Magic Valley temps set new records

The Magic Valley sizzled under record temperatures Tuesday.

Twin Falls recorded a record high of 107 degrees — one above the previous all-time peak of 106 recorded July 9, 1939. By contrast, a year ago the high was 78 degrees on July 10.

King Hill's 116 topped the Idaho temperature report. That reading was only two degrees under the nation's high mark of 118 at Blythe, Calif. Fairfield's 97 was the only area reading under 100 degrees, and the low mark there this morning was 44 degrees.

A thermal trough over California and a weak frontal system pumped a flow of hot, dry, air from the desert southwest over southern Idaho, sending temperatures soaring.

Canyon rim zoning draws comments

Canyon rimland zoning sparks heated debate

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The question of what to do with the Snake River Canyon rim was aired Tuesday night amid outbursts of laughter, applause and expressions of disgust.

But after the crowded meeting, Twin Falls County zoners appeared no closer to a decision on the future of the rimland.

More than 100 persons crowded into a courtroom of the County Judicial Building Tuesday night to attend a "work study" session of the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission. All seats in the room were filled, including the jury box, and several people stood outside the door to hear the proceedings.

Although four items were listed on the zoners' agenda, the one dealing with proposed "open space" zoning of the Snake River Canyon rim received overwhelming attention and eventually pushed two items off the evening's schedule.

County zoners are currently drafting a revised zoning ordinance. The League of Women Voters (LWV) has submitted a proposal for "open space" zoning of a 660-foot strip running the length of the Snake River Canyon rim in Twin Falls County.

The proposal would eliminate nearly all construction in the strip, permitting only agricultural "accessory" buildings (excluding homes) and public recreational facilities.

The Tuesday meeting soon developed into a debate between preservationists, including the LWV, who want to save the scenic beauty of the canyon rim for posterity, and constructionists, who see the rim as potential living space needed by posterity.

As advocates of each side concluded their speeches, they received a round of applause from their portion of the audience.

L. James Koutnik, chairman of the county zoning commission, asked the LWV to speak first.

Mrs. Annie Swobe, a LWV spokesman, urged a comprehensive land use plan for the canyon rim. She said the proposed "open space" zone should be a part of the plan.

'Fears' behind shield

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John N. Mitchell testified today he shielded President Nixon from the Watergate scandal because he feared even worse "White House horrors" would be uncovered to endanger Nixon's re-election chances and his second term.

The former attorney general, appearing for a second day before the Senate Watergate committee, said he was "not about to countenance anything to stand in the way" of Nixon's re-election last November.

"Anything at all?" asked Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., the committee vice chairman.

"Well..." Mitchell replied, "I'm sure that if it had to involve treason and other high crimes and misdemeanors that related to the office (of the President), that there would have been a very definite breaking point."

But Mitchell, Nixon's campaign manager at the time of the June 17, 1972, bugging arrests at the Democratic national headquarters at the Watergate, said he was not concerned about the Watergate alone when he decided not to tell Nixon about the involvement of high White House aides in the plot.

"It was not the break-in at the Watergate that was the concern," he said. "It was what we've referred to as 'the White House horrors.'"

Mitchell said he was sure the President, had he known about Watergate, would have taken action that "would start to unravel a host of unsavory White House activities — including the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist; the forging of cables to implicate President Kennedy in the 1963 assassination of South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem; and proposals for burglaries in the name of national security. To me, these things were a great deal more damaging than Watergate," Mitchell said. "Watergate was already out. It was an issue. The White House horror stories were not out."

Pomerelle claims seek $1.4 million

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Three claims for damages totalling more than $1.4 million have been made by persons injured last winter in a ski lift mishap at the Pomerelle resort.

The claims were filed with the Sawtooth National Forest here and were sent to the regional US Forest Service office in Ogden, Utah, for review on Tuesday.

Edwin A. Fournier, supervisor, said the claims are in connection with a ski accident Jan. 1, 1973 at the Pomerelle ski resort near Albion.

He said they are "tort claims" provided for under special legislation giving persons the right to seek damages from the US government under claims of negligence or carelessness on the part of the government.

Gem balance $3.3 million

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho ended the fiscal year with a free fund balance of $3.32 million, tentative, unofficial figures showed today.

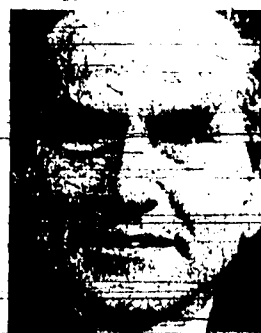

State Auditor Joe R. Williams, emphasizing his figures must be reconciled with those of the state treasurer before they are official, said the cash balance amounted to $7.23 million.

But he said that included outstanding warrants of $3.91 million.

Zumwalt asks arms strength

OAK HARBOR, Wash. (UPI) — Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, US Navy chief of operations, said Tuesday the United States needs to maintain an arms buildup at least equal to that of the Soviet Union.

This would allow the nation to bargain from a position of strength in international negotiations and to keep up with new developments in weapons and tactics, Zumwalt said.

Paris plane crash kills 117

PARIS (UPI) — A Boeing 707 jetliner of Brazil's Varig Airlines crashed short of the Orly Airport runway in Paris today and French radio said all 117 persons aboard were killed.

Orly Airport was immediately closed to all traffic. The plane, flight 820 from Sao Paulo, crashed into a valley near the village of Champlan, 30 miles from Paris.

Actor Robert Ryan dies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Movie actor Robert Ryan died today at New York Hospital. He was 60 years old.

Officials at the hospital declined to reveal the cause of Ryan's death but an attorney for the Ryan family said the actor died of cancer.

Ryan had been hospitalized for cancer a number of times in recent years.

'Brother' faces prison return

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — John Clutchette, one of the "Soledad Brothers," faced a hearing today which could result in his return to prison as a parole violator.

Clutchette was arrested two weeks ago on a charge of possession of firearms. If he has his parole revoked, he would be returned to prison for the remaining 2 1/2 years of a 10 year term for burglary.

AEC confirms radiation leak

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission reported Tuesday that high level radioactive waste has leaked again from a storage tank in eastern Washington.

The AEC said about 1,500 gallons of radioactive waste is missing from one of the 161 storage tanks. Most have been in use for 20 years.

About 115,000 gallons was reported missing from the Hanford tanks last month.

The Los Angeles Times charged last week that "three decades of AEC mismanagement" was partially responsible for what it said were "dangerous levels" of radioactive waste being spilled into the environment.

Dollar shows gains

LONDON (UPI) — The rebounding American dollar climbed upward today for the third consecutive day on world money markets. But signs of uncertainty crept in.

The dollar actually slipped back slightly in mid-day trading in Paris and Brussels. On most other markets, however, the dollar continued a slow climb after months of continual slides.

Dealers said today's improvement in dollar rates was fuelled by Tuesday night's announcement of a massive $6.25 billion line of credit for the U.S. federal reserve board, available for use to prop up the dollar as needed.

The "swap" arrangement, by which the United States can borrow foreign currencies for use to buy dollars, was agreed at the weekend meeting of central bankers in Basel, Switzerland.

'Dummy' spread funds

WASHINGTON Star-News — President Nixon's lawyer, Herbert W. Kalmbach, used a "dummy" name, "The Public Institute," to feed a secret $1.5 million in cashier's checks into 1970 GOP Senate campaigns, according to informed sources.

Part of these covert campaign funds were funneled into the winning Connecticut race of Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., now a member of the Senate's Watergate Committee probing under cover political operations.

Senate investigators have been told the Kalmbach money was passed out for about two dozen candidates under the direct supervision of former White House chief-of-staff H. R. Haldeman.

The $1.5 million distributed through "The Public Institute" brings to at least $5 million the total of secret funds that Kalmbach is known to have handled from 1968 through the start of 1972.

According to sources close to the Senate proceedings, Haldeman or an aide at the White House were linked to these other outlays.

It was Haldeman aide Lawrence Higby who gave Kalmbach the instructions for payment of $400,000.

Happy Day pupils shifted to Stuart

By JOCELYN CLOWARD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Mentally retarded students from Happy Day School will be transferred this year to the special education building at Robert Stuart Junior High School.

Decision for the transfer of the about eight "trainable" retarded students was made at the regular meeting of the Twin Falls School Board Tuesday night, after Supt. George Staudaher cited fire hazard of the wooden structure housed on the Lincoln Elementary school grounds as a major safety problem.

The move came after an apparent breakdown of a plan in coordinate efforts of the district with the Twin Falls Child-Development Center.

Regional director of the Idaho Department of Environmental and Community Services Milton Klein said Thursday that his agency is not in the position of providing program services for school age children.

However, nine other area school districts are now working with the Child Development Center in Twin Falls to set up a classroom learning program similar to the Twin Falls program for "trainable" students.

Mrs. Gladys Coxen will continue to be in charge of the program, Staudaher said. All of the Happy Day School equipment and supplies will be moved to the new location, and students will have access to the cafeteria, gymnasium facilities and a multi-purpose room, he said.

Several parents of Happy Day School students attended the meeting and voiced approval of the move.

"They need to be around other children and not cramped up by themselves," one parent said.

"What particular location is best for 'trainable' youngsters has been a matter of great concern to the board," Dr. Howard Romk, chairman, told the parents. "We hope you will come back and voice your feelings about the success of the move."

The July board meeting, according to a change in state law this year, is now the annual reorganizational meeting of the board. Previously, reorganization took place during the June meeting. Therefore, all board business transacted at the June 12 meeting was reaffirmed Tuesday night.

Four teachers were hired by the district. Two vacancies remain to be filled, Staudaher told the board.

Those hired are: Don C. Burbank, master teacher of Teacher Corps, Bickel Elementary School; Norma Jean Boss, librarian, Robert Stuart Junior High School; John R. Gibson, agriculture, Twin Falls Senior High School, and Jim L. Schmidt, seventh grade social studies, Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School.

Robert Donnelley, district physical education and athletic director, discussed a proposed track improvement project at Twin Falls High School. The board adopted motion to send out specifications for bids on the project with the stipulation that any and all bids might be declined.

Burley, Wendell residents saved

Lives of two Magic Valley residents were saved Tuesday by companions and a life guard.

A young swimmer and a life guard saved Bill Exon, 15, Wendell, at Dierkes Lake near Shoshone Falls.

Twin Falls police said Exon had been swimming across the lake and was near the bank on the south side when he apparently tired and could not stay above water.

Steve Hoppe, Twin Falls, saw the youth in trouble and pulled him out of about four feet of water. He summoned life guard George McAdams, who administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation until Exon regained consciousness and began normal breathing.

The boy had been visiting with friends in Kimberly and had gone to the lake with two other youths to swim, officers said. He was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and released following examination.

A Burley man was revived from near death Tuesday by two co-workers after a 69,000 volt transformer fell on him.

Harold Armstrong was attempting to extinguish a fire about 4:30 p.m. on an Idaho Power Co. electric pole southwest of Burley near the Canyon Substation when the pole broke.

The transformer hit a service truck and Armstrong, burning Armstrong's shoulder and foot. His clothes were set on fire by the burning pole.

When reached by Floy Morrison, a meter reader, and Delroy Milton, a service man for Idaho Power, he was "not breathing and had no pulse," according to Earl Haroldsen, division manager for Idaho Power.

The men extinguished the fire and applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and heart massage.

Armstrong is listed in satisfactory condition at Cassia Memorial Hospital with electrical burns on his shoulder and the soles of his feet and burns on his body from the fire.

The pole was set afire by a grass fire stemming from welding by the Lockwood Corp. on a sprinkling system nearby, Haroldsen said. Idaho Power is currently investigating the incident.

S. Viets seek palaver with Cong

PARIS (UPI) — South Vietnam called on the Viet Cong today to open immediate secret talks similar to those between Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho to break the deadlock over Vietnam's political future.

The Viet Cong had no immediate reply but they have persistently turned down similar suggestions in the past.

The offer was presented by Saigon's Deputy Premier Nguyen Luji Vien at the 16th meeting between the two sides aimed at setting up a national council to organize elections.

"We offer that each side name three or four representatives who will meet in restricted and private sessions starting at 3 p.m. today to start the work," Vien said.

Vien said the secret meetings would deal with such basic problems as guarantees of democratic freedoms, creation of a national council to supervise elections and withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South.

He said only secret talks patterned after those between Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, and Hanoi Politbureau member Tho could ensure progress in the stalled negotiations.

States and Japan that they would have to travel all over the world to come here and get the talks off the ground.

The Viet Cong have been holding extensive talks with representatives of the various neutralist groups seeking seats as a third party on a proposed National Council of National Reconciliation and Concord, whose job will be to supervise

— It was Haldeman who instructed Kalmbach to keep $1.1 million in cash after the 1968 election in scattered safe deposit boxes in New York, Washington, Los Angeles and Newport Beach, Calif. Kalmbach also had a secret $600,000 in a bank account, but it was the $1.1 million cash that was used for the Higby plan as well as other spending.

— Haldeman approved other expenditures from the cash fund, including polling costs and about $100,000 paid to undercover sleuth Anthony Ulasewicz during 1969-71. Ulasewicz acted as a White House private eye digging for political dirt about potential Democratic opponents.

With Haldeman in overall control of the 1970 Senate drive, sources said Kalmbach drew the $1.5 million in cashier's checks on the Security Pacific National Bank in his hometown of Newport Beach and forwarded the money to Washington for investment in various campaigns. The source of this cash is still unexplained.

Senate investigators have been told the cashier's checks written to "The Public Institute" were sent to a former White House political aide, Jack A. Gleason, who split up the funds and forwarded them to candidates designated by Haldeman.

This operation, working out of a basement back room in a downtown Washington town house is believed to have put a total of about $3 million into the 1970 Senate and state house races — with scant success.

The GOP picked up senate seats in Tennessee, Maryland, Ohio and Connecticut — where Weicker won — but lost several others that had been targets in the Midwest and west.

About half of the money for the townhouse operation came in campaign donations written directly to the senate races by such givers as Henry Ford II, insurance executive W. Clement Stone, and ambassador to England Walter H. Annenberg. The other $1.5 million came from Kalmbach's cashier's checks.

He spoke before the opening of the 16th meeting between Saigon and Viet Cong negotiators aimed at breaking a deadlock over elections in South Vietnam.

Youth hurt in fall

TWIN FALLS — A 15-year-old boy was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital late Tuesday with a fractured arm, head cuts and bruises after a fall in Snake River Canyon.

Sheriff's officers said Jim Paxton, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Paxton, was climbing on the canyon wall at the end of Falls Avenue West when he fell about 25 feet to a rocky ledge.

He was accompanied by Doug Buckendorf, 16, and Jeff Buckendorf, 13, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Buckendorf. The boys were climbing to a cave partway down the canyon wall, officers said.

The boys carried the injured youth into the canyon and then called for help. Sheriff's officers and Magic Valley Ambulance crews brought the youth out of the canyon by stretcher and he was taken to the hospital for emergency treatment. He is listed in good condition today with a fractured wrist and cuts and bruises.

Shoshone jamboree hosts 45

SHOSHONE — Forty-five persons participated in the Old-Time Fiddlers' Jamboree Sunday at the Shoshone City Park.

The players came from as far away as Oklahoma. Idaho communities represented included Challis, Pocatello, Blackfoot, Boise, Mountain Home, Meridian and the Magic Valley area.

Mannie Shaw, Corral, was the master of ceremonies. The event was sponsored by the Shoshone Chamber of Commerce.

George Kenaston, chairman of the event, said several thousand people visited the park area during the day, many bringing picnic lunches.

The Masonic Lodge sponsored a picnic along with the event.

Plans are made to hold the ninth annual jamboree on the second Sunday in July next year.

Airport runway project studied

By A. O. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News editor
TWIN FALLS — City, county and Hughes Airwest officials are discussing a project which would result in lengthening the main runway at Joslin Field. Twin Falls City Manager Jean Milar said today such a project would require nine per cent local matching money under terms of the airport improvement bill recently signed into law.

The new law would provide federal funds of up to 83.4 per cent of project costs. Addition of state funds would bring the city-county participation amount down to the nine per cent level.

The proposals under study would see the runway lengthened to the west a distance of 1,200 feet or 2,100 feet. The 1,200-foot extension, which would not require purchase of any new land, would cost in the neighborhood of $700,000 of which only $56,000 would be city-county money. The 2,100 foot extension, estimated at $1 million, would cost the city-county $90,000. Records show the airport owns enough additional land for a 1,200 foot extension.

If the greater extension was decided upon, then purchase of an additional 40 acres of dry land would be required. Estimate for the two projects would, in each case, include light extensions and taxiway connections. In the case of the longer extension the cost would also include land purchase.

Completion of the extension at either length would permit Airwest jets full-load takeoff ability at all seasons of the year. Partially restricted loads are now required during high temperature periods. The longer length would also permit full-load takeoff of Boeing 727 planes, the largest jets now in regular scheduled use at any Idaho airport.

The present runway is 7,200 feet long. The projects being reviewed would result in a runway of 8,400 or 9,300 feet.

The officials said runway extensions to the lengths being studied would meet any projection for field utilization for the next 10 or 12 years at a minimum cost.

An instrument landing system is now in use at the field, permitting landings with cloud base at 200 feet and visibility of one-half of a mile. This project was largely funded by the federal government.

The Federal Aviation Administration has also signed a lease with the airport for land on which a control tower will be constructed. Work on that project, with the tower being built entirely with federal funds, is scheduled to get underway this fall. It will be some 80 feet high and will be manned by trained FAA operators, salaried by the federal government.

In other business the airport officials discussed a proposed security screening area and also voted to request that Airwest jets, unload and board at gates two or three instead of at gate one. With recent expansion at the terminal and installation of view windows, officials feared damage and perhaps personal injury might result because of the proximity of the jet engines.

A report was also made that the new schedule of rates to be charged airport users, on a square foot basis, is "about complete" and lease changes would be drawn up and presented to renters in the near future.

George Coiner, commission vice-chairman, presided at the Tuesday session at the field. Also attending were Fred Wanzneried, Gus Kelker and Bill Bosworth, airport commission members; William Chancey, William Wiseman and Merl Leonard, county commissioners; City Commissioner Winston Jones; Airport Manager Harry Merrick and City Manager Jean Milar.

Rental rates up at airport

TWIN FALLS — City-county airport commission members Tuesday voted to raise rental rates for three auto rental firms operating at Joslin Field.

The proposed raise was made two months ago but was not formally recommended until discussions with rental officials both here and in other airport communities were completed.

Under the new proposal the firms will pay rental amounting to $340 a month or 10 per cent of the gross, whichever is higher. The leases would include parking areas for "ready" cars near the terminal building and a storage area north of the terminal area.

The proposed lease, which will be offered each operator, would become effective 30 days after approved by the city council and county commissioners. The 30-day period would be termed an "acceptance period" for the rental firms.

Airport board members said the amount was "in line" with other Idaho airport charges and also at airports of comparable size in other areas.

Bicycle rack hides marijuana

KIMBERLY — A cache of marijuana was found last week under the Kimberly Junior High School bicycle rack.

According to Police Chief James Campbell, the cache was discovered by school maintenance personnel. Investigation is continuing.

Kimberly School Board members were told Monday at their regular meeting.

Three vacant positions in the Kimberly schools were filled by action of the board.

Hired to teach speech and drama is Jeannie Doggett, Midvale, a graduate of the University of Idaho. Paul Crockett, Hansen, a graduate of the University of Utah, Salt Lake City, Utah, will teach mathematics and physics, and Julie Eagleson, graduate of Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., will teach high school music and band. Miss Eagleson has two years prior teaching experience.

The district still needs an arts and crafts instructor, according to Mrs. Evelyn Jones, district clerk.

The board gave the city recreation department permission to open the school gymnasium to the public during the summer months. Dick Rees, Kimberly coach, will supervise gymnasium activities.

A perceptual motor development program will begin in the Kimberly grade school this fall under the direction of Mrs. Anna Cook, principal.

Buhl pair files

TWIN FALLS — Parents of a 16 year old youth killed in a June 6 traffic accident east of Buhl have filed a $104,000 damage suit in Fifth District Court.

Mr. and Mrs. LaVar Matkin, parents of Melvin Perkins Matkin, who was killed in a head-on collision of his vehicle and one driven by Ronald Lee Berry, are asking damages from Berry and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lee Berry.

The complaint states Matkin was killed June 6 at 12:30 a.m. when his vehicle was struck by one driven by Berry after the Berry vehicle crossed the center line of the highway. The complaint charges negligence on the part of young Berry as the cause of death for the Matkin youth.

The parents are asking $100,000 general damages, $2,500 for the loss of the vehicle and $1,500 funeral expenses.

2 bids received

TWIN FALLS — Two bids were received Tuesday by the Twin Falls county commissioner for operating franchising and refilling at the county's sanitary landfills. The board awarded the bid to

C. A. Parrott who offered the one year's service at the various sanitary landfills around the county for a price of $15,000. The other bid was $19,973.00 from Dean Hunsaker.

Band concert

TWIN FALLS — Soloist Dave Tippet will be featured on the "Ode for Trumpet" by Alfred Reed during the Twin Falls Municipal Band concert Thursday.

The concert will be presented at 8:15 p.m. at the City Park Band Shell, Director Del Slaughter said.

Other numbers on the program include "Proud Heritage Concert March," by Latham; "My Heart Ever Faithful," Bach; ballet music from "Prince Igor," Borodin; "Parada Espanola," Cavayis; "World's Fair March," Antonini; "1836 — New Land, New Nation," Ployhar; a medley of Rodgers and Hart music, arranged by Reed; "Love Theme" from "Romeo and Juliet," Rota; "America the Beautiful," Ward, and the National Anthem.

Buhl man named

TWIN FALLS — Sheriff Paul Corder Tuesday announced the appointment of a new deputy and the resignation of another.

Jack Hopwood, 30, who has been employed the past three years with the Buhl police department, assumed duties Monday in the Twin Falls sheriff's office as a deputy.

Hopwood fills the vacancy left by Gilbert Sweesy who transferred to Buhl at the time T. M. Kendrick, former Buhl deputy, was appointed as a new county range officer with the sheriff's force.

Corder said Cres DeAlba has submitted a resignation from his force. DeAlba has been working in the office the past year, coming here from California where he worked as a deputy before suffering an injury while on duty there.

In a letter to the sheriff, DeAlba said he is accepting employment with "another agency" because of the extremely low pay scale the Twin Falls County Commissioners have set for county law enforcement officers here and the lack of a good retirement program for county employees. July 17 will be his final day of duty with Twin Falls County. He will be working with the Border Patrol, Sheriff Corder said.

Pomerelle injury claims sent to US

Bob Whittaker, assistant supervisor, said the claims include one for $1 million on behalf of Andrea Tuninga, Twin Falls, who is still under a doctor's care, according to her husband; a $100,000 claim from Richard Tuninga, and a $350,000 claim from Christine Stevens, 29, Hagerman.

Whittaker said the claims went to O'Gden Tuesday for review and will then be submitted to the office of the federal general counsel in Washington, D. C.

Whittaker said the claim for the financial consideration on the part of the three skiers was filed with the Sawtooth National Forest office by the law firm of Greer, Seuthe, Royce, and Seaman, Los Angeles, Calif.

Tuninga said Tuesday he was not aware of the claims and said he is represented by George Royce, Los Angeles, but felt no action was scheduled on behalf of his wife and himself until the end of a six months waiting period after which his wife would be released by her physician.

Nineteen persons were treated for injuries after a chair lift at Pomerelle stopped and rolled backwards. Only Miss Stevens and Mrs. Tuninga were hospitalized for any length of time. Miss Stevens suffered chest and abdomen injuries in the accident. Mrs. Tuninga suffered a fractured spine in the accident.

Truck causes

$3,000 damages

Club meets

HOLLISTER — The Happy Hollister 4-H Club met Monday at the home of Dave Chadwick. A movie, "Idaho Cattle Country," was shown, and Chadwick reported on a field trip to salmon.

Treasurer Marcia Chadwick reported a $25 check received from the Farm Bureau for a clipping shoot, and Dixie Noh announced 4-H camp July 23-27.

TWIN FALLS — A two and one-half ton truck rolled from a parking lot into a building and caused an estimated $3,000 damages Monday afternoon.

City police said the accident occurred about 5:30 p.m. when a truck, parked by Lloyd G. Ek, 27, Pocatello, at the United Oil Truck and Car Service on Kimberly Road began rolling and crossed the highway crashing into the southwest corner of a cinder block building housing the Master Springs Co.

There were no injuries but officers cited the driver for inattentive driving. He had parked the vehicle out of gear, the report indicated. The truck was damaged about $200 and was owned by Ron Starkweather, Phoenix, Ariz.

It was a good bet.

Calling Directory Assistance is not always the quickest way to find a telephone number.

In fact, our research shows that in most cases, you can look up a number yourself in half the time it takes to get the number through Directory Assistance.

It makes sense. One call is faster than two. Twice as fast.

'Appropriate forum' numbers for Nixon dwindling

By DON BACON

(c) Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — For more than two months, the White House has been saying President Nixon would appear at "an appropriate time" and in "an appropriate forum" to tell his side of the Watergate story and answer questions.

In the meantime, the number of such possible forums has dwindled, in the opinion of political observers, through a process of elimination and erosion of effectiveness.

Even a press conference, which has been Nixon's first preference as an appropriate forum, is rapidly fading as an effective means for Nixon to state his case and clear himself on Watergate-related charges.

Dr. James MacGregor Burns, political science professor at Williams College and noted presidential scholar, believes, for instance, "the thing has got even far beyond any kind of press conference."

Nixon has ruled out a personal appearance before the Senate Watergate Investigating Committee, and has apparently decided against any further written statements or television speeches that profess his own innocence in the Watergate matter.

Despite growing public and internal political pressure on Nixon to speak out, he has steadfastly followed a policy since May 22 of not answering the mounting charges and allegations, preferring to wait until all of the important evidence has been presented.

As a White House official said last week, "We can't respond every time (John W.) Dean or someone makes a charge."

He passed up an opportunity to discuss Watergate Monday when he attended swearing-in ceremonies for new FBI director Clarence M. Kelley in Kansas City, Mo. It was Nixon's first public outing in nearly a month, and, although he didn't mention it, the Watergate affair was in the air as placard-carrying demonstrators and hecklers turned up in sizable numbers. Some carried signs calling for Nixon to "face the nation" by answering the Watergate charges. Other signs called for Nixon's impeachment.

Nixon's prolonged silence on Watergate is helping, observers here believe, to fuel the talk of impeachment.

Interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press" last Sunday, Professor Burns suggested that Congressional impeachment proceedings provided the clearest and fairest means for Nixon to "have his day in court" and answer the allegations that have been leveled against his administration and himself personally by former White House counsel John W. Dean III and others.

Analysis

Burns said Nixon's continued refusal to speak out in his own behalf in any other forum makes impeachment the only alternative. "I think he should realize that the more he blocks off other possibilities," Burns added, "the more impeachment proceedings remain as the only appropriate forum."

Nixon, in his letter last week to Chairman Ervin, ruled out his own appearance before the Senate panel on the grounds that such an appearance would undermine the tradition of separation of powers between the executive and legislative branches.

Committee members have discussed informally the possibility of receiving testimony from Nixon, either by subpoenaing or inviting him to appear as a witness. Some senators, including Ervin, have publicly urged Nixon to come before the committee voluntarily, arguing that it provides the "appropriate forum" that Nixon has said he was seeking.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., a committee member, was among those urging Nixon to reconsider his decision to shun the Senate hearings.

Talmadge agreed with those who believe a President cannot be legally subpoenaed to testify, but he contended that "with the cloud of uncertainty hanging over the President that it might be best, considering his own point of view and his own standing with the American people, if he requested to appear and come voluntarily on his own accord."

Indications from the White House, however, are that the number of "appropriate forums" under active consideration has been narrowed down to one — The press conference, or at least some variation of the press conference.

Several persons close to Nixon, including newly appointed domestic affairs adviser Melvin R. Laird and adviser-without-portfolio John Connally, have been urging him to take his Watergate case to the nation via a question-and-answer session with reporters.

One of the details under consideration is whether the press conference — if that is the forum Nixon ultimately chooses — should be open to all reporters or limited to a few selected press representatives.

The latter, it is argued, would be more orderly and allow Nixon to present his answers under the least amount of pressure. But many Nixon supporters believe, as does Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., that Nixon can best establish his credibility by standing before "a free-wheeling, swinging news conference" and telling "all about what he knows."

Mitchell appears at ease on stand

By ELIZABETH WHARTON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Newton Mitchell's face under the happiest of circumstances resembles that of a doleful bassett hound.

As he began his long-awaited testimony in the nationally televised Senate Watergate investigation, the resemblance was even more marked. The glump cheeks quivered from time to time, the overlong upper lip glistened in the heat of the television lights, the small chin appeared to recede into the soft roll of flesh at the neckline.

It is not a happy time for this man who once was one of the top corporate bond lawyers in the country, later became the nation's "Mr. Law-and-Order" as attorney general, and headed President Nixon's reelection campaign committee for a good part of last year.

Already under indictment in a Watergate-related case in New York, Mitchell in his first two hours on the Senate witness stand owned up to involvement in helping to "keep the lid on" the activities of top administration officials in the Watergate scandal.

He felt this was the best course of action, he said, because of a fear that full disclosures would not only endanger the re-election effort but "scar" a President who was not involved.

Pressed for his reasons for believing the President to be ignorant of the Watergate affair, Mitchell said his feeling was based on knowledge of the man who had been his friend, his law partner and his close confidant for nearly a decade.

Mitchell testified under protest and only after exhausting all legal pleas to be excused. Yet he answered the questions of committee Chief Counsel Sam Dash with no apparent reluctance and seemed at ease in the witness chair.

At times, his well-known wry humor came through.

One series of questions dealt with the testimony to the committee by his former deputy, Jeb Stuart Magruder, during his appearance before the committee, to the effect that he had met with Mitchell and showed him the so-called "Gernstone" files of transcribed conversations from electronic surveillance of the Democratic National Committee.

Mitchell called it a "palatable, damnable lie" — his harshest words of the morning — and said his office logs would prove that no such meeting ever took place. His logs, he said, were so complete that they even showed the occasions when his wife or daughter telephoned him.

"By the way," he added with a straight face, "my wife called me a lot more often than my daughter did."

Eye surgery performed on blind labor writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Labor columnist Victor Riesel, blinded 17 years ago when a gangster threw sulfuric acid in his eyes as he stepped out of a Manhattan restaurant, is undergoing a series of operations to restore sight in one eye.

"If I have something to be thankful for, then I will be very thankful," Riesel said Tuesday. "If it doesn't work, then it will be because I just let it go for 17 years."

The series of operations being conducted at the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center involves removing scar tissue, rebuilding the eye socket with tissue from the lip and bone from the shin and then implanting an artificial cornea.

A hospital spokesman said doctors think the operations on the left eye have a "good chance" of succeeding. He said in the last 18 months 26 persons, including a woman who can now drive her car, underwent the process and there has been no sign of the body rejecting the tissue.

Riesel, who at the time wrote a column for the New York Daily Mirror and was syndicated in 192 other newspapers, walked out of Lindy's Restaurant about 3 a.m. April 5, 1956 when a man stepped out of the shadows and threw acid across his forehead, eyes and nose.

Riesel was well known for his long-running fight against gangsters and Communists in unions. Earlier in the evening he finished a broadcast denouncing what he said were convicted extortionists in the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Riesel, who was released from the hospital said Tuesday that if the operations are successful he has been told he will be able to see "17 feet to infinity." He entered the hospital July 2 for the first operation with the next to be performed in September and the plastic cornea implant expected around Thanksgiving.

The hospital spokesman said the success of the operation will be known immediately after the cornea implant. As for now, he said, "it's just a matter of wait-and-see."

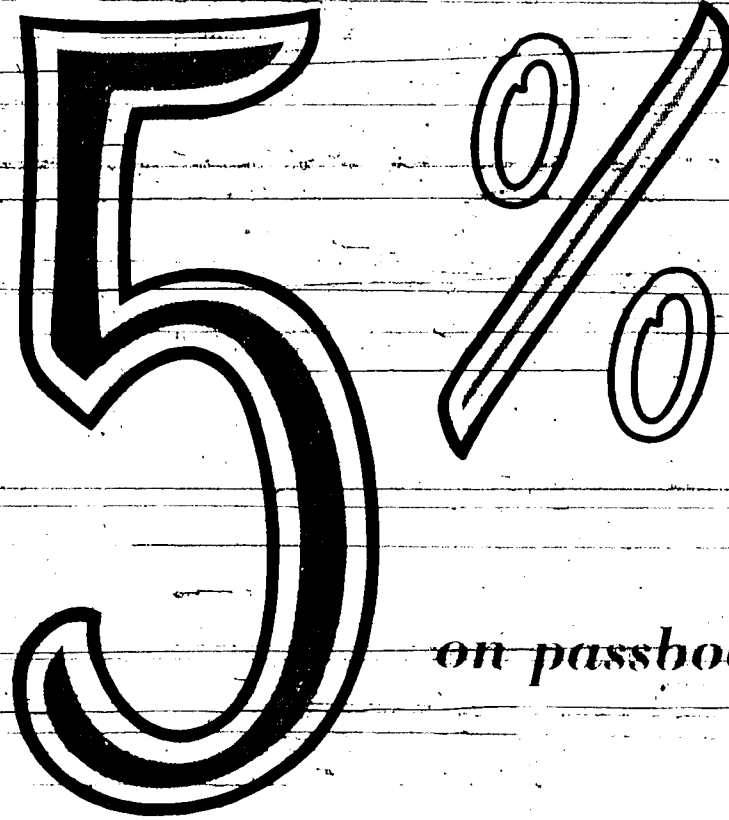

Riesel continued to write his column after the attack.

The man who threw the acid walked away from the scene and was not caught, but three months later a man believed to have carried out the attack was found shot to death.

Riesel's father, Nathan, a leader in a garment union and long-time fighter for clean unionism, died in 1947 of injuries received five years earlier in a beating by gangsters.

THE TWISTED metal is a reminder of the force of the explosions that rocked this munitions plant near Cleburne, Tex., Tuesday. At least four persons were killed in the mid-day explosions and more than 30 others were injured. Location of Cleburne, a city of 16,000, is shown on the map below. (UPI)

Texas plant explosion kills four CLEBURNE, Tex. (UPI) — An explosion in a munitions plant where fuses are inserted into hand grenades began a chain reaction of blasts Tuesday, climaxing with the detonation of a truck loaded with grenades. Four women were killed and 35 other persons were injured.

"We had no warning," said Irene Felan, 19, a fuse inspector. "I don't even remember hearing an explosion. Then the ceiling started caving in and it was everybody for himself. I don't know how I got out, but I did."

The four women killed were Doris Brown of Fort Worth, Tex., and Debbie Spurrelle of Joshua, Tex., both 19. Sue Grisham, 22, of Grandbury, and Dorothy Cole, 31, of Cleburne.

Most of the injured victims were also women. Harold Owen, president of Gearhart-Owen Industries, Inc., said his plant hires more women on the assembly line because they "are faster with their hands than men."

The first explosion rocked the area shortly after noon and blew out a large window in an office building a half mile away. Miss Felan said she began walking to the main gate and she could hear several other explosions as she went.

"Those must have been some of the fuse boxes which were lying on the floor," she said. "Then the fire got to the big van parked outside. That's what made the big explosion. They had been loading it with assembled grenades."

That explosion "knocked the man next to me to the ground," said Marsha Buckner of the Cleburne-Times Review newspaper. "I'd say we were a quarter of a mile away at the most. It shook the ground. It shook me."

The plant is a mile north of Cleburne, a city of 16,000, 30 miles south of Fort Worth. A company spokesman said the plant makes gunpowder, ammunition and industrial explosives as well as detonating systems for grenades.

Miss Felan said 30 to 40 persons worked in the assembly building with her and 120 others were employed at the plant. She said all eight persons in her small room escaped.

Johnson County Memorial Hospital pathologist Dr. Arthur Haines said the four victims were burned beyond recognition. Haines set up a temporary blood bank at the hospital's dining area. He said more than 110 persons responded to his call for blood donors.

Haines said 35 persons were treated and 10 were admitted to the hospital. One woman was treated for a heart condition and a man and a woman received surgery.

Owen said the series of explosions occurred in an assembly line building where fuses or pins for hand grenades are assembled.

"Although the cause is not definitely known at this time, it was thought to be due to a detonation in a crimping machine that seals the fuse material in its case," Owen said.

Owen said the explosions caused approximately $75,000 in damages and the production line will be closed for 30 days.

Streets patrolled in Montevideo

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) — Tanks and troop carriers patrolled the streets of Montevideo today to prevent a new demonstration against President Juan Maria Bordaberry's decision to rule Uruguay by decree.

Bordaberry, who dissolved congress last month with the support of the military and assumed broad powers, named four men Tuesday to fill cabinet posts vacated by ministers proesting his action.

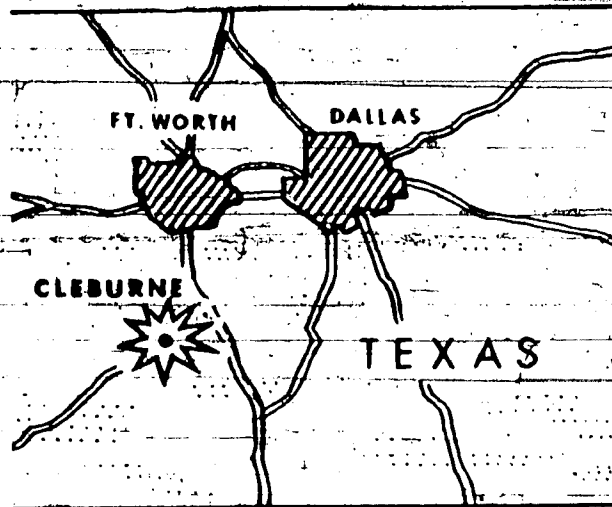

Press censorship was enforced Tuesday when the government closed three leftist newspapers for ten editions, each for "misinterpreting the government's orders."

The armed forces have declared their "total subordination" to Bordaberry, who agreed last February to all military demands made in a bloodless rebellion.

The military used machine guns, swords, tear gas, and tanks to disperse tens of thousands of demonstrators Monday. At least 30 persons were hurt in the incident, which began with a protest against the rule-by-decree decision.

Despite a ban on a major labor union and threats to striking firemen, the effects of a general strike were still being felt in the capital, mainly in banks and factories. Thousands of uncashed checks piled up in the banks.

Officials split over oil route

RAPID CITY, S.D. (UPI) — Midwestern governors are divided over the route to be chosen for Alaskan oil to the lower 48 states—whether to pipe it to Alaska's southern coast for shipment in tankers or to use a pipeline across Canada.

Governors attending the 12th annual Midwestern Governors Conference Tuesday voted down support of an 11-month Senate study of a trans-Canadian pipeline route from Alaska to the Midwest by a 6-5 margin.

The Senate has not yet decided whether to undertake the trans-Canadian route, but the study of its feasibility, is included as an amendment in legislation to allow piping of Alaskan oil to the rest of the country. There have been court rulings to the contrary.

The study proposal is seen in the Senate as a move to block the already surveyed trans-Alaskan route to the West Coast.

Wisconsin Gov. Patrick Lucey introduced the proposal to support the trans-Canadian route study. One governor, David Hall of Oklahoma, said that both pipelines are needed to meet the nation's oil requirements.

The vote came shortly after Govs. William G. Milliken of Michigan and John J. Gilligan of Ohio departed the conference. Lucey said he had had the assurance of both governors' votes and it would have given him a 7-4 edge. The 6-5 vote, he said, was thus "indecisive."

Voting with Lucey were Govs. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota, J. James Exon of Nebraska, Daniel Walker of Illinois, and Otis Bowen of Indiana.

Voting against were Hall, Link, Christopher Bond of Missouri, Robert Ray of Iowa, Richard Kneip of South Dakota and Robert Docking of Kansas.

The governors left for discussion today the question of endorsing a nationwide "power grid."

Gov. Arthur Link of North Dakota has introduced a resolution calling for the governors' support of federal legislation establishing a nationwide grid system to supply wholesale electric power to all retail electric systems.

Link said the system would "facilitate the most economical use of fuel, water, land and air resources and prevent monopoly control of electric energy."

Another resolution before the group would put the governors on record as favoring the "immediate cessation of controls on the export of soybeans, soybean products and other farm products."

The resolution noted that the 16 states included in the conference produce more than $21 billion worth of soybeans and soybean products annually.

WARNER PRODUCTION HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Warner Bros. announced it will produce "Bafferty and the Gold Dust Twins," an original screenplay by John Kaye.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With housewives demonstrating in the gallery against high milk prices, the House Tuesday voted to cut subsidy payments to farmers and moved toward passage of an omnibus four-year farm bill.

Eleven women were arrested in the spectators' gallery after they threw petitions to the House floor and unfurled banners reading: "Milk is for children, not for profit."

They were members of a group called Women United For Action and had driven here from Wilmington, Del. Their petitions claimed the farm bill would "legalize monopolies and price-fixing practices," and that this would raise the price of milk another four cents a gallon. They asked for a price rollback.

Sharon Ceci of Wilmington shouted as she was being led down a hall. "I can't afford to feed my little boy. Representatives don't understand that." The women were charged with impeding or disrupting a session of Congress, which carries a possible fine of up to $500 and six months in jail. They were remanded to the District of Columbia Superior Court.

The House voted 246 to 163 for an amendment by Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., limiting to $20,000 the amount of crop subsidies any one farmer can receive from the government. It applies to wheat, cotton and feed grain crops combined.

The Findley amendment is similar to one voted by the Senate last month. It is more restrictive on farmers than a $37,500 limit per crop, not per farmer—which had been approved by the House Agriculture Committee, and it would replace a $55,000 per crop limit now in effect.

Findley said it would also close "loopholes which allow wholesale evasion of the present law." It goes farther than the Senate version in that it would also ban the leasing of cotton allotments.

The amendment was still subject to a further roll call vote, but was expected to stand up through final passage of the farm bill.

Speaker Carl Albert took the rare action of entering the debate and voting on amendments. He opposed the Findley proposal saying, "this is a time of a shortage of agricultural products and a time that we want to encourage the production of farm products."

Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., supporting Findley, said that without the amendment "the cream of this bill is being skimmed off the top by the big-fat cat farmers." Rep. Robert Price, R-Tex., said the Findley amendment would "cut the American farmer short" and thereby result in food rationing and higher prices.

The omnibus bill also sets "target prices" of $2.05 a bushel for wheat, $1.38 a bushel for corn and 38 cents a pound for cotton, and provides that if the average market price for these crops falls below the target level, the government would make up the difference to farmers.

The bill also extends the food stamp and Food for Peace programs and transfers administration of farm job safety regulations from the Labor Department to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Officials split over oil route

RAPID CITY, S.D. (UPI) — Midwestern governors are divided over the route to be chosen for Alaskan oil to the lower 48 states—whether to pipe it to Alaska's southern coast for shipment in tankers or to use a pipeline across Canada.

Governors attending the 12th annual Midwestern Governors Conference Tuesday voted down support of an 11-month Senate study of a trans-Canadian pipeline route from Alaska to the Midwest by a 6-5 margin.

The Senate has not yet decided whether to undertake the trans-Canadian route, but the study of its feasibility, is included as an amendment in legislation to allow piping of Alaskan oil to the rest of the country. There have been court rulings to the contrary.

The study proposal is seen in the Senate as a move to block the already surveyed trans-Alaskan route to the West Coast.

Wisconsin Gov. Patrick Lucey introduced the proposal to support the trans-Canadian route study. One governor, David Hall of Oklahoma, said that both pipelines are needed to meet the nation's oil requirements.

The vote came shortly after Govs. William G. Milliken of Michigan and John J. Gilligan of Ohio departed the conference. Lucey said he had had the assurance of both governors' votes and it would have given him a 7-4 edge. The 6-5 vote, he said, was thus "indecisive."

Voting with Lucey were Govs. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota, J. James Exon of Nebraska, Daniel Walker of Illinois, and Otis Bowen of Indiana.

Voting against were Hall, Link, Christopher Bond of Missouri, Robert Ray of Iowa, Richard Kneip of South Dakota and Robert Docking of Kansas.

The governors left for discussion today the question of endorsing a nationwide "power grid."

Gov. Arthur Link of North Dakota has introduced a resolution calling for the governors' support of federal legislation establishing a nationwide grid system to supply wholesale electric power to all retail electric systems.

Link said the system would "facilitate the most economical use of fuel, water, land and air resources and prevent monopoly control of electric energy."

Another resolution before the group would put the governors on record as favoring the "immediate cessation of controls on the export of soybeans, soybean products and other farm products."

The resolution noted that the 16 states included in the conference produce more than $21 billion worth of soybeans and soybean products annually.

WARNER PRODUCTION HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Warner Bros. announced it will produce "Bafferty and the Gold Dust Twins," an original screenplay by John Kaye.

Koreans study reuniting plan

SEOUL (UPI) — North and South Korean Red Cross officials today met again in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, where the South proposed a new plan for reuniting an estimated 10 million families divided by the Korean war.

Reports from South Korean newsmen in Pyongyang said the proposal was made at a closed meeting that lasted nearly an hour. They said the two sides would meet again Thursday.

South Korean spokesman Chung Ju-nyon declined to disclose to newsmen the contents of the Southern proposal but he said it is a more concrete and realistic compromise to make a breakthrough in the stalled Red Cross talks.

Past meetings between the two sides, held alternately in Pyongyang and Seoul, have been bogged down by Northern demands that Seoul abandon its anti-Communist posture. The South terms the demands political.

The Southern group is expected to return home through the border village of Panmunjom late Friday.

Testimony by Mitchell covers varied subjects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Excerpts from testimony Tuesday before the Senate Select Committee investigating the Watergate affair:

Witness — John N. Mitchell, former attorney general and former director of the Nixon campaign.

(Questioning by Chief Counsel Samuel Dash about a Jan. 27 meeting in Mitchell's office. Mitchell, Jeb Magruder, Gordon Liddy and John Dean were there.)

Dash: The committee has heard considerable testimony about this particular meeting, at least from the other side of your desk. Now what is your recollection of what Mr. Liddy presented to you as the attorney general, and also, to some extent an adviser to the Committee for the Re-Election of the President?

Mitchell: Well, I think it can be best described as a complete horror story that involved a mish-mash of code names, and lines of authority, electronic surveillance, the ability to intercept aircraft communications... the call girl bit and all the rest of it.

Dash: When Liddy completed his presentation, what was your reaction?

Mitchell: As I recall, I told him to go back to the charts. What we were interested in was a matter of information gathering and protection against the demonstrators.

Dash: Well, Mr. Mitchell, if this was the kind of plan you have described, and has been described by other witnesses before this committee, and since you were the attorney general of the United States, why didn't you throw Mr. Liddy out of your office?

Mitchell: I think, Mr. Dash, in hindsight, I not only should have thrown him out of the office, I should have thrown him out of the window.

Dash: Well, since you did neither, why didn't you at least recommend that Mr. Liddy be fired from his responsible position at the committee since he was obviously presenting to you an irresponsible program?

Mitchell: Well, in hindsight, I probably should have done that too.

Dash: Do you recall Mr. Magruder testifying that he had taken these documents (Gemstone files) and had shown them to you?

Mitchell: I recall it very vividly because it happens to be a palpable damnable lie.

Dash: Well, did you believe, Mr. Mitchell, and I put the word "believe" at this point, have any belief that the President was aware of either the events prior or after the break-in at the Democratic headquarters? When I say events, I mean the actual bugging and the cover-up that took place thereafter.

Mitchell: I am not aware of it and I have every reason because of my discussions and encounters with him up through the 22nd of March, I have the very strong opinion that he was not.

Dash: Well, now, Mr. Mitchell, did you yourself, as the President's adviser and counselor, tell the President about what you, what you had learned?

Mitchell: No, sir, I did not.

Dash: Why did you not?

Mitchell: Because I didn't believe that it was appropriate for him to have that type of knowledge, because I knew the actions that he would take, and they would be most detrimental to his political campaign.

(Dash asked about a March 28 meeting with Magruder concerning whether Magruder was in trouble.)

Mitchell: Mr. Magruder was again concerned that—well, he didn't express it too directly—but he thought that he might become the fall guy. It seems to me that everybody around this town that was involved in this all thought that they were going to become the fall guy, but he thought...

Dash: Did you, Mr. Mitchell?

Mitchell: Did I? No, contrary to the stories that I have read I didn't believe that to be the case. I'm quite anxiously waiting to see if there is some possibility of that, other than some misguided counsel who wrote a piece of paper from which some cross examination would be made.

(Sen. Talmadge questioning)

Talmadge: Now you've been in public office, positions of high responsibility and trust. To my mind the first requirement of a subordinate, adviser, confidant, in any capacity, is absolute and implicit trust. When they see anything going wrong, involving their superior, that needs immediate, corrective action, they report it instantly. When you found out all these crimes, conspiracies, coverups were being committed, why on earth didn't you walk into the President's office and tell him the truth?

Mitchell: It wasn't a question of telling the truth, it was a question of not involving him at all, so that he could go on through the campaign without being involved in this type of activity. And I'm talking about the White House horrors particularly. As I've testified this morning that I was sure knowing Richard Nixon, the President, as I do, that he would just lower the boom on all this matter and it would come back to hurt him and that it would affect him in his reelection.

(Sen. Gurney questioning)

Gurney: Let's turn to this executive clemency thing, which of course is important, because the only person who can offer that is the President. There was testimony by Dean that you had instructed him to offer it to McCord. What about that?

Mitchell: Well, that's, in my opinion, that's a complete fabrication, because the negotiations with McCord started when I was entirely out of the way—I was down in Florida. This, of course, was a thing that was handled through Caulfield—it wasn't Mitchell.

Cameras zero in on Mitchell

Liddy hid Dita, Mitchell says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Convicted Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy helped spirit ITT lobbyist Dita Beard away from a Senate committee that wanted to ask her about an antitrust case, former Attorney General John N. Mitchell said Tuesday.

In his testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee, Mitchell told publicly for the first time how Liddy then chief counsel to President Nixon's re-election committee, took Mrs. Beard out of town during Senate consideration of Richard G. Kleindienst's nomination as attorney general. Mrs. Beard was discovered on March 4, 1972, at a Denver hospital undergoing treatment for heart trouble. She denied trying to run away of escape questioning by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Mitchell, however, told the Senate Watergate Committee that Liddy helped in springing her out of town in what he said was one of the "horrors" ordered by the White House. It was revealed last month that former special presidential counsel Charles W. Colson authorized a visit to Mrs. Beard at the hospital by E. Howard Hunt, who was later convicted with Liddy in connection the Watergate break-in.

Wearing a wig and using an alias, Hunt tried to determine the authenticity of a memorandum that the Judiciary Committee wanted to ask Mrs. Beard about.

Before she was found at the hospital on a tip from ITT, Mrs. Beard was sought by FBI agents as the purported author of a memo linking the government's settlement of a ITT merger proposal and an ITT subsidiary's $400,000 offer to help finance the 1972 Republican National Convention.

Colson acknowledged the visit by Hunt, who was then on the White House payroll, in testimony June 14 before a House subcommittee.

The principal reason for the trip was to find out what the truth was about the memo which was the central piece of evidence around the Kleindienst nomination, Colson said.

Martha's behind John's testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Martha Mitchell said today she completely supports her husband in his Watergate testimony.

The wife of the former attorney general and Nixon campaign director told UPI in an early morning telephone call: "I want you to know that my husband is absolutely correct in all of his testimony... He is completely honest. I'm standing completely beside him because I know he's telling the truth."

Mrs. Mitchell didn't attend Tuesday's hearing, but her name came up frequently.

Georgia Democrat hints at Mitchell perjury

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., has raised the possibility that John N. Mitchell committed perjury when he testified before the Senate Judiciary Committee last year that he was not involved in political activity while still attorney general.

In a sharp exchange during the Senate Watergate hearings Tuesday Talmadge concluded that it was "up to the American people to decide" whether Mitchell lied.

Talmadge read a transcript of an exchange between Mitchell and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., during Judiciary Committee hearings on the confirmation of Richard Kleindienst as attorney general on March 14, 1972. Mitchell, who resigned shortly thereafter to direct President Nixon's reelection campaign, was testifying on behalf of Kleindienst who was to become his successor as attorney general.

Kennedy asked Mitchell if he was involved in Republican party politics, and Mitchell replied "no."

"No re-election campaign responsibilities?" Kennedy asked.

"Not as yet," Mitchell replied.

Talmadge then introduced a series of memorandums written to Mitchell by Jeb Stuart Magruder dating back to June, 22, 1971, nine months before the Kleindienst hearings, indicating Mitchell had a major role in the campaign while still attorney general.

"If I read the English language correctly, what you said then (on March 17) and what you've said here—one is in error," Talmadge said. "The American people can draw their own conclusions as to which is in error."

Mitchell said he had not lied, and that all of Kennedy's questions pertained to whether he was working for the Republican party, which he said he was not. While he was attorney general, Mitchell said, he was a "consultant" to President Nixon on re-election matters.

Committee Chairman Sam Ervin was asked if the discrepancy would be turned over to special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox for possible perjury.

"I can't prophesize what I'm going to do," Ervin replied.

Chief Counsel Samuel Dash said that the entire record of the committee hearings would be turned over to Cox "for any action that may be warranted on any testimony."

Young GOP's pressing for Nixon disclosure

ATLANTA (UPI) — The national convention of Young Republicans will call upon President Nixon for "some type of disclosure" on the Watergate scandal, the chairman of the Resolutions Committee said Tuesday.

"The longer he waits, the harder it will be for him to answer the lingering doubts that affect most everyone," said Peter Chase of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Chase said his committee is drafting a final resolution on Watergate and that it will include a "complete vindication" of Nixon from any involvement in the bugging scandal.

"The resolution also will call for some type of disclosure on the President's part, whether it be a news conference or just a statement," he said. "Right now, it's just important that he make a statement to clear the air so the executive branch can start running again."

Rep. Ben Blackburn, R-Ga., told a luncheon gathering of delegates that he felt the President still was able to function despite the problems created by Watergate.

"There is a remarkable standard of values that allows Democrats to investigate freely Republicans but not the other way around," Blackburn said.

"There has been so much full-blown publicity about the Watergate affair that people may start to think that the executive branch is at a complete standstill, but that's not so," Blackburn said.

"Where were these investigations during the Billy Sol Estes trouble, the Bobby Baker scandal or that famous Mark Spitz of Chappaquiddick?"—a reference to the incident involving Sen. Edward Kennedy in which a young woman drowned.

Tuesday's keynote speaker, Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., said that Watergate had jeopardized the workings of government.

"The effect of the Watergate will be the spreading of a sense of negativism and a political skepticism," Brock said. "It's worst effect will be to cause good people to stay out of the political system because they no longer trust it."

Porno ruling argued

By LUCINDA L. FRANKS
 United Press International
 The Supreme Court decision on obscenity has prompted Playboy, a favorite magazine of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, to consider making "editorial adjustments" in its photographs. But its rival, Penthouse, arguing that the human body is not obscene, says it has no intention of changing its pictures.

Both magazines said they expected the high court ruling, which gave power to local officials to judge what is obscene on the basis of "community standards" rather than national tastes. The ruling has resulted in both publications being taken off the stands in many towns, particularly in the South.

Bob Guccione, founder and publisher of Penthouse, which has cut into the older Playboy market with its nudity and provocative feature articles, said the magazine might consider some minor non-photographic changes.

But he was adamant about keeping the photographs the same. "I am not changing the concept that the human body in any aspect is considered obscene," he said. "It is not anti-biblical, anti-Christian, or anti-anything you like."

Playboy, who pioneered the literary girls magazine field and made it into a financial bonanza, said it was considering "editorial adjustments" for future issues. Playboy officials were meeting in Chicago this week to discuss the matter.

Agnew, in a speech a month ago, said one of the disadvantages of being vice president was that "you have to give up Playboy." His remarks were widely used by the magazine in recent advertising campaigns.

Playboy spokesman Lee Gottlieb said if changes were made, it would be in the photographs, which accounts for 15 per cent of most issues. He said there would be no changes in its August issue, which was already placed when the high court made its ruling.

"We think the decision of the Supreme Court was a regrettable decision. It is a matter that affects the amendment freedom. We think everyone involved in communications should be concerned," Gottlieb said.

Guccione said Penthouse will "slightly moderate the editorial content rather than fundamentally change the editorial direction" of the magazine.

He said if an article "is not sufficiently serious, by that meaning less likely to be defensible," there will be changes.

He said he did not consider that a new magazine for women which Penthouse plans to put out, viva, would come under the Supreme Court guidelines because women's magazines are traditionally viewed in a different light from men's.

However, he said "where nudity is necessary in Viva to make a point, whatever that point might be, it will exist and will exist without what the Supreme Court says is obscene or what local authorities say is obscene."

Airlines seek refund

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Airlines has asked for a refund of an illegal $55,000 contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign and is waiting for a reply from the campaign organization, the firm announced Monday.

The company's chairman, George A. Spater, announced $75,000 to campaign officials under pressure last year, but that $20,000 of it came from "noncorporate" sources and was therefore legal. Spater acknowledged that the remaining $55,000 donated from the company's treasury was in violation of election laws, which prohibit corporate contributions.

A spokesman for the campaign said it was optimistic about getting the money back.

Spater said his company disclosed the gifts "before any knowledge of these facts had reached the government from other sources."

"Our purpose in making this public disclosure has been to mitigate any resulting charges or penalties against the officials involved, and also to focus attention on the evils of the presidential political fund-raising system," Spater said.

"We need honest and sensible new laws that will effectively reduce both the pressures on candidates to seek political contributions and the pressures on business firms to make contributions."

Excess spending rapped

BOISE (UPI) — State Auditor Joe Williams says he sees no excuse for the participation of state agencies in Idaho should overspend their allotted budgets.

"I don't think there is any excuse for them to participate in agencies to submit claims for more money than they have," Williams said. "It is not a very difficult job to keep track of the money they have in their allotments."

Williams said he ran into a problem of categorical overspending when he tried to balance the budget for the 1972-73 fiscal year. A final budget figure was not ready Monday for the fiscal year which officially ended June 30.

Williams said he had 50 cases where departments had submitted expenditure claims and no money to pay the bills.

But the state auditor said most agencies and departments are doing a good job.

Sea yields 17th century ship's booty

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Treasure hunters have reported finding the wreckage of a 17th century Spanish galleon that went down in a hurricane in the Florida straits with 40 tons of treasure aboard.

A professional salvage team Monday displayed silver bars, coins, jewelry and cannon balls they said came from the sunken Nuestra Senora de Atocha, which sunk in 1622 on a voyage from Cuba to Spain.

"The Atocha is probably the biggest find in Florida history. It's everybody's rainbow wreck," said Preston Shoup, a spokesman for Treasure Salvors, which set up operations in Key West three years ago to search for the Atocha and its sister ship, La Margarita.

Dennis English of the Florida Division of History and Archives, said he believes the find, about 40 miles southwest of here, may be the most spectacular in the history of Florida treasure hunting in both historical and monetary terms.

"If their research is correct, it certainly is the Atocha," English said.

Treasure Salvors claimed the wreck could yield treasure worth $100 million.

The key evidence produced Monday was a silver bar that matches one listed in the Atocha's manifesto in weight, fineness and registration number.

Nine days of diving at the site in the Marquesas Islands also brought forth two other 60-pound silver bars, 711 silver pieces of eight, numerous guns and cannon balls, religious jewelry and pottery.

Gene Lyon, Spanish history researcher for Treasure Salvors, said the Atocha carried 40 tons of treasure when it left Havana on Sept. 5, 1622, bound for Spain. He said La Margarita had 27 tons of treasure.

The two ships were part of a fleet of 27. Less than 24 hours out of port, the fleet was struck by a hurricane in the Florida Straits.

The Atocha and the Margarita were among eight vessels sunk by the storm. The Spanish located the Atocha two weeks later but the marker they left was destroyed by another storm.

Treasure hunters have been seeking the wreck ever since.

The silver bar bearing the number 4584 was found last Wednesday by divers searching the hull of the sunken ship in 20 feet of water.

The manifesto of the Atocha mentions a bar with the same number, weighing 63 pounds and having a fineness of 2,380 parts of silver.

The blackened bar, two feet long, was brought in when the search vessel Southwind docked at Key West Monday.

Mills to Bethesda for treatment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee said today he will enter Bethesda Naval Hospital probably this week for treatment of a back ailment that threatens to end his congressional career.

Mills announced Saturday he would not seek re-election next year if he could not get relief from increasing pain caused by a "degenerating back disc."

The 64-year-old Arkansas Democrat, starting his 15th year as chairman of the key tax-writing committee and considered one of the most powerful members of Congress, said in an interview that he would undergo a complete physical examination at Bethesda. He said he possibly would be placed in traction to relieve the pressure of the back ailment.

Mills said he is tentatively scheduled to enter the hospital this week and he did not know how long he would be there.

He said since Saturday's announcement he has received "hundreds of calls" from colleagues, friends and citizens suggesting treatment for the disc problem. He said his doctors advised against surgery "at this time" because of his age.

Mills would not elaborate on his possible retirement because it's too early to go beyond his original statement.

He said he would spend as much time as possible working with his committee to complete acting on a trade reform bill. But he changed an earlier timetable in which he had hoped the important and controversial measure could get House approval before a monthlong congressional recess starts Aug. 3.

It appears now that we will get the bill out of our committee, but I don't think there will be time for House action on it," Mills said.

The predicted snag in consideration of the bill could also postpone, possibly for the rest of the year, completion of work on a tax reform bill.

Covered wagon takes Amish family west

SHINGLETON, Mich. (UPI) — An Amish family, confident that God will supply their needs, has spent three days stranded in a desolate area between two small upper peninsula communities, but hoped to continue their journey west by covered wagon today.

Although their horse was lame and they had no other way of moving the wagon, the four Athens, Maine, residents steadfastly refused to hitch a ride from a motorized vehicle in adherence to their religious belief.

Then early today, with a rainbow displaying its colors above, Ronald Church lanced his horse's hoof and removed the stone that had caused it such discomfort. He hoped to have his family back on the road today.

Although declining to take advantage of modern conveniences, Mr. and Mrs. Church and their two daughters did accept food from sympathetic residents.

One of the families contributed a horse the same size as the lame horse to pull the wagon. The Church's planned to bring both horses along, using one as a spare.

The first horse went lame last Saturday and the Churches had waited since that time, along Highway M28 between Shingleton and Seney, camping along the Driggs River in a rough, heavily wooded area.

State police at the Munising Post, some 28 miles west of the campsite, said they were powerless as the family refused the help of tow trucks or other motorized vehicles.

The family left Maine in their covered wagon last year for Montana, averaging 25 miles a day.

Nature takes over to protect man from heat

CHICAGO — Scientists find that after about four days of temperatures in the not-so-guy 90's, the body begins to adjust its physiology to better cope with the slaughter.

"Acclimatization takes place," explains Dr. Robert D. Wurster, physiologist at the Loyola University Medical School in Chicago.

"The mechanism is not readily understood but we know that sweating is begun at a temperature lower than previously."

Nature steps up the activity of the body's two million sweat glands so that more heat can be transported to the skin for evaporation.

Here's how the protective mechanism works: when excessive heat threatens the body's normal 98.6 temperature, receptors in the nervous system send signals to the hypothalamus, a thermometer in the brain.

The hypothalamus sends out signals causing the blood vessels to dilate in order to deliver a greater volume of heat from the internal body to the sweat glands to step up their operation and increase the secretion of fluid to the surface of the skin.

Normally, about a pint and a half of fluid is perspired in 24 hours but in the hot season it may jump to several times that quantity. The lost fluid must be replaced by drinking.

Sweating is often messy, but it is life-saving, Wurster points out. Man is unique in his ability to sweat copiously.

On humid days, evaporation takes place more slowly than when the air is dry. The value of air conditioning is removing the water from the surrounding air so that evaporation can proceed at a faster rate.

While perspiration takes some salt out of the body, the amount is so small that one need not fear great loss, advises Dr. A. V. Wolf, professor of physiology at the University of Illinois Abraham Lincoln School of Medicine.

Dr. Wolf opposes the practice of keeping salt tablets near the water fountain. Indiscriminate swallowing of salt tablets can be harmful, he points out. An extra shake of the salt shaker at the dinner table is all that most people need, he said.

No dice

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Plans to build a restaurant atop Sugar Loaf, one of Rio's most scenic landmarks, have been sidetracked, at least temporarily.

A citizens' committee claimed the project would "disfigure" the peak located in Guanabara Bay. The plan will be restudied by the Guanabara Urban Planning Council.

Rare disease dooms three

AARHUS, Denmark (UPI) — John Thøgersen, 17, knows he will die and accepts it. His 15-year-old sister Jane knows she also will die but she cries "all day."

Their 12-year-old brother Ole does not know yet that he too is doomed.

They are victims of myoklonos epilepsy, a disease so rare that doctors know of only 19 cases in the entire world.

The disease, doctors say, is inherited—and incurable. Doctors say none of the three will live to age 20.

The tragedy of the Thøgersen children, their parents and three brothers aged 10, 9 and 3 came after they moved to Canada to start a new life. They are back in Denmark now, the Thøgersens hoping the three younger children do not carry the disease.

"We have done anything we can," Mrs. Thøgersen said Monday. "We are desperate now. We had to give up hope of saying the three eldest children. Now we can only pray that the three younger children will not fall ill."

Doctors give the younger boys a 50-50 chance.

"John knows that he is going to die," Mrs. Thøgersen said. "He has accepted it."

Jane learned about it by mistake when she opened a letter from the hospital in Hamilton (Ontario), she said. "But she cannot take it so unbelievably brave and calm as John. She cries all day. John told me that he accepts his fate, but that he is sorry he cannot help his sister and younger brother.

"Ole does not know yet."

John is hospitalized. Doctors say Jane is becoming steadily more ill as time passes. Ole is not yet badly affected.

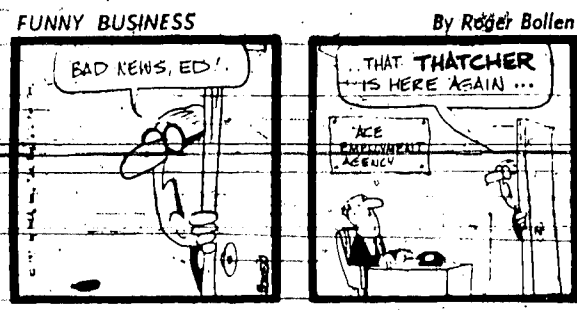

Doctors say children contract the disease between ages 10 and 12. Its effect is quick, with muscular contractions as the first sign. Then come spasms and sometimes unconsciousness. The brain is damaged, causing amnesia and finally death comes.

Because he has devoted so much time to his family, Thøgersen has not been able to work steadily. Neighbors in Hamilton raised money to help the family return to Denmark and Danes also are collecting funds to help.

'Pot' law repealed

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Ann Arbor's $5 marijuana fine, considered the most easy going "pot" ordinance in the nation, was repealed Monday night while some 150 "street people" protested by lighting up marijuana cigarettes inside the City Council chambers.

One youthful protester hit Mayor J.W. Stephenson with a pie.

On a vote of 7-4, the ordinance which made use, possession or sale of marijuana a misdemeanor punishable by a $5 fine, was repealed.

Under the terms of the old ordinance, the fine could be mailed in or handled in court, much like a traffic ticket. The City Council also rejected an amendment which would have allowed the present ordinance to stand until April when a referendum could be taken.

The action means Ann Arbor residents, including students at the University of Michigan, are subject to state law and can be sentenced to jail for a year if they are caught with two ounces or less of marijuana—and a longer sentence if they are caught with more.

After the council's decision was announced, one among the 150 persons in the audience hurled a pie at Stephenson, splattering him with the remains. Then numerous persons lit up marijuana cigarettes.

The original ordinance passed in May, 1972, under support by a coalition of the youth-oriented Human Rights party and Democratic councilmen. But Republicans campaigning in the last city election promised to bring back the stricter penalty as under state law and it was the new Republican-controlled City Council that brought about the latest change.

Persons caught with more than two ounces of marijuana, which becomes a felony under state law, could get up to four years in jail and a $1,000 fine.

A WOMAN helps a child take a drag on a pipe while they listened in the Ann Arbor, Mich., City Council chambers as the city's marijuana law was repealed. The council voted 7 to 4 against the law, and rejected an amendment to put the issue before the voters via a referendum. (UPI)

Nixon urged to implement Phase IV economic plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican congressional leaders urged President Nixon today to work as fast as possible to establish a Phase IV economic program to replace the current price freeze which has made farming unprofitable.

Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, joined by his House counterpart Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan, told reporters after a two hour meeting with the President. "There is clearly a desire to get the freeze over and get into something else."

Scott said the administration had virtually completed its consultations on the Phase IV program and would begin soon to make basic decisions that will shape the new plan. He predicted Phase IV would be started before the freeze is scheduled to end Aug. 12.

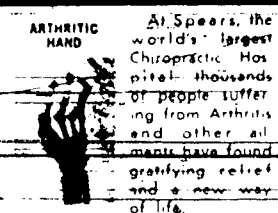

Nixon also summoned his top economic strategists to an afternoon meeting at the White House. A spokesman said the President and his advisers would "review the current economic situation."

Scott indicated the President had decided to permit the food industry to increase prices on meat and some other products to compensate for sharp increases in feed prices which have made some operations so unprofitable that farmers have been killing baby chicks to save the cost of feeding them.

But Scott said no decision has been made yet whether higher costs might be passed immediately to consumers or if the price increases would be spaced out to make them more gradual.

Frontier Days may break all records

CHEYENNE (UPI) — A Frontier Days rodeo official said Monday this year's rodeo would set records in prize money — about $130,000 — and contestants — 1,152.

"Everybody that has ever set a horse is entered, I think," said Ed Patrick, contestants chairman. "I didn't think the Rodeo Cowboys Association (RCA) had that many members."

Among top cowboys entered in the 77th annual "Daddy of 'em all" is Phil Lyne, last year's RCA All-Around Cowboy titleholder. Larry Mahan, a five-time All-Around Cowboy and the present leader for all-around honors; Bob "Rags" Dale, who led in all-around standings this year before a bad spill recently in steer-wrestling competition.

Lyne, of George West, Tex., has cut down on his competition this year, except for rodeos closer to home, but is expected to make a strong showing at Cheyenne, particularly in calf roping, his strongest event.

For Mahan, it will be another attempt to overcome jinx he's had at Cheyenne for several years. He has won the all-around title at Frontier Days only once.

Last year an injury at Cheyenne knocked him out of contention for the all-around title. "Frontier Days is my favorite rodeo," said Mahan, a 5-2, 157-pound poke. "It is the traditional rodeo everyone knows about and everybody goes to."

Entry fees submitted by the cowboys totaled $89,425 and the Frontier Days committee puts up a $51,300 purse, providing a total for $140,725 in RCA prize money.

Couple recites VOWS

HANSEN — In a service based on the qualities of love written in the book of Corinthians, Ann Gibson became the bride of Gary R. Ledbetter June 22 at the Kimberly Christian Church.

Rev. James E. Keefe officiated at the evening ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Gibson, Hansen, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ruel E. Ledbetter, Kimberly.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of candlelight peau de soie with pld ivory lace and a veil of cascading tulle. She carried a pouquet of pink rosebuds and white daisies which reflected the colors of the gladioli, chrysanthemums and pink lapers decorating the sanctuary.

MR. AND MRS. GARY LEDBETTER

For something old the bride wore her mother's wedding ring which was used in a 1918 ceremony in which her paternal grandparents were married.

Mrs. John R. Gibson, Twin Falls, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Michael Gibson was ringbearer. Mrs. Denise Johnstone, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Russell R. Howell III, Jerome, were bridesmaids. Julie Keefe was flower girl. Robert J. Jackson, Twin Falls, was best man. Randy Ledbetter, brother of the bridegroom, and Ron Gibson lighted the candles, and with Tom Gibson, they served as ushers.

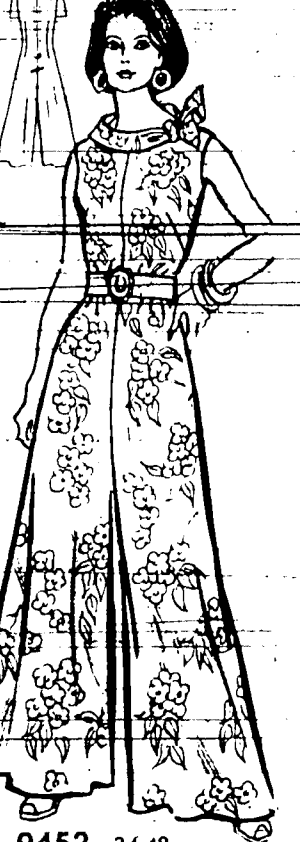

Mrs. Lanny G. Wall, Kimberly, was organist and Mrs. Keefe was soloist.

At a reception in the church fellowship hall, Mrs. Ben Ledbetter, Twin Falls, and Mrs. John B. Ledbetter, Kimberly, both aunts of the bridegroom, served pieces of the wedding cake which was topped with white sugar bells and decorated with tiny bells and pink roses linked with swags of pink and white frosting.

Mrs. Edwin Kimball, Twin Falls, aunt of the bridegroom, served raspberry frappe and

This gave West a problem. He couldn't afford to lead a heart. South would play dummy's seven-spot. A spade lead looked most unattractive. Finally West put his seven of clubs on the table.

South took dummy's ace, cashed the jack of hearts and led the four of clubs.

The time for decision had arrived. South would look mighty silly if he finessed the 10 of clubs and West produced the jack. In addition, the finesse would prove to be unnecessary if clubs were going to break 3-2.

Finally, South decided that West would not have led the seven of clubs if he held the jack and that the finesse of the 10 could not hurt him. So he finessed the 10 and lived happily ever after, or at least until the next rubber.

Expert South looked over the dummy carefully. He wasn't too happy with his three no-trump contract, nor was he unhappy. The heart lead certainly was encouraging and when East's 10 lost to his queen it was no trouble to lead the nine right back.

West covered with the king and dummy's ace gave South his second trick. He could have cashed the jack of hearts right away and gone after clubs, but South had one of those nagging fears that clubs might not break.

South decided it could not hurt to wait a while before testing the club suit. He led the nine of diamonds. West played the jack and South's king was

By ARLAN CALL
Twin Falls librarian

TWIN FALLS—"No Peace, No Place: Excavations Along the Generational Fault" by Jeff Greenfield, proposes that in addition to the eternal phenomenon of generation gaps between adults and younger persons, we experienced a major "generational fault" in the 1960s.

Greenfield attributes the "fault" to the awareness explosion brought on by network television after World War II. He also feels that nationwide teenage acceptance of rock and roll music was a significant contributing factor in delineating the fault.

The author suggests that the widespread social turmoil of the 1960s was symptomatic of the "fault" and that race conflicts, college unrest, and Vietnam were only intensifying factors.

Greenfield, a 30-year-old ex-aide to Robert Kennedy and a knowledgeable music critic, writes well of the history of rock and roll music.

His reminiscences of the championship years of the New York Yankees are truly enjoyable (though but vaguely related to his investigation of the "fault"). But, from there on the book is strictly downhill.

Greenfield says in his introduction that the idea for the book is five years old. We find, in fact, that the original intent was for a book limited to the development and acceptance of rock and roll music. How much better for the reader if that intent had been pursued.

The book should, indeed, have been produced at least five years ago to have been timely, or it should have been written much more objectively if to be "an attempt to probe more generally into the postwar years."

The title suggests an interesting premise, but the text does not fulfill our expectations. A dissatisfying book.

Hints

Dried fruits retain quality better during the summer if you refrigerate them, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The 1972 pack of sardines totalled about 37 million pounds, an increase of 15 million pounds over the previous year. The big supply should mean lower prices for consumers in coming months.

Ground beef that releases a lot of juice while cooking may have been ground while it was still frozen. Ice crystals in the meat melt when the meat is cooked. This can occur with meat frozen at home or at retail stores.

DAV families refinish hall

TWIN FALLS—A group of Disabled American Veterans and their wives are painting and refinishing the DAV Hall at Harrison and Shoup Streets.

While the men are painting the outside of the wood frame structure, the women are preparing lunches and cleaning up the building's interior.

Participating in the painting project are Jahnne York, George Honstein, Rollie Christensen, Earl Voss and Keith Johnson, all veterans of World War I.

World War II veterans Myron Barron and T. M. Knight are working as "water boys" bringing water and other supplies to the painters. They also move ladders.

Working in the kitchen and helping with cleaning are Louise Barron, Josephine Christensen, Edith Knight, Maude Honstein, Elizabeth Havens, Eleanor York, Emma Stone, Florence West and Mae Cardoski.

Funds for the paint come from DAV membership dues. Food and other supplies are donated by the members individually.

Part of the motivation for the painting session is to attract new members to the DAV.

According to Honstein, disabled Korean War and Viet Nam veterans are eligible for many benefits of which they might become aware through the DAV.

Kimberly couple to observe Golden Wedding Anniversary

KIMBERLY—Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd V. Jones, Kimberly, will observe their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday at their home one and one-half miles south of Kimberly.

Hosts for the event will be their children Mrs. Gerald (Julienne) Lowe, Rockford, Ill.; Mrs. Clive (Betty) Elliot, Jr., Jerome; Charles Jones, Kimberly and Clifford Jones, Jacksonville, Ill. The couple has eight grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The couple has farmed at Kimberly since they moved there from Twin Falls in 1943. Mrs. Jones, the former Pearl Wiseman, was born in Mitchell County, North Carolina and moved to Idaho in 1918. Jones was born in St. Cloud, Minn., and moved to Idaho in 1911.

The couple's friends and neighbors are invited to the event. They request no gifts.

Vasectomy hotline available

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A vasectomy hotline, believed to be the nation's first, began full-time operation here this week to inform men and women about the simple procedure which permits the continued enjoyment of sex without the fear of unwanted pregnancies.

Stopping short of advocacy, according to its sponsors, the Vasectomy Information Service provides confidential answers from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays by professionals about an operation for men that is legal in all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

"And for those men who wish to bring their child-bearing days to an end, free referrals will be given to private physicians and out-patient facilities in the metropolitan area which regularly perform the surgical procedure," said an announcement of the new hotline.

A vasectomy is a minor operation which involves closing the tubes that carry sperm. It does not affect sexual drives.

Hotline Director Helen Ginnel said most callers, 80 per cent of them men, want either referral to a vasectomy service or information about procedure, pain, cost or insurance coverage. For those who have made up their minds and want to know where to go, the service provides the name of a private urologist or an out-patient facility in the city, or Planned Parenthood chapters in the city and suburban Maryland and Virginia.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I reported a neighbor to the sheriff's office when I saw him shooting at a dog in his yard with a .22 rifle. I probably should have complained directly to the man, because he is reasonable and a good neighbor. But I was so angry I called the sheriff instead.

The neighbor hates dogs in his yard because he takes pride in his beautiful yard, and works on it constantly.

Now this neighbor is angry at me and my husband, which is my problem. He and my husband used to be good friends, but he hasn't even spoken to my husband since I reported him four months ago.

I feel terrible about ruining their relationship because my husband really liked him.

I wish this had never happened, but it did. What can I do to bridge the gap?

IN THE MIDDLE

Unreasonable neighbor

DEAR IN: Your neighbor is both unjust and childish to bear a grudge against your husband for something you did. Perhaps if you were to let him know that you and your alone reported him it might help. If so, he may be a good neighbor, but no "reasonable" man turns a .22 on a dog.

DEAR ABBY: I have a gentleman friend who is 15 years my senior. (I am a widow.) My girl friend [another widow] and I were seeing him off at the airport after he had visited me.

Just before he left he kissed me goodbye, then he took $20 out of his wallet and handed it to me, saying, "I didn't know what to buy you. Get yourself something."

I became very angry and said, "That's an insult, I don't charge for my kisses!"

He became angry and departed on that note.

My girl friend said I was wrong to have acted that way because he didn't really mean to insult me by offering me money. I can't imagine any gentleman thinking it would be all right to offer money to a lady.

Was I wrong? Or should he be excused because he was raised in Italy?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: He should have been excused not because he was raised in Italy, but because he probably meant well. You should have accepted his somewhat clumsy gesture with grace.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 30-year-old divorced woman. No children. I have some vacation time coming and want to go to Europe with a friend of mine. He is a very nice person. We are just good friends, with no romantic involvement. In fact, he has no interest in women. He and his roommate [another fellow] just broke up after a two-year relationship. This fellow would pay his own way and I would pay mine. We both like museums and art galleries, and I am sure we would have a great time together.

If either one of us met someone attractive on the trip, the other would understand, and we could go our separate ways on an evening.

My mother thinks I am out of my mind, Abby. She says for me to go on a trip with this fellow would be bad for my reputation, and it would "disgrace" her.

How do you feel about it?

ONLY A FRIEND

DEAR ONLY: What's "disgraceful" about good friends vacationing together? You're an adult. Do as you please.

Gum features tasters choice

NEW YORK—This is the age when products have become all things to all people.

Never has it been proved more directly than in a new product just snapping its way into position as a potential best seller. What could be more of an eye-popping promise for children than a combination of ice cream and chewing gum?

With that kind of direction signal, American Chicle Co. has taken the favorite flavors of ice cream and scooped them up—not into a giant ice cream cone but into sticks of chewing gum. Adams Ice Cream Flavors Gum comes in the traditional flavors—vanilla, strawberry and chocolate. Designed to give small fry a chewing gum of their own, the flavors were researched through hundreds of taste combinations.

When the makers of this fun gum were satisfied with their flavor testing, they tried it out on a panel at their plant. After a few modifications, the gum next was presented to a panel of youngsters. Showing great taste distinctions through many chewing sessions, they finally pronounced the flavors "good" and it went into test marketing in two cities in 1971.

TF reunion set July 20

TWIN FALLS—The Twin Falls High School 50-Year Alumni Association will meet for its second reunion on July 20 at the Holiday Inn.

Registration and festivities will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Anyone who graduated from the local high school over 50 years ago is eligible to attend. Reservations should be made in advance with Mrs. Bethel Day, 1041 California St., Gooding.

Breakfast will be served at 9 a.m. Saturday morning. Other events will be announced later.

The committee has notified all those whose addresses are known. Vaughn Price, Boise, is chairman of the reunion committee.

Information can be obtained by calling Mrs. Mildred Neumann, Twin Falls, 733-4432.

Girl watchers will halt "the return of the leg at night" for fall and winter. It's returning via the short evening dress. But more than the leg is returning. Shoulders were bared by most of these dresses worn during previews of fall and winter clothes in New York.

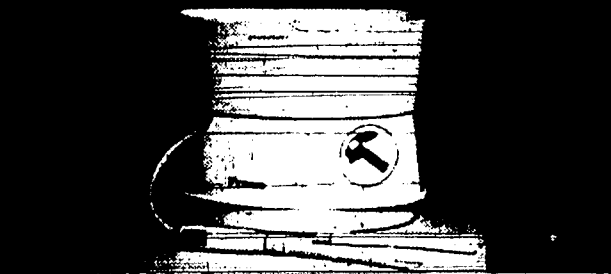

Members see slides

TWIN FALLS—Members of the Magic Valley Saintpaulia Club met Monday to view slides of med. miniature African violets supplied by the national society.

The group, meeting at the Idaho Power Auditorium, was co-hosted by Mrs. S. W. Smith and Mrs. Lee Gebner.

The organization will meet next at the home of Mrs. Paul Prochnow on Aug. 13.

Until Finesse a modern woman had her choice of medieval douching methods.

This is the end of ugly bags, bottles, metal chips and cold hard tubs. This is Finesse, the new motor-powered appliance for douching and external cleansing. Douching with Finesse on the commode is as effective as old-fashioned methods are in the bathtub.

Couple drifts 42 days over ocean

GRAND ISLE, La. (UPI) — A man who drifted 42 days through the Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico with his pregnant fiancée and two dogs on board a 50-foot boat talked Tuesday about living "on a diet of fresh fish, dried fish, rainwater and vitamin pills."

"Keep your head," he said he told himself. "You can panic and kill yourself. Keep your head and work things out. And pray to your favorite God."

William C. Hoadley, 36, of Deland, Fla., and Debbie Blocker, 20, of Gary, N.C., left the Spanish Honduras May 27 on their 50-foot diesel-driven boat The Tahoma. The only other passengers were a pair of dogs, Moses and Poco.

The Tahoma became disabled 80 miles south of Cuba on May 29 and the boat drifted helplessly through the Caribbean and into the Gulf of Mexico. The tugboat Mary St. Phillip spotted Hoadley's last distress fire Monday 60 miles southeast of the mouth of the Mississippi River.

Doctors said Hoadley, Blocker, Moses and Poco appeared to be in good shape.

"You pass patches of seaweed when you are drifting," he said. "The fish come to you because you are a big object. We caught dolphin and small dark tuna in schools. We had plenty to eat as far as fish went. We used to eat half of a fish and then salt the other half for a rainy day. We had no flour or fresh vegetables, but we did have plenty of vitamin pills."

Hoadley said his biggest concern was his fiancée's pregnancy.

"I didn't know what I was going to do with Debbie," he said. "I was worried about her having the baby, that was what was worrying me."

Hoadley said he saw and signaled other ships during his ordeal.

Hoadley said he was working in Honduras without a permit and the government gave him 48 hours to leave. "So we left." He said the fuel line on the ship clogged, and when he cleared it his batteries were too weak to start the engine again. He jury-rigged sails out of bedsheets and hoisted them on posts fashioned from oars and other poles. He said he calculated he drifted 1,500 miles.

Jewish League said responsible

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bags of red paint hurled at the Soviet consulate by vandals who claimed responsibility in support of Russian Jews Tuesday sparked a formal complaint to the U.S. government.

A spokesman at the consulate, opened recently as the first Russian diplomatic mission in the U.S. outside Washington, D.C., in 25 years, blamed city authorities "who cannot or would not" provide protection.

Police first learned of the incident when United Press International called them after receiving an anonymous telephone call. The caller did not identify himself but repeatedly used the phrase "Never Again" — motto of the Jewish Defense League — in claiming responsibility for the act.

The caller said similar harassment would be continued against the consulate until all Jews who wanted to were allowed to leave the Soviet Union.

FBI assists in murder victim's identification

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — Bonneville County Sheriff's Department Tuesday called in the Federal Bureau of Investigation to assist in the case of a woman who was fatally stabbed and hidden in the bushes along the Snake River.

Gallatin County, Mont., Sheriff L. D. Anderson said Monday the description of the woman matches that of Donna Lemon, 19, a Bozeman, Mont., nurse who has been missing since last week.

Bonneville County Sheriff Blaine Skinner said local officials are attempting to make a positive identification of the body by comparing dental work on the victim with dental charts from a Montana dentist's office.

Skinner said the woman's body apparently was placed on the river bank sometime between Thursday and Friday night. The bushes where she was hidden are "the only bushes within a quarter of a mile" in an area where the road goes along the river.

The body was found by an elderly man out walking Monday evening.

Bonneville County Coroner Vernal Ridalch attributed the cause of death to a knife cut of the neck.

Skinner said the autopsy revealed that a stab wound also had been inflicted in the abdomen.

City police were called initially when the girl's body was found. They found a car belonging to Miss Lemon parked west of Ferrel's Men's Store in downtown Idaho Falls.

Officers said the vehicle had been in the parking space since Saturday.

Police and sheriff's department reports say that Miss Lemon was to meet relatives in Idaho for a family reunion. Her car has been examined by deputies for potential leads.

Skinner said potential clues may lead back to an incident at the hospital in Bozeman where Miss Lemon worked, but he declined to elaborate on the statement.

Mother's 'X' resulted in girls' sterilization

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A sad and angry black mother from Alabama told the Senate health subcommittee Tuesday how an "X" she signed on a nurse's form unwittingly doomed two of her daughters to surgical sterilization.

"The nurse came and told me she was going to give them shots," Mrs. Lonnie Relf, 44, said in her account of how Minnie Lee, 14, and Mary Alice, 12, received the surgery without her knowledge.

"You signed some form," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., asked, as he questioned Relf, 56, and his wife Tuesday in the last of a dozen hearings on safeguards for subject of human medical experimentation.

"I put an 'X' on a piece of paper," Mrs. Relf, a welfare mother unable to read or write, replied.

Attorney Joseph J. Levin Jr., who has filed a $1 million damage suit on behalf of the Relfs, said it was not until later that the couple learned the "X" "authorized" an irreversible surgical sterilization last June 14 instead of mere shots for the young girls.

An elder daughter, Katie, 16, escaped a similar operation only because she was away from home when the nurse first called and locked herself in her room when the nurse called again.

The suit was filed against officials of the Montgomery Family Planning Clinic, the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), which administers the federal funding, and an array of federal officials.

Baton Rouge report out

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — A state commission created to look into the campus killings of two Southern University students reported Tuesday police officers overarmed and undertrained were responsible for "much of the confusion" at the moment the students were killed.

The report, ordered by Louisiana Attorney General William Guste, said deputy sheriffs and state police entered the campus armed with submachine guns, 44 shotguns, two M1 carbines and an assortment of other weapons.

But the report did not attempt to say who fired the shots that killed the students during a police-student confrontation on Southern's Baton Rouge campus Nov. 16, 1972.

"In a word, much of the confusion at the moment of the shooting was due to human error, inadequate training, inadequate planning and inadequate coordination of the forces employed," the 112-page final commission report said.

When the sheriff's personnel arrived on the Southern campus, there was little or no consultation between campus security leaders and those commanding the sheriff's forces and the state police," the report said.

We therefore find that communication between campus security and the sheriff's forces and state police on the day of the confrontation was totally inadequate.

The commission issued five major specific recommendations with regard to law enforcement personnel:

1. Campus security personnel should be carefully screened before employment.
2. All campus police should receive comprehensive training in techniques of confrontation as part of a statewide training program.
3. Whenever possible, campus police should be used to stop student disorders.
4. The state police should continue to enlarge its riot control force and should give it special training in dealing with campus disorders.
5. In all cases where outside law enforcement agencies are necessary, the least amount of force necessary to accomplish the mission should be used. No lethal weapons should be employed unless police intelligence indicate they are absolutely essential.

The report further stated: "A college or university which follows the recommendations of this commission down to the smallest detail, but neglects to maintain a strong personal contact among administrators, faculty and students will have failed in establishing the campus atmosphere necessary to prevent confrontations such as occurred at Southern University."

US air strikes kill 200 Communist men

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian military authorities said today that U.S. air strikes Tuesday killed 200 Communist troops only nine miles outside of Phnom Penh.

The high command said the strikes were aimed at targets close to embattled government troop positions on the capital's southern defense perimeter. The strikes, the command said, were followed by a sweep of bomb-cratered trenches that turned up 30 rifles.

During the night, residents could hear U.S. F111 striking repeatedly south and west of Phnom Penh in the 128th consecutive day of bombing by American warplanes.

The Cambodian command also reported indirect fire on government positions to the northeast of the city.

Rupert trees reprieved

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Rupert's trees have been saved. The Rupert City Council approved a motion Tuesday night to eliminate the northside of the courthouse from proposed improvements on Eighth Street between G and H streets and to confer with residents about improvements on the opposite side of the street.

Discussion of the street improvements, including the widening of that one block on Eighth Street, began the first of April and culminated in a public advisory meeting June 26.

During the two months, petitions have been circulated to halt the widening of Eighth Street because it would mean the cutting down of eight trees lining the street at the courthouse.

Citizens at the meeting two weeks ago had expressed mixed emotions about the improvements, generally complaining that the widely used public street should be the responsibility of everyone who uses it and not just the people who happen to live along it.

The motion Tuesday night, presented by councilman George McDonald and approved unanimously by the council, will leave the street untouched along the courthouse and pave the way for negotiations with the two property owners on the other side of the street to widen, curb and gutter the street.

In a separate motion, presented by councilman Clark Cameron, the council unanimously approved the drawing up of specifications and bid details for curbs and gutters on the northside of Seventh between G and H streets and on the east side of H Street between Seventh and Eighth streets.

These improvements would permit drainage from the courthouse parking lot and finalization of curb, gutter and drainage in the area.

In discussions prior to the motion, Jo Hillis, Minidoka County commissioner, said the county would go along with whatever proposal the city adopted.

June McWilliams, Eighth Street resident, said that the widening of Eighth Street would not alleviate the traffic problem and suggested that Eighth and Seventh Streets be made one-way.

Mrs. McWilliams told the council she disagreed with removal of the trees from the courthouse and felt the cost of any projects on that street should be carried by the entire city.

Councilman W. F. (Bill) Whitton said it was "asinine" to widen that one block of Eighth and that some of that traffic on the street should be diverted.

Lyle Barton, Minidoka County commissioner, said that the county was planning construction of a new judicial building on the north side of the courthouse, and street improvements should be delayed until plans are completed to avoid any conflicts.

The building would not conflict with any improvements, however, Elmer Ketterling, chairman of the commissioners, told the council.

Barton said the building would be nearly 80 feet wide and 120 feet long and would take up most of the north side of the courthouse lawn.

Included in the building would be district and magistrate courtrooms, judge's chambers, jury room, court records room, court recorder's room, library and prosecuting attorney's office, he said.

By having all the offices "in one solid body" instead of spread out in rented rooms throughout the city, Barton said, the county could save money and the court system could operate more efficiently.

A public hearing will be held in about six weeks, when plans are more firmly drawn up, he said, but the move will require no election since revenue sharing and matching funds will be used.

The commissioners are currently talking with an architect, he said.

Ketterling presented the county's proposal for changes in landfill fees to the council.

The commissioners are considering dropping individual charges at the landfill and cutting city dumping fees in half. The landfill would then be mainly supported by the present two mill levy.

The council made no motion on the proposal but expressed general approval. In other action, the Grandview Addition Local Improvement District was approved by the council.

Avalanche strands 40

A ROCK SLIDE blocked the road to the Blue Lakes Country Club just before 11:30 a.m. Tuesday. About 40 persons were at the club at the time and some of them walked across the bridge and up the road on the other side of the river, leaving their cars. Others waited until the road was partially cleared at 3 p.m. and drove out.

BLM Box Canyon decision near

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

BOISE — The Idaho Bureau of Land Management director hinted today at final approval on a trout hatchery company's request for an easement across federal land in Box Canyon.

William L. Mathews said the final decision on whether to grant the easement wouldn't be made until at the end of the day. But he said, "I can indicate at this point the reactions have not been too much opposed to our proposed decision to allow" the easement.

The Clear Springs Trout Co. applied for the easement to permit it to divert water from the canyon under the Snake River to its hatchery development. But should the BLM deny the easement request, the company has indicated it is prepared to divert the water at another point on the canyon going across only privately owned land.

"We really aren't in a position to suspend that development," Mathews said. He added the BLM was trying to do something "that might mitigate the adverse impacts" of the project. A hurry-up environmental analysis of the development was issued by the BLM several days ago, comments were solicited, with the deadline set for today.

The analysis reports that if the right-of-way is granted, "approximately an acre of national resource land would be permanently committed to this use, but over-all impact on the canyon would be less than if this right-of-way were not issued."

The report also makes recommendations for mitigation of the anticipated environmental impacts if the easement is finally granted. It sets requirements of where the construction may take place, the disposal of the excavation material as well as disposed vegetation, and to 300 cubic feet per second of water the amount the company could transport.

The environmental analysis indicates Box Canyon has become a point of national interest, with people from California and the eastern part of the country writing to the BLM about it.

The National Park Service is also studying the entire Hagerman Valley for possible inclusion in a park.

TF school board okays 'Happy Day' transfer

The project should begin by Aug. 1, Donnelly said, in order to be completed by Sept. 7, date of the first Bruins' football game.

Assistant Supt. Camden Meyer discussed district personal leave policy. Three days personal leave is available to district teachers to be used for any purpose and $10 per day is paid at the end of the school year to those not using the leave.

"We've had a few concerns," Meyer said, citing use of the leave, but he said to add to vacation time, and complaints by school principals that teachers did not give them enough notice to provide substitutes in some cases.

"It gives a bad public image for teachers to use leave for extending vacations," Mrs. Ruth Day, board member, said. Ronk said, "This will have to be resolved in negotiation sessions."

In other action the board:

— Agreed to retirement postponements until the end of the 1973-74 school year for three teachers and three custodians who will reach age 65 during the year.

— Accepted the resignation of instructor George H. Billner.

— Accepted a low bid of $5,370 from Caxton's for 300 desks for Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School.

— Gave oral permission to John Cox, Westgate Development representative, to divert a waste water ditch on district property at Robert Stuart Junior High School.

— Approved unanimously the year end treasurer's report presented by J. I. Anderson, clerk treasurer.

— Commended instructor Dennis Messenger after hearing a report from Staudaher on summer remedial mathematics and remedial reading classes conducted by Messenger with Title I funds. "This was one of the nicest programs I've seen," Staudaher said. About 100 students were enrolled in the program, he said.

Jerome petitioners ask school policy changes

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — The Jerome school board Monday night was presented with a petition requesting several reforms in school district policy.

The petition, presented by Madeline Walters and signed by 35 school patrons stated that "as patrons of school district No. 261 we suggest the following reforms:

Teachers to teach in their respective field, with the proper credentials.

Definite character references, namely high moral standards.

More women teachers in our junior and senior high school.

An essential number of coaches for coaching only.

More intramural games for boys and girls.

Longer lunch hour and the cooks to refrain from serving spicy, greasy foods.

Mrs. Walters told the board the petition requests that the teachers hired by the district have the proper credentials and be hired to teach only in fields in which they are qualified. "I also think the applicants should be better screened for moral character and that each reference supplied should be thoroughly checked before the teachers are hired," Mrs. Walters said.

She said that some of the teachers have been making off-color remarks to the students and that these teachers (who she would not name) should be reprimanded for doing so.

She also requested that more women be hired to teach in the high school and the junior high.

"The girls in those grade levels are at a very difficult age and need the supervision of women," Mrs. Walters said. She also said it was her understanding that some of the students grades have been padded so they could participate in athletics.

It is also our understanding that only teachers qualified for coaching have a chance to be hired by this school district."

We need teachers to teach and coaches to coach and the two should be separated," Mrs. Walters said.

Mrs. Walters said that because the school does not provide a long enough lunch hour for high school and junior high students, these students are forced to eat their food, which is not good for their health. She said the greasy food served makes "the situation worse."

Terry Diehl, high school principal, said that Mrs. Walters must have been misinformed on the padding of grades for athletes. Under state law, a student may participate in sports as long as he is taking three subjects and he doesn't even have to be passing those subjects," Diehl said.

To the best of my knowledge, there has not been one incident where a teacher has padded any of the students' grades so that they could participate in any athletic program. Our coaches, of course, encourage the students to make good grades, but as the law states, we cannot discriminate against them if they are failing in a subject," Diehl said.

Superintendent John Campbell told Mrs. Walters that a teacher has the option of teaching either in his minor or major field. "While we do have some teachers in the district teaching in their minor field, the majority of these people have been hired for other abilities more important to the needs of the district," Campbell said.

The school district is constantly checked by the state department of education to be sure the teachers are working in the fields for which they are trained and that they have the proper credentials.

He said the district goes to considerable length to check each applicant before hiring. He also explained that if the district hired personnel to work outside of their certified fields, the district would lose its state aid.

Campbell said he does not know of any instances where a teacher has used improper language in addressing a student.

Campbell told Mrs. Walters that the ideal situation would be if the district could have half men and half women teachers the junior high and high school, but "we have found we have fewer discipline problems in the two schools with more men teachers."

Attend Boise meet

TWIN FALLS — County Commissioners John VanOrman, Jerome, and Merle E. Leonard, Filer, are in Boise today to attend a two-day meeting of the Idaho Association of Commissioners and Clerks.

Leonard said the executive committee will meet today and the by-laws committee will meet Thursday to review and revise by-laws.

Miners vote set

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI) — The fate of the nation's largest and richest silver mine, the Sunshine, now rests with its rank and file as they decide whether or not to return to work.

Nearly 400 striking hard-rock miners will cast secret ballots Saturday on a new three-year contract proposal agreed upon Tuesday at nearby Wallace.

If approved, union members said they would be ready to return to work Monday.

U.S. Steelworker Regional Representative Larry Marshall said he expects the miners to ratify the contract work, ending a five-month absence.

"I'm very pleased," he said of the new pact. "It was a settlement that is honorable for both the company and the union. The membership should be satisfied. I expect them to ratify it and return to work."

Revenue funds go to courthouse wing

RUPERT — Money is not the problem in plans for a new wing on the Minidoka County Courthouse, according to County Commission Chairman Elmer Ketterling.

With the recent receipt of a revenue sharing check for $61,006, the county has almost $300,000 to use on the project, he said. "What we need," Ketterling said, "is someone to go to work on the plans." Thurber and Marlor, a Boise architectural firm, was hired by the commissioners in May to begin research and preliminary drawings.

Ketterling said the architects aren't keeping pace, although the project should begin this fall. The firm is scheduled to meet with the commissioners today.

Present plans for the addition call for new space for both District and Magistrate Court, all the county clerks, a vault and room for storage space.

The addition would be on the south courthouse ground. Landscaping is also planned to include the removal of some trees and the planting of new trees.

Views clash on canyon rim zoning

Mrs. Ingrid Stroppe said the LWV has not proposed any immediate method of financing the purchase and the development of the canyon rim for public use. She said that the LWV has proposed the "open zone" to prevent development of the canyon rim until funding can be arranged.

The LWV did suggest possible funding arrangements in a paper submitted earlier to the zoners. They included establishing an easement along the rim rather than outright purchase of the land, grants-in-aid from the federal and state governments, condemnation, donations, tax credits, formation of park districts, and use of revenue sharing moneys.

Professor Ross Fasolino, Pocatello, who initially drafted the new zoning ordinance, defended his proposal of an outdoor recreation (OR) zone along the rim. The OR zone would permit construction of single family homes.

He said property values must be considered in zoning ordinances. An "open space" zone on the rim would deprive the affected property owners of the best use of their land, "and the courts might not look favorably on that," he said.

Fasolino also lamented the addition of another zoning designation to the ordinance. "A multitude of zones" would be a "unworkable" he said.

Fasolino also defended possible home construction on the rim.

"I can show you some beautiful homes that look better than the sagebrush" surrounding them, he said.

He called the LWV proposal "extraneous," unnecessary since current plans call for OR zoning.

Funding to allow use of the "open zone" by the public was also questioned by Fasolino.

Ella Nelson, president of the Twin Falls chapter of the LWV, said, "If we can't afford it now, we'll never be able to afford it. Property values are bound to increase."

The zoning commission voted to take the "open space" proposal under advisement. The zoners' next meeting is scheduled Thursday in the County Judicial Building.

School survey planned

JEROME — Jerome School trustees agreed Monday to conduct a needs assessment survey of the district for the 1973-74 school year.

The board directed Supt. John Campbell to contact the Idaho Department of Education and request its help in making the evaluation.

Dr. Wayne Phillips, representing the state, met recently with the Jerome board to explain the procedure for a needs assessment survey.

Dr. Phillips told the board the survey must meet US criteria which includes planning and evaluation at the local level.

The survey of the Jerome district will involve the public through meetings, letters and other means to bring public opinions and ideas to the district.

Campbell said the survey is the first step in systematic planning, but will not solve all the district's problems.

The survey will help to identify the problems and will present possible alternative approaches so that long and short range plans can be made. The survey will focus on the type of students in the district, the staff and facilities, the different types of school activities which are available plus the goals and objectives of the district.

The first step the school board must take is to appoint a steering committee whose job will be to identify learner needs and target groups of learners, give explicit criteria for judgment, index importance of problems and set deadlines.

The major cost to the district will be in hiring a director for the committee.

Judge dismisses Turner charges

TWIN FALLS — Magistrate Court Judge Daniel Meehl signed an order late Tuesday dismissing voluntary manslaughter charges against Sally Turner, 23, Kimberly.

Mrs. Turner had been charged with the shooting death May 22 of James Lee Dotson, 27, Twin Falls.

Judge Meehl announced his decision to dismiss charges Tuesday after reviewing information presented in a preliminary hearing July 2 and 3 in his court. The court also granted the plaintiffs an opportunity to present information on "justifiable homicide," Judge Meehl said.

He said the plaintiff's memorandum has been received and considered along with testimony from the two-day preliminary hearing.

"It appears to the court that the facts presented at the preliminary hearing show as a matter of law that the homicide, if committed by the defendant, was legally justifiable," Judge Meehl said.

Testimony during the hearing by witnesses called by Monte Carlson, public defender representing Mrs. Turner, indicated Dotson had forced his way into the Turner home where he had engaged in a scuffle with another young man.

Witnesses who were in the home at the time, stated Mrs. Turner had taken the gun during the scuffle and had repeatedly told Dotson to leave or she would shoot and when he did not leave she fired the shot.

She told officers she attempted to fire into Dotson's arm but the bullet passed through the arm into his body.

Law enforcement officers testified under questioning by prosecutor Robert Galley, that Mrs. Turner and others at her home had obtained guns in wait for Dotson's arrival at the Turner home.

The court also ordered bond of $15,000 returned to Mrs. Turner.

12 Bengal tigers escape in Quebec

HEMINGFORD, Que. (UPI) — Twelve young Bengal tigers escaped Monday night from their compound at a park.

Jean Pierre Ranger, an official of the Parc Safari Africain from which the prized animals escaped, said early today that nine of them had been recaptured, all within the 800-acre park. "Six of them were darted and three others were herded into their compound by jeeps," he said. It was unlikely any of the cats would have roamed as far as Hemingford, a small farming community about four miles from the park, he said.

"They are not dangerous," Ranger said. "They are like big St. Bernard dogs and will not attack normally unless they are hungry or provoked."

About 40 policemen and all 30 park rangers, armed with tranquilizer guns, searched the park and surrounding countryside. Residents were told by police to remain behind closed doors. No injuries were reported.

All the cats were under one year old and weigh about 100 pounds each, Ranger said.

He said the tigers "are priceless" and the park's last shipment of 20 Bengal tigers cost $60,000.

How the animals escaped from the park was not known, Ranger said. "Something happened between nine and ten o'clock and 11 tigers managed to get out," he said.

"They will wander back eventually," he said. "Tigers are not known to go far from the place where they are sheltered and fed."

Parc Safari Africain opened last summer four miles from this small Quebec farming community, located about 50 miles outside Montreal near the Quebec-New York State border.

Ranger said there were 153 wild cats in the park, including lions, cheetahs and both Bengal and Siberian tigers. The Bengal tigers were not on public display, however, but were kept in a private compound for reproductive purposes.

"There are only about 2,000 Bengal tigers left in the world," Ranger said. "It is a rapidly vanishing species and it is only farms like ours which have been keeping them from becoming extinct."

Yugoslav native robbed of fortune

CHICAGO (UPI) — Glordan Soubasfiski hoarded his money for 16 years, hoping some day to return to his native Yugoslavia.

The 66-year-old retired steel worker from Gary, Ind., nearly made his dream come true until a thief made off with his suitcase containing $25,500 at O'Hare International Airport.

Soubasfiski's story was revealed Monday when he appeared in court to face charges of unlawful use of a weapon.

The Yugoslav immigrant, who can barely speak English, had attempted to board a plane at O'Hare Airport Friday, but a metal detector revealed he was carrying a nonfunctioning .22 caliber revolver tucked into his waistband.

While waiting for his court appearance on the charge of carrying the gun—which he said he did because he had been assaulted twice—Soubasfiski met two men who gained his confidence.

He was walking with them at the airport Sunday when another man ran up, knocked him down, and made off with the suitcase containing $19,000 in travelers checks and $12,500 in cash, police said.

Both Soubasfiski's companions remained with him until police arrived. They gave their names and addresses—which turned out to be false. Police said they believe the two men were connected with the robbery.

"I've been saving and saving ever since I came here," Soubasfiski said. "I like America. I worked here for years and it was okay. If it's no good in Yugoslavia, I'll come back."

But the story has at least a half-happy ending. When Soubasfiski appeared in court he got his travelers checks back. A garbage collector found them in a garbage can.

His case was postponed until Friday.

Ehrlichman disapproved of Ellsberg burglary

(c) Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — Former presidential assistant John D. Ehrlichman says he did not fire the White House burglars who raided the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist because "we were in the middle of a national security situation."

Ehrlichman said he expressed "very strong" disapproval of the burglary when he learned about it from Egil (Bud) Krogh, chief of a White House "Plumbers" group established to stop news leaks.

Ellsberg, who admitted that he gave the top secret Pentagon Papers to the New York Times, was freed of the charges when the burglary and other government misconduct was revealed.

Ehrlichman's comments on his reaction to the burglary came in an interview last May 4 with staff counsel of the Senate Watergate Committee. A staff summary of his testimony was seen by the Chicago Daily News.

He said he was aware of "the embarrassment this would cause the White House" if the facts of the burglary became public.

When Ehrlichman was asked if he made any report of the Ellsberg break-in to President Nixon, Ehrlichman's lawyer, John J. Wilson, invoked executive privilege to block a reply. It apparently was the only time in the interview that this privilege was claimed.

Ehrlichman said he was aware in advance that E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy, two members of the "Plumbers" who later took part in the Watergate bugging of Democratic headquarters, were going to Los Angeles to follow up on an FBI report on Ellsberg.

The break-in took place Sept. 3, 1971, more than two months after Ellsberg was indicted on charges of violating the espionage laws.

When Krogh reported the burglary, Ehrlichman said, "I registered dismay, disapproval, remonstrated with him."

"I didn't feel that these people should be fired immediately because we were in the middle of a national security situation."

"It was my opinion that a determination of the security problem and the apprehension of those who were doing this outweighed any consideration of turning these people over to the Beverly Hills (Calif.) Police Department ..."

"I didn't keep track of what happened to those people. I did not feel it necessary to report this incident to Haldeman or anybody else," Ehrlichman is quoted as saying. He referred to H. R. (Bob) Haldeman, the White House chief of staff.

Ehrlichman said John W. Dean III, who was White House counsel until his dismissal last April 30, learned about the Ellsberg break-in.

Italian shoots bride

FROSINONE, Italy (UPI) — "I did it for my honor," explained Salvatore Nappo. "She was not a virgin and she did not have the courage to tell me."

And that, Nappo said when he surrendered to police, was why he shot his bride of four days.

His bride, Anna Nenna, 21, had been shot four times at point blank range in the neck and throat and left at the side of a country road 46 miles south of Rome.

It was a familiar story in Italy, where until a few years ago a woman, but not a man, could go to prison for adultery and where a sexual code of "honor" once let men sometimes go free even in cases of murder.

But in the Nappo case there was a bitterly ironic twist. A lawyer hired by the Nenna announced it Monday.

"Anna was a virgin," attorney Gennaro Fusco said.

In his prison cell in nearby Ferentino, Nappo wept.

Both the 25-year-old Nappo and his bride were Neapolitans. They married June 1 and set out by car on a honeymoon.

Nappo told police he felt an uncontrollable rage after becoming convinced that his wife was intimate with someone else before their marriage. In his hometown, he said, honor was a life and death matter.

But, he said, he waited to act until they went for a drive on a quiet country road. There, he said, he parked, fired four shots, threw his wife's body from the car and drove off.

Shortly after sunrise last Friday, a youth on his way to work called police to the spot where the dark-haired woman lay dressed in her honeymoon clothing.

Several hours later, Nappo went to a lawyer who advised him to surrender to police.

The men of Mrs. Nappo's family came to Frosinone the next day, convinced even before the autopsy that it was her honor that was wronged.

"I have always checked closely around my four daughters because I am an old-fashioned man," said Giuseppe Nenna, "and I have a highly developed sense of the seriousness of a woman, of her honor."

Not one single time did Anna leave the house without my sending my little grandson together with her," he said. "At night, she never returned after 8 o'clock, otherwise there was a scene."

4 jet drag cars to race Sunday

GOODING — For the very first time in Idaho, four jet cars will be appearing at the Gooding County International Raceway, Inc. this Sunday, July 15.

These cars are coming from Chicago, Ill., and will be match racing for a $4,000.00 purse. The "Green Mamba" piloted by Doug Rose from Milwaukee, Wisconsin has hit 250 miles per hour in the quarter mile five times this year.

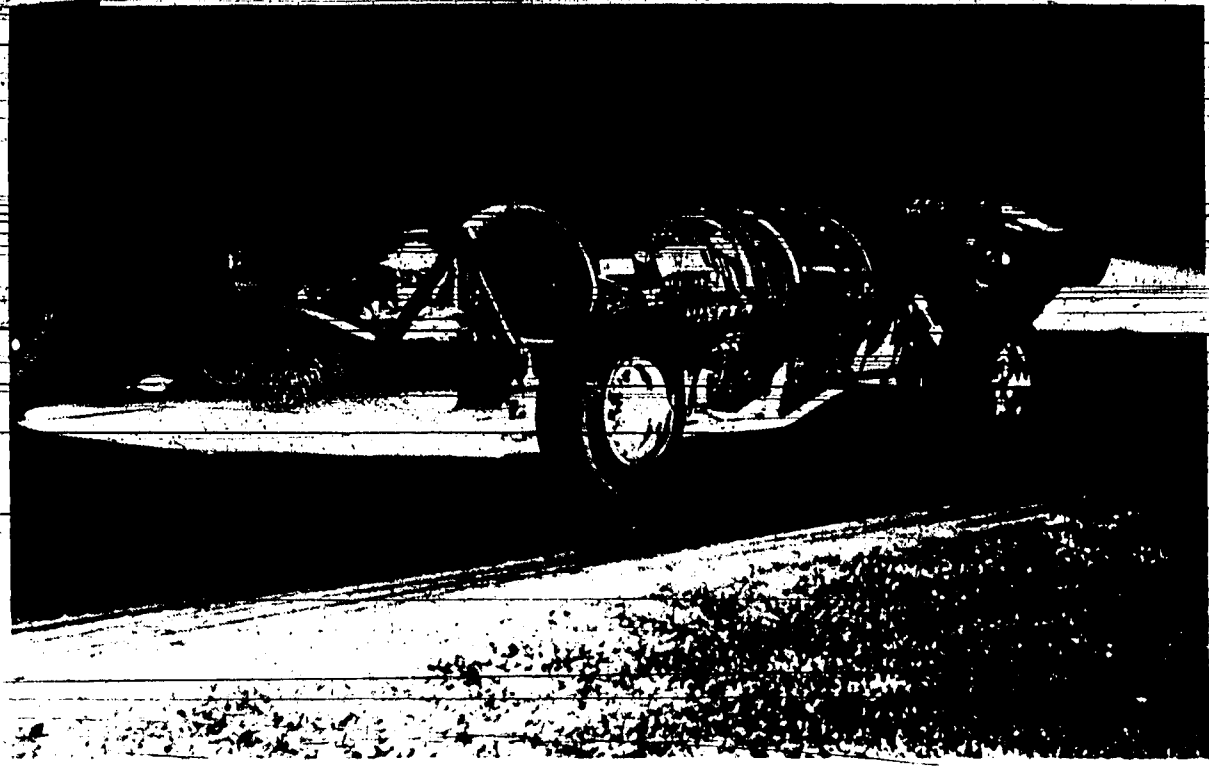

Other cars appearing with the "Green Mamba" will be "Earthquake" driven by Mike Evogens of Cape Coral, Florida, Studnick Brothers Compulsor and Jet Funny Car "Time Machine" driven by Roger Gustin of Ohio.

All these jet cars are powered with a J-46 Westinghouse turbo-jet engine that delivers 10,000 horsepower at 7,000 pounds of thrust with the afterburner.

There are only eight jet cars in the United States and they have formed a jet car association. This was done to promote safety and the sport of jet-car racing.

Due to the excessive speeds and the type of power used to propel these race cars, stringent safety regulations have been set up by the Jet-Car Association so that the American Hot Rod Association now allows them to race on their sanctioned tracks.

These cars have travelled all over the United States and if track and altitude conditions are right, they are capable of 280 miles per hour. This will be the first time in three years that they have appeared in the Northwest area.

"Green Mamba"

FIRST TIME in Idaho four jet cars will be appearing at the Gooding County International Raceway, Inc. Sunday, June 15. There are only eight of these cars in the United States.

Boise St. signs 7 foot freshman

BOISE (UPI) — A young steelworker who is just under seven feet tall has signed a national letter of intent to attend Boise State College next fall, basketball coach Bus Connor said Wednesday.

Connor said Willard O'Dell "Rip" Walker III will enroll as a freshman next year for the Broncos. He said Walker—who stands officially at six feet, 11 and 7/8 inches—was recruited by assistant coach Burt Golden while visiting senior forward Maurice Buckingham at Gary, Ind., this summer.

Maurice said that he had to go to one of the steel mills in Gary to pick up a friend, and I said that I'd go along with him," Golden said.

"As we were waiting for Maurice's friend, I saw a young man coming out of the mill who looked like he was a mile tall," Golden said. "I went up to him and asked him, hopefully, if he had ever played any basketball, and he said that he had."

Golden said Walker was going to play on a school ground with some other players, and he saw him work out against some players from Southern Illinois University and Bradley.

"He really did a fine job of running and blocking shots," Golden said. "He also scored quite a few points. I found out that he had laid out of school for two years since high school when he was only 6-8."

In addition to Walker, BSC coaches said, three junior college tracksters and one high school high jumper have signed national letters of intent to attend Boise State next fall.

They include Larry Stark, Santa Barbara, Calif., Western States Conference 440-yard champion last year; Allen Hazard, a miler, 880 and cross country runner from Southern Community College in Chula Vista, Calif.; Henry Mago, Hayward, Calif., a discus thrower and shot putter who was third in the nation in the discus throw last year for junior college athletes, and Jeff Schroeder, a high jumper from Meridian.

Player's swing returns

BY ROGER SARGENT

TROON, Scotland (UPI) — Gary Player's swing is back. The South African, a two-time British Open Champion — Muirfield 1959 and Carnoustie 1968 — smiled broadly after shooting a three-under-par 69 Tuesday on the windy 7,064-yard Old Troon course, rugged scene of the 102nd British Open.

"I'm feeling fine," said Player who six months ago underwent major surgery. "My physical condition at the moment is good. Yes, I'm feeling really fine."

Player partnered Open favorite Jack Nicklaus, who shot a 71, and was delighted to have finished ahead of the bookies' choice.

"It all depends on the weather here," Player said, referring to his chances for a third Open title. "If there's no wind I expect at least four guys to bust the Open record of 276."

"I wouldn't know that," he replied. Player said that given an average wind off the Irish Sea he expected the winning score to be around 277.

"And if we get one of those really strong winds that tend to blast through here then it could be anything," he said.

Player said he was satisfied with his own game. "I fluctuate. Sunday I was playing reasonably well. Monday I was bad. Today I was pretty good again. Tomorrow, I hope I'll be excellent."

Player denied reports he had discounted his own chances of a third Open victory.

"I wouldn't be here if I didn't give myself a chance." Player, who last month led the first two rounds of the U.S. Open, admitted his lack of tournament play has hurt his form.

"I'm playing against guys who have been swinging every week. I've only played four tournaments in six months and my swing's a little weak."

"What I'm hoping is that my experience will bring me through." Player is the only non-American to win the world's four major golf titles.

Think cold, catch fish on hot day

CHICAGO (UPI) — An old Bass fisherman once told me, "When the summer days are hottest, think cold and you'll catch fish."

The truth of his philosophy never sunk in at the time, but it has over the years. Eventually began to get the old timer's point. He wasn't talking about staying cool by any means. He was talking about the movement of lures in hot weather.

Bass become sluggish in extremely hot weather, just as they do in cold, and often times anglers must work their lures slow and easy to take fish.

When the sun starts driving the fish into deep holes, it's time to move to slow-working lures, such as plastic worms and jigs. That doesn't rule out other baits by any means. But the technique of hot weather fishing can prove as important as the lure itself.

Besides plastic worms, deep diving plugs and spoons can be very productive hot weather bass-takers, usually when worked slow and easy.

Plastic worms rigged with slip sinkers are about the highest ranking bait among hot weather bass fishermen.

When rigging a plastic worm to work weedless, it is best to use as light a slip sinker as possible during hot weather. The lighter sinker offers many benefits.

First, the decline of the worm in the water is slower, giving sluggish bass more time to hit the worm on its way to the bottom. Also, the lighter sinker, the more action of the worm when it is pulled along the bottom over brush, rocks, sticks or stumps. The light sinker also hangs up less than a heavier one.

The novice should allow time for the plastic worm to sink to the bottom, then retrieve it slowly by moving his rod from the 12 o'clock position to the 10 o'clock position, taking up the slack and repeating the process. When the Bass strikes, he should lower the lure to the water's edge, take in the slack, and slam the hook home with all the effort he can muster. "crossing the eyes of the fish," as most experts would say.

When working spoons, the novice should remember to use light-weight spoons in shallower water and heavier ones in deeper water.

Miller relaxed and confident

TROON, Scotland (UPI) — Johnny Miller, 26-year-old U.S. Open champion, tees off in today in the 102nd British Open confident he can repeat his success of last month at Oakmont, Pa.

"I'm relaxed and had a good practice round today," Miller said Tuesday. "I'm still mentally in tune and I think I can do well."

But Miller's dreams of a double face stiff opposition from fellow U.S. stars Lee Trevino and Jack Nicklaus, both of whom stand poised on the brink of golfing history.

Trevino, winner of the last two British Opens at Royal Birkdale in 1971 and Muirfield last year, seeks a victory that will make him only the second man this century to win the British championship three years in succession.

And Nicklaus, winner of the British Open in 1970 at St. Andrews and 1966 at Muirfield, seeks a record-breaking 14th major tourney victory.

But, a field of the world's greatest golfers apart, all three must also beat Troon, the windswept west Scottish coast course which last hosted the British Open 11 years ago when Arnold Palmer established a British Open record with a dazzling 276.

Troon, a 7,064-yard, par-72 of switchbacked gorse and sand traps, Tuesday snapped back at both Nicklaus and Miller. The two blonde Americans fell victim to Troon's 8th hole, the 126-yard "postage stamp," a cunningly devised green surrounded by five sand traps and a deep drop on two sides.

Miller Monday described the postage stamp as "cute."

Tuesday he balloned his tee shot yards over the tiny green and said wryly: "I just didn't realize it was that short."

With South African Gary Player, American Dave Hill and British amateur Willie Milne watching on, Nicklaus, the bookmaker's 4-1 favorite, skied his tee shot way past the green and into a sand trap.

Nicklaus said nothing. "It's tough for Jack and me," said Miller. "We both hit high and that hole will give trouble."

Miller shot an impressive eagle on the 481-yard, par-5, 11th hole.

Bill called disaster

EIGIN, Ill. (UPI) — Federal regulation of sports in the United States under a bill scheduled for a Senate vote "would be disastrous" to programs now regulated by schools and local and state high school organizations, the National Federation of State High School Associations has voted.

Announcement that all 50 states opposed passage of the Omnibus Sports Bill before the Senate was made by Jack Roberts, administrative assistant of the national federation. The national federation resolutely recognized a need to control international competition in amateur sports.

But said it was "unilaterally opposed to federal intervention in the amateur sports program domestically."

"We request elimination of any aspects of the bill not directed to international competition," the resolution read.

The 11th, one of the most difficult at Troon, once tamed Nicklaus during his first British Open appearance when he finished a lowly 34th with rounds of 80 and 79.

But it was the 11th that won Palmer his 1962 title when he scored a par, two birdies and an eagle.

Player, another two-time winner of the British Open in 1959 and 1968, said the weather would prove the major factor at Troon.

"If there's no wind I expect at least four guys to bust the British Open record of 276," he said.

"If there's an average kind of wind I guess 277 will win it."

Big game regulations mailed

With a pen-and-ink drawing of a fine bighorn ram by Jerry Wilda, Lewiston, on the cover, the 1973 Idaho Big Game Hunting Seasons and Regulations are printed and being mailed to more than 600 license vendors throughout the state.

Management unit descriptions appear on one side of the large fold-out sheet, except for the bighorn sheep illustration on the cover fold and hunter information sections. The state hunting map, with its overlay of management boundaries and columnar listings of deer and elk season dates, is printed on the reverse side of the large sheet of paper.

On the fold-out page opposite the state map and unit-season listings is general information, including general hunting seasons for black or cinnamon bear, mountain lion, controlled deer and elk hunts, and general archery seasons for deer, elk, black bear, antelope and mountain goat.

The 1973 Idaho Big Game Hunting Seasons and Regulations Publication should be in the hands of all license vendors and ready for free public distribution later this week.

Roberts said the bill poses "a serious threat" to high school programs and would "inhibit state associations from holding their traditional sports championship events without sanction from the federal commission."

The proposed bill would establish a commission to regulate all sports in which U.S. teams or individuals compete internationally, thus receiving regulatory power over such sports as basketball, wrestling, tennis and track and field.

Golf meeting set

JEROME — A meeting of the Jerome Men's Golf Association will be at 8:30 p.m. Thursday or right after the twilight league at the Jerome Country Club. Many important matters will be discussed, according to Ralph Dunn, association president.

Beliveau turns down $1 million WHA offer

MONTREAL (UPI) — National Hockey League hall of famer Jean Beliveau announced Tuesday he had turned down a million dollar offer from the Quebec Nordiques of the World Hockey Association and would remain with the Montreal Canadiens organization.

Beliveau, elected to the Hockey Hall of Fame in 1972, also cited extra time with his family and "concern about returning to the rigorous schedule of active play" as other reasons for staying with the Canadiens.

Beliveau said he had discussed the WHA offer with his wife and 16-year-old daughter "but they left the decision up to me. My wife would have been happy in Quebec City — she's from Quebec originally — but she left the decision up to me."

Court denies SD injunction

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Superior Court Judge Eli H. Levenson denied a preliminary injunction Tuesday against sale of the San Diego Padres baseball team to Washington, D. C., interests but granted a 10-day stay to allow time for appeal.

The city of San Diego, owner of San Diego Stadium and landlord of the National League team, sought the preliminary injunction to keep the Padres in town.

Judge Levenson, giving considerable attention to legal points involved, prefaced his decision by telling the several attorneys on hand, "I have spent considerable time in again reviewing the documents submitted to me. . . . I am indeed mindful of the possible repercussions that might result from the decision of this court either way. I am also mindful of the attitudes of the people of San Diego."

Thomas agrees to terms

'SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Controversial running back Duane Thomas has agreed to terms to play for the National Football League San Diego Chargers this season, team executive counsel Ron Mix revealed Tuesday.

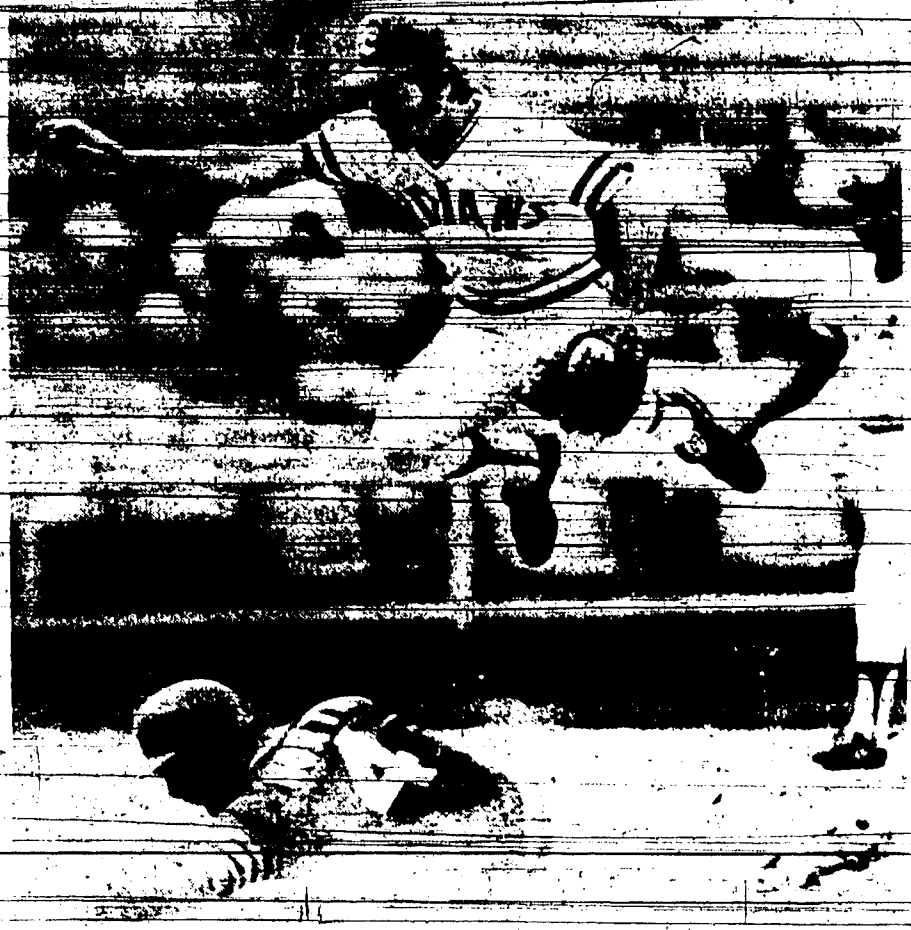

He then read a letter signed by the son of a San Diego investment counselor. "Dear Judge Levenson," the letter said. "I am eight years old and I do not understand why Mr. (Arnhold) Smith (the Padres' major owner) and other men do not keep their word and keep our San Diego Padres home. My dad has always told me a man's word is his bond, but today many people do not keep their word. Why? Please keep our baseball team home. Mike McDaniel."

Two man best ball underway

JACKPOT, Nev. — Play began today in Cactus Pete's second annual Silver Star Classic 36 hole, two man best ball golf tournament.

He said a contract is expected to be signed Sunday when the veterans report to the Chargers training camp at Irvine, Calif.

However, he said the city had an action at law for damages but emphasized declarations made to him would have to be substantiated in a trial of a suit for breach of contract.

Leap & throw

CLEVELAND 2nd baseman Jack Brohamer leaps out of the way of sliding Bill North of Oakland who was forced at 2nd in 3rd inning action of Tuesday night's Indian-Athletic game.

TF Legion nips Buhl

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls American Legion 'A' team came from behind to take a narrow 5-4 victory over Buhl Tuesday night.

hired in Twin Falls managed two runs on three hits after Wonderlich and Turley had taken bases on balls.

It looked at first if Buhl was going to make the game a runaway as their first three players in the first inning scored. But Twin Falls pitcher Pat Warburton and Twin Falls got the side out, leaving two men on base.

Neither team scored in the third although Buhl threatened several times. Twin Falls scored their final run in the bottom of the sixth and even though Buhl had several men on base during the seventh inning failed to get a man across to win.

Twin Falls came back to score only one run themselves in the first inning as they produced doubles from Mike Anderson and Kurt Ward.

The Twin Falls 'B' team will meet Jerome here Thursday night at Jaycee Park and the Boise Senators Friday for a double header at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. They meet the Senators again Saturday afternoon at 1:00 and then will travel to Pocatello Sunday.

Preakness time stays the same

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Maryland Racing Commission refused Tuesday to change the official time of the 1973 Preakness leaving super horse Secretariat without the clean sweep of Triple Crown speed records some race watchers believed he earned.

to Canonero's 1:54 flat. In the other two legs of the Triple Crown, Secretariat set records of 1:59.4 for the Kentucky Derby and 2:24 for the Belmont Stakes.

"Although the testimony before this commission was sometimes confused, it would appear that Secretariat might have run the 1973 Preakness somewhat faster than Canonero II ran in 1971," the five-member commission ruled after a two-hour special meeting.

The commission heard testimony from 13 persons and viewed the Columbia Broadcasting System tape which reportedly showed that Secretariat ran 4.5 of a second faster than Canonero's record. "We feel, believe and know that Secretariat ran around the race track faster than Canonero and we technically proved it," said Bill Creasy, executive producer of the CBS Sports Illustrated show.

"This commission, however, is bound by its rules and regulations which provide that the official time of any race is that which is clocked by the official timer. It was acknowledged by several of the witnesses, including those persons representing CBS, that to change records established by the official timer because of later electronic analysis of such events would be destructive of the integrity of all sporting events," the board said in its statement.

The Meadow Stable Co.'s winning time for the Preakness was initially recorded at 1:56 but track stewards lowered the time to 1:54.25 to compensate for an electronic timing error.

Secretariat's Preakness time stands at 1:54.25, second only

More controversy developed when a pair of clockers for the daily racing form, Frenchy Schwartz and Frank Robinson came up with a time of 1:53.25.

Tennis league may work

HOUSTON (UPI) — Cliff Richey, one of the world's top-ranked tennis players, said Tuesday he wasn't sure the proposed World Professional Team Tennis league concept would work.

He said a contract is expected to be signed Sunday when the veterans report to the Chargers training camp at Irvine, Calif.

"I'd rather see a continuous circuit of tournaments," Richey told the Houston Sports Writers Association. "I don't know enough about it, but I know they're bucking part of the tournament schedule."

Former fighter shot to death while stopping street fight

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Wallace "Bud" Smith, 44, a former lightweight champion who never won another fight after losing his world title in 1956, was shot and killed Tuesday when he attempted to act as a peacemaker between a man and woman who were arguing on a city street.

Smith, lightweight champion in 1955 and 1956, was killed by a single shot in the head, police said. Cincinnati police homicide chief Lt. Daniel Cash said the couple was arguing on a street when Smith intervened.

He won the lightweight title on June 29, 1955, when he defeated Jimmy Carter over 15 rounds in Boston. His first defense came against Carter Oct. 19 of the same year and Smith won again in a 15-round decision.

Witnesses told police the two struggled over a gun pulled by the man who shot and killed the ex-fighter.

Smith was the AAT lightweight champion in 1948 and also boxed in the Olympics in London that year.

Smith risked his title for the second time on Aug. 24, 1956, and lost a 15-round decision to Joe Brown in New Orleans.

Fanzone singles Cubs over SF

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Carmen Fanzone singled with the bases-loaded to drive in two runs in a four-run sixth inning rally that gave the Chicago Cubs a 4-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants Tuesday night.

In his first professional bout on Nov. 29, 1948, Smith knocked out Torpedo Tinstley of Cincinnati in the first round.

Smith risked his title for the second time on Aug. 24, 1956, and lost a 15-round decision to Joe Brown in New Orleans.

Pirates rally by Padres 4-3

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Willie Stargell capped a three-run rally in the seventh inning Tuesday night with a run-scoring double to break a 3-3 tie and earn the Pittsburgh Pirates a come-from behind 4-3 win over the San Diego Padres.

He declined to announce terms of the agreement, saying, "My stance on this is not limited to Abner and Duane; I just don't want to reveal the terms of any contract."

The World Team Tennis (WTT) league would play from May through July. The league was formed last spring and will have its first draft next month.

The victory went to Rick Reuschel, who posted his 10th victory in 15 decisions. He gave up a home run to leadoff man Bobby Bonds in the first inning and Bonds singled home the other San Francisco run in the seventh inning.

Another Red buying spree possible

(c) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — Badly taken last summer by Soviet wheat buyers, the Agriculture Department is not moving as fast as it might to protect American farmers from the surprise of another Communist buying spree.

This is the message of a detailed report by the General Accounting office on how agriculture officials were misled last summer into fattening their subsidies to keep export prices stable in the face of a major Soviet raid on the domestic supply.

The mistake cost the American taxpayer $300 million in subsidies and the consumer a great deal more in food costs.

It happened simply because the Agriculture Department, the slowest moving bureaucracy in town, had not coordinated its intelligence. In fact, the Soviet buying began in July but the department was not aware in late September of the full scope of purchases, which ultimately ran to 440 million bushels.

The episode can, however, recover its costs from its value as a warning. The Soviets did nothing dishonest. They simply behaved like shrewd and stealthy buyers in maximizing the opportunities of the market place. Since they function in a monolithic, tightly centralized style, they were able to make the most of the loosely coordinated methods of the American market.

But the United States, newly blessed with two huge, monolithic trading partners like the Soviet Union and Communist China, can no longer afford to leave itself vulnerable to this kind of shrewdness.

The government needs to take highly sophisticated precautions to insure it will be swiftly informed of how the world picture in commodity supply and demand is going to affect the American market. This has not yet been done.

Rep. Pierre Du Pont, R-Del., sponsor of the GAO study, compares the episode with Pearl Harbor. Lots of information was coming into the Agriculture Department and it all pointed to the prospect of a big Soviet wheat purchase.

But the information piled up in the department and no one put it together while farmers were being urged to sell their wheat crop early because there was no probability of a large export demand.

The intelligence was telling a different story. An April study by the Foreign Agricultural Service reported the Soviets would have to come to the United States if they needed more than a small supply of imported wheat.

The agricultural attache in Moscow reported extensive damage in the winter wheat crop, a setback which could be substantiated by missile photography. The experts knew that Soviet leaders had promised their consumers a sharp increase in protein supply.

Some 200 economists and analysts, armed with computers, were on hand to process information that came in from around the world. But the department balked at letting the world price of wheat rise, even in response to prodings from the Canadians and Australians. The bureaucracy could not adjust to a sudden reversal of circumstance. After years of contending with a stubborn glut of wheat, they simply did not know how to deal with a wheat shortage.

In defending his department, Secretary Earl Butz maintains that his experts did not know the extent of the failure of the Soviet crop until long after the sales had begun. This is surprising in light of the highly precise surveillance of the Soviet Union with missile cameras.

As the GAO insists, agriculture officials had information which should have warned them that the Soviets were faced with a significant wheat shortfall.

The warning of the sad experience is that Communists are good traders who will make the most of their new access to the American marketplace.

The competitive system, in which no one has full knowledge of all the deals that are taking place, cannot be fully protected against the purchasing techniques of monopolistic economies. But more precautions need to be taken.

Anti-theft patrol won't be deputized

BURLEY — Cassia County Sheriff Ray Mitchell said Monday he would not deputize any ranchers to patrol grazing lands against rustlers.

Members of the Goose Creek, Oakley Valley and Dry Creek-Cottonwood Cattlemen's Associations, had requested that several of their members be deputized to give them authority to make arrests when patrolling their lands to help stem increasing rustling problems.

The rustling problem is no greater than it has been in the past, Mitchell said.

Currently members of the Search and Rescue team are patrolling the area nightly in conjunction with the sheriff's department, Mitchell said, but the county can not afford to hire a full time deputy to work on the problem any more than it can for any other single community problem.

Unless he paid them a salary, Mitchell said, the ranchers would have no more real authority than they have right now in patrolling the area on their own.

Anyone has the right to detain any person caught breaking the law on their property, he said, and to turn them over to the authorities.

Mitchell said he may issue deputy cards to several of the ranchers, but that the cards would not give them official deputy status.

Animal display planned

JEROME — A special feature again this year at the Jerome County Fair and Rodeo Aug. 22-25 will be the "Small animal farm."

The small animal farm was begun last year as a project of the Appleton Livestockers 4-H Club, and was located beside the regular dairy barn, as it will be again this year. The project received a special award of merit from the fair board last year.

Club members donated animals for the farm and also helped construct pens and stalls, and helped to keep them clean.

John Stele Jr., fair board chairman, said the farm has become a regular part of the fair. He said he felt sure other clubs will participate in the project this year and the farm will be even larger than last year.

The farm will contain such animals as a dairy cow and calf, beef cow and calf, horse and foal, ewe and lamb, goat and kids, sow and piglets, chicken and chicks, goose and goslings, cat and kittens and ducks and ducklings.

There is no charge to visit the farm, whose main purpose is for parents to show young children farm animals and their young.

"The fair board is trying to provide a all-around program which appeals to all Jerome County interests and the animal farm is an example of how we are trying to please the public," Stele said.

reviewed until early afternoon. Besides the individual evaluation of each project, a "Foundation of Beauty" demonstration will be presented by Mrs. Joe Wasko. Built, painted, and decorated techniques and practice modeling will follow.

At 1 p.m. the practice judging contest will be held under the supervision of Mrs. A. F. Nelson.

Some of the categories for competition are parts of the sewing machine, safe food storage, books for children, tailoring techniques, and coordinating tableware.

A potluck lunch is planned for all participants at noon with watermelon furnished by the County 4-H Council.

Northside unit named runner-up

BOISE — Northside Soil Conservation District in Jerome County is the runner-up in an annual conservation awards program.

The district placed second in the nation-wide Goodyear Conservation Awards competition, now in its 26th year.

Herman Stammerjohn was chosen the outstanding cooperators in the Jerome County district.

Top honors in Idaho went to Benewah Soil and Water Conservation District, contest officials reported Tuesday. The competition is conducted by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. in association with the National Association of Conservation Districts.

Selection is based on planning, leadership and achievement in resource management.

FB appeals pesticides rule date

PARK RIDGE, Ill. — The American Farm Bureau Federation has filed a motion in the US Court of Appeals in New Orleans (5th Circuit) to delay the July 13 effective date of a new Occupational Safety and Health Administration revised emergency temporary standard regulating organophosphorous pesticide.

On June 29, OSHA issued the revised standard after it suspended and reconsidered a May 1 emergency standard which had been attacked in court by the federation and others.

The May 1 OSHA order established periods of time in which employees may not re-enter fields or orchards following the application of pesticides, and required special clothing, warning systems, medical services and other measures for growers using organophosphorous pesticides.

4-H home ec clubs slate activities

FILER — Twin Falls County home economics 4-H clubs will meet Thursday for their annual Achievement Day at the Tom Parks Pavilion at the fair grounds.

This will be the first year that special achievement days will be held separately for the various projects in the 4-H program, according to Mrs. Patricia Maughan Twin Falls County Extension Home Economist. Horse sheep and beef achievement days are being planned. Specialization has come to 4-H too.

The objective of the achievement day is for project evaluation and improvement suggestions made where necessary. It is also an excellent opportunity for county 4-Hers to get acquainted as well as "practice" demonstrations, judging contests and modeling prior to the County Fair. General assembly will be at 8:30 a.m. with flag raising, ceremonies and instructions for the day's activities. Registration will begin at 8:45 with Christine Britt, Anna Koontz, Susan Jessor and Teresa Meyerhoeffer registering the participants, and handing out name tags. Evaluating the clothing projects will be Mrs. Dean Kohntopp, Mrs. Lee Eldredge, Mrs. Calvin Hoffman, Mrs. Robert Lanting, Mrs. Dal Platt, Luanne Platt, Lisa Cary and Carol Skinner. The foods evaluations will be made by Mrs. Ted Quigley, Mrs. Clinton Dougherty, Mrs. Robert Kohl, Kysa Kohl, Phyllis Ramseyer and Phyllis Britt. Knitting projects and crocheting projects will be seen by Mrs. Evan Skinner. Activities are being planned from as early as 7:30 a.m. when home economics demonstrations will be

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, encouraged by the improvement in the value of the dollar abroad, moved up in early trading Wednesday on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average had gained 2.49 to 890.81 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines 452 to 120, among 758 issues crossing the tape. Early volume amounted to 930,000 shares.

The dollar has recovered in value abroad in the past few days and many analysts said this is helping the stock market. Also helping the market, they said, was speculation the U. S. government would support the dollar on foreign markets. The Federal Reserve Board has said nothing about this however.

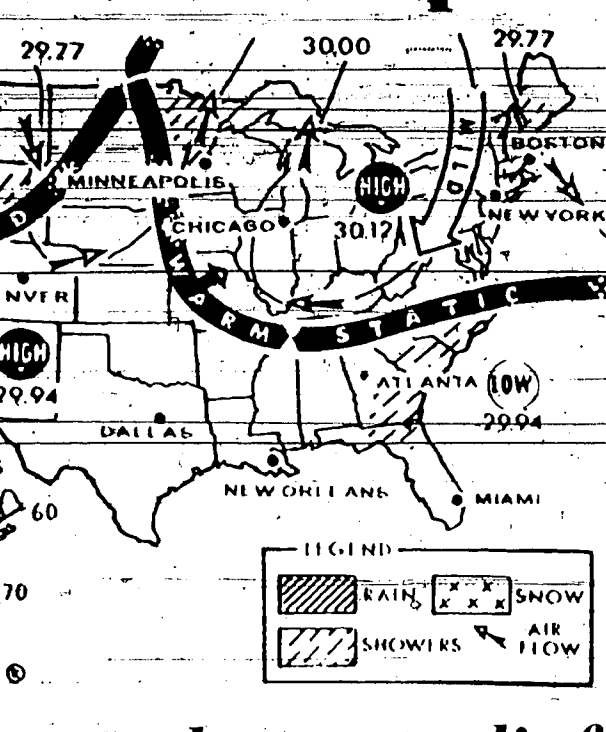

The turnover Tuesday was in excess of 15 million shares, but below the 16.5 million the NYSE says it needs daily to break even.

Cooler temps bring welcome relief

Twin Falls, northside: Partly cloudy and cooler through tonight. Fair on Thursday. Lows tonight will be in the 50s with highs tomorrow in the mid 90s.

The outlook for Friday is fair and a little warmer.

Camas Prairie, Hailey and lower Wood River Valley: Partly cloudy and cooler through tonight. Fair on Thursday. Lows tonight will be in the 50s with highs tomorrow in the mid to upper 80s.

The outlook for Friday is fair and a little warmer.

Synopsis: A heat wave over the intermountain states area broke record temperatures in Idaho and surrounding areas yesterday. However, a cool front moved into Idaho late yesterday bringing some clouds and a few light showers. This front will move out of southeastern Idaho today, but cooler temperatures should linger through the valley with a slow warming trend beginning again on Thursday.

Lows tonight will be mostly in the 50s and highs tomorrow will be mostly in the 90s.

The extended outlook for Friday through Sunday indicates fair, dry weather.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Best of the men farmers are the blue-eyed brunettes. Or so contends one self-proclaimed expert on matters romantic. Our Love and War man is reluctant to argue, but he holds the personal opinion of dominating gentlemen friends. The blue-eyed brunettes, he says, are apt to be too tender, a failing rarely evidenced among the green-eyed redheads.

First midwives were men, please note. That word "midwife" didn't start out to describe a woman. Merely meant "with (the) wife."

Client wants to know how many animals get killed during a typical afternoon at the bullfights. Six, usually. Each of three matadors kills two bulls. Each killing takes about 20 minutes.

BRIDGE

Happens about 20 times a year that some bridge player reports a hand with 13 cards in one suit. And said reports are frequently confirmed in signed notarized statements by the other players. Even so, bridge experts remain skeptical. They say the odds against such are astronomically high. And they note it's always a woman who claims such a hand, never a man. Curious.

Q: "When walking to the table in a snazzy restaurant, who goes first, the man or the girl?"
A: Depends. If led by a hostess or waiter, the girl goes first. If not the man. So say the social sages.

Q: "How come we call them cantaloupes?"
A: Because they were cultivated first, at least in Western Europe, on a papal estate outside Rome called Cantalupo.

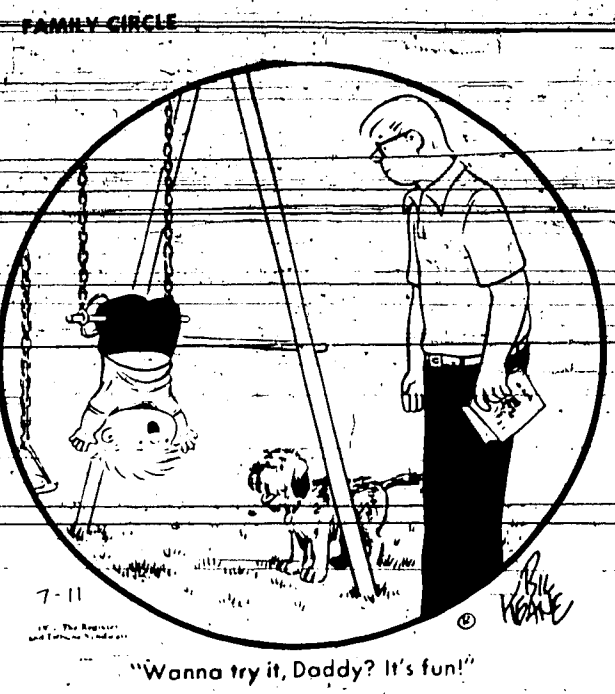

Q: "Did the great W. C. Fields write his own movie scripts?"
A: Most of them, finally. Film writers with martin pitches used to tell him around the golf course, taking notes. But usually in the end, he wrote the stuff himself under an assumed name.

THE HARD FACTS

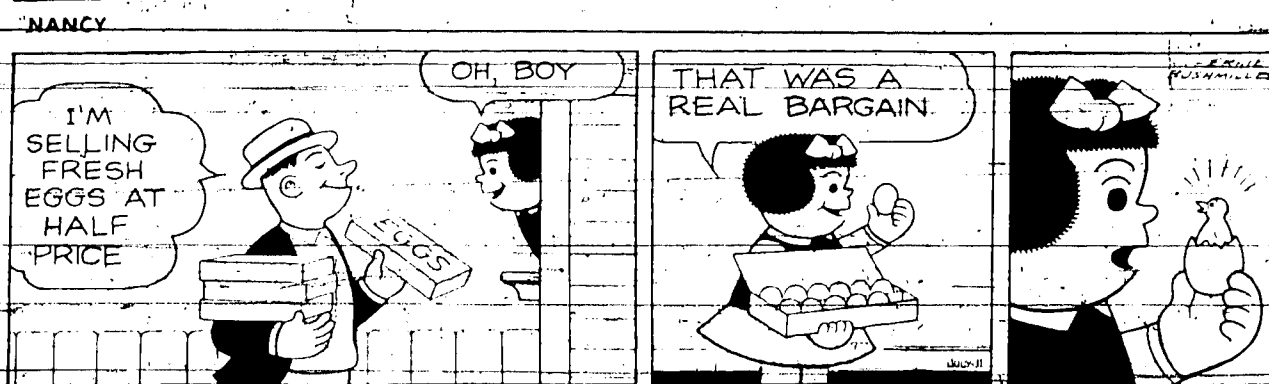

Eleven out of every 12 sets of twins survive. Five out of every six sets of triplets. Three out of every four sets of quadruplets. Average Miss America poses for commercial photographers more than 20,000 times during her year in office. Why people first started eating those purple eggplants about 130 years ago, I'll never know. Travel experts say the average family hereabouts will go approximately 330 miles from home on this summer's vacation. Hard to realize 2,900 different makes of automobiles have been turned out in this country, at one time or another, no?

If somebody asked you to name those nationals regarded as the world's greatest sailors, it's not likely you'd nominate the Hollanders. Still, they must deserve some kind of maritime award. Cantelupo marks points out our words yacht, schooner, scow and skipper all come from the Dutch.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is excellent to get a head start in going directly after the benefits you want in life. State your views, but remember, too much frankness could be resented. Use diplomacy and avoid sharp comments.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Many new ideas occur to you early in the day, so put them in operation as soon as possible before attending to other duties. Friends require your attention tonight. Give it willingly.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Your hunches help you communicate very well with others in the morning. A monetary problem can be easily handled over the telephone. Come to right understanding with mate this evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): State your finest views to an associate early in the day and gain full cooperation from this person. Steer clear of one who opposes you. Your mate can be most cooperative at this time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): You can accomplish a good deal during the day when you are full of ideas and creativity, but tonight the planets keep you docile. Plan how to have more harmony with fellow workers.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Make plans early for having a good time this evening and then attend to important duties with enthusiasm. Take health treatments and improve your appearance. Evening is fine for relaxation.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Mentally plan how to improve your home and later when you have time, carry through. Remove whatever is ugly or obsolete. Arrange entertainment there for the future. Avoid extravagance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Attend to important duties early before doing routine matters. Later discuss business projects with a financial expert. There could be some unexpected tension tonight, but keep calm.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You are thinking in terms of expansion and can do that successfully in the early part of the day. A clever business expert can give the data you need. Exercise great care with money tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Do whatever pleases you the most during the early hours. Make sure you appreciate the good qualities of friends. Others are moodier later in the day. Avoid arguments of all kinds.

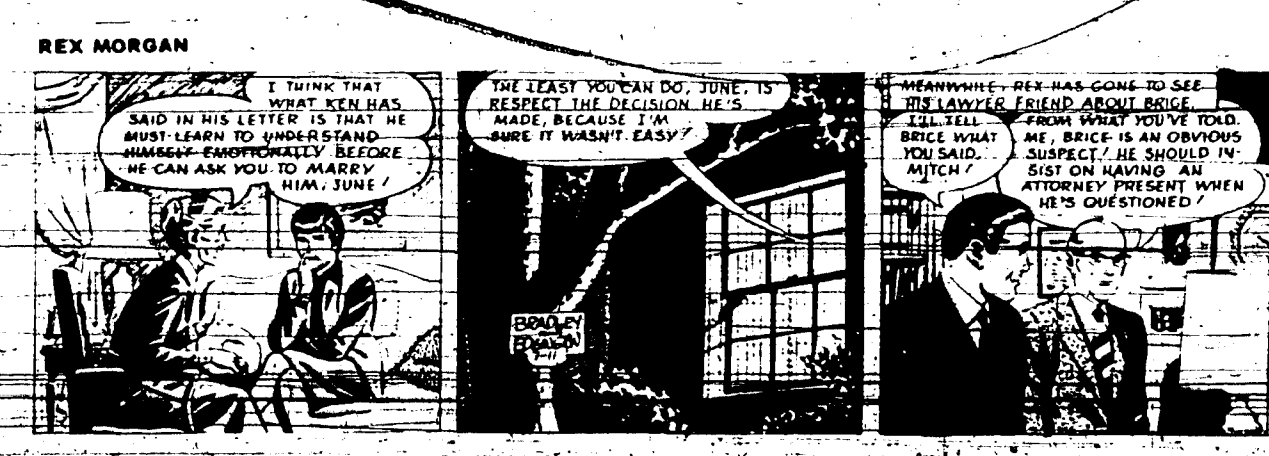

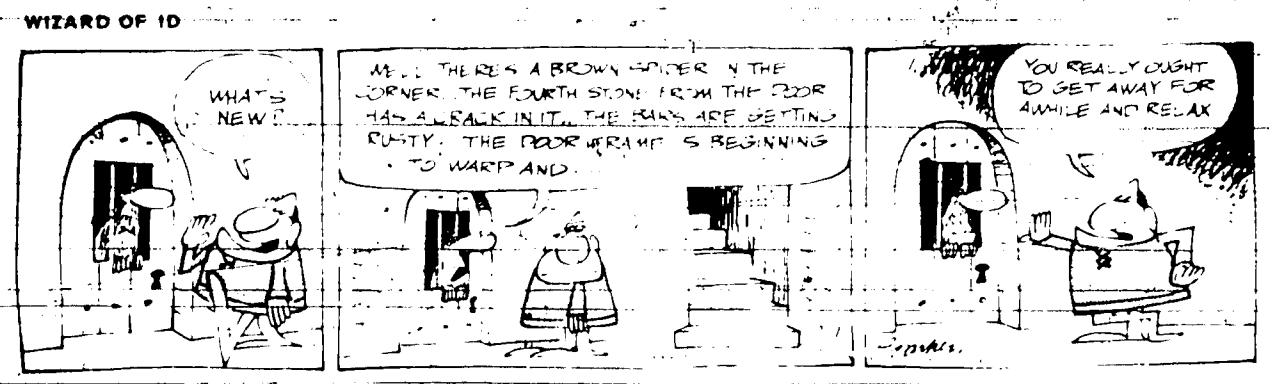

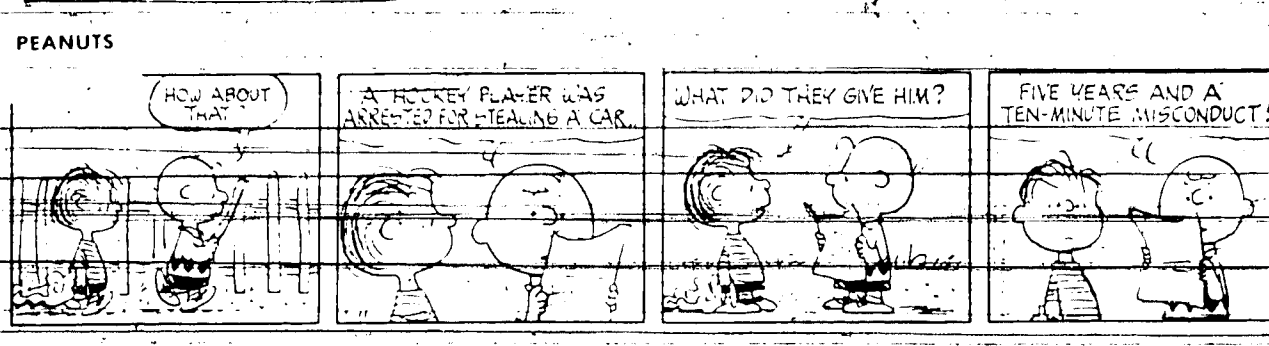

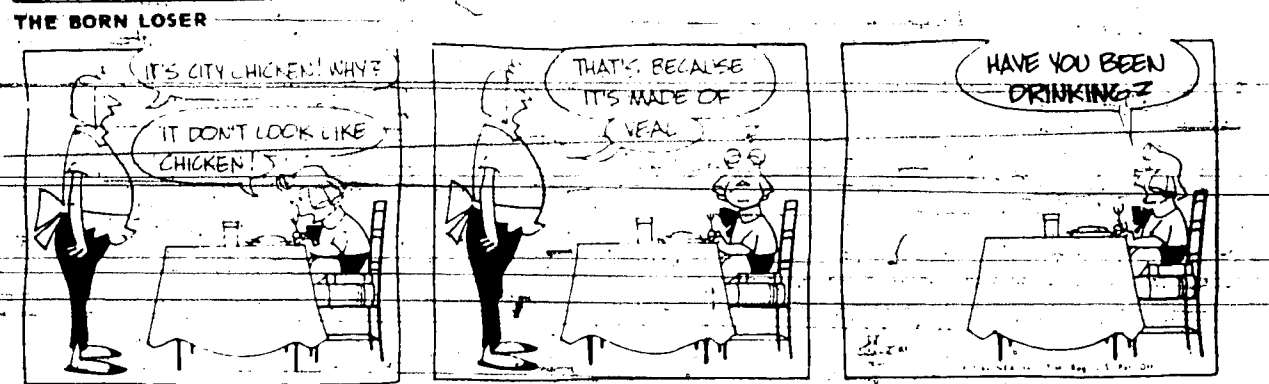

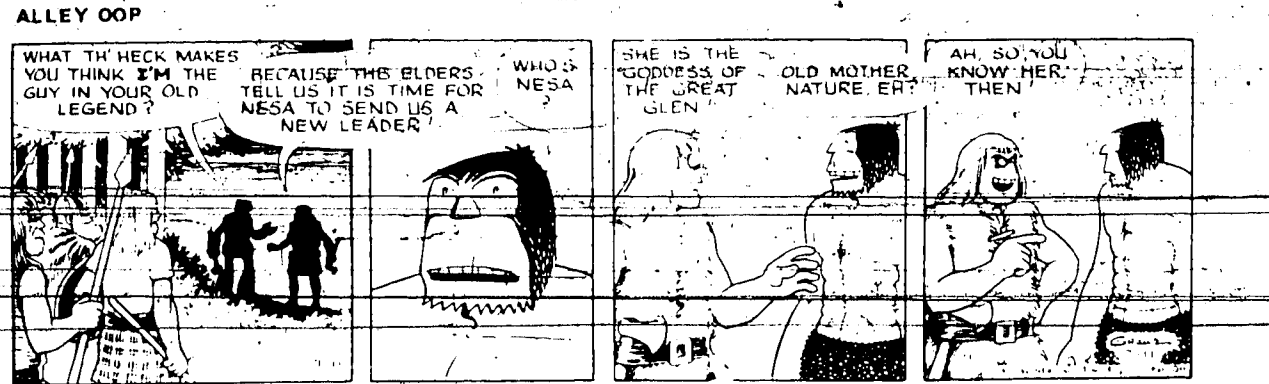

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Some study of your present position and how to improve it is wise in the morning. Try to help yourself today instead of others. Rely on your intuition more. Engage in hobby tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Plan how to make your friends happier by being your gregarious self. Sideswipe finding faults. Attend a social tonight, but make it in new directions and meet new people.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Morning is the best time to handle career matters. Others are too demanding and will not cooperate later in the day. Civic matters should be handled early in the day. Think wisely.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: He or she will be one of those delightful young people born under a lucky star and should be given an opportunity early in life to start building a fortune. The late middle life will see your progeny as a philanthropist, getting into activities that are helpful to others as well as stimulating to self.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

BEST BUY AUTO SALES
Ed Studdard, Kurt Han
601 2nd Ave. South 733-9100

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS.

1. You browse through 2 acres of cars, and with the assistance of one of our courteous salesmen, select the model, color and equipment of your choice.
2. That's all the salesman will do. From there you will meet with the sales manager and he will furnish you with our cost on that particular new car.
3. You will then figure you own deal by adding to dealer cost, a service and handling charge of $60, plus 5% profit for the dealership.

WRITE YOUR OWN DEAL.

5% PROFIT.
