Sloan relates revenge fears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Nixon campaign treasurer Hugh W. Sloan Jr. testified today that he asked for and was granted a meeting with presidential aide H.R. Haldeman early this year because he feared "retribution" for telling the truth about Watergate.

Sloan, appearing for a second day before the Senate Watergate Committee, said he went to Haldeman's White House office in late January to talk about his future and possible employment opportunities.

Sloan had quit the Nixon campaign in July in the wake of the Watergate break-in and had been cooperating fully with investigators. He had been unemployed for five months until early January, when he went back to the finance campaign staff as a consultant to help "wrap things up."

(Related stories, p. 6)

"Your position was that you'd need the support of the administration in finding jobs in the future?" asked Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn.

"No," Sloan replied. "I wanted to be sure there would be no effort to inhibit my own efforts along those lines."

"It was a fear of retribution?" Weicker asked.

"Yes sir, retribution," Sloan replied.

On Wednesday, Sloan said he had told Haldeman at that meeting he felt he "had been blacklisted, essentially," since he quit the campaign. He also said he had told Haldeman he had been pressured to commit perjury or to invoke the Fifth Amendment when questioned about Watergate, but had refused to do either.

Haldeman replied, he said, that "there were mistakes made in the early period" following the June 17, 1972 bugging arrests at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate complex.

Two other former officials of the Nixon campaign were ready to swear at today's hearings that they, too, were asked to perjure themselves to protect higher-ups and the President's reelection chances.

Recall test due

BOISE (UPI) — Secretary of State Pete T. Conrussa has decided to reject modified recall petitions against Rep. Patricia McDermott, aides said today, thereby assuring a court test in the matter.

Assistant Secretary of State John F. Croner said Conrussa had advised him to follow the advice of the attorney general that signatures on the petitions still were fatally defective.

(Earlier story, p. 3)

Croner said he will return the petitions to the attorney for the petitioners later today.

Wednesday, Attorney General W. Anthony Park issued an opinion for Conrussa which, in effect, advised him to reject the latest offering of recall petitions.

Farm price rise spurs May climb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farm prices, after showing an unusual decline in April, resumed their sharp upward movement in May, pushing up wholesale food prices since the spring of 1972 by 39 per cent, their biggest 12-month increase on record, the government reported today.

Coupled with another hefty rise in industrial prices, wholesale prices moved up 2.1 per cent in May, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) reported.

Prices of farm products, processed foods and feeds leaped upward by 4.7 per cent in May. Revised figures showed that prices in this category declined 0.7 per cent in April. Excluding processed foods, the May rise was even higher — 6.1 per cent.

The sour news for the administration economic strategists came as President Nixon pondered a new attack on inflation. He hopes to come up with a single weapon to combine control of costs at home and to defend the dollar abroad.

In the new wholesale price report, industrial prices — which comprise about three quarters of the index and are considered a more significant measure of inflation than volatile food prices — rose 1.1 per cent in May.

That was slightly less than April's 1.4 per cent rise but far higher than government economists consider to be within administration anti-inflation goals.

Wholesale prices overall now have climbed 12.9 per cent since May, 1972, the largest 12-month advance since 1951.

Increases in gasoline and other petroleum products were the biggest factor in May's industrial price rise. Metals and most lumber and wood prices continued to advance, but soft wood plywood prices turned downward.

"Farm prices advanced on a broad front — with oil seeds, grains, livestock, fresh and dried vegetables, raw cotton and fluid milk prices all moving up. Eggs, live poultry and fresh fruits were down for the month."

No clues to Wendell man's fate

BURLEY — About 75 miles were covered in a fruitless one-hour air search Wednesday for a Wendell man, Dennis Morton, missing since May 21.

No clues were found between Burley and Raft River as to the whereabouts of Morton. His abandoned pickup truck was found May 24 near the junction of 1-15 and 1-80 in Cassia County. Sheriff's officers are continuing investigations.

Warships collide off Iceland

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — A Royal Navy frigate and an Icelandic gunboat collided today off the coast of Iceland where warships of the two countries have been patrolling in the continuing dispute over fishing rights.

Governor Andrus Is A Dirty Street Fighter.

NOT PRINTED AT STATE EXPENSE

Cleanup message produces controversy

House panel OK's major money bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee approved a $9.4 billion money bill today to finance farm, environmental and consumer protection programs in 1974, including some President Nixon said should be terminated.

The measure, expected to be acted on by the House early next week, is $120 million less than Nixon requested for the programs in his 1974 budget.

The panel approved $5 billion for farm programs, $385.8 million for rural development projects, $1 billion in environmental programs and $3 billion for consumer programs.

The measure includes $150 million for rural water and sewer construction aid which Nixon said should be discontinued in 1974 and $3.8 billion for rural development loans, including housing.

Also in the big money bill was $2.2 billion for the food stamp program and earmarking of $508.5 million for free or reduced-price school lunch programs and other food programs for the needy.

Andrus ad sprouts up

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Gov. Cecil Andrus' latest advertising campaign has brought criticism from at least one Republican official.

"Governor Andrus is a Dirty Street Fighter," the yellow and black billboard placard reads in obvious double meaning.

While the governor's administrative assistant said today the sign is "not necessarily political," Twin Falls County Republican Chairman Douglas Kramer disagreed.

"I interpret it as a political sign," Kramer said. "I think he's taking advantage of his office in promoting his own political fortunes."

Gov Andrus himself was attending the National Governors' Conference in Lake Tahoe and was not available to comment on the signs. His administrative assistant, William Murphy, said the signs were "not necessarily a political sign, you can take it either way."

Murphy said the sign was paid for by the governor himself with private funds.

Asked if the governor paid for the sign out of his own pocket, Murphy said, "In effect, yes."

He refused to disclose exactly how the sign was paid for or the cost of the campaign, which he said involved the placement of "about 18" of the billboards statewide.

There was no statement on the signs saying who paid for them — only a statement that they were not paid for at state expense.

Murphy said the signs were "a kickoff to the governor's 1974 campaign. Asked if the signs were part of a series, he said, "This is a one shot deal for this summer. Maybe there will be another message next year. I don't know."

Murphy said the signs were "a message to the people ... to bring back the theme of keeping Idaho up, keeping it clean." He said he could not see "where there's anything on political disclosure in any way, shape or form on that particular ad. I think you're barking up the wrong tree."

Survivor 'serious'

BURLEY — Delawn Diderickson, Burley, only survivor of a two-car collision near Sublett Tuesday, was still listed in "serious condition" at Cassia Memorial Hospital today.

Six persons were killed in the collision including Diderickson's wife. The other five were members of a Boise family.

Those billboards may not have been paid for with public money, but the road signs bearing Andrus' signature sure were.

TF food prices show sharp May gain

By JOCELYN CLOWARD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Grocery prices in Twin Falls have gone up by 11.4 per cent during the first five months of 1973.

During the past month alone, prices shot up 3.8 per cent, according to the Times-News grocery price survey.

The one month increase was larger than increases during all of last year.

Despite imposition of strict federal controls on retail meat prices, average meat prices rose at a sharp pace in Twin Falls grocery stores during the month. Meat prices rose 2.7 per cent making up most of the preceding month's 3 per cent drop.

The Times-News survey compares the same list of 20 items taken from five medium-to-large Twin Falls supermarkets.

The survey showed a basket of groceries costing an average of $10 at the beginning of the year would have cost $10.25 at the beginning of February; $10.39 a month later; $10.63 by April 1; $10.76 by May 1 and up to $11.14 on June 1.

An interesting new development is suggested in the newest price survey.

For the first time since the price surveys were begun two years ago the price range from the most expensive to least expensive stores narrowed significantly. The result is that a customer who purchased the same items from the least expensive store would save only 1.9 per cent in many earlier months, the price differential among stores had been well over 10 per cent.

The cost of staples rose an average of 2.5 per cent during the month. One store marked no changes on its staples surveyed, while another store marked surveyed staples up an average of 7.8 per cent in the one month.

Typical of the wide variation in price increases was one store's decision to hike the price of a two-pound can of coffee 14 cents, while other stores either held small or no increases.

When called, the store manager said he had "not the slightest idea" why the price jump had occurred, other than that it was listed "right here in the price book."

"There is only a five cent mark up on coffee at that price," he said.

Meat prices climb

Produce accounted for a large part of the May increase. A 10-pound bag of Idaho russets which cost an average of 77 cents in April rose to 99 cents during May.

Eggs, however, dropped in price from an average of 65 cents per dozen in April to 63 cents a dozen during May.

Several factors behind meat rise

TWIN FALLS — The rise in meat prices in Twin Falls grocery stores during April was due to several factors.

Special prices on some grocery items were recorded in the April Times-News grocery price survey. Regular prices were then listed in the May survey. In the May survey, one store had only one quality of ground meat available, thus showing a rise in price for that item. Rising costs of canned fish also were reflected in the increase.

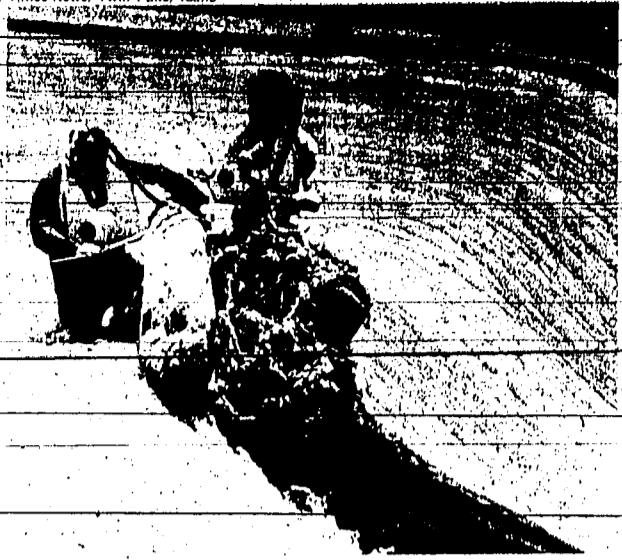

According to Win Spiva, Boise district technical stabilization coordinator for the internal revenue service, raising meat prices set on meats March 29 of this year are computed on an individual store or chain division basis. Store computations are based on high prices for 10 per cent of the meat item sold during the 30 days preceding March 20. Stores are required to post ceiling prices.

There is no ceiling price on imported meats, Spiva said. The presidential policy is to allow imports without setting ceilings on the theory this will increase the supply of meat available, he said.

Petitioners will press recall plan

BOISE (UPI) — Attorneys for petitioners trying to recall Rep. Patricia McDermott indicate they will press on with the effort in spite of an attorney general's opinion that some petition signatures are still fatally defective.

Attorney General W. Anthony Park Wednesday issued an opinion requested by Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa, and there are indications he will follow the attorney general's advice and again reject the recall petitions.

Petitioners' attorney Stanley D. Crow said, however, if Cenarrusa rejects them, he will seek a writ of mandamus from Fourth District Court to force the secretary of state to accept the signatures and put in motion the wheels of a recall election against the Portafello Democrat.

Last week Cenarrusa, acting on the advice of the attorney general, turned down 2,230 of 2,559 petition signatures, on grounds they did not have post office addresses as required by law. The petition came back Monday with 11 new signatures and the post office address "Portafello" added to the defective signatures.

Tuesday attorneys for both sides argued in Park's office whether the signatures could be rehabilitated and used to start the recall against Minnie McDermott.

Park said the signatures had been properly rejected by Cenarrusa.

He added, "The attempted correction of the fatal defect by petitioners through the device of third party addition of the omitted post office address was not sufficient in view of the clear legislative mandate that rejected signatures be replaced with new signatures."

"It is our opinion that the obvious legislative intent for such a requirement—that signatures are properly identified—was to prevent fraudulent signing, to prevent duplication of signatures and to conform as closely as possible to Idaho's requirements for voter registration," the opinion said.

He added the circulator of the petitions must certify under oath—under penalty of perjury—that the signator signed his name and gave all required information in the circulator's presence.

Cause awaited

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — The cause of a fire which devastated the storage area of the Burley Potato Processing Plant north of here should be determined today, firemen said.

The fire erupted after a small explosion in a storage building on the northwest corner of the plant Wednesday.

Burley is a division of the J.T. Simplot Co. and processes Big John Woodman Stew for Hunt-Wesson Foods.

Social service plans stalled

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI) — A U.S. Senate Finance Committee action preventing the administration from implementing new and restrictive social service regulations will be an aid to the states, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus says.

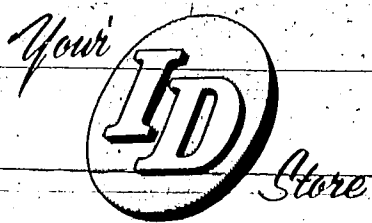

Andrus, attending the National Governors' Conference here, said Wednesday the committee action will postpone from July until January the new regulations scheduled to be promulgated by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"This is a clear victory on the part of the nation's governors who have worked to prevent the hasty implementation of regulations which would have dealt a death blow to state efforts to assist the handicapped, the blind, and the elderly," Andrus said.

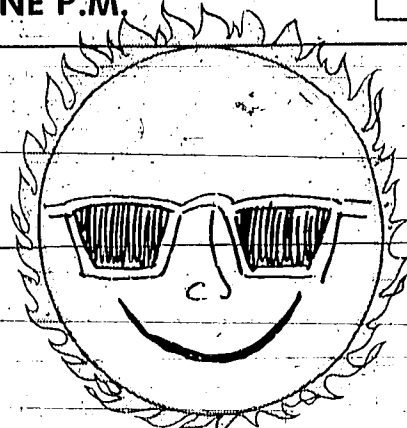

"This gives us governors an opportunity to work for legislation that will be more responsive to peoples' needs as opposed to the unresponsive, bureaucratic regulations."

Andrus noted that the delay will make it possible for states to cope with the expected regulations in terms of making necessary adjustments within their state budgets for fiscal 1974-75.

Park raps Gem salary schedule

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's attorney general should be paid a salary equivalent to the $25,000 a year now paid state supreme court justices, Attorney General W. Anthony Park said Wednesday.

In response to questions, Park told an Idaho Press Club luncheon that the salary schedule for his office "certainly will play a part" in his decision to seek re-election.

Earlier, Park told reporters he will not make the re-election decision until after the first of next year.

Park pointed out that he is the second lowest paid attorney general in the United States. He makes $18,000 per year. He said that is less than the Ada County prosecutor, the Boise city attorney and district and supreme court judges.

"A salary equivalent to that paid to the Supreme Court of the State of Idaho would be fair," Park said, when asked what he thought the salary should be.

"But when asked whether he will seek re-election for the job if the salary remains less than the high court's, said "I won't answer that question."

Park told the press club he felt amendments made by the legislature last winter to the 1971 Consumer Protection Act were among the most significant actions of the recent legislative session.

He outlined the prohibitions added to the act to stop fraud in the market place and said his aim is to "find the market place of unhealthy competition for the legitimate businessman."

Among practices now taboo under the act are obtaining a customer's signature to a contract which has blanks to be filled in later, failure to give the customer a copy of the contract at the time of the transaction, referral sales and unnecessary repairs.

"Repair rip-offs have really given us a lot of headaches where we've set about to enforce the basic act," Park said.

He said false statements of age, extent of use or mileage of goods also are prohibited by the act.

Mining interests increase steadily

BOISE (UPI) — News of rising gold prices appears to be the cause of an increase in inquiries about prospecting and mining regulations on national forest lands, according to the supervisor of the Boise National Forest.

Edward C. Maw said, "Mining and prospecting are recognized by law as legitimate activities on most public land. However, the rights to prospect and mine carry responsibilities that should be known to individuals considering these activities."

Certain national forest areas, such as administrative sites, research-natural areas, and most recreation areas, are closed to mining.

lands acquired by the Forest Service through donation or purchase are not open to mining claims. Congress closed the entire Sawtooth National Recreation Area to further mineral entry last summer.

Maw said prospectors are not required to notify the forest service of claim locations, but Idaho law requires registration of claims at county courthouses.

Maw recommended that prospectors avoid problems by checking land status at ranger district offices to ensure that they are not prospecting on withdrawn lands. They also should explore county records to avoid interfering with existing claims or prospecting on private land.

Memorial service set in Lewiston

LEWISTON, (UPI) — A memorial service for former legislator and congressional candidate Edward V. Williams is scheduled June 16 at the Lewiston High School Auditorium.

Williams, 44, was lost while boating in Hells Canyon April 21 with his cousin, Jack R. Bowman, 44, Lewiston, and six other persons. The Nez Perce County Sheriff's office declared Williams' and Bowman drowned two days later.

Bowman's body was found 21 miles south of Lewiston in the Snake River May 12, but no trace of Williams has been found.

Merle Parsley, Boise, a spokesman for the family, said a memorial scholarship fund will be established in Williams' name. Contributions can be made at Idaho Bank and Trust for the fund, he said.

Mr. Nixon continues matter-of-factly that "in July, 1970, having earlier discontinued the FBI's liaison with the CIA, Director Hoover ended the FBI's normal liaison with all other agencies except the White House."

As the delay in constructing the Alaskan oil pipeline lengthens, some of the alternate suggestions for recovery of the badly needed oil reserves become bizarre. A consulting engineer from Dover, Mass., has told a congressional subcommittee he could do the job in two years for a fraction of current cost estimates - without disturbing the tundra or posing a threat of major ecological damage.

oil, thereby minimizing the risks of spillage. Instead of the $3.5 billion estimated cost to build a pipeline, Nyman testified he could do the job for $650 million. Nine passenger buses would be included along with the oil containers and the entire project could be put in place by helicopters.

High Competence

WASHINGTON - Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield and Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., House Ways and Means Committee chairman, are men of high competence, intelligence and rectitude. That's nice. Unfortunately for a people racked by galloping inflation, however, both men are also too ruddy unassuming.

Mills was particularly tough and resolute in his floor speech. Nothing less than a total freeze, he said, would give him time - as czar of ways and means - to decide how best to move onto a program that could contain inflation. Mills was telling Nixon, or so it seemed, that from here in Congress would determine wage-price policies. A modest man, Mills rarely casts himself in the general's role.

higher prices, not an easing of the rate at which they're rising. Mills is right, too, when he says "Let us not indulge again in the fantasy that controls alone will give a solid, continuing base for price-level stability." No artificial supervision of the market place can be a permanent solution, as Nixon has recognized. But a breathing spell is needed, as Mills says, to give the system time for other stabilizing factors to take effect.

Under Hoover's temporary successor, Patrick Gray, Mr. Nixon ordered the FBI to investigate Watergate and then told his palace guard to restrain the investigation, so as not to expose the plumbers, and not to expose a supposed (and non-existent) role which the CIA played in laundering chiding the identity of campaign funds from Mexico. It's all pretty complicated and maybe you understand it better than I do. Certainly Patrick Gray didn't understand it, or Vernon Walters, deputy director of the CIA. They warned the President that somebody in the White House was betraying him. "I should have given more heed to the warning signals," says Mr. Nixon in retrospect.

There has always been turbulence in America though each generation thinks its own kind unique: draft riots in the Civil War, Molly Maguires, the anarchists, the steel mutineers against the 12-hour day, the racial violence that burns just underground now. The majority of people generally oppose dissenters; all men want liberty but most will trade off a good chunk of it for order. Where will the FBI be? Will this elite police that Mr. Nixon tried to warn, remain neutral?

Two Soviet journalists have discovered America's secret weapon. After traveling 10,000 miles during a six-week tour of the United States, Boris Strelnikov and Vasily Peskov had nothing but praise for what they had seen. Were they trying to butter us up, or is this the new Soviet policy? The Russians went out of their way to praise the interstate highway system, "faultlessly clean" highway restaurants, an endless variety of fast food emporiums and "smiling waitresses" - adulations some American travelers might be more restrained in offering.

If Nixon Quits

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Notwithstanding President Nixon's bold assertion that he will not resign under the pressures of the Watergate scandal, it is vital to weigh what would happen if he did. On the assumption that Vice President Spiro Agnew would not feel compromised despite his oft renewed professions of loyalty to the President, he would be expected to succeed to the office as the Constitution provides. But he would do so under the most trying conditions ever faced by such a successor.

A newly elected president always has the luxury of a November-January cushion of time in selecting the key people for his administration. Even that span can seem inadequate, as desired candidates for appointive posts hold out or refuse to serve. Of the eight U.S. vice-presidents elevated to the presidency, only Calvin Coolidge moved into office against an impending period of high-level scandal. But the disgraceful criminal activities which occurred in President Warren Harding's regime still were six months from general disclosure.

BERRY'S WORLD

New York Times correspondent Seymour Hersh quotes a former high-ranking FBI official as saying, "We'd been doing burglaries for years. We did their regularly."

"We have a new kind of casualty list today, Mr. President - it's for the Watergate people!"

Strelnikov and Peskov also discovered, everywhere they went, something called "catsup." Why, they wrote back home, isn't there anything like "catsup" in Russia? Here is where they may have gone overboard. What if they discover, upon their return home, that "catsup" was invented in Russia? Doubtlessly they were thinking the tomato concoction is just the thing to doctor what is generally a drab table fare in the Soviet Union. The government writers may have started something that will become as popular as beet soup. If American soft drinks can storm the Soviet market, "catsup" ought to be good for at least a couple of tankers full of Soviet oil.

Saigon sources hint reduction in fighting near

By LARRY GREEN
Chicago Daily News Writer

SAIGON — Barring last-minute snags, talks between presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho, which opened Wednesday in Paris, will lead to a reduction in fighting in South Vietnam by next week, authoritative sources here said.

parties to the January pact: the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Communist Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam.

"When the new cease-fire comes into effect," one optimistic official said, "you will see better observance of the terms of the (original) agreement. This seems to be the attitude on both sides."

It was unclear whether the talks would result in an agreement on Cambodia, where the war and US bombing, raids continue.

But if the North Vietnamese keep an expected new commitment to honor the January agreement, they will withdraw their troops from the tiny republic. This would result in a lower level of hostilities there, sources said.

Before a new attempt at a Vietnam truce is made, major fighting is expected in several places throughout the country, possibly by the weekend.

Increased fighting already has broken out in scattered area of the Mekong delta and in the northern province of Quang Ngai.

South Vietnamese government troops in the country's four military regions have been placed on a "red alert," military sources disclosed.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops, meanwhile, have been told to prepare for a "true" cease-fire by the end of this week on orders from their high command, the Central Office for South Vietnam (COSVN).

In the past, similar orders have been a reliable indicator that an attempt at a cease-fire and a major announcement from Paris were being made.

Communist troops were told to prepare for a cease-fire last October, just before the US reneged on signing an agreement, and again in January, just before the Paris pact was signed. One major difference in the orders now going out to both government and Communist commanders and those issued in the past is that now both sides are being told to respect the new truce.

Previous cease-fire preparations by both sides included plans for continued fighting.

These same sources report an over-all "diminishing level of fighting in Cambodia" and say the time might be near when talks between the government and rebel forces can begin.

Analysis

The highly-placed sources said the new round of talks would not result in a new agreement on ending the war, but in a communique or protocol reaffirming the provision of the Jan. 27 agreement.

This statement would be signed by all four

Red rift deeper but less heated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The rift between Moscow and Peking is quieter but deeper than ever, the State Department's ranking expert on Asian affairs believes.

"But it is less explosive," adds Marshal Green, former Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific Affairs.

Green, the top State Department Asian expert for four years, made his observations to UPI just before leaving recently to become U.S. Ambassador to Australia.

Green noted that the Chinese and the Soviets no longer are trying to resolve their border and ideological disputes with military force. There China is edgy about the forthcoming official visit of Soviet Communist Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev to the United States. Russia is uneasy about the detente between Washington and Peking, particularly the unusually cordial treatment being accorded Ambassador Huang Chen by the White House.

Green said that strong Soviet support for Bangladesh and continuing tensions between Pakistan, befriended by Peking, and India, backed by Moscow, have deepened suspicion between China and Russia.

Green foresaw no easy solution to the Sino-Soviet dispute in the foreseeable future.

Reviewing events in Asia during the past four years, Green said the U.S. could not afford to abandon Southeast Asia now that the Vietnam war was ended.

"We want to see the war concluded for all the people of the area," he said. "We don't just want to call for a basin of water and wash our hands of it."

Cambodia remains the unresolved problem in Indochina, he said. Any failure to resolve the problems there could threaten the entire Vietnam peace agreement.

Green said North Vietnam was still determined to pursue its goal of dominating the Indochina area. But "I believe that Hanoi will seek to achieve its goal by political measures rather than military measures." He added that "I think the government of South Vietnam has a very good chance of surviving."

Green predicted that Southeast Asia would remain a world trouble spot in the near future. "This is sort of the Balkans of Asia. The countries concerned there have been up against great odds."

"We have learned a great deal from our Vietnam experience," Green said.

Analysis

are no more bloody border clashes such as those that stunned the world at the beginning of this decade.

Chinese officials in Peking recently told American news media the situation was so tense then that only American diplomatic efforts prevented a Soviet nuclear strike against China.

The Soviet Embassy here promptly labeled the Chinese statement as totally false. "Such a threat did not and does not exist," the Embassy said.

"The spreading of the above provocative assertions contradicts the facts and has nothing to do with the interests of international detente and of strengthening peace," the Embassy added.

Green said that despite the quiet on the Sino-Soviet border, tension between Moscow and Peking has deepened significantly. So far all efforts to resolve border and other disputes have been fruitless.

Sloan's eyes betray anguish

Count cuts speech on impeachment

By New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — An effort by Rep. Paul McCloskey Jr. to launch a "tempered" discussion of the possible impeachment of President Nixon was halted Wednesday night by a technical tangle on the floor of the House of Representatives.

The California Republican had read only two of the 11 pages of a speech suggesting that President Nixon may have violated four federal criminal laws when a Republican loyalist, Rep. Earl P. Landgrebe of Indiana, demanded that the House obtain a quorum.

For nearly an hour, amid a "long count" by House Speaker Carl Albert that has led to produce enough members to proceed, a roll call vote that was solidly against adjournment and, ultimately, McCloskey's own request to adjourn, the House wrangled rather than listened.

McCloskey read about a dozen supporters of his request for a calm discussion of the impeachment issue and that they would instead insert their comments in the Congressional record and perhaps try again in a week or two to raise the subject on the house floor.

Only about six minutes of the hour allotted to McCloskey for the discussion had elapsed when Landgrebe rose to make a parliamentary request that a majority be present. At the time, about 60 of the 435 house members were on the floor.

The Landgrebe motion effectively halting the debate until the House could produce half its membership — came just as McCloskey was declaring that "if impeachment is to be debated, it is certainly proper that that debate take place in this chamber."

He was not formally proposing the President's impeachment in the speech — in fact, McCloskey's prepared text called for a delay of "a few more days" to give Nixon an opportunity to make "full and fair disclosure of everything he knows and when he learned" about his administration's involvement in the Watergate conspiracy.

But the speech, deliberately low-key in tone, suggested that the House had a special constitutional responsibility to begin an inquiry to determine if there was "probable cause" to suspect the president of having committed a felony.

House Speaker Albert, who had been "among the few members listening to McCloskey, took his place in the speaker's chair during the procedural wrangle." He purposely delayed the quorum call during which members are supposed to come to the floor and register their presence — well beyond the customary 15-minute period.

REP. McCLOSKEY, (mult. victim)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hugh Sloan's voice is not bitter and his words carry no rancor. Only his eyes betray the anguish of Watergate and the hurt endured for telling the truth.

The eyes, dark and somber, are too weary for a man of 32. But they never wavered Wednesday as he recited for the Senate Watergate committee — and a television audience of millions — the story he has told over and over again in the last 11 months.

It was a story of a man whose principles wouldn't let him swallow what was going on; a story that has been met with skepticism, indifference and disdain from the White House to the courthouse and has made Watergate for Sloan a very personal ordeal.

Finally, in the cavernous Senate Caucus Room, there were believers.

"Your forthrightness," proclaimed the chairman, Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., "has renewed my faith in the old adage that an honest man is the noblest work of God."

Sloan's story basically is a simple one — he was treasurer of the Finance Committee to the Re-Elect the President and as such shelled out some $1 million in cold cash in early 1972 to a dozen campaign and White House staffers on orders from his superiors, not knowing what it was for.

Came the Watergate in June, Sloan began getting suspicious. He tried to warn people — at the White House, within the campaign. Everyone shrugged it off. "You are overwrought. Take a vacation," said one. "I don't want to hear about it," said another.

Worst to Sloan, deeply troubled by this attitude, were pressures he said were brought on him to take the Fifth Amendment when questioned or lie about what he knew.

"It was obvious to me that if I were to stay in the good graces of the campaign organization, I would have to do one," he said. "I was prepared to do neither."

And he didn't, choosing instead to quit the campaign in mid-July because he didn't like what was going on. He told federal authorities about the perjury pressures. They listened but apparently did nothing. He was not ever asked about it when he testified at the Watergate trial in January, telling the same story about the money he told the Senate.

Instead, the judge peppered him with scolding, belittling questions that left no doubt he felt Sloan was lying. Sloan left the stand ashen and shaken.

But anyone looking at Hugh Sloan's eyes needed no words to know and understand.

Prosecutor will speak if sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's chief prosecutor during the Watergate trial said today he would testify, if requested, before a Senate committee about allegations that this office did not thoroughly probe attempts to cover up the bugging scandal.

However, the Senate Watergate committee has not yet demanded appearances by the federal prosecutors.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Earl J. Silbert said he has no plans now to request an appearance, but "we would certainly be available for them and happy to testify if requested."

Former Nixon campaign treasurer Hugh W. Sloan Jr. testified Wednesday that half his grand jury appearance last summer dealt with his account that Job Stuart Magruder tried to get him to perjure himself.

Cox asks live TV blackout

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox asked a federal court Wednesday to block live broadcast coverage of "self-incriminating testimony" by key witnesses who have been granted immunity when they testify before the Senate Watergate committee.

In a 13-page legal brief, Cox asked U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica to issue such an order.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate panel, raised an immediate objection to Cox's request.

"The court has no power to grant the petition of the special prosecutor," Ervin said.

"Under the Constitution, the Senate committee, acting as an arm of the Senate, has the power to conduct its investigation free from interference of either the judicial or executive branch," Ervin said.

Cox said the continued nationwide television coverage of the hearings will complicate prosecution of those involved in the Watergate cover-up.

Probe testimony given Wednesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A summary of testimony Wednesday before the Senate Watergate committee: —Hugh W. Sloan Jr., 32, former treasurer of the Committee to Re-elect the President, testified about large, unreported cash contributions which came into the committee, which he said were kept in safes and safe deposit boxes. He said he dispersed about a million dollars in early 1972 for purposes unknown to him.

Sloan said $199,000 went to G. Gordon Liddy, later convicted as a Watergate conspirator. He said Job Stuart Magruder, deputy campaign director, urged him to perjure himself by claiming this amount was only $40,000. Sloan said he tried to express concern over what was going on to John D. Ehrlichman, R.R. Haldeman, John N. Mitchell, Maurice Stans and others but was rebuffed each time.

—One of Sloan's lawyers, James R. Treese, testified briefly that White House counsel John W. Dean III telephoned him Oct. 31, 1972, to urge that Sloan take the Fifth Amendment. "I laughed," Treese said.

No appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department has announced it will not appeal the decision made last month in Los Angeles to dismiss charges against Pentagon Papers defendants Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo.

The indictments against the two men were thrown out May 11 by U.S. District Judge W. Matt Byrne Jr. on grounds of government misconduct in gathering evidence and delay in explaining its role in the 1971 break-in at the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Domestic spy plan given OK

By New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Nixon approved a plan for expanded domestic intelligence gathering in July, 1970, after being cautioned that parts of it were "clearly illegal" and involved "serious risks" to his administration if the operations were ever discovered, according to White House documents.

The program, which Nixon described in part last month, was approved by him in July, 1970, through H. R. Haldeman, then his chief of staff. Earlier an aide told Haldeman, "We don't want the President linked to this thing" with his signature on a paper because "all FBI would break loose if this thing leaks out."

In a statement issued May 22, Nixon said that he had rescinded his approval of the "1970 intelligence plan" five days after he ordered it put into operation. He attributed the switch to "reconsideration" prompted by the opposition of (FBI) Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The President acknowledged that the "extremely sensitive" documents detailing the plan, some of which have been obtained by the New York Times, contained a provision for "surreptitious entry" by federal agents in the course of certain types of national security investigations.

But Nixon gave no hint that the interagency committee on intelligence, which recommended in a 43-page report that the existing restrictions against breaking and entering by intelligence agents be removed, had warned that the "use of this technique is clearly illegal."

The committee's recommendations for the lifting of certain restrictions on intelligence gathering were summarized in a top-secret memorandum by Tom Charles Huston, a staff assistant to Nixon who served as the committee's White House liaison.

The memorandum, sent to Haldeman for the President's approval in early July of 1970, notes that surreptitious entry, even by federal agents, "amounts to burglary. It is also highly risky and could result in great embarrassment if exposed."

The Times obtained three memorandums written by Huston — one summarizing the committee's report to the President, another informing the heads of federal intelligence agencies that the committee's recommendations had been approved and a third providing Haldeman with background on the committee's deliberations and with a strategy for securing Hoover's cooperation.

The Times did not receive copies of the full report, or of the entire letter attached to the summarizing memorandum, also written by Huston, advising Haldeman that the President should not give the plan his written approval.

In recommending that the technique be resurrected, the document noted that the Federal Bureau of Investigation "used to conduct such operations with great success," and that the information they produced was "invaluable."

Such burglaries, the memorandum continued, "would be particularly helpful if used against the Weathermen and Black Panthers," and against unspecified "diplomatic establishments."

Blind rescue

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A blind father rescued his 3-year-old daughter from drowning Tuesday, finding her under water in a swimming pool by tracking the sound of air bubbles from her lungs.

Thomas Sullivan, 26, told police his daughter Blythe fell in the pool at the family home while he was on the telephone.

He heard the splash, he said, and ran outside. Standing beside the pool, he listened to the sound of air bubbles rising to the surface and moved about the pool until he thought he had the source located, then jumped in and found the girl under seven feet of water.

Blythe was revived by mouth to mouth respiration and was reported in satisfactory condition.

TF concert set Tuesday

TWIN FALLS — The Lake Burien Handbell Choir, Seattle, will present a concert at the First United Presbyterian Church Fireside Lounge at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

This group of 12 young musicians, directed by Dr. Paul Oncley, is making an extensive tour of the Western states, including participation in the National Festival of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers at Tempe, Ariz.

The Twin Falls concert is open to the public, without charge, according to Rev.

Robert Van Nest, pastor, but an offering will be received.

The Lake Burien Handbell choir is completing its seventh season. The group has a full 61-bell set of Dutch-made Pettit and Fritsen-bells, the largest in the Northwest, Rev. Van Nest said.

Those familiar with bells will recognize the clarity and depth of tone of the Dutch bells, which are tuned like the Low-country carillons with the traditional minor third-in-the-over-tone structure. English bells, with major third, have a more silvery sound with less warmth, and the newer American bells are smooth but lacking in brilliance.

Modern bell groups have developed various special ringing style to add interest and contrast. Swung bells simulate the tolling of the tower bells, a plucking technique resembles a cellist's pizzicato, bells struck with mallets.

Several of these special effects will be noted in the original works comprising the opening group of numbers. The concert will include hymn transcriptions, arrangements from familiar classics, works for organ and bells and selections from "Sound of Music."

Sandra Fay, student director, will be featured as guitarist in Dr. Oncley's transcription of "Amazing Grace," and will also conduct selections in which Dr. Oncley will be at the organ.

The eight girls and four boys in the group range from 11 to 19 years of age.

ELLIS PENDERGRAFT shows his painting, "Geraniums," which he plans to hang in the Magic Valley Art Guild Inc. City Park exhibit to Howard Johnson, superintendent of the Twin Falls Parks and Recreation Department. The show will be Sunday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the park at Sixth Avenue East and Shoshone Street.

Exhibit planned

Park art show slated Sunday

TWIN FALLS — The 14th annual Magic Valley Art Guild Inc. city park exhibit will be Sunday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The show, held with the cooperation of the Twin Falls Parks and Recreation Department, will feature works from many area artists as well as artists from the Pocatello and Idaho Falls guilds.

A drawing for paintings will be at 7 p.m. Donations will be given to the Harry Eaton Memorial Fund at the College of Southern Idaho. Donation tickets will be available during show hours. Food and beverage concessions at the exhibit will be run by the Twin Falls Jaycees.

The Art Guild was organized to promote art and make it available to the community, according to Ellis Pendergraft, incoming guild president. The park art exhibit was initiated by Lee Logan, who had worked with similar exhibits at Palm Springs, Calif.

The parks and recreation department also provides a building at Harry Barry park for use as a painting workshop which artists may use by contacting art guild members, Pendergraft said.

SALMON — Officials have discounted a report that the remains of six head of cows had been spotted in the Black Rock area northwest of Salmon.

House increases minimum wage

WASHINGTON — President Nixon lost a key round in his fight against inflation as the House voted to increase the minimum wage for nearly 30 million workers to $2.20 an hour within a year and to extend coverage for the first time to about a million household servants.

The bill now goes to the Senate, where the outlook for passage is considered good.

The present minimum wage for most workers is $1.60 an hour. The bill would increase this to $2 an hour this year and to $2.20 on July 1, 1974.

Seeking to reduce what he considered the inflationary impact of the Democratic-sponsored measure, the President had backed a more limited substitute providing a three-step wage boost — starting with $1.90 this year, $2.10 a year later and $2.20 after two years — and not extending coverage to any additional workers.

The Republican substitute was defeated, 225 to 193.

Joining 181 Democrats in opposing the substitute were 37 Republicans. Voting for the measure were 149 Republicans and 50 Democrats, most of them from rural southern and border state districts.

The vote would seem to indicate some erosion of the President's power in the wake of the Watergate scandals, for it was just a year ago that the House had adopted a similar Republican substitute by a 26-vote margin.

On that vote, a year ago, only 20 Republicans had defected from the administration position, in contrast to 37 Wednesday. The earlier bill became involved in a stalemate between Senate and House and failed to clear Congress.

The new bill would provide the 10th and 11th boosts in the minimum wage since it was first set at 25 cents in 1938. The present rate of $1.60 for most workers has been in effect since 1968.

The bill would provide the following:
For about 34.7 million non-agricultural workers: increase the minimum wage from $1.60 an hour to $2 this year and $2.20 on July 1 of next year.

For about 1.8 million other non-agricultural workers first given coverage in 1966: increase from $1.60 to $1.80 this year; $2 on July 1, 1974, and $2.20 on July 1, 1975.

For about 535,000 agricultural workers: increase from $1.60 to $1.80 this year; $1.80 on July 1, 1974; $2 on July 1, 1975, and $2.20 on July 1, 1976.

extend minimum wage and overtime coverage to about a million household domestics, except those residing in the houses where they work. The initial minimum wage would be $1.30 an hour, $2 on July 1 of next year and $2.20 on July 1, 1975.

extend minimum wage and overtime coverage to about 1.7 million federal workers, 3.3 million state and local government employees and an unknown number of employees of conglomerates doing business in excess of $10 million yearly.

provide more liberal overtime compensation for transit employees.

reduce and eventually repeal the overtime exemption for most employees in seasonal industries.

provide nursing home employees the same overtime coverage as hospital workers.

Pentagon halts F111 manufacture

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon has unexpectedly announced that production of the controversial F111 Fighter Bomber, which is still flying missions over Cambodia, will be halted late next year.

General Dynamics, which manufactures the plane, said it was "flabbergasted" by the decision.

Deputy Defense Secretary William P. Clements Jr. told Congress in writing Wednesday that he made the decision because "the need for additional F111s is now less demanding than a number of other critical Department of Defense requirements." He did not elaborate on the other projects.

The current production run ends in December, 1974 when the 543rd F111 rolls off the assembly line at General Dynamics' Fort Worth, Tex. plant. The firm has been producing one F111 a month.

When the project originally got off the ground in 1962, plans were to build 1,726 F111s for $3.4 million each. In the end, the 543 are costing $14.6 million apiece — a cost overrun of 430 per cent. Alvin Spivak, a spokesman for General Dynamics, said the firm was "extremely disappointed and flabbergasted" at the Pentagon's decision "because we are convinced that the F111 has surmounted the misleading controversy of the past and has proved itself to be an outstanding combat aircraft for which there is a definite need."

The Senate Permanent Investigating Subcommittee charged in 1970 that the F111 was a "fiasco" because "management blunders were made at the highest echelons of government."

Thirty-one of the planes crashed, including eight in Indochina which may have been shut down.

NATO reviews friction of US, European allies

BRUSSELS (UPI) — NATO defense ministers assembled in Brussels today to review defense plans for the rest of the 1970s, but their immediate overriding concern was friction between the United States and its European allies.

"Behind all of the points on the agenda," said one top North Atlantic Treaty Organization official, "there looms the question of the future of the Atlantic alliance in light of the April speech by Henry Kissinger."

He was referring to remarks April 23 by Kissinger, who said the United States and its European allies could not hold together if both sides continued to act in their own interests to the detriment of the other side's interests.

Kissinger also said there was "a certain amount" of friction between Europe and the United States.

President Nixon's newly-appointed defense secretary, James A. Schlesinger, will represent the United States at the meeting.

He said when he arrived Wednesday that the United States expects its European allies to help offset the U.S. balance-of-payments crisis. One reason for the crisis is the heavy dollar cost of stationing U.S. troops in Europe.

In addition to considering issues raised by the United States, officials said defense ministers would study and review a progress report on alliance defense problems in the 1970s.

NATO officials said the report cited Soviet military build-ups over the past five years, notably the introduction of 1,500 new tanks in East Germany, a 50 per cent increase in the Soviet Union's tactical air strength and an increase in the Soviet submarine fleet, which was called the largest in the world.

The report, called AD 70, covers not only Soviet moves, but allied responses to the build-ups.

GM threatened in Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — General Motors said today it is continuing business "as usual" despite a threat by left-wing guerrillas to kidnap executives unless the company releases 1,000 workers it had off earlier.

A statement Wednesday said General Motors would not comply with the demands.

The company's reaction came after similar threats to two other American-owned firms, Ford Motor Co. and Otis elevator.

Ford agreed to turn over $1 million in goods to charitable organizations under the leftist People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), wounded two employees and warned it would kidnap others.

Otis evacuated its top foreign executives to Brazil after receiving the kidnap threats.

The threat to General Motors, a spokesman said, came in a telephone call last Friday that said the company should release 1,000 workers laid off over the past two years.

"We are not complying," the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, a British executive was kidnaped Wednesday by four armed men, the latest in a series of attacks or threats against foreign businessmen.

Charles A. Lockwood, 63, a board member of the Roberts finance company, was seized while on his way to work.

There was no immediate identification of his abductors, but most other kidnappers were attributed to the ERP.

Lockwood was the third British citizen kidnaped this year and his abduction raised the reported number of kidnappings since Jan. 4 to about 55.

Roberts finance and its associated companies form one of Argentina's most powerful business blocs.

One kidnap victim, border guard Jacobo Nasif, was freed Tuesday by the ERP after six weeks.

Another kidnap victim, retired admiral Francisco Aleman, who was seized April 17 by the ERP, was expected to go free shortly. He complied Wednesday with ERP demands by publicly denouncing the military regime that ruled Argentina until May 25.

Krogh may withhold grand jury testimony

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former White House aide Egil "Bud" Krogh, who once said he had an "overriding desire" to shoulder responsibility for the Ellsberg burglary, may be having second thoughts, District Attorney Joseph Busch indicated Wednesday.

Busch said there is now some uncertainty over whether Krogh will appear voluntarily before the Watergate West grand jury investigation of the burglary.

The district attorney's office said earlier that Krogh had agreed to testify without a promise of immunity from prosecution.

Krogh said in his letter to President Nixon, resigning from the government, that it was his "overriding desire" to accept full responsibility "for the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. He authorized the burglary 'in excess of instructions and without the knowledge or permission of any superior,'" Krogh said.

Busch said Krogh now "has gotten a new attorney and we are still negotiating with him."

The chief witnesses at Wednesday's session were members of the Watergate team and so-called "plumber's squad" who entered and searched the offices of Howard Hunt, Bernard Barker, Eugenio Martin and Felipe De Diego.

All have been promised immunity in return for their testimony, which led Ellsberg to tell the government after his appearance Tuesday that Busch's purpose is to "get the higher ups" who ordered the break-in.

Hunt, Barker and Martinez were flown here from the federal prison at Danbury, Conn. where they are serving sentences for the Watergate break-in. De Diego, a Miami real estate man, was not involved in that affair and has been promised no charges will be brought for his admission that he took part in the burglary at the psychiatrist's office.

The top of the boom and basket are of fiberglass and the men wear rubber gloves and sleeves. More than 50 area linemen attended the day-long demonstration on safety.

Safety program shown by crews

FILER — A safety program, sponsored by the Idaho Power Co., was conducted at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds Tuesday.

Line crews were from the southern division including Jerome, Gooding, Rupert, Hailey and Twin Falls. One mobile line crew from Boise with its foreman, John Klunkopf, was present.

The safety program was to demonstrate new work methods developed in the electrical industry, according to Al Blair, Boise. The crewmen demonstrated working with hot wires on the food concessions area of the fairgrounds and using wires with 12,500 volts.

The Chance-Pittman Co. supplied equipment which included insulated aerial baskets of fiberglass with the upper part of the boom also made of fiberglass. Workmen used rubber gloves and sleeves. The fiberglass equipment is rated for 20,000 volts, according to Blair, who said new methods make it possible to more safely handle linemen's work.

Three crews in different spots demonstrated different methods to more than 50 linemen who attended the sessions. Specialists on hand included Don Collins, Grandview, Mo., instructor; Melvin Koopman, Boise, training tool specialist for Idaho Power; and Larry Shaver, Boise, district representative from the Chance-Pittman Co.

Rupert Council considers policy

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News Writer

RUPERT — Insurance presentations from three separate companies took up nearly an hour and a half of the Rupert City Council session last night.

The council is considering changing city employe health and accident insurance from the Association of Idaho Cities to another independent company.

The presentations represented Metropolitan Life, Lincoln National Life Insurance, New York Life and Penn Mutual, in addition to a written presentation from Blue Cross of Idaho.

A special insurance committee will study the proposals.

The council set June 26 as the date for a public advisory hearing to review improvements on Eighth and G streets near the courthouse.

The improvements include curbs, widening of the streets and tree removal on Eighth Street between G and H streets and the west side of G Street between Eighth and Ninth streets.

There had been some controversy over the proposal earlier concerning the removal of 11 trees along the streets including nine at the courthouse. The council polled affected residents, however, and reportedly found no substantial opposition.

Estimated costs for the project were presented by City Engineer Ron Klebe. Total cost for the construction, he said, would be about $18,900.

Costs would include a $6,340 fee for the county for improvements on the south side of Eighth Street next to the courthouse; $5,751 for the seven property owners affected by the construction, and about $5,807 to be carried by the city.

The council hopes to contract directly with both the county and the individual property owners for the work to be done. This requires a public hearing. The project will be called a street improvement proposal instead of a local improvement district.

Three members of the Committee to Fight Hunger asked for council support in their efforts to keep the food stamp program in Minidoka County. They asked the council to speak to the county commissioners on the issue because the commissioners are currently considering a change to the food commodities program.

June 23 was set for the annual bicycle safety program sponsored by the Rupert Jaycees and the city recreation department.

PARIS (UPI) — U.S. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said Wednesday that the devaluations of the dollar have placed it in a "fair and sustainable alignment" and that he did not expect the energy crisis to weaken American currency.

In a speech to the American Bankers Association at a time when the dollar is undergoing new assaults on European markets, Shultz said, "The success of our free economy will determine the value of our currency and that is a test we are glad to meet."

He said the need for industrialized countries to import more oil is "no reason for the dollar to depreciate in value in relation to the currencies of Europe or Japan. The United States could well be the winner."

Shultz told the conference, "Our judgment that the recent devaluations of the dollar" have placed our currency in a fair and sustainable alignment is in no way affected by the energy situation."

Referring to the "specter" of persistent pressure on the dollar as a result of increasing oil imports, Shultz said a situation was sometimes forecast in which exchange rates would be aggravated by billions of short-term oil dollars "sloshing about the market" and resulting in monetary instability.

"This specter — while perhaps useful to spur us to action — is not a necessary or even reasonable consequence of the current energy outlook," he said.

Shultz planned to visit a conference of the 24-nation Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) following the bankers' meeting.

Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the U.S. Federal Reserve System, told the session, "There is no more crucial need...than to find more effective methods for dealing with inflation and its causes."

He said, "Governmental power to restrain directly the advance of prices and incomes constitutes a necessary addition to our arsenal of economic stabilization weapons, to be used occasionally, but vigorously, when needed."

Eugene H. Adams, president of the American Bankers Association, said "The dollar is subject to almost daily buffeting" while gold is skyrocketing in price.

"Clearly, the traditional post-war roles of the dollar and gold have been transformed," he said. "We must now seek to redefine their appropriate places in a restructured international payments system."

THE SWENSEN TEA PARTY

— DOWN WITH TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION

We're in worse shape than the New England colonies in the days of King George! We, the majority, elect senators and representatives and send them to Washington to lower spending and hold the line on taxes. They arrive in Washington D.C. and immediately increase spending and taxes... So, who's representing the taxpayer? NOBODY, RIGHT? RIGHT! We don't know who Congressmen are representing, but they're certainly NOT representing taxpayers. In short, taxpayers have no representation, and taxation without representation is still unfair even if the King of England is dead (Long live the King! etc., etc.)

WHAT this country needs is another tea party! So, Swensen's Markets suggest that 5,643 people grab an inexpensive jar of instant tea on sale at (where else) Swensen's Magic Markets this weekend and the next time Congress convenes to raise taxes or spending, all 5,643 stand in the balcony and empty 16,929 ounces of instant tea on the tops of the bald heads & toups of all the senators and representatives who are getting $42,000 (minimum) per year to raise our taxes without our consent.

FTC investigates oil firms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) said today it hopes to have an initial report by the first of July on an investigation of whether the oil industry helped manufacture the "energy crisis."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Interior Committee, had demanded last week that FTC Chairman Lewis A. Engman expedite an inquiry to see if there was a "contrived effort" by the petroleum industry to create gasoline shortages.

Engman replied to Jackson today in a letter: "I have asked the staff to report its findings to me no later than July 1, and the commission will certainly endeavor to provide you with the information which you seek as soon as possible."

The Senate voted 86 to 10 Tuesday to require President Nixon to set up mandatory government fuel allocation regulations and impose them whenever he determined that any energy resource was in short supply. The prime aim is to ease a gas shortage in some areas, especially the Midwest. Jackson said the vote was evidence of "a new mold of urgency" in Congress to do something about the problem.

In a related development, the Justice Department filed suit in U. S. District Court in Washington on behalf of the FTC to prod nine big oil companies to back up their claims that there is a shortage of reserves of natural gas.

The FTC has been trying to discover whether the companies tried to win a price increase by manipulating their reports on how much gas had been discovered.

The Federal Power Commission granted the industry a 73 per cent increase last week in the wellhead price of natural gas.

McCulloch, Hailey agree

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times News Writer

HAILEY — McCulloch Properties Inc. and Hailey officials met informally Tuesday night to review a preliminary draft of a contract between McCulloch and the city.

The contract establishes provisions for the recently annexed 650-acre McCulloch development — which has been named "Woodside" — including road and water provisions and a schedule of payments to the city for sewage treatment plant expansion.

The sessions with the Hailey Planning and Zoning Commission and the Hailey City Council came during a regular commission meeting. Mayor Lawrence Hengle said since the meeting was informal and was called to review and discuss the contract, "nothing was binding" at this time.

Robert P. McCulloch Jr., president of McCulloch properties, said firm lawyers will prepare a final draft of the contract and that it will be forwarded to the city attorney for review.

McCulloch said the contract would be submitted simultaneously with a request for final approval of nine initial plats at the July 9 City Council meeting.

According to Joe Coombs, Trico Development Corp., the engineering and planning firm for the development, the initial plats encompass about the west half of Woodside. The remaining one half of the plats, he said, would be submitted for approval by December so that the development can go on the tax rolls as a platted development by the first of next year.

Engineers said the nine plats consisted of 499 lots or about 7,102 possible "living" units. Included in the lot figure are 30 condominium lots, 26 multiple family, 73 duplex, 303 single family, six commercial and one church.

In response to a question about a possible city referendum vote, calling for de-annexation of the property, McCulloch said — after the meeting, that the firm will "go ahead" with the project. In the event of an adverse decision, he said, "it will be a matter for the courts," to decide, as no precedents exist.

"We have confidence in the project to proceed and take advantage of all the building time this summer," McCulloch said.

The firm president said building is anticipated to begin in July. Construction will follow a schedule of about 45 per cent of the project this year, 45 per cent in 1974 and 10 per cent in 1975.

Woodside expenditures are expected to total about $2.50 million this year, McCulloch said.

Under sewage provisions for the develop, the preliminary contract draft includes the payment of $150,000 on or about seven year payment schedule to the city for expansion of the Hailey sewage treatment plant.

The contract includes an initial $20,000 advance payable when the first plat is recorded.

Coombs said the city would use this advance to conduct engineering and apply for the priority list for grant funds.

Acting City Atty. Steven Clayton questioned, with inflation, whether the payment schedule should be adjusted every year to provide sufficient funds for plant expansion.

Coombs said the payment schedule was based on 50 cents per gallon per day toward plant expansion, presently, he said, Ketchum sewage treatment plant expansion is based on 34 cents per gallon and he said that the $350,000 contribution contained allowance for Hailey's possible receipt of grant funds.

In response to a question by commission member William House on snow removal, McCulloch agreed to retain snow removal responsibilities through the winter following acceptance of a road by the city.

Fire aftermath

A FIRE in Russell's Grocery Store in Rupert Tuesday caused extensive damage. The fire was believed to have been caused by faulty wiring, according to Ray Saras, store owner. Repairs have already begun.

Sweden's monarchy loses all powers

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The few remaining powers of Sweden's monarchy will be abolished under measures approved Wednesday by the Riksdag (parliament).

The new constitutional provisions will not, however, be put into effect while King Gustaf VI Adolf, 90, is alive. They do not formally become law until 1975.

Future monarchs will not preside at the weekly meetings of the State Council — or cabinet — and will not be the supreme commander of the armed forces. They will no longer pick the new premier in a government crisis.

The premier will preside over the cabinet meetings and the speaker of the Riksdag will appoint a new premier if the government resigns.

The next king will be 26-year-old Crown Prince Carl Gustaf.

A bill of rights and a constitutional provision stating that Sweden is a parliamentary democracy where "all power comes from the people" were also approved by the parliament.

With the new provisions on the monarch's status having been discussed for more than 20 years, the final debate was a formal one with Premier Olof Palme and opposition spokesmen paying respects to the virtues of democracy.

The Creek Indian Nation established its western capital at Okmulgee, Okla., in 1867.

Buhl couple marries in Clover ceremony

BUHL. — Miriam Martens and Tom Garrison were married in 8 p.m. rites May 27 at Clover Trinity Lutheran Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Martens and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Garrison, all Buhl.

Rev. T. D. Johnston performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with vases and beauty baskets of white chrysanthemums and blue baby's breath. It was flanked by candelabra with white tapers decorated with white chrysanthemums and blue baby's breath. Aisles were marked with blue pew bows. Matthew Martens, brother of the bride, assisted with the service and preached the wedding message.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie trimmed with scalloped lace featuring long sleeves, an empire-waistline and a lace-trimmed chapel-length train. Her elbow-length veil of bridal illusion was held by a headpiece of lace flowers and bows decorated with seed pearls.

She carried a nosegay of white pompon chrysanthemums, stephanotis with pearl insets and baby's breath accented by blue ribbon streamers. She wore a gold cross pendant, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a handkerchief her mother had carried at her wedding.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Jim Lewis, sister of the bride. Kathy Conner and Priscilla Martens, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids.

Bill Garrison, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Arlyn Moier and Kirk Thomson. Jim Lewis and Tim Martens were candlelighters and ushers.

Mrs. Gary Schroeder was organist and Gale Conner was soloist.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony at the parish hall. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over satin and centered with a three-tiered cake decorated with blue roses, blue and white bells and topped with a silver Christogram. Blue tapers in silver candelabra flanked the cake.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago, while my husband was in the service, a man broke into my apartment and attacked me sexually. He had a knife and I was terrified so I made no effort to stop him.

Now my husband is home. Two weeks ago I received word that they caught the man, and I am subpoenaed to testify. It was dark and the man wore a mask, so I wouldn't recognize him if I saw him. This man assaulted several other women, so I am not the only witness available.

I can't see what possible good my testimony would do. I am a very nervous person and this whole thing has upset me terribly.

My husband knew that a man had broken in, but I didn't tell him any of the details as I didn't want to upset him.

Won't testify

Abby, I don't want my husband in the courtroom, but he insists upon being there. Is there some way I can get out of testifying? It's not just having my husband there, it's having to talk about what happened in front of other people in a courtroom. I'm sorry now, I called the police.

I'm 21, and should probably have a more mature attitude, but I can't help how I feel. Please help me.

—NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: You must appear in court when subpoenaed or you could be cited for contempt of court. You can, however, ask the prosecutor to ask the judge to clear the courtroom while you are testifying. Unless the defendant's attorney objects to this procedure (and he is not likely to object in a sex case) the court will be cleared of everyone except the judge, the lawyers, the witnesses, and the defendant. That should take care of your problem.

DEAR ABBY: When traveling by plane, I invariably get the seat directly in front of a child who repeatedly kicks the seat in front of him. His mother can be sitting right beside him, but she seems unconcerned. Dirty looks don't help.

Should I ask the mother to please tell her child to stop kicking me, or ask the child to please stop it?

—IRKED IN VIRGINIA

DEAR IRKED: Ask the stewardess to handle it and you'll have no kick coming.

DEAR ABBY: You told a mother whose daughters needed to wear bras but refused to "drop the whole thing." Well, if they don't wear bras, that's exactly what will happen. The "whole thing" will drop.

For proof, one need only look at pictures of the women in African tribes who never wore brassieres. The American Medical Society even came out with a statement saying that the ligaments which hold the breasts firm and erect will stretch unless properly supported, and once the breasts sag, the damage is permanent.

I have put that message into verse:

"I think it is scandalous,
That things should be so pendulous.
If a woman's a rag, a hank of hair, and a bone
Let the 'rag' be a by — for better muscle tone."

A Lovelier You

A TRIP, IT'S IN THE BAG

By Mary Sue Miller

As every traveler soon discovers, a travel handbag becomes a home-away-from-home. It follows that one of the best investments a tripper can make is a bag with many uses.

The primary specification for a travel handbag is that it be sufficiently commodious to house your needs in transit and compartmentalized for orderly "kiosk-keeping." Inside pockets to hold such valuables as passport, travelers checks, jewelry and important money should be individually zippered across top or side. The principal closing should be zippered or safely hasped.

Outside pockets prove handy for items like glasses, touch-up cosmetics, reading matter and small change. These little outsiders also keep you from digging into and discombobulating the main section.

Look, come right after layout and you know it. To that end, material and color have eye-appeal. Soft leathers, sturdy canvas and tapestry weaves seem especially appropriate. Color ranges from dark neutrals—navy, brown and black—to splashy brights. White's the biggest, though, and a stunning traveler. It is not as impractical as you may think, when fabrics are treated to resist soil and welcome sponge cleanings.

Last but not least, an adjustable strap is wanted. You may not now be a devotee of shoulder-slung bags. You will be after a day's sightseeing.

Heel warning

SYDNEY (UPI) — The National Roads and Motorists Association (NRMA) has issued a warning to women who drive automobiles while wearing platform shoes.

The Chief Traffic Engineer of the NRMA, Ted Huxtable, said wearing the high-heeled shoes could lead to accidents. "They are the most hazardous fashion since stiletto heels," he said. "The platform shoes, some of which have heels up to six inches high, could easily be caught between the pedals and the floor of car. Suppose a woman has to brake quickly with those heels on—anything could happen. If she misjudges the pedal, they could prove fatal," Huxtable said.

of hearts, run off all his black cards and eventually make his 13th trick with his queen of hearts or one of dummy's small diamonds depending on what pof East, who was dealt five diamonds and the king of hearts, is holding onto at the finish.

The way that doesn't work is for South to play dummy's ace and king of diamonds and then run off his black cards in the same manner. This play would have worked if West held the king of hearts and at least four diamonds.

Which line of play is the better one? The one that works, because it will bring home the contract against five diamonds and the king of hearts in either the East or West hand. The other line can only squeeze West.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One major difference between an expert and an average player is that the expert sees all sorts of possibilities that the average player overlooks.

The average player would look over dummy, see that there was no apparent way to avoid the loss of a heart trick, then he would draw trumps, lead his queen of hearts and hope that West would hold the king and not cover.

The expert would see two legitimate ways to make the grand slam. The way it works this time is for South to play a few rounds of trumps, cash dummy's ace

Grade work starts

TWIN FALLS — The sub-contractors are currently working at the site of the new Perrine Bridge, with preliminary work involving a new grade to the bridge location.

Howard Johnson, district engineer, Department of Highways, Shoshone, said work on the north side of the river involves the grade work for the new bridge location. On the south side, he said, some temporary detour work is being done by widening out the present highway to the west.

Some excavation work is expected to begin later this week for bridge abutments. All work at this time will be at the top of the canyon, Johnson said, with work in the canyon later.

Allied Structural Steel Inc., Hammond, Ind., is the prime contractor for the new bridge project and sub-contractors now at the site include McGregor, Triangle Construction Co., Boise, in charge of the roadway work, and P. J. Construction Co., Denver, Colo., doing bridge abutment excavation.

Approach road

NEW GRADE for the approach road to the Perrine Bridge, which will be built just east of the present structure, is being cut by heavy equipment and blasting. Part of the grade will cut through heavy rock shown above.

Jerome sets zoning meet

JEROME — A public hearing will be held at 10 a.m. June 22 in the Jerome County Courthouse on a proposed zoning change to allow the Chalet amusement park to continue operation north of the Snake River canyon rim.

Claude Bernard, chairman of the Jerome County Planning and Zoning Commission has tentatively approved the requested change to commercial, doesn't mean we will necessarily approve it.

The amusement park, operated by Val Saller, Caldwell, formerly was located on the south side of the bridge in Twin Falls county, but had to re-locate several months ago when the site was needed by the State Highway department in building the approach for the new Perrine memorial bridge.

The State Land Board arranged for Saller, to lease land at the intersection of Highway 93 and Highway 79, without the commissioners' knowledge, Bernard said. The action has drawn considerable protest.

The amusement park had about three acres on the south side location, but now Saller is leasing from 12 to 13 acres. The business includes go-carts, trampolines and miniature golf and Saller, has indicated more expansion is planned if public demands warrant it.

Sellers has been granted a variance and the county zoning group has recommended that the area be changed to commercial zone.

Final action in the matter will be taken by the county commissioners, Bernard said, after the public hearing.

Malta youths hurt in crash

MALTA — Two motorcycles collided 1 mile north of Malta about 6:30 p.m. Tuesday sending three Malta youths to the hospital.

Nick Durfee, 17, and Danny Anderson, 16, were reported in fair condition Wednesday afternoon and Michelle Smith, 15 was listed in good condition following the accident which demolished both motorcycles. Jayne Minneair, 16, was treated and released Tuesday night.

According to sheriff's reports a motorcycle driven by Anderson with Durfee riding as a passenger, made an improper left turn in front of the motorcycle driven by Miss Smith, which was following too closely to stop. Miss Minneair was a passenger on the Smith motorcycle.

Witnesses said the collision was like an explosion spewing motorcycles and passengers into the air, according to sheriff's deputy, Donald Taylor. Taylor said witnesses reported the vehicles were traveling at least 60 miles an hour at the time of the accident.

Neither Anderson nor Durfee were wearing helmets at the time of the accident although the two girls were. It was reported Tuesday that Samuel Dschok, Malta, was also involved in the accident, although he was not. The Times-News regrets the error.

Citations are pending the youths' releases from the hospital.

University staff jobs still remain uncertain

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

MOSCOW — The dean of the University of Idaho's College of Agriculture said Wednesday that certain staff jobs will be retained only if "monies from any source" become available to offset expected revenue losses.

Dr. A. M. Mullins said a possible loss of appropriations, together with planned pay raises, will cause revenue deficits totaling $232,000 and $96,700 in the agricultural research and cooperative extension service programs.

He said college personnel and project cutbacks will be maintained until the revenue shortages are made up.

Mullins announced in April the termination of 10 staff positions in the agricultural research and cooperative extension service programs and elimination of nine research areas affecting 25 individual projects.

Four of the staff positions terminated are in the Twin Falls area. Three of the area men, Gene Reinbold, Dr. John Kolar and Dr. G. P. Carpenter, have appealed their job losses and testified at a University of Idaho board of appeals hearing that ended here Tuesday.

The board chairman said a final decision on the appeals will come within a month.

The Legislature appropriated $2.93 million for agricultural research and $2.42 million for the extension service. The funds amount to a 10 per cent and seven per cent jump, respectively, over current appropriations.

But Mullins said Wednesday that $171,000 of the research monies and $35,000 of the extension service funds will be eliminated because of federal funding cutbacks. The state legislature administers and appropriates federal funding of the college.

"We've been advised by federal agencies that we will not get this money," Mullins said.

Another $61,000 in the research program and about $61,700 in the extension service is needed for salary hikes, according to Mullins. He said payrolls in the College of Agriculture have not been increased in the past to keep up with raises in the other university departments.

Private business has hired many college staffers because of the pay lag, Mullins said.

The college's appropriations provided a three per cent salary raise, but the college officials programmed pay boosts averaging nearly six per cent, he said.

Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, and Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, co-chairmen of the state legislature's Joint Finance Appropriations Committee, have reportedly said there is not a funding crisis in the College of Agriculture.

The state's $5 million contingency fund established by the last legislative session is "for the express purpose of compensating those programs suffering a loss in federal funds."

Although Gov. Cecil Andrus later vetoed the contingency fund, the basic situation is unchanged: i.e., $5 million remains in reserve to make up appropriation deficiencies caused by lost federal funds, the legislators wrote recently.

But Mullins said Wednesday that the college must consider its financial situation based on "action, not intention."

"We can only go on what the Legislature has done and not what they intend to do," according to Mullins.

Dr. John Kolar, Twin Falls, one of the appellants, said Wednesday that testimony in the Moscow hearing centered around whether the college cutbacks are "people" or "program" oriented.

"I think they (college administration) were unable to separate programs from people," he said. "In my case, they cut a program that I'm no longer working on. That was their excuse."

"Three others were cut from programs to which they were devoting less than half of their time."

Magic resort proposal tabled

HALLEY — The Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission has tabled for further study a proposed planned unit development at the north end of Magic Reservoir.

The action came during a commission meeting Tuesday night to which representatives from Valli Vista requested conceptual approval for a conditional use permit for Mountain Shadows Estates, a PUD consisting of 307 proposed units on 640 acres.

Average lot sizes within the development would vary from 10,000 to 12,000 square feet and would be served by individual septic tanks. The proposed development is situated at the point where the Wood River and Rock Creek enter the reservoir.

The commission requested that Valli Vista conduct a thorough study of the proposal with officials from the department of Environmental and Community Services, the State Fish and Game Department, the State Water Administration and the Soil Conservation Service.

The commission requested the county planning and zoning staff to conduct a concurrent study with BLM officials to develop a comprehensive plan for the Magic Reservoir area. Members also discussed possible creation of a recreation zone in the area, changing its present classification from A-3, recreation-agricultural zone.

In other action, the commission:

— Approved a conditional use permit request by C. D. Sluder to locate an asphalt batch plant in the Poverty Flats area, south of Bellevue.

The commission stipulated that the plant would be inspected once a year and that the permit had to be renewed every two years.

— Approved a conditional use permit request by Jack Nopp to locate a trailer during August in Glendale Acres, Girdlet, while he constructs a home. Nopp was requested to resubmit an application for such use from June through August, 1974.

VFW convention opens in Burley

BURLEY — The general session of the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) convention opened this morning with a series of speeches from state officials.

Nearly 500 people attended the session which was the first event of the scheduled three-day 41st annual convention.

A general business meeting is scheduled for the afternoon session. Members will discuss legislation and draft proposals to be presented at the national convention later this year. The business meeting will continue Friday morning.

The VFW auxiliary opened their session this afternoon at 1:30 with a general session. The auxiliary has scheduled a past presidents breakfast for Friday morning.

Tonight both groups will join for a western banquet and dance at the Ramada Inn.

At 11 a.m. today a joint memorial service was scheduled at the Ponderosa Inn convention center.

Nominations for officers will be held Friday afternoon for both the auxiliary and the VFW. Officers will be named Saturday morning.

Andrus ad

County Republican Chairman Kramer said the signs "certainly" look like political signs. "If it's not paid for by state expense then it must be a political sign, and the law requires political advertisements to show who is paying for them," Kramer said.

Kramer said he didn't know who would enforce funding disclosure on the signs other than the Idaho attorney general, "and the attorney general is in the same political boat as the governor."

Kramer said he was "shocked" when he first saw one of the signs on a billboard on Blue Lakes Boulevard North. A representative of the Boise advertising firm of BH & W, which designed the sign, today said their work was paid for by a check from the "Andrus Campaign Trust Account."

According to Cosgriff Outdoor Advertising, Twin Falls, the cost of an unilluminated billboard is about $70 per month, with lower rates in effect when more than one billboard is involved.

The Andrus billboards reportedly were posted throughout the state.

Burley trustee protests election

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — School trustee A. M. (Pat) Kelly said Wednesday he will make public a formal complaint against the recent school trustee election in which he was defeated by write-in candidate Saul Saldana.

The election was canvassed Monday night by the Cassia County school board which declared Saldana the winner in zone 3. Kelly cast the only dissenting vote.

Saldana will be sworn in Monday along with Dan Crane, returning trustee from zone 4.

Kelly said he wanted people to know about the voting irregularities during the zone 3 trustee election on May 21.

He said he had heard many reports and witnessed one incident himself involving Spanish-speaking people instructing voters how to cast a write-in vote for Saldana.

Helen Payne, one of three election officials at the single polling place for zone 3, said "I could see nothing wrong." According to Mrs. Payne, there was one Spanish-speaking lady who asked and was given permission to sit at the election officials' table to help translate voting instructions.

The unidentified lady once went into a voting booth with a man who could not spell.

After the vote was cast, district Business Manager Matt Warr and Supv. Harold Blauer went to the polling place and informed the woman she would have to help the people at a proper distance from the voting booth.

Mrs. Payne said the lady complied the rest of the day. The incident occurred at about 12:30 p.m., a half hour after the polls opened. The polls remained open until 8 p.m.

While canvassing the election returns Monday, that several of the names appeared to be written in the same handwriting. Mrs. Payne said this may be due to the fact that some voters were shown outside the polling place how to write Saldana's name on a piece of paper, which they took with them to the booth and copied.

Saldana said today that Kelly "misunderstood" what was happening at the polls.

"Those people were put there to assist in case of a communication problem," he said.

When he was campaigning, Saldana said, many people requested that someone be at the polls to help them.

Kelly said he was "disappointed" in the reaction of the board to the election hearing reports. The whole board knew there were irregularities, he said, but accepted the results anyway.

They should have taken some kind of action "whether legal or not," Kelly said.

Instructional supervisor Norman Hurst said Wednesday that "All the board could do was make a decision on what the ballot said." Unless some legal body overturns the board's decision, he said, it will stand.

Kelly said a court case would be too costly to pursue but that he planned to release a statement informing people about what happened at the election and his feelings about it.

"These people entrusted $5 million to five men and then didn't come out to vote," Kelly said. After spending so much time without monetary return to help the people and their schools, he said, "The thankless attitude of the people" who don't vote for any candidate "bothers me."

There were 148 votes cast in zone 3 — 14 for Gwendal Cole, 55 for Kelly, 72 for Saldana and 1 spotted ballot.

"The reason I won was due to a lot of hard work. It wasn't handed to me on a silver platter," Saldana said. "Now I'd like to get down to the business of the office the people appointed me to," he said.

Rupert poll favors stamp plan

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News Writer

RUPERT — A poll of nearly all grocers in Rupert shows that nearly 100 per cent were in favor of the food stamp program.

About a dozen members of the Committee to Fight Hunger gave the results of the personal survey at a meeting Wednesday afternoon. Surveys of Burley stores have not yet been completed.

It was reported that only one store, Reed's Market, failed to answer the survey but the rest of the grocers were in favor of the food-stamp program.

The Committee to Fight Hunger is composed of interested citizens in the Mini-Cassia area working to improve conditions of welfare recipients in the area. Currently the group is mounting a campaign to keep the Minidoka County commissioners from switching the county to the food commodities program, which is currently in use in Cassia County.

Members have also been meeting with representatives of local churches and with the Rupert City Council. The response, they said, has been generally favorable.

The committee is planning a special demonstration dinner, made solely from the foods available on the commodities program. They plan to invite county commissioners from both counties, several ministers, welfare officials, local legislators and the press.

Blaine campaign under way to retain principal

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News Writer

KETCHUM — Citizens For Quality Education have initiated a concerted public campaign to retain Sam Hazard as principal of the Ernest Hemingway Elementary School, Ketchum.

According to group chairman, Mary Sidwell, Ketchum, the campaign includes the distribution of a flyer requesting Blaine County citizens to urge the school board trustees to refer the Hazard certification matter to the Idaho Professional Standards Commission.

The group has also formulated a full page advertisement in the local newspaper, containing about 600 names, the advertisement expresses concern over the board's decision not to rehire Hazard for the coming year.

Mrs. Sidwell said the present group action reflects a resolution adopted by the group to enlist community support for Hazard rather than seek legal action.

The resolution states, "This committee in the interest of good faith and public relations goes on record to temporarily restrain itself from soliciting any form of legal remedies apparently available to us, and in lieu of legal action at this time, attempt to make our determination known through somewhat less inflammatory action such as public relations, open letters, public statements on behalf of the committee, comprehensive study and open communication to solicit what we believe will ultimately be an overwhelming support by the citizens of this community and hopefully the elected school board itself."

The flyer calls for the public to immediately contact the local trustees to request reconvening of an Idaho Professional Standards Committee hearing, which had been originally scheduled for May 30. The Citizens For Quality Education maintains the hearing had been cancelled by the board during a special, executive May 23 meeting.

"It is hard for us to understand," Mrs. Sidwell said, "why the board did not take advantage of this opportunity to have the problem resolved once and for all."

If the state committee is reconvened, she said, the Citizens For Quality Education will "abide by their legal ruling" on Hazard's certification program.

Mrs. Sidwell said one of the group's purposes is "to match rumor with fact."

"One of the most recently incriminating rumors," Mrs. Sidwell said, was that Hazard was not enrolled in a graduate program at Northwestern University.

Turning the rumor "erroneous," she said that the Blaine County School Administration Office, Halloy, presently has all correspondence and files on Hazard's program and that any questions regarding the matter may be referred to that office.

Regarding an earlier petition signed by 50 out of the 80 district teachers and staff, backing the board's decision not to hire Hazard, Mrs. Sidwell stated that the arguments presented in the petition "are without foundation in as much as Mr. Hazard is actively pursuing his certification program and will complete it in December of this year."

"For them to imply the Northwestern School of Education does not adhere to a high standard of certification is professionally unworthy and unbecoming," she said.

The Citizens For Quality Education has also, as a group goal, gone on record as recommending to the school board that the new district superintendent they select "must have the best possible educational credentials and ability to establish a very respected educational environment."

Hailey walks placed

HAILEY — A $16,000 sidewalk replacement project is in progress on Hailey's Main Street.

According to City Councilman Neal Nyblad, the project encompasses both sides of Main from Galena to Walnut Streets. It involves replacement of old 12-foot sidewalks with new, nine-foot walks.

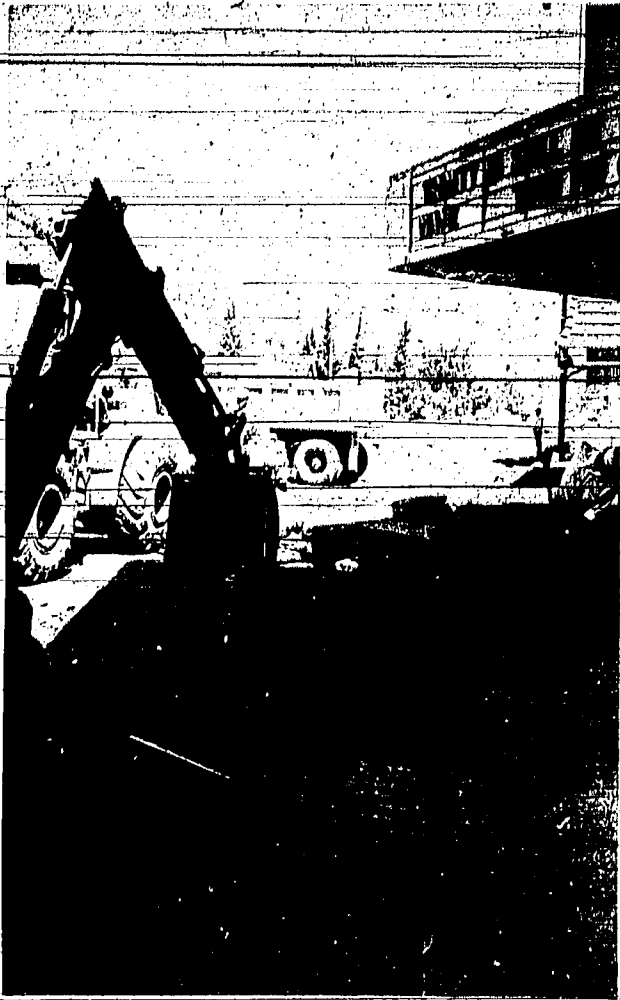

Such a project, he said, has been proposed for several years.

The present project in which the city asked each merchant to sign an agreement with project contractor, Sun Valley Redi-Mix, Hailey, represents a cost savings over an original plan for formation of a Local Improvement District, Nyblad said.

Under an LID, costs would be about $22 a front foot, compared to the present costs to merchants of about $7.60 a front foot, he said.

Nyblad said the Idaho Department of Highways conducted elevation, grade and survey work and will lay asphalt to the new curbline. Sidewalk engineering work was provided by the city.

According to Gary McStay, co-owner of Sun Valley Redi-Mix, the project is expected to be completed in about one week. The contract bid, he said, is being offered at a special price to the merchants.

FILER — Filer High School has received accreditation for the coming school year, Edwin Marshall, principal, announced. It is the third consecutive year the school has been so rated.

In reviewing statistics for schools this size, he said the Filer school is well above average in number of books per pupil and in other areas, while the pupil-teacher ratio is lower than average.

The school likes to maintain this in order to keep better pupil-teacher contact, the principal said.

The only area in which change was suggested was in the school reading center which is too small to accommodate a student body the size of Filer's. However, steps are now being taken to eliminate this problem.

Workers at the high school have begun enlarging the library so it will have a third again as much space as it formerly had. When completed, the library will be one large reading room in the west building at the school. It will include the former rooms which were used as the principal's office.

Marshall now has his office in the rooms which were formerly Supt. Ray Baker's office and Baker has moved to the east end of the building into the rooms which were formerly the teachers' lounge and paper staff office.

The enlarged library will have new lighting installed, acoustical tile put on the ceiling, new paneling on the walls and carpeting on the floor.

Ivan Stone, Twin Falls architect, met Tuesday with school officials to make plans for the new vocational agriculture building which is to be erected south of the high school. The school will soon advertise for bids.

The room in the back of the gymnasium, now used for vocation, will be devoted to wrestling headquarters. A Butler building in the back of the high school will be moved to the Filer Elementary School to be used for storage and a classroom.

Boise River shifts

BOISE (UPI) — The state director of water administration told those attending a stream channel protection regulation hearing Wednesday he hopes there will be a river-wide program for stabilization of the Boise River.

Keith Higginson said his agency recognizes there is a serious problem on the Boise for landowners as well as sportsmen and recreationists.

He said the problem stems in part from the loss of flood flows which at one time helped maintain a wide channel in the river. He said the river channel now is shifting.

Most of the questions about the proposed regulations were technical in nature and Higginson attempted afterward to answer each objection in detail, explaining what his agency had in mind.

TF tax payments due now

TWIN FALLS — Ruth K. Jones, Twin Falls County treasurer, today reminded real property owners only two weeks remain for payment of real property taxes.

Those who have not made their final 1972 tax payments must do so by June 20, she said.

Mrs. Jones said there is $1,832,414.91 due yet on the 1972 county real property tax bill. Of this $600,000 will be paid by utilities located within the county.

The treasurer said payments have been coming slowly to date and her staff anticipates a heavy influx of office and mail payments during the next 10 day period.

She urged taxpayers to call at the county treasurer's office on the second floor of the courthouse and make their payments in person or to mail them to the office.

She said persons paying by mail must make certain the mail is postmarked before midnight June 20 if they are to avoid penalty and interest payments.

Mrs. Jones said her office is open from 8:30 a.m. through 5 p.m. Monday through Friday of each week.

2 calves stolen

TWIN FALLS — Gene Larsen of the Stockgrowers Commission Co., 530 Maxwell Ave., told officers today someone stole two whiteface calves from pens at the company.

He said the two calves, one with a brand and the other unbranded, were taken from a pen on the east side of the company pens. Officers said it appeared someone had backed a vehicle up to a loading chute and departed with the two calves after loading them into the truck.

Nicklaus, Weiskopf, Trevino tune up for Philadelphia test

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and streak-hitting Tom Weiskopf were among the top pros tuning up for next week's U.S. Open by playing in the TVB Philadelphia Golf Classic which opens here Friday.

Nicklaus normally passes up a regular tour stop prior to a major tournament such as the Open, where he is defending champion, but said he wanted to play at the nearby White-Marsh Valley Country Club to get the feel of "northern turf" after so many events in the south.

Weiskopf, who won last week's Kemper Open by shooting a record 17-under par for the event, had a different philosophy about getting ready for the big one at Oakmont Country Club near Pittsburgh next week.

Johncock's winnings placed in escrow

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Indianapolis 500 winner Gordon Johncock agreed Wednesday to place his nearly $90,000 personal winnings in an escrow account while a judge determines whether the money should be involved in pending bankruptcy proceedings.

Johncock, by winning the rain-delayed and rain-shortened race May 30, picked up $236,022 for his Patrick Racing Team, Inc., Indianapolis. His personal share was 38 per cent of the total winnings, or nearly $90,000.

Appearing before federal bankruptcy referee Nicholas W. Sufana Wednesday, Johncock agreed to place the money in escrow until Sufana determines whether the creditors have a claim to the winnings.

The Patrick Racing contract was made with Johncock Racing Enterprises for his services and there is some question as to whether Johncock owns 100 per cent of Johncock Racing Enterprises, Inc.

Johncock filed for bankruptcy Feb. 14 listing $369,511 in debts against $66,000 in assets, the latter including $60,000 for three parcels of land in Michigan and an oil lease, $5,000 for shares of stock in Johncock Racing Enterprises, Inc., here and $1,000 for household furnishings.

His debts include $212,576 in secured loans to four banks in Michigan and one in West

Injuries dampen UCLA's hope for third straight NCAA track crown

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — The 52nd NCAA track and field championship which opens Thursday on the campus of Louisiana State University has suddenly taken on a suspenseful air.

Will the injuries to UCLA high jumper Rick Fletcher and long jumper Harry Freeman ruin the Bruins' chances to win their third straight national track title?

"They might, but the Bruins are still favored to down rivals USC and Oregon and thus make Jim Bush the only living track coach to have captured more than two straight NCAA crowns.

The meet, actually began Tuesday with the decathlon competition, but the bulk of the action does not start until Thursday with qualifying in both field and running events.

Finals will be held Friday and Friday night in the long jump, hammer throw, shot put, 120-yard hurdles, 100-yard dash and the six-mile run.

The rest of the finals will be held Saturday afternoon before a national television audience.

Fletcher, who has jumped 7-2 this year, did not make the trip from Los Angeles because of a pulled stomach muscle and Freeman, who has the fifth best triple jump in the country this year, is doubtful because of a pulled hamstring muscle.

Without those two UCLA will have eight other athletes who won points in last year's meet.

including quarter miler Benny Brown. Brown has run the nation's best time in the 440-yard dash this year — 45.0 — and he is aiming at John Smith's world record of 44.5.

"I have no idea what my potential is," said Brown. "But I would like to be the first man to break 44 seconds."

Brown slipped and fell on his hip during the sprint relay in the Pacific Eight meet last month, but came back later in the day to win the 440-yard dash, finish second in the 220-yard dash and run the anchor leg on the Bruins' winning mile relay team.

"I think a point total in the high 50s will win it," said Bush, whose team captured the title with 82 points last year and 52 the year before. "I think it will be between ourselves, USC and Oregon." He said he expected a good showing from Tennessee and Kansas, but that he did not think either team had the depth to win.

Among the highlights of the meet will be an attempt by Oregon's Steve Prefontaine to win his fourth straight three-mile championship. Prefontaine is one of 11 defending champions returning to the NCAA meet — including Olympic gold medal winners Randy Williams of USC in the long jump and Dave Wottle of Bowling Green in the mile.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in February, 1970, officially became the National Weather Service.

Priddy cited for extortion

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jerry Priddy, former major league baseball player, was released on a $150,000 bond Wednesday after his lawyer said the ex-athlete had no part in a plot to extort a quarter of a million dollars on threat of setting off bombs on a luxury cruise line.

Priddy, 53, was accused of telephoning warnings to the Princess Lines that four timed explosives were aboard the liner Island Princess off the coast of Mexico Tuesday.

The onetime second baseman for four big league baseball teams was arrested by FBI agents Tuesday evening in his offices in suburban Burbank where a "drop" of $250,000 was to be left in a trash can behind the building.

The captain of the cruise ship was alerted to the bomb threat by radio. A search of the vessel turned up "suspicious" packages on the bridge and in the engine room. They were thrown overboard without further examination.

Giants outslug Pittsburgh for seventh in row

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bobby Bonds hit a home run and scored three other runs Wednesday night, and Ed Goodson provided the go-ahead RBI with a sixth-inning single as the San Francisco Giants scored a 9-7 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates for their seventh straight win.

Goodson's third hit of the night in the sixth inning scored Tito Francona whose double had driven home Bonds to tie the game.

Bonds led off the first inning with a solo home run, his 14th of the season, and scored after singles in the second, sixth and seventh innings.

Wild pitches by relievers Jim Rooker and Jim McKee gave the Giants two more runs in the sixth and seventh innings.

BYU's Pihl cops NCAA decathlon

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Raimo Pihl of Brigham Young sprinted down the stretch in the 1,500 meters Wednesday night to narrowly defeat Roger George of Fresno State in the NCAA decathlon competition and set a meet record in the process.

Pihl, the current Western Athletic Conference and Drake Relays champion, went into the final event of the two-day endurance test with a 125-point lead over George, who was in third place.

George, by far the best distance man in the field, easily captured the 1,500 meters in the time of 4:15.1, but he did not beat Pihl badly enough in that event to overtake the new champion.

Pihl dethroned Connecticut's Ron Evans, who battled gamely despite a pulled hamstring muscle he suffered in the first day of competition Tuesday.

Keino beats Ryun in ITA mile feature

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kip Keino, running one of his typical miler races, led almost from start to finish Wednesday night to win the mile in a slow 4:03 as the International Track Association concluded its first season before its largest crowd ever, 15,502, at Madison Square Garden.

Once again it was a case of favored Jim Ryun, the world recordholder, failing in the "big race."

Keino, accused of being out of shape, stopped Ryun's mile victory streak of three straight and easily whipped ex-Kansas State standout Jerome Howe by nearly 30 yards, while Ryun wound up last in the field of four, nearly half a lap behind.

The Kenyan's victory was reminiscent of his triumph over Ryun at the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City when he bolted to the front almost from the very start and never seriously was challenged.

Ryun, bowed lustily when the race ended, went to the microphone at the end of the meet, and apologized to the crowd for his poor showing.

Although Ryun has been one of the world's best milers for nearly a decade, he failed Lee

Evans, on the basis of his victory in 48.8 seconds in the 440, surpassed Warren Edmondson and Brian Oldfield as the tour's leading money winner with a final total of $13,900. Evans picked up an additional $6,000 for winning the Grand Prix in his event.

Oldfield, who had been the leader in earnings all season long, wound up with $10,275, after winning his specialty in the shotput for the 15th time in 16 meets with a toss of 60-7.

The burly Oldfield then came back to whip one of the world's fastest women sprinters, Lacey O'Neal, in a special 40-yard dash.

"I really kind of like having girls chasing me," said Oldfield, who has not lost this year to the women.

Another big disappointment in the meet was the showing of world record holder Bob Seegen in the pole vault. Seegen was edged by using Rudy Williamson on the basis of fewer misses after went 17-3 in the pole vault.

"This is New York and I really wanted to do well here," the disappointed Seegen said. "In the back of my mind, I kept thinking that Steve Smith had jumped 18-1 here but I had trouble with the box. I just couldn't get going."

Other winners included George Young (8:48.4) in the two mile run, Leon Coleman (7:11) in the 60-yard high hurdles, Jean-Louis Rayvelonantson (5:59) in the 60-yard dash and Chris Fisher (2:09.2) in the 1:000.

The modern calendar was established by Pope Gregory XIII on Feb. 24, 1582.

Braves, Yanks swap pitchers

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — George Steinbrenner, chief partner in the group which owns the New York Yankees, said Wednesday that they have acquired pitcher Pat Dobson from the Atlanta Braves in exchange for pitcher Mike Kekich and an undisclosed sum of cash.

Steinbrenner made the statement on the 6 pm news program of WTVT-TV in answer to a question by sports director Sam Eisenman and added, "This is the shot in the arm we need to win."

"We had three pitchers we were trying to get," said Steinbrenner. "And Dobson was No. 1. He is a great control pitcher. We are a one-field team in Yankee Stadium and if the rival hitters want to hit, to left field they can do so all day."

Foyt withdraws

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — A.J. Foyt, twice a winner of the Rex Mays Classic speedway-type auto race, Wednesday withdrew his entry for Sunday's running of the event, hinting he was waiting for the new U.S. Auto Club safety rules to go into effect.

Foyt said he needed the time to prepare his car for the Pacoco 500 mile race July 1. The 150-mile Mays race is the last USAC big car championship race prior to the Pacoco event.

Foyt said he was "running a little behind time" getting ready for Pacoco. "I probably could have had a car ready for Milwaukee, but I just didn't want to take a chance," he said.

Cards win on Simmons' 4 RBIs

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Ted Simmons collected four RBIs with a single, a double and a three-run homer Wednesday night to back Bob Gibson's five-hit pitching and give the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-3 win over the San Diego Padres.

Simmons' first homer of the season, a towering blast over the right field wall, highlighted a five-run fifth-inning Cardinal rally.

Gibson, now 4-0, retired 14 men in a row before Clarence Gaston singled with one out in the seventh.

Fuel shortage menaces W. Texas wheat harvest

BURKBURNETT, Tex. (UPI)—A shortage of gasoline and diesel oil, occurring during the 1973 wheat harvest, Wednesday threatened to leave combines sitting idle in fields that are dotted with wells pumping oil from one of Texas' largest oil strikes.

"We had enough (fuel) to supply custom cutters and farmers this morning," Mrs. Harlan Mullins, an agricultural fuel supplier for the area, said Wednesday. "We will not have any more in the morning."

Custom cutters—people with trucks and combines who harvest grain under contract with growers—are harvesting wheat and barley in the Burkburnett area.

The wheat around Burkburnett is the first in the state to be harvested. Both yield and acreage is about twice what it was last year.

The nation needs grain almost as much as it needs petroleum and gas. A shortage of grain has sent prices up and caused one of the sharpest rises in history in meat prices.

Burkburnett field was one of the big oil strikes years ago in Texas. Most wells now are "strippers"—wells that will not flow of their own accord. So hundreds of pumps clank night and day in the area, lifting the last petroleum from the wells. Five combine men from Kansas and Oklahoma working around Burkburnett told Mrs. Polly Sprutell, the acting head of the Agricultural Conservation and Stabilization Services (ASCS) in the area last Friday they were going home unless they could get gasoline for their trucks and diesel oil for their combines.

The Burkburnett ASCS office turned the problem over to the state office, which referred it directly to the Department of Interior Oil and Gas Office in Washington.

The oil and gas office asked Kerr-McGee Corp. of Oklahoma City to let the Mullins butane and Oil Co. have more gasoline and diesel fuel.

Kerr-McGee is allocating supplies to its dealers because of the energy shortage but promised to do what it could through its distributor in the area.

"This is the first situation in the state where they just ran out of fuel," Grand Harrison, state ASCS director, said at College Station.

"But we have had reports from practically all over the state. Most seem to be dealers cut back to some extent on the amount of diesel they have for the month and afraid they will run out. Most farmers are not on the verge of running out but are not sure they will have diesel oil in two weeks."

Pinto market demand gains

DENVER, Colo.—Pinto dealer markets reflected a good trade demand during the week of May 30, according to the Agricultural Marketing Service.

Bean Market News reports that farmers planting in most areas were not anxious sellers.

Prices in Idaho for pintos went up 25 to 35 cents and sold at 12.75-13.00 with trading volume fair for this time of year.

In Idaho great northers there were few dealer sales, and values were estimated at 18.50-18.75. Grower bids advanced to 16.00 while remaining supplies are dwindling. Most grower sales are negotiated.

The Idaho reds market could not be established, but dealer estimates ranged from 13.50-13.75. Estimates for pinks centered mostly at 13.50.

Bids to grower for pintos advanced 1.00-1.50 in southern Idaho at 10.00-11.00 while bids for great northers advanced 1.00 to 16.00. Grower sales were slow and spotty.

Idaho reds and pinks were bid at mostly 11.00 with some dealers on a negotiated basis.

Dealer selling prices for carlot and trucklot in 100 pound bags U.S. No. 1's cleaned and bagged, FOB specified rate area for the weeks of May 29, 1973, May 22, 1973, and May 30, 1972 are:

Nampa man draws cow theft term

MURPHY, Idaho (UPI)—Robert Sam, 31, Nampa, has been sentenced to six months in the county jail for rustling.

Sam, who pleaded guilty earlier to a charge of theft of livestock, was accused of butchering a hereford heifer belonging to Elias Jaca of Reynolds Creek on May 6.

At first, Sam was given five years in state prison. But this sentence was commuted to six months in the county jail.

Church seeks review

WASHINGTON (UPI) Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, Tuesday asked the Department of Agriculture to review emergency temporary standards being imposed by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration on orchardmen.

In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, the Idaho Senator said OSHA has announced emergency temporary standards for re-entry of workers into field and orchards sprayed with organophosphorus pesticides.

Church said "orchardists in Idaho have expressed to me their deep concern over possible economic burdens that will be placed upon their industry as a result of these standards."

He said no one can dispute "that the worker must be protected against harmful toxic chemicals," but added the issue "is whether hazards exist which justify the imposition of these particular standards."

He also said OSHA appears to have "pre-empted the orderly development of standards as they are now being promulgated by the Environmental Protection Agency," and that orchardists have charged the available scientific data does not justify the emergency nature of the order due to take effect June 18.

Disposing of animals owners' job

BOISE (UPI)—Responsibility for removing dead animals from streams and lakes falls to the counties if the owner cannot be located, an attorney general's opinion says.

The opinion was requested by the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) after differences of opinion were raised in two counties over who actually was responsible.

In a letter notifying county commissioners of their responsibility, Robert P. Olson, DECS's regional environmental programs director, said animal carcasses in streams, lakes and reservoirs are a frequently occurring problem in Idaho.

"Responsible owners remove them and see that they are properly disposed of without creating a health hazard or nuisance," he said. "Unfortunately, many are left or discarded in our waters to avoid the labor and cost of the removal and disposal."

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 8, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning finds you upset about not being able to do perfectly the work you are doing, but persevere. Afternoon and evening, bring to light all kinds of arguments or discussions, with other that you would be wise to avoid by refusing to argue.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Get that dull work done early and be sure to use diplomacy in handling any problem that crops up later in the day. This may be rather a difficult day, but take things in your stride. Avoid an overly talkative person in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Your chance for having recreation does not materialize, so get busy on whatever is important, whether it's a creative or practical nature. Take it easy tonight and renew your energies. Read some.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Look about your home and see what improvements should be made there and get busy on them. Try to keep steady and not lose your temper with others. Go over reports for possible errors.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Work in the outside world can be nerve-racking and it's not much better at home, but keep your cool. Do whatever you can to relieve tensions. Plan tonight for tomorrow's activities so they go smoothly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Give as much attention as you can to some problem you have to solve in the a.m. Later reach a better understanding with a troubled fellow worker. Associates come to your aid financially.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): If you attune yourself better planetarily, you come out of that slough of despondency you have been in for some time, get much done. Make yourself look charming and then ask favors of others. Use tact.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Morning is best time to handle small accumulated tasks and then cut through tensions with others. Plan how to take care of personal matters wisely, as soon as they come up. Do nothing that keeps you from progressing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You are in a bad mood and could take irritation out on a good pal, so avoid this. Solve that problem wisely later on. A new attitude can help you gain that personal aim easily now. Relax tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Career matters should be handled well in a.m. so that you need not worry about them, then investigate some new outlet. Find out what a bigwig wants early, then carry through in a fine manner. Make big headway.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You have fine ideas but it is not the best time to put them in action, so concentrate on other matters and you have time free for them later on. Intuition is not working well. Don't follow it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Either pay or collect some important bill in a.m., then be with an associate to solve some joint problem. A little time away from another partner will relieve tensions easily. Study some tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You understand what an associate has in mind but don't voice that idea as yet until you have studied it further. Handle outside affairs carefully, or there can be real trouble. Think constructively.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: he or she will be one of those delightful young people who can solve problems easily, but teach early to get right at the real issues and the crux of the matter instead of just rushing in pell-mell and working at tangents, otherwise he or she will make a big production of them and not get good results quickly. Give as fine an academic education as you can, since there is much love of study here. Sports are excellent here.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

The sleeping space in a grizzly bear's winter abode is always higher than the tunnelway leading into the thung. Exactly on the Eskimo igloo principle. To trap the warmth. Pretty smart, that bear. Already reported its hideout is invariably on the north side of a big tree or whatever. So winter thaws won't melt it down. Believe I failed to mention, though, that the grizzly won't hole up until some moment when a fairly stiff wind kicks the snow around. To cover its tracks. And to seal off the opening into the den.

Historical footnote here says more men believed they were drowning in physical appearance for Mark Twain than for any other prominent American over.

A man could divorce his wife under old Roman law merely by informing her of his intention in the presence of seven witnesses.

COMMON TRAIT

Only one characteristic is common to all homosexuals. The megalomaniacal notion that some various strain of the condition exists in everybody. Another trait that turns up almost but not quite as frequently in such is the lonely conviction that each of the world's great teachers was similarly impelled. Third most usual whimsy theramongst is the fantasy that art as that cloister's special province. Or so claims one scholarly theorist.

Q. Has anybody ever paddled a rowboat across the Atlantic?

A. Happened once for certain. Couple of Americans named George Harve and Frank Samuelson set out in an 18-foot boat from New York on June 6, 1897, and rowed to offshore islands near Land's End, England, in 55 days. That's 3,075 miles. Almost 56 miles a day.

PIANOS

Never actually saw a piano that can go bang like a cannon, but several such there be. European makers about 150 years ago rigged some of their instruments with tambourines, bells, drums, cymbals, harps and, in particular, special pedals which released the propped-up piano lids on cue. To let them fall with big bang. That's the sort the collectors would now like to get their mitts on, mostly.

Solar-generated energy solution.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The sun's power could be harnessed to provide a practical long-range solution to the energy problem if the federal government would invest up to $800 million, officials of Honeywell Inc. told Congress Tuesday.

Dr. Van Bearinger, Honeywell vice president, said development of solar energy would not have a "major impact" on energy problems within the next 10 to 15 years but it could be developed within that time to the point where it could be considered a practical alternative for supplemental applications.

The said American industry already has the technology to provide solar-generated energy, but "the financial scope of the program is far too large for either industry or the universities to undertake."

Roger Schmidt, Honeywell's program manager, told the House science and astronautics subcommittee that 60 years ago a 50 horsepower engine was powered by solar steam at Meadi, Egypt, on the banks of the Nile River.

"Thus, operation of a solar steam generator does not require scientific breakthroughs nor solutions to complex scientific engineering problems," Schmidt said.

"The engineering problems that do exist arise out of concern for economic feasibility and not out of concern for technological feasibility," he said.

The cost of a solar steam generating plant now would be about double the cost of light-water nuclear plants, he said.
