Solon disputes Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., suggested today that President Nixon knew there had been no investigation when Nixon said last Aug. 29 that a probe of the Watergate scandal indicated no one in the White House was involved.

The White House acknowledged May 16 that no such investigation was conducted. Zeroing in on the President's August statement at the Senate Watergate hearings, Montoya closely questioned witness John W. Dean III, the ousted White House Counsel who Nixon originally said had handled the internal probe.

In addition to official government investigations of the bugging of Democratic party headquarters last year, Nixon said on Aug. 29 that "under my direction, counsel to the President, Mr. Dean had conducted a complete investigation of all leads which might involve present members of the White House staff or members of government. I can say categorically that his investigation indicates that no one on the White House staff, no one in this administration, presently employed, was involved in this bizarre incident."

Appearing for the fifth straight day at the nationally televised Senate hearings, Dean nodded and smiled faintly as Montoya read the familiar words.

"Now, I ask you this question, with respect to my project that you handled directly for the President, where a report was required, wouldn't you assume that if this is true, that you would have been required to file a report?" Montoya asked.

Allende smashes Chilean uprising

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — A section of the army revolted today against the leftist government of President Salvador Allende but the uprising appeared to have collapsed after three hours of heavy fighting in downtown Santiago that wounded dozens of persons.

Allende, caught at home when the revolt broke out at 9 a.m. by a regiment of motorized troops, declared a state of national emergency but shortly afterwards was reported en route to the presidential palace to address the loyal troops.

Tanks, mortars, bazookas, machineguns and rifles blazed away for hours but at 11:45 a.m. EDT fighting ceased, apparently as the result of a truce.

Allende's supporters began pouring into the streets in massive pro-Allende demonstrations.

"A United Left will never be defeated!" they shouted. "Allende! Allende! The people will support you."

Mark boosted

WEST GERMANY revalued its currency upwards by 5.5 per cent today. President of the Central Bank Karl Klusen, left, and Finance Minister Helmut Schmidt announced the government's decision this morning in Bonn. (UPI)

W. Germany 'saves' European economy

BONN (UPI) — West Germany, caught up in an ever rising tide of prosperity, revalued the mark upward by 5.5 per cent today in a move that patched up a European economic crisis at the expense of the already low U.S. dollar.

Schmidt informed newsmen that West Germany's booming export surplus is so strong it has been forcing the currencies of European Common Market countries down to the lowest rates permitted against the mark. The move averted a crisis within the Common Market which seeks eventually a common currency.

Energy bout due

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon has decided to attack the energy shortage by lifting quotas and tariffs on imported fuel, mounting a $10 billion crash research program and putting an energy czar in the White House and a secretary of energy in the cabinet, according to White House sources.

The White House energy post will go to Colorado Gov. John A. Love, the sources said. White House sources said the President would unveil his sweeping package of energy proposals in a special message to Congress from the Western White House.

Fire toll hits 30

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A 30th victim has died of burns he received in a fire which swept through the second floor upstairs bar in the French Quarter last Sunday.

KNOLLS, Utah — A Twin Falls man and two Illinois hitchhikers were killed in a traffic accident two miles east of Knolls on Interstate 80 Thursday afternoon.

Refugees flee as Reds close in on Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — More than 2,000 refugees fled down embattled Highway 6 toward Phnom Penh today as Communist troops closed behind them at the Prek Kdam ferry crossing 18 miles north of the capital, field reports said.

Five taxis came barreling down the road and about 30 Communists got out of them, said a UPI photographer who returned from the scene.

KIMBERLY — The City of Kimberly has been awarded a grant of about $26,000 for preliminary planning and design of its proposed new sewage treatment facility.

Bombing compromise asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has proposed a compromise to end the bombing of Cambodia in six weeks and come back to Congress for specific approval if he must continue it beyond then, House Republican Leader Gerald Ford said today.

Kennedy undecided

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says it remains an "open question" whether he will run for President in 1976. He won't make up his mind until after next year's midterm congressional elections.

Bombing compromise asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has proposed a compromise to end the bombing of Cambodia in six weeks and come back to Congress for specific approval if he must continue it beyond then, House Republican Leader Gerald Ford said today.

Ford said he had received the information from a spokesman at the White House who had authorized Ford to offer the compromise in the name of the President.

Ford, of Michigan, urged the House to accept the proposal to avert a constitutional showdown that could cut off appropriations to all agencies of government when the new fiscal year starts this Sunday.

"I'll be frank with you," Ford told the House. "I didn't talk to the President. But I've been talking to people who have talked to the President."

Serious crime declines

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Serious crime declined one per cent in the nation during the first three months of 1973, but crime in the suburbs and rural areas continued to increase, the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports showed today.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson reported that 100 of the nation's largest cities reported actual reductions in serious crime during the first quarter of 1973. Eighty-eight cities showed a decrease in the same period of 1972. Serious crime showed a three per cent decrease in the same period last year.

The figures in the crime reports are based on nationwide crime statistics contributed by local, county and state law enforcement agencies. Richardson said the statistical report has been changed this year to include all larceny-theft instead of limiting that category to larceny $50 and over. He said the inflation trend in recent years has caused a bias that is not acceptable in crime reports because many states have changed the dollar value between felony and misdemeanor larceny. By removing value from the larceny category, the inflation bias has been eliminated and the overall quality of larceny-theft crime counts should improve, he said.

Sen. Weicker makes accusations

DECS board chairman says Gem merger 'good'

BOISE (UPI)—The board chairman for the Department of Environmental and Community Services says government reorganization is a good thing. John Van Orman, said Thursday through the consolidation of the former Departments of Environmental Protection and Health, and Public Assistance and the Youth Training Center, duplication of many services was discovered. "We hope this is going to be eliminated," Van Orman told the reorganization commission. The legislature, in establishing the new agency, provided for seven regional operations to "decentralize" the dispensation of services and return the government to the people. "The people were confused as to where to go for services," said Van Orman. "There was so much duplication."

at the end will depend on "how well we can avoid central office bureaucracy." The State Parks Board proposed that the commission create a Department of Natural or Environmental Resources by combining parks with functions now performed by the Departments of Fish and Game, Public Lands, and Water Administration and the Water Resources Board and the state historical society. The first choice of the park board, however, was to remain a separate and distinct agency. Representatives of the State Highway Board and the Highway Department, during the night session, told the reorganization commission they do not favor formation of a State Department of Transportation. N. Richardson, state highway engineer, told the commission the advantages of forming a state department of transportation "would likely be more than offset by certain disadvantages." Carl C. Moore, highway board chairman said the highway department should continue as "a single purpose agency." Moore said the department operates entirely on dedicated funds, and the entire operation is "devoted to the construction, operation and maintenance of an adequate highway system."

Water issue presented

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Idaho Sen. Frank Church appears not to be too enthusiastic about the formal report of the National Water Commission. A hearing opened Thursday in Washington on the report before Church's interior subcommittee on water and power resources. The commission said national water needs should overcome state consideration, but Church called that unrealistic. The commission appeared before the subcommittee to discuss the document which was completed two weeks ago.

The issue of "inter-basin transfers," movement of water from one region to another, set the Idaho Democrat and Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Oregon, against the commission. Church said, "If any of the recommendations of the commission are to be adopted as national policy, they should be adopted only after adequate discussion and only in the form and to the extent that they can be supported in a comprehensive public debate."

Attack takes housepig

FIREBAUGH, Calif. (UPI)—Arnold, a housebroken 800-pound pig with a taste for rides and gourmet fare, has gone to the Big Sky in the Sky. The James Baccabella family, which considered the Hampshire hog a household pet, reported Thursday that he had died of an apparent heart attack after falling off a table. The porker, who would have been three on Sept. 6, was housebroken — with his own bedroom — and liked to tangle up to people's legs. He preferred fried chicken and doughnuts and enjoyed rides in the family car before he got too big.

Mindoka Memorial Admitted: Clyde Gentry, Penny Schell, Sherad Fitzgerald and Wanda Curtis, all Rupert; Carolyn Bradshaw, Paul; Patricia Rash, Burley, and Janice Rytting, San Diego, Calif. Solon says Nixon pressured panel

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., Thursday accused the White House of planting false rumors about him as part of a continuing effort to "pressure" the Senate Watergate committee. Weicker, member of the Watergate panel, asked Archibald Cox, the government's special Watergate prosecutor, to investigate whether the law against obstructing official proceedings was violated—in offense punishable by a $5,000 fine and five years in prison. "Efforts are still being made to pressure the committee," Weicker said. Weicker said during the hearings Thursday that he had been told April 10 by an individual he did not name that the White House was spreading the story that contributions in his own Senate campaign had been mishandled.

He said he learned within the past seven days that former White House special counsel Charles W. Colson had approached a reporter with the same story. He said the reporter, whom he also did not name, related the incident to him. "That," Weicker said, "was enough to get me a little mad." In emotional tones, he added: "There are going to be no more threats, no intimidation, no innuendo, no working through the press to go ahead and destroy the credibility of individuals." At the end of his presentation, Weicker made an impassioned, arm-waving, statement to the effect that Republicans "do not cover up" or "threaten" or "view their fellow Americans as enemies to be harassed" but as "human beings to be loved and won." The statement won him a round of applause from the audience. Weicker also produced the transcript of a tape-recorded phone conversation that took place March 28 between White House domestic adviser John D. Ehrlichman and Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst, both of whom have since resigned. The call was apparently recorded by Ehrlichman without Kleindienst's knowledge. The Senate committee subpoenaed it from Ehrlichman's files.

Cenarrusa takes recall decision

BOISE (UPI)—Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa says he will accept the district court decision and not appeal the order to accept recall petitions against Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello. James B. Green, attorney for Miss McDermott, said she has not yet decided what she will do. Wednesday, Fourth District Judge Alfred C. Hagan ruled that the petitions lacking the name of the post office as required by law were acceptable and should have been filed. Cenarrusa and Miss McDermott have 10 days in which to appeal. Cenarrusa said he has decided not to appeal the ruling of the district court "because our district court has made its determination." "Insofar as our office is concerned the court has spoken. We don't participate at this time a need to file an appeal," he said. Cenarrusa said he did not believe he received "bad advice" from the attorney general when he initially rejected the petitions because of the legal technicality. More than 2,500 persons signed the petitions against Miss McDermott saying they disagree with her stand on the Equal Rights Amendment and other issues.

He said he learned within the past seven days that former White House special counsel Charles W. Colson had approached a reporter with the same story. He said the reporter, whom he also did not name, related the incident to him. "That," Weicker said, "was enough to get me a little mad." In emotional tones, he added: "There are going to be no more threats, no intimidation, no innuendo, no working through the press to go ahead and destroy the credibility of individuals." At the end of his presentation, Weicker made an impassioned, arm-waving, statement to the effect that Republicans "do not cover up" or "threaten" or "view their fellow Americans as enemies to be harassed" but as "human beings to be loved and won." Prodigal returns, repeats

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI)—Henrique de Freitas ran away from home when he was six years old. Thirty-seven years later, he knocked on his mother's door.

At first, Rosa Mattos Pribur did not recognize her 43-year-old son. But he recalled so many incidents of his early childhood that she finally invited him in.

He told her he wanted to work hard, become prosperous and take care of her in her old age. She spoke to the parish priest, who gave Henrique a job as a $1.50 a day laborer at the Roman Catholic church of Saint Anthony of the Poor.

Thursday, four weeks after his homecoming, Henrique ran away again. This time, he took with him the church's $300 monthly payroll and housekeeping fund.

Belt-line routes eyed in TF area

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Editor, Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Possible routes for belt-line highways around the city — north and south — were outlined Thursday by Mayor John Christoffersen.

Speaking to members of the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club at noon luncheon, the official said the plans were not close to being final but that "a guess" would be that the present Pole Line road would be the main artery considered going west. The belt-line would then turn south somewhere west of Washington Street North.

To the east the possibility is that the belt-line would run to a point somewhere between one-quarter and three-quarters of a mile east of Eastland Drive and then turn south. The mayor said that the entire routes, with possible exception of the Pole Line road, would end up as new construction.

Mayor Christoffersen said new road construction would be necessary because public acceptance would never be obtained by running such a route down an existing street (with the exception of Pole Line). Because the roads will be through roads, with speeds of 59 to 60 miles an hour allowed, the width needed would force removal or destruction of scores of homes and other buildings if existing streets were used.

At the same time Jean Milar, city manager, and a guest at the Kiwanis session, said city and county commissioners, highway district officials and Chamber of Commerce officials would meet July 9 in project discussion. Later that same week the first of a series of meetings at which expressions will be sought from the public, will be held. "July," he said, "will be belt-line month in Twin Falls."

The mayor, who this week announced he would not be a candidate for the city council at the next election, termed his remarks "non-political" because of this fact. His discussion touched many facets of the governmental life of the city. He praised the work of the council members and said "if we vote on enough things, enough subjects, enough annexations and tear up enough roads, you're going to disagree with all of us at one time or another. But we do have to make the decisions."

"There is not one member of the city council who is a yes-man," he said. The mayor said the greatest need in city government is "feedback from citizens."

Health board gets new member

TWIN FALLS — Gwendolyn Krahn, Fairfield, who has served as ex-officio member of the South Central District Health Board, will become a full fledged member July 1. Because of the eight county area within the district and only seven board positions, one of the smaller counties is represented by ex-officio non-voting members for alternating one year periods. Mrs. Krahn has held the voiceless position the past year, coming from the smallest county — Camas. In the term and not a soul shows up. But if you are going to leash a cat in this town the place fills up. We need your ideas and your comments — negative or positive," he said.

He said the "hot" subject right now is the matter of outside the city services and added "we have had all the negative ideas on it but we have heard very little from the people who live within the city and are paying city taxes."

Councilmen, he said, have spent $17 million of your money in the past two years. By "your money" he explained he meant state, federal and ad valorem taxes on city property. He said the mill raise has been slight because the valuation has gone up. But he added if the valuation had not changed it would have been necessary to raise the mill levy.

Of the $17 million, 15 per cent was from property taxes on homes and businesses. This amounted to about $2.5 million.

On other topics he said: (1) Streets are in a state of confusion but citizens might as well get used to this because it will continue for a long time mainly because patching was all that had been done to many of the 120 miles of city road since first paved.

(2) The secondary sewage program is progressing and the city has its share of the money in the bank. No bond issue will be necessary. Half the total costs will be paid by industry.

(3) — Vast improvements have been realized at the Twin Falls City-County Airport and more are planned. Because of more government funding (about 83.5 per cent) he feels that a regional airport would now be feasible and that it would attract more passengers from the east and of Magic Valley. He said his remarks on the regional airport were "his own, and did not necessarily indicate those held by other council members, the county commissioners or members of the Twin Falls City-County Airport board."

He said Joslin Field is now the only airport in Idaho completely in the jet age, being fully served by commercial jets. Editor's note: the 83.5 per cent government funding was contained in a bill recently signed by President Nixon and is available on a matching basis of about 15 per cent city-county funds for Joslin Field as well as for an entirely new field.

(4) — He said the "can't do's" were responsible for the unsuccessful attempt to get state highway help for the North Five Points traffic situation and as a result "we will not get any help on it for at least five more years."

Special feature

PUPPET SHOWS will be featured at the Twin Falls Public Library Saturday at 11 a.m. and again on the last Saturdays of July and August. Abbey Carpenter, one of the volunteers who will provide the show poses with two of the "actors."

Puppet shows set in TF

TWIN FALLS — Opening of the "Storipup Theatre" puppet show in the children's room of the Twin Falls public library is set for Saturday.

Library officials say the unique Saturday program will feature shows again on the last Saturday in July and the last Saturday in August. Each of the shows will be held at 11 a.m. in the basement area of the library. The theater is the castle made by the library for the recent Music Club parade.

Annie Lauri Burton, library staff member, said it was "too great to discard" so it was made into a puppet theater. "Then we decided we needed some puppets and of course had to have some plays," she said.

All of the work including selection of the plays was provided by a group of young volunteers who also carried the castle through downtown Twin Falls for the parade.

These include Abbey Carpenter, Lance Carpenter, Mike Mathews, Tom Mathews and Ryan Thomas. They made the castle, named it, converted it to a puppet theater, designed and made the puppets and selected the plays.

All preschoolers are especially invited to attend the Saturday production and to attend the two later productions this summer.

Weekend camping outlook good

TWIN FALLS — Another weekend of good camping, extending through the July 4th holiday is forecast in the Sawtooth National Forest.

Forest officials say campgrounds are now fully open in Sawtooth Valley, Stanley Basin and Wood River as well as upper Salmon River portions of the Sawtooth National Recreation Area.

Inlet campground will be open only from 5 p.m. Tuesday July 3 through 10 a.m. July 9.

however. Construction of toilets will require keeping the campground closed prior to the time and after July 9 until completion.

Smoky Bear and North Shore campgrounds will be open with temporary toilet facilities during the construction period. A $1 per day charge is made on the fully operating campgrounds in the SNRA, with a 50 cents per day charge for those with golden age passports.

Most trails and lakes are open up to the 8,000 foot elevation. Higher lakes are beginning to open, but some snow and ice is reported at the 8,500 foot elevation and above.

The Redfish Lake Visitor Center is open and regular visitor programs begin this weekend. Guided tours, evening programs and other activities are available with information from the National Recreation Area office of Sawtooth headquarters in Twin Falls.

In the South Boise River area campgrounds are open with $1 charge per day at Baumgartner Campground. The roads are dusty and travel is still not advised over Dollarhide Summit.

Around Ketchum all campgrounds are open except on Federal Gulch. Trail Creek summit road is rough and the main road and loop road in Copper Basin have been given some maintenance.

In the south hills area all campgrounds are open but Bear Gulch will be occupied by a riding club group this weekend. Howell Canyon campgrounds are open but Lake Cleveland road is still closed to vehicles.

Center to open

SUN VALLEY — The Creative Arts Center will begin its first year with a summer series of classic films, musical productions, ballets and art shows and an extensive program of adult and children workshop.

The non-profit foundation offers a special class for 1 1/2 to 4 year olds entitled "Art and Rhythm."

For children up to 12 years of age, classes will be held in creative dance and ballet, theatre, photography, ceramics, raku and mixed media. Children's outdoor workshops are also available.

For adults and children over 12 years of age, the center will hold classes in acrylic painting, watercolor, creative drawing, ceramics, raku, silk screen, print making, stained glass, leathercrafts, theatre, creative dance and music (flute and guitar).

Adult outdoor workshops will include geology field study, nature field study and wildflower study.

Newspaper reports CSI labor charge

JEROME — The Jerome Northside news reported Thursday that $343.70 of federal and local work-study funds had been used to install a sprinkler system at the private home of the College of Southern Idaho president.

The Northside News quoted CSI President James L. Taylor saying the labor bill for installing the rock garden at his off campus home "involved a work-study payroll of $343.40." The labor cost figure had not been disclosed previously.

Dr. Taylor did not disclose the amount of money used to pay the wages of the college's plumber, Richard Robinson, who supervised the work-study students, and he made no reference to work-study funds paying labor costs for a rock garden at the house.

Dr. Taylor told the Northside News that "The (college's) Board of Trustees do not (sic) have a written board policy, but they allow the president discretionary power in the use of College personnel and equipment."

Taylor was paid $200 per month for his housing allowance, but no other housing support has been approved by the CSI board.

"The residence of Dr. Taylor is considered an extension of the campus and is used for many college functions. The Board does not feel that Dr. Taylor has abused his privilege," Dr. Taylor told the newspaper.

In addition, Dr. Taylor conferred earlier reports in the Times-News that $1,466.65 had been paid to work study students "on questionable time cards" and that the director of the College's work study program, David Perkins, had used and reimbursed $115.20 of work study funds for babysitting at his private home. Taylor termed as "sensational" the Times-News article which first reported the president's use of work study funds and other irregularities in the work study program.

Federal auditors have been on the CSI campus this week as part of a full audit of the college's student aid program use of federal funds.

The $343.40 Taylor said had been used from work-study funds on his private sprinkler system consists of $274.72 in federal funds and $68.68 in college district funds.

The work study funds are provided by an 80 per cent grant from the federal government matched by 20 per cent of the program costs coming from local sources.

Albion alumni fete set

ALBION — Alumni of Albion State Normal School and the Southern Idaho College of Education will hold a reunion in Albion Saturday.

According to Mr. and Mrs. Keith Amende, Albion, the reunion is the first since 1970. As in 1970, this year's reunion is expected to draw about 200 persons.

Alumni are expected to gather from as far away as Arlington, Va., Alaska and Connecticut. A graduate of the college's first class of 1904, Mrs. Anna Hayes, Twin Falls, has said she will attend the gathering.

The Albion campus of the former state school is currently leased by the Oregon Trail Festival of Arts.

Airline Search

Rigid searches of airline passengers and their carry-on belongings, in effect since Jan. 5, have cut US plane hijacking attempts to zero.

But in other locations about the country some passengers openly complain of the delays enforced by inspection procedures.

The American Civil Liberties Union is all stirred up over the inspection procedures, contending they are "unlimited" and a violation of people's rights under the Fourth Amendment to the US Constitution.

That article says the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, except upon "probable cause."

Well, let's measure the fuss against the facts.

Though the very rigid searches started generally only this January, less general and more casual checks have been in effect quite a bit longer.

We've already noted the total stoppage of hijack efforts this year. Possibly more striking is what the searchers have turned up.

The FAA says that in an 11-month period, from June, 1972, to early May this year, the following items were taken from passengers about to board US commercial aircraft:

Exactly 1,826 guns, 11,956 knives, and 5,280 other dangerous articles, ranging very widely from identifiable explosives to blackjacks to cans of disabling Mace and small tear gas pens.

That comes to just a bit more than 19,000 items, most of which could be judged menacing enough to touch off a hijacking attempt.

Not in all cases are passengers permanently deprived of these articles. A friend tells me that a woman standing in the inspection line just ahead of him was found to be carrying a six-inch switchblade knife in her purse.

Now, obviously, the stringent procedures have been both effective and "productive," in the sense of revealing and blocking any possible use of 19,000 dangerous weapons or other devices. These consequences are hardly trivial.

Measure the results against past events. The FAA says that from May 1, 1961, until the stiff checks took effect, there were 160 attempts to hijack US planes. Of this total, 99 were successful, 32 "incomplete," and just 30 rated totally unsuccessful.

The worst hijacking year was 1969, when there were 33 successful attempts. In these, the FAA estimates some 3,500 passengers can be said to have had their lives endangered.

Put beside the hijacking record and the astonishing current haul of passengers' weaponry, the ACLU constitutional argument looks pathetically weak. Findings are impressive enough to suggest "probable cause." The searchers are reasonable.

(c) New York Times Service LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland — Almost 1,500 years ago this city was founded by a man — so gentle that all creatures loved him and his old white horse, came weeping to his deathbed. Saint Columcille called this Derry, my own oak grove, little cell, my home, my love.

Today's apt symbol is "roaring meg," the famous old cannon atop an ancient wall not covered with barbed wire to deter gunmen from shooting up British troops searching vehicles below.

There is shooting every night," say the glum security forces.

The "troubles" continue to fester in the little cities of lovely Green Ulster. Londonderry (the "London") was added by King James I who gave it to London and stuffed it with Protestants.

Only here, occasionally, the quarrelling rival I.R.A. wings, "provisional" and "official," stage protests together.

The British station almost 20,000 of their best soldiers in Ulster and spend a fortune trying to pacify it.

Item: "Listen carefully. I represent the Ulster freedom fighters. We have just assassinated an I.R.A. man on the way to Larne. We gave him two in the back and one in the head. He is dead. This is in retaliation."

Item: "Five Protestant funerals, including that of an 83-year-old blind woman, in Belfast's city cemetery, had to be cancelled today after grave-diggers were threatened that they would be shot if they stayed."

One despairing British official says: "The killings have become impersonal and motiveless. It is simply a question of statistical revenge, one Protestant, two Catholics, or vice versa. And our own casualties go up because our soldiers are not only suffering from snipers but from bombs and booby traps."

The car-bomb is a relatively new phenomenon. Automobiles stuffed with explosives are left at unguarded points.

Sometimes television crews are tipped by phone that they should hasten to certain areas before the time-fuse clicks. It is getting to be like Saigon's Buddhist suicides-by-burning a decade ago when colleagues of priests about to immolate themselves notified the press in advance.

All kinds of private "armies" continue this sordid business although the vast majority of people on both religious sides have had enough. The Catholic I.R.A. provisions initiate bloodshed although the more revolutionary I.R.A. officials, who want a Marxist state in all Ireland, react to what they consider provocation.

Behind them are gangs like Saor Eire, or Free Ireland, which specialized in money-raising crimes in the republic to finance the I.R.A. Saor eire seems to be fading away.

Protestants are mainly organized into the Ulster defense association, a paramilitary group which runs a protection racket; the Ulster

Freedom Fighters, Ultra anti-Catholic activist; and the Ulster Volunteer Force, renewed for its killers, plus a handful of shadowy gangs. The U.V.F. is the main arms broker.

This violence is stirred up by tiny minorities on both sides, each benefiting from the new techniques of Urgan guerrilla manuals. But Europe's oldest religious war, a hangover from the 11th century, continues. A high British officer says:

"The West cannot win a campaign like this within the rules of ordinary civilized common law... you can only create a climate in which it is possible for the politicians to make a settlement." That is the object of the new political exercise.

Will it work? One wise Ulster Protestant says: "I wish I could get out of here for 20 years — then come back." Another adds: "We have no drug problem for our youth. How can there be? Violence is the opiate of the people."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Measles And Damage To The Brain

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please explain post measles on the brain? Some doctors said it could be working on a child's brain as long as seven years, then hit it at once leaving a child like a vegetable or causing death.

You can stop worrying about a child's brain being damaged seven years after having measles. If it is going to happen, it will happen in conjunction with the attack of measles or within a few days.

But measles can be dangerous. All these years it has been the usual thing to think of measles as "just one of the childhood diseases."

Usually, of course, youngsters recover readily from measles and that's the end of it. Sometimes, however, complications can develop that are truly dangerous.

The most serious is encephalitis — that is, the measles virus, instead of causing only the usual rash and itching, sets up inflammation in the brain. This can result in permanent brain damage. It also can be fatal. And that is doubtless what you refer to as "post measles."

It occurs in something less than one case in 100, but that is enough to warrant efforts to prevent it. Indeed, the development of measles vaccine wasn't especially necessary for the average child who gets over the disease readily. The vaccine was needed primarily for the sake of the ones who develop serious complications.

Measles encephalitis brings on symptoms anywhere from one to 14 days after onset of the disease — symptoms such as stupor, headache, vomiting, and stiff neck.

Once the brain is involved, about half the children will have a b n o r m a l electroencephalogram afterward, indicating that there has been permanent change in the brain.

The one means we have of preventing this sort of damage is vaccination, and if enough people will see that their children are vaccinated, ultimately we can be pretty well rid of measles entirely and the dangerous complications.

Vaccination against measles should be done at about the age of one year.

Dear Dr. Thosteson, I am a mother of four and never have had this problem before: I had a baby nine months ago and still have milk in my breasts. I did not breast-feed.

I took all the pills the doctor gave me to dry up the milk, and also used camphor.

My breasts don't bother me, but I've heard this can be pretty painful. Is there anything I can do? D B

Since medication hasn't worked, the use of a tight binder may help.

Breast milk production as you evidently know decreases when suckling ends. However it can take a variable amount of time, even in the same individual. As, also, you well know.

It is true that breasts can be painful under such circumstances but there's a difference between "can" and "will." Since you have no discomfort, I'd just wait it out and use a snug-fitting bra.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How often should a woman past 40 have a Pap smear test? I had a benign tumor removed from my breast 20 years ago. Would that make a difference? H. B.

After 40, a Pap test should be done every six to 12 months.

The breast surgery 20 years ago would make no difference.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble." It may be only minor, but it can be dangerous. Read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Your Kidneys: Facts You Need To Know About Them." Write to him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Writing about uric acid you used a figure of "9 milligrams per cent." Which did you mean? Nine milligrams or 9 per cent? T H U

Neither. Meant just what I wrote — but maybe, I should have explained. Such measurements as that are common in medicine, but the "percent" doesn't mean exactly what it means to you.

The phrase means "9 mg of uric acid per 100 cubic centimeters of blood."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Ever so often, our daughter, 22, gets blisters on her soles after a hard game of tennis or paddle ball. Is it possible to toughen the skin or wear certain kinds of socks or shoes — W. M.

Can do a bit of both. Blisters result from irritation. The type of sock she wears may be a factor. Cotton or wool would be less likely to cause trouble than nylon.

Shoes should be snug but not tight — a shoes that fits too loose can allow motion of the foot against the sole of the shoe, causing irritation and blistering.

Quite possibly painting the soles of the feet with tincture of benzoin, if done fairly regularly, will toughen the skin enough to help her, but make sure she's wearing the right footwear.

EMPHYSEMA Emphysema can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper, requesting a copy of the booklet, "How To Control Emphysema," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

All-Season Suit

Separate summer and winter wardrobes may be a thing of the past in the near future.

Latest news from the textile field is the development of a fabric which responds automatically to temperature changes. As the temperature rises, the fabric gets thinner and cooler; as the temperature drops, it increases in thickness and warmth.

The secret is in hollow filaments or pillow-shaped pockets in the fabric which hold liquids and gases. As the gases come out of the liquid under cooling temperature, the pockets expand. Then, when warmed, the gases dissolve back into the liquid and the pockets shrink to their original volume.

Although not yet on the market, the new fabric has many potential uses. A carpet underlay has been successfully tested, for example. Other possibilities are blankets that will be comfortable at any temperature or draperies that get heavier as the temperature outside the window cools.

Warm-cool clothing could be a boon to people like mountain climbers, who go through extreme temperature changes in a short time. They might also enjoy the comfort of tents and sleeping bags that get warmer as the night gets colder.

JAMES RESTON

Order Of Testimony Important Thing

(c) 1973 New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — How the Senate Watergate Committee handles its investigation in the coming days — particularly who it calls to the witness stand immediately after it finishes with John Dean III — can be of crucial importance to the opinion of the nation and the reputation of President Nixon.

Dean has made more serious charges against Nixon than any official has brought against any president in this century. Anticipating this, the White House has been urging that the Senate committee now call witnesses who are in a position to challenge Dean's testimony — and call them before the July Fourth recess rather than summoning other witnesses who are likely to follow Dean with confirmation of his charges.

This is a reasonable request. Without passing judgment on Dean's recollection of the events, and without trying to discredit his testimony or impugn his character — as the White House has been doing for days and weeks — the fact is that the selection of witnesses and the timing of their appearance before the national television audience can make a great deal of difference.

For example, if the Ervin committee were to call another witness after Dean who also incriminated Nixon in covering up the scandals and obstructing justice, or even if he didn't call any other witness before the long July Fourth holiday, Dean's testimony would tend to dominate public opinion well into July, by which time the vacation season would be on and the rebuttals would be heard by a different and smaller audience.

Dean has been an effective witness. He makes one wonder how such an intelligent and composed young man could have been so stupid, timid or weak during the cover-up. But in the Senate box, he has had total control of his brief, he has put down a foundation for his case that is an explosive minefield for the President, and he has been responsive to the questions of the Senators.

About the only mistake he made was that, by a slip of language, he crossed his I's and dotted his T's, but otherwise, by a torrent of details and almost total recall of meetings and dates — without keeping either a diary or even a calendar, he said — he led the doubts of the television audience right to the President's door, and was even bold enough to plead that the President should be "forgiven" — a startling word Nixon denied to those who had defied his policy on Vietnam.

No wonder then that the President's lawyers want his testimony to be followed by witnesses like John Ehrlichman or Bob Haldeeman, whom Dean was incriminated, so that Dean's story can be challenged before it sinks in over the Fourth of July holiday, and endures thereafter.

Still, there is a flaw in the White House argument, reasonable as it is. The White House, in order to get a fair hearing, does not have to rely on the good judgment of the Senate committee, and nobody has yet questioned the good faith of Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina.

The President is not exactly an innocent bystander in this controversy, and he is not without power. He doesn't have to leave the important question of the next witness and the doubts of the American people, to the Senate committee. He can command the stage, and in the process, overcome the committee any time he likes.

He knows all the options. The press is outside his gate at San Clemente, watching Dean on the TV-cutting him up, and being told the President will have nothing to say. He can call a press conference and command the headlines anytime he likes before the next witness.

He had told several stories about the espionage and the sabotage and the cover-up, all of which have now been denied by John Dean and others, who have questioned his control of his staff, his judgment, and even, by inference, his integrity.

This is not the sort of thing that can go out over national television, and be dealt with effectively by silence, or by picking the next witness before the Senate committee. Especially by an administration that has paid so much attention to public relations and public opinion.

If the President is so sure that he is innocent, that he is being misrepresented by John Dean, and vilified by a hostile press and television, he has an obvious remedy. He can come forward himself and offer voluntarily to give a deposition to the Watergate special prosecutor, or if he is really sure of his case and concerned about the reaction of the television audience, and wants to be bold and command public opinion, he can volunteer to be the next witness himself before the Ervin committee and the American people.

The chances are that he will do none of these things, neither answer the questions of the press, make a deposition to the prosecutors, or volunteer to appear before the Senate committee so the calling of the next witness is important.

John Dean has not knocked the President out, but he has hurt him badly. He has talked for hundreds of pages, and incriminated the President and many of the President's closest associates before one of the largest audiences in the history of television.

Accordingly, whatever the President does or refuses to do, the fact thing is to maintain some kind of continuity in the search for the facts. And this surely means calling Ehrlichman and Haldeeman as soon as possible to answer Dean's charges before the July Fourth recess, and before nobody remembers anything except what Dean had to say incriminating the President.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Could you tell me how many gallons it is to the next gas station?"

Floridian's future tied to hearings

By MILES BENSON
(c)Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward J. Gurney, the tall, square-jawed Republican from Florida, is marching resolutely out on a political limb for President Nixon in the Senate Watergate hearings.

And, as John W. Dean III has suggested, nobody had to tell him to do it.

A 50-year-old veteran of six years in the House, now serving his first term in the Senate, Gurney has been counting on his new-found prominence as a Watergate player to help him in his reelection race next year. He has been openly skeptical of presidential guilt in the Watergate scandal.

But Gurney found himself caught in an unexpected and unpleasant light this week when ex-presidential counsel Dean named him as the one member of the Watergate committee the White House could rely upon.

President Nixon himself, Dean testified, was "confident that Senator Gurney would protect the White House and would do so out of political instinct and not have to be persuaded to do so."

Gurney so far is the only member of the Senate committee whose political fortunes have apparently been damaged by the testimony of a witness — but he may not be hurt so much in Florida, a state where President Nixon seems to remain popular after polling 72 per cent of the vote last year.

Gurney hadn't even bothered to defend himself against Dean's statement, although he told a reporter during a break in the hearings Wednesday that he has had "not one single contact with the White House or the President in any shape or form" since the hearings began May 17. His staff hasn't either, Gurney said.

Earlier this month, it was learned, Gurney declined an invitation from President to appear with him at the Florida Technological University commencement exercises at Orlando, although the Senator later made a strong speech in the state criticizing the airing of unsubstantiated Watergate charges.

Facing Dean on Wednesday, 24 hours after hearing himself described as a virtual White House patsy, Gurney demonstrated he was undeterred by the earlier remarks. Ignoring them completely, Gurney began a probing, impassionate interrogation of the young attorney that devoured most of the day.

Leaning on Dean's credibility, Gurney had him recount the dispute over ethics that led to the loss of his first job with a Washington law firm, his use of $4,000 in campaign funds for his honeymoon and household expenses, and his maneuvering for immunity from prosecution.

But when Gurney began questioning Dean about his face-to-face meetings with the President concerning Watergate, Dean took the opportunity to put on the record a few more details about the President's manner and attitude on the Watergate cover-up.

Near the end of his questioning, Gurney suggested that Dean's conclusion that the President signaled awareness of the Watergate cover-up by congratulating him on "a very good job" at a meeting last Sept. 15 might be wrong.

Gurney suggested a more innocent interpretation: That the President was thanking Dean for what he assumed was a legitimate investigation he believed Dean had been making. When Dean pointed out that he also warned the President at that same meeting that "this thing" could still "unravel," Gurney replied: "I understand, and the record shows that and the facts show that. I'm just saying you and I have a different opinion on that point."

Gurney's posture may be winning him friends in places other than the White House. His staff reported a flood of lawyers who admired Gurney's style.

But one lawyer who disagreed was Dean's attorney, Charles N. Shaffer, who jumped out of his chair at one point to chastise Gurney for terming Dean's use of campaign funds for personal purposes as "embezzlement."

"I disagree with that," Shaffer said, leaning over Dean's shoulder toward the microphone. "I think there are enough lawyers in the room to know what embezzlement is, and I don't intend to take time out now unless the chair expressly asks me to, to make that definition."

Dean had testified that he replaced the missing funds initially with his personal check, although he had insufficient funds in the bank at the time to cover it.

More important to Gurney's future than his legal ability, however, is his political perception. At this stage of the unreeling Watergate serial, Gurney is clearly cast as a Nixon defender.

Gurney can expect strong Democratic opposition in a heavily Democratic state when he seeks reelection next year.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Dean III told Senate Watergate investigators today that he sometimes coordinated with John Ehrlichman on White House strategy toward protest demonstrations.

"As far as demonstrations are concerned, someone said Mr. Ehrlichman is like a Dalmatian at a fire. He just can't stay away from them," Dean added.

Dean losing immunity bid

WASHINGTON — For the third time in as many weeks, ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III has received a subtle but unmistakable signal from government attorneys conducting the grand jury investigation of the Watergate scandal.

The thrust of that message: The Justice Department has all but rejected Dean's highly publicized campaign to secure a guarantee of immunity from all prosecution in return for his willingness to serve as the prosecution's "star witness" at future Watergate trials. The most recent indication of the government's position came in United States District Court here, when Frederick C. LaRue, pleaded guilty to one charge of conspiracy in connection with the Watergate investigation.

Kimberly plans Good Neighbor Day

KIMBERLY — Pancakes, a parade and a play will be part of festivities when Kimberly is host for its second annual Good Neighbor Day July 21 at the town park.

The holiday, sponsored by the Kimberly Chamber of Commerce to draw attention to the East End and its residents, will begin at 6 a.m. with a pancake-ham breakfast expected to continue for several hours.

The day will conclude with an 8 p.m. outdoor presentation of "Medicine Wagon" by the traveling Antique Festival Theatre of Buhl.

Rev. James E. Keefe, Good Neighbor Day chairman, says all area residents are invited to join in the activities for all ages and estimated last year's event attracted some 500 persons.

A 10 a.m. parade-downtown has categories for kids with pets of decorated bicycles, riding groups, and float and antique car entries. Outstanding entrants will receive awards.

A bicycle race through town is set at 11 a.m.

This is a new feature for the day with Police Chief James Campbell in charge and overlooking speeders for a few minutes.

Afternoon diversions in the park range from relays and races to horseshoe pitching. A Kimberly youth baseball team will meet a visiting team at a 3:30 p.m. game. Also in the afternoon the volunteer fire department will stage a fire hose duel.

At 5:30 p.m. Boy Scouts will lower the flag they raised in the morning at a 7:30 a.m. ceremony.

Booths and displays will be set up in the park and anyone wishing to rent a space can contact Jessie Posy, Kimberly. The Prescott family will offer Sheldahl pony jumps, rides and a refreshment wagon.

Proceeds for the day will be added again this year to a fund for two town tennis courts. Charles T. "Conn" Standley, chamber president, is in charge of ticket sales.

TOPS winner

IDAHO STATE TOPS KING, Richard Pyne, 19, Twin Falls, left Wednesday for the International Take Off Pounds Sensibly Recognition Days competition in Milwaukee, Wis., Thursday through Saturday. Pyne, a journeyman electrician, is a member of TOPS ID 96, which meets Monday nights at the YMCA. He was awarded the state crown June 9 in Poncah after winning in local and division weight reducing competition. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo V. Pyne, Twin Falls.

BLM manager warns of extreme fire hazards

SHOSHONE — Caution is the word being heard most often throughout south central Idaho on the extremely dry range lands.

According to O'dell Frandsen, Shoshone district manager, the dry conditions have led to a rash of large fires which normally do not occur this early in the summer.

Within the last week, Bureau of Land Management personnel have fought seven fires which have burned a total of 5,300 acres of both private and national resource lands. The majority of these fires were caused by carelessness or someone's poor judgment. Cheatgrass, which is very abundant throughout the district, is almost explosive in its present state. One spark from a firecracker could start a fire destroying something in a matter of hours that it took nature and man many years and dollars to produce.

It will take everyone's effort this summer to prevent the tragedies which fires can create. The state law requires anyone who is planning on burning ditch rows, etc., have a burning permit. These can be obtained by calling 866-2373, or by stopping at the Shoshone District Fire Compound, east of the city of Shoshone. Additionally, anyone who sees a fire burning on or threatening public land, should report it by phoning the above number.

TWIN FALLS — The Disabled American Veterans and Auxiliary will meet at the DAV Hall at 8 p.m. Monday.

A thought for the day: In his last, dying words on March 8, 1887, clergyman Henry Ward Beecher said, "Now comes the mystery."

Chile army coup quashed

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — The army said today it had smashed a plot by members of the armed forces to overthrow Chilean President Salvador Allende.

Gen. Mario Sepulveda, commander of the Santiago province emergency zone, said the plot had been "totally aborted" with the arrest of several downranking military men.

Sepulveda declined to say whether civilians were involved or to identify the branches of the armed forces that participated in the effort to "break the nation's institutional process."

Sepulveda said the arrests were made Wednesday morning, a few hours before what the government described as the attempted assassination of the army's commander-in-chief, Gen. Carlos Prats.

Sepulveda revoked civilian gun permits in his first decree as emergency zone commander.

The charges of an assassination attempt against Prats began when a woman stuck out her tongue at Prats as he drove through the streets in a limousine. The incident — and his angry reaction — produced such an uproar that Allende declared the country's largest province an emergency zone and its 3.3 million people under military control.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've got this problem which is getting worse. I can't stand for a guy to touch me or kiss me.

I am a decent 18-year-old Mormon girl, and I've always wanted guys to notice me, but I never like one to hold my hand or try to kiss me. [It makes me sick to my stomach.]

I am going with a very respectable 21-year-old GI and I really like him a lot, but I don't want any physical contact with him because one thing always leads to another and I don't want to end up fighting him off.

This guy will probably drop me if I don't let him kiss me pretty soon, which I guess is why I'm writing to you. I don't want to lose him. Am I normal? Don't tell me to talk to a doctor. I just couldn't. He would think I am nuts. I would be very grateful for any advice you can give me.

TOUCH-ME-NOT

Touch me-not

DEAR TOUCH: It is normal to want to touch, kiss and embrace someone you like. For some reason you have denied and suppressed these normal feelings to such a degree that you won't permit yourself to feel them.

Discuss this with a doctor. He won't think you're "nuts." He will guide you in finding a counselor. When the reason for your "touch-me-not" attitude is unearthed, you'll have no problem.

DEAR ABBY: My husband says I dress like a missionary and look like an old lady because I think short skirts, skintight clothes and bare-bosom dresses look cheap on a woman my age. [I am 45. So is he.]

Stanley also is crazy about miniskirts, hot pants and boots, and that's what he would like to have me wear. I positively refuse. He says I have only a few good years left, so I should take advantage of them and dress like a "broad." I don't want to dress like a "broad." I want to dress like a lady.

The arguments we have over how I should dress have become so unpleasant I would rather stay home.

Abby, is there something wrong with my taste? Or is Stanley in the wrong? You always say a woman should try to please her husband, but I think he's unreasonable. Please help me.

NO BROAD

DEAR NO: I think your taste in clothes is far superior to your husband's, and he is unreasonable. Stick to your guns.

Carnival set

TWIN FALLS—The Magic Valley YMCA will sponsor an old-fashioned "Do It Yourself" carnival Friday at 7 p.m.

The carnival will be held in the parking lot area in front of the YMCA-YWCA building.

Families are encouraged to bring aluminum cans to boost construction of the YMCA-YWCA swimming pool.

All games will be five cents or ten aluminum cans. Every player will be a winner and get a prize.

MV students listed

POCATELLO—Eleven area students have been named to the Idaho State University College of Medical Arts Dean's List for outstanding achievement during second semester of the 1972-73 school year.

Those listed are nursing students, Sheryl M. Reinke, Hanna L. Akers, Haigerman, Patricia A. MacKay, Filer; Mary Ann Messenger, Jerome; Ann C. Harvey, Twin Falls; and Debbie Peters, Twin Falls.

Presidential hygiene, Marcella R. Bossert, Rupert; Marla Waite, Haigerman; speech pathology and audiology, Barbara Hartwell, Twin Falls; David S. Burks, Wendell; Rala Martens, Buhl.

Far too often, passersby will stand around as he works, making comments to each other. It's almost as if they think he is putting on a public performance. I realize that many people don't mean to be rude or annoying. Some even imagine they are flattering the artist by watching him, when, in fact, they are distracting and inhibiting him.

These same people would never glance over a composer's musical score as he worked or look over an author's shoulder as he wrote. Why haven't they the same respect for an artist?

The problem is how to handle these people without being rude or insulting. Perhaps just publishing this letter will help.

ARTIST'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Perhaps, but artists who work out-of-doors should realize that the out-of-doors belongs to everyone, and passersby cannot be blamed for showing normal curiosity.

DEAR ABBY: I work for an eye, ear, nose, and throat specialist and we have a sign in our waiting room which says "Feel Free to Smoke" and "Make the Doctor Rich."

That is far more effective than a "No Smoking" sign.

NURSE

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Now let's see what would have happened if West had not overcalled. When he led the queen of diamonds, South might still have played dummy's king but he might have let it come around to his ace. Then, when the second diamond was led, East would get a chance to trump a winner, not a loser.

Passengers, crew hit by epidemic

MIAMI (UPI) — A Coast Guard mercy flight dropped 36 pounds of paregoric to the cruise ship Skyward Thursday night to combat a diarrhea epidemic among the vessel's 1,000 passengers and crew.

The Skyward cut short a Caribbean tour Thursday morning when the ailment, first reported after a Monday stop at Cape Haitian, Haiti, spread to nearly everyone aboard the 525-foot ship as it cruised off the northern coast of the Dominican Republic.

Capt. Ragnar Johannessen, the ship's master, decided then to end the cruise, which began last Saturday in Miami, and return directly to the Skyward's home port of Miami.

The last stop on the seven-day tour had been scheduled at Nassau but the Skyward bypassed the Bahamas and steamed at its full speed of 19 knots for Miami, where it is expected to arrive early Saturday morning.

Doctors said nearly all of the 720 passengers and over half of the 300-man crew were suffering from diarrhea.

The Coast Guard amphibian plane at 9:05 p.m. EDT Thursday dropped a large quantity of commercial thirst quencher along with the paregoric to counter the dehydration that usually accompanies severe diarrhea.

An "additional determination" was to be made later today regarding the possible need for more medicine, the Coast Guard said.

The ship will be met by two doctors flown here from the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, and U.S. Quarantine Service officials headed by Francis Scally.

Scally said that while he is "sure the people aboard the ship are miserable," there was no cause for alarm or concern. He said the passengers and crew were getting good treatment from the ship's doctor, along with two physicians among the passengers.

Doctors at the Communicable Disease Center theorize outbreak was caused by some type of highly infectious intestinal virus.

Al Wolf, a spokesman for the Norwegian-Caribbean Cruise Lines, said quarantine officers at both San Juan, P. R., and St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, had checked the ship's food and water supply and had tentatively ruled out these as the probable cause of the outbreak.

Moon's shadow to darken Earth

NOUAKCHOTT, Mauritania (UPI) — The sun disappears behind the moon Saturday, casting a shadow across the earth's surface from Brazil to East Africa.

Recorded history's second longest solar eclipse has brought scientists and tourists from around the world to Africa to be directly in the path of totality of the seven-minute, four-second phenomenon.

The only longer eclipse lasted seven minutes and eight seconds in 1955.

In the Canary Islands, off the Atlantic Coast of Africa, the Franco-British supersonic transport Concorde was jammed with equipment to be used by teams of scientists who will chase the shadow across Africa.

A special window has been set in the roof of the Concorde so the scientists can have as complete a view of the eclipse as possible during their 85-minute exposure to the event.

The length of time of exposure for the plane is longer because it can stay in the path of the eclipse by traveling in the same direction as the sun.

In Kenya, where tribesmen think an eclipse means the coming of a drought or the end of the world, government officials and scientists have been assuring the tribal leaders that no harm will come from the eclipse.

On the shores of Lake Rudolf, Kenya, Simolo tribesmen think hundreds of scientists have come to their tiny village to "put out the sun."

The tribe believes the sun will reappear, but it fears a possible attack from a neighboring tribe, a famine, a drought or a plague of locusts as a result of the eclipse.

The same problems are being faced by government officials across Africa to combat tribal fears in areas where the shadow will move across the land.

Four Costello hearts repaired in one day

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Doctors were encouraged today after an operation to repair holes as big as silver dollars in the hearts of the Costello kids — three teen-aged brothers, age 14, 13 and 12 — and their four-year-old sister.

"The surgery went very well, with no complications," said Dr. Edward Stinson.

Stinson and fellow heart surgeon Dr. Norman Shumway performed two-at-a-time operations on the youngsters Thursday.

The boys "will be playing baseball better than ever in a couple of months," Stinson said. "The children should recover quickly and be able to lead more active lives."

But first David, 18, Richard, 15, Kevin, 13, and Karen, 4, must spend two or three days in intensive care at Stanford University Medical Center and an additional three to five days in the pediatrics ward before they can be discharged.

Ex-POW's widow blames military in his suicide

DENVER—(UPI) — The widow of Marine Sgt. Abel Larry Kavanaugh, a former POW who apparently killed himself Wednesday, blames the military for his death and says she will take legal action against the colonel who accused her husband of collaborating with his North Vietnamese captors.

Sandra Kavanaugh, pregnant with her second child, said Thursday she believed the charges, filed against Kavanaugh, 24, and seven other POW's, sent her husband over the edge.

"He went to Vietnam and the North Vietnamese kept him alive for five years. Then he came back to America and his own people killed him," she said, looking exhausted at a hastily arranged news conference at the home of her sister-in-law.

The former prisoner's death followed by several weeks the suicide of another POW, Air Force Capt. Edward Allan Brudno, who took an overdose of barbiturates in Harrison, N.Y. after being in a North Vietnamese camp for eight years.

Mrs. Kavanaugh said she hoped the "government" would now drop the charges against the other seven brought by Col. Theodore Guy, who was a high-ranking officer in their Hanoi prison camp, earlier this month.

She and her stepfather were sitting in the living room of his home Wednesday when they heard a shot. She ran into the next room and found her husband lying on the floor, a single bullet through his temple and a .25 caliber pistol lying underneath his body.

A doctor who examined Kavanaugh the morning of his death said he seemed "pretty depressed," and he reportedly had told friends, days before "You won't see me again."

Coroner's officials said they thought it was a suicide but Adams County District Attorney Guy Marks said Kavanaugh could have been killed trying to fix a jammed pistol. "I blame Col. Guy and the Pentagon for his death," said Mrs. Kavanaugh, who has a five-year-old daughter and is expecting a second child in January. "Without their insistent pursuing of these fictitious charges, my husband would be here today."

"I do not intend to let them end with his death. I plan to start legal action against Col. Guy and others in the military for causing the death of my husband."

She said her husband, who was captured in April, 1968, was to have returned to the base at Pendleton, Calif., today

Germans revalue mark up

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The revaluation of the German mark prevented a potential crisis within the European Common Market, a Market spokesman said today.

Finance ministers of the nine Common Market nations will meet here Monday to assess the impact of the revaluation, the spokesman said. He added that Bonn had told both the Common Market's executive commission and the other eight Market nations of the revaluation before it was officially announced.

"The revaluation has saved the joint float of our European currencies," the spokesman said. "It has prevented a crisis."

Since March 16, the parities of the six of the nine Common Market currencies have been floating in unison against the U.S. dollar, but recent upward pressure on the mark had threatened to rip the German currency out of the relationship into an uncontrolled upward rise.

Connected

NASSAU-PARADISE ISLAND, the Bahamas (UPI) — The installation of a telegraph cable in 1882 between Florida and New Providence Island resulted in the Nassau terminal point being dubbed Cable Beach. A new 223-mile submarine cable linking Nassau/Paradise Island to the United States made its debut last December, bringing improved service to and from the islands.

Millions may starve in drought-stricken Africa

ROME (UPI) — Experts differ on how many millions of people face starvation in a drought-stricken belt of countries bordering the Sahara, but they agree on one thing—unless large-scale help arrives soon it will be one of Africa's great tragedies.

The six-year drought has plagued the six former French colonies that make up the Sahel, an arid belt stretching 2,500 miles south of the vast desert in northwest Africa.

"Out of a total population of 25 million, it is estimated that about five or six million are now in a state of indigence never experienced before, and many risk starving to death," Dr. Vikram Shah, an official of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), said in a Vatican radio interview Thursday.

Oumarou Youssoufou, Niger's U.N. ambassador, said in a New York television interview the figure was outdated. Niger is one of the stricken countries.

"Two months ago, the FAO said six million people are facing starvation," he said. "Today, we are talking of 10 million people, at least."

Niger, along with Senegal, Mali, Mauritania, Upper Volta and Chad—among the world's poorest countries—have had insufficient rainfall for six years and the drought is now approaching disaster proportions despite reports of some rain beginning to fall in the Upper Volta and Niger region.

Vikram Shah acknowledged the difficulty of assessing the number of persons facing possible death.

"Their number is hard to determine with certainty because most of these people either live in remote areas or are nomads," he said.

Drug firm leader missing

CHICAGO (UPI) — Melvin Zahn, 34, president of the nation's largest independent wholesale drug company, was missing under mysterious circumstances today and believed kidnapped.

Louis Zahn, Melvin's father and chairman of the Louis Zahn Drug Co., said Thursday night, "We have received a couple of phone calls, but we don't know where we stand. I have nothing more to report."

Zahn disappeared Wednesday night after he left the firm's warehouse in suburban Melrose Park about 6:15 p.m. As he left he told a guard to call his wife, Judith, and "tell her I'll be home in 25 minutes."

He never arrived home.

A witness told police Thursday he saw Zahn arguing with another man in Franklin Park a few minutes after Zahn left work. The witness, who police declined to identify, said he saw Zahn get out of his car and meet another man—who got out of a second car. Two men remained in the second car, the witness said.

About five hours after Zahn's disappearance, someone telephoned his father and said: "We've got your son. Go to Chicago and Ridgeland, and you will find instructions under the mailbox."

Zahn drove to the area, but found no instructions.

Animal feed exports cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration has taken the "drastic action" of slashing exports of two important animal and poultry feeds in an effort to head off U.S. food shortages. Spokesmen said when they announced the step Wednesday they hoped it would help persuade producers to stop destroying baby chicks and vital breeding animals.

Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent ordered an immediate export embargo on soybeans, cottonseeds and their meal and oil products at 3 p.m. MDT Wednesday. The embargo will be followed July 2 by a licensing system allowing exports to resume at a controlled rate.

By regulating the outflow of these two commodities, both vital components of livestock feed, the administration hopes to increase the supply of feed available to American farmers and thus drive down prices.

Soybean meal prices, for example, are more than 300 per cent higher than a year ago. In the two weeks since President Nixon froze all wholesale and consumer prices, farmers have argued that they have been caught in an intolerable squeeze — it costs more than ever to feed the livestock but the freeze limits what the public can pay for meat and poultry and, thus, what the farmer can earn.

The result, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz told reporters, was a "creeping paralysis" where farmers were drowning day-old chicks rather than bearing the expense of raising them and perhaps taking a loss at marketing time. Hogs are being sent to market now rather than being held back for breeding purposes to boost next year's supplies, he said.

"The export embargo was 'drastic action' designed to reverse that situation, Butz said. He indicated that President Nixon gave the final go ahead.

In a related action, the Cost of Living Council expanded its ceiling price coverage to cover futures trading in soybean products, frozen pork bellies, copper, silver and other important commodities but left it to the various commodity exchanges to determine the exact ceiling price levels.

The administration has asked Congress for more flexible authority to control exports in the future but Dent said the feed grain shortage was so critical that it met the more stringent standards required to limit exports under existing legislation.

"These controls have been imposed because of the extremely tight supply situation in these commodities until the (1973) soybean crop is harvested," he said.

"Whether controls will be necessary after that time will depend on the amount of the harvest, the level of export demand and the level of prices in the United States."

If limiting soybean and cottonseed exports causes a surge in export orders for corn, that commodity may be controlled, too, Dent added. Agriculture officials had hoped to put off their decision on export controls until mid-July, when more complete reports on the 1973 plantings became available.

But they were forced into immediate action based on figures also released Wednesday that showed the export level of soybeans running far higher than expected. Beans were running 8 per cent above earlier estimates and bean meal, 27 per cent higher.

As of June 13, 92 million bushels of soybeans were scheduled for shipment abroad by Aug. 31, the end of the current marketing year. At least a portion of that amount now will be retained in the United States to protect farmers.

Soybean custard

PROFS. L. S. Wei, left, and M. P. Steinberg, right, University of Illinois at Champaign, helped develop "pleasant tasting" soybean foods. They served samples of soybean custards, yogurt, cheese dips, ice cream and milk at a news conference in Chicago. They say their process removes the oily bean flavor and uses the complete bean, pulp and all. (UPI).

No food shortages seen

By MATHIS CHAZANOV
United Press International

There will be no massive food shortages across the nation this year, according to a survey by United Press International, but beef, chicken and fruit may be in short supply—and expensive.

Farmers, ranchers and orchardmen complained they could not sell their produce because the current 60-day freeze fixed food prices below production costs, and distributors and processors cannot pay them enough to make a profit.

"Processors and buyers of raw agricultural products are holding out because of the imposed retail freeze and some products may not be harvested as a result," said Alan Grant, president of the California Farm Bureau.

"Broiler and egg producers are cutting back because of operating losses," he said. "Meat and dairy commodities may be similarly affected, and the overall result could be less food for public consumption."

Despite the industry's arguments, however, the government's Cost of Living Council Wednesday ruled that chicken producers won't be allowed to raise prices, industry sources said.

A key factor in meat and poultry prices is soybean meal, the export of which was halted in an emergency move Wednesday—"because of the extremely tight supply situation," according to Commerce Secretary Frederick Dent.

In Independence, Iowa, Louis Sandhouf, president of Corn

Blossom Foods, said the firm's three meat packing plants are "caught in the squeeze on price ceilings" and will close within the week.

"We are forced to pay more to buy meat to process than we can get out of the product," he said.

"Egg rancher Marshall Ellis of Riverside, Calif., said, "If we can't purchase feed, we will then have to either kill them or let them starve. And if we reduce our stock, we will have to reduce our staff on the ranch."

There were reports of chicks slaughtered or eggs destroyed in Mississippi, Missouri, Washington state, Georgia and Texas.

A new soybean crop would go far to make the feed shortage problem less serious, according to R.L. Hodges of the Texas Extension Service, but he said it would not come before early August.

However, he added, "I doubt it will help the overall feed situation very much. The demand is so far ahead of the supply."

Eighteen months ago soybean prices were $3 to $3.50 a bushel. They have since climbed to $6 a bushel and even higher in some areas. In Tokyo, the prices of soybeans went up by more than $7 after the U.S. export ban was announced.

"The price freeze will hurt the fruit and vegetable market, according to O.W. Fillerup, a spokesman for the Council of California Growers, producers of much of the nation's crop.

Tomatoes, carrots, potatoes and grapefruit were at low price levels during the week the freeze was imposed, he said, and "now, producers of high quality products aren't allowed to receive what their products are worth in the open market."

TWIN FALLS—Heavy feeder steers and heifers were 50 cents to 1.00 lower with other classes steady at the Twin Falls Livestock Commission Co. on Wednesday.

Good to high choice steers sold 42.50-46.00; standard to low good 39.50-44.00; utility steers 37.00-42.00; fed Holstein steers 39.50-42.00; good to choice heifers 39.50-44.00; standard to low good heifers 37.00-41.50; utility heifers 35.00-41.00; commercial and standard cows 33.00-35.50; utility cows 31.50-34.00; canners and cutters 26.00-

"The end result of this manipulation is turmoil in the marketing and production of these products," he said. "This can easily lead to food shortages if producers are driven out of business—and that is a distinct possibility."

Some areas reported no shortages or fears of shortages, among them Kansas, where a record wheat harvest is going smoothly, according to a state spokesman. Fears that a shortage of gasoline would interfere with harvesting have not been borne out, he said.

U of I receives research grant

MOSCOW — The University of Idaho has been awarded a $21,000 grant to help combat vibriosis, a major disease which causes abortion in sheep.

Dr. Richard Hall, extension and research veterinarian at Caldwell, said the grant is provided by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Animal Disease Laboratory at Ames, Iowa.

Hall said the grant is to provide financial help in developing a test using hamsters to determine whether or not batches of vibriosis vaccine will be effective on sheep. There is presently no way to check the vaccine's effectiveness before use, he said.

Hall, who will be in charge of the research project, said the work will be done at the veterinary research laboratory of the university's Caldwell Branch Experiment Station.

Consumers face poultry shortage

By LUCINDA L. FRANKS
United Press International

Housewives may soon be unable to find enough milk, chicken, and eggs in their supermarkets. Drastic cuts in poultry flocks and the production of other foods are already under way and a food shortage seems probable within the next few months.

Congressmen from the farm bloc said Thursday that the threat to consumer supplies posed by the production cuts will not ease until the administration replaces the current price freeze with more flexible Phase IV controls allowing some increases in food prices.

The lawmakers told a House Agriculture Subcommittee meeting the administration's cutback Wednesday on livestock feed exports—soybeans and cottonseed—may ease pressures on livestock feed costs but would probably not be enough to reverse the liquidation of poultry flocks.

Rep. Abraham Kazen, D-Tex., said poultrymen are still in a crunch between frozen selling prices and feed costs so high as to make losses a certainly under current conditions. Unless the freeze is lifted immediately, there will be shortages of chickens and eggs in a few months, he said.

"It may not be welcome news to consumers that they may have to pay more for some foods, but if the choice is between slight increases in prices or food famines, I think I know what people would prefer," he said.

A Cost of Living Council spokesman told Kazen the administration was driving toward announcement "as soon as possible" on new controls to replace the freeze but he did not elaborate.

In addition to poultry, production of milk, hogs, flour, and some fruits are also dropping as a result of the price ceilings which means that when the 60-day freeze is up, prices will skyrocket.

The National Association of Food Chains said several plants owned by soybean and corn oil suppliers were closing down because their stores of soybeans had been exhausted and the farm price of corn was too high to allow a profit on corn oil at its current fixed price.

The American Soybean Association warned the Nixon administration's export crackdown would boomerang against livestock producers. It said soybean growers, who have indicated they plan to expand acreage to new record levels this year, now may scale back their plans in some cases.

News of the soybean embargo sent leaders of the European Common Market into emergency session Thursday to determine what effect it would have on European markets. Britain's National Farmers Union said it would seriously effect the production of poultry and pigs.

In Japan, the price of soybeans went up sharply in response to the ban.

Meanwhile, The Federal Trade Commission told Congress it was actively investigating allegations that antitrust violators in the food industry have contributed to spiraling food prices.

Holiday costume

RAY VALINE, known for wearing Santa Claus and Easter Bunny costumes on his garbage route, calls attention to the upcoming Independence Day holiday by donning an Uncle Sam costume and painting his collection barrel with the colors of the flag. Valine also passed out balloons and candy to hundreds of delighted children on his route. (UPI)

Garbageman dresses up for holiday

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The week before Christmas, Ray Valine, a dobonaire Sacramento garbageman, collected trash along his route in a Santa Claus suit.

The week before Easter he wore an ear-flopping rabbit costume and passed out candy to hundreds of children from an Easter basket.

Thursday he trimmed his beard, donned a foot-high top hat and passed out July 4th balloons to the delight of hundreds of youngsters along his collection route.

"Don't I look better than that old man sitting there with that vicious finger sticking out," Valine said between handing out balloons and hoisting garbage into the back of his large white truck.

Valine, 26, a county trashman for three years, also painted his large collection barrel with the colors of the flag and decorated his truck with balloons and posters as part of his Independence Day antics.

"First he was Santa Claus, then the Easter bunny, and now Uncle Sam," said one young housewife along Valine's route. "He's one weird garbageman."

Valine, somewhat a folk hero to the children on his route, admits his fellow garbagemen consider him "eccentric," but his customers love it, especially the children.

"I have all types of people, say they like what I'm doing; that there should be more people in the world with free balloons," Valine said. "I figure myself as a public relations man for the entire garbage world."

Valine received so much publicity on his Santa and bunny ventures that he is now featured on a poster pushing trash recycling manufactured by a local firm.

"I'm advocating recycling," the young garbageman said. Then, pushing his palm into the center of his back, he added: "I see thousands of tons of garbage every day."

Soybean export scale reduced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government officials planning to allocate soybean supplies between foreign and domestic users from now through August may cut previously scheduled exports down by 20 million bushels or more, informed administration sources indicated today.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carroll G. Brunthaver noted in a speech that administration action this week to limit exports of soybean and cottonseed products was touched off by surveys showing exporters planned shipments—between now and the end of August—of 92 million bushels of soybeans and 2.2 million tons of soybean meal.

"This level of exports would run the U.S. completely out of soybeans by the end of August and leave U.S. livestock industries short of their needs by more than a million tons of soybean meal," Brunthaver said.

Don Paarlberg, the Agriculture Department's chief economist, added that in order to assure adequate supplies for U.S. users until the new crop is harvested, it will be necessary to scale the projected export shipments back by an "appreciable" amount.

Paarlberg declined to say just how deep the cut will be. But other sources said that when the Commerce Department announces export allocations Monday, the projected 92 million bushel soybean export figure is likely to be scaled back by at least 20 million bushels and perhaps more.

The export control was ordered to reduce livestock feed costs and protect U.S. consumers by heading off threatened production cuts in meat, poultry, eggs and milk. But it drew a sharp counter-attack from a soybean producer spokesman who warned it would boomerang against livestock raisers and consumers.

Harold Kuehn, president of the American Soybean Association, said the export crackdown would reduce the potential 1973 soybean harvest. Kuehn said soybean growers, who have indicated they plan to expand acreage to new record levels this year, now may scale back their plans in some cases.

Vegetable crop production up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Production of vegetable crops for canning and freezing this year may be up 9 per cent from last year and 15 per cent above 1971, but the increase may not produce any significant price relief for consumers.

The report of more production came from the Agriculture Department which said 1973 acreage intended or already planted to 9 major processing vegetables is estimated at 1,786,430 acres, up 7 per cent from last year. With normal growing conditions and an expected increase in per-acre yields, total production could reach 11.1 million tons, up 9 per cent from last year, the department said.

Canning industry spokesmen earlier, however, had said they were paying higher prices this year to farmers who produce their crops under contract arrangements. And a National Cannery Association expert added today that a new survey of canned vegetable stocks shows that carryover supplies on hand when 1973 crops came in will be down sharply from a year earlier.

For "canned seasonal vegetables," the expert said stocks on hand this summer will be down to 9.7 million cases compared with 36.8 million cases last summer and 41.5 million two years ago.

"What's more, the carryover will be limited to a few items. For most others, canners will have exhausted their stocks by the time the new pack begins," the industry spokesman added.

The nine crops covered in the Agriculture Department's acreage report included green lima beans, snap beans, beets for canning, sweet corn, cucumbers for pickling, green peas, tomatoes, cabbage for kraut and spinach.

Planted acreage of spinach was unchanged from a year earlier and cucumbers for pickling were down 2 per cent. For the other crops, however, increases ranged from 2 per cent for sweet corn to 10 per cent for tomatoes, 24 per cent for snap beans, and 39 per cent for cabbage.

European citizens discuss Watergate

By United Press International

Here is what some of Europe's best known politicians, editors, professors and lawyers are saying about the two days of Watergate hearings. The comments were gathered by United Press International correspondents across the continent.

Michael Stewart, British foreign secretary in the former Labor party government: "One is bound to concede that these developments (the Senate hearings in general and former presidential counsel John W. Dean III's testimony in particular) have affected the President's authority. One cannot, of course, make a final judgment until we have heard what Mr. Nixon himself has to say. But, as things stand at present, his position is clearly weakened."

Georges Bidault, former French foreign minister: "People talk more about Watergate in France than in the United States. (But) there is a very good French saying—sweep up your own doorstep first."

Samir Atallah, foreign editor of Beirut's An Nahar newspaper: "I feel Dean's testimony is genuine. In this case, Mr. Nixon should not wait for impeachment, he should resign."

Henri Goeman Borgessius, editor of the De Telegraaf newspaper in The Hague: "I felt shocked because the President's closest collaborators are trying to abandon him. It points to (their) lack of character. At the same time, the choice of collaborators has made (it) frightening."

Heinrich Lummer, head of the Christian Democratic bloc of the West Berlin House of Representatives: "Europe, especially Berlin, has an interest in having an American President who commands respect and authority. Therefore, we hope that President Nixon comes out of the Watergate affair without serious damage."

Francisco Dutra Faria, director of the Portuguese news agency ANI: "The importance which was given to the case...is proof, I think, that it is a prefabricated affair by groups interested in an international policy opposed to the Nixon policy."

Luciano Giovannini, retired professor at the University of Rome: "It really doesn't interest me now what or how much Nixon knew. This is part of all politics. The main concern now should be to get it over with."

Steta Ljubisavljevic, foreign editor of the Belgrade newspaper Politika: "We don't have enough elements to get a clear picture of everything. But it is obvious that something is not all right. This is a matter involving a chief of state, and you have to stick to proven facts."

China builds N weapons

LONDON (UPI) — Defense sources said today China has made considerable strides toward perfecting its nuclear weapons development in Peking's determination to break the superpowers' so-called nuclear monopoly.

The sources said the latest Chinese nuclear explosion showed "growing sophistication" in friggering the explosion.

Peking was believed determined to achieve a more convincing nuclear power status as quickly as possible to be able to stand up to the superpowers and to deal with Russia from nuclear strength in any crisis developments as well as in any possible moves towards a settlement of their conflict.

The timing of the nuclear explosion coming after the summit between President Nixon and Soviet Party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev appeared a significant reminder that Peking must be reckoned with. The summit had been set weeks ahead and its date was known to Peking well in advance.

The International Institute for Strategic Studies said China has its own resources of natural uranium and the plant for its enrichment to weapons-grade.

It may have accumulated sufficient fissile material for about 150 fusion and fission weapons.

It also said that a modest force of medium-range and intermediate-range rockets with ranges sufficient to reach Moscow and most parts of Asia may be deployed and under the control of the Chinese Army's missile arm.

Defense reports suggested that the Chinese are currently rushing the development of Inter-Continental Ballistic Missiles (ICBM) with ranges of 3,500-5,000 miles. The Institute reported that an "instrumentation ship" which could be used for monitoring ICBM tests in the Indian or Pacific Oceans has been built.

There also have been unconfirmed reports that China is developing a super missile—a three-stage ICBM larger than the Soviet SS9 rockets.

The defense sources said soft sites have been partly replaced by concrete missile silos, some placed in caves in the Pamir mountains of Western China for intermediate range missiles.

Experts said that China appears to have overtaken France in the nuclear weapons development sphere.

Conspirators plotted to use CIA as 'goat'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt testified privately today about an alleged plot by defendants to blame the Central Intelligence Agency for the break-in and bugging of Democratic national headquarters. Dressed in a business suit and appearing fit, Hunt was escorted into the House Armed Services Intelligence subcommittee hearing room for his first public appearance since he was sentenced March 23 by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

Rep. Larkin Nedzi, D-Mich., the subcommittee chairman, asked Sirica to let Hunt testify today.

The subcommittee heard four hours of testimony last Friday from another convicted Watergate conspirator, James W.

McCord Jr. His appearance was not announced in advance and he could not be reached later for comment.

Nedzi said then, however, that McCord stated, as he had earlier at a public session of the Senate Watergate Committee, that Hunt and other Watergate defendants planned to claim they acted on behalf of the CIA during the raids.

Testimony by McCord and other witnesses in the series of hearings conducted by the House subcommittee have not produced any evidence linking the CIA with the break-in, Nedzi said.

Nedzi said he does not know whether McCord's claim that the conspirators and their attorneys wanted to use the CIA as a cover was true.

Nedzi said McCord was a cooperative witness who was "not suffering from the amnesia" that has affected other Watergate defendants.

Besides Hunt, Nedzi said the subcommittee planned to subpoena Charles W. Colson, former special White House counsel, and hoped to hear testimony by Gerald Aich, McCord's former lawyer.

If you're planning a driving vacation this summer, the gasoline shortage has to figure in your plans.

Different areas of the country will experience different degrees of shortage this summer. Just as they are now. From mild to fairly severe.

So, depending on where you are at any given time on your vacation, you won't know what the situation is up the road. Some stations may have all the gasoline you can take on. Others may be limiting the number of gallons they will sell to each motorist. And still others may be out completely.

Some stations may close early to stretch their supply—or not open at all on some days. Others will be running at their normal hours.

We're producing more gasoline than ever before but there's just not enough to go around. So we are allocating our supply to our dealers on a monthly basis as fairly as we know how. We will be delivering gasoline to our dealers all summer long but to stretch their supply, they may find that some of the above measures are necessary.

But all this doesn't mean the situation is so unpredictable that you should give up your trip. We do urge you to exercise a little consideration when you choose a vacation spot though. And a little care in getting there.

Here are some tips we suggest:

Fill your tank in the morning. That's when stations are most likely to have gasoline. Some stations will sell only so many gallons per day, and then close early.

Also try to be off the road early. You don't want to be on the road late at night if the stations in that area have shortened their hours.

Think about keeping your tank at least one-quarter full. That way, you'll have a reserve in case you come across a station that can't supply you.

There are also many things you can do to conserve gasoline along the way, and get more miles to the gallon.

Make sure your car is in tune before you leave. A tuned car will get about 10% better gas mileage than one that is out of tune.

High-speed driving is hard on mileage, so slow down. If you drive 50 mph instead of 60 mph, you can save about one gallon in ten.

Try to maintain a steady speed. You'll get better mileage than if you constantly speed up and slow down. For example, passing a line of cars on a two-lane highway may get you there a little sooner, but the extra acceleration means your car is going to gulp a lot more gasoline.

If you tow a boat or trailer, uphill climbs cut into your gas mileage heavily. Build up your speed before you reach the hill, so your engine doesn't have to work as hard on the way up.

Use your air conditioner sparingly. When it's running, you get less mileage per gallon.

All of us at Amoco hope these tips will be helpful to you this summer. And that your vacation is an enjoyable one.

Bible camp program set

TWIN FALLS — The Conservative Baptist Summer Bible Camp program will open Sunday at Warm Lake, 28 miles east of Cascade.

Junior boys camp program will be held July 1 through 7 while the junior girls camp program is set for July 8 through 14. Other dates include Junior High groups, 15 and 21 and senior high, July 22 through 28.

Rev. Kenneth Himple, pastor of the Tyler Street Baptist Church, Twin Falls, is camp director for the junior boys camp and will be assisted by Phil Lively, Gene Hoisingartner, Howard Waterman, Ken Johnson, Dan Olson, Pat Wilson and Larry Hebebrand as camp counselors.

Pastor Larry Hebebrand will be camp teacher and Mrs. Hebebrand will be the camp nurse. Mrs. Joe Sparks will be head cook and Dana Shinkle, Nancy Gribbs, Gail Kerby and Bonnie Sparks will assist in the kitchen.

Rev. and Mrs. Bill Winters from Africa and their four children will serve as camp missionaries.

The newly purchased bus will leave the Tyler Street Church at 12:30 p.m. Sunday. Each camper is asked to bring a sack lunch and drink for the trip to camp. There are 31 boys scheduled to leave Twin Falls Sunday. Additional information is available by calling 733-1919.

Boys attending the first camp session are Alan and John Layton, Kenneth and

Drive-in rites

TWIN FALLS — The First Christian Church will hold drive-in services Sunday at the Motor-Vu Drive-In Theatre.

Rev. Cosmas White of St. Benedict's Student Center and Priory will give the sermon — "Charismatic versus Institutional Church." Mitzie Sweet will be the pianist and special music will be provided by The Benedictines.

Church briefs

TWIN FALLS — The Episcopal Church Thrift Shop will be closed Tuesday and Wednesday July 4. The thrift shop is located in the church basement at 210 Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

KIMBERLY — Members of the Kimberly Redeemer Lutheran Church will meet for a picnic on the church grounds immediately after the 11 a.m. service. Those attending should bring hot dishes, salads or desserts and table service.

Games will be provided. TWIN FALLS — Irvin Byers and family will sing at the Faith Assembly of God Church at 11 a.m. Sunday. The public is welcome.

TWIN FALLS "Christian Science" is the subject for the lesson sermon Sunday at the Christian Science Church, 160 9th Ave. E. "The Truth Shall Make You Free" is the title of the program on KTFI radio at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Local members to attend meet

TWIN FALLS — A number of local members of Jehovah's Witnesses, will be attending the International conventions of the Witnesses July 11 to 15 in Oakland, Calif.

The Watchtower Bible and Track Society of New York announced plans for the international conventions of 1973.

James D. Shaw, spokesman for the Twin Falls group, said several convention sites have been set up and some local delegates will also be attending meetings in Detroit, Chicago, Los Angeles, New York, Houston, Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Philadelphia or Miami. Mr. Shaw said six Spanish language conventions are also scheduled in the United States and there will be conventions in South and Central America, Africa and other foreign countries.

"Tens of thousands of delegates will be attending these conventions all over the world," Shaw said. "And regardless of national origin, race, cultural background they will be uniting to build their faith and appreciation in God and His word, the Bible."

Freedom girls

CHERIE ANDERSON, Jan Bartlett and Cindy Warren (left to right) will dance as members of the Freedom Girls at a performance of "Stop the World — It's Time to Get Off" Saturday at 9 p.m. at Bruin Stadium. The dance festival is being sponsored by the Mutual Improvement Association of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints.

Young LDS dancers set festival Saturday in TF

TWIN FALLS — Over 600 young dancers from six LDS Magic Valley Stakes will perform in a festival at Bruin Stadium at Twin Falls High School on Saturday, June 30, at 9 p.m.

The dancers, from the Burley, Minidoka, Cassia, Blaine, Gooding and Twin Falls Stakes of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, will perform "Stop the World — It's Time to Get Off," written by Beverly Sturgill.

The dance festival, sponsored by the Mutual Improvement Association of the LDS Church, is under the direction of Dan and Willa Dean Nielsen, regional directors from Twin Falls.

According to Dan Nielsen, the dancers, boys and girls aged 14 to 22, will perform the Pop, the Charleston, the Swing and Square, the Samba, the Cha Cha, the International and the All Girls Dance.

Debbie Skinner will portray the Angel and Ken Nielsen will dance the part of Gabriel. LaVerg Thornock is Priesthood Advisor.

Following the performance in Twin Falls, the youngsters will go to Boise July 4 to join more than 2,500 dancers for a performance in Bronco Stadium.

The Twin Falls performance is free, and the public is invited.

A dance for participants will be held on the grass following the performance with the Earthwoods band entertaining.

Sterling Larson gets LDS post

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls couple, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Larson, are now residing in Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, Canada, where they have accepted a new position with the LDS Church.

In the Moose Jaw assignment, Larson is president of the LDS Branch, a post similar to bishop of an LDS ward in this area.

Larson advised he is called a minister in Canada and as president of the branch is in charge of about 110 members of the church there with a small new chapel. Prior to going to Moose Jaw, the Twin Falls couple did mission work in Canada with Indians in the Mosquito and Red Pheasant reserves.

For several years the Larsons headquartered in Salt Lake City where they worked with the Foreign Study League, traveling extensively in Europe with groups of students during summer study programs. They still maintain a home in Twin Falls and a ranch on the Snake River.

The Larsons have two sons and a daughter. Sterling Bryant is in Salt Lake City, Keith who resides in Scottsdale, Ariz., and DeAnna in Palo Alto, Calif.

Snakes, singing slated

NEWPORT, Tenn. (UPI) — About 400 persons are expected to gather here Sunday for the national convention of the snake-handling Holiness Church of God in Jesus Name.

The convention will be held on the grounds of the church at Carson Springs, just outside Newport, according to the pastor of the church, the Rev. Laston Pack.

"There will be singing, preaching and shouting, and we will also handle snakes and fire if the Lord is willing," Pack said.

Ruling crushing defeat to parochial schools

By JACK C. LANDA, (c) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — For the second time in two years, the supreme court has handed a crushing constitutional defeat to the nation's struggling religious school systems caught in a vise between sharply increasing costs and rapidly decreasing enrollments.

Leading private school spokesmen are dejected and pessimistic about the 6-3 and 8-1 supreme court rulings which outlawed virtually every suggested plan promising any substantial financial aid to non-public schools.

State tuition reimbursements and tax credits, state aid for building maintenance and repairs and state grants for administration recording keeping are included.

"It looks pretty bad. It's quite a comprehensive decision," said Ivan Zylstra, a spokesman for Citizens Relief for Credit by Income Tax (CREDIT) the leading organization lobbying for federal tax credits. Credit represents 96 per cent of all private schools in the nation.

"I don't think there's much hope left," said Zylstra, who added that the decision will also take the pressure off the Congress to pass a federal tax credit plan for parochial school parents.

The House Ways and Means Committee passed a federal tax credit bill last year. In this session the bill is still in a subcommittee.

Rev. John Meyers, acting president of the National Catholic Educational Association, which represents the nation's 10,500 Roman Catholic primary and secondary schools, said the NCEA was "extremely disappointed" with the decision.

He said the decision "will make it very difficult for people to support their non-public schools" and will set up a "monolithic (public) educational system."

The Rev. John Brodeweg, director of government relations for NCEA, was more succinct, saying the decisions were a "wipe out." And a former high NCEA officer commented, "It's doomsday." The Catholic school system was 90 per cent of the religious school enrollment and 80 per cent of all non-public school enrollment with 3.5 million children in primary and secondary schools.

It has been losing enrollment at a rate of about 6 per cent a year and, in some smaller parishes, whole parochial school systems have just shut down because of increased costs and enrollment losses.

While the enrollment decrease started gradually a decade ago, it was accelerated by a supreme court decision two years ago.

The court ruled then that states could not make direct grants to parochial schools in the form of salaries for teachers instructing in non-religious subjects.

Buhl plans Sagebrush Days events

By PAULINE DAY
Times-News writer

BUHL. — The annual Buhl Sagebrush Days celebration will begin Saturday with a queen caravan through Magic Valley, according to Calvin Wilde, general chairman.

The caravan will leave Buhl at 10 a.m. and travel to Hagerman, Bliss, Gooding, Wendell, Jerome and Twin Falls. The contestants will be interviewed at 1 p.m. at KLIX radio and will stop at the Holiday Inn, Twin Falls, for luncheon and television interviews.

Sunday the first and second games of the American Legion Junior Baseball tournament are slated for 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. at Paris Field in Buhl. At 7 p.m. Monday the rodeo queen contestants will compete in horsemanship competition at the Buhl rodeo arena.

The baseball tournament will continue at 8 p.m. Monday with the final game scheduled for 8:15 p.m. the same evening. At 7 p.m. Monday rodeo queen contestants will be honored at a buffet at the Buhl Moose Home where they will be judged on poise and personality.

The public is invited to attend the buffet and meet the contestants, according to Bill Assendrup, chairman. Tickets will be available at the door.

A country and western music show is scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday at the Buhl rodeo arena. The program will feature music by Floyd Drown and the Travelers, The Last Resorts, Huck Dumfries and the Nevada Gamblers, Johnny and the Sundowners, The Blue Tomorrows and Henry Fiscus and the Valley Boys.

Tuesday's activities will begin with a sausage and hotcake breakfast at the Buhl Jaycee Hall. Serving will begin at 7 a.m. and end at 10 a.m.

At 9 a.m. Tuesday Buhl merchants will join in the celebrations offering the annual Sagebrush Days sidewalk sales.

The first performance of the Sagebrush Days Rodeo is scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday, according to Virgil Maritt of the Buhl Rodeo Association.

Stephens Brothers will be the stock producer this year. The clown will be Mick Heasler. Announcer for the performance will be Virgil Maritt, a veteran radio announcer. Hazel Graves will serve as rodeo secretary. Timers will be Bill Laos and Alma Morrison.

Over $5,000 in prize money is being offered and all cowboys entering the rodeo competition should report at the rodeo office in Buhl at the Sport Shop between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday.

At 9 p.m. Tuesday a dance for teenagers is scheduled at the Buhl Jaycee Hall.

Fourth of July events will begin with a Sagebrush Days Parade through downtown Buhl at 11 a.m.

At 1 p.m. Buhl Boy Scouts will have a bellringing exhibition. The free barbecue is slated to begin at 2 p.m. at Eastman Park and children's games will follow.

The final performance of the Sagebrush Days Rodeo is scheduled for 8 p.m. The performances will be highlighted by the crowning of the new Sagebrush Days queen and junior princess.

At 9 p.m. the Walden Brothers will furnish music for the adult Western dance at the Jaycee Hall.

Activities for the day will conclude with a free fireworks display on the Buhl Elementary school grounds at approximately 10 p.m.

The annual Sagebrush Days Celebration is sponsored by the Buhl Jaycees and Buhl Rodeo Association assisted by the chamber of commerce.

Lincoln reports given

SHOSHONE. — Lincoln County planning commission members heard a report Thursday night on what they may expect in the way of problems if Blaine County's growth spreads beyond the county boundaries.

David Vhay, administrative officer of the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission, shared some of the problems and solutions of Blaine County's sudden growth with officials in Lincoln County.

He explained subdivision planning, sewage and water problems. In a question and answer session following Vhay's presentation, Lincoln County officials discussed suitable location and size of commercial zones and limitations on lot size for subdivisions in the proximity of urban areas. Floyd Kisting, chairman of the Lincoln County planning commission conducted the meeting.

Standards adopted

BOISE (UPI). — The Board of Environmental and Community Services Thursday adopted minimum standards for shelter homes in Idaho.

The rules and regulations set up standards for licensing of profit and non-profit organizations which provide homes or shelter for those who may not be totally able to care for themselves.

Aide resigns

BURLEY. — Just four months short of the end of his first term, Burley city councilman Ted Smith has announced his resignation.

Smith quit his post Thursday because he is moving outside the city limits next week. He has built a home and a "wedding chapel" catering business south of town.

Burley Mayor Garis Robertson said he will nominate former councilman Rex Stanley to fill Smith's seat on the council. The nomination will have to be approved by the council Monday night.

Smith said he had no further political plans.

Stresses caution

"HOW SAFE?" asks Clark Harkins of the Twin Falls Fire Department as he reads labels on "safe and sane" fireworks. Any one of these items can be purchased by a child of any age and could result in a serious fire or burn.

Parental guidance urged with use of fireworks

TWIN FALLS. — Fire department officials in Twin Falls say they are expecting a few fires during the next few days and some of them could be serious.

"This is the time of year children of all ages are playing with matches and 'safe and sane' fireworks," said Clark Harkins, fire inspector. Fred Higgins, fire marshal, said the city ordinance prohibits the shooting of any fireworks in the city except those listed as safe and sane. He urged parents to check the fireworks their children are buying and to supervise their discharge of the various items.

Harkins said many of the fireworks carry instructions for safe handling but some of the children buying and discharging them are too young to read the instructions.

He said parents should be sure safety precautions are followed and fireworks are not discharged in vacant lots where dry weeds and brush will ignite or near clothing worn by other children.

The innocent looking little sparklers, he said, are as dangerous as many lethal weapons. They get hot enough to weld two pieces of wire together, he said, and when tossed into the air or swooped through the air, can ignite anything from clothing to a roof.

"Last year we had some evergreens near a home set on fire by a sparkler and considerable damage resulted," Harkins said.

In order to light the fireworks, children of all ages are carrying matches, Higgins said, and this is an added danger.

Shooting said accidental

NELSON, B.C. — The wife of a Twin Falls man accused of murder by Nelson authorities indicated in a preliminary hearing that the shooting involved may not have been intentional.

Calvert Lee Stanger, 28, Twin Falls, has been charged with murdering James Carl Lash, also of Twin Falls, at Kaslo, B.C., a resort 40 miles north of Nelson, in the early morning hours of May 12.

According to an Associated Press story, Beverly Stanger, who had gone to Canada with Lash, told the Provincial Court in a preliminary hearing Wednesday that her husband entered the mobile home where she and Lash were staying with a gun in his hand.

"Mr. Lash was standing in the aisle and Cal said 'Come on, woman, you're coming with me,'" Mrs. Stanger told the court. "I started to get out and Cal struck me and when he struck me the gun discharged."

Barth Cilest Rovig, 19, Murtaugh, who drove to Canada with Stanger, told the court Stanger asked him to make the trip and to bring a gun.

"He knew I had a gun and he said it would be nice if we had a gun for protection," Rovig said.

Rovig was charged with having a restricted weapon in Canada after the shooting in May.

Hitch develops in Ketchum suit

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY. — A hearing on the Greyhawk Development Co., Inc. suit against the city of Ketchum was continued until July 5 after a procedural technicality developed Thursday.

The hearing before Fifth District Judge Theron Ward called for the city of Ketchum to show cause why preliminary mandatory injunctions should not be issued, compelling it to allow a building permit and sewage hookup for the 60-acre development planned for Warm Springs.

After the plaintiff presented its case Thursday, Willis Benjamin, attorney for the city, moved that the suit be dismissed because an indispensable party — Sun Valley — had not been included. Litigation attorney for Greyhawk, E. Lee Schlender, Ketchum, then agreed to join Sun Valley as a co-defendant in the proceedings.

Sun Valley shares the Ketchum sewage treatment plant with Ketchum on a 50-50 basis.

The Greyhawk suit maintains that after the city declared a moratorium on sewer connections Jan. 18, it allowed the Holiday Inn complex to hook up to the sewage facilities.

Since May 24, when Greyhawk applied for a building permit, the suit states that the city has allowed more than eight building permits and permits to use the sewage facility.

Such action, the suit states, was "unjustified, arbitrary and discriminatory."

The suit also states that Greyhawk to date has incurred about $1.5 million in expenses and would lose about $650 per day if construction does not begin.

The city maintains that the sewage treatment plant is presently over capacity, during peak flows.

Construction is expected to start about Aug. 1 on a project to increase plant efficiency as an interim measure to full plant expansion.

Witnesses called by the plaintiff Thursday included Paul Schuler, president of Greyhawk; George R. Osborn Jr., the firm's secretary-treasurer; Ormer Mitchell, Bellevue, Wash., an architect hired by the firm; John Jacoby, Ketchum, city building inspector; Kenneth Richey, mayor of Ketchum; Les Jankow, superintendent of the Ketchum sewage treatment plant and Harold Cox, JUB Engineers.

Wendell aides advised to update criminal code

WENDELL. — City council members of Wendell were advised Thursday night to bring their criminal code up to date if they want to get the city's fair share of magistrate court fines and costs.

Sen. James Yost, R-Wendell, told the council he would be glad to work with them in bringing the city laws into perspective with state and county regulations. He said under the Magistrate Court program the city receives fines and costs ordered on violation of city ordinances but officers are making the arrests on state and county regulations because of the outdated city code. He said the criminal laws on the books in Wendell are about the same as the state laws of 1947 which were repealed by the state some time ago.

"It would not take long to go through and see the nonsensical ordinances the city has," he said.

The council accepted Sen. Yost's offer and asked Councilman Harold Simerly to work with him on the project.

City Councilmen accepted a bid from Waterworks Equipment Co., Boise, for $5,067. It is for materials for the water lines for the new water system in the city. City crews will install the lines.

City Supt. Ivan Meyer informed the council city workers are now preparing for installation of the lines. The council heard a request from Vivian Maltz, city librarian, for a portion of the revenue sharing money for the purchase of new books for the library. They also heard a request from Dale Bunn, chief of police, for $1,050 for radar equipment. He also proposed the money come from revenue sharing allowances. Both requests were tabled until revenue sharing funds are received.

The city approved the purchase of a new fire hose for $475. Councilman Harold Simerly said the new city tennis court is now 80 per cent complete.

Mayor Eugene Soares told the council something is "irregular and drastically wrong in the city system of billing for water services."

He said he has received several complaints from citizens about their water bills. He said he took a sampling and made comparisons with previous billings and with other users' bills. He said the bills appear to be "way out of line."

The city is currently reviewing the billing system.

Council members have asked for cooperation from Wendell residents to use more care in sprinkler irrigation to avoid getting water on city streets and roads.

Councilman Dale Gilbert said most of the street repairs are made necessary by water on the streets. The council authorized Cal White to spray for weeds within the city limits.

The council accepted the resignation of Wayne Strickland, McGinnis Park board chairman. A new chairman will be named at the next meeting.

Compliance rule delayed

BOISE. — The Board of Environmental and Community Services has delayed adoption of compliance schedules for three Amalgamated Sugar Co. plants in Twin Falls, Rupert and Nampa.

The board adopted clean air regulations for Idaho Thursday along with compliance schedules for some of the major industries in the state. Officials said the delay in adoption of compliance schedules was because testimony given by the sugar company in June 11 hearing has not yet been evaluated.

The major industries considered by the board in adopting the schedules were Amalgamated Sugar, JPMC Corp., Bunker Hill, Monsanto, and Potlatch Forest Industries.

Legislation was passed during the last session of the legislature to enable enforcement of the standards.

The schedules adopted establish step-by-step procedures developed to lead to a substantial improvement in Idaho's air quality.

Burley drive-in robbed

BURLEY. — Magic Valley officers today are searching for an armed robber who forced two young women employees of the Arctic Circle Drive-In to give him $300 at gunpoint early today.

Burley City Police said the two victims, Georgia Schneider and Peggy Anderson, were on duty at the drive-in when the armed robber, believed of Mexican descent, entered by the backdoor, ordered them to empty the cash register contents into a white paper sack and then fled via the rear door.

He ordered the two girls to lie down on the floor as he left. The girls said he brandished a handgun with a two-inch barrel.

Burley police said the incident was reported at 12:30 a.m. and the man had disappeared by the time five city police arrived at the drive-in.

The girls told officers the man had a nylon stocking over his face and had applied a white powder or paint to his hair, apparently in a disguise attempt. He was described as about 38 years of age, wearing a brown shirt, Levi's and black shoes.

BLM fire crews control blazes

SHOSHONE. — Bureau of Land Management crews and equipment brought two range fires under control Thursday night and this morning in Lincoln and Jerome counties.

Mike Green, public relations officer for the Shoshone district, BLM, said a fire covered 40 acres eight miles southeast of Shoshone late Thursday. He said it was man caused and burned along the highway. Eighteen men, two tankers and one shovel crew battled the blaze from about 4:30 p.m. to 5:45 p.m. before getting it under control.

At about midnight another fire was reported near Devil's Corral, four miles northeast of Twin Falls. The BLM dispatched 14 men, two tankers and one per drem tanker crew to the area. They were able to report the fire out by 5 a.m. today.

Green said cause of the fire had not been determined.

A third fire was reported Thursday afternoon at the Hagerman dumpground. Sheriff's officers reported the fire started in the dump and burned out of control, covering about 100 acres of brush near the dump. Fire equipment and men from Hagerman answered the alarm.

Sawtooth National Forest officials reported lightning in the north and south divisions of the forest but no fires have been reported. Observer planes were checking the areas today.

Swede becomes idol for groupies at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Sweden's 17-year-old Bjorn Borg, cheered on by a squealing center court-gallery of schoolgirls, fought the match of his career today to defeat West Germany's Karel Meiler and reach the last 16 of the men's singles of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

Borg, seeded sixth in his first senior tournament at the All England Club, snapped a bad streak just in time to win 6-4, 4-3, 6-2, 6-3 against the powerful Meiler, possibly the best non-seeded player in the tournament.

Czech Jan Kodicek, the second seed, and Briton Roger Taylor, the third, joined him in the fourth round. Kodicek beat South Africa's John Yull, 6-1, 7-5, 6-2 and the left-handed Taylor ousted another Czech, Jiri Hrebec, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2.

Wimbledon's hallowed center court may have seen better tennis but it has never heard more disturbing—or highpitched—cheering from more than 2,000 teenagers who packed the standing room on a hazy afternoon.

Orioles cut Yanks' lead to one game

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Don Baylor drove in two runs with a triple in the sixth inning and a sacrifice fly in the eighth Thursday night as the Baltimore Orioles moved to within one game of the Eastern Division lead by beating the first-place New York Yankees, 6-3.

After the Orioles grabbed a 3-0 lead in the third inning for rookie right-hander Jesse Jefferson, New York struck back with a two-run fourth inning but Baylor then gave the Orioles the cushion they needed.

Blue hurls A's past Royals 3-2

OAKLAND (UPI) — Vida Blue stopped the Kansas City Royals on three hits through 7 2/3 innings for a 3-2 Oakland A's decision Thursday night and with late relief help scored his seventh win, one more than he posted all last season.

Meiler, architect of Germany's Davis Cup win against British in May, was hampered by a heavily bandaged right wrist and an obsession for dropshots and stop volleys which the frustrated Borg flicked back time and again.

There were no problems for the women's seeds either today. Evonne Goolagong of Australia, the third seed, cruised past Britain's Jill Cooper 6-1, 6-3 and Rosie Casals of San Francisco, the fifth seed, had scarcely more trouble in downing Sue Mappin, another Briton, 6-3, 6-4.

Tanzanian pulls surprise in 1,500 meters

HELSINKI, Finland (UPI) — Little-known Filbert Bayi of Tanzania stole the 1,500-meter spotlight from his more famous rivals, Ben Jipcho of Kenya and Dave Wottle of the U.S., at the World Athletic Games Thursday by leading from start to finish in a time of 3:34.6.

Bayi, who could manage only a sixth-place finish in a 1,500 heat at the Olympic Games at Munich, seemed en route to breaking Jim Ryun's world mark of 3:33.1 before being in the final 100 meters. Wottle, meanwhile, moved from sixth place in the last 100 meters to finish second in 3:36.2. Jipcho, who only a day earlier established a world-record for the 3,000-meter steeplechase, was third in 3:36.6.

Namath wonders how

DUDLEY, Mass. (UPI) — Joe Namath calls his inclusion among a list of White House enemies "a little crazy."

Having dossiers on people, I thought to myself, 'good, now I can find out all about myself. I don't have anything to hide, so it would be interesting to see what they have.'

"You wonder what things are coming to when you're listed as an enemy of the White House," the New York Jet quarterback said Thursday. One of the glamor players of pro football and the only sports figure included on the Watergate list, Namath asked: "What does that mean? Who knows?"

Namath said he had an inkling about three weeks ago that something might be up. "When I heard about them

The Mazda goes "HMMMMMMMMMMMM" on gas that makes other cars go "Ping."

The rotary engine Mazda runs great on the cheapest gas you can buy. In fact, we wish they made even cheaper gas for cars, like 80 octane.

That's right, even with the cheapest available gasoline you can still have Mazda's sensational performance. This means easy starts and responsive power when you need it. Our owners tell us they get 17 to 21 miles per gallon, with some reporting even better mileage, depending on their personal driving habits.

By using less expensive gasoline, your cost-per-mile is reduced. And when you're talking economy, cost-per-mile is the important issue.

Frankly, no other car offers this economy with Mazda's kind of performance. The rotary engine is why. It doesn't work like the complicated piston engine. It has only three basic moving parts. Just two rotors and a shaft spinning under power.

You can cruise with a Mazda and get good gas mileage on the cheapest gasoline you can buy.

Ask any Mazda owner about overall fuel economy. Ask any Mazda dealer for a demonstration of Mazda's hmmm.

The Mazda goes HMMMMM.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES Today's eclipse of the sun suggests it is advisable for you not to become depressed. Keep yourself under perfect control and avoid the temptation to undermine the good intentions of others. Try not to hurt the feelings of others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) More courtesy at home can work wonders now. You need more backing but won't get it until tomorrow, so be patient. Make sure you attend to routine duties at home. Avoid arguments.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Particular care is necessary in motion today. Hold your tongue and don't alienate an associate who has personal troubles. Reading can be most enlightening for obtaining data you need.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't take any risks because you think you don't have enough for your needs. Work a little harder and all is fine. If you consult with a financial adviser, you can begin new project.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Friends could be annoying now, but it is only because they are in trouble of some kind. Take steps to improve your appearance. Make an excellent impression at social tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't give way to negative thoughts and influences, and you will come out all right today. Smile as you quietly attend to your duties. Avoid a troublesome situation later in the day.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Others are busy and cannot go along with you to places of amusement, so justify that by yourself. Since "I serve" is your motto, do just that and derive true benefits therefrom.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) Try not to take any chances where your credit is concerned or you could regret it later on. Forget civic work for the time being. It could lead to trouble. Keep busy at routine duties.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You want to get into a new venture but this requires more study before it can work out successfully. A letter may bother you, but don't be so disturbed. Do a favor for one in trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your intuition is not working accurately now so do not follow it. Use only your very best judgment. Mate could be acting strangely now, but don't let this upset you. Be calm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If a friend has been negligent it could be that there have been difficult conditions at home to contend with. Study the situation carefully and show understanding. Be logical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Although you are in no mood to work, a change of attitude can see you accomplishing a good deal. Plan your time and activities well and all goes smoothly. Be more optimistic.

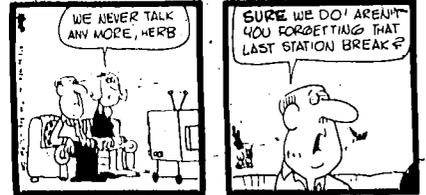

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Not a good day for recreation you want since there are more important matters to attend to first. Being cheerful with those who are in trouble helps them. Take it easy tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people who will want to engage in any argument. This could easily lead to trouble if not taught to handle on affairs well and not to interfere in the business of others. Direct the education along artistic lines or whatever requires precision. Save now for a college education.

Do identical twins over communicate with each other through that thing called "extrasensory perception"? Recently, says a Canadian psychologist at the University of Alberta, Studies prove identical twins do indeed experience telepathy. This authority reports, as do fraternal twins to a lesser degree. Fascinating, if factual.

Maybe you didn't realize the hair on your head only grows about 80 per cent of the time. And the hair on the rest of your body only grows about 45 per cent of the time. Or don't you want to talk about it?

Nobody of Scottish descent should forget that it was in Scotland where gunpowder first was used in western warfare. At the battle of Banockburn in 1314, to be specific.

The nation's peach harvest is expected to double in the next five years, I'm told.

PRIEST

A Portuguese priest named Father Fernando Da Cosa no doubt remains the record-holder in his particular category. In 1581, he was convicted in Brazil of fathering 299 children by 59 women, including six relatives and three slaves.

What you can't name those states touched by eight different states? Tut tut Tennessee and Missouri.

In Staffordshire, England, approximately 440 villagers with anti-cancer signs demonstrated to mark the beginning of No Smoking Week. And exactly nine counter demonstrators putting cigarettes tried to break up the observance. Leader of the nine was the village's earnest funeral director who saw no humor in his position.

LOVE AND WAR

Consider these matrimonial mates who have not finished high school. One out of four such couples split up. But among those pairs who graduate from college only one out of 10 divorce. Or so one recent survey indicates. Analysts therefore concluded that the greater the intelligence of the husband and wife the better their chances in marriage. Our Love and War man thinks these findings are faulty. A tall, bright young lunk got married too young. Then break up later. In other words, he avers, it's not their intelligence but their youth that influences these statistics.

Q You know that yellowish oil from poison ivy leaves that gives some people a rash? If they get it on their clothes, and don't wash same how will it stay potent?

A A year or more, I'm told.

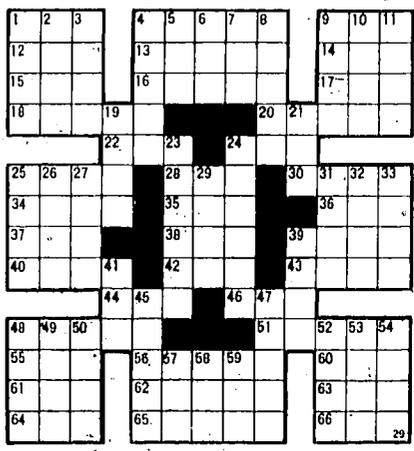

Q Do the championship-type athletes tend to live longer?

A Research reveals they don't. After age 50 they get just as decrepit as those and me, subject to the same ailments, the same death rate. When younger, though, they do a lot better.

Red Cross aides honor volunteers

TWIN FALLS — Harry Gibson was presented an honorary 12 gallon pin at the annual Twin Falls chapter of the American Red Cross awards dinner Wednesday night.

Gibson had been one pint short of donating 12 gallons of blood to the Red Cross when his health precluded further donations.

David Nelson, member of the chapter board of directors, presented Gibson with the pin. Mrs. Roger Pollard, chapter chairman, conducted the meeting at the Twin Falls Elks Lodge.

According to the annual report of the chapter, the blood donor program saved the residents of Twin Falls County 83,825, and 2,533 units of blood were used.

The chapter also helped 242 servicemen and families and 130 veterans and families. About 971 people were trained in 63 first aid classes and 1,231 people were trained in 113 water safety classes including children's swimming courses.

Nurses training was given to 249 in mother and baby care and 18 were trained as instructors of home nursing.

Other awards presented at the dinner were: 30-year pin, Mrs. Kenneth Given; 25-year pin, Frank Mogensen; 20-year pins, J. J. Dean's parents live quietly, refuse to talk GREENVILLE, Pa. (UPI) — The parents of John W. Dean III live in a quiet neighborhood in this northwestern Pennsylvania community.

They have refused to talk to the news media about their son, whose testimony has dominated the Senate Watergate hearings this week.

Dean's sister also lives in the same neighborhood, but she and her husband, James F. Mitchell, welcomed a news-woman to their home.

"Isn't it funny that I'm married to a man named Mitchell?" asked Mrs. Mitchell, Dean's younger sister. "Wouldn't it be even funnier if my first name were Martha?"

She talked of her parent's refusal to meet with the news media.

4-H camp scheduled by club

TWIN FALLS — A 4-H camp was discussed when the Happy-Go-Lucky 4-H Club held its meeting Wednesday at the home of Christine Britt.

Miss Britt, teen leader, announced 4-H camp will be from July 23 to July 27. She handed out scholarship and enrollment forms.

The flag salute was led by Shawna Pfeifferle and the 4-H pledge by Susan Swafford.

Miss Britt assisted members with pattern layouts. Other lessons taught were on measuring apron pieces, how to clean, finish and how to gather.

The next meeting is Thursday at the Britt home.

Winners listed

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Duplicate Bridge Club met Wednesday at Episcopal Hall.

North and south winners were Mrs. Earl Neilsen and Mrs. George Ross, first; Mrs. A. J. Lindemer and Mrs. W. Driscoll, second; Mrs. R. R. Watson and Mrs. B. E. Standlee, third.

East and west winners were Mrs. L. J. Robertson and Mrs. M. Hogg, first; Mrs. Lonnie Burns and Mrs. L. E. Hack, second; Mrs. H. E. Burgess and Mrs. H. Payne, third.

Mrs. C. J. Cuppett and Mrs. Irvin Bodenstab were guests. There will be no play next week.

any of this wide publicity about it?"

Mrs. Mitchell would not comment on her brother's testimony but said she was scrapbook for her son, Jimmy, "taping every word" of it from her television set.

"It might be interesting to listen to again a year or so from now," she said.

She expressed concern over "how much longer he can hold up in the questioning."

"I'm sure he'll take a long vacation when this is all over,"

she said.

Mrs. Mitchell also said she saves newspaper clippings that comment on her brother's testimony but said she was scrapbook for her son, Jimmy, "taping every word" of it from her television set.

"Someday when Jimmy starts studying history seriously, I'll have all of this in a scrapbook for him," she said.

Dean's father, John Wesley Dean Jr., is the retired vice president of Blazon Inc., a manufacturer of playground equipment at Jamestown, Pa.
