Virus threatens steelhead hatch

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

WENDELL—Isolation of an infectious virus at the Niagara Springs Steelhead Farm south of Wendell may mean the loss of several million steelhead fingerlings.

According to Neil Degiulio, a superintendent at the fish and game department, destruction of the fingerlings "will take out the biggest share of the Pahasmeroi run for one year."

He said the run would be restored eventually "because of fish coming back from previous generations."

Degiulio said last year's run totaled "a little over 4,000 fish" on the Pahasmeroi.

A steelhead is a migrating rainbow trout. Those which don't migrate simply become part of the resident rainbow population, he said.

The Idaho Fish and Game Commission was meeting today in Boise to discuss the fate of the young fish and the best means for disinfection of the hatchery, according to State Hatchery Superintendent Walt Bethke.

Bethke said the steelhead are carrying infectious pancreatic necrosis (IPN). Thus far, he said, no fish carrying the disease have been released from the hatchery.

Mike Graham, fish culturist at the Niagara Springs hatchery, said the fingerlings would normally be released into the Pahasmeroi River north of Mackay and would then make their way into the Salmon, Snake and Columbia rivers before reaching the Pacific Ocean.

The Niagara Springs steelhead hatchery is funded by Idaho Power Co. as a "mitigation hatchery" to provide fish to replace those lost with the closure of the salmon run at Dworshak Dam near Orofino, Graham said.

The installation is operated by the State Fish and Game Department.

Elwood Vedvig, pathologist for the Idaho Fish and Game Department stationed at the federal fish hatchery near Hagerman, said Wednesday this is the first time IPN has been isolated at a steelhead hatchery.

He said the virus has been isolated previously in hatchery populations of rainbow trout. He said the disease is not rare among hatchery trout along the Snake River.

Vedvig said the disease is communicable from steelhead to rainbow and other trout (all salmonids) but has no effect upon human beings.

He said the outbreak at Niagara Springs is not "specifically" a threat to other hatcheries along the Snake River.

Commercial hatchery operators would face different problems with the disease, he said, than those encountered at the steelhead hatchery where the fish are normally scheduled for spring release into natural habitat.

Vedvig said it was possible birds could carry the virus from Niagara Springs to commercial trout hatcheries along the Snake, but he said there was no indication so far that this has happened.

While there "is bound to be some release of the viral particle into the Snake River," from water flowing out of the Niagara Springs hatchery, he said, this does not pose a threat to commercial trout growers as they all use spring rather than river water for raising fish.

Vedvig said trout which might carry the disease but which had not died from it could be slaughtered for human consumption without ill effect. He said the disease was fatal largely to young fingerlings.

No charges planned at ranch, aide says

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

RUPERT—No Idaho Youth Ranch personnel will be charged with any crime in relation to alleged child abuse at the ranch, Minidoka County Prosec. Atty. Robert Nielsen said Thursday.

"I have concluded from the evidence which has been gathered by my own investigation and by the investigations of the various governmental agencies of the state of Idaho that no crimes have been committed by any employes or agents of the Idaho Youth Ranch in disciplining minors which are being cared for at the ranch," Nielsen said.

Nielsen referred to earlier reports by the Idaho attorney general's office, Rita Blackaller, director of child and family services for the Department of Environmental and Community Services, (DECS), and a criminal investigation conducted by the attorney general's office which turned up incidents of macing, striking and handcuffing of boys at the ranch.

Nielsen released the information in a prepared news release late Thursday.

"This office would ordinarily not make any statement explaining a decision either to prosecute or not to prosecute in any particular case," Nielsen said, in order not to "prevent attainment of a fair trial or otherwise prejudice the due administration of justice."

"However, due to the extensive amount of publicity which has been disseminated by the news media," he said, "I am compelled to make a statement regarding the law and my findings in regard to incidents that may have taken place at the Idaho Youth Ranch."

According to Nielsen, his investigation, supplemented by other investigations made by other agencies, indicates that physical discipline has been employed on occasion by employes of the Idaho Youth Ranch.

Although the Idaho code provides that any person who uses force or violence on another or "causes the life or health of any minor child to be endangered" by such actions, he said, the courts "universally agree" that parents, or their substitutes, can "in accordance with certain standards," discipline minors.

"Accordingly it is not ordinarily assault and battery for a parent or one standing in loco parentis to strike a child or use other means of corporal punishment for disobedience or other misconduct, if under the circumstances the force used is reasonable," Nielsen said.

Discipline is allowed by the courts under these conditions if it is "motivated by an educational purpose and not malice," is not "inflicted on frivolous pretenses," is not "excessive or otherwise unreasonably inflicted," is not "cruel or merciless," and is not "so severe a nature as to cause permanent injury or disfigurement," he said.

According to Nielsen, youth ranch employes "could not be found criminally liable unless they abused their power of discipline and under the pretense of administering correction, either maliciously, excessively, or unreasonably used force to gratify their own bad passions and not merely to discipline the children."

BOISE—The Idaho attorney general's office is preparing new guidelines to establish the limits of corporal punishment permitted at institutions caring for youths.

In separate interviews Thursday Attorney General W. Anthony Park and Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) administrator Dr. James A. Bax said the regulations would be prepared in the next week to ten days.

Both Bax and Park said they were in partial response to allegations of macing, handcuffing and physical discipline at the Idaho Youth Ranch several weeks ago.

At the same time, Park declined to comment on whether he would recommend prosecution in the alleged ranch incidents. But he refused specifically to rule out the possibility that he might suggest that charges be filed by the Minidoka County prosecuting attorney.

Bax declined comment on the prospects for charges being brought, saying he and Park had discussed the situation and that Park would make the recommendations.

Park said either he or members of his staff would seek a meeting with Minidoka Prosecutor

Robert Nielsen to discuss the ranch. Nielsen, who received a criminal investigation report into the allegations several days ago, said last weekend he wanted to meet with the investigator who prepared the report.

He also said he would accept Park's recommendations, if any were offered, but was not necessarily seeking them. He said he was uncertain about whether crimes had been committed. Local authorities have been kept out of the investigation of the allegations.

Park said the guidelines under preparation concerned the allowable limits of corporal punishment under the existing Idaho laws protecting children.

The guidelines will address themselves to the problems of mace, handcuffs, billy clubs and other forms of corporal punishment, Park said.

They will extend, he said, to the State Youth Training Center in St. Anthony's, the Youth Ranch, a private institution near Rupert, and any similar institutions "where state funds are involved or where state licensure is involved."

He said he hoped they would serve as guidelines to institutional officials as well as people in the law enforcement field. Bax said he understood the guidelines would include children's rights as well as the questions of corporal punishment.

Ex-range rider draws theft term

SHOSHONE—A former Shoshone range rider has been sentenced to up to 5 years in the Idaho State Penitentiary for cattle rustling.

Jim Trowbridge, 26, appeared before District Judge Charles Scoggin Thursday to receive the sentence. He had been released on $10,000 bond after formal charges were filed following the May 17 theft of cattle.

Trowbridge was charged with taking small calves from the Star Lake Cattlemen's Association in Lincoln county where he was employed as a range rider at the time.

Inflation unabated

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON—Retail prices rose 0.6 per cent last month, before prices were frozen, as the inflation spiral continued unabated, the labor department said today.

Food, gasoline, fuel oil and household services accounted for about three-fourths of the total price increase.

The rise for food alone was 0.9 per cent, adjusted to discount seasonal influences. This was a slightly smaller increase than the 1.1 per cent rise in May, but still was large by normal standards.

Ex-aide says spying OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Robert C. Mardian, a key Nixon campaign official, testified today he was told shortly after the Watergate bugging that the raid was just part of a wide-ranging espionage operation authorized and approved by President Nixon.

Mardian, appearing for a second day before the Senate Watergate Committee, also said he had been told at that time that John N. Mitchell, former attorney general and Nixon campaign manager, knew of the bugging operation in advance and authorized a $250,000 intelligence-gathering budget from which it was financed.

But Mardian told the senators he "didn't put much credence" in allegations of Nixon's involvement and "could be mistaken" about what he remembers hearing about Mitchell.

Mardian, a close friend of Mitchell's for many years, was an assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's Internal Security Division until May, 1972, when he joined the Nixon campaign as a Mitchell deputy. He denied any involvement in the Watergate affair other than as a lawyer after the June 17, 1972 bugging arrests.

As part of those duties, he said, he talked at length within a few days with G. Gordon Liddy—then the finance counsel to the Nixon campaign who was convicted last January as the alleged mastermind of the bugging plot.

He said Liddy—without saying so directly—had left him with the clear impression that the operation had the express authority of the President.

Suit filed in drilling death

TWIN FALLS—The parents of a 22-year-old Hansen man who died in a well May 1 while attempting to repair a drill bit have filed a $2 million suit against the employer, George Galley, a Kimberly well driller.

Bernice Boyer claim Galley failed to take necessary precautions on the repair job inside the well in which their son, Richard M. Anderson, died.

The parents charged Galley knew there likely would be carbon monoxide in the hole and failed to make provisions to bring Anderson up should he encounter difficulty.

In an earlier story, the parents of the victim and Galley were erroneously interchanged in two instances. The Times-News regrets the error.

Delivery off limits to dads

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Fathers will not be allowed in the delivery room at the time of the birth of their babies at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, at least in the near future.

Medical staff members of the hospital, in a special meeting Thursday night, rejected by a decisive vote a request that fathers be permitted in the delivery room at the time of birth.

Although the hospital board has the final decision on the matter, it is not likely the board would overrule its medical staff on such a decision, James Rosenbaum administrator, said.

The vote upheld existing hospital policy. Dr. Ben Katz, chief of medical staff of the hospital, said most of the doctors feel that in the event of a complication it would not be in the best interest of the mother, the child or the father that the father—an inexperienced person—be present.

In such a situation, time and circumstances do not allow for appropriate explanations, resulting in an increased anxiety for everyone, Dr. Katz said.

"Our medical staff appreciates the fact a number of couples have expressed interest in having fathers present and brought this into their deliberations. They are also aware that about one-third of the hospitals in the United States include those in Idaho, in which obstetrics is practiced, do allow prepared fathers in the delivery room," Dr. Katz said.

"However, the staff feels the multiple potential problems inherent in the practice of obstetrics which are well known to physicians but not always understood by the public, form the basis of this decision," Dr. Katz said.

The question of fathers in the delivery room was proposed several months ago by several obstetricians and has been discussed in previous staff meetings.

The vote Thursday night, Dr. Katz said, resulted in six doctors, nearly all obstetricians, voting in favor and others at the meeting voting against or not voting. About 30 doctors attended the Thursday night meeting. There are 15 staff members who practice obstetrics and a total of 42 doctors on the active staff who would have been eligible to vote on the matter.

The Thursday night meeting also included a lengthy review of proposed revisions in the medical staff by-laws which are now in the process of being updated.

Rosenbaum said the hospital board would have to vote on a change in policy to make it official if at some future time doctors decide to take a second look at the question.

As proposed by those supporting the policy change, only fathers who could meet special qualifications and had the full approval of their own physician would be allowed in the delivery room. They would sit at the mother's head to be able to talk to her.

Prospective fathers wishing to be in the delivery room would have to complete a special course for mothers and fathers now available at the hospital. They would also have to make a request in advance of delivery.

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar gained on most European money markets today, the second day of improvement for the American currency. Gold also moved higher. The dollar posted gains in West Germany, Belgium and Amsterdam and moved up in London. It lost a little ground in Paris. On the big London bullion market, gold gained $1 to $116 an ounce at the morning price setting. On Thursday it dropped $1.30. Dealers said they saw nothing unusual in the exchange rate fluctuations today. "I would judge this as normal profit-taking," said a Paris trader. A German dealer described trading there as "absolutely normal." London brokers said the markets were quiet, as usual on a Friday. In Frankfurt, the dollar bought 2.3440 marks today, up from Thursday's close of 2.3340 marks. The opening quotations in Paris ranged from 4.0750 to 4.0850 francs, a dip from Thursday's final price of 4.088 francs. Early trading pushed the dollar slightly higher in London, to $2.5335 to the pound. The American currency opened 62 per cent higher in Brussels, at 36.10 Belgian francs. It was also higher in Amsterdam at 2.59 guilder, compared with Thursday's closing of 2.5825. "People who bought dollars yesterday, driving the dollar up, are selling them today," the Paris dealer said in explaining the slight morning decline. The dollar climbed Thursday in European markets, gaining an average of 1.5 per cent during the day, after a week of declines.

Elks to admit blacks

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, bowing to legal pressure and "changing social attitudes," Thursday dropped its 105-year-old whites only membership rule. The Elks convention in Chicago voted almost 3 to 1 to admit blacks to membership for the first time since the order was founded in 1868. Robert A. Yothers, a Seattle, Wash., attorney who is the Elks' new grand exalted ruler, said the vote of delegates to the national convention was 2,186 to 773, to remove the white's only clause in the bylaws. Two previous Elks conventions had refused to make the move. "Recognition of changing social attitudes and a recent Supreme Court action in Maine," influenced Thursday's decision, Yothers said. The changing attitude toward black persons would not alone have influenced the delegates," he conceded.

4-H leader instructs members

TWIN FALLS — The Happy-go-Lucky 4-H Club met Wednesday at the home of Christine Britt. Flag salute was led by Paula DePew, and the 4-H pledge by Nancy Evans. Mrs. Fred Britt, leader, checked projects and gave instructions on understitching and how to put ponchos together. Christine Britt, team leader, helped with clothing record books, and a report on achievement day attended by ten members was given. Camp will be July 23-27. Mrs. Britt, Christine Britt and Lisa Pfeifferle will attend. Demonstrations were given by Lisa Pfeifferle, hemming a cotton dress; Christine Britt, putting in underlining, and Susan Swafford, winding a bobbin. The next meeting will be Aug. 1 at the Britt home.

Budgets okayed

BOISE (UPI) — The State Board of Education Thursday gave approval to 1974-75 budget recommendations for Idaho's four institutions of higher education. The recommendations, which could be changed, will be submitted to the state legislature when it convenes in Boise next January. At the top of the list was the University of Idaho. The board recommended that the institution receive $19.4 million for the next fiscal year. It was an increase of $1.8 million. The board also approved a budget of $3 million for the U of I Extension Service and $3.9 million for agricultural research at the institution. A budget of $15 million was recommended for Idaho State University, which marked an increase of $3.8 million. Boise State College will submit a budget of $10.4 million to the legislature next year.

Reason: To Bring Down Nixon

(c) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — A vicious attack by a 33-year-old Democratic lawyer, bedazzled by his moment in the limelight, upon the only witness to come before the Watergate committee with clean hands — an upright, respected, gentle human being of 59 named Richard Moore — is proof that the purpose of the Ervin committee is not to bring out the truth but to bring down the President.

Richard Moore, of all the men on the White House staff, comes closest to being a hero on the Watergate matter: when in March he had evidence that a crime was being covered up, he urged the man who knew most about it — John Dean — to go to the President and tell him all he knew. One reason Dean then did so, after nine months of duplicity, was the knowledge that if he did not immediately spill all he knew to the President, that Richard Moore would go in with whatever he had.

So there was Moore, a man not "involved"; not seeking immunity; not the target of an investigation; a man of substance and lifelong good repute, and a witness to some crucial meetings between Dean and the President, coming before the Senate committee.

Moore had been told on Monday evening that he would be called to testify on the coming Thursday. He began preparing his testimony, but was interrupted the next day by Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox, who wanted his information first and took most of the next day. That left Moore little time to get ready for the Ervin committee, and he concentrated on the period central to the whole investigation — "what the President knew and when he knew it."

After a few hours sleep Moore went to the committee. Briefly, at lunchtime, committee lawyers went over the area of testimony to be covered that day, centering on the crucial March meetings with the President and Dean. Then came Moore's turn. His prepared statement refuted John Dean's central conclusion that the President was aware of the cover-up. Moore said no; the first the president had known was on March 21, 1973, when Dean came clean.

Then young Terry Lenzner tore into him — not into the blockbuster testimony Moore had just given, nor on the matters about which Moore had properly been concentrating, but on some meetings that had taken place on another subject over a year ago. The line of questioning was a nonsequiter; it had nothing to do with the matter at hand; in the language of football he "blind sided" the witness.

Moore was taken aback; Lenzner bored in with demands for dates and facts on an extraneous matter, effectively confusing and thereby discrediting the witness — after all, had not John Dean come equipped with every fact and date at his fingertips?

Next day, under questioning by others who wanted to find out what evidence he could contribute, Moore answered with some wit and the kind of occasionally precise recall that has an honest ring and contrasts sharply with the carefully rehearsed stories of con men out to save their skins.

Because Moore did not lash into anybody, because his subsequent testimony showed he is a person not motivated by hatred, the unfairness of the attempted humiliation by Lenzner was underscored.

The thought must have occurred to many viewers; of the two men in confrontation, who would be a better adviser to any President of the United States?

Terry Lenzner, born to wealth, captain of the Harvard football team, protege of Ramsey Clark and lawyer to the Rev. Philip Berrigan, is the essence of radical chic. He is a man on the make who strikes the pose of stern guardian of civil liberties, but who has shown he has not the most rudimentary understanding of fairness and civility in human relationships.

Richard Moore, whom he sought to discredit, emerges from the hearings with dignity, good humor, and integrity intact. Viewers who do not automatically assume anybody connected with Nixon to be evil see Moore as the kind of man Presidents need to protect them from the Gung-Ho, ends-justify-the-means "team players" who flutter around the center of power.

The fury of the attack on a good man who did the right thing recalls the pivotal question asked by Joseph Welch, a man like Moore, at the Army-McCarthy hearings a generation ago: "Have you no decency left, sir?"

The Lenzner attack — which Sen. Ervin made no effort to stop — is sure to be mentioned when the President confronts the Senator, and with personal civility and all constitutional respect, tells him where to get off.

Let's Be Fair

It is time that an over-all evaluation of the Nixon accomplishments be stated, and they have been many. Unfortunately, they have been overshadowed and dimmed, temporarily, by the public drama of the Senate Committee hearings.

In part this may relate to Nixon's lack of charisma in the sense that President Kennedy was a personally charming man, or that President Eisenhower projected a father image that made everyone feel the country was in good hands with such a paternalistic figure.

Also, it must be acknowledged that President Nixon has never been the darling of the left, or liberals of the country. On the contrary, there is a large group of "Nixon haters" who are in positions where their prejudices may be transmitted readily to the public.

This condition existed before the 1972 election in which the "silent" majority gave the President a whopping endorsement for another term in office.

In order of importance, it might be reasonable to start such an itemization with the Southeast Asia morass. It may be remembered that it was under Eisenhower that the first "military advisers" went into Viet Nam. And this was after the French had been driven out after the siege of Dien Bien Phu and finally disentangled themselves from this frustrating war.

Involvement in Viet Nam grew in the Kennedy years and was finally brought to its greatest acceleration in the Johnson era.

Richard Nixon, as some seem to forget, did not begin that military exercise, but rather inherited it.

With the great help of Dr. Henry Kissinger, he has been able to extricate the nation from this entanglement and bring back to the country the thousands of American men and women who served there.

The road has not been easy. Cease-fires, truces, etc., have sometimes been disappointing. But the hard fact is that he has done it and even the Cambodian problem may be on the path to solution.

This was done, not only by meetings with Hanoi, but probably principally by the new cordiality which is developing with Russia and the almost exploratory meetings with China.

For the first time since World War II there is an easing of tensions which have existed between the west and Communist Russia, and the Red East.

Have we all forgotten these major deeds in foreign affairs which may result in benefits now barely perceived?

What has happened to the campus disorders which wracked the nation during the end of the Johnson years? The Negro militants have gone from Black Pantherism to running for public office. Certainly an evolutionary process has been at work. But it has taken place in the environment brought to the nation by President Nixon.

Crime statistics are looking better than they have in years. Efforts to make the streets safe for the citizens have been effective. Has Nixon's tough law and order policies had nothing to do with this?

True, there seem to have been errors, particularly in the economic field. Phase Three will soon be supplanted with a fourth attempt, and hopefully, it has been learned that price controls cannot be imposed at the consumer end of the funnel, without being in force all the way back to production prices.

Have we forgotten that this is the same Richard Nixon who almost was assassinated in the service of his country in Venezuela in what had started out to be a good will mission? This is still the same Richard Nixon who had the famous kitchen confrontation with Khrushchev on a Moscow visit.

We hope that the country has not become one whose way of living is expressed in the cynical "What have you done for me lately" philosophy.

Americans have long been known for their basic sense of fairness. Perhaps a little exercise in memory is in order rather than complete fascination with the television drama.

BRUCE BIOSSAT

The Peril Even After Watergate

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Picture a President Nixon who somehow gets through Watergate but later finds himself beset more than now with perplexing economic problems and energy crises which strike right into American homes.

In this unsettling Watergate spring, and summer, the President has his bitter critics, a widening number if the polls are correct. But he also has his defenders, who are growing increasingly angry as the inquiries progress.

The newspaper the National Observer has been deluged with a furious fusillade of pro-Nixon mail from some of these defenders, since it carried a column by the perceptive, graceful political writer James

M. Perry which boldly declared that much of the press views Watergate as proving the validity of its long-held suspicions of the President as a devious man.

Yet it has been suggested to me (and some others) that Mr. Nixon's support from these people might dwindle to an incredible minimum if a worsening economic and energy dilemma confronts him later on.

Suppose he seeks to meet these difficulties with new, tough control measures which smack almost of wartime austerity. Suppose my knowledgeable informant is right and his present angry backers, feeling the pinch directly as they do not feel Watergate, largely desert him.

How will he react?

Says a Republican sensitive to the President's make-up:

"He'll get angry. He'll get madder and madder. If he finds he suddenly has no defenders, he'll defend himself by lashing out."

"He'll respond the way he did when the Senate rejected his second southern U. S. Supreme Court nominee, Harold Carswell: the way he did when he labeled as 'those bums' the students who rioted against his 1970 decision to invade Cambodia."

This Republican adds that, should he find only Richard Nixon standing up to defend Richard Nixon, he will lay blame all about him — firing harder than ever at an uncooperative, outdated, immobile Congress, blaming foreign governments for part of our economic troubles, chopping even at specific American groups like farmers and industrialists for putting their interests ahead of national concerns.

More still from this source: "He'll challenge all these critics to get up off their backsides and do something, arguing that as President he's doing everything he knows to meet the crises and should not have to stand alone in such times of national crises."

By hacking away in this manner, it is suggested, the President might hope to regain at least his standard core of support, which ranges generally just above 40 per cent of voters — though in rare 1972 he swamped a widely unacceptable Sen. George McGovern with his 61 per cent total.

Yet, should the President's script run along these lines, it would contain what seems an utterly absurd contradiction. Flailing about so broadly in his self-defender's role, he would in effect be going over the heads of the people to win back some of the people.

Desperation nevertheless might drive him down this road. For, while Mr. Nixon is used to enemies, may even feed them as some of his watchers contend, he never has stood in politics with almost no friends at all.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

What Can Be Done For Palsy?

Dear Dr. Thosteson. A friend has developed palsy in the last two years. He asked me to write he is 65 and his hands shake so he cannot write.

He went to a doctor who gave him some pills which had a tendency to make him feel doped but only made his hands shake worse.

What causes palsy and what treatment would you suggest? — R. E. D.

Let's split hairs for a moment over terms "Palsy" implies weakness or paralysis which may or may not include shaking or tremor.

A tremor, however, is an involuntary movement — this can be of the extremities or of the head. And I gather that your friend's problem is a tremor rather than a real palsy.

As to the cause, there are several. Parkinson's disease is a likely possibility at your friend's age. I do not know a number of other medications have been pretty useful in controlling this, although no single medication has proved satisfactory in all cases.

There is also a tremor of old age that resembles Parkinson's disease but is not accompanied by other symptoms of that disease.

An overactive thyroid can cause a fine tremor. This, too, can be treated successfully.

Finally, there are various disorders of the nervous system, much less common, but to be considered when the more common causes have been ruled out.

Since your friend's medication did not help him, he should return to his doctor for further diagnosis, or seek the help of a neurologist.

Until the cause has been correctly identified, the proper and effective treatment cannot be determined.

legs at night? — Mrs. G. Common reasons are faulty footwear or defects in the feet which subject the leg muscles to excessive strain during the day; lack of sufficient calcium; impaired circulation.

For information on the various causes and how to prevent them, I suggest that you send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to me, in care of (The Times-News) for a copy of my booklet "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a serious problem of grinding my teeth while sleeping and have cracked a capped tooth and caused two abscesses. I have tried sleeping with chewing gum but to no avail. I swallow it sometime during the night. Is there any medical solution or a device that could help? Replacing caps runs into quite a sum of money. — B. N. R.

Some subtle nervous tension often is the cause. Or some nagging discomfort — pinworms being an example. But no doubt sometimes it is just a habit that has established itself.

If your doctor can't find an underlying cause that needs correction, one suggestion is this: a dentist could make you a fitted tooth-guard, not unlike the mouth guards used by boxers. This fits over the teeth so that, while you may continue your jaw movements, you don't damage your teeth.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of his helpful booklet, "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Blemishes." Please enclose a long, self-addressed (use zip code); stamped envelope, and 35 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have read that ultrasonic rays have been used with good results for arthritis. Would I have to get the treatment from a doctor or could I buy the lamp and use it at home? — Mrs. J. S.

They aren't rays, as from a lamp. They are high-frequency sound waves produced by a special instrument as a means of inducing heat deep in the tissues, instead of just on the surface.

The treatment has to be administered by an expert in its use. Excessive exposure (and excessive heating) can cause damage. It distinctly is not a do-it-at-home technique.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My ears broke with a bad earache when I was little. I can hear okay now, except when people talk to me I can't separate the words. Why would this be? — G. M. R.

This is very common in folks who are hard of hearing, and the reason is that ear sensitivity applies to many different sound frequencies — that is, high notes, low notes and in between. It is quite common for ears to lose sensitivity in hearing high notes, while you still hear the lower notes quite well.

That is why you can hear a person's voice but can't make out the words. You are hearing part of the sound. Hearing aids can compensate for this to some degree.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, including scores of pertinent questions and their answers, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for his booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." Please enclose a long, self-addressed (use zip code); stamped envelope, and long, stamped, self-addressed (use zip code) envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could cooking with aluminum utensils possibly be harmful to the body? — A. S.

Not unless you burn yourself by grabbing a hot pot. This is incorporated in his column as an oft-repeated accusation, apparently designed to persuade people to buy some other kind of cookware. Pay no attention.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Trying To Please You

We can remember back last fall we used to receive letters from people complaining about the holes in the streets of Twin Falls — and all Magic Valley communities, for that matter.

Well, the other day we received a note from a Twin Falls resident complaining that he couldn't get from here to there because all the streets are torn up for fixing.

We were wondering, when we read the note, just how you could repair and replace street surfaces without blocking them? Perhaps we should go back to the holes.

But this all brings to the surface just how hard it is to please everyone. It cannot be done — and we sometimes wonder if there is use in trying.

Had the opportunity to visit with The Rev. Dr. Blackstone, former pastor of the Twin Falls First Presbyterian Church. He was last in Davenport, Iowa and has now retired (if a guy like him can really retire) and lives with his lovely and talented wife in Batesville, Ark. How did he pick Batesville? Well, it was simple. They had narrowed their retirement plans down to about three communities. They wrote the newspaper in each community and asked could they subscribe to the paper for a couple of weeks to get the pulse of the community?

One paper never answered at all. Another paper sent them a package of old newspapers with no comment. But the editor at Batesville sent them the current daily paper each and every day and also a personal letter that the community was really a good one and that they would find there everything they wanted in spirit, friendship and community building. The editor wrote that we have a positive attitude in this town and it's a great place to live.

So the Blackstones went to Batesville.

Which shows what results when requests are honored with sincerity.

Plans begin for reorganization of Gem agencies

BOISE (UPI) — Part of the tentative plan to trim state agencies to 20 in reorganization includes an executive office of the governor which would include a state police division and policy planning and coordination.

The tentative plan introduced Thursday was prepared by the government reorganization commission staff and calls for abolition of 20 positions, bureaus and agencies and transfer of another 35 functions into other parts of state government. Commission Counsel Robert E. Smylie emphasized that the draft presented was only a beginning and offered a point from which the commission could begin its work. The commission is meeting again today.

The executive office of governor, in the tentative plan, would include a policy planning and coordination division taking in functions of budget, state planning, management services and federal program coordinator.

A state police division under the governor would include the state police, Bureau of Narcotics and Drug Control, brand inspector, liquor law enforcement, criminal investigation, Records and Communications and the Nuclear Energy Commission.

The Bureau of Pairs, Board of Agriculture Advisers, Public Livestock Market board, Idaho Marketing Commission, Fruit and Vegetable Advertising Commission all would be abolished from Agriculture.

The Commodities Commission was listed as one of the divisions of the Agriculture Department, according to Myran Schiechte, commission staff director, because "I don't think they are in any way compatible with the state auditor's office."

Balking at the tentative plan, Sen. Walter H. Yarbrough, R-Grand View, said Commodity

Commission representatives all are favorable to replacement under the auditor's office because it would be a department where no one commodity group would receive undue favor.

The commission staff suggested the State Youth Training Center could be transferred from the Department of Environmental and Community Services where it was placed by the last legislature and put under the Board of Correction.

Sen. Dick Smith, R-Rexburg, objected to the suggestion saying the commission "would be doing serious violence to those people committed there" to transfer the center so soon after it was consolidated into DECS.

The commission bogged down on the question of how the chairman should be selected for the State Board of Education. Smylie said changing the selection from its present system would reduce the inducement for serving on the board.

The Education Department would incorporate functions of the Women's Commission on the State Library Board, Historical Society, elementary and secondary school administration, colleges and universities, arts and humanities, teacher certification and vocational rehabilitation. The staff suggested consolidating the Commission for the Blind under Vocational Rehabilitation.

There are indications that reorganization sessions will be lengthy as many details have to be discussed and worked out.

Air strikes halt push

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government troops and devastating U.S. air strikes halted a Communist push 10 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, but military officials said today that insurgents were attacking on all other sides of the capital.

"The situation... southwest of Phnom Penh has stabilized," a Cambodian military command statement said. "Our troops have stopped Communist infiltration."

The infiltration, along the southwestern front near Highway 3, was stemmed for the first time since government troops evacuated their positions nearly a week ago.

Until Thursday, the Communists had gained momentum in their drive to push government troops back toward the capital. Over the past two days, furious fighting has raged in the region with government troops confined at one point to positions inside a temple.

Heavy U.S. air strikes were reported in the area Thursday by newsmen. It was the 134th consecutive day of the intensified U.S. air campaign in Cambodia and the command said the bombing helped halt the Communist advance there.

Some of the bombs, field reports said, hit close to government positions in the same region where 14 Cambodian soldiers were wounded Wednesday by a bomb that fell only a few yards from government emplacements. The field reports said rebel troops mounted attacks Thursday north, west and east of the capital.

The Communists advanced to within 1,000 yards of a large government army camp northwest of Phnom Penh near Phnom Basset, a strategic town used by the rebels in the past to launch rocket attacks.

Insurgents also attacked government troops Thursday about 15 miles northeast of the capital at Muk Kampul. About 160 battalions of Cambodian troops have been cut off for more than two weeks in the area along the west bank of the Mekong River.

NASA board gives report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A NASA investigation board has concluded the accident that crippled Skylab for three weeks was caused by an engineering oversight that went undetected during six years of design, analysis and testing.

The panel said in a report released Thursday that the design deficiencies must be attributed to "an absence of sound engineering judgment and alert engineering leadership concerning this particular area over a considerable period of time."

The investigators found that air pressure built up under the space station's large meteoroid shield after launch May 14 from Cape Kennedy, forcing it away from the side of the ship so the supersonic air stream could rip it off.

As it tore away 63 seconds after blastoff, the aluminum panel broke clamps holding one of Skylab's two main solar electric generating wings and it was lost nine minutes later. The departing shield also jammed the second solar panel so it would not open automatically in orbit.

The result was that Skylab had only half its normal electricity-generating capability in orbit. It also was stripped of its protection from the sun, and the station's living quarters overheated.

The ship finally was repaired by Skylab 1 astronauts Charles "Pete" Conrad, Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz. They erected a sun shade after entering Skylab May 26 and Conrad and Kerwin freed the stuck solar wind during a spacewalk June 7.

Skylab now is in good shape in orbit and its second crew is set to go up July 28 and spend a record 56 days in orbit.

The NASA investigators said the air pressure buildup was most probably caused by vents in the aft end of an equipment tunnel running down the edges of the meteoroid shield. The shield, however, originally was designed so that the end would be sealed to prevent such a buildup.

"The openings in the tunnel thus resulted from a failure of communications among aerodynamics, structural design and manufacturing personnel," the report said.

"Another less likely possibility was the air pressure buildup resulted from the separation of the leading edge of the shield so that air was rammed under the thin panel.

Rogers visits Seoul

SEOUL (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers told South Korean Foreign Minister Kim Yong-Sik during his three-day visit that the United States is concerned about reports of political suppression in Korea, informed sources reported today.

Rogers' statements were firm but mild and were not designed to provoke a debate with the Koreans on the matter, the sources said.

Rogers' visit, designed as a gesture of continuing U.S. support for South Korea, ended today with his departure for Washington via Hawaii.

During his stay in Seoul he publicly promised there would be no early reduction of the 42,000-man American military garrison in South Korea and announced full support for President Park Chung-hee's June 23 proposal for joint admission of North and South Korea to the United Nations.

It was Rogers' first visit to Seoul since Park's suspension of the Korean constitution in October, 1972, and its replacement with a new basic law increasing the president's powers and downgrading the role of Korea's Parliament.

Since then there has been a steady flow of reports from Seoul of dismissals of journalists critical of the government, arrests of some others, and arrests of opposition members of Parliament.

More Watergate testimony given

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three days after the Watergate break-in, a millionaire businessman and a successful lawyer sat down with G. Gordon Liddy and heard all about the crime from its chief perpetrator.

Did they hurry out and tell the FBI. Here is your culprit.

Thursday, the Senate Watergate Committee heard Frederick C. LaRue, the millionaire, and Robert C. Mardian, a former assistant attorney general, tell how it came to pass that they did not.

LaRue said he had cautioned against wiretapping the Democrats as "risky" when he first heard the scheme proposed but somehow he was drawn into the cover-up. He said he ended up paying $242,000 in Nixon campaign funds to keep the defendants silent while keeping about $7,500 for his own expenses.

"That kind of situation is enough to make justice weep, isn't it?" asked Sen. Sam J.

Ervin, D-N.C., the Watergate committee chairman.

"I agree on that, yes," said LaRue. "Yes," said Ervin. Mardian said he was shocked and repelled by what Liddy told him June 20, 1972, at that meeting in LaRue's apartment which, by coincidence, was in the Watergate West.

But, said Mardian, he had interviewed Liddy that day in his role as an attorney and so the lawyer-client privilege — the obligation of a lawyer to preserve the secrecy of his client's confessions — prevented him from going to anyone, even President Nixon, to tell about the crime of Watergate or the crime of the cover-up.

Both LaRue, 45, a former White House aide and former high-ranking Nixon campaign strategist, and Mardian, 49, are close friends and associates of John N. Mitchell, the former Nixon campaign director. They resemble each other physically and both wear thick lenses in their glasses. Mardian testified that even associates in the campaign committee confused them. And they were often together in the days after Watergate.

Records show that both conferred with Mitchell frequently in the days after Watergate. LaRue saw him 36 times in 18 days.

Mardian said he was asked by Mitchell to act as the lawyer for the Committee to Re-elect the President (CRP) immediately after the break-in and that task gave him the lawyer-client relationship which sealed his lips.

By mid-July, he said, he was disgusted with what he had learned. "I wanted out."

He was asked if he told Nixon or his closest aides, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman — both of whom are scheduled to testify next week about the cover-up.

He did not, he said. "I was precluded by the oath I took as a lawyer," he said.

Watergate panel victim of hoax

(c) Washington Star-News WASHINGTON — The Senate Watergate Committee and its chairman, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., Democrat of North Carolina, Friday became the victims of a hoax regarding tapes of President Nixon's White House conversations regarding Watergate.

Some unidentified individual claiming to be Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz telephoned Ervin on the committee's private line Friday and informed him the President had decided to turn over the tapes as requested by the committee.

The caller also said the President would meet with Ervin "at a convenient time next week."

Ervin announced this development when the committee returned from its lunch recess at 2 p.m.

Two Idaho escapees convicted of murder

FORSYTH, Mont. (UPI) — A seven-woman, five-man jury convicted two Idaho men Thursday on charges of murder, kidnapping and robbery in connection with last year's shooting death of a Hardin, Mont., jeweler.

Wallace L. Rhodes, Jr., 25, and James Shields, 21, both escapees from Mountain Home, Idaho, jail, will be sentenced in district court July 30 after a presentence investigation.

Both men had pleaded innocent to the charges, however the defense presentation lasted less than one minute and no witnesses were called.

Authorities said Rhodes and Shields robbed Donald Kalberg, tied and gagged him and drove him to a rest area on Interstate 94 about 20 miles east of here on September 28 and then shot him.

The two were arrested in Memphis, Tenn., several days after Kalberg was killed.

Prosecution evidence filed against Strachan

(c) Washington Star-News WASHINGTON — The Watergate prosecution Thursday filed with a federal judge the evidence it has gathered against former White House aide Gordon C. Strachan, the second time it has taken such a step.

The move is designed to put on record the prosecution's evidence against Strachan before he testifies publicly before the Senate Watergate Committee.

Strachan, like several other potential criminal defendants in the case, has been granted partial immunity from prosecution in return for his Senate testimony. This means that nothing he says or evidence growing out of what he says in Senate testimony can be used against him in a criminal prosecution.

But the prosecution is free to use anything it has obtained independently. Filing the evidence it has in advance protects the prosecution against defense claims that it is using "tainted" evidence.

Special prosecutor Archibald Cox took the same unusual step on June 19, in advance of the Senate testimony of former White House counsel John W. Dean Jr.

A spokesman for Cox said Thursday that evidence against Strachan was being filed for the same reason.

This would seem to indicate that Strachan, 29, who was a personal aide to former presidential assistant H. R. Haldeman, is not planning to plead guilty and testify for the government as recent news reports have suggested.

Stories that Strachan, scheduled to be the last Senate witness this week, is ready to implicate Haldeman in the Watergate bugging and cover-up also have been called into question.

Sources have told the Star-News that Strachan will testify that he gave Haldeman a copy of a political espionage plan devised by G. Gordon Liddy — the original bugging plan — but will testify that he did not know whether Haldeman ever read it.

Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of the re-election committee, has testified that he informed Strachan of the bugging plans and thinks Strachan saw copies of the fruits of the Watergate wiretap.

Strachan has also been at least indirectly linked to the coverup. In his own grand jury testimony he acknowledged that he had taken $350,000 in cash from the re-election committee to Haldeman, and later to former re-election committee aide Frederick C. LaRue. LaRue testified Wednesday that part of this case was used for payoffs to the original seven Watergate defendants.

FDA bans meat cure mix

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has banned the use of certain meat curing mixes used in hot dogs and lunch meat after tests disclosed a cancer-causing chemical in some samples.

The ban involves curing preparations in which the salt-nitrite is mixed with pepper or other seasoning before the mixture is added to meat. Such pre-mixes, the FDA said, apparently allow nitrite to react with seasonings to form nitrosamines, chemicals which have produced cancer in test animals.

The FDA said Agriculture Department tests found nitrosamines in two of 16 samples of pre-mixes made in the United States. The tests were conducted because of an incident in Canada last month that triggered the recall of sausage in which similar pre-mixes apparently allowed nitrosamines to form. At that time both the FDA and the Agriculture Department said they did not believe pre-mixes were widely used in this country, but they advised meat packers to keep curing salts and seasonings separate anyway.

Not affected by the ban are pre-mixes in which a chemical is used to buffer any reaction between salt and seasoning. The FDA said the buffer approach is used in the majority of pre-mixes now being used in the United States.

"As a safety precaution, however, FDA is requiring any manufacturer who wishes to market such pre-mixes to submit a food additive petition as further assurance that the pre-mixes are free of nitrosamines," the agency said.

The FDA would review any such petition.

Demos seek funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic party plans a new direct mail campaign for funds from small contributors, hoping to capitalize on the Watergate scandal.

Robert S. Strauss, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, announced the drive Thursday.

"We believe that the unprincipled influence peddling to big Republican contributors exposed by the Watergate affair has renewed the determination of Democrats everywhere to keep our party as the party of the people," Strauss said.

"The only way to be sure of that is to draw the bulk of our financial support from hundreds of thousands of small contributors."

Strauss' announcement followed disclosure of efforts by the Republican National Committee to disassociate itself from the scandal and urge contributions to "keep the party alive." The GOP committee dramatized its appeal by cutting its staff by 25 per cent and accepting voluntary pay cuts from some other officials.

Police probe TF burglaries

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City Police were investigating a rash of burglaries in the city Thursday.

Capt. Tim Qualls, chief of detectives, said two drug stores were entered, an auto insurance agency and the luggage compartment of an automobile was burglarized during the night.

The Kingsbury Drug, at Shoup Avenue West and Martin Street was entered, as was the Save-On Drug on Filer Avenue. Officers said inventories are underway at both to determine the loss but it is believed a quantity of drugs was taken at each store. A front window was broken out to gain entry to the Filer Avenue establishment.

At the Oregon Auto Agency, 919 Shoshone St. N., in the building with Feldman Realty, entry was gained but nothing has been missing as yet, officers said.

A Holiday Inn customer reported the luggage compartment of his vehicle was forced open during the night. Investigation is continuing.

Bids open

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County commissioners Wednesday approved a call for bids for a new computer for the office of the county clerk-auditor.

Clerk Harold Lancaster said the machine is needed to upgrade his accounting system and to cut down the work load of his staff in view of the heavy increase in accounting through new accounts such as the child support, and magistrate court receipts.

Lancaster said the machine will take over the work now being done by hand and requiring the time of several girls. It will handle the budget posting, payroll, child support and other county accounting chores.

Cost of the machine, to be met with revenue sharing money, is expected to run in the neighborhood of $18,000. Specifications for the bids are now being prepared and it is hoped bids can be opened about Aug. 14.

Grain deal 'secret' hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., charged Thursday that the Agriculture Department knew in advance of the massive $1 billion grain deal with Russia but kept it secret from American farmers who were selling their produce at bargain prices.

The Agriculture Department has denied it knew of the deal before it was made public. But Jackson told a news conference "we have affidavits that Agriculture was advised of the sales" before they took place.

Jackson is chairman of the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee which opens hearings Friday on the deal between private U.S. grain firms and the Soviet Union last year.

Jackson said if the Agriculture Department did not know about the secret dealings between a small group of U.S. firms and the Russians, it is "guilty of incredible negligence."

"If it is not true — if USDA in fact was aware of the negotiations — it is guilty of a deliberate attempt to conceal them from the public, particularly American farmers."

He added, "The evidence our investigation has turned up thus far leads me to conclude that the Department of Agriculture — and especially the Commodity Exchange Authority — encouraged secrecy in their dealings with the grain companies and the commodity exchanges."

Jackson said there was also "strong evidence" that U.S.

firms tried to keep secret their sales to the Russians by falsifying their reports to the Commodity Exchange Authority.

The authority recently filed an administrative complaint against the Continental Grain Co. of New York.

Hearing continued

TWIN FALLS — Judge Theron W. Ward, Fifth Judicial District Court, continued a hearing on a motion to dismiss charges against Karen Prief Cooke, Buhl, pending a transcript of the preliminary hearing.

Miss Cooke is charged with being an accessory to grand larceny charges in connection with the theft of cattle from the Easterday Farms near Buhl Jan. 14, 1973.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm 22, better than average looking, and I'm told I have a good personality. Also I don't pretend to be "Miss Super-Virgin." I don't care to jump into bed with a guy on the first date. How does a girl tactfully let a guy know this when he doesn't exactly come right out and ask her to go to bed with him, but he just keeps pushing himself on her? I must be going about it in the wrong way because even though my date and I really have a good time when it comes to the moment of truth he gets disgusted with me. This happens on every date I've had lately and I'm beginning to feel like a failure when a guy rushes me home, says, "I'll see you around," and I never hear from him again.

BIG PROBLEM

Start with preliminaries

DEAR ABBY: Your big problem is the way you conduct yourself during those moments that lead up to the moment of truth. Your actions undoubtedly telegraph the message that you would be a willing partner. Put the brakes on during the preliminaries, and you won't find yourself faced with "the moment of truth" so soon. And by the way, a guy who disappears permanently because a girl refuses to jump into bed with him on the first date is no bargain.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 64-year-old man who has been a widower for two years. I am in good health, college educated, and I'm considered presentable. I had a wonderful 38-year marriage, but I dislike living alone and I would like to marry. The problem I've been out with numerous ladies who seem pleasant and decent and would make fine companions, but they do nothing for me—physically. I am not a wolf, but I'd like a woman about whom I can really become excited. One I can't wait to see again. I don't mean young girls, either. I mean a woman in her fifties.

Can this happen to a man my age? Or should I settle for a nice woman who qualifies in every other way and put aside these dreams of romance? I don't want to be crude, but I would like to know if it's possible for a man past 60 to fall in love—and physically do something about it.

READY AND WILLING

DEAR READY AND WILLING: If you are in good health, you are also "able." All you need is the right woman. Keep looking.

DEAR ABBY: May I commend you for your understanding advice to "Heartsick Mother" whose beautiful 22-year-old daughter had an all-consuming interest in another girl? You told the mother: "Let your daughter know you love her and accept her as she is. There is no more convincing proof of your love."

I hope she heeds your advice. My only son turned out to be a homosexual. I was heartbroken, but never let him know it.

Also I couldn't understand it, I accepted it. Today he has adjusted to it, has an excellent position in a distant state, and the respect of those he works for. And yes, he has a "special" friend.

Had I rejected him, he might have had many more problems. Before going to his present location, he wrote me a letter, thanking me for accepting him as he is. Neither one of us ever mentioned it again.

Thank you, Abby, for understanding.

Chaplain system comes under fire

(c)Newhouse News Service
 WASHINGTON—The Vietnam War has produced a quiet but increasingly strong movement to reform the military chaplain system on the grounds that military line commanders use their assigned religious advisers as "adjuncts of war."

The reform movement, started about seven years ago among small church-related anti-war factions which argued that it was "immoral" for military chaplains to play a spiritual support role in "the Vietnam atrocity."

The first religious organization to take any formal action was the Universalist Unitarian Association, which started pulling its chaplains out of the military four years ago.

The Unitarians, one of the earliest anti-war groups, held anti-draft meetings in their Boston church, which also served as a center for conscientious objectors to the draft.

Today, there are no Unitarian ministers in the military according to the General Commission on Chaplains, a civilian liaison organization.

Meanwhile, religious critics of the war grew in numbers, led by Philip and Joseph Berrigan. Almost every organized religious group in the nation, including the generally conservative Roman Catholic hierarchy, passed resolutions condemning the war.

Last month, a second well known denomination, the United Church of Christ, voted at its annual synod in St. Louis to formally propose to the military that reforms be made in the chaplaincy system including wide use of civilian chaplains the way the military uses the Red Cross.

The American Civil Liberties Union in May issued a lengthy study which concluded that the military chaplaincy discriminated in favor of larger denominations and pro-war chaplains and against blacks, women, smaller sects and pacifists.

The report argued that the military "command control" of the chaplaincy amounted to state-sponsored religion in violation of the church-state separation guarantee of the First Amendment.

The ACLU also established a litigation project to start test cases on the constitutionality of the chaplaincy system.

This fall, one of the largest and most influential religious groups in the nation, the United Presbyterian Church, is expected to voice strong opposition to the chaplaincy system based on a draft report which is now being circulated.

The Rev. Ralph W. Weltge of Philadelphia, who wrote the United Church of Christ report, said that "so far, the military has paid almost no attention to its critics and has declined invitations to discuss suggested changes."

"We are obtaining more and more support among the larger denominations," he said, "and it is only a question of time before the military authorities will have to deal with us."

"Vietnam was a moral horror for chaplains," he said. "In the first place, every major denomination was opposed to the war while, at the same time, chaplains from these denominations were supporting the war." He added:

"There is no known case of a chaplain who raised his voice against the atrocities in Vietnam. There is no known case of a chaplain filing any charges."

"There were chaplains with the American division in My Lai and none of them were heard from at the time."

In answer to this type of charge against the philosophy of the military chaplaincy, The Chaplain Magazine issued a lengthy rebuttal which said in part:

"Most service persons would neither appreciate nor willingly receive the ministrations of a clergyman who has only condemnation for the values of their occupation for the time being. A militant pacifist would be ineffective as a civilian chaplain because his services would be unwelcome. His very mission would be to offend his clients."

The chaplain rebuttal added:

"If a clergyman who publicly held this view (against the war) were to be engaged as a civilian chaplain and word of his publicly proclaimed position were to reach a military commander, it is unlikely that such a civilian chaplain would receive much cooperation. Indeed, it is not inconceivable that he would be denied access to the installation."

There are currently about 3,000 military chaplains: 1,500 in the Army, 880 in the Navy and about 1,000 in the Air Force.

The ACLU and United Church of Christ studies showed that in the Army Catholics were under-represented, and Protestants and Jews were slightly over-represented.

Within the Protestant sects, there is a heavy concentration of larger mostly white denominations. The United Church of Christ with about two million members had more than 100 chaplains. But the National Baptist Convention, the largest black church in the nation with 5.5 million members, had only 18 chaplains.

2 members accepted at Clover LWML meet

FILER — Two new members were welcomed to the Clover Lutheran Missionary League at its July meeting in the Clover School.

Mrs. Rene Burkhalter and Mrs. Robert Schaer joined the association. Mrs. Rocky Burkhalter was a guest.

Mrs. Martin Kniep presented the opening devotional service.

Mrs. Elmer Fischer reminded members of the LWML retreat Aug. 5-8 at Camp Perkins. Mrs. Emil Persigehl will be in charge of the special project group for the next three months.

A patriotic program was presented which included a humorous reading by Mrs. Ray Lassen and pledges to the American Flag, Bible and Cross. Mrs. Arthur Kaster read several Bible verses.

Hostesses were Mrs. Fischer and Mrs. Leo Gihring.

Church briefs

TWIN FALLS — Rev. Donald Hoffman, Tillamook, Ore., former minister of the First Christian Church, will be guest speaker at the church for the 10:50 a.m. Sunday service. After the service, there will be a potluck dinner for members and friends.

TWIN FALLS — "Life" will be the subject of the Christian Science lesson sermon at 11 a.m. Sunday at 160 Ninth Ave. E., Twin Falls. The public is invited to the Sunday and 3 p.m. Wednesday service. "What Does Thought Have to Do With Health?" is the title of the 6:30 p.m. Monday KTFI radio program.

TWIN FALLS — Rev. Robert Van Nest will speak on "The Birthday of the Church" at Sunday's 8 a.m. Drive-in Church service at the Motor-Vu Drive-In Theater. Mrs. Charles Airhart will be pianist and Brenda Bonnet will be soloist.

Chaplain addresses TF meet

TWIN FALLS — Merlin Carothers, former Army chaplain and author, will address a meeting in Twin Falls on Wednesday.

Carothers will speak at 8 p.m. at the Christian Center, 181 Morrison St. according to the Rev. Del Storey and the Rev. Sheldon Slagel, co-pastors of the center.

Carothers is now pastor of North County Christian Center, Escondido, Calif. He will share the platform in his Twin Falls appearance with his wife, Mary. Carothers is a former Army chaplain, holding the rank of lieutenant colonel at his retirement. He is a master parachutist and combat veteran with service in Germany, Korea and Vietnam.

He is also the author of "Prison to Praise," "Power in Praise" and "Answers to Praise." His Twin Falls appearance is one of a series in Idaho and eastern Oregon.

Bible Time planned

TWIN FALLS — Grace Baptist Church will conduct its third Neighborhood Bible Time next week.

The five day program for all youth between ages 4 and 19 will begin Monday and conclude with a final service at 7:30 p.m. on July 29. Pastor Robert Seaman said the program is open to all youth, regardless of denomination.

A teen program featuring a series of evangelistic crusade services, is planned for 7:15 p.m. each day. It is intended for high school and college youth.

Transportation will be provided to and from the church. Children are to wait on their nearest street corner for the marked bus, Seaman said. Morning programs are scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 12:00 p.m., so children should be ready for pick-up by 8:45 a.m. They will be returned home immediately after dismissal.

Kimberly women meet

KIMBERLY — A special guest meeting was held Wednesday evening at the United Methodist Church with the United Methodist Women. Their guests were the Mystery Daughters and their mothers.

Food was solicited for a lunch booth for the Kimberly Good Neighbor Day on Saturday.

A reservation for one delegate has been made for the Mission Experience at CSI on July 24-27.

Congregations to build church

TWIN FALLS — Our Savior Lutheran and Valley Christian churches announce construction plans for their new joint facility have been completed and they are now receiving bids for the new building.

The new facility will include the construction of two adjoining wings, an educational-fellowship unit and a worship-administrative area, which will be added to the present Valley Christian Church building at 1708

Heyburn Ave. E. Upon completion of the new facility the two congregations will utilize the building to house the ministry of both churches.

The Joint Building Plans Committee of the two congregations is co-chaired by Jack Rasmussen of Our Savior Lutheran Church and Herb W. Van Slyke of Valley Christian Church.

They have said that the new construction will total around $150,000, of which Our Savior Lutheran will be responsible for the worship-administrative wing and Valley Christian will make payment for the new educational wing.

They emphasized, however, that a single contract will be let for the total construction.

Ivan Stone and Associates, Twin Falls architects, have developed the construction plans, and they are taking the bids for the project.

Rupert sets religious drama

RUPERT — The religious drama, "Circuits to Ride" will be presented Wednesday at the Rupert United Methodist Church.

The production, which will begin at 8 p.m., will be done by the Methodist Actors Serving the Church (MASC). It concerns a history of how the church began and the current riding of some of the early ministers.

The public is invited to attend the play at 605 H St. There is no charge, although offerings will be accepted.

Filer appearance set

FILER — Sydney ("Syd") Frank, a Bible teaching evangelist and musician from Gladstone, Ore., will be heard at Filer Missionary Church, 400 Yakima, Filer on Monday evening at 7:30 p.m.

Through the tutorage and inspiration of his parents, both musicians, Syd took his first piano lesson at the age of 6, studying in his home town of Portland. Some years later, the desire to play in the high school marching band encouraged his mother to pay for his first trumpet and lesson.

His father, an organist, pianist, and dance orchestra leader in Portland, died at the age of 38. Wanting to follow in his father's footsteps, Syd organized a dance orchestra during his late high school years.

At 21, he felt the need of Biblical training, and attended Trinity and Northwestern Bible Institutes, both of Minneapolis. He also has his bachelor of arts and bachelor of theology degrees, and is presently completing work toward his master of theology degree.

Besides his pastoral experience, he has been a staff member of four Youth for Christ rallies, and has traveled with the Christ for America evangelistic association as a field evangelist. He has spoken and presented music for many local church meetings, youth rallies, and city-wide evangelistic meetings.

Grace Baptists build new church

TWIN FALLS — establishment of a Christian day school in the elementary level.

Construction is scheduled to begin next week on the new Grace Baptist Church here.

Pastor Robert Seaman said the new brick facilities at 798 Eastland Drive N. will have about 16,000 square feet of floor space with an air-conditioned hexagonal sanctuary seating about 600 persons.

Education facilities are designed to accommodate

Completion of the new church is expected by early 1974. The firm of Thompson and Kolbo, Boise and Nampa, drew plans for the building. Seaman said the new facilities were needed because of a lack of space in the present church building at 211 Fourth Ave. E.

Gem crop acreage increases

TWIN FALLS — Total acreage of field crops, other than seeds, to be harvested this year in Idaho has been forecast higher than in 1972.

The latest "Farm Report" of the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said that the projected increase is mainly the result of larger plantings of winter and spring wheat, corn, oats, barley, hay and lentils.

The report projected decreases in statewide acreage for mixed grain, sugar beets, dry beans and dry peas.

Figures on total Idaho acreage planted were not tabulated in the report but a tally of various major crops showed about 6.01 million acres under production this year, compared to about 5.64 million in 1972 and 5.66 million in 1971. Due to harvesting of more than one crop from the same acreage, some duplication may be reflected in the figures.

The farm report said fall weather conditions were generally favorable for the sowing of winter grains. Some winter grain loss was experienced in north Idaho due to lack of adequate snow cover, it said.

Early spring farm operations were ahead of schedule in the northern and southwestern sections of the state, the report said, but later than normal in the southcentral and eastern sections due to wet weather. While cool May weather caused some crops to lag early, the recent hot weather has made for good growth, the report added.

A survey of crop acreages in the report showed:

Wheat: Combined Idaho wheat crop (winter and spring) is estimated at 50.8 million bushels, a 15 per cent gain over last year. Winter wheat production at 36.8 million bushels is up 3 per cent over 1972, while spring wheat production at 15 million bushels is up 59 per cent. National wheat production is estimated at a record high 1,749 million bushels, 13 per cent up from 1972 and 8 per cent above 1971.

Oats: Statewide production, at 3.7 million bushels this year, is up 22 per cent over 1972 production. Acreage for harvest, at 71,000, is up 27 per cent.

Barley: Production is at a record high 43.5 million bushels, up 9 per cent from 1972 and 5 per cent over the previous high of 41.4 million bushels set in 1971.

Mixed grain: Production is forecast at 5.8 million bushels for 1973, down 8 per cent from 1972 and 11 per cent from 1971.

All hay: A record 1.40 acres expected to be harvested this year, up from 1.37 million acres cut in 1972.

Corn for grain: Acreage for harvest estimated at 31,000, a record high, 6,000 acres above last year and 1,000 acres above the previous 30,000 high of 1970.

Commercial dry beans: Acreage for harvest estimated at 98,000 is a decrease of 13 per cent from 1972's record high 113,000 acres.

Dry peas and lentils: Estimated 48,000 acres of dry peas for harvest, down 2,000 acres from the 1972 level. Lentil acreage estimated at 24,000 acres, up 20 per cent from 1972.

Sugar beets: Sugar beet acreage, at 142,000, is down 18 per cent from last year. Sugar beet acreage nationwide is estimated at 1,200 million acres, a decrease of 7 per cent from last year.

Fruit: Sweet cherry crop, at 1,500 tons projected, is double the size of last year's crop, but 1,300 tons less than the 1971 crop. Commercial apple production, at a projected 120 million tons, is more than double the crop produced in Idaho in 1972. Projected pear crop at 1,300 tons is up 500 tons from last year. Estimated peach production of one million pounds is about half the size of last year's crop.

Bean sales slowed by frozen prices

STOCKTON, Calif. — Because of the price freeze, California dealer shipper bean markets reported few to no sales this week.

According to the Bean Market News for July 17, users have been unable to purchase replacement stocks at legal price levels. The Federal State Market News Service publication reports also that dealer shippers have found it difficult to offer beans at their frozen prices.

The report was issued prior to announcement of Phase 4 controls Thursday.

Prices listed for July 18 for U.S. No. 1 FOB country warehouses in 100 pound bags were: California baby limas 10.75-11.00; large limas 22.00; blackeyes 19.00-20.25; pinks 11.00-11.40; small whites 18.50-19.25; light red kidneys 15.50-15.75.

Prices for the weeks of July 17, July 10, and July 18, 1972, were:

Colorado-Denver rate pintos 12.75-13.00, 12.75-13.00, nominal; Idaho pintos 12.75-13.00, 12.75-13.00, nominal; great northern 19.00-20.00, 20.00-21.00, 13.00-13.50; small reds 15.00-16.00, 15.00-16.00, 11.50; pinks 13.50-14.00, 13.25-14.00, 10.50-10.75.

Nebraska great northern 19.00-21.00, 20.00-21.00, 13.50; Washington small reds 14.00, 14.00, nominal; pintos 12.75-13.00, 12.50-13.00, nominal; pinks 14.00-14.25, 13.00-14.00, nominal.

Drunk driving

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Drunken drivers are responsible for the death of one of every five victims of fatal traffic accidents, the Danish Statistical Office reports.

Scented sheep latest weapon

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — A university specialist said Wednesday that sheep throughout Colorado had been doused with scents ranging from rotting cabbage to cinnamon in efforts to cut down on preying coyotes.

"It is still too early to predict results," said Dr. Vern Swanson, of Colorado State University. "I hope at least one of the compounds will warrant further study as a possible coyote repellent."

A number of chemical compounds were sprinkled on rubber collars worn by sheep in herds in the Montrose and Norwood, Colo., areas. Swanson said the idea was that coyotes might be discouraged from attacking smelly sheep.

"Coyotes are extremely wary and certain chemical odors not normally associated with sheep might discourage attacks," said Swanson. "One advantage to a repellent is that it would not be necessary to destroy coyotes to protect domestic animals."

Swanson said that daily records were being kept by ranchers and shepherds of the cause of any sheep deaths. He

Youth ranch opens with new program

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The Idaho Youth Ranch will open to boys again the end of August with a new program under an almost completely new staff.

The new executive director of the ranch, James Worsley, said Thursday the new ranch program, developed by officials of the Yellowstone Boys Ranch in Billings, Mont., eliminated many positions held by former staff members of the ranch.

"No one was fired just to be fired," Worsley said, "there was nothing against personalities."

(Related stories, p. 1)

The farm program at the ranch will be completely separated from the youth program, he said, which eliminates the position of farm manager formerly held by William Mitchell.

Under the new program, farm operations will be separated financially and administratively from the ranch itself, he said, and farm operations will be supervised by a committee of the board of directors.

This separation was recommended in a report made by Rita Blackaller, director of children and family services for the Department of Environmental and Community Services about a month ago.

The dairy herd has been sold and the ranch is selling the horses and hay, according to Worsley.

"The rehabilitation of these kids warrants better training than the milking of cows," he said.

The school program at the ranch will also be terminated under the new policies, Franklin Robbie, executive director of the Yellowstone Boys Ranch said. The positions of all but one teacher, who will supervise grounds maintenance, have been terminated.

This year the boys will be enrolled in the Minidoka County school system, Robbie said, under the supervision of a liaison official with a background in education.

Previously, the ranch enrolled only a small number of boys in the schools.

The new official, when hired, will work with school officials throughout the year and keep the ranch houseparents informed about the boys progress in school.

Tuition for the boys will be paid for by their home school districts, as in the past, Robbie said, and the ranch will pay for any extra costs.

School district officials complained in past years of home districts refusing to pay the tuition but, according to Robbie, this was because some of the money was going back into the ranch school program which was not supervised by professional educational personnel.

Under the new system, he said, no school funds will be funneled into the ranch, eliminating cause for protests.

If, during the year, it becomes apparent that some boys cannot adjust properly to the regular school system, some sort of school may be established at the ranch in the spring, Robbie said.

One major change in ranch policy will be a "move in direction to the younger boy" in acceptance policies, Robbie said. The emphasis will be put on boys in the 10-12 year-old range instead of the previous focus on the 16-18 year-old.

The older boys were "beyond the ability of the staff," Robbie said, "and needed more professional help."

Lawrence Soft, superintendent of the Yellowstone Boys Ranch, did a "realistic evaluation" of the ranch after talking to school officials, referral agencies and the DECS officials, Robbie said, before making the recommendation.

"The placement agencies say they need places for younger boys," Robbie said.

To those people who ask where the older boys will go, Robbie said, he told them the ranch "can't help them all," but will help the younger boys in an effort to eliminate problems with them later on.

"There is no similar institution for boys of this type and age in the state," Robbie said.

"None of the boys who've been here before will be back," Robbie said. The youth ranch will have "a new beginning with younger boys," he said.

The ranch will admit boys in a gradual process, according to Worsley, first filling one ranch house and then beginning with another.

Each boy coming to the ranch has been "uprooted" from his home, and no matter what his home situation was, will go through a period of "getting acquainted, adjusting to a new school and of homesickness," Robbie said.

It is better not to have to face this situation with too many boys at one time, he said.

The ranch currently has one set of houseparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allison, Burley.

Robbie said the ranch personnel are "very excited" about the couple, who will be trained for several weeks at the Montana ranch "evaluating the program and being evaluated by its staff," before assuming their duties at the Rupert ranch.

"This has been an institution," Robbie said, "we're going the other way, with the stress on family living."

Boys at the ranch will all dine together under the new program, Robbie said, which will have an added benefit of cutting costs, and they will live with boys of varying ages in the three youth ranch houses. Formerly, the boys were grouped in living quarters by age groups.

The ranch will "use the assistance of the Yellowstone Boys Ranch in hiring and testing new employees," Worsley said, and most will be sent to the Montana ranch for training.

"It is the whole attitude of the board we're going to ship a lot of people to Montana," board member William Howard, Rupert, said.

A new ranch superintendent has been tentatively hired, Worsley said, and is being evaluated by the Yellowstone Boys Ranch officials. A former career military man, he "hasn't had previous direct service" with this type of program, but has "many years of experience dealing with young people," he said.

Robbie stressed that the Yellowstone Boys Ranch is "not taking over the youth ranch," but is merely providing assistance in establishing a new program there.

Pollution hearing set

BOISE — A public hearing July 31 in the statehouse in Boise will cover air pollution abatement schedules for a number of Magic Valley asphalt batching plants, rock crushing and gravel and concrete operations.

The hearing will also cover the phosphate fertilizer plants clean up schedule in other parts of the state and a number of lumber mill operations.

Schedules submitted by the Department of Environmental and Community Services for the abatement of air pollution caused by these plants will be discussed during the hearings.

A total of 21 asphalt batching plants and some 100 rock crushing companies will be involved. Most of these schedules were adopted last month.

Earliest deadlines call for some control procedures by Oct. 1 of this year while more complex projects which will require installation of new costly equipment will not be required to complete abatement programs until mid 1975.

Companies scheduled to be included in the hearing July 31 include Larry Wright Construction Co., Rupert; Mike Ivie Contractor, Bellevue; Hoffbahr Ready Mix, Inc., Burley; Magic Valley Sand and Gravel, Burley; Tripple C. Concrete Co., Burley; Gordon Paving Co., Burley, Twin Falls, and Halley; McCarty Gravel Co., Kimberly; Kloefer Ready Mix Concrete and Paving Co., Paul; Colonial Concrete, Ready to Pour Concrete and Northwest Grane Rigging and Transport Co., all Twin Falls; Gary D. Jones Construction Co., Burley; Nielsen and Co., Twin Falls; Sun Valley Ready Mix, Halley; Reynolds Construction Inc., Twin Falls.

Paving companies and asphalt plants required to take immediate action to control emission of air pollutant materials include Beymer Paving Inc., Aslett Construction Co., Peter Kiewit Sons Co., all Twin Falls; Gordon Paving, Burley, and Holmes Construction Co., Heyburn.

Youth ranch personnel will not face charges

The DECS report, he said, "indicated that the children involved in physical discipline at the ranch had problems too complex to be solved in the family living situation which existed at the youth ranch."

"Some of the investigative reports which were disseminated by various news media contain statements not admissible in a court of law and innuendoes not substantiated by any facts known to me," Nielsen said.

"The evidence which my office has gathered is insufficient to indicate to me that there was repeated use of corporal punishment at the youth ranch," he said, "but indicates there were a few isolated instances involving specific youths who had problems conforming to the rules and regulations of the youth ranch."

"All the evidence which I have accumulated indicates that in each instance where physical discipline was used, the agents of the ranch were merely trying to control the youths and their conduct did not exceed the proper bounds," he said.

"In each instance when a youth was either restrained or punished, the conduct of the youth required physical discipline," he said.

Nielsen said "contrary to some published reports, the physical discipline did not cause any permanent injuries and I am satisfied that it was not excessive or cruel."

"I am also satisfied that in each case the physical discipline was proportioned to the gravity of the offense for which it was imposed," he said.

"Since there is insufficient evidence to substantiate any criminal charges, none will be filed in this county unless new evidence is discovered," Nielsen said.

Bank granted charter to open Jerome branch

JEROME — Idaho First National Bank has been granted a charter for a branch in Jerome. It will be the third bank to offer services in the city.

Tom Frye, Boise, president of Idaho First, said a temporary banking facility might be established in Jerome within 30 days. A permanent office will take nine months to one year for construction, he said.

The Jerome branch will be a "full service" operation, including a drive-in facility, Frye said.

About seven persons will be employed at the bank, he added.

Appointment of a branch manager "will be forthcoming very soon," Frye said. "There are two or three possible candidates at present."

Frye called Jerome "the growing area of the state." He said the new branch "will be an extension of our service in the Magic Valley."

Jerome's Idaho First facility will adopt "strong agricultural and business policies," according to Frye.

5 MV businesses violate 'freeze'

TWIN FALLS — Five Magic Valley businesses were entered in violation of the Phase 3 1/2 price freeze during the past month by the Idaho Internal Revenue Service.

Listed this week with violations were The Drift Inn, Rupert, charging 10 cents per glass of beer in excess of price freeze ceilings; Union 76 Gas, Bliss, 2 cents per gallon of diesel gas; Phillips 66, Addison Ave., Twin Falls, 1 cent per gallon on regular gas; Stinker Gas, Bliss, 2 cents per gallon on regular gas, and California Liquid Gas Corp., Halley, 5 cents on bottled gas.

The five, listed with 36 other Idaho firms, were ordered to roll back prices to below pre-freeze levels until the total sum of violation was reached, according to Jerald M. Peterson, assistant to the Idaho Internal Revenue Service director for stabilization.

Nearly all of the overcharges were to cash customers, and therefore not identifiable, Peterson said.

XXX theatre manager arrested

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — The manager of the Top Theater in Caldwell which shows triple x-rated adult films has been arrested on a charge of exhibiting obscene matter, under the state's new obscenity law.

Robert Loya, 26, was arrested Thursday as a result of a July 10 hearing in which Canyon County officials obtained two x-rated movies as evidence upon which to base their complaint.

Loya's case has been continued until Monday, after he posted $300 bond. The charge is a misdemeanor.

Coeur d'Alene man killed

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — Ralph K. Finley Jr., 19, Coeur d'Alene, was killed late Wednesday night in a one-car rollover on Interstate 90.

Idaho State Police reported the one-car accident occurred in Kootenai County on the highway at milepost 12.5. The road was bare and dry. The ISP said Finley apparently lost control of the vehicle, which slid on its top side for 316 feet before coming to rest.

Finley was the only person in the vehicle.

The Idaho traffic fatality toll now stands at 185, compared to 160 on this date last year.

Sailing regatta set

ALTURAS LAKE — About 40 sail boats are expected to take part in a sailing regatta here Saturday and Sunday at Alturas Lake.

The event is open to all sail boat enthusiasts and persons wishing to participate may enter prior to noon on Saturday. The events Sunday will begin at 10 a.m. Spectators are welcome.

Ketchum rates okayed

KETCHUM, Idaho (UPI) — An application by Ketchum Springs Water Supply, Inc., to raise certain flat water rates for domestic and lawn-sprinkling purposes has been approved by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission.

Ketchum Water serves about 287 residential and commercial customers within its service area. The application requested authority to raise the base flat rate charges for residential customers from $4 to $7 per month and for commercial customers from $6 to $10.75 per month.

Kimberly plans special day

KIMBERLY — Good Neighbor Day will begin at 6 a.m. Saturday in the town park with a pancake breakfast sponsored by the Kimberly Chamber of Commerce.

Events will include a parade at 10 a.m., a bicycle race at 11, games, relays and races throughout the afternoon, and a performance by the Antique Festival Theatre of "Medicine Wagon" at 7:30 p.m.

Local artists will exhibit their works in the park during the day, and pie eating contest will be featured.

Outage planned for Saturday

BURLEY — An electrical outage at the Declo substation affecting power users in an area southeast of Burley is scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

Spokesmen for the utilities involved in a work project to be completed at the substation — including Southside Electric Lines, Declo; the cities of Declo and Albion, and the Bonneville Power Administration (their power supplier) — said increasing use of power in the area requires upgrading the capacity of the facility.

According to the utility representatives, electrical service to the residents of Declo and Albion and to the members of Southside Electric Lines (not including those served from Newcomb substation) will be interrupted beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The utility representatives said power will be restored to different parts of the area at different times between 2 and 3 p.m. They emphasized that the work schedule calls for full restoration of power by 3 p.m.

Filer pool to open

FILER — Filer's swimming pool will open at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The official opening, which had been formerly scheduled for July 4, was delayed because of late arrival of some materials, according to Lawrence Knigge, pool committee member.

Mrs. Gary Nelson has been hired as pool manager, Knigge said.

The pool committee still needs to raise $1,500 for pool construction costs, he said. The pool is costing about $80,000 and Filer is raising half of the amount with matching funds to come from the State Parks Board.

A formal dedication of the pool is set for the early part of August. All members of the "100 club" will have their names engraved on a plaque at the pool. The "100 club" is made up of donors who gave $100 or more to the pool fund, either in one donation or as cumulative donations.

Firm's hatchery disease menaces fingerling crop

Vedvig said close to 3.5 million steelhead now at the Niagara Springs installation may have to be destroyed.

He said the affected fish are less than two inches in length and the "total poundage" lost if they are destroyed would be less than 2,000 pounds.

He said there are about 80,000 to 100,000 slightly larger fish at the hatchery which have not yet shown signs of infection.

To date, he said, about 25 per cent of the steelhead have been lost, but he added that if the disease were allowed to run its course mortality rates could go as high as 50 to 70 per cent.

Vedvig said the real threat from the virus outbreak would come with release of the fingerlings into the river system.

"If we release these fish," he said, "there is a strong possibility that we might have the problem every year."

He said the disease had never been observed in cause massive mortality in the wild state. He said it had been observed in Chinook and Coho salmon in the Columbia River.

from Niagara Springs could mean that adult fish which had not died could carry the virus to young fish in the natural habitat.

Noting that IPN has been prevalent for years in the Snake River, Vedvig said, "Some people are going to say, 'It's already in the river, so why destroy the fish?'"

"The thing we've got to do is do everything in our power not to allow the spread of this thing," he said. "We don't want to take a chance on letting this go and knowing that some of them will be carriers and having a big outbreak in three to four years."

Vedvig said the fate of the steelhead was up to the Fish and Game Commission, but he added that in his opinion a good disinfection program could not be accomplished without the destruction of the fish and the neutralization of the water running through the hatchery.

Vedvig said he could place no dollar value on the loss of the fish; nor could he determine the effect on steelhead runs if the population is destroyed, he added. He said destruction of the fish would mean that no steelhead of the Pahasimeroi strain could be raised at Niagara Springs until next Spring.

Goalby, Massengale share early lead at St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Veteran Bob Goalby and young Rik Massengale shot five-under-par 65s Thursday to share the lead in the first round of the $210,000 St. Louis Golf Classic.

Goalby, 42, gambled with long approach shots to rain-softened greens during a steady morning rain and collected five birdies without a bogey.

Massengale, 26, toured the course at Norwood Hills Country Club in the afternoon when scores were higher because of bumpy greens. He also avoided a bogey.

"I guess I can't complain too much about the course," said Massengale, who has never won a pro tournament.

"This is the steadiest round of golf I've ever played," he said happily. "I don't play too many rounds without a bogey."

Massengale was tied with Bruce Crampton for the lead after the first round of the Western Open in Chicago three weeks ago and finished 13th, his highest finish of the year. He has never finished higher than sixth in a tournament in his three years on the pro tour, and has won $9,529 so far this year.

"I'm right below the 100 mark on the money list each week. I could stand the $42,000 prize for this one. I hope this is the start of something big," he said.

"I'd have to be rated the underdog," Massengale added. "Goalby has won tournaments and he's won money every year."

Goalby, who lives in nearby Belleville, Ill., and is familiar with the Norwood course, said,

"I've made a living at this game for 17 years, so I figure I'm ahead of the game no matter what."

Massengale and Goalby were one stroke ahead of Gene Littler, Chuck Courtney and John Schroeder, who were tied for third with 66s. Littler missed a chance for the lead by short-putting a 15-footer on the 17th hole, complained of stomach pains and went to a doctor immediately after leaving the 18th green.

Dallas saves Lilly on brink of announcing retirement

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — Bob Lilly, the man who Coach Tom Landry says exemplifies the Dallas Cowboys, is in training camp and ready to play football again.

The 6-foot-5, 260-pound defensive tackle, who will be 34 years old next Thursday, was on the verge of announcing his retirement until General Manager Tex Schramm made a hurried flight to Dallas to talk him out of it.

"I talked to Tex until 2 a.m. this morning (Thursday)," Lilly said. "That's when I decided to come back and see the situation here for myself."

"After talking to all my teammates and the coaches, I think I'd be stupid to go back to Dallas now," he said. "They are in very good spirits, as good as I've ever seen them."

Coach Landry has had nothing but praise for the 13-year veteran.

"If there's any one person who really exemplifies the Dallas Cowboys, it's Lilly. He leads us in everything we do," Landry said last year. "There won't be another Bob Lilly in my time. You're observing a man who will become a legend."

Lilly's problems with the Cowboys were apparently more personal than they were contractual.

"I had been reading in the newspapers about people leaving camp and retiring and so forth," he said Thursday. "I don't know if it was the things in the paper, or what prompted it."

Lilly's appearance leaves only quarterback Craig Morton and center Dave Manders, who said he is retiring, still out of the fold, though several players who did report to camp have not signed contracts.

And Lilly apparently was the major concern of the front office.

Schramm had never made such a mission in Cowboy history.

Vicki Mallea grabs state tourney lead

BOISE (UPI) — Nampa's Vicki Mallea moved into first place Thursday at the 1973 state women's amateur golf tournament at Hillcrest Country Club by shooting a one over par 74 to give her 155.

She had an 81 Wednesday during the first round of the 44-hole contest which ends Friday. In second place is Kali Voyce, Boise, who had 81 for a 160 total. She led the first round Wednesday at 79.

Sergene Sorenson, Burley, was in third place at the end of 36 holes, with an 81 and a 166 total. Virginia Undhjem, Twin Falls, tied for third also shooting an 81 for 166.

Back in fourth place was Belva Wildman, Boise, with an 83 for a 167 total. She was in fourth place Wednesday.

While those are the five leaders in the championship flight, Linda Mitchell, Boise, is leading the first flight with an 87 for a 172. Bonnie Johnson, Boise, leads the second flight at 92 for 182, and Irene Robertson, Boise, heads the third flight with 93 for 183.

Amateur has lead in U.S. women's open

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Cynthia Hill, complaining of illnesses that made her sound little like the late Roberto Clemente, shot a record first round 68 Thursday for a two-stroke lead in the U.S. Women's Open golf championship.

"I've got a bad back and arm problems and I don't think I'm physically strong enough to play professionally," moaned the 25-year-old Miss Hill, the Colorado amateur who coaxed seven birdies from the demanding course at the Country Club of Rochester.

Her round was four-under-par, a course record for women and a Women's Open record for the first round.

Barbara Fay Boddie of Shreveport, La., a semifinalist in U.S. Women's Amateur who turned pro only last month, sank a seven-foot birdie putt on the 18th green to take second place—all alone at two-under-par 70.

Four-time champion Betsy Rawls and winless Sue Roberts shot one-under-par 71s.

Susie Maxwell Berning, the defending champion and a two-time winner, Canadian amateur Marlene Stewart Street, the 1956 National Amateur champion, and Pam Higgins matched even-par 72, but everyone else in the field of 142 was over par.

"It's the greatest I've ever played—without a doubt," said Miss Hill, who was low amateur in the 1970 Women's Open at Muskogee, Okla., but missed the cut the last two years. She also was runner-up in the National Women's Amateur in 1970 and 1972.

Clemente, the Pittsburgh Pirates' superstar rightfielder who died in the crash of a New Year's Eve merry flight, earned considerable attention throughout his career by complaining of injuries—which many people thought he imagined—and then going out and playing brilliantly anyway.

Foster to risk crown on Aug. 21

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — World light heavy-weight boxing champion Bob Foster signed a contract Thursday for his Aug. 21 title defense in Albuquerque against South Africa's Pierre Fourie.

Fourie is rated the No. 1 contender by the World Boxing Association.

Foster was accompanied to the signing ceremony by his manager, Yancey Durham, and his trainer, Bill Edwards. The contract calls for the champion to receive $75,000, or 40 per cent of the gate after taxes, whichever is greater.

The contract also has a provision for a contribution to the sickle cell anemia fund of 10 per cent of the net profits.

In past instances of training camp workouts or no-shows, vice president Gil Brandt occasionally has made personal trips to talk with the unhappy player, and sometimes the Cowboys would phone as they did to Manders Sunday.

But just as often the Cowboys have waited for the player to make the first move as they have in the case of Morton, who sat in a motel near the training camp for three days without hearing a word.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JULY 21, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You want to be off and away to new scenes, new personalities, new conditions of all sorts.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Partners are acting in a rather peculiar fashion and you want to sever connections, but be patient instead.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) You have work you must do; get at it instead of running out for fun.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You want to go out for recreation and should take congenials along to really enjoy yourself.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take time to do whatever will make conditions at home more ideal instead of running out here and there with no definite purpose.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Make sure you drive with utmost care if you have to go out suddenly on some unexpected trip.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Handle those matters that give you more income, but don't spend money recklessly.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) You feel dynamic and want to get out and be with others, but if you act too quickly or get in with the wrong people, this could lead to trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) You want to go back on promises made, but you'd better concentrate on how you would feel under the same circumstances.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Join with friends who act in a rather unusual way but have fine creative ideas.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Don't do something spectacular because you think this will gain the attention of a bigwig.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) You have fine ideas, but have to explain them to others clearly.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Your money situation could lead you to getting into some plan others propose to you that is best avoided now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those very unusual children who must be taught early to study interests and projects well.

The stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, uncertain about Phase IV, opened slightly higher Friday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average after a few minutes of trading was up 0.23 at 906.91. Advances led declines, 177 to 117, 418 issues across the tape.

Analysts said investors have mixed emotions about the phase IV program. Investors seem likely to not make up their minds Thursday and the market moved irregularly.

There is also concern on Wall Street of a credit crunch. Most major banks raised their prime rates again this week to 8 1/2 per cent, with talk of further increases to come. The Federal Reserve is maintaining a tight money policy.

Showers, cool temps for weekend

Twin Falls, northside, Burley-Rupert area: Partly cloudy with showers and scattered thundershowers today and tonight decreasing Saturday. Lows tonight will be mostly in the 50s and highs Saturday will be in the mid 80s to low 90s. The outlook for Sunday is fair and slightly cooler.

Camas Prairie, Halley and lower Wood River Valley: Partly cloudy today and tonight with showers and scattered thundershowers decreasing Saturday. Overnight lows will be 45-50 and highs Saturday 80-85. The outlook for Sunday is fair and slightly cooler.

The low pressure cell aloft which caused heavy cloudiness, showers and thundershowers over southern Idaho Thursday has shifted slightly eastward and is now located over northeast Utah, extreme southeast Idaho and southwest Wyoming. There is still enough moisture remaining over southwest Idaho for more showers this afternoon and tonight. A weak frontal system moving through northwest Washington today is expected to produce thundershowers over northern Idaho tonight. This system will move through southern Idaho and continue the threat of showers and thundershowers Saturday.

Cash redemption for stamps OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a move potentially worth more than $200 million to American consumers, the makers of S&H Green stamps have agreed to start redeeming the stamps for $2 cash per book. The firm was also ordered not to interfere with the operation of such exchanges. But Commissioner Mary Gardiner Jones, in a lengthy and strongly worded dissent, said the commission should have done more.

The State Highway Department, in accordance with the provisions of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (78 Stat. 252) and the regulations of the Department of Commerce (15 C.F.R. Part 8), issued pursuant to such Act, hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that in any contract entered into pursuant to this structural grant, minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, or national origin in construction or award.

LEGAL NOTICE

Plans, specifications, form of contract, proposal forms, and other information may be obtained at the office of the Department of Highways, Boise, Idaho, and from the District Engineer at Shoshone, Idaho. A charge of five dollars ($5.00) will be made for each set of plans. Payment to be made by check payable to the Department of Highways, State of Idaho. The right is reserved to reject all proposals or to accept the proposal or proposals deemed best for the State of Idaho. No proposal will be considered unless accompanied by an acceptable proposal guarantee of 2 percent not less than five percent of the total amount of the proposal. This guaranty must be in the form of a Certified Check or a Cashier's Check drawn on an Idaho Bank, payable to the Department of Highways or a Bidder's Bond. Bidders shall be licensed in the State of Idaho by the State Board of Contractors. The successful bidder on projects involving Federal Funds shall obtain such a license before award will be made. All bids except on projects involving Federal Funds shall be in accordance with the provisions of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (78 Stat. 252) and the regulations of the Department of Commerce (15 C.F.R. Part 8). Issued pursuant to such Act, hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that in any contract entered into pursuant to this structural grant, minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, or national origin in construction or award.

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed proposals will be received by the Idaho Board of Highway Directors of the State of Idaho, only at the office of the Department of Highways, 3311 West State Street, Boise, Idaho, until two o'clock p.m. on the 21st day of August, 1973, for furnishing and installing a 12" structural grade bituminous concrete pavement on the balance of Rock Member Road, Rock Creek Culvert, known as Idaho Federal Aid Project No. 5731(7) in Twin Falls County. The successful bidder on projects involving Federal Funds shall obtain such a license before award will be made. All bids except on projects involving Federal Funds shall be in accordance with the provisions of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (78 Stat. 252) and the regulations of the Department of Commerce (15 C.F.R. Part 8). Issued pursuant to such Act, hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that in any contract entered into pursuant to this structural grant, minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, or national origin in construction or award.

Jet links reinstated

BOISE (UPI) — Hughes Aircraft has teamed up with Cascade Airways to reinstate scheduled round-trip air service between Pullman-Moscow and Boise, via Lewiston, at a lower rate. Passengers will be able to fly Cascade from Pullman to Lewiston and then make a direct Sundance jet connection to Boise for $6 less than it now costs. The jet also serves Twin Falls, Salt Lake City and Las Vegas. It is the first time Hughes Aircraft has established joint fares with a commuter airline.

The payments aren't very big, either.

Just a $495.00 cash down payment and $62.86 a month for 36 months. * (If you're not too good at math, that works out to a deferred payment price of $2737.96 which includes a finance charge of an ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE of 11.08%.)

Along the way, you get a little financial help from the car. It uses about 5 pints of oil instead of 5 quarts.

It doesn't need antifreeze because the engine's air-cooled. And although it does need gas, it doesn't need much of it (usually a gallon every 25 miles or so).

Of course, you might be the kind that likes to pay cash for everything. In that case, the cash price is $2412.90. (Delivered in Twin Falls. (Sales Tax and Licence not included))

Hagerman school plans accepted

HAGERMAN — Trustees of Hagerman School District 231 have accepted plans for a proposed new $380,000 elementary school, school officials said today.

Plans for the building were drawn by architect Darrell Leatham of the Boise firm of Watson, Leatham and Maxey.

According to Hagerman school Supt. Kenneth Black, a public meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Aug. 2 in the basement of the present grade school for discussion of the plans and costs of the proposed new school.

A bond election for the proposed building has been set for Wednesday, Sept. 5. Should the bond issue pass, property owners will be assessed 11.9 mills under the present valuation, Black said.

Black said the proposed new building contains eight classrooms, a kindergarten, a special education room, a multi-purpose room and a hot lunch kitchen.

He said the actual cost of the building is projected at $320,000 with architectural fees, the purchase of about two and a half acres of land, fiscal agent's fees and other incidentals making up the additional $60,000.

The new school, if constructed, will be on the same site as the present old school on Spring Street, Black said. He said the city of Hagerman has agreed to give the school district two street rights-of-way, needed for expansion.

The present school, Black said, was built in 1926. He said it is in "real bad shape. I think most of (the teachers) would agree that it is hazardous."

First National Bank of Idaho is acting as fiscal agent for the project.

TF deputy appointed

TWIN FALLS — Sheriff Paul Corder today announced the appointment of a new deputy in his department.

Larry Webb, Twin Falls, who has been associated with the College of Southern Idaho security police since August of 1972, has joined the sheriff's office.

He will work as an office deputy at this time succeeding Cres DeAlba who has resigned to accept a position with the border patrol at a higher salary.

Webb, a native of Wyoming and a former rodeo performer, has been living in Idaho the past nine years.

Energy solutions in Idaho

SANDPOINT (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Thursday told the annual meeting of the Northern Light Inc. that any break-through in the development of atomic power as a source of energy possibly will be made in Idaho.

Andrus said the National Reactor Testing Station has a successful history and he is confident it will play an even greater role in future development of nuclear energy.

He added it is also possible the NRTS will play an important role in development of geothermal resources so water and steam from wells and springs in the state can provide an important source of electric power.

"While I can't predict where our energy will come from in 1990, I can predict that no matter what the source, public and private utilities will distribute the electrical energy," Andrus said.

The governor also predicted "the progress that is made in future years in solving the nation's energy crisis will come about through the combined efforts of state and federal governmental agencies and public and private utilities."

Food stamp bill extension passed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House passed Thursday a four-year omnibus food and farm bill that would prevent strikers from getting food stamps as a result of a strike and would impose tighter restrictions on farm subsidies.

The measure, if approved by the Senate, faces a possible veto by President Nixon.

The final vote after five days of debate was 226-182.

The bill extends the food stamp program four years. But conservatives won a battle to include a ban on giving food stamps to strikers who had not been eligible for them before they went on strike. They also defeated an effort to prevent out-of-stamps next January to 1.5 million aged, blind and crippled persons who will be getting increases in Social Security benefits then.

Liberals won inclusion of an amendment to compute cost-of-living increases in food stamp allotments twice a year instead of annually. The bill also gives food stamps to alcoholics and drug addicts in rehabilitation centers and to elderly persons buying prepared meals in some cases. It ends the present ban on using food stamps to buy imported food and allows stamps to be used to buy garden seeds.

It was the bill's provisions on farm subsidies that led to talk of a veto.

The measure limits these subsidies to $20,000 per farmer per year for cotton, wheat and feed grain producers—a stricter ceiling than ever before. It closes a "loophole" that has allowed big cotton growers to avoid ceilings by leasing or selling their planting allotments. It also restricts subsidies to times when prices were below target levels.

But it contains an "escalator" provision allowing increases in these target prices after 1974 to cover higher farm production costs. The administration opposed this provision, and House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford, of Michigan, said Thursday that its inclusion would lead to a veto.

The bill now must go to a House-Senate conference committee. A Senate bill contains higher price support levels.
