Cadets honor dead

to America's war dead. A handful of Twin Falls residents attended the ceremony, which included the playing of "Taps" at the park's war memorial. Some communities will observe Memorial Day on Wednesday, the traditional date of the holiday.

Skylab crew starts tests

HOUSTON (UPI) — With Skylab cooling under the shade of an umbrella, three astronauts settled down in the space station today and began all-important medical testing for a record 28 days in orbit.
Charles "Pete" Conrad, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Wertz awakened on their fourth day in space shortly after 5 a.m. MDT and their first chore was to draw blood samples from each other for inter-analysis.
"Hello there, our hands are full of bloody medical equipment, but we'll recover," said Wertz when the big space station swept over the Gulf of Mexico at 8:15 a.m. It was the first time Americans had taken blood samples in space.
Conrad, Kerwin and Wertz have turned the 100-ton, eight-compartment assembly into a liveable house. They cooked breakfast in their wardroom for the first time this morning and plan to move into three private bedrooms tonight.

"I've just finished shaving, breakfast is cooking and I think with a little luck at all we'll get into a good routine," Conrad said.
Things were going so smoothly now that the space station has been repaired and cooled that flight directors scheduled an in-flight televised news conference for the pilots this afternoon.
"If it weren't for the fact we had such a spectacular view out of the wardroom window, I'd think we were back in Houston swimming," Conrad said referring to flight simulations the pilots conducted in a mockup Skylab.
"Right now, we're over Italy and the weather is spectacularly clear. We can see just about all of Italy from one end to the other, clear across the Mediterranean, going across ground I've never seen before."

Conrad, making his fourth flight in space, said kitchen work was taking a little longer than expected, "but I don't think that's to be unexpected. I think we're getting a little bit better hang on it as we get better organized."
He said he and his colleagues were wearing shoes with triangle plates to lock themselves in the gridwork of the floors and ceilings while they worked in weightlessness. He said some work was easy but they were having trouble keeping anchored in the bathroom — "We're ricocheting off the walls in there."
"All things considered, I think we're in incredible shape," said flight director Neil Hutchinson after the three crewmen went to sleep late Sunday night.

Dixie agent next FBI head?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Now that a Twin Falls man is out of the running, the likely person to be named to permanent director of the FBI is a Mississippi agent.
W. Mark Felt, the ranking career agent in the FBI, formerly of Twin Falls, has announced his intention to resign as of June 22.
The Washington Star-News said Sunday the head of the FBI's field office in Jackson Miss.,

Ray K. Moore, is the frontrunner to succeed the retiring Felt.
Acting FBI Director William D. Ruckelshaus, appointed last month after the nomination of L. Patrick Gray was withdrawn, has said he plans to stay only temporarily.
Felt reportedly was angered by the failure of President Nixon to appoint a career agent to head the bureau.

Range rider nabbed in cattle rustling

GOODING, Idaho (UPI) — Authorities arrested a range rider for the Starlake Cattleman's Association here Sunday in connection with rustling activities in the area.

Gooding County Sheriff Earl Brown identified the suspect as Jim Trobridge, 26, Shoshone, who was recently hired by the association to ride the cattle range, and among other things, to keep range riders peeled for rustlers.
"I think there are going to be a few red faces," the sheriff said.
After a week long investigation, Brown said he found four calves believed stolen from neighboring Lincoln County. He called Lincoln County Sheriff Bill Anderson, who, along with a state game inspector, made the arrest.

Trobridge was taken to the Lincoln County Jail and Anderson said felony charges would be filed. An arraignment was scheduled Tuesday.
Lincoln, Gooding, Idaho and Camas counties set up a pact last week in an effort to combat rustling, which has been on the upswing recently, possibly due to the high price of meat. The counties plan to hire two special deputies to investigate cattle thefts.

British aide denies link

LONDON (UPI) — A third cabinet minister allegedly connected with the call girl scandal that already caused the resignations of two ministers has told Prime Minister Edward Heath he was not involved, the British news agency Press Association said today.
Call girl Norma Levy alleged in a telephone interview with the newspaper Sunday People that a third cabinet minister also was one of her customers.
Scotland Yard detectives mounted a full investigation into the claim and also were probing the circumstances in which the allegation was made, police sources said.

The minister was contacted by the prime minister's office and gave Heath an assurance that the allegation was unfounded, the agency said. Heath left for West Germany today on a two-day private visit.
Home Secretary Robert Carr and Attorney General Sir Peter Rawlinson discussed with Heath Sunday the terms of reference for a Security Commission inquiry into the scandal and the resignations.

Rescue try costs Burley man life

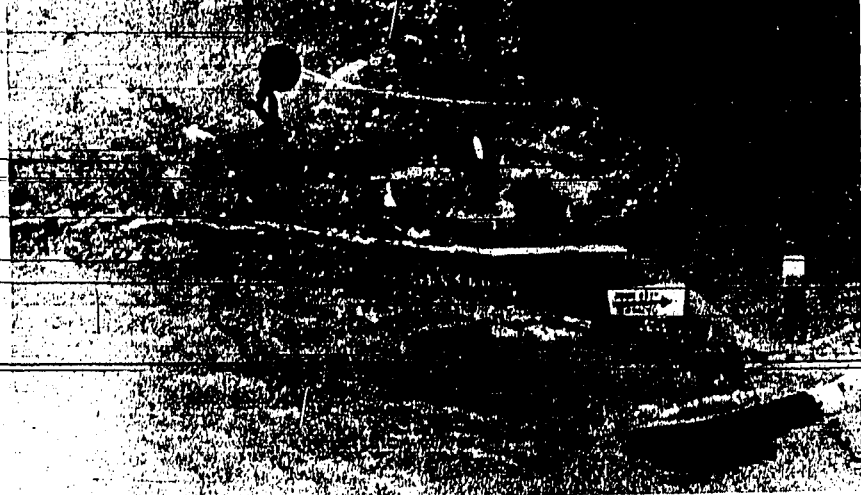

BURLEY — A Burley man drowned Saturday night attempting to rescue his wife from the Snake River.
Max Dayley, 55, apparently jumped into the river to rescue his wife, Sheila, who had fallen off the boat dock near the Burley Municipal Golf Course. According to police reports, Dayley had difficulty swimming because he had a cast on one arm.
The Dayley's five year old son ran about one-half mile for help to the Rancho Bonito Bar which was owned by Dayley. Police were called and they, along with the bartender, pulled Dayley and his wife from the water.
The officers attempted mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but Dayley was pronounced dead on arrival at Cassin Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Dayley was taken to the hospital Saturday night and was released Sunday.
Investigations are continuing into the incident and a coroner's inquest is pending. The call for help was received by police about 10:20 p.m.

Top-level link hinted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., says he knows of one or more secret documents marked "copy to the President" which he believes indicate President Nixon knew about efforts by his staff to cover up the Watergate burglary.
Symington, acting chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, made a brief, cryptic remark about the existence of such a document in a television interview Sunday (CBS "Face the Nation"). He confirmed it in a later conversation with UPI but declined to elaborate in any way.
Symington's committee has been holding closed-door hearings on alleged White House staff efforts to involve the Central Intelligence Agency in covering up Watergate.
Symington, who had said May 18, he found it hard to "visualize" President Nixon knowing nothing about the cover-up, was asked in the CBS interview whether later information changed this view. He replied by recalling that three top Nixon aides — H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III — had all lost their jobs.
"Under those circumstances, plus the fact that some of the paper says 'copy to the President,' it's hard to believe that he knew nothing about the effort to cover up the Watergate burglary," Symington said.
"I don't say that he did," he added. "I never did say that, and I wouldn't argue with him if he says he didn't. But I just say it's hard to believe that he didn't know anything about it."

When asked by UPI to elaborate, Symington said he was not at liberty to discuss it, adding, "I'll just have to let the remark stand."
Nixon said May 22: "I took no part in, nor was I aware of, any subsequent efforts that may have been made to cover up Watergate."
In other developments:
— Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss charged Sunday that President Nixon is trying to "wrap himself" in a "national security" blanket to hide from scandal. Interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press," Strauss said, "There's a big difference — and I think the public will understand the difference — between national security and Nixon secrecy." Nixon has said hindsight told him that his own interest in national security was used by his staff as an excuse for covering up their Watergate involvement, and he stressed the need for secrecy in a recent talk to former POWs.
— The privately funded Fair Campaign Practices Committee said that in 20 years of studying political abuses it has never encountered anything as "potentially damaging to self-governing society" as Watergate.
— Democratic party lawyers planned to go to court this week to ask that Haldeman and Ehrlichman be compelled to answer questions about the Watergate cover-up in the Democrats' $8.4 million damage suit against the Republicans.

Investigation ordered

THE PRESIDENTIAL HELICOPTER that crashed Saturday about one mile south of Grand Cay, Bahamas, lies overturned in the Atlantic. The helicopter, which carried secret service agents and a crew of three crashed in twenty feet of water. One agent drowned while nine others received minor injuries. A military investigation has been ordered by President Nixon.

US Gas short for holiday

United Press International Motorists hitting the highways for the Memorial Day weekend got their first taste of what some predict to be commonplace during the summer—a shortage of gasoline. The shortage even prompted one angry motorist to kill a gas station attendant.

Ohio and the West Coast states seemed to be hardest hit. Stations closed down or rationed supplies.

In Oakland, Calif., police said a service station attendant was shot and killed by a customer demanding more gas. Police said Henry Craig shot the man. When the motorist returned Saturday, Craig refused more gas because the station was "on a ration basis."

After an argument, the man left, later returned with a double-barreled shotgun, fired both barrels into Craig and fled. Herbert Barr was later arrested on suspicion of murder.

The breakdown of a refinery operated by the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio (Sohio) forced it to close down its 700 company-owned stations throughout the state. The 2,100 independent stations with Sohio franchises were allowed to open but Sohio imposed a 10-gallon limit on customers through July 1.

Sohio officials announced they would begin a public service advertising campaign this week telling motorists how to stretch their gas.

Oregon stations that ordinarily open 24 hours a day closed at night. Some of them closed for the entire holiday period or limited supplies.

A dispatcher in the Lincoln County sheriff's office said one motorist complained he could not find a station open on the entire north Oregon coast.

In Burns, Ore., police asked motorists coming in to carry a can of spare gasoline and not expect to find any stations open all night.

Arco stations and independent ones in Oregon appeared to be hardest hit. State police reported gas prices at Klamath Falls climbed from 39.0 to 47.9 cents a gallon, although that appeared to be the only major increase.

In California, stations along Highway 50 were closed Saturday afternoon.

Near El Dorado Hills, a high school student parked across the street from a closed Gulf station, siphoned gasoline from his own tank and sold it at 90 cents a gallon.

Weather ruins many holidays causing numerous deaths and millions of dollars in property damage.

Tornadoes, flash floods and severe thunderstorms left at least 26 persons dead. Hundreds were injured.

Alabama was hardest hit. A total of six deaths were reported in twisters that struck Centerville, Center Point and Greensboro, Ala. At least 100 persons were injured in the tornadoes, which knocked off power to some 25,000 persons in Birmingham, Ala.

Another twister steam-rolled through Jonesboro, Ark., Sunday, cutting a 10-mile swath from the South Side of the Mississippi Delta city and leaving three persons dead and more than 200 injured. Thousands of houses were destroyed or damaged in the twister.

Twisters also spun over Mississippi, leaving one person dead and about 30 others injured.

Five persons died when a tornado roared through Keokuk, Okla., Saturday, and another person was killed in a tornado Saturday at Crestview, Fla.

Heavy rains also touched off flash flooding.

A flood at Dalton, Ga., Sunday claimed the life of a 10-year-old boy.

Convoy damaged

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A supply convoy steamed up the Mekong river from South Vietnam to Phnom Penh today, but Cambodian rebels firing from the riverbanks damaged four of its seven ships despite the protective cover of American warplanes.

One of the ships, the oil tanker Boo Heung VII of South Korean registry, was set ablaze by rocket fire about 15 miles south of Phnom Penh and its crew broke radio silence to report they did not know if they could control the flames raging in a forward section.

Three other tankers also were damaged by fire from the shore, but all seven vessels in the convoy continued upriver and at late afternoon were within 12 miles of the Cambodian capital.

U.S. OV10 Bronco spotter plane pilots called in flights of F4 Phantom and A7 Corsair jets to attack rebel positions along the riverbanks in advance of the convoy.

Question...

Very probably someday I will need to purchase a funeral for my parents. I will not be able to shop nor compare prices at this time. What assurance will I have that I am not being overcharged?

Answer...

We can't put a sign in our window "Shoppers Welcome," but it is there in practice if not in fact. We have people coming in almost everyday with no purpose except to talk with us about our service, facilities and costs. At our Funeral Home we think it is wise to know about funerals in advance. From our experience we know, if we could get everyone in Magic Valley to inspect our Funeral Home and talk with us about price, these people would be better informed buyers whether they eventually came to our mortuary or not. Without any obligation whatsoever we would welcome a visit before you are under any pressure. In this way you can determine for yourself the equity of our charges.

Egypt aides talk 'war'

By United Press International — Egyptian authorities are issuing orders to military commands "on the basis that fighting (against Israel) will start shortly," the weekly Arab Report of Beirut's An Nahar newspaper said today.

There are speculations that (Egypt's President Anwar) Sadat may take the opportunity of the forthcoming Nixon-Brezhnev meeting on 18 June to give the "green light," the weekly said in its review of Egyptian war preparations.

In Tel Aviv, a military spokesman took the threat lightly but reasserted Israel's preparedness for war should Egypt decide to open fire.

"We are always ready for anything," the spokesman said. He pointed out that Egypt had undertaken similar preparations in the past, especially prior to diplomatic efforts to force Israel to withdraw from occupied Arab territory.

The Middle East is to be debated by the U.N. Security Council in early June at Egypt's request.

The An Nahar dispatch said: "Sadat hopes to make us of Libyan Mirage jet fighters, some of which are believed to be already stationed on Egyptian bases, and he will also receive Hawker-Hunter aircraft from Kuwait. Egyptian pilots have been trained on Hunters and Saudi Arabian Lightning."

Every Egyptian official stressed that the battle is inevitable, although plans cannot be revealed," An Nahar said. "The An Nahar corresponds reports that orders are now being given to military commands on the basis that fighting will start shortly."

The report said "observers believe" that the Soviet Union "since about three months ago has shown a more accommodating attitude to Egypt on the supply of weapons."

Paintings displayed TF guest artist named

PRIZE WINNING work from the Jerome County fair art show, above, will be among paintings displayed by Georgia Klueder, artist of the month at the Equitable Savings and Loan.

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Eugene (Georgia) Klueder, Jerome, is guest artist this month at Equitable Savings and Loan.

Mrs. Klueder began painting while in high school. Some of her first lessons were conducted by the Works Progress Administration. She majored in education and art while attending college, and spent several summers in San Francisco studying at the California School of Fine Arts. She taught elementary art for two years.

She was not active as an artist for several years after her marriage, being busy raising three sons. She has resumed her art activities and tries all mediums.

Mrs. Klueder prefers pastels, saying they seem to be a challenge. She said she has heard that galleries in California claim pastels are practically a "lost art." She said pastels are a satisfying medium because the artist can work rapidly without having to wait for drying. Many people consider pastel paintings fragile, but with reasonable care, they are more permanent than most paintings, she said.

Pastels are true earth colors in their purest form and will not fade or change color, according to Mrs. Klueder. She said there are many pastel paintings which have hung in galleries for over 200 years that are as brilliant and true in color as the day they were painted. She said other mediums cannot make that claim.

She is a versatile artist, painting landscapes, flowers, still lifes, animals and many portraits. She said her favorite subjects are clowns, Indians and unusual characters. She teaches a class in her home.

Her paintings are displayed in many doctors' offices, the Depot Grill, Production Credit Association and at Equitable Savings and Loan. She assists as superintendent of the Jerome County Fair and displays paintings there and at the Twin Falls County Fair.

Auction slated June 11 in TF

TWIN FALLS — An auction of unclaimed and abandoned automobiles, bicycles, a motorcycle and tricycle is scheduled June 11.

Police Chief Frank Barnett said the items will be sold to the highest bidder to relieve the city of having to provide storage since most of the items have been on hand for a long period of time and are unclaimed.

The auction will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the city storage barn just east of the police station on Second Avenue North.

Offered are seven automobiles, 20 bicycles, one motorcycle and one tricycle. Barnett said the automobiles include a 1964 Mercury sedan, a 1964 Pontiac two-door sedan, a 1963 Ford sedan, a 1961 Buick sedan, a 1953 Buick, white and blue, and a 1949 DeSoto.

The Triumph motorcycle is black and has no fenders.

The 20 bicycles include several 10-speeds, in various stages of repair. Some are in good condition, Barnett said.

Three are girls' bicycles and the others are boys'. Most are in working condition. All will be sold to the highest bidder.

The one tricycle is a small yellow Murray.

Filer man named group chairman

TWIN FALLS — Merl E. Leonard, Filer, Twin Falls County commissioner, has been named chairman of a by-laws committee of the Idaho Association of Commissioners and Clerks.

Serving with him under appointment of John L. VanOrman, Jerome, state association president, are officials from each of the six districts in the state.

Leonard said the committee met Thursday to discuss plans for revamping the by-laws and to prepare for a review of the present regulations. Van Orman recommended the committee begin work immediately in order to have proposals ready for the annual state meeting in September in Coeur d'Alene.

Leonard said 43 of the 44 counties of Idaho have membership in the association, with only Ada County remaining outside.

Golden Age Club conducts service

TWIN FALLS — Memorial services honoring eight deceased members of the Golden Age Club were conducted by members Friday night.

The group met in the DAV Hall for a regular business meeting and memorial. James Reynolds sang during the memorial program. A small altar with white and lavender cloth was centered with an open Bible, lighted candles and a floral arrangement.

Tribute was paid to Warren Skinner, Frank Jorejs, Lydia Graybill, Wilburn Craig, Christina Shoar, Pearl Pritchard, Lyman Suttmiller and Frank Matthews.

Lewis Smith, vice president, was in charge of the meeting. Fred and Hattie Craig played music for dancing. Card playing was also featured.

The next meeting June 8, will feature a sack lunch. On June 22 the group will hold a pot luck dinner.

Pot smuggling ring smashed

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Authorities said today they have broken up "a major smuggling operation in California" with the arrests of a young couple and two men who allegedly ferried $1 million worth of marijuana into the United States by boat from Mexico.

The suspects, Donald Hickman, 29, his wife, Gloria, 28, of Modesto, Calif., Thomas Landers 28, and Donald Prator, 27, both of Oakland, Calif., were charged over the weekend with smuggling, conspiracy, unlawful importation and distribution of a controlled substance.

Customs agents seized a boat loaded with a ton of marijuana at Mission Bay.

Why The Motor Carrier Industry Is Concerned.

SHOULDN'T WE ALL BE?

From its beginning in 1956 when a progressive Federal highway program was started, our industry has been an ardent and consistent supporter of this program because it was designed to provide our country with a system of modern, safe highways.

Still unfinished is the bold and highly justifiable program laid out in the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956. The truck and bus industry played an important role in the formulation of that program. We believed in it then, and we continue to believe in it today. However, we believe the first and most urgent priority is the completion of that program.

We are concerned, however, because legislation has again been introduced in Congress to raid the Highway Trust Fund and use the money to help pay for mass transit, rail transit and bicycle paths. We object to having the money we paid in good faith for highway purposes diverted to non-highway projects.

When Congress passed the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956 it very carefully provided for full Federal financing of the expanded highway program by special taxes on the nation's motor vehicle owners and operators.

Taxes were imposed on, and still are paid on, gas and diesel oil, tires, tubes, retread material, new trucks, buses and trailers, all to provide the total source of Federal highway financing.

Since its beginning in 1956, the highway trust fund has received no appropriations from the general fund. It has been a completely self-sustaining, pay-as-you-go program and has represented no drain on the Federal budget nor has it been at the sacrifice of any other Federal programs.

These are some of the reasons that we oppose the use of the highway trust fund for expenditures in the area of mass transit. We consider non-highway uses of trust fund money a violation of the purpose and intent of the highway trust fund.

In view of the fact that yours and our dedicated highway fund tax dollars are in serious jeopardy of being taken from their intended purpose and used for non-related projects, doesn't it seem practical to let our elected representatives in Washington, D.C. know how we feel about this matter? We are, and we intend to continue, and we hope all interested citizens will do the same.

Inasmuch as all highway users are paying these taxes, the following figures for 1971 should be of interest to all concerned Idaho taxpayers.

IDAHO STATE HIGHWAY-USER TAXES

the strategic balance could occur. This would be true, of course, only if the United States does not take full advantage of its own research and development capabilities.

The Windmill

If you resent historians sticking pins in your heroes, so do I. Some chap has been selling books recently with what purports to be an expose of what really happened on Paul Revere's ride.

Provocative studies in this area of Soviet staff and field changes have recently been completed by Alexander O. Ghebbardt and William Schneider Jr., consultants to the Hudson Institute in New York. Schneider is also a U.S. Senate staff member.

Or will Canadians Raj Rangi and Peter South get the credit? Members of Canada's National Research Council, Rangi and South have access to wind-tunnel research facilities and they have there developed a windmill without a big fan...

About Vaccine

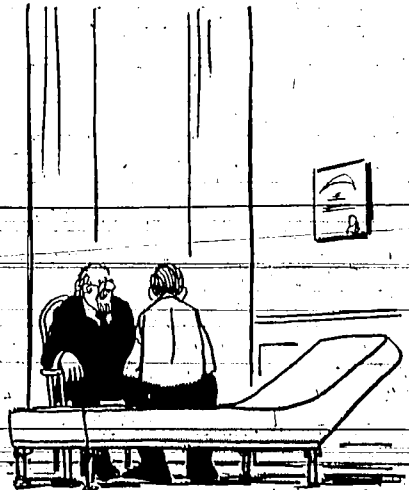

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read your answer saying that you must be positive you are not pregnant before having a vaccination. Sometime ago I was exposed to small pox when I was about six or seven months pregnant, and was vaccinated, but too late to prevent the disease.

Vaccination against polio or smallpox may be administered later in pregnancy, if an epidemic is threatened. As to flu vaccine (since there's been so much news about flu this year) my information is that as yet there is no definite scientific policy established as to whether it should or shouldn't be given to pregnant women.

I was writing about rubella (German measles vaccine) in that article, but let's discuss some other vaccines, too. In your case, you survived the smallpox, and there is no reason to expect any "troubles later-in-life" for you or the baby.

They relate this to the fact that I nursed all three of my children, weaning them at nine months. And I had my children in my 30s, when many women believe the body to be in a decline - Mrs. T.R. Fine! I would suspect that, you also were born with a good physique, and that you have kept your weight within reason.

Muskie raps White House

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (UPI) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, today charged the White House under President Nixon with "obsessive secrecy," "systematic deception," and "plain lying."

In hard-hitting remarks prepared for Memorial Day services at the grave of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Muskie said, "National security became the excuse for systematic deception. They could not tell what they thought was the truth, so they began to lie."

"In the name of national security, officials have built a wall between their actions and those in whose name they act," Muskie said.

"Inside that wall—in a world of obsessive secrecy—crucial decisions have been made and important policies set in motion, but they have been immunized against the healthy skepticism of a people who question any concentration of unsupervised government power."

It was the strongest statement critical of the government the former Democratic presidential contender has made, although he made no specific mention of the Watergate scandal or any of the individuals involved.

"That secrecy carried a special corruption to those under its spell," he said. "Those in authority lost their ability to weigh—perhaps even to hear—the criticism of others who had solid instinct, but lacked privileged knowledge."

"In such a poisoned and unreal atmosphere the binding principles of democratic fair play were easily laid aside," he said. Muskie added that dissent came to be seen as a threat to national security by an "elite" which adopted tactics "which in any other situation would have been repugnant."

"Journalists who must be intimidated not informed, must also be told untruths," he said. "Political critics—members of Congress—who must be punished for voicing their opposition—must also be deceived and denied access to the truth."

Muskie said government should follow Roosevelt's philosophy that "valor was confidence and truth generates trust."

"Integrity may be inconvenient in a world where it is far from the universal practice," Muskie said. "But the pursuit of national interests—of national security—cannot succeed in a moral vacuum."

Documents needed in 'missing link'

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — A business associate of financier Robert Vesco said Sunday that he and Vesco have "a missing link" in the Watergate case and could prove it with certain documents.

Norman P. Leblanc, a Canadian businessman who was named with Vesco in a suit by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) last year, did not cite his proof or identify the "missing link."

Only if SEC investors grant "cast iron guarantees" of immunity to himself, Vesco and other associates, Leblanc said, would they turn over the documents. Leblanc said he was "delighted" that a special investigator, Archibald Cox, had been appointed in the Watergate case.

"We openly invite him to meet us," Leblanc said, "and hear what we have to say and let justice prevail."

Leblanc also accused the United States of "harassing" Vesco, a 47-year-old former New Jersey executive who has taken refuge and provisional citizenship in this tiny Central American country.

"We have been followed in the street, photographed and plagued by telephone calls," Leblanc told newsmen.

Vesco is wanted by U.S. authorities to answer charges that he, along with 40 other persons and companies, drained $224 million from investors in the giant Investors Overseas Services Ltd. mutual fund company.

That case is not directly linked to the Watergate affair, although a secret $200,000 donation to the Nixon reelection campaign resulted in indictments in New York against two former Nixon cabinet ministers.

One of them, Attorney General John N. Mitchell has been implicated in the Watergate affair.

Leblanc said the Nixon administration pressured the SEC to cover up two other controversial cases — one involving the International Telephone and Telegraph (ITT) in a "trade" designed to "get Vesco."

Leblanc owns Global Holdings Ltd., which he said owns $2 million in stock in Costa Rican banks.

"I have done nothing wrong in this country," Leblanc said.

Aleh passes test on lie detector

CHICAGO (UPI) — Gerald Aleh, former attorney for convicted Watergate conspirator James McCord Jr., has taken a lie detector test and reportedly passed it.

Leonard Harrelson, president of the Keeler Polygraph Institute, said Sunday that Aleh, who testified before the Senate committee investigating Watergate, and his law partner F. Lee Bailey had taken the test.

Aleh volunteered during his testimony to take the test because some of his statements conflicted with McCord's.

Harrelson would not reveal the results of the tests. But, "If I were there, I sure as hell wouldn't worry about the results," he said.

The Boston Sunday Herald Advertiser said sources in Chicago told it Aleh passed the test.

Harrelson did not say what questions were asked, when the tests were administered nor who commissioned them.

In Boston, Aleh said the tests began Friday and were completed Saturday.

Tactics change

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twenty years ago when an American politician decided to fight "dirty," he often resorted to guilt-by-association, appeals to racial and religious prejudice or personal attacks on his opponent.

Now all that is changed, and the present day dirty campaigner is more likely to "falsify, misinterpret and distort."

At least this is the conclusion of the Fair Campaign Practices Committee, a nonpartisan, privately funded group which has been watching and fabricating crooked campaigning in America since the early 1950's.

Watergate, the committee said in a report released Sunday, added new dimensions to campaign chicanery. It criticized President Nixon for implying April 30 that all politicians do such things. Referring to "sleazy tactics," Nixon said, "both of our great parties have been guilty of such tactics in the past."

The committee said theft, spying, sabotage and subversion are not the tactics of the political professionals. In nearly 20 years of studying the political process, the Fair Campaign Practices Committee has uncovered no campaign tactics comparable in extent in potential damage to a free, self-governing society.

But even aside from Watergate, the committee said, 1972 was the dirtiest political year in two decades, judged by the number of formal complaints it received — 80 involving presidential, congressional and gubernatorial races, compared with 7 annually in recent years.

Industrial fire spreads havoc

CHICAGO (UPI) — A series of explosions and fire raged through an eight-block area of an industrial complex Sunday, reducing two giant warehouses, a petroleum company plant and a food company to heaps of smoldering ash and twisted steel.

Billows of oily black smoke, visible for some five miles, tainted the air in the city's western suburbs as some 450 firemen used about a third of the city's firefighting equipment to battle the flames. Several suburban fire departments also were at the scene to aid Chicago firemen.

Though the fire was officially declared out late Sunday afternoon, firemen remained on the scene early today, dousing the smoldering rubble of the burned-out buildings.

Destroyed by the blaze were an A&P distribution center, which supplied most of the firms. Chicago area grocery stores, the L. Fish furniture warehouse and offices, Levey Division of Cities Service, which manufactures printing ink, and the Milani Foods Inc. warehouse.

Most of the firms were closed for the holiday weekend when the blaze broke out. Two firemen, an A&P employee and a Cities Service employee were the only persons known to have been injured and none was seriously hurt.

An insurance investigator estimated damage to the A&P facility alone at in excess of $15 million — and, though fire Commissioner Robert Quinn would not issue a damage estimate, other fire officials said $20 million would be a "conservative" overall estimate.

The fires followed an explosion at Cities Service's Levey Division, which was closed for the weekend, and spread quickly through the area. The few workers on duty had time to escape the flames and the chain-reaction blasts.

A brisk easterly wind sent smoke and debris rolling over the area and some splinters and ash from the blaze fell in several western suburbs. A mile-long stretch of a major expressway near the scene of the blaze was closed due to flying debris from the fire.

The initial explosion could be felt six miles away and broke windows in buildings as far away as three miles.

At the peak of the California gold rush there were 120,000 persons toiling for the metal.

'Cod' war includes NATO

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) — Prime Minister Olafur Johannesson said Sunday he wants to confer with President Nixon on the so-called "cod war" between Iceland and Britain, which he said endangers Iceland's continued membership in NATO.

Johannesson told a radio newsmagazine that he had asked to see Nixon during the President's meeting with President Georges Pompidou of France later this week.

He said he wanted to discuss this with Nixon because it concerns two members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). Johannesson also said his leftist coalition government is considering revision of its current defense agreement with the United States because of the presence of British navy vessels in waters Iceland claims it controls.

"The opinion against membership in the NATO is stronger now than ever before," he said.

When the leftist three-party government led by Johannesson took office two years ago, it promised to oust U.S. forces, but so far no such action has been taken.

Political observers said many Icelanders grew cooler to Iceland's membership in NATO after the cod war started. Some groups also want relations severed with Britain and withdrawal of about 3,000 American troops stationed at the Keflavik air and naval base.

Catholics call for amnesty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Roman Catholic group representing 40,000 priests and brothers has called for universal and unconditional amnesty for draft violators.

It urged a government proclamation that all those in prison, exile or underground be free to return to their homes exempt from all legal prosecution for whatever actions they may have felt obliged to take regarding participation in the Vietnam War.

The proposal was made Sunday by the national executive board of the Roman Catholic Conference of Major Superiors of Men, in a statement being sent to President Nixon — who has opposed amnesty — and to all members of Congress.

"Amnesty does not mean 'forgiving,'" the group's statement said. "It is not a judgment of condemnation, nor an act of condonation. It is simply an act of forgetting, a wiping clean of the slate, an overlooking of any past legal transgression."

The statement is considerably more liberal than the position advocated earlier by the nation's Roman Catholic bishops, who have twice issued a call for conditional amnesty limited to those who have been imprisoned as selective conscientious objectors.

In addition, the bishops have asked that those who fled the country rather than be drafted be given "an opportunity to return to serve in other ways to show that they are sincere objectors."

The statement said the conference believes "a universal and unconditional amnesty will do the most at this time to promote reconciliation."

"If it is to be a true forgetting, the amnesty must not impose any penalizing conditions, such as alternative service or recording the facts of the case in public records," the statement said. "Any penalizing conditions would not heal division nor restore harmony to the nation."

Estimates vary widely as to the number of men who would be affected by any amnesty proclamation. Pro-amnesty groups have suggested that it could range anywhere between 40,000 and 100,000 — excluding thousands of servicemen who received less than honorable discharges for desertion and other crimes the antiwar groups claim are related to opposition to the war.

Sailors hope for asylum here

ROME (UPI) — The lawyer for 31 Greek sailors who mutinied aboard their destroyer said today the men hope to find work in the United States or Britain once Italy officially grants them political asylum.

Cmdr. Nicholas Pappas, leader of the mutineers from the destroyer Velos, also called on the United States to explain why the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) still supports the Greek regime "when half of the army and the highest grade officers of the navy and air force are in jail — maltreated and tortured."

Pappas and 30 other officers and crew from the Greek Navy destroyer spent their second day of unofficial asylum today at a motel near Rome awaiting word in the unprecedented case on whether they will have to go to a refugee camp to await official approval of their request.

"I will do everything (to prevent it)," exiled Greek lawyer George Kuratos said. "Only seven or eight of them intend to remain in Italy because they don't know where to go. The others hope to find some work in the United States or Britain."

Pappas sailed his ship, a World War II vintage destroyer, to Italy during NATO navy exercises. Never has a citizen of one NATO country asked for asylum from another NATO member. Both Italy and Greece are members of the alliance.

"The greatest majority of the Greek armed forces are against the colonels in power," Pappas told a news conference Sunday. "Since the 21st of April, 1967, the junta of (Premier George) Papadopoulos holds power with fraud, corruption, espionage against citizens and the severing of the most basic liberties and fundamental rights of man."

Pappas said the idea to sail to Italy and ask for political asylum came when he heard the news of an attempted mutiny plot that the government announced in Athens last Wednesday.

Nixon counterattack reaction test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Moving as carefully as a swimmer, testing the water with his toe, President Nixon is testing public reaction to a Watergate counterattack based on his responsibility for safeguarding national security.

The strategy could produce a situation in which charges of illegal activities on the part of White House aides would be answered by charges the critics are insensitive to security problems.

Key White House aides have been meeting secretly for weeks to plan the administration's response to disclosures brought out by Senate investigators, the Democratic lawsuit, newspaper "leaks" and the Watergate grand jury.

Although details of the strategy are closely held, the shape of the emerging plan was reflected in events of the past few days. One of the most important was the President's Space statement Tuesday conceding error but denying guilt in connection with Watergate.

A strong offense is a good defense, also strongly emphasized the turbulent national climate at the time he acted, although that section of his speech was overshadowed by his other disclosures.

"In the spring of 1970," he said, "another security problem reached critical proportions. In March, a wave of bombings and explosions struck college campuses and cities. There were 400 bomb threats in one 24-hour period in New York City.

"Rioting and violence on college campuses reached a new peak after the Cambodian operation and the tragedies at Kent State and Jackson State. The 1969-70 school year brought nearly 1,800 campus demonstrations, and nearly 250 cases of arson on campus.

"Many colleges closed. Gun battles between guerrilla-style groups and police were taking place. Some of the disruptive activities were receiving foreign support."

That language appeared to lay the foundation for the counter-attack if the final decision is to go ahead, Nixon added to it Thursday when he told 500 cheering former war prisoners that he would protect the nation's secrets by any means necessary.

Telling the released POW's that "you men would still be in Hanoi" had it not been for the secrecy surrounding the Vietnam peace talks, he declared: "I say it is time to stop making national heroes out of those people who steal secrets and publish them in the newspapers."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania also appeared to provide a clue to the possible strategy Wednesday when he was interviewed following a meeting with the President.

Scott quoted Nixon as saying that "our negotiations with the PRC (People's Republic of China) and the USSR (Soviet Union) were highly secret and they are now leaking information imperils negotiations and we have to continue measures to insure that secrecy."

When a reporter suggested it was a "non-sequitur" to reply to a question about Watergate with a reference to negotiations with China and Russia, Scott replied:

"I don't know of anything that is more of a sequitur than what I said. I don't think anybody in this room would be naive enough to expect that any government should deny itself the right to its own survival and that is precisely what it involved in the use of the government's investigatory powers."

William Safire, until recently a presidential speech-writer and now a columnist for The New York Times, dealt with the emerging administration strategy in his Thursday column. He wrote:

"The President after two months, has decided upon a strategy to deal with Watergate: to admit error rather than guilt; and to change the battleground from 'was the President involved in these sly political shenanigans' to 'what liberties are we prepared to give up for national security?'"

"For a man with his back to the wall, it is a daring strategy, but it is risky too—for one of the fruits of the detente Nixon brought about (with Russia and China) is a long-awaited loosening of the law for secrecy and another is a growing reluctance to subvert the law in the name of national security."

Awards conferred on Dietrich grads

DIETRICH — Graduating seniors at Dietrich High School received awards and scholarships at commencement exercises.

Craig Sorenson, valedictorian, received a $640 scholarship to Ricks College, a year's subscription to the Reader's Digest and an "I Dare You" book for his scholastic achievements.

He also received a pin for serving as student body president the past year.

Analysis

Nixon said he wanted justice in the Watergate case but that after weighing national priorities, "I also had to be deeply concerned with ensuring that neither the covert operations of the CIA nor the operations of the Special Investigations Unit should be compromised."

Stating that he set up the Special Investigations Unit because of a breakdown in normal intelligence operations, the Chief Executive said he was deeply troubled by press accounts that seemed to lump all covert activities and political "dirty tricks" under the same Watergate label.

Nixon indicated he approved wiretapping, burglary and other illegal practices in the interests of national security but deplored the same acts if performed for partisan political ends.

He said, for example, that in 1969 he authorized wiretaps on White House staff members to trace news leaks involving foreign policy and that in 1970 he approved a plan including breaking and entering as tools of domestic intelligence.

But he also disavowed any intent to "place a national security 'cover' on Watergate, although critics contend that was the net result of his moves to protect covert government activities.

Nixon implied in his statement that key aides perverted his concern over national security into an attempt to cover up Watergate but said he would have rejected such steps had he known about them.

The President, who always has operated on the theory that

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our 22-year-old college graduate daughter is being married soon, and I wonder how far to let her go with the wedding arrangements.

She wants to get married in a public park. (How can you ask people to stand in a park? What if it rains?)

She doesn't plan on having ushers or bridesmaids. She says since there will be no aisle to walk down it would be pointless. She wants a justice of the peace instead of a minister. My husband's people are Catholic, and mine are Episcopalian. Our daughter was brought up Episcopalian, but she doesn't believe in anything. The young man she's marrying is not committed to any religion either. Wouldn't relatives who believe in something criticize us for having a wedding without a minister?

Wedding up to bride

We agreed to foot the bill for this wedding and don't want to appear ridiculous, which we probably will if we go along with what she wants. Or shouldn't we worry about what people will think?

OLD SCHOOL MOTHER:

DEAR MOTHER: It's your daughter's wedding, and she should have the kind of wedding she and her fiancé want. If it rains, those without umbrellas will get wet. If relatives who "believe in something" criticize you for having a justice of the peace, tell them it was your daughter's choice. (At least she'll be legally wed, and lots of parents would settle for that.) Paying for the wedding doesn't give you the right to do it your way. And if you worry about what people will think, you'll waste a lot of energy.

DEAR ABBY: Why would a man check up on his wife to be sure he knows exactly where she is every minute? Do you think he suspects that she's playing around?

CURIOS:

DEAR CURIOUS: Not necessarily. Maybe he just wants to know where SHE is while HE'S playing around.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to that lady who said, "A strong wife and mother is the source of a strong husband, children, and country."

I am a 14-year-old girl, and I take that to mean that if a woman stays home and mops the floors and scrubs the toilet bowls she is doing the most for her husband, children, and country.

Sorry, but I don't agree with that at all. Some people will say: "But what will happen to the children if the mother works outside the home?"

Well, let me answer that. My mother works outside the home. She doesn't have to because my father makes a good living. She works because she wants to, and I'm not suffering because of it. She fixes a good breakfast in the morning for us, and a good supper at night. She helps me with my problems, and she still has time to go shopping with me on Saturdays, and we have all day Sunday together.

I would like to get married and raise a family and work outside my home, too. I do not plan on just staying home and mopping floors and scrubbing toilet bowls.

Peace!

Three Kimberly teachers attend 'sky classroom'

Bus trip planned to high lake

By JOCELYN CLOWARD
Times-News Writer

KIMBERLY — "For every human being on earth there is one separate galaxy."

For three Kimberly grade school teachers, that was the most interesting knowledge gained during their attendance at an unusual class. The three, Mrs. Anna Cook, principal, recently returned from a "classroom in the sky" flight to the May 14 launching of the space laboratory at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

The Skylab tour was fascinating experience, they agreed. "We were the only tour from the west, Mrs. Summan said. "Our lectures on geology and space were excellent. We saw one film on space usage which only two other groups had viewed previously."

"Much of the tour was to show us how many benefits there will be from space exploration, Mrs. Vosika said. "We had regular classroom work right during the flight, and the scientists we heard speak were very knowledgeable."

"It was a marvelous flight both ways," Mrs. Cook said. "We were taken over the flooded Mississippi Delta area, Bryce and Zion Canyons. We got a real geological education of the magnitude of the program.

The three, in addition to viewing the Skylab launching, were treated to a short tour of Disney World, and visited a former Kimberly teacher, Gilbert Tave, now instructing at Rawlins College, Winter Park, Fla. Rowe, they said, treated them to some "famous Key Lime pie," and took them to Gatorland where they saw alligators of "all sizes, shapes, and ages — even one big old fellow in years old."

Being teachers, the trio felt keenly the disappointment of 17 high school students also on a special tour of the Cape. The youths had experiments chosen for Skylab research, including one spider experiment, Arabella, whom the hoped would be able to build a web in space, according to Mrs. Vosika. — All of the projects were scrubbed.

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will sponsor a bus trip to Redfish Lake June 14.

The buses will leave from the Twin Falls City Hall parking lot at 8 a.m. and return the same day between 5:30 and 6 p.m.

Reservations must be made and payment received at least 10 days prior to the trip. Reservations may be made by calling Roy Wetherbee, 734-3126, or Mrs. Emma Steffen, 733-7561.

Participants should bring picnic lunches.

The next look is creeping up on American women for spring and summer. Gloves, hats, sometimes, and all that. If it is expected to be seen on young and old.

Gasoline supply holds

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Most major brand gasoline stations in Twin Falls appeared well supplied for the holiday weekend, while independent stations were reportedly less well off.

A quick survey of service stations showed:
— Don's Conoco Service, 361 Main Ave. W.: "As far as I know I've got plenty of gas," said owner Don Christian, "unless I get a big rush."

— Buck's Texaco, 202 Blue Lakes Blvd. N.; Lessee Buck Buckingham said he had plenty of gas for the weekend, but might have to shorten his hours later in the month.

— East Five Points Standard Station, 640 Main Ave. E.; Lessee Stan Schneider said he was in "beautiful shape" on gas supplies.

— Gwin's Husky Service, 204 Wash. S. N.; Manager Reba Gwin said she was running low Friday but expected a shipment over the weekend.

— Holly's Blue Lakes Phillips 66 Service, 285 Blue Lakes Blvd. N.; Manager Gene Matthews; said, "We're not going to run out. The way it's going like it is today we'll be out before the month's out, but I don't think it will. We're pumping about double what we usually do."

— Stoker Self-Service, 1130 Morningside Drive; Manager Bonnie Smith said the station is out of gas and closed down. "I really don't know what the situation is on gas," she said. She said the other Stoker station had gasoline.

— Fearless Farris Stinker Station, 1777 Kimberly Road; "We're in pretty fair shape," said attendant Kenny Griffin. He said the station would not run low over the weekend.

— Gem Gas, 839 Blue Lakes Boulevard North; "Well, I think we can get by for the weekend," attendant Don Syas said Saturday. "I think we can get by tomorrow and then we'll be out." He said the station has had to shorten hours and will be closed Monday.

Several other independent stations in which contact was attempted did not answer the phone, indicating they were closed or too busy to answer.

No charges filed

HALLEY — A dumping incident of about 20 migratory waterfowl at Timmerman Landfill will result in no arrests.

According to Kirk Eberhardt, Halley, district conservation officer for the Idaho Fish and Game Department upon investigation, the department found that the person who dumped the birds did so because his freezer had broken down and the waterfowl had begun to spoil along with some other meat.

Eberhardt said no malicious intent could be proven in connection with the incident which occurred May 20.

MV Guard units train in Boise

BOISE — Field exercises began today for five of the seven Magic Valley National Guard units on annual training at the Guard's Gowan Field near Boise.

The men-in-units located in Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome and Halley convoyed to the 250 square mile desert training site south of Gowan Field to begin an eight-day field exercise with other units of the 116th Armored Cavalry Regiment.

Two other Magic Valley units from Gooding and Buhl left the main Gowan Field area Sunday to begin field exercises. After the eight days in the field, the men will return to the main military base to complete their annual two weeks training. They will return to their homes June 1.

The regiment, which is headquartered in Twin Falls, is under the command of Col. Sam Magaw, a Twin Falls resident. The regiment consists of a number of units from cities and towns across Southern Idaho as well as units in Nevada.

The 2,000 members of the 116th Regiment began their training last Saturday with a convoy to Gowan Field from their home armories. For most of the men Sunday was spent checking out the equipment they will use in the field exercises including tanks and armored personnel carriers.

The convoy to the training area lined up early this morning for the trip from the main camp area.

Earlier this month other Idaho Guard units helped prepare the way for the members of the 116th Regiment. Engineer companies from north Idaho worked on roads and firing ranges that the Magic Valley guardsmen will be using for the next two weeks.

Support for the 116th Regiment is being provided by guardsmen from two other states including one Nevada unit. Men from Houston, Tex., assigned to the 75th Maneuver Command Area will be administering Army tests to members of the Halley and Jerome units during the next two weeks.

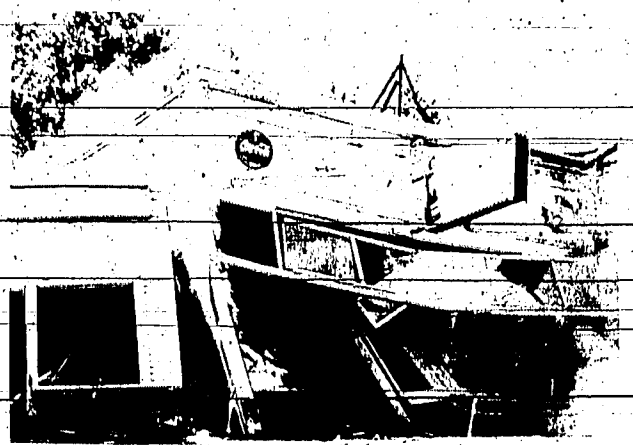

Mobile medical display set in TF

TWIN FALLS — A van, described as "a truckload of information" will be open to health professionals Tuesday behind Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

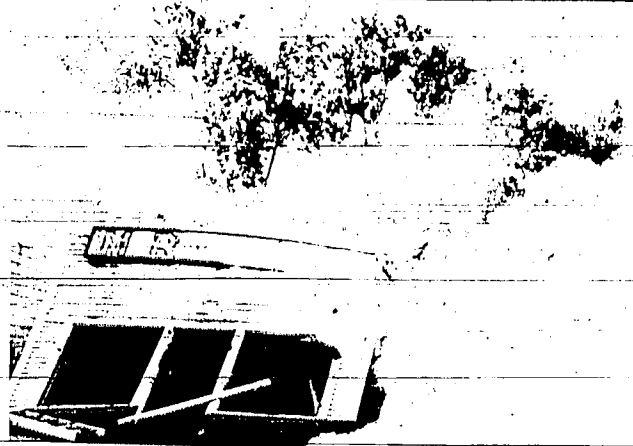

Owned and operated by the Medical Products Division of the 3M Co., the mobile medical display is designed "to help cope with the medical information explosion by bringing new products and techniques to hospital personnel."

The information lounge of the van shows aspects of modern sterilization systems, aseptic techniques, pressure point control for decubitus ulcer care, use of hypothermic tapes for patient comfort, history and development of aethosopes, cold therapy with flexible ice, pressure bandaging, cosmetic skin closure without stitching and newest medical products from the 3M Company.

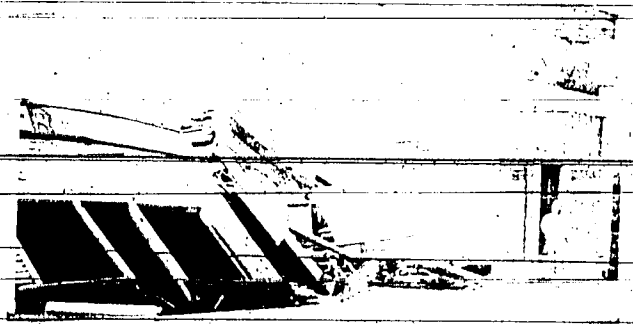

All interested health and medical workers are invited to come and go through the van, which will be parked in the employee parking lot, back of the ambulance entrance to the hospital from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Jerome buildings razed

JEROME — Some of the first store buildings ever built in downtown Jerome are being razed. The site will be used for a new Safeway shopping center.

All existing buildings in the 200 block on West Main St. except for two service stations on the corners are being torn down.

A spokesman for Safeway said new bids for the contract for construction of the new store will be taken "as soon as possible." Bids received in an earlier opening were said the highest ever received by the company in the Intermountain area.

Clearing of the site will continue even though the work was part of the original bid, Safeway officials said. The buildings are being torn down because of the possibility of vandalism or injuries to citizens.

Design of the proposed supermarket is being studied in an effort to find a way to reduce construction costs, company officials said. Possible use of lift-up concrete walls is being considered, instead of masonry construction.

The buildings torn down included structures which formerly housed a bar, a saddle shop, a jewelry store, a cafe and another vacant building. The saddle shop, cafe and jewelry store either have been relocated or will occupy new quarters.

A motel which once occupied part of the block has also been removed.

Weekend break-in probed

GOODING — Police continued investigation today into a weekend break-in at the office of Dr. Richard Short. Medications, tranquilizers, several hundred dollars' worth of syringes and needles were reported missing from the office, police said. An inventory of office property was being made today. Value of the items taken was placed at missing when he went to the office Sunday, police said. Entry was apparently made through the rear door, where a pane of glass was broken and a screen torn off.

Carey Lake 'classroom' highlights field trips

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

CAREY — Carey students spent Thursday morning listening to bird calls, examining pond life and sampling edible cattails.

The classroom was Carey Lake, east of Carey, and the event was an environmental field trip sponsored by the Sun Valley Creative Arts Center and financed through a federal environmental education grant.

Centering on the marsh ecosystem, the trip for Carey fifth and sixth graders was the third in a series of trips to the lake. Earlier tours had been conducted for Bellevue Elementary and Ernest Hemingway Elementary school fifth graders.

According to project organizer Kenneth Kinucan, Bellevue, the trips emphasized the interrelationships between plants, animals and their environment, including soil and water, that make a marsh what it is.

Prior to entering the field, Kinucan said teachers prepared their students by presenting a variety of materials geared to heighten the students' awareness of the marsh life to be viewed on the trip.

He said the materials included science lessons, films, a marsh study — compiled by Kinucan, Claire Baldwin, Ketchum, U. S. Forest Service, and Virginia Haire, a Hemingway teacher — and a bird identification booklet, containing birds native to the Carey area.

While in the field, the students followed an investigative approach to answer questions in a prepared booklet. Kinucan said the instructors encouraged questions and provided information.

Kinucan said the students viewed how the die-off of plants, coupled with silt, gradually fills in the marsh with rich organic soil, eventually destroying it.

Students studied the submergent and emergent vegetation in the lake and the and insect life was viewed by examining snails, leeches and insect larvae.

In the area surrounding the lake, students sighted various marsh birds, including sandpipers, teal, Canadian geese and yellow headed black birds, bull snakes; and meadow mice — all part of the marsh food chain.

Trip instructors included Kinucan, Baldwin, Miss Haire, Edith Kinucan, Peggy Schlunegger, Sam Hazard and teachers from participating classrooms.

The three trips represented an expansion of the field trip program this year to include the Bellevue and Carey schools. Trips were also added to the Hemingway program, involving more students than last year.

Kinucan said, "If the Sun Valley Creative Arts Center continues to develop its environmental, interpretative project, there will be an expanded field trip program throughout the Blaine County school district."

Rail plan doubts told

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some Congressmen already have expressed doubts about a newly-conceived transportation department plan to restructure the bankrupt Northeastern Railroads with a private corporation that would use a minimum of federal funds.

Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar, who explained the idea Friday, said it would use only $40 million in federal funds, all of it for operational expenses of the corporation. No federal money would be spent on capital improvements.

The idea was certain to face tough opposition when the Senate surface transportation subcommittee opens hearings Wednesday.

Some Congressmen and nides, who were given a preview of the legislation, described it as unrealistic.

The plan would work this way: The transportation secretary would designate a core rail system in the northeast. This decision would be based on traffic volume, the need for rail service, self-sustaining lines and the need to preserve rail competition.

A three-member Northeast Railroad Corp. would be appointed by the President to decide what lines to use and to negotiate private capital to operate, finance improvements and negotiate labor contracts and acquisition of rail assets.

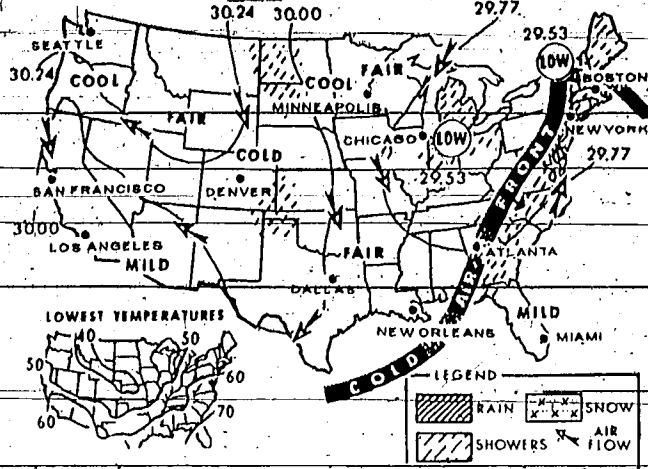

— The six bankrupt railroads would be given stock in the corporation in exchange for the lines which the corporation wants.

— Service on any line the corporation does not want would be discontinued after 60 days, but states and local communities could be granted time to set up other service.

Top cattle shows set at TF fair

FILER — The Big Western Show will again be a highlight of the Twin Falls Fair and Rodeo at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds.

This show has been recognized as one of the outstanding livestock events in the West.

This year the fair will be Sept. 4-8 and will include one of the nation's premier "Standard of Perfection" Polled Hereford shows, one of seven other designated SOP events in the United States this year.

Standard of Perfection is a designation reserved for those events the directors of the American Polled Hereford Association consider of utmost significance in the year's calendar of major livestock shows, fairs and expositions.

The SOP Polled Hereford Show will be held Sept. 7 and top quality Polled Herefords from a wide area are expected to compete for $10,000 in premiums offered at all SOP shows.

All animals entered in the show will be weighed, back fat measured by scanogram, and their height and length measured. The data will be printed and made available to the judge and spectators on show day.

Walter M. Lewis, Larned, Kan., one of America's foremost judges of beef cattle, will serve as judge of this show. A past president of the American Polled Hereford Association, he is co-owner of Alfalfa Lawn Farms, one of the country's oldest and most successful Polled Hereford operations.

The deadline date is Aug. 15 for making entries to the 1973 Big Western Show in Filer. Entry blanks may be obtained from Tom Shouse, Filer, secretary-manager of the fair,

US sugar quota changes listed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department has announced a series of changes in 1973, sugar quotas, with increases for some countries to make up for short supplies in the United States and some other producing areas.

Officials said deficits, or quota reductions, were formally proclaimed at 30,000 tons for Puerto Rico, 100,232 tons for the West Indies, 15,889 tons for Panama, and 12,259 tons for Honduras.

In addition, smaller cuts in quotas for several other countries were announced to make up for earlier actions adjusting the Hawaiian quota.

To offset the deficits announced Friday, officials announced the following quota increases in tons:

Our Love and War man reports sadly that 10,000 secretly recorded conversations among women indicate that men come in not first, second or third, but eighth among the most common topics of feminine conversation. He says it's more likely women will talk about homes, clothes, marriage, family, love, beauty and art, in that order.

Attempted murder of a husband by a wife or vice versa is regarded as a ground for divorce in only about half a dozen states. A: Only about one chance in three, say the doctors.

A: Pretty close. His real name was K'ung Fu-tzu.

You've heard the balladier sing "On Top of Old Smoky," but do you know the precise whereabouts of that lofty spot? It's the crest of Clingman's Dome, highest point in the Great Smoky mountains. It's 6,642 feet. Road runs to within about 100 feet of it.

That electronic device known as the oscilloscope is much used of late by the piano tuners. But the experienced men in this musical game still say they can check out the tones more swiftly and more accurately just with their ears. Little like wine tasting with the palate. MAJOR HOOPLE

Mind Your Money

Peter Weaver

The child-care business can encompass everything from the traditional baby sitter on up to an elaborate home-care operation for 10 children.

There's an enormous need for qualified child-care services. The federal government has cut day-care funding to the bone and the states are now actively encouraging private citizens to help pick up the load with their own in-home, child-care businesses.

In starting any kind of child-care business—baby-sitting or home care—there are certain precautions you should take.

Some pointers:

1—Check your homeowner's or tenant's insurance policy to see if there are any exceptions to your coverage. Usually, it's not considered an active business when a daughter or son baby-sits, and you're adequately covered for liability by your owner's or tenant's insurance.

You may need additional liability protection. If your child drops a customer's infant, for example, and causes injury, you could be sued. Make sure you have enough coverage to cover such a suit. You should have a minimum of $100,000 liability coverage which only costs a few extra dollars a year.

2—Make sure your child always tells the parents, where he or she will be sitting, to get in touch with you especially if you don't know them. Explain that you are covered by insurance and iron out the hours and transportation details.

Moving up from baby-sitting, you can set up a home-care operation for 5 to 10 children depending on your state's laws. When you get into this category, you will probably need a license and extra insurance.

Dr. Carol Seefeldt, University of Maryland Early Childhood Development Center, offers these suggestions:

1—Check with your local government social services or welfare department to see what kind of license is needed and whether zoning rules prohibit a home-care business in your neighborhood. While checking with your local government, ask if any home-care training is available.

2—Check your insurance. Most insurers require a special policy to cover "business pursuit." If your insurer doesn't offer this coverage, you'll have to get another company to insure you and your home.

3—Make a checklist of toys, books, extra furniture and other items you'll be needing. Make a budget including start-up costs and continuing costs. For example, it costs an average of $1,500 a year to offer comprehensive care for one child. This comes to around $30 a week (considering vacations).

Remember, having your own business at home can provide many tax-deductible items. You might need a lawyer to help with this as well as sort out licensing and liability problems.

As a starter, you should get "Handbook for Home Care of Children." It was prepared by Wayne State University Child Development Training Program and is distributed by Day's Care and Child Development Council of America (1401 K St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005). It costs $1.25.

Although written for Michigan residents, the handbook fits most home-care operations. It lists the kind of play and education equipment you'll need and goes into such things as safety tips, how to handle discipline (children behave better when they have plenty of toys), toilet training, feeding, adding the learning process (listing all kinds of free or inexpensive teaching tools) plus tips on how to handle behavior problems and emergencies.

For a bibliography on further reading, you can get an excellent free pamphlet, "Day Care References," from Assn. for Childhood Education International; 3613 Wisconsin Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20018.

Merry Pet

Linda Merry

Question: Please, can you help me to teach my cat what his water bowl is for? He always has clean, fresh water put out for him twice a day but he hardly ever touches it. Instead, he drinks out of the toilet.

I am so embarrassed about this but I have tried everything and can't stop him. Once he fell in but even that didn't stop him. I will surely for an answer.

Answer: He knows what his water bowl is for; he just thinks toilet bowls are neater. He may be right; the water is always fresh, cool, clean and leak proof. He's not the original dweiser, however.

I've known cats (champions even) who have been plugging commode water for years. They seem to be in prime condition so who's to question cat wisdom? Just don't put chemicals or disinfectants in the water and brush regularly.

Question: What is wrong with a dog when he coughs a lot, especially after drinking. At times he falls over and looks unconscious or almost dead, then gets up and acts normal. He is getting the spells more often. What can be done for him?

Answer: Not much if you want a while longer. Veterinarians can't manufacture new hearts but they're pretty good at patching them up while they're still beating.

It sounds like this dog is on the verge of cardiac failure and needs immediate care. Better make the dog an appointment today and be there on the dot.

Question: Can you tell me, does a kitten lose its baby teeth? I have a young Siamese male cat who will not drink milk. He sucks on the side of his milk dish and thinks he is getting his milk that way.

I have tried every way to encourage him to drink his milk right. I even put cutup in it. I have even fed him his milk with a spoon. Now he has lost one of his large eye-teeth. He is about 6 or 7 months old.

Answer: Yes, cats lose their baby teeth and the canine teeth are usually replaced at 6 to 7 months of age. So, that's right on schedule. But the weaning time is way off.

He should have been weaned at 6 to 9 weeks of age and by now he on a good cat diet of crunchies, canned meats and plenty of water.

One cat won't want to drink milk and it may actually cause diarrhea and digestive upset. Why don't you skip the leche and concentrate on something he can chew with his new teeth?

If you have a question about your pet, send it to The Merry Pet column in care of the Times-News.

A thought for the day—Scottish-essayist Thomas Carlyle said, "Adversity is sometimes hard upon a man. But for one man who can stand prosperity, there are a hundred who will stand adversity."

HURRY!! YOU CAN STILL GET A NEW DATSUN 510 or 610 AT THE OLD PRICE.

The dollar has been devalued. But if you act right now you can still save big on a Datsun 510. For a limited time all the 510's are at the old low price. There's never been a better time to find out about Datsun's high performance car. The Datsun 510 2-Door Sedan again has beaten the more expensive imports to win its second 2.5 Trans-Am championship.

And its powerful 1600 cc overhead cam engine is still economy minded enough to give you up to 25 miles to the gallon. Other features it shares with more expensive machines include fully independent suspension, safety front disc brakes and bucket seats. Test drive the Datsun 510 with 4-speed stick or optional 3-speed automatic soon. There's never been a better time than now to save.
