EPA sets Pocatello hearings

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency will conduct hearings in Pocatello Aug. 9 on proposed wastewater discharge permits for FMC Corp., and J. R. Simplot Co., in Pocatello and Monsanto Co., Soda Springs. The fertilizer manufacturing companies are required to obtain discharge permits under the national pollutant discharge elimination system. Federal permits are required by the Federal Water Pollution Control Act amendments of 1972.

Rwanda president overthrown

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — The army seized power in the landlocked African state of Rwanda today, jailing President Gregoire Kayibanda and his cabinet. Diplomatic sources said the coup is an internal reshuffle rather than a fresh administration. The leader, Defense Minister Gen. Juvenal Habyarimana, is a member of the ruling Hutu tribe, which has engaged in bloody civil wars with minority tribes.

McCammon crash kills 2

MCCAMMON (UPI) — Two persons were killed and a third injured today in a head-on collision one and one-half miles east of here on US Highway 30. Idaho State Police identified the dead as Hyrum Jones, 16, McCammon, and Dorothy J. Green, 37, McCammon. The injured person was identified as Paul Honeycutt, no age available. McCammon Officers said the accident occurred shortly after midnight.

Tito, ex-partisans reminisce

TJENTISTE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — President Tito made a pilgrimage Wednesday to the rugged mountains where he led Communist partisans against 120,000 Nazi-led troops during World War II. Tito and 6,000 other survivors reminisced about the four week battle in the Bosnian mountains. The partisans broke through the Nazi ring after losing 7,000 men, carrying 4,000 wounded.

Ex-aide granted immunity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today granted limited immunity from prosecution so that former White House aide David R. Young can be summoned to testify before the Senate Watergate Committee. Young was a co-director of the White House "Plumbers Unit" set up in 1971 to plug news leaks.

Jazz fans laud Satchmo

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ten thousand jazz fans and more than 50 musicians and singers joined in an outdoor tribute to the late Louis Armstrong here Wednesday. Mayor John Lindsay and Armstrong's widow, Lucille, dedicated the Singer Bowl at the 1964 World's Fair site to the late jazz great, who would have been 73 on Wednesday. Armstrong died in 1972.

Sihanouk vows more war

PEKING (UPI) — Exiled Cambodian head of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk returned today after a two month tour of Europe and Africa. Sihanouk said his supporters will continue armed resistance "until 1984" and refused to meet with Henry Kissinger. He is being sent to Peking next month, apparently to enlist Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai's aid in a negotiated settlement of the Cambodian war.

Kontum battles continue

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese officials said today that Communist troop violations fell to a new low of 49 today, but reported heavy fighting in the Central Highlands near Kontum. About 300 miles north of Saigon, the Viet Cong threatened to counterattack in the Kontum area and elsewhere. The South Vietnamese government command reported 49 Communist violations in the 24 hours ending at noon today, the fewest since the Jan. 22 ceasefire. The previous low reported was 51.

What gasoline shortage?

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — What Idaho gas shortage? Gas shipments into Idaho from all sources are running considerably above last year's levels, according to state figures.

Shipments into Idaho during April — the most recent figures available — were a full 22 per cent more than in April a year ago. During April, 40.15 million gallons of gasoline were shipped in to the state, compared to 32.9 million in April, 1972.

This brought the total shipment of gasoline into Idaho during the first four months of this year to 10 per cent above shipments during the same period a year ago. The new import figures appear to raise doubts about repeated claims by Idaho petroleum spokesmen that the state is experiencing a shortage of gasoline this year.

According to the State Tax Commission, which records for tax purposes all shipments of gas into the state, there were about 147 million gallons of gasoline brought into Idaho during the first four months of this year.

This compared with about 133 million gallons in the first four months of last year. Figures for Magic Valley imports also showed increases. During April about 7 million gallons of gasoline were brought into Magic Valley, compared to about 6 million during April, 1972, an increase of about 17 per cent. During the first four months of 1973 about 26 million gallons of gasoline came into Magic Valley, according to the Tax Commission figures, compared with about 24 million during the first four months of 1972. This was an increase of about 8.6 per cent.

Despite the large increase in gasoline available to Idaho gasoline stations, the average price of gas in Twin Falls showed a sharp jump in May, shortly after the large inflows showed by the state figures.

Gas prices had jumped about three cents per gallon, on the average, at that time, according to Times-News gasoline price survey. Most dealers questioned at that time said the "shortage" was the reason for their price increases.

During April of this year about 2.6 million gallons of gasoline came into Twin Falls County. This compares with about 2.4 million brought into Twin Falls County in April, 1972, an increase of about 8.5 per cent.

For the period from January through April of this year about 9.9 million gallons of gasoline came into Twin Falls County, compared with roughly 9.7 million gallons brought in during the first four months of 1972, an increase of about 2.3 per cent. Of all Magic Valley counties, Lincoln County alone showed a decrease in gasoline inflows from the 1972 to the 1973 period. During the first four months of 1973 about 700,000 gallons of gasoline were brought into Lincoln County, compared with 755,000 during the like period of 1972, a decrease of about 2.9 per cent.

On a month for month basis, Lincoln County had almost exactly the same inflows in April 1973 and April 1972, the difference was a decrease in 1973 of 61 gallons out of roughly 178,000.

Blaine County showed the biggest increase from 1972 to 1973, with a rise of about 54 per cent from the 276,000 gallons brought in during April 1972 to the 425,000 brought into Blaine County during April of this year.

On the basis of the first four months of the year Camas County showed the largest increase in 1973 over 1972 — about 28 per cent, based on imports of 130,000 gallons in the first four months of 1972 and about 168,000 in the like period of 1973.

Cassia County showed an increase of about 6.1 per cent in the like four month periods with imports of gasoline rising from about 5.8 million gallons in 1972 to about 6.2 million in the first four months of this year.

Jerome County showed increases in 1973 of about 39 per cent on a month for month basis and about 23 per cent on a period for period basis.

Feed export limits tighten

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration today broadened its export control program for livestock feeds in a further move to keep adequate supplies on hand this summer for U.S. producers of meat, milk and poultry.

Expanding on last week's export crackdown which involved soybeans and cottonseeds — and animal feed meals made from those crops — Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent today placed controls on 11 commodities including other livestock protein feeds, animal fats and edible oils.

No controls were placed on corn, the basic livestock feed grain which remains freely available for export despite speculation it may be subject to control later if demand continues to increase. But corn gluten feed, a high-protein byproduct, was added to the control list.

Dent said the action to expand controls was needed because foreign buyers, finding U.S. soybean shipments suddenly limited until fall, were increasing orders for other high-protein feed supplements like peanuts, sunflower, linseed and safflower meals, alfalfa and meat meals, and prepared livestock feeds.

The new controls, like those imposed earlier on soybeans and cottonseed, are designed to protect U.S. supplies until farmers harvest what officials hope will be record 1973 corn and soybean crops. Administration spokesmen hope these crops will be big enough to fuel expanded livestock production at home to help reduce food inflation with enough left over to permit unlimited exports.

Asian graft scored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The General Accounting Office has estimated that Cambodian army commanders pocketed between $750,000 and $1.1 million in pay for nonexistent troops during January of this year.

GAO said the practice was a continuing one which US and Cambodian officials have known about since 1971, but have been unable to stop.

In a report requested by Rep. Michael J. Harrington, D-Mass., GAO said it was impossible to determine how much of the money came from US aid to Cambodia, which for 1971 and 1972 totaled $56 million for military pay alone.

The report concluded that "the availability of such large amounts undoubtedly facilitated corrupt pay practices." GAO relied in part on Cambodian government estimates that reported troop strength was padded 10 to 15 per cent.

$700,000 aboard hijacked airliner

By United Press International

Argentina's Bank of the Nation said there was $700,000 in cash aboard the hijacked Argentine airliner which landed today in Cuba with 26 hostages after a flight which took it across Northern Argentina, Chile, Peru and Panama.

A bank statement issued in Buenos Aires said the money, escorted by three bank officials, was being sent to the town of Jujuy 1,000 miles north of Buenos Aires for loans on the forthcoming sugar crop in that region. The plane, which had 80 passengers and crew aboard at the time, was seized by six or more terrorists on the flight to Jujuy.

Conspiracy charges sought for aides

NEW YORK (UPI) — CBS News Wednesday said it has learned the original government investigators recommended that special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox charge former presidential aides H.R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, John Mitchell and John Dean as "ring leaders in a conspiracy to obstruct justice." The report by correspondent

Daniel Schorr's on the CBS Evening News also said the report describes as "co-conspirators" former acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray, former White House Gordon Strachan, and former deputy campaign director Jeb Magruder but recommended offers of guilty pleas on reduced charges in return for cooperation.

Trans-Magic Airlines seeking fare increase

TWIN FALLS — Trans Magic Airlines is seeking permission to raise its rates in southern and eastern Idaho by an average of 6.9 per cent. An application filed with the Idaho Public Utilities Commission lists rising labor and materials costs as the reason for the requested rate hike.

According to Gary Montgomery, counsel with the IPUC, the submitted proposals would decrease some prices and increase others. Trans Magic charges for air carrier services, with the average increase approaching seven per cent.

According to a IPUC news release, no formal public hearing is required on the airline's request, although written protests are being accepted until July 27. If protests are filed in writing, the release said, the commission may set a public hearing.

Any order granting a rate increase would be subject to national price freezes, according to the commission. Jim Lee, Trans Magic vice president for operations, said today the requested changes were necessary because the airline's fare schedule was out of line with other rates schedules. "Basically this is a realignment of rates," Lee said.

Lee said if the proposed changes were approved the fare for a flight from Twin Falls to Boise would be increased to $22 from the present $18, but the cost of a Twin Falls to Sun Valley flight would be lowered to $12 from the present $18.

There would be no change in the $27 fare from Twin Falls to Salt Lake City, he said, but the cost of a ticket to Boise from Burley would increase to $22 from its present $19.

Lee said the proposed changes would not alter the price of a ticket from Burley to Salt Lake City. He said the proposals were based on extensive marketing research conducted by the company, and emphasized, as did the IPUC news release, that any increases would be contingent on national price guidelines.

Probers say Nixon subpoena legal

(c) Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — Chief Counsel Samuel Dash says both he and Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C. of the Senate Watergate investigating committee, believe President Nixon can be subpoenaed to testify about his knowledge of the case and of other campaign activities.

"He could be subpoenaed like any other person on any matter not involving presidential duties," Dash said in an interview. The issue of a subpoena for Nixon has not yet been decided by the Senate committee, however, and Dash said it has never been on the "official" agenda during committee meetings.

Asked whether he agreed with the argument that the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers makes the President immune to subpoena by Congress, Dash said:

"On the contrary, I believe he is subject to subpoena."

Dash said this was also Ervin's belief. Ervin and two other committee members, Sens Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn. and Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., previously have said the President should appear voluntarily before the committee and tell his side of the story about meetings he had with ex-presidential counsel John Dean III.

Dean testified that at those meetings the President discussed the Watergate cover-up, the payment of $1 million in cash money to the Watergate burglars, and an offer of executive clemency to Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

The White House has ruled out a Presidential appearance before the Senate Watergate committee as "constitutionally inappropriate," Presidential Council Lenora Garment underscored that view in a telephone interview, saying:

"We don't believe the President is subject to subpoena, and I would include Presidential documents."

The President has indicated through spokesmen, he will respond to the Watergate charges and tell his side of the story in some forum when the Watergate phase of the Senate hearings are over, probably in August.

Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox reportedly is studying whether a President can be subpoenaed to testify before a grand jury investigating Watergate.

Dash, while terming "speculative" a prospect the committee would subpoena the President, nevertheless indicated the committee has such authority in reserve should it be dissatisfied with the President's response when he makes it, or with White House compliance with pending requests for Presidential documents related to Watergate.

Rogers proposes peace plan in European confab

HELSINKI (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers, declaring that "Europe's security is indivisible from our own," proposed a five-point plan for peace today at the European security conference.

The proposals which Rogers placed before the meeting of 35 foreign ministers ranged from an exchange of military information between East and West to lowered barriers to trade, and "of paramount importance," a freer flow of both people and information between the two halves of the continent.

Rogers stressed the need to outlaw "the use or threat of force" between nations. He called this "the keystone in the arch of a durable peace."

Party protest ends in tragedy

CHINO, Calif. (UPI) — Wayne Eaton, 49, was angered.

It was nearly midnight Wednesday, and there was a raucous party going on down the street, with more than 600 guests whooping it up.

Then one group of guests began throwing fireworks and roman candles at another group.

That seemed to be the last straw for Eaton, San Bernardino County sheriff's deputies reported.

He went out to protest, taking a revolver with him, deputies said.

The protest turned into a scuffle. Two shots were fired from the revolver, one of the bullets striking a bystander, killing him, deputies said.

The dead man was identified as Raymond Lee Eaton, 25, Eaton's son.

Deputies said the shooting was an accident. No arrests were made.

Basque separatists sentenced to prison

SANTANDER, Spain (UPI) — A military court today sentenced eight Basque separatists to prison terms ranging from 15 to 30 years for the kidnaping of one of Spain's wealthiest industrialists.

The defendants, among them a woman, were also ordered to repay construction tycoon Felipe Huarte the $832,000 ransom, the biggest in Spanish history.

Huarte was kidnaped from his Pamplona home last January and held 10 days before his family met the abductors' demands. They included the settlement of a labor conflict in one of Huarte's plants.

Announcing the sentences, the court said the kidnaping was a "terrorist" act aimed at providing subversive organizations with cash to run their operations. The money has disappeared.

The military judges found Jose-Maria Yarz, Lorenzo Egua, Miguel Lacortain, Manuel Isasa and Fernando Izarguirre guilty of armed terrorism and sentenced them to 30 years in prison each.

Luis Cirizan, Angel Amigo and Maria-Ester Redondo were found guilty of aiding and abetting the other five. They were sentenced to jail terms of 16 and 15 years respectively.

Pentagon proposes battle tank

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two years ago Congress canceled a Defense Department plan to build a new line of tanks at $1 million each. Now the Pentagon is back with a proposed, less sophisticated and less expensive substitute—costing $922,000 each.

The earlier tank was called the MBT-70, or Main Battle Tank. The new one is called the XM-1. But Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., who disclosed the cost Wednesday, calls it "Son of Main Battle Tank."

Aspin said it took him three months to get the price tag declassified by the Pentagon.

He said the total program is to cost about $3 billion for 3,312 of the new versions.

Jail bids called by TF panel

TWIN FALLS — Bids for remodeling of the fourth floor of the Twin Falls County Courthouse will be opened July 24 at 11 a.m. in the office of the county commissioners.

County commissioners approved the advertising of bids for the work Tuesday morning, saying they hope to have the work underway as soon as possible.

Copies of the specifications and plans are available from Ivan Stone, architect.

The work involves expanding the jail area into the former sheriff's apartment where juvenile cells will be added, the building of an area for the night jailer and general improvement. Fire escapes at the rear of the area and at the front of the building will also be provided.

The remodeling and expansion of the facility have been in a planning state for more than a year. Revenue sharing funds will be available to help pay for the improvement, commissioners said.

No supervision

SUMMER is a time of news stories about children drowning in irrigation ditches. Why? Because, as this picture shows, they are not always watched closely. This little boy was playing beside a ditch in Carey last year, with no adults and no swimmers in the vicinity until the photographer happened by.

Rex Stanley fills Burley post

BURLEY — Rex Stanley has been sworn in as a Burley City Councilman to fill an absence created by the resignation of Councilman Ted Smith.

In a letter to the council Smith explained that he would resign his post because of moving beyond the city limits.

Stanley, 51, was first appointed to the council in 1967. He was reelected that fall and served a four year term. He was reappointed Monday night.

About 25 people were on hand Monday night to voice their opinions to the new dog and cat ordinance proposed by the city.

There were four people present who spoke in favor of the ordinance.

Warren Glenn contacted the director of the United States Human Society and sent him a copy of the proposed ordinance.

Glenn received the following changes to recommend to the council.

Charging of licensing fees from $10 per animal to $25 for unspayed female cats and dogs, and $2.00 for neutered cats and dogs.

The clause that states officers may enter private property after a cat or dog in pursuit of a cat or dog may be unconstitutional.

Animals should not be impounded for no license, but the owner should be sought out, the animal is not in offense.

24 hours is not sufficient time to hold an animal impounded awaiting claiming by its owner. 120 hours would be a more suitable period of time. Dogs or cats impounded with a license should be identified to the owner and taken to the owner's home.

Specifications should be made in the ordinance for the disposal of animals and not left to the discretion of the animal controller.

The use of tranquilizer guns should not be allowed because the charge may be sufficient to kill the animal.

The general trend of complaints about the new ordinance stems mainly from the clauses relating to cat control. Most opinions were that it would be impossible to keep a cat fenced in, and that once a license was acquired, it would be nearly impossible to make cats wear collars with licenses and keep them on.

The suggestion of tattooing a licensed animal for identification purposes instead of issuing licenses for the pets was offered to the council by Harold Armstrong.

Theft probed

FILER — Theft of $1,300 from Jordan's market in Filer is being investigated by Twin Falls County Officers.

Sheriff Paul Corder said apparently the theft occurred during the evening Tuesday when the store was open for business and three clerks were on duty. He said the store manager reported the money missing later that night when he went to the office to close the store for the day.

Officers said the money was missing from the office cash box but nothing else in the store had been disturbed.

The manager told officers he had counted the money at about 7:30 p.m. but when he went to close up at 8 p.m. it was missing.

Sheriff Corder said the office area, a small upstairs room was locked and apparently a knife had been used to trip the lock.

Army Engineers, SBA Excoriated

WASHINGTON (NEA) - While the nation rivets its eyes on the Watergate scandal with its complex mosaic of misdeeds in high places, I'm going to digress and report on just plain government incompetence at lower levels.

Business disaster loan to repair his erosion-ravaged bluff and protect his home from further damage. The thing really is painfully simple - SBA's "disaster office" in Detroit rejected Wood's application on the basis that his menaced home was not in a "flood-prone" area.

In a letter to Wood dated May 7, SBA said: "We cannot and will not make loans... to take care of damage caused by accelerated or continued erosion problems."

still standing would be gone. Early 1950s high water cut deep, brought down sea walls, beach stairs, trees, some houses, great clumps of clay bluff.

opened a beach to widths 125 feet or more. Gradually, new high water reduced it. But when I saw it last Dec. 8, it was still 30 feet wide. In three weeks, it was gone.

Challenges

If prostitution is the world's oldest profession, pornography must be the world's oldest literary and art form.

Every society with a complexity beyond the primitive hunting level has had to deal with either or both and history records varying degrees of success or lack of it.

Approaches have run the gamut from complete acceptance to mere toleration to outright suppression. That both problems are still with us says much about human nature.

Now once again, after 15 years, the United States Supreme Court has laid down rules to govern or attempt to govern pornography.

We seemed, by virtue of previous decisions of the court, to have been moving toward some sort of grudging accommodation with a phenomenon that simply will not go away.

By returning to local communities the right to handle the problem as they see fit, the court may only have prepared the way for another series of legal challenges such as we witnessed during the days of the Warren Court.

In writing the majority opinion, Chief Justice Burger stated that "to equate the free and robust exchange of ideas and political debate with commercial exploitation of obscene material demeans the grand conception of the First Amendment and its high purpose in the historic struggle for freedom."

But it has also been demeaning to the high court, not to mention innumerable lower courts, that over the years they have had to devote so much of their valuable time to poring over material of more or less sturdiness to determine if the rest of the population may see or read it, or to find in it some shred of "redeeming social value."

It will be no less demeaning to state legislatures that they will now be empowered to spell out in explicit language the kinds of sexual expression which may be prohibited according to guidelines by Chief Justice Burger, guidelines which themselves make for rather spicy reading.

Whatever one's personal attitude toward pornography may be, it is almost ridiculous that so much time, so much energy and so much judicial thought has been and no doubt will continue to be expended on a matter that is really one of the lesser problems facing American society.

While "everyone knows pornography when he sees it," a long list of books, films and other works now accepted but once suppressed is proof that a lot of people see it where others don't. This isn't going to change.

The problem involved is regional - the serious erosion of beaches and bluffs along the southern and southeastern shores of flood-level Lake Michigan. But floods along the Mississippi or in northeastern Pennsylvania also are regional. And the way national agencies respond to these matters is of real consequence to us all.

I chose the Michigan problem because I know it firsthand as a property owner and beach user in the area for nearly 30 years. I also have a friend, R. Lee Wood of Lakeside, whose lakefront home property next door to what was formerly threatened.

Its performance is measurable in this instance through its response to Wood's application for a Small

The bluff at Wood's and my former shoreland never has been higher than 25 to 30 feet. There are places nearby where it is less than 20 feet. On this June 22, I stood at a bluff edge no higher than that, barely a mile north of Wood's land.

Except for 1928-30, I saw Lakeside in all summers 1919 through 1972. In 53 years, bluff heights changed little.

As for erosion, it has never been "continuous." Had it been, Wood's house and others

MR. SPECTATOR

Where To Live

Life has its problems. One of them is where to live.

For instance - why wouldn't Fort Collins, Colo. be a good place? We read the other day that there was no county or state law which prevented a woman from appearing "on private property" with her top part exposed.

So we assume that there are some gals who are taking to mowing their lawns with only their pants on - nothing from the waist up. Like we said - Fort Collins would be a good place to live, until winter comes, that is.

A CHANGE We see that styles for men have changed again. Now trousers flare out at the bottom and have two inch or more cuff. With the change in styles, it is assumed more trousers will be sold. Not with Mr. Spectator, because we just purchased a few pairs of the old style. And in any event about the only good thing about the new style we can observe is that by flapping around when whoever wears them walks, they will keep the shoes shined.

GIVEAWAY DEPT. We need a loving country home for a one-year-old Scotty Terrier-Chihuahua mixed female. She loves to run and play. Our address is 320 Second Avenue West in Jerome. We have a real nice Black Labrador male puppy to give away. He wandered into our home and we just can't keep him. Please call 829-5545 at Hazelton.

SHOCK It's a shock to get back from a vacation to find none of the other employees of the organization even realized you were away.

DISTINCTIVE Frontier towns in the days of early America had a penchant for colorful names, not only for the town but for streets and surrounding landmarks. Names like Hangtown, Gopher Gulch, Redeye, Leesburg, Yanktown and Deadwood were common.

New communities are not established as readily today, but developments continue to spring up within larger municipal confines and the names have undergone a change. Pine Acre, Wallingford, Marblehead, Sun Valley and similar appellations abound. Progress, however, does not come easily to Jackass Lane on the outskirts of Anchorage, Alaska. Named originally for a braying burro which generally awakened residents each morning, the Lane has a name fight on its hands. One resident wants it changed to "Jo Claire Lane."

A neighbor, however, insists Jackass Lane "has a certain amount of color to it." And anyway, he adds "the fire department knows where it is. You don't get it confused with other names." An excellent defense!

TODAY'S CHUCKLE: Christopher Columbus was responsible for thinking of the techniques of modern government. He didn't know where he was going when he started; he didn't know where he was when he got there, and he did it all on borrowed money.

ROBERT ALLEN

Nuclear Heart In The Next Decade

WASHINGTON - A nuclear-powered artificial heart for humans should be a reality in the next decade.

A bench model has been developed and is operating. It includes the power source (plutonium-238) and the drive mechanism for the blood pump.

Next phase of this dramatic project of the Atomic Energy Commission's Division of Applied Technology is the construction of a "fully implantable prototype system for in vivo testing in animals." It is estimated this will take a year.

Initial tests and studies, in the opinion of Dr. Gerald Johnson, Division director, definitely indicate the "practicability" of achieving a functional nuclear-powered artificial heart.

Likely price of such a device will be in the "neighborhood of $5,000."

The House Appropriations Subcommittee, headed by Rep. Joe Evins, D-Tenn., has approved a $2.2 million budget for continuing this experiment in the current fiscal year.

Estimated cost to complete the prototype system is $7.5 million over a three-year period.

Summarizing the scope and nature of the first year's work, Dr. Johnson told the legislators:

"Major emphasis will be on medical-grade plutonium-238 fuel and heat source development, design and fabrication of a fully implantable and advanced version of the current bench model Stirling mechanical system, and on the evaluation of retarded biological and environmental implications.

Also, in response to explicit questions, the noted scientist expressed complete confidence in the success of the spectacular undertaking.

"All the data used in our assessment of the practicability of the nuclear-powered artificial heart," he said, "are now available, and our analyses which are essentially complete have given us great confidence in the outcome. Preliminary results based on extensive analytical studies and initial tests of the bench model Stirling cycle converter indicate that the practicability of a nuclear system will be confirmed."

Interestingly, no "major technological breakthroughs" are necessary to develop an effective nuclear-powered artificial heart.

disussion with the Appropriations Subcommittee, he outlined the main problems in the following manner:

"Using isotope inventory, weight, volume, shape, performance, reliability, lifetime, environmental impact and cost as the major criteria, it has been concluded that a practicable nuclear-powered artificial heart system utilizing a Stirling mechanical converter can be developed in the next few years without any major technological breakthroughs.

"Most important is that adequate pumping power can probably be obtained with a plutonium-238 inventory under 25 watts. Even though projected weights, volumes and shapes for the system components are within the pre-established practicability limits, further improvements are desired and the potential for making these improvements seems to exist."

Regarding the key problems of reliability and life-time, much has still to be ascertained. As yet, there is "very little direct experimental data" on which to make sound judgments.

"However," declared Dr. Johnson, "the extrapolation from short-term bench tests to long-term continuous operation is largely compensated for by conservatism in design. That is, weight and, to some extent, volume have been traded off against reliability, primarily through the use of rugged components with proven long life."

"Thus, from an environmental point of view, the use of a vented plutonium-238 capsule makes the short- and long-term containment goals attainable."

Chairman Evins put the $4 question to Dr. Johnson: "When might a human implantation of a nuclear-powered artificial heart take place? What is your best estimate on that?"

Replied the scientist cautiously: "It will be into the '80s before a human implantation will take place. The pacing problems probably lie in the area of materials for the pumping ventricles that are totally compatible with blood and in providing a pumping response that meets physiological needs."

"To study and solve adequately these problems, a system will be needed that can function reliably and whose performance and response will not mask the response of the physiological system. As a consequence of the Atomic Commission's prototype development program and the availability of prototype systems in late 1976, the collection of significant in vivo data can begin."

Strongest advocate of the artificial heart project on the subcommittee is an upstate New York Republican - Rep. Howard Robison, 58-year-old lawyer and World War II Army veteran. He has vigorously supported the program from the start.

In unanimously approving the $2.2 million budget, the subcommittee gave Dr. Johnson all that he asked for.

Addendum: The Atomic Energy Commission sought $2.15 million for a high-priority program of developing synthetic fuels to meet the threatening oil shortage. Two approaches are contemplated by the AEC: (1) coal gasification based on a concept developed at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory; (2) coal liquefaction of high-sulfur Eastern coals.

AEC experts believe that "if coal - liquefaction were available by 1980, it could significantly reduce US dependence on imported oil."

The US Senate does, however, spend all its time investigating Watergate and badgering and bombarding President Nixon on domestic and foreign policies.

The other day, the august senators took time out from their weighty affairs to genially note that 70-year-old Democratic floor leader Mike Mansfield of Montana had become a grandfather. Waxing lyrical, assistant floor leader Robert Byrd, W-Va., observed:

"The wings of the morning have brought good tidings from afar. Our able and beloved majority leader has realized perhaps the greatest blessing that can come to anyone, the birth of a grandchild."

These congratulatory sentiments were echoed by the Republican dean of the Senate - George Aiken, sturdy and vigorous 81-year-old Vermonter, 35-year veteran of Congress and ranking minority member of the Foreign Relations and other major committees with a wry aside.

"The Senator from West Virginia has spoken well," commended Aiken. "He has spoken for all of us. And I can well understand how our Majority Leader is thrilled. But I also believe that after he has been thrilled for the eleventh time, as I have been, maybe he'll get used to it."

Grinning, Mansfield agreed. But he admitted being baffled about one thing.

"When I talked to my wife this morning," he related, "I didn't know what our grandchild's name was going to be. I still don't know how the distinguished Senator from West Virginia found that out. But I am delighted that he supplied me and the Senate with the information. The choice couldn't have been better - Caroline Hayes Theresa."

A few minutes later, the Senate was back at its favorite indoor sport - hotly battling the President.

Watergate seen behind Cambodian bombing halt

By SAUL KOHLER
(c) Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — The most significant event that happened in the first half of the 93d Congress is President Nixon's agreement to end the bombing of Cambodia, and most observers are convinced that without Watergate it would not have happened.

For the Congress, currently on extended vacation for the Fourth of July, won a major victory over the administration when Nixon accepted a compromise which presumably will end the bombing on Aug. 15.

Based on a series of interviews with Congressional leaders and staff members, here are the motivations Capitol Hill observers are assigning to what appears to be a capitulation by the President:

Although most Congressmen and senators were tired of bombing Cambodia, Nixon could have made his point in the House of Representatives (which presumably would have sustained vetoes of bills containing end-the-bombing amendments) had his popularity been higher. But Nixon's polls show him at a low point, and he was in no position to trifle with a determined Congress.

The President no longer has the heart to fight the legislators. He could have kept on with the vetoes and the Congress would have kept sending the amendments, and eventually there would have been a showdown. But the President cannot risk another major loss.

Henry Kissinger, the President's right arm for foreign policy matters, has told senators and representatives that the war in Cambodia reasonably can be expected to conclude by the end of August.

The cutoff date proposed by the President merely stepped it up by two weeks and saved a good deal of trouble.

Nixon left himself an "out," the proviso that he may return to Congress for permission to continue the bombing beyond the Aug. 15 deadline or to resume it at any time thereafter. But most Congressmen feel Nixon won't ask for that permission and that even if he did, he wouldn't get it unless he had compelling reasons.

This is significant because he gave something he had refused to give for four and a half years, said a high-placed Republican Congressional source. "And we are convinced that this could not have happened without Watergate. Had the President been as popular as he was before Watergate, he would have had the people on his side, and he wouldn't have had to give in."

Other than the Cambodian bombing compromise, Congressional sources do not consider anything else in the past six months significant, with the exception, of course, of the Senate committee investigating the 1972 Presidential election and its electrifying disclosures.

"There was nothing much for the Congress to do this time," said the GOP official. "There is no war in Vietnam, the White House really didn't propose all that much, and what it did propose, Congress won't accept readily."

The major presidential proposal was the department of natural resources, or whatever they called it. You could say that in view of the Watergate mess, the White House is treading water, just trying to keep going until things ease up a little bit.

When the lawmakers return on July 9 (Senate) and July 10 (House), the spotlight again will be on Watergate as former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell takes the stand before Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N. C., and his committee.

Over on the floor, there will be action on various bills, such as minimum wage, pension plans, a tax bill, and appropriations measures. The latter are crucial, the range in importance from top level to so-what.

"They already are talking about final adjournment, and they are discussing Oct. 1 after taking the whole month of August for a vacation," a Congressman said. "More realistically, it will be Nov. 15, but once we pass the appropriations we really could go home for the year."

The next major piece of business will be the foreign trade bill, which will be considered in the House in July and in the Senate in late September. Most hands agree the controversial Jackson amendment dealing with emigration problems will be watered down somewhat, and that in most cases, compromises will be reached when there is controversy.

Even that prediction could not have been made were it not for the presence on the White House staff of Mel Laird, a Democrat said. "He understands us when we talk to him and he can then lay it on the line for the President." But Laird — former member of Congress and former secretary of defense — would have remained in private life were it not for Watergate and the shakeup of the White House staff.

"You may call it 1973 if you like," a longtime Senate staff member said. "On Capitol Hill, we call it 19-Watergate — and every day, it looks more as though we're right."

Sen. Kennedy lashes out at President

DECATUR, Ala. (UPI) — Sen. Edward F. Kennedy, D-Mass., apparently moving to reunify the Democratic Party, spoke at a ceremony honoring Gov. George C. Wallace for patriotism Wednesday and lashed the Nixon Administration for "trampling upon the creed of democracy."

Kennedy praised Wallace as the embodiment of "the spirit of every American to speak his mind and be heard—fearlessly and in any part of the country."

And while noting that he and Wallace "have different opinions on some important issues," Kennedy said they have one thing in common: A dislike of the tactics of the Nixon Administration.

"We don't compile lists of enemies whose careers and lives are to be shattered because of their disagreement," he said. "We don't use the tactics of the criminal or the power of the law in order to silence those whose ideas of politics are different from our own."

In his strongest criticism of the Watergate scandal, Kennedy said the Nixon Administration had "transgressed, ignored and trampled upon the creed of democracy."

Kennedy told newsmen later that he was not now in favor of impeaching Nixon, but he might be later if the facts brought out in the Watergate hearings are not refuted. Wallace refused to discuss the issue, saying "There's plenty of time to talk about Watergate later."

Many observers saw the appearance of Kennedy with Wallace as a first step toward patching up the tattered Democratic Party by the expected 1976 presidential candidate.

National Democratic Chairman Robert Strauss was one of those calling the joint appearance a "benchmark in party unification."

Kennedy said he talked with Wallace about 45 minutes before his speech, but that national politics were not discussed. It is too early, he said, to speculate on the 1976 presidential campaign.

A Kennedy aide later said that while the senator was not interested in forging any new political bonds with Wallace, he was trying to "mend some fences" in the South.

Kennedy stood with Wallace on the speakers' platform as the governor was presented with the "Spirit of America Festival's" patriotism award. A special device was set up behind the podium so that Wallace, paralyzed from the waist down an assassin's bullet, could stand to receive the award from city officials.

"Frankly, I think this is one of the high water marks of my career," Wallace said.

Hopeful candidates?

California fire said 'contained'

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — The "One Horse Fire," the worst to strike California this year, has been declared contained after a five-day battle. The fire still burns and forestry officials are still looking for men with both firefighting and mountain climbing experience.

Although the blaze is now ringed in, hot spots inside the perimeter could continue to burn for three or four weeks, officials said. Much of the fire is burning stands of pine trees in remote, almost inaccessible, wilderness canyons. Even helicopters can't land men in those areas, fire officials have said. They are canvassing the Western states for seasoned rock climbers with fire fighting experience—the only men with the skills to clamber hundreds of feet down sheer cliffs and then cut a fire break ahead of pine-fed flames.

Evangelist mystified by audits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham says he is "completely mystified" by a report that White House pressure was used to block an audit of his income taxes.

"I have never asked for any intervention and I have not been aware of any intervention," the magazine Christianity Today quoted Graham on Wednesday as saying.

Ousted White House Counsel John W. Dean III testified at the Senate Watergate hearings that persons brought pressure on him to help stop tax audits that were being made on some of President Nixon's friends.

"I was told I was to do something about these audits that were being performed on two friends of the President, that they felt they were being harassed and the like," Dean testified Friday. He said he later saw a memo on which then White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman had written "This has already been taken care of."

Military leaders support Allende

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Military commanders pledged support Wednesday for President Salvador Allende in his efforts to form a new cabinet. Allende conferred with night with officials of the first Popular Unity coalition on the vacant cabinet posts. He said he would announce the new cabinet later.

Civilians, like the one who quit Tuesday to give him freedom of action in restructuring the government.

The cabinet shakeup unfolded against a background of rumors about military unrest and came six days after 22 persons were slain in an unsuccessful rebel tank regiment attack on the presidential palace.

The armed forces commanders, saying they were responding to "national concern," pledged to continue supporting Chile's government and constitution.

The commanders said they had called on Allende at the palace and told him "of the invariable respect of the armed forces for the constitutional regimen and for presidential prerogatives."

Allende was reported considering a request by Ecuador concerning safe conduct for the president and four executives of the militant rightist Fatherland and Liberty movement, which Allende has linked to the revolt.

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The University of California reports that UC Berkeley and Stanford University lead the nation in number of faculty members receiving 1973 Guggenheim Fellowship Awards. Sixteen academicians at each school were honored with the fellowship. Other leading institutions with Guggenheim scholars are Columbia with 15, Yale with 11, Cornell with 10 and University of Chicago with nine.

Bus driver escapes from man with gun

LINDSAY, Tex. (UPI) — Bus driver Eddie Holland's only passengers were a man and a woman. The woman got off downtown, but the man pulled a gun and demanded to be taken to Oklahoma.

Holland to get off the bus and walk to the water's edge. "You know too much about me," the hijacker said as they slid down to the creek bed. But that was the last thing Holland heard, for at that moment the gunman slipped and fell.

"I ran like hell and got away," Holland said. "I got back to the road and saw this man harvesting his crops. He took me to his house and we called the police."

The hijacker escaped. State police recovered the bus on Farm Road 1199 at the foot of Elm Creek Bridge a mile southwest of Lindsay.

Job lack causes urban unrest

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The "single most explosive factor" in black urban ghettos is joblessness among the youth, and it is worsening while the government is "perpetuating racist job patterns," NAACP Labor Director Herbert Hill charged today.

contract to a discriminatory employer, or fails to enforce the law against job bias, or lets federal monies be used to subsidize racial discrimination in employment. "We are reminded again and again that under Nixon, the vast power of the United States government has been placed on the side of those institutions that are perpetuating racist job patterns through the American economy.

"The rates of unemployment among black youth have now reached disaster levels; and if they continue and, unfortunately, there is every reason to believe they will, then it is necessary to conclude that virtually an entire generation of ghetto youth will never enter into the labor force," Hill said in remarks prepared for delivery to an address to the 64th annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People here.

He said such youth will face a marginal, alienated existence, separate and unequal in American society.

"This development is the single most explosive factor in causing urban unrest and has dangerous implications for every city and suburb in the United States," he said. "Benign neglect has now become criminal complicity."

Hill said each time the federal government grants a

Queen opens '73 stampede

REGINA, Sask. (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip moved westward into the early days of the Canadian frontier today to open the 1973 Calgary Stampede and put a colorful end to their 11-day royal tour.

The royal couple will officially open the annual stampede, then go directly to Calgary Airport for the flight home aboard an Air Canada DCB airplane. Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and Governor General Roland Michener will bid them farewell.

The Queen and Prince Philip Wednesday completed a 46-hour visit to Regina, where they celebrated the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) Centennial and heard a plea from Saskatchewan Indians to help them lift "the yoke of dependence" placed on them by governments.

Several thousand persons turned out in Regina to watch the royal couple parade past Wednesday in an open carriage drawn by four matched black horses and an RCMP mounted escort.

At the RCMP training depot, RCMP Commissioner William L. Higgitt presented the Queen a magnificent black gelding, centennial, to commemorate her presence at the RCMP's 100th-anniversary celebrations.

"He's so beautiful. He's so beautiful," a beaming Queen Elizabeth said to Higgitt when the horse was brought before her. Twice the queen attempted to pat the high-spirited mount, but both times he pranced out of reach.

During the colorful RCMP ceremony, the president of the Federation of Saskatchewan Indians, David Ahenakew, presented the Queen a scroll and a peace pipe and asked her to help the native peoples.

"A great majority of our people still live in a state of isolation and poverty. We are shackled by the yoke of dependence imposed upon us by government," said the chief, dressed in beaded white buckskin and wearing a multi-colored feather headdress.

"The threat to our treaties and the broken promises bewilder, confuse and frighten us, and are the cause of many of our problems, he said.

Happy mood reflected

QUEEN Elizabeth reflects a happy mood as she talks with Cree Indian George Gordon Tootoosis who is from the Poundmaker Reservation at Cutknife Saskatchewan. They were members of the Prairie International Dance rs who put on a show for the Queen at Wascana Park, Regina, Saskatchewan, Wednesday. (UPI)

Parades, speeches highlight July 4

By United Press International — Fireworks, parades, patriotic speeches and rock festivals highlighted the Fourth of July — the 197th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

In Lubbock, Tex., 300 persons were arrested Wednesday night when police said they prevented fire officials from extinguishing grass fires set during a Fourth of July fireworks display. At least three persons, including a policeman, were injured, police said.

Another 15 persons were arrested in Davenport, Iowa, where rain dampened a rock music festival on the Mississippi River levees. Only 5,000 of the expected 40,000 persons attended the festival. The 15 were arrested for minor law infractions, police said.

Across the country, despite thunderstorms and damaging winds in the Midwest and torrential rain in Vermont and New Hampshire, it was a fitting day for a glorious Fourth.

Queen Elizabeth II, whose ancestor, George III, was denounced in the Declaration of Independence, sent her congratulations to the United States.

Charlie Smith, the nation's oldest Social Security beneficiary, celebrated his 131st birthday along with the rest of the nation. He sipped "a little whisky" at his Bartow, Fla., home, then told tales of his 19th century experience. In Milwaukee, Wis., one of the best Fourth of July parades in the country was held.

Julie airs father's reactions to scandal

resignation eyed.

SAN CLEMENTE, CALIF. (UPI) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower says her father was so overwhelmed when he learned the scope of the Watergate scandal that he thought about resigning the presidency for the good of the country. But the family talked him out of it, she said.

She said the question of the President resigning came up at a family gathering at Camp David, their mountaintop retreat in Maryland, May 4.

"The family talked him out of quitting, she said, because they felt it would be an admission of wrong doing" and that he was needed in the presidency.

"He was playing the devil's advocate one evening, saying, 'well, say, the thing is, he really loves the country and he'd do anything... that was best for the country. You know, he would say 'should I resign? Would it be better for the country?' Would the wounds heal faster? Would it (the country) be able to move faster to other things?"

"We said no. We didn't think he should because resigning would be an admission of wrong doing and we also felt that he was the man for the job and he had started things and needed to finish them. But he is really that kind of person. I think it was more than just a rhetorical question. I think he really thought 'will this end everything?'"

Julie was interviewed by two wire service reporters at the Sarr Clemente Inn Tuesday, two days before her 25th birthday.

Tracing her father's reactions to the Watergate scandal, she said she felt Nixon "was terribly distressed and shaken because of the things he found out in March."

"Just realizing what the whole Watergate thing was," she said. "He was just really in the dark." She said the conversation about resigning took place just four days after the president ousted his top aides, H. R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and John Dean.

"The fact that he had to completely reorganize his staff... that he depended heavily on, that is no longer there," she went on, "and he has certain working patterns and did things through his staff system. It's very orderly and an organized way of working. It's difficult to have an upheaval."

The President's soft spoken, vivacious youngest daughter has been a self-appointed public defender of her father during the Watergate scandal. She has traveled the nation making speeches in his behalf, maintaining a busy schedule.

What struck him the most? "I guess... just realizing what the whole Watergate thing was."

My father really just had complete faith in everyone around him," she said, explaining why it took the president so long to realize something was wrong.

"All I can say is that he was being assured that no one else (in the White House) was involved," she said.

Julie said her father has been saddened particularly by the number of bright, young men around him whose jobs, and futures have been ruined by their involvement in the Watergate.

"They weren't out for personal gain and that's part of the tragedy," Julie confided. "I think that's hurt him deeply to see these men, you know, finished as far as any kind of government job or political..."

She said the President hadn't made any public judgements, however, on which members of his staff let him down.

The President's present mood, she said, is "very good. He's moving ahead, and he's going to wait until the hearings are completed before he makes another statement (on Watergate). I think that's only fair, not to prejudice."

Kissinger plans Chen's US visit

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Henry Kissinger can sally forth, with the nerve of a hangman, to outmaneuver wily and obstinate world figures, linker with history and putter with the nuclear power blocs.

He would have you believe, however, that he comes unstrung when faced with social projects that Perle Mesta would have dismissed with a laugh.

That's what he says, facing the task of arranging a post-dinner in Beverly Hills Friday night for Huang Chen, the ranking Chinese representative to the United States.

"It drives me 'out of my mind," Kissinger said.

"Give me a good negotiation. I lose my cool planning the guest list and seating."

This is the second week in a row that Kissinger has had to entertain a foreign diplomat visiting the Western White House. Last Friday was a dinner at Chasens in Los Angeles for French-Foreign Minister Michel Jobert.

Hollywood stars figured prominently on the guest list.

Kissinger is plugged into the Hollywood scene, and will escort his long time good friend, actress Jill St. John, to the party for the Chinese diplomat.

Will she act as hostess? "Absolutely not," Kissinger said.

The guest list of 40 for the party at the chic Le Bistro Friday includes entertainer Danny Kaye and a sprinkling of other stars producer Billy Wilder, Los Angeles Times Publisher Otis Chandler and Times editor Bill Thomas, and about 10 members of the White House staff.

Will President Nixon be there? "He doesn't go to parties," Kissinger said.

Kissinger planned to prepare himself for the party by taking his children by his former wife — Elizabeth, 14 and David, 12 — on a tour of Paramount Studios today.

To teasing that he is becoming a Hollywood social figure, he replied "I'm going for my children."

"My own necessities are met."

Animal cruelty charges pending

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Charges of animal cruelty and improper use of firearms have been filed against a local animal bi-products company after employees allegedly shot a horse 11 times in an attempt to destroy it for the owner.

Tuan Little, executive director, of the Humane Society of Utah, said he filed charges against Colorado-Utah-Idaho International Animal Bi-products Co.

Little said his men were called to the company's plant at 21st South and 7th West by an employee of a car dealership next door who said employees of the bi-products company were chasing a horse and firing at it with a pistol.

When Little arrived, he said the horse had 10 slugs in it from its head to its rump and was being chased under a freeway overpass. The Humane Society got the bi-products company men to herd the horse back onto their property and into a garage where an injection of sodium pentobarbital was given to the horse. The 30 cc injection tranquilized the animal and allowed one last bullet to be fired into its brain, killing it.

Little said he would ask the County Attorney to issue an injunction to prevent the bi-products company from destroying animals in this manner in the future.

A spokesman for the company said the animal was brought to them by its owner to be destroyed allegedly because the horse had a deformed ankle.

Little said the horse, a one-year-old Appaloosa stud, did not appear to be badly deformed or limping.

The Humane Society wants the company, reportedly, a division of Beatrice Foods, to install a more humane method of destroying animals.

Ravine sculpture

THIS GROTESQUE scene, symbolizing an African ceremonial graveyard, is the creation of Richard Hunt, left, of East St. Louis, Ill., an art student at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Hunt produced the wall sculpture in a scenic ravine on the 2,800-acre-SIU campus during a two-week workshop in May, called "Touch the Earth." He was assisted by Berlings Kaunda, a graduate student from Malawi, Africa. (UPI)

Frustrating

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Romeo II, a honey-bear looking for a girlfriend, is on the loose, but it's a frustrating search — outside of the zoo, he's the only kinkajou in town.

Dr. Reider Wennesland reported to police Tuesday that the 3-year-old bear fled his home in the Potrero Hill section and was "in the prime of his life," looking for a mate.

Neighbors said they have heard his "jeep-jeep" pleas at night and sighted him in their fruit trees.

Wennesland said kinkajous like fruit and "he'll probably start looking for a female kinkajou as soon as he gets his fill."

College refutes dismissal charge

BOISE (UPI) — The president of North Idaho College says the termination of a faculty member was not because of her anti-administration activities.

President Barry G. Schuler filed a statement in US District Court in Boise, answering a lawsuit against the college and trustees by attorney Bliss O. Bignall and his wife, Annette, a French teacher.

The Bignalls contend she was terminated from the faculty because of their activities on behalf of minority race students. Bignall is an attorney.

They also charge there was a conspiracy to discourage pupils from enrolling in her French class, which was eliminated from the schedule.

But Schuler in his statement attributed "disinterest" of students as part of the reason for eliminating the class.

Schuler added that Mrs. Bignall was terminated after the trustees told him to cut the faculty by two members next year.

Saturday turn-in day for Y aluminum drive

TWIN FALLS — Saturday is Turn-In-Day for the aluminum can drive to raise funds for the YMCA swimming pool now under construction.

Dale Pippitt, storage and sales committee chairman, said he expects more than 2,500 pounds of aluminum cans will be turned in for sale at the Jaycee Recycling Center.

The cans should be turned in at 10 a.m. Saturday at the swimming pool construction site at the YMCA-YWCA, 1751 Elizabeth Blvd., Twin Falls.

June winners of the Youth Aluminum can drive, announced by Matt Smith, general chairman of the can drive, include Timmy Langdon, the top aluminum can producer who brought in 447 pounds of aluminum during June.

Other winners include Mike Ikler, Jay Braux, Sylvia Maldonado, Tracy Irish, Nancy Donnelly, Dennis Smith, Chris Haynes, Steve Upton and Steven Swafford.

These top 10 producers will receive their choice of prizes at the turn-in site Saturday at 10 a.m. The youth aluminum can drive in June produced more than 940 pounds of aluminum.

Wildlife station mistaken target

NORTON AFB, Calif. (UPI) — Two Air Force jet pilots mistook a wildlife field station, inhabited by four persons, for a target on a gunnery range and dropped six bombs on it, an Air Force spokesman said Tuesday.

The bombs struck the earth and exploded, all of them hit at least 1,100 feet from the buildings, the Air Force Inspection and Safety Center said.

The only damage was broken windows, shrapnel holes in the roof of a hay shed and some fallen plaster. Cost of repairs was estimated at $200.

The incident took place April 5, a spokesman said, and involved two A7D Corsairs from Nellis AFB, Nev., dispatched on a practice bombing run over a target on the Indian Springs Gunnery Range in the Nevada desert.

By mistake, the pilots instead bombed the Corn Creek Field Station at the Desert National Wildlife Refuge, the Air Force said. There were three buildings at the station, housing, at the time of the bombing, three men and the wife of one of them.

The report said the station is 11 miles from the target but the planes were supposed to bomb, located in similar terrain, and the lights from the buildings form a pattern much like that of the lights that identify the practice target.

King, Evert celebrate 4th with Wimbledon victories

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Billie Jean King of Hilton Head, S.C., and Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., celebrated the fourth of July by beating two members of the British Commonwealth to achieve the first all-American final in the women's singles of the Wimbledon championships since 1958.

Defending titleholder Billie Jean beat third-seeded Evonne Goolagong 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 in a routine, only occasionally exciting, semifinal in which the speedy Australian saved seven match points before drilling the eighth into the net.

Miss Evert, a cool, calculating 18-year-old, put together what she herself described as the greatest play of her career to eliminate the top seed Margaret Court of Australia, 6-1, 1-6, 6-1. Until she ran into the American girl's two-handed backhands, Mrs. Court had hopes of an unprecedented second grand slam of the big four tennis titles.

Mrs. King beat Miss Goolagong in the finals last year and Wednesday's match was a somewhat duller replay. The Australian dropped her service in the third game of the first set on her own errors and Mrs. King returned the compliment, losing her own service in the sixth game. Miss Goolagong dropped her service again in the eighth game and Mrs. King served the set winner.

The second set opened with five service breaks in a row until Mrs. King held her own to 4-2 helped by a bad call on a lob that Miss Goolagong planted on the baseline. Miss Goolagong broke through at love to 4-1 but dropped her own service when she hit game point into the net with the court wide open.

Mrs. King had a match point in the 10th game but Miss Goolagong drove the ball at her feet and the Australian saved a second match point with a placement. She lobbed for the service break, held her own service and broke through for the set on Mrs. King's errors.

Mrs. King exhibited a great deal of dismay at her game, pounding her racket on the turf, crying aloud in agony and giving herself a heart-to-heart talk from time to time.

They broke each other's service to open the final set. Billie Jean held her service at love to 2-1. The courts, baked by days of sunshine, were giving erratic bounces where the grass was worn thin.

Miss Goolagong served the final game. She saved the third match point of the match with a placement; the fourth with a hard service, the fifth with another placement. Mrs. King netted the sixth match point and Evonne neatly turned a forehand placement to the sidelines at the seventh match point.

Then came the fatal eighth, and Evonne overhit.

Two Americans have not met in the women's finals since Althea Gibson beat Darlene Hard 16 years ago.

Miss Evert, reaching the heights of her game when she needed it, scored a stunning upset in eliminating Mrs. Court.

She dominated the first and third sets as the Australian has not been outplayed since the earliest days of her career. With the exception of the second set, Miss Evert dictated the strategy of a duel that fascinated a capacity crowd in Center court.

Mayer sets heart on tennis finals

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Alex Mayer has his heart set on that rarity of tennis — an unseeded player in the Wimbledon singles final.

Alex Metreveli has his ambitions fixed on an ever rarer goal — a Russian in the finals.

Mayer, the Mt. Freedom, N.J. amateur and intercollegiate champion, meets fourth-seeded Metreveli today in one of the two semifinals that will determine the lineup for the finals on Saturday.

He will start even money for bookmakers are shy of betting against a man who eliminated the top seed and the eighth seed in his two last matches.

In the other semifinals Britain's third-seeded Roger Taylor is also even money against Czechoslovakia's second-seeded Jan Kodis.

Taylor beat Sweden's 17-year-old Bjorn Borg in a match in which, after the first set, he was fighting from behind. But Kodis had more trouble than he expected with India's unseeded Vitraj Amritraj.

Football player said offered $10,000 bribe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jerry Sturm, a 15-year veteran center of both the National and Canadian football leagues, said he was offered bribes while playing with the Houston Oilers by a former player and friend, according to a story in the Washington Post Wednesday.

Sturm, 36, would not name the player involved, according to the Post story. He said he was offered $10,000 each for three games at the end of the 1971 season for his efforts in affecting point spreads. Sturm said he reported the alleged bribe attempts to then head coach Ed Hughes, who arranged a meeting with NFL security representatives in the Houston area.

A spokesman for the NFL confirmed the meeting. "We have been aware of this matter from the very outset," the spokesman said. "We have given all the information to the proper authorities at the Department of Justice and all queries should now be referred to them."

Sturm recounted that the first game was with the Pittsburgh Steelers, a contest in which the Oilers were underdogs.

"I was told that all I had to do was to make a bad snap from center if our team got down close to the goal line or on a field goal or an extra point," Sturm told the Post. The Oilers eventually won the game 29-3.

Now a partner in a Denver restaurant, Sturm said he was told by the FBI about a month ago that he would be asked to testify before a grand jury in Washington.

Referring to the player who allegedly made the bribe, Sturm said, "He was a good AFL player, but he never played in the NFL (under the post-merger format)." Sturm said his friend arrived in Houston from California the week of the Oilers' home game against Pittsburgh. "Then he made the offers, but I said there was no way I would jeopardize myself or my wife or kids or the team," Sturm said.

Asked if he had any emotional problems in reporting the alleged offer, Sturm said, "I had no qualms, because I did not ever want to hurt my family. I kept thinking — what if I had a bad snap the next day?"

The Post reported that a source close to the Sturm case said the government had been hesitant to prosecute for lack of corroborative evidence, but that last week pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle disclosed that the case had been reopened.

Asked about his friend's background, Sturm told the Post, "I heard he was doing good; that he had a boating and used-car business; that's what he told me."

Sturm retired from football after playing last year with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Title ticket set at $180

TOKYO (UPI) — It will cost 50,000 yen ($180) for the top ringside seats at the Nihon Budokan hall in Tokyo to see world heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman make his first title defense Sept. 1 against Joe Roman of Puerto Rico.

Other ticket prices will range from 500 yen ($1.80) to 30,000 yen ($115) according to the Nippon Education Television (NET) company, the sponsors. Tickets will go on sale July 1.

World Boxing Council (WBC) junior lightweight champion Ricardo Arredondo of Mexico will defend his title against Japan's Morito Kashiwaba on the same card.

Programs set in Ketchum

KETCHUM — A series of five natural history and ecology programs will begin July 11 in Ketchum.

The free programs are sponsored by the Sun Valley Creative Arts Center Environmental Education Grant and are under the direction of Kenneth Kinucan.

The July 11 program will begin at 8 p.m. at the Ernest Hemingway Elementary School. Featured speaker for the program will be Robert Aulenreith, a research biologist for the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

Aulenreith's major interests include sage grouse and pronghorned antelope. Similar programs will be conducted July 18 and 25, and Aug. 1 and 8.

The future programs will include guest speakers: Dr. Barry Keller, Idaho State University, a population biologist; Blair Baldwin, U. S. Forest Service, who will speak on edible plants and wildflowers of the area; A speaker on fire ecology; and a Soil Conservation Service official.

The public is invited.

Program set

JEROME — The Bible Baptist Church here will sponsor a music group "Sound of Destiny" from Heritage College, Anahiem, Calif., at 8 p.m. Friday.

The group consists of a trio, solo and a harpist. Pastor Baler encourages interested persons to hear the program.

Demo's telethon to kill deficit

By JOEL WEISMAN (c) Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO — Democratic state chairmen have announced plans for a six-hour national fund-raising telethon aimed at wiping out the national party's $3 million deficit.

Forty of the chairmen met here Tuesday with an agenda centered on public fund-raising, but much of the closed session reportedly dealt with political strategy and the Watergate scandal.

Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss warned all in hearing distance not to become complacent about the 1974 congressional elections because of the Watergate affair.

"We can't campaign on a negative basis," Strauss said in an interview, "but the Watergate scandal could help politically if we also go to the people with positive programs and articulate the numerous other national issues."

The six-hour telethon is scheduled for Sept. 15, which has been dubbed "Celebrate America Day" by the Democrats. It will be broadcast nationally by the National Broadcasting Co. between 7 p.m. and 2 a.m. (EST).

The Democrats' last national telethon was not in prime time but was a huge financial success, netting the party $4 million. That event, featuring a host of Hollywood and Broadway celebrities, was the Sunday before last summer's Democratic National Convention.

Unlike that event, proceeds from Celebrate America Day are to be split evenly between the national party and the state organization.

Record set for no news

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon appears headed toward setting a modern day record for time elapsed between presidential news conferences.

Nixon already holds the current record—four and a half months without meeting reporters—set between June 30 and Dec. 10, 1970.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters this week Nixon would hold no news conference until after the Senate-Watergate Committee finishes taking testimony from witnesses. It is estimated that will not be until at least mid-August.

Since Nixon's last news conference was March 15, the stretch between meetings could reach at least five months.

Nixon has held 31 news conferences since taking office—eight the first year, four the second, nine the third, seven the fourth and three so far this year.

ROY HELMS gets post

Ex-local man gets arts post

Roy H. Helms, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Helms, Twin Falls, has been appointed executive director of the Alaska State Council on the Arts.

Prior to his latest appointment, Helms served as executive director of the Alaska Festival of Music and as program service coordinator for the Alaska State Council on the Arts.

Deadline given for 4-H awards

GLENN'S FERRY — All 4-H club members must complete national report forms by July 18 if they are to be eligible for scholarships and state and national events.

Mrs. Marilyn Jordan, home extension agent, said club members may win trips to Chicago in November for the National 4-H Club Congress or may be selected as an Idaho delegate to Washington, D. C., in April if the report forms are submitted properly.

The forms are also required for those competing for the Standard Oil Scholarship and the awards to the Elmore County outstanding 4-H boy and girl.

Forms are available from the county extension office or by calling 247-0000.

Jerome canning kitchen elects

JEROME — Fern Brown has been named chairman of the board of directors of the Jerome Canning Kitchen. It was announced today.

Other officers of the board are Wenona Gulick, vice chairman; Ella Robinson, secretary; and Nat Spofford, treasurer.

Ella Robinson, Jerome, has been re-elected to the board. Dawn Thompson has been hired to serve as registrar for the coming season. Albert Vogel will again serve as boilerman.

According to Mrs. Brown, a can stacker is still needed.

Interested persons may contact Mrs. Robinson at 324-4473 or Spofford at 324-5112.

Those wishing to can soon, Mrs. Brown said, should contact a member of the board of directors. She said requested canning dates will determine the opening date of the kitchen.

The Jerome Canning Kitchen has operated for more than 30 years and is operated as a cooperative. Those using the facilities pay a $1 fee for a number allowing them to use the kitchen. They pay for the number of cans used upon completion of their canning, according to Mrs. Brown.

Shoshone youths hunting insects

SHOSHONE — The 4-H entomology project members here are now involved in the "insect hunt."

According to Stacie Churchman, cooperative extension aide, this year is expected to be a particularly busy one for the 4-H members, as the wet spring helped produce more mosquitoes.

Supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, the 4-H entomologists start their study by making collections of insects common to their areas. They learn insect control and as much as possible about each species.

Along with an infestation of mosquitoes are increasing numbers of gypsy moths. The gypsy moth larvae are particularly damaging to foliage. As hutchkers, they are unsurpassed as they travel from one area to another by car, truck, camper and rail.

Awaiting boys

ENOUGH canoes to launch a small invasion await the arrival of 25,000 Boy Scouts for Jamboree West, to be held at Farragut State Park, Idaho, Aug. 1-7. The boys will come from throughout the United States for an experience, according to National Boy Scout officials, which will provide travel, training and rare chances to share experiences with other Scouts. Price gloom grows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's hope that food prices can be stabilized through the rest of this year may be realized if the price freeze is lifted quickly, and if farmers are able to harvest hoped-for record crops this fall, a top government economist said.

But it's too early to make any firm forecast about food price trends for the rest of 1973. Don Paarlberg, director of economics for the Agriculture Department, added in an interview. Another government expert said privately that current official estimates of 1973 average food costs may have to be boosted again later this summer.

The administration's currently operative food price prediction, issued June 19, by the Agriculture Department, says that "if present demand and supply expectations are realized, little if any further price increases will be forthcoming after the 60-day price ceiling period... and retail food prices for 1973 may average about 12 per cent above a year earlier."

Experts say that forecast was based on the hope that despite last spring's floods and planting delays caused by wet fields, farmers have managed to plant enough corn and soybeans to reach the record harvests sought by administration planners. 6 billion bushels of corn and 1.5 billion bushels of soybeans.

Agriculture Department experts continue to say that planting indications point to the possibility of reaching those goals. But at least one recent private survey predicted that while the soybean goal will be reached, corn planting may have fallen short by about 2 million acres. The first official Agriculture Department planting estimate will be issued July 10.

Since the Agriculture Department's June 19 prediction of little gain in food prices beyond present peaks was drafted, Paarlberg conceded, several gloomy new developments have appeared. An estimate of hog production late last month showed farmers were not planning the hefty increases forecast earlier. And poultry and milk producers warned they were cutting back production because they were squeezed between the administration's June 13 food price ceiling and record-high feed costs.

Some experts here fear that even if the food cost situation is eased later by the impact of a recent order to slow exports and record 1973 harvests, enough damage may have already been done to force food prices for the rest of this year somewhat above the level predicted in late June. But until the duration of price ceilings and the shape of the 1973 crops becomes apparent, government specialists are reluctant to talk publicly about revising their July 19 prediction.

As Paarlberg sees it, one key to heading off further sharp gains in retail food prices lies in quick action to end the crunch which has seen egg producers, for example, blaming that with recent food costs and current food ceiling prices they will lose 4 cents on every dozen eggs.

Continue harvest

WITH KERCHIEF over face for protection from dust and sun, unidentified member of Teamsters Union picks seedless grapes near Indio, Calif., while United Farm Workers Union members picket in background. Harvest has reached halfway point and is continuing, with about 1.5 million boxes of grapes shipped. (UPI)

Teamsters pull harvest guards

COACHELLA, Calif. (UPI) — The Teamsters Union said Tuesday it is pulling its harvest guards out of the troubled vineyards of the Coachella Valley, where they have been confronting and battling the United Farm Workers Union (AFWU) of Cesar Chavez.

"We have been given assurances that there are now enough law enforcement agents in the Coachella Valley to protect our members from the UFWU, and since that is the only reason we sent people there in the first place, then we will remove the men if those assurances are kept," a spokesman for Einar Mohn, head of the Teamster Western Conference, said.

"The Teamsters and Chavez' UFWU have been feuding for 16 months over control of the grape pickers who work the Southern California vineyards.

There have been a number of battles between members and supporters of the two unions and hundreds of arrests. Clubs, knives and pistols have been brandished, nails spread on roads, workers and pickets beaten up and cars bombed.

The UFWU is picketing vineyards owned by growers who have contracts with the Teamsters. The UFWU accuses the Teamsters of being in cahoots with the growers in a plot to strangle Chavez' union.

The Teamsters sent about 550 guards, husky members from outside the area, to the vineyards, saying the farm workers were intimidating Teamsters working in the fields and would beat up the non-strikers unless kept out.

Most of the grape pickers are Mexican-Americans, as are most of the UFWU members.

The UFWU argued that the real function of the Teamsters guards was to keep the pickers from joining the strike, not to protect them from the pickets.

The Riverside County Sheriff's Department has assigned 75 to 200 deputies a day to keep the peace, and the force has remained at about 200 men since the level of violence began to escalate last week, a department spokesman said.

Tour set

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone district advisory board and the Bureau of Land Management will conduct a summer field tour July 11.

The tour will begin at the district office in Shoshone.

The areas to be toured are Richfield Cattle Allotment, West Magic, Macon Flat, Wood River Recreation Area, Ketchum-Hailey Livestock Trail and Pagart Allotment.

Less coffee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department predicted Tuesday that world coffee production will drop 9 per cent in the 1973-74 marketing year, which begins Oct. 1. This would tend to raise coffee prices.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service estimated the 1973-74 world crop at 66.9 million bags, about 9 per cent below the 1972-73 harvest of 73.2 million bags.

It attributed the drop primarily to a July, 1972, freeze which destroyed most of the crop in the Brazilian state of Parana.

Big cherry crop seen

SPOKANE (UPI) — Ken Severn, manager of the Washington State Fruit Commission, Tuesday said a bumper crop is expected in cherries this year.

Severn says the industry expects to load 30,000 tons for fresh markets and process another 10,000 tons for other markets.

He said the figures compared to 14,000 tons shipped and 5,000 tons processed last year.

BLM asked to combat hoppers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A plague of grasshoppers in south-eastern Idaho has come to the attention of the Bureau of Land Management for investigation into possible ways to deal with the infestation.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said he requested the BLM investigation of the situation after reports reached him of problems farmers are facing because of the grasshoppers.

"Unless remedial action is immediately forthcoming private land owners could suffer irreparable injury," Church said.

Arkansas markets shut down

WARREN, Ark. (UPI) — The South Arkansas tomato markets at Warren, Morrill and Magnolia have closed. Growers blamed the halt Tuesday on the price freeze scaring buyers off.

The markets closed after an agent for the Internal Revenue Service arrived on the scene to check for possible violations of the 60-day price freeze at the grower level.

The growers, confused over the base price situation in light of a late crop caused by adverse weather, asked the president's Cost of Living Council for an exemption. The council refused.

"I am fully aware of the tragic consequences of this decision," said Rep. Ray S. Thornton Jr., D-Ark. "I have sent telegrams to President Nixon and the Cost of Living Council requesting reconsideration of this decision."

Budget set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has approved a $24 million budget for a controversial private cotton promotion group but is withholding $10 million of the money until Congress finally decides whether to withdraw the funds.

Agriculture Department officials said Butz has approved a detailed list of plans and projects to be carried out by the promotion group, Cotton, Inc., during the fiscal year which began July 1. They said $14 million included in the budget comes from funds raised by cotton growers, and the amount is available for use immediately.

Cong charge US war aid

PARIS (UPI) — The Viet Cong accused the United States Wednesday of sending war aid to Saigon and said U.S.-backed attacks could lead to a serious new situation in Vietnam.

Minister of State Nguyen Van Hieu made the charges at the 15th meeting of Viet Cong and Saigon officials aimed at sorting out their political differences.

According to a joint communique negotiated by U.S. National Security Adviser Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi Politburo member Le Duc Tho aid to the belligerents was to end, and the fighting was to stop.

"Since the signing (June 13) of the common communique, your side (South Vietnam) continues, with U.S. encouragement and support, its policy of torpedoing peace," Hieu said.

He said South Vietnamese troops of division strength launched attacks against Viet Cong zones in Chuong Thien and Kontum provinces, backed by tanks, artillery and planes.

This "has created a very tense situation," Hieu said. Hieu told the chief Saigon negotiator, Nguyen Lau Vien: "If your side persists in this design, the situation cannot but become even more serious and your side will have to bear full responsibility for all the consequences."

The Viet Cong leader told newsmen the United States was "trying to push the South Vietnamese into cease-fire violations in an attempt to keep creating tensions" in Indochina.

Without U.S. support, especially logistic and financial, Saigon could not do what it is doing," he said.

The United States is shipping weapons to Saigon and has pledged $1.9 billion for the three Indochinese countries in aid funds, of which Saigon gets the major share.

Hieu rejected a Saigon plan for elections on Christmas Day and said the two sides must set up a National Council of Reconciliation including a third segment of neutralists to organize elections.

But after the meeting, at the Cote d'Azur club, Hieu said, "I have nothing to report except that we made no progress."

Helicopters aid loggers

(C) Newhouse News Service
WILLAMETTE NATIONAL FOREST, Ore. — Giant helicopters, deployed for years in Vietnam as the Army's workhorses, are now being used in the Pacific Northwest for logging and fighting forest fires on rugged mountainsides.

Much has changed in the national forest over the past decade. But nothing so much as the sight of a 90-foot-long crane whirling around the side of a mountain with two freshly-felled Douglas fir trees hanging from a cable beneath it. Commercial loggers are using the $2-million helicopter in a region of the national forest here on the steep west slope of the Cascade Mountains where the U.S. Forest Service prohibited construction of roads to haul logs by truck. In the past, roads on steep mountainsides produced erosion that is devastating.

Helicopter logging, as it's called, has been used since 1970 to clearcut all the trees — both young and old — in a single forest tract. Now, largely as a result of criticism of such practices by environmental groups, the Forest Service has set aside certain ecologically fragile areas for selective logging of only mature trees.

Selective logging by helicopter requires heavy government subsidy because of its cost — more than $2,500 an hour. This is roughly three times the cost of hauling logs away by truck, including the cost of road construction, according to most estimates.

But in national forest areas like this, where the government has made the decision to cut only mature trees, commercial logging firms are using the big helicopters in increasing numbers. The huge cranes are being used by five timber firms to haul away logs to fertilize and seed cut-over land, and for forest fire suppression. This activity is under way in national forests both in Oregon and California. So far, the use of helicopters on privately owned timberland has not been very economical.

Valley July 4 celebrations draw large crowds

Fourth of July celebrations drew big crowds Wednesday in Buhl, Rupert and Halley.

About 6,000 people attended the annual Sagebrush Days parade in Buhl, according to Calvin Wilde, chairman of the celebration.

Two $100 cash prizes were awarded to the Calvary Assembly of God Church for its grand prize winning float using "smile" theme.

The best marching band prize was awarded to the Filer Marching Band.

Trophies were awarded to the Jerome Junior Riding Club and the Filer Wranglerettes senior riding group. The best commercial float trophy went to Magic Valley Upholstery and Jim's Carpet Shop. The best non-commercial float was entered by the Hagerman Ward LDS Church.

Other trophies went to a clown on a unicycle, best humorous entry; Valley Tractor Co., best antique entry; a stagecoach owned by Ed Vogel, best horsedrawn entry.

Honorable mentions were awarded to Mountain Home Shriners Tin Lizzie group, El Korah Magic Mini-Patrol, Buhl Library, MagicHords, Buhl Feed and Ice, Filer Junior Riding Club and to Ray Meissner for an antique horsedrawn wagon.

Approximately 2,500 people were served at a free barbecue Wednesday afternoon.

In Rupert, Job's Daughters and Anna Christ won top honors in the annual Fourth of July celebration.

Job's Daughters took the grand prize in the parade Wednesday morning with a float entitled "Butterflies are Free, Will Land and Air Be?" The parade theme was "Free Land, Free Air."

Miss Christ, 18, Rupert, was crowned 1974 rodeo queen by outgoing queen Joan Nelson at closing ceremonies of the rodeo Wednesday night. She received, in addition to her tiara, the annual trophy and a silver belt buckle.

First runner-up was Suzette Butler, 17, Rupert, and second runner-up was Joyce Grey, 16, Rupert. Both girls received silver belt buckles.

Other parade winners were Cameron Sutes, first, and Project Mutual Telephone Co., second, in commercial entries; the Lions Club, first, and the ESA Sorority, second, in farm fraternal entries; 4-H Builders Club, first, and Minidoka County Candy Strippers, second, in youth entries; and the Idaho Rangers, first, and Captain Bonneville Wagon Train, second, in the open entries.

There were 25 entries in the parade in addition to nine riding groups, one band and five drill teams.

Nancy Pierson, Gooding, was named Miss Days of the Old West, Wednesday in ceremonies capping Halley's annual two day celebration.

Named as first attendant was Carol Skinner, Twin Falls, who was sponsored by Warm Springs Enterprises. Second attendant is Karen Hill, Twin Falls, sponsored by the Halley Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Pierson, sponsored by the Christiania restaurant, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Pierson, Gooding. A graduate of the Gooding High School, she is majoring in nursing at Boise State College.

Miss Pierson received roses and a trophy from the Days of the Old West committee; $50 in cash from Warm Springs Enterprises; a hair restyling from the Tonsorial Parlor; dinner for two at the Holiday Inn; a $10 gift certificate, from the Sage Shop; a $15 certificate from the B and J's Sports Chalet, and a $10 certificate from Pete Lane's.

Miss Skinner was awarded a trophy, a $10 gift certificate from the Sage Shop; $10 certificates from Aspen Sport and Ketchum Drug; a hair styling from the Holiday Inn Beauty Shop and dinner for two at the Warm Springs Ranch Inn.

Miss Hill received a trophy; a $5 gift certificate from the Wood River Merc; a $10 certificate from the Country Cousin; $5 from Sturtevant's; a hair cut at Alma's beauty shop, and dinner for two at Louie's.

Cologne from Chateau Drug was given the fourth attendant and a house from DeCosta's was awarded the fifth attendant. Jan Seal and June Mallee served as co-chairmen of the queen competition. Award results from the mile-long parade co-chaired by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Porter, were as follows:

Adults — first, Halley Hellers; second, Sawtooth Rangers; third, The Ketchum fire truck.

Youth — first, unicycle ridden by Randy Collier; second, Mike Dunn and Randy Watson; third, Knight's Family Affair.

Youth groups — first, The Sage Brush Ranchers 4-H Club; second, the Purple Sage Riding Club; third, The Crazy Clover 4-H Club.

Churches — first, Halley LDS Church. Business — Clarendon Hot Springs; second, Sawtooth Ford Sales; tied for third, The Wood River Merc and Su Casa, Mexican restaurant.

Postal aides named

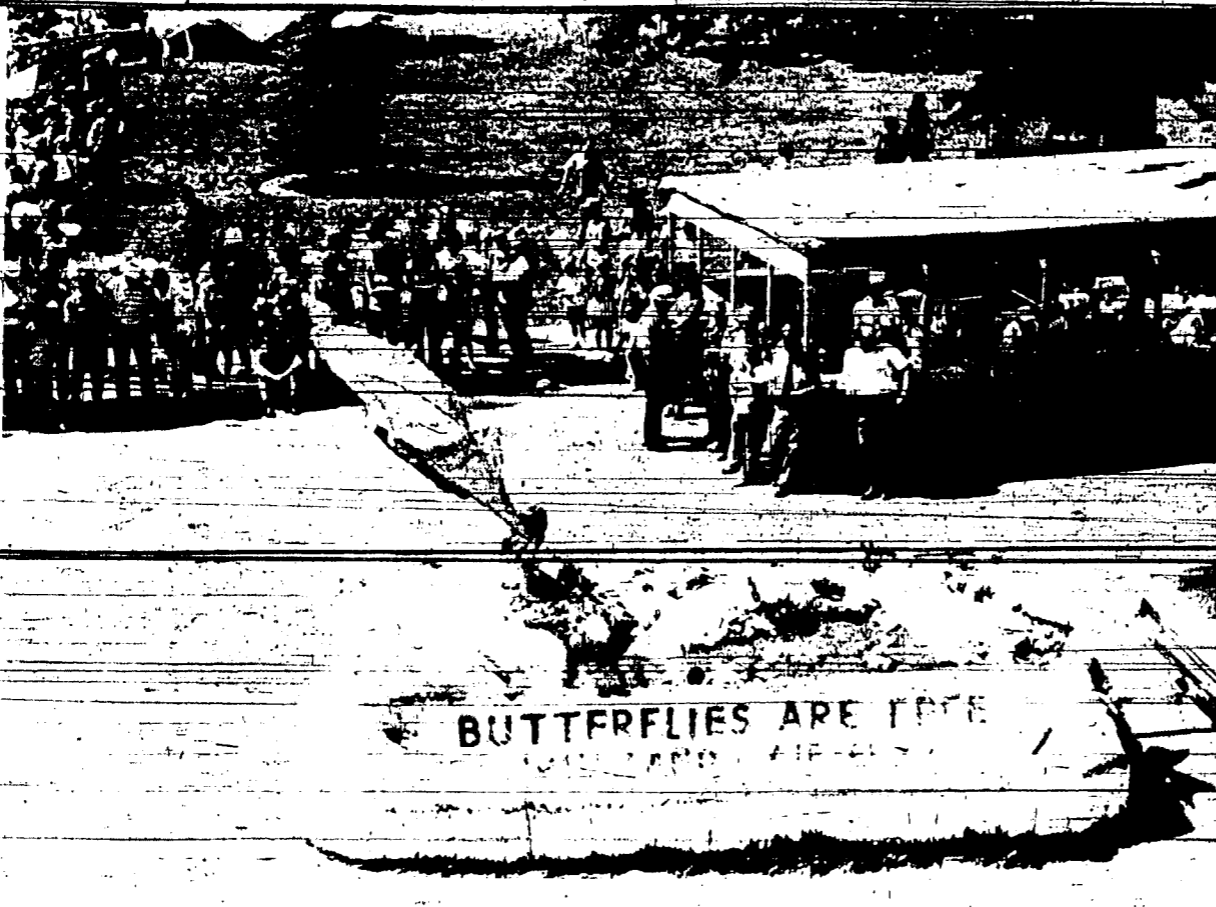

BOISE — New postmasters have been appointed at Rupert and Ketchum, according to postal officials.

Thomas R. Orr, 29, a Jerome native, will assume postmaster duties in Rupert. He joined the Postal Service in 1965, serving in Jerome as a clerk and assistant postmaster until February of this year when he took over as officer-in-charge at the Ketchum Post Office.

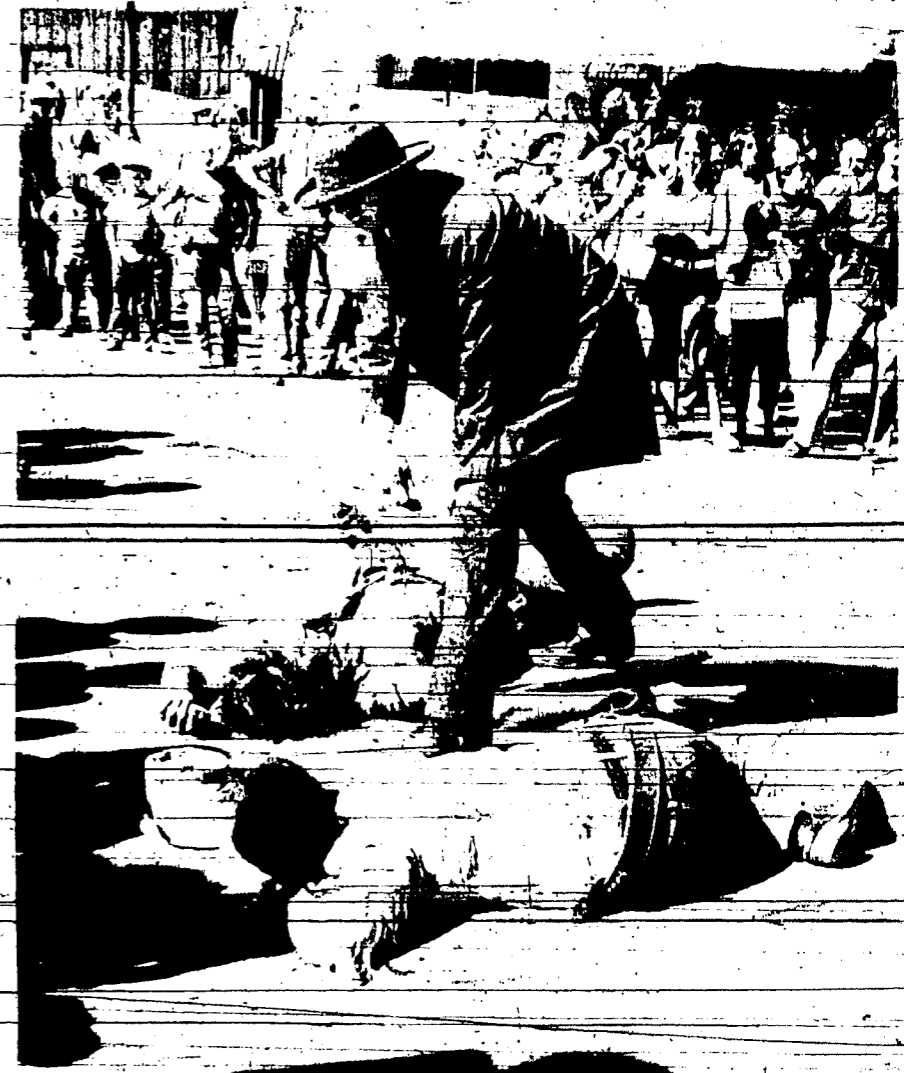

He is married and has two children.

John H. McDonald Jr., 31, a native of Twin Falls, will serve as postmaster in Ketchum. After joining the Postal Service in 1967, he worked at the Twin Falls office for more than a year before being transferred to Ketchum. He has acted as senior clerk in Ketchum until the recent appointment.

McDonald is married and has three children.

JOB'S Daughters took the grand prize in the Rupert parade Wednesday with a float entitled "Butterflies are Free, Will Land and Air Be?" There were 25 entries in the parade in addition to nine riding groups, one band and five drill teams.

Shoshone police to nab dogs

SHOSHONE — Shoshone City Police will be instructed to pick up unlicensed dogs within the city limits the City Council decided Tuesday night.

The action was taken after a delegation of citizens met with the council entering a complaint about unlicensed dogs.

There is no leash law in the city and a number of citizens have complained about the large number of dogs running through their property, destroying flowers and overturning garbage cans. Some have entered complaints about nuisances caused by cats also.

Since there is no leash law, the only recourse for citizens in cases concerning licensed dogs is to sign a formal complaint against the owner.

Excessive noise at night and blocking of a street and alley also were discussed by the citizen group.

City Council members will notify one property owner that he must connect with the city sewer or the property will be declared unfit for habitation. The action was taken upon complaint pertaining to septic tank odors in the area.

A request for a water line continuing from South Greenwood to serve an acreage within the city limits south of Shoshone was taken into advisement.

The city's share of magistrate court fines collected during the past month was $228.15.

Approval was given for purchase of a radar scope for use in police vehicles.

Building permits for construction of two patios were approved for Charles Moore and Joe Pagaoga.

The council recessed until July 10 when business will be completed.

Oakley school gets face lift

OAKLEY — Renovation of Oakley High School is well started. About $250,000 was budgeted in the April bond proposal for "recycling" the building, the oldest in the Cassia County School District. It was built in 1898 by the LDS Church.

The oldest of two boilers has been removed. A newer boiler, in the rear of the gym, will be connected to the heating system by the end of the summer.

Installation of new vents and outlets will be part of the second phase, set for next summer.

New walkways at the entrance of the building have been laid out and the concrete will be poured in a few days.

The work is being done by Neilson and Co., Twin Falls, which was granted the contract on a bid of $71,990 at a June 25 board meeting. The work is scheduled for completion by early September.

Other projects included in the first phase include removal of outside windows for replacement by aluminum sash and new windows; removal of two large smoke stacks, which had been a source of leaks, from the back of the building and subsequent repairs to the roof, and relocation of the flagpole.

Final drawings for renovation work inside the building are due next March. The work is scheduled to be completed during the summer months while school is not in session.

The Oakley project is one of five approved for the district in a $3.9 million bond election last April.

Other projects include the construction of a new Burley junior high school and a new Declo elementary school; construction of a multi-purpose center in Raft River High School, and conversion of the old Burley Junior High School to an elementary school.

All work is set for completion by the end of 1975.

Gem cowboys rate

BOISE (UPI) — Three Idaho cowboys are listed as top money winners during the 1973 Rodeo Cowboys Association professional Cowpoke money listings.

Dean Oliver of Boise is in third place in the calf roping division with $11,796 and John Davis of Homedale is listed in 11th place in the bull riding division with $5,259.

Royce Smith, Challis, is listed in 12th place in the bareback bronc riding event with $4,505.

Melba events listed

MELBA (UPI) — Residents of Melba managed to drink 40 gallons of punch and eat 200 pounds of chicken during their Fourth of July celebration Wednesday.

Other events during the day included a pie eating contest, ball games and an evening street dance, followed by a fireworks display.

Premium hike stalled

BOISE (UPI) — Monthly Medicare insurance premiums, scheduled to go up in July, will remain the same until price freeze limitations end, according to Guy P. Shambaugh, manager of the Boise Social Security office.

The ruling also applies to railroad retirement beneficiaries and Civil Service annuitants who pay premiums for medical insurance under Medicare, he said.

Principal hired

KETCHUM — The Blaine County School board today confirmed the appointment of a new principal for the Ernest Hemingway Elementary School.

Victor K. Jepsen, Billings, Mont., succeeds Sam Hazard, who was not rehired by the board for the coming year.

Chairman Randa Hunt said the board "feels fortunate to get a man of Jepsen's caliber" for the post.

Jepsen, 31, presently serves as an interim supervisor for the Teacher Corps at Eastern Montana College. The new principal received "his education specialist's certificate from Idaho State University in May with a major in elementary school administration. In 1971 he received a master of education degree from ISU with a major in curriculum and supervision.

Jepsen received a bachelor of science degree from Black Hills State, South Dakota, in 1967.

Embezzlement case set

TWIN FALLS — Ronald Robert Spearing, 29, was scheduled to appear in magistrate court today on charges of embezzlement.

The former manager of AVGO Finance Co.'s Twin Falls office, he is charged with embezzlement of "in excess of $50,000" in a complaint signed by Twin Falls police captain, Tim Qualls.

Harold Elg, current manager of the Twin Falls office who was transferred here June 20 to become manager, said the shortage was discovered by company auditors in June. He said Spearing had been with the company since Oct. 1, 1966, and had managed the Twin Falls office since 1968.

Avco, which operates 1,500 offices in the United States, Canada, Australia and England, is not in any danger of closing its Twin Falls operation, he said.

2 Blaine County men cited

HAILEY — Two Blaine County men have been cited for disorderly conduct.

Halley Police Chief Doug Williams said Mint Vitale, 24, Bellevue, and Jonathan Dugger, 21, Halley, were arrested Tuesday afternoon in Halley.

Vitale was released from the Blaine County jail on a $32.60 bond. He is scheduled to appear Tuesday in magistrate court. Dugger was released to parental custody.

Following the arrest Dugger was treated at the Blaine County Hospital for minor injuries, received, in a disturbance in which the two were allegedly involved.

Yankees barely first on July 4

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees passed the July 4 milestone in first place for the first time in a decade, but just barely.

Boston sweeps two from leading Yanks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rogelio Moret pitched his first complete game in nearly two years Wednesday to give Boston a 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees and a sweep of their doubleheader after the Red Sox won the opener 2-1 on two unearned runs in the ninth inning.

KC uses single to beat Twins

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Cookie Rojas' two-out, bases-loaded single capped a four-run ninth inning Wednesday night that gave the Kansas City Royals a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

what happened to his supposed "Bombers." "Today," said Houk, whose first place team already has been shut out a major league-high 13 times this season, "I really thought we would score some runs. That disappointed me."

The Yankees have managed to lose three of four games to Bobby Murcer and Jim Ray Hart to load the bases. But he retired Craig Nettles on a long fly to right center to end the threat and then stopped the Yankees on five hits the rest of the way.

Santo home run gives Cubs win

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ron Santo cracked a two-run homer with one out in the bottom of the 10th inning Wednesday to give the Chicago Cubs a 3-2 triumph over Philadelphia after the Phillies had gone ahead with a run in their mile of the inning.

Boston this week even though the Red Sox made only 16 hits in the four games.

And Wednesday, New York was held to six measly hits and shut out by Rogelio Moret, whose last complete game in the major leagues was against the Washington Senators in September 1971.

Moret, who prepared for his starting assignment in the nightcap by mimicking the Yankees' hitters in front of a television set at his sister's nearby home in the early innings of the first game, was in trouble early in the game and two walks filled the bases with two out in the first inning but he retired Graig Nettles on a long fly and was in command the rest of the way.

Moret had a 14-1 record during the winter of 1971-72 but after failing to stick with the Red Sox and having only a 4.54 ERA at Louisville last summer, he ruffled his winter activities this year. Wednesday's shutout was the first positive result of that.

SF Giants rip Cincinnati 6-2

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants erupted for four runs in the seventh inning by bunting five hits — one a triple by Gary Thomas — and another a game-winning single by Dave Rader — to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 6-2 Wednesday behind the effective pitching of Tom Bradley.

Throw too late

PITTSBURGH PIRATES' Gene Alley leaps over sliding St. Louis Cardinals' Tim McCarver (15) and fires the ball to first in an attempted double-play in the Wednesday double header. The runner at first, Jose Cruz, beat the throw.

A's error gives Angels win

Homers spark two Astro wins

ATLANTA (UPI) — Lee May's eighth inning grand slam homer in the nightcap — one of 16 home runs hit in the doubleheader — sparked the Houston Astros to a 12-8 triumph and a sweep of the twinbill with the Atlanta Braves.

The Astros, erupting for four runs in the first and fourth innings of the opener, took the first game 11-4 behind a 15-hit attack. The two clubs combined for 36 hits in the doubleheader.

Jipeho surpasses Keino as runner

NEW YORK (UPI) — After a record-smashing seven days in June, Ben Jipeho has surpassed his more publicized countrymate, Kip Keino, as Kenya's premier distance runner.

Jipeho, long in the shadow of Keino, the Olympic 1,500-meter champion in 1968 and 3,000-meter steeplechase gold medalist in 1972, vaulted from obscurity this past week by shattering the world steeplechase record not once but twice. And then for an encore the 30-year old Jipeho ran the third fastest mile ever, establishing himself behind only Jim Ryan in that elite world class.

It actually all started two weeks ago at Helsinki's Olympic Stadium where Jipeho bettered the 3,000-meter steeplechase standard of 8:20.8 with an 8:19.8 clocking. A week later, on the same track, he made a shambles of both records with a runaway victory in 8:14.0.

Moving on to Stockholm three days later, Jipeho began his assault on Ryan's mile standards by running 3:52.0, a time eclipsed only by Ryan's world mark of 3:51.1 set in 1967 and his earlier clocking of 3:51.3. Jipeho then closed out the week in Stockholm by running an 8:18.2 steeplechase — not quite as good as his world record of six days earlier, but nonetheless the second fastest on record.

"I'm sure I can go below 8:14 in another race," the confident Jipeho said afterward.

More important than his emergence from behind the image of Keino, is the run Jipeho seems capable of making on Ryan's hallowed, untouchable mile marks. As it is, Ryan still retains possession of four of the five fastest miles ever run, but Jipeho's 3:52.0 is by far the most significant challenge to date. Previously, Keino's 3:53.1 was the fastest non-Ryan mile ever run.

Jipeho, a prison guard in his native Kenya, has been competing almost as long as Keino but didn't begin to gain any recognition until the 1970 British Commonwealth games when he won the steeplechase and later the '72 Olympic games in Munich when he finished second to his countrymate in the same event. As it is, the Kenyans appear to have gained a stranglehold on the steeplechase, having also won it in the 1968 games with Amos Biwott.

With Ryan now competing on the pro circuit and Marty Liquori's overall physical condition still in doubt, the world mile class seems to have narrowed down to Jipeho and Dave Wottle of the U.S. Wottle's 3:53.4 at Eugene, Ore., last month has established him as the No. 4 man on the all-time list.

In all likelihood, the two will meet head-to-head in early August when the barnstorming U.S. team concludes its international tour with a dual meet against the African nations in Dakar, Senegal. Meantime, Wottle, the Olympic 800-meter listist, may be making the move to the mile at a most opportune time.

Riva Ridge sets record

NEW YORK (UPI) — Riva Ridge set a new world record of 1:52 2-5 for 1-3-16 miles Wednesday as he held on in the final yards to beat True Knight by a head in the $112,000 Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct.

Ron Turcotte hustled the 4-year-old Meadow Stable colt to the front at the top of the stretch by a head over True Knight and they matched strides to the wire as Riva Ridge beat the old mark of 1:52 3-5 by one-fifth of a second. Fleet Bird established the former standard at Golden Gate on Oct. 24, 1963.

Tantum set the pace for the first three-quarters of a mile and then faded to third place. Rive Ridge paid $5.60, $4.40 and $3.60 across the board as he reached the million dollar mark in career earnings. The $67,000 winner's share enabled Riva Ridge to become the 11th horse to reach millionaire status. Keiso is the world leader with $1,970,896. True Knight returned $6.60 and $4.20 and Tentam, run as an entry with Red Reality, paid $3.40 to show.

Turcotte broke first with Riva Ridge, but the bay colt was third at the end of a quarter mile, trailing leader Tentam and favorite Key to the Mint, who finished fourth in the seven-horse field.

Underdogs attack par for $130,000

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The underdog majority of the pro golf tour sets out today to attack par on the hilly, 7,010 yard Tuckaway Country Club course in quest of the $26,000 top prize of the Greater Milwaukee Open.

It was the first time Tuckaway was site of the GMO in the tour's six year history and it should prove to be the toughest layout used yet.

Par 72 will be broken, but it probably won't take the whipping it would if the likes of Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer, Tom Weiskopf, Bruce Crampton, Gary Player, Billy Casper or Johnny Miller were on hand.

That cluster of golfdom's superstars and others elected to take the week off to prepare for the more prestigious British Open next week. It was the fourth time the GMO was in conflict with the British event, leaving the local tourney with a field of also-rans and future stars.

But the absence of the big names should provide plenty of incentive for the lesser lights of the pro-tour to cash in on the bigger checks in the $130,000 GMO.

Jim Colbert was back to defend his 1972 GMO title, but the Tuckaway course is considerably longer than the Tripoli Country Club course where he won a year ago.

Tuckaway's fairways are tree-lined and spotted with plenty of large, strategically placed traps. There are also enough water hazards to make things interesting. The greens are large and rolling.

In the qualifying round earlier in the week only nine of 99 golfers hit for subpar rounds, three of them for the low of 69.

Colbert was not the only former GMO champion trying for a second victory here. Also in hand were Dave Stockton who won in 1968, Ken Still who won in 1969, Deane Beman who won in 1970 and Dave Fitchel, Fargo, who won in 1971.

Among other well-known pros appearing here were George

Archer and Bob Goalby, both former Master's champions; Orville Moody and Ken Venturi, both former U.S. Open winners; and former PGA Champs Al Geiberger and Lionel Hebert.

But with the big names gone to England, none of the 150 entrants stands head and shoulders above the rest, giving all a fair crack at the title.

Bradford lines homer, leads Sox over Texas

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Buddy Bradford, playing in only his fifth game of the season, lined a home run in the fifth inning and Jim Geddes combined with Cy Acosta on a four-hit shutout to give the Chicago White Sox a 2-0 victory over the Texas Rangers in the first game of a doubleheader Wednesday night.

Pearson drives to Firecracker win

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., thundered his 1971 Mercury to a six-car-length victory Wednesday over the illustrious Richard Petty in the 15th annual Firecracker 400.

Petty and Pearson, running head-to-head in a magnificent duel of stock car greats, had a four-lap lead over third place finisher Buddy Baker in a 1973 Dodge.

Gordon Johncock, winner of this year's tragedy-marred Indianapolis 500, was fourth in a 1973 Chevrolet.

Petty put on a valiant effort to overtake Pearson during the final 10 laps of the $115,000 race, richest 400-miler in NASCAR history. But Pearson, winningest driver on this year's NASCAR circuit, would not be denied his eighth victory in the last nine Grand National races he has entered.

Pearson and Petty went into their two-man race just after the second of two caution flags

Cardenas leads Tribe by Tigers

DETROIT (UPI) — Leo Cardenas, a .195 hitter against the rest of the league but batting .333 against Detroit, singled home two runs Wednesday night to help the Cleveland Indians snap a seven-game losing streak with a 5-2 victory over the Tigers, whose five-game winning streak was ended.

Milt Wilcox raised his record to 5-3 in his second start since returning from two weeks military duty although he needed 3 2/3 innings of two-hit relief from Tom Hilgendorf.

Aurelio Rodriguez hit his eighth home run of the season to lead off the fifth and Willie Horton singled off Hilgendorf to drive in Dick McCauliffe, who had doubled off the last pitch thrown by Wilcox in the sixth inning.

Cardenas, batting .215 overall entering the game, singled home rookie Alan Ashby in the second and singled Walt Williams in two innings later. Ashby had singled in his first major league at bat to drive in George Hendrick, who had doubled to start the second, and gone to second when Jim Northrup's throw from right field eluded catcher Duke Sims.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Let's review the situation. During a written examination, one student whispered to another, "Gee, this test is hard."

The other replied, "I know."

The teacher observed the pair, so in grading them she added both their grades together and divided by two.

The student who suffered the reduced grade complained to you, and you supported his right to complain since he was not cheating.

Abby, I teach school, and I insist upon absolute silence during examinations. If I didn't, the students would be "commenting" about the weather, the time, how hard the test is, etc., all during the examination, and it's impossible to tell which comment is legitimate and which is to help a friend pass a test.

Furthermore, some students need absolute silence in order to concentrate, so any noise is not fair to them.

Those students were lucky they weren't in my room. I'd have given them both a zero. HOUSTON TEACHER

Abby flunks

DEAR TEACHER: And judging from the number of teachers who wrote to express the same opinion, were they to grade my answer 1, too, would have rated a zero. I hereby reverse myself. The only comment which can be considered legitimate during a test is, "Call an ambulance!"

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a man who refuses to bathe or brush his teeth? He's a Saturday nighter from way back. He thinks if he takes a two-minute shower on a Saturday night it's good for a week.

I have hinted, nagged, told him outright, and even threatened to leave him. Nothing helps. He won't even use a mouthwash. And then he wonders why I don't care to kiss him. ICK!

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: In answer to your question: "What do you do with a man who refuses to bathe or brush his teeth?"—NOTHING!

DEAR ABBY: Since you are a professional woman, will you please give me your opinion on something that has caused a great deal of friction in our marriage.

I have been a private investigator for nearly 30 years and never have I discussed—or will I ever discuss—any case I am working on. I have never told my wife the names of the people involved. My work is strictly confidential. Telling someone, surveillance, whatever. Even the occasional humorous things that come up in my work I keep to myself. All the information I have concerning people and their private affairs is locked up in my file and my mind, and the same goes for my secretary and the other agents in my organization. If any employee of mine leaks so much as the name of a person who has hired me, that employee is out on his ear.

My wife feels that I should trust her enough to share my cases with her. I feel she has no business knowing any of the facts concerning my cases, even tho the chances of her violating a confidence are small.

She insists that husbands and wives should have complete trust in each other and that my attitude shows I don't trust her. What do you think?

TOO ETHICAL?]

DEAR TOO: No one can be too ethical. You sound like a first class professional and your wife should be proud of you.

DEAR ABBY: It's reassuring to know that you do not only give advice, you yourself do what you tell others to do. I refer to the fact that you carry on your person two cards indicating that you have donated your eyes and kidneys after your demise. Can't you make it three cards? As the father of a child who has a growth problem, I beg of you to mention the Human Growth Foundation. The pituitary gland is the major source of cure for dwarfism. Information is available by writing to P. O. Box 1308, High Point, N. C. 27261.

DEAR FATHER: Consider it done!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 6970, L. A., Calif. 90008. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

A Lovelier You

IT'S ENOUGH TO BURN YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

Did you set out to get a glorious tan over the Glorious Fourth? Yet you managed to get a burn?

Doctors consider any degree of sunburn an injury.

an "injury" to the skin that may leave permanent hurt. For both health and beauty reasons, a severe burn requires medical attention. A lesser case may be relieved at home by remedies containing antiseptics, anesthetics, and moisturizers. These are available in the form of creams and gels, lotions and foams in aerosols.

But even when the fire goes out and the skin is on the mend, it is not without problems. Peel, flake and dryness usually set in. To get back to normal, your skin needs 24-hour protection. A medicated skin cream supplies it.

Mixed with tepid water, medicated skin cream serves to cleanse and heal during wash-ups and showers. Thereafter applications should be made to dry skin right from tube or jar at least three times daily.

Given a reasonable amount of time, new skin tender as a baby's—begins to surface. It does, that is, if you stay out of direct sunlight for at least a month. Once your complexion normalizes, be sure to apply a sunscreen or a sunblock before so much as walking hatless down a shady street. Continue to use your cream at showertime all summer.

NEW BEAUTY FOR DRY SKIN

For ways to keep past-30 skin smooth and dewy, order my leaflet, NEW BEAUTY FOR DRY SKIN. It tells in personalized steps how to cleanse, correct, protect and make up for dryness. To obtain your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin.

Don't snooze in pajamas

(c) Chicago Sun-Times

The last thing you'd want to do in some pairs of pajamas is take a snooze. When a rooney trousers outfit falls into the glamorous category, it's the designer's tip-off that they're geared to be shown off to the public.

Just where in the public eye is up to you. Usually, however, the more occasions look more at home at a resort. While the styles that offer ample coverage would adapt well to fancy-in-town bashes.

Model-thin types would look stunning in a skimpy stained-glass-print bandeau top worn over matching drawstring-waist pants and covered with a malechmate shirtjacket. You can button the jacket all the way or wear it open to expose the bandeau and your tanned midriff.

Irene Ude, Leidick say vows

TWIN FALLS — Irene Ruth Ude and Roy Edward Leidick were united in marriage in a June 23 ceremony at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Twin Falls.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ude, Twin Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Leidick, Detroit, Mich.

Rev. Stephen C. Ude, Waneta, Neb., performed the double ring ceremony. Rev. Ude is a brother of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, designed her full-length gown of mir-a-mist and broadcloth. The dress featured a raised waistline and long sleeves appliqued with lace and seed pearls. The overlay skirt of mir-a-mist flowed into a hemline train which was also appliqued with lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath.

Christine Miller, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Tonette Ude, "sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Sharon Koldewey, sister of the bride, and Marian Reinke, cousin of the bride.

Tom Brazinsky, Detroit, served as best man. Groomsmen and ushers were William Rebb, cousin of the bride; Don Ude, brother of the bride, and Bruce Miller, brother-in-law of the bride.

Ben Roberts served as organist and Mrs. Ruth Heller, soloist.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony in the church hall. Guests were registered by Karen Reinke. Gifts were received by Janelle Photo and Elizabeth Bamsberger. Gift carriers were Ranell Patterson and Langdon Reinke, both cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Doris Reinke, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Mary

MR. AND MRS. ROY E. LEIDICK

Gihring, aunt and Godmother of the bride, served cake. Mrs. Irene Harris and Mrs. Dorothy Ehlers, aunt of the bride, served punch and coffee.

Guests were seated at quartet tables centered with tiny basket arrangements. Special guests were the grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Ruth Heller, and the bride's grandfather, the late J. H. Ude. A rehearsal dinner was given by the parents of the bridegroom at the Holiday Inn.

The bride was honored at a prenuptial shower by Mrs. Gihring and Mrs. Ehlers at the Gihring home in Jerome.

After a honeymoon at Sun Valley and San Francisco, the couple will reside in Detroit where the bridegroom teaches at St. Thomas Lutheran School.

Former TF man cited

TWIN FALLS — A former Twin Falls man has been chosen one of the outstanding secondary educators of American for 1973.

Mervyn Cowles, now chairman of the Auburn High School chemistry department, Auburn, Wash., was given the honor by the Outstanding Secondary Educators of America program, which annually awards teachers for professional and civic achievements.

Cowles now becomes eligible to receive one of five Outstanding Secondary Educator-of-the-Year Award trophies and a $500 grant to his school.

Cowles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Cowles, Twin Falls. He graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1950.

After four years in the Navy, Cowles attended Idaho State University, where he graduated with honors in chemistry in 1958. He also holds a master's degree from Seattle University.

LEMON BISQUE
1 1/2 13 oz. can evaporated milk
1 small package lemon flavored gelatin dessert
1 cup boiling water
one-third cup honey
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 packages graham crackers
Dissolve gelatin in boiling water, add honey, salt and lemon juice and stir. Chill until slightly thickened.
While gelatin mixture is chilling, cool the evaporated milk and crush the graham crackers. Divide the crumbs evenly and spread half on the bottom of a nine by 13 inch pan.

When both the milk and the gelatin mixtures are cooled and the gelatin thickened, whip the milk until stiff and set aside. Whip the gelatin mixture until creamy. Fold the two together and pour in the pan. Pour the remaining crumbs over the top and refrigerate for two hours.

The deception boomeranged right back in Mordred's face. Galahad thought a white After all you should always consider the lead against a slam as carefully as possible. He was familiar with Mordred's reputation for trickery and deceit and came to the conclusion that the five-diamond call was intended to stop a diamond lead.

Then he played big king of diamonds and another bit of Mordred villainy had been foiled.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding five no-trump your partner has bid six spades over your five spades. What do you do now?

Answer tomorrow.

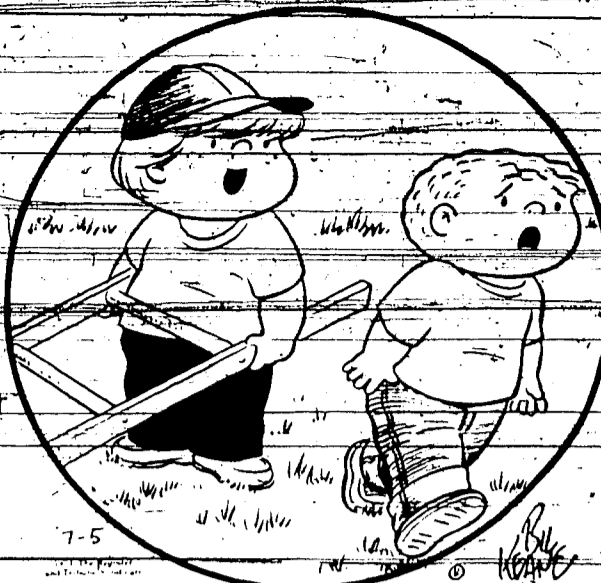

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Galahad the pure in spirit seldom got into the bridge games at the square table. He felt that card playing did not go well with the search for the Holy Grail.

At the same time, Galahad was too much of a gentleman to refuse to make up a game when he was needed and we find him sitting West in the "Siege Perilous."

The wily Mordred knew that Galahad's four-spade bid denied possession of an ace or king. They didn't use artificial two-club bids in the days of King Arthur but they did follow the precepts of the sage Merlin Publerson.

Mordred should have passed.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES Daytime is unusually good for getting together with companions and reaching a new understanding. But tonight refrain from any sort of argument or discussion, since offense could be taken when not intended and a series of unfortunate events could follow. Use special consideration for others tonight.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Know what it is that your close partners want from you and try to please them. Do not argue in p.m. Plan to have more harmony with everyone, including family. Avoid inflammatory talk.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Add music, art or whatever else will make your surroundings more harmonious and attractive, comfortable. You can make big headway now since fellow workers are most cooperative. Do some reading before you retire. Relax.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You want to have much fun with friends and increase both your happiness and theirs. Put any creative ideas to work during day with vim and vigor. Take it easy tonight and be happy with family.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Put that plan to work that will make your home more charming and please kin, show how much you appreciate them. Entertaining is fine during day, but not in the p.m. Arguments are apt to arise then.

LEO (July 22 to July 31) Day hours fine for shopping, keeping appointments, but evening is best spent rebuilding health and resting. Improving basic matters is fine during day. Make better plans for the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find a new way to handle those financial problems you have and get fine results now. Look to advisers you trust for right answers. Plan a new budget that meets your needs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can make arrangements now for having a delightful time with others, to visiting that is pleasant. Sit down in p.m. and go over your fondest wishes in your mind. Plan what to do about them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure you get busy putting all in fine working order at home, or place of business, and make better plans for the future, too. Talk over with experts whatever really interests you. Think out new ideas yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get together with good pals and have a fine time during spare hours, at whatever joint recreation appeal to you. That special desire you have can be realized in the p.m. Try to get to bed fairly early.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can get ahead faster through civic work today, or by handling career work more efficiently, but be sure to rest on your laurels tonight. Talk over with a higher-up how to become more successful. Use any mechanical knowledge you may have.

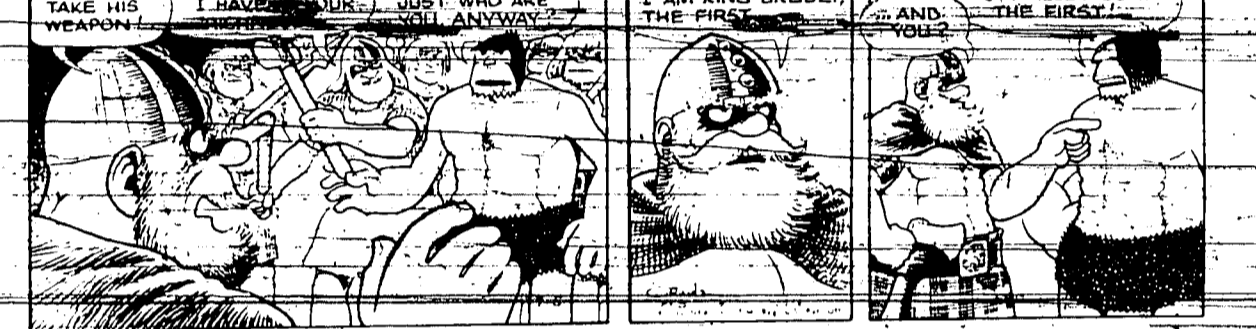

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have many fine ideas that should be made workable, so be sure to take them to bigwigs who can be most helpful financially. Making new associates for the future is wise. Do some philanthropic work, also.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your hunches are good and you should use them to advantage where your plans are concerned, but take care you do not argue with others in p.m., especially mate. Activity in daytime, but take it easy tonight. Read some.

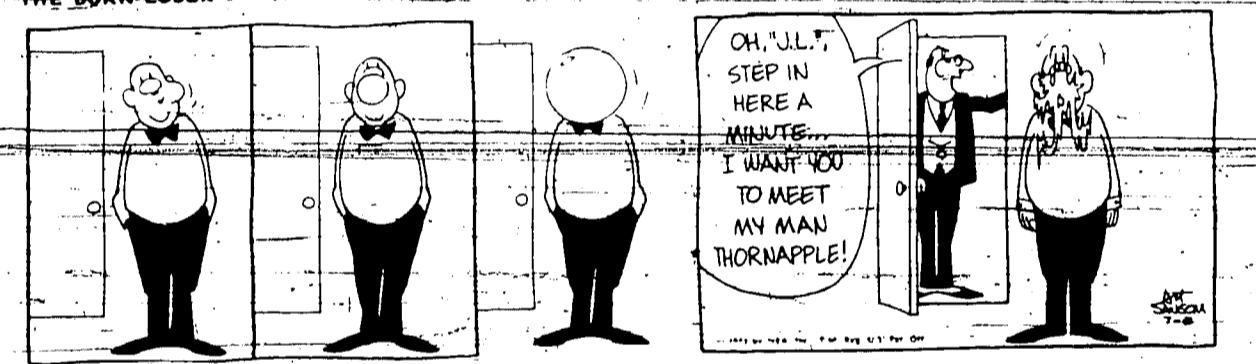

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be the most easy person to get along with because of the desire to make peace among others and always be harmonious with them. Others will go along willingly with the ideas that your youngster has. Any profession that requires skillful handling and polish is fine here, whether male or female. Was reported here some time back that men who commit suicide usually dress up first while women do likewise are first apt to strip. A feminine subscriber who identifies herself as a student of the mind says she knows why. Suicide, she says, is the defeat in the battle against loneliness. Fighting this fight, man tend to put on their best bib and tucker to go out on the town, but women in such desperation are more likely just to undress. Maybe so, don't know. Too tender a topic, thus I'd rather talk about mackerel or muskrats.

If you ask somebody to please pass the salt, odds run approximately 11 to 1 that party will also hand you the pepper. No, I didn't make this up. A batch of university psychology students found it out during a lengthy study in cafeteria.

The science boys claim your brain will use up more oxygen while dreaming when you're asleep than while doing mental arithmetic when you're awake.

Q: Where are the towns of Lemon, Orange and Tangerine?

A: Mississippi, New Jersey and Florida, respectively. And the towns of CoCoa, Tea and Soda are in Florida, South Dakota and Texas likewise respectively. Toss in Lamb, Hominny and Bucant of Michigan, Oklahoma and Kentucky, still respectively, maybe with a bit of Jelly, Calif. too, and you've got yourself a pretty fair meal. Enjoy.

Scavengers take their proper turns. If a cow dies in a field, ordinarily it will be the eagle, who dines first. Then the condor. Then the buzzard. Then the raven. And then the ants. So reports a wildlife expert.

Carib natives of Haiti smoked a Y-shaped pipe which they called a "labaga," and that's where our word "tobacco" comes from, not from the wondrous weed itself.

THE HARD FACTS Far more old veterans than young veterans know that "two luns" means "sulfur island." How many fish hooks can you get out of a pound of meat? Oh, about 3,000. Among women, according to the stargazers, the great love makers are those girls born under the signs of Virgo, Libra and Gemini. Slowly, ever so slowly, Venice is sinking into the sea, down, down, down. And her just about 11,000 pay phones in this country are out of commission on any given day, sir.

Among sons of dentists, only nine out of every 100 say they want to go into their fathers' profession—surveys show. Why so few?

Lightness of that liquor called scotch has nothing to do with its color, please note. Some of the palest blends have the heaviest body.

Most of the straight-stemmed pipes are bought by men, quite so. But most of those graceful pipes with swan-necked stems are bought by women.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices fell in some of the lightest trading in months Thursday on the New York Stock Exchange. Slightly before noon, the Dow Jones industrial average was off 3.01 at 871.18. Declines led advances, 638 to 370, among more than 1,419 issues across the tape. Two-hour turnover amounted to more than 4,010,000 shares, compared with 4,890,000 during the same period Tuesday. The market was closed Wednesday for the Fourth of July holiday. The first-hour volume of 2,530,000 shares was the lightest since Oct. 9, 1972 when 2,310,000 traded during the comparable period. Many analysts said the light volume could be attributed this week to holiday. Englehard Minerals & Chemical was the most active issue, unchanged at $44 on 340,000 shares. Memorex was second, off 1/4 at $7 1/2 on 64,800 shares. Benguet Consolidated was third, unchanged at $15 on 60,100 shares. Prices declined slightly lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange. Overseas shipbuilding was the most active Amex issue, off 3/4 at 30 1/2 on 15,500 shares. Federal Resources was second, up 1/2 on 10,400 shares. Syntex was third, unchanged at 86 1/2 on 8,800 shares. There were few wide moves on the Big Board. Some of the electronics, computers and plannings were lower. Birroughs lost 2 1/2 and Control Data 1. ARA Services fell 1 1/2. Oils were lower. Superior Oil lost 1 1/2.

Steel, motor, chemicals, rails, airlines and aircrafts were mixed in fractions.

ICC suspends all proceedings on rail track abandonments

(c) Washington Star-News WASHINGTON — The Interstate Commerce Commission has put off indefinitely all further proceedings involving railroad track abandonments. The move, which results from a federal court decision in an environmental lawsuit last month, automatically stops 19 public hearings which were to have begun this month, as well as about 250 cases at various stages. Eleven of the 19 hearings involved proposals by the bankrupt Penn Central Transportation Co. as part of its plan to trim back its vast system. Just what the effect of the ruling will be on the Penn Central's reorganization is not certain, both worth noting is the fact that virtually all plans for the railroad's future call for sizable cutbacks in the 30,000-mile system. Most immediately affected by the ICC postponement are the 11 planned Penn Central hearings, five involving the Chicago & North-Western Railway, one involving the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railway and one involving the proposed abandonment of the Baltimore & Annapolis Railroad line between Baltimore and Annapolis, Md.

The court ruling that led to the ICC order was issued last month by United States District Judge Marvin E. Frankel in New York in a case filed by the natural Resources Defense Council, a national environmental group, and the Harlem Valley Transportation Association, a group of businessmen and residents of the southern New York state area along the Connecticut border. Environmentalists contend that abandoning railroad lines will result in greater truck traffic and consequently, greater air pollution. The two organizations contended — and Frankel agreed — that the ICC must revise its procedures to provide for a staff assessment of the environmental impact of any proposed track abandonment well in advance of a hearing on the plan. In court arguments, the ICC contended that the Environmental Policy Act of 1969 did not require such a statement, and that even if it is required the commission does not have authority from Congress to hire the additional personnel — engineers and scientists — to make such environmental assessments.

TOLEDO (UPI) — Owens-Illinois Inc. will build a plant at Mansfield, Mass., to make glass containers with production starting early next year. TOKYO (UPI) — Sony Corp. said it has developed an improved 27-inch television receiver with a 144-degree reflection angle, the largest picture in any currently produced home model. It is intended to retail for about $1,000. The company also announced new 18-inch and 20-inch tube models with broader deflection angles than those of present sets.

By United Press International RANCAGUA, Chile (UPI) — Striking miners came to terms with the government Tuesday and agreed to return to work today at the nationalized El Teniente Copper Mine, ending a 77-day walkout. The 13,000 miners at the world's largest underground copper mine had struck April 19, claiming President Salvador Allende's government had cheated them out of a 41 percent pay raise. The strike cost Chile more than $65 million in hard currency earnings for its main export. The mine was owned by the Kennecott Corp. prior to nationalization of major foreign copper interests in July, 1971.

Gem taxes lauded

BOISE (UPI) — The executive manager of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho says industry might decide to go somewhere else if there is any significant alteration in Idaho's tax structure. Max Yost told the Boise Kiwanis Club Tuesday new industry in the Gem State is important as far as increasing the state's all-time high economy. Yost said the tax structure in Idaho has been rated by a national research organization as the "fifth most equitable system" in the country. If a greater tax load on Idahoans is created, he said, new industry might be kept from the state. Yost said government costs have increased rapidly since 1959. Both income and sales taxes have increased in the last year, he added, indicating a good economy.

Honor killing

CROTONE, Italy (UPI) — Rosario Gualtieri, 75, stabbed his 70-year-old wife to death after learning she was unfaithful to him 34 years ago, police said. Police said Gualtieri told them his wife confided to him recently that she committed adultery with several men in 1939 while he was serving in the army. "I killed her for reasons of honor," police quoted Gualtieri as saying.

Kimberly firm wins contract

FORT HALL (UPI) — Lone Pine Equipment Co. Inc., of Kimberly, has been awarded a contract to grade and treat about six miles of roadway on the Fort Hall Indian Reservation. The proposed work will be done on the Sand Road five miles north of Fort Hall. Lone Pine's bid of $157,905.60 was the lowest of eight bids received by the bureau. The high bid totaled $225,303. Dale M. Baldwin, Portland area director of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, made the announcement.

Fall out stalls over ocean

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fallout from China's atomic bomb is not expected to reach the continental United States until sometime today, a spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) said today.

The spokesman said the cloud carrying fallout from the June 27 test "remains stalled over the Pacific" and would not reach the atmosphere over Northern California and Oregon today or Thursday as originally estimated.

Scientists said they had no estimate of the fallout's intensity. Earlier radiation was reported at least 2,000 times above normal over Japan because of the fallout.

Texas sues firms to get gas value

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The state of Texas has filed 14 additional suits against oil companies charging that gas pumped from state lands is being sold at below its value and that the state should receive the full market price.

The state, directed by Attorney General John Hill, filed the first suit in the series May 28 against Exxon Corp. Hill said 80 per cent of the suits have been filed, but that more may be filed later.

Defendants were Mobil Oil Co.; Sun Oil Co.; Shell Oil Co.; Texaco Inc.; Superior Oil Co.; Phillips Petroleum Co.; Amoco Production Co.; Gulf Oil Corp.; Atlantic Richfield Co.; Chevron Oil Co.; Forest Oil Corp.; Getty Oil Co.; McMoran Exploration Co.; and BTA, a partnership of Carlton Beal, Carlton Beal Jr. and Barry Beal of Midland, Tex.

Hill said individual suits were filed against each defendant because "different situations existed from lease to lease, according to whether they (the royalties from the wells) were contracted for under the relinquishment act, from the university board for lease or the school land board."

The suits were filed in behalf of the state, the public free school fund or the University of Texas permanent university fund.

The state contended the defendants are selling gas at 20 cents per thousand cubic feet, but that the present market value is 45 cents per thousand cubic feet. Hill said the state has lost "substantially in excess of $100,000" on each defendant.

"All of the gas produced from these leases, including the state's share, is being sold by defendant at a price far below market price for which the state can sell its share of such gas," the petition said, "and far below the price for which the defendant can sell the state's share of such gas."

Court backs TF company

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court has affirmed a Fifth District Court decision granting an alternative writ of mandate to Ready-To-Pour, Inc., which directs Ketchum, Idaho, to grant the firm a building permit for transit mix plant in Ketchum's industrial zone.

In an opinion by Justice Allan G. Shepard, the court held that the Ketchum City Council acted arbitrarily in denying Ready-To-Pour's permit application because it had complied with all pertinent zoning requirements.

'Best wishes' on Watergate

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI) — President Idi Amin, in a July 4th congratulatory message to President Nixon, wished him a "quick recovery from the Watergate affair" and complained of American meddling in the affairs of other countries.

Extending greetings and best wishes from the people of Uganda, Amin commended America for defending its identity and helping countries struggling against European colonialism.

But he complained the military and economic might which enabled America to reach the moon had also made her "prone to interfering in the internal affairs of other countries."

"While wishing you quick recovery from the Watergate affair, I assure you of my highest regard and esteem," Amin's cable concluded.

Chinese Reds see fireworks

PEKING (UPI) — Americans held 4th of July Independence Day celebrations in China for the first time in 24 years.

Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, hosting an evening reception in the newly opened quarters of the United States Liaison Office in the Chinese Capital, exchanged toasts with Chiao Kuan-hua, Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Hoisting a glass of fiery Chinese-Mao Tai wine, Bruce expressed hope for a continuing rapid improvement in "friendship between the Chinese and American people."

Chiao, speaking on behalf of an estimated 60 Chinese officials at the reception, said he was confident "Sino-American relations would move ahead smoothly and rapidly."

Bruce invited about 100 Chinese — ranging from Premier Chou En-lai down to department level officials in various ministries — to the reception. Nobody was surprised when Chou did not show up. The premier rarely attends such functions.

In addition to Chiao, other ranking Chinese officials present were Wang Meng, minister for sports and physical health; Li Chang, vice minister of foreign trade; and Wang Hai-jung, a vice foreign minister widely reported to be the niece of Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

Guests of honor at the reception were members of a visiting congressional delegation headed by Sen. Warren Magnuson D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

Soviet rocket creates Aurora

MOSCOW — In an unusual space experiment a Soviet sounding rocket, rising more than 100 miles above the earth, has injected a beam of electrons into the upper atmosphere to produce an artificial display of the northern lights, a well known but little understood natural phenomenon.

The experiment, conducted a month ago and only now disclosed, would appear to confirm a widely accepted theory that the luminous effect of the northern lights is produced by electrically charged particles such as electrons, ejected at high velocities from the sun.

The Aurora Borealis, as the effect is also known, is best visible at night in polar latitudes. The lights are most frequent and brightest during periods of intensive sunspot activity.

The creation of the artificial aurora was achieved by a Soviet meteorological rocket carrying a small particle accelerator that injected the electrons into space. More than 300 photographs of the display are reported to have been taken by Soviet ground stations, but none was immediately made public.

The artificial Aurora experiments are in preparation for a similar project to be undertaken jointly by the Soviet Union and France from Kerguelen Island in the Indian Ocean. The project is part of a program of Soviet-French space cooperation.

Details of the Soviet Aurora experiment were disclosed by
