Panel found guilty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Finance Committee for the reelection of President Nixon was found guilty today on three counts of violating the campaign disclosure law because it did not report a $200,000 cash contribution from financier Robert L. Vesco.

U.S. District Judge George Hart Jr., imposed the maximum fine of $1,000 on each of the three counts after delivering the guilty verdict in the nonjury trial.

Hart said that the Vesco contribution was not reported and that no records were kept of it by the Finance Committee for the Re-election of the President as required by the Federal Campaign Act of 1971.

"This clearly was a contribution under the new act," Hart said, disagreeing with the Nixon re-election committee that because the money was pledged before the act went into effect on April 7, 1972, it did not have to be reported.

Hart said the contribution did have to be reported because the money was delivered three days after the new law went into effect on April 7, 1972.

The committee's attorney, Kenneth W. Parkinson, said no decision had been made on whether to appeal the case. Hart gave the committee 10 days to appeal.

Raft River power test set
BOISE — The Raft River area "probably has the highest potential for geothermal energy in the state," according to Dr. Roy Mink, geologist for the Idaho Bureau of Mines.

He said an agreement with the Atomic Energy Commission to build a small plant to test the geothermal energy potential of the Raft River area was signed a week ago in Washington, D. C.

Peron returns to Argentina
MAJROD (UPI) — Juan D. Peron ended 18 years of exile today, flying back to Argentina where there is little doubt he will run the country.

Peron, 77, and his third wife, Isabel, made the trip aboard the personal plane of Hector J. Campora, Peron's pick in Argentina's presidential elections in March. Campora wound up five days of meetings with Peron and Spanish officials.

Prices up 12% in '73

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new Agriculture Department survey predicts grocery prices this year will average about 12.5 per cent above 1972, the largest one-year increase in 26 years.

One department expert said Tuesday the gain would have been as much as 14 per cent if President Nixon had not put the current 60-day price freeze into effect.

It was the third time Agriculture Department economists had raised their estimate of this year's increase in food prices.

Last fall, economists predicted 1973 retail food prices would be up only 3.5 per cent from 1972. Early this year they raised the estimate to 6.5 per cent, and in May they hiked it again to 10 per cent.

The soaring prices, economists said, "reflected unprecedented domestic and foreign demand for commodities in the face of diminished stocks and uncertainty over the extent of increases in 1973 crop production."

The report said that if present demand and supply forecasts prove accurate, "little if any further price increases will be forthcoming after the 60-day ceiling period."

If weather conditions permit, the report said, farmers will harvest record crops this year with marketings up 5 per cent from 1972.

Official greeting

THE NEW MISS IDAHO, Sharon Davis, Jerome, was welcomed to the Magic Valley Tuesday afternoon. Twin Falls Mayor John Christoffersen (right) greeted Miss Davis — who entered the Miss Idaho competition as Miss Twin Falls — at the Perrine Bridge when she arrived. Following a procession through Twin Falls, she was honored at a reception at the Robertson Hotel. (Story, p. 13)

Controls on arms studied

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, nearing the halfway point in their summit talks, considered the delicate problem of arms control today in the tightly guarded confines of this mountaintop retreat.

Before the two leaders began their session, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai Patolichev signed the fifth agreement of the summit meeting in Washington—an income tax treaty reflecting joint hopes for increased trade.

Nixon and Brezhnev both flew by helicopter to Camp David Tuesday night. They were said to be focusing on the search for a pact limiting offensive nuclear weapons as a companion agreement to the far-reaching defensive arms accord they reached in Moscow a year ago.

Officials on both sides said Nixon's bargaining with the general secretary of the Soviet Communist party would not culminate in an arms control agreement this week, but could spur progress in negotiations that have been underway for months in Geneva.

The treaty signed by Shultz and Patolichev in Washington dealt with tax treatment of businesses established by one country in the other and taxing of business visitors, royalties and interest payments as well as reciprocal privileges for individuals.

The pact, similar to those the United States has with about 35 other nations to prevent double taxation and promote trade and investment, is subject to Senate ratification.

The Nixon-Brezhnev meeting, third in the series planned this week, also was expected to include broad international issues such as the cutback of Soviet and American forces in Europe and continuing tensions in Southeast Asia, the Middle East and other areas.

Security at Camp David, a U.S. naval intelligence center atop one of the peaks in the Catoctin mountain range in northwestern Maryland, was extremely tight.

Fewer Viet clashes reported
SAIGON (UPI) — Ground battles, shelling and terrorism dipped to the lowest level in nearly a month in South Vietnam today but three sharp clashes were reported in the Central Highlands, in the central coastal regions and in the Mekong Delta.

A rocket grenade was fired into a militia position near the big government infantry training school at Thu Duc, barely five miles northeast of Saigon, wounding three government troops at noon Tuesday.

W. Germany opens doors
BONN (UPI) — West Germany established formal postwar relations with East Germany and Czechoslovakia today in ceremonies half an hour apart. The first divides Germany permanently, the second wipes out the World War II stains of appeasement at Munich.

Dean clams up until Monday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former presidential counsel John W. Dean III has refused to provide any more information to the Senate Watergate committee before his formal appearances begin Monday.

That refusal has touched off heated, partisan controversy within the panel and its staff.

At one point Tuesday, according to a committee source, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., was exploring the possibility of seeking a contempt citation against Dean for his refusal to answer any further questions before Monday's hearing.

Dean's lawyers advised him to refrain from additional contacts with the committee or its staff. The lawyers were said to fear that disclosure of his testimony through news leaks and efforts by Republicans to elicit information from the former White House aide could be used to discredit him.

It was learned that the committee is subpoenaing Dean's personal bank account plus those of all other White House and campaign officials allegedly involved in the Watergate case.

Earlier testimony has shown that the committee to re-select the President received more than $1.7 million in contributions, much of which has never been fully accounted for.

"There was one hell of a lot of money floating around," one committee source said. "These guys either had income or they had gifts. If it was income, the recipients owe some taxes; if it was gifts, the donor is supposed to pay a tax on anything over $3,000."

"We're going to take a good hard look at this whole area in a later phase of the investigation," the source added.

Senator Baker abandoned his efforts to compel Dean to appear for staff interviews after committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., showed little enthusiasm for the move and it became apparent that a majority of the committee agreed with Ervin.

An aide to Baker, however, demurred that the senator, vice chairman of the committee, ever seriously proposed the contempt citation.

Convoy heads for Cambodia port
PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A convoy of more than 300 trucks left Phnom Penh early today to travel newly opened Highway 4 to the seaport of Kompung Som.

The convoy was the first to run the road since it was cut by heavy fighting to the southwest of Phnom Penh two days ago.

Rubber workers strike Firestone
CLEVELAND (UPI) — The United Rubber Workers Union called a strike early today against Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. after negotiations on a new contract broke down here.

A Firestone spokesman said the talks "were broken off by the union about 1 a.m. (MDT) today and a strike went into effect at 12-Eirestone-plant locations around the country."

Major roadblocks to a settlement were not divulged by the company, but its statement called union demands "unrealistic."

Rupert faces grant priority loss

By MARILYN ELLIOTT Times-News writer

RUPERT — A new listing by the Environmental Protection Agency may drop Rupert's priority from seventh to 40th in Idaho for sewage treatment grants.

James Voeller, Pocatello, engineering consultant, told the Rupert City Council about the impending change Tuesday night.

Presently Rupert is in about seventh place on state priority lists, Voeller said, but during a public meeting in Boise last week, the EPA rejected the state's priority list and set up another.

The EPA list takes effect Dec. 1, Voeller said. It will take an act of the legislature next year to change the state list.

The high rating on the state list came partly from the poor condition of the Snake River from Minidoka to Milner Dam, Voeller said, but now with the EPA listing, "It is not considered so dirty."

"EPA is taking over the state on water pollution," Voeller said.

Rupert has been attempting to get a sewage treatment grant for about two years.

If plans for an infiltration inflow analysis are approved by July 1, the EPA will immediately grant 90 per cent of the funds for the project, Voeller said, although it is doubtful the deadline will be reached.

After July 1, moneys won't be available and the city will have to foot the cost of the study, which would be up to $20,000, according to Voeller, and await reimbursement of a portion of the funds by the federal government next year.

The study must be completed before Rupert can get a federal grant for sewage treatment facilities.

Several councilmen protested the lack of cooperation of the EPA in working with cities on such grants. The council authorized Voeller to write a letter to the EPA protesting the change in priority and asking for an explanation.

The council authorized Mayor Wendell Johnson to write a letter to be sent to an EPA hearing in Twin Falls next week concerning sewage treatment requirements. To comply with the standards set for it by the 1976 deadline, Johnson said, the company would have to close down this year, adversely affecting the community.

The letter will ask that the deadline be extended so that Amalgamated can remain in operation.

A local improvement district for the Grandview area was approved after a public hearing brought only one protest.

Following the third reading, an off street parking ordinance was adopted unanimously. All new buildings and any others making additions in the future will be required to comply with the ordinance.

Bill boosts area port

TWIN FALLS — Plans for a regional airport in southern Idaho have been given a big boost.

President Nixon Tuesday signed a bill that will provide nearly 84 per cent federal funding of new airports in Idaho. The federal share had formerly been about 50 per cent.

According to Darrell Manning, Idaho aeronautical director, the new federal bill provides 75 per cent funding of airports, but the percentage was raised to 83.65 per cent in Idaho since most of the land is federally owned. He said the state will add as much as $25,000 per year or 50 per cent of the local share, whichever is highest, for airports.

The South Idaho Regional Airport Authority (SIRAA), comprised of Cassia, Minidoka, Jerome, Gooding and Lincoln counties, is currently planning a regional airport. SIRAA has contracted studies of potential airport sites. An area northeast of the Interstate 80-US 93 interchange in Jerome County has been picked as the preferred site.

The new federal participation "will make a difference in consideration of an airport on the north side of the river," Manning said. He said it would make the project "more feasible."

Twin Falls and Blaine counties have not joined SIRAA. Possible abandonment of Joslin Field in Twin Falls County and increased costs in building a new airport have been primary arguments against joining.

"Personally think the people (Twin Falls and Blaine County) should join," Manning said today. He said Joslin Field might be retained as a general aviation field if it is not picked as the site of the regional airport.

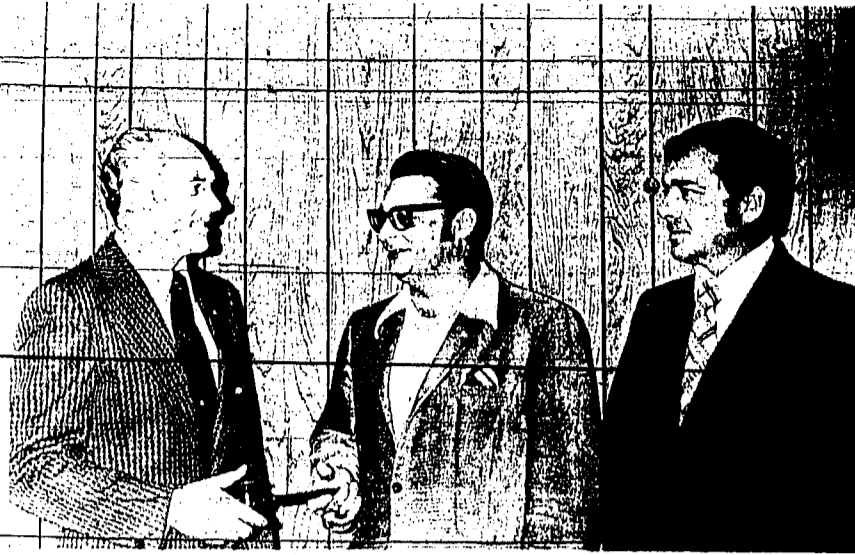

George Forscherler, Burley, SIRAA chairman, said the regional airport concept "may be more inviting" to Twin Falls and Blaine County residents "with increased federal participation. If the counties join SIRAA, the airport board "would have to sit down and talk with county and city officials," he said.

Joslin Field could be used as an interim regional airport until the new one is completed, according to Forscherler, and "will be maintained" by the authority as at least a general aviation airport.

Joslin Field could be maintained at a lesser cost to Twin Falls city and county residents under the airport authority, Forscherler said.

Senior Impact

We, the people of the United States, are growing older. According to a recent Census Bureau report:

— Today about 20.6 million Americans are 65 years of age and up, and the number is increasing by 300,000 to 400,000 a year.

— The number of people over 65 will rise sharply between the years 2010 and 2020 when the World War II "baby boom" becomes an "elderly boom."

— The proportion of people 65 to 69 is declining, while the proportion of those 75 and older is growing.

The time is coming, says one gerontologist, when more than half our population will be over 65, a fact which is going to have major impact on many of our institutions and customs.

Now the premium is on being young, notes Dr. Mary M. Sequin of Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, who is one of a growing number of persons with doctorates in the field of gerontology, the study of aging.

But when the population shifts begin to occur — caused by a combination of medical advances and a declining birth rate — the premium will be on being older, she predicts. "The focus of power and values will shift."

She foresees one major problem area in the economy, especially the job market, as technology eliminates jobs and we are forced to keep lowering the age of retirement to make room for new entrants.

One possible solution might be for people to work in five-year cycles. They would take a year or more off after each cycle, giving opportunities for more people to be employed.

Americans over 65 are the new "pioneers," says Dr. Sequin. Before, not many people lived to a ripe old age, and those few older people were incorporated in the general population without anything special needing to be done about their special needs or problems.

"Today we have a large number of people in this group for the first time. They are pioneering new roles — being retired, being great-grandparents."

CHICAGO — Besieged by two persistent young Republican prosecutors, the battered political machine of Mayor Richard J. Daley now faces yet another potential calamity: the prospect that Gov. Dan Walker will back a full slate of reform candidates in next year's Cook County (Chicago) Democratic primary.

Such an unprecedented move by the newly elected Democratic governor against the state's most powerful Democrat for 20 years would heighten the Daley machine's sense of being surrounded by bipartisan enemies. It has been hurt badly by investigations and indictments at the hands of those two aggressive Republicans: James Thompson, 37, U.S. attorney for northern Illinois, and Bernard Carey, 38, state's attorney for Cook County. For Walker now to make his own move against the organization would confirm the belief by Daley lieutenants that Walker is in league with the Republicans.

Although Walker's political operatives claim their current polls show Daley slipping, almost all politicians feel the 71-year-old mayor is still popular and probably unbeatable for a sixth term in 1975. His organization is another matter, however. There are signs of irreversible decline with far-reaching consequences for state and national politics.

A major contributor to that decline has been U.S. Atty. Thompson, probably the next Republican candidate for mayor. His high body count of indicted Democratic politicians has badly gummed up the machine. But, whereas Thompson supplies "the heavy bombers," smashing the machine, says one anti-Daley reformer, State Atty. Carey provides "the infantry" to mop up. Carey's poising of the courts and polling procedures substantially erodes the organization's control of the vote.

As a result, ward committeemen in the Daley organization worry about next year's county elections. Some are pressing for purges of incumbents, particularly scandal-plagued County Assessor P.J. Cullerton.

Without new faces as regular candidates, they fear the reformers could come close in the primary. But such demands are minimal to the Daley system. Moreover, reform Democrats confide they will back moderate Republicans in the general election if they lose the primary elections.

For the governor to join this assault is intolerable to old-line Democrats. Even though Walker won the nomination for governor on an anti-Daley platform, the regulars expected him to cooperate with the mayor once in office in order to court the Daley bloc in the state legislature. But Walker, uninterested in legislative programs, has nurtured his anti-machine posture.

Contrary to rumors that it produced a secret accord, a May 22 closed-door meeting here between the mayor and the governor was an exercise in non-communication.

Daley complained about Walker's patronage policy; Walker replied he has no interest whatever in patronage; Daley responded he ought to have a large interest in patronage.

The cold war in Springfield between Walker and Lt. Gov. Sen. Hartigan, 35, a bright comer in the Daley organization, further illuminates the governor's attitude. Hartigan is totally frozen out of the state administration. He cannot get appointments to see Walker's top aides, much less the governor himself.

When Hartigan asked Walker for meaningful duties, he was informed that would require his resignation as a ward committeeman in the Daley organization. Hartigan refused, contending a resignation would repudiate everything he and his father, a Daley stalwart, had always stood for in politics.

In return, Hartigan has seized every chance to criticize Walker. Although Hartigan is acting on his own, there is no doubt that the mayor could stop the young lieutenant governor if he chose. He does not so choose. "Daley doesn't dislike Walker," a Major Democratic leader told us. "He despises him."

Indeed, Daley is widely described as increasingly bitter angry at Walker, angry at the Republican prosecutors, angry at press criticism. Although his political genius survives in part and the awe he inspires here is genuine, some friends say he now grows testy as the day wears on, and has become intolerant of unpleasant advice.

But what most irritates Daley and his stalwarts is a combination of his Democratic foes with the Republican prosecutors.

Reform Democrat adherent William S. Singer, a key Walker backer in 1972 and the man who shoved Daley out of the Miami Beach convention, recently held a fund-raising tent party. Among the guests was that omnipresent Republican, big 6-foot-6 Jim Thompson, who joked that he and Singer should flip a coin to decide who runs against Daley in 1975. To Daley stalwarts, the quip symbolized the serious bipartisan assault on the nation's last great city machine.

FROM OUT OF THE MUD...?

Laird's Freeze

WASHINGTON The inside political story behind President Nixon's imposition of a 60-day freeze on consumer prices is the emergence of former Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird as Nixon's strong man and potential successor, and the decline of former Secretary of the Treasury John Connally.

Nixon's resident experts put together the freeze package, but its outline was the work of Melvin Laird, only recently named to the post of the President's number one all-around adviser. No one seems to know what happened to Connally's inflation cure, which he brought with him when he arrived at the White House as a "part-time" consultant.

Laird is not an economic expert, but he is something more important to the President's fortunes — a wise politician. He is a practical man who can face a fact of life even as he searches for the possible. Accordingly, Laird laid it on the line when Nixon asked him to lend his expertise to economic, national security, political and public relations problems.

The former Defense Chief told Nixon he'd take the assignment on one condition: that the President impose a price freeze. Nothing he Laird could do would matter, he told Nixon, unless strong action was taken against the nation's galloping inflation. He went further and declared that if the economy collapsed nothing Nixon had done or would do would save his Administration from disgrace.

Nixon agreed, and that was the balgame. It was a victory for Laird, the grass-roots politician, over the President's economic palace guard — Treasury Secretary George Shultz and members of the Council of Economic Advisers. The defeat was so bitter that Shultz at one point threatened to resign.

Laird persuaded the President to exempt raw agricultural produce as sold off the farm, although Nixon originally was prepared to impose a freeze across the board. At the same time, Laird successfully urged Nixon to seek authority from Congress to curtail exports, particularly of grains and other feeds and foods, where he determines that foreign demand is driving up prices.

For the President, this was a ticklish foreign relations matter, with Soviet Party leader Leonid Brezhnev scheduled to arrive in Washington in a few days. Brezhnev was sure to seek another deal similar to the huge Soviet wheat purchase of 1972, which contributed greatly to higher grain prices in the U.S. This time, Nixon was expected to tell the Soviet chief that consultation with Congress would be necessary before any new deal could be consummated.

Laird's strength with the President probably lies in his rejection of the doctrinaire approach he may not be an economist, but he knows what the folks back home are griping about. Thus, while he is

PAUL HARVEY

Dirty Politics

Sen. Charles Percy says in all his years of public life he has never seen any political chicanery to compare with Watergate.

Sen. Charles Percy of Chicago said that "Oh, come now."

What I am about to say is going to be construed as a defense of President Nixon. I can't help that.

I've criticized this Administration altogether as freely as I have praised it; nonetheless, any effort to keep Watergate in perspective is certain to be construed by some as an effort to justify wrongdoing.

My home-base city is Chicago. Election after election I've watched machine politicians play the game the way the city's electorate expects — till the voting machines; vote wins for four bits and dead people for free; lose enough ballot boxes to reverse a defeat — so that the pomposity and sanctimoniousness of some politicians in this present instance makes me sick.

Two wrongs won't make Watergate right. Ten wrongs or ten thousand wrongs won't. But a recitation of some recent history might remind the instant saints in our midst that in love, war and politics, some fight dirty.

As President, J.F.K. told a Chicago audience, "I rode into the White House on Mayor Daley's conditions," which indeed he did.

With the electoral votes of Illinois, Mr. Nixon would have been elected President decisively in 1960.

Yes, there was a postelection fuss over "ballot boxes dumped into Lake Michigan," basically a free market man, he can adjust to circumstances.

There is now talk that Laird will join the race for the 1976 Republican Presidential nomination. "Laird sounds plausible. This hearty, bald-headed man who looks like a machine Democrat from Boston, was a Republican power in the House, in which he represented his Wisconsin district from 1953 to 1969. He will be only 51 next September. He has important connections, nationwide among the GOP's hierarchy; he could be the candidate of the regulars, who usually do the nominating."

A Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a burn on one foot which is keeping me in constant pain. I don't want to go to a hospital. Can this be removed in the doctor's office, and would it be safe? I am 62 and in good health. Mrs. E. O.

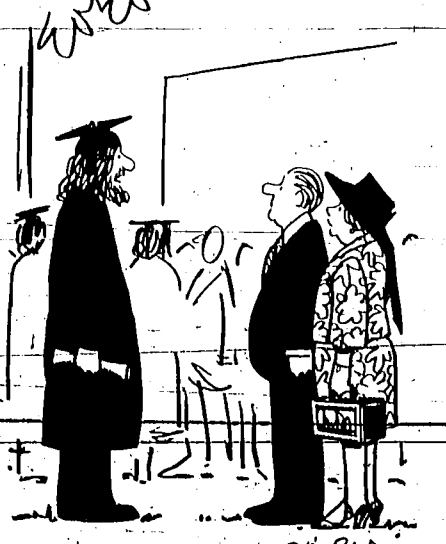

I've been informed that sometimes a burn can be treated successfully as an office procedure, but in general it is a too complicated an undertaking for that and is best done in a hospital.

Best answer I can offer you is to consult either a podiatrist or orthopedic surgeon, and if he says hospitalization is necessary, take his word for it. He's the one who can judge

Game shockin' gate of water . . . fuzz began to fly

ESSAY: GUNGA DEAN
By WILLIAM SAFIRE
(c) New York Times News Service

You may talk? Hunt and Liddy
When you're feeling gay and giddy
And you think you have the White House in your sights,
But when your side is achin'
To prove Nixon said "go break in"
You need an aide who sat there at the heights.
Now in D. C.'s sunny clime
Where I used to spend my time
A-servin' of the public, sight unseen,
Of all the Crewcut crew
The straightest luce I knew
Was the man in charge of ethics, Gunga Dean.
He was "Dean, Dean, Dean,"

"You smoothie of a lawyer, keep y' clean.
"With your ardor never dampened
"We'll see reettitude is rampant"
"For no scandal can deflect us, Gunga Dean."
Nixon entered the campaign
And considered it insane
To concern himself with breakin' any rules,
For watching the committee
And its forty-million kitty
Was his counselor from all the finest schools.
But while leading lambs to slaughter
Came the shockin' gate o' water
And all the district fuzz began to fly.
To give him truh reports
Of any White House torts
Nixon wrongly chose an implicated guy.
It was "Dean, Dean, Dean,"

"I want the deepest probe you're ever seen.
"Don't blow anybody's cover
"But try and soon discover
"If creep did anything illegal, Gunga Dean."
For six long months Dean-battled (Nobody cought had fatted)
And kept sending word he had the problem solved.
When the Oval office queried
Dean would smile, and with eyes beared,
Say: "No one in the White House was involved."
Then McCord untied his knot
And the story went to pot.
And the hunter was the hunted suddenly
Dean ran out hell-for-leather
Said "We were in it altogether —And nobody makes a scapegoat out of me.

Then it was "Dean, Dean, Dean,
"For your testimony we are very keen.
"Point the finger, showing who's sleazy,
"And we'll see the judge goes easy,
"Here's your chance to cop a plea, Gunga
Commentary
Dean."
"Thanks but I'll not heed ya,
"I've got contacts in the media
"Who'll print my leaks until the price has risen.
"I'll use them for my ends."
"According to Dean's friends,
"For the likes of me does not belong in prison."

He would sing 'out any tune
To hear Strica say "Immune"
("No less than forty times I've made the scene.")
Justice balked, but senate crumbled,
And Ervin's saving arms he tumbled.
And now they cannot jail you, Gunga Dean,
So it's Dean, Dean, Dean,
Sneer your leader, save your skin and vent your spleen.
Though the fifth amendment aids you,
By the TV that parades you—
You will never drag down Nixon, Gunga Dean.
Yes, it's Dean, Dean, Dean, Star of everybody's television screen
You will claim that you played
But the truth is you betrayed
A far better man than you are, Gunga Dean.

New secretary nominee has even tempered way

By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN
(c) Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — James R. Schlesinger, the newly nominated defense secretary, has an even-tempered way of looking at such major problems as the Soviet threat, the size of the defense budget, and the question of resumed bombing in Southeast Asia.

The answers he gave at his confirmation hearing before the Senate Armed Services Committee Monday did not go all the way toward pleasing either the hawks or the doves.

But he apparently satisfied the committee members, that he had the knowledge and talent to run the Pentagon for there was no request for an extension of the hearing.

He has the great asset of being untainted by the Watergate scandal and, while he may encounter some criticism when his nomination comes up for a vote in the Senate, he seems to be headed for an easy confirmation.

The greatest criticism came in the hearing from Senator Stuart Symington, D-Mo. acting chairman, after Schlesinger gave the administration line of the continued bombing of Cambodia. He said its objective was to achieve a cease-fire in Cambodia and that he could see no "militarily or politically suitable alternatives" to it at the present time.

He tempered this assertion, however, by quickly assuring Symington that if Congress cuts off all funds for the bombing, he will obey the law and discontinue the operation.

"There is no question but that Congress can terminate the authority of the administration to take action in Southeast Asia," he said.

Analysis

He irritated Symington by saying that he could see circumstances under which he would advise the President to resume bombing of North and South Vietnam.

"It's plain this has been an effective way of carrying a message to Hanoi," he said. "I trust there will not be circumstances requiring it again. But I cannot exclude the possibility."

But he said it was "almost impossible to envisage circumstances under which U.S. troops would be reintroduced to the Indochina theater.

When Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. D-Va., asked him if he favored parity in missiles in any future agreement with the Russians, he gave a reply in sharp contrast to that of Deputy Defense Sec. William P. Clements.

He said that there must be "an over-all parity of the contrasting defensive systems, taking into consideration their different elements."

But whether any particular element of the U. S. must be balanced with that of the Soviet Union is a question in which I would prefer to await judgment."

He told Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.) that he thought the risks that came out of the SALT agreement with the Russians being allowed more land-based missiles than the United States were "quite low" during the five-year period covered by the agreement. This was because of the U.S. superiority in technology.

What I would be concerned with is the acquisition by the Soviets of technology presently available to the U.S.," he said. If they married that to their present throw weight advantage, "I can see discrepancies which would be the subject of considerable concern to me."

He said he thought "we should look for some kind of rough equivalency in the future."

As for the size of the defense budget, he said it would have to go up "just to stay even" because of growing manpower costs created by the move to an all-volunteer army.

He did not, however, say as Clements had that he was looking for ways to spend more money to counter the Soviet threat. Instead, he said that as the U.S. gets a better feeling of Soviet intent in the SALT II talks now going on, and if there seems to be reduced pressure from the Soviets, the accelerated pace under which the United States is building the expensive new trident missile-firing submarine "could be relaxed somewhat."

Surrounded

WINSTON, Ore. (UPI) — "We really saw the tigers," said Mrs. Ken Pritchett after her car was safely towed out of the World Wildlife Safari.

Four Bengal tigers surrounded her car and trapped its five occupants inside after a short in the wiring started an engine fire. The curious cats ambled around the vehicle while it smoldered.

Park crews finally moved in with fire extinguishers to put out the blaze, then pulled the vehicle to safety while armed rangers kept watch.

China watches meet nervously

BY CHARLES R. SMITH
UPI Senior Editor

HONG KONG (UPI) — China is keeping a nervous watch on talks between President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev even though the Peking government has had nothing to say so far about the summit talks in Washington.

Similarly, nothing has been mentioned yet in the Chinese press or radio broadcasts heard in Hong Kong about the summit. But this does not obscure Peking's deep concern about the meeting and what it might mean for the future.

Chinese leaders have expressed such fears explicitly in public; they have done so in talks with many high-level visitors to Peking.

The Chinese attitude in these private talks was typified in remarks made by Premier Chou En-lai and Chi Pen-fei, China's Foreign Minister, to British Foreign Secretary Alec Douglas-Home. Essentially, the Chinese said that detente was desirable but only if it was achieved on the "basis of strength."

This theme has been repeated many times since to other visitors.

Editorials and articles published in the Chinese Communist party newspaper and other journals have hammered away at one key point when talking about an East-West accommodation in Europe — that American and Western European leaders should not be taken in by Soviet sweet talk.

Comment

pressed this concern, particularly the military ramifications, to Western visitors.

The Chinese, who once denounced the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and U.S. military presence in Europe, now want a strong NATO and a continued American military presence on the continent.

The Chinese strategic concept is simple: any Soviet-American detente that might lead to a significant U.S. military cut-back in Europe is dangerous to China. It would enable the Soviet Union to concentrate its attention militarily on the Asian front.

Gromyko assists

By DON BACON
(c) 1973, Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — The dark, square-shouldered man seen frequently at the side of Soviet Party Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev is Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, who has become known, even in the Soviet Union, as "Brezhnev's Kissinger."

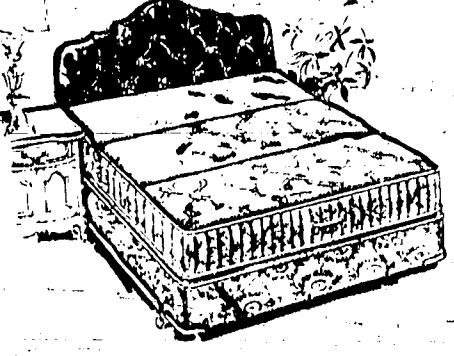

Gromyko's close acquaintance is familiar to many Americans whose memories go back to the early post World War II years, when Gromyko was Russia's representative to the United Nations. It was the unending Gromyko who made the word "net" famous in this country as he vetoed in a two-year period no fewer than 25 U. N. Security Council resolutions.

Today the 64-year-old Russian diplomat keeps a lower profile, but he remains powerful in Soviet foreign affairs and exercises in his dealings with Brezhnev an influence on policy not unlike that which Dr. Henry A. Kissinger enjoys with President Nixon.

Senate approves austere space budget for 1974

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The most austere space budget since 1962, $3 billion, has been approved by the Senate.

Senate members voted 90-5 for the program Tuesday, turning down an attempt by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., to cut the figure another $21 million.

The $3 billion authorization, which is for the 1974 fiscal year, was $9 million more than the administration requested and $27 million less than the House approved. The two versions will have to be reconciled in a conference committee.

The Senate was warned to debate the tight budget meant there would have to be tighter funding in future years to maintain a balanced program, Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, chairman of the Senate Space Committee, said any further cuts would lead to cancellation or deferring indefinitely of major projects.

Included in the authorization are $233 million for the Skylab program, $200 million for the controversial space shuttle program, and $90 million for a joint experimental flight of U.S. and Soviet space ships.

Contrary to past years there was no attempt to cut off the space shuttle funds.

Fulbright's amendment would have reduced the budget by $121 million, allowing space officials to decide where the cuts should be made. It was defeated 69-27.

Fulbright explained he was compelled to offer his amendment because of the state of the economy and criticism from the White House that Congress was "being irresponsible" with its spending bills.

"I just don't believe this program has a high priority," Fulbright said. "It should be reduced because of the problems facing us."

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., disputed Fulbright. Weicker said the space program has no constituency and "it is very easy to demagogue against."

Revenue sharing report released

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — City, county and state governments, which have seen the federal money spigot turned off before, are pouring revenue sharing funds into buildings, sewers, fire trucks and other projects.

One reason is their concern over the future of the program, according to the first government-sponsored study of general revenue sharing since the program began last October.

The report, issued Tuesday at the 81st Conference of U.S. Mayors, indicated 72 per cent of the 770 jurisdictions surveyed planned to use at least some of the $6.2 billion distributed thus far for construction, improvements and much-needed purchases.

The study covered tiny Alaskan villages as well as giant central cities. It was released by Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans and Director Graham W. Watt of the Office of Revenue Sharing.

Landrieu said a number of cities were "stunned" by funds, and had no choice but to plow the money into long-delayed improvement projects.

But others were careful of using the money for service projects because of their recurring nature and the possibility they might not receive funds at the same level in future years. Another apparent motive, Landrieu said, was concern about inflation that projects not bought and paid for today would cost more in the future.

Watt said the rush to construct roads, buildings, sewage lines or buy various kinds of equipment was due at least in part to backlogs built up by a simple lack of money.

He also noted there were fewer federal restrictions on using money for equipment or building projects than there were on social services, such as health care.

A number of the 38,000 recipients plan to use the funds to reduce local taxes or shave off tax hikes. Other uses that ranked high in local plans included transportation, environmental protection, and police and fire services, Watt said.

The 400 mayors and municipal officials attending the three-day conference, which concludes today, gave a standing ovation Tuesday to longshoreman philosopher Eric Hoffer, who denounced the "silence of the majority of Americans" about violence.

"If you park your car for 24 hours and if you take your dog into Golden Gate Park without a leash, the police will be on your neck right away," the 72-year-old author said. "But if you are murdered or murdered or robbed, there is nobody

N. Viets build bases in south

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pentagon officials report the North Vietnamese are building five air bases in Communist-held areas of South Vietnam which could be used for military operations.

The Communists, Pentagon officials said, are justifying the bases as civilian airstrips but apparently are equipping them for military transport flights and — potentially — jet fighter operations.

So far, the bases have raised little concern in Washington. U.S. officials see them more as a Communist attempt to demonstrate ownership of a "going, organized administered area" in preparation for setting up a provisional government than as a direct military threat.

American officials also discount reports received from the field Tuesday that a North Vietnamese MIG19 made a reconnaissance over the South Vietnamese city of Quang Tri and that two other MIG flights have crossed government-held territory since the Jan. 27 cease-fire.

The Pentagon said it could not confirm these reports. And one knowledgeable source said the South Vietnamese apparently "misidentified one of our planes, or one of theirs" at Quang Tri.

Military sources in South Vietnam have reported at least nine Communist airfields under construction in South Vietnam since the cease-fire, with six of them ready for use. This is a higher number than Pentagon officials acknowledge.

Chief Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said Tuesday there were five Communist air bases. These were identified as Khe Sanh, Ca Lu and Dong Ha, all within about 20 miles of the former demarcation line between North and South Vietnam. Dak To, about 25 miles from Kontum City, and Kham Duc, about 75 miles north of Kontum City.

The field at Khe Sanh, formerly a U.S. Marine base, is nearly finished with barracks and fuel storage areas, and the others are less complete, sources said. All five are former U.S. air strips that were badly damaged or destroyed in heavy fighting a year ago.

"They could probably use some of them now if they had to," one source said.

FBI nominee C. Kelley testifies before Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Clarence M. Kelley believes the FBI today suffers from lack of leadership and lack of self confidence, but he hopes to correct those conditions if he is confirmed as the agency's new director.

Kelley expressed his views on the subject Tuesday when he appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee which opened consideration of his nomination by President Nixon as the permanent successor to the late J. Edgar Hoover. The committee planned to question him again today.

"One thing that disturbs me about the FBI at this point is that they are suffering from a lack of leadership and they are feeling a lack of self confidence," Kelley said. "If he can restore the confidence and give the agency leadership, I will feel I have done my job," Kelley added.

It appeared that Kelley, 61, the Kansas City, Mo., police chief who served 21 years in the FBI's ranks, would win confirmation and quickly.

"We're going to approve him," Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., a committee member, said, "but we want to ask him some questions first."

The esteem of the FBI was shaken badly when Nixon's first choice for the director's post, I. Patrick Gray III, was accused of complicity in the coverup of the Watergate affair. Gray withdrew his name.

Kelley gave his views on a variety of issues under five hours of questioning Tuesday, but he was the most asked when Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., asked him if the FBI could be a constructive force to alleviate racial misunderstandings.

"I don't know whether they would play more of a role," Kelley replied, "but the policy by good example and good conduct in dealing with blacks and giving the black community the same high caliber service that they give to the white community can do a good deal to alleviate trouble."

Kelley appeared to be heading off possible criticism of his job as police chief of Kansas City, where 100 of 1,300 policemen are black.

"One of my major concerns has been to recruit black officers," he said. "There has been no discrimination shown on assignments and I'd like to think there is no discrimination whatsoever."

A black Jackson County, Mo., Circuit Court clerk Bruce Watkins, told the committee he wanted to testify against Kelley's nomination because of his record in race relations, but a committee spokesman said he hadn't appeared.

Peron greeted by fans

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Thousands of jubilant Argentines streamed into Buenos Aires today for a giant rally welcoming home former President Juan D. Peron, returning after nearly 18 years in exile to try to reunite his country.

Peronist organizers predicted two million persons would turn out to greet the 72-year-old Peron when his chartered Argentine jetliner arrived from Madrid at Ezeiza International Airport at 2:40 p.m. EDT.

The crowd spending the night at the rally site near the airport was relatively small, however. Reporters estimated between 50,000 and 100,000 persons camped out for the occasion.

The new government of Hector J. Campora, Peron's hand-picked candidate who swept the presidential elections last March on a Campora-in-Government,

"Peron in Power" platform, was going all out to make the rally the biggest such event in Argentina's history.

Free trains from all over the country were bringing throngs of Peronists to the capital. The day was a federal holiday, Flag Day, and the country's labor unions, the backbone of Peron's support, called a 48-hour general strike to allow workers to attend the rally.

In downtown Buenos Aires, the streets were bedecked with "Welcome, General Peron" flags and posters heralding the arrival of the so-called "first worker" of Argentina, toppled by a military coup in 1955 after 18 years in office.

Despite the festive atmosphere, Peron was coming back to a nation torn by grave internal strife.

Thirty-six hours before his scheduled return, two foreign businessmen were kidnaped. American John B. Thompson, managing director of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. in Argentina, and German Juan Kurtz, financial director of a stocking company. They were the latest in a series of more than 60 kidnappings that have swept Argentina since the beginning of the year, most of them believed to be the work of leftist guerrillas.

Peronist and Marxist-Leninist guerrillas, asked by Campora to halt their terrorist activities and declare a truce, said in communiqués, and posters Monday and Tuesday they would persist in their fight for a socialist Argentina. But they expressed support for Campora.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States Roman Catholic population is up 69,437 ever last year. But the number of Catholic educational institutions and students have both declined during the year.

This is reported by the Official Catholic Directory for 1973 (Macmillan). There are 11,258 separate Catholic educational institutions in the U.S., 155 fewer than last year. The total Catholic population in the U.S. is 40,460,427.

Pass said guilty

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — Albert Pass, the highest United Mine Workers official yet charged in the case, was convicted of first degree murder Tuesday in the killings of union rebel Joseph A. Yablonski, 45, and his family. The prosecution tried to make "at least one more arrest."

"We do not intend to stop with this conviction," said special prosecutor Richard Sprague. "It was obvious from the trial testimony someone in Washington gave the green light to Pass."

Pass, 54, Middleboro, Ky., faces life imprisonment on three murder counts in the Dec. 31, 1969, shooting deaths of Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

Sprague previously charged that former UMW President W.A. "Tony" Boyle initiated a plot to murder Yablonski, who was killed three weeks after losing to Boyle in a union election. Sprague declined to name further suspects in a post-trial news conference Tuesday.

"Whatever action we take will speak for itself," he said.

Pass was accused of concealing a $20,000 union organizing fund from Boyle into a murder fund by having "money kicked back" from Tennessee 30 UMW local union members in District 19, of which he had been financial secretary. He also represented the district on the UMW International Executive Board.

The conviction was delivered by a jury of seven men and five women after five hours of deliberation. The trial lasted 13 days, including two hours of defense testimony.

Pass, a stocky, balding man, stared with his head held high as each of the panel jurors said "guilty of murder in the first degree." As he was led from the nearly-empty courtroom he waved to several family members, including his wife and son.

"We haven't given up," Mrs. Beulah Mae Pass said. "We know he isn't guilty."

Defense attorney Harold Goldman said he would appeal the verdict by Friday.

Three other men, including former field organizer William J. Pfister, have been convicted of first degree murder in the case. A woman and two men, one of them a former UMW local president, have confessed. None has been sentenced on state charges.

Riot police battle Allende's opponents

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Riot police battled thousands of President Salvador Allende's opponents in the streets Tuesday night at the end of a demonstration demanding settlement of a strike at the world's largest underground copper mine.

Police hurled tear gas at riot-throwing demonstrators in a 45-minute melee along Bernardo O'Higgins Avenue, the capital's main street.

"At the height of the fighting, troops armed with sub-machine guns and wearing gas masks ran onto the street to guard the entrance to the Defense Ministry, which fronts on O'Higgins Avenue.

The violence erupted as thousands were leaving a rally sponsored by the opposition Christian Democrat party four blocks, from the Presidential Palace. They were protesting the way Allende's Socialist regime has handled the walkout at the El Teniente copper mine, now 62 days old.

Allende was presiding at a National Security Council meeting in the palace when the rally began. Government sources said the miners' strike was among the topics on the agenda but did not say if he was aware of the demonstration.

Negotiations to end the strike broke down over the weekend. The government has insisted the walkout was politically motivated but union leaders say it was "strictly laboral."

The walkout of El Teniente, the biggest underground copper mine in the world whose operation is crucial to the Chilean economy, has created a rift between the country's white and blue collar workers.

Wild dog pack attacks 3 boys

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — A pack of 15 wild dogs attacked three boys Tuesday night biting one of them 200 times.

The attack took place in a residential area south of town.

Two of the three youths — Bobby Hull, 6, and Jack Britton, 10 — were hospitalized in serious condition. Britton, bitten 200 times, required surgery.

Albany County Sheriff Harold Clay said there was no apparent reason for the attack. Area residents have complained recently a pack of wild dogs was harassing livestock.

The owner of the animals, Mayvelle Easterline, and several other adults were also bitten when they went to the aid of the three boys.

Clay said he would attempt to round up the dogs Wednesday morning and have them tested for rabies. "They are in truth wild," the sheriff said.

LA sewage dumped in ocean

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An underground sewage pipe burst Tuesday and flushed millions of gallons of raw sewage into the Los Angeles Harbor. Health authorities today banned swimmers, water skiers and scuba divers.

The City Sanitation Bureau said it could take several days to a week to halt the flow of sewage, running at 3 to 5 million gallons a day, but it could be weeks before the harbor is safe for water sports.

Tons of chlorine was rushed to the harbor to neutralize the bacteria count. The sewer pipe break occurred at 3 a.m. Tuesday, and within 12 hours the city had dumped 1,500 pounds of chlorine into the harbor enough for 3,000 home swimming pools.

The county health department prohibited all water contact sports in the harbor because of the danger of disease from the vast quantities of bacteria present in the sewage. The county board of supervisors ratified the quarantine in an emergency meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The quarantine affects Cabrillo Beach, one of the city's biggest, which draws an average of 7,500 bathers on summer weekdays and up to 14,500 a day on weekends.

Foreign horsemeat 'slipped' into US

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Foreign meat and poultry products, including horsemeat, are being slipped into the United States without inspection by government meat inspectors, according to Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont. Melcher, the only veterinarian in Congress, said Monday inspectors found meat and poultry products from the peoples republic of China — which is ineligible to ship meat to the United States — also is entering the country through New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Chicago, and Boston.

The unsuspected horsemeat, he said, comes mostly from Mexico and Canada. The Montana Democrat based his charges on a report by Inspector General Nathaniel E. Kossack of the US Department of Agriculture which the congressman placed into the Congressional record. Melcher said the report, which blames U.S. customs inspectors for the entry of inspected meat, was intended for internal USDA use only but that he had received a copy from "a concerned person with access to it." The congressman said the report also showed that sanitary conditions at 20 of 24 domestic meat and poultry packing plants sampled by USDA investigators had been found "unacceptable." The official report singled out Norfolk, Va., as the port with the most effective inspection of imported meat. The report, according to the report, had been that Lloyds of London now charges higher rates for insurance against rejection of cargo at Norfolk than at other ports.

This, according to the report, had resulted in a reduced volume at Norfolk and pressure on inspectors to ease off on vigorous enforcement of regulations.

The Inspector General's report said horsemeat was being admitted mostly from Mexico and Canada without inspection. It said customs inspectors referred only edible horsemeat to USDA meat inspectors.

Inspected horsemeat is supposed to be dyed or otherwise changed to make sure it cannot be sold for human consumption, the report said, but USDA had not provided customs officials with guidelines to assure it was not sold as food for humans. Melcher said the report was especially discouraging because it indicated that weaknesses pointed out earlier had not been corrected. Los Angeles is singled out as still having inadequate conditions, although they previously had been identified by a review team as having questionable inspection, Melcher said. "Seattle's port of entry inspection is mentioned as having been questionable, but no follow-up inspection, was done to see if it had improved."

In addition to such weaknesses, Melcher said the report showed that the morale of inspectors was "very low."

Hazelton girl wins farm title

SALMON — Deanne Scott, Hazelton, will reign as junior "Hereford" queen during the coming year. She was chosen at the annual field day of the Idaho Junior Hereford Association and succeeds Chris Chadwick, Twin Falls.

Jodie Breeding, 11, Murtaugh, won first place junior division judging honors in the field day contest.

The junior association activities, which drew 230 youths and adults to the Bill Clark Herd Ranch June 15, were judged by Charles Deschmaeker, Boyd, Mont., Hereford rancher.

TWO COMBINES take to the fields near Haven, Kan., for the wheat harvest. Despite the hot weather recently, the wheat showed 17 per cent moisture content, which is above the preferred 12 per cent. (UPI)

Sheepish study

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A University of Nevada-Reno researcher is living with a band of sheep to determine if stockmen's claims of losses to coyotes and other predators are justified.

"Eat lamb, 10,000 coyotes can't be wrong," has become a popular bumper sticker to sheep country since the government banned the use of poisons for predator control on federal lands. Kent McAdoo, a graduate student, is spending a year with the Elko County flock of Jess Goltschachen. He checks the herd each day at sunrise and in the evening for sheep losses.

If the sheep were killed by predators, he attempts to determine which type.

Butz takes OPC post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has been named to the government's Oil Policy Committee (OPC) and promises to make sure farmers get the fuel they need despite the gas shortage. # Emergency funds freed

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has released $12,000 from his emergency fund to help Idaho's court system meet its bills this fiscal year. Administrative assistant William J. Murphy said Tuesday. Murphy said the judiciary asked for that amount last Friday after cutting back on a number of expenditures in order to make ends meet between now and the start of the new fiscal year, July 1. At its last session, the legislature gave the judiciary a $16,500 supplemental appropriation to cover expenses for the rest of the fiscal year. The judiciary asked for an additional $40,000 but the legislature turned it down. Since then Chief Justice Charles R. Donaldson of the Supreme Court has met with Andrus in an effort to obtain emergency funds to offset a growing crisis in the court system. Donaldson said Tuesday the courts were able to cope with all but $12,000 of the need for additional money by cutting back on personnel — especially by not replacing those who resigned. He said the courts also cut out some seminars and cracked down on travel in an effort to balance the books as required in this fiscal year. Murphy said that as of May 31 there was approximately $270,000 in the governor's emergency fund. Beside the $12,000 released to the courts, he said, Andrus has committed $11,000 to the Agriculture Department for grasshopper control. He said the paper work on this, however has not yet been completed.

Protests wages

WHAT HE considers unfair wages prompted Thomas J. Hotchkiss, 10, to picket at a construction site in St. Louis. The young picketer said he received $2.05 for eight, eight-hour days of labor. A foreman at the site said he had never hired the boy and said he had to run him off the site a number of times. (UPI)

Budget reduced

BOISE (UPI) — Officials in the Department of Environmental and Community Services said Tuesday that preliminary budget figures for the 1973-74 fiscal year show the department will be able to reduce its budget by $1 million as requested by the 1973 legislature. Dr. James A. Bax, administrator of the department, said the legislature budgeted the newly merged department $24.8 million in state funds which was $1 million less than the combined budgets of the old health and welfare agencies. The legislature authorized the merger of the health and welfare departments during the last session into the Department of Environmental and Community Services. Bax said the legislature

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — Fourth District Judge Alfred C. Hagan continued Tuesday until next Monday morning trial of a petition recall case against State Rep. Patricia L. McDermott, D-Pocatello. Despite objections from the attorney for plaintiff Paula B. West, Pocatello, Stanley Crow of Boise, Judge Hagan said he wanted time to read answers and briefs filed in the matter to date. Mrs. West is seeking a writ of mandamus to force Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa to accept disputed recall petitions against Miss McDermott and start the recall machinery against her. Cenarrusa, acting on advice from the attorney general, rejected the petitions on grounds they did not contain the name of the Pocatello post office — as required by law — after the signature of 2,230 of the petitioners. Since the action was filed against Cenarrusa Mrs. West also has submitted an affidavit claiming $202 in damages for expenses she incurred in airplane travel, lodging and food. She also has asked for attorney's fees. While action in the court case is pending the petitioners have begun a new petition drive against Miss McDermott and the initial petition is awaiting approval as to form from Cenarrusa and Attorney General W. Anthony Park. Judge Hagan, before continuing the case for trial, admitted Miss McDermott as a party defendant to the action — again over the objection of plaintiffs' attorney. But he took under advisement the question of whether four other residents of Miss McDermott's legislative district — Catherine Patricia Jones, Corwin E. Groom, Margaret E. Cobley and Dennis W. Berg — should be admitted as party defendants. Crow objected on ground they had not signed the petitions against Miss McDermott. In a written answer to the initial motion by Mrs. West Cenarrusa answered through Park that her application does not state a claim upon which relief can be granted. He denied that any grounds in fact or in law exist for issuance of a writ against him. In addition, Cenarrusa said he complied with all requirements of the recall movement as they appear in the law and said the recall action "failed because of the negligent inattention of plaintiff and others who acted with her as signatories on the recall petitions." Miss McDermott, in a written answer as an intervening defendant, asked dismissal on grounds the secretary of state is a quasi-judicial and not merely a ministerial officer. Therefore, she said, mandamus is not a proper action against him. She further said the petitions were not sufficient legally, that 2,230 of the signatures were defective legally and stricken by the secretary of state and those filed later had been altered.

Conflict of interest probe asked by Dr. Bax

BOISE (UPI) — Environmental and Community Services Administrator Dr. James A. Bax has asked the Idaho attorney general to investigate possible conflicts of interest involving DECS employees, it was learned Tuesday. Robert Bushnell, DECS legal counsel, said the agency will ask for prosecution if a fact-finding investigation by the attorney general's criminal division substantiates the claims. The action was followed by a June 6 memo signed by Bax to employees, which said some employees may be in conflict with their jobs and outside interests. "It has recently come to my attention that some employees of DECS may be involved on the boards of private, non-profit organizations that are selling services to DECS," Bax said in the memorandum. "The memo said if this is true this is a definitive situation involving conflict of interest and should immediately cease."

Bushnell said at least three cases of conflicts are involved in the information sent to the attorney general. He said he wanted to be especially careful not to implicate any employee before the investigation is completed and the facts are substantiated. Bax's memo also said that no DECS employee should be on the boards or groups which might submit proposals to "this agency for funding that could be reviewed or influenced by the same employee." Bushnell refused to give any details of the conflicts, saying he in no way wants to influence the case if it were to go to court. Another memo dated June 13 and signed by Dr. John D. Gambaretti, deputy administrator of the department's state support, warned employees again about conflicts and pointed out that Bax "feels strongly about this matter and that violation of the intent of this memo would be considered as a serious matter."

Gambaretti said if any employee has a conflict he should advise his immediate boss and the information should then come to Gambaretti's office. Bushnell said the investigation by the attorney general stemmed from a department study of employees and what they were doing. He said the memos were a direct result of the department study. He said the attorney general's office was called in when questions arose concerning the activities of some employees. When Democrat Calvin L. Hamilton took the oath of office on New Year's Day, 1973, he became the first governor in Utah's history to begin a third term.

Casto rejects DECS position

BOISE (UPI) — A professor of psychology at Utah State University, who was earlier appointed a deputy administrator, for the Department of Environmental and Community Services, will not take the job. Dr. Glen Casto, 46, was appointed May 9 as deputy administrator of DECS' Region Six headquartered in Pocatello. DECS' administrator Dr. James A. Bax said Tuesday the department and Casto could not reach an agreement on a salary.

Bax said other applications for the position are presently being reviewed and six of the seven regional deputy administrator positions in the state are filled. The annual salary for the deputies is $20,500. Region Six serves Barnock, Butte, Bingham, Power, Caribou, Oneida, Franklin and Bear Lake counties. The administrator is responsible for programs in public health, social service, child development, mental health and youth rehabilitation.

Receives $100 bill

BOISE (UPI) — Ellen Mae Shannon, the operator of a small eating facility in the statehouse who has undergone surgery twice in the last 12 weeks, received a $100 bill Tuesday from state employees and others. Fred Blough, who has been operating the facility since her illness, said the money was collected from state employees and others who use the engulf corner snack bar on the ground floor of the statehouse.

Nixon signs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Tuesday signed legislation authorized by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, to prohibit the federal government or courts from taking action against hospitals, physicians or nurses who refuse to participate in abortions on the basis of religion. The legislation was sent to the president as part of an omnibus health care bill. The legislation was drafted by Church in the aftermath of the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision that states cannot prohibit abortions during the first three months of pregnancy.

The bill is designed to prevent federal courts or government officials from forcing religious hospitals into allowing their facilities to be used for abortions or sterilization procedures against their will under the threat of losing federal aid. It also is designed to protect medical personnel who refuse to take part in such operations on religious or moral grounds. The Idaho senator said the bill will "insure that federal funding will not be used as an excuse for eroding freedom of religious practice by forcing abortions or sterilizations on church-affiliated hospitals."

Dam test run starts

OROFINO (UPI) — The Army Corps of Engineers has turned the third generator at Dworshak Dam up to its full 220,000 kilowatt capacity for a one-week test run. The corps would its big generator up to its full power late Monday afternoon and increased the flow from the giant dam on the North Fork of the Clearwater River from 1,300 to 5,000 cubic feet per second.

The corps said this would raise the level of the river below the dam by two to three feet. Corps officials said if the generator passes its tests, the number one and two units — each capable of producing 90,000 kilowatts of power — will be shut down to make some changes in their cooling equipment and to correct other minor operating problems.

Dismissal requested

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — Eight members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War accused of conspiring to use weapons to disrupt last summer's GOP convention want to have the charges dismissed on grounds illegal wiretapping was used in their case. "It's very simple," Scott Camil, head of the anti-war group, said today. "The FBI and the judge said there was no evidence of any illegal wiretapping in our case."

Student transfer planned at Rupert

RUPERT — Dr. Darrell Hatfield presented a proposal to Minidoka school trustees Monday night for relocation of nearly 100 elementary students.

The move would relieve an overload on the Heyburn school, the superintendent said. Under the plan about 45 students would be transferred from Heyburn to Rupert, and about 45 from Rupert to Heyburn, which has the lightest class load in the district.

The board took no action, but plans to seek public feedback.

The school district is losing money on students from the Idaho Youth Ranch who are attending district school, Dr. Hatfield said, because the boys' home districts continually refuse to pay many tuition costs as specified in the agreement with the ranch.

The high technicalities in the laws and by refusing to claim boys as residents, several school districts have refused to pay the tuition or have fallen behind in their payments, he said.

The board authorized school attorney Roger Ling to look into possible court action if Dr. Hatfield cannot secure payments.

A schedule of increments for teachers supervising extracurricular activities was approved by the board.

The schedule, worked out on an individual basis by school principals and the administration, generally provides an increase although some positions such as driver education supervisor will take a loss.

The lowest increment on the schedule went to girls' athletics at $200 while the highest was $1,000 allocated for the head track and sophomore basketball coach.

Dr. Hatfield said the total cost of the proposal was under the amount originally budgeted.

An Idaho Supreme Court opinion may be sought to determine the legality of an advance refunding plan presented to the district by Tierney and Co., Englewood, Colo., which would purportedly save the district $140,000 on bonded indebtedness.

According to Ling, the Chicago bonding attorney firm, Chapman and Cutler, said in a legal opinion that the proposal would have to be tested in court before it legality was certain.

Several other school districts in the state have been approached by Tierney and Co. with the proposal Dr. Hatfield said, and perhaps they could join together in taking the question to the court. It may be possible, Dr. Hatfield said, that the company itself would pick up the costs of litigation to prove their proposal.

A request by Wayne Fagg, principal of East Minico Junior High School, to construct walls dividing the two tripod rooms in the school was denied by the board. The rooms, originally built for team teaching, are not being well utilized, Dr. Hatfield told the board. Current usage of the rooms is uncomfortable for both students and teachers, he said.

Following a long discussion on the merits of team teaching, assistant superintendent Doyle Lowder told the board that by building the walls the district would be "encouraging teachers to go back to their old methods."

Dr. Harold Catnall and Blaine Anderson were sworn in as new board members. Leonard Martin was elected chairman of the board; Sherril Stallings, vice chairman; June Jensen, clerk, and treasurer, and Roger Ling, legal counsel.

Morale problem grows at bomber base on Guam

ANDERSEN AIR FORCE BASE, Guam (UPI) — The crews of U.S. Air Force B52 bombers who fly daily bombing missions in Cambodia face loneliness and controversy when they return to this sprawling Pacific island base.

The result is a morale problem that has been described by some officers as acute. A main cause of the morale drop is apparently the frequent and prolonged separation of the men from their families. The average bomber crew has a tour of four months. Some are now back on their third, fourth and fifth tours — and all without their families. The divorce rate among the B52 crewmen is reported growing at an alarming rate. Resignations among career officers are also reported increasing. Tempers are flaring on the base more easily and fights are breaking out among the men.

Some who have preschool children or no children have sent for their families to join them here even for the short stay of three to four months. The families pay their own airfare to Guam and are forced to live in apartments costing as much as $350 per month or hotels, averaging $20 per day plus meals.

Several months ago two enlisted men sent for their wives, but could not afford off-base accommodations. They pitched a tent in a remote area on air force property, but off the main base. They had meals at camp site, but for laundry and bathing they were assisted by friends living on-base.

"I know that many of us and our wives are writing letters to our congressmen," said one major on his third tour of temporary duty in Guam as a radar navigator on a B2. "A year ago I would never think of doing such a thing. Sometimes I ask myself now if I really did write to my congressman."

Requests by newsmen to interview any of the B52 crewmen were denied by air force spokesmen at Andersen. Newsmen were allowed to enter the base, but could not carry cameras and were cautioned against attempting to interview crewmen. In addition, the crews have been given direct orders not to talk to newsmen.

Privately, however, the crewmen complain that in their opinion there are more crews in Guam than are necessary to accomplish the bombing missions.

Nixon exercise lack blamed for Watergate

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Health fadist Prof. Edwin Paget says Americans can expect more Watergates unless President Nixon starts exercising.

"An infra-red picture of President Nixon's brain would at most certainly show that at least 40 per cent of the capillaries in his brain have died," said Paget. "Unless he's willing to rehabilitate himself, we can expect more blunders similar to Watergate."

Paget, who left on his 59th climb of the 14,110-foot Pikes Peak outside of Colorado Springs Monday, said he sent Nixon a telegram and suggested the President start jogging. He said a lack of exercise cuts oxygen to the brain and results in the death of brain cells.

Paget said he surveyed tourists atop the mountain during a climb earlier this month and found that 97 per cent of the 106 persons questioned felt Nixon should be urged to run.

Burley chamber seeks truck route

BURLEY — Chamber of commerce officials of Burley have asked the City Council to establish a truck route around the city.

Submitted to the City Council Monday night, the proposal calls for a route following North Overland Avenue to 8th Street W., along 8th Street W. to North Park Avenue and along North Park Avenue to old Highway 30, then along Highway 30 to 100 West and on to 200 South, then back to South Overland.

Southbound trucks would travel from Overland to Railroad Street, then along Railroad Street until it joins the remainder of the proposed truck route. Eastbound truck traffic would be routed down

North Overland to 8th Street, east to Highland, and then to East Main.

Council members decided to call another meeting for the City Council, highway department, county commissioners and the city and county planning boards to prepare an ordinance creating the truck route.

In other business, the council discussed two ordinances. One, a city-wide zoning ordinance revision was placed on second reading and July 2 was set as the date for a public hearing on the new zoning regulations.

The other, Ordinance #52, will amend the present animal ordinance and was placed on first reading.

Boise's new bus system helped by gas shortage

BOISE (UPI) — Thanks to the gasoline shortage Boise City's new bus system is doing much better than predicted when begun in April, manager A.J. Achabal reports.

Achabal told the City Council Monday that more than 10,000 rides have been taken on the new mini buses since the system went into operation. He said he believes the gasoline shortage has a lot to do with "The fuel shortage is here. It's here to stay," Achabal told the council.

"It's a whole new ball game, now. The way things are, it may be time to look at purchasing some larger buses.

"I think you'll see bus usage increase. I'm guessing, but I'd say 35 to 40 per cent by the end of the year," Achabal said.

Lady parachutist marks first jump

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The aeronautical world celebrates two milestones this week — a big one in outer space and a tiny one from the pages of history.

America's first Skylab crew winds up a record 28 days in space Thursday, preparing to blast back to Earth.

It's a far cry from aviation's frontier days when spindly flying machines were piloted by men in goggles and scarves.

It's that era which is symbolized today, the 60th anniversary of the day that a young, pretty daredevil with a turned-up nose slipped into her harness and became the first known woman to parachute from a moving plane.

"One small leap for women, one great leap for womenkind," you might say.

Today, the silk parachute hangs in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington D. C., while the woman who made history with it is a spry, white-haired great-great-grandmother who hung up her dreams in 1922 after more than 1,100 jumps.

Tiny Broadwick, who recently celebrated her 80th birthday, reflects happily on her early daredevil career and her leap into history.

"Oh, I got banged up all right. There were broken bones, sprained ankles, a wrenched back and dislocated shoulder or two, but I was young and loved every minute of it." Except perhaps when she landed in trees, power lines and once atop the caboose of a moving train.

She was young all right. And just a little bit headstrong. "Tiny was just 16 when she strapped on that silk contraption and she looked like a schoolgirl in her black stockings, black dress and soft flyer's cap.

A Los Angeles Times reporter who went along for the ride that day back in 1913 observed:

"Smiling at me, Tiny stepped off into space; not even a tremor of the machine showing she was gone." Tiny's chute billowed whitely without a flaw and she dropped gently into Griffith Park in Los Angeles.

But then, "Tiny liked to jump into things. Born on a North Carolina farm not far from the site of the Wright brothers' famous flights, Tiny was married at 14, widowed and a mother at 15 and earning a meager living at a backwoods cotton mill.

Times were tough. So, when the Johnny J. Jones Carnival meandered through the Carolina hill country featuring a hot-air balloonist — Tiny recalls that her heart pounded as her thoughts shot into the clouds.

"When I saw that balloon go up, and I gawked at it ascending into the heavens, I knew I'd never be the same." The 4-foot, 8-inch tall girl talked herself into the act and later convinced the balloonist to strap her into his parachute harness.

Tiny and her infant daughter traveled the sawdust circuit around the country in the years before World War I, with Tiny thrilling audiences by her dangerous "cutaway act." She wore three parachutes and wriggled out of one, then another, during her long scary descent. She jumped from a plane later.

Senate OK's replacement of AF dam

WASHINGTON — A strong push for House consideration of a bill authorizing replacement of American Falls Dam was pledged Tuesday by Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho.
Hansen and Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, are sponsoring the measure in the House of Representatives.
The bill passed the Senate by unanimous consent Tuesday and was sent to the House, where it is before the House Interior Subcommittee pending hearings. The Senate bill was introduced April 10 by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho. It authorizes non-federal financing of the project.
A spokesman for Rep. Hansen's office said the first step in consideration will be hearings on the measure by the interior subcommittee. No date or place has yet been set for those hearings.
Under the non-federal financing proposal, Idaho Power Co. and water users will rebuild the dam.
Cost estimates range from $18.5 million to $24 million.
The bill would allow the water users of the American Falls Reservoir District to contract for the design and construction of a replacement dam.
The replacement would use portions of the existing structure and maintain the maximum unrestricted reservoir capacity of the original dam.
The bill, which now must be considered by the house of representatives, would finance the cost of the project by bonds issued by the water users. In turn, the water users would be authorized to lease falling water from the dam for hydro-electric power generation.
Idaho Power has indicated its willingness to construct a 100-megawatt power plant in conjunction with the replacement dam and to pay $19 million, plus interest charges, in retiring the bond issue.
The present dam was completed in 1927 and does not meet current safety standards because the chemical reaction between the cement and the aggregate in the concrete has led to serious deterioration.
Storage behind the dam has been limited to 65 per cent of capacity because of the deterioration and could be restricted even more.
The Idaho senators, in introducing the legislation, said that delay in replacing the dam could lead to serious water shortages in dry years which could adversely affect the economy of the region and hinder flood control, recreation, fish and wildlife aspects of the projects.
The bill also authorizes a two-lane highway crossing to replace the present crossing considered hazardous. However, the legislation was written in such a way that a four-lane highway could be constructed, under an agreement to be worked out by the parties involved.
The cost of the highway replacement would be shared by the water users, the state and the federal government.
Gov. Cecil R. Andrus said passage of the measure by the Senate is a tribute to the state-federal relationship Idaho enjoys with its Congressional delegation. He also offered Hansen and Symms the support of his office in securing House passage of the bill.

GF to protest state park fees

GLENN'S FERRY — The Glens Ferry Chamber of Commerce voted to send a protest concerning the raise in state park fees to the State Park Board.
The decision to send the protest was made at a meeting Monday at Hansen's Cafe. Chamber members said Three Island Park was built in the hope of boosting the economy in the Glens Ferry and that the high park fees are discouraging people from camping there. They said out of state trailers are charged one dollar more than those with Idaho licenses, which gives Idaho a bad name.
The group also agreed to protest to the Union Pacific Railroad about the speed of trains going through town. They said car and truck speed limits are set at 25 miles per hour and the trains travel at 40 mph. The group agreed to request that trains travel at the same speed as other vehicles.
The Chamber of Commerce is working with the Fourth of July committee to provide an all day celebration in Hull Memorial Park.

Probe continues

KETCHUM — Investigation is continuing into the theft of drugs and about $115 in cash from the Sun Valley Animal Clinic.
According to a Blaine County Sheriff's deputy, the theft occurred sometime late Monday night or early Tuesday morning. The clinic is operated by Dr. Robert Beede.
The Deputy said taken in the theft were about ten, 10 c.c. vials of Talwin, a pain killer. Entry was made into the building by breaking a glass panel out of the back door, reaching in and unlocking the door, he said.

BLM director named

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Burton W. Silcock, director of the Bureau of Land Management and a former Burley resident, has been named co-chairman of the joint federal-state land use planning commission for Alaska.
Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, announced the appointment Tuesday.

Halley man arrested

HALLEY — Robert R. Swaner, Halley, was arrested Monday afternoon by the Halley Police Department on a warrant charging battery.
According to police chief Doug Williams, Swaner is presently free on a $100 bond.

Meeting set

KETCHUM — The Ketchum Community Project will conduct a public meeting 7:30 p.m. tonight at the Ernest Hemingway Elementary School, Ketchum.
Presented during the meeting will be preliminary projects and proposals. The public is urged to attend.

Training exercises

FIRE department rookie approaches burning rubble as part of training exercise conducted Tuesday. The old Wilson Planing Mill at Shoshone and Third Avenue West was demolished to clear the site for a Willis Motor Co. lot. Capt. F. E. Horejs said that although the rubble fire was not much like a burning building the rookies could learn more than at the scene of an emergency fire "where they don't have time to make observations and learn from it."

Jerome approves plans

JEROME — The Jerome City Council Tuesday night approved plans from the First Security Bank of Jerome for construction of a drive-in teller station.
Two proposals were presented to the council, one for a double unit drive-in teller station with parallel parking and one for a one-unit station with angle parking provided for bank customers.
First Security Bank has purchased the Voris (Frontier) Theater which in the past has received publicity because of the triple X movies shown at the theater.
The bank is now in the process of obtaining a contractor to level the old theater which has been closed for the past year.
Plans call for closed circuit television at the drive-in station with a pneumatic tube to transfer the transactions at the motor bank under the Van Orman Hardware Store to the main bank.
The council approved a request from councilman S. N. (Shorty) Weeks to hire a part-time policeman to help patrol the city park during irregular hours.
Approval was also given to Weeks to post signs throughout the park area which will state the penalties for littering and vandalism. Weeks informed the council that vandalism and littering of the parks has gotten out of hand lately, and the damage that is being done is more costly each night than the cost of the signs or the extra policeman would be.
A transfer of a beer license for four days from the Jerome Elks Club to the Jerome County Fairgrounds was granted by the council. The Elks Club requested the transfer in order to sell beer during the Jerome County Horse Races which will be July 12-15.
The council suspended the rules and passed an ordinance which provides for the licensing of selling wine by the drink. The council set fee of $100 per year for the license.
City attorney Richard Seely informed the council that the last session of the Idaho legislature adopted a new wine law which becomes effective July 1 and provides for the licensing of wine by the drink. It was pointed out a tavern owner who has a retail license to sell wine by the bottle cannot also have a license to sell wine by the drink.
A request from the Northern Tavern for a license to sell wine by the drink was delayed until the July 3 meeting because the tavern also has a license to sell wine by the bottle.

Beet experts begin TF tour

By BONNIE JONES
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Sugar beet technologists from several countries were in Twin Falls today to begin a two-day inspection of the sugar beet industry of the area.
The group arrived by plane Tuesday night and spent most of this morning relaxing after a strenuous tour of California, Oregon and Washington during the past several days.
Following an introduction to host groups and presentation of initial information, the group was scheduled to leave this afternoon for a visit to Snake River Trout farm followed by a late afternoon inspection of the Howard Annis sugar beet fields.
This evening the group will be guests of the Lower Snake River and Minidoka County Beet Grower Associations for an American-Style fish fry at the Filer fairgrounds.
Amalgamated Sugar Co. officials are working with the American Society of Sugarbeet Technologists and the Institute International de Recherches Betteravieres in sponsoring the Idaho visit.
On Thursday the group will concentrate on a study of Idaho sugar beet production, including irrigation programs, and on the research and processing programs of Amalgamated Sugar Co.
They will make a visit to the Milner Dam area and inspect the Snake River Irrigation Project. They will also view the Snake River Conservation Research Center Thursday morning and view several farms to inspect sugar beet farm equipment and cultivation practices. Thursday afternoon they will view the Amalgamated Sugar Co. research laboratory and farms and will visit several other sugar beet fields.
The delegations will leave Twin Falls Friday morning for West Yellowstone and Yellowstone National Park.
Amalgamated Sugar Co. officials say about 125 executives, administrators, scientists and other technologists from 14 European countries are participating in the tour.
The Twin Falls visit is part of a 20-day tour of the United States. Countries represented include Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Great Britain, Ireland, Italy, The Netherlands, Romania, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and Turkey.
A question session and banquet Thursday night at the Holiday Inn will conclude the Magic Valley visit.

Miss Idaho welcomed by parade

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Miss Idaho, Sharon Davis, was welcomed home with a parade through downtown Twin Falls and a reception Tuesday.
Miss Davis, 21, Jerome, was crowned Miss Idaho of 1973 at the 24th annual state pageant Saturday night in Boise. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Davis, Jerome.
She represented Twin Falls in the pageant. She was greeted at the Perrine Bridge by Twin Falls Mayor John Christoffersen and Lloyd Miller, of the Twin Falls Lions Club which sponsored her, as well as friends and relatives.
Miss Davis was escorted from the bridge through downtown Twin Falls to a reception in her honor at the Rogerson Hotel Round-Up Room.
During the reception she was presented a silver platter from Mayor Christoffersen on behalf of the city, two dozen red roses from William Chaney, Twin Falls county commissioner, and roses from her niece Laura Davis, 31.
Miller said that Miss Davis will be a guest tonight at the Lions Club's annual installation of officers and will officiate in the awards presentation and installation ceremonies. He said that a gift from the Lions Club will also be presented to Miss Davis at the meeting.
Miss Davis told the Times-News she was excited and overjoyed when she was crowned Miss Idaho. She said the hardest part of the pageant was when the top 10 finalists were chosen and her name was the last one to be called. She said she plans to return to work and will attend Boise State College this fall.
Her next major appearance will be July 4 when she will participate along with Gov. Cecil Andrus in Independence Day events at Idaho Falls. She is also scheduled to appear at several fairs throughout the state this summer. On July 21, she will relinquish her title as Miss Twin Falls during the annual Miss Twin Falls Pageant.
Miller said there is some question as to whether or not Miss Idaho will be furnished a new car to drive during her year's reign. An effort is being made by the Lions Club to have a car donated to her by an area dealer. In the past, cars have been donated by Anderson Buick of Boise.
Miss Davis' father commented on his daughter's winning of the Idaho title, by saying it was the finest Father's Day present he has ever received.

SV council to select architects

SUN VALLEY — The Sun Valley City Council is in the process of selecting an architectural firm for a planned municipal complex.
During a meeting Tuesday night, the council interviewed members of two firms and tabled action on the selection for further study of each candidate. Interviewed were Nell M. Wright, Ketchum, and Darryl McMillan and William Hayes, of McMillan and Hayes, Sun Valley.
According to fire commissioner William Innes, the complex including a fire station and city offices — will be located northwest of Dollar Cabin. Estimated cost for the facility has not yet been determined, he said.
The complex is anticipated to be constructed in summer, 1974, Innes said.
In other action, the Council:
— Adopted an ordinance after no protests were recorded during a public hearing, stating that all building is subject to a use permit and requiring that construction conform to the city land use plan.
City Clerk G. Robert Ackerman said the ordinance, which will be in effect for one year, was designed as an interim measure until planning and zoning ordinances could be adopted.
— Referred to the city design committee for their recommendations, a request by Robert Kress to relocate the eul-de-sac at the end of Kernel Road, Bitterroot, to lot 6.
— Approved a possible sale of the city dog impoundment mini-truck to Sun Valley property management for $1,000.
— Referred to city attorney Thomas Nelson for study a proposed ordinance to restrict bus and truck traffic on certain roads within the city.

 Sister Mary Matthews said the grant will be used to enlarge the list of books in the medical library. The new books have been ordered by the doctor's and medical department heads, Sister Matthews said.
 She said St. Benedict's hospital library is being enlarged and will be located in the newly remodeled wing of the hospital as a part of Phase I of St. Benedict's Hospital Foundation remodeling and expansion program.

Howe gets million to play with sons

HOUSTON (UPI) — Gordie Howe, one of the greatest hockey players of all time, signed a $1 million, four-year contract Tuesday with the Houston Aeros of the World Hockey Association, moving one step closer to the fulfillment of a dream to play with his two sons.

Howe's signing came exactly two weeks after his sons, Mark, 18, and Marty, 19, signed similar four-year contracts with the Aeros. It was the third highest contract in WHA history, behind Bobby Hull's $2.5 million and Derek Sanderson's $1.5 million.

Howe, 45, a right wing for the Detroit Red Wings 25 years prior to retiring two years ago, said he hoped to play on the same line with Mark, a left winger, while Marty was on defense. Mark is considered by many to be the next superstar of hockey.

Mark compares to (Alex) Delvecchio in his puck handling ability," Howe said. "I can foresee he'll be awful easy to play with. His only weakness is that he doesn't shoot enough."

Gordie, second in National Hockey League history in penalty minutes, said anyone who takes an unfair shot at one of his sons will have to answer to him.

"If he gets a Howe, then he's going to hear from me," Howe said. "I won't go after him then. But if I get a shot at him, I'll take it. I'll make sure the Howes will be even. Actually, I hate to be even. I'd rather be one up."

"This year my only regret, and I have only one, is that I'm sorry I'm not the Gordie Howe I was 10 years ago so, I could go out and fulfill what the Aeros want of me and repay them for what they're doing for me," Howe said. "In the realm of finances alone, they've put my projected plan 6-10 years ahead."

Howe, a member of the Hockey Hall of Fame and the most prolific scorer in the sport's history, will play as many years as he desires and then will join the team in a front-office position. He was asked whether he would be able to keep up with the 20 to 30-year-old players.

"I hope they can keep up with me," he replied.

Howe, who scored 786 goals in his career, said his weakened left wrist which bothered him the final season has healed. He said he had 1 1/2 bones removed from it in 1971 and the doctor said it would be as strong as ever in three years.

"If my golf game is any indication, it has healed," Howe said. "There is no pain whatsoever."

"I imagine it will hurt on a few occasions, especially if it gets in the way of somebody's chest or something, but it's too late to change my habits now," Howe said.

Amundson signs with Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — Running back George Amundson of Iowa State, the Houston Oilers' second selection in the first round of the pro draft, signed a multi-year contract today.

General Manager Sid Gillman said Amundson received a bonus, but would not reveal the amount.

Gillman also announced the signing of tight end Dave Parks, a former pro at San Francisco who came to the Oilers this spring in a trade with the New Orleans Saints. He said Parks, a graduate of Texas Tech, signed a multi-year contract and then left immediately for Lubbock.

Amundson, 23, is a 6-3, 215-pounder from Aberdeen, S.D., who played both quarterback and running back at Iowa State.

A's erase five-run deficit to overpower Kansas City 11-6

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Sal Bando's second homer of the game tied the score and Mike Hegan's run-scoring single provided the lead run Tuesday night as the Oakland A's roared from a five-run deficit to whip the Kansas City Royals, 11-6.

The victory was Oakland's eighth in its last 10 games.

Bando led off the eighth with his 11th homer of the season. He had only 16 all last year. He tied the score at 6-6. Ronde Ja-kson followed with a double, went to third on a sacrifice and scored on Hegan's bases-loaded single. The A's added four in the ninth with the help of Joe Rudi's two-run single and run-scoring hits by Jackson and Hegan.

Twins' first inning, stole second and scored on Harmon Killebrew's single. Larry Hise, who had reached base on an error, scored the Twins second run on a sacrifice fly by Bob Darwin.

Quarterbacks expect offensive show in all-star tilt Saturday

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Quarterbacks Dan Fouts of Oregon and Ty Paine of Washington State say the 13th annual Coaches All-America game Saturday night will be a relaxed but all out offensive affair.

"It's my game so I don't really have to get myself all psyched out to play it," said Paine, who set 14 game, season and career marks in college.

"In a game like this there are more restrictions on the defense, which is an advantage to the quarterbacks," he said. Coach John McKay of Southern California planned to balance his West team's attack between passing and running.

"Neither of us are real familiar with Coach McKay's offense at Southern Cal, but the basics of it will be about the same as those we both used," said Fouts, who set 19 school records for the Webfoots.

"It will be a little different from what we have been running in college, but it shouldn't be that much of an adjustment for either of us."

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. EDT, with a capacity crowd of about 45,000 fans packed into Jones Stadium expected to be joined by a national television audience.

Fouts was a third round choice by San Diego, and Paine was drafted in the ninth round by the New York Giants. Both expect to remain at quarterback in the pros.

"I'm unsigned at present, but I don't think the Chargers are looking for me to prove myself in this one game," Fouts said. "They drafted me based upon my performance over the past three years, and not in any one game. That should take some of the pressure off in this game."

Paine said it wouldn't be too bad playing in mid-summer, despite expected high temperatures on the field at kickoff.

Secretariat runs June 30

CHICAGO (UPI) — Secretariat, the first 3-year-old to win the Triple Crown in 25 years, will make his next start in a $100,000 invitation race on June 30 at Arlington Park, track officials said today.

Mrs. John Tweedy, owner of Secretariat, has accepted the invitation, track spokesman Tom Rivera said.

Rivera said Secretariat would run against Our Native, winner of the Ohio Derby, and possibly Linda's Chief, winner of the Arlington Grand Prix last Saturday. Linda's Chief was expected to run, he said, but owner Neil Hellman wanted to confer with trainer Al Scott before accepting.

Bill Ressegnet, trainer and part owner of Our Native, had agreed that his horse would compete, he said.

Rivera said details as to distance and weights would be determined later.

Tight race expected for Magic Valley women's title

Sergene Sorenson of Burley and Virginia Undheim of Twin Falls feel their golf game is in pretty good shape. And that could provide a pretty good shoot out Thursday and Friday when the Times-News Magic Valley Women's golf tournament is conducted over the Twin Falls municipal course.

However, a good championship field is expected for the 36-hole medal play event.

Both Mrs. Sorenson and Mrs. Undheim have won the Magic Valley previously but haven't had the tight head-to-head matches they used to stage a couple of years back.

Mrs. Undheim sounded a warning note last week when she won the Gate City tournament at Pocatello by five shots. She notes her short game is starting to come around a little after an absence of a couple of years.

Mrs. Sorenson says "if my putter works, I could be in the thick of it. Last week in the Gate City I missed one of those little 10-15 footers early and from then on I was like this," she said, demonstrating with wobbly knees and shaky hands. "But the rest of my game has been pretty good."

The tournament will open with a shotgun start each of the two days. The gun will be fired at 9 a.m. but the contestants are asked to be at the course by 8:30 to allow for distribution. An awards luncheon will follow play Friday.

Helen Spradling of Buhl is defending champion in the event, having nipped Ardith Morgan of Jerome in overtime last year. Jackie Gasser, Twin Falls, finished third in the 1972 event held at Buhl. All three are entered this year.

Tips and friends dare Bruins again

The Twin Falls Bruin golf team, which has twice won the state title, have accepted the tri-annual challenge from the "silvertips" for a golf exhibition.

In addition to the graybeards, however, the alumni, who were the Bruins in the last match three years ago, and the neo potbellies or Elvis generation (from the 1950s) have thrown their gambit into the ring.

The whole thing will come off at 3 p.m. Sunday and the public is invited to spectate.

Carrying the Bruin banner will be Gary Duncan, Kevin Packard, Bruce McNeer, Moyle Wilson and Lance Undheim. All will be high school seniors this fall except Wilson who graduated.

The alumni team is composed of Curt Thomsen, Jeff Thomsen, Jim Packard, Larry Malone and Robert Langdon. Playing for the Elvis (or is it Elvis) will be Dave Driscoll, Randy Call and Jim Parces, all former Bruins, and Spartan Richard Reed and Robert Mike Robertson.

The Silvertips (some call them potbellies) have only two returnees in Clyde Thomsen and Don Lowman. New recruits to that outfit are Bob Amende, Marlon Undheim and Father Cusmas White.

The Bruins hold a 1-0 victory over the Silvertips, that coming when the now alumni won by one shot and Jim Packard scored a hole-in-one No. 6. There haven't been any matches the past two years because (a) the Bruins didn't win state two years ago and (b) no one thought about it last year when the Bruins did win state.

NL owners hedge on franchise transfer

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — National League officials have suggested they will not authorize the San Diego Padres' move to Washington, D.C., until the city and the baseball team settle a contract dispute, city attorney John Witt said Tuesday.

"My recent remarks carried in the press concerning the indiscriminate transfer of professional sports franchises have struck a responsive nerve with at least some baseball officials," Witt said.

Besides his public criticism, Witt notified the National League and its owners of the city's position that the Padres had 15 years to go on a contract to use San Diego Stadium.

He acted after the Padres formally informed the city of the planned sale of the team to a Washington group headed by food chain millionaire Joseph Danzansky for $12 million.

In announcing the response, Witt released copies of letters from National League president Chub Feeney and Los Angeles Dodgers owner Walter O'Malley.

"The National League is well aware of the rights of the Padres under that lease and of the obligations of both parties thereunder," Feeney said. "We assume some amicable settlement resulting in the termination of the lease by consent is possible."

O'Malley told Witt in his letter he was certain the league would follow past precedent in expecting the present ownership and/or future ownership of the ball club to satisfy it that the lease obligations have been settled.

Last week Witt obtained a court order preventing the Padres owners from taking any action to move the franchise until a hearing on a request for a permanent injunction is conducted June 28. Witt asked that the team be prevented from moving until expiration of its lease in 1980.

Mile will feature last Hayward meet

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — What better way for Hayward Field's old west grandstand to bow out than with a world record mile performance?

That's the question being asked here as the wooden stadium is prepared for its last meet, Wednesday evening.

The Hayward Field restoration meet is being held to raise money to raise and replace the old west stands.

The meet includes three current world record-holders and four Olympic gold medalists, and talk of a new record is inevitable.

But the whispered "world record" that is making the rounds isn't about any of the current record holders or gold medalists.

The talk centers on Oregon's Steve Prefontaine, who will go against Olympic 800-meter champion Dave Wottle in the mile.

Prefontaine, who holds the world's fastest times this year in the mile, two-mile, three-mile and six-mile said he thought the world record of 3:51.1 was within his grasp after running a 3:55 on a cold night earlier this spring.

Since then he has said he will go out in 2:52 for the first three laps and kick home from there. If he does that, it would take only a 38-second last lap to set a world mark.

But Pre will have to worry a little about Wottle who won the NCAA mile with a 57-second last lap and equalled the world record in the 800 meters on this track a year ago a time of 1:14.3.

Prefontaine's coach, Bill Dellinger, said if conditions are right "I could see something better than a 3:53 mile."

Other top performers entered include world record holding Olympic gold medalist hurdler Rod Milburn; long jump gold medalist Randy Williams, and co-world record holding discus thrower Jay Silvester.

Skating star signs $2 million contract

CHICAGO (UPI) — Perky Janet Lynn, a blonde 20-year-old figure skater who has won the last five National women's championships and an Olympic bronze medal, today was set to become the highest paid woman athlete in the world.

The tiny star agreed to contracts to turn pro which Tom Scallen of the Ice Follies said would pay her "by all odds the largest amount any professional ice skater ever has received from any ice show in the world."

He said the three-year contract with Ice Follies would pay $1,455,000 and that with other agreements she would make more than $2.5 million from the initial series of contracts. Special TV programs as well as a movie were being planned.

"She will be the highest paid woman athlete in the world," Scallen said.

Miss Lynn, whose family name is Nowicki, signed the agreement in the office of Arthur M. Wirtz, owner of the Chicago Stadium and Chicago Black Hawks who devised the original ice show and convinced Sonja Henie, the 1936 Olympic gold medal winner, to turn pro and star in it.

"I think she's going to be a great star," Wirtz said. "She's the greatest I've seen since Sonja Henie."

Miss Lynn, silver medalist in the world championship this year, said she "never anticipated having that much money. I've skated because I've loved it, and as a professional I'll be freer to do what I want."

"Skating always has been fun for me," she added, "and I'll still have to work as hard as I always have. I only recently decided to turn professional."

Miss Lynn's ice show engagements will begin in September in Los Angeles and later she will appear in major cities throughout the United States and Canada. She is scheduled to begin an unpaid speaking tour of Japan July 1.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I own a small grocery store in a very rough neighborhood. We have been here for many years and make a good living. Two years ago we were held up twice in 6 months. The robbers tied us up and cleaned out the register, but no real harm came to us. After that, my husband hired a security guard. Since then nobody has bothered us.

A few months ago someone told my husband he was foolish to pay a security guard—he should let the security guard go and keep a loaded gun under the counter. Abby, my husband has never fired a gun in his life—but he took his friend's advice.

Guard safer

I told my husband I wouldn't go in the store as long as he kept the gun there. He said I could stay home—he didn't need me. After working side by side with him for 35 years, I am hurt and heartsick. I am so afraid that if a robber comes in my husband will get excited and reach for the gun and the robber will kill him. That's the way it always happens.

Am I wrong to believe we are in more danger keeping the gun in the store? Or am I right? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You are right. Statistics show that guns kill more innocent people than robbers. And law enforcement experts would strongly advise against keeping a loaded gun handy. The security guard is a far better idea.

DEAR ABBY: Do you see anything wrong with entertaining a boy friend in your bedroom? I am 15 and Mike is 17, and I entertain him in my bedroom because that's where the stereo is and all we do is listen to records and talk. Besides, I have two little brats for brothers and if Mike and I didn't lock ourselves in the bedroom those kids would be running in and out and bothering us.

When my mother found my bedroom door locked with Mike inside, she had a cow. We weren't doing anything wrong. I don't know why she doesn't trust me. I've never gotten into any trouble with dudes.

What's wrong with listening to records in my bedroom? Please make your answer short because I don't like long boring answers. OKAY GIRL

DEAR OKAY: A bedroom is not an appropriate place to entertain your boy friend. Move your stereo to another room, don't lock any doors, and ask your mother to please discipline the kids.

DEAR ABBY: I am a grown woman but I am so ashamed I just can't tell the truth about something, and that is my problem. The daughter of a friend was recently married and I sent her a luncheon cloth and matching napkins for a wedding gift. She called me and told me the color doesn't go with her decorating scheme and she'd like to return it for another color.

Abby, I bought it on sale and was told it was not returnable. So what should I tell her? ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Tell her the gift is not returnable. What else? And don't be ashamed. There is nothing shameful about taking advantage of a sale.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DUMB CITY KID—AGE 4": A mule is the offspring of a male ass and a female horse. A mule is almost always sterile.

A "hinny" is the offspring of a she-ass and a stallion. A hinny is also usually sterile.

An ass is a donkey. A jackass is specifically a male donkey. (Class adjourned.)

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 49700, L. A., Calif. 90089. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Richfield miss, Kerner say vows

RICHFIELD — Christine May Jones and Larry James Kerner were united in matrimony at the Shoshone Methodist Church.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Hardy Thompson before an altar decorated with pink gladioli and white chrysanthemums. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin L. Jones, Richfield, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Kerner, Shoshone.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin with sleeves and bodice of white Chantilly lace. The gown was designed and made by the bride.

She also designed and made her Chantilly lace veil with blue, green and white flowers. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds, stephanotis and baby's breath backed with blue net and tied with blue ribbons.

Janel Sorensen was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Karla McRoberts and Kathleen Kerner, sister of the bridegroom. Carlene Renia Jones, sister of the bride, was flower girl.

Dennis Race was best man. Carl Pendleton and Dan Hubbs were ushers and candle-lighters.

Mrs. Harley Thompson play-wedding music on the church organ.

Brenda Johnson was in charge of the guest book. Colleen Brown and Charlotte and Barbara Davis served as gift table attendants.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony at the Richfield American Legion Hall.

The four-tiered white cake was decorated with roses and heart-shaped decorations and topped with a sunburst. It was placed on blue net and centered on a table covered with white lace cloth over blue satin.

Mrs. Ross Swainston, Mrs. Max Behr, Mrs. Lester Johansen and Mrs. Wendell Johnson served.

Raymond C. Denney, grandfather of the bride, was a special guest.

The bride was honored at a pre-nuptial miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Raymond G. Denney, aunt of the bride.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley and through the Stanley Basin to Boise, the couple resides at 110 Skyline Drive, south of Twin Falls. The bride is a 1972 graduate of Richfield High School and the bridegroom attended the College of Southern Idaho and was graduated from Idaho State University this spring. He is employed by the city of Twin Falls.

found. Deantons didn't break any more than hearts had, but it didn't bother South at all. West discarded a club on the third diamond to leave himself with one heart and two clubs.

South didn't have to worry about a club finesse. He simply led dummy's last heart to throw West in and West had to lead a club right up to the ace-queen.

Could the defense have done any better? West could have tried. He could have discarded two clubs on South's spades. Then when the three-card ending was reached, South would have had to decide about the location of the club king. He probably would have guessed right and made an over-trick but he might well have gone wrong and lost the slam.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES You are eager to break up some existing conditions but if you have been living right you have gotten a good start in a constructive direction and would be wise to pursue the fine projects you have already started. Keep alert to the new formulas being released that help you make much greater progress.
ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Pressuring associates for whatever it is you want could have dire results, so keep busy at the work expected of you. Choose the best of any social invitations extended to you. Do nothing that can hurt your reputation.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle those career matters in a most exact way as you planned to do yesterday and don't permit interruptions from others. A higher up could be demanding, but do only what you can. Avoid moaners in P.M.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You came to new and worthwhile decisions yesterday and should carry through with them carefully today. Make sure you pay your bills, make collections-and get into the civic work required of you with vim and vigor.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use your good mature judgment instead of relying on crumb lunches to get your problems solved. Try to win the favor of male approval of what it is you are doing. This can be most helpful to your success.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get into the small details of any policy matters you have discussed with associates, and then do the work that is necessary on your part. That public affair could be upsetting, but keep mum. It will all work out fine in the long run.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get busy at that work you promised to do two days ago and be accurate with it and you have fine results. Use more modern methods. Try out that new treatment that can improve your health a good deal.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Ideal day to be with charming people during spare time and show you are a cultured and interesting person. If some friend is in trouble, give a helping hand and build morale. Don't neglect closest ties.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take care you do not ink a close home or business tie in carrying through with some big project you have in mind. If you forget prejudice you can have much success with it.Enlarge your thinking.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how to improve regular routines so you can free time for more important matters and add to your current income. New ideas are growing in your mind, but don't voice them as yet. Put them to the test for practicality.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study those ideas well so they are truly practical before you try to put them in operation. Get the aid of a clever business expert. The evening is ideal for home pleasures and enjoying kin.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although you are sure of your aims and how to go after them, you find there are stumbling blocks in the path of your progress. Get rid of them tactfully. Caution in conversations is wise at any social gatherings.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Good day to carefully rearrange ideas and operations so they work out far more successfully. Take right steps concerning personal affairs so you need not worry about them. Show a more humanitarian spirit.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those modern thinking young people with an inquisitive mind and the desire to be of great help to humanity at large through progressive methods. Teach early to know his or her own place in the favor of higher ups is to be gotten with ease, and to stress the conservative side of life. Give dancing and music lessons early as a cultural means of getting ahead, also.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

A lawyer, a surgeon, an engineer and a diplomat set up arguing about which of their professions was the oldest. After Cain killed Abel, said the lawyer, there must have been a trial, so clearly his job was the first. But the surgeon said Eve was fashioned from Adam's rib, so his craft took precedence. Then the engineer said God created the world from chaos, obviously the earliest engineering chore. And the diplomat said, "Gentlemen, you forget who it was who created chaos."

LOVE AND WAR

"It's Man's instinct to get as many women as possible," said the great Carl Jung. "Man tries not to be caught at least as long as he can readily elude his pursuer." Interesting, it true. But our Love and War man, the impudent fellow, questions Dr Jung's contention. Says he "Exceptions are numerous, but I still think the typical lad starts out at an early age to find just the one right girl, not a dozen." Isn't that nice?

That question women most ask of their doctors is "Why am I so tired?" Commonest query of the men is "Does the pain in my chest indicate heart trouble?"
Remember, young lady, if you only need half the onion, save the root half. It'll last longer.

ICE WATER

Understand it's the practice of several hostesses in Washington, D.C., to pass out ice water at 11 p.m., signaling the time. No, that's not too blunt, evidently. There, most officials like to go home early. But the protocol among the federalists is such that early departure can be as sensitive as late. The "ice water cue" is said to give everybody an easy goodnight.

The wedding ceremony among the Amish always takes from three to four hours. And was it reported also it's always held either on a Tuesday or a Thursday? But don't ask me why. Not even the Amish can explain that!

More than half of the world's 420,000 Roman Catholic priests are over 45 years old now. Significant.

It has been reported that Princess Grace and her Royal Highness Bhanuvar of Monaco always conduct their family lights in English. Excellent, excellent.
