Gem boys' ranch staff quits jobs

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News Writer

RUPERT — The entire house parent staff of the Idaho Youth Ranch resigned Friday because of dissatisfaction with the ranch administration.

In addition, Mack Moore, chaplain at the ranch, resigned because, he said, "I did not feel I was getting adequate administrative help to carry out a ministry program."

The resignations came on the heels of executive director Lee Childs' resignation and the replacement of ranch manager Dwayne Peterson on Thursday. Peterson's dismissal came as a result of disagreements with the board, he said, while Childs said he quit to "spend more time with my family."

Events leading up to the resignations began about a month and a half ago when the Idaho attorney general's office in Boise received reports of child abuse from both inside and outside the privately-run, charitable home for troubled boys.

The office began investigations, according to Asst. Atty. Gen. Paul Smith, and discovered foundations for the complaints which they brought to the attention of the ranch's board of directors. The board, according to Smith, acted immediately and fully cooperated with his office.

At that time, several weeks ago, one of the teachers at the ranch was dismissed.

Two weeks ago, the board met, according to director of the board Clyde Greenwell, and Peterson was dismissed from his position as ranch manager. Greenwell said the dismissal came as a result of Peterson's failure to coordinate ranch programs effectively.

Childs, who had the power to fire and hire at the ranch, then rehired Peterson as his assistant.

Wednesday, Childs resigned as executive director because, he said, "I was tired. I wanted to spend some time with my family." With Childs' resignation, Peterson's position was terminated, according to Greenwell.

William Mitchell was appointed interim ranch manager at that meeting. Mitchell, who has been at the ranch for three years, and "filled every position except chaplain," said he felt "very capable" of acting as ranch manager.

Wednesday, several of the house parents met with the board to voice their dissatisfaction with the ranch administration. Greenwell said no action was taken because only he and one other board member, Walter Howard, were present.

Thursday, the board made the announcement of Childs' resignation and Peterson's replacement. Friday, all of the house parents — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Morgan, and Larry Ahlstrom — turned in their resignations.

Pratt, who said he did not attend Wednesday's meeting because "I didn't have anything to say," said Friday he quit because, "I don't agree with the philosophy of the men running the program now."

"The program just isn't what I want to work with since Childs and Peterson have left," he said.

Dixie tornado toll reaches 5

By United Press International

Killer tornadoes swooped out of stormy skies over Oklahoma and Florida Saturday. Memorial Day weekend twisters also tore at Arkansas, Georgia and Kansas.

At least five persons were killed and more than two dozen others injured by the whirling funnel clouds.

The tiny community of Keefeton, Okla., was almost blown off the map. The four dead and at least 16 injured were found among a rubble of broken propane tanks, gas pumps and dead horses.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol immediately cordoned off the town, 10 miles south of Muskogee, Okla., because of broken and leaking gas lines.

One man was killed and his wife injured when a twister overturned his mobile home at Crestview, Fla. The town was one of a half-dozen Florida Panhandle communities hit by twisters Saturday.

An undetermined number of persons were injured at Pontene, Ark., when a tornado hit a trailer park late Saturday. Police in nearby Rogers, Ark., said the extent of damage and injuries could not be immediately assessed because of live lines torn down by the twister.

A tornado near Valdosta, Ga., smashed windows in a motel office and injured four persons. The same twister damaged a service station and restaurant and another one hit at Twin Lakes, Ga., 10 miles south of Valdosta. Tornadoes also were reported at Waycross and two locations in Brooks County, Ga.

Parasol shelters hot lab

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 1 astronauts successfully unfurled a giant parasol over America's first space station Saturday night in a crucial attempt to shelter the hot, dry workshop from the sun.

They reported with initial frustration that the fabric of the orange and silver umbrella was so wrinkled it had failed to unfold properly, and worried it might not provide enough shade. But mission control assured them engineers on the ground were satisfied.

Raising the 22-by-24-foot parasol was the highest priority task assigned to Charles "Pete" Conrad, Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz, the first crew to visit the station. NASA officials had chosen the device as the primary method for salvaging America's $2.6 billion Skylab program.

Jack Kinzler, chief of technical services at Houston's Johnson Space Center, and the inventor of the parasol, predicted the sun would warm the wrinkled plastic and nylon fabric and allow it to spread out fully.

Engineers said it would be sometime Sunday before they could tell how much the parasol would cool Skylab. But less than two hours after it was erected, temperatures in the 118-foot-long research station had already begun to drop a little.

The big, lopsided umbrella was an emergency replacement for Skylab's main shield against solar heat, which tore off during launch May 14 and rendered the then-unmanned station uninhabitable.

Without the sunshield, air temperatures inside Skylab's cabin soared to 125 degrees Fahrenheit. Conrad, who entered the cabin for the first time Saturday afternoon, said he had to wear special gloves to keep from burning his hands. He called it "the fiery workshop."

"I'd just like to say that you guys did a tremendous job," Hartsfield said. "You've got everybody down here smiling now that you've got that parasol out."

Conrad and Weitz deployed the parasol by pushing it out through an airlock in Skylab's sun-blackened golden side. Kerwin watched their progress through a window in the Apollo command module locked to one end of the space station, recording the deployment on video tape.

The accident occurred on a slight curve about 10 p.m. Investigation was continuing early today.

Symington queries Haig dual status

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., asked the Defense Department Saturday to explain how Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. could retain his active military status while serving as chief of staff at the White House.

Symington, acting chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he had written a letter to the Pentagon contending that Haig's acceptance of the civilian job automatically terminates his military appointment.

Symington pointed to a federal law forbidding any active military officer from holding "a civil office by election or appointment, whether under the United States, a territory or possession, or a state. The acceptance of such a civil office or the exercise of its functions by such an officer terminates his military appointment."

Haig was Army vice chief of staff when Nixon named him May 4 as his chief aide, replacing H.R. Haldeman, who resigned April 30 because of the Watergate scandal.

Symington said no clear explanation was made at the time whether Haig was ending his military career.

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — A helicopter carrying Secret Service agents assigned to President Nixon went down in the Atlantic Saturday night off Grand Cay, the Bahamas. Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said one man aboard was killed.

Warren said divers were at the scene of the crash searching for the missing man.

Haldeman says top aides drew plot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman has sworn he learned some weeks ago that John N. Mitchell and other key officials secretly discussed a specific proposal for bugging the Democrats' Watergate offices early in 1972, authoritative sources said Saturday.

The sources said Ehrlichman testified that he was told the plan for electronic surveillance at the Watergate was brought up at the last of a series of three or four meetings arranged to discuss campaign intelligence gathering.

The first of these meetings was said to have taken place late in December, 1971, or early in January, 1972, and to have been attended by Mitchell, then attorney general; White House counsel John W. Dean; Job S. Magruder, the deputy manager of President Nixon's re-election campaign; and G. Gordon Liddy, a former White House aide.

Some or all of these four persons were said to have been present at the later meetings and Ehrlichman said he was told Mitchell definitely was at the one where the Watergate bugging proposal was discussed — in February or March of 1972.

The sources said they could not positively say who Ehrlichman had identified as the source for his information, but that they thought he said it had come mainly from Magruder.

The sources said H. R. Haldeman, who resigned April 30 as White House chief of staff, was said to have testified separately along the same lines, although with less specific information.

Both Haldeman and Ehrlichman, who also resigned his White House job April 30, were said to have provided their information in making pre-trial depositions this week in the Democrats' $8.4 million civil damage suit against the Committee for the Re-Election of the President.

For their part, Haldeman and Ehrlichman both denied that they themselves had any advance knowledge of the Watergate conspiracy, the sources said, adding however that both former presidential aides refused to answer any questions about an alleged effort to cover up the June 17, 1972, incident.

Mitchell has acknowledged that he told a federal grand jury investigating the Watergate bugging and break-in that he attended about three meetings early in 1972 where bugging was discussed. But he said he rejected all eavesdropping proposals and did not specify whether he had been present for any discussion of the Watergate plan.

The sources said Ehrlichman testified that two other proposals for political intelligence were presented for consideration by Mitchell and the others early in 1972, but that they were rejected out of hand. The sources could not identify these other proposals.

The sources said Ehrlichman testified that he first was told about the secret meetings late last March or early in April.

Equal treatment plan stated

BOISE (UPI) — A legislative inter-committee Friday decided all public employees should be treated alike under any legislation passed to authorize collective bargaining for them.

Testimony for and against collective bargaining for public employees was presented before the committee meeting in the Statehouse.

The committee agreed to appoint an advisory committee and then made the policy decision.

A spokesman for the commissioners and clerks said any public employee bargaining legislation would create problems at the county level and asked the committee to recommend against it.

A representative of the School Trustees Association pointed to the professional negotiation law now on the books and asked that school teachers be excluded from any law adopted.

A motion by Sen. V.K. Branney, R-Boise, urged the legislature to treat all public employees alike and put them all under the same sections of the code that is authorized collective bargaining for them. His motion was passed without opposition.

Sen. Robert Kinghorn, D-Pocatello, said attitudes toward representation likely will vary around the state. But he said many public employees need help.

"We have public employees in this state working full time, year round and yet their families still qualify for welfare," Kinghorn said.

Attorney George Greenfield, Boise, speaking for the state AFL-CIO said there was a real question of how far the legislature can go in delegating powers historically held by elected officials.

He urged the appointment of an advisory committee to dig into the legal and constitutional ramifications before legislation is drawn, however.

William C. Roden, Boise, legislative consultant for the Idaho State Employees Association, raised questions about the scope of collective bargaining.

"There aren't just two sides to this issue," Roden said. "Those who feel a vehicle is needed have different ideas on what type of vehicle it should be. It is not just a for and against proposition."

The committee instructed its chairman, Rep. H. Fred Koch, R-Boise, to appoint the advisory committee and called for an information program to alert the 32,000 public employees in Idaho of the committee's study.

Driver of the vehicle was Juan Gonzalez Silva, 20, Twin Falls Labor Camp. He and his passengers, Mary Lou Hernandez, 15, Jesus Hernandez, 21, Sandra Salinas, 20, and Robert Hernandez, 18, escaped with minor cuts and abrasions.

Officers said the car was demolished.

Gem problems study started

BOISE (UPI) — Problems of growth, revenue-sharing and the number of local government units will be considered in a study initiated Friday by a coalition of Idaho representatives.

The study will consider those and other topics related to strengthening local governments in Idaho.

A steering committee, chaired by Ken Pursley, Boise, was selected and given responsibility for hiring staff and legal counsel to look into aspects of applying for funds for the study.

According to Glenn Nichols of the State Planning Agency the reason for forming the group was to pick up the responsibilities being dropped by the federal government.

"The federal game plan is clear," Nichols said. "It calls for the flow of decision making power back from the federal level to the state and local levels."

He said the group would be looking at some of the things facing local governments, examining laws as they pertain to local units of government to see if the cities and counties have the flexibility needed to respond to needs.

Nichols said if the study finds they are not adequate, recommendations will be made to the legislature for reorganization of the local governments.

TF officials study bids for project

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners Friday took under advisement until June 1 bids for improving the county courthouse and old hospital building.

Bids on three proposed projects were opened Friday morning. To be financed through revenue sharing funds, the projects include cleaning and repairing the exterior of the courthouse and old hospital building, rewiring the courthouse and replacing windows in the courthouse.

County Commission Chairman William L. (Bill) Chancey said the bids are generally in line and will be considered with those to be awarded announced June 1 in meetings with contractors beginning at 3 p.m.

For cleaning of the exterior of the courthouse, Max Stuart and Co., Twin Falls, submitted a bid of $55,640, including the old hospital.

Busy Bee Co., Norman Herzinger, bid $20,330 base price plus extra work at a rate of $0.70 per hour for labor and material with a maximum charge of $1,750. The same firm bid $14,994 for exterior of the old hospital building with the same rate for labor and material for extra work and a maximum of $1,750. Nu Life, Twin Falls, bid $23,500 for the courthouse exterior work.

A bid of $19,299 from Busy Bee was received for window remodeling and a bid of $22,890 for the same work by Pete J. Riba.

On electrical wiring, only one bid was received. Spotwell Electric offered $21,332.30 for rewiring in the basement, first, second and third floors to bring the electrical load capacity up to standards required by modern electrical office appliances and air conditioning if added in the future.

In addition to the Twin Falls City County Airport, others in the state meeting the new federal standards are Boise, Idaho Falls, Lewiston and Pocatello. Other major fields in other Northwest states receiving certificates of approval included Spokane, Seattle-Tacoma, Walla Walla, Olympia and Pullman in Washington, Pendleton, Portland, International, Eugene and Salem in Oregon. Under new federal law, if requirements had not been met then the field would have been closed to airline traffic.

TWIN FALLS — New concession agreements with the three car rental agencies based at the Twin Falls City-County Airport have been recommended by the airport commission.

The recommendation, which is expected to be approved by city councilmen and county commissioners and also the rental agencies will call for a 10-year contract calling for an annual minimum guarantee to Joslin Field of $1,200 or 10 percent of the concessionaire's gross revenue, whichever is greater. This revenue would be derived from car rentals made at the airport for each year during the term of the lease.

The rental agencies are Hertz, National and Avis.

His father died some time ago. The little part poodle was a gift from his grandmother. John's luck has all been bad this year. He saved his money to buy a bicycle and it was stolen last fall shortly after school started. It has never been recovered.

When last seen the puppy was west of Blue Lakes Boulevard in the vicinity of the school. Anyone finding the dog is asked to call the Carters at 733-5168.

The Bicycle Boom

Henry Ford, who rode a bicycle before he put America on automobile wheels...

More than 14 million bicycles were sold in this country last year...

One thing troubles both the FDA and the bike riders. Riding bikes isn't safe on our streets and highways...

The FDA maintains "in many cases the bicycle itself is a major cause of these accidents..."

The government proposes to ban those extreme high rise handle bars on some bikes...

These improvements can be effected promptly. They apply to any bike intended for sale to children under 10...

A group, calling itself Friends for Bicycology, asks in full-page newspaper ads: "Where are the Bikeways?"

Bikeways, radiating from residential neighborhoods, would resolve the endless arguments over mom's taxi service...

That's some bargain these days! Our town can build a bikeway now.

Graduation

Graduation essays and orations of schools and colleges formerly provided an opportunity for a great company of brilliant young folk...

Still, the world usually gets a glimpse at this time of what the modern student thinks. The youth of a former generation found it easier to tell the world what to do...

Graduation was then a time of the utmost hope and confidence. The graduate had a fairly clear idea of what was the trouble with the world...

Today the graduate looks out on a baffled, perplexed and selfish world. The hopes which his parents entertained at his age seem visionary now.

MR. SPECTATOR

From The Hill

There are towns which have been built in valleys with large hills towering over them. On warm, sunny days such heights are made for contemplation.

As the solitary viewer traces the town and its geographic features, a feeling of great peace can descend. From this distance, man's habitations and his works seem well-ordered.

The rectangles of the blocks of houses are like pigeonholes ready for the storage of life's meanings. The rivers and the streets seem to fit the contours of the land...

On these heights it is hard to reconcile the existence of wars. It is only when you are back in the narrower confines of the city's streets, marching with the masses of humanity, that wars become a reality again.

At times, history seems little but a recital of wars past. There are philosophers who argue, in fact, that war is as "normal" as peace.

Memorial Day, of course, is a day set aside to bow a moment over the war dead of the past. It has grown to encompass all those who made the supreme sacrifice. Our national oblation flies over their graves and they are decorated with blooms. A rifle volley rips out and the lonely voice of a bugle sounds "Taps."

They are remembered, we tell the war dead. And again we renew our promise that they will not be died in vain and that we are doing our puny best to prevent others from sharing their fate.

We look about us and see much of the world in turmoil, despite all the efforts of the past three decades to replace international strife with a just world order. Despite continuing challenges and occasional setbacks, world leadership remains in our hands. But leadership has its price, and we can be sure that, having surmounted present challenges, yet others await us over the horizon.

On that hilltop, conflict seemed remote. Down here, we know it is all too real and immediate. The challenge is continuing, and our response must be strength — of spirit and moral fiber as well as in arms. In this fashion, must we keep faith with ourselves and those Americans we honor.

ANDREW TULLY

About The Inflation Front

WASHINGTON — On the inflation front, President Nixon has no choice but to baffle the public and admit he was wrong. If the economy is to survive the threat of a recession on top of galloping inflation, he must reimpose strict mandatory controls on prices and wages and temporarily ban the export of commodities in short supply. Some vital gear was out of whack in the shrewd Nixon mind when he deferred to the free-market arguments of Treasury Secretary George Shultz last January and decreed an end to Phase II. The controls of Phase II were not perfect, but they had worked better than expected and indeed had been praised by both business and labor. More important, they had been praised by both business and labor. More important, they had begun to slow the rate of inflation when Nixon foolishly tossed them in the ashcan. At this writing, John Connally is expected to be the hero of a Nixon switch back to across-the-board controls. The Texan may even have turned the trick by the time this piece is read, because he returned to Washington last week with a second installment of Phase II in his pocket. In effect Connally's "Consultant" status places him in command of the battle against inflation.

That makes sense. It was Connally, as Treasury Secretary, who conceived the wage-price freeze of August 1971, and then led the way into Phase II. Incidentally, Richard Nixon then was persuaded by Shultz, Roy Ash, head of the Office of Management and Budget, and Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, to adopt the disastrous honor system of Phase III.

Considering Nixon's reputation as a pragmatic politician and pulse-feeler, his inflation policies seem incomprehensible. He listened to his businessmen instead of politicians like John Connally. Once again, Democratic orators were able to take the stump as protectors of the people, even though their attempts in Congress to corral the President back to controls were nauseatingly feeble.

At any rate, the public's indignation over the high cost of living remains unabated in its fury. A whopping 62 per cent of those polled have just told George Gallup that inflation is the most important problem facing the country today.

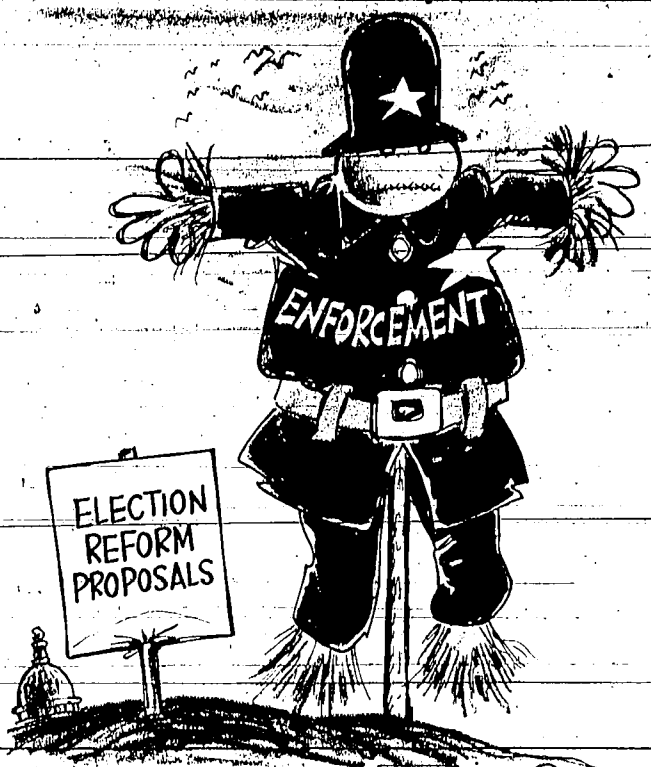

When one reflects upon the finding's other concerns, this finding by Gallup is almost fantastic. Although crime, drug abuse and the Watergate scandal make frightening daily headlines, none of these problems comes close to inflation as a matter of public anxiety. Only 17 per cent of the polled named crime as the No. 1 problem, and only 16 per cent named drug abuse and Watergate.

Well, the administration asked for it. The median estimate of what a family of four needs per week to make ends meet is now at a record high of $140 — a 50 per cent increase since 1967. On an annual basis, the rate of inflation now stands at 10 per cent. Meanwhile, the Wall Street Journal quotes authoritative sources as gloomily noting signs that a "full-fledged recession" may be ahead.

That would tear it for Richard Nixon and, more significantly, for Republicans in next year's elections. Until now, the one silver lining has been the continuing expansion of the economy. Prices have climbed, but so has the Gross National Product. If the felony of high prices is now compounded by a business slowdown, Katie bar the door.

In the midst of his troubles, Richard Nixon presumably still finds time to read polls. If so, he must have found a horrible fascination in the latest Louis Harris job which found Democrats have a 48 to 35 per cent lead nationwide over Republicans in the 1974 Congressional elections. Obviously, the GOP's "New Majority" is having angry thoughts about what the Democrats are now gleefully calling "the mess in Washington."

Year Of Europe

President Nixon wants this to be the "Year of Europe." Having opened doors in the East it's logical that he should next seek to mend fences in the West.

Also, President Nixon has always considered himself most capable in foreign diplomacy — least patient and less effective when dealing with housekeeping chores.

Traveling Europe will be a paid vacation from his desk job problems of inflation, crime, ecology and Watergate.

But his paid vacation could cost us much more. There are two kinds of government "extravagance": I cannot feel the same about moneys invested over there and moneys spent over there.

The billions we earmark for space exploration do not go to the moon — those dollars stay home, recirculating through the pockets of American workers in Seattle and Houston, Wichita and Fort Worth, San Diego and Cape Canaveral.

But the dollars we spend foreign-aiding, our sometimes allies pile up over there to be used against us in the world marketplace.

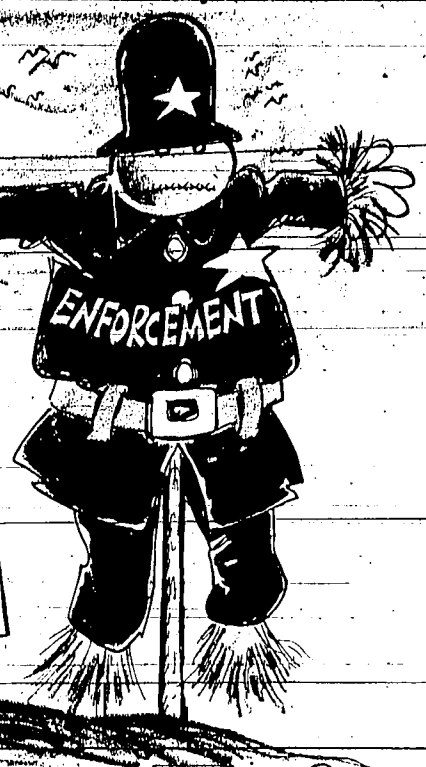

And while President Nixon has ordered curtailed or closed 274 military installations in the United States, he has indicated no interest in phasing out our 3,400 military bases in other countries.

President Nixon's grand tour of Western Europe's capitals this fall is intended to improve our relations with those nations, relations heretofore dependent in large part on how much you and I are willing to pay to see them smile our way. Europeans with their Common Market, perhaps a first step in the direction of a "United States of Europe," presently are preoccupied with their own collective welfare, excluding us.

This affords the perfect opportunity for us — we who have always championed the theory of European unity — to put to the test its ability not only to prosper but to defend itself.

European governments want our 315,000 troops stationed there, to stay because of all those Yankee dollars their presence yields.

Game Plan

WASHINGTON — My friend Moonslinger is a skeptic by nature and the other day as we were having a drink together at the Press Club he said, "Nixon's credibility has reached a new low. You don't know what to believe any more."

"I always believe the President of the United States. That's how I was brought up." "Yeah, but this is different. Every day you read the paper witnesses say Nixon knew more about the Watergate than he did before."

"We used to have a saying in France," I told Moonslinger, "Hail soit mal y pense" which means "Evil to him who thinks evil."

"Don't you have it any more?" Moonslinger asked. "Not since Pompidou was elected."

"Well, anyway," he persisted, "what worries me is that if we can't believe the President on the Watergate, how can we believe him on Vietnam? For example, how can we be sure that we have 'Peace with Honor'?" I said angrily, "The President would never lie to us about something like that."

"But suppose, just suppose, there isn't any 'Peace with Honor' there and the South Vietnamese and North Vietnamese are still fighting?"

"Impossible," I said. "After 10 long years we have achieved a peace in Indochina that everyone can live with."

"But let's say, just for argument's sake, that something went wrong. Suppose after Kissinger's meeting in Paris with Le-Duc Tho, the President goes on the air and says he has just received new information that we don't have 'Peace with Honor' in Vietnam. Will the American people believe him?"

"Of course they will."

"All right, let's go one step further," Moonslinger said. "Suppose he says because of this new information he will be obligated to start bombing North Vietnam again because he doesn't want to be the first impeached President in the history of the United States to lose a war?"

"Then the American people will have to support him, unless — of course, you want Cambodia to fall."

"Nobody wants Cambodia to fall," Moonslinger said. "But because of the President's credibility problem, many Americans may not believe him when he says he has to bomb again. This could bring the students and anti-demonstrators out into the streets."

"That's where the President likes them," I said. "He wants his enemies out there in the streets where he can see them."

"Okay, then you have demonstrations, riots, arrests and Jane Fonda. The President declares a national emergency, and, wham! everyone forgets about Watergate."

"Moonslinger, are you trying to tell me the President would bomb North Vietnam to take our minds off a domestic scandal in his own Administration?"

"Why not? What has he got to lose?"

"It's too far fetched," I said adamantly.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Athlete's Heart

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is athlete's heart? How does the condition occur and what are the consequences? Can strenuous weight-lifting cause it? — J. A.

You'll have to ask the person who used the term, because medically it doesn't mean anything except a strong healthy heart.

The term has been bandied about for a good many years by people who seemed to think it meant something, but it is NOT a synonym for some kind of heart disease.

Certain changes in heart rate and possibly heart size may occur with continued, strenuous exertion, but both return to normal afterward.

In other words, strenuous athletics does not damage a healthy heart — although, obviously, individuals with valvular heart disease or coronary artery disease should not engage in violent exercise.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send your booklet, "Ear Noises, Their Causes and Cures." I enclose 15 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

My husband has always had tender ears (at least, I think so). For several years his hearing hasn't been the best and lately he complains of noises, and it seems to me his hearing is growing much worse. He is 78 but you would never guess it. Mrs. R.L.H.

Ear noises (hissing, buzzing, all sorts of odd rackets) are a fairly common annoyance as we grow older — even if we don't look at it. This is more frequent among folks whose hearing is not as acute as it used to be.

There's no single cause. It can be high blood pressure, ear defects, wax, some medications (aspirin is one). Sometimes you can pinpoint any specific cause. A lot of cases can be helped; some can't. A philosophical attitude plus a few simple tricks can do a lot to make the noises less objectionable.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 45 and have just acquired a full lower denture. It is necessary for me to secure it with denture glue and I must apply it several times a day.

Although I am very cautious in applying and removing the glue, it is unavoidable that I swallow a certain quantity. What I want to know is, since this glue is formulated to stick to wet tissue (gums), how safe can it be to use constantly?

What is the danger of buildup in the digestive system? What is to prevent my insides becoming coated? — L.A. Fear not.

The glue is made of certain gums that are inert, that is they are inactive, chemically speaking, and do not readily combine with other substances. When swallowed, such substances merely pass through the digestive tract harmlessly.

The problem you are having is not uncommon with new dentures. Often the mouth structure is slightly changed after fitting with such a plate. Adjustment can be made after a short time of wearing and you may not need to use adhesive.

Are Promises Kept? This soldier Says No!

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
 Editor, Times-News

Ruben Galindo is a mighty unhappy member of the armed forces of the United States. Unhappy because, he says, promises are not kept, there is no real privacy, soldiers are stripped naked in searches for hidden drugs, "shakedowns" and room searches are commonplace.

He is in Germany right now and says "this is a big mess I've gotten into and I don't want anybody else to make the same mistake that I made."

For instance, Galindo points out things "they never tell you when you enlist." Among them is the promise you will get the school you ask for.

"That's true," he wrote, "but that's as far as it goes. Chances are you'll never see that job after you're through school."

Galindo's comments — actually he is PFC Ruben Galindo, Serial Number 518-64-8704, and his address is HHB First Bn. 76th Artillery, APO, New York 09701 — were received in a letter addressed to the Editor of the Times-News.

In a preamble to his main letter, PFC Galindo wrote:

"I have been living in the Eden-Hazleton area for the past eight years. I am currently stationed in Germany. Enclosed is a letter about the problems in the unit I am assigned to. It would give me a great pleasure if you printed it in the Times-News to show the problems some people might have when they are in the service."

"The Army needs good men so perhaps if you could print this letter it might help those going into the service from just rushing in without thinking."

"This is a big mess I've gotten into and I don't want to see anybody else make the mistake I made."

His letter of comment was headed "they never tell you when you enlist" and it follows in full:

"I would like to tell the people what the Army is doing to the soldiers in Germany. They tell you when you enlist that you get the school you ask for. That's true but that's as far as it goes. Chances are you'll never see that job after you are through the school."

"They say you get privacy, then they take your door off. Why? Because they find a pipe and some pipe cleaners in your room and automatically they accuse you of using the pipe to smoke hashish. They take whole Battalions and make them strip in the gym to see if you have any drugs taped to your body."

"They make you take urine tests once a week. They give you shakedowns and tear your room apart. Then they take your clothes that are hung up and check them to see if you have hidden drugs on them."

"Instead of hanging up your clothes or giving them to you, they throw them on the floor whether they are clean or not."

"They make you fill sand bags on Christmas Eve. They march you to the parade field Easter Sunday for a formation in which they tell you the same crap they have put out the day before."

"They make you take orders from NCO's and officers who could care less about the Army and what it stands for. They make you work in unsafe conditions. We cannot argue because they give us Article 15's for disobeying an order."

"They make you work in the motor pool during winter. There are no lights and no heat. The NCO's and officers have often stated that they had better facilities during the second World War."

"Then they call the Post Engineers to come fix the lights and heat. Two or three weeks later they break down again. When you complain, little or nothing is done to improve the problem. Then they wonder why the morality in the Battalion is low."

"They are closing bases in the States when there are troops in Germany who are sitting here and doing nothing and are carried as excess."

"There are soldiers here who have had to send their families home because they can't afford to keep them here. T-5's and above are furnished with quarters in which to live. SP-4's and below, with families, have to go to housing referral or go to look for houses on their own."

"They tell you you ought to travel and see the country. But how can you? You're never sure what the dollar is worth."

"They do not tell you about the serious drug problem in the Army, especially in Germany where hashish and other drugs are plentiful. They don't tell you about the racial problems."

"There have been many racial disturbances but the Army, does little or nothing about it. They don't tell you when you go out at night, that chances are you will pay outrageous prices for things off post."

"They do not tell you of the chances of being robbed or beaten up or both. All these problems have been happening in the unit to which I am assigned. This is supposed to be one of the better units in Germany."

"Would you join the army if you knew you were going to get stuck in a unit like this one, or countless others all over Germany?"

"I am not downgrading Germany, but the commanders who have failed to say anything about these problems."

"This letter is directed at the Army as a whole. I've been in the Army 15 months."

"I wrote this letter to let the people know about the Army you never hear about when you enlist."

"Please print this letter so people can think twice before making a decision about enlisting in the United States Army. Would you want to go through all this for the next three years?"

Story Behind Idahoan's FBI Move

Call For Repeal

Editor, Times-News:

I would like to urge your readers to write to their Congressmen and Senators in Washington, D. C. to solicit their support in REPEALING the Williams-Steiger Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, better known as O.S.H.A.

The Act was named for and introduced by Senator Harrison Williams of New Jersey and Congressman William Steiger of Wisconsin and was signed into law by Richard Nixon. This Act printed its regulations and documents 284 pages in the Federal Register on May 29, 1971 soon after the Act became law.

The Act explains that Congress "finds that personal injuries and illnesses arising out of work situations impose a substantial burden upon, and are a hindrance to, interstate commerce in terms of lost production, wage loss, medical expenses, and disability compensation payments." And therefore, each employer "shall furnish to each of his employees employment and a place of employment which are free from recognized hazards that are causing or are likely to cause death or serious physical harm to his employees."

The Act applies to every employer and employee in the United States down to the part time delivery boy in the mom and pop grocery store. But it does not include the United States or political subdivision of a State, which means that the government is exempt from the law it is imposing on private businesses.

How does the Act work? The Secretary of Labor issues various safety and health standards, which has force of law 90 days after being published in the Federal Register (do any of you business men read the Federal Register?). If he wishes to change, he does so by the same procedure.

The Compliance Officer can enter any business at any time that is reasonable and without warning, but he decides what is reasonable. Along these lines, it is revealing to recall that one thing "liberals" have been complaining about is "no-knock" legislation. Under these laws policemen have the power to break into suspected places without warning usually to prevent narcotics addicts and pushers from flushing away the evidence. The "liberals" have been complaining this is in violation of our constitutional rights. But under O.S.H.A., applauded by "liberals", the Compliance Officer can force his way unannounced into somebody's business — without warrant — and force the owner to produce proof that he isn't in violation of this Act.

The tour is conducted by "workaround", on which the Compliance Officer is accompanied by employer, his agent, or a representative of the employees.

The Act says, "Any employee or representative of employees who believe that a violation of a safety or health standard exists that threatens physical harm, or that an imminent danger exists, may request an inspection by giving notice to the Secretary or his authorized representative of such violation or danger."

Any such notice shall be reduced to writing, shall set forth with reasonable particularity the grounds for the notice, and shall be signed by the employees or representative of employees and copy shall be provided the employer or his agent no later than at the time of inspection, except that, upon the request of the person giving such notice, his name and the names of individual employees referred to therein shall not appear in such copy or on any record published, released, or made available pursuant to subsection (g) of this section.

The employee need not be a current one. He could be one that got mad and quit on his own and may be out to "hang" the businessman. There are "serious and non-serious violations". Non-serious may have a penalty up to $1,000, but a serious violation must carry a penalty up to $10,000. Here again, the Compliance Officer is making the decision and always keep in mind that he is appointed by the government and possibly doesn't have the slightest idea of how the individual business is run.

Soon after the inspection, the Compliance Officer sends the employer a list of citations in which he has fifteen days to contest. If he does contest, O.S.H.A. hears his complaints and provides "judges" to act accordingly. This is evidence that the Commission is unconstitutional because it violates the principle of the separation of powers.

Finally, soon after the inspection O.S.H.A. sends the employer, along with the "citations", a series of "abatement dates" by which those violations must be corrected. If the employer fails to satisfy O.S.H.A. by these given dates, he can be fined $1,000 a day until he does so.

Picture the simple western cowboy and his horse. After O.S.H.A. gets through protecting him he becomes a modern day gladiator.

WASHINGTON — The angry resignations of three veteran officials close to J. Edgar Hoover, while denuding the troubled Federal Bureau of Investigation of top leadership, was an essential first step toward breaking the FBI's present paralysis.

Experts who recognize the bureau's crisis have long believed that removal of the Hoover clique was step No. 1. That suddenly is well along the road. Step No. 2, the belated installation of a permanent successor to Hoover, may be long delayed as another result of the Watergate scandal's general immobilization of government.

In the meantime, the malaise of the FBI carries severe implications for national security. This menace is posed by a former FBI official: would not a hostile foreign power greatly expand its espionage here when both the FBI and CIA are wracked by demoralization and paralyzed leadership?

The problem any FBI director will face as long as the bureau's headquarters are infested by Hoover proteges was brought home a month ago shortly after William D. Ruckelshaus bowed to President Nixon's virtual command to become interim director. To show he is more than a caretaker, Ruckelshaus called special agents-in-charge from the FBI's 50 field offices to Washington.

Ruckelshaus spoke for about 30 minutes, then left the room. The floor was next held for two hours by the FBI's No. 2 man, acting Associate Director W. Mark Felt, who made no secret of his contempt for his new boss. Felt noted that Ruckelshaus complained about paper work passing over his desk yet Mr. Hoover, he went on, could do three times that much work any old day. That set the tone for the meeting.

An agency once famed for loyalty and secrecy has become a center of insubordination and disclosure. Ruckelshaus found that out in attempting to stop news leaks from the FBI.

ordinarily intolerable in law enforcement. Although it is common knowledge that the leaks have flowed from the 13 assistant directors, they have nonchalantly informed their new chief that the information leaked from elsewhere in government.

Both the self-assured Ruckelshaus and the unfortunate, meek L. Patrick Gray before him inherited a staff purged in Hoover's last days of all his critics. The survivors were sycophantic Hooverites, predictably hostile to any non-Hoover successor. Felt's reputation at FBI headquarters was that of a hatchetman carrying out Hoover's purges.

Consequently, last week's quiet resignation of the 60-year-old Felt and two assistant directors also closely aligned with Hoover, while stripping the FBI of experienced leadership at a critical period, permits a new high command loyal to a new director. But Felt's successor as associate director can scarcely be appointed until a permanent director is named, and that day is far off.

Ruckelshaus, who may have blighted his bright political future in Indiana by accepting Mr. Nixon's command appointment, definitely does not want the job permanently, but chances now are that he will not be replaced until the distant end of Watergate investigation.

The selection may well involve a long process conducted by a presidential panel headed by a judge. Although mute publicly, Ruckelshaus is known to believe Hoover's successor cannot be a partisan politician — neither blindly loyal Nixon operative such as Pat Gray, an independent political figure such as Bill Ruckelshaus, nor even a Democratic politician. He does not rule out an FBI bureau's recent history to win Senate confirmation.

The malaise of the FBI was revealed recently when Ruckelshaus ordered the FBI to locate the now famous 1969-70 wire taps, then believed destroyed. His subordinates, confused by the politicization of the bureau under Gray, asked whether he really wanted to find out where they were (in other words, was he asking merely to have the records show he had asked?). His answer: find the files.

When the files were discovered in the White House (as FBI officials probably expected), Ruckelshaus announced that fact without first contacting the President's office. Although the White House said nothing, presidential aids were miffed that he had added to Mr. Nixon's problems.

To figures close to the situation, the incident underlines the need to restore self-esteem, independence and discipline to the once universally honored FBI. But with an immobilized Mr. Nixon unable so far to achieve his own salvation, the naming of a permanent director and subsequent restoration of the FBI may be delayed, indefinitely and dangerously.

All Rotten?

Editor, Times-News:

About 40 years ago an influential person said, "We are going to make everything rotten in the United States."

Several years ago as a Postal employee in another state I was forced to accept the worst kind of pornography (for shipment to other states and several territorial possessions such as Guam. Each mailing was about 1,300 forty-pound cartons, at the special fourth class rate, which was below cost; two mailings — and sometimes three per week. The inspectors' hands were tied; I spoke to the police vice squad, and considered unliking the aid of large churches, but found that the churches' attitude was — mainly to accentuate the positive.

As bad were would not pass if there were no foolish people the time and effort probably should have been saved. But I often wonder why the church in general, with its great organization and resources, has made such a poor showing against encroachments of the forces of evil in our nation (drug abuse, immorality, increased crime, losing a sense of honor, etc.) at this high stage of civilization.

One can visualize an advertisement: "Wanted: church to attend; must be able to instruct how to walk in accord with spirit and not fulfill the evil works of flesh; must accentuate the reality of God and not impress members as attending fraternal meeting or charismatic demonstration."

Nothing

Editor, Times-News:

Our summation of the 2 hour meeting held with Dean Mullins from the University of Idaho on Wednesday, May 16, is this:

One hour and 45 minutes of introduction of people we already knew, 16 minutes of questions and NO answers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baughman Buhl

TWIN FALLS — It is the difference between politics and government that is at the heart of the state of "financial exigency" that exists at the University of Idaho College of Agriculture.

The feeling among some officials at least peripherally involved in the case is that Dr. A. M. Mullins, the college dean, is playing politics extremely poorly with his public efforts to gain support for the "termination" of the tenured university personnel.

Mullins was able to terminate the people because the State Board of Regents declared a state of emergency. They took that action on the basis of Mullins' contention that two programs, agricultural research and cooperative extension, were seriously underfunded for the year beginning in July.

A number of key legislators have disputed that statement, and claim they funded the program at a "continuation level". On that basis, they say, there is no financial reason for the termination of the personnel.

One official this week said the dean was rather foolishly biting the most helpful legislative hand in sight by hitting at those lawmakers who were most powerful and more supportive of education and the university and agriculture than many others. The official was referring, of course, to Sen.

Richard High, R-Twin Falls and Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, co-chairmen of the joint finance appropriations committee, although he meant High a little more than he meant Roberts.

The legislators themselves say pretty much the same thing, although in somewhat different terms, when they state flatly in public that the extension service budget is tougher to get through the legislature each year. Enough other lawmakers say that to make it believable.

So Mullins is expected to be told to start making it clear in the very near future that the shortage of funds results from federal cutbacks, which is the case, than from a shortage of state appropriations, which has been the implication.

Still, in spite of all this, it is unlikely the dismissed personnel will be reinstated unless the legislature makes up the federal cutbacks with state funds, forcing Mullins into a public, humiliating retreat from his earlier positions.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus hasn't yet become involved in the controversy directly. His only relevant action thus far has been to line item veto the appropriations bills passed by the legislature for agricultural research and cooperative extension. The effect of that type of veto has been to permit Mullins greater discretion in which areas of the programs he spends the money. But Andrus can in fact say very little, because he requested less state money for the two programs than the legislature's Republicans approved, as High and Roberts point out frequently.

But all of that is in the nature of politics, while the most fundamental question is one of government.

The legislature, its members say, intended a "continuation program" for agricultural research and cooperative extension work, and passed enough funds for the continuation. They also say there is $5 million in state funds set aside to make up for losses in federal programs, although there is no certainty that any of that money will go to these programs.

The question therefore becomes whether Mullins is acting in a manner consistent with his prerogative as head of a state agency of the state of Idaho. Or whether he has simply decided to circumvent the intent of the state legislature, and is using the governor's veto, the Board of Regents and the probable loss of federal funds to accomplish what he ordinarily could not legally do.

And it is that question, rather than the strict political one that always attends disputes in government, that will draw the sharpest and most definitive response from the legislature.

Skylab's 'parasol' partly open

Once it was clear of Skylab, the parasol was supposed to pop open at the end of a 21-foot handle-like a four-ribbed, flat automatic umbrella.

"OK, Houston, we had a (mechanically) clean deployment," Conrad said about 7 p.m. MDT. "But it's not laid out as it's supposed to be. The folds of the material have taken too much of a set."

The parasol was invented and built in an around-the-clock effort that started after Skylab's launch and continued until mere hours before the astronauts' blastoff Friday. Conrad had never before even practiced setting it up, and was not positive what it should look like.

Until it was deployed, the shade had been tightly folded like a parachute in a box 4 inches square and 53 inches long. As Conrad described it, the wrinkles from this folding prevented the parasol from spreading out evenly and providing the expected shade.

"It is more fully deployed in the front," Conrad said. "But there are two folds, three folds, emanating from the center. So in effect we have a trapezoid which has its smallest dimension toward the base of the vehicle (space station)."

"We're open for suggestions." Engineers quickly huddled in mission control, querying the astronauts for more information during their infrequent passes within range of ground tracking stations. Finally, they decided there was no problem. Hartsfield relayed word to the crew to retract the parasol down snug against Skylab's side and leave it for the night.

"We think we have almost a full deployment, and pulling it in will do the rest for us," he said.

Heat gives Skylab odd smell inside

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab 1 Commander Pete Conrad Saturday noticed a couple times the effects of 12 days of hot sunshine on the earth-orbiting research station.

Had the parasol failed, Conrad's crew would have been forced to perform a spacewalk Sunday to stretch an awning over Skylab and provide the needed shade. But this was a less-desirable method than the parasol, which did not require the crew to go outside.

Entering Skylab for the first time and deploying the parasol was the only activity assigned the crew Saturday. The difficulties they encountered were the latest in a long string of serious troubles and annoying frustrations which have plagued the space station mission since its very start.

The astronauts started their second day's activities in orbit a bit late because they had been up almost 24 hours Friday. They awoke feeling chipper and Conrad reported "we slept pretty good."

Their blastoff went smoothly from Cape Kennedy but several hours later they found they couldn't free a jammed solar wing on Skylab—a long shot repair effort. The space shot also had to overcome a potentially serious docking problem about 12 hours after launch. They "hot-wired" the Apollo's docking probe to make it latch firmly with an airlock on Skylab—a move that wasn't in the mission script.

In a joking reference to these troubles, Conrad asked mission control: "What friendly worries did you all think about over the night?" Then, Conrad and his rookie fliers went to work to save Skylab.

They first checked Skylab's atmosphere for possible poison gases. They found none and gave mission control a quick rundown on the interior of the eight-room, 100-ton station.

"On a fairly quick inspection, the OWS (orbital workshop) appears to be in good shape," Weitz said.

Got my hot gloves back on now. That speaker box must be 130 (degrees Fahrenheit). "It's sure getting hot down here during the day-side revs (orbits)," Conrad said as he and Paul Weitz began working to deploy the parasol dubbed the "Skylab Shade Tree." "It feels like 90 to 100 degrees in the desert," Weitz noted after his first inspection of the lab. "I could feel heat radiating from all around me, but in a short time I was in there I never felt uncomfortable."

Mitchell resigned as attorney general March 1, 1972, to become Nixon's campaign manager, and quit that post last July 1, two weeks after the Watergate break-in. Magruder and Denn lost their administration jobs last month as a result of Watergate.

Haldeman testified he was told that one of the meetings was held by Mitchell in December, 1971, the sources said. Ehrlichman said he was told of a similar meeting held by Mitchell last year in Key Biscayne, Fla., where Nixon has a vacation retreat, at which final approval was given to an intelligence gathering operation.

Ehrlichman also was said to have testified that Nixon asked him late last March to conduct inquiries into the Watergate affair. Nixon has said "major developments" came to his attention about that time, presumably after convicted conspirator James W. McCord Jr. wrote the Watergate trial judge there had been perjury during the January trial and political pressure on the original defendants to keep quiet.

Frank Strickler, an attorney for Ehrlichman and Haldeman, and Maurice R. Dunio, one of the Democrats' lawyers, said the two former presidential aides answered only some of the questions put to them.

At first, the attorneys said, Ehrlichman and Haldeman invoked executive privilege. But after Nixon last Tuesday broadened the guidelines governing such testimony, they answered questions they had refused to answer initially.

Dunio said the two continued to refuse to answer questions about events after the June 17 break-in—such as what they knew about an alleged cover-up—on the ground that the Democrats' suit related only to the Watergate operation itself.

Dunio said the two also refused on similar grounds to answer questions about an alleged general pattern of espionage during the 1972 presidential campaign. The attorney said the Democrats would go to court to seek to compel Ehrlichman and Haldeman to answer all questions put to them.

Strickler told reporters Friday that "from where I stand, I hope and expect that they (Haldeman and Ehrlichman) will not be indicted by the grand jury."

Nixon acknowledged in his 4,000-word statement Tuesday that he had instructed Haldeman and Ehrlichman not to let the Watergate investigation expose either covert operations of the CIA or a White House "plumbers" operation designed to plug news leaks about national security matters.

The President added, however, that executive privilege would not be invoked in any testimony about possible criminal conduct in the Watergate affair and an alleged cover-up.

CBS News reported that Haldeman and Ehrlichman had put "much of the blame" for Watergate on Mitchell and Denn. The network also said Frederick LaTou, former special assistant to Mitchell, and Gordon Strachin, who recently resigned as general counsel of the U.S. Information Agency and was a former special aide to Haldeman, attended the meetings at which intelligence gathering was discussed.

Haldeman and Ehrlichman have been summoned by the select Senate Watergate committee to testify probably in June. The hearings are in recess until June 5.

During the first five days of hearings, there was no direct testimony to implicate either Nixon, Mitchell, Haldeman, Ehrlichman or Magruder.

One witness, former White House aide John J. Caulfield, testified that Denn asked him to relay an offer of executive clemency to McCord during the Watergate trial in January. Caulfield testified that Denn said only that the offer came "from the highest levels in the White House," which Caulfield said he assumed meant Ehrlichman.

McCord testified that he believed Mitchell, Denn and Magruder had sanctioned Watergate. But under questioning McCord acknowledged that his only direct knowledge of the Watergate planning came from fellow conspirators G. Gordon Liddy and F. Howard Hunt Jr., both former White House aides.

Anti-war bug plan 'chilling'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A "chilling" White House plan to bug, burglarize and blackmail antiwar activists was briefly "operational" in 1970 until it was rejected by former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, according to Newsweek magazine.

In its edition for release Sunday, Newsweek reports the sweeping secret police plan would have pooled the services of the FBI, CIA, National Security Agency and Defense Intelligence Agency to spy on militants believed fomenting domestic unrest.

"The plan was in operation for only five days in the summer of 1970," said Newsweek, "and the administration says it was never implemented."

But the magazine noted the potential of the plan was "striking," and quotes an unidentified congressional source as saying, "When you read it, it will send chills up and down your spine."

"More chilling still," contends Newsweek, "there was mounting evidence that the plan had helped spark a Watergate."

According to Newsweek, the plan developed at a meeting of intelligence agency heads called by the White House to cope with growing domestic unrest.

Hansen alters view on bugging scandal

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said Saturday he has had a change of heart concerning the White House involvement in the Watergate scandal.

Speaking to a regional conference on aging, Hansen said at first the revelations of high officials being involved in Watergate depressed him, but recently he has seen the positive side of the issue.

"The direction of the Watergate inquiry impresses me with the soundness of the institutions of the republic," he said.

He said he was depressed at first because people in positions of high responsibility apparently were abusing their power and violating their trust to the people.

Nauvoo structures dedicated by LDS

NAUVOO, Ill. (UPI) — Dignitaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints spoke at, and witnessed, the dedication of five restored or rebuilt historic structures in this small Illinois city Saturday.

Ceremonies, attended by some 1,200 persons, were held in the year-old visitors center, where the structures were dedicated by President Marion G. Romney, second counselor in the First Presidency of the church.

Romney was accompanied here by three members of the Twelve Apostles of the church, Elder Gordon B. Hinckley, Elder Dallbert L. Stapley, and president Spencer W. Kimball, president of the council of the Twelve.

F4 lost in Cambodia

HONOLULU (UPI) — The Pacific Command reported the crash of an Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bomber in Cambodia Saturday.

The second American plane downed in two days and the sixth since the Vietnam cease-fire.

A command spokesman said the supersonic jet crashed about 100 miles northeast of Phnom Penh. The cause was being investigated.

Prisoners leave DC

DANBURY, Conn. (UPI) — PRISON OFFICIALS Saturday confirmed the transfer of five convicted Watergate conspirators from the District of Columbia Jail to the Federal Correctional Institute at Danbury.

The men arrived at the medium-security prison at 1 p.m. Friday accompanied by a U.S. marshal.

The five are: E. Howard Hunt, Jr., 54; Bernard L. Barker, 55; Eugenio R. Martinez, 49; Frank A. Sturgis, 37; and Virginia R. Gonzalez, 35.

Prison officials said the men are undergoing the required orientation program "just like any other prisoners."

Heat gives Skylab odd smell inside

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab 1 Commander Pete Conrad Saturday noticed a couple times the effects of 12 days of hot sunshine on the earth-orbiting research station.

"It smells kind of funny in there," Conrad told mission control in Houston after inspecting the living lab. "Smells like hot metal for some reason or like some that's been hot."

Later, when he was establishing contact again with mission control, he said, "I got you on the speaker box. It's hot. Ouch!

Gain slows; food costs hit peak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The annual cost of a typical family's market basket of food rose 1.6 percent to a record $1,480 in April.

But the gain, less than half the March rise, was the smallest since the current food price boom began four months ago, an Agriculture Department report showed Friday.

The report also showed that for the first time in six months, most of the retail price hike was due to higher charges by middlemen rather than farmers whose returns rose more slowly.

Returns to farmers for beef and pork in the market basket fell last month, although higher middleman charges pushed retail beef prices to another new record and left consumers only a fractional drop for pork.

The market basket is a collection of U. S.

raised farm foods needed for a theoretical "average household" of 3.2 persons. Its $1,480 annual rate cost in April was 1.6 per cent, or $22, above the $1,458 rate in March; 10.7 per cent ($142) above last December's rate of $1,336; and 13.3 per cent ($184) above the April, 1972 rate of $1,296.

The 1.6 per cent April increase compared with gains of 3.5 per cent in March, 2.5 per cent in February and 2.7 per cent in January.

The April slowdown came on the heels of administration claims that a long-predicted leveling-off of food prices is now under way.

The Agriculture Department report said the farm value of foods in the April market basket was $655 on an annual basis, up 9.7 (1 per cent) from March. Total charges by processors and supermarkets, however, were up to an annual rate of $825, an increase of $15 (2 per cent) from March. Compared with a year earlier, April farm returns were up 30.4 per cent while middlemen's were up only 4.1 per cent.

The report said farmer returns for beef, cattle, hogs, and poultry declined in April but farmers got higher prices for wheat, soybeans and fresh fruits and vegetables. Farm retail marketing spreads declined for poultry, fats and oils but increased for most other foods including a "particularly sharp" gain for pork, officials said.

The farmer's share of the consumer food dollar, as a result, slipped to 44.2 per cent in April after reaching 44.5 cents — the highest in about 20 years — in March.

The report said retail beef prices rose from an average of $1.35 a pound in March to $1.38 in April, up 2.1 per cent from a year earlier. Farmer returns from the 2.28 pounds of live cattle which equal one pound of retail beef fell from 92.3 cents in March to 91.3 cents in April, 30.1 per cent above a year earlier.

However, the drop in farm prices was more than offset when the farm-retail spread rose from 43 cents to 47.7 cents a pound, largely because of higher charges by meat packers. The spread was 6.9 per cent above a year earlier.

Retail pork prices fell from a record $1.03 a pound in March to 0.3 per cent below that level in April. But consumers would have gotten more significant relief if a 7.2 per cent drop in farm prices had not been off-set by a 13.1 per cent jump in packing and supermarket charges.

Africa clash looms

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — Somalia charged Saturday Ethiopian troops were massed along its frontier in preparation for "aggressive war" and formally asked the Organization of African Unity (OAU) to intervene in the territorial dispute.

Ethiopia denied the charge and said it was willing to discuss what it described as only a border demarcation issue with its eastern neighbor.

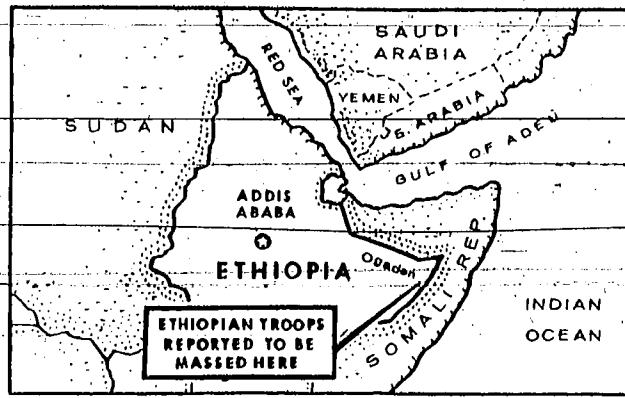

Somalia lodged its appeal in a message from President Mohammed Siad Barre read to heads of state and government from the 41-member OAU. The organization is celebrating its 10th birthday here this week.

Siad said he could not deliver the message personally because he chose "to stay with my people in this hour of imminent peril."

Somalian officials said three divisions of Ethiopian soldiers were poised in Ogaden province of eastern Ethiopia along the border separating the two nations. Somalia claims the Ogaden belongs to it.

"I urge the highest organs of the OAU to intervene," Siad said in the message, read by Somali vice president Ismail Ali Abokor.

First, I urge Ethiopia to desist from her preparations for an aggressive war against Somalia and to reduce tension in the area by withdrawing her troops to their original and normal positions.

US seeking arms links

NEW YORK (UPI) — Federal authorities are quietly trying to trace illegal automatic weapons, such as a Russian-designed submachine gun, that were in the possession of militants during the occupation of Wounded Knee, S. D.

None of the weapons has been recovered, despite news photographs of a militant apparently brandishing a model of the Soviet-designed AK-47. Such a weapon would have to have been smuggled into the country, according to a Treasury Department official.

The Chicago Tribune reported at one point automatic weapons were being brought in by Vietnam veterans and the supply point was Cuba.

Government officials believe members and supporters of the American Indian Movement (AIM) who held federal authorities outside Wounded Knee for 71 days may still have other automatic weapons, such as the American-made M60 machine gun.

But following their surrender to federal forces May 8, the militants handed over only a few handguns and some old slugguns and rifles.

Horace Webb, a Justice Department spokesman, said there was "certain evidence" that the Indians had the use of the Russian-designed AK-47, used by Communist troops in Vietnam, and the M60 machinegun, issued to U.S. and NATO units.

Ex-convict girl sought in probe

LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard Saturday questioned members of organized crime and London call girls, trying to locate the former Irish convict girl whose liaisons with two prominent government officials sparked Britain's biggest sex scandal in a decade.

The missing call girl, Mrs. Norma Levy, is suspected of belonging to an international prostitution ring catering to the rich and famous.

Mrs. Levy, also known as Norma Russell, 26, is a fair-haired, green-eyed girl from a rural Irish village who developed a taste for the high life.

A "casual acquaintance" with her, and compromising photographs taken by her husband, "forced" the resignation this week of Lord Lambton, former parliamentary undersecretary of the Royal Air Force, and Earl Jellicoe, Lord privy seal and leader of the House of Lords.

The London Evening News said "detectives investigating the sex-at-the-top racket were following up reports that continental call girls have been flown to London to join a VIP vice ring."

Jordan premier guerrilla foe

By United Press International

Jordan's King Hussein Saturday named Zayd Rifai, an arch enemy of the Palestinian guerrilla movement who survived an assassination attempt by Black September terrorists, as premier of a new 18-man cabinet. He succeeds Ahmed Lawzi who resigned for health reasons.

Observers said the appointment of the 38-year-old Rifai to head the government would further exacerbate relations between Amman and the Palestinian guerrillas who were driven out of Jordan by Hussein's troops in September 1970.

Mutual hostility between Rifai and the guerrillas dates back to then. At the time, Rifai was Secretary of the royal court and was attacked by guerrilla publications as one of their main enemies in Hussein's entourage.

In Beirut, government sources said representatives of the Lebanese government and the Palestinian guerrillas met Saturday under Premier Amin Hafez to study ways of consolidating the peace agreements reached last week. The agreements ended nearly two weeks of clashes between the Lebanese army and the guerrillas in which several hundred persons were killed or wounded, including civilians.

The Beirut newspaper Lissan Ul-Hal said the army complained of alleged guerrilla violations of the "understanding" reached May 17, including an "unusual" buildup of guerrillas in the region of Rachaya near the border with Israel, presumably Palestinian Liberation Army (PLA) reinforcements that came from Syria during the fighting.

Hafez also met for one hour with Arab ambassadors accredited in Beirut to brief them on Lebanon's efforts to normalize relations with the Palestinians. The ambassadors met Friday with guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat.

Plotter gets key post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William V. Broe, the CIA agent who acknowledged broaching to TTT officials a plan to create economic chaos in Chile, has become the intelligence agency's inspector general and recently combed its records for Watergate-related documents.

Broe was reported to have resigned after his covert connection with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) was disclosed in 1971 by syndicated columnist Jack Anderson and was explored in March in public Senate hearings.

But Rep. Lucian Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee on intelligence which took testimony from Broe this week, said Broe became inspector general of the Central Intelligence Agency in January.

Since then, Nedzi said, Broe has supervised a sweep of CIA records to determine whether they contain any further evidence suggesting CIA links with the Watergate scandal. Broe's duties are to review operational plans and serve as an "ombudsman" for CIA employees' complaints against their superiors.

Broe "had absolutely no knowledge of anything" about the Watergate case, Nedzi said, but did turn up last week six anonymous telegrams the agency received between July and January warning that the White House was trying to blame the CIA for Watergate.

The telegrams were traced to Watergate conspirator James W. McCord Jr., a former CIA agent convicted of breaking into and bugging Democratic headquarters June 17.

The Senate Armed Services Committee has made public a confidential memorandum in which the deputy CIA director, Lt. Gen. Vernon A. Walters, quoted former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman as saying on June 23 that it was "the President's wish" that the CIA try to block an FBI investigation of an important phase of the Watergate case.

Russ may halt emigration tax

LONDON (UPI) — Diplomatic reports said Friday the Soviet Union has indicated willingness to suspend its emigration tax and allow about 30,000 Jews a year to emigrate in moves to smooth the path toward improved cooperation with the United States.

Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev was said to have hinted at these "concessions" in advance contacts and preparations for his meeting in Washington next month with President Nixon, according to the reports reaching London.

There are apparently to be no formal undertakings by the Soviets on the questions of Jewish emigration, the reports said. But Brezhnev is expected to pass the message to Nixon, they added.

The reports stressed that Moscow cannot and will not open its borders to free and unlimited emigration of Soviet Jews for a variety of reasons.

Such a move would be an admission that masses of Soviet citizens want to leave the paradise of social progress and the classless society.

Heart transplant patient motoreycles across US

CHICAGO (UPI) — A 38-year-old heart transplant patient isn't acting like the typical invalid. In fact, Frank LoSole just roared across the country on a motorcycle from Los Angeles to Chicago.

"I did it because I wanted to," LoSole said.

"No use laying around thinking about it," LoSole underwent three unsuccessful open heart operations to correct damage from a childhood bout of rheumatic fever. Then on March 22, 1971, he received the heart of a 23-year-old accident victim.

"There are good things and bad things about the transplant. I still can do what I want to do," he said.

"Most of the time it's pretty good. Like this cross country thing, I always wanted to do it," LoSole said.

"But you think about it. Having someone else's heart. It's really hard to put into words the feelings."

LoSole works as a motorcycle mechanic in Los Angeles close to his home in South Gate, Calif. He said he has been riding bikes since 1954.

"It's pretty hard to give up motorcycles. You feel good out of words.

"You just keep on going. You do what you want to do."

Frank LoSole is doing just that. He said he plans to hop down to watch the Indianapolis 500. Later this year, he might visit Washington or maybe New York. Or he might take up scuba diving.

Frank LoSole is alive and that's what counts.

Humming aid

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI) — The package looked suspicious enough. It was wrapped in black electrical tape, bore no return address and the sender had pasted the upper left hand corner of a business envelope on the face of the package to address it to the First State Bank of Abilene.

And it was humming.

Naturally the men in the main Post Office mail room were concerned. One of them called police who removed the package to a vacant lot. A postal inspector and Lt. Lee Reagan from the city's fire department looked it over there.

Reagan worked on the package for a few minutes until the humming sound changed tones. Everyone retreated to a safe distance.

Three hours later, an Army demolition team from Ft. Hood, 200 miles away, reached the scene.

The Army experts carefully worked on the package for 15 minutes, slowly opened it and meticulously extracted a small, humming hearing aid.

White House snub latest in his bad luck series

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Consider the plight of Spec. 4 Michael Branch, the only former POW out of nearly 680 who was not allowed to attend a gala dinner at the White House last Thursday night.

Branch first returned his invitation because he was to undergo dental work at Fort Knox, Ky., but when it was finished ahead of schedule he decided to attend.

But Branch was told when he arrived in Washington his invitation had been "closed out" and he was not allowed to enter.

WCPO-TV here talked to White House press aide Michael Schrauth who said there was no room allotted for Branch and none could be arranged.

Branch, of Highland Heights, Ky., was accompanied to Washington by his attorney, William Hagedorn, who said he went as a personal friend and made no attempt to go to the gala.

But it was only the latest in a series of misfortunes for Branch.

While in Vietnam, Branch received a "Dear John" letter from his wife, telling him she had left him for another man.

Branch, upset, took the letter to a bench near his barracks to read it again.

While on the bench he was captured by a Viet Cong patrol. Because he did not have his rifle with him, the Army thought he went AWOL.

After he had been in captivity several years, the Army reclassified him as a deserter. When he was freed earlier this year after seven years in captivity and told his story, he was cleared of all charges.

"I feel so bad for Michael," said his mother, Mrs. Charlotte Branch. "I just can't understand it. He came back from the war to nothing, and now this."

Black aide asks truth in affair

TEL-AVIV (UPI) — Black leader Bayard Rustin said today that no one will be able to govern the United States until the truth is told about the Watergate affair.

Rustin, director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute in New York City, told an international economics conference that Americans "are only seeing the tip of the iceberg" in the Watergate scandal. "No movement in America has been spared by it."

"The Nixon who swore to take crime out of the streets did exactly that and put it all in the White House."

Calling Watergate an ugly affair, Rustin said good can come of it if U.S. society becomes more responsive and if Congress takes the opportunity to reassess itself.

"It can become America's greatest opportunity when and if the total truth is told," he said. "No one will be able to govern in the United States until the truth about Watergate is told."

Hospital tour curbs fear

By BONNIE JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A trip to the hospital is usually no festive occasion.

Not so at Magic Valley Memorial these days. On Fridays there are now lemonade parties for children three years old through 11 who will be admitted during the coming week for surgery.

Lemonade complete with friendly nurses, a tour of the departments and rooms where they will be treated or kept and even a peek at the surgery and recovery rooms help quell fears the children have concerning their pending experience.

Nancy Churchman, head nurse for the pediatrics division, says the system, now two parties old, seems to be working. Children cannot help but be frightened of surgery, especially when they do not know what to expect.

They meet with their parents at 4:30 p.m. on Friday on the hospital's second floor. Here nurses meet them, chat with them and explain everything from the identification bracelet to the bed pan.

This is followed by the tour of areas of the hospital they will see later, including the third floor playground. As the tour progresses, children drop the protective hands of their parents and join the nurses for a closer look at what's to come.

Back to the auditorium the youngsters have an opportunity to play doctor. Each is allowed to try on a miniature surgical gown like the doctors wear, and to try on and take home with them, a surgical mask and hat.

Next comes the lemonade with coffee for the parents. Cookies are served and both children and parents are allowed to ask any questions they have concerning the pending hospital stay.

Each parent is told to bring the child's own pajamas for the pre-surgery period and a favorite toy or blanket for "security." They are also informed of hospital regulations as to visiting hours and areas of the hospital where the parents may visit.

Hospital officials have had an opportunity to have several of the children who attended the first lemonade parties as patients.

Practice session

IT DOESN'T hurt a bit, says Nancy Churchman, pediatric department head nurse, as she shows children how the doctors will look into their ears. Serving as the model is LeRoy Baxter.

"They are much better than those who have never been in the hospital prior to the big day. They tell us about the party and recall having visited various areas and many remember our names," Mrs. Churchman said.

Each youngster also gets a medicine cup, a tongue blade and a coloring book which was designed by one of the pediatrics nurses to show various stages of the hospital tour and visit. The children take these home to color and think about.

Distributes coloring books

AFTER lemonade, Mrs. Churchman passes out coloring books designed by a hospital nurse. Children take them home to color and better understand hospital. Children in the front row are Karl Harding and James Severa.

X-ray department

Youths honored at lemonade fete

"All of these things are designed to make the hospital seem less strange and scary when the children come in as patients," Mrs. Churchman said.

For the benefit of parents, a brightly colored display board is located on the pediatric floor to answer questions and give directions to various hospital areas. Mrs. Churchman says this eliminates many of the repeat answers a nurse must give every day to parents of the newly admitted children.

All youngsters who will be having surgery in the near future are invited to the parties. Most of those on the list were present for the second party although a number did not respond for the first.

"When the program becomes better known, we hope all parents will bring in their youngsters because we feel it helps the child and the hospital staff alike," Mrs. Churchman explained.

1863 Masonic Hall still stands in Idaho City

TF Historical Society plans June field trip to Idaho City

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Historical Society will take a field trip to Idaho City near Boise on June 3.

Idaho City is an old mining town and was incorporated in February, 1864. The territorial legislature established a prison in Idaho City Dec. 15, 1864, after President Abraham Lincoln had signed a bill creating the Idaho Territory in the spring of 1863.

At the height of its glory, Idaho City streets were thronged with miners, dance hall girls, pigtailed Chinese, gamblers and ruffians, according to F. Adams, author of "Idaho City, Queen of the Gold Camps."

Gold dust was the medium of exchange and Elk, Grimes and Mores creeks all yielded nuggets of gold worth $5 to $50. Living was expensive as coffee in 1864 was 76 cents a pound, 30 cents a pound for potatoes, butter brought $1.25 a pound and apples were 50 cents each. In the clothing line, women's boots were $30 a pair while men's boots cost $9, says Adams.

On May 18, 1865, a fire swept the town and of the 600 business houses in existence only 20 were saved. Adams said the town bounced back in a couple of months and was soon bigger and better than before.

Those making the society tour June 3 should take a sack lunch. The buses leave Robert Stuart Junior High School promptly at 7:30 a.m.

For reservations call 733-0341 or 733-8017 in Twin Falls, and in Buhl the numbers are 543-5802 or 543-4039.

Campers who go up Friday evening or Saturday for the overnight trip should take the Broadway exit at Boise and travel Highway 21 to Idaho City. All those on the tour, including buses, will return via Lawman and Stanley.

John Brogan from Idaho City will talk on Idaho City history and the Old Time Fiddlers from Boise will be playing at the hall on Saturday night.

Abby

Abigail Van Buran

DEAR ABBY: I am a long-time reader of Dear Abby and am constantly amazed at the people who sign themselves: UNLOVED, SAD, LONELY, UNWANTED, FORGOTTEN, DESPERATE, etc.

I am no "Abby," but I do know that these people need to get involved with others, and oftentimes the way to solve your own problems is to try to bring happiness to someone else.

Sometime ago I called a nursing home and asked them to send me a list of patients who seldom, if ever, received mail, packages, cards, or visitors.

When the list arrived I was first amazed, then saddened. I expected three or four names, but there were 21 names on it. Because the list was so long, obviously presents were out, as I have limited means, so I started sending greeting cards to my 21.

Someone cares

There are many opportunities during the year to send them a bit of cheer. Birthdays, Christmas, Valentine Day, Easter, the list is endless, even just a "friendship card."

I just sign it, "Your friend," but they know someone cares and it lifts their spirits. It doesn't cost much spread out over the year, and it doesn't take much time. If only one person reads this and calls for a list, it could spread a lot of cheer.

If clubs, churches, or other organizations would adopt this plan more people could be reached. These older people have learned from yesterday, and they live for today. Let's put a little sunshine into their lives.

DEAR CAMILLE: Thank you for a beautiful suggestion. If this idea catches on, you'll have started something that will bring inestimable happiness to thousands. Bless you.

DEAR ABBY: My ex-husband wants me to marry him again, and I am considering it even though my friends tell me if I do I should have my head examined.

You see, before I married him he had been married six times. I can tell you a few reasons why we didn't make it. He has a violent temper. He has tried to choke me and has ripped my clothes right off my body. You can't reason with him when he's angry. He also drinks a lot. When he's nice, he is sweet as honey. He's a wonderful lover but a lousy husband.

Can you give me some advice? MIXED UP IN N-D.

DEAR MIXED: You said he was a "lousy husband," so unless you want a lousy husband, forget him.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old unmarried girl and am expecting my third illegitimate baby. I am living at home with my parents. They know about my condition and are disgusted with me. To tell you the truth, I am disgusted with myself.

My problem is I don't know who this baby is by. My mother keeps asking me, and I don't know what to tell her. What on earth shall I tell my doctor when he asks me who the baby's father is? He has to put some name on the baby's birth certificate, and I don't think it's fair to use a name I'm not sure of.

Please help me, Abby, as I am going crazy with worry. IN DOUBT

DEAR IN: Simply tell your doctor you aren't sure, and let it go at that. He'll understand.

By HELEN WALKER
TWIN FALLS — Our air conditioning methods may be more sophisticated than that of the 8th-century Baghdad caliph who built a summer palace with double walls that were packed with snow hauled from the mountains, but people for centuries have been looking for better ways to ease the discomfort of hot weather.

The selection of air conditioning should not be a haphazard affair. When purchasing an air conditioner, check with an expert, to determine the size and kind of air conditioning system your home needs.

Consideration should be given to: the floor plan, kind of construction, amount of glass area, effectiveness of insulation, orientation of the sun, location of the trees and shrubbery and the family size and activities. Central cooling systems keep the entire house cool by using the duct system to bring cool air to each room. If the heating system is forced air, then existing ductwork can generally be used as the distribution system.

Window units and through-the-wall air conditioners are designed to cool a single room. These units are, frequently undersized when used to cool large living rooms and often oversized for cooling bedrooms.

Individual units, particularly those that are left unattended or used to cool bedrooms, should have thermostats to avoid excess cooling. The location of the unit in the room is more important than most people realize. When a unit is installed low to the floor and the installation is next to a wall, care must be taken to direct the cool air up and away from the side wall or other objects which tend to limit the area of circulation. If something obstructs the air flow (even a sofa or armchair back) the cold air (if allowed to stagnate near the unit) will be drawn back into the unit, causing "short-cycling".

The air conditioner will automatically stop cooling until that limited pocket of air warms up and the cycle is repeated.

At night, especially in the spring and fall when days are warm and nights are cool, "freeze-up" can occur. When the outside temperature drops to about 70 degrees or lower and the air conditioner is still at its coolest setting, ice forms on the inside coil causing air blockage of lack or circulation through-out the unit.

If allowed to continue or if this freeze-up happens too often, it will eventually ruin the unit. The best solution is to set the thermostat on a medium temperature in the early evening and allow the fan to run on medium or high speed.

Use your window air conditioner only when needed. Turn it off when the space it cools will be unoccupied for several hours. Aim all grills on your window unit in the same direction to get better air circulation.

Whether you have a central or single room system it is important to clean or replace the filters at least once a month. A clogged filter will cause the unit to work overtime. Do not remove filters to get more air because dirt will build up on cooling elements and reduce effectiveness.

Book Review

By BARBARA HORTING
Twin Falls Public Library

TWIN FALLS — A handful of gems, especially rubies and sapphires, is something we tend to link with a maharajah or exotic legend.

Mary L. T. Brown had no idea of the literal treasures that are all around us until she was invited to join a friend and his family on a ruby safari that took her from the air-polluted surroundings of New York to the cool mountains of North Carolina.

Mary Brown, an absolute amateur rockhound and gemstone miner, mined for only five days and unearthed eight exquisite rubies and twenty-one extraordinary sapphires, some of which have been called "collectors' delights."

But ruby mining is more than just getting to the mine and extracting its treasures. The anticipation, the hunt, the discovery, the delights of the appraisal by experts are all bound up in the delicious affliction of "Ruby Fever."

In her book, "Gems are for the Taking," Mary Brown now passes on all the joy and necessary facts of gemmining. She tells you where to find dozens of precious and semiprecious stones, how to mine them, how to recognize them in their rough state and what to do with them once they are yours.

"Gems are for the Taking" is arranged stone by stone. For each stone Ms. Brown lists the states and counties in which gem stones have been found, and more specifically, the individual gem mines, rivers, hills and lakes. Other topics covered are site examination, the importance of timing, tools you will need, mining etiquette, where to go to have your treasures appraised and how to plan an unforgettable gemmining vacation for the whole family.

And because no book on gem would be complete without something of their fabulous history and lore, Mary Brown delves into the fact and fancy surrounding precious and semiprecious gems that have after West followed the thought and finally decided to finesse dummy's nine.

East was in with the jack. He cashed the king of hearts and after West played the three East shifted to a spade.

After that it was no trouble for East and West to cash all the hearts and spades and score a nice 1600 points.

If Joe had gone up with dummy's king of diamonds he would have made four diamonds and five clubs and a total of 1510 points.

Should Joe have taken that diamond finesse? Not on your life! The club finesse figured to work for him and he shouldn't have risked what did happen in diamonds.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Hard Luck Joe may well have played the most expensive dummy of his long career in misbidding and misplaying hands.

North really shouldn't have redoubled. He had seen Joe mangle the dummy before.

As for West, he decided to gamble the hand out for the same reason that North should not have redoubled. Joe was going to be dealer!

West decided to open his third best diamond. Dummy's seven was covered by East's eight. Joe won with the ace and cashed the nine. East dropped the 10. Joe led a third diamond and

Project cut needed, council advised

BY PEGGY CHU
Times-News Writer

WENDELL—Cost of the proposed city water and sewer projects will have to be cut, city engineers have told the Wendell City Council.

Rugh Hedges, JUB Engineers, Twin Falls, said Thursday night that cost estimates for the projects were higher than expected and that they would have to be lowered in order not to jeopardize chances of federal funding.

He estimated several thousand dollars could be saved by eliminating one of the proposed irrigation pumps on the sewer system.

He told the council that two pumps were originally planned, in order to alternate their use, but that the same amount of water can be pumped with only one pump.

He said that going around rock outcroppings instead of trying to blast will also save several thousand dollars. Good engineering practices were employed in drawing up the plans, but the high cost involved made reductions necessary, he said.

Most of the reductions will be accomplished by turning over some of the work to the city to be accomplished by city crews over a period of time, rather than hiring contractors. He used as an example, installation of rocks around the lagoons and graveling over the dike tops. The cost for these operations would be $8,000 to $9,000 if done by a contractor, he said.

Hedges said the cost of the water system could be put almost in half this year because the city will be able to get by on half the amount of piping. The remainder can be installed next year.

Final specifications will be presented at the next council meeting for approval.

Charles Freeman, manager of the city dump, recommended the city dump be open continuously instead of designating hours for dumping.

In other business councilman Dale Gilbert said a new law effective Jan. 1, 1974, will make it necessary for all drain holes to be registered. He suggested that the city register the drain holes now being used and

Oil strike

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Drillers at a wildcat well in Wyoming's Powder River Basin have struck oil at the 12,500-foot level, Mountain Fuel Supply Co. announced Thursday.

Company officials said the well started flowing when workers tried to free a stuck drill pipe. It produced 100 barrels of oil during a seven-hour period, and a volume of natural gas calculated at a rate of three million cubic feet per day.

The well, known as the Mountain Fuel-Anadarko-Fox Well No. 1, is located 45 miles northeast of Casper, Mountain Fuel and Anadarko Production Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. of Houston, Tex., have half interests in the well.

Iceland hurries U.S. agreement

REYKJAVIK (UPI)—Foreign Minister Einar Agustason said Friday the Icelandic government intends to hasten a revision of the defense agreement with the United States because of the presence of British naval vessels inside Iceland's disputed fishing waters.

Agustason, who spoke in a radio interview, was asked if the revision of the defense agreement would be pressed sooner now, because of the British naval "invasion." "Yes, it is sure that the revision will be speeded up—now," he responded.

The leftist coalition government of Premier Olafur Jo-hannesson said on taking office three years ago that it planned to oust the U.S. forces.

Reservoirs up from last year

TWIN FALLS—Except for American Falls, most Snake River reservoirs are well ahead of last year in water storage amounts for May.

The Department of Interior Geological Survey report for the last week in May shows Palisades Reservoir now has 1,171,000 acre feet in storage compared to 544,000 at this time last year.

Jackson Lake has 732,000 acre feet and a year ago had 436,200 acre feet in storage.

Island Park reservoir is about the same, 138,200 this year and 139,900 a year ago.

Blackfoot Reservoir is also down slightly as are several other downstream storage areas. It has 10,000 acre feet compared to 15,100 last year.

American Falls, where the water level is being held down to prevent damage to the deteriorating dam, reports 1,039,700 acre feet now in storage and 1,685,000 at this time last year.

Lake Walcott reports 95,100 acre feet this year and 95,800 last year.

Stream flow is down as water is being used for irrigation and stored. The Snake River at Minidoka shows 9,600 second feet compared to 16,800 a year ago.

Precipitation for the past week is well below normal with a generally dry spring this year. Island Park precipitation measurements were only .23 of an inch last week, 1.36 inches from May 1 to 20 compared to the average 2.60 inches.

Scientist asks aid for son

MOSCOW (UPI). — Jewish scientist Benjamin Levich has appealed to the world scientific community to help save the life of his "seriously ill" son who was recently arrested and drafted into the army, Jewish sources said today.

Levich, an internationally known electrochemist and corresponding member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, has been trying unsuccessfully for more than a year to emigrate with his family to Israel.

On May 16, his 25-year-old son, Yevgeny, an astrophysicist, was arrested on a Moscow street. Officials later told the family he had been drafted into the army as a private.

Jewish sources said Thursday they learned that Yevgeny had been sent to a military labor camp near the Arctic Circle.

Jewish sources gave newsmen an open letter in English from Yevgeny's father, addressed to other scientists. The letter said Yevgeny suffers from a number of intestinal disorders, was recently found to have a tumor in his intestinal system and was undergoing examination by a cancer clinic at the time of his arrest.

"It is quite obvious for anyone that Yevgeny is seriously ill and that his detention in such hard conditions creates a menacing situation," Levich wrote.

Marijuana prosecution costs eyed

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI). — An official of a group trying to reform marijuana laws says it could cost taxpayers $40,000 to prosecute 43 young persons arrested on drug charges at a rock concert.

"Surely those tax dollars could be spent in better ways such as fighting hard drugs or even on road repairs," said Guy Archer, legislative counsel and board member of the National Organization for Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORMA).

"We feel Tennesseans are perhaps wasting some of their hard earned tax dollars to prosecute these trivial cases," Archer, 30, said. "It appears that the majority of those arrested were minors and that the arrests will, in effect, scar them for life."

Record set by ship

LOS ANGELES (UPI). — The S.S. President Madison on its maiden voyage set a record for a Pacific crossing by a cargo ship, knocking 1 hour, 31 minutes off the old record, American President Lines said today.

The ship, on the inbound leg of a voyage, reached Los Angeles seven days, 12 hours and 42 minutes after leaving Yokohama, Japan, a spokesman for the line said.

The previous record of seven days, 14 hours, 13 minutes was set in 1971 by the Japanese ship Kamakura Maru, he said.

Idaho Youth Ranch staff quits, dissatisfaction cited

Pratt, who had been at the ranch less than two months, said the child-abuse claims had nothing to do with his resignation. "That happened before I came," he said.

Mrs. Stone said she resigned because she didn't feel the ranch program was "therapeutic." There was an attempt at a therapeutic program under the previous administration, she said, but "I don't know where it stopped, with Childs or somewhere else."

She said there had been abuse on the ranch, "both physical and mental," but it is not an active problem.

Morgan said Friday that the house parents, as professionals, could not "bring our views in line with the board's." According to Morgan, the board had instructed the house parents to make the ranch a showplace to attract contributors. "We feel there is little or no concern for the boys and their personal problems," he said.

The Morgans are currently on a short vacation, along with Ahlstrom, and will quit when they return. The Pratts quit

Saturday.

Mrs. Stone said her resignations and that of her husband are effective as of June 1, but if some changes were made they might alter their decision. She said the resignation of Moore was "a help." She said she was "not satisfied with his work."

Moore said he resigned nearly two weeks ago at a staff meeting directed by Childs and Peterson "because I didn't feel I could do any creative work." He stayed on at the request of the board, he said, to assist in the interim period during the staff changes.

Moore has accepted a position with a church and will leave the ranch about the middle of June.

Currently, according to acting ranch director Mitchell, the ranch "has capable people who will fill in for the house parents. Several teachers are going to act as house parents until replacements can be found," he said.

All but 16 boys have been released to the agencies which referred them, he said, and 4 of these 16 are currently on home leave.

Greenwell said several of the boys "who have been caught in the middle" will be released to other agencies because the ranch situation has made it difficult to provide them with the proper help.

"We don't want to hurt these kids in any way, shape or form," Greenwell said. "It is not as bad as it sounds. Everything is and will be under control."

Greenwell said, "the ranch is supported by donors, and I don't want this to interfere with any boy's care. The boys' care comes first all the time."

Greenwell said the resignations have nothing to do with Childs or Peterson leaving the ranch, or with the investigation, although, "you might say in all one relates to the other a little bit."

Morgan said the shakeup in management did not reflect the idea that the students need trained personnel. He cited previous child abuse and the forcing of boys to work four to eight hours daily on the grounds as improper administration.

Many of the boys have psychological problems making it difficult for them to do this kind of work, he said. Assistant attorney general Smith said Saturday the child abuse problem had been solved for "quite a length of time."

The Department of Environmental and Community Services, he said, is closely watching the situation by going out to the ranch every day or two during the transitional period.

"I've interviewed everyone out there, including the boys," he said, "and that the incident involving the teacher was the only problem."

"I know nothing of any continued abuse," he said. "The kids are safe now and have been at all times."

Smith said neither Childs or Peterson was involved in any child abuse and that he "was very impressed with the house parents and the staff." The ranch is "a tremendous facility," he said.

The board, according to Smith, cooperated well with his office during the investigations.

The board will comply "in every way with the law," Greenwell said. Recent changes in the law have made corporal punishment and enforced labor illegal, he said, and the board will comply with those laws.

The investigation report, which has not yet been released, will make suggestions for improvements and conduct on the ranch, according to Smith.

"We've created pressure and demands over there" during our investigation, Smith said, which could have something to do with the recent resignations. "There is no boy who's had any after effects as far as we can tell," he added.

The board is currently considering applications for house parents and ranch director and Greenwell said he felt there would be no problem filling the positions.

Magic Valley

Sunday, May 27, 1973

SCHOOL TERM ended Friday in Twin Falls, with pupils receiving report cards. Tracee Greene, (above), fourth grader at Lincoln School, said she was sorry to see the year end and stayed around the playground for a time. Keith Allred, 8 (below), received his report card from his second grade teacher at Washington School, Judy Byxter. Tracee plans to take swimming lessons, attend church school and 4-H Club during summer, while Keith will go to Utah with his family.

Classes conclude

Holiday Monday

TWIN FALLS — Memorial Day will be observed by most businesses and professional offices here.

All downtown stores with the exception of one of two department stores had announced plans to close.

City, county, state and federal offices were scheduled to close Monday and Post Office officials said there will be no mail deliveries other than to post office boxes on Monday.

Major grocery stores indicated plans to remain open, however, many of them observing Sunday hours on Monday.

Opening of the fishing season and the first three-day holiday weekend of the summer combined to leave Twin Falls quiet Saturday with little downtown activity and many business offices already closed.

2 Rupert deaths ruled accidental

RUPERT — Coroner's inquests Friday into the deaths of two Rupert residents found both were accidental.

Scott W. Emms, 16, died after being hit by a car while riding his bicycle near his home on the evening of May 11. The coroner's jury found the cause of death accidental and without criminal intent on the part of the driver, Ignacio Mingo.

Accidental death was also ruled in the death of John M. Cunningham, 22, who died in a Pocatello hospital from injuries sustained when his car overturned after failing to negotiate a curve three miles north and six miles east of Rupert.

Shoshone man cleared

HAILEY — A six member jury has acquitted Jim Rosen, Shoshone, of a charge of unlawful killing of a deer out of season.

The action came Friday in a trial held before Blaine County Magistrate V. K. Jeppesen.

Charges stemmed from an alleged incident July 29, 1972 near Galena Lodge. Rosen was represented by Twin Falls attorney Lloyd Webb. The state was represented by Blaine County assistant prosecutor Gary Kinder.

TF cattlemen ask theft aid

TWIN FALLS — Cattlemen of Twin Falls county have asked the board of county commissioners to consider the addition of a special deputy to check cattle thefts.

In a meeting Friday with representatives of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association, the Salmon River Cattlemen and Twin Falls Livestock Association, commissioners were asked to appropriate funds to add a deputy to the sheriff's staff and provide a pickup truck with communication radio.

Cattlemen said the high price of meat is increasing the number of thefts of range cattle, especially the smaller calves. Commissioner Merl E. Leonard said the board recognizes the problem and also the problems of vandalism in rural areas which seems to be on the increase. A special deputy should be available for night and holiday duty, commissioners said, to help reduce such losses.

There are no funds available in the present budget, Chairman William L. Chancey said, but the board is considering requesting financial assistance through the law Enforcement Planning Commission which makes funds available for special law enforcement programs.

Several other counties in South Central Idaho are working together on similar problems.

Chancey said the program would have to be worked through the sheriff's office and coordinated with his regular staff.

Boise canal wall bursts

BOISE (UPI) — Homes were flooded and fields inundated Saturday when an irrigation canal wall gave way south of Boise.

Ada County sheriff's deputies said there were no injuries reported when the 30-foot long section of the canal burst open, spilling water from the Ridenbaugh Canal.

Officials speculated that the bank was weakened by thousands of small gopher tunnels in the earth bank. Witnesses said a truck was moving across the top of the canal bank when it gave way. The occupants scrambled to safety.

The flow of water through the canal was shut off at Barber Dam.

No estimates of damage were available, but deputies said the Triangle Dairy was flooded.

Idaho high court gets Blaine case

HAILEY — An appeal to the Idaho Supreme Court has been filed by the plaintiff in the $800,000 libel suit of Jack Hemingway versus George T. Fritz, editor of the Wood River Journal.

Earlier this month, Fifth District Judge Charles Scoggin granted a defendant's motion for summary judgment which called for termination of the proceedings.

The notice of appeal was filed in Fifth District Court by Hemingway's attorney, E. Leo Schlender, Ketchum.

A complaint filed by Hemingway — a state Fish and Game commissioner — last fall says the suit stemmed from an editorial and article published Oct. 12, 1972, in the weekly newspaper.

Both articles concerned Hemingway's purchase of the Half Way Ranch in Lincoln County between Richfield and Carey. Fritz is represented by Twin Falls attorney John A. Doerr.

Fuel lack stirs ideas

BOISE (UPI) — The predicted gasoline shortage in Idaho has the state's promotion department looking at new approaches to get people to the Gem State but on fewer gallons of fuel.

Lloyd D. Howe, executive secretary of the Department of Commerce and Development, said Friday his staff has discussed new ways to promote travel to Idaho to combat the "so-called" gasoline shortage.

He said some of the new advertising approaches would promote limited destination travel along with group travel by bus and airline and then the use of individual vehicles when the tourists were once in the state.

"It's not going to help us any," Howe said of the reports of gasoline shortages. He said he could not estimate how much it would hurt the state's $200 million annual in tourist trade.

Howe said limited destinations could be accomplished by advertising one or two places for a tourist to visit during his or her vacation. He said by promoting one or two places for a single vacation it would reduce travel within the state once a person arrived.

In another plan, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus urged residents to take their vacations within the state.

Andrus said if Idahoans took two weeks to travel to parts of the state which they have not visited before they could drive at a slow pace and save gasoline.

Andrus added that the "so-called" gasoline shortage may be a move by the larger oil companies to get the Alaska pipeline or maybe they are trying to force some of the smaller independent gasoline companies out of business.

At the same time, the manager of the Idaho State Automobile Association says there is not a serious enough gasoline shortage in the state or nation to cause motorists to call off their vacations.

Manager Ken Miller said of the 220,000 gasoline stations in the country, less than 500 are reported closed. He did say that stations are open fewer hours each day and motorists would be wise to buy gasoline during the daytime hours.

But some of the smaller stations in the Gem State are having trouble getting enough gas and other larger ones are being rationed by suppliers.

The East Cleveland Beverage Store in Caldwell ran out of gas two weeks ago and Steve Bonde, manager, said he doesn't expect to get any for at least two months.

"I can get along on my beverage sales," Bonde said. "I don't have to have the gas but its nice."

In Shoshone, the Texaco and Standard stations have been advised that they will not be supplied any more gasoline than they were supplied last year.

Ray Silvers, operator of the Shoshone Texaco station, said he can't understand why there is a shortage because the war is over in Vietnam.

"It would appear to me there would be a surplus rather than a shortage," he said, pointing to the amount of gasoline used to move trucks, planes and other equipment in Southeast Asia.

He said under the new ration system, when the stipulated supply is gone, that's it.

Asked what he would do if his supply ran out, Silvers said he will hang a "gone fishing" sign on the pumps.

Al Boyles, manager of the Nampa Bonloc distributorship, said there has been misinformation given about gas shortages. He added that no one understands the severity of the situation.

He said items in the newspapers and on the radio indicate people feel there is a "giant conspiracy" to run independents out of business.

"That isn't true," Boyles said.

There is just so much refining capacity, so much crude oil and so many trucks to carry the product, Boyles said. "The nation is using that capacity right now."

Track repairs

COLD WIND and camp conditions didn't slow Union Pacific railroad crews Friday as they continued repairs to track torn up Thursday when a 42-car freight train derailed near Starb's Ferry. Here crew places section of track near siding where train wrecked after jumbled wreckage of nine cars, three diesel locomotives was cleared away.

Conservation plan set

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congressional farm leaders appear close to agreement on proposals to set up a new long-term conservation and environmental protection subsidy program.

It would be coupled with land treatment subsidies aimed at providing millions of acres in new or improved sanctuaries for wildlife.

Part of the new program has already been written into an omnibus farm bill approved recently by the Senate Agriculture Committee and expected to reach the Senate floor in early June.

The bill includes provisions under which farmers could be given payments to cover part of the cost of installing "wildlife habitat" on acres idled, or "set aside" under crop support programs.

In addition to this, however, members of a House agriculture subcommittee Thursday discussed adding a further section to the bill when its version is drafted soon. The additional section would authorize government payments to landowners installing approved conservation and similar measures under contracts running from three to 10 years.

In some respects, backers of the plan say it would be a replacement for the $200 million a year Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP), covering annual conservation subsidies for rural landowners, which President Nixon unilaterally shelved last December by freezing all appropriated funds.

But the new plan, tailored to emphasize long-term conservation measures, antipollution protection and wildlife benefits, is designed — backers say — to avoid many of the criticisms aimed at the annual conservation payments. A preliminary draft of the new House plan indicates it would work this way:

First, an eligible landowner would develop a plan of farm operation or land use built around approved practices of soil conservation, preservation of wetlands, contribution to flood control, improved wildlife habitat, or other measures.

The Soil Conservation Service could assist in developing detailed operating plans.

Then, the landowner would contract with the agriculture department to carry out the approved plan on a fixed schedule. In return, the department would pay him part of the cost of any practices rated as eligible for subsidy by the secretary of agriculture. In addition to cash, the government could furnish in-kind aid including seeds, trees, plants, fertilizer and lime.

A House subcommittee on conservation, headed by Chairman W. R. Ponce, D-Tex., of the full House Agriculture Committee, is scheduled to meet this week to discuss refinements and final provisions of the conservation proposal.

If the subcommittee agrees on the plan, as expected, Ponce said he intends to insert it into the omnibus farm bill within a few weeks.

Senate aides, meanwhile, said a similar provision probably will be written into their farm bill on the Senate floor in early June.

Extra time given for grain disposal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department Thursday announced that farmers in parts of 21 states will be given extra time to dispose of grains stored in commercial warehouses under federal price support laws.

A similar "deferred repayment" option was announced in January for farmers holding price-supported grain in storage on their farms.

States in which the repayment option is being offered are Colorado, Kansas, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Ohio, South Dakota, Texas, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

The deferral orders grew out of earlier department decisions aimed at increasing open-market grain supplies to help keep a lid on prices. Officials had ruled that when price support loans expire this summer, farmers will have to either repay the loans and reclaim the grain for use, or forfeit the grain to the government. This policy ruled out an earlier custom of allowing farmers to extend the support loans from year to year.

Officials said the new deferral order was issued because transportation problems in some areas may prevent orderly movement of large volumes of grain to market when loan repayment dates arrive this summer.

Under the order, farmers can file requests with their county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committees for delaying loan repayment until the transportation situation eases.

Ryun wins pro mile in triumphant return home

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Jim Ryun made a triumphant return to the scene of some of his greatest collegiate races Saturday night, winning the Post-Cereals International Track Association one mile run in 4:07.4.

Ryun, who never lost a race on the light, twelve lap Municipal Auditorium track while competing for the University of Kansas, defeated Jerome Howe, a graduate student at Kansas State University, by ten yards. The crowd of 6,122 roared its approval as Ryun and Howe sprinted past Kip Keino of Kenya with two laps to go. Howe took second in 4:08.8 with Keino third in 4:12.5.

Brian Oldfield, who set a world best of 70 feet, 10 3/4 inches in the shot put Friday night at Salt Lake City, Utah, was hurt pressed to win his ninth professional victory in ten tries. Oldfield nipped Randy Matson on the last throw, 68-4 to 67-3 1/2.

Another record holder wasn't as lucky. Mel Pender, who blazed a record of 5.8 in the 60-yard dash Friday night, was disqualified for two false starts. Harrington Jackson won the race in 5.9.

Bob Seagraves overcame problems with his approach to take the pole vault with a leap of 17 feet. Seagraves had to change his approach because the vaulters were accustomed to a longer runway.

Oldfield blamed his performance on the shot put ring which was assembled in two parts with a small ridge across the center. "I had a real problem keeping my foot down," he said. "It was a very rough circle."

Matson led Oldfield by almost a foot going into the last round of throws. Oldfield uncorked his winning throw, then embraced Matson, the only man to beat him professionally.

The closest race of the meet was the eyelash victory by Bob Hayes of the Dallas Cowboys over Mel Gray of the St. Louis Cardinals in the 40-yard dash. Both runners were timed in 4.4 seconds.

Lee Evans held off fast-closing Warren Edmonson in the 40-yard dash in 49.2, while Australian Chris Pither maintained his domination of the half mile with a narrow decision over Tom Von Ruden of Oklahoma State in 1:54.0.

Terry Kieffer was the winner and Brand Tanner the loser.

Gun defense

Defense of long range shooting is made in the May issue of Gunsport Magazine, currently on newsstands, in a cover article by Jule B. Hoyer, Twin Falls, Times-News gun writer.

Hoyer, whose interest in long range shooting covered 45 of active participation plus development of optical aids, cartridges, bullets and files, basically answers critics of the 1,000-yard plus sport. "We are authorities in this line and we'll take a back seat to no one," Hoyer states.

Hoyer and his brother were primary movers in building of the 6.5 x 300 WWH along with Paul Wright of New Mexico.

Critics of long range shooting cite poor bullet placement with the result of lost, wounded animals. "It (long range shooting) is still a game for the experienced hunter and trained marksman," Hoyer replies.

Hoyer added he is writing a follow up story "Big Bucks of the Gem State" for fall publication.

Considers appeal

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association said Saturday it may appeal a federal court decision finding the NCAA grade prediction requirement unconstitutional. Jerry Miles, publicly director for the NCAA, said, "There is little we can say until we have discussed the decision of the U.S. District Court with our legal counsel. However, a possibility of appealing the decision to a high court probably will be given strong consideration."

Three Rivers' late rallying overcomes Southern Idaho 7-5

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (UPI) — Chuck Smith and Leo Whiteside each homered and drove in three runs Saturday to pace Columbia State (Tenn.) Junior College to a 9-1 win over Community College of Baltimore in the opening round of the National Junior College World Series.

In another first round game, Indian Hills Community College of Centerville, Iowa blasted Gulf Coast Community College of Panama City, Fla., 9-1. Columbia and Indian Hills meet at 5 p.m. Sunday with Gulf Coast paying Baltimore in the lower's bracket at 10 a.m.

In other first-round games, Indian Hills Community College of Centerville, Iowa beat Gulf Coast Community College of Panama City, Fla., 9-1. Three Rivers Community College of Poplar Bluff, Mo., dropped the College of Southern Idaho 7-5 and Ranger, Tex., Junior College beat Mesa, Ariz., Community College 8-5.

Columbia and Indian Hills meet at 5 p.m. and Three Rivers takes on Ranger at 8 p.m. Sunday in the winners bracket while Gulf Coast plays Baltimore at 10 a.m. and Mesa meets Southern Idaho at 1 p.m. in the loser's bracket.

CSI took a 4-0 lead in the opening innings but couldn't hold back the Three Rivers rally. The Eagles moved ahead 4-0 in the fifth inning when Bob Papworth cracked a three-run homer. But CSI could manage only one run while the Missouri team proved unstoppable.

The Columbia State game was stopped after eight innings because of a rule-hitting game if one team holds an eight-run lead after seven innings. The Indian Hills game was only seven innings long.

Smith had a triple and scored three times during Columbia's win while Whiteside added a pair of singles to his homer. Charlie Rogers, who scored three times, went the distance for the win. Joe Juliano suffered the loss.

Russian wrestlers rip U.S.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — A top-notch Russian freestyle wrestling team overwhelmed a United States all-star squad here Saturday night, winning nine of 10 matches.

The only American to defeat his Russian opponent was 18-year-old Jim Carr of Erie, Pa., who outpointed Arsen Alakhvilyev 5-3 in the 114 1/2-pound weight class.

A crowd of about 2,000 at Ohio State University's St. John Arena appreciated the aggressiveness of Carr who took the match to his Russian foe.

The Russian team included two 1972 Olympic gold medalists — Levon Tedlashvili, who scored a 10-0 victory over Mike Bradley of the Michigan Wrestling Club in the 198 pound division, and Ivan Yarygin who defeated Greg Wojciechowski of Toledo 3-1 in the 220 pound class.

Other Russian winners were Rafik Gadzhiev, 5-1 over Dave Range of the Ohio Wrestling Club in the 105.5 pound division, Rein Doporozhmitze, 7-3 over Jan Giteho of Granite City, Ill., in the 125.5 pound division; Victor Markelov, 20-1 over Jim Humphrey of Columbus in the 136.5 pound division, and Pavel Pnigin, 3-1 over Larry Morgan of San Luis Obispo, Calif., in the 149.5 pound division.

Also, Russian Ashuraliyev, 5-2 over Carl Adams of Iowa State University in the 163.5 pound division; Viktor Novozhenkov pinned Bill Reinbolt of Toledo in 5:43 in the 180.5 pound class, and Sostih Andiyev pinned Mike McCready of Lancaster in 5:47 in the super heavyweight division.

Ryan's no-hitter rekindles inter-league comparisons

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nolan Ryan's no-hitter the other night got all the old arguments going again about the difference between the two leagues, and guess what?

It comes up the same as always — there are a lot more former National League players making it big in the American League than there are ex-A's in the NL.

In fact, it isn't even close. Ryan may be the most topical example, but how about these for starters — Dick Allen, Ken Henderson, Woodie Fryman, Bob Veale, Ken Holtzman, Deron Johnson, Mike Cuellar, Pat Dobson, Wilbur Wood, Gene Michael and Fred Patek.

These guys were either all-stars or near the end of their careers in the National League when they got to the American League.

It's a lot tougher to find anyone going the other way. Vic Davalillo, who hit .318 for the Pirates last year, is one of the very select group of players who performed better in the NL than in the AL. A more typical example is Sam McDowell, a big winner in the American League whose ERA ballooned to 4.34 in the NL last year.

Almost everyone is familiar with Ryan and Allen but how about Henderson? He had a lifetime .256 average in the National League. With the White Sox, he has been around the .300 mark all season.

Fryman was never more than a journeyman in the NL, but he won 10 games for the Tigers in the last two months of the 1972 pennant race.

The Pittsburgh Pirates gave up on Veale, released him and sent him to the minors. But he became a valuable relief pitcher for the Red Sox.

Holtzman pitched two no-hitters for the Cubs but never enjoyed as good a year in the National League as he did for Oakland last season when he won 19 and had a 2.51 ERA. This year he is pitching even better.

Johnson was washed up with the Phillies. He had 17 hits in his first dozen games with the A's this season. Cuellar, never more than a 16-game winner in the NL, won 85 games in the American League the last four seasons with Baltimore. Dobson also became a 20-game winner for the Orioles after achieving little success in the other league. Now Dobson is back in the NL with Atlanta, and losing more than he is winning.

Wood has become one of baseball's biggest winners with the White Sox, but when he was with Pittsburgh he couldn't ever hold down a regular job.

Likewise Michael and Patek, former Pirates shortstops, who are now among the best in the AL at their position with New York and Kansas City, respectively.

Then, of course, there is the case of genuine superstars who are at home in any environment. Frank Robinson is one of those. Going into the 1973 season, E. Robby had a lifetime .300 average for 827 games in the American League, and a lifetime .300 average for 1,605 games in the National League.

Buy in fielder

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Padres purchased utility infielder Rich Morales from the Chicago White Sox in a straight cash deal Saturday, to bring the club to its roster limit of 25 players.

The 29-year-old Morales, a native of San Francisco, appeared in seven games with the White Sox this year. He was hitless in four times at bat.

Morales, who plays all three infield positions, played in 110 games last season, hitting .206, and was the only American Leaguer to play second and third base without an error.

Miss Schmidt sets record to spice California meet

MODESTO, Calif. (UPI) — Kathy Schmidt, a bronze medal winner at the 1972 Olympics, set an American record of 207 feet, 10 inches in the women's javelin Saturday at the California Relays.

Miss Schmidt, who held the old American record of 205-6, was well off the world record of 213-5 set by Ruth Fuchs of East Germany last year before she went on to win the Olympic gold medal with a throw of 209-7. Miss Schmidt had a 196-8 toss at the Olympics.

Miss Schmidt who attends Long Beach City College, "I save my tooling around for my practice sessions."

Unlike most javelin throwers, Miss Schmidt lets go of the spear well before reaching the front line of the throwing circle. She said, though, she doesn't feel that she loses anything by being conservative.

"I concentrate on my timing," she said. "That's more important. The one thing I don't want to do is have a foul throw."

Rod Milburn, the world record holder and Munich gold medalist, followed by beating old rivals Tom Hill and Willie Davenport in the 120 high hurdles, winning the event in a wind-aided 13.3 seconds. Hill was a distant second in 13.6 and Davenport third in 13.7.

Herb Washington, in a major upset, won the special 100 meter dash in 10.1 when Steve Williams, the hotshot favorite, apparently misjudged the finish line.

Williams tied the world mark of 9.1 for 100 yards at the West

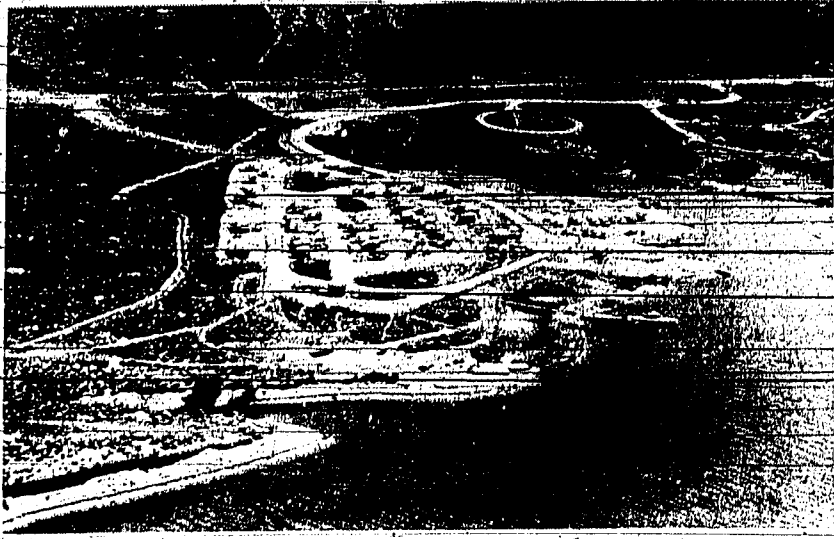

Const. Relays two weeks ago and Cal Relays meet director Tom Moore decided to make the race here at 100 meters in order to accommodate Williams, a slow starter.

It worked to a degree when Williams booted out of the blocks but he seemed to blow well before the finish line, for no obvious reason, while Washington steamed on to win the race. Ivory Crockett finished second in 10.2 and Williams was given third place, also in 10.2.

Meanwhile, Fran Stichting, the only woman on the Southwestern Oregon Community College team, led from start to finish to win the women's 100 yard dash in 10.5, a meet record. It was a fine performance for Miss Stichting, coming only a few minutes after she finished third in the long jump with a leap of 19 feet, 10 1/2 inches.

Martha Watson, third in the 100, won the long jump at 21-3. Vickie Betts was second in the long jump at 20-0 and Marjorie Bailey was second in the 100 at 10.8.

Miss Stichting placed in her third event a half hour later when she finished second to Marilyn Neufville, the world 400 meter record holder, in the 440 yard dash. Miss Neufville opened up a commanding lead on the final turn but Miss Stichting, in a strong finish, almost caught her at the tape.

PORTION OF SHORELINE around Magic Reservoir shows a good turnout of anglers for the opening day of the 1973 general fishing season. Winds and cold held down catch rates from a solid early-hour success to less than a fish per hour.

Opening day through

Winds and cold dampen results of opening day

A more than brisk wind and cooler weather shut off the start of a good opening of the fishing season Saturday but overall things went fairly well.

The wind destroyed the fishing for boat anglers on Magic and Mackay Reservoirs as early morning results showed catch rates at over a trout per hour. But after the wind sprang up, sending many boats to the shore, those remaining out saw it dip very low.

Cold temperatures, particularly in the higher elevations, just about cancelled the opening day. The best example was on the South Fork of the Boise where a total of 79 cars were counted but only a handful of fishermen were outside fighting the weather. The catch rate there was less than half a fish per hour.

Overall the Idaho Fish and Game Department counted a total of 2418 cars and 374 boats in its aerial survey compared with 2115 cars and 434 boats last year. The wind would account for the disparity in boat totals.

The aerial census and on-land census by drainages include: Salmon Falls reservoir — Seven cars.

Roseworth reservoir, 58 cars and two boats.

Hagerman refuge, 303 cars, 29 boats.

Billingsley Creek, 30 cars.

Malad River, 25 cars.

Dog Creek Reservoir, one car.

Thorn Creek Reservoir, two cars.

Mormon Reservoir, nine cars, no boats.

Cumas Creek, 29 cars.

Magie Reservoir, 708 cars and 228 boats.

Silver Creek area, (including Stocker, Grove and Loving Creeks), 267 cars.

Little Wood River below reservoir, 60 cars.

Little Wood Reservoir, 81 cars, 19 boats.

Fish Creek Reservoir, six cars and one boat.

Big Lost River from Area to Mackay dam, 149 cars.

Mackay Reservoir, 235 cars and 62 boats.

Big Lost River above reservoir, 25 cars.

Summitt Creek, six cars.

Trail Creek, 23 cars.

Big Wood River, from Galena Summit to Magic Reservoir, 219 cars.

Big Wood River below Magic Dam to Richfield Canal, 70 cars and six boats.

Richfield Canal, 28 cars.

Sublette Reservoir, 69 cars and 28 boats.

Magie, before wind, was excellent, 53 anglers with 170 trout and 100 hours, 1.7 per hour. After wind, catch rate dropped, overall for boat anglers 317 anglers, 764 trout, 945 hours for .8 trout per hour. Eastside and hot springs were .3 trout per hour. Largest seen was 4 1/2 pounds. Quite a few in two to 2 1/2-pound class.

Sublett, 82 anglers, 228 fish, 300 hours, .8 per hour. (Six Brown trout—largest 16 inches and one and three-quarter pounds from spring of 1971 planting).

Little Wood Reservoir, 37

anglers, 29 trout, 83 hours for .4 trout per hour. (Blue was generally excellent, one three and one-half pounds with six from two and one-half to three pounds).

Roseworth, 89 anglers, 174 hours, 150 Rainbow for .9 trout per hour.

Clear Lakes, 775 anglers with 30 checked had fished 36 hours with six trout per hour. About a half dozen in the seven to eight-pound range.

Big Wood River below Stanton Crossing, eight anglers, 37 trout, 29 hours for 1.3 trout per hour. Several in the pound and one-half class.

South Fork of the Boise, 71 cars but few fishermen due to cold weather. 23 anglers checked had four trout for .2 trout per hour.

Soldier Creek, three anglers, eight trout, six hours, 1.3 trout per hour.

Cumas Creek, seven anglers, 17 trout, 21 hours for .8 trout per hour.

Billingsley Creek, 46 anglers, 137 trout, 78 hours for 1.9 trout per hour. (Two brown trout in 10-in class from 1972 planting).

Malad River, 37 anglers, 71 trout, 37 hours for 1.3 trout per hour.

Hagerman refuge. Trout fishing very good, bass and blue gill fishing slow.

Mackay Reservoir, boat anglers fishing early did well until wind slowed success down. But early morning catch rate was over one fish per hour. 114 bank anglers had 99 rainbow and 11 Eastern Brook in 234 hours. Fish were running one and one-half to two pounds with six fish just about the weight limit.

Big Lost below Mackay Dam, 26 anglers, 43 trout, 49 hours.

Conditions were nearly ideal Saturday at the Modesto Junior College Stadium with the temperature in the 70s and a wind of about 5 to 10 miles blowing across the San Joaquin Valley. Miss Schmidt had an eye-popping series en route to her new American record, throwing 206-4 just before taking the mark to 207-10.

Miss Schmidt's record came in the early portion of the program before a crowd of about 9,000.

In other events, Fred Luke of Club Northwest won the men's javelin with a throw of 270-7 and Peter Farmer took the hammer with a throw of 219-1.

The 19-year-old Miss Schmidt made her record throw against the wind and said that was the way she likes to perform.

While the crowd gave her a fine hand when the record was announced, Miss Schmidt remained calm, although she did break out in a smile.

"When I'm competing I try not to get excited," said the 6-

McKay picks team for all-star game

CHICAGO (UPI) — Two offensive stars from the Inter-mountain region — guard Paul Howard from Brigham Young and Arizona State's Steve Holden at wide receiver — represented the Western Athletic Conference on the 1973 college all-star team picked by Southern California coach John McKay.

McKay named the 50-player squad Saturday. The coach of the 1972 No. 1 ranked and undefeated Trojans will coach the team in the annual pro football college All Star game.

It will be McKay's first appearance in the annual game, scheduled July 27 in Soldiers Field against the National Football League champion Miami Dolphins.

McKay's player selections indicated he would put in a wide open offense, vastly different from the usual pro sets which the Dolphins face.

Joining Holden on the offensive side will be LSU quarterback Bert Jones, running backs Ott Armstrong of Purdue, Sam Cunningham of Southern California, Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma and Chuck Foreman of Miami.

The other wide receivers are Isaac Curtis of San Diego State and Joe Wylie of Oklahoma.

Briles and Pirates top Astros

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates exploded for 11 hits, including a homer by winning pitcher Nelson Briles and a two run triple by Al Oliver, to defeat the Houston Astros 7-2 Saturday night.

The sixth inning homer was the first of the season for Briles and only the third of his career. He slammed a double earlier in the game.

Oliver's smash in the fifth inning scored Dave Cash and Willie Stargell. Vic Davalillo had scored earlier in the inning after singling and moving home when centerfielder Tommy Agee booted a single by Cash, who moved to third on the play. Stargell then walked.

From all angles By Larry Hovey

At least five Magic Valley trackmen are among the 23 Idahoans invited to participate in the Portland Rose Festival Association track meet June 9.

The association announced it has invited the Idaho winners to run against their counterparts from Washington and Oregon.

Twin falls will have four representatives in two-line quarter-mile champion Bruce Cooper; two-line half-mile King Gary Slevers; mile winner Pat Charlton and shotput titlist Tony Kevan.

Steve McKay, who holds the American dent records in both the mile and two-mile and hammered the state overall mark down to 9:33, is the other area man invited.

Only two other individuals, high jumper Jeff Schroeder of Meridian and long jumper Terry Hutt of Borah, were listed in the release.

The release said "the basis for invitations is first and second place finishers in the three state meets (large classification) plus invitations to athletes who demonstrate outstanding efforts in the middle and smaller classification meets."

The surprise locally would be that Kip Dennis, who has beaten them all in the high hurdles, particularly, wasn't invited.

Most confused youngster in the are right now is CSI sophomore center Vince Volnut who estimates 50 four-year schools have offered him scholarships for next year.

Volnut leads the CSI all-star parade, it is believed, in that department.

"You can't believe it," Coach Jerry Hale says. "Vince started getting five and six phone calls a day the day after we got back from Hutchinson and it the phone hasn't stopped ringing yet."

"Main-it seems like all-I do anymore is talk on the phone," Vince concurred. "It's really confusing. I'd like to go someplace, like east, in the New York area. Providence, Hofstra, St. John's. But then these other schools start talking about their program and their areas and I start wondering if they're right. I sure wish I could make up my mind and get it over with."

Smith leads eight Americans to third round of French open

PARIS (UPI) — Top seeded Stan Smith Saturday led eight other Americans safely through to the third round of the men's singles in the $150,000 French Open tennis championships.

Smith recovered from his customary slow start to defeat Californian Jim Memanus of Berkeley, 7-5, 7-5.

Also making it safely through the second round were Arthur Ashe, Tom Gorman, Dick Stockton, Erik Van Dillen, Harold Solomon, Frank Froehling, Charlie Pasarell and Paul Gekker.

Meanwhile, Bjorn Borg, Sweden's 16-year-old Davis Cup player, continued to be a giant-killer, defeating his second top professional in two days.

Borg, who Friday shredded ninth-seeded American Cliff Richey in straight sets, Saturday fought back from a 1-4 deficit in the final set to beat Frenchman Pierre Barthes 3-6, 6-1, 6-6 and he cheered off the sweltering center court of Roland Garros by over 6,000 spectators.

Second seed Ilie Nastase of Romania became the first player to reach the last 16 with a 6-2, 6-1, 6-3 third round win against West Germany's Jürgen Passberger.

Two more seeds, Manuel Orantes of Spain and Britain's Mark Cox, crashed out leaving only eight of the original 16 seeds still playing on the fourth day of the tourney.

Orantes, the fifth seed, went out to Wanaro N'godrella, the Frenchman from New Caledonia, who shut out the Spaniard 6-0 in the first set and then hung on for a 7-5 win in the tie-break final set.

Cox, the 13th seed, was beaten by another unseeded player, Paolo Bertolucci of Italy, 7-5, 6-3.

Arthur Ashe, seeded fourth, served four consecutive aces at one point en route to a 7-6, 6-3 victory against Australia's Geoff Masters.

Ashe, from Gum Spring, Virginia, foretook his usual serve and volley game to play less effectively from the baseline on the slow red clay court.

Frank Froehling of Miami, Fla. and Dickie Stockton of Port Washington, N.Y., both made it safely to the third round with straight set wins.

Froehling defeated Ion Tiriac of Romania, recently banned for his bad behavior in the Davis Cup against the United States, 7-6, 7-6. The Gypsy-like Tiriac, playing as though he had just gotten out of bed, became the first player in the history of the championships to lose despite never dropping his service game. Froehling won each tie-break comfortably 7-3 and 7-3 against the sleepy Romanian.

Stockton cruised to a 6-4, 6-4 win against Frenchman Jean Baptiste Chanfreau and will now meet Borg for a place in the last-16.

Chris Evert, women's second seed, made the third round easily by defeating Hideko Goto.

Seales signs

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Olympic boxing champion Sugar Ray Seales, unbeaten in seven professional bouts, has signed to meet Popper Romero in a 10-round welterweight bout at the Butte, Mont., Civic Center June 25. It was announced Saturday.

Seales stopped Buckakin in five rounds in his last fight when Buckakin suffered a cut and a glove burn over an eye.

Meanwhile, Rick Sobers and Willie Williams are busy flying around the nation. Williams hit Jacksonville last week. Jerry Tarkenton, Nevada, Las Vegas, was in town chattering Sobers around.

"That Sobers," Coach Hale chuckled, "won't sign until Sept. I because he's afraid if he does it'll be the end of steak dinners every night."

"That's right," Sobers replied soberly — then smiled.

On the CSI recruiting end of things, Coach Hale says "if the boys who say they are coming here show up, we'll have more overall talent than ever before. I mean, we'll have good depth."

Hale is in face-to-face negotiations with officials of Mexico which probably will lead to his heading up a basketball program in that country at least for the summer. It will be part of the Mexican Olympic basketball-building program being used as training camps. Ralph Palomar, ex-CSI star, will assist Hale in the program if negotiations are successful.

What they used to call the U. S. open is now the U. S. open maybe. The USGA has enacted special rules this year that, as they are explained to us, put a real penalty on the individual for having a bad round.

The rule states that any local qualifier must play the 36 holes with eight strokes of the course rating, not par. For instance, Twin Falls municipal had a 68 par but a 64.7 rating. If any qualifier fails to play within that eight stroke limit it is restricted from entry in the open for the rest of his life.

That seems rather a harsh punishment. The USGA boys note about a half-million individuals open per year and it is very unwieldy. But since they really only offer 30 positions — certain pro and amateur tournament winners already are seeded — we see no reason why qualifying a million down to 80 is any more problem than 600,000. All you have to do is open up another qualifying course here and there.

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Joe Pepitone, the much-travelled controversial first baseman said Saturday, night he is retiring from baseball — again.

He said he may go to Japan. One, who "retired" last May 1st but came back on June 30th and finished the season with the Chicago Cubs, made his newest decision after being traded from the Cubs to the Atlanta Braves. He has played only three games with the Braves.

Pepitone hasn't yet filed his letter to the commissioner officially retiring the did that last year and had to sit out for two months according to the rules but a Braves spokesman said the letter was being prepared. Also, he said the Braves are trying to make a deal with a Japanese team.

"I'm tired of the hassle of moving from town to town and I want out," he said. "I hate the Cubs for trading me. I worked hard in spring I also did the job for them this year and then they traded me."

"If they had done it last year when I quit I could understand it but they didn't. They did it this year and I hate them for it."

When asked why he bothered to report to the Braves, he said, "I just wanted to prove something to them. Then I decided just proving something wasn't worth it."

He said one of the reasons Japan is attractive is because of his financial problems. "If I could go to Japan with a 3-year guarantee like I was offered a year ago, that would help. Taxes aren't that much over there."

He said he realizes his major league career is probably over. "That's why it took me sometime to make the decision. Nobody will want to take a chance on me after this time. It has nothing to do with the Atlanta club."

Wardell Gilbreath who set a meet record of 20.6 in the 220 was high point man, with 22 points from the 220 and logs on New Mexico's two relay teams.

Nicklaus explodes into 6-stroke lead at Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus said Saturday he is "playing as well as I am capable of playing" after putting together his third straight super round in the Atlanta Golf Classic to go 17 under par, and surge into a commanding six-stroke lead over runner-up Tom Weiskopf.

Nicklaus after shooting 67-66-66-69 to get a 54-hole classic record and come within one stroke of the lowest three-round total so far on the tour this year. The only better 54-hole score this season was the 198 posted by young Brian Altimonte to an eight-stroke victory in the Citrus Open in early March.

Nicklaus, seeking his 14th U.S. tour victory and nearing the $2 million mark in earnings in low 11 years as a pro, won't by nine strokes when he captured the Disney World in the final 1972 tournament. But his biggest margin in his three victories so far this year was by a single stroke in the Tournament of Champions as he needed playoffs to win the Crosby and the New Orleans Open.

Nicklaus at Ohio State in the early '60s, went into Saturday's round insisting that Nicklaus "can be beaten," but lost ground with his 69-205. Al Gelberger took over third with a 68-207.

Court ruling may open way for Oklahoma to use quarterback

NOHRMAN, Okla. (UPI) — There is an "encouraging possibility" that University of Oklahoma quarterback Kerry Jackson may be eligible to play football this fall because of a precedent-setting court decision in California.

California Coach Gary Switzer said Saturday. Jackson and defensive end Mike Phillips were declared ineligible last spring when OU admitted that their Galveston (Tex.) Ball High School transcripts had been changed to raise their class standings.

Oklahoma forfeited eight games in which Jackson played last season, including the Sugar Bowl victory over Penn State. Neither the Big Eight Conference nor the NCAA has accepted the forfeits, nor have they completed their investigation of the case.

Maddox-led Giants rip Expos 10-3

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Garry Maddox hammered out five straight hits and drove in four runs to power the San Francisco Giants to a 10-3 victory over the Montreal Expos Saturday.

Maddox, who had four singles and a double, lifted his batting average to a league-leading .377. He doubled to drive in three runs in the eighth inning as the Giants scored five times to wrap up the victory.

San Francisco took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a pair of walks, singles by Maddox and Ed Godson, and a sacrifice fly by Gary Matthews. They increased the lead to 5-0 by the fifth inning.

Cubs stop Reds 2-0 on 4 hits

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs backed the combined four-hit shutout pitching of Milt Pappas and Jack Aker by scoring twice in the third inning, bunting through hits including a triple by Don Kessinger, to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 2-0.

Pappas, picking up his second victory in five decisions, pitched the first six innings and restricted the Reds to a first-inning double, by Bobby Tolan and a third-inning single by Pete Rose. Aker gave up a single by Dave Concepcion in the seventh and a ninth-inning single to Tony Perez.

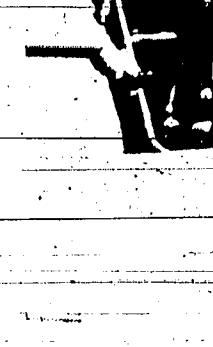

Pappas touched off the Cubs' third inning with a single and, after Pappas was forced at second by Rick Monday, Kessinger followed with a triple. A single by Billy Williams scored Kessinger for the Cubs' final run.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

A. If it wasn't bestowed upon you officially, it is.
Q. "What's the oldest known game?"
A. Something called "Go" which the Chinese Emperor Shun drained up more than 3,000 years ago. Two play it on a wooden board divided into 324 squares.
Q. "Know that aerophobia is fear of airplanes, but what's the fear of railroad trains?"
A. Siderocromophobia.

Trustee choice sought

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Securities Investor Protection Corp. (SIPC) Thursday asked a federal court to appoint a trustee for Weis Securities Inc. The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) also asked for a restraining order to prevent the new firm, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, from doing business. The SIPC action would protect investors for up to $50,000 in loss of cash and securities held by the firm. It would be the first time SIPC, a joint federal-industry insurance agency, has handled liquidation of a Big Board member. The SEC also charged in federal court that Weis had violated New York Stock Exchange capital rules, has inadequate records and lacks sufficient reserves to protect customers under SEC rules. In another development, the NYSE said it was considering asking the court for a 24-hour grace period so Weis could attempt to raise $2 million in additional cash and seek the sale of $8 million worth of securities underlying its subordinated loans. Weis was formerly known as Weis, Volson and Co. It had 30 branch offices earlier this year and 45,000 customer accounts.

TF Kellwood plant wins Sears award

TWIN FALLS — For the third straight year, the Twin Falls plant of the Kellwood Co. has received the Sears Symbol of Excellence award. Bill P. Satterfield, plant manager, said the award is presented to only 300 of the 20,000 firms supplying Sears, Roebuck and Co. with merchandise. He said the award is the "result of the outstanding efforts of the employees and supervisors at the Twin Falls plant." Satterfield said the award is based on a top quality product in the market place, research and development and meeting delivery schedules. Kellwood's Twin Falls plant manufactures hosiery. The Kellwood firm, with headquarters in St. Louis, makes and sells apparel, home fashions, and recreation equipment in 57 plants in 18 states.

Cain's enlarges facility

TWIN FALLS — Cain's Furniture and Appliance Store is in the process of an expansion project which will provide 25 per cent more floor space. Elvis Cain, owner, said when the remodeling is completed it will give the store the largest floor space of any home furnishing store in Idaho. The space total includes the budget store on Second Avenue North which will remain intact. George Detweiler, owner of the building, has purchased the former Sherman-Williams paint store adjacent to Cain's, and the structure is being remodeled to provide additional floor space on all three levels of the furniture store.

TWIN FALLS — Formal opening of the Sherwin-Williams paint store here is scheduled Saturday. City Manager Jean Miller and a representative of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce will officiate at the opening ceremonies at 10:16 a.m. Ted Cheney, store manager, said the firm has renovated the building at 506 Second Ave. E. since moving to that location late in the summer of 1972. The firm moved after a fire destroyed its store in the 200 block on Main Avenue North. A highlight of the opening will be the appearance of "Scooby-Doo," a dog appearing in Hanna-Barbera cartoon shows on television. Cheney said the store has added a line of carpet and wall coverings to the various lines and grades of paint it handles in its 1,600 square feet of retail space. The building also contains a 4,000 square foot warehouse area, which aids in serving wholesale customers in the Magic Valley. The firm has operated a store in Twin Falls for more

Purchase plan OK'd

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Directors of the Amalgamated Sugar Co. Thursday authorized the company to purchase up to 20,000 shares of its own common stock for use as employee bonuses and benefits. Company President A. E. Benning said the purchases would be made "over a considerable period of time and under price and volume restrictions designed to minimize the impact of the purchases on the market price of the company's securities." Benning said directors also announced Thursday a quarterly dividend of 40 cents per share of common stock. The dividend will be paid Aug. 15 to stockholders of record July 13. He said the company's plan to purchase its own stock could be interrupted or discontinued at any time, and that the company is not committed to purchasing all 20,000 shares.

What your saying . . .

Listen to hearings?

QUESTION: Would you rather watch the Watergate hearings or daytime soap operas?

NELLIE CAGLE, BUHL:

"Well, I don't watch either one to tell you the truth. Television and I don't get along because I go to sleep. I'd rather read a good book or something. "No, I've listened to it on the radio, but I haven't watched it on television.

"Yes, I think we should know about it."

MRS. R. A. JACKSON, TWIN FALLS:

"I have my own special programs that I like to watch and about every time I get ready to watch them the hearings come on.

"I don't know. To tell you the truth, when I'm just sitting there I will watch the hearings, but I'm not interested. I don't care which way they go as to what decision they finally come to."

MRS. DALE BOWERS, BUHL:

"I think it's a good thing this is out in the public where people can find out what's going on in politics. I think there's a lot of things kept secret that the people who pay taxes ought to know.

"I've been watching a few (of the hearing sessions). I haven't really had time to watch it that much. I think there is a lot of crookedness going on. Now, they're going to let the public see what they wanted to see."

ANN CLAMPITT, TWIN FALLS:

"I think I'd rather watch Watergate; that's getting real interesting. I think people need to know about things like this rather than keeping it under wraps like it has been.

"I really would (like to see more coverage). It shows how some people can be more devious. I know there are people around who would rather watch soap operas, but I'd rather watch it (Watergate). It's important for the whole country to get the full story on it and find out just exactly what is going on."

ELIZABETH MYERS, TWIN FALLS:

"Well, I'd rather watch soap operas.

"A little (has watched hearings). "Well, not until yesterday (was it interesting). When Caulfield was testifying that was interesting. I finished listening to him this morning, but outside of that I haven't been too interested.

"I hardly know what to think about it. I couldn't say either way."

SHARON MORT, TWIN FALLS:

"I'd rather watch the soap operas, really. I watched Watergate one day and it got kind of boring after awhile. I don't mind watching a special report where they condense it once a day, but I don't like to watch it all day long.

"Yes, really (it's a good service to the public), but I wonder if that many people watch it. It was my thought that it is a good thing, but I wonder how many people stay with it."

EXPANSION-REMODELING SALE

For weeks workmen have been preparing the adjoining building to our present facilities so that we can encompass it into our operation, which will give us an additional 25% display area on all three floors. Progress is ahead of schedule. The doors into the new areas were completed last week and we will start on the 'new look' of our present facilities this week.

To facilitate the progress of the workmen and to avoid handling and damage of merchandise, we decided it would be wise to make every effort to clear a large portion of our present display stock.

To help accomplish this we have taken

MARKDOWN TOTALING . . . . . $30,000 and almost every department is involved.

Watch for a large colored matter. It will itemize some of the values being offered.

We ask your indulgence for the next few weeks. We apologize in advance for the untidy appearance of all departments. It is a means to an end — to introduce to Magic Valley this new concept of merchandising Home Furnishings.

IN ADDITION TO THE IMPORTANCE OF CLEARING MERCHANDISE FOR OUR EXPANSION PROJECT, WE THOUGHT WE WOULD MENTION A FEW ITEMS THAT MIGHT BE OF INTEREST TO YOU.

- We have unloaded into our warehouse a car shipment of famous Wright air coolers for homes and mobile homes and in order to clear them fast we have discounted them about 20%.
- We have far too many chairs so we have discounted them liberally. You might want to layaway one for Father's Day.
- We have several school appliances left and a car of freezers have just arrived. It is important that we move them out fast.
- We are moving our entire carpet department into our new addition, so you'll find drastic markdowns here on our entire roll stock.

- The second floor of our new addition will be our complete Sleep Shop, so to avoid moving our mattress, bunk beds, and sleeper sofas, we would prefer marking them down to a figure that would assure their clearance.
- We are modernizing our entire main floor — lowering the ceiling, etc. You'll love the savings on every item presently displayed in this area.
- Our overstock condition of color t.v. and stereos will assure you a real low price. The 1974 models are coming — We must clear our stocks.

Drop in this week for sure, if for no other reason than to see what we are doing. We think you'll find it interesting.

If you want to make a purchase, you'll never have a better opportunity to save money on most items.

Tree For New Park

FIRST MEMORIAL tree at the new Rock Creek park is planted by (from the left) Mrs. Roy Painter, the donor; Don Zuck, chairman of the Twin Falls County Parks and Recreation Committee; Ed Woods Twin Falls County Parks Director, and William Chancey, county commissioner chairman who shoveled the first dirt into the planting area.

Park Area Opening Nears

The new Rock Creek Park is just about to come to life.

With most of it nestled along the banks of Rock Creek west of the hospital, north of Highway 30 and just past what was called Dead Man's Gulch, the eight acre area has about five acres on the canyon floor.

Prior to the time the project was "sparked" by Twin Falls County Commissioners, with an assist by the Parks and Recreation Committee and other organizations — namely the Twentieth Century Club, the area was a field of wrecked autos, trash and litter.

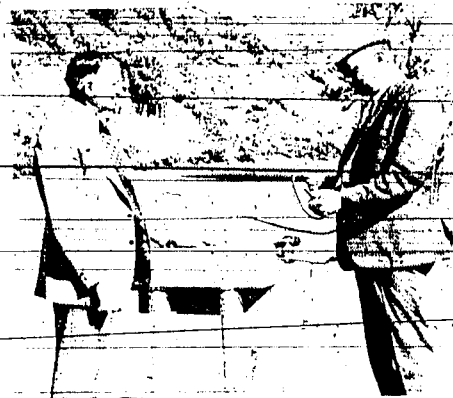

Now the area is leveled, grass has been planted, roads are being graded, sand will be hauled in for a playground area, picnic tables will be put up and restroom facilities erected.

The Twentieth Century Club, a civic womens organization, has contributed hundreds of dollars of club funds to the project. This has been augmented by county and federal monies and now officials say it will be open for use by summertime.

One project in connection with the new park is the planting of trees as "living memorials" to departed friends or relatives. These memorials will be in the form of trees or shrubs paid for by family members and donated to the park.

The first such memorial was planted last week when a blue spruce was dedicated to the memory of the late Roy Painter by his widow, Mrs. Sarah Painter, who has served as Twentieth Century Club president for the past two years, completing her final year only recently.

Site Inspected

TWO COUNTY commissioners inspect site for new restrooms to be erected at the Rock Creek Park west of the city. From the left are Merrill Leonard and Bill Wiseman.

Grass Seeded Area

PART OF THE just seeded area of the Rock Creek Park is shown in this picture. The entire area will be landscaped and will include, among other things, a playground. Ed Woods, Twin Falls County Parks Director, inspects the grass growth.

Discussions About Here — There

TURN BACK THE CLOCKS BOX: Dick Clark, a hit with "American Bandstand," was being talked about as a great new movie star. Perry Como was taking his show to Italy, his first visit to the home of his parents. Print ads for two different makes of TV sets showed pictures of lonesome George Gobel on the set. One of Amanda Blake's beautiful western gowns was destroyed in the shooting of a kidnap episode on "Gunsmoke." The Lone Ranger was signed up by Vice-President Richard Nixon to start selling war bonds in September. "You Asked For It" starred a dog which could ride a surfboard. Four of the top ten shows were Westerns.

GAME BOX: Gene Rayburn, frequent panellist on "To Tell the Truth" and "What's My Line," moved from New York to Cape Cod. "The price of New York living got too high," says Gene. "I don't mean just the rent, I mean the constant burglaries and never-ending noise. So we decided to get out of the rat race. Now, I can fly into New York for one day and take a week's worth of shows. The rest of the time I'm here on the Cape where the only theft is bench erosion, and the only noise, the sound of waves slapping on the sand."

FOREIGN EXCHANGE BOX: If you travel to Rome, you'll find prime-time TV is radically different. They have a permanent theme for each night of the week. Fridays are always "News and Analysis," Tuesdays are always "Cultural," Thursdays are always "Quiz And Variety," etc. It may get pretty boring, but remember what they say: "When in Rome, view as the Romans view."

INSIDE THE BOX WORKS: The fact that the new season will not offer any obvious imitations of "The Waltons" this September does not mean there won't be any fairly soon. The success of this series was a little too slow in coming for producers to take advantage of it for this Fall. But now there is definite interest in this type of program, and the show which NBC has in mind is "The Red Pony" which was such a great success as a Special. Henry Fonda, in spite of his recent "Spahn Family" failure, has already stated his willingness to try the series route again. But he is insisting that the full cast of the Special be included in the series — a clever demand but one which poses a major problem for NBC. Their hope is, however, that the deal can be worked out quick enough to make possible a mid-season start.

SURPRISE BOX: If you watch Tony Randall's "Wacky Week! Wackee" Special June 6 on ABC, don't miss what Jerry Stiller does after he sees those mermaids in the water ballet. Jerry's actions were not in the script, but they were too funny to cut.

TIP OF THE HAT BOX: From Jack Lemmon: "The greatest danger about growing older is that you may start to think old. I know some people who are only 35 but act 90 because of their stale attitude toward life. But I also know people who are 90 and act 35. The difference, it seems to me, is spontaneity — seeing today in terms of today, not yesterday or tomorrow."

MATCH BOX: Patrick McGoohan and Garry Moore. These two starred in different series which have something in common. What? You have ten seconds. Answer: Both were in "secret" series — McGoohan in "Secret Agent" and Moore in "I've Got A Secret." (Thanks to T. Borden, Harwich, Mass.)

BOX KNOCKS: Even Charlie the tuna knows the truth about those critics who pretend to look down their noses at TV. "If you've got good taste," says Charlie, "you buy a TV, but you don't watch it — except when nobody's around."

We return you to the Box. Look happy.

Jack Parr In Hollywood

"Jack Parr Tonight" goes to Hollywood for two weeks of programming, to be seen on the ABC Television Network's "ABC Wide World of Entertainment" series May 28 through June 7 (11:30 PM-1AM, PDT).

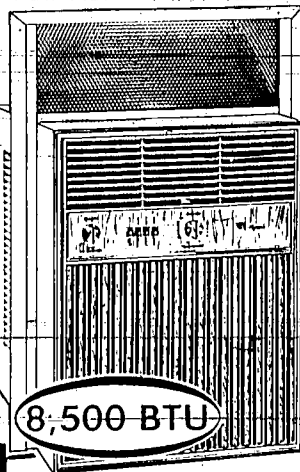

The show guest list will include top stars from the motion picture and television worlds who are based on the West Coast and generally not available to the Parr program which originates from New York. The programs will be taped at the ABC studio in the Vine Street Theatre. Producer

Bob Carman is currently in Hollywood preparing for the originations.

This will be the first time that the "ABC Wide World of Entertainment" series will interrupt its regular late-night programming schedules. The "Jack Parr Tonight" Hollywood shows will be broadcast Monday-through-Friday, May 28-June 1, and Monday-through Thursday, June 4-7.

"Jack Parr Tonight" is produced by Robert Carman and directed by Hal Gurnee. The music is the Charles Randolph Green Sound.

Peter Ustinov Portrays Last King Of America

George Washington, Marie Antoinette, Tom Paine Shakespeare, Louis XVI, and Edmund Burke are just

King Interviewed

PETER USTINOV portrays England's George III, and is interviewed by CBS News Correspondent Eric Sevareid, who assumes the view of a colonial journalist, during and after the American Revolution on "The Last King of America" to be broadcast Wednesday evening, June 6, over CBS.

some of the names dropped by Peter Ustinov in his tour-de-force improvisation of George III of England on "The Last King of America," to be presented Wednesday, June 6 (9:00 — 10:00 p.m. MT) on the CBS Television Network.

Ustinov's study for his role on the CBS News broadcast — including use of primary sources like the King's correspondence and firsthand accounts by his contemporaries — enabled him to paraphrase the words and capture the iconoclastic attitude of the King towards individuals whose reputations with the general public have now reached mythic proportions.

He is a tall man, bad teeth — but that should not stand against him," is the King's (Ustinov) description of George Washington, on the broadcast.

The King muses on the role of fate in furthering the career of America's first president: "If he had been accepted as a commissioned officer in the British army, he would not be there with you now. He had to go somewhere, I suppose, and there he went. You give him some kind of rank; we still call him mister."

Linda Bove Proves To Be A Born Actress

"A deaf person is a born actor," says Linda Bove, a young actress who has been deaf since birth.

Miss Bove, who plays Melissa in a newly-created role in "Search for Tomorrow," daytime serial seen Monday through Friday on the CBS Television Network, explains that, in general, "we use our hands and body to communicate, just as a hearing actor would have to do in a stage portrayal."

The young actress has five years of stage experience, thus far, having joined the National Theatre of the Deaf in 1968, when it was formed. While attending Gallaudet College in Washington, D. C. — the only liberal arts college for the deaf in the United States — she was discovered by David Hays, director of the group.

Now, with 12 national tours, six European trips and numerous special awards for theatre excellence behind it, the National Theatre of the Deaf plans future expansion, while Miss Bove continues to communicate, in her own special way.

60 Students Gain $6,500 In Grants

More than 60 musicians as well as those interested in drama and dance have received scholarships or partial scholarships through the Twin Falls Music Club for 1973.

Since May of 1956 when, under the leadership of Mrs. Sterling Vaughn the first $75 scholarship was presented, the awards have grown until this year the total was over $6,500. The Twin Falls Music Club is a member of the National Federation of Music Clubs, the nation's largest musical organization with a membership of 600,000. Dedicated to singing and fostering young musical talent, the Federation conducts annual Junior Festivals with more than 30,000 participants, offers nearly $10,000 in Young Artist Auditions, conducts annual student auditions, sponsors adult, young composer and junior competition contests and grants many awards and scholarships. All of Idaho's schools and colleges are members of the Idaho Federation of Music Clubs and are entitled to all federation activities. In Twin Falls the District Five Junior Music Clubs annual award program was held before a standing-room-only audience at the YM-MWCA auditorium. More than 200 young musicians, dancers and drama students received awards earned during the past few months. Mrs. Donald Youtz, gold cup chairman and local scholarship chairman, welcomed the guests and participants.

A short program was presented by Melanie Hamilton, violinist, accompanied by Mrs. Lloyd Hamilton playing Telemann's Concerto in G Major for viola and piano. A piano solo "March Wind" by McDowell was played by Pamela Reynolds, Buhl.

Following the presentation, Mrs. Jerry Haynes, junior festival chairman, introduced students who earned a superior rating at the recent festival held in Twin Falls and presented them with the National Honor Certificate. Donors to the District Five Junior Club's and the Twin Falls Music Club's scholarship funds include: Idaho's Commission on Arts and Humanities; First Federal Savings and Loan Association; Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co.; Garth's Music, Warner Music, Mary Gundelfinger, Gertrude Detweiler, Jay and Tine Hill, Shirley Kendrick, Willa Dean Nielsen, Mrs. Wayne Johnson, Mrs. Joy John Coleman, Ballet West, Ballet Folk of Moscow, University of the Pacific, North Arizona State University, College of Southern Idaho and all who supported the Music Club's scholarship fund raising events, the Scholarship Ball, Ballet West and Carmen.

MELODY YOUTZ, winner of the giant gold cup, is congratulated by Mrs. Jerry Haynes, Junior Festival Chairman, and Mrs. Donald Youtz, gold cup chairman. Melody won her 62 points in piano.

Brooklyn Quiet Even Though Larry Is A Star

"Right now I'm just one of the specks on the block," shrugged 11-year-old Larry Fishburne, a boy from Brooklyn.

Nevertheless, in less than a year Laurence John Fishburne III, a public school student with no professional training, has co-starred in the upcoming ABC Television Network filmed special, "If You Give a Dance You Gotta Pay the Band," and won a featured role in ABC's daytime drama, "One Life to Live," an Emmy nominee. His television audience numbers millions.

But back in Brooklyn, Larry explained with a grin, "Nobody really considers me big."

The special, a powerful story of love and friendship in a slum, will be rebroadcast Wednesday, June 6 on the ABC Television Network. Larry plays a self-sufficient boy named Fish. His good friend in the teleplay is 13-year-old Billie Jean (Donna Bryan), who has saved her money for a trip to visit her father. When her drug addict brother steals her savings, Fish, through love and ingenuity, recovers most of the money for her trip.

In "One Life to Live," telecast Mondays through Fridays 3:30-4PM, PDT, Larry is featured in the role of Joshua West, a youngster without parents who seeks friends in a street gang.

When Larry leaves the television set in Manhattan, however, he returns to the ordered, happy home in the Park Slope section of Brooklyn. His father is a social worker who counsels delinquents at a city institution. His mother teaches science, mathematics and charm at a Brooklyn junior high school.

Their only son casually sums up his career this way:

"My mother thought I had a talent. O.K. So the family knew a guy named Maurice Watson (a drama teacher at Brooklyn College). He got me into a play last summer. After that they picked me for the ABC special (through auditions) and after that I got into this (One Life to Live)."

The play last summer was presented at the Henry Street Settlement House on Manhattan's lower East Side. Mrs. Fishburne helped make-up the cast members who included the long-time professional actress Cynthia Belgrave. Miss Belgrave was instrumental in having Larry audition for the ABC special.

Award Boxes And Male Box And Soap Boxes

AWARD BOX: The Edgar Award (Mystery Writers of America) to "The Night Striker" starring Deron McKevan and written by Richard Matheson... The Silver Rose Award at the Montreux Festival in Switzerland to "The Julie Andrews Hour"... The Sidney Hillman Award, (for outstanding achievement in mass communications) to producer Lucy Jarvis for her documentary "What Price Health?"... An Honorary doctorate in Humane Letters from the University of Indiana to Karl Malden for "The Streets of San Francisco".

SOAP BOX: Why doesn't "The Doctors" have women's lib problems? Jim Pritchett (he plays Dr. Matt Powers) points at one of the show's newest additions, Marie Thomas. "It's because of roles like the one Marie has," says Jim. "We always have plenty of fine actresses playing parts other than just housewives." Marie has the role of Lauri James, a nurse who also wants to be a singer.

MALE BOX: Monte Markham, long considered one of television's most competent actors, has never had a successful series. His best remembered flop is "The Second Hundred Years". Well, this Fall, Monte will star in a series which could aptly be titled, "The Second Twenty Years". He has been selected for the coveted role in "The New Adventures of Perry Mason." Break a leg, Monte.

INSIDE THE BOX WORKS: Getting academy award winner William Holden to do a TV series was much more difficult than most people realize. NBC had to have a perfect hand of cards. First, the production company had to be one that was "special." (So what about Lorimar Productions, riding high with "The Waltons"?) Second, the series had to be a short one so that Holden would not be tied down too long. (Would you believe 4 episodes in all?) Third, the series had to have prestige. (How about a best-selling novel by Joseph Wambaugh? Fourth, there had to be a top TV writer. (How does Rod Serling grab you?)

But it was the fifth card which really swung the deal. Fifth, the character Holden played had to be one with special significance for him. And he has never been happy with his image since the vehicular manslaughter trouble. (So what about letting him play a police officer?) And that's how NBC got Bill Holden to star as officer Bumper Morgan in "The Blue Knight", a four-part series for the 1973-74 season.

QUICK CHANGE BOX: From caskets to baskets - Doug McClure, out of the murders on "Search," into a basket ball movie, "Stars and Skins"... From twins to sons - Patty Duke, once the twin stars of her own series, guesting on "Owen Marshall" as a selfish sinner... From rock to shock - Susan Dey, rock member of "The Partridge Family", meeting a murderer's ghost on "Circle of Fear"... From jokes to soaks

- Rose Marie, a joke writer on the old "Dick Van Dyke Show", playing a bartender on "Adam-12"... From pinching pennies to pinching girls - Jack Benny shows off his own Ding-A-Ling, Sisters on "The Dean Martin Show."

BOX KNOCKS: From Dr. Barbara Bess, Assistant director at New York's Medical College: "Television is particularly bad for children, because it presents everything in a neat little package. The effects of this are carried over into later life and make for a very lazy, unproductive adult." Sure, like those two avid TV watchers, Mark Spitz and Bobby Fischer.
BOX YOCKS: Cute Kathy Nolan, Luke's wife on "The Real McCoys" insists TV is

Howard K. Smith Fails To See Congress Moving

Commenting on special interest groups and their influence on government, ABC News commentator Howard K. Smith said, "Watergate gives Congress its chance to clean up government. But Congress is adept at shrugging off its chances unless citizens insist." The full text of Smith's commentary, broadcast on the "ABC Evening News with Howard K. Smith and Harry Reasoner" and on the American Information Radio Network, follows:

"When President Kennedy was killed by a gun shot, the public became angry at the saturation of this country, alone of modern nations, with guns.

"In the wake of that horror, handouts galore crossed my desk from members of Congress with plans to control guns.

"The gun lobby, wise in the ways of Washington, hunkered down and out-waited the anger. Then it counterattacked with its consistently misleading propaganda, and with money for politicians. No effective gun controls passed.

"Today, in the wake of Watergate - a weed like too many in our politics, but one that grew to unequalled size and poisonousness when watered by millions of dollars - I see on my desk handouts on Congressional plans to control the flood of special interest money that rots the foundations of government.

"Once again, you may be sure, the interests, used to getting their way with money, are hunkering down, out-waiting the wave of anger. They will counterattack with money. There will be no effective campaign finance laws.

"Unless, this time, you insist to your representative that he act or you won't vote for him.

"Priority one, without awaiting all the Watergate facts, ought to be to pass a downright brutal campaign finance law with razor-like teeth. Other nations have them, and they work. Corruption scandals are almost unknown as a result.

"Watergate gives Congress its chance to clean up government. But Congress is adept at shrugging off its chances unless citizens insist."

We interrupt for this important message — a game of question and answer from our Mail Box. Bet you can't get ten right! Just answer yes or no.

1. Is it true that Peter Lawford gave up booze?

2. Has Gail Fisher split with her husband?

3. Is Lorne Greene over 60?

4. Did Doc Severinsen's parents actually name him "Doc"?

5. Is Susan Dey ("The Partridge Family") into a romance with an older man?

6. Was Elena Verdugo ("Marcus Welby") making her second trip down the aisle when she married Dr. Charles Rosewall?

7. Does Peter Simon (Scott Phillips on "Search For Tomorrow") prefer writing to acting?

8. Does Lucille Ball have another movie in mind after "Name?"

9. Is Roger Moore ("The Saint" and now James Bond) another convert to acupuncture?

10. Is the MGM network going to compete with NBC, CBS and ABC?

11. Is it true the courts had stopped Peter Duel ("Alias Smith And Jones") from driving a car shortly before his suicide?

12. I read James Coco is 44. Didn't it take him an awful long time to make a success?

13. Is Susan Saint James related to Harry James?

14. Does William Holden have a son who is an actor?

15. How can Ursula Andress and Ryan O'Neal be talking marriage. Is he divorced?

Okay, let's check your Box Score.

1. YES. After an operation (cyst removal) doctors insisted Peter Lawford give up alcohol. He did.

2. YES. They are separated, but they have gotten back together before. Says Gail, "At the moment, we have no plans — one way or the other."

3. NO. Lorne is 58.

4. NO. His parents named him "Karl," but he was the son of a dentist, so the kids hung "Doc" on him.

5. YES. Nineteen-year-old Susan is sweet on Dale McCraven, divorced and the father of three children. And Screen Gems, producers of the series, wish you wouldn't ask such embarrassing questions.

6. YES. Elena was previously married to another Charles — Charles Marion. They have a grown son, Richard.

7. YES. Says Peter, "Writing is a way of life. It forces you to try and create order from all the chaos around you."

8. YES. Lucy has long wanted to do "Diamond Jim," playing Lillian Russell to Jackie Gleason's Jim. This looks like the time.

9. YES. Roger had back trouble, claims it was cured in three visits by a London acupuncturist.

10. NO. The MGM network is really not a network at all — just those stations which are signing up to telecast once a month some newly released MGM movies like "The Yearling."

11. YES. Because of a two-car collision, Duel was charged with driving while intoxicated. His license was lifted for a year.

12. YES. Coco had to wait until America's image of a leading man changed. "I've always been short, fat and old," says Coco. "I was born that way."

13. NO. Susan's real last name is "Miller." She is the daughter of toy mogul Charles Miller.

14. YES. Scott Holden, 25, made his first movie last year — "The Revengers," starring his Dad, Ernest Borgnine and Susan Hayward.

15. NO. Ryan is still married, but Ursula says, "With me, marriage is not an issue. When you are in love, you are in love. That is all that matters."

We return you to the Box. Look happy.

Groundless Fear

PSYCHOLOGIST BOB HARTLEY (Bob Newhart) tries to convince his wife Emily (Suzanne Pleshette) that she has no reason to worry about her first airplane flight on "The Bob Newhart Show" Saturday evening, June 2. It is on the CBS network.

CBS Morning News Due For Shakeup

Although CBS has not yet made the announcement, their "Morning News" is about to be given the severest shakeup in the history of the program. Executive producer Dick Clark will go. John Hard, the newsmen in New York, will be replaced. Likewise, Nelson Benton in Washington. No one knows who the new reporters will be or what new kind of format will be tried, but insiders are sure the show will be very different from the present one.

Why? Because of a hot little number known as "Today" on NBC. While CBS's "Morning News" has been going steadily downhill, "Today" has been rolling up the largest audiences in its long history, reaching an all-time high in February — a 7.4 rating and almost five million homes! How do they do it? Let's take a look at "Today" in 3D (Difference, Depth and Durability.)

1. Difference: The difference between this and other morning news shows is immediately apparent. This is not a news show. Oh, it has news — Frank Blair popping up every half hour with a wrap-up. But this is a variety program, loaded with features like a report on US gold mining, a performance by a couple of rock singers, an interview with two "students" learned to be trotting drivers, etc. Most important of all, "Today" is a program package which manages to make viewers feel rewarded after they watch it. The material is usually light and entertaining, and yet it has sufficient meat to let one feel a bit more educated. It is, as someone said, a nice way to start the day.

2. Depth: By depth, we mean talent, and oddly enough, "Today's" format is such that most of the talent is not very important. The show has a way of taking people who would probably never make much of a name elsewhere and lifting them up to a certain level of stardom — a level they will very likely never reach again after leaving the show. People like Dave Garroway, Jack Lescault, Hugh Downs, Frank McGee. This is not to say that McGee or Barbara Walters or Frank Blair or Gene Shalt do not do a good job. They do. But on "Today", it is the show which makes the performers, not the other way around.

But it is a very different matter on the technical side. The large number of "pieces" which make up the whole could add up to nothing more than boredom and annoyance if they were not put together in a manner which lends that pleasant, relaxed flow so vital to early morning enjoyment.

"Catholics" set for next season showing

Trevor Howard will star as the aging, doubt-tormented Irish abbot in "Catholics," the Sidney Glazier production of Brian Moore's acclaimed new novel about an imagined future Catholicism, to be broadcast as a "CBS Playhouse 90" present. (on next season on the CBS Television Network, it was announced today by Lewis Freedman, executive producer, dramatic programs, for the Network.

Martin Sheen has also been signed to portray a mad young priest from Rome whose mission is to convert the abbot and his monastery to the beliefs of this hypothetical time period in which even the clergy no longer believes in the "real presence" of God.

The drama, which delves subtly into the conflict of faith beneath a simple dispute over whether to celebrate mass in English or Latin, will be filmed in May in County Tipperary and along the coast of Southwestern-Cork, Ireland.

Barry Levinson, whose credits include the films "First Love," which won an Oscar nomination as the best foreign film of 1970, "The Night Visitor" and "The Amazing Mr. Blunden," will produce the special.

Conversations About Theatre, a special two-part program exploring the latest innovations of internationally recognized directors Jerzy Grotowski and Peter Brook, will be presented on "Camera Three" Sunday, May 27 and Sunday, June 3 on the CBS Television Network. Commentator and interviewer for both broadcasts is Margaret Croymden, theatre critic and author of the forthcoming books, "Lunatics, Lovers and Poets: The Contemporary Experimental Theatre."

performed in African villages before appreciative native audiences. Brook shares his views on modern theatre and explains why Shakespearean theatre remains his model. Photographs of the African tour are included on the broadcast.

Grotowski, in Part I on May 27, discusses his new perspectives as head of the Polish Laboratory Theatre, and his personal experiences in several months of walking and hitchhiking through this country. Included in this broadcast are photographs of the Polish Laboratory Theatre in current productions.

Merrill Brockway is executive producer of "Camera Three" for WCBS-TV, CBS owned television station in New York.

In Part II on June 3, English director Peter Brook discusses his recent International Theatre Company tour through Africa, where polished plays and improvisations were

Bridge record

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Golden Gate Bridge carried a record 34,435,542 vehicles in the last fiscal year, an average of 94,086 vehicles a day.

Although the bridge, valued at $600 million, is fully paid for, tolls produced revenue of $8,382,867 in the year. Most of the money was plowed back into subsidizing bus and ferry services as alternatives to automobile use.

Maude Is One Gal Who Really Made The Grade

For all dark-haired little girls who are tall for their age and long to be petite, blonde, blue-eyed movie stars, there is hope. You have a new champion.

For all little girls whose mothers want them to be concert pianists, so they must practice long hours while other girls are with their dates at the movies, there is also hope. They, too, have a new champion.

And for laboratory technicians, working long hours at the slides and test tubes in the local hospital, who really want to break out of the small-town mold and see the bright lights of Broadway, there is — yes, hope — and a new champion.

The new champion in all three cases is Beatrice Arthur, the star of "Maude" (Tuesdays) on the CBS Television Network. She was also the little girl who wanted to be a movie star, didn't want to be a concert pianist and did break away — finally — from a small town in Maryland to see the bright lights of Broadway. Like most real-life "Cinderella" stories, Beatrice Arthur was not an overnight success in New York. But she studied, learned her craft from classics through dramas and musical comedies and then, there it was, just like in the movies she had watched as a child, her name up in lights as one of the stars of "Mame." Broadway critics were unanimously impressed and she walked off with the coveted "Tony" Award for her role of Vera Charles.

 By this time Miss Arthur had a husband and two sons and she felt content to give all her time to the role of wife and mother. After all, she had become a Broadway star and she was satisfied.

Fate was not through with Beatrice Arthur, however, and her long-time friend Norman Lear, had made "All in the Family" the top-rated television show in the country. He asked Miss Arthur to play a guest role in the series. He said he would create it especially for her and she would be great in the part.

Lear knew what he was talking about. The role he created was "Maude," Edith Bunker's cousin who came to take care of the Bunker family when they were ill and stayed long enough to steal the show. Public reaction was immediate and CBS Television Network executives knew a good thing when they saw it. They scheduled "Maude" for a series, which has become one of the hit shows of 1972-73 season.

So the tall, little girl from the small town in Maryland is a big Hollywood star after all — and she hasn't played a piano in years!
