Courts due papers clash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Nixon became the first President in 166 years to be served a subpoena when he refused to surrender tapes and documents related to the Watergate affair. The constitutional confrontation, resulting almost certainly will end up in the U.S. Supreme Court.

Nixon formally refused to provide the recordings and documents Monday to the Senate Watergate Committee and special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox. He said he was withholding the material to protect the independence of the presidency and because its release would not settle the "central issues" in the Watergate probe.

The committee and the prosecutor immediately served Nixon with subpoenas seeking to gain possession of the material. But White House aides made it clear Nixon would refuse to comply with the subpoenas, opening the way for court tests.

It was the first time a subpoena had been addressed to a President since Thomas Jefferson received one in 1807. Jefferson was asked to furnish documents in connection with the treason trial of Aaron Burr, and he did so. Cox said Nixon's stand was "without legal foundation."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate investigating committee, strongly denounced Nixon's action. Ervin said he deeply regretted Nixon's stand because he believed "the Watergate tragedy is the greatest tragedy that this country has ever suffered."

Nixon's attorneys must answer the subpoenas in U.S. District Court in Washington at 10 a.m. Thursday. It was expected the issue eventually would go to the Supreme Court. The court is in recess until Oct. 1, but the chief justice may convene the court for a special term on extraordinary issues.

Ehrlichman denies any cover-up link

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — Former White House adviser John D. Ehrlichman today denied that he had anything to do with the Watergate cover-up.

He insisted President Nixon had been too busy governing the country to pay much attention to the political scandal.

In his 30-page opening statement to the Senate Watergate committee, Ehrlichman disputed the earlier testimony of fired White House counsel John W. Dean, 3d, labeling much of Dean's narrative as "falsehood."

Ehrlichman, who was the second most powerful man on the White House staff before he resigned April 30, implied Dean had misled him and the President about the extent of high-level involvement in the Watergate break-in and cover-up.

Ehrlichman also launched a counterattack on the committee and the news media, arguing that both had caused the Watergate affair to get badly out of perspective.

"The soundness and the integrity of the President, his staff and many close associates have been impugned and directly put in issue," Ehrlichman said.

"Let's be clear: I did not cover up anything to do with the Watergate," Ehrlichman said near the conclusion of the statement he read.

Ehrlichman insisted Nixon, who was concerned with the Vietnam War, prisoners of war and a host of domestic issues throughout 1972, had depended on Dean to keep him posted on the Watergate matter.

"John Dean said one thing in his testimony falseer than all the other falsehoods there in when he said the Watergate was probably the major thing that was occurring at this point in time (between June 17 and Sept. 15, 1972)," Ehrlichman said.

"I do not suggest that we were all just too busy to have noticed," Ehrlichman said. "We did notice and we kept informed through John Dean on the assumption that he was giving us complete and accurate information.

"I am here to refute every charge of illegal conduct on my part which has been made during the course of these hearings, including material leaked to the news media," Ehrlichman said.

So Yanks were dying in Cambodia after all

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon disclosed Tuesday that 81 U.S. servicemen had died in Laos and Cambodia on secret intelligence missions since 1965 and it said their deaths were falsely reported to their families and to Congress as having occurred in South Vietnam.

Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said the false reports were discovered Monday in a review of Vietnam war statistics provided to Congress in the wake of last week's disclosure that the Senate had been misled on a 14-month secret bombing campaign in Cambodia.

The report had listed 3,639 B52 bombing raids actually conducted in Cambodia in 1969 and 1970 as having been carried out in South Vietnam.

Friedheim said Congress had been informed Tuesday about the false account of the deaths.

Since the fall of 1965, Friedheim said, 55 U.S. servicemen have died conducting "covert military reconnaissance activities" in Laos. He said since 1967, an additional 26 spies have been killed on secret missions in Cambodia.

Their families were told "the deaths occurred on classified missions along the border of South Vietnam," Friedheim said, and the report to Congress listed all 81 deaths among U.S. battle casualties in South Vietnam.

Friedheim said the agents were operating on missions so highly classified that even their places of death had to be kept secret.

Deprived TF kids may get tot school

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls School Supt. George Staudaher said today he would recommend a "heavy summer program" including kindergarten classes for the district's educationally disadvantaged students.

The program, if approved, would begin next summer.

The program would be financed with Title I federal funds, money available for local school districts across the country for compensatory education programs. The Twin Falls district has had Title I program funds for the past several years.

But uncertainty about their continued availability had led school district officials not to budget any money from Title I for the fiscal year which began July 1.

State and local officials now agree, however, that there is money available.

The program he will recommend, Staudaher said, will include a summer remedial program in reading, mathematics and physical education, and a migrant education program as well as the kindergarten proposal.

In addition, Staudaher said, he would seek to place classroom aides in the lower elementary grade classrooms. "I'd like to have more people in the classroom to help the individual child," he said.

Idaho State Department of Education officials confirmed last week that Title I funds would be available in roughly the same amounts as a year ago for at least the first quarter of the fiscal year.

Staudaher said in an interview he had received that notification from state officials, as well as applications for a Title I program. But noting the uncertainty about the funds beyond Sept. 30, the superintendent said, "I will not gamble with public money and I will not box myself into a corner." He said he would write a program that would be able to respond to possible changes in the funding.

Congress has approved a continuing resolution funding Title I and other federal education program at last year's level until Sept. 30. It is at work on a new appropriations bill for the balance of the year that would provide increases in the programs, according to Roy Truby, administrative assistant to State Superintendent of Public Instruction D. F. Engelking. Should the new appropriations bill fail to win approval, Truby said last week, a new continuing resolution may be passed.

Staudaher and school district treasurer J. T. Anderson, while agreeing that Title I money is now available to the district, also said the federal guidelines governing its use had been altered.

"The program we had was in the form of general aid," Staudaher said, "and they (federal officials) wanted it for the disadvantaged and target schools." He said federal authorities had picked out the Bickel and Lincoln elementary schools and "possibly O'Leary Junior High School as the target schools."

TF board denies home plan near Castleford

TWIN FALLS — For the second time in eight days the Twin Falls County Commission overrode its own zoning commission, denying a request for a zoning change Monday.

By a unanimous vote, the commissioners turned down a request by Western Realty Corp. for a variance on 40 acres of land northeast of Castleford. The owners of the land had requested the variance with an eye toward developing a subdivision.

The county zoning commission had unanimously approved the request. The chairman of the commission, L. James Koutnik, also heads Western Realty Corp.

Koutnik told commissioners he was requesting the variance because the land, although zoned agricultural, was not productive when put to agricultural uses. He told two families present to protest his requested change that approval for the variance would not necessarily mean the subdivision would be built. "It's only to provide the first step," he said.

But Max Rector, and Raymond Conners, both of whom own land near Castleford, argued the land should remain agricultural. "I think it's time housing is kept in its place instead of going to agricultural areas," Rector told the commissioners.

He and Conners also said residential developments would bring complaints about odors from their cattle and dairy operations in the area.

The commissioners turned down the request, noting a report they had sought from the Department of Agriculture had raised questions about the ability of the land to handle the subdivision housing foundations.

Last week the commissioners turned down a request from a Twin Falls man to rezone 40 acres on Kimberly Road outside of Twin Falls. The county zoning commission had narrowly approved the request, but the commissioners said the land had been a prime agricultural area and should remain that way, at least for the foreseeable future.

Sales reports 'inaccurate'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alex C. Caldwell, administrator of the Commodity Exchange Authority (CEA), charged today Continental Grain Co. deliberately filed inaccurate reports last summer on the size of its big wheat sales to the Soviet Union.

Caldwell, testifying before the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee which is investigating the grain deal, said Continental submitted inaccurate reports to his agency to keep secret from competitors the scope of the deal.

He said the Justice Department, after reviewing the CEA findings, had decided not to seek criminal prosecution against the firm.

Continental, which handled more than half of the billion-dollar grain transaction with the Russians, maintained that its report contained only clerical errors.

Caldwell testified "We have information that Continental did not want to put these Russian sales on the books for fear that the information would be leaked to other grain firms. We have evidence that Continental wilfully filed inaccurate reports."

The CEA has filed an administrative complaint against Continental and, if proven through a hearing process, the firm could be suspended from trading.

Hijack saga ends

CAIRO (UPI) — A Japanese Air Lines 747 hijacked five days ago in Europe landed today in Benghazi, Libya where the air pirates released their 154 hostages unharmed and then destroyed the $25 million plane with hand grenades which exploded "like a string of firecrackers."

The Middle East News Agency said the four hijackers were arrested by Libyan police. It said two of them were Arabs, one was Japanese and the fourth "looked like a European." A fifth hijacker, a woman with an Ecuadorian passport, was killed when her hand-grenade exploded at start of the saga last Friday.

Japan Air Lines said there were 133 passengers and 21 crew members aboard the plane and that it had dispatched a relief plane to fly them to some European city, Rome or Paris.

The motives of the hijackers in the five-day drama remained a mystery. Early in the hijacking they said they sought the release of Kojo Okamoto, 24, a Japanese kamikaze guerrilla serving a life sentence in Israel for an attack on Tel Aviv's Lod Airport which killed 26 persons in May 1972. Israel said it would not release Okamoto and the hijackers never mentioned Okamoto again. Nor did they make any attempt to bargain the plane and passengers for money, officials said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon welcomed the Shah of Iran and Empress Farah to the White House today on their state visit.

Cambodians launch attacks

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Government forces with heavy U.S. air support today took the initiative on three battlefronts around the capital, but the Communists slashed at government frontlines only 6.5 miles south of Phnom Penh at the village of Baku, field reports said.

The Australian and British embassies advised their nationals in a "letter of notification" to leave Phnom Penh because of the "uncertain" security situation, and American Embassy sources said U.S. national were being verbally advised to do the same.

Nixon tapes 'not edited'

South Vietnam suspends exchange of prisoners

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese government authorities suspended the exchange of prisoners today, claiming Communist troops disguised as civilians harassed prisoners who wanted to remain on the government side. Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, spokesman for the Saigon command, told a news conference that the disguised Viet Cong soldiers shoved and shouted at prisoners refusing to return to Communist control. He said 225 Communist prisoners had been released by late afternoon, of whom 24 requested to stay on the RVN (Republic of Vietnam) side. This compared with 600 released Monday, of whom 43 chose to remain on the government side. The current releases began Monday after a three-month delay caused by quarrels over procedures and numbers. Both sides must complete the prisoner exchanges by July 28, the deadline set by the June 13 Paris communique renewing the cease-fire agreement. Hien said "about 300 to 400 Communist soldiers disguised as civilians were brought to Loc Ninh Airfield" today. Loc Ninh, a Communist-controlled district capital 75 miles north of Saigon, is the major site for releasing Communist prisoners. "These people were shouting and pushing at civilian (prisoner) personnel with the purpose of keeping them from expressing their wishes," Hien said. "We consider this act as a violation of the prisoner exchange procedures agreed upon. That is why we stopped releasing prisoners." There was no immediate comment from the Communists. The Viet Cong announced earlier that its first release of government prisoners in the current exchange went smoothly today, with 26 captives being turned loose at Communist-held Thien Ngon, 72 miles northwest of Saigon. The Viet Cong said about a dozen of the 600 Communist prisoners released Monday wanted no part of either the Viet Cong or the government side. But the government refused to take them back and they remained with the Communists.

Minidoka interviews architect

RUPERT — The Minidoka County Commissioners met for over an hour Monday for a prospective architect for the proposed new county courthouse.

The commissioners had planned on hiring the Boise architectural firm of Turber and Marler, which was in charge of the nearly completed city-county law enforcement building, but expressed dissatisfaction with its work.

R. M. Kelley, of the firm of Dropping, Kelley, Hosford and LaMarche, Boise, told commissioners his firm would charge eight per cent of the total cost of the approximately 8,350 square foot structure. Kelley estimated the cost at under $250,000.

The commissioners are considering the new firm for the building but will make no decision until Turber and Marler receive a letter of termination mailed last week by the Minidoka County prosecuting attorney.

Kelley suggested the commissioners wait until January or February, 1974, to ask for bids for the project so work could begin early in the spring. The building could be finished by the end of the year, Kelley said.

The building will be built with revenue sharing funds on the north side of the present courthouse. Present plans call for the building to be set back at least 10 feet from the inside of a planned sidewalk and to extend beyond the present courthouse on the east.

The present courthouse rooms will be used as offices. Leon Church, county weed control agent, gave the commissioners a short report on a clinic held in McCall last week where "the green cancer that destroys productivity" was discussed.

The commissioners met in the afternoon with several elected county officials to air gripes and work out problems. This is the first time the commissioners had held such a meeting.

Changing scene

IT WON'T be long, city officials say, until the above scene, the upper part of Shoshone Street, will change. Paving is expected to begin next week on the four-block area of the street now under reconstruction as part of the current local improvement district for Twin Falls streets.

Paving set on Shoshone

TWIN FALLS — The four block area of Shoshone Street from Sixth to Tenth Avenue is expected to be ready for paving by next week.

City Engineer George Michael said today the contractor, Neilsen and Co., Twin Falls, has been working on the section since June 23, and while all of last year's Shoshone Street paving has not yet been accepted by the city, the entire street should be open for traffic within a few weeks.

This is part of the city's 1973 local improvement district for streets with the most traveled and poorest condition streets getting first priority.

Work has also started on Filer Avenue from Harrison Street to Washington Street where widening and resurfacing are also scheduled. When Shoshone Street is finished, crews will move to the lower part of Locust with widening and repaving

NRTS monitor proposed

BOISE (UPI) — The State Health Department has put together a proposal calling for an independent measuring system to monitor radiation discharges from the Atomic Energy Commission's operation in Southeastern Idaho, it was learned Monday.

In the proposal, the Department of Environmental and Community Services (DECS) said the purpose of the system of independent measurements would be to provide a source of radiation surveillance information which could be used as a basis for evaluation of environmental trends and the influence or radioactive waste discharges from the National Reactor Testing Station.

The draft proposal, which was just recently submitted to the Federal Environmental Protection Agency and will go to the Atomic Energy Commission, said it would cost approximately $52,500 initially for DECS' radiation control section to conduct the monitoring system.

Dr. James A. Bax, DECS' administrator, said he favored the AEC footing the bill for the state to monitor radioactivity at the NRTS site 30 miles west of Idaho Falls.

"Offsite samples would be collected close to the NRTS and the levels of radioactivity compared to the levels in similar background samples," the proposal said. "The background samples would be collected at locations sufficiently remote from the site to insure that any radioactivity in these samples is due to background and not the NRTS' operations."

The report said if radioactivity levels are found to be significantly higher than background the difference would be assumed to represent environmental radioactivity from NRTS' operation.

Michael Christie, chief of the Radiation Control Section, said the department hoped to work closely with NRTS and AEC officials in implementing the independent monitoring system.

The proposal said available information shows that atmospheric radioactivity release totaled eight million curies in Eastern Idaho as a result of NRTS operations from 1965-1968.

Christie said a curie is a unit of radioactivity. He said the eight million curies released into the atmosphere is not considered dangerous.

The proposal also said there were 12 million curies buried on the site, 30 million curies stored in specially designed underground storage bins between 1936-1968, and 50 thousand curies in seepage ponds and direct injection disposal wells into the Snake plain aquifer.

The proposal said the measured radioactive samples collected by DECS would be compared with recognized radiation protection standards based on guides recommended by the president's Federal Radiation Council and other scientific groups such as the International Commission on Radiological Protection and the National Council on Radiation Protection and Measurements.

The measurements would be taken from the air, surface water, ground water and food products.

Andrus supports AEC's denial

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has come out in support of the Atomic Energy Commission's denial that it has contaminated ground water at Hanford Reservation in Washington and at the National Reactor Testing Station near Idaho Falls.

The governor's comments came in response to renewed charges by the Los Angeles Times that practices of the AEC have contaminated groundwater around the areas.

"The AEC officials have reassured that not only the best safety techniques have been employed for handling nuclear wastes at the Arco site, but that the development of ever better ways to handle waste is constantly being applied to the NRTS site as soon as they are perfected," the governor said.

Andrus said he never received a complaint from anyone in communities surrounding the Arco site about possible pollution.

TWIN FALLS — Harbor House is looking for house parents and will not be accepting any additional youngsters until suitable house parents can be found.

Mrs. Murray Bates, chairman of the board, said Harbor House has had difficulty in obtaining suitable house parents and will "close the house" until the situation is corrected.

She said arrangements have been made to take care of the youngsters now in the house but no additional placements will be received until house parents have been obtained and settled in the new home.

Mrs. Bates said persons interested in the positions may contact the Department of Employment in Twin Falls or Harbor House Secretary, Mrs. John Straubhar.

Nixon appears probable winner in papers showdown

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — Although his power has been shaken by the Watergate scandal, President Nixon still appears to have ample muscle to win any showdown with Senate investigators over access to tapes of his face-to-face and telephone conversations.

Whether he could win the battle for public opinion that would go along with such a fight, however, is far less certain.

If Nixon refuses to produce the recordings — he already has reached this decision — there is not much that the special Senate Watergate committee can do to force him to change his mind.

The committee could subpoena the tapes but it is difficult to see how such an order could be enforced.

The usual penalty for ignoring a subpoena is a jail sentence but it is unlikely, as a practical matter, that a President could be jailed unless he was first impeached and removed from office.

The committee, headed by Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., realized the limits on its power to compel Nixon to act. It hopes to obtain the tapes and other White House documents by friendly persuasion backed by what it hopes will be the support of public opinion.

As Nixon drafted his formal reply this past weekend in the Sylvan seclusion of Camp David, Md., he must have wondered if his seemingly certain victory would be worth what it could cost in terms of further erosion of public confidence.

The committee learned last week that since 1971, Nixon has routinely taped all meetings in the White House Oval Office, cabinet room and in his hideaway office in the Executive Office Building. In addition, Nixon has recorded all conversations on four of his telephones, including one at Camp David.

Almost as soon as former White House aide Alexander P. Butterfield revealed the existence of the recordings, the committee began its efforts to obtain them.

The possible face-down between two supposedly equal branches of government over custody of the tapes appears to be far more significant than the contents of the recordings themselves.

Although Butterfield said he believed the recorded conversations would exonerate Nixon from any involvement in the planning of the Watergate break-in or the high-level effort to cover up the crime, it seems more likely that the tapes will prove inconclusive.

If Nixon knew of crimes that were committed in the name of his reelection campaign, it would have been unlikely that he would discuss that knowledge near microphones that he knew were picking up his conversations.

Analysis

Tapes can be altered. Experts differ on whether skillful doctored could be detected but there is enough doubt on the point to reduce confidence in the authenticity of the recordings. Then why would Nixon withhold the tapes? The President sees the issue in terms of the rights and privileges of his office. To give in on this point would weaken the Presidency for years to come and tip the sliding system of checks and balances back in the direction of Capitol Hill, he believes.

In a letter to the committee on July 7, Nixon rejected the request for Presidential documents and outlined his views on the separation of powers.

The president said his decision was "based on my constitutional obligation to preserve intact the powers and prerogatives of the Presidency."

He added that to surrender the papers would "jeopardize the fundamental constitutional role of the Presidency."

That, of course, was before anyone but a handful of top White House aides knew that Nixon was recording his conversations. The President's letter included a paragraph that now sounds ironic.

"Formulation of sound public policy requires that the President and his personal staff be able to communicate among themselves in complete candor, and that their tentative judgments, their exploration of alternatives, and their frank comments on issues and personalities at home and abroad remain confidential," he said.

Nixon has not commented on the chilling effect hidden microphones might have on frank and candid discussion.

There is another irony as well. This was the year when Nixon, armed with a 49-state sweep of November's election, had planned to enhance the power of the Presidency to act with or without Congressional approval.

But now he is struggling to preserve his prerogatives while Congress may be making a comeback.

Ervin, whose interest in protecting the power of Congress is as great as Nixon's concern with the authority of the Presidency, has made it plain that he will move carefully.

Recognizing that his committee has little hope for winning a direct confrontation, Ervin is pinning his hopes on the power of public opinion.

In an exchange with former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, Ervin emphasized the case he plans to make to the public jury.

"Isn't it a rule of evidence that when a person refuses to produce evidence within his power to produce that an inference may be drawn that the reason he does not produce it is because he knows it to be unfavorable to him?" Ervin asked.

"This I believe is a rule of evidence in the courts of law," Mitchell responded. "When you are dealing with the separation of powers involving the President, I think it has to be looked at in a different light."

Ervin remarked, "Well, isn't that rule that applies just as much to the search for truth as it does in the courts of law? It is a rule of logic, it seems to me."

Rebozo checked

MIAMI (UPI) — The chief of the Miami office of the Internal Revenue Service confirmed Monday that presidential confidant Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo was undergoing an IRS audit.

Edward A. Beinke said the audit of Rebozo's financial affairs was "not unusual."

Beinke said the auditors came from out of state but would not say when. He said the three-day audit was completed July 16 and covered the last seven years.

Reform measure drawn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Monday proposed mandatory public financing of political campaigns for the presidency and for Congress.

Scott announced that the bipartisan proposal would be offered as an amendment to a campaign reform bill which the Senate expects to begin debating Tuesday or Wednesday.

The bill, spurred by the Watergate scandal, would set limits on contributions by individuals and ceilings on campaign spending in presidential and congressional races. It also would create a Federal Elections Commission to supervise the reforms with powers to go to court against violators.

Public financing of presidential campaigns has already been written into law through the $1 checkoff provision on federal income tax forms. But the law gives a presidential candidate the option of using public financing or raising his own funds.

The Kennedy-Scott amendment would eliminate the option of private financing and provide public financing for Senate and House candidates through direct appropriations.

"I think it is worth it to every taxpayer to do something to get a little better election reform in this country," Scott said.

Demo charter sidetracked

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — Democratic Charter Commission delegates who ended a three-day meeting Monday were called on to recommend the size, composition and the manner of electing delegates to a national party conference in 1974.

However, the 168 delegates were sidetracked from their main job of writing a party charter.

The bitterest dispute was a 52-50 vote to limit the 1974 conference to charter issues only. Liberal delegates wanted the agenda expanded to cover social issues.

Sanford said, however, that delegates to the 1974 conference would have no time to consider issues other than the proposed text of the charter. He said the final agenda was up to the Democratic National Committee.

Little harm in Idaho seen from bug scandal

BOISE (UPI) — The state's two leading Republicans said Monday the Watergate scandal will not hurt the Republican Party during the upcoming 1974 state elections.

"I do not foresee that this (Watergate) will have any general effect on the Republican Party in Idaho," Lieut. Gov. Jack Murphy said. "The voters of Idaho tend to vote on the issues and the merits of individual candidates, rather than on inconclusive matters that have no bearing on the Idaho political scene."

Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa says he does not believe Watergate will be a major campaign issue.

"I do not believe Republican candidates will be injured in the 1974 election by virtue of Watergate," Cenarrusa said. "Idaho voters have always placed philosophical considerations above all else and I seriously doubt that Watergate will alter voting patterns."

But both Murphy and Cenarrusa had some comments for those who were involved in the break-in and other illegal activities.

"I do believe, however, the rank and file people in Idaho believe that the acts were illegal, immoral and outright stupid," Murphy said.

Cenarrusa said the daily flood of testimony, conflicting statements and new discoveries makes it extremely difficult to assess all prospective consequences which might result nationally from Watergate.

"Only time can determine whether or not Republicans will be blamed collectively for the unethical and unlawful acts of political insiders who perpetrated Watergate and related incidents," Cenarrusa said.

He said President Eisenhower had his Sherman Adams, and President Johnson had his Bobby Baker and Billie Sol Estes.

"History shows that neither administration sustained lasting injury," he said. Murphy said he was not knowledgeable enough on the national scene to know whether the Republican Party has sustained damage by reason of the activities of a "few political appointees."

Symms' aide considers making '74 Senate bid

MCCALL, (UPI) — An assistant to U.S. Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, told the Idaho Broadcasters Association he may run for the U.S. Senate next year.

"Steve is pushing me to do it," assistant Robert Smith told the annual convention.

"He wants me to get a bite going out of the other side of government. I haven't really decided if it looks like something is really possible, I might do it," Smith said, adding, "I don't really want to do it."

Smith, filling in on the program for Symms, said he and the freshman Congressman had found matters in Washington actually are far worse than they realized during last year's election campaign.

The United States is engaged in rapidly escalating the development of a collectivist state," Smith said. "They're tightening the noose every day. Everybody's got a plan to improve your business."

Unless the business men of this nation stand together to stop government encroachment, Smith said, the horrors of George Orwell's 1984 could become a reality in this country."

"We're being regulated to death," he said. "We're being taxed to death. It's the all of the private business in this country gets in the same swamp with the same alligators."

He said one of the key problems confronting business men is that they are willing to let somebody down the road become the target of government as long as they momentarily are let alone.

Smith called the controversial occupational safety and health act "one of the greatest monsters we have created since the income tax." He said Symms hopes to get rid of the law while in Congress.

Engelking favors plan reorganizing Gem board

BOISE (UPI) — Although members of the State Board of Education have shown some displeasure in a legislative committee's recommendations for reorganizing the board, the state superintendent of public instruction said Monday he favored the plan.

Supt. D. F. Engelking, a voting member of the board, said he favored the plan which would put him in as permanent chairman of the State Board of Education.

Earlier, state board chairman Dr. John Swartley, Boise, said the recommendations by the State Executive Reorganization Committee were different from what the State Board of Education favored.

The proposal would strip the board of much of its power, creating more of a policy-making body.

The board has suggested that it be put in charge of the State Department of Education. Engelking said he thought the State Board of Education was a responsive body, but he added if the superintendent of public instruction were put in charge of the board it would be a way of coordinating regionalism.

The superintendent is elected statewide and the members of the state board are appointed by the governor.

Under the proposal the state board — which currently has control over the state's four institutions of higher learning, the Department of Education, the State School for the Deaf and Blind and the State Board of Education, and others — would be part of an expanded department of education.

Under the plan, the superintendent would be the permanent chairman of the board and administrative director of the board.

Engelking said he did not think that making the superintendent's position non-partisan would take it out of the realm of politics, even though he is in favor of that move. He said education will always be in politics.

Dairy imports upset

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dairy industry spokesmen said today a federal judge has given them an opening which could upset future administration efforts to increase milk imports.

The ruling came when Judge William B. Jones agreed in Federal District Court Monday to set an Aug. 1 hearing on the merits of a suit filed against the government by the National Milk Producers Federation and other dairy groups.

The suit, filed after President Nixon last week authorized an 80 million pound increase in imports of nonfat dry milk, claims the action is a violation of an old import control law.

Jones refused to grant the federation's plea for a temporary injunction to block the imports, which have mostly already arrived anyway. But federation spokesmen said they were pleased to get a chance to argue the merits of the case anyway.

"If we win, we can prevent them from citing it (the old import law) as their basis for action the next time they want to dump stocks on the market," a spokesman said.

The administration import action last week was the third such move this year to bring in additional nonfat dry milk supplies in an effort to hold down prices for consumers. Domestic milk production has declined this year and supplies of nonfat have been tight.

Dairymen, protesting the import action on legal grounds and because they say it will persuade U.S. farmers to cut output even more, filed suit after the second import order in May. That case was thrown out without a hearing on grounds it came after all the 60 million pounds of milk powder involved had already arrived in this country.

Chrysler's profits way up

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp.'s position as a likely strike target in auto contract talks this summer is even stronger with the release of a financial report showing a $198.4 million profit in the first six months of 1973.

"It's a dramatic turnaround," said Douglas A. Fraser, the UAW vice president heading the union's bargaining team at Chrysler. "They can't plead poverty this year."

Fraser pointed out Chrysler's shaky financial position in 1970 — when contracts were last negotiated — let the No. 3 automaker off the hook then. In the first half of 1970, Chrysler lost $19.2 million. Profits so far this year are more than double the earnings in all of 1971 and almost equals all of 1972.

Phase IV prices soar

United Press International — Shoppers paying 73 cents for a dozen eggs at the start of President Nixon's new economic plan paid as much as $1.19 a dozen in New York City stores today.

Eggs, chicken and pork prices soared in many parts of the country Monday, the fourth day of President Nixon's Phase IV economic program. There was some evidence shoppers were stocking up in anticipation of even greater price increases to come.

"Sure, I pay the prices. It's ridiculous. I don't like it but what are you going to do?" asked Mrs. Robert Greenberg as she wheeled a nearly empty shopping cart through an A & P store in New York City.

"When it gets to where I can't pay. I won't eat," she shrugged.

Food prices have increased slowly since last Wednesday when the President announced the new plan which allows the food industry to pass along increased production costs to the public. Monday, at the beginning of the first full week of Phase IV, prices took their biggest jump.

Eggs were up 12 cents a dozen in Salt Lake City and Kansas City, 10 cents in Washington, New York, Houston, Oklahoma City and Austin, Tex., nine cents in Boston, eight in Seattle and Los Angeles, six in Atlanta and Dallas and five in Pittsburgh.

Elmer Koener, manager of a Buffalo, N.Y., supermarket, said egg prices were up in his store, but other than that there were few changes. "A customer told me today that she now considers bacon a luxury, so she'll just have to eat her pancakes without it," he said.

"The same guy who complains about a penny in the grocery store will be wearing a $15 shirt," Koener added.

Poultry prices also rose quickly.

The price for whole frying chickens jumped from 59 cents a pound to 70 cents in New York City; from 59 cents to 79 cents in Columbus, Ohio. In Pittsburgh, chicken prices were up 10 cents a pound, Boston six cents, Atlanta four cents, and Chicago two cents. In Dallas, however, uncut chicken prices dropped — from 55 cents last week to 45 cents Monday.

Al Fabbri, a manager of a meat and poultry market in New York City, said wholesale prices on poultry have risen 4 cents a pound. "I'm trying to keep the lid on," he said. "I haven't risen the prices yet. But I'm going to have to pass the increase along.

"To tell you the truth," he said, "I just don't like it. I think of getting out of business if the prices keep going up. There's no profit left. I don't feel people are going to keep paying this much."

The manager of a Tom Thumb market in Dallas said shoppers were stocking up on groceries.

"They wiped out the meat counter yesterday," he said. "We will be back in business today but they sure wiped us out yesterday. I wouldn't say it was a panic but there was a certain fear of shortage. In some cases they spent hundreds of dollars."

Ask 'Uncle'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cong. David Obey, (D-Wis.) told the annual meeting of the National School Boards Association (NSBA) that if schools are to get federal money they need for education, they must convince people that "we can't afford $5 billion more for defense this year than last."

A member of the House Committee on Appropriations, Obey told school board members from the nation's largest cities that they should impress on their congressmen that the 1974 House appropriations bill is $700 million less than Congress passed last year.

Soyburgers claimed better than beef

NEW YORK (UPI) — Soyburgers are not only cheaper than hamburgers, but many people think they taste better. Money magazine reported today in its August issue.

In a test conducted by Money, 30 people were given three pieces of naked "hamburger patty" without salt, pickles, or rolls — and were asked to pick out the one that tasted "different." No mention was made of soyburger. Without knowing it, some panelists tasted two all-beef patties and one soyburger; others tasted the reverse combination.

The beef and soy patties were cooked in separate electric fry pans, the magazine said, until uniformly well done. They were unseasoned except for the salt, pepper, dehydrated onion and dextrose that had been already blended into the soyburger by the food processor to give the soy flour flavor.

Almost all panelists — 27 out of 30 — recognized a difference between the two kinds of patties. All beef patties were preferred by 19 soyburgers by eight.

Money said a number of tasters detected a mealy or cereal taste in the soyburgers, "like rabbit food," one said, though one panelist thought the beefburger had no taste at all. Money noted that soyburgers — composed of 25 per cent soy flour and 75 per cent ground beef — sell for 15 cents to 20 cents less per pound than ground beef, yet compare favorably in nutritional value.

Watergate panel hears top aides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The way Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., interpreted the testimony, there was so much distrust in President Nixon's 1972 campaign that some things were kept secret even from the Committee to Re-elect the President (CRP).

Baker came to this conclusion after hearing testimony Monday that H.R. Haldeman of the White House was so suspicious of CRP's polling that he spent $100,000 to $110,000 in campaign funds to hire his own. He allegedly kept the results secret even from his close friend and associate, John D. Ehrlichman.

"Mr. Haldeman's role was very substantial," the witness, Gordon Strachan, remarked to Baker.

The ninth week of the Senate Watergate hearings is focusing on the activities of Nixon's two former top aides — Haldeman, his chief of staff, and Ehrlichman, his domestic affairs adviser. Strachan, who finished two days of testimony Monday, was Haldeman's political liaison.

Ehrlichman was scheduled to testify today, and Haldeman probably Thursday.

Until now, the focus has been mainly on CRP — with testimony from former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, who was campaign director until two weeks after the June 17, 1972, break-in at the Democratic offices in the Watergate; Jeb Stuart Magruder, the deputy campaign director; Maurice H. Stans, the campaign finance director, and others.

Strachan testified Monday that:

Magruder informed him after a March 30, 1972, meeting with Mitchell at Key Biscayne, Fla., that a sophisticated intelligence gathering system had been approved. Strachan said he informed Haldeman of this in "political matters" memo No. 18. Haldeman and Mitchell conferred by telephone on April 4, and Haldeman signaled Strachan to silently eavesdrop on the conversation, something Strachan did 40 to 50 times over the three years he worked for Haldeman.

After the Watergate arrests, Haldeman told him to make sure the files were "clean," which Strachan interpreted to mean to destroy all intelligence-gathering memos, including No. 18.

He informed Haldeman during a flight on Air Force One that he had disposed of the papers, which he felt was not illegal, but merely an act to destroy politically embarrassing material.

Strachan, who sat erect with hands in his lap and answered questions politely and in a tenor voice, was critical of Magruder but complimentary of ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III.

Strachan testified that Magruder often did not give him accurate accounts in reporting on what was going on at CRP.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, asked if Magruder "was less than honest," and Strachan replied, "Yes, that is my firm opinion."

Of Dean, who charged that he believed Nixon knew about the Watergate cover-up as early as last September, Strachan said: "I don't think he ever lied to me."

"Would it be your opinion that if John Dean said he had told the President about Watergate and the cover-up would you say that Dean was telling the truth?" Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., asked.

"My opinion would be that John Dean would be telling the truth," Strachan said.

Congress seeks revision of laws governing CIA

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
WASHINGTON — The House watchdog committee on the Central Intelligence Agency has decided to join its Senate counterparts in seeking a revision of the law governing the CIA.

Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of the Armed Services Subcommittee on Intelligence, said he hopes to tighten the loopholes under which the CIA has carried out its controversial operations at home and abroad.

Nedzi's committee completed a three-month investigation of CIA-related aspects of the Watergate scandal last week. But he is giving consideration to reopening the inquiry to hear a final, 25th witness, Robert C. Mardian.

The former assistant attorney general and Nixon re-election campaign aide, told the Senate Watergate Committee last week his reasons for believing the CIA was involved in the break-in.

Nedzi's committee has sole jurisdiction over the CIA in the House. In the Senate, the jurisdiction is split between the Armed Services Committee and the Appropriations Committee.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of armed services, declared last week that the CIA's role in Laos and Watergate has prompted him "to definitely conclude that the entire CIA act should be fully reviewed."

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of appropriations, has demanded and obtained the right to see the secret National Security Council directives broadening the CIA's authority beyond the letter of the National Security Act created in 1947.

Dole says Nixon should release Watergate tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert J. Dole, who was Republican national chairman during the 1972 campaign, believes President Nixon hurt his public image when he refused to release the White House Watergate recordings.

"My view is that at some time the tapes should be released," Dole said Monday. "My own view is that the revelation that these tapes are available hasn't helped the President's cause with the American people."

The Kansas senator said Nixon was probably "perfectly within his legal rights" in refusing access to the tapes and documents, but Dole said "we're reaching the point where in order to restore confidence there must be some dramatic move on his part."

Dole said he had made his views known to White House aides but that he had not talked to Nixon himself in weeks. Dole said that Nixon should not have looked at the issue of tapes from "some fine constitutional points, but just how does the American public view it."

DEAR ABBY: My problem is driving me up a wall. I met a most charming lady about six months ago. We are both middle aged. I'm divorced and so is she. Three times. It was love at first sight for both of us and we were headed straight for matrimony when I discovered we had a few differences. I'll name some.

She wants to live way up North. I prefer the South. She's a real swinger and likes to be on the go all the time. If she had her way she'd eat breakfast, lunch, and dinner out, and make the rounds of the bars every night. I don't care to go that much.

She loves people and never met a stranger. It takes me a while to warm up to people. Her overly friendly ways, plus her D cup, which she flaunts a lot, has led her into a lot of trouble. She does have the gift of forgiving and forgetting, which I do not have.

Snowball's chance

When I pointed out our differences, she offered to fix me up with some of her girl friends, which I didn't go for. She says she loves me and wants to marry me, but I would have to change my ways. I don't think I could.

There is such a strong physical attraction between us, I can't give her up. What do you think the chances of a successful marriage are between us?

TORN UP IN PALM SPRINGS

DEAR TORN: Like a snowball in Palm Springs in August.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old girl with the same problems most girls my age have. Parents who think I'm still a baby, liking boys who don't even notice me, and not doing as well in school as I should be doing, but now I have a really big one.

I was looking for a blouse I had worn only once and threw in the dirty clothes hamper when I came across a whisky bottle in the bottom of the clothes hamper.

Now I know why my mother has been taking a nap lately when I'd come home from school. And why she seemed so peppy sometimes and so low and unhappy at other times.

Both Mom and Dad have a drink before dinner. Maybe two, but neither one of them ever had a drinking problem that I knew about. Should I tell Dad? Or should I tell Mom I found the bottle? Or should I just keep my mouth shut?

WORRIED DAUGHTER

DEAR WORRIED: Tell your Mom you found the bottle and are worried about her. Tell her, too, that even though parents don't usually take advice from their children, you wish she would call Alcoholics Anonymous. Anyone who "hides" whisky has a drinking problem. [P.S. There is a group called ALATEEN for teen-agers of parents with that problem. A.A. is listed in your phone book. Call and inquire.]

DEAR ABBY: I married a young well-to-do widower. [No children.] I saved myself for marriage, which wasn't easy for a good-looking, popular, 29-year-old woman.

Everybody thought I was the luckiest girl in the world to start out married life with a completely furnished home. I am not complaining because I think I'm lucky, too, but after three or four months I felt uncomfortable sleeping in the same bed John and his first wife had slept in for six years.

I asked John if we could get a new bed. He said no, it would be a needless expense. [He can well afford it, and he isn't tight.] Then I got to thinking about the memories and associations John had in that bed with his first wife, and it bothered me, so I asked him again. Again he said no.

Last week, without John's knowledge, I made a deal with a furniture store to pick up our bedroom set, and trade it in on a new one. I used my own money to pay the difference.

When John found out what I had done he was furious. He didn't speak to me for three days and even threatened to send me back to my mother. He's still sulking a little.

Can YOU understand my feelings, Abby? How can I make John understand them? Or am I out of line?

SECOND WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes, I can understand your feelings, and you are not out of line. You can make John understand by telling him exactly how you feel — and why.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 89700, L.A., Calif. 90009. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sometimes it pays to be a pessimist. South was looking at 10 tricks in his own hand. That is, there would be 10 tricks if his trump suit would run. An optimist assumes that seven to ace-king-queen-10 is going to run. Only a real pessimist worries about something going wrong.

Anyway, South did check for aces and kings. When North showed two aces and a king South could easily have King-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1-0. He decided that a vulnerable slam with a hundred honors plus game and

Small fee assists with 'board-room'

By BONNIE JONES Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — If you have noticed the high cost of dog food in recent months for the family pup, consider having to feed a total of 650 animals during a month.

This is the problem facing the Twin Falls County Humane Society. Society officials say last month's total population entering the animal shelter was 575 and it was a slow month.

July's records are expected to reach 650 animals brought to the center from throughout Magic Valley. About 100 additional animals each month are being handled by the shelter.

To help fill the "board and room" needs of the neglected, homeless or unwanted animals brought to the shelter, the society has adopted a schedule of fees to be charged at the time of acceptance of the animal or animals.

Members of the society are charged 50 cents for leaving a litter of puppies at the shelter; 50 cents for a single large dog, and 25 cents for a small dog.

Non-members who are residents of Twin Falls County pay $1 for a litter of puppies; $1 for large dogs and 75 cents for individual small dogs. Those living outside of the county will pay $3 per litter of puppies.

$1.50 for a large dog and $1 for a small dog.

The acceptance fees for cats ranges from 25 and 50 cents for small and large cats from society members to $1.50 per litter of kittens for residents outside of Twin Falls County and 75 cents for a single cat for outside county residents.

These small fees help pay for food purchased for the animals. There are also charges made on animals adopted out and these cover medication, shots and feed.

All dogs brought to the shelter are kept a week and in the case of purebred animals, longer if necessary. Cats, which must now be kept in cages because of closure of the cattery to prevent the spread of disease among the cats, are kept at least three days.

Persons wishing pets will find a good selection at all times, society members say, but the shelter is open to the public only from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 6 p.m. Bobbi Glasmann, president of the society, urged residents to observe business hours to give shelter operators a normal working schedule.

Fees for adoption of pets include $5 for a small mixed breed dog; $7 for a small purebred dog; $9.50 and $10 for larger mixed breed and purebred dogs.

TF zoners recommend park plans

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City zoners Monday recommended three trailer park plans. Final action must be taken by the City Council.

A "very low density" trailer park south of the Twin Falls water tower on Airport Road was supported subject to review by the city engineer. Richard Schneider had requested water and sewer services for the 59-acre tract, giving the city a vote on how the out-of-city property will be developed.

The zoners approved a 19-acre mobile home park near the intersection of Elizabeth Boulevard and Eastland Drive planned by Arley and Robert White.

The approval was conditional upon annexation of the property and review by the city engineer.

Preliminary plans were approved for the Ross Ward trailer park at the corner of Filer Avenue and Martin Street. The out-of-city section of the area must be annexed before final approval.

Preliminary plans were also approved for the Ken Lee subdivision on Falls Avenue East about one-quarter mile east of Eastland Drive.

Two zoning variance requests were tabled after public hearing Monday.

Lloyd Cunningham asked a variance to allow six-inch side yard setbacks and a four foot front yard setback at 195 Moreland Avenue. He plans to build a covered carport and patio at the residence.

The zoners tabled Cunningham's request until property lines can be determined for his lot.

Robert Ellis requested a variance to allow a one-foot side yard setback at 1845 San La Rue Ave. Ellis said he plans to construct a garage.

The request was tabled for further discussion.

Merchandise found

TWIN FALLS — About $500 in merchandise possibly belonging to Sears Roebuck & Co. was found concealed in Rock Creek Canyon Sunday.

According to Twin Falls police detective captain Tim Qualls, the merchandise was found by a man and a woman who "just came across it."

Qualls said Sears employees are now checking store records for possible time of loss on the merchandise. Qualls said the specific merchandise had not been reported missing previously.

The goods could have been taken in a burglary from the Sears warehouse which occurred several weeks ago or from a truck trailer which was burglarized in the Sears parking lot last week, Qualls speculated.

Burley man unhurt

POCATELLO — A rain-slick highway caused a truck driven by a Burley man to escape control west of here Monday evening moments after another vehicle carrying a Boise baseball team overturned.

Fidel Torres Rodriguez, 40, Burley, told Idaho State Police he lost control of his truck while watching the Boiseans varr escape control and overturn. Police said hot weather caused the highway surface to become smooth and hard rain made it unusually slippery.

Rodriguez was unhurt but five members of the Boise American Legion team were hurt. Hospitalized in Pocatello were players Tim Patterson, Bruce Payton, Dave Maffitte, Mark Smith and Brent Maxwell, all 18, and team official Dick MacDonald, 29. The driver and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. George Maxwell, were released following treatment.

Application received

SALMON — The Idaho Department of Water Administration advises it has received an application from the Idaho Mining Co. of Cobalt to alter the channel of Blackbird Creek near its point of confluence with Meadow Creek.

The firm proposes to construct a ditch, 4,400 feet maximum length, along the south hillside of the present creek bed in order to carry the flow around a proposed mine tailings reservoir.

The water then would be redirected back into the creek below without mixing with water in the reservoir, the application said.

Albion man named

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Wheat Commission today announced the election of Keith Amende, Albion, as chairman. Amende replaces Vard Meadows of American Falls. George Harris, Idaho Falls, was elected vice chairman.

Sam Tyler, Tensed, was appointed to the Western Wheat Board replacing Norman Dean.

Harris is the second member of the commission on the Western Wheat Board.

Jerome meet set

JEROME — Jerome County Farm Bureau directors will meet at 8:30 p.m. today in the new office building south of Jerome.

Gordon Hollfield, president of the bureau, will give a complete report on the county presidents' meeting July 17 and 18 in Burley.

Condition 'stable'

KETCHUM — Edward Strout, Palm Desert, Calif., remains in "stable condition" today at Moritz Community Hospital after being involved in a one vehicle rollover accident on Placer Creek northwest of Ketchum.

According to the US Forest Service Ketchum Ranger District office, the accident occurred about 2 p.m. Saturday, about 18 miles northwest of Ketchum and three miles off the Warm Springs Road.

Receiving minor injuries were John Kemp, Jerome, and Steven Goodwin, Palm Desert.

The injured were flown by helicopter from the scene at about 5:30 p.m. by the ranger district crew.

TF bids to open

TWIN FALLS — Bids for remodeling the Twin Falls County jail will be opened Aug. 2 at 11 a.m.

The bids were originally called for today but were delayed until next week to give bidders more time to prepare their estimates.

Remodeling will convert the former apartment into juvenile detention space and generally improve and expand the now crowded jail area of the courthouse. A small room will also be provided for a jailer on duty on a 24-hour basis.

Blaine zoning meet tonight

HAILEY — The agenda for the Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission meeting this evening has been released.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the county courthouse.

Public hearings will be conducted on conditional use permit requests by Mike McNeilly to construct a single family dwelling in the Big Wood River flood plain on lot 1 of the Big Wood River Ranch Subdivision, and by Ralph Holmes to locate a gravel extraction and hot mix plant on property located about three miles south of Bellevue in the Poverty Flats area.

Also scheduled are public hearings on the variance request by Robert D. Adamson to construct a non-conforming sign on U.S. Highway 93 alternate in Carey, and a zoning reclassification for portions of the Deer Creek Ranch from A-1 to R-1, R-2 and C-2, requested by William R. Burt.

Continued from the July 10 meeting because of the lack of a quorum are the following items:

The preliminary subdivision application for Gimlet 6 and 7 by the Teran Corp.

A conditional use permit request by James E. Keys to build a single family dwelling in the Warm Springs flood plain on leased property located on the lower Board Ranch.

A conditional use permit request by Richard Mathieson to build a cabin in the Warm Springs flood plain near Warfield Hot Springs.

A conditional use permit by Jack Dodds to build on lot 8 of the Big Wood River Subdivision in the Big Wood River flood plain.

Jerome hears protests

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — Several protests and favorable comments were heard over proposed amendments to the city zoning ordinances at a public hearing here Monday night.

The Jerome City Council conducted the public hearings to obtain residents' views on proposed amendments to the city zoning ordinances for mobile homes.

The proposed zoning ordinance establishes an additional residential district, 1-A, which is the largest district and encompasses most of the southeast section of Jerome, with the exception of one area by the city water tower which is designated residential district 1.

District 1 areas are also located northeast of Jerome in the new subdivision area. The third residential area, referred to as district 2 is mostly comprised of the area west of Lincoln Street. Also included in the proposed zoning ordinance are some changes in the business and industrial districts.

Under the new zoning proposal, double wide mobile homes with the minimum of 1,000 square feet, skirted with non-flammable materials, with tongues removed and set on concrete blocks with a proper foundation will be the only trailers permitted in residential district 1-A.

No mobile homes or trailer houses of any kind will be allowed in residential district 1. Mobile homes of any size, skirted with non-flammable material, will be allowed in residential district 2.

Also included in the proposal are livestock restrictions which completely restrict livestock in residential district 1. However, livestock will be permitted in residential districts 1-A and 2 if requirements listed in the ordinance are met.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Stewart opposed the adoption of the proposed changes stating they felt no one had the right to designate to them the type of housing they would live in. "I don't think people living in a home would like to be told by the City Council that they can only live in a brick home," Mrs. Stewart said.

Stewart presented a notarized statement to the council which said that he and his wife and all of their heirs shall retain the following God given and or constitutionally guaranteed property rights without infringement and not necessarily limited to the following:

- The right to control.
- The right to title.
- The right to disposal.
- The right to pass on property to the heirs.

"All persons or body of persons who violate or attempt to violate any or all of the above property rights in any part, whether by force, threatened force, legislation, declaration, etc., shall be guilty of a felony crime against the above named or unnamed persons," the statement said.

Several people spoke in favor of the amendments, noting that they were pleased the City Council is making an effort to protect property values within the city.

In other business before the council, a one year maintenance bond was approved for the first phase of the Hillcrest subdivision, northeast of town. William Block city engineer, said the bond, which has been set at $27,000 is for streets, water, and sewer systems which have been completed in the subdivision.

The bond is for the protection of the city and is to insure that the street, water and sewer systems have been properly installed. After the year period, the city will accept responsibility for them," Block said.

The council also suspended the rules to adopt an ordinance which provides a fee for the cutting of streets, alleys and thoroughfares for the laying of underground utilities.

Crops damaged by hail, rain

BURLEY — A band of hail and rain snaked through this area Monday afternoon causing some crop damage and blanketing the ground with white.

About 13 inches of precipitation was recorded between 2:30 and 4 p.m. from the cloud burst and hail storm which was not felt by residents south of Declo or north of the Snake River near Burley.

The Burley Municipal Golf Course and many parks and yards in the area took on the appearance of winter as the hail covered the ground and piled up on some highways.

Many streets in the Burley area filled with water during the storm as sewers clogged and water backed up.

Cars plowed through at least a foot of water near Pomerelle and Overland avenues and traffic was slowed because of huge pools of water in the downtown and residential areas throughout the city.

City crews had the streets clear within a few hours following the storm.

No reports were available on the extent of the crop damage, although many fields in the area were hit by the hail.

Shoshone man files appeal

SHOSHONE — A Shoshone man sentenced to five years in the Idaho Penitentiary for cattle rustling has filed an appeal with the Idaho Supreme Court.

James Trowbridge, 26, filed the appeal through his attorney Paul M. Beeks, Twin Falls. As a result of the appeal, Fifth District Court Judge Charles Scoggin has said he will issue a stay of execution on Trowbridge's sentence.

A hearing is scheduled for trial.

Prior to his arrest and conviction for rustling, Trowbridge was employed as a range rider by the Thorn Creek Cattleman's Association of Lincoln County to protect herds from rustlers.

Jerome meet set

JEROME — Northside Community officials will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday to continue discussion on how to approach development of an area immediately north of the Snake River Canyon.

The officials met last week as a task force to combine their efforts in the orderly development of the canyon north planning unit.

At that time they decided the area to be studied will be from the Perrine Bridge north to the Union Pacific Railroad tracks located between the junction of U.S. Highway 93 and Interstate 80 and the junction of State Highway 25 and U.S. 93.

The area will include land three miles east and west of U.S. 93 with the drawn guideline of the area to remain flexible if it is found during the study other surrounding areas should be included.

The group set Dec. 31 for completion of the study. The Wednesday meeting to be held in Pioneer Hall will allow committees which have been formed to meet individually to organize.

Quota missed

JEROME — The Jerome blood drawing Monday failed to meet the assigned quota of 125 pints by 10 pints.

Red Cross officials said 14 new donors participated in the event. Members of the Appleton Grange, under direction of Mrs. Melvin Newlan, sponsored the drawing. The Grange also supplied nurses aides during the drawing.

A seven-gallon pin was presented to W. Dean Ricketts and six gallon pins went to Mr. and Mrs. Amos Watson and Mrs. Dick Watson. A five-gallon pin was given Don Hewmaker, a two-gallon pin to H. C. Higgins and a one-gallon pins to David O. Montgomery, Mrs. Melba Rowlands, Mrs. Jean J. Mott and Dolores Kemper.

Blaine rescinds accord

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — The Blaine County Plant and Facilities Study will continue without Northwestern University participation.

The Blaine County School Board voted unanimously during a special meeting Monday night to rescind an Aug. 23, 1972, contractual agreement with Northwestern to direct the study.

Trustee Chairman Ronda Hunt said that B. J. Chandler, dean of the school of education, Northwestern, had stated that the district could complete the study toward a new high school at about one-half the cost by discontinuing Northwestern participation and continuing the study with the aid of persons within the community, the Idaho Department of Education Needs Assessment Program and University of Idaho personnel.

However, Hunt refused to make public the cover letter written by Dean Chandler to the school board. The letter accompanied a report of study progress to date and recommendations formulated by Chandler; Dr. L.J. Stiles, Northwestern, and Walter Hoesel, former on-site study co-ordinator.

Patsy Jacoby, Ketchum, who was present at the meeting, said she felt "the public should be aware" of the content of Chandler's letter.

Hunt said he would take the matter under advisement. But, he said, "I take exception to some parts" of the letter and said, "I will not make it public until directed by the board."

Dean Chandler was not available this morning to comment on the letter.

Initially, the study — which began in the fall of 1972 — was planned to encompass three years, but was telescoped with a completion date set for December 1973.

During a meeting earlier this summer with the study committee and the school board, Chandler recommended that the board consider re-extending the study by about 10 to 12 months.

The first year was financed by a $25,000 donation by Richard Welch, Ketchum. Under the original agreement the school district would supply a maximum of $25,000 for the second and third years.

During Monday night's meeting, Supt. Wayne Fagg said he had reviewed the summary report and stated that "a lot of outstanding work had been done. It is worthwhile to continue the

Attorney won't release report

TWIN FALLS — An attorney for the US Forest Service refused today to release the agency's "official investigative report" concerning the Pomerelle chairlift accident last New Year's Day.

Dean Gardner, Ogden, field attorney for the Department of Agriculture, said the report will not be released until all litigation stemming from the ski mishap has been completed.

Ralph Dymert, Ogden, special investigator for the forest service, said he completed his final report on the accident in March.

The last forest service news release concerning the Pomerelle mishap was issued near the end of January. Gardner would not confirm that the last release was based on Dymert's investigation.

Nineteen persons were injured in the Pomerelle accident. Three of them, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tullinga, Twin Falls, and Christine Stevens, Hagerman, have filed claims against the federal government totalling $1.45 million.

Shoshone man fined

SHOSHONE — Danny Stover, North Shoshone, was fined $42.50 plus court costs Monday and sentenced to six months in the Lincoln County jail for disturbing the peace.

Magistrate Nancy Haddock suspended five months of the jail sentence providing Stover leaves Lincoln County and does not return after serving 30 days of the sentence.

The complaint against Stover was signed by Dora Turska, who owns the Shoshone Ice Caves Service Station. She had charged him with disturbing the peace and being drunk in a public place at her business.

work." Fagg recommended that the report be published. "It definitely should get in the hands of all key people in this study," he said.

The superintendent also commended the population survey committee report. If, as the survey indicates, Fagg said, the school district doubles in the next five years, the district will have more study work ahead of it beyond planning for a new high school.

TF schools eye kindergartens

Anderson said under the revised guidelines "we can't use the money in any way where anybody but the economically deprived will get any benefit," although he said he was hopeful that in some cases federal authorities would approve a ratio of disadvantaged to other students for the program.

Staudaher said although there wasn't sufficient space for a winter months kindergarten program he would like to try a program for five year olds in the summer "if I can get it approved."

He said he would have to justify the proposal as benefiting disadvantaged students. Anderson agreed, saying "to a certain extent any kid five years old is educationally deprived."

Staudaher said the proposals had to be completed by September 1. The school board does not meet again in regular session until August, he said. The board must approve any proposals before they are submitted to State Department of Education Title I officials for further scrutiny.

The local district received $134,000 in Title I funds last year. Should trustees receive and program for money this year, the trustees will have to amend the budget to account for the unbudgeted funds.

Hank Aaron takes crack at Kuhn for lack of note

KANSAS CITY (UPI) —

Hank Aaron took a crack at Bowie Kuhn Monday and although he cushioned the rap in his customary soft, polite all-star manner, he said he still thinks the commissioner of baseball could have found time to send him a wire after his 700th home run.

Here to participate in Tuesday night's All-Star contest, Aaron said he received more than 100 telegrams, after moving within 14 homers of Babe Ruth's all-time record Saturday by connecting for the 700th of his career-off Ken Brett of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Among the congratulatory wires, said Aaron, were ones sent by National League President Chub Feeney, the Rev. Jesse Jackson of Atlanta, and even former teammate Pat Jarvis, now with Montreal, but there was no word whatsoever from Kuhn.

"I was kinda disappointed that I didn't hear anything from him at all," said Aaron.

"Disappointed, you might say, and let down."

"I didn't get one from President Nixon either," he smiled, "but I never expected one from him."

Someone suggested that perhaps Kuhn did send a telegram and it might have been detained or mislaid someplace.

"I don't see how it could have been," Aaron persisted. "It's been three days now."

Three weeks ago, when some pitchers were quoted as saying they would "groove one" for Aaron if he had an opportunity to on the occasion of his record breaking home run, Kuhn immediately issued a public warning that any pitcher caught doing so would face suspension. But Aaron said that warning by Kuhn was not the basis for his making public now his disappointment at not receiving a wire from the commissioner.

"I'm not agitating him and I'm perfectly serious," said Aaron, in that characteristic quiet way of his. "I mean this sincerely, regardless of how small he thinks it is, hitting that home run, it shouldn't small to me. I feel he would have acknowledged it somehow. Frankly, it bothers me."

Aaron said he now feels he has "a good chance" to break Ruth's record this season.

Unlike astronaut Neil Armstrong, Aaron said he has no set phrase in his mind as to what to say when and if he does break Ruth's record.

"That's something I haven't given any thought yet," he said.

"Do you think you might get a telegram from Nixon then?" a newsman asked the 39-year-old Atlanta left fielder.

"I don't know," he said. "President Nixon has enough problems."

Aaron said he was particularly moved by the wire he got from Jarvis.

"After all, he's not with our ball club anymore, and for him to take time out and send me a telegram, well, I just think that was very thoughtful of him."

Lyle won't rap Orioles manager

KANSAS CITY (UPI) —

Sparky Lyle refuses to rap Earl Weaver.

Even though the Baltimore Oriole manager, who handled the American League All-Star team the last three seasons, left Lyle off the 1972 squad, the Yankee relief ace insists there aren't hard feelings.

"You've got to give him credit for sticking to his guns," Lyle said, "that's the way he's always managed so you can't expect him to change for one game."

Weaver, who piloted Baltimore to three straight AL pennants, didn't believe in naming relief pitchers to the All-Star team. His belief was a bit controversial, especially since the AL blew ninth inning leads in both the 1970 and 1972 games and eventually lost both contests in extra innings.

But this season Dick Williams, who led the Oakland A's to the world championship, named the pitchers and he selected both Lyle and right hander Rollie Fingers of his own team.

The Fingers' selection raised a few eyebrows, since Detroit's John Hiller, who recovered from a heart attack, has more than twice as many saves as Fingers does.

But no one questioned Lyle's right to be on the team. He has 26 saves this season and if the AL gets the lead in the late innings, he seems to be a cinch to be in the game.

Lyle said he was pleased to be selected because it helped to point out how valuable relief pitchers have become. "Relief pitchers are specialists and to be without one is like a football team without a kickoff man. This is a tribute to all short men," he said. "People are beginning to recognize the worth of relief pitchers and they're getting a better name now."

"The days are gone forever when a relief pitcher was just a guy who couldn't start anymore. You can make a career out of relief pitching now. I have no desire to start. I enjoy coming out of the bullpen in pressure situations."

Lyle was picked up two years ago by the Yankees from the Boston Red Sox for Danny Cater and Lyle's relief work is one of the main reasons why the Yankees stayed close last season and are in front this year.

Sparky Anderson, the National League manager, has the Dodgers' relief ace Jim Brewer on his squad. But Anderson suggested that if the NL gets ahead in the late innings, he's likely to use New York Met ace Tom Seaver as his short man for the last inning.

Seaver pitched Sunday against the Houston Astros and isn't ready for a three-inning stint so soon, but thinks he could go for an inning or two if needed.

"There's nothing I'd like better than to have the lead in the ninth inning and have Tom Seaver on the mound for me," Anderson said.

Vandal alumni seeking discussion

BOISE (UPI) — Keeping the controversy alive, the board of directors of the University of Idaho alumni association Monday said it wants to meet with the board of regents to discuss the decision not to allow Idaho to get out of the Big Sky Conference.

Alumni association president Carl Berry told a press conference that the association has the answers to financial solvency for athletics by having the university leave the Big Sky Conference.

Last week, the board of regents defeated a motion 4-3 to allow Idaho to leave the Big Sky and join the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

"We have the answers if those who make the policy will listen," Berry, San Francisco, said.

"We feel the facts regarding the financial stresses of the University of Idaho athletics have not been given all the consideration necessary," Berry said. "We have not advocated leaving the Big Sky Conference because we want to get into bigger competition."

"We know that the Big Sky will continue to deteriorate and we also know that if it is just a matter of time until we go out of the business of football at Idaho," he added.

Berry said he did not know if the board of regents would change its mind if the association met with them and presented the facts.

Dr. John Swartley, Boise, director of the board, told United Press International Monday night that the association has not contacted him concerning a meeting with the board.

"The next meeting is in September," Swartley, who earlier said he would do everything in his power to keep the Big Sky issue from coming before the board, said.

But he added it is the right of any member of the board to bring matters up for discussion.

Berry said a group of 15 alumni members met with Gov. Cecil D. Andrus earlier in the day to discuss what course of action the association should take. He said the governor made comments on a personal level.

He said members of the group did not "seek a commitment" from the governor.

The association said it was representing what it called a regional and statewide public outcry following the regents' decision last Tuesday.

Berry said the purpose of the conference was to bring to the public's attention the stresses facing the athletic program. He said the association did not want to bring these matters out before the regents met because it was the board's decision.

The members of the board of directors of the association say they are steadfast in their belief that the university athletic program must become self-supporting within a reasonable period of time.

In Boise for the meeting Monday were Roger Jones, Rupert; John Dana, Seattle; Dr. Ranta, Lewiston; Jenkin Palmer, Malad and Boise; Helen McKinney, Salmon; Norm Fredelind, Spokane; Dr. Gordon Law, Denver; Bill Holden, Idaho Falls; Tom Edwards, Blackfoot; Carolyn Tartel, Boise; Carl Wurster, ASUI president, Moscow, and Berry.

ALL-STAR PITCHERS Jim Hunter (l), Oakland, and Rick Wise (r), Cardinals, make a joke with a tiny bat at a news conference Monday. With 42 per cent of the runs scored by homers in All-Star competition, Wise and Hunter feel they might have a better chance if the batters had smaller bats. (UPI telephoto).

Pitchers fear homers

Annual all-star game was first played at White Sox stadium 40 years ago

By JOHN P. CARMICHAEL,

(UPI) 1973, Chicago Daily News.

The annual all-star game, baseball's midseason showcase of its premier talent, was first played in Chicago 40 years ago at what was then Comiskey Park, home of the White Sox. Seventeen years later, in 1950, it almost was abandoned right in the same place.

But thanks to a 14th inning home run by Red Schoendienst, present manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, it survived as an inter-league spectacle that will be renewed tonight within the confines of the game's newest stadium in Kansas City, under lights, and carried into outer darkness by television.

This was the original dream of the late Arch Ward, then sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, and the inaugural was not presented without some difficulties. Not all the owners cottoned to the idea, for fear it would take some luster off the caste rivalry of the world series. Besides, the proposed project was something of a novelty and baseball was loath to embrace new ideas.

Finally, so the story goes, everybody was in line except Frank Adams, then president of the Boston Braves. He also owned the Boston Bruins' hockey team, at the same time that Maj. Frederic McLaughlin owned the Chicago Black Hawks. So Ward swung on the major to put some pressure on Adams and the extravaganza, now going into its 43rd renewal, was all set.

That first one was on a day in June, 1933. The American League won 4-2 and Babe Ruth, on the verge of retirement, hit a home run which was all the 47,595 fans could have hoped for. Lon Warneke and Gabby Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs formed a national league battery and Jim Dykes and Al Simmons represented the Sox on the winning side.

So that was the beginning and the AL, holding both the balance of power and pitching, won the first three games and eight of the first 11, which were, of course, played in a different city each summer. The most on-sided National League win of their trio was down in St. Louis in 1940, when five pitchers fielded the American League to three hits in a 4-0 victory.

One of those hurlers was Larry French, then southpawing for the Cubs. One of the three losing hits was by Lyle Appling, the lone representative of the Sox, who singled to right on a first pitch. Taxed with failing to get his fellow townsman out, French replied: "He wasn't going to wear me out with those foul balls of his. He can have his damn hit right off the bat. Red Ruffing (former New York Yankee righthander) told me how to pitch to Appling: 'let him get on and save yourself a lot of work.' So I did."

The next year (1941) the Nationals were leading 5-1 in the ninth at Detroit when Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox star, blasted a three-run homer off the upper facade at Tiger Stadium. It came off Claude Passeau of the Cubs, who was walking off the field before the ball lit. He knew where it was going. The winning pitcher that day was southpaw Edgar Smith of the White Sox, who was sitting on the bench at the time.

And so it went. At Philadelphia in 1943, six Yankees were picked on the AL squad, which was to be managed by Joe McCarthy, the New York pilot. Among those Yanks were Joe Gordon (second baseman), Bill Dickey (catcher) and outfielders Charlie Keller and Johnny Lindell. But McCarthy was fed up with stories dubbing the AL the Yankee League and saying the junior circuit couldn't win if it didn't have the Yankees on the AL-star team.

So McCarthy never used a single Yankee player that night. One of his two pitchers, Ernie Bonham and Spud Chandler, was due to start. Instead Joe named Emil (Dutch) Leonard of the Senators to tee it off against Mort Cooper of the Cards. The Amerks won, 5-3, and the jubilant McCarthy told newspapermen, afterwards that "the American League don't need any Yanks to beat those guys."

Then came the 13th game at Boston (Fenway Park) in 1946. The American club belted five NL hurlers for a 12-0, three-hit triumph, which featured a pair of home runs by the incomparable Williams. That's when the first stories began to appear urging the game be dropped as too on-sided.

It was giving the Nationals a bad name. One magazine article was entitled "The new minor (National) League." Even the American Loop, which took fierce pride in its conquests, was laughing within its ranks at these "exhibition affairs."

That's how matters stood when the game reached the point of no return at White Sox park in 1950, with the composition score standing 12-4 against the senior league. Two secret polls among NL magnates had narrowly failed to call it quits; about 46,000 fans were on hand to watch Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies start against Vic Rashi, the Yankee right-hander.

The American contingent seemed destined for its 13th triumph going into the ninth when Ralph Kiner, the only Pittsburgh Pirate on the NL squad homered into the left-field stands to tie things up at three-all. The struggle continued into extra innings for the first time in all-star history and finally, in the 14th, Schoendienst homered off Ted Gray of Detroit and the American League spell had been broken for good.

The blow stopped, for the time being, any talk of canceling future dates in the hope that this overtime effort would mark a National revival. It did. The chronic losers, who had been slowly acquiring sluggers and pitchers to match the supermen of their erstwhile tormentors, won 11 of the next 15 games and tied another, which was called by rain at the end of the ninth. The drought was over and, perforce, the American League was obliged to accept the belated status of National League equality.

Soviets garner big track lead

MOSCOW (UPI) —

Despite the crushing of their top sprint star by a California teenager, the Soviet Union opened a 118-71 lead over the United States today on the opening night of their two day track and field meet.

The Soviet men led 65-51 after 11 events. The Soviet women ran up a commanding 53-20 margin over the American girls who failed to win any of their seven events.

Head coach Jim Bush, who said earlier the U.S. squad, riddled by absences and sickness, was "over our heads," said he was "disappointed" at the half-way mark.

"This was supposed to be our stronger day," he said. Highlight of the day was the humiliation of Valery Borzov, the Soviet double gold sprint medalist at the Munich Olympics, by 19-year-old Steve Williams of San Diego, Calif., in the mens 4 x 100 meter relay.

Williams, who earlier won the 100-meter dash in 10.1, an event Borzov passed up, started his anchor leg about three yards behind "the worlds fastest" human.

Cracking his baton arm like a piston, Williams said he grinned when he flew past Borzov to win by nearly four yards.

"I was expecting serious business," he said later "but it was so ridiculously easy."

Williams jogged a jubilant half-lap to the cheers of his teammates. When the graceful Borzov came up to shake hands, the nearly full-crowded in the 40,000 seat Central Republic Stadium whistled its derision.

Tom White of Van Nuys, Calif., took the 110-meter hurdles in 13.5 on a track slowed by several days of rain. Evgeni Arzhanov upset Rick Wohlhuter of Chicago, Ill., the world record holder at 880 yards, in the 800 meters at a time of 1:49.2. Wohlhuter clocked 1:39.4.

James Redd of San Diego, Calif., took the 400 meters in 46.7 and reliable Al Feuerbach of San Jose, Calif., his shoulder-length hair held in place with a head band, won the shot with a toss of 67 ft. 10 in.

The U.S. suffered a disappointment in the pole vault when Mike Colton, of Ocala, Fla., aggravated a torn hamstring muscle and failed to jump.

The Soviet women swept the boards taking the top two places in every event.

On a day of no new records, Elvira Ozolina came the closest when she heaved the javelin 209 ft 11 in., second only to the world record of 213 ft 3 in. held by East Germany's Rita Fuchs.

Joe Mullaney quits Kentucky Colonels

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) —

Joe Mullaney has resigned as head coach of the Kentucky Colonels to accept another coaching position in the American Basketball Association, United Press International learned Monday.

Sources declined to say where Mullaney is going, but said an official announcement of his resignation was planned for an 11 a.m. (EDT) news conference Tuesday.

Mullaney, 46, former head coach of the Los Angeles Lakers, has coached the Colonels for the past two seasons and guided them to the ABA final playoffs this past season, where they lost the championship series to the Indiana Pacers, four games to three.

In his first season with the Colonels, Mullaney directed them to the most victories ever scored by an ABA team during a regular season, 68, and the highest winning percentage in league history, .805. However, they were eliminated in the first round of the ABA Eastern Division playoffs by the surprising New York Nets.

Mullaney's departure leaves the Colonels without both a coach and a general manager under their new ownership, headed by an all-woman board of directors. Mike Storen resigned as president and general manager of the club two weeks ago.

Mullaney, a teammate of Bob Cousy at Holy Cross, had compiled the third best coaching record among active college coaches during 14 seasons at Providence College when Jack Kent Cooke hired him to become coach of the Lakers in 1969.

His Providence teams, which included such stars as Lenny Wilkens, Jimmy Walker and Johnny Egan, won 293 games and lost 99 during his 14 seasons at the helm. Mullaney's winning percentage of .752 placed him behind only Adolph Rupp of Kentucky and Johnny Wooden of UCLA among active coaches at that time.

Under Mullaney, Providence developed into a perennial power that had nine straight 20-victory seasons and won two National Invitation Tournament championships.

In his first season with the Lakers, he steered them all the way to the final game of the National Basketball Association championship series before losing to the New York Knicks.

In 1971, Mullaney coached the Lakers to the Pacific Division season championship and they lost to the eventual champion Milwaukee Bucks in the second round of the playoffs. Not satisfied with anything less than a league championship, Cooke fired Mullaney after that season.

France backs down

BRUSSELS (UPI) — France backed down today from its demand that the United States prop up the dollar at its springtime rate or face collapse of the "Nixon Round" of trade talks.

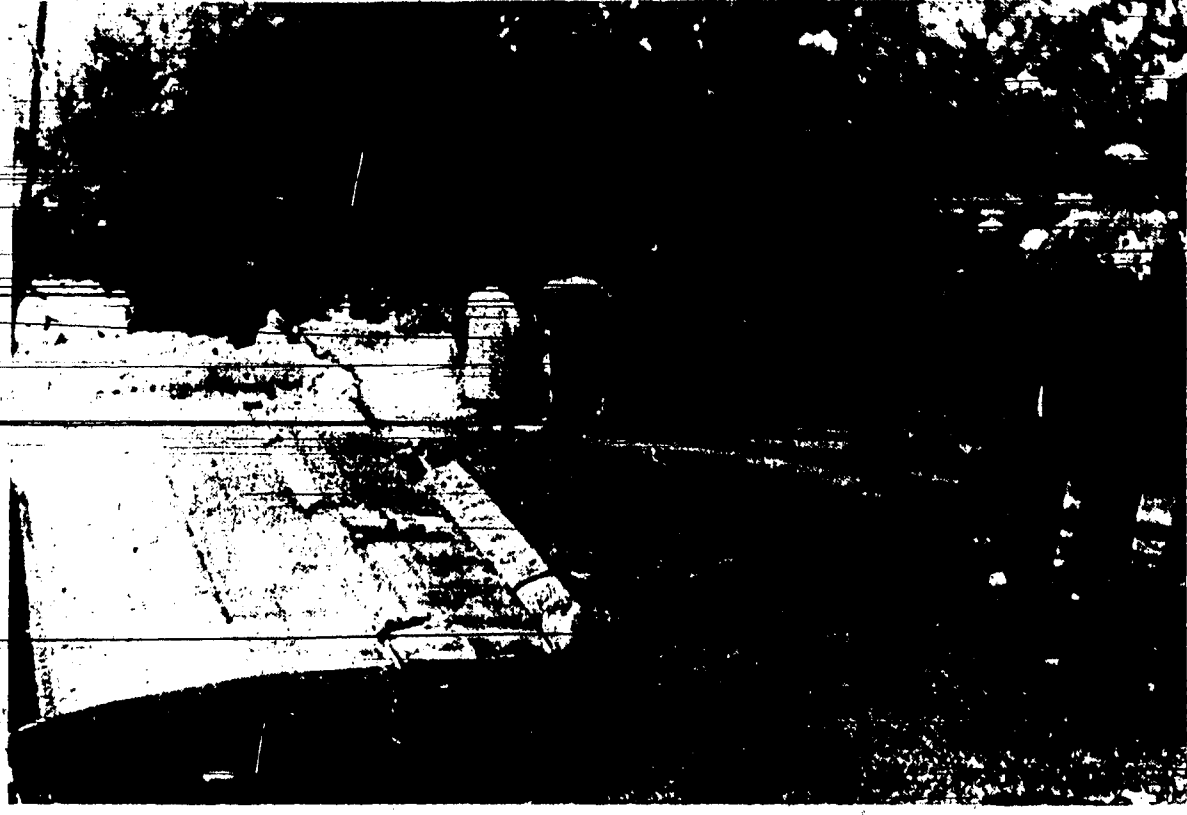

French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert, accusing the United States of "monetary dumping," had insisted that a return to the exchange rates set in March after the last dollar devaluation be a precondition for starting the "Nixon Round" later this year.

The dollar's rate has slid steadily down since March and Jobert accused Washington of deliberately letting its currency fall to improve its competitive position.

The other eight Common Market foreign ministers, meeting with Jobert here, objected. A compromise resolution worked out during the night and accepted by Jobert, said the Europeans "presumed that the world economy will be sheltered from the shocks and imbalances" of monetary upsets and "a lasting and equitable" monetary system will be installed.

The compromise eliminated any talk of preconditions or of a return to the rates of March. But it included the general European belief that it is unrealistic to negotiate tariff cuts which can be undone by gyrating exchange rates.

The text underlined European irritation at U.S. monetary policies.

Search for victims

THE WING OF an Ozark Air Lines turboprop is on the side of a road in St. Louis Monday as rescue workers continue their search for more victims of the crash into a residential section during a severe thunderstorm. Thirty-six persons were killed in the crash. (UPI)

Airliner crash kills 36

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — An Ozark Air Lines Airliner, pounded by swirling winds and apparently struck by lightning, crashed in burning pieces Monday night. Thirty-six of the 44 persons aboard were killed. The survivors included the pilot, co-pilot, and six passengers. Early today St. Louis County Hospital reported four of the survivors to be in critical condition, two serious and two more satisfactory.

A hospital spokesman said the discrepancy in the number of victims, earlier put at 38, came about because it had erroneously been believed that some disaster bags contained two victims when they only contained one.

It was the first fatal crash in the 23-year history of Ozark.

A thunderstorm which many residents thought was a tornado was raging over the St. Louis area when the plane came down between two homes two miles from Lambert Field and across the street from the University of Missouri at St. Louis.

Chet Chickering, a former Air Force pilot who lives near the scene, said, "This huge bolt of lightning seemed to strike the plane while the plane was being buffeted by gusty winds. It kind of nosed down, then disappeared from my view. I couldn't see any funnel cloud, but the plane was buffeted pretty badly."

Witnesses said the plane came apart and burst into flames upon impact. But the deaths—largely in the back area of the Fairchild-Hiller 227 Turboprop—were not attributed to fire.

Dr. D.A. Gardner, aviation medical examiner for the Federal Aviation Agency, said, "These people died from impact. The airplane stopped and they didn't. All the bodies were heavily contaminated with fuel, but there was no fire over the bodies."

The plane sheared off trees as it came down in the storm. One of the trees smashed through the roof and into the kitchen of Mr. and Mrs. William McCollum.

"We thought it was a tornado hitting the house and we went to the floor. Then we looked outside and saw the plane and the fire, so we took off running."

Howard Porter came running from his home to the crash site—the first person to get there—entered the plane, and began slicing safety belts with a knife.

"One man was pinned in there real close to the fire and the fire was burning real close," he said. "The plane was busted out all over the place. People were pinned in it and they were hollering and screaming."

"I couldn't distinguish whether some were dead or alive."

The plane was Ozark Flight 809 from Nashville, Tenn., to St. Louis with stops in Clarksville, Tenn., Paducah, Ky., Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Marion, Ill., where it made the last stop before the crash.

Clothes from suitcases on the plane were strewn outside the wreckage. Witnesses said shoes and socks were knocked off the feet of many of the victims.

The plane was ripped apart in the crash, and pieces of the fuselage were spread over several backyards in the neighborhood. The engine of the plane was hurled by the impact of the crash across the street and onto the university campus.

Unassigned lands in Oklahoma Territory were ordered opened for settlement on March 3, 1889, when Congress attached a rider to the Indian Appropriation Bill.

Pentagon deceit aired by Hughes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, believes that a number of "frightening" disclosures about Pentagon deceit over the bombing of Cambodia before

May, 1970, may emerge soon. The Senate Armed Services Committee began an investigation Monday into the secret bombing of Cambodia for 14 months before the U.S. invasion, which President Nixon said marked the first aerial attacks over the country.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry Friedheim testified in closed session Monday about charges from a former Air Force major that records were falsified to show no raids over Cambodia, although the 3,630 B52 sorties there beginning in March, 1969, dropped more than 100,000 tons of bombs, according to acting chairman Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.).

Hughes said he did not believe Friedheim's claim that the apparent deception was a mistake.

"To me it wasn't a mistake," said Hughes. This was set up deliberately to keep the information from the American people, Congress and this committee.

Hughes said: "The fact that these massive military operations and widespread falsifications of official reports could be kept secret so long convinces me that in this jungle of secret warfare and official deceit, there are uncharted depths perhaps more frightening than what has yet been disclosed."

Symington, angry over what he called a case of the Pentagon obtaining congressional appropriations under false pretenses, said Sen. Earle G. Wheeler, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, would be called to testify next week.

"We intend to pursue the matter and find out who it was who gave the orders for tactical and strategic bombing and who gave the orders to falsify records," said Symington.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, testifying before a House appropriations subcommittee, dismissed the charges of deceit, saying the false information was "improperly sent to the Hill, for which the department has indicated its regrets."

"To say that these reports have been falsified is quite misleading in this case," said Schlesinger.

At the Pentagon, Lt. Gen. Daniel James Jr. said the Air Force is investigating charges made by former pilot Capt. Gerald J. Groven of Miami that U.S. planes bombed a Viet Cong hospital in 1969 contrary to the Geneva Convention rules of war.

Andrus lauds new bill

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus lauded legislation introduced Monday by senators from Oregon and Idaho to preserve Hells Canyon as "a major step forward in the effort to protect a national treasure."

Andrus said the measure to create a Hells Canyon National Recreation Area was superbly authored and commended Senators Frank Church and James McClure of Idaho and Mark Hatfield, Robert Packwood of Oregon for working in concert to protect the middle Snake.

"I can endorse this bill and it will have my active support," Andrus said. He urged similar cooperation from Idaho

Congressmen Steve Symms and Orval Hansen of Idaho to work with Oregon representatives on the issue.

Among features of the legislation would be a prohibition on construction of any further dams along the middle Snake River in Hells Canyon.

It also would create a Hells Canyon National Recreation Area of the canyon and its surroundings and a Hells Canyon wilderness within the recreation area.

The bill was the first bill that all Idaho and Oregon senators have reached agreement on for the issue and was under consideration by the four senators for a year.

Tea is 'in'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A "little old ladies' drink" The advent of instant tea has changed that image, according to the Tea Council of the U.S.

Iced tea, especially in the younger age brackets, has become a full-fledged part of the beverage revolution which now sees cold drinks served all year long, the council said.

Church backs postal report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, announced Monday he is cosponsoring legislation to require the U.S. Postal Service to justify its operations to Congress annually.

The U.S. Postal Service presently is authorized to spend money to make up deficits Church said in the current fiscal year more than $1.3 billion is at stake.

Church pointed out that postal authorities, although they have the authorization to spend federal money, no longer need to come before Congress to justify or explain the postal service affairs.

"In recent years," Church said, "postal service has continued to deteriorate, despite the expectations of Congress when it abolished the old post office department and instituted the new U.S. Postal Service as an independent corporation."

Church said mail service between Washington and Idaho frequently takes more than a week, and service is getting worse all the time. Meanwhile, it is expected the postal service will act to increase first-class postage within the next few months and there have been indications that the service may seek to eliminate air mail.

Libyans rally for Khadafy

CAIRO (UPI) — Col. Moammar Khadafy withdrew his resignation as chairman of the ruling Libyan military junta Monday after 12 days, saying he was doing so under public pressure.

Tens of thousands of Libyans had shouted for his return in rallies all over the oil-rich country.

But Khadafy warned he might again resign if and when he realizes his ambition to see his own country and Egypt merge as a single nation. Or if he is unhappy with the pace of bringing the two North African neighbors together.

Khadafy, 31, whose title is chairman of the Revolution Command Council, said in a three-hour speech that he was returning to office because of widespread popular insistence.

Khadafy spoke at the town of Al Abiar, near Benghazi, where he has stayed in an army camp since he resigned July 11. He quit because, he said, to make the Libyan-Egyptian merger easier.

"Now for the sake of all of you, for the sake of those staging sit-in strikes and for the sake of those who suffered," he said Monday. "I return to my post as of now, provided that I review this stand after the union."

He said if things did not go as he wished after the merger, "I will have the right to take the appropriate stand."

Khadafy's resignation was at least his third since taking office in 1969 and prompted demonstrations and strikes in Tripoli and Benghazi.

Stay active

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Inactivity of people as they grow older causes aches, weight gain and fatigue, says Vivigan Blair, a family life education-aging specialist of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

She recommended six rules for the senior citizen—begin exercising and eating a little at a time but often, combine exercise with daily habits, gradually increase time spent exercising, watch the diet and get plenty of air and sun.

HOUSEWIFE

Every year the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York reckons how much money a housewife would earn if she were paid a composite salary for all her chores at current wage scales. Call her a nursemaid, dishwasher, dietitian, cook, laundress, practical nurse, maintenance man, gardener, food-buyer, housekeeper and seamstress. This year's calculations, says Chase, should credit her for $235.40 per week.

Those statisticians who dally in crime figures recently came up with another ample finding. An uncommonly large percentage of juvenile delinquents, they say, were bedwetters until a later age than usual.

Young lady, what do you do on those occasions when you find it difficult to get to sleep at night? The Empress of Russia, Catherine II ordered somebody to brush her hair until she dozed off. Might try that.

MEXICO

You've read all about Europe's dark ages. Nobody knew nothing about nothing. So what was going on in Mexico then? Plenty. The Toltecs came forth with astronomy. They dreamed up a calendar somewhat more accurate than any the Greeks or the Romans devised. They put together a written language. And they discovered the zero system way before it was realized in India. Got that, Anglo? Good.

Autopsies are mandatory after deaths in Soviet hospitals. Hereabouts, only one out of every five deaths is followed by a postmortem dissection. No, won't dwell on this, please don't scowl. Point is merely that some doctors think Soviet medical research will lead to far more significant findings as a result of the foregoing. Possibly so.
