

$ sinks again

LONDON (UPI) — The U.S. dollar dropped in value for "no particular reason" on European money markets again today.

There was growing talk among economic experts that it may be necessary to free gold from the artificial $42 an ounce rate set by Washington to help stabilize the dollar.

Gold, which usually climbs while the dollar drops, reversed the normal procedure and fell, too. Gold in London dropped $1.25 an ounce to a price of $119.75. One dealer said "the weakness of the dollar stopped it going even lower."

By midday the dollar was worth only 3.93 French francs or 35.25 Belgian francs — a drop of half a percentage point since morning — and 2.788 Swiss francs. It was at a new alltime low in Germany, and it took $2.5470 to buy a British pound in London, fractionally more costly than today's opening quote.

Phase 4 details due today

(c) Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — A new set of economic controls — Phase IV of the administration's attempt to halt spiraling inflation, but avoids a plunge into recession — is set for unveiling today.

With the President ill, although well on the way to recovery from pneumonia at the national Naval Medical Center in nearby Bethesda, Md., the program will not be announced by him over nationwide television as he has done previously.

Instead Treasury Sec. George P. Shultz, President Nixon's economic counselor, will disclose the details in a session with reporters in the White House East room.

Shultz's announcement was slated to be preceded today by a cabinet meeting presided over by Vice President Spiro Agnew — believed to be his first — at which Shultz will explain the program to top administration officials.

Along with John Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council (CLC), Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers (CEA) and other officials, Shultz also is expected to hold conferences on the administration's plans with key leaders on Capitol Hill today.

It is Shultz's view that the biggest problem facing the administration is how to achieve a "soft landing" — in economic terms — to change the nation's annual growth rate from eight per cent to about four per cent, without creating a recession.

A program that White House sources described as being

"tough and realistic" reportedly will include the following measures:

— Replacement of the current price freeze, but with special controls for food and petroleum products, two areas in which price boosts and shortages have been most marked recently. Food prices may undergo a "temporary bulge" Shultz said.

— A requirement for advance permission to increase prices which would affect more companies than during the January-to-May Phase III period.

— An enlargement of the federal machinery that enforces the stabilization program — the CLC and the Internal Revenue Service.

today in brief

Settlement terms outlined

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A HIGH Federal Trade Commission official said today the government will seek a significant divestiture of refinery operations to settle its antitrust complaint against the nation's eight biggest oil companies.

James L. Halverson, director of the FTC's bureau of competition, said he could not envision a settlement of the case that would not provide for "the addition of viable refinery capacity" through a break-up of some of the functions of the big oil firms.

Viet reject Cong proposal

PARIS (UPI) — The Communist Viet Cong proposed a seven-point charter today which would end U.S. military operations on Viet Cong activities. The proposal immediately rejected it.

South Vietnam's Deputy Premier, Nguyen Luu Vien, told newsmen after a 90-minute meeting with the Viet Cong that he turned down the proposal because it was "a maneuver aimed at avoiding the organization of new general elections."

Let's hope Phase 4 works better than its predecessors.

Rogers, Koreans confer

SEOUL (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers and four Korean leaders today mapped a joint strategy for the United Nations' first full-scale debate of the Korean question since the Korean War armistice of 1953.

American officials said the talks were almost entirely devoted to strategy for debate of the Korean question expected at the U.N. General Assembly session in New York this Autumn.

End probe, Martha asks

GREENWOOD, Miss. (UPI) — Martha Mitchell stood on the veranda of a white-columned mansion on the Mississippi Delta Tuesday and said she is "sick of Watergate," the American public is bored with it and it's time to "shut the mess up."

The Watergate hearings are pushing all the good programs off television, she said. Besides they're "not spontaneous, they're as much rehearsed as any Broadway play."

Gem board tightens policy

BOISE (UPI) — The State Board of Education today voted to put some teeth in enforcement of payments by local school districts for the use of a statewide data processing system.

Under the motion made by State Supt. of Public Instruction D. F. Engelling, local districts would be given a chance to pay voluntarily for the use of the informational system. But if the districts do not meet their fair share, then payments will be withheld from the October allocation of state money to districts.

Cambodian jail evacuated

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Military sources said today the government is removing about 2,000 prisoners, some of them Communist POWs, from a jail 6-1/2 miles south of Phnom Penh because of heavy fighting less than a mile away.

Idaho fuel flows swell during May

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The trend of increased gasoline inflows into Idaho during 1973 continued during May, according to figures released today by the Idaho Petroleum Council.

At the same time industry talk of a "gas shortage" has become more widespread.

The IPC figures for May, 1973 show that roughly 40.6 million gallons of gasoline were imported into Idaho, compared with about 38.8 million gallons brought into the state in May, 1972. This was a gain in 1973 of about 5 per cent over the same month a year ago.

Earlier, the Times-News had reported that gasoline inflows into Idaho during the first four months of 1973 were up about 10 per cent over the first four months of 1972. The IPC figures for May indicate this trend is continuing.

At the same time, governmental and non-governmental agencies have begun to speak of an easing in the "gas shortage," although gas allocations are continuing.

A Times-News survey has shown Twin Falls gasoline prices have jumped about 5 cents per gallon since the beginning of the year.

Douglas Bean, director of the PIC, a public relations agency supported by 12 major oil companies, said Tuesday that while gas inflows have increased, demand has accelerated more rapidly, resulting in the gas shortage.

Bean pointed to an 8.2 per cent increase in new Idaho vehicle registrations from 1971 to 1972 — which he said is unabated and perhaps even heavier this year — and the greater consumption of gasoline by new automobiles with anti-pollution devices as contributing to the increased demand.

Bean said any charge that the major oil companies are cooperating to "create" a gas shortage to drive independent retailers out of the market and at the same time raise gasoline prices "is completely false and you can make that as firm as you want to and keep the language clean."

Bean said "the facts simply do not substantiate" accusations contained in an antitrust complaint filed Tuesday by the Federal Trade Commission against the nation's eight largest oil companies alleging that the companies monopolized refining and marketing operations and caused the present gas shortage.

"Over the last 10 years, the average return on net worth for the 45 largest oil companies has been less than the average for all manufacturing companies," Bean said in response to a Trade Commission charge that the eight majors had followed monopolistic marketing practices to boost prices and force motorists to buy gasoline at inflated rates.

While he noted that he could not speak for the eight companies involved in the FTC antitrust action, Bean said, "I maintain that it is impossible for there to be any sort of conspiracy (among the majors) because earnings have been less than for other companies."

Collusion, he said, "is designed to make enormous profits out of all reason; if there is some conspiracy it sure has failed to produce those enormous profits."

Bean said earnings figures for the first quarter of this year for the 45 biggest oil companies were up an average of 23 per cent over last year, "which is a good recovery from depressed earnings of the first quarter of a year ago."

"The good profit picture is a reflection of a booming economy," Bean said. He added that he would like to see the profit picture even brighter, "because the oil industry is going to need hundreds and hundreds of millions of dollars over the next decade," for exploration, refineries and pipelines.

"No other major manufacturing industry is so little dominated by one company or a group of companies," Bean said. "In spite of the FTC allegations, I think the one word that describes the oil industry more than any other word is 'competition.'"

Ex-aide to testify Colson OK'd bug

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frederick C. LaRue is prepared to testify that pressure for approval of plans to wiretap Democratic headquarters at the Watergate came from Charles W. Colson, then a special White House counsel, informed sources said today.

LaRue, who was a special assistant to John N. Mitchell at the Committee to Re-elect the President (CRP), agreed to plead guilty to a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice on June 27 and is expected to give evidence for the prosecution at a future trial of those involved in the Watergate cover-up.

A summary of LaRue's story showed he was ready to testify that he was present in the spring of 1972 when Colson telephoned Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy Nixon campaign director, "and raised hell" because Magruder had not yet given the go-ahead for the bugging budget presented by G. Gordon Liddy.

Strategy huddle

Buggers hiked demands, courier tells probers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The demands of the original Watergate conspirators for money — apparently to guarantee their silence — mounted to $450,000 by late last summer, an ex-New York City policeman hired to make the payments testified today.

Anthony Ulasewicz, in an often-humorous return appearance before the Senate Watergate committee, told of carrying around large bundles of $100 bills tied up in brown paper packages "just like I was carrying my lunch."

In all, Ulasewicz said, he delivered some $220,000 to the seven men charged with the bugging of Democratic party headquarters last year on the instructions of Herbert W. Kalmbach, President Nixon's former personal attorney. Kalmbach was the man who raised the cash.

Kalmbach testified before the committee's nationally televised hearings earlier this week he had been told by high White House officials the money was for support of the men and their families and to offset their legal fees.

Ulasewicz detailed a complex cloak-and-dagger story involving use of aliases, secret calls from telephone booths and money drops in airport lockers.

One of those to whom he gave money was Mrs. E. Howard Hunt, the wife of one of the bugging conspirators.

Mrs. Hunt was killed in a Chicago plane crash Dec. 8. Her purse containing $10,000 in cash was found in the wreckage.

According to Ulasewicz, he was under orders from Kalmbach not to do any negotiating with his contacts. But he said Mrs. Hunt kept "getting her bit in" whenever he talked to her through last summer, demanding more and more money for her husband and his codefendants.

"Did you ever total up how much Mrs. Hunt was seeking?" asked Terry Lenzner, an assistant committee counsel who led off the questioning.

"Yeah," Ulasewicz replied. "It was in the vicinity of $400,000-450,000."

By September, he said, Mrs. Hunt told him that some of the men were "getting uneasy, getting nervous" about their approaching trial and that more money "certainly would alleviate the situation."

Senators seek tapes, papers

(c) Chicago Daily News

WASHINGTON — President Nixon was confronted today with a unanimous, bipartisan request from a Senate committee for White House documents and tapes of Watergate-related conversations.

Even before the letter from Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr. left Capitol Hill, however, Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler indicated Nixon would not turn over the tapes or documents being sought.

The President invoked executive privilege for the first time since the Watergate hearings began to block questioning the Secret Service official Alfred Wong by Senate investigators Tuesday.

But he opened the door slightly by advising the Ervin committee to address "requests for information on procedures in the White House" to him and they would receive "prompt consideration."

Taking advantage of the opening, Ervin wrote a combination get-well and send-us-the-documents letter to Nixon, still recuperating from viral pneumonia at Bethesda Naval Medical Center.

The chairman informed Nixon that the four Democrats and three Republicans on the panel voted unanimously to request the White House tapes of the President's conversations related to the Watergate inquiry.

Nixon has agreed to see Ervin to discuss the demands for documents but no date has been set for a meeting. The President is expected to remain in the hospital until Friday and then spend three or four days at his Camp David retreat nearby.

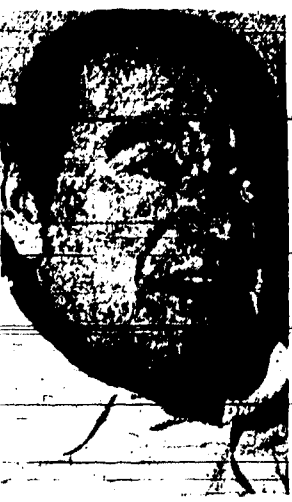

The clash between the committee and the chief executive began when Nixon sent Ervin a strongly worded refusal to supply additional documents sought by the committee to check on testimony by John W. Dean, former White House counsel, concerning Nixon's complicity in the bugging cover-up.

Belt route aired in TF

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Plans for a belt route trafficway around the city of Twin Falls were presented to more than 80 persons Tuesday night.

The public information meeting at the College of Southern Idaho was called by the Twin Falls Transportation Planning Committee. The committee had retained J-U-B Engineers, Twin Falls, to prepare a belt route report and several exhibits.

The J-U-B report calls for a one-half mile wide corridor around the city and includes the "idea" of a four lane expressway in the corridor.

The proposed route follows Pole Lane Road on the north, 2700 East Road on the west, Orchard Drive (Sugar Factory Road) on the south and 3200 East Road on the east.

Joe Haynes, a J-U-B Engineer, said the belt route is "one way" of solving the traffic problem in Twin Falls. He said it "could lead us down the road to a better and more functional transportation plan."

Haynes stressed that the belt route must be developed in conjunction with a land use plan "to allow pattern and direction."

Several people at the meeting questioned the distance of the belt route from the Twin Falls city limits. Some felt the route should be further away from the city to permit expansion within its bounds. Others suggested moving the route closer to provide high speed entry and exit near the heart of the city.

Answering the question of Twin Falls expansion, Haynes said another belt route, outside the first one, could be constructed in the future. "Inner and outer belts" are accepted practices, he said.

Haynes also said access to the belt route would be limited, perhaps allowing full interchanges only at the Highway 93, 30 and 74 intersections.

Asked about projected growth patterns of Twin Falls, Haynes admitted that his firm "has not studied any of these."

Howard Johnson, district engineer of the State Highway Department and a member of the transportation committee, said the belt route project might take ten years if federal and state funds are employed.

Ken Poe, chairman of the Twin Falls Highway District, favored the south leg of the proposed belt route, along Sugar Factory Road, could be incorporated into a "cross county" road in the future.

Hospital exceeds budget

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital ended the first half of 1973 $23,430 in the red.

A report prepared by hospital controller John Hayden, presented by Administrator James Rosenbaum to the hospital board Monday, showed that for the first six months of 1973 the revenues and expenses were both below anticipated levels, although spending has exceeded the amount budgeted.

The report shows half of the 1973 budgeted revenues as $1.97 million, with $1.84 actual revenues, $127,234 short of the anticipated figure. Expenses budgeted for the first half of 1973 were $1.91 million, with actual expenses $1.84 million, $68,332 under the anticipated level.

The report shows anticipated net income for the first six months of 1973 as $112,762, but net income after depreciation fell $112,762 short of that total, leaving the hospital $23,430 in the red.

In reviewing the hospital's financial situation, Rosenbaum said while spending has exceeded the budget in a number of areas it is not as bad as had been anticipated. The budget was based on an additional 2 per cent rate increase, which had been disallowed by the price and wage control board and is now pending a hearing before the Internal Revenue Service.

"We knew we would be over spent and we are, but it is not as bad as we thought," he said.

Rosenbaum credited department heads who have held their spending down by a combined total of $68,000 in the first six months with helping the situation.

Rosenbaum said hospital population is up except in the obstetrics department and there are fewer newborns than a year ago. He said total patient days show an increase with occupancy averaging 79.8 per cent compared to 77.5 a year ago.

The radiology department showed a decrease in outpatients but the laboratory had a major increase with 11,000 more examinations this year than a year ago.

The hospital bed shortage grows more acute daily, Rosenbaum said, and plans are moving ahead for revision of the second floor to provide about 15 additional beds as soon as possible.

He said he hoped to have such a proposal to present hospital trustees at one of the earliest meetings.

He said this would be a stop-gap measure until a bond issue can be passed and a major expansion program undertaken.

Rosenbaum suggested the building committee again meet with Mountain Belt representatives to begin improvements in the hospital switchboard. He said during the past week "the communication system is out of service several times and a great deal of difficulty is being experienced."

"It is overloaded and outmoded," Rosenbaum said, "and without a communication system we are in serious trouble."

The board approved Dr. Stephen Green as a full member of the medical staff. Hospital board members will meet next on Aug. 13.

Replacement of the "self-destructing" air conditioner unit at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital is expected within a few days, Rosenbaum said.

He said the hospital is operating with one of the system's two air conditioning units and is now getting by well.

The other unit, he said, "burned itself up" last week but will be replaced at no cost to the hospital by the manufacturer. Considerable difficulty has been experienced with the unit since it was installed a year ago. As a result the builder extended the warranty

Monarchy overthrown

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Tanks and troops blocked all main roads leading into the Afghan capital of Kabul today, 24 hours after a coup staged by young army officers under the leadership of the king's cousin, diplomatic cables reaching New Delhi reported.

The monarchy was overthrown and a republic proclaimed Tuesday while King Zahir Shah was out of the country.

Diplomatic dispatches reaching New Delhi in the midst of the takeover late Tuesday reported heavy fighting at the royal palace in Kabul and widespread arrests.

Today's diplomatic cables said reports were circulating to the effect that deposed King Zahir Shah's son-in-law, Prince Abdul Wali, commander of the Kabul Garrison, had been wounded or killed Tuesday in the shelling of his home.

Other reports said the prince had been executed by the rebel forces.

Diplomatic cables today said rebel forces are geared for any possible counter-coup attempt. Afghanistan's official radio reported the country calm under the "full control" of the military.

"The new republican regime is successfully ruling the country," Radio Kabul said. "The army is in full control."

Today's diplomatic reports said tanks and troops barricaded the major arteries leading into Kabul and armored reinforcements were sighted moving into the city.

Diplomats said the coup that ended the 40-year-old reign of Zahir Shah was apparently planned and carried out by 50 young officers.

They said the rebel leader was former Prime Minister Sardar Mohammed Daud, the king's cousin and brother-in-law, who announced Tuesday on behalf of "the military regime" that he and his colleagues acted to establish a "genuine democracy" in place of Zahir's "despotic regime."

Radio Kabul and the diplomatic cables were the outside world's only access to information today about the landlocked country. Kabul Airport was closed and reports in New Delhi said Afghanistan's borders with Iran, the Soviet Union and Pakistan were sealed.

News of the takeover reached the 58-year-old king on the island of Ischia, off Naples, Italy, where he had been vacationing. An official spokesman said today the king has arrived at the Afghan embassy in Rome.

"He has no comment," the spokesman said.

Prince Shah Mahmud, 27-year-old son of the deposed king, was asked today by newsmen in London if he thought members of the royal family would be welcomed if they returned to Afghanistan.

"I just don't know" at this moment," he said.

Revision of plans set for July 25

TWIN FALLS — Revision of remodeling plans for the old American Legion Hall in Twin Falls prior to a new call for bids will be discussed July 25.

County Commission Chairman William L. Chancey, who is also chairman of the South Central Health District, said the health district director and the architect will meet with him July 25 to discuss alternatives to the remodeling plan in an effort to complete the work within the available money.

The district has about $100,000 for the program but a call for bids last month resulted in only two bids but about double this amount. Both were rejected. Chancey said the health board and medical director believe by eliminating some of the remodeling, such as the basement area not essential for the laboratory, they will be able to stay within the available money.

If so, he said, the health board, also meeting July 25 in Jerome, will be asked to approve another call for bids so work can begin as soon as possible.

Chancey said it will take about six months for the remodeling work and the health board must be out of present offices in city hall by next April.

Salmon aide assumes duties

SALMON — Frank Evans, 40, Salmon, took over as Salmon's new chief of police this week.

He said he is striving to improve working conditions in general in the police department and to establish a more accurate records system. Evans succeeded Robert Jepperson who resigned.

The new official hired Bret Barsalou, a former city officer, and named him sergeant. He said he anticipates hiring another officer later. Also leaving the department July 15 were Dick Santos and Bob Charles who resigned along with Jepperson.

Evans, who worked for the department seven months before he resigned March 1, was hired by the Salmon City Council as the new chief.

Prior to assuming his new duties, Evans spent a week with the Idaho Falls Police Department receiving training in records and dispatch systems and the police organization in general.

He said he plans to work out a shift rotation for his officers so that one man will not be working nights all the time. He cited this situation as one reason for discontent in the department.

Evans served as a security officer in the Navy for two years at Treasure Island, San Francisco. He came to Salmon in April, 1971.

Skeleton Facts Of The Matter

WASHINGTON — Put aside, for the moment, all that is embraced in the agonizing name of "Watergate," and consider two other matters instead: the matter of the dairy fund, and the matter of the "improvements" to Mr. Nixon's home in San Clemente.

These are the skeleton facts of the first matter: Early in 1971, the dairy industry applied to the Department of Agriculture for an increase in Federal price supports. On March 1, 1971, the then Secretary of Agriculture, Clifford Hardin, rejected the request. The industry thereupon launched a strenuous lobbying campaign that culminated with a meeting at the White House on March 23 with the President himself. A day earlier, on March 22, the industry contributed $10,000 to a dummy committee subsequently linked to the Nixon campaign.

On March 25, Hardin reversed himself and approved an increase in price support from $4.66 to $4.93 a hundredweight. The increase added $500 to $700 million to the income of dairy farmers. The industry thereafter contributed an additional $412,500 to the Nixon campaign and to the GOP.

These are the skeleton facts on the second matter: Between July 1, 1969, and May 31, 1973, the General Services Administration expended some $703,000 in public funds on what it terms "improvements" to the house and grounds of the President's Western White House at San Clemente. Over roughly this same period, the GSA spent some $580,000 in "improvements" to the presidential complex at Key Biscayne.

In hearings before a House committee headed by Tom Steed of Oklahoma, the Secret Service last month defended the $1,283,000 as necessary to protect the security of the President. Critics have scoffed that some of the elaborate and costly landscaping itemized by the GSA has only the most tenuous relationship to presidential security, and they ask why the taxpayers should be charged for such non-security items as "pillows, decorative, $86," in the President's office.

These are serious matters. The first carries an implication of bribery or extortion; the second suggests old-fashioned graft.

Let me insert a personal note: From what I know of the dairy industry — and I have made my home for seven years in cattle country — I can well believe the dairy industry had a convincing case to support the increase asked in 1971. My guess is that industry spokesmen submitted such overwhelming evidence on March 23 that the reversal of March 25 was wholly justified. Such reversals occur regularly in the appellate processes of our courts, and we ought not to be surprised by them.

The insinuation of graft at San Clemente leaves me equally unimpressed. The Secret Service takes the same view of presidential security that generals take of their troops: Ten times enough is still not enough. I can well believe the Service insisted upon these "improvements." To complain of the pillows is to set a record of pettiness. This is also Steed's view, and the onetime newsman, now 69, has been around the House for 24 years.

What has been the White House reaction? Last week White House counsel Leonard Garment, claiming executive privilege, flatly refused to release 67 relevant memos on the dairy case.

To make the papers public (in response to a prospective subpoena) would be injurious to the public interest and to the constitutional doctrine of the separation of powers. On the matter of the "improvements" the White House press secretary has provided out of his fountains of disbelief, whole showers of conflicting figures.

It won't do. By his foolish insistence on "executive privilege," a most doubtful doctrine where crime is alleged, the President creates an inescapable inference of wrongdoing in the dairy matter. He could clear up the questions of San Clemente by demanding a full investigation by the General Accounting Office. Mr. Nixon could dispel great clouds of unanswered Watergate questions — if only he would. We must have candor, candor, and still more candor! We are not getting it now.

Crop Outlook

Fears of crop shortages because of disastrous floods last spring which interfered with planting have been largely dispelled. The country has had a period of "growing weather" which has greatly aided late-planted crops to overcome this handicap. Magic Valley crops are good.

A shortage of grain feed is no longer regarded as likely later this year and prices are expected to be nearer normal. If food exports return to near-average levels, the food situation in the U.S. should straighten itself out in the next year.

Now that the country is no longer plagued with big surpluses, it has become apparent to all that unusually large and unexpected export commitments are not conducive to harmonious conditions on the home food front.

With per capita consumption of beef, for example, double what it was a quarter century ago, food surpluses will not be the automatic result of good weather they have been in the past.

About July

This is the good old summer time. In the far-off, still mysterious regions of our universe, planets and stars have wheeled into ordained positions and brought about the solstice. Time, in terms of the annual cycle, has already started down the long slide to autumn.

Dawns are moist and cobwebs on the lawns are jeweled patterns when slanting light rays are reflected in small drops of water. By midmorning, increasing heat presses against the earth and the monotone song of tractors is heard in the land as farmers give corn its last cultivation.

There is rich music in July. Not the pulsing exuberance of late May and early June, but summer melody is full of meaning and throbbing with the intensity of the season. But the music is fundamentally a different type.

If you sit quietly in a sunlit meadow, as soon as ears become tuned to the quieter sounds, you will hear a thrumming, low-pitched song, made by the countless insects that are at the peak of their cycle in the seventh month — a melody that is an integral part of Earth's everlasting symphony.

There are July days when one can almost see the corn grow. Sunlight, through chlorophyll, is performing its magic.

No Credit

In all the talk about political campaign reform, the advocates are missing the most effective single stroke of genius they could invoke to bring it about. They talk of spending ceilings, of limiting contributions to no more than $25 per individual, of better reporting of contributions and expenditures.

These are secondary considerations. At the front of the problem is the credit card. A number of campaigns almost every election year are run on the cuff, with many of them ending the same way. Extinct political campaigns stretching back more than a few years still owe creditors, at least those who have not yet written off the debts as uncollectible.

Airlines, hotels and telephone companies all have been stuck sizable sums after the ballots have been counted. Implied in all of it is the possibility that a friend in office might be useful or harmful if credit had been denied.

A law prohibiting the extension of credit to political candidates might make it tough for some. But it would put an end to the excuse offered by some campaign managers that the zeal of their volunteers was stronger than their means.

MR. SPECTATOR

Why Live Here?

All the time we hear what a blessing it is to live in Twin Falls! Well, is it?

Twin Falls, you know, has earwigs. I'm not sure that's how you spell the name of the bug I am referring to, but I'm not going to dignify any of them by looking it up in the dictionary.

We live in a rather nice section of town but within the last week or two Mr. Spectator has (1) found an earwig between the sheets when he pulled down the covers to climb in for the night (2) noted another walking up the wall in the front room (3) caught another as it went up the bedroom wall and (4) accidentally stepped on one which was so much the color of the rug we didn't note it until it wiggled.

But Tuesday morning we were subjected to much embarrassment.

We were in the shower and there, on top of the bathroom door, was an earwig looking right our way. He was sending out some sort of signal (probably one we would not have liked if we could have read what he was sending). We jumped from the shower and made a pass at him with a piece of Kleenex we had picked up enroute. But we missed. He was on the rug and we couldn't find him.

So we ran to the cabinet, grabbed the Black Flag, and sprayed. We do not know whether we got him or not because we couldn't find him.

We just cannot figure out how the earwigs get where they get. At their size it must be equal to a 20 mile walk for a human when they go from the back yard to the bathroom. It must at least be the equal of two or three miles walk if they stop in the bedroom.

But regardless of the distance they walk, we don't like it. And until someone in this old town finds a way to get rid of earwigs we just don't subscribe to the dream that Twin Falls is a swell place to live. So there!

DAVID ESPO The Other Side

TWIN FALLS — The 1974 Idaho state legislature, which won't convene until January, 1974, got off to a fine start last week.

The 1974 gubernatorial election campaign is doing even better.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told a press conference in Boise last week his 19 per cent general fund holdback, imposed in the name of fiscal responsibility last summer, may have been unnecessary. But, he said, it could result in more tax relief a year hence.

He made his comments after final state figures showed the general fund balance for the year just ending to be $3.3 million, belying his original calculation that the legislature had appropriated $2.6 million more than it had raised for the year.

Charges and countercharges and the partial lifting of the holdback and supplemental appropriations had intervened, of course, pitting the governor and his executive branch against the co-chairmen of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee doing business as the Republican legislature. Co-Chairmen Sen. Richard

High, R-Twin Falls, and Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, originally claimed the holdback premature, then unnecessary. Informed of the size of the surplus, High said last week, "Last September we all had the same information which basically is economic indicators and state tax collections, and at that time most of us were very optimistic about ending the fiscal year in good condition." They were, of course, right, at least in this case.

Right, perhaps, but not the governor. "As conditions existed a year ago," Andrus told the press conference, "I was compelled to order the spending holdback. To do otherwise would have been fiscally irresponsible — and I do not choose ever to take an irresponsible course."

The implication, of course, is that the Republicans who have been saying for months that the holdback was unwarranted were gambling with the state's general fund. Irresponsible fiscal policy. They may have gambled correctly, but the governor's implication is, but he chose not to gamble at all. And for the non-gambler's trump card — he has drawn first blood with the same riverboat gamblers in the 1974 Tax Relief Debate.

By Andrus' calculation, there is $8.5 million available and already identifiable as potential tax relief for the next session of the legislature. The first $5 million is the free floating money the legislature tried to put into a contingency fund as a hedge against federal program cutbacks. The governor vetoed the contingency, but the money remains unallocated. The remainder of the surplus, and potential tax reduction, comes from the $3.3 million surplus. In addition, there is a healthy economy in the state.

If Andrus can parlay some of that into statewide tax relief, and he seems to be saying now, six months before the legislature convenes, that he will ask for something along those lines, his message for the 1974 campaign stump is taking shape. Look, I took a hostile legislature, two-thirds Republican, and managed the economy so well that they were forced to grant 3.5 mills of relief in 1973 and even more this year.

The Republicans know, of course, and may counter by saying that some of the $5 million will have to go to restoring the federal cuts in some state programs. And they are claiming, and may even be correct, that the $3.3 million results from an irresponsible action by the governor, and has meant a year-long reduction in services by some agencies, as well as an additional tax of nearly one mill by the State Board of Education to make up for some of the lost funds.

The Republicans may be right. But Andrus is governor.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Doctor Says

Some time ago, I printed a letter from "Miss C.S." 12 years old, with scoliosis (curvature of the spine). She was told she should wear a brace 23 hours a day and do exercises.

She didn't want to — she also had diabetes and was about to enter a new school, and her father thought it might be too much for her. Couldn't the brace be postponed?

I said don't postpone it. I don't know what she finally did — but I think she and others with the same problem ought to see some of the warmhearted answers from other girls:

"I'm 13, almost 14. I've worn a Milwaukee brace for one and a half years."

"It's a breeze. It never bothers me. I have loads of friends, both sexes, and am on the student council."

"No one even notices my brace. The trick is to get used to it and get busy. At first everyone asks, 'Did you break your back?' 'Your neck?' Etc. They're just curious, not making fun." — A.S.

"Two years ago I too found out I had a curved spine. I had to wear a brace 23 hours a day and also had exercises to do. I did the exercises for a while but then stopped because I didn't want to do them."

"Right now I would do almost anything to be back in the brace again. I'm flat on my back in a body cast from neck to my knees recovering from a spinal fusion." — L.W.

"I started wearing a Milwaukee brace 23 hours a day that was 11 months ago. Now I only have to sleep in it. Wear your brace faithfully or you'll end up with more problems than you have now." — S.S.

"I had the same thing happen when I was 12 and just starting junior high. I wore a cast a year and had an operation. My cast was from just below my ears to the nucleus of my vertebrae maximus.

"I felt really embarrassed and would not go to school so I had a tutor. I got so lonely that I finally went back to school, and I was greeted by everyone which made me feel really good. I'm so glad I had it on in junior high rather than high school." — B.R.

"I was 15 when I found I had the same thing. I was in a body cast for six months, then in a Milwaukee brace, and for almost two years I wore it ALL the time, not just 23 hours a day. Then I was able to start taking it off, 15 minutes a day, then 5 more minutes each three days. Finally the day came after I had graduated from high school that I could have it off completely." — M.H.

"Eight years ago my folks found I had the same problem, but much worse. I was 12, but I learned a lot from people. It doesn't matter to people if you have one hand, no eyes, or a bit of silver around your body. I had to change schools twice. I have the diplomas to prove it. 'Somebody should wake her up to the fact that her problems are curable and controllable. That's a lot more than some kids ever had.'" — K.A.L.

Wish I could print all the letter that came.

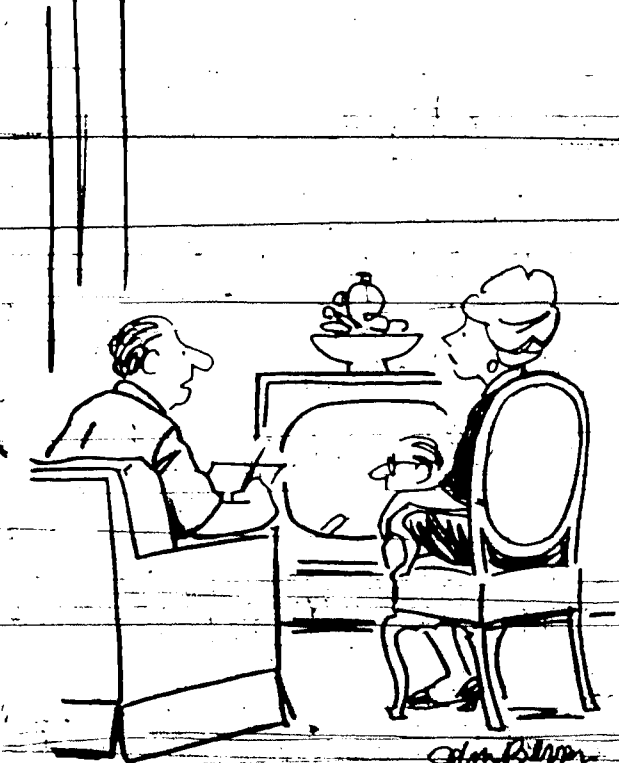

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would like to know how you feel about acupuncture. — H.M.

"I don't feel any way about it. There are some serious efforts in progress to find out the facts about it, and when the facts are available, that will be time enough to form some opinions."

Note to "Antia": Lupus and "excess serum lipid" are not the same. They are completely different conditions.

Emphysema can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung disease, write to D. Thosteson in care of this newspaper, requesting a copy of the booklet, "How To Control Emphysema."

A Thought

If you really fulfill the royal law, according to the scripture, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself," you do well. — James 2:8.

Slowly and painfully man is learning that he must do to others what he would have them do to him. — Sir Anthony Eden, former British prime minister.

Pipeline route approved

Agnew vote clears path of pipeline

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — The Senate voted Tuesday to brush aside all legal obstacles to immediate construction of the controversial Alaska pipeline.
 The key vote was a tie that was then broken by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, acting as president of the Senate.
 An amendment proposed by Alaska Sens. Mike Gravel, a Democrat, and Ted Stevens, a Republican, to clear the way for the pipeline first was approved 49 to 48. A motion to cancel that vote then resulted in the tie, 49 to 49.
 Agnew, in a rare appearance in the Senate, announced: "The vice president votes yea" — and the Gravel-Stevens amendment was locked into the pipeline bill.
 The Senate then went on to pass the over-all bill authorizing pipeline construction, 77-20, and sent it to the House, which is studying similar legislation.
 The last time Agnew broke a tie was on Aug. 6, 1969, on a vote to restrict anti-ballistic missile sites.
 The routine task of presiding over the Senate usually falls to junior senators.
 The two absent Senators were Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., who was making a speech in Seattle, and John C. Stennis, D-Miss., still recuperating from gunshot wounds suffered last January. They would likely have canceled each other out, Stennis for the Gravel-Stevens amendment and Magnuson against.
 Both Virginia senators, Harry F. Byrd, an independent, and Republican William L. Scott, voted for the amendment along with Maryland Republican J. Glenn Beall, Jr. Sen. Charles Mc. Mathias, R-Md., voted no.

In its original form, the bill, sponsored by Interior Committee Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., would not have protected the pipeline plan from suits based on the national environmental policy act.
 Gravel and Stevens added language stating that Congress declares that a 1972 Interior department study meets that act's standards.
 Already in the bill was a provision exempting the pipeline plan from right-of-way limits in a 1920 law considered unrealistic for 1973.
 The pipeline is to run 789 miles from the rich oil reserves of Prudhoe Bay on Alaska's northslope to the ice-free port of Valdez. The oil then would be taken by tanker to the lower 48 states.
 Environmentalists have attacked the project as hazardous. Not only would it damage the frozen land of Alaska, they say, but also raise the risk of disastrous oil spills along the West Coast of Canada and the United States.
 After accepting the Gravel-Stevens amendment today, the senate rejected a second change, 54 to 43, that would have directed creation of a special three-judge federal court in Alaska to hear promptly any constitutional challenge to the congressional action.
 The senate action was seen as a rebuff to Jackson who, although he favors building the pipeline across Alaska, opposed bypassing the environmental law.
 Jackson attacked the Gravel-Stevens approach as the most time-consuming of all because, he said, it would attract many more law suits than it would prevent.
 He said the amendment, by attempting to exempt the project from all laws, would set a "dangerous precedent."

Bill backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both Idaho senators voted to clear the way for construction of the trans-Alaska pipeline Tuesday.
 Sen. Frank Church was among 38 Democrats voting for the measure and Sen. James McClure was among 39 Republicans casting favorable votes. The measure passed 77-20.

Bugging illegal, but what penalty?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The initial reaction of experts is that President Nixon's bugging of his own telephones at the White House and Camp David was illegal, but that there apparently is no penalty.
 "Yes, it was illegal," a Federal Communications Commission spokesman said Monday. "To tape a telephone conversation without recorder connector equipment which produces a loud 'beep' to let the parties know they are being taped is in violation of telephone company rules. And we've set up the rules and regulations for the phone company."
 Fred Langbein, news service manager for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. which serves greater Washington, said: "It is a violation of our tariff (regulations). Normally if we discovered such a violation we would merely advise the customer that it was a violation and ask him to stop."
 "I suppose if they continued the activity we could remove their phones. But I don't know what we would do in the case of the White House," he said.

 He said the exceptions to the "beep" rule apply to news media broadcasters doing talk shows or police and fire emergency recorders.
 Samuel Dash, chief counsel of the Senate Watergate committee, said Monday that he believed the White House recording would be a "tariff" violation — that is, a breach of telephone company regulations — rather than a crime. He explained that, while wiretapping is a crime under the Omnibus Crime and Safe Streets Act, the Supreme Court has ruled that this applies only to bugging conversations between other people — not to cases where a person records the conversations on his own phone.

Chance now to clear Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A 47-year-old ex-Air Force colonel has laid it out before the Senate Watergate Committee: The opportunity exists to clear up the question of any involvement by President Nixon in the Watergate scandal.
 Alexander P. Butterfield disclosed for the first time listening devices were installed in 1971 to record all conversations Nixon held in his oval office, the Cabinet room, his private hideaway suite in the Executive Office Building and on the telephones he normally uses in the White House and at Camp David.

 Butterfield, a second-level White House aide who ran Nixon's daily schedule until he was made head of the Federal Aviation Administration four months ago, said the President ordered the system established in order to provide a historic record of his administration.
 He seemed genuinely surprised that the Watergate investigators had not learned this in their conversations with H.R. Haldeman, his friend and former boss.

Analysis

The White House confirmed that all the President's meetings and conversations in the White House since the spring of 1971 had been recorded.
 Nixon's Watergate lawyer, J. Fred Buzhardt, promised a "more detailed statement" on the practice soon.
 Left unanswered was whether the President would produce the tapes and thereby clear the cloud of suspicion hanging over his Presidency. Also left unanswered is why he had not done so earlier.

 So far, Nixon has taken a hard-nosed attitude toward the Senate investigators prying into his personal papers and communications.
 In a letter to the Watergate committee chairman Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., on July 7, Nixon said he would not permit access to papers "prepared or received by former members of my staff."
 To do otherwise would seriously erode the ability of the President to conduct the duties of his office, he wrote, and would jeopardize the fundamental constitutional role of the presidency.

 "Formulation of sound public policy requires that the President and his personal staff be able to communicate among themselves in complete candor, and that their tentative judgments, their exploration of alternatives and their frank comments on issues and personalities at home and abroad remain confidential," he said.
 He also rejected a compromise the investigators had suggested — to disclose specific documents that would substantiate or refute specific claims.
 "Such a course, I have concluded, would inevitably result in the attrition and the eventual destruction of the indispensable principle of confidentiality of presidential papers," Nixon wrote.
 It remains to be seen whether this latest disclosure that a full and complete record of Presidential conversations during this critical period exists will cause him to change his mind.

Replacement plan drawn

(c) Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — A plan allowing for removal and replacement of a President and his administration, short of impeaching the chief executive, is being advanced in congress by Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore.
 The influential Congresswoman will introduce her proposal this week in the House. It would amend the Constitution to provide for a new election if two-thirds of both the House and Senate find:
 — That the President has failed or refused to execute the laws passed by the Congress; or — That he has exceeded the powers vested in his office by the Constitution and the laws of the United States; or — That he has willfully permitted the rights of U.S. citizens to be trespassed upon.
 In essence, the Green proposal is based on the British parliamentary system wherein the working head of government (the prime minister) is subject to votes of "confidence" or "no confidence" in the legislative house of commons. Votes of no confidence can result in new elections.

 Mrs. Green insists her plan is not designed to "get" President Nixon, although he might be considered in violation of the circumstances it describes. As a constitutional amendment, she notes, the proposal requires not only congressional sanction, but approval of three-fourth of the states as well.
 Instead, the proposal is intended to correct what Mrs. Green calls a "fundamental flaw in our governing process" — the uncontrollable expansion of executive power and consequent diminution of legislative and judicial branches of government.

Fete set

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The last Sunday in September will be "Grandparents' Day" in Arizona, by proclamation of Gov. Jack Williams.
 Arizonans should "pay all honor to grandparents, recognize them for the contributions they have made and continue to make in our lives, and make special efforts to share with them our time, our interest and our love," said the governor, in making the proclamation Monday.

You hear a lot of wild claims these days. But not from Mazda.

Mazda tells you what owners tell us.

With gas rationing already a fact of life, Mazda believes car makers should talk realistically about mileage.

The mileage that counts is the mileage owners can count. Our owners tell us they get 17 to 21 miles per gallon. Some get even more; some get less, depending on driving conditions.

Good, respectable figures. Even better because Mazda isn't an underpowered little bongo-bong. They're realistic figures, too.

We don't quote mileage figures on our smallest car. We quote them on our largest car.

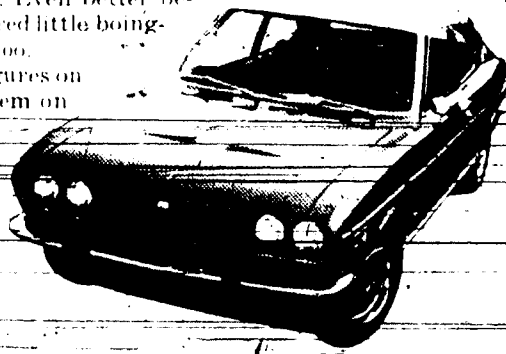

We don't advertise fuel economy figures from the Environmental Protection Agency's emission-control tests. The EPA has said they don't apply to everyday driving.

We don't hire professional drivers to make test runs under ideal economy conditions.

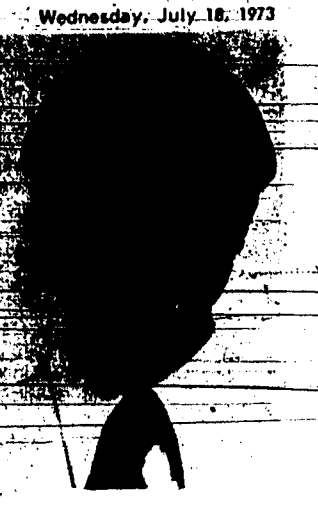

Besides good mileage, there's another way to save. The rotary engine humms along just fine on the cheapest gas you can buy. Regular, low-lead or lead-free. We even urge the oil companies to produce a much lower-octane gas for cars, like 80 octane.

Any Mazda owner will tell you about the good gas mileage. Any Mazda dealer will let you test-drive the good performance.

The Mazda goes HMMMMM.

Doctor moves to TF

TWIN FALLS — Julian O. Nicholson, M. D., has joined in practice with Twin Falls ear, nose and throat specialist Dr. Mark Grefenson.

Dr. Nicholson was graduated from the Medical College of Georgia in 1966. For the past two years he has been serving in the U. S. Army at Fort Sill, Lawton, Okla. Prior to that he served a two-year internship and spent a year in the surgical unit at Macon Hospital in Macon, Ga. and underwent an additional two-year residency training in ear, nose and throat medicine at Geisinger Medical Center in Danville, Pa.

Dr. Nicholson will conduct his practice out of Dr. Grefenson's office at 929 Shoup Avenue West, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Dr. Nicholson said he decided to open a practice in Twin Falls after a tour through the western states convinced him Twin Falls would be a "nice place to raise my family," and after Dr. Grefenson invited him to join his practice.

Dr. Nicholson and his wife Diane have two sons, aged 6 and 9. They have been married since 1962.

Dr. Nicholson was born in Atlanta, Ga., and attended public schools there. He received his undergraduate degree from the University of Georgia in 1961.

Dr. Nicholson said he reached the point in medical school where he had to decide between specializing in ophthalmology (eye medicine) and ear, nose and throat care. He said he underwent ear surgery and this convinced him to choose the latter.

Trading status urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David Rockefeller, board chairman of Chase Manhattan Bank, urged Congress Tuesday to grant most favored nation (MFN) trading status to the Soviet Union, claiming the move could help slow the arms race.

"The desire of the Soviets to use Western trade, credits and technology to bolster their own economy hopefully could be accompanied by their giving lower priority to military programs," Rockefeller testified before the Joint Economic Committee of Congress at the start of three days of hearings on the Soviet economic outlook.

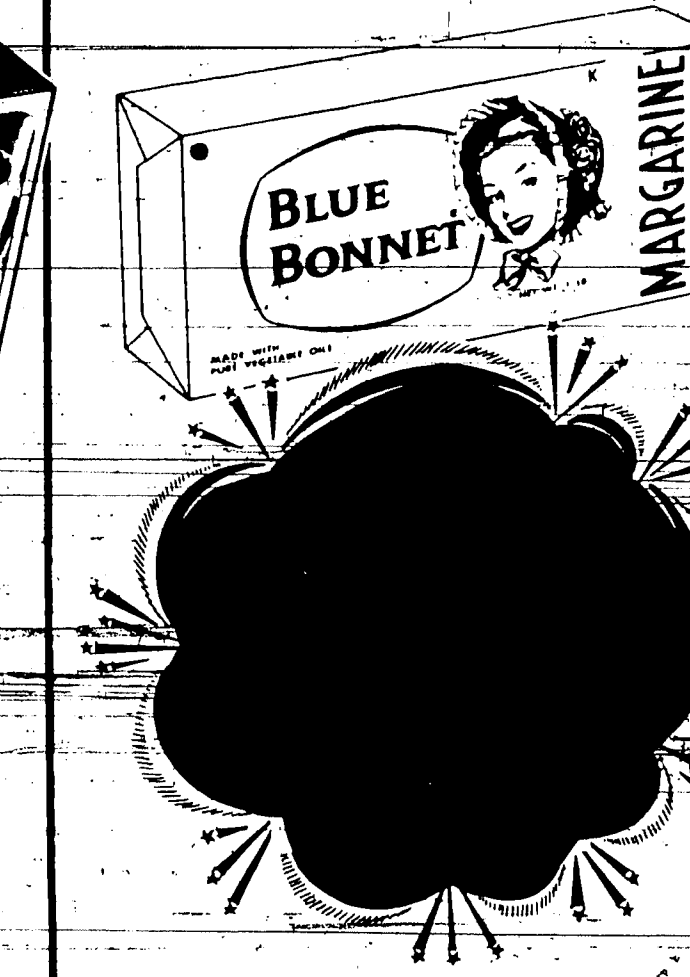

"It is premature to conclude that military competition between the Soviet Union and the U.S. is at an end," Rockefeller said.

The committee chairman, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said one of the main issues raised by the expansion of trade and improved relations between the United States and the Soviet Union is whether such action would increase the possibility that fewer resources will be directed to Soviet military programs.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., cautioned that the United States could over-extend its financial resources by borrowing to provide credit for massive Soviet food and technological purchases, while continuing the "insane" arms race.

Aide takes fifth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former White House aide Egil Krogh pleaded the 5th amendment repeatedly Tuesday during an appearance before a House subcommittee investigating possible CIA activity in domestic intelligence gathering.

"He took the fifth 50 times," Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of the House Armed Services subcommittee on intelligence operations, told reporters after the brief closed session with Krogh.

"We endeavored to elicit from him his role in Watergate as it relates to the Central Intelligence Agency," Nedzi said when asked the range and type of questions put to Krogh.

"He did answer some questions with respect to his career prior to 1968," Nedzi said. "All questions about his activities subsequent to 1968 he refused to answer on grounds he might incriminate himself."

The Nedzi subcommittee has been seeking to determine whether the CIA has been connected with a special White House intelligence unit, called the "plumbers," that sought to trace the sources of news leaks and to gather other intelligence information within the United States. Federal law authorizes CIA operations only outside the country.

Krogh was called to testify because he headed the "plumbers" and has said he takes responsibility for a September 1971 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg, psychiatrist near Los Angeles. After he disclosed his ties to the Ellsberg break-in May 9, Krogh resigned as undersecretary of transportation.

Nedzi said Krogh even refused to answer when asked what job title he had at the White House before going to the Transportation Department.

Contest reviewed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When Ken Cigarettes ran a contest in 1971 offering free trips to London for the correct words that could be formed from the letters in a four-word phrase, more than 50,000 persons sent in entries.

One man sent in a form claiming he had made 40,000 words from the letters; another told the covers from a dictionary and submitted that as his entry.

Eventually 50 winners got trips to London and others were awarded second prizes; but the government now says the contest was not judged properly and Kent, in a consent order tentatively accepted by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) Monday, has agreed to rejudge the contest.

The result could be 50 new winners, each of whom would be given $2,000 cash; or there may be no new winners at all, depending on whether the statistical method used in the rejudging disagrees with the one the government says cheated some potential winners the first time around.

Agnew upholds tapings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will do "the right thing" about the Senate Watergate Committee's request for copies of some tape recorded presidential conversations, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew predicts.

Agnew defended the President's practice of taping conversations Tuesday by saying the tapes haven't been transcribed and that presidential conversations are different than those of an ordinary variety.

"It's a little different than an ordinary conversation being taped between two individuals," Agnew said during a visit to Bethesda Naval Hospital, where Nixon is recovering from viral pneumonia. "I don't think anyone speaks with the President casually. I don't think anyone goes in and bandies a lot of careless words around the President."

Agnew said he felt the fact the tapes have not been transcribed is "something that has escaped the public's attention to some extent."

"If these tapes were indeed for the purpose of embarrassing anyone in a conversation with the President, putting him on the spot where discussions of a private nature were to be used to his detriment politically or governmentally, then certainly the tapes would have been transcribed and they weren't for that purpose. They haven't been transcribed."

The vice president was a bit testy with reporters, saying at one point that he had not come to the hospital to discuss the presidential tape recordings but to visit the ailing President.

He dismissed as a "simplistic way to look at it" the suggestion that it is puzzling why Nixon has not produced the tapes to completely vindicate himself from any involvement in Watergate crimes and to clear the record. Agnew said he was not "reaching any determination" himself on what the President should do as a result of the request for the tapes by the Senate committee.

"I'm sure he'll do the right thing," Agnew said.

Senate faced with double lie

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a single day, the Senate has been confronted with a double lie by the Pentagon and intentional deception and misrepresentation by the State Department.

Indignant and irritated Senators are planning to investigate both cases.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, revealed Tuesday that the Pentagon, in two instances, "deliberately deceived" the Armed Services Committee on the Cambodian bombing prior to May, 1970.

"Actually, they lied to the committee," Hughes said.

And Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., with documents to back him up, charged that the State Department launched a "series of intentional attempts to mislead the Senate" on the position of the Canadian government on a trans-Canadian pipeline.

On June 22, the State Department issued a letter which indicated that negotiations by the United States of a pipeline agreement does not appear possible at this time.

But Mondale said the letter was a "misrepresentation" of the Canadian position as relayed by the U.S. embassy in Ottawa.

"Our State Department has been involved in misrepresentations, attempting to mislead the Congress on the position of the Canadian government."

"State Department documents have misled members of Congress, and State Department lobbyists were on the Hill in force last week misleading members of this body with incorrect views on the policy of the Canadian government."

"It is incredible that this series of intentional attempts to mislead the Senate has taken place—as we sit in the shadow of Watergate."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who backed the trans-Alaska pipeline, said he relied on State Department documents and added "I just don't like to be used." He called for a "full investigation."

Former POW too short

HOUSTON (UPI) — Former prisoner of war Ronald Ridgeway cannot be a Houston policeman because he is an inch and a quarter too short, Chief Herman Short said Monday.

Ridgeway is 5 feet 5 1/4 inches tall.

H.S. Lanier, chairman of the City Civil Service Commission, said that letting Ridgeway join the department would establish a new regulation concerning height.

"We are bound by law to treat everyone the same," Lanier said.

"If we made an exception for one, we would be obliged to make an exception for all."

No agreement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he has no agreement with President Nixon on the question of his assuming the presidential duties should Nixon be disabled, and that the two have never discussed it.

Agnew was asked about the subject by reporters Tuesday after he spent about 50 minutes with Nixon at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

He replied: "Not a specific agreement."

"I'm sure there is a file on this question, and there are procedures that were established long before this administration came to office," he said. But he added: "I've never discussed it with the President."

Tapes surprise Kalmbach

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "This taping is just unbelievable," exclaimed Herbert W. Kalmbach after testifying before the Senate Watergate Committee revealed his conversations with a trusted friend had been recorded.

The suntanned California lawyer expressed bitterness and shock Tuesday that former White House aide John D.

Ehrlichman had tape recorded a telephone conversation the day before Kalmbach went before the Watergate grand jury.

"We had not seen it beforehand," said Kalmbach of the transcript of the conversation which was dramatically made public by committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C.

Kalmbach testified the remarks made by Ehrlichman in the conversation April 19 were self-serving and lamented he had been "used" by Ehrlichman and others as a conduit for funds to the Watergate defendants.

Ervin, 76, a relentless questioner, concluded in a sometimes harsh cross-examination that it was evident Ehrlichman attempted to make ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III a scapegoat for the Watergate coverup.

The strength of Ervin's initial probing had alarmed Kalmbach's attorney James H. O'Connor, to such an extent he later told interviewers he misunderstood the nature of Ervin's questions.

In an unusual step, Ervin approached O'Connor after the session and shaking hands, apologized for his questioning before Kalmbach had an opportunity to read the transcript.

However, O'Connor told reporters he felt the committee had treated Kalmbach—the President's former personal lawyer fairly and insisted federal Watergate prosecutors have not advised Kalmbach that he will be indicted.

Kalmbach insisted repeatedly during questioning he had not meant to do anything illegal by helping provide the Watergate defendants with legal defense funds.

The telephone transcripts confirm Kalmbach's statement that he went to Ehrlichman for assurance that it would be proper to cooperate with Dean in making the money available.

"God, if I can just make it plain that it was humanitarian and nothing else," the transcript quotes Kalmbach.

Ehrlichman: "Yeah, and the point that I undoubtedly never expressed to you that I continually operated on the basis of Dean's representations to me."

Kalmbach: "Yep. It was not improper."

Ehrlichman: "Right."

Kalmbach: "And there was nothing illegal about it."

Ehrlichman: "See, he's the house lawyer."

Kalmbach: "Yup, exactly and I just couldn't believe that you and Bob (H. R. Haldeman) and the President are just too good friends to ever put me in the position where I'm putting my family on the line."

Then Kalmbach added he would tell the prosecutors exactly what had happened as he had just outlined it.

More in store for Kalmbach

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee has not seen the last of Herbert W. Kalmbach.

The 51-year-old Newport Beach, Calif., lawyer, who has become the "mystery man" of the Watergate case, has been linked to several major areas not yet probed by the Senate committee.

As President Nixon's personal lawyer, and the man who raised $20 million for Nixon in 1968 and 1972, Kalmbach's name has been linked with "dirty tricks" and illegal campaign contributions.

These areas will be explored after the Senate panel has completed its probe of the Watergate break-in and the subsequent cover-up.

Among the areas that are either already under investigation by the committee, or may come up in the future are:

- The purchase of Nixon's $1.5 million estate in San Clemente, which was handled by Kalmbach as Nixon's personal lawyer in 1969. Kalmbach could refuse to testify on this, along with questions about Nixon's income tax, which he helped prepare, on the basis of lawyer-client relationships.
- Kalmbach reportedly handled the payment of $400,000 in Nixon campaign funds given to the Alabama state house campaign of George Wallace's primary opponent in 1970. He was given the money by Lawrence Higby, former aide to then White House Chief of Staff H. R. Haldeman.

—Kalmbach was trustee for $1.1 million in campaign funds left over from the 1968 election. This money was kept in California banks, and reportedly was used for "dirty tricks" by persons hired by agents of the Committee to Re-elect the President.

—Kalmbach personally paid $40,000 in campaign funds to Donald Segretti, who has been indicted in Florida for "dirty tricks." Segretti is charged with forging a letter on stationery of then presidential contender Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, alleging sexual misconduct by two of his opponents, Sens. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.

—American Airlines said it made an illegal $75,000 cash contribution to Nixon's re-election campaign under pressure from Kalmbach. Corporate contributions are illegal under campaign practices laws.

—Several other major industrial firms have claimed they resisted pressure from Kalmbach to make large cash contributions for the Nixon campaign.

CIA nominee accused of dirty tricks

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
 WASHINGTON — President Nixon's nominee as director of the Central Intelligence Agency, has been accused by a former high-ranking CIA official of slanting his reports and allowing U.S. funds to be used to rig an election in South Vietnam.

The nominee, William E. Colby, has come under attack by a onetime colleague, Paul Sakwa, who has submitted a series of secret memos in support of his allegations to the Senate Armed Services Committee. The committee is considering Colby's nomination. Colby, head of the CIA's directorate of operations, the so-called department of dirty tricks, was the agency's station chief in Saigon in the early 1960s at the time Sakwa was chief of the Vietnam covert activity branch of CIA headquarters here.

Sakwa cited the serial numbers of 38 classified cables he said would prove Colby is an uncontrollable agent, he slanted intelligence, submitted misinformation, and permitted U.S. funds to be used in rigging the 1961 election in South Vietnam.

Colby was questioned about the allegation at a closed committee meeting last Tuesday, but committee sources indicated there would be no detailed effort to examine the cables. Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., acting committee chairman, said he did not think Sakwa's information would hold up approval of Colby's nomination.

In an unusual public hearing two weeks ago, Symington questioned Colby at length but did not ask about a suggestion by Gen. Robert E. Cushman, Jr., Marine Corps commandant and former deputy director of the CIA, that Colby may have been involved in the Watergate coverup.

Tax rebels checked by revenue agents

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service has a list of purchasers of a book on tax rebellion, and it intends to make sure they don't follow the book's advice.

The IRS subpoenaed records of a bank account maintained by Karl J. Bray of Orem, Utah, author of "Taxation and Tyranny."

It obtained the names of persons who paid for the $1 book by check.

"If we had a list of subscribers to a book advocating disobedience to the tax laws, we'd be dilatory in our duty if we didn't check next April 15 to see if each of them has filed a return," said IRS intelligence supervisor Richard C. Hymas.

Bray is under indictment on charges of possessing counterfeit IRS seizure stickers. He is, in return, seeking a court injunction to keep the IRS from investigating his bank records.

His book urges citizens to refuse to pay income taxes on the basis of the Fourth and Fifth Amendments.

(c) Washington Star/News
 WASHINGTON — Gasoline supplies improved slightly across the nation last week but remained uncertain in some regions, including portions of Maryland outside the Washington area, the American Automobile Association reported Tuesday.

Its seventh weekly fuel gauge, a check of 3,897 gasoline station operations along major travel routes, revealed that 25 states recorded supply improvements while 24 showed slight deterioration.

Maryland's situation worsened slightly, with only 18 per cent of the stations polled operating on normal schedules, compared to 32 per cent in the previous week's poll. Some 78 per cent were limiting work hours, compared to 64 per cent previously, but 14 per cent were rationing the number of gallons of gasoline per customer, compared to 18 per cent last week.

The AAA reported that other areas of "considerable inconvenience" included Oregon, where only 13 per cent of the stations polled were operating normally; Kansas, at 15 per cent, and Utah with "extremely few stations open later than 7 p.m. (and) almost none open on Sundays."

Denver remained the hardest-hit area in the nation, where of 100 stations checked none were open their usual hours. The Washington area stabilized somewhat, AAA said. About 30 per cent of the stations polled were operating normally, compared to 23 per cent last week, and all stations polled reported having fuel. There were no closings.

The AAA said its survey, supported by interviews with industry and government energy experts, "suggests that the worst of the gasoline supply and distribution problems for summer travel may have passed, but that spot shortages will continue to surface, causing significant local inconveniences in some cases for the remainder of the summer travel season."

The survey findings reveal this national gasoline supply scene:

— 47 per cent of the stations polled operating normal hours and allowing motorists to fill their tanks, compared with 46 per cent last week.

— 48 per cent curtailing hours of operation, the same as last week.

— 9 per cent limiting the amount of fuel a motorist can buy, compared with 10 per cent last week.

Chevy to introduce new Cosworth Vega

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
 Business Week magazine, which has categorically stated that the Detroit muscle car is dead while ignoring the booming "mini" muscle car market, admits in its July 14 issue that the "reported demise of Detroit's muscle cars, it turns out, was premature."

That's putting it mildly. The magazine notes that Chevrolet in 1974 will introduce a Chevy Vega subcompact car with a very special engine.

The power plant sports double overhead camshafts, four valves per cylinder and, says BW, the "first US electronic fuel injection system." Actually, Chrysler in 1958 offered electronic fuel injection made by Bendix, which also is making the injection system for the special Vega.

The Cosworth Vega as it's called because the engine was designed by a famous English racing engine builder called Cosworth engineering, will be a pretty exciting car. No US production engine has had double overhead camshafts, let alone four valves per cylinder, since the classic Stutz DV-32 and Duesenberg Model J of the 1930s.

Some 4,000 Cosworth Vegas will be sold, all silver coupes with special identification emblems. The remarkable thing is that the car will sport a racing engine which, largely because of the fuel injection, will meet stiff pollution standards.

The auto has been under development for several years. It was one of the last projects undertaken by John Delorean, Chevy's former boss, before he left General Motors. Delorean wanted to show the world that Chevy could compete with exotic imports, including the BMW and Alfa Romeo.

In pure racing form, the engine generates a whopping 280 horsepower. But it will turn out about 140 horsepower in the Vega; the car must have such things as a restrictive exhaust system to meet noise pollution standards. Still, that's a considerable jump over the standard Vega 85 horsepower engine.

The Cosworth Vega will cost about $4,000, so there'll doubtlessly be a long line of buyers GM, hoping that the car will take some of the steam out of all-new 1974 Ford Mustang, may even expand production of it.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 22-year-old woman. I am working part-time, doing graduate work in college, and also taking care of a terminally ill mother at night.

Two months ago I gave up my newborn illegitimate daughter for adoption. Her father was my one and only relationship, and he doesn't know about the birth.

I wanted more than anything in the world to keep my baby, but felt that since I had given her life, I had an obligation to give her a decent future. Abby, there was no way I could have done it at that time.

While I carried her, I would stroke my stomach hoping she would somehow be aware of it, as it was the only physical affection I would ever be able to give her. I might add that I, too, am adopted. Maybe that's why I made the decision in favor of adoption. My parents were absolutely wonderful.

West won the trick with his king and led a second club. South won in dummy again, led a second diamond and went through some real agony before finally playing his ace and dropping West's jack.

South looked around for approval and asked us if he hadn't made a fine guess.

Our answer was that he certainly had but this was not a hand for guesswork. He should have played his ace of diamonds at trick two. The jack would have dropped and he would have had no problems.

If an honor failed to drop he would go back to dummy and lead toward his hand. If East showed out he would have gone down but in that case there would have been no way to bring the slam home. Against any other combination the safety play would have succeeded.

Adoption afterthoughts

The people who adopted my baby were childless. I heard they both wept when she was handed over to them.

My question: How can I learn to live with the thought that I have a child somewhere in the world, without yearning to see her, and without wondering what she is like? Do mothers ever get over a thing like this? EMPTY ARMS

DEAR EMPTY: Don't dwell on your loss—dwell on your child's gain. As an adopted child, with happy memories of your own childhood, you have answered your own questions.

Now you can put yourself in the place of your natural mother who loved you so much she gave you up for your sake.

Have patience. Your day will come, and you will be rewarded for your unselfish decision.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 5-year-old nephew who really worries me. He is exceptionally bright, but I don't know where he got this thing about money. He is absolutely fascinated with it.

He has a "piggy" bank which he can open himself, and he makes a game out of counting his money. He has no interest in toys, he just plays with his money.

I say it's unhealthy. His parents think it's cute. He gets a wild look in his eye when he handles money. It's really frightening.

Neither of his parents is money mad. Would I be out of line if I told his parents they should try to encourage him to find another hobby? Or am I concerned over nothing? CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: A preoccupation with anything can be unhealthy. Tell his parents of your concern. But it's even money they won't do anything about it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a hair stylist, and he works long hours six days a week. He is 26, born and raised in Oklahoma.

There is no water shortage here so there's no reason for him to go 3, 4 and 5 days without a bath, but he does. I have tried being subtle about it, like running his bath water for him, but it doesn't work. He just lets the water get cold.

He has oily skin and all the problems that go with it: blackheads and pimples. I have changed the sheets and bathed myself, and still he wants to climb into bed with me right after night without having bathed.

I have told him I think he needs a bath but he says he is comfortable and doesn't want to change his body chemistry. It's just about ruined our sex life. And then he has the nerve to say I am not as "sexy" as I was when he married me. Any suggestions? TURNED OFF

DEAR TURNED: Tell him that if he doesn't want to change his body chemistry he will have to change his address. (Or you'll change your name.)

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a quick reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 6740, E. A., Unit, Twin Falls, Idaho 83429. Self-addressed envelope, please.

Unwed women seek single parenthood

By ARTHUR J. SNIDER
(c) Chicago Daily News

CHICAGO — Physicians are reporting an increasing number of unmarried women in Chicago and suburbs are deliberately becoming pregnant in order to raise a child in single parenthood.

Growing feminine independence, financial security, the influence of the women's liberation movement, and an easing of social sanctions against unwed motherhood are fostering a climate that encourages the decision, it appears.

Purposeful pregnancies among single women are occurring not only among emancipated younger women but older women who wish to experience motherhood while still fertile.

"Women of 35 or over who see little prospect of marriage not infrequently seek pregnancy," observers Dr. Alan B. Gerbie, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Northwestern University Medical School.

Confirming the observation, Dr. Benjamin Boshes, a psychiatrist and chairman of the Northwestern Department of Neurology, predicts that the practice will grow as women become more economically secure and are able to manage their lives adequately.

Though new in the United States, the idea of deliberate unwed motherhood is not new in Europe. It surges following wars that have sharply reduced the ratio of men to women.

"When I was visiting in Budapest 12 years ago, a number of women from east Germany, where the ratio of women to men was 9 to 1, came to Hungary on a short vacation for the purpose of becoming pregnant," said Dr. Boshes.

The inclination toward planned unwed motherhood emerged in a survey among Chicago physicians to determine why so many unmarried women fail to use contraception.

The question was put to obstetrics — gynecologist professors Edwin J. Decosta and David N. Danforth, Northwestern; John Masterson, Stritch School of Medicine; Charles Fields, Chicago Medical School; August F. Daro, Columbus Hospital; Joseph R. Swartout, University of Chicago.

Unmarried females spurn contraceptives, they said in the aggregate, because they:

- Don't want sex to seem planned. Sexual intercourse is an act of love and must result of spontaneity. To protect their self-esteem, they must feel seduced, swept off their feet by passion.
- Desire "naturalness." Sex without chemical or mechanical devices is put in the same category as eating organic foods.

- Feel that "it can't happen to me" or that "I was in a safe period."
- Lack of knowledge about contraceptives.
- Want to obtain a husband or win back a straying boy friend.
- Feel guilty about sexual activity. Running the risk of becoming pregnant atones for the forbidden act.
- Desire to become "instant adults."
- Need a defense against feelings of depression or emptiness.
- Want to act out angry impulses toward parents.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lucille Goolie, Spokane, Wash. Mrs. Bertha Wilson, Twin Falls, is the mother of the bridegroom.

The bride was given in marriage by Lattimer, grandfather of the bridegroom. She wore an old blue floor length dress of blue satin with a chiffon overskirt. The bodice of the dress featured a silver lace overlay.

Her veil was of julle. She carried a cascading bouquet of red roses and greenery, reflecting the colors of the floral decorations. Her jewelry was a pearl drop with matching earrings, a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Judy Perry, Twin Falls, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Vicky Van Buren, sister of the bridegroom, served as bridesmaid. Sharon Wilson, also sister of the bridegroom, served as flower girl.

A Lovelier You HOW TO CUT SABER CURVES

By Mary Sue Miller

A Lovelier writes: My legs look like a football player's. There is a sharp muscular curve on the outsides of the calves. My little brother calls them "boiled potatoes."

What can I do?

The Answer: This condition is sometimes referred to as a saber curve, simply because it really has the shape of a saber's blade. I prefer that name to "boiled potatoes." Little brothers, please note.

The trouble can be corrected by this combination of methods:

1. Take a critical look at the shoes you hack around in. Are the heels on the outer edges? If so, it means you walk in a way that bulges the outer calf muscles.
- To overcome this fault, concentrate on walking with the knees relaxed and with the weight rolling through the dead center of the foot. Keep at it until the action becomes second nature. The curves then will trim down. As a dividend your carriage will look more graceful.
2. To hasten the process, perform this routine 10 times daily. Without shoes, stand on tiptoes with feet and knees together; twist knees outward, and slowly bend knees until hips touch heels. Quickly return to starting position.

While awaiting improvement, have the heel lifts on your shoes replaced as soon as there's a sign of wear. You cannot reach your goal on runover heels.

SPOT REDUCING EXERCISES

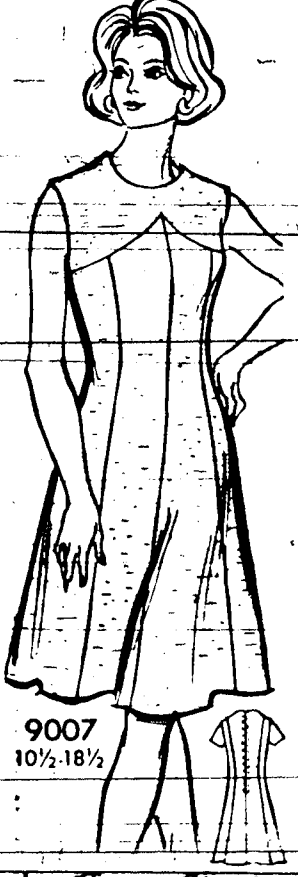

Spot reduction—key to a proportioned figure. Exercise is the only way to trim those stubborn bulges to lose inches exactly where you wish. My new leaflet, SPOT REDUCING EXERCISES, gives easy routines—40 in all—for slimming the upper back, arms, midriff, hips, legs, ankles. Plus ideal measurements and other figure-trimming tips. Dangerous practice

A belt buckle can be a mighty important reminder when it comes to proper climbing of ladders. Among the more dangerous practices is over-reaching from a ladder, or shifting your weight to the side, either of which can cause you to lose your balance or cause the ladder to shift or tumble unexpectedly. It's the unbalanced maneuver that usually causes the sudden jerky movement of a ladder, that sets the scene for a potential accident. To prevent this, keep your belt buckle in mind. When climbing, your body should be in the center of the ladder at all times — your belt buckle between the two outside rails of a ladder.

GOP funds short

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine months after its presidential ticket won landslide re-election, the Republican party's national committee is in such financial distress that it is firing 25 per cent of its staff and its chairman is taking a 10 per cent pay cut.

Without blaming its problems on the party faithful's reaction to the Watergate disclosures, the GOP national committee said it was making the cuts now because a drop in expected contributions so far in 1973 indicated a $1 million deficit by the end of the year.

The effect of the staff reductions will be to eliminate 30 to 35 jobs, spokesman Robert Rousek said Tuesday. National committee chairman George Bush is voluntarily making a 10 per cent cut in his $42,500 yearly salary, Rousek said, and some other committee officials also were taking pay cuts.

Rousek said small donations under $100—actually were up compared to last year, but there had been a decline in larger contributions. As a result, the committee's financial officials projected a shortage of more than 20 per cent to meet the original $5.5 million 1973 budget.

The reductions come at a crucial time for the national committee.

Bush has just completed an organization for the 1974 congressional elections, in which the GOP had hoped to make a strong bid for control of both the House and Senate. Even before the retrenchment was announced, it had quietly dropped a plan to mount a vigorous candidate recruiting program in advance of the 1974 campaigns.

F111A fall cause not discovered

NELLIS AFB, Nev. (UPI) — Air Force officials here say their investigation into the crash of an F111A fighter in southwestern Utah has yet to uncover the cause of the mishap.

A base information officer said once the investigation is finished, it will be turned over to officials at Norton AFB, Calif., before being released to the public.

FTC opposes oil firms in lawsuit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) accused the nation's eight biggest oil companies Tuesday of maintaining a monopolistic grip on the gasoline business that has cost U.S. drivers untold dollars in higher prices and helped create the gasoline shortage.

The big companies have stifled competition for nearly a quarter century, the FTC said, through a system that controls the industry from oil well to gas pump and abuses and exploits the system to reap excessive profits for itself.

Moving with unusual speed and taking a short cut in its usual legal channels, the agency issued an antitrust complaint against the firms. It did not spell out exactly what corrective measures it would take if it wins the case, but said it would do anything necessary to "restore competition in the relevant market or markets."

Such action could be a demand that the companies divest themselves of some of their gasoline production functions. Legislation was recently introduced in Congress which would accomplish much the same thing by forbidding an oil company from engaging in more than a few of the prime processes—exploration, refining, transportation and so on.

The companies named in the complaint together rang up $2.5 billion in sales last year. They are, in order of size: Exxon Corp., New York; Texaco Inc., New York; Gulf Oil Corp., Pittsburgh; Mobil Oil Corp., New York; Standard Oil of California, San Francisco; Standard Oil of Indiana, Chicago; Shell Oil Corp., Houston, Tex.; and Atlantic-Richfield Co., New York.

The firms were given 30 days to respond to the complaint. If they deny the charges the matter would go to adjudication within the FTC's usual legal channels, and the oil companies could appeal any adverse decision to the courts.

The action was unusual since the agency generally issues a proposed complaint—putting the party or parties involved on notice and opening the way for a settlement without a formal complaint being issued.

Tuesday's complaint resulted from a two-year study—completed just July 1—which was highly critical of the anticompetitive structure of the industry.

And it came at a time of increasing scrutiny of the industry for causes of the gasoline shortage which American motorists first began feeling this spring when gasoline stations restricted their hours or sales. By some estimates about 2,000 independent stations have been forced out of business since the first of the year because the big oil companies would not sell them gasoline from their refineries—the major source of gasoline for independent and company owned stations alike.

Gem board sets residency rules

BOISE (UPI) — The State Board of Education has approved a resolution that sets up guidelines to allow students to gain residency in Idaho while they attend school.

Board members said Tuesday this would allow students who meet the requirements to pay in-state fees and not out-of-state tuition. The board set several criteria as evidence for domicile in Idaho, including employment in Idaho other than normally provided on a temporary basis to students by an institution of higher education or other temporary employment.

Other criteria included: Ownership of residential real property in the state.

— Acceptance of future employment in the state, registration of a motor vehicle, an Idaho driver's license, voting within the state and payment or non-payment of taxes.

— And continuous residence in the state during periods when not enrolled as a student or during periods between academic sessions.

At the present, non-residents are not allowed in-state institution of higher education. Under the current policy students would have to leave school for a semester or six months and live in the state for full residency.

The resolution said the guidelines were being set up because of recent court cases in the U.S. which declare unconstitutional such "irrebuttable presumption of non-resident status."

The policy also allows a full-time student—who has been present in Idaho for one year or more—to apply for reclassification of residency if he meets the criteria.

In other business before the board meeting at Boise State College, Charles Kegeles, academic vice president at Idaho State University, proposed a course at ISU in the area of geothermal conversion.

He told the board if the proposed program were accepted, it would cost about $47,000 with several staff positions needed including a geophysicist, a technician, two research assistants, travel allowance and secretary.

"What we are asking," Kegeles said, "is to stake a claim and get in on this exciting development."

Also Tuesday, some board members said they will not become involved in an attorney general's investigation into alleged misuse of personnel and equipment at ISU.

ISU President William E. Davis met Monday with Attorney General W. Anthony Park to discuss the investigation probed by the local chapter of the American Federation of Teachers at ISU.

The AFT chapter sent a report to Park outlining some alleged misuses of personnel and equipment in the university's maintenance department.

MH woman victim of San Francisco killer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Mountain Home hospital technician has been identified as one of four women strangled here within the last six weeks by what police describe as a "freak."

San Francisco homicide detectives identified the latest victim as Nancy Patricia Gidley, 24, an X-Ray technician at Elmore Memorial Hospital.

She was the latest of four victims strangled and their bodies found in parks or school yards.

Mountain Home police said the woman took a few days off from her job July 12 to travel to San Francisco for a wedding. The wedding was scheduled for July 14 and the woman's body was found July 15.

Mountain Home police are working with San Francisco detectives in an attempt to find some clues as to her assailant.

Miss Gidley was wearing only a fish-shaped earring when her body was found in a gymnasium. The coroner said the discovery was less than 24 hours after she was killed.

TF youth garden contest runner-up

Award given

SECOND PLACE plaque in National Junior Horticulture Association regional contest is awarded Kenneth Knefel, Twin Falls, by I. T. (Pete) Creed, Twin Falls (right).

TWIN FALLS — Kenneth Knefel, 17, Twin Falls, was recently notified he had been selected second place winner in the Western regional contest of the National Junior Horticulture Association. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert J. Knefel and competed with youth of 10 other states in the written report form contest. Judging was at the University of New Mexico. Knefel, in his report, told how he planted 38 varieties of vegetables, how deep he planted, the type of pesticides used, and how much profit he made from the sale of garden vegetables last year.

The young gardener was presented a plaque Wednesday evening during the Twin Falls Grange meeting from I. T. (Pete) Creed, Twin Falls, who was instrumental in first getting the boy and his two younger brothers interested in growing vegetables.

Last year the boys netted over $600 from a three-fourth acre plot of pumpkins and squash which they sold to stores in Magic Valley, and also sold from a booth on their lawn.

Kenneth raised a 95 pound King of the Mammoth squash which won blue ribbons at the Twin Falls County Fair in both open and junior gardening classes last year. Philip, 13, and John, 12, assist their older brother in his gardening ventures.

This is the fourth year they are entering in the junior gardening events of the fair. This class for young gardeners, as well as a lower growing class for junior gardeners was originally started by Creed. During this fall's Twin Falls County Fair, Creed will present trophies to the best individual gardener in both junior flower raising and vegetable growing.

Knefel will be a senior this fall at the Filer High School where he is active in Future Farmers of America. Following graduation he plans to attend the College of Southern Idaho and major in agriculture.

He plans to keep increasing his produce raising until it reaches 10 or 20 acres and will eventually have his own truck gardening enterprise. This summer he is also working on a Filer dairy farm.

He encourages everyone to raise gardens as "the savings on food bills can be tremendous," he said. He feels there is a good future in truck gardening, as with more and more people moving into Magic Valley, there will be an ever-increasing demand for fresh vegetables. Kenneth and his brothers have won over 100 ribbons in the four years they have been entering their produce at the fair. They have had tourists and visitors from six states stop by their produce stands to buy their wares. The boys use two different types of garden plows or cultivators and say they are both good "muscle developers."

The Times-News presents a comprehensive look at history, growth and development of Magic Valley and Southern Idaho.

Teamsters sued over strike

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers Union filed suit against the Teamsters Union and 27 grape growers Monday, seeking $48 million in damages arising from violence during the Coachella Valley Grape strike.

A class action suit asking $45 million in damages for all UFWU members and supporters active in the picketing plus 13 personal injury suits were filed in Indian Superior Court. Teamster President Frank Fitzsimmons was among the union officials named as defendants in the class action, along with 45 individual Teamsters who worked as guards during most of the grape strike by the UFWU, which began April 16.

The suit alleges the Teamsters acted "with the permission, consent and encouragement of their codefendants," the 27 Coachella valley growers and shippers, to injure and intimidate UFWU pickets.

The majority of grape growers in the Coachella Valley signed new contracts with the Teamsters in April after their three-year contract with the UFWU expired.

Gem crops maturing

BOISE (UPI) — Dry hot weather across the state has hastened maturity of all crops, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The department says this is especially true in the dryland areas of north Idaho, where continued lack of rainfall is causing stress and reducing yield prospects of most crops.

The high need for irrigation water is placing heavy demand on irrigation water throughout the state.

Jerome approves cable franchise

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — The Jerome City Council approved Tuesday night a 10-year franchise to Idaho Video Inc., Jerome, a cable television firm.

William L. (Bill) Ross, owner of Idaho Video, told the council that his firm is now at the halfway point in the complete rebuilding of the Jerome cable television system.

Under the 10-year renewal of the existing franchise, Idaho Video will pay the city 1.5 per cent of the annual gross service charges on July 1 as an inspection and regulatory fee for use of city-owned property.

The lease also provides that if by May 31, 1978, Idaho Video has 2,500 or more subscribers the 1.5 per cent will be increased to 2 per cent for the balance of the franchise term.

These charges are for the use of the city water tower which is supporting a microwave dish and off air receiving antenna and for the building near the base of the water tank structure. The building is used to house microwave and associated electronic equipment.

The microwave and electronic equipment located on the Jerome Butte has been moved into the city.

A public hearing on the irrigation assessment was scheduled for Tuesday's meeting. After hearing no protests, the council approved the assessment roll and authorized the city clerk to submit the list to the county to be placed on 1974 tax rolls.

The city ordinance, No. 311, which would set a fee for street and alley cuts to lay utility lines was presented to the council for approval, but was held pending modification after councilman Marshall Everheart objected to the charges.

Under the proposed ordinance, a permit would be required and a charge of $6 per square yard of $30, whichever was greater, would be made by the city to back fill, compact and patch the cut, whether in the alley or street.

Everheart objected to the charge being the same in the alley as in the street.

City engineer William Block told the council that even with the $30 charge, the city would be lucky if it broke even. The main purpose of this ordinance is not to make money, but to provide some kind of quality control on back filling of these street cuts," Block said.

It was agreed by the council to maintain the same charges for street cuts, but lower the charge to $20 for the alley cuts.

The council approved a request by Mountain Bell to place a telephone cable underground in the west section of town, which will be extended to rural customers. Veri Sullivan of the Jerome Lions Club asked the council if the club, for its project, could place Astroturf around the Jerome wading pool.

Sullivan said it has been brought to the club's attention that the area around the wading pool and the swimming pool becomes slick at times and poses a danger to the children.

Council S. N. (Shorty) Weeks said the club could not be permitted to place the turf around the pool because it would be impossible for it to be sanitized each day as required. Weeks also noted that the city has just completed lacquering and sanding the slick areas around the pool.

Weeks reported to the council that numerous items have been left at the pool by swimmers and requested he be given the authorization to place an ad in the paper stating that these items are at the pool and if not claimed would be donated either to HOPE or some other worthy organization.

Len Bingham, city building inspector, told the council that as of July 1 all modular or factory built homes will be inspected at the factory site and if construction meets the uniform building, plumbing and the electrical codes, a special insignia will be placed on the home.

Park funded at Murtaugh

MURTAUGH (UPI) — The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has granted $22,797 to Murtaugh for construction of a city park.

Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, Tuesday said the park will be located on U.S. 30 near the western limits of the city. It will include picnic facilities, group shelter, riding arena, baseball fields with portable bleachers, comfort stations and landscaping.

The federal grant will be matched by local funds.

Center offers meals

GOODING — The Gooding County Senior Citizens Center will offer its first meal at the center at noon Thursday.

Marlene Lees, director of the center, reported that this is not a potluck, but a complete roast beef dinner offered by the center for all-county senior citizens 55 and over. Donations will be accepted.

Following the meal, religious instruction classes will be conducted beginning at 3 p.m.

On Friday, the center will conduct a field trip to Bliss to visit the ghost town and to observe pottery making at the Swallow's Nest. Transportation will be provided and minibus will leave the center at 1 p.m. and return by 4:30 p.m.

Demos plan telethon

BOISE (UPI) — Joe McCarter, state chairman of the Democratic Party, said today Idaho will participate in a national Democratic fund raising telethon on Saturday night, Sept. 16.

McCarter reported plans were launched at a national meeting of Democratic state chairmen held last week in Chicago.

Nolan Hancock, state executive secretary, attended the Chicago meeting and then outlined the telethon plans to the Idaho State Democratic Executive Committee at a special meeting held in Boise.

OEO approves grant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, learned Tuesday that the Office of Economic Opportunity has approved a grant of $100,000 to the Idaho Migrant Council.

This grant which began on July 1 and runs for three months, will enable the council to continue the services currently provided by its program.

This project serves Magic Valley and eastern Idaho.

Trial begins today

PAYETTE (UPI) — The murder trial of Ray Craft Hurd, 53, Emmett, is scheduled to get underway today following the selection of a jury Tuesday.

Hurd faces a charge of first degree murder in connection with the shooting death of another Emmett resident, Roy M. Bell, 36.

The shooting occurred on Feb. 15.

Prosecuting Attorney Cy Rood of Emmett is scheduled to give his opening statement in Third District Court before presiding Judge Gilbert C. Morris.

Hailey youth charged

HAILEY — A 17-year-old Hailey youth has been charged with destruction of public property in connection with about $150 in damage to the Hailey City Park.

According to Hailey Police Chief Doug Williams, charges are pending against another youth allegedly involved in the incident which occurred about 7 p.m. Monday.

Williams said a vehicle had been driven in the park in such a manner as to tear up newly planted grass and to cause other damage.

The 17-year-old youth has been released to parental custody.

New York man arrested

HAILEY — A Utica, N. Y., man has been arrested on a warrant from the Twin Falls County sheriff's office charging embezzlement by a lease.

According to Hailey Police Chief Doug Williams, Nicholas O'Connell was arrested Monday night in Hailey and has been released on $200 bond.

Pipeline bill move stalls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional backers of a 789-mile Alaska oil pipeline failed today in an effort to speed House action on a pipeline bill similar to one approved by the Senate Tuesday.

Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, blocked consideration of the bill by the House Interior Committee despite a plea by Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., that every day of delay was costing the United States an outflow of $5.5 million for foreign oil.

Seiberling used a parliamentary objection that committee rules did not permit the matter to be considered, so the meeting had to be rescheduled for Friday.

The Interior Committee had scheduled a hearing one day after it was approved by a subcommittee. Seiberling's stopped the hearing on grounds a committee rule bans such sessions during a party caucus, scheduled for the same time.

4 Blaine youths face charges

HAILEY — Four youths have been charged with malicious destruction of private property in a series of vandalism incidents in Blaine County.

According to a Blaine County sheriff's deputy, arrested were John Rooney, 18; Tim Knight, 18; a 17-year-old youth and a 16-year-old youth, all from Hailey.

The deputy said Rooney and Knight were arraigned in Blaine County Magistrate Court Tuesday and pleaded guilty to the charges.

Petitions are being filed against the two juveniles and they will be arraigned Thursday morning.

The vandalism incidents occurred early Tuesday morning. They allegedly included an undetermined amount of damage to the Rotarun ski area warming hut and ski storage buildings; minor damage to a county truck parked at Rotarun and a county truck at the county shop in Hailey; about $100 damage stemming from a break-in at the Wood River recreation area; and about $115 damage to the windshield of the police department patrol vehicle.

Flames stretch along the north side of the Snake River canyon late Tuesday

Two fires said man caused opening set

SHOSHONE — Two range fires, one labeled intentionally man caused, were reported Tuesday night by the Shoshone District Bureau of Land Management.

The largest of the two was three miles north of Twin Falls west of the US Highway 93 junction to Blue Lakes Country Club. Between 500 and 600 acres of range land were burned, according to Michael Green, public information officer. The fire burned state, private and federal lands, Green said.

Apparently man caused, the fire was reported at 11 p.m. and was controlled at 2:30 a.m. today, Green said. Dispatchers sent 37 firefighters, five tankers, one refill tanker and one shovel crew to the site.

The second fire which was reported at 5:50 p.m. four miles south of Shoshone burned 80 acres. Green said this fire, adjacent to Highway 93 at the Notch Butte Lookout turnout, appeared to be an intentionally man-caused fire. "It appears we have an arsonist in the area," Green said.

Twenty four men manning one hand carried three tankers were dispatched to the fire.

Green said 51 fires have been reported on the district this year and about 15,600 acres of range land have been burned. Last year at this time 11,000 acres had been burned in 27 fires.

More than 30 of this year's fires have been man caused, Green said.

Cost of fire suppression within the district last year to the taxpayer was $168,000 or $4 per acre, Green said. Reseeding of area burns this year will run $8 per acre he said.

Range is extremely dry, Green said, and extreme conditions necessary to prevent further range damage.

TWIN FALLS — County Commissioners were told today the new sanitary landfill south of Twin Falls will probably be ready for a "grand opening" about the first of September.

The new site, west of the present landfill, is being prepared as the central landfill in the county-wide system. It will replace the large landfill formerly operated by Twin Falls City, which county officials say has run out of soil deep enough to accommodate the trenching system of solid waste disposal.

Darrell Heider, county sanitation superintendent, told the county commissioners Tuesday afternoon the site preparation is expected to be complete at that time, but said the rent is paid on the previous site through the summer and that there is adequate space to serve until September.

Plans are also being made for buildings at some of the other land fill sites around the county where an attendant can have a base of operation and where heavy equipment can be stored and maintained during bad weather.

Heider said efforts are continuing to do as much trenching as possible in some of the unmanned dump sites such as Kimberly, so collections of debris can eventually be covered.

Rupert cuts cost for 2 owners

RUPERT — Street improvement costs were cut in half for two property owners on Eighth Street in action by the Rupert City Council Tuesday night.

Cost estimates of $1,712 for curb, asphalt, gravel, sidewalk and curb and sod removal for each of the property owners were presented by city engineer Ron Klebe at the beginning of the meeting.

The street improvements were approved by the City Council last week after months of discussion pending agreements on contracts with the property owners involved, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. (Bus) Howard and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sheen.

Sheen and Mr. and Mrs. Howard attended the Tuesday night meeting and protested the high cost they would have to face. "I would like to see a wider street there but don't feel we should have to pay the cost for the second busiest corner in town," Howard said.

Originally the improvements were scheduled to be completed around the corner onto G Street, which would have involved seven property owners and the cost, figured on a footage basis, would have been smaller.

The council decided to cut the cost to $821 for each couple, with the city paying the difference in cost, because the limited scope of the project put too heavy a burden on the only two property owners on the street.

The county, which owns the property across the street, has agreed to pay the cost for any improvements the city feels are necessary.

Asked about Asst. Minidoka School District Supt. Doyle Lowder's statement to the school board Monday that Minico High School may be able to hook into Rupert's sewer system, Jim Felton, superintendent of the Rupert lagoon, said, "I felt it could be done but not until the new system is put in."

Felton said he had discussed no possible costs during his conversation with Lowder and that he made no commitment and would not without council approval.

Consulting engineer James Voeller was authorized to tell the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in a meeting Friday that Rupert will go ahead with a sewer system evaluation required by the EPA before final approval for a sewer grant is given.

Voeller said the evaluation will consist of three stages, analysis of the present system, the forwarding of recommendations to the EPA for approval and the implementation of the recommendations such as sewer replacements and sealing.

About 90 per cent of the funds spent for the project will be reimbursed by the EPA, Voeller said.

Missing Jerome youth safe

By BOB JOHNSON
Special to the Times-News

JEROME — A 16-year-old Jerome youth was missing 90 hours in the Lemhi Mountains the past weekend before turning up in the Pahsimeroi Valley at May.

Lynn Weigt separated from his two companions Saturday about 4 p.m. in Bear Valley south of Salmon.

The youth, along with Jon Schierman, 33, and Joe Fascilla, 15, also of Jerome, had gone into Bear Valley lakes Friday night by way of Allison Creek from U. S. Highway 93.

Carl Guillette, Leadore District ranger, who was notified the youth was missing, said the trio had camped at Big Bear Valley Lake Friday night and on Saturday had gone over to Small Bear Valley Lake.

The three were on their way back when they stopped to rest about 4 p.m. Saturday and for some reason the Weigt youth disappeared.

Schierman and Fascilla searched but couldn't find him Saturday night or Sunday. They returned to their vehicle parked at the mine in Allison Creek and drove through Salmon to the Leadore Ranger Station where they notified the ranger about 7:30 p.m.

Guillette notified Sheriff Bill Baker and Don Hooper, Salmon District ranger, and plans were made for a search Monday morning.

In the meantime, the Weigt youth arrived at May Sunday night and telephoned his parents in Jerome. They in turn notified the Salmon Forest fire dispatcher's desk which notified the deputy sheriff.

Schierman and Fascilla drove to May where they picked up Weigt and returned to Jerome.

Guillette said the youth had to climb out of Bear Valley and over the top of the divide to get into the Pahsimeroi Valley. He described the area as extremely rough country.

The distance from Bear Valley to May is approximately 17 miles in a straight line.

Aides complete land use plan

TWIN FALLS — Sawtooth National Forest officials have completed a proposed land use plan for the South Boise-Wood River planning unit.

Sawtooth Forest Supervisor Ed Fournier said an environmental statement describing the proposed plan for the 600,000 acre area covering portions of Blaine, Camas and Elmore counties south of Sawtooth National Recreation Area has been filed with the Council on Environmental Quality in Washington, D. C.

Fournier said Monday copies of the environmental statement and land use plan are on file for public review in his office in Twin Falls, and interested persons are invited to comment on or criticize the plan.

All written comments must be submitted by August 20, Fournier said. After that the Forest Service will evaluate all comments and possibly make revisions in the plan. The finalized plan will then be made available.

Included in the planning unit are the headwaters of the South Fork of the Boise River, tributaries of the Big Wood River, the Soldier Mountains north of Fairfield and the Smoky Mountains west of Ketchum.

Fournier said the unit includes several roadless areas identified in the nationwide Roadless Area Review being conducted by the U.S. Forest Service. The Smoky Mountains area has been tentatively selected by the Chief of the Forest Service as a new wilderness study area.

The South Boise-Wood River Planning Unit contains a variety of important resources, the supervisor said. These include valuable watersheds, habitat for many species of wildlife, lakes and streams, forage for cattle and sheep, minerals, wood products and a variety of year around recreational opportunities including the Bald Mountain Ski Area at Sun Valley.

Fournier said the Draft Environmental Statement was prepared in accordance with the national Environmental Policy Act. This provides the public an opportunity to review and comment prior to final adoption of the land use plan.

Fournier said after Aug. 20, the Forest Service will evaluate all public inputs received and a final statement will be prepared and be available to interested persons.

Sentiment tips performance in NL all-star balloting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Old favorites Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves and Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs were selected over younger rivals enjoying better seasons in the fans' voting for the National League's All-Star team announced Tuesday. Exercising their prerogative in the vote for the "fans' game," the ones who pay the freight made Aaron their selection over Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Williams their pick over Bobby Bonds of the San Francisco Giants. Chosen to the starting team along with Aaron and Williams were catcher Johnny Bench, second baseman Joe Morgan and outfielder Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Reds, shortstop Chris Speier of the Giants, third baseman Ron Santo of the Cubs and outfielder Cesar Cedeno of the Houston Astros.

Bench, who was voted the starting catcher for the fifth straight season, led all the votegetters with 1,738,557, beating out Manny Sanguillen of the Pirates by more than 1,300,000 votes. Aaron, whose assault on Babe Ruth's all-time career record of 714 homers has been one of the most exciting features of the season, ranked second with 1,362,447 although he was hitting 50 points less and had driven in 22 fewer runs than Stargell in games played through July 13.

Likewise, the often underpublicized Williams outpolled Bonds, 889,669 to 855,344, although the San Francisco star was leading him in homers, runs batted in and average in the July 13 figures. Morgan received 986,769 votes, Santo 808,720, Speier 930,353 and Rose 1,004,151 with all three winning by a margin of at least 90,000 votes. Rose was the third most popular vote-getter in the overall balloting with 1,004,151.

The 44th annual All-Star game will be played July 24 in Kansas City's new Royal Stadium. The American League starting lineup, announced previously, is composed of first baseman Dick Allen, second baseman Ron Carew, shortstop Bert Campaneris, third baseman Brooks Robinson, catcher Carlton Fisk and outfielders Bobby Murcer, Reggie Jackson and Amos Otis. John Mayberry probably will replace Allen if the White Sox slugger is unable to play. The pitching staffs will be selected by rival managers Sparky Anderson of Cincinnati and Dick Williams of Oakland.

Williams snubs Ryan, names 3 of his pitchers to AL staff

BOSTON (UPI) — Snubbing California's Nolan Ryan, who has thrown two no-hitters this year, Manager Dick Williams named eight pitchers to the American League All-Star team today, including Jim Hunter, Ken Holtzman and Rollie Fingers of his own world champion Oakland A's. Williams' pitching selections for the July 24 All-Star game at Kansas City were announced by Joe Cronin, the American League President. Ryan, who threw his second no-hitter Sunday while striking out 17 batters in a 6-0 win at

Detroit, was the most notable name left off the American league pitching staff. Cronin said the league's winningest pitcher, Wilbur Wood, 18-12, of the Chicago White Sox, declined Williams' invitation to play because his seven-year old son is scheduled to undergo surgery. Hunter, 14-3, and Holtzman, 14-8, are the only repeaters from last year's American League pitching staff although neither man was used in the 1972 game. Others named by Williams were Bert Blyleven, 12-8 of Minnesota, Jim Colborn 12-5 of Milwaukee, Bill Lee, 11-3 of Boston and Bill Singer, 14-5 of California along with relief pitcher Sparky Lyle, 2-5, of the New York Yankees. Lee, Lyle and Holtzman are left-handers. Holtzman has the league-leading earned run average, 2.09, while Lyle has picked up 24 saves after a slow start. Blyleven, 22, the youngest of the All-Star pitchers for the American League, leads the league in shutouts with seven. Fingers, 3-6, has 10 saves and a 1.27 ERA.

Cards nip Giants 2-1 to move to within half-game of lead

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Rich Folkers, fired a six-hitter against the San Francisco Giants Tuesday night and the St. Louis Cardinals took a 2-1 win to move within one-half game of the front-running Chicago Cubs in the National League East. Folkers beat the Giants for the first time in his career and boosted his season record to 3-1 for the Cards. The Cards scored their two runs in the second inning on consecutive singles by Luis Melendez, Bernie Carbo and Ken Rietz and a double play ground ball.

game with a fifth-inning sacrifice fly to give the San Diego Padres a 1-0 victory, extending the Cubs' losing streak to five games. Arlin had a one-hitter going until the seventh inning when both Billy Williams and Jim Hickman singled, and Williams became the only Chicago runner to reach third base with one out. But Ron Santo ended that threat by hitting into a double play.

Minnesota, Jim Colborn 12-5 of Milwaukee, Bill Lee, 11-3 of Boston and Bill Singer, 14-5 of California along with relief pitcher Sparky Lyle, 2-5, of the New York Yankees. Lee, Lyle and Holtzman are left-handers. Holtzman has the league-leading earned run average, 2.09, while Lyle has picked up 24 saves after a slow start. Blyleven, 22, the youngest of the All-Star pitchers for the American League, leads the league in shutouts with seven. Fingers, 3-6, has 10 saves and a 1.27 ERA.

Aaron homers but Mets win

ATLANTA (UPI) — Pinch-hitting Willie Mays came through with a two-run single to cap a seven-run rally in the top of the ninth inning Tuesday night and give the New York Mets an 8-7 victory over the Atlanta Braves. The Braves had forged into a 7-1 lead after six innings on the strength of three home runs, including Hank Aaron's 698th. But the Mets sent 12 batters to the plate in the ninth with two-run homers by Rusty Staub and John Milner cutting the score to 7-5, pinch-hitter Jim Beauchamp's run-scoring single leaving the Mets only one run shy and the 42-year-old Mays then coming through with a clutch hit that drove in the tying and winning runs.

Andy Messersmith, who has won four of his last five decisions, fanned seven and walked two enroute to his ninth win against six losses. He carried a two-hit shutout into the ninth before the Pirates rallied for three runs and was replaced by Jim Brewer.

U.S. raps Italy in track

TURIN, Italy (UPI) — Olympic gold medalist Dave Wottle scored an easy victory in the 1,500-meter run Tuesday to lead the U.S. to a near-sweep in the opening day's events of the U.S.-Italian track meet.

Wottle, of Canton, Ohio, crossed the wire in 3:36.8, ahead of teammate Charles Labenz of Tempe, Ariz., who finished second.

The U.S. also scored one-two finishes in the 400-meter hurdles—Jim Bolding (49.5) of Oklahoma City and Robert Pringle of Mobile, Ala., the women's long jump—Martha Watson (20 feet, 1-2) of Long Beach, Calif., and Willye White of Chicago; the women's javelin—Barbara Pickel (164 ft., 3 1-2) of Amityville, N.Y., and Debbie J'Angevin of Lakewood, Calif.; and the women's 400-meters—Chris O'Herron (53.88) of Upper Darby, Pa., and Kathy Hammond of Carmichael, Calif.

Italy's most impressive victory came in the 100-meter dash as Pietro Mennea upset Olympian Herb Washington. Mennea's time was 10.18 compared to Washington's 10.23.

Scott Bringham of Taylorsville, Utah, ran a very strong 10,000 meters to win that event easily in 28 minutes, 46.6 seconds. Italy's Giuseppe Ardizzone finished second in 29:30.

Maurice Peoples of Arizona State edged Marcello Fiasconaro of Italy to win the 400-meters, Al Feuerbach of the U.S. won the shotput and Dwight Stones captured the high jump at seven feet, 6 1/2 inches. The U.S. relay team of Washington, Steve Williams, Marshall Dill and Edmond Hammond also won the 400-meter relay in 39:12.

Bird seasons to be finalized

BOISE (UPI) — Closing dates for upland game bird hunting seasons, bag limits and regulation details will be established by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission at a special meeting in Boise beginning Aug. 15.

In addition, trapping seasons and regulation details for furbearing animals will be fixed for the 1973-74 seasons. The commission will conduct a public hearing Aug. 15 to gather testimony and consider evidence with respect to setting upland game bird hunting seasons and regulations for 1973 and furbearing animal trapping seasons and regulations for 1973-74.

Expos rally past Astros

HOUSTON (UPI) — Boots Day, who had left five runners on base in his first two times up, slashed a two run single in the seventh to break a 2-2 tie and lead the Montreal Expos to a 7-2 triumph over the Houston Astros Tuesday night. Day's single highlighted a five-run rally which pulled the Expos from a 2-1 deficit to a commanding lead. Ron Hunt started the inning with an infield hit and Miller Jorgensen lined a double to right-center. Hunt scored the tying run and Jorgensen moved to third when Ron Fairly grounded out. Bob Bailey walked and stole second to bring up Day.

Connors surprises top seed

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Twenty-year-old Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., upset top-seeded Stan Smith, 6-3, 6-3, Tuesday night in the 10th annual $60,000 U.S. Professional Tennis Championships. The left-handed Connors, who was third ranked in the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, beat Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., in two sets with aggressive defensive action and a strong two-flsted backhand. There was a near-capacity crowd of 4,000 on hand at the Longwood Cricket Club. Connors will play Ray Moore of South Africa in the second round Thursday. Earlier, second-seeded Arthur Ashe of Miami, Fla., capitalized on experience to defeat spunky Harold Solomon, Silver Springs, Md., 7-6, 2-6, 6-2.

CHARCOAL VS. GAS. THE UNFAIR COMPARISON.

It's unfair to compare our new gas barbecue grill to the old fashioned charcoal barbecue. A gas grill simply has too many advantages. To cook with our new gas barbecue all you need is a match and a 10-minute warm-up. To cook with a charcoal barbecue you need a barbecue grill, and charcoal, and lighter fluid, and a lot of matches, and a lot of time, and cleanser. You get the same barbecue flavor with each. The flavor comes from meat juices dripping on hot briquettes. Be fair to yourself. Take an unfair advantage and barbecue with clean natural gas. And we'll finance it. Make monthly payments with your gas bill.

Cage, running clinics slated in Magic Valley

Basketball and distance running clinics for Magic Valley youths will be held at three sites.

The basketball clinics, featuring some top NBA stars, will be held July 30 to Aug. 3 at Mountain Home and Minico High School gymnasiums. Bob Shay, who has coached Wood River high school to a consistently high showing in state track and cross country, offers a distance running camp at Sun Valley from July 29 through Aug. 4. Jim Blaisdell, CSI coach and former track all-American at BYU, and Frank Shorter, who won the Olympic marathon championship, also will be on hand.

Among the stars who will assist in presenting the basketball clinics at Minico and Mountain Home are Larry Farmer, UCLA star and now with the Cleveland Cavaliers, Stan Love, ex-Oregon great now playing with the Baltimore Bullets, Steve Patterson, Cleveland Cavaliers, and Joe Ellis, forward for the Golden State Warriors.

The four men will each spend a half day at each location giving tips on how to play their various positions.

The basketball camp is open to all youths from 11 to 19 years of age and will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. Additional information may be obtained from Gary Swan in Rupert or Ken Everett in Mountain Home.

The distance running camp above Sun Valley will be a combination of physical and psychological training for runners, who unlike sprinters or team sport athletes, must find a meeting place between body and mind to accomplish their goals.

This point is stressed by Coach Shay who feels that time barriers and physical energies of most distance men is totally controlled by the reluctance of the mind to endure the loneliness and usual pain of setting distance records. He feels conversation between distance men in selecting goals and finding determination will be one of the primary benefits from his camp.

Those participating also will be shown techniques of running plus having the opportunity to run on forest and mountain trails well above the usual competition attitude.

Those interested should contact Shaw at Box 313 in Ketchum.

Tennis meet set

A women's singles tournament is slated for 9 a.m. Saturday at Harmon Park by the Twin Falls Tennis Association, a prelude to the Magic Valley tournament slated July 28 and 29.

A men's competition was conducted last week.

All courts in the city have been reserved for the Magic Valley meet, the first major competition undertaken by the new group. It will feature men's and women's singles plus mixed doubles. Doubles partners will be drawn from a hat.

Entry deadline for the tournament is 5 p.m. July 27 and the meet is open to everyone 16 years of age and older.

Entries should be made through Peg Hansen either by mail to 1749 Dora Drive South or by phoning 734-4629.

Young would like to cash in on title

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Donna Caponi Young would like nothing better than to win the Women's Open golf title for a third time this week—except, perhaps, to earn a little recognition for her first two championships.

"I got the checks (for the $5,000 winner's share), but that's all," Mrs. Young says. "It wasn't worth $100,000 or anything like that. I didn't win a million dollars like (Lee) Trevino."

Although no one ever said the women's champion could expect anything like the men's winner in endorsements and residual benefits, the picture Mrs. Young paints is one of total obscurity.

"Maybe I'm just not the type of individual that attracts endorsements," said Mrs. Young the women's champion in 1969 and 1970. "But it's really a shame."

Like most of the touring women professionals, Mrs. Young, who was single when she won both her Open titles, has a contract with an equipment manufacturer. It didn't earn her bonuses for Open victories, however.

That contrasts with the scene at Oakmont, Pa., little less than a month ago, where Johnny Miller won the U.S. Open and his agent proudly announced Miller would win more in contract bonuses than the $35,000 top prize.

The winner of the Women's Open, which begins Thursday, will earn $6,000.

"Sure, our purses could be bigger," Mrs. Young said. "But I think we're doing alright there. I think in the next five years, the Women's Open championship probably will be worth a lot to the winner. The LPGA is growing so fast and there is so much more television exposure. If someone like Laura Baugh won it this year, she would probably earn a lot."

Miss Baugh, a beautiful, 18-year-old blonde from Long Beach, Calif., joined the tour only last month and already has become one of its best-known players. She finished second in her first tournament as a professional.

Of course, the quickest way women players could make as much money as men would be to play them head-on; a la Billie Jean King and Bobby Riggs for $100,000.

But while Mrs. Young, who earned barely $30,000 in her best season on the tour—a figure that wouldn't even make the list of the 60 exempt players on the men's tour—wants more money, she's also pragmatic about it.

"I'm playing Jimmy Demaret in a 'fun' match this November," she said, "but it's strictly for fun. As for women playing against men regularly, they're just far superior. We wouldn't have a chance. As far as women's lib goes, I'm against it."

Mrs. Young, whose victory in the Bluegrass Invitational at Louisville, Ky., in May was her first since she won the same event in 1970, got into the match with Demaret when he challenged Kathy Whitworth and Miss Whitworth declined. "So I said I'll play, but I don't think it means anything," Mrs. Young said.

Mrs. Young will be one of the favorites when the 72-hole tournament begins Thursday because she apparently has regained her form this year after a prolonged slump.

Last year, she won only $10,077, her worst total since 1967, and she attributed it to the loss of 40 pounds. Slimming down from 175 to 135 on doctor's orders, Mrs. Young was forced to alter her swing.

"I was in a very bad slump," she said. "It took me about eight months to get it back — boy, I was playing just horrible."

With 1973 earnings of $15,599, good for 18th place on the LPGA list, Mrs. Young figures she's now "playing as well as three years ago, but I don't have the confidence that I did." "I tend to get down on myself and I don't know why."

Paekard to defend title in Gooding tournament

GOODING — Kevin Paekard, a senior to be at Twin Falls high school this fall, will defend his title this weekend in the annual Gooding amateur golf tournament.

Usually some championship golfers show up for this event from the Boise area. Magic Valley hopefuls basically are the hottest right now is Carl Ayres, who is from Boise but playing out of Rupert for the summer. He won the Rupert championship and must be considered a contender.

Paekard currently says he's not playing well. That could mean if a teenager is going to grab the title, Burley could provide him in Bill Spencer who was second at Rupert and has been playing well most of the summer.

If anyone but Kevin Paekard wins the thing it will mark the first non-family affair in four years. Kevin's older brother Jim Paekard won it in 1970-71, giving way to youth last year. Jim can't win it now since he's turned professional.

U.S. wrestlers dominate but Israel wins basketball title

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The United States captured nine of 10 gold medals in wrestling Tuesday to surge ahead of Israel on the final day of the Maccabiah Games, but the host country defeated the Americans, 86-80, in the basketball final.

Stuart Pruzansky of Passaic, N.J.; Robert Richmond of Norwood, Mass.; Charles Estlin of Boulder, Colo.; Alex Steinbergh of Brookline, Mass.; Victor Jottelberg of Skokie, Ill.; and Mele Kislun of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Chancellor J.W. Peltason of the university's Champaign campus and the NCAA in Kansas City, Mo., confirmed that an "official inquiry" had been made to the school. Both declined to say specifically what sports or individuals are involved.

The list of other possibilities would include Dave Driscoll of Twin Falls who led both the Ruperts and the Buhl tournaments at one stage and Mike Robertson, Twin Falls, who has been playing well of late. Some of the other top-rated youngsters around will not participate due to conflicts with jobs and vacations.

NCAA asks Illinois for cash accounting

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — The NCAA has asked the University of Illinois to answer charges about alleged "financial transactions" involving athletes at the school, it was announced Tuesday.

It was learned that the NCAA, after more than a year of investigation, presented a list of charges to the Big Ten school and asked the university for a reply to the charges.

Dallas missing three veterans

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — Dallas Cowboys veterans — minus missing linemen Bob Lilly and Dave Manders and quarterback Craig Morton — Tuesday worked out in their first full day of practice and Coach Tom Landry pronounced it "good."

"The squad is in very good shape," Landry said. "We're not wasting any time getting down to work. We had two good practices today."

One rookie also called it quits Tuesday. Defensive lineman Randall Smith, a free agent from George Washington University, left the training camp voluntarily.

Manders Tuesday told Cowboy General Tom Landry he was retiring.

Redskins levy fine on Brown

CARLISLE, Pa. (UPI) — Washington Redskins Coach George Allen said Tuesday that Larry Brown, the most valuable player in the NFL last year, will be fined $300 for each day he stays away from summer camp workouts.

An NCAA spokesman said an "official inquiry" means an NCAA investigation had resulted in charges that appeared to have some "substance."

Manders Tuesday told Cowboy General Tom Landry he was retiring.

Brown failed to show up for a team meeting Sunday night and has missed workouts which began Monday for veterans.

Neither the university, the Big Ten Conference, which announced it was conducting an independent investigation into the charges, nor the NCAA would be more specific about the scope of the inquiry.

The University of Illinois was burned in a "slush fund" scandal in 1966. In that incident, a fund of about $21,000 had been collected by alumni and involved about 33 athletes.

Allen and Brown both have had little to say about the star running back's absence from the camp. Allen has said that Brown has an obligation to the team and "has a fine 1973 contract."

The University of Illinois was burned in a "slush fund" scandal in 1966. In that incident, a fund of about $21,000 had been collected by alumni and involved about 33 athletes.

As a result, Illinois was placed on probation for two years by the NCAA and its football and basketball teams ruled ineligible for post season competition during the period.

SAILING SECOND BASEMAN Doug Griffin of Boston splits around the slide of Jorge Orta to get off a relay throw for a double play Tuesday against Chicago. Action came in the second game of a doubleheader as the White Sox took both ends with Wilbur Wood winning his 18th of the season in the opener. (UPI telephoto).

Yanks drop Twins twice

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sparky Lytle picked up the victory in the 12-inning opener with a two-inning relief job and came back to get the save in the nightcap Tuesday night as the New York Yankees remained in first place in the American League East with a 4-3, 4-1 doubleheader sweep over the Minnesota Twins.

Chicago sweeps Sox twin bill

BOSTON (UPI) — Buddy Bradford clubbed a solo homer and Eddie Leon singled home two runs Tuesday to enable the Chicago White Sox to sweep a day-night doubleheader over the Boston Red Sox with a 6-0 win in the nightcap after an 8-4 triumph in the opener.

Oilers fret

KERRVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Coach Bill Peterson of the Houston Oilers said Tuesday he believed wide receiver Billy Parks might quit football. Parks and defensive end Tody Smith came to the Oilers this year in exchange for Houston's No. 1 and No. 3 choices in the 1974 draft.

Bonavena won't sub for Shavers

NEW YORK (UPI) — There will be no boxing in Madison Square Garden on July 25. Matchmaker and Garden boxing president Teddy Brenner's last ditch effort to get Oscar Bonavena to substitute for injured Earnie Shavers and fight Jerry Quarry next week, fell through Tuesday.

Bonavena, a journeyman heavyweight who has been beaten by ex-champions Joe Frazier (twice), Muhammad Ali, and Floyd Patterson, called Brenner Tuesday morning and turned down the match saying he didn't have enough time to prepare. Bonavena has been in training in Atlantic City, N.J., for the past two weeks.

Browns happy with showing

HIRAM, Ohio (UPI) — Head Coach Nick Skorich set the tempo for what's to come this season for the Cleveland Browns when the rookies and veterans went through "the nutcracker" Tuesday afternoon.

The drill, which pits a defensive stalwart against a hard-hitting offensive lineman blocking for a running-back, brought many surprises and proved that the 65 men in camp at Hiram College are "moving along ahead of schedule."

"Although our first scrimmage isn't until Saturday, they showed me a lot out there today," Skorich said. "We had anticipated quick response, but the men are leaner, faster and more polished than had been expected."

"It was a good hitting session and there was a great challenge on the part of most. I was also pleased with a few rookies and veteran standouts," the coach added.

Royals win on Otis' 2 homers

DETROIT (UPI) — All-Star outfielder Amos Otis hit two home runs to drive in three runs Tuesday night and help the Kansas City Royals to a 4-3 win over the Detroit Tigers.

It marked the seventh time the Israelis and Americans have met on the court in the Jewish version of the Olympic Games, with the United States taking five consecutive gold medals from 1950 to 1965. Israel won its first championship four years ago.

The nine successes in wrestling pushed the American total of gold medals to 72, while Israel got its 59th with the basketball victory. Overall, the United States had a total of 158 medals to the 137 of runner-up Israel.

Only Americans and Israelis competed in four of the 10 wrestling events with no one getting a crack at a bronze medal. The United States swept every event except the 180-pound competition, won by Ariel Kollon of Israel. Gilbert Sereva of Union, N.J., earned the silver.

Canada, Britain and Argentina won a silver each and Britain captured one bronze and Canada two.

The American gold medalists in wrestling were Harold Lorber of Daly City, Calif.; Eric Waters of Farmingdale, N.Y.; Richard Schramm of West Orange, N.J.

Brewers beat Texas rookie

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Consecutive base hits by Bob Coluccio, Dave May, Don Money and George Scott of 18-year-old rookie David Clyde in the eighth inning broke open a close game Tuesday night and paced Milwaukee to a 6-3 win over the Texas Rangers.

Olympic site nears completion

MONTREAL (UPI) — With the 1976 Summer Olympic games set to begin here three years from today, the organizing committee of the games has announced the city of Montreal is now 75 per cent ready.

"As far as the general framework for the games is concerned, and as far as the building and sites are concerned, we are 75 per cent ready," Andre Kaltenback, a spokesman for the organizing committee, said.

Many of the buildings and stadiums to be used in 1976 are already completed and have been in use for several years. They include the University of Montreal fencing site, the Verdun Stadium, and the Maisonneuve Sport Center. All of these sites will make up part of the Olympic main area.

Packers get early contact

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Coach Dan Devine put his Green Bay Packers through their first hard contact drill of the training season Tuesday but promised it would be even rougher Wednesday.

"We want to get some hitting in right away," he said of the full-go scrimmage planned for Wednesday.

During the morning drill the Packers worked on the option.

Nixon ingot sold

MELROSE, Mass. (UPI) — For $45, a Massachusetts firm is selling a Watergate commemorative silver medallion that depicts President Nixon in the three poses of "See no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil."

Edward J. Aleo said his company, E.J. Aleo & Co., sold about 150 of the medallions in the first day of mail order sales Monday.

The medal — two inches by three inches, and an eighth of an inch thick — portrays the President blocking his eyes, ears and mouth. Aleo said his wife, Louise, designed it.

He said he conceived the idea about two months ago when watching three reporters talking about Watergate on television.

Nixon's portrait is depicted in "very fine detail," Aleo said. "You can even see his wedding band."

However, his head is blown up and his feet are very small.

Aleo said he had placed advertisements in the New York Times, Washington Post and Boston Globe.

The advertisements said: "The Watergate incident has touched the lives of all Americans. Whatever your feelings about this controversial issue, this ingot will be a lasting memento for generations to come."

Leak plagued committee kept WH bugging secret

(c) Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — "Everyone was told to keep his mouth shut," said chief counsel Samuel Dash of the Senate Watergate Investigating Committee.

"And for once, you didn't read about this in the newspapers before it came out in the testimony," Dash added, with a trace of satisfaction.

Thus, the dramatic testimony of Alexander P. Butterfield that President Nixon's offices are wired to record all conferences and telephone calls — described as a "major breakthrough" in the historic hearings — came as a complete surprise Monday.

It was a surprise also to most members of the committee. Five of the seven members didn't learn until minutes before the hearings began Monday morning that Butterfield had told committee investigators late Friday the White House had tape recordings of conversations between former presidential counsel John Dean and President Nixon.

In those conversations, Dean has testified, the President discussed with him the Watergate cover-up, payment of hush money to the original seven Watergate defendants, and executive clemency for E. Howard Hunt — all of which the President has denied.

But for 69 hours, the tale of the wired White House was the best kept secret the leak-plagued Watergate committee ever preserved.

Only the chairman, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-

N.C., the vice chairman, Sen. Howard H. Baker, and a handful of committee staffers, sworn to secrecy and forbidden to discuss it even with other committee investigators, shared knowledge of the development.

For them, the revelation came late Friday afternoon while the hearings were still in progress in the Senate caucus room, with white-haired White House aide Richard Moore still answering questions.

Three committee investigators, in another building, were conducting what was described as a "routine" interview of Butterfield. There are conflicting stories about why the committee sought out Butterfield, who had been an aide to White House former chief of staff H.R. Haldeman.

Dash said it was part of a "proximity" investigation in which everyone close to the principals in the case are questioned. But Senate sources say Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., had written a letter to Ervin suggesting that Butterfield be interrogated.

Cannon, through an aide, denied last night he had any knowledge about the White House tapes. But he refused to say if he had written such a letter to Ervin suggesting that Butterfield be questioned.

Questioning Butterfield late Friday afternoon were Donald G. Sanders, the committee's assistant minority counsel, a 10-year FBI veteran; Scott Armstrong, a committee investigator, and Eugene Boyce, an assistant majority counsel.

Gem pen sees last rose garden meet

BOISE (UPI) — The men talked about love, faces of mankind and Christ, with the audience seated on a grassy yard, roses blooming in the center, and birds calling in the twilight to complete the pastoral mood.

The guests at the garden party, however, were reminded of their location with the backdrop of the 17½ foot high gray wall, a guard tower in the corner and the burned out shell of a building to their right.

The speakers were members of Jaw Jackers '70, a toastmasters international sponsored gavel club in the Idaho State Penitentiary. The occasion — a recent officers' installation meeting with "outside" guests.

Raymond May, Idaho director of correction, paid tribute to the final rose garden meeting of the gavel club.

He said, "This marks history in my judgment. In six months we will be a different institution."

He referred to the move to the new penitentiary site being completed south of Gowen Field, construction there hastened by the burning of the old dining hall and other buildings in the century-old facility at the end of Warm Springs Avenue.

He said at the new site "the term 'prison' or 'penitentiary' will be dropped. The new name will be Idaho State Penal Complex with new directions to move the individual along to incentive."

May also paid tribute to Bob Bannan, of Boise, "who provides the spark, the catalyst to keep the gavel club together." Bannan, outside sponsor of the club, meets often with inmates in the club.

A state employee with the Department of Special Services, Bannan July 1 became educational lieutenant governor of TMI District 15 Eastern Oregon, Southern Idaho, Northeastern Nevada, Utah and Southwestern Wyoming.

Alaska pipeline expensive

VICTORIA, B. C. (UPI) — An Interior Department official says that construction of the Trans-Alaska oil pipeline and subsequent tanker route facilities would be the biggest and most expensive construction project undertaken by man.

Undersecretary John Whittaker said here Monday that it could create as many as 100,000 new jobs if and when it becomes operational.

"In Alaska, approximately 26,000 jobs are involved in construction of the pipeline," he said. "There would be a bonanza in jobs with thousands of man hours of work in building the tankers."

He also predicted the pipeline would extend from Prudhoe Bay, on the North Slope's 10 billion barrel oilfield, to the port of Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska. The pipeline project has been stalled for three years in court suits brought by environmental groups and other opponents.

My guess is that if we get the legal underbrush clear, if we're clear to go ahead this fall, it will take at least three and a half years from that time probably four before the oil flows down the pipeline."

The proposed 789-mile pipeline would extend from Prudhoe Bay, on the North Slope's 10 billion barrel oilfield, to the port of Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska. The pipeline project has been stalled for three years in court suits brought by environmental groups and other opponents.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market watching closely for Phase IV guidelines, opened slightly lower Wednesday in a moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.08 at 897.95 shortly after the opening. Declines led advances, 175 to 143, among 455 issues traded.

Analysts said most of Wall Street will spend the day awaiting the details of Phase IV, which Treasury Secretary George Shultz is expected to deliver after the market closes.

The market had risen sharply in anticipation of the announcement last week and early this week, but prices declined late Tuesday shortly after the announcement the new economic plan would be revealed.

Franchise defended

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — An official for Hughes Airwest says there will not be any advantages for the public in allowing competition on the Reno-Las Vegas route.

Airwest now has the sole franchise to serve the two Nevada cities.

Russell Stephenson, vice president of marketing for Airwest, said a second airline would "bunch" their departure times and nullify any advantage gained by the public.

Stephenson said, "The load factor between Reno and Las Vegas is good and the fares are lower than the average."

Workers attend outing

HAGERMAN — Tupperware employees got a chance to dunk their supervisors Sunday at the company's first summer outing.

With supervisors seated over tanks of water, employees threw baseballs at targets which dropped the supervisors into the water when hit in the bull's eye. Those most accurate in awarded prizes.

New egg tosses and nose rolling peanut races also brought prizes to adept employees.

Employees' children were awarded toys and games for winning a variety of races.

The event was in the Hagerman City Park. According to Karen Dalton, secretary to assistant superintendent, the picnic was organized by the club, which will be annually in the future.

In addition to the games, more than 80 door prizes, including hair dryers and clocks, were awarded.

Children were treated to free refreshments and a carnival. Finally a barbecued chicken dinner with potato salad, watermelon and ice cream was served to those attending.

Two three-speed bicycles were also given away.

According to Karen Dalton, about 1,000 Tupperware employees' and family members attended the outing.

4 major oil firms win drilling rights

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam awarded petroleum exploration rights in the South China Sea to four major oil companies, the government announced today.

The companies involved were Exxon, Mobil, Shell and the Sunningdale group of Canada.

The biggest share of the drilling rights went to Pecten Vietnam, a Shell subsidiary. It received exploration and drilling rights to three sections of sea bed, each block measuring about 2,700 square miles.

Immediately after the discovery of any oil in marketable quantities and to pay 12 percent royalties and a 55 percent tax on oil withdrawn from the off-shore wells.

All of the concessions are from 18 to 100 miles off the coast.

None of the off-shore drilling rights in the Gulf of Thailand, considered to have the greatest potential value, were included in the award.

The awards require exploration to begin within six months and drilling within two years.

The companies pledged that 90 percent of the persons employed in the oil exploration would be Vietnamese citizens and that 60 percent of the management personnel would be Vietnamese within five years. They promised to spend $300,000 a year on a training program for Vietnamese in the oil business.

Apartment house managers say they far prefer bachelors to bachelor girls as tenants. Take a leaky faucet. They say an unmarried man might not even notice it for months. A single girl, however, will jump on the telephone to complain in a matter of minutes. Incidentally, the leaky faucet is the No. 1 complaint among tenants up north. Down south, the No. 1 complaint is roaches.

Those three mixed drinks which now outsell all others in the cocktail lounges nationwide are the bloody mary, the screw-driver and the vodka martini, it's reported.

On display in the Smithsonian Institution is what appears to be a silk purse, donated by its manufacturer, Arthur D. Little, Inc., an industrial research firm of Cambridge, Mass. It was made out of sow's ears.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q: 'What's the Anti-Celibacy Insurance Society?'
A: No doubt you refer to that club in Denmark which insures girls against spinsterhood. Young ladies between ages 13 and 20 pay annual dues to the outfit. If they marry before age 40, they lose whatever they've paid in. If they don't, they collect an annuity thereafter.

Q: 'Does a man eat a ton of food a year?'
A: So it's said, so it's said. Counting Thanksgiving and Christmas. That's too much. A man ought to knock it down to about half a ton a year. That's my advice. Check this space in upcoming days for further conservative counsel. On liquor, cigarettes and sex.

Among women, those who go fishing outnumber those who go hunting by at least six to one, it's reported. Quite so. Our Love and War man says this ratio is fairly accurate among single girls in search of matrimonial mates, too. Those young ladies who try to elicit proposals, he says, outnumber those who actually propose likewise by about six to one.

SHAVING

If you'll put a new double-edge razor blade on top of the old blade, you'll eliminate nicks and cuts when you shave, and be able to shave from two to four times faster. So advises Adolph G. Spindler of Evansville, Ind. 'Used to nick myself frequently with the angle blade, but after starting this technique, I haven't cut my chin in 15 years.'

No, master, not everybody stands up to drink a toast. Navy men traditionally stay seated. The old English gentlemen toasted with one knee on the floor. And it was long more proper in Scotland to drink a toast with one foot on a chair, the other on a table. That custom has almost died out there, though, what with the increasing popularity of glass coffee tables, wicker chairs, so on.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You know exactly where to go and what to do today, so start early and keep active. Get the fine things you desire. Sitting is all one of dull culture from yours in p.m. is time. Have fun!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal day for self-analysis and knowing where to make the improvements necessary, so you become a more dynamic, successful person. If you have a good voice, why not try to cultivate it? Make more money in the future!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Discussing with a partner your joint aims can bring about fine results and it is important to do this now. An eye to pleasure away from the home brings much enjoyment now. Dress in excellent style!

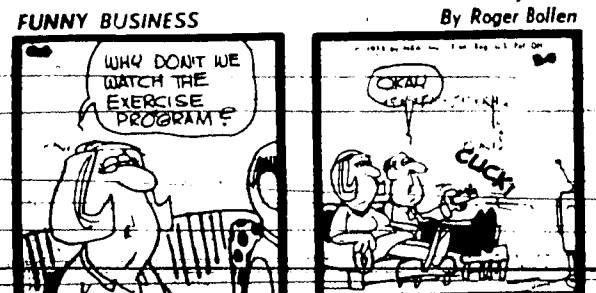

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Keep busy doing nice things for persons who have been good to you in the past and show your appreciation. Get routine work done early and free more time for yourself. A fine evening for fun!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact those people either in business or in homes where you get a feeling of peace and contentment and yet produce excellent results. Get in touch with advisers you can really trust. Keep active!

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those highly sensitive young people who requires special handling and attention during early youth and much care given to diet so your youngster can mature into a most stable and productive member of society; otherwise there could be one of those unfortunates emerging here who will never accomplish much. Slant the education along such lines as music, art, or acting, where the sensitivity will find excellent expression.
