Rain greets Red leader

WASHINGTON (UPI) - With a "good omen" rain falling but security very tight, Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived Saturday to talk disarmament and trade with President Nixon in a week-long summit meeting.

It was the Russian Communist party chief's first visit to the United States and he was accompanied by several top Soviet government officials for his second face-to-face meeting with the President, who was in Florida preparing for the start of their negotiations Monday. As he alighted from the giant Ilyushin-62 jet that flew him from Moscow, a rain, squall welled down Andrews Air Force Base outside the capital and the small crowd of American officials and Soviet citizens gathered to welcome the 66-year-old Russian.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, leading the U.S. greeters, recalled to Brezhnev that it had also rained when Nixon arrived in Moscow last year for their first summit, and that the Russians had called it a "mushroom rain" an omen of peace.

"This is a wheat rain, which is also a very good omen," Rogers told the Soviet leader.

Next week's negotiations are expected to culminate in a string of second-level accords for scientific and cultural exchanges, besides progress toward further arms control and expanded trade.

Pompey and circumstance was at a minimum. About 400 Russians, including children, from the Soviet Washington colony and about 100 Americans, mostly wives of Air Force personnel stationed at Andrews, were at the landing site.

SHARON DAVIS

Miss TF captures Gem crown

BOISE - Miss Twin Falls, Sharon Davis, 21, Jerome, Saturday night was crowned Miss Idaho of 1973 at the 24th annual state pageant.

Miss Davis, sponsored by the Twin Falls Lions Club, sang the popular tune "Matchmaker, Matchmaker" in the talent portion of the pageant at Capital High School.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Davis, Jerome. She is 5 feet, 5 inches tall and weighs 108 pounds. Her measurements are 35-25-35.

Miss Davis won the swimsuit division of the pageant Friday night. She is a voice student of Mary Walker, Twin Falls.

She attended Patricia Stevens Career College and the College of Southern Idaho.

The youngest of the Davis children, Sharon has one sister and two brothers.

The first runnerup in the pageant was Linda Jo Faylor of Boise, second runnerup was Jill Baird of Preston and the third runner up was Nancy Self of Pocatello.

The Miss Congeniality winner was Loretta Ann Martin of Idaho Falls.

Solon hits Navy files

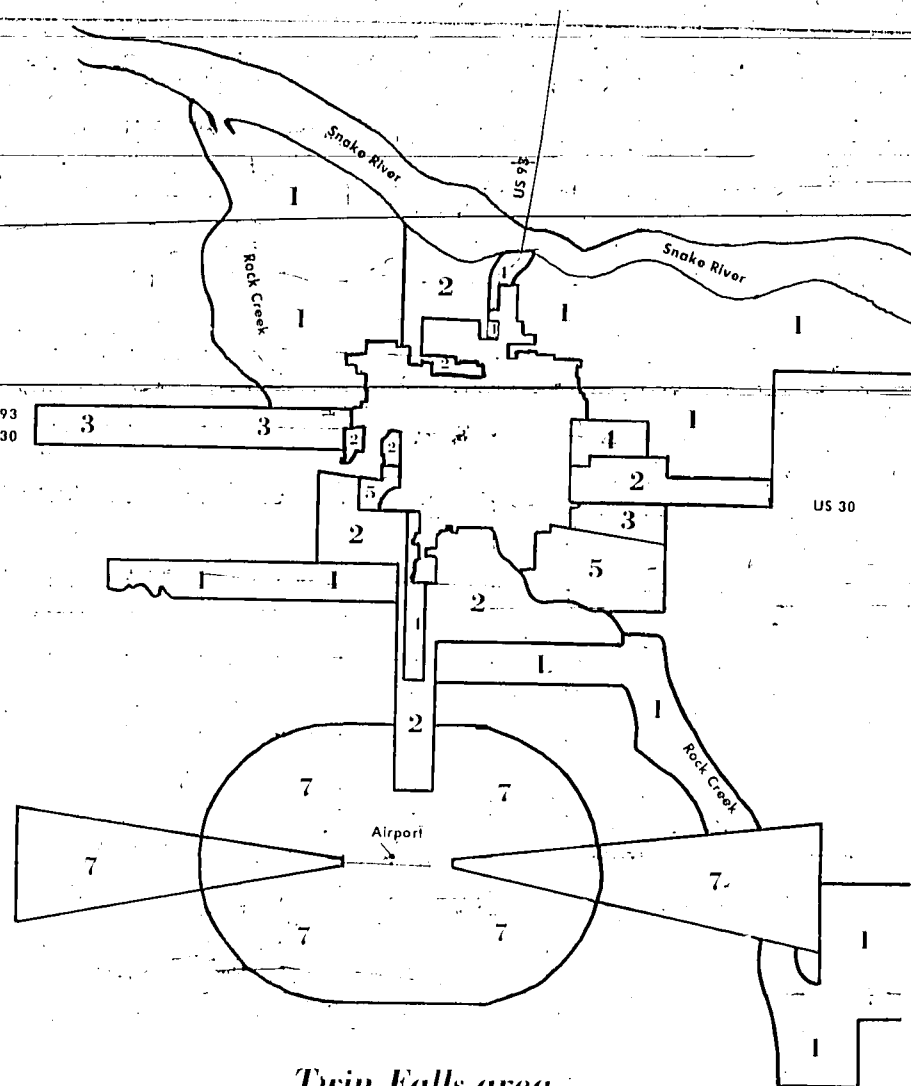

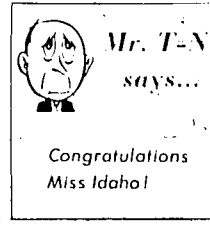

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., claimed Saturday that the Navy doctored its official accounting records from 1969-72 in an effort to cover up overspending of $109.7 million.

Aspin, a frequent critic of Pentagon spending practices, said the Justice Department already had begun to look into the matter and that his information was based on a report done at his request by the General Accounting Office (GAO), the investigative arm of Congress.

The Wisconsin Democrat said the Navy "had blocked a thorough investigation," but that the GAO was able to confirm by examining some documents that $109.7 million more than Congress had appropriated was spent during the three-year period to meet personnel costs.

The decrease reflected in part a 33 per cent cutback in the number of B-52 raids flown over Cambodia, a move ordered late in May primarily to save money.

The bombing of Cambodia has come under intense criticism in Congress, which is considering legislation to cut off funds for continued air activities in Indochina.

Zone plan

PROPOSED county zoning around the City of Twin Falls is shown on a map of "joint concern." The county planning and zoning commission will present the proposal, along with zoning maps of Buhl, Kimberly, Hansen and Filer, in a public hearing Aug. 9.

The number key for the map zones is: 1. Residential-Agricultural; 2. Residential Medium; 3. Commercial General; 4. Commercial Local; 5. Industrial; 6. Residential-Professional; 7. Airport. (Story and other maps are on p. 20)

Bombs protested

WASHINGTON (UPI) - More than 1,000 protesters marched through the capital Saturday in what was intended to be the first major anti-administration demonstration by leftist groups since President Nixon's second inauguration.

Sponsored by the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice, the march was billed as a protest against U.S. domestic social spending and the bombing of Cambodia. But the title was "March from Watergate to Justice," and the speakers concentrated on the bugging scandal.

The march began directly across the street from the Watergate offices where the notorious break-in occurred a year ago. It ended at the Justice Department building, about a mile away.

Anthony Russo, a former defendant in the Pentagon Papers case, told the crowd that recent disclosures indicate the President's reelection committee resorted to illegal activities because of pressure from anti-war activists.

Bombing raids dip

WASHINGTON (UPI) - U.S. warplanes dropped 53,761 tons of bombs on Cambodia during the month of May, a reduction of about 1,000 tons from the previous month, Pentagon figures showed Saturday.

The decrease reflected in part a 33 per cent cutback in the number of B-52 raids flown over Cambodia, a move ordered late in May primarily to save money.

The bombing of Cambodia has come under intense criticism in Congress, which is considering legislation to cut off funds for continued air activities in Indochina.

Burglary order tied to Nixon

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON - John W. Dean III has told government investigators that a high White House aide informed him early last January that the orders for the burglary of files belonging to Dr. Daniel Ellsberg's former psychiatrist came "from the Oval Office" of President Nixon, sources close to the Watergate case said today.

The sources said that Dean had related that the information about Nixon's alleged involvement came from Egli Krogh Jr., one of the directors of the so-called "plumbers group" assigned by the President to investigate Ellsberg after the publication of the Pentagon Papers in June, 1971. The burglary occurred in Beverly Hills, Calif., September, 1971.

Dean was reportedly ready to testify about the conversation in his televised appearance next week before the Senate Watergate Committee. The former White House counsel met today with staff members and lawyers for the Senate committee to prepare for his testimony, which begins Tuesday.

The White House told of the new assertion by Dean, refused to comment. In a statement, a spokesman said, "We are not going to comment on this type of 'John Dean source' story."

Krogh, who resigned early in May as under secretary of transportation, was unavailable for comment. His attorney, Stephen H. Shulman, said, "I refuse to discuss issues that are subject of investigation in the newspapers."

In his May 22 statement on the related Watergate scandal, Nixon specifically denied any advance knowledge of the West Coast burglary.

"It was not until the time of my own investigation," he said, "that I learned of the break-in at the office of Mr. Ellsberg's psychiatrist."

Later in the statement, Nixon said, "I told Mr. Krogh that as matter of first priority, the plumbers should find out all it could about Mr. Ellsberg's associates and his motives." He added, however, "I did not authorize and had no knowledge of any illegal means to be used to achieve this goal."

Dean is said to have told investigators that he discussed the California break-in and the authorization for it with Krogh while serving as Krogh's counsel shortly before Senate Commerce Committee confirmation hearings on Krogh's presidential nomination to be under secretary of transportation.

Krogh had served since 1969 as a White House aide to John D. Ehrlichman, now resigned as the President's domestic adviser, and Dean advised and counseled him on matters of executive privilege and national security before the hearings.

Well-informed sources said it was the information supplied to Dean by Krogh, coupled with what Dean earlier perceived to be "clues" about the extent of Nixon's knowledge about the cover-up of the Watergate bugging, that led the former White House counsel to believe that the President's concern over executive privilege and national security during a series of more than 30 conversations in early 1973 was related to the cover-up.

The White House turned over to Dean on Thursday copies of his personal White House telephone logs and appointment books, the sources said, and those provide that, as reported earlier, he participated in 35 to 40 personal meetings or telephone conversations with the President between late January of this year and early April.

today in brief

Brezhnev security tight

WASHINGTON (UPI) - U.S. officials took the unusual step of closing Andrews Air Force Base to the public Saturday before Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's arrival and kept the tight security in effect until he left.

Only base personnel, U.S. and Soviet official greeters and a pool of three news reporters were admitted.

The action was one of many steps taken to protect Brezhnev during his nine-day stay in the United States, including assignment of more than 600 Washington metropolitan police to guard him along with a beefed-up force of Secret Service agents and a detachment of Soviet security agents.

Tycoon jailed

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) - Glenn W. Turner, the flamboyant Florida instant millionaire, was arrested and jailed here Saturday pending action on an extradition warrant from Britain, police said. Turner, 38, of Orlando, Fla., already has been indicted on mail fraud charges in the United States and his "Dare to Be Great" enterprises have been under investigation or banned in dozens of states in America.

Nurse talks to Clover Leaguers

FILER — Mrs. Walter Kaster spoke on her work as a public health nurse to the Lutheran Women's Missionary League at their meeting in the Clover Church.

Guest night was observed and young married women of the congregation were special guests.

Mrs. Elmer Fischer introduced Mrs. Arthur Kaster who spoke on the topic, "Why You Should Belong to a Women's Church Group." Mrs. Kaster told how the Idaho District of the LWML was formed 25 years ago and also related some of the accomplishments through the years. Mrs. Fischer presented a chart showing the work of the unit boxes.

Mrs. Leo Gehring reported 200 pounds of clothing was recently sent to World Relief and that children's clothing had been sent to the Gooding Deaf and Blind School.

Members were urged to attend the LWML retreat at Camp Perkins in the Sawtooth Mountains Aug. 5-8.

Mrs. David Lutz offered the closing prayer. Hostesses were Mrs. Eugene Schroeder, Mrs. Robert Schroeder, Mrs. Wayne Schroeder and Mrs. Elmer Auferhetde.

Horse show set at Blaine

SUN VALLEY — The Sun Valley Horsemen's Center will serve as host for the season's first Sun Valley area horse show June 30-July 1.

The schedule of events includes western classes, 9 a.m. Saturday; English pleasure and equitation, 2 p.m. Saturday; hunter-jumper classes, 9 a.m. Sunday. A new HJA approve class this year is English pleasure for those 30 and over.

Entries close June 25. Those interested may contact members of the HJA, western wear or saddlery stores or call the Sun Valley Horsemen's Center.

Starting will be available at Sun Valley. Post entries are accepted at $1 per class.

Tea held

TWIN FALLS — The annual Flag Day tea of the United Patriotic Organization of Women was given Thursday at the DAV Hall.

Jean Myer Todhunter spoke on patriotism, the flag, and today's problems and possible solutions. Her talk was accompanied by her husband "Doc" Todhunter, who also accompanied community singing.

1974 officers were installed by Edna Bell Oshund. President is Louise Barron, Daughters of American Veterans; vice president, Maurine Terry, American Legion Auxiliary of Twin Falls; chaplain, Lillian Aringa, American War Mothers; conductress, Mary Wurst, American Legion Auxiliary of Hailey; secretary, treasurer, Mary Stearns, World War I Barracks Auxiliary; sergeant at arms, Opal Billings, Veterans of Foreign Wars; pro tempore, Valerie Billings.

Lillian Aringa served as secretary, pro tempore, in the absence of Mary McGonigal, Hailey. Refreshments and decor were in red, white, and blue with Avefna Jackson of the VFW Auxiliary, Louise Barron, and Edna Bell Oshund assisting with refreshments and table centerpiece from the garden of Emma Stone, Twin Falls American Legion Auxiliary, who also served as chaplain. Verna Smith WWI was sergeant-at-arms and Mary Taylor AWM conductress. Louise Barron, DAV, presided.

Past department officers of the WWI Barracks and Auxiliary, Mr. and Mrs. Harold, Chelene, Gooding, were guests.

New officers were presented red and white carnations tied with blue ribbons by the WWI Auxiliary.

Helpers needed for 'Hotline'

TWIN FALLS Additional volunteers are needed to assist in the Hotline project.

Ron Ellsworth, Twin Falls businessman who has replaced Roger Abernathy as chairman of the project, told members of the Twin Falls Mental Health Association Thursday night he is planning to have monthly orientation meetings for the volunteers — who man the telephone at the Priory.

About 22 volunteers now are participating in the Hotline project, where troubled persons call to get help with personal problems. He said about 40 persons could be utilized, so that no volunteer would have to work more than one night per month.

Training sessions are planned for new volunteers, he said.

Lotus Schmucker, association president, reported the group is on the waiting list for a booth at the Twin Falls County fair this fall. It is hoped to have a booth to distribute educational materials on mental health.

Plans were discussed for the benefit performance of the association will sponsor Aug. 15 of "Streets of New York" by the Antique Festival Theatre.

Kelly Bond, publicity director for the Antique Theatre, met with the group to discuss plans for promoting the performance which will be held at the CSI Fine Arts auditorium. Lorraine Smith was named coordinator for arrangements.

Roy Slotten and Mrs. Bryan Harris presented the 1974 budget which was approved.

Humane society elects officers

TWIN FALLS — New officers of the Twin Falls County Humane Society were announced Saturday by Bobbi Glasmann, president.

Mrs. Glasmann will continue as president with other officers including Dr. Steve Lincoln, first vice president; Dr. Charles Donnelly, second vice president; Bonnie Baird Jones, secretary; Terry Castaneda, treasurer and Ardith Wheeler, publicity director.

Elected to the board of directors are Doris Woodland, Huguette Winegar, Dave Dellett, Floyd Plant and Merv Randall. Honorary directors are Leon Littlefield, John Qualls, Ronald Zebell and Dr. D. A. Jackson.

The society, dedicated to care and protection of abandoned, homeless or mistreated animals, is now preparing for a clean-up and improvement project at the animal shelter just east of the Shoshone Street bridge.

Mrs. Glasmann said planters for flowers and plants would be most appreciated if persons have items of this type to donate. Soil around the building is of suitable for plants and large pots and planters will be needed.

The society now has a good selection of kittens and puppies, Mrs. Glasmann said and is receiving more animals each week. Animals are available for "adoption" by paying a small charge to help defray their care at the shelter and initial shots.

Contract awarded on water work

TWIN FALLS County Commissioners in Twin Falls have awarded the contract for installation of a new water system at the county fair grounds in Filer to the PMF Inc., Twin Falls.

The firm was one of four submitting bids, county officials said, and was slightly lower than the bid of Detweiler Bros., Twin Falls, second low.

Funds for the fairground improvement will be provided through the county's revenue sharing budget.

Idaho chiropractors elect in TF

TWIN FALLS — New officers of the Idaho Chiropractic Association, were installed here Saturday in closing sessions of the group's state convention in the Holiday Inn.

Dr. E. A. Sobolik, Boise, will serve as association president during the coming year and Dr. James Wear, Nampa, as vice president. Other include Dr. Gerald Hale, Rupert, treasurer; Dr. Larry Emery, Coeur d'Alene, sergeant at arms and Dr. Darth West, Pocatello, secretary.

Dr. Sobolik told the doctors, their wives and guests in the Friday night banquet meeting the profession has seen a great many strides in the past decade and especially within the past few years.

"The educational standards have been upgraded toward accreditation and several colleges have purchased new campuses that will, qualify them in meeting this goal," Dr. Sobolik said.

Many of these colleges, he said, now are filled to capacity with waiting lists. There are many high caliber men and women wishing to become part of the fastest growing healing profession, he said. "What has been taken out of context and used against the chiropractic profession from 50 years ago is not so in the eyes of the public today."

"One of the major 'break through' for the profession," the president said, "is the acceptance into medicare as of July 1, 1973."

Blue Cross programs are accepting the services of the chiropractor as are most insurance carriers. The reason for this is by demand of the public requesting the chiropractor's services, he added.

Dr. Sobolik, who is state chiropractic comprehensive health chairman, said chiropractic practice is included as one of the health provisions of all comprehensive health planning.

Repair shop opened in TF

TWIN FALLS — A new auto repair and restoration shop opened in Twin Falls June 1.

G and W Auto City, at 311 Main Ave. W., owned by E. M. Geper and Jim Williamson, will specialize in restoration of antique and classic cars, and will feature sports and foreign model repair work, according to Williamson.

The shop will be open also for all phases of engine building and tune up, painting and body work, sales and service.

QUESTIONS PEOPLE ASK:

Shouldn't we bury all...

residential electrical lines?

While much progress is being made in putting residential electric services underground, some people wonder why we can't bury all the lines. The information below may help supply answers.

- ① What do we gain by installing electric service underground?
Elimination of power poles and overhead wires
- ② Is underground electric service more reliable?
Not necessarily. Idaho Power's reliability record already is better than 99.9%.
- ③ Does undergrounding reduce maintenance problems?
No. While overhead lines are subject to wind, ice, falling tree limbs and motor vehicle damage, these outages usually are brief. Underground lines can be damaged by digging, rodents, corrosion, freezing, thawing and earth movement. Damage often is difficult to locate and expensive to repair, so outages last longer.
- ④ Are original installation costs higher for underground than for overhead service?
Installation of underground service from the transformer to a new home cost about twice as much as overhead. New underground main feeder services in residential areas cost about six times as much as overhead installation. Underground high voltage transmission lines cost up to thirty times as much as overhead.
- ⑤ What would it cost to convert existing overhead distribution lines to underground service?
About eight times as much as overhead construction for distribution lines such as serve the transformer in your alley.
- ⑥ Why does it cost more to convert existing overhead lines to underground service than to build new ones?
Because it requires scrapping good, working equipment which represents a considerable investment. It also can require digging up trees, lawns, shrubbery, driveways and streets.

- ⑦ Are new methods and equipment reducing underground cost?
These costs have been decreasing in recent years, but, due to inflation, there is little hope that this downward trend will continue.
- ⑧ Does Idaho Power recommend the installation of underground service?
Yes, we encourage it for new residential developments. It is far more practical to install underground lines before the construction of homes and driveways, and the planting of lawns, trees and shrubbery.
- ⑨ How many Idaho Power customers are now served through underground lines?
More than 10,000. Actually only a small portion of the Idaho Power distribution system is underground, currently increasing substantially from year to year.
- ⑩ What would it cost to install all Idaho Power distribution lines underground?
Our engineers estimate a cost of $938 million. (This does not include high voltage transmission lines.) This is about double the value of the Company's complete power system including dams, power plants, transmission lines and distribution lines; or more than $5,000 per customer. The additional rate requirements would be substantial.

The Idaho Power electric system has been built over a period of more than half a century. Obviously it would be imprudent to try to replace this whole network of valuable equipment, already paid for and functioning well. We do take advantage of new materials and technology for new installations and replacement of obsolete equipment.

Demo Outlook Bleak For '76

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is astonishing news that even Watergate keeps busting out all over, the Democrats do not seem enormously advantaged and may have real difficulties on both candidates and issues in 1976. The bluntest way to put the candidate problem is to ask one of the many Democratic governors in sight. The outlook is very, very bleak. Kennedy's course leads all polls of Democratic prospects today. He moves around the nation easily and often performing the expected preliminaries for a candidacy. But he has made no kind of commitment, and intends to hold-off for a long time on a decision whether to run.

Also in 1971, Federal District Court in Washington ruled that the District of Columbia Board of Education could not plead lack of funds for failing to provide a public education to handicapped and emotionally disturbed children.

First is the "comprehensive, dynamic program" authorized for the bureau by Congress. Now in its fifth year, the bureau is administering a record-breaking program of services to provide and stimulate special education for the handicapped, including grants to states, grants for teacher recruitment and training, for teaching materials, for research and innovation and for regional resource centers.

Today, 35 states have some form of mandatory law providing special education for the handicapped. Yet there remain great differences in the quantity and quality of educational services they offer. A child born in one state may have four times as much chance of receiving special education as a child in another state.

Spouse killed

MRS. ERNEST SILAS crouches behind an auto as police zero in on her husband as he emerged from the house in Berkeley, Calif., where he held three persons hostage and killed Magic Wolff, 4, as she lay in her crib. Silas died of gunshot wounds. (UPI)

Ex-con murders child, policeman

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — An ex-convict fatally shot a police sergeant trying to handcuff him as a prowler Saturday, then took three hostages and killed one, a 4-year-old girl, before he was cut down in a deadly barrage of police gunfire.

The suspect, Ernest M. Silas, 34, was rushed to a hospital with gunshot wounds in the head and shoulder received when he left a house where he had held the hostages for three hours and killed little Magic Wolff as she lay in her crib. He died in the hospital several hours later.

Police said Silas, holding a gun, came out of the two-story frame house about a mile from the University of California campus about three hours after he shot police Sgt. Jimmie H. Rutledge, 49, a 22-year veteran of the Berkeley force.

He emerged shortly after a single shot was heard from inside the house, where the child was shot. He was wounded four times by a police officer with a rifle stationed in the house next door.

Witnesses gave conflicting accounts of whether Silas, who had served jail terms in the Midwest for burglary, robbery, and narcotics violations, was trying to escape or surrender when he was shot. A neighbor who knew the suspect said the whole episode "should never have happened."

One of the hostages, Richard Priddy, the dead girl's father, said Silas "shouted, 'You're trying to set me up,' after he took Priddy, little Magic, and Diane Lankus hostage.

Priddy, who said he knew Silas, said the suspect tried the door of his house about 5 a.m., then left and was confronted by Rutledge, who was investigating a report of a prowler.

French ready nuclear tests

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI) — The last of six French navy ships, attached to the French nuclear test operation in Polynesia left port Saturday, apparently for the test site at Mururoa Atoll, 800 miles southeast of Tahiti.

In Paris, newspapers reported the new series of tests, aimed at upgrading France's atomic capability into the thermonuclear class, will begin next weekend.

French national assemblyman and writer Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber will lead a protest next Saturday in the gardens of the Papeete city hall, full-page newspaper advertisements said Saturday.

Getty seion's will opened

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In a handwritten will penned just five days before his mysterious death, the eldest son of one of the world's richest men, J. Paul Getty, left his father an inheritance of only $10,000.

The elder Getty's wealth has been estimated at $2 billion which ranks the 81-year-old oil tycoon as among the world's wealthiest, if not the richest, in the world.

Five days before the death of his 48-year-old son, George II, the younger Getty signed his "last will and testament," the contents of which were made public here Saturday by a family attorney.

A coroner's report showed that Getty died of a combination of barbiturates and alcohol, but authorities have not yet concluded whether death was accidental or suicide.

Ervin rules out Nixon subpoena

(c) Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. says his Senate Watergate Committee has no plans to subpoena President Nixon.

"I would prefer not to take that drastic a step," Ervin told a press conference. "Don't you think it would be rather drastic of us?"

The North Carolina Democrat observed that no evidence known to him suggests that Nixon was involved in either the Watergate break-in or the subsequent cover-up.

"We'll get the evidence from other witnesses," Ervin said. He was asked if his committee would get all the evidence that way and he replied, "I think we'll get pretty close to it."

Ervin said the next witness before his committee would be former White House counsel John W. Dean III, thought to be the witness most likely to implicate the president.

In light of the desire of some citizens that the office of the Presidency remain unsmudged at all costs, the Senator was asked if he would shy from questions that might lead Dean to put Nixon's impudence in doubt.

Ervin reared up a bit at the question, and replied that he would not shy from asking anybody anything.

The press conference followed a speech on executive privilege that Ervin gave before the Illinois State Bar Assn.

Bosides Dean, another witness who will testify "in the very near future" will be former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, Ervin said.

In testimony Thursday before the committee by Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of President Nixon's campaign for reelection, Mitchell was said to

Ulster Protestants admit 3 killings

BELFAST (UPI) — Police Saturday found the body of a 17-year-old Roman Catholic killed by Protestant gunmen and hunted for two more victims.

The Ulster Freedom Fighters (UFF), a Protestant extremist group, said they killed Daniel Houze and two others in retaliation for the death of Protestant militant leader Tommy Herron's brother-in-law Friday.

Police found Houze's body lying in a building site in west Belfast after the UFF telephoned local newspapers and told them they had killed Houze and two others.

The death raised the toll to 826 persons killed in almost four years of violence among Protestants, Catholics and security forces in Northern Ireland.

A police spokesman said they were still searching for the other two victims.

WASHINGTON — Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's main purpose in coming here at this time is to stimulate positive action on the proposed U.S. - Russian trade agreement, to which his country's economic hopes are increasingly tied.

The United States, at least publicly, is placing more emphasis on other aspects of the Nixon-Brezhnev summit conference, particularly the search for better ways to negotiate and achieve mutual reductions in strategic nuclear arms and in externally-based military forces.

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, who briefed American reporters on the summit conference agenda last Thursday, apparently forgot in his overall presentation to even mention trade and economic discussions. He had to be reminded of that topic by a reporter. Perhaps he was engaging in a bit of pre-summit psychology, hoping to throw the Soviets off balance.

He finally admitted that "commercial and economic issues are, of course, a central part" of the new U.S. - Soviet relationship, and "will play a very important role" in the conference.

In addition to his formal summit meetings with president Nixon, Brezhnev will spend considerable time trying to convince skeptical members of Congress to approve the trade package signed by the two countries last October, and discussing with American business men potential big trade deals.

Brezhnev, whose formal title is General Secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, will become, in effect, a lobbyist this week, when he meets with members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The committee has initial jurisdiction over parts of the trade agreement, which must be approved by congress before it can become effective.

The agreement, an outgrowth of the first Nixon-Brezhnev summit conference a year ago in Moscow, lays the ground work for tripling the amount of U.S. - Soviet trade over three years. Such trade last year totaled 699 million, which itself was triple the total of the year before.

Terms call for this country granting Russia its "Most-Favored-Nation" (MFN) trade concessions, which is a guarantee of lowest import tariffs and which is granted only to America's best and friendliest trading partners. The Soviets would also become eligible for long term credits and other concessions.

To help soften Congressional opposition to granting MFN and other privileges to the Soviets, the agreement also specifically calls for the repayment by Russia of some $722 million as settlement for the lend-lease debt it has owed the United States since World War II. Payment, which would represent only partial recovery of the some $11 billion in food, clothing, and war-stuffs that was sent to Russia during the war, would be spread over 28 years. Interest on the unpaid balance, at a three per cent annual rate, is included in the $722 million figure.

The Soviet Union under Brezhnev has increasingly looked beyond its own borders to help solve its chronic deficiencies in agriculture production and manufacturing.

Rich in natural resources, particularly oil and gas, it has been exploring ways to barter with the United States and other countries for the things Russia sorely needs: food, heavy machinery with which to extract and refine its mineral resources, technological know-how and financial credit. Lack of cash resources has heretofore hampered Russia's ability for large scale trade with the West.

Last week, in what may be a forerunner of other massive deals with American firms, the Soviet Union signed agreements of intent to sell enormous amounts of Siberian natural gas to Occidental Petroleum Co. and El Paso Natural Gas Co. the gas would be piped to a Russian Pacific port, liquefied and shipped in American tankers to this country.

To make the sale a reality, Russia must find credit to finance the estimated $2 billion cost of building advanced transmission and liquefaction equipment. This is one of the subjects Brezhnev will be discussing with American business men this week.

The gas deal will also be one of the topics for the Brezhnev-Nixon summit talks. Because of the complexities and awkwardness involved in a deal between a centralized communist government and private American corporations, the U.S. government will be asked to give its formal approval of the arrangement.

Russian officials here are already talking about other potential sales to the United States, perhaps more barter deals that would bring to Russia more of the U.S. industrial equipment, and technology she needs to expand and improve the efficiency of Russian industry.

The Soviet Union has sent three trade missions here in the past year. The latest one, headed by Vladimir Alkhimov, was to have returned home some time ago, but was told to remain through the Brezhnev visit apparently to be available if some more business develops suddenly.

Meany hits trade deal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said Saturday the United States must oppose the Soviet Union preferential trade status until all Soviet Jews are allowed to emigrate freely.

"If the Soviet Union needs our credits, our produce and our technology," Meany said, "what shall we ask in return? We say: Let freedom enter the calculations of commerce."

Meany issued his statement shortly before Soviet Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev arrived in the United States for summit talks with President Nixon on trade and arms limitations.

The statement was sent to the Jewish Labor Committee's Trade Union Council to be read on the steps of the Capitol during a demonstration scheduled for Sunday against the Soviet emigration tax. Meany pledged AFL-CIO support for all efforts on behalf of Soviet Jews.

"We do not stand in the way of any genuine steps toward peace," Meany said, apparently referring to the Nixon-Brezhnev talks. "But neither do we delude ourselves that our good intentions are sufficient to realize mankind's dream."

"And neither will we subordinate human freedom to the almighty dollar. Trade is a two-way street. We say, let there be a favorable balance of freedom. Let's liquidate the freedom deficit. Let us not open wide the doors of American trade while the Soviet rulers shut the doors on their own citizens who want to emigrate."

Meany added that the United States should not "reward barbarism with the fruits of most favored nation treatment" in trade with the Soviet Union.

Administration efforts in Congress to gain most favored nation treatment for the Soviet Union also have been stymied by the emigration tax issue.

Meany noted that Brezhnev was coming to the United States on the eve of the 20th anniversary of the revolt of East Berlin workers, which was crushed by Marshal Andre Grechko.

"This was the same Grechko who was recently elevated to the Soviet Politburo by the man who visits us," Secretary Brezhnev," Meany added.

Assassin killed

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Security police have killed the alleged ringleader of a leftwing guerrilla group that assassinated a U.S. Army colonel earlier this month, police said Saturday.

A police announcement said security police surrounded the southeast Tehran house of Reza Rezaei at dawn Friday and killed him in a shootout when he refused to surrender.

The announcement, describing Rezaei as a "Communist saboteur," said he led the leftwing guerrilla group blamed for the murder of Lt. Col. Lewis L. Hawkins, 42, of Plymouth, Ind., on June 2.

Hawkins was a military adviser to the Iranian armed forces. Two members of the group, firing from a passing motorcycle, shot and killed Hawkins, a military adviser to the Iranian armed forces, as he left his house in Tehran.

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The Senate-Watergate Committee has subpoenaed the financial records of five Democrats who ran for president last year. A committee spokesman said subpoenas had been signed Thursday and issued yesterday for the financial records of Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota; Henry M. Jackson of Washington; George McGovern of South Dakota; and Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama. The spokesman said subpoenas would be issued later for the other Democratic presidential candidates in 1972. These included Reps. Shirley Chisholm of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas; Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana; and Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles. Further, the spokesman added, the committee also plans to subpoena the records of the Democratic National Committee. The issue of Democratic campaign financing came up Wednesday during the appearance of Maurice H. Stans, the Republican party's chief fund raiser last year, before the Senate Watergate Committee's hearings. Stans testified that he had disbursed $50,000 in cash to a fund-raising effort in testimony for Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. The money was intended to be added to the total raised to make the event appear more successful than it was, Stans said. At that point, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N. C., the committee chairman, said the money was used "to practice a deception," thereby putting the issue "almost on a moral plane in my judgment with a vote fraud — not quite, perhaps." Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., the committee vice chairman, then suggested the panel take up the question of campaign financing and subpoena Democratic documents as well. He said the committee should look into "the method and manner of accounting for cash contributions and cash disbursements and the requirement of the law or the custom and usage by political parties in disbursing cash." Baker also recommended that the committee subpoena all of the Democratic National Committee financial documents and all of those candidates for nomination of either of the two major political parties for a reasonable time preceding April 7, 1972, and subsequently, to shed light on exactly what the custom and usage in politics was. Meanwhile, former Democratic candidates began complying with the subpoenas.

Mrs. Miriam Perlman, treasurer for Humphrey's campaign, said she had requested and was granted a meeting, set for next Wednesday, with the committee counsel to go over the request for records. She said she anticipated no problems getting the records to committee members. Jackson said, "we're going to comply with the request, and we hope to set-up a meeting with the committee staff soon." The committee spokesman said the staff would expect the financial records first and then set up meetings with campaign officials. He said the staff had not heard whether the candidates planned to comply to the committee's request without a challenge.

Mayors tag Nixon for breaking word

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The nation's mayors Saturday accused President Nixon of breaking his promise not to use federal revenue sharing as a replacement for other federal programs. And they called the administration's request that they "mark time" while the federal grant system is reorganized "unrealistic." The report was released as the U.S. Conference of Mayors gathered here for the opening of its 41st annual conference. About 800 mayors and other municipal officials were attending. The report, prepared by the Conference of Mayors and the National League of Cities, said that the President, at a White House meeting with mayors in August, 1969, "explicitly agreed that general revenue sharing was not to be a substitute for ongoing federal categorical programs." "The President's promise has been breached," the report said. The report said the administration's policies to "slow inflation, avoid tax increases, and revamp the federal grant system places a disproportionate share of the economic burden on cities and local taxes." The mayors said they were in favor of a revamping of the federal grant system, but they were concerned about the areas in which funds were being cut and whether the new system would mean more or less control for municipalities.

seven men and their attorneys, but Dean quoted the President as saying that there would be no problem in paying that amount, the sources continued. Yesterday, the Washington Post reported that Hunt had demanded an additional $130,000 in cash shortly before his sentencing on March 23 for his role in the break-in. Earlier, the Post said, Hunt had received more than $200,000 from the White House to remain silent, and also assurances of executive clemency. Sources close to the case reported Dean as saying that some time soon after April 15, the day on which Nixon received a report from the federal prosecutors implicating a number of his top aides, the President brought up the remark about cash payments in another conversation with Dean and said, "Oh, by the way, I was kidding about that." "The President was doing a little self-protection operation," the source, who has heard all of Dean's account, said.

Jets collide

HONOLULU (UPI) — Two Air Force F-111 jets collided in mid-air northwest of Pohnpei, the U.S. Pacific command announced Saturday. The controversial, swing-wing fighter jets crashed in midair about 30 miles northwest of Pohnpei, a spokesman said. One aircraft reportedly landed safely, and the spokesman said the two crewmen from the other jet ejected "and were picked up uninjured." No explanation was given for the collision of the multi-million dollar jets. The U.S. Pacific command also announced the 102nd consecutive day of intensified American bombing of Cambodia.

Award ties partisans

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Gov. Wendell H. Ford, a Democrat, and comedian Bob Hope, a Republican, have at least one thing in common. Both are recipients of the Minerva Award of Merit, the highest honor bestowed by the University of Louisville. Former recipients of the bronze sculpture included Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Vice President Alben Barkley.

committee action to extend the life of O.E.O. for another year is rapidly moving forward

"It is safe to say," the source reported, "that O.E.O. will be funded for another year." The House Subcommittee on Education and Labor, it has been learned, drafted legislation to fund O.E.O. for $33 million for the coming year. Because the bill most likely could not be acted upon before the June 30 end of this fiscal year, it is expected to be accompanied by a continuing resolution to allow O.E.O. continuation into the next fiscal year. This resolution is expected to also include continuation authorization for the Department of Labor and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and permit all three agencies to operate at current funding levels until new appropriations can be acted upon. Most Congressional observers said the move to save O.E.O. has at least a reasonable chance of winning majority support in the Congress and thus stymie the President's efforts to scuttle the program. The struggle over the future of O.E.O. has become a classic exercise in legislative versus administrative power during the past several months. Members of Congress were highly critical of Phillips' actions earlier this year when he began to abolish O.E.O. Programs for which Congress had already authorized money. He defended his actions on his presumption that Nixon's wishes to abolish the program would be fulfilled and that he was presiding over the "orderly phasing out" of the program. It was not until a federal district judge here ruled those actions illegal, however, that

West German military aides visit

By JOCELYN CLOWARD
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Two members of West Germany's armed forces visited this week with their counterparts at the Twin Falls armed forces recruiting station.

Gerhard Schmiedl, who holds rank equivalent to a U.S. Army Chief Warrant Officer, and Rainer Brandt, Bootsman, or chief petty officer in the German Navy Air Force, are vacationing in Twin Falls with Schmiedl's sister, Mrs. Thora Calhoun, who serves as their translator.

Both men are now serving in the German armed forces security intelligence branch, and are stationed at Mainz on the Rhine.

Mrs. Calhoun came to the U.S. from Germany in 1964 and again in 1969 and 1971, and now resides in Twin Falls.

They compared notes Thursday on the German and U.S. armed forces with recruiters Navy CPO H. F. Smith, PO I. C. Dennis Abrams and PO I. C. Brad Bradley, Marine S. Sgt. John Luna, and Army S. Sgt. Rick Coop.

There are no German equivalents of the U.S. military academies, Schmiedl said. Youths may enter the armed forces at age 19. The West German armed services still use the draft, which was dropped last year in the U.S., Brandt said. Schmiedl discussed German enlistment terms, which may go as high as 15 years, while U.S. tours are for a maximum of six years. He is currently serving a tour which he has been on for 11 years; he said. Brandt has been on his present tour of duty for nearly six years.

Although Schmiedl has had only three years of English and Brandt none, they reported no travel difficulties as "people have been very courteous, and we use our hands a lot for lot for communication," Brandt said. The two noted the current German school requirement of three years of English and another foreign language.

"Such requirements are not common in the United States," Mrs. Calhoun observed.

"We like the current monetary rate of exchange, as it dropped in our favor this year," Schmiedl said. "My sister hopes that it will reverse if she visits in Germany next year. Prices have been going up in Germany, too, so that living expenses here seem about the same."

Both men are photographers. Schmiedl has taken thirteen 8 mm films already since his arrival. The two plan to spend some time in Salt Lake City, and perhaps Bryce, Zion and the Grand Canyon National Parks. They also plan to travel to the Coeur d'Alene area if possible. They have already visited Yellowstone National Park and Sun Valley.

"We have been fishing in Magic Valley a lot," Mrs. Calhoun said. "They are just like fishermen everywhere, a lot of exaggeration."

"We don't have the clear clean water for trout in Germany," Schmiedl said, "only in the Alps."

"We love the fresh clean air here, too," Brandt said. Both were impressed by the vast areas encompassed by the American West. "Everything here is spread out," Brandt said. "In Germany it would be unbelievable for everyone to have their own little house."

"And even so much ice cream," Schmiedl said, referring to large American cones.

TOPS club shows loss

GLENN'S FERRY — TOPS Id. 179 met Thursday evening in Greer Hall to show a net loss of two pounds.

KOPS lost two pounds. Mrs. Steve Perry was named TOPPER of the week, her picture was taken, and she received the traveling prize for having been the TOPPER of the week for the third time.

Mrs. Oral Irving was the winner of the April-May weight reduction contest and received the music box.

Mrs. Clifford Hansen is in charge of a new contest for June and July.

Mrs. Ralph Larsen, weight recorder, will be in Greer Hall at 6:30 on Thursday for the weigh-in. The meeting will be at 7 p.m.

Visiting sister

Bible school to begin

JEROME — The Seventh Day Adventist Vacation Bible school will begin Monday, according to Mrs. Harry Eklund, supervisor.

The sessions will be held Monday through Friday from 7 to 9 p.m. for two weeks in the church, Mrs. Eklund said.

Children ages 4 through 1 are welcome to participate in the games, crafts, stories and song during the school.

Division leaders for the school are Mrs. Jerry Hicks, Mrs. Kenneth Jones, Mrs. Kenneth Brown and Mrs. Norman Hansen.

News Of Servicemen

TWIN FALLS — First Lt. James R. Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Harris, Twin Falls, has been recognized for helping his Strategic Air Command (SAC) Squadron earn the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

Lieutenant Harris, a communications-electronics officer, is assigned at March AFB, Calif., with the 33rd Communications Squadron which received the award for exceptionally meritorious service from July 1, 1971, through June of last year.

Lt. Harris, a 1966 graduate of Pullman, Wash. High School, received his B.S. degree in electrical engineering in 1970 from South Dakota State University and was commissioned there through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

His wife, Judith, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Hansen, Brookings, S.D.

TWIN FALLS — Airman Thomas J. Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Morgan, Twin Falls, has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the U. S. Air Force communications specialization course conducted by the Air Training Command.

The airman, who learned to operate teletypewriter equipment used in the worldwide Air Force communications system, is being assigned to Hill AFB, Utah, for duty with a unit of the Air Force Communications Service.

Airman Morgan, a 1969 graduate of Twin Falls High School, attended Utah Technical School. His wife, Kaelene, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. Mitton, Wellsville, Utah.

Theatre to open July 3

By KERRY BOND
Special to the Times-News
TWIN FALLS — Antique Festival Theatre opens with a bang over the July 4th holiday at Robinson Bar in Stanley Basin.

The repertory this season consists of "Medicine Wagon," a folksy variety show, "Bourgeois (or would-be Gentleman)," and "Streets of New York," an American melo-drama done tongue-in-cheek and complete with a villain, blackmail, and gay-90s music, and of course a tenement fire.

After a one-night stop in Arco July 6 and Buhl July 7 they will return to Stanley for performances on July 8, 9 and 10. Easley's is the next stop on July 11.

Then the big bus, with its 12 players, props, and directors, journey to Murtaugh July 14, Shoshone on July 16, and back to Sun Valley for three performances at the new Elkhorn rink on July 17 and 19.

Kimberly will host a July 21 performance and Castleford (Balanced Rock Park) will host one July 22.

On Aug. 15 the Twin Falls County Mental Health Association will sponsor a benefit performance at the CSI Auditorium, backing the bus onto the stage and presenting "Streets of New York."

On Aug. 20 there will be a performance at Grand View, Aug. 20, a one-nighter at the Twin Falls city park and the season will close with Burley Aug. 31.

Other performances include Idaho Falls on July 12, and 13, and Lava Hot Springs on Aug. 16, 17, 18.

Boise area includes Idaho City, July 20, and Aug. 21, 25. Payette will be July 23, Parma July 24, Ontario July 25, McCall for three days July 26-28, Caldwell Aug. 14, and Boise, Aug. 21, 22, 23.

On Aug. 28 there will be an appearance at the Idaho State Penitentiary. The Theatre will play north Idaho during early August and will give three performances in Spokane.

Curtain time is always 8 p.m. and most performances are "under the stars."

Health fair

GLENN'S FERRY — A health fair will be held on Monday through Wednesday at the Glenn's Ferry High School.

This is sponsored by volunteers from this community and the Central District Health department. For information call Mrs. Cecil Irving — 366-7930; Mrs. George Etzelholz — 366-7157; Mrs. Lorraine Dayhoff — 366-2215 or Sandra Erickson — 366-7928.

The health education and screening program will cover dental screening, blood pressure, vision screening, hearing and speech, pap smears, immunizations, urine and blood screening, nutrition and family planning guidance.

This is for the whole family, without charge.

Rupert airs food stamp controversy

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The Minidoka County Commissioners discussed the pros and cons of the food stamp versus the commodities program with members of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

The commodities program entails no expense to the recipient, the food received is enriched and the program provides less exposure and embarrassment to the recipient who has only to be certified then pick up the food, Jo Hillis told the group.

On the other hand, she said, the program allows less freedom in the type of food purchased than the food stamp program, provides no special diet foods, requires food preparation, transportation to warehouses and storage space to hold a month's supply of food.

The commissioners first felt the Cassia County warehouse would be used if Minidoka County changed to the commodities program, Mr. Hillis said, but the possibilities of setting up a warehouse in Minidoka are being considered, though it would entail more cost.

"The food stamp program is a real hot item here in the county at the present time," Lyle Barton said.

Many people feel food stamps are bad because of their abuse, he said. At the present time, food stamps can be cashed in Cassia County, although that county is on the commodities program, he said, and Minidoka County residents are shopping there.

The food stamp program cost the county about $107 last month, Barton said, and that cost could be more than doubled on the commodities program through the setting up of a warehouse and storage facilities.

"I think the change is something we need to take a slow-long look at," he said.

Elmer Ketterling, chairman of the county commissioners, said the main worry about continuation of the food stamp program is the people who are moving from Cassia County to Minidoka County so they can buy food stamps.

Anyone with a salary up to $7,500 a year can purchase food stamps, Ketterling said, but the top salary for commodities recipients is $5,000.

Cassia County lost 35-40 per cent of their recipients when they changed to the commodities program, he said.

Ketterling said the state had assured the commissioners that for distributing and shipping the cost would be about $150 a month plus storage costs. Storage costs would be about $30 a day for two or three days a month if the Cassia County warehouse was used, he said.

Grace Keveren accorded honor

TWIN FALLS Mrs. Grace Keveren, Twin Falls, is among Idaho women selected to appear in the eighth edition of "Who's Who of American Women in the United States and Canada."

Mrs. Keveren received a bachelor of arts degree and a master of arts degree from the University of California, Berkeley, and later returned to that institution to graduate from the professional graduate school of Librarianship. She served as a librarian at the University of California Library, Librarian of the U.S. Office of Censorship, Seattle, Wash., and until retirement, as librarian of the Twin Falls High School Library.

Mrs. Keveren served as a member of the board of trustees, Twin Falls Public Library, and a member of the Governor's Conference on Libraries in Idaho. She was listed in the first issue of Who's Who in Library Services.

She is a former chairman of the Women's Republican Club of Twin Falls county and has held state office in that group. A member of A.L. PEO Sisterhood, she is a former state chapter president and served seven years as a member of the state board.

She was selected to represent the Past State Presidents in the Biennial convention of the Sisterhood in New Orleans in September.

Lincoln water and sewer meet slated

SHOSHONE Information about water and sewer planning in Lincoln County will be given by Larry Trumbull, Boise, chief of the environmental branch of Idaho Water Resource Board at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the courtroom, Shoshone.

Trumbull will be accompanied by representative of the engineering firm who did the work to answer questions concerning their findings and recommendations on this subject.

Also invited to the meeting are the planning commission members, board of county commissioners and city councils of the communities in the county, as well as other interested persons.

The report was prepared with grant funds supplied by the Farmers Home Administration and maps have been prepared for each community showing present facilities and proposed water and sewer systems where necessary.

JUB Engineers, Twin Falls, did the engineering survey. Members of this firm also will attend the meeting to answer questions.

Aide sues Kissinger for wiretap

(c) Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — In what could start a trend, former National Security Council aide Morton Halperin has filed a law suit against his former boss, Dr. Henry Kissinger, and other administration officials seeking invasion of privacy damages because his home telephone was tapped.

The taps were placed on the telephones of Halperin and other NSC aids in 1969 and 1970 in an effort by the administration to trace the source of various press stories about Vietnam negotiations and other national security information.

However, Halperin said in a press conference that in his opinion there was "only one" press leak of National Security Council information in 1969 and 1970 which could have caused any national security problem — a story about operations in Cambodia.

A former Washington Post diplomatic correspondent, Chalmers Roberts, has reported in a recent book that Kissinger was the source of the Cambodia leak.

The invasion of privacy suit filed by Halperin — and his wife and three children — may be the first in a series of damage actions by former government officials and news reporters whose telephones were tapped — or whose conversations were picked up on tapped telephones.

Attorneys representing two well known Washington investigative reporters are already researching potential damage actions, and a number of other reporters whose conversations may have been overheard have asked for legal advice.

The Halperin suit was filed under the 1968 omnibus crime control act. It permits law suits for illegal wiretaps by allowing damage actions to be filed by "any person" whose oral communication is (illegally) intercepted.

This appears to permit as potential litigants "any person" whose conversations were monitored even if their own telephones were not tapped.

Halperin, appearing at a press conference Thursday with his wife and three children, said it "was not easy" to file the action against Kissinger, former attorney general John N. Mitchell, former White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, current White House chief of staff (and former NSC assistant director) Alex Aler, acting FBI director William Ruckelshaus and a local telephone company.

The wiretapping, Halperin said, was "part of a larger White House effort to pry into the private lives of many government employees." He said he "had the obligation to bring this to the attention of the nation so that future administrations will not think they are above the law."

Halperin disagreed with one reported government defense attorney, that employees of secret agencies, such as the NSC, "waive" their rights to privacy when they join the agency.

Purse snatchers halted by crowd

They didn't get away. Several passersby followed the purse snatchers as they fled. One of the pursuers threatened them with a tire iron.

the the pursuers said, "We don't want any Kitty Genovese in this neighborhood."

Kitty Genovese was stabbed to death on a Queens street several years ago. Police said neighbors ignored her screams for help. The Genovese case is considered by some a classic example of "not wanting to get involved."

Edward Jones, Cyril Oldina and Cinwood Simmons were charged with robbery and assault.

The purse snatchers dash for a taxi, but by this time 100 onlookers had joined in the chase. Shouting and shaking their fists, they surrounded the cab and refused to let it leave until the police arrived.

Patrolman Peter Robinson, one of the first policemen to arrive at the scene, said, "I've never seen anything like it—all these people just came out and stopped the cab."

Merry Pet

Linda Merry, DVM

Question: We are to our wits end with our dog. He eats anything and everything he can get in his mouth. He once ate a marble. But last night he ate a whole loaf of bread. I left a chair out from the table and up he crawled.

He weighs 25 pounds and isn't much bigger than the loaf of bread he ate. His stomach was so full and hard he could hardly walk. I watered him and took him for a good walk.

He is fed 3 cups of dry dog food at night so he isn't starving; we've tried splitting his feedings through the day but it didn't make any difference. Anything I drop on the floor he gobbles up like it's his last morsel of food. Any ideas?

Answer: I suggest that you buy a bread box immediately. Then you'd better go over dog and diet carefully with a veterinarian. Gluttons may have more excuse for their behavior than poor discipline or being half-hog.

The dog may be lacking one of the vitamins or trace elements in his diet. He may have a digestive problem which prevents his absorbing needed nutrients even after he's wolfed them down.

He could have a thyroid or adrenal problem. He could have a brain tumor. A tumor or degenerative lesion in a part of the brain called the hypothalamus almost always produces a voracious appetite which won't be satisfied no matter how much food is eaten. There are also hereditary factors which tend to cause "fat families" of animals. Genetic abnormalities cause the feeding centers to set the level of nutrient storage too high and even produce abnormal psychological factors that "whet" the appetite.

A neurotic dog, like neurotic people, may eat from boredom, frustration, anger or even fear of hunger (as in some strays that have known what starvation means).

It could be this guy is just naturally piggy; but then again he could have a valid reason for being so edacious!

Question: I have heard that if you move, you should keep your animal inside for a couple of weeks or he will try to go back where you moved from. Is this true?

Answer: It can be, especially for cats. A cat who has lived one place for a long time may be very closely attached to the location. When he's moved, he gets mixed-up about what makes a house a home and heads back.

Likewise, a dog who's let out too soon in a new neighborhood may get turned around, not remember where his new home is, and return to the old familiar places.

If you have a question about your pet, send it to The Merry Pet Column, in care of the Times-News.

Dworshak Dam dedicated

OROFINO, Idaho (UPI) — It has only taken 20 years; but Dworshak Dam is finished.

The giant dam on the North Fork of the Clearwater River in North Central Idaho was dedicated today, in ceremonies almost two decades after it was authorized by Congress in 1953.

Attending the ceremonies were secretary of the Army Howard H. Callaway, Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus, and Maj. Gen. A.O. Rollins, deputy chief of the Army Corps of Engineers.

The dedicatory plaque was unveiled by Mrs. Henry C. Dworshak, widow of the late Idaho Senator for whom the massive structure is named. Massive it is. The dam stretches 3,300 feet from canyon wall to canyon wall and soars 717 feet from bedrock to crest. It is 550 feet wide at the base and 35 feet wide at the top, and contains 6.5 million cubic yards of concrete.

The Army Corps of Engineers calls Dworshak the largest straight axis concrete dam it has ever constructed.

The $267-million project has brought financial benefits already to this area, largely dependent upon logging for its livelihood.

One of the benefits has been the dam payroll, which reached 1,300 at its peak during the six-year construction period. Much of that money stayed in the area.

Another benefit just beginning to be realized is the recreational value of the pool behind the dam.

The 53-mile-long pool winds through the canyons in the rugged area and contains 185 miles of shoreline. The Corps currently is constructing numerous small campgrounds along its shores, most of which can only be reached by boat.

Another benefit from the pool is the logging of the steep hill-sides of the 16,900 acres of land inundated by the rising waters. Much of the timber cut from the shores of the pool was of commercial value and contractors expected to take 20-30 million board feet of logs out by the time their contracts expire this fall.

In addition, area residents say land values have skyrocketed since the construction began.

Robert Werner, former assistant to Sen. Dworshak and a longtime resident of the area, said, "Ten years ago you could buy any of the stump ranches around here for $50 an acre."

"Now," he said, "they are going for $1,000 an acre on up, depending on whether you have a view of the pool or not."

The dam this spring began producing its first electricity and currently is adding 220,000 kilowatts per day to the Pacific Northwest power grid.

Completion of the initial installation of generators will bring the production to 400,000 kilowatts, and the ultimate capacity of the dam is 1,600,000 kilowatts.

However, reaching that figure is in the unforeseeable future, since it would entail construction of a reregulating dam to control the water flow in the river.

Lifting Phase II controls mistake

By STEVE GERSTEL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress twice has given President Nixon blank check authority to stem inflation but now wants a much stronger role in formulating what the administration will do after the 60-day freeze expires.

With the exception of a minority which favors free market forces or voluntary controls, Congress feels that lifting Phase II controls in January was a grievous mistake.

tions from Congress.

Now, Sen. George S. McGovern, with the extremely important backing of Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, has moved to give Congress a greater say in the next phase and future phases. Specifically, McGovern has proposed that Nixon tell Congress 15 days in advance what he proposes to do. He will offer it as an amendment to a federal financing bill next week.

McGovern said "the Congress would have the opportunity to correct mistakes before they are made—and the obligation to share the blame if the program does not work."

"In defense of the President, we must note that while many of us expressed misgivings, few of us—and few economists—fully foresaw what a disaster Phase III would be."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., considered one of the Senate's more astute economists, said he would press for hearings by the Senate Banking and Joint Economic Committee in the shape of the next phase.

THREE CROSS country hikers, Warren Edson left, Brian Conery, and Edson's dog Midnight, all Chico Calif. pause at the intersection of the Highline Canal with the old airport road. The three are on a ten week hike from Jackpot, Nev. through Idaho to Kingsgate, Can. The dog carries her own food for the trip in a special pack.

Hike through Gem state

By JOCELYN CLOWARD
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — Two 17-year-old hikers from Chico, Calif., walked through Twin Falls today on the first leg of a ten-week walk.

Brian Conery and Warren Edson, with Edson's dog Midnight, left Jackpot, Nev., to wash out some socks in the Highline Canal on the old Airport Road Tuesday morning.

Canal on the old airport road Tuesday morning.
Their walk will take them up US Highway 93 to Sun Valley and Cape Horn, along the South Fork of the Salmon River to the Main Fork, through part of the Bitterroot Mountains to Selway Falls, past Avery to Clark Fork and then to Kingsgate, Can., where Edson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Edson, Chico, will pick them up.

Edson's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Edson, Boise. Conery is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Conery, Chico.
The youths chose to hike through Idaho because, "We could get through so much national forest and primitive area," Edson said. "We can go from desert directly into mountains," he said.

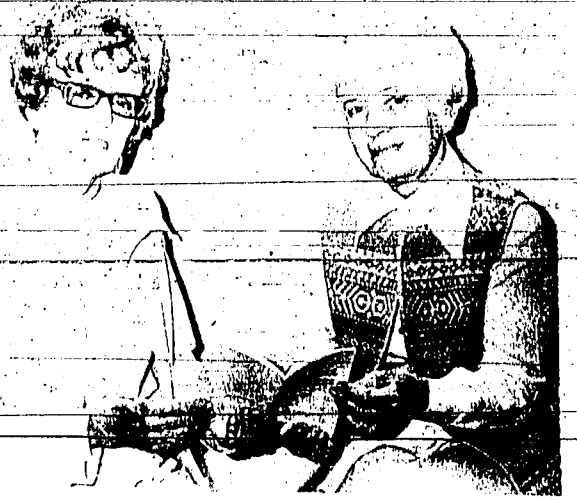

"We've had a lot of offers for rides," Conery said. "All along, people have stopped and talked to us."

The youths have a special pack for Midnight, who carries her own food. "She likes to go backpacking as much as we do," Edson said. "She guards us."

The two, friends for several years, belonged to the same Boy Scouts of America Troop, and afterward, took several trips in the foothills of the Sierra Nevadas.

They are using freeze dried food primarily, Edson said, with some rice and oatmeal for breakfast to add variety to their diet.

They plan to complete their expedition about 70 days from now.

Language problem

ENTERTAINMENT for women who speak other languages poses some problem for Mrs. J. D. Claiborn, left, and Mrs. Robert Day, in charge of planning a program for visiting wives of sugar beet technologists here next week. Here the two look over the official program printed in French, English and German.

Sugar beet industry brings visitors to Magic Valley

TWIN FALLS — Visitors from six or seven countries will be arriving in Twin Falls Tuesday for a four-day inspection of Idaho's sugarbeet industry.

The tour is part of the American Society of Sugar Beet Technologists annual program on sugar beet production and processing. Twin Falls area will be the only Idaho stop on the agenda.

Two Twin Falls women are making plans for entertaining the estimated 30 women on the tour despite a slight language barrier. Mrs. J. D. Claiborn and Mrs. Robert Day are in charge of program arrangements.

While their husbands are looking at sugar beet fields, farm machinery and the processing plant here, wives will be visiting the Blue Lakes Country Club, Shoshone Falls and other scenic areas around Twin Falls.

The two women will greet their guests at the Twin Falls City-County Airport Tuesday night, taking them to the Holiday Inn.

Wednesday morning they will visit the downtown mall for shopping and on Thursday they will go to Blue Lakes Country Club for a 1 p.m. luncheon.

Other sugar beet growers' wives will assist in providing transportation to Shoshone Falls and other scenic areas.

Wednesday night the wives and their husbands will hold a trout dinner at the county fairgrounds in Filer following a tour of Thousand Springs Trout Farm near Buhl.

On Friday the delegation will leave for Yellowstone National Park via Craters of the Moon National Monument followed by a luncheon in Idaho Falls.

About 100 men, all technicians and experts in the field of sugar production in various beet growing countries, will take part in the tour.

In addition to visiting the sugar beet fields in this area, they will also tour the Snake River Soil and Water Resource station at Kimberly.

They will visit the Bell Rapids farm project, a new development near Hagerman, and will inspect the research laboratory and other facilities of the Amalgamated Sugar Co. plant here.

Hospitalized Filer youth gets new glasses

By BONNIE JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — For almost two weeks, Marvin Gartner, 17, Filer, has seen little except the ceiling of his room at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

But now, thanks to the combined efforts of the staff and hospital auxiliary, he can read, watch television and even more important, he can see who is coming in the door of his room.

Young Gartner suffered a broken neck in rodeo accident June 2. Since the accident, he has been immobilized in traction in a special bed that for the first ten days was never moved from a level horizontal position.

After attention to his physical needs became more or less routine, staff members began to worry about the young man's boredom and frustration. A search for a source of eyeglasses which would permit the wearer to see down while looking up produced the name of a New York firm which after a phone call from the hospital had the special glasses in Twin Falls in two days time.

The ingenious prismatic glasses, which look like small mirrored pyramids attached to an eyeshade, permit the young man to watch television on a set near the foot of his bed, read a book or magazine resting on his stomach and to see visitors walking through the door, all while immobile, flat on his back and appearing to be looking at the ceiling.

The purchase price of the glasses was $20 and it was provided by the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

The glasses will remain at the hospital to be loaned to other patients who may suffer similar problems.

Marvin was participating in the district high school rodeo when tossed from the bronc he was riding. He has now decided to give up rodeoing except for team roping and similar events. He also plans to raise Hereford cattle now that his has finished high school.

His mother, Mrs. Roy Gartner, said he is no longer in severe pain as he was following the accident but his complete restriction of the upper body due to the bad neck fracture and upper back fracture makes his hospital stay unusually dull.

He can move his arms and flex his knees but his head is rigidly in place by metal brackets and his upper body never moves, not even for back massage.

Young Marvin will be in the hospital in this position until July 1, then go into surgery and after a few days will be able to go home in a cast if all goes well. He will wear the cast for a couple of months.

Mrs. Gartner said the family is most grateful to the Magic Valley Ambulance staff and the hospital staff.

"If those ambulance attendants had not known what they were doing he would probably be dead now. The fracture of the neck was so severe, any degree of wrong movement would have killed him," she said.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK L. WALKER

Jerome pair plans anniversary fete

JEROME — Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Walker will be honored at a Golden Wedding Anniversary open house celebration from 1 to 4 p.m. June 24.

The event, given by their children, will be at their home, 324 3rd Ave. W., Jerome. The couple was married June 20, 1923, at Jerome with the marriage solemnized Sept. 12, 1925, in the Salt Lake City, Utah, LDS Temple.

Walker retired from his employment with Ida Gem Dairy, Aug. 31, 1965, after working for the firm for 44 years.

The couple has four children, Mrs. Ray (Dora) Newman, Overton, Nev.; Robert Walker, Sunnyvale, Calif.; George Walker and Mrs. Henry (Marian) Heid, both Jerome. They have 27 grandchildren, 12 great-grandchildren and one foster granddaughter in Greece.

The couple enjoys rock hunting and polishing and ceramics. Both are active in the LDS Church.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old girl with an ugly past. I have "made love" with so many lovers that I now wonder if it will ever be an expression of real love when I would like it to be.

There is someone who probably will be asking me to share love with him, I'm sure. I desperately want to avoid going into another affair in which I will be another sexy pastime for someone to trip with. All of my past affairs have ended in my having contempt for the fellows. I don't want to make that mistake again.

I am now going with someone who seems to care for me as a person. He hasn't pressured me for sex. He knows that I have had lovers and that if he pushed the matter he probably could include himself on the list. Yet, so far, he hasn't.

Ugly past

What do I say if our relationship develops into a really serious love? He will think I'm playing games if I say "no" to him when he knows I've said "yes" to others.

I have learned that if a sexual involvement is held off, if the relationship survives it must be for other reasons, which will give me self-respect and a feeling of worth as a person.

What do you think, Abby? HOLDING OFF

DEAR HOLDING: You have the right idea. You can say "no" with integrity today even though you have said "yes" yesterday because you have learned from your mistakes. You are confusing "making love" and "having sex." You have had sex, but you haven't really made love yet.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorced woman and I call myself a divorcee. It's nothing to be ashamed of. Practically every other woman you meet nowadays is a divorcee.

I have this friend who was married for nine years. She and her husband fought all the time, and they finally got a divorce. About three months after the divorce was final, her ex-husband dropped dead of a heart attack. This friend now goes around passing herself off as a widow. She thinks it will get her sympathy, and maybe improve her chances of getting another husband.

Personally, I don't think it will help her much. I'd like your opinion. DIVORCED AND ADMITS IT

DEAR DIVORCED: Statistics show that more divorcees than widows remarry. But if your friend thinks she'll get more sympathy as a widow than a divorcee, she's right. It's up to her.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you reported a couple, having separated after 40 years of marriage, and you remarked, "Now I've heard everything." No, you haven't. My husband and I were married in 1928, and in January of 1971 he moved his belongings into a condominium which he bought without my knowledge, and I haven't heard from him since. In all our married life, he never conversed with me about anything.

We have two married children and three lovely grandchildren. I keep myself busy, and must confess, I don't miss him. HAPPY IN DETROIT

DEAR HAPPIER: It's not surprising. Why would you miss someone who never conversed with you about anything?

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Mini Reviews

TWIN FALLS — Mini-reviews for some of the children's books recently received at the Twin-Falls Public Library have been released by library officials.

"Good-night Owl!" by Pat Hutchins. Pat Hutchins has written a bedtime story with a switch; a surprise ending that will send the youngest child off to sleep laughing.

"Leave-herbert-Along" by Alina Whitney. Jennifer was always trying to make friends with the out next-door, but she always scared him. The day they did make friends was the day Jennifer stopped trying so hard.

"The King Who Reigned," by Fred Gwynne. An enchanting look about a little girl who lives in a world where things look the way they sound. Her daddy said the king reigned for 40 years.

"Mother Goose Lost" by Nicholas Tucker. This is a fresh and rollicking collection of unfamiliar American and English rhymes, many of them hundreds of years old.

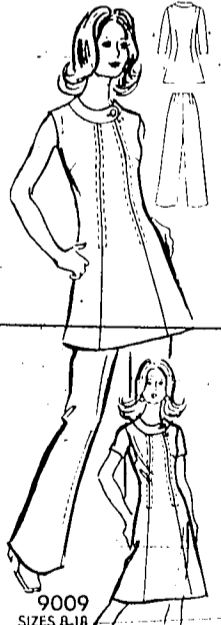

"The Chick and the Duckling" by Vladimir Suteev. Small children will be delighted with the adventures of the duckling and the chick. They play follow the leader, but the chick has a problem when he tries to swim.

"The Adventures of Obadiah" by Brinton Turkle. Obadiah Starbuck loved to tell falsehoods until the day he really has an adventure. Brinton Turkle has written two other books about Obadiah, a very real little boy who lived on Nantucket a long time ago.

"Inspector Peckit" by Don Freeman. Inspector Peckit is a private eye detective who also happens to be a pigeon. When he offers his services to a young mademoiselle who has lost her birthday present, Peckit's list of suspects begins with Cattiva, his client's fluffy cat.

"Finnio and the Dolphins" by Chiyoko Nakatani. The story of two boys who become friends with a school of dolphins. The boys save the dolphins from the fishermen's nets.

MISS FREDRICKSON engaged

Hansen miss sets wedding

HANSEN — Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fredrickson, Hansen, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sandra Jean, to David J. Hamilton.

Hamilton is the son of Mrs. Warren Hamilton, Twin Falls. Miss Fredrickson is a 1971 graduate of Hansen High School and was graduated from the College of Southern Idaho in 1973. She is employed at the U. S. Department of Agriculture Plant Protection office, Twin Falls.

Hamilton is a 1971 graduate of Twin Falls High School and has completed a two-year course at the College of Southern Idaho. He is also employed at the USDA Plant Protection office, Twin Falls.

The couple plans a late August temple marriage. They will reside in Pocatello, where the bridegroom will attend Idaho State University in the fall.

Outstanding award given

SHOSHONE — Mrs. Judith Abraham received an award as one of the outstanding teachers of the year at Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan.

Mrs. Abraham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Love, Shoshone, is doing undergraduate teaching. She was born in Gooding, attended Shoshone elementary and high schools.

Mrs. Abraham attended the PEO sponsored Outley College in Missouri for two years, then secured her bachelor of arts degree at the Kansas Institute of Art. She received her master of fine arts degree at the University of Nebraska, and has been an instructor at Kansas State for three years, and will be an assistant professor the following school year.

Her paintings have been exhibited in numerous mid-western galleries.

At Kansas State, she teaches design and drawing, water colors and history of art.

August wedding planned

GOODING — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fuqua, Gooding, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Sandra, to C. Scott Hobbley.

Hobbley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil D. Hobbley, Gooding.

Miss Fuqua is a 1966 graduate of Gooding High School and served as delegate to Syringa Girls' State and as student body treasurer. Following graduation from Ricks College, Rexburg, she attended Idaho State University, Pocatello. She is employed by the University office of the Idaho First National Bank, Pocatello, as a secretary.

Hobbley, a Vietnam veteran, was graduated from Gooding High School in 1967. During his years at Gooding High School, he was active in basketball, track and student government. He is a 1973 graduate of Idaho State University, holding a B. S. degree in government. He ran the track team, participated in student government and was a resident assistant at Dyer Hall.

The couple plans an August 18 wedding at the Christian Church, Gooding. They will reside in Pocatello, where the bridegroom will complete requirements for a degree in accounting from ISU.

Former resident listed

TWIN FALLS — Word has been received here that Mrs. Philip W. Leslie, the former Gertrude Becher of Twin Falls, had been listed in "Who's Who of American Women," eighth edition.

The publication is for the 1974-75 period. Mrs. Leslie is the daughter of Mrs. Albert J. Becher and the late Albert Becher, a long time city employe.

Both Mrs. Leslie and her husband were reared in Twin Falls and graduated from the Twin Falls High School. Her husband is a retired attorney for the Veterans Administration and they reside in Alexandria, Va., near Washington, D. C.

A sister, Mrs. Don Heller, also resides in Twin Falls. The information contained in Who's Who publication lists many charitable and civic services performed by Mrs. Leslie in California and Alexandria. She is a graduate of the University of Idaho, active in the Democratic party, Red Cross and has worked as a Grey Lady.

She is especially recognized for her work in conservation, having headed a move to save part of San Francisco Bay from fill and development. She also served in the American Civil Liberties Union of California.

Couple weds in TF-rites

TWIN FALLS — Janet Wilson and William Mohr were married in rites May 30 in the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Mohr, Twin Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lombard, Chehalis, Wash. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Eugene Turk under an arch of white, pink, blue and pink ribbons.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and carried a bouquet of white gardenias and sweetheart roses. Her only jewelry was a diamond pendant belonging to the bridegroom's mother.

Pat Corle, Twin Falls, was matron of honor. Best man was Mort Reagan, Twin Falls.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony.

Two white doves topped the three-tier heart-shaped wedding cake. It was accented with pink and lavender frosting decorations. Mrs. Mary Newberry, Twin Falls, made the cake.

The couple resides in Twin Falls.

MR. AND MRS. OTTO McGHEE

TF couple observes 50th anniversary

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Otto McGehee will observe their 50th Wedding Anniversary June 22 at the home of Mrs. Jack Cox.

They were married June 22, 1923, in Harrison, Ark. They lived there until coming to Twin Falls in 1926. They later moved to Greenfield, Calif., and remained there until returning to Idaho in 1950.

They lived in Howe until 1967 when McGehee retired and have since made their home at 330 Blue Lakes Blvd., Twin Falls.

McGehee was engaged in farming.

The open-house will be held from 8 to 10 p.m. with special musical entertainment during the evening.

All friends of the couple are invited to attend. The couple's son, Kyle McGehee, Jerome, and daughters, Mrs. Gilma Terherst, Greenfield, Calif., and Mrs. Carletta Cox, Twin Falls, 12 grandchildren will all attend.

The Cox home is located on Falls Avenue East.

'Y' drive yields aluminum cans

TWIN FALLS — One hundred and ninety-three pounds of aluminum cans have been turned in to the YMCA-YWCA, according to Matt Smith, chairman of the drive, during the first 15 days of the YMCA-YWCA's June Can Contest.

Leading the way is Tracy Irish with 41 1/2 pounds closely followed by William Ward, Nancy Donnelly, Steve Upton, Darrell and Shannon Carraway, Connie Jerome and Chris Haynes.

Smith also mentioned that the prize list had grown by two. Besides the original eight the YMCA-YWCA now has ten monthly prizes.

Smith reminded all youth 6 to 16 years of age to turn in their cans at the YMCA-YWCA office, 1761-Elizabeth Blvd., by no later than 5 p.m. June 30th if they want to have their cans counted in the June contest. He also said that any cans brought in after 5 p.m. will automatically go in to the July contest which begins on the first.

Smith urged everyone whether in the "youth contest" or not to save and collect aluminum cans and turn them in on or before July 7th. The cans on hand on that day will be sold and the funds received used to continue the construction of the YMCA-YWCA swimming pool and locker room facilities.

The goal is to gather 60,000 pounds of aluminum cans which is enough to fill the partially completed pool and help the project toward its completion by $6,000.

Friends and relatives are invited to attend the open house. The couple requests no gifts.

Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a 10-year-old girl with an ugly past. I have "made love" with so many lovers that I now wonder if it will ever be an expression of real love when I would like it to be.

There is someone who probably will be asking me to share love with him, I'm sure. I desperately want to avoid going into another affair in which I will be another sexy pastime for someone to trip with. All of my past affairs have ended in my having contempt for the fellows. I don't want to make that mistake again.

I am now going with someone who seems to care for me as a person. He hasn't pressured me for sex. He knows that I have had lovers and that if he pushed the matter he probably could include himself on the list. Yet, so far, he hasn't.

Ugly past

What do I say if our relationship develops into a really serious love? He will think I'm playing games if I say "no" to him when he knows I've said "yes" to others.

I have learned that if a sexual involvement is held off, if the relationship survives it must be for other reasons, which will give me self-respect and a feeling of worth as a person.

What do you think, Abby?

DEAR HOLDING: You have the right idea. You can say "no" with integrity today even tho you have said "yes" yesterday because you have learned from your mistakes. You are confusing "making love" and "having sex." You have had sex, but you haven't really made love yet.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorced woman and I call myself a divorcee. It's nothing to be ashamed of. Practically every other woman you meet nowadays is a divorcee.

I have this friend who was married for nine years. She and her husband fought all the time, and they finally got a divorce. About three months after the divorce was final, her ex-husband dropped dead of a heart attack. This friend now goes around passing herself off as a widow. She thinks it will get her sympathy, and maybe improve her chances of getting another husband.

Personally, I don't think it will help her much. I'd like your opinion.

DEAR DIVORCED: Statistics show that more divorcees than widows remarry. But if your friend thinks she'll get more sympathy as a widow than a divorcee, she's right. It spades!

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you reported a couple having separated after 40 years of marriage, and you remarked, "Now I've heard everything." No, you haven't.

My husband and I were married in 1920, and in January of 1971 he moved his belongings into a condominium which he bought without my knowledge, and I haven't heard from him since. In all our married life he never conversed with me about anything.

We have two married children and three lovely grandchildren. I keep myself busy, and must confess, I don't miss him.

HAPPY IN DETROIT

MR. AND MRS. OTTO McGEHEE

TF couple observes 50th anniversary

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Otto McGehee will observe their 50th Wedding Anniversary June 22 at the home of Mrs. Jack Cox.

They were married June 22, 1923 in Harrison, Ark. They lived there until coming to Twin Falls in 1926. They later moved to Greenfield, Calif., and remained there until returning to Idaho in 1950.

They lived in Howe until 1967 when McGehee retired and have since made their home at 330 Blue Lakes Blvd., Twin Falls.

Falls, McGehee was engaged in farming.

The open house will be held from 8 to 10 p.m. with special musical entertainment during the evening.

All friends of the couple are invited to attend. The couple's son, Kyle McGehee, Jerome, and daughters, Mrs. Gilma Terherst, Greenfield, Calif., and Mrs. Carletta Cox, Twin Falls, 12 grandchildren will all attend.

The Cox home is located on Falls Avenue East.

'Y' drive yields aluminum cans

TWIN FALLS — One hundred and ninety three pounds of aluminum cans have been turned in to the YMCA-YWCA, according to Matt Smith, chairman of the drive, during the first 15 days of the YMCA-YWCA's June Can Contest.

Leading the way is Tracy Irish with 41 1/2 pounds closely followed by William Ward, Nancy Donnelly, Steve Upton, Darrell and Shannon Curraway, Connie Jerome and Chris Haynes.

Smith also mentioned that the prize list had grown by two. Besides the original eight the YMCA-YWCA now has ten monthly prizes.

Smith reminded all youth 6 to 16 years of age to turn in their cans at the YMCA-YWCA office, 3761-Elizabeth Blvd., by no later than 5 p.m. June 30th if they want to have their cans counted in the June contest. He also said that any cans brought in after 5 p.m. will automatically go in to the July contest which begins on the first.

Smith urged everyone whether in the "youth contest" or not to save and collect aluminum cans and turn them in on or before July 7th. The cans on hand on that day will be sold and the funds received used to continue the construction of the YMCA-YWCA swimming pool and locker room facilities.

The goal is to gather 60,000 pounds of aluminum cans which is enough to fill the partially completed pool and help the project toward its completion by $6,000.

BEAN CASSEROLE
Soak overnight, two cups lima beans, one cup red-kidney beans and 1 cup dried barley.
Next morning, add two bouillon cubes, one large sliced onion, one teaspoon salt and cook all until beans are tender. Drain off any liquid left and to the beans add one cup molasses, two tablespoons vinegar and two cups diced cheese.
Mix well and put four-quart casserole and bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

Frankfurters can be placed on top of casserole before baking.

than for shoplifting, she said. "When I arrest juveniles," she said, "I've found that it is best to let the police deal with them. Sometimes parents will come into the store and say that the kid didn't do it when he really did. That way the youth thinks he can get away with something."

I sometimes even change my appearance to do this," she said. "I watch people's mouth" she said. "Even the professionals' mouths get dry from excitement. Jarbridge barbecue scheduled June 30

JARBIDGE — July 4 will be celebrated here June 30. The annual barbecue and celebration is planned for the weekend prior to Independence Day because the holiday falls in the middle of the following week.

Smith said the Red Dog Saloon has reopened this summer for the first time since 1951, and a restaurant has been opened as well, which should alleviate any eating problems for persons attending.

Nudes 'out'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Board of Supervisors committee Thursday approved an ordinance banning all nude activity in bars and nightclubs.

Rites unite TF pair

TWIN FALLS — April Michelle Curtis and Gary Benjamin Dick were married in a double ring ceremony May 29 in the Immanuel Lutheran Church.

Rev. Eugene Tjarks performed the candlelight ceremony before an altar decorated with large gold candleholders holding blue and white tapers.

A single glass candelabra decorated with blue and white carnations and baby's breath held three long tapers, two of which were lit.

The couple lit the center taper after the ceremony to signify their unity.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. Curtis, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dick, Twin Falls.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length white gown with a bouffant seersucker skirt. The bodice and Juliet sleeves were made of embroidered eyelet in a wedding ring pattern. The waist and sleeves were banded with white cluny lace over blue.

Her fingertip tulle veil was caught at the back of a Juliet cap. The gown, cap and veil were made by Gervaise Kennedy, Twin Falls. She carried a nosegay of blue daisies, white rosebuds, stephanotis and baby's breath accented by blue ribbon streamers.

She wore a pearl drop necklaco, a gift from the bridegroom and carried a lace handkerchief made from her great-grandmother's wedding dress.

Julie Curtis, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Gail Carter, sister of the bridegroom, and Carol Fallon were bridesmaids.

Jim Pietz was best man. Groomsman were Lex Heyer and Jeff Jensen. Javier Gonzales, Brad Laird and Mike Johnson were candlelighters and ushers. Doug Garland served as ringbearer.

Nancy Powell was in charge of the guest book. Brian Smith was organist, playing traditional wedding music and music chosen by the couple.

Karen Nussbaum presented a vocal solo and the bride's father played a clarinet solo. The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony at the church.

The five-tier heart-shaped wedding cake was decorated with miniature blue roses and white swans. The miniature bridal couple on top of the cake was used 22 years ago when the bridegroom's parents were married.

Blue tapers in glass candelabra and two heart-shaped cakes bearing the couple's first names flanked the cake. Guest tables were decorated with brandy snifters tied with blue bows and holding white carnations.

Karen Swanson and Carol Skinner cared for gifts. The women of the church assisted with the reception, serving cake, punch and coffee.

Special out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Curtis Sr., Pasadena, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Arnie McClain, Lompoc, Calif., grandparents of the bride; Esther Curtis, Pasadena, Calif., great-aunt of the bride; Amy Curtis, Pasadena, Calif., aunt of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bush, Seattle, Wash., uncle and aunt of the bride; Mrs. Douglas Caruthers, Anaheim, Calif., aunt of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Dais, San Francisco, Calif., uncle and aunt of the bridegroom.

The bride was honored at pre-nuptial showers given by Carol Skinner, Karen Swanson, and Katherine Woodward.

South ducked the first heart lead and West held the trick with his jack. He continued with the 10. Dummy played low again. This time East overtook with the queen and tried to cash his ace.

South ruffed and played out his ace and king of trumps. When West showed out, South just led a third trump and showed his hand since nothing could keep him from getting rid of his queen and jack of clubs on dummy's diamonds.

West was bitter. He said to East, "You did well to take the second heart. Why didn't you think of shifting to a club?"

East said, "Why didn't you continue with the heart of hearts? It looked to me as if you had started with jack-10 doubleton or jack-10-small. In either of those cases I would have been right to continue."

We will never know what would have happened if West had continued with the deuce of hearts. East assures us he would have read what was going on and made the correct play. We want to keep this East for a friend so we take his word. You don't know him and don't have to.

There is one thing we do know. We can't blame East for making the play he did make after West continued with the 10. If West had done what East suggests and East had gone wrong, West could have had the satisfaction of knowing that he had tried to draw a diagram for his partner.

Current Cues

By HELEN WALKER
TWIN FALLS — Since a freezer owner has a great deal of money in "frozen assets" it is important to know what to do if the freezer fails and foods begin to thaw.

Before panic sets in, check the plug and fuse. Then call a repairman. Keep the freezer door closed. If the freezer is fully stocked the contents will remain frozen for at least two days; if half-full, at least one full day.

If you expect your freezer to be off a long time buy dry ice at the rate of 25 pounds for each 10 cubic feet of freezer space and place it (with gloved hands) on top of the foods. This will be effective for about three days. Other alternatives would be to rent space in a commercial locker or beg space from friends.

"But what do I do if foods are thawed?" is a frequent question. Also "Is it safe to refreeze foods once they have thawed?"

All is not lost even if the food does thaw. All uncooked foods, may be cooked and frozen again. Baked goods may be refrozen after thawing but they may be somewhat dried out. Although fruits show the effects of thawing more quickly than other foods, there is little or no danger from food spoilage organisms. The flavor may be ruined but they will not become poisonous.

Meats, poultry and fish and non-acid vegetables are subject to spoilage, therefore it is necessary to examine the packages carefully. If the packages still contain some ice crystals they may be safely refrozen. Even partial thawing reduces the quality.

If the products have completely thawed and the temperature of meats, poultry and fish is under 50 degrees, in all probability the food is still in good condition. Bacterial action is relatively rapid in vegetables and shellfish at temperatures of 50 degrees or over. It is unwise to refreeze food which has reached this temperature. Many of the thawed foods may be cooked and eaten without risk, if cooked thoroughly.

If in doubt about any thawed food, it is better not to take chances with them. Discard them or use them for feeding domestic animals. Mail questions to Helen Walker, home, service representative, Idaho Power Co., P.O. Box 8, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

Counseling service unit starts in TF

TWIN FALLS — A new chapter of the Young Mother's Counseling Service has been started in Twin Falls.

These chapters are the project of the American Mother's Committee which sponsors the Mother of the Year awards.

Mrs. Helen Henderson, former Idaho Mother of the Year, started a group in Filer several years ago, followed by a similar group in the Clover area. The groups are inter-faith and inter-racial, and their purposes are to strengthen the moral and spiritual foundations of the home. Officers are Mrs. Diane Askew, president; Mrs. Mary Brose, vice president and reporter, and Mrs. Priscilla Sisson, secretary-treasurer. The group meets twice a month at the Immanuel Lutheran Church to discuss child-raising and how best to give children happy, solid childhoods on which to base their adult lives. New members are welcome to the club and interested persons should contact one of the officers.

TF firm low bidder

HAZELTON — Nielsen Construction Co., Twin Falls, is the apparent low bidder for a housing complex designed to aid farm workers in Hazelton.

A total of five bids were submitted. Nielsen's bid was in the amount of $677,749. Other bidders were Rina Construction Co., Boise, with a bid of $704,514; Trico Construction Co., Seattle, Wash., $717,000; Gary Jones Construction, Burley, $717,500, and Wills Construction Co., Twin Falls, $747,400.

Tony Humbach, Jerome County supervisor for the Farm Home Administration, said Saturday all of the bids received were well above the first cost projection for the project and the amount of money which has been granted by the FHA for construction of the farm housing complex.

Humbach said Vern Yates, Boise, FHA Housing Specialist, who was present for the bid opening Friday, said the Boise office of the FHA will contact the headquarters office in Washington and again request additional funds for the project.

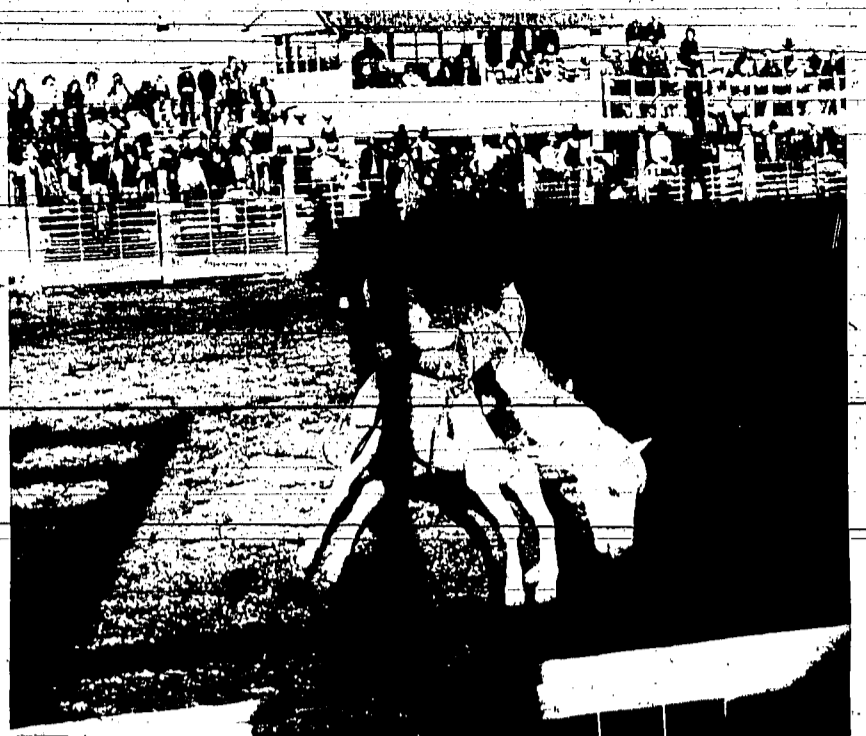

William Stevenson, FHA official, said earlier he has on several occasions tried to obtain additional funds for the project from Washington and has been told each time the project would have to be constructed with the money appropriated over a year ago and which has been held pending the letting of a contract.

Plans for the project were drawn up over a year ago but because of a conflict over sewage facilities the building program was postponed until March when a bond issue was passed to construct a new Hazelton sewer system.

Humbach said if additional funds are not available they will have to negotiate with the contractor and possibly reduce the number of units in the project.

Originally the design called for 25 duplexes on a park type city. Humbach said the rent charged for the units may also have to be increased over earlier plans.

"I don't think raising the rent will create too much difficulty considering the fact the farm income has risen as well as rent for other housing over the past two years," Humbach said.

ISU chief raps U of I

McCALL, Idaho (UPI) — The two-day meeting of the State Board of Education ended Friday with the head of Idaho State University criticizing the University of Idaho for provoking a federal audit of workstudy programs.

Dr. William Davis, president of ISU, told the board his institution got the biggest share of federal work-study funds of any institution of higher education in Idaho.

He said after newspapers published figures about the federal grants, the University of Idaho asked Uncle Sam to audit the program at ISU. He said the university at Moscow did not discuss the matter at hand with its sister institution in Pocatello.

ISU received $351,000 in federal funds for such programs. Boise State College received the next most, followed by the College of Southern Idaho.

He said the University of Idaho received the smallest amount. Financial Vice President William Bartz said the money is dispersed geographically on needs and apparently "there are more poor kids in southeastern Idaho" than in Moscow.

"I suppose this is a case we got the biggest slice of bread," Bartz said.

In other action, the board:

— Authorized Idaho State University to increase student fees by one dollar per semester and put the money into the women's athletic program.

— Formally approved settlement of former football coach V.C. McNeese's $1 million suit out of court for $24,791. He was fired by the university in 1971.

— Told the University of Idaho it may use $50,000 of the money set aside for multi-purpose stadium to design plans for a roof to cover the structure.

— Agreed to review health service facilities at each institution of higher education as requested by the Council of Associated Student Body Presidents.

— Decided that all further questions on faculty tenure at institutions of higher education be discussed by the full board from their inception rather than feeding them first through the board planning committee.

— Discussed a number of proposals for restructuring administration of education at all levels under the constitutionally ordered reorganization of state government.

Rocky mountain chiefs to meet

SANTA FE (UPI) — New Mexico Gov. Bruce King and chief executives of five other Rocky Mountain states will be in Washington Monday and Tuesday to meet with federal officials concerning the energy crisis, land use planning and education.

King's office said the meeting was an annual conference between members of the Federation of Rocky Mountain States and federal government leaders.

King is chairman of the federation. Other member states are Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana.

The governors will meet with Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton Tuesday to discuss energy policy and development, strip mining, a national land use policy, predator control and satellite technology programs.

Later Tuesday, the governors are scheduled to meet with Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar concerning federal aid to airports, the highway trust fund, the gasoline and fuel shortage and common carrier freight rates.

The governors will meet with Alfred Eggers and Dr. Elsha C. Freedman, officials of the National Science Foundation, at a noon luncheon. They are expected to discuss a communications system for the Navajo Tribe and a proposed $140,000 NSF grant for New Mexico's Energy Study Task Force.

Career education and new technologies in education are to be discussed in a Tuesday afternoon meeting with Assistant Secretary for Education Sidney P. Marland Jr. and U.S. Commissioner of Education designate Dr. John R. Ottina.

Later in the day the governors are scheduled to meet with Russell Train, chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality, about more energy matters and strip mining problems.

The federation will conduct an executive session Monday to "brief the board of directors on the meetings to be held," King's office said.

Buhl Sagebrush Days slated

BUHL — Applications for Buhl Sagebrush Days queen are now available, according to Bill Assendrup, chairman.

Queen contestants must be residents of Idaho, 18 years of age or older and unmarried. Contestants will be judged on poise, personality and horsemanship. The winner of the Buhl contest will be eligible to compete in the Miss Rodeo Idaho contest.

Applications may be obtained from Assendrup at the Clear Lakes Agency, P. O. Box 427, Buhl, or by phoning 543-6464 days or 543-6332 evenings.

Applications for junior princess also are available. The junior princess must be a resident of Twin Falls County, 14 to 17 years of age and unmarried, Assendrup said.

Lincoln meet set

SHOSHONE — Residents of Lincoln County are invited to attend a public meeting June 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the county courthouse to discuss growth problems and patterns.

The meeting will feature several Blaine County representatives who will discuss problems in that county and some methods used in eliminating and solving them.

Lincoln County officials say they believe many of the growth and development difficulties of the neighboring county may be "headed off" in Lincoln County with proper advance planning and by building on the experiences of Blaine County.

The meeting is sponsored by the Lincoln County Planning Commission.

Williams service held

LEWISTON (UPI) — Five-hundred persons, including Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, attended a memorial service Saturday in honor of former state legislator Edward V. Williams, who was lost in the Snake River April 23 following a boating accident.

Authorities are maintaining their search for Williams' body in the swift waters of the river about 50 miles south of Lewiston. He was 44.

Also attending the service were Andrus' secretary Jean Taylor, and government officials Martin Peterson, 30, and Darrell Manning, 40, who were in the party when the accident occurred. Six reached safety and one other, Jack Bowman, 44, disappeared along with Williams. His body, however, was found May 12.

State youth rodeo ends

BURLEY — The Idaho High School Rodeo concluded last night with presentation of trophies and crowning of the queen. State winners will compete in the National High School Rodeo in Ogden, Utah, later this summer.

Final results were not available at press time, but scores from Friday night's competition were barrel racing first, Marta Gates, Twin Falls, 17.6 seconds; second, Brenda Johnson, Richfield, 18.6; third, Ann McCarty, Pocatello, 18.7; fourth, Jani Stillwell, Boise, 18.8.

Calf roping — first, Val Christensen, Rupert, 12.0 seconds; second, Kim Kawamura, Hailey, 13.2; third, Van Price, Darlington, Idaho, 15.5; fourth, Gregg Garrett, Wilder, 21.9.

Pole bending — first, Debbie Slagel, Jerome, 22.6 seconds, second, Marty Stockelmaier, Huggins, 23.2; third, Mary Savage, Challis, 23.4, and fourth, Marla Piva, Challis, 27.1.

Steer wrestling — first, Dan Roeser, Caldwell, 13.8; second,

Andy Bowden, Arco, 15.1; third, Arlen Brower, American Falls, 40.8.

Breakaway roping — first, Tink Jones, Kimberly, 8.2; second, Lori Harrison, Malad, 15.9; third, Brenda Johnson, Richfield, 50.2.

Goat typing — first, Lisa Sayers, Gooding, 15.2; second, Jill Brower, St. Anthony, 17.6; third, Glenda Griffith, Preston, 18.7; fourth, Rhonda Simons, Pocatello, 20.7.

Saddle bronc riding — first, Randy Dains, Gooding, 66; second, Dan Goulding, St. Anthony, 61; third, Ron Golcochea, 53.

Bareback riding — first, Russ Miller, St. Anthony, 50 points; second, Bill James, Gooding, 45; third, Steve Jones, Malad, 37.

Bull riding — first, Kim Kawamura, Hailey, 59; second and third split between Deb Bailey, Declo, and Halley Morton, St. Anthony, both with 52, and fourth was split between Dirk Godby, Gooding and Rick Baumgardner, Jerome, both with 51.

Perseverance

BOISE (UPI) — Persons seeking to recall Rep. Patricia Mc Dermott, D-Pocatello, were back in Boise with another petition Friday.

Several weeks ago another petition containing 2,500 signatures for the recall election was disqualified by the state attorney general for lack of information.

Elections officer Jerry Hill said the latest petition had substantial variations in form from the original petition submitted March 6.

Looking through the petition submitted by Stanley Crow, attorney for the petitioners, Hill said, "It appears that all the statutory information is set forth in the form."

Hill said the petition will be submitted to the attorney general for his opinion on its form.

If the form is approved, the secretary of state will notify the petitioners, specifying the form, and advise them that they have 90 days from the date of approval to obtain the needed 2,336 signatures to force a recall election.

Committee axes farm-work law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Agriculture Committee voted Friday to kill a controversial Labor Department regulation intended to protect farm workers from exposure to dangerous pesticides.

By a 20-5 vote, the committee approved legislation that would declare the rule "null and void" and transfer authority for setting any substitute regulations to the agriculture secretary.

The Labor Department had announced plans to delay enforcement of the new pesticide exposure standards — which were to have taken effect June 18 — and said it probably would modify the original regulation.

The regulation was announced May 1 under an emergency procedure which allows occupational safety standards to be put into effect without public hearings.

Demo commissioner, GOP aide discuss mileage

TWIN FALLS — A Democratic County Commissioner and the County Republican party chairman Saturday issued separate statements concerning county commissioner mileage payments.

William D. Wiseman, only Democratic member of the three-man committee, was reported in a Times-News story of the past week as having discontinued claiming mileage from his home to work.

Wiseman said Saturday he moved from Hansen to Twin Falls April 27, and stopped filing mileage from home to the county seat at that time.

Doug Kramer, chairman of the Twin Falls County Republican Committee, criticized the Times-News for its stories which, he said, "infer to the people something 'funny' is going on in the commissioners' office."

"The board of county commissioners asked for an opinion from the attorney general on the mileage regulations. It clearly states that a commissioner living outside the city limits of the county seat is entitled to mileage reimbursement to and from work," Wiseman said.

"Any commissioner living within the limits of the county seat is not entitled to mileage to and from work but all are entitled to mileage while conducting county business," Wiseman continued.

He said the mileage controversy has been misunderstood and misconstrued to the public by news media and it must be cleared up "one and for all."

"Both Bill Chancey (county commission chairman from district 2 and myself, district 3, live in Twin Falls. My address is now 841 Mountain View Drive. Neither of us claims mileage to and from work. Mr. Chancey's car is designated as the car the commissioners use in traveling around the county on business when just one car is used," he said.

The other commissioner representing district 1, is Morf Leonard, who lives outside of the city limits, west of Filer.

"He lives outside of the county seat," Wiseman said, "and is therefore entitled to 100 per cent reimbursement for all mileage. I was entitled to the same benefit and did file a claim for the same up until April 27 when I changed my residence to Twin Falls, but still within the boundaries of District 3."

All claims are signed by oath and witnessed in good faith by honest dedicated citizens and county officials, Wiseman said.

The Times-News story stated Wiseman "quietly stopped" filing mileage from travel from Hansen to the county seat.

"I guess you could say I quietly stopped filing mileage expenses because I quietly moved to Twin Falls," Wiseman said.

Kramer expressed displeasure at stories in the Times-News concerning the expense allowances by county commissioners. "The Times-News stories would have people believe the Democratic member of the commission lives 10 miles from Twin Falls and charges no expense while the Republican members do charge for travel even though the chairman lives in the city limits of Twin Falls. This inference is not correct," Kramer said.

"Bill Wiseman, the Democrat, the Chairman Bill Chancey, a Republican, both live in the city limits of Twin Falls and neither charges expenses to and from work."

"Mr. Chancey, the chairman, uses his automobile to transport all commissioners to meetings and on business trips such as to the hospital, airport, county dump grounds, on weed control trips and other business. For these, Chairman Chancey does charge mileage," Kramer continued.

He said he can not understand why the Times-News continues to infer something is wrong in the commissioner's office.

"All the Commissioners are seriously dedicated men doing their very best for the county of Twin Falls and as far as I can tell this specifically includes Bill Wiseman. These are honest men who integrate us. In my opinion, above reproach and I for one would like to see the Times-News reporters recognize this fact," the Republican chairman said.

Singers work to obtain bus

FILER — The Good News Singers of the First Baptist Church, Filer, have been working for over a year to get a bus to transport the choir to singing engagements. The group is collecting Betty Crocker coupons and to date have over 200,000 coupons sent in to the company for redemption. They still need about 50,000 more to complete the project before the deadline at the end of September. Anyone wishing to donate coupons to the group may contact any of its members or Rev. Roy Watson, pastor.

Caballeros meet

FILER — Los Caballeros 4-H Club members viewed animal demonstrations at the meeting at the home of David Seaman. Carla Hollibaugh led in the flag salute to the American flag and Tawny Blades led in the 4-H Club pledge. Using his own colt, Daniel Seaman demonstrated taking an animal's temperature.

Pam Mason showed how to correctly approach a horse, also how to safely walk behind a horse and how to pick up its feet. Several demonstrations showed how to put on a halter and how to show at halter. It was announced the recent baked foods was a success. Refreshments were served by Renae Helms.

Achievement day eyed

FILER — Achievement Day was discussed at the meeting of the Heartburn and Heartaches 4-H Club at the Elmer Aufferdeide home. Beth Rupprecht presented a demonstration on how to frame a picture. Christy Kaster discussed the mixing of colors and Cindy Jagels talked about tetanus. The June 21 meeting will be at 2 p.m. at the Walter Mueller home.

Mind Your Money

Q — My neighbor's central air-conditioning unit is almost under my bedroom window and the noise is driving me crazy. What can be done about this suburban menace? — M. R. Shawnee Mission, Kan.

A — Check with your local government to see if there are any regulations covering noise levels for outdoor equipment such as air-conditioning units. Some communities are beginning to limit the amount of noise air conditioners can make.

If there are no regulations, then you have to try diplomacy. Talk with your neighbor about the air conditioner and explain your plight. There are definite steps an air-conditioner owner can take to cut the noise.

If it's an older unit, it can be traded in for one which will make a lot less noise. The new unit can, and should, have a vertical discharge instead of the traditional horizontal outlet. It makes for less noise. The owner can check to see if the present machine can run on a lower speed fan. The entire fan system can be changed which is costly but not as costly as buying a whole new air conditioner.

An enclosure which still allows a free flow of air might be constructed to help block the sound.

For more information on how air-conditioning equipment can be installed to make less noise, you can get a free booklet, "Predicting and Controlling Sound Levels of Outdoor Air Conditioners," by sending a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to: Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute, 1815 N. Fort Myer Drive, Arlington, Va. 22209.

Q — Where can I find out about caring for my own wig? Professional shampooing and setting is quite costly. — Ms. M. O., Los Angeles, Calif.

A — If you have a human hair wig, treat it like your own hair, using a mild shampoo, hair dryer and electric curlers if need be.

Synthetic fiber wigs should not be exposed to heat. Wash with cool water by swishing the wig around inside out. Dry it wrong side out as well. Don't ever use a hair dryer or heated curlers on a synthetic wig. It can cause an unsightly frizzle.

Also, don't wear the wig while you're cooking with exposed heat and don't wear it under intense sun at the beach.

Q — I'm 66 and have been in retirement for the past year. Do I still have to pay taxes? — D. E., Leechburg, Pa.

A — You don't have to pay taxes on Social Security benefit income but you do have to pay taxes on other earned income (job wages, savings interest, securities).

If you're drawing a pension plan provided by your employer, you don't have to pay tax on the amount of money you invested in the plan. You do have to pay tax on the money your employer put into the pension.

You can work part time and make up to $175 a month without losing your Social Security benefits, but you have to pay tax on that income and, ironically, you also have to pay the Social Security tax on the wages even though you're drawing Social Security checks.

Q — I would like to make two points in response to your column on the United Farm Workers Union and the lettuce growers.

1 — The UFW alerted the public to the dangers of Monitor 4 pesticide which was subsequently banned.

2 — If it were not for the UFW, there would be no Teamsters unionization of farm workers. The Teamsters completely ignored farm workers until Cesar Chavez and the UFW came on the scene.

Bike club slates meet

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley YMCA Bike Club will hold its first official meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the YMCA-YWCA building at 1751 Elizabeth Street.

The club is designed for single adults and families who are interested in cycling for exercise and sport. A junior club for children 6-14 may be formed at a later date if interest merits, club spokesmen said.

Those interested should call 733-4381 to get on a mailing list. They are also invited to attend the meeting and help plan the club's first outing.

And now the Teamsters are trying to push the UFW out of the scene. — J. G. C. Palo Alto, Calif.

Only elderly gather it

Gathering of bitterroot now diminishing practice

SALMON — Bitterroot gathering is a diminishing practice but a few of the older Indians of East Idaho continue to engage in the age-old harvest.

During the spring, the small, high altitude flower dots the rocky slopes of the Salmon River area with its pale pink blossoms.

The bloom is of little interest to the Indians, however. They are concerned with the stout, slender root which they lift from the ground with an iron rod or hardwood stick.

Only for a week generally is the bitterroot any good; after they bloom the roots start to set up making them too hard to peel. So, just after they come through the ground and before they bloom, the Indians go in search of them.

Jed Wilson, Lemhi County deputy sheriff, said that only a few of the older Indians here and at the Ft. Hall Indian Reservation still search for the bitterroot. The bitterroot was once a source of food for the Indians who peel them. They are eaten immediately or stored for later use.

The scientific name for the bitterroot is "Lewisia rediviva," in honor of Meriwether Lewis of the Lewis and Clark expedition which passed through this area in 1805, and whose specimens of the plant gave science the first glimpse of the species.

Union outlook 'harsh'

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)— When the Teamsters Union quietly took over contracts for California farm workers from Cesar Chavez' union this spring, it marked another chapter in the long struggle by Mexican-American workers to establish their own union.

The outlook for Chavez' United Farm Workers union is now "pretty harsh," according to Ernesto Galarza, a 68-year-old Mexican-American veteran of the lengthy struggle for a union of field hands.

In addition to organizing work on the farms, Galarza is a scholar on the labor movement, and has written several books on the history of farm workers organizations.

Galarza was picking hops in the Sacramento Valley at the age of 10, after arriving from Mexico with his family, when he first became an "organizer." Because he had gone to school and could speak a little English, the Mexican workers asked him to make a protest over polluted drinking water that had taken the life of one baby in the camp and was making many sick.

Later he was the only Mexican-American student at Stanford University, received a Ph.D. at Columbia and served as labor director for the Pan American Union.

He returned to California in 1947 and led the United Farm Workers Union, AFL, a predecessor to Chavez' union, in a series of bitter strikes against the DiGiorgio Farms and other growers.

Having lost those battles, Galarza retired to his writing and scholarship when Cesar Chavez came on the scene in the 1960s. But he remains close to the farm worker cause, frequently being consulted by those in the active movement.

"If the Teamsters' back-door contracts with the growers succeed in encompassing all the field workers, there is no hope for a genuine trade union," Galarza said in an interview with UPI.

"It has always been in the interests of the Teamsters Union not to have the field workers organized," he said.

"Once they are organized, they will present demands they will strike. A strike in the fields cuts off production."

The teamsters' real interest, he said, is in the "people who drive things to market." Therefore, "the union is interested in the uninterrupted flow of produce, just as the growers are," according to Galarza.

In the early attempts to organize farm workers, the Teamsters "didn't pay much attention to us," said Galarza. "Their interest and hostility grew when we began to pull heavy strikes."

Galarza related an incident which occurred in October, 1952 at the height of the tomato harvest.

"We had pickets at the gates of the Heinz plant in Tracy," he said. "The Teamster drivers were not going through. They were just parking their trucks along the highway. The strike was effective. The plant was not getting the crop."

Then, he said, the Teamsters Union "sent a man from their office in San Francisco who decided it was a serious strike."

According to Galarza's account, the Teamster representative then "went to the gates, where the drivers were backed up with their trucks and waved them through our picket line. 'You can sometimes just about tell when the 'break point' happens — when you have won or lost. That was the break point. The strike was lost."

TF herds tested

TWIN FALLS -- There were 32 herds with 2250 cows on production testing in May in the Twin Falls County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, according to Donald F. Youtz, Twin Falls County Agent.

Testing supervisors, Ike and Linda Smith, Kimberley reported that the 32 herds totaled 1992 cows milking and 258 dry cows.

Production averages for May, listing number of cows, milking, total cows, average daily milk production and average daily butterfat production as follows:

Burley commission gets phone reports

BURLEY -- Burley has become the second town in southern Idaho to receive the advantages of automatic telephone-recorded livestock reports.

The Burley Livestock Commission Co. installed the new system, which offers recorded market reports updated twice a day through the USDA Livestock Market Service in Salt Lake City.

The nearest similar device is in Pocatello.

In the business today you have to be up on the market, and know when to sell and when not to, Jim Palen, owner-operator of the Burley farm, said.

The device was installed at Palen's expense although the government provides the market reports twice a day over the phone. The reports are then recorded and hooked up to the automatic answering service at 678-2424.

Since the device has been installed, about a dozen phone calls a day have been made to the service, Palen said, and the number should increase when the community becomes aware it is available.

The message is updated before 10:00 every morning and 3:30 every afternoon. If there are any major changes in the market, Palen said, the USDA will call the commission and the news recording will be updated.

On Fridays the market report from the city's Thursday sale will be included on the tape.

FILER CITY JURISDICTION

Filer area

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission has prepared maps of "joint concern" showing proposed county zoning around Twin Falls, Buhl, Kimberly, Filer and Hansen.

The maps are to become a part of the new county zoning ordinance, which will be presented to the public in a hearing on Aug. 9.

Future use changes or rezoning requests within the "joint concern" areas will be considered by both the county and the municipality affected.

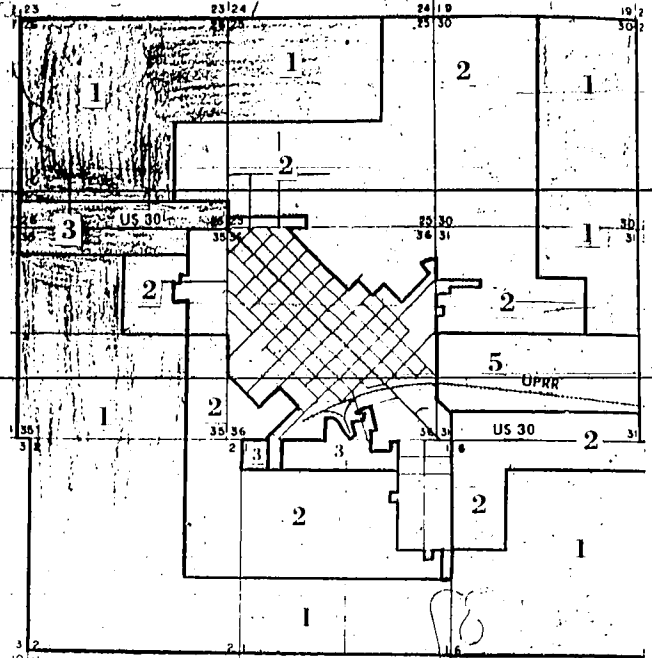

If the two governmental units cannot reach agreement on a change, a board of review will make the decision. The county and municipality must then accept the board's action.

The board of review will be comprised of one county commissioner, one member of the county planning and zoning commission, one city councilman of the municipality affected, one member of the planning board of the municipality affected or a citizen designee and one member of the highway district board of the area affected.

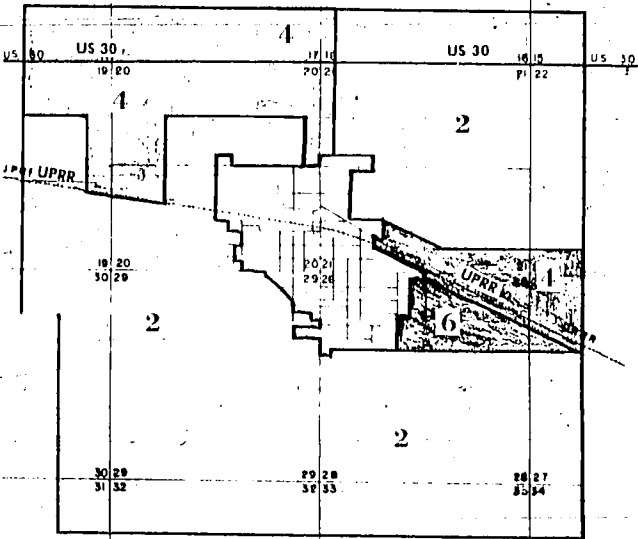

The number key of proposed zones on the maps is:

1. Residential-Agricultural Zone
2. Residential-Medium Zone
3. Commercial-General Zone
4. Commercial-Local Zone
5. Industrial Zone
6. Residential-Professional Zone
7. Airport Zone

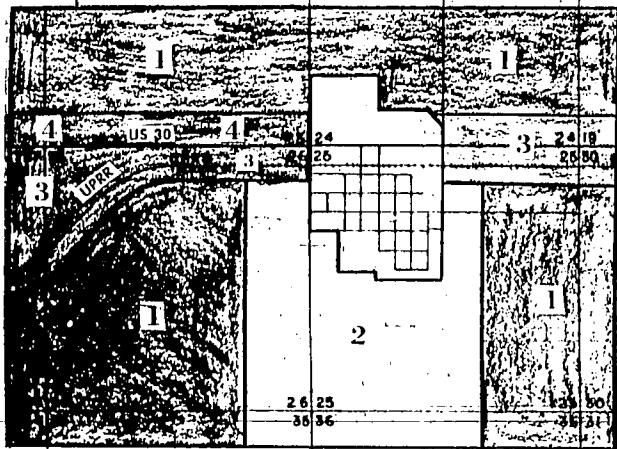

All county land outside the areas of "joint concern" will be given an agricultural designation, except Shoshone Creek, the Cedar Creek Reservoir, the Salmon Creek Reservoir and Salmon Creek and the Snake River Canyon below the rim, which will be zoned for outdoor recreation.

Ex-area officer cited

TWIN FALLS — Idaho State Police Capt. Marvin J. (Bud) Snyder, Boise, formerly of Twin Falls, has received the outstanding state employee award.

The award was presented Saturday at the Rodeway Inn, Boise, where the Idaho State Employees Association was in annual convention sessions.

Superintendent of Idaho State Police, Col. L. Clark Hand, presented the award to Snyder during the annual awards luncheon.

Capt. Snyder is currently enforcement coordinator for the ISP alcohol safety action project. He has been on the ISP force since July 14, 1949, and worked in the Burley area from 1949 to 1961 when he was promoted to sergeant in the Twin Falls district headquarters. He became a lieutenant in command of District 6, Idaho Falls, six years later and was promoted to captain of that district in 1970.

He did considerable work in drafting the enforcement countermeasures plan and developed the present ISP work schedule from February, 1972, to the present time. As Enforcement Coordinator of the alcohol safety action project he has 26 patrolmen and three sergeants under his supervision.

Snyder has worked with a number of youth organizations including serving as youth advisor for Explorer Post 303, Boy Scouts, Twin Falls, and as merit badge counselor for Teton Peaks Council. He also instructed the Junior Rifle Club, Burley Rifle and Pistol Club and holds a first aid instructors card.

Snyder is a charter member of the I.S.E.A. and served as state president from 1965-1967, and is a past president of the Magic Valley Chapter. He has been active in Peace Officer Association programs in Magic Valley and at the state level. Snyder received the Idaho Municipal League Outstanding Achievement Award in 1958.

Jerome woman gets post

SALMON — Mrs. Birdie Gill, Jerome, was installed as the Idaho state president of the American War Mothers at the group's 29th biennial convention here.

Serving with her are Mrs. Minerva Hammond, Eden, first vice president; Mrs. Laura Bowen, Malad, second vice president; Mrs. Edna Robinson, Jerome, third vice president; and Mrs. Estella D. Jones, Malad, fourth vice president.

Other new officers are Mrs. Martha Thomas, Pocatello, treasurer; Mrs. Erma Quanstrom, Rupert, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Louise Young, Soda Springs, historian; and Mrs. Lillian Armitg, Twin Falls, recording secretary.

Mrs. Katie A. Schmidt, Burley, outgoing president, will serve as chaplain.

The organization went on record favoring presentation of amendments to accept adoptive mothers on equal basis as natural mothers at the national convention.

They agreed to send letters to their senators and representatives favoring Memorial Day being observed on the traditional day of May 30.

First place trophy in the state American essay contest went to Tamara Skidmore, Stone, with second place to Patsy Okelberry, Hazelton.

The contest's theme was "Why I Am Proud To Be An American." There were 143 entries.

Mrs. Tillie Buchanan, Boise, state hospital chairman and Veteran's Administration Volunteer Service representative to the Veteran's Hospital and Veteran's Home, was honored for 25 years of volunteer service.

Mrs. Schmidt told the group that it must strive to obtain new members to help all veterans and prisoners of war.

Larry Laughridge, commandant of the Veteran's Home, and George Flamm, director of the Veteran's Hospital, both of Boise, told of the role played by the War Mothers in assisting the patients at the home and hospital.

The convention saw 66 War Mothers registered and ran Monday and Tuesday.

TF city meet set

TWIN FALLS — An ordinance governing the control of water and sewer line construction outside of the city of Twin Falls will be placed on second reading Monday night by the city council.

This is one of two pending ordinances before the city group. The council meets at 7:30 p.m. in the city hall. Also on second reading will be an ordinance on control of basement drains.

Other items on the city agenda Monday night include the proposed agreements with White, Williams and Beckstead for city services to mobile home developments they are proposing near the city but outside city limits. The mobile home sites include one south of the city water tank on Highway 74; another on Eastland Drive and the Williams project which is scheduled for expansion north of the city. Appointments to the Parks and Recreation Commission will be considered and wine licenses discussed.

Four-way tie develops in scramble for open

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — Golf's over-the-hill gang, Arnold Palmer and Julius Boros, shot three-under-par 69 Saturday to join a pair of younger lions, Jerry Heard and John Schlee, in an unprecedented four-way tie for the lead after 54 holes of the U.S. Open.

Heard shot a 66, only a stroke off the day-old Oakmont Country Club record, while Schlee had 67 and all four leaders were at three-under-par 210 — the first time four players ever shared the lead at this point in the Open and only the second time more than two were tied.

The four-way deadlock set up the probability of one of the most exciting and certainly historic finishes in the history of the 73-year-old championship Sunday, but no matter what happens the star of the piece already has been decided — the local fellow.

Palmer, 43, sometimes called washed-up, and winless in major championships since the 1964 Masters, came within inches of taking the lead all by himself when a birdie putt silted past the hole at No. 47. It seemed like nearly everyone in the western Pennsylvania gallery of 20,000 was pulling for him.

For this one day, at least, the old magic that has earned Palmer $1,740,102 in total purses since 1955, in 61 U.S. tournaments and 16 overseas, returned.

It never was more evident than in the three-hole stretch between the ninth and the 11th holes when he rammed in three successive birdie putts.

Boros, 53, who has won two Opens and in 1963 became the first man to win the U.S. Open and the British Open in the same year.

Palmer gave himself a little pep talk before he went out on the course Saturday while he was trying to get his shirt to fit him more comfortably. He fidgeted for some time, tugging and pulling on the sleeves and shoulders and neck of his red-blocked shirt during an interview and then, unable to get comfortable, finally changed to a blue shirt.

Whether it was the shirt or the pep talk "Arnold Palmer," he told himself, "go on out there, get off your dead-end and do something" — that did it, there's no question this Open took on a dramatic, new look Saturday, because Palmer's 68 matched his best score in the Open since that dreadful 1966 tournament.

second oldest man ever to capture this most prestigious of championships, was no less spectacular.

Playing with Palmer in one of the last twosomes on the course, Julius, who has put on an extra 10-15 pounds and creates the impression he's ready for a rocking chair, used that fluid stroke of his to salvage three successive pars near the end of his round.

Boros ran in a 15-footer to save par on the 15th hole after being given a free drop from a drainage ditch near a bunker where USGA officials ruled the area "ground under repair," then made a 10-foot second putt for par at No. 16. He also holed a 15-footer at the 17th hole after dumping his approach shot into a bunker.

"One thing about it, when you get older, you learn to putt," Palmer joked with the crowd around the 18th green, referring to Boros.

Gary Player, the leader after each of the first two rounds who was five under par at the start of the day, quickly faded when his putting touch deserted him, and three-time winner Jack Nicklaus simply never got started.

Player, who used only 50 putts in the first 36 holes, took 20 on the front nine holes alone Saturday when he shot a four-over-par 40, and the thing that may have cost him a shot at his second Open championship could have been the fickle Oakmont weather.

It was raining when Player teed off — but sunny when he finished — and at the sixth tee he apparently got distracted by people in the gallery moving with their raincoats. Player hit his drive there into a bunker, made a bogey, and then made two more bogeys before the front nine was finished, just about killing his round.

Tom Weiskopf, whose earnings of $117,345 in the past four tournaments — three of which he won — is an all-time one month record for the PGA tour, moved into fifth place on a second successive two-under-par 69 for a 211 total, a shot behind the leaders.

"I have a great desire right now to win this tournament," said Weiskopf who, like Heard and Schlee never has won a major championship. "They're gonna have to play awful good to beat me."

Two-time Open winner Lee Trevino and New Zealand's Bob Charles, the only left-hander ever to win a major title, the 1963 British Open were tied another stroke behind Weiskopf at 212 following rounds of 70 and 72, respectively.

Pennsylvanians rally round Palmer

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — The 73rd U.S. Open turned from just another tournament to a page of history Saturday, and it seems like fitting that the most historic golfer of the era was right smack in the middle of it all.

Arnold Palmer, playing on his home turf before his wildly cheering fans, put on a charge reminiscent of his chain-smoking, pants-hitching, tournament-winning days of a decade ago and charged into an unprecedented four-way tie for the 54-hole lead.

Palmer and Julius Boros, another member of golf's over-the-hill gang, were deadlocked at three-under-par 210 with younger lions John Schlee and Jerry Heard. Palmer and Boros had 68s Saturday while Schlee shot 67 and Heard fashioned a five-under-par 66, just a stroke off the day-old course record.

Four other players were within two strokes of the lead and Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player lurked just two shots further behind, and all kinds of interesting prospects were set up for what could be the most exciting Open windup ever on Sunday.

Palmer, who has been frustrated before in his bid for another major title — remember him blowing that even-stroke lead with only nine holes to go in the '66 Open — refused to get too excited about it yet.

Injunction sought to kill Padre move

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — A hearing on a request for a permanent injunction to keep the San Diego Padres from moving to Washington, D.C., will be held here June 29.

The San Diego city attorney obtained a court order signed by Superior Court Judge Charles W. Forehlich Jr. Friday to prevent the National League club's owners from taking any action to move the franchise.

The city has protested the announced sale of the Padres to a Washington, D.C., group headed by food chain millionaire Joseph Danzansky for $12 million.

The city's position was that the team had 15 years to go on a 20-year contract for use of San Diego Stadium. Under the permanent injunction against moving the team would be effective until 1988.

Twin Falls' many professional Clyde Thomsen completed his annual recreation youth golf clinic Friday with a series of competitions.

Winners by age group were: 10 and under boys (five holes) — Mike Zebarth, 34; Clay Mecham, 35; Doug Price, 38.

10 and under girls (four holes) — Katie Donnelly, 55; Devi Fournier, 55; Allison Emery, 57.

Angela Hansbury, 64; Pat Permarn, 71; Sherrie Mecham, 96.

14-over boys — Pat Donnelly, 87, in playoff over Jeff Ballenger; Jay Yeggy, 88; 14 and over girls — Kelly Hyrne, 48; (tie) Barbara Hinckins, in playoff over Cindy Garrett, both at 76.

150 to run in Jackpot cycle test

JACKPOT — Approximately 150 entries from five states will compete in the third annual Jackpot cross-country motorcycle race Sunday afternoon.

The race will start at 1 p.m. in the sagebrush hill and gully country immediately west of town. It will cover 60 miles on a 15-mile track, meaning the vent will start and end in the same place.

Spectators are urged to check at the desk of the Horse-Club for directions the vantage points since viewing will only be allowed from several prominent points. No one will be allowed to wander around the course.

Safety factors will be a helicopter hovering over the course, four four-wheel drive vehicles and an ambulance. In addition, 53 checkers will be spotted around the course, all with access to two-way radio communication.

The race will be run "rain or shine," sponsors said Saturday night.

Scheinblum traded to California

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Richie Scheinblum, who hit .300 for the Kansas City Royals last season, has returned to the American League.

The California Angels acquired the 30-year-old outfielder in a trade with the Cincinnati Reds Friday night. The Reds will receive two minor league players to be named later.

"This is the first good thing the Reds have done for me," said Scheinblum, who had only 54 at bats for Cincinnati. "As soon as I came to spring training it was obvious they had no plans for me."

A member of the American League All-Star team in 1972, the veteran outfielder was traded with pitcher Roger Nelson to the Reds from Kansas City for pitcher Wayne Simpson and outfielder Hal McRae.

Scheinblum started the season with a five-year major league career batting average of .259. In 1971, he led the Pacific Coast League with a .388 average for Denver, driving in a league-leading 108 runs.

Bobby Winkles, the California manager, said Scheinblum at first will be employed as a pinch-hitter. "He'll have to work his way into the lineup," Winkles said.

The Angels have been going with Bob Oliver, Ken Berry and Vada Pinson as their starting outfield with Frank Robinson, an outfielder by trade, as their designated hitter.

Schlee's horoscope indicates victory

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — John Schlee has never been a really big winner on the pro tour. But he says his horoscope shows he is now in a "lunar high point" and that his fellow pros better look out.

"Lunar high point" or not, Schlee shaved, he knows, his way around a golf course by firing a 67 during the third round of the U.S. Open at the Oakmont Country Club Saturday. He is now in a four-way tie with Jerry Heard, his playing partner Saturday, Julius Boros and Arnold Palmer, all with three-under-par 210s.

"This has been a good week for me," Schlee said. "My horoscope shows I'm in a lunar high point. It also shows that I will do good tomorrow. It's in my favor for the month of June."

What is a lunar high point? Schlee was asked.

"I really don't know," he replied. "But I take astrology seriously and it says June is my month. I was born in June. My wife is interested too, but she's not the believer that I am. And she doesn't know that much about it."

Schlee borrowed three astrology books from a reporter here covering the Open so he could stay compatible with the stars during his stay here.

A graduate of Memphis State, Schlee makes his home in Dallas now with his wife and a daughter. Since he joined the tour in 1965 he has won about $125,000, not impressive by today's tour standards, but enough to keep him and his family in groceries.

He has won more than $67,000 this year, including a first place finish in the Hawaiian Open which was worth $40,000.

Schlee played a steady third round at Oakmont with a one-under front nine and a three-under back nine where he collected three birdies. He also had two birdies and a bogey on the front nine.

Schlee said his putting was chiefly responsible for his fine round but said "I know why I'm putting well, but I'm not saying why."

Player, who had led after both the first and second rounds, had a worse one than Nicklaus with the 77 for a one-over 214, the same total as Nicklaus. Both were four strokes behind the four leaders.

Arnold Palmer, Julius Boros, John Schlee and Jerry Heard, Nicklaus, with four bogeys and one birdie, said he "hit a lot of nondescript shots."

Asked how he calculated his chances now, he said, "Obviously, since I'm four shots back I have to get off to a good start tomorrow. I began the first three rounds badly. If I get off to a good start tomorrow, I have a chance."

Nicklaus and Player have short stories

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — It wasn't Gary Player's day? Or Jack Nicklaus' either.

"I won't bore you with my round," said Nicklaus, when he came into the press tent after shooting a three-over par 74 in Saturday's third round of the U.S. Open.

Player, who had led after both the first and second rounds, had a worse one than Nicklaus with the 77 for a one-over 214, the same total as Nicklaus. Both were four strokes behind the four leaders.

Arnold Palmer, Julius Boros, John Schlee and Jerry Heard, Nicklaus, with four bogeys and one birdie, said he "hit a lot of nondescript shots."

Asked how he calculated his chances now, he said, "Obviously, since I'm four shots back I have to get off to a good start tomorrow. I began the first three rounds badly. If I get off to a good start tomorrow, I have a chance."

Player, who never cracked a smile all day, stumbled right at the start with a bogey on the 460-yard par four opening hole. He had a 40 on the front nine, and 37 coming back.

On the sixth hole, he was addressing his tee shot and was distracted by the rustling of raincoats when some of those in his gallery began covering

Blasting out

IN A MAZE OF SAND, Gary Player hits out of a trap on the eighth hole during play in the U.S. Open. The defending PGA champion, who led through the first two days of the meet, skied to 77 Saturday and fell three shots off the pace. (UPI telephoto)

Heard's making money and just having fun

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — Jerry Heard said his father told him three years ago to go out on the pro tour "and have fun."

"And that's what I have done," Heard said after firing a near course record 66 Saturday in the third round of the 73rd U.S. Open. The record was the 65 that Gene Borek posted Friday.

Heard said he played well Saturday because "I was relaxed."

"You can't rush this course at all," he said. "You have to play for position and I did. I may be a little choked up tomorrow but I think I'll be All-star."

All-star vote may be changed

NEW YORK (UPI) — A recommendation to do away with the present system of giving each club representation in the All-Star game will be among the proposals brought up before the annual meeting of the National Basketball Association Board of Governors, it was announced Saturday.

In all major sports in this country, it is mandatory for every team to be represented in All-Star games, but the four-man competition committee of the NBA will propose that this be done away with.

The meeting will take place at Beverly Hills, Calif., June 27-29.

The competition committee, which includes Chairman Red Auerbach of Boston, Joe Axelson of Kansas City-Omaha, Franklin Mieuli of Golden State and Fred Zollner of Detroit, will also propose a new formula for breaking ties for playoff position.

Among other items on the agenda are: a report of the merger committee, a report from Commissioner Walter Kennedy regarding the use of drugs in athletics, and a report on television plans for next season.

Idaho's athletic future postponed

MCCALL, Idaho (UPI) — A University of Idaho regent rebuked its president Friday for violation of athletic conference rules and tried unsuccessfully to censure him publicly.

At the same time, Mal Denton, Pocatello, tried to force President Ernest Hartung to fire all members of his staff who had anything to do with the University decision to violate the Big Sky Conference football rules.

Meantime, the board of regents postponed for one month a decision on whether to let the University bill out of the Big Sky and join the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, which permits 10 additional football scholarships than does the Big Sky.

Hartung told the board he made the decision in April to continue recruiting football players even though successful efforts might push the University beyond the 65 scholarships allowed in the Big Sky conference.

He said because of the long-standing and very difficult schedule-of-competition next fall he took a "calculated risk" in authorizing the recruitment that led to violation of the rules.

Disclosure of the University violation was made voluntarily to the conference, Hartung said, on his orders. He said he hoped the conference might ameliorate the dispute.

Because of his decision, the Big Sky put the University on probation for a year and said it must forfeit any conference crowns it might win and any television or bowl receipts.

Hartung said he was aware of a possible penalty, but he felt that would be better than going into a competitive schedule next fall undermanned.

He denied he took the action to try to get the University kicked out of the conference, saying such a fate would tarnish Idaho's credentials in trying to get into another athletic conference.

While it was suggested the University might hide its actions by getting wealthy business men in Moscow to pick up some of the scholarships Hartung said "we felt that was both morally and ethically indefensible."

He said one of the main reasons Idaho wants out of the Big Sky is the fact that it cannot afford intercollegiate athletics under conference rules.

"Our problem is that within the Big Sky we are going bankrupt," he said. He said by switching to the PCAA Idaho could continue playing the same type of teams it now scheduled and yet have more scholarships with which to field the competitive club.

Some of the teams in the PCAA, he said, Idaho has played for years.

"The idea of the University of Idaho seeking to go 'big time' is not true," he said, adding the main difference between Big Sky and PCAA is scholarship numbers.

Deaton chastized Hartung for what he said was the "tremendous emphasis" placed on athletics at Idaho while "many of our academic programs are going begging." He said the board of regents took Hartung's word last October when he said he would comply with Big Sky conference rules after the board denied his initial request to pull out of that conference. He said Hartung broke that word by his actions this spring and suggested he did so in an attempt to get kicked out of the conference.

"It was in defiance of the board of regents," Deaton said.

Because of it, he said, thousands of graduates are hanging their heads in shame. Hartung's request to leave the Big Sky and join the PCAA was shuffled to the board executive committee for the University and board president John Swartley, Boise, said he will exercise his right to sit on that committee.

Janet Hay, Nampa, said she felt the University football violation, together with a Boise State player violation a year ago constituted a sad commentary on intercollegiate athletics.

Ron Behagen

Behagen looking toward pro career

By LARRY HOVEY

Times-News Sports Editor Ron Behagen, the free spirit from New York City through Minnesota by way of College of Southern Idaho and now headed for the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, finds life about like it was two years ago as a junior-college player. It's a lot of fun and just everything one would find the unexpected.

The youngster, who has been both chastised and praised by the national press since leaving CSI, was back to help Coach Jerry Hale with his final week of summer basketball clinic.

Still, given to the overstatement, Behagen reports with a confident smile "I don't do anything for nothing anymore. I quit that my last game in the NIT for (University of) Minnesota."

But the smile grows wider when he's reminded that he's at the College of Southern Idaho basketball camp.

"Well," he laughs, "I always like to come back here. And I'm getting my degree in recreation supervision."

Then how about the Russian-U.S. series?

"That was really rough," he continues. "But I got a lot of ink (publicity) out of that."

The thing tantamount to Behagen right now is the pay scale he'll receive from the Kings — starting with the initial signing payoff. "We're very close," he says. "Very close. Lew (attorney Lewis Schaffel) and I have known each other for a long time and he's handling most of it. I'm not really that close to the negotiations. But we're very close."

Behagen confirmed a statement made here a week ago by Nat Archibald, a long time personal friend and now a prospective teammate, that the all-NBA guard wants Ron to sign before he begins contract negotiations.

"Yes that's true," Behagen says. "Archibald called me and told me he wanted me to negotiate first." He also smiled when told of Tim Bassett's promise that Archibald was going to take as much King money as he could and Behagen was going after the rest. "I wish that was true," he said.

For the most part Behagen's history for the past two years has been in the ups and downs department. He was mauled nationally for his part in the Ohio State-Minnesota fracas, then received praise for his showing in the Russian series. Both instances could well be traced to his snubbing in the Pan American game trial three years ago. Of course, with the Ohio State thing hanging over his head he had no chance for the an Olympic berth.

One gets the feeling that a succession of highs and lows awaits this young man at every turn. But one also has the belief that he is eagerly looking forward to them and in the end will come out on top, for he has the intelligence and the talent to stay well off the bottom in anything.

At times Behagen can become quite serious. One of those times came in a discussion with another player concerning choices of colleges. "You don't ever know," he said. "You think you make the right choice and then find out you didn't."

The logical question, then, is how was Minnesota? He liked it and perhaps he didn't. Not due to the school, the coach particularly, the Ohio State thing. He never said he was unhappy, yet he never compared it to CSI, which he likes perhaps above all.

"I think we (those recruited with him) did more for Minnesota than Minnesota did for us," Behagen opens in a mental study. "I mean, they'd never come close to filling the gymnasium before" and the place was sold out for every home game last year before the season started. I can't really complain. I'm going back to get my degree there this summer. But let me say it this way — Five of the underclassmen on the basketball team have left. They've transferred to other colleges."

With pro basketball in the near future, Behagen already is looking toward something else — his degree and life's eventual vocation.

"I'm going back to the playground," he says. "I'm going to spend as much time with youngsters as I can while I'm playing pro ball and all of it afterward."

Behagen, with as much sweet-sour history as any 22-year-old in the nation, firmly believes his life was formed on the playground and he will repay that debt.

In the meantime, he'll get to the next stage in life at 100 miles per hour and will accept whatever comes his way because of it.

From all angles

By Larry Hovey

The state of Idaho continues to pay a divisive penalty for being four-year-college poor with the University of Idaho's hope for getting out of the Big Sky Conference making the point very evident again this past week.

All supporters of Boise State and Idaho State have arisen in moral indignation, finding Idaho's wish to leave the conference a direct insult to their schools. But as for the statement made by Mal Deaton, Pocatello area representative on the board of regents, that thousands of Idaho graduates are hanging their heads in shame, we've found none of that. The Vandal backers are equally indignant.

"One thing about it," fumed one Twin Falls Idaho alum. "I don't have to worry about Idaho doing anything that would shame me. Boise State and Idaho State keep too good tabs on them."

Another literally belched "I'm sick and tired to Idaho being the whipping boy of the Big Sky Conference. Everyone knows about the other teams playing ex-pros at quarterback, being taken to court for misuse of hundreds of thousands of dollars of federal funds and other things. The conference does nothing about that. Idaho gets took six ways to none by the Big Sky and I would much rather see the Vandal Independent than spend another day in the conference."

So all combined, one easily sees that a system of community colleges feeding one university would perhaps, and for a change, get this state pulling together for one thing for once in its history.

Victor Kelly, ex-CSI and USC guard, has started looking at the University of Hawaii again as he slowly comes to a decision on where he'll complete his NCAA eligibility.

Kelly, in town for three weeks during Coach Jerry Hale's summer basketball clinic, said Friday night he has become "a little disenchanted with Southeast Louisiana."

Kelly is upset with the coaching change at the southern school. The head coach, Shiploy, resigned and the school has opened the position for applications — and is getting some fairly well known names interested. But Kelly was interested in seeing the No. 1 assistant, a friend of his for some time, get the job.

"Why would they have a man ranked No. 2 in a successful program and never consider him for No. 1 when the opportunity arose?" Kelly asks.

He added he and attorney Lewis Schaffel will contact Hawaii coach Bruce O'Neil to see if arrangements there are still available.

Virginia Undhjem, who will be seeking her 10th Magic Valley women's title in the Times-News event at Municipal course this week, comes into the event fresh from a victory in last week's Gate City test at Highland of Pocatello. Mrs. Undhjem fired an 85-83 to win the event by five shots.

"It's about time I did something," she smiles. "People have been asking me lately if I still play golf."

A great short game played in her dominating days, Mrs. Undhjem says that's the part that's started to come back. "I last year I was so antsy about my putts that I couldn't get anything in the hole from more than two or three feet. My whole short game seems a lot better — not as good as it was, but getting better."

Coach Hale, who has declined the coaching job in Mexico and finished three straight weeks in the gymnasium, now basically is sitting back and waiting — the hardest part of the recruiting game.

This past week, a freshman at Kansas State called him and asked if he could come play for the Eagles. He's 6-7 and although only a first-year man started 11 games for the Kansas State Varsity. There are some others, one ranging up to seven feet, who the coach is told will be coming, but until they step off the plane at Joslin Field, who knows. Coach already has lost one 6-9 prospect who said for six weeks he was coming.

and 11 division, followed by Joe Weitz, Caldwell; Mark Spalding, Wendell, and Lance St. Armour, Burley.

In the 12-13 group, Rich Graham, Caldwell, was the winner with the top four completed by Doug Rosen, Pocatello; Mike Hoelmer, Pocatello, and Dave Weltz, Caldwell.

Joe Lodge, Caldwell, took the 14-15 prize with Toby Kelm, Nampa; Tim Crist, Twin Falls, and Dale Williams, Burley, rounding out the prize list. The event was co-sponsored by the Burley Lions and Idaho Golf Association.

T.F. cyclists win in Paul motocross

PAUL. Two riders from Twin Falls captured first places in motocross races here Thursday.

Dave Pedersen, Twin Falls, won first place in the 125 cc. expert class with second and third places going to Joe Phillips, Rupert, and Crutmer, Buhl.

Jim Thompson, Rupert, was first in the 125 cc. intermediate division.

Frank Trafford, Twin Falls, captured first place in the 250 cc. expert class with second and third places awarded to Randy Mobly, Wendell, and Haskell, Twin Falls.

The Magic Valley Motorcross races, two miles north and 12 miles west of Paul, are sponsored by Magic Valley Auto and Cycle Sales. Races are held each Thursday night for expert riders, Saturday for beginning riders, and Sunday for experienced and novice riders.

About 75 cyclists will be on hand today. The last race today will be a switch race. During the race two riders use one cycle, switching after each lap. The race lasts ten laps of the track.

Sign-in time for riders is 12:10, race begins at 12:30.

Burley youngster claims state junior golfing championship

BURLEY — Bill Spencer of Burley clung to a one-stroke lead throughout the final round Friday to claim the Idaho state junior golf championship.

Spencer, who led after the first round with a 76, saw his score grow to 80 Friday but the surprise was no one else could do much better. Cold weather greeted the field in the early morning along with the usual Magic Valley zephyr of about 20 miles per hour.

Spencer's 150 gave him a one-stroke advantage over Carl Ayers of Boise and defending champion Gary Duncan of Twin Falls. Ayers then defeated Duncan in a three-hole playoff for the runner-up trophy. Duncan was the only man among the top four to finish below 80 both days. Kevin Packard, Twin Falls, was fourth at 158.

In the peewee boys division, T. P. Davids, Lava Hot Springs was first, followed by Rick Asson, Marc Ownes and Howie Hambleton, all Burley. Jeff Hoelmer, Pocatello, took the 10

Williams becomes first to take both sprints in AAU

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI)—Young Steve Williams became the first sprinter to win the National AAU double Saturday night when he took the 220-yard dash with a closing burst, and world record holder Rick Wohlhuter beat Olympic champion Dave Wottle in the half-mile to highlight the 1973 championships.

Williams, who will enter San Diego State this fall after transferring from UT-El Paso, took the 100-yard dash Friday night in 9.4 and came back to wrap up the 220 title Saturday in 20.3.

The last man to take the AAU sprint double was Ray Norton in 1960.

Len Hilton, a 5,000 meter Olympian last year, led five other runners including the comebacking Marty Liquori across the finish line in under four minutes to win the mile in a sparkling 3:55.9.

Liquori, who gave way on the final turn after leading most of the last lap, was timed in 3:56.8. He was followed in order by Chuck LaBenz in 3:58.0, NAIA champ Tommy Fulton, also in 3:58.0, Mark Ferguson in 3:59.4 and Britain's Bob Maplestone in 3:59.9.

The 220 final produced another typical Williams finish. As usual, he was well back in the early going, challenged for the lead after the final bend and closed with a burst to barely nip the wire ahead of Wardell Gilbreath with NCAA champ Marshall Dill close behind.

Wohlhuter, who took the 800 world mark to 1:44.0 at the Vons Classic last month, charged into the lead on the final turn, then held off Wottle's late bid to win in 1:45.6.

Wottle, last as usual at the start, didn't make his move until they were straightened out for the home stretch. By then, Wohlhuter had too big a lead and the Olympic champ couldn't do much about it and finished second in 1:46.2, with NCAA champ Skip Kent of Wisconsin third in 1:46.5.

Cubs top Atlanta on dropped third strike, followup homer

ATLANTA (UPI)—Jim Hickman slammed a two-run tie-breaking homer in the seventh inning Saturday night, following a passed ball on a strikeout by catcher Johnny Oates which allowed Billy Williams to reach base safely, to give the Chicago Cubs a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

The victory snapped the Braves' five-game winning streak.

LA tips Expos in short game

MONTREAL (UPI)—Ron Cey hit a three-run homer in the third inning Saturday as the Los Angeles Dodgers spoiled the Montreal Expos' seven-game winning streak by defeating them 6-3 in a game shortened to six innings because of rain.

Although more than 20,000 tickets were sold for the nationally televised game, only 10,187 fans sat through a steady rain, strong winds and temperatures hovering between the 40 and 50 degree mark.

By ROBERT METZ (c) New York Times Service SAN FRANCISCO - A growing number of mutual fund executives is prepared to argue that their industry, contrary to rumor, is not dead.

Suddenly, the mutual funds found themselves selling fewer new shares than investors were redeeming and this "net redemption" problem has dogged the funds ever since.

view current redemptions as alarming, but sees them as arising largely out of the completion of investment plan schedules. He said: "People buy funds to use some day and that day arrives each year for holders owning about 7 per cent of outstanding shares. We regard that rate as a normal attrition."

He said that the stock market hadn't been kind to investors, including the managers of mutual funds lately. Besides, a person could buy a bond and get a 7 or even 8 per cent return in this period of high interest rates.

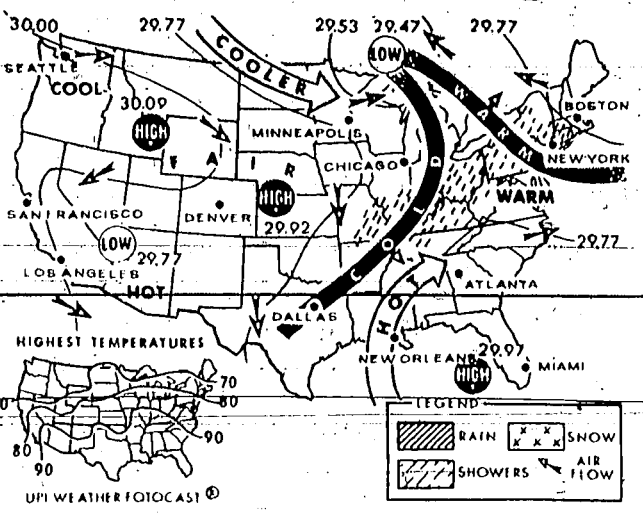

mutual fund industry actually is. He argued that even though redemptions exceeded new sales in 1972, sales of $4.9 billion last year suggested that there was a significant body of opinion on the other side.

He noted that this is the fourth best sales year in mutual fund history and said he felt it was impressive when one realized that just 25 years ago there was a total of $1.5 billion committed to the entire mutual fund industry.

He noted that for the first time in many years the biggest blue chip companies had led the rest of the market and that mutual funds generally had not bought this group of stocks.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE IS GIVEN by the Zoning Commission of the City of Twin Falls, Idaho, that a public hearing will be held before said Commission in the Council Room, City Hall, 321 Second Avenue East, Twin Falls, Idaho, at 8:00 p.m. on June 21, 1973, upon zoning of the following described property proposed to be rezoned into said City.

SBA visit scheduled

(c) Chicago Daily News - PONG KONG - U.S. exports to China will hit a record $350 million this year, according to U.S. official estimates, and that figure could double if China turns to America for grain.

exchange to the purchase of foreign wheat. "If this year's crops are as bad as some experts think they will be, China may have to purchase as much as $300 million worth of wheat from the United States - it's available."

Burley man promoted

BURLEY - Ben Strand, Burley, has been named quality assurance manager of the Burley Processing Co.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE IS GIVEN by the City Council of the City of Twin Falls, Idaho, that a public hearing will be held at 8:00 p.m. in the Council Room, City Hall, 321 Second Avenue East, Twin Falls, Idaho, upon the application of the Grace Baptist Church for conditional use in Residential Low Density Zone for a church upon the following described real property.

US exports up in China trade

(c) Chicago Daily News - PONG KONG - U.S. exports to China will hit a record $350 million this year, according to U.S. official estimates, and that figure could double if China turns to America for grain.

China's expanding trade with the capitalist West and Japan is to lay an industrial base that will enable that ancient country to join the 20th century.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 17, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES A day when you really need to live the Golden Rule if you are to sidestep the pitfalls that could endanger your position in life. Take a good look about you and improve surroundings. Make plans for entering a new phase of life.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are toying with the idea of changing your whole lifestyle, but this could only lead to trouble. Don't approach a respected higher up who is in a bad mood. Wait for a better day.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Ideal day to join with wise individuals and make fine mutual plans for the future. A lofty concept is important, although it may be difficult to maintain. Attend the social tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) What you believe to be prophetic may be just the opposite so use good judgment and you stay on the right track. Use a gentle approach with mate and avoid a big quarrel.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Attend to regular routines since any changes now could prove very detrimental to your best interests. Be prepared to take some disappointments in your stride. Be logical.

LFO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be more serious about your obligations today and take steps to improve your image with others. Stay on the practical side of life since your intuitions are not good at this time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day for encouraging others and making them feel happier, since the aspects are gloomy for almost everyone. Buy a thoughtful gift for mate. Avoid one who likes to argue.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Ideal day to visit an inspiring place where you can appreciate the beauty of nature and restore your spiritual energies. Then you can deal with business and personal matters later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Using extreme care in travel is important now or you could get into trouble. Don't give advice to others unless asked to do so. Think before you speak and improve harmony at home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Attend to the practical tasks that stamp you as a sensible person so that others cannot criticize. Do what you think is best in a personal matter. Show more devotion to loved one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you are gentle and kind with those who are troubled, you gain the respect of those who were opposed to you. Show more hospitality in your relationship with others. Be wise.

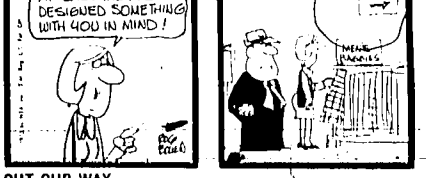

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Forget all that gregariousness for the time being and attend to important business matters. Become more practical in all of your dealings. Taking health treatments now is wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Work on more immediate matters instead of those that take a long time to come into proper focus. Don't antagonize a good friend with rags. This person is vital to your welfare. Be patient.

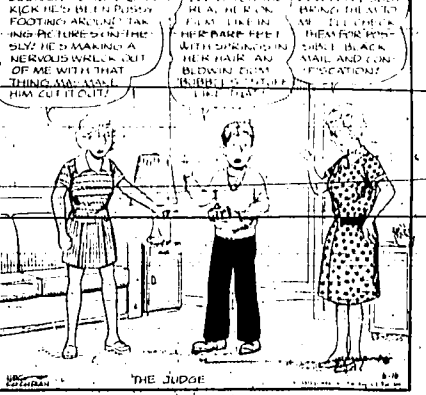

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people who has to be doing something all the time, so give tasks worthy in life that will properly occupy the mind. Send to the right schools for the proper guidance in whatever the forte is here, and then there can be much success throughout the lifetime. Give as much spiritual training as you can.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Am asked how a professional sword swallower knows how long a sword to swallow. Nothing to it. Starts with a real long blade and inserts same until the tip touches the pit of the stomach. The sensation is a little like falling in love, I'm told. Anyhow, he marks the sword at the tooth, withdraws it, cuts the blade down so the restrained handle fronts exactly on the mark, and that's it, a meal of metal customized to precise specs.

True, the rainbow trout can tolerate water anywhere from 48 to 68 degrees F, but it gets hungrier for the bait when the water is just about 61 degrees. Or so the experts now report. If you want to pick water to produce fish, air, take its temperature.

It was customary in the England of 200 years ago for a wedding announcement to state in plain figures the size of the bride's fortune, if any.

POLLSTERS

How many people do those surveytakers have to poll on any given question to get a fair sampling?
A About 1,500. At least, that's what the Gallup pollsters say they require to meet the laws of probability.

Do youngsters under age 8 ever commit suicide? Certainly not. The U.S. Census Bureau won't permit its statisticians an order to categorize the death of any child younger than that age to be due to "unknown and unspecified causes." So says a public health specialist. Why I don't know because of literal wrinkles, probably it's a sad fact, however, numerous little children do take their own lives.

SOLDIER'S CHOICE

That one food said to be preferred far more than any other by men in the U.S. Army is milk. Or do you want to call it a beverage? Doesn't matter.

Sort of girls a young fellow prefers shows something about his personality. Such is the claim of a pair of University of Illinois psychologists. That man who likes long-legged girls, they say tends to be an easy-going character who doesn't usually drink much. But the man who chooses short-legged girls, they aver, is apt to be quite a social lion, a joiner, a frequenter of numerous parties. Our Love and War man declines to confirm these findings, please note.

Average American drinker will put away 1.5 gallons of booze a year. During prohibition, it was two gallons.

Older you get, the fewer bones in your body. They fuse together with maturity. That's why you probably had about 100 more bones when you were an infant than you have now.

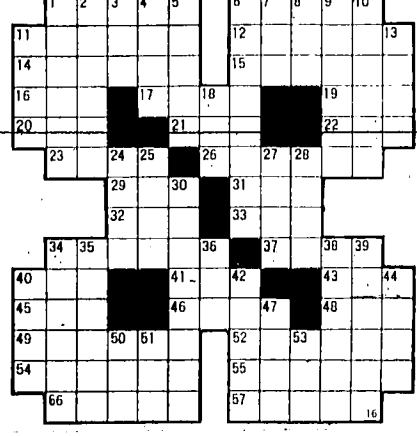

Specifically, the average man's hand can grip with 81 pounds of pressure, the average woman's only 48 pounds.

What You're Saying

Complete TV Schedules June 17 to 23

What your saying . . .

QUESTION: Has anything about the Watergate Affair truly shocked or surprised you? Are you in favor of continuing the public hearings on television?

AGNES WISHART, TWIN FALLS:

"We have a leader, you know, who we hope is true and who we depend on. We believe in him, so when something like this comes up it's kind of hard to know who to depend on.

"Yes, I would be shocked (if Nixon were personally involved). I hope he's not.

"Yes, why not let the people know what's going on?"

GARY KEYES, TWIN FALLS:

"Oh, part of it has. I feel things getting out of hand and it's hard to tell who's telling the truth. It seems like everybody is on trial there and trying to get them lives out of it . . .

"This is not the first time there have been phone taps or things like this at conventions . . . It's nothing new to us, but this is the first time the truth has come out.

"I feel too much blame has been put on President Nixon. I think the people should stop blaming him and looking at themselves."

BILLIE COOK, TWIN FALLS:

"Not really, no. It's been going on for so long; I just figured it would come to Nixon getting involved.

"Not at all (surprising if President Nixon deeply involved).

"No. It wouldn't be so bad sometimes, but they're on too much. They always go over the same things all the time."

DANNY BRONSON, TWIN FALLS:

"No. I think it goes on not only in government, but also in companies, industries. I think there is quite a bit of snooping going on.

"I don't know. I haven't seen them. I don't know if I would approve of them if I'd kept up with them on TV or not. From my standpoint, I don't think it's really necessary to have everything televised. I think the really important things you can get in the newspapers or on the radio."

ARTHUR DAVIS, RUPERT:

"Not really, because I really don't listen to it. I keep hearing a bunch of stuff about Nixon, but I don't know — if they have been doing something, they really ought to kick them out and get somebody else in there who can do something.

"Well, there isn't really any use putting it on TV unless they are going to do something about it . . . If they could get down and say they are going to do something — and do it — then it would be a lot better for everybody. They're really not doing anything but hollering and screaming."

MITZIE SWEET, TWIN FALLS:

"It doesn't really surprise me that this has gone on in the government, but I think it been going on for a long time — not just in the present administration.

"No, not at all (surprising if Nixon involved), but even if he is involved, I really don't think he's to blame. It's happened so many times before. I think if they dig up things on his administration they should go back to the previous ones, too.

"No. I wish they would hold private hearings. I think too much information is getting out to other governments."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Brooklyn Bridge, opened May 24, 1883, was the world's largest suspension bridge at that time. The 1,595-foot bridge cost about $15,000,000 to build. The World Almanac says it was designed by John Roebling, who as chief engineer, was killed in an accident during early construction. The bridge was completed by his son Washington.

The Story Of Richard Boone

Fifteen years ago, concluding the first season of his popular series, "Have Gun, Will Travel," Richard Boone said, "I expect Palladin to keep riding for five more years, and then I can retire. I don't mean quit acting. But after five more years, the making of money will no longer be important."

Precisely five seasons later, Palladin faded into reruns, and Boone, having salted away his security, could do the kind of TV acting he wanted to. In September of 1963, he presented a series with "Repertory Players" in different roles each week. Boone, liked it, many critics liked it, but viewers preferred continuing characters they could believe in, not a course in make-up and acting. After one season, the show was cancelled.

"The thinking people of this country are being disenfranchised by the Nielsen nitwits!" shouted Boone, and stormed off to Hawaii. The winner of this explosion was Boone's son, Peter. For the next seven years, he finally got to know his Dad.

Then, with his son grown up and time having mellowed his anger against TV, Richard Boone, a distant cousin of Danial, finally rode onto our sets in a new series. Let's take a look at "Hec Ramsey" in 3D

(Difference, Depth and Durability)

1. Difference: The year is 1901. Hector Ramsey, once a firefighter, is now a small-town deputy, serving under a green young sheriff. Having turned against the use of guns, Hec always tries to find peaceful, scientific means for righting criminal wrongs. But sometimes the criminals go too far and goad Hec into strapping on a weapon.

Although other turn-of-the-century westerns were disastrous in the rating department, this was not the fault of the period. Shows like "Nichols" and "Bearcats" had no clear sense of direction or character. "Hec Ramsey" does.

2. Depth: There is ample talent here. Harry Morgan is fine as the barber-surgeon-narrator. Rick Lenz is excellent as the sheriff. The guest stars (the criminals) are always top-drawer. But, naturally, this is Boone's show, and when the script is right, he makes Hec Ramsey so real we want to look him up in the encyclopedia; makes us believe so completely in Hec's preoccupation with microscopes and electric chairs and deadly sauna baths that we want to check their dates of origin.

On the technical side, we have long wondered how

Jack Webb would face as the producer of a good straight dramatic series (without the Los Angeles police department or fire department to lean on). Well, he does very fine indeed. His insistence upon accuracy in detail stands him in good stead for a series where little things that 1901 Oldsmobile, for example, add up to a sense of reality.

3. Durability: With more and more TV crime-busters fighting for viewer attention, the key to series longevity is character.

Richard Boone seems to understand this. "The half-hour show was only an incident," he says. "The hour allowed time for a plot. But the 90 minute form is popular today because it gives you room to develop character as well as tell a story."

Precisely. But some of the "Hec Ramsey" scripts have drifted dangerously close to confusing complexity the kind which does not allow for meaningful character development. Simplify the plots, tell us more about the who, what and why of that unique deputy sheriff, and "Hec Ramsey" can easily let Boone bank another five years worth of money.

Listed Channels Cable TV

Five channels are available under the following dial numbers:

1. Salt Lake City - KUTV-TV
2. Salt Lake City - KCPX-TV
3. Salt Lake City - KSL-TV
4. Salt Lake City - Public
5. Twin Falls - KMVT-TV

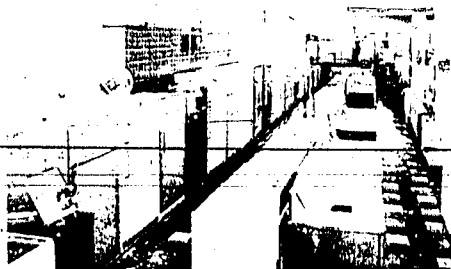

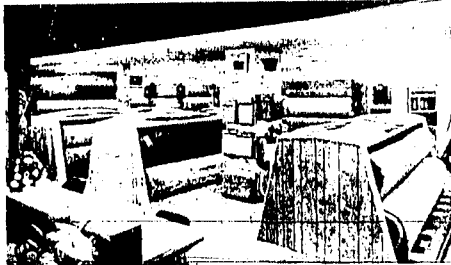

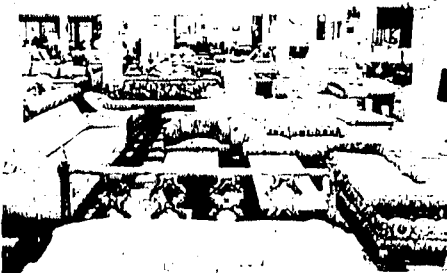

Recent F.C.C. action requires Cable Vision to afford same day non-duplication protection to KMVT (Cable Channel 6). Because of this rule some programs must be blacked out on Salt Lake City Cable Vision coverage and exact time of showing on KMVT must be found by checking KMVT listings.

PROGRESS REPORT

OF OUR EXPANSION-REMODELING PROJECT

The 3 floors of the new addition are nearing completion—Lighting, wiring, carpeting & some decorating are yet to be done—also the marquee has to be extended across the front of our new building.

NEW

This week workmen start on the main floor of our present facilities. When they're finished, you will see 32 vignettes (small separate rooms) each set up in a different setting and decor. We hope that this plan can eventually be used in all departments on the other floors.

We Solicit Your Cooperation!!

Every single sofa, love seat, sectional, table, lamp etc. has to be moved in order for the workmen to work. We would rather discount them than move them several times. They have been selling fast, but we still have a big selection — too Big. So please stop in and look them over, you'll love the markdowns.

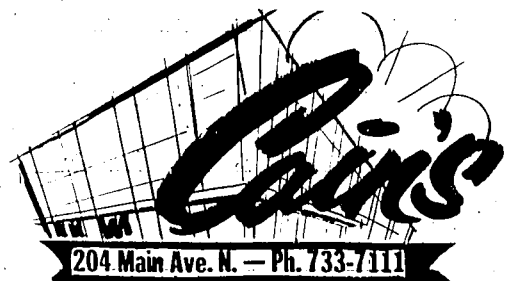

We are moving our entire carpet department into the new area so we can have the entire main floor for vignettes. Roll after roll are marked down. Every roll and roll end must go. We are introducing a complete new concept in carpet display in our new department and can't use any of our present fixtures. Here's your opportunity to buy that carpet at wholesale prices.

But hurry in for best selection!!

We are moving our entire Frigidaire appliance department into our new addition. Here again, we would rather mark them down than move them. You'll never have a better chance to save on that new Frigidaire appliance. We are giving extra liberal trade-in allowances. We need used appliances for our Budget Store across the street.

FREE PARKING

COME IN AND SEE OUR PROGRESS

"The Watergate Year" Program Scheduled On CBS Tonight

Exactly one year after the Watergate break-in, CBS News looks at "The Watergate Year - Crisis for the President," this evening on the CBS Television Network. CBS News White House Correspondent Dan Rather anchors the Special Report examining the functioning of the presidency and of the government in light of the Watergate case.

(Editor's Note: This CBS News Special Report pre-empted "60 Minutes" on this date.)

"June 17 is the anniversary of a minor burglary at an office complex, called Watergate, in Washington," says Rather. "A small crime indeed, but the arrest of those burglars lifted the lid on the nation's worst political scandal."

What have been the effects of that scandal?

Rather examines the problems facing the President and the Nixon administration which have arisen as a result of the Watergate affair. He also looks at what might happen if a presidential election were held

They Call Her The Queen Of Idaho Ghosts — She's Owyhee's Silver City

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
Editor, Times-News

They call her the Queen of Idaho Ghosts.

She's Silver City. She wasn't the first town in the Owyhees but was very close to it. Today, though, she's the only one worth going to see.

It all started back in 1863. The gold fever was high over the Idaho City area and sort of "stopped over" south of the Snake River in May of that year. Under the leadership of a fellow named Michael Jordan, a party of 29 made that trip south and on May 18 stopped at a stream later called Jordan Creek where panning in the gravel revealed hundreds of colors. Gold! This place was called Discovery Bar.

About two miles above that site a place called "Happy Camp" was established and laws of the new mining district were made and were adopted. Party members located as many claims as they could hold and exploration continued.

Then, when the news was out and the rush was on, the first real town in the area was born and was named Booneville. The streets were narrow and crooked, but it was a town. Later it took the name Dewey.

Later the crowd moved "up the creek" and Ruby City was born. It was considered a better location because there was more space and more drinking water. During the winter of 1963-64 each town contained some 250 men.

By the middle of 1864 Ruby City has a population of more than 800 but a rival was born.

Silver City was started about a mile upstream on Jordan Creek. Ruby City had been the county seat but in 1866 Silver City had the honor. The famed Col. Dewey built a road between the towns and the buildings at Ruby City — at least the ones which hung together long enough, were moved up to Silver City. There were dragged there by oxteams.

The Idaho Avalanche, which had published in Ruby City, came along and publication started in Silver City. In fact it was destined to become the first daily paper in all of Idaho Territory when, in 1874, Editor W. J. Hill issued a daily paper for more than 18 months. Silver City gained further fame when, in 1874, a telegraph line was constructed joining Silver and California. It was the first telegraph service to Southwestern Idaho and permitted the "news" to get there without delay.

There's a Church in Silver City, located on a knob of a hill overlooking the area (see photograph on cover).

The first Catholic Church in Silver — St. Andrews — was built in 1869 near the Morning Star mine, but it was torn down because it was just too far from the center of population. A large building was purchased for $740 and converted into a church. It was dedicated as the Church of Our Lady Of Tears.

Episcopal churches were established in Boise, Idaho City and Silver City. The remaining church in Silver City was originally an Episcopal house of worship. It was acquired by the Catholics and mass is still celebrated there once or twice each year. It, too, is called "Our Lady Of Tears."

So that's the way it was — or is. There is a lot of history around Silver City. Several books have been written about it and probably many more will be.

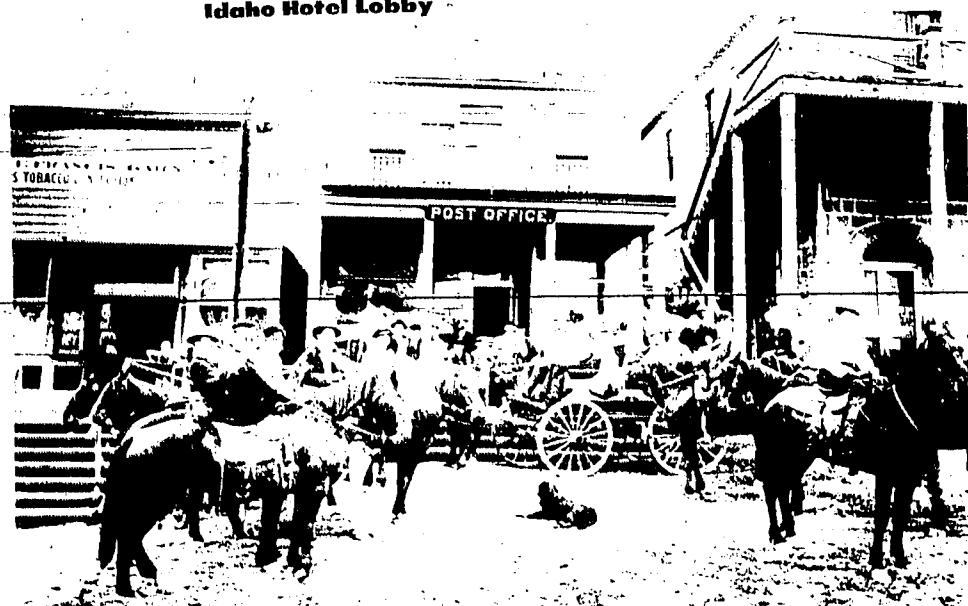

Right now, you might say, it is being reborn through individual efforts and is a showplace of Idaho's past. Ed Jagels, a former Clover (near Twin Falls) resident now owns the Idaho Hotel and has it going. Many people — some relatives of the early pioneers — have summer homes in the area.

If you are looking for some place to steal relics, stay away from Silver City. But if you want to enjoy a look at the past, if you want to explore an old mining area filled with dreams, if you want to explore burying places, then it's the place to go.

The trip will be well worth the effort if you are interested in things historic.

Cover Picture

The cover photograph of the "Our Lady Of Tears" Church in Silver City was taken by Gus Kelker, editor of the Times-News. The Church sits on a knob overlooking the old community and once or twice each year a special Mass is said there.

Silver City is the "Queen" of Idaho's towns of the past. Today many of the summer residents who own property there are relatives of the early residents who pioneered the place.

Living in Silver City in the "old days" was, according to accounts handed down in letters and books, anything but easy. The winters were rough and the snow was deep. Even though at a high altitude, the summers were on the warm side.

Today hundreds of visitors make their way to Silver City. Want to go?

The Times-News checked and the road is open. Best way to get there from any Magic Valley community is to go to Hammett on Highway 30 and the Interstate, turn left in the center of that community and follow the road (it's paved) to Murphy. You will recognize Murphy because there is a lone parking meter in front of the Courthouse, which is about the only building in town. At Murphy turn left again and just keep going until you get to Silver City. From Murphy the road is not paved. You might inquire at Murphy as to current road conditions.

Ample Silhouette Is Advantage For Stunt Man

The ample silhouette moved quickly across the brightly lit bulkhead of the Queen Mary. To the average eye, "Cannon" star William Conrad appeared to be performing another physically active scene for his highly rated adventure series seen Wednesdays (10:00-11:00 PM, PT) on the CBS Television Network.

And the attractive young lady dining in the exclusive stern restaurant aboard the retired Queen remarked, "Oh, there's Bill Conrad." With blinding klieg lights outshining the shadow of the easily identifiable figure and the actor hidden from view, there was no reason to question Conrad's identity.

But the look-alike silhouette actually belonged to Jimmy Casino, a 5-11, 270-pound stunt double who so closely resembles the "Cannon" star that he is constantly mistaken for Conrad when the show is on location.

"Are you the real 'Cannon'?" is the question the most often hears from fans. But Casino refuses to play games and gives a straight answer, though his 7-year-old son Gene thinks his dad should break down and pose as the private eye once in a while.

The massively muscled stunt man, who many pounds ago was light enough to box professionally as a middleweight, has survived some hair-raising moments while doing stunts for such stars as Ernest Borgnine, Zero Mostel and the late Jeff Chandler in a career stretching over 26 years.

But Casino recounts one assignment on "Cannon" this season as the most demanding in memory. During a location episode filmed at Chimney Rock, Colo., he had to descend a rope from a helicopter hovering 15 feet off the ground, dropping the last seven feet to the earth.

"It was a hairy few minutes there," he says, recalling the incident.

The role of double for Conrad, who performs all but the most difficult stunts himself, has provided such other diversions as plunging 22 feet off the Santa Monica Pier into the Pacific Ocean and diving onto the moving deck of a high-powered speedboat with such force that his pants split down the back.

Entering the Navy during World War II at a svelte 180 pounds, Casino served a valuable apprenticeship for the stunt career ahead of him. He taught hand-to-hand combat,

Experts To Advise Producers, Writers

Dr. Gordon Berry of the Graduate School of Education, University of California at Los Angeles, and Dr. Roger Granovsky, Director of the University Media Services Center of the University of Cincinnati, have been retained by the CBS Television Network as consultants on all areas of programming for children, it was announced by Alen B. Ducovny, Director of Children's Programs.

"We have engaged their services on a continuing and exclusive basis," Ducovny noted, "to act as advisors in the development, planning and concepts of quality programming for children, not only for scheduled Saturday shows, but also for specials, mini-series and all other children's programs."

In his original association with the Network, Dr. Berry, who is Assistant Professor and Assistant Dean of the UCLA Graduate School of Education, in 1972 assembled an interdisciplinary panel of consultants to provide guidance in the development and production of Bill Cosby's "Fat Albert and the Cosby Kids," currently on the Network Saturdays (12:00-1:00 PM, PT). Dr. Berry's panel advises the producers and writers on the treatment of juvenile sociological problems in each of the series' scripts.

Dr. Fransecky is president of the National Conference for Visual Literacy, a member of the National Council of Teachers of English, and chairman of the National Task Force on Visual Literacy for the National Education Association.

When specific problems arise, Ducovny stated, "we will ask Mrs. Berry and Fransecky to assemble an interdisciplinary group, similar to the one that guides us on 'Fat Albert and the Cosby Kids,' that will be useful in insuring children a learning experience combined with entertainment, one that will be helpful in their mental growth and development of judgment and moral values."

90-Minute Specials Planned Daytime On CBS Network

A new series of 90-minute
 dramaspecials is being planned for presentation in the daytime schedule during the 1973-74 season. It was announced today by B. Donald (Bud) Grant,
 Vice President Daytime Programs.

In making the announcement, Grant said that the specials, to be presented at various intervals during the season, should add a new, highly entertaining element to the Network's already established schedule of seven serials and five game programs.

He went on to say that the concept of the project is to create a wide variety of dramatic content and style in daytime programming in a 90-minute framework, and to present various kinds of drama not currently seen during the day.

Dramas planned will represent gothic romances, romantic melodramas, inspirational stories and even the occult.

Veteran writers Alvin
 Broetz, Anne Howard Bailey,
 Jerome Ross and George Lowther, as well as promising young writers, will contribute original scripts for the project.
 One of the specials,

"Summer Nocturne," written by Miss Bailey, and taped last February in New York City, air date to be announced, is a sentimental love story between a young boy, turned concert pianist, and a girl who fled to this country after World War
 II. Arthur Marcus and Sylvie
 Winter star in the special, which was produced by Marshall Jannson and directed by Tom Donovan.

"Tiger on a Chain," written by Lowther, is another of the presentations to be taped in mid-June in New York. Air date also to be determined. It is a romantic melodrama about a returning POW and the women in his life. Leslie Charleston, television and film personality, who began her career in 1967 as a lead in the Network serial "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," will play one of the women. The drama will be produced by Linda Fidler Wendell and directed by Larry Auerbach.

Another drama in the works is "The Waiting Sands," adapted from a gothic novel by Susan Howatch.

Tony Converse and Darryl Hochman, "both Network program executives in the daytime area, serve as executive producers of the project.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The American transcontinental railroad was completed May 10, 1869, when a golden spike was driven into a tie at Promontory Point, Utah, marking the junction of the Central Pacific and Union Pacific railroads. The World Almanac recalls, The Canadian Pacific Railroad spanned Canada when the last spike was driven into a tie at Craigellachie, British Columbia, on Nov. 7, 1885.

"Hippo" ABC News Special Set Monday, June 18

Captain Cousteau and the men of the Calypso travel inland to study the last great animal kingdom on the ABC News special, "Hippo!," airing Monday, June 18 on "The Under seas World of Jacques Cousteau."

"Hippo!" illustrated how man is forcing wildlife, in this case the hippopotamus and crocodile, to compete for access to life-supporting internal littoral zones.

The Cousteau expedition travels to East Africa's Lake Tanganyika, longest fresh water lake in the world and second deepest, to attempt to film the hippo in his native habitat, both above and underwater.

Acting as scientific consultant is Dr. Murray Watson, ecological surveyor and consultant of Nairobi, Kenya.

Michel Deloire attempts to film group behavior of the hippos from an observation tower. When not disturbed, they spend up to 13 hours a day in the water as they protect their sensitive skin from the hot African sun. Unlike the elephant and rhino, the hippo would die under prolonged exposure to the equatorial sun if it fed only during the day. At dusk, herds leave the water to feed on grass. Watson theorizes that yours of being hunted as a favorite meat by natives has made the animals more nocturnal.

Although peaceful grazers, the hippos have sword-like canine teeth which Cousteau learns are employed for fighting among themselves as well as for attacking such predators at the crocodile and man.

Capt. Cousteau and his divers enter the lake to attempt to film hippos underwater. Philippe Cousteau's camera records a hippo running at great speed along the floor of the lake. The dive is called off when Capt. Cousteau discovers they have swum into a nest of crocodiles.

Disadvantaged by the size of the lake and by turbid water conditions, divers employ a life-sized plastic hippo nicknamed Lolita to infiltrate the herd. The two-man replica, with an aperture at the mouth for a camera, brings disappointing results.

Following an aerial reconnaissance by Dr. Watson and Philippe, to locate hippos in clear water pools, the expedition moves 1,500 miles over land to the Luangwa the hippos and their even more dangerous pool-mates, carnivorous crocodiles.

Rod Serling narrates "Hippo!" which was produced and written by Andy White. The presentation is sponsored

18 Writers

Executive Producer Leonard Freeman and story consultants Ken Pettus and Curtis Kenyon have assigned 18 writers for 21 scripts for "Hawaii Five-O's" sixth season on the CBS Television Network. The writers are: Jerome Coopersmith, four scripts; E. Arthur Kean, Anthony Lawrence, and Walter Black, two scripts—each; and Jacqueline Lynch, Tony Palmiero, C. Ibar, S. Wile, Alvin Sapsinsky, Larry Brody, Bill Stratton, Dick Nelson, Tim Mascher, Glen Olson, Rod Baker, Norman Lessing, William Bast and Ken Kolb, one script each.

Three scripts remain to be assigned to complete the series' commitment of 24 episodes for the new season. "Hawaii Five-O" is filmed exclusively on location in Hawaii. Bob Sweeney is supervising producer in Hollywood. William Finnegan is producer in Hawaii.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Confederate steamship Alabama and 12 other Confederate sea raiders were built and armed by British contractors during the Civil War. In 1872, a 5-nation board of arbitration awarded the United States compensation of $15,500,000 in gold against Britain for damages caused by these ships. The World Almanac recalls.

Green Thumb And The Artichokes

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

Judging from our mail, this is going to be the year of the artichoke. Gardeners want to grow it.

First, I'm going to try and straighten out the "artichoke mess" — or classification. There is the Jerusalem artichoke, which isn't an artichoke and has no connection with Jerusalem.

Jerusalem is a corruption of girasole — "turning with the sun" and somehow girasole was perverted to Jerusalem, and to make matters even more confusing the artichoke tag was tossed in for good measure.

This perennial has fleshy rootstocks that bear oblong tubers, and these are edible. They grow in any poor soil.

You cut the tubers so that each crown has part of the main tuber with it. Plant these five inches deep and 15 inches apart, in rows three feet apart. Cultivate as you would potatoes.

Plavor is nut-like and makes a good substitute for diabetic and other restricted diets. The real name for Jerusalem artichoke is Helianthus tuberosus.

Then there's the Globe artichoke (Cynara scolymus) grown for its flower head or flower bud. The edible parts consist of bracts which are fleshy at the lower end.

Plant grows four feet high and bears several buds. This plant is grown in regions having mild winters, otherwise heavy mulching is needed. Plants are started by suckers or sprouts or offshoots from the rootstock. We've grown this novelty in the greenhouse just as an experiment.

Norfolk Island pine: Here is one of the most popular foliage plants grown indoors. Correct name for this evergreen is Araucaria heterophylla, a native to Norfolk Islands, some 2,000 miles southwest of Hawaii.

The plant is used in homes, store windows and offices. It's even sold as an indoor Christmas tree. Norfolk Island pine likes a cool temperature, 40 degrees up to 75 degrees.

Remember it's a tropical plant. Don't let it get below 40 degrees. Give it a bright window, but not direct sunlight. Keep the soil uniformly moist but not soggy. Never let roots dry out.

Feed a liquid plant food once every six weeks and syringe foliage often. Browning of leaves is due to overwatering, poor drainage or hot dry rooms.

Sometimes aphids (plant lice) become a problem. Spray with soap suds and nicotine sulfate. If you see springtails in the soil at watering time, drench the surface of soil with nicotine sulfate and soap.

Orange trees from seed: A reader has two orange trees started from seed. Trees are four feet tall. Will they produce fruit, and will it be edible?

You'll get nice flowers, foliage and perhaps some fruit, but it won't be edible. The extra bonuses are worth the effort, though.

Got a problem soil? Too sandy to hold water, or too clayey to grow good plants?

No reason why you can't change your soil — or tame it so you can support good plant growth. Keep in mind that all soils — good ones and bad ones — are made up of the same thing: solids and gases.

The solids are either inorganic rock (sand, silt or clay) while the organic soils contain materials like peat or humus.

To date, nothing is better than organic materials for improving a clay or sandy soil. The same thing that helps a clay soil helps a sandy one — organic matter.

In a sandy soil, organic matter acts like a blotter and holds moisture. In a clay soil, organic matter helps bond small soil particles together into larger ones, leaving more air space, thus allowing better drainage.

Here are some organic waste materials you can use to build up your soil: Grass clippings, leaves, wood shavings, chips, peatmoss, peanut shells, all kinds of manure — cat, dog, horse, sheep, cows, kitchen scraps — whatever — is available.

One of the best investments the home gardener can make is a compost shredder-grinder. It grinds leaves, small tree prunings, cardboard newspapers, green tomato vines, and all sorts of garden refuse.

This material is returned to the soil where it helps grow better crops.

Wondering if your trees or shrubs came through the winter in good shape? Some items are slow to show any sign of life, even after you plant them in the spring.

We've seen dormant stock planted in spring, take six months before any buds broke. Don't be impatient if your materials haven't broken bud, or are slow to start.

Take your finger nail and skin back a bit of bark. If you see a patch of green tissue, it's safe to say that your plants are alive.

One way to stimulate growth of nursery stock is to trim the shoots back one-third. Home gardeners are hesitant to do this but actually it helps the newly planted stock to get a faster start.

Do you notice any tiny white spots of white sticky stuff on the leaf stalks of your zebra plant (Aphelandra)? This is mealy bug at work.

Control: Wrap a dab of cotton on a toothpick and dip in alcohol. Swab each cottony mass until you break up and destroy the white fluffs. Mealybugs travel to other house plants, including African violets, so be on the lookout for this tough pest.

QUESTION BOX

Question of the week: D. E. of Twin Falls: "I've been putting coffee grounds on my rose bushes all winter, as well as in the garden. Will it be alright to keep using the grounds and not use any fertilizer? My husband says I have to mix the grounds with soil, as they can't be used alone."

Coffee grounds, tea leaves, table scraps, trash from your vacuum sweeper — any thing organic — can be used on the compost pile. It's a good idea to add a layer of soil to the compost, since the coffee grounds and tea leaves alone won't go very far.

These organic materials enrich and loosen the soil and make it ideal for potted plants, or for the garden.

In its simplest form, a compost pile has six to eight inches of leaves, grass clippings, or kitchen refuse. Then a thin layer of peat moss or rotted cow or sheep manure. Next a thin layer of soil.

Finally you can sprinkle some wood ashes or ground limestone on top. This layering effect helps decompose the pile more quickly, and it's hastened by air, water, plus some liquid or dry plant food.

Some gardeners like to "fork" or turn the pile over after a few weeks. Forking or turning the heap helps get the outside material into the middle of the pile so heat (generated by helpful microbes) will decompose it faster.

Most garden centers sell rotted cow or sheep manure in plastic bags. Just a light sprinkling of it on the pile helps "inoculate" it. With the horse population higher than ever, perhaps you can latch on to some from your neighbor or nearby racetrack.

W. R. of Twin Falls: "Every time I go to buy grass seed, I get confused! The clerks say we can use perennial ryegrass, with bluegrass, etc. Should we plant a mixture and what's the best grasses to use?"

We don't blame you for being confused, as the new varieties change the lawn picture rapidly. It's a good idea to use grasses in combinations to avoid the risk of the whole turf being wiped out, and to accommodate the various soil conditions, shade, sun, etc.

New Price "horror"
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Vincent Price has been signed to star in American International's "The Revenge of Dr. Death," marking the actor's 23 appearance in AIP films since 1960.

Many of the new varieties are much better than the old types.

If you're confused about lawn grasses, send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of "Grass Varieties — How and Where to Use Them." Written by Dr. Robert Schery of the Lawn Institute, this guide should help you have a better lawn by using grasses best suited to it.

All About Those Various Boxes

QUICK CHANGE BOX:

From part to heart — Chad Everett, who plays the part of a doctor on "Medical Center", visiting a hospital full of real heart specialists on "ABC's Wide World of Entertainment"

From Gypsy to tipsy — Rosalind Russell, getting dangerously dizzy in the movie, "The Crooked Hearts"

From MASH to smash —

Alan Alda, a very funny man, entertaining CBS station execs in Los Angeles . . . From tinsel to tonsel — Tab Hunter, boy-wonder in the old Tinseltown days, playing an over-the-hill talk artist on "Owen Marshall"

From cops to flops — Martin Milner and Kent McCord, "Adam-12" stars, hysterical as they blow their blacked scenes on "LAUGH-IN"

SOAP BOX: Denise Alexander made the switch from NBC to ABC because the latter promised her roles in those "afternoon movies" as well as a good part on General Hospital. "NBC, left with nobody to play Susan Martin on "Days of Our Lives", first got her out of the scripts by having her run away just before her marriage, but then decided to bring her back. They did a tremendous amount of casting before they settled on Benny Gatteys as the new Susan Martin because they wanted someone to match the "image" of Denise Alexander. How do you think they did?

BOX SHOCKS: Hoagy Carmichael is helping to sell that kiddie show "Mister Rogers". Rub that stardust out of your eyes, folks. The Hoagy Carmichael we're referring to is the songwriter's son.

INSIDE THE BOX WORKS: You should watch "The Burns and Schreiber Comedy Hour" which begins June 30 as a weekly Saturday night series for the summer. ABC is hoping these two will catch lightning in a bottle and offer the network the kind of variety hour it has wanted so long (and most recently hoped to get from Julie Andrews). Jack J. Burns and Avery Schreiber are two very nice guys who make a talented team. But our fear is that they have not yet sufficiently "found themselves" to make a success of a series. And one ABC exec agrees with us. "They worked together awhile, then split up, then came back together," he says. "They haven't done enough together on a steady basis to have the kind of smoothness and oneness they need — the kind Howan and Martin have. And this is especially important for a variety-hosting job." But watch the show for yourself. Maybe we'll all be pleasantly surprised.

TACKLE BOX: Can you imagine an event co-hosted by the likes of Peter Fink and Buddy Hackett? Well, that's what happens for the National Football League Players Association annual awards dinner. You'll have to wait until September (an NBC Special) to get a look at this June 24 event, but maybe that's better. You'll be more in the mood for football then, huh?

MYSTERY GUEST BOX: She stars in a popular series. She was born near the border between Indiana and Kentucky, and she reminds of a "frontier gal". Youngest of ten kids, she started singing at 2, dancing at 4, and could handle more than 50 songs before she reached the first grade. At 17 she cut a class to audition for her first professional job, and ended up as the lead in "Oklahoma!" She has guested on the shows of Jackie Gleason, Ed Sullivan and Dean Martin. She hosted the "Tonight" show and even has a Las Vegas nightclub act. Who is she? . . . Florence Henderson, star of "The Brady Bunch".

Actor Anthony Quinn

Anthony Quinn Says Life Is For Living

"There's a home-run philosophy in the U.S. that's unhealthy. You either have to hit a home run or strike out. There's no room for medium success and I don't want my kids to have any part of that! So here I am, back in Italy."

Anthony Quinn, 56, one of the last of the old guard film stars, was back "home" in Italy, starring as a deaf-mute in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Deaf Smith & Johnny Fears," his first western in eight years.

"I took my wife, Yolanda, and my three small sons to Hollywood to do a tv series, set them up in a big house in Beverly Hills, then never got a chance to see them. The grind! It was horrible. I'm used to it after all those years there, but for my family, it was confusing and a strain.

"It's wonderful to be back in Italy, especially for the children. They are Italian-American and at 18 they have to make up their own minds as to whether they want to be Americans or Italians. Right now they have dual citizenship. I think they should get a fair shake in terms of evaluating each country."

Quinn was also basking in the warm glow of the reviews of his hit autobiography, "The Original Sin," which had been published the week before in New York by Little, Brown and Co.

"One of the reasons I wrote my book was to dispel the terrible pressure we put on our children to be 'successful' in life," he said. "I think that's a bunch of malarky. I have eight children and I don't want to load them down with responsibilities that if they, by some chance do not succeed in life, that they have to be full of complexes. I mean, there's a whole life to LIVE. Living itself is enough."

"It is also marvelous to make a magnificent failure. It does one good. Zorba, my favorite screen character for instance, danced over his failure. The thing is to try and to have done.

"The home-run philosophy is what has driven America to chaos. Succeed, succeed, succeed! Drugs, riots... anything to avoid this pressure to succeed at all costs. Many years ago Thoreau said, 'We cannot impose upon our people the responsibility of taking over our failures.' Our generation failed them, they didn't fail us. If a man hits 300 average in baseball, he's considered a great player. Why in the hell do we have to impose upon our children a 1000 batting average?"

Quinn has returned to his old hillside farmhouse in Albano, about 15 miles from Rome. The 400-year old original house now boasts a swimming pool, sauna and library. At the same time, Quinn is content to make pictures in Europe in order to be with his family.

"My three small boys, as with the rest of the older children, have the feeling that they have to measure up to their father. I'm trying to show them that it is better to live and enjoy life. I believe like Erich Fromm, that there is a great art to living itself."

His boys, Francesco, 9, Daniele, 8, and Lorenzo, 6, suddenly descended upon Quinn and the hulking actor found himself rolling around on the ground with them as director Paolo Cavara and co-stars Franco Nero and Pamela Tiffin looked on patiently.

"One thing you can put down though," yelled Quinn, "is that I'm definitely not retiring. I'm totally and insanely in love with my children. Maybe I won't hit a home-run all the time. I foresee hitting a couple of triples, OK?"

"Meathead" Wanted To Play Baseball.

He wanted to be a cowboy or a baseball player, but ended up a "meathead."

As a youngster, Rob Reiner had many ambitions and, in his late teens, chose to be a writer and actor. He has achieved much fame in his chosen profession as Archie Bunker's "meathead" son-in-law on "All in the Family" (Saturdays, 8:00-8:30 p.m. PT) on the CBS Television Network.

But, in the back of his mind, one dream keeps popping up: the dream of being a baseball player.

Even though Reiner was a better than average ball player, circumstances deemed he wasn't professional material that didn't quell his love or interest in the game, however. Whenever he has a spare moment, Reiner can usually be found on or near a baseball field. He plays in a weekend softball league, participates in most celebrity baseball games and avidly watches the sport on television and from the stands.

Recently, Reiner could be seen floating on Cloud 9. Part of his dream became a reality. He worked out with one of his favorite professional baseball teams, the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I was a kid all over again," he said. "You can't imagine how excited and nervous I was in that Dodger uniform going through the pre-game exercises with guys I idolize."

"No matter how good you are in your amateur league, you feel pretty inadequate when you play pepper with the likes

"Faraday and Company," one of the four alternating 90-minute dramas that will make up the "NBC Wednesday Night Mystery Movie" series next season, stars Dan Dailey as a private detective who has escaped from a South American prison where he was held without trial for 25 years. One of his problems is adjusting to today's way of life, which includes a grown son he never knew existed.

Tonight Show Nears 20th Anniversary

1974 will be the twentieth anniversary for NBC's "Tonight" show. During those years, there have been three different permanent hosts, all from similar, comedy-broadcast backgrounds, yet all such different personalities that they produced totally different shows.

The first was Steve Allen. Although he has been called the pioneer in the nighttime talk-show field, this is not strictly true. Under Steve's hosting, "Tonight's" chief ingredient was not talking but performing, including that of such regulars as Don Knotts, Tom Poston and Louis Nye.

It was in 1957 that the show turned to talk — mostly from Jack Paar himself, but also from such Paar favorites as Hermione Gingold, Alexander King and Elsa Maxwell. The ratings were high, but so was controversy — so much so that NBC felt this was the key to Paar's success. Thus, when he quit in 1962, the network did not know where to turn. They finally settled on Johnny Carson only because he and Paar had similar network backgrounds — a series of flops on CBS.

But Carson did not want the job. He agreed to go along only if NBC dropped the idea of controversy. "I won't try to be controversial," he said. "If I do the show, I just want to be myself." NBC agreed, and these days "Tonight" is attracting the largest audiences in its history. Let's take a look at the show in 3D (Difference, Depth and Durability).

1. Difference: How does Johnny's show differ from other talk-fests? The answer becomes clearest when his show is compared with Paar's old version. Jack Paar never really handled his guests; they handled him (or were never invited back). But Johnny Carson, more than any other host, makes his guests feel at ease, draws them out, takes full advantage of what they have to offer. And his efforts (especially amazing in view of Carson's insistence that he never enjoys doing the show) relax not only the guests, but also the viewers at home.

2. Depth: The show has a long list of technical talent — writers, coordinators and directors. But most important of all these is producer Fred de Cordova, the man responsible for the astonishingly smooth flow of the program.

As for performing talent, Doc Severinsen supplies more than just excellent musical direction, and Ed McMahon is the perfect straight man. But the key is Johnny Carson, and his greatest talent for this program is his ability to listen — an incredible chore in the midst of so much responsibility and activity. Somehow he actually manages to hear what his guests are saying and to make the entire show respond to it. No one else in the field (with the possible exception of Mike Douglas) has this ability.

3. Durability: Did Steve Allen or Jack Paar ever do battle with programming similar to their own? No. Their only major competition was movies, while Johnny Carson has faced Joey Bishop, Merv Griffin, Dick Cavett, Steve Allen and, most recently, Jack Paar. Carson is undisputed king.

So how long will he continue hosting the show?

"Things seem to happen to me in a sort of logical sequence," said Johnny. "My last show kicked me into 'Tonight', and I suppose it will kick me into something else."

When did he say that? Ten years ago. Apparently, he still isn't getting a kick out of "Tonight".

Why The Greeks? On Camera Three

The amazing staying power of the classic Greek poets, whose relevance and insight have been "rediscovered" time and time again throughout history, is discussed in "Why The Greeks?", on "Camera Three" Sunday morning on the CBS Television Network.

This conversation between Peter Arnot, professor of drama at Tufts University, and Leo Aylen, poet-in-residence at Fairleigh Dickinson University, focusses on the timeless humanity of the ancient Greeks — Homer, Euripides, Sappho, Menander, Plato and others — that has drawn readers and scholars back to their poetry for over 2,000 years.

Peter Arnot is author of two dozen books on drama and the Greek classics, an active performer and director, and founder of a marionette theatre that presents classic plays. Author, translator and poet Leo Aylen holds a classic degree first class from Oxford, and his translations of Plato have been performed on British television.

James MacAndrew is the host for this "Camera Three" broadcast, which was produced and directed by John Musilli for WCBS-TV, CBS owned television station in New York.
