Supreme Court splits on air pollution rule

(C) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court, in a 4 to 4 vote today, ruled federal environmental statutes bar the deterioration of air quality throughout the nation.
The decision was a major victory for environmentalists and a significant defeat for the Nixon administration. It would prevent the transfer of power plants and other industries from urban to rural areas.
The tie-vote decision upholds the ruling last year of Judge John H. Pratt of U.S. District Court here, who ruled that the Clean Air Act of 1970 required the Environmental Protection Agency to impose a national air quality standard that would ban any "significant deterioration" of present air quality.
While a tie-vote ruling by the justices is not binding on other cases, today's ruling will have a nationwide impact since it involves EPA's jurisdiction over air quality in all 50 states.
The tie came about partly because Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. took no part in the decision. The court issued no opinion in the case, merely noting that the lower court's ruling was "affirmed by an equally divided court."

The Nixon Administration brought the case to the Supreme Court after the U.S. Court of Appeals here upheld Pratt's ruling last November.
EPA would have been forced to impose the "non-degradation" standard for air quality throughout the nation on Dec. 1, but chief justice

Warren E. Burger temporarily blocked the requirement while the government appealed the case.
In its appeal to the justices, the government disputed Pratt's view that the clean air act requires EPA to turn down any state air quality control plans which would permit new air pollution in significant amounts.

$ up, gold down

(UPI) — The price of gold fell by a sharp $1.30 an ounce today, while the dollar staged a modest rally in early trading in London, the only major European market open for business.
On the London gold market, the most important in the world, the metal's price was pegged at $115.50 an ounce in the first of two daily price fixings by major bullion dealers. This compared with the Friday peak of $120.
The dollar changed hands in mid-morning trading at $2.5715 to the pound, up a bit from the Friday closing price of $2.5750.

No arson hint in TF fire

TWIN FALLS — Cause of a fire which damaged Swensen's Magic Market, 628 Main Ave. S., Saturday remained under investigation today.
Fire Capt. F. E. Horejs said no concrete evidence of the cause of the blaze has yet been found. Store owner M. S. Swensen said Saturday he was sure the fire was started by an arsonist, but Capt. Horejs said today the possibility of arson had not been resolved.

Anti-abortion amendment asked

DETROIT (UPI) — Some 800 anti-abortionists from across the United States adopted a resolution Sunday calling for a constitutional amendment to reverse the U.S. Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion.
The action at the close of a three-day convention of the National Right to Life Committee Inc. denounced the court for "irresponsible exercise of raw judicial power."

Black US pianist wins ovation

LENINGRAD (UPI) — Andre Watts, 27, black American pianist, has drawn the kind of applause that once marked Soviet appearances of Van Cliburn.
A standing room only audience of 2,000 gave Watts' Soviet debut with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra Saturday night a 20 minute ovation after six numbers. He received more cheers from some 200 persons outside the hall after the concert.

'Axis Sally' wins college degree

DELAWARE, Ohio (UPI) — Miss Mildred Elizabeth Gillars, 72, known as "Axis Sally" for her anti-American propaganda broadcasts in World War II, was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University Sunday with a degree in speech.
Miss Gillars — whose identity was not known to most persons in the crowd — was convicted of treasons following World War II and served a 12 year prison term. She resumed studies at the school she had attended in 1946 after her prison term.

Spiro attacks Senate hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said today that the Senate's Watergate hearings will only "muddy the waters of justice beyond redemption."
In a speech prepared for a meeting of the National Association of Attorneys General in St. Louis, Agnew said the Senate Watergate committee, headed by Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., would not be able to ferret out the truth because it lacks the "procedural safeguards" under the judicial system.

Panel OK's AF dam bill

WASHINGTON — A bill to authorize replacement of the deteriorating American Falls Dam was approved today by the Senate Water and Power Resources Subcommittee.
The measure, which now goes to the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, would authorize but not fund construction of the $18.5 million project.
After completion, the project is to be turned over to the federal government for operation as a reclamation project.
The Idaho Power Co. will put up $19 million to retire bonds for financing the project. The company's payments will be for water used to turn generators in a power plant it will build as part of the dam project.
Concrete used to build the original dam in 1927 is deteriorating so badly the dam is unsafe. Because of the dam's weakened condition, only 65 per cent of the storage capacity of the reservoir can be used.
John M. Barker, Buhl, president of the American Falls Reservoir District No. 1, was "pleased" today with the subcommittee action. "I feel confident that the bill is basically the one that we're much in favor of," he said.

Growers, Simplot sign '73 contract

BLACKFOOT — A contract dispute between the Potato Growers and the J.R. Simplot Co. has been settled with the signing of a new contract.
Dwayne Skogsberg, chairman of the PGI-Simplot Bargaining Committee, said terms of the new 1973 pre-season, in-weight contract raised the price of U. S. No. ones to $2.45 from the previous Simplot offer of $2.40 while No. twos went from $1.10 to $1.15.
Skogsberg also said the $2 limitation was removed and dirt and bruise clauses reduced from 15 to 11 per cent, with the penalty dropping to one cent from the previous Simplot offer of 1 1/2 cents.
Skogsberg said PGI members who wish Simplot in-weight contracts may call Simplot field personnel concerning acreage.
He said the 1973 out-weight contract with the J.R. Simplot Co. has not been settled and negotiations are pending.

Old 'Oscar' stolen

TWIN FALLS — The first Oscar awarded to Louis B. Mayer purportedly has been stolen from a Twin Falls bus station locker.
Twin Falls police today investigated the reported theft of the Oscar, a suitcase, a briefcase, old post cards of Long Beach, a 1950 issue of Sun Valley Ski Sun Magazine and half fishing pole.
Police said John Helton, Long Beach, Calif., said the famed Academy Award statue, which he valued at $700, were apparently left in an unlocked locker in the Union Bus Depot.
He said his son had put the items in the locker on Thursday but may have left the locker without putting in the coin to secure it.
He said the second half of the fishing pole would not fit in the locker and may have caused the youth to leave without locking it, he said.
Helton said he and his son returned to the depot Friday to pick up the items but could not find a key to the locker. Police later opened the locker but found it empty.

Entry knowledge claimed

(C) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — Former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman knew of in advance — and approved — the September, 1971, burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, according to grand jury testimony of another ex-White House aide, informed sources report.
The testimony was that of David Young, a former member of the special White House group commonly known as "the plumbers," whose leaders have admitted carrying out the burglary.
Young's statements to the grand jury directly contradict those of Ehrlichman, who told the FBI in April that he had learned of the burglary only after it had occurred.
Young, who resigned from the National Security Council staff April 30 in the wake of disclosures about the burglary, was granted immunity from prosecution in mid-May, and appeared before the grand jury shortly thereafter.
He reportedly told the grand jury Ehrlichman knew in advance about a trip which "plumbers" E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy — later to become involved in the Watergate conspiracy — made to Los Angeles around Aug. 25, 1971, to "cuse" the office of Dr. Lewis Fiedling, then the psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers defendant Ellsberg.

Young also said, according to sources, that Ehrlichman knew in advance of the actual break-in, which took place the weekend of Sept. 3-4, 1971, and gave his approval for the operation.
In a statement to the FBI on April 27, made public May 2 by U. S. District Court Judge W. Mark Byrne Jr., Ehrlichman said he had not learned of the burglary until "after it happened."
"He (Ehrlichman) did not agree with this method of investigation," and when he learned about the burglary he instructed them "not to do this again," the FBI report said.
One justice department official who has learned of Young's testimony in the matter described the evidence against Ehrlichman as "strong," but not conclusive.
Young was an aide to Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's adviser on national security, when assigned to the plumbers. There he was generally considered the junior member of the team because of his lack of investigative experience, sources say.
The Watergate prosecution reportedly is hoping that Egl (Bud) Krogh, the former head of the plumbers — officially known as the special investigations unit, according to President Nixon's May statement — will decide to speak freely about the Ellsberg burglary.

Bug probers aim higher

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee hopes this week to begin probing one level higher in the bugging scandal, hearing from more important witnesses who so far have only been quoted by others.
But it still is not clear whether all the witnesses will agree to testify or whether the courts will allow the hearings to continue over nationwide television.
In eight days of hearings so far, the committee has heard 14 witnesses — whose first hand knowledge was mostly limited to operations at lower levels in the Nixon re-election campaign and to details of the Watergate break-in and arrests.
But as to what higher up figures were doing, these witnesses generally could only report things they were told.

In the next round of hearings — Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday — after a bit more low level testimony, the committee hopes to move up one rung on the ladder and to begin receiving testimony from figures such as former commerce secretary and campaign fundraiser Maurice H. Stans, deputy campaign director Job Stuart Magruder and former White House counsel John W. Dean III — probably not all in one week.
There were a number of possible hitches:
On Tuesday morning District Judge John J. Sirica is to rule on a request by Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox that Magruder and Dean be heard in closed session, without live television, so that the publicity would be less likely to prejudice their right to an impartial trial — if they are tried.

Dog climbs trees

SHOSHONE — The cats had better watch out now, for they aren't even safe from dogs up a tree.

At least they aren't around Taffy, a Scottie-Poodle dog belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lewis, Shoshone, because this dog can climb trees every bit as fast as a cat.

Taffy loves to demonstrate her ability and does retrieve her little toy ball when Lewis places it in the tree several feet off the ground. She will sit in position, at attention on the ground below, waiting until Lewis gives the signal, then she scampers up the tree, picks up the ball with her teeth and hurries down again.

This little 3-year old dog shows equal discernment when fetching not only one, but two balls to her master. She always brings the bright colored one back first, then finds the other any place it might be in the yard and returns it to Lewis also.

Able to stand long intervals on her hind legs, the little dog is apt at dance steps, too.

29.4 congressional pay hike anticipated

(C) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — A special federal salary commission reportedly is "thinking in terms" of recommending that the salaries of senators and congressmen be increased to $55,000 a year effective in January.

Comparable salary increases are expected to be recommended for cabinet members and their subordinates, supreme court justices and other federal judges, and other top officials of the three branches of government. Both Capitol Hill and administration sources expect such recommendations to be included in the report of the Commission on Executive, Legislative and Judicial Salaries, which is to be submitted to President Nixon in three weeks.

Members of the commission, headed by a management consultant, Arch A. Patton of Washington and Bermuda refused to comment on the contents of their report, which is currently in a final drafting stage.

A hike in congressional salaries to $55,000 would be a 29.4 per cent increase over the $42,500 members have been paid since a 41 per cent raise in January, 1969.

Under a 1967 law establishing the commission, the president can reduce the recommended salary increases. In 1968, the first such commission recommended congressional salaries of $50,000. But President Johnson cut that back to $42,500.

The president submits the salary recommendations when he presents his budget to Capitol Hill in January. The proposals would take effect within 30 days unless either House or Congress adopted a resolution disapproving all or any of them.

The commission is supposed to be named every four years, but the current one is a year behind because of delays in appointment of its members by the president and the top officers of the Supreme Court, Senate and House.

This situation will give congress a political dilemma in January, since it will be confronted with what will probably be a recommendation for a sizable salary increase in a congressional election year.

In 1969, when the salary of congressmen was increased from $30,000 to $42,500, the House leadership refused to allow a vote on a motion to disapprove the boost offered by Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa. Therefore, the increase took effect without a single member being required to go on record as to how he felt about it.

Broadcast media asks new status

(C) New York Times
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Television and radio stations should be freed immediately from all government control over the content of their broadcasts, including requirements for political balance and fairness on issues, a conference of lawyers and journalists proposed yesterday.

The effect of the recommendation, by a two-day meeting sponsored by the Roscoe Pound-American Trial Lawyers Foundation, would be to put the broadcast media on exactly the same status as newspapers and magazine: free to report news, editorialize, accept advertising and provide entertainment without any limits except those involving libel and obscenity.

If these proposals were adopted by Congress or the Federal Communications Commission, they would end the "equal time" requirement involving all candidates for political office and the "fairness doctrine" that currently requires stations to reflect both sides of controversial issues.

The recommendations were made by the Annual Earl Warren Conference after two days of debate among 60 newspaper and broadcast reporters and executives, professors of law and journalism and legal authorities in the press freedom area.

The conference also supported granting to newsmen, scholars and researchers an almost unqualified privilege to refuse to reveal to law enforcement officials information they obtained in confidence.

The only exception that the conference approved to such a broad newsmen's shield would require a reporter to testify as to information received confidentially if it was "critically important" to the defense of someone accused of a crime and not otherwise available.

There was considerable more support for "deregulating" the nation's 8,000 radio stations than for television, on the general theory that they have less impact and are so numerous that diversity of opinion in broadcasting in any market is all but assured.

The proposal to remove the 1,700 television stations from any federal supervision of their programming was approved by a much narrower margin. A suggestion that the FCC experiment first with deregulating television in one or more markets received almost unanimous backing from the conference.

Cost of money still below peak

(C) New York Times
NEW YORK — The cost of money has still not reached its peak despite early signs that the current economic boom may be on the wane.

This assessment, widely held by analysts of the capital markets, prevails even if it is assumed as virtually all commentators do that some rather vigorous action to tighten controls will be announced shortly.

The question now is not whether the administration will lighten direct controls to curb inflation, but only how much and when, declared the research department of Blyth Eastman Dillon & Co., Inc., in its weekly letter written late last week for publication Monday morning.

"The totally terrible wholesale price statistics just reported (up 2.1 per cent) for May clinches the matter," the firm said.

Late Friday afternoon the Federal Reserve displayed its resolve to curb borrowing that would prolong the very rapid, and clearly unsustainable, business expansion.

It raised the discount rate, which recently has moved in 1/2-point increments, by 2 points to 6 1/2 per cent, the highest level since 1921. The Central Bank cited high rates of growth in bank credit and the "continuing rise in the general price level."

This action came too late to produce lower prices for corporate and treasury bonds but a few portfolio managers tossed some tax-exempt issues onto the market and blunted what had been a vigorous advance in that sector.

Just before the discount rate increase was announced for 10 regional banks, effective Monday, the reporting on governments advisory service contemplated what might be done.

It noted that since many banks have been making frequent trips to borrow at the discount window the reserve could fully justify turning away future requests.

The service then added that to take the further step of raising the rate to the highest point in more than half a century would represent on the reserve's part a "decision to give the world a dramatic signal of a further tightening in monetary policy."

Although the bond markets rallied vigorously for most of last week due to the expectation that controls would be tightened, interest rates in the money market, on the other hand, continued to climb — this prospect was seen as not ending the general move to higher rate levels.

Bright, distant quasar found

(C) New York Times
NEW YORK — An object has been discovered that if it is as distant as it seems, is ten thousand times brighter than all the billions of stars in the Milky Way combined.

It has been identified as a quasar that is 10 billion light years away according to the conventional yardstick of astronomers. Thus, like a quasar whose discovery was reported in April, it is viewed by some as lying on the "edge" of the observable universe.

It is, in fact, slightly further away than that earlier discovery. A third almost equally distant quasar has reportedly been found by an Ohio group. The "edge" of the universe would represent the first accumulations of matter in an evolving cosmos.

Such objects would be seen by looking at great "distances" through space, and hence into the past. It has been suggested that quasars may be galaxies, like the Milky Way, at a very early stage of formation.

One of the striking features of the newly found quasar, as noted in recent days by its two chief discoverers, is its seeming intrinsic brightness. Also, it gives evidence for existence of elements as heavy as carbon and possibly silicon.

According to the most widely accepted theory, the universe was born explosively and initially was a rapidly expanding cloud of hydrogen and helium. The heavier elements were then synthesized within stars or in the stellar explosions marking the death of a star.

Publisher plans to battle IRS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A newspaper publisher planned to start a legal fight today to prevent the Internal Revenue Service from seizing the newspaper's files on Howard Hughes.

The files reportedly contain information on the mysterious billionaire's political contributions, and what he hoped to gain in exchange.

The attempt to take possession of the files at the Las Vegas Sun revealed the existence of an investigation of Hughes by the IRS Special Task Force.

The special force usually concerns itself with criminal investigations. Hank Greenspan, publisher of the Sun, said Sunday he would take the IRS move to the Supreme Court if necessary.

Greenspan said two agents of the task force asked him May 23 to turn over the newspaper's files on Hughes, and when he refused they subpoenaed the documents, ordering him to appear with them Tuesday.

The subpoena was served the day after a Special Senate committee investigating the Watergate scandal was told of a plot to break into Greenspan's safe.

Ehrlichman, The Espionage Career

WASHINGTON — John D. Ehrlichman, one of the most powerful men in America until his resignation from the White House staff April 30, began his political career in 1960 as a political espionage agent for Richard M. Nixon spying on Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and the Democratic national convention. As an unknown 35-year-old zoning lawyer from Seattle, Ehrlichman was officially listed as a Nixon advance man in 1960 working under his close friend and former UCLA classmate, chief advance man H. R. (Bob) Haldeman. In fact, he was an undercover agent stalking Rockefeller's abortive campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. Later he was assigned as a secret observer to the 1960 Democratic convention in Los Angeles that nominated John F. Kennedy.

is welcome; but elimination of network public affairs programs on public stations would be to severely cripple public television. That would leave all network public affairs to commercial stations, thus restricting public opportunity to hear the widest range of news and comment. The national public network has carried some of the most important public affairs programs. For example, it made possible the continuous, uninterrupted coverage of the Watergate hearings and plans to do so again when they resume.

for becoming President is being able to bomb targets at will without consulting Congress. It is probably the greatest fringe benefit the American people can offer the holder of the most important position in this land.

That situation, plus a difficulty in getting freight cars, has suddenly developed into a problem for the farmers — fertilizer shortage which had local producers putting their customers on allocations. Local plants are already on a 24-hour day, so they can't do much better, unless they expand.

This has worked very well and the United States has dropped more bombs on Indochina than it did during World Wars I, II, III, IV and V. Not only was Congress wrong in refusing to vote the funds for the future bombing of Cambodia but it couldn't have picked a more inopportune time to have done it.

Blaine furor aired

Editor's note: The furor continues unabated in Blaine County over the dismissal of Ernest Hemingway School Principal Sam Hazard for lack of certification. Hazard supporters, including a majority of teachers at his school, have vigorously protested his dismissal. On the other hand there are many supporters of the school board, including most of the rest of the district's teachers.

A pro-Hazard position is expressed in the following article by Jack Hemingway, the son of the school's namesake. It was first printed in the Sawtooth Mountain Star and reprinted here with the author's permission. The rebuttal is in the form of a letter to the editor of the Times-News from a group of teachers who disagree with Hemingway.

Teachers state disagreement

editor, Times-News:
RE: Mr. Hemingway's article.
Let's stop dealing with generalities and opinions! Mr. Hemingway's "Just Our Opinion" is in fact just that — an opinion! What gives Mr. Hemingway the only option to being right? We feel that Mr. Hemingway needs to come out from under the "Smoke" he talks about, to see the facts as they really are. We, as CERTIFIED and QUALIFIED EDUCATORS, are also citizens and parents interested in the "Quality" of Education. We feel there has been excellent caliber and high quality education in Blaine County for many years — long before the self-labeled "Progressive Educators" came to our country. Progressive Education is NOT restricted to the private institutions.

We wish to refute Mr. Hemingway's OPINION that the children at Hemingway School "are obtaining an education that has no parallel in our school system." One can only wish for more SPECIFIC information here.

An unexplained comparison seems to suggest that no other school in the district is doing anything innovative or progressive. For example, "much credit has been given to Mr. Hazard for his individualized programs in Math and English. For your more factual information, Grades 3, 4, and 5 at Bellevue Elementary School, under Mr. Claude Ballard, have been utilizing an individualized math program this past year. Next year that program will be extended into the Wood River Junior High School. Contrary to rumors, these individualized programs were not pioneered by Mr. Hazard or anyone else at Hemingway School. These programs were borrowed from the Snake River School District where they were developed under a Federal Grant. Implementation depends upon the administration. If we are applauding progressiveness, maybe Mr. Ballard has been unjustly ignored in this respect.

Maybe others have gone unnoticed also. Literature classes taught by Mrs. Eddy and Mrs. Sutcliff at Wood River Jr. High have been individualized this past year. (Applause for Mr. Homer.) Wood River High School has offered independent study honor courses in German, Spanish, French and English this past year. Major innovations have been formulated in scheduling of the Board accepted Mallory's resignation with regret and expressed their appreciation for his years of service to the school district. Moments later Mallory's replacement was seated on the Board. Hunt presented a petition signed by 10 residents of Zone 3 nominating Dr. Richards, Hailey dentist, to fill Mallory's term. Richards, who was seated in the audience, acknowledged that he had been contacted and had accepted the nomination. With NO other nominations, and a favorable vote by (ALL) the Trustees, including Mr. Leif Odmark, Dr. Richards was seated with the Board. (To be more explicit, Mr. Hunt asked the rest of the members of the Board if there were any other nominations to be presented for this position; there were none, then Mr. Hunt addressed Mr. Jefferson to inquire if there were any other petitions that had been submitted through the Superintendent's Office and he replied there weren't. Then the vote was taken that resulted in Dr. Richards being seated.)

It seems to us that if Dr. Richards would have voted to contract Hazard for the 1973-1974 school year, his being seated would never have been questioned. Another fact, Mr. Hemingway, when Mr. Mallory resigned it did not give him the right to dictate who would fill the vacated seat. This is only the right of the remainder of the Board and the people of that Zone.

By the way, we wonder if the people of Ketchum are all aware that their total population is now listed as 250? Those present at the May 16th "meeting" represented only a small portion of Ketchum citizenry, a still smaller portion of the entire Blaine County School District and further, not all of those present supported Mr. Hazard and his position!

We question and continue to question Mr. Hazard's method of obtaining certification. Mr. Hazard broke the contract formulated on his behalf between the State Board of Education, Idaho State University, the Blaine County School Board and himself.

Incidentally, that contract was of his own making. It was further learned as the result of a phone call on May 17th made by several teachers to Dean Baker, Head of the Graduate School, that Mr. Hazard's acceptance into the graduate program at Northwestern University and the program itself were never approved by Northwestern's Graduate School. At that time, Dean Baker quoted the requirements for a Master's Degree at Northwestern. They include:

1. A minimum of twenty-four weeks on campus and for most courses, 30 weeks.
 2. Absolutely no credit for correspondence or independent study.
 3. No transfer credit! ("Half a Masters" under those conditions wouldn't mean a thing then, would it?)
- Dean Baker also stated that such a program "had been discussed in terms of an experimental or pilot program but had not been approved by the Graduate School." The fact remains that Mr. Hazard is not certified. We know of no other profession that would allow an uncertified or unlicensed individual to practice that profession.
- By the way, where is the "Great" subject of controversy, meaning Mr. Hazard? The other principals have been finishing out their contracts for the school year. We understand that Mr. Hazard left for Spain on Thursday, May 31st.

Hemingway states view

By JACK HEMINGWAY
Perhaps it will be no surprise to you that stupidly has triumphed again, temporarily at least.

After all, the headlines are composed of 90 per cent news of the Watergate scandal, and we have our own Watergate right here, with the illegal meeting of the Blaine County Board of School Trustees May 23. It was an ego battle.

Why do I say that "the meeting was illegal"? It's very simple. School boards may not take votes during closed meetings. It's all on the record. The meeting was taped by the secretary of the board. Of course, I wouldn't be surprised to find that the tape was unavailable or had been destroyed.

In any case, the board had implied at the public meeting at the Hemingway School that its objection to the principal, Sam Hazard, was strictly on grounds that he had not set about meeting the required program set for him by the State Board of Education.

Before the closed meeting Wednesday night, the 23rd of May, Sam Hazard was told by the board chairman, Ronda Hunt, that he would like to have a nice quiet meeting because he felt that everyone involved would like to find a nice calm solution to the problem posed by the fact that the parents and teachers of Hemingway School were nearly unanimous in their support of Sam Hazard. When Sam asked if he might bring legal counsel with him to the meeting, Mr. Hunt said that he would prefer that he didn't, since it seemed likely that the meeting would resolve the problems without any legal complications. He did say that the board would keep their attorney on call and that Sam could have his on call should he be needed. As a matter of interest, the board's attorney is the partner of the husband of Jane Kneeland, one of the outgoing members of the board.

Now the board was ready to commit its "heavily" deed. Following a motion by Jane Kneeland, the board decided to not rehire Hazard and to send a letter to Mr. Dorsey Riggs and to this effect, the letter dated May 25th attempts to make things legal by referring to the vote at the meeting of May 14th rather than the illegal vote of the meeting of the 23rd.

It should be pointed out that the May 14th meeting was the railroad job which led to the public meeting at Hemingway School of May 16th. It is patently obvious that they took upon themselves the prerogative to decide as to Sam Hazard's qualifications and whether he had in fact complied with the proposed program he had approved by the State Board of Education. They did not in fact have the right to exercise this prerogative.

They had been presented that very evening with a letter from the office of the Attorney General to the effect that they only had the prerogative of deciding not to hire Sam Hazard because they didn't want him as principal.

The "issue" of whether or not he was "legal" was left entirely to the State Professional Standards Committee. Not only did they act illegally in this context, but they did also in another. The meeting being closed, they did not have the right to take a legal vote on the matter.

The idea of referring to their meeting of the 14th of May in no way relieved them of culpability since they did in fact vote and reach their decision illegally at the closed meeting.

It was a meeting attended by lame duck members Kneeland and Stelma, chairman Hunt, possibly illegally-appointed member Richards and member Leif Odmark (the only one to vote may be the dastardly motion). Also present were as yet unseated members Patterson and Moore.

Since the letter from the Attorney General's office made it evidently clear that the board could no longer get rid of Hazard on the basis of his not having fulfilled his agreement with the board of education, the Blaine County board chose to use the following as their basis to fire him. Apparently the board felt that the letter received regarding the Northwestern program set up for Hazard, was fraudulent, and had only been obtained by money and power. It should be noted here that Sam Hazard is neither rich nor powerful and that his principle asset is his ability to achieve response from children to such a great extent that even their parents know that their children are obtaining an education that has no parallel in our school system. This is why over 250 of them turned out in support of Sam Hazard when it was heard that the school board was out to fire him.

Yet another facet of this weird situation is that the board did not give him notice as required by law. Its representative, former principal and acting superintendent, Ray Jefferson, did in fact send a letter dated 3 April to the State Board which was interpreted by the best legal minds in the Attorney General's office as indicating the trustees' interest in the continued employment of Hazard. This put the board in the position of shunting off onto the state the job of judging the status of "Hazard's" accreditation and then going ahead and trying to use their own judgement of this matter to fire him without having given him the privileges to which anyone is entitled under the law and in an illegal meeting at that!

The parents of children attending Hemingway School will not be satisfied with this type of action and will insist one way or another that their principal be given his due right under the law.

Only if it can be proved that Hazard has not in fact lived up to his agreement to complete the program set out for him by the top education authorities of the state will the parents concede that he should not be the principal of their school.

The proper authority to decide this issue is the state educational standards commission. It was slated to meet on Wednesday the 30th of May and would have decided this question once and for all if the Blaine County School Board had not decided to write a letter to them requesting that they not consider the matter, since they had voted not to rehire him.

If Sam Hazard does not receive the hearing he is due, it would appear likely that the voters of Blaine County will have to subject the members of the board who have acted illegally to legal action in court to nullify their unrepresentative actions.

The appointment of Dr. Richards will be challenged since it appears to have been far from ethical. Bill Mallory resigned with the understanding that he would be able to propose two candidates to replace him. The board ignored his recommendations. All we can say is that this board should not be able to override legal and honest desires of the parents of children attending Hemingway School.

If the school board is so convinced that Hazard's program at Northwestern is not on the up-and-up, why is it so frightened of allowing the properly constituted state professional authorities to decide this issue? Also, why have two lame duck members been so determined to have their way in this matter before going out of office?

The public meeting of May 16th amply demonstrated the wishes and feelings of the community in which Hazard serves. Is this Democracy in action?

Disposal problems choking US cities

By New York Times Service

WASHINGTON—America's cities are smothering in garbage and nearly half of them will run out of places to dump their trash within five years, a major study has found.

According to the study, entitled "Cities and the Nation's Disposal Crisis" by the National League of Cities and the United States Conference of Mayors, federal action is urgently needed to avoid strangulation of cities on their own solid wastes.

Cities, the study finds, are annually accumulating a trash heap of 250 million tons; 28 billion bottles; 48 billion cans; four million tons of plastic; 30 million tons of paper; 100 million tires; and other three million junk cars.

"And," warns Mayor John G. Hutchinson of Charleston, W. Va., who directed the three-month study, "what we are throwing away doesn't really go away at all. It has to be put some place."

Cities are concerned because the wastefulness of Americans is reaching crisis proportions. While the amount of solid waste discarded by the population has doubled in the last 50 years, it has doubled in the cities in the last 20 years.

The future looks even bleaker, mainly because of the fascination with packaging, which the study predicts will have increased 63 per cent between 1958 and 1976. Ninety per cent of all packaging is tossed on the trash heap.

While mayors and city managers dealing with the problem insist they do not oppose environmental protection laws passed in recent years, they point out in the study that these laws have intensified the problem of disposal.

Middle East review set to resume

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Security Council resumed its review of the Middle East crisis today, preoccupied by the forthcoming talks on the subject between President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev.

Nixon and his Soviet visitor will start their talks in Washington next week and some United Nations diplomats said they thought those talks might hold the real key to resolving the Middle East dispute.

In fact, diplomats said, the Security Council is likely to adjourn its own review of the Middle East until after Nixon and Brezhnev finish their talks in order to see what develops in Washington.

U.S. ambassador John Scali said Friday that peace in the Middle East depends partly on cooperation between Washington and Moscow, but he also stressed the importance of the United Nations in any settlement.

This council session, which opened June 6, has not produced even a suggestion of a possible new approach to the Middle East crisis although nearly all of the speakers warned that council inactivity could touch off new hostilities.

Foreign Minister Mohamed Hassam el-Zayyat of Egypt, whose government requested the council review, said in his opening speech that Israel first must withdraw from all Arab territories it occupied in the 1967 war before any settlement is possible.

Ambassador Yasser Tekouf of Israel said his government would negotiate directly with the Arabs without preconditions. But he also said Israel would not agree to turn over occupied land beforehand.

Those two viewpoints remain unchanged from previous years.

Kenneth D. Jamieson, the British deputy permanent representative to the world organization, was scheduled to speak today, the first member of the big five to do so.

French ambassador Louis de Guiringaud was expected to speak Tuesday and Chinese ambassador Huang Hua possibly on Wednesday.

2 men recalled for testimony

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two Navy enlisted men were recalled to testify today at the court-martial of Fireman Patrick D. Chenoweth, 22, Payalup, Wash., charged with sabotaging the carrier Ranger.

The court-martial panel itself recalled Firemen Ronald Sunyak and Ross Bailey who had told the board that Chenoweth admitted to them that he threw a paint scraper and some bolts into the vessel's engine.

The incident occurred July 1, 1972, while the Ranger was at the Alameda, Calif., Naval Air Station. The damage was so severe that the carrier's return to Vietnam waters was delayed four months. The Navy said it cost $900,000 to repair the damage.

FBI investigates California 'bug'

NEW YORK — The Federal Bureau of Investigation and the district attorney's office in San Diego County in California are investigating charges that a top assistant to Rep. Sam Steiger, Rep.-Ariz., planted an illegal listening device in a wall of a San Diego hotel as part of an investigation being conducted by the House Select Committee on Crime, of which Steiger is a member.

Neither the district attorney's office nor the FBI would comment on the investigations, but sources with first-hand knowledge of the matter told the New York Times of the investigations.

Mike A. Jarvis, the administrative assistant who runs Steiger's office in Phoenix, Ariz., has confirmed reports that he placed a microphone in a San Diego hotel wall two years ago in an attempt to record surreptitiously a conversation between two other persons.

Steiger said that he "may have known about the plan to plant the mike" before it was installed, and that he was certain his assistant told him what he had done after the device was planted. He insisted that the action was legitimate and warranted because of the nature of the investigation.

The device was installed in pursuit of information about the Enterprise Corp., of Buffalo, N.Y., the nation's largest sports-concessions company, which has been accused by Steiger of having close ties to organized crime. The house committee held hearings on enterprise during May, June and July of last year. The committee is scheduled to vote Monday on its final report.

Sources close to the case said that there was a clear violation of California law, which prohibits the interception of oral communications without the consent of all parties, except under specified conditions. Depending on the extent of his foreknowledge, these sources said, any

Soviet, Nixon meet attacked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's meeting next week with President Nixon has come under attack by a senator citing Watergate and by some Jewish organizations citing the Soviet Union's emigration policies.

Other Jewish groups, citing the President's desire to give Brezhnev as polite a welcome as Nixon got in Russia last year, were cautioning against a series of demonstrations planned for the period Brezhnev's trip.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., urged in a copyrighted interview with U.S. News and World Report, published Sunday, that the Nixon-Brezhnev summit meeting be postponed because of Watergate.

"I believe that it's a very, very poor time for the President to be meeting with Mr. Brezhnev," Sen. Jackson said. "I think the meeting should be postponed, not canceled, but postponed."

"This is a risky time for him to be bargaining with the head of an extremely powerful country. Mr. Brezhnev will be coming here right in the fury of the Watergate hearings on Capitol Hill. Surely Mr. Brezhnev is not so high-principled that he's going to forego the temptation to take advantage of that situation."

Demonstrations were being planned in Washington, New York and near Nixon's home in San Clemente, Calif., to protest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress will be asked soon to approve creation of a new cabinet-level Department of Energy and Natural Resources, according to Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton.

The main role of the new department, according to Morton, would be to consolidate government efforts to meet the energy crisis.

Appearing on the CBS-TV program "Face the Nation" Sunday, Morton said an "energy czar" also would be necessary at a policy-making level in the White House.

Morton said the proposed new department would include virtually all of the present Interior Department, along with the U.S. Forest Service, now in the Agriculture Department; the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration, now in the Commerce Department, and certain planning functions from the Army Corps of Engineers.

Morton, who said he would like to head the new department, expressed optimism that the proposal would gain congressional approval.

"I've talked to many leaders in the Congress that are involved in this... and there is a general feeling in the Congress, I think, that the reorganization... would be beneficial and helpful," he said.

On other subjects, Morton played down the seriousness of the current gasoline shortage.

"Actually the shortage is so small, such a small piece of the action, that a 2 per cent change in the demand would change the whole picture," he said.

"I think we're making a mountain out of a molehill."

He speculated that the government would not hike the gasoline tax, but predicted gasoline prices "are going to go up for the next four or five years."

"It was a buyer's market," he said. "It now is a seller's market."

In a related development, Alex Radin, general manager of the American Public Power Association (APPA) said a number of major municipally-owned electric utilities anticipated brownouts in the near future because they cannot get enough fuel at a reasonable price.

Radin asked the government's oil policy hearing committee to give electric utilities "the highest priority" in the government fuel allocation program. The APPA claims to represent 1,400 electric utilities in 48 states.

The oil policy committee begins hearings today on the voluntary fuel allocation program, which went into effect May 21.

Unions agree to avert strike

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Representatives of four unions reluctantly agreed to avert a strike by 68,000 workers scheduled for midnight Sunday and to keep negotiating on a day-to-day basis with Westinghouse Electric Corp.

The agreement came at the request of Robert Donahoe, regional director of the Federal and Conciliation Service, who entered the talks Saturday.

The mediator said talks will resume Tuesday.

Paul Jennings, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers said his union was "reluctant to extend" but added there were some improvements in the talks.

Nicholas Tomasatte of the United Electrical Workers said his union "will make ourselves available to resolve the differences."

Other unions agreeing to the extension were the Federation of Independent Westinghouse Salaried Employees and the United Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW).

The latest Westinghouse wage package offers a maximum 88 cents hourly increase over a three-year period.

Utah became a territory Sept. 9, 1850, and a state Jan. 4, 1896.

Arab oil crisis

N.Y. Times Service
 WASHINGTON — Will the inevitable pileup of large sums of money in a handful of small Arab oil-producing countries mean "continuous monetary crises" or "a highly advantageous mutual bargain" with the industrial countries?

The first phase, descriptive of a widespread fear in financial circles here and abroad, comes from a booklet of briefing material prepared for the recent hearings of the Subcommittee on International Finance and Resources of the Senate Finance Committee.

The second comes from a speech in Paris last week by Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz on the monetary aspects of the energy problem, which was somewhat overlooked in the flood of other events.

Shultz spelled out in detail for the first time the government's case for its view that the "Arab oil money" problem is probably being exaggerated, and it is a case worth reporting.

The case was also presented, with somewhat less detail, at the Senate subcommittee hearings by Jack L. Bennett, deputy undersecretary of the Treasury for Monetary Affairs. Although Shultz did not put the matter in precisely these terms, a key aspect of the case, surprisingly, is that $100 billion dollars is not really all that much money.

The figure, derived from a recent foreign affairs article by James E. Akins, the State Department's leading expert on Arab oil, is an estimate of the possible maximum of monetary reserves by 1980 of the four Arab producing states Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Abu Dhabi and Qatar.

US China trade moves on

N.Y. Times Service
 NEW YORK — China's trade with the United States is now moving into a new stage, less euphoric than the first, but one that promises tough negotiating and substantial American sales.

At the same time, the future of American imports from China remains uncertain. China's economic development policy now clearly provides for substantially increased foreign trade, which in turn raises some political and ideological questions for China's leaders. A sign of Peking's growing interest in importing technology from the United States was the number of American corporations represented by their own personnel at the most recent Canton fair.

These included United States Steel, Borg-Warner, Rockwell International, McDonnell Douglas, Baker Oil Tools and Continental Oil. Monsanto and Dow delegations have also visited Peking and other Americans are expected to follow.

Linked with this development is Peking's greater interest in financing purchases of western capital goods, not only out of current earnings but by the use of credit. China's foreign trade minister, Pan Hsiang-Kuo, stated in London earlier this year that China was now willing to purchase on credit and credit terms have reportedly been used in transactions with Japan.

New FBI chief's selection precipitates inquiry

By JACK C. LANDAU, Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — The nomination of a new FBI director may precipitate the first public governmental inquiry into the activities and policies of the agency in 48 years.

Despite increasing criticism of the FBI, especially in the last few years, the late J. Edgar Hoover was so powerful that presidents, attorneys general and Congress were unable to obtain sufficient factual information to make any meaningful analysis of the 20,000-person agency.

One reason Hoover was able to insulate the FBI from public accountability was that it was, in many ways, a model investigative agency.

Corruption was virtually unknown and was penalized severely, if quietly. Loyalty was legendary. Training, while open to some criticism, was substantially better than in any major police department in the nation.

While Hoover was nonpartisan in the conventional sense of refusing to favor Democrats or Republicans, he was severely partisan in the philosophical sense.

He opposed the civil rights movement in its early years, and refused to investigate crimes against blacks in the south. He refused to make efforts to recruit black agents, and was able to obtain an exemption from Congress so the FBI did not have to publish employment figures on a regular basis.

He strongly opposed the anti-war movement to the point of insisting on government prosecution against the Berrigans, and he repeatedly overestimated the danger potential of anti-war activists in order to persuade the administration to use combat troops during anti-war demonstrations.

Although the great majority of the FBI's time and 335-million annual budget went to conventional criminal investigations — such as anti-trust or bank robbery — the bureau's political image was dominated by Hoover and his personal biases.

Added to liberal hostility against the FBI in Congress is hostility engendered by Watergate, which has shown it is possible for White House pressure to impede an investigation to the point where former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray admitted destroying a Watergate file.

Against this background, there is increasing momentum in the Senate for a thorough inquiry into the FBI in line with a bill introduced by Sen. Robert Byrd (D-W. Va.). The bill calls for hearings to study whether the FBI should be an independent agency like the Federal Communications Commission or the Central Intelligence Agency.

Byrd, the conservative and influential Democratic whip, was joined by 11 co-sponsors, including the moderate Democratic leader of the Senate, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), and the fairly liberal Sen. John Tunney (D-Calif.).

Shoshone pilot plan expansive

SHOSHONE, (UPI) — A pilot program scheduled for Shoshone schools next year has the potential of turning traditional cries of joy into groans of dismay when classes end for the summer.

A $51,000 education study grant was awarded the Shoshone school system for curriculum study and enrichment in the elementary schools.

The federal Title 3 grant will provide teaching aids, field trips, and experiments in new subjects, often with "guest lectures" by lay persons from the community who have special knowledge or skills.

Subjects to be included in the program included boating, gun safety, drug education, needle work, fishing, gowling, backpacking, survival skills, swimming and taxidermy.

There also will be instruction in chess, photography, music, creative writing, art, and drama. A complete ethnic understanding course will include foreign languages and the cooking of the nations studied.

Special field trips will give children the chance to do things discussed in classes, and correlate such classroom work as mathematics with experiences in archery.

The three-year program, rather than fantasy, is rooted in the realities of an assessment made last year to determine what was needed in the elementary school system.

The special classes will offer 100 per cent of the elementary students an opportunity to develop creative skills, develop attitudes and values in positive learning and develop vocational skills.

It will also prepare 70 per cent of the students to be able to score above the national norm on the Iowa basic school test.

The Shoshone program will serve as a pilot program in the state with information gained from the study used to prepare programs in other schools.

Jack Bowlin, Lincoln school principal, said parents of the 160 students "seem to have a high regard toward the program." Students he has talked with "are quite excited."

A committee of teachers will schedule the activities for the special Friday afternoon sessions, choosing from the list of 20 to 30 possible subjects.

Bowlin said they are "thinking of letting some of the junior high and high school students return to participate" in the activities, "depending on the desires and room for them."

He aid with the interest stirred up by the Friday classes, elements of the special subjects "can be woven back into the rest of the week to improve the students' interest and performance in the rest of his classes."

Library signup

SHOSHONE — Children who want to participate in the summer reading program at the Shoshone City Library may sign up during the month of June.

There were 17 students signed up this week, Mrs. Marx Nielsen, librarian, said.

Mrs. Jeannette Alfred, Richfield, is assisting with the library this summer and will be in charge of helping children with book selections, Mrs. Nielsen said.

Mrs. Nielsen said a number of new books are at the library and invited students, particularly, to visit and use them.

Midwest gets new railroad

By ANTHONY CAMPBELL, Chicago Daily News

The Great Plains Ry. Co. may sound like the name of a new rock group, but to Nebraska Grainman Robert Steinholder it's the solution to a big problem.

Fed up when the Chicago and North Western Railroad stopped running trains through his home town of Goehner, Steinholder formed the new company to take up the slack.

And if everything goes according to plan, the grain-rich towns of Goehner, Seward, Beaver Crossing, Cordova, Shickley, Nora and Superior, Neb., will have freight service by July 1.

Already the company has signed a $205,000 purchase agreement with Chicago and North Western for 86 miles of track between Superior and Seward abandoned last Dec. 27 and bought three rebuilt locomotives for about $75,000.

The company also has set aside $300,000 for upgrading the track and has made arrangements for crews and other necessities. All that is needed is the go-ahead from the Interstate Commerce Commission, which Steinholder says should come any day.

Capitalization for the great plains will total about $900,000, including $400,000 to be raised by the public sale of stock at $1 a share. The rest will come from mortgage bonds.

Steinholder, 48, who along with his brother Fred, 51, owns two grain elevators in Goehner and Seward, is confident the new railroad will be a success.

"We've thought this thing out... it's no fly-by-night outfit," he says. "We'll do our damndest to maintain this line, it's our life."

As the nation's giant railroads continue to abandon service on many small branches and concentration to the big truck traffic, many farming communities like Goehner, which act as market centers for grain, are particularly hard hit.

Without rail service, says Steinholder, grain dealers in his area would have to pay farmers as much as 15 cents a bushel less for corn, soybeans and wheat in order to afford higher-priced truck transportation.

"This would put them in an impossible situation," he adds. "When an elevator in a small town goes, the town stops growing and stagnates."

So the Great Plains experiment probably will be closely watched by other parts of the country with the same problems. If it works, it could go a long way in salvaging rail transportation for rural areas

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS C. SCOTT

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been living with Joe for six months. I fell so much in love with him I couldn't help myself. He said he loved me, too, but he never really believed that I loved him.

Soon he told me that Joe was planning to skip town. One of these days and not tell anyone where he was going. I asked Joe about it and he said it wasn't true.

I guess it was, because he has been missing for six days and five nights and no one has seen or heard from him. I am so worried and heartbroken I cry myself to sleep every night. I keep thinking he's been in an accident or something.

I won't even go outside to empty the trash for fear Joe will telephone me and I'll miss his call. Please tell me what to do. HEARTBROKEN

JEANE SOLDERS engaged

Hazelton girl sets wedding

HAZELTON — Mr. and Mrs. Homer Solders, Hazelton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jeane Rae, to Carl Edward Goin.

Goin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Goin, Rupert.

The bride elect is a 1971 graduate of Wood River High School and is employed by Kellwood Company.

Goin is employed by Ore-Ida. The couple plans an Aug. 18 wedding.

Three TF women attending meet

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Lillian Armita, state recording secretary, Mary Taylor, chapter and president, and Lora Doss, delegate, are attending the state convention of American War Mothers today and Tuesday at Salmon.

The next meeting will be held at the Big Boy Restaurant in Twin Falls July 13.

BETTY BECKER plans rites

Wedding set for Aug. 19

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Becker, Twin Falls, announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty Darlene, to Rodney Ray Dutt.

Dutt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Dutt, Twin Falls. Miss Becker is a 1973 graduate of Twin Falls High School.

Dutt was graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1972 and is presently employed by Swift and Co.

The couple plans an Aug. 19 wedding at Immanuel Lutheran Church.

Lacinda Blei bride of Scott

TWIN FALLS — Lacinda L. (Cindy) Blei and Douglas C. Scott were married in May 27 rites at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension.

The ceremony was performed by Father Albert E. Allen in a setting of lighted tapers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truman J. Blei, Twin Falls, and the parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Scott, Twin Falls.

The bride wore a gown of miramist and pearl embroidered Venise lace trimmed with lace appliques. It featured long sleeves and a wide flounce around the skirt, including the attached chapel train. The dress was made by her mother.

Her veil of illusion was attached to a Juliet cap of miramist and pearl embroidered Venise lace designed to match her gown. She carried a nosegay of white daisy chrysanthemums and white miniature roses accented with blue satin streamers.

Terrilyn (Terri) Blei, Twin Falls, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Kathy Scott, Twin Falls, sister of the bridegroom. Diane and Kristy Scott, sisters of the bridegroom, were candelholders.

Gary Freeman, Twin Falls, was best man. Ushers were Greg and Kelly Scott, brothers of the bridegroom, and Mike Blei, brother of the bride, all Twin Falls.

The couple was honored at a buffet reception after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's table and serving tables were covered with blue skirts and white scalloped overcoaters. The white cake frosted in white was accented by white sugar bells and white daisies on the top and base. It was flanked with silver candelabra holding blue candles.

Guest tables were covered with white table cloths centered with white carnations floated in brandy snifters filled with pale blue water.

Reception assistants included Terri Hansen who cut and served cake, Holly Gordon pouring punch, and Kris Wyatt serving coffee. Milti Bryan, assisted by Karla Hyder, served meat, salad and rolls.

Mrs. Lyman Hepworth cared for gifts, assisted by Diane and Kristy Scott. Mrs. L. A. Widrig was in charge of the reception. She was assisted by Gaylyn Griffith and Audrie Fuller.

Special guests included Mr. and Mrs. Dan Ulery, Douglas, Alaska, uncle and aunt of the bride; Mrs. Lawrence Blei, Murtough, grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Scott, Twin Falls, grandparents of the bridegroom.

After a wedding trip to San Francisco and the coast of California, the couple resides at 1148 10th Ave. E., Twin Falls. The bride is employed by Sears Roebuck and Co., and the bridegroom is employed by Scott's Refrigeration, Inc.

Lover leaves

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: The person who told you that Joe was planning on skipping town, evidently knew more about Joe than you did. Chances are he's all right, so don't worry about his safety. But it might be wise to wonder what kind of man would cause you so much grief when one telephone call would ease your aching heart. Empty the trash and get into your normal routine. He'll turn up. Had pennies always do.

DEAR ABBY: Your batting average is about 99 per cent, which is so high no one should squawk. But when you goof, you sure blow it sky high.

Advising a secretary not to tell her boss that his wife went into his office and rummaged thru his drawers and inspected his files during his absence is completely unjust and unfair.

Without prejudging the motives of the boss' wife, a simple statement of who went into his office in his absence is sufficient.

If I knew that my secretary withheld any information from me about any activity in my place of business, she wouldn't be my secretary very long.

Did you consider what could happen if the wife walked off with something valuable from her husband's office? The secretary would be suspect.

You sort of shot from the hip on that one. E. L.

DEAR E. L.: I certainly did. And it missed the mark. Thanks for adjusting my sights.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a wonderful guy who is now serving in the armed forces. We are on a very tight budget as Mark doesn't make much money.

We are having a serious disagreement. Mark wants us to share an apartment with another couple to save expenses. He's known them only a few weeks and I've never met them. The other wife is in her teens and has a small baby. Abby, Mark and I are newlyweds and I want a place of our own—if it's only a hole in the wall. Mark says we girls can share the housework and keep each other company. I don't want to share the housework and I don't need company. I just want to be a wife to Mark.

Mark thinks I am being unreasonable. I think HE is. Who do you think is right?

Hurry, please, because Mark wants to tell his buddy one way or the other. NOT GETTING THRU

DEAR NOT: I don't see anything "unreasonable" about your wanting to have a place of your own. I think Mark is unreasonable to expect you to share an apartment with people he hardly knows and you don't know at all. Stick to your guns.

Bridge Jacoby 'Honesty' Is Defense Undoing

Bridge scores table with columns for North, East, South, West and various card counts.

By Oswald & James Jacoby. Oswald: An honest opponent is frequently a blessing to declarer. Not because he is honest but because he tries to help his partner when the only man he can help is declarer.

Jim: East was one of these honest but misguided players. He took his ace of clubs and led the suit back. South won and led two rounds of trumps. East couldn't wait to signal with the 10 of hearts on that second trump.

Oswald: That signal caused South to pause and reflect. His contract wasn't very good to start with and he had intended to try the heart finesse. The signal caused him to see if he couldn't find another line of play.

Jim: He did find one. There wasn't too much chance, but any chance was better than none and South believed East's signal. So he led his 10 of diamonds. West covered with the queen. South won in dummy.

cashied dummy's ace of hearts and ran off all his trumps.

Oswald: On the last trump East had to part with a diamond or chuck his king of hearts with either play being fatal.

Jim: This type of play is called a Vienna coup. It was necessary to find the queen of diamonds right, catch East with four diamonds and prepare for it by cashing the ace of hearts as a starter.

Irate House leaders threaten to shelve farm bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate farm bill leaders contend that the five-year farm support bill they passed Friday will help both farmers and consumers.

But several House leaders talked angrily about the possibility of shelving the bill because it puts lower limits on subsidies to big farmers. By a 70-vote, the Senate overwhelmingly approved the omnibus bill built around a new "target price" support plan which automatically lowers subsidies to growers when market prices are high and reactivates payments if markets decline.

At the same time, however, the Senate voted to limit producers of cotton, wheat and feed grains to combined per-farm income supplement payments of $20,000 annually instead of $55,000 per crop. Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., who steered the bill to passage, said he hoped the strong Senate vote would prompt similar House action. "Clearly we have a mandate from the Senate which I hope will insure that both farmers and consumers will get a bill (out of an eventual House-Senate conference) that provides equity for all," Talmadge said.

But Rep. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., chairman of a House subcommittee currently at work drafting the cotton section in the House version of the bill, said in a heated statement he would have to give "serious consideration" to letting the current farm law expire without action on the Senate's bill to extend and revise it.

If no new law is passed, Sisk explained, in old 1968 act — now dormant — would automatically be revived and would provide high price supports for cotton growers with no use of direct payments, and thus no payment ceiling.

Chairman W. R. Poffe, D-Tex., of the House Agriculture Committee, said he endorsed Sisk's blast against the $20,000 ceiling. At present, under a 1970 law which expires this year, payments are limited to $55,000 per farmer annually on each of the three major subsidized crops — cotton, wheat and feed grains. Most of the over-$20,000 payments, however, are concentrated in the cotton belt.

The subsidy amendment was approved by the Senate on a 45-37 vote.

Backers of efforts to hold down payments to big farmers narrowly lost another fight when the Senate killed 41 to 42, an amendment forbidding big farmers to evade the ceiling by leasing out part of their land.

The target price plan, which would be in effect for five years beginning with 1974 crops, sets income protection targets starting in 1974 at $2.28 a bushel for wheat, $1.84 a bushel for corn and 43 cents for cotton.

In future years, a controversial provision would escalate these targets in line with changes in farm costs.

If open market prices in the first five months of each crop marketing season reached or topped the targets, no subsidy would be paid to grain and cotton growers.

But if prices averaged below the targets, the government would make up the difference with payments. The amount each farmer draws — subject to the $20,000 limit which will mainly affect cotton growers — will be based on the producer's allotment on each crop.

The lengthy omnibus farm bill also repeals a "bread tax" under which millers have been paying part of the cost of wheat supports.

Orders wheat exporters — whose secretiveness caused protest during last year's Russian wheat deal — to begin, under threat of jail terms, to file speedy reports on wheat export sales. — Extends the food for peace program for five years with an amendment banning future use of food aid receipts for military aid grants to South Vietnam and Cambodia.

— Raises milk price supports to 8 per cent of parity for the year ending March 31, 1974, and limits dairy product imports to 2 per cent of U.S. consumption.

— Extends the current wool support program for five years, authorizes grants for improving the productivity of small forests, and orders the administration to reactivate currently shelved plans to conduct a 1974 farm census.

— Encourages the administration to reactivate the dormant Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) of conservation subsidies by providing that only "permanent" conservation practices can be subsidized.

Egg industry scores 'profiteering'

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)

Egg industry spokesmen here charge consumer prices for livestock and poultry products, including eggs, are being driven up by "inflationary profiteering" of a few giant grain companies.

The complaint comes from United Egg Producers, a federation of producer cooperatives, which has asked the House subcommittee on livestock and grains to probe the situation and take whatever steps are necessary to protect the American consumer from rising prices and protect the American farmer from the spiraling cost of producing these foods."

The UEP, in a statement filed with the subcommittee, said that while consumers have been complaining about rising egg prices, the increases have been "profitless" for farmers because of the rapidly escalating cost of feeds like soybean meal and corn.

In the first three months of 1973, for example, UEP said higher feed costs wiped out the impact of higher egg prices for farmers and left them with a loss of about seven-tenths of a cent for every dozen they produced. Never before have farmers lost money when egg prices were so high, the UEP said.

Looking ahead, the UEP predicted even worse news for both farmers and consumers unless the government steps in with export controls or other actions to hold down feed costs.

"Our statistical department projects the egg industry must see a 60-cent-a-dozen wholesale egg market at New York in the April-June quarter and a 66-cent market in the July-September quarter just to break even. These wholesale prices are almost impossible, since retail prices would reach $1 per dozen in supermarkets across the country," the egg group said.

"What's happening?" Soybean meal has risen from $94 per ton in May, 1972, to $396 a ton in May 30, 1973; corn prices at Chicago May 30 were $2.32 a bushel compared with $1.28 a year earlier. The increases have been attributed to a combination of factors including short crops abroad last year and booming demand for American farm products.

"The egg industry believes there is enough grain for domestic use and that the current high price of feed is caused by the concentrated control of the available supply in the hands of a few giant corporations," UEP said.

There are about five or six large grain companies which control the majority of soybeans, corn and other grains after harvest.

Employees honored

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus today announced the 1973 Federal Employees of the Year Awards to Sharon L. Norris and Donald G. Price, both Boise.

Mrs. Norris was cited for outstanding work with the soil conservation service where she is chief clerk serving the watershed, river basin and information staffs.

Price was cited for outstanding performance as a management specialist with the Reclamation Bureau. His 30-year career, including 29 years in Boise, ended officially with his retirement June 2.

Hunts prowler

BOISE (UPI) — Bart Spender Gish, 11, of Boise will probably be a little more careful the next time he takes out after a prowler. Young Gish thought he heard a burglar early Sunday morning and grabbed a .22-caliber pistol. There apparently was no burglar but there was trouble for Gish — he shot himself in the leg.

As he was going back inside the house, he dropped the gun and it went off, the bullet hitting him in the thigh.

The incident happened at the home of some relatives of the babysitter who was staying with Bart. He was treated at St. Alphonsus Hospital and released.

New dog catcher

EMMETT, Idaho (UPI) — The problems of stray dogs in Emmett have been taken over by a 27-year-old mother. Grenda Steinbach says she took the dog catcher job because she has definite feelings about the treatment of animals and it gives her a chance to work her own hours.

Equipment the city has given her for dog catching includes a radio-dispatch truck and two dog-catching loops which she refuses to use.

"If I can't get the dog by being kind to it," she said after two weeks on the job, "it isn't going to get caught."

Postmasters set meet

SALMON — The Idaho Branch of the National League of Postmasters will hold its annual convention here June 13-15. State President Gary Gunter, McCammon, will preside.

Speakers will include Jack Bailey, immediate past president, National League of Postmasters; Charles W. King, San Francisco, regional staff assistant; John O. Gallagher, Boise, assistant inspector in charge; Robert S. Greenburg, Salt Lake City District manager, and Harold J. Read, superintendent of mail at the Pocatello sectional center.

The convention will include the speakers, luncheons, a banquet, business, reports and election of officers.

College head named

NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — A Michigan Theologian is the new president of Northwest Nazarene College here.

During commencement exercises Sunday, the college announced that Dr. E. W. Martin, district superintendent for the Church of the Nazarene in eastern Michigan, will assume the president's post in July.

The current president, Dr. John E. Riley, has announced his retirement effective June 30.

The college conferred 171 bachelors and seven associate degrees Sunday.

ISU accepts bid

POCATELLO (UPI) — The oldest building on the campus of Idaho State University is being torn down. Campbell Construction and Excavating of Pocatello has entered the apparent low bid of $34,000 for demolition of the first building at ISU, constructed in 1901.

Six bids are under advisement, Director John Korbis of the ISU physical plant said, for tearing down Swanson Hall, the first building constructed at the Academy of Idaho which is now ISU.

The State Board of Education passed a motion Jan. 5, 1973 to close and demolish the building.

Hearings slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church is scheduled to conduct hearings Wednesday to take testimony from federal officials on the possibility of tapping geothermal resources for electric energy.

Church, chairman of the Senate Interior Subcommittee on Water and Power Resources, said the hearing will be limited primarily to officials of federal agencies currently involved with programs dealing with geothermal resources.

Church, D-Idaho, said he plans to schedule field hearings in Idaho in August to take further testimony from state and local officials, industry representatives and the public.

Study completed

BOISE (UPI) — A representative of the Idaho Water Resource Board will present Elmore County commissioners and the County Planning and Zoning Commission with copies of a comprehensive rural water and sewerage planning study June 18.

The study was undertaken with funds supplied by the Federal Farmers Home Administration. Information in the report includes physical environment, water resources and economic environment of Elmore County.

The report will be presented in the courthouse at Mountain Home at 7:30 p.m. June 18.

Rupert youth injured

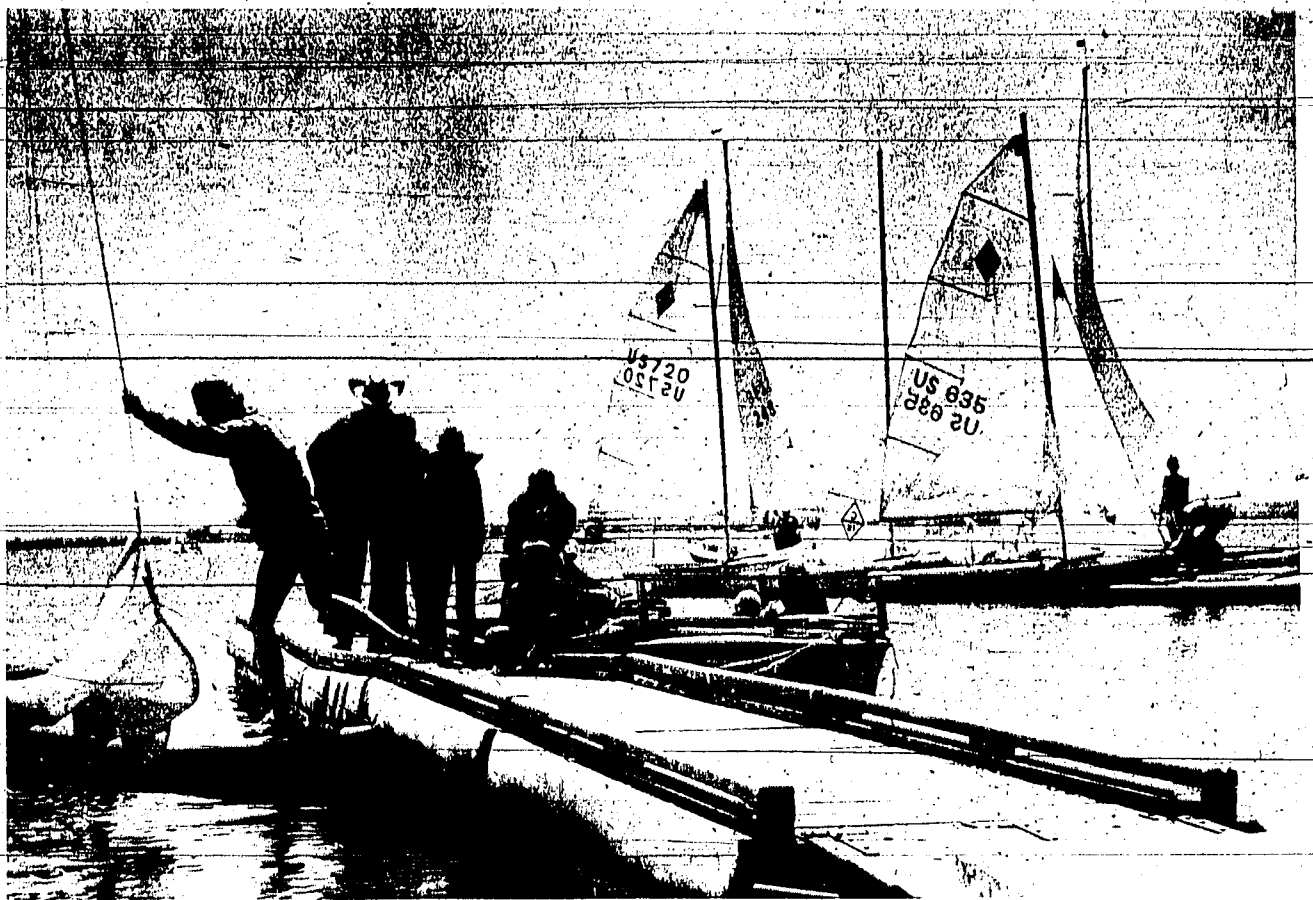

RUPERT — A Rupert youth was injured Sunday afternoon when the car he was driving struck the rear of a pickup driven by a Rupert man.

David Villasegor, 16, was treated for cuts and abrasions at Mindoka Memorial Hospital.

The pickup driven by Marlin D. Ljelera, 21, was backing out of a private drive three miles west of Acquila when the Villasegor car came over a hill crest and struck it in the left rear.

Damage to the pickup was estimated at $1,000. The Villasegor car was totaled with the loss estimated at $1,800.

Holers was cited for failure to yield when leaving a private road. The accident was investigated by highway patrolman H. A. Connors.

Forest service head speaks for USSA

By TERRY CAMPBELL

Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY Public input and involvement in the formation of land use policies for the national forest has been urged by the head of the US Forest Service.

John McGuire spoke before a general session of the US Ski Association convention which concluded Saturday in Sun Valley.

"We need your help, we are willing to listen," McGuire told the group.

He requested association members to become knowledgeable about issues concerning land use, participate in the environmental review process and to attend meetings and workshops.

McGuire said as demands for use of the United States'

187 million acres of national forest lands grow, the debate about the land's possible uses will intensify.

"It is important you get even more involved," he told the group. "You have a big stake in the outcome."

The Forest Service head said presently winter sports use contributed to about 6.5 million visitor days in the national forest, compare compared to about 184 million visitor days for other uses. About 70 per cent of skiing is conducted on national forest land, he said.

However, McGuire said, he anticipated that demands for other uses, besides winter sports, will grow.

About one-quarter of the US lumber and timber products come from national forest lands, McGuire said. With the "housing crisis," demand for soft-wood will intensify, he said, and with about one-half of the US inventory of soft wood in national forests, that "is about the only place we can turn," he said.

Increased beef prices will also cause an increased grazing use above the about 100 million acres of national forest presently devoted to grazing, McGuire said.

National forests also contain about 1,000 watersheds which serve cities and communities, contain about one-third of native game in the United States, and that about $100 million in minerals annually are taken from these lands, he said.

The National Environmental Policy Act established one avenue of public input, McGuire said. The act, he said, requires public officials to make their decisions about public lands "visible" and to provide for public participation in setting land use for a given area.

USSA concludes SV convention

SUN VALLEY (UPI) — The United States Ski Association (USSA) ended its 65th annual convention Saturday by passing more than a $1 million budget and by endorsing several resolutions concerning use of public lands.

The budget contained $282,500 for operating USSA and $76,800 for the now-separated United States Ski Education Foundation (USSEF). Budget funds are gathered through membership dues, sanction fees, commercial endorsements and contributions.

One of the major policy statements adopted during the convention at Sun Valley, was one urging the U. S. Congress to pass HR-1403 which authorizes leases of public land for recreational purposes. The leases would come from the U. S. Forest Service which now issues permits.

There were a number of resolutions recommending additional ski areas for both nordic and alpine skiing to be developed in the Sierra Mountains and that some have a restriction against snow machines.

In other action, delegates re-elected William F. McClure, 47, Anchorage, Alaska, as USSA president, and Dick Goetzman, Los Angeles, Calif., as treasurer. Bob Thompson, Boston, Mass., was elected first vice president.

The delegates picked Anchorage in 1974 and New Orleans in 1975 as convention sites.

Satellite 'off'

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — A small unmanned radio explorer satellite aimed at understanding more about the physics of the universe, marked a straight course for the moon today on the nation's last planned lunar mission.

Ground controllers were to make a minor mid-course correction, if needed, today in the flight path of the Explorer 49 spacecraft.

The radio astronomy satellite was flying so accurately on its five-day, quarter-million mile journey, that no course correction was required Sunday in the first hours after launch atop a Delta rocket.

Gives up

NOTTINGHAM, England (UPI) — Oscar Shrive gave up Sunday.

Shrive, 84, closed the corner grocery store he had kept open without a break even for holidays for 54 years.

The reason, he said, was crime. "I can't stand it any longer," he said. "In the last attack just a week ago, they stuck tape over my mouth and I nearly suffocated."

It was the eighth attack on him in three years.

Andrus backs research plan

BOISE (UPI) — Construction of a federal test and demonstration geothermal facility in Idaho would benefit both state and nation, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Monday.

In a letter to Sen. Frank Church, chairman of the Interior Water and Power Subcommittee, Andrus said more needs to be known about each of the 25 areas in the state believed to have geothermal power possibilities.

He said Idaho's ability and financial resources, however, are limited and the state is unable to do all that is necessary in investigation, research, development and control of this resource without major federal assistance.

"Therefore, I support and encourage a strong federal research and development effort in the geothermal field and would like to see the talents and expertise of all federal agencies brought to bear on this subject," he said.

"I would also hope that funds can be provided for research grants to state agencies and institutions and to appropriate private industries."

Watergate sets 'higher' probe

Cox wants this provision written into an order which Sirica is expected to sign Tuesday providing that the Senate testimony of Magruder and Dean could not be used against them at a trial. However, at a hearing last Thursday, Sirica indicated he was not inclined to close the hearings to nationwide television.

In New York, where Stans is under indictment with former Attorney General John N. Mitchell in connection with a $200,000 campaign contribution by financier Robert Vesco, another federal judge last week refused to delay Stans' committee appearance, which his lawyers said would jeopardize the fairness of his trial. However, this still leaves Stans free to decline to testify on grounds of possible self-incrimination.

The committee is expected to schedule three days of hearings weekly for the rest of this month. No time has been announced for hearing from Mitchell or former White House aides John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, all of whom are on the committee's witness list.

As it gets to higher-level witnesses, the committee will apparently find itself exploring some major rivalries among figures in the case. For example, in testimony given in a civil suit in May and released last week, Haldeman blamed Dean for keeping the President in the dark about the extent of White House involvement in Watergate.

But over the weekend, Dean was indirectly quoted making charges against Haldeman. Dean's comments reportedly were made in a May 3 official interview between Dean and Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., a member of the Watergate committee.

Spain set overhaul

MADRID (UPI) — Political sources said today Francisco Franco, the leader of Spain for 33 years, has approved a sweeping and possibly imminent overhaul of the government by new Prime Minister Luis Carrero Blanco.

The announcement of the new government could come today, the sources said, and could take office Tuesday.

Five injured in two Blaine accidents

HAILEY — Five persons were injured in two separate accidents in Blaine County Sunday afternoon.

Listed in fair condition this morning at the Blaine County Hospital, Hailey, was Delane (Red) Anderson, 40, Picabo.

According to a Blaine County sheriff's deputy, Anderson received head injuries and a fractured jaw in a one vehicle roll-over accident, about 2 p.m., three miles west of the US Highway 93 junction on State Highway 68.

Listed in apparently good condition this morning were passengers in Anderson's vehicle: Dennis Coates, 14, Hailey; Wayne Clement, 12, Ketchum; and Trace Anderson, 13, Picabo. The deputy said Anderson's vehicle was eastbound at the time of the accident and that Anderson had attempted to pass another eastbound vehicle. As an oncoming car approached, the deputy said Anderson swerved back into the eastbound lane and his vehicle struck a soft shoulder on the south side of the roadway.

Anderson then lost control of the vehicle, it traveled across the westbound lane, went over an about 15-foot embankment, rolled over two to three times, and came to rest on its top, the deputy said. Anderson's car was totally damaged.

The injured were taken to the county hospital by Bird's Ambulance Service.

James Von Schmidt, 36, Boise, was listed in good condition at Moritz Community Hospital, Sun Valley, this morning after receiving facial lacerations in a one motorcycle accident about 4:15 p.m. on US Highway 93, seven miles south of Smiley Creek.

According to a Blaine County sheriff's deputy, Schmidt was traveling south on grade at Galena Summit at the time of the accident. The deputy said Schmidt was negotiating a left curve when his motorcycle went onto the right road shoulder and struck a guard rail. The motorcycle slipped end over end, throwing Schmidt off, the deputy said.

Schmidt was wearing a helmet. He was taken by Stanley Ambulance Service to the Sun Valley hospital.

The deputy said Schmidt's 1971 motorcycle was totally destroyed.

No citations have yet been issued in either accident pending further investigation.

Officers say short gas created

By N. Y. Times Service
WASHINGTON — Top law-enforcement officials of several states expressed Friday the suspicion that the current gasoline shortage was artificial.

Some went so far as to suggest that the shortage had been deliberately produced by the major oil companies to enable them to squeeze independent refiners or retailers or both out of the market.

The state officials expressed their views at a hearing of the Senate Antitrust Subcommittee. Without exception, officials of all six states that were represented, said that the federal government should launch an immediate investigation into the destruction of competition in the marketing of gasoline.

Robert K. Killian, attorney general of Connecticut, said that his own investigations of the asserted gasoline shortage and its consequences had led him to the tentative conclusion that the big oil companies must be reduced in size.

The way to do it, he said, would be to require that refining and distributing operations be split into two separate companies.

Charles A. Latorella Jr., assistant attorney general of New York, challenged the very idea that there was a gasoline shortage.

He said that inventories of gasoline currently stand at 202.5 million barrels, according to the oil industry's own figures, but that inventories were lower than this last June, July, August and September "and last year there weren't these cries of shortage."

Yet, he said, this year "small dealers, hospitals, small truckers, cities, are all being told there is a shortage of gas."

In a related development, the Treasury Department announced that four days of public hearings would be held next week in an attempt to determine what changes, if any, to make in the month-old program of voluntary allocation of gasoline.

The announcement said that the hearings would be aimed at deciding whether "we need a mandatory program and, if so, how should it be structured and how should be in charge."

Some consumers of gasoline, such as farmer cooperatives and truckers were listed among the witnesses, although most were producers or marketers of fuel.

The Treasury also said that during May relatively small refiners and marketers had been allowed to import 1.2 billion gallons of fuel without payment of the 14-cent-a-gallon license fee.

This amount of fuel — some of it gasoline and home-heating fuel oil and some of it crude — would keep about 1,200 large gasoline stations supplied for a year, according to Treasury officials.

It is estimated that under 1,000 independent gasoline stations and fuel oil distributors have been forced to close because they could not get enough supplies to stay in business.

Valley instructors attend annual meet

TWIN FALLS — Residents of Magie Valley who are currently attending the annual meeting of the Idaho Vocational Association at Lewis and Clark State College, Lewiston, include a number of vocational instructors.

There are 600 persons participating in the program for high school or post high school vocational education representatives of the state. Purpose of the program is to keep abreast with new trends and techniques in vocational education.

Area delegates include Robert Becker, Anne Davis, Marya Duncan, Gigi Erdosa, Keith Ferrell, Helen Hammond, Shirley Humphries, Clyde Hunter, Bernard Mahler, Jim Palmer, Zan Payne, Valerie Quesnell, Colin Randolph, Clifford Saudners, Arlene Sommer, and John C. Hamilton, Jerome, habitual violator.

Twin Falls County — Stephen Ray Laughlin, Edward Pratt Jr., Paul S. Pritchard, Daniel Salinas, Dennis D. Silva and Jim Strunk, all Twin Falls; and Burton Carl Silvers, Kimberly, all driving while intoxicated; Gerald Dean Bastian and Constance Sue Wetzstein, both Twin Falls, reckless driving; Debra K. Eldredge, Twin Falls, violation of restriction; Daniel Salinas Paz, Twin Norma VanLeeuwen and Barbara Woods, all from Twin Falls, and Orval Bradley, Carl Engelbrecht and Gerald Hobson, all from the College of Southern Idaho.

Others include Allen Stastny, Eden; Kevan Varin, Castleford; and John Sabala and Wayne Perron, both Dietrich.

Cassia teacher retires

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Glen Jones, Almo, has retired after teaching school in Cassia County for 13 years.

A graduate of the former Albion Normal School, she received her degree from Idaho State University, Pocatello, in 1959.

She taught two years at Miller school in Burley before her marriage and after moving to Almo in 1948 has taught six years in the Malta grade school and five years at Almo.

Kids' advocate attacks TV ethics

Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — Robert Choate handed Americans a breakfast-table conversation piece in 1970 when he told US senators the nation's five best-selling cereals were dangerously low in nutritional content.

Furthermore, he said 35 other cereals among the top 50 also had little nutritional value; in fact, only three did, the civil engineer-turned-children's advocate testified before the Senate Subcommittee on Consumers.

Since then, Choate has expanded his target from cereal bowl to television set and assorted other mechanisms for "the selling of the child."

His Council on Children, Media and Merchandising explores the techniques and ethics of "all things that are advertised to kids and through kids."

By "through kids," he means the toy giveaways designed to lure children — and daddy and mommy — to the gas station or to stores. And he means advertising which uses children to attract adult buyers for such goods as life insurance, furniture or camping gear.

Last month Choate had his lawyer advanced the novel theory that TV networks' entire programming violates the "fairness doctrine" requiring presentation of all sides of controversial issues.

News coverage, commercials and shows; none of them give viewers a clue there is any controversy over programming and advertising to children despite several years of government hearings, they contended.

Choate, who is a former White House hunger consultant, has also urged the Federal Trade Commission to set guidelines on how firms should advertise food, especially to children.

"The FTC looked the other way for 10 years and then moved against three companies... boom," he said, adding that food makers deserve a sign on what FTC expects of them in terms of ad ethics. In addition to these activities, Choate has worked on spot announcements on nutrition for a related group — called "On Second Thought" — and they are starting to appear on a handful of TV stations.

Weiskopf stays on hot streak with Philly win

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Tom Weiskopf, continuing the torrid pace that makes him and others believe he has finally "arrived" in pro golf, won his second straight tournament and third in four weeks Sunday by shooting a one-under par 71 to capture the $150,000 IBV Philadelphia Golf Classic by four strokes.

Weiskopf's amazing 17th consecutive sub-par round gave him a 72-hole total of 274, 14-under par and the $30,000 victory over sophomore pro Jim Barber, who finished with a birdie flourish and a 278 total.

Weiskopf, winner of the Colonial National in May and the Kemper Open last week, jumped into the lead at the Whitemarsh Valley Country club after the third round and was never seriously threatened in the final round, even though he had some bogey trouble.

John Miller and Forrest Fezler finished at 279 while Jack Nicklaus, Dave Eichelberger, Gay Brewer and John Schlee were at 280.

One of the best charges against Weiskopf was mounted by Nicklaus, who started the day's play in the hot and humid 90 degree weather at three-under play, 10 strokes back of the leader.

His five-under par 67 tied two others for the low round of the day and Nicklaus said he felt after three birdies on the front nine that "I had a chance to catch Tom" but then he bogied the 10th.

Weiskopf, who said he does not have "a negative thought in my head now," has attributed his month-long streak to "fantastic putting."

That touch lost him somewhat when he three-putted the second hole for a bogey, birdied the fourth and then three-putted the 5th for another bogey, but got that stroke back with a 25-foot birdie on No. 9.

After making the nine-hole turn at one-under par 35 for the day, Weiskopf added another birdie on the par-five 11th hole, suffered bogeys on the 12th and 15th but then birdied the 17th.

Barber, a 24-year-old from Clearwater, Fla., who has earned only $6,000 in his two years on the tour, was the pacesetter during the first two rounds but ran into bogey-trouble and fell back Saturday.

But he shot a two-under 70, thanks to birdies on the 17th and 18th holes to pick up a check of $17,125, the largest he has seen as a pro.

Weiskopf said he believes he is not playing up to the potential he said he felt he always had.

"I just feel like a completely different person on the golf course," he said.

"I feel as if I have arrived," said the former Ohio State University star who won this tournament in 1971 with the same 14-under par mark.

which ties the low 72-hole score for the 11-year history of the event.

Weiskopf's 17-under par in winning last week also was a record for the Kemper.

Los Angeles tops New York Mets 4-0

NEW YORK (UPI) — Left-hander Claude Osteen yielded only three hits Sunday and got all the runs he needed on Joe Ferguson's 12th homer of the season as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the New York Mets 4-0.

Osteen permitted only two Met runners to reach second base and allowed two walks while facing just 31 men in his fourth complete game of 1973.

The Dodgers opened the scoring in the second when Ferguson hit an off speed Jerry

Twins topple Baltimore 11-1

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Larry Hise, Jim Holt and Bobby Darwin each clubbed two-run homers Sunday as the Minnesota Twins routed the Baltimore Orioles 11-1.

Hise's seventh home run clinched a seven-run third inning as the Twins chased losing pitcher Doyle Alexander in favor of reliever Orlando Pena.

Holt ripped his sixth home run in the fifth inning with Steve Braun aboard on a single to insure Dick Woodson's fifth victory, which was aided by the relief work of Ray Corbin.

Oakland blanks Detroit

OAKLAND (UPI) — Jim "Catfish" Hunter, treated to an 11-hit attack, shutout Detroit for the second straight day on three singles Sunday in pitching the Oakland A's to a 5-0 victory over the Tigers.

Bill North led the A's offense with three hits, a walk and a stolen base.

Oakland scored single runs in the first, second, third, fifth and seventh innings with five different players driving in the tallies.

Hunter struck out four batters and walked only one in gaining his eighth victory in 11 decisions.

The Tigers twice got a runner

Home runs lift Cubs to win

CHICAGO (UPI) — Rick Monday, hitting home runs his first two trips to the plate, led the Chicago Cubs to a wild 9-7 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds Sunday in a game in which the Cubs clubbed three homers in the opening inning.

Monday, who led the homer of the season, hit a two-run homer in the second to help seal starter Jim McGlothlin's second defeat of the year.

Cedeno powers Astros victory

HOUSTON (UPI) — Cesar Cedeno drove in five runs with two homers Sunday and southpaw Jerry Reuss scattered nine hits to lead the Houston Astros to a 7-1 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Cedeno hit his eighth homer of the year over the leftfield wall in the first inning with Jimmy Wynn aboard. The all-star centerfielder then came back in the eighth with a three-run homer into the leftfield bleachers.

Expos nip SF to sweep series

MONTREAL (UPI) — Boots Day drove in two runs with a bases loaded single to break up a 5-5 tie in the bottom of the eighth inning Sunday as the Montreal Expos went on to defeat the San Francisco Giants 7-6 for a sweep of the threegame series.

The victory allowed the Expos to reach the .500 level with a 23-23 mark after 50 games, the first time in their five year history at that mark this long into the season.

Los Angeles tops New York Mets 4-0

Los Angeles topped the New York Mets 4-0 Sunday. Claude Osteen pitched a complete game, allowing only two runs and one walk. Joe Ferguson hit a home run in the second.

Twins topple Baltimore 11-1

Minnesota's Twins defeated Baltimore's Orioles 11-1. Larry Hise, Jim Holt, and Bobby Darwin each hit a two-run home run.

Home runs lift Cubs to win

Chicago's Cubs defeated Cincinnati's Reds 9-7. Rick Monday hit two home runs.

Cedeno powers Astros victory

Houston's Astros defeated Pittsburgh's Pirates 7-1. Cesar Cedeno hit two home runs.

Expos nip SF to sweep series

Montreal's Expos defeated San Francisco's Giants 7-6, sweeping the series.

Mary Mills wins LPGA tournament

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — Blue-eyed Mary Mills shot a three under par 70, including four birdies on the back nine Sunday, to win the $35,000 LPGA Championship at Pleasant Valley Country Club by a single stroke over Betty Burfeindt.

It was the first tournament win since 1970 for Mills, 33, of Laurel, Miss., who underwent surgery to correct a wrist injury in her left wrist little more than a year ago. First prize money for the 19th LPGA Championship amounted to $5,250.

Miss Mills finished the tournament at four under par 288. Miss Burfeindt finished at 289 for 7 holes.

Miss Burfeindt landed only inches away from tying the tournament on a 100 yard approach shot that would have given her an eagle three on the 18th hole. Miss Mills birdied the hole only moments earlier.

Miss Mills started the day at one under par 218 for 54 holes on the hilly 6,130 yard par 73 course, trailing third-round leaders Kathy Whitworth, Jane Blalock and Chikui Higuchi by one stroke.

All three of the leaders, however, ran into trouble on the front nine with double bogeys while Miss Mills and Miss Burfeindt battled it out for the lead.

Miss Mills took over the lead for good with a 30 foot putt for a birdie three on the 321-yard, 15th hole. She also birdied the 10th, 11th and 13th holes before sinking a 15th foot putt on the 18th green that turned out to be the winning shot.

Miss Mills was soaked with champagne moments after her victory was official by another golfer in the tournament, Jan Ferraris.

Royals triumph over New York

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Big John Mayberry clouted his 14th homer of the season and Paul Splittorff recorded his ninth win of the season when the Kansas City Royals erupted for five runs in the fourth inning Sunday en route to a 7-4 triumph over the New York Yankees that snapped a five-game losing streak.

Mayberry connected in the second inning to record his 56th RBI. The Royals scored another run when Paul Schaal singled, took second on Gene Michael's error and went home on Fran Healy's single.

The Yankees tied it in the third when Matty Alou singled to right and reached second when Fred Patek made an error on Bobby Murcer's grounder. Jim Ray Hart singled to center to score Alou and Graig Nettles followed with another single, sending Murcer home.

Phillies blank San Diego 11-0

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Wayne Twitchell spaced five hits and hurled his second consecutive shutout Sunday to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 11-0 decision over the San Diego Padres.

Goolagong tops Evert for Italian net title

ROME (UPI) — Evonne Goolagong of Australia Sunday demolished young Chris Evert of Florida, Fla., 7-6, 6-0, to win the ladies singles of the $135,000 Italian tennis championships.

In a men's singles match Manuel Orantes of Spain defeated Holland's Tom Okker to advance to the finals to meet the winner of the Ilie Nastase-Paolo Bertolucci semi-final scheduled for later today.

Miss Goolagong, who had lost five times to the perky American since her Wimbledon championship last year, won a close 6-6 tie break for the first set.

The Australian then routed Miss Evert in the second set, giving the American only 11 points in the entire six games.

Miss Goolagong put the match away on her second match point but had so confused Miss Evert with a mixture of shots and attacks that the American made error after error and was never really in the match.

Miss Goolagong did not lose a single set in the entire tournament.

The victory was the first major tournament win for Miss Goolagong since Wimbledon a year ago and brought her $1,500 for first place against Miss Evert's $2,500 for runnerup.

Orantes outlasted Okker in a grueling three and a half hour endurance test to take a 3-6, 7-6, 6-3, 4-6, 7-4, victory.

The Spaniard put the match away on his first match point to win a 7-5 tie break in the fifth and final set.

Bertolucci, the only unseeded player in the semifinals, fought back time and again against Nastase, winner of the French Open last week, in a match marked by bottle throwing from the 10,000 highly partisan fans at the Foro Italico.

The Italian evened the match in the second set and then broke Nastase, who won the first major tournament in Rome in 1970, at love in the first game of the third set.

Bertolucci held two break points in hand in the third game of that set but could not make them good and Nastase won five straight games to sew up the third set.

After the rest period, Bertolucci came back strong and broke the Romanian in the second and eighth games of the fourth set to even the score.

It was in that same fourth set, during the seventh game with Bertolucci leading 30-15, that Nastase vociferously questioned a linesman's call.

In the ensuing argument, someone from the stands threw a soft drink bottle onto the court. Nastase picked it up and put it in his pocket. Finally the referee persuaded Nastase to continue play and just as Bertolucci was about to serve the Romanian dramatically held up his hand, took the bottle from his pocket, walked across the court and handed it to the referee.

In the same fourth set Bertolucci smashed his racket and broke the frame in a fit of anger with himself after Nastase had returned two slams.

In the suspended set, Nastase was at his best. He broke Bertolucci in the second and fourth games before the match was suspended.

Nastase faces possible sanctions from his fellow players for walking off the court during a second round doubles match with Jimmy Connors because of the behavior of the Italian crowd.

Italian organizers, who had allowed Yugoslavia's Nikki Pilic to play in Rome despite an International Lawn Tennis Federation ban, had complained to the association of Tennis Players (ATP). The ATP has agreed to consider possible sanctions against Nastase in Hurlingham, England, June 24.

Okker had broken Orantes on the ninth point of the final tie-break set but the Spaniard forced Okker to hit long on the next point and then charged the net to put away the match on two cross court slams.

Orantes came from a set behind to force a tie break in the second set. Also in that tie break he won it seven points to five, aceing the Dutchman on the 12th point for the set.

Okker began to tire badly in the third set with Orantes breaking him in the fifth game at love and again in the ninth game to take the lead.

However, Okker came back from the rest to break the Spaniard at love in the first game and evened the match on his first set point.

The Spaniard broke Okker in the second game of the final set but the fighting Dutchman, who won in Rome in 1968, broke back in the seventh game to set up a fight to the finish.

Okker held the eight and tenth games at love and had three break points over Orantes in the ninth and 11th games.

Unser cops Rex Mays classic

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Bobby Unser, averaging 108 miles per hour, breezed to his second, consecutive 150-mile Rex Mays Classic victory Sunday.

Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., who had claimed the pole position in tony trips, took the lead at the start and held it for the next 41 miles on the one-mile State Fair Park Speedway. Roger McCluskey, who finished second, took the lead when Unser went into the pits during a yellow flag.

But Unser roared back into the lead in his Eagle-Offenhauer on the 76th lap and never relinquished it.

Unser qualified for the pole position with a top speed of 127.7 miles per hour. Time trials were held prior to the race after being postponed Saturday because of repairs being made to a portion of the track.

Gary Bettenhausen finished third, Wally Dallenbach fourth and Johnny Rutherford fifth.

Indianapolis 500 winner Gordon Johncock was running among the leaders but failed to finish the race. His car stalled on the 86th lap, forcing him into the pits. He got back on the track but the car failed again a few laps later and he was out of the race.

Kemp pots victory in inaugural MOSPORT, Ont. (UPI) — Charlie Kemp, a 38-year-old Jackson, Miss., driver, steered his turbocharged Porsche to victory Sunday in the Labatt's Blue Can-Am, the inaugural race in the 10-event 1973 Canadian-American Challenge Cup Series.

Hans Widmer, of Hermosa Beach, Calif., was second, also in a Porsche, two laps behind Kemp. Bob Nagel, of Bethel Park, Pa., an outsider driving a Lola, was third.

Pre-race favorite Mark Donohue, who held the pole position, finished seventh, the victim of collision early in the race that ripped off the right front part of his Porsche's body.

Only 11 of the 20 starters finished the 80-lap, 197-mile race at this 2.45-mile country-side circuit 60 miles northeast of Toronto. An estimated crowd of 60,000 was on hand in perfect weather.

Scotter Patrick in a McLaren was fourth, and Steve Durst in another Porsche was fifth. Canadian John Cannegga scooped ahead of Donohue in his McLaren.

Atlanta splits pair with Cards

ATLANTA (UPI) — Right-hander Roric Harrison pitched a one-hitter for eight innings and hit a home run Sunday to give the Atlanta Braves a 5-2 victory over St. Louis in a second game of a doubleheader after Ted Simmons drove in three runs in the first game which the Cardinals won 4-3.

Harrison, an ex-Oriole making only his third start of the season had a perfect game going through the first five innings but Ken Reitz led off the sixth with a triple down the first base line. In the ninth, he needed relief help from Danny Frisella who picked up his fourth save.

Reitz scored the Cardinals' first of the second game on a sacrifice fly by Jose Cruz when rightfielder Ralph Garr held the ball momentarily. The other Card came in the ninth after Harrison walked the leadoff batter Ted Sizemore and Frisella gave up a single to Joe Torre and a sacrifice fly to Luis Melendez.

Harrison's homer, his first hit of the season, came in the third inning. The Braves added two runs in the fourth on a sacrifice fly by Mike Lum and a single by Garr.

Cleveland snaps losing streak with two wins

CLEVELAND (UPI) — John Ellis singled home Buddy Bell with the winning run in the ninth inning Sunday as the Cleveland Indians snapped a 10-game losing streak with a 6-5 victory and a doubleheader split with the Chicago White Sox.

Rick Reichardt's three-run pinch-hit homer in the ninth inning gave Chicago a 5-3 victory in the opener.

Bell opened the Cleveland ninth in the nightcap by beating out an infield single. Jack Brohamer walked and both runners advanced on George Hendrick's sacrifice.

Terry Forster, who has 11 saves for the White Sox, came in to replace Cy Acosta and Ellis hit the first pitch into left field for a single.

The White Sox banged out seven hits good for five runs to chase Cleveland starter Dick Bosman in the second inning of the nightcap, but the Indians bounced back with two runs in the second on John Lowenstein's two-run homer.

They added two more in the third and tied the score on 5-5 on Oscar Gamble's run-scoring double in the fifth.

Eddie Fisher, who was starting his second game for Chicago in two days, departed after John Ellis' run-scoring single in the third and Rich Gosage took over. Gosage hurled two innings before giving way in the fifth to Cy Acosta. Terry Forster relieved Acosta in the ninth.

The Indians were one out away from snapping a nine-game losing streak in the opener before Reichardt batted for catcher Chuck Brinkman and drilled his second homer of the season into the left field stands.

The White Sox, who trailed 3-1 after seven innings, chased Cleveland starter Dick Tidrow in the eighth after rookie Bill Sharp hit his first major league home run over the right field fence leading off the inning.

After back-to-back singles by John Jeter and Eddie Leon with one out in the ninth, Johnson struck out pinch-hitter Mike Andrews but Reichardt followed with his game-winning hit.

George Hendrick drove in two runs for Cleveland with a run-scoring single in the first and his eighth home run of the year in the fifth off Chicago winner Steve Stone.

Stone, who was lifted with one out in the ninth, gave up only four hits, struck out four and walked four in picking up his second victory against one loss.

NHL opens annual meetings

MONTREAL (UPI) — The National Hockey League (NHL) opens its annual summer meeting Monday with a three day agenda which includes inter and intra league drafts, along with probable decisions on new franchises and an NHL-Russian series next winter.

In addition, the NHL Board of Governors is expected to spend a good part of its two day session dealing with problems raised by the rival World Hockey Association (WHA).

The Joint Rules Committee meeting Monday officially opens the conference. Most observers expect the only possible rule change of any significance will involve measurement of sticks.

Last season a number of games were held up when officials stopped play to measure sticks and some coaches have suggested the rule, which handed out a minor penalty and fine, be changed.

Secretariat will start vacation from racing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretariat started a well-earned vacation Sunday after winning the Triple Crown with an amazing performance in the Belmont Stakes Saturday but the big red colt didn't act as though he wanted a rest at all.

Secretariat hardly showed the effects of the grueling campaign that carried him to a record-breaking victory in the Kentucky Derby, a disputed record in winning the Preakness Stakes, and one of the greatest races ever run in winning the Belmont Stakes by 31 lengths and setting an American record for 1 1/2 miles.

The powerful chestnut colt was awake at four o'clock Sunday morning, looking for his breakfast. A few hours later he was circling the walking ring outside his barn and he had to be dragged away from the grass he wanted to nibble.

"He may not want a vacation but I need one," said his proud and delighted trainer, Lucien Laurin before he headed for the airport to relax for a few days at his Florida home.

Not even the immortal Man o'War, the great Count Fleet or mighty Citation won the Belmont with the incredible speed unleashed by Secretariat.

The long-striding colt blazed across the finish line in 2:24 flat. That time not only shattered the Belmont Stakes record of 2:26.3 set by Gallant Fox in 1930 but made a shambles of the American record of 2:27.1 set by Ging Along at Aqueduct on Oct. 12, 1964. The world record was set by Fiddle Isle, March 31, 1970, when he won the San Luis Rey Handicap at Santa Anita in 2:23 over a partly downhill grass course.

For the next two months Secretariat will be denied the opportunity to expend his boundless energy on the race track. If he doesn't try to kick the barn down, present plans call for his return to competition at Saratoga in August.

"Definitely. He definitely will run again," said Laurin, scotching talk that Secretariat might be retired since there were no more worlds to conquer.

The colt will be pointed toward the $100,000 Travers Stakes at Saratoga on Aug. 18 and probably prep for that 1 1/4 miles race in the $25,000 Jim Dandy Stakes there on Aug. 8.

Secretariat now has won five of his six races this year, suffering his lone defeat when he was third in the Wood Memorial prior to the Kentucky Derby.

Laurin still was at a loss to explain that race. "Go and ask Secretariat. If he tells you, come and tell me," he suggested.

This probably will be Secretariat's last year of racing. He is scheduled to be delivered to a syndicate of breeders, who paid $6,000,000 for him, on Nov. 15.

There was speculation that the syndicate members might waive their rights and let Secretariat race next year. But that was unlikely despite the willingness of some of them.

"I would love to see him race at four but that is impossible. What he has done today is enough for any horse," said Mrs. Helen Tweedy of the Meadow Stable after the Belmont Stakes.

Secretariat set an almost unbelievable pace in the Belmont. And it had no effect upon him as he rolled on and on.

The first quarter-mile was run in :23.3-5, the half mile in :46.1-5 and six furlongs in 1:09.4-5.

At that point Sham, runner-up to Secretariat in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, dropped out of the race.

"I was surprised when Sham dropped back so early," recalled jockey Tom Purcell who guided Secretariat to his remarkable victory. "I knew Secretariat was running easy so I let him roll."

Secretariat then reached a mile in 1:34.1-5 and the mile and a quarter in 1:59. That was faster than his Kentucky Derby record of 1:59.2-5 and he still had a quarter of a mile to go.

By that time the "Big Red Machine" was 20 lengths in front and Turcott almost turned completely around in the saddle to see where everybody went.

French drivers score victory at LeMans race

LE MANS, France (UPI) — The all-French Matra-Simca of Henri Pescarolo and Gerard Larrousse cracked the three-car challenge of Italy's Ferrari today to win the Le Mans 24-hour sports car classic for the second straight year.

It was also two in row for the 30-year-old bearded Pescarolo, who won last year with Briton Graham Hill, and the first all-French win since 1950 — a fitting result for the 50th anniversary of the race first run in 1923.

Matra closed the gap in the world's sports car championships, but still trail Ferrari 110-84, thanks to the second-placed Ferrari 312P-3 of Italy's Arturo Merzario and Carlos Pace of Brazil.

The battle between the four Matras and the three Ferraris lasted for 22 1/2 hours. It ended when the Ferrari of Belgium's Jacky Ickx and Britain's Brian Redman broke its engine as it tried to make up the one lap it trailed behind the eventual winner.

Only 21 of the 55 cars which started out at 4:00 p.m. Saturday were still running at the finish. The winners, who prepped $20,000 in first prize money, set a total distance record for the track inaugurated last year, covering 355 laps or 3,009.4 miles at an average speed of 125.3 miles per hour.

Before retiring his Matra-Simca during the night, French Formula One ace Francois Cevert established a lap record of 3 minutes 39.0 seconds, averaging 130.0 miles-per-hour for the 8.4-mile circuit in Northwest France.

Sunny weather and a holiday weekend brought a crowd of half a million to the track, according to police estimates.

Although the race ended in a procession, the grand touring category was nip-and-tuck all the way. The class win went to Frenchman Claude Ballot-Lévy and Briton Vic Elford in a Ferrari-Daytona by just over two minutes after 24 hours of grueling running.

The three liter BMW of Dieter Quester of West Germany and Toine Hezemans of Holland won the special touring class when all its rivals — two other BMW's and three Ford Capris — broke down.

"We had a leak in the brake system and Henri saved the car from crashing twice and I once."

"Apart from that it went well. Of course we were pushed by the Ferrari of Jacky (Ickx) but we seemed to be about one second a lap faster when it mattered. We were relieved, however, when he finally broke down," said Larrousse.

Former FSU quarterback describes his training

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — A former Florida State University reserve quarterback said Sunday that during alleged mandatory off-season football drills at FSU "everyone was so desperate to win we kicked, slugged, hit each other in the groin, did everything and anything."

Mike Cadwell said wrestling matches in which two combatants stooped under chicken wire four feet off the floor "was the cruelest thing I've ever seen... It was dehumanizing to the extent that you could be out there with your best friend, and you'd be trying to kill him."

Cadwell, who quit the team, talked to the St. Petersburg Times which Sunday in a copyrighted article charged that Florida State had violated NCAA rules by holding mandatory physical education classes for football players.

The Times said because of resentment of the classes, 28 players quit or were thrown off the team.

FSU President Stanley Marshall, athletic director John Bridgers and coach Larry Jones denied there were any violations.

"All football players were encouraged to participate but none lost his scholarship or was threatened with loss of scholarship for failure to participate," said Marshall. He said Bridgers had told him the off-season program preceding spring practice was not in violation of NCAA regulations.

Cadwell said the classes were held four days a week and consisted of weightlifting, agility and combat sessions under the chicken wire and running.

Cadwell said the combat came only every other day. "If they'd wrestled every day there wouldn't have been any of us around," he said.

Cadwell said he was in a class with the linemen because of a class schedule conflict, so he always had to wrestle against someone bigger.

"We'd start by sitting on the mat back to back, one match going on at each end of the mat. At the whistle, the coaches told us we were to spin around and just beat the hell out of the other guy, beat him right into the mat. They let the matches go on until they felt you had worked hard enough or were beating hell out of the other guy," Cadwell said.

"Everybody was desperate.

You had to win because all the losers had to wrestle again, and again and again until they won. I had to wrestle as many as seven or eight straight times.

"The final loser of the day had to report at 6:30 Friday morning to run up and down the steps of the stadium.

"People were so mentally and physically exhausted they were staggering around like drunks, lunging at each other and missing. We'd be too tired to stay down and several times players stood up and were cut on the wire. People threw up constantly.

"The first day they told us if anyone threw up on the mat he would have to clean it up with his body. So for the first few days players just went off to the slides, because the mat didn't extend all the way to the walls, and vomited on the floor. Then the other players would step in it as they ran back in line. It was a terrible mess. After that they put wastepaper baskets around the sides for us to use.

"When we finally were through we would go outside for running. Even though it was 15 minutes straight of top speed running, after everything we had just been through, we loved it."

Label poisons clearly and store them separately from food. White, powdered insecticides have often been mistaken for flour or sugar.

Petty captures Alamo 500

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Richard Petty took advantage of a freak accident to Buddy Baker in the last 75 miles Sunday to win the $100,000 Alamo 500 by two laps over rookie Darrell Waltrip.

Petty, a four-time NASCAR grand national champion, and Baker dueled wheel to wheel through 213 laps of the 250-lap event over the two-mile Texas World Speedway course.

At the start of the 214th lap, Baker led by a car length when a chunk of rubber came off his left front tire and knocked off a battery cable.

Baker coasted three quarters of the way around the track but finally had to call for a wrecker to push him to his pit. By the time his car was repaired, he was eight laps behind Petty's 1973 Dodge.

Petty all but coasted the last 37 laps to win his fourth race of the season in 15 starts. The $13,170 first prize pushed his earnings this year to $79,440. Baker, who led 163 laps to only 79 for Petty, finished sixth.

Johnson wins at Firebird

BOISE — Hank Johnson, Marysville, Wash., won the top fuel portion of the North American top fuel and funny car championship at Boise's Firebird raceway Sunday before 6,000 persons.

Johnson in the process set a new track record at 227.76 miles per hour in 6.33 seconds. Jerry Ruth was top funny car eliminator. Ruth broke his own funny car track record with 223.24 miles per hour in 6.72 seconds.

Dave Austin, Twin Falls, gained the semi-finals in the Mint eliminator bracket.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 12, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to consider what your obligations are, whether of an official, a business or a governmental nature. You have it in your power to make progressive gains when you enter a new phase in making your life more successful.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look into insurance and investments and put your affairs on a more intelligent and profitable basis. Think of ways to get along better with others. Don't take loved one for granted.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A good day to talk over important matters with associates and pave the way for greater understanding in the days ahead. Do something to help your community. Don't lose your temper.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Schedule your activities wisely with co-workers and then carry through intelligently. Plan a diet that will make you feel and look better in the future. Also, take health treatments.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan how to make your relationship with close ties much better in the days ahead. Good friends need your advice and you should give it willingly. Help someone in need.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make improvements at home and put more comfort and beauty into that important realm of your existence. Make it more streamlined so it will be easier to maintain. Avoid arguments.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Exercise much care in travel in the morning and afternoon. Attend to personal matters at home in the evening. Get busy at important correspondence. Apply yourself and accomplish much.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Pay more attention to financial matters and make certain you are spending your money wisely. Show that you have good common sense as well as vision. Do something nice for your mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) See what can be done to make yourself more attractive. Don't talk too much at any group meetings you may attend. Avoid one who does not have your best interests at heart. Be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Give more attention to private problems and they are soon solved. A good friend comes to you for help. Give only what you can afford and don't weaken this person. Be resolute.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make an effort to get along better with others, whether in personal or business relationships. Attend only those social affairs that are to your interest. Relax at home tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Listen to the advice of a bigwig before you take an important step or you could get into trouble. Any credit affairs should be handled carefully. Make plans for the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Put those new ideas to work but make sure you study projects well so that you know every detail. You want to take a trip, but this is not the right time. Keep temper under control.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who is magnetic and will make a campaign of every project. The quality of thoroughness should be impressed upon your progeny at an early age. Teach not to criticize others and to give credit where credit is due. Send to the right schools that you can afford.

Young lady, when you talk about your beauty sleep, you are supposed to be referring to that sleep you get before midnight, if any. To discuss either politics or religion in almost any social gathering is considered taboo bad form. Was none other than Victor Borge who said, "If the good Lord had intended us to watch television, he'd have given us square eyeballs." Am asked which language has the most words. English, no doubt about it. With more than 490,000 plus another 300,000 technical terms. One working man in every six, who's due a vacation this year, won't take it, the indigent follow.

Most railroad men of old owned red signal lamps. They lugged said lamps just about everywhere, as dispatchers looking for emergency crews, could find them. Where those dispatchers found them mostly was in the habitats of the night ladies who set up tents near construction camps. Credit therefore the early railroad men with the origin of that term "red light district."

Slow warming set for Tuesday

Twin Falls, northside, Burley-Rupert area: Variable cloudiness through Tuesday with a slow warming trend.

Highs should reach the upper 80s by Tuesday; overnight lows will be near 50 tonight.

Outlook for Wednesday is far and warmer.

Camas Prairie, Bailey and lower Wood River Valley: Variable cloudiness is predicted through Tuesday with a slow warming trend. Temperatures will be in the upper 70s Tuesday, and lows tonight will be in the 40s.

The outlook for Wednesday is for fair weather with warmer temperatures.

Synopsis: Temperatures will be warming again over Southern Idaho following the windy cooling trend of the weekend. High pressure is building again over the Intermountain West, replacing the strong westerly flow aloft that has dominated the weather pattern the past few days.

Variable cloudiness will linger through the valleys of southern Idaho through Tuesday with a chance of a few showers over and near the mountains, as the weak weather brings another surge of moisture through the area.

High temperatures today will be in the 70s and 80s, warming into the 80s and low 90s by Tuesday. Overnight lows will be mostly in the 40s.

The extended outlook through the end of the week calls for a warming trend to continue through Wednesday with a slight cooling on Thursday and Friday.

Little or no precipitation is expected and high temperatures should average near normal.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q: Could you explain the importance of bond ratings?

A: Ratings give the potential bond investor some indication of the comparative quality of the various debt offerings available for purchase. The three companies which rate bonds are Standard and Poor's, Moody's and Fitch.

Their ratings are based on several factors including the issuing company's ability to generate sufficient earnings to cover interest, the financial strength of the corporation, the marketability of the bond issue and the industry under which the bond is issued.

Bonds are offered under first mortgages, second mortgages, as collateral trust on which assets other than real property are pledged as security or as unsecured debt (debentures and subordinated debentures only).

There are also equipment trust certificates which are pledged against such equipment as airplanes, railroad cars and so forth. Guaranteed bonds are those issued by one corporation but guaranteed by another, frequently a parent company.

Debt securities carrying one of the top four ratings are generally regarded as sufficiently secure for commercial bank investment and for individuals seeking income. Ratings on an extensive list of bonds are available from a number of sources.

At least one of these reference sources should be available at our local library.

MK owners given word on dividend

BOISE (UPI) — Morrison-Knudsen stockholders met in Boise Friday and heard they will be paid a quarterly cash dividend of 20 cents per share on Aug. 1.

The board of directors declared the dividend, the second 20-cent per share cash dividend paid this year. It will be payable to holders of record on June 29.
