Connally 'frustrated'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John B. Connally, despite White House denials, is reportedly frustrated and disappointed with his new role of part-time adviser and will soon sever relations with President Nixon.

Connally, a Democrat when Nixon named him treasury secretary two years ago, rejoined the administration this spring after turning Republican, but his friends and political associates were saying Thursday that the former Texas governor and protégé of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson has found his position with Nixon less than he expected.

Canada cuts fuel exports

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada's energy minister, Donald MacDonald, said Thursday that Canadian gasoline and heating oil exports to the United States — 90 per cent of which go to Northeastern states — will be cut off at midnight tonight.

Future exports will be allowed only if there is a surplus in Canada.

Nixon house costs up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government now says it spent $160,302 for improvements on President Nixon's estate at San Clemente, Calif., instead of the $39,525 announced by the White House May 26.

The higher figure was released Thursday by the General Services Administration (GSA), which said the entire amount was for work done at the request of the Secret Service for security reasons.

Tourists rescued

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Thirty-eight tourists stranded by "a one in a million chance" accident in two train cars above the rugged Sandia Mountains endured 24 hours of isolation by singing, joking and playing cards.

"We told jokes, danced and generally got to know each other pretty well," said Linda Caraglio of Houston, Tex.

Mrs. Caraglio, her husband, 36 other tourists and two car operators were dramatically rescued Thursday from cars stalled hundreds of feet above the ground.

3 killed

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y. (UPI) — Three Georgia men, including the son of singer James Brown, were killed Thursday when their car ran off a highway near this Essex County village.

Arabs offer oil for aid

US ambassador to the United Nations, John Scali, listens to Arab representatives, suggest they might help the West ease its oil and monetary crises in exchange for helping curb Israel's "militarism." The suggestions were made during Security Council debate. (UPI)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has voted to forbid any further U.S. involvement in Indochina, and President Nixon's most important Senate backer, Republican leader Hugh Scott, says he will support the bombing of Cambodia for only two more weeks.

The Senate measure, invoking the power of the purse to deny funds for use of U.S. military forces in or over Southeast Asia, was passed 67 to 15 without a whisper of debate Thursday.

Meanwhile, Sen. Scott, R-Pa., who has been an administration stalwart on the war, announced he would give the White House until June 30 to make certain all parties will adhere to the new cease-fire agreement worked out in Paris.

"Thereafter," Scott said, "my personal decision will have to be that I can no longer support U.S. bombing of Cambodia or in or over any of the nations of Indochina."

"We have kept our national commitments. We have met our obligations. Try as I may, I cannot bring myself to agree that continued U.S. bombing will aid in bringing peace to this battle-scarred country," he said.

Scott made the announcement after attending an hour-long briefing for senators by Henry A. Kissinger, the President's national security adviser. Kissinger held a similar briefing for members of the House. Sources said he gave little assurance the bombing could be ended soon.

The Senate vote climaxed a four-year antiwar effort that began when a freshman senator named Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., introduced the "Vietnam Disengagement Act" in the winter of 1969 and was turned out of office the following year.

The Goodell proposal, strengthened to include a provision that would cut off funds for the war, was approved by the Senate as part of a State Department authorization bill. With all American forces out of Vietnam and with both houses moving to eliminate the last residues of U.S. involvement, administration supporters made no effort to stop the measure.

Sponsored by Sens. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, the antiwar amendment declares:

"Notwithstanding any other provision of law, upon enactment of this act, no funds heretofore or hereafter appropriated may be obligated or expended to finance the involvement of United States military forces in hostilities in or over or from off the shores of North Vietnam, South Vietnam, Laos or Cambodia, unless specifically authorized hereafter by the Congress."

Ranch study to continue

By DAVID ESPO Times-News

RUPERT — Citing the need for "additional information," Department of Environmental and Community Services administrator Dr. James A. Bax said Thursday a state investigation would continue at the Idaho Youth Ranch near here.

A state report written last month revealed the "use of mace, handcuffs and other forms of corporal punishment" at the privately run institution for troubled boys.

Bax said a new investigator, whom he declined to identify by name, would look into "both the criminal and civil aspects" of the case.

"There are some parts of the report that I got that don't really fit," the administrator said, "I'm going to pursue it in somewhat of a different route."

The report, made public earlier this week and prepared by Rita Blackaller, DECS director of family and children's services, also cited major problems at the ranch facility with organization and management.

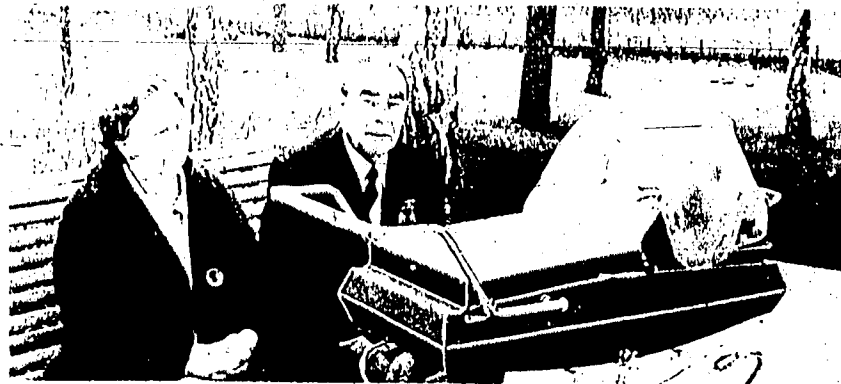

It dealt only in passing with the incidents of the use of mace and handcuffing, going into greater detail of the administrative difficulties.

Another report prepared by former deputy attorney general G. Kent Taylor, has not been made public. Taylor's report was believed written about the same time as Mrs. Blackaller was preparing her investigative results for Bax.

Although the report prepared by Taylor has not been released to the public, sources report it contains allegations made by a number of ranch personnel concerning child abuse incidents.

These sources further state the report concludes the problem of corporal punishment at the ranch to have been effectively dealt with.

The report prepared by Mrs. Blackaller also concludes that an internal investigation into child abuse by ranch personnel earlier in the year resulted in the dismissal of one ranch employe.

County zone plan slapped

By DAVID HORSMAN Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The proposed revision of the county zoning ordinance came under fire Thursday night at the regular session of the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning commission.

The commission set an Aug. 9 public hearing on the 74-page document.

Residents of an area northwest of Twin Falls City that will be zoned residential-agricultural, under the new law allowing housing subdivisions, have already sent letters and a petition to the zoners protesting the designation.

Mrs. John R. Burkhardt, who signed both a letter and petition, protested Thursday a request for a subdivision presented by Twin Falls engineer Tom Schafer. Schafer outlined plans for a 38-acre development one mile north of the Grandview Drive-Pole Line Road Intersection.

The area will be patterned "somewhere between a condominium and residential development," according to Schafer.

The area is currently zoned agricultural, allowing subdivisions. Under the proposed ordinance, subdivisions would not be permitted in an agricultural zone.

Mrs. Burkhardt said, "Where people live is unimportant if they have nothing to eat." She also said the area should be retained as agricultural land "so our children might some day see the canyon." If subdivided, the land would go to the wealthy and prevent access to the Snake River canyon, she stated.

Schafer answered, "Somewhere along the line we have to decide where the people are going to live."

The zoners tabled the subdivision request "for preliminary consideration" until the next meeting.

Dale Riedesel, Twin Falls, presented plans for another subdivision near the one proposed by Schafer. The 100-acre development would join the Snake River canyon rim at the north end of Washington Street.

The zoning commission also tabled Riedesel's plan until the next meeting.

Sewage disposal for both the subdivisions was discussed as a potential problem. Both areas are near the trunk line of the Twin Falls City sewage system and developers had planned to tie-in to the line.

But the Twin Falls City Council is currently considering an ordinance that would disallow all non-existing sewage and water hook-ups outside the city. Construction of private, subdivision sewage systems was discussed as an alternative if public services are ruled out.

Clean-up ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency approved all clean-up measures today for New York City that will result in restrictions on some traffic.

It also proposed transportation control plans for 17 other urban areas including one for Los Angeles that involved gas rationing.

The other plans are for Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Boston, Springfield, Mass., Indianapolis, Newark, Camden, Trenton, N. J., Cincinnati, Dayton, Toledo, El Paso, Austin, Waco, Tex., Corpus Christi, Tex., Houston-Galveston, San Antonio, Dallas-Fort Worth, and Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn.

Zoners oppose city ordinance

TWIN FALLS — Strong disapproval of the city's proposed ordinance to discontinue new water and sewer services beyond city limits was voiced Thursday night by county zoning officials.

Members of the Twin Falls County Zoning and Planning Commission asked their county zoning administrator, Ed Woods, to write a letter to the city council in Twin Falls, expressing objections to a pending ordinance on water and sewer services.

It was reported the ordinance would eliminate any further city water and sewer services outside of the city. Presently, such hook-ups are allowed if the developer will install connecting lines and the occupant pays at a higher rate than city residents.

The ordinance was placed on first reading at the last city council meeting and will be read two more times at successive council sessions before a vote is taken.

Several members of the county group, including chairman L. James Koutnik viewed the proposal of the city as an affront to current joint efforts by the city and county to adopt cooperative zoning and development programs.

"If they (the city council) are going to have a cooperative program with us, then, by God, it better be cooperative and not rule out development. I think we should let them know within 24 hours," Koutnik said.

"I think they've got a big fat law suit coming up and I hope they lose," he added.

County commissioners Thursday afternoon approved the proposed development of 60 acre mobile home park project south of the city, contingent upon the city's granting water and sewer services to the area. Reports indicate there are presently no mobile home parking spaces available in the Twin Falls area. Both water and sewer lines border the area.

Panel angry at FBI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee is quietly making plans to move the boom on the Justice Department and the FBI because of the recent evidence both have become "politicized" under the Nixon administration.

Democrats on the committee say they are angry about the role politics played in the department investigations of the Watergate and ITT cases, and in the conduct of former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray.

Committee Democrats agreed in an unannounced caucus held two days ago that they would resurrect the committee's long-dormant statutory oversight authority and put a congressional microscope on Justice and FBI operations.

The Justice Department and the FBI have not been subjected to the periodic review by an authorizing committee required of other agencies such as the State Department, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Agriculture Department.

Instead, authority to provide Justice and the FBI with funds has been granted under a general continuing resolution with the only review of their operations by an adoring House Appropriations Subcommittee headed by Rep. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y.

Rooney's subcommittee has the reputation and record of granting Justice and the FBI nearly any request with little tough questioning about operations or matters of controversy or independent staff investigations.

The 21 Democrats on the Judiciary Committee, which is composed entirely of lawyers, want to change this honeymoon relationship by subjecting Justice and the FBI to tough periodic reviews of their practices.

Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N. J., who became chairman of the committee in January, confirmed yesterday the intentions of the Democrats, but said he had not completed action on a resolution to be brought before the full committee.

Rodino also confirmed the concerns about the "politicization" of the Justice Department and the FBI and said it has created an "unhealthy situation" in the key agencies.

He said Congress must act to assert its oversight responsibilities.

GOP faithful told 'Nixon innocent'

(c) Newhouse News Service
 WASHINGTON — Republican national chairman George Bush mailed 5,000 "talking papers" on the Watergate affair to local GOP leaders all over the nation, suggesting that in speeches and interviews they reiterate faith in the innocence of the party and President Nixon.

"There is not a single shred of evidence that directly ties the President to Watergate," one suggested answer says. "And, he has repeatedly said that he had no knowledge of the Watergate break-in or what now appears to have been a cover-up of action. We must remember that basic tenet of this democracy — a man is innocent until proven guilty."

In a 4,000-word statement on Watergate on May 22, Nixon said "It is clear that unethical, as well as illegal, activities took place" in the course of the 1972 presidential campaign.

"None of these took place with my specific approval or knowledge," the President said. "To the extent that I may in any way have contributed to the climate in which they took place, to the extent that I failed to prevent them, I should have been more diligent."

In a covering letter addressed to "Dear Republican Leader," Bush noted that the suggested answers are primarily designed as guidelines and reminded the party faithful they are free to express their own opinions on this or any other matter.

Bush also included a list of achievements of the administration in 1973, ranging from the summit talks with Leonid Brezhnev to the proposal for the reinstatement of the death penalty for certain federal crimes.

"The latter, I think, should prove false the charges we hear that the Watergate has brought a halt to the daily working of government," Bush said in his letter.

He also sent along a reprint of an article by Patrick J. Buchanan, special consultant to the President and editor of the news summary which Nixon reads daily, in which Buchanan delivers an angry response to requests for a coalition administration.

The Watergate "talking paper" includes five questions and answers. They were culled from the score which were relayed to the national party headquarters in talks with local and state Republican leaders, a spokesman for the national committee said, and the responses were a mix of newly-prepared material and quotes given in previous speeches and interviews by Bush.

Communist party chief plans no US side trips

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
 WASHINGTON — Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev will make no side trips to American cities on his summit visit to the United States and has decided to return home a day earlier than originally planned.

Presidential assistant Henry A. Kissinger said Thursday the Soviet Communist party chief would confine himself to Washington and to President Nixon's secluded retreats at Camp David, Md., and San Clemente, Calif.

Brezhnev will address the American people on television from San Clemente Saturday June 23. But his plans to tour the US Space Center at Houston were canceled.

US security officials apparently recommended against visits to Chicago or other cities because of the prospect of disruptive demonstrations by American Jews protesting Soviet emigration policy and by Ukrainian-American and other ethnic groups.

In May of last year, Nixon toured Leningrad and Kiev, the capital of the Ukraine, besides holding summit discussions with Brezhnev and other Soviet officials in Moscow.

Brezhnev is scheduled to arrive in Washington tomorrow. His meetings with the President will not begin until Monday. They will shift to Camp David in the Maryland Mountains Wednesday and to San Clemente Friday.

Brezhnev will fly to Camp David the following Sunday and leave for home Monday, instead of Tuesday.

Kissinger said Nixon hoped that summit conferences between chiefs of the two nuclear superpowers would become regular occurrence hereafter and that Brezhnev could make up for his inability to see more of the United States on some future visit.

Kissinger also confirmed that groundwork already has been laid in months of preparatory consultations for the signing of a series of agreements dealing with agricultural and scientific research and cultural exchanges.

Iceland to expel US troops

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Foreign Minister Einar Agustsson of Iceland said Thursday he plans to take steps later this month to expel U.S. troops from Iceland.

Agustsson told foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) meeting in Copenhagen that Iceland would begin the expulsion process by ending the American lease on the Keflavik air base.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told an Iceland television audience that he hoped to reverse the decision.

Talks between the two men were considered possible some time today, U.S. sources said.

A major element in the dispute centers on NATO refusal to become involved in the long-simmering "cod war" between Iceland and Britain, both members of the alliance.

Iceland unilaterally extended its territorial fishing limit to 50 miles, but Britain refused to observe it and later sent gunboats into the area to protect British trawlers. Iceland demanded NATO force Britain to remove the gunboats.

Britain and Iceland took their argument before the ministers Thursday without result. Both restated their case, with Iceland demanding that Britain withdraw its warships and Britain saying it would do so only if Iceland promises not to harass British trawlers fishing in the area.

Guerrilla units alert for attack

By United Press International
 The Lebanese army and Palestinian guerrilla units in South Lebanon are on full alert to counter a possible Israeli attack against the region, press reports in Beirut said today.

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv refused comment on the reports.

The Beirut reports also said Syrian forces were alerted for a possible simultaneous Israeli thrust into the Golan Heights region, which adjoins southern Lebanon.

The invasion scare developed Thursday after the Israelis reported one of their army officers was killed and two soldiers wounded in a clash with guerrillas near the Lebanese frontier.

Official Lebanese sources and guerrilla leaders denied that any guerrillas had crossed into Israel from Lebanon. Press reports suggested the Israelis invented the incident as a pretext for attacking Lebanon.

Soviet Ambassador Sarvar Azimov held an "urgent meeting" in Beirut Thursday with Socialist Progressive party leader Kamal Jumblat of Lebanon to discuss the border situation, the Beirut newspaper An Nahar said today.

After the meeting, which was held at Azimov's request, An Nahar said Jumblat, told reporters:

TF aides approve change of zoning

By BONNIE JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — If the city of Twin Falls grants sewer and water services to a 60-acre site south of Twin Falls the county will allow the developers to build a mobile home park.

In a meeting Thursday, the county commissioners voted unanimously to grant Gordon Beckstead and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Snyder a RA-1 (residential agricultural) zone on their property just south of the Twin Falls city water tank.

The zone change from A-1 (agricultural) was approved providing other restrictions such as screening and setback limitations of the city mobile home park ordinance are met.

Commissioner William Wiseman made the motion to approve the zone change, saying such action follows the recommendation of the county planning and zoning commission. That group voted 6 to 5 in favor of the zone change.

Robert Paine, attorney representing a number of farmers in the area who oppose the proposed development, said he had been informed the city of Twin Falls is on the verge of adopting an ordinance to discontinue sewer or water hook ups outside of the city limits.

Dale Riedesel, engineer for the project, and Lloyd Webb, attorney, representing the developers, said they believe the project in question would not apply under the new ordinance as they have been given indication approval of the services by the city would be forthcoming since the project was proposed prior to the new ordinance.

County officials said directly across the street a mobile home park has been established and is now in operation. Commissioners said they felt it would be unfair to approve one piece of land for a mobile home park and deny another in that close proximity.

Gene Glenn, who owns a farm directly west of the proposed park site, attended the commission meeting Thursday to continue protesting the project. A public hearing was held Monday on the zone change request.

Campgrounds open

TWIN FALLS — Campers in the Magic Valley and Sawtooth Valley areas can expect good fishing but plenty of mosquitoes this weekend.

Nearly all campgrounds are now open and in use by weekend crowds but campers are urged to take along a supply of repellent for the mosquitoes to make the trip more enjoyable.

Sawtooth National Forest officials say all Sawtooth Valley, Stanley Basin and West River and Upper Salmon River areas of the Sawtooth National Recreation Area are open with minor exceptions. Only the Alturas Lake campgrounds are closed and this is due to construction of new toilet facilities due for completion by June 30.

A charge of $1 per day per vehicle is made in SNRA campgrounds now fully operating.

Campgrounds near Fairfield and along South Boise River are open with more sites being available on the upper river. A $1 a day charge is made at Baumgartner. Roads are good except over Dollarhide Summit which is still impassable.

Near Ketchum campgrounds are open except Federal Gulch, inaccessible because of a bridge washout. Trail Creek Summit is open but in poor condition. Warm Spring Road is open to the bottom of Dollarhide Summit.

In the southern part of Magic Valley campgrounds up Rock Creek Canyon south of Hansgn are open. The roads are open except between Rock Creek and Oakley, still closed by snow at the head of Third Fork.

The So-Called Higher Learning

WASHINGTON — To understand the mentality of the student minority which closed down Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio, for six violent weeks, one must ponder the statement of a student named Barbara Israel.

Testifying in a suit brought by four brave students for an injunction against the strikers, Miss Israel told the judge she expected to receive full course credit in Revolution and Spanish I for striking. The judge was incredulous. He should not have been. Even a cursory examination of the daily newspapers would have told him that there are still too many nuts running our so-called institutions of higher learning.

Antioch is foremost among these institutions, operating on what might be called the free-lunch theory. In 1970, the college instituted its New Directions program designed to include "a real number of working class students, black and white."

As proclaimed by President James P. Dixon, the idea was to foment "creative conflict" and thus provide the student body with "a learning experience."

Well, there was conflict, all right, and about 250 strikers profited from the "learning experience" by demanding violently that the college guarantee low-income students financial support through graduation, at up to 4,000 claims a year. There was no talk about keeping grades up, of course. The college said it couldn't guarantee any dough beyond two years' because of the uncertainty of Federal assistance. So, a strike, naturally.

Although nearly 2,000 students wanted to continue their studies, Dixon did nothing to reopen the school until his hand was forced by the four litigants seeking an injunction. Even when the injunction was granted, the college appealed the judge's decision on "principle"; Dixon's stand was that the court had interfered by ordering the college to do something it was already trying to do!

In the meantime, the college buildings were vandalized, professors were assaulted, one by a thrown ashcan — and non-strikers were forced to organize classes off campus. Somehow, the "working class" strikers — most of them black — managed to find the money to obtain and erect barricades to keep everybody out of the classrooms.

Dixon was not idle, he was making statements "People came to claim the social justice that was their due," he said. "A great deal of the energy for change comes from dissent," he said. He argued that to rule without agreement on campus makes the administration a "tyrant," a role he found "unacceptable." Agreement? A whopping majority of the student body was howling for its right to an education and charging, accurately, that the college had reneged on its contractual obligations.

Finally — but not until the injunction had been issued — Dixon admitted that "confusion had reached a point where it couldn't organize itself." I'm going to save that one, too. He added that he was "beginning to believe that the level of coercion is destructive of the pluralistic dissent that the campus has been willing to tolerate." Where on earth do the Dixons of this world find their rhetoric? I suppose what he meant was that the strikers were beating up too many people.

It is, of course, the James P. Dixons who are confused. In seeking to provide "social justice" for the underprivileged, some of whom are more interested in paid vacations than in learning how to spell CAT, they establish a new privileged class of students who in a community of equals are considerably more equal than their peers. Naturally, this new privileged class felt Antioch owed them guaranteed financial support. The Dixons had told them to expect it.

But there is a flaw in these "New Directions" programs. It is that while a college can do what it pleases with its own money, the college has no vested right to expect financial support from the Federal government for its courses in "creative conflict." The citizen in Lubbock, Tex., or Reading, Pa., who gets it up for the income tax man every year might well suggest other uses for his dough. Somebody always has to pay for a free lunch.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

He Lives Alone

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to make arrangements in advance for special service in case of emergency. I am 82, live alone, no living relatives. I am under regular treatment by my company doctor, but his service would not be available in case of emergency.

Is there any kind of "emergency service" that could be called upon to take over, or what would you suggest? J. L. B.

It depends, sort of, on how much of an emergency you have in mind. And are you sure the company doctor wouldn't be available for at least a telephone call? Since he knows your general condition, it might be very helpful to have a bit of conversation with him, if, for example, you were to contract some serious illness.

There are several things you can do to safeguard yourself in case of emergency — type of emergency is problematical, of course.

First of all, do you live in an apartment? Or do you have a house of your own? For your general protection, you should have some sort of established pattern, so somebody expects to see you every day. If he doesn't, he'll investigate. This is a wise precaution because every now and then we hear of another case of someone living alone, suffering, stamped envelope for the blood pressure booklet, but frankly I don't think you are one of the people needing it.

Always carry a card indicating that in case of illness or injury you want to be taken to the nearest hospital emergency room — or, if you have a preference, say that if possible you should be taken to a particular hospital. This card should carry some brief but useful information names of your attorney, clergyman, superintendent of your building if you live in an apartment, and the name of your company doctor.

Many churches have social service units that could be contacted. Some may have a service that includes having someone call on you from time to time, or to check with you by phone.

A social service worker tells me that in some parts of the country there is a Well-Being Service for the Aging. This is relatively new, but its function is to check periodically on people like you who live alone, either by phone or visit.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told that my blood pressure is 110, over what I do not know. I am going on 70 and wonder whether there is any medication I should be taking. I am an active person but do tire rather easily, and have been wondering whether 110 is too low. Would you give me your opinion, or any information you may have on blood pressure? M.C.

"A pressure of 110 over almost anything within reason is something to cheer about rather than worry about. While at almost 70 you may tire rather easily, that's not surprising, and I wouldn't blame it on the blood pressure. There could be other reasons for fatigue.

As for information on blood pressure, I have a booklet devoted to the subject, mostly on high blood pressure, but some counsel in it addressed to folks who think theirs is too low. If you want it, send 25 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope for the blood pressure booklet, but frankly I don't think you are one of the people needing it.

SHINGLES Shingles can be a painful disease! To receive a copy of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

VOICE OF THE TURTLE

ROBERT ALLEN

Jackson's Inquiry

WASHINGTON With Soviet Communist party boss Leonid Brezhnev due in Washington next week, the State Department apparently is unhappily finding itself very much on the spot regarding certain highly revealing details of U.S.-Soviet relations.

Inside world is the embarrassing information shows Russia is decidedly getting the best of the bargain. The State Department has only itself to blame for being in this jam.

Nearly two months ago, Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., asked for explicitly specified "basic data relating to reciprocity in U.S.-Soviet relations" — and he is still waiting for an answer, with no indication when it will be forthcoming.

Indicative of the relevant facts he is after are the following:

Numbers of diplomatic personnel, journalists, commercial officers, etc., in Washington and Moscow.

Nature and extent of the recently arranged educational, cultural and technical exchange program.

Frequency of exemptions granted Soviet travelers from the rules under which certain areas of the U.S. are closed to Russians.

Unless the administration is trying to cover up disconcerting disclosures of one-sided nature of the U.S.-Soviet ties, it's a mystery why it has taken so long for Jackson to get a reply to his inquiry.

On April 12, he wrote Jack Matlock, Jr., director for Soviet Union Affairs in the State Department, asking 12 carefully spelled-out questions. Jackson made perfectly clear the information he wanted, and there is no reason why the Department can't furnish it — unless it's afraid to do so for fear of adverse public reaction.

From long experience, one thing the Department (and the White House) should know by now is that Jackson is not to be trifled with.

He is tough, resolute, knowledgeable and personally and politically powerful. Serving his fourth term, the Washington state legislator is chairman of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, ranking member of the Armed Services Committee, of the Government Operations Committee and the Joint Atomic Energy Committee. Jackson also is author of the most serious menace facing President Nixon's highly touted trade bill — an amendment barring most-favorite-nation treatment to countries that "deny their citizens the right of opportunity to emigrate by imposing the payment of more than nominal taxes, fees or other charges."

This amendment is aimed squarely at Russia because of harsh treatment of Jews seeking to emigrate to Israel.

Gravely illustrative of the gravity of Jackson's threat is that his amendment is co-sponsored by 76 Republican and Democratic Senators, and 276 Republican and Democratic House members — an overwhelming majority of both chambers.

A father is a thing that grows when it feels good and laughs very loud when it's scared half to death.

A father is sometimes accused of giving too much time to his business when the little ones are growing up. That's partly true, too.

Fathers are much more easily frightened than mothers. A father never feels entirely worthy of the worship in a child's eyes. He's never quite the hero his daughter thinks; never quite the man his son believes him to be, and this worries him, sometimes.

So he works too hard trying to smooth the rough places in the road for those of his own who will follow him.

A father is a thing that gets very angry when the first school grades aren't as good as he thinks they should be. He scolds his son, though he knows it's the teacher's fault.

A father is a thing that goes away to war, sometimes. And learns to swear and shoot and spit through his teeth and would run the other way except that this war is his only important job in life — which is making the world better for his child than it has been for him.

Fathers grow old faster than people because they, in other wars, have to stand at the station and wave goodbye to the uniform that climbs aboard. Mothers can cry where it shows. Fathers have to stand there and beam outside — and die inside.

Fathers have very stout hearts, so they have to be broken sometimes or no one would know what's inside. Fathers are what give daughters away to other men who aren't nearly good enough so they can have grandchildren that are smarter than anybody's.

Fathers fight dragons — almost daily. They hurry away from the breakfast table, off to the arena which is sometimes called an office or a workshop. There, with calloused, practiced hands, they tackle the dragon with three heads: weariness, work and monotony.

And they never quite win the fight but they never give up. Knights in shining armor or fathers in shiny trousers there's little difference.

Fathers make bets with insurance companies about who'll live the longest. Though they know the odds, they keep right on betting. Even as the odds get higher and higher, they keep right on betting, more and more.

And one day they lose. But fathers enjoy an earthly immortality, and the bet's paid off to the part of him he leaves behind.

I don't know where fathers go when they die. But I've an idea that after a good rest — wherever it is — a father won't be happy unless there's work to do.

He won't just sit on a cloud and wait for the girl he's loved and the children she bore. He'll be busy there, too, repairing the stairs, oiling the gates, improving the streets — smoothing the way.

Closer To Union

The 50 states of the United States of America are bound together by the glue of a basic legal document — the Constitution — whose ultimate interpreter is the Supreme Court.

Although the nine members of the European Economic Community — which is the closest Europe has yet come to a "United States of Europe" — have no constitution as such, they do have a common body of agreements and a supranational court of adjudication which is becoming a growing force in the daily lives of Europeans.

This is the European Court of Justice, created by the 1952 Treaty of Paris which established the European Coal and Steel Community, a forerunner of the Common Market.

The court's role is to interpret the various Community treaties and the laws flowing from them in cases of disputes between Community members. But increasingly, notes French journalist Jean Lecerf, writing in the publication European Community, the court is finding itself deciding suits brought by private citizens against their own or other member governments.

For example, one as yet undecided case involves a German engineer who obtained his employer's consent to take a position in Alsace. Soon after his arrival in France, he was the victim of an on-the-job accident. Who pays — the French social security system or the German?

Without the Court of Justice, the engineer might have run up against a double refusal. As it happened, the German court to which the matter was brought has deferred judgment pending the European Court's interpretation of the appropriate text.

It also appears likely, says Lecerf, that in coming years the Court of Justice will become an instrument of recourse in the application of Article-119 of the Common Market Treaty, which stipulates that men and women shall receive equal pay for equal work. One female employe of the European Parliament in Luxembourg has already won a case in which she alleged salary discrimination on the basis of sex.

The growing stature of the court has raised an important question: When Community law and national law conflict, which should prevail? A minor case has served to establish the preeminence of the European Court in this area.

It involved an Italian citizen who had been called before a judge for refusing to pay an electricity bill on the grounds that the nationalization of the electric power industry violated the Rome Treaty. The issue was particularly serious in that an opinion of the Italian Constitutional Court had held that any national law overrode an earlier Community statute.

The European Court disagreed, and recent decisions have confirmed the supremacy of Community law.

The court's verdict last July against the Italian government for having continued to levy a tax on exported art objects, a practice prohibited by the Treaty, established a fundamental legal point:

"Application of Community law is to be identical at all times and in all parts of the Community and must prevail over any obstacles that a member state may place in its way," the court declared.

"In relinquishing to the Community the rights and powers corresponding to the Treaty provisions, the member states have effected a definitive limitation of their sovereign rights which no national statute may disavow."

In just such a way did the 13 original American states relinquish their absolute sovereignty 184 years ago when they joined together to form "a more perfect Union."

MR. SPECTATOR Thoughts While Sitting

It was interesting to read the net interest rate on the $3.9 million school bond issue in Burley will amount to $2.6 million by the time it is paid off in 1993.

Was also interesting to note South Central Idaho Health District personnel admit they have not been following the law when it comes to inspections of eating places such as the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, the Twin Falls County Jail, several local schools and many restaurants. Their excuse — not enough manpower. A law is a law and whether you like it or not a manpower shortage is not acceptable as an excuse for tacitly ignoring their responsibility. Only way to look at it is to close up the uninspected places — because they are, in fact, operating outside the law — or add more inspectors or just forget the whole thing and change the law. But the way it is going now it is a violation.

We can remember when the smoke and steam coming from the Amalgamated Sugar Co. plant near our fair city was a good and welcome sign. It was a sign of industry and more money for the community. Now it is bad — very bad, and officials of the company say requirements may even force them to close the entire plant. Which reminds us that under the new court ruling even building a new highway, or making a new subdivision or mobile court or a new flying field could be stopped because of its effect on air pollution. Everybody take a deep breath?

One thing nice, though, looking toward the north the other day we were able to see the Sawtooth Mountains, or whatever!

Nixon seeking power to control farm exports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The muscle behind President Nixon's price freeze is the power he is asking from Congress to control farm exports.

Here's why:

The initial reaction most people may have had to the President's freeze on retail prices is to say here we go again. Isn't this just what we came in in August, 1971, when the President also froze prices, except at a much lower level?

The answer is yes — but. The but is important. The President didn't ask for export controls then. The opposite. The administration then was in the process of trying to push sales of American commodities overseas, including big sales to Russia and China.

Now Nixon has decided it is more important to control inflation at home than to develop markets overseas.

In the President's own words he had made a "basic decision: in allocating the products of America's farms between markets abroad and those in the United States, we must put the American consumer first."

He believes that export controls can help keep food prices down.

A freeze can be only a temporary device. During a freeze, pressures build up which can send prices soaring after the freeze is lifted.

For example, a freeze doesn't allow a retailer to charge any more for his merchandise even though other costs go up — like labor, rent, taxes and the cost of farm products. These are being left uncontrolled by the President.

The theory is that if the consumer doesn't pay more, the retailer will resist price increases at the wholesale level, and the wholesaler, not sky high immediately after the freeze.

The administration rejects as unworkable the alternative of controlling farm prices. Administration economists, who reluctantly accept temporary controls, are dead against controls at the farm level, arguing this would reduce supplies and in the long run be a major blow to the system of private enterprise.

Something had to be done to keep price pressures from building up at the bottom, and the President decided that the way to do this was to control the export of basic farm commodities such as wheat, rice, barley, corn and soybeans.

Almost everybody who has been following the economy is aware of how the price of soybeans has been soaring recently so that some farmers have had to sell their cattle because they couldn't afford to buy soybeans to feed them.

Much of the rise in the soybean price is traceable to speculation based on an assured world market. The demand for soybeans is worldwide and seems to be assured for the indefinite future.

The export controls would, tell the speculators: "Don't be so sure you'll have those world markets. If you bid the price up any more, you may get hurt."

That is the theory the administration is going on to try to hold the line on food prices — the new weapon against inflation which makes the 1973 freeze somewhat different than the one in 1971.

Analysis

being able to charge more, will resist paying higher prices for the raw goods.

What if the price of the raw goods keeps going up? The administration is convinced that black markets would develop or that prices would go

Kissinger fails to avert break

By GEORGE SHERMAN
(c) Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON — Henry A. Kissinger's latest effort in arduous Vietnam diplomacy evidently has failed to avert the first decisive break between President Nixon and the Congress over Indochina.

That is the private conclusion of officials and observers here from the almost passing reference in the new 2,500-word Paris communique with Hanoi on the continuing war in Cambodia.

Only one of the 14 points referred to Cambodia, a short sentence reaffirming that the previous January agreements on open-ended withdrawal of foreign troops from Laos and Cambodia still should be "strictly implemented."

In Washington, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, a leading advocate of an enforced ending to the bombing in Cambodia, immediately said that the new agreement would not change plans to push the Congressional plan to a vote in both houses.

United States officials profess no surprise over the public refusal by Hanoi to back a cease-fire in Cambodia at a time when the Communist insurgents they are backing are obviously in control of the situation. But they note that the onset of the rainy season in mid-June will dampen military activities, so that the bombing could be curtailed while the Cambodians themselves work out a compromise.

It is all but accepted here that results will be a shaky coalition government, like the kind being set up in neighboring Laos, which gives the Hanoi-supported opposition a strong — if not ruling — voice in the government and guarantees Hanoi its supply and communications line into neighboring South Vietnam.

In expert circles here the other 13 points of the communique, signed separately by the U. S., North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Vietcong, do not appear to break any new ground guaranteeing the cease-fire first agreed to in Vietnam on Jan. 27.

The crucial question of the political future of South Vietnam is once again left open.

Kissinger admitted as much in his news conference.

Consequently the new communique reasserts all the previous obligations: From Hanoi to respect the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam and to stop infiltrating men and supplies to the south; from Washington, to keep new military forces and supplies — except replacements out of South Vietnam.

The Vietcong and Saigon government also pledged that their top commanders will begin a reinforced cease-fire supervised by their more clearly defined military commission in tandem with the inter-national commission of control and supervision.

But implementation is left suitably vague. Methods for determining which areas lie in whose hands are to be worked out "empirically," according to Kissinger, backing away from earlier attempts to set down precise criteria for determining how large a force had to be present in a South Vietnamese hamlet to recognize it as belonging to either the Saigon government or the Vietcong.

Once again, as in January, both the Vietcong and the Saigon government join Hanoi and Washington in pledging efforts to "do their utmost to form a new national council of reconciliation and to hold new elections."

But the new 16-day period for these efforts is set out as a hopeful target rather than as a firm promise of achievement.

Experienced analysts in Washington regard the new agreement as largely a public relations exercise, reflecting the realization on all sides that the period of drastic military activity in South Vietnam has come to an end, for the time being.

Canada clamps export

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada announced Thursday it was imposing temporary export controls on gasoline and home heating oil effective midnight Friday to halt the drain by the fuel hungry United States.

"This move will ensure that unusual export demand for these products does not impair supplies to Canadian consumers," Energy minister Donald Macdonald told the House of Commons.

He said the measures would be temporary.

The government announcement followed a rapid increase in exports of gasoline and heating oil to the United States. These exports were reportedly straining refinery capacity in Canada.

Canada imposed export controls on crude oil March 1 but did not include refined products. Those controls generally held crude oil exports to their 1972 levels.

Macdonald said the imposition of formal controls followed failure of refiners to agree on a voluntary system to limit their exports.

He said the controls would be administered by the National Energy Board (NEB), which also operates the crude oil controls. The NEB in 1971 stopped licensing any additional natural gas exports to the United States.

"The government, on the advice of the NEB, has decided to impose export controls for a temporary period," Macdonald told the Commons.

"The duration of the temporary period will be related to improvement in international supplies of refined oil products and also the expansion of refinery capacity in eastern Canada," he said.

CIA under 'secret charter'

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
 WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency is operating under a "secret charter" that appears to be secret even to the congressional committees that are supposed to be told all its secrets.

The secret charter reportedly a collection of secret orders to the CIA from the President — recently has been cited in defense of CIA actions in the Watergate scandal that seemed to violate the law.

But Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., the man with the longest service on the CIA oversight committees in the Senate told the Chicago Sun-Times Friday he "does not know of any secret charter." The only interpretations of the act. Those interpretations, referred to in bureaucratic shorthand as the secret charter, reportedly have been laid down in a number of National Security Council directives dating back to 1948.

The directives have been justified on the basis of a loophole in the act permitting the CIA "to perform such other functions and duties related to intelligence affecting the national security as the National Security Council may from time to time direct."

Senators have been asked to act as a watchdog on the CIA, indicated the directives were not cleared in advance with the committees.

Nixon lays memorial to Sen. E. Dirksen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Accompanied by a party of Watergate congressional critics, President Nixon flies to Peoria, Ill., today to lay a granite cornerstone for a new leadership center to be named for the late Sen. Everett M. Dirksen.

Nixon invited Dirksen's son-in-law, Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, the ranking Republican on the Senate Watergate Committee, to fly with him aboard the "Spirit of '76." Also invited were Illinois' two senators, Charles E. Percy, a Republican who has been a scathing critic of the scandal, and Adlai Stevenson, a Democrat.

Nixon has made no public comment on the widening Watergate scandal since May 22, and aides doubted he would discuss it at the dedication on the site of Peoria's main library.

But CIA officials have conceded that they allowed themselves to become involved in domestic politics by following White House orders to cover up the Watergate affair.

In addition, top-secret White House documents disclosed last week showed the CIA agreed to play an active role in a domestic intelligence plan approved by President Nixon in 1970.

Watergate investigators have charged the activities clearly violated the National Security Act.

But CIA and administration officials contend the activities were permissible under a series of secret White House

Arabs hold key to energy crises

(c) NY Times Service
 BEIRUT, Lebanon — An Arab oil expert has said that Arab oil-producing countries could bring the United States and other western nations to the brink of a severe energy crisis within one year by merely freezing production at its present levels.

Dr. Nadim Pachachi, the former secretary general of the 11-nation organization of petroleum exporting countries (OPEC) said at a lecture here that total oil embargo was both unnecessary and counterproductive.

"All the Arab producers need do is merely to refuse to increase production," he told an audience of Lebanese and Americans at the Alumni Club of the American University of Beirut.

The lecture was organized by a pro-Arab group of Americans residing here known as Americans for Justice in the Middle East.

Pachachi, whose term as secretary of the powerful OPEC ended in December, was asked by members of the audience why the Arab producers have not done this to force the United States to revise what was described as its pro-Israeli stance.

The former OPEC executive did not respond to the question directly but alluded to the possibility of United States counter measures, including resort to force, to insure oil supplies.

"We need not impose an oil embargo or boycott against any country," he said. "An embargo against one or more countries is neither practical nor effective."

Arabs can use their oil as a political lever without affecting their own economies by merely refraining from increasing production. This, he said, would be sufficient to generate a serious energy crisis for the United States and the West.

Pachachi, who is of Iraqi descent but resides here, said he expected the demand for oil to increase until the end of the century, and world dependence on Arab oil to continue for at least another decade.

Judge sentences Lansky to jail for contempt

MIAMI (UPI) — Federal Judge James L. King ignored Meyer Lansky's plea that "I never meant no contempt" and sentenced the reputed underworld czar to a year and a day in prison Thursday for ignoring a grand jury subpoena.

After leaving the courtroom, defense attorney E. David Rosen told King he would appeal the sentence within the 10-day limit. Lansky was allowed to remain free on $200,000 bond.

King noted the 70-year-old reputed "financial wizard" of the Mafia had undergone open heart surgery in March and recommended Lansky serve his time at the Federal Hospital Prison at Springfield, Mo.

Lansky was dressed in an electric blue sport coat, blue slacks and alligator shoes. But he looked weary as he stood before King during the 30-minute hearing.

"The only words Lansky spoke were to King:

"I want the court to know I never meant no contempt," he said. "It's just like I said on the stand."

What Lansky had said during his trial here last February was he could not answer the 1971 federal grand jury subpoena to return from Israel to Miami without aggravating his heart condition. He was convicted of contempt Feb. 28 after a brief trial.

Rosen also noted Lansky's heart condition and pleaded for a fine, saying his crime was "not against the public, but against the court."

But Justice Department prosecutor Douglas McMillan successfully argued that a fine, "to a man of Mr. Lansky's wealth, would be meaningless."

Lansky still faces trial here July 10 on charges of income tax evasion and another trial in Las Vegas in September on charges of "skinning" $36 million in profits from the Flamingo Hotel gambling casino.

Solons urge action

BOISE (UPI) — Two Republican legislators sent a letter to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Thursday urging him to take immediate action to assure that the state is leading the way in energy conservation.

Sen. Lyle R. Cobbs and Rep. Jack Kennevick, both of Boise, said predictions indicate that a crisis, should one develop, could be expected to peak during the middle of our harvest season.

"Critical shortages in energy resources, particularly in motor fuels, could have a disastrous effect on Idaho agriculture and thereby, on the state's total economy," they said.

They recommended that Andrus by executive order limit state vehicles to a speed of 10 miles per hour less than the posted limit in rural areas. They said such a step would save only small quantities of gasoline but would serve to make other motorists more sensitive to the need for conservation.

The legislators said such a step by the state government "might influence city and county governments, and private enterprise to follow suit."

They also suggested the governor consider urging state employees and others to form car pools to cut the number of vehicles on the road and reduce gasoline consumption.

A side benefit of reduced speeds and fewer cars on the road would be a reduction in traffic fatalities, they said.

Unwanted

BOURNEMOUTH, England (UPI) — The family regarded Sidney Patterson as an ideal butler for 27 years, then he began to slow down.

The final blow came, a court heard Thursday, when the mistress of the house hit him on the head with a rock.

Mrs. Evelyn Harris, 69, pleaded guilty to assaulting Patterson, 50, had been employed by the family since 1944 and was treated as an old friend until illness slowed him in 1971.

The family said he was no longer wanted. The end came when he was locked out of the kitchen. Patterson lost his temper and threw a "pull through a window."

He was fired, but returned another day to collect his things. Mrs. Harris followed him upstairs, the prosecution said, and hit him on the head with a rock.

President plans more Soviet meets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon plans to meet regularly with the leaders of the Soviet Union in the coming years, possibly changing the status of summit meetings from infrequent diplomatic spectacles to periodic working sessions.

"We expect that these meetings will become more regular as matter of international diplomacy," White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger said Thursday in outlining plans for Nixon's week-long series of meetings with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev, which begins here Monday.

Kissinger also said the Nixon-Brezhnev talks "may lead to a turning point" in the arms control talks now under way in Geneva. He said, however, the SALT negotiations were at a complex stage and "we will not force the pace of any negotiation to fit a schedule."

In Moscow Thursday night, Brezhnev said at a meeting with American newsmen that he was not going to the United States with any intention of bringing pressure to bear on Nixon because of his troubles over the Watergate case. Brezhnev said it would be "completely inexact" to refer to the Watergate affair.

Insures guests

NEW YORK (UPI) — Austria Hotels of Vienna, one of West Europe's leading hotel chains, covers all guests with health insurance that pays 90 per cent of any doctor's fee and up to $40 toward hospital bills during the 1973-74 season. The insurance is free and the guests are automatically covered as soon as they register, says Otto Scherer, president of the hotel chain.

Mitchell still remains silent

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell "knows how much trouble he's in but he is determined not to take all the blame," a friend said Thursday.

The comment came after Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign, told the Senate Watergate committee that Mitchell approved the break-in at the Democratic national headquarters and knew of the scheme to cover it up.

Although a crowd of newsmen besieged Mitchell's Fifth Avenue apartment building after Magruder's testimony, the former attorney general and director of the Nixon campaign was not seen.

One of his lawyers, Plato Cacheris of Washington, said Mitchell was anxious to "tell his story and exonerate himself, but I don't think he will have a comment" on Magruder's testimony.

"Mitchell knows how much trouble he's in but he is determined not to take all the blame," said one friend who asked not to be identified. "He's got some smart lawyers and they are going to wait until all the testimony is out before shaping the stand which Mitchell will take in all this."

Friends said Mitchell's associates had urged him to publicly counter the mounting testimony against him.

Education board orders reviews

McCALL (UPI) — State Board of Education today ordered periodic competency review and evaluations for all tenured faculty at state institutions of higher education.

Periodic reviews committees shall include students, non-tenured and tenured faculty members and one person from outside the department — each with a full vote," the new policy said.

Such competency reviews under the policy proposed by the board's policy committee must be made at least every five years for all tenured faculty. Merit time, the board adopted a planning committee definition of tenure which separates it from a definition of academic freedom. A statement concerning academic freedom will be worked out later.

Board members generally accepted other tenure policy recommendations of the planning committee except for a proposal requiring the board to set quotas on tenure in the institutions, to set quotas on rank.

On a motion by member Ed Benoit, Twin Falls, the board at first tabled the motion to approve that policy by a vote of 4-3. Board President John Swartley, Boise, forced to break the tie.

"I'll be goddamned," Swartley said, when confronted with the breaking the tie. Later, the board rescinded its action and on a motion by Benoit rewarded the policy to say it will consider setting quotas on tenure and rank after it hears recommendations from the institutions.

Other policy points eliminate the "up or out" principle for awarding tenure, adoption of minimum probationary periods of five years, and directions for the board to determine dismissal procedure for faculty members.

Performance of each faculty member also must be reviewed annually under the new tenure policy.

France and US surprise allies

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — France and the United States, meeting privately, surprised their allies today by agreeing to re-study transatlantic relations as a first step toward modernizing the Western alliance, European sources said.

Only one day earlier, French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert said the alliance needed no changing.

But the sources said the French made concessions in a late night session by French and U.S. diplomats and presented them to 13 fellow foreign ministers attending the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) spring meeting here.

American sources said France still must ratify the compromise, before it could go into a formal communique. But they said they were "delighted" by the French change of heart. European diplomats said they were astonished. Most of them had expected France, which has previously been wary of the U.S. attempt to reform the alliance, to block the study.

According to the sources, the communique will affirm the need for NATO, but will accept the principle that because of the many changes in the world since NATO was founded 24 years ago, the "internal relations of the alliance" should be re-examined.

"The study, the sources quoted the communique, will be made by the council of NATO ambassadors in Brussels.

U.S. officials have urged that the study produce a statement of principles, what Secretary of State William P. Rogers called "our general objectives," giving broad political guidance to Western negotiators on their talks this year on trade, defense and monetary reform.

Giving only chewing gum

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — A delegate to a Southern Presbyterian convention said Wednesday his fellow church members talk about erasing hunger in the world but all they are willing to give is two sticks of chewing gum.

"We spent $21,000 in combating worldwide hunger and the abatement was not even noticeable," David H. Burr, a spokesman for the task force on hunger, told delegates. "That is only 3 1/2 cents per member per year. That's two sticks of chewing gum. That's hardly a commitment at all."

Burr said his task force has prepared a report on hunger to be presented to the 113th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. The assembly was expected to approve it before it adjourned Friday.

The report recommends continuing the church's current program beyond its expiration date next year and to spend more money to fight hunger in the world.

"We must hit the hunger of the body first," Burr said. "The hunger of the soul can come later."

Just to live

DRESSED IN work clothes, Father Michael T. Neuberger pumps gasoline at the J. C. Penney Auto Center in Milwaukee. The priest, who is feuding with the Milwaukee Archdiocese, said he took the job "just to live."

Catholic priest pumps gas after his eviction

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The Rev. Michael T. Neuberger pumps gas for a living.

Father Neuberger, a Roman Catholic priest, is at odds with the Milwaukee Archdiocese as a result of an eviction suit to remove him from a residence owned by St. Gall's Church in the inner city.

He feels the part of the conflict involves his close association for years with the Rev. James F. Groppi, the city's controversial civil rights priest.

"The whole problem centers on the fact that I have been without an assignment in the diocese for four years," Father Neuberger said in a weekend interview.

Previously, he was a teacher and counselor at Milwaukee Messmer High School, and a member of the staff at Groppi's St. Boniface Church.

"The biggest problem I can see in these four years is that there has been no communication between myself and the diocese," Father Neuberger said.

"I have requested meetings and hearings about possible assignments and they have been promised, but simply never held," he said. "I have never been given any reason why church officials would not meet with me."

Neuberger's attorney, David Walther, said that, under Church law, the archdiocese cannot force Neuberger to leave his residence unless the church removes him from the priesthood or gives him another assignment.

"I've been in the case for six months and I have not yet been able to get an intelligent answer," Walther said. "Obviously, somebody in the diocese doesn't like him very well."

Walther said Neuberger took the job as gas station attendant because he was receiving no stipend from the church.

A spokesman for the Personnel Board at the archdiocese said Neuberger was still "a priest in good standing." The spokesman said Neuberger has been offered several positions within the archdiocese, "but for his own reasons has not accepted any."

The Rev. Robert Sampson, chancellor of the archdiocese, said Neuberger previously worked for the office of Economic Opportunity and had no time to accept a full-time parish assignment.

"To my knowledge, he has not applied for reassignment," Sampson said.

"I would say the church bureaucracy has very much the same problems the government bureaucracy suffers," Neuberger said.

American giving stays at same two per cent

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
"Private giving for the public good rose to a record level of $22.7 billion last year."

So begins the 1973 edition of "Giving U.S.A.," an annual report compiled by the American Association of Fund-Raising Council the most authoritative source of statistics on philanthropy in America.

If you consider American giving as a percentage of the gross national product — and this really is the only realistic yardstick of public generosity — there has been very little change over the past 50 years, or even over the past 10 years.

Year in and year out, for as long as anyone has tried to keep statistics, Americans have contributed to religion and philanthropy about 2 per cent of their gross national product.

Last year, the actual percentage was 1.97, which is very close to par.

In other words, we haven't grown stingier or more generous in our private giving. We're just maintaining our accustomed level of philanthropy.

From the viewpoint of churches and other institutions which are dependent on voluntary support, it is good news that giving at least is keeping pace with economic expansion, population growth and inflation.

But it is misleading to suggest that these institutions are in clover because giving has "risen to a record level." The fact is, most churches — and most privately supported schools, hospitals, cultural activities and welfare agencies — are chronically strapped for money, just as they've always been. They never have quite enough to meet their needs or do all the things they ought to be doing.

Now if we gave 3 per cent of our gross national product to unselfish causes, the budgetary problems of churches and charities would be dramatically eased. And if we give 10 per cent — the biblical tithe — these institutions would think the millennium had arrived.

But we seem to be stuck at 2 per cent.

If that's the best we can do, so be it. But we could at least stop bragging about it.

The report says 1972 giving represented "an increase of $1.4 billion over the previous year" and was more than double the figure for 10 years ago.

All of which sounds very good, and helps to sustain our cherished self-image of America as a land of generous givers who dig deep into their pockets to provide lavish support for churches, schools, hospitals, cultural institutions and welfare agencies.

Before we strain our arms patting our backs, however, there are other figures, in "Giving U.S.A." which we should take into account. They show that Americans are giving more to philanthropy not because they've grown more generous, but simply because they have a lot more money to spend around. During the past 10 years, the gross national product — the description economists use of the nation's total output of goods and services — has grown from $590.5 billion to $1,151.8 billion.

Last year, the actual percentage was 1.97, which is very close to par.

In other words, we haven't grown stingier or more generous in our private giving. We're just maintaining our accustomed level of philanthropy.

From the viewpoint of churches and other institutions which are dependent on voluntary support, it is good news that giving at least is keeping pace with economic expansion, population growth and inflation.

But it is misleading to suggest that these institutions are in clover because giving has "risen to a record level." GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Lyle Snider, a Quaker on trial for claiming all humanity as dependents on his income tax form, was found in contempt of U.S. District Court Tuesday after he and his wife refused to stand when the judge walked into the courtroom.

Snider, 26, is charged with fraudulently claiming three billion dependents on his W-4 withholding form.

Judge Hiram H. Ward found the couple in contempt and said he would pass sentence at the end of the trial.

In a letter to the IRS, Snider said, "We are becoming more and more aware of our responsibility to our three billion human beings all over the world."

Supply said food price control key

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz told Texas farmers Wednesday what President Nixon told the rest of the nation — lower food prices will come through more abundant supplies, not by controlling prices at the farm.

Butz said too many consumers have the mistaken belief that cheap food is part of the American heritage.

"We should not treat lightly the danger that threatens U.S. agriculture from pressure groups and consumer advocates no matter how well intentioned they may be," Butz told thousands of farmers at the dedication of the $2.7 million Texas Farm Bureau headquarters.

"In this current flap over food prices there is a growing feeling among many Americans and organizations that cheap food is their birthright—that somehow it is up to the government and farmers to work out a system between them so that cheap food—subsidized food—is always available.

"These people fail to appreciate the invisible cement, the opportunity to make a little money, the incentive that encourages men and women on the land to produce for market.

"Greater abundance is the key to lower consumer prices. The way to bring down the prices of food in supermarkets is to let the farmers make a profit producing it. The opportunity to earn profits is what the farming business is all about.

"It's the only road to abundant production, which is the best antidote for inflation."

Butz delivered his speech shortly before President Nixon went on national television to announce a 60-day price freeze that will not affect unprocessed farm products.

After the dedication, William J. Kuhfuss, American Farm Bureau president, told a conference of Farm Bureau Federation county presidents, "It is time somebody moved decisively to stop the senseless deficit spending of the federal government.

"To stop inflation the available dollars must find a home, either through abundant available supplies or through taxation. The easy route will not be effective in controlling inflation."

Pour milk first, then tea

LONDON (UPI) — Science finally has solved the baffling question—whether milk should go into the cup before or after tea.

Experts employed by the British Standards Institution said Wednesday the milk should go into the cup first. If it is poured into the tea, they said, the milk is scalded and that affects the taste of the tea.

The experts also drew up rules for tea making to guarantee that tea sold to the public is uniform.

There was none of that rule of thumb stuff—"one spoon of tea per person and one for the pot."

Water used for making tea, they said, must boil and must come to almost the top of the pot when the lid is put on. Then the pot must stand exactly six minutes before the tea is poured.

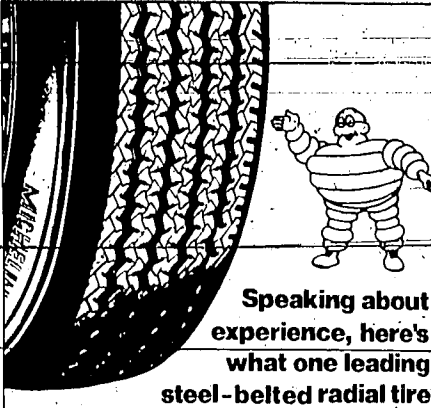

"We're not trying to tell the public how to make tea," one expert said. "This is just for the professional tasters."

Buhl firm sells beans

BOHIL — Shields Inc., Buhl, was awarded a purchase contract from the U. S. Department of Agriculture for 200,000 pounds of dry edible pinto beans June 8.

The order is for beans in 25 pound lots at 14.10-14.86 per hundredweight, FOB delivery point.

The beans, purchased with Section 32 of Public Law 74-320 funds, are for use in school lunch and needy family programs. Shipments are to be made June 18 through Aug. 31, according to Bean Market News, June 12.

Dry year seen

BOISE (UPI) — A report released by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture and the Soil Conservation Service predicts a dry year for Idaho based on a survey of snow depths.

The report said snow depths in some areas this year were the lowest on record and spring rains have been well below normal.

The report said one reason for the low readings this year is the normal to above normal temperatures which have resulted in early snowmelt even at high elevations.

Hamptons given Grange degree

KING HILL — Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hampton were given the fourth and third degree obligations at the King Hill Grange.

Master John Davis gave the obligations assisted by Frank Jones, assistant steward, and Mrs. Cecil Butt, lady assistant steward. Howard Bruns, master of the Rupert Grange, with Mrs. Bruns and 10 other grange members of Rupert were guests.

They brought the Grange traveling flag and presented a flag program. A flag quiz was conducted by Mrs. Walter Lee, Rupert. Mrs. Bruns organist for the Idaho state Grange, played for the marching and singing. Mr. and Mrs. Bruns are former King Hill residents.

The King Hill Grange was asked to take the traveling flag on to another grange. All women of the King Hill Grange were in charge of a Father's Day program. Each man received a boutonniere. An invitation was read by the secretary, Mrs. Jones, to attend the dedication of the new duplex to the State Grange office building in Meridian from 2 to 9 p.m. June 30.

Mariposa Grange, at Mountain Home, also sent an invitation to attend their recognition potluck dinner and ceremony June 18, at 7 p.m. in the IOOF Hall.

Mrs. Horace Tape, amen's activity chairman, urged members to enter the National Grange sewing contest on edgings and aprons. She needs 10 entries to qualify.

Mrs. Howard Pugmire and Mrs. Arthur Geer were in charge of the social portion of the meeting. Mrs. Butt decorated the room with roses and spring flowers.

The next meeting will be June 26 featuring a past master recognition potluck dinner. Salads, bowls and desserts will be potluck.

Clovers sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you have 250,000 four-leaf clovers for sale, the Agriculture Department would like to hear from you.

The agency's Trade Opportunity Referral Service, a division of its Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS), confessed today it had struck out in trying to fill a request from a Danish firm which wants to locate a U.S. source of a quarter of a million of the lucky plants for use in novelty items like key rings.

FAS officials said the Danish firm had heard an American company produces such clovers in a special breeding program. But the FAS computer bank of information on U.S. agricultural products suppliers produced only a blank when asked about clovers.

Officials said the data bank has been successful in getting would-be foreign customers together with American producers of a wide range of products, and had "linked" buyers and sellers in $9.5 million worth of sales in its first four months of operations.

But some requests for information run up against a blank wall. The FAS has not yet, for instance, been able to fill an Icelandic request for the name of a firm manufacturing home-brew kits.

Choosy Bean Bugger

There are good bugs and bad bugs in every bean field. And DYLOX selective insecticide knows the difference. It delivers a quick cleanout of western and variegated cutworms, armyworms, Mexican bean beetles, lygus bugs and stink bugs. But it doesn't wipe out populations of beneficial predators and pollinators, when used as directed. Help the good bugs help you. Let them "police" your bean fields until "bad" bugs get the upper hand. Then treat your beans with DYLOX, liquid solution or soluble powder. DYLOX will knock out the bad bugs quickly. But the good bugs will continue to multiply and give you extra insect control that doesn't cost a cent.

That's DYLOX, the choosy bean bugger, in the package with the Blue Bullseye. Look for it at your chemical dealer's.

Some profit on grain deals

By RAY HOWARD
(c) Chicago Sun-Times
CHICAGO — The Santa Fe Railway is running a "corporate puffery" commercial on television.

"Corporate puffery" is where they throw out their chests on your living room screen and tell you how wonderful they are.

This particular commercial tells us the Santa Fe brought settlers from Moscow, Russia, to Maquoket, Kan., sometime in the last century. And those sturdy Russian settlers brought some of their winter wheat with them and planted it in Kansas.

Then the commercial says, Russian wheat and the Santa Fe worked together to make Kansas the breadbasket of the United States.

Finally, the commercial tells us Santa Fe is shipping all that grain out of Kansas and sending it back to Moscow, Russia. The announcer swells up his voice and says, "From Moscow, Russia, to Moscow, Kan., and back again on the Santa Fe."

Well, there's a lot of truth in that commercial.

Since President Nixon and Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz worked out the grain deal with Russia last summer, we have been shipping wheat out of this country as if there were no tomorrow. The deal calls for us to ship 25 million tons to Russia alone.

Of course, there are a couple of things the commercial doesn't say — things that would make for pretty good television.

There's a lot of money in that grain deal. More than $1.2 billion with Russia alone. And there are some enormous profits floating around. Cook Industries, one of the "insider" companies, reported nine-month profits five times higher than profit during a similar period before the big grain deal.

Those Cook Industries stockholders must be jumping up and down with a big, happy green joy. It would be great viewing on color TV.

And Santa Fe is making heavy bread out of that grain deal. Profits leaped 144 per cent in 1972 — largely as a result of grain shipments. The money train continues to highball in 1973. Santa Fe announced that first quarter profits set another record. I wonder why they don't put exciting things like that in their commercials.

There are even more interesting things that could go into their TV communications. Things like the price of wheat.

When Nixon and Butz made their deal with the Russians, they agreed to supply Leonid Brezhnev and his friends with that good No. 2 hard wheat at $1.63 a bushel. But as soon as the top-secret label was ripped off the deal the price of wheat began to wobble good-by. At this writing, No. 2 hard wheat fetches $2.89 a bushel in Kansas City, but we sell it to the Russians for $1.63.

While Moscow bakers are getting up at 3 in the morning and baking bread with flour milled from $1.63 wheat, American bakers are getting up at 3 in the morning to face flour milled from $2.89 wheat. Butz and Nixon have arranged for us Americans to pay 77 per cent more than the Russians for our own wheat. This is what Nixon refers to on TV as "hard bargaining." And this is the kind of a deal Santa Fe is bragging about being an accessory to.

There's one more thing. If wheat cost $2.89 a bushel and we sell it to Russia for $1.63, who makes up the difference?

You do. In tax credits and subsidies.

It all comes down to that your tax dollars are used to raise the price of your own wheat. The whole thing has become so smelly the FBI has been called in to investigate dealers' price manipulation.

But don't get mad. There is some good in the grain deal. The Russians are happy. Cook Industries is happy. Santa Fe is happy. And Nixon gets high scores in the polls for "skill in foreign relations."

And nobody can accuse the President of being soft-on-communism.

Time to spray for fruit flies

TWIN FALLS — The first cherry fruit fly of the season has been spotted in Twin Falls. County Extension Agent Don Youtz said the first fly was seen Wednesday by state-federal inspector Dale Taute.

This means owners of cherry trees should begin spraying immediately and continue at 10 day to two week intervals until the fruit is ready to harvest.

Youtz said any suitable spray may be used and the sprayer should follow directions on the label.

The fly deposits eggs which hatch small worms which ruin the fruit. It is common to this area and fruit producers must take necessary precautions.

Youtz said the cherry crop in this area is small this year and confined largely to sour cherries because of the late spring frosts. He said some Hagerman Valley or Snake River Canyon orchards may have fruit, however.

Pest expert not stumped

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Strange bugs found in piles of marijuana for legal purposes in the San Francisco Hall of Justice are familiar to farm pest experts.

The State Food and Agriculture Department said the bugs were turned over to the department and identified by beetle expert Dr. Fred Andrews.

Over 700 animals set for national ram sale

SALT LAKE CITY — The ewes are in and the final tally shows over 700 top rams and ewes have been consigned to the 58th annual National Ram Sale.

The sale is Aug. 22 and 23 at the Utah State Fair grounds in Salt Lake City.

A total of 14 of the nation's top purebred producers will display 642 rams and 62 ewes at the event, the only sale of its kind held on a national level.

According to Edwin E. Marsh, executive secretary of the National Wool Growers Association and manager of the sale, "One new feature of this year's event will be the introduction of a performance testing program for stud rams."

Marsh said, "The testing program is on a voluntary basis this year and has been a great aid to consignors making selections of stud rams for the sale." Information on the 12 performance tested rams consigned to this year's sale will be included in the sale catalog, he added.

The two-day auction will open Aug. 22 at 6 p.m. with the sale of stud ewes, registered ewes and stud rams. Registered rams and range rams will be sold on Aug. 23, beginning at 9 a.m. Colonel Dean Parker will again call the sale.

Breeds consigned to this year's event include Suffolks, Hampshires, Suffolk-Hampshire crosses, Columbias, Rambouillets, Rambouillet-Columbia Crossbreds, Targhees, Finn-sheep and Finnsheep-Targhee Crossbreds.

Marsh looks for a good sale in view of the present strong lamb and wool markets.

NO MEASURE. NO PREMIX. NO BLIGHT.*

DU-TER® Now in a unique water-soluble pack that takes all the work, dust and mess out of measuring and mixing your potato fungicide. Just fill your spray tank half full of water, drop the soluble 30-ounce pack into the tank with full agitation. Complete filling - then agitate the mix 3 to 5 minutes to dissolve the pack. It's the fastest, most efficient way to get the jump on blight this season.

Because DU-TER is an ultra-low volume fungicide, we recommend application of just 5 to 10 ounces per acre, as opposed to 1-1/2 lbs. per acre with other fungicides. Begin early and spray every 7 days as conditions dictate. Be especially alert to blight attacks when temperatures remain above 50° F. or when relative humidity is above 75% for 48 hours or longer.

DU-TER is also registered for sugar beets. Try a tankful of DU-TER. You'll like the convenience of the new water-soluble pack, and the effectiveness of DU-TER's blight control. So will your potatoes.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in disagreement about something. He wants my two well-developed teen-age daughters (his stepdaughters) to come into the bathroom and wash his back while he is in the tub.

I would be happy to wash his back, but Dad prefers that they do it. They reluctantly have done so in the past but I have told them that they don't have to do it anymore. This has caused ill-feelings on my husband's part. He thinks that because he has provided them with a lovely home they should show their appreciation by washing his back when he requests it.

Your answer will decide.

AGAINST IT

DEAR AGAINST: I'm against it, too. The girls can show their appreciation to Dad on Father's Day, by providing him with a lovely long-handled brush with which to wash his own back.

Slippery situation

DEAR ABBY: After my mother died 15 years ago, my oldest sister got all the family pictures. Among them was my mother's wedding picture which was in a beautiful antique frame. I always loved that picture.

Six months ago my sister died and left everything to her daughter. I asked this daughter for my mother's wedding picture and she refused to give it up. Abby, this girl hardly KNEW my mother. [I think she just wanted to keep it because of the frame.]

She offered to have a duplicate made for me, but I want the original.

Who do you think the picture rightfully belongs to? And how should I get it?

FAMILY FIGHT

DEAR FIGHT: Since the daughter inherited all of her mother's possessions, and the picture was among them, it belongs to her. Quit fighting, and ask that the duplicate be made by an expert. It could be every bit as good (or better) than the original.

DEAR ABBY: I am getting married soon and everything is going smoothly except for one thing. My grandmother is going to wear a white dress! From what I understand from knowledgeable friends, it is an unwritten rule of etiquette that only the bride may wear white. Have you ever heard of this rule? And where did it come from?

My grandmother is getting on in years and I don't want to upset her or hurt her feelings, so how do you suggest I approach her — if at all?

GETTING MARRIED

DEAR GETTING: That rule originated years ago to discourage anyone who might try to upstage the bride. It's passe now. But it's not likely that your grandmother has that in mind, so simmer down and don't mention it.

DEAR ABBY: I sent 32 "R. S. V. P." invitations and received only 6 responses!

Obviously a hostess has to know how many guests to prepare for. After waiting two weeks, would it be appropriate for me to telephone those from whom I have not heard and ask if they are coming or not?

This strikes me as being somewhat pushy and I am reluctant to do it.

FRUSTRATED HOSTESS

DEAR FRUSTRATED: On the outside chance that some of them did not receive your invitation, telephone them.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90060. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

An expert defending with an inexperienced partner is like a pilot flying blind in a fog with his navigational instruments inoperative. He has to rely on instinct.

When experts play together, they have conventions that are likely to substitute certainty for guesswork.

West's king of spades is covered by North's ace and ruffed by East's deuce of trumps. The four of diamonds is returned. South's jack is covered by West's king and the trick won by dummy's ace.

A trump is led and West is in with the ace.

He cashes the queen of spades. East discards a diamond and it is up to West to decide whether he should try to give his partner a ruff or a trick with the queen of diamonds that he may hold.

In the actual hand East has no more trumps and the diamond play is essential. West also knows that his partner has no more trumps because East ruffed the spade with the deuce and played the six-spot when trumps were led. Experts use a trump echo to show three. With a third trump he would have ruffed with the six and followed with the deuce.

Can your cigarette pass these 5 simple tests?

If you've ever had second thoughts about the brand of cigarette you smoke, here's a quick way to find out if it really delivers what you want. These five simple tests will tell you a lot about quality, freshness, and taste. And if you make these tests with a Winston, they'll tell you why Winston smokers can point to their brand and say, "How good it is!"

Test #1 Sniff It

Take a whiff of the tobacco. Does it smell rich and fresh and appealing? If your cigarette is Winston, you'll recognize the aroma of costly Vintage Leaf Tobacco.

Winston chooses the most nearly perfect leaves money can buy. Then we age these rare tobaccos in wooden casks. We do it for the same reason you'd age a fine wine. Aging makes our tobaccos mellow and brings out that extra dimension of natural goodness.

Test #2 Feel It

Roll the cigarette in your hand. Pinch it slightly. Does it feel stale? A cigarette that's been waiting in a warehouse, or on a shelf, can lose some of its freshness. And some of its taste. But, because Winston sells so fast, every pack comes to you fresh. The fact is, on any given day, Winston is likely to be the freshest cigarette your money can buy.

Test #3 Take a puff... before lighting

Take a puff—without lighting it. That's a good way to learn about the tobacco and the filter. If you can taste the tobaccos without lighting up, you know there's richness up front. And that the filter doesn't get in the way of the taste. Winston's exclusive Filter Blend, a top-secret blend of different tobaccos, works with Winston's modern white filter to deliver satisfying taste in every puff.

Test #4 Light It

Does it burn evenly? Here's a critical test of the way your cigarette is made. A cigarette rolled fresh, packed full and made with care will burn evenly, draw easily. Winston always does. How does your brand shape up?

Test #5 Smoke It

What could be simpler? That's the real test of a cigarette. Can it deliver good taste and real satisfaction every time you light up? Winston can. Ask a Winston smoker. Any time. He'll tell you in four simple words: How good it is.

Ask a Winston smoker. He'll tell you

HOW GOOD IT IS.

MV residents, BLM discuss land use problems

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — Land use problems were discussed at a public meeting here Thursday night by area residents and Bureau of Land Management officials.

Shoshone District Bureau of Land Management officials sought public advice for completing land use plans in the canyon planning unit north of the Snake River between Bliss and Milner Dam. The unit includes about 35,000 acres in natural resource lands.

BLM district manager Odell Frandsen said the purpose of the meeting was to have the public help the BLM by identifying facts, land use and values with which the BLM may not be familiar, and by proposing alternatives for handling conflicts between resource uses.

Among items discussed was the use which should be made of land between Interstate 80 and the Snake River canyon and between U.S. Highway 93 and the Hanson Bridge.

Questions concerning use of this land centered around whether it should be used for commercial and industrial purposes or be retained for recreational purposes.

Donald Runberg, BLM official, said one of the major conflict areas is in the vicinity of the Perrine Bridge and the intersection of I-80 and Highway 93.

Intense interest in the land in this vicinity has been shown for commercial, residential, light industrial and regional airport purposes. Development of these lands for these purposes would result in disposal of the land from federal ownership and elimination of present and potential development of recreation, minerals, livestock grazing and wildlife," Runberg said.

David Mead, Twin Falls Parks and Recreation Committee, said that in his opinion the area was one of the most important pieces of land left in the region and should be retained as green belt area. He asked whether it was really necessary to develop the area for possible agricultural uses.

James Kelly, Jerome, questioned whether or not certain lands in the area had indeed been turned over to the state. He was told by Rep. Vern Ravnescroft, R-Tuttle, that the lands have been and that the best possible use of these lands will be planned.

Kelly also asked BLM officials why the public is not informed that they can apply to the BLM for a five acre tract of the land. "If we make our young people aware of the fact that this land is available and they settle the area, they will create a green belt area and good use will still be made of the land," Kelly said.

Mrs. Sheryl Hymas, Jerome, said that a great deal of consideration should be given to any kind of development in the area for public use in regards to sewage disposal and the high danger of possible contamination of underground aquifers.

Don Zuck, Twin Falls, Fourth District Wildlife Association, strongly advocated that the area be retained as it is now. "Twin Falls is expected to double in the next 10 to 20 years which will create a more than doubling of the usage of the area in question," Zuck said.

He said he is in complete agreement and strongly supports a proposal by the Jerome County Canyon-Rim Planning Council which advocates a 1,000 foot setback on the canyon rim for public lands, and that no development of any kind would be permitted in this area.

Zuck said that any water based state land should be retained for the public and should not be sold for private usage.

H. E. (Hap) Wilson, Jerome, Jerome County Canyon Rim Planning Council, requested that all federal and state property in the area be held in its present state until a comprehensive planning study of the area is done.

On the question of whether the area should be opened for firearm use or be restricted for public safety, a majority of those present felt the area should be restricted from rifle usage. The question of whether sand and gravel should be removed for construction purposes or whether the area should be retained for multiple use values was asked.

Howard Johnson, district State Highway engineer, Shoshone, said the highway department has several use permits in the area for borrow materials.

"This material is extremely scarce here and is valuable for construction of highways as well as other major construction jobs," Johnson said.

He said that because of the accessibility of the material, highway costs have gone down greatly in the area. Johnson explained that the highway department removes the topsoil, extracts the borrow material and replaces the topsoil and seeds it. "I don't feel the highway department activity is incompatible with future use of the area after the borrow sources have been exhausted," Johnson said.

Wilson, also a representative of the Jerome District Highway Department, said that one area of a small tract of public resource lands was the only area the Jerome Highway District could use to obtain needed materials.

Don Sweep, BLM, told the group that another conflict area is small tracts of natural resource land isolated within large tracts of agricultural land. "These provide vital relief cover for pheasants during the winter when agricultural land has been cleared of all suitable cover. These tracts are also valuable as agricultural land," Sweep said.

Church asks action plan

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, today called on Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., to use his influence to determine the status of a long delayed report on restoration of Thousand Springs.

In a letter to Sen. Bible, chairman of the Senate Interior Sub Committee on Parks and Recreation, Sen. Church asked that Bible formally insist that the National Park Service provide the subcommittee with a report on legislative proposals to protect Box Canyon and restore Thousand Springs.

Church asked Bible to act in his capacity as chairman of the subcommittee on which Church also serves as a senior member.

The Idaho senator said despite his own efforts dating back over many months the Park Service has failed to provide Church with the information desired.

In December, 1971, Church wrote to then director George Hartzog of the Park Service asking for a study of the possibility of restoring the Thousand Springs area (now blocked by an old hydro electric project) and preserving nearby Box Canyon. Church suggested the Park Service give consideration to designating the area as a national monument.

Following the letter the Park Service ordered a reconnaissance study of the area. "In August of 1972," Church wrote Bible, "I again contacted the Park Service calling attention to the unique qualities of the area and reiterating my interest in preserving the area, if at all possible. I requested the service to provide me their time table for completion of the report."

On Sept. 21, 1972, the Park Service replied that material would be available and a draft bill submitted to Congress "early" in the 93rd Congress.

"Nine months have passed since that time and as of this date no final report and no draft legislation have been submitted to me or to the interior committee," Church said.

"To my repeated inquiries the Park Service has wig-wagged between two answers: One, there is no final report yet available, or two, there is a final report but the office of management and budget refuses to allow it to be released. "Surely," continued Church, "the time has come for the Park Service to put the show on the road and get a final report on the Thousand Springs-Box Canyon area before the Senate Interior Committee for consideration."

Church urged Bible to "contact the Park Service in your capacity as chairman of the Senate Interior Committee's Subcommittee on Parks and Recreation, and demand the service advise the committee immediately on the status of this report."

"If the report is completed," Church said, "I feel we should insist on its release to the committee immediately. If the report is not yet complete we should strongly urge its completion and presentation to the committee for its early consideration. There is no reason for our committee to tolerate this prolonged and inexcusable delay in providing this report and legislative recommendations."

Special event

HUNT — National Flag Day was observed with a special early morning flag raising ceremony Thursday at the Hunt LDS Ward Church.

The ceremony also denoted the 26th anniversary of drawings for farms on the Hunt Project by veterans of World War II. Some of the original homesteaders attended the service.

The service conducted by Boy Scout Troop 38, was under the direction of ward Primary president Mrs. Fred Stewart and Mrs. Charles Barnes, Branch 1 Leader.

A short program followed the flag raising ceremony. Mike Black gave a talk on the history of the U. S. flag. Fred Stewart Jr. spoke on American heritage. He paid tribute to the veterans and especially to those who first homesteaded the Hunt project and to the recently returned prisoners of war.

"It was 26 years ago today on June 14, 1947, that Veterans of World War II drew the farms in the area," he said.

Scouts participating in the service were Tim Walker, Douglas Barnes, Jimmy Stewart, Bret Dixon, Burke Waters, and David Barnes.

Kimberly youth elected

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Rusty Jessor, Kimberly, was elected 1973-74 president of the Idaho 4-H Club Congress, officials announced Thursday.

Elected vice president was Dayle Anne Hall, Boise. Liz Sikes, American Falls, was elected secretary; Candy Joins, Boise, was elected historian; the new reporter is Cheryl Armstrong, Twin Falls; sergeant at arms is Wendy Jensen, Boise; and elected song leader was Mary Aschenbrenner, Meridian.

Becky Jones, Boise, Idaho's Junior Miss, told the 545 delegates Thursday personality and versatility were more important than beauty in the junior miss pageant.

Return from workshop

SHOSHONE — Wanda Faught and Cindy Bergin, sponsored by the Wood River Soil and Water Conservation District, have returned from Alpine, Wyo., where they attended a workshop.

The workshop was attended by 94 boys and girls from Idaho, and included information about the use and management of soils, wildlife, range and water. During the week, the students visited Palisades Dam where the use of water and the dam were explained to them.

2 fires reported

TWIN FALLS — Two fires were reported Thursday to the Twin Falls Fire Department.

A frame one-story home at 592 Washington St. N. was partially destroyed by fire Thursday night, officers said. The home of Robert Bateman was damaged when gasoline he spilled in the kitchen area ignited and spread through the building.

Firemen said Bateman was filling a lantern with gasoline, preparing for a camping trip, when some of the fluid spilled on the floor. When he lit the lantern the gasoline ignited.

Three fire trucks answered the alarm at 9:10 p.m. and returned to the department at 10:25 p.m.

Earlier in the day firemen were called to the Frank Smith home, 182 Madison St., when a heating company working on a furnace reported the heating equipment flooded with oil and overheated. There was no damage.

Volunteers needed

SHOSHONE — Volunteers are needed to help solicit funds for the Lincoln County swimming pool project.

All volunteers will meet at the Big Wood Canal Co. at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Roger Maxwell, Rotary club president, said.

About 30 persons will be needed to make the canvass.

Youth transferred

TWIN FALLS — Nolan McCann, 12, Hazelton, was transferred to a Boise hospital Thursday for treatment of head injuries.

The boy was injured Tuesday afternoon in a traffic accident which killed his step-brother, Michael W. McDaniel, 13, and injured his step-father, James McDaniel.

Hospital attendants said he was taken by ambulance to St. Alphonsus Hospital Thursday for further treatment. James McDaniel was also released from the hospital here Thursday in good condition.

The vehicle in which McDaniel and the two boys were traveling crashed into the rear of a pickup truck when smoke from a weed fire whipped across the road obscuring the pickup truck being used as a warning vehicle.

Shoshone meet set

SHOSHONE — The Lincoln County Development Corp. will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Courthouse. Officers will be elected for the coming year.

Range land burns

SHOSHONE — About 300 acres of range land burned southeast of Dietrich Wednesday, a Shoshone District Bureau of Land Management official reported today.

According to Wallace Pilsen, fire control officer, a fire in a field burned out of control and four tanker crews and one shovel crew were dispatched to the area. The fire was brought under control Wednesday night, Pilsen said.

Telephone 'pioneers' meet in TF

TWIN FALLS — Approximately 40 men and women who have worked 21 years or more for the Telephone Company concluded a two day convention here today.

The annual Council Assembly of the Telephone Pioneers of America, Sawtooth Council, concluded at noon with installation of new officers. Earl Anderson, Twin Falls, president, conducted the meeting.

Other officers include Mudge Anderson, Boise, senior vice president; Mary L. Hood, Boise, secretary-treasurer, and vice presidents from various areas; Betty Lee Davis, Pocatello; Savino Uberanga, Boise; Velma M. Callender, Boise; William E. Hone, Twin Falls; Helen Pearson, Idaho Falls, and Hilda Harper, Boise, life member representative, and Dorothy D. Adkins, Boise, member-at-large.

A. G. (Tom) DeAtley, Boise, is past president. Speakers during the two day session included John Schuyler, Salt Lake City, Skyline Chapter president-elect and Lee Robinson, assistant superintendent of the Idaho State school for the deaf and blind, Gooding.

Reports were given Thursday by officer groups from the individual clubs including chapter or club presidents, vice presidents, secretaries and life member club officers.

Workshop sessions were held this morning with Howard Blood and Mary Hood in charge of secretary-treasurer groups and Mudge Anderson and Tom DeAtley, council vice presidents club presidents and vice presidents.

Committee assignments for the convention included Fay Stapleton, general chairman; Marge Kroush, transportation; Alice Grover, favors; Ivory Duffy, table decorations; Donna Kleinkopf, registration, and Warren Saunders, entertainment.

Anderson said there are some 700 members in the Sawtooth Council, the Idaho organization of Telephone Pioneers. Nationwide, the number reaches 389,000, he said. In addition to currently employed telephone employees; membership is also open to retired employees with 21 years or more service.

Food co-op sets 'interest' meet

TWIN FALLS — The Food Co-op, Twin Falls' newest way to beat the high price of food, has set its first "interest" meeting for Thursday at 8 p.m. at the St. Edwards's school.

At Thursday night's organizational meeting, Ken Thacker was elected as temporary chairman and procedures for next week's meeting were discussed.

The amount of interest shown at next week's meeting will determine the type of organization that will be established, he said. Next week's presentation will include a comparative study of prices at various Twin Falls stores, in addition to a discussion of the benefits and the operating procedures of a co-op.

The independent non-profit organization will provide lowered food prices by directly purchasing either from producers or major retailers in bulk quantities. The size of the discount rate will depend on the co-ops purchasing power, therefore a large membership is essential to low food prices.

Another valuable asset of the co-op is that it will be consumer owned and controlled, with all decisions on operations decided through democratic procedures.

Requirements for co-op membership are a small initial fee and the donation of a few hours work each month. This meets the operational costs and labor requirements of the organization.

Successful co-ops have already been established in Lewiston, Boise and throughout the U.S. with average saving of 20 per cent on produce goods.

Player posts three-shot lead in open first round

By FRANK BERKOPEK

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — Gary Player says he's "a believer" and what he believes in is sheer, back-breaking hard work—the kind that blurs his mind, makes his hands bleed and puts him three strokes ahead in the U.S. Open after he felt only a miracle could possibly help him.

"I practiced as hard as it was possible for a human to practice," said Player after firing a near-record 67 over the Oakmont Country Club course in Thursday's opening round.

Player shot so well that he said he was prepared to settle for 72s during the next three rounds because "any time you shoot 67 on this golf course you really have yourself a round of golf."

"It's as good as I can do," Player said. "I'll even go one step further. It's even better than I can do. This course is so tough I think I can shoot three 72s the rest of the tournament and win."

Lurking behind Player was a "serious" Lee Trevino who is gunning for his third Open title in six years, former PGA champion Ray Floyd and Jim Colbert, a former Kansas State football player, all tied for second place with one-under 68s.

Jack Nicklaus was tied at 71 with five other players, including Arnold Palmer who lost to Jack here in 1962 in a playoff. Nicklaus' round was highlighted by an eagle two on the par-four, 322 yard 17th, an uphill dogleg left where the Ohio bomber cut his drive over the trees and onto the green, 12 feet from the pin.

Bob Goalby, his playing partner, had called the shot "stupid" before Nicklaus hit his drive. When Trevino learned of Jack's gambling shot that paid off he said he wished Nicklaus "would hit his driver there every day."

Others bunched at 71 were

Gene Littler, who won the Open in 1961 and whose battle with cancer kept him off the pro tour last year for six months; Bob Charles, the New Zealand lefthander; Ralph Johnston, a longshot, and blond Johnny Miller.

Player, who underwent surgery last February to correct a "bad" right arm, said he prepared for the Open by playing "36 holes of golf" a day. In fact earlier this week he said he was so discouraged by his recent play he will quit the tour for a month after this weekend. He had only participated in three tournaments during the last five months, one of them in Japan.

Player, one of only four men ever to win all of the world's major golf championships, birdied 6 of the first 11 holes and would have broken Jimmy Clark's 20-year-old course record but for bogeys at the 12th and 16th holes.

He opened with 25 and 20-foot birdie putts on the first two holes, picked up another at the par-five fourth and made three more birdies on the 9th, 10th and 11th holes by dropping putts from 9 to 20 feet, Player needed only 25 putts in his round.

The 47-year Player—who has not finished in the top 10 of the Open since his 1965 playoff victory over Kel Nagle—matched the best round ever shot here in four previous U.S. Opens. Ben Hogan had a 67 here when he won his fourth Open in 1953 and Deane Beman matched it in 1962.

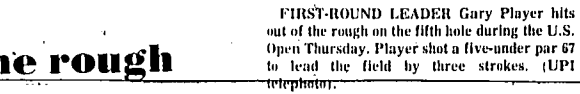

Trevino said he played "serenely," concentrating on position on all of his shots, including his approaches to the green. He said he was "very fortunate" because he "did not miss a fairway."

Times-News Magic Valley women's golf tourney opens Thursday in Twin Falls

The annual Times-News Magic Valley women's amateur golf tournament will be played over the Twin Falls municipal course Thursday and Friday, announces Pat Williams, tournament chairman.

on a rotating basis, again will be based on match play. The field will play 18 holes both days.

Helen Spradling of Buhl is the defending champion, having nipped Ardith Morgan of Jerome on the second hole of sudden death playoff last year at the Clear Lakes course.

Mrs. Spradling is expected to defend and again will be facing several ex-champions. Virginia Undheim of Twin Falls has taken the Magic Valley eight times and should again be a top challenger. Another seeking to repeat will be Sergene Sorenson of Burley. Jackie Gasser, Twin Falls, who finished third with a strong second round last year and missed the playoff by a stroke, and Shirlee Straughn, Twin Falls, should be tough on their home track.

Host professional Clyde Thomsen said both days will open under shotgun starts at 8:30 a.m. The tournament will end with an awards luncheon at conclusion of play Friday.

The event is sponsored annually by the Times-News which donates money toward trophies. The hosting association is allowed to select the playing dates and type of tournament.

Goalby and Trevino criticize Nicklaus for use of driver

By IRA MILLER

UPI Sports Writer OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — Bob Goalby called it "stupid" and Lee Trevino said he hopes it happens every day.

But if Jack Nicklaus can keep making the shot he made at the 17th hole in Thursday's first round of the U.S. Open, he's going to be awfully tough to beat.

All Nicklaus did there was blast a drive right on to the green of the uphill, 322-yard hole and make a 12-foot putt for an eagle.

Nicklaus did it even though a day earlier he said the best way to play the hole was by driving into the rough or a bunker because the shot from the fairway to the sloping green was "too tough."

"That (driver) was the only way to play the hole today," Nicklaus said. But Trevino, who hit a three-iron at the same hole that left him 80 yards short, insisted it was too early in the tournament to gamble on driving the green, which is hidden behind trees and sand traps.

"I wouldn't go for it this early," he said. "I hope he (Nicklaus) hits a driver there every day."

Goalby was even more critical.

Standing on the tee while Nicklaus was selecting his driver, Goalby turned to a marshal and whispered:

"Well, if that isn't a stupid shot."

Nicklaus didn't hear it and went ahead and cracked his drive, then Goalby blindingly repeated himself.

"That's on the green," Nicklaus retorted.

The 17th tee at Oakmont has been moved back considerably from where it was located during the 1962 Open, which Nicklaus won. The reason it was moved back was to discourage players from trying to drive the green, something Arnold Palmer accomplished twice in '62.

Palmer said he thought about trying it Thursday, too, but didn't. Instead the man who originally earned his reputation as a gambler played a safe two-iron to the fairway and settled for a routine put

Hill hits USGA for excessive toughening of open course

DENVER (UPI) — Dave Hill, who walked away from the U.S. Open and came home to play golf with his kids in his tennis shoes, Thursday blasted tournament officials for making the course so tough that it's "like digging chuckholes at the Indianapolis 500."

The temperamental Hill left Oakmont, Pa., before the start of the 73rd U.S. Open, saying he was tired of golf.

But as he sipped coffee in the lounge of his Park Hill Golf Club Thursday, he said he is tired of the United States Golf Association sponsoring one journey a year and taking a good course and making it zero fun to play.

"I guess they want to embarrass pro golfers," Hill said of the USGA officials who laid out the Oakmont course.

"In the Super Bowl, they don't move the goal posts into the stands. In basketball, they don't grease the floor for the playoffs," Hill said. "In the World Series they don't flood the outfield."

"So why does the United States Golf Association have to make a course almost impossible? That's like digging chuckholes at the Indianapolis 500."

Hill said USGA officials were "old men in blue blazers."

Hill said he pulled out of the U.S. Open because "I know I couldn't win it this year so I was better off just coming home and taking a rest." He said he plans to rejoin the PGA tour for the British Open.

Hill criticized the U.S. Open course at Hazlet, Minn., two years ago and was fined $150.

His partner at Park Hill in Denver, Bel Wallner, went even further in criticizing USGA officials and this year's Open.

"The clowns that put together that tournament can't play golf. They're supposed to be the blueblonds of golf and they have a hard time breaking 100," Wallner said Thursday.

"What you've got is a few guys that are so rich they don't have anything to do but put on a navy blue blazer, a hat and armband and say 'play that course!'"

Hill said he wouldn't watch the tournament on television "or worry about it at all. I'll read the papers and check the scores because I've got some bets there will be a whole lot of 80s and a couple of 90s."

He didn't bring his golf clubs with him to Colorado. Instead, he borrowed a set and laced on a pair of tennis shoes for a round of golf with his kids Laurie, 14, David, 12; and Robbie, 11.

Spencer grabs one-shot lead in state junior golf tourney

BURLEY Bill Spencer, figured the best bet to keep the championship trophy at home, fought wind and rain and top golfers from throughout southern Idaho Thursday to take the first-round lead in the Idaho state junior golf tournament.

Spencer turned his home course in a four-over par 76 with most of the shots lost to par coming in the morning front nine when weather was at its worst. It was the rule for all golfers Thursday in this event that is co-sponsored by the Burley Lions and Idaho Golf Association.

Spencer's 76 gave him a slim one-shot lead over Kevin Pocard of Twin Falls and Carl Ayers of Boise—Doug Hoggan of Burley and Bruce McNee, Twin Falls, were knotted at 78 while defending champion Gary Duncan of Twin Falls kept his hopes of repeating alive with a 79. All are in the 16-17 age division.

Karen Parson, Burley, the defending girls champion, and Jane Weitz of Caldwell were tied for the lead at 106. All the girls play in the division.

Leaders in the other boys divisions included:

11-15, Joe Lodge, Caldwell,

82, Tim Crist, Twin Falls, and Dale Williams, Burley, 84, and Toby Kinn, Nampa, 86.

11-13, Richard Graham, Caldwell, 90; Doug Bosen, Pocatello, 99; and Mike Honer, Pocatello, 100.

10-11, Jeff Honer, Pocatello, 93; Joe Weitz, Caldwell, 100; and Mark Spalding, Wendell, and Lance St. Armour, Burley, 109.

Pee-wee division, T. P. Davids, Lava Hot Springs, 72;

Rick Asson, Burley, 94, and Howie Hambleton, Burley, 107.

Fairway asides

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — What they said in the first round of the U.S. Open:

Gary Player: "I practiced as hard as it was possible for a human to practice... it's not possible to putt any better on this course... this was the best round I've ever shot in an Open."

Ray Floyd: "I really don't care what people think about my lifestyle because it's my life."

Lee Trevino: "The longer you stay in there, the more you get to know the course. I played very scared all day but tomorrow I'm going to start going for the flag."

Jack Nicklaus: "I was happy with a 71 today. After six, seven holes, if you had given me a 71, I'd have taken it and walked off the course real quick."

Jim Colbert: "Today was the day to score because it's going to get harder."

Arnold Palmer: "I'm happy with the score (71), but I'm not particularly happy with the way I played."

Ben Crenshaw: "I think this course is unfair. I kept trying to guide my drives because that's what you have to do here."

Favorites win in AAU preliminaries

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Steve Williams, who shares the world record, Willie Deckard, Herb Washington and Ivory Crockett were the individual heat winners in the 100-yard dash qualifying Thursday night at the athletic national AAU track and field championships.

Williams, who has long 100 yards in 9.1, won his heat in 9.4, while running into a 4-mile-per-hour wind at Bakersfield College Stadium before a slim crowd of about 2,000. It was the best time of the individual winners who come back Friday for the semifinals and finals.

Deckard, running into a 5.4 mph wind, nipped NCAA champ Ed Hammonds to win his heat in 9.6, the same time turned in by Crockett and Washington.

There were supposed to be trials in 15 events Thursday, first night of the three-day championships to decide the makeup of America's touring team this summer, but eight events were scratched because of a lack of athletes, with those showing up qualifying automatically for the finals.

Defending champions spared the trouble of qualifying included Arnie Robinson in the long jump, Fred Lake in the javelin, Jim Dare in the steeplechase, world record holder Rod Milburn in the high hurdles, Richard Bruggeman in the intermediate hurdles and Olympic gold medalist Dave Wottle in the 800.

World record holder Al Feuerbach also drew a bye when shot put qualifying was eliminated, again because of a small field.

A total of 20 sprinters showed up in time for the 100 and one heat-the one won by Crockett—had only four men in it. Thus, 16 of the 20 men who competed advanced and only four failed to make it to the semis.

There were 16 competitors in the hammer qualifying and 12 of them, led by veteran Tom Gage of the New York Athletic Club with a throw of 212-10, advanced to Friday's final.

For the first time in one meet, 10 Americans went over 200 feet in the event and it became 11 when Murray Keating, a Canadian attending Simon Fraser College, also cleared 200 feet.

The pole vault qualifying started with 19 entrants but the event was canceled after about an hour of competition because of swirling winds. All 19 entries advanced automatically to the finals Saturday.

Pro tennis players to seek injunction against ILTF for suspension of Pile

LONDON (UPI) — A wrangle over the International Lawn Tennis Federation's ban on Yugoslav professional Nikki Pile figures to take tennis from Wimbledon to the law court.

The 97 members of the Association of Tennis Players decided Thursday to ask for an injunction today against the ILTF in a bid to remove its three-week, world-wide ban on Pile.

The ILTF imposed the ban after Yugoslav tennis authorities said Pile refused to play for his country in the Davis Cup in May. The ban was ignored by the Italian Championship organizers last week, but Wimbledon officials have gone along with the ILTF and refused to let him play.

In addition to the court action, the ATP said none of its members, which groups all the world's top men players including Rod Laver, Roy Emerson and Stan Smith, would play at the All-England Championships unless the ban on Pile was lifted.

"As a sign of good faith our members will play next week in the tournament at Queen's Club and Eastbourne, pending the resolution of the legal proceedings, without prejudice to any further action we might take," said ATP president Cliff Drysdale.

Drysdale said he understood Pile would, for the sake of peace, not enter at either tournament. Therefore there would be no question of any ban by the ATP on those tournaments.

"Had it been other than Wimbledon we would not have entered this action," Drysdale said. "We are bending far in this case and we would not do the same in the case of any other tournament."

Pile will apply for an injunction in the Queen's Bench Division of the Law courts against both the International Lawn Tennis Federation and the All-England Club.

Earlier, ILTF secretary Basil Reay said the ATP boycott was "completely unjustified."

"Now we find ourselves threatened anew, and I feel that the true story should be made known," Reay said.

Yugoslavia named its four men for the Davis Cup, which, as required and both cabled and telephoned Pile. But it was not until May 14, the day after it became impossible for Yugoslavia to name another player, that word was received from him," said Reay.

The ILTF reduced the nine-month suspension demanded by the Yugoslav Federation to three weeks, but it did not prevent a head-on clash with the ATP, formed after last year's Forest Hills Championships to give the players a voice in the running of professional tennis for the first time.

Homers by Bando and Jackson lift Oakland past Yanks 3-0

OAKLAND (UPI) — Dave Hamilton, with last out help from Rollie Fingers, blanked the New York Yankees on seven singles as the Oakland A's won 3-0 on homers by Reggie Jackson and Sal Bando Thursday night.

Hamilton (1-1) was pulled with two men on and two out in the top of the ninth for Fingers. Ron Blomberg the league's leading hitter pinch-hit for Thurman Munson and hit into a force play ending the game.

Jackson singled home the A's first run off loser George Medich (5-3) in the first inning following a single by Bill North and a walk.

Then in the sixth Bando and Jackson cracked solo homers on consecutive pitches.

Ferguson, Cubs edge Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Ferguson Jenkins pitched a six-hitter and Billy Williams drove in three runs with a home run and a single to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 5-4 victory over the Houston Astros Thursday night.

Jenkins, 7-4, had a no-hitter until two out in the fifth when Tommy Helms broke it up with a home run. Helms scored behind Lee May, who reached second when rightfielder Jose Cardenal overran his pop-fly in short right center for a two-base error.

Williams, hitting his second home run in three days, connected in the seventh off loser Jerry Reuss, now 7-5. It was two-run blow coming after a single by Glenn Beckert.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Paul Blair's bases-loaded triple sparked a seven-run eighth inning Thursday night that carried the Baltimore Orioles to an 8-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

The group, pulled because it could not get city backing for a Riverfront sports arena and unable to reach agreement with a group of local bankers for financing of the arena construction, decided to look for greener pastures.

Cincinnati players lead all-star vote

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three members of the defending National League champion Cincinnati Reds are the top vote-getters at their respective positions in the early fan balloting for the 1973 National League All-Star squad, it was announced today.

Catcher Johnny Bench, second baseman Joe Morgan and outfielder Pete Rose are each leading at their positions in attempts to land berths on the starting team which will face the American League All-Stars at Kansas City on Tuesday night, July 21.

Bench, the league's Most Valuable Player a year ago, has received more votes than any other player, accumulating 89,314 of the 229,339 cast by fans from across the country. Bench has all but locked up the starting berth as he leads runner-up Manny Sanguillen of Pittsburgh by more than 74,000 votes. Sanguillen is listed on the ballot as a catcher, although he has played the outfield all season.

Morgan has received 40,128 votes and holds a comfortable lead over Glenn Beckert of Chicago, who has 21,060, while Rose tops all the outfielders with 51,400 votes. Bobby Bonds of San Francisco and Cesar Cedeno of Houston rank second and third among the outfielders with 38,248 and 38,023 votes, respectively.

Henry Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, who is closing in rapidly on Babe Ruth's career home run record, has received the most votes at first base, Chris Speier of San Francisco heads the shortstops and Ron Santo of Chicago is the leader at third base. Aaron, though he has played almost exclusively in the outfield this year, is listed on the all-star ballot at first base, a position he played in 1972.

The closest races for starting berths are developing at third base and in the outfield. Joe Torre of St. Louis, last year's starting third baseman in the midseason classic, is only 2,000 votes behind Santo despite the fact he has played most of this season at first base.

Billy Williams and Rick Monday of Chicago, Lou Brock of St. Louis, Bobby Tolson of Cincinnati, Garry Maddox of San Francisco and Al Oliver of Pittsburgh have all received substantial support for outfield positions.

A few players who are having outstanding seasons have been ignored in the early voting simply because their names do not appear on the ballot. To receive mention their names have to be written into an appropriate blank on the ballot. Among the overlooked so far are catcher Joe Ferguson, second baseman Dave Lopes and third baseman Ron Cey, all of Los Angeles; third baseman Ed Gooden of San Francisco and outfielder Del Unser of Philadelphia.

The leaders in the American League voting announced earlier this week included Dick Allen of Chicago at first base, Cookie Rojas of Kansas City at second, Brooks Robinson of Baltimore at third, Freddie Patek of Kansas City at shortstop, Carlton Fisk of Boston at catcher and Reggie Jackson of Oakland, Amos Otis of Kansas City and Bobby Murcer of New York in the outfield.

Balloting will end on July 8 and the starting All-Star squads will be announced on July 10-17.

The badger is an extremely interesting member of the weasel family, although not too well understood and appreciated. It is a stocky, wide animal built close to the ground, and powerfully muscled. The wide-spaced ears are short and rounded, the face is marked with black and white, and the long, coarse fur is silvery, grizzled with darker colors. The thick neck and heavy claws provide able support to the strong jaws when danger threatens. The tail is short and is carried aloft when the animal is aroused. Length of the badger varies from 25 to 30 inches; the short legs lift the animal a scant nine inches in total height. Badgers weigh about 15 pounds at maturity, sometimes as much as 25 pounds in extremely large individuals.

This effective rodent catcher may be expected to follow ground squirrels, gophers and ground-dwelling mice anywhere in Idaho. Its burrows are a familiar sight in all parts of the state, even at very high elevations in the mountains. It is most abundant in our rodent-infested rangelands.

Nature has equipped the badger for a special job of burrowing animals. The tough, pigeon-toed front legs are armed with heavy claws enabling the animal to move rapidly underground along the trail of the intended victim while the burrow behind the badger is plugged with the fresh earth of its digging. It soon overtakes and devours the gopher, ground squirrel, mouse, rabbit, skunk, weasel or other den dweller unfortunate enough to attract the attention of this hungry predator. In Idaho the Columbian ground squirrel is probably the number one item on its diet, as these fat rodents abound from the Snake River plains northward throughout the state. No doubt there are some bird eggs and nestlings eaten also, along with the insects, carrion, snakes and rodents. Badgers are not wholly nocturnal, and may be seen hunting during the day.

The mother badger produces one litter annually, in early summer, numbering from one or two young to as many as six or seven. The den is a dry, comfortable chamber at the end of a long deep tunnel where the mother feels her brood is secure.

The young badgers open their eyes after a month or more of helplessness, grow rapidly, and may be seen sometimes in late July or August exploring the home area near the burrow's mouth.

The other is courageous in defense of her young, and it is said that the average dog is no match for an adult badger. If a man should attempt to prevent a badger from reaching the safety of its burrow, he usually finds the animal quite willing to fight for the right to pass, and will not be stopped from reaching the den site.

Badgers in steel traps often dig themselves in so effectively that a man cannot pull the animal loose with the trap chain. A captive badger in a college laboratory escaped from a strong wire cage and spent part of a night looking for a way out of the locked room. In its prowls it moved two large storage cabinets away from their place against the wall, cabinets so heavy that the efforts of four men were required to replace them, upset a quantity of chemicals and finally ate its way to freedom through the panels of an outside door. If the badger is not as powerful as its weasel cousin, the wolverine, it certainly stands in close second place for the title of "muscle man" of the family.

Fur of badgers is not considered of high quality, but is serviceable in the fur trade, and formerly the hair was used in the manufacture of fine shaving brushes.

Ranchers and farmers have found the burrows of this busy animal often a hazard to irrigation and other farm practices, a fact which reduces somewhat its known value as a rodent exterminator. It is not protected in Idaho.

Decision looms

McCALL (UPI) — A discussion on the possibility of the University of Idaho switching from the Big Sky Conference into the Pacific Coast Athletic Association was scheduled Friday during the state board of education meeting here.

The board was scheduled to clean up its June business ending its two-day monthly meeting. Student leaders from two of the state's other major schools have already protested the thought of the U of I moving into the Pacific conference. They said it would not lead to equality of education in the state.

Ali maintains he's not ducking threat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Muhammad Ali showed up here alive and well Thursday after reports had circulated that his life had been threatened.

The former heavyweight champion flew in from Chicago where it was reported that a contract had been put out on his life after an associate Major Coxson was slain in Cherry Hill, N.J. last week.

Ali, on his way to his training headquarters in Deer Lake, Pa. to prepare for his rematch with Ken Norton in the fall, wanted to clear the air about all the reported threats.

"Some crank who wanted to start something has put a rumor out that my life was threatened and that I been in hiding," said Ali at a hurriedly called news conference. "That is impossible and foolish. How can I and Nixon ever be in hiding. How can I hide. I'm known in Peking. I'm known in Arabia."

"To me this a very bad joke. Before all my big fights they try to weaken me. Just before the (Sonny) Liston fight Malcolm X was shot. But I'm not afraid of anything but the almighty Allah. I'm not hiding, my children and my wife aren't hiding. And the only contract I know about is the one with Norton. I got one out for him and he got one out for me."

Ali did indicate, however, that police had called him to offer their protection in view of stories in the papers within the past few days.

"I was called by some detectives in Philadelphia," admitted Ali. "They said they wanted to watch me for a

Pro sports officials approve testing to curb use of drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Professional sports spokesmen have assured a Congressional investigating committee that safeguards against illegal drug use by athletes will be reviewed with consideration of testing individuals before and after athletic events.

The House Commerce Investigations subcommittee, headed by Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., has been quietly investigating—for the past several months the prevalence of illegal drug usage in sports ranging from the Little League through professional and international sports competition.

Recent disclosures that at least four National Football League players are under investigation for traffic in illegal drugs has given impetus to a report issued by Staggers' panel and described in a UPI story on May 11.

Investigations were revealed this week.

The spokesman said the commissioners assured the panel that they have attempted to police their own sports activities for such things as gambling and drug use. He said the panel suggested the possibility of the before and after events tests for drug presence in athletes as a starting point and the commissioners agreed to consider the program.

White Sox success due to good depth

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox already are baseball's "miracle" team of 1973—before the season is half over.

Considering their injuries, it's a miracle they're still leading the American League West Division.

"What we've done," manager Chuck Tanner said in a review of the recent road trip in which the Sox won only five and lost seven, "shows how we've built up our depth. I'd say we've been playing at about 75 per cent of our top capability, and if we hadn't had the depth, we'd be dead."

The Sox have not had centerfielder Ken Henderson for three weeks, second baseman Jorge Orta for more than two weeks, and third baseman Bill Melton about half the time for two weeks. All three have been season-long starters when healthy.

In addition left fielder Carlos May, another starter, has been available only for pinch-hitting duty because of a pulled leg muscle, designated hitter Mike Andrews has been playing with flu, outfielder Pat Kelly was out for a week with a leg injury, catcher Ed Herrmann missed several games with an injured finger, and pitcher Stan Bahnsen missed two turns because of the death of his father.

Tanner said, "but we've had to overcome a lot of problems. We haven't had a set lineup for four or five weeks."

"Now Carlos is starting to come back, Bahnsen is back and maybe we can turn the corner. I've been playing (Bill) Sharp or (John) Jeter in centerfield, but you just can't replace a guy like Ken Henderson, and we don't know when we'll get him or Orta back."

Tanner said that if the Sox sought to trade before the June 15 deadline, though, he would seek "a veteran pitcher."

"If we can do that, we certainly could go all the way this year anyhow, and if we get in the playoffs, we will."

Gem highway department conducts trip survey

JEROME — State highway department personnel conducted an origin and destination survey on State Highway 79 and U. S. 93 Tuesday.

Similar surveys are scheduled in or near several other Magic Valley towns in the next few days.

Motorists traveling north on Highway 93 and west on Highway 79 were stopped by the survey teams and asked where their trip began, what their destination was and the last place they stopped.

Only a few cars traveling Highway 93 were halted so as not to hamper traffic.

Ray Dare in charge of one survey team and his group had stopped about 40 per cent of the traffic on Monday and 50 per cent Tuesday.

Dean Hymas, in charge of the crew on Highway 79, said his crew was stopping most of the traffic because it was lighter than the traffic on Highway 93.

Dare said similar surveys will be conducted on roads near Murtaugh, Kimberly, Castletown, Bull and Filer. The survey will be completed by June 26 but the information obtained will not be couped for some time, Dare said.

Bill Harvey, Idaho Highway Department, said the survey is to provide information for future road and highway improvement.

"The survey helps to define current travel patterns. Traffic volumes alone are not enough. Specific information regarding the beginning and ending locations of trips is necessary to distribute traffic volume over existing highways and street networks," Harvey said.

"I saw the same information in view of the highway department in predicting traffic levels and routes in the future."

Dare said most of the people stopped Monday and Tuesday were willing to answer questions. "We had a few who were in a hurry and we let them go on through," Dare said.

Jeromeite handed 5-year sentence

JEROME — Ronnie Pierce, 19, Jerome, was sentenced Tuesday to the Idaho State Board of Correction by Judge James Ward in Fifth District Court.

Jerome County Pro. Atty. Eugene Fredericksen said that Pierce was sentenced for a period not to exceed five years on charges of Injuring Jail property.

Pierce was also sentenced to one year in the Jerome County jail for resisting arrest, but the sentence was remanded, Fredericksen said.

Fredericksen said that Pierce was arrested on May 2 at his residence following a confrontation with police officers. He said that the police department had received several complaints from residents in the area of North Park about traffic violations.

Jerome Chief of Police Howard DuBois and Patrolman Grant Willard were dispatched to the area where they pursued Pierce to his residence and he was apprehended.

Fredericksen said that while Pierce was being held for resisting arrest he set fire to a wastebasket in the jail and kicked out a window.

Pierce pled guilty to the charges on May 9.
