

Helms says CIA asked to pay bail

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard C. Helms, former director of the CIA, testified today that 10 days after the Watergate break-in John W. Dean III asked the CIA to pay bail for the suspects and put them on the agency payroll while they served their jail terms.

Banging his hand against the table for emphasis, Helms told the Senate Watergate Committee the proposal was rejected out of hand by Gen. Vernon Walters, deputy CIA director.

He said Dean, then White House counsel, had called Walters to the White House on June 27, 1972 to propose that the CIA "pay the salaries of these individuals while they served their jail sentences."

Helms, now ambassador to Iran, said Walters told Dean, "He could not conceivably imagine that a thing like that would remain secret for a long time" and that the agency would have to explain the use of its money for those purposes to the chairman of the House and Senate Appropriations Committees. Helms said he told Walters to be firm against White House pressures—even though he was a former military man and a presidential appointee.

Helms said the CIA was approached first with suggestions that the bugging was somehow related to its operations and later with the request to provide bail money and support for the men arrested.

"It was quite clear that feelers were being put out (A) to find out if there was any agency involvement and (B) to seek the agency's assistance in some way not identified," Helms said. He said he told Walters that "I wanted him to do absolutely nothing."

"You hang in there," Helms said he told Walters. "You're doing fine, but don't yield an inch."

He said H. R. Haldeman, former chief of staff at the White House, first raised the possibility that the FBI investigation into the break-in would uncover some secret CIA activities.

Helms testified that one of the Watergate burglars, Eugenio R. Martinez, was being paid by the CIA at the time of the break-in.

According to Helms, Martinez had been on a $100-a-month retainer to report to the CIA whether Cuban exiles who arrived in Florida were "worth interviewing."

FORMER CIA director Richard C. Helms tells the Senate Watergate Committee that 10 days after the Watergate break-in John W. Dean III asked the CIA to pay bail for the suspects, and put them on the agency payroll while they served their jail terms. (UPI)

Gem officer files suit

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho attorney general's office filed suit in Fifth District Court Wednesday charging a firm that sells water conditioners through a program of home solicitation with violations of the state's consumer protection laws.

Assistant attorney general Wayne Meuleman filed the papers in Twin Falls against Master Distributors, Inc. and the firm's owners Kenneth Merrill Sr. and Kenneth Merrill Jr. District Judge James Cunningham set a hearing Aug. 13 into the state's request that the firm be stopped from its practices.

The complaint filed charges violations of the state's Consumer Protection Act and Uniform Consumer Credit Code. It alleges that the firm engages in activities that are "unfair and deceptive to the consumer."

Ron Ohlin, a company manager in the Boise area, said today the firm was "certainly not" in violation of any of the state's laws, and said the Attorney General had reviewed his firm's program in the past and approved it.

He said he had not been informed of the action taken in court by the attorney general. But, he said, "We have a very strict program that we follow."

The suit filed alleges that the firm solicits customers through a random telephone survey in which questions about existing water pollution problems are posed to the consumer. It charges the caller does not properly identify that the call does not "affirmatively and expressly" indicate at the time of the contact that the purpose of the call is to "effectuate a sale" of the product, a commercial water conditioner.

The complaint charges that in response to the answer to the telephone questions, the caller offers to have a free gift delivered to the consumer, when in fact, the complaint says, "the defendant's real motive for establishment of an appointment with the consumer is to capture the consumer's time and attention in a sales presentation."

The complaint also alleges that the company's sales presentation includes false information about the water conditioner. It specifically charges the company represents the product to be able to "reduce water pollution and otherwise purify the water supply of the consumer."

Other charges included in the complaints include:

— That the consumer is told he is offered a discount on the cost of the conditioner, when the "pattern of transactions" of the firm indicate there is no actual discount being offered;

— That the sales presentation includes a "referral sale" technique, which is in violation of the consumer protection laws;

— That the water conditioners that are installed by the company are installed "in an improper and faulty manner."

— That the company uses a "misleading, false and deceptive" advertisement in Idaho newspapers to recruit sales personnel for the home solicitation program.

The attorney general asked that the court issue a permanent restraining order against the company and also order the firm to offer to rescind any contract signed in the state.

Meuleman said in Twin Falls Wednesday the suit was the first consumer action filed by his office in the Twin Falls area. He said the company had been selling more conditioners in the Boise area than in the Magic Valley.

FHA loans pass House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House passed and sent to the White House Thursday for the President's expected signature an interim bill to assure low-interest FHA loans for thousands of would-be homeowners at least through Oct. 30.

The bill, approved by the Senate earlier this week, would extend the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) authority to make the loans while Congress and the White House wrangle over a one-year extension which has two controversial amendments attached.

Both houses rushed the resolution through by voice vote. Without it and with the outcome of a bill for a one-year extension in doubt while Congress was in a month-long recess beginning Friday, thousands of persons wishing to buy homes would have been stranded.

House-Senate conferees agreed to a compromise between differing bills on Monday, but left in two Senate amendments the negotiators acknowledged would cause a presidential veto.

Skylab mission may be aborted

HOUSTON (UPI) — Flight controllers today considered ending the second Skylab mission because of a failure in two steering control rockets aboard the Apollo ferry ship that took the crew to the earth-orbiting space station six days ago.

They said Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma could be ordered to attempt a splashdown Friday near Hawaii. A definite decision would be made within a few hours, they said.

Glynn S. Lunney, manager of the Apollo Spacecraft Program Office, said a rescue mission could be launched within five weeks if the crew is not ordered home. "If we did not have a rescue capability, we would be moving in the direction of getting the spacecraft as rapidly as we could," Lunney said.

Wholesale prices take record dip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices, reacting to the bite of the price freeze and export controls, made their biggest monthly decline in 24 years in July, the Labor Department reported today.

The unadjusted 1.3 per cent drop in the prices of farm products and industrial goods after six months of heavy increases was welcome anti-inflation news for the administration. The decline after seasonal adjustments was 1.4 per cent, largest since February, 1948.

The unusual drop, however, probably will be short-lived. Farm prices, except beef, already have resumed their upward march under Phase IV stabilization rules and non-agricultural prices will be allowed to go up later this month when the freeze is lifted on that sector of the economy.

A freeze is due to stay on beef prices until Sept. 12 and Chairman John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council said today there was no plan to lift it sooner, in spite of pressure from cattlemen and a hint by Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz that he favored such action.

The sharp, surprising reversal in an upward climb of wholesale prices was the first since a small turnaround in October, 1972, and the largest for any month since February, 1949.

Two factors were apparently responsible for the unusual drop—the freeze on nearly all prices which Nixon imposed June 13 plus export controls which limited the outflow of American farm products.

Industrial prices showed virtually no change from June after posting monthly gains of about 1 per cent since the first of the year.

Prices of farm products, processed foods and feeds, dropped 4.1 per cent in July. In the past year, these prices have soared by nearly 27 per cent.

The freeze on prices imposed in June will come off most items in 10 days. It is scheduled to stay on beef however for an extra month—until Sept. 12—but there is growing pressure for this date to be moved up.

Nixon home records subpoenaed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Government Operations Committee voted unanimously today to subpoena records of government spending on President Nixon's private homes, reported to total between $3.5 million and $3.7 million.

The committee took the action even though it had received a letter from Bryce N. Harlow, a presidential counsel, assuring the members that all the spending records would be turned over voluntarily starting next Monday.

Liz 'shrugs' it off

ROME (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor's friends say she dismissed the breakup of her fifth marriage with a philosophic shrug.

"It takes one day to die, another day to be born," they said Miss Taylor told Roman film colleagues Wednesday on the set of her latest movie.

Only 24 hours earlier, a New York lawyer for Miss Taylor and her husband actor Richard Burton announced the couple would end their marriage after nine years.

Abernathy will accept draft

CHICAGO — The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, says he will rescind his resignation in response to a draft from "the poor people of America."

"If I get a call from the poor people, I can't turn my back on them," Abernathy said.

Baker shunned Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell offered Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., a Supreme Court nomination in 1970 but Baker turned it down.

Baker said Mitchell made the offer after the Senate had quashed President Nixon's first two selections, G. Harrold Carswell and Clement Haynesworth.

German phone taps denied

BONN (UPI) — The West German government today rejected allegations that U. S. military agents had illegally tapped German civilian telephones in a counterespionage operation.

A cabinet committee convened under heavy public pressure aroused by newspaper reports of alleged wiretapping by American agents and quickly reported the results of its findings through a government spokesman.

Two Owyhee fires burn 63,000 acres

TWIN FALLS — Two fires burning 63,520 acres 35 miles southwest of Twin Falls should be brought under control by 6 p.m. this evening and 10 a.m. Friday, according to Bureau of Land Management fire prevention officer John Sherod.

The range fires, so hot they created their own weather, turned southern Idaho's Owyhee Desert into an inferno Wednesday, killing a total of 14 livestock. The fires were running parallel courses southward along the east fork of the Bruneau River, six miles apart on opposite sides of the waterway.

Sherod said 200 men, one helicopter and five bulldozers were being used this morning to battle the 30,000 acre Horse Butte flames. Two hundred and fifty men, five bulldozers and two helicopters were being employed on the 33,520 acre Clover Flat fire, which BLM officials hope will be controlled by Friday morning.

Winds hit velocities of up to 20 miles per hour yesterday and began rising as the fire—adding intensity to 100-degree heat—created its own weather.

Some 18,000 gallons of retardant have been dropped on the Horse Butte fire, compared to the 99,600 gallons dropped on Clover Flat.

When the state of emergency proclamation was made Wednesday, Maj. Gen. George B. Bennett, Idaho adjutant general, provided 21 National Guardsmen to assist in the effort. They were feeding fire crews from two mobile truck-mounted kitchens in the area.

An electrical storm ignited both fires Monday. Temperatures in the desert area reached the high 90s this morning. Strong gusty winds continue.

The high temperatures and wind have made it extremely difficult to bring the fires under control, according to Dell Waldoups, field plans chief for the BLM.

"The sage is just like tinder—it almost explodes," he said describing the danger wrought by the "extremely dry conditions."

Meany forecasts recession in US

(c) Chicago Daily News
CHICAGO — AFL-CIO President George Meany has forecast a national recession "by the end of the year."
 Meany, heading the AFL-CIO Executive Council's summer meeting in suburban Oak Brook, said a slowdown in residential construction is the biggest single factor in a pending recession.
 The bottom is dropping out of the home-building industry, national construction industry spokesmen said today.
 Robert Widdicombe, executive director of the Home Builders Assn. of Greater Chicago, predicted "at least a 10 per cent drop" in residential construction here by the end of the year.

 Officials of the National Assn. of Home Builders in Washington put the figure closer to "35 to 40 per cent."
 The national association's executive board met Wednesday and adopted a policy statement — to be sent to the White House — urging in part:
 — Immediate budget cuts, particularly in military and space exploration spending.
 — Immediate revival of federal home construction subsidy programs.
 — Rescinding the Nixon administration's July 5 actions that allowed higher interest rates.

 Widdicombe and national association officials agreed with Meany that things are going to get worse before they'll get better.
 Meany said the administration's "fooling around" with the economy was to blame for the inevitable recession. But he predicted that, after some "temporary problems" (a recession), the economy would respond to a free (uncontrolled) market.
 Biting down on the cigar which he sometimes uses to punctuate his statements in the air, Meany lashed out at "Nixonomics" and the Watergate situation.
 He said the AFL-CIO Executive Council viewed Phase I (which he called "farce one") through Phase 4 as inequitable for workers and favorable toward industry.
 He said a move to impeach President Nixon would be a "political impracticality" and an "exercise in futility." But he noted that he did "not go into the question of whether it (impeachment) is deserved."
 Predicting that Nixon would sink the pending minimum wage bill, Meany said he "told the council he (Nixon) seems to want to veto his way into history."
 Speaking out for the first time on Watergate, Meany called it "a national disgrace."
 "I have seen the mentality of American Fascism," he observed of former White House aide John Erlichman's testimony before the Senate's Watergate Committee.
 "God bless the clumsy bunglers of Watergate," Meany added, noting that the whole incident put the administration under public scrutiny.
 Meany said he was "sure the President didn't know what he (Erlichman) was doing."
 Meany said the AFL-CIO would continue to support Cesar Chavez and the United Farm Workers in their struggle with the Teamsters Union.
 Meany noted, however, that the executive council exacted a written agreement from Chavez to make "improvements" in UFW operations.
 The "improvements" would include changing hiring hall and pre-payment of dues practices, the latter termed "undefensible" by Meany.

Impeachment may clear President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., author of a House resolution to impeach President Nixon, said today such a proceeding was the only way for the President "to be cleared" of suspicion of wrongdoing.
 Drinan, a Jesuit priest, said the Senate Watergate hearings would not settle the issue. "They can write a report and accuse him of this and not accuse him of that."
 "The only way for the President to be cleared now is to have an impeachment proceeding," Drinan said. "And I think Republicans are going to recognize this. He can't be cleared in the Senate Watergate proceedings ..."

"Only in the House can he get a vote of confidence, and I think that's the essential thing that more and more people are recognizing. There has to be a way either to punish or vindicate the President and the only way is impeachment."
 Drinan said in an interview on the NBC-TV Today show he recognized that many congressional leaders opposed his move as at least premature but said the definition of premature is "a bit ahead of schedule."
 One reason, he said, that he introduced a resolution Tuesday for impeachment of Nixon for "high crimes and misdemeanors" is that "a century ago, the House really blew it."

'Enemy list' termed WH 'social blacklist'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The so-called White House "enemies" list was really more of a social blacklist of persons opposed to President Nixon's policies who did not deserve the President's hospitality, according to H.R. Haldeman.
 The former White House chief of staff told the Senate Watergate committee Wednesday that the list of more than 200 names was compiled from complaints about those who were "vocally expressing public opposition to administration policies."
 Recommendations for inclusion on the list, said Haldeman, came from "our friends" who were concerned "we were unwisely extending these courtesies to people who were opposing administration policy" and in some instances using a White House visit as a "platform for getting extraordinary publicity for their expression of opposition."
 In response to questions from Sen. Joseph

Montoya, D-N.M., Haldeman agreed many on the list were opposed to Nixon administration policy on the Vietnam war. Montoya asked, "Didn't they have a right to comment on the war?"
 "Why certainly they did," said Haldeman. "But they didn't have a right to be extended the courtesy of the President's hospitality in order to express their opposition."
 Montoya: Well, are you in effect telling me that this enemies list was compiled to serve as an exclusion list from the White House?
 Haldeman: In effect, yes.
 But Haldeman also said that virtually every guest or entertainer at the White House was given a security check in advance of the visit and that FBI files were usually examined.
 Challenged by Montoya to explain an FBI check on Daniel Schorr, a CBS News correspondent, Haldeman said he could recall the check was ordered but that he did not know the reason.

Charges fly in Vietnam

PARIS (UPI) — The Viet Cong warned South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu today against sending troops to aid the hard-pressed Cambodian army and said such a move would imperil the Paris cease-fire agreement. Saigon countered with charges Hanoi had sent 66,000 more troops into South Vietnam.
 There has been increasing speculation of some South Vietnamese move to ease the Communist pressure on Phnom Penh, and in Saigon today government spokesman Bui Bao Truc said Saigon would "consider" sending aid if the Lon Nol government asked for it.

 "If President Nguyen Van Thieu sends troops into Cambodia, it would be a blow to the Vietnam peace agreement, and he would draw all the necessary consequences," Viet Cong State Minister Nguyen Van Hieu said at the start of today's Paris talks.
 South Vietnamese Vice

Premier Nguyen Tan Vien told the Viet Cong:
 "Since the signing of the Paris (cease-fire) agreement you have not hesitated to send openly from the North into South Vietnam more than 66,000 troops and North Vietnamese cadres, about 400 tanks, 200 heavy artillery guns and some 300 anti-aircraft guns," Vien said.

TF County banks show sharp increase in 4 years

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Some Twin Falls County banks have fared better than others during the last four years.

Since 1968, deposits in the five Twin Falls County banks has ranged from a 36 per cent increase to gain of about 97 per cent.

The statistics are contained in a report by Dr. Milton Matthews, professor of marketing at the University of Utah, prepared for the Pocatello-based Idaho Bank and Trust Co., which has applied for a Twin Falls charter.

Idaho First National Bank, including Fidelity National Bank showed the greatest increase in deposits in the four-year period with a gain of 96.8 per cent. According to the Matthews report, the banks' deposits rose from $20.8 million in 1968 to $41 million in 1972.

The 1968 and 1969 figures given by Matthews are for Fidelity National Bank prior to its merger with Idaho First in 1970. Much of the increase in deposits over the 1968-to-1972 period came at the time of merger.

Idaho First's deposits rose 36 per cent from 1969 to 1970, from Fidelity's 1969 deposit total of $22.8 million to Idaho First's 1970 total of $31 million.

But Idaho First vice president and Twin Falls branch manager Jack Ramsey said Matthews' figures are misleading.

Before 1970 Ramsey said, Idaho First had a branch in Buhl which was combined for reporting purposes with the Twin Falls bank after the merger with Fidelity. This, along with variances in Fidelity's reporting for its branches makes comparisons difficult, Ramsey said.

"Our increases were not really so dramatic as this (Matthews' report) apparently shows," he said.

Ramsey said Idaho First's deposits have increased in roughly the same percentage as those of Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co., Idaho

First's chief competitor for the county deposit lead.

Twin Falls Bank and Trust has shown an increase of about 70 per cent in its deposits from 1968, when deposits totaled $24.3 million, to 1972, when deposits reached $41.2 million.

Since year-end 1972, Twin Falls Bank and Trust's deposits have increased by $4.3 million to $45.5 million, a gain (as of June 30, 1973) of 10.2 per cent.

First Security Bank of Idaho's Twin Falls branch showed the least gain of any of the county's banks in the four-year period. First Security deposits rose from $8.3 million in 1968 to $11.2 million in 1972, a gain of 34.7 per cent.

As a percentage of total county deposits, however, First Security's deposits have decreased from 14.1 per cent in 1968 to 10.3 per cent in 1972.

First Security assistant branch manager H. P. Nelson declined to comment on the decrease. While First Security's share of total deposits have decreased, Idaho First's have increased from 35.3 per cent in 1968 (when it was still Fidelity National) to 37.6 per cent in 1972. Twin Falls Bank and Trust's share of deposits, however, have shown a decrease from 41.2 per cent in 1968 to 37.9 per cent in 1972.

Twin Falls Bank and Trust president Curtis Eaton has refused to discuss any aspect of local banking statistics until the application for charter by Idaho Bank and Trust, which Twin Falls Bank and Trust has formally protested, is decided upon by Idaho Finance Commission Tom McEldowney.

Deposit figures for Bank of Idaho, the fourth major Twin Falls bank, are incomplete in the Matthews report.

From 1971 (the first year for which complete figures are given) to 1972 Bank of Idaho's deposits increased from $4.27 million to $6.03 million, a rise of about 41 per cent.

However, according to Bank of Idaho vice president and Twin Falls manager Maurice Clifton, the bank's deposits have fallen off from 1972 to about $5.6 million as of mid-year 1973, a decrease of 7.7 per cent.

Clifton said he was not sure what accounted for the deposit decrease other than normal fluctuations in withdrawals.

Bank of Idaho's share of total county deposits increased from 4.7 per cent in 1971 to 5.5 per cent as of year-end 1972.

Farmer's National Bank of Buhl, the fifth bank operating in the county, has no branch in Twin Falls City.

Farmer's National deposits have increased 69 per cent from 1968 to 1972, according to the Matthews report. In 1968, Farmer's listed deposits of about $5.6 million and by 1972 they had grown to $9.4 million.

Farmer's share of total county deposits have decreased from 9.4 per cent in 1968 to 8.7 per cent in 1972.

Manning compares port costs

TWIN FALLS — Vowing not to take sides, state Director of Aeronautics Darrell V. Manning made public Wednesday new cost figures comparing construction of a new regional airport with expansion of the existing Joslin Field.

Manning addressed the Twin Falls Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon, and told members the Magic Valley area has a "pretty fantastic potential" in air transportation over the next two decades.

But, he said, for every 10 people who board an airplane locally for a flight out of the area, six more people drive to another airport for their trip.

Manning reported to the Rotarians of the new SIRAA (Southern Idaho Regional Airport Authority) Cost Resource Analysis, prepared by the Department of Aeronautics.

It estimates the cost of expanding the current Joslin Field into a regional airport at $5.5 million, while puts the cost of a new regional airport at $10.1 million.

Based on current assessment trends and current growth in each county, as well as a projected inflation of construction costs, the expansion project would require $86,663 annually for 20 years for debt service retirement, compared to a figure of $158,475 for the construction of a new airport.

If the eight Magic Valley counties were to expand the existing Joslin Field Airport, the study shows, the cost to the taxpayer would be four tenths of a mill at the beginning of the 20 year payment program.

If the eight counties join in constructing a new airport, the cost to the taxpayer would rise to seven tenths of a mill.

But should the taxpayers of Twin Falls County only construct the expanded airport facilities at Joslin Field, the cost would amount to 1.4 mills. Using only the city of Twin Falls as a tax base, the mill levy would rise to 2.7 mills.

Manning listed for the Rotarians some of the other benefits of each type of construction. Comparing traveler convenience, money, time involved in construction and potential for development near the site, he said, "I do not believe it makes that much difference which one you settle on."

But he said that was a personal decision, and not one arrived at by Idaho Board of Aeronautics.

Canning kitchen increases hours

TWIN FALLS — Activities at the Twin Falls Canning Kitchen have reached near record proportion for this time of year and beginning Monday the facility will operate three days per week.

Fay Sharp, manager, said the schedule will be from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. each Monday, Wednesday and Friday instead of the usual Monday and Friday.

During the past two days of operation persons using the kitchen processed 9,500 cans of various types of products.

At this time the kitchen is being used for pork and beans, chili, fish, apricots and applesauce. Mrs. Sharp said as additional produce becomes available the kitchen crews expect to be even more busy.

Advisory unit sets TF meet

TWIN FALLS — An advisory committee on city-county planning will meet Aug. 13 in the Colonial Room of the Rogerson Hotel to narrow the questions on planning procedure.

William L. Chancey, county commission chairman, said the advisory committee is the outgrowth of a meeting about a month ago involving rural organizations, city and county zoning officials and administrative officers.

On the advisory committee are representatives of the city and the county zoning commissions, a county commissioner, a city government representative, a city representative at large and a rural representative at large.

Paul Kelley, South Central resource development planning expert, serves as an ex-officio member of the board.

This advisory group will attempt to review opinions expressed in the earlier public meeting and decide if a county-city planner should be hired to coordinate plans for orderly growth around the cities of Twin Falls County and if so who the planner should be.

Chancey said no decisions have been made in regard to the use of a professional planner and the county and city governing groups will wait for recommendations from the advisory group. He said it might be the knowledge of local officials will be utilized up to a more developed point before a professional is needed in developing and guiding continuous planning programs.

The World Closes In On Nixon

WASHINGTON — Facing both an historic court test and massive popular disapproval following his refusal to release the Watergate tapes, President Nixon now confronts a new challenge from angry Senators who feel betrayed.

Sen. Adlai Stevenson III of Illinois, a liberal Democrat not normally noted for partisan fireworks, took the Senate floor to denounce Mr. Nixon for "covering up the cover-up." Stevenson and other Senators of both parties believe Mr. Nixon's refusal to release the tapes reneges on his pledges of full authority for special prosecutor Archibald Cox. Without those pledges, the Senate almost surely never would have confirmed Elliot Richardson as Attorney General.

Thus, the world is closing in on the President over the tape issue. Instead of resigning in protest, as some presidential aides may have hoped, Cox is going to court. Public opinion, instead of admiring the President's pluck, has turned against him. And now angry Senators are about to add to the tumult.

Stevenson was a chief actor in the high drama last May during Richardson's acrimonious confirmation hearing. That drama centered on efforts by both the Senate Judiciary Committee and Stevenson, acting outside the committee on behalf of 28 Senators. They demanded Richardson pledge the Nixon administration to give the yet unnamed special prosecutor complete freedom of action in prosecuting former or present administration officials. Stevenson thought he got that pledge.

Instead, Stevenson now tells those 27 fellow Senators, the President's decision denying Cox access to the tapes has "violated Richardson's clear pledge." In his Senate speech, he will charge.

The President said in his April 30 speech he would give Richardson "absolute authority to make all decisions bearing upon the prosecution of the Watergate case and related matters."

Richardson, in a much-studied "charter" of authority for the special prosecutor, in turn promised that Cox would have "full authority" for "reviewing all documentary evidence available from any source, as to which he shall have full access."

Stevenson, Republican Sen. Charles Mathias of Maryland and other among the 28 Senators, who wrote two letters to Richardson during his confirmation hearing pinning down Cox's powers, now believe the administration has reneged. Stevenson feels that the denial of the tapes to Cox amounted to Mr. Nixon's "reversing the rules" and "undermining the authority" both of Richardson and of Cox. "Either Mr. Cox has full access or he does not, and if not our trust was misplaced," Stevenson told us.

The administration challenges the very source of the Stevenson argument: if Mr. Nixon really intended Cox to have total power over which White House documents and presidential papers should be given the Watergate prosecutors, Cox would be usurping the powers of the President.

Actually, say Mr. Nixon's men, the President never intended any such unprecedented delegation of power. What Richardson really meant to tell the Senate was that Cox would have exactly the authority which he, Richardson, would have if the Justice Department were in charge of the prosecution.

The fact is that, in making his pledge to the Senate Judiciary Committee (and separately in his two-letters to Stevenson), Richardson was acting on his own. His "charter" for the special prosecutor was never discussed with the President or with the White House lawyers who are handling Mr. Nixon's legal case.

That explains Richardson's ambivalent reaction to Cox's confrontation with the President. While asserting that the President's refusal of the tapes to the Senate Watergate committee rested "on substantial legal and constitutional foundations," Richardson added that the parallel request from Cox was "in full accord with the requirements of his job." Maintaining an above-the-battle posture, Richardson called for a compromise. Cox himself has no quarrel with that reaction or with Richardson.

To the Senators, however, this smacks of lawyer's language. Mathias believes Richardson as speaking for the President when he pledged sweeping powers for Cox. "If the Attorney General wasn't offering this deal in the President's name, as we thought he was," says Mathias, "it isn't worth very much."

Having been on the receiving end of White House deception and cover-up for months, the Senate is in no mood to bow meekly to the President's refusal to deliver his tapes. The coming Stevenson attack is the opening shot in a new Senate onslaught against Mr. Nixon which threatens to make his lethal political situation worse.

Precedents

If the concept of separation of powers is to be a workable one, it has to be on the basis of equality among the three branches of the federal government.

If Congress may not interfere with the legitimate functioning of the executive, neither can a president interfere with that of the legislative branch. Nor can either one tread upon the constitutional prerogatives of the judiciary, and vice-versa.

On this basis, there may be at least two recent precedents that cast serious doubt on the legality of President Nixon's refusal to turn over to the Watergate committee tapes of presidential conversations that the committee believes could assist its investigation.

On the same day in June, 1972, the Supreme Court ruled in two cases AGAINST congressional separation-of-powers claims that we are strikingly similar to the argument now being put forward on behalf of the presidency by Mr. Nixon, says Nathan Lewin, a Washington attorney and former deputy assistant attorney general.

The first, he recounts in the New Republic, concerned Sen. Mike Gravel of Alaska. In this case, the Justice Department was investigating the circumstances of Gravel's midnight reading of the Pentagon Papers and their subsequent publication by the Beacon Press, a Massachusetts publisher.

The question put to the court was whether the senator's assistant could be subpoenaed by a federal grand jury and compelled to testify about publication of the papers. Justice Byron White, speaking for himself and the four Nixon court appointees, went beyond the issue presented by the government and ruled that even the senator himself could be called by a grand jury and asked about his sources of information if they were "irrelevant to investigating possible third-party crime" and where the questions "do not require testimony about or impunge a legislative act."

The other ruling concerned former Senator Daniel Brewster of Maryland and was written by Chief Justice Warren Berger. It involved the criminal prosecution of Brewster for having received a bribe to influence his action on postal rate legislation.

"Taking a bribe," said Justice Berger, "is, obviously, no part of the legislative process or function." The Constitution, he ruled, "does not prohibit inquiry into activities which are casually or incidentally related to legislative affairs but not a part of the legislative process itself."

This is precisely what the entire Watergate affair involves, claimed Lewin. By shielding his records and tapes, the president is not securing against a prying Congress the internal workings of legitimate executive functions; he is cloaking "third-party crimes" and conduct that are "executive functions" only in the sense that they were performed in the White House.

"The robbery on the White House lawn does not become an executive function merely because it occurs at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue," says Lewin, "nor do unconstitutional invasion of privacy, obstructions of justice, perjury and other forms of misfeasance come within even the broadest definitions of legitimate executive powers."

A Reprieve

A truce has been declared in the war against the crown-of-thorns. Coral reef buffis will recall that this oversized starfish experienced a population explosion in the late 1960s and began eating away at Pacific coral reefs, especially in Australia and Guam. Bounties were put on the creature throughout the Pacific and untold thousands were destroyed.

Now, reports Smithsonian magazine, evidence is accumulating that the starfish may not be such a villain after all. According to one scientist, the starfish population may not really have exploded; it may simply be that in the 1960s more people began snooping around reefs and thus more people began noticing the crown-of-thorns because it was designated as a threat.

"LET THE CHIPS FALL WHERE THEY MAY" --- NIXON --- GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

The Doctor Says

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 26 and have cysts in my breasts. Sometimes they are very painful. My gynecologist said there were too many to take out, and to leave them in.

My mother keeps telling me to go to a different doctor. So I did, and he said the same thing. Now I don't know what to do. — Mrs. F. J.

You've had two doctors, tell you the same thing, so I would say it was time for your mother to decide that they know what they are talking about.

It is true that such cysts are no picnic, and the degree of discomfort fluctuates along with your estrogen level (that is, along with the hormone fluctuations of your menstrual cycle).

It also is true that sometimes cysts can be removed. (However, that does not guarantee that more will not form.)

If there are too many, they cannot be removed without removing the whole breast. It can be done if the condition becomes too unbearable, but doctors are reluctant to do that unless it is absolutely necessary.

poor circulation in my legs and it is very painful at times. Have been advised to see a vascular surgeon for surgery. Is this successful? — F. F. K

Assuming you were advised by a physician who had examined you, I certainly suggest that you do as you were advised.

But if you were merely told by a friend that surgery is the answer to poor circulation in the legs, I advise you to have some thorough diagnostic work done first.

My point is this: narrowing of the big arteries serving the legs can impair circulation seriously — and vascular surgery (that is, surgery on the blood vessels) can be gratifyingly successful in the right cases. For example, I am familiar with instances in which the patient could not walk across a room before the surgery but was able to go on hunting trips afterward.

On the other hand, there are other causes of faulty circulation which cannot be overcome by that method. Definitely determining the trouble is a must before you decide what to do.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you comment on tinnitus — what causes it and can it be treated and cured?

What effect can it have on a person so far as circulation and possible brain damage is concerned? — E.N.B.

Tinnitus is a technical term for ringing sounds or other ear noises. It does not have any effect on circulation, nor does it cause brain damage.

However, one of several causes is hardening of the arteries, which, of course, can damage the brain. There are other causes of tinnitus. For further details I refer you to my booklet on the subject, "Ear Noises, Their Causes and Cures." For a copy, send 15 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of Times-News.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have

Note to L.M.: You give me your reasons for not wanting to use any of the commonly used methods of birth control, and in such detail that I can't help thinking you know the answer to your question: "Could something be done for the man that would make pregnancy impossible?" The answer, of course, is vasectomy. (Since as far back as the 1920s there have been efforts to find a medication for men to prevent pregnancy, and such work still goes on. But without success yet.)

Headaches! You can beat them. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of the booklet, "How To Tame Headaches." Please enclose a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

BRUCE BIOSSAT

Inefficiency?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A very bright young man pleading for new freedoms said they ought to include "a little more tolerance of idiosyncrasy and a little more tolerance of inefficiency."

Idiosyncrasy, yes. Inefficiency, no.

This American society of 1973 lives on inefficiency as never before. It may in some curious way represent "freedom" to the people who practice it, but it is surely a deprivation of freedom for their victims. It exacts a heavy price in time and money wasted, in frustration and irritation, in loss of satisfaction and enjoyment.

We all know there are chronic complainers, some demanding impossible perfection. That's not what I'm talking about. I'm speaking of failure to do necessary, routine things in a way you ought, reasonably, to be able to expect.

I just finished a ride on one of the nation's lesser but still key airlines. It involved connecting flights. The ticket seller wrote up baggage tags on which our final destination appeared nowhere. He assured me he had "fixed" that part of the tags actually attached to the luggage.

On the trip the stewardesses ignored the man in front of us who smoked steadily in the nonsmoking section. When my wife told one that her soft drink was "flat" (had lost its fizz), the girl said such a thing couldn't happen.

At the terminal, one of three pieces of luggage was missing. It finally turned up, at a second baggage area a quarter of a mile from the first. The explanation? Simple. The airlines uses both. The customer on a given flight apparently takes polluck.

A government aviation official told me he handles thousands upon thousands of such complaints all the time.

In nine years I've moved my office once and my residence three times. In every single instance, telephone installers came with garbled orders. Never did they come at the appointed time, usually a long span designed for their own convenience.

Ever waited eight hours in vain in an empty house? When my office phone was moved, it was hooked up to a wrong number in the exchange. Without authority, they cancelled a credit card which took weeks to get reinstated.

Assurances of action daily filled the air.

I know of an answering service which regularly garbles three of every four messages it takes down.

Our car has a nagging oil leak. Mechanics have proudly declared "it's fixed" maybe 20 times. Each time, within a day or two, tell-tale oil stains spot the driveway.

A furniture company delivered us a "new" bookcase three times before we got one reasonably free of gouges. A carpet installer left a "ledge" of carpet sticking up in a way sure to trip you. Naturally I fell down the basement stairs. It took weeks, and much pressure, to get the thing repaired.

Ever tried getting a credit card firm to fix a mistake? You're talking to the wall. That marvelous contraption, the computer, serves these people to magnify and perpetuate human error.

My bright young man can have his "new freedoms." I'll take the old where a fair proportion of things got done right and I had a lot more time to live, not as the numbers-in-fact dictate, but as I myself choose.

Scouts romp at hot springs

FRANKIE FINLAYSON and Doug Hafer play keepaway at Starkey's Hot Springs between Council and New Meadows as Troop 65 Boy Scouts of the Twin Falls First Christian Church camp there on route to the National Scout Jamboree Aug. 1-9 at Farragut State Park. Snake River Area Council officials announced Wednesday that 160 area Scouts and 17 adult leaders are attending the event.

School lunch programs plagued by high prices

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Plagued by high prices and food scarcities, the Twin Falls school district's hot lunch program will open Aug. 27, and continue as long as possible during the school year.

"how long we will be able to continue depends on the availability of supplies," said Mrs. Evelyn Beck, hot lunch program director.

"Right now we have enough of everything on hand to continue for two weeks and will add to the supplies as we go along," she said.

Mrs. Beck said at this time she sees no indication the program will have to be dropped or curtailed.

"She said today the program will be in effect on opening day of school serving a "type A" lunch with the required amount of protein and various fresh or canned fruits and vegetables.

All of the schools in the country are facing the same problem, she said, and hopefully they will be able to bring about a solution.

Mrs. Beck said the Twin Falls program purchased beef last May and has it in freezer storage at Twin Falls Feed and Ice. This will supply the lunch programs for at least two weeks and possibly longer if it can be stretched.

"We will also be buying chicken and turkey. We will probably pay a premium price, but it appears these meats will be available," she said.

"She said the main shortage appears to be beef, but this may change after Sept. 12 when the price ceiling is lifted and growers begin marketing their animals.

Last May the school system adopted a nickel raise on all meal prices, she said. At that time it was felt the increase would be adequate to meet higher food costs but changes within the past month alone have made the situation questionable.

"Schools are still able to obtain butter, flour and shortening from the government for the cost of freight alone. This helps as all bread is baked by the hot lunch staff in all of the schools.

However, Mrs. Beck said, the schools can no longer obtain the special milk program.

The government reserved the special milk program for schools without hot lunches. This means, Mrs. Beck said, the children here will receive a half-pint of milk with their lunches but all extra milk will cost 10 cents rather than the previous 3 cents per half-pint.

Prices this year will be 35 cents per lunch in the elementary school, 40 cents in the two junior high schools and senior high school and 60 cents for adults, which includes faculty and school employees.

Mrs. Beck said this is still well below what a similar lunch would cost commercially or even at home. As a result, she expects more students and faculty members will be participating in the lunch program this year.

Mrs. Beck said a number of staples and canned goods were purchased last spring, prior to the end of the fiscal year, but there was a scarcity at that time in many of the canned fruits and vegetables and purchases were not as large as normal.

The outlook for fruits is good this year with most areas having an average or above average fruit crop, she said. There may be no cherries for example, but adequate peaches, pineapple and other substitutes.

IBM fined for secrecy

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal judge has ordered the International Business Machines Corp. to pay a fine of $50,000 per day for refusing to turn over to the government hundreds of documents relating to an antitrust suit which seeks to break down the giant computer firm.

IBM lawyers said they had obtained a hearing before an emergency appeals court judge today to try to get a stay of the order, which goes into effect Friday. The daily fine, if implemented, would be one of the largest ever levied.

Chief U.S. District Judge David Edelstein found IBM in contempt of court Wednesday and imposed the "coercive fine," designed to force the company to comply with his order to release the documents.

The Justice Department has demanded access to the papers in order to press the antitrust action which it brought against IBM four years ago. The government seeks to prove that IBM has monopolized the flourishing computer industry and should be divided up into a number of smaller independent companies.

Counsel for IBM have admitted that the documents are in their possession, and therefore IBM has the power to comply with the order," the judge said. "Accordingly, the failure to produce the documents constitutes contempt of court."

IBM claims that the more than 700 documents in question relate to confidential communications between the company and its lawyers and therefore it has a right to withhold them. Judge Edelstein, however, contends that IBM has forfeited any such right by previously giving the documents to the Control Data Corp. in a separate antitrust suit.

The documents were given to Control Data during an exchange of information in connection with that company's suit against IBM in 1968. Control Data charged that IBM had engaged in monopolistic practices, had prevented it from gaining "innumerable sales and leases of computers," and controlled between 77 and 90 per cent of the $18 billion computer market.

In imposing the fine, which will last until IBM relinquishes the documents, Edelstein said he took into consideration the company's ability to pay and the minimum amount which would be sufficient to compel the defendant to comply with his order.

He said the sum had been set after examination of the corporation's 1972 financial figures, which recorded net earnings of more than $1.279 billion.

Justice department lawyers had requested a fine of 5 per cent of IBM's daily profits, which would have come to $177,000 a day. IBM lawyers had asked for a token fine of $100 per day.

Communist insurgents threaten Phnom Penh

By United Press International

Communist insurgents threatening Phnom Penh from three sides opened a major new offensive today 13 miles southeast of the capital and were reported about 1 1/2 miles from the city's outer defense perimeter. There was open talk of intervention by South Vietnam on behalf of its embattled neighbor.

Field reports said four Communist battalions, which at full strength would number about 2,000 troops, had isolated the town of Dey Eth, 13 miles southeast of the capital and cut Highway 1, a vital lifeline to Phnom Penh.

The Cambodian command said Highway 1 was severed at Dey Eth, meaning the government had lost about six miles of the highway. The road was previously reported cut at Benteay Dek about 18 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

Government front line positions were established about a half mile from the town of Koki, 12 miles down Highway 1 from Phnom Penh. That put the rebels about 1 1/2 miles from the government defenders.

2 black teen-age girls file suit

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Attorneys for two black teenage girls filed suit Wednesday asking that federal agencies be barred from sterilizing anyone unable to understand the operation.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C. by attorneys for Minnie and Mary Alice Relf, who say they were sterilized without the consent of their parents.

The suit also added the name of Katie Relf, the girls' older sister, who said she escaped sterilization by hiding in a closet when a family planning nurse visited her home.

The suit asks for injunctions against the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The attorneys, Joe Levin and Morris Dees, have already filed damage claims totaling $15 million against HEW, OEO and the Food and Drug Administration, charging them with negligence. The Relf girls were sterilized by the OEO-funded Montgomery Community Action Agency.

The suit also asks that federal funds not be used for experimental birth control drugs and devices. The attorneys said the experimental drugs are used on poor people who form a class of helpless research subjects dependent on government health care.

If the court injunctions are granted, the two agencies would have 90 days to develop guidelines insuring informed consent was given before sterilizations were performed.

Haldeman lawyer calls senator 'little Jap'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The lawyer for Watergate witness H.R. Haldeman Wednesday called Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, a "little Jap."

Inouye, who lost his right arm fighting as an infantryman in Italy in World War II, shrugged off the remark.

"Well, it must be the summer heat," Inouye, a Senate Watergate committee member, said when informed of the remark by John J. Wilson, 72, the lawyer for Haldeman, the former White House chief of staff.

The peppery Wilson, who also has represented John D. Ehrlichman, the former White House domestic affairs adviser, at the Senate hearings, made the comment about Inouye's ancestry to a UPI reporter. He later explained, "I consider it a description of the man—I wouldn't mind being called a little American."

Inouye, who won an Army commission fighting with the famed Japanese-American 442nd Central Postal Directory Team in World War II, had little to say about the remark. "I think his statement speaks for itself," Inouye said.

Wilson made his remark following intensive questioning by Inouye and other senators of Haldeman.

Wilson's remark came when he was asked whether he believed Haldeman had been fairly questioned by Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn.

Wilson replied: "Oh, I don't mind Senator Weicker. What I mind is that little Jap."

When asked whether he considered the comment an ethnic slur, Wilson responded tartly, "To a man who has called one of my clients a liar?"

That reference was to a remark by Inouye last week, picked up by a microphone and heard by the national television audience. Inouye had said "what a liar" after questioning Ehrlichman.

"He hasn't apologized for it," complained Wilson who said he had received at least 50 telegrams about Inouye's remark and "I think he should apologize. I don't care if it was intentional or unintentional."

Astronauts reported in 'best shape'

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 2 astronauts say they are in the best shape they've been in since blastoff and flight controllers told them they can see "the sunshine on the other side of the clouds."

Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma were to run checks today on instruments scientists hope will reveal secrets about the Earth's resources.

They also were scheduled to continue medical experiments to see how they are adjusting to weightlessness.

Doctors were only slightly concerned about Garriott, who had pre-fainting symptoms Wednesday while conducting an experiment in an iron-lung type device that tests the astronaut's cardiovascular system in zero gravity. Flight Surgeon Dr. Paul Buchanan said he wasn't worried but would be "interested and watchful" when the space scientist tries the experiment again.

Flight Director Milton Windler said the planned two-month journey should be ready to settle down to a routine of study about the sun, the Earth and man living in weightlessness after the first space walk of the mission Saturday.

"We can see the sunshine on the other side of the clouds," Windler said happily. "After we pass the EVA (spacewalk) I think we'll be in good shape. They continue to get to feeling better as the days go on."

The space men said Wednesday was the best day of their flight so far and they had enjoyed their food for the first time since a bout with space age seasickness.

Windler said the space pilots were still a little behind in getting the 100-ton lab ready for research, but will take most of Friday to run experiments and prepare for the spacewalk. They were supposed to have the day off but volunteered to work.

Lousma will be testing Skylab's Earth resources experiment instruments in preparation for a long picture-taking sweep from Seattle, Wash., to the Gulf of Mexico on Friday. The special Earth-viewing cameras are designed to tell researchers facts about the Earth and how man is changing it — information that can't be gleaned from the ground.

Veteran moonwalker Bean seemed a little peeved Wednesday night in asking Mission Control to give the crew more flexibility in daily plans for the flight.

"If you got any friends among the flight planners down there, they keep telling us they're going to give us a little spare time to do this job," the Apollo 12 crewman said.

Armed forces reject proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The armed forces have strongly opposed a Justice Department proposal to save draft dodgers from jail, by allowing them to join the services, administration sources said today.

In past years draft evaders caught by the FBI have been given two choices by law — accept the draft or face prosecution. About half took the draft.

The draft law expired June 30, and now the only alternative to prosecution is for men to volunteer. But the armed forces decide whom they accept, and all three have said they don't want draft dodgers, about one-third of whom remain in Canada or Sweden.

Military officers say many of these men only become troublemakers once they enter the service.

The Justice Department, however, continues to propose that the youths be allowed to wipe their slates clean by joining the military.

"Our goal is not to throw a lot of people in the can but to enforce the law," a Justice Department official said recently.

LEONARD S. JANOFSKY heads association

State bar starts probe

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The state Bar Association is investigating President Nixon, John Ehrlichman and four other California lawyers involved in the Watergate affair to determine whether action should be taken against them.

While the bar association has no authority to prosecute, "it does however, have disciplinary functions - to perform with respect to members who may have engaged in illegal or improper conduct," Leonard Janofsky, president of the association, said Wednesday.

The most severe action would be disbarment.

Janofsky said it was "absolutely untrue that formal disciplinary proceedings have commended with respect to any member of the state bar arising out of Watergate."

However, he said, "Some months ago our attorneys commenced an inquiry into the conduct" of six members of the California Bar mentioned in relation to the Watergate, he said. He identified them as Nixon, Ehrlichman, fund raiser Herbert W. Kalmbach, former Justice Department official Robert C. Mardian, former White House aide Gordon C. Strachan and Donald Segretti, currently facing trial in Florida for alleged "dirty tricks" on behalf of the Nixon campaign.

Janofsky said the bar association had the equivalent of one person working full time on the investigation, and he would not characterize it as "intensive."

He said his staff will continue to "monitor the evidence being developed by the Ervin Commission" and has been in contact with Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox, the attorney general of Florida and Los Angeles District Attorney Joseph Ubusch, who is believed to be seeking indictments for the "Watergate West" burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office.

Ordinarily, he noted, the state bar refuses to reveal whether an attorney is under investigation, but the board of governors waived the rule in this instance after "thorough soul searching ... because of the general knowledge about the events of Watergate and the public assertion of misconduct by some lawyers."

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Mine is a very embarrassing problem. I am a 20-year-old college junior at a large university. For a while I dated what seemed to be a nice guy I'll call Bill. He attends the same "U," and is an art major.

Bill took some harmless photographs of me on the beach in my two-piece bathing suit last summer. After that I sort of broke off with Bill and started seeing another fellow.

I recently learned thru friends that Bill is painting a nude portrait of me, using as a model the picture he took of me in the bathing suit. Of course, he's using his imagination, but I don't like the idea. He's planning to use this "nude" portrait of me in an art exhibit. I do have a great body, but I don't want half the world seeing me naked; in addition to which I don't want people to think that I am the kind of girl who would pose for a picture like that. It could destroy my reputation.

Is there anything I can do to stop him?

NO NUDE MODEL

Portrait problem

DEAR NO NUDE: Since it's your "great body" Bill wants to immortalize on canvas, ask him to please use somebody else's face. If he refuses, ask him to please leave the suit on, or you will see a lawyer about bringing another kind of "suit" into the picture.

DEAR ABBY: This girl I like knows hand sign language. Big deal! She is always using it in front of me to talk to her friends. I never know what she's saying, except that she points to me, so I know she's "talking" about me.

I have asked her to please refrain from doing this, but she just laughs it off and continues.

This drives me up a wall. How can I get her to stop?

SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: Why don't you learn a little hand sign-language, and surprise her by "telling" her what you think of her?

DEAR ABBY: My husband has worked at the same office for many years. He seldom took me to any of their social functions.

Two months ago we were invited to a small party—about 20 people. My husband asked if I would mind if we picked up one of the girls from his office. I said it was all right with me.

At the party there were many friendly gestures between my husband and this girl, but the clincher came when a man from the office who did not know me, asked my husband if he had brought Sally.

My name is not Sally. My husband looked embarrassed and the girl from the office, who of course was Sally, gave the man who asked the question a reprimanding look.

I have lost a lot of trust in my husband. What do you say about this?

DUMB DORA

DEAR DORA: There were at least three people at the party far "dumber" than you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JACK CLARK, REALTOR, AURORA, ILL.: Please send me your complete address. I owe you $5.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Jerome miss, Wilson say nuptial vows

JEROME — Karla Kay Roberts and Danial W. Wilson were married July 21 at the United Presbyterian Church, Jerome.

The Rev. Robert Van Nest conducted the 9 a.m. double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with beauty baskets of white gladioli and blue carnations. Pale blue candles in candelabra decorated with fern and blue bows completed the setting.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Roberts, Jerome, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Wilson, Twin Falls.

Tom Tarter played traditional wedding music and accompanied soloist Bill Mobley.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of bridal satin in an empire style. The bodice featured a portrait neckline and short sleeves of chantilly lace accented with scalloped lace and seed pearls.

A tulle overskirt fell from the waistline accented with a tulle bow in the back. The long tulle sleeves had wide lace cuffs and the victorian collar was attached to the bodice with tulle.

Her fingertip veil of french bridal illusion was held by a headpiece of lace petals and pearls. The dress and veil were made by Mrs. LeRoy Bentzinger, friend of the bride.

She carried a trailing cascade bouquet of blue carnations, baby's breath and white roses. She also carried a lace handkerchief belonging to her great-great-grandmother from Denmark which was also carried by her mother and sister on their wedding days. She wore diamond earrings, a gift of the bridegroom.

Connie Bentzinger was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Dan Carroll and Kayleen Roberts, sisters of the bride, and Tammy Wilson, sister of the bridegroom.

Dennis McKinster was best man. Dave Armstrong, Allan Wubker and Timmy Wilson, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers and candlelighters.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony.

The bride's table was covered with lace over a blue cloth and centered with a three tiered-wedding cake decorated with clusters of blue roses. The tiers were separated by Grecian columns and cherubs. The cake was topped with satin bells, net and blue rosebuds.

Reception tables were covered with white and centered with brandy snifters decorated with blue lace, ribbons, lily of the valley and blue candles.

The Presbyterian Women's group assisted with refreshments. Pouring were Mrs. James Parish and Mrs. Dottie Bush, aunts of the bride and bridegroom. Mrs. LeRoy Bentzinger and Mrs. Bill Mobley served the cake.

Denise Bush, aunt of the bride, was in charge of the guest-book and thank you scrolls. Janet Newman, Mrs. Roger Morley, Mrs. Tony Arellano and Carla and Karlen De Hoog cared for the gifts.

Special guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bush and Mrs. Ayleen Roberts. Guests attended from Caldwell, Boise, Nampa, Twin Falls, Shoshone, Utah, Nevada and California.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents. Pre-nuptial showers honoring the bride were given by Connie Bentzinger, Mrs. Roger Morley, Mrs. James Parish, Mrs. Don Carroll, Kayleen Roberts, Mrs. Dave Armstrong, Mrs. Merle Leirman, Mrs. Jim Sharp and Mrs. Annabelle Sharp.

The bride is employed at Mountain Bell and the bridegroom is employed at Newton's Sports Center.

After a honeymoon trip to Payette Lake, the couple resides in Twin Falls.

Couple recites vows

TWIN FALLS — Sandra Freeman and Sp.4 Greg Scheele repeated marriage vows twice in the same day when they were married in Firth, Germany, July 6.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim H. Freeman, Halfway, Ore., former Wendell residents. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scheele, Twin Falls.

To comply with German law, they were united in marriage by a court official with the help of an interpreter at a civil ceremony in the Firth courthouse in the morning. An evening ceremony was conducted in the United States Army Chapel at the Army base in Firth with Chaplain Baasen officiating.

Serving as matron of honor and best man at both services were Samuel and Vickie Padilla. The newlyweds were served communion following the ceremony.

They were honored at a reception later in the evening.

The bride was employed by Walker and Depew attorneys before going to Germany to be married. The bridegroom is stationed with the 123rd Maintenance Battalion in Germany.

The couple will live in Firth until his tour of duty is completed.

won the trick with dummy's ace. B, sitting East, played the three-spot.

Four rounds of clubs came next and produced a heart discard from West and two diamond discards from East.

Three diamond leads followed, with West throwing another heart. Three heart leads then caused East to let the four of spades go and the time for decision had been reached.

Z led a spade, called for dummy's nine and made his slam.

As he remarked later on, A was too good a player to split equals on the first spade lead. His queen play had to be an attempt to cause Z to go wrong.

A B Y and Z who used to sit West, East, North and South in the auction bridge columns were back at the club again.

Z, sitting in his familiar South position opened one no-trump and Y promptly raised him to six. (Point count is easy for these old-timers since Milton Work used it for no-trump bidding in auction bridge.)

A was on lead as usual and made his safest possible lead, the 10 of hearts.

One look at the dummy and Z saw that he needed two spade tricks. It looked like a good idea to try one spade-lead immediately, so at trick two Z led his deuce of spades.

A played the queen and Z

Home tour in SV

SUN VALLEY — The Marshall Bennett residence, with a spacious view overlooking Sun Valley, will be one of the features of the annual tour of homes Saturday.

This year the tour will focus on Sun Valley homes decorated with an emphasis on natural beauty combined with a variety of art treasures.

Sponsored by the Ketchum-Sun Valley Community Library, the seventh annual tour will be conducted from 1 to 5 p.m.

In addition to the Bennett home, the tour will include residences bordering on the Sun Valley Golf Course fairways and owned by Hap Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Wynn and Mr. and Mrs. George Congdon; George Brenn's uniquely decorated "Cottonwood Cottage"; and the newly completed Norris home on Trail Creek.

Tea will be served in the garden of the Dr. Alan Coleman home overlooking Sun Valley Lake.

The Bennett home was designed by William Muchow and Associates, Denver, Colo., with the interior design by Tony Michalaros.

Architecturally conceived to be composed of three boxes, the home promotes a feeling of being in a gallery.

The house design accents simplicity and the gallery theme is carried out by stark white, linen-finished, vinyl walls throughout the home. The structure's high ceilings are done in fir flooring and rich brown carpeting predominates throughout the residence.

Furnishings and art work in the home are functional and varied. Upon entering the hallway, visitors step down into the "Gallery," which holds a complete collection of art books and publications.

Kimball residence features impressive exterior

Off the gallery is the dining area with handsome wooden tables and chairs as well as built-in cabinets for dishes and an unusual collection of Finnish glass.

To the left of the dining area is the living room — furnished with contemporary furniture in tones of brown, rust, beige and white.

A tapestry hangs above the living room fireplace, composed of stretched painted burlap with areas of hooked yarn in green, red, blue and white by Hinz.

General tickets will be sold before the tour at the following locations: the library, Charles Stuhlbergs and Atkinson's Market, all Ketchum; the Sun Valley Lodge information desk and the Sports Center, both Sun Valley; L. Herissons, Jerome, and Yost's Party Shop and Edson's, both Twin Falls.

Tickets will be sold on the tour day at Atkinson's Market.

SUBPOENAS have now been issued for Swensen and all his tapes (including scotch, adhesive, masking, electrical and assorted 8-track). According to the Government spokesman, the main reason given as to why Mr. Swensen, a completely unknown grocer from Twin Falls, Idaho, should testify is that Mr. Swensen probably knows as much about Watergate as the other witnesses, and especially as much as John Mitchell and E.R. Haldean. Which is all very strange, because Mr. Swensen wasn't even there. When interviewed, Mr. Swensen with tears in his eyes said, "Nobody's gonna take my tapes away from me. How can I sell my tapes if they're all in Washington D.C.?" Summary: If you can't stay awake watching Watergate, come to Swensen's Magic Markets for low prices & high excitement this weekend.

Kansas guard stabbed

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (UPI) — Warden Loren Daggett said Wednesday a "maniac killer" stabbed an unarmed guard to death during a violent lunchtime spree at the federal penitentiary. But Daggett admitted he doesn't know who the killer is.

Eighteen FBI agents began interrogating 600 inmates at the federal prison today to determine who instigated Tuesday's riot that led to the guard's death and the holding of three hostages for 11 hours.

"Only 11 inmates have been positively identified by the staff as having participated in it," Daggett said. "But I'm sure we'll find more."

Prison authorities believe 100 or more of the 2,000 inmates at the 78-year-old lockup were actively involved in the disorder. During the disturbance, two men fled to the laundry room where they held four hostages. After eight hours, one hostage was released to present the demand of a bargaining-grievance session to Daggett.

The two inmates in the laundry room, who surrendered when Daggett agreed to the discussion, claimed they took no part in the killing of guard Wayne Selle, 39, the father of three.

"I am convinced in my own mind that the killing and the activity in the laundry were tied together," Daggett said.

"I don't know for sure who killed the guard, but I know it was a maniac killer," the warden said.

Daggett said Selle was on the third tier of a cellblock and his killer chased him three flights to the basement area. Selle died of multiple stab wounds.

"He was probably stabbed on the stairway," Daggett said. "He was just at the wrong place at the wrong time. He was there when the maniac killer came along."

Officers have found a weapon and a bloody shirt they believe was directly involved in the killing.

Nearly all the inmates returned to the dining hall for lunch Wednesday, visiting privileges were resumed and custodial officers stored riot gear in a special facility outside the main gate.

Senate approves Colby

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William E. Colby, who promised to keep the CIA out of domestic spy operations and open its activities more fully to congressional scrutiny, has won Senate approval to head the agency.

The Senate voted 83 to 13 in favor of Colby's nomination Wednesday, brushing aside questions raised about the veteran agent's past.

It was the second time a career man from the CIA's plans and operations division—the so-called "dirty tricks" department—had risen through the ranks to become director of central intelligence. Until his promotion to the top job, Colby was the number three man in the CIA in charge of plans and operations.

He replaces James R. Schlesinger, named this spring as secretary of defense, at the helm of the nation's foreign intelligence collecting apparatus.

During debate over his nomination, Colby was praised by some senators as a paragon of professionalism and denounced by others as a "symbol of the illegal use of power."

Fish die as hatchery sterilization begins

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor

and into a tank containing a heavy chlorine solution. Then the steelhead were buried.

WENDELL — About three and one-half million steelhead fry were killed Wednesday afternoon as the Idaho Fish and Game Department opened its battle to rid Niagara Hatchery of infectious pancreatic necrosis (IPN).

The execution, which let the remaining three and one-half million join about another million already dead because of the disease, was done easily. The small fry, perhaps three-quarters of an inch long, were pumped from the raceways it marked the first setback in a heretofore highly successful story of transferring the anadromous fish from the dam-doomed Middle Snake River to the dam free Salmon river drainage. The project has cost Idaho Power millions of dollars over the years, provided biologists with strong working knowledge of the steelhead which were rather an unknown quantity before and gave Idaho fishermen probably the best steelhead sport fishing the state has seen in many years.

The IPN, identified at five different laboratories throughout the nation as the "Buhl strain," previously had been found in trout only. Because of the large investment and the inability to replace the fish, the Idaho Fish and Game Department decided to forfeit this year's crop in an effort to control the disease.

With the fish dead, the mop up operation will begin immediately. C. R. "Bob" Quidor, plant superintendent, said treatment of the water source, Niagara Springs, will start right at the outlets on the northside of Snake River Canyon. Water feeder pipes will be scrubbed with chlorine, all the race way and-hatching equipment and the office side of the plant also will be treated. After that the water will be diverted away from the hatchery and the August sun allowed to bake the entire system for at least two weeks. "The sun should be a better job than the chlorine," Quidor said; "but we're using both methods."

IPN manifests itself basically only in small fish, causing the mortality that first brought the Niagara Hatchery tragedy into notice. Fish of better size, say in the five-inch area, can be infected but the disease wouldn't be detected unless laboratory tests were made. However, all fish surviving the contagion become carriers on the disease, is passed onto progeny in the egg, thus the specie maintains its own seeds of destruction.

The introduction of IPN to the Niagara Plant is unknown but could have happened in many ways. The Snake River is an immediate culture for the disease and the world's largest concentration of trout hatcheries in the immediate vicinity provides a constant threat.

IPN, excepting in the early fry stages, is not a threat to commercial growers since infected fish, which are large enough to survive, still can grow to profitable length. The disease is not communicable to humans. However, unconfirmed reports indicate that one large commercial trout farm north of Buhl currently is starting a similar sterilization program after losing fry. Still, the loss of trout, while perhaps expensive, is not a major problem since trout can be replaced on a telephone order almost anywhere. Steelhead can't.

Probably the best bet is provided by fish birds of prey.

Kingfishers, the continually obnoxious sea gull, which hasn't helped man since the days of Brigham Young. Perhaps some dumb fisherman caught a couple infected trout in Niagara Springs and thought it funny when he flipped them into the steelhead raceways a 150 feet away. No matter. The run is gone.

Quidor first noticed the IPN about six weeks ago. "I was afraid it was IPN the first time I saw one of the fish die," the sad Quidor said Wednesday. "But we had a kill here last year of a large number of fish. I was afraid that was IPN but the five laboratories all sent reports back saying they were the healthiest dead fish they'd ever seen. They blamed it on pesticides."

"But this time all five sent back reports aying it was IPN and all five even identified the strain... the Buhl strain," he concluded.

The full impact of IPN outbreak won't be known until 1972, the year these fry were scheduled to return to the Pahsimeroi as spawning adults. It could leave a big hole that will take many cycles to fill, meaning poor fishing and constant dire consequences in high water, high nitrogen years. But it also will provide an answer to another little known fact on (a) how many four-year returnees are there and (b) do four-year returnee spawners pass this longevity on to their young.

Quidor reports this past spring, about 50 per cent of the fish caught at the Pahsimeroi were in the "four-year-cycle fish size." Should that high figure repeat itself in 1976, the steelhead program should have about two million eggs to rear at Niagara. Then 1979 will hold the answer as to whether some of those fish will come back in three — or wait for four. Should they come back — say half and half — the IPN caused cycle hole would be filled almost immediately. If not, it will take several more cycles.

Since the hatchery program is providing about 60 per cent of the sport fishing take in the Salmon drainage now, state anglers might face a few bleak years.

Quidor added the "B" strain or Clearwater steelhead which were eyed at Niagara and then immediately moved to the Hagerman raceways for rearing, were safely away before the IPN outbreak. Currently, they show no signs of the disease.

Disease eradication

EXECUTION OPERATION pumps thousands of steelhead fry from the raceway and into a chlorine solution filled tank. About three and one-half million fry died at Niagara Hatchery Wednesday afternoon as the Idaho Fish and Game Department fought to eradicate an infectious pancreatic necrosis outbreak.

Complicated Erving deal ushers in ABA meeting

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Basketball Association owners, notably Roy Boe of the New York Nets—appear to have retained Julius Erving for the not so small sum of $3 million, but before today's session of the annual league meetings are completed, they may have lost a franchise.

Erving, the 23-year old Super star forward who led the ABA in scoring last season, officially became a member of the New York Nets Wednesday after it became apparent that he would not be jumping from the Virginia Squires to the National Basketball Association's Atlanta Hawks.

No one really made much of a secret of the "arranged" transaction which also saw $500,000 change hands from Boe to Squires' owner Earl Foreman. In fact, Foreman came right out and admitted that it was a deal made to "keep Julius in the ABA as opposed to other alternatives."

To further assure that, the Nets will shell out another $600,000 or so to the Hawks as an inducement to forget about the contract that Erving signed with them last year. All of which brought a rather interesting response from William H. Alverson, President of the Milwaukee Bucks, who happen to have the NBA draft rights to Erving.

"It's the rottenest caper I've ever seen," said Alverson, who probably can't quite figure out why the Hawks are being reimbursed all that money for a player they didn't even have the rights to negotiate with. "I plan to raise as much hell with as many people as I can over this thing," added Alverson.

Meanwhile, the ABA owners will convene here today and the main topic of discussion figures to be the fate of the Charles O. Finley-owned Memphis Tams. Finley has tried unsuccessfully to unload the Tams and the betting is the ABA will disband the franchise and divide up the players rather than try to find another owner.

Erving seemed happy about the trade back to his hometown and quite possibly, he might even remain with the Nets for the full seven years of the $2 million contract he was reported to have signed. In addition to acquiring Erving, the Nets also picked up reserve center Willie Sojourner from the Squires and sent forward George Carter to Virginia along with the $500,000.

"New York has always been my home," said the 23-year old Erving.

Misses cut

EL CAJON, Calif. — Bruce McNea of Twin Falls and Joe Higham of Shelly, Idaho's two representatives in the USGA Junior national tournament, failed to make the cut in the first two rounds which ended Wednesday.

McNea had rounds of 82 and 79, missing the cut by four strokes. His misery basically was found on two holes on the front nine where he took an eight the first day and a seven the second. That amounted to six penalty shots.

Higham had a pair of 80s and said his putter failed him in an effort to pick up the three shots that would have kept him in the meet.

The two youngsters, along with Gary Duncan of Twin Falls, will leave next week for the national pro-proxy tournament in Ohio.

Challenger to use 'mind dynamics'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe "King" Roman, the Puerto Rican heavyweight who will challenge George Foreman in Tokyo Sept. 1, says he will do "anything that will help" ruin the champion's first defense of his crown.

Anything includes a series of meetings with Stewart Esposito of Mind Dynamics Inc.

From those meetings, according to Esposito, Roman will emerge with a technique of "how to think and operate at a deeper and more powerful level of mind."

Roman has had one such session and he said Wednesday that "It felt good. I have to think 'always duck'."

Looking extremely fit, the 6-foot, 200-pounder spoke by phone hookup with Foreman, who was in his training camp in Oakland, Calif.

But the rap on Roman is that he hasn't fought any real good ones, and that his early losses—including a knockout at the hands of Pedro Agosto—scarcely make him a worthy challenger.

"I was a playboy when I started," Roman explains.

Phillies' Twitchell blanks Chicago 2-0 with two-hitter

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Wayne Twitchell chalked up his second straight shutout Wednesday night to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Twitchell, who is now 10-3 on the season, allowed two hits

New York drops Pirates twice

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Stone pitched an eight-inning for 8-2-3 innings and John Milner hit two homers in the nightcap to lead the New York Mets to a 5-2 victory and a doubleheader sweep of Pittsburgh Wednesday night after Tom Seaver blanked the Pirates on four hits, 3-0, in the opener.

Braves batter Redlegs 14-6

ATLANTA (UPI) — Dave Johnson hit two home runs and Darrell Evans moved into a tie for the major league lead by hitting his 31st Wednesday night to give the Atlanta Braves a 14-6 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Sox knock Yankees from division lead

BOSTON (UPI) — Mario Guerrero's two-out single in the ninth Wednesday delivered a fight-marred 3-2 victory for the Boston Red Sox over New York, knocking the Yankees out of first place in the American League East.

After two outs in the ninth, reserve catcher Bob Montgomery slapped a single to left and Rick Miller followed with a walk. Guerrero, a former Yankee, then hit a 2-2 pitch off Yankee reliever Sparky Lyle into centerfield which brought home Montgomery from second with the winning run.

The loss, coupled with Baltimore's win over Cleveland dropped the Yankees out of first place for the first time since June 20. They now trail the Orioles by four percentage points.

A dugout-emptying melee erupted in the ninth inning when Boston catcher Carlton Fisk pushed batter Gene Michael out of the way in order to chase down Thurman Munson, who was running home on an aborted suicide squeeze. Munson, who had doubled and moved to third on a ground out, bowled Fisk over but the Boston catcher held the ball for

Royals beat Chicago, Wood

CHICAGO (UPI) — Hal McRae batted in three runs with a triple and a home run Wednesday night to lead Steve Busby and the Kansas City Royals to a 4-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox and Wilbur Wood.

McRae's triple in the eighth inning drove in two runs and his home run in the ninth drove in the other two. Busby pitched a complete game, allowing only one run on three hits and one walk.

Wood pitched a complete game, allowing only one run on three hits and one walk. He struck out seven batters.

May, Angels tame Rangers

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Rudy May, who had not won a game since June 18, cooled off the hot Texas Rangers Wednesday night as he hurled the slumping California Angels to a 5-1 victory.

May pitched a complete game, allowing only one run on three hits and one walk. He struck out seven batters.

Orioles drop Indians 4-2

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Boog Powell slugged his ninth homer of the season Wednesday, a 410-foot blast to deep centerfield, to spark the Baltimore Orioles to a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Powell's home run was his eighth in the season. The Orioles had won three of their last four games.

Brehm's cops city loop title

BREHM CONSTRUCTION came from six runs down over the last four innings to topple Red's Trading Post 12-7 and win the Twin Falls women's softball league championship in a playoff game Wednesday night.

It marked the fourth time the two had played in six days and went about as it should between the two closely matched squads. Each won two games and earned a championship.

Red's taking the city tournament with a pair of wins Sunday.

Red's looked like a big winner early Wednesday when some good hitting and some miscues by Brehm's gave them five runs in the third inning and a 7-1 lead.

But three walks, two errors, three hits and Karen Thompson's bases-loaded triple tied it up in the bottom of the inning and Brehm's held Red's scoreless from then on.

Hurting Red's was an ankle injury that held Rae Dene Bell, who sparked at shortstop Sunday, to part time action.

Unitas to start for Chargers

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) — Johnny Unitas, who has had problems with his right knee in the San Diego training camp, will start in the Chargers' exhibition opener Saturday night, coach Harland Svare said Wednesday.

Svare said his 40-year-old starting quarterback will play at least one quarter against the New York Giants at San Diego.

"The one-day practices have agreed with John," the Charger coach explained. "The knee trouble is correcting itself."

Unitas was traded to the Chargers during the offseason after spending 17 years with the Baltimore Colts. His backup man is Wayne Clark.

FCC boss favors experimental ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dean Burch, Chairman of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), said Wednesday he supported an experimental one-year ban on television blackouts of home games of pro football teams.

Arrangements between the National Football League and the television networks prohibit broadcasting football games within a 75-mile radius of the city where the home team is located.

A House Commerce subcommittee is considering several bills in response to complaints from fans that they can't get tickets to games because they are sold out and they can't watch them on TV. Burch said he favored three bills which would lift the blackouts for a one-year period to test their effect on the game.

"In a policy area of such complexity," Burch said, "we believe it is wise to test the waters before taking the plunge."

Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., the subcommittee chairman, argued that the NFL and its teams have become rich since 1961, when Congress exempted it from antitrust statutes so they could sign packages of contracts with the television networks.

"We made them whole and sold," MacDonald said. "They were teeter-tottering whether to stay in business and this Congress rescued them. When I hear how adversely it—my bill—affects football it doesn't make sense to me."

MacDonald introduced a bill to permanently eliminate blackouts if a home game was sold out 48 hours before kickoff.

The FCC, he said, is considering two rules, one dealing with blackouts and one dealing with pay-cable television.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q - For a good many years I have held quite a few shares of Nabisco, Inc. (NYSE). The company appears to be doing quite well and for this reason I am unable to understand why the shares just hand around 50. Since I depend on dividends for my livelihood should I stick with this stock? - V.D.

A - As you have noted, shares of this diversified food packager tend to move in cycles between the mid-sixties and mid-forties. For this reason I would hesitate to suggest a switch now when shares are close to the low end of their cycle. Several factors suggest an upturn in trading levels despite the profit margin squeeze apparent in the March quarter. At that time earnings rose 1 per cent year-to-year on a 1.14 per cent climb in sales. Although price increases of 3.21 per cent have been granted, not all of this has been taken by Nabisco at this time. Furthermore, wheat and materials costs are also thought to have peaked. It is from foreign operations that the greatest growth is expected. Expenses incurred in achieving market penetration in 19 foreign countries are now largely behind. Thus, profits from these operations are increasing more rapidly than sales. In 1969, 25 per cent of company sales and 8 per cent of earnings were derived overseas. Last year the proportions have moved to 29 per cent of sales and 17 per cent of income. For the current year some 20 per cent of earnings should come from foreign sales. Tax loss carryforwards from several subsidiaries will also be a factor will also be a factor in earnings gains. Diversification in recent years into non-food areas, now accounting for 10 per cent of sales, will help offset the cyclical nature of the company's business. Two acquisitions made in 1971 - J.B. Williams, toiletries and Aurora Products, toys - reported record sales and higher earnings last year. The recently announced agreement to acquire Associated Products, if consummated, will put Nabisco squarely in the $1.75 billion pet food market.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Taxation was one of the major causes of the 13 American Colonies' rebellion against the British Empire. Taxation without representation is tyranny became a rallying cry throughout the Colonies. The World Almanac recalls that this quote is attributed to James Otis in his speech 'Argument on the Illegality of the Writs of Assistance' given to the Superior Court of Massachusetts in February 1761.

Beef given to seniors

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Desert Gold CowBelles have given the Twin-Falls Senior Citizens Center a beef contribution.

The center will have to compete with other buyers at the meat counter, however.

The gift consists of five $10 certificates good for the purchase of beef items and can be used to help the center in the Tuesday Luncheon program.

About 75 persons attended the luncheon this week at which the gift certificates were presented.

In addition Mrs. Richard Noh, CowBelle president, and Mrs. Chet Brackett, chairman of the group's senior citizen program, presented a film on beef production and handed out beef buying and cooking information.

A demonstration on corsege making followed the beef program.

The Senior Citizens Center is continuing its program of serving low cost hot meals each Tuesday at the center for all interested senior citizens of the area.

It also provides a social outlet for the group with card playing, handicraft programs and similar activities each week.

TF bankers question need of new bank

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls bankers have questioned the need for another bank in the city.

Their comments were made in response to questions about Idaho Bank and Trust's (IB and T) application for a Twin Falls branch. Idaho Finance Commissioner Tom McEldowney is considering the Pocatello-based bank's application and has said he expects to make a decision soon.

"I think it (the establishment of an IB and T branch in Twin Falls) would definitely slow things down," said Maurice Clifton, vice president and Twin Falls branch manager of Bank of Idaho.

One measure of the need for more banks in a community, said Clifton, has been one bank for every 8,000 people.

"Four times 8,000 is 32,000 and we're already over Twin Falls City itself," he said, referring to the four banks currently operating in town.

Asked if he thought Twin Falls was currently adequately banked, Clifton said "Sure".

He said the establishment of an IB and T branch "wouldn't make it any easier" for Bank of Idaho. "We're the newest bank in town. That's where (we have) our best chance for competitive gain and they will come in and take over that position."

Clifton said he thought Bank of Idaho, which has the least deposits of any city (commercial) bank, would survive the addition of a fifth bank.

"We would survive, we'll always be here," he said. "Whether we make money is another question. We'll never let our charter go."

H. P. Nelson, assistant manager of First Security Bank of Idaho which ranks third in deposits of the four Twin Falls banks, also questioned the need for another bank, although he would not comment directly on the IB and T application.

"We at this point in time are not taking a position (on the IB and T application)," Nelson said. "Any position would have to come from our head office in Boise."

Nelson said he couldn't calculate the effect of an IB and T branch on First Security's operations. "To say what's going to happen in the future, who really knows? You would have that much less business to split up."

"The number one question is," Nelson said, "is the community being adequately serviced? We have quite a varied selection here now."

Curtis Eaton, president of Twin Falls Bank and Trust, which has filed a formal protest against the IB and T application, refused to comment on any aspect of the possibility of a fifth bank in Twin Falls.

Jack Ramsey, vice president and manager of Idaho First National Bank's Twin Falls branch, also refused to discuss the IB and T application.

Idaho First and Twin Falls Bank and Trust both had deposits of around $40 million at year-end 1972, far more than the $6 million and $11.2 million reported for Bank of Idaho and First Security respectively.

Belton Patty, vice president and cashier of Idaho Bank and Trust, said in Pocatello Monday that competition would be increased if IB and T were granted a Twin Falls charter, but he added, "In our feelings we aren't going to hurt any banks. They are all solid banks."

Patty said he did not think it was the role of the finance commissioner to protect banks against competition unless it could be shown that their profits would be endangered. He said the notion that any of Twin Falls' current banks would be endangered was "very far-fetched" in his opinion.

Patty called Twin Falls "an excellent growth area."

"There's not any question in our mind but that Twin Falls is moving ahead very well, and it's a major market in Idaho and we feel it's important that we be in there."

"We're not going in there as an attack on anybody," Patty added. "It's just part of our normal procedure to go into areas that look good. We don't believe that Twin Falls Bank and Trust is going to feel any more effect from us than they have from Bank of Idaho, and they haven't shown any drop in deposits. We would expect that to continue."

Drugs stolen

KIMBERLY — Two business establishments in Kimberly were entered Tuesday night, but only one appeared to have been burglarized, sheriff's officers said.

Burglars cut a hole in the roof of Jackson's Cafe, and officers said apparently they were confused while working on the roof and found themselves in the wrong building. They went back to the roof and cut a second hole, this time over the Kimberly Drug.

The drug store was entered and a quantity of what officers called "hard drugs" taken. No money was taken and other merchandise was undisturbed. Officers said an inventory is being taken to determine the exact loss.

Youth faces charges

HAILEY — A 17 year old juvenile from Costa Mesa, Calif., has been charged with grand larceny in connection with the alleged theft of a vehicle July 17 in California.

The youth was arrested Tuesday night by a Blaine County Sheriff's deputy. A second 17-year-old from Newport Beach, Calif. was arrested by a sheriff's deputy July 27, also in connection with the incident.

The vehicle, a 1971 small foreign pickup truck with a camper, has been impounded by the sheriff.

Both youths are presently being held in the Blaine County jail for California authorities.

TE hearing set

TWIN FALLS — The public hearing before the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission on a zoning variance request from E. R. Seabaugh is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Aug. 9 in the Judicial Building of the county courthouse.

The date was inadvertently reported as Aug. 19 in Tuesday's Times-News. The request is to allow construction of a residence with less than a 30-foot rear yard setback. The property is on Taylor Orchard Road near the Snake River canyon.

Hailey man charged

HAILEY — A Hailey man has been charged with interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle and two counts of possession of stolen property.

According to Hailey Police Chief Doug Williams, Daniel Sparks, 23, was arrested early Tuesday morning at Ohio Gulch, north of Hailey, by two Hailey officers, aided by Blaine County sheriff's deputy and two Ketchum police officers.

Sparks was subsequently released to federal authorities. Williams said the charges were made in connection with the alleged theft of a 1973 motorhome, valued at about $14,000 March 19 in San Diego, Calif.; and an alleged theft of a 1973 pickup truck, which is believed to be from the Salt Lake City, Utah area. Both vehicles have been impounded.

Hospital plan aired

RUPERT — Minidoka Memorial Hospital will join 34 Idaho hospitals in a purchasing program of consumable supplies.

The Western Hospitals Improvement Program, Inc., members will attempt to reduce prices of their purchases by group buying, according to an Idaho Hospital Association news release this week. During its first year of operation, members hospitals have saved over $150,000 on group contracts, according to Lewis A. Caruso, director of purchasing.

Two juveniles arrested in TF

TWIN FALLS — Two juveniles were taken into custody late Wednesday following an auto and foot chase by city officers in downtown Twin Falls.

The two were arrested about 10:30 p.m. in connection with the burglary of several automobiles in the south part of the city.

Both boys, ages 13 and 14, were reported by police to have been apprehended after someone called the police station to state two young men were going through parked cars. When officers arrived on the scene near the Zenith Wholesale Tire Co., the two youngsters ran and officers gave chase on foot and in the police car.

A number of items were recovered from bushes near the tire company building, officers said.

Officers reported parked automobiles belonging to Virginia Brown, Ronald Miller and Harvey Kingston, all Twin Falls, and Ray Barber, Route 2, Jerome, had been entered and items taken from the glove compartments and inside the cars. Mrs. Brown reported a stereo and tapes valued at $180 taken, and Barber listed his loss as including a jacket and groceries.

Barber's vehicle was parked near the LaCasita restaurant, the Miller and Kingston vehicles and that of Mrs. Brown were all in the vicinity of Zenith Wholesale Tire Co., 145 4th Ave. S.

The two juveniles were held in custody over night pending further court action.

Approval voiced on Oakley plan

OAKLEY — Only approval was voiced for establishment of the Oakley Library District at a public hearing here Wednesday night.

Cassia County commissioners met with a small number of interested residents to hear protests or approvals for the proposed library district prior to a final vote of the commissioners at their regular meeting next week.

Sole responsibility for the library organization lies with the commissioners who would appoint a local five-member library board to oversee the functioning of the facility.

More than 300 Oakley residents and district citizens have already signed petitions in favor of the library, well over the number of signatures required by law.

The library district will, if adopted, follow the same boundaries as the Oakley Highway District.

Attending the Wednesday meeting to answer questions on the establishment and functioning of library districts were Arlan Carl, director of Region IV libraries from Twin Falls, and representatives from library districts in Fairfield, Richfield and Minidoka-Asequia.

Call said that if the Oakley district is established a $200 grant and a 50 cent per capita grant would be available from the Region IV library. This would be in addition to 10,000 to 12,000 books already available in Region IV through van delivery service. Inter-library loan service would also be available, Call said.

Funds for the library district would come from a local mill levy as well as from Region IV public library funds. The site for the proposed library would be upstairs in the present Oakley City office building.

Parking ticket trial set in TF

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man who pleaded innocent to a parking ticket several months ago goes to trial today.

L. James Koutnik is expected to appear in magistrate division of Twin Falls District Court before Magistrate Daniel Meehl. Koutnik's case is believed to be the first trial in the city over a parking violation.

Koutnik was issued a citation for allegedly parking in a leased, off-street parking lot last February. The violation carries with it a $2 fine, according to the Twin Falls City Police Department. Koutnik is currently free on $2 bond, according to records in the Twin Falls Magistrate Court.

He said Tuesday he intended to base his defense against the charge of the violation that the city's authority to use police power to enforce city parking regulations should not extend to the leased parking spaces.

The city currently has about 70 such spots in the six-block downtown area, according to city manager Jean Milar, with the City Council approving their location.

Milar said persons may lease the spots from the city at the monthly rate of $7.50, and that part of the lease obligates the city to provide police protection against unauthorized parking.

Underpass readied

GLENN'S FERRY — The Union Pacific bridge and building crew is working on reconstruction of the pedestrian railroad underpass in the west end of Glens Ferry.

The underpass was flooded last winter and large timbers were washed away. The underpass is used by students and adults to cross Canyon Creek under the railroad tracks. Students have been climbing up and crossing on the tracks to get to school from the south side of town, creating a hazard.

There is a regular crossing at Commercial Street in the center of town.

School opening set

MURTAUGH — Murtaugh schools will open Aug. 27, according to Supt. Florin H. Hulse.

High school registration will be Aug. 23-24, and football practice will begin Aug. 15. A meeting of all players will be Aug. 14 at 8 p.m. in the boys gym.

Mariete Teasley will conduct a combined counseling program for the Murtaugh, Hansen and Kimberly schools. Mrs. JaNan Nielson, Burley, a graduate of Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, will teach English, literature, and speech, and Glen Richardson, graduate of Utah State University, Logan, Utah, will coach football and teach algebra and geometry.

Activity tickets will be $4.50 for high school and junior high; $3 for elementary and $1 for adult.

Prices for school lunch are: junior and senior high, 40 cents; elementary, 35 cents; adult school personnel, 50 cents and patrons, 60 cents. A free reduced price lunch policy will be published at a later date, Hulse said.

Idaho school aides meet in SV

SUN VALLEY — "School systems that cannot communicate effectively cannot really operate effectively," according to a Bellingham, Wash., school official.

Dr. James C. Roberts, assistant superintendent of Bellingham public schools, spoke Wednesday afternoon before the three-day annual conference for Idaho School Administrators and Trustees in Sun Valley.

During an interview after the session, Dr. Roberts said school districts should recognize "the basic right of the whole community to know."

If a district is spending hundreds of dollars a year, Dr. Roberts said, it should spend a "tiny fraction" of that sum informing the public how the money is being spent.

The Washington educator said the community should be made aware of the district's problems, goals and accomplishments. The district should also set up "some way of listening," he said.

During the session, Dr. Roberts quoted factors which contribute to the operation of a good school board meeting from an article written by Mrs. Helen Radke, past president of the national School Board Association.

These factors, he said, included:

- Hold regular scheduled meetings which are publicized in advance.
 - Hold open meetings and welcome the public and particularly the press.
 - Provide the attending public with a printed explanation of mechanics of the school board and board meeting operation, including information about how the public may place items on the agenda.
 - Publicize meeting agenda items and provide agenda copies for all persons at the meeting.
 - Encourage good school news coverage and cooperate fully with various news media.
 - Set aside time for written and oral communication.
- Dr. Roberts encouraged administrators and trustees to formulate a communication plan and to research methods to implement it.
- Steps to be taken in formulating the plan, Dr. Roberts said, were to decide on the objectives of the program; identify the various groups or publics within the district; categorize the types of information to be disseminated, and research the various media open to the district.

Exporters put squeeze on Idaho cattle feeders

TWIN FALLS — Exporters bidding aggressively for barley and other grains have driven prices up "dramatically," putting the squeeze on cattle feeders, an Idaho feeder's representative said Wednesday.

Tom Hovenden, secretary and manager of the Idaho Cattle Feeders Association, said foreign buyers or local representatives of foreign interests have been buying "a lot" of grain, especially in the Pacific Northwest and either shipping it out of the U.S. or holding it for later export.

Many U.S. buyers who normally buy from certain farmers have contacted the farmers to find that their grain, principally barley, has already been sold to exporters, Hovenden said.

As a result, the Idaho Cattle Feeders Association has been publishing advertisements in newspapers calling on local barley growers to give local cattle feeders a chance to buy the grain before it is sold for export on the "Oriental Express."

Hovenden blamed devaluation of the dollar for part of the problem. "Everytime the dollar gets devalued it's easy for these people (foreign buyers) to come in and buy the grain. Money is no object. They've got a lot of cheap dollars."

Hovenden said the grain pinch is being felt nationwide but is probably worst in the Pacific Northwest where access to West Coast ports and a short barley crop have combined to accentuate demand. All the Pacific nations are buying the grain, Hovenden said.

Price controls on beef have helped to put the squeeze on feedlot operators, he said, along with the high costs of feed to producers of hogs and chickens bringing cutbacks in those meat sources and putting additional pressure on beef.

Hovenden also claimed that Canadian interests were buying beef on the hoof in the U.S. at higher prices than U.S. feeders can pay and shipping it to Canada for processing and import back into the United States.

"There are no ceilings on beef imports," he said. "It's legal, but if an American packer did it they'd fine him and put him in jail."

One Magic Valley feedlot operator who asked not to be identified said he normally has close to 2,000 cows in his feedlots but now has only about 10 head.

He said he has put his cattle out on grass and has been unable to buy cattle from other growers who are waiting to see what the price of beef will be when the price freeze ends on Sept. 12.

The feedlot operator said increased feed costs and beef prices have cut his margin to almost nothing.

"We bought all our grain last year for $3.25 to $3.35 per hundredweight," he said. "Six weeks ago we bought at $3.35. The markets as of yesterday were from $4 to $4.75 per hundredweight."

He said he knew of at least one grain buyer in the Magic Valley who had been buying grain for export but refused to name him.

"From two weeks ago the costs on gain (to cattle per pound) have gone up at least 2 cents," he said.

Twin Falls feedlot operator Ralph Olmstead presented a less alarming picture. He said grain exports had not affected his operation "at all yet" but had him concerned.

"The local cattle feeding industry depends upon local feed for its success," Olmstead said. "When shortages develop in areas outside of our valley, those areas, wherever they may be, tend to draw on the supplies that are available here."

Olmstead said short grain crops in Montana and northern Idaho had left those areas depleted and would probably affect Magic Valley prices. Increased export demand in Magic Valley would compound the problem, he said. He was careful to note, however, that export demand was only an element in a short crop situation outside Magic Valley.

"There isn't a shortage of grain (in Magic Valley)," he said. "It's just due to the export demand we're seeing more than the usual demand on a beautiful feed grain crop—but if there's two guys wanting every bushel that's grown then it changes the picture."

Olmstead said there has been "considerable speculation" about the price of grains to be harvested this fall, but he said he thought it was too early to tell how high prices might go.

"At harvest last fall in Magic Valley the price of barley and mixed grains, including wheat, was $2.35 to $2.40 per hundredweight," he said. "Now wheat is over $5 and mixed grains are being speculated at $4.50 to $4.60. The general trend from last year to now is one of a fairly regular climb."

Olmstead said he was not cutting back on his cattle feeding operation.

The cattle feeder's advertisement, he said, was merely to alert grain growers to export buyers so that they would not be "caught unaware" when approached and offered a high price. He said the advertisement implied that local feedlot operators would meet export prices.

Paper supply short

NEW YORK (UPI) — A combination of bad weather, labor problems and the failure of publishers to stock up properly has led to a paper and newsprint shortage, according to sources contacted Wednesday in an informal United Press International survey.

"We were warning people a year ago to stock up on paper," Arthur Kaufman, a spokesman for the Newsprint Information Committee (NIC), said. "But they did not build up their inventories."

"Some bad weather in the South this spring has hurt," said Bob Crane, a spokesman for the American Paper Institute. "I also understand there have been some strikes in Canada" — where a good percentage of paper is manufactured, particularly newsprint.

Two unions Tuesday tentatively agreed to end a two-week strike at MacMillan Bloedel's Port Alberni, B.C., plant. MacMillan Bloedel is one of the largest newsprint manufacturers.

The price of newsprint has increased by about $10 a ton within the past eight months, with most manufacturers claiming these actions were caused by higher costs.

"Pollution control has made it difficult for many manufacturers to expand. This is a big factor in the tight paper situation now: insufficient capacity," Crane said.

Publishers consumed 10,270,000 tons of newsprint in 1972 and the Newsprint Information Committee projects it will buy around 10,750,000 tons this year.

The ton price in the New York district now stands at around $175 and in the South around $173. This is about $10 higher than eight months ago. There were two recent $5-a-ton increases in newsprint within five months.

Davis Taylor, chairman of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, recently said price increases posed budgetary difficulties for newspapers. In addition to increased costs, he noted that newspapers were having to spend more on editorial, production and business operations.

Newspapers, according to Kaufman of the NIC have gotten larger over the past few years because "advertising has increased substantially. There are many more pages now than 10 years ago," he said.

A big problem, Kaufman said, was that publishers started out 1972 with an inventory of 28 days worth of paper, compared with 38 days in 1971 and 42 days in 1970.

Just how long the shortage will last is controversial. Kaufman said he thought it would last until sometime in 1975. Ralph W. Michaud, a vice president of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, was more pessimistic in a recent speech.

"Frankly, I believe that the tight paper situation may be with us through 1980," he said.

That our word "gargle" comes from the French "gargouille" meaning "throat" has been reported. That's where the medical treatment called the gargle originated, France. But do you know what the first gargles were? Wines. With maybe a little mint, sage or rosemary tossed in. But wines. Record shows those patients, the rascals, approved the new-found treatment immediately.

Most of the security firms which hire out their private policemen to protect businesses have one basic rule: Once an employee is caught stealing, never give said employee another chance. No, this doesn't mean the security boys invariably prosecute. But the policy positively calls for the firing of the thief, right now, goodbye, go.

Q. "In what month are the most murders?"
A. In July and August, usually. The crime boys blame the heat and humidity.

DAYS OF WEEK

Am told there are still those who believe that each day of the week is either masculine or feminine. Take Saturday, for instance. A male day, I suspect. But Friday is said to be female by virtue of the fact it was named after Fraya, the Scandinavian goddess of beauty and love, fra la la. What are Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday?

Note it stated that bachelors rarely get famous. Interesting, if true. But what about Michelangelo, Rabel, Petrarch, Alexander Pope, Sir Isaac Newton, Schopenhauer, Charles Lamb, Whittier, Swinburne, Voltaire, Cecil Rhodes, Walt Whitman, Lewis Carroll, Henry James, Chopin, Liszt and Beethoven, bachelors all?

DOCTORS

Where is a doctor most apt to be sued for malpractice? California, Minnesota, the District of Columbia, Alaska and Oregon. Or such be indicated by a study of the records. Jewelers say rubies are best for brunettes, sapphires for blondes and emeralds for redheads. Turquoises, they say, are the only colored gems flattering to all women. Time it takes your eyes to recover from glare doubles every 13 years from the age of 16 onward. Explains why night driving against oncoming headlights can get a little tricky for the elderly.

What the following articles of clothing have in common is obvious, no? The derby, macintosh, bloomers, cardigan and bowler, all named after people. These date way back. But slacks are not called Marlene Dietrichs. They should be. Nor are tight sweaters termed Lana Turner. And sarongs aren't referred to as Dorothy Lamour's, either. That's odd. Can think of only one item of attire in the last 50 years similarly labeled. The Nehru jacket. Any others?
