabouts when the Spanish Armada was whipped, taught them.

Even though we run a simple business, we compete right across the board. We compete with 3 franchises including Toyota imports, all the Plymouth models, and the famous 4 wheel drive Jeeps.

We compete. And we don't take second class to anybody on used car values either.

The advantage or advantages of dealing with us will be apparent to you from the moment you walk in the door.
