White House rejects oil control program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration rejected today for the "foreseeable future" a mandatory allocation program for petroleum and petroleum products, choosing instead to try to make the present voluntary program more effective.

John A. Love, director of the White House Energy Policy Office, did release a draft of a mandatory allocation program for oil products and invited comments from interested parties concerning future consideration.

"We are not now planning to implement the mandatory program at any specific time in the foreseeable future," Love said. He said he believes the mandatory program has "significant flaws both philosophically and practically."

He added, "It runs the very great risk of reducing, not increasing, the available supply of fuels."

Love said however, "We are publishing this week in the Federal Register a draft mandatory allocation program for petroleum and petroleum products.... We are attempting to develop the best program in recognition that circumstances in future may require such a program."

—Love also:

—Predicted that winter supplies of home heating oil would be sufficient to avoid serious shortages next winter unless there is severely cold weather.

—Praised the petroleum industry's performance in stepping up gasoline production to avert severe, nationwide shortages this summer.

—Said both federal and state environmental regulations might be adjusted to allow increased use of coal and more readily available oil with high sulfur content as means of alleviating shortages.

Love said he had given careful study to the current voluntary fuel allocation program.

Cambodia bombs legal to Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration, victor in three more court skirmishes, will be able to continue its bombing campaign in Cambodia until the midnight Tuesday deadline set by Congress.

A Supreme Court justice, the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York City and a U.S. District Court in Boston turned back in Wednesday rulings attempts to bring an immediate end to the bombing.

At the same time, the Senate Armed Services Committee was continuing its probe into secret U.S. military operations in Indochina. The senators were told by Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the Army chief of staff and former commander in Vietnam, that he did not know why falsified records of 1970 bombing missions in Cambodia were presented to Congress.

The false records, Abrams said, involved bombing missions that were conducted as deep as 150 miles inside Cambodian territory but were presented as having occurred inside South Vietnam or near the South Vietnamese border.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, was incredulous. "We got information that was erroneous and you got information that was right?" Hughes asked.

Mishap kills Rupert man

RUPERT — A farm accident claimed the life of a 19-year-old Rupert man late Wednesday morning on a farm 11 miles north and seven miles east of Rupert.

Kevin Hubel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cletus E. Hubel, was killed instantly when the tractor he was driving tipped over backwards onto him, according to Mindoka County Sheriff Theo Johnson.

Funeral services are pending at Magie Valley Funeral Chapel, Rupert.

Tape suit set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate Committee decided to file suit today in an attempt to force President Nixon to turn over tape recordings of his White House conversations on Watergate.

The committee's deputy chief counsel, Rufus L. Edmister, said the suit, seeking a "declaratory judgment" that Nixon turn over the tapes, would be filed some time in the afternoon in U.S. District Court.

Committee sources said the suit would follow the argument used by the special Watergate prosecutor, Archibald Cox, who has said in his suit that Nixon's argument that the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers protects the tapes is not valid.

McCulloch asks dismissal

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILLEY — McCulloch Properties Inc. and Robert P. McCulloch Jr. have filed a motion to dismiss a complaint brought against them by 16 Hailey property owners.

The motion was filed in Federal District Court, Boise, Wednesday afternoon by Stephen W. Boller, Hailey, attorney for McCulloch Properties. The complaint was filed July 16 by Ketchum attorney James B. Donart.

The class action suit, brought on behalf of owners of unimproved real property within Hailey, also named as defendants Hailey mayor Lawrence Heagle and councilmen Neal Nyblad, Claude Porter, Lyle Breneman and Charles Dunn.

According to a McCulloch Properties news release, the motion for dismissal is based on the grounds that the complaint fails to state a claim against any defendant upon which relief can be granted and that the plaintiffs had not given "proper advance notice" of the alleged violation of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act.

In addition to seeking dismissal of the complaint, the motion asks the court to award litigation costs.

City of Rocks legislation due

OAKLEY — Legislation is expected to be introduced in Congress this fall to establish a National Monument at the City of Rocks south of here.

Spokesmen for both Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, said Wednesday the National Park Service was preparing drafts of the legislation. They both indicated it could be introduced in Congress in September, when the summer recess ends.

Interest in the City of Rocks for possible inclusion in the National Parks system was untitled over a year ago, when Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, requested a study be undertaken. A Park Service team toured the area in September, 1972 and the Idaho Bicentennial Commission has declared the site a historical site that should be preserved.

Paul Fritz, superintendent of the Craters of the Moon National Monument near Arco, who has done much of the work on the City of Rocks, said this week the Park Service report had been circulated among several interested persons, including the state's Congressional delegation.

The area encompasses about ten square miles of granite formations in southern Cassia County.

Agnew slaps 'damned lies'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spiro T. Agnew branded as "damned lies" Wednesday allegations he was involved in a kickback scheme in Maryland. He said he did not expect a grand jury to indict him and vowed he will continue to perform his duties as vice president.

"I have appearances scheduled," Agnew said in a calm voice. "I intend to keep those appearances."

Immaculate in a grey suit, he stood, hand in his suit pocket, at a podium before a background of blue curtains in room 405 of the Executive Office Building. His audience, illuminated by bright television lights, were members of the Washington press corps. Five years earlier, to the day, he first had accepted the Republican nomination for vice president of the United States in Miami Beach, Fla.

"Thus, the man who rose in three short years from the obscurity of county office to the nation's second highest office fought back at a news conference against charges that suddenly had darkened his career.

"I have no intention to be skewered in this fashion," Agnew said in an opening statement, "and since I have no intention to be so skewered, I have called this press conference to label as false and scurrilous and malicious these rumors and accusations that are being circulated."

He referred to a federal grand jury investigation of him for possible tax fraud, extortion, conspiracy and bribery violations in connection with what has been described as the award of state and federal contracts in Maryland when he was both governor and vice president.

Agnew made these points: —He denied "outright" one news report he was alleged to have received a $1,000 a week kickback. "I am labeling them—and I think a person in my position at a time like this might be permitted this departure from normal language—as damned lies."

—Asked if he would consider stepping down temporarily until the matter is cleared up, he replied tersely, "I have not." He said he did not intend to let it interfere with the execution of his vice presidential duties.

—He has "no expectation of being indicted." He said, "I am not going to face any kind of contingent thinking in that respect at this time."

—He has "not decided exactly" what he will do about the constitutional issues involved. No vice president has faced such a problem before. He said he would try to follow the advice of counsel.

AF bridge 'feasible'

BOISE — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus announced Thursday that a "preliminary engineering report" for the re-location of state highway 28 establishes the feasibility of a four-lane bridge across the Snake River at American Falls.

The preliminary report was delivered to the highway department earlier this week by the Bechtel Corp., San Francisco, Calif. The governor said a follow-up contract for foundation investigation and structure design is being immediately negotiated.

The Idaho chief executive called the current negotiations "a significant step toward early construction of the American Falls project." He stressed that both the river crossing and the replacement dam are part and parcel of the proposal.

The governor noted that continued cooperation among American Falls residents, space-holders and the state of Idaho could result in construction of the bridge substructure during the low water period of the winter of 1973-74.

Balloonist hits drink

HALIFAX, N.S. (UPI) — Robert Sparks, who tried to be the first man to cross the Atlantic ocean in a balloon, ditched into the sea 30 miles off the coast of Newfoundland early today. The Canadian Coast Guard said it was en route to pick him up. (See story, p. 19)

"We have him in sight," said Coast Guard Capt. Bill Whitehead. "He is apparently all right." The Coast Guard spokesman said the nine-story red, white and blue balloon had broken free from the gondola and was floating to the northeast.

Louis-Schmelling duel again

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe Louis and Max Schmelling (right) appear in the ring again tonight, but just for fun. The two former heavyweight boxing champs will appear at the West German-U.S. amateur boxing matches at the Nassau Coliseum on Long Island. Schmelling kayoed Louis in a 1936 bout. Louis evened the score with a one-round knock out in 1938.

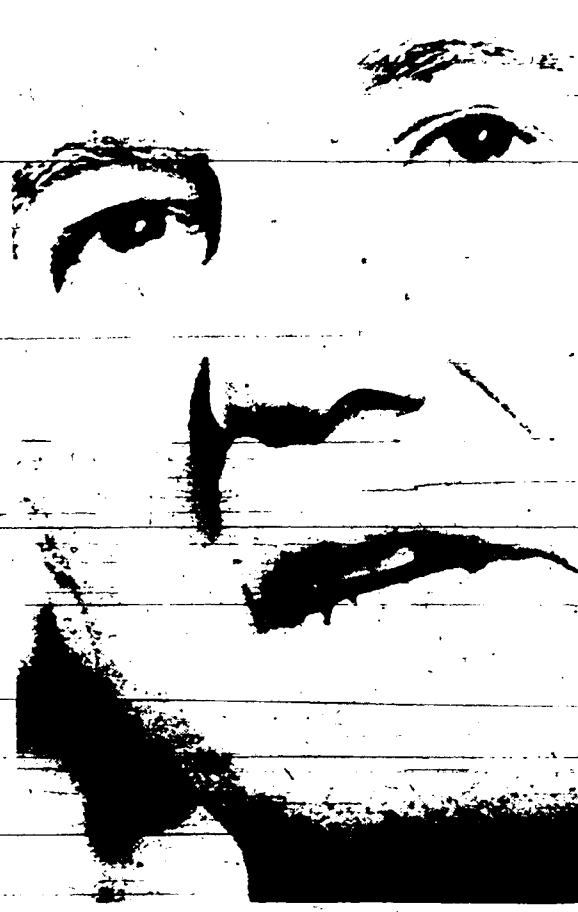

Gold drops

LONDON (UPI) — The price of gold dropped to its lowest price in three months today, and the U.S. dollar rode the other end of the seesaw to a slight recovery against most European currencies. Most gold dealers attributed the fall in the price of gold to higher interest rates offered in many countries, including the United States, Britain and Holland.

Study recommends guns be outlawed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans maintain a national arsenal of some 30 million privately-owned handguns, and these should be outlawed by 1983, a federal advisory commission recommended today. A report entitled "A National Strategy to Reduce Crime" said, "Americans are accumulating handguns at a rate estimated at 1.8 million weapons a year. The national arsenal of privately owned handguns is estimated to be as high as 30 millions." The National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals, which issued the 318-page report, recommended that existing federal, state and local laws relating to handguns be strenuously enforced. It further recommended that states undertake publicity campaign to educate the public fully about laws regulating the private possession of handguns.

The commission was created by the Justice Department in 1971 under a $1.75 million grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. It was charged with developing a blueprint for crime reduction programs for state and local governments and private citizens. The commission said the 1968 Federal Gun Control Act encourages states to enact their own legislation to control firearms, but that Congress and the states have been slow to act in this area. It urged enactment of state legislation providing a prison term of up to 25 years for committing a felony while in possession of a handgun. The commission cited statistics showing that during 1971 approximately 9,000 persons in the United States, including 94 police officers, were murdered with handguns. Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson, commenting on the report, said, "The federal government is neither endorsing nor opposing the hundreds of specific standards and goals contained in this report, though we naturally agree with its overall objectives."

Boy's CB voice said cruel hoax

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — A voice believed that of a very scared boy sitting alongside his dead father and signaling hysterically for help on citizens' band radio disappeared today. Authorities indicated the SOS signals may have been a cruel hoax. The voice was monitored off and on by a widespread network of citizens band buffs, known as CBERS, since 3:45 p.m. Tuesday. CBERS from Mississippi to California said they picked up the radio signals.

Juveniles arrested in thefts

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls juveniles were in custody today on burglary charges. According to Chief of Detectives Tim Qualls, the juveniles were arrested about 4 a.m. today after they allegedly ripped a vending machine off the wall of the Greyhound Bus Depot men's room and opened the coin box. Further investigation, Qualls said, revealed that the juveniles were involved in other pop machine and concession stand thefts. Detectives are continuing to investigate the extent of the thefts, Qualls said. The arrest of the two juveniles came after the bus station incident, when a bus station employe cornered one of them in the men's room, police reports said.

Dismissed ISU professor files $2 million lawsuit

BOISE (UPI) — Contending he was deprived of his right to equal protection by law, a biology professor fired from Idaho State University has filed a $2 million lawsuit against ISU and the board of education. Dr. Rufus A. Lyman contends in his suit, filed in U.S. District Court against President John Swartley of the board of education, eight board members, ISU President William E. Davis, and others, claims this is the first time in history the board has fired an academic employe without a hearing. Lyman, represented by the American Civil Liberties Union, asks reinstatement to his former tenured position as professor of biological sciences and a full hearing with proper safeguards if charges come against him after he is reinstated. He also seeks $1 million compensatory damages for alleged harm to his reputation and to his professional and personal associations as well as mental suffering and earnings loss. In addition he seeks exemplary and punitive damages against the defendants in the amount of $1 million and costs of the action. Lyman, who had taught at the school for 25 years until the board fired him last April, alleges the defendants violated his statutory right to be free from any conspiracy to deprive him of the equal protection of the laws. He alleges there was a "conspiracy" in an initial directive to the president of ISU from the board of education to conduct an in-depth evaluation of him without naming specific charges against him. Lyman wrote the chairman of the Faculty Affairs Committee April 16 asking that a questionnaire being circulated about him include a statement to the effect that persons supplying any derogatory material should be prepared to prove any allegations before a court. The board later contended that Lyman's letter was "calculated to interfere with the orderly, in-depth study it directed to be made" and therefore terminated him. Lyman's suit says that other than the interference allegation the board made public no other charges against him.

Bread price up in Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — Reflecting record high prices for wheat, the price of bread went up two cents a pound today and bakers said another raise is expected "as soon as we can get it in the works." Meantime, surveys indicated rising food costs are sending more and more Treasure Valley shoppers out to the farms to buy food directly. Prices at the farm now are rising, too, surveys showed.

Thurgood: A Shining Example

WASHINGTON — The wry comment of an old and genuinely liberal friend points up the special significance of Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall's refusal last week to order an immediate halt to the U.S. bombing of Cambodia.

lifted the stay while the highest bench was in recess. That he did not do so — although he is the Court's foremost liberal — was a shining reminder that due process in a government of three equal branches is still alive.

Marshall said simply that it would be improper for him to speak on a crucial issue for the whole Supreme Court. He was saying there was a difference between what he could do and what he should do.

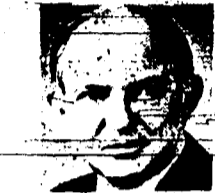

Judges across the land, liberal or conservative, should ponder carefully Marshall's words. His 12-page opinion made it clear that he is sympathetic to the legal arguments against the bombing, particularly the contention that Congress had not provided authority for continued involvement in Cambodia.

ambitious members of Congress, he would not play God. He would not speak for the Supreme Court on the fundamental issue of the President's war-making powers when the Court has never confronted them before.

President Nixon, Cox And ITT

Nixon-Agnew confidence breach told

(c) Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — President Nixon had begun to turn away from Vice President Agnew well before the news broke publicly that Agnew was under a far-reaching criminal investigation.

Many details of the puzzling estrangement, which began sometime in late May, shortly after the President had promised to give his Vice President a bigger piece of the White House action, are lacking.

Whether Nixon knew well in advance that Agnew would become another embarrassment to the administration, adding measurably to Nixon's Watergate problems, is not known.

It is known that a chill developed between the President's and Vice President's offices almost overnight and that Agnew has lately found himself adrift, out of the mainstream of the Nixon administration.

Reports that Agnew has become the target of a criminal investigation in Baltimore were accepted by the White House Tuesday without comment and without even a perfunctory vote of confidence, despite Agnew's insistence that he is innocent of wrongdoing.

Agnew said in a statement that he is "innocent of any wrongdoing" and "confident my innocence will be affirmed" by the judiciary system.

McGovern campaign eyed

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The FBI has made an inquiry into Sen. George McGovern's 1972 campaign expenditures in Connecticut at the request of Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Cox's Washington office declined to provide details on the allegation or who made it. Agents spent Monday and Tuesday examining the financial records, Herbert D. Clough, assistant special agent in charge of the FBI in New Haven, said Tuesday.

US bombing policy in Cambodia hit

By JOSEPH KRAFT

The melting of government authority in Cambodia presents in stark terms a question that should have been pressed years ago: Does it really matter whether Cambodia goes Communist?

Not very much is the short answer. Certainly not enough to justify the administration's murderous bombing policy with its inevitable erosion of public faith in the integrity of the American government.

By itself Cambodia is unimportant. The country is almost entirely undeveloped, and its six million people, the most peaceable in Southeast Asia, threaten nobody.

Even if a Communist regime did take over, which is by no means certain, it would be divided in character. A part of the current insurgency is loyal to the North Vietnamese Communists in Hanoi. Another part is indigenous to Cambodia, and seems to have ties with the former ruler — Prince Sihanouk, who is backed by Communist China.

What happens in Cambodia, however, does have a bearing on South Vietnam. In the past the North Vietnamese have used the eastern part of Cambodia as a base for their efforts to knock over the Saigon government.

The Communists have regained all of eastern Cambodia in subsequent fighting, and Hanoi now seems to have no trouble supplying its troops in South Vietnam through the Cambodian territory they already control.

A more serious difficulty might be the psychological reaction in South Vietnam. The government and army of President Nguyen Van Thieu might, seeing the Communists take over in Cambodia, begin to come apart in a way that would make it possible for the Hanoi leaders to realize their dream of uniting Vietnam.

But this country has already done more than stand by its commitments to Saigon. It has provided President Thieu with an army, navy and air force fit for a major country.

To be sure, the personal prestige of President Nixon and his two closest foreign policy aides — Henry Kissinger and Gen. Alexander Haig — is still deeply engaged in Southeast Asia.

In fact, the record does not support these claims. Militarily, the bombing has been a failure. It has not stopped the slow collapse of the Cambodian regime.

Diplomatically, the President and his men had a good chance to settle about two years ago. At that time, with U. S. forces still in Vietnam, this country could have cut a deal with Prince Sihanouk for the return of a more or less neutral regime in Phnom Penh.

Worst of all, Mr. Nixon and his men have based their policy on deception, not to say lying, at home.

Military salaries soar

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — The cost to the taxpayer of the "average soldier" doubled between 1950 and 1968 — and then nearly doubled again in the first four years of the Nixon administration.

The staff figured in not only the military man's pay, but also bonuses, separation pay, special pay for flight and combat duty and housing and subsistence allowances.

Military pay has risen sharply for two reasons. One reason has been a Congressional effort to bring military pay, which had lagged behind civilian and other governmental pay, into line.

S. Viet vote set

(c) Washington Star-News
SAIGON — An apathetic South Vietnam is preparing for its first national elections since the cease-fire agreement was signed last January.

The agreement's provisions for cooperation between the Saigon government and the Vietcong on deciding Vietnam's political future have not been implemented.

In this stalemate, President Nguyen Van Thieu is going ahead with the nation's existing election schedule. Under it, half of the Senate will be elected Aug. 26.

But there is a new twist to an old political situation here. Using a wartime decree power, Thieu has wiped out some two dozen old political parties.

In their place is one government party, the Dan Chu or Democracy Party and two weak opposition coalitions.

Nguyen Van Ngai, a party official, said in an interview that the party now had 800,000 members. This is far more than all the old parties could claim together.

Ngai denied what Vietnamese sources and diplomats insist is true: that government officials are required to work for the Democracy Party. There are well authenticated reports of officials being transferred for failing to produce enthusiastic enough political results.

For Thieu there seems to be little distinction between the interests of the nation and those of the party. This is justified as necessary to build anti-Communist strength. It is a viewpoint with which many senior Americans here are sympathetic.

They explain that South Vietnam needs a strong political force to resist the Vietcong in the present twilight period of struggle.

Old politicians in the opposition lack influence, he said. They are "now seeking excuses for their weakness," in order to justify failure to enter Senate elections.

Ngai denied what Vietnamese sources and

US airplanes bomb near Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — American B52s and F111 bombers bombed on two sides of Phnom Penh today in the most intensive strikes in a month, and the big B52s made a rare daylight strike against insurgents menacing government defense lines nine miles from Phnom Penh.

Ground fighting was reported light around the capital today, but field reports said hard pressed government troops northeast of Saigon had withdrawn from two towns and were falling back on Skoun, a highway center 35 miles northeast of the capital.

The U.S. Embassy denied that American aircraft were involved in a third bombing mistake Sunday which killed between 11 and 15 persons at the village of Veal Svov, five miles south of the capital, and implied that this mistake was made by the Cambodian air force.

There were no U.S. air strikes within a 1,000 yards of the area, an authoritative embassy source said. There were, however, four (Cambodian) T28 sorties.

Field reporters said heavy American air strikes were placed south and west of Phnom Penh, including the rare daylight B52 strike 1,000 yards from government front lines at Prek Ho, where the government's southern defense perimeter is located nine miles south of Phnom Penh.

Authoritative military sources said that in the northern provincial areas, government troops along high Highways 6 and 7 were withdrawing towards the city of Skoun after abandoning the towns of Tang Kouk on Highway 6 and from Prey Totung on Highway 7.

Troops from both places were reported to have reached Skoun, where helicopters were evacuating wounded back to Phnom Penh, the sources said.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman denied the Veal Svov bombing after an investigation to see whether American planes had made their third fatal error in a week. Earlier mistake bombings killed or wounded more than 400 Cambodian soldiers and civilians.

Today's heavy bombing followed a disclosure Wednesday in Washington by Pentagon spokesman Lt. Gen. Daniel James Jr. that the Air Force Tuesday flew the highest number of raids in four weeks against Cambodian rebel strongholds.

James implied that about 60 bombing sorties, one mission by one plane, were flown in response to the "increased threat" posed by rebel troops threatening Phnom Penh. Bombing runs in the country in recent weeks have averaged 40 a day.

Agnew influence sought in inquiry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Maryland contractor under investigation along with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew contacted a "close associate" of Agnew's this year to urge that the Vice President use his influence to stop the inquiry, the Washington Post reported today.

Quoting "informed sources," the newspaper identified the contractor as Lester Matz, a Baltimore County consulting engineer. It did not identify the "close associate."

The Post said Matz reportedly told the intermediary that the continuing federal inquiry was bound to affect Agnew and that it should be stopped. It said he did not, however, threaten to supply information about Agnew to federal investigators if the probe continued.

The Post also said it was not clear whether the intermediary passed the information along to Agnew in precisely the same form. It quoted one source as saying Agnew received the message but declined to take any action. Agnew was asked during his news conference Wednesday whether "anyone either directly or indirectly threatened to drag you into this unless you helped to kill the Baltimore County investigation."

Agnew answered: "I am not going to respond to that question at this time because it is premature for me to make such judgements. If you say with a direct contact to me, I would say no. I don't want to make any assertions in a matter this sensitive that I am absolutely not sure are accurate, and I am not going to foreclose the possibility that such things may have happened. Neither am I going to assert at this moment that they did."

"Did anyone ask you to kill the investigation in Baltimore County?" Agnew was asked. "No, no one asked me to do it," he replied.

Houston police uncover eight murder victims

HOUSTON (UPI) — Jail trustees gouging through three lime soaked graves Wednesday night unearthed the bodies of eight young men apparently the victim of a "perverted, sadistic clown" who sexually molested them and buried them in a boat shed during the last two years.

Police said they expected to find more bodies in the muggy boat shed today. Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, led police to the scene Wednesday after he said he shot and killed Dean Corll, 33, at the man's suburban Pasadena home to prevent him from sexually assaulting and killing him and two companions. Corll is suspected of the mass killings.

Henley said the four had a party and sniffed acrylics out of a bag. "He woke us up and was tying us up and handcuffing us," Henley told reporters while sitting handcuffed in a patrol car near where the inmates were digging up the remains. "He said he was going to kill us all, but first he was going to have his fun."

"I talked to him and told him I would do the killing if he would let me up and let me go," Henley said he was released and soon grabbed Corll's .22-caliber pistol and shot him. He called police and told them of Corll's alleged sexual attacks and burial ground.

"At first it was just this guy's word," Pasadena detective David Mullican said. "Then we started out and found eight bodies. A guy like this is a perverted, sadistic clown. Evidently he tried to cover up the activity by burying them. We're going to check into his Pasadena back yard too."

The graves were discovered in one of 20 boat stalls in the L-shaped shed in a remote, semi-industrial area. Police said the bodies were buried beneath six feet of dirt and lime and the stench was not noticeable until the digging was well underway. Four bodies were wrapped in cellophane bags and the others in bags that deteriorated and collapsed as the inmates pulled them out.

"I'm not going back in there," inmate Benny Burch said. "It's just grisly. It's like picking up chunks of beef." One of the bodies is believed to be that of a boy missing since 1971. He was 13 years old when he disappeared. A bicycle, matching the one owned by the missing boy, was found leaning against the boat shed, where drydocked boats were kept by owners who didn't plan to use them for several months.

This is one of those bizarre sex deals," Mullican said. "Apparently he has been doing this for quite some time." Police believed the victims were murdered in Pasadena, on Houston's southeast side, and the bodies carried to the boat shed on the southwest side, a distance of 15 miles.

Henley told police he, a 15-year-old girl and a 20-year-old man were at the Pasadena home when Corll allegedly tried to force Henley to commit an unnatural sex act with the girl. Corll, according to Henley, planned to sexually molest the man, who with the teen-age girl, was tied naked to a board in the home.

Burch, one of the jail trustees who spent 6 1/2 hours digging in the boat shed, said he once worked for a coroner but had never seen anything this bad. "There's no telling how long some of them had been in there," he said. "It's pretty grisly when you dig up a 14 and 18-year-old kids—just taking

Agnew bribe said 'hoax'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The local prosecutor to whom Vice President Agnew once reported a bribe attempt said it was "a hoax" and "political tomfoolery," the Washington Post reported today.

At his press conference Wednesday, Agnew said he was offered a bribe "many years ago," although he didn't remember the details. He said he delayed reporting it because "I was very inexperienced and quite uninformed about such matters at the time."

Agnew said it occurred before he became county executive of Baltimore County, but Frank H. Newell, former county state's attorney, said it was during the 1962 Maryland gubernatorial campaign, four years after Agnew was elected executive. Newell said Agnew, in August of 1968, told him he was offered $200,000 in campaign contributions if he, as governor, would help prolong the life of slot machines in the four counties from which they were to be eliminated by 1968 under previous legislation.

Newell said Wednesday that Agnew never revealed the names of the alleged bribers, and that he told Agnew his charges were "baloney."

He refused to tell me who had offered him the bribe," Newell was quoted as saying. "His explanation was that he didn't want a lot of innocent people to get hurt. I asked him how innocent could people be who went around offering him bribes."

The Post reported: "Newell said that he came to the conclusion after talking to Agnew and his personal attorney, George W. White Jr., that Agnew's allegation was 'a hoax, political tomfoolery.' He said he told Agnew 'either tell me who is involved or just keep your mouth shut during the rest of the campaign about this.' Agnew, he said, never mentioned the alleged bribe again during the campaign. Agnew won the GOP primary a month later and was elected governor in November, 1966, over Democrat George P. Mahoney. Mahoney had denied newspaper reports that he was offered a similar bribe.

Soviet writer ousted

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Writers Union confirmed today that novelist Vladimir Maximov, author of "Seven Days of Creation," has been expelled from the writers union on grounds his work is anti-Soviet and anti-socialist.

Literary Gazette, the official newspaper of the writers union, said Maximov was expelled after he refused to appear at a hearing before the union secretariat. Maximov sent word that "he is suffering from a sickness connected with a mental disorder," the newspaper said.

Several Western newspapers reported last month that Maximov had been expelled, and some expressed concern that he might be confined to a mental hospital as other Soviet dissidents have been.

Literary Gazette did not say what had become of Maximov, but it denied reports that only members of the writers union are allowed to publish their works in the Soviet Union. "Even small children won't believe that," it said.

Literary Gazette said Maximov was expelled "because he had embarked on a path of hostile ideological activity." It said he allowed two anti-Soviet publishing houses, Grainy and Posev, to publish his novel "Seven Days of Creation."

The newspaper said "Seven Days of Creation" had previously been judged by the writers union to be anti-Soviet and anti-socialist. After his book was rejected, it said, Maximov gave the manuscript of a subsequent novel, "Quarantine," to his sister Samsonova.

She emigrated with her husband to Israel and the book was later published by Possev, the newspaper said.

It was then that the writers union decided to expel Maximov, it said.

Comedian to fast in jail

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Comedian Dick Gregory and three others persons, arrested Tuesday after kneeling and praying at the White House, spent the night in jail after failing to post bond.

Gregory, the black comedian who has been fasting for 28 months in protesting of American involvement in southeast Asia, said he would begin a "total fast" in jail.

"I will begin a total fast, taking neither juices nor water. My action is one of hope, it is motivated by love," Gregory said in a statement.

The four bring to 72 the number of persons arrested at the White House since July 6 in a continuing protest against the American bombing of Cambodia.

The other three arrested Tuesday were identified as Michele M. Timmins, 36, and Michael DeGregory, 24, both of New York City, and George L. Scheper, 34, of Baltimore. All were charged with unlawful entry.

Court upholds ad ban

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — The state Supreme Court today upheld a ban on newspaper help wanted ads that separate jobs for men and women.

The court's ruling said the "male help wanted" and "female help wanted" ads discriminate against women in violation of state law.

The ban on separate ads proposed by the state Division of Civil Rights in 1972 was challenged by the Trenton Times-Corp. and the Passaic Daily News as "unreasonable, arbitrary and burdensome."

The New Jersey Press Association also challenged the rule as a violation of the First Amendment guarantee of free press.

Convict boxer home

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Convict boxer Bobby Lee Hunter, a bronze medal winner at the 1971 Pan American games, is free after six years behind bars.

Sentenced to 18 years for manslaughter in 1967, the 23-year-old Hunter was granted a parole by the state Parole and Pardon Board Wednesday because of his prison record, not his boxing prowess.

As soon as he was released, Hunter went to the bank, withdrew money received from a television documentary on him and headed for his native Charleston to see his mother.

"I feel I am a much better man today," he said. "I feel as though I have paid my debt to society and am going to prove to society that I am not only a boxer but a good citizen."

Hunter won an AAU championship and bested a Marine Corps champion after being introduced to boxing in the prison recreation program.

The 5-foot-2, 112-pound flyweight went to Cali, Colombia, accompanied by a correctional officer as part of the prison rehabilitation program.

He won the bronze medal and was touted as a possible member of the U.S. Olympic boxing team in 1972 but was defeated by a 17-year-old high school student in the trials at Fort Worth, Tex.

Now he has job offers from the training camps of Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali but has not made up his mind whether to take them. In the meantime, he will work for a Columbia construction firm.

Canada business booms

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI) — Detroit consumers are pushing their shopping carts across the Canadian border to escape high beef prices in packs outnumbering the meatless days of World War II.

Retailers at the Windsor City market, a block-long warehouse with dozens of selling stalls, said most of their customers were American consumers seeking refuge from U.S. supermarkets in Canada, where there is no price freeze.

"I know about 80 per cent of my customers have been Americans this week," said Lorenx Dettinger, owner of the Vienna Meat Market. "I really don't know why they're here, but I know we've got attractive prices and attractive meat and we sell a lot. I hope some of them remember my service when this shortage is over."

Dettinger said his business has doubled since Saturday because many consumers were boarding meat.

"I remember this same thing after the war in Europe," he said. "You took everything you could get."

Harry Katzman, who has owned Harry's Meat Market for 12 years said this week's traffic was only comparable to the post-war days when food rationing was not as extensive in Canada as in the United States.

Americans are allowed to bring $10 worth of meat through customs duty-free.

Trial lasts over 1 year

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Esther Simonoff, a retired bookkeeper in her mid 50s, had never served on a jury in her life but her first time out was a dilly — apparently the longest jury trial in the history of American jurisprudence.

Mrs. Simonoff was one of 14 jurors who sat for one year and two weeks hearing a negligence suit against Lockheed Shipbuilding and Construction Co. and three of its employees in a 1972 tunnel explosion that took the lives of 17 men.

"I had never even been in a courtroom before," said Mrs. Simonoff. "But I was among the first panel of 12 and I've been here ever since July 24 of last year.

"It was a tremendous experience, very enlightening. But would I like to do it again? No! No! No!"

The last five weeks Mrs. Simonoff, who says she hopes her husband and 30-year-old daughter can get accustomed again to having her home, was locked up nightly with the other jurors on the ocean liner Queen Mary, now a floating hotel at Long Beach.

"We knew we were setting a record," says Mrs. Simonoff. "The longest previous jury trial had been the Charles Manson case which went on for eight and a half months. We talked about it often and the fact they (the Manson jurors) were sequestered most the entire time."

Lockheed and two employees, project manager Loren Savage and safety engineer Otha G. Ree were convicted by the jury 13 days ago on 54 counts of negligence in the tunneling of gross negligence in the miners' deaths, and violations of industrial safety laws, all misdemeanors.

But the jury was still deadlocked then on 16 charges against Ree, and was sent back to continue deliberating. Wednesday afternoon the jurors disposed of the last of 92 counts they considered in the complex and technical case, acquitting Ree on eight and remaining deadlocked on the other eight, causing a mistrial.

After the final verdicts, Municipal Court Judge George Trammell III permitted reporters, TV and still cameramen and other newsmen with tape recorders to record the historic scene.

"I have never seen a happier group of people in my life," Trammell told the grinning jurors — five men, seven women and two women alternates.

"So far as I know, this is the longest jury trial in the history of American jurisprudence. You have conducted yourselves above and beyond the call of duty."

Strike into 2nd day

DETROIT (UPI) — Striking workers in the second day of a wildcat walkout at a key Chrysler Corp. plant said today "revolutionaries" whose aim is control of the auto plants were trying to take credit for the labor dispute.

Picketing workers said Douglas A. Fraser, the UAW vice president in charge of the Chrysler Department, had been misled by leaflets handed out at the plant gates into thinking revolutionaries were behind the walkout.

The mimeographed leaflets called on "workers and oppressed people of the world" to unite

"We have nothing to lose but our chains and we have the whole world to gain," said the leaflet.

Unlike a dispute two weeks ago at the company's Jefferson Avenue Assembly Plant, Chrysler management refused to discuss the workers' grievances until they return to their jobs. In the dispute two weeks ago Chrysler bargained directly with two workers and granted their demand that a foreman be fired.

More than 1,400 workers were involved in the dispute at the manufacturing facility whose parts are needed in almost all of Chrysler's operations. A continued shutdown could trigger layoffs in other plants beginning early next week, a Chrysler spokesman said.

"We've got enough problems in this plant without anyone coming in and giving us more," said one picketing worker. "We had this walkout planned and were out of the shop before these other cats ever showed up."

The strike began with the early shift Wednesday, effectively choking off production of crank shafts, axles, pistons, torsion bars and other basic parts needed to continue manufacturing at Chrysler.

Official predicts higher food costs

United Press International Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent Wednesday made the unsurprising prediction that prices will go up before they come down.

"It is likely there will be an increase in costs" under the new administration economic plan, he told reporters. Prices will be "determined in large part by demand" under the Phase 4 program.

"Beef will be coming in full volume by Sept. 12 (when the current freeze on its cost is lifted)," he said. "Whether the consumer pays more or less for beef Sept. 12 depends on one hand on supplies and demand on the other."

Meanwhile, the nation's meat producers continued to hold back cattle that otherwise would have been rushed to market. In Texas, at least 1,000 butchers have been forced to work less hours or give up their jobs entirely in recent months, union spokesmen said.

The price of wheat climbed to record highs and bakers screamed. Farmers, however, were happy when the price of wheat for delivery in September reached $4.43-1/2 a bushel in Minneapolis. On the Chicago Board of Trade, wheat for September delivery was priced at $4.24 a bushel.

that stocks vending machines in large office buildings raised the price of sandwiches from 70 cents to 80 cents.

—Meat sellers in Windsor, Ont., just over the border from Michigan, reported U.S. shoppers crossing into Canada to buy beef in larger numbers than have been seen since the meatless days of World War II.

"I know about 80 per cent of my customers have been Americans this week," said one butcher.

—The George A. Hormel Co. said it is closing down its beef operations at Austin, Minn., its home plant, because of "the company's inability to recover costs" under the beef price freeze. Herbing Meats of Covington, Ky., asked some employees to take next year's vacations this year in an effort to avoid layoffs.

—John Trotman, president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, said the price ceiling has created a "chaotic situation," one that can potentially result in "the most severe consumer beef shortage in the country's history, while at the same time we have record numbers of cattle."

—In Birmingham, Ala., City Councilman Russell Yarbrough said a joking suggestion that city dwellers be permitted to keep chickens in their yards ought to be taken more seriously. "I've gotten a lot of calls this morning, especially from elderly people who want to raise chickens," he said.

The cook at a boarding school in Milan, Italy, explained that the soaring cost of beef forced him to substitute whatever he could in the daily stew. Police were not impressed with the excuse and charged him with mistreating an animal.

Remodeling bids okayed

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Commissioners let two bids totalling over $150,000 Wednesday for jail remodeling and other improvements of county structures.

The commissioners approved an Arrington Bros. Construction bid for $82,689.50 for the remodeling of the fourth floor jail at the courthouse. The construction of two separate 12-person juvenile cells and a secure living area for a 24-hour a day guard is called for in the bids.

Work will also include the installation of a fire escape from the fourth floor to the ground. Construction will begin within a week, and is expected to be completed in 90 working days pending the receipt of needed supplies.

The commissioners also awarded a bid for $69,200 to Max Stuart Co., Twin Falls, for exterior cleaning at the courthouse, old hospital and old nursing home owned by the county.

An apparent lower bid, submitted by Busy Bee Painting Service, Salt Lake City, was rejected on the advice of county prosecutor Robert W. Galley, who told the commissioners it contained no maximum confirmed figure.

The commissioners went into executive session to discuss the Busy Bee proposal, meeting with Galley, county clerk Harold Lancaster and Lloyd Webb, a Twin Falls attorney.

The two projects, totalling $151,889.50, will be paid from county revenue sharing funds.

Hansen appeals for more fuel

IDAHO FALLS — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, appealed to President Nixon Wednesday to take whatever action is necessary to ensure adequate fuel supplies for the harvest season.

In a telegram to the president, Hansen said, the shortage of petroleum fuel had reached disaster proportion, and said that unless relief could be provided immediately, "the entire country will suffer."

Hansen told the president in his telegram that nearly one fourth of the country's potato crop is harvested in Idaho, in addition to 40 per cent of the sugar beets. "Every year possibility of early freeze poses risk of extensive crop losses."

Hansen wrote, "which in turn would mean shortages and higher prices."

In addition, Hansen sent a letter to John A. Love, newly appointed Director of the Energy Policy Office. "While the energy crisis has apparently not reached a critical stage on some portions of the country, I am informed by Idaho's ASCS director, Mr. Forest Severe, that the fuel shortage in that area has reached the point of possible disaster. In order to meet normal needs, distributors started in June to borrow against July quotas."

Hansen's letter warned that if the practice of borrowing on future quotas continued, fuel could run out.

Program continues

SHOSHONE — The summer reading program at the Shoshone city library is continuing with 38 children participating, according to Mrs. June Nielsen, librarian.

The reading program will end on Aug. 20 when a colored film will be shown, awards presented to four students who have read the most books and refreshments will be served.

The event will be at 10:10 a.m. at the library. The film will be shown by Joseph Nishimoto and the refreshments will be handled by members of the Library Board, Mrs. Nielsen said.

Awards of books will be given to the two boys and two girls who have read the most books during the summer reading program.

Jerome man arrested

TWIN FALLS — David W. Storer, 22, Jerome, was arrested by Twin Falls police Wednesday on charges of petty larceny and possession of a controlled substance.

According to police reports, the police department received a call about 10 a.m. Wednesday from Shelby's Market, 1913 Addison Ave. E., that a shoplifter was being detained. Officers went to the market and placed Storer under arrest on a charge of petty larceny.

Back at the station, during the booking procedure, officers discovered a bag of marijuana in Storer's possession. Storer was again advised of his rights and arrested on a charge of possession of a controlled substance, the reports said.

Stunt rider

DICK RYAN, stunt rider in the movies and on television, will put his horse British Wonder through its paces in the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Parking Lot Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

TF appearance slated

TWIN FALLS — Evel Knievel will not jump the Snake River Canyon on his motorcycle this weekend.

Instead, Dick Ryan will jump his horse through a flaming hoop.

Ryan, a television and motion picture stunt rider, will appear at a 2:30 p.m. show at the parking lot behind the Twin Falls Bank and Trust. The event is being sponsored by the Twin Falls Downtown Merchants Association.

Ryan got his start in motion pictures in "A Day at the Races," one of the movies that propelled the Marx Brothers along their way to movie success. He was called upon to ride his horse through a thin piece of plywood.

That was in 1939. The horse made it, so did Ryan, and he has been riding stunts ever since.

He has been in about 200 films and television programs, appeared throughout the world and in most states in America, as well as traveled to Mexico, Cuba, the Philippines, Japan and Canada.

During his 40-minute show, Ryan said, he will duplicate many of the stunts he has performed in movies. The horse he will ride, British Wonder, was given his name by the singing cowboy movie star, Gene Autrey.

Ryan will also permit local children to ride his pony, Admiral, free of charge, prior to the show.

Farming interest rates vary widely

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Agricultural interest rates vary widely in less-developed countries, according to a group of foreign banking executives visiting Twin Falls.

While the base agricultural loan rate in the U.S. is 8.3 per cent, according to Earl Stansell of the South Idaho Production Credit Association, the foreign bankers reported interest rates from a low of 6 per cent in Ghana to a rather amazing 24 per cent in the war-inflated economy of South Vietnam.

Bariman Osei of Ghana said agricultural loans in his country, let through the government, averaged six per cent. Vietnam's Duong Tan Luong said the base rate for South Vietnam was 24 per cent, adding, however, that interest rates on commercial bank deposits ran close to 26 per cent.

Mrs. Lam My Hoang Lien, also of South Vietnam, attributed the interest rates to inflation caused by the influx of money into the country during the Vietnamese War.

Ozbay Ilgaz of Turkey said Turkish interest rates on agricultural loans run from 10 to 15 per cent, depending upon the quality of the loan.

Ayub C. M. Muthi pegged Kenyan interest rates at 7 1/2 per cent and 8 1/2 per cent on annual crop loans.

The foreign bankers have been studying farm credit programs in the United States under the Agency for International Development. They have been in Twin Falls this week as guests of the Twin Falls Land Bank Association and the Southern Idaho Production Credit Association.

Also included in the group were Henry K. A. Sam, Ghana; Samuel M. J. Gitonga, Kenya; and Sabri Oge, Turkey.

In addition to attending seminars at the lending institutions, the group has toured local farms and taken some time out to tour the Snake River Canyon and visit other local attractions.

All members of the tour agreed that their purpose was to study U.S. farm credit programs with an eye to applying them in their own countries, but there was little uniformity on common problems. In every response the bankers cautioned that the application of farm credit systems would depend on the situation in the individual countries and an adaptation to that particular problem.

Generally, the bankers agreed that capital formation was a problem, but one banker said it may be as difficult to educate farmers to new methods and equipment as to raise the money to install them.

Municipal transit firms claim fares not fair

By MICHAEL F. CONLAN
(of Newhouse News Service)
WASHINGTON — The fare often is not fair.

That frequent lament of both the nation's rapid transit companies and their riders will no doubt be raised when congress returns from its summer recess. In early September, municipally-owned and usually deficit-ridden commuter bus, subway and rail lines hope congress will take up legislation providing federal subsidies to help keep them running.

Both the house and senate have versions ready for floor action that would grant states and localities some federal padding to prevent transit fares from climbing, a move usually dictated by increasing costs. In turn, the fare hikes often result in falling patronage.

While congressional staff sources indicate the measures face mixed reaction, the Nixon administration is unalterably opposed to federally-provided operating subsidies. Federal officials have testified that congressional efforts to provide transit subsidies will run into a presidential veto.

Frank C. Herringer, head of the Urban Mass Transportation Adminstration, recently told Congress that states should raise their own money to rehabilitate mass transit systems. He said that could be done by raising tolls on bridges and tunnels and by cutting back on the number of parking spaces, thus forcing commuters to use public transportation.

The federal government does provide funds for the purchase of buses and subway cars. However, it draws the line at operating assistance.

Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar says operating costs and operating decisions are purely local matters and that a federal role is not called for at this time.

The senate approach to the problem would require state or local authorities to put up one dollar for every two provided for the federal government. The measure, sponsored by Sen. Harrison Williams (D-N.J.), would authorize spending 800 million over a two year period.

When the Senate bill comes to the floor, tentatively scheduled for the first week in September, Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.), will offer an amendment to experiment with fare-free transportation.

His proposal would provide $60 million in federal funds for both fiscal years 1974 and 1975 to demonstrate in a couple of cities the value of eliminating transit fares entirely. "By conducting a sustained demonstration of fare-free transit, the Department of Transportation would then be able to study the full extent to which subsidized mass transit might be used as a tool to deal with some of our city's ills," says Hart.

The Senate has approved operating assistance plans before, including a similar proposal earlier this year that House-Senate conferees agreed to drop from the highway construction bill. The measure, however, faces a much more difficult fight in the house.

Under the House version, states and towns would not have to match the federal grant in order to get assistance. If the measure comes up for a vote, an effort will be made on the floor to have the federal donations equal those made locally.

Opponents of the bill contend "its prospects look downright discouraging," according to one staff aide. He said the bill should be labeled "aid for New York City," a jibe referring to the fact that the city and its suburbs would be eligible for about 20 per cent of the bill's total funding.

Critics contend the solution lies in local pressure for more efficient operations, not federal spending. They say subsidies would in effect reward inefficiency.

Non-federal subsidies already amount to an estimated $650 million a year, a figure close to their limit, supporters contend. By 1973, more than 235 private urban transit companies had been taken over by local governments.

Woman extradited for Nazi crimes

DUESSELDORF, West Germany (UPI) — A 53-year-old New York housewife charged with the murder and mistreatment of 2,000 women and children in a World War II Nazi concentration camp was flown to Duesseldorf Tuesday and jailed to await further investigation.

Legal experts said they believe Hermine Braunsteiner Ryan was the first person extradited from the United States for Nazi war crimes.

Mrs. Ryan, the wife of a contractor, had lived quietly in a New York suburb since 1961, her past job as a concentration camp guard all but forgotten.

But earlier this year, West German authorities asked the United States to extradite her.

As Hermine Braunsteiner, the Germans said, she worked in Nazi death camps at Ravensbrueck and Majdanek, both in Poland, beginning in 1939. Officials said she was convicted and sentenced to three years imprisonment by an Austrian court in 1949 of torturing and mistreating prisoners.

West German authorities accused Mrs. Ryan of leading 2,000 Jewish women and children to gas chambers in the Ravensbrueck and Majdanek camps.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers signed the extradition order last month following a hearing in a New York Federal Court on the extradition request.

Judge Jacob Mishler granted the West German request, ruling that "enough evidence has been presented on charges of extraditable offenses: murder, assassination, manslaughter and infanticide."

Mrs. Ryan was quietly flown from New York to Cologne, West Germany, aboard a commercial airliner, escorted by a Cologne policeman and a policewoman.

When she arrived, authorities handed her a warrant and took her to prison.

"My office will view the case before turning it over to the state headquarters in Cologne," state prosecutor F. Spies said.

Mrs. Ryan was located in the United States by Simon Wisenthal.

Watergate's button bonanza

By United Press International

Watergate has become an embarrassment to some but to those with an idea or a gimmick it has become a bonanza of buttons, posters, games, T-shirts and just about anything that can be sold.

A number of stores have refused to stock the items on the grounds they are in bad taste.

But in most major cities, if a buyer's taste runs in that direction, there were plenty of reminders of Watergate.

A semiannual gift show in San Francisco designed to give wholesale buyers an idea what will be selling at Christmas time featured many Watergate items including a doll outfitted with earphones, an aerosol can to repel exaggerated claims, tall stories and political discussions, a poster showing President Nixon behind a towel reading "Watergate Hotel" and a countdown calendar listing the days until Nixon leaves office.

Louis Benno, a representative of the New Humor Co. of Dallas, said the Watergate items were selling "beautifully."

In Washington, the place where it all started, the affair has spawned a whole range of promotional gimmicks apparently unique to the city. The Watergate apartments have become a sightseeing stop for most of the tour buses and the complex itself is using the caricature of a small spotted bug on all its stationery and advertisements.

A small gold-plated pin of a dancing elephant wearing jeweled earphones is selling for $25 in Washington. One novelty store took the discarded ends from canisters of film used in the Senate Watergate hearings, welded wire legs and antenna to them and sold them for $10.

Cassia aides finalize plans for law building

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News writer

BURLEY — The Burley City Council and the Cassia County Commissioners worked with Architect Keith Wilcox to finalize plans for the joint law enforcement building Wednesday.

The council refused to approve the plans in a meeting two weeks ago until several changes had been made.

An air of cooperation prevailed at the meeting and all disagreements were worked out in less than two hours.

Wilcox now will draw up the final plans which will be submitted to the Law Enforcement Planning Agency (LEPC) for approval before federal funds can be granted for the project.

The council had previously requested the building be set back flush with the front of the present courthouse but Wednesday Wilcox offered a compromise, moving the building back even with the rear of the courthouse and jutting out approximately even with the courthouse steps.

Wilcox said he would rather break the visual line between the courthouse and the city hall with the new building to separate it architecturally from the older buildings.

With the building set back, three diagonal parking spaces will be left at the rear of both the courthouse and the city hall, and parallel parking will have to be enforced behind the new building.

The city agreed to put the records room next to the dispatch area, in order to keep it open 24 hours a day. Although Police Chief Ken Barry said the records room should be kept near the booking area because of work constantly being carried out between the two, the LEPC required 24 hour access to the area.

The architect and the commissioners also agreed to construct a rear entrance to the building as requested by the city and subsequently removed a previously set entrance on the south side of the building.

Corridors will be kept to a minimum in the new building for security reasons.

Everyone present agreed to the removal of the elevator between the main floor and the basement as an unneeded expense. Wilcox said he would check with the LEPC to insure that the elevator was not a requirement for LEPC approval.

Wilcox told the group all major problems had been satisfactorily worked out that afternoon and that he would work out specific details in future meetings with the sheriff and the police chief.

Dismissal sought in Blaine suit

The news release states that the motion responds to the plaintiffs' claims that proposed plans to tie the McCulloch development to the city of Halley sewage treatment plant requires a permit and an environmental impact study pursuant to the Federal Water Pollution Control Act; and the plaintiffs' request for an injunction against the city, McCulloch Properties and McCulloch.

The motion argues the release states:
— That the court has no power to enjoin the Halley City government from exercising its legislative discretion.

— That no permit is required by the Water Pollution Control Act for the McCulloch Development.

— and that no environmental impact study is required for discharges from the existing Halley facility.

The release states that the motion also asks for the dismissal of a plaintiffs' claim "that they had some right to Halley's unused sewage capacity superior to that of McCulloch Properties Inc."

This dismissal is sought on the grounds that once the Water Pollution Control Act claim is dismissed "there is no federal question and because the claim is without merit," the release states.

According to the complaint the present unused capacity of the treatment plant would be about adequate to serve the plaintiffs' property and other such unimproved property within Halley.

The planned McCulloch Development would monopolize the unused capacity and exhaust it "as early as the fall of 1974," the complaint states.

The complaint seeks preliminary and permanent injunctions against the mayor and council to prohibit them from committing the remaining treatment plant sewage capacity to the newly annexed McCulloch Development.

The injunction sought in the complaint would be in effect until a permit is obtained from the Environmental Protection Agency or a designated state agency to allow expansion of the plant and additional effluent discharge into the Wood River.

Preliminary and permanent injunctions are also sought against McCulloch to prohibit connection of the sewage lines from the development to the sewage treatment plant until such a permit is obtained.

50 acres burn

SHOSHONE — A 50-acre range fire was reported in the Devils Corral area Wednesday afternoon. According to Michael Green, public information officer for the Bureau of Land Management, the fire started at 3:30 p.m. North of the Snake River.

Dispatched from the Shoshone office to fight the blaze were two tankers and one spotter plane which included a 17-man crew. The fire was under control at 5 p.m. and declared out later Wednesday evening.

ITT snagging cited

NEW YORK (UPI) — Business Week magazine said today the International Telephone and Telegraph Co. (ITT) managed to have over $15 million in U.S. aid withheld from Ecuador until the Latin American nation settled a claim for an expropriated ITT subsidiary.

The magazine said the subsidiary at issue was All American Cables and Radio, which operated in Quito. It was expropriated in 1971, and ITT at first demanded $1.2 million in restitution.

Rupert council tours BLM land

RUPERT — The Rupert City Council toured two 300-acre sections of Bureau of Reclamation land northeast of the Rupert Cemetery Wednesday morning which it is considering for acquisition.

The land could be acquired either on a long term lease for a small annual fee or bought or exchanged under the Recreation and Public Use Act which allows a public agency, such as the city of Rupert, to pick up public land for recreational use, according to Harold Short, Conservation Agronomist with the Bureau.

If the land is purchased, Short said, the fee would be "nominal" but the city would be required to use the land for recreational purposes.

The city had been informally discussing the land acquisition with the Bureau for several years, but was only now ready to make plans for the land use.

"One of these days all this land will be gone," Rupert mayor Wendell Johnson said.

The city, according to Johnson, won't be ready to finalize negotiations until next year.

"There is a very good chance they can get the land," Short said of the city, but he gave no indication when a decision on the transfer of the land would come.

The city will now write a letter of intent to the Bureau of Reclamation which along with a report by Short concerning the project will be considered by a land study board before being acted upon.

Quick response cited for life

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The quick response of two Hazelton youths has been credited with saving the life of a young man from Buhl, Idaho State patrolman Don Hiebert told the Times-News Wednesday that the actions of Duane and Mike Porter of Hazelton "undoubtedly" saved the life of Michael Stohler, 18.

Hiebert said Stohler was driving a pickup truck east on a county road about four miles north of Murtaugh Monday when he failed to "negotiate" a stop sign and skidded through the intersection and overturned in a canal, his truck then bursting into flames.

"The pickup was about half submerged in water and the other half was on fire — and he (Stohler) was in the cab," Hiebert said.

Hiebert said the Porter youths heard the crash from their farmhouse about a quarter mile from the scene, jumped into their own pickup and drove to the site.

Luckily, Hiebert said, the Porter's truck had a water pumping unit in the back. They quickly put out the fire then jumped into the canal and pulled Stohler out of the cab.

"They really used their heads," Hiebert said. "They had to get right down in the water and pull this young fellow out. Mr. Stohler is one lucky young man."

Stohler was taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital with second degree burns of the shoulders and back. He was released Tuesday night after a day of treatment.

Hiebert said Stohler was driving a pickup belonging to his employer, Delbert Kohrt, an Eden farmer. Stohler was cited for violation of the basic rule.

Registration set at Valley

VALLEY SCHOOLS — Registration for the fall term at Valley High School has been set, according to the new superintendent of schools, Arlyn Bodily. School begins Aug. 27.

Seniors will register from 9 to 11 a.m. Aug. 20 and juniors from noon until 2 p.m. the same day. Sophomores are scheduled to register from 9 to 11 a.m. Aug. 21 and freshmen from noon until 2 p.m. that afternoon.

Eighth grade students will register until noon Aug. 22, Bodily said. Faculty meeting will be held at 9 a.m. Aug. 24.

School buses will operate on the same routes and schedules as last year.

William H. Mitchell assumed his duties as the new high school principal this week. He has just received a master's degree this summer from Arizona State College, Flagstaff, Ariz. He has taught at Valley for the past two years.

Sorenson has been named the new elementary principal. He will replace Harry O. Kurtz who will teach at the high school. Sorenson comes from Marsing where he has been an elementary principal for the past three years.

Other new faculty members that have been added to the high school faculty are Virgil Beck, guidance counselor; Bill Schiess, wrestling coach; and Barbara Wood, home economics teacher. A librarian will be named at the regular school board meeting next week.

Fees that are to be paid at registration time include activity tickets, $6.50; student yearbooks, $8.50, and physical education uniforms, $4.50, Bodily said.

School lunches will be up five cents over last year. High school students will pay 40 cents per lunch and grade school students will pay 35 cents. Hot lunches will be served as long as it is feasible in view of high food costs and availability of meat, Bodily said.

Football uniforms will be issued Tuesday, with the first practice session scheduled for Wednesday.

Coup possible

LONDON (UPI) — West European government sources said today the crises facing President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew may paralyze American foreign policy.

This, they said, could seriously harm Europe. The London newspaper Sun said today the situation was so bad that the United States faces the possibility of a military coup.

Nixon prepares address

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon today planned to start polishing in the quiet of his mountain top retreat a preliminary draft of a television address he will make on the Watergate affair.

He flew by helicopter to Camp David Wednesday afternoon, accompanied by his chief speechwriter, Ray Price, for what apparently will be several days of work on the public defense he will make against charges of scandal in his administration.

A short time before Nixon boarded his helicopter at the White House, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew defended himself against allegations that have brought new troubles to the administration. Agnew, at a news conference, described as "damn lies" reports he was involved in a Maryland kickback scandal.

White House aides said that Nixon may go on the air Tuesday or Wednesday evening, at least by the middle of the week, to answer the questions that persist on Watergate, despite the President's previous pronouncements.

The end of the first phase of the Senate Watergate hearings last Tuesday signalled the start of an all-out White House effort to prepare the President's major address on the subject. Since his last Watergate statement May 27, Nixon has been accused of participating in the coverup by former White House Counsel John W. Dean III.

In addition to his television speech, the President will issue a lengthy "white paper," which his aides said would refute federal criminal statutes involving building contracts in Maryland.

Nixon stopped short of a full public vote of confidence for Agnew when he issued a statement through a White House spokesman that "the fact that there is an investigation is no reason for the President to change his attitude or confidence in the vice president."

Although he was subjected to intense questioning, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren refused to say Nixon had "full confidence" in Agnew. Finally, he grudgingly said the President did have "confidence" in the vice president.

But, according to Agnew, Nixon's private endorsement of him is "unequivocal" as a result of a two-hour meeting they held Tuesday evening.

Private school opens in Ketchum

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — An independent, Ketchum-Sun Valley Community School has been organized with Sam Hazard as headmaster.

According to Hazard, the school will open its doors Sept. 4 and will initially have about 30 to 35 sixth through ninth grade students.

This spring, controversy surrounded a Blaine County School Board decision not to rehire Hazard as principal of the Ernest Hemingway Elementary School, Ketchum.

Hazard said that an area independent school "was not a new idea." For a number of years, he said, "interest has been expressed for independent schools. The timing seems to be right, now, to start one."

The school will utilize a three-member staff, with Hazard teaching English; his wife, Julie Hazard, teaching history; and Brian Clark, a former Bellevue Elementary School fifth grade teacher, teaching mathematics and science.

Hazard said Clark will set up a mathematics program on an individualized continuum through calculus. In the science program, he said, chemistry, physics, geology and biology will be brought in as they relate to the core study of man and his environment.

The headmaster said the history program will begin with the origins of Western man's culture and progress through European and American history. History and English readings will be closely paralleled, he said.

Much of the school work, Hazard said, will be individualized or will be conducted with small groups.

However, Hazard said, "This will not in any sense be a free school."

Students will be graded only when required for transfer to another school or when entering a university, Hazard said.

The progress of each student will be charted and daily student conferences are planned, he said.

The headmaster said he felt that "a serious morning of academic work is every bit as productive as strung-out, full-day classes."

The afternoons, he said, will be devoted to sports, including hiking, mountain climbing, riding, fly fishing and cross country and alpine skiing.

Parents will be encouraged to bring their special talents to the school and contribute these resources to the program, Hazard said.

The headmaster said that his first year expenses are expected to run from about $45,000 to $50,000. Tuition has been set at $1,500 for the year and a scholarship program has been implemented, Hazard said. The school holds non-profit corporation status.

Between tuition and gifts from friends of the school, the first year of operation has been "fully guaranteed," Hazard said. "No parents need worry when they put their child in (this) fall that the school will collapse from lack of finances," he said.

However, he said fund raising will be an ongoing process and community contribution of support and services will be welcomed "to keep costs in line with tuition."

For the first year, the school will be located at the ground floor of the St. Thomas Episcopal Church on the Sun Valley Road.

Rather than spending money on elaborate buildings, Hazard said, the school will use available facilities for program segments, including the Ketchum-Sun Valley Community Library and the Sun Valley Creative Arts Center.

School board of directors include Mary Sidwell, president of the board; Judy Atkinson, secretary; and directors, Carol Durnke, Jack Hemingway, Richard Welch and John Weekes.

Prior to serving as principal of the Hemingway school, Hazard's main experience has been in independent schools. He will complete a master's degree in education at Northwestern University in December.

Mrs. Hazard is a history major undergraduate at Stanford and University of California at Berkeley (UCB). She holds a master's degree in nursing from Yale and a master's degree in science from UBC.

She has taught at the graduate school of nursing at the University of California at San Francisco; the Children's Hospital, San Francisco; and has taught biology and general science at Burke's School, a private girls' high school in San Francisco.

Clark received a bachelor of arts degree in chemistry and economics from the University of Kansas. In 1971, he received a master of arts degree in teaching from the University of Idaho.

MRS. Ruth Allen, right, teaches Vickie Allen the fine points of drapery making. Mrs. Allen will teach drapery classes at the College of Southern Idaho beginning Sept. 20 and each Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5 for seven classes. For information call Zan Payne, 733-8554, ext. 304 or 305.

Boise man amnesia victim

BOISE (UPI) — He looks like any other 58-year-old man, but he doesn't know who he is.

He thinks he is Tom Brown, but he isn't sure. "We've been trying since July 19 to identify this man," said Hugh McNichols, Boise Police detective. "He doesn't know who he is. We don't know who he is and nobody else seems to know anything more than we do."

Police said the man wandered into Boise July 15.

"He is a clean, well kept, polite and a very well spoken gentleman," McNichols said. "He is an amnesia victim."

The unidentified man, McNichols said was found last month hitchhiking between Lincoln City, Ore. and Portland. He was picked up and given $20 and a ride to Portland by someone "who felt sorry for him."

The victim used the money, for some unknown reason, to buy a bus ticket to Boise. When in Boise, he took a bus to Meridian where he was found by police who took him to St. Alphonsus Hospital in Boise.

A doctor at the hospital determined the man was suffering from amnesia, probably the result of a stroke.

McNichols said, "He thinks he's about 58 years old, has a wife named Frances, two children named Richard and Patty, and could have been a carpenter."

The amnesia victim is staying at a Boise rest home.

"We just don't know where to go from here," McNichols said. "We have put out a regional as well as a national bulletin on the man. All we can do now is wait."

He said the police department has received several calls and the leads are being checked out.

Phase V is 'Phase out'

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent said Wednesday Phase IV is to be followed by a phase out of government controls and a return to a free market economy.

In a prepared address for the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, Dent said, "Phase V is a phase out. President Nixon's goal is the return to a free-market economy in which there is improved price stability and a sustainable growth rate."

Dent said Americans' public demands upon the government sometimes may be inconsistent.

"We want a strong, growing economy in which our incomes are getting larger and unemployment is low. We want low taxes, reasonable prices, and when it comes to food, the low prices to which we have become accustomed. We want to buy imported products and we want to have plenty of energy resources available for our use."

Europe leaders express alarm

LONDON (UPI) — Ranking European politicians said Wednesday that not since President Woodrow Wilson was struck down by illness about 50 years ago has the United States faced a greater threat of paralysis of its policy-making councils than at present.

The prospect is causing serious anxiety in governmental ranks of America's principal European allies. Some are expressing alarm at the effect on United States influence abroad, but more specifically on the relationship with Europe.

The new clouds on Washington's dimmed political horizon have given earlier misgivings and criticism on this side of the Atlantic a new dimension of concern for the future stability of a close ally and protector of European security.

The anxieties of Europeans are less motivated by moral resentment at the Watergate affair and the more recent Spiro Agnew rumblings than by a degree of self interest, largely intertwined with the role and effectiveness of U.S. policymaking ability on the international scene.

The coming months will call for important decisions affecting the future of European security, world trade and economic well-being. The United States is a key factor in nearly all of these decisions.

European diplomats and politicians have for some time worried about what they consider a growing threat of isolationist tendencies in the United States, despite official denials of such intentions. They now fear a degree of isolationism may become inevitable.

They have not been appeased by repeated assurances that American troops will not be pulled back from Europe.

The growing U.S. friendship with the Soviet Union, while welcomed for its tension-easing effect, has generated suspicion of a "ganging up" by the super powers. It also generated fears among pessimists that American interest in Europe is waning and the credibility of the American nuclear deterrent for Europe's defense is fading.

President Nixon wanted 1973 to be "the year of Europe," with fresh emphasis on a revamped American-European relationship. There is doubt in European chancelleries whether Nixon will be able to visit Europe in the fall as planned while uneasiness among some of the allies persists over the advisability of taking vital decisions in the face of prevailing uncertainties in Washington.

Army quota fails

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the sixth consecutive month since the draft was discontinued, the Army failed in July to reach its recruiting goals. It was announced Wednesday.

Thirty-five per cent of those who did sign up were black — almost three times the black proportion of the population.

The proportion of recruits with low intelligence scores rose to 31 per cent in July, highest figure in the four years for which records were immediately available and almost double the Army's goal of taking no more than 18 per cent of low scorers in tests.

The Army filled only 76 per cent of its recruitment goal.

The other three services were more popular. The Air Force met 101 per cent of its goal in July, the Marine Corps 92 per cent and the Navy 97 per cent.

All three also showed an increase in black recruits. For all four services combined, 31 per cent of the July recruits were black compared with 18 per cent in June.

The end of the draft was announced the last week of January. In every month since then, the Army has failed to meet its recruiting goals.

Economic picture hopeful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Marina Whitman, a member of President Nixon's council of economic advisers, predicted today "we are in for a period of price increases which are more than we want" before the economy stabilizes.

Mrs. Whitman, who soon will be leaving the council, said it will be difficult for the Phase IV economic program to combat inflation but eventually, she said, she believes it will be effective.

"It's still true," she added, "that we are in for a period of price increases which are more than we want, or want to tolerate. But the picture ahead is more hopeful and once through this rather difficult period, it is reasonable to assume the economy will improve."

She said that administration economists expect the dollar value to rise and a slowdown in the expansion rate of the economy.

Sen. Proxmire advocates relaxing, diet, exercise

(c) Newhouse News Service

WASHINGTON — This country is "in one hell of a shape," says Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and he's not talking about high prices, political scandals or pollution.

"We are too soft and too tense," says the senator who ignored the smirks and got himself a new head of hair by a new transplant method.

"We are prone to alcoholism, and increasingly to drug addiction. We are lazy. We are thoughtless and self-indulgent."

"And unless we get a grip on ourselves, unless we straighten out, we are not long for leadership. A people that relies on booze, cigarettes, tranquilizers, and sleeping pills are bound to be sad and depressed — to feel that the world is out of joint."

So what's to do? Proxmire, 57, suggests you make a stab toward his own prime physical condition by reading his new book, "You Can Do It!" It's a combination of tips on exercise diet and relaxation, plus a bit of Zen Buddhism and maybe a biofeedback machine.

The latter, for benefit of those who came in late, may, with some practice and patience, the scholar says, help control the heart beat, temperature and blood pressure; relieve headaches, and give you the natural, healthful sort of relaxation that some folks seek with marijuana, heroin, glue-sniffing or whatever. It has something to do with your brainwaves, and the machines are a bit expensive.

Sen. Proxmire, who's given many a financial fatcat high blood pressure and Lord knows what else as chairman of the Senate House Joint Economic Committee, says big business finagling and government waste are bad, of course. But the nation's "fundamental problems," as he sees it, is to "overcome the basic sickness" that plagues so many Americans. He calls it "widespread personal pollution."

"My mission," he goes on (in addition to keeping an eye on the fastback boys) "is to do something about the need for a better human ecology."

The senator, like many Americans, bought the highly praised (and advertised) books on exercise, health, diet, well-being and so on. But try as he would, he could not find one, he declares, that "put it all together." He's done that, he asserts, and if as a result, some of the flabbies and fatties get squared away he adds, "I will die happy."

Proxmire says as a general rule, most Americans are in worse shape at 30 than 20; worse still at 40 than at 30, and terrible at 50. And at 60? Well, he just shudders.

"There's absolutely no reason for this," he declares, "yet it's accepted as certainly as the sun rises that as we get older, our health deteriorates, we have less strength, less stamina, less energy and less vitality."

"My own experience," he goes on, "is that if you exercise regularly (no rough stuff; eat a moderate and balanced diet (no jazzy quick dishes), and learn how to relax, you can be in far better shape as you get older than when you were young. George Bernard Shaw wasn't kidding when he said, 'what a pity youth is wasted on the young.'"

The senator says some who have tried his program declare they'd have "to live like a monk" to make it work. Says Proxmire: "My answer is a loud, clear, emphatic: No indeed!"

Soybean uses multiply

By JUDY HEVERDEJS
(c) Chicago Daily News

One of the most logical answers to our nation's meat shortage is the small, yellow-tan soybean.

Processed into textured vegetable protein (TVP), it is already being used as a "non-meat" and as an extender for real meat. It is not available in the Midwest — the principal source of soybeans — except as an ingredient in convenience foods. Its major advantage lies in its lower cost and competitive protein value.

Although soybeans have been part of man's diet for thousands of years, only recently have scientists discovered an increasing variety of new uses. Up to about 50 years ago, soybeans were used simply as food or plowed under to replenish nitrogen in farm soil. But in 1926, soy flour, a baker ingredient, was developed and by 1950 TVP was being produced.

Containing about as much protein as meat, but less fat, TVP is produced in granular and flake forms and used by food processors as an extender in consumer and institutional products such as sloppy joes, chili, hamburgers and pizza. As an extender, TVP is combined with real beef to increase bulk and reduce the cost.

TVP as a meat extender received a boost in 1971 when the U.S. Department of Agriculture included these protein products in its school lunch programs.

It is made by extracting and concentrating protein from vegetables, usually soybeans, and then combining that with such other food ingredients as vitamins, color, flavor, seasoning and binders. TVP can generally provide one with the protein of meats, even the eight essential amino acids, and other nutritional requirements.

Besides the flake and granular forms of TVP, which are being added to meats, the vegetable proteins are being formed into meat-like substances. The entire soybean is spun like nylon, then molded to resemble its real meat counterpart.

Although TVP processed to resemble beef, chicken or ham, is being used institutionally nationwide, Midwest consumers will find it available only in convenience foods. But it is being sold over the counter as simulated meat in several New England states, Miami and the Far West under several brand names. The products — slices, cubes, links and patties — can be cooked just like real meat.

These TVP products can be used by vegetarians and even the "ham" is kosher.

Producers hope eventually to make these soy protein products available directly to the consumer. They can be treated exactly like real meat in refrigeration and cooking, capable of being shaped into meat loaves and patties and used in stews, sandwich spreads, salads and casseroles.

They can make substantial meals as nutritious as, but cheaper than, dishes using real meat.

A popular form of TVP is added to the ground beef by the butcher and sold to the customer by the pound. It is usually marketed under a "ground beef-vegetable protein blend" label. Raw cost is about 10 cents a pound less than that of regular ground beef. The texture and taste of this "hamburger" are generally indistinguishable from those of the real thing and there is also less shrinkage during cooking. Ground beef that has been mixed with TVP may appear lighter in color than the complete meat version, yet this will not affect the finished product. One of TVP's best qualities is its ability to accept the color and flavor of the meat to which it is added.

Another product is a packet of TVP available for 19 cents in the meat cases in some supermarkets. The contents weigh 3 ounces and after being combined with 3/4 cup of water and allowed to set for several minutes, can be added to ground meat. The maker says this soy product can be combined with 1 pound of 75-per cent lean ground beef to produce 1 1/2 pounds ground meat. This soy product could be mixed with other ground meats, including ham, chicken and turkey in the same proportions. Once the extender is added the new "meat" may then be used in the manner called for in any ground beef recipe.

Butz pushes production

HAIL storms that hit in Wabasha, Scott and Carver Counties (Minnesota) last month may have caused more than $1.75 million in crop damage, according to preliminary estimates. A Wabasha County boy and his dog survey the damage to a field of sweet corn. (UPI)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz Wednesday called on farmers, farm supply industries and government officials to join in a campaign to boost food supplies by preventing harvest losses this fall and promoting all-out production next year.

Butz, in a speech prepared for delivery in Miami to the Economic Society of Southern Florida, said domestic and world demand for American food is so great "that we have little hesitation about the risk of going all-out next year."

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday food prices this year are expected to take their biggest leap in 26 years. Butz noted that a new farm bill which President Nixon will soon sign will offer farmers assurance against the possibility that expanding production might hurt their income. He said the new "support target" system in the bill means the government "will share the risk that farmers run if we overproduce, or if foreign markets should suddenly disappear, or if domestic demand should somehow subside."

farm organizations, commodity groups and others to join in a nationwide effort to provide supplies, storage, credit, transportation and other help to farmers in this all-out production effort," Butz added. Although farm production will rise, Butz said the rest of the economy must also increase productivity if inflation is to be halted. "Food did not get us into our current economic problems — and food alone will not lift us out," he contended.

Food study revised

By BERNARD BRENNER WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seeking to keep up to date in its publicity on what's happened to grocery bills, the Agriculture Department has revised, illustrated and reissued a consumer pamphlet initially published in April. Like the food it reported on, the new version cost substantially more than the April edition.

Officials said they had printed 120,000 copies of the new edition of what's happened to food prices, which attributes this year's skyrocketing grocery costs to strong demand by American consumers, booming world demand, declining supplies of meat, more use of food stamps, increased use of processed "convenience" foods, and more away-from-home eating.

The April edition cost an estimated $5,600 for printing 140,000 copies. It reported that although retail food prices in February were up 7.3 per cent from a year earlier, the rise was "expected to ease off" in the second half of the year.

The new edition cost about $3,300 for preparation of two-color art work plus about $12,000 for printing. The printing cost was estimated at about 10 cents a copy compared with about 4 cents for the all black-and-white April edition.

Department editors revising the new 24-page pamphlet (up from 16 pages in the April version because of the addition of illustrated charts and graphics) retained a forecast that an increase in the size of beef breeding herds means an eventual upswing in beef production. But they combed out the April edition's hopeful forecasts — since contradicted by later developments — that pork production would rise in the last six months of 1972 and that chicken production would equal last year's level.

Farmers have substantially increased their plantings this year and with normal weather are expected to harvest record crops of corn, soybeans and wheat. And that means larger supplies of red meat and poultry in time, the new pamphlet said.

The revised pamphlet noted that retail food prices in the first half of this year averaged about 10 per cent higher than a year earlier, adding the rise "is expected to ease off in the second half of the year." By coincidence, as officials distributed the pamphlet Tuesday, Agriculture Department economists were issuing a new forecast that retail food prices for all of 1973 would average "about a fifth" — or about 20 per cent — above

1972. Among factors in the food price increase, the pamphlet cited:

— There is an extremely strong demand for food. More people are working and bringing home a paycheck

— We are eating more meat than ever before and bidding up the price. For example, we are eating almost twice as much beef per person as 20 years ago. We are bidding strongly for beef in our purchases at stores and in meals eaten out; yet we are inclined to think of beef prices as the yardstick for all foods.

— We are eating more prepared, convenience foods

— We are eating more meals out of the home, where the cost of personal food service has risen much more rapidly than the price of food. (However, in a departure from tradition, retail food prices rose faster than the cost of restaurant meals in 1972).

— Our food stamp and food distribution programs are now helping 15 million lower-income people — more than twice as many as three years ago.

— There is an upsurge in world-wide demand for food as people around the world are becoming more affluent.

Pigeon needed as 'Broad Thrower' picks up easy $

By MIKE ROYKO
(c) Chicago Daily News

CHICAGO — His name is Eddie. Any more name than that and his wife will get mad. She doesn't want people to know he is a horse player.

It happened one night last week after the last race at Maywood Park here.

He was coming out of the stands, feeling good because he had won $20, walking across the parking lot to his car.

Just as he was getting in, he noticed a group of men nearby, playing some kind of card game by flashlight.

He walked over to watch. And he was already rubbing the $20 in his pocket.

It was a game he hadn't seen before.

An old black man was the dealer. He used only three cards. First he turned them face up. Two were black cards, one was red.

Then he turned them face down and shifted them around.

The idea was to watch him closely and to pick out the red card.

It was surprisingly easy to do. The old man was clumsy. He moved the cards slowly, and as he did, he chattered foolishly, sounding senile.

Three men were playing against the old dealer. The bets ran $40 and up. Eddie watched for a few minutes, and two out of three times, the old man lost.

Then Eddie noticed something. Besides being clumsy, the old man was being cheated.

One of the players, as he picked out the face-down red card, had bent the edge slightly.

In the dark, the old man's eyes weren't good enough for him to see the crack in the corner. But that one player knew exactly which card was red. And three straight times he bet $40 and three straight times he won.

The man who had bent the card winked at Eddie after his last win.

Eddie moved in closer and asked if he could get some of the action.

"Sure," the old black man said.

"How much can I bet?" asked Eddie.

The old man mumbled something that sounded like "how much you got?"

"How about a hundred?" Eddie said.

"Let's see it," said the old man.

Eddie took out his hundred.

The old man nodded, turned the cards up to show their color — two black, one red — then flipped them over and shifted them around the top of the cardboard box.

He seemed less clumsy than before.

The old man's hands stopped moving and he leaned back and stared at the cards. Then he nodded at Eddie.

Eddie bent down and found the card with the bent corner. He flipped it over.

It was black — a loser — not a winning red.

"Hey," Eddie said.

The old man plucked the $100 from Eddie's hand.

"Huh?" the old man mumbled.

"Something's wrong," Eddie said.

The old man looked surprised. He turned the remaining two cards over. One of them was red, but the edge wasn't bent.

"You just go to watch closer," the old man said.

Eddie looked at the player who had bent the card. But the man just shook his head and looked confused.

A hundred is a hundred, and Eddie knew he had been had. He didn't know how, but somehow the red card with the bent corner had become a black card with a bent corner.

He walked from the parking lot to the street, where a cop was directing traffic. He told the cop what had happened, and the two of them went back to where the game was played.

The players were gone. The cop shook his head and left. Eddie got in his car.

Just as he started his engine, a station wagon moved across his vision. They were all in the station wagon — the old black dealer and the three men who had been playing against the dealer.

That's when Eddie called me.

"It's some kind of racket," he said. "I don't know what it is, but they cheated me."

Of course, it is. It's called Three-Card Monte, and the dealer is called the "broad thrower."

The three men who still for him are known as "the Monte Mob."

At one time, you could get taken at Three-Card Monte in any railroad yard, bus station or on any pullman car.

"You ought to warn people about it," Eddie said. "They're crooks."

"Sure they are. But, ah, they are artists. And Eddie was fortunate to meet them."

All evening he had been betting on how fast a horse can run, which any boob with $2 can do. If there is anything as dumb as betting on how fast a horse can run, I don't know what it is.

On the other hand, that old man, with his fumbling manner, his senility, his mumbling speech, and his sleight of hand, was an artist.

Who knows how many years he spent mastering the skill to switch a bent-cornered red card with a bent-cornered black card? How many nights had he spent mumbing like an idiot as part of his craft?

Eddie saw a rare performance. It's been at least 13 years since Chicago police have stumbled across a Three-Card Monte game.

"I can't remember the last time anybody was locked up for it," said Sgt. John Castlains.

"These kind of games are pretty much dead."

Not yet dead. There are still a few old men who know how to look dumb and vulnerable.

And there are still sharp young men, like Eddie, eager to pick up a card with a bent edge to make a fat hundred.

I hope his wife asks him what happened to all that overtime money.

TF man displays art work

TWIN FALLS — Michael Green, College of Southern Idaho art instructor, is displaying his paintings in a one-man show at the Jaid Gallery, Richland, Wash.

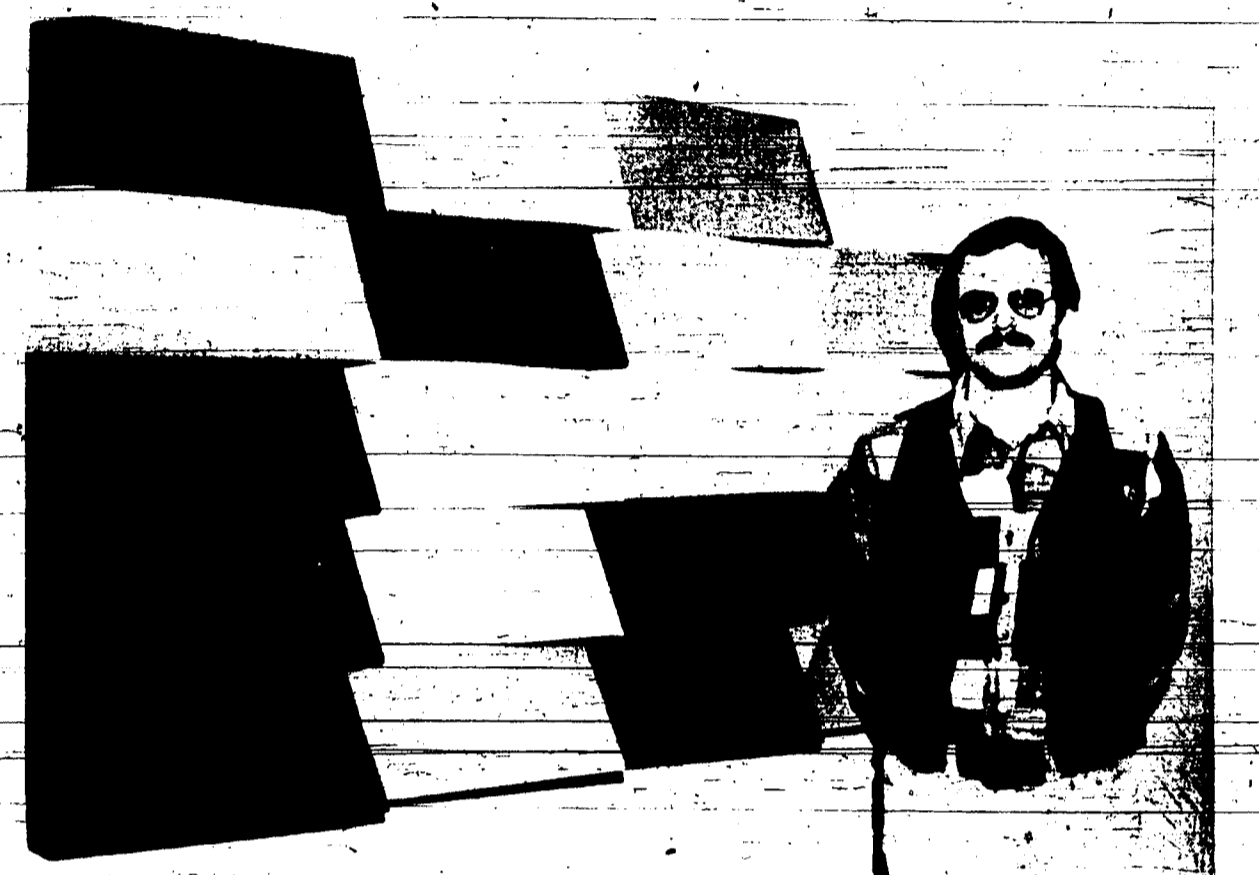

The gallery will feature Green's paintings along with handblown glass by two other artists through Aug. 24. Green said the gallery has a regular turnover with a different show every month.

This is Green's fifth one-man show in five years. He has had others at Eastern Washington State College, Cheney, Wash.; the University of Montana, Missoula, Mont., CSI and at the opening of the Idaho First National branch banks, Boise, last year.

Green has a B.A. from the College of Idaho and an M. A. from the University of Denver.

He said he has 18 paintings in this show, 10 of which have never been exhibited before. He said he painted some of them especially to fit the dimensions of the gallery.

He lives in Twin Falls with his wife, Glenda, and two children, Chris, 9, and Paula, 7. He teaches drawing, painting and lettering at CSI.

Michael Green with his Cervantes series painting

DEAR ABBY: I have always been a horse lover, and at age 13, I finally got my own horse. Now, two years later, we are sort of a team.

We (me and my horse) were selected to represent our county at a six-state horse exposition. I was thrilled, but here is my problem:

The horse show falls on the same dates as the High Holy Days, and I am Jewish!

What can I do? This means everything in the world to me, and I am really not all that Jewish, but my parents are, and they won't hear of my taking part in the horse show on the High Holy Days. I am so unhappy about this I am becoming deeply prejudiced against Judaism. What can I say to my parents to convince them that horses mean as much to me as their religion means to them?

LOVES HORSES

Religion — or horse?

DEAR LOVES: I can't think of anything you can say to convince them. Even tho it's a dead heat, they win, because they're the parents, and you're the minor. Sorry.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem which is ruining my life. I have been to doctors everywhere and none of them can help me. In fact, several of them have suggested I am "imagining" things, but I KNOW I'm not.

I can smell a strange unpleasant odor about myself all the time. I bathe every morning and put on fresh underwear, but I still smell bad. After I've done my housework, I bathe again and put on fresh underwear. No improvement. It is not perspiration, either. I use plenty of soap, deodorant, and cologne, but I can't get rid of that terrible odor. Even tho no one has mentioned it to me, I know they can smell it, too, so I don't ever get close to anyone.

The doctors say I am a healthy woman. My scalp is always clean (I don't even have dandruff!), and I brush my teeth and gargle several times a day. And it's not my feet, either.

Please tell me how to get rid of this terrible odor! I can't live like this any longer.

SMELLS BAD IN ROANOKE

DEAR SMELLS: Go to one more doctor. A psychiatrist. He may be able to sniff out the answer.

DEAR ABBY: My dad has been bald for 18 years or longer. I have seen pictures of him when he had hair, and they just don't look like Dad.

Mom got him to get a hairpiece—the kind they cut and style for the individual. When Dad came home with it he looked so strange to me. He is 39 years old, Abby, and he doesn't have to look like a kid of 20. Mom is crazy about it, and I'm not sure whether Dad wears it to please Mom or himself, but he wears it all the time.

I can't get used to it. Do you think he ought to wear it or not? HIS DAUGHTER (Age 18)

DEAR DAUGHTER: If Dad likes it, he should wear it. Keep quiet. You'll get used to it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 68700, L. A., Calif. 90008. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

WASHABLE-SUEDES ARE HERE

A handsome suede, the real thing, has been tanned and treated to machine wash. After drawing an outline on paper of the garment, wash it separately on a gentle cycle in cold water. It should be spun briefly, but not wrung, shaped according to the outline and dried on a thick terry towel away from direct heat. Will wonder never cease!

Seems not? For now there's a 100 per cent synthetic that looks like suede and feels like suede. You can wash it by hand or toss it in the machine. It promises not to crack or stiffen. It's today's fabric in every sense of the word.

Leading designers have used this ultra-fabric for all types of costumes, including evening clothes. Subtle shades lend themselves to the evening mood and the fabric drapes for a glamour look.

Incidentally, the word "glamour" has been revived in the fashion world. It was shunned for some years, as outmoded as the look it described. Even now we won't hear much about glamour in the daylight hours when classic quality keys the head-to-toe appearance.

But come the dusk, come glitter and shimmer—sophisticated and suede. The wearing is a few weeks off, but it's not too early to dream.

Old man Z gets his overtrick would turn over in his grave if he saw my next play. I have an absolute sure play for my contract by cashing dummy's ace of spades, throwing West in with another spade and discarding my deuce of clubs when West leads another spade. I also can't make an overtrick that way, while if West holds five spades for his overcall I can take a club finesse and play for an overtrick.

After this peroration he finessed the club successfully, cashed his ace of clubs and led a third club. It made no difference who won it. Z was sure of his overtrick.

Karate award

MARRENE LATTIMER, Murtaugh, assumes fighting stance with "sensi" Robert Tidd in Kaji Kumi style karate. MarRene recently was awarded her second degree black belt in the sport, the first woman to reach such rank in the United States.

Karate training lauded

TWIN FALLS — "It teaches a good way of life. The discipline, the physical training and mental control, the development of determination and principle are the more important elements of karate for MarRene Lattimer — more important than the ability to dispatch a thug in some dark alley.

After four-and-one-half years of work, the young Murtaugh woman has been awarded her second degree (Ni-Dan) black belt in the Kaji Kumi style of fighting.

According to her teacher (Sensi) Robert Tidd, she is the first American woman to attain the second-degree level in the Kaji Kumi style.

"I started because my brother came home and beat me up all the time," said MarRene, who is 19. Her brother, Jim, 22, has a first degree black belt in the sport.

MarRene said she has never yet had to use her fighting skills to defend herself. "People tease you a lot, but as long as you don't let it bother you, they leave you alone."

A sophomore in accounting at CSI, MarRene said she intends to study karate under Tidd "just as long as I can." She has, in fact, taught her own karate classes in Murtaugh and organized several tournaments.

"She's done so much for karate itself," Tidd said. "She's a fine, fine lady."

Asked what was the hardest thing to adapt to in studying karate, MarRene said: "That when it comes right down to it in Karate, there's no difference between guys and girls. I'm used to getting my own way."

Shoshone signs erected

SHOSHONE — Shoshone city councilmen decided Tuesday night to have city crews erect speed limit signs on West Seventh Street warning motorists that children may be in the area.

The decision was reached after citizens complained of speeding on the road.

In other business, the council:

- Issued building permits to Gilbert Pierson to demolish the brick building behind the drug store; to Kate Morton and Donald Beer for storage sheds; to Andrew Frees, for placing a mobile home on a foundation, garage, shop, driveway and patio, and to Tom Jackson, for a garage.
- Approved an application to transfer a beer license from Virginia Larsen doing business as Larsen's Market to Ralph W. Beitz doing business as Handy Stop Market. Bartender permits were issued to Wylie F. Sumrow, Pam Childers and Ralph Mitchell.
- Received a report from the Lincoln County fair board about operation and maintenance of the fair and recreation grounds, which is a shared project of the city of Shoshone, the county and the Shoshone School District.
- Heard the cost of replacing the curb, gutter, and sidewalk along South Rail Street west between North Apple and North Birch Streets estimated by contractors at about 70 cents per square foot. Property owners will be contacted about voluntary agreement for the sidewalk replacement, according to the council.
- Received a denial from the Idaho State Water Administration for three street drains. The council will ask for further information on the denial.
- Anticipated issuing notice for bids for installation and additional lines for sewer and water to Bureau of Land Management property in the southwest portion of the city.
- Presented city sewer operator Bill Trapp a certificate of achievement for having completed a training program in Boise sponsored by the Idaho State Water and Sewage Board, the Northwest Water Association, the University of Idaho, and the Association of Idaho Cities.

Rock festival gets loud boo

BENTON, Tenn. (UPI) — Legal steps will be taken to stop a rock festival on a farm near this southeast Tennessee town scheduled for Labor Day weekend. Polk County Sheriff Harold Ramsey said today.

"You're doggone right they're mad," Ramsey said, talking about Polk County residents. "Everybody I've talked to is against it."

C. C. Manifest Inc., of Evansville, Ind., said the festival would be held Sept. 1-2 on a farm owned by County Judge Dennis White.

Ramsey said he has talked with assistant District Attorney Larry Jones and had been informed court action would be taken to stop the festival.

The sheriff said he has heard "rumors" that up to 350,000 rock fans would attend the concert.

"There ain't no way we can handle that many people," he said.

Two-lane U. S. 411 is the only way to get to the farm located about six miles north of here, Ramsey said.

The sheriff said he had talked to Judge White about the festival.

"I think it is incredible that the judge would lease that property for this. He's got hair down to his shoulders himself," Ramsey said. "He's taking off going to Germany (during Labor day)."

Asked if White had given him an explanation for leasing the farm to the promoters, Ramsey replied:

"He couldn't give me anything too satisfactory. He brushed it off like it was something pretty light. He just done it for the money he's getting out of it. I've heard rumors that he's getting $150,000. I figure he's getting a cut."

Promoters said they will attempt to have ex-Beale Paul McCartney, Earl Scruggs, Roberta Flack and other acts.

Admission will be $20 at the gate and $15 for advance.

'Yankee Zephyr' lifts off for Europe

BANGHARBOR, Maine (UPI)— Hoping to become the first person to make a successful transatlantic balloon voyage, Bob Sparks cut the lines of his "Yankee Zephyr" at 6:25 a.m. EDT today and drifted slowly eastward, disappearing in a light fog.

Almost on cue, as the Yankee Zephyr lifted off, the sun began peeking through the fog, finally becoming a huge orange glow in the east.

Sparks, 37, filed a mock flight plan shortly before liftoff which has him scheduled to arrive at Le Bourge Airport, Paris, at 10:30 a.m. Aug. 13. However, Sparks, the entertainment director for a Pennsylvania resort, admitted he is at the mercy of the winds. "I'll see you in Paris Monday," said one of his ground crewmen as the nine-story red, white and blue balloon hovered a few feet off the ground during ballast adjustments.

A light breeze and a 38 degree temperature chilled the crowd of about 500 who arrived during the early morning hours to watch the liftoff. As soon as Sparks disappeared into the fog, the viewers drifted silently away.

Sparks and his crew arrived at the airport about 2:30 a.m. to begin filling the balloon with 73,000 cubic feet of helium. The empty balloon was laid out on a grassy area and the light breeze bounced it around as the helium began filling it.

Sparks, who has been here since early last month awaiting the proper weather conditions, said he was "just a guy doing his pleasure. I just like flying balloons. I'm not looking for any other answer."

The balloonist added, "I'm not doing this to get my name in the record book; but if I do it, I sure want it there."

Sparks was decked out in a red, white and blue jump suit to match the decor of his balloon. On one collar he wore his balloonist pin and on the other he displayed World War I military wings given him by a World War I balloonist. Just before takeoff Sparks unfurled a 12-foot American flag from the gondola.

In case of trouble, the gondola may be converted to a boat, complete with sail.

Sparks has more than 500 balloon trips to his credit and holds the record for staying aloft in a hot air balloon—11 hours and 14 minutes.

Even with that experience, however, the trip is a dangerous one. No balloon has ever crossed the Atlantic before. In 1968, two Canadians tried it. They ended up becalmed over Nova Scotia, however, and finally floated down into the Atlantic. They were later rescued.

Another attempt was made in 1970. Rod and Pam Anderson and British balloonist Malcolm Brighton left Long Island bound for Europe on Sept. 20. They went down near Newfoundland 30 hours later, no trace of them has ever been found.

Journey starts

BALLOONIST Bob Sparks, looking very small in the center of his aluminum boat gondola, leaves Trenton, Maine, at 6:25 a.m. EDT Wednesday. Sparks hopes to be the first to balloon from America to Europe. Three other attempts have failed. (UPI)

Benefits could take back seat

DETROIT (UPI)— Galloping inflation may cause U.S. auto workers to shift their contract demands from fringe benefits to a sizeable wage increase, United Auto Workers Vice President Douglas A. Fraser predicts.

Wages have been a low-priority item in this year's contract talks, but each trip by an auto worker to the super-market moves it up a bit further, Fraser said Tuesday after meeting with Chrysler Corp. negotiators.

Between now and Sept. 14, we expect to hear more from the members about the size of the wage package," said Fraser.

Because of government controls and the push for more worker freedom in the form of voluntary overtime, little attention has been placed on gaining a large wage increase this year for more than 700,000 U.S. and Canadian auto workers.

"The economy is so fouled up now," said Fraser, "and there is fear among workers who have accepted the notion that a wage hike would push prices up even further."

But, said the UAW vice president, recent events prove that wages aren't pushing up prices, because there have been only minimal wage increases that haven't kept up with rising prices.

Fraser also said the continual erosion of the worker's paycheck makes the union's demand for revision of the cost-of-living formula even more important this year. Despite 40 cents an hour extra in cost-of-living raises since 1970, workers' wages have not been completely protected, he said.

"As the demand for wages increase among the membership, we'll have to take something away from the fringe benefits we'll be seeking," said Fraser, admitting there will have to be a trade-off.

While Fraser said he was satisfied with the pace of contract talks since negotiations began at Chrysler July 18, another UAW vice president—Ken Bannon—said nothing has been accomplished at Ford.

"We ended up with another goose egg," Bannon told newsmen after meeting with Ford negotiators. "We haven't made any progress."

Fraser said the union's decision to select a strike target Aug. 27—the earliest the target company has ever been selected—will put a greater urgency on the negotiations.

Suicide squad 'takes credit'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)— An Arab guerrilla group calling itself "the Seventh Suicide Squad" reportedly claimed responsibility today for a terrorist attack against passengers in the Athens airport last Sunday.

Two Beirut newspapers, Al Nahar and Al Anwar, published a statement allegedly from the little-known group dated Aug. 5—the day of the attack—and addressed to the American people.

The statement claimed responsibility for the machine gun and grenade assault on passengers waiting to board planes to New York and Geneva, but said it was supposed to be against passengers en route to Tel Aviv. Those passengers had already boarded their plane and were on the runway when the terrorists opened fire.

(In Athens, police said the two Arabs arrested at the airport faced charges of premeditated murder in the deaths of three persons killed in the attack plus causing bodily injury to the 55 persons wounded, illegal detention of persons, property damage and illegal possession and use of arms.

"A mob howling 'Death to the murderers!' tried to attack the two Arabs as they were brought from court Tuesday in Athens. One woman broke through the police guard and clawed the face of one of them, Zehod Mohad. The other Arab, Talaat Husham, was not injured."

The statement said the Athens attack was directed against "the American aircraft flight No. 840 on its way to Tel Aviv." It appealed to Greek authorities to treat the attackers as "prisoners of war" and warned against placing them under the mercy of the American and Israeli intelligence.

"We have discovered," it said, "that in order to make you understand us and realize our right to live we must begin to defend ourselves against all those who seek to exterminate us."

Fishermen blockade chemical plants

TOKYO (UPI) — Hundreds of fishermen today joined a blockade of chemical plants demanding more than $87 million in compensation from the plants they claim have polluted their fishing grounds with mercury.

The blockade started Tuesday in western Japan and spread today to the Chiba coastal area east of Tokyo.

An estimated 100 fishing boats formed a blockade around private piers of three chemical firms in separate parts of Chiba at noon, and more than 100 fishermen demonstrated at the gates of the companies.

The movement began Tuesday at Minamata, a city on Kyushu Island in Western Japan, where 500 fishermen blockaded Chisso Corp., a petrochemical firm, demanding $57 million in compensation for their losses caused by the pollution.

Spokesmen for the fishing cooperatives claim that the plants caused huge losses to the fishing industry, by dumping mercury wastes into the seas around Japan, contaminating fish which cannot be sold.

The issue reached a climax in western Japan Monday when Chisso Corp. rejected the operators' demands for $57 million compensation and offered $4.6 million. Fishermen blocked the gates and piers of the plant and said they will continue the protest until their demands are met.

A spokesman for the Federation of Fishing Cooperatives in Chiba Prefecture said they intend to carry on the blockade until the companies meet their demands.

The fishermen want $10 million in compensation for losses they said they sustained in June and July after the government warning on mercury poison in fish. They also demanded that the companies clean up the polluted fishing grounds and stop using mercury in the plants.

Wiretapped?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A friend of Mary Jo Kopechne contends in a court suit her telephone was illegally wiretapped by former White House aides.

Margaret Carrol, who roomed with Miss Kopechne during the period in 1969 when the young woman drowned in an auto driven by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, filed the suit Tuesday in U.S. District Court.

Manila imposes control

MANILA (UPI) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos acknowledged a serious shortage of rice and cereal in the Philippines today by ordering the military to take control of all cereal stocks and arrest all hoarders and price manipulators.

Marcos said at a ceremony marking a police anniversary that his wife made a shopping tour of Manila supermarkets and found panic buying in cooking oil and soap. He said Mrs. Marcos could not even find sugar, a prime Philippine export.

Marcos said his household staff at Malacanang Palace reported it was forced to buy rice at prices double and nearly triple the official price ceiling of about 10 cents a pound.

Marcos ordered the National Grains Authority to stop selling pure rice and to substitute a mix of rice and corn grit.

Marcos also announced he was ordering the Defense Department to take control of distribution of all rice and corn stocks and he ordered the military to take over 20 per cent of all coconut oil production and 35 per cent of the entire sugar production for domestic consumption.

He said the military, acting under martial law that has been in effect since September, should arrest all black marketers, hoarders and speculators.

Marcos said the rice shortage was real, but that shortages of sugar and cooking oil were artificial since the Philippines is the biggest producer of both coconut oil and sugar in the non-Communist world.

He said the Philippines would buy more than one million metric tons of rice from Japan, Thailand, China, Taiwan, Pakistan, the United States and other countries to meet the shortage.

He said short supplies were caused by a combination of floods and an ensuing drought.

"If the imports from other countries arrive in time, we will eat rice," he said. "If not, we will eat what we have."

Ransom said for civil war

Buenos Aires (UPI) — British financier Charles Lockwood said Tuesday that guerrilla kidnapers who held him for 53 days had demanded $7.5 million ransom money to buy arms for a "civil war" in Argentina.

"They refused to say what organization they belong to, but they admire the Cuban and Chinese governments and are not Peronists," the dapper 63-year-old British-born executive told UPI.

Lockwood was held longer than any other of Argentina's 100-odd kidnap victims while his family and firm bargained with the guerrillas.

"They asked the absurd sum of $7.5 million in the beginning and from then on it was a kind of psychological warfare with my family," Lockwood said. He declined to give the exact amount paid in ransom, but said that reports of a $2 million ransom were "close."

A record $3 million in ransom was paid to leftist guerrillas for U.S. executive John R. Thompson last June by the Firestone Rubber Co.

Oklahoma suspended for two years by Big 8 loop

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The University of Oklahoma, a collegiate football powerhouse for the past quarter century and the No. 2 ranked team in the nation last year, Wednesday was placed on probation by the Big Eight Conference for recruiting violations and barred from bowl or television appearances for two years.

The Sooners will be ineligible for bowl games following the 1973 and 1974 seasons and will not be eligible to appear on the NCAA television series in 1974 and 1975. The school's 1973 television contracts will be honored this year, the conference said.

Oklahoma faces Texas Oct. 13 and Nebraska on Nov. 23. Both are nationally televised games.

High school transcript alterations for freshmen Kerry Jackson and Mike Phillips of Galveston (Tex.) Ball High School were first called to the attention of Oklahoma on April 11. On April 16, the university announced it was forfeiting the nine games in which Jackson, a varsity quarterback, as a freshman, had played.

One of those games, against Colorado, was lost by the Sooners anyway.

The Big Eight ruled that Jackson will be ineligible during the upcoming season because he was not eligible to play last year.

"He's required to forfeit a year of eligibility for the year he gained illegally," said Neinas.

Phillips, although his transcript also was altered, was found to be eligible last year and will again be eligible this year.

Cepeda ties record with four doubles as Boston tops Royals

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Gimpy-legged Orlando Cepeda tied a major league record with four doubles Wednesday night, driving in six runs and propelling the Boston Red Sox to a 9-4 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Cepeda became one of 30 major league players to hit four doubles in a nine-inning game, the last being Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs on April 9, 1969.

The last American League player to accomplish the feat was Billy Brufon of Detroit on May 19, 1963.

Louis and Schmeling won't talk fights

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two aging heavyweight boxing champions, Max Schmeling and Joe Louis, met Wednesday at Kennedy International Airport and the outcome was an affectionate draw.

The 68-year-old Schmeling arrived on a Lufthansa jet liner to appear with Louis at the West German-U.S. amateur boxing matches at the Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, N.Y., Thursday night.

Schmeling greeted the 59-year-old Louis with a friendly slap on the cheek, and Joe, for the benefit of photographers, handed Max a can of Coca-Cola.

Schmeling is a Coca-Cola distributor in Germany, and the soft drink firm is one of the sponsors of Thursday's night's fights.

Gibson undergoes surgery

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — St. Louis Cardinals fans were hoping today that 37-year-old Bob Gibson will be able to recuperate from a leg injury as fast as he did five years ago.

Gibson, who under normal circumstances probably would have pitched tonight for the Cardinals, is in Jewish Hospital. He had surgery Wednesday to remove torn cartilage from his right knee after being injured while running the bases in a weekend game with the New York Mets.

"That perhaps looks worse than it is," said Neinas. "The athletic department had to prompt some high schools to get transcripts in."

In addition to the penalties dealt by the Big Eight, the NCAA also is expected to act soon, Neinas said he hoped the NCAA "would look favorably on the conference's action."

Form says Weiskopf's hot streak should take PGA

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The form book points toward Tom Weiskopf but nobody was overlooking Jack Nicklaus in the 55th Professional Golfers' Association Championship which began today.

Weiskopf, from nearby Columbus, is the hottest thing in the world of big money golf has known since Byron Nelson cooled off 11 straight victories in 1945.

The tour today is much more demanding with a score of men capable of winning on any given day. But despite the opposition, the 36-year-old Weiskopf has finished in the top five in his last nine tournaments and won five of those.

That kind of consistency spells championship form and the majority of the other 147 men in the field make Weiskopf the favorite. That goes for Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, men who have dominated the championship circuit in recent years.

But Nicklaus, still only 33 and apparently with many years still ahead of him, is not exactly in a slump himself. He has won four times on the tour this year and stands third in earnings behind Australia's Bruce Crampton and Weiskopf with $200,424.

His crime is that he has faltered in the three major events which preceded this week's 72-hole run over the beautifully manicured Canterbury layout.

At Augusta, Oakmont and Troon, scene of the Masters and the U.S. and British Opens, Nicklaus was favored but each time he blew himself out of contention with the kind of round only an amateur would be satisfied with.

Rounds of 77, 74 and 76, respectively, in these championships meant Tommy Aaron, Johnny Miller and Weiskopf stepped up for the winners' check.

McCovey's two-run homer lets San Francisco nip Expos 2-1

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Willie McCovey's fourth-inning two-run homer, his 20th, provided all the punch and Ron Bryant, with help from Elias Sosa, picked up his 16th victory Wednesday in leading the San Francisco Giants to a 2-1 decision over the Montreal Expos.

McCovey's home run was the only one of the game. He hit it off Montreal pitcher Steve Carlton, who pitched a complete game.

San Francisco scored on McCovey's home run and on a single by Tom Seaver, who pitched for the Expos. Seaver pitched a complete game.

Southland loop to fight for Cajuns

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UPI) — Southeastern Conference Commissioner Dick Oliver came to the defense of the University of Southwestern Louisiana's troubled athletic department Wednesday, promising to defend it from ouster from the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Oliver said the Southland Conference, of which USL is a member, "is committed to helping the university defeat legislation which calls for its ouster from the NCAA."

The move to eject USL from the NCAA stems from an investigation which turned up more than 120 alleged recruiting violations on the part of some coaches and players.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Left-hander Ian Matlack outdueled Andy Messersmith with a two-hitter as the New York Mets nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 1-0 on Jerry Grote's second-inning, run-scoring single.

Rule No. 1 in our Love and War man's file of instructions for brides is: "Buy the best coffee pot available. Decide on one good brand of coffee. Then brew it to taste consistently thereafter, never varying."

No, I'm not amazed by the fact that a man can hold an alligator's jaws shut with one hand, just curious to know who first found that out. Heroic fellow, whoever.

Were you aware it was only 14 years ago that big-league baseball players first wore their names on their backs? Bill Veeck started that.

In 15 out of every 100 homicides, it's a parent murdering a child, report the crime statisticians.

SEAT BELT

Q: "Louis, do you always fasten your seat belt?"
A: Just wised up to that excellent notion in recent days. Used to cherish the whim that the seat belt's only purpose was to keep you from flying out on your pumpkin head on impact. But a wisp fellow down at the officer shop told me, no, that's not the point. Even a minor collision, a blowout, a skid, any of these can slip you a dozen inches away from the foot pedals and steering wheel. Sir, you can't steer, brake or accelerate when you're sitting someplace else, said he. The seat belt pins down the driver so the hands and feet instantly 'oan' get control again. Of course, of course! Tomorrow's lecture. The hazards of petting at 70 m.p.h. Don't mess it.

Q: "Take those marriages where couples want children but can't have any. In what proportion are the husbands responsible?"
A: Two out of five, about.

ANIMAL NAMES

Laplanners refer to a bear as "The Old Man With The Fur Coat." Spawning of a crocodile, the Chinese along the Yangtze call it "Grandfather." Algerian Arabs, for reasons I can't explain, give any lion the pet name of "Mister John Johnson." And numerous East Indians invariably identify the tiger as "Sir."

The woman with long fingernails ought to be particularly careful when she plays cards, gropes in a handbag, dials a telephone, and picks up change. These four manipulations cause the most feminine fingernail damage, reports a manicurist of lengthy experience.

That comestible known as haggis is the liver, heart and lights of a sheep plus suet, oatmeal and onions, all minced up, seasoned with pepper and lemon. Oh, you know that! All right, but did you know it originally was an English, not a Scottish dish? Yes, sir, Englishers outgrew it, Scots didn't. Name comes from the Anglo-Saxon haggan, meaning to split, chop, cut up.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, AUGUST 10, 1973

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An adverse day for making business commitments for there are now likely to be facts and figures that have been concealed. Study all phases of any situation of interest to you but hold off making definite plans until a better time.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) You may find that career affairs may not work out very well today. Avoid business appointments. Don't try to contact a higher up who is in a bad humor. Sidestep one who is a hypocrite.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) You need to study more and be better prepared before putting new ideas in operation. Wait until next week before trying to impress a new associate. Keep temper under control at all times.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you listen to what others have to say you get good ideas and gain their goodwill as well. Keep cool where mate is concerned. Or a quarrel could result. Show that you are affectionate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you don't discuss any moot points with associates and a disagreement can be avoided. Keep promises you have made to others and gain their goodwill. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Pay those important bills without further delay or you incur the disfavor of a respected business associate. Your hunches are not good now so don't follow them. Use your own good judgment.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Show mate that you have good faith, otherwise there could be real trouble. Don't make snide remarks with others and alienate them. Strive for more harmony in the future. Be resolute.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) You need only to smile in order to keep from having a serious argument at home. Take steps in making your home more charming and pleasant. Don't permit any person to disturb harmony at home.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Being very careful in motion is most important now so that you keep out of possible trouble. Any sarcasm would be regretted later. Try not to lose friends but add to the number you now enjoy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) You think that by spending lavishly you can get what you want and still have security, so be sensible instead. Listen carefully to what an adviser is suggesting for your own good.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Try not to force any issues simply because you are feeling restless or an unpleasant situation may result. Take needed health treatments. Try not to argue with anyone. Keep calm.

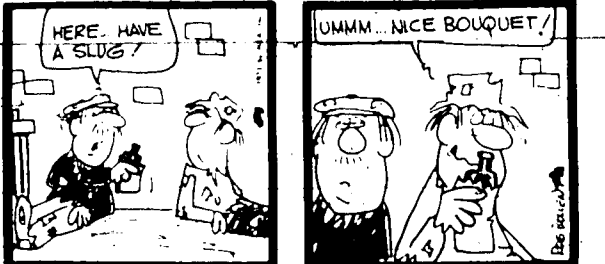

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Make sure you don't do anything unpredictable now or you could regret it later on being conservative at this time is wise. Avoid one who has been a thorn in your side for some time.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Steer clear of one who wants you to make changes in your life that are not good for you at all. Know what it is that friends expect of you. Wait until a better time for making future plans.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those charming young people who is likely to stir up trouble just to prove the ability at clearing it up. Teach the importance of being less impulsive. Direct the education along humanitarian vocations. Give sports early so that the body becomes sound and strong. Give good books to read early in life. Spiritual training is a must.
"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Agnew group in trouble

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — It was only four months ago that the fund-raising letter was mailed to thousands of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's supporters, soliciting contributions to begin building a grass-roots organization to promote a 1976 presidential campaign. But now the headquarters of "Americans for Agnew" in Los Angeles has been closed, the telephones have been disconnected, the disposition of the money is uncertain and the general accounting office is investigating the fund-raising campaign.

producing donations of about $6,000. "It was going to be a very low-key effort," said Daniel. "The object was to keep the thing out of the newspapers." The letter noted that Agnew had not made a "definite decision" regarding entering the 1976 presidential race, but said early contributions were needed to build "a strong, viable and responsible organization" which "will do much to convince the vice president that he should indeed make the race." The office address on the letter proved to be vacant and the telephone number provided had been disconnected. "We haven't been in that building since before Christmas," said Daniel, explaining that the contributions were routed to his consulting firm, Allied Media Associates.

Among them: — The vice president is in the position of publicly disavowing the 1973 activities of an organization which he covertly supported in 1972, to the extent of requesting actor John Wayne to serve as Americans for Agnew's honorary chairman.

An inquiry submitted to John Wayne's office about the organization which had his name atop its letterhead produced a statement from the actor's secretary that "the only thing we know about it is that Agnew's office called him from Washington and asked him to act as honorary chairman."

— both members of Agnew's staff and the California fund raisers say the letter seeking donations was not authorized by the vice president, but the literature fails to carry any such disclaimer, as required by federal law.

The secretary said the request came from Peter J. Malatesta, a special assistant to Agnew, but he initially denied it: "I wrote a letter to Wayne asking him to have nothing to do with these people. I asked him not to participate because this outfit had no sanction from us whatsoever." Asked about that apparent contradiction, J. Marsh Thomson, Agnew's press secretary, explained that early last year, when there was some question about whether Agnew as his running mate on the 1972 ticket, Agnew did not discourage — and may have quietly encouraged — the organization's support.

— Last year, when the organization's work was sanctioned by Agnew, $15,000 of the $25,000 it collected went exclusively to a pair of "political consultants" in the form of consulting fees, expense reimbursement and salary payments.

Thomson said Malatesta did seek Wayne's assistance last year, when some of Agnew's wealthier supporters also were backing the committee. Among the $1,000 donors in that category were Arthur C. Neilson, chairman of the A. C. Neilson Co., a Chicago market research firm; Joseph Coors, a member of the Colorado brewing family; and Walter Harnischfeger, honorary chairman of the Milwaukee firm which bears his name in manufactures heavy construction equipment.

— The organizers of Americans for Agnew are John L. Daniel, owner of Allied Media Associates, a small Los Angeles public relations firm, and Greig Smith, who says he works for Daniel "on and off" — "we work at different things." According to Smith, approximately 8,000 copies of an April 5 fund-raising letter were mailed to a selected list of known Agnew supporters,

But since the 1972 election, "every effort has been made to repudiate them," said Thomson, including two letters, on May 14 and July 2, from Keene to Smith threatening "to take whatever steps may prove necessary to stop exploitation of the vice president's name." Smith said "we never received any such communication to my knowledge."
