Israel proposes prisoner trade

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israeli authorities said today they want to follow up the Middle East's biggest POW exchange since the 1967 war with a swap of all other prisoners.

In the exchange Sunday, Israel handed over 46 Syrian and 10 Lebanese prisoners of war in exchange for three captured Israeli pilots.

"Of course," a foreign ministry official said in Jerusalem, "we are now going to try to liberate the 10 Israeli prisoners in Egypt." Those prisoners and 56 Egyptian POWs are the only remaining captives of the Middle East conflict.

The deal with Lebanon and Syria, the official said, followed long negotiations through the International Red Cross and the dropping of Israeli insistence that the Egyptian POWs be part of the exchange agreement.

"I hope this will make it a little easier," said Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, who watched the arrival of the three Israeli prisoners at a crossing point near Kuneitra on the occupied Golan Heights.

"That doesn't mean that I really anticipate within a short time that we shall see any exchange of prisoners with Egypt taking place," he said, "but I think that in one way or another, it will help."

The returning Israeli prisoners appeared pale and thin, but in good spirits. They were beaten, tortured and denied medical treatment while in captivity.

Skylab survey slated

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab's astronauts prepared to survey a swath from Montana to Georgia today while awaiting word on plans for a dangerous space-walk this week to free a power wing and give their sky home a longer productive life.

Leaders of the $2.6 billion space research project met at the Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., to weigh all the risks involved and decide whether or not to go ahead with the extraordinary repair walk-down the side of the station. Final word was expected tonight.

But mission control told Charles "Pete" Conrad, Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz Sunday night that the space-walk was planned this week to cut free the jammed solar cell generator.

"Very good," replied Conrad. "We aim to please. We're more than happy to do anything we can."

Project director William C. Schneider said the spacewalk could come as early as Wednesday if top management approves the plan. Flight director Charles Lewis said, however, the preliminary plans call for the repair work Thursday.

While waiting for the decision, the three astronauts went ahead with their space research, starting by taking panoramic pictures of the sky to measure star brightness and by turning power telescopes toward the sun.

"We're all up and operating," Conrad told Houston as the crew began the day's work. (Continued on p. 2)

Police guard cockpit of Soviet SST

SST plans proceed

PARIS (UPI) — French Premier Pierre Messmer said today the fiery crash of the Soviets' audacious supersonic Tupolev 144 Sunday with the loss of 14 lives was an "international catastrophe."

Despite the disaster Britain, France and the Soviet Union said they will press ahead with their plans for supersonic civil air travel.

The Soviets were reported to have 10 more of the planes under construction in hopes of selling it on the world market.

France and Britain are working together to market their super-sonic Concorde although leading U.S. airlines have decided not to buy and the Japanese expressed new uncertainty today.

"Russia will go on with its program," said Henri Ziegler, president of Aerospatiale, the French part of the Franco-British supersonic Concorde project. "As for the Concorde, its viability and security have been abundantly proved and the program will not suffer from this accident."

The six-man crew of the Tupolev and eight villagers died Sunday when the plane went into a nose-dive during a demonstration flight before 300,000 spectators at the Le Bourget air show and crashed in blazing fragments on the nearby village of Goussainville. The wreckage hit 15 houses and injured 28 persons.

It was the first known crash of a civilian supersonic airliner and was one of a series of recent Soviet aviation disasters that have claimed 519 lives in six separate crashes.

Police said the bodies of four missing crewmen were found in the shattered cockpit of the plane and were being guarded until Soviet aviation officials could supervise their removal. The other two bodies were found earlier.

Ziegler said Pyotr V. Dementiev, Soviet aviation minister who watched the crash, told him today that the Tupolev program would continue and "the Russians expect to be in the business commercially by the end of next year or the start of 1975, same as the Concorde."

The French official is one of the few Westerners to have seen the Tupolev factory in Voronezh. He was shown through by Alexei A. Tupolev.

Paris (UPI) — U.S. aircraft engineers said today the Soviet supersonic Tupolev 144 which crashed Sunday with the loss of 14 lives may have disintegrated in flight because the pilot was trying to match a previous performance by its Anglo-French rival, Concorde.

"Those planes were never built to do acrobatics," the executive of one American aircraft firm said.

A few minutes before the Tupolev 144 took off for its demonstration flight before 300,000 spectators at the Paris International Air Show, the Concorde had executed what is known as a "touch and go" maneuver. In doing this, the plane appears to land but instead zooms into a steep and dramatic climb.

Higher debt lid sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration asked Congress today to raise by $20 billion the limit on the amount of indebtedness the government can legally incur.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz asked for a new debt ceiling of $485 billion in testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee.

He also proposed that a 5 1/2 per cent limitation on the amount of interest that can be paid to holders of U.S. savings bonds be removed, making possible a better yield for future bonds. (The public now holds more than $50 billion worth of savings bonds.)

Proposed elimination of a 4 1/2 per cent interest rate ceiling which applies to all but $10 billion worth of other Treasury bonds, which are usually sold to big institutions. (This would cost more tax money but Shultz said it would lead to better management of the enormous government debt.)

Asked for a law to give the Treasury authority to issue income tax refunds in the form of a check which, if uncashed by the recipient, would become an interest-bearing bond. (The need to borrow billions of dollars every spring to pay out income tax refunds complicates the Treasury's handling of the national debt.)

Shultz asked for a one-year increase in the temporary debt ceiling. The permanent ceiling is $400 billion but the temporary ceiling supercedes it.

A $485 billion ceiling would leave the government with an anticipated cash balance of $6 billion and a $3 billion margin for unexpected contingencies and a debt of $172 billion by June 30, 1974, Shultz said.

That compares with the $435 billion debt expected at the end of this month, when the temporary ceiling of $465 billion expires.

Eventually, when Congress enacts new budget and expenditure control procedures now under debate, Shultz said, the need for a formal legal ceiling on the debt will vanish and the debt ceiling law can be repealed.

As it is, Congress has no real choice each year but to increase the ceiling to keep a little ahead of the actual debt. To refuse to do so would stop the government, leaving it unable to issue any checks.

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The gas shortage is reviving the cop walking his beat in Seattle. The police department has ordered officers to park their patrol cars for at least one hour each shift and walk their beats in order to conserve gas.

560 TF pupils start classes

TWIN FALLS — After only a week-long "summer vacation," 560 Twin Falls school children are back in school again. Special summer school programs began today, according to Supt. George Stauffer.

Two federally-funded programs are being conducted for 210 students at Morningside and Bickel schools. At Bickel, a program for about 100 Mexican-American students will be conducted over a seven-week period. The children are served breakfast, lunch, and a snack each day. Special field trips, swimming lessons, and arts and crafts are also planned for the children.

At Morningside School, classes are being held for children needing special help in reading or mathematics. Seven classes have been set up to accommodate the 110 students.

Physical education also will be taught during the half-day sessions. The program will run through June. A third summer program began last week. About 350 students are registered in the summer program at Twin Falls High School. The two-hour classes run from 7 a.m. until 1 p.m. each day.

The program is designed so that a student may obtain needed credits during the summer, enabling him to choose elective classes during the regular school year.

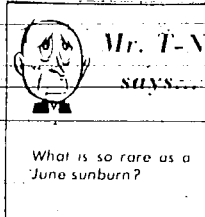

The program is not restricted to high school students, and several adults are taking advantage of the daily sessions. The program will run through July 16.

Probers denied Nixon-Dean transcripts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said today President Nixon kept records of all his contacts with John W. Dean, his former legal counsel, but would refuse to give them to investigators on grounds it would be "constitutionally inappropriate."

Gerald L. Warren, deputy press secretary, was questioned at length about weekend reports that Dean had told Senate investigators Nixon was involved in more than 30 White House discussions with Dean this year concerning cover-up of the Watergate bugging. The White House vigorously denied the reports.

Warren stressed that it had been repeatedly stated by the White House that "the President was not involved in Watergate or in any cover-up."

Of telephone conversations and other contacts the President had with Dean, Warren said the two had been in touch frequently this year with Dean on matters "involving the office of counsel." Nixon fired Dean April 30.

Nixon kept logs on the conversations but "he will not allow the logs to be released" either to federal prosecutors or the Senate Watergate committee, Warren said.

Warren said the refusal was based on the position that to do so would violate "the basic doctrine of separation of powers." He said it would be "constitutionally inappropriate" for the President to hand over such material — the same phrase used last week when the White House said Nixon would not submit to questioning by the Watergate grand jury.

Dean was quoted as saying he had been going through personal papers, stored near the White House, to back up his allegations of high-level involvement in the Watergate.

Warren said Nixon's former two top aides, H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, still had access to their personal White House files. But Warren said he was unable to confirm a report by NBC News' Paul Duke that Dean said he was having difficulty gathering his information because of alleged refusal of officials to allow him to make copies.

Personal papers of all three men were removed from their offices shortly after their resignations. (Continued on p. 18)

The pilots then readied Skylab's earth cameras and sensors for a 12-minute pass over the nation's midsection.

The earth resources survey was expected to produce an ecological map of the wetland regions of the Georgia coast, and to study the ecological effects of strip mining over the lower Ohio River valley. Other photographs were to map geological features in northeastern Wyoming and study urban development changes in Atlanta since the 1970 census.

The Skylab cabin, meanwhile, was continuing to cool as a result of the umbrella the pilots raised over the space station May 26. The average air temperature this morning was 78.5 degrees, down a degree from Sunday.

Flight planners completed preliminary plans early today for the spacewalk to free the jammed solar panel.

Schneider said Conrad and Kerwin probably would carry out the operation. One would feed a safety line and oxygen hose out the Y hatch while the other used a handrail made of five telescoping poles and go hand-over-hand 20 feet down the damaged side of the station, attempt to cut off an aluminum snag and then pull open the 30-foot panel.

If it opens and successfully converts sunlight into electricity, it would end Skylab's power shortage and give the station enough power to support Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz for at least 17 more days of normal operation and two more crews for 50-day missions. Schneider said there is a chance the current flight might be extended another 10 days beyond the planned 28-day duration.

Without the solar wing, or other emergency measures under consideration, Schneider said the Skylab 1 crewmen would have to coast through the first eight days of their flight with barely enough power to keep the station going without major experiments. The next two missions would probably have power only for 40 days of their 56-day flights.

Skylab's first crewmen were in good spirits and doctors said they were in good shape. But they missed their families back on earth.

Before retiring for the night, Kerwin asked ground communicator Bill Thornton: "If you'll see or give my wife a call, tell her I miss her. I will not be home for dinner, but I'll mow the lawn as soon as I come home and that I hope the kids said a special prayer at church today for all the sky troops."

While Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz waited for the decision and procedures to be radioed up tonight, they went ahead with normal earth and solar observations and more medical tests to see how well they are adapting to weightlessness.

The major item on their schedule today was a 3,000 mile long earth resources surveying pass beginning over Hapid City, S.D., and covering Omaha, Neb., St. Louis, Mo., Atlanta and Savannah, Ga., and running over the Atlantic Ocean to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Scientists in 30 sites wanted to use Skylab's photographs, taken in invisible infrared light as well as the visible spectrum, to study such things as urban development, agriculture, the deep ocean trench near Puerto Rico and the weather conditions over the central U.S.

Schneider said the power shortage which has plagued the astronauts since launch May 25 has forced planners to curtail some of the planned experiment work. The pilots have dimmed lights and cut off non-essential equipment to save electricity.

"We are managing the electrical power very closely, in order to preserve what we have," Schneider told newsmen. "That, of course, is giving us fits in the back rooms trying to pick the right experiments."

Within his party, Jordan named Sens. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., Charles Percy, R-Ill., and Edward Brooke, R-Mass., as possible presidential timber.

Utah governor plays major role at meeting

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI) — Gov. Calvin L. Rampton is expected to play a major role at the three-day National Governors' Conference at this Lake Tahoe resort city.

Most of the governors of the 50 states and three territories arrived here Saturday, but Rampton was one of a few state chief executives who flew in Sunday due to a press of business at home.

Host Gov. Mike O'Callaghan said Rampton's Management and Fiscal Affairs Committee will consider the governor's reaction to revenue sharing distribution — one of two main areas to be discussed at the conference which runs through Wednesday.

"The other major topic of concern by the states' chief executives is the energy crisis," said O'Callaghan.

The stated purpose of the conference is the exchange of views and expertise on subjects of importance to the people of several states.

More than 2,000 persons, including governor's families, security guards and reporters were on hand for Sunday's opening dinner.

Church of Christ affirms moral 'right to die'

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Intermountain Conference of the United Church of Christ ended its annual convention with the passing of five recommendations, including one endorsing a person's "right to die."

The 125 religious delegates from Utah, Idaho and Wyoming met at Westminster College for three days, ending their conference with the acceptance of major recommendations to be presented to the church's General Synod later this month in St. Louis, Mo.

The delegates approved a resolution stating that each person has a right to die.

"We believe that in cases where a condition is such that life cannot continue, except through artificial means, it is morally right to discontinue artificial support."

The resolution said it is not morally right to initiate the cessation of life of a terminally ill person, "if death is not imminent." It also said it would be "murder" to give drugs to someone to "make them die."

"Are we playing God by prolonging life, using heroic means?"

The Church must change its view on death. We need more study in this field to help ministers and doctors.

The four other recommendations included: the status of women in the church, the church's place in moral issues, ecumenism, and church reorganization.

The group recommended continuing a church-wide task force on women, to the end that women, in fact, should be accepted for any post in the church and employment of women in the church — in equal numbers with men.

It said local churches need to assume greater roles for social action in such areas as pollution control and welfare reform. And the group called for establishment of a national center for social action.

The recommendations included one asking the National Synod to study the Constitution on Church Unity — a national organization of eight major Protestant denominations working for ecumenism.

And the group asked the national organization to explore reorganization with the organization "to improve service to members."

Church answers public questions at Hailey meet

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer
HAILEY — "Nothing in Cambodia is worth one American life," according to Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho. Sen. Church answered public questions on topics ranging from United States bombing in Cambodia to the "energy crisis" during a combined meeting of the Hailey Rotary and Chamber of Commerce Thursday afternoon and an open house, attended by about 200 persons, Thursday evening. The senator said no reason exists for the bombing in Cambodia. "We have no commitment to that government. We have no treaty. Congress has given no consent," he said. However, Sen. Church said that chances for a bombing halt are "looking up. When the House votes to cut-off funding, we have entered a new era," he said.

He said the U.S. is losing planes and pilots and that the situation may result in a "new crop of POWs. It's time for Congress to force an end to it," he said.

The senator said he felt that war and peace should not be decided by the president alone.

The last two wars have been "presidential wars," he said. In view of the "disaster of the last ten years in Southeast Asia," Sen. Church said that the American people must "get back to constitutional government or settle for a one-man government."

In response to a question about Watergate, Sen. Church said, "All of us, regardless of party label, believe it is tragic. Watergate has occurred."

because it "undermines public confidence in the integrity of the federal government."

However, he said the public can find "solace" in the fact that "the system is working; well enough to expose the scandal." But, he termed as "regrettable, the easy way people are led to accept the cheap shot argument that 'that's just politics.' I resent that bitterly," he said.

The senator recommended that Watergate be cleared up and cleaned up "as quickly as it can be done."

Impeachment proceedings against President Nixon, Sen. Church said, "There is no evidence yet to implicate the president in such a convincing way to require Congress to consider proceedings." He said, "It is premature to talk about it until all the facts are in."

In response to a question about the "gasoline shortage," Sen. Church said, "I can't understand why we have a shortage to begin with."

The stated reason for the shortage, he said, was lack of refinery capacity. Because he said he felt the demand for fuel was "predictable," the senator questioned why this situation developed.

However, he said the Senate Interior Committee had formulated a measure which would establish a rationing system "if the fuel shortage grows more serious and persists." One thrust of the measure would be to guarantee fuel for agricultural purposes, he said.

As a result of the fuel shortage, the senator said "We can no longer squander our power as we have done in the past."

Sen. Church predicted a change in the American life style and a "dramatic" change in automobiles to smaller, lighter and more efficient vehicles. The U.S. must also explore "different and exotic" fuel sources as an alternative to reliance on oil, natural gas and gasoline.

Hearings are presently being conducted on geothermal steam as an energy source, he said, which has a potential in the western states.

Court to hear tax exempt case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to look at the tax exemption problems of "Americans United," a group dedicated to preserving the separation of church and state.

The U.S. Court of Appeals here ruled on Jan. 11 that the organization was entitled to challenge the government's withdrawal of one of its exemptions. The justices will hear the case next fall or winter and decide it later by written opinion.

"Americans United," a non-profit corporation, had qualified as tax exempt since 1950. It was free from taxes on its income and contributors could deduct contributions on their own tax returns.

In 1969, the commissioner of internal revenue revoked the exemption applying to contributors on the ground that the group had been devoting an undue proportion of its activities to influencing legislation in violation of the tax law.

The organization sued on the ground that larger, wealthier groups can engage in more political action than small groups because the commissioner's measure is a proportion of total activities.

U.S. District Judge Harry Pregerson threw the case out on the basis of laws which confine tax challenges to suits for refund. But "Americans United" argued this avenue is not open because the organization is still not paying any taxes itself and therefore has no grounds for a refund suit.

Grangers hear planner report

FILER Filer Grange members were told Friday that the consensus of participants in a meeting concerning county planning supported hiring a planner.

Clyde VanAusdein told the grangers that the consensus at the meeting called by Twin Falls County Commissioners supported a suggestion by Twin Falls City officials that a city-county planning board be created, which in turn would hire a professional planner.

VanAusdein said such a planner would coordinate planning for both rural and urban areas.

He said a local man should be given first consideration for the position should a qualified person be available.

In other business, the Grange was told that a list of safety suggestions for summer months is available at the county extension agent's office.

Clinton Dougherty, Pomona master, announced that Pomona Grange will meet June 9 at the Hollister Grange Hall.

WASHINGTON — Malodorous Watergate disclosures are casting a blighting shadow on the armed services of the nation.

COMMENT

Equal Justice

Christian Science Monitor

In the recent words of a justice of the United States Supreme Court, "We cannot afford to deny the poor the same range of legal remedies which the affluent enjoy."

For half a dozen years the American Government has made a vigorous beginning in providing the poor with such remedies. Indeed, President Nixon said this year that the legal services arm of the Office of Economic Opportunity has served "to breathe new life into the cherished concept of equal justice for all."

Now, however, these gains are threatened by the administration itself — first in its undercutting of existing legal services programs and then in its new proposal to Congress for replacing OEO legal services with an independent Legal Services Corporation.

Since OEO's days are numbered, advocates of legal aid to the poor recognize the need for another organization. But a wave of opposition to the administration bill has quickly developed. As one attorney for the poor wryly observed, Mr. Nixon will have rough going with all those lawyers against him, and Watergate, too.

One problem is not to let the poor's needs languish while legislative wrangling goes on. With OEO running out this summer, some kind of provisional means is necessary to keep the legal services going as smoothly as possible.

Instead, according to a study sponsored by such organizations as the NAACP Legal Defense Fund and the National Legal Aid and Defender Association, OEO officials have been making things difficult for legal services. "Our information indicates," said the study, "that the program has been disrupted and subjected to harassment or a scale beyond anything that had been suspected. And the latest reports indicate that after a relative lull in April, disruptive and destructive actions by OEO are again on the upswing."

The opposition to the new bill cites the potential for politics in appointments (though the Senate would have confirmation power over the top board of directors), as well as the limitations placed on lawyers and their work for the poor (which are now apparently being eased in committee).

Some of the limitations relate to a key complaint by Howard Phillips, acting director of OEO, as well as by various state and local authorities. He charges legal services lawyers with "political" objectives and standards. He sees these in some of their "law reform" and "class action" cases.

The latter sorts of cases have formed only a small percentage of legal services cases. But they are crucial in the eyes of lawyers for the poor because of their potential long-range reforming impact. Thus the limitations on them in the administration bill would cut to the heart of an aspect of legal services work which such lawyers consider particularly important to the long-range public welfare.

Nevertheless, in terms of quantity, an article published by the American Civil Liberties Union claims that more than 97 percent of legal services cases "are of a routine, individual nature — job or housing discrimination, leases, divorces, unemployment insurance, work rules for welfare recipients." It could be argued that legal services lawyers need not more limitations on law reform activity but more encouragement and assistance in making these reforms truly workable and effective — along with safeguards against possible abuses by attorneys who may not simply serve clients but seek them out to use in pursuit of reforms the attorneys consider urgent. The ACLU article cites a General Accounting Office report to the effect that "law reform can bring about changes for the benefit of the poor far beyond the achievements of any individual client case."

A certain momentum on behalf of the poor has been established in the legal profession itself. Legal aid societies and voluntary defenders committees have long been in operation, though often with inadequate budget. In recent years the American Bar Association has taken significant strides in trying to work out proper representation for the poor both in their day-to-day affairs and in economic and other matters with a potentially far-reaching impact on them.

Some feel the present proposal is the best to be hoped for from a Nixon administration. But it should be better, and making it better would be one way for that beleaguered administration to shift its present reputation in the direction of showing active regard for that "cherished concept of equal justice for all" which Mr. Nixon acknowledged.

THAT CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON

ART BUCHWALD

The Poor Tourist

LONDON — Probably no one has suffered more from the Watergate scandal than the American tourist.

Every time a new revelation comes out, the dollar is attacked by money speculators in Europe, and by the end of the day it's worth less than it was in the morning.

The other day I was standing in a London bank trying to cash a $50 traveler's check. In front of me was an Arab sheik with a porter's trolley on which were 10 large bales of American dollars valued at $10 million.

"It looks like you're going to have a pretty wild weekend," I said, trying to strike up a conversation.

"Oh, no," he said. "This is just some petty cash I found around the house, and I was afraid of being stuck with it. Tell me, do you think this Watergate business is serious?"

"One never knows," I said guardedly. "Why do you ask?"

"I have $30 million in the Rolls outside, and I didn't know if this would be the best time to sell them. Actually I hadn't intended to come to the bank today, but then I read in the newspaper that John Mitchell said he wouldn't be the fall guy in the Watergate. I decided that if he refused to be the fall guy, then President Nixon would have to be the fall guy, and if that happened, heaven knows what will happen to the American dollar."

"I'm sure President Nixon had nothing to do with the scandal," I said, trying to protect my $50 traveler's check.

"I'm not so sure," the sheik replied. "I've been watching the hearings on the BBC, and I've been very impressed with McCord's testimony. One of my wives said to me last night, 'Abdul, I think you should get out of dollars and into something more comfortable.'"

"That's silly," I said. "The Watergate will blow over, and then you'll be sorry you sold all those dollars."

"I thought that way myself until I read the John Dean III interview in Newsweek. If he can substantiate his charges, the dollar could go right through the floor. I have 100 million of them in my garage, and I would hate to be saddled with them just before I go on summer vacation."

"Sir," I said, holding on tightly to my traveler's check. "I live in Washington, and I can assure you that the dollar has never been stronger. If I had the gold, I would buy your dollars from you right now."

"Perhaps," said the sheik, "but I have a rich friend, the Sheik of Qatar, and he advised me to get rid of all my American money while I could. We small sheiks can't gamble with the few dollars we have."

The man behind us, who turned out to be the treasurer of a large multinational company, asked, "Would you mind moving up? I have to buy 20 million British pounds by noon or my president will have my head."

"Are you buying them with dollars?" I asked.

"I'm not buying them with rubles," he said rather huffily. "The man behind him, who was three feet tall, said in a Swiss accent, 'Vat's mit the walk? Move along.'"

"Who's he?" I asked the treasurer.

"He's a gnome from Switzerland. Every time there's a new development in the Watergate, he lies over here to buy German marks with dollars."

"Why doesn't he buy them in Switzerland?" I asked.

"He's afraid if he does the Swiss will find out the dollar is in trouble."

"Will you hold my place in the line?" the Arab sheik asked.

"I think I'll go out to the car and get the other $30 million." "Certainly," I said, "but I have a favor to ask of you in return. I'm an American tourist and I was wondering if I could buy pounds with my $50 traveler's check before you cash in your dollars. I'm afraid if you cash in first, I might not be able to pay for my hotel room tonight."

The sheik said, "Are you crazy? What happens if you devalue the dollar before I get to the cashier's window?"

"Nixon wouldn't do that," I said.

"Aha, but what about President Agnew?"

RAY CROMLEY

Fear Of War

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Information reaching here is that officials of the governments of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Jordan recently came away aghast from high council meetings of the Arab States.

Their collective opinion, as relayed here privately, was that Egypt's Anwar Sadat had firmly determined on a resumption of war (though probably limited) with Israel and that there was virtually nothing that could be done to stop him.

Yet cold military logic convinced these conservative Arab leaders that Egypt's army, air force and navy could have no chance against the Israeli and that any new fighting would therefore end in disaster for the Arab bloc. These pragmatic men want to get on with the build-up of their own lands, not be diverted by ruinous gestures.

There is reportedly more than a suspicion among them that their countries, which have much to lose in any resumption of the war, are being sacrificed to Egyptian and Libyan objectives. The Soviet Union, China and North Korea, meanwhile, are sending the arms and other military supplies for Sadat's forces. Soviet officials are noticeably coy about doing anything to cool the situation. The Kremlin, however, has increased only slightly the number of military advisers on the spot in Egypt.

Despite Sadat's evident determination and the Russian-Chinese-North Korea aid, the thinking here is that any new fighting that comes will be limited to the Suez Canal area. American experts foresee no Egyptian try at bombing Israel's major cities. They expect no Israeli attempt to take Cairo.

Middle East specialists in the Nixon administration believe Sadat is fully aware of Egypt's weakness. But, they believe, he is up against such heavy pressure from young military officers and other activist groups that he may have no alternative left.

Sadat is known to believe he can count neither on the United States nor the Soviet Union to help him achieve peacefully what he believes he must have to hold his government together — a complete withdrawal of Israeli forces from Egyptian territory.

THAT CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON

Illustrative is the forceful opinion of Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the powerful House Armed Services Committee and long-time supporter of the draft and induction authority, as follows: "I still think the administration should ask for renewal of the induction authority, although in all frankness, it may have dilly-dallied too long to get favorable consideration. It just didn't bestir itself soon enough. The House's vote cutting off funds for Cambodia is ominously indicative of the atmosphere now prevailing. It's decidedly discouraging."

In fact it's so discouraging some sources fear that a move at this late date to retain the induction act might lead to congressional clamor for repeal of the permanent draft law — which has been in effect since 1948.

There have been some disquieting signs of that.

A Senate Appropriations subcommittee has held little-noticed hearings on repealing the draft and the Selective Service Act — a key part of the draft system. One of the witnesses was John Hancock, executive secretary of the National Council to Repeal the Draft.

His strongly dovish views were heartily endorsed by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., member of the Veterans Affairs Committee.

In the House, a number of doves and leftists are known to be waiting for an opportune opening to strike at both the draft and selective service. Foremost among them are Reps. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., Robert Drinan, D-Mass., Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., Michael Harrington, D-Mass.

While militant liberals and leftists inveigh incessantly against the Pentagon and the "military-industrial complex," the plain fact is that complete dismantling of the permanent draft could turn out to be practically prohibitive financially.

Already personnel costs of the armed services constitute 56 per cent of the defense budget — set at $81.1 billion in the President's fiscal 1974 budget. This huge proportion is certain to increase as costs of an all-volunteer Army mount. To get quality enlistees (high school graduates), the Army has to steadily offer more expensive inducements — such as a $2,500 cash bonus and millions for advertising.

More than $27 million is being spent for that purpose this fiscal year, with $34.9 million earmarked for next year.

Chairman Hebert is forcefully stressing this cost factor in citing the urgent need to "retain the draft law and Selective Service System. It is his firm belief that the only way to "have an all-volunteer Army is to draft it."

The switch to an all-volunteer Army is siphoning off funds vitally needed to keep the country strong," contends the veteran legislator. "Sharp increases in military salaries and various other benefits to attract enlistments have made it difficult to find the dollars needed for weaponry and other non-personnel costs. We are literally pricing ourselves out of a strong defense by soaring personnel expenditures."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Bowel Bleeding

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When my baby was 14 months old, he started bleeding from the bowel. At the hospital they diagnosed it as Meckel's diverticulum, and they operated.

Now I'm wondering if this is anything like diverticulosis that you have written about, and if there is more than one pouch involved. They told us at the hospital that there was only one, but I wondered if they said that just so we wouldn't worry.

Do you think they took out part of the intestine, or just the pouch? And can this recur? — Mrs. C.J.

Meckel's diverticulum resembles the adult diverticulosis which I write about only to the extent that Meckel's diverticulum is a blind pouch in the wall of the small intestine. Pouches are common among older adults, but are in the colon, or lower bowel.

Meckel's diverticulum occurs in the small intestine, and there is only one, instead of the multiple ones that occur in adults.

Best way to think of it is to compare it to the appendix — a pouch or duct which may cause no trouble, or may become inflamed and painful, or may ulcerate and bleed. In some instances the blind end of the pouch may be attached to the abdominal wall, and in some cases adhesions can cause intestinal obstruction.

The treatment is the same as for appendicitis: surgical removal. There is no need to remove part of the intestine, too.

There is no recurrence, any more than there is any recurrence after an appendix has been removed. Nor do new pouches form; Meckel's diverticulum is a congenital defect, meaning that the baby was born with it. A quirk of development.

While not nearly as common as the adult diverticulosis, Meckel's diverticulum is discovered frequently enough to be readily recognized by physicians. About one person in 50 will be born with it, but not all will require surgery for it. That depends on whether it causes trouble.

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery — write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for his booklet, "The Pesky Prostate," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed use zip code, stamped envelope.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Where do you get off challenging me? Who do you think you are, some kind of BOBBY RIGGS?"

Regressive Idea

Idaho State Journal

The Nixon Administration, with Congress watching closely, is testing the air with a series of hints that a new federal gasoline tax of four to five cents a gallon, may be imposed.

THE GOVERNMENT says such a tax would reduce demand for gasoline in the months ahead, would stem the tide of inflation, and would mean a balanced federal budget.

Those are objectives much to be desired, but why put the burden on the little guy? The average car owner needs his bus to get to work, and sometimes in his work. His wife must do some driving too. The worker who earns $6,000 or $8,000 a year would be taxed almost as heavily as the guy earning twice that much.

THE GOVERNMENT could achieve its objectives by rationing gasoline, by imposing a surtax on income taxes, and — most importantly — by cutting spending. That would be fair and a lot more palatable than sticking a new tax atop the four-cent federal tax already on gasoline. But if a new gasoline levy is imposed, it should be temporary, with an expiration date written into the law. Taxpayers have learned the hard way that taxes are a lot harder to get rid of than they are to impose.

Governors meet opens at Tahoe

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI) — Playing their only high cards early, minority Republican governors have laid down a virtual stopper on Democratic plans to "zing" President Nixon on a pair of sensitive domestic issues.

But the official GOP leader of the chief state executives attending the 1973 National Governors Conference opening today at this plush and plastic gambling heaven on mountain-rimmed Lake Tahoe handed his President an even hotter potato by proposing that Nixon submit to frequent "cross examination" by the press about the Watergate case.

Nixon apparently was saved from the embarrassment of watching the conference, which has 31 Democratic and 19 Republican members, disapprove both his treasured new federalism and Phase III economic programs by a quirk of the rules that gives the minority control of the organization's executive committee.

With only that power to wield, Republican Govs. Thomas Meskill of Connecticut, William G. Milliken of Michigan, Tom McCall of Oregon and Winfield Dunn of Tennessee Sunday blocked Democratic resolutions that would have rejected the administration's already-beleaguered proposal to substitute a series of multibillion-dollar "special revenue sharing" funds for existing federal aid programs and called on the President to restore strict wage and price controls in place of Phase III voluntary restraints.

Gov. Linwood Holton of Virginia, chairman of the Republican Governors Association, came up with the suggestion for regular Nixon news conferences during a pre-conference television interview (Meet The Press-NBC). He said if the President did that over a period of weeks or even months, Nixon would regain the "complete confidence" of the American people and be able to effectively lead the country in his last four years.

Democrats, led by Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland, chairman of the national conference, joined Holton's call. Mandel told reporters Watergate was "hanging over the conference" and said if Nixon met more often with the press it could "remove" a lot of doubt that exists today.

GOV. MANDEL, chairman

Gas 'burden' bill slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate is expected to adopt legislation this week intended to assure that the burden caused by gasoline shortages is shared by all sections of the nation — not chiefly the Midwest.

A vote on the measure, expected Tuesday, comes on the heels of charges by Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., that the big oil firms have "artificially contrived" the oil and gas shortage by deliberately withholding crude oil supplies from Midwest independent refiners.

Abourezk, in a letter to President Nixon released Sunday, called for immediate investigation by the Justice Department for antitrust violations.

"I am convinced that the present shortage of fuel supply for the Midwest is artificially contrived to force the independent sector of the industry out of business and to get a price increase," he said. "The Senate bill would establish a mandatory system of gasoline allocation to assure an equitable distribution of any fuels in short supply and would prohibit major refiners from charging independent sellers more than they charge their own outlets. So far, 1,020 independent gasoline stations have been forced out of business because of the gasoline scarcity."

In other congressional action this week: A Democratic bill to hike the minimum wage by 60 cents an hour and to extend its coverage to six million low paid workers comes to a vote this week in the House. The measure has strong union backing.

Debate will begin in the Senate on a major farm bill. The legislation would revise the way subsidies are paid. The minimum wage bill before the House is similar to one that passed the Senate last year but passed in the House. It would raise the wage that must be paid to workers covered from the present $1.60 an hour to $2.20 within a year, and would extend coverage to six million jobs now uncovered, including maids and other domestic workers.

The administration, with business backing, will push its own substitute which would not broaden the law's coverage and would raise the wage to $2.10 over a two-year period. AFL-CIO President George Meany has urged each House member to support the Democratic bill.

The farm measure would guarantee that when market-place prices are poor, farmers who comply with federal planting controls would receive government payments equal to the difference between market prices and "target prices" — amounts Congress figures farmers "ought to" receive for their crops.

Venezuela is a federal republic divided into 20 states, two federal territories, the Federal District and 72 islands in the Caribbean, which are called federal dependencies.

Church to remain independent

ATLANTA (UPI) — Dissident Presbyterians have voted to remain independent of all national church organizations.

An organizing committee for churches which withdrew from the parent Presbyterian Church of the U.S. issued policy recommendations in a weekend meeting and scheduled a full advisory convention for Aug. 7-9 in Asheville, N.C.

The 38-member committee, representing churches in 11 states, proposed that "no consideration be given to affiliation with the National Council of Churches or the World Council of Churches now or at any time in the future."

According to a spokesman, another resolution was adopted recommending each church be challenged to give as much money to missionary work "as it spends on congregational expenses."

The committee decided to invite all Presbyterian churches to the August advisory convention but said only churches which seceded would be eligible to vote.

The seceding churches have disagreed with the parent church over liberalized interpretations of the Bible and doctrinal policies.

Non-battlefield homicides cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department reported today that non-battlefield homicides took the lives of 1,163 American troops during the Vietnam war. Suicides claimed 379.

The deaths included 86 from "fraggings" — results of one serviceman upon another with explosive devices — in the Army between 1968 and 1972. In addition to the suicides, 793 GI's died from what the Pentagon called "accidental self destruction."

The figures were furnished to Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., along with a letter from Gen. Leo E. Benade, deputy assistant secretary of defense, explaining the deaths as "phenomena of the conflict in Southeast Asia."

Benade denied that the "fraggings" represented a breakdown in discipline in the armed forces that could affect the success of the all-volunteer army.

"Considering the difficulties faced and the less than unanimous public support of the Department of Defense mission in recent years, the state of discipline remained generally satisfactory and never declined to the degree that alarmists have asserted," he told Byrd.

While 200 "possible" and "actual" fraggings have been identified between 1968 and 1972, resulting in 86 deaths, Benade said the practice "abated dramatically as the Vietnam troop withdrawal proceeded toward completion." He said the number of courts martial and nonjudicial punishment — traditional indicators of discipline — both declined sharply in 1972.

The figures for homicides and suicides were contained in a breakdown of what the Defense Department calls "nonhostile deaths" in Southeast Asia.

There were 10,303 of these fatalities through March 1973, including 309 from aircraft lost at sea; 2,751 from aircraft crashes not at sea; 1,078 from vehicle crashes; 1,015 from drownings and suffocations;

Excursion bus, truck collide

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Police said today that 17 persons died Sunday when an excursion bus collided with a truck about 130 miles from Bangkok. They said 48 other persons were injured, some of them seriously.

The bus, police said, was trying to pass another vehicle when it crashed into the truck.

AF POW death ruled suicide

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI) — An Air Force officer, who would have celebrated his first birthday today as a free man since returning from more than seven years in North Vietnamese POW camps, committed suicide Sunday because life was "not worth living."

Capt. Edward A. Brudno, described as despondent and distressed recently, was found by his mother-in-law in a bedroom of her brick and shingle home in this wealthy, tree-lined Westchester County suburb of New York City. He would have been 33 years old today.

Police said a plastic bag, secured by a rope, covered his head.

Brudno had said he felt "reborn" upon his return to the U.S. four months ago. He was the first returned POW to take his own life.

Detective Jack Kaner of Harrison said "there was no indication that the death was anything other than a suicide."

Police said Brudno left nine sealed letters to relatives and friends, a will dated March 22, and a two-line note, written in French, that said in part, "Life is not worth living." His mother-in-law told police he had been "despondent."

Dr. Henry Ryan, deputy chief medical examiner of Westchester County, said that while Brudno's messages did not mention Vietnam or family matters, "we will talk in terms of suicide. I know the police have told people it was suicide. They have reason to."

However, Ryan would not fix the exact cause of death until medical tests were completed. He said the plastic bag was evidently not tied tightly enough to cause suffocation.

ROGER T. KELLEY

Pentagon charged with sabotage of all volunteer military forces

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A faction in the Pentagon is prepared to sabotage the all-volunteer military system and force a return to the draft, the official who directed the change to the volunteer concept charged Sunday.

Roger T. Kelley, who has resigned as the Defense Department's assistant secretary for manpower, made the charge as he completed preparations to return to his old job as personnel director for the Caterpillar Tractor Co.

"As I leave I am very sensitive that some are reacting to my departure and the adversaries (of the draft-free military) are bolder and more frequent in their acts of sabotage against the system," Kelley told UPI.

Kelley did not name any particular opponents. He said he had found more cooperation than resistance in putting the all-volunteer system into effect. "But certainly enough resistance that it's a danger signal to my successor."

Foes of the all-volunteer concept "can demonstrate a need for the draft by letting failures occur," Kelley said.

He said opponents could sabotage intelligence standards that were unrealistically high or set recruiting goals that had never before been reached "and then observe that once again the devices have missed their goals."

were strongly antimilitary who sowed discontent among the troops.

The draft was suspended at the end of December, and the all-volunteer system is to begin officially July 1.

Some military officers oppose the draft because high pay scales put into effect to encourage volunteer enlistments have cut the proportion of money available for weaponry.

Others feel that to attract volunteers, the services have become softer and less effective.

"The only way the all-volunteer force can work is if the leadership treats people well enough," Kelley said. "Before, the leadership didn't have to care about people because the draft would always grind out enough replacements."

Moon robot ends walk

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union announced today its Lunokhod 2 moon robot has ended an exploration of the Sea of Serenity after trundling 23 miles during 4 1/2 months on the lunar surface.

"The scientific-technical research program carried out by means of the Soviet self-propelled vehicle Lunokhod 2 has been completed," the official news agency Tass said.

The eight-wheeled robot covered 3 1/2 times the distance logged by Lunokhod 1, which prowled the Sea of Rains for 30 months in 1970 and 1971.

Lunokhod 2 discovered, Tass said, that the moon is shrouded in a strata of dust particles strongly dispersing the visible solar light and the reflected light of the earth.

It also determined, Tass said, that the magnetic field on the moon's surface is heterogeneous—that is, it is not uniform in structure or composition.

Lunokhod 1 froze solid during a frigid lunar night when its solar heating batteries gave out. Tass did not say what, if anything, befell Lunokhod 2.

Columnist says girls recruited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Columnist Jack Anderson said today President Nixon's campaign aides recruited call girls to attempt to wheedle political secrets from Democratic leaders at the 1972 Miami Beach convention.

He said, however, that although investigators had confirmed call girls were recruited they "have been unable to determine whether they were actually used."

Anderson said he got the information from Senate investigators, and that the investigators were told of the project by former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, Nixon's campaign director.

Mitchell, however, said he disapproved the plan, which was presented to him by Watergate defendant G. Gordon Liddy as part of a large scale intelligence gathering scheme, Anderson reported.

But Anderson said the scheme "strangely survived" because Liddy apparently was undeterred by Mitchell's order that he take his intelligence-gathering "charts and burn them."

Anderson said Mitchell told Senate investigators of meeting with Liddy at the Justice Department on Jan. 27, 1972.

Anderson quoted a summary of Mitchell's statement as saying "Liddy arrived with massive charts of an intelligence-gathering program which was a huge structural operation with people in different places with different code names and included, among other things, the use of electronic eavesdropping devices, a call girl ring for the Democratic National Convention and other intelligence gathering operations."

Mitchell said in the testimony, Anderson said, that he was "horrified by the magnitude and the budget" of the Liddy proposals. Mitchell said White House counsel John W. Dean III, who sat in on the session, agreed that the scheme "far exceeded anything of rationality."

Bill stops CIA moves

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., proposed a bill today to prohibit the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) from engaging in illegal activity within the United States.

The bill also would prohibit the intelligence agency from engaging in "foreign covert action" abroad without the written consent of the congressional committees which oversee the CIA.

In a prepared speech, Proxmire said his proposed amendments to the 1949 act which created the CIA were proved necessary by Watergate.

Watergate hearings resume

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (UPI) — Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., said Sunday the Watergate hearings will resume as scheduled Tuesday and they could be completed by the end of the month with testimony from key White House aides.

"We could wind this up pretty soon if everyone tells what he knows," Ervin said, "but if we continue to play what children call 'hide and seek' then it could take a while."

Ervin said his committee would meet today and discuss special prosecutor Archibald Cox's request to delay resumption of the hearings until Wednesday.

However, Ervin said he would deny Cox's request "because the American people are entitled to find out what actually happened without having to wait while justice travels on leaden feet."

"The Justice Department has had this case since the 18th of June," he said. "If the prosecution doesn't have enough after a year to convict, I do not think they should ask someone else to delay."

Ervin told a graduating class at Wilkes College that "the people should not have to wait three to six to eight months" to find out what happened.

"I would hope the hearings could be completed this month and that key White House personnel would take the stand during that time," he said.

Ervin earlier addressed the graduating class at Boston University Law School. In both speeches he said, "It is bad for the country to have this period of uncertainty."

Nixon prepares for Brezhnev arrival

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon returned to Washington Sunday from a weekend at his Camp David, Md., retreat, where he made preparations for this month's visit of Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

A group of Marine officers went to Camp David over the weekend for briefings on security arrangements for Brezhnev's eight-day visit starting June 18, a White House spokesman said.

The spokesman said Nixon also worked on various energy and economic matters.

Head ache?

SYDNEY (UPI) — A Sydney hospital is looking for 150 persons with headaches. They are needed as guinea pigs for a new treatment for migraines. The volunteers will be given a new drug which proved successful in tests in Germany.

The trial will be carried out by neurologists at the Prince of Wales Hospital. Patients must obtain their doctor's permission before taking part in the tests.

Dallas salutes Vietnam veterans

DALLAS (UPI) — The city of Dallas, led by two of its millionaires, Saturday saluted the American servicemen who fought in the Vietnam war.

There was no statement on the war itself, only on the courage of the men who fought it.

"It is important," said soft drink magnate W.W. Clements, "that we pay respect to those who made personal contributions to the war effort. Regardless of how individuals viewed the conflict, the end of the war sparks new hope for millions of Americans and how we accept the peace and respond to our nation are important."

Clements, computer millionaire H. Ross Perot and 23 other Dallas residents organized the Dallas Salute to Vietnam Veterans Homecoming Celebration.

While the salute was for all Vietnam veterans, the spotlight was on recently released prisoners of war.

About 500 former POWs attended a two-mile parade through the city Friday night and attended a gala reception at the Cotton Bowl Saturday night.

The reception was the highlight. It was free to the public, and boasted Bob Hope as master of ceremonies, and entertainers Barbara McNair, Mike Connors, Marty Allen and Gloria Loring.

President Nixon, recently returned from a meeting with French President Georges Pompidou in Iceland, sent his regards. However, presidential advisor and former Texas Gov. John B. Connally delivered a speech.

The parade was different than any held before in Dallas following U.S. wars abroad. It was the men being honored, not the war or a victory. The former prisoners reacted with smiles and waves throughout the two-mile course of the parade.

Thousands who lined Commerce, Harwood and Main streets and cheered the POWs as they passed in review. Ticker tape and confetti rained down on them from the windows of office buildings.

Numerous small children waved American flags which had been passed out in advance.

"I'm all for these guys," one man said. "I was in Korea and I know I never had a parade. But I know I would've taken one helluva lot of parades to make me smile like these guys."

Robber picks wrong victim in Salt Lake

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — An armed robber picked the wrong victim when he tried a stick-up at the Holiday Motel in Salt Lake County, sheriff's officers said today.

The gunman walked into the motel and pointed a pistol at Arthur Miyazaki, 21, the son of the owner. Miyazaki is both a judo and karate expert.

He grabbed the robber's arm and threw him through a plate glass window.

"When help arrived," said Detective Sergeant Riley Cannon, "Miyazaki had him in a full nelson on the sidewalk."

Sheriff's deputies arrested Kenneth Glen Roberst, 23, Salt Lake City at the scene Tuesday night.

Medical students object to Welby

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Several University of Michigan graduating medical students don't care if Dr. Marcus Welby does make house calls. They want a real live doctor as their commencement keynote speaker.

Actor Robert Young, star of the popular television series, is scheduled as the commencement speaker next Friday night for the university's medical school graduation ceremony.

But some of the graduating seniors plan to hold a counter-commencement across the street at the Michigan League Ballroom Thursday night.

David Morens, one of the dissident students, said Dr. Benjamin Spock, famed baby doctor and peace activist, would speak at their commencement exercises.

Morens said seniors in the medical school had given their first three choices for commencement speaker as Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Spock, and Young, in that order.

Morens said Kennedy declined the invitation and Spock was pushed away for television's Dr. Welby.

"The executive committee gave the reason that Dr. Spock has extremely poor speaking ability," Morens said. "I've spoken to him personally and don't think you can describe him that way."

Morens said he felt Spock's political attitudes was the real reason he was left out.

He said the graduation ceremony with the pediatrician would be open to the public and estimated more than half of the 250 graduates would attend.

Take it easy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don't be a weekend athlete or an over-doer on vacation. Authorities say irregular doses or overdoses of exercise can be harmful. The best thing: stay in condition with physical activity every day.

The heart muscle is benefited by exercise in much the same way as any other muscle. Coronary arteries, which supply blood to the heart muscle, improve their efficiency when exercise makes demands upon them. The heart and larger blood vessels also benefit.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 20 and a nurse. She took a job several thousand miles from home and has been gone nearly a year. We were hoping she'd come home last Christmas, but she said she'd come home next summer and bring her fiance. I should have written about a young man she'd fallen in love with, describing his "beautiful attitudes, brilliant mind, and outstanding character."

Now we know why she didn't bring him home for Christmas. He has an impressive list of accomplishments. We learned this yesterday from a letter she wrote us.

We are heartsick. She's such a beautiful girl and could easily get a whole man. Abby, how do parents adjust to knowing their daughter will spend the rest of her life caring for an invalid?

Parents uptight

DEAR PARENTS: What makes you think he's an invalid? You would be amazed how well some people can manage on their own. There is no reason to be heartbroken. If he's "whole" enough for her it says a great deal for her values. There could be a completely beautiful and fulfilling marriage.

DEAR ABBY: You defined a homosexual as "one who has erotic feelings about members of his (or her) own sex."

It is my understanding that heterosexuals sometimes have erotic feelings about members of their own sex. Am I mistaken? And by the way, do you think homosexuals are "sick"?

DEAR CURIOUS: You are correct. In my consciousness to conserve space I oversimplified. I should have said, "Individuals who have STRONG, PREFERENTIAL, erotic feelings about members of their own sex can be considered homosexual."

And I most definitely DO NOT consider homosexuals "sick."

DEAR ABBY: Only my mother knows my real age because I've been lying about it for several years. I am engaged to an angel of a man who attributes the smoothness of our relationship to our complete honesty.

Altho I've never lied to my fiance about anything else, I've repeated that lie about my age dozens of times in his presence, with friends, applying for graduate school, credit cards, etc.

What I want your advice on is this: Must my fiance ever know my real age? It would be so embarrassing to tell him now. He thinks he's two years older than me, when actually he is two months younger.

OLDER WOMAN

DEAR WOMAN: Tell him and tell him now. Not only for your own peace of mind but in anticipation of the day you'll be eligible for Social Security. ("Oh, what a tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive.")

CONFIDENTIAL TO: Those who are interested in reading a delightful little book with a big message about the purpose of life—beg, buy or borrow "Celebrate the Sun" by James Kavanaugh.

South plays a third diamond. East will win with the king and eventually South will have to decide how to avoid the loss of a spade.

Jim: If South does that and West is the man with three diamonds and East shows out what should South do now?

Oswald: In that case South's correct play is to play his ace and king of spades to see if he can drop the queen. If it doesn't fall he tries the club finesse. This is a two-trick set but gives him his best play for the slam.

Jim: Your play also turns out to be the winner—it also is the correct line since it gives declarer a chance in both black suits to pick up the trick he needs.

Scandal costly already

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Watergate scandal already has surpassed $1,250,000 in known legal and investigative costs and seems certain to eclipse the year-long Pentagon Papers trial as one of the most expensive public proceedings in history.

Not included in this estimate is the major cost to the taxpayer of the government's prosecution of the Watergate case and related litigation, the bulk of which is yet to come with new federal grand jury indictments expected in the weeks to come.

The Justice Department, which has hired special prosecutor Archibald Cox at a salary of $30,000 a year, would give no figures but said it is preparing a supplemental appropriations request for Congress to pay for Cox's investigation. This may provide some indication of the future dimensions of the public expense of the scandal that began unfolding last June 17 and could last for many more months.

The Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities already has received $500,000 in tax funds for its own investigation through next February, but it is sure to get all the additional money—and time—it might request later to complete its work.

Pushing the public and private costs higher are the main government trials to follow the original Watergate criminal trial last January, related court proceedings such as the indictments against former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and Nixon campaign finance chairman Maurice H. Stans; defense attorneys' fees; Democratic civil suits; grand jury compensation; and the $20 a day it cost to house and feed six Watergate conspirators.

By contrast with Watergate, now nearly a year old, the case against Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo for theft of the Pentagon papers involved defense costs of an estimated $900,000.

Chinese aide fine diplomat

HONG KONG (UPI)—Huang Chen undoubtedly is one of China's finest diplomats. Those who know him well say he is a man of great charm.

But if the man who will head the Chinese Liaison Office in Washington wants to give you the cold shoulder, he can be very undiplomatic indeed.

I found that out during a year's assignment in Indonesia in 1958-59, while Huang was serving as China's ambassador in Jakarta.

Shortly after my arrival in Jakarta I called at the Chinese embassy to try to meet Huang and to apply for a visa to China. I got two cups of tea from one of Huang's aides that day and a visa to China 14 years later. I never formally met Huang, but I saw a lot of him during those days.

The next time I tried to meet Huang was at a diplomatic cocktail party a few weeks after my visit to his embassy. He was standing with an interpreter and chatting with an Indonesian newspaper editor whom I knew well. I walked up, shook hands with the editor and turned to Huang to introduce myself as an American correspondent. He turned and walked away.

The scowl, with only slight variations, was repeated many times during the next few months. Not only with me but with other American correspondents.

Indonesia was Huang's second ambassadorial post and he had much diplomatic experience by the time he arrived there (in 1954) from Hungary, where he was assigned first in June 1950.

Diplomats who respect with Huang developed a respect for his abilities, no matter how they might have felt personally or ideologically.

As did most of China's diplomats and leaders, Huang came up through the military-party ranks. His early life is obscure but during the 1930's and 1940's he served primarily as a political commissar with various units of the communist Red Army.

During one special assignment, as a member of a mediation group in 1946-47, he was arrested and imprisoned for a time by the Nationalist Chinese authorities.

Call of road endangered

By DONALD E. MULLEN
United Press International
Americans' summer love song, the Call of the Road, might have a few choruses cut this year because of the gasoline shortage.

But from early indications of gas availability across the country, the motoring tourist who plans ahead stands a good chance of not being caught out in the hoodocks in the dead of night with an empty gas tank.

A UPI survey of U.S. tourist and recreational areas came up with one basic fact—no promoter is going to admit his area should be bypassed.

However, auto club and tourist officials offered some advice to intrepid tourists: Always keep the gas tank half full. Gas up before sundown, and expect many stations to be closed on Sunday.

Tourists were also advised to lower their speeds to raise gas mileage. Some states have asked motorists to cut their speed voluntarily, with a threat of official limits if that doesn't work.

Michigan American Automobile Association (AAA) Touring Manager Joseph Burke echoed similar reports from other parts of the country.

"So far, we have not heard from a single motorist stranded because gasoline could not be purchased," he said. "What the shortage means to the average motorist is sometimes going to several stations before finding one open and finding fewer and fewer independents operating."

Another point of view was fatalistic—that the American auto tourist is going to keep going until the gas is gone. Milton F. Huntington, executive director of the Maine Petroleum Association, said tourism will be as strong as ever in Maine because most tourists "won't stop traveling until it's rationed."

Modest budget deficit slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal budget will show a modest $2.7 billion deficit in the next 12 months, the smallest amount of red-ink spending by the government in five years, the Office of Management and Budget OMB said Friday.

The booming economy, which has raised corporate profits and personal income, and thus tax collections, is the chief factor in the sharply improved budget picture, the OMB said.

While taxes from citizens and businesses are running at an unexpectedly high rate, the administration said it is not raising its spending beyond the goals set last January.

The result, said the OMB, will be a budget deficit $7 billion smaller than originally forecast for the 1973 fiscal year, ending June 30, and $10 billion less than estimated for fiscal 1974.

The last time the government took in more money than it spent was in 1969 when it ran a small $3.2 billion surplus. Deficits of $2.8 billion, $2.3 billion and $2.2 billion followed in the next three fiscal years.

Administration economists have a poor record for budget forecasting but if the latest set of figures holds, this is how the federal balance sheet will look for fiscal years 1973 and 1974 billions of dollars.

1973, receipts $232.0, outlays $249.7, deficit $17.7

1974, receipts $266.0, outlays $268.7, deficit $2.7.

A number of factors could upset these estimates. A recession next year, which many private economists think likely, would reduce taxes and cut into the revenue estimates. A tax increase, which administration officials now concede is under serious consideration despite a "no new taxes" pledge by President Nixon last January, would put more money in the federal coffers.

Former Federal Reserve Board chairman William McChesney Martin Friday predicted a business recession before the middle of 1974.

Watergate book

NEW YORK (UPI) — James W. McCord Jr., said Friday he had made tentative arrangements with a New York firm to publish a book he is now writing titled "Watergate Scandal."

Reaching by telephone at his office in Baltimore, McCord told UPI he had been discussing details of the publication with Edward Uhlan, president of Exposition Press Inc., a New York publishing company. McCord declined to reveal any details of the upcoming manuscript saying only he "most likely" would go ahead with the book.

McCord, who has been appearing before a Senate subcommittee investigating the Watergate scandal, said he picked Exposition Press as his publisher because he was anxious to maintain the integrity of the wording and the accuracy of what I have to say. I was convince he Uhlan would do this. He assured me the wording would be as written."

Swine infect slowed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Department of Agriculture Advisory Committee has called for identification of all swine shipped across state lines in order to prevent outbreaks of hog cholera.

Hog cholera is a highly infectious viral disease that is usually fatal to swine animals, but does not affect humans.

Eradication programs in the southeast and midwest.

Another outbreak occurred May 2 in a herd near Progresso, Tex., less than a half-mile from the Mexican border. Two other cases in Puerto Rico were discovered late in March.

Meeting in conjunction with the annual meeting of Livestock Conservation Inc., the 12-member USDA Hog Cholera Eradication Advisory Committee stressed the need for identification to facilitate rapid tracing of infected animals back to their herds of origin.

Potato insect control essential

JEROME — Preventive insect control is essential in production of high quality potatoes, according to Jerome County Agent Wilmer Priest.

Priest said that preplanning and proper timing of insecticide applications in harmony with seasonal cultural practices are important.

"Potato seed does not harbor insect pests. However, certain seasons favor unusual activity of one or more species of insects that will attack seed potatoes, roset and in some cases the developing tubers," Priest said.

Priest explained that only well-suberized seed should be planted. "Attack by seed-corn maggot can be prevented by planting potatoes when the ground is warm and rapid plant growth is assured. Planting at this time will also reduce millipede injury,"

Priest said. "In areas where leather jackets are found their attack can be prevented by incorporating a green manure crop into the soil in the fall rather than in the spring," Priest said. He noted that attack by the gray garden slug on potato seed or tubers may occur when the soil is unusually wet.

"Wireworm control is very important. Unless previously treated, most Idaho soils are wireworm infested. Diazinon, dyfonate, phorate and parathion have federal clearance for control of wireworm. Although effective in controlling wireworm infestations, treatment procedure must be precise. Only granular formulas are recommended," Priest pointed out.

"Those organophosphorus insecticides have short residuals. They must be immediately incorporated into the soil following application and are effective only when the soil temperature is about 50 degrees at a six-inch depth. At this time the majority of the wireworms will be in this layer of the soil," Priest said.

He said that for best results, soil should contain between 50 and 70 per cent of its water holding capacity. "Irrigation may be needed before treatment. A soil temperature below 50 degrees during or soon after incorporation may result in poor wireworm kill," Priest said.

Damaging populations of the green peach aphid and the potato aphid occur periodically in Idaho. Potato vines will from the loss of sap. "A systemic or contact insecticide treatment will control these sporadic attacks," Priest said.

He added that in those commercial potato producing areas where aphids occur every year preventive insecticide treatments should be used. "Systemic insecticide field treatment such as three pounds of actual disulfoton (Di-Syston) of phorate (Thimet) per acre will kill the aphids as they feed, but not before some plants have become infected with leafroll.

"Thus the treatment only reduces the spread of the disease within the field. Field systemic treatment at planting will reduce early season feeding damage of the intermountain potato leafhopper, thrips and Colorado potato beetle, Priest added.

TF County Fairgrounds bloom with planters

By MARJORIE LIERMAN Times-News writer

FILER — The Twin Falls County Fairgrounds will have a colorful look at fair time with flowers blooming in planters placed throughout the grounds.

Tom Shouse, secretary-manager of the fair, believes attractive grounds add much to the gala atmosphere for the fair. Each fall fairgoers are greeted with well-trimmed lawns, shade from trees, and flowers blooming in planters of different designs.

Workmen at the grounds have completed five large planter boxes in front of the beef barn and show area. These will be filled with petunias, zinnias and marigolds. All are flowers which bloom in late summer.

The hedge which separated the show ring from the driveway was killed by last winter's hard frost and had to be removed, so the planter boxes will fill its place. Several horse chestnut trees have been planted on each side of the barn.

Last year's hard frost also affected the climbing roses on the fairgrounds fence which are usually a mass of color in late June. The roses were severely pruned but are all coming out and budding. Although the display won't be as spectacular as some years, passersby still will be able to enjoy the half-mile long row of roses.

TF 4-H'ers nominate candidates

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County 4-H Builders Club has nominated three candidates for the 4-H Club Congress scheduled for June 10-16 in Moscow.

The candidates are Rusty Jessor for president; Cheryl Armstrong for treasurer, and Rex Reed for sergeant-at-arms.

Jessor won a trip to Washington, D. C., this spring through his 4-H work.

71'ers plan meet

THREE CREEK — The annual spring meeting of the 71 livestock Association is called for June 15 at the Three Creek school house.

Lunch is scheduled for noon and the meeting will begin at 1 p.m., according to Noy Brackett, secretary.

'Preemie' pampered

"PEANUTS" stands with day-old calf to show comparison of size. With the animals is William J. Saylor of Lemhi, the owner.

Lemhi calf premature

SALMON — "Peanuts" was born prematurely and grew to only 22 pounds at the William J. Saylor ranch at Lemhi.

During her five weeks of life the tiny calf became the center of attention, being nursed and pampered in an effort to keep her alive.

Mrs. Saylor had the calf on a regular feeding schedule like a baby, including in the middle of the night. She kept her in the house the first two weeks.

On the third day after birth, "Peanuts" suffered a broken shoulder when kicked by her mother who appeared to be afraid of her.

"Peanuts" got so she would respond to the calls of the Saylor or Maurice Ball, ranchhand.

She wore a cast for 2 1/2 weeks because of the broken shoulder.

Saylor said the calf, a Hereford-Angus cross, was born three weeks premature and possibly may have been a dwarf.

"Peanuts" medical bills were mounting but she was responding, getting along with the other animals despite her size. She took a liking to the Saylor dog, but her mother was afraid, not knowing apparently what to make of the calf.

A day-old calf, weighing 70 pounds, made a sharp contrast.

Then "Peanuts" died. The cause of death was pneumonia.

American Falls Dam replacement study released

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The Department of Interior has released a preliminary environmental impact study of replacement of the American Falls Dam.

The Bureau of Reclamation currently has restricted the storage capacity of the dam due to concrete deterioration.

The environmental study says the dam "no longer meets acceptable dam and reservoir safety standards."

A summary of environmental impact and adverse effects listed in the study includes:

1. The "threat to human safety" would be removed by replacement of the old dam.

2. Construction of the new dam and power plant would not flood any stream channel which is not already inundated as a result of the existing forebay dam of the Idaho Power Co. power plant.
3. Storage of the water supply for 892,560 acres of irrigated land would be assured and current storage restrictions which limit storage to 60 per cent of the reservoir capacity would be removed.
4. Bank erosion would continue on some sections of the reservoir shore, resulting in an estimated loss of 1,500 acres over a 100-year period.
5. Fifty small islands would be built in the upper end of the reservoir to establish a new goose nesting and production area.

6. A wide, safe highway across the new dam or other suitable location would eliminate the safety hazards of the narrow road crossing on the old dam.

Alternatives to replacement of the existing dam include building nothing and progressively restricting operation of the existing dam, replacing the dam with a federal project without a power plant, repairing the existing dam, enlarging the dam and reservoir and developing storage at other sites.

Unavoidable adverse effects of the dam replacement and power-plant construction include:

1. Fishing in the forebay area would be curtailed during construction.
2. A number of smaller fish which cannot be screened effectively from the penstocks will be lost during passage through the turbines in the new powerplant.

3. Shoreline erosion would continue on some 85 miles of the 166-mile-long shoreline.
4. Construction activities would cause some environmental disturbance in the damsite and power plant area.
5. Dewatering the reservoir will eliminate much of the fish life that remain in the reservoir, pools and which are unable to move upstream or downstream during the dewatering period.
6. Filling of the reservoir prior to the next irrigation season might be inadequate due to a poor water runoff year. This could result in short-term adverse impacts on the year's irrigation water supply, reservoir fishing, recreation, upstream storage operations and downstream flows.

Blaine staff backs board

HAILEY — Fifty nine out of the 60 Blaine County teachers and staff have supported the school board's decision not to hire Sam Hazard as principal of the Ernest Hemingway Elementary School, Ketchum, for the coming year.

The position is contained in a petition which has been forwarded to the school board.

The petition signers state that they feel that Hazard's lack of certification "is a professional insult to all educators in Idaho who waited and labored many years to achieve a high standard of certification."

The petition further states that Hazard's lack of certification "is a personal insult to us in the district who spent time and money to become certified educators before we could be eligible for employment by Blaine County schools."

"The fact that Mr. Hazard has made several attempts to shorten the educational process and circumvent the required procedures is indicative of his lack of professional stature and conscience," the petition states.

Jerome meet set Tuesday

JEROME — Members of the Jerome City Council are expected to discuss several changes in the zoning ordinance regulating placement of trailer houses at a meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Jerome City Hall.

The changes have been recommended by the Jerome City Zoning Commission. If the council approves the changes, the zoning commission is expected to set a date for a public hearing soon.

A moratorium which has been in effect on the placement of trailer houses within the city of Jerome outside of established trailer parks has created a great deal of controversy over the past several months. The moratorium was put into effect until amendments to the present city trailer ordinance were adopted or until city wide rezoning was completed.

The City Council proposed that a third classification of zoning be established. Trailers would be restricted in the first residential area, only mobile homes of a certain size would be permitted in certain areas of the second residential classification and third residential would permit placement of other mobile homes.

Teresa Jean Mullinix, 12, was treated by her family doctor after being struck by a van driven by Stanley Paul Johnson, 19, Hansen, in the 100 block of Addison Avenue West about 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

According to police reports, Johnson was driving a van belonging to Kimberly Nurseries west on Addison, when the Mullinix girl stepped into his path. She was apparently wheeling her bicycle out of the driveway at Lindloom's decorator shop on Addison when she crossed in front of the Johnson vehicle.

No citations were issued.

Forest Service changes listed

SALMON — Under the US Forest Service's austerity program the Middle Fork range district of the Challis National Forest is taking over management duties of the Middle Fork of the Salmon River.

Dick Estler, wild river ranger stationed in Salmon, is being transferred to Mountain View, Wyo., where he will become Mountain View district ranger June 18.

Sam Warren, Middle Fork district ranger, will also assume the duties of the wild river ranger with offices at Challis.

Roy Barrett, forestry technician on the Salmon Forest who has been in charge of the Middle Fork forest boat crews, will be directly in charge of river management under Warren. He is expected to remain in Salmon this season. The Middle Fork district of the Challis, which has been in existence about a year after inclusion of some lands of the neighboring Boise Forest, covers most of the upper Middle Fork downriver to Camas Creek. The remainder of the river is on the Salmon National Forest.

Estes became wild river ranger in September, 1971, who the position was first created.

Drugs stolen

GOODING — Several thousand doses of barbiturates and other drugs reportedly were stolen from the Johnson Rexall drugstore when the business was broken into Thursday night.

According to Duane Johnson, owner, the intruders "knew exactly what they were looking for and were very selective in what they took." Johnson said dexamprine, barbiturates, phenobarbital, secobarbital and pain killers were taken, but money and other merchandise were left untouched.

The burglary is similar to a break-in at Dr. Richard Short's office the previous Saturday night, according to police chief Lyle Clifford. The doors were opened in much the same manner and drugs were taken in both cases, Clifford said. There are no leads in either break-in, he said.

Gooding, Richfield win honors

Papers back allegations, Dean says

Gov. Linwood Holton of Virginia, chairman of the Republican Governors Association, said he believed Nixon could regain public confidence by submitting to regular "cross-examination" by the press. Holton said Nixon should go before the press a number of times "to clarify the ambiguities as they come up."

Holton was interviewed on NBC's Meet the Press.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., chairman of the special Watergate committee, said he would not delay the hearings until all criminal indictments in the case are returned by a federal grand jury—as requested by Archibald Cox, the government's new special prosecutor. A week ago government attorneys said further indictments were expected within 60 to 90 days.

Columnist Jack Anderson reported today that Senate investigators had learned that Nixon's campaign staff last year recruited call girls to romance Democratic leaders and attempt to wheedle political secrets from them at the Miami convention. Anderson said the information was received from former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, who told investigators they turned the scheme down. The columnist said investigators confirmed the call girls were recruited but had been unable to determine if the recruits were actually used.

According to Watergate probe sources, Mrs. Harmony believes the fake McGovern letter was dictated to her by Liddy on June 10, the day before the arrests at the Watergate exposed the bugging of the Democratic national committee and the involvement of Nixon campaign aides.

Mrs. Harmony, now a secretary to 1973 Inaugural Committee Chairman J. Willard Marriott Sr., reportedly said the letter was created from a McGovern headquarters envelope superimposed on a blank sheet of paper.

The sources said she signed "Gary Hart" by "fp." to make it appear Hart's secretary had signed his name to the letter. It was not known whether the letter was ever used, but that appeared unlikely since the bugging team was arrested at the Watergate about 2 a.m. on June 17.

However, Alfred C. Baldwin III, who admitted he monitored hundreds of DNC telephone calls from a listening post in a motel across the street from the Watergate, had testified there was an unsuccessful attempt to break into McGovern headquarters on May 28.

Also expected to testify Tuesday are H.A. Post, a Washington printer who prepared the superscript "Gemstone" political espionage stationery, and Robert Belser, a former committee official who sources say saw the Gemstone file on the desk of Deputy Campaign Director Job Stuart Magruder.

Nate Archibald predicts brighter promise for KC

Prospects for the Kansas City-Omaha Kings for the upcoming season are brighter than last year for two reasons but Nate Archibald, the NBA's ready to predict championships.

Archibald, in town to help CSI Coach Jerry Hale run his basketball camp, likes the idea of Behagen, another ex-CSI star, two-year starter at University of Minnesota and first-round draft choice, coming to the Kings.

Archibald feels Behagen should be a starter for the King early on, if not right away. "Our (the Kings) forwards are old. They're good players but they're a little older than most of the other teams and not quite as quick."

On the second point, Archibald feels the new at-home ownership will be of local origin. "The other owners (who lived in Buffalo) never saw us play at home, only when we came to Buffalo and that was only a couple of times a year. Now the owners will be there all the time. The players know the club is home and the fans will know that it is locally owned and their interest should increase."

After a week match start Miss Evert won most of the long rallies. Her placement and timing worked successfully.

She came back from 0-3 in the first set to pull even at 4-4. Then serving at 5-6, she fell behind 15-40. But Mrs. Court held win neither set point.

Kathy Cornelius wins Sealy-Faberge tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Kathy Cornelius of Litchfield Park, Ariz., won the $100,000 Sealy-Faberge Golf Classic Sunday on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff with Judy Rankin of Midland, Tex.

Third place tie at one-under-par 218 were Carol Mann, Towson, Md., and Betsy Hawis, Spartanburg, S.C. Fifth place and $4,000 went to Bonnie Bryant, Oakland, with even-par 219.

Miss Cornelius had rounds of 71-72-74; Miss Rankin 72-73-72. Miss Hawis and Miss Mann came off the 36-hole pace with 72 and 73, respectively, to just miss the playoff by a stroke.

Concerning his big double of top assist and leading scorer in the NBA, Archibald says he believes the scoring title is the hardest to win.

Chicago shuts out Braves 3-0

CHICAGO (UPI) — Milt Pappas' 20th career homer and a two-run homer by rookie Pat Bourque lifted the Chicago Cubs to a 3-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves Sunday.

With one out in the bottom of the seventh Ron Santo singled to right. Bourque then hit his season's first home run into the rightfield stands to give the Cubs a 3-0 cushion.

Always reluctant to discuss his age, Gaither is estimated to be about 68. Gaither's tea's had a 203-364 record in 45 years.

500 watch CSI cage exhibition

A crowd of about 500 turned out Sunday afternoon to see CSI in a something old, something new exhibition and meet Nate Archibald, NBA superstar.

Tim Bassett, newly signed with the ABA, also announced he would be with Coach Hale's clinic for the rest of the week.

Tom Weiskopf fires 68 for victory in Kemper tourney

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Tom Weiskopf, who had promised when he took the third round lead not to play conservative golf, kept his word Sunday and carded a solid 4-under-par 68 to win the $40,000 first prize in the Kemper Open by a three stroke margin over Lanny Wadkins.

The 30-year-old Weiskopf, winning his seventh career tournament and his second this year, had a total of 271, 17-under-par, the best 72-hole score in the Kemper's history. Wadkins, on his second year in the PGA tour, shot a 3-under-par 69 Sunday for the 7,219-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course, longest on the pro circuit this year, for a 274 total, 14-under-par.

Weiskopf had rounds of 65, 70 and 69 on his first three days in the Kemper, which he won previously in 1971. Sunday's triumph in the $200,000 event marked the first time anyone had won the five-year-old tournament twice. Wadkins had carded 66, 68 and 71 on the earlier days.

Weiskopf had five birdies and a bogey in his final round and Wadkins five birdies and two bogeys.

The Weiskopf-Wadkins duel left the rest of the field far behind. Lou Graham shot a 67 when he hit a sand wedge shot into the back bunker, then drilled No. 16 to wrap things up.

Weiskopf lost last week to Jack Nicklaus, who did not play in the Kemper; by two strokes and said he was confident he could beat Nicklaus in the future.

"I'm not afraid of anybody," he said. "When I'm playing my best I can beat anyone and that includes Nicklaus."

He said he would lay off the tour's next week and practice for the U.S. Open.

Wadkins, who started the day tied for second with Still at 11-under, said he was "very pleased with my finish."

Winner of this year's Byron Nelson Classic, Wadkins said "I wouldn't have believed I could shoot 14-under here."

"Now I know how Tom felt last week," he said, referring to Weiskopf's loss to Nicklaus

It was his third homer of the season, all in the past week.

McAnally posted his third victory in four decisions, striking out eight and walking two. The loss went to Downing, now 52-1.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two-run ninth-inning homers by Dave Rader and Garry Maddox Sunday lifted the San Francisco Giants to a 3-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and extended their winning streak to four games.

The Phillies, behind Ken Brett, carried a 4-1 lead into the ninth but Dave Kingman opened the inning with a single and Rader homered to cut the deficit to a run.

That finished Brett and MacRae came on to walk pinch-hitter Willie McCovey. Billy Wilson replaced Scarce and seemingly had the game wrapped when he induced Robby Hodgds to hit into a double play.

But Tito Fuentes singled and then Maddox unloaded his third homer of the season to clinax the ninth inning rally.

Charlie Williams, who pitched out of 4 bases-loaded jams in the top of the ninth, gained credit for the victory, his second in as many decisions. Wilson was tagged with the loss and evened his record at 1-1.

Greg Luzinski drove in a pair of Phillie runs with his fifth homer and two singles. A fifth-inning single by Tommy Hutton and a sixth-inning double by Brett accounted for the other runs as the Phillies suffered their sixth straight loss.

Jim Barr started for the Giants and left after 5 1/3 innings after the Phillies reached him for 10 of their 12 hits and three-run rally.

Tom Seaver hurls 5th straight win for Mets

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Tom Seaver Sunday pitched his fifth straight win and took over the National League lead in strikeouts as the New York Mets trimmed the San Diego Padres 9-2 to salvage the final game of their three-game set.

The Mets, who had dropped the first two meetings via shutouts, worked over five Padre hurlers including starter and loser Mike Caldwell, 37, for 12 hits. One of them was a two-out, two-run single by Tom Milner in the first inning that snapped a Mets scoreless string that had reached 21.

The win hiked Seaver's record to 7-3 and was the 13th time he had beaten the Padres with only one loss. The

In the first inning, Wynne Garrett started with walk and was singled to second by Felix Milan. George Theodore attempted to sacrifice before forced Garrett at third. Rusty Staub grounded out, Milny advancing to third and Theodore taking second and the runners came in on Milner's single to give the Mets a 2-0 lead.

New York tacked on an unearned tally in the third when Garrett reached first on Dave Roberts' poor throw after finishing his ground ball and Staub doubled him home. The Mets' lead became 4-0 in the

What if we offered to fix your color t.v. free of charge for four years?

If you purchase a Techna 3 by Curtis Mathes that's what We'll Do. *

This fantastic warranty policy was just announced — and it has put the TV industry in an uproar like it has never seen before.

Everyone is asking: "How is this possible when the other manufacturers give only one year on parts & labor?"

There is only one answer: the new revolutionary 100% solid state, modular, Techna 3 chassis is just that much better, and because of the policies established by Curtis Mathes many years ago, including no national advertising costs & selling by the van load directly to dealers (no middleman), you buy Curtis Mathes for less.

The 8 year picture tube warranty remains unchanged — 100% coverage for 2 years (like the others) plus an additional 6 year prorated coverage, where repair costs are shared with you.

In a recent study it was learned that to get a similar warranty from anyone else, it would cost you $300. With all of this added protection plus beautiful cabinetry and the finest picture in the industry, Curtis Mathes still costs you less.

I urge you to see Techna 3. I assure you there is nothing as good, it is at least 2 years ahead of the industry. I made a trip to the factory and saw Techna 3 engineering and production first hand.

You always find Magic Valley's largest selection in our store

*There will be no charge for parts or labor for 4 years if set is brought to our shop, or if our technicians are asked to call at your home. There will be a travel allowance of $10.00 charged to cover cost of equipment and personell if they come to your home — after the first 90 days.

This service plan applies to every community in Magic Valley that is regularly covered by our service trucks.

Buying a home can be a joyful experience. Or a hassle. A Realtor smoothes your way. He shows you only the types of homes you want to see, within your price range. He makes appointments at your convenience and inspects homes with you, calling to your attention advantages and disadvantages you might overlook.

Your Realtor gives you essential information about taxes, maintenance costs, public services and neighborhood conveniences. His knowledge of market values helps you see through inflated prices. He gives you sound mortgage advice and helps you arrange financing.

A Realtor is not just "any real estate man or woman", but a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and local Boards, and who subscribes to a strict Code of Ethics. Look for the Realtor seal. It's your assurance of competence, fair treatment and integrity.

Make your move to better living now — 1973! Begin by getting acquainted with a Realtor.
