

Porno crackdown powers broaden

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today established new obscenity standards, permitting the states more leeway to crack down on the distribution of pornographic movies and publications.

The new legal guidelines were set forth in three 5-4 opinions by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall, who helped write the previous obscenity standards, dissented.

The Court revised the basic obscenity definition. It also held that juries in state courts may measure prurient appeal and patent offensiveness by the standard that prevails in their own communities and do not need to apply a "national standard."

The obscenity decisions involved two cases from California and one from Georgia. In one California case, Marvin Miller was convicted in Costa Mesa Municipal Court of mailing five advertising brochures found to be obscene.

In the other California case, Murray Kaplan, proprietor of the Peek-A-Boo Bookstore in Los Angeles, was convicted under the state obscenity law of selling a plain-covered, unillustrated book containing descriptive material of an explicitly sexual nature.

The third case involved a court order barring the showing in two adult theaters in Atlanta of films which the Georgia Supreme Court found depicted "conduct of the most salacious character."

In opinions starting in 1957, the Court set this definition of obscenity: "Whether to the average person, applying contemporary community standards, the dominant theme of the material taken as a whole appeals to prurient interest." Burger's majority opinion left this language untouched.

Later, the court held that the material must be "utterly without redeeming social importance" and that "pandering" or the method of advertising should be a factor to be considered. The justices never decided whether "community standards" should be national or local.

The court struck down as a constitutional standard the test that a work must be "utterly without redeeming social importance."

Court hits school bias taint

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, in its first decision on a school desegregation case from a northern city, ruled today that intentional racial discrimination in part of a school system leaves the entire system tainted and subject to court action.

In a long-awaited opinion concerning Denver public schools, the Court majority said that where intentional segregation has been shown with respect to a significant portion of the system, authorities must prove that their actions involving other segregated schools were not likewise motivated.

Strike paralyzes Chile arenas

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Three key provinces were paralyzed today in a progovernment general strike condemning a 64-day miners' walkout at El Teniente, the world's largest underground copper mine and the backbone of the Chilean economy.

The strike by 13,000 miners, who walked out April 19 claiming they had been cheated out of a 41 per cent pay raise, has split the country along ideological lines and so far cost two cabinet ministers their jobs.

Meet brings arms accord

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon and Leonid I. Brezhnev have reached agreements to exchange nuclear research and speed the process of nuclear disarmament, and will fly back to Washington today to sign them, the White House announced.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the agreements were reached at talks at this mountain retreat Wednesday. They are considered the most important and visible results of the eight-day summit.

The pacts would provide for joint research and exchange of scientific and technological information in the peaceful uses of atomic energy and also would outline the basic principles for U.S. and Soviet negotiators trying to reach agreement on limitations on offensive nuclear weapons.

Ziegler said the agreements would be signed at 3:30 p.m. EDT in the East Room of the White House. Nixon and Brezhnev will end their two days of talks here and helicopter to the White House to participate in the ceremony.

Democratic and Republican leaders from both the Senate and the House were summoned to a briefing on the agreements by Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's chief adviser, one hour before the ratification.

Nixon and Brezhnev held another round of talks at Camp David as their aides began returning to Washington.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko and ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin departed early to attend a luncheon at the State Department.

Ziegler's statement said: "The President and the general secretary have agreed to sign today an agreement between the government of the United States and the government of the U.S.S.R. on scientific and technical cooperation in the field of peaceful uses of atomic energy. Also, they have agreed to sign today an agreement outlining basic principles of negotiations on the further limitation of strategic offensive arms."

Grand jury probe of campaign eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The staff of Archibald Cox, special prosecutor in the Watergate case, is considering a grand jury investigation to determine whether President Nixon's reelection organization used extortion and other illegal forms of fund-raising.

The group collected more than $50 million in campaign contributions last year, sources close to the case said today.

The sources said Thomas F. McBride, special assistant to Cox, was expanding his staff in anticipation of a long inquiry into the fund-raising practices of Herbert W. Kalmbach, the President's former personal attorney; Maurice H. Stans, who served as the chief fund-raiser last year, and others.

Well-informed officials said McBride had accumulated allegations indicating that Republican officials at one time drew up a list of corporations and individuals "who had problems with the government" and solicited funds in late 1971 and early 1972 on that basis.

Noisy welcome

Veto invited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee voted today to sharply increase President Nixon's proposed spending for health and education programs in 1974, exceeding his budget requests by $1.3 billion and inviting a new veto.

The panel approved a $32.8 billion money bill to fund the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare and related agencies in the new fiscal year that starts July 1. Nixon had asked $31.5 billion for the same programs.

Nixon vetoed two Labor-HEW money bills last year because they exceeded his budget requests.

Prices edge ever higher

WASHINGTON — Consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent in May, with food again accounting for a big part of the increase, the Labor Department reported today.

The May rise was the same as in April — smaller than the 22-year record spurt in March, but still extraordinarily large by normal standards.

President Nixon reacted to the inflation spiral last week by freezing prices. The figures reported today were computed before the freeze.

The department also reported that the purchasing power of workers declined from April to May and over the past year, because prices and taxes rose more than wages.

In the national price index, the 0.6 per cent rise in May worked out to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 7.2 per cent. The index in March had risen at an annual rate of 10.8 per cent, the sharpest increase since the Korean War inflation of 1951.

During the last three months, consumer prices rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 8.7 per cent, compared with a 5.7 per cent rate of rise in the preceding three months.

The administration's goal is to reduce the rate of inflation to 2.5 per cent by the end of this year, but analysts generally agree the target is unattainable.

Higher prices for food, clothing, used cars, gasoline and household services accounted for about three-fourths of last month's rise in the total index.

On a seasonally adjusted basis within the overall index, prices of food purchased in stores for home consumption rose 1.1 per cent to a level 14.5 per cent above May, 1972. The increase over the past three months was at an annual rate of 24 per cent, compared with a 20 per cent rate in the preceding three months.

Meat prices declined 0.1 per cent in May, following the president's imposition of meat price ceilings late in March. But the decline was less than normal for the time of year.

Neglect charged

SHOSHONE — William C. Kerner, 30, was arrested Wednesday by Lincoln County sheriff's officers on a charge of animal neglect.

Sheriff Bill Anderson said he was called to investigate after receiving a call from the Lincoln County Humane Society.

The sheriff said he found 25 dead calves in a pile at the Kerner property. The sheriff said investigation so far indicates the animals died of malnutrition.

Kerner was arraigned in Lincoln County Magistrate Court before Magistrate Nancy M. Haddock. He was freed on $300 bond.

A preliminary hearing was set for Friday.

Viet violations decline again

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese command said today there were only 65 Communist cease-fire violations in the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m., the lowest since the same number was recorded May 31.

Project seeks Ketchum plan

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — Adoption of a comprehensive plan for Ketchum and initiation of an area wide rail transit system have been recommended by the Ketchum Community Project.

David L. Vhay, staff director for the project, reviewed project results and recommendations Wednesday night.

Chairman of the project board of trustees, Gen. Robert Neeley, said recommendations will be submitted to the Ketchum City Council and the City Planning and Zoning Commission for consideration.

The privately funded project, started in March, covers the area from Lake Creek south to the steel bridge and from Sun Valley west to the Board Ranch.

Major recommendations, in addition to establishment of a comprehensive plan, included the following:

- Establish an ultimate build out limit, which would in effect be a population ceiling.
- Adopt a capital improvement program for the staged expansion of community services.
- Establish an allotment system to phase development of large projects over a period of years.
- Establish a winter review period of about three months when preliminary drawings for major developments — possibly developments with more than 10 units — can be submitted and the impact can be detailed.
- Establish a technical or design review board.

Size optional

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today that 12-member juries are not mandatory in civil cases.

The issue came from Billings, Mont., where the federal district court adopted a local rule that civil cases would be tried by juries of six persons. The 5-4 decision by the Supreme Court upheld the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Europe said ahead on pollution control

By RONNIE JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Pollution control in sugar beet processing is more advanced in Europe than in the United States.

That point was made here Wednesday by members of a group of beet industry technologists visiting the Magic Valley.

They also said that European beet production is mechanized to a greater degree than in American beet growing regions.

About 110 scientists, technologists and others involved in the production of sugar beets in 14 foreign countries are taking a first hand look at Idaho sugar beet production today. The group includes many leaders of the European beet industry, on an annual tour of the International Institute of Sugar Beet

Research.

Octavo J. Kint, Belgium, secretary general for the institute, said much of the job of growing sugar beets in all producing countries of the world is the same except for irrigation in Idaho and the high degree of mechanization in Europe.

"We have to use machines and seed which produces a single plant six inches apart because we do not have the labor to thin out the plants or to hand harvest the crops," Kint said.

Georges Duchateau, a French specialist in pollution control, said most European factories have for some time been recycling water and using it over and over in the plant without sending an effluent of polluted waste water into the rivers.

"We use water, as you do here, to float the sugar beets through the plant and this same water washes the sugar beets. Since sugar beets are about 90 per cent water, we actually produce water in the processing plants," the expert said.

Water which leaves the plants in France, for example, he said, is "distilled" while the lower level of clean water is recycled in the plant and used in the cleaning process or to carry the beets through the plant departments.

"Six years ago you were doing nothing in this country about pollution of air, and water. Today you have plants putting out almost no pollution such as the Moses Lake plant which is doing the same thing European processors have done for years — recycling the water without discharging it from the plants," he said.

Everglades claim 3 in plane crash

MIAMI (UPI) — A Trans-Air DC7 cargo plane crashed in the Everglades just after takeoff today, killing all three crewmen.

Dade County police went to the scene by helicopter and found the bodies. The three men were not identified.

The plane, bound for Santo Domingo, crashed and burned in an uninhabited area of the Everglades about five miles north of Tamiami Trail just west of Miami.

The Coast Guard said the plane took off at 4:20 a. m. and four minutes later dropped from the radar screen at Miami International Airport.

A Coast Guard search helicopter spotted the wreckage at 4:50 a. m. and the pilot described the crash as "non-survivable."

Mexican jetliner falls Seen...

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (UPI) — A Mexican DC9 jetliner with 27 persons reported aboard on a flight from Houston, Tex., slammed into a remote hilltop 40 miles south of here Wednesday night and exploded, witnesses said.

Police said today they feared there were no survivors.

The twin-engine Aero-Mexico jet, en route from Houston to Mexico City, crashed at Cerro Chino (Chino Hilltop) shortly before its scheduled landing here, police at this Pacific Coast resort said.

A rescue team including doctors and nurses left for the rugged terrain of the crash site in hopes of finding some of the 23 passengers and four crew members alive, but police said they feared if one survived the crash.

Police said after an examination of the passenger list there apparently were some Americans aboard.

Prof. Ruben Malloran, a school teacher at a nearby town, said he saw the plane crash and explode, according to local authorities.

Police said the last radio contact with the plane was 10 minutes before it was due to land. The control tower said it could not confirm the plane crashed.

The weather was clear at the time, the tower said.

The jetliner, which stopped at Monterrey, Mex., after leaving Houston, was apparently preparing its final landing approach when it ploughed into the hilltop.

The plane, flight No. 229, had been scheduled to continue to Acapulco and Mexico City after the Puerto Vallarta stopover.

It left Houston with 14 passengers and picked up nine more, including a baby, at the stopover in Monterrey.

Specialty solo numbers were performed by Loretta Bishop who did a ballet, and Carey Kelley who did an original creative dance.

Young people from Jerome, Wendell, Gooding, Hagerman, Shoshone, Richfield, and Carey participated. Each group learned the dances in their own ward MIA and then came together to produce this colorful event.

They will combine with over 500 other young people from the Twin Falls and Burley area and participate in the Regional LDS Dance Festival that will be held at the Twin Falls Bruin Stadium at 9 p.m. June 30.

On July 3 and 4 the year's dance activities will culminate in the Multi-Regional Festival at the Bronco Stadium in Boise. Over 2500 dancers from Oregon and Southern Idaho are expected to dance in this event.

Seller Beware

It may be useful, in this era of strong consumerism movement, to be reminded that there is a counterpart to the old warning of "caveat emptor" — let the buyer beware. This is "caveat vendor" — let the seller also keep an eye out for sharp customers.

saying it was not suitable. Such used merchandise will probably be sold at a reduced price, and again other customers share the cost of this loss to the store. It's not unusual to see someone handling and squeezing fresh fruit and other produce in the supermarket, says Miss Henderson. Damaged food spoils quickly, and if some unsuspecting consumer doesn't buy it, it will be marked down for quick sale or thrown out.

Brezhnev's US Junket

(c) Chicago Daily News WASHINGTON — Soviet Boss Leonid I. Brezhnev may turn out to be President Nixon's best lobbyist in Congress for trade concessions both lead is strong favor to improve the political climate in the world. The Russian visitor also is demonstrating an ability to amuse and captivate his American hosts with shrewd political touches and unsuspected dramatic flourishes.

House, the residence for state visitors, for nearly two hours of uninterrupted talk, in which he emphasized that no agreements were workable unless they were mutually advantageous to both sides. Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.) said he was "impressed with Brezhnev's sincerity" and compared Brezhnev to Chicago's Mayor Richard J. Daley. "In a sense, he reminded me of Mayor Daley — his little in appearance, but is a very polished, powerful, resourceful political man," Percy said.

This almost certainly assures that the names and contributions will be published eventually if not soon. Accordingly, anyone who fails to come forward now and report voluntarily any improper or illegal contributions runs the risk of seeming to be a party to the conspiracy that was financed with contributed funds. The understanding here is that the Internal Revenue Service has an unpublished rule that anyone who comes forward voluntarily and lists previously undisclosed contributors, before audit and before the facts are disclosed from other sources, is likely to escape criminal penalties, though not interest charges or civil penalties.

Particular attention is likely to be paid in these investigations to contributions made in the name of corporation officials with funds actually made available indirectly by the corporations themselves. Usually the pressure is on the big companies from the political fund raisers to contribute large sums, often in violation or evasion of the election laws. Some of them contribute to as many as a hundred different campaigns, sometimes voluntarily, sometimes in the hope of future favors to be received, but usually because, like the politicians, they are caught in a system they don't like and contribute because they are told their competitors are doing it.

Shoplifters ultimately rob the average family of something between $30 and $60 a year. This is the surcharge a family pays in higher prices to cover business losses due to shoplifting. But even those who would never consider stealing an item from a store may be guilty of practices that amount to a form of theft, charges Beverly Henderson, a consumer economics specialist at the University of Wisconsin-Extension.

Another common practice is to open a jar or package of food, sample it, and put it back on the shelf. (Often the person doing this takes another jar or package that hasn't been opened.) This results in contamination or spoilage of some foods. The customer who buys it may be the loser, or if she returns to the store and gets a refund or replacement, this adds to the store's operation costs.

One of these tricks, she points out, is switching price labels from low-priced to higher priced items. As a result, to the annoyance of honest customers, stores have retaliated by using sticky labels that are almost impossible to get off. Then there's the classic example of the person who buys merchandise — a fondue set, say — and uses it for a special occasion. Then she returns it to the store.

"Cartnapping," is another problem for supermarkets. Some stores report losing one out of every five carts they own, at a cost of about $35 each. By no means are all our problems with the high cost of living due to irresponsible consumers. Yet it behooves all of us to examine our own shopping habits for ways in which we may have unconsciously been contributing to the rising costs of retailing.

Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter-in-law presented us with triplet grandchildren, two boys and a girl. Could you give us some statistics on multiple births? The doctor tells my daughter-in-law that the babies are all fraternal. I have a friend who has what she calls identical twins but these children are not at all identical. They resemble each other but one is a good deal taller, one heavier, one thin. I always thought identical twins were the result of a cell dividing itself in two and that therefore biologically the babies would be Xerox copies of one another. But she contends that they were encased in the same placenta and therefore are identical. — J. W. P.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Kindly inform the man troubled with calluses on his feet to try arch supports. My doctor recommended that after years of trouble. Have never had any more after five years. — H.H. It's something that SOMETIMES is the answer — the arch supports changing the points at which pressure is exerted on the foot. It's not the only answer, but in many cases it's the right one. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you give us the signs and symptoms of syphilis in detail? What do you look for when you think there is a chance you could have contacted it? What are the signs in the male and female? — T. Y. (RUSH)

History Lesson

As far back as a century before Christ, the Chinese Emperor Wu Ti attempted to control prices by government decree. History is replete with other such examples, most of them distinguished by markedly little success. In announcing "Phase 3 and one half," a partial return to the controls of Phase I of August-October, 1971, President Nixon reflected this lesson history. "We must never," he said, "slip into the temptation of imagining that in the long run controls can substitute for a free economy or permit us to escape the need for discipline in fiscal and monetary policy. We must not let controls become a narcotic — and we must not become addicted."

distorted the economy for the greater part of the past decade and which we have almost come to accept as an inevitable fact of life. Added to the problem of "normal" inflation in recent months has been the attack on the dollar in the world's money markets, an adverse balance of payments and, as the President noted, crop failures abroad and some of the worst weather for crops and livestock we have ever experienced in America.

Whether or not controls (on everything except raw agricultural products, wages and rents) are a narcotic, they seem to be the kind of medicine a feverish economy needs at this juncture. The question is whether that medicine is strong enough and timely enough and, even so, whether it will do more than treat the more visible symptoms of whatever it is that ails the economy, symptoms that could only flare up again once controls are removed. It is not controls that we are in danger of becoming addicted to but inflation — an inflation that has

Thus the attack on an inflationary situation of such complexity must be conducted on a broad front, with the agonizing knowledge that not every variable — the weather, for instance — is fully amenable to human manipulation. But while a mandatory price lid may be the least effective weapon in this fight in the long run, it appears to be the best one immediately at hand.

It remains to be seen whether the upcoming Phase IV, unlike the disastrous Phase III that relied on voluntary compliance and undid everything accomplished by its two preceding phases, will contain remedies which will, as the President hopes, get us as quickly as possible out of a controlled economy and back to a stabilized free-market system.

Fire with Fire

WASHINGTON — When the historians take over the Watergate scandal, they could do worse than cast Job Stuart Magruder, only 38, as typical of the handful of jerks whose criminal foolishness brought shame upon President Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign. Nothing anyone else can say before the Senate Select committee will more lucidly explain the philosophy and the psyches of this little band of misguided zealots — to a man radicals of the right. Magruder, deputy director of the campaign, told it for the whole gang: Certain criminal acts are permissible if they are committed in behalf of what they perceive to be a good cause by respectable people of considerable means who come from good families and went to the right schools. Of the bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters and other acts of political sabotage and subversion, Magruder offered a defense that would have given pause to a 15th century Spanish Jesuit. He had watched with increasing frustration the violent opposition of the Left to Nixon's Indochina policies, and her "believed... firmly... that the President was correct on this issue. So, according to Magruder's sworn testimony, he and John Mitchell and at least seven other assorted high White House or Nixon campaign officials decided to fight fire with fire. "We had become inured to using some activities that would help us in accomplishing what we thought was a cause, a legitimate cause," explained this young man of impeccable social status. Some activities is right! The crimes ranged from burglary and wiretapping to a carefully complicated cover-up of the guilty which Magruder said involved the sanction of Nixon's chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman. Historians will find a horrible fascination in the lengths to which these people were willing to go in considering plots to discredit the Democrats.

TV Auctions

Who would bid $1,000 for Mark Spitz' swim trunks (minus the swimmer)? Or $7,500 sight unseen for 100 shares of unspecified stock? Fortunately, a lot of people would. These items, and others equally unusual, were offered and snapped up by bidders in the fifth annual auction conducted by station KCET in Los Angeles. All told, a record $471,000 was raised by the prominent public television channel in a recent nine-day marathon. (Incidentally, the fellow who bought the stock, donated by an investment firm, lost $3,325 on the deal.) KCET, like many other nonprofit, noncommercial public or educational television stations around the country, annually conducts such auctions to help offset operating deficits. Since 1969, this one station has raised more than $1.4 million. It says something about the plight of public TV that it is forced to resort to such gimmicks in order to stay in business. But it also says something about public regard for this branch of the medium, at least from a loyal core of supporters, in that the auctions have been so successful that they have become a regular institution. # Brezhnev's curiosity smothered

Thursday, June 21, 1973 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 5

His overtime ends

MANCHESTER, England (UPI) — Tom Costello, a 59-year-old bus conductor, today received a check for $1 million he won on a soccer pool bet of

By CHARLES BARTLETT
WASHINGTON — The plane from Moscow has brought here a friendly Russian who comes with none of Nikita Khrushchev's proverbs, little of his instinct for the hard sell and few traces of his deep curiosity about the United States.

The proverbs are out because Leonid Brezhnev is a modern man from a parvenu society where the corny vestiges have no place.

The pithy wisdom of the Russian proverbs is no longer suitable, except for the ears of peasants, so Brezhnev will not tell Americans as Khrushchev did nearly 14 years ago, that "He who wants eggs must put up with the cackle of hens."

And yet with this proverb, Khrushchev tried to make in 1959 the same point that Brezhnev will try to make this week.

It is that Americans will need to develop tolerance for the divergent aspects of the Soviet system if they are going to enjoy the fruits of good relations and commerce with the Communist power.

Brezhnev does not have the air of a man on a hard-sell mission. He learned before he left Moscow that the farmers' massive spring planting appears to have taken root and should yield a harvest, if the rains of the coming weeks are kind, that will lift the grim outlook for a bare crop which was left by a thin yield of winter grains.

They are selling lettuce by the leaf in Moscow, but wheat is presumably not among the items that Brezhnev needs from the United States. He wants trade which will balance the $450 million deficit of his recent dealings with this country, but there is no immediate solution to this problem. He needs credits as well as the most-favored-nation tariff rates, more at this point as a matter of pride than necessity.

But the visitors from Moscow do seem to feel it is important for Americans to understand that they cannot reorder the Soviet system and expect to get along.

"The Jewish emigration issue is the U-2 of today," observed one visitor. He meant they regard Congress's concern with Jewish emigration as a new form of intrusion upon the internal life of the Soviet Union, an abrasive meddling in their domestic affairs which they will not tolerate indefinitely.

But Brezhnev, looking easier in his role than President Nixon, is wearing the relaxed manner of a leader who takes life more or less as it comes. His associates pressed for a postponement of the Watergate hearings because they saw them as a diversion with which they could not compete for the American public's attention. The basic point of coming here after all was to maintain the impression of a warming trend in Soviet-American relations.

It is sad, and rather strange, however, that Brezhnev does not intend to take the opportunity of a visit which lacks great urgency to learn something about the United States. He is rejecting many "opportunities" to expand his travel plans, tightly drawn to limit his exposure to Camp David, Washington and San Clemente.

"I have not come to learn anything about America," Khrushchev told Henry Cabot Lodge in 1959. "We know all we need to know about America and we learn it through our Marxist instruction." This was a joke, a point of banter between Khrushchev and Lodge as the Russian plunged into an arduous tour which brought him eyeball to eyeball with many aspects of American life.

However, Brezhnev, in bowing to security advisers who urge him to keep his head down in a nation full of homicidal nuts, is behaving as if he believed he had nothing to learn here. He is smothering his curiosity as if the rumors were true that Khrushchev lost his empathy with the Politburo by coming to understand the United States too well.

But Brezhnev ought to take the chance. He is said to be a good man of hearty tastes who likes hunting and fast cars.

Nixon, Congress enter era of coexistence

By STEVE GERSTEL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — After years of hostile confrontation, President Nixon and Congress are moving into an era of peaceful, although tenuous, coexistence.

Both sides have stepped back from the brink.

Congress, for its part, has started to reassert its badly eroded parity as an equal partner in government while, at the same time, accepting Nixon's determination to hold down government spending.

And Nixon, finally, has accepted Congress as an equal branch, expressing a new willingness to compromise with Capitol Hill and opening for the first time direct lines of communications.

The beginning of a new era was forcibly demonstrated in two unrelated events Tuesday.

Nixon signed four bills which the administration as far back as March 9 labeled "budget busting" and which Nixon was determined to veto. Melvin R. Laird spoke to the Senate Republicans at their weekly Tuesday luncheon and assured them that the relationship between Capitol Hill and the White House would be new, different, and better.

The two events were a dramatic departure from the days when the Haldeman-Ehrlichman axis ruled the White House. Congress was sent legislation on a take-it-or-leave-it-vetoed basis, and even the most loyal administration backers were ignored.

Analysis

Signed on Monday, although not announced until Tuesday, were four bills, three of which Nixon had previously vetoed as too costly.

The three bills extending a dozen health measures through June 30, 1974, authorizing $100 million for the economic development administration (EDA), and providing $620 million aid to airport development over two years were vetoed earlier. The fourth bill establishes a new veteran's cemetery system and increases burial benefits.

As late as March 9, John Ehrlichman, then Nixon's chief domestic strategist, called the airport, EDA, and cemetery bills part of a "budget busting" package, which he said Nixon was determined to block.

Ehrlichman labeled the three bills a "$9 billion herd of Trojan horses that are thundering our way from out of Congress, brightly painted and outfitted with very attractive accessories."

But in signing the bills, Nixon said he was entering into a "partnership of give and take" with Congress.

"Each measure differs somewhat from my own request, but each one also represents an effort by the Congress to strike a reasonable compromise with the administration," Nixon added. "While the authorization levels are higher than I believe desirable, they will not damage our overall fiscal position if the Congress now follows my recommendations in the appropriations process."

Nixon added, "so long as Congress follows a responsible course in the passage of future spending bills, I will cooperate in the spirit of partnership."

The real test of the detente is still to come. "The appropriations bills are just beginning to move through the House and have yet to reach the Senate."

Although the President's budget is set at $268.7 billion and Congress has a self-imposed ceiling of $260, the two sides hold different priorities. Congress appears ready to cut defense and foreign aid programs and divert the money to domestic needs, especially health and education. Nixon may balk at the rearranging of spending.

In language more reminiscent of the cold war between the two branches, Nixon said "let there be no mistake about one fundamental point — if bills come to my desk which are irresponsible and would break open the federal budget, forcing more inflation upon the American people, I will veto them."

ACLU raps trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) has asked U.S. District Court to set aside the convictions of the seven Watergate defendants and to order a new trial against "all" of those responsible "regardless of their station in life."

In a "friend of the court" motion filed with Judge John J. Sirica Wednesday, ACLU said Justice was "abused" in the criminal case in which five Watergate defendants pleaded guilty and two were convicted in a trial last January. It called the trial a "sham."

It said those who pleaded guilty "were receiving large sums of campaign cash" but "falsely represented otherwise" to the court.

The convictions, it charged, were obtained partly on the basis of perjured testimony by "at least two witnesses" — Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of the Nixon campaign, and Herbert L. Porter, former campaign schedule director, both of whom have admitted in Senate testimony that they lied to authorities in the criminal case.

At the same time, ACLU filed a lengthy "report" on the Watergate case with special prosecutor Archibald Cox urging him to conduct an immediate review to determine whether his office should file its own court motion to set aside the seven convictions.

Promise

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Eighteen years ago, a touring American held twin baby girls in his arms at a public health clinic in La Paz, Bolivia, and said he'd see to it they got a college education in the United States when they grew up.

His name was Richard M. Nixon. Ruth and Judith Leonard arrived here Wednesday to take him up on the offer. Nixon was vice president when he made the promise during a tour of Latin America. It was recalled by the girls' mother and a Bolivian newsmen when the girls turned 18 March 28.

Watergate clock

MIKE CHERNEY, Parma, Ohio, puts finishing touch on his Watergate bug clock which he plans to deliver in person to President Nixon Wednesday. He labored seven months to build the clock. A sign on side of clock says, "This clock is operated by bug power. It will not keep perfect time because there is still one bug in the clock, and no politician can get it out." (UPI)

'Fat cat' fund cut slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate lawmakers have drafted tentative legislation which would sharply cut "fat cat" contributions in the 1976 presidential campaign.

The Senate Rules Committee voted Wednesday to place a ceiling on donations by an individual or a committee to $15,000 in the primaries and $15,000 in the general elections.

In addition, there would be a limitation of $5,000 each in the primaries and the election for Senate and House candidates. These ceilings would take effect in 1974. And the proposed legislation would place an overall ceiling of $100,000 on all political contributions by an individual during a calendar year.

In effect, a husband and wife each contributing could give a presidential candidate $60,000 in the primaries and general election and spread around another $140,000 to Senate and House candidates. But the bill would outlaw the so-called "fat cat" contributors who donated heavily to President Nixon's re-election and, to a lesser degree, to George S. McGovern.

As an example, 18 persons contributed more than $200,000 to Nixon's campaign, including W. Clement Stone of Chicago who donated $2.1 million. Many others exceeded the proposed limits. A spokesman for Common Cause, while conceding that the legislation would curb contributions the size of Stone's, said it would not reach many large contributors, especially in congressional races. The committee's decisions were tentatively subject to change next week when the panel hopes to report the measure to the Senate.

Dean tells of 'snooping'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fired presidential counsel John W. Dean III says in testimony given investigators the White House used a political snoop to survey the New Hampshire presidential primary campaign of Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif.

Dean said Anthony T. Ulasewicz, a former New York City police detective, was ordered to observe the campaign in early 1972 in which McCloskey challenged President Nixon as an antiwar candidate for the GOP nomination.

"It really isn't a surprise," said McCloskey when told of Dean's testimony to investigators for the Senate-Watergate Committee.

But the congressman said that during the campaign in New Hampshire, he and his staff were unaware of White House snooping and "I didn't have any suspicions."

According to a summary of Dean's testimony provided to UPI, the survey of McCloskey's campaign apparently resulted from a meeting in 1971 between White House aide John J. Caulfield and then Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

Caulfield asked that Dean arrange a meeting between Caulfield and Mitchell on Nov. 24, the summary says of Dean's testimony. "Caulfield was given assignment to survey McCloskey's New Hampshire campaign. Ulasewicz undertook this survey."

Testimony by Caulfield has paid through President Nixon's personal attorney, Herbert W. Kalmbach, to perform "a variety of investigative functions."

No mention was made by Ulasewicz of activities by Ulasewicz in New Hampshire, but sources have linked him to a number of other efforts to gather political intelligence for the White House. They range from a probe of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Chappaquiddick accident to an investigation of a teacher reportedly harassing the President's daughter, Julie Nixon Eisenhower, in Florida.

Ulasewicz also has been named in public testimony as recipient of $75,000 for legal fees of the Watergate defendants and the anonymous caller who helped set up a meeting at which Caulfield said he delivered an offer of executive clemency to Watergate conspirator James W. McCord.

Anti-child abuse program stalled

BOISE (UPI) — Implementation of an anti-child-abuse program has been stalled in Idaho because of a wrong number the Mountain Bell Telephone Company issued the program's central answering service.

Officials of the Department of Environmental and Community Services said the number 1-822-2226 lacks an 800 toll-free prefix needed to make the number a toll-free number.

But officials for the telephone company said they would see that the material for promoting the program printed with the wrong number "gets fixed".

The number appears on all audio, visual and printed material used in the program to make people aware of child abuse in Idaho.

At present if the number is dialed a recording says "The number you have reached is not in service."

W. B. Voyles, communication consultant for Bell, said he was given the incomplete number by another telephone company employee, and he passed it on to the Office of Child Development, which originated the child abuse program.

In turn, employees to the state office forwarded the number to Franceschi Advertising, Tallahassee, Fla., who handled the $32,500 state contract signed by the old Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services.

The child abuse program first was scheduled to begin May 15, but problems in organization and promotion materials forced a delay until June.

Jack Steneck, director of program support for DECS, said the changes that now have to be made, along with regional organization, could delay the start until September or October.

Vicki Higgins, an information specialist for program support and coordinator of the child abuse program since the merger of the old Welfare Department with the Health Department, said the telephone number changes on all but the posters could most likely be done by patching.

The posters, she said, will have to be reprinted.

Call Andrus for gas

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Wednesday night announced his office phone number should be called by Idaho farmers for rapid action in case a gasoline shortage occurs.

Andrus told the Ada County Democrats if a gasoline shortage develops, "I want the state's farmers to rest assured that the governor's office will take swift action to see that the shortage in their area is quickly taken care of."

Andrus said that while in Washington, D.C., on Federation of Rocky Mountain states business, he was assured that there will be enough fuel this fall for farmers in the Rocky Mountain area to conduct their normal harvest operations.

"However, should any farmer anywhere be unable to obtain gas because of a shortage, I want them to call my office and ask for my special troubleshooter, Pat Vaughan," said Andrus.

"The number is 384-2100, and I assure you that Mr. Vaughan will get on it right away, and we'll see that the shortage is taken care of some way."

Ogden forest office awaits legislation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The fate of the U.S. Forest Service Intermountain Regional Office hangs in limbo as the House of Representatives takes up an appropriations bill with a clause preventing use of funds to move the office from Ogden, Utah, to Denver.

And a Senate agriculture and forestry subcommittee hearing on reorganization of the service will also consider the move next week.

The Agriculture Department says it will make "no irreversible" changes in the Intermountain Regional Office until after the Senate environmental, soil conservation and forestry subcommittee hearings on reorganization June 26-27 here.

And to prevent any move, a Senate-House conference committee Tuesday prohibited the service from using any of this year's supplemental appropriations to shift the responsibilities to Denver.

The same language — now in the supplemental appropriations bill — is also in the appropriations measure for fiscal year 1974 which goes before the House Friday.

The Agriculture Department had ordered the breakup of the five-state Intermountain Region earlier this year "to conform with the standard federal regions in other departments."

If implemented, the portions of the Intermountain Region in Utah and Wyoming would be shifted to Denver. Idaho national forests would move under the control of Portland, Ore., and Nevada and California forests now in the Intermountain area would come under control of San Francisco.

Legislative procedure meets set

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — The second meeting of the Citizens' Advisory Committee for Legislative Improvement will be held Friday in Idaho Falls.

Chairman John M. X. Moscow, said the meetings are to gather opinions from Idahoans on how to improve the legislature and will be held throughout the state in the coming year.

He said the meetings will be confined to opinions on legislative procedures and ways to keep the public better informed on the lawmakers' functions and activities rather than comments on specific issues or legislation.

Symms seeks end to postal monopoly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, Wednesday called for hearings on legislation to end the government postal monopoly.

"It is clear that something is fundamentally wrong with the postal service when American citizens must pay more and more for less and less," he said.

Why should Congress continue to support the notion of a government monopoly in the postal service simply because it is traditional? It is time for private enterprise to show what it can do," he said. Symms called the impending increase of first class postage rates to 10 cents from eight cents "unconscionable."

"At a time when the federal government is imposing severe restrictions upon price increases in the private sector, it is incredible that the federal government itself should seriously be contemplating a 25 per cent price increase in a service vital to communications within our country," he said.

Fuel program 'hopeless'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, Wednesday called for replacement of the administration's voluntary program of allotting scarce fuel supplies.

Church said the program is "hopelessly bogged down" and should be replaced with a more efficient system.

In a letter to the Office of Oil and Gas, the coordinating body for the voluntary system, Church said that in the absence of a mandatory fuel allotment program the system must be made more efficient.

Church suggested that the San Francisco office, which handles complaints from Idaho, designate a special telephone number and staff it with adequate personnel to better process complaints.

Nixon looks for fuel

By MORTON KONDRACKE (c) 1973, Chicago Sun-Times. WASHINGTON — President Nixon is planning to call for an Apollo-like national commitment to the development of new fuel sources as part of his forthcoming energy message, administration sources said.

By stating the nation's dedication in urgent terms akin to those used in launching the space program, the President hopes to induce oil-producing countries to come to reasonable terms in negotiations of oil prices and availability, the sources said.

The United States hopes to obtain a long-term agreement with members of the 11-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries that will guarantee adequate supplies of oil at reasonable prices.

The call for an all-out national commitment to develop energy resources other than imported oil, according to the sources, will be designed to increase US leverage with OPEC members, seven of which are Arab states in the Middle East and North Africa.

Per-barrel taxes charged by OPEC nations jumped from 80 cents in 1970 to $1.25 in 1971. They are expected to rise to $1.80 in 1973, when current agreements expire, and OPEC members reportedly are discussing a $1.50 tax increase in 1976 alone.

Nixon had been scheduled to release his energy message last weekend in Key Biscayne, Fla., but it was postponed because of difficulties in choosing a high visibility energy "Czar" for the administration.

Nixon reportedly is seeking a nationally recognized figure who will symbolize his dedication to solving the energy crisis.

The "Czar" would take a post either as presidential adviser or as head of a new energy resources office within the executive office of the President. The administration recommended creation of a cabinet department of energy and natural resources. But that proposal is still under congressional scrutiny.

A series of candidates, including present and former state governors, bankers and corporation executives, have come under consideration for the post.

Former Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton reportedly was considered at one point but was dropped for undetermined reasons.

Although administration sources denied its importance as a factor, Scranton is known to be in ill favor with Jewish interests in the United States because of his recommendation for an "even-handed" US Middle East policy.

Some Arab nations have threatened to use oil as a political weapon to drive a wedge between the United States and Israel. According to administration sources yesterday, present plans call for Nixon to release his energy message next week, perhaps Monday or Tuesday. Besides a moonshot-style research and development effort in energy — backed by a commitment to spend up to $10 billion above current cost projections, the President is expected to urge short-term efforts by the American people to conserve energy.

The source said Nixon will ask consumers to keep their air-conditioner thermostats set five degrees higher and their auto speeds at 50 m.p.h. to conserve energy this summer.

TF County youth to Sawtooths for camp experience

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — About 50 young people from Twin Falls County will enjoy several days of camping in the Sawtooth Mountains as guests of the 4-H Builders Club.

The group of young folks of ages 9-12 years, accompanied by 13 members of the club, left Wednesday by bus for the South Central Idaho 4-H Camp in the mountains and will return Friday evening.

A get-acquainted party for the campers and their counselors was held Monday evening on the lawn of the old hospital building. The group was instructed what to take for their camping tour, games were played, and refreshments were served by the Busy Bodies 4-H Club, Kimberly, with Phyllis Britt, chairman. This is the second year the group has sponsored a camp for children from disadvantaged homes, according to Mrs. Frank Southwick, Buhl, adviser for the club and camp director.

Purpose of the camp is to give children opportunities to enjoy camping experience which otherwise they might not have had. During the three days in the mountains, they will participate in games and contests, swimming, handicrafts.

They will take part in daily flag salute and ceremonies and learn more about their country, helping them to feel proud to be Americans, Mrs. Southwick said. A table prayer said before each meal will demonstrate the place of religion in daily lives.

Money to sponsor the camp was raised by the club through lamb sales at the Twin Falls County Fair last year and other projects. Several local business firms also have donated money to the project.

Current officers of the club are Janelle Johnson, Kimberly, president; Caroline Jesser, Twin Falls, vice president; Lauren Reed, Filer, secretary; Terry Thomas, Castleford, treasurer; Todd Claiborn, Kimberly, sergeant-at-arms; Anna Koontz, Kimberly; Carol Skinner, Twin Falls, and Kathy O'Keefe, Twin Falls, historians.

Reporters for the club are Cheryl Armstrong, Twin Falls; Debbie Cox, Castleford, and Kurt Dawn, Hansen.

Guests attend 4-Hers camp

QUENTIN Fry, 10, Twin Falls, and Helen Hernandez, 11, Twin Falls, two of the children who will attend camp this week as guests of the 4-H Builders Club, are shown with Guy Lemmon, Buhl, left, and Susan Jesser, Kimberly, two of the club members who will serve as counselors at the camp.

Hansen lowers use rates

HANSEN — Commercial sewer use rates will be lowered to the same amount as residential rates in Hansen beginning with the July billing.

The decision was made by members of the Hansen Sewer and Water Improvement Association Inc. board at a meeting Monday night. The change was made because the City Council had lowered water rates to commercial users and it was felt that the sewer charges should be kept in line with water charges.

Any sewer bills which have not been paid for three months or more will be sent to a collection agency for collection. The action was taken because of a lack of cooperation by those who have let their bills become delinquent.

Crop production gain for US forecast in '73

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. crop production will probably rise substantially this year while net farm income leaps to another new record of over $22 billion, Agriculture Department economists said today.

Experts writing in a special farm outlook report said booming livestock feed prices have apparently dampened farmers' plans for expanding meat, milk and poultry production. They said output of beef and pork would about equal last year's total, with expected second-half production gains balancing losses suffered from January through June.

The report said although planting has been late this year because of wet weather, farmers are catching up and total planted acreage could expand by 23 million acres with overall crop output up roughly 5 per cent from 1972.

Corn production might hit the government goal of a record 5 billion bushels and soybeans could reach the hoped-for record of 1.5 billion bushels, the report said, in spite of late planting and other problems including fuel and occasional fertilizer shortages.

However, the report said, corn planting also may have fallen below the government's 74 million acre goal and "the lateness of the planting season raises questions about both acreage and yields."

The fuel situation was described as "tough and gloomy" for harvesting wheat and other small grains. There could be problems this fall in harvesting and drying corn, and prospective supplies of L.P. gas for drying other crops are causing concern.

Farm

"Corn drying occurs at about the same time that demand for L.P. gas for home heating increases, and thus a real conflict may arise over use," the report warned.

The Agriculture Department earlier had predicted that net farm income, after setting what had seemed an amazing record of $19.2 billion in 1972, would rise again to near $21 billion in 1973 despite preliminary fears that returns might falter this year. But after reassessing a wild upswing in farm prices in recent months, experts today jettisoned the near-$21 billion forecast and predicted 1973 net farm income may jump to over $22 billion.

The gain is predicted in spite of the fact that government subsidy payments to farmers will be off by more than $1 billion from last year's record $4 billion.

Other highlights of the report included: Farm prices could soften if President Nixon gets and uses his proposed new authority for controlling farm exports.

The price boom this spring was caused by "unprecedented domestic and foreign demand for commodities in the face of diminished stocks and uncertainty over the extent of increases in 1973 crop production, particularly for wheat, feed grains, rice and soybeans.

Beef production in the second half of 1973 is likely to rise seasonally, and prices may weaken. Pork prices are expected to decline from summer peaks in the fall, but will be above a year earlier. Broiler production, which is being held down by high feed costs, will remain below a year earlier through summer and possibly through fall.

Egg production will be

rising in coming months but will remain below 1972 levels — contrary to earlier expectations, all through the year.

— Corn plantings in the corn belt as of June 17 were 96 per cent complete compared with virtual completion on the same date last year. Another report added that farmers probably would not plant any corn for grain harvest after mid-June.

With strong demand in sight, Chicago corn prices surged from $1.60 a bushel in April to over $2.50 this month, and even a bumper crop this year will command strong prices.

Planting of soybeans as of June 17 was far behind last year's pace, but acreage may reach 55 million acres. Prospective record crops of soybeans and wheat may exceed demand slightly.

Protein feed for livestock remains at record levels and will stay high at least until the new soybean crop is harvested.

Final journey

MIAMI (UPI) — A swimming pig came to a bad end Wednesday.

Fished from the ocean 15 miles northeast of Miami Beach by a party of anglers Monday, the porker was killed by Department of Agriculture veterinarians Wednesday.

They killed it because its origin was not known and because of the possibility it might have been a carrier of diseases which could have been transmitted either to humans or other pigs.

Mike Landley, Haleah, and four friends pulled the sunburned, salt-encrusted pig from the water when it swam up to their boat. They said they had no idea how the pig got there.

On being rescued, the pig drank some water, ate a bit of food, and fell asleep.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are installing a swimming pool, and already everyone we know is asking if they can come over and use it when it's finished. We are not rich. We both work and are paying for this pool with our hard-earned money.

If we wanted to swim with a bunch of people, we'd go to a public pool. We are putting in our own because we want our privacy.

How do we tell these people that we aren't looking for company after our pool is completed? Or worse yet, what do we say to the neighbors when they come knocking at our door in their swimsuits?

Activities at CSI cover large range

TWIN FALLS — Extracurricular activities at the College of Southern Idaho during the 1972-73 school year covered a wide range of activities.

A release from college officials lists such activities as movies, concerts, speakers, dances, intramurals, drama and speech and art shows to name a few.

Activities sponsored by student activity fees or instructional funds cost CSI a total of $10,222.24. The total cost of the activities was much greater, but was offset by revenue produced by the events.

A breakdown of activities, their attendance and their net cost to the college, lists 22 movies, 2,224, $127.35; 9 concerts, 5,902, $2,233.96; 11 coffee houses, 1,530, $2,007.22; 8 speakers, 1,990, $1,826.11; 5 dances, 302, $902.43; 4 special events, 872, $134.26; 37 intramurals, 212, $1,546.10; 30 intercollegiate athletic home games, unknown; 1 rodeo, 200, $600; 1 judo tournament, 120, none; 4 girls' softball, unknown, $277; 5 drama and speech productions, unknown; 5 music productions, unknown; 7 art shows, unknown, $578.81; 37 miscellaneous activities, unknown, none.

There are listed a total of 186 activities attended by at least 16,360 persons and costing the college at least $10,222.24.

In addition, there were a total of 14 music productions, two drama productions and seven miscellaneous productions on campus which were available to CSI students but which were sponsored by various community organizations.

The release also says game room facilities were used daily by students.

No privacy with pool

DEAR H AND H: People with pools must have rules, but there's no point in alienating everyone before your pool is finished. Wait until it's ready for use, and alienate them one by one.

DEAR ABBY: Women are getting so nervous now with the Women's Lib thing, they are asking men to dance.

I had a harrowing experience the other night when my wife and I were at a public dance hall. She left me to go to the powder room, and you wouldn't believe the number of klutzes who moved in on me, asking me to dance with them. I am 60, bald and no bargain, but that didn't seem to make any difference.

Next time I'll go to the powder room with my wife. Phooey on equal rights!
BALDY

DEAR BALDY: Don't "phooey" so fast. Why shouldn't women be able to ask men to dance? Some men would be delighted. And those who aren't can always say no.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are legally separated, and I am expecting next month. The doctor says it will be twins. I already have one child.

I want to send out birth announcements. Is this proper under the circumstances? If it is, should I write in my name only where it says "Parents" on the announcement? Or should I include his too?

I hadn't even thought it might not be proper until my family raised the question. They all have different opinions.
EXPECTING TWINS

DEAR EXPECTING: Under the circumstances, forego the printed announcements. Write a personal note to your close friends to inform them of the double-header.

DEAR ABBY: I am still chafing over the doctor who wrote that he regrets his parents for allowing him to be circumcised as an infant.

Point one. What mature person would harbor such resentment for a temporary discomfort that he can't even remember? And point two. If he knew his business, he would know that cervical cancer among women whose husbands are circumcised is far less frequent than among the others.

Sir Kay was the one cowardly knight of the Round Table. He was also a coward at the bridge table. He thought his jump to four clubs was a tremendous overbid and might keep Lancelot from getting to the right contract.

A more enterprising and valiant knight would have jumped to six clubs and probably kept Lancelot out of the grand slam. All the four-club bid did was tell the peerless knight and bridge player how to go about the business of making the grand slam.

Lancelot ruffed the club lead and drew trumps. He noticed that Kay followed to three leads. He also knew that Kay held a lot of clubs for his preempt. Hence if anyone held all four diamonds it would be the unfortunate Sir Palamides sitting East.

Just to make sure Lancelot cashed his ace of spades. Kay followed to that also and now Lancelot was ready for the diamonds. He led a diamond to dummy's ace. Kay showed out and it was a simple matter to lead the 10 of diamonds, overtake East's jack, go back to dummy with the queen of spades and finesse against East's nine to make the grand slam.

Lancelot might have played diamonds that same way if Kay had not bid at all. After the four-club bid the play was just about a cinch.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Human, Hazelton, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Collins, Wayan. Rev. George Hirose, Valley Presbyterian Church, conducted the wedding ceremony before a setting of evergreen trees and baskets of yellow daisies and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of lace over peau de soie. The gown featured long full sleeves with wide lace trimmed cuffs closed with small pearl buttons.

Her chapel length veil of illusion was held by a pearl covered headpiece. The gown, veil and headpiece were made by the bride. She carried a bouquet of white daisies, yellow rosebuds and baby's breath.

Mrs. Kenneth Watts was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Laurel Collins and Robin Collins.

Richard Collins served as best man. Barry Hamblin and Brad Human were ushers.

Art Knudson played wedding music on the organ, which was loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Art Knudson, Twin Falls.

The couple was honored at a reception on the lawn immediately following the ceremony.

The bride's table, covered with lace over yellow, was centered with a four tiered cake decorated with white daisies and greenery. A small arrangement of yellow daisies and white baby's breath topped the cake.

Mrs. Arita Van Epps, grandmother of the bridegroom, made the mints. Mrs. Art Knudson, Twin Falls, cut and served the cake. Mrs. William Wright and Mrs. LaMar Black, both Hazelton, served coffee and punch. Both are staff of the bride. The cake and punch were made by Mrs. Leo Hite, Eden.

Don't use deep containers to store food in the refrigerator. Food in large masses is its own insulator, keeping the center warm long after the outer part has chilled almost to the freezing point. Shallow pans filled no more than three or four inches deep are safest.

A Lovelier You

LEND A PEARLY EAR

By Mary Sue Miller

A Lovelier asks: "What can I do about my ears? They are too large. But worse, they are red and shiny. Like my kid brother's. (He's 10 years old. I'm going on 19.)"

The Answer: "The oversized ear may be a family trait."

But the color and shine come from rather harsh cleansing methods. Also from noise at all, probably your kid brother's gambol.

For a wash that results in a pearly, pretty ear you need a lather of mild soap on a soft complexion brush. Simply go around the shell and back of the ears with the sudsy brush. Rinse well with a water-dampened face cloth, dry with little pads. Then for a matte finish gently press a facial chamomile on the ears' outer surfaces, as you would a blotter. Another aid to the cause on special occasions is a film of powder base. After application to your face, just whisk the residue on your hands into the shells of your ears. If you do not use powder base, try a dusting of baby powder. Apply the least bit on a powder brush. Under no circumstances let anything you use on your ears slip into the ear canal.

Girls with large ears often feel that they cannot wear short hairdos. It's nice to know in this summer of shorter hair that if the top of the ear is partly covered and the hair is cut to fit into a manicured nape, the disguise will be just fine. Should you happen to be an earring collector, don't go for the dinky or the dangly. Choose buttons and stars — big ones.

Public meet set Friday in Jerome

JEROME — A public hearing will be conducted at 10 a.m. Friday to consider the recommendation of the Jerome County Planning and Zoning Commission concerning the Chalet Amusement Center.

The amusement center is located just north of the Perrine Bridge along State Highway 97 and is owned by Val Feller, Nampa. The center has been a controversial issue since it was moved to its present location from its former site on the south side of the Perrine Bridge without prior approval from the county commission.

Feller had begun operation of the center in its new location after the zoning commission made its recommendation on May 17 to grant a variance in the present classification of the land. He was ordered by the Jerome County Commission and the Idaho Land Board to shut down or face a criminal complaint for violating the county zoning ordinances.

He was also told he was in violation of his lease agreement with the state land board when he did not comply with the county zoning ordinances before beginning construction. Feller has complied with the order to shut down and has posted large signs at the center stating that he was forced to close but hopes to open soon.

Capt. Chesley signs new book

BURLEY — Capt. Larry Chesley signed nearly 500 copies of his new book "Seven Years in Hanoi" in three hours here Wednesday afternoon.

Chesley returned to his home town to promote the book and to introduce his new bride.

The book, according to Chesley, a returned prisoner of war, is the first book published by a returned Vietnam POW.

The line reached nearly the length of the store where the book went on sale as residents and friends eagerly awaited Chesley's arrival at 2 p.m. Nearly 400 people turned out to see Chesley and to get his signature on their copy of the book.

Many people had purchased several books for relatives and friends and Chesley signed most with a personalized greeting.

The 160-page book is published by Bookcraft Publishers of Salt Lake City. The firm prints primarily books concerning the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Chesley's book will be sold at several area locations and throughout Idaho and Utah where church books are sold.

Chesley began his story with the shooting down of his plane over seven years ago and described the year he spent as a prisoner in North Vietnam. He concludes with his arrival in the states and his homecoming in Burley.

Chesley was married Tuesday in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple to Annette Huntsman, a California teacher he met while he was at Travis Air Force Base shortly after his return from Vietnam. He was divorced while a prisoner in North Vietnam.

Following a tour of the Caribbean and Florida, the couple will reside in Tempe, Ariz., where Chesley will attend graduate school in business administration at Arizona State University.

New TF group airs protest

By DAVE JOHNSON
Special to the Times-News

TWIN FALLS — A newly formed community improvement organization, Reaction, has protested against alleged unfair allocation of food stamps by the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS).

Reaction, according to chairman Al Reyes, is an ad hoc committee including representatives from the Community Action Agency, the Community Improvement Agency and the Idaho Migrant Council, formed to improve community conditions.

He said that because of numerous complaints of unjust decisions by the local DECS office, the fledgling committee has set "fair allotment of food stamps" as their first topic of concern.

The committee has lodged a formal protest with Rep. Orval Hansen's Twin Falls office, Sen. Frank Church's Boise office and with the regional DECS office.

Eligibility for food stamps is determined by DECS, a state agency, while funding for the program comes from the US Department of Agriculture (USDA).

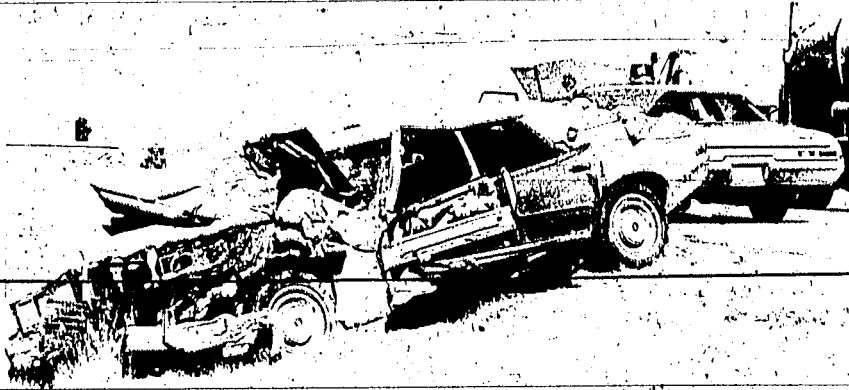

Members of Reaction stated that the Twin Falls County DECS office "seemed to have made a concerted effort to distribute food stamps as conservatively as possible, especially in the case of migrant workers." They feel that they have valid complaints by 30 individuals to support their statements.

Bob Murdock, director of the regional DECS office, does not agree. The source of the problem, he said, was that an applicant's eligibility for food stamps is "determined by his projected income for the upcoming month. For applicants with variable rates of income, especially migrant workers, this is extremely difficult."

He states that he has requested that the USDA provide clearer guidelines in these problem areas, and, when they are provided, he promised to meet with members of Reaction to discuss the new guidelines.

He felt that "after the fact" checks on the accuracy of stamp allotment by an independent Quality Control Unit has shown that their office has averaged only a 10 per cent error in its projections.

In addition, he emphasized that if errors are made in income projection, that if the individual would return, a re-estimation of income can be made.

Interstate accident near Eden injures three

Seat belt use saves 3 lives

EDEN — Idaho State Police credit the use of seat belts with saving the lives of three persons involved in a spectacular three-vehicle accident near here Thursday night.

A Wendell couple, C. Ray Duncan, 54, and Audine Duncan, 50, and their son, Kim, 18, were taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Thursday night after their vehicle crashed into the rear of a three-quarter-ton highway department truck on Interstate 80 near here. All are listed in good condition today.

State Patrolman William Green said all three were wearing seat belts. He said their vehicle crashed into the rear of a warning truck in the inside lane. The highway truck was moving slowly or stopped behind a paint crew striping the lanes of the highway.

Officers said apparently the Wendell driver pulled into the inside lane to go around another vehicle and did not see the paint truck in time to avoid the collision.

After the sedan struck the truck, it spun completely around and crashed into the rear of a large truck towing another truck in piggy-back fashion. The driver of the large truck, Eldon Ellabarger, 70, Albuquerque, N.M., told officers he heard the impact but did not feel it. He decided to turn around and go back to see what had happened. Officers said one of his rear tires was slashed open and considerable damage was done to the rear of the truck.

Michael Murray, 20, Boise, driver of the highway truck, was also wearing a seat belt and escaped injury. His truck careened into the highway median and overturned once.

The accident occurred about 5:30 p.m. Officers are continuing their investigation.

Scientists tour MV beet areas

Duchateau said some of the plants in Europe, use the excess water to spray fields of sugar beets to avoid discharging it into streams. He said pollution control must consider ground water as well as surface water, however.

Other wastes of the sugar beet are used for syrup and other by-products to prevent discharging of solids from the processing plants.

Duchateau said the United States areas he has visited show they are making good progress in pollution control, not only in cleaning up streams but in meeting air pollution problems.

Kint said there are many more governmental controls of sugar production in European countries.

"Only about 10 per cent of the sugar produced is on the world market. The remaining 90 per cent is a 'political product,' being traded by political leaders of one country to another for special gains," he said.

Kint said in 10 years there will be a shortage of sugar and there is no worry of an over production at this time.

In Europe, he said, there is no hand labor in the sugar beet fields. Machines are used and only in the small garden plot type fields where an office or industrial worker with a farm background may grow a few sugar beets will one find hand labor for thinning, weeding or harvesting.

The sugar beet experts leave Twin Falls Friday morning for Yellowstone National Park. Today's program included visits to several beet fields, Milner Dam area, the Snake River Research Center and research laboratory of Amalgamated Sugar Co. The group also visited the Thousand Springs area and Bell Rapids farm project fields.

Women accompanying their husbands on the tour are being entertained by Idaho sugar beet growers wives.

Idaho Youth Ranch probe continues

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

ROBERT — Development of a treatment program and completion of criminal investigations at the Idaho Youth ranch are the major concerns here today.

The new director James Worsley is touring youth facilities and studying their programs this week. He expects to return and begin setting up a program at the youth ranch next week, according to William Mitchell, acting ranch director.

The department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) is "working with the board to resurrect a program there," Dr. James Bax, DECS director, said today.

"We support the endeavors of the board to get this program back on its feet," Bax said. "We want everyone on the board to continue their activities."

Bax said he ordered the criminal investigation of alleged child abuse at the ranch because the department "isn't satisfied yet" with an earlier investigation conducted by the attorney general's office.

Program set

KIMBERLY — A recognition program and potluck dinner will be held at 6 p.m. Friday at the Ageless Senior Citizens Center, 308 Main St. N.

Nancy Hollifield Taylor, director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, said there will be a special program featuring country fiddlers and Marvin Brown, winner of Idaho's senior talent show.

"After many volunteer hours of service spent renovating the center in Kimberly and collecting funds to purchase a mini-bus to transport seniors, a time for celebration has arrived," Mrs. Taylor said.

Citizens throughout Magic Valley are invited to attend.

TF man, 30, cited

TWIN FALLS — Gary Olsen, 30, Twin Falls, was cited for failure to be reasonable and prudent after his vehicle crashed into a power pole on US Highway 30 three miles west of Twin Falls Wednesday night.

State Patrolman Cole Watkins said Olsen was traveling west and attempted to avoid another vehicle, lost control of his 1973 sedan and skidded sideways along the highway. The rear of his car struck the pole, breaking it off.

A Cable Vision line fell on the highway but the power lines remained suspended from the broken pole.

New Lincoln projects get praise

SHOSHONE — Shoshone and Richfield were complimented at a Water Resource Board meeting Wednesday night in Shoshone for their new sewer systems.

Larry Turnbull, Boise, of the board, and Hugh Hedges of JOB Engineers, presented a report on a water and sewage study made in the area under sponsorship of the Farmers Home Administration.

No recommendations were made for a central sewer system in Dietrich.

Turnbull said the board did not feel such a system was feasible at this time.

Shoshone was complimented for quality of water. Both fluoride and chlorine are added to the Shoshone water system. The report said some areas would be better served if some water lines were larger. It suggested a loop system instead of a dead end system of piping. This would aid pressure problems, the report said.

During the discussion period, the officials said that contamination of water in rural areas in some instances cannot be traced by tests. According to the visiting officials, contamination may not come from specific residents or their corals, but from elsewhere.

They speculated that some drilled wells on the underground water system are contaminated by lack of proper drainage of waste materials.

In some Richfield and north Shoshone areas, soil is not conducive to a successful leaching system, the officials said.

State group opens in Burley

BURLEY — Novella Eberhart, Boise, was named LPN of the year Wednesday during the 26th annual Licensed Practical Nurses Convention here.

Business sessions which began Wednesday are continuing today. This afternoon, bids for the 1975 convention will be considered.

State executive and district presidents' meetings were conducted Tuesday and the general business session opened Wednesday. Mrs. Eberhart was named LPN of the year during a luncheon Wednesday when all past LPN's of the year were introduced.

Following a panel discussion Wednesday afternoon, the nurses had a picnic at Salmon Park in Burley.

The discussion was on "Your Opinion Please" with Grace Holton, Caldwell, first vice president as moderator.

Election returns will be announced Friday morning. Seminars will be conducted by Dr. John M. McKain, Dr. Russell Newcombe and Dr. Harry F. Brumbach, all Twin Falls, during the rest of the day.

Slim Dossey, former member of the Sons of the Pioneers, will be master of ceremonies at the annual dinner Friday night when new officers will be installed.

Milburn ties mark; Wottle runs 3:53.3

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Rod Milburn, somewhat chagrined at his failure to make the American team that tours Europe next month, tied his world record time of 13 seconds Wednesday night in the 120 high hurdles at an invitational track and field meet.

The Southern University flash took advantage of a warm and calm night to blaze over the hurdles during a negligible wind of 2.24 miles an hour. He matched the mark he established on the same track last July during the U.S. Olympic trials.

Dave Wottle ran the third fastest mile in history in leading five other runners under 3:59. Wottle, who said he was out to prove his mettle as a miler after taking the Olympic crown in the 800 meters, was timed in 3:53.3, defeating Delano Brewer Prefontaine, who was clocked in 3:54.6.

Reuschel pitched a complete game, allowing three runs, three hits and one walk in 10 1/3 innings. Aker pitched a scoreless eighth and ninth.

Arlin pitched a complete game, allowing two runs, four hits and one walk in 10 1/3 innings. The Padres scored on three errors and a walk.

Reds beat SF on 6-run frame

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A two-run homer by Tony Perez and a bases-empty blast by Hal King keyed a six-run fourth inning rally Wednesday that carried the Cincinnati Reds to a 7-5 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Perez hit a two-run homer in the fourth, and King followed with a two-run homer in the fifth. The Reds scored on four errors and a walk.

Phils collect fifth straight

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Greg Luzinski doubled home a run in the first inning and singled home the tie-breaking run in a three-run fifth Wednesday night to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to their fifth straight victory.

Luzinski's double in the first and single in the fifth were the only hits for the Phillies. The Phillies scored on three errors and a walk.

Brennan unveils format to # bolster American boxing

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Yankee dollar has a better chance of remaining in the United States under an American plan to crack the world boxing ratings.

The flow of championship fights has been away from the United States and Teddy Brenner, president of Madison Square Garden Boxing, made his bid Wednesday to turn the tide by establishing U.S. titles in each division.

Brenner's plan was pinned to the drafting table for some time before he finally converted theory to reality. The fight promoter scheduled three 12-round fights for next month, all with the sanction of the New York State Athletic Commission and each for a new American title.

Sammy Goss, a knockout specialist from Trenton, N.J., who has lost only three of 36 fights, will face Jose Fernandez of New York (16-3-1) on July 7 for the U.S. junior-lightweight title. On July 14, Esteban De Jesus of Puerto Rico (33-1-0) takes on Ray Lampkin of Seattle (22-1-1) for the light-weight crown and Mike Quarry of Los Angeles (39-2-2) battles Billy Kelly Wagner of Cleveland (31-5-1) for the American light heavyweight championship on July 21.

Brenner's big dream is a heavyweight championship series, with the winner ultimately meeting George Foreman for the world crown. Winners of the Jerry Quarry-Earnie Shaver and Muhammad Ali-Ken Norton bouts and former world champ Joe Frazier will be involved in this series.

"You don't have to hunch up this course to stay in contention," said Miller, whose $35,000 first prize for winning the open jumped him to sixth on this year's money list with more than $114,000. "If you shoot three 71's and have a 66, I'd say you'd have a good chance to win it."

Of the top six on this year's money winning list, only Lee Trevino is absent.

(AGG) at the Firestone Country club here.

"It's really hard to concentrate," said the San Francisco native. "In fact if this wasn't one of my favorite courses I wouldn't be here."

Miller, in his fifth year on the PGA tour, despite his youth, finished tied for ninth in the 1971 AGG for his best showing on the 7,100 yard, par 70 Firestone Course. He had a 72 hole score of 287.

Miller finds concentrating on golf difficult after open win

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Young Johnny Miller, who won the 1973 U.S. Open with a sizzling final round 63 last Sunday at Oakmont Country Club, is discovering some of the problems of winning the big one.

Miller, 26, said Wednesday he was finding it "really hard" to concentrate on his game as he teed off in a pro-am event prior to Thursday's start of the $160,000 American Golf Classic

No more mountains

DETROIT (UPI) — Jockey Ron Turcotte said Wednesday the horse he rode to the first triple crown in 15 years, Secretariat, has "nothing to prove" in any future race he might run.

"He's done everything a horse can do," Turcotte said. "He's set three track records. What more can he do? I know he can beat older horses now."

The Canadian-born winner of five of the last six triple crown events aboard first Riva Ridge and then Secretariat said, "I know as much as you," concerning a recent report which had trainer Lucien Laurin's horse running at Chicago against challengers Lina's Chief and Our Native.

"I tried to get ahead of Lucien last night," he said, "but I couldn't. If they run him there, I'll ride him."

The 31-year-old Long Island, N.Y., resident again declined to compare his two Kentucky Derby winners, but Turcotte did say "I know which one I'd ride" if there was ever a conflict.

Although it sometimes eats fruit, the bulk of the diet of the red-bellied woodpecker is composed of injurious forest insects, according to the Missouri Conservation Commission.

Pro women put $ bite on Wimbledon

LONDON (UPI) — The world's top women tennis stars threatened to join the men in a boycott of the Wimbledon championships today unless they receive equal prize money.

Mrs. Billie Jean King, a four-time Wimbledon champion, said about 100 of the women would meet tonight to form a players union and vote on a possible boycott.

"We want more loot," she said. "If I can get the backing of the top 12 women players I am all for pulling out like the men."

The men voted to boycott Wimbledon early Wednesday to protest against Yugoslavia's Nikki Pilić being banned from the tournament by the International Lawn Tennis Federation (I.L.T.F.).

British Sports Minister Eldon Griffiths intervened in the dispute Wednesday night without resolving the crisis in meetings with the chiefs of the players' Association of Tennis Professionals (A.T.P.) and the I.L.T.F.

The move came as about 40 of the top men players, including several former Wimbledon champions, withdrew from the tournament.

A.T.P. President Cliff Drysdale called the boycott "an all-or-nothing fight" and predicted up to 75 tennis stars would participate.

The I.L.T.F. suspended Pilić from playing in Wimbledon or any other tournament until June 30 after he failed to show up to play for his native Yugoslavia in a Davis Cup match against New Zealand.

Mrs. King said the women players were angry because their 19,400 pounds ($51,000) in prize money in the tournament totaled 40 per cent less than the men, who share 31,400 pounds ($79,000) in prizes.

"We are in a unique bargaining position now," she said. "With none of the top men players competing, it will be the women the spectators want to see — and that deserves more money."

The team has been working hard and showing good improvement," Coach Ferris reports. "We have some individuals who show good promise."

It isn't often Twin Falls has sufficient personnel to enter all events but Coach Ferris can do that this year. He works the "A" swimmers out twice a day and the "B" swimmers once. That classification is based on the times they've posted over the year.

Ferris won't be with the team long, just two months this season and then will return to California. He's a graduate of Stanford and finds the swimming pace here much more to his liking.

"In California all the emphasis is on winning. They feel if you don't win you've lost the whole summer," he explains. "I wanted to coach but not in that kind of atmosphere and I wanted to see what it like in a small town. When the chance came for this job I took it and I'm really enjoying it."

T.F. swim prospects growing

With a former Olympian at the helm, the Twin Falls team is starting to make a few waves in Idaho meets.

Coach John Ferris, a Sacramento product who took bronze medals in the 1968 Olympics in the 200-meter individual medley and 200-meter butterfly, is working with 72 youngsters of all ages.

The team has had one competition, last weekend at Pocatello, and for the first time Twin Falls came out on top in the pool. However, Coach Ferris had no divers and Pocatello used its strength there to win the overall title.

The next Twin Falls competition comes in a relay battle — Saturday — at Harmon Park pool, followed by a meet in Lava Hot Springs the following Saturday. The big event of the year locally is the intermountain AAU meet which is slated for July 13-14 and 15.

Instructions

Rangers knock Twins out of loop lead with 3-0 whitewash

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Sunny Siobert pitched a six-hitter and Vic Harris smashed two triples, including a two-run blast in the second inning, Wednesday night to give the Texas Rangers a 3-0 win over Minnesota and knock the Twins out of first place in the AL Western Division.

Jim Speiser drew a walk with one out in the Texas second inning and moved to second base on Jeff Borroughs' single — before Harris tripled both runners home. Harris hit his second triple in the ninth and scored on Ken Suarez' single.

Red Carew, who entered the game with an 18-game hitting streak, saw that streak come to an end with an 0-for-3. Ed Kirkpatrick and Tommy Davis now share the league mark with Carew for the longest hitting streak in the American League this year.

Chicago's Pat Kelly's first homer of the season produced three runs and highlighted a six-run seventh inning Wednesday as the Chicago White Sox outslugged the California Angels 8-3 and broke a five game losing streak.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Question arises as to which is typically the more jealous, the husband or the wife. Our Love and War man says the husband. He bases his theory on studies of polygamous societies. Wherein a husband is allowed to have more than one wife. And a wife is allowed to have more than one husband. When wives share a man, they rarely fight. But when husbands share a wife, they often times wind up killing one another. History records that, repeatedly.

MEDICS

Argument here is whether our medics in the service overseas ever carried guns?

In Europe, no. In the South Pacific during World War II, in Korea, and in Vietnam, yes. The Geneva Convention allows medics to bear arms for self defense.

Researchers at the LaFayette Clinic in Detroit ran a statistical study of 469 emotionally disturbed youngsters. Most of whom with the severest trouble, it turned out, had been conceived in June, July and August, born in March, April and May. Coincidence? Possibly. Still, some analysts quick to jump to conclusions think this finding indicates conception in the hot summer months might be risky.

How long have you owned your kitchen range, madam? Estimated longevity of same in city homes is 16 years, in rural homes 13 years. Those country girls cook a lot more, you see.

STITCHES

The solid parol ant of Honduras won't relax the bite of its strong pincers even when decapitated. That's why Indians throughout for years have used said ants to suture flesh wounds. Please brace yourself. Placed exactly over the laceration, the ants bite, thus closing the wound somewhat. Bodies of the ants are twisted off. What's left is a row of stitches.

Elks admit blacks, may lose charter

KENOSHA, Wis. (UPI)—The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks has troubles in Wisconsin. Lodge No. 750 of Kenosha could lose its charter because it has two members who are not white.

Since Jan. 27, 1971, the lodge here has been on record in opposition to the national Elks' rule admitting only whites as members.

"That stand put the club at the forefront of a fight to allow non-white members of the first such statement by a Wisconsin Elks club and perhaps the first in the nation.

Since that call for elimination of the all-white rules, the issue has grown more volatile. Last July, at a national convention, the Elks voted to crack down on local lodges that didn't accept the rule.

This spring, the national group revoked the Kenosha club's membership and sent a representative to bring back the charter and the other Elks' property.

The club went to court to keep its charter. It won a temporary injunction and is after a permanent injunction.

"We took our stand in 1971, and we still feel the restriction is long outdated and conflicts with accepted moral and legal principles of the year 1973," says John Malloy, spokesman for the Kenosha Elks.

The lodge will seek to continue a court order which prohibits the national organization from any interference with continued operations of the lodge.

When the lodge took the decision to oppose the exclusionary rule in 1971, Malloy said the membership was "virtually unanimous" in agreeing to it.

The lodge now has some 900 members and Malloy said there are four or five non-whites in the club.

"I took some courage, sure," he said. "Look at the trouble we're facing now."

He added, "In Kenosha more than two years ago the Elks determined that racial discrimination was wrong. Further, they determined that such a practice was a violation of the letter and spirit of the Constitution."

He also noted that if the club had kept up the policy of restricting its membership, its liquor license would have been endangered.

Recent court decisions have given the states the right to take away licenses and tax exemptions from private clubs if they practice discrimination in their membership.

Plane, 5 bodies found near Malad

MALAD — The wreckage of a plane containing the bodies of five members of a Virginia family was found in the mountains near Malad Tuesday.

According to Federal Aviation Administration inspector Robert Armpriest, the wreckage of the plane missing since Dec. 16 was spotted about 15 miles northeast of Malad at the 9,000-foot level of a ridge separating Oneida and Bannock counties.

Armpriest said the remains of the plane and its passengers were sighted by two doctors on a hiking trip through the area.

He said all five members of the Joseph Andrews family were killed in the crash.

Andrews, a Navy officer, was flying his family to the West Coast where he had been assigned when the crash occurred, Armpriest said.

Armpriest said he planned to investigate the crash site later today, along with David Beardsley, investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board.

The cause of the crash would have to be determined by Beardsley, Armpriest said.

"It was very bad weather that day, so you can draw your own conclusions," he said.

Senate funds F111 bomber production

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Armed Services Committee voted Wednesday to continue production of the F111 fighter-bomber for another year, challenging a Pentagon decision to close the production lines.

The committee, informed sources said, voted to add $176 million to the military procurement authorization bill for the year beginning July 1 to permit General Dynamics Corp. to continue producing one F111 a month for the next year.

The decision was a victory for General Dynamics and the Texas congressional delegation in their drive to reverse acting Defense Secretary William Clements' decision to cancel further production of the problem-plagued aircraft.

Filer extension club hears Czechoslovakian

FILER — Spring Home Extension Club members discussed their ancestries and nationalities Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Loren Farmer.

Mrs. Ed Sharp was assistant hostess. Mrs. Joe Krepek said there were 125 pressure cookers tested recently at the courthouse building in Twin Falls.

The county extension meeting will be Sept. 10 with a program on "Family Life." The state convention will be Oct. 10-11 in Moscow and if enough persons want to attend, a bus will be chartered.

Mrs. Marie Webb conducted the meeting. Mrs. Alfred Theener presented Mrs. Clara Redner who spoke on her native land of Czechoslovakia which she left when a child of 12.

Mrs. Farmer was wished a "Happy Birthday" and congratulations from members were given Mrs. Raymond Thomas who, with her husband, recently celebrated her 60th Wedding Anniversary. An article by Paul Harvey on "Father's Day" was read.

Mrs. Pat Lyda will host the July 17 meeting, with Mrs. Mazie Brown as assistant hostess. Filer's Girls' State representatives will speak.

Martha talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Martha Mitchell said today President Nixon knew all about the Watergate cover-up and the White House won't be able to discredit John W. Dean's testimony on the scandal.

In a telephone call to Peter Hackes of NBC News, Mrs. Mitchell said Dean was a smart lawyer whose services her husband John "very sincerely didn't want to lose" when he was attorney general.

"The President knew everything about the cover-up," Mrs. Mitchell was quoted as saying. "I don't care what anyone says, this President knew. It's only natural that Mr. President who worked so closely every day with assistants like (H. R.) Haldeman and (John) Ehrlichman was aware of what was going on."

Brezhnev gives filibuster lesson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leonid I. Brezhnev has given the U.S. Senate a lesson in how to filibuster.

For two hours, over a vodka and caviar lunch, the Soviet Communist party general secretary spoke non-stop Tuesday to 23 dozing, fidgeting senators and two congressmen against a background of tinkling glasses in the elegant Blair House dining room.

The senators, more accustomed to giving long speeches, found themselves a captive audience for a monologue that ranged from trade negotiations to European security in a speech comparatively short by Russian standards.

"It was hard to stay awake," one of the diners said afterwards. "We never did get coffee."

Compared to Nikita Khrushchev's meeting with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at the Capitol in 1959—reported to be an arm-waving, fist-pounding display of vintage Soviet chutzpah—the session at Blair House was a tea party.

"He was much more restrained and modest in his demeanor than I expected," Sen. J. William Fulbright, D., Ark., said.

Only toward the end of the four-hour lunch did Brezhnev show the slightest hint of irritation.

That was when Senate Republican Whip Robert Griffin raised the issue of free immigration for Soviet Jews.

Majorities in both the House and Senate are insisting that the Soviets remove all barriers to Jews seeking to leave their homeland for Israel before Congress grants trade concessions to the Soviets.

According to those present, Brezhnev quickly reached his vest pocket for a little red, leather-bound book, remarking that he had been asked that question many times before and he would answer it once again.

"Any of you who want to spoil good relations can think up bad questions and spread rumors that sometime in the future we'll impose a new tax," he said, in a reference to the suspended Soviet "education tax" that had been imposed on all emigrants.

FERRER PRODUCES HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Mel Ferrer and Ronald Shusette will produce "Chance for a Killing" for Bing Crosby Productions.
