Tape subpoena backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N. M., said today he would vote for subpoena action if he and his colleagues on the Senate Watergate committee are not given access to President Nixon's tape recorded conversations related to the scandal.

Montoya made the comments as other members of the Senate and political figures continued to express surprise — and in some cases shock — at disclosure that recording of Nixon's talks was carried out routinely since early 1971 without the knowledge of most of those involved in the conversations.

"If the President is in the clear in this Watergate matter, then we'd like to get any evidence to show it," Montoya said in a statement as the Watergate committee resumed hearings.

(Earlier, related stories p. 6)

"In the event the committee requests the tapes and is refused, then I'd favor voting to subpoena the tapes. I intend to respect any official material strictly pertaining to presidential business, but when it comes to anything related to the Watergate issue, then I believe it should be brought into the open."

The White House confirmed the recording arrangements soon after the practice was disclosed Monday by former presidential aide Alexander P. Butterfield. Officials gave no immediate indication whether the tapes would be turned over to the Senate investigators.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., called the practice "an invasion of privacy" while Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., said he saw nothing wrong with it.

Former Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst, in London, voiced astonishment when told of the taping. "No kidding!" he exclaimed.

Robert H. Finch, former Nixon Cabinet member and counselor, said he was "literally astonished — I'm incredulous."

AFI-CIO President George Meany let it be known through a spokesman that he found the taping "almost beyond belief" and that he never had "the slightest idea" that his talks with the President were recorded.

"God bless the blunderers at the Watergate," Meany was quoted by an aide. "If they hadn't been so clumsy, America would never have known this was going on."

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., said, "If this kind of thing did go on, it was an outrage, almost beyond belief."

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, House Republican leader, said he was not aware of the recording practice but had no objections to it.

ALEXANDER BUTTERFIELD discloses wiretaps

Lawyer silent on payments

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's former personal attorney testified today he realized 10 months before the 1972 presidential election that something was wrong about secret payments to the seven original Watergate defendants, but said he never tried to warn Nixon about it.

Herbert W. Kalmbach told the Senate Watergate Committee he had "complete and implicit trust" in two of Nixon's top aides who he said had told him to raise the money — John W. Dean III and John P. Ehrlichman.

Kalmbach said he felt the payments reflected a "moral obligation" felt by someone in the White House to help the bugging conspirators.

"I just could not believe (they) would ask the President's personal attorney to do an illegal act," said Kalmbach, who was dismissed as Nixon's lawyer on May 1.

As he did in his first day of testimony Monday at the nationally televised Watergate hearings, Kalmbach said he did not hesitate when Dean summoned him to Washington from his Newport Beach, Calif., home just 11 days after the June 17, 1972, bugging arrests and assigned him to raise money to pay the defendants' legal fees and help support their families.

But Kalmbach said he began to have some doubts by late August about the propriety of the payments, especially because of the cloak-and-dagger manner in which they were made, and refused to raise any more funds after Sept. 21. By that time he had collected and distributed $220,000.

"You made no attempt to contact your client, the President of the United States?" asked Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, Jr., R-Conn.

"No, sir, I did not," Kalmbach replied. "Did you make any attempt in August or September to get word through to the President?" Weicker asked.

"No, I did not, senator," Kalmbach said. Weicker did not ask Kalmbach why he had not.

Kalmbach testified Monday that he had had some qualms within a month about the money-raising assignment, and had gone to Ehrlichman last July 26 for assurance it was all right.

U of I loses bid to quit Big Sky

BOISE (UPI) — The board of regents today turned down a request 4-3 to let the University of Idaho leave the Big Sky Conference and join the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

The vote followed a 10 minute plea to leave the conference by board member A. L. Alford, Lewiston, chairman of the executive committee of the University of Idaho.

The board twice in last year has turned down a request, once on a 4-3 vote and once by a 4-1 vote.

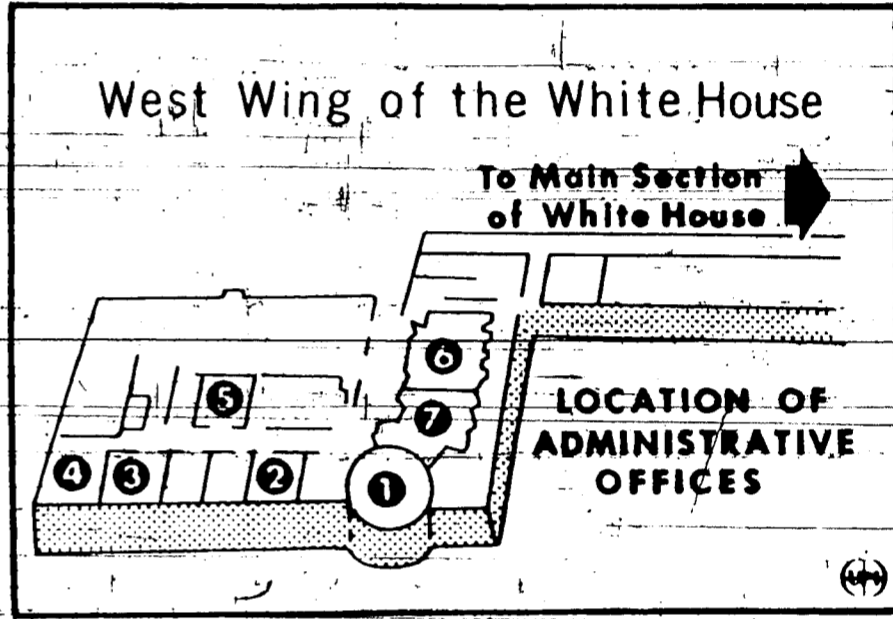

Those voting against the move were M. T. Deaton, J. P. Munson, Janet Hay and D. F. Engelking.

Those voting for the move were Alford, Ed Benoit, and Kenneth Thatcher. Board Chairman John Swartley told the board his vote in the matter would not change the outcome so he would abstain.

The administration of the university has stated its wishes to be subsidized athletically less and less by the state tax dollar," said Alford during his presentation.

(See related story, p. 7)

University of Idaho President Ernest Hartung said after the vote that he would modify his athletic department of the board's decision.

Suit opposes development

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Sixteen Hailey property owners filed suit opposing what they say will be a sewer overflow if the 650-acre Woodside Development is permitted.

The suit, filed in Federal District Court in Boise Monday, was brought by the property owners in a class-action on behalf of owners of unimproved real property within the city.

Cited as defendants were Robert P. McCulloch, Jr., president of the developing firm of McCulloch Properties, Inc.; Mayor Lawrence Heagle; and the four member city council.

The suit seeks preliminary and permanent injunctions against the mayor and council to prohibit them from committing the remaining sewage capacity of the Hailey treatment plant to the newly annexed Woodside Development until a permit for additional effluent discharge into the Wood River is issued by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency or a designated state agency.

Preliminary and permanent injunctions are also sought against McCulloch to prohibit connection of sewage lines from the development to the sewage treatment plant until such a permit is obtained.

The complaint states the present unused capacity of the treatment plant would be about adequate to serve the plaintiffs' property and other such unimproved property within Hailey. The planned McCulloch development would monopolize the unused capacity and exhaust it "as early as the fall of 1974," the suit says.

Pipeline passes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted overwhelmingly today to give the green light for construction of the $3.5 billion Trans-Alaska oil pipeline. The vote was 77-20.

It passed and sent to the House a bill that would grant a right-of-way across public lands for the 789-mile pipeline from Alaska's Arctic Coast to the ice-free port of Valdez.

(Earlier story, p. 8)

A short time earlier, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew broke a 49-49 tie and cast the deciding vote today as the Senate voted to block further environmentalist court challenges to construction of a Trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

Agnew's vote blocked further consideration of an earlier decision to declare that the pipeline met requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

It was the first time that Agnew had voted to break a tie since taking office in 1969.

The amendment offered by Sens. Mike Gravel and Ted Stevens of Alaska was meant to exempt the project from the 1969 environmental law. Stevens sought unsuccessfully to amend it further to provide for a three-judge panel to determine the constitutionality of such an exemption.

That amendment was defeated by a 54-43 vote. The original amendment to exempt the project from the environmental act was approved, 49 to 48.

The vote in which Agnew broke the tie came on a motion by Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., to reconsider the earlier vote.

Stevens' unsuccessful move to further amend the bill to provide for the three-judge panel came after Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D. Wash., warned that the Gravel-Stevens amendment would not head off court challenges.

Burley escapee captured

BURLEY — Inez Ybarra, 26, Burley, who escaped from Burley police officers Sunday evening, was captured here about 10:30 p.m. Monday.

Ybarra was being held in the Burley County jail on a fugitive warrant from California. He escaped when he was being transferred to the city jail prior to transport to California.

On a tip that Ybarra might be in the area of the 2100 block of Hansen Avenue, Burley officers were sent to patrol the area.

Shortly after 10 p.m. Monday they saw a car enter an alley, turn out its headlights and remain about 15 minutes before turning down Hansen Avenue, according to Corporal Allen Smith.

When the car was stopped, Smith and Patrolman John Walsh saw a man in the passenger's seat wearing a wig with charcoal on his face and arms.

The officers recognized the passenger as Ybarra and placed him under arrest. "There was no struggle," Smith said.

The driver of the car, John Gerhardt, Burley, was arrested for aiding and abetting and both Ybarra and Gerhardt are being held in the Burley City jail.

TF council drops ban on outside services

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Under heavy fire by developers, the Twin Falls City Council Monday abandoned plans to disallow out-of-city water and sewer hookups.

Two ordinances were given a first reading that, rather than banning the hookups, set up tough new guidelines under which they can be secured.

The proposed laws contain at least two new rules concerning out-of-city use of the utilities.

Lands granted the hookups must be annexed when they become adjacent to the city and the out-of-city utilities will be defined as "surplus capacity" which may be discontinued if city services are "in jeopardy."

Developments, if granted the hookups, also must meet all city zoning and building laws and pay double sewer and water rates under the proposed ordinances.

The Council last month discussed a complete ban on hookups outside the city. But they backed up after developers and realtors (and their attorneys) voiced strong objections to the plan. The dissenters said the ban would curtail building in the county because of increased costs for sewer and water facilities. They also warned that many of the cost hikes would be passed on to the property buyer.

Most of the developers had planned to connect with the city's sewage trunk line running northwest from the city.

In other action Monday, the Council rejected a proposed lease agreement with car rental firms at the city-county airport.

Phil Cargill and Ross Brown, managers of the Hertz and Avis rental companies, respectively, objected to the lease. They said its monthly rental fee, $350 or 10 per cent of gross profits (whichever is highest) was "way too high" and could force closure of their firms at the airport.

Brown suggested a graduated percentage increase to 10 per cent over a four or five year period. He also asked that the $350 figure be reduced to "around $250."

TF taxpayers may face votes on 3 bond issues

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Taxpayers in Twin Falls County may be looking at three major bond issues in the coming six months.

James Rosenbaum, Magic Valley Memorial Hospital administrator, told hospital board members Monday night he and the hospital building committee had met with the Twin Falls School Board and a representative of American Falls Reservoir District to discuss the timing of bond issues they are planning.

He said the school district is considering a $3.5 million bond issue to be submitted to a vote in September.

"Our bond issue would be between $3 million and $3.5 million," Rosenbaum said, "and we could not possibly be ready for a vote in September. It would seem November would be a logical time for us," he said.

Rosenbaum said the American Falls Reservoir District which may bond for part of the new dam costs, is looking toward spring for a vote.

It looks as if the Twin Falls County taxpayer may have to make a number of decisions on much needed improvements," Rosenbaum said, "but our issue would involve all of Twin Falls County and would not conflict with those of the school district or the reservoir district. We have never considered holding the bond issue elections together," Rosenbaum said.

Several hospital trustees including chairman Robert Brackett, expressed optimism over voter support for additional hospital space. R. W. Pierce, building chairman, said his group has met with the medical staff, architect and other hospital personnel.

Pierce said the suggestions of the people using hospital facilities be incorporated into plans for the best possible facility. He said other meetings are scheduled with architects soon and it is hoped a preliminary plan can be put together before too long.

By a unanimous vote the board designated the Idaho First National Bank as fiscal agent to handle the bond issue sales and promotion of the election. The vote followed discussion in which board members expressed their confidence in all three financial institutions which bid for the position last month.

TF man works with board

By MARGARET BAILEY BOISE (UPI) — The newest state board of education member says he accepted the post with pleasure and came to it without preconceived ideas or prejudices.

Ed Benoit, a Twin Falls attorney, said board work "is one of the most interesting experiences I've ever had."

He was appointed April 12 to complete the unexpired term of J.D. McCollum, of Twin Falls, who retired.

Since his swearing in at the May meeting, Benoit has found the board work "is taking a lot of time, much more than I expected, but I don't begrudge it."

He has two partners with him in the law firm his father founded in 1919, but Benoit says extra work from the State Board of Education has him spending time in the office now on weekends.

That's interfering with my golf — but my game never was very good anyway.

Benoit said the question of tenure at Idaho colleges and universities has been one of the most interesting issues before the board since he joined the board.

I'm not opposed to tenure and am going to be very interested to find out the results of the study being conducted by the board on tenure.

The meeting this week at Boise State College marks Benoit's first experience in working on budgets.

He said he feels that tax money should be spent on the overall operation and improvements of all the institutions of higher learning, regardless of where they are located.

Benoit said the fact that he was graduated from the University of Idaho in 1942 and it is the alma mater of his wife and two daughters would not influence his votes as a board member.

He did say, however, he would vote for the U of I to leave the Big Sky Athletic Conference and join the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

Benoit said he would be looking to the best interests of all the institutions wherever they are located.

So far, however, Benoit said he is doing a lot of sitting and learning because he is still in a transitional period on the board.

IPUC ponders toll-free use

By TERRY CAMPBELL Times-News writer HAILEY — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has taken under advisement petitions for toll-free telephone service between the Carey Valley and the Big Wood River Valley.

The move followed a day-long hearing Monday.

The hearing — the first in a two phase proceeding — stemmed from a petition containing over 400 signatures submitted in September, 1972, to the PUC by the Blaine County Farm Bureau.

Carey is served by the Idaho Telephone Co. The Hailey, Ketchum and Sun Valley exchanges are served by Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The PUC is expected to rule on whether alternate forms of service instead of toll free service should be investigated; whether the two telephone companies should conduct surveys outlining various proposals to obtain the opinion of all affected subscribers; or whether the two companies should be required to conduct engineering studies on toll free service and develop rate proposals.

the private customers for toll free service.

G. C. Shipley, general manager of the Idaho Telephone Co. also submitted a study of toll calls placed from Carey during September and October, 1972.

State Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, who also has a ranching operation in Muldoon, said Blaine County was the fastest growing county in the state. He said communication is vital for Blaine County to jointly solve the social and economic problems produced by growth.

Presently, Peavey said, the Carey valley "was pretty much isolated from the rest of the county."

Nick Purdy, president of the Farm Bureau, said toll free service "would benefit the whole county in the very near future."

Monday's hearing was conducted by Commissioner Robert Lenaghan and Rulon Larsen, director of the PUC utilities division.

During the hearing, the Farm Bureau presented about 20 witnesses including area officials, business men, and residents. Topics covered in testimony were the effect of toll service on schools, medical care, churches, commuters, business, and communication within Blaine County.

Mrs. Millard Meanea, Carey, director of nursing at the Blaine County Hospital, read a letter from Dr. Alden M. Packer, recommending toll free service be instituted.

The letter said that in several instances in the past because of the extra time and money involved in calling from Carey to Hailey, "the medical care for a particular individual has been jeopardized."

The great majority of calls, Bromley said, were placed by businesses. "We must consider all the vast number of people who do not want to make calls, their income, and ability to pay," he said.

Bromley questioned whether the business customers could expect to "pass the cost on" to commercial marketing manager for Mountain Bell.

They agreed to hold a conference of experts of the two countries on oil problems. They also pushed ahead with plans for joint investment in a billion-dollar plant in the United States for enriched uranium fuel.

Rogers told the news conference the United States regretted embarrassment to Japan caused by the Aug. 29 embargo on exports of soy products. He blamed the decision on crop failures in other countries, and said American soy production alone could not compensate for them.

The dinner was held in the Woodrider Center Grange Hall, with Mrs. Donald Sandy in charge, with 50 family members attending.

CSI to ask 12% increase

By DAVID ESPO Times-News writer TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho will present the State Board of Education this week with a continuation level budget for the next fiscal year requiring a 12 per cent increase in state funds.

Dr. James L. Taylor, CSI president, will meet with the State Board of Education in Boise Wednesday to make his presentation.

According to CSI figures, the increment would give the school $1.16 million in state funds for academic programs and retirement funds for the fiscal year beginning in July 1974.

The current total, according to CSI figures, is $1.05 million.

Taylor said he will tell the Board CSI also will ask the state legislature to complete funding on the planned vocational technical building to be built on the Twin Falls campus. The last legislature approved $950,000 in first phase funding for the building. Taylor said he will request $1.6 million to complete the building.

Continuation level funding, according to a publication of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee, includes personnel costs to cover authorized positions with the addition of new positions required to satisfy increased service requirements without changes in the level of programs.

operating expenses related to new positions. Capital outlay related to the increases and replacement due to wear and obsolescence.

Taylor said the request he would make would not request funding above the present percentage level of state support. The legislature has been steadily increasing the level in recent years, and is currently funding about 42 per cent of the state's junior college academic programs.

Last year, the schools had requested about 50 per cent. In other action, the board awarded a $74,518 contract to Telemation for video tape material. Taylor told board members the money was for a program for the deaf being run in cooperation with the state

US, Japan end economic talks

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan and the United States ended two days of economic talks today with a pledge to cooperate in dealing with the world's energy crisis.

The two nations also discussed an exchange of visits by President Nixon and Japanese Emperor Hirohito, but Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira told a news conference. "We merely agreed this matter should be left to the judgment of the two heads of state."

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who headed the American delegation to the ninth meeting of the United States-Japan Joint Economic Committee, was scheduled to leave Tokyo on Wednesday for a three-day visit to South Korea.

The committee affirmed the importance to both Japan and the United States of a continuing and broad exchange of views on the problem of ensuring future supplies of petroleum, enriched uranium and other energy sources, a final communique said.

Rogers and Ohira agreed on a joint approach to the question of investing in development of oil and natural gas resources in Soviet Siberia, including a billion-dollar, 4,800-mile pipeline from the Tyumen oil fields in the Urals to the Pacific Coast.

They agreed to hold a conference of experts of the two countries on oil problems. They also pushed ahead with plans for joint investment in a billion-dollar plant in the United States for enriched uranium fuel.

The dinner was held in the Woodrider Center Grange Hall, with Mrs. Donald Sandy in charge, with 50 family members attending.

They Still Love Nixon Out There

WASHINGTON — The art of politics and the science of physics ordinarily are far apart, but Watergate is producing a remarkable manifestation of Newtonian theory put to new applications. Those who are out to "get" Nixon should give it some thought.

In forming an opinion on Nixon's conduct vis-a-vis the Watergate, it is truly immaterial that Edward Kennedy lied about Chappaquiddick. The column produced a flood of angry letters, running 6 or 7 to 1 in Nixon's favor.

These are typical quotations. The recurring theme is that Watergate has been blown entirely out of perspective by opportunistic Democrats and by hostile reporters.

O. report, submitted to Congress, places primary responsibility on the Department of Agriculture for, first, being inadequately informed as to the size of the Soviet purchases and not foreseeing the likely effects on the U.S. economy, and then for mismanaging subsidies and permitting speculation by grain dealers.

But the consumer confronted with ever-higher prices, aware of too-late half measures such as the ban on soybean exports and appalled by such desperation measures as the destruction of chicks by growers caught in the feed-cost squeeze, does not need pages of expert economic analysis to know that someone goofed somewhere.

Mitchell: Myopic Of Cultists

(c) 1973, Chicago Daily News WASHINGTON — In the beginning, John N. Mitchell seemed to be the least likely candidate in the Nixon retinue. When he first came to town, he was neither awed nor particularly impressed by the man in whose resurrection he had figured as a law partner and campaign manager.

WASHINGTON — The United States economy is sinking into quicksand, dragged deeper by new problems created each time the Nixon administration tries to save it from the consequences of past policies gone wrong. Finally, the rescue rope is so frayed that the economy faces these dismal prospects:
— Persistent, perhaps worsening, inflation.
— Shortages of food and other goods.
— Recession, with declining production, employment and profits.
— Tight credit and rising interest rates.
— Loss of markets for exports.

President Nixon now is formulating new measures, including Phase 4 price and wage controls, to pull the economy onto solid ground. There is little reason for confidence that this rescue attempt will succeed, either. The administration knew in advance that many of the policies that have worsened the economy's troubles were mistakes. After warning that these policies would not work, the President yielded to pressure and tried them anyway. Events proved that he and his advisers were right in the first place.

As housewives rebelled against rising meat prices, for example, Nixon told a March 15 news conference:

"The difficulty with offering rigid price controls on meat prices and food prices is that it would not stop the rise in prices. It might stop them momentarily, but as a result of discouraging increased production, we would reap the consequences of greater upward pressure on prices later... it would discourage supply, it would lead to black market, and we would eventually have to come to rigid price controls, wage controls and rationing."

Exactly two weeks later, he froze prices of red meat, and in June he imposed a comprehensive price freeze. Many of the consequences he predicted have come to pass, and others are threatening.

Nixon repeatedly has violated the laws of economics, as he and his advisers previously had stated them. He has tried to cover up each violation and mitigate the penalties by breaking still more economic laws.

The president began in 1969 by following his

The economy started recovering from the recession at the end of 1970, and there were indications that inflation was abating. However, progress was slow on both fronts. At the same time, inflation and other factors had gravely weakened the dollar abroad.

As time grew short for getting the economy into good shape for the 1972 election, Nixon in the summer of 1971 started sacrificing his principles to expediency.

He wanted to reduce unemployment and spur the economy, but the required stimulative measures would accelerate inflation, undermine the dollar internationally and cause a run on monetary reserves.

The administration had preached that controls and other devices cannot compensate for unsound budgetary and monetary policies. Nixon tried.

Announcing a broad "new economic program" in August, 1971, he proposed tax cuts and the Federal Reserve stepped up monetary growth. Nixon initially made a gesture toward spending reductions, but in early 1972 he sharply increased expenditures.

To contain the expected inflationary pressures, he froze prices in August, 1971, and followed the freeze in November with tight Phase 2 controls.

To insulate the domestic economy from the international repercussions of these actions, he imposed a surcharge (extra tariff) on imports, and halted gold redemption of excess dollars held by foreign central banks. This suspension of dollar convertibility was followed in December by formal devaluation.

These programs worked for a while. Unemployment declined, production rose and inflation slowed. The Democrats failed to make any impact with economic issues in the 1972 campaign.

Controls were effective because the economy, while growing briskly, still was operating well below capacity. Encouraged by the price record and worried about distortions as the economy advanced toward capacity, Nixon last January switched from controls to largely voluntary Phase 3 guidelines. The result — inflation exploded.

Retail prices rose at an annual rate of 8.7 per cent in the first four months of Phase 3 from a 3.6 per cent rate during Phase 2. Retail food prices soared at a 22.4 per cent rate, up from 6.5 per cent. Wholesale prices increases accelerated to a 24.4 per cent rate from 6.9 per cent.

Partly because of inflation and partly because the Watergate scandal has undermined confidence in this country's political stability, the value of the dollar plunged abroad. A second devaluation in February was followed by further sharp declines as official support was withdrawn and the dollar was allowed to float (that is, sink) in response to supply and demand in the markets.

Some critics blamed the new burst of inflation on the switch to Phase 3, but many analysts contend tighter controls would not have made much difference. Controls can have only a marginal impact in a booming economy, when demand for goods and services presses hard against limited production capacity.

Facing galloping inflation, the President this year did try some of the classical remedies, such as increasing supplies by expanding farm acreage and selling government stockpiles — measures that take effect only slowly.

But he has shied away from strong fiscal restraints — tax increases and stringent spending cuts — and has turned back to reliance on controls.

He froze prices on red meat March 29 and extended the freeze on June 15 to all prices throughout the economy (except for initial sales at the farm level), contrary to the recommendations of his top advisers.

Their warnings of shortages and other economic dislocations have been realized more quickly and severely than they expected. Each dislocation has led to others.

Prices of cattle, hogs and chickens are not controlled. However, the freeze bars controls — and his own lack of faith in their effectiveness — Nixon so far, has refused to propose anti-inflationary tax increases. Some of his advisers have recommended tax action as part of Phase 4, but the latest word is that he probably will reject the idea.

In the absence of tax measures, the Federal Reserve is pressing harder to curb money and credit. Interest rates are rising sharply. Some analysts fear a credit "crunch" will create disorder in financial markets, and push the economy into a recession.

Even if the federal reserve stops tightening in time, many forecasters are predicting a recession in 1974 because, they believe, Nixon has waited too long to check the inflationary boom.

Boom and bust has been the pattern throughout US history. The President thought he knew how to break the pattern, but he has drifted away from his own economic principles.

Analysis

processors, wholesalers and retailers from raising prices they charge even if the prices they pay go up.

Livestock feed prices have soared. They are controlled domestically only in processed form, and are exempt from controls when exported.

Farmers try to raise livestock prices to cover the increased costs of feed. Middlemen cannot raise their prices, so they refuse to pay more to farmers. Farm prices thus are controlled indirectly.

Rather than raise livestock at a loss, farmers are cutting production — killing baby chicks and marketing breeding stock. Result: shortages now and in the future.

An obvious solution is to lower feed prices by increasing supplies. But foreign demand for feed is huge and export prices are uncontrolled. Incentives to sell abroad are so strong that exports have drained domestic feed supplies.

The administration has attempted to enlarge available supplies by controlling exports of soybeans and soybean products. Foreign demand shifted to other feeds, so controls were extended.

Export controls are alleviating the domestic feed shortage, and lowering prices, but they are weakening the dollar abroad.

Economic principles sacrificed as 1972 campaign neared; efforts backfire and troubles mount economic principles. He had inherited inflation from the Johnson administration, caused mainly by big budget deficits and excessive growth of money and credit.

Administering the medicine most economists would prescribe, he proceeded to restrain the inflationary boom by reducing the deficit, as the Federal Reserve curtailed monetary growth.

He hoped to slow the economy just enough to curb inflation, without causing a recession. But the slowdown went too far, and there was a mild recession with rising unemployment.

Mitchell asks perjury indictment dismissal

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell requested dismissal Monday of his perjury and conspiracy indictment on grounds the Watergate hearings would make it impossible for him to receive a fair trial.

If his motion for dismissal fails, Mitchell asked that he then be tried in another federal district and that the trial, now scheduled for Sept. 11, be delayed indefinitely.

It was the second motion for dismissal filed by Mitchell in a week. On July 9, the eve of his appearance before the Senate committee investigating Watergate, he sought dismissal on the grounds of improprieties by federal prosecutors before the grand jury.

In motions filed Monday with Manhattan Federal Judge Lee Gagliardi, Mitchell's lawyer, Peter Fleming, said, "Mitchell cannot be tried except by jurors who have not been exposed to the publicity which the government itself has created."

Mitchell spent most of last week appearing before Senate committee.

In his earlier motion, Mitchell moved for a dismissal of the indictment on grounds federal prosecutors questioned him about Watergate before the grand jury which was investigating financier Robert Vesco on another matter.

The grand jury indicted Mitchell, along with Vesco, former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans and one other defendant May 10 on charges of perjury and conspiracy regarding a Vesco contribution to the re-election campaign of President Nixon.

New drug raid orders for narcotics agents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal narcotics agents were given new, more precise orders Monday on how to carry out drug raids, with the aim of heading off mistaken raids at homes of innocent persons.

The policy, a combination of existing and new instructions to agents, "includes restrictions on the use of so-called no-knock authority, forced entry and firearms, and requirements for proper dress and identification."

"Unhappily we are all too familiar with the incidents which made the issuance of this policy necessary," said John R. Bartels Jr., acting administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration. "Any recurrence of such incidents cannot and will not be tolerated."

Bartels referred to drug raids in Collinsville, Ill., recently in which two families claimed that agents broke into their homes, threatened them and smashed furniture before saying they had made a mistake and leaving.

"I cannot find words to express my contempt for any agent who misuses the badge of a federal officer for any illegal purpose," Bartels told a news conference.

The new orders direct agents to "wear distinctive markings, such as badges, caps or other devices, to identify themselves to the public and their fellow officers in all cases involving forced entry."

"It is also essential that the operational team dress in a manner to invite confidence by the public and to lessen the possibility that an agent be mistaken for someone other than a responsible federal official," the new policy manual said.

It suggested that a uniformed police officer be included in raids to "provide recognizable authority in appropriate situations." The use of "no-knock" authority "should be preceded by high-level review of existing circumstances," it said.

Court suit move scored by Jackson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., floor manager for the Alaska pipeline bill in the Senate, has warned Alaska's senators against trying to speed construction by pushing an amendment aimed at environmentalist court suits.

Jackson said Monday the amendment by Sens Mike Gravel and Ted Stevens would only invite more lawsuits and set a dangerous precedent by attempting to exempt one project from the 1969 National Environmental Policy Act.

A bitter Senate floor fight was expected today over the amendment, which would declare the Alaska project had met requirements of the environmental act. However, approval of the pipeline bill itself, which would grant a right-of-way for the 789-mile oil line from Alaska's Arctic Coast to the port of Valdez appeared certain.

The Gravel-Stevens amendment was intended to head off further court action by environmentalist groups that succeeded earlier in blocking the project. But Jackson questioned whether the courts would pay any attention to a finding by Congress that the pipeline was in compliance with the law.

"It is my guess that the courts will still wish to make their own findings as to whether the environment impact statement is adequate or the other requirements of NEPA have been met," Jackson said.

Jackson said further that there might be "more litigation and more delay" over the question of the legal effect of such a finding by Congress than there would be if legal action by the environmentalists were allowed to run its course.

The Gravel-Stevens amendment, Jackson said, was "very friendly" to the pipeline opponents because it gave them additional grounds on which to sue.

Jackson concluded by reminding his colleagues that they had already approved an amendment urging the courts to act speedily because of the "national urgency" of the project.

"I believe that the courts will heed that message," he said. "In doing so, they do not need a host of new legal ambiguities and new causes of action."

The Senate affirmed its decision to prohibit the export of Alaskan oil to Japan or other countries except when found by the President to be "in the national interest."

By a vote of 86 to 0, it adopted an amendment by Jackson that would give the Congress 60 days in which to override any decision by the President to export oil.

Gives testimony

Probers demand tapes

(c) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — Senate investigators drew up a demand today for White House tape recordings of President Nixon's Watergate-related conversations, bugged by his own orders, to check charges that he took part in a coverup of the scandal.

One of the President's lawyers confirmed that Nixon's offices and telephones were bugged since early 1971 but a White House spokesman refused to say if any of the tapes would be provided to the Senate Watergate Committee.

The tapes presumably could verify or refute allegations by ousted Presidential Counsel John W. Dean III that Nixon knew of a coverup as early as last September and sanctioned hush-money payments to the wiretappers.

The man who revealed the placing of the bugs said he believed Nixon would use the recordings to defend himself from Dean's charges, asked if the tapes would be turned over to the committee, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald R. Warren replied, "I am not able to comment on that question."

The tapes apparently are stored in the White House or the basement of the adjacent Executive Office Building (EOB).

Sen. Howard Baker (R-Tenn.) declared the tapes were "enormously important" and said the committee should have access to them. He is the ranking Republican on the panel.

Samuel Dash, chief counsel to the committee, said he also wanted to examine tapes of conversations between the President and his two former top aides, John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. (Bob) Haldeman and former special counsel Charles W. Colson.

If Dean's testimony is correct, the President discussed executive clemency for E. Howard Hunt, a leader of the spy squad, with Ehrlichman and Colson. Haldeman, according to Dean, was present when Nixon said raising $1 million to silence the defendants would be "no problem."

The senate panel was scheduled to meet tomorrow morning to review a staff-prepared request for seizure of tapes that could provide vital evidence in the Watergate inquiry.

The committee today recalled Herbert W. Kalmbach, the President's personal attorney, for questioning about how he handled $225,000 in secret payments for the seven Watergate defendants last July and August on orders from Dean and Ehrlichman. Kalmbach said yesterday he did not know whether the money was part of a plan to silence the defendants and conceal White House involvement in the bugging of Democratic Headquarters.

The existence of the tapes was disclosed yesterday in dramatic testimony by Alexander P. Butterfield, former deputy assistant to the President who is now head of the Federal Aviation Administration.

Butterfield said sensitive listening devices were placed in the chief executive's oval office, his hideaway in the Executive Office Building and in the cabinet room. Telephone tapes were put on the President's phones in these two offices and on phones at his camp David (Md.) retreat and in the Lincoln sitting room in the executive mansion.

"They were installed, of course, for historical purposes, to record the President's business," said Butterfield, insisting that the purpose was to make precise records available "for posterity," the Nixon library.

No listening devices were installed, however, at the President's San Clemente (Calif.) home or his Key Biscayne (Fla.) home, Butterfield said, acknowledging that this might present "quite a gap" to scholars.

Republican and Democratic members of Congress reacted with shock to the disclosure the President had been taping conversations and telephone calls in the hallowed oval office.

Johnson upheld in 'bug smear'

By United Press International
A top assistant to President Lyndon B. Johnson said Monday the charge that bugging devices were used extensively at the Johnson White House was "an outrageous smear."

But David Halberstam, who won the Pulitzer Prize for his coverage of the Vietnam War, said several people had told him they felt Johnson sometimes recorded their conversations. George Reedy, Johnson's former press secretary, said he did not know if bugging devices were used by Johnson.

J. Fred Buzhardt, counsel to President Nixon, told the Senate Watergate committee in a letter Monday that Johnson had installed listening devices at the White House similar to those used by Nixon. His statement came shortly after Alexander P. Butterfield, a former White House aide, told

J. F. Buzhardt, the President's special counsel, said in a letter to the committee that the system "still in use" was similar to "that employed by the last administration of Lyndon B. Johnson."

A spokesman for the U. S. Secret Service denied the agency had operated a similar system for the late President Johnson. Joseph Califano, a special assistant to Mr. Johnson and a prominent Democrat, also denied the ex-president had the white house "wired for sound."

the committee about bugging practices at the Nixon White House.

Joseph A. Califano, a top aide to Johnson, said Buzhardt's charge was "an outrageous smear on a dead President." He said, "The White House was not wired for sound," and Johnson opposed all bugging.

However, Califano said there was the capability to record telephone conversations in Johnson's office.

Demo raps practice of taping

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern called the White House practice of taping conversations with President Nixon an "invasion of privacy," but Sen. Barry Goldwater said he saw nothing wrong with it.

Their comments set the boundaries Monday for reaction to testimony at the Senate Watergate committee hearings that taping White House conversations was routine. Former White House aide Alexander P. Butterfield said the recordings were made for historical purposes.

"I do not think it's improper for the President to record conversations for historical purposes," Goldwater said. "I myself have a similar device on my telephone."

"I use it very seldom, and I always tell the other party that I'm recording the conversation," the 1964 GOP presidential candidate said. The tapes of the conversations go to the University of Arizona with the rest of Goldwater's public papers.

Goldwater also said he was not surprised by the tapings. He said "long before Watergate" he met with Nixon at the White House and the next day "Jack Anderson had such a complete transcript of our conversation (in his column) that he must have had a recording of it."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he wanted to "think over" the implications of bugging presidential conversations. Most other Democrats voiced their displeasure at the practice.

Sen. Hugh Scott, the Republican leader, gave a terse "no comment, no comment at all" when asked what he thought of his conversation with Nixon being recorded.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., who as Republican National Chairman had many political conversations with the President, said he had no knowledge of the recordings.

"I'm glad I always nodded" (instead of speaking out) when talking to the President," Dole said jokingly.

McGovern, who was defeated by Nixon in last year's presidential race, said "I was startled at the preoccupation at capturing every word on tape."

Calling the practice an "invasion of privacy," McGovern said he had no reason to believe the practice had been carried out under any previous administration.

McGovern said he has not been in the Oval Office since the Johnson administration and had not talked with the President on the telephone.

Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., said he thought a visitor or the telephone caller ought to know he is being recorded.

No 'beeper'

(c) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — The Federal Communications Commission and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. both say it is illegal for President Nixon to tape record his telephone calls without a "beeper" to notify the other party he or she is being taped.

But the violation involves only the tariff regulations of the telephone company approved by the FCC, and not the criminal law.

The usual penalty, a telephone company spokesman said, is to demand a halt to the beeper-free taping, or, in extreme cases, to remove the phone.

"I don't know what we would do in the case of the white house," said the spokesman.

Tapes could give answers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former FBI agent's sense of professional curiosity triggered the remarkable revelation that all of President Nixon's conversations in his offices here were recorded starting with the spring of 1971. Transcripts of the tapes, whose existence was unknown to the Senate Watergate Committee, may ultimately answer the question of whether President Nixon knew about the Watergate coverup.

Testimony about the recordings was given to the committee's investigators at a routine interview Friday by Federal Aviation Administration chief Alexander P. Butterfield, a former aide to ex-White House chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman.

Haldeman, another of his assistants, Lawrence Higby, Dwight Chapin, the President's former appointments secretary, and Butterfield were among a select few who knew of the recordings.

But Samuel Dash, chief counsel to the Watergate Committee, says Haldeman and Higby failed to inform investigators of the tapes when they were questioned by the staff.

Only Donald G. Sanders and two other lower level committee investigators were present last Friday in the windowless "secure" room when Sanders decided to ask Butterfield whether there was a substantive record of the President's meetings.

As Sanders recalls it, "I had in my mind what John Dean had said about the President moving to a corner of the office, the inference being there was a recorder." Sanders is a silver-haired veteran of the FBI who now serves as chief counsel to the House Internal Security Committee, cannot even recall his reaction or the exact words Butterfield used in explaining the massive recording system.

But the news was reported to Dash, (Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C.; Vice Chairman Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., and for once nothing about the matter leaked to the press.

"That was held pretty closely," recalled Dash Monday after Butterfield's bombshell testimony. "At least we can keep something for a couple days."

Fire conditions worsen in Idaho

United Press-International
A worse than average fire season may be at hand in Idaho with increased lightning storms, higher temperatures and greater drought, Bureau of Land Management and forest officials report.

Fire control experts indicate the fire season is as much as one month ahead of last year in most places, and there appears to be a similar pattern in other northwestern states.

The fire control officer in the state director's office of the BLM, Don Snyder, said Monday that since the first of this year there have been 138 statistical fires which have burned 61,316 acres of BLM land. Last year by this time there were only 100 statistical fires which scorched 39,420 acres.

Snyder said, "I think we can attribute this to drought conditions. Temperatures have been higher, and the incidents of lightning are greater this year."

The Boise Intergency Fire Center, which sends men on firefighting missions throughout the country, is having a normal summer season so far, according to Reed Burkholder, situation communicator for the BIFC.

He said last week was the worst for fire conditions so far this year with blazes raging in Idaho as well as in Wyoming, Montana, Nevada and Northern California.

Near 600 acres burned in the Teton National Forest, 330 in the Payette National Forest and several in the Boise National Forest, the latter which was hit by many spot fires caused by lightning.

Burkholder said, "Fires have not yet this year been too far out of control. All you can predict is that there will be more fires."

He said one report from Montana fire officials said that the fire season there has advanced to the mid-August stage. "They said it's as bad or worse than most Augusts there."

Boise National Forest Fire Control Officer Gordon Stevens said burning conditions are well ahead of most years. "We are finding rates of spread pretty much what we'd expect for mid-August. We feel that our light winter and lack of spring moisture gives us a pretty strong indication of a strong fire season."

There were 26 separate lightning-caused fires during the weekend in the Boise National Forest. So far this season 600 acres have burned.

"We seem to be part of a pattern throughout the northwest," Stevens added. "Montana through Oregon, Washington and Idaho. We have suffered from a drying period this spring, and we had a light winter."

Salmon National Forest Fire Dispatcher Bill Wing said the fire danger is quite high. "We have had 14 fires so far this season, about the same as last year."

"But conditions are much worse this year, with less moisture," Wing said. "We haven't had much lightning, but I guess we're about due." Some 36 acres of timber in the steep mountain area have burned this year.

Main Staff Officer Mike Wright on the Payette National Forest at McCall said the fire season is just beginning there, but one blaze at Victor Lake already burned more than 300 acres.

And that was man-caused. "This year the area is dryer than normal and the temperatures are higher—in the 80s," he said.

Wright added, "Man-caused fires can be extremely expensive. And it costs us recreation land as well as money."

Idaho ed board considers U of I leaving Big Sky

BOISE (UPI)—The State Board of Education today discussed whether the University of Idaho should be allowed to leave the Big Sky Athletic Conference and join the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

The board previously discussed the item but did not come up with a permanent answer to the question.

Monday, the board meeting at the Boise State College campus, voted to reduce faculty members' salaries by the amount they receive while serving in the state legislature. The motion made by board member A. L. (Butch) Alford, Lewiston, allows faculty to take leaves of absence while the legislature meets.

Alford said the motion was not intended to deprive a faculty member-legislator of the income for his family. Currently, a faculty member is given leave of absence but deprived of his salary during the legislative term. Alford, who read a list of the occupations found in the legislature, said professors serving in the legislature are in danger of becoming "second class citizens" because of their elective offices.

The board asked the Office of Higher Education to review legislative reimbursements and salaries before a determination is made on what will be deducted from the educators' pay.

In other action, State Board President John Swartley refused to hear "crying and tears" from representatives of three state education entities presenting budget proposals for 1974-75.

He told the spokesmen that there "is no pump here to handle the tears" at the meeting Monday. He said the board wanted specific information—rather than explanations of the proposed programs.

Bill Swanson, associate director of vocational education, said a $7.65 million budget, increased by 7.4 per cent over this fiscal year, would meet the status quo needs of his agency.

The state School for the Deaf and Blind said $1.2 million would provide a status quo budget, but an additional $68,262 would meet needs of continuing programs. Vocational rehabilitation said $4.9 million would cover the status quo budget, while $5.92 million would provide expansion of services for the disabled and drug and alcohol addiction programs.

Attorney general to check union charges

BOISE (UPI)—The attorney general's office says it will look into allegations of improper use of equipment and manpower in the Idaho State University Maintenance Department.

Attorney General W. Anthony Park met Monday with ISU President William E. Davis. Park said Davis agreed it would "be healthy" to have a third party investigate earlier allegations made by members of the Pocatello Local of the American Federation of Teachers (AFT)—an affiliate of the AFI-CIO.

ISU earlier conducted an investigation into the matter which resulted in disciplinary measures. However, no one was fired.

The AFT local charged that department personnel misused public tax money. An AFT report said abuses include misuse of funds and harassment of employees.

Food in short supply to be taken from freeze

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House has voted to give the agriculture secretary power to take off the freeze in prices on any foods which are in short supply.

The surprise action came Monday without debate on a voice vote as the House considered the omnibus farm bill.

Under the amendment, offered by Rep. Harold V. Feroelich, R-Wis., action to boost controlled wholesale or retail food prices could be triggered if the agriculture secretary told the President that the supply of a particular item would be reduced to less than a certain level if it were kept under a freeze.

Once the President had that certification he would be compelled to make "appropriate adjustments" in price regulations for any items covered by the certification of an existing or threatened shortage.

Feroelich told newsmen he was "very surprised" no other congressman rose to debate this amendment before it was approved.

However, Rep. Charles M. Teague, R-Calif., ranking Republican member on the House Agriculture Committee, indicated the matter was handled routinely because "frankly, I think something like this (to allow increases in food prices) will be in Phase IV."

Feroelich said he believed his amendment was needed because shortages of meat, poultry and other items are developing under the current price freeze.

Administration officials have indicated some increases in retail and wholesale prices will be permitted in Phase IV so that increases in raw farm product costs can be fully or partially passed on to consumers.

California mass murder trial conducted secretly

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)—Reinforced with a ruling from the California Supreme Court, selection of a jury in the trial of accused mass murderer Herbert W. Mullin goes on today in unprecedented secrecy.

"The public's right to know had to give a little because of the nature of the case and the questions being asked," said Superior Court Judge Charles Franich after the supreme court decision Monday that upheld the closed-door sessions being used for the first time in the state.

The court denied a petition by Attorney General Evelle Younger without comment in San Francisco.

Younger had gone to the state's highest court after the California Court of Appeal had turned down his request for an order to allow the public and news media into proceedings in Judge Franich's 20-by-20 foot chamber.

Franich ordered the secret selection at the request of Mullin, defense attorney James Jackson and District Attorney Peter Chang.

"The reason, he explained, was the nature of questions to prospective jurors about their attitudes to homosexuality and mental illness. Mullin, 26, a former high school honor student who dropped out of college to turn on to drugs, is accused of slaying 10 persons in this coastal community in a three-week spree early this year. He has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to the charges.

Twelve prospective jurors have been seated after the first week of questioning behind closed doors, but some face further examination. Alternates also remain to be chosen.

After he was told of the supreme court decision, Franich said: "It was a satisfaction to be right but it's just one of those things. I have always thought reasonable men have a right to differ."

"I assume this is the end of it and we will proceed as usual."

Auto firms, unions talk

DETROIT (UPI)—United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock, having provided General Motors with a basic outline of his union's demands Monday, moved over to Ford today to open negotiations with the No. 2 auto company.

The UAW chief will complete the largely ceremonial functions Wednesday at Chrysler. American Motors, smallest of the major auto companies, has a contract that does not expire until September, 1974.

After the handshakes are completed, bargainers for the three companies and the union begin the serious talk aimed at reaching contract agreements for more than 700,000 auto workers before current three-year pacts expire at 11:59 p.m. Sept. 14.

Three years ago at GM a contract was agreed to only after the UAW closed the world's largest automaker for 67 days. In 1967, the UAW selected Ford as the target company and staged a 66-day strike before gaining a pattern-setting agreement.

George Morris Jr., GM's vice president for industrial relations, said Woodcock's one-hour presentation provided "no surprises" and didn't dampen the company's optimism that a non-inflationary contract can be reached without a strike.

Woodcock, admitting "it's traditional on opening day to say we're going to work everything out," added the statements Monday were more than just traditional. They continued the optimism expressed by the UAW since the pre-bargaining give-and-take began earlier this year.

"The danger of a strike is always there, however," Woodcock cautioned, naming two issues that could lead to a strike—voluntary overtime and health and safety problems in the auto industry.

Nader blames Nixon for high meat prices

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ralph Nader said today increased prices for meat, dairy products and poultry are partly due to President Nixon's bid for the corn belt vote in the 1972 election.

Nader said that in late 1971, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz launched a $600 million subsidy increase to reduce the 1972 feed grain crops "in order to prop up the incomes of corn belt voters in time for the 1972 elections."

"The plan succeeded in garnering 67-70 per cent of the farm vote for President Nixon," Nader said. "Some frauds are so large that no one notices them."

In a statement prepared for delivery to the House monopolies subcommittee, Nader said "this vote was purchased at the expense of consumers everywhere, as short supplies bid up the prices of feed grain and fueled the escalation of super-market prices for meat, poultry, and dairy products which had been initiated by the corn blight of 1970."

The consumer crusader said that the continuation of the farm program was indefensible because the benefits of subsidies and price supports "go primarily to the larger farmers who need them least."

He added "through various combinations of direct subsidy payments to farmers and allotments and other inducements to set aside land from cultivation, the prices of wheat, feed grain, cotton, milk, sugar, peanuts, rice, tobacco, wool, and even tung nuts are maintained above competitive market levels."

"The inflated feed grain prices translate directly into higher prices for meat, poultry, eggs, and dairy products," he added.

Nader said that in addition to the price support programs, marketing orders and agricultural co-ops "inflate the price of milk, tomatoes, celery, and other vegetables, fruits, and nuts."

Nader suggested the "food bill could be cut by billions" by effectively implementing unit pricing, percentage ingredient labeling, quality grade labeling and nutritional labeling.

Consumer aid office reorganized

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) today announced a major reorganization of its consumer protection office in a move it said was designed to better guard the public against unfair and deceptive business practices.

FTC Chairman Lewis A. Engman said the realignment was prompted by a court decision last month which reaffirmed the agency's power to issue rules governing a wide range of business operations. That rule making power had been in doubt for more than a year because of a lower court ruling which said the FTC had no such authority.

GM brakes bring recall

DETROIT (UPI)—Potential brake problems on 8,900 cars and trucks—all 1973 models—have prompted General Motors to begin recall campaigns for the vehicles.

No accidents or injuries have been reported as a result of the brake conditions, a GM spokesman said Monday, and owners are being notified by certified mail to bring the vehicles to dealers for free inspection and repair.

There are two separate problems, one affecting 3,100 intermediate size vehicles built at the Fremont, Calif., assembly plant and equipped with manual brakes. The other affects 5,800 medium-duty trucks equipped with 366 or 427 cubic inch engines with power steering and hydraulic brakes.

In each case, either a missing part or improper positions of the brake line could result in a loss of brake fluid and the eventual loss of front wheel braking.

44 will attend camp for 11 days

TWIN FALLS — The 44 Idaho children who will attend Camp Easter Seal this year will enjoy camp sessions for 11 days rather than three days as reported in Sunday's Times-News.

Five young people from the Magic Valley will attend, including two attendants. They are Grant Jacobsen, Shoshone, assisted by Martin Kidner; Rex Wilson, Buhl; and Robert Plankey, Twin Falls, assisted by Phil Mueller, Twin Falls.

Merle Stoddard, director of the Twin Falls Easter Seal Center, said original plans had been to limit those attending to 34 because of a lack of funds for more, but it was decided to allow the larger number to attend and hope funds could be attained from interested residents of Idaho.

The campers will learn outdoor camping fun and skills and how to enjoy the company of other children.

Anyone interested in helping with the camping program should contact Mrs. Stoddard or the Twin Falls Easter Seal Center.

tricks if West held four diamonds to the king. He also saw that at least four tricks were sure against all 3-2 breaks and against four diamonds held by East irrespective of the location of the king provided he refused the diamond finesse and played his ace.

The play would cost him a trick if East held two or three to the king, but the trick lost would not be the contract trick. George led a diamond and went up with the ace. The king dropped and now George was able to score five diamond tricks by leading through East's diamonds.

George made an overtrick. The other declarers tried the diamond finesse and went down at least one trick.

Here is another instance of an expert declarer picking up a singleton king. The hand was played by George Raape of New York in the trials for the 1969 North American team. George, who has the best team record over the last 20 years of all American players, makes a habit of finding the best play for his contract.
He won the first trick with dummy's nine of spades. Then he saw that four diamond tricks would give him his contract. He saw no way to get those four

Chastity not violated

I think these male doctors are unfair and have no regard for a girl's feelings. I wonder why the male doctors require examinations and the woman doctor didn't? Is it male chauvinism, or greed for the extra examination fee?
WONDERING IN TOPEKA

DEAR WONDERING: A pelvic and breast examination by a male physician will in no way violate your chastity. Furthermore, medical authorities tell me that it's considered risky to prescribe the pill without having examined the patient, because not all women can use the pill safely. Most doctors, male and female, confer and take no chances.

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating a lovely widow for over three years. While dating her, I also dated a couple of divorcees. Without going into detail, let me just say I did more than hold hands with all three of these ladies.

For the last few months I've been dating the widow exclusively, and we are seriously considering matrimony. She is very inquisitive, and knowing that I have dated the two divorcees, she keeps quizzing me about the relationships.

In fact, she presses me for the most intimate details. Must I reveal everything this woman wants to know? We aren't kids. We are both in our fifties. Rush your answer to me and I'll abide by your advice.
SETTLING DOWN

DEAR SETTLING: What went on between you and the other ladies in your life is none of her business. Tell her you'd no more consider disclosing what went on between you and THEM than what went on between you and HER. That should settle it.

DEAR ABBY: I've a 70-year-old sister with whom I've been estranged for many years. She became widowed (for the second time) a few months ago. She has written to say that she and her 50-year-old son, who is extremely obnoxious, are coming to visit me and my wife.

This sister visited us 20 years ago and I'll never forget it. She made such a row that I had to call the police and have her forcibly evicted.

Frankly, this sister is not normal in the head and she makes trouble wherever she goes. I've discussed this with my wife, and she wants no part of my sister or her son.

I intend to consult a lawyer who will send a registered letter to my sister, telling her that she is not welcome here, and advising her that there are protective laws for persons who do not want to be molested by undesirable relatives.

Will you please let me know if you think this is advisable and effective? Or have you perhaps some other suggestion that would accomplish the same end?
CANADIAN

DEAR CANADIAN: You know Sister better than I do. Let your lawyer handle it.
Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 6998, L. A., Calif. 90028. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Cassia wants tot program

BURLEY — Several area residents met with Cassia County school trustees Monday night to urge formation of a kindergarten program in the district.

Public kindergartens which had operated in the district for the last two years with funds from the federal public employment program and grants from Title I, were discontinued this year following loss of the funds.

The board gave Supt. Harold Blauer authority to set up a program if it can be supported without the use of district funds.

In an earlier proposal, the board set an $18 monthly fee per student for kindergarten programs to be set in operation if enrollment was high enough to cover the costs.

Bauer said at the meeting Monday night that only 23 students have signed up and these were spread widely throughout the district.

A delegation from Oakley said they could have 11 students sign up, although only three had registered at that point. Jim Hanzel, Springdale, said he could "guarantee" 25 students from the Declo-Springdale area for the program.

If 25 to 30 students would sign up from the Declo-Springdale area, Blauer said, a program could be established there and Burley students could attend that program.

School attorney Herman Bedke said the 26 acres of land northeast of the Burley High School had been purchased from Edward Elliott for $95,000 with approximately $300 for title insurance.

Bedke said stipulations in the contract would require retention of water rights and construction of a fence around a pasture and garden adjacent to the land and would prohibit the opening of 14th Street to automobile traffic.

Educational specifications for the new school were presented by instructional supervisor Norman Hust, who said the main concerns were adequate vocational education space and, if allowed in the budget, an auditorium large enough to seat the entire student body.

Architect William Richardson was instructed to begin work on preliminary drawings for the school.

Final drawings for the new Raft River auditorium were presented by Richardson and approved by the board. Bidding documents will be prepared for presentation at the next board meeting July 30.

First draft schematic drawings for the new Declo Elementary School and gymnasium were presented and discussed.

An option form has been given to Mrs. Sam Richardson and price named for eight acres of land east of the present school site for construction of the elementary school, Blauer said, but the board has not yet received an answer.

Burley realtor Bruce Young requested that the school board sell three acres of sagebrush land southwest of Millia DeLong to the district.

Bedke and Matt Warr, clerk of the district, are currently locating, describing and getting appraisals on small parcels of land owned by the schools throughout the district. When this project is completed, the board decided, the bid dates will be set for the property.

Burley slates manager vote

By BOB SCHLEEF
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Bowing to public pressure, the Burley City Council Monday agreed to permit an election to determine whether the city should adopt a city manager form of government.

The council took its action unanimously after receiving petitions with nearly 700 names requesting the election. Burley currently has a mayor-council municipal government. The election will be Sept. 5.

The petitions were presented by Norval D. Wildman, chairman of the Citizens Action committee, who asked the council to call the election to see whether the city manager form of government should be adopted.

Wildman said "We want the people to decide whether to continue under the present system or change. Through the use of news media, we want to educate people about both types of government, so that when they go to the polls they will be able to make an informed choice. We want to give the people unbiased views of both forms of city government," he said.

Wildman also said that he hoped thenumber of signatures presented would carry some weight with the council. He said that even though not every signature was properly certified and notarized, all are those of qualified voters and residents of Burley. He said not everyone who signed favored a change, but all thought the people should be heard.

If a change is approved, all council seats will be open in the fall election. Of the seven councilmen elected, the four receiving the largest number of votes will serve four year terms and the remaining three will serve for two years. One councilman would be designated mayor by the council which would hire the city manager.

TF belt route meet set

TWIN FALLS — Plans for a belt route around the city of Twin Falls will be discussed in a public meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at the College of Southern Idaho.

The session will be held in the mini-auditorium of the college's Vocational Arts Building.

In a preliminary meeting on July 9, a project engineer said the belt route is proposed in a one-half mile wide corridor about two and one-half miles from the city limits.

He said a four-lane expressway will probably be constructed in the corridor. The meeting tonight is geared toward public input and, according to county commissioner Merl Leonard, could decide the fate of the belt route "concept."

The engineer said the belt route has two primary purposes: Relief of congestion in the downtown business district by collecting and distributing traffic and providing a bypass for traffic not wishing to enter the business district.

The belt route plan is considered one project of many in a total transportation plan, he added.

Gooding lease ownership may be settled in court

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News writer

GOODING — The question of who owns a lease at the Gooding airport may have to be resolved in court.

The Gooding City Council decided that no farming of any kind by anyone be allowed at the airport property, subject to further approval of the council. The prohibition was approved despite a clause in a lease held by Craig Muchow that gave him "the right to till land."

Muchow leases portions of the airport property from the city for use as a drag strip.

Earl Kelly, manager of the airport, also has a lease for much of the same property. His lease states the land is to be used for "aviation purposes."

Kelly met with the council two weeks ago to request that he also be allowed to farm at the airport on some of the land already leased to Muchow.

Muchow charged at a special meeting July 6 that the city had leased the same property two

At Monday's council meeting, Kelly attended to ask what had been worked out between the city attorney and Muchow. He was told by city attorney Cecil Hobbey that there are not two leases on the same property and that his lease limits him to operation of the airport and does not include farming.

Mayor Harley Crippen angrily told Kelly "you can take it as is, or you get an attorney and we will go to court. I'm through arguing."

Kelly retorted that he could start charging Muchow for his land because "I have a prior lease on the land and Muchow can lower the boom on the city." He charged the city with attempting to sub-lease from him.

In a heated exchange the mayor threatened "we will kick them both off if we have to."

In other council action, Mayor Crippen reported that at the year's midpoint the city's revenue was $210,970.

Anticipated revenue at budget time was $420,643.

Crippen said the budget should be pretty close to available revenue. The council also requested that citizens refrain from burning garbage within the city limits.

On a motion by Councilman Paul Ostyn, the city returned the lease to the airport commission for "further negotiations" with the car rental firms.

The council also:

— heard the first reading of an amendment to mobile home water and sewer rates. The amendment would switch mobile homes from commercial to residential rates and make two mobile home living spaces equivalent to one residential household in computing monthly charges (that is, each mobile home would pay one-half the monthly residential rate).

— approved curb and gutter deferrals for the Swanson Co. on Highland Avenue East and the Grace Baptist Church on Eastland Avenue.

— referred a request by Hughes Airwest for a new "route designation" to the South Idaho Regional Airport Authority (SIRAA). Airwest has asked that their schedule list air service to Twin Falls, Sun Valley, Burley and Rupert rather than Twin Falls alone. Twin Falls City Manager Jean Milar said the new listing would allow Airwest to "point out" that it serves Sun Valley, a lucrative market area for air service.

Hot wires

BURNING electric wiring behind Cain's Furniture and Appliance Store, 204 Main Ave. N., Monday was caused by an overloaded power conductor. The resultant outage was corrected by changing wiring, and no damage to property occurred, according to Grant Turner, service foreman for Idaho Power Co. A brief power outage this morning on the presidential avenues and Main Avenue West was created by "unknown causes," Turner said, and was repaired by a change in switching.

Shoshone coach resigns

SHOSHONE — The resignation of Dan Gillett as high school basketball coach and science teacher was accepted at the Shoshone School Board meeting Monday night.

Gillett said he accepted a position in Blaine County.

Supt. Kenneth Crothers said this is the only vacancy for the Shoshone teaching staff at this time.

Three new teachers hired include Mrs. Mary Ann Raneles, Pocatello; for English and Spanish in the high school; Roxney Pruet, Bliss, junior high school coach, science and math, and Ray James, Boise, music for elementary and secondary schools.

Changes in the student handbook, presented by Principal John Meeks, were adopted. The changes refer to attendance, changing the reporting system from six to nine weeks with a mid-term progress report, allowing early graduation for high school seniors and a drug education program for the junior high school. Seniors, with approval, may graduate at the end of the first semester of their senior year.

Requests for improvement in equipment and the supervision program for use of the gymnasium for non-school activities were made by Ed Sandy, athletic director.

A review of the building inspection report made by the Idaho Department of Labor was presented by Crothers. Most of the recommendations dealt with minor electrical changes, such as ground wires from water coolers, a boiler inspection and exit signs in both school buildings.

The board will meet next Monday night to review revisions in the school policy manual.

Minico dumping costs same

RUPERT There is still a charge for dumping at the Minidoka County sanitary landfill.

The county commissioners recently told the Rupert City Council that they are considering dropping the charge, cutting city charges in half and relying on the mill levy for costs at the landfill.

The change, however, is still in the planning stages and the fees are still in effect.

August Bethke, Minidoka County clerk, said several requests have been made by citizens recently who thought the charge had been dropped.

Sewer bills sought

HANSEN — Delinquent sewer bills of Hansen residents will be sent to a collection agency.

The decision was made at a meeting of the Hansen Sewer and Water Improvement Association Board of Directors Monday night.

Prisoners still loose

BOISE (UPI) — Two Idaho State Penitentiary inmates who walked away from the Eagle Island Prison Farm were still on the loose Monday.

The Ada County sheriff's office said John D. Larson, 30, Bannock County, serving a first degree murder sentence, and Richard Lobusch, 28, Jerome County, serving time for first degree burglary, were last seen about 3:05 a.m. Sunday.

Mayor reported 'good'

BURLEY — Burley Mayor Garis Robertson was reported in good condition Monday evening at the LDS Hospital in Salt Lake City.

Robertson suffered what doctors termed a "mini-stroke" on July 10. A vein in one side of his neck was unclogged in surgery Monday. Robertson is scheduled for similar surgery on the other side of his neck Thursday.

Gary Swan named athletic director in Minidoka

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

RUPERT — After adopting a change in board policy, the Minidoka County School Board Monday night named Gary Swan new athletic director for the district.

Previous policy required that the athletic director not be head coach of any high school sport, but the board dropped that stipulation in a unanimous motion. Swan is head football coach at Minico High School.

The board has been discussing possible replacements for the former director, Edward Schenk, vice principal of Minico High School, since he resigned last March.

Another board policy change brought up for discussion by Asst. Supt. Doyle Lowder would require attendance at two-hour semester examinations according to their averages for students who had missed a certain number of school days.

The new policy, which adopts a "very negative approach because it rewards attendance with exemption from a test," according to Lowder, is an effort to bring up the average daily attendance (ADA) levels to that of enrollment.

State funds are allotted to each district on the basis of the ADA level and, especially in the secondary schools, that level is decreasing while enrollment is increasing, Lowder said.

The reason for the decrease is that students are taking full advantage of the 44 days allowed according to state board stipulations each semester for excused absences. The policy change is suggested to change that attitude, he said.

The absenteeism could cost the district $80,000 in state revenue during the next year, Lowder said.

Board decision on the change was tabled until a July 30 meeting when Supt. Darrell Hatfield would be present. He is currently on vacation.

Other policy changes discussed included the requirement of "travel expense vouchers" to be made out by all employees and groups using school funds for travel, paying teachers on probation no increase in salary until removed from that status, and adding preparation and cleanup time to charges for gymnasium use by non-profit organizations.

Minico High School may be able to connect its sewer lines into the Rupert system to alleviate current sewer problems at the school, Lowder told the board.

The septic tanks at the school fill up about every two weeks during the school year and the Environmental Protection Agency has given the district until October to clean up the system, Lowder said.

Lowder said he met with Jim Felton, supervisor of the Rupert Lagoon, who said for a cost of probably not more than $150,000 the school could hook into the Rupert system. Felton said the system could handle the additional load because its peak use is in the summer when school is not in session.

Felton said he would discuss the matter with the city council. Lowder said an override levy would have to be set for September to finance the hook-up or the district would have to wait another year. "I'm not sure we can get by for a year" with the present system, he said.

Officials from the Yellowstone Boys Ranch in Montana, who are currently appraising the Idaho Youth Ranch, discussed a proposal for a new educational agreement between the ranch and the district with him, Lowder said.

Under the proposal, the ranch would discontinue its school, which is not accredited, and enroll qualified youths into the Minidoka County system.

Tuition would be paid by the boy's home district and all additional costs would be paid by the ranch, according to the proposal.

Each youth would be screened by the board to determine if he should enter the school and would set up curriculum, approve texts, and keep expense records for them.

If enrolled in the schools, a boy would have to remain at the ranch until the end of the school year, Lowder said.

Under the proposal, a liaison officer would drive the boys to school in a youth ranch bus, remain in the district during the day working with school officials, and drive the boys home at night. No decision will be made until the proposal is discussed with the ranch's board of directors and the school administration.

Bids for gasoline for the district were to be opened, but Lowder said none had been received. Standard Oil Co. is sending a bid, he said, but other firms have said they would not.

The board moved to accept the Standard Oil bid when received. It also accepted a bid for antifreeze from Firestone at $1.20 per gallon and a bid from Matlock for coal at $17.50 per ton.

Lowder said he and Dr. Hatfield felt only school buses should be filled from district gasoline tanks during the coming year since Standard Oil had indicated that the district would receive only 90 per cent of last year's total.

Other employees would use private transportation and be reimbursed for mileage, he said.

The board approved use of $450 from the capital outlay budget for the Paul grade school for a PTA project to construct a road in the rear of the school. In preliminary action, it accepted a proposal for donation of land to the Paul City Council for construction of tennis courts.

The board also agreed to oversee for one year a state vocational rehabilitation program, formerly located in Cassia County.

No decision was made on the plan to relocate about 90 students into Rupert from Heyburn, and into Tropic from Rupert to equalize enrollment in the schools.

Awards checked

SOME OF AWARDS to be presented Wednesday to winners in state youth horse judging program at Twin Falls County Fairgrounds, Filer, are examined by Alice Reed, of Idaho First National Bank, and Blaine Linford, Twin Falls, district extension supervisor for University of Idaho.

Horse judging contest set at Filer Wednesday

FILER — The Idaho youth horse judging state contest will be conducted Wednesday in the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds. Events will begin at 9 a.m. with 10 teams of four members each to enter from each of the four extension supervisory districts in Idaho. Morris Hemstrom of the University of Idaho, Moscow, will serve as judge for the 140 4-H Club members participating in the contest. Prizes to be awarded will include spurs, blankets, belt buckles, halters, bits and brushes. This is the second year the horse judging contests have been sponsored by the Idaho First National Bank.

Blaine Linford, Twin Falls, extension district supervisor of the university, stated the competition gives the club members the chance to judge horses and differs from 4-H fair events at which time the club members take their horses to be judged for trophies and ribbons. Contestants in six classes will be divided into the age groups of Juniors, intermediates and seniors. Awards will be presented on the basis of highest total scores within team and individual competition. Deadline for submitting entries was July 11, according to Alice Reed, chairman of the Twin Falls County Horse Council.

Good crop forecast

TOKYO (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Monday that a bumper crop of soybeans in the United States this autumn may end the need for export controls on soy shipments to Japan. A ban on soybean exports, announced by the United States on June 29, shocked Japan, where soy in the form of bean curd and sauce plays a major role in the nation's diet. Rogers said in a speech at the ninth session of the U.S.-Japan joint economic committee that the restrictions will not apply to the new soy bean crop due for harvest starting in September.

Gem bean acreage declines

Officials here and at common market headquarters in Brussels said every US embassy in Europe has received protests about the soybean curbs. In Paris, US Ambassador John Irwin gave major attention to soybeans in a speech to French diplomatic reporters. "Some Europeans have charged that this decision (curbing soybean and other farm exports) calls into question Europe's ability to count on the United States as a source of supply for vitally needed vegetable protein," Irwin said. His reply was "that these controls are an emergency response to an abnormal situation. The present world shortages are only temporary. Widespread droughts in parts of Africa and Asia and a rapid decline in Peruvian exports of fishmeal generated speculative pressures." Predictions from Washington of a 22 per cent increase in soybean acreage and a 9 per cent hike in corn acreage hopefully will convince Europeans the shortage is only temporary, an official said. After soybean prices tripled to $12 a bushel, the United States slapped licenses on exports last month, setting ceilings of 50 per cent for delivery on soybeans ordered by June 13 and 40 per cent for soybean meal. Worldwide demand for soybeans, a major animal feed, was putting American livestock farmers in a squeeze, causing some to cut back on unprofitable price-controlled production. This action to combat American inflation problems was a bombshell abroad.

Dick Allen is top choice in AL all-star balloting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dick Allen, the injured first baseman of the Chicago White Sox, was the top vote-getter in the annual poll to select the American League All Star starting team. Allen headed the list of five repeaters and three newcomers for the team which will oppose the National League stars July 25 in Kansas City.

Allen, who is sidelined by a leg injury, was joined by four other 1972 choices — outfielders Reggie Jackson of Oakland and Bobby Murcer of New York, second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota and the perennial third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore.

Making their first appearance in the All Star starting lineup will be catcher Carlton Fisk of Boston, outfielder Amos Otis of Kansas City and Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris.

Allen received 1,111,366 votes to lead all others, but his place in the starting lineup will probably be taken by John Mayberry of Kansas City who tallied only 798,111 votes.

The poll of fans produced a record 3,911,989 votes.

In the total voting, Fisk placed second to Allen and was the only other player to surpass the million mark in ballots cast. As a rookie a year ago, Fisk was an alternate choice to the squad, but this time his supporters named him on 1,069,885 ballots, far surpassing the 482,486 cast for Yankee Thurman Munson.

The closest battle was at second base, where Carew had to fight off the challenge of Cookie Rojas of Kansas City in eking out a margin of less than 4,000 votes. Carew, the league batting champion a year ago, got 947,923 to Rojas' 943,729.

For Brooks Robinson of the magic glove, it was the ninth consecutive starting selection. There was no question as to the fans' preference, with Robinson garnering 826,621 votes to White Sox runner-up Bill Melton's 644,321.

The pitchers will be named by AL manager Dick Williams of Oakland, and the National League starting team will be announced later today.

Broken jaw is costly to boxer

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI) — "Sure it hurts," said Earnie Shavers. "It hurts $100,000 worth."

Shavers, his jaws broken in a sparring session Sunday, will be hospitalized for at least a week, and his advisor, Archie Moore, has been fired by Earnie's manager.

"Moore went completely contradictory to my instructions," said Don King, who had masterminded Shavers into a possible $100,000 match with Jerry Quarry for July 25 at Madison Square Garden. "I told Moore not to use Jeff Merritt as a sparring partner, but he did."

According to King, Shavers complained at the end of the first round with Merritt that "my mouth is bleeding" and Moore did not remove the mouthpiece, but told Shavers "I don't see any blood, go ahead out there."

Shavers quit fighting in the middle of the second round and walked out of the ring to his dressing room, where he told Moore: "I think my jaw is broken."

Shavers had scored a sensational one-punch knockout of Jimmy Ellis to set up the rich clash with Quarry, but it will be at least six months before he can resume training. The injury is apparently much more severe than that suffered by Muhammad Ali in Ali's tussling effort to Ken Norton.

The Garden is trying to get Oscar Bonavena to replace Shavers against Quarry, and matchmaker Teddy Brenner was in Atlantic City today to attempt to close the match.

Foreman plans for first title fight

TOIYO (UPI) — World heavyweight champion George Foreman arrived in Tokyo tonight to make final arrangements for his first title defense against Joe "King" Roman of Puerto Rico on Sept. 1 at the Budokan Hall here.

Foreman said at Tokyo International Airport he had selected Tokyo for his first defense because Japan is one of the greatest boxing countries in the world.

"As the world champion I have to fight all over the world and Japan was my first choice," Foreman said.

Foreman showed displeasure when asked by Japanese reporters to compare himself with Muhammad Ali, who won a one-sided 15 round decision from Mac Foster on April 1 last year in Tokyo.

"I think it is offensive to compare me with a former champion," Foreman said.

"I am in pretty good condition right now although I have not started actual training," Foreman said, "but I will be ready by fight time to keep my title."

Asked if he was confident of knocking out Roman, Foreman said: "I will be there trying to knock him out in every round from the first to the 15th. I hope it will come as soon as possible."

Asked if he knew anything about Roman, Foreman said: "I had gathered he is a good fighter and would put up a good fight."

Foreman said he was very disappointed the World Boxing Association (WBA) has not yet approved the fight as a world championship match. He said Roman had defeated Terry Daniels and Digniel had had WBA sanction as challenger for Daniels' bout with then champion Joe Frazier.

Foreman won the title by knocking out Frazier in the second round last January in Kingston, Jamaica.

"I have a regard for WBA and I hope it will see its way to recognize Roman as a logical challenger," Foreman said.

The WBA had not sanctioned the match as a world title fight because Roman is not rated among the top ten contenders by the WBA.

Kotaro Kikuchi, executive secretary of the Japan Boxing Commission who was at the airport, said he had received word from the WBA that it will recognize the Sept. 1 fight as a world championship match. He said there are no weight limitations in the heavyweight class and the champion is risking his title each time he fights.

Dick Sadler, Foreman's trainer, said the World Boxing Council (WBC) had already sanctioned the fight as a world championship match and said "that is enough for us."

Duane Thomas told to leave

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) — Controversial running back Duane Thomas reported to the San Diego Chargers training camp Monday and was immediately suspended and told to return home to Dallas.

Coach Harland Sware said Thomas was 24 hours late and "no one is going to show up at camp anytime he wants."

The action came as a surprise as efforts have been underway for almost a year to get Thomas into camp to stay. Regarded as one of the top running backs in pro football, Thomas was acquired from Dallas last year for two players.

He visited the team several times last year but never signed a contract and never played. Last week, Chargers' executive counsel Ron Mix said he had reached an agreement with Thomas and a contract was to have been signed Sunday.

Kotaro Kikuchi, executive secretary of the Japan Boxing Commission who was at the airport, said he had received word from the WBA that it will recognize the Sept. 1 fight as a world championship match. He said there are no weight limitations in the heavyweight class and the champion is risking his title each time he fights.

Dick Sadler, Foreman's trainer, said the World Boxing Council (WBC) had already sanctioned the fight as a world championship match and said "that is enough for us."

U.S. is leading Israel in games

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israel and the United States assured themselves of a neck and neck finish Monday in the Ninth Maccabiah Games, with one day remaining in the 27-nation competition. At the end of the day's events in the Jewish version of the Olympics, the host contingent held 57 gold medals against 65 for the Americans. The United States widened its overall medals margin to 148-135, as compared with Sunday's lead of 125-121.

The two pacesetters also qualified themselves for the basketball finals Tuesday, with the U.S. beating Argentina 89-38 and Israel defeating Canada 112-70. The Americans led 39-17 at halftime, and their top scorer, Steven Greenberg of Kansas City, Mo., garnered 23 points.

Breaking the track and field monopoly enjoyed by the U.S. and Israel in Sunday's events, Australian Leonard Bogatin took the 400 meter dash in 48.77 seconds. His female teammates won the 1600 meter relay in 4:21.6 after Israel was disqualified for an illegal baton exchange.

Americans Russell Perlman of Massapequa Station, N.Y. Mitt Bresler of Birmingham, Ala., Kerry Gold of Woodland Hills, Calif., and Leon Grundstein of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, combined to capture the 1600 meters event for men in 3:16.6. Australia was second and Israel third.

Principal talks about house threat

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Ball High School Principal Jim Watson said Monday he received a warning in July, 1972, from football Coach Joe Woolley that his house might be burned down if he didn't go along with altering Oklahoma quarterback Kerry Jackson's transcript.

Watson, who became principal July 3, 1972, said Woolley came to him on July 6, 1972, and asked to have Jackson's class standing changed to show he was in the top 25 per cent of his class.

"I just flatly refused to do so," Watson said. "He said Woolley told him they would discuss the matter again."

The next day, Friday, July 7, Woolley came to my office with Coach Bill Michael from the University of Oklahoma and again asked that Kerry's transcript be changed or a cover letter written to improve his class standings," Watson said.

"I repeated that it couldn't be done," he said. "Woolley then made a veiled threat that Kerry had a couple of friends up on Postoffice Street and if they knew there was a man keeping Kerry from playing football at Oklahoma his house would be on fire in 30 minutes."

"He didn't actually say he was going to set my house on fire, but I look it as a veiled threat," Watson said.

Woolley would not comment on the allegations made by Watson.

"I'm not making any statements," he said. "I have turned everything over to an attorney."

Woolley admitted last April that he ordered Jackson's transcript changed to improve his grade and allow him to remain at Oklahoma. The Galveston school board demoted Woolley to a maintenance department job, but reinstated him on a 4-3 vote Wednesday. The reinstatement led to the resignation of Woolley's assistants.

The Sooners, ranked No. 2 at the end of the season last year, disclosed Jackson's transcript had been altered and they forfeited all eight games in which Jackson played.

Watson said he didn't mention the incident to school superintendent Eli Douglas because he thought the matter was closed. He said Woolley told him it actually wasn't necessary to change the transcript because Jackson could enter Oklahoma on a presidential scholarship.

Tunney denounces statements

NEW YORK (UPI) — California Sen. John V. Tunney, whose father made sports history when he won the heavyweight championship from Jack Dempsey almost 50 years ago, Monday denounced statements made by the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association against the Amateur Athletic Act which will soon be introduced before Congress.

Tunney and Senators James B. Pearson (Kansas), Marlow Cook (Kentucky), Mike Gravel (Alaska), and Strom Thurmond (South Carolina) represent the committee that prepared the omnibus bill calling for the creation of a federal Amateur Sports Board that will oversee American amateur competition, particularly in international events.

The AAU and the NCAA had charged that the bill would result in the regulation of amateur sports on every level, including college and high school programs.

"This is simply not true," said Tunney, who was representing the committee in presenting their joint statement. "The legislation explicitly refers only to 'unrestricted' or 'open' competition, eligibility for which is available to anyone."

"This is a package that is designed to protect athletes, not to start some kind of bureaucracy. I have the feeling that these men (at the AAU and NCAA) have lived in a cocoon for such a long time that they don't know what the real world is all about."

Idaho group favors boost

CHALLIS, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho Wildlife Federation has unanimously passed a resolution calling for increases in hunting and fishing licenses and tag fees.

James D. Felton, federation president, said the resolution was approved at the federation's board of directors' meeting this weekend at Challis.

The group will launch a drive today in an attempt to get the needed legislation passed during the 1974 session of the state legislature.

The federation hopes for an effective date of Jan. 1, 1975 for the proposed increases, Felton said.

Revolutionary type of back surgery is saving force for Atlanta Braves player

NEW YORK (UPI) — He was simply another patient being admitted into the hospital, male, 27, married, white.

Apart from the fact that he looked like an athlete, but dragged his leg when he walked, there was little to distinguish him from most other ambulatory patients his age.

He entered Sherman Hospital in Elgin, Ill., on Monday, June 4th, and surgery was performed on his back the next day.

Four days later, he strolled out of the hospital "feeling as good as new—even better" with only a band-aid on his back.

"It's unbelievable," says Norm Miller, who was the patient and is now back with the Atlanta Braves. "Six weeks ago I thought I was all through. I was in bad shape. How bad? My wife, Vicki, was eight months pregnant, she couldn't get out of bed and neither could I. The doctors in Atlanta said it was inevitable. I'd have to have back surgery."

If it was so, Norm Miller knew he might have to forget all about playing anymore baseball.

But he had this sudden brainstorm.

Somewhere he had read where Bill Melton, the White Sox "home run hitting" third baseman, had undergone a revolutionary type of back surgery. It had stuck in Miller's mind.

"I didn't know Bill Melton," says the Braves' outfielder who had been dealt to Atlanta by Houston the first week of the season. "I had never met him, but I called him on June 3rd. We were on the phone 30 minutes. Bill talked about his symptoms, and I found they were the same as mine. He told me about this fantastic operation that had been performed on him by a Dr. Lyman Smith of Elgin, Illinois, and how great he felt now."

That was all Norm Miller had to hear. He thanked Bill Melton for the information and figured what did he have to lose? He hadn't played an inning all year. All his statistics were the same — 000.

So he got in touch with Dr. Lyman Smith.

"Dr. Smith invented the procedure he used on me," says Miller. "I think the man's a genius. His theory is to make the whole thing as simple as humanly possible and he does. I had what they call a herniated disc. I couldn't straighten up and when I walked, I dragged my left leg.

"Instead of removing the disc by the usual back surgery, an enzyme was injected into the center of my fourth and fifth lumbar discs. The enzyme comes from papaya leaves and shrinks the discs, thereby relieving pressure from the nerves. The procedure is called chemonucleolysis."

Norm Miller sounds like a medical encyclopedia. What's more important, he not only walks normally now, but he can run, and he looks like a legitimate big leaguer again.

By his own count, Dr. Smith, 60, says Miller was the 7,563rd patient on whom he performed his procedure, which has yet to be passed on by the Food and Drug Administration. He's kidding about the figure, of course, but there is no kidding about the fact he has met success with approximately 90 per cent of those he operated on.

That's why his phone is always jumping off the hook. Everyone with a back problem is sure good old Doc Smith can cure him. Miller, being young, strong and otherwise healthy, was the ideal patient.

"I started to run eight days after the operation," he says. "It was the first time I could run since April 14th."

Until July 7, Miller had pinch hit three times without success. He met the ball each time, which was a trick in itself, but failed to get on.

On July 7 though, manager Eddie Mathews sent him up against the bases loaded against the Mets. Harry Parker walked Miller, forcing in what proved to be the winning run for the Braves.

Two nights later, with the score tied in the 10th and two men on in Philadelphia, Miller ripped a double which gave Atlanta the go-ahead run in a 6-3 victory. It was Miller's first base hit of the season and from the fuss all the Braves made over him when he got back to the dugout, you'd have thought he'd clinched the pennant for them.

Last Friday night was the big night, though.

Miller started his first game of the year in a nightcap with Montreal and had himself a perfect evening with a homer, single and sacrifice fly in a 13-6 runaway.

With a sound back and a .429 average, Norm Miller says he's never been happier in his life. Why not? Everything's dandy again. That goes for the entire Miller family — Papa, Mama, and Alyson, the new little baby girl.

Ski champ doesn't look like athlete

ATLANTA (UPI) — Liz Allan Shetter, the world's greatest woman water skier, sure doesn't look like an athlete.

A curvaceous 5-foot-2 with long, honey-colored hair and a girl-next-door freshness, Liz' only tale-tell clue to her profession is the strong upper back she has developed through many years of hanging on to a tow line.

Most of Liz' competitors look more the part, but it's been years since any woman has been able to out-ski her.

Liz', 22, married, and co-owner of a water ski school just outside Orlando, Fla., won her seventh women's Masters' championship in seven tries this past weekend. She first won that prestigious water ski tournament at Callaway Gardens (Ga.) back in 1966 when she was only 15 years old; made it five in a row before skipping the year she got married; and has won the past two years.

In 1969, at the ripe old age of 18, she won all the women events in the top three ski tournaments — her father, Col. Bill Allan of Winter Park, Fla., calls it "the only triple grand slam" — and her losses since have been rare.

Liz won the slalom and jump titles in this year's Masters but wound up fourth in tricks when she lost her balance and fell into the water at the start of her second run.

Most young athletes would have been downcast by such misfortune but Liz wasn't particularly concerned.

When Col. Allan rushed to dockside to console her after her fall, Liz flashed a big smile and said:

"Forget it dad, I'm tired of winning all the time."

An interesting point. How do you psyche yourself up for a tournament when the competition simply isn't at your level.

"It's hard," Liz Allan Shetter said softly. "I've even decided to quit several times, like I did in 1971 when I got married."

"But, I find myself improving during practice and the urge to better my own performances draws me back."

Liz' best challenge in this past Masters' came in the jumping event. Forget the tricks; she'd have won that in a waltz if she had stayed above the water.

Liz went into her final jump needing a 112-foot jump to tie for the lead. Maybe that doesn't sound like much, but the women's record at the Masters was 111 so she was being asked to break the record to even share the lead.

Her final jump was 113 feet, one foot shy of the world's record for women.

"That's Liz for you," Col. Allan said with a broad smile. "That's the way she's been coming through for years. Put the pressure on her, give her a goal to shoot at, and she puts it off."

Bubba Smith is traded to Oakland for Chester

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Bubba Smith, considered by many the best defensive end in the National Football League, was traded by the Baltimore Colts to the Oakland Raiders for tight end Raymond Chester Monday night.

The trade was the ninth by Baltimore general manager Joe Thomas since the end of this past season and once again it involved a player who has been critical of Thomas.

"The man (Thomas) messes with your mind and you can't mess with a football player's mind and expect him to perform to his maximum," Smith said recently in a national magazine article. "He wrote me a letter and said if I missed a treatment for my injured knee, he would fine me. Why did he send a letter? Why didn't he just tell me? Doesn't he think I have an understanding of what's good for me?"

Atlanta beats New York 8-6

ATLANTA (UPI) — Dusty Baker's two-run double highlighted a five-run Atlanta rally in the seventh inning Monday night and the Braves beat the New York Mets, 8-6, for their 10th victory in their last 12 games.

The Braves went into the seventh trailing, 6-3, but the Mets were unable to get an out until the seventh Atlanta batter of the inning.

Marty Perez, who had an inside-the-park home run in the third inning when Willie Mays was stunned by a collision against the centerfield fence, singled home the first run of the rally and a bases-loaded walk to Hank Aaron cut the margin to just one run. That brought up Baker, who doubled home the tying and go-ahead runs, and pinch-hitter Sonny Jackson capped the rally with a sacrifice fly, scoring Aaron.

The 42-year-old Mays had a double and a single until the seventh Atlanta batter of the inning.

Jim Panther, now 2-3, got the victory with 1-3 innings of relief while the loss was charged to starter Jerry Koosman, now 7-9.

Kansas City drills Detroit Tigers

DETROIT (UPI) — Paul Schaal and Amos Otis each homered and drove in three runs, Dick Drago pitched a six-hitter, and the Kansas City Royals went wild with five stolen bases enroute to an 10-2 drubbing of the Detroit Tigers Monday.

Schaal hammered his sixth home run of the season, two outs after Ed Kirkpatrick walked to start the second inning. Otis hit his 17th with two out in the third inning. Otis singled home two runs in the eighth and Schaal added his third RBI when he forced Lou Piniella in the ninth with a man on third.

Fred Patek stole three bases, the first of these after he walked to start the three-run fifth. He went to third on a ground out and that was an open invitation to walk Otis intentionally.

Lutz confers about injury

DEFENDING CHAMPION Bob Lutz talks with his wife Sharon from his hospital bed at Massachusetts General Hospital on Monday after he suffered a torn tendon in his right knee during a promotional match. Lutz has been forced to drop out of the $60,000 U.S. Professional Tennis championship at Longwood Cricket Club, Brookline, Mass. due to the injury. He will undergo surgery later in the week. Nobody is talking about why Brown is missing from camp

CARLEISLE, Pa. (UPI) — Larry Brown, named as the most valuable player in the National Football League last season, isn't at the Washington Redskins' training camp. But he and coach George Allen don't have much to say about why.

The attorney refused to discuss what Brown's problems were or when he would report to Dickinson College for the training camp. "We're just going to have to stick with that statement," Perazich said.

Allen refused to elaborate on his statement, issued through a spokesman, or to say whether Brown will be fined for each day he stays away from the camp.

Red Sox slip by White Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — Reggie Smith's second-homer of the game with two out in the 11th inning gave the Boston Red Sox a 9-8 win Monday night over the Chicago White Sox.

Brown was the leading rusher in the National Football Conference last season, gaining 1,216 yards on 285 carries, both new Redskins team records. He was the key to an offense that helped carry the Redskins to the NFC championship.

Smith tagged a pitch from New York's Acosta down the right field line for the sixth home run in the slugfest between the two teams.

Deaf player tries to make Cardinals

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Bonnie Sloan will cram his 8-5, 260-pound frame into his car Tuesday and head for Normal, Ill., in his quest to become the first totally deaf player to make a National Football League team.

Sloan, who was an all-Ohio Valley Conference selection as defensive tackle for Austin Peay State University in Clarksville, Tenn., will go to the St. Louis Cardinals' pre-season training camp.

He was chosen in the 10th round of the draft by St. Louis. "I know I can make it," Sloan said in his halting voice. "I am going to be the first one."

Houston edges Montreal 6-5

HOUSTON (UPI) — Tommy Helms hit a sacrifice fly in the bottom of the 10th inning to score Bob Watson and give the Houston Astros 6-5 victory over the Montreal Expos Monday night.

Watson had led off the inning by bouncing a double off the left-centerfield wall and moved to third on Doug Rader's sacrifice. Rader was safe at first when loser Tom Walker (3-4) threw too late to third to try to get Watson. Lee May was walked intentionally to get to Helms. Helms hit a line drive to Mike Jorgensen to left field to drive in the winning run.

Chip champ

BEAVER, Okla. (UPI) — Gov. David Hall of Oklahoma is the 1973 cowchip-throwing champion in the politician's class. He threw a flat, rounded chip of cow manure 10 feet to win the event.

St. Louis nips San Francisco

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A run-scoring single by Joe Torre and the five-hit pitching by right-hander Bob Gibson carried St. Louis to a 3-2 victory over San Francisco Monday night bringing the Cardinals to within a game and a half of the idle Chicago Cubs.

The victory boosted Gibson now 9-9 into a tie with the Giants' Juan Marichal with the most career victories for active major leaguers. The two stars have 234 career victories.

Leftfielder Lou Brock ignited the rally with a base hit off the glove of third baseman Ed Goodson. A sacrifice by Ted Sizemore moved Brock to second and Joe Torre followed with his game-winning blow. Bobby Bonds wasted little time reaching Gibson in the first inning. The Giant right-fielder singled on the first pitch and stole second on the second pitch. Tito Fuentes sacrificed Bonds to third and Gary Maddox delivered a run-scoring single. Torre made it 1-1 with a one out solo homer in the fourth inning. The homer was Torre's eighth of the year but only his eighth in Busch Memorial Stadium. It was also St. Louis' first homer over a newly-constructed 10-foot inner fence.

Dodgers blank Pittsburgh 1-0

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Don Sutton pitched a six-hitter and Willie Crawford slugged a second-inning homer as the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 1-0, Monday night for their sixth straight victory and ninth in their last 10 games.

Sutton, who fanned nine without walking anyone, gained his 12th win against five losses, his third straight victory and fifth in his last six decisions. Nelson Briles (8-8) was tagged with the loss, yielding only three hits in eight innings.

Crawford's homer — his eighth — came on a 1-0 pitch leading off the second inning. Dave Parker opened the third inning for Pittsburgh with a double, but Sutton got Manny Sanguillen on a groundout. Al Oliver on a short fly to center field kept out Willie Stargell.

Fred Norman hurls Reds to 1-0 win

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Fred Norman outdueled the Philadelphia Phils and Ken Brett Monday night while pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 1-0 victory in the opener of a three game series.

The victory was the sixth against two losses for Norman since his acquisition from San Diego, June 13, and gave him an overall mark of 7-9.

The 5-foot-8 inch, 170 pound lefthander restricted the Phils to six hits while striking out seven and walking four. The Reds' run came in the sixth inning. Bill Plummer led off with a double. Norman bunted but Mike Schmidt muffed Brett's throw for an error and Plummer would up on third safely. He scored on a double to right by Pete Rose. Rose's double was one of his three hits. The loss was the third against eight victories for Brett, who restricted the Reds to five hits.

Cliff Richey wins first round match

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Fifth-seeded Cliff Richey, after some difficulty in the first set, defeated Pakistani Haroon Rahim, 7-6, 6-1, Monday to advance to the second round of the $60,000 U.S. Pro Tennis Championships at Longwood Cricket Club.

The 26-year-old Richey of Sarasota, Fla., ranked No. 1 in the U.S. in 1970, won the match despite a strong performance by Rahim in the first set, where the Pakistani played Richey to a tie. Richey won the tie-breaker 7-6 and easily swept the second set 6-1.

"I think he may have been a little let down after losing the first set that way and, therefore, I won easily in the second," Richey said.

He said he was glad the match with Rahim didn't go to three sets, "because last year I went three against Rod Laver and ran out of gas."

Richey is slated to play Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia Wednesday. Pattison defeated Doug Crawford of Weston, Mass., 6-2, 7-6, Monday.

Monday's action was marred by a knee injury to defending champion Bob Lutz and a noisy crowd of 2,500 that disturbed participants.

Lutz, who suffered a torn patella tendon in his right knee during a promotional doubles match at Boston's Prudential Center, will undergo surgery on Wednesday.

Earlier in the day, fourth-seeded Australian John Alexander squeezed past Jeff Borowiak of Tiburon, Calif., 6-4, 6-7, 7-6.

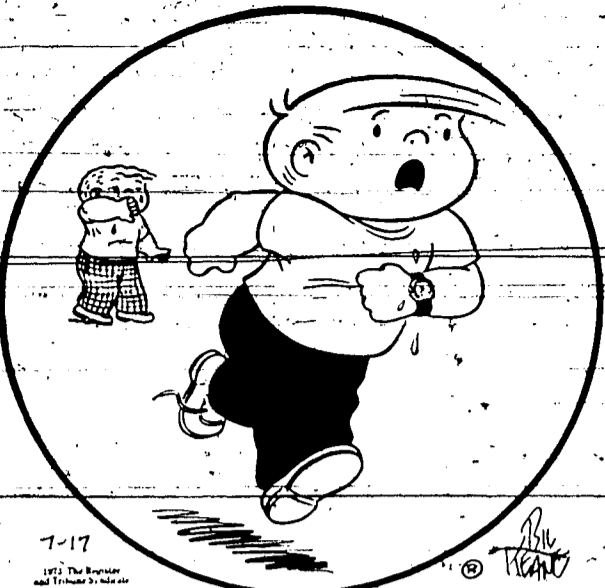

Alexander, who finished 11th in the 1971-72 World Championship of Tennis (WCT) tour, narrowly escaped Borowiak's persistent charge that forced a pair of tiebreakers.

The long-haired and head-banded American won the tiebreaker in the middle set, but gave way to Alexander's powerful serve in the final set. Alexander meets Graham Stilwell of Great Britain on Wednesday as the second round opens.

JOHNNY UNITAS, still wearing the same old number on a new and different helmet (L), tries out his passing arm as he works out for the first time with the San Diego Chargers. Unitas, now 40 years old, broke in with the Baltimore Colts in 1956 and has never been with another NFL team until this year. (UPI Telephoto).

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 18, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Most everyone has some sort of a chip on his shoulder today and tonight, so you would be wise not to allow yourself to feel you are being imposed upon. Such an attitude now would make others from you and put you in such a frame of mind that you would be unable to rightly do the work expected of you.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) If you handle those problems in a most objective manner, you can take care of them properly. Show you have compassion for those who are having troubles. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Instead of feeling so sorry for yourself, get busy and help those who are far worse off. Avoid that social affair that could bring trouble of some sort. Be more willing to listen to others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Instead of trying to criticize a higher-up, back him and you get along much better. Think carefully before you get into that worldly matter. Make sure you take care of correspondence.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have fine ideas but don't be disappointed if they don't work out immediately, since they may take a while. Get the dirt you need for new projects and you can also gain the support of bigwigs.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) You have responsibilities that are difficult, but don't think others are less burdened. Keep busy and all is fine. Your idea concerning a loved one is all wrong, so put it out of your mind. Avoid one who is tricky.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) You feel that long talks with a partner can clear up some annoying situation, but get right to the issues and all is well. Make sure you keep promises you have made. Improve conditions around you.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) Take care you do not feel sorry for yourself simply because the aspects are gloomy; they are for others, also. Listen some to music you enjoy, read, watch TV, or do anything that will take you out of the doldrums.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) There are pleasant conditions you can get into, so stop looking on the dark side. Give thanks for what you have and do those things that make others feel better. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Get out into the business world instead of feeling you have to stay home so much. Don't argue at home, or there could be serious results. Keep quiet if an argument starts there and it will blow over quickly.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Get busy at the shopping you have to do and handle routine affairs in a clever way. Postpone that transportation matter that could give you trouble. Avoid one who likes to gossip too much.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Plan time to think over money matters and do something very constructive about them, instead of feeling lost or upset. Ask an expert for the advice you need. Avoid one who does not think straight.

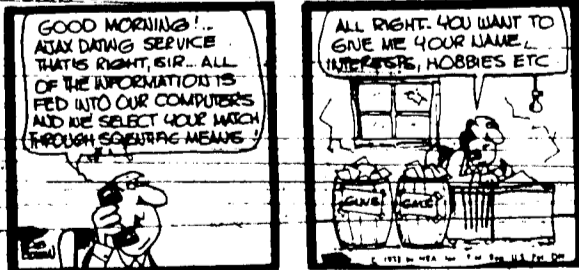

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) You want to argue with good friends or go on some tangent, but this would be wrong. Study your references and make sure they are the right ones. Do something about your appearance. Get rid of any flaws.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people who is very emotional and sensitive and may feel like giving up the ship when things do not go just right, but teach early to rectify the errors made and carry on, and then all works out just right. There is a fine ability at getting projects whittled down to workable size. Much ability at detail here, also. Give as fine an education as you can. Sports are important.

The Stars impel "they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Why is it women are far more likely to leave things on trains, planes and buses than are men? One auction of such left-behind articles, for instance, listed 2,600 ladies' umbrellas, but only 325 masculine bumbershoots. And 76 women's watches, but only 57 men's watches. And 110 cartons of female clothing, but only two cartons of male garments.

Debate continues in that ancient argument as to whether hot water will freeze more quickly than cold water. No, sir, it won't. Suspect that notion got started because hot water pipes when frozen are more likely to burst than cold water pipes. Recently heated water makes more compact ice than does cold water, that's why.

BLUE RIBBON

How come the first-prize ribbon is always blue instead of yellow or white or some other hue?

A Blue was the color of the garter that the lady lost, remember? England's King Edward III picked it up off the ball-room floor, put it on his own knee, then said, "Shame on any body who thinks evil of it," or words to that effect. Such untitled Britain's highest knighthood, The Order of the Garter. Realize you've heard that tale, but thought some might not have connected it to why first-prize ribbons are blue.

EYE COLOR

Blue eyes denote the incurable optimistic dreamer. Gray eyes indicate perseverance and wisdom. Hazel eyes accompany the happy active nature. Green eyes reveal talent and a shrewd mind. Black eyes show an ambition for power, and a tendency to be witty. Such were the contentions of old Ed Durling, noted authority on eye color and character.

You've heard it said that expression, "It's Greek to me." But did you know it was Mr. Shakespeare's Julius Caesar who said it first?

HEDDA HOPPER

Young fellow, ask any Seasoned Citizen to identify the profession of that lady named Hedda Hopper, now gone. A widely syndicated Hollywood gossip columnist, you'll be told. Correct. It's also a fact, however, that Miss Hopper appeared in well over 100 motion pictures, in even more than did most of the famous actresses of your day and mine.

In the lingo of the ancient Norsemen, a "ber" meant a "bear" and a "serk" meant a "coat." One certain batch of warriors wore bearskin coats. They fought with a most particular fury. And came to be known as the "berserk coats" or rather the "berserk." Whence cometh our word "berserk"?

Men with big feet and women with little feet both tend to be fairly easy to get along with. Such is the claim of one Madame Ludovica who tells fortunes by reading the soles of feet. Will you buy that? Likewise not.

A climb to the top of most any of the famous mountains such as the Matterhorn is still pretty tough, but nowhere nearly as difficult as once it was. I'm told. An accumulation of ropes, spikes, toe holds, left by the annual platoons of challengers, makes it easier now.

THIS TELEPHONE BOOTH at the corner of Shoup Ave. E. and Maurice St. N. was seriously "injured" in an automobile accident about midnight Saturday, but was still "alive" when a photographer arrived Sunday morning.

Advisers' records called

(c) WASHINGTON Star-News — The special Senate Watergate Committee has subpoenaed a variety of records from outside the White House of former presidential advisers H. B. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Charles Colson. Rufus L. Edmiston, the deputy counsel of the committee, said, "We have subpoenaed everything available (in the way of records) that's not at the White House."

President Nixon has refused to allow committee investigators any access to the White House files of the three former aides, but has agreed to discuss the matter with Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the chairman of the committee.

In the meantime, the committee has issued subpoenas for the bank, savings and loan, hotel, motel, telephone, lock box and other records of Haldeman, Ehrlichman and Colson.

Edmiston said such records often provide useful information to the committee. "We recreate a man's life almost," he added. Haldeman and Ehrlichman, the President's top two aides before they resigned from their White House posts last April 30, are expected to testify before the committee during the week of July 23 to 27.

Ervin has said the committee might not be able to "adequately" question the two unless its investigators have already been able to pore over their files in the White House pertaining to Watergate.

Samuel Dash, chief counsel of the committee, echoes Ervin, saying that "there's no question a failure to get the papers would hinder our cross-examination of Haldeman and Ehrlichman."

Members of the committee now fear the President's illness will delay the Nixon-Ervin meeting and thus prevent any compromise from being reached on the White House documents dispute before Haldeman and Ehrlichman testify.

Range fires plague BLM

SHOSHONE — One small range fire Sunday was reported by the Bureau of Land Management Shoshone office. Wallace Fixsen, fire control officer for the BLM, said "Though the acreage has not been measured, it's anticipated to be less than five acres."

The fire reportedly started at about 6 p.m. five miles north of Shoshone adjacent to US 93.

Three fires were reported late Saturday in the district, with two burning less than an acre and the third, at Devil's Corral, burned four acres.

The Devils Corral fire was believed man-caused, with the two small fires caused by lightning strikes.

The small fires were located west of Fairfield and east of Hailey.

Fixsen said rain accompanying the lightning storm Saturday night is credited with reducing the number of fires.

City officials in Richfield and Dietrich reported the Saturday night lightning storm had caused power outages in their towns, lasting about 12 hours.

In Shoshone, power was cut for about an hour at the same time.

Filer scheduling changed Monday

FILER — Changes in the schedule of pickup of solid waste for Filer commenced Monday, according to Dan Kauffman, mayor.

Tuesday pickups will remain the same, but may be later in the day than previously. Wednesday pickups will now be on Thursday of each week. New rates to be charged and collected through the city office will be $1.80 per month for residences and $3.60 per month for commercial.

The city recently signed a contract with the Magic Valley Disposal Company, Kimberly, for solid waste disposal within the Filer City limits. With July 16 as the starting date.

The city is getting out of the sanitary pickup service because present equipment has depreciated to the point where a major capital investment would have been required in the near future, the mayor said. Increasing labor requirements for the city operation of the service were also cited as a reason for letting the contract.

City officials said they have been considering the problem for the past six months.

Man faces charge

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man was arrested Sunday on charges of grand larceny after smashing a stolen car into a local motel.

William Ruben Salaz, 22, Twin Falls, was arrested about 8:30 p.m. Sunday after he allegedly drove a stolen car into the side of the Wagon Wheel Motel, 1402 Kimberly Road.

According to police reports, the car Salaz was driving was stolen about 1:30 p.m. Sunday while it was parked in front of the Horse Shoe Tavern, 157 Washington Street. It belonged to Charles A. Bailey, Twin Falls, the reports said.

Frank Hennis, owner of the Wagon Wheel Motel, said today a door was smashed down and a frame broken in the accident. He estimated the damage at about $200. No damage estimate on the car was available.

Seniors enjoy fishing

TWIN FALLS — "An all-around good time!" was the unanimous feeling of a group of senior citizens who enjoyed a morning of fishing near Hagerman Friday.

Clients from Mountain View Nursing Home, Kimberly, and Sky View Manor, Twin Falls, accompanied by their housekeepers and activities directors, were taken on the outing sponsored by the Idaho Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS).

The group was transported by McDonald's hospitality bus and fishing equipment for the outing was supplied by several Twin Falls businesses.
