Ehrlichman holds fast, challenges Dean story

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Disputing John W. Dean's testimony, John D. Ehrlichman said today that when he saw President Nixon on March 22, Nixon did not act like someone who had learned the full Watergate cover-up story for the first time.

Ehrlichman told the Senate Watergate hearing that he has "grave difficulty" accepting Dean's testimony that Dean, then counsel to the President and his internal Watergate investigator, had in fact told Nixon of his administration's deep involvement in the affair.

Dean had testified that on March 21 he told Nixon all he knew, and that Dean, Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, the President's foremost assistant, were all "indictable."

Dean said he delivered at that meeting what he later called his "cancer on the presidency" speech, hoping to shock Nixon into acting.

Dean's testimony on that point "was backed up" subsequently when a white-haired presidential aide, Richard A. Moore, was called before the Senate panel. Moore said Dean told him of his deep concern about White House involvement in Watergate and, with Moore's encouragement went to Nixon with the full story.

But Ehrlichman said the following day Nixon made no mention of Dean's account.

"I am forced to conclude that he (Nixon) either was confident that the White House and (John N.) Mitchell were not to blame or he was setting a few snares ... and was playing it cool," Ehrlichman said.

He said the President perhaps hoped to trap his aides and associates by feigning ignorance.

Ehrlichman said Nixon made no mention of what Dean has claimed to have told him of three meetings during the first three months of 1972 where G. Gordon Liddy's wiretapping plan was rejected and ultimately accepted.

Ehrlichman, Nixon's former chief domestic adviser, undergoing his fourth day of questioning, was examined closely on that point by Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla. Gurney has been skeptical of Dean's testimony, the only direct testimony about Nixon's Watergate knowledge presented to the committee since the hearings started.

"This really puzzles me," Gurney said. If Dean is to be believed, he said, Nixon had been given the truth for the first time. The next day Nixon met with Dean, Haldeman and Ehrlichman. "Didn't the President say, 'What gives here'?"

What are we going to do now?" Gurney asked.

"Asked to trace what he learned in his own subsequent presidentially requested inquiry into Watergate, Ehrlichman told the senators that he was warned last spring by a Nixon campaign lawyer that there had been "an obstruction of justice" in the case because of cash payments made to the seven original wiretapping defendants.

He said word of this came to him in a conversation April 5 in San Clemente, Calif. with Paul O'Brien, one of the attorneys for the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Getty: 'not one cent ransom'

GUILDFORD, England (UPI) — J. Paul Getty, often called the world's richest man, said Thursday he will not pay "one penny" ransom for the release of his namesake grandson in Italy.

"I have 14 other grandchildren," the 80-year-old billionaire said, "and if I pay one penny now, then I'll have 14 kidnapped grandchildren."

The youth, called "the golden hippie" by Romans, is the son of J. Paul Getty Jr. and his divorced wife Gail.

ABC gets China news

NEW YORK (UPI) — China's television network and ABC television have reached agreement for a broad exchange of news, sports and cultural programs, ABC announced Thursday.

The agreement, calling for exchanges of news and documentary teams as well as newfilm, was reached in Peking between ABC Board Chairman Leonard H. Goldenson and Chin Chao, the deputy director of China's Central Broadcasting Bureau. It was announced in New York.

Nixon withholds medical funds

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
WASHINGTON — In the last fiscal year, the Nixon administration withheld almost $1 out of every $4 authorized by Congress for health-related projects.

The cuts amounted to more than $1 billion, 21 per cent of the HEW health authorization.

Hardest hit were the Health Services and Mental Health Administration, the National Cancer Institute and the Nation Heart and Lung Institute.

The cuts were tallied by the House Commerce Committee.

Hijack collapsed when plan lost

LONDON (UPI) — The newspaper daily Express said today that the hijacking of a Japan Air Lines jumbo jet last week turned into a fiasco when the only hijacker on board who knew the plan of action killed herself with a hand grenade.

The Express said the hijacker was a 27-year-old Iraqi who used the name Katie George Thomas.

"Miss Thomas," it said, took over from Leila Khaled as chief European operator for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine guerrilla organization.

After the woman was killed by the accidental explosion of a grenade concealed in her clothes, the other four hijackers went ahead with the hijacking.

"But once they had the plane in their hands," the Express said, "they had no idea what to do."

The newspaper said the hijackers stayed for three days at the Dubai airport, hoping Hadad would call them by radio with instructions. But no message came.

Wild status eyed for Box Canyon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, introduced legislation Thursday to place Box Canyon under the Wild and Scenic Rivers act.

McClure said, "There has been considerable fear expressed that the upper end of Box Canyon, the Box Springs — will be subject to the kind of development that has marred the lower canyon, and I share that fear."

He said his bill offered a solution to the problems of saving the springs that is simple, inexpensive, quick and permanent, and with the least possible controversy.

McClure's measure would place the upper Box Canyon Creek in a "wild river" status guaranteeing that it would remain in a totally natural state. The lower end, which empties into the Snake River, would become a "recreational river" accessible by road and open to the public.

The dividing line would be the present diversion dam built by the trout-processing company that has developed the lower canyon.

Court said key to tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox said today that he was confident President Nixon would surrender White House tape recordings on his Watergate conversations if the Supreme Court ultimately orders him to do so.

Cox said he could not envision any circumstance in which the high court would not make a definitive judgment in the case if called on to do so.

Our history has been one of our Presidents complying with constitutional decisions of the courts," Cox said. "I don't assume this President will do anything different than his predecessors."

Cox told a news conference that a Supreme Court decision on what Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., Senate Watergate Committee vice chairman, calls "a historic conflict" would be the quickest way to resolve the matter.

Stop-war ruling delayed

NEW YORK (UPI) — A three-judge federal Court of Appeals panel today granted a stay of a lower court ruling that ordered U.S. Military operations in Cambodia halted at 4 p.m.

The action came five hours before the lower court ruling ordered bombing and military actions stopped in Cambodia.

The panel, after deliberating 10 minutes, set a hearing for Aug. 13 in Manhattan Federal Court.

On Wednesday, Brooklyn Federal Court Judge Orrin Judd declared U.S. military operations in Cambodia unconstitutional and unlawful.

Judd also issued a permanent injunction against the Defense Department and the Air Force, barring them from any military activities — including bombing — in that Southeast Asian country. The injunction was to have gone into effect at 4 p.m. today.

Judge Wilfred Feinberg said today the federal government's arguments met the traditional test for granting a stay.

He said that if either side wants to further accelerate the matter, they can present motions next week.

The hearing date of Aug. 13 falls just two days before the administration said it would halt all bombing in Cambodia.

Burt Neuborne, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, said he would fly to Washington today to ask the Supreme Court to vacate the stay order.

The original suit was filed by Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., and four Air Force officers.

Valley bank deposits rise rapidly

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Bank deposits in the Magic Valley are soaring.

By the end of 1972 deposits averaged about $2,300 for every man, woman and child in the Valley.

Deposits in all eight Valley counties have increased by more than 163 per cent since 1960 and by more than 58 per cent in the past four years.

Blaine and Cassia counties have shown the most deposit growth during the 12-year period.

At the same time, Twin Falls County banks' share of the eight-county deposits has declined by about 6 per cent, to about two-fifths of the total.

Deposit figures for Magic Valley and Twin Falls were related to the Times-News last week by the Idaho Department of Finance as part of a report submitted to the finance commissioner by Idaho Bank and Trust, Pocatello, in support of its application for a Twin Falls bank charter.

The statistics, compiled by University of Utah professor of marketing, D. Milton P. Matthews, show total bank deposits for Magic Valley reaching $237 million as of year-end 1972, up from $90 million in 1960 and $149.3 million in 1968.

Per capita deposits in Magic Valley in 1972 were about $2,300, up from $478 in 1960, an increase of 162 per cent — far outstripping income growth and inflation during the period.

Twin Falls County showed a 132 per cent rise in bank deposits from 1960 to 1972 and a gain of 52.6 per cent from 1968 to 1972.

Twin Falls County deposits totaled $98 million at the end of 1972. In 1960 they totaled $42.2 million, and in 1968 $63.8 million.

Twin Falls County banks share of total Magic Valley deposits in 1972 was 41.4 per cent a decline from 42.8 per cent in 1968, and 47 per cent in 1960.

Still, Twin Falls banks' percentage of the Magic Valley total was by far the largest, with Cassia County showing the second highest percentage of 20.3 per cent in 1972, up from 17.5 per cent in 1960 and 18.9 per cent in 1968.

Blaine County led all Magic Valley in per cent of deposit growth from 1960 to 1972 with a gain of 321.6 per cent. From 1968 to 1972, Blaine County deposits increased by 79 per cent, also a leading figure.

Blaine County deposits in 1960 were $4.2 million, in 1968 they totaled $9.8 million and in 1972 they reached $17.7 million.

Cassia County showed the second largest growth with 205 per cent over the 12-year span and 70.8 per cent from 1968 to 1972. This was on deposits of $15.7 million in 1960; $28.1 million in 1968, and $48.1 million in 1972.

Lincoln County showed the least increase from 1960 to 1972 with a gain of only 59.6 per cent. All other Magic Valley counties, except Camas County which has no banks, showed gains of more than 100 per cent. In fact, all Magic Valley counties other than Lincoln and Camas outdistanced Twin Falls County's 132 per cent increase.

The Magic Valley increase in deposits since 1960 of 163.5 per cent compared to a statewide gain during the same period of 159.3 per cent. From 1960 to 1972 statewide deposits increased from $617 million to $1.6 billion.

The Matthews report gave no indication of what was behind the rapid rise in bank deposits during the 12 years. Nor were interim figures from 1968 to 1972 provided.

Population gains, except perhaps in Blaine County, which showed a population increase of 25 per cent from 1960 to 1970, were extremely minimal and could not have had much effect on the increase in deposits.

Magic Valley as a whole was stabilized during the 1960's with only a very slight gain in population of .16 per cent. Twin Falls County actually showed a population decrease of 35 persons, or .09 per cent.

The effect of inflation was more significant, although strictly comparable figures were not obtained. From 1967, which is used as a base year by the Bureau of Labor, to mid-1972, nationwide inflation as measured by the consumer price index showed a gain of 25 per cent.

There was no indication in the Matthews report how much deposit increases were affected by increased farm product and meat prices, nor was there any breakdown to show deposits by governmental units.

How much the deposit growth reflected the actual influx of money and how much it represented the creation of money by the banks through loans could not be determined.

Skylab II launch readied

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — With the countdown for a Saturday blastoff rolling along "right on schedule," the Skylab astronauts took a day off today before setting out on an endurance test which will more than double man's research into the challenge of living in space.

The nation's second Skylab team is scheduled for launch at 5:11 a.m. MDT Saturday on a mission that will keep them aboard the $92 million orbiting space station a record 59 days.

Americans number 210 million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Census Bureau estimates the US population was about 210,284,000 on June 1, up 127,000 from the previous month.

The increase resulted from a natural gain-excess of births over deaths of 97,000 plus an estimated net immigration of 30,000 the Census Bureau said Thursday.

The June 1 population figure was about 1.6 million, or 0.8 per cent, greater than a year earlier.

Economic index marches upward

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's index of leading economic indicators surged ahead in June, indicating that the current economic boom still has a healthy head of steam.

The index, which has never failed to turn down before a slowdown in the overall economy, dropped suddenly in April, causing many observers to speculate that the two-year economic expansion was beginning to wane.

But the index has now resumed its upward march, posting strong 2.1 per cent gains in May and 1.9 per cent last month.

Inflation, rather than genuine economic strength, may be behind much of the June rise since industrial materials prices, which have risen fast in the past two months, made the strongest increase of any of the eight indicators now available for June.

The three other indicators rising last month were: contracts and orders for plant and equipment, building permits and the price-labor cost ratio.

The indicators decreasing in June were: new durable goods orders, the length of the average workweek and stock prices. Initial claims for unemployment insurance rose and that is considered an unfavorable sign for the index.

The June index will be revised later this month when four other indicators become available.

The index now stands at 166.6, compared to 163.5 in May and 113.7 in November, 1970, at the start of the current expansion.

Senate Armed Services panel approves CIA head

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After several weeks of close questioning, the Senate Armed Services Committee has approved the nomination of William E. Colby to be director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

The committee made the decision in a voice vote Thursday and sent the nomination to the full Senate.

Colby, 53, a native of St. Paul, Minn., is a veteran government intelligence official who played key roles in implementing American policy in Vietnam.

Although the committee hearings were held in private, it was reported Colby was interrogated extensively about the investigation of CIA involvement in the Watergate affair and his direction of the controversial "Phoenix" program in Vietnam.

The Phoenix program involved U.S. support for the drive to rid South Vietnam's countryside of National Liberation Front (NLF) cadres and their supporters through political conversion or assassination.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., questioned Colby for nearly four hours Wednesday. Afterwards, Kennedy said he wanted assurances that "this type of program will never be repeated by an agency of the United States—particularly the CIA."

30 for Editor W.L. White

EMPORIA, Kan. (UPI) — William L. White, editor and publisher of the Emporia Gazette, who was known for his work as a war correspondent and author, died Thursday. He was 73.

White, who was the editor of Reader's Digest for 30 years, was the son of William Allen White and like his father, was a prolific and outspoken writer.

Alf Landon, the 1936 GOP presidential nominee, called him a "great editor whose work was always indicative of the political moods and needs of Kansas. He was a distinguished man and journalist, just like his father was."

Gov. Robert B. Docking, a Democrat, said White, who was active in Republican politics in Kansas and served in the state legislature two years, "was a dear and trusted friend to whom I turned often for advice. Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., said White was "an individual of unique compassion, perception and human kindness, who will be sincerely missed by individuals from every walk of life."

White had been under treatment for cancer at various times for more than a year. Funeral arrangements were pending.

White was still connected with Reader's Digest at his death. He was a war correspondent in both European and Pacific theaters in World War II. The National Headlines Club said White's 1939 broadcast from the Mannerheim Line in Finland for CBS was the best broadcast from Europe that year.

His books included "They Were Expendable," "Queens Die Proudly," and "Journey for Margaret."

Body found

BOISE (UPI) — Boise police and Ada County sheriff's deputies today discovered the dismembered body of a woman floating in a stream east of Boise near Morris Creek Bridge. Boise Police Sergeant Vern Bisterfeldt said officers discovered the body at 3 a.m. after a man came to the Boise Police Station and said he had killed a woman.

Officers then went to the location described by the man and found parts of the body.

Bisterfeldt said a suspect was in custody but his identity would not be released until later. He said the body had not been identified.

Export subsidy killed by House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has dealt a thumping 240 to 137 setback to a vast new program supported by the administration to subsidize U.S. exports to the developing world. The provision, which called for 3 per cent, 30-year loans to poor countries to enable them to buy U.S. products, went down to defeat Thursday night before the House grudgingly approved a $2.8 billion foreign aid authorization bill.

The Export Development Fund still remains in a foreign aid measure pending in the Senate, but the chances of its becoming law are dim.

The program, patterned after the U.S. Export-Import bank that makes loans overseas to promote U.S. products in the developed world, had been designed to permit U.S. products to compete in the poorer countries, now dominated by subsidized exports from Japan and Europe.

Rep. Otto Passman, I-La., who led the fight to kill the provision, charged it would add $5 billion over the next five years to the budget. He and other critics claimed the measure would only add to the growing indebtedness of the developing world.

Final passage of the aid bill was by a razor-thin 188 to 183 margin. It was so close that Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., who seldom votes, began fishing in his wallet for the card that enables members to register their ballots in the electronic scoreboard. But aid supporters pulled ahead in the final seconds and Albert put the card away.

Before passage, members sliced $83 million from the bill's section for aid to Indochina, but this still left $549 million—nearly a quarter of the bill's total—for the economic, human and structural needs of South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia after a decade of American involvement in the war. The measure prohibits aid to North Vietnam unless Congress later approves it.

Zoo celebrates 'It's a boy'

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Zoo officials here are so excited that the bald eagle is "probably" a male they passed out "It's a boy" cigars Thursday and set the wailing time for 10 o'clock this morning.

The nameless bald eagle of undetermined sex was shipped here 10 days ago from Chicago's Brookfield Zoo to mate with Cincinnati's Betsy Ross. However, officials couldn't tell whether the bald eagle was a male because the two sexes are barely distinguishable.

But chromosome tests performed at Children's hospital here last week show, the Brookfield Baldy has 10-1 odds this morning when he meets Betsy.

Only four bald eagles have been bred in captivity since 1900.

Water solved

HAWKINS, Tex. (UPI) — The Moody Foundation of Galveston and the Hoblitzel Foundation of Dallas each donated $50,000 to drill an adequate water well for Jarvis Christian College. Dr. John Paul Jones, Jarvis president, said the college has had a water problem throughout its 61-year history.

What funeral benefits are available to the survivors of a deceased worker who qualifies under Social Security?

Answer...

A lump sum death payment based upon the Social Security record of a worker who dies either fully or currently insured may be payable to his survivors. This may be as much as three times the worker's primary insurance amount but no more than $255. The lump sum may be paid in addition to any monthly survivors insurance benefits that are due.

If there is no eligible surviving spouse the lump sum benefit may be paid to the person who paid the funeral expenses, or it may be assigned to us as a credit toward funeral expenses.

Minidoka ranches toured

RUPERT — The ranches of three area grassmen were toured by judges and area residents Thursday to choose the Minidoka County Grassman of the Year.

About 15 people visited the ranches of Jerry Arthur, Clark Higley and Ed Miller. The tour began at 9:00 a.m. and ended about 3:00 p.m.

The group met with the Rupert Chamber of Commerce for lunch where the candidates and members of the group were introduced.

Judges for the contest are Carl Agenbroad, Boise, field man for Idaho First National Bank; Boyd Baxter, Boise, public relations man for First Security Bank and Wendell Cole, Burley, Cassia County extension agent.

Each of the ranchers is judged on development and use of land and overall ranching operations.

The man chosen as Minidoka County Grassman of the year will go on to compete for designation as top grassman of this district which includes Minidoka, Cassia, Twin Falls, Blaine, Lincoln and Camas counties.

Lloyd Patterson, chairman of the Minidoka Grassmen Committee, said the decision will be announced next week.

Shoshone watering system in force

SHOSHONE — Shoshone Mayor Ellwood Werry has issued notice that the alternate day irrigation system is still in force within the city limits.

He also warns that, with an average of 1,000,500 gallons of water being pumped by the city system each day, the rules must be obeyed in order to keep pressure for residential sprinkling of lawns.

The Mayor said citizens are breaking the rules and considerable trouble has been experienced with the pumping system recently.

Irrigation hours are from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. for houses that face north and west which irrigate only on odd days of the month, while those facing south and east are to irrigate only on even days of the month during the same hours.

Openings in sprinklers must not be over one-fourth inch in diameter and watering from an open hose is not permitted. Disregarding the rules will result in a fine and discontinuance of water service until the fine is paid, according to Werry.

Probe asked on shortage

BOISE (UPI) — An Idaho consumer's organization has asked Attorney General W. Anthony Park to investigate causes of the Idaho gasoline shortage.

In a letter to Park, Allen Derr, president of Idaho Consumer Affairs, Inc., expressed concern over the uncertainty created by shortages in Idaho.

"I have been contacted myself by many Idaho people uncertain about the causes, the solutions and the future results of the gasoline shortages," Derr said. "Because of this growing concern among the average Idaho consumers, I am asking your department to launch an investigation into the shortages in Idaho."

Idaho Consumer Affairs was incorporated early this year to develop a statewide consumer organization for the average citizen.

The group's membership is open to the public with education and representation of the consumer as the primary aim.

Named to boards

BOISE — Four Magic Valley residents have been appointed to state boards by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

John H. Giese, Gooding, was appointed Thursday to a five year term on the Public Livestock Market Board, succeeding William Wiseman, Twin Falls.

Harold T. Brown, Filer, was named to replace Tom Morrison, Gooding, on the Idaho Bean Commission.

Robert Coiner, Twin Falls, was named to a four year term on the bean commission, along with George Kellogg, Nampa.

Alma C. Clark, Burley, was appointed to a three year term on the Idaho Board of Tax Appeals.

more than last year during the first five months they have not been able to keep up with the demand, according to Everett.

Everett said everyone can help ease the gasoline shortage by driving slower, keeping cars properly tuned, cutting down on use of the air conditioner and reducing daily trips.

Class reunion slated

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone graduating class of 1968 is planning a reunion Saturday at the Shoshone city park.

A potluck dinner will be held at 4 p.m.

Committee members in charge are Mrs. Doris Sommers, Twin Falls, and George Arrossa, Shoshone.

L. J. Abner, the comic strip, has an estimated following of 25 million readers, is syndicated in 43 countries and is translated into 13 languages.

TWIN FALLS — Another in the series of summer puppet shows for pre-school children will be held Saturday at the Twin Falls Public Library.

Annie Laurie Burton, public relations coordinator for the library said the program will be held at 11 a.m. in the Storipup Cottage in the children's room of the library.

This week's performance will include a number of new and unusual puppets including

"Tobie, the wind up teddy bear," "Mr. Punch and Mr. Punch and Herr Doctor" and "Joke Time."

"Mr. Hands" will also be featured in some finger plays. Following the puppet show children will have time to color puppets and take home their own "sack" puppet.

REDFORD TO STAR — Robert Redford will star in "The Great Waldo Pepper" for producer-director George Roy Hill at Universal where the two currently are working together with Paul Newman in "The Sting."

Puppeteers this week will be Abbey Carpenter, Lance Carpenter and Ryan Thomas. No admission is charged.

The mackinaw, or lake trout, is the largest of the many kinds of trout in Utah's mountain lakes.

and on individual merits. Blanket approval is seldom justified. Twin Falls county commissioners have shown they respect this theory and they are to be commended for it.

So, as we said, we are slowing down in Idaho — industrially, that is — even before we really get going. We are looking toward the good life so many citizens of other states envy.

A majority of the people hereabouts subscribe to a change of pace, or at least maintaining the pace in which we are now caught up.

educationally deprived student. A strong case may be made that any five year old without at least the opportunity for kindergarten instruction is being disadvantaged.

No one is suggesting that five year olds be forced to attend the schools. Parental discretion is a wise option for the district to take.

But Staudaer has said he is going to ask the school board to approve a summer kindergarten program, as well as remedial programs in reading and mathematics and more classroom aides with Title I money.

What is unfair is for the bias of some to deprive children of an opportunity for an education at an admittedly young age.

Superintendent Staudaer will push hard for his proposals. He has taken the lead in recognizing that the arguments that existed last spring — lack of money and classroom space — may have disappeared.

About Fuel Saving

Want to know how to save 3 million gallons of fuel annually? Ask Hughes Airwest officials. They believe they have the answer.

Then, when this is all complete, the same computers will examine each of more than 100 possibilities and pick the optimum profile in which fuel can be saved without loss of time.

Officials at Joslin Field say there will be no need to change any time schedules to obtain the saving. It will result from more efficient use of the airplanes (jets) and facilities on hand.

In case you are getting a little behind, just look at it this way: same as keeping a steady speed in your car, not pumping the gas feed, not peeling off, not going faster and then slower and not racing the motor.

But jets gobble so much fuel that just a minor change in plan can mean a saving.

But, like we said, there will be no schedule change — so when you fly, be sure to get there on time or you will end up waving at something in the wild blue yonder — instead of being on it.

SIGNS OF TIMES

Mr. Spectator sees where the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission has filed suit against the Seattle Post Intelligencer (a Hearst publication) charging the paper with discrimination between the sexes and also discrimination as to race.

This suit was one of seven filed against employers and unions in recent days — bringing the total filed by EEOC under the Commission's enforcement powers to 123.

But the suit against the newspaper is interesting.

It is charged that the Seattle newspaper discriminates against men in denying lounges and rest periods. It discriminates against women in restricting hours of work and lifting of weight and in recruiting, hiring, assigning, training, promoting, transferring and in pregnancy leave policies.

But, really, that one about discrimination against men is really interesting. Do you people have a lounge and designated rest periods for your male employees?

The Showdown May Be Hastened

WASHINGTON — The showdown between the White House and special prosecutor Archibald Cox, a prospect particularly ominous even on President Nixon's bleak horizon, may be hastened by Monday's revelation of the Nixon tapes.

Even before the taping bombshell, backstage negotiations over Cox's request for White House papers threatened deep trouble for the President. Now that the prosecutor will also request the tapes and may well be refused them on Mr. Nixon's order, the possibility of a public break between the White House and Cox is enhanced. Such a rupture could be lethal in seeming to confirm a guilty Mr. Nixon hiding the truth.

To Mr. Nixon's worried advisers, the apparently accidental revelation of the presidential tapes has hardened Watergate politics from difficult to nearly impossible. With the President now determined to deny the tapes to the Senate Watergate committee, its Republican members privately ask: Why would Mr. Nixon write his July 6 letter denying all his papers to Congress if he possessed tape recordings of conversations with John W. Dean III that would exonerate him?

problems for Mr. Nixon's relations with the special prosecutor. Whereas the President denies documents to the Senate on grounds of constitutional separation of powers, Cox's prosecution is part of the executive branch. On what grounds, then, can the tapes be denied? "We can't have government lawyers rummaging around in presidential papers," a senior presidential aide told us lamely.

In fact, the underlying relationship between the White House and Cox exudes tension. Mr. Nixon agreed to a special Watergate, prosecutor only after irresistible congressional pressure. Nor was he pleased when his new Attorney General, Elliot Richardson, selected Cox — Democratic liberal, Harvard, Kennedyite.

The relationship went downhill from there. Presidential aides complained privately when lawyers first named to Cox's staff were liberal Democrats. Mr. Nixon boiled over when told of a published report, greatly exaggerated, that the prosecutor was studying the financing of the President's San Clemente estate.

But all the quibbling pales before this basic question: can Cox obtain documentary evidence he wants from the White House? The prosecutor's office erred originally in asking for material informally over the telephone. The material was not supplied. After that, Cox's lawyers were formal and precise in requesting specific papers (in contrast to the Ervin committee's shotgun approach).

The response was not a blunt refusal which might have triggered an embarrassing public break with the White House by Cox, but rather a leisurely stall. The stall, in turn, generated secret negotiations for release of the papers. Cox, trying to avoid a rupture with the White House, maintained a tight secrecy lid. But White House spokesman Gerald L. Warren revealed last week that talks were underway.

Adding new clarity to these talks was Monday's stunning revelation of the White House tapes — particularly recordings of conversations between the President and ousted counsel Dean. Cox is certain to call for the tapes. Moreover, if the tapes are not released, even Nixon advisers concede that an indicted Dean could claim in his defense that evidence proving his innocence was suppressed.

If the tapes are refused, presidential lieutenants believe Cox may resign, to the immense embarrassment of Mr. Nixon. Nixon men even now try to minimize the embarrassment by suggesting that Cox might be preparing for prospective failure to win Watergate convictions by a face-saving decision to quit. But prior to any resignation, Cox might make matters hot. Refusal of the tapes could be followed by Cox's going public with his confrontation and then going to court to secure the tapes. If that fails, Cox might, in fact resign. That would also undermine Atty. Gen. Richardson's continuation in office.

Such a sequence, far more than the confrontation between White House and Senate, would poison the President's efforts to prove his innocence. Whereas Mr. Nixon has courted trouble with the Ervin committee, he wants badly to avoid any public break with Cox.

Any such break would be prevented by dispatching the tapes to Cox, a transaction unclouded by constitutional questions. All the more reason, then, why a refusal to Cox would raise suspicions even among the President's loyal supporters that he truly does have a great deal to hide.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am enclosing a clipping which interests me greatly. I have asked several doctors about this method of detection of cancer by measuring the LDH, or lactic dehydrogenase, through urinalysis, but they all say they know nothing about it.

According to this article, this method is highly effective and simple. Are you familiar with this test? Is it possible that it is given but under another name?

J.M.A. Slow down, my friend! Your clipping is about the original report of this technique in the Journal of the American Medical Association. There is no reason why doctors in general should know any more about it than you do.

Granted, it sounds like a promising means of detecting cancer early in the bladder or kidneys, but according to your clipping the test has been used only in a limited number of cases.

And I'll quote from the clipping you sent: "Further study is necessary to determine if the LDH test can be used to differentiate between benign and malignant conditions, they said."

Some physicians, frankly, wish that articles on such research projects would not be printed until they have been adequately tested out and the procedure is ready for general use.

Personally I do not go along with that attitude, but I do feel that the public should bear some responsibility for distinguishing between techniques or treatments still in the research stage and those ready for general use.

Not every brilliant idea proves to be sound. I'm not saying that this LDH test won't be. I hope it will. But the fact is that sometimes false developments it pays to take time to study such things adequately. History is studded with examples. For a notable one, years ago cortisone was hailed as a miraculous "cure" for rheumatoid arthritis. It isn't.

Properly used, cortisone is very useful in some cases of arthritis, and in many other diseases, but those who used it before it had been sufficiently studied suffered a terrible letdown.

Methaqualone seemed to be a useful medication — which, in fact, it is. But it took a good deal of experience before we realized that the drug-poppers were using it, sometimes with fatal results.

Now special laws are being passed to control it. You simply dare not interpret every research announcement as indication that the subject of the research is ready for use.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Concerning the letter from the woman who has bunions: I was 53 when I finally had an operation to remove them. I went into the hospital Thursday afternoon, was operated on Friday and came home Sunday afternoon.

The pains afterwards were bad, but I knew they'd gradually diminish. I am now 77, and often wish I had done this years earlier. I missed many good times at the beach because I was ashamed of my feet, and my shoes had to be extra wide and long. — Mrs. L.B.

I feel sure that your letter will be of more help to that woman than anything I could say.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a terrible problem. My ears stick out. It's not that they are big, they just stick out. I am 13 and too young for plastic surgery.

I've tried elastic, tape, etc. Nothing worked. Please tell me how to fix them. — D.C.

I don't know of anything except plastic surgery that will change them — but who said you are too young for that?

Some youngsters have this surgery at the age of 5 or 6 — when they are old enough to know they have to leave the bandages alone until the incision is healed. Other surgeons want to wait until a youngster is about your age.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, including scores of pertinent questions and their answers, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for his booklet, "Make Menopause Easier," enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed (use zip code) envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Here it is July 27th, sports fans — football time, again...

Nixon, Ervin prepare to battle

SENATE Watergate Committee voted to take Nixon to court for refusing to release White House documents and tape recordings to the panel. Hands raised, top to bottom, are Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., chairman; Sen Howard Baker, R-Tenn.; Sen Edward Gurney, R-Fla., and Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn. (UPI)

Appeal voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The battle lines are now drawn.

President Nixon and Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. are squared off in a contest that could influence for years to come the relative strength of the Congress and the Presidency in the system of shared political power under which our country operates.

Both men apparently believe that judgment in the case will be rendered not in the courts but by a jury of public opinion.

Lawyers for the Senate Watergate Committee appeared at the Executive Office Building next door to the White House Monday and in a "very friendly" half-hour session with Leonard Garment, Nixon's chief counsel, served subpoenas ordering the President to produce documents and tapes of his conversations concerning the Watergate case.

The procedure was a formality. Nixon already has said he will not comply on grounds that this would set an unacceptable precedent of Presidential accountability to the Congress which would make it difficult for all future Presidents to operate.

And the Senate appears unlikely to take the case to court, leaving that chore to Archibald Cox, the special Watergate prosecutor investigating criminal aspects of the case, who also was denied access to the documents.

The Senate already has a forum for presenting its case.

Tales of illegal political intrigue, efforts to corrupt the democratic process, attempts to subvert independent government agencies and other misuses of presidential power have been flowing into millions of homes for several weeks now.

Nixon's task in the battle is not only to convince the public he is personally innocent of complicity in the wrong-doing.

— Emphasize that the committee's inquiry and the attendant publicity will make it virtually impossible for justice to be done in the criminal prosecutions that will follow.

— Minimize the significance of the Watergate affair in terms of the problems and opportunities that face the nation and need a strong executive to deal with.

White House officials no longer keep up the fiction that business is proceeding normally in the Oval Office. They privately concede that the President's staff is disheartened and work has come virtually to a standstill.

There is no incentive in any of the three branches for this situation to continue.

Analysis

The Watergate already has shifted the balance of power sharply toward the Congress. Nixon was said by his aides to be dedicated now to halting the swing.

They described him as angry at what he considers the excesses of the Ervin committee and poised to counterattack. His plan goes something like this:

— Discredit the Senate committee for going beyond legitimate legislative inquiry and engaging in character assassinations and political witchhunts.

Nixon makes two appointments

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Thursday appointed Russell E. Train to serve as administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency and named his predecessor, William D. Ruckelshaus, to be deputy attorney general.

In the dual announcement, Nixon said that Train, 53, first chairman of the Council of Environmental Quality, would assume the duties as head of EPA from Robert E. Fri, who has been acting administrator for the past two months.

Ruckelshaus, 41, resigned as head of EPA to become acting head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation on a temporary basis when L. Patrick Gray III was compelled to resign because of Watergate disclosures. Ruckelshaus will succeed Joseph T. Sneed, who was nominated Wednesday to be a federal appeals court judge.

Jefferson demand set no precedent

By WARREN WEAVER JR.
(c) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Thomas Jefferson, the only President other than Richard M. Nixon to be served with a subpoena, refused to make the court appearance that the legal paper ordered, but his refusal was never challenged in court.

The apparent reason was that Jefferson tried to cooperate with the court in every other way.

He said he was too busy to travel from Washington to Richmond to testify but he produced the documents the court was seeking and volunteered to be examined in Washington.

Since no one tried to compel Jefferson to appear in the Richmond court, in the way the Senate Watergate Committee and the special prosecutor, Archibald Cox, are trying to compel President Nixon to produce the White House tapes, the incident in 1807 established no legal precedent for the events of 1973.

What the incident did produce was an opinion by Chief Justice John Marshall, sitting as a trial judge rather than on the Supreme Court, holding that the President was subject to subpoena, just like any other citizen.

The occasion was the treason trial of Aaron Burr, who had attempted to organize an armed invasion of Mexico. The prosecution needed a letter that James Wilkinson, one of the conspirators, had written to President Jefferson, informing him of the plot.

Government attorneys asked Marshall, who was presiding over the trial, as Supreme Court justices often did in those days, to issue a subpoena compelling the President to appear and bring with him the Wilkinson letter. After some deliberation, the chief justice complied.

"The first magistrate of the union," Marshall wrote in granting the motion for a subpoena, "may more properly be likened to the first magistrate of a state (than to a king) . . . and it is not known ever to have been doubted but that the chief magistrate of state might be served with a subpoena."

"If in any court of the United States, it has ever been decided that a subpoena cannot issue to the President, that decision is unknown to this court."

"If upon any principle, the president could be construed to stand exempt from the general provisions of the constitution, it would be because his duties as chief magistrate demand his whole time for national objects."

"But it is apparent that this demand is not unremitting, and, if it should exist at the time when his attendance on a court is required, it ... would rather constitute a reason for not obeying the process of the court than a reason against its being issued."

In declining to honor the subpoena personally, Jefferson wrote the Burr prosecutor that compliance with such court orders "would leave the nation without an executive branch," which the Constitution had never intended "be withdrawn from its station by any coordinate authority."

Following the Marshall rationale, John Henry Wigmore, in his classic legal text on evidence, declares there is "no reason at all" why a President should enjoy a special privilege not to be a witness in civil or criminal trials.

"The general principle of testimonial duty to disclose knowledge needed in judicial investigations is of universal force," the 1961 edition of Wigmore states. "It does not suffer an exemption which would apply irrespective of the nature of the person's knowledge and would rest wholly on the nature of the person's occupation."

Another President who refused to honor a request for information, but not a subpoena, was Andrew Jackson. In 1835 he declined to give the Senate information on his surveyor general, Gideon Fitz, who had already been dismissed, in connection with hearings on his successor.

Jackson contended that Congressional investigators had no right to information about employees of the executive branch even when they had been charged with wrongdoing.

The term "executive privilege" for this general theory was not used until the Eisenhower administration.

Although the Supreme Court has never ruled on the right of a President to reject a subpoena, the majority in a 1972 decision had some relevant statements about the general responsibility of witnesses to testify.

"Citizens generally," the court observed, "are not constitutionally immune from grand jury subpoenas; and neither the first amendment nor other constitutional provision protects the average citizen from disclosing to a grand jury information that he had received in confidence."

Subscribing to this view, in a case that denied reporters any right to refuse to identify sources of information, were all four of President Nixon's appointees to the court: Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Associate Justices Harry A. Blackmun, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist, plus Associate Justice Byron R. White, appointee of John F. Kennedy.

Budget deficit $14.4 million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration said Thursday the government posted a $14.4 billion budget deficit in fiscal 1973 — the fourth consecutive year of red-ink spending. President Nixon said he hoped for a balanced budget in the current fiscal year.

P. Shultz said the government took in $7.2 billion more and spent $3.2 billion less than estimated in January, 1972, when the fiscal 1973 budget was released.

This resulted in receipts of $232.2 billion and outlays of $246.6 billion, leaving a deficit of $14.4 billion.

The figures were contained in the Treasury's budget report for June, the final month of the fiscal 1973 period.

Only in one year since 1961 has the federal government taken in more money than it's spent. That was in 1960, when it reported a $3.2 billion surplus.

British share $ drop

LONDON (UPI) — Suddenly two currencies are in trouble. The dollar generally declined Thursday in dealings around the world but its troubles were more than shared by the British pound.

The pound took a severe beating on European money markets, dropping below the $2.50 level in London for the first time since May 7. It was worth $2.4845 on Thursday, down 5 1/2 cents since Monday, and touched new lows against most other European currencies.

The pound has declined along with the dollar in recent weeks. But so far in dealings this week it has fallen in price against the dollar as well as other currencies.

The main reason for the woes of the pound, money men said, were reports that Britain's balance of payments deficit was growing. This has reduced confidence in the pound even more than in the dollar in the past few days.

On the key Frankfurt exchange, the dollar closed fractionally down Thursday at 2.2850 marks with the help of the West German government bank, which reportedly purchased about $11.6 million to help prop up the greenback.

Governors of government banks agreed earlier at a meeting in Switzerland to buy dollars whenever necessary to support the currency. The United States said later that it also was intervening to support the dollar.

The dollar also dropped fractionally in Zurich to 2.7895 Swiss francs and in Brussels to 35.66 Belgian francs. It was unchanged in Paris, selling at 4.05 French francs to tourists.

Herbert Stein, the chairman of President Nixon's council of economic advisers, said Thursday in a British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) discussion of the currency situation that the United States still thinks the dollar is worth more than its price on world exchanges.

"Furthermore," he said, "we expect that there will be a rebound of the dollar at some point."

At the same time the dollar and pound were sliding, gold prices in the major London bullion market rose by 75 cents to $119.50 an ounce, nearly three times the official price of $42.22 an ounce that Washington set after its February dollar devaluation.

Gold was unchanged at $119.50 an ounce in Zurich, up 73 cents to $119.87 in Frankfurt and up $1.23 to $23.95 in Paris.

Marcos favored

MANTUA (UPI) — Millions of Filipinos cast ballots in a national referendum today on whether they want President Ferdinand E. Marcos and his martial law regime to rule indefinitely. A favorable vote was almost certain.

The voter turnout was so heavy that Marcos extended the voting by one day to enable all of an estimated 18 to 20 million persons to cast ballots.

Reports said balloting was orderly despite block-long lines of voters at some polling places.

Officials made voting compulsory, subject to exemptions only for "justifiable reasons," and allowed persons aged 15 years and older as well as illiterates to vote. Marcos decreed possible one to six month prison terms for voters failing to cast ballots.

The voting was secret and was simple — a single question requiring yes or no replies on whether Marcos should continue in office beyond Dec. 31, the date his term would normally expire.

With political opposition all but muted since Marcos proclaimed martial law last Sept. 21 and with Marcos pressing ahead with a series of reforms under a so-called "New Society" program, there appeared little doubt he would win the referendum.

Trade at the stockyards has slowed dramatically with farmers holding back their cattle until Sept. 12, when the price of beef will become unfrozen under Phase Four plans. (UPI)

Freeze remains despite pleas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration says the meat industry is presenting exaggerated reports of dire consequences of the current freeze on beef prices, and that the freeze will remain in effect until Sept. 12 as scheduled.

"The plea for the President to remove the ceiling on beef is not one which will be granted at this time," John Dunlop, director of the administration's Cost of Living Council, said Thursday.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, also said the beef freeze will stay.

"There is a natural tendency to whump up the appearance of a crisis," said Stein.

Seventeen congressmen from cattle states met with Dunlop Thursday to present their view that there is a looming beef crisis. Dunlop disputed much of their information.

One point made by the congressmen was that the continued freeze of beef prices is causing cattlemen to withhold animals from market. "In a week to 10 days from now we are not going to have beef in the markets," said Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb.

Wage hike nears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress has moved closer toward final passage of legislation raising the $1.60 hourly minimum wage to $2.20 and extending coverage to an estimated 7 million additional workers.

A House-Senate conference committee approved the legislation Thursday, sending it back to the floors of the House and Senate for a vote.

The compromise bill was drafted under the threat of a veto by President Nixon on grounds that 37.5 per cent increase in the minimum wage in one year would be inflationary. The increase would take effect next July 1.

Republicans have protested the bill's lack of a so-called "youth wage differential." This provision would have exempted persons under age 18 from the minimum wage law.

Brought under wage law coverage for the first time would be nearly 5 million federal, state and local government workers and more than one million household domestics.

Farm workers for the first time would be guaranteed a minimum wage equal to the higher traditional minimum for other employees. There presently is a $1.30 minimum wage law exemption for companies that gross $250,000 or less a year. The phase-out would take three years, with the exemption finally being repealed by July 1, 1976.

The bill would modify the present law's provision that full-time students working 20 or fewer hours a week can be paid less than the minimum wage if the employer certifies that no adult was displaced by the youth.

Exempted from the domestic provision would be maids and butlers who reside at their place of employment, as well as baby sitters.

Flying pattern accident kills 3

LAKEHURST, N.J. (UPI) — The wing tip of one Blue Angel supersonic jet brushed the side of another during a flying pattern Thursday evening, and both planes spun to the ground. Three fliers were killed and one injured.

The accident, near Beckersville, N.J., occurred just four miles from the site of the 1937 fire that destroyed the Hindenburg zeppelin, apparently was the worst in the 27-year history of the famous Navy precision flying team.

Those killed were identified as Marine Capt. Mike Murphy, 29, of San Antonio, Tex.; PO 1C Ronald Thomas, 30, of Pomeroy, Okla.; and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Ship Unstead, 30, of Detroit.

The injured flier, PO 1C

Gen. Harvey, 37, of Sweeney, Tex., was found in scrub pine barrens, four miles south of here. He suffered fractures and bruises and was airlifted to a military hospital.

The two other planes landed safely.

Navy spokesman Nick Grand said four of the Blue Angels' F4J phantom jets were in a diamond pattern, flying at between 300 and 400 miles an hour at 1,000 feet.

As the jets began a slow roll with the wing tips of the lead plane three feet from the cockpits of two others, the back plane pulled away for maneuvers, said Grand. The wing tip of the lead plane apparently struck one of the other jets on the side, he said.

Anti-smog program criticized

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The first use of a federal anti-smog "shutdown plan" had no visible effect Thursday apart from providing a holiday for some federal workers. Winds from the ocean dissipated the smog anyway.

City and county governments criticized the plan, and the county protested to President Nixon.

The expected siege of heavy smog failed to materialize after an overnight change in meteorological conditions, but the first stage of the federal Emergency Air Episode plan had already been put into effect the day before.

Under the first stage all federal offices in a five-county area were requested by the Environmental Protection Agency to shut down for the day if possible, or revert to skeleton staffs for emergency functions and discourage use of private and official cars.

The decision was up to local agency chiefs. Most refused.

An estimated 25,000 federal employees took the day off, 21 per cent of the 118,000 federal workers in the area, which has a working population of about 3 million.

The California Highway Patrol said there was no noticeable reduction in auto traffic on the hundreds of miles of freeways that lace the affected area, which has a population of 10 million—almost all of whom rely in private autos for transportation.

Police said traffic appeared to be heavier than usual in some areas.

Chilean aide assassinated

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Terrorists wielding machine guns today assassinated Navy Capt. Arturo Araya, naval attaché to President Salvador Allende, as Araya stood in pajamas on the balcony of his suburban home, police reported.

Police said Araya was hit when he stepped onto the second-floor balcony to investigate after two small bombs exploded outside his home.

Police sources said several persons had been arrested.

A presidential spokesman said the body of Araya, 45, would lie in state at the presidential palace later in the day.

Araya's wife, Alicia, said at least 10 persons were in the group that riddled her husband's body with gunfire.

She told police they had returned around midnight from attending a 26th of July celebration at the Cuban Embassy. The date marks Fidel Castro's unsuccessful assault on the Moncada Barracks in 1953 which started the Cuban revolution.

The bombs exploded about an hour later, she said. Araya got out of bed and went out on the balcony window to investigate when the terrorists opened fire, she said.

Cambodian troops, US bombers hit Communists near Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian troops supported by intense, concentrated U.S. air strikes hammered insurgent positions Thursday near Phnom Penh in assaults the Cambodian high command said was meant to ease pressure on the capital.

The high command said 400 insurgent troops were killed in the fighting.

Field reports said the government operation involved two battalions of troops and 25 armored personnel carriers and was concentrated at positions about 12 miles south of Phnom Penh near Highway 3.

Before the government forces struck, the reports said, American and Cambodian bombers laced Communist positions with heavy air strikes.

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The command said the most violent fighting took place south of the suburb of Takhmau, where insurgents recently have inched closer to the capital. Fighting and U.S. bombing was seen and heard in the area near Highway 2, six miles from Phnom Penh.

The Australian embassy evacuated the last of its dependents Thursday and there were reports Malaysia might also remove the wives and children of its staff.

The U.S. embassy officials said, has advised Americans to leave the country because of the deteriorating military situation around Phnom Penh.

Diplomatic sources said the chief reason for the evacuation was the closeness of insurgents to the city's airport. Insurgents are within two to five miles of the airport, the sources said, and if they close the airport, it blocks the last escape route for most foreigners.

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops attempting to re-occupy a district town 30 miles northeast of Saigon fought government troops Thursday in the bloodiest battle since the South Vietnam cease-fire came into force Jan. 28.

It also was the heaviest fighting in the Saigon area since last October.

The South Vietnamese command said 89 Communists and 15 government soldiers died in the 8-1/2-hour battle northeast of Saigon near the district town of Phu Giao. Another 19 government troops were wounded.

The heaviest casualties previously recorded in a single clash occurred June 3 near Cai Lay, 46 miles southwest of Saigon in the Mekong Delta, when military spokesman reported 59 Communists and 26 government soldiers slain.

Military sources said government F5 fighter planes hit Communist positions in the fighting Thursday with at least a battalion of Communist regulars and one regiment of South Vietnam soldiers involved in the fighting.

The sources said the communists were attempting to reestablish a traditional infiltration route from Cambodia and re-occupy War Zone D, a major Viet Cong sanctuary area in Long Khanh and Phuoc Long provinces northeast of Saigon. Phu Giao lies along the border of Phuoc Long province.

Col. Le Trung Hien, spokesman for the South Vietnam command, also reported 119 truce violations in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today, the highest total in one day since June 16, when there were 129.

Classes scheduled at CSI

TWIN FALLS — The next adult basic education classes will begin at the College of Southern Idaho Sept. 10.

These classes are for general improvement in speaking English, English fundamentals, reading and rapid reading, math improvement through calculus, preparation for the G. E. D. test and receiving the high school equivalency diploma from the state.

Marvin Glasscock, CSI director of special education, said persons who have been out of school more than one year should start planning now if they do not have a high school diploma.

Sessions are daily from 8 a.m. to noon and on Tuesday and Thursday from 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. in Rooms 104 through 107. There is no cost and age is not a factor. Glasscock said there have been students from ages 16 to 78.

Further information may be obtained by calling Glasscock at CSI, 733-9554, extension 221.

Heads drive

BOISE — Wordell Rainey, Hailey, will head the 1974 Heart Fund Campaign in Blaine County, according to Dr. Burton Stein, president of the Idaho Heart Association.

The campaign will be conducted throughout the country during February, which has been declared American Heart Month by an Act of Congress.

Rainey has started his tenure as county chairman by organizing a recent blood pressure screening clinic in Hailey and Sun Valley.

Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will print this letter to my secretary. There must be many other executives who have this problem and don't know how to handle it tactfully.

Take a letter, Mrs. Brown: You are an excellent secretary, but I wish you would leave your personal problems at home. I am not a marriage counselor or a financial adviser, and I haven't the time or energy to listen to problems concerning my children.

When you confide your personal problems to me, Mrs. Brown, altho I may appear interested and sympathetic, the truth is, I am very uncomfortable, and I resent using my time (and yours) on such matters.

I value your services and don't want to seem unfeeling or unkind, but I would like our relationship to be strictly impersonal and professional.

YOUR BOSS

Note to secretaries

DEAR BOSS: I don't know how many bosses share your view, but I'm sure many of their wives do. When a secretary starts crying on her boss's shoulder, she frequently ends up in his arms. The only way to discourage personal conversations (in the office and out) is to abort them at the onset.

DEAR ABBY: We are a one-car family, and because I want to use the car during the day, my husband is picked up every morning by Harry, a coworker. Harry also gives my husband a ride home every evening. (My husband pays him well for his trouble.)

A few months ago Harry and his wife separated, so Harry started coming a few minutes early to have "coffee" with my husband. Pretty soon Harry came a little earlier and had a "bite" of breakfast. Now he comes good and early and sits down to a full-course breakfast with us every morning.

Not only that, but after work Harry doesn't just drop my husband off, he comes in for a "drink." Then he sits around hinting that he has no plans for supper, so I have to ask him to stay. I am up to here with that guy. My husband doesn't want to insult Harry because he has to work with him, and I don't think it's my place to tell him off. What do you suggest?

HAD IT WITH HARRY

DEAR HAD IT: How about letting your husband take the car to work for a while? The inconvenience of being without wheels would be a picnic compared to putting up with Harry.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl and I've never seen a problem like mine in your column.

A friend of mine, I'll call her Susan, was raped four months ago and she is pregnant. (She's my age.) Well, my Mom heard about it thru the neighborhood grapevine and now she won't let me go over to Susan's house anymore. Susan doesn't want the baby, and she doesn't believe in abortion, so she is giving it up for adoption when it's born.

They never caught the rapist, and my Mom thinks the rape story is a big lie—that Susan's boy friend (I'll call him "Jeff") did it to her. I know Jeff pretty well, and I don't think he would do anything like that to Susan.

Anyway, I don't think it's fair that I am not allowed to go to Susan's house. She called me once and asked why I didn't come over anymore and I didn't know what to tell her.

What needs friends to comfort her right now. Susan's FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Well, one thing you can't do is to disobey your mother. Since she didn't tell you you couldn't write to Susan, why don't you send her theory cards and letters now and then? I agree, Susan does need friends right now.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HATES TO ARGUE BUT ALWAYS DOES IN HARTFORD: No one said it better than the late Justice Louis D. Brandeis when he said, "Behind every judgment is someone's ignorance." Just be sure it isn't yours.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it all your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 6780, L. A., Calif. 90008. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Legion groups meet in Salmon

SALMON — The 55th American Legion and 53rd Auxiliary, Department of Idaho, annual convention opened in Salmon Thursday and will run through Sunday.

The activities are expected to draw more than 500 persons.

Gov. Cecil Andrus spoke to a joint opening Friday at Pioneer School.

Joe L. Matthews, the Legion's national commander from Texas, and the Auxiliary's national president, Mrs. T. G. Chilton, Arizona, will attend.

Legion Department of Idaho officers, including Cmdr. Eugene V. Halstrom, Weiser, and Auxiliary Department officers, including President Mrs. Halstrom, are here for the sessions.

Separate meetings of the Legion's Forty et Eight and the Auxiliary's Eight et Forty, will be held.

Saturday, National Cmdr. Matthews will make his official visit and speak at a 7:30 p.m. dinner at Elks Hall.

The Auxiliary will hear an address Saturday at 10:30 a.m. by Mrs. Chilton.

Salmon Post and Auxiliary Unit 67 are hosting the convention.

Forrest Wheeler is local Post commander and Mrs. Jean Parke is Unit president. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pern are convention chairmen.

It isn't South's East produces the king. Since he holds up his ace of hearts until the third lead of the suit.

Then he leads a club toward dummy. If West plays low South finesesses dummy's 10 spot. East can't do anything better than to take his jack and lead a club, but South goes up with the ace and cashes enough tricks for his contract.

Suppose West forgets all about second hand low and goes up with the king. South can try all sorts of plays but even the best one will leave him one trick short.

If you learned bridge at your mother's knee, the chances are that she taught you to play set and hand law.

As devout family men, we believe in according mothers the greatest amount of respect possible, but we have to disagree vehemently with anyone who makes this rule an invariable one.

There are many occasions when second hand should play high. In particular when it won't do any good to play low.

South must play dummy's queen of hearts at trick one. The card can't do him any good.

Mennonite challenges his church

(c) New York Times Service
CARLISLE, Pa. — At 44 years of age, a prosperous, soft-spoken Mennonite farmer and father of six, Robert L. Bear seemed oddly cast as a heretic, excommunicated from his church and angrily challenging the faith of his fathers.

"I was brought up as a Reform Mennonite," he says, the model of raw-boned American gothic as he stands on a patch of the lush 300 acres he tilled until this year a few miles from the town of Carlisle in Pennsylvania's farm country. "But I have always been anxious to know the teachings of the church. But the church wanted darkness, not light."

As a result of his inquiries — which included public denunciations of church doctrine and its bishops and accusations that the church hierarchy had lied — Bear has been excommunicated from the church.

Moreover, for more than a year he has been officially "shunned" by the 70 or so members in three congregations in the Cumberland Valley, and, by church teaching, his soul placed in eternal jeopardy.

Most painful, however, is that his pretty 35-year-old wife, Gale, who continues in the faith and daily wears the traditional plain long blue gown and cap of the sect, will share neither his table nor his bed, and, by Bear's account will hardly speak to him.

His six children no longer have faith and trust in him, he has moved from his farmhouse to a sparse bachelor's trailer. Mot of the church, including his father and a younger brother, think he is unstable at best. Some think he is flirting with Satan at worst. And much of his farm lies idle because he has been unable to plant the bumper crop of potatoes he has brought forth every year for the last 20 years, earning up to $40,000 annually.

"They're doing this in the name of Christianity," said Bear, "but I will not knuckle under."

"The bishops and I are like two stags on a mountain. My wife is the doe standing at the top. A fight is inevitable."

The locking of horns between Bear and his church has already sounded the length of the verdant valley along the Conodoguinet Creek. Several local newspapers have reported the clash, and Bear, to the consternation of reclusive Mennonites, has hired a Harrisburg public relations firm to spread the story.

"We must lift the skirts of these plain clothes and give the world a peak underneath," says Bear. "Those plain garments had pride in the corruption of power."

The Reform Mennonites, similar to the Amish, who have related theology, wear the simple dress of "plain people."

Their teachings are based on a literal interpretation of the words of Jesus or the Apostles. They are nonresistant. They shun worldliness, will not sue in court, hold governmental office, vote or take up arms in war.

SCULPTOR Spero Anagyros, San Francisco, puts finishing touches on 12-foot-long figure of a reclining Christ ordered for the tomb of a wealthy family in Guam. Because the order was for a Christ without agony, he produced a reclining, powerfully muscled Christ, smiling heavenward as he first stirs in the tomb. (UPI)

Lutheran staff stages protest

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
ST. LOUIS — Dr. J. A. O. Preus' "Statement on Scriptural and Confessional Principles" is not "binding on our consciences," some 50 staff members at Concordia Theological Seminary have declared.

Dr. Richard Caemmerer, a senior faculty member, read the staff's "Declaration of Protest and Confession" at a protest rally on the campus after Tuesday's chapel service.

The rally was staged in response to actions taken this month in New Orleans by the convention of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, which accused Dr. John Tietjen, seminary president, and faculty members of teaching false doctrine.

In its statement, signed by a large majority of the school's teachers, the faculty said the convention, in adopting Preus' statement, "violated its own constitution as well as Lutheran principles in elevating tradition above scripture."

The faculty also challenged the right of the convention to use "coercive power" to establish "true doctrine."

"Like Martin Luther," the statement read, "we stand for an open Bible which we are free to read on its own terms limited only by our voluntary commitment to the Lutheran confessions."

"We accept no other doctrinal statement as binding on our consciences even though we may have to suffer for our stand."

Vatican aide no women's libber

(c) Chicago Daily News
The U. S. representative on the Vatican commission studying the role of women in the church is no women's libber.

Deborah Schellman, 20, of Atlanta, will go to Rome in the fall to help the Roman Catholic Church discover "what makes women happy or unhappy, their aspirations and frustrations."

But Debbie, a recent graduate of a Roman Catholic women's junior college in Arlington, Va., apparently will bring along few, if any, frustrations of her own.

The commission is to recommend to Pope Paul VI positions the church may take on ordination of women as priests and deacons. Debbie, the daughter of a retired U. S. Army general, said she has been doing "considerable reading" this summer to get ready for her role as adviser to the Pope.

She made the dean's list once at Marymount College, run by the religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary, but in her words was an "average student."

In campus politics, however, she was a winner, serving in her second year as president of the Marymount student body.

In this role, she tried to establish and publicize "proper channels" for student faculty-administration communication.

Grace Baptists set Bible time crusade

TWIN FALLS — The Neighborhood Bible Time crusade will conduct its graduation and awards rally at 8 p.m. today.

A special musical program will be included at the rally, to be held at Grace Baptist Church, 211 Fourth Ave. E., Twin Falls. Awards will be presented to honor students in each grade and the Bible drill grand champions will be selected according to Rev.

Robert Seaman, pastor. He said everyone is invited to "come and see the neighborhood kids perform."

Adults will receive a souvenir gift and nursery facilities will be available. The pastor also said regular transportation service will be extended to include the Friday night rally. Additional information may be obtained by calling 733-1457.

Choralaires set annual schedule

TWIN FALLS — Plans for a concert in Twin Falls and the annual tour have been announced for the Grace Baptist Choralaires.

The concert of sacred music will be presented at 11 a.m. Sunday at the Grace Baptist Church, Pastor Robert Seaman said. He is director of the group.

The concert is open to the public.

The annual tour is scheduled to begin Aug. 4, with the Choralaires singing in 18 churches in central and southern California. Programs featuring familiar hymns arranged for teen-aged voices are planned, along with a women's trio and instrumental numbers.

The Choralaires are a group of high school students who work as a gospel team the year around in rest homes, on the radio, at youth rallies, and in churches, Seaman said.

Church briefs

TWIN FALLS — The Christian Science lesson-sermon subject at 11 a.m. Sunday will be "Truth." Sunday school is at 9:45 a.m. and the Wednesday Services are at 8 p.m. Everyone is welcome at the church located at 160 Ninth Ave. E. Title of the 6:30 p.m. Monday radio program on KTFJ will be "Your home — a safety spot, not a hazard zone."

TWIN FALLS — The monthly night of prayer will be held at the First Church of the Nazarene from 8 p.m. until midnight Saturday. Anyone desiring to call in requests for prayer may do so by phoning 733-3679. Sunday night a musical program will be presented by various groups at the church. The public is invited to the family night event.

TWIN FALLS — Robert Daniel will be speaker at the drive-in church services at the Motor-Vu Drive-In Theater Sunday at 8 a.m. His topic will be "Through the Eyes of Isaiah." Mitzie Sweet will be pianist and special music will be provided by the First Christian Church youth group.

TWIN FALLS — The youth choir of the Nampa Calvary Assembly of God Church will be featured at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Twin Falls First Assembly of God Church at North Locust and Shoup Avenue East. The 25 young people will present a variety of contemporary songs and the public is invited.

Mormons build cultural center

(c) New York Times Service
LAIE, Hawaii — Over the last 10 years, the Mormon Church has constructed an extremely successful commercial enterprise based on the presence of Polynesian students at a Mormon college here.

Called the Polynesian Cultural Center, the experiment has become a multi-million-dollar revenue producer for the college and a tourist attraction that draws about 800,000 visitors a year.

For the admission price of $11.50, the tourists may walk through a string of huts where they receive short lectures on the culture of Polynesian people from Tahiti, Fiji, Tonga, Samoa, the Maori of New Zealand and the Old Hawaiians.

Admission includes a cafeteria-style dinner, including some Polynesian dishes and then a night show of Polynesian songs and dances. The silken light air of the tropics throbs with the quick pulse of the Tahitian hula drums or the muffled hoarse threats of the Maori war chants.

After two hours in the covered stands the program is over and the tourists move back to the buses for a 40 mile ride back to Honolulu.

But there is a lot more to it than all this.

The Sandwich Island Mission of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints first arrived in Honolulu in 1850. After some initial failures, the Mormons, former California gold miners concentrated on the Polynesians.

The islanders joined the church by the thousands, and succeeding Mormon missionaries have had outstanding success in the islands that dot the far corners of the Pacific.

The result has been the gradual creation of a major church installation on a tract the early missionaries acquired here in 1865. There are just 16 Mormon Temples around the world for the three million church members, and one of them is here.

Also, the Mormons operate a small liberal arts college — Church College of Hawaii — near the temple. It attracts young Mormons from across the Pacific who bring with them the culture of their home island. The church has found a way to sell that.

In 1963 it was decided by church leaders that a substantial stream from the growing flood of tourists to Hawaii — now more than two million a year — could be diverted to a properly run Polynesian show and village that would be staffed with students and their families from the church college.

"The church had the problem of helping these students from out of the way places to finance their college educations," said Stephen Bennett, a onetime Hollywood advertising agency operator who now is director of sales and marketing for the center.

"The church subsidized their passage here because how can a student who has $20 a year cash income on his island back home expect to pay air fare of hundreds of dollars?"

Reformers think church on wheels

(c) New York Times Service
GARDEN GROVE, Calif. — The Reformed Church in America, whose best known preacher is Dr. Norman Vincent Peale of Marble Collegiate Church in New York, is thinking positively about drive-in worship services these days.

In spite of national gasoline shortages and campaigns against noxious auto fumes, the Dutch-heritage denomination has chosen drive-in religion as its major vehicle for congregational growth in the 1970s.

A Reformed Church pastor, Dr. Robert Schuller, pioneered the first of his denomination's drive-in churches, Garden Grove Community Church, here in southern California in 1955 when he stood on the roof of the snack shop of a drive-in theater and preached to a congregation on wheels.

The Reformed Church now has 15 drive-in churches and several more are being planned. Most of them are in southern California and Florida where mild weather permits worshippers to park and pray all-year-round.

"The genius of these churches is not just that the people may sit in their cars," declared Harold Hakken, who heads church development for the church's western synod from his office in Anaheim. "Drive-in churches offer a total program, many of them more full-blown than the typical traditional church."

Drive-in churches are gaining members while most Protestant churches are posting membership declines. In the Reformed Church in America itself, national membership has fallen 7,500 within the last four years to 221,000. But in southern California and Arizona, where the denomination has 10 drive-in churches, total membership has gone up by more than 2,000.

Clover church plans installation rites

CLOVER — Richard Luttrell will be installed as director of Christian education at Clover Trinity Lutheran Church Sunday.

The rite of installation will be performed by Rev. T. D. Johnson, pastor of Clover Trinity Lutheran Church, at 8:30 p.m. He will be assisted by other Lutheran clergymen in Magic Valley.

Teacher Luttrell will serve as principal and teacher of the junior high grades at Clover School, and also will serve as minister of education for the Clover congregation.

Luttrell is a graduate of Concordia Teacher's College, Seward, Neb. He has received additional training at Cal State, Fullerton, Calif.; Idaho State University, Pocatello; Brigham Young University, and St. Louis Seminary, St. Louis, Mo. He served ten years as principal-teacher in Idaho Falls and five years as director of Christian education.

He was born in Oak Park, Ill., June 20, 1932, and moved to California with his family in 1948. He served in the Navy during the Korean conflict, and upon his honorable discharge, attended Long Beach State College. He and his wife have two children, David, 18, who was graduated from Conoordia High School, Portland, Ore., and Betty, 14, who will enter Filer High School this fall as a freshman.

TF child support big case load

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County is maintaining a $300,000-a-year business and not even making expenses.

County Clerk Harold Lancaster said today the child support business has become big business. It is a time consuming job for the clerks in his office and also represents a large accounting project, he said. State law requires the county clerk-auditor to collect child support payments and disburse them to the receiving party.

There are 877 child support cases on the county books currently, he said. Some of these cases may involve five or more children. The divorce rate is climbing steadily and has been for several years, he said. Nearly every divorce case involves at least one child, he added.

In the case of an unborn child at the time of the divorce, the county may be handling support payments every month for 18 years, depending on the circumstances, Lancaster said.

He said the state law, in effect the past several years, makes the county the collecting agency, unless otherwise directed by the court. These payments can only be accepted in cash, money order or certified check.

"If personal checks are accepted," Lancaster said, "the trust is set up to be paid and if the check is not good it comes out of my pocket."

He said he has even had one money order "bounce," apparently the issuing store or agency had closed after the order was issued and before it was processed.

Lancaster said the apparent inequity of the law, which is a good one as far as the collections and disbursements are concerned, is that counties get no reimbursement for the work load imposed on them.

He said the state organization of county clerks asked for help some time ago and a bill was proposed which would give the county, as a collecting agency, a small percentage of each collection.

"This bill did not pass and it would not have been workable," Lancaster said. "We believe an absolute minimum cost per case would be about $1 for issuing the warrants, collecting the money, making out the draft to the recipient and handling the accounting."

"I would like to see legislation passed which would require the person paying the child support to add a $1 fee for each transaction," Lancaster said.

The collection and disbursement of a $300,000 amount per year can require the addition of at least one clerk, he said, but no provision is made in the law for paying the cost of the program.

Lancaster said last year's total collections and disbursements were about $300,000, but the figure will be higher this year. The number of cases fluctuates from week to week but transactions range from $25,000 to $30,000 per month. The highest day on record this year was $6,000 collected and a $4,000 day is common, he said.

There are cases on record in Twin Falls County in which the father is paying $500 a month and there are some as low as $10. Some pay weekly or every two weeks. It takes the same amount of time to handle a $500 payment as a $10 payment, which Lancaster said leads to the logic of a flat fee per transaction.

Presently many of the mothers are giving power of attorney to the Department of Environmental and Community Services. In this way, if the checks are not received on time from the father, the welfare worker can make adjustments for the family needs.

A large number of the cases involve welfare families, Lancaster said. In the event of delinquent payments, the mother usually reports them to the prosecuting attorney where action is taken.

"Our office works closely with the prosecutor," Lancaster said, "and I believe the system works well to the advantage of the child, which is the important thing."

A new computer has been proposed for the auditor's office, which Lancaster said will handle much of the hand work now required of the clerk and accountant. The machine will record the payment and automatically issue the proper draft, eliminating several steps in the procedure.

"The machine is costly, (about $18,000) but it will eliminate the need for hiring additional help," Lancaster said.

Bakers' bat-tic crew drivin family up wall

By ROBERT JOHNSON Special to the Times-News
BAKER — Roger Solaas of Baker doesn't have a belfry but he has bats in his attic.

The Solaas family moved into the second floor rooms of their home to sleep and in doing so stored some belongings in the attic.

Mrs. Solaas said someone left the attic crawl hole open and the bat invasion began.

That was early on the morning of Saturday, July 21. As of Wednesday, July 25, Solaas has killed 27 bats and he's certain there are more of them lurking in the attic and roof.

Mrs. Solaas says she thinks the bats got into the attic through an old unused chimney and through a metal corrugated roof.

"We had never been bothered before," she related. "Friday night we went to the show and when we came home at 1 a.m. Shanda (their three-year-old daughter), said there were some birds in her bedroom."

"Roger took a look and they flew into our room and all over. We stayed up until 5 a.m.

chasing bats and killed six the first night. When we turned on the light they would land, hanging on the curtains, drapes, the beds, on the floor.

"They certainly have a built-in radar since they were so hard to catch. Roger was running around with a board and every half hour the kids would say there's another. One landed on his leg and I was scared to death because of the claws."

Mrs. Solaas said that the next day (Saturday) they found another in one of the children's bedrooms crawling on the floor.

Saturday night they went to a barbecue and came home at midnight with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sheppard and their son, Mike, 14. Solaas, his son, Wyatt, 11, Sheppard and his son, Mike, decided to enter the attic.

There, they killed 17 more bats.

Sunday morning, Shyanne Solaas, 10, awoke with a bat on her bed and Sunday night, Shannon Solaas, 7, found one flying around her bed that then flew into the bathroom.

Monday they found another one in the yard, bringing to 27 the number collected. Mrs. Solaas said she has been terrified by the experience but that she has tried to stay calm.

"They are not afraid. Shanda kept saying there goes another and seemed to enjoy the chase," Mrs. Solaas said.

"As for me, I spent two nights under the sheets. They kept darling so close."

Mrs. Solaas said they have tried putting mothballs in the attic but so far haven't gotten rid of any more. They're considering trying to smoke them out.

The Solaas family lives in a towering two-story building with an attic. It was once a stage coach stop and later a hotel, then a lodge, before they purchased the property and turned it into a family residence.

So far, no one has gotten bitten in the melee.

Soviets expand market

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union has signalled that the Communist version of the European Common Market is ready to do business with its richer Western rival.

Gaston Thorn, the foreign minister of Luxembourg, said Wednesday night after five hours of talks with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko that the Communist trade bloc Comecon, recognizes its western rival as a "reality" and has appointed a negotiator to work out closer links.

He said Kosygin and Gromyko told him Comecon wants to begin negotiations with the common market bloc.

Thorn said the Soviets told him the move to go ahead and actually appoint a negotiator was only taken at the Comecon annual session in Prague last month. Nikolai Fadeev, the Comecon secretary general, was picked to lead negotiations with the Brussels-based western bloc.

The ball is in your court.

Thorn said the Russians told him, "We are waiting for your reply."

As Thorn described the Soviet proposal, initial cooperation would center on monetary, fiscal and investment questions.

The Communist nations do millions of dollars of business annually with market countries. But dealings with the overall market itself have been taboo for years because East bloc propagandists considered it too closely linked with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Part of the apparent reason for the Communist shift was the expansion of the common market last Jan. 1 from six to nine members, wrecking Eastern hopes it might quietly disappear.

It also marked the initiation of a common commercial policy prohibiting any of the Common Market countries from dealing bilaterally with a Communist country.

This meant that within two years, the Soviets would have to discuss all trade agreements with the western groups through market organizations.

The Russians have also been anxious about the apparent intentions of China to recognize the common market. Some diplomats said concern that the Chinese might move first probably had some influence on the Soviet decisions.

Common market officials in Brussels said long ago they would negotiate gladly with the Eastern group—if the market received official Soviet recognition.

'Where's Nadia?'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger had only one question when the Shah of Iran arrived at the White House Tuesday: "Where's Nadia?"

Kissinger was referring to the Iranian belly dancer who plopped herself in his lap at a night club in Teheran when he accompanied President Jimmy Carter on a state visit a year ago.

After the incident, Kissinger quipped he was "trying to make the world safe for belly dancers."

Transit lines subsidized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Banking Committee approved Wednesday a two-year, $800 million program of emergency operating subsidies for mass transit lines.

Similar legislation has twice passed the Senate and died in the House.

The bill would provide $200 million each for fiscal 1974 and 1975 to get financially ailing commuter rail and bus lines on a sound footing.

Earlier this year, the Senate approved the subsidies as part of the Federal Highway bill but they were knocked out in conference with the House.

Payment ordered

BOISE — Former owners of Trans-Magic Airlines corporation have been ordered to pay a $89,000 deficiency judgment in connection with two repossessed airplanes.

CIT Corporation, New York, brought the action in federal court against Ross C. James R. and Terry Lee, Jerome, and Ralph Gorringer, former owners of the airline.

Judge Ray McNichols ruled in favor of the plaintiff, who claimed the additional money was due as the difference between the cost of the two passenger planes and the amount for which they were sold after being repossessed.

Defendants argued CIT was not entitled to the additional amount because it did not seek top market value for the planes. Judge McNichols ruled the plaintiff made a diligent effort to sell the planes for top value by advertising and conducting a fair auction.

Inspector to remain at Wendell

WENDELL — City building inspector A. J. Thomason will remain on the job as a result of a request made by city councilmen and Mayor Eugene Soares at a City Council meeting last night.

Thomason had resigned July 12 after an argument with the mayor over who has the responsibility for issuing building permits.

Soares told Thomason last night that Thomason had been doing a good job, that he would leave everything up to him, and give him all of his support.

The councilmen and the building inspector discussed trailer house ordinances. Soares and Thomason discussed the possibility of passing an ordinance to restrict trailer houses to a particular area or require all trailer houses to be located outside the city limits.

Councilman Harold Simerly suggested that a public meeting be set up to hear opinions from residents on the matter. He said that if such an ordinance were adopted, it would not apply to trailer houses already located in the city.

John White and Nick Holmes met with the council to air a complaint by citizens of a trailer park west of Idaho Street about a ready to pour concrete plant, which the residents say is creating noise and dirt. The area is zoned residential-industrial and the zoning ordinance is unclear in this particular case, Soares said.

Simerly told White and Holmes that a petition would have to be signed by a majority of area residents before the city could act. He suggested that the city and city attorney look into the situation.

T. J. Yates, Yates Engineering Co., presented a report on his inspection of the city water tank. The city will call for bids for its repair.

Councilman Dale Gilbert told the council that the city is desperate for help. It has many projects coming up in the next few months and the city superintendent has reported to him that he can't get any help.

The council will consider patching and seal coating half of the city streets this year. Simerly said there is $10,000 available in the budget for the work.

A report of a meeting with Magistrate Charles Shaw concerning city ordinances was presented by Simerly. He told the council that Sen. James Vost, R-Wendell, councilman Dale Gilbert and he were told by Shaw that the city automatically receives 90 per cent of the fines resulting from arrests by city policemen, regardless of whether city ordinance books are on file with the magistrate's office.

In a council meeting last month, Sen. Vost had told the council that the city could not receive fine moneys because the magistrate's office did not have a copy of city ordinances.

Simerly suggested that copies of city ordinances be prepared and placed where citizens can review them.

DISCUSSING AN in depth study of Jerome County are, from right, Paul Kelly, Twin Falls, South Idaho Resource Development and Planning Association; Tom Mahan, Jerome, chairman of the Jerome Planning Council, and Ray Mickelson, Boise, State Planning Agency. The men attended a meeting of the Canyon Rim North Task Force Wednesday night.

County plan aired

Jerome study speed up urged

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — Members of a special task force planning development of the Snake River Canyon rim in Jerome County were told Wednesday night their work may have to be speeded up.

Tom Mahan, chairman of the Jerome Planning Council told the group there is a possibility Jerome County will not be able to obtain Environmental Protection Agency funding for a proposed new sewer system unless a comprehensive county land use study is completed by July 1, 1974.

It was decided that the committee would complete its work as soon as possible rather than over the six-month period previously agreed upon.

Mahan said he felt the canyon rim study could be used as a base to conduct a comprehensive study of the whole county.

"Each committee will keep in mind the overall development of the county while gathering and compiling data for the canyon rim north area," Mahan said.

Paul Kelly, South Idaho Resource Planning and Development Association, spoke to the group and explained two different types of studies that have been conducted in other areas for proper land use and control of development.

Kelly said the land use plan conducted in Pocatello by professional planners did not meet with the public's approval because it designated only certain areas where residential, commercial and industrial growth would be, and did not provide any guidelines for growth.

Another study conducted by local citizens was done in the Eugene-Springfield, Ore., area and is being used by the city and county governments. This study recommended certain areas for certain types of growth, but also included guidelines and specifications which must be met in each area," Kelly said.

He explained that this type of plan left the boundaries of the development areas flexible. "However, you are able to control your growth by the restrictions you place for the different areas. If you say that any development in this area must meet certain requirements, it will keep unwanted development out of the area," Kelly said.

Members of the steering committee of the Jerome Planning Council will meet Wednesday night to decide on which type of plan to use for the comprehensive county study.

It was brought out at the meeting that all plans formulated by the group will have to be brought to the public for its approval.

Kelly said that the first step the committee must take in its planning is to compile a complete inventory of the resources in the area under study, finding out the problems in the area and what they could be in the future.

H. E. (Hap) Wilson, chairman of the transportation committee reported that his group agreed that a frontage road should be provided along Highway 93. He noted that before his group can have any other recommendation it will have to study existing traffic problems in the area.

Forrest Hymas, chairman of the environmental group, said his committee has agreed to conclude its study and have recommendations prepared within 45 days for the canyon rim north area.

"At this point, we have broken the committee into three groups who will study sewer, water and other environmental problems," Hymas said.

Doug Pharris, chairman of the economic and social factors committee, reported that his group has to gather a great deal of information on the economic and social factors of the area before it will be able to come up with any recommendations.

The committees will meet again at 8 p.m. Aug. 8 at Pioneer Hall.

Cassia food firm denied well use

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court Thursday upheld a lower court order forbidding Ore-Idaho Foods Inc. from using certain wells in Cassia County until other wells in the area resumed normal production of water.

Sunon L. Baker and other plaintiffs had sued Ore-Ida Foods on the grounds the company, by pumping irrigation water from its wells was drawing down the water level so as to interfere with other wells in the area.

The farmers who brought action against Ore-Ida included Baker; his wife, Marjorie; Ralph and Desma Poulton; Golden Valley Farms and Cattle Co.; and Golden Valley Mutual Water Co.; Glen and Hazel Briggs; and Bill and Jane Doe Brockman.

The plaintiffs claimed that their wells all were entitled to protection under Idaho's constitutionally mandated "first-in-time first-in-right" prior appropriation water law rule because they were all senior in time to the Ore-Ida well.

The trial court found that the lands in question were over a rechargeable aquifer and that there was not enough annual recharge to supply the needs of all the parties during the summer irrigation season.

The trial court ruled that only the four senior plaintiffs were allowed to pump from their wells and then relinquished all subsequent administration of the wells in the area to the Idaho Department of Water Administration.

On appeal, Ore-Ida argued that the lower court decision made its irrigation facilities useless.

The Supreme Court, in an opinion by Justice Allan G. Shepard, rejected the Ore-Ida contention that all the parties were entitled to mutual pro rata rights in the aquifer regardless of their priority in time.

The high court said that doctrine was incompatible with Idaho's water law.

According to the Idaho high court, the senior appropriators do not necessarily have a right to either their methods of diversion or to perpetual maintenance of the water table at its historical pumping levels.

Instead, the court indicated that when there is a heavy demand senior appropriators may have to accept a lowering of the water tables to reasonable pumping levels as set by the Idaho Department of Water Administration under the Ground Water Act.

The court said such limited lowering of the water table would be necessary to achieve the act's goal of full economic development of Idaho's ground water resources.

Fuel shortage stops flight

TWIN FALLS — A shortage of passengers and fuel has contributed to Trans Magic Airlines cessation of flight service to Pocatello and Idaho Falls for six months.

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission (PUC) announced today it had approved the airlines request to stop flying to the two eastern Idaho cities for six months effective July 29.

The PUC also said the airlines must inform the commission before the end of the six months, Jan. 29, 1974, about whether it wants to resume services to the cities or cancel them permanently.

The announcement said the airlines had told the PUC an average of only two passengers per flight had been booked on trips into the two cities, inadequate for break even operations on a 16-passenger four engine aircraft. It also said "they have been put on notice that fuel allocation will undoubtedly have its effects on their operations."

The commission also said, "Therefore they (the airlines) believe it to be in the best interest of all concerned to use fuel available on routes where service is needed and provide boarding densities which would provide a fair return on their operations."

Burley rejects architect's plans

BURLEY — The Burley City Council refused to accept architect's plans for the new city-county law enforcement building at a special meeting Thursday.

The council sent the plans back to county officials with a list of changes they felt needed to be made before the city would agree to go along with the project.

The plans were presented to the council last week for approval before a July 31 meeting of the Law Enforcement Planning Commission. Frank Finlayson had told the county commissioners that the plans must be presented at that meeting if funds are to be granted for the project this year.

"We shouldn't be railroaded into approving the plan by next week," councilman James Roper said.

One of the major objections to the plan was that the proposed building jutted out 17 feet beyond the front of the present county courthouse. The council had previously told the county the building was to be set back flush with the courthouse.

Another request will be that the records room be moved closer to the identification room because of the close interaction between the two.

Some of the changes were requested to improve security by eliminating easy access to exits by prisoners.

Burley City Police Chief Ken Barry said he still felt the location was wrong and that the building should be constructed in a parking lot across the street from the Burley Junior High School, about a block from the city hall.

The council approved the location in a meeting several months ago after a public hearing on the matter.

"There is about $500,000 going into this building and making a decision in a week is foolish," Barry said.

"I don't think we have to worry about the money (from the LEPC grant) disappearing," Roper said.

Population bomb ticks on in Idaho

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

EILKHORN — The population bomb is still ticking and "if the fuse is short anywhere it's in our own state," according to an Idaho State University population biologist.

Dr. Barry Keller was the guest speaker at one of a series of weekly natural history and ecology programs planned through Aug. 14 at Eilkhorn. Sponsored by the Sun Valley Creative Arts Center, the programs are financed by a federal Environmental Education Grant under the direction of Kenneth Kinucan.

Dr. Keller said that between 1960 and 1970 Idaho showed a 45,000 population increase. From 1970 to 1972, he said, the population increased by 43,000 to its present level of about 756,000 persons.

About 40 per cent of the increase, Dr. Keller said, could be attributed to Idaho's high birth rate. He said that this state presently has an average of three children per family compared to the national rate of about 2.1 children per family.

The remainder of the population increase, Dr. Keller said, was caused by direct immigration.

Dr. Keller said that the high birth rate coupled with a high immigration will result in an increase of property values, an increase in taxes, a greater burden on schools and will require that greater health care services be produced.

The ISU professor said development of a comprehensive state plan was vital to the future of Idaho.

The states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, Dr. Keller said, have presently reached "roughly two-thirds of their carrying capacity." If immigration is continued, he said, these states "will soon reach their saturation point."

Nationally, Dr. Keller said, despite the highly publicized reduction of the number of children per family, zero population growth will take about 70 years to achieve.

This situation, he said, was due primarily to the large segment of the population, born in the mid-1940's, who are approaching the child bearing years. In 1970, Dr. Keller said the number of young people in this category was "almost identical" to that of India.

If the birth rate is dramatically reduced, Dr. Keller said, the United States will still be faced with the social impact of an increase in the average age of the population.

The next program will feature Dr. Jack Lyons, U. S. Forest Service, Missoula, Mont., who will speak on fire ecology in the forest. The program will begin at 8 p.m. Aug. 1 in the Eilkhorn Recreation Hall above the Chart House.

Change urged in recall laws

TWIN FALLS — An interim legislative advisory committee, meeting in Twin Falls Thursday urged changes in the state's recall laws.

The Citizens Advisory Committee on Legislative Improvement said laws should be approved clarifying the circumstances under which recalls may be initiated.

John Mix, Moscow, a former state senator and chairman of the committee, said the recommendations resulted from "concern over the impact the current recall movement against Rep. Pat McDermott is having on the public's attitudes toward the legislature."

Miss McDermott, D-Pocatello, has been the subject of a recall effort in recent weeks. The recall has been the subject of a controversy over the acceptability of certain names placed on the petitions seeking to force her recall.

Mix said some members of the committee expressed concern that the threat of recall may inhibit other legislators and may discourage some people from seeking legislative office.

Earlier in the day, the committee had discussed the possible uses of a public information staff for the members of the legislature. House Speaker William Lanting, R-Hollister, told committee members Idaho had a legislature that was recognized nationally for some of its operating procedures, adding "We've got to get out to the people what we're doing."

Gem monitoring asked at NRTS

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

IDAHO FALLS — The head of the Idaho Nuclear Energy Commission said Thursday the state should monitor radioactive waste material at the Nuclear Reactor Testing Station west of here.

But Gene Rutledge said "I am not concerned there is any problem," adding the presence of new information would give him "more ammunition" in his promotional efforts to attract industry to the area.

The Nuclear Energy Commission, which received a $157,000 appropriations from the state legislature for the current fiscal year, was created to develop, promote and coordinate Idaho's nuclear energy programs.

At the same time, Rutledge said he would "rather the state" pay for the independent monitoring, but said he wasn't sure it was possible to get the money. He said if the federal government pays for it there "will always be that cloud that it can never be independent."

Rutledge said the idea of independent monitoring had been discussed in the past, and the AEC had offered a small amount of its appropriations to help with the cost.

Peavey advocates law

RUPERT, Idaho (UPI) — Legislation to "open government to the Sunshine" has been advocated by state Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, in light of the Watergate scandal.

Peavey said this week legislative action should be taken to "purge our political system of the influences of massive political donations from selfish interests and the resulting bulging campaign war chests."

According to Peavey, Idaho needs its own law concerning political donation disclosure covering not only legislative but other statewide races, as recommended by the budget and fiscal committee in 1972.

The law would require disclosure of the source and distribution of donations including those from the media and others who perform services or provide materials, with the reports to be made public before elections.

"With less to spend campaigning," Peavey said, "shorter and more meaningful campaigns could result."

Gem site endorsed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The regional director of the U.S. Park Service has notified Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, that it has forwarded its recommendations for the Silent City of Rocks to Washington.

Hansen initiated a study in 1970 on the area by writing to then Secretary of Interior Walter Hickel.

"This area could be designated as a part of the national park system, or could alternatively be designated as a national monument, national recreation area, or as part of the national system commemorating the Oregon Trail," he said.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton since has advised Hansen that the Silent City of Rocks "is of national significance and that failure to preserve the area will almost certainly result in its deterioration."

Released on bond

SHOSHONE (UPI) — James Trowbridge, 26, Shoshone, has been released from the Lincoln County jail under $12,000 property bond pending an appeal to the Idaho Supreme Court on a sentencing of five years to the state penitentiary.

Trowbridge was sentenced last week by Fifth District Judge Charles Scoggin after pleading guilty to a charge of grand larceny, in connection with the theft of small calves from a gooding County ranch in June.

Court officials said the bond was posted by the Trowbridge family.

Educators to meet

SUN VALLEY (UPI) — Some 400 educators from throughout Idaho will gather at Sun Valley next week to discuss mutual school problems and listen to several well known speakers.

The Aug. 1-3 annual conference for school administrators and business is sponsored by the Idaho Department of Education in cooperation with the Idaho Educational Laboratory, according to D. F. Engelking, state superintendent of public instruction.

Irwin sets course record to lead in Canadian open

MONTREAL (UPI) — Hale Irwin, "really didn't feel like playing golf Thursday," but the rain that had been falling since Wednesday night stopped, and Irwin shot a course record seven under par 65 that gave him the first round lead in the Canadian Open championship.

Irwin's round, two better than the old course record of 67, left him with a two stroke advantage over Hubert Green and British Open champion Tom Weiskopf, both of whom shot 67's.

The Canadian Open, the last time it was played here in 1971. Weiskopf had a consistent round Thursday as he parred 13 holes and birdied the other five to leave him five under. Green, winner of the Tallahassee Open earlier this year, had seven birdies.

Trevino, the sentimental favorite here, was five under going onto the 16th but double bogeyed that hole, sending him to three under par. He picked up his final birdie of the round on the 18th where he dropped a 12-foot putt.

Yankees win pitchers' duel on Munson's single in 12th

NEW YORK (UPI) — A one out single in the 12th inning by Thurman Munson gave the New York Yankees a 1-0 victory over Jim Colborn and the Milwaukee Brewers Thursday night.

Munson's line drive, his fourth hit of the night, upped his season's average against the Brewers to .519 and ended a sparkling pitching duel between Colborn and Pat Dobson. Dobson, who hurled a fivehitter, left the game after yielding a leadoff single in the 12th to Dave May. Sparky Lyle entered to strike out Johnny Briggs and got George Scott to ground into a double play to set the stage for the Yankees.

Dolphins made 17-point favorites against stars

Sec

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Miami Dolphins were 17-point favorites Thursday to whip the 1977 College All Stars convincingly Friday night in a warm-up contest for their bid for every National Football League record for consecutive victories in the coming season. The NFL champions and their youthful rivals, who will be rookies on NFL teams Saturday, should get temperatures in the low 80's for their clash on the Soldier Field artificial turf.

The game will be televised nationally by ABC with the kickoff at 8:30 p.m. (CDT). The Dolphins have won their last 18 games including playoff and exhibition contests, and are only one short of tying the Chicago Bears' record of 18 for all games. But the All Star contest will not count for the Dolphins in this category. Miami also is only two short of tying the Bears record of 17 straight victories in the regular season.

Dolphin coach Don Shula will send virtually the same team against the All Stars that hung up the winning streak. Only two Dolphin regulars will be out of action. Running back Mercury Morris will be out with injuries and defense back Jake Scott is a holdout.

It was uncertain whether he would rely on Bob Griese or Earl Morrill, who shared the quarterback job last year, but both will see some action, and so might Jim Del Gaizo, a second year signal caller, and rookie Don Strock.

Shula might have a problem at running back since he alternated Larry Csonka, Jim Kijik and Mercury Morris last season. Csonka will be playing despite a pulled thigh muscle suffered last Saturday, but Morris is definitely out with a leg injury.

However, should the running game run into trouble, Shula can rely on wide receivers Paul Warfield, Ron Sellers and Howard Twilley and tight ends Marv Fleming and Jim Mandich to furnish passing targets for important yardage.

The All Stars, coach John McKay conceded, have talent, but the lack of experience could be a handicap. Bert Jones of Louisiana State probably will start at quarterback with Joe Ferguson of Arkansas serving as his reliever. They will have some super receivers, such as Isaac Curtis of San Diego State, Steve Holden of Arizona State, Daryl Stingley of Purdue and Joe Wylie of Oklahoma.

McKay also will be deeper in running backs than the Dolphins. Terry Metcalf of Long Beach and Chuck Foreman of Miami probably will start, leaving Southern California's Sam Cunningham, Purdue's Otis Armstrong, Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt and Nebraska's Bills Olds in reserve.

Lack of experience also might show up also in both the offensive and defensive lines of the All Stars, though they will match the Dolphins in size and, probably, in speed.

The Dolphins will be seeking the 10th straight win for the pro's in the All Star series. The Stars have won nine games, only three in the last 23 years, and the pro's 28, in the 40 games played in the series.

Cardinals sweep doubleheader from Mets to up league lead

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Bernie Carbo's run-scoring double and Joe Torre's homer gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 2-1 win over the New York Mets in the second game of a doubleheader Thursday night after Bob Gibson iced away the first game 13-1 triumph with a grand slam home run.

The sweep of the twinbill gave the Cards a 1 1/2 game lead over Chicago in the National League's Eastern Division.

Atlanta splits with Redlegs

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Hank Aaron led off the eighth inning with a walk, stole his first base of the season and came home on Mike Lum's single to break a 3-3 tie and the Atlanta Braves went on to a 6-4 victory Thursday night and a split of a doubleheader with the Cincinnati Reds.

The victory snapped a seven-game losing streak for Atlanta and ended a six-game winning streak for the Reds, who won the opener 5-3 as Fred Norman won his eighth game in 10 decisions since being acquired from San Diego on June 13.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tweedy has plenty was the money. racing fans that pr owner of Meadow approve a Sept. 15 at Belmont Park b of her biggest winners — Triple champion Secretar Ridge.

1977

Secretariat and Riva Ridge matched

NEW YORK (UPI) — It wasn't the money. Mrs. Penny Tweedy has plenty of that. It was the consideration for racing fans that prompted the owner of Meadow Stable to approve a Sept. 15 match race at Belmont Park between two of the biggest money winners — Triple Crown champion Secretariat and Riva Ridge.

The fact that the one and one-eighth mile, $250,000 Marlboro Cup race would be staged for charity was another plus factor in securing the charming Mrs. Tweedy's consent. "I've always wanted to see these two great champions compete under official conditions," Mrs. Tweedy said as she patted her silver hair into place at the Aqueduct news conference. "Under ordinary conditions, they would never have met, but they are race horses and the public is entitled to see the best in thoroughbred racing." Secretariat, last year's 2-year-old champion, swept the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes this season to match the spectacular feat last performed by Citation in 1948. Riva Ridge, the juvenile king of 1971, won the Derby and Belmont last year, but missed his chance for a sweep by finishing fourth in the Preakness. The New York Racing Association approved the match, the first two-horse duel here since Armed beat Assault by six lengths 25 years ago.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JULY 28, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An adverse day if you attempt to make a snap judgment of others, or if you become involved in arguments with overly sensitive persons. Postpone making any serious commitments until a better time. Avoid undue criticism of others. Don't make any new commitments.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Conditions may be difficult at home—so engage in outside activities and accomplish a great deal. Put off shopping until tomorrow. Take health treatments and make sure that you have a good diet.

AURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Being careful in motion is most important right now. Don't become angry when one makes a sharp comment. Take care of your purse when out shopping and losing credit cards should be avoided. Be alert.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have ideas about finances that could bring arguments with close ties, so be careful—Don't spend lavishly when you can't afford it—Some advisers could be off the track. Use own judgment.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Although you may be thinking others are imposing on you, look at things objectively and you find it is not so. Take care of your health and appearance. Avoid one who bickers.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You feel hemmed in by things you cannot control and you get little assistance from loved one who is busy now with other matters. Attend to important duties that need handling quickly. Be wise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Your reliable friends could be quite confused so don't rely on them today. Forget forcing anyone with regard to a personal aim you may have. Take time to engage in your favorite hobby.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Try not to do anything that could jeopardize your position with higher-ups, or where the public is concerned. Make sure that you pay your bills. Attend the social tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't engage in any new interests right now or you could get into a heap of trouble. Take part in routine affairs. A friend needs your help so don't fail. Sidestep one who belittles you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you keep promises made to others and don't expect thanks. It is your duty. Being too forceful with mate could lead to trouble. Show that you are a thoughtful person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Avoid an associate who is upset with personal problems. One who opposes you should also be avoided. Become involved in outside interests. Think along economical lines. Improve your image.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't take any risks now. Attending public affairs at this time can be helpful to you and others. Make sure you don't criticize others, even though it may be due. Relax tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do those things that have been satisfactory to you in the past. Don't engage in any activity that you can't afford. Keep busy at creative matters. A good day to meditate and clear your thoughts.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those capable young people who knows how to solve troublesome situations, so direct the education along problem-solving lines. Teach objectivity in personal and emotional matters and life becomes successful. The study of languages would be very helpful in career. Give good spiritual training early in life.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Falling asleep causes more divorces than any other single act it was George R. Bach, Ph.D., who said that. He, too, is credited, right or wrong, with the notion that planned fights between husbands and the wives sometimes save marriages. Programmed aggressiveness, that's what it's called. Some couples schedule their battles at 6 p.m. They mix drinks, chase away kids, then have at it. You overhearing hoor! You supercilious broad! Okay, kiss and make up. How jolly! Maybe it works. But our Love and War man recommends rugbeating.

This year's count indicates the New York Public Library has about 15,500 books on the subject of women compared with approximately 1,200 about men. Is this fair?

The darker your skin, the less likely you'll get skin cancer. Studies show that, too.

CLOTHES

The woman's pants suit no longer is illegal, obviously. Once it was, no doubt you know. As was any masculine attire on any woman in this country. What changed all that was an act of Congress in 1861. A physician and dress reformer named Mary Edwards Walker, 1832-1919, beat her drum most bitterly until the weary legislators permitted her with a special bill to wear men's clothes.

Who are the healthiest people in the world? Am not qualified to say, sir. Still, the Tarahumara Indians of northwestern Mexico ought to be candidates for that credit. Those are the folk whose men run deer to death. It's no big deal for a whole family to walk 150 miles just to visit somebody. Their kickball teams reportedly race from 24 to 48 hours non-stop. What's peculiar is medicines say there's nothing unusual about their bodies. Must be all mental.

NEW SONG

Whatever happened to the old nonsense songs like 'Murry Doats,' 'Der Fuhrrer's Face' and 'Hut Sut Song'? Am thinking of writing a new one of my own entitled 'Feel Like a Cat, Face Like a Coon, Body Like a Bear, That's a Panda.' Pretty far beat. Besides, it's factual.

Fact that the man gets bored more easily than the woman is not the point. The point is the older the man gets, the more conspicuously he shows said boredom. Or so say the psychologists.

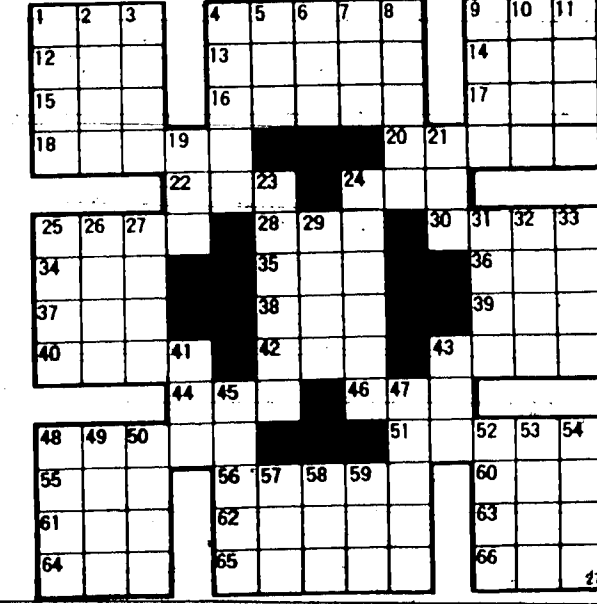

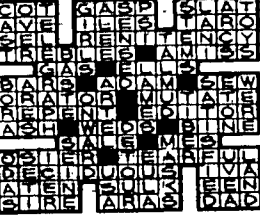

What the Australians are trying to figure out is how to scare sharks with sound waves. They're planting loudspeakers on the ocean floor. Through them, they're broadcasting lancy noises. A sonic repellent that will drive off all species of the fierce fishes, that's what they're after if they succeed, count on this. Bathing beaches all over the world will be guarded by underwater strings of electronic noise makers, inaudible to people but most repulsive to sharks.

French deport protesters

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI) — Authorities said Thursday that the American skipper of the nuclear test protest vessel Fri, his wife and three other crew members would be deported from this French island.

Reports reaching Papeete said scientists at the Mururoa test site, 720 miles southeast of here, are waiting for good weather to explode a second nuclear device in France's controversial atmospheric testing series.

In Wellington, the New Zealand defense department said that cabinet minister Fraser Colman, who has been aboard that country's protest frigate Otago in the nuclear test zone, transferred Wednesday to the frigate Canterbury via helicopter. French military aircraft made two sweeps overhead during the transfer, officials said.

The Canterbury, New Zealand's most modern warship, is replacing the Otago on station in the security zone.

Gov. Pierre Angeli of Tahiti declared the five Fri protesters undesirable aliens in French Polynesia and officials said they would be repatriated at the expense of the state.

The five are American David Moodie, the 28-year-old captain of the yacht, his wife, Emma Young, a New Zealand couple, Peter Yeates and his pregnant wife Petille, and a Frenchman, Gilbert Nicolas.

The Fri, which had been sailing in the danger zone to demonstrate against the nuclear testing, was taken in tow by French sailors shortly before France set off a blast estimated at five kilotons last Saturday. The protesters were taken to Hao Atoll outside of the danger zone.

They were flown by military plane to Wednesday night to Papeete, where the three men were hospitalized for the effects of what they said was a hunger strike.

Projects given funds

MOSCOW — The Idaho Bean Commission and the Pacific Northwest Regional Commission have respectively presented to the University of Idaho College of Agriculture grants of $18,600 and $10,000.

The two grants will be used to help finance projects conducted by Dr. Roger Long, professor of agricultural economics.

Long said the bean commission grant will provide financial support to develop an economic model to be used in accounting for the inputs of Idaho's agriculture and the disposition of raw and processed food products. Development of such a model will make it possible to more accurately assess agriculture's contribution to the Idaho economy, according to Long. He expressed the hope that the means might be found to develop an economic model for all major sectors of the state's economy.

Long explained that the Pacific Northwest Regional Commission grant will help fund work involved in updating the Bonneville Power Administration's study on agriculture, fisheries, and minerals. The study was done in the 1960's.

Long said his work will be concerned with gathering basic resource information as it applies to agriculture, fishing, and mining.

The commission has been charged with a plan for a regional (Idaho, Washington, and Oregon) development program.

No set-aside

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho County offices of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service have received a federal announcement that there will be no government set-aside programs of land for next year.

The effect of the announcement is that farmers will be free to go all out to produce feed grains, soybeans and wheat.

Trail ride planned

KING HILL — The Wranglers 4-H Club met Tuesday to plan the annual trail ride and camp-out.

Between 25 and 30 people are expected to drive to Lime Creek, 50 miles north of King Hill, hauling the trail horses. They were to make camp Friday and ride in the hills Saturday and Sunday, returning Sunday evening.

The parents of the 4-H club members are invited to join group. The club will furnish food for the camp-out.

FRESH FOR SPRING homes are being advertised in today's Classified Ads. Check 'em out!

Statement readied

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho office of the Bureau of Land Management announced today that a final environmental impact statement concerning the proposed regulations and protection, management and control of wild free-roaming horses and burros on national resource lands administered by the BLM is now available for public review.

The final statement reflects comments and suggestions which were submitted during the period following the release of the draft statement in December, 1972. Comments by federal and state agencies and interested groups are included with the final statement.

The statement includes a revised copy of the proposed regulations which reflect the views of federal and state agencies and interested groups as well as recommendations from the national advisory board for wild free-roaming horses and burros.

Reports planned

JEROME — The Jerome County Farm Bureau Tuesday decided to check into the possibility of supplying a daily marketing report to county farmers.

Gordon Hofffield, county president, said the county board has agreed to work in cooperation with William (Bill) Brown, Pocatello, Eastern division manager for the Idaho Farm Bureau Association and Nyle Rydahl, Boise, western division manager of the Idaho Farm Bureau Association.

Hofffield said they would provide local market information on crops which will include dry-edible beans, feed grain, hay and livestock.

"The information would be updated each day and would deal with the market locally for Jerome county," he said.
