Off to Canada

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip leave Monday for a 12-day visit to Canada.

The Queen's visit, from June 25 to July 6, will be the first of two the British monarch will make to Canada this year. She will be in Ottawa July 31-Aug. 4 to attend the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference.

Her last trip to Canada was in May, 1971, when she made a 10-day tour of British Columbia.

The visit to 20 Canadian cities begins with a three-day stopover in the Toronto area. A parade of dignitaries, led by Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and Governor-General Roland Michener, will be at the airport for welcoming ceremonies.

Little hope for Canada pipeline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Saturday there is little hope Canada will agree soon to allow construction of a trans-Canada oil pipeline — a prime alternative to the stymied Alaska pipeline from the oil-rich North Slope.

Assistant Secretary of State Marshall Wright said discussions with the Canadian government "have confirmed our earlier assessment that there is no alternative to the proposed Alaskan pipeline at this time."

FAA grounds B17 fire-fighters

PORTERVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) officials Saturday ordered the U.S. Forest Service's fleet of 16 B17 bombers grounded after one of the planes sustained a minor wing fracture while dumping chemicals on a mountain fire.

The World War II vintage aircraft landed safely here after the Kern County mission, and authorities believe the wing spar may have only cracked from an error in loading its wing fuel tanks.

Forest Service officials at the Boise, Idaho headquarters said Saturday the bombers are used to fight fires throughout the West, particularly in California, Arizona and New Mexico.

Forest Service Coordinator Darrell Smith in Boise said report of the FAA announcement was relayed to each of their western offices Friday night.

Singer Bailey said 'satisfactory'

LONDON (UPI) — Singer Pearl Bailey, 55, was reported in satisfactory condition in London's Brompton heart hospital Saturday after collapsing in a nightclub.

Miss Bailey collapsed shortly before going on stage. A hospital spokesman said she was suffering from chest pains and exhaustion when admitted. She has suffered several heart attacks in recent years.

Church elects woman moderator

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The United Church of Christ elected its first female moderator at the denomination's convention Saturday.

Margaret A. Haywood, an associate justice of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, became the first Black woman to head a major U.S. denomination. The church's top unsalaried position has a term of two years.

Diabetes cure said possible

CHICAGO (UPI) — A cure for diabetes may be possible in the next five years, according to Dr. Arnold Lazarow, head of a University of Minnesota research team.

He told the American Diabetes Society that the treatment involves transplanting insulin-secreting pancreas cells into bodies of diabetics enabling their bodies to regain ability to manufacture their own supplies of insulin.

33 hurt in airliner crash

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thirty eight persons were injured when a DC8 jetliner arriving from Iceland crashed on landing early Saturday at Kennedy Airport.

A spokesman for Icelandic Airlines said that the plane — with 119 passengers and a crew of six aboard — experienced a "hard landing as the result of an apparent malfunction."

Forced down

ENGINE TROUBLE forced down two planes in the Magic Valley Saturday, but no one aboard either craft was hurt. Halley Police Officer Ron Wyatt (above) inspects Sun Valley Key Airlines twin engine plane which made forced landing in hayfield on ranch south of Friedman Memorial Airport at Halley. Abandoned in field near Heyburn is single engine plane (below) flown by Montana pilot who made emergency landing.

Engine trouble forces planes down; 7 unhurt

By TERRY CAMPBELL and ROBERT SCHLEEF Times-News writers

Seven persons escaped injury Saturday in forced landings of two aircraft near Halley and Heyburn.

One plane was a twin engine commercial craft. The other was a single engine light plane.

Both mishaps occurred about mid-afternoon.

Six persons aboard Sun Valley Key Airlines Flight 502 were uninjured when the plane lost the power of one engine on take-off and sat down in a hay field south of the Halley airport runway.

A Montana pilot, approaching the Burley runway in a light plane landed in a hay field near Heyburn when his engine stopped.

The Sun Valley Key flight left the Halley airport at 2:55 p.m. and made a forced landing in the hay field of the Flying Hat Ranch owned by Spencer Eccles. The field is about one-half mile from the airport.

Robert D. Perrill, manager of Idaho operations of Sun Valley Key, said the twin engine Beechcraft Baron, which was destined for Salt Lake City, Utah, experienced an engine malfunction.

Perrill said the pilot, Larry Anderson, Layton, Utah, "elected to land straight ahead in an open field."

The five passengers aboard were taken to Blaine County Hospital for medical examinations. Perrill declined to list the names of the passengers at their request.

Perrill said the plane sustained minor damage to the right wheel and one propeller blade after it hit a concealed irrigation pipe during the roll out into the field.

Passengers were rebooked on a later flight and continued to their Salt Lake City destination.

Initial investigation of the crash was conducted by the Blaine County sheriff's department with assistance at the scene by the Halley police. Perrill said the FAA has also been notified. A monetary estimate of the damage to the plane has not been determined.

Cecil Page Heidelberg, Jr., Loma, Mont., was the only person aboard the light aircraft which crash landed in Cassia County about 3:30 p.m.

He told Cassia County officers he was approaching the end of Runway 24 at the Burley airport when the plane's engine failed and he did not have enough altitude to reach the field.

He made a landing in a hay field about three-quarters of a mile from the runway and walked from the plane unhurt. The field is owned by Wendell Cole in which hay had just been cut and baled.

Heidelberg estimated damage at $5,000 to his 1960 180C Cessna. He told officers he had flown to Burley Friday night and had taken a flight over the area Saturday and was returning to the airport when the engine stopped.

Officers said the right wheel of the craft was torn off and there was some propeller damage and damage to the under portion of the plane.

TF crash kills California man

TWIN FALLS — A collision at the junction of US Highways 93 and 30 Saturday evening killed a California man and injured two Buhl residents.

Dead is Olin Junior Buchanan, 39, LaPuente, Calif. Officers said his northbound car failed to stop at the intersection and crashed into a one-ton truck driven by Phillip

M. DeWitt, 33, Buhl. Seriously injured was Melba Davis, 28, Buhl. She was riding in the truck. Sheriff Paul Corder said DeWitt told him he was helping Miss Davis move and was taking her to Twin Falls. He was eastbound on U.S. 30 when the collision occurred about 9:15 p.m.

DeWitt, who was not seriously hurt, and Miss Davis were taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Buchanan's car overturned and burned after the collision, and officers removed his body through the rear of the car. The truck ended up on its wheels across an irrigation ditch. The bed torn off and the engine hurled into a nearby field by the impact.

Corder said witnesses at the scene reported Buchanan had been travelling at a speed estimated at 90 miles an hour shortly before the crash.

Probers hear Dean next

WASHINGTON — John W. Dean III, the former White House counsel, will tell the Senate Watergate committee this week that President Nixon indicated to him in mid-March that he had personally discussed executive clemency for convicted Watergate defendant E. Howard Hunt Jr., with Charles W. Colson, sources close to Dean said Saturday.

The sources said Dean will testify that the President seemed upset and churlish as he described his conversations with Colson.

At one point, they said, Nixon declared to Dean that "I shouldn't have seen Colson about that. I shouldn't have dealt directly with him. Chuck shouldn't have brought that up in my presence."

Dean has told associates, the sources said, that the President appeared distraught during the meeting, often staring through his office window.

A White House official declined to comment on the story, saying that "We're not going to respond to these things that come out drip by drip."

Asked about the assertion from Dean, David I. Shapiro, Colson's law partner, said "I have no idea what the President told Mr. Dean, but the suggestion that Mr. Colson ever

Poolside summitry pleasant

(c) New York Times Service
SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. — President Nixon and Leonid I. Brezhnev discussed European security and the Middle East Saturday in a final round of talks.

Then they relaxed at a poolside party with Hollywood celebrities at the President's seaside estate.

While they were putting final touches on an 18-page to 20-page communique, to be issued Monday when Brezhnev, the Soviet party leader, leaves the United States, lower officials in Washington a civil aviation agreement.

Henry A. Kissinger, the President's national security adviser, told newsmen the final communique would cover the full range of issues dealt with during Brezhnev's visit and would thus show how the two cold-war adversaries were now linking each other in a cooperative relationship.

The two leaders, who have now spent almost 34½ hours in discussions, more than six of them alone together with an interpreter, talked late into the evening Friday and put off the start of their talks today until noon.

This afternoon, Brezhnev taped a television speech to the American people that will be broadcast Sunday at 6 p.m. in each of the nation's time zones.

Through their spokesmen, both Nixon and Brezhnev claimed their satisfaction with the results of their meetings and the personal rapport they have developed.

On Nixon's behalf, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler termed it "a summit of accomplishment, not atmospherics."

State officials like Jerome site

By DAVID HORSEMAN Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Early reports indicate state aeronautics officials will soon recommend a new regional airport located in Jerome County.

The proposed airport site northeast of the Interstate 80-Highway 93 interchange has been a point of controversy for several months in the Magic Valley.

The South Idaho Regional Airport Authority (SIRAA) comprised of Cassia, Minidoka, Jerome, Gooding and Lincoln counties, recently contracted for a study of potential airport sites in the Magic Valley. The Jerome County locations surfaced as the "unofficial" choice.

Twin Falls and Blaine counties have not joined SIRAA and have objected to the proposed new airport. The possible abandonment of Joslin Field in Twin Falls County and the cost of constructing a new airport have been primary complaints.

Darrell Manning, state aeronautics director, met Thursday with Twin Falls city councilmen and county commissioners and members of the Twin Falls City-County Airport Commission. A comprehensive state plan for airports was discussed.

Manning said state consultants have "come to the same conclusions" as the SIRAA study concerning airport needs in the Magic Valley, including the Jerome County site as top choice for a new facility.

Fire guts TF home

TWIN FALLS — Fire gutted a two story home at 177 Austin St. in Twin Falls Saturday night.

Firemen and three fire engines dispatched to the scene were able to keep flames from spreading to other nearby homes. Although firemen were still at the scene late Saturday, they reported the fire was under control within about 35 minutes.

The home was owned by Mrs. Nell Green.

Cause of the fire had not been determined but the most heavily damaged area appeared at the rear of the house and on the second floor. The alarm was received shortly before 9 p.m.

Weed fire catches truck

A PICKUP TRUCK parked on a lot owned by Layne Pump Co. on Highway 30 west of Kimberly was burned Friday when a ditch bank fire spread into the lot. According to James Rathbun, Twin Falls Mutual Fire Department fire chief, the fire spread into the lot about 1:30 p.m., destroying logs and equipment as well as the truck. Rathbun said the fire was under control by 2:30 p.m.

Gem aviation officials like Jerome port site

(Continued from p. 1) The Bozeman, Mont., consulting firm working with the state has not conducted its own study of the Magic Valley region, according to Manning. The SIRAA report, compiled by Barton, Stoddard, Milhollin and Higgins, Inc., Boise, has been used as a primary source in the state study, he said. He cited the Boise firm as "quite competent" and saw no use in "second-guessing" its findings. Twin Falls City Manager Jean Milar presented an alternative set of airport cost figures in the Thursday meeting. He said Joslin Field could be improved to meet regional needs for $5.5 million, down from the $7 million cost figure quoted by Manning. The cost reduction could be accomplished by extending the Joslin Field runway to the west rather than to the east and discounting expenses for an access road to the airport, according to Milar. He said the current access road to Joslin Field is a highway-district responsibility and should not be included in cost estimates. Manning said Milar's figure would be presented to state planners and given consideration. Twin Falls City residents paid 4.48 mills for maintenance and operation of Joslin Field in 1972. If a new $10 million airport is built in Jerome County and Joslin Field and the Hixley airport are maintained as general aviation airports under SIRAA, the mill levy paid by Twin Falls residents would drop to "about one mill," according to Manning.

"would draw more air traffic than we can draw on this site," Christofferson said. But Christofferson criticized efforts by SIRAA officials in promoting their airport plans. "If the newspaper editor in Burley would shut his mouth, things might go a little faster," Christofferson said. He referred to William MacKnight, general manager of the South Idaho Press, admiring his ease in directing of SIRAA and has editorially attacked the motives of Twin Falls County in offering Joslin Field as a regional airport.

Paul Ostyn, Twin Falls city councilman, said he will support the regional airport if SIRAA operates Joslin Field as the regional facility until a new airport is warranted. Manning said the state airport plan is nearly completed and recommendations will be forwarded to affected governments soon.

Vietnam truce violations drop

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese command said truce violations dropped Saturday to the lowest level of the five-month-old cease-fire, but officials on both sides hesitated to say the truce was finally taking hold.

"It looks to be a good sign, but we don't find anything significant," a Saigon command spokesman said. A Viet Cong press officer said, "The situation has made no new progress."

The command said Communist violations fell to a cease-fire low of 51 during the 24-hour period ending at noon Saturday, but fighting came within a half-dozen miles of Saigon. The previous low was 53 on May 24. South Vietnamese reports of truce violations have fallen off sharply since the original Jan. 29 cease-fire was reaffirmed by both sides eight days ago.

The government command reported a total of 541 Communist violations during the past eight days compared with a 1,657 during the first eight days of the truce.

The command said there were a total of 1,229 persons killed—910 Communists, 264 government soldiers, and 55 civilians—during the past eight days. It reported 4,720 persons—4,065 Communists, 635 government soldiers and 20 civilians—were slain during the first eight days of the renewed truce.

The Viet Cong, which made no reports on violations at the start of the truce, said Saturday government forces violated the cease-fire 1,770 times during the first five days of the renewed cease-fire accord.

The Saigon command, in its report of violations, said Communist forces attacked a militia unit Friday night six miles northwest of Saigon. It said three Communists were killed, with no militia casualties.

The Viet Cong violations report said Saigon has stepped up shelling attacks in Hau Nghia province just northwest of Saigon and Chung Thien province in the Mekong Delta from scores to hundreds per day.

US jets bombard Cambodian rebels

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — U.S. Air Force tactical jets flew almost continuous raids Saturday against a Cambodian rebel force that seized the village of Dey Kraham the previous night just 12 miles from Phnom Penh.

Field reports said the F4 Phantom and F111 fighter-bombers were striking in relays at the rate of one plane every five minutes.

Cambodian government troops abandoned the village Friday night after three continuous days of shelling by rebel forces. The village is located on Highway 7, about 12 miles on the southern edge of Phnom Penh's outer defense perimeter. At least 17 wounded soldiers were among the 100 government troops evacuated from Dey Kraham, the field reports said.

Post, pole sale time scheduled

HAILEY John Hepworth, fire and timber assistant on the Wood River zone of the Sawtooth National Recreation Area, announces the schedule for post and pole sales.

All sales will be made on Wednesdays at the Harley office. Firewood sales can also be made at the national recreation area headquarters by Mrs. Rosie Brooks. The only other times sales can be made will be if prior arrangements have been made with John Hepworth by phone or personally.

Sales will be made in the upper Wood River drainage, its tributaries and the southern portion of Sawtooth Valley. Sales on the Wood River zone will be limited due to access and availability.

The recent demands have been for corral pole size. This size pole is limited and will be sold on a first come basis. The sale sizes vary from $25 to $100 per lot.

Cons kill guards

FLORENCE, Ariz. (UPI) — Convicts at the Arizona State Prison lured two guards into their cellblock by getting a mattress afire and stabbed them to death in an assault that prison officials said Saturday appeared to be without motive.

"It was not a case of taking hostages and bargaining," said Acting Prison Director Bud Gomes. "It was an assault carried out deliberately, wantonly and very viciously."

Officials said there were numerous suspects but that the reason for the slayings in the trouble-plagued prison remained a mystery. Gomes said the outbreak occurred shortly before 9 p.m. Friday in a cellblock that houses 200 men. One inmate set his mattress afire and attacked a guard who released him after coming to fight the blaze with a fire hose. The prisoner took the guard's keys and opened cells of other prisoners who attacked a second guard. The victims were Dale F. Morey, 37, Casa Grande, Ariz., and Theodore J. Buckley, 26, Florence, both slain in cellblock three of the maximum-security unit.

"There was nothing in the way of demands," said John Moran, director of the State Corrections Department. "It might be days or weeks before we find out just what happened."

One prison official said he saw what appeared to be stab wounds in the body and head of one officer. The second officer was soaked in blood from his ankles to his neck.

I. Truman Lovelace, chief investigator for the Pinal County sheriff's office, said there was no evidence that Morey and Buckley were disliked by inmates.

"There is nothing to differentiate them from any other guards," Lovelace said. He and Gomes declined to identify any prisoners involved in the uprising. Prisoners returned to their cells voluntarily after a yard captain reported trouble to the prison switchboard. Guards found homemade knives and broom handles embedded with metal in the cellblock.

The prison, southeast of Phoenix, has been the scene of several uprisings in recent months. Last month, forged court documents were found, authorizing the release of two inmates in what authorities said was an elaborate scheme to kill two Superior Court judges in Phoenix.

Gomes has been acting warden since last year, and declined to apply for the permanent job. He will be succeeded July by Harold Cardwell, warden at Ohio State Penitentiary, who has a reputation as a tough administrator.

WASHINGTON — In picking his new anti-inflation program last week, President Nixon rejected advice from political activists to take the inflation issue across the country in a daring series of stump speeches which would highlight his personal concern and dramatize his personal involvement.

(specifically named were Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, Detroit and Chicago). Connally's pitch: inflation was one issue the President could use to bring all Americans into his tent.

Their present use to NATO is negligible. The Alliance Council (whose secretary is Greek) has been distressed by reports that several arrested officers have been tortured. Official inquiries are being pressed.

That was not what Connally and other political activists advising Mr. Nixon had in mind. In a White House session the end of May, Connally made a cool but highly persuasive case that the President should immediately embark on a national speaking tour, spelling out a workable, mandatory, wage-and-price control system in major cities

But when Connally put the case to retired Gen. Alexander Haig, White House staff chief, Leonard Garment, the President's counsel, Shultz and Stein, he was quickly put down.

PORTLAND — The Pacific Northwest, a region once endowed with abundant electrical energy resources, is facing the dismal prospect of major factories shutting down in the fall for lack of power.

And there is a strong likelihood of temporary power cutoffs to homes and stores in the Portland area starting about Sept. 1.

This alarm is sounded by Oregon Gov. Tom McCall in a recent report on the energy crisis, the first of its kind to come out of any state government.

Basing his bleak forecast on the findings of a special energy task force he delegated to study the situation, McCall said there is simply not enough electricity available to meet the needs of a region whose demand for power has been growing at a rate of nearly 7 per cent every year.

"We face a blatant mismatch between usable energy supplies and demands. It is almost a certainty that the Pacific Northwest will have power blackouts this fall and winter," he said.

Since he made the statement two weeks ago, McCall has come under sharp criticism from a number of skeptics, particularly environmentalists and consumer-oriented groups. They considered his warning to be needlessly alarming and just another power play to ensure on-schedule development and construction of power plants.

His critics pointed out that Bonneville Power administration, the federal agency which supplies wholesale power to 108 public and private utilities and many industries, has a firm contract with Southern California Edison to import 1.7 billion kilowatt hours of energy to the northwest region starting next fall.

There is a belief that the contract with the California utility might turn out to be the margin needed for BPA to meet its peak loads.

Is the electrical energy crisis real or imagined? Do dark days really lie ahead for the Northwest? Or is Gov. McCall's warning just an attempt to dramatize the need for energy conservation?

"The truth of the matter is that the situation is very serious," said BPA Administrator Don Hodel.

"We're in deep trouble, and it's going to get a lot worse before it gets better."

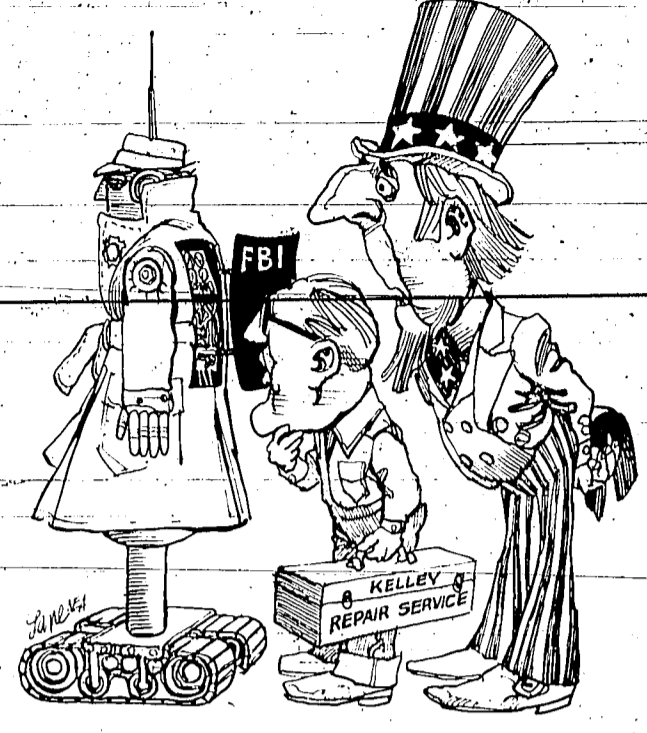

"They can get by this summer, but the Northwest utilities are going to have a lot of trouble meeting their commitments in the fall," said James K. Newton, Northwest power analyst of the Federal Power Commission.

Newton attributed the immediate problem to a critical lack of spring water runoffs from the snow packs in the mountains which fill major storage dams in the Columbia River Basin — the very heart from which pump the water to drive hydroelectric turbines that produce peaking energy for the heavy winter loads.

Only one of seven major storage dams is filling to normal elevation: Because of the abnormally poor runoff, utilities expect to lose nearly four billion kilowatt hours of generating power — roughly the entire power output of Bonneville Dam.

"The Northwest water situation has gone from feast to famine in a year's time," Newton said.

"And When You Get It Fixed, I'd Like to See the Wiring Diagram!"

Writer Upholds Ousted Principal

Editor, Times-News:

At the June 11 meeting of the Blaine County School Board, Stratton Laggis, the attorney for the School Board, read the legal position of the board.

In this statement he affirmed that the paramount importance of and reason for certification is the welfare, well-being, and education of the children.

Let us get to the basics and the "nitty-gritty" — the children — their welfare, their well-being, and their education.

This is the issue — everything else is secondary.

Almost all of the parents, children, and teachers of Ketchum-Sun Valley believe that Mr. Sam Hazard has demonstrated in the past two years that the welfare, well-being, and education of the children are well entrusted to him.

Why Sam Hazard? The Ketchum-Sun Valley area and school have some special problems and developments, and because of these problems and developments Mr. Hazard is uniquely qualified for our area's school.

His experience for many years has included large numbers of students with special needs and students from every conceivable type of family.

He is very highly thought of by the parents, students, and faculty of the Athenian School in Danville, California, which is considered one of the best in the entire San Francisco Bay Area, which has hundreds of schools, public and private.

How do I know this? Because I lived there for a total of ten years, of which I attended school there for five years. I inquired of parents, faculty, administration, and alumni of the Athenian School, Mills College, the University of California at Berkeley, Stanford, and other colleges and universities in the area.

Mr. Hazard's reputation among all of these people is of the highest and is absolutely impeccable. His past reputation, therefore, indicates that he has special capabilities and experience for dealing with the situation and the students of the Ketchum-Sun Valley area.

Thus, why is Mr. Sam Hazard being fired? Is or has he been incompetent? No. Has he failed to live up to the conditions of his contract or has he indicated a lack of intention to fulfill the conditions of his contract? No.

On the contrary, Mr. Hazard has indicated a definite desire and intention to fulfill his contract obligations and to make his home in the area by investing in a home and property and by spending thousands of dollars of his own money to fulfill the requirements established by the Blaine County School Board and the State of Idaho.

And he has done all of these things while holding the twenty-four-hour-a-day job that is a principal's.

Has anyone considered the financial, emotional, and vocational cost to Mr. Hazard of the Board's action? Mr. Sam Hazard has kept faith and honored with the Blaine County School Board? Has the Blaine County School Board kept faith and honor with Mr. Hazard?

Now let us consider the Blaine County School Board and its actions. There are some questions which the School Board, both past and present, needs to answer.

1) How many teachers and administrators at this time are on provisional certificates?

2) How many teachers and administrators began their careers here on provisional certificates?

3) Why were there applications for Mr. Hazard's position before Mr. Hazard had been fired by the Board? Teachers and administrators do not go around applying for jobs where there are no vacancies.

4) Who contacted these applicants? What Board member indicated that there would be a vacancy in Mr. Hazard's position before the board had even fired him?

5) What assurances and statements were made to these applicants by the Board member or members? Specifically?

6) Why has the Blaine County School Board closed its ears and mind to those whom it was specifically elected to represent?

7) Why has the School Board reacted with such pique, resentment, and hostility to Mr. Hazard's fulfilling his contractual obligations a year early?

Mr. Hazard's only crime seems to have been that he did not know precisely what procedure to follow in changing his program from one college to another — not that he was trying to circumvent his contractual obligations nor that he has been incompetent.

This lack of knowledge should not be held against Mr. Hazard, especially since the Blaine County School Board and state authorities, and the college here in Idaho did not know what procedure to follow either.

To fire Mr. Hazard in a pique about procedure and precedence is the height of childishness and most unfitting for a School Board responsible for bringing our children to maturity. If there are reasons of substance for not rehiring Mr. Hazard, the School Board should state them publicly.

However, to use the technical device of saying that there are certified applicants available for Mr. Hazard's position, when there should not have been any applicant for Mr. Hazard's position, since there was no vacancy to be filled, is the height of dishonesty and underhandedness.

TF firemen get thanks

Editor, Times-News:

I would like to express my gratitude to the Twin Falls Fire Department.

Recently when their services were urgently needed, they were prompt to respond. They did a quick and thorough job in a few short moments and saved the property.

There was also an unidentified milk truck driver with a fire extinguisher who responded quickly and kept the fire under control until the Fire Department arrived. Unfortunately he left the scene before I could learn his name, and I didn't get a chance to thank him.

I certainly appreciated what everyone did.

Blaine Principal Hit

Editor, Times-News:

The persistence and determination of a few Ketchumites is to be commended. The Sam Hazard vendetta is getting almost as much press coverage as "Watergate."

The flamboyant, flower and almost benevolent stand taken by Mr. John M. Weekes June 19, on behalf of Hazard causes one to wonder.

If education circles "firing" is on-the-spot termination of employment, Hazard's contract was simply not renewed by the local board of trustees — who, by the way, are given this power by Idaho law. In fact, I know several "good, honest citizens" who are "very competent educators" and certified whose contracts for 1973-74 were not renewed by their local boards.

Mr. Weekes has a rather distorted concept of "democracy." The most widely accepted concept being that the majority prevails although the minority has the right to be heard.

It would appear that the Blaine County School Board has certainly heard from the "minority." The group from Ketchum supporting their "fired" principal is a small minority of the voting constituency in Blaine County School District 61, right?

Violations of Idaho law and State Board policy have occurred and could be spoken to at this point. These matters, however, apparently hold little if any significance to the Sam Hazard Fan Club.

Let's look at some facts before we accept Mr. Weekes' statement. "But, he (Hazard) is not sitting back making fun of the whole idea of certification either. Rather he (Hazard) is doing all he can do to become certified and as fast as possible."

1. Mr. Hazard acted as principal of the Hemingway Elementary School in Ketchum for almost a year without making any effort whatsoever toward certifying in Idaho. (Violation Idaho Code 33-513 (1))

2. Upon insistence of the local education association efforts were made by a select group to obtain certification. Efforts such as a visit to the governor's office, a conference with a State Board member, consulting the attorney general's office, contacting the state superintendent of public instruction and finally meeting with the state certification officer. (Violation Professional Code of Ethics, Principles III and IV)

3. Finally, when all else fails, why not try the prescribed procedure?

An agreement between Mr. Hazard, the local school board and Idaho State University was consummated. The agreement included a program at ISU which when completed would provide full certification and a master's degree to Hazard. This program had a completion date of 1975.

4. Mr. Hazard, in the fall of 1972, chose to violate the agreement with ISU and without consent of the other parties to the agreement entered into a masters program with Northwestern University.

This program was set up by a NWU dean who was in Blaine County conducting an evaluation study of the Blaine County School District.

The odd thing about the whole matter is that Northwestern's policy clearly states that no credit will be given by extension or in absentia and 24-32 weeks of residency is required — yet the program set up for Hazard was to be completed with a master's degree and full certification in Illinois, by December, 1973.

During this time Hazard was to be a full time employee of School District 61 and was able to spend some time this summer vacationing in Spain.

5. Mr. Weekes, you are so right, Mr. Hazard is not certified in Idaho, and it is doubtful if he ever intended to legitimately do so.

It would appear that any person — any educator — with such a great love for children, love for a community, with such professional integrity and competence would desire to follow the prescribed procedure to obtain licensure to legally practice his profession in the State of Idaho.

Hazard Backed

Editor, Times-News:

How can people who live in a state which ranks forty-eighth on the teacher's pay scale in the nation possibly even entertain the ludicrous notion of firing a man of Sam Hazard's caliber?

Surely the forces of human nature that serve to help destroy anything intelligent in the world must be again in play.

With good teachers fleeing this educationally impoverished area (to cite Dave Scheldahl and Ray Fleming as examples) must we be left with only the jealous, tiny-minded nit pickers to teach our children?

Here we have a soft-spoken Harvard educated man who is loved by his peers, and even more impressively, by the children, being driven out of town on the "exp. fact" criticism that he is "uncertified."

The man should not have been hired in the first place if credentials were of such importance. To allow a man to come here with the understanding that he would be allowed to become certified and then to go back on the agreement after he is well under way is as cruel an approach as is possible.

Those teachers who have spoken out against Mr. Hazard with the critics that he has not taken the required number of "education courses" can only be reacting from motives of petty jealousy or the grim memories of the tedious and irrelevant education courses they themselves were required to endure in order to "become teachers."

Having had experience in education courses myself (I am a certified High School English teacher as well as having completed the majority of courses necessary for an Elementary Certificate) I can say that completing education courses does not "make" a teacher.

That rare chemistry that composes one who is a successful teacher comes from within and is based on the ability of a person to establish rapport with children and with the experience of teaching itself. It cannot be taught.

Mr. Hazard obviously has the rapport and the experience. Why is he being persecuted? One can only recall the tale of Billy Budd, the sailor, who, in the course of innocently going about his business, was torn apart by the small-minded mob.

Of Jewish Wine Labels and Surgical Slimming

By RUSSELL BAKER
(c) New York Times Service

June brings us honeysuckle, brides, lightning bugs, sunburn, iced tea and mosquitoes, but most of all it brings us summer reading.

Let us then put aside that heavy (they old winter reading and slip into something with ice cubes and lemon peels. Here, for starters, is a sample of the cooling matter now in your bookshop which should start all true summer readers shivering with dread:

Harley Bustard's predictable first novel, "Hellbound for America," is absolutely thief-proof, and therefore makes the ideal decoration for a beach-house coffee table.

The most resolute masochist will be unable to get past page 23. Normal book thieves will groan on page 2.

Bustard's hero, a restless young man who is profoundly but inarticulately dissatisfied with America, his generation, his family, his roots and the origins of western civilization, buys a motorcycle and sets out across the country to find happiness and escape his sense of guilt for the destruction of Babylon.

He bikes to San Francisco and has a ball with other colleagues in loss and guilt, only to discover that even fun fades in the end.

At page 23 he has biked back to Denver, had a ball there, become dissatisfied again and, as the reader does off for the rest of the summer, is planning to bike to New Orleans.

"The Jewish Wine Label Picture Book" is such a magnificent piece of color engraving that one wishes the great Jewish wines of the world were bottled under more picturesque labels than, is unfortunately, the case.

This book presents a challenging disposal problem for minds that revel in pointless callisthenics, for at $7.50 a copy it is too expensive to throw into the ocean, and at a weight of 18 pounds, resort trash men will charge the special-pickup rate to haul it away.

For contemporary bookmaking at its most extraneous, it will be hard to top "The Total Bind Catalogue."

As a conversation piece alone, on that evening when you absolutely must have the yacht club set for cocktails, it may justify itself as a lifesaver. It will never justify itself as a book.

It is a 756-page catalogue of every variety of string, rope, wire, chain and plastic clothesline made anywhere in the world.

Unfortunately it lacks illustrations, as well as instructions for tying a hangman's noose. A cinch for the National Book Award. "Americain Despair" is the fantastically inarticulate first novel of young Sepoy Cassowary, whose hero buys an old car and sets out across America to find his roots, only to end up having a ball in San Francisco, Denver, New Orleans and Knoxville, Tenn.

This is the novel everyone will talk about this summer because of Cassowary's outrageous break with literary tradition. Until now, no eripatic first-novel hero has been permitted to have a ball in Knoxville. The Tennessee Legislature has already passed a resolution censuring the author, stating that he is under the influence of Jane Fonda and urging all members to pray for young Cassowary's salvation, fortunately, they did not require themselves to read his book.

"Great Mustaches of Hollywood" will feed a desperate hunger for film buffs who have exhausted the literature on Bogart, Fields, the Marx Brothers, Lionel Atwill and Alan Curtis.

Here they are — all the great mustaches of the golden era of the silver screen.

There is also a rare treat for fans who can read. The authors have written, in words, a short history of the movie mustache which argues that Jack Holt's mustache in "Dirigible" was the inspiration for Smilin' Jack's in the comic strip "M" also for Douglas Dumbrille's. This seems certain to launch one of the summer's hottest controversies, for until now it has been assumed everywhere that Douglas Dumbrille's mustache was inspired by Adolphe Menjou's.

Dr. Helmut Gossage's new diet book, "Slim Like A Butterfly, Eat Like a Hog," might make you disappear if you follow its advice too scrupulously.

It is also bound to be the new diet rage this summer among the fashionable.

Gossage contends that people can eat all they want and still maintain a constant weight by undergoing periodic surgical removal of relatively dispensable body organs and extremities which swell up on a rich diet and add embarrassing pounds to one's weight.

Minor toes, the appendix, tonsils, ear lobes go first. After that, slimming surgery becomes more complex but, Gossage contends, provides a constant source of conversation.

Poolside party winds up summit

 "Altogether," Ziegler said, "the President is highly satisfied with the range of issues discussed, with the wide scope of agreements reached in all fields, with the excellent atmosphere that pervaded all the talks, with the emphasis on concrete accomplishments."
 Leonid M. Zamyatin, the Soviet spokesman, said that from Moscow's viewpoint all the prepared agreements had been signed and that Brezhnev considered the accord on preventing war "a major stride in the direction of consolidating peace" because its essence was "to rule out the possibility of nuclear war between the Soviet Union and the United States."

 The poolside party started in late afternoon under bright Southern-California sunshine with about 175 guests, mostly movie stars, California business magnates and Republican leaders.
 Among the guests from the entertainment world were Frank Sinatra, Burl Ives, Gene Autry, Edgar Bergen, Pat Boone, Charles Martin, Rosalind Russell, Caesar Romero, Jill St. John, Red Skelton, Art Linkletter, Glenn Ford, Tony Martin, Barbara Stanwyck and Meredith Willson.
 The business leaders included Leonard K. Firestone, president of Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., David Packard, executive vice president of Hewlett-Packard; Edwin W. Pauley, chairman of Pauley Petroleum Inc.; James Roosevelt; and Edward J. Daley, chairman of World Airways. Gov. Ronald Reagan led a small group of political figures.

 Around the estate pool, they drank margaritas, vodka and fruit juice and ate roast beef sandwiches, snow crab claws, ham and biscuits, shish kebab, chile queso with tortilla chips, guacamole salad, egg rolls with sweet and sour sauce, raw vegetables and blue cheese and assorted canapés and pastries.
 Brezhnev said farewell to President Nixon this morning to fly back to Washington. He will spend the night at Camp David before journeying on to Paris Monday for a two-day meeting with President Pompidou of France.
 The final Nixon-Brezhnev communique Monday is expected to reaffirm the importance of strategic arms negotiations and agreements to take note of the Soviet-American agreement to prevent the outbreak of nuclear war, and to deal with the European security conference due to start July 3 in Helsinki as well as with the question of force reductions in Central Europe.

Pact expands US-Russ flights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union, in the ninth accord of the Nixon-Brezhnev summit, agreed Saturday to expand commercial air service between the two countries.

The protocol, amending the 1966 air agreement that opened the service, was signed at the State Department by U.S. Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar and Boris Gugaev, Soviet minister of civil aviation.

The air agreement was signed as President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid L. Brezhnev were winding up their talks in San Clemente, Calif.

Under the pact, the present New York-Moscow air route will be widened to include Leningrad and Washington. Pan American World Airways and Aeroflot, the Soviet state airline, also will be permitted to increase their current two-week flights to three during the April 1974-81 peak tourist season in 1974.

The agreement also allows for intermediate stops in European cities, where for the first time the airlines will be permitted to shift passengers from one kind of plane to another. This is known as "change of gauge."

As an example, Pan American will be able to fly its Moscow-bound passengers to London in a 747 jet, then switch them to a smaller 707 for the remainder of the flight.

Another provision, the United States and the Soviet Union agreed to "facilitate" charter flights between one country and the international airports in another country. "U.S. airlines will thus be able to consider charter flight programs between the United States and Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev, Tashkent, Odessa and Khabarovsk," a joint statement said.

Michael Styles, head of the State Department's aviation negotiations division and chief U.S. negotiator in the air talks that began May 23, said the two sides considered — but did not pursue — Russian interest in landing on the U.S. West Coast and U.S. interest in landing in Russian cities beyond Moscow.

Styles described the agreement as a "modest expansion" of commercial air service between the two nations.

Astronaut Paul Weitz examined Skylab astros win OK to meet Soviet leader

ABOARD USS TICONDEROGA (UPI) — Doctors cleared the Skylab 1 astronauts Saturday to visit President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev Sunday.

Dr. W. Hoyce Hawkins said adverse effects felt by the crew after their record 28-day stay in space had nearly cleared up.

Joseph P. Kerwin, the crew's flying doctor, was in worse shape than commander Charles "Pete" Conrad and the third crewman, Paul J. Weitz, after splashdown Friday, but he had improved tremendously after 12 hours sleep and a "hearty meal," Hawkins said.

"I feel like he (Kerwin) is 1,000 per cent better today," Hawkins said at a news conference at the Johnson Space Center in Houston.

"They all got a good, solid 12 hours of sleep which I think they really needed," he said. "Paul and Joe said they don't even remember their heads hitting the pillows."

Hawkins said the physicians aboard this aging carrier and Dr. James C. Fletcher, NASA administrator, gave their okay for the trip to the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif.

Hawkins said the astronauts would have to wear surgical masks during the visit to protect them from contracting any diseases. Spacemen are very susceptible to respiratory and other diseases after missions because of the high-oxygen, rather sterile atmosphere of the spacecraft.

They will also have to restrict what they eat and drink because of their special diets which are coordinated with medical tests.

"This morning, Joe had a hearty breakfast and has really regained all his appetite and I think that's a good sign," Hawkins said.

Kerwin suffered from dizziness, lightheadedness and vomiting soon after reaching this recovery ship. He was able to go through the extensive medical tests Saturday, but was taking longer to readjust to the pull of gravity than the other crewmen.

Jail panel makes check, OKs plans

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls County Jail Improvement Committee met with architect John Meyer to inspect the fourth floor of the courthouse for a final approval of remodeling plans.

Meyer explained and presented the latest building plans for review on the site. The plans include retaining the original stairways of the four story building so as to not destroy the basic architectural design of the old building.

The final plans were approved with the exception of two minor areas.

A fire escape in the form of a spiral stairway from the roof of the building to the ground will be moved slightly to the east to avoid blocking windows. This will serve as a means of escape in case of fire for persons in the county jail and would provide a rear as well as front escape.

If the fire should start in the kitchen area, the jailer and inmates could leave through the doors to the stairway at the front and if the fire is in the front they could enter the spiral fire escape through the kitchen.

The architect will meet with the city building inspector for further study of the double stairway leading from the third to the fourth floor in the hope of blocking off one side and using only one door. A fire wall with one hour's resistance will be installed between the stairways and jail cells. Presently, only steel bars separate the area.

County commissioners said they are anxious to get the remodeling work underway. It is badly needed and has been needed for several years. With all prisoners in the county now housed in the county jail there is a serious need for juvenile quarters and improved segregation of men, women and juvenile prisoners.

Jailer's quarters will be built just off the present visiting area and at the kitchen entrance. Special security measures will be provided and the door locked between the jailer and the jail area. Plans are to keep the jailer on the fourth floor at night. Area formerly used as the sheriff's apartment will be remodeled into additional jail quarters for juveniles and other prisoners.

Chairman William Cimney of the county commissioners, said with the final approval of the two details the county will be ready to call for bids on the remodeling work.

He said the county must also begin planning now to prepare plans and call for bids for a sprinkler system on the remaining floors of the building in order to have the building meet state fire safety standards.

Jail improvement committee members include representatives of all cities in the county, the planning and zoning administrator and the county commissioners.

Club feted

TWIN FALLS — The Soroptimist Club entertained members of the Golden Age Club with cake and ice cream following the business meeting Friday at the DAV hall.

Dolly Lander, president, spoke on the accomplishments of the Soroptimist Club and was in charge of arrangements for the meeting assisted by Lara Doss, club representative to the Golden Age Club.

Ada Rayborn and Helen Cannon also attended.

The business session was conducted by John Henderson, Henderson, Lillian Aranga, Florence West and Lewis Smith led community singing with Elva Olson at the piano.

Herb and Barcia Beam and Mary Chittock, Gooding, were guests.

Book store to withdraw case in federal court

TWIN FALLS — Robert Galley, Twin Falls county prosecutor, said Friday it appears the action in federal court against Fifth District Judge Theron W. Ward and himself will end this week.

Byron Johnson, attorney for the Pussy Cat Inc., an adult book store operation in Boise and Twin Falls, called Galley Friday and said in light of the new US Supreme Court ruling to establish guidelines for hard core pornographic material he and his client plan to file for dismissal.

The owners of Pussy Cat II, the adult book store in Twin Falls, took the matter into federal court after Judge Ward granted an injunction against the business on a basis of "hard core" pornographic material offered for sale and viewing in the establishment.

Representatives of the firm asked the federal court for an injunction to keep Judge Ward and Galley from enforcing the district court injunction. A hearing before a three judge panel in federal court in Boise was scheduled for Wednesday.

Galley said at that time, Johnson has advised he will move for dismissal of the case. Galley said he would join Johnson in the stipulation for dismissal.

The county took action against the firm, charging the store offered for sale and display obscene and pornographic materials. Since that time the original court order closing the firm was modified to allow the store to open for business so long as hard core pornographic material was not in evidence.

Last Tuesday the firm vacated the store location in Twin Falls and closed the business.

In the new ruling on pornographic material, the US Supreme Court said states and communities need not follow "national standards"

Prosecutor aide hired for TF

TWIN FALLS — Terry Johnson, who graduated from the University of Idaho this spring, is now serving as deputy prosecutor for Twin Falls County.

Robert Galley, county prosecutor, said Johnson was hired following his graduation and application has been made for his services as a legal intern. He will handle misdemeanor cases and will appear on some cases under Galley's supervision in district court.

He will take a refresher course this fall and the bar exam in August. Galley said the 1973 budget for his office included salaries for three attorneys including himself and two deputies. During most of the time only Galley and Howard Jewell, a deputy, have been serving with additional attorney needs filled on an hourly basis by other attorneys.

Galley said the budget will cover Johnson's salary as it was approved prior to his joining the staff.

Johnson's wife, Carolyn Elizabeth, will be moving to Twin Falls as soon as she completes her studies at the university for a master's degree. She will then be teaching at Lincoln Elementary school.

TF crew assists at Arrow rock

TWIN FALLS — Members of an Inter-Regional fire crew out of Twin Falls left early Saturday morning for the Boise area to assist on a 500 acre fire near Arrow Rock Dam.

Fire officials here said the crew was one of several called to help Boise Forest fire fighters, when high winds spread the blaze during the evening Friday.

A small fire burning late Friday between Fairfield and Bellvue was extinguished by Sawtooth National Forest fire fighters. Officials said one B-27 load of chemical was dropped on the small fire to bring it under control.

Bureau of Land Management officials in Shoshone reported four small fires Friday and Saturday in the district. One was just north of the Perrine Bridge.

Man pleads innocent

HAILEY — Joseph S. Brody, Ketchum, has pleaded innocent to a charge of possession with intent to manufacture a controlled substance, marijuana.

The plea was entered in argument in Fifth District Court Thursday Judge Charles Scrogm scheduled a jury trial for July 31. Brody was charged in connection with an alleged incident which occurred April 18, 1972 in Ketchum.

Brody was represented by Craig Sorenson, Ketchum attorney. Representing the state was Blaine County Prosecutor Stephen W. Bolter.

Elmore youths go to camp

GLENN'S FERRY — The bus for the 4-H Camp north of Ketchum will load at the courthouse between 8-8:30 a.m. Monday.

It will be at the Hull Memorial Park in Glenn's Ferry after a stop at the Koffee Kup Cafe at Hammett to pick up those in that area.

Each 4-H member is reminded to bring a sack lunch including a drink.

Mrs. Marilyn Jordan, Elmore County home extension agent, says the theme of the camp is Yogi Berra Park. Jean Forsythe will have charge of the singing and teach a class in art. Joyce Wicks will be in charge of entomology.

This year the campers will be divided into those under 12 years and those over 12 years. There will be special classes on horsemanship, rock collecting, astronomy, drama and sports.

The group will swim at Bald Mountain Hot Springs in Ketchum, ice skate at the rink in Sun Valley and go horseback riding from the stables in Ketchum.

Burley women held on charge

TWIN FALLS — Two Burley women were arrested in downtown Twin Falls Friday and charged with second degree burglary after officers said they recovered some $233 in merchandise from several stores.

Capt. Tim Qualls, chief of detectives for the Twin Falls police department said Vickey Curiel, 22, and her sister in law, Emma Ann Curiel, 20, both Burley were charged with second degree burglary. They appeared in Magistrate Court

Friday afternoon and bond was set by Judge Reed P. Maughan at $2,000. It was later reduced to $1,000 each both women remained in custody Saturday.

Officers said thefts were reported by four Twin Falls stores, the Mayfair Shop, Newberry's, Warman, King's and Vickers Saddlery. A total of $233.45 in merchandise was recovered and officers were looking for a dress and a pair of slacks allegedly taken from the Mayfair Shop and discarded in a trash can.

Buhl social set

BUHL — Plans were made for an "ice cream and cake social for senior citizens of St. John's Lutheran church when the Women's Federation met Thursday.

Mrs. Harlan Schmeckpeper, vice president, said the social will be in conjunction with the final summer meeting of the group in July.

Opening devotions were given by Mrs. Neil Stuegemeyer. A topic on evangelism was presented by Mrs. Ted Behm, who also gave the closing devotions.

Members lose weight

GLENN'S FERRY — Everyone who attended the TOPS ID 179 meeting Thursday evening at Greer Hall had lost weight.

The group enjoyed looking at the large chart, with the green markers — so all "were in the Green."

Mrs. Raymond Toombs was TOPPER of the week, and Mrs. Don Anderson, leader, took her picture.

TOPS lost six pounds and KOPS lost one-fourth pound in the final totaling, by the weight recorder, Mrs. Ralph Larsen.

June 28 will be the last meeting for June with weigh-in at 6:30, the meeting at 7 at Greer Hall.

OPEN MONDAY AND FRIDAY NIGHTS UNTIL 9 P.M.

Raging brush fire sears LA

ADM. STOCKDALE
...accused

CAPT. WILBER
...surprised

...accused

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A racing brush fire that wrought $2.5 million damage in an exclusive suburb of 150,000 homes, dotted with swimming pools, stables and bride paths, was believed Saturday possibly to have been set off by children playing with matches.

Swept by 30-mile winds, the inferno completely destroyed 11 residences; damaged 12 others and sent hundreds fleeing their homes in the Rolling Hills community atop the lofty Palos Verde peninsula south of Los Angeles.

A fire department spokesman said it was a "major miracle" that no lives were lost and no one seriously injured in the blaze which started Friday afternoon and still was smoldering.

County firemen were reported to have put out a couple of small fires in the past few weeks set off by youngsters playing with matches and setting off model rockets in a parched field where the Rolling Hills fire began.

Temperatures as high as 100 degrees had scorched the Los Angeles area the past week, providing tinder-like conditions for a number of brush fires.

One still blazed Saturday in Riverside County, there was an 8,500-acre conflagration in Kern County in central California and redwood and Douglas fir trees were blackened in Mendocino County in the northern part of the state.

In Rolling Hills, dozens of persons led horses through the dense smoke whose spiral could be seen 30 miles away. One family jumped into their swimming pool and stayed there while the flames swept over their home.

The wedding of Frank and Linda Greslek in the Targous Wayfarers Chapel, the almost all-glass church overlooking the Pacific, was cut short by the Rev. Harvey A. Tafel who hurriedly pronounced them "man and wife" and told the guests — "Go to your cars." The blaze was three feet from the parking lot but did not reach the chapel.

One young man, who fled with his dog and two horses, came back to his blackened home to find his flock of pet geese had been badly burned. He killed them with a shotgun.

Former POW surprised by misconduct charges

COLUMBIA CROSS ROADS, Pa. (UPI) — A former Navy POW said Saturday he does not know if the antiwar statements he made during his captivity prompted misconduct charges leveled against him by a ranking officer in his prison camp.

Capt. Walter E. Wilber, 43, Columbia Cross Roads, said it was "common knowledge" he made antiwar statements to the North Vietnamese.

"But I don't know if that's a factor or not," Wilber said, referring to the misconduct charges that Rear Adm. James B. Stockdale — of Coronado, Calif., made against him and Marine Lt. Col. Edison Wainwright Miller, Tustin, Calif.

Defense Department sources said Friday the charges were mailed to the Pentagon, but had not arrived. It was believed the services would not press any case based only on charges of making antiwar statements.

"Until we actually receive the material Stockdale mailed we won't know what his charges are and whether they are in legally acceptable form," one source said.

Wilber said he knows even less about the charges.

"I've heard about it only through the press," he said. "I'm surprised and I don't know about it. I know nothing about it officially."

Wilber and Miller were imprisoned in Hanoi, where Stockdale was deputy to the senior commanding officer,

Brig. Gen. John P. Flynn.

Wilber said he had no idea if other activities besides his antiwar statements could have prompted the charges.

"I don't know what would be the factors involved," he said. "I have no idea."

The Navy Captain, who is a 25-year veteran of the service and was a prisoner for 4 1/2 years, said he had no close relationship with Stockdale.

"I knew him only just briefly," he said.

Tough day

LIMA, Mont. (UPI) — Saturday was not a good day for the Lima Fire Department.

The first major blaze in 18 years hit the community early in the morning, and the sirens didn't work and extinguishers were empty.

The blaze partially destroyed Bramlett's Cafe in the northwestern Montana town.

Trains due tickets

SHOSHONE (UPI) — Mayor Edward Worry said Friday he has instructed police to issue citations to train crewmen for blocking crossings for more than five minutes at a time.

Worry said Shoshone ordinances prohibit trains from blocking crossings for more than five minutes and he recently has received numerous complaints from

Panel picks C. Koontz

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Members of the legislature's Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee voted 11-4 Friday to hire Clyde Koontz as their legislative auditor.

Koontz, who has not said whether he will accept the $18,500-per year post, is associate director for fiscal planning in the Office of Higher Education.

He a former state tax collector and former member of the State Tax Commission.

If he accepts the job, his appointment will be effective Aug. 1.

Senate probers call on Dean

Government officials with knowledge of the full extent of Dean's previous testimony before the federal prosecutors and the Senate Watergate Committee said the former White House counsel had not previously described the alleged presidential conversation about Colson and executive clemency.

Dean's associates indicated in recent interviews that he was going to reveal much information during the televised Senate hearings beginning Monday.

The report of the conversations between Nixon and Colson culminated a week of disclosures set off, in part, by the Senate committee's decision to delay Dean's appearance for one week because of the President's summit talks with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Still at issue are these central questions: Is Dean telling the truth? And, whether or not he is, can he independently prove any of his assertions?

The White House is reported to be preparing to counterattack as soon as Dean's Senate testimony — his first in public — is completed.

Many sources close to the White House believe that — as one put it today — "Dean can embarrass him (Nixon) but he can't impeach him."

These officials expressed the view that Dean's most damaging testimony will concern non-watergate matters, such as alleged impropriety in connection with a series of multimillion dollar contracts that were awarded during the first Nixon administration.

Californians may enjoy extra hour of sunshine

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Legislation giving Californians an extra hour of sunshine during summer evenings has cleared the Assembly.

The bill by Assemblyman Bob Wilson, D-La Mesa, won approval Thursday on a 41-20 vote and was sent to the Senate.

It would require clocks to be set ahead two hours instead of one during the daylight savings months of June, July, August and September. The current one-hour daylight savings time period would apply to May and October.

Wilson said his "sunshine act" would reduce crime and traffic accidents because of fewer nighttime hours and lower electrical usage because of better use of morning daylight hours.

But Assemblyman Robert Badham, R-Newport Beach, warned that parents would have trouble getting their children to bed on time due to the extra sunshine time.

He said "beleaguered parents" would be saddled with the antics of their "cheerful little children running around the house until after 10 p.m."

Assemblyman John E. Thurman Jr., D-Modesto, said the change in daylight savings time would impose a hardship on farmers, who already find it difficult to change their working hours for the one-hour time change currently.

Women rookies do well

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rookie policewomen in Washington, assigned for the past year to regular patrol duty by police chief Jerry V. Wilson, are doing as well as male rookies, according to a four-month study of the Urban Institute for the Police Foundation.

Wilson, an innovative chief and President Nixon's favorite law enforcement official, has dropped all barriers to women in a department that, until he took over four years ago, had a quota for female officers, required them to have college degrees, and placed them in administrative jobs.

Several weeks ago, the city council, on Wilson's suggestion, lowered the height requirement for officers from 5'7" to 5', the lowest in the country. Wilson said a study had shown no difference in police performance based on height.

The city civil service agency has also stopped giving separate entrance tests for women.

"We are no longer hiring men or women—just police officers," Wilson said Thursday. "The experiment is a success. I pronounce it a success by fiat," said Wilson, who did admit running into resistance from older officers when he put the women on patrol duty last summer.

There are now about 100 women patrolling the streets, assigned to demonstrations and chasing down crooks.

And a woman in blue walking a downtown beat at 2 a.m. causes double and triple takes by tourists and businessmen emerging from their favorite tavern.

9 cool ways to save energy

1. Insulate! Biggest energy-saver we know. We recommend ten inches overhead (R-30 resistance factor). Save on cooling and heating costs.
2. A vent fan to carry off excess heat in the attic can reduce living area summer temperatures by ten degrees (and prevent moisture condensation during winter months).
3. Given a choice, locate your window air conditioner on the shady side of the house so the condensing unit can dissipate heat more readily.
4. Obstructions to air flow reduce cooling efficiency. Don't let shrubbery smother the outdoor section of your air conditioner. Keep the intake grill free from furniture or curtains. Most important, clean the filter regularly.
5. Use the vent fans in your kitchen or bath to carry off heat when cooking or bathing.
6. Don't try to live like an Eskimo! During hot weather, air conditioning experts recommend inside temperatures 12 to 15 degrees cooler than outside temperatures.
7. Draperies can do more than look pretty. Use them to keep the sunshine out during daytime hours (and to keep heat in during the winter).
8. Even the best air conditioner can't cool the whole outdoors. Keep windows and doors closed while operating the cooling system.
9. If you are going away from home, increase the setting five or ten degrees. The goldfish won't notice the difference.

Our job is to provide the electricity you need; yours, to use it wisely.

Gem department's data lack scored

MOSCOW (UPI) — A legislative audit of the State Department of Commerce and Development says the department has been weak in gathering statistical information that could be used to evaluate effectiveness.

The audit report was one of five presented Saturday to the joint finance-appropriations committee meeting at the University of Idaho.

The 31-page report on the Commerce Department included 21 recommendations for improvement, based on the findings of field work completed Dec. 22, 1972.

Reports on the Office of Child Development and the state Law Library, however, noted the agencies to be within conformity of the law in administering funds but did not have any recommendations for the agencies.

An audit of the State Historical Society found that the historical items in the society's possession are not insured because funds have not been available for an appraisal of the value of the items.

The auditors recommended that consideration should be given to obtaining better protection for the historical items either through insurance coverage or improved fire protection.

The commerce department report noted that the travel promotion division spends about $90,000 annually on advertising and recommended the division gather statistical information for use in evaluating the performance and effectiveness of the advertising program.

It also suggested that the department hear presentations and proposals from several advertising agencies before selecting one agency for a promotion campaign.

In addition, the report discussed the merits and demerits of using billboard advertising to promote travel in Idaho and recommended that the money could be spent more effectively in other types of advertising.

The auditors found that inquiries from potential tourists cost from 21 cents to $26.87 per inquiry with the average slightly more than $2.25 per inquiry.

The auditors also found that although the Idaho Code requires the department and publicity council to have 14 members, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus had only appointed seven members to the council.

The auditors suggested the smaller council works more efficiently and the law should be changed to require fewer members.

It also recommended appointment of a member of the Idaho Environmental Council or another recognized environmentalist to the development and publicity council to assure the public representation in matters affecting the environment.

The report on the Idaho Dairy Products Commission recommended some changes in internal control such as having more than one person involved in the preparation, signing, recording and filing of expenditure documents.

It also noted that the commission, when the report was completed Oct. 30, 1972, had not complied with the Idaho Code in placing their property on the state's central property inventory system.

Protest set

CANBERRA, Australia (UPI) — Australia will join New Zealand in sending a navy vessel to the Mururoa atoll in the South Pacific next week to protest France's resumption of atmospheric nuclear testing there, Prime Minister Gough Whitlam said Saturday.

Whitlam said the naval support ship Supply will sail Monday from Sydney to rendezvous with the New Zealand frigate, Otago, and proceed to the atoll, about 750 miles southeast of Tahiti.

"Neither ship will seek a confrontation with the French armed forces in the test area," Whitlam said in making the announcement.

Israeli pullout demanded

CAIRO (UPI) — A top government official said Saturday that Israel must commit itself in advance to withdraw from all occupied Arab territory as a condition for any Egyptian participation in indirect peace talks with the Israelis.

The official denied that Egypt has changed its position on how the conflict with Israel can be resolved peacefully.

He said Egypt continued to insist on indirect talks with Israel through the United Nations, provided there is an advance Israeli commitment on withdrawal from all occupied Arab territory.

On Friday Foreign Minister Mohammed Hassan El-Zayyat rejected an Israeli proposal for "direct negotiations" without prior conditions between him and Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban, in the presence of U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring.

Seoul drops UN entry bars

(The New York Times Service) SEUL — President Park Chung Hee, in a dramatic shift in diplomatic policy, said Saturday Seoul would not oppose the entry of both North and South Korea into the United Nations.

He said even before the admission into the United Nations South Korea would not oppose North Korea's participation with the south in the general assembly debate on the Korean question.

He did not indicate when South Korea intended to apply for UN membership.

Park stressed, however, that Seoul's acceptance of the two-Korea concept in the world community was an "interim measure" pending the unification of Korea and did not signify our recognition of North Korea as a state.

'Fiscal chaos' warning issued

MOSCOW (UPI) — A fiscal officer warned the legislature's key budget committee Friday it faces "chaos" unless governmental reorganization and budgeting are coordinated next year.

"The single factor which could have the most significant impact on the budgeting procedures in the next session of the legislature is governmental reorganization," John Anderson, legislative fiscal officer, said.

With the legislature having to appropriate for 105 agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1974, and being confronted with a Jan. 1, 1975, deadline to part the number of state agencies to 20, he said, serious problems could develop.

"This could create fiscal chaos in the middle of the fiscal year unless special arrangements are made to cope with the problem," Anderson said in a 391-page fiscal report.

He said the reorganization commission, the joint finance-appropriations committee, the budget division and the agencies must coordinate their efforts.

All birds are grouped in the biological class called Aves.

White House submits questions to Dean

By MARTHA ANGLE
(c) 1973 Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON—The White House has submitted a series of questions to the Senate Watergate Committee to be put to former presidential counsel John W. Dean III when he testifies publicly next week, according to Senate sources.

The White House queries, one committee source said, are "lawyer-like questions based on their understanding of what he's likely to testify about. There's nothing new in them." Dean, whose testimony is expected to be damaging to President Nixon and his closest former advisers, has been the subject of a "concerted administration counterattack throughout the last week. Sources said the White House questions for Dean were submitted to minority counsel Fred D. Thompson, along with a White House description of conversations Dean had earlier this year with the President in regard to Watergate.

Thompson made both both sets of material available to Democratic committee staffers, it was learned.

Thompson refused Thursday to confirm or deny the existence of the White House list, but other staffers said they had seen the queries.

White House counsel Leonard Garment Thursday declined to "get into detail" about communications with the Senate committee or special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

"We have provided information and have had oral communications with the (Senate) investigators and the special prosecutor in aid of the investigation," Garment said.

Thompson, who was named minority counsel by Sen. Howard W. Baker Jr. of Tenn., questioned Dean last Saturday in a closed door staff interview about Dean's use of $4,800 in Nixon campaign funds for his honeymoon last fall.

News of Dean's admission that he had "borrowed" the campaign funds to pay for his honeymoon later leaked out, and Dean's lawyers promptly refused to permit any further staff interviews of Dean before he testifies publicly in Monday.

Until last Saturday, the only staff member to interview Dean had been chief counsel Samuel Dash. Dean had refused to talk with Thompson, voicing fears that the minority counsel or Baker might be reporting back to the White House. Both have flatly denied doing so.

Dash Thursday said Dean told him about the honeymoon expenditures some time ago. "I've shared some of this information with Sen. (Sam J.) Ervin, the committee chairman and Sen. Ervin alone."

Dash said he did not know where Thompson learned of the honeymoon episode but that it wasn't from him.

It could not be ascertained whether any member of the committee or its staff had solicited the questions for Dean from the White House.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Yo-Yo, a spotted sand bass that didn't get any smarter as it got older, "has been reeled in for the last time."

That announcement came Wednesday from the California Department of Fish and Game, which said the fish was caught four different times in 18 months at the same spot at Newport Harbor on the Pacific Ocean.

The fish was tagged and tossed back the first three times as too small. The fourth fisherman ended Yo-Yo's career.

Eclipse brings visitors

(c) 1973 New York Times
LOIENGALANI, Kenya—There are only about 200 members of Kenya's El Molo, a tribe in Kenya, and there are approximately the same number of solar astronomers in the United States.

The solar eclipse of June 30 is bringing the two groups together on the banks of Lake Rudolf, in the northern Kenya desert.

About 70 American scientists have arrived in this tiny Catholic mission station and village on the southeastern shore of the lake.

On a spit of land projecting into the crocodile-infested water, the astronomers have set up their optical, photographic and electronic equipment like an artillery battery in a neatly aligned and spaced rank.

Several times each day the scientists drive back and forth from their living quarters through a village of about 40 El Molo huts — simple little domes of palm leaf fashioned over frames of sticks.

Carol Scherrer, an American social anthropologist who lives with the tribesmen, said that they knew that the eclipse was coming.

"They think the sun is going out and they think the white men are the ones who are causing it," she said.

Dr. Jay Pasachoff, director of the observatory at Williams College, said: "I gave a talk at the mission school and told the kids we astronomers were not causing the eclipse but that all of us should be grateful that we will see such a beautiful sight."

There seems to be only a small chance that nature will spoil the spectacle. The period of totality in this area will be 4 minutes, 59 seconds, about two minutes less than in the West African country of Mauritania.

US, USSR sign business plans

WASHINGTON (UPI)—With 52 top American businessmen looking on, U.S. and Soviet officials Friday ratified agreements to increase commercial ties between their nations, and to lay plans for establishing a joint "chamber of commerce."

In addition, the Soviet government announced it would permit 10 American corporations to establish offices in Moscow, and said it was considering accrediting still more U.S. firms.

The agreements were spelled out in two official protocols signed during a briefing by Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev for the American business executives at Blair House, across the street from the White House.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz signed the agreements for the United States and Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai S. Patolichev signed for the Soviet Union.

The agreement specified that "in the interest of strengthening their commercial and economic ties," the two governments have contracted to expand the office space for officials in Moscow who advise U.S. firms on trade and investment in the Soviet Union.

It said the move would help "to provide more effective services to U.S. businessmen."

It also said U.S. Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent would meet soon with American business and financial leaders "to discuss the desirability of establishing in the United States private sector a U.S.S.R.-U.S. chamber of commerce."

Patolichev will conduct similar talks with Soviet foreign trade groups.

The companies cleared to do business with Russians from branch offices in the Soviet capital were: Pullman Inc.; Occidental Petroleum Corp.; Chase Manhattan Bank; General Electric Co.; International Harvester Co.; Caterpillar Tractor Co.; Hewlett-Packard Co.; Engelhard Minerals Chemical Corp.; Bank of America; and First City National Bank.

Demo chief's home entered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss has testified that his home in Dallas was broken into and ransacked soon after the Watergate "bugging" arrests.

"My wife's jewelry tray with tens of thousands of dollars worth of jewelry was torn out of the wall and placed on the floor," Strauss said in a pretrial deposition in the Democrats' $6.4 million civil suit against the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

"All of our drawers were opened and papers gone through and nothing taken," Strauss said he and his wife were at the Democratic National Convention at the time, and the house was unoccupied.

Israelis cash in on Arab land

(c) Washington Star-News
JERUSALEM — Despite an official ban, Israeli land speculators are slowly moving into the occupied Arab territory.

The object is to cash in on what promises to be a booming real estate business in the years to come.

The No. 1 target area is the west bank of Jordan. The subject is taboo in Israel where the purchase of Arab land by Jews has a deep political connotation. It implies that Israel is there to stay, thus precluding a negotiated settlement with the Arabs.

According to unofficial estimates, about 15,000 acres of Arab property have been purchased by speculators in the areas of Jerusalem, Hebron and Rafiah. In addition, authorized government agencies such as the National Land Authority and the Jewish National Fund jointly own 12,000 acres.

It is an emotional issue, causing periodic opposition outcries and even some bitter discussions within the ruling Labor Party. Defense minister Moshe Dayan strongly favors Jewish property ownership in the occupied areas while finance minister Pinhas Sapir opposes it.

A strong practical factor favoring Jewish land ownership in the occupied territories is the total lack of prospect for a political settlement. This, coupled with the desire of many Arabs to get rid of their property and emigrate, automatically opens the door to illegal transactions.

The government has reacted by authorizing only the National Land Authority and the Jewish National Fund to purchase land for settlement. The measure was not so much to oppose private settlers as to stem the rising tide of land speculation.

As far as can be ascertained, many Israeli businessmen have found loopholes in the law with the apparent complicity of the military occupation authorities.

The military authorities generally scoff at any report of illegal land transactions but claim they have no way to trace them. Such an attitude appears rather grotesque on the part of one of the best-organized and best-informed military occupation systems in recent history.

Those Israelis who oppose land sales are creating another obstacle toward a settlement, charge that occupation authorities simply close their eyes to all such deals.

Some Israeli informants claim that among those who recently acquired Arab land in the west bank area are senior military officers as well as members of the Knesset (Parliament).

Such allegations, however, cannot be officially confirmed. General Dayan's view is that the process of "Israel-ization" of Arab land is inevitable and that Jewish physical presence will eventually determine the shape of the new frontiers. In the eyes of Dayan and of his supporters, some occupied areas would thus be progressively integrated.

Charles Colson known as White House 'ax man'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the first term of the Nixon administration, Charles W. Colson was known as the White House "hatchet man" and chief of "the bureau of dirty tricks."

In the year since the arrests at the Watergate, Colson has played down this role and even has taken a lie detector test he said proved he had nothing to do with the bugging of the Democratic national offices.

He's actually a cream-puff, David I. Shapiro, his counsel and law partner, says. Colson has refused numerous UPI requests for an interview although he appears on television.

Colson, a self-admitted Nixon intimate, resigned as White House special counsel in February and now has a posh suite of offices two blocks away where he represents, among others, the Teamsters Union.

Despite his attorney's characterization and the lie test, Colson's name has appeared frequently in sworn testimony in various legal outgrowths of the burgeoning scandal.

Colson recommended the 1971 hiring at the White House of a fellow Brown University alumnus, ex-CIA operative F. Howard Hunt Jr., eventually convicted as one of the masterminds of the bugging operation. Colson said later, "I don't know of anyone who had given more of his adult life to his country than Mr. Hunt."

According to a deposition in the Democrats' $6.4 million damage suit against the Committee to Re-elect the President, John D. Ehrlichman, then one of Nixon's two top aides, said Colson introduced him to Hunt in July, 1971, as a White House staffer to work "in connection with the Pentagon Papers matter."

It was revealed during the trial of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg (that Hunt and the other convicted Watergate mastermind, G. Gordon Liddy, also a White House aide at the time, broke into the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist during Labor Day weekend, 1971.

Hunt had been listed on the White House payroll as a consultant on drug matters.

Magruder and ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III have told the Senate committee that a program of intelligence-gathering, including the Watergate operation, was discussed in three or four meetings in late 1971 and early 1972. Both said Colson was not present in these meetings.

Sometime before the Watergate approval was given in a March 4, 1972, meeting, Magruder testified, "Colson called me one evening, and said, 'would we get off the stick and get Liddy's plan approved.'"

"We need data on Larry O'Brien," Magruder testified that Colson told him, in a reference to the Democratic national chairman. Magruder said that Colson did not mention wiretapping. Ehrlichman said in his deposition that Magruder gave him essentially the same account.

Put learning to practice High school workshop students conclude course with performance

TWIN FALLS — Eight high school students enrolled in "Summers Mummies," a CSI workshop for Magic Valley drama students, presented "Two Bottles of Relish" and "My Chent Curley" Saturday night in the C.S.I. Fine Arts building to conclude their course.

Twin Falls, Jerome and Filer students have been working since the first of June preparing the two one-act comedies.

Fran Tanner, Paul Kliss and Ed Collins, C.S.I. drama staff, are instructing the class in techniques of acting set design and construction.

According to Collins, "This was just a trial to get surrounding high schools interested in all aspects of drama, not just acting. We think we can recruit some students for CSI this way while providing high school students a better drama background to take into their respective schools."

Two sets are being constructed for the plays. The audience will view "Two Bottles of Relish" in the drama room in the Fine Arts building. During intermission they will move to the auditorium for "My Chent Curley."

This is the first workshop for high schools in the area but Collins is looking forward to a complete recruiting and student help program in the fall.

Senior group has fete

BUHL — Lincoln Court senior citizens had an "Art Party" Thursday afternoon. Those attending cut bottles and worked on decoupage projects under the direction of John Conrad, coordinator for the senior citizen's center in Buhl.

Euhlah Blankenship, reported, said today that the group entertained senior citizens from Gooding earlier this month. They served cake and coffee and took the group on a tour of the Lincoln Courts grounds.

She also reported that June birthday celebrants in the group include Charles Warren, Nelbe Blankley, Mabel Boring and Laura Blackham.

Demos demand Bryce firing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Eight House Democrats demanded Friday that Bryce Harlow be fired as President Nixon's aide if he does not transfer his private stock holdings into a separate trust.

The Democrats, in a letter to Nixon, said Harlow's announced intention to retain his stock in Procter & Gamble along with stock options and pension rights "violates federal conflict of interest regulations and executive orders and contradicts the spirit of what other officials of your administration have done regarding their personal financial interests."

Harlow was a vice president of Procter & Gamble and their Washington representative when he took a leave of absence recently to act as Nixon's congressional liaison.

Earth breakup told

GREELEY, Colo. (UPI) — A University of Northern Colorado geologist said Thursday that the western United States is being torn apart from the rest of the country because of underground geysers of molten matter under Yellowstone National Park.

"The process is a slow one—millions of years," said assistant geology professor Vincent Matthews. "It is not going to double the price of mountain lots by turning them into ocean-front property overnight."

Matthews said he and Constance E. Anderson, an undergraduate geology student, explained the process in the recent issue of the magazine "Nature."

He said the boundary of the fault predicted to break away from the rest of the United States began in southern New Mexico, extended north to Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming and then went west through the Snake River Plain in Idaho.

He said the problem was a "plume," the name given columns of hot matter which spurt up from the interior of the earth and hit the underside of the earth's crust. Matthews said the plume caused the crust to crack and split apart.

"The Rocky Mountains are a part of the crust that has uplifted in response to the plume," said Matthews. "The rifting already is occurring in New Mexico's Rio Grande Valley and in the San Luis Valley of southern Colorado. The crust has dropped as much as six miles."

Matthews said while the eventual breakup would take millions of years the process was of concern now "because major earthquakes should be associated with the rifting."

"I believe that Colorado should adopt at least a minimum earthquake building code to protect structures such as hospitals, schools, and nuclear power plants from destruction should a major earthquake occur."

Mind Your Money

"Radial, bias-belt, bias-ply, polyester, fiberglass, steel-cord."

These are the words they bang your ear with when you're out buying new tires these days. The tire industry continues to try to mesmerize the consumer with jargonistic, puffed-up advertising claims that are of little or no help when it comes to making a purchase decision.

Experts say the new radial tires are definitely better than the older bias-belt or bias-ply tires and, under most driving conditions, will last considerably longer. But radial tires are more expensive and there are some situations where it's not wise to buy them.

For example, if you have a car that's three years old or older, it's pointless to put on radials because they'll last so long you'll be making a present of them to the next owner.

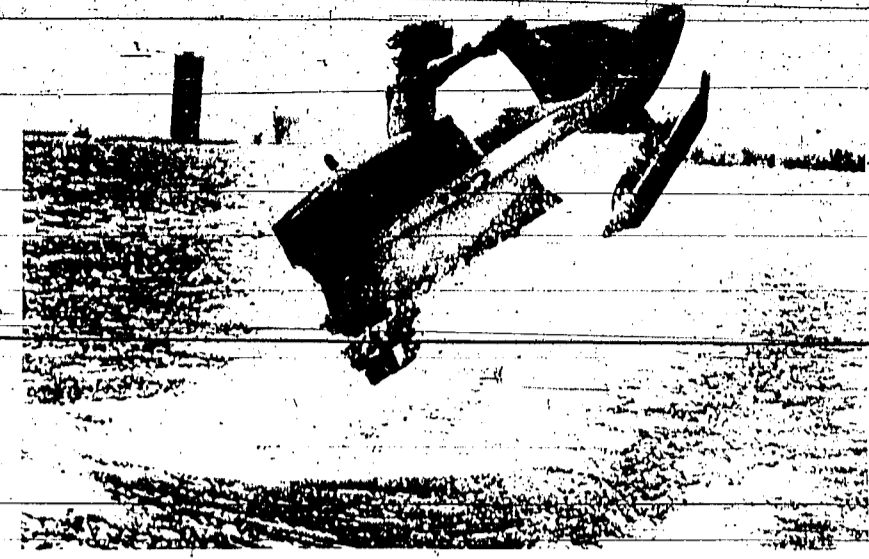

On the other hand, you plan to keep your car another three years or more, it's a good idea to get radial tires as replacements. They cost more than the others, but you'll get your money back because you won't have to replace them.

Aside from their long-lasting qualities, radial tires are also safer. A radial tire tread sticks to the pavement better on turns and gives better stopping performance on wet pavement. And radials don't heat up as much when driven long distances on freeways.

There are basically two different kinds of radial tires. One has a belt under the tread that's made of rayon cord. The other uses a steel-wire cord.

The steel-wire radials will resist punctures and rough roads better than the rayon-belted tires, but you get an argument from experts when you ask which type will last longer under normal driving conditions.

The word "steel" is appealing to consumers and gives the impression that it will last much longer. But, you can get some rayon-belted radials at a lower price that will last nearly as long as the steel-cord

Up, up and away

WITH the Chicago skyline as a backdrop, Clyde One sails through the air and over the waves of Lake Michigan as he demonstrates a new vehicle called the power-ski. The motorcycle-like vehicle will do 30 m.p.h. in the water and is unmistakable. (UPI)

Lesson on food given for club

TWIN FALLS — Country Pals Extension Club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Don Hine for a lesson on foreign foods.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Ernest Hiers, president. Marreen and Mike Allen were guests. Mrs. Glenn Bevan's resignation was read and accepted with regret.

An amendment to the standing rules changing the price for flowers for sick members was approved. Also flowers and cards were presented to Mrs. Harry Sharp and Mrs. H. A. Childers.

A luncheon was served by Mrs. Hine, the hostess.

Peter Weaver

The least expensive way to buy radial tires and the best time to buy them is when you order your new car. You can have radials factory installed for around $90 for a set of five small-car tires and around $115 for a big car set.

You should be able to get this initial extra fee back and then some by not having to buy another set of tires for your car.

If you're buying replacement tires, you can often get a good price on radials that are made in Japan or are marketed under a private label. Some of the Japanese brands such as Toyo and Bridgestone are reported to be holding up quite well and often sell for less than some of the major brand names.

The Michelin tire (made in France) is still the dean of the steel-cord radials. It's been around the longest and was recently top-rated in a series of tests made by Road and Track magazine.

But, the Michelin tire is not always available and you rarely get a discount. Sears' steel-cord radial tire is made by Michelin.

Although radial tires wear much longer than the bias-ply or bias-belt tires under normal driving conditions, they tend to wear out faster when abused. If you severely underinflate or overinflate a radial tire or have your front wheels out of line, you'll wear it down much faster.

Most radial tire manufacturers give a guarantee of 40,000 miles tread wear. This is somewhat of a sales gimmick even though many radials do last 40,000 miles and in some cases much longer.

If your radial tire wears out in, say, 30,000 miles you take it back and are given an "adjustment" price on a new tire of the same make. Sometimes the adjustment price is inflated so you're really getting no adjustment at all.

Recycling center nominated

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has nominated seven Idaho recycling centers for 1973 Keep America Beautiful awards.

Andrus singled out the centers at Moscow, Pocatello, Nampa, Twin Falls, Boise, Mountain Home and the Lewis-Clark Valley Recycling Center. Andrus singled out the centers at Moscow, Pocatello, Nampa and the Lewis-Clark Valley Recycling Center.

"These groups have worked for the most part without benefit of a governmental handout," Andrus said in a letter to the Western Regional office of Keep America Beautiful.

"They have operated on a shoe string and often under adverse physical conditions."

"Only the dedication of the individuals involved in this cause has allowed these first steps to be taken to reclaim and conserve some of our natural resources."

Abortion opposed by stater

BOISE (UPI) — Girls State Gov. Mary Lynn Ercanbrack, Dubois, told a mock legislature Friday that she is "very much opposed to abortion."

Miss Ercanbrack, in her mock state of the state address to the 27th annual Wyoming Girls State Legislature, also spoke out against giving welfare to unwed mothers.

She said she favors capital punishment for first-degree murder and opposes mercy killing unless a person is allowed to die by natural means when he can live only by artificial means.

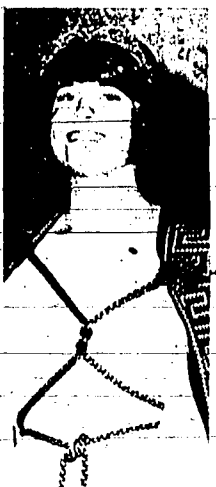

Earlier, in a welcoming address, Idaho Lt. Gov. Jack M. Murphy told the girls the women's liberation movement has made some valid points the past few years although some points raised "veered on the ridiculous."

He said women serving in the Idaho Legislature are consistently among the most effective legislators.

Murphy told the youngsters politics is the art of compromise.

"In the state legislature you have the give and take of 105 minds which allows you to reach not the ideal but allows you to reach the possible," he said. "There can be no giant leaps toward perfection but there can be a number of tiny steps which hopefully can move us toward that goal."

Merry Pet

Linda Merry, DVM

Question: I have been told a part Siamese cat can not be bred. We have two pussy cats which both come in heat. One has nothing to do with the toms (fights them away). The other one has had two litters of kittens.

The first one consisted of two kittens: one premature, one born dead two weeks later. The second litter consisted of one kitten, born dead. Is this just coincidence or is it due to breed?

Or is there something wrong with the cat that we should have her de-sexed?

Answer: Not only can part Siamese reproduce, they can usually lick all corners for the honor. If the half-n-half theory worked we could stop the cat population explosion in mid-boom by releasing a half million "part cats" — rather like sterile fruit flies!

It seems more likely that the one female doesn't like Toms, Dicks or Harry cats. The other could well have a uterine infection (endometritis). If you want one of her kittens she should be treated. If you don't particularly care for the kittens, spaying would eliminate the whole problem.

Question: I have a small 4 year old spayed female dog. Someone dumped a pretty kitten off at our place. This at us full-grown now and he has started sucking my dog, which I hate very much. Is there anyway that he can be broken from doing this "outside" of getting rid of him. From one who loves animals.

Answer: Would you believe this is called "persistent infantile sucking instinct"? Really, it's a behavior pattern that is normally "denied" by the mother cat at the end of the weaning period.

Mom enforces her point by painful stimulation such as slapping the kitten on the nose. So... the same sort of persistent "aversive deconditioning" by the owners has caused complete remission of sucking behavior in cats with the problem. It's certainly worth a try and good luck.

If you have a question about your pet, send it to The Merry Pet column, in care of the Times-News.

Jerome grants zoning variance

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — The Jerome County Commissioners Friday granted a variance to the Chalet Amusement Center to operate under restrictions southeast of Jerome.

A public hearing was held Friday by the Jerome County commissioners to consider the recommendation of the County Planning and Zoning Commission that a variance in the present classification of the land be granted to permit the park to operate in the county.

Of the 12 people attending the public meeting only one was against the establishment of the amusement center. Dave Barrett, Jerome, urged the commissioners to maintain the area in a wild state. The others present spoke on behalf of Val R. Feller, owner of the amusement center.

The commissioners met with Feller following the public hearing to draw up restrictions under which they would grant him a variance in the present land classification.

John Van Orman, county commissioner, said following the meeting with Feller that the variance had been granted but that Feller's operation would be limited to the same type of recreational equipment that he had when he was on the south side of the Perrine Bridge in Twin Falls County and that before any additions could be made to the park Feller would have to obtain permission from the county as well as the state.

Van Orman explained that the commissioners felt that Feller's operation should be held to a minimum pending the outcome of a site land use study which is being undertaken by the Jerome Planning Council of the area.

Feller has agreed that after the study is completed and if the amusement center does not fit into the overall development plan for the area he will move.

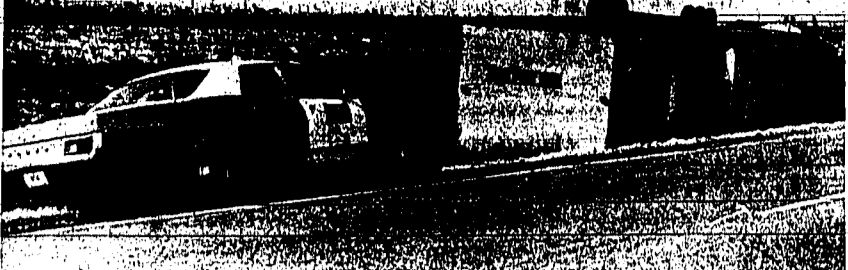

Van Orman also pointed out that while Feller is leasing state endowment land, the state has the obligation to get the highest return possible for the land for the school endowment fund; the land could be sold out from under Feller within 30 days to the highest bidder.

"This would mean if Feller has been permitted to put in $60,000 worth of equipment and improvements it will probably cost the state and the taxpayer more than the investment to compensate Feller if the land is sold," Van Orman said.

Claude Bernard, chairman of the county commissioners, said that Feller has also agreed to the recommendations of the Jerome zoning commission.

The commission recommended that he put in a self-contained sewer system rather than a septic tank as approved by the State Health Department. Bernard explained that if they permit Feller to put in a septic tank it would set a bad precedent in the area for future development of the land and possibly endanger the under ground aquifers in the area.

The zoning commission has also recommended that the integrity of the land be maintained and that Feller's operations be limited to the 12.9 acres of land he is leasing from the state land board.

WIND DAMAGE around Magic Valley Friday evening included this overturned mobile home which was being moved from Pocatello to Twin Falls. Idaho State Police worked from 8:30 p.m. to 11:13 p.m. to help put the home back on its wheels. The accident occurred on Interstate 80, 10 miles east of Twin Falls.

Particulate air pollution higher in TF than Los Angeles, aide says

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News Writer

SHOSHONE — Particulate air pollution is higher in Twin Falls than in Los Angeles, according to an Idaho air quality specialist.

Murray Michael, Department of Environmental and Community Services made the statement at an environmental workshop meeting in Shoshone, Thursday. He said particulates are a primary pollutant in the state and particulate level readings from Twin Falls should show approximately eight micrograms per cubic meter, but instead readings indicate 108. Particulate air pollution includes various dusts, ash, and other particles and is especially dangerous to the elderly and those with respiratory difficulties, Michael said.

Sources of this type of pollution in Twin Falls include grain operations, hot mix plants, sugar factories, incinerators, street and agricultural dust, open burning, schools and other coal burning facilities, according to Michael.

A federal study conducted by a private firm is funded by the Environmental Protection Agency currently underway to pinpoint the problems. Sampling should be finished by August and a final report due within sixty to ninety days afterwards.

Twin Falls is the only city in Idaho currently under study for this type of pollution, Michael said.

In discussing other areas of the state, Michael said continuous testing of air quality throughout the state will be expanded. He said compliance schedules for meeting state and federal air quality demands were set in March for major industries.

There have been no flagrant violations, he said. Compliance schedule dates are legally enforceable and in addition "one-shot" polluters can be taken to court on misdemeanor charges. Michael suggested local governments help with the problem by enforcing open burning bans and smoke abatement and by supporting state and federal air pollution regulations.

The possibility of an air pollution monitoring station being installed in the Sun Valley area and manned by volunteers was discussed. Ketchum residents attending the workshop expressed concern that carbon monoxide pollution is increasing due to heavier traffic in the area.

Jeff Yoder, regional environment supervisor, discussed water pollution control programs in the state. State standards for water quality under federal guidelines deal with temperature, Ph bacteria count and oxygen concentration, he said. The state monitors water quality at 143 sampling stations and 200 municipal treatment plants, Yoder said.

There are no tertiary (three stage) sewage treatment plants which returns essentially drinkable water in the state, Yoder said. Before Nixon cutbacks sewage treatment plants could be 75 per cent federally funded, he said. Federal monies have not been available for construction of plants but may be forthcoming in July, he said.

The state is currently developing regulations to control water pollution caused by feedlot operations. There has been much opposition to the plan, Yoder said. However, recently one feedlot in the state, which was dumping manure into a major waterway, was fined under the Federal Water Pollution Act.

Ed Barker, solid waste management of the DECS, stressed the importance of converting from dumps to sanitary landfills, but said, conditional use permits will be allowed if a county or city sanitary landfill is not feasible. Poor soil conditions or small rural populations may make a landfill impracticable. The DECS will conduct a survey of problem areas throughout the state to determine where landfills may not be reasonable, according to Barker.

Four fires reported

SHOSHONE — Four fires were reported by the Shoshone District Bureau of Land Management Friday evening.

Mike Green, public information office of the BLM, said the fires burned approximately 2,000 acres, about 600 of which were private lands.

Three fires near Bliss which started about 6:30 p.m. were caused by lightning.

The fourth, which started about 11:30 p.m. northeast of Twin Falls was probably man-caused, Green said.

The Bliss fires were eight miles northwest of the city where about 900 acres burned; one three miles northeast of Bliss where 1,000 acres burned and a 200 acre fire nine miles northwest of Gooding. Between 200 and 300 acres burned four miles northwest of Twin Falls just off Highway 93.

The fire that burned on private land did no crop damage but did burn to the edge of a wheat field. Crews included 46 men, with four tankers and one re-fill tankers from the Shoshone office and two tankers from the Burley BLM office.

All fires were reported under control at 5 a.m. Saturday, according to Green.

Horse show held

FILER — The Silver Supreme Idaho Paint Horse Show got underway Saturday morning at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds with youth halter mares scheduled for the first class.

Silver Supreme award winners were scheduled to be announced during Sunday's show.

Dr. and Mrs. Lyle Wonderlich, Twin Falls, hosted a picnic dinner Friday evening in the fairgrounds for all exhibitors of the show.

Kitchen to open

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Canning Kitchen will open July 9 operating on Monday and Friday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. during July.

Child appointments are being taken now by calling Mrs. J. H. (Faye) Sharp, manager, at 733-3497.

Fairfield views plan

FAIRFIELD — The Fairfield planning commission reviewed a 160 acre sub-division plan during their meeting Thursday.

The Smokey Dome Rancho sub-division, if approved, will be located three and one-half miles north and two miles west of Fairfield.

Construction would begin in July for the 16 building sites. Stephen Boller, Ketchum attorney, presented the plans in the name of George Crandallier of Hawaii, developer.

According to planning commission chairman Jack Frostenson, the health department was expected to inspect the building sites Friday. Camas County has no zoning ordinances or building codes, however, the planning commission and county commissioners are in the process of adopting zoning ordinances and specifically sub-division ordinances, Frostenson said.

He said plans for the sub-division would not be approved unless all problems were resolved to the satisfaction of the planning commission. Following planning commission action the plans will be presented to the county commissioners.

The sub-division plans call for individual septic tanks and drain fields, however, sources of obtaining water would be left up to the land owner. The planning commission will review plans and bring it up for discussion again at their July 5 meeting.

Gooding gets wind damage

GOODING — High winds which swept through Gooding County Friday afternoon hospitalized one person and damaged several buildings.

Deputy Sheriff Bill Boyer said John White 23, Wendell, suffered a head injury when wind caught a piece of plywood and blew it into him, striking him in the head.

Boyer said he was working on a highway construction crew for Peter Kiewit Construction Co., helping build an overpass structure near the Bliss Junction on Interstate 80. Officers said the man was taken to the Gooding County Memorial Hospital by ambulance and was unconscious at the time.

Hospital attendants said he was transferred to a Boise hospital but they did not have a record of which one. They had no condition report of the man at the time he left the Gooding hospital.

Sheriff's officers said the accident occurred about 3:30 p.m. At about the same time wind whipped the roof from a shed at the Leo Hobbey farm, also in the Bliss area. Mrs. Vern Schroeder, Bliss, said several hundred dollars damage also resulted on the farm and her husband operate when wind caught several sections of mobile irrigation pipe and damaged it.

High winds were reported of generally in area from Bliss and Glens Ferry to Boise, Nampa and Caldwell. Some electrical problems resulted in the vicinity of Gowan Field, Boise and some outages were reported by Idaho Power Co. in the general storm area. Most were due to broken tree limbs.

Officers in Boise, said another man was injured as a result of the storm. Wilber H. Eldred, Mountain Home Airforce Base, was blinded by wind and crashed his motorcycle into a slow moving vehicle near Gowan Field. He suffered facial cuts and a possible broken arm.

Jerome slates zoning hearing

JEROME — A public hearing will be at 7 p.m. Monday night on proposed zoning for mobile homes within the city of Jerome.

The hearing will be in the council room of the city hall and is expected to lift a moratorium put on the placement of trailer houses outside of mobile home parks within the city.

The Jerome City Zoning Commission has made recommendations to the City Council concerning a proposed amendment to the city's zoning ordinances and regulations for mobile homes.

City building inspector and fire chief Lynn Bingham said at the meeting a complete breakdown of the zoning districts will be explained and pointed out on a map.

The main points in the proposal which will be presented at the Monday night meeting are:

— The establishment of an additional residential district so that the city shall then be zoned as residential district 1; residential district 1-A; residential district 2; business district and industrial district.

The ordinance would remain the same as in the non-allowance of trailer homes of any kind in residential district 1.

— The proposal will provide for the placement of trailers upon residential lots within district One-A that are double wide mobile homes with a minimum of 1,000 square feet in area measured by outside measurements, skirted with non-flammable materials, with tongue removed and set on concrete blocks with a proper foundation.

— The allowance for residential lots within residential district 2 permits mobile homes of any size, skirted with non-flammable material.

The public will have the opportunity to voice their opinions and proposals on the mobile home zoning at the Monday night meeting.

Drawing set

KETCHUM — The summer Blaine County blood drawing will be conducted from 2 to 6 p.m. Monday at the Our Lady of the Snows Catholic Church here.

Quota for the drawing is 100 pints. Sun Valley and Elkhorn have agreed to sponsor the event and are urging their nearly 600 employees to give blood.

Employees who participate may attend a barbecue party at Trail Creek beginning Thursday at 6 p.m.

Donor Cards and Company identification will be required for admission. Several Sun Valley Co. Inc., vice presidents have agreed to help load and unload the Red Cross mobile blood unit as well as staff the unit during the drawing.

Chairman for the drawing is Bessie Dentley.

Water users eye impact bill

BURLEY — The Idaho Water Users Association decided Friday to draft a bill requiring economic impact studies for agencies setting up environmental rules and regulations.

Jack Barnett, executive director of the association, told the board of directors that although the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) continue putting out regulations and requiring permits that affect water users, he has been unable to get a satisfactory answer concerning conditions and funding of the requirements.

The bill, when drafted by the legislative committee, will require economic studies of the cost of implementing the regulations, the effect it may have on those who have to comply and the overall economic analysis for the state.

It will require re-evaluation of any law that proves to have presented in correct economic evaluations for any business. Any business that finds costs are higher than anticipated will not have to comply until the re-evaluation is completed.

The board also adopted a statement to be sent to the federal legislature asking for inclusion of a guarantee of the rights of water users on the upper Hell's Canyon Basin the event the lower Hell's Canyon is designated a national recreation area. John Kosholt, Twin Falls attorney and associate representative to the National Water Resources Board, said he "was sure it will happen."

Including a section in the bill requiring protection of upstream users by forbidding limits or restrictions, including flow requirements of the upper basin, the board "would at least have something to discuss" if restrictions did occur, he said.

Keith Higgins, Boise, director of the Idaho Department of Water Administration, was authorized to ask the legislative reorganization committee next week to combine several water agencies together under one department.

The legislative committee is developing a state reorganization plan to combine state agencies into 20 entities as determined in a state-wide vote last fall.

Higgins will ask that the Idaho Water Users, the Department of Water Administration, the water resources board and the water quality agency of DECS be combined in one agency.

The Idaho Water Users will support the Boise River study by the Army Corps of Engineers, although they seemed to imply in earlier statements that irrigators are polluting the river, Barnett said.

Committee meetings were held in the morning at the Ponderosa Inn.

Commodities dinner slated

RUPERT — A "commodities dinner" will be held in Rupert Monday by members of the Committee to Fight Hunger in an effort to discredit the food commodities program.

The committee, composed of a group of Mini-Cassia welfare recipients and interested citizens, has organized a campaign to discourage the Minidoka County commissioners from switching to the commodities program as Cassia County recently did. Minidoka County currently operates under the food stamp program.

The meal, "a typical one as enjoyed" by an Idaho welfare family, will be prepared by committee members of commodity foods "or a reasonable facsimile thereof."

According to the committee, "surplus foods do not provide for more than a few meals each month. When commodities run out a few days after being issued, the typical family on welfare will now have about 20 cents per person to spend on a meal."

County commissioners from both Cassia and Minidoka counties along with local legislators, welfare agents, church representatives and the press have been invited to the meal scheduled for 6 p.m. Monday in Neptuné Park in Rupert.

Burley fells dog discrimination, includes cats

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Another stronghold of discrimination is about to fall here soon. And it has nothing to do with race, creed or color... or people for that matter.

The Burley City Council, after two more readings of the ordinance, will require cats as well as dogs to have licenses and will prohibit them from running loose in the city.

The change came about two weeks ago when the council was considering a motion to raise the fees of license and impoundment for dogs. Several council members complained that the cat problem was at least as widespread as the dog problem.

"Cats, they said, cause just as much destruction by rummaging through garbage cans and killing birds and small animals as dogs do. And cats, they said, "can be as dangerous as dogs" when they scratch or bite citizens.

Although few cities have cat ordinances, perhaps because of the difficulty of enforcement, the council felt it was time that enforcement of a cat ordinance was attempted.

The ordinance provides a $10 licensing fee for cats and dogs of both sexes, valid for the life of the pet. The fee was previously $3 for male dogs and $5 for female dogs.

City attorney William Parsons protested the sex discrimination in the original ordinance at the meeting. The reason for the discrepancy, the council decided, was because the females perpetuated the dog population.

After due consideration, the council decided the distinction was unfair and raised the price of licenses to $10 to either sex. The cost of impoundment was raised from $3 to $10 because, according to Mayor Garb Robertson, "the impounding fees are not even paying to feed the dogs."

According to the new ordinance, the fee for a second impoundment will include an additional $10, bringing the total to $20. Charges for room and board for the animal will be added to the bill.

If the animal, dog or cat, weighs less than 10 pounds, its room and board cost will be $2 per day, if from 10 to 25 pounds it will cost $3 per day, and over 25 pounds it will cost $5 per day.

The ordinance says, "It shall be unlawful for the owner of any dog or cat to knowingly or unknowingly allow such dog or cat to be at large within the City of Burley at any time."

The animal control supervisor will be in charge of the pickup and impoundment of the animals.

Anyone violating the ordinance "shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punishable by a fine of not more than $500 and confinement in the city jail for not more than 30 days or by both."

If approved on the third reading, the ordinance will go into effect Aug. 1, this year.

High priced

SYDNEY (UPI) — A merino ram from Trangle in the midwestern plains of New South Wales was sold for $37,100 at the Sydney ram sales Thursday.

It was the third highest price in the world for a ram of any breed.

The record high price is $39,000 paid for a ram in Adelaide, Australia, in September of 1970.

Rising prices endanger horses

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Horses may become a rarity unless laws are enacted to prohibit their sale for human consumption, says Velma "Wild Horse Annie" Johnston.

Mrs. Johnston, a leader in the fight for legislation protecting wild horses and burros on the open range, said Thursday "killer buyers" are operating in this country to supply Canadian plants which process and ship horsemeat to Europe, where some consider it a delicacy.

"Now that horse meat plants are opening in the United States, each with the capacity to process 100 or more animals per day to satisfy the American appetite for red meat, there is every reason to believe that unless strict regulations are enacted to prohibit it, horses will become a rarity," she said.

She said the price of horse meat on the hoof once brought 5 to 12 cents a pound, but now brings at least 22 cents. She said this causes "killer buyers" at auctions to outbid persons who would buy animals for riding pleasure.

"Only those horse lovers in high income brackets will be able to afford to buy their mounts," she said. "And as for the wild horses, one can only shudder in apprehension. In jeopardy from violators of federal laws when their worth was measured in terms of pet food consumption, they are in double jeopardy now that they are a potential human gourmet delight."

Legislation has been introduced in both the House and Senate to ban the sale of horse meat for human consumption.

Twenty new oil and gas fields have been discovered in Alabama in the past 15 years.

Bean trades halt

NEW YORK — Trading in soybeans and soybean meal plus All trading in the old-crop deliveries — July, August and September, 1973 — will be restricted in liquidating existing contracts.

The move, believed by many in the trade to be unprecedented — with relative peace in the world and a price freeze in the United States, was asked by the Commodity Exchange Authority, the regulatory arm of the Department of Agriculture, in a telegram to the huge Chicago exchange before the opening Thursday.

The government's request cited a critical shortage of protein supplies in the nation and fears of further price rises in those commodities.

When trading resumed Friday morning, a director of the nation's largest commodities exchange said, "only the new-crop futures, those due from November onward, were traded in the

TWIN FALLS — Directors of the Twin Falls County Farm Bureau will meet Monday. President Gene Walker said the board will meet at 8:30 p.m. at the county office here.

Symms protests freeze effect

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho's junior representative in Congress Thursday wired the White House to protest the treatment of feed-grain processors under the new economic freeze.

"Nobody can win a round under this economic game plan," Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, wrote President Nixon.

"Many stockyards already operate their own feed grain processing plants and can obtain feed through a simple transfer of inventory on their corporate books. This allows the stockman to pay a higher price for grain supplies than the independent processor can afford."

He said the independent processors are facing immediate bankruptcy because the freeze has effectively barred their entry into the market place on a competitive basis.

He predicted that bankruptcy of the stockmen would "take a little longer and be all the more agonizing."

He said the stockman is locked in by freezes on the counter price of beef and processed meat products.

"It just doesn't mean a darn thing that the President exempted raw agricultural prices from the freeze. The hard fact is, the processor can't afford to pay more than 47 cents per pound on the hoof and expect to make any profit."

Futures trading OK asked

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — Pacific Commodities Exchange, Inc. has applied to the Commodity Exchange Authority for designation as a contract market for regulated trading in western live cattle futures, John F. Gallwas, PCE president and chairman of the board, announced Wednesday.

If approved by the CEA, an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, western live cattle will be the third commodity to be selected for futures trading on the exchange. On Oct. 31, 1972, PCE began the nation's first trading in coconut oil futures, and in February of this year, opened trading in western shell egg futures.

According to Gallwas, the proposed western live cattle contract is specifically designed to serve the beef industry in the western states, and follows PCE's policy of selecting commodities which are produced in the western U.S. and Pacific Basin countries.

Magic level easing down

SHOSHONE Magic River. A notation on the Snake Reservoir contains 161,000 acre feet of water, compared to full capacity a year ago at this time.

The reservoir holds 191,500 acre feet of water when full.

Leon Grieve, manager of the Big Wood Canal Co., said a type of moss, a result of winter water, has been giving trouble in the Dietrich canal.

It was necessary to start churning operations there to keep water from overflowing the banks. Big Wood River increased in flow at Hailey during the warm weather in the first week of June. It held Magic from going down so rapidly but there is a slow, steady drop now, Grieve said.

American Falls Reservoir contains 964,800-acre feet of water compared to 1.70 million when full, as it was last year at this time. Evidently, the Milner Gooding project has been getting some benefit from an increased flow on Snake River. A notation on the Snake River water report says that on March 30, 1971, water rights were being filled. This means that not all of the water for the Milner Gooding Canal is charged to storage.

From records so far, there is no reason to need all the Snake River water that was ordered, Grieve said.

The Big Wood and American Falls boards at a joint meeting agreed that 100 per cent delivery should be run for June and probably July. This could be altered should conditions warrant such a change. The boards ask that anyone who could voluntarily cut down usage in order to save as much water as possible.

Wepner becomes first of new U.S. champions

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI) — Chuck Wepner, an oft-maligned veteran who has kicked and been kicked around the boxing circuit for the past nine years, scored the most dramatic victory of his career Saturday night when he scored a controversial 12-round decision over former WBA champion Ernie Terrell to win the first U.S. heavyweight championship.

referee Harold Valan, who acted as the only official for the bout. The decision was not popular with most of the sports writers in attendance and nearly touched off a free-for-all between Terrell's manager and advisor, Sam Solomon, and Valan. Solomon rushed the ring in a fit of anger after the decision was announced and had to be restrained from taking a punch at Valan. Terrell, the No. 5 ranked heavyweight, drew blood on Wepner very early in the bout with a couple of vicious left hooks to the face, but Wepner took all Terrell had to give and counter-punched effectively enough, according to Valan's judgement, to be awarded the decision.

Olivares becomes contender

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Former world bantam weight champion Ruben Olivares of Mexico established himself as a top featherweight contender Saturday night by stopping previously undefeated Bobby Chacon in the ninth round of a scheduled 12 round elimination bout at the Forum.

The victory boosted Wepner's career record to 29-9-3 while Terrell, who had won seven straight since his comeback started two years ago, lost his eighth career fight against 45 victories. Wepner weighed 219 for the bout while Terrell, one of the nation's tallest heavyweights at 6-foot-6, scaled 223. Oscar Bonavena, Argentina's most popular heavyweight, attended the bout at Convention Hall and said he wanted to meet the winner for the U.S. championship.

The victory probably earned the 26-year-old Olivares a title fight with the World Boxing Association's 126-pound king, Ernesto Marcel of Panama. Olivares, who scaled 125 1/2, dropped the 21-year-old Chacon, 126, San Fernando, Calif., with a thunderous right to the head in the opening seconds of the ninth round, and then battered him with looping punches to the head and body for the remainder of the round. When Chacon moved shakily to his corner after the bell, manager Victor Ponce asked referee Dick Young to halt the uneven contest.

Kirby, Padres blank Braves

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Clay Kirby struck out 13 and allowed three hits to pace the San Diego Padres to a 2-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves in the first game of a Saturday-night doubleheader. Kirby pitched a complete game, striking out 13 batters and allowing three hits and two runs. Kirby's record improved to 1-0. The Padres' record is 1-1.

City slowpitch tournament concludes today

Depot-Grill-Turf Club and Paris-Culligan remained the only undefeated teams in the city slowpitch softball tournament after 10 hours of action Saturday. Meanwhile, Pepsi Cola and First Federal-Shuffle Inn kept their hopes alive in the losers bracket as the week-long meet heads into its final day. It will start at 3 p.m. Sunday at Harmon Park with the undefeated teams meeting. The two loser-bracket clubs collide at 4:30 p.m. with the first-game loser and the second-game winner playing the third game at 6 p.m. The survivor of that one will meet the undefeated team and would have to have two victories to pull out the crown. Paris-Culligan continued its week-long hitting streak and had its usual strong defensive game going in defeating Royal Lounge in the quarter final highlight of the day. Royal had all kinds of trouble afield and gave Paris-Culligan almost as many runs as the winners earned.

Meyer unloaded a three-run triple and Rusty Eller followed with an inside the park homer to send First Federal-Shuffle into an immediate 6-0 lead. But Royal, with homerun bats booming, came back with four in the bottom of the first to keep things tight. First Federal-Shuffle scored in every inning while a "stepping out of the batter's box" call killed a budding Royal rally in the fifth inning. Bill Ingram hit two homers and Hadley and Doug Pember one each in the losing cause. In Saturday's daylight action, Depot Grill-Turf Club defeated Cain's to move into the finals and Paris-Culligan trapped Olympia Beer. Royal came up with three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning, two on a key double by Rich Toney, to nip the Alley 8-7. In loser bracket play, Maxie's Pizza ousted Haney Seed and Cain's; Pepsi-Cola eliminated Culligan-Shuffle Inn and Olympia Beer and First Federal-Shuffle Inn dropped Heads and Threads and the Alley.

Money in the bank

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI) — Texas star Ben Crenshaw, despite shooting a six-over-par 76 in a stiff breeze Saturday, won an unprecedented third straight NCAA individual golf championship.

Crenshaw cops third NCAA title

Crenshaw finished the 72-hole tournament with a two-over-par total of 282, three strokes ahead of Florida's Gary Koch. Crenshaw started erratically, going six over par on only the first four holes. But he settled down, gained a stroke, lost it and finished with the 76. Koch, who was a co-leader at three-under-par 67 after the first round, fired a 77 Saturday for a 285 total. "I didn't want to let that third one (championship) slip away," Crenshaw said. "That was running through my mind more than anything all day." Florida won the team title with a four-round total of 29-over-par 1,149, followed by Oklahoma State 10 shots back at 1,159. Texas, winner the last two years, was third at 1,166 and Houston finished fourth at 1,172 followed by Southern California 1,175, Georgia 1,177, Brigham Young 1,180 and Southern Methodist 1,188.

How to catch a Boing-Boing.

After Police Chief Tom Gray of Cotati, California bought an RX-2 Mazda for a police car, the whole town went "hmmmmmmmmmm." Chief Gray likes it. He bought it because he was dissatisfied with maintenance expenses of his previous cars. He wanted the most durable and reliable car he could find. He studied them all and concluded Mazda was just what's needed for police work. He's putting over 5,000 miles a month on the car. He was complimented by the citizens. Cotati is an ecology-minded town, and Mazda is the only car studied that is committed to meeting the original '75 clean air standards. Cerena Burns, a Petaluma, Ca. citizen, wrote that it looks cute and friendly instead of like the big monster image police cars usually present.

Chief Gray thought he might get some kidding from surrounding community police departments — but, he said it hasn't happened because the Mazda can really go. Even if you aren't a police chief, you should test-drive a Mazda. The idea is catching.

The Mazda goes HMMMMM.

Mrs. Undhjem claims 10th Magic Valley golf crown

Virginia Undhjem, posting a second straight 77, walked off with the Times-News Magic Valley women's golf championship for the 10th time Friday afternoon. The 1974 event will be played at Jackpot.

Mrs. Undhjem, who has been out of the winner's circle for a while, took the title with a 12-stroke advantage over runner-up Shirlee Straughn, Twin Falls, who posted identical 83s in the two-day tournament played over the Twin Falls municipal golf course.

"I was pleased with my short game throughout the tournament," Mrs. Undhjem said. "If I can keep it together and get a little sharper, I might be able to win some more," the former state amateur champion said.

"Friday my chipping game was very good. They (the chip shots) were running up close to the pin for easy putts. Friday I wasn't chipping as well but I sank four or five good putts which helped keep my score down."

Mrs. Undhjem's 154 total, which was 10 over par for the two-day event, gave her the title and gross honors in the championship flight. Betty Davis, Twin Falls, who played out of Blue-Lakes Country Club, took the second gross prize as Mrs. Straughn, although holding the second best overall score, won the net division. Jackie Gasser, Twin Falls, was net runner-up.

In the first flight, Ann Vocer and Betty Grant, both Twin Falls, went one-two in gross while Mardean Gottlandin, Rupert, took net honors with Vera Amende, Twin Falls, defeating Vinnie Standley, Twin Falls, in a playoff for second.

Oleta Roberts, Buhl, won the second flight gross with Tracy Haskins, Twin Falls, second and the one-two net winners were Lois Hansen and Dot McLinn, both Twin Falls.

Carol Pestotnik, Twin Falls, nipped Wilma Driscoll, Blue Lakes, for third flight gross with Sandy Thomsen, Twin Falls, and Barbara Anderson, Gooding, taking the net awards. In the fourth flight, Lily Kuhn, Jerome, had the low gross score while Judy Mack, Twin Falls, defeated Dora Maier, Rupert, for first net. Mrs. Maier placed second in gross. Carol Coonts, Twin Falls, was second in net.

Feuding ring factions agree to sanction common champions

SEATTLE (UPI) — Leaders of the feuding World Boxing Association and World Boxing Council came to a surprise agreement Saturday by deciding to eliminate dual champions and issue common ranks.

Members of the executive committees of the two organizations were brought together at the annual convention of the North American Boxing Federation by new NABF president Jimmy Rondaue.

Bob Voight, Los Angeles, a member of the NABF public relations committee, said the WBA and WBC officials would have to take the agreement to their respective conventions later this year, but acceptance was considered routine.

Officials of the two organizations set up the framework for eliminating the dual champions in the flyweight and bantamweight divisions and agreed to issue monthly rating lists with the same order in the first five positions in each weight division.

They also agreed to pressure the current junior middleweight champion for both groups to meet the top challenger. Agreements to eliminate dual champions in other divisions will be worked out later.

Meeting with Rondaue Saturday morning to reach the unexpected agreement were Bob Turley, Los Angeles, WBC vice president; Jose S Sulaiman, Mexico City, WBC executive secretary; Bobby Lee, Honolulu, WBA president, and Bill Miller, Honolulu, chairman of the WBA ratings committee.

In the flyweight division, the agreement calls for a bout between the WBA champion, Charai Chinoi, of Thailand, and the winner of the August fight between the current WBC champion, Venice Borkorsor of Thailand and challenger Betulio Gonzalez of Venezuela. The fight between the two champions must take place within 90 days after the Borkorsor Gonzalez bout.

In the bantamweight division, both WBA champ Romero Anya of Mexico and WBC king Rafael Herrera of Mexico have signed for title bouts in the near future. But the agreement calls for the winners of those fights to meet within 90 days.

NFL players offer list of complaints

CHICAGO (UPI) — National Football League Commissioner Peter Rozelle met with player representatives four hours Saturday and heard a full list of complaints from them.

"We discussed many things," said John Mackey of the San Diego Chargers, president of the NFL Players Association. "This is the first time Rozelle ever sat down with us and answered questions and some of them were tough, and heard our problems."

Mackey said the players told Rozelle they were "100 per cent against the urine test," which has been discussed as a possible check to insure that none of the players were using drugs. Mackey said Rozelle told them there had been no decision on such a program or a drug program and he would "let us know before anything was announced."

The players asked Rozelle, Mackey said, to form a joint committee of owners and players to study the situation, and try to find a solution.

"We're not happy to receive his decisions and not have a part in making them," Mackey said. He cited a ruling that a player who jumped to Canada could not return to the league for at least one year, changes in the constitution and by-laws affecting players "which we never had an opportunity to discuss," and playing rules changes, which "they've never taken the time to discuss with us."

"We think there should be better communication between the players and owners," Mackey said.

He said that the players expressed to Rozelle they were "100 per cent behind our executive director (Ed Garvey) and we are tired of them taking pot shots at him. They should see that we are firm in our convictions."

"We relayed a lot of feelings to him," Mackey said. "And the fact that he tried to answer our questions is a start to better communications. He told us he can't tell us what the owners will do but that he did have some influence on them," Mackey said.

Mackey said there was no indication when negotiations for a new player contract might begin with the owners. He pointed out that once training camps open in July it would be impossible for the players — to — negotiate themselves.

But he said, "Our staff is competent and could begin talks with the owners anytime. A lot can happen in six months and if we can agree on what the issues are, we should be able to negotiate without pressure when the season is over."

Paine leads west to all-star win

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Ty Paine, Washington State quarterback, headed for the New York Giants directed the West to two touchdowns on the ground and a third by air Saturday night to give the West a 20-0 victory in the 13th annual Coaches All-America football game.

Cards tip Cubs to reach .500 mark

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Pinch-hitter Luis Melendez singled home the winning run in the bottom of the 11th Saturday night to give St. Louis a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs, raising the Cardinals' record to the .500 mark for the first time this season.

With two out in the 11th, the Cards got two consecutive singles off Chicago reliever and loser Jack Aker. Bernie Carbo bent out a grounder to deep short and centerfielder Jim Dwyer singled to right. Melendez, pinch-hitting for winning pitcher Diego Segui, then drilled a single to left, and Carbo beat the throw home with the winning run.

Brewers batter Indians 12-3

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Bob Coluccio drove in four runs with a triple and two singles and the Milwaukee Brewers scored eight runs in the first inning, five before a batter was retired, to trounce the Cleveland Indians 12-3 Saturday night.

Brett sets new homerun record

MONTREAL (UPI) — Mike Schmidt and Willie Montanez hit three-run homers and pitcher Ken Brett established a major league record with his fourth homer in four successive games Saturday night to power the Philadelphia Phillies to a 7-2 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Berra thud by loop president

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — New York Mets Manager Yogi Berra received a telegram from the National League Saturday informing him that he has been fined $200 for kicking dirt on umpire Tom Gorman during a home plate argument Thursday night.

miles per gallon coast-to-coast

We say our new Datsun 1200 delivers around 30 miles per gallon. But recently we drove a new Datsun 1200 from L.A. to New York, and without special equipment or special tuning, we averaged an incredible 37.9 miles per gallon. (Just $29.85 for gas, coast-to-coast.) The average car in America gets around 13 1/2 miles per gallon... it would cost nearly three times as much for the same trip! We think buying gasoline is one of the dumbest things you can do with your money. Save real countable dollars with a new Datsun 1200!

Drive a Datsun... then decide.

Midshipman sues academy

(c) New York Times
 NEW YORK — A New Jersey man who was asked to resign from the United States Naval Academy a week before graduation when he applied to be a conscientious objector may be unable to accept a fellowship at New York University Law School because the Navy has refused for two years to grant him his undergraduate degree.

William J. Farley Jr., whose grades put him on the dean's list his senior year at the Naval Academy and who completed all the academic requirements for graduation, has brought a lawsuit in federal court to force Annapolis to award him his bachelor of science degree.

The navy contends that 23-year-old Farley was not entitled to graduate because he received a failing grade in aptitude, defined in part as "a positive state of mind toward the naval service manifested by interest, motivation and cooperation."

A cadet or midshipman entering any of the nation's service academies signs an oath agreeing to serve on active duty for five years after graduation. In return, he receives a four-year, government-paid education with an estimated value of $53,000.

Farley signed such an agreement, but the court terminated it in granting him a conscientious objector discharge, and the navy made no attempt to collect the $53,000. In other recent cases, the military has tried and failed to recover money spent in training officers who leave the service.

Farley, a member of the honor committee and treasurer of his class for four years, had always received passing grades in aptitude until he announced a week before graduation in June, 1971, that he could not accept his commission in the navy and intended to file for discharge as a conscientious objector.

Within 24 hours after he announced his intention, Farley appeared before three officer boards, the battalion aptitude board, the brigade aptitude board and the academy board which found him unsatisfactory in aptitude. He was not allowed to consult a lawyer and eventually, under what he charges in his legal papers as "circumstances of coercion and duress," signed a voluntary resignation from the academy.

Farley and his lawyers maintain that he is being denied his degree as a penalty for having asked to be recognized as a conscientious objector and having refused his commission.

Nuclear power contract signed by US, Soviets

(c) 1973, Chicago Daily News
 WASHINGTON — President Nixon and Leonid I. Brezhnev have agreed to join forces in a crash program to produce unlimited amounts of electric power by taming the H-bomb. This is the most important part of the agreement on peaceful uses of atomic energy which the two leaders signed in a White House ceremony Thursday.

The implications were spelled out in a news conference by Dr. Dixie Lee Ray, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Controlled thermonuclear fusion, the scientific term for harnessing the awesome power of the hydrogen bomb, is "probably the greatest hope society has over the long term for development of an energy source that is non-polluted," said Dr. Ray.

In addition to being non-polluted, it would provide an "unlimited" amount of energy, she said.

No one expects fusion power to produce electricity before the year 2,000, but the new agreement with the Russians is expected to speed up progress on the project because it will provide for a pooling of effort, according to Dr. Ray.

She pointed out that previous agreements with the Russians were limited to two years at a time and consisted mainly of an exchange of information. This agreement, on the other hand, "permits collaboration and combining of resources in a single experiment," she said, and runs for 10 years.

The aim of the agreement is to bring about the eventual development of prototype and demonstration-scale thermonuclear reactors. This co-operation may include theoretical, calculational, experimental and design-construction studies at all stages up to industrial-scale operations, it was stated.

Dr. Ray said some scientists believe the "break-even point" in developing thermonuclear power will be demonstrated this year, perhaps in a few months. Others put this date some two to five years away.

This is the point where the energy you get out of the project equals the energy you put into it. This is the first preliminary step and once it is achieved, the scientists have proven that it is technically feasible to produce power in this manner.

However, beyond this lie more years of work while the engineers work out the problem of proving that it can be done on an industrial scale, economically and on a continuing basis.

One of the principal problems is controlling the tremendous heat generated by the fusion process. Dr. Ray said that plasma in a nuclear reactor would be heated up to 100 million degrees.

In the preamble to the US-USSR agreement, it was stated that both countries attach great importance to the problem of satisfying their own rapidly growing energy demands as well as that of other countries.

In addition to co-operation on development of thermonuclear fusion, the agreement provides for co-operation on fast breeder reactors and research of fundamental properties of matter.

A U. S. - USSR joint committee on co-operation on the peaceful uses of atomic energy will be established. It will meet once a year to approve specific projects of co-operation, designate organizations to carry them out, and make recommendations to the two governments.

The exchange of talent involved in the agreement could mean that up to 50 American scientists could be working in the Soviet Union in a few years and up to 50 Soviet scientists in the United States instead of only about 10 in each country which is the present situation.

MV bicycle scene gets bigger every day

By BONNIE JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The bicycle boom is on. In Twin Falls persons of all ages are going back to the bicycle for recreation, physical fitness, economy and even to beat the gasoline shortage, and a bicycle is not a noise polluter like it's big brother, the trail machine.

For a number of Twin Falls business firms, bicycle popularity also means big business. As the bicycle scene changes from one of toys and transportation for children to a family and adult activity many firms are adding bicycle inventories.

Bill Haffner, who has been selling bicycles for 25 years, said there has been a complete change in the business in the past four years with demands for bicycles for adults and families increasing each year.

Major manufacturers are unable to keep up with orders and are rationing the numbers of bicycles to dealers on a basis of past year sales. Jim Olson, a newcomer to the business, opened the other bike shop this spring and says he has been unable to keep up with the demand in some types and price ranges. There are three bicycle shops in Twin Falls. Haffner and his family operate two and Olson the third.

In addition, nearly every sporting goods store, department store, some hardware stores and even a few drug stores are getting in on the bicycle boom by offering them for sale.

A cyclist can pay from around $50 up to $1,000, the price tag on the top Condor bike, but dealers in Twin Falls say the average buyer pays about $150 or below. Bicycles also come in various frame sizes, for the varied frames of the riders.

Most adults use their bicycles for recreation or exercise or both. Some of the more dedicated, however, use them for transportation whenever possible.

David Nelson, a Twin Falls pharmacist, is one of several businessmen who use a bicycle to travel from home to work daily.

Nelson purchased a bicycle a year ago in March and except for a few days when roads were extremely icy this winter, he has never used his car for work.

"If you are going to ride a bicycle you have to stick with it," Nelson says.

He "sticks with it" by traveling the one and three-quarter miles from his home to his place of business four times a day, including going home for lunch.

"I'm all for bicycles," he says. "For one thing there is no downtown parking problem, there's no gasoline and oil to buy, and I can get home faster on a bicycle during peak traffic periods than I can in a car. The physical fitness aspect is an added benefit."

Exercise time

THREE-WHEELER makes bicycling easy for the less athletic type. Hara Nellie Nelson, who says she rides for exercise, climbs aboard her "tricycle" type vehicle.

MV bike scene grows

Nelson, also a skier, said bicycling every day put him in top physical condition for the start of last year's ski season — an unusual situation for a downtown businessman.

Bob and Carole Sherman, new arrivals in Twin Falls, are also dedicated cyclists. They use their bicycles for nearly all transportation they need in and around Twin Falls and also for recreation.

Carole can be seen on the mall with a trailer-type carrier hitched behind her bike. In it ride the couple's two small children, Tonia, 4, and Mischa, 2, along with some shopping items.

In evenings and on weekends, Bob and Carole take picnics and even go camping as far as the South Hills. For this they use small seats behind them on each bicycle to carry Tonia and Mischa.

"We probably don't use a full tank of gasoline in a month in our car," Bob says.

Long distance rider, Martin Florence, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Florence, says his longest bicycle ride was 550 miles. He frequently goes with other friends into the Sawtooths and to Salmon for fishing and camping.

It takes about five hours to reach Timmerman Hill on his $275 bike, and the first day's trip usually ends at Galena Store. He carries saddle bags for bedding and supplies plus a spare tire of the type that folds up and fits behind the seat.

Many retired persons also enjoy bicycling. Nellie Nelson, wife of Walter Nelson, finds a three-wheeler more to her liking. It is easier and safer, she says and since she rides for exercise it works out just right. She and her husband winter in Arizona where they participate in Bike Club activities.

A meeting will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at Olson's Bike Shop on Blue Lakes Boulevard North to organize a bike club in Twin Falls. All interested persons are invited, regardless of the extent of their bicycle interests. Backpackers are also invited.

National bicycle sales figures show about 8.5 million units sold in 1971, which is at least a 10 per cent increase over the previous year.

In the 1930s only 250,000 bicycles were manufactured in the nation. One major producer said his total sales for 1971 reached $40 million, a $5 million increase over 1970 and about the same trend is continuing.

In 1950, 85 per cent of the bicycles sold went to children. By 1970 this had dropped to 70 per cent and the number of adults bicycling is increasing faster proportional to than the number of children.

The city of Twin Falls has recognized the new popularity of bikes and "hitching posts" have returned to the scene. In the new mall, concrete-block-like objects can be found with a slot for the front wheel of the bike and a metal ring for the lock chain.

CSI schedules art workshop

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho art department is offering a two week workshop in oil painting, drawing or photography.

The class will meet Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. beginning July 9 at the CSI Art Cottage, corner of Falls Avenue and North Washington.

The college will furnish transportation to the day's site. Each student must furnish his own equipment and lunch for each day. Up to three college credits may be earned or the class may be audited.

Those taking photography will spend one day in the field and the next in the lab for the duration of the course.

Instructors are LaVar Steel, oil painting; Michael Green, drawing; and M. Kent Jeppesen, photography.

The itinerary for the course includes July 9, Shoshone Falls; July 10, Fairfield; July 11, Silent City of the Rocks; July 12, Porcupine Springs (South Hills); July 16, Wood River; July 17, Jarbridge, Nev. (old mining town); July 18, Lake Cleveland; July 19, critique and exhibit.

For more information, call or write LaVar Steel, Art Department, CSI, P. O. Box 1230, Twin Falls; office 733-9551, ext. 260; home 733-8813.

Prime Minister William Gladstone abolished Britain's tax on soap in 1853 but, objecting to public pressure, called soap "most injurious both to comfort and health of the people."

Fairfield students get awards

FAIRFIELD — The Carnas County Wheatgrower's Association has announced that Janet Cluer and Lynden Osborne have received $50 scholarships.

The scholarships were awarded for achievements in high school and their entrance into fields of agriculture and home economics.

Janet Cluer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doran Cluer, Fairfield, also received a 4-H Union Pacific scholarship. She has been active in 4-H and community affairs. She plans to attend Boise State College and major in home economics.

Lynden Osborne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Osborne, Fairfield, won a Union Pacific scholarship in FEPA as well as the University of Idaho County Honor Award. He plans to attend the University of Idaho this fall.

Mini Reviews

TWIN FALLS — Mini reviews for some of the new books recently received at the Twin Falls Public Library have been released by library officials.

"The Mountain States of America" by Eric Gordon. The eight mountain states remain the interior frontier with their ultimate destiny yet unknown.

"I Gathered the Bright Days" by Ronald A. Bull. The true story of Lee Lane's 27-year marriage to one of the most brilliant surgeons in the country.

"Cecily" by Isabelle Holland. Cecily is an awkward misfit in an English boarding school — one of those exasperating girls whose ineptitude puts off the very people who want most to help her.

"The Feast of Saint Barnabas" by Jesse Hill Ford. In that Sunday morning as Father Ned, the Negro pastor, was about to preach his sermon, his little town was on the brink of a race riot.

"Greygallows" by Barbara Michaels. An old school friend tried to tell Lucy about the curse of the Clare's.

"The Gasp" by Romain Gary. An exciting novel and a morality tale; a true novel of today. A brilliant creator, develops a method to capture and harness the life force as it escapes from a man's body at the time of death.

"Making the Best of It" by Newton Frohlich. In this cool book on a hot subject, an experienced lawyer advises men and women contemplating divorce how to negotiate rather than litigate their divorces.

"Cool It or Lose It" by Dale Evans Rogers. With great perception and frankness, leavened by a warm sense of humor, Dale addresses herself to problems of the new generation.

THE BON MARCHE

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am jealous of my husband's secretary. It's not her fault, and it's so ironic because I was once in the same situation she's in. I'll explain.

Before I married, a church youth director started enjoying my company. He was trying to help me with some of my problems. Before I knew it, he was getting serious. He was married and had children. I don't think I consciously led him on, but I must have contributed to it or he never would have gotten serious.

I thought things were getting out of hand, so I told him I couldn't see him any more. His wife was extremely jealous, and although words were never exchanged between us, I felt so guilty. I left the church. He kept calling me, but I never saw him again.

Husband's counseling

Now, four years later, my husband's secretary has problems, and he says he is trying to help her solve them in a Christian way. However, he's not very convincing to me, and now I'm the jealous wife. He pulled strings to get her promoted with him. He even explains HER needs to me, without realizing that I have needs, too. I need to feel that he is all mine.

How can I get over this intense jealousy so I can feel like a wife again? JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: You never get over your intense jealousy until you are convinced you have nothing about which to be jealous. That kind of reassurance can be only from your husband. How do you figure it's not his secretary's fault that you are jealous of her? She has no business crying on your husband's shoulder. And he has no business letting her. Furthermore, why is he telling you about her "needs"?

You were wise to have told the church youth director to get lost before things got out of hand. And it took character to keep him at arm's length. His wife sensed something was wrong—just as you do. Tell your husband to knock off the counseling bit. And tell him why.

DEAR ABBY: Without commenting on the legal, moral, or social aspect of the situation, here are the facts:

My son and his girl friend, who are living together, have announced that they are going to have a baby. They are very happy about it. The girl's friends have "showered" her with gifts. As far as I know, the prospective parents have no plans to marry in the immediate future.

My question: How may I announce the birth of my first grandchild—an event I am looking forward to with great anticipation? Is there a way I can show my love and acceptance of this child—just as I love and accept my son, without seeming too inconsiderate of others who may have a strong opposition to such a situation? NO JUDGE

DEAR NO: Don't make an official announcement. Your obvious love and acceptance of the child will speak for itself. The "others" who oppose such a situation must surely realize that you are not responsible for your son's actions.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think I am off my rocker when you read this, but I need an answer. I am a woman, over 40, self-supporting, and never married, and I live alone. I'm active in my church and have some nice friends, mostly church people. I never really wanted boy friends and am happy with my life, except for some strong moods I get into once in a while.

Sometimes I wish someone would turn me over their knee and give me a good hard spanking. I have tried spanking myself with a wooden spoon but it wasn't very effective. A leather strap would be better.

Don't get me wrong. I'm no nut. I just occasionally feel the need of a good sound spanking on my bare bottom with a leather strap, but if I were to ask someone to do this they would think I am off my rocker. Can you help me? No name, please. This is a small town. WANTS TO BE SPANKED

DEAR WANTS: I don't think you are "off your rocker," but I do think you should talk to your doctor about your need to be punished. It's not as unusual as you think, and if it's a problem to you, you can be helped by learning more about it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Couple weds in Clover rites

BUHL—Sheyla Marie Reinke, Buhl, and Ronald Bruce Johnson, Ingleswood, Calif., were united in marriage June 10 in the Clover Trinity Lutheran Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orval E. Reinke, Buhl, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Johnson, Ingleswood.

The Rev. T. D. Johnston performed the double ring ceremony before background decorations of altar vases of pink and red carnations, and candelabras decorated with pink mums and red carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor-length gown of satin organza, accented by Venice lace, and featuring long sleeves, an empire waistline and high neckline.

Her mantilla, edged by Venice lace, fell to the floor forming a chapel train. She carried a narrow crescent bouquet featuring red Carimena roses, pink carnations and stephanotis.

Lucinda Reinke, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Sue Evey, Mrs. Yvonne Reinke and Jean Thomas. Melissa Johnson, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Arlyn Meier and Rick Kruse, cousins of the bride, were taper lighters.

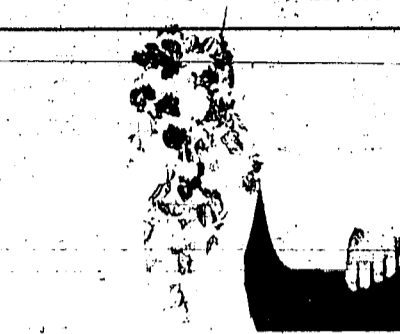

Denois Johnson, Kotzebue, Alaska, brother of the bridegroom; was best man. Groomsmen were High Johnson, Hesperia, Calif., brother of the bridegroom; Kenneth Reinke and Voyne Reinke, both brothers of the bride. Ushers were Wayne Meier, Eugene Schroeder and Eugene Schroeder, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Verrion Lassen was organist and accompanied the soloist, Bruce Latz.

A reception for 175 guests was held at the Clover School. The bride's table was covered with lace over a white satin skirt with pink drapes. It was centered with a four-tier cake with pink and red roses and pink bells and topped with a gold Christogram and a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Junia Kruse was in charge of the guest book. Gifts were displayed by Carol Meyer, LaDonna Jones and Rose Marie White. Brenda, Anita and Carla Schroeder, cousins of the bride, carried gifts.

The Clover Lutheran Woman's Missionary League, under the direction of Mrs. James Horton, assisted at the reception. Mrs. Leo Meier and Mrs. John Jagels, aunts of the bride; Mrs. Virgil Schwisow, Mrs. Stan Ayers and Mrs. Raymond Ohlenschlen presided at the bride's table.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD BRUCE JOHNSON

Following a honeymoon trip to Yellowstone and Glacier national parks, the couple will be at home in Pocatello until August and then will live in Ashton where the bridegroom will be principal of the elementary and junior high schools and the bride will be employed at Ashton Memorial Hospital.

The bride received her B. S. degree in nursing from Idaho

State University. The bridegroom has his master's degree in business education from Utah State University and attended Idaho State University this past year.

Showers honoring the bride were hosted in Pocatello by Sue Evey, Jean Thomas and Lucinda Reinke, and at the Clover School by Mrs. Leo Meier, Mrs. Rick Kruse, Mrs. Wayne Jagels and Mrs. John Latz.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Alaska, Pocatello, Hawaii, California, Boise, Malad, Nampa and Murtaugh.

Miss Brooks, Horn say vows

TUTTLE — Susan Brooks and Michael B. Horn were married in an 8 p.m. ceremony June 9 in the sanctuary of the Hagerman United Methodist Church.

Rev. Woodrow Harris performed the double ring ceremony before an altar with background arrangements of garden flowers of red peonies and bridal wreath.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Brooks, Tuttle, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Horn, Tampa, Fla.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory polyester crepe designed with an empire waistline and trimmed with ivory lace. Her fingertip veil was of ivory illusion. The dress and veil were made by the bride.

She carried a bouquet of Forever-Yours roses, baby's breath and ivy. She wore a heart shaped pendant, a gift of the bridegroom.

Marcetta Sligar, Twin Falls, niece of the bride, was maid of honor. Mrs. Arvilla Commisser, Twin Falls, grandmother of the bridegroom, made all of the floral arrangements used in the church.

Van Tornohlen, Boise, was best man. Rockey Sligar, Twin Falls, nephew of the bride, was usher.

Mrs. Warren Berry, Hagerman, served as organist.

The couple was honored at a reception following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over blue and centered with a four tiered wedding cake decorated with ice blue roses and white lacework. The cake was topped with two white doves holding a wedding ring.

The lace cloth was handmade by Mrs. Carrie Deeter, Tuttle, grandmother of the bride. Mrs. Earl Leatham, Hagerman, baked the cake.

The cake was flanked by ice blue candles with white and silver decorations in milk glass holders.

Mrs. Keith Sligar, Twin Falls, sister of the bride, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Joe Brooks, Gooding, aunt of the bride, served coffee and Mrs. Robert Diers, Arco, aunt of the bridegroom, poured punch. Mrs. Bill Jones and Mrs. Mae Haynes, Hagerman, were in charge of the reception.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Roff, Orlando, Fla., and Mrs. Arvilla Commisser,

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL B. HORN

Twin Falls, grandparents of the bridegroom, Mrs. Carrie Deeter and Mr. and Mrs. William Horn. Out of town guests attended from Arco, Pocatello, Gooding, Twin Falls, Jerome, Shoshone and Florida.

The bride is a graduate of Hagerman High School and was graduated from the College of Southern Idaho in 1972. The bridegroom is a graduate of Robinson High School, Tampa, and was graduated from CSI in 1972. They reside in Boise where both are employed.

A pre-nuptial miscellaneous shower was given for the bride at the Hagerman United Methodist Church.

Lemonade dilemma beats all

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Teen-ager Pam Syke thought it would be an easy way to earn some money for school: sell old-fashioned lemonade from the back of a truck.

Then the 16-year-old, who recently moved here from West Allis, Wis., called City Hall to ask about a permit.

A mobile catering operation, she was told, requires a $7,500 city permit.

"We don't have $7,500," Pam and two teen-aged friends who planned to join her venture said in a letter to Supervisor John I. Molinari. "All we want to do is work and $7,500 to sell lemonade seems ridiculous."

Molinari suggested an alternative—a $40 peddler's license.

But before she can get it, Pam has to pay $6 for police fingerprinting, must canvass merchants along her planned route to see if they object, have police investigate the route, and submit to a public hearing.

"I'm kind of disgusted with all this stuff," complained Pam Wednesday. "But I feel I have to go through it for other kids."

She admitted she had considered just ignoring the city regulations.

"I didn't think they'd come out and arrest a 16-year-old girl for setting up a lemonade stand ... but you never know."

By HELEN WALKER
TWIN FALLS — Use appliances as your weapons in the war on high food prices, suggests the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers.

The high price of food is putting high priority on the proper use of home appliances. Buying bargains in quantity and freezing them... innovative use of leftovers... and cooking from scratch... are among top tips offered by appliance industry home economists.

A freezer can be a big money saver if you watch for bargains, buy in quantity and freeze them for later use. Many people are raising their own gardens for the first time in many years. Freezing foods from this source, while at their peak of quality, will preserve their flavor and color better than any other method.

It's a good idea to put packages in "portion" size. Then you don't have to thaw more than you need at one time.

Day-old baked goods are actually improved by freezing. Thawing adds moisture, and they are often lower-priced, too. A little jam-added to bargain doughnuts out of the home freezer can convert them into jellied doughnuts, and you can even have a choice of flavors.

A full freezer helps in many ways to add variety to economy meals, and it costs no more to operate in full than half-full. But don't waste freezer space storing bulky items such as ice cubes unless you are freezing ahead for some special purpose.

"Also," ask the appliance industry experts, "Do you include the cost of driving to the store several times a week for a few items as part of your food cost?" You really should, you know — and you should reduce this expense by properly planning your shopping, sticking to your list and avoiding expensive impulse purchases when you are inside the store. Don't pass up a bargain however, if you can really use it.

If you regularly have a lot of leftovers re-check your meal planning methods and cut down the quantity prepared. However most leftovers can be frozen — and cooking in large quantities is more economical. This is especially true of sauces, stews, casserole and baked goods. There's peace of mind in having a meal dish, some pieces of pie or cake, or other essentials, on hand for an emergency.

Making and freezing your own TV dinners, pot pies, etc., is a bit of work, too, but often worth the amount saved on these relatively high-priced food items.

You might consider freezing the basics for family picnics, including sandwich fillers, homemade ice cream, fruit, etc. Such foods can be removed from the freezer, will thaw in the car during a trip, and be ready for the picnic upon arrival at the site.

Mail question to Helen Walker, home service representative, P.O. Box 8, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

Bonnie Annis weds at Rupert

RUPERT — An evening candlelight ceremony in the Rupert Methodist Church united Bonnie Jean Annis and Steve Roger Torix in marriage June 11.

Rev. Sydney Gaither performed the double ring ceremony before a setting of cathedral candelabra and baskets of yellow and white daisies, white gladioli and yellow chrysanthemums with orange ribbons.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Annis, Rupert, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Torix, Paul.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of peau de soie in an empire style. The bodice featured a portrait neckline and short sleeves of chantilly lace accented with scalloped lace.

A tulle overskirt edged with lace fell from the waistline with the scalloped lace forming a pattern down the front of the skirt and around the bottom into a small train in the back.

The long tulle sleeves had wide lace cuffs with small pearl buttons. The Victorian collar was attached to the bodice with tulle.

Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was held by a headpiece of lace. The dress and veil was made by the mother of the bride. She carried a cascade bouquet of orange roses and yellow and white daisies and greenery accented with green ribbon streamers.

She wore a ring that had belonged to her great-great-grandmother when she was a girl.

Mickey Braker, Twin Falls, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Peggy Jarolimek, Burley, sister of the bride, and Ann Giraud were bridesmaids.

Tom Toews, Rupert, was best man; Gerald Ketterling and Jerry Groesbeck, Rupert, were groomsmen. Ushers were Tim Downs and Jerry Groesbeck, who also served as candlelighters.

Mrs. Linda Bloxham played traditional organ wedding music. Mrs. Terry Ketterling was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Deon Fassett, Mimodoka.

The couple was honored at a reception following the ceremony in the church annex.

The serving table was covered with white lace over a green cloth. It was centered with a three tiered cake decorated with orange, yellow and green and topped with a miniature bridal couple surrounded by white daisies. Yellow tapers in crystal holders flanked the cake.

Mrs. Charlene Patterson, Paul, aunt of the bride, served the cake. Mrs. Elsie Marsh, Burley, aunt of the bride, poured coffee. Mrs. Barbara Dessel served punch.

Guests were seated at quartet tables covered with white, yellow and green tablecloths and centered with glass baskets of white daisies and greenery.

The guest book table was covered with white lace with a green underlay and held two thank you scrolls and small packets of rice. Brenda Appersbach, Rupert, registered guests.

Other reception assistants included Kellie Patterson, who cleared tables, and Audrey Barber, who carried gifts. Mrs. Brenda Wood, Mrs. Rosalie Pickering, Mrs. Mary Ann Grubaugh and Mrs. Claudia Meiries opened and displayed gifts.

Following a wedding trip to California, the couple resides in Paul.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Minico High School and completed a year of training in cosmetology at Idaho State University, Pocatello. She is employed at Shirley's Beauty Salon, Rupert.

The bridegroom was graduated from Minico High School in 1971 and attended ISU. He is engaged in working at Paul.

Guests attended the wedding from Twin Falls, Burley, Filer and Buhl.

The parents of the bridegroom were hosts for a rehearsal dinner at the Ponderosa Inn, Burley. Ann Giraud gave a pre-nuptial shower for the bride.

Right place, right time

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Carolyn O'Callaghan, wife of Gov. Mike O'Callaghan, came to the rescue Thursday of a woman who was involved in a traffic accident about three miles north of here.

Mrs. O'Callaghan was driving "Novada 1," the governor's radio-equipped car, when she came upon the accident on U.S. 395. She radioed for help and then stayed until the highway patrol arrived. The driver of the car, Christina Wixon of Carson City, suffered only slight injuries when her vehicle ran off the road.

Home ceremony conducted

TWIN FALLS — Paul J. Tarrant and Larry D. Ward were married in 6:30 p.m. rites on the lawn at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne L. Ward, Twin Falls, on June 15.

The ceremony was performed by Ralph Tarrant, Ada, Okla., father of the bride, under an archway of greenery and daisies flanked with baskets of roses, lilies and baby's breath.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tarrant, Ada.

Given in marriage by her brother, Richard Tarrant, Shawnee, Okla., the bride wore a floor length gown of white seersucker with long sleeves. The gown was trimmed with ruffles on the cuffs and collar.

The empire waist was trimmed with white lace with yellow flowers. The back of the gown was detailed with a bow and long sash.

Her waist length veil and the cap holding it in place were trimmed with the same lace as the dress. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations.

Gary Ward, Wilford Ward and Phil Adamson served as ushers.

The couple was honored at a reception following the ceremony.

MR. AND MRS. LARRY D. WARD

white roses and topped with a miniature bridal couple under an archway. Yellow slush punch, coffee and ice cream were served with the cake.

Yellow candles in crystal holders flanking the cake and yellow bows on the front of the lace cloth over yellow completed the serving table decorations.

The guest book was placed on a table covered with a hand made lace tablecloth. Mrs. Richard Tarrant was in charge of the guest book and gift table.

Mrs. Jimmie McGinnis served cake. Mrs. Wilford

Ward poured coffee. Carl Bowyer served punch and Mrs. Robert Wigington served ice cream. Mrs. Clinton Uptain, aunt of the bridegroom, was in charge of the reception.

Mrs. Jack Cubit played wedding music.

Following a wedding trip to Boise, the couple resides at Twin Falls. The bridegroom is employed at Regal Manufacturing.

Mrs. Harry Wigington, great-grandmother of the bridegroom, was a special guest.

ALEX-HERZINGER shows the picture he drew on the dress worn by his mother, Mrs. Carolyn Horzinger, first grade teacher at Lincoln School. Mrs. Horzinger's students used marking pens to put their art on the dress pieces. The idea came from all the things we had done during the year," Mrs. Horzinger said. "Each student put at least one drawing on the dress. After letting the color set for five days, the material was soaked in salt water. I loved the idea in a teaching magazine," Mrs. Horzinger said. "Other teachers in Twin Falls have done similar things. I'm so proud of the students, and I love their pictures," she said.

Buhl Sagebrush Days contest scheduled

BUIH. — The Buhl Sagebrush Days queen and junior princess contest will be conducted June 30-July 4. The contest will open with a caravan through Buhl June 30. Horsemanship competition, with the public invited, will be July 1, and contestants will be judged on poise and personality at a buffet supper July 2, according to chairman Bill Assendrup. Contestants will appear in the annual Sagebrush Days Parade July 3, and will be crowned during rodeo intermission that night, Assendrup said.

Application deadline is Monday. Those interested in competing may call Assendrup at 543-6464 during weekdays and 543-6332 evenings and weekends.

Queen candidates must be 18 years old by Sept. 1, but not over age 24, never married, and residents of Idaho. Junior princess contestants must be ages 14 to 17, never married, and Twin Falls County residents.

was. East ducked and now South stopped to do a little serious thinking. East was marked with the queen of clubs. Did he also hold the 10?

Maybe yes! Maybe no! Beggars can't be choosers so instead of leading dummy's last spade, South planned to let it ride but East covered with the queen. South went up with his ace and drew East's last trump.

Note that if South had played the third round of trumps before attacking clubs he would have been in the wrong hand.

Then South led another club, held his breath and finessed dummy's nine. The club loser vanished when the finesse worked.

He entered dummy with the ace of diamonds, led the 10 of spades and finessed against East's king. That finesse was a certainty. South knew where the king

New magazine for artists introduced in MV

By JOCELYN CLOWARD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — "Man the Artist," a new magazine for Idahoans interested in the arts appeared in Magic Valley during June.

The magazine, edited by Burt E. Quesnell and Ed Collins is designed to provide a "means for artists to communicate with each other," Quesnell said.

The first issue features photographic work of Kent Jeppesen, College of Southern Idaho instructor of photography and ceramics, who was selected, according to the editors, "for something in his work that approaches and intrudes upon — consciousness."

"We want to look toward the realm within the mind," Quesnell said. "There are so many things to being an artist."

"The magazine," he said, "is an attempt to put the spotlight on where and when art events are in Idaho, as well as to spotlight individual artists."

The publication will be printed at College of Southern Idaho facilities, Quesnell said, and will be geared also to student needs with a tentative plan for issues for fall, spring, and summer.

"We hope to make it into a state-wide magazine," he said. "We sent out copies of the first issue to schools throughout Idaho. Of 500 copies printed, only one was returned to us," he said.

Collins is speech and drama instructor at CSI. Quesnell worked in public relations for the University of Idaho at Moscow and for the Gazette Record at St. Maries before coming to the Twin Falls area one year ago.

"Ed Collins and I felt that the state needed

"We want to look toward the realm within the mind," Bart Quesnell said. "There are so many things to being an artist."

some sort of an arts magazine," Quesnell said. "I have contacts with artists in the northern part of the state, and he has many acquaintances in the arts. Between us, we thought that we could go ahead."

"We don't intend to seal the magazine," he said. "So far, costs have been minimal, although I would like to put on a hard cover."

"If possible, he said, "we'd like to be able to get some funding from the Idaho Commission on the Arts."

"Right now, we're looking for material," he said. "We're looking for poets, and I'd like to feature ballet and the dance in one of the next issues."

Other features of the first magazine are a calendar of events, and a list of organizations and people involved with area arts.

"I think the calendar is very important to the magazine," Quesnell said. "People should know when things are taking place and where they can go." The first issue includes an article on the Antique Festival Theatre, Magic Valley's para-professional traveling acting troupe, a review of the recent Artrain exhibit in Twin Falls, and an article about Kirk Ramsey, Twin Falls high school senior who is known for his costume designing and acting in area productions.

"The artist and the arts are here in Magic Valley," Quesnell said. "There are more than you can imagine."

Magazine for artists

BART QUESNELL discusses "Man the Artist," a magazine for artists and those interested in the arts, published in June through College of Southern Idaho facilities. Issues with featured artists and a calendar of the arts are planned for fall, spring, and summer by Quesnell and Ed Collins, co-editors.

Nobody's prouder than a grandparent—

BUHL. Grandparents are grandparents — and nobody prouder.

And Buhl grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alf B. Joa, Buhl, have every reason to be.

After all, it's not every 8-year-old grandson that receives a personal letter from the President of the United States.

The couple received a telephone call recently from their excited grandson, Bill Joa, Moss Point, Miss., saying "Hi grandpa, get grandpa on the phone I have something to read to you."

Seems as though young Bill was given an English assignment to write a composition, "Why I Love My Country." He did research, writing and rewriting until his composition pleased him. After turning in his work during class it received a very high mark and he received special recognition at his school.

This he thought was the end of that.

But, several weeks later he received a letter with the return address marked "White House."

The letter read:

"Dear Billy:
A copy of your composition "Why I Love My Country," was recently sent to me and I am pleased by the deep devotion to America which you have expressed so beautifully.

"I hope you will continue to feel the dedication and love which inspired your words and that you will always be an active participant in building a better life for all our people.

"With my gratitude and with best wishes for the years ahead,

Sincerely,

Richard M. Nixon
President of the United States"

Billy is the son of Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. William R. Joa.

MAN, THE ARTIST, with cover photo by Kent Jeppesen is Magic Valley's new magazine of the arts. Jeppesen, College of Southern Idaho instructor of photography and ceramics, said of his work in a feature article in the magazine "The only thing that makes art art is if it relates to man."

Why I Love My Country
I Love my country because it is beautiful and free. I love my country because it helps poor people. I Love my country because the land is clean and it helps keep peace in my country and other lands. My country is trying to stop pollution. My country keeps me safe from other lands that want war. I Love my country because it brought the prisoners of war home.

'Lib walk' characteristic of today's women

By MIKE ROYKO

(c) Chicago Daily News
CHICAGO — The other day, I was walking across the loop.

As usual, I was walking fast. Most Chicagoans walk fast.

Foreign waiters have noticed this. They sometimes say we walk fast because we are energetic, ambitious, aggressive, and this is the city of the big shoulders.

That may be true. But I think a lot of us walk fast because this is the city of the big blackjack, and a moving target is more difficult to hit.

Anyway, as I was hoofing along, a young woman passed me on the outside. Within a couple of blocks, her long, loose-limbed strides had pulled her far ahead.

I realized this has been happening often during the past couple of years. At first, I thought I might be slowing down. But since I haven't been conked with a brick and robbed, that couldn't be the reason.

What has happened is that many women are walking differently. I call it the lib walk. It isn't hard to spot.

Most women who use the lib walk carry a big shoulder bag. I don't know what the bag contains. Probably whatever a modern young liberated woman needs in her liberated life. I wouldn't dream of asking one because she might tell me and I'm easily shocked.

As they lib walk, they sort of shove the bag behind them with their elbow, and they grasp the strap with that hand.

They lean slightly forward, thrusting the bag-holding shoulder ahead, as a blocking back would do on an end sweep. The other arm is swing vigorously, and the chin held high, almost pugnaciously so. Eyes are fixed on a distant point on the horizon. They take looping strides.

If they stop for a moment at a traffic light, they use the time to adjust their bag and find a clear spot at the curb. Then they accelerate tremendously. In one or two steps, they are in full gallop.

Crowded sidewalks don't slow them. Instead of falling behind laggards, they weave through, going sideways without breaking stride. Vince Lombardi would say they were lib walking to daylight.

After being passed the last time, I decided to try to learn what the underlying, significant sociological meaning of the lib walk is that they wear goofy modern shoes.

This is what always happens when I try to find significant, sociological meaning in things. But I reject that explanation. Women have always worn ridiculous shoes. They may not like it when male chauvinist pigs talk about keeping women barefoot and pregnant, but at least in that condition they don't have to make regular trips to a foot doctor.

Several young women did admit there is more to the lib walk than the modern shoe.

Henriette Grattreau, 20, college student, said:

"I like to think of it as being a much more self-confident way to walk."

"Like when I walk by the galleries" on Michigan Avenue, where the men sit and watch girls.

"When I walk past that line, I tend to stick my chin out more defiantly as if at the first whistle I can throw my middle finger up into the air."

"On the streets I tend to walk faster anyway to look like I'm walking somewhere with a purpose, rather than just ambling along."

Lisette Cohen, 21, a recent graduate of Northwestern University, said:

"I walk that way when I'm by myself, and when I'm wearing pants. But not when I'm wearing a dress or when I'm with my boy friend."

"You walk like you're going someplace with a purpose."

"And I do it when I'm walking past men who are sort of wolf-staring, sizing me up."

"I do it to kind of aggressively ignore them and say to hell with you."

"There is definitely an aspect of aggressiveness and aloofness. It's sort of like telling the men who are watching you: "I can be on my own, too."

"It's not just walking. If I'm driving and a guy in a car sizes me up at a red light, when the light changes, I zip off fast, not like a chicken woman driver."

People in the modeling business have noticed the lib walk, but they don't agree on what causes it. Some say it is the shoes, but others, such as Kathryn Safady, a teacher at the Chicago School of the Performing Arts, says:

"They've gotten careless and vulgar. They have refused to go along with the tradition of doing things gracefully. All this wild life has come in and graciousness and loveliness have gone with the wind."

Mrs. Cleo Johnson, operator of a modeling school bearing her name, said:

"I know just what you mean. It is quite a problem the way they are walking the streets today. Some of the clothes they are wearing are too relaxed, too casual, and they are trying to walk according to the ensemble they are wearing." And, Mrs. Johnson says, modern Young women have abandoned a walking principle called "tucking." This, she explained, "is when you get your butt down and slightly split your knees and thighs, pushing them slightly out, which stretches you upward to make you walk straighter and more gracefully."

I tried that myself, and immediately fell down, so the lib walk might be more practical.

Since this is supposed to be a column of opinion, I guess I should take a stand on the lib walk.

Mrs. Johnson and the others probably are correct in observing that many liberated young women no longer walk with smooth, delicate grace. On the other hand, many liberated young men now walk with smooth, delicate grace. Things have a way of balancing out, I guess.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 24, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusually good day for usual Sunday pursuits. Decide on a philosophy and way of life that can bring you peace and contentment, giving a new and fresh slant to your beliefs. Today, avoid temper.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Try to control your temper today and tonight, and you find you get much done and in record time. Then get to bed early and restore your energies. Plan tomorrow's activities wisely, too.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Meditation can bring excellent results now, especially in the evening. Being with closest tie is best. Do nothing that can spoil the harmony within the home. Avoid one who does not respect you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Daytime can be fine with good friends in tow, but take care you do not go off on any tangents in the evening. Plan what it is you really want in personal matters. Get home in fine order.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are able to meet with bigwigs early and get their support for your aims, but do not take any risks in public tonight. Handle philanthropic affairs well. Think along more expansive lines.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Ideal day for listening to lectures, being with charming people, but make sure you are friendly tonight or you lose out where it counts the most. Find the data you need from newspapers.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Hunches are fine during day but apt to be quite off in p.m., so use your good judgment then. Mate is apt to be in a bad humor tonight, but charming during day. Show you have poise with everyone.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) Sit down with an associate and talk over policy matters during day, but reserve the evening for fun and the social. Handle some civic work that will bring you admiration. Avoid one who does not appreciate you.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Doing something to show your appreciation to those who have been helpful in your advancement is wise now. Take it easy tonight, though. Go over your wardrobe and see how to rearrange it, make it look more charming, clean.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) This can be a particularly fine day for you at the amusements you like and in the company of people you admire. Get into creative work. You like. Plan the future more wisely.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Understand what is expected of you by kin, and do your utmost to please them and you gain their cooperation as well. Drive with care in p.m. Evening is a good time to do paperwork.

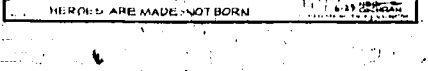

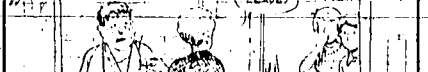

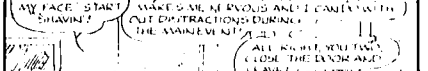

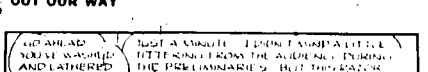

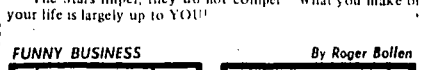

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) You have excellent ideas now that need to be put in operation quickly if you are to benefit from them. Take no risks tonight, though, even in motion. Attend the services that bring you serenity of soul you desire.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) If you think along lofty lines, you find right ideas come to you, so you are able to command a greater income in the near future. Budgeting what you now have is wise. Take it easy tonight so you are rested and can get a good start in the morning.

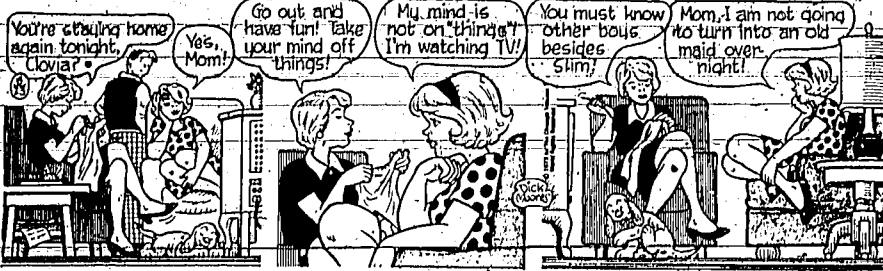

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people whose mind is full of ideas and who is very creative. Once the habit of completing projects undertaken has been formed, the life will be most interesting and profitable. Give as well-rounded an education as you can afford, plus musical lessons, courses in philosophy, science. The inventor and pioneer are strong in this chart, as well as the sincere religionist.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

This tricky rig is sewed into a man's trousers. Activated by a knee movement, it produces one deck of cards at the waistband of said trousers while making another deck disappear. It has been on the market for at least 25 years. No, I don't know where you can buy the thing. Do know, though, this deck waltzer is among the waltzers turned out by a large, old, prosperous firm which also makes approximately 150 varieties of loaded dice, numerous sorts of marked cards, and roulette wheels which enable the operator to put the ball in any number at will.

Two days each month in Medieval times were designated as "dies mali" meaning "evil days." They were gloomy, depressing miserable. And our language man reports it's from those "dies mali" that we get our word "dismal."

Polls show that about three wives out of five think their husbands' take-home pay runs considerably higher than it actually is.

PILGRIMS

Q "Which of the Mayflower pilgrims was the last to die?" A That famous fellow John Alden. In 1587.

Trusting souls, those Japanese They once set up public telephones which took not coins nor tokens, but folding money. The instruments were not rigged to differentiate between one denomination of currency and another. Didn't matter, evidently. Users wound up paying about 5 per cent more for their calls than they needed to, anyway.

Please note, girls who've graduated from college earn an average annual income equal to that of men who've graduated only from junior high school.

Also, credit old Benjamin Franklin, that genius, with the design of this country's first street lamps: Whale oil jobs.

TOOTH DECAY

Did you know tooth decay tends to slow down in the summer and autumn, but speed up in the winter and spring? Such be the claim of the dental researchers. As previously reported, they say further those people get the largest number of cavities who live in those parts of the country where the weather changes most.

A couple of Boston surgeons seriously contend their studies indicate young men who habitually smoke marijuana develop enlarged breasts.

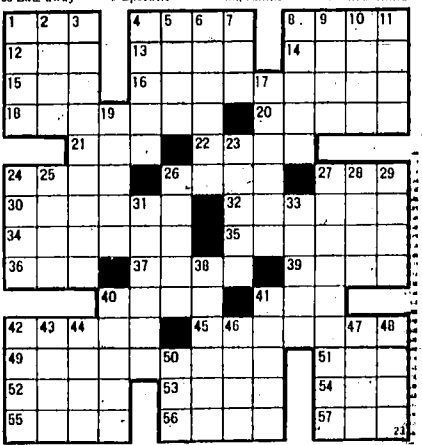

If you want to clean a chrome-lined oven, my dear, just leave a shallow dish of ammonia in the thing overnight. Next morning, zip, the stains wipe away.

Humorous fellow, old Abe Lincoln. He once inserted in a local newspaper the following classified ad: Stolen, a watch worth $100. If the thief will return it, he shall be informed where he may steal one worth two of it. No questions asked. Not the sort of witicism a politician these days would sign his name to, I suppose.

Danish pair visits in TF

By JUDI BAXTER
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — The American people are very friendly. They are always smiling, and they do not seem to be in such a hurry that they can't take the time to be very polite and helpful to us.

them about American food was the large breakfasts. The Danes are used to having only tea or coffee and bread for breakfast.

They could hardly believe it when they saw pancakes, sausage, bacon, eggs, juice, and toast waiting for them at the breakfast table. They all thought it tasted pretty good, though.

Olsen retired last September after working 45 years for Carlsberg and Tuborg, the two largest breweries in Denmark. He was a mechanical engineer, and was in charge of keeping the machinery in top working condition.

During the German occupation of Denmark during World War II, Olsen was very active in the Danish Underground Movement. He was a member of a sabotage group whose goal was destroying the Germans' ammunition factories. Shortly before the war ended, Olsen was captured because an informer had given his name to the Nazis.

Early one morning, he was dragged from his home, and stood by helplessly as the German soldiers wrecked his furniture and stole all the valuable goods. He was then beaten severely, and thrown in jail. Over the next four months, he was tortured several times a day, but he never did disclose any names of his fellow underground workers.

After the war ended, and he was released, he was highly rewarded by the Danish government for his loyal service.

Mrs. Olsen has also been employed at the Carlsberg brewery for the past 36 years as the cafeteria supervisor. The Olsens have traveled extensively through Europe, although this is their first trip to the United States. They are making plans already for a return trip.

Miss Petersen works as an assistant supervisor for an airline insurance company in Copenhagen. She has studied English for six years and speaks very fluently and easy to understand. She would very much like to return to Twin Falls and work here for a year or two, perhaps in a bank or another insurance company. She said she is very anxious to meet and get to know Americans better.

"So far, almost every American I've seen always has a smile ready — I think it's great," she commented.

The Olsens and Miss Petersen will be in the states until July 12. Before their return to Denmark, Mr. and Mrs. Stilling hope to show them the sights around the valley, Yellowstone Park, northern Idaho, and possibly Bryce and Zion National Parks in southern Utah.

MR. AND MRS. Aksel Olsen and Aase Peterson, center, all from Copenhagen, Denmark, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Aage Stilling, Twin Falls. They plan to remain in the country until July 12.

Post Falls legislator plans open meeting law

POST FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Rep. Gary Ingram, R-Post Falls, has announced he will introduce an open meeting law at the next session of the state legislature.

"There is a growing attitude among some public bodies that the public's business is none of the public's business," Ingram said.

He said too many elective boards and councils are seeking refuge behind a section of Idaho law that allows executive sessions closed to the public.

Ingram also charged state agency boards and commissions have abused this provision of law.

The north Idaho lawmaker cited examples of school board budget preparations, meetings held in closed session.

What you're saying . . .

MARSHA BRANSON, TWIN FALLS:

"Oh, I don't know. It would make me feel sort of important, I suppose. I wondered whether they'd get it fixed . . . I know I'd hate to be stranded up there forever.

"I don't know (about going to the moon). I sort of ask myself that once in awhile. I don't really know. I think it would be a lot of fun."

HOWARD HEPWORTH, TWIN FALLS:

"I think I like it better down here on earth. It would be interesting work, I imagine.

"I didn't really follow too much about it (repair of Skylab).

"No, I don't think so. There's nothing up there for me, I don't think."

WILLIAM SEAVER, TWIN FALLS:

"I think I'll let somebody else go there first. It would be thrilling after I came down to earth and could tell about it.

"No, I don't think so. I'm not interested in those things enough. If I was, I wouldn't be afraid to."

MARY LYNN VAN RYTE, TWIN FALLS:

"I think it would be fantastic.

I think it would be such an adventure it would be like a new world, and I'm ready to go to any new world — not that I'm unhappy with this one. . .

"I'm really excited by what they're doing in space. I think the moon is another world for humans to conquer and learn the knowledge of . . . It wouldn't be there if we weren't supposed to learn from it.

"I'd be the first one in line (for a trip to the moon)—with my eyes wide open and ready for whatever was happening."

JOHN JASON, TWIN FALLS:

"Well, I don't really know. I suppose some of it would be interesting, some of the weightlessness and things, but I don't know if I'd want to be enclosed for that long a period.

"Oh yeah (would be going to the moon).

"I think they just about had to (fix Skylab) with all the money they spent on it already."

EMIL HOCHHALTER, TWIN FALLS:

"Oh, I don't know. I think if a fellow is interested in travelling in space he might learn something, but I think they could spend the money a little better right here on earth feeding poor people.

"Well, I don't know what I'd want to go up there for. There's no water up there, no grass growing up there — I'd rather go to some other planet where there is life."

New game

LOS ANGELES — Richard Dawson and Vicki Lawrence are among celebrity panelists who will appear on "Match Game '73" during the opening week of the new Monday-through-Friday game show series, which has its premiere Monday on the CBS Television Network.

Dawson, who appeared on "Hogan's Heroes," has joined the regular cast of "The New Dick Van Dyke Show" for its forthcoming third season on the network. Miss Lawrence, a regular on "The Carol Burnett Show" on the network, has recently become a recording star with her best-selling record, "The Night That the Lights Went Out in Georgia."

Other celebrities on the panel for the week of June 25-29 are Anita Gillette, Jack Klugman, Michael Landon and Jo Ann Pflug.

Gene Rayburn is the host of "Match Game '73". Two contestants play against each other, trying to match their answers with answers produced by the celebrities.

Questions hover over VISTA

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — Volunteers in Service to America, or VISTA, is in its ninth year of existence, and in some ways the future of this federal anti-poverty program has never appeared brighter.

The mere fact that VISTA exists at all — seemingly safe within Action, the conglomerator agency — sets it apart from many of the programs that were also part of President Johnson's war on poverty and have been partly dismantled by the Nixon administration.

And there are other, more positive reasons for optimism: President Nixon's frequently stated commitment to "volunteerism," a vigorous new Action director, Michael P. Balzano, who promises to shake up the agency's bureaucracy, and a record number of applicants projected for this year.

But despite VISTA's apparently bright future, many of the program's liberal supporters are deeply suspicious of the Nixon administration's intentions for the nation's so-called "domestic Peace Corps."

These suspicions stem in part from the administration's previous hostility to the VISTA. Two years ago, for instance, a preliminary draft of the 1972 budget suggested the "orderly elimination" of VISTA within a few months.

A subsequent memo, also made public, said it would be "politically" unwise to terminate the program so abruptly, but that a more subtle method should be found.

Many supporters of VISTA thought they saw that method in President Nixon's proposal for a conglomerate volunteer agency that would combine which was formerly administered by OEO and has been involved in similar controversies, would be the next to go.

The appointment of Balzano, 39, a former garbage man who went on to earn a doctorate in political science and write a dissertation that was highly critical of VISTA, only increased the apprehension.

Both Balzano and Frank E. Williams, the action Official in charge of VISTA, sought to think anyone intends that."

Still, the National VISTA Alliance, an organization of present and former volunteers, plans to ask for an explanation of a memorandum William sent to Action regional directors on May 3 announcing that there would be 1,137 fewer volunteers in the field a year from now.

Williams said in an interview that a comparison of field strength was misleading and that the proposed cut in volunteers would be only 6 per cent.

At the root of much of the criticism of VISTA in recent years has been a dispute over the role and purpose of the VISTA volunteer. As defined by the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, which established VISTA, volunteers were to "help the poor to overcome the handicaps of poverty and to secure and exploit opportunities for self-advancement."

Almost from the program's inception, government officials complained — that some volunteers in their areas interpreted this mandate in ways that threatened local authority by organizing poor people to protest their grievances.

Criticism of VISTA stems from dispute over role, purpose of volunteer and interpretation of that duty by the worker

VISTA, the Peace Corps and several smaller projects. Congress refused to block the merger, and Action came into existence in July, 1971.

And more recently, as Howard J. Phillips proceeded in his dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity, it seemed likely that VISTA, allay such fears in recent interviews.

"The foresight of the President and his commitment to the program was to get it out of OEO," Balzano said. "Everything he did for VISTA was to save it."

Williams asserted: "I'm not going to preside over the demise of VISTA, and I don't

Sports show due twice weekly

LOS ANGELES - The popular "ABC's Wide World of Sports" series will be expanded to twice each weekend starting in 1974 as part of an ambitious and wide-ranging schedule of Sunday sports programs that will include a series of "Superstar" specials and championship auto racing.

Robie Arledge, President of ABC Sports, announced here a broad program of sports coverage before a gathering of ABC Television Network affiliates.

"ABC Wide World of Sports," which recently was awarded a seventh Emmy, will be presented Sunday afternoons for 90 minutes and will cover the broad range of sports programs that its Saturday predecessor has been noted for since it began in 1961. The Saturday "ABC Wide World of Sports" this past season has shown a 26 percent increase viewing homes over the previous two years and has produced a larger audience each of the 12 years the program has been on the air.

Arledge said the "Superstar" series, which debuted this past year, will again pit famous athletes competing against one another in sports other than sports in which they are expert.

"We're planning four 75-minute preliminary programs and a two-hour 'Superstar' final," Arledge said, "that will involve superstars from baseball, football, basketball, hockey, golf, tennis, and several other sports.

"The various events will include swimming, golf, tennis,

Network meets on closed TV

LOS ANGELES - Plans to institute a continuing series of closed-circuit discussion programs involving both ABC Television Network affiliates and management and focusing on key industry and network concerns were announced here today by James E. Duffy, President of the network.

Addressing the annual meeting of ABC Television Network affiliates, Duffy stated that "the question of network-affiliate relations is at once a complex and challenging one, more so as industry problems and issues mount almost daily."

"At this significant juncture in our relations," he said, "we want to institute a closer, more viable, indeed more malleable communications structure."

He noted that the new plan is aimed not only at supplementing traditional lines of communication, but is intended to "become an institution, virtually a clearing house, for our diversity no less than for our unity."

Duffy assured the affiliates that in planning a number of special closed circuits, each year, "I do not mean simply the network coming before you with an announcement or a singular point of view. I mean a kind of panel discussion, a roundtable, an open forum."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The U.S. Weather Bureau has used girls' names to identify hurricanes in the Atlantic, Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico since 1953. The World Almanac notes a semipermanent list of four sets of names in alphabetical order was established in 1960. Hurricane season begins June 1.

'Deadfall' movie due on Friday

HOLLYWOOD - A complex blend of crime and romance form the backdrop for Michael Caine and Giovanna Ralli in "Deadfall," suspense-thriller to be seen for the first time on television on "The CBS Friday Night Movies" Friday.

A multi-millionaire named Salinas (David Buck) is the target for master jewel thief Henry Clarke (Caine), a man who earned his dubious reputation by his precise planning of his crimes. Clarke first has himself committed to a sanitarium for alcoholics to gain Salinas' confidence, then agrees to join forces with two other thieves, Fe and Richard Moreau (Miss Ralli and Eric Portman).

Clarke now stages a small-scale heist, not simply making off with his victim's safe, but also capturing Fe Moreau. But, beginning to foresee complications by working with the Moreaus, Clarke cuts the pair off from his plans, reducing the strategy to a solo job.

Cassette tapes leading pack

By JOE CAPPO
(c) Chicago Daily News
CHICAGO - Cassette tape has surged into the lead among all forms of tape recording, and may well take over the whole field within several years.

The tape-recording business has been in constant turmoil because the three basic systems - cassette, 8-track cartridge and reel-to-reel - are incompatible with each other.

The 8-track, which is about three times the size of a cassette, has been able to maintain its market because it is the principal system used in auto tape players. Reel-to-reel, the original tape system, is still the favorite of professionals and purists because it has superior fidelity.

"The cassette was purely utilitarian when it first came out," said Paul Anderson, marketing operations manager of 3M Co.'s magnetic audio-video products. "But the quality has been improving steadily, and there's little difference today." 3M markets Scotch brand recording tape.

Anderson provided research to show that Scotch had the highest percentage of brand awareness among all blank cassette tapes on the market. He contends that Scotch does the biggest dollar volume in the $150 million business, but declined to specify how big its market share is. Anderson said it is impossible to determine if 3M also is the leader in unit sales.

Cassettes, he added, account for about two-thirds of the blank tape market, while reel-to-reel and 8-track are still strong in the prerecorded tape areas.

Comparative surveys conducted by Market Facts, a Chicago-based market research firm, indicated that the percentage of households with cassette tape recorders increased from 8 per cent to 22 per cent. Reel recorders, meanwhile, dropped one point to 16 per cent.

Households that bought blank cassette tapes, in the preceding 12 months increased from 7 per cent in 1970 to 19 per cent in 1972. Households that purchased blank reel tape decreased from 10 per cent to 8 percent.

Sales of blank 8-track tape are negligible because most 8-track units are playback systems with no recording capability.

Citing the "tangle of terms" that tape customers face, 3M said it is simplifying the description of its various tape qualities to "good," "better" and "best" classification. Tapes currently are marketed at a wide range of prices and qualities, carrying such persuasive but vague descriptions as "supersonic," "ultra-fidelity" and "high energy."

Death plot film topic

(c) New York Times Service
LOS ANGELES — Filming is in progress here on a movie called "Executive Action," which deals with a conspiracy to assassinate President Kennedy.

Starring Burt Lancaster, Robert Ryan and Will Geer, the movie will be released by National General Pictures before the end of the year, to coincide with the 10th anniversary of Kennedy's death on Nov. 22.

Edward Lewis ("Seven Days in May," "The Fixer") is the producer, and David Miller ("Lonely are the Brave") is directing from a screenplay by Dalton Trumbo, Donald Freed and Mark Lane.

Herbert Magidson, a Los Angeles business man active in the antiwar movement, put up most of the money for the film, described as a "big-budget" production.

The producer is trying to withhold more detailed information about the production until shooting is completed in two or three weeks.

According to his press representative, Steve Jaffe, there have been rumors of Central Intelligence Agency interest in the project, and one crew member reported a CIA threat to sabotage the production.

Although no one has attempted to halt the production, the locations are being kept secret, and Freed reports unusual security guards on the set. One source reports that the company has already done some filming in Texas and Tulsa, Okla., which is doubling for Dallas in a number of scenes.

Jaffe refuses to disclose the contents of the film, but a novelization of the screenplay, by Freed and Lane, will soon be published. All parties agree it is "very close" — though not identical — to the final shooting script.

The novel describes a complex assassination plot designed and executed by Texas oilmen, retired right-wing military personnel, CIA agents, anti-Castro Cubans and the Mafia.

In the Freed-Lane scenario, Lee Harvey Oswald is only a decoy planted to divert investigators from the four real assassins; the murder of Oswald is planned in advance, and Jack Ruby is a member of the labyrinthine conspiracy network. The precise details of the film's plot cannot be verified, but Oswald is definitely a character.

Lancaster, Ryan and Geer play three of the high-level conspirators.

Freed and Lane wrote the first screenplay of "Executive Action" two years ago. Freed is also the author of "Inquest," a play about the espionage trial of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, and "Agony in New Haven," a book about the Black Panther conspiracy trial.

Lane, author of "Rush to Judgement" — one of the earliest and most controversial critiques of the Warren Commission report — supplied much research material for "Executive Action." Both authors traveled extensively, and talked to CIA informants and other witnesses while working on their script.

'Freedom fighter' caught

HOLLYWOOD — Richard Boone, Patty Duke and Michael Constantine star in the suspense drama of a man whose past — as a Freedom Fighter defected from an Iron Curtain country — finally catches up with him.

After living quietly for many years in California's peaceful wine country, under an assumed name, Anton Solca (Boone) is suddenly the target of a would-be assassin, in "Deadly Harvest" on "The New CBS, Tuesday Night Movies" on the CBS television Network.

Miss Duke plays a present-day "neurotic" who tags along with Solca as he is pursued by the unknown enemy. Constantine plays a neighboring grape-grower who lends Solca a helping hand.

Concern growing over Idaho child abuse cases

By DAVID ESPINO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — In February, 1972, a youngster was treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital for a flayed chest and broken ribs, an instance of child abuse.

What makes the case so unusual is not that the child was beaten, but that the beating appears on hospital records as abuse.

According to a hospital spokesman, that case is the only one to be recorded as child abuse in six years. Most of the other instances — no one knows exactly how many there have been — are mixed in with other reports of "injuries inflicted by another person."

Child abuse has been "justified for many centuries not only to please God but also to assure that the end result of rearing will be a properly adjusted adult, able to assume his role in society," according to recent professional literature.

A hundred years ago a New York City child was rescued from abusive parents with the assistance of the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The reason — child beating was not illegal, but abuse to members of the animal kingdom was not condoned by society's laws.

Since that time, states and the federal government have moved in the direction of protecting children. Idaho has a number of such laws on the books, and an amendment to the Child Protection Act was approved last winter by the state legislature.

It came on the heels of a death of a four-year-old Lewiston girl after she was beaten.

Official estimates indicate there were 3,102 cases of child abuse and neglect in Idaho during 1972. Six children died as the result.

A total of 288 more suffered "severe abuse," while 452 sustained physical injury, of which the Magic Valley's hospital case of the small child with broken ribs was only one.

In three Magic Valley counties, Twin Falls, Cassia and Minidoka, 65 children are now separated from their parents or guardians either permanently or temporarily, the result of court action taken in response to child abuse or neglect. Those children have been placed in some of the 150 licensed foster care homes by the appropriate state agency, the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS).

In addition, another 42 children in the same counties, according to a DECS estimate, are living with their parents or guardians while the state has a court order for "protective supervision." In effect, the state has the right to check up on those 42 homes for signs of child abuse or neglect.

Meanwhile, complaints of child abuse come into the Twin Falls regional office of DECS at the rate of about one a day, according to acting regional deputy administrator, David Humphrey.

And in one sensitive, potentially explosive case, the state moved to take custody of a Cassia County baby at birth. Officials refuse to discuss the case, as they refuse to discuss specifics of any instance of child court action.

DECS Twin Falls office receives about 1 complaint daily concerning child mistreatment

But other sources confirm that the action was initiated because the state's authorities anticipated child neglect if the infant were permitted to return home with its mother. The mother, these sources say, is an unmarried teenager with a history of mental problems. And although the case never reached a decision stage in Magistrate Court, the child was placed with another guardian when its hospital stay was completed.

Suddenly, child abuse has become a focal point of concern in Idaho.

let, and partially because the new administrator of DECS which superseded the SRS two months ago, has publicly stated the material is not technically suitable for Idaho, and has withheld payment on part of the $23,000 due to Franceschi Advertising Co.

In spite of the problems with the specific program put together by the Tallahassee firm, however, administrator Dr. James Bax has reaffirmed the need for some type of program.

Most of these cases, Smith said in a recent interview, fall under two Idaho laws, the Child

But in the cases where officials of the state DECS feel action must be taken to protect a child from abuse or neglect, an affidavit is filed with the court alleging reasons why the child should be given to the state for custody.

In the majority of cases, according to officials, a hearing is set and an investigation ordered to look into the allegations made in the affidavit. Upon decision of the magistrate, based on the state's investigation the child may be placed in custody of a licensed foster care home, normally, according to Smith, for a period of up to two years.

But in a few cases, the state requests custody of the child prior to a hearing, acting merely on the strength of affidavit. It requests the court to grant custody of the child prior to any investigation to determine whether permanent custody is warranted.

According to at least a few attorneys, taking a child prior to an investigation amounts to depriving the parents of their rights under the law.

Charles Brumbach, a Twin Falls public defender assigned to represent parents in about five child protection cases a month by order of the court, termed the procedure a "violation of due process," denying the parents, in effect, of their right to have the case heard before action is taken.

"There is no immediate need," Brumbach said of "nearly all" of the cases, "for that kind of action."

But Meehl and others argue that the rights of the parents must be balanced against the rights of the children.

Local officials report there is no regional breakdown of the statistics of child abuse and neglect statewide. But some of them express scepticism that the number being reported in the average month — 30 to 35 — accurately represents the situation.

The reason, they suspect, is that society tends to "protect" middle class children by inhibiting reporting by professionals to the proper authorities. One Twin Falls man, knowledgeable with the problem of abuse and neglect, acknowledges that he refrained from reporting one suspected case of medical neglect because he was apprehensive of the effect it would have on his friendships in the neighborhood.

It is the relative lack of this protection from teachers, doctors and others, some people feel, that is responsible for the relatively large numbers of complaints being made against lower income parents and guardians, and relatively smaller numbers against others.

But one Twin Falls doctor, pediatrician Dr

E.M. Wright, who sees about three or four cases of suspected abuse a year, disagrees that middle and upper income parents are protected. Nevertheless, he agrees with virtually all the other professionals involved with the problem that the diagnosis is "difficult to make," and that the indications of abusive parents in one income group may differ from indications in another economic-social stratum of society.

Nevertheless, Dr. Wright concurs in the generally held opinion that "a lot of them (children) don't get medical attention."

The ones who do receive medical attention by virtue of state intervention are also "the recipients of legal and social services as the result," according to a number of DECS officials.

Of the 30-35 complaints that reach the regional office monthly about three to five of them result in court action being filed under a number of statutes.

According to Paul Smith, a deputy attorney general assigned to the Magic Valley as general counsel for DECS, "now and then the Department of Environmental and Community Services is called upon to separate temporarily or permanently the parent-child relationship."

Smith, who has been working out of his Twin Falls office since the beginning of the year, does the majority of his legal work in the area of

Innocent child often target

Parent aid near as phone

By ROBERT STRAND

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The parent who fears uncontrollable anger may lead to beating up his or her own child can get help in Berkeley by dialing a telephone aid service.

It is the Parental Stress Service, a group recently formed to help battered children and their parents. You can discuss the crisis, and perhaps be put in touch with a sympathetic volunteer.

The service is an experiment aimed not only at the problem of battered children—some experts believe 50,000 annually die at their parents' hands—but at a vast number of parents whose wallpings end just short of real physical damage.

"To me, abuse runs the gamut from psychological neglect and verbal assaults to actual battering," said Carol Johnston, founder-director of the service. "If people are honest, they will admit they sometimes abuse their children."

"Every parent is a potential abuser. What can stop him is seeing the child as a person with his own rights."

Mrs. Johnston believes 90 per cent of people who abuse their children are normal. Only 10 per cent of seriously abused children have parents who are mentally ill, she said.

Abusing parents, she added, aren't monsters but basically good people under great stress who finally crack, often because of some trivial incident.

"I consider myself an abusing parent, and that's how I got into this," she said. "I do not trust myself. Sometimes I have no empathy to stop me from hurting Danny."

"Now I can say, Danny, get out of here, and he will leave. He knows what is coming."

Danny is eight, and Mrs. Johnston confesses to an occasional, sudden desire "to ram him through something," "to kill him."

Mrs. Johnston, 34, is a divorcee who quit teaching at Moses Lake, Wash., to take a masters degree at the University of California.

After work at the San Francisco Youth Guidance Center, she obtained a state grant of $15,000 to set up the Parental Stress Service. Additional money has been contributed by churches, and the state grant has been renewed for a second year.

The service takes calls seven days a week, 24 hours a day. Calls are handled by Mrs. Johnston, the only full-time worker, and 19 volunteers.

About a third of callers don't give their names, but the same voices keep calling back. Volunteers, who have taken a training course, take calls and often visit homes, when invited.

Some parents phono after having let loose all their frustrations by trouncing their child. Others learn to call when they feel violence coming on.

Half the cases involve children under five, and 90 per cent of the callers are women.

A common factor is isolation, and women are more likely to feel isolated. Another common factor is that the parent herself was abused as a child, and knows no other mode of child raising.

"The abusing parent never really had his or her own needs met," Mrs. Johnston said. "The parent is not really striking out at the child. A role reversal takes place, and he is actually striking out at his own parents."

National studies show that of children actually injured, most are three or under. The most severely injured are under six months.

Abuse tendency inherited?

By K. C. MASON

DENVER (UPI) — What does society do with a father who burned the palms of his two sons' hands to teach them not to play with matches—using the same cigarette lighter that his father used on him?

Or the mother who used the same radiator belt that she inherited from her mother on her daughter's back?

Then there's the set of parents that expected too much from their 8-month-old son and dunked him in scalding water because he wasn't toilet trained.

Extreme cases every one of them, but the children lived. An estimated 600 to 700 children are killed by their parents each year in the United States. There are another 60,000 reported cases of child abuse in America each year.

Not all are as extreme as the ones mentioned above. But research by a child abuse team in Denver has shown that even the children who are less physically abused, but overly neglected and emotionally starved, will have an equally difficult time growing up to be mature and "normal" adults.

Denver researchers also claim child abuse is almost a hereditary disease. A person abused as a child is more likely to be an abusive parent.

Denver's approach to solving the problems of child abuse is through a multi-discipline team operated through the University of Colorado Medical Center.

"The team is set up to facilitate the admission and treatment of neglected, battered and under-protected children," explained psychiatric social worker C. Joy Chandler. "Simultaneously, we deal with parents in a warm, supportive and understanding way."

Mrs. Chandler said most parents involved in cases of child abuse must go through child welfare and the courts. They also must deal with pediatricians, social workers, and psychiatrists and this, said Mrs. Chandler, "can be a very frightening and sometimes angering experience."

She said the team deals with the parents honestly.

"We encourage them to work with us and let them know someone will be readily available to talk with them at any time during this very difficult period," said Mrs. Chandler.

Atlantan fills role

HOLLYWOOD - The male half of the black couple who move into an all-white neighborhood in the new ABC Television Network comedy series, "Love Thy Neighbor," is portrayed by Atlanta-born Harrison Page.

During his high school years in Atlanta, Page studied dramatics and took part in the school's plays. This first brush with performing made him decide he wanted a career in acting and he moved to Hollywood.

Aware that he needed more training, he enrolled as a drama major at Los Angeles City College where he studied for two years. During this time he played leads in "Detective Story" and "The Dutchman." He then spent a year with the Princess Theater, a professional group, and an additional year with the Film Industry Workshop. He is currently a member of the Actors Studio West group.

During his years of study he performed the lead role in "Purlie Victorious" at the Ebony Showcase Theater and "Taste of Honey" at the Santa Monica Playhouse.

Page's talent did not go unnoticed and he was called to read for a role in "Bonanza" which was to be directed by Michael Landon. Impressed, Landon gave Page his first professional job on television which led to roles in "Mannix," "That Girl," "Inside," "The FBI," "Cannon" and "Sandestles."

Page likes all sports but his favorite is horseback riding. His ultimate goal is to write, produce or direct films and he is presently writing a feature-length script.

Call brings parents help

"It would be a great benefit for the country if we had family life and positive parenting classes in the schools, starting with kindergarten," Mrs. Johnston said. "It's more important than sex education."

"A lot of people, especially teen-agers, aren't prepared to be parents. Girls pull their doll by the leg, or throw it on the floor, and think it's okay."

The women's liberation movement, she said, is spreading the realization that parenting is no bed of roses, and making it easier to say, "I hate this damn kid today."

"That doesn't make you a bad mother. And it's easier now to find alternatives for mothers who are fed up."

Mrs. Johnston regards as the service's failures those people who don't call back. Typical successes are mothers who find in a volunteer a friend, somebody who cares for her.

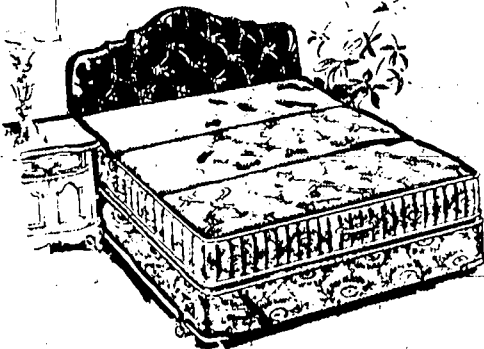

Well-wishers often call the service, Mrs. Johnston said, to say, "I wish you had been here 15 years ago when I was a beginning parent."

Getting serious?

CAN HE SHARE his love for himself? That's the question posed on the Mary Tyler Moore show Saturday on CBS network. Ted Baxter, played by Emmy award winner Ted Knight, has met "girl of his dreams," Georgette — portrayed by Georgina Engel — and matters seem to be taking a serious turn in this affair of the heart-on-the-comedy-show.

Concern growing over abuse

support payment collection and recovery of welfare overpayment and, when necessary, prosecution for welfare fraud.

But it does occasionally fall to him to work in cases involving child abuse and neglect.

"The child has a right to protection," Meehl said, adding that the law requires substantial evidence before the temporary order is granted, adding that in some cases the action is filed as a result of the abandonment of the child by his parents.

"As a practical matter," he said, though, "assuming the allegations are true," it's relatively easy for the state to get an order allowing custody.

During the period the state has custody of the child, according to Robert Scott, a DECS casework supervisor in the Twin Falls regional office, "our first intent is to get the problems resolved in the home and get the child back into the home."

Smith, whose job it often is to win custody of the child for the state, agrees.

"We try to help the children and parents and grandparents to take the kids back."

Towards that end, Scott said, a variety of programs may be established, including one in the setting of the Twin Falls Child Development Center and a "family unit" counseling program by DECS.

Occasionally at the end of 90 days following a child protective action in which the state has taken custody of a child, according to Smith, the state moves to sever the relationship between the parents and child permanently.

But such procedures, Smith said, "are big medicine and used very seldom in the valley."

Nevertheless, according to Brumbach, three such cases in recent months have resulted in "pretty bloody" legal fights.

Smith concedes that termination actions are filed, but said fewer than half a dozen had been initiated in the five months since his office has been in the Magic Valley.

It is difficult, everyone involved agrees, in discussing child abuse and neglect, to get a definitive idea of the magnitude of the problem, either nationally or locally.

Some of the available information suggests contradictions:

— There are 30-35 cases of suspected neglect or abuse communicated to the DECS each month — about one a day, according to officials.

— There are perhaps three to five cases that wind up in court each month, about once a week.

— There is only one such instance of child abuse confirmed at the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital in the last six years.

— Yet doctors and others in the area are required by law to report their suspicions to proper authorities, and DECS officials say a number of their complaints do come from doctors.

It is, according to doctors, a difficult diagnosis to make, and one medical man feels that the cases that are missed on the official records are not ignored by the doctors, but just not suspected. Social workers share the suspicion.

There are hints in available professional literature that that attitude may have unfortunate effects. Writing in an essay titled "The Battered Child Syndrome," two doctors note, "It is not only the legal obligation of the physician, but also his moral obligation to make such a report. . . . If the physician is unwilling to accept his responsibility, he must either refer the case to someone who is or face up to the fact that 25 to 50 per cent of the children involved will be either dead or permanently injured within a year."

Trait inherited?

The team also begins social and psychiatric evaluations for both parent and child, making positive plans for improving the home situation as early as possible.

The goal is to make the home safe for the child to live in. Only in fewer than 10 per cent of the cases has the Denver group found that goal impossible.

Dr. C. Henry Kempe, professor and chairman of the Department of Pediatrics at the University of Colorado Medical Center, is director of the National Center for Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect in Denver.

Dr. Kempe coined the phrase "the battered child syndrome."

Dr. Kempe believes that to solve the problems associated with child abuse, the United States must get away from the concept of children being the property of the parents.

"In a free and civilized setting, the child is considered to belong to himself, in care of his parents," he said. "In our country, on the other hand, the child is essentially a prisoner in his home until he reaches school age."

"American law demands that parents, at the risk of imprisonment, must present their child to specifically licensed places of education at the age of six years," Kempe added. "But we have not yet devised ways in which the child is brought into society before the age of six to insure the basic physical and emotional survival, to say nothing of his optimal development."

Another important aspect of the child abuse team is Families Anonymous, a semi self-help group patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous.

Families Anonymous is designed to encourage the parents to recognize the need to reward themselves and develop confidence and higher self-esteem," said registered nurse Joan Hopkins. "This is achieved through a combination of efforts, primarily direct education and support."

Mrs. Hopkins said the mother is usually the parent that seeks help through FA, but ideally, both parents should be involved.

"Research has shown that frequently both parents have experienced similar abuse and deprivation during their childhood," she said. "Therefore, they support one another in the abuse of their own children."

Mrs. Hopkins said most parents feel less abusive towards their children as a result of the group sessions.

"There is obviously no way to know for certain," she said, "but we are confident that the program provides an outlet before the abuse takes place."

District Judge James Delaney and Child Development Center staff attorney Brian Fraser agree that the courts and the legislative process have an integral role to play in the team concept of solving the problems of abusive parents.

Fraser said that New Mexico is the only state in the United States that does not require mandatory reporting of suspected abuse. Every state grants immunity to persons required to report.

More central registries have been established around the country," Fraser said, "but there is a general feeling" of hostility toward allowing any more infringements by the government, on citizen's private lives."

Colorado and New York are the only two states requiring that a "guardian ad litem" be appointed for abused children.

"The child has a right to life, liberty and happiness," said Delaney, "and if you are to give the child his day in court, somebody has to represent him."

Dr. Ray Helfer, associate professor in the Department of Human Development at Michigan State University, said that the single most importance problem to be resolved in the next decade is "to bring our presentday knowledge of the cause, prevention and treatment of child abuse and neglect to the masses."

Heifer and Dr. Kempe agree that a single disciplinary program, such as the Department of Social Services, has not worked in the past and should be replaced by a multi-disciplinary program like the one in Denver.

Heifer listed what he said would be components for a successful child abuse and neglect service program.

State administered programs using federal guidelines and multi-disciplinary in make up.

A two-way, state-wide registry for all cases which will be part of a national registry system and used as a national reporting document.

Bees, wasps pester gardener

By GEORGE ABRAHAM
ALL ABOUT BEES AND WASPS: Gardening can be hectic when you have to swing at bees, wasps and yellow jackets. Here are a few bees and wasps that might be troublesome this summer.

PAPER WASPS: Among earliest of wasps, you see them flying around eaves. They form a small nest which lasts until late August when the newly mated queens go into hibernation.

Nest resembles an inverted honeycomb. Paper wasps are quite docile and sting only upon extreme provocation.

HUMBLE BEES: Because of size and color, these are the most conspicuous of the stinging insects. (Yes, bumblebees can sting!).

Their nests are found in piles of grass cuttings, house insulation, abandoned car seats, old stuffed furniture, mouse nests and any place where a soft material offers concealment.

At peak strength, a nest will contain 50 to 100 adults and lasts until late August, when the fully mated queens hibernate.

YELLOW HORNETS: Often confused with the yellow jacket. Nest is a gray paper ball usually no bigger than a grapefruit. A full size nest contains about 400 insects.

They feed on other insects and seldom, if ever are seen away from the nest.

BALD FACE OR WHITE FACE HORNETS: Closely related to the yellow hornet, they build a nest often the size of a basketball, with a total population of around 500 insects.

They are docile wasps, stinging only when the nest is disturbed. They, like the yellow hornet, feed on other insects and are seldom seen by man away from the nest.

Dairy farmers often see them catching flies in the barn.
YELLOWJACKET: This one is the most miserable of all the stinging insects. It hides its nest in the ground and in the walls of buildings. The nest reaches peak size in September and lasts until the yellow jackets are killed by freezing temperatures.

At maturity, the nest may contain up to 8 to 10 thousand insects but usually 1 to 2 thousand. Their primary food is insects but they are attracted to human foods such as fruit, sweets and meat.

They infest picnic grounds in August, September and October and will give battle to all comers for soda, ice cream and beer. Their sting is only 1-16 inch long, but in the mind of one who gets stung, it feels like a three foot ice pick.

HONEY BEES: They can be seen flying on any given day when the temperature gets into the low 50s, thus cause stings throughout the year. Most stings by honey bees are among barefoot children playing on lawns partially seeded with white dutch clover. They're common at picnic grounds, also.

Green Thumb

Sweets, hair tonics and perfumes are particularly attractive to honey bees.

CONTROL TIPS: All the sting bees and wasps are susceptible to common pesticides, especially Sevin. For aerial nests a spray can be best since it can be aimed into the entrance from a distance. For the ground nests any powdered pesticide such as Sevin works well. A cardinal rule is to spray or destroy a nest at night, not day.

Keep in mind that these insects are actually beneficial. Destroying a nest 30 feet in the tree serves no purpose. While picnicking cover all food and put garbage in bags.

If one hovers near you, as they frequently do, don't swat or blow at them. Best thing is to turn and walk away.

Amaranthus: Early splendor adds exotic element to gardens.

Asters, annual. Available in a mixture. More and more difficult to grow unless you have good insect control.

Balsam: Excellent bedding plant in shade.

Basil: Culinary herb, variety called Dark Opal is useful as accent or border plant.

Begonia: Outstanding bedding plant coming in red, white, bronzed foliage. Ideal for shade.

The list is endless: We could mention, browallia, calendula, carnation, celosia, centaurea, chrysanthemum, cleome, colcus, cosmos, cynoglossum, bratisa grown from seed; Dianthus, dusty millers, to name a few.

ANTS IN HOMES: Don't be ashamed if you see ants in your home. Some of the neatest housekeepers have ants.

Ants get in homes through cracks in walls and foundations, and they feed on sweets, greases and scraps of food. Control by removing sources of food. Another trick is to sprinkle little sugar water on a sponge and leave it where ants are.

Every few hours take sponge and quickly dip it in hot water to kill the ants which are attracted to it. Ant traps are available and they do a good job. Keep them out of reach of children.

If you see ants along the foundation of your home, dust with chlordane or pour hot water on them to discourage the pests.

B.N. of Murphy: "Here's a good tip for your readers who want fresh carrots the year round. Raise a good supply of them, using a successive sowing. That means, several swings throughout the season.

In fall dig the carrots, wash them off, and while still wet, place in plastic bags and keep them in your second refrigerator in your garage. Use as needed. They are great!"

BRITTON HONORED
BONN, Germany (UPI) — Benjamin Britten, English composer and conductor, has been awarded the first annual "Siemens" music prize worth $31,250. The award, also known as "The Nobel Prize of Music," is donated by Ernst von Siemens, 70, board member of the German industrial firm. Britten's works include a number of operas.

Analysis cut not good move

By JOHN O'CONNOR
(c) New York Times Service
NEW YORK — The Columbia Broadcasting System has halted the practice of "instant analyses" following Presidential speeches on television, and the result is neither good journalism nor good television.

The change in policy was announced by William S. Paley, CBS chairman, on June 6, backed on with curious casualness to a declaration that the network would provide time after a major presidential address, preferably within a week, for responsible opposing views.

Equal time for the opposition is, of course, far less a magnanimous gift than an absolute necessity. Even the politically innocent recognize the power of a national forum on TV, and a presidential monopoly on that forum presents a clear and present danger to this nation's system of checks and balances. The problem has been weighed for years, and the solution still won't be easy.

Who is the opposition? More pertinently, which figure or figures should represent that opposition? Who will make the selection? And even now, with only CBS committed to providing time, the response will not have the wide "force feeding" exposure of a presidential address that is carried simultaneously on all three commercial networks.

That much recognized, the CBS decision is at least another move in the right direction. The decision about "instant analyses" is quite another matter.

Again, the networks are faced with a problem, a problem that has been cleverly exacerbated by the White House often refusing to provide advance texts of presidential speeches. Because of this, network correspondents are forced to make hasty notes during the broadcast and appear on screen immediately with what they hope will be helpful comments. Thus was Spiro Agnew able to popularize the disparaging phrase of "instant analysis."

On closer examination, however, the practice is not entirely instant. Each network has correspondents specially assigned to the White House and Washington. Their comments are not made in a knowledge vacuum.

And in most cases, excepting those of dramatic surprise, to which President Nixon seems especially partial, there is advance word on the general area, if not the specifics, to be covered in the speech. Commentaries in print the following day may see, may indeed be, more carefully weighed and composed, but in fact may have been rushed through a typewriter on a basis only slightly less instant than their electronic counterparts.

To a certain extent, the new question of "instant analysis" smells of that old play called red herring.

CBS News, it should be noted, is promising analysis on the next regularly scheduled network newscast following a presidential speech. An evening speech would then be examined on the morning news at 7 o'clock. That sounds reasonable enough, but the practice is unsatisfactory, as was evidenced in the lack of commentary after the president's economic "phase 3" speech on June 13.

In that case, Dan Rather, the correspondent, was able to provide viewers with general details of the speech, leaked by Congressmen, before the president spoke. The speech itself concentrated on the "best of times" aspects of the

SHOPPING SUGGESTIONS

DURING OUR EXPANSION - REMODELING PROJECT

Our entire store is one big mess, for which we apologize and ask for your indulgence. Things will be better. When you come in please overlook everything but the bargains. The item you would like to see may be buried, but we will uncover it for you. One promise we make — you'll never find better bargains. We have every reason to move every piece — that's why the mark-downs are so generous.

LIVING ROOM FURNITURE

We have more need to move sofas, love seats, chairs, tables, lamps, and sleeper sofas than any other merchandise. Most of the activity of the workmen is now centered on our main floor. When they are finished, we will have 34 separate vingnettes or small room displays of furniture to show you. Right now it is urgent that we move many pieces to avoid damage & handling. It will pay you to look at some of these bargains.

CARPET

We must liquidate our entire remaining roll stock of carpet and have priced many pieces at cost—some below cost. Our new carpet department will be located in our new building & will be a completely new concept never seen before in Magic Valley and all rolls will be on racks in our warehouse. We know you'll like it—right now help us clean out remaining stock . . . So we don't have to move it to our warehouse.

FRIGIDAIRE APPLIANCES

Our new appliance department will be in our new building. To avoid damage and handling we will guarantee you a generous saving on any Frigidaire appliance you choose. Be sure to check our prices on Frigidaire Air Conditioners. We have all sizes and all reduced rates. We have several school appliances left and want to clear them all out this week.

TV AND STEREO

The new 1974's are either here or coming. Now is the time to grab the values in our big department: Color TV, black & white TV, console stereos, stereo components and combinations. YOU CAN REALLY SAVE HERE!!

WRIGHT AIR COOLERS

We still have a good selection of home and mobile home models, but want to clear them out fast. We must have the space! YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO BE HOT ANOTHER DAY!!

Every Department in our big store is affected in some way by our Expansion Program — and every price is marked down accordingly. SHOP THEM ALL! Again, please overlook the mess and appreciate the bargains!!

His Protection is Everybody's Business

This great national symbol perches loftily on a rock-hard foundation of some pretty basic fundamental principles.

From time to time individuals or groups will try and undermine some of them and it's our responsibility, yours and mine, to see that it doesn't happen.

For example, the current controversy about protecting a reporter's source of information may appear to many a minute crack, at most, in a great foundation. But it does represent a crack, however small, and could provide a place for continued erosion.

Be part of a concerned public in actively participating in the protection of our basic individual freedoms.
