US court says ads on issues optional

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today broadcasters are not required to accept paid advertising on such public issues as war or politics.

The court's 7-2 ruling said that there was no requirement that advertisements be aired on those subjects under either federal law or the Constitution's guarantee of free speech.

The Court reversed a decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals here in a test case brought by the Democratic National Committee.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said in the majority opinion that giving everyone access to broadcast advertising time might lead to monopolization of the airwaves by those best able to afford it, and inject more government control over broadcast media.

Justices William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood

Marshall dissented from the opinion, rejecting the appeals court ruling which directed the Federal Communications Commission to set up "regulatory guidelines" on how to deal with advertisements on matters subject to varying public opinion.

The Supreme Court, while the case was before it, had frozen the right of broadcasters to continue the traditional practice of not accepting such advertising. And in today's opinion, Burger suggested the FCC, Congress or the broadcasters might work out some limited form of advertising access.

Other actions:

—In another broadcasting case, the court refused to examine the denial of a license renewal of a Media, Pa., radio station with which fundamentalist preacher Carl McIntire is associated.

—The justices agreed to examine Virginia's "insulting words" statute, under which three men won a damage judgment against their union because it referred to them as "seabs" in a union publication.

—The court agreed to decide whether the government must prove, to justify a warrantless search, that the person giving permission for it has the authority to do so.

Burger said "balancing the various First Amendment interests involved in the broadcast media and determining what best serves the public's right to be informed is a task of great delicacy and difficulty."

He noted that Congress had consistently refused to make broadcasters "common carriers" to which anyone has access.

Economy dips

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's index of leading economic indicators, considered one of the best barometers of future economic trends, turned down in April for the first time in two and one-half years, the Commerce Department said today.

The index dropped 0.6 per cent last month, ending a sustained climb that began in October, 1970.

Each month, action is monitored in 12 diverse areas of the economy and combined into a composite figure. Over the years, turnabouts in the direction of the index have signaled major future shifts in the economy.

A sustained decline in the index has always meant that an expansion is about to end while an upturn during a recession has signaled that hard times are about over.

Rain delays Indy 500 again

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — For the second time in as many days, rain aborted the start of the 500 mile auto race today.

A field of 32 cars ran the parade lap after a delay of more than an hour due to a wet spot on the south straightaway, but before the pace lap was completed and the race actually started, the drivers were red flagged to a stop.

A light sprinkle of rain on the two north turns forced the halt, and one car, driven by John Martin, pulled into the pits during the pace lap.

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab commander Charles "Pete" Conrad told mission control in a secret radio talk today he thought space station temperatures were leveling off in the 80s and this might interfere with an important test of man's ability to work in weightless space.

Conrad said he thought the heat would be satisfactory for the rest of the 28 day mission with the possible exception of a bicycle exerciser designed to see if astronauts are weakened by prolonged exposure to the lack of gravity.

"He allowed how the device does not ride in Skylab as it did on Earth and he doesn't think the crew may be able to follow the full protocol (test plans) on it," NASA said in summarizing the secret talk.

Conrad, Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz began their fifth day in space by turning on a $50 million set of telescopes for man's most extensive study of the sun. The astronauts also loaded earth resources cameras and recorders with film and tape in preparation for the start of surveys of Earth Wednesday.

The stationary bicycle device measures man's ability to exercise for a given heart rate and oxygen intake.

Weitz tried it out Monday and Kerwin stopped the test prematurely because he thought Weitz was overworking in the mid-80 degree temperatures. The station normally should be about 72 degrees, Weitz said later, however, he could have continued.

The astronauts raised a large umbrella over Skylab Saturday and temperatures dropped from the 120s into the 80s.

Misconduct claims name former POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Air Force Col. Theodore W. Guy, senior officer among American POWs in Hanoi for five years, filed court martial charges today against five Army and three Marine enlisted men for "alleged misconduct" while prisoners.

The Pentagon in announcing Guy's action did not name the defendants immediately. It said it would release the names and specific charges against the eight after the men had all been notified, probably later today.

Guy, of Tucson, Ariz., was the POW commander in the prison camp called "The Plantation" by the prisoners.

In its announcement, the Pentagon said Guy had preferred unspecified charges "against eight other former POWs for alleged misconduct while in a North Vietnamese prison camp."

Guy had been contemplating filing the charges for some time and spoke publicly several weeks ago about bringing charges against a dozen POWs.

Nixon gains outweigh scandal

ABILENE, Kan. (UPI) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower said Monday Americans will not let the Watergate scandal overshadow achievements of her father's presidency.

During a tour of the Eisenhower Museum, she said "you learn to live with crises" in political life and that in time the scandal and related events will "be put in perspective."

Chinese tour dam

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — A 10 member team of engineers from mainland China toured Dworshak Dam on the Snake River near here Monday.

The team then departed for Denver and later travel to Washington, D.C., where they will visit briefly before returning home.

Oil talks start anew

GENEVA (UPI) — Negotiations between the 11 major petroleum exporting countries and Western Oil consortiums opened Monday behind a news blackout.

The oil producers have demanded an 11.1 per cent price increase to compensate for the devaluation of the U. S. dollar in February.

Cushman testimony slated

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Marine Corps Gen. Robert E. Cushman voluntarily has agreed to testify today before the county grand jury about the role of the CIA in the Ellsberg burglary.

Cushman, now commandant of the corps, was deputy director of the CIA when the White House "plumbers' squad" broke into the office of Dr. Lewis Fielding, Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, in a search for information on Ellsberg.

Ranch goal clash firing cause

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The fired superintendent of the Idaho Youth Ranch said Monday his dismissal came because he refused to fill the ranch capacity and turn it into a "showplace."

The ex-superintendent's decision to hire a psychologist was also a cause of friction, he said.

"I really have concern for the Youth Ranch program, Dwayne Peterson told the Times-News. "I fear it will become a glorified detention center."

Peterson was dismissed about two weeks ago, rehired, and dismissed again last week.

He said the ranch doesn't have facilities for more than 30 boys, although it is licensed by the state for a capacity of 36. Before the recent resignations of the house parent staff, the ranch had housed 26 boys.

The board complained "that I haven't made this a showplace," Peterson said. The ranch is operated on donations from the public.

"I feel we need a boy program," Peterson said, "and we have had a fairly good one." The emphasis should be placed on helping the boys, he said.

The board, Peterson said, does have concern for the boys on the ranch but none of the members are trained in social services. "The board talks of therapy on one level," he said, and as a professional "I talk of it on another level."

The board "thinks that if everything looks fine the boys are well taken care of," he said but many of the boys have emotional problems that need proper attention.

Peterson said he and Lee Childs, the former executive director of the ranch, had lined up a psychologist to develop an in-depth program for the ranch but were refused by the board. Part of the probably reason, he said, was financial.

At the time Peterson was rehired by Childs as his assistant, about two weeks ago, Childs hired the psychologist, Peterson said, but "when Childs resigned that removed both of us."

Peterson said the therapy-oriented program "had never gotten to the point at the ranch that it had just before the state investigation began."

Order clears trucker's testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Judge John J. Sirica issued an immunity order today to compel Senate testimony by Roy M. Sheppard, a deliveryman who allegedly was hired to take Watergate-related documents from the White House the day after the break-in.

The immunity order was requested by the Senate's Watergate committee, which has completed two weeks of public hearings. The hearings resume June 5.

Sheppard's attorney, Ben W. Cotton, raised no objection to Sirica's action. Cotton said Sheppard has been hospitalized since Friday for high blood pressure and nervous.

Earlier, Sheppard was granted immunity and ordered to testify before a federal grand jury investigating criminal actions in Watergate. Sheppard had earlier refused to answer questions even about his marital status or whether he drove a car.

In other developments:

— The special Watergate prosecutor, Archibald Cox, began his first full week on the job in charge of the Justice Department's handling of the case, and presumably will make all future decisions on which witnesses will be granted immunity and when indictments will be prepared. Hundreds of lawyers have filed applications to work with him.

— Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said at a commencement address at Temple University in Philadelphia that Watergate "was not a mark of desperation, but of the ultimate arrogance of power."

— Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss was scheduled to give a deposition today to the party's $6.4 million civil damage suit against the Committee to Re-Elect the President. The scheduled Tuesday appearance by former Attorney General John N. Mitchell for a similar deposition was canceled because Mitchell had to be in court in New York where he is under indictment in another case.

Sheppard allegedly was hired to haul away eight cartons of documents from the White House the morning after the June 17, 1972, burglary arrests at the Democratic national offices in the Watergate complex.

It has not been disclosed who hired him or to whom he delivered the documents.

The papers were said to have been taken from the office of a former White House consultant, E. Hunt Jr., who pleaded guilty last January to being a leader of the Watergate operation. The documents were said to have been hidden for about four months.

While the Senate hearings resume a week from today, they probably will not include crucial testimony from former White House officials until mid-June. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the committee chairman, said.

Orphans to bury father

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Four orphaned children living in a rundown Tenderloin district apartment had enough donated cash today to fulfill their father's last request that he be buried beside his wife in Ohio.

"Money has been pouring in," said Marie Baker, 14, oldest of the four children. She didn't know the amount because a lawyer's taking care of it.

The destitute children's plight became known when Bob Baker, 41, a janitor, died of cirrhosis of the liver last week and his body lay unclaimed at Harkness Hospital.

Now, Marie says, she and the children will accompany his body to Ohio Friday night where Baker will be buried beside his wife. She died of cancer last year.

"He wanted to die," Marie said of her father turning to alcohol after his wife's death. "That's why he kept drinking so much."

Marie and her brothers, Bruce 11, Mike, 10, and Dennis, 7, will live with relatives in Hamilton, Ohio. An attorney was appointed to place the donations in a trust for the children.

Baker's brother, Arnold, and three sisters live in Hamilton and tried to raise the money to ship the body home.

"We just couldn't get it together," said the brother. "There are only two of us who could raise any money at all. Marie apparently took it right on her own to raise the amount needed."

Nixon director fills in WASHINGTON (UPI) — Roy L. Ash, President Nixon's management and budget director, has quietly taken over one of the jobs of H. R. Haldeman, former White House chief of staff, by providing final staff clearance for top level government jobs, it was learned today.

Ash, controversial former president of Litton-Industries, has assumed the additional duties temporarily, in his capacity as an assistant to the President. Administration officials said the function was not part of his duties as director of OMB.

As a result of Ash's efforts, Nixon has been able in the past week to announce a flurry of second echelon appointments, although many top jobs remain unfilled.

Immunity order compels answer

There were reports, meanwhile, that federal prosecutors have offered former White House counsel John W. Dean III a chance to plead guilty to only one charge in exchange for full testimony, and that prosecutors would like to summon President Nixon before the grand jury but believe the Constitution would preclude this.

"I would like to have gone directly to the crucial questions," Ervin told UPI Monday in a telephone interview from his home in Morganton, N.C. "But we want to develop the case logically, not piecemeal over yonder."

There has been some criticism from Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., that the committee, of which he is a member, was not getting quickly enough to the issue of high level White House involvement.

Ervin said the committee would hear testimony from aides to the Committee for the Re-election of the President first and then question such former White House aides as H.R. Haldeman, chief of staff; John D. Ehrlichman, chief domestic advisor; Charles W. Colson, special counsel, and Dean.

Colson Monday denied any involvement in the Watergate operation.

Astronauts plan US EREP experiment Wednesday

HOUSTON (UPI) — The future of a planet man calls Earth could hinge on a new space jargon—EREP, all caps and pronounced with a long first "E."

EREP is an acronym for Earth Resources Experiment Package on board Skylab.

That package of six instruments holds the hope for monitoring changes by man or nature on Earth from high enough to inspect any area within minutes.

Researchers may be able to follow pollution patterns, flooding problems, crop destroying diseases, future needs in forestry and oceanographic characteristics.

One of the most important uses of the information is for land use planning, a critical problem of future generations, said John Zircaro, deputy manager of the earth resources program office at the Johnson Space Center.

The orbiting space station astronauts plan to begin operating the EREP instruments as they pass over the United States Wednesday. The first EREP orbit will take them just north of Vancouver, Canada, Rapid City, S.D., Omaha, Neb., St. Louis, Atlanta and Savannah, Ga.

"There's no doubt in my mind that all the earth resources things that we've talked about are going to work," Skylab commander Charles "Pete" Conrad said Monday during the astronauts' first news conference from the flying lab. "I think our sensors will be able to do the tasks that we set out to do, especially the visual tracking."

Data from the special sensors will be collected and turned over to researchers around the world so they may get their best looks yet of the Earth from space.

Orbiting satellites have sent data back to Earth in the past that have helped scientists plan for the Skylab instrument package. And the Skylab instruments are the space agency's hope for even better instruments for the high-orbit monitoring of this planet.

The cameras and other intricate instruments used in more than 143 different experiments are mounted on the outside of the Skylab spaceship. Cameras will give scientists good overall views of geographical surface features and how the different formations fit together.

An experiment using a microwave radiometer, scatterometer and altimeter experiment will study ocean conditions, ice covers, flooding, rainfall, soil types and seasonal vegetation changes.

To check pollution of bodies of water, scientists will use a multispectral scanner, which measures radiation data reflected and emitted from the Earth.

"We will look at Lake Tahoe (California) on one experiment," Zircaro said.

"We should be able to learn such things as what is carried into the lake by rainwater and how this affects the fishing and recreation and usefulness of the lake."

Another device, the L-band microwave radiometer, measures the temperatures of certain areas of the world and gives information on the ocean surfaces, meteorology and earth surface features. The oceanography information will help shipping fleets find the best ocean lanes to travel and the commercial fishermen to locate the best weather and schools of fish.

"Getting the technology is not too difficult," Zircaro said. "The hard thing is learning how to use the information, how to apply it and how to get the people who can apply it interested."

Bushmen of Africa's Kalahari Desert never fight each other, says National Geographic.

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Cuba's new ambassador to Mexico said Monday that Premier Fidel Castro had nothing to do with the Watergate affair.

"I reject any connection you want to make between the Watergate case and Fidel Castro," ambassador Fernando Lopez Muno told newsmen, in response to a question, as he arrived to take up his new post.

Tiny Texas town wins '73 improvement award

ERA, Tex. (UPI) — Forty-five families living in houses scattered around the traffic light where State Highway 51 and Farm Road 922 cross decided 11 years ago to build a community out of what had been a wide spot in the Road 70 miles north of Dallas.

Last week, with urbanization rampant and rural America reportedly moribund, their community was named Texas' top tiny town, the winner of the 1973 Texas Community Improvement Program. That's for towns under 1,000 in size.

Era, Tex., pop. 200, now has a new school, a community center, a modern post office, three churches, two garages, a grocery, a television repair shop, two waterwells, a volunteer fire department and two fire trucks.

Next year they hope to build a fire house.

"We mostly worked together," says Emogene House, community president. "We began in 1962. We bought an old teacherage and remodeled it for a community center. We've bought two fire trucks in 11 years and we've been saving money to try to get a fire station."

"We do an awful lot of work with our children and we do volunteer work with the school clinic. We have a real good school, a pretty school and we have two gymnasiums so all the children can participate in sports all year round."

Mrs. House said the community is growing. "We couldn't have picked better families" — and she admits urban white flight to the country might have something to do with the busing of school students in Dallas and Fort Worth.

The school grew by 15 students last year and the 4H Club gained 10 members. Clubs abound. There are chapters of the Future Farmers of America, Cub Scouts, Webelos, a Home Demonstration Club and a Young Homemakers organization.

"Nearly everyone is active in the community," she said. "We try to get the new families active right off. Our community secretary just moved in last year."

Era is in the middle of blackland farm country and the town is surrounded in season by fields of cotton, grain and grasses for beef and dairy cattle.

The community won $100 for winning the district competition and $450 more in the state contest.

The money will go toward building the firehouse.

Survey reveals inflation boosts

PARIS (UPI) — Italy, Japan, Australia and the United States suffered the sharpest boosts in inflation in March among developed non-communist countries, a survey showed today.

The Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) released its monthly survey of inflation among its 23 member countries which include capitalist Europe plus North America, Japan and Australia.

The OECD survey showed Italy's annual inflation increase rate jumped from 8.1 per cent in February to 9.6 per cent in March, scoring the biggest inflation leap of any OECD member.

Japan's inflation increase rate for the 12 months ending March 31 was 8.1 per cent compared with 6.7 per cent in February. Australia's moved from 4.6 in February to 5.7 in March. The United States' February inflation rate of 3.9 soared to 4.7 in March.

The United States, however, still held honors for the lowest inflation rate among OECD members, with Australia second lowest.

Inflation continued to plague the world with 15 of the 23 surveyed countries registering increases in their annual inflation rate. Only Austria, Finland, Portugal, Spain, and Sweden managed decreases. The rate remained the same from February to March in Iceland, Ireland and Turkey.

The highest inflation rates for March were recorded — unusual by the lesser developed OECD countries, Iceland with 16.6 per cent, Turkey 11. Ireland 10.

Italy was close behind with 9.6 per cent compared with 8.1 in February.

Will The Presidency Be Salvaged?

Devoted To The Citizens Of Magic Valley

Tuesday, May 29, 1973 Al Westergren, Publisher PHONE 733-0931

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's statement Tuesday, with its remarkable admission that he did after all impose national security limitations on the Watergate investigation, instead of winning sympathy from Capitol Hill supporters of his hard-line foreign policy has now spawned two steel-edged questions from them: Question No. 1: It has been long standing practice for the President of the United States personally to approve or "sign off" all highly sensitive covert operations of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

Why then did Mr. Nixon say that "elements of the early post-Watergate reports led me to suspect, incorrectly, that the CIA had been in some way involved?" Should he not have automatically known?

John Ehrlichman and John Dean when they appear at closed-door Senate Appropriations Committee sessions. Sooner or later, the slow-moving Ervin Committee's probe will get them in open session.

In advance of their testimony, many Senators not previously known as Nixon haters now think the worst of the President. "I'm convinced now that he's up to his neck in the cover-up," one powerful Senator told us.

But that harsh view may not take into account the astonishing isolation and remoteness of a President who shunned all routine details of government, who communed with only a very few staffers and who did not even read the newspapers. Indeed, if Mr. Nixon was not a conspirator, his Tuesday statement makes sense only in the context of an eerily detached presidency unique in modern American politics.

Although previous Presidents were informed of any CIA operation with potentially embarrassing repercussions, Nixon aides say some such capers were planned without Mr. Nixon's knowledge. Similarly, while other Presidents would have immediately called the CIA, these officials now say Mr. Nixon relied on Ehrlichman and Haldeman to ask Lt. Gen. Vernon Walters, deputy CIA director, a full six days after the Watergate burglary.

Rail Policy

Unregulated management by a government bureaucracy might be a worse way to run a railroad than the tightly regulated free enterprise system that has driven six northeastern lines into bankruptcy. But some change is inevitable for two reasons:

The judge supervising the Penn Central's bankruptcy has threatened to order a complete shutdown and liquidation next fall unless governmental actions enable the line to slash its losses. The two-year period for Amtrak is about to expire. Passenger service could disappear unless Congress renews Amtrak in some form.

A third factor lurking in the wings is the energy shortage. Railroad locomotives use less fuel per ton-mile than trucks or air freight, and less per passenger-mile than most cars and buses.

It could be extremely shortsighted to let railroads wither away when the result would be to increase the demand for fuel. An obstacle in the way of timely and adequate changes is that everyone has a different idea of what to do. Secretary Claude S. Brinegar of the U.S. Department of Transportation proposes a federally chartered private corporation which would consolidate the six railroads and try to mold them into one profitable system. But it is not clear how much power the corporation would have to change the state and federal regulations and the labor contracts that stand in the way of profitability.

Lacking a consensus, Congress is likely to continue the patchwork approach, renewing Amtrak for another year or two and trying to stave off strikes at the 11th hour. But the judge in bankruptcy could force action with a shutdown order, and then some kind of comprehensive plan had better be ready.

Somewhere between the extremes of nationalization and a hands-off policy, a compromise must be found. It should emphasize creative flexibility. Whoever is placed in charge of reorganizing and managing the bankrupt railroads should have enough authority to do what must be done.

FHA Loans

Housing scandals which came to light in a number of American cities last year, involving Federal Housing Administration-insured loans, resulted in reforms which have knocked the total of new FHA loans to a fraction of their former rate.

Lending institutions blame impossible red tape instituted to prevent a repetition of the abuses for the smaller number of FHA loans being written.

The scandal was widespread and involved hundreds of millions of dollars in sub-standard housing and, in some instances, corrupt FHA inspectors. The main pattern was for developers to buy dilapidated housing at bargain rates and sell it to individuals at inflated prices under FHA-guaranteed loans.

When the individuals who bought the properties could not make the payments or abandoned their homes because of the high cost of repairs, the government found itself owning thousands of sub-standard dwellings of little salable value.

As a consequence, the Federal Housing Administration underwent an overhaul and its lending contracts were tightened considerably. Because of the more stringent requirements, FHA applications for loan insurance in the first quarter of this year were down to less than half the number of a year ago.

Perhaps thousands of would-be home buyers who cannot qualify for conventional loans are forced out of the market. As one FHA official put it, "we are after quality, not quantity."

The Court Pleases

WASHINGTON — Herewith, if the court pleases, a little background information on the admission by Richard Helms, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, that the CIA engaged unlawfully in domestic intelligence activities with political overtones. Those activities included providing a "profile" on the Pentagon Papers' Daniel Ellsberg, and supplying Watergate conspirator Howard Hunt with disguise kits and other spying paraphernalia for "an undisclosed purpose," later revealed as the burglary of the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist in Beverly Hills, Calif.

By law CIA operations may be conducted only in foreign countries. The feeble assumption is that Congress, as keeper of the public purse, would see that the CIA obeyed the law. I say feeble; it is laughable. As a watchdog, Congress has lacked bark as well as bite.

Under that little better than a voluntary arrangement, the CIA is charged with reporting "on occasion" to four subcommittees of Congress, made up of senior members of the House and Senate Armed Services and Appropriation Committees. But there is no way these legislators can check on the honesty of these reports; in effect, the CIA director tells the subcommittees what he ruddy well pleases. Nor can Congress scrutinize the CIA's budget for clues because the money the CIA spends is concealed in the budgets of various other government departments.

Yet, every attempt to create a special Congressional watchdog over the CIA has been thwarted on Capitol Hill. The argument has always been that Congress has no right to pry into secret activities which affect the national security.

Critics of this lunatic arrangement had always contended that inevitably the White House would seek to use the CIA for its own purposes. That now has happened, with the FBI as well as the CIA cast as patsies.

To wit: A memo written by Gen. Vernon Walters, CIA's deputy director, on June 23, 1972, asserted Walters was told by White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman that "it is the President's wish" that the CIA block an FBI investigation of the "laundering" of Watergate funds through a Mexican bank account. Subsequently, Walters relayed to acting FBI chief L. Patzick Gray the concern of senior

White House officials" that the Mexican investigation would jeopardize CIA activities in Mexico.

Here, Helms got into the act and, after a CIA conference, the agency turned down the White House request on the grounds the FBI inquiry would in no way jeopardize CIA activities in Mexico.

But the barn had been done, and Helms' own testimony is not much help in clearing the CIA's good name. First Helms — a trained career intelligence officer — said he had no recollection of the Haldeman remark, although he was in the room at the time. He added, however, that he did not take issue with the Walters memo.

As the hearing got curiously and curiously, Helms said he agreed "reluctantly" to provide the Ellsberg profile after David Young, a National Security Council staffer, told him the request was backed by Henry Kissinger. "Reluctantly?" It was Helms' duty to utter an unreluctant and final "No!" And there, later, was Helms admitting that he approved giving Hunt espionage equipment without knowing what the equipment would be used for. Yet the director of the CIA is No. 2 on the list — after the President — of those privileged few with "the right to know" everything.

Just as curious, if not frightening, Helms refrained from going directly to President Nixon. He explained that he was preoccupied with "keeping CIA uninvolved in the matter." But CIA WAS involved, with Helms' tacit if not explicit approval.

Helms perhaps can be forgiven on the grounds human beings usually succumb to human nature. He was a professional and highly competent spy master, and he wanted to stay on as chief of CIA. His testimony suggests that he didn't want to rock a boat launched by his boss.

But the buck stops at the door of Congress. Ever since the CIA was established after World War II, its members have determinedly avoided knowing too much about CIA operations — lest, by knowing, their morality would be offended. Unfortunately, their dereliction of duty nullified the people's "right to know."

Land Of Hope

WASHINGTON — Despite all the domestic trials and tribulations, don't let anyone tell you that the United States still isn't the land of hope and promise to untold numbers in other countries.

That is strikingly shown by the latest report of the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS).

Both legal and illegal entrants are steadily increasing. Following are revealing statistics as detailed by the INS:

384,865 legal immigrants in fiscal 1972. That's an increase of 29.7 per cent over the fiscal 1965 total of 296,897.

505,940 deportable aliens located in fiscal 1972. That's a 20.4 per cent increase over the 420,126 total in fiscal 1971.

Mexico. The remaining 53,386 naturalizations were from 138 other nations.

Signally noteworthy of the legal immigrants last fiscal year is the tremendous increase from Asia — 121,058 as against only 20,683 in fiscal 1965, a hike of 485.3 per cent.

Of this huge Asian influx, 17,339 came from China and Taiwan, 4,391 from Hong Kong, 10,926 from "other Asian countries."

Smaller increases were recorded for legal immigrants from southern and eastern Europe, 65,492 in fiscal 1972 as against 40,106 in 1965; also Canada, 444,375 as against 126,729.

Notable, on the other hand, was a marked drop in immigrants from two important areas — northern and western Europe, 24,501 down from 73,310 in 1965, a decline of 66.6 per cent; and South America, 19,359 down from 30,065, decrease of 37.3 per cent.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Thosteson I am 82 years old. Are small, starter enemies harmful?

My doctor has me taking stool softeners and an occasional small dose of milk of magnesia. Yet almost every day I have to take a small enema. Can you tell me if prolonged use is harmful? E. S.

They are not necessarily harmful, but are you sure you need them?

With the mild laxative and bulk producers you mention, you should have no trouble. You mention daily use of a small enema. Did you ever try going without one to see what happens on the second or third day?

A daily movement is not necessary. You might have just as good luck with a glycerine suppository. Prune juice might also help.

Dear Dr. Thosteson I am 65 years old. I wish that science gave my body after death members of my family with one exception have agreed. Who has authority in this case? What must be done, and who does it? R. I.

Attorneys shouldn't practice medicine and physicians shouldn't practice law, so I will not try to answer your question, a legal one, other than to suggest that virtually any medical school can send you the forms they use for such matters.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You mentioned a drug that is effective in helping bed-wetters. My doctor tried to find what he could about the drug, but the local druggist was not familiar with it and in a small town our sources of information are limited. My doctor said if I could just find out the name of the drug company, he would see what he could do. Mrs. J. L.

Various drugs are used at times, and sometimes help. They are not a simple, complete answer to the problem. The drug I mentioned was imipramine hydrochloride, which is available under trade names from at least two companies. It requires a prescription. Bed-wetting is not the sole, or even the primary, use.

If the druggist wants to find out about it, all he has to do is look it up in the yellow section of the standard drug reference book, "Physicians' Desk Reference."

Clever, These Otters

A British professor gives the world his word that the sea gull is just a bird brain when it comes to preparing shell fish for dinner.

Intellectually superior and more dextrous, says the professor, is the California sea otter, which cracks clams, mussels, and the like on a large stone placed on its chest.

The professor personally observed one otter cracking mussels at the rate of 2,237 swipes in 86 minutes. Not a morsel was lost to sea gulls that are a little slow in getting down to a clam they've dropped.

Now that the professor has publicized his report, doubtless otters will soon be competing for mussel-opening records.

They will, for a certainty, if they're even remotely like their more advanced mammal friends on college campuses.

UPCOMING

Old Sol is practicing to do his utmost to welcome summer in an appropriate manner.

SCIENTIFIC DUNKING

It is now a scientifically proven fact that cosmetic oils will not harm the skin. A California professor in an experiment immersed a dozen college men in such oils for hours and announced they had done no damage.

Many girls of all ages could have told him the result before the dunking. Some might even have contended that the result would be beneficial.

DEFECTIVE HEARING

Defective hearing is the nation's leading handicapping disability.

Neither poor vision, heart disease, arthritis or any other impairment affects as many people.

A nationwide effort is now under way to reach those millions who have a hearing loss but who, for a variety of reasons, including procrastination, unawareness, vanity or simply not knowing what to do, have not sought the proper attention that could correct or reduce their disability.

The magnitude of the problem is startling.

According to James P. Ince, executive secretary of the Hearing Aid Industry Conference, some 19 million persons in the United States, including about 3.5 million school-age children, have substantial hearing defects.

More than 90 per cent of these disabling hearing losses could be significantly improved by medicine, surgery or amplification, says Ince.

An estimated 7 to 9 per cent of the U. S. population, mostly over age 60, needs hearing aids. Yet the sad fact is that only about 2.5 million persons today wear them.

Even among the hard of hearing who know of their impairment, many don't think anything can or should be done about it. Many have never been to a physician about their hearing, usually because the disability comes on gradually and without pain.

Watergate, McCarthy hearings contrast sharp

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The issues, once so large, now seem trivial, laughable. They involved what a senator described as "the scalp of a pink Army dentist" and whether Pt. Dix gave Pvt. G. David Schine more than his fair share of weekend passes.

Nineteen years ago, for 35 days, the nation was entranced by the first televised Senate hearings. At times, 20 million watched Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy in combat against the U.S. Army — and fight for his credibility.

The contrast with the Senate Watergate hearings seems sharp, but common themes run through both. Despite senatorial claims then and now that hearings are non-judicial, fact-seeking exercises, both in fact were trials with the public as jury.

In both, at issue was the abuse of power by arrogant men who refused to be bound by the unwritten restraints which allow democracy to work.

In the Army-McCarthy hearings, an aggressive, powerful senator was held up to judgment. He was capable of conducting his own defense and browbeating his accusers. He was not accused of violating statutory law.

By contrast, in the Watergate hearings illegal acts are charged — illegal entry, illegal eavesdropping, illegal obstruction of justice. This time it is a trial by one institution, Congress, of another, the White House — and, perhaps the President.

The powerful men who stand accused are less capable of turning the hearing toward their end and it is doubtful that they will find allies among the senators.

No one doubted the spontaneity of the moment when Boston lawyer Joseph N. Welch, stung by an attack on a junior lawyer, turned to McCarthy and said: "Let us not assassinate this lad further, senator. Have you left no sense of decency?"

The cards are stacked against a similar moment this time. The hearing is scripted. Watergate committee counsel Samuel Dash brags that he never permits a witness on the stand without first knowing exactly what he will testify.

Senators, briefed in advance, come to the hearing with their questions written on index cards. Questioning is an educational exercise, more for the public's benefit than the Senate's.

In 1954, the proceeding was rife with partisanship though the minority Democratic party, fearful of McCarthy, hoped the White House would take the lead in neutralizing their man. Only occasionally has partisanship emerged at this early stage in the Watergate hearing.

Friday produced a sample. James W. McCord Jr. had told of clemency offers from "high places in the White House." But his dismissed lawyer, Gerald Aich, sought to discredit McCord by testifying that McCord's new lawyer, Democrat Bernard Fensterwald, had hatched an anti-Nixon "vendetta" as a new defense.

In 1954, no one could predict how Sen. Joe McCarthy would counterattack in Army hearings

But so far Sam Ervin's forum has been a model of mild and unbiased decorum compared with the 1954 set-to. Political savagery is out of style. These senators are well aware of the cameras. Their courtliness to one another ticks Senate reporters who are accustomed to seeing them yield occasionally to such human instincts as impatience, boredom, pride, vanity, even sleepiness.

Even if the partisanship increases as Ervin's fellow Democrats draw a closer bend on the White House, it still will have far to go to match 1954's bitterness.

McCarthy and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., tangled in one famous debate of those days. (McCarthy's Republican colleagues on his subcommittee "are all long gone, but the Democrats — Symington, John L. McClellan and Henry M. Jackson are still here; further proof that the Senate is what it calls itself: "a continuing body.")

Symington had advised Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens to forget "Marquis of Queensberry rules" in dealing with the Wisconsinite. McCarthy said Symington should disqualify himself from the subcommittee "because never before in the history of this Senate ... have we had a man who instituted the charges insist upon sitting as judge."

Symington offered to testify on McCarthy's charge if McCarthy in turn would submit to questions on his finances. Each accused the other of avoiding testifying. The dispute ended with McCarthy calling Symington "San-timonious Stu" and Symington advising McCarthy, "Go to a psychiatrist." Adding insult, Republican Ralph E. Flanders of Vermont called McCarthy an ineffective Communist hunter.

"He dons his war paint," Flanders told the Senate. "He goes into his war dance. He emits his war whoops. He goes forth to battle and proudly returns with the scalp of a pink Army dentist."

They don't talk about each other that way on the Senate floor anymore — or before the TV cameras, either.

Senate exposes glaring weakness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a very graphic way, the Senate has exposed one of its glaring weaknesses over the past several weeks — the jealously guarded domains of its committees.

What made it so evident, purely by happenstance, is the involvement, noninvolvement, or attempted involvement of the Central Intelligence Agency in the Watergate scandal.

As a result, no less than three Senate committees — or subcommittees — have undertaken investigations of their own.

Helms; James Schlesinger, the current CIA chief; Marine Commandant Robert Cushman, the former deputy CIA director, and Lt. Gen. Vernon A. Walters, the current deputy.

Then the sparring began — at least between the McClellan subcommittee and the Symington committee — to get former White House aides H. R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and John W. Dean.

It's true that Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Dean don't have jobs at the present time. But Schlesinger should be spending his time spying on other countries or running the Defense Department, his new appointment. Cushman should be busy running the Marines; Walters should be spying; and Helms should be back in Iran.

Instead, they are running from subcommittee to committee telling the same story. Now, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has suggested a joint Senate-House committee to oversee the CIA.

Not only have similar resolutions failed to pass in the past, it is probable that the CIA would still be responsible to the Appropriations Committee which hides its funds in money bills, so well no one can find them; the Foreign Relations Committee which likes to find out what goes on in foreign lands; and the Armed Services Committee which wants to know the same thing.

Of course, the House does not like to be left out. An investigative subcommittee, under Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Mich., is also holding a CIA probe.

Bulletin 'important'

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — The Market Bulletin, said Rep. Raymond Laborde, is extremely important to the poor rural people. "They just sit on their porch and they read that thing. They'll read it from cover to cover."

remember what the Sears and Roebuck catalog was used for? Well, that's what the Market Bulletin is used for." Rep. Frank Annalzone said, "As far as this being used the same as the Sears and Roebuck catalog, that simply isn't true. You know we don't have those outhouses anymore."

"Do you remember when we used to have outhouses?" Rep. Carl Gunther asked. "Do you

That the three could have held a joint investigation apparently never crossed any chairman's mind (it never does).

The battling order went this way: Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., launched the first investigation with his intelligence appropriations subcommittee.

Quick to follow was Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., acting chairman of the Armed Services Committee which has legislative authority over the CIA.

And a slow third was Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Foreign Relations Committee which gets briefed by the CIA and which recommended approval of the nomination of Richard Helms, former CIA chief, to be ambassador to Iran.

War shadows Irish vote

DUBLIN (UPI) — The shadow of a bitter civil war fought more than half a century ago hangs over the Republic of Ireland's nationwide elections to choose a successor to President Eamon de Valera, who retires next month.

De Valera, now in his 91st year and almost totally blind, completes his second seven-year term as the republic's head of state June 5.

On Wednesday, the republic's 1.9 million voters will poll to elect his successor.

Only two candidates were in the field: Tom O'Higgins, a 56-year-old lawyer nominated by Premier Liam Cosgrave's new National Coalition government, and Erskine Childers, a 68-year-old English-born Protestant backed by former Premier Jack Lynch's Fianna Fail party.

Both men's family histories reach far back into the Irish past and are deeply rooted in the civil war which followed the signing of the Anglo-Irish treaty in 1922.

Their families took different sides in the controversy surrounding the treaty which gave independence to 26 of Ireland's 32 counties. Both presidential candidates lost close relatives in the fight. Kevenin O'Higgins, uncle of the government candidate and vice president of the first Irish government, was assassinated by gunmen. The father of the Fianna Fail candidate was captured and executed by government troops during the Civil War.

However, throughout the campaign, which was conducted on a meet-the-people basis by both candidates, the civil war background never surfaced.

Although the presidency was constitutionally above politics, the campaign was fought as a test of confidence in Cosgrave's 10-week-old government, which took over March 14 ending 16 years of rule by Eanna Fail.

It has been the second run over the course for O'Higgins, who challenged de Valera in 1966 and came to within 10,000 votes of defeating him. Fianna Fail sources believed the election would be a close one. They said Childers would get a strong "populist" vote in the 96 per cent Roman Catholic Republic as a gesture to the Protestant majority in Northern Ireland.

But O'Higgins, a former CIA probe.

NATO mediates 'cod war'

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Iceland and Britain today accepted an offer by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) to mediate the dispute over the so-called "cod war" between the two countries.

NATO Secretary General Joseph Luns extended the offer after Iceland told the alliance that it must help get British warships out of Icelandic waters. Britain and Iceland are both NATO members.

Government officials in Reykjavik, the Icelandic capital, said earlier today Iceland may reconsider its role in NATO unless the organization can solve the fishing dispute.

Ambassadors from the 15 NATO nations met for 45 minutes today at the organization's Brussels headquarters to hear Icelandic Ambassador Tommas Tomasson present his government's demand that NATO intervene at once to end the protection by British warships of illegal fishing by British trawlers inside the Icelandic fishing limit.

The nine-month-old squabble between the two countries boiled over Saturday when an Icelandic gunboat fired on one of two British trawlers. No one was hurt.

Ten days ago, Britain sent two frigates to Iceland to protect British boats fishing there in defiance of Reykjavik's unilateral decision to extend fishing limits to 30 miles from its shores. Britain refused to accept the new limits.

A spokesman said today's session of the NATO council, meeting under Luns, "took note" of Iceland's demand that the British warships leave the area and "appealed to both parties to exercise the utmost restraint and take all such measures which may contribute to a negotiated solution to the dispute."

War aftermath

US gives 12 planes to Cambodia

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Military sources said today the United States will give about 12 transport planes to the Cambodian armed forces so the Phnom Penh government can take over emergency airlift operations from the U.S. Air Force.

In battlefield activity today, 26 civilians were reported killed and scores wounded in Communist mortar and rocket attacks on two northern Cambodian villages.

The reason for the gift of the 123 twin-engine transport planes, the sources said, was to relieve the U.S. Air Force of a running "Cambodia's emergency airlift program."

That operation has been carried out for months by U.S. C130 transport planes flying supplies from American bases in Thailand to Phnom Penh and Cambodian troops in the field.

The C123s, part of a fleet once widely used by U.S. forces in South Vietnam and more recently by the South Vietnamese, have been refurbished and are now having Cambodian insignia painted on them at Bangkok airport, the sources said.

When the planes are delivered, the sources indicated, depends on how long it takes U.S. Air Force instructors in Thailand to train Cambodian pilots to fly them. The instructors are also training parachute riggers and cargo personnel on the mechanics of supply air-drops.

Naval authorities today said four persons were killed and two wounded in heavy Communist fire that harassed Monday's supply convoy of an 84-mile trip up the Mekong river from South Vietnam to Phnom Penh.

The nine-vessel convoy reached the Cambodian capital at dusk under an umbrella of U.S. air support. Damage to the ships was described as light.

Authorities said the dead included a Philippine crew member of a barge in the convoy and two Cambodian soldiers and a civilian riding as passengers on a navy escort patrol boat.

Field reports said Communist gunners today killed 14 civilians and wounded several others in a mortar attack on the market town of Sala Lek Pram about 70 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

Other reports said 12 civilians were killed and at least 20 more wounded in an attack on the ferry crossing town of Prek Kdam, 20 miles north of the capital.

Villagers told reporters who visited Prek Kdam that Communist troops launched a ground attack on the town under cover of a rocket barrage. About 30 houses were burned before the rebel troops retreated at dawn, they said.

Britain's vice scandal subsides

LONDON (UPI) — The dust is settling on Britain's vice scandal.

The government has ruled that, aside from Lord Lambton and Earl Jellicoe—the two ministers who confessed last week to relations with call girls and quit as a result—no other ministers are implicated.

Prime Minister Edward Heath appears to have survived what at one time threatened to be his government's own "Watergate" without suffering too much political damage.

But British political commentators agree, in the words of the Duke of Wellington after winning the Battle of Waterloo in 1815, that for Heath and his government it was "a damned close run thing."

Heath still has another 18 months before he has to face the voters in national parliamentary elections.

Skeletons of the "vice in high places" affair are likely to rattle around for some time in the British press and parliamentary lobbies but by a piece of unusual good luck for the government, the crisis erupted just a few days before parliament left on a two-week spring recess.

By the time lawmakers return, much of the heat will have gone out of the entire affair.

The scandal has illustrated some interesting sidelights of life in present day Britain.

In the first place, it has shown that even in what is regarded as a permissive age and society, no British government can afford to be seen condoning conduct such as that admitted by Lambton and Jellicoe.

James Margach, political editor of the London Sunday Times, put it this way: "To claim that the British people don't give a fig what Ministers do in private totally ignores the reality of the public moral conscience which forms instinctively on such occasions."

The vice affair also has shown that even if it is a moot point that the private behavior of members of a government is not the business of the nation as a whole, the security angle is an issue of major concern to all.

When the British Security Commission starts its probe of the scandal as ordered by Heath, the investigation will be solely on the question of national security. The morals of government ministers will not be under scrutiny at all.

S. Viets, Reds agree to discuss territory

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese and the Communists agreed today to begin work next week on one of the most difficult tasks of the four-month-old cease-fire—determining which territory each side controls.

Salmon command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said the two sides will exchange maps outlining the territory each claims to control.

Both sides have been fighting a "battle of the flags" since the cease-fire went into effect Jan. 28. Territory allegedly controlled by each is marked with the flag of the particular government—the red and gold banner for South Vietnam and the blue and red flag with a gold star for the Viet Cong.

Hien said the maps will be the only issue discussed next week by the two-party Joint Military Commission (JMC), composed of representatives of the South Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

The Saigon government and the Viet Cong both claim to control large chunks of territory across South Vietnam. The South Vietnamese control the populated areas, but the Communists claim control over large areas of the countryside.

In another development, Canadian External Affairs Minister Stephen Harper said he would announce today in Ottawa whether his country would remain as a member of the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS).

Canadian sources, both in Ottawa and Saigon have indicated repeatedly in recent weeks that Canada would probably withdraw from the ICCS because it was not working effectively.

The other members of the ICCS—Poland, Hungary and Indonesia—have set no time limit on their membership in the organization.

Canadian officials in Saigon have been unhappy with the relative ineffectiveness of the peace-keeping force. Since the cease-fire started, there have been 15,000 violations, according to South Vietnamese statistics.

Hien said today 21,141 Communists and 6,344 South Vietnamese, including 932 civilians, have been killed. Another 28,504 South Vietnamese have been wounded.

On the war front, Hien said 14 Communists were killed Monday in an attack near Kien Thien, 110 miles southwest of Saigon in the Mekong Delta. Heavy fighting has been going on in the area for nearly a month and an ICCS helicopter was fired upon near Kien Thien May 6.

Greeks admit mutiny

ATHENS (UPI) — The military-backed government of Premier George Papadopoulos conceded Monday that a naval mutiny last week was really a full fledged attempt to overthrow Papadopoulos.

Military sources said an in-depth investigation into the scope of the affair was not under way.

Navy sources said the Salamis Island navy base, opposite the port of Piraeus, was closed with as many as 50 ships, including four destroyers, anchored inside the base.

Military sources also said strict security measures were still in force in and around various air bases in the east central area of Greece.

The government maintained for days that the navy plot involved no more than a handful of active officers. Then, it said Monday that 35 officers, most of them holding senior rank, were involved in an attempted coup against the government.

Unofficial reports put the number of detained officers at much higher than 35.

A government statement said the only plotters still at large was Cmdr. Nikolaos Pappas, who withdrew his ship, the destroyer Velos, from North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) exercises off Sardinia Friday and asked Italy to grant him and 30 members of his crew political asylum.

A ministry of defense announcement said three retired officers, Capt. George Konofas and Adms. Constantine Engolopoulos and Ioannis Minalos, led the coup attempt. They were arrested last week.

A third retired admiral, Antonios Rozakis, was accused of lending a resistance organization, Greek Antidictatorial Youth (EAN), which was accused of placing bombs under automobiles owned by American military and diplomatic personnel—and planning to assassinate Greek leaders.

The defense ministry said Rozakis left for Italy by ship May 10, but gave no further details.

African leaders confer on touchy border dispute

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — African leaders decided early today to extend their annual conference into a third unscheduled day to enable them to finish unresolved business—the toughest involving a border dispute between Somalia and Ethiopia.

Charges of troop mobilization and threats of possible war between the African neighbors tied up the conference of the 41-member Organization of African Unity (OAU) and marred its 10th anniversary celebrations.

President Mohammed Siad Barre of Somalia arrived Monday to formally take his seat at the conference. Officials summoned photographers to watch Siad Barre shake hands with host Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie, but a Somali official said afterwards: "That means nothing."

Siad Barre arrived late because, he said, a "crisis situation" existed between Somalia and Ethiopia. He said Ethiopian troops were massed along the border in an Ethiopian province that Somalia claims. Ethiopia said it was Somalia that mobilized its troops.

The two sides engaged in a series of exchanges Monday over the existence or non-existence of an OAU mediation committee set up to look into the issue.

Somalia announced the committee's formation Sunday and named five nations it said were members. Ethiopia's information minister early Monday denied that any such committee existed.

Although the subject apparently was not included on the official conference agenda, mediation efforts apparently were under way privately.

Conference sources said Siad Barre met for more than an hour Monday with President Yakubu Gowon of Nigeria and President William Tolbert of Liberia.

Both Nigeria and Liberia were among the five nations the Somali spokesman named as members of the mediation committee.

Rogers pleased with Latin trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers has wound up his 17-day, 8-nation Latin American trip pleased with the way it went.

Rogers returned Monday night and was reporting today to President Nixon.

He encountered some minor student demonstrations in Venezuela and Colombia "but generally it was a good trip," he told newsmen.

In each of his stops Mexico, Nicaragua, Venezuela, Peru, Brazil, Jamaica, Colombia and Argentina—Rogers stressed the theme that U.S. paternalism in the Western Hemisphere is dead.

As he put it in Bogota: "In the reality of today's world it may be said that the paternalism of the past has been replaced by nationalism and a growing sense of fraternalism. The United States strongly supports this change."

It is too early to say whether officials or the public in the countries he visited were convinced by this assurance.

Rogers' trip stressed business talks more than protocol. Except for two 19-gun salutes in Nicaragua, it was generally devoid of extravaganzas.

In Buenos Aires, Rogers was obscured in a crowd of more than 60 chiefs of foreign delegations attending the inauguration of Argentina's new president, Hector Jose Campora. Judging by the Latin press coverage, he was upstaged on that occasion by figures such as President Osvaldo Dorticos of Cuba.

But eventually Rogers got to sit down for lengthy talks with Campora.

Tornado damages great

By United Press International
Another series of tornadoes swooped on the South and Midwest Monday from a storm system that has spawned the worst onslaught of tornadoes in the nation's history.

Violent weather and floods have killed at least 40 persons since Friday.

The latest twisters struck Athens, Ga., killing one person and injuring around 65 others; parts of North Carolina, inflicting property damage; and Northwest South Carolina; Northern Illinois, Indiana and North Dakota.

The National Weather Service in Washington said 100+ tornadoes hit the nation between noon Friday and noon Monday in the worst 72-hour period on record. More than 600 twisters have occurred since January, also a record.

Alabama, with eight deaths, was the hardest hit by the Memorial Day holiday tornadoes—that also killed five persons in Keefeton, Okla., three in Jonesboro, Ark., and one each in Panama City, Fla., Laurel, Miss., and Athens, Ga.

The latest tornado victim was Mrs. Barbara Lively, 52, who was killed late Monday when three tornadoes hit Athens, site of the University of Georgia about 60 miles northeast of Atlanta. Athens Mayor Julius Bishop said the damage appeared to be worse than a March storm that caused some $22 million damage. Large parts of the city were without power and National Guardsmen rushed three generators to help meet the power crisis.

The North Carolina twisters were reported in Charlotte and Albemarle, but damage was minor and no injuries were reported. Several houses were damaged by a tornado near Greenville, S.C.

Flash flooding killed seven persons in the North Carolina mountains around Asheville and National Guardsmen were rushed to the area to help find straggled campers and prevent looting. Preliminary estimates of damage to roads and bridges in the Asheville area alone ranged up to a half million dollars. Some communities were isolated by mud slides that blocked roads.

A tobacco farmer at Louisburg, N.C., Sheriff Lester, was struck by lightning and killed Monday afternoon when a thunderstorm caught him plowing his field.

Gov. George C. Wallace toured Alabama's hardest hit area Monday and said the tornadoes "just destroyed the town of Brent."

The storm wiped out about 95 per cent of the business district and at least 300 homes in the town of 2,000. Most of the residents have left town, at least temporarily.

Of the eight persons killed by tornadoes across north and central Alabama, four lived in Brent. Among the more than 100 persons injured statewide, about half are from Brent.

Wallace said an unofficial preliminary estimate put damage at $20 million in Alabama.

Weather officials said the twisters created the worst natural disaster in Alabama in 41 years. On March 21, 1932, tornadoes struck several Alabama communities, killing 268 persons and injuring 2,000 others.

Severe thunderstorms and torrential rains pounded the east Monday night, particularly the metropolitan New York area. About 12 homes were damaged by high winds at Mount Olive and Flanders, N.J. Wind gusts up to 50 miles per hour were reported at New York's Kennedy Airport.

Sift through rubble

IN THE FOREST Heights community in Athens, Ga., residents sift through the rubble of their shattered homes following a series of tornadoes, leaving one dead and about 50 injured. Some of these same homes had been repaired following a tornado that hit there in late March, 1973. (UPI)

Guardsmen fight NC floods

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — More than 300 National Guardsmen were rushed into the Blue Ridge Mountains Monday to help fight flash flooding that killed seven persons and left hundreds of others homeless or isolated by mud slides.

Buncombe County (Asheville) appeared one of the hardest hit by the flash floods, triggered by Sunday's thunderstorms which dumped between six and nine inches of rain on the mountain slopes within a 12-hour period.

Gov. Jim Holshouser dispatched the Guardsmen to help search for stranded campers, prevent looting at demolished trailer camps and clear roads covered by rock, mud and water.

The National Weather Service said preliminary estimates of damage to roads and bridges in the county ranged around $100,000 but the sheriff's office said state highway officials had estimated the damage at about $500,000 Buncombe County officials said damage to other property could push the total loss to over $1 million.

Over 100 Buncombe County residents were evacuated from their homes late Sunday night and housed at three county schools. The sheriff's office said 45-50 were still at the schools Monday night with their trailer homes wrecked by the flood waters.

Meanwhile, a search continued for two of six persons who were washed out of a trailer south of Asheville. Two of the six, both women, were rescued from a tree where they took refuge and the bodies of the other two were found Monday.

School peppered with fragments

BELFAST (UPI) — Fragments from an exploding rocket aimed at a British Army post in Belfast peppered a nearby Roman Catholic nursery school today but caused no casualties, the army said.

An army spokesman said the Soviet-made RPG7 rocket exploded when it hit a fence surrounding the post, showering fragments on the Vere Foster school where 220 children were playing inside.

He was 4-year-old Paul Crumney, a Catholic boy who was playing in his family's garden Saturday when he was hit by a stray bullet during an IRA attack on a British patrol in Belfast.

A wave of bombing and shooting attacks ceased Sunday and, except for a blast in which five Catholic children suffered shock, the lull continued Monday.

The dead were identified as Wayne Woody, 23, and a son, Christopher, 2. Missing was Woody's daughter, 9-month-old Sharon, and Jason Roberts, 25. The sheriff's office said the two women who survived apparently were the wives of Woody and Roberts.

Among the other fatalities was 5-year-old Karen Hutmaker

No bets accepted on impeachment

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — If you want to bet that President Nixon will be impeached or resign, don't try to place the bet with Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder.

He is taking no bets.

Snyder said Monday he has been "flooded with calls" since his "Watergate Odds" were reported.

Well known as an oddsmaker, Snyder said he received many requests from newsmen to estimate the odds on such things as the President's resigning.

"After doing considerable research, I decided to release my personal opinion, oddswise," Snyder said.

He figured the odds are 200 to 1 against President Nixon resigning, and 1,000 to 1 against his being impeached. He gave 5 to 1 odds against former Attorney General John Mitchell being found guilty.

Since then, he has received thousands of calls "from people wanting to bet me—or anyone willing at the odds indicated," he said. The long odds were apparently irresistible to a lot of people willing to risk small sums on the short end against the possibility of a windfall, he said.

"I am an oddsmaker, not a bookmaker," Snyder said. "In no way am I interested in betting anyone on anything. Not only that, but all those phone callers should realize that it is a violation of federal law to make a wager over interstate phone lines, or even for trying.

"I hope that for the sanity of my office staff, they cease and desist."

Although gambling is legal in Nevada, those who make a business of it must be licensed by the state. Snyder has no bookie's license and can't take bets.

If he did have a license, state gambling officials said, it is not clear whether even an authorized bookie could take bets from within the state only—on something like Watergate.

"The law does not prohibit it, and Shannon has been a member of the state Gaming Control Board—but it doesn't authorize it either."

More than 1,000 mourners attended the funeral Monday of the 800th victim of almost four years of strife among minority Roman Catholics, majority Protestants and British forces.

Required orientation set

DANBURY, Conn. (UPI) — Five convicted Watergate conspirators today were undergoing an orientation program at the Danbury Federal Prison following their transfer from a District of Columbia jail.

The men, accompanied by a U.S. marshal, arrived at the Medium Security Federal Facility outside Danbury Friday, prison officials said.

The five were E. Howard Hunt Jr., 54; Bernard L. Barker, 55; Eugenio R. Martinez, 49; Frank A. Sturgis, 37; and Virgilio R. Gonzales, 45.

The men were undergoing the required orientation program required of "any other" new prisoner, a prison spokesman said.

The orientation may take from two to three weeks, after which the men will be assigned regular jobs in the prison, according to Lt. Frank Poulos, the correctional supervisor.

Poulos said the five convicted Watergate conspirators were placed in a dormitory with 35 other prisoners.

Army sources said the attack could be the start of Irish Republican Army (IRA) offensive aimed at disrupting local government elections in Northern Ireland Wednesday.

DEAR ABBY: Our son was given every opportunity for as much education as he wanted, plus room and board without costing him a quarter, but as the kids say today, "he blew it."
Now he comes and goes as he pleases, lounges around the house, reading, listening to records, eating like a king, contributing nothing, and making long speeches about what is wrong with the world. We told him to please get out until he either gets a job or goes back to school and completes his education. So far, neither alternative appeals to him.
He says that he is a minor and we have to take care of him until he is 21. That means another eight months, and I don't think we can take it. Any suggestions?

Jerome Girl Scouts day camping slated

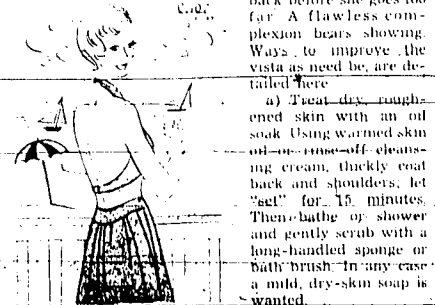

JEROME — Girl Scouts of Neighborhood No. 18A will hold their annual day camp June 25 to 29 at the Jerome County Fairgrounds.
Mr. Dale Hammond, day camp director, said this year's day camp will be somewhat different from the previous years. "This year the Cadettes will assemble at the fairgrounds on June 25 and participate in the opening ceremonies and the flag ceremonies, but will then leave for the rest of the week and camp out at the Boy Scouts Camp TC, Reach on the Snake River," Mrs. Hammond said.
She noted that in the past the Cadettes have participated in regular camp activities at the fairgrounds and returned home each night with the exception of the last night of day camp. "This year the girls will be camping out all week and will return to the fairgrounds on June 29 and will camp out with the scout troops and participate in the closing ceremonies on June 29."
Regular camp programs will be held at the fairgrounds for Junior Girl Scouts and Brownies. The hours will be from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. June 25, 26, 27, and 28 on June 29 camp will be held from 3 to 9 p.m. with the Juniors, Cadettes and Brownie Fly-ups staying overnight. Mrs. Hammond said.
The theme for this year is "New Horizons," with the program to feature flag ceremonies, singing, dramatics, firebuilding, outdoor cooking, badge activities, getting acquainted with nature, storytelling, hiking and campfire skills.
She explained that volunteer leadership is needed in order to provide day camping. Each camp needs at least one adult for every 6 to 8 girls. Troops planning to come to day camp, which will include Jerome, Wendell, Gooding and Twin Falls, are asked to help recruit the staff, Mrs. Hammond said.
Other camp directors include Mrs. Albert Johnson, Mrs. Truman Arbaugh and Mrs. Bill Kennedy, all Jerome; Mrs. Clifford Morrill, Hilday, and Mrs. Pete Waggoner, Gooding.

THE BACKWARD GLANCE

By Mary Sue Miller

It's hard to believe that last summer's fashions, cut down in back to here are now cut down to there. Is it the designers who want to cut down or the ladies who want to cut out?

No matter, as long as the lady takes a look at her back before she goes too far. A flawless complexion bears showing. Ways to improve the vista as needed by are detailed here:
a) Treat dry, roughened skin with an oil-soak. Using warmed skin oil or a base-off-cleansing cream, thickly coat back and shoulders. Let "set" for 15 minutes. Then-bathe or shower and gently scrub with a long-handled sponge or bath brush. In any case a mild, dry-skin soap is wanted.
b) To free the back of blackheads brush scrub with medicated soap during daily bath or shower. Twice weekly apply a grainy cleanser—grains in cream or foam form, or dry grains for pre-lathered skin. Carefully work in cleanser with a stiff sponge. Thoroughly rinse and blot dry. Then put with antiseptic lotion and let air dry.
c) Eruptions—pimples—respond to medicated lotion, used night and morning. Affected areas should be treated gently with a fresh cloth for lathering and a sterile gauze pad for lotion application. Medical advice is indicated.
Follow cleansing with a stiff towel. Finish by massaging with firm rotary motion. Repeat at least three times weekly.

"Silas Snodden's Office Boy" by Horatio Alger Jr. The hero is a young lad of humble origins — courageous, modest, ambitious and completely honest.
"The Soothsayer" by Laurence Chambers Chinn. A reconstruction of the Bible story of Paul and Timothy that is relevant and convincing.
"Destination Mars" by Martin Caidin. This fact-filled and fascinating book demonstrates how much we already know and are still learning about Mars.
"Bride of Israel, My Lover" by Richard Jewell. The story of a restless, seeking man, and seemingly unattainable woman who comes to symbolize the very spirit of a proud and blossoming land.
"Crow Killer" by Raymond W. Thorp. John Johnson, a trapper after finding his Indian wife and unborn child killed by Crow braves seeks vengeance on the whole Crow nation.
"The Big Rock Candy Mountain" by Wallace Stegner. The story of Bo Mason, a man who followed the illusive vision of the Big Rock Candy Mountain trying to find the promises of sudden riches.
"The Jesus Trap" by Lowell Streiker. The author is uniquely qualified to help the reader decide the truth for himself about the Jesus freaks and their beliefs.
"A Closer Walk with Thee," is Pete Fountain's song appropriately because his life has been filled with his closeness to his family, his fellow musicians, his city and his music.
"The New Totalitarians" by Roland Huntford. Fact after fact on how an apparently democratic, prosperous, peaceful Utopia in Sweden is totally controlled by a bureaucracy which actively discourages all signs of individuality.
B.C. and A.D.
The custom of dating events B.C. (before Christ) and A.D. (anno Domini, in the year of our Lord) was introduced about 525 by Dionysius Exiguus, a Roman abbot and astronomer, who set Christ's birth 753 years after the founding of Rome.

14 Idaho seniors cited

MOSCOW — Education Foundation scholarships have been awarded through the University of Idaho to 14 Idaho high school graduates who will attend the university this fall.
Included are Kathleen Emerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Emerson—Jerome, who will major in mathematics, and Diane Heisey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noel Q. Heisey, Mountain Home Air Force Base, Mountain Home, majoring in special education.

Nuda relays scurry for case of beer

SAN CARLOS, Calif. (UPI) — High school students held their annual night nuda relays in this San Francisco suburb, keeping law officials scurrying until early Sunday.
"We try to stay out of it except for making sure that no person and no property is damaged," said a sheriff's deputy.
The Memorial Day weekend event normally starts with a meeting of students from several high schools and traditionally ends with unclothed males racing through the streets in 50 to 100 cars.
The winner of the relays was supposed to get a case of beer, but in the confusion, the champion wasn't determined this year.

DEAR HAD IT: In Detroit your son is an adult at 18, and he has no more right to live on your property than a stranger. You can give him the official 30 days notice to move out of your home, and if he refuses, the court will advise him that he has 10 days to move, after which, they will "help" him.

You don't live in Detroit—you live in Atlanta, Ga., or Muscatine, Ia., or Boston, Mass.? Well, ring up your local Legal-Aid-Society and find out what the law in your community says.

DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful 22-year-old daughter. She has always had many boy friends and girl friends until about a year ago when she met this one girl at school. Since then, nothing has been the same.
My daughter has dropped all her other friends and she associates only with this one girl. They are together morning, noon, and night. They have all their classes together, and after school this friend comes home with her, eats dinner here, and on weekends she spends the nights here.
They never have dates, but it doesn't seem to bother them—they are so wrapped up with each other. It just doesn't seem normal to me.

Abby, I am beginning to wonder about the relationship between these two girls. I love my daughter more than my own life. What should I do?
HEARTSICK MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Let your daughter know you love her and accept her as she is. There is no more convincing proof of your love.

DEAR ABBY: What would you say about a guy who is so egotistical he flies the American flag on his birthday? He was in World War II, and all he ever did for his country was get a dishonorable discharge.

Isn't there a law against flying the American flag whenever you feel like it? And if so, what is the penalty, and where do I turn this concealed bomb in?

Nothing would give me more pleasure. Thank you.
GALVESTON, TEX.

DEAR GALVESTON: You'd better find another way to punish the guy. There is no law against flying the American flag anytime, or all the time.

DEAR ABBY: Re-the letter from the housewife who said her husband got all kinds of offers from willing women to have coffee and "something" while making a delivery. I've been installing phones for five years, and the most I've ever been offered was a cup of coffee and a piece of cake.
I hope all wives whose husbands make deliveries and service calls don't think their husbands are fooling around. They aren't. Believe me, I know.

NOTHING ON THE SIDE

CONFIDENTIAL TO LOREN: Superstar misses you. Please call your mother collect immediately.

Private land topic of Salmon River survey

By ROY JOHNSON
Special to the Times-News
SALMON — The most controversial issue concerning classification of the Salmon River center around the private land which was the major reason given to support of an unclassified status.

Opposition to any classification of the river went to as high as 95 per cent in the Riggins-Whitebird area but the further away from the immediate area the stronger was the environmental expression.

Salmon River will be reviewed. Recommendations of the regional foresters to the chief of the Forest Service are expected to be made public shortly afterward to give the public an opportunity to consider the recommendations prior to public hearings next winter.

Payment really censorship

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union will start paying royalties today on books, plays and records by foreign authors and artists, but dissident intellectuals warned it actually was a censorship ploy.

Other countries could similarly reproduce Soviet creations. By joining the convention, Moscow is not only required to pay royalties but can also enjoin foreign publishers from issuing unauthorized Soviet material.

The Soviet Union officially became a party to the copyright convention Sunday, 63 members and 18 years after it went into effect. It meant the Soviet Union agreed, among other things, to pay royalties to foreign artists and authors.

Shortly after the government announced in February it would begin adhering to the convention May 27, it passed a law stipulating that only an official Soviet agency could grant foreign copyrights.

Justice Department seeking farm measure reconsideration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department is urging Senate farm leaders to reconsider proposed new legislation which antitrust officials charge would greatly increase the power of big dairy cooperatives to dominate the milk supply.

The request was in a letter dated last Friday to Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., from Thomas E. Kauper, assistant attorney general in charge of the antitrust division.

Kauper's letter replied to a McGovern query as to whether milk marketing amendments to a pending omnibus Senate farm bill would affect the division's pending antimonopoly suits against two of the nation's biggest dairy cooperatives — Associated Milk Producers, Inc., of San Antonio, Tex., and Dairymen, Inc., of Louisville, Ky.

Kauper said the amendments are "designed to vest additional power in the large dairy cooperatives which already possess a significant degree of control over the supply of milk."

"Two of these cooperatives have been charged by us with attempting to monopolize the supply of milk in their areas... through the use of a variety of predatory practices aimed primarily at dairy farmers who wish only to continue to market their milk in accordance with their own individual judgment rather than the judgment of the managers of the cooperatives," Kauper wrote.

"Their freedom to follow this course should be preserved rather than impeded, as it would be by the enactment of this legislation."

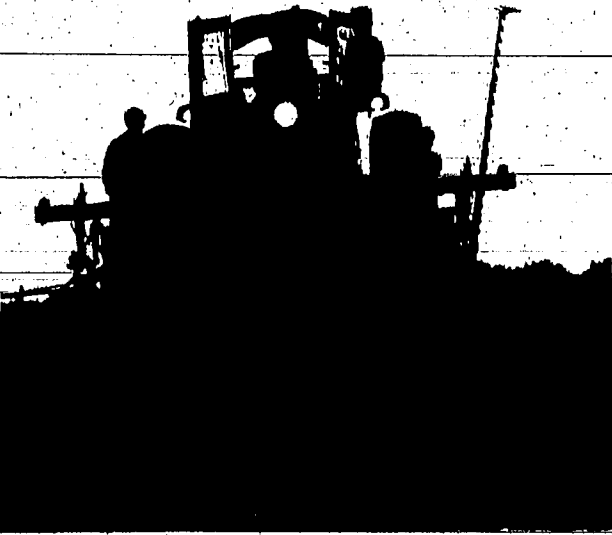

Kauper said the omnibus farm bill, approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee and awaiting floor action, should be returned to the committee for hearings on the dairy sections. Senate sources said agriculture committee leaders were not expected to pull the bill back, since critics of the sections can try to strike them on the floor.

The controversial amendments, backed by dairy co-ops, would restructure some portions of the law affecting federal milk marketing orders.

One amendment would provide that where base quota plans are used, quotas belonging to individual members of co-ops would be allocated to the co-op as a unit.

Other controversial proposals would allow co-ops to levy service charges which would be paid by all dairymen in their areas, including non-members who do not get the services; allow co-ops to set minimum prices for marketing services, and create reserve milk "pool" arrangements.

Montour man raps bureau secrecy

BOISE (UPI) — The chairman of the Montour Flood Committee Monday accused the U.S. Reclamation Bureau of deliberately withholding vital public information.

John Curtis, Montour, said the bureau has refused to publish a 1971 study of siltation in the Black Canyon Reservoir.

He said the latest refusal came in a letter dated May 23 and signed by E.F. Sullivan, the bureau's regional director.

Curtis said the study was a joint project between the Soil Conservation Service and the reclamation bureau. He said the bureau "put the brakes on publication of the study after they saw the results."

He said the bureau repeatedly has denied that siltation in the backwaters of the reservoir could be responsible for the nearly annual flooding that occurs at Montour.

Montour is located at the backwaters of the Black Canyon Reservoir.

However, Curtis, who is an engineer as well as a rancher, claims data he has studied indicates "there is no doubt whatsoever that the siltation is the primary factor responsible for the flooding."

"The data clearly indicates the bed of the river is nine feet higher than it used to be in the backwaters of the reservoir and is even five feet higher than it used to be at the Montour Bridge some distance upstream from the slackwater."

"It appears to me that the Bureau of Reclamation is persisting in sticking its head in the sand while the people of Montour are forced to walk around with their feet in the water," he said.

JEROME — The Jerome County Farm Bureau board of directors will meet at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in the county offices.

Scheduled for discussion will be a request from Dale Rockwood, Idaho Farm Bureau president, that each member donate 20 cents for the cost of the television film comparing general farming in the U.S. and Japan.

Among speakers for the week-long event will be Trace Johnson, Filer, incumbent congress president.

Others participating will include outgoing officers, Susan Kuwana, Declo, vice president, and Rusty Jesser, Kimberly, sergeant at arms.

A number of out of state speakers and special entertainment will be featured during the program.

Congress sessions open June 10 at 8 a.m. in the Student Union building ballroom. A vesper service is also planned Sunday. Election of new officers is scheduled Monday with workshop programs continuing through the week.

Other special events include a barbecue Wednesday at 5:30 p.m.; a fashion show at 8 p.m. Thursday; a slide show at 7 p.m. Friday. Folk and square dancing is planned on Monday, with a talent show Wednesday and social activities Thursday.

Valley 4-H's set for Idaho meeting

TWIN FALLS — Structural changes in cattle through breeding, record keeping and use of shows to establish market standards for cattle were among topics at a recent cattlemen's meeting in Kansas.

Twin Falls breeding stock rancher Charles Boss attended the 1973 American Cattleman's Conference at Kansas State University in Manhattan, Kan.

Boss said the event, which was sponsored by the American Polled Hereford Association in cooperation with KSU, was "real informative" as far as he was concerned.

Boss said speakers included Dr. Rex M. Butterfield, veterinary scientist from the University of Sydney, Australia, and Dr. Don L. Good, head of the animal science department at KSU.

Butterfield spoke on the structure and development of beef cattle, Boss said, while Good discussed changes to be made in shows and judging.

Boss said as a result of the conference he will increase the detail of his cattle's performance records and use them in the process of improving his own herd. Boss said he runs about 60

Rural housing subsidy program revival asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three low-income rural families have filed suit seeking to force the administration to revive a suspended program under which the rural poor had been getting about $1 billion a year in subsidized housing loans.

The class action suit, filed in U.S. District Court Friday, was aimed at requiring the Agriculture Department's Farmers Home Administration (FHA) to reopen its interest-credit program suspended by administrative fiat last Jan. 8 as part of a broader action shelving — at least temporarily — many urban and rural housing subsidies.

Administration officials said at the time the programs would be suspended pending an 18-month review of more effective methods of aiding the poor.

Under the FHA rural program, low-income borrowers were able to get mortgage loans at interest rates — depending on family income — of as low as 1 per cent.

This interest credit program operated alongside another FHA system in which better-off borrowers got mortgages at a rate based on the cost of money to the government, currently 7.25 per cent. The non-subsidized portion of the program is still in operation.

All funds loaned under the program are raised from private lenders who are covered by government guarantees against loss. The major direct cost to the government is the difference between market interest rates and the subsidized rates charged in the currently-suspended interest-credit program.

Plaintiffs in the suit included Willard LaVern Pealo and Brenda Pealo of Jordan, N.Y.; Jimberg Fisher and Dale Mae Fisher of Burnett, Texas, and Thomas Edward Ayers and Rita Marie Ayers of Auburn, N.Y.

Defendants named included the FHA and several of its officials, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz and Roy Ash, head of the White House Office of Management and Budget.

"If the court does not provide relief, 77,000 low-income rural families will be deprived of their rightful opportunity to obtain decent housing in fiscal 1974," said Clay Cochran, a spokesman for the Rural Housing Alliance which lobbies for expanded housing programs.

The suit charged administration suspension of the rural housing interest subsidy was illegal on grounds including the fact that Congress allegedly had directed operation of the program with no leeway for administration discretion to kill it.

Also, the suit said the suspension in January was ordered without following legal requirements for public hearings. The plaintiffs also claimed the termination violated the Civil Rights act by discriminating against minority housing needs.

The Pealo family, according to the suit, applied for a subsidized housing loan last year but was later told it could get only an unsubsidized 7.25 per cent loan.

"At the full interest rate... Mr. Pealo can afford to pay only $10,000 for a house," Cochran said. "With full interest subsidy he could pay as much as $19,000. Mr. Pealo cannot find a house he can afford without an interest subsidy."

NO MEASURE. NO PREMIX. NO BLIGHT.

DU-TER®: Now in a unique water-soluble pack that takes all the work, dust and mess out of measuring and mixing your potato fungicide. Just fill your spray tank full of water, drop the soluble substance pack into the tank with full agitation. Complete filling, then agitate the MIX 3 to 5 minutes to dissolve the pack. It's the fastest, most efficient way to get the jump on blight this season.

Because DU-TER is an ultra-low volume fungicide, we recommend application of just 5.0 to 10 ounces per acre, as opposed to 1-1/2 lbs. per acre with other fungicides. Begin early and spray every 7 days as conditions dictate. Be especially alert to blight attacks when temperatures remain above 60° F. or when relative humidity is above 75% for 48 hours or longer.

DU-TER is also registered for sugar beets. Try a tankful of DU-TER. You'll like the convenience of the new water-soluble pack, and the effectiveness of DU-TER's blight control. So will your potatoes.

Hunt proposed Castro death in 1961 invasion plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate conspirator and former CIA agent E. Howard Hunt, who helped plot the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, says he recommended to CIA superiors that Fidel Castro be assassinated as part of the scheme. His proposal was never approved.

Hunt makes the disclosure in a forthcoming book in which he describes his role and that of the Kennedy administration in the ill-fated invasion by several hundred Cuban exiles who were organized and trained by the United States to overthrow Castro's regime.

A copy of the printer's galley for the book, to be published in November by Arlington House, was obtained by UPI.

In it, Hunt charges that Kennedy tried to "whitewash the New Frontier" when the invasion failed by "heaping guilt on the CIA."

Kennedy accepted responsibility for the Bay of Pigs fiasco at the time but much of the blame for its initiative and implementation was placed on the CIA by others.

Hunt said he proposed assassinating the Cuban leader because he believed that "without Castro to inspire them the rebel army and militia would collapse in leaderless confusion."

Hunt said his proposal was to "assassinate Castro before or co-incident with the invasion." He added that the role of carrying out the killing was "a task for Cuban patriots."

He said he was told by Richard Bissell, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency's clandestine services, that his plan was being considered by a "special group" within the government.

But Hunt said: "So far as I have been able to determine no coherent plan was ever developed within CIA to assassinate Castro, though it was the heart's desire of many exile groups."

Hunt's part in the invasion plan included organizing Cuban exiles in Florida and coordinating their activities with the invasion forces being trained by U.S. Air Force and Army specialists which included the Army's Special Forces unit.

He said plans had called for a Cuban Exile Executive Committee with Hunt at their side to enter Cuba after the invasion declare themselves a "government-in-arms" and call for military aide.

On the following day, Hunt said an examination of U2 photographs of the raids showed the rebel pilots "had claimed more destruction than actually occurred" and a "cleanup strike" was ordered just as CIA Deputy Director Charles Cabell entered the room.

Cabell, who was acting director while Dulles was on a speaking engagement, said he understood that only one strike was authorized.

Hunt said the air operations officer, whom he identified only as "Colonel George," argued that the authorization was "to knock out the Cuban Air Force. There was no restriction on the number of strikes," Cabell was told.

But Cabell insisted "to be on the safe side, I'm going to ask (Secretary of State Dean) Rusk about it. Cancel that strike order . . . until I can get someone to approve it."

Hunt said he was told by Bissell that at a hurriedly-called meeting later that day attended by Kennedy, Walt Rostow, his Policy Planning Council chairman, Rusk, U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, and special counsel Arthur Schlesinger, among others, Kennedy decided there would be no second strike.

Bissell agreed to allow the invasion to go ahead.

Budget cuts may mute 'Voice'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Information Agency officials are deeply concerned about threatened congressional cuts of their budget which will prevent the Voice of America from improving its signal to mainland China and cause a number of drastic cutbacks in programs, personnel, and posts abroad.

The Senate was expected to vote this week, possibly today, on the agency's budget authorization request which the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has slashed from $224 million to $193 million. The Senate was expected to uphold the committee's cuts.

The House has yet to act, but Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, has introduced a bill to cut salaries and expenses at USIA and at the Voice of America, the official American government radio, by 10 per cent.

USIA has prepared an impact study on the consequences of the proposed Senate cuts which show:

The Voice of America would be denied $16 million for relocating and augmenting a major VOA relay station which is currently situated on Okinawa and needed "to reach audiences in Mainland China and adjacent areas of East Asia with a strong and effective signal."

"USIA will probably have to close 20 information and cultural centers and eliminate all its activities in Burundi, Guinea, Uganda, Algeria, Malta, and Switzerland."

"USIA would be obliged to liquidate three foreign language magazines which are credited in Washington. The are Dialogue, a prestige magazine published in 12 languages which is aimed at intellectual audiences; Al Majal, an Arab language magazine for Near East audiences, and Topic, a magazine published in French and English for audiences in Africa."

"Funds for planned filmed documentaries would be cut and substantial reductions would be required in press and television activities abroad."

"USIA would be obliged to reduce its staff worldwide by 900 persons instead of the planned 264 persons, to bring its total employment down to 8,840—a 27-per-cent decline in manpower since 1967."

Airliner crashes

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — A Pakistan International Airways (PIA) plane on a domestic flight crashed Monday night at Lwalpur airport, 89 miles southwest of Lahore, the government news agency said today.

It said the aircraft, a Fokker Friendship, was destroyed but that all of the 40 passengers and six crew members on board escaped serious injury.

Three or four passengers, it said, sustained minor injuries. The airport manager told the news agency that PIA officials saw flames coming from the plane as it began its descent. Moments later, the agency said, the plane "dropped" to the ground.

Ground crews and other officials rushed to the burning plane as passengers came out an emergency exit door.

The airport manager said he did not know what caused the crash, but the agency said weather was bad at the time—with lightning flashing around the plane.

MV holiday accidents kept low

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Holiday weekend traffic was heavy but accidents few state, city and county officers said today.

State police reported one fatality late Saturday night near Murtaugh when Martin Swartz, 21, was killed in a one-car rollover.

City police reported two accidents with minor injuries and a 10-year old boy was hospitalized late Friday after being struck by an automobile near his home. Todd Telford, 10, son of Dr. and Mrs. V.V. Telford was released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Monday after suffering fractures, cuts and bruises. He ran across Blue Lakes Boulevard North in the 300 block and was struck by a car driven by Gwenia Lee Thorne, 30, Twin Falls.

Gale Hamilton Carlock, 16, was treated for cuts, bruises and released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Sunday afternoon. His vehicle collided with one driven by David Franklin Hughes, 39, Twin Falls. Officers cited Hughes for failure to yield right of way. The accident occurred at Third Avenue West and Fourth Street West.

Rustling charged to Shoshone man

SHOSHONE — Jim Trowbridge, 26, Shoshone, was expected to be arraigned here today on charges of cattle rustling.

He recently was hired by the Star Lake Cattleman's Association as a range rider, but was arrested Sunday after four calves believed stolen from Lincoln County rangeland were found in a Wendell corral.

Lincoln County Sheriff Bill Anderson said investigation is continuing to determine if charges will be brought against any additional individuals.

La-Dru Sorensen, Dietrich, said cattlemen in the Star Lake Association spent the past two days trying to determine which of the cows out of the 2,400 head of cattle in the district were the mothers of the stolen calves. He and George Arkosh, Gooding, owner of the stolen calves, managed to get the cows to Gooding Monday and put them with the calves. The cows may not claim the calves stolen May 17.

This is the second range rider the Star Lake Association has hired since the cattle were put on the range April 13, Sorensen said. Members expect to hire a replacement for Trowbridge.

Sorensen said the range rider, for the individual cattlemen's association does not replace the fulltime range inspectors who will be hired jointly in a four-county effort to stem the increasing cattle rustling.

Even bars have 'Watergates'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — An uptown saloon called The Club is offering a 25-cent cocktail called the Watergate. It consists of a glass of water with a plastic bug in it.

Larry Bisso, who owns the bar, says he hasn't actually served a Watergate to anybody yet.

"Some people say, 'Give me a Watergate,' and I say 'I don't have any extra bugs,'" Bisso said. "They get a big kick out of it."

Gem gas users not affected

BOISE — An increase in natural gas prices announced last week by El Paso Natural Gas Co. probably won't effect Idaho customers until next April, according to Intermountain Gas Co. officials in Boise.

Reed Penning, manager of gas supplies for IGC, said today the effect of the projected El Paso increase to northwest division users, which includes Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming and northern Nevada, has not yet been computed.

"You got the mail ahead of us on this one," he said. Penning said the figures released by El Paso which call for an increase of 1/4 of a cent per thousand cubic feet, or "about six cents for the average household customer per month," are not really relevant to Idaho users.

Penning said IGC receives several increases a year from El Paso but lumps these increases together to pass on to the customer only twice a year — in October and in April — when seeking rate increases from the Idaho Public Utilities Commission.

Penning said it would be hard to isolate the announced El Paso increase from other increases with which it will be lumped when IGC petitions the IPUC to increase its own rates.

The El Paso increase, Penning said, would not be effective for IGC until December of this year and thus would not be passed on to the Idaho customer until next April. He said IGC's costs would increase by about $300,000 because of the El Paso hike, but he said it was to early to tell just how this would be passed on to Idaho customers, although he said that it would be.

Each company is effected differently," Penning said, "and we don't have the figures yet so we really don't know what the effect on our customers will be."

Penning said IGC was in "real good shape" as far as the natural gas shortage. He said IGC has been buying 8 per cent of its gas from Canada without depleting domestic supplies.

"We actually feel," Penning said, "we're probably in the best shape of any gas company in the country on gas supplies. We've been increasing our supplies while other companies have been havin' to cut back on their supplies."

Hailey man charged

HAILEY — A Hailey man has been charged with reckless driving and failure to report an accident after a vehicle caused about $250 in damage to a Hailey yard.

According to Hailey police chief Doug Williams, Wayne Brown, 20, was arrested Monday afternoon in connection with the incident which had occurred about midnight Sunday at the Ray Wheeler residence, Pine and Main.

Williams said Brown allegedly lost control of his vehicle, drove into a fence and over patio furniture in the Wheeler yard.

Brown has been released on a $180 bond and is scheduled to appear in Blaine County magistrate court June 6.

Williams said Brown's vehicle sustained about $150 damage.

Dismissal cause told by official

Peterson said he dismissed the teacher accused of child abuse before the full-scale state investigation began. Peterson said that at the time he was aware of the investigation but it hadn't yet come to the surface. The teacher's dismissal and word of the investigation came nearly on the same day, he said.

The board members never really did understand his program, Peterson said. They relied on reports from Childs he said, and Childs could not adequately interpret it for them. The board members rarely visited the ranch and Childs was there only infrequently, Peterson said.

Lynn Call, Youth Rehabilitation officer in Rupert, said Monday that over the last two years "the boys have been doing better" at the ranch. Previously there were a lot of runaways, he said, and many boys asked not to be sent to the Youth Ranch.

The program has become treatment oriented, Call said and he was "concerned" that the trend would now change. "Those who left were treatment oriented," he said, "and those who stayed were custodial oriented."

If the orientation does change, Call said, referral agencies such as his will begin sending a different type of boy to the ranch, one that would benefit more from a work type program than one who would benefit from intensive counseling.

Currently he is discouraging referrals to the ranch until things are settled and "we see which way the program is going."

The boys needs come before some things like work, Call said. "These kids need to be somewhere where the pressure is off," he said.

The Idaho Youth Ranch is a privately run home for "delinquent to pre-delinquent" boys ranging in age from about nine to 17 years. Most boys are referred to the ranch by the courts although occasionally a boy is referred by his own parents or other social agencies.

The boys are housed in three homes organized by age groups under the supervision of a set of house parents.

The ranch operates a school which includes both a mechanics shop and a woodworking shop. The school is not accredited although most boys are tested and placed at proper levels when they are returned to school. About 30 per cent of the boys attend regular schools in Minidoka County.

The ranch is located on over 2500 acres of land, 1,200 of which is leased to local farmers.

The ranch employs a social worker who tests and provides counseling for the boys in cooperation with the agencies which referred them.

The facility is operated entirely from donations made by residents of the state. Boys are referred from all areas of the state.

Raceway opening set at Gooding

GOODING — The Gooding County International Raceway grand opening will be Sunday at 11 p.m.

The opening will include a rocket display by the Idaho National Guard, and a skydiving exhibition by Jump West Parachute Center, Boise. Highlighting the event will be an aerial stunt show by Art Sholl, including roll overs, flips and an inverted ribbon pickup.

Two "funny cars," Gentle Ben and Rapid Apparatus will be on display along with several double A dragsters. Phil Levey will give a demonstration ride in his dragster, and go-cart races will be featured.

At 2 p.m. match races and bracket eliminations will be run with $800 in prize money. Qualifying races for the Sunday event will be run Saturday.

A tower and concession stand, a chain link fence and guard rail, bleachers for 6,000, a fenced play ground, and a new asphalt surface strip and return have been under construction this spring.

Chronoket Timing Equipment, showing lapse time and miles per hour will be used at the races.

Burglaries reported

TWIN FALLS — County sheriff's officers today reported burglaries in Twin Falls and Murtaugh during the holiday weekend.

Sheriff's officers this morning were called to P and E Concrete Co. where an office building and warehouse had been broken into and ransacked. Officers said an inventory was being taken to determine the full loss but several items of equipment and a number of tools were taken. The burglary occurred approximately one month after another break-in at the same business.

Officers said a window was broken at Emmens Food Store on Blue Lakes Blvd. S., but entry was not made.

At Murtaugh the Youth Center was broken into Sunday night and several coin-operated machines entered. Officers said small amounts of change were taken from each of the machines.

A pickup truck parked in front of the home of Robert Rice in Murtaugh was entered and a box of hand tools taken during the holiday.

Hagerman honor queen hospitalized

BLISS — Charlene Wilkins was to be installed honored queen of the Hagerman Bethel of Job's Daughters Monday night. Instead she went to the hospital.

She and her sister, Mayleen, 12, were en route to Hagerman Monday afternoon to decorate the Masonic Hall in preparation for the ceremony when their pickup truck went out of control and overturned.

Deputy Sheriff Bill Bunn said Charlene was transferred to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, Twin Falls, where she was listed in good condition today. Her younger sisters is in good condition at Gooding Memorial Hospital.

The girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilkins, Bliss.

Deputy Bunn said both girls received head injuries and were unable to say why the truck went out of control. The accident occurred about 1 p.m. Monday on Highway 30 three and one-half miles west of Bliss.

The truck hit lava rocks on the opposite side of the highway and overturned.

Wood wins pair to run total to 13

CHICAGO (UPI) — Workhorse Willie Wood, a throwback to the iron-man pitchers of another era, pitched 14 innings of six-hit ball and won two games Monday night as the Chicago White Sox beat Cleveland 4-0 after winning the completion of a suspended game 6-3 in the 21st inning.

The two victories raised Wood's 1973 record to an amazing 13-3 as the White Sox have played only 30 games but Wood already has pitched 131 2/3 innings—and put him 27 days ahead of Denny McLain's 31-game pace for Detroit in 1968.

Wood allowed two hits and only one unearned run in five innings of relief in the suspended game and then he came back a half-hour later to pitch a four-hit shutout, his fourth shutout and ninth complete game of the season.

Wood did not gain his 13th triumph in 1973, when he finished with 24 victories until July 12.

Dick Allen's three-run, opposite field home run with two out capped a four-run rally in the 21st inning to give the White Sox their victory in the completion of a game suspended after 16 innings Saturday night because of the American League's 1 a.m. curfew.

The Sox gave Wood all the help he needed in the second contest by scoring two runs in the opening inning off loser Dick Tidrow when Allen walked and scored on Bill Melton's double to left center and Rick Reichardt followed with a single up the middle.

Pirates drop Houston 4-2

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bill May homered, Dave Cash rapped two run-scoring singles and Pittsburgh pitchers twice worked out of bases-loaded trouble to lead the Pirates to a 4-2 victory over the Houston Astros Monday.

May put Houston starter Don Wilson on the path to his fifth defeat when he drove a towering home run, his fifth of the season, over the right field wall in the second inning.

The Pirates stretched their margin to 3-0 in the fifth. Cash singled to score May, who had opened the inning with a single. Ellis, who was safe on a sacrifice, later stole third and scored—when third baseman Doug Rador, allowed a throw from catcher Skip Jutz to go through him.

KC rallies in 9th to nip Sox

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Pinch-hitter Kurt Bevacqua delivered a two-run single with one out in the ninth inning to tie the score and Cookie Rojas singled home Gene Garber with the winning run to give the Kansas City Royals a 5-4 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

The Royals, trailing 4-2 entering the bottom of the ninth, chased Red Sox starter Marty Pattin when Ed Kirkpatrick opened the frame with his fourth straight single. Bob Bolin relieved and was greeted by a single by Paul Schaal, putting runners on first and third, and after Hal McKee popped out.

Complete frustration

IT'S ALL DONE ROLLING to the disgust of Pirate Rich Heber as plate umpire Terry Tata signals fair ball. Heber elected to let Astros' Roger Metzger's slow grounder roll, hoping it would go foul. The Pirates won 4-2, (UPI telephoto).

Mays rejoins club

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Willie Mays, out of action since May 6 with a shoulder injury, rejoined the New York Mets Monday but remained on the disabled list.

"I feel better," said Mays, "but I think it will be a few days before I can play." At the time Mays was placed on the disabled list by the Mets, it was announced he had a shoulder injury. But Mays, one of the greatest players in his time, said he has a burst condition in the shoulder.

Quack wins Californian with strong stretch run

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Closing with a powerful stretch, Quack easily humbled five rivals Monday to capture the 20th running of the $110,300 Californian Stakes at Hollywood Park.

Lagging in last place until the final turn, Quack was brought to the outside by jockey Donald Pierce and in long strides drew past his rival to defeat Royal Owl by a little better than a length while Tri Jet was third and Crusading finished fourth.

Kennedy Road and Soft Victory were the others in the race.

It was only the third start this year for Quack, which last summer equaled the world record of 1:58.1-5 in winning the Hollywood Gold Cup.

His time for the Californian at one and one sixteenth miles was a good 1:41 2-5.

Quack went off at slightly better than even money and returned $4.20, $3.20 and $2.80. Royal Owl paid $7.00 and $5 and Tri Jet returned $4.40.

The win earned $65,300 for Millard Waldheim of St. Louis, who races Quack as part of his Bwanzon Farm. In 15 starts since he came to the races last year, Quack has now earned $305,250.

Kennedy Road, which is a stablemate of Quack but was not coupled in the wagering because of separate owners, set most of the early pace under the handling of jockey Bill Shoemaker.

Tri Jet and Crusading forced the early pace while Pierce let Quack settle into stride without rushing him.

Pierce brought Quack far to the outside and the son of P.M. Lark responded in ground-eating strides to catch the leaders in the final yards and he drew out to win by one and a quarter lengths.

Quack scored his victory under topweight of 126 pounds, while Royal Owl carried one pound less. For trainer Charles Whittingham it was the fifth time he had saddled a Californian winner, having captured the last two runnings with Cougar II.

After a lengthy layoff since winning the Hollywood Gold Cup last July, Quack was brought back to Santa Anita to capture the San Bernardino Handicap in his first start of the year.

A holiday crowd, estimated at 44,000, turned out to witness the Californian.

PERTH, Australia (UPI) — Don Pedro, 71, a pensioner with no fixed address, has received his 551st conviction for drunkenness in Perth-Police Court.

"It's incredible," the magistrate said, and added he couldn't think of anything else to do with Pedro, so he jailed him for 14 days.

Padres move to Washington await National loop approval

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joseph Danzansky, a Washington food store executive, who purchased the San Diego Padres for $12 million over the weekend, has cautioned Washington baseball fans to save their excitement until after the National League has approved the transfer to the Nation's Capital.

"This is not quite a celebration, it's more of a prayer meeting," he said. "It's not all wrapped up yet... we've still got that hurdle to cross."

At a news conference Monday, Danzansky said he was "extremely confident" that the league would approve the deal and allow Washington to end its two-year baseball famine. The old Washington Senators vacated the area in 1972 after owner Bob Short moved the club to Arlington, Tex.

Danzansky's investment specialist Marvin Willis and Dr. Robert Schattner said they are financing the purchase, largest in baseball history, through a consortium of three Washington banks.

Asked why he paid so much for a team that has finished last every year since its inception in 1969, Danzansky replied, "We were convinced that that was the only price that would bring a baseball club back to Washington."

Danzansky made a determined but unsuccessful bid to buy the old Senators from Short in 1971, stressing that Short, a native of Minnesota, was not attuned to the wants of Washington area sports fans.

At the news conference announcing the deal, Reps. B. F. Sisk of California and Frank Horton of New York echoed the theory that hometown ownership is essential to a club's success.

"Fans here haven't been exposed to the kind of treatment that home ownership can give a team," said Congressman Horton. "Home ownership is the most important ingredient."

On the matter of what the new club will be called, Danzansky ruled out resurrecting the old "Senators" moniker.

"That's a little outmoded, don't you think? he said."

Canada hails hockey support of Sweden

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association (CAHA) has greeted Sweden's withdrawal from the 1976 Olympic ice hockey tournament as "great support" for Canada's position on the amateur competition.

"The move makes us feel that we are getting our point across to the Europeans," said CAHA executive director Gordon Juckes Monday.

Dodgers tame strutting Phils

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Andy Messersmith struck out the first six batters Monday night to tie a major league record and Willie Crawford and Ron Cey provided back-to-back homers in the fourth inning as the Los Angeles Dodgers cooled off the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-1.

Canada withdrew from world and olympic hockey competition Jan. 5, 1970 and the CAHA said at that time the nation would not compete in any more amateur hockey tournaments until the format was changed.

"A feeling that the rules as they stood then and as they still stand now were hypocritical on the basis of eligibility as they applied to the various countries, and until such time as they were changed Canada would remain out," Juckes said.

Berglund announced Monday Sweden had decided to withdraw from the 1976 Olympic hockey competition because it felt the players involved were not true amateurs.

Berglund also spoke out against the world tournament in Finland next year, but did not withdraw Sweden. "We will try to bring Canada back to the tournament, because we feel as long as Canadians stay outside, there will be no first class competition," Berglund said.

He added the Swedish Ice Hockey Association "might put pressure on the International Ice Hockey Federation to clarify the situation in a way favorable to Canada."

The CAHA had introduced a resolution in Moscow last month calling for open-world and Olympic tournaments, but it was voted down and never made it to the special committee, where Canada had hoped it would be given serious consideration. Sweden had backed Canada at the meeting.

Salt Lake City has some of the widest streets in the nation, main streets in the downtown area being 132 feet across.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 30, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to carry through with the financial activity put in motion the past two days. Consult with those of vast experience with money to get their viewpoints. Follow them sensibly so you have greater prosperity in the future.
ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Try to add to present abundance since you will need more funds soon. Use your good mental judgment to take care of a ticklish problem. Avoid a situation at home that could lead to trouble.
TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Study your appearance and see where you can make improvements so that you are at your best. Become a more dynamic person. Enjoy hobbies with good friends after work. Show congeniality.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Relieve those restrictions that slow up your progress considerably. A good friend seeks help from you and you should give it. Don't let an inexperienced upstart take advantage of you.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Meet with good friends for the recreations that can be enjoyed by all of you. A good day for the social side of life. Make sure conditions at home are in fine working order.
LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) You have many small tasks to handle in business matters, and you should not procrastinate any longer. You can easily gain the favor of a higher-up. Strive for more harmony in the home.
VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Obtain the information you need for a new plan you want to put in operation. Figure out a way to have more success in the future. Dress in good taste. Take health treatments.
LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) Listen more carefully to what debtors and creditors have to say so there can be more progress in the future. You can establish more harmony at home. Try to please mate more.
SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Talk with associates about future plans and come to a perfect agreement. Many situations arise which show you the way you are headed. Make the most of present opportunities.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Attend to business matters with vim and vigor instead of worrying about it. A co-worker has a good plan which you should follow. The evening can be a particularly happy one.
CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) You have fine creative ideas but you will need the support of others before you can put them into practical application. Take time out for some needed recreation.
AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Attend to small tasks that need doing. Make plans to improve your surroundings. A family tie could be irate, but avoid an argument. Do what is right and all is well.
PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) An associate could be very talkative now and prevent you from doing what is necessary, so quietly excuse yourself. Obtain the data you need. Make long-range plans for the future.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people who is clever at times, but at other times, appears less than alert. Teach to make concrete plans and then to follow through on them, otherwise your youngster could harm her by impulsively getting into some venture that is not worthwhile. Give the best education you can afford. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Master, what did you pay for car repairs in the last 12 months? A company that specializes in automotive expenses figures repairs on the average middle-priced car during its first year on the road run about $42. The second year, $96. The third year, $162. The fourth year, $226. And the fifth year, $251.

Exactly 1.4 per cent of the country's law officers are women. Hard to believe, this, but a job counselor of lengthy experience contends the average stenographer's career lasts only two years.

That word "arrive" comes from three Latin words meaning "to come close to shore." That's why some nitpickers, some-but not many, still insist you can't arrive by train, plane or auto, but only by boat.

Look, son, it's not enough to report that Benjamin Franklin received an air mail letter, in 1785. You must report further he was in France and the epistle came to him from England by balloon.

BEAUTY WAS

It was the soft-natured, full-flashed, round-faced woman who for centuries was regarded as the most beautiful. Consider the feminine portraits by Giorgione and Rubens and da Vinci. Not until the motion pictures came along did the girls with shadowy eyes and high cheekbones and firm jawlines - say Greta Garbo, Katharine Hepburn, Marlene Dietrich, Joan Crawford - get popular. The special intensive lighting for the cameras did it. Brought on a sudden admiration for that sort of girl who looks like a sackful of doerhorns. In those earlier days of sunshine and candlelight, the most admired were the ladies who always appeared somewhat pneumatic, the kind who would roll downhill if placed horizontal on a 15-percent grade.

MARGARINE

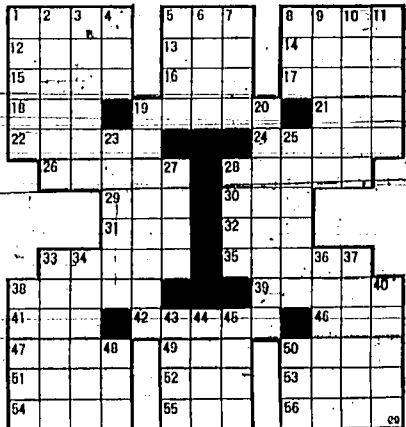

Q "Don't the margarine users outnumber the butter users?" A. By two to one, they do. Heroabots. Those starazers continue to insist that the Aries man tends to be a home lover who greatly enjoys do-it-yourself projects. Remember that, young lady. If your husband is an Aries, cite this interesting claim as you hand him the dishrag.

P. T. Barnum remains famous as the cunning circus promoter who said, "There's a sucker born every minute." Few realize he might have been talking about himself. Not once nor twice but thrice was old P. T. flummoxed out of fortunes. First, he lost a big bundle in a crooked real estate deal. Second, a stock salesman took him for his entire portfolio. Third, he divested himself of the whole shebang in a funny scheme to manufacture phony snow.

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission will hold a public hearing June 15 on an application to raise rates and other costs for mobile telephone service in parts of the state.

The commission has received an application from Tel-Car, Inc., requesting an increase to $22.50 from $19.50 per month for service charges to customers in Meridian, Twin Falls and Pocatello.

The application also requests that a maximum number of allowable minutes be decreased from 160 to 100 and the excess charges be increased from 10 cents per minute to 18 cents.

PUC states hearing

BOISE (UPI) - A general rate docket hearing is scheduled by the Public Utilities Commission June 13 on applications to hike rates for shipping chemicals and household goods.

The Pacific Inland Tariff Bureau Inc. asked for authority to raise rates on bulk chemicals four per cent to offset labor and labor-related operating expenses.

Small band

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) - The main party of 148 Mormon pioneers who came to Utah with Brigham Young in 1847 included 143 men, three women and two children.

Watergate spotlighted

By United Press International
Commencement speakers around the nation focused on the Watergate scandal Sunday. Some said it showed the strength of American democracy, others said it was the country's low point in history.

"The often excruciating exposure of problems, which is a characteristic of our democracy, is not a sign of weakness but of strength," former Attorney General Richard D. Kleindienst, who resigned because of the scandal, told graduates of Susquehanna University in Selwenger, Pa.

However, former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg told graduates of Hanover, Ind., College, "If we cannot speak to each other without government eavesdropping, we soon will not be able to speak to each other without government's permission. This is the greatest scandal in our nation's history."

Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., said at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn., that Watergate is easy to understand in light of "cheating, doublecrossing and killing" that he said has typified American history.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., asked high school seniors in Munster, Ind., not to think the scandal is representative of American politics.

"The American political process, like all human endeavors, is flawed. But it is far and away the best political system ever devised, and with your interest and participation we can recover from this crisis of confidence," Bayh said.

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., in remarks prepared for commencement exercises today at Boston University's overseas graduate program in Manheim, Germany, said, "I believe the debilitating effects of this blow will be short-lived" and the "recuperative capacity" of the U.S. system will allow it to fulfill its commitments to the Atlantic Alliance (NATO).

Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., did not mention the Watergate scandal in her commencement speech at Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio.

She said, "Antifeminism as well as antiblackness are two of the most strident issues whose bulwarks have been tumbling within the last few years because of the overt activity of both blacks and women."

The 315 graduates included 100 women who were among the first freshmen female students accepted in 1969, at Ohio's oldest private college.

Greek mutiny plot 'serious'

ATHENS (UPI) — The Greek defense ministry said Monday that an investigation showed the mutiny plot in its navy was far more serious than at first believed.

"From the course of an investigation under Rear Adm. Petros Arapakis, it has become evident that the initiation (in the plot) had spread to a larger number of officers than thought before," a defense ministry announcement said.

The announcement said that 35 naval officers on active duty, mostly of senior rank, were involved in the plot, including Commander Nikolaos Pappas, captain of the destroyer Velos, who together with six of his officers and 24 ratings sought political asylum Saturday in Italy.

The announcement said the plotters planned to sail "with as many ships possible and to gather first in the port of Syros. From there they would have asked for the support of the army and the air force and demanded the resignation of the government," the announcement said.

Syros is one of the Cycladean islands in the Aegean, a few miles north of the popular summer resort island of Mykonos.

The ministry said the rebel officers planned to land "small detachments on the island without military garrisons to raise the morale of the population."

"In case of failure of the coup, the fleet was to sail to Italy," the announcement said.

The ministry said the leaders of the planned coup were two retired vice admirals, Constantine Engolopoulos and Ioannis Minoas, and retired Capt. George Conofaos, who were all arrested last week shortly before the government announced the mutiny plot on Thursday.

"There was close connection between this movement and the dislodged subversive organization E.A.N. (Greek Antidictatorial Youth). The leader of this group appears to be retired Adm. Antonios Rozakis, who left by sea for Italy on May 19," the announcement said.

An unspecified number of persons allegedly belonging to E.A.N., including a veteran and a retired army officer, were arrested just over a week ago. The organization over recent months claimed responsibility for numerous low-intensity bombs planted under foreign mission cars, especially those belonging to U.S. personnel.

Driving attempt causes collision

TWIN FALLS — A young Twin Falls woman was treated and released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Saturday night after her first attempt at driving resulted in a collision with a power pole.

Sandra Hammer, 24, suffered minor facial lacerations in the accident. Hospital officials said early concern over internal injuries to Mrs. Hammer, who is pregnant, proved unfounded.

According to investigating police officers, Mrs. Hammer decided to drive the family car home from the hospital where her husband Ray is in good condition with an undisclosed ailment. Although she had never driven before, she proceeded east on Addison Avenue West, losing control of the vehicle and smashing into a power pole near the intersection of 2nd Avenue North.

The pole, which held up street light lines only, was broken loose by the impact. The Hammer vehicle sustained about $400 damage, according to police.

Mrs. Hammer was cited for failure to control her vehicle and driving without an operator's license.

Parachutists die

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) — Two young men performing a free fall parachute jump with two other parachutists pulled their ripcords just one second too late and were killed when they hit the ground.

Sheriff's deputies identified the victims as Lincoln Shirk, 23, Durango, Colo., and Richard T. Montgomery, 21, Downey, Calif.
